

Efforts to cleanup old cemetery to begin

By Helena Rodriguez

There are many places which can be considered historical sites around Bailey County, but perhaps no place can tell more about the history of this area than the old cemetery, located three miles north and 2-1/2 miles west of Muleshoe.

The place is often referred to as the Old Muleshoe Cemetery and is the final resting place of a diverse population, from pioneers of the early 1900s to World War I and II veterans to the great-grandparents of a native Muleshoe man and famous actor Lee Horsley.

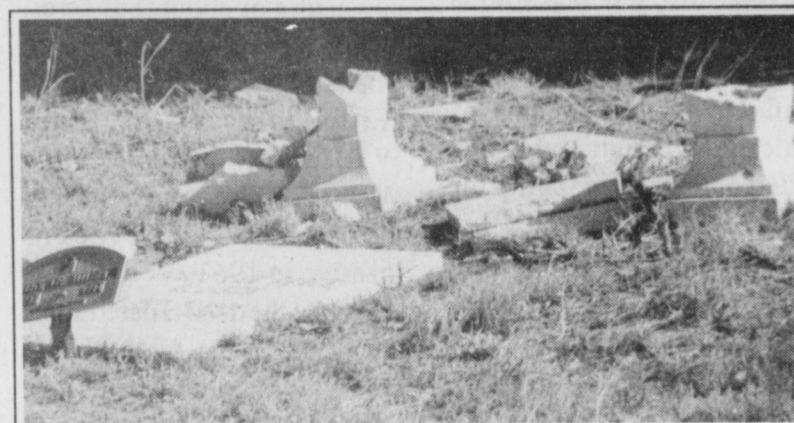

To help preserve this history, as well as the burial place of the "loved ones" of many, one former Muleshoe resident is initiating efforts to help clean up the old cemetery.

The old cemetery is not a perpetual care cemetery and a cemetery caretaker assigned by Bailey County has limited duties of mowing and performing other basic cleanups. As he has many other duties though, Johnny Howard, the county's maintenance engineer, is limited on what he can do out there.

Therefore, it is up to indi-

SIGNS OF POSSIBLE VANDALISM — Although the incidents appear isolated, vandalism at the Old Muleshoe Cemetery is suspected.

Step program to teach about effective parenting

Improving parent-child relationships will be the focus of a series of discussion sessions beginning Thursday, Feb. 23 at 6:30 p.m. at the CPC-MHMR Outpatient Office, located at 119 East Ave. C. in Muleshoe.

The program is being sponsored by CPC-MHMR Project STAND.

The discussion will be based on "Systematic Training for Effective Parenting (STEP), the most widely used parenting education program in the country.

More than two million people throughout the United States, Canada and other countries have participated in STEP discussion groups and used the accompanying "Parent's handbook" since the program was introduced in 1976 by the American Guidance Service (AGS) of Circle Pines, Minn.

STEP encourages mutual respect between parent and child, increased cooperation, more effective communication and a more responsible, self-reliant attitude among children.

The community's interest in parenting education is part of a nationwide trend. A nationwide survey conducted by AGS showed that parenting education is a growing phenomenon, sponsored by hundreds of diverse groups and organizations and conducted by thousands of individuals throughout the country.

The trend in parenting education is a result of many social changes in the U.S. These include changing roles for mothers, a shift away from the autocratic "Father Knows Best" value system to a more democratic viewpoint and the increasing mobility of families.

The survey showed that very diverse organizations sponsor STEP groups: schools, religious groups, community centers, social service agencies, mental health centers, hospitals, individuals and state and local government agencies.

Of the 1,300 STEP leaders who responded to the survey, 88 percent said they received positive feedback from parents about the program. Only two percent reported any negative feedback.

The parents who participated in STEP groups said they found the program beneficial for many reasons.

Some STEP leaders spoke

HATS OFF — A "Hats Off to the Muleshoe School Board" luncheon was held Thursday at Dillman Elementary School in recognition of School Board Recognition Month, which has been proclaimed for the month of February. The school board members were presented with unusual hats to wear during the "Hats Off" celebration.

Lazbuddie cancels school due to many illnesses

School in Lazbuddie was cancelled on Friday due to an above-average number of students and staff members who were reportedly ill. Lazbuddie Schools Superintendent Phil Warren said that on Thursday 30 percent of the school's students were absent due to illnesses. Lazbuddie schools have 230 students and about 48 were absent on Thursday.

Warren said the large number of illnesses prompted Lazbuddie ISD to cancel school on Friday and use a bad weather day which the schools had originally planned on using in May.

