FISHER SLAYER ESCAPES CHAIR

Mrs. Cunnlngham Flays Republicans For Prohibition Failure

Hard to Get Out—
Objections to 13—
Lion Tamers Wanted—
From Archer City—

Wichita county's grand jury returns another bunch of indictments and adjourns "subject to call" without revealing the results of its investigations of breaks by prisoners from the county jail. It is quite likely the jury will resume its sessions to complete the jail investigation, and it is to be hoped it may find a solution of the problem. There have been so many breaks from the jail, and they have been so violent in character it seems the members of the jury will perform a real service if they can suggest a solution of the matter.

A number of prisoners have escaped at various times from the city jail, due to the poor construction and inadequate equipment of the city bastile. It is also said the construction of the county jail is such that prisoners may easily take advantage of its columns to attack guards and make their escape. Defects in both jails should be remedied. Law violators should know the jails of Wichita Falls and Wichita county as places easy to get in and hard to get out.

Now an "unofficial" committee at Washington has recommended a year of 13 months, each month of 28 days. There are doubtless many advantages to the system, but there seems little likelihood of its adoption, even in 1933, the year set for the new schedule. At least three major objections could be offered to any such scheme: Lawyers would have no excuse for tangling witnesses on dates; one Friday in each month would be "Friday the 13th," with the attendant excuse of reporters to write stories about jinxes and black cats; and "first of the month" bills would come 13 times a year, instead of an even dozen as at present.

Bars of iron are being used to line the cage of a Bengal tiger at the city zoo, a wise precaution for all the animals which might be dangerous. Which should remind city officials that the Wichita Falls zoo has reached a size and a value almost to make imperative the employment of an expert animal trainer or zoo keeper. If this writer's information is correct, such work requires considerable experience and development. Wichita Falls does not wish to lose any of its valuable animals while city employes learn the business of keeping them, neither does it wish to risk possible tragedy at the municipal zoo from accidents which might befall from inexperience in handling the beasts.

C. C. Bunnenberg and his workers in the park department have done an exceedingly good job of caring for the constantly increasing menagerie at Scotland park. It is simply this newspaper's belief that the city would find it a good investment to employ a trained zoo keeper, at least for several months until city workers would have opportunity to become acquainted with duties which certainly are unexpected and unusual. It is more than a job of a few weeks to learn to handle a Bengal tiger, control a lion, or move an elephant, it takes more than superficial knowledge and hasty study to know what, when and where to feed and how to keep healthy a hundred or more birds, reptiles and beasts of every description.

Residents of Archer City step forward and vote by a heavy majority, bonds for water works improvements and for sewer service. The city is to spend $40,000 in each project. Residents of Archer City and Archer county have been exceedinly busy for the last few months in many projects looking to the improvement of the city and section. We have a hunch Archer county is going to be heard from quite often in the future.

CANDIDATE FOR SENATE GIVES AL SUPPORT

Congress Battleground For Liquor Settlement, She Claims

TARIFF ATTACKED

Mrs. Cunningham Lists Farm Legislation As Big Issue

Attacking the Republican party for its failure to enforce the prohibition laws, for its tariff and farm attitude and for its foreign policy, especially as applied to Nicaragua, Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, candidate for the Democratic nomination for the United States senate, declared Wednesday night before 500 people in Bellevue park that she is a "regular" Democrat and as such will support Al Smith for the presidency.

Mrs. Fred C. Barron opened the meeting with the singing of "America," and then introduced Charles I. Francis, president of the chamber of commerce, who introduced Mrs. Cunningham. Mr. Francis recalled one of Mrs. Cunningham's first announcement statements in which she said she did not feel she was running against an incumbent, but rather that she was running for a "vacancy."

Race on Policy

"Mrs. Cunningham is not running as a woman," Mr. Francis said, "but rather along the lines of clear thinking on governmental policy and party."

No sincere effort has been made by the Republicans to enforce prohibition, Mrs. Cunningham charged. "Who did the Republicans put in as head of the treasury department but Andrew Mellon, one of the biggest distillers in America before prohibition," Mrs. Cunningham said. "You know that the enforcement of prohibition is directly under the treasury department.

"I believe we have the national will power eventually to make prohibition such a success that it will cease to be a political question. Meantime, we ought to ask every candidate exactly how he stands on this issue.

"We are electing a new house of representatives, this year, and we are also electing one-third of the senate and a president.

Congress Battleground

"The voters who care are faced with Al Smith who has declared for modification of the liquor laws, and with the other man who has been a member of the government and party that has made a farce and a mockery of prohibition. Congress must be the battleground, and every other candidate should be watched. We must remember that to amend or repeal any part of the constitution, two-thirds of the states must ratify an amendment to repeal from congress."

The need of farm legislation was seen by the candidate who attacked the industrial tariff of the Republican party.

"This tariff makes it possible for a Canadian farmer to buy American made farm implements cheaper than the American farmers can buy them in this country," the speaker said. "This tariff makes it possible for the women of Paris to buy American sewing machines

Commission To Decide Radio Appeals July 20

WASHINGTON, July 11. (INS)—Decision of the federal radio commission on the appeals for continued operation of 107 broadcasting stations refused license renewals after August 1, will be made July 20 and August 1, it was announced today.

At the same time the commission will make public the reallocation of wave lengths and power for all the zones, as required under the Dill-Davis reallocation amendment.

More than 50 appeals remained to be heard late today.

Chicago Reserve Bank Opens New Money Rate

WASHINGTON, July 11. (INS)—Reaching a record figure since August, 1922, the Chicago Federal Reserve bank went on a rediscount rate of 5 per cent today.

Federal reserve board officials declined comment, but it was anticipated that unless a marked change occurs in the financial markets, most of the reserve banks would be on the new rate level within a few months.

Crash Victim Still in Coma

Miss Margaret Cobb, of Knoxville, University of Tennessee co-ed, has been unconscious in a Nashville hospital ever since an automobile, in which she was riding crashed into a telephone pole two months ago. Two weeks before wreck she was chosen "Queen of Hearts" at the university at Knoxville and a New York artist also picked he as one of the seven most beautiful girls at the school.

Young Postmistress' Testimony Ends Atlanta Inquiry of Job Bargaining

ATLANTA, July 11. (AP)—A senate committee investigating Republican patronage conditions closed its inquiry locally today with examination of a young postmistress who revealed that Georgia postmasters customarily paid percentages of their salary to the party organization.

Recalled to the stand after she had testified last Monday, Miss Esther McCollum, postmistress at Conyers, Ga., said no money ever had been demanded for her but she had visited John W. Martin, Republican treasurer, regarding a re-appointment and he had informed her it was customary to contribute a percentage of salary.

