Erwin Hops at 6:05 p. m.

DALLAS, Aug. 10. (AP)—With little more than an hours margin, Captain William P. Erwin, American ace, took off from Love field here at 6:05:55 1-5 o'clock tonight on the first leg of his Dallas to Hongkang flight which will include the Dole -Hawaiian flight. His Wright-motored plane, the "Dallas Spirit" was certified at 4:37 p. m. to have aboard 270 gallons of gasoline to carry him to Oakland, Cali., as the first stage of a flight which he hopes to carry him around the world before October 12.

Much of the delay in getting started today was due to the necessity of draining and re-filling his fuel tanks so that the gas load could be certified, but the time was also used to increase the pilot's familiarity with the complicated fuel system, as it was on account of unfamiliarity with it that he returned last night after flying as far as Colorado, Texas. Had he but known it, the government inspectors informed Erwin today, he could have continued the journey to Oakland last night.

In addition to the regular fuel pump and the wabble pump which is used to draw fuel into the gravity tanks in case of failure of the fuel

Fifteen Flyers, Men and Women, Wait on Pacific Coast for Start Of $35,000 Air Race to Hawaii

Here is a collection of the earlier entrants for the San Francisco-Hawaii air derby, with James Dole, donor of the $25,000 first prize, and a picture of the landing field from which the starts will be made.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 10.—Fifteen airplanes, engines tested, motors tuned, wings and struts reinforced, are resting in hangars here purring impatiently as they and their pilots wait for the zero hour of midday on August 12.

Then the greatest air race of history will be on. A swift, soaring flight, a darting, breath-taking dash of 2300 miles aimed for a collection of pinheads in mid-Pacific which are marked on the map as the Hawaiian Islands.

Afterward—a rich bonus of $25,000 for the winner; a fat consolation prize of $10,000 for the second man, and for the others—well, at least the knowledge that they gave the best that was in them in the most spectacular aerial free-for-all since man decided he could imitate the birds, if he wanted to.

James Dole, called "the pineapple king," is responsible, primarily, for all the excitement. Dole is offering $25,000 to the first plane to land in the islands. The city of San Francisco has added another $10,000 to the inducement, as a second prize. Dole's sole purpose is to encourage trans-Pacific aviation, with a view to speeding communication between Honolulu and the mainland here—now a matter of several days by steamship.

The official entry list, in order of registering, follows:

"Home Made" Devices On Planes In Pacific Hop Barred by Directors

OAKLAND, Calif., Aug. 10. (AP)—"Home made" equipment on planes entered in the $35,000 Dole air race to Honolulu next Friday will not meet with the approval of the starting committee, nor Frank A. Flynn, secretary of the National Aeronautical association in San Francisco, said today. He is in charge of the race for the Dole committee.

The task of eliminating "lame duck" entrants proceeded today, but no decisions were announced by the department of commerce inspectors, who have until sundown tomorrow in which to approve a list for the Dole committee.

News of the crash of the monoplane at Point Loma which sent Lieutenants George Covell and R. S. Waggener to death today, sent a pall of sorrow over Oakland airport and Mills field, South San Francisco, where starters in the Dole race are gathered.

Federal inspectors were known to be adamant in their refusal to let down the barriers to entrants' planes for getting off in the Dole race in planes containing features which invite failure.

Flynn said "better disappoint some starters than invite certain death by permitting them to go with equipment untested by experience."

The drift of sentiment towards Oakland airport was greater and made several fliers who inclined toward Mills field, South San Francisco, willing to take their places in the starting line at Oakland airport rather than pioneer the shorter 5700 foot runway at Mills field. Martin Jensen, Honolulu's hope; Art Goebel, Hollywood, and Jack Frost, who will fly the San Francisco Examiner's monoplane, all indicated a preference for Oakland.

Two Believed Dead in Hold of Ship Swept by Blast Fire in Houston

Search For Corpses To Begin As Soon As Flood Of Water Is Siphoned From Vessel

By Universal Service.

HOUSTON, Texas, Aug. 10.—Police and port officials tonight were preparing to search the flame swept hold of the freighter West Quechee for the bodies of two men who are believed to have been trapped below decks when a gas explosion turned the hold into a blazing inferno early today. Nine men were working in the ship's hold when the flame from an acetylene torch being used by Ray O'Neil of Houston to burn out rivets ignited gas from the bilge.

Flames Sweep Hold

Instantly a sheet of flame swept through the hold. O'Neil dropped unconscious. Six of the workmen bolted for the hatch, their clothing a mass of flames. A hurried check revealed the absence of O'Neil and another workman.

O'Neil's form could be seen through the smoke which was pouring through the open hatch. A member of the crew leaped into the hold and made a rope fast around O'Neil's body. He was hoisted to the deck where he was revived.

Captain George Skene, master of the giant freighter, closed all hatches, thus cutting off all air from the flames. His promptness probably saved the ship from destruction.

Officials are inclined to believe that all of the workmen escaped, but O'Neil, speaking through bandages that cover all but his lips, insists that bodies of two of the workers are still in the hold.

Water Pumped In

Eight feet of water was pumped into the hold before the flames were extinguished and until the water is siphoned out, a thorough search of the hold cannot be made.

The West Quechee, a steel freighter of 5711 gross tons and operated by Lykes Brothers-Ripley company for the United States shipping board, arrived here August 4 from Portland, Ore. It finished unloading Tuesday and was to have sailed for Ghent and Antwerp on August 15.

Dinner was served picnic style by the ladies of the County Line community to about 150 visitors.

The afternoon session began at 1:15 in the auditorium of the school and was opened by a talk by Professor Burl Bryant, county school superintendent.

Lee Prescott of County Line and chairman of the board of trustees, made a talk on "Rural Conditions," followed by a short talk by J. Tom Haynes on "Classification." Roy J. Daniels, a member of the Texas legislature, made an interesting talk. Rev. George Keever, pastor of the County Line Methodist church also made a talk, taking as his subject, "Character Building."

Burl Bryant said that there were only two one-teacher schools in Wichita county at the present time, while six years ago there were about 15 one-teacher schools. There were 35 rural schools in Wichita county six years ago and at the present there are only 20, which means Wichita county has bigger and better schools. There are a number of counties in Texas at the present time with 30 or 40 one-teacher schools.

Mr. Bryant also spoke on "Cooperation Between Teacher and Parent," and read the "Rural State Aid Laws," which in reality was the theme of the entire meeting. In this connection it was said that no district with less than 20 pupils or over 400 are allowed aid. There, however, are some exceptions to this rule, in cases where a sparsely settled county may have a population of less than 1400 inhabitants.

In figuring the amount of rural school aid given, the number of scholastics is multiplied by the per capita allowed by the state, subtracting the salary of the teachers for a term, with the result equaling the state aid given. There is no limitations of the salaries paid the teachers if the district can afford it.

L. D. Borden, chief supervisor of the rural schools of Texas, who is from Austin, was the principal speaker on the program, explaining the working principles of the rural schools. Mr. Borden told of the sources of income used in operating the rural schools, which includes the $15 yearly per capita tax from the state plus the county per capita with local tax, making three sources of income, but if this is not sufficient to run the school, then they apply for state aid to make the fourth source.

Mr. Borden spoke for some time on the new equipment to be installed in the rural schools to teach home economics and manual training for the rural boys and girls as in the cities.

Every rural school in Wichita county practically was represented, which includes Valley View, Cashion, County Line, Pleasant Valley, Howard, Allendale, Enterprise, Barwise, Iowa Park, Rocky Point, Fowlkes, Deep Creek, Clara, Weeth, Cobb, Beaver Creek and Harmony.

Among the school men were: W. T. White, superintendent of the Bonham schools; R. E. Brewster of Iowa Park; T. H. Stanford of Clara, J. A. McDonald of County Line, S. A. Davis, principal of the Weeth school; C. P. Hargrover of Rocky Point; H. T. Bigger, Beaver Creek; Roy J. Daniels, member of the state legislature.

The members of the county board of trustees were 100 per cent present, and are: Lee Prescott, J. Tom Haynes, N. B. Singleton, S. S. Marshall and D. E. Hooks. County Line school started August 8, and will run for some time and dismiss for a cotton picking season, resuming school again probably in November. County Line is a four-teacher school with 120 pupils.

Early Ginning Rush Expected At Olney

Special to The Record News.

OLNEY, Aug. 10.—Light showers, beginning here Tuesday morning and continuing throughout the forenoon, broke the hot spell of the past two weeks. Although the showers were not sufficient to have any effect upon the crops in this vicinity, they came as a relief to the whole community. Considerable cotton has opened during the past week and indications point to an early ginning this year. The first bale of cotton is expected to be ginned here within a few days.

VERNON'S TAX TOTAL HIKED

$772,860 Increase Shown In Tax Rolls

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Aug. 10.—An increase of $772,860 in the taxable values of the city of Vernon is revealed in the tax roll completed by City Secretary S. H. Hall. Valuations on the tax roll of the city this year total $7,742,815 as compared to $6,969,955 in the 1926 total. The city should receive an increased revenue of $13,525.05 or a total of $137,015.02 based on last year's tax rate of $1.75.

The increase in taxable values within the city is accredited largely to new buildings, as the valuations of property, generally speaking, were fixed at last year's figure, Mr. Hall stated. Real estate valuations on the tax roll this year total $5,171,375 as compared with $4,630,250 in the 1926 total, showing that $541,125 of the increase of $772,860 in taxable values is in real estate.

The number of taxpayers listed on the new roll has not been totaled, but the total is expected to be well in excess of 2000. Last year's total of taxpayers was 1808.

The city's income from the taxes to be collected will be apportioned as follows: General fund, $28,614; school, $58,071; bonded indebtedness, $42,586; street and bridge fund, $7742.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy "Mother's Friend." Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., BA 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

MENTAL DEFECTIVES

By DR. REED

Proper Training Will Make Them Useful Citizens

By Chas. A. L. Reed, M. D.,
Former President of the American Medical Association.

CHARLES A.L. REED, M.D.

YOUR child may or may not be a mental defective. If not, your neighbor's child may be in that unfortunate class. In either event you have a human interest in the mental defective problem which is now becoming a serious one in all civilized countries.

Far more of these unhappy people are born than the State is prepared to take care of. They are incapable of learning by ordinary education methods. They cannot support themselves like normal people. They are always more liable than normal subjects to fall into crime and misconduct. They have not the ordinary amount of self-control and so breed outside marriage much more readily than fully intelligent persons. Their descendants are nearly always deficient themselves. Therefore any institution that goes in for training mental defectives to be useful, even under supervision, is worth its weight in gold. Unfortunately there are not sufficient institutions for more than a fraction of the mentally defective population, and a great increase in accommodation of this kind is vitally necessary.

The lowest, or idiot, class must be kept under constant supervision all its life, as it cannot ever learn even to protect itself from ordinary dangers.

The middle, or imbecile, class can be taught to make its living in the protected conditions of a home, but is unfit to be allowed liberty and hardly ever to be looked after in its own family, unless it belong to the well-to do class.

The high-grade feeble-minded, or moron class, however, is capable of being sufficiently educated to look after itself outside a home, if it is put under proper guardianship. The trouble is to prevent morons breeding and propagating the deficiency in the next generation.

Homes for the mentally defective, of which Caswell, N. C., is a good example, are self-contained institutions with their own hospitals, power-houses, laundries, cow and mule barns, cultivations and farm buildings. They go in for every kind of training that it is possible to give defectives, and do their best to fit every person to the kind of work for which he is best suited.

The moron class at Caswell gets regular school work up to and including the fourth grade. The lower grades get kindergarten and muscle training. All grades get gymnastics, rug-making, art and craft work, milking, carpentry, painting, housekeeping and kitchen work, also farm work and fruit growing.

The middle, or imbecile, grade are intelligent enough to do most of the work of the institution. Even the lowest of all can be taught simple commands. They learn to dress themselves, feed themselves, make their beds and sweep. All these simple things give them something useful to do and keep them from destroying their clothes and furniture and making mischief among themselves. They are then much more easily managed and their behavior problems are much lessened. Anything that interests them makes them happy, and when you make them happy you solve most of their problems.

Caswell caters for 400, and the mentally defective population of North Carolina is about 2,000. Though the directors are expanding the home as fast as they can, at the rate of 150 inmates a year, it will be a long time before the accommodation is sufficient for all the requirements of this State. Although I am basing this article on the report of Dr. Dixon, the superintendent of Caswell, I know that relatively the same condition exists in other States.

It is your duty if you have control of a defective child to get it under the control of one of these institutions as soon as possible. If it is not a personal problem with you it is your duty to bring your influence to bear in having the State provide adequate facilities thus to relieve parents and guardians of responsibilities that they simply cannot otherwise discharge.