On Thursday Warren said, "We sent home several students during the day and we have had to call in all of the substitute teachers that we have. We also have other people here working today who are sick. I think just about everybody is running temperatures and coughing."

Warren said that most of the students who were ill had flu-like symptoms in what he believes is a virus going around.

"We have never had this many students gone due to illness before," Warren said. "In winter time there usually is a lot of illnesses, but not enough to close school like this."

Warren said that most of the students who were absent on Thursday were in Pre-Kinderergarten through 5th grade. In the elementary school alone on Thursday, 35 students were absent.

Summer Youth Employment Program to get underway; businesses support wanted

Plans have already been started for this year's Summer Youth Employment program which is scheduled to begin in June. The Summer Youth Employment Program is one of the most gratifying, yet challenging programs administered through the South Plains Rural Private Industry Council (SPRPIC).

Last year's program ended on Aug. 31 in 1994 and provided jobs and/or training for 238 students in the 13 rural counties served by SPRPIC.

It was the first experience in the Summer Youth Program for 12 students from Bailey County, and it was possibly the only opportunity they had to actually earn a salary during a summer.

Bailey County employers and worksite supervisors are appreciated by the South Plains Community Action and the students they supervise. Without their willingness to mentor, share knowledge and take responsibility for employing the youth for the summer, the program would be difficult to operate.

Roseann Gloria, secretary of the Muleshoe Housing Authority, has worked with the Summer Program for six years. She said, "The students I have supervised have learned secretarial skills and responsibility. The academic enrichment the students receive also help them with job skills needed to work on the computer."

Donna Kirk, secretary for Bailey County Judge Marilyn Cox, has worked with the Summer Program for four years and thinks it is good for the students to get some kind of work experience and to be able to carry on so they can be able to get a job later in life.

She said, "The summer youth work experience lets vidual burial lot owners to maintain their property and gravesites. But a water well, which has been inoperable at the site for years, has made it difficult to maintain graves out there. Mike Gray of Clovis, N.M., the man who is trying to organize the effort to clean up the old cemetery, has contacted Wilson Drilling of Muleshoe though, who has pulled out the water pump for repair. This is a start.

The old cemetery is already equipped to make water easily accessible to graves, with water hydrants lined down every section.

But there is also concern over occasional sprees of vandalism and even incidents of vehicles driving over graves, perhaps due to a lack of lighting out there.

"I just think that people with friends and family out here ought to know what is going on," Gray said. "And maybe we can get some volunteers to start meeting and get some activity going on out there."

Gray became concerned about the situation at the old cemetery when he wanted to place a tombstone on his mother's grave. He said he was hesitant because of the lack of running water, as well as some possible vandalism.

Gray said that possible incidents of vandalism are probably not in epidemic proportions, but signs such as shattered vases from tombstones with shell marks on them, beer cans and car tire tracks running over the area where graves are located is evidence that there is some.

Donna Kirk, secretary for Bailey County Judge Marilyn Cox, said that according to county records, the Bailey County Commissioner's Court agreed to appropriate funds to pay the salary of the cemetery caretaker at the request of the Bailey County Cemetery Association in 1951, but again, the caretaker's ability to maintain the area is limited.

The Bailey County Cemetery Association purchased the original parcel of land, consisting of about four acres, at the old cemetery in 1919. The land was sold to the association for $1 by Emil Wellsandt and Anna Wellsandt. The association ran the cemetery until it became inactive in 1961.

While the deed is dated April 18, 1919, some of the headstones at the old cemetery reveal burials earlier than that. Additional acreage was deeded to the cemetery association in the 1930s by Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Wollard. By 1939, the cemetery had reached its present size.

Today, the county judge's office maintains the business of the cemetery, including sale of lots, records, management, etc. But the cemetery property belongs to the Cemetery Association and individual gravesites belong to the people and families who purchased them.

Gray, with the assistance of Kirk in the county judge's office, plans to set up a fund for the old cemetery at First Bank of Muleshoe where donations can be made to help make repairs. Also, Gray plans to send letters to lot owners at the old cemetery to inform them and try to set up a meeting.

Gray has already made some progress on his own. He visited with people at Bailey County Electric and Bailey County Electric has agreed to help get some flood lights installed out there.

Also County Commissioner Butch Vandiver of Leo's Blacksmith Shop has said he will see what he or the county can do to help fix up roads out there.

Many graves have become defaced, unmarked and unkept over the years. Gray speculates it is probably because family members of the people buried out there no longer live in the Muleshoe area or are no longer alive.

But for families such as Mike Gray's, who actively maintain their family's gravesites, there is reason to launch a community effort. Gray's grandparents and many relatives are also buried in the old Muleshoe Cemetery. Gray moved from Muleshoe to Clovis in 1965.