"In my case, he said, it would be five per cent," Miss McCollum declared under questioning, asserting however, that so far as she was concerned her payments were voluntary contributions. To inquiry by Senator Brookhart, Iowa, chairman, the young woman said her payments amounted to about $100 annually. Senator Brookhart mentioned the report of a postal inspector who quoted Miss McCollum as saying a man "now dead" had paid $500 to Martin in her behalf.

"Did you make such a statement?" Brookhart asked.

"No, that is not the way I told him to write it," the postmistress replied.

"What I said was in answer to a question as to who might have paid Mr. Martin $500 for me if it had been paid. I said I know of only one man who might have done such a thing for me—a man who lived in my town and who was now dead and whose name I did not want to reveal."

Hoover Leaves Saturday For California Home

WASHINGTON, July 11. (UP)—Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, will leave Washington Saturday evening en route to his home at Palo Alto, Calif., stopping en route at Chicago, Omaha and Brule, Wis., it was announced today.

The Hoover train will arrive in Chicago at 2 p. m. Sunday. At Chicago the Hoover party will transfer to a special train for the trip to Brule where Hoover will discuss his resignation with President Coolidge at the summer White House.

CHICAGO, July 11. (UP)—Consolidation of the Palmolive-Peet company and Colgate and Company, two of the largest soap and perfume manufacturers in the United States, was announced today by directors of the two concerns. The merger will be effective as of July 1, 1928, if stockholders approve.

SOVIET FLIER FAILS RESCUE

Three of Italia Crew Are Located

VIRGO BAY, July 12. (UP)—The Russian aviator, Chukhnovsky, who sighted Dr. Finn Malmgren and his two companions of the wrecked dirigible Italia, returned to the ice-breaker Krassin early this morning (Thursday) after failing to rescue the three men on his second trip to the spot where they are stranded on the ice field.

Chukhnovsky's flight today was for the purpose of finding a suitable landing place for his plane, where he could take the men aboard and return with them.

He said he failed to find a spot where he could land.

(Copyright 1928, by United Press)

MOSCOW, July 11. (UP)—Three men on the ill-fated transpolar dirigible Italia who have been struggling for 42 days from ice floes toward land, and who had been given up for lost, were found today by an unknown Russian aviator on the arctic wastes off Cape Platen, Northeast land.

The Russian ice ship Krassin reported that Soviet Aviator Chuknovsky had circled over the men—Prof. Finn Malmgren, Swedish physicist, and Captains Adalberto Miriano and Filippi Zappi of the royal Italian navy, and that it was hoped they could be rescued tonight or Thursday.

Chuknovsky circled over the bedraggled figures, outlined on the ice by the dazzling sun, and sought to find a place to land.

The position of the stragglers was latitude 80.42 north, longitude 25.45 east, only 20 miles from the Krassin.

After he had made certain there was no safe landing place in the vicinity, Chuknovsky returned to the Krassin and the Russians began rushing preparations to rescue the three men.

While only a short distance separates the Krassin from the castaways great difficulties face the rescue workers; jagged, melting ice which prevented airplanes landing near; open water and rough ice on which dog sleds would be under the greatest handicaps; and pack ice through which the Krassin possibly could not force her way.

Two Killed in Plane Crash in Pennsylvania

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 11. (AP)—Two persons were killed today when their airplane crashed at Snyders, in a storm.

The dead are:

Syrian Police Jail 18 Persons In Slaying of Artist and His U. S. Wife

BEIRUT, Syria, July 11. (AP)—Eighteen persons were being held for trial today for the murder of Kallil Saleeby, Syrian artist, and his American wife.

A gendarme pursued the eighteen suspects into the village of Betalloun. He was shot and killed. His assailants attempted to escape by automobile but gendarmes had surrounded the village and captured them.

Saleeby and his wife were assassinated Saturday night within a few yards of their doorway. A policeman who pursued the assassins was also killed. Sixteen knife wounds were found in the body of M. Saleeby. Mrs. Saleeby, a clerk in the American consulate at Beirut, was Carrie End, of Lexington, K—

MODIFICATION FIRST AIM OF DEM CHAIRMAN

Raskob Shocks Members Of Committee By Statements

ONCE REPUBLICAN

General Motors Chief Supported Coolidge Both Times

NEW YORK, July 11. (US)—Officers of the Democratic national committee as recognized today for the ensuing year are:

John J. Raskob, head of finance committee General Motors, chairman.

Vice chairman and vice chairwoman: Frank Hague, New Jersey; Governor Harry Byrd, Virginia; Scott Ferris, Oklahoma; Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, Wyoming, Mrs. Florence Farley, Kansas.

James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, treasurer, reelected.

Charles A. Greathouse, Indiana, secretary, reelected.

Edwin A. Halsay, Virginia, sergent-at-arms.

Herbert H. Lehman, New York broker, chairman finance committee.

Peter G. Gerry, Rhode Island, chairman advisory committee.

For Modification

In taking the wheel of the Democratic national machine, John J. Raskob, new party chairman and head of the finance committee of the General Motors corporation, today indicated that he will steer straight for modification of the prohibition laws in his drive to land Governor Alfred E. Smith in the White House.

At the same time, this industrial leader and independent in politics made frank overtures to business, big and little, to support Governor Smith. He declared that the governor believes in a "tariff of honesty" and stressed Smith's record to show that he is an "advocate of less government in business and more business in government."

Members Shocked

The candid statements of this amateur in politics came as somewhat of a shock to some of the members of the Democratic national committee who were inclined to pussy-foot on the prohibition issue in the Houston platform. But they drew a round of spontaneous applause from the members gathered in the National Democratic club, at Thirty-eighth street and Madison avenue.

When Raskob had concluded his speech of acceptance there was prolonged applause. And as the members circulated about the lobby after the meeting there appeared to be general satisfaction with Governor Smith's choice of a campaign manager. The hope that springs eternal in the Democratic breast on the eve of a presidential campaign was unusually high.

Handpicked Man

Raskob was strictly a handpick chairman. The national committee merely ratified the choice of the party candidate. His selection came about partly as a result of a close personal friendship with the governor. It also was regarded as a shrewd move to indicate to the country that big business believes the Democratic party will be "safe" with Smith at the helm.

That Governor Smith was in complete accord with the sentiments voiced by his chairman was indicated by the fact that before he had been placed in nomination by Josiah Marvel of Wilmington, Del., copies of his acceptance speech were given out to the press. Raskob, however, went a little further than Governor Smith himself in his telegram to the Houston convention.