Vacation Time -:- Will It Be a Rest Or a Riot for You? -:- Drawn by Dorothy Fl

VACATION! The time to which every little girl in the world looks forward the whole year through. When she's a wee thing in pinafore and pigtails, she counts the days until school closes and she has the whole, long, lovely Summer without a thought of books or sums or restraint. When she gets older and piles her shining tresses on top of her head—or else bobs them gracefully—she still looks forward to the vacation time.

If she's a wise little girl, she plans a joyous period of rest; of lazing and dreaming to prepare herself for the rigors of the long year ahead. Perhaps, too, she dreams of Romance and a knight in shining armor with whom life will be one long, lovely vacation dream.

If she's not so wise, she still has her dreams, but she sets about realizing them in oh, so different a way. Her idea of vacation is one long round of pleasure. Strenuous exercise, dancing, late hours, on the go every second of the time, until, when vacation is over, she's worn out.

Which way are you going to spend yours? Which way do you really think is the best? And which way will bring you nearer the goal of your dreams? Be a wise little girl and make your vacation time one which will rest you and help you to keep the healthful beauty which will win you the love of the One Man!

Love Your Enemy for the Sake of Your Own Soul

By Lucy Lowell

"DEAR MISS LOWELL:

"In your article on hatred, I do not see what you mean when you say that it one understands an enemy he no longer will hate him.

"I think hatred is wrong, as you say, since it injures the one who hates. But it seems the right way is just to let your enemy alone and forget him. VIRGINIA."

Of course, it is humanly natural, Virginia, to wish to sever all connection with one you dislike.

But I wonder if that solves the problem? It seems to me that the very desire to cut off someone in that fashion would be strong enough to produce the opposite effect and cause a bond.

Hatred is a disruptive, separative force which reacts upon its source. And the only way to get rid of it is to destroy it. Like any malignant thing, it can't simply be ignored; it must be destroyed.

This can be done only by combating it with something more powerful than hatred itself and that is love.

By love I do not mean the warm affection you feel for your friends.

This love is made up partly of understanding and partly of tolerance and partly of fairness; understanding that your enemy is just another human like yourself with all the weaknesses you have; tolerance of his faults; fairness in the sense of being willing to give him his due.

That you may be sure he hates you should make no difference in your attempting the high viewpoint toward him. It is from your own heart you must uproot hatred, for it is what you, yourself, hold of that deadly emotion that may injure you.

Household Hints

Wash white paint, when only slightly soiled, with a little milk.

Enamelled pans can be cleaned by scouring with crushed egg shells and soapy water.

Soak handkerchiefs overnight in salt water, as they can then be readily washed.

Playing cards that have become soiled may be cleaned by rubbing lightly with a clean soft cloth.

Dirty chair covers should be rubbed with hot bran.

A lump of camphor stored with silver will help to preserve its brilliancy.

Ribbons should be well brushed, damped, and ironed between tissue paper.

Folly's Daughter

A Thrilling Mystery of New York Night Life

By Ann Lisle

A Meeting with Tony

VIVIAN SCARLETT'S hand slid out, covered the card on MacNeil Shannon's desk, slipped it cautiously under her gloves, picked them up, opened her purse and swept the card into it.

ANN LISLE

"Mrs. Folly Duane, Xavier Hotel," had been calling on MacNeil Shannon. Mrs. Roy Scarlett could not afford to have Mac remember that.

All through lunch Vivian tried to make Mac forget. And Roy watched with a certain amount of pride in Vivian's charm. When he came to the Shannon he was sore at Viv for all her unexplained excursions to the country and more than a bit disgusted with himself for all his unadvertised excursions into the hinterland with Bonnie. But as his wife scintillated and laughed with MacNeil Shannon and flirted in a well-bred, hands-off sort of way, Roy began to swell out his chest and think that he had been a darn clever boy to marry such a helpful little wife. She was certainly getting him in solid with the boss.

There was brusque cynicism in the way Mac responded. He had no high opinion of women. One had thrown herself at him this morning. One was amusing herself and passing a stray hour with him now. All he could do was play up. It seemed odd to Mac that at thirty-three he could be further disillusioned about the sex which he always said was as fair as it had to be—and no more so!

Oddly enough there was still further disillusionment in store for the head of the Shannon Hotels. And it was to take place in his newest link in his powerful chain of coast to coast properties. But before that happened Jill Hathaway lost her job.

The morning position she had gone up to Washington Heights to secure was already filled when she got there. It was so hot that she made the return trip to her upper Fifth avenue destination by bus. That meant that fifteen of her thirty cents daily allowance for care-fare and lunch was gone. She must keep a nickle to ride home. Lunch would have to be a long, cold glass of buttermilk and a roll in a place where ten cents would cover both.

After lunching Jill sat in the park. She was not due at her afternoon "place" till two-thirty and they didn't like her to be early. When she arrived she was told that she wouldn't be needed today. Mr. Suffern was better. The family had gone down to Atlantic City. Mrs. Suffern had not been able to phone. Here was a week's wages in lieu of notice.

Jill took the ten dollars and went back to the park. She stared straight ahead desperately.

Ten dollars. And no way of getting any more.

She sat there a long time. Nobody spoke to her. Hours passed. . . . Her haggard young face was not beautiful just now because it was drawn and frightened and strained by hunger and lined by fear and streaked with perspiration. A policeman who had seen expressions like that often and knew what they meant came up to her and said not unkindly:

"Hey, you, move on!"

She went over to the Dairy and got another glass of buttermilk. She had to break her ten dollar bill to do that. It seemed a symbol—of defeat. She staggered and plunged forward with her head down and the tears blinding her. And then there was one of those odd meetings that is always happening in little old New York with its mere seven millions of atoms milling around and coming into such strange sudden contacts now and then. She bumped into a man. Apologized. Felt the iron of his fingers on her arm. Looked up through the grime and tears and saw Tony Savelli.

"Gosh!" he said. "Jill Hathaway and your face is dirty."

She laughed. And was radiant.

"Where can I wash it?" she asked with the sudden rallying of youth.

"I'll show you."

He hailed a taxi, drove her to the Casino and when she reappeared clean and pink and radiant and sparkling with the joy of this adventure, which seemed such a nice break in the drabness of the days, he said with the vivid eagerness that made him so attractive to the elderly women who haunted the restaurants where he fiddled:

"Where do we eat? Tea here? Dinner later when it's cool enough for more than a snifter?"

"I don't know what that is, but if it's a cold drink, not for me." Jill told him. "I've had nothing but buttermilk all day."

"Hot tea then," he said firmly, "and nice hot buttered toast. That breaks your fast all right. What we eat later won't be such a surprise to your tummy if we break it to it now that you're off your diet."

"Don't you have to be at Beppo's at seven?" she asked.

"Nope. Lost that job."

"Oh, Tony—I've just lost my job, too."

"Your job? What was it?"

"I was nursemaid to some children."

Tony threw back his head and laughed. He wasn't snobbish about it. He didn't seem to think it required explaining. He merely said. "Well, I lost my girl, too—the one who cut you out. Suppose you nurse me and my broken heart now. Right?"

"Right!" Jill said solemnly.

To Be Continued.

Advice to the Lovelorn

By Beatrice Fairfax

When Head Aids Heart.

ONE of the secrets of happiness and success is the ability to think intelligently and clearly even about emotional subjects. Yet how hard it is to use one's head when one's emotions are thoroughly aroused.

No wonder "E. J. M." asks counsel.

"Dear Miss Fairfax," writes E. J. M., "I am so unhappy and puzzled, won't you please help me?

"For three months I was secretly engaged to a man, to whom my parents strenuously objected because of his previous escapades. I admit he was inclined to be wild, but with maturity, and perhaps my influence, he has changed a great deal for the better.

"Many times he pleaded to be allowed to ask my parents' consent to our marriage. But knowing their feelings I told him how futile it would be. Finally I decided that I owed it to my parents to be honorable and not deceive them, so I gave him up, although I loved and still love him.

"He, of course, was miserable. I was also melancholy and depressed. Things drifted along like that until yesterday, when I got a telegram telling me he had gone to a distant State, but giving no definite address.

"I realize the time has come for a show-down, but I feel that I am not wise enough to plan what to do. I am sure to hear from him soon. I am not sure of anything, except that I know I love him. Please help me to straighten out this terrible chaos.

"E. J. M."

YOUR letter leaves out a few important circumstances, E. J. M., such as your age and that of the young man you love and the length of time you have known each other. Also, you fail to state whether he has definitely given up "wild" ways and established his character as a man it would be safe for a girl to marry.

Three months' engagement, for instance, if it meant just three months of reform, would not make clear that he has changed his manner of life, permanently.

But were you not mistaken in dissuading him from a serious talk with your parents? When he writes you, I suggest that you explain in your reply how much you regret not having encouraged him to have this frank talk with your father and mother. Ask him to write them now and request a chance to make good and earn their consent to marry you.

I do not know whether you are old enough to undertake the responsibilities of marriage. At any event you will doubtless have to wait a year or two, until he establishes, to the satisfaction of your parents, the fact that he has become a suitable husband for their daughter in character and life.

Do not despair. Let your head aid your heart. If a man and woman truly love each other they can honorably surmount the greatest obstacles. Love will find the way.

When Manners Are Correct

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

A Morning Wedding

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. What kind of a tie should the groom and his attendant wear with a blue suit at a morning wedding?

2. Should the bride and her maid of honor wear gloves with white and blue georgette dresses and large straw hats?

3. Should the bride carry a shower bouquet when wearing a white dress and a white hat?

4. Will you tell me how to acknowledge a wedding gift? If the gift is sent by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Smith, to whom should the letter be addressed—My dear Mr. and Mrs. Smith, or My dear Mrs. Smith? Also, how should it be signed?

K.

WITH a business suit the gentlemen should wear the tie appropriate for a business suit when it is worn on other occasions. For instance, a four-in-hand tie with a dark blue or black background and a white stripe, narrow and occasional or in groups, is always becoming.

2—With the informal costumes of the bride and her attendants, they would not wear gloves.

3—The bride may carry a shower bouquet if she wishes, but an arm bouquet if she wishes but an arm appropriate if she wears a hat. Or she may, if she wishes, wear a corsage.

4—The letter of thanks for the present sent by Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Smith should be sent to Mrs. Smith. It should begin: Dear Mrs. Smith. Of course in the body of the letter Mr. Smith is very much included in the appreciation of the gift.

The letter should be signed by the bride-to-be.

A Gracious Hostess

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When speaking of your husband, should you say "My husband," "John" or "Mr. Brown"?

2. When riding with your husband and a woman friend should you sit up in front with your husband or in back with your friend?

3. When a married woman signs her name what is the correct form?

4. When putting your name on a church collection envelope should it read "Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brown" or "John J. and Mrs. Brown"? A READER.

WHEN you speak of your husband to tradesmen and to servants you say "Mr. Brown." But when you speak of him to friends you say either "John" or "My husband." Naturally it would be "John" to close friends and to the general list of acquaintances, "My husband."

2. When a woman friend is your guest you sit with her in the rear seat; otherwise you will not be a very gracious or attentive hostess.

3. This is the correct form for a letter to a business firm or to any one who must be informed of her formal married name (for instance, in a letter that you would write to me):

"Very truly yours,
"Mary Smith Brown
"(Mrs. John Brown)"

4. The name on a church collection envelope would be the formal name, "Mr. and Mrs. John J. Brown."

(Mrs. Beeckman will be glad to answer questions on etiquette submitted by readers.)

Aiming At Animation — The skirts of the sheer, girlish dance frocks are very full. A bouffant skirt of chiffon has a deep flounce of lace and a simple, snugly fitting bodice that accentuates the swaying grace of the skirt.

Finding Fringe in unexpected places seems to be a game of those who seek to "keep up" with feminine fashions. One of the latest models in flesh crepe de chine dance bloomers has a godet-shaped trimming of silk fringe up each leg. Another interesting feature of these novel little bloomers is the broad silk elastic, fastening each leg and also forming a stocking support.

Crazy Over Crazyquilt Vests—These sleeveless, vari-colored waistcoats are among the most amusing and extreme novelties to be worn with white sports frocks. Made of odd bits of velvet, brocade, silk or satin, the greater the color range, the more swagger this little fashion accessory.

TRUE WISDOM—would you grasp it? Then think less about the world of men, the round of ruthless greed and haste, the reign of cruelty and waste! Think less of what man likes to hold as weighing most: brief fame, bright gold; how many times has earth's applause rung loudly out for worthless cause! How many times has hard won gold brought envy, strife and cares untold! True wisdom—learn it from the lark whose song is fired from love's own spark. Learn it from all sweet, simple things, the daily round of living brings, for high or humble destinies find all their power lies in these: the quiet hours when love is near, the earnest toil and friendly cheer. Dorothy Dix Tells Dumbell Maid To Find Something That She Can Do

Helping a "Dumbbell" Stenographer Choose Another Career—Some of the Things That Break a Girl's Reputation Even in This Modern Age—Does "Keeping Steady Company" Exclude Other Friendships?