Gray has proceeded with his plans to purchase a tombstone for his mother's grave and hopes others who may have had similar concerns will feel better about it now and support the clean up effort.

Gray said additional clean up that is needed is clearing up trees and shrubs, building curbs and putting fertilizer if possible. He hopes that through meetings, perhaps volunteers will check on the cemetery at times to discourage vandals. Gray wants to launch a campaign to let vandals known that vandalism laws will be fully enforced if they are caught and feels the community will be willing to help.

"I know we can't have people out here all the time to catch everything, but if we create an awareness, that will help," Gray said.

Most of the space at the old cemetery is filled up and with the new Muleshoe Memorial Park Cemetery located on Highway 84, which was established in 1954 and is a perpetual care cemetery operated by Muleshoe Memorial Park Cemetery Inc., there are few new graves at the old cemetery. But space is still available and is mainly bought by people who have family members already buried there.

Also at the old cemetery is a section known as Hilltop, where lots are less expensive. This area is mainly used as a burial area for indigents or for people who have relatives buried there.

Funds from the sale of spaces at the old cemetery go into a general operational fund which pays for expenditures such as electricity, gasoline, supplies and mower repairs.

Records at the county judge's office show that the old cemetery was once segregated during the early 1900s like many cemeteries, but like much of the Old Muleshoe Cemetery, that is now a part of history.

Correction

Wrong information

A front page story on page 1 in the Sunday, Feb. 5 edition of the Bailey County Journal on area cotton gins contained incorrect information.

In the Feb. 5 story it was reported that the needmore Co-

The Journal regrets this error and hopes it has not cause anyone an inconvenience.

Construction plans for farm to market road being finalized

The Texas Department of Transportation has announced the beginning of a more advanced phase of planning for the proposed extension of Farm-to-Market Highway 1731 in southwestern Bailey County.

Based on previous planning, coordination with Bailey County officials, environmental studies and information received from a public hearing held on Oct. 188; work has been started on detailed construction plans.

Property owners along the F.M. 1731 extension route are currently being notified if their property is needed for highway right-of-way.

Information about the further development of this proposed project may be obtained from Stevan Perez, P.E., Area Engineer at the Littlefield Area Engineer's Office on West Delano Street in Littlefield, or by calling Perez at (806)385-3552.

As soon as plan work has been completed, necessary right-of-way has been acquired, utilities are moved and construction funds are available, this project will be scheduled for construction by the Texas Department of Transportation.

Guess What Broke So We Could Talk on Ski Break?

I had a good visit with my youngest son on Monday afternoon.

One more time I was surprised by the interesting insight that can come out of an eight-year-old's mouth! And, one more time, it occurred to me that I really need to take the talk to loved ones, we must swallow the pride that blocks our throats, cuts off communication, and strangles relationships. "I love you" and "I'm sorry" are phrases that flush out pride and unblock airways.

The second factor is simply this: We have to make time to talk. We may not want a son or daughter to interrupt us and need to talk during our most important meeting, our busiest time of day, etc., but they had better know that they can and that no client or task or parishioner is even nearly as important to us as they are.

Joshua and I talked Monday. We were hanging thirty feet in the air on a ski lift at Ruidoso at the time. It was sleeting and snowing. We were freezing. The lift was not moving. Mechanical gremlins conspired to keep us hanging within easy sight of the top of our slope for fifteen minutes while we sat on icicles. The guy several chairs back who'd just bought a lift ticket and had hoped to make his first run of the day was cursing pine trees.

But my arm was around Joshua. We were freezing. But we talked. And for that, I'm thankful. I just don't want to wait for another ski lift to break before it happens again!

time to listen to my kids. I always learn something!

At this point in life's journey, I'm thankful for the open communication that my sons and I have enjoyed. That we can talk with no hidden agendas or buried bitterness is something for which I thank God daily. I'm not naive enough to believe that with little effort it will always be that way. Nor am I cynical enough to think that teen years and hormones spell sure death to communication, though they certainly make it a challenge.

In my limited experience, two factors are the biggest barriers to real communication.

Number One is pride, still the deadliest of sins. To really

4-Hers now selling fruit baskets

The Muleshoe 4-H Exchange members, consisting of Bailey, Cochran and Lamb County 4-Hers, are taking orders for Easter fruit gift baskets. This project has been chosen as one method of fundraising toward hosting 4-Hers and their sponsors from Dearborn and Ripley counties in Indiana in this area June 18-24. In 1996, these same local students will be travelling to Indiana as part of the Exchange Program.