Not a Politician

Although Raskob declared in his speech that he is not a politician and never has affiliated with any party, either nationally or locally, he is listed in "Who's Who" as a Republican. To members of the press he described himself as an independent in politics who supported "the best man." He said that he voted for President Coolidge in 1924 and supported President Wilson in 1912 and 1916.

Asked if he intended to make prohibition a prominent, if not the paramount issue, Raskob said:

"Prohibition is an issue—a national issue. No party can make it an issue, but it is the thing the people are thinking about and talking about."

Asked if he thought the prohi-

Pinchot and Sweet May Get Third Party Laurels

CHICAGO, July 11. (AP)—Leaders of the Prohibition and Farmer-Labor parties who have been attempting a fusion of the two today declared they had approached Gifford Pinchot, former governor of Pennsylvania, and William H. Sweet, former governor of Colorado, as possible presidential candidates for a third party.

Both Pinchot and Sweet are ardent prohibitionists.

According to the convention spokesmen telegrams had been sent the two men.

Six Men Injured When Blast Rocks Electra Refinery

Wagoner Gasoline Plant Damaged When Pipe Explodes—Injured in Electra Hospital

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, July 11—Six persons were burned, three seriously, in an explosion which wrecked the Waggoner gasoline plant at Rock Crossing, 18 miles southwest of here, shortly before noon today. The explosion is said to have resulted when a pipe burst while employes were attempting to start one of the engines in the plant. The force of the blast wrecked the building bousing the plant, causing considerable damage, although officials late tonight had made no estimate of the loss.

The six persons were brought to a hospital here. They are: J. L. Hallmark, S. L. Hughes, D. B. Potts, R. Simmons, C. V. Bailey, and G. W. Music. All live at Rock Crossing. The first three are still in the hospital. The remainder left the institution after minor burns had been attended to.

Hallmark is the most seriously burned of the three in the hospital, attendants said tonight. He is suffering from severe burns on the arms, face, hands, and legs. The others sustained body burns.

American Financiers Set Foreign Loan Mark

WASHINGTON, July 11. (UP)—American financiers broke all records for financing foreign private loans in the first half of this year, exceeding a billion dollars for the first time in history, Wendel E. Thorne, of the commerce department's finance and investigation division, announced tonight.

The total amount of foreign capital securities handled by American underwriters from January to June was $1,053,164,000, a tremendous gain when compared with the $794,277,000 underwriters during the first half of 1927.

OWSLEY JIBES TOM CONNALLY

Congressman "Thinks Too Slow," Candidate Avers

Special to The Record News.

WELLINGTON, Texas, July 11.—Alvin Owsley, candidate for the United States senate, in his speech before an audience of approximately 100 people here Wednesday morning, directed his verbal fire toward Congressman Tom Connally, charging that Connally thought too slow for the senate and that if he wanted to help the people of Texas he should have done something during the 12 years he has been in congress.

Relief to the farmers and ranchers was declared the major campaign issue.

Mr. Owsley said that a federal credit should be given the farmers equal to that received by other business men, and that he favored a tariff on all imported farm products, making it so high that foreign countries could not ship their products here and bring the market down, thus robbing the Texas farmers of the marginal profit that was justly due them.

In reviewing his past life, Mr. Owsley said that he had served the people satisfactorily as county and district attorney at Denton and in the state legislature.

"At the time the United States declared war, I gave up my highest ambition by resigning office, and enlisting in the army," he said, "and at the close of the war I was commanding brave, loyal American soldiers in front of the German army."

He declared he believes that there is no such thing as a revolt of the Democratic party and what this nation needs is the return of a good honest Democrat to the presidency.

"No person who is truly a Democrat can vote for a Republican candidate after the past administration and remain true to your party," he said, "and if you cannot support its nominee, then go fishing on that day."

He was introduced by Judge R. H. Templeton, county judge of Collingsworth county, who in his introductory speech said that he was introducing a man who was big, brave and honorable enough for the job, one who had proven that he was big enough in the county, district and state offices he had held.

CALLS CONNALLY 'TRICKSTER' IN TALK

Special to The Record News.

CLARENDON, Texas, July 11.—Carrying his fight for election as United States senator into the Panhandle, Alvin Owsley spoke to a large audience here this afternoon and flayed Tom Connally for his absence from the house of representatives during the debate on the farm measure in the last congress.

"Where was Captain Tom when this important issue was before the house? In his seat and on the job as he should have been? No, he was in Texas trying to make the farmers believe he was their friend," said Colonel Owsley.

"I denounce him as a cheap trickster who thinks only of Tom Connally and not of the people of Texas," he added.

Colonel Owsley was introduced by C. J. Douglas of this city. He reiterated that the farm question is the main issue and discussed alleged gambling on cotton exchanges before launching his attack on Connally.

Heckling, Hot Speeches and Cheers Greet Candidates at Cashion

Plunging into one of the warmest groups of speeches delivered this year, the Wichita county and district candidates of group one delivered their campaign addresses to more than 150 voters at Cashion Wednesday night. It was one of the largest and most enthusiastic crowds to hear the candidates so far this season.

The rally scheduled at Travis school, where candidates of group two were to speak, resolved itself into a handshaking bee when darkness found the doors of the school locked. This group of candidates will speak at Sam Houston school Friday night.

R. J. Long, candidate for representatives of district 111, and Robert K. Crain, candidate for county attorney, gave two of the most rousing speeches of the evening which drew bursts of applause from their listeners.

P. B. Curd and John P. Marrs came near getting into a heart to heart argument during Mr. Curd's speech when Marrs tried several times to halt Mr. Curd on points in his address.

Five minutes were allotted to each speech. M. W. Wolfe acted as chairman and introduced the candidates.

The candidates spoke in the following order:

For county commissioner:

F. R. Knauth: "I have taken my part in reducing valuations in this county and I have put the roads in first class condition."

Lee Prescott: "I think that road improvement is the least important of a commissioner's duties but when you go down into the pocketbooks of the people of the county and pay out their money you are performing a very important duty."

For justice of peace, precinct 2:

H. I. Johnson: "I have tried to give you service for the confidence that you placed in me and if you think that I have done it I ask you for re-election."

For county treasurer:

T. W. McHam announced his candidacy and asked the vote and influence of the people.

Mrs. W. W. Gardner: "I have

MOODY GRANTS REPRIEVE TO BILL SMITH

Convicted Killer of Officers Wins 30 Days From Death Shock

BELIEVED INSANE

Alienists Say Mental Condition Warrants Delay In Execution

AUSTIN, Texas, July 11. (AP)—Believed insane from worry and death cell fear, Bill Smith, scheduled for electrocution July 14, for participation in the slaying of a Fisher county sheriff and his deputy, was granted a 30-day reprive today by Governor Moody.