LEAR MISS DIX—I am a high school graduate and have been graduated in a stenographic course but by the looks of my typing you would think I had never seen a typewriter before and it makes me feel like a regular dumbbell. My mother pesters me because I haven't got a job and all my other friends have. What do you think I should do? DUMBBELL.

Answer:

I can sympathize with you, Dumbbell, about not being able to learn to run a typewriter. I have been trying it for 30 years and the minute I touch a machine it buck jumps and stutters and gets the blind staggers and spells in a way that would give the late Mr. Noah Webster the fantods.

In my opinion typewriters are the most temperamental animals there are, and if you haven't an affinity for one there is no use in monkeying with it. You will never learn to use it and there is no use in wasting your time trying. So pass up stenography as a career. It is not for you. Turn your attention to something for which you have an aptitude.

Perhaps you have no marked talent. Not very many persons are born geniuses, but there is some one thing which all of us have a particular turn and the thing to do is to find out what that is.

The best test is liking. What do you like to do? What do you enjoy doing? By this I don't mean what you would like to do, but what you actually do like to do.

Every girl would like to be a movie star or a great actress or a famous writer or a tennis champion, or something like that, that has a lot of romance and press notices and a big salary check attached. These things are outside the realm of possibility except for a very few. So come down to brass tacks and find out whether you like to sell things or make things, whether your brains are in your fingers or in your head.

Do you like to cook? Have you ever invented a new sandwich filling? Do you know by intuition just how hot an oven should be and how long to bake a cake? If you do, go and take a course in domestic science. That opens up a new field.

They told me at a famous teachers' college not long ago that they had a dozen applicants for a teacher of domestic science where they had one for a teacher of Latin. The domestic science expert is also qualified to run a tea house or a boarding house, and that way fortune lies if she is a good manager. Feeding people will always be one of the big businesses of the world.

Perhaps you are clever with your needle and love to make frocks and trim hats. Go, then and study millinery and dressmaking, either one of which is a splendid trade for a girl to follow.

A good designer can always command a fine salary and a superexcellent one, who can make a fat woman look thin and give a hat an angle that will take 10 years off a woman's looks can write her own price tag. Men will always spend their money for food and women their money for clothes.

If you have personality and a gift for selling things, go into a store. If you like to fuss around people, try the beauty shop. If you have a never-ending pity for the sick, be a trained nurse. There are millions and millions of openings for girls everywhere—just as many as there are for men—and a girl's success, like a boy's, depends upon herself. You will fail in anything you do half-heartedly. You will succeed at anything into which you put your heart and your back.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—I am a widow with two children whom I adore and for whom I have made many sacrifices, trying to educate them and to make them a comfortable home. I am not a prude and know that my children in this moden age cannot be bound by the conventions that obtained in my day, but I feel that they are going too far, for they are doing things that shock my ideas of right and wrong. Please tell me if you would be willing for your daughter, a young girl, to go in a car to a city 160 miles distant with two men, both of whom drink to excess. We know one of these men slightly, the other not at all. Do you think two girls should go to a strange town alone, stopping at a hotel for a week-end? Do you think a young girl should go to a strange town with a young man friend to stop with him at a hotel for the week-end?

OLD-FASHIONED MOTHER?

Answer:

There are certain principles of proper conduct that are never old-fashioned, because they are elemental. Civilized society is built on them, and no girl may flout them and expect to retain her reputation.

And one of these is that a girl may not go to a hotel with a man unless she is adequately chaperoned. Their relationship may be purely platonic, their conduct the pink of propriety, but they could never convince a suspicious and censorious world of it.

It simply isn't done by a respectable girl. And so well recognized is the fact that a girl who values her good name does not spend a week-end alone with a man at a hotel that the hotel register has been the chief incriminating witness in numberless divorce cases.

As long as your daughter lived it would always be brought up against her if she had done such a thing.

Nor is it proper for two girls to go alone to a strange town and stop at a hotel unless they have very good reason for doing so and unless they are very discreet in their conduct.

Mrs. Grundy will certainly have a-plenty to say about them if they go merely to pick up boys and have a good time.

As for letting your daughter go on a long automobile ride with two strange men of whom you know nothing except that they drink, it is taking too hazardous a chance even to consider. It is like throwing her to the beasts.

Certainly you are much to be pitied if your daughter is so pleasure-mad that she has lost all sense of maidenly modesty and is willing to jeopardize her good name for a good time and if she is so headstrong that she will not listen to your advice.

Nothing but bitter experience will teach her wisdom, and the pity of it is that the mother must pay the price of her child's folly.

DOROTHY DIX.

DEAR MISS DIX—We have had a heated argument that we are putting up to you to settle.

I maintain that unless a girl is actually engaged to a man she has no right whatever to be annoyed at his taking out other girls and that he has no right to question her going with other men, even though they have been going steadily together for months.

My opponents say if a man takes a girl out steadily for six months or a year he has no right whatever to go out with other girls or the girl to go out with other men, even though he has not asked the girl in question to be his wife. Which of us is right? FRANCES.

Answer:

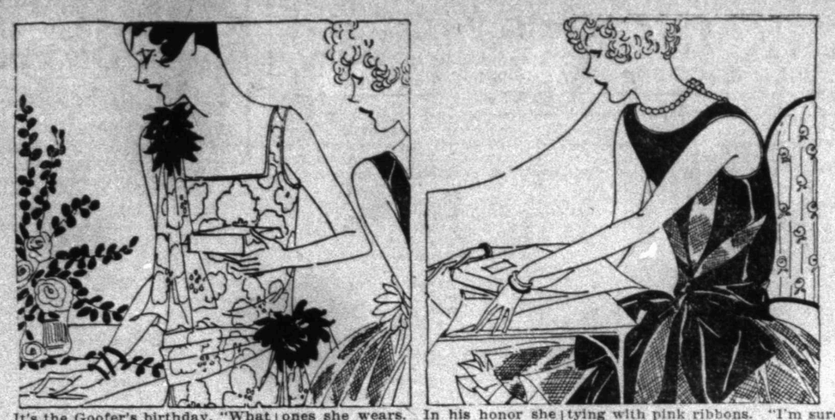

You are. Until a couple are definitely engaged they have no claim, morally or otherwise, upon each other, and no right to dictate to each other or to try to control each other's actions.

A man may go with a girl for 10 years, but if he never asks her to be his wife she has no reason to expect him to marry her and he is no way bound to marry her. She is silly to let him waste that much of her time, but that's her risk. He is free to go at any minute if he gets tired of her.

So long as a couple are not engaged, keeping steady company means absolutely nothing, and leaves both parties at liberty to have any other friendships they please. DOROTHY DIX.

MODISH MITZI — The Goofer Counts His Candles — By JAY V. JAY

It's the Goofer's birthday. "What shall I give him, Polly!" asks Mitzi struggling with the question at the seventh hour. It's very hard to know. If he were a girl Mitzi could give him chiffon flowers like the ones she wears. In his honor she wears her new printed georgette dress with the jabot flare from the shoulder.

"It's so romantic," says Polly referring to the book of sonnets she is wrapping in white tissue and tying with pink ribbons. "I'm sure he'll love it, dear," says Aunt Sophia from the other room. Polly's trying to look as romantic as possible herself in a dress of tulle and satin with the new obi bow in front.

"Just what I needed," says the Goofer as he opened Mitzi's birthday present and discovered a cigarette lighter. (The 12 others he owns aren't in working order). While he protests that there are too many candles on the cake you might notice that Mitzi's frock has a rounded neckline in back and a square one in front. Aunt Sophie wears a white georgette dress—white being one of the most important colors this summer—and Polly shows the applique tulle design on the bodice of her evening dress to good advantage. "Really now," asks Polly the inquisitive, "how old are you?" "Old enough, Polly," replies the Goofer not meaning to snub her or anything, "old enough to know better than to publish it."

Tomorrow—Sheer Hats and Frocks.

OPTIMISTS TO BOOST CLUBS

New Clubs To Be Formed In This District

The Wichita Falls Optimist club will have an active part in the organization of new clubs in cities of the seventh district during the coming fall, declared Bert King Wednesday at the Optimist luncheon at the Kemp hotel. Mr. King discussed future plans of the club.

Two journeys are being planned by the local club, Mr. King said. A large delegation will be sent to Fort Worth and later members will travel to Oklahoma City for inter-club meetings.

The executive committee of Optimist International will meet in St. Louis August 27 at which time plans will be laid for club activities during the next year, Mr. King stated. Dates for the trips to Oklahoma City and Fort Worth will depend upon action taken by the committee.

The district including Wichita Falls also includes Fort Worth and Dallas on the south and Tulsa and Oklahoma City in Oklahoma and with the exception of Tulsa the Wichita Falls club is the strongest in the district, Mr. King declared.

J. W. Pyland was in charge of the program Wednesday which included a violin solo by Joseph Rabinowitz, the boy violinist, accompanied at the piano by Miss Katherine Kilander. "Texas," Miss Kilander's entry in the state song contest was sung by the club with Joel MacGregor leading. Mr. MacGregor also led a sing-song with various members chiming in on stanzas of a "My Bonnie" parody in which Bert King displayed a remarkable vocal ability.

Jimmie Allred presided over the meeting. He made a strong plea for payment of club dues and was joined by others, the name of each of whom was included in the delinquent list.

RHEUMATISM

May be relieved by rational treatment—it can not be rubbed away.

Are you one of those unfortunates who suffer with pains in your muscles and joints, commonly called rheumatism, making you miserable, less efficient, interferring with your working hours, ruining your sleep?

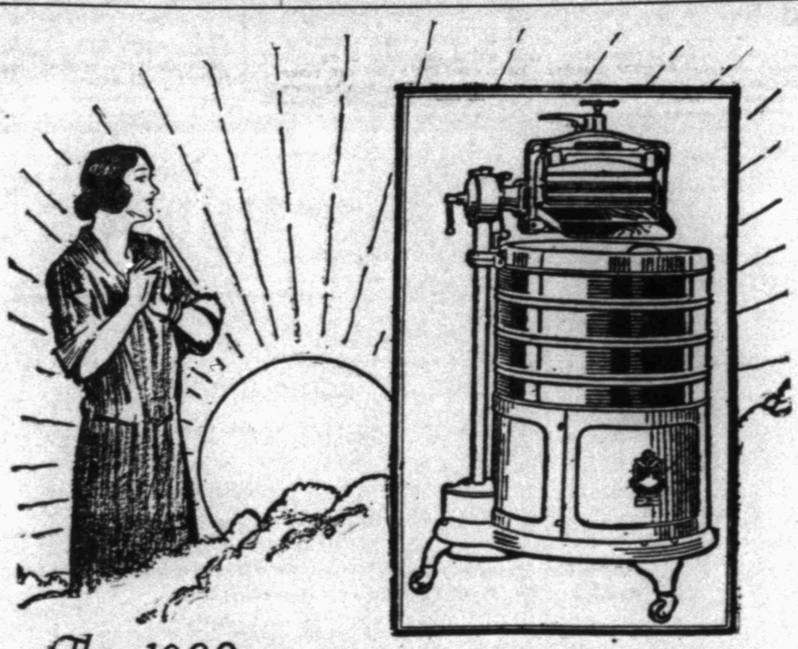

You may have tried many things without relief. Why not try S. S. S.? For more than 100 years it has been giving relief in thousands of cases, as testified to in unsolicited letters of gratitude.

"I suffered from rheumatism for a good many years. At times my joints would swell so, I couldn't walk. I tried almost everything. Went to Hot Springs . . . . then finally decided to try S. S. S. I took a course. In a short time the rheumatic pains entirely left me. I am now in perfect health, and want to all that I have tried all kinds of medicines but I think S. S. S. is the best." Earl C. Campbell, 115 West Main Street, Johnson City, Tenn.

S. S. S. is purely vegetable. It is extracted from the fresh roots of medicinal plants and herbs and gives to Nature what she needs in building you up so that your system throws off the cause.

From youth to later years S. S. S. is a proven tonic—give it and take is where a tonic is indicated.

S. S. S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

No Third Term

CALVIN COOLIDGE is a remarkable man. He has been an office holder almost from youthful manhood. He began at the lowest rung of the political ladder and reached the highest rung when he became president of the United States. Death removed Warren G. Harding from the White House. Calvin Coolidge stepped into his shoes. He filled the unexpired term of his distinguished running mate who had died in harness. He was nominated for a full term and called to that high office by one of the greatest popular majorities ever given an American president.