The Easter fruit baskets come in two sizes. The small basket has 16 pieces of fruit, including apples, oranges, pears and grapefruit. The larger basket has 25 pieces of fruit. The baskets will be wrapped and decorated for Easter.

Orders may be placed with any 4-H exchange member by March 10 to insure fruit is delivered on time. For names of 4-H exchange members, call the Bailey County Extension Office in any of three participating counties.

All of the profits made will be used to defray costs of entertaining out-of-state visitors and travelling to their state in 1996.

This program offers 4-H teen members an opportunity to travel, make new friends, explore expanding interests, experience how others live and become better acquainted with their own 4-H club members by sharing these opportunities.

Exchange programs are conducted and sponsored in cooperation with the county Extension Service Office.

The deadline for news items to be submitted to the Muleshoe and Bailey County Journals is at noon on the preceding Tuesday for the Thursday edition and at noon on the preceding Friday for the Sunday edition. (Copy deadlines for society news: wedding, anniversary, engagement and birthday announcements are at 5 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday for the Thursday and Sunday editions.)

CLOVERLEAF SAFETY

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH
THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

© Coleman Adv.

Two main highways and heavy traffic lead to death dealing accidents. The remedy... have one highway pass over the other, and lanes coming out in a cloverleaf shape to provide access to each highway, thus giving safety.

The Lord, our God, is our protection, and through his word, God shows us the right way.

"He keepeth the paths of judgment, and preserveth the way of his saints. Then shalt thou understand righteousness, and judgment, and equity; yea, every good path."

Summer

students have some responsibility and be able to make decisions on their own. They develop pride and satisfaction from working."

The national emphasis for the Summer Youth Employment and Training Program for two years has been enriching the academic status of students in the program. For the program during the summer of 1993, South Plains Community Action provided academic enrichment to 40 percent of the participants. In 1994, 68 percent received academic enrichment based upon their need.

The need to bridge the gap between education and work experience will be another main goal of the new program. Many students fail to make the connection between what is learned in the classroom and how it applies to the work world.

Research shows that strong work/school connections have a significant payoff in terms of skills development and long-term employability. Therefore, next year's program will be designed to help youth discover how remaining in school and getting a good education will help them with future job pursuits and career options by offering them actual learning experiences on the job.

The academic enrichment this last summer enabled many students to pass state requirements, mastery tests, raise grade levels and pass to the next grade.

The new Summer Youth Program will encourage learning by allowing students to take more responsibility for the work to be done. The program will be designed to challenge the youth intellectually.

Work projects under the professional supervision of worksite mentors will allow students to research, plan, implement and evaluate their work. The key factor in successfully emphasizing learning through increased responsibility is worksite supervisors.

South Plains Community Action is interested in supervisors who want to be mentors to students and allow the students to plan community projects that will challenge the students to call upon a variety of skills and talents.

Plans are underway to develop programs to allow the students to have a rich learning experience during their summer youth job placement. Anyone who has an idea for a community project or who is willing to work closely with a student for an enriching job experience may call the JTPA staff at (806)894-6104 for more information.

Ladies from the Muleshoe Church of Christ brought homemade pies and served them Tuesday afternoon.

Our sympathy goes to the family and friends of Hope King. She will be missed.

Please help us welcome our new resident, Nettie

Mr. Wizard program to be presented at DeShazo

On Wednesday, Feb. 22, the mysteries of science will be explored at DeShazo Elementary School when ECA Educational Services, in conjunction with the Mr. Wizard studios, present Mr. Wizard's Supermarket Science.

New guidelines set by the American Academy for the Advancement of Science ask teachers to use hands-on projects in an effort to improve the science programs in the nation's schools. In keeping with these guidelines, Mr. Wizard Science Assembly Programs demonstrate the science of everyday living using interactive teaching methods.

Don Herbert, better known as "Mr. Wizard" from NBC's Watch Mr. Wizard and Nickelodeon's Mr. Wizard's World, has produced a program to bring this hands-on style of science to Muleshoe at 8:45 a.m.

Although Don Herbert himself will be busy exploring new ways to explain science using everyday items, Don Gaul, his official assistant, will present this fast-paced show guaranteed to educate and entertain.

Inspired by Don Herbert's popular book, Mr. Wizard's Supermarket Science, this live-40-minute school assembly program will challenge your creativity. Student helpers from the audience will use common items found on the shelves of a supermarket in uncommon ways to explain science in everyday living.

Among other things, the students will discover how a baby diaper works, how to crush an egg in your hand (you may not be as strong as you thought!) and how clouds are formed.

This show promotes creative thinking by challenging the audience to think in terms of "functional freedom."

You will never think of a supermarket in the same way again.