The governor telephoned his decision from Corpus Christi to J. D. Hall, his assistant secretary, after two state hospital superintendents had reported that Smith is unbalanced.

The alienists said he has become made since sentence was passed on him, that "he is in a deplorable mental condition and should not be executed while in such a condition." They declared that "for humanity's sake, he should be removed from the death cell without delay."

Smith probably will be taken to Jones county where he was tried for a sanity hearing.

Commutation of the sentence was not recommended, but the doctors thought he should be confined in an asylum for treatment.

Lloyd Conatser, also convicted in the killing, was given 99 years.

Smith's position has been unusually unsettled. After the first examination, physicians in a tentative report said he apparently was sane. Governor Moody then announced he expected to allow no clemency.

Man Believed to Have Slain Wife and Self

OMAHA, Neb., July 11. (UP)—Belief that Clifford McWilliams killed his wife and then committed suicide was expressed by police today after they investigated the deaths. The Bodies of the two were found in their rooms in an apartment house here this afternoon. Police learned that Mrs. McWilliams returned from Bristol, Colo., this morning.

ONE STOP ON SWEDEN TRIP

New "Great Circle" Aim Of U. S. Airmen

WASHINGTON, July 11. (US)—Determined to blaze a new "great circle" air route to Europe, B. R. J. Hassell, veteran flier and Parker D. Cramer, aeronautic inspector of the commerce department, will start a one-stop flight from Rockford, Ill., to Stockholm, Sweden, July 20, the department announced today.

The flight will total over 4,000 miles. It will be via Greenland, where a stop will be made at Holsteinborg for fuel. The plane used will be a Stinson-Detroiter monoplane using a single motor.

Cramer has been granted leave of absence from the aeronautic branch of the commerce department to make the flight. It is a private venture and not sponsored by the department, he stated.

The route to be flown, he declared, is the most feasible for future air line from the Chicago region to Europe. It follows a great arc, swinging over Canada to the southern tip of James Bay to Cape Chidley, Greenland, Iceland, Norway annd to Stockholm.

By this course long-over-the-ocean flights are eliminated. The first leg will be of 500 miles over Davis Strait to Greenland. The second 400 miles from Greenland to Iceland, and the third of 500 miles from Iceland to the Norway coast.

Questions Put to Candidates Belie 'Bible Belt' Phrase in Texas

Mrs. Minnie Fisher Cunningham, Democratic candidate for United States senator, from Texas, delivered a brief but clever address at the Women's Forum when a group of the women of the city complimented her with a dinner at the club house, Wednesday evening.

Handicapped by the request to make her speech non-political, Mrs. Cunningham nevertheless gave a clever talk, choosing "Texas", as subject.

Texas has had a phenomenal growth aside from its boom town growth, the speaker pointed out, and the people of the state are not limited in thinking ability and over conservative in their beliefs. The term "Bible belt" often applied to the state is not justified, for though the people are religious, their thought is not confined to religious thought, judging from the type of questions she is asked in even rural districts, concerning political topics.

In conclusion, Mrs. Cunningham urged the people of the state to take heed to the progress made by Texas of recent years.

The speaker was introduced by W. J. Townsend, who was presented to the guests by Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, president of the Woman's Forum.

Those present were, Messrs. and Mesdames Orville Bullington, Otis Gorsline, W. J. Townsend, Ben G. Oneal, Dr. and Mrs. J. C. A. Guest, Mayor and Mrs. J. W. Akin, Raymond Meyers, Charles Francis, Sam Gose, Bert Bean. Mesdames Fred Barron, James C. Berney, E. W. Wade, Carrie Joline, G. B. Smedley, J. E. Shipley, J. H. Duffy, M. M. Addicks, Jim Barnard, J. A. Welty, Cunningham and Miss Jewel Rose Akin.

New Orleans Council Hears Protest

NEW ORLEANS, July 11. (AP)—Antipathy of New Orleans business men as represented by the Association of Commerce toward gambling reached an unprecedented height today when the organization's anti-gambling committee appeared before a special commission of city council. They charged that gambling houses and bookmakers flourished here under the protection of constituted authorities.

W. S. Bender, chairman of the anti-gambling committee, declared conditiitons in New Orleans had reached such a state that the city was a mecca for gangsters, narcotic peddlers and addicts, gamblers and other denizens of the underworld.

Maurice Picheloup, a member of the city park board of commissioners, assertetd race track gambling was conducted on such a wide scale that a handbok was operated in every fifth house.

The association committee appeared before the council commission after Governor Huey P. Long had refused to act on a petition to suppress gambling houses in adjoining parishes until the evil had been eliminated in New Orleans proper. The petition declared business was being affected by the wage earners losing their money at the gaming tables.

Supporting the charges that gamblers were paying for protection, Leop Heymann, chairman of the Retail Merchants bureau of the association told the committee he was in possession of reliable information that one gambling establishment paid $6000 to members of the police department within a "short time" for protection.

Heymann supplied the commission with names and addresses of two alleged open gambling halls.

Negress Arrested As Stabbing Suspect

A negro woman believed to have stabbed Fobie Fuller, negro man, Tuesday night was arrested Wednesday night about 9:30 o'clock by L. N. McKelvey and Noah Daves, police officers. She was lodged in the city jail pending filing of charges, the nature of which will be determined by the seriousness of Fuller's injury.

Fuller was released from the Wichita General hospital Wednesday morning after first aid had been administered him. He suffered cuts about the arms and body and was taken to the hospital in an ambulance early Wednesday.

TOURISTS TREK TO SEE CAL

But Cops Steer Motorists Aside

SUPERIOR, Wis., July 11. (UP) The motor trek to President Coolidge's summer playground is under way.

Roads leading to northwestern Wisconsin are crowded with motor caravans from every state in the union.

Hundreds of tourists daily arrive at Superior, pause a moment at the two camping sites set aside for their exclusive use, and then begin the quest for a glimpse of the president. But it is an unconscious game of hide and seek. One sees the president only three times each week—twice at Superior and once at Brule.

On Tuesday and Friday mornings he parades before the crowd assembled at the executive offices here. At most, Mr. Coolidge's parade lasts only four minutes; two minutes from his limousine to the portal of the central high school, and two minutes from the portal of the high school back to his limousine.

Occasionally the president pauses for an additional minute to allow someone to focus his camera more precisely.