Wisest of politicians and political soothsayers had predicted that a renomination was his without a struggle and re-election almost certain. Never in his life has he met a waterloo. Never in his life has he been defeated at the polls. Now he is out of it. He will step aside and the makers of standard bearers and platforms for the republican party will select another standard bearer in the campaign to come next year.

All the veeran correspondents predicted his renomination in 1928. All the leading newspapers of America predicted his renomination. Four-fifths of the state bosses of the republican party had declared in advance that the prize was his for the asking. From his Black Hills Summer White House, like a bolt from the heavens came this laconic announcement, "I do not choose to run for president in 1928." That's all.

Calvin Coolidge with all the honors that have come to him must do his own thinking. He travels alone to a great extent and it must be true after this remarkable announcement that he not only thinks alone, but the men who claim to be closest to him never read his innermost thoughts and never get a line on the man or his line of reasoning. He called the correspondents in. Not a hint had been given of what was to come.

There are many correspondents in the Black Hills country. He was prepared for them. He had many little slips of paper. Each correspondent was handed a slip and stepped aside for the next one. A few words had been scribbled on the scrap of paper. These words when the wires carried them from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to Mexico, must have produced an extraordinary sensation in the political haunts of all America. "I do not choose to run for president in 1928."

But does this take him out of the race? He does not choose to run for president in 1928. If the republican leaders, the men who make candidates and platforms for the republican party, choose to make him the standard bearer again in 1928, would Calvin Coolidge thrust the honor aside? Would he decline a renomination? This for the future to disclose. Regardless of surmising or speculating the president must be taken at his word.

George Washington declined a third term. Ulysses S. Grant, northern hero and conqueror at Appamatox, sought a third term and was overwhelmed. It was denied him by the conservative leaders of the republican party who knew the deep seated sentiment in the hearts of millions for the father of his country and the precedent that he had established. Grant never recovered from the defeat. He sought the crown and the crown was handed to another.

Calvin Coolidge is wise and patriotic. His administration has appealed to the business interest of America. There are no scandals attached to it since he became the pilot and the guide of the ship of state. He has had all the honor. He can return to private life at the close of his term with the verdict or plaudit of millions ringing in his ears, "Well done thou good and faithful servant."

With President Coolidge's self-elimination from the field and the race it is certain that the standard bearer of the republican party in the campaign of 1928 will be a western man. In the great corn and wheat belts of America are to be found rock-ribbed republican Gibraltars. When Coolidge accepted a vice-presidential nomination in 1920, he builded wiser than he knew.

Death came and made him chief executive of a great republic. Fortune favored him, he was picked by his party leaders as their standard bearer and the wreckage of the democratic party in 1924 by its gladiators at Madison Square Garden made it possible for the son of New England to win a popular majority of 8,000,000 and the huge majority in the electoral college.

Now the wild stampede to other favorite sons will begin. Now the wild scramble to the most inviting band wagon will take place. Now the master minds of the republican party, who are not office holders, will begin to do their planning for the year to come. Now the insurgent republicans of the west, the champions of farm relief legislation in all probability will rally to the standard of Frank O. Lowden as the Moses of their hopes and the eastern leaders of the party may be without and not within the golden fleece breastworks in the month of June of the coming year.

Jim on the Verdict

SPEAKING of the defeat of the amendments, Farmer Jim, not unknown to fame, made this declaration: "The people rose up in their mighty majesty and said, 'they shall not pass.'" Mighty majesty fails to cover the ground. Texas has a population of upwards of 6,000,000. Texas has a voting population, that is qualified voters, of more than 1,400,000. Unless the returns are misleading, 1,225,000 of the qualified voters were inactive on election day. They refused to budge. They did not go near the polls. And less than 125,000, all told, were moved by the mighty majesty of the people's wrath and voted for the most part to send the amendments to the graveyard. This should be a valuable hint for the lawmakers.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By BURTON RASCOE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—A most fascinating and at the same time typically New York sort of engineering is now in progress at Park avenue between 46th and 45th streets. Formerly this block was simply enclosed by a wooden fence. The property was unoccupied above ground, simply being used as a skylight over the tracks from Grand Central station which run underneath.

But a building is being erected on the space now. And from a lofty window of a nearby skyscraper I saw a remarkable feat of engineering in the making.

Without disturbing the train service on the tracks below or the traffic in the bordering streets, the job of building a new large building was begun. A huge derrick swung steel supports into place between the railroad tracks. Even as this was being done, trains were moving back and forth. The incredibly heavy beams would be swung down into the hole, barely missing a collision with an oncoming train. Thus will a mammoth place arise, straddled with no fuss or confusion, over the tracks of the New York, New Haven & Hartford and the New York Central.

* * *

Saw a man today with a nose far more outrageous than the famous beak of Cyrano de Bergerac. . . . Another man with a nose totally pushed in his face and a gaping hole between his eyes. . . . Mr. Joseph Plunkett, manager of the Strand theater, sitting in front of one of those new fangled machines, which take five photos for a quarter in the store on Fifty-first and Broadway. . . . Two drunks on the obscure streets behind Park Row, still arguing about the Dempsey-Sharkey shindig and coming to blows over their differences. . . . A small boy in Madison Square trying to sell three of yesterday's newspapers. . . . Hundreds of tired office workers in Lower New York stopping to buy a three-cent cup of lemon ice from a small pushcart.

Add articles to the New Yorker's Credo, as originally published in this column:

That no one ever can be happy any place else after living in New York for six months.

That there is a kind heart under each painted face on Broadway.

That there are 2,000,000 visitors each day in the city.

That mid-westerners wear tight-fitting checked suits.

That Central park is the most beautiful place of its kind in the world.

That Broadway is the best-lighted street in the country.

That anything that happens to an actor or actress is merely a fake publicity stunt.

That the whole police force is Irish.

That all out-of-towners demand to see the Statue of Liberty as soon as they arrive.

That Greenwich village is inhabited by boobs and would-be poets.

That a white man will be arrested after dark in the San Juan Hill or negro section.

That great bargains in any kind of merchandise can be secured on the east side.

That cowboys wear guns in leather holsters.

That Hoboken is a ridiculous town.

That dramatic critics gather in the lobby at first nights and decide what they will say of the show.

Sally's Shoulders

© by BEATRICE BURTON, Author of "HER MAN" "HONEY LOU" "THE HOLLYWOOD GIRL" ETC.

READ THIS FIRST:

SALLY JEROME, pretty and clever, is the prop and mainstay of her family in the absence of her father, who has not lived with her mother for nine years. The family consists of MRS. JEROME, the twins, BEAU and MILLIE, and Sally herself. Mrs. Jerome enjoys poor health, so Sally does the housework mornings and office work afternoons for grouchy MR. PEEVEY.

In the flat below the Jeromes lives young Ted Sloan, an automobile salesman, who wants her to marry him and keep on working. But the only man in whom she is interested is JOHN NYE, whose real estate offices are just across the hall from Mr. Peevey's.

Nye hires Millie as his secretary, and as soon as Millie learns that his father is the wealthy owner of the building she begins to play up to him. He becomes blindly infatuated with her and Sally is jealous and heart-sick.

Beau and Millie spend most of their money on themselves and and rarely give Sally anything for the upkeep of the house. Her only real financial aid is an occasional check from her absent father, and every now and then she borrows some money from her AUNT EMILY JEROME.

Beau suddenly blossoms out with some flashy clothes, a guitar, and other luxuries. Sally is instantly suspicious, for Beau not only works in a bank, but was light-fingered besides as a little boy.

The crisis comes on a Saturday night, when Ted Sloan, angry with Sally because of her coldness towards him, tells her that Beau got more than $100 from him by means of a bad check. Sally borrows the money to pay him back from Mr. Peevey. She gives it to Beau to take to Ted late at night, but Beau elopes with his girl, MABEL WILMOT, leaving a note behind advising Sally "to fix things up with Ted." Millie's counsel to "vamp" Ted and coax him to tear up the bad checks, disgusts Sally.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XX

Sleep played hide-and-seek with Sally Jerome that night until the wee small hour of three.

Then, just as she was dozing off the slow, soft voice of Millie came from the darkness on the other side of the room and wakened her.

"It's too bad I'm not the one Ted Sloan likes," she drawled. "Isn't it?"

"Why?" asked Sally after a minute.

"Because it wouldn't be any trouble to me to get those checks away from him." "I'd just tell him that if he cared about me he'd tear them up and forget them. . . . Why don't you tell him that? He's so crazy about you that he'd do it if you asked him—in the right way."

There was a long, heavy silence, and then Sally spoke:

"I couldn't take advantage of his liking me, Millie."

The other girl laughed. "You sure are a Daff!" she said serenely. "You'll never get to first base in this world with ideas like that, Sally. . . . What do you suppose a girl has looks for except to make some man do the things she wants him to do? And there isn't much use in having Ted Sloan crazy about you, unless you can make him tear up the checks or give them to you. I bet I could make him do it, believe you me!"

In the shrouding darkness Sally shook her head, and her little chin set itself firmly. "The only decent thing to do is to give Ted the money that Beau got from him—and it was more than $100, Millie. It was a hundred and 10."

For a second she was tempted to tell her the whole story. How she had gone to Mr. Peevey for a loan. How she owed him a hundred dollars now, in addition to the $110 that Beau owed Ted Sloan—The $110 that she would have to pay, as she knew full well.

"Two hundred and ten dollars!" she groaned to herself. "I'll never get it paid. Never!" It was no wonder that she had a hard time getting to sleep that night.

Her last troubled thought was how to tell her mother about Beau's elopement the next morning.

* * *

Five hours later she was awakened by Mrs. Jerome herself. She was shaking her by one shoulder and telling her loudly that it was after 8 o'clock.

Mrs. Jerome was one of those early-rising people who want coffee the minute they open their eyes in the morning. She always said that it gave her a sick headache to lie awake with an empty stomach.

"Sally," she was saying now, and she was saying it sharply. "Do wake up and don't be so lazy. I declare, if you girls would stop staying up half the night you'd be worth something to somebody the next day! Sally, do you hear me? GET UP!"

Sally stirred, stretched, and opened her blue eyes to a world of troubles.

Usually she was as light-hearted and filled with the joy of life when she woke in the morning, but depression lay heavily on her soul today. It seemed to her that all her problems waited there at her bedside for her . . . , Beau's debt, his danger, his elopement.

She got out of bed. "Yes, mother," she said, rubbing her eyes. "You want your coffee, don't you?"

"I certainly do! I'm going to have a headache if I don't have it pretty soon. I can feel one coming on." And Mrs. Jerome sighed as she went away to find the morning paper.

She was comfortably reading in her green velour chair when Sally carried her coffee and toast to her on a little tray.

"It's Sunday. Can't I have some eggs, too?" she asked, looking up in the most woe-begone way at her daughter. On Sunday the family always had eggs for breakfast as a once-a-week extravagance.

Sally shook her head. "I didn't order any yesterday," she began. "And there's only one in the house."

She stopped and then went on quickly: "I'll fix it for you, mother. How would you like it—poached?"

After all, she told herself, poor mother had so few pleasures that it was a shame ever to deprive her of anything that she wanted to eat. For eating was a passion with her.

"I'd like it friend," said Mrs. Jerome, who had been forbidden ever to touch fried foods by her doctor.

"I'll tell her about Beau after she's had her breakfast in peace," thought Sally, as she watched a lump of butter sizzle in the frying pan.

* * *

It was while toasting a piece of bread to serve with the egg that she heard Millie's voice in a wild scream, coming from the sitting room.

"Sally! Sally! Hurry up! Oh, hurry up!" she called, and Sally dropped the toast and ran.

Mrs. Jerome had fainted in her chair, and Millie was crying wildly and trying to prop her up against her pillows. On the floor at her feet lay the spilled contents of the breakfast tray. A little pool of coffee was fast darkening the rose pattern of the rug.

"What's happened?" asked Sally, taking one look and then rushing back to the kitchen for cold water. Mrs. Jerome had fainted before, and she knew just how to go about reviving her.

Millie's voice, high and excited for once, followed her. "I was asking her what she thought about Beau eloping with Mabel last night and she threw up her hands, all of a sudden, and just keeled over. I never saw anything happen so fast in my life!"

"You shouldn't have said a word to her," scolded Sally, dashing the water into her mother's face, handful by handful. "I was going to take my time and break it to her gently—"

"That's just the trouble," Millie broke in snappily. "You baby her so that she can't stand anything! You keep her wrapped in cotton-wool and there's no reason for it! She's just as strong as you and me—or stronger!"

"Hush!" Sally put her finger to her lips, for her mother was stirring now. Her eyes fluttered open and her lips moved as she tried to say something.

"Beau—" she whispered, and then her plump face wrinkled and she began to cry piteously. Sally put her arms around her and pressed her mother's cheek against her shoulder.