For the summer, at least, the president has made Brule what it is, but not exactly what it wants to be. Brule gets its glimpse of the presidential party each Sunday when the president and Mrs. Coolidge and their son, John, attend the little wooden Congregational church there. Special traffic regulations were inaugurated to clear the roads of Brule and its environs. Deputy sheriffs step out of the wilderness and direct motorists to make turns without the slightest obvious reason. But Brule is two miles down the road and the president's motor car is expected at any minute.

Tourists seldom see Mrs. Coolidge. John plays golf at Duluth, thus offering himself to public eyes.

Persons who hope to see Cedar Island lodge, the summer White House, will be disappointed. Soldiers guard the one motor road leading into the Henry Clay Pierce estate. They have instructions to pass no one without orders from their officers or from Col. E. W. Starling of the White House secret service staff.

The president is enjoying himself in almost complete isolation.

Jim Reed, Aglow With Enthusiasm, Heaps Bitter Words Upon Hoover

Missouri Senator Wonders Why G. O. P. Does Not Offer Prince of Wales As Candidate

NEW YORK, July 11. (US)—Declaring the Herbert Hoover is the easiest man the Republicans could have selected for the Democrats to beat, Senator "Jim" Reed of Missouri delivered himself of a tirade against the G. O. P. nominee in an interview with newspapermen here this afternoon. Reed was in New York attending the meeting of chieftains of the Democratic party.

Speaking of the Democratic conference today, Reed said: "We're off to a good start. There isn't any reason why we shouldn't win in November."

Reed Happy

Reed was obviously in a happy frame of mind following his conference with Gov. Al Smith, the Democratic nominee.

He was caustic, however, in his reference to Hoover, saying:

"Hoover is the easiest man for us to beat. He's not an American—he's an Englishman. If we want to elect an Englishman president of the United States why not get the Prince of Wales and not someone who was sent to this country from England to break down the price of wheat during the war?"

Reed scathingly referred to Hoover as "an organized political advertiser."

"It is a question," Reed continued, "if the thoughtful minds of this country will trust a man who changes as the winds of policies shift in a different direction.

Parties Different

"What are we to believe about Hoover? What are his policies? What kind of a person is it who changes his views to get into office?

"If I know anything about the purpose of political parties it is to advocate certain principles of government. There are radical differences between the Democratic and the Republican parties.

"This man was a Democrat one day and a Republican the next and, smiling as he said this, 'a British Liberal the day after that.'"

Boyhood Friend Visits W. N. Rogers at Home

IOWA PARK, Texas, July 11. (Spl)—W. N. Rogers, who lives near here on the Iowa Park-Wichita Falls road, has as his guest this week B. F. (Uncle Ben) McClory, an old boyhood friend. Mr. McClory's son, Dr. Spence McClory, and also his grandsons, Lake McClory and George Norton, accompanied his on his Texas visit. All of the guests are from Benton, Tenn.

Although "Uncle" Ben celebrated his 80th birthday while in Texas he made the trip from Tennessee by auto, and is enjoying the best of health, his friends reported.

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., July 11.—Funeral arrangements had not been completed late today for Sam Squires, 42, Snyder farmer, killed early today in an automobile accident near here. J. L. Marable, Hollis, who sustained a broken collarbone, was recuperating in a local hospital.

Squires was killed when a rear wheel tire flew off while they were driving on the way to Altus. The car overturned, pinning Squires underneath.

Vacant House Yields Beer to City Officers

Police seized 227 bottles of beer and emptied 15 gallons of beverage in a raid conducted by M. A. Perdue, Ellis Summers, Will Allen and W. P. Belcher about 3 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

The catch was made in a vacant house.

Officers were unable to locate manufacturing paraphernalia. Fifteen gallons of beer has been poured off into five gallon jars and brought to the house from the point of manufacture, officers said. The bottling process, they believed, took place in the house raided.

ELECTORS FOR BOLTERS PLAN

Colquitt to Lead Move Next Tuesday

DALLAS, Texas, July 11. (AP)—Texas Democrats who oppose the election of Governor Alfred E. Smith, self-styled "constitutional Democrats" probably will name a full set of presidential electors, bound by instructions to vote for Herbert Hoover, at a statewide meeting here next Tuesday, according to an announcement today by Former Governor O. B. Colquitt, one of the anti-Smith leaders.

Colquitt added that a state executive committee to be named at Tuesday's meeting probably would be empowered to negotiate with the Republican state executive committee toward withdrawal of the Republican ticket of electors and substitution of the constitutional Democrats' slate.

Colquitt said that he thought this method superior to either of the other methods which the convention of constitutional Democrats might adopt, namely, to stay away from the polls on election day, or to vote for the Republican electors.

Previously it had been thought that the Republicans and constitutional Democrats each would name half of Texas' electors, all of whom would vote for Hoover in case they were approved by the voters.

Mr. Colquitt said that the list of Democratic electors nominated at the Beaumont state convention contained the names of several constitutional Democrats and that these, if elected, could vote for Hoover next January. He pointed out, however, that there was a moral obligation for them to vote in the electoral college for the ticket of the party that nominated them.

"Under the statues of Texas any political organization can put out a ticket of electors", Mr. Colquitt declared.

Sweeten the stomach—instantly

About two hours after eating many people suffer from sour stomachs. They call it indigestion. It means that the stomach nerves have been over-stimulated. There is excess acid. The way to correct it is with an alkali, which neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

The right way is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia—just a tasteless dose in water. It is pleasant, efficient and harmless. It has remained the standard with physicians in the 50 years since its invention.

It is the quick method. Results come almost instantly. It is the approved method. You will never use another when you know.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

Mrs. Bace Honor Guest at Two Lovely Summer Parties Wednesday

Mrs. Archie Kautz was hostess at two delightful parties Wednesday at her home at 1719 Elizabeth, complimenting Mrs. A. C. Bace who will leave soon for an extended trip.

Mrs. Kautz entertained Wednesday morning with a lovely breakfast which was followed by bridge. The house was attractively decorated in a color scheme of green and white, zinnias and fernery forming the pretty motif.

Prizes were pieces of silk lingerie and were presented to Mrs. A. M. Lloyd who won high, Mrs. W. W. Ports, who won low and the honor guest. Table cut prizes were Japanese fans and were presented to: Mesdames W. W. Ports, Frank Meyers, Frank Brainerd and C. W. Clark.

Guests were: Mesdames Bace, Lloyd, F. K. Foster, G. E. Goddard, J. C. Foster, Franklin Henderson, Brainerd, Clark, A. G. Holmes, Paul von Allmen, Ports, Frank Powell, Frank Meyers, U. B. Hughes, B. R. Grigsby and C. W. Bean.

Mr. and Mrs. Kautz were hosts at a dinner and swimming party Wednesday evening. The dining table was prettily decorated with summertime flowers and greenery. The menu was also carried out in the cool summery colors.

Guests were: Messrs. and Mesdames A. M. Lloyd, A. C. Bace, F. K. Foster and Archie Kautz.

Girls' Council Holds Meeting Wednesday

Members of the Camp Fire Girls' council met at Cedar Park pool Wednesday morning for a combined business meeting and sunrise breakfast.

Among the matters taken up by the council was a city-wide swimming meet to be held at Westmoreland pool, Monday, July 23, beginning at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. A leather honor will be awarded the girl with the highest number of points. All members of the Camp Fire organization are eligible to compete. Parents are asked to be present at the swim.

The Fire Makers and Torch Bearers' overnight hike will take place Friday. Girls will meet at headquarters at 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, and will go to a spot about four miles out on the Iowa Park road.

The inter-group tennis tourney was announced by Mrs. R. E. Davis as an event of August, the exact date to be announced later. The cup for the winner in singles has been donated by Julian Bobo. Any girl interested in special training in tennis is requested to call Mrs. Davis at headquarters.

We can't figure out any particular reason for Jack's wearing a suit like the one shown, on a hot day like this. Trying to be different, maybe.

Jack's mother says, however, that there is nothing exceptional about the boy, which would leave us to suppose that there is something exceptional in a mother who would make such an admission about her son. She does admit that he has a train complex and runs absolutely amuck at the sight of a train.

Jack is the second of the three sons of the H. A. Dunn family, the other two being Bobbie, aged nine years, and Ted, who is only a baby.

Besides being the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Dunn of 1308 Burnett street, Jack is the nephew and chief pet of Mrs. G. B. Smedley of 1822 Elizabeth street.

WEDDING CAKE

One pound flour, one pound sugar, one pound butter, 12 eggs, two pounds currants, two pounds raisins, one-fourth ounce cloves, one ounce cinnamon, one-half ounce each allspice and nutmeg, one pound citron, one pound blanched almonds chopped coarsely, one cup molasses, one wine glass of grape juice, or fruit jelly, one teaspoon soda. Wash and dry the currants, cut citron fine, roll fruit in flour. Cream butter and sugar, beat eggs light, put soda in molasses, stir well, add butter, then flour, last eggs, then add fruit. Paper sides and bottom of cake pan, bake in a slow oven about two hours.

Flapper Decides to Wed Aged Man So He Won't Care to Leave Her

How One Flapper Plans to Hold Her Husband. How Can a Con-lite Husband Who Killed His Wife's Love Rewin Her?—Advice to the Girl Whose Sweetheart Masqueraded as a 'Single Man.

Dear Miss Dix—I have made up my mind to marry a middle-aged gentleman. I would not mind if he were even twice my age. In fact, I would prefer it. I have seen scores of middle-aged men go out with young girls because their wives were no more interested in pleasures and were no longer young and attractive, while the husbands themselves felt as gay and young as they were at 20. So I have decided to marry a man so old that he will never have a chance of tiring of me. All my life I have envied young girls who married old men.

My mother objects, and says she would be ashamed to see me marry some old gentleman who looked more like my father than my husband, but I can't feel that way about it. Am I right or wrong?

THE SPOILED BRASH

Answer—"Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings proceedeth wisdom," saidth the Scriptures, and you furnish the most illuminating proof of the assertion I have ever encountered.

The problem of how to keep the middle-aged husband from wandering off after flappers is a conundrum which wives and the clergy and the moralists have wrestled in vain, but you have solved it right off the bat in the simplest and most conclusive of all possible ways.

It is by the flappers marrying middle-aged men to begin with, so that they will present no invidious comparison with the other flappers, and hence will not have to worry about any younger and more pulchritudenous bathing beauty getting their husbands away from them.

Believe me, the plan will work, for the middle-aged husbands will be so occupied keeping up with their young wives that they will not have time nor strength nor money to do any sidestepping. They will be kept busy trying to look and act up to their young wives.

It will be the middle-aged husbands of flapper wives who have to count their calories, and do their daily dozen to keep down their tummies, and who will have to take special treatments for that bald spot that is beginning to come on the top of their heads, and who will have to worry over retaining their boyish figures and keeping young and beautiful to hold their young wives' affections.

Oh, me, oh, my, but the shoe will be on the other foot then, and the elderly husbands will be just as much afraid of the college boy sheiks as the middle-aged wives are of the slim young blondes in their husbands' offices.

Certainly marrying a man twice your age is a safe bet if you want a husband you can't lose, and one of whom you will not be jealous.

But, alas, there is always a fly in the ointment, and there is even a drawback to having a foot faithful husband, for perchance you may come to weary of a man who always sits in your pocket, as the old phrase goes. Perhaps you will come to the place when you will wish that he were not so completely domesticated.

In order to enjoy undiluted doses of a husband's society he must speak your language and be exceptionally congenial. And this is not likely to be the case when there is a great disparity in age between a husband and wife. You belong to one generation and he belongs to another. You have the point of view of today, he that of yesterday. He has seen half of the show that we call life. The curtain is just going up for you. He is tired of doing most of the things that are full of thrill and pep because they are novelties to you.

And while the middle-aged man kids himself into thinking he is just as young as he was at 20, in his heart he knows better. In company he may whip up his flagging spirits and be gay and jolly and the life of the party, and dance and play tennis like a merry lad, but when he gets home he reaches down for the liniment bottle to rub his aching bones. He remembers what the doctor said about not overstraining his heart, and in his secret soul this idea of a perfectly delightful evening is not jazzing around, but sitting by the fire in slippers and dressing gown with a good book. And that isn't the sort of a husband that a flapper wife wants.

Also, don't put any faith in the old proverb about it being better to be an old man's darling than a young man's slave, because age is tyrannical and bossy and dictorial and egotistic, and there are no such slave wives on earth as those who are married to elderly men.

They think they are incarnate wisdom and know exactly how their wives should dress, and whether they should have their hair bobbed or not, and how long their skirts should be, and poor little wife has to toe the mark, or else there is a pretty howdydo.

But I am not trying to discourage you about marrying a man twice your age. Husbands are purely a matter of taste, and if you like 'em old and tough, why go to it. And may heaven bless you both.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By CLARK KINNAIRD.

NEW YORK, June 11.—Attempts by returning American ocean travelers of all classes to bring in liquor have become so numerous that customs officers have had to discontinue dealing with each case at length and adopt a standard mode of treatment for those caught with the bottled goods. The detected hooch smuggler is obliged to pay to bear witness to the smashing of his illicit baggage on the pier floor.

"It isn't the $5 they mind so much, but the ridicule and disgrace when they are caught and exposed on the pier," a customs officer told me.