"Now, now, mother, don't cry," she murmured, soothing her mother as she had comforted her and soothed her a hundred times before when things had gone wrong. "Beau's old enough to get married. Surely you want him to live a normal man's life and have a wife, don't you?"

"Yes, but not that rag doll of a Mabel!" wept Mrs. Jerome, who had all sorts of unkind names for Mabel. "What good will she ever be to him, I'd like to know? . . . . She doesn't even air her own bed when she's here in this house."

"She can make as good a living as he can, though," Sally reminded her quietly. "And, after all, that's the kind of wife Beau needs. He never would support a girl who stays at home, and you know it, mother."

"I w-w-won't have you talking about him!" sobbed Mrs. Jerome. "Beau's a good boy. He's a good boy."

"Yes, he is—like ice!" It was Millie who said this, standing in the middle of the room in her pink mull nightgown and her little pink kid bedroom slippers. "You ask Sally about the bad check's he's been passing. "You ought to be glad to get rid of him. That's what."

"WILL YOU BE STILL!" Sally's voice shook as she spoke, and her face went white with fury.

"What's the big idea?" she demanded wrathfully. "There's no need for mother to know about those checks! . . . . Its all right, mother. Beau was overdrawn at the bank last week, that's all." She glared at Millie and Millie glared back at her.

There is no quarrel so bitter as the quarrel between two sisters. That is one of life's most puzzling facts.

Sally and Millie were always having disagreements. They had had them since their mud-pie days, and it had always been Sally who spoke the first pleasant word. Millie was as stubborn as a mule for all her outward softness.

It was Sally who spoke the first word now. "Go and get mother's smelling salts, Millie," she said, her eyes losing their blue fire. "And let's forget all this. If there's ever a time when we ought to stick together, it's now—when we're in trouble."

"Trouble?" echoed Mrs. Jerome. "I know you're keeping something from me—"

She would have burst into tears once more, but at that moment there came a sound of feet on the stairs outside and a quick, nervous tapping came at the door.

"That's your Aunt Emily!" she cried. "I forgot that she was coming at 9 o'clock to take me out to her house for the day."

Every now and then Aunt Emily asked Mrs. Jerome to spend a whole day with her.

"It gives you a rest," she had once explained to Sally. "It must be terrible to listen to her complain all the time . . . . After I've had her on my hands for a few hours I'm fit for the lunatic asylum."

Her face was grim and unsmiling now, as she stalked into the room. It was plain that the prospect of a Sunday with her sister-in-law was not cheering her up the least bit.

"What's happened now?" she asked looking from Mrs. Jerome's tear-stained face to the broken cup and the coffee stain on the floor.

It was Millie who answered, running into the room with the green bottle of smelling salts in her hands. She poked it under her mother's nose and giggled as she spoke.

"Mother had a fit because Beau's eloped with Mabel—a fainting fit, I mean, of course," she said impudently. "That's the only kind she's ever had so far."

"First my husband and now my son. They've both deserted me!" wailed Mrs. Jerome, and tears sprang to her eyes again.

"Don't be a fool, Clara Margaretta!" snapped Aunt Emily, who never used Mrs. Jerome's full name unless she wanted to be extra impressive. "You ought to thank your lucky stars that he's gone! He's lived on you women long enough, it seems to me. Let Mabel support him for a while and see how she likes it! It won't last long!"

She turned to Sally. "Help me get your mother into her clothes!" she cried. "I'll take her home and keep her there until she gets over this. She's too much for you. You look ready to drop."

"I'm not, though. I feel like a billion," fibbed Sally, white-lipped and heavy-eyed, as she slipped her arms under her mother's big shoulders and helped her to her feet.

"Don't trouble yourselves with me. I can dress myself!" Mrs. Jerome sniffed, and sailed out of the room like a grand-duchess. It was plain that she was angry with all of them.

"She's hurt now because she thinks she's a bother to us," mourned Sally, looking after her with unhappy eyes.

"Well, she IS a bother, and it's time she knew it!" replied Millie, and her pink lips came together with a snap.

THE BREATH OF LIFE.

From the first cry of the body to the last gasp before death the body is dependent upon a steady supply of air. You may live many weeks without food, many days without water, but barely four minutes if your air supply is suddenly shut off. While life lasts, poisonous gases are constantly being thrown out through the lungs, and the vital oxygen of the atmosphere is taken into the body through the lungs, furnishing the system with this precious element to give vitality and assist in correct metabolism.

Most of us do not breathe deeply enough because our diaphragmatic muscles are insufficiently developed. The tubercular or asthmatic patient invariably has such poor control over this function that the action of the diaphragm is almost imperceptible under the X-ray examination.

If children were taught to develop control over their breathing we would have practically no tuberculosis. It does not take much breathing to sustain life, but if we want to be radiating fountains of vitality, we must develop our breathing appartuses to an extraordinary degree. Learn diaphragmatic control as taught to singers, whether you ever sing a note or not.

While taking your walks each day, practice systematic breathing, inhaling, and exhaling every so many steps. When inhaling, first of all fill the lower part of the lungs with air so that your abdomen protrudes, and then let the chest expand without too much effort. The main expansion should be around the waist, just above the navel. When exhaling, gradually contract the ribs and waist, making an effort to reduce the region around the lower ribs to the smallest possible circumference. It is not necessary to strain yourself, and after you get the knack of inhaling you will find it very easy, and you will be rewarded with increased vitality and a vitality you have never before experienced. After awhile you will find that your lungs are working with a steady, measured rhythm, and that the normal inhalation of eighteen per minute is furnishing you with twice the amount of oxygen you have been getting, and the exhalation will cleanse your system of double the amount of poisonous gases.

The Hindoo Yogies, who are adepts at breath control, believe that cosmic energy is actually drawn into the lungs with each breath and distributed to all parts of the body. They have certainly been able to demonstrate some marvelous powers through breath control and, whether or not their theory about the distribution of pranic energy is true, the results of taking these exercises are undoubtedly beneficial, and often startling. Perhaps the effects produced are from the visualization and expectation of what is desired. At any rate, you will find both the diaphragmatic and the measured breath control exercises to be exceedingly helpful in the cultivation of more abundant health.

QUESTION: J. T. B. asks: Should one eat his meal if it is time but he is not hungry?"

ANSWER: There would not be much sickness or many digestive disorders if people would only eat when hungry. Appetite and hunger are quite different, but you should at least have an appetite before your meals or you should wait and miss as many meals as necessary until there is a return of your normal appetite.

QUESTION: Mrs. Mack: "Are eggs good for persons suffering with diseased or weak kidneys?"

ANSWER: Anyone suffering from kidney trouble of any kind should be able to handle a limited number of eggs, about one a day, properly prepared by coddling or poaching.

QUESTION: A. M. C. writes: "For two years I have had pellagra, and am in a rundown condition. My heart seems to run away at times. I am five feet tall, 23 years of age and weigh 106 pounds. Am I underweight? I would also like to know what would be a good diet."

ANSWER: First, take a fruit fast for a few days, and then live on a well-balanced diet such as I outline each week in this column. These menus will be sufficient to correct your trouble after you have taken the fruit fast.

THE ONE-MINUTE PULPIT

Among the gods there is none like unto thee O Lord; neither are there any works like unto thy works. All nations whom thou hast made shall come and worship before thee, O Lord; and shall glorify thy name.

For thou are great, and doest wondrous things; thou art God alone.

Teach me thy way, O Lord; I will glorify thy name for evermore.—Psalm 86:8-13.

BEADLE GETS LIFE SENTENCE

Lebouef Slayer Accepts His Fate Calmly

FRANKLIN, La., Aug. 10. (AP)—James Beadle, Morgan City trapper, today was sentenced to life imprisonment for his part in the murder of James J. Lebouef, Morgan City utilities man.

Mrs. Ada Bonner Lebouef, widow of the slain man, and Dr. Thomas E. Dreher, who were found guilty without recommendation of mercy at the same time Beadle was convicted, will be sentenced Friday. A motion for new trial for them was presented and hearing of arguments on the motion was set for that date.

Court Room Crowded

While the crowd that had jammed the court room throughout the trial was absent today, the court room was almost filled as the trapper stood before the rail for the sentence to be imposed.

Beadle told the court he had nothing to say other than to express his thanks for the kindness that had been shown him during his imprisonment and trial. The demonstration that marked his conviction was not evident today.

His wife, who threw the court room into an uproar with her screams when the verdict was returned, was not present today. In her stead was two sisters of the trapper and a son.

All Shake Hands

Sentence imposed and court adjourned, the trapper was the center of an informal reception in the court room. He shook hands with Judge James D. Simon, Sheriff Charles Pecot, District Attorney Emile Villemot and other court officials.

The trapper will be carried ot the state prison at Baton Rouge early next week.

HANG HER ON THERE

There's nothing been left undone now other than the mere formality of hauling the championship bunting to the top. Spudders and fans were greeted on their return to the Gardner citadel Wednesday by a brand new flag pole placed in the center of the field against the batting screen. From the top waved Old Glory. Plenty of margin to spare for this year's pennant and several more to come. The pole was presented to the baseball association by the Wichita Wire and Iron Works.

WELL

Patrick Monahan, the bone sleuth, blew in with the returning Spudders yesterday. It stands to reason he is not scouting the Cardinal-owned Buffs. It is known major league clubs have their sights trained on at least one Spudder outfielder, at least one Spudder infielder and at least one Spudder lefthanded pitcher.

One of the most hair-raising plays of the season was Jenkins' catch of Martin's singing drive to left in the fifth, thereby saving a run. The sphere flew on a line and appeared headed sure for unprotected territory, but Tut swooped in and plucked the pellet from down around his shoe tops.

The Spudder infield rallied smartly to the defense and staved a run in the third. With Kane on third and Hock at first, Martin whipped a dirty bounder at Swenson, who came up cleanly, fired the ball to Turgeon at second, forcing Hock, and Turgeon completed the double play. The situation for a moment had been quite tense.

George is liable to lose his job at first base if he doesn't watch his step. The other day when Williams went in as relief for LaFayette, who has been a bit under the weather, the Spudder pilot almost fell in love with the position. Having got started at the bag, Williams is reluctant to quit.

Umphs Kane brought tears to the eyes of one Johnny Kane in the sixth. Johnny sneaked up on first base, took the throw from the catcher and caught Fred off the bag by a foot or so, but Indicating Harry couldn't see it that way. After the run of stiff breaks registered the past couple of weeks, the Spudders deserve something or other in the way of an attempt to balance accounts.

Roettger galloped into left field and hauled down Lamb's drive when the blow looked like it had a two-base label on it. It was the first smack of that "lucky" seventh.

Swenson received only two fielding chances yesterday, but both were of the sensational variety. That double play he engineered on Martin was a whizz. He robbed Smith of a hit in the ninth on a mean blow down the third base line.

The Spudders have signed up Syd Cohen, kid brother of Andy Cohen. He's a first baseman. The youngster is a University of Alabama product, looms as first class material, is a left hander and never has played professional ball.

CRACKS FROM CONSUMERS

Mr. Blondy Cross,
Record News Co., City.
Dear Sir:

To settle an argument will you please publish in your column, "Top O' Morn," how the last out of the 1926 world's series between the Cardinals and Yankees was made?

Thanking you for your trouble, I am yours very truly,
MALCOLM PUTTY.

Answer: No Top O' Morn out today. Too tired. Babe Ruth made the out trying to steal second. He had gone to first on a base on balls after there were two away.

Dear Blondy:

Can't you roast them Cats and fans just a little? You know how they used to pour it on us. I think they used a good thing too much but we are not using it at all. Remember when they used too much water around first base to keep a runner from stealing second and Al Ping discovered it? That was after Bodie joined the Bears. But woncha roast 'em little bout sompin? Crookedness, bad playing—just anything.
H. E.

Answer: See your point all right, all right. It's well taken, but it is our custom to refrain from clouting a guy when he's down, even though for six long seasons the Cowtowners took a peck at everybody else who happened to be flat on his back.

Dallas, August 9, 1927.

Mr. Blondy Cross.
Wichita Record News,
Wichita Falls, Texas.
Dear Blondy:

I noticed in your Sand Lot Slants column of Sunday, August 7, that you were under th impression that Victor-Wilson had won the city championship in Dallas again this year. I cannot imagine what caused you to come to this conclusion. They won the championship of the City American league, and they won the championship of the Merchants league. The play off for the city championship starts Saturday, seven teams being represented as they won the respective league pennants. The four teams remaining after Saturday and Sunday's games are the Lawson Rubber company and Postoffice, who meet the coming Saturday, and Victory-Wilson and Schepps bakery. We play them Sunday at Steer stadium, our game being the curtain raiser to a double header. Following our game Dallas and Waco will play their regular Texas league schedule game.

Also notice what Wild Bill Hoehn had to say about his chances in play off with the winner of the Dallas Sand Lot leagues. Tell him for me that the next time we meet we won't stay up all night the night before in getting to Wichita Falls and won't have 15 men left on bases. That is more than we have had left on in all our remaining games of the year. But if we start a left hander against him it won't be one with a wild hair in his nose. Just to give you a line on the comparative strength of Victory-Wilson and Schepp's Bakery: We have only met once this year and that was a benefit game played at Steer stadium for the flood sufferers. We beat them 2 to 1, and their run was on error. They were only able to get three scratch hits off of Red Jordan. This is the pitcher that made the Texas Electric club look so bad. In conclusion I want to state that we certainly appreciate the courtesies and good sportsmanship shown by Wichita Falls and are hoping for another chance to appear there.

With kindest personal regards, I am
Very truly yours,
GEO. SCHEPP.

Answer: Thanks for the info. I'll tell Bill about this. Also, will have a conference with the "Sand Lot editor" who proved he is only human by making an error.

RUTH SLUGS IN YANK VICTORY

Rowland Parks Sen Pilot In Boisterous Game

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—Babe Ruth and his bat, after three hitless games, drove in all the runs for the Yankees, who held the second place Senators in check today in the series opener, 4 to 3.

After scoring Combs in the first with a single, Ruth in the third hoisted one of Zachary's offerings into the centerfield stands for a homer, Combs and Koenig crossing the plate ahead of him. It was his 35th home run, putting him two behind his teammate Gehrig, who was credited with a single today in four times at bat.

About fifteen thousand fans, apparently unwilling to concede the Yankees the pennant, watched the game which was marked by considerable rowing between Washington players and Umpire Rowland.

Rowland put Manager Harris out of the game in the fourth for protesting against a called strike, and a shower of pop bottles came from the stands. In the ninth, during an argument with Bluege, Rowland was nearly hit by a bottle.

Outfielder Bill Lamar, obtained by the Senators from the Athletics on waivers, drew an indefinite suspension today, when he sought a $1000 bonus for joining the Washington club.

TIGERS 2, BROWNS 1.

DETROIT, Aug. 10. (AP)—Taking advantage of St. Louis' mistakes the Tigers won the opening game of the series with the Browns today. The score was 2 to 1. It was a pitchers' battle between Owen Carroll and Milton Gaston and the Tiger right hander triumphed because of better support in the field. Neither of Detroit's runs was earned. Bob Fothergill was hurt in the eighth inning when he collided with the left field fence in going after O'Rourke's two-base hit. The score:

Rickey Ready To Sell Buffs

Sale Price To Be Named First Of Month

HOUSTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—The Houston Chronicle today quotes Branch Rickey, vice president and business manager of the St. Louis Cardinas to the effect that on September 1 it will be made known the price at which the interest of the Cardinals in the Houston Texas league baseball club may be purchased.

Rickey, Doak Roberts, president of the Texas league, and Fred Ankenman, president of the Houston club, have been here in conference for two days. No statement regarding the nature of the conferences has been forthcoming until they ended Tuesday night.

Another conference, Rickey said, would be held to determine the price at which the Houston club might be purchased. Rickey and Roberts, the statement indicated, would endeavor to determine it. If they fail to agree, Judge Kenesaw M. Landis, baseball commissioner, will be called upon to appoint a third man.

North Texas league clubs previously objected to Cardinal control of the Houston club. At a meeting in Dallas several weeks ago elimination of Cardinal interest was advocated with the result that the Houston meeting was arranged. At its conclusion Rickey announced that "while from time to time the relative advantages of our partial ownership move up and down, nevertheless every real sport knows that there cannot be eight leading clubs in one league, and it is probable that the Houston club will neither be a never failing pennant winner nor a persistent tail ender. It is equally probable also that the day has passed when some one or two clubs in the Texas league will monopolize the Dixie series. The probable loss of that monopoly undoubtedly occasions this present negotiation."

SORDS POINTS

To One of the Newer and Better Browns

President Phil Ball of the Browns has announced that his ball club is to be scrapped and an entirely new machine built around four of the present members. He does not list the four but it can be accepted as a fact that Fritz Schulte, the brilliant young outfielder the Browns purchased from Milwaukee early this year, will be one of the members retained, if not included among the four of the present regulars.

The Brown bosses are counting on Schulte despite the fact that he is at present laid up with injuries sustained weeks ago. Schulte, attempting to field a ball, crashed into a concrete wall, sustaining a fractured hip and other injuries.

The blow was a disastrous one to the team. Manager Howley was counting on Schulte to help carry the club through the remainder of the season at a fair pace.

The Browns turned over something like $75,000 in cash and three players for the young gardener. The players were Bob LaMotte, Jounard and Gene Robertson.

Incidentally the deal was the last one made by Otto Borchert, Milwaukee club owner, before he died.

Americans Turn To Choice Of Pony Players

By HERBERT REED
Universal Service Polo Expert

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—With the British challengers in action tomorrow, probably at Talbott field in Roslyn, which, weather permitting, will be dried out at that time, and other games determined only day by day according to the weather, the next move of the American Big Four, now in progress, is the selection of the four-footed polo four that will be in action carrying the four stars responsible for the defense of the cup.

Delicate Matter.

This is quite as delicate a matter as the picking of the men, and is in the hands of Carleton E. Burke from California, who has already had a chance to look over the available candidates. While Mr. Burke is the last word in this matter, and responsible for the results, there are personal prejudices on the part of the players to be considered, fewer, I think in Milburn's case than in that of any other member of the American team. Milburn wants the mounts that will take him whither he is going. And he will get them.

Judy Will Be There.

Only recently he was up on Judy, the famous pony bought from Jack Nelson of the Argentine. After his experience on this mount the American captain did not know whether it was a gelding or a mare or what it was, and I doubt if he even took a second look at the color. He had found a four-footed player from whose back he could make his strokes, and who required practically no attention so far as equitation was concerned. So it is certain that Judy at some time or other will be carrying the American leader.

"Sold" on Lovely Lady.

There is no doubt that Winston Guest is entirely "sold" on Lovely Lady, the fast and beautiful chestnut that has given him the foot of the field more than once, and figured in the intercollegiate championship to such an extent that when so mounted no other player could get near him. Tommy Hitchcock is known to favor John, a beautiful chestnut gelding, and Tobyanna, a piebald, which ought to take the eye of the crowd. Cowdin's favorite mounts, and these under his own ownership, have been mostly Argentine and English, but it is likely that his string will be materially built up by ponies purchased by A. C. Schwartz.

Of the mounts Stevenson has been using his bid for a place on the team, Scaramouch is probably the most interesting. This is a Virginia bred chestnut gelding picked up before the last internationals by Louis Beard, engineer of the winning American army polo expedition to England, and now in Virginia as a member of the Harry Payne Whitney general staff.

Odds On Delaney To Beat Basque

Biffers Ready For Gotham Melee Tonight

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—Trained razor-fine after a month's intensive work in the New Hampshire woods and browned to the tint of an Indian, Jack Delaney "went through the motions" in Madison Square Garden today as a final preparation for his 15-round battle with Paulino Uzcudun in the Yankee stadium tomorrow night.

The woodsman of the north, staking his pugilistic future as a heavyweight in the scrap with the woodchopper from Spain, sped through an eight-round workout before a crowd of fight fans who cheered his movements.

In Summit, N. J., where the squat Basque, Paulino, wound up training with a light drill, handlers were happy over the fact that a boil on his right forearm is nearly well and a good deal of swelling has left a slight sprained thumb. Paulino's weight was back to normal, 192, while Delaney scaled about 177.

Delaney's formal resignation of the light heavyweight title, informally presented to the New York athletic commission two weeks ago, was mailed to the board today, Manager Reilly announced.

Betting odds favored Delaney to win at the rate of 7 to 5.

AUSTIN, Aug. 10. (AP)—Tom Dennis, former Texas university football star, who coached last year at Port Arthur will not be on the university staff as freshman coach the coming season, as planned originally, it was announced today by the football committee of the athletic council.

SPORTING NEWS — THE RECORD NEWS — FIRST ACCURATE COMPLETE

Ed Hughes' Column

THOSE "CAT EYES."

Many of the great fighters have had "sharpshooter's eyes." Most of the fighting animals have sharp, three cornered eyes. All of the cat tribe have these triangular eyes They prey on other animals. The ox, the deer, the buffalo, the horse and all animals that eat grass instead of meat have mild, round eyes. There have been very few round eyed ring fighters, although I've seen some old time gun fighters who had eyes of the pop-eyed variety.

• • •

John L. Sullivan, Bob Fitzsimmons, Jim Jeffries, Jess Willard, Dempsey and Tunney all used these triangular sharpshooter eyes to direct their punches in the ring. Most of them believed that there was some power in a direct, hostile stare that helped them win fights. Bob Fitzsimmons even thought that he could produce some sort of a hypnotic effect on his victims. He had a habit of standing up in his corner between rounds, instead of sitting down. Standing there, he'd stare across the ring at the man he was fighting, and I've seen some of his opponents grow nervous under his stare.

• • •

Bob thought he could outstare wild animals. He had lions, bears and tiger cubs among his pets. He said he learned most of his boxing by teasing these animals and seeing how they struck with their paws. He used to try the power of his eye on them, and it seemed to work with the lions. He tried to outstare a bear once, and the bear bit him on the leg. Bob had a kicking mule. He'd walk around the mule and try to stare into its eyes, and the mule would whirl and kick at him. He learned something about sidestepping by avoiding the mule's kick.

• • •

Fitz Had Mesmeric Eye.

One night at Coney Island Fitzsimmons threw Luna Park into a panic by unbolting a lion cage and slipping in among the lions while the keeper wasn't looking. The lions began to growl, and the attendants found Bob trying to stare down one of the biggest lions, which was growing very nervous, not understanding Bob's scientific interest in eye experiments. The keepers rescued Bob just in time. When Bob was an old timer he fought a young giant named Con Coughlan. He stood in his corner before the fight and stared steadily acrosse the ring at Con. When the fight began Bob moved out slowly, keeping his mesmeric glare on Con's optics. Con moved out and stood in front of Fitz without even lifting his hands. Fitz had to ask him to put his hands up and defend himself. Con lifted his hands, but didn't move, and Fitz slipped the punch over.

• • •

John L. Sullivan's savage glare sometimes frightened his ring victims into almost jumping over the ropes.

Of the fighters with catlike eyes Willie Lewis, famous for his one-two punch years ago, was one. He had a terrific wallop. Stanley Ketchel had very sharp eyes. So did Gus Ruhlin, and most of the old time punchers. Kid McCoy was an exception. When about to deliver a knockout blow McCoy wore an apologetic look that was very deceptive. His idea of "giving them the eye" was to look so mild and helpless they wouldn't suspect that he was planning anything disastrous.

• • •

Jack Sharkey has sharp three cornered eyes. Gene Tunney's eyes are almost exactly like those of a big cat, being perfectly triangular in form. Gene is something of a sharpshooter, and he's tricky.

• •

Babe Ruth has these catlike eyes. He says that most of his efectiveness in batting comes from having an exertmely quick eye. Lou Gehrig, who is giving Babe a great battle for the year's home run record, has very clear eyes, somewhat narrow but not catlike.

• • •

JEFFRIES EYE KEEN.

Jim Jeffries has bold, staring, triangular eyes. Jeff never even blinked when he was hit on the chin. He handled that left had of his just about the way he shoots, and he is one of the best shots with rifle or pistol that I ever saw. One of Jeff's favorite tricks is to take a six shooter, have someone throw a tin can along the ground, and keen the can tumbling by hitting it with all six bullets. In doing this he shoots like the old time frontiersmen, not raising the gun to use the sights but shooting from the hip, depending on his co-ordination of hand and eye for aim.

"Lefty Grove got a home run the other day. Which equals Babe Ruth's season record—comparin' their batt'in' averages."

FREDDY DROPS HARD ONE, 3-2

Warwick Spoils Party With Homer In Ninth

By BLONDY CROSS.

The God of War, Empress of Fate or somebody of equal import is framing on your wronghanded boy friend, Freddy Fussell.

After southpawing their ears down all over the circuit the greater portion of the season in sturdy pursuit of that 20-game victory mark, something has happened to your Freddy. Some guy has tossed a wrench into the machinery, for of late, the eminent portsider no matter how sterling a brand of twisters he may twirl can not seem to cop another.

For instance, Wednesday in the Spudder home-coming matinee at the Gardner play grounds the great Fussell heaved a nobby type of ball all the way and gave up but a paltry three markers and nine hits. Did that win for him? Not so that you can read it in cold black type. His mates had their slugging armor on and they slammed Hal Smith at a fairly lively gait, clogging the runways in nearly every round, but couldn't get them over that last hump.

The result: 13 Spudders were left pawing the loam around the hassocks while only two could cross the plate, Houston winning the series opener, 3 to 2.