Most of the non-professional smuggling is attempted by persons returning from Bermuda, the Bahamas or Cuba, where liquor sellers hawk among Americans intricate devices intended to deceive the customs officers, and enable the owner to carry home some of the "real stuff." Inasmuch as these devices usually are marketed by the thousands, and frequently are of United States manufacture, the customs officers aren't fooled. They simply search for the average passenger's hidden hooch.

Of course, some of the "real stuff" does come through. A handful of customs officers can't find every drop of liquor that is concealed in the luggage or about the persons of the hundreds who arrive on each ship. But they catch enough to make the hooch smuggling sport difficult and costly for the traveler and profitable for Uncle Sam's treasury.

The only place in New York to see cricket, the British national sport, played by Britishers, is around the Cunard line piers when one of the Cunard liners is in port. A vacant space on West street is utilized by cabin boys and table stewards to play the game. Some of the hard-boiled taxi drivers who inhabit the region have become cricket fans and give good old American baseball cheers and encouragement to the British cricketeers.

Seeing the transatlantic liners off is a popular diversion with out-of-town visitors and idle New Yorkers. At midnight sailings of the big boats, piers are thronged with sightseers. Many of them go aboard in the guise of friends of departing travelers and see the wonders of the floating hotels.

The opportunity of visiting any ocean steamer in port usually awaits any person who looks respectable; and the larger and more famous boats are gone over by thousands. Permission for visits is usually obtainable from officers of the line operating the ship or from deck officers who happen to be on the pier.

Langford Anderson, of the Georgia Langfords, and Andersons, suh, is anxious for me to keep my job, so he can sell me more insurance; and so he is one of my most assiduous reporters of New York phenomena. He was in an elevator in the Standard Oil building the other morning. A graying gentleman neglected to call out his floor until the elevator was passing it. The operator turned on the offender belligerently. "It's guys like you that delay the service." He stopped the car at the next floor, deposited the erring passenger, and suggested walking down to the floor below.

Anderson recognized the gentleman who was thus put in his place by the elevator operator. It was John D. Rockefeller Jr. He reports that Mr. Rockefeller appeared to be properly humbled by the rebuke.

Idalou Farmer Hurt In Wagon Accident

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, July 11.—J. G. Roberts, Idalou farmer, is in a serious condition following injury caused by a runaway team yesterday.

He was brought to the Lubbock sanitarium last night where he was reported resting better.

He is suffering from a punctured left lung, four broken ribs, a fractured shoulder and possible internal injuries.

The accident occured when the team became frightened. Roberts was caught beneath the wagon as it overturned.

First Vernon Summer School To End Friday

VERNON, Texas, July 11.—The first summer school graduation exercises ever held in Vernon will be held at Allingham park here Friday evening, and 10 students will be given their diplomas. E. L. Gossett, local attorney, will deliver the commencement address.

One-Minute Sermon

When my soul fainteth within me I remembered the Lord; and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple.

They that observe lying vanities forsake their own mercy.

But I will sacrifice unto thee with the voice of thanksgiving; I will pay that that I have vowed. Salvation is the Lord.—Jonah, ii, 7-9.

The Army Mule, Retired

DOLOROUS news comes from Baltimore. An experimental unit of the U. S. army station there at Fort Leonard Wood has done away with the army mule. A new six-wheeled truck is being used instead.

This may not spread, of course. Army officers are predicting, however, that the entire army eventually will adopt new trucks, and the mule will go on the permanent retired list.

It's really serious. What is an army without an army mule? And where will the country look for its past masters in profanity if the mule passes? The army will not be what it used to be.

Insulated Kitchens

THE CANADIAN department of the interior has issued a booklet dealing with insulated walls in dwelling houses. It points out that one of the advantages of insulation is that noises from the kitchen cannot be heard in the rest of the home.

Under certain circumstances that is an advantage, of course. There is nothing particularly inspiring about the clink of pots and pans. But the thing works both ways. There is nothing that sounds better than the sizzle of chops frying in the pan. It makes a dinner bell needless. In some homes the only thing that ever gets father downstairs on time for breakfast is the noise of breakfast preparations.

The noise of the frying pan is fully as potent as its aroma. Think twice before you sound-proof your kitchen.

Caution for Swimmers

THE ADVENT of extra hot weather has made the bathing beaches and swimming holes of the country populous places again. And, as the summer heat waxes, the papers give daily reports on deaths by drowning.

Oddly enough, most of those who drown at bathing beaches are people who can swim. The man who can't swim knows enough to take no chances. The swimmer is prone to run risks that he should not run. Sometimes they end disastrously.

Remember this, when you go swimming: cramps can strike anyone, even the most accomplished swimmer. A strong undertow can carry the best swimmer in the world out to his death. Treacherous eddies in unfamiliar streams can nullify all your aquatic ability.

Swimming is great sport. But it is not a sport in which you can forget the simple rules of caution and common sense.

What John D. Typifies

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER has passed another milestone. He is 89 years old now, and the columns of space given his birthday by the daily papers testify to the power of his name as a symbol.

The name, Rockefeller, has almost ceased to mean an individual, with human likes, desires and frailties. For more than a generation it has stood for great wealth; when we hear it we think, in passing, of a spare, slightly withered old man—but most of all we think of a mighty fortune. To all intents and purposes, no man can go higher along the path of getting money than Rockefeller has gone.

That is quite proper; for Rockefeller was supremey typical of the era in which he rose to power. Future generations will find in the story of his life a very adequate history of the customs, morals, conditions and ideals of America in the great Gilded Age.

Rockefeller began life as a poor man's son—a very poor man's son. He started his career as a clerk on starvation wages. From the beginning he knew what he wanted; every act of his life was devoted to gaining his end. His climb began slowly, then gathered momentum rapidly; a dizzy rush upward followed, in which competitors were ruthlessly wrecked or absorbed, while the Rockefeller fortune became a vast, overshadowing giant, holding almost unlimited power over money and men.

Many men admired him; many more hated him. And this hatred arose not so much from a dislike of his business methods as from a dim, subconscious sort of feeling that no one man ought to have so much power. Democratic America, that began as a nation of farmers and woodsmen, had developed into a nation of industry and finance. Rockefeller saw the implications before anyone else, and acted on them. His rise symbolized, to the average man, an unwelcome change in American conditions, and for long his name was anathema.

All of that has changed. In his old age Rockefeller has won the public's affection. Pictures of him and stories about him are always received eagerly by newspaper readers. He is one of America's most popular figures.