Great Duel.

It was a breezy pitchers' duel that saw the home guard take a two-run lead early, saw the Buffs come back midway and knot the count and then saw Bill Warwick, Bison backstop, come up in the ninth with a homer blast over the port palings to give the Junior Cardinals their fourth consecutive triumph over your haughty league leaders.

Wichita Falls tagged Smith for 11 base blows and one scratch hit, but the rangy righthander was boss in the clinches, pairing some sweet pitching with sparkling defense work to hold the lagging leaders in check.

There isn't much to yurp about that game. No alibis. We merely lost another. The domestics pummeled Smith for seven hits and two runs in the first three stanzas. Fate was extraordinarily unkind. It is seldom a club will whip a pitcher for three safeties in one round, as did the Spudders in yestereday's opener, and realize only one run for all this industry. We plunked a pair in the second and couldn't score, then spanked a couple in the third and tallied one. Thereafter, Smith was frugal with base clouts.

Fussell opened the sixth with a single, but couldn't get around, the next three swatsmen retiring in order. Jenkins bagged a double in the seventh after there was one away but it served him naught. Fussell outfooted a bounder to first in the eighth after the infield had turned back Tobin, but we couldn't come through with the pinch punch. Lamb started the ninth with a ringing full-length two-sacker to left. He was cut down at third when Jenkins attempted to sacrifice. Tut made a life at first on the play, but Swenson drove a hard grounder to short and Hock launched a double play.

Couldn't Co-Operate.

The illustrious southpaw strove nobly to win his own game, slamming three singles and drawing a four-ball coupon in four trips. The trouble was he happened to be too far down in the batting order to do any good. If he could have teamed with Lambie in the clean-up slot we might have won in a walk, for Lucy pelted Hal for a brace of singles and that double all on his own. The rest of our bats spoke only in whispers with exception of the first and third couplets when, as already chronicled, we tabulated our two runs.

Turgeon opened the Spudder half of the first frame with a line drive to Martin in left. Then Mann, Griffin and Lamb bingled in succession, filling the bases. Jenkins forced Lamb at second and Mann scored. Swenson forced Jenkins.

Tobin and Fussell singled in the second after there was an out. Turgeon striving hard to pole out one of the lot, popped to Hock. Mann walked and Griffin rocketed to Orsatti in right.

Williams Doubles.

Lamb hoisted out in the third, but Jenkins was safe when Kane kicked his roller. Swenson singled and Williams followed with a loud larrup that rattled the port wall for two bases. Jenkins scored. Tobin fanned, Fussell walked and was forced for the third out by Turgeon.

Orsatti, Roettger and Taylor singled in a row on Fussell in the fourth, scoring a run. Henry went out, short to first, and another tally came in, balancing accounts.

The wronghander and the righthander bore down the remainder of the distance and turned back further possible batting advance until the ninth when with one out, Warwick caught one in the alley, hopped a cripple or something, and drove the agate over the left field fence. The next two hitters were retired. That's about all. We're after them again Thursday afternoon.

MUNICIPAL BAND AND HOST OF FANS GREET RETURNING TEAM

Wichita Falls baseball fans displayed their true colors Wednesday afternoon by turnout en masse and cheering the home-coming Spudders who returned from their most disastrous road trip of the year. Coming back to Wichita Falls after winning only six games and losing 11, the Williams athletes no doubt were quite down in the mouth. But the city's fandom greeted them at the depot with lusty cheers and a brass band just the same, glad-handing the boys and telling them "better luck next time."

It was estimated 1500 or more fans were present when the train bearing the Spudders rolled in shortly after 2 o'clock. The train was late but the Municipal band, led by Director R. A. Brollier, kept everybody pepped up during the wait.

Members of the band who quit work long enough to greet the Spudders with a blare of brass gratis were:

R. A. Brollier, director; Jerry Schneider, L. C. Taylor, Tom McCarty, Walter Bennett, B. P. Boyer, L. V. Lawler, Albert James, "Babe" Malacord, Dannie Oster, L. L. Wilson, Barton Dunning, Dr. H. S. Edington batting for Blackerby in the sixth with the bases full, cleared the sacks with a double to put the Texans in the lead and they were never headed, though each club added to their early score. Spudders Come Back After Buffs In Grudge Go

After that tough loss to the Houston Cardinals here Wednesday, the Spudders stand five and a half games in the league lead and nervously awaiting the gong that sends them into the fray again Thursday afternoon in quest of revenge over those persistent Buffs.

Cheered by a goodly turn-out of fans to meet them at the train as they rolled in yesterday, the Spudders were given a let-down more or less at the orchard when hardly more than a handful of rooters showed up at the park to aid in pulling them out of their slump. Only 2400 paid admissions were checked off by the turnstiles. That's a poor start in comparison to the manner in which Houston fans jammed the Bison park and rooted the Buffs to victory in three straight at Houston last week. More than 12,000 fans poured in behind the Buffs over that three-day span in Houston.

Manager Carl Williams has selected Tom Estell to serve his spit spirals up at the Buffs this afternoon. If Tom is right, the enemy can expect to stiff bit of sledding.

The Spudders back home after a rigorous road jaunt, hope with one night's rest to come back in fine fettle against the invaders and salvage the series by winning the next two games. The Houston team plays here Friday, Ladies' Day, also.

BOSTON, Aug. 10. (AP)—The Braves and Philadelphia divided a double-header here today, the Phillies taking the opener, 6 to 4, behind Pruett's air-tight pitching and the Braves gathering in the finale, 5 to 1, when Bob Smith let the Quakers down with five hits. The score:

Sports Done Brown

By NORMAN E. BROWN

If you were Colonel Jake Ruppert.

And had a monopoly on the home run stars in Ruth and Gehrig.

And found that, from a business standpoint the monopoly really threatened to cut your gate receipts by making the American league a one-team affair.

And decided to peddle one of the two.

Which one would you trade or sell?

This question, off hand, may sound a bit foolish.

Such a situation, however, is not beyond the range of possibilities in view of the situation now coming to a head. American league moguls are already discussing means of "evening up" the league by bolstering the weaker teams—partly at the expense of the Yankee club.

As long as the Yanks keep both Gehrig and Ruth they bid fair to hog the honors—as well as the home runs. Home runs are still the life of the party.

So the colonel may come face to face with the task of deciding the above problem.

Off hand our thought would be to sell Ruth.

Why?

• • •

Well, first of all, Ruth is headed toward the sunset side of his career, no matter how far distant the end is. He has been king of the home run hitters for eight years—since he first startled the world with his hitting in 1919. He can not go on forever, of course.

Gehrig is just coming up. He has years ahead of him. One can feel that he has not yet reached the peak—great hitter that he already seems.

Ruth, in another uniform, would pack the stadium every time he came to New York. Gehrig, continuing at his present gate, would become the new Babe Ruth to New Yorkers. He is the only man in the game who might eventually step into the Behemoth's shoes.

Ruth, because he is Ruth, would carry his tremendous drawing power wherever he went. He is still Ruth. Which means that were he to remain with the Yankees they would still have the greatest drawing card in baseball, and the other measures made to equalize things would be somewhat futile.

Interesting food for thought, this.

The Yankees acquired Ruth by paying what was then a record price for a single ball player—and still is. The price was $125,000. Gehrig cost them practically nothing. He came to the Yankees as a youngster out of college.

Gehrig had made a reputation as a home run hitter in the Eastern league in the short time he served there. Others, however, have come to the big show with a record equally as brilliant. The Yankees felt that they were getting a great batter but it is reasonable to suggest that they had no idea they were acquiring the nearest approach to Babe Ruth the game has produced when they signed Lou.

GIANT 'POWER' IN OPERATION

Group One Corp. Opens $27,000 Plant

Special to The Record News.

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 10.—Group 1 Oil corporation in the Reagan county oil fields this week will begin the greatest oil field pumping operations from a central power in the world, when ten deep wells will be operated by the gigantic operatic unit. The pumping plant has just been completed at a cost of $27,000.

Much interest has been shown in the oil fields concerning the operation of the plant. O. C. Staples, manager of the machinery department of Frick-Reid company, who has headquartrs in Tulsa, and J. N. Martin of the Ratigan company, manufacturers of oil field supplies, are here to see the plant in operation.

The ten wells on which the central plant will be applied are approximately 3000 feet deep and producing around 3600 barrels a day. Wells of such depth and production ordinarily have a separate gas engine and pump for each well.

Empire To Start 6666 Ranch Development

AMARILLO, Aug. 10.—The Empire Gas and Fuel company is ready to start drilling at the six locations it has made on the famous 6666 ranch of the Burnett estate, north of Panhandle in Carson county.

Five will be drilled with standard tools, being No. 1 in the center of the southwest of section 55, block 5; No. 2 in the center of the northeast of section 23; No. 3 in the center of the northwest of section 44; No. 7 in the center of the southeast of section 49, and No. 9 in the center of the northeast of section 50. These are all in I. & G. N. survey.

The rotary test will be No. 10, in the center of the southwest of section 52.

Storage Tanks Full

AMARILLO, Aug. 10.—Finding its field storage tanks full of crude oil, due to the partial inactivity of its pipe line, the Prairie Oil and Gas company has found it necessary to procure additional storage for its daily production in the Panhandle field.

The 55,000 barrel steel tank of the Triangle Oil company of Amarillo, in the west half of the northwest of section 5, block Y, of south Hutchinson county, has been tested out and purchased.

New Producers in Seminole Field Cause Small Gain in Production

TULSA, Aug. 10.—Seminole operators could not reduce their production yesterday. It increased 676 barrels from 483,366 Monday morning to 484,042 yesterday morning.

It was explained that the failure to reduce was due to a number of new wells, none of them sensational, however. Bowlegs, including the Little River pool of one well, decreased about 8000 barrels, while Earlsboro gained about 10,000 barrels.

One of the new wells was the Independent Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Gaines, SE NE NE of 11-9-5, which made 150 barrels an hour. There were 2500 feet of oil in the hole Monday. The pay was hit at 4270 feet and drilled four feet in.

Another well which ran production higher was that of J. E. Crosble of Tulsa, in his No. 1 Bryant, in 9-9-5, which made 7840 barrels during the 24-hour period ending at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning. The well first came in last April 12, for an initial production of more than 6000 barrels. It caved in July 31. Just prior to the cave in it was producing about 4000 barrels daily. The hole was cleaned out Monday. More than 250 feet of cave-in was removed.

Production figures for yesterday and Monday follows:

Pool—	Monday.	Tuesday
Bowlegs	180,838	162,504
Little River	.....	10,260
Earlsboro	195,688	205,656
Seminole	76,976	75,535
Searight	29,866	30,087
Total	482,366	484,042

Increase 676 barrels.

Apex Oil Company Pays First Dividend

The Apex was organized in March, 1926, by H. E. Smith, Dr. J. R. Krather, H. M. Radey, H. W. Blackburn and G. G. Ordway. With a paid up capital of $35,000 it drilled two wells on the east half of the northwest of the southwest of section 11, block Y, of M. & C. survey, in south Hutchinson county, and the dividend is the first that it has made. Its two wells are paid out, every expense being paid out of the daily production, now averaging a gross output of 550 barrels.

AMARILLO, Aug. 10.—The oil area of the Sanford-Paramount pool, in southwestern Hutchinson county, has been extended to the west.

Cotton--Stocks--Latest Market Quotations--Grain--Cattle

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, Aug. 10. (AP)—Speculative interest in today's stock market centered largely in a select group of public utilities and specialties, more than a dozen of which were marked up to new high records. Considerable irregularity developed in the general list with professional traders showing a disposition to restrict commitments until the market found a new stimulant in the outside news.

The increase of 88,768 tons in the July unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation was offset somewhat by the fact that steel ingot production that month was the lowest of any since July 1925 and that there has been a weakening tendency in the price of heavier materials. U. S. Steel common closed a point lower at 132⅝ after having sold as high as 134⅜. Bethlehem crossed 62 to a new peak with buying stimulated by the decision of the federal government to go ahead with its naval building program, but it later lost all its gain.

Rails started upward at the start on buying presumably influenced by the report that freight traffic in the last week of July showed a substantial gain over the preceding week, but they failed to maintain their gains. Revival of speculative activities on a large scale in the rails is not expected before next month when the interstate commerce commission will again take up the merger question. Expectation of relatively poor July earnings statements, soon to make their appearance, also is a depressing factor.

Extreme nervousness characterized the trading in General Motors because of the uncertainty surrounding the dividend action to be taken by directors at tomorrow's meeting. The stock closed 1⅜ points net higher at 225⅝ after fluctuating between 226 and 223. Yellow Truck touched another new high at 40 and then sold down to 38¾, off 1 point net. Mack Trucks broke nearly 4 points to 95 and then rallied above 99. Most of the other motors moved within rather narrow limits.

Baldwin was run up to a new record high at 254 at the expense of an over crowded short interest and then sold down to 249¾ for a small fractional net loss on the day.

Call money was in liberal supply all day at the renewal figure of 3½ per cent. Other rates were unchanged.

A jump of about 10 points in Spanish pesetas to just below 17 cents was the only change of consequence in the foreign exchange market. Sterling held steady around its recent high level and cables on Paris were unchanged at 3.92 cents.

Bears Caught in Trap by Wall Street Start Wild Rumors In Vain Effort To Force Liquidation

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, Aug. 10.—The bears found themselves caught in a trap in the stock market today, and started all manner of rumors in an endeavor to influence liquidation that would permit them to get out of their bad fix. High grade industrial leaders were taken in hand and moved ahead vigorously right at the opening. This quickly caused the more timid bears to rush to cover and their buying pushed prices higher.

The market slowed down around noon but despite the windspread bearish propaganda all selling during the afternoon was well absorbed and the industrials closed a little higher on the average. The General Motors meeting, scheduled for tomorrow afternoon, was the main topic of the trading community but politics, steel conditions and all other factors were played up in as poor a light as possible.

Cotton quieted while profit taking influenced by recent advance was absorbed. The grain options held firm. Foreign exchange ruled steady while call money was in abundant supply at 3 3-4 per cent.

Even money was bet on the floor at the close, that there would be no splitup of General Motors stock at this time. Those who have been right in the past, however, are confident that the recapitalization will be announced after the close. They point to evidence of the best kind of support to the stock market recently as an indication. Even if there were a postponement it would not be construed bearishly inasmuch as it leaves the best of news ahead for stockholders.

Brooklyn Union Gas and Brooklyn Edison, the salient facts regarding which have been pointed out in this column from time to time, were the outstanding features of the day. They moved vigorously ahead of new high record prices as the same interests continued to take all stock offered. The continued denials of the management of the merger report makes no difference to this class of buying. It would not be a surprise if control of one or both companies suddenly shows up in the hands of Pennsylvania interests, however.

Consolidated Gas was in better demand at steadily advancing prices as the belief persists that a $6 dividend will eventually be ordered. A stock of the status of Consolidated Gas, under present money conditions, it is figured, is entitled to sell to yield less than 5 per cent.

United States Steel, Bethlehem and others in the group were moving ahead nicely when the weekly trade reviews made their appearance and were seized upon as the signal for application of pressure. Early gains were wiped out but support was evidenced that prevented any decline of consequence.

It was true that the weekly reviews told of falling off in business, however, but as it was only a week ago that they told of indications of "early improvements" they are not to be taken too seriously. Officials of steel companies expect fall buying to make its appearance soon and in the meantime the operations now are sufficient to indicate satisfactory earnings for the third quarter for most companies.

American Linseed and Yellow Truck rose to new highs for the move off somewhat in the afternoon irregularity but their action continued pleasing inasmuch as they were entitled to some reaction after the advance they have enjoyed.

Both stocks now harbor a good sized short interest, as many professionals cannot get away from the idea that stocks always are bought on current earnings and not on future prospects. The best buying of Yellow Truck is on dips and is with the intention of holding for the "long pull." The buyers include some who purchased the old General Motors back in 1921 and still have their interest in that corporation.

Railroad shares continued to be overshadowed by the industrials for the rails feel the effect of what political influence there is at work more than any other group. That is because the speculative community feels there is little chance of the rail magnates giving up their ideas of how mergers should be consummated to an extent that will bring approval of the commerce commission to the consolidations before congress convenes. Therefore, it is feared the entire railroad merger question will be the subject of new legislation.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10. (AP)—Renewal of frost and rust reports from spring crop territory brought about active buying of wheat toward the last today and consequent higher prices. Earlier the market averaged lower because of selling based on wheat would prove bearish.

Wheat closed firm, 1⅝ to 2¼c net higher, corn ⅝ to 1⅞c up, oats at ⅛ to ¾c advance, and provisions varying from 10c decline to a rise of 20c.

The government estimate of corn yield turned out to be practically identical with recent unofficial forecasts which for the most part ranged from 2,350,000,000 to 2,400,000,000 bushels broadening general demand for corn today with all deliveries touching a new high price record for the season was based largely on temperatures persisting too low for the best development of the crop. Oats also reached new top level prices for the season. Threshing returns continued d sappointing.

The outstanding influence regarding provisions was likelihood of a big increase of lard stocks this month.

GRAINS CLOSE AT INCREASE

Buying On Large Scale Boosts Prices

BY CHARLES J. LEYDEN.
Universal Service Staff Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.—All grains closed higher today, the buying of wheat being on a large scale after the first hour, the bearish news from abroad being taken advantage of to increase long lines. Liverpool was weak, there was selling in anticipation of the government report, and on better weather conditions here and abroad in wheat, but the market was given support and prices rallied to the highest point for the present movement. Corn also rallied sharply on rather general buying and oats and rye also were firmer. Black rust and frost news was under the wheat market.

Profit taking at the last shaded best prices for the day in all pits, but the general demand was good. Closing prices were 1⅝ to 2c up for wheat; 1 to 1¼c up for corn; oats ⅝ to ¾c higher; rye 1 to 1¼c up.

Buying of oats was on a fairly active scale, and the market had several sharp rallies.

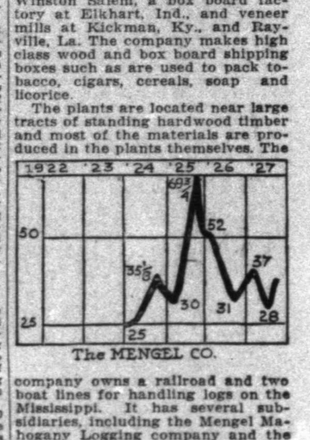

Rye moved up with wheat but there was little in the news to stimulate any heavy buying of rye on its own account.

ALLEGED BOND JUMPER HELD

City Officers Engage In Mud Battle

Manuel Bridges, arrested about midnight Tuesday after a muddy battle with officers on the Burkburnett road, wanted here to answer an indictment charging the alleged theft of an automobile from Horace Robbins over a year ago, is being held in the county jail without bond to face trial in district court on September 19, and for the further disposition of officials at Fort Worth, who wired early Wednesday afternoon that the accused is wanted there in connection with the theft of a car several days ago. Charges in the latter connection have already been filed, and the car was recovered Wednesday by local police.

Two other charges of theft of automobiles await the accused in Fort Worth, it was learned.

Five officers of the city force, tipped off that the accused had arrived in town, located the man late Tuesday night, and a free for all fight ensued when resistance to arrest was apparent, officers related. Motorcycle Officers Ellis Summers and Homer Bentley, who finally subdued the man, arrived at police headquarters smeared with mud from the affray.

Bridges was arrested here some six months ago and indicted for the alleged theft of the Wichita Falls car. Bond of $1000 was given, which was forfeited when the defendant failed to appear for trial. Robbin's car was later found.

Sheik's Brother Dolls Up To Get Job In Moviedom

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 10. (AP)—The Examiner says Alberto Guglielmi, brother of the late Rudolph Valentino, emerged yesterday after an hour under the knife of a plastic surgeon during which he obtained a revamped profile.

By reason of a remade nose he expects to make his entry into motion pictures and follow his brother's footsteps to film fame.

The new nose is said to be made of classic proportions and shape and gives the profile a marked resemblance to that of Valentino.

Much Interest Shown In Christian Revival

Continued interest in the Adams Street Christian church revival and a record attendance each night to hear the sermons of the Rev. D. S. Ligon, visiting evangelist, is reported, and the revival is taking on larger proportions each evening as special program features are added.

In addition to the sermons each night, vocal solos are rendered by Guy E. Curtis, educational director of the First Christian church.

A feature of the Wednesday night service was a baritone-tenor duet by Mayor R. E. Shepherd and Mr. Curtis, accompanied by Mrs. Shepherd at the piano.

McGown Tells Lions of Experiences Of Wichita Delegates in California

Experiences of the Wichita Falls delegation which recently returned from an educational tour through California to study irrigation and farm methods were related by G. C. McGown, Wichita county agricultural agent, and J. W. Lyle, before the Lions' club, assembled in their weekly luncheon Wednesday.

A thorough inspection of the possibilities and the advancement of agriculture in California impressed the entire delegation, Mr. McGown said, "but most of us on the trip agreed that Wichita Falls is located in an area with better opportunities and better natural resources than California."

While in Los Angeles, Mr. McGown related, the delegation for one day was entertained by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, and an interesting trip was made to an 18,000-acre farm about 52 miles from the city, where innovations in the division of the land were noted. Other phases of the dairy industry, chicken raising, and intensive farming were outlined by the two men, who graphically presented a picture of agricultural progress to members of the club.

Suggestion advanced by P. B. Curd that the Lions club inter-city meeting with the clubs of Vernon and Burkburnett be started in September of this year was referred to the committee on inter-city relationships. E. F. Bohmfalk led the group singing.

Officers of all departments in Wichita Falls and surrounding communities were swinging a drag net through North Texas and Oklahoma Wednesday for the apprehension of a man alleged to have given worthless checks here Tuesday for $900, for the purchase of three automobiles from the Birch Motor company. A reward has been offered for his arrest.

Charges of embezzlement over $50 have been formally entered against the man, said to be about 28 years of age, by Assistant District Attorney E. F. Fruechte. He is thought to be driving with a 12-year-old boy, supposedly his brother, in an Oldsmobile coach.

Mary Belknap, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Bloomingdale, 2115 Kemp, employe of the Noble Hardware company, was not aware of the girl until he heard her screams when she fell as the truck rounded the corner of 15th and Lamar, police said.

The girl was taken to her home and given medical attention. Her injuries are not serious. The driver of the truck is not held responsible, police said.

Four Contenders for Honolulu Flight Prize

pump. Captain Erwin also took a spare pump which probably will be installed by Wright men at the Oakland field. It was not installed here partly because it was not indispensable, and partly because of lack of time, since Erwin would have been disqualified if he had not taken the air before sundown.

Wears Business Suit.

Erwin again wore the business suit and straw hat which the enclosed plane made possible, but he put a helmet aboard as well. He appeared somewhat nervous at the recurring delays, especially after the fatal crash of two Dole fliers at Point Loma, Calif., today, which his backers and friends unsuccessfully tried to keep from him.

Tonight's leave-taking was brief and simple in comparison with that of last night and the 2500 persons present heaved a sigh of relief when the green and silver "Swallow" monoplane left the ground in the face of a light westward breeze and lowering clouds which the weather forecast said would be his companions for most of the 15-hour journey to Oakland.

The body of Erwin's plane is green and the wings silver. The name "Dallas Spirit" appears on the fuselage on either side, just under the wings, while on each side of the nose, in smaller letters "William E. Easterwood Jr., Dallas-to-Hongkong flight" is painted. The identifying numerals are "9x941."

Wind On Tail.

A strong westerly wind much of the way, thunderstorms between Dallas and El Paso, and thunderstorms in California was the weather forecast, which was much less favorable than it was last night.

TWO PACIFIC FLIGHT ENTRANTS ARE KILLED

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Aug. 10. (AP)—Lieutenants George Covell and Richard S. Waggener were killed today in the crash of the airplane they had entered for the Dole flight to Honolulu Friday. Fifteen minutes after they left their station at North Island their machine struck the lofty promonotory of Point Loma, which was hidden in fog.

The plane burst into flames and rolled to the foot of a gully, a mass of burning wreckage. Covell and Waggener, imprisoned in the cockpit, of the plane, did not have a chance to escape, as the plane rolled over and over down the side of the gully. Both were caught in the wreckage and their bodies were badly charred.

Three Injured When Two Cars Flip After Collision On Henrietta Road

Three persons were injured and two cars were hurled over as they crashed into a ditch, when the Dodge sedan driven by D. R. Gurley, Waco, collided with a Ford sedan driven by S. T. Tipton, of Tipton, Okla., nine miles out on the Henrietta road in Clay county, shortly before 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Orine Tipton, 2-year-old daughter of Mr. Tipton, and Dedilah, 7 years old, were both bruised in the head, and Delilah's lips were severely cut, according to Mr. Tipton. Venoy, his 4-year-old son, and his wife, who were also in the car, were uninjured.

Mr. Gurley sustained a painful gash on the forehead and a gash in the left elbow. His injuries are not serious.

According to Mr. Tipton, who reported the accident to police, Mr. Gurley was attempting to pass the Tipton car when he met another coming from the opposite direction. In an effort to escape being hit by the approaching car he steered to the right, colliding with the Tipton Ford.

Gurley's car was turned completely over, landing on its wheels, and successfully made the trip to Wichita Falls, where Mr. Gurley is the guest of W. W. Fraser, vice president of the American Pipeline company.