That changed attitude is generally ascribed to his great benefactions. Unquestionably he has used his wealth wisely and well. Yet it seems that there is another reason. The country has accepted the change that has come upon it. It has discovered that industrialization does not necessarily mean the end of all the old American virtues. It has learned that dominance by bank, factory and railroad brings new advantages as well as new problems.

Rockefeller's change from a ruthless, hard-hitting business captain to a serene, kindly old man, seeking to do as much good as he can for his fellows, is typical of the change that has come over the country as a whole. High finance and big business are no longer bugbears. We have developed and we have grown wiser. Like Rockefeller, we have reached maturity.

MOVIES APPROACHING PERFECTION

The invention whereby the "movies" become "speakies" is rapidly approaching perfection, and the whole picture industry is in a ferment of change. Already prominent men have been made all but alive on the silver screen, and with the perfection of the device we shall have grand opera and spoken drama lacking nothing but the third dimension. In time, even that may be achieved. Hawthorne once asked which was the most real, a tree or its reflection in the water, and with the Movietone functioning we shall begin to wonder which is the most enviable, a man or his Movietone?

One thing is possible, and it will be hard on the fellow who has all his heroes in the past. Today we may argue over the relative merits of Irving and Barrymore, but tomorrow, when actors and actresses will be forever imprisoned by Movietone, all argument can be settled by running off a reel. Then we shall not be able to say: "You will never know what acting is; you were born too late to see and hear the great Umpty Ump in his prime."

BROWN DERBIES MAKE PROBLEM

Hat Makers Divided on Voters' Headgear

NEW YORK, July 11. (UP)—Decision of the Democrats to run the man in the brown derby for president has brought the American hat industry smack up against one of those great crises that make the men's millinery business so exciting.

The iron hat makers of America, it was discovered today, are divided into two camps. There are those who are sure that a crying demand for brown derbies will exist this fall and those who feel sure there will be no such thing.

The latter camp skeptically asserts that the nation's male Democrats will vote brown derby but will wear klan hoods and fedoras as usual.

Camp No. 1, however, believes that many thousands of Democrats will wear as they vote, and that the brown derby constitutes an issue which they will not dodge.

Serious Problem

All of this may sound a trifle balmy to the non-hat-manufacturing section of the populace, but it is a serious affair for the concocters of autumn skimmers. The fall hat season is two months off, but hats have to be manufactured now. You can't turn out a million brown derbies overnight. Hundreds of thousands of dollars hang on the turn of the block.

A fortune is involved for the hat manufacturer who guesses right and loss of business is the least calamity that can be hoped for by he who guesses wrong or plays safe.

Most of the brown derbies of the world are made in Danbury, Conn. Frank H. Lee, with sales offices here and a factory at Danbury, said orders already were beginning to come in and that he believed nearly all retailers would want to have a few brown derbies on hand. He seemed to share the views of E. F. Hubbard, managing editor of the American Hatter, who suggested to retailers as early as April that they would be overlooking a bet if they didn't stock up.

Need Hoover Hat

Research into the brown derby situation also revealed that Republican hatters don't like the idea of offering Smith derbies without any Hoover hats to offset them. Jobbers have set their heads together to devise a Hoover headgear, but without result. Hoover insists upon identifying himself with any hat that is handy, preferably one just a little too small.

The hat makers feel that toppieces have an important bearing on national politics. Bryan, it is pointed out, campaigned off and on from 1896 to 1908 in a politician's "campaign" felt and succeeded in arousing only distrust among the electorate. Harding rode into office after the war underneath a good normalcy sailor straw. Coolidge chose to run in a Panama turned up all around, safe, sane and conservative. Wilson and Taft were at their best under silk stovepipes and Roosevelt, in a Rough Rider felt, made his enemies tremble.

Republican hat makers feel that it is up to Hoover to do something, and do it quick, before they finish making up the fall line.

Cuba Rum Distillery Closed By Government

HAVANA, July 11.—Three thousand employes of the largest bacardi rum distilling plant in Cuba were thrown out of work when the government closed down the plant for non-payment of taxes. The distillery, located at Santiago de Cuba, owed $75,000 back taxes and the owners today refused a final demand for payment.

Gate Crashers Ousted From Ball

LONDON, July 11.—Two society girls who crashed the gate at the brilliant ball given by Lady Ellesmere at Bridgewater house on Pall Mall last night were peremptorily ordered to leave by the hostess.

This is the first time that the prominent society leader of Mayfair has personally taken drastic action to exclude gate crashers, who have become social nuisances in the recent London seasons.

"I know the girls well, and was aware that I had not invited them. I told them to leave at once, and they did so. I shall make their names known to my friends."

The Ellesmere ball, to which only the elite of Mayfair were invited, also was remarkable for the fact that the hostess posted notices forbidding smoking. She took this courageous step because she was tired of having valuable carpets burned and costly furniture and fixtures stained by cigars and cigarettes.

Both sexes scrupulously observed Lady Ellesmere's order.

Electra Society

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, Texas, July 11.—At the home of Miss Helen Robertson, on June 29, a jolly group of girls met and organized a social club which will be known as the T. B. B. club. The following officers were elected at the initial meeting: Miss Maxine Fisher, president; Miss Madeline Williams, vice president; Miss LaVena Taylor, secretary and treasurer; Miss Helen Robertson, press reporter, and Misses Ruth Marie Fisher, Babe Helen Jennings, Laura V. LeBus and Lillie May George, entertainment committee.

On Monday night, July 2, the club met at the home of Misses Maxine and Ruth Marie Fisher for the first regular meeting. After a short business session a social hour was enjoyed, during which refreshments were served. Those attending were:

Misses Helen Robertson, LaVena Taylor, Laura V. LeBus, Babe Helen Jennings, Madeline Williams, Lillie May George and the hostesses, Misses Maxine and Ruth Marie Fisher. The club will meet next with Miss Babe Helen Jennings.

South Circle

The South circle of the First Baptist W. M. U. met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. P. Slaton, on East Summit avenue. The opening song was "Rescue the Perishing," and prayer by Mrs. L. D. Embry.

Mrs. Lee Scoggins led the devotional, taken from the 12th chapter of Romans. During the business session the circle voted to pay their part of the delegates' expenses to Lueders. The meeting closed with prayer by Mrs. W. L. Cason. Those present were:

Mesdames W. L. Cason, J. D. Smith, L. A. Gruse, Byrum, E. L. Bostick, Lee Scoggins and W. P. Slaton.

North Circle

The North circle of the First Baptist W. M. U. met Monday afternoon in the T. E. L. class room of the church, opening the meeting with the song, "I Gave My Life For Thee," followed with prayer by Mrs. R. L. Curry. Mrs. Leroy Hawkins led the devotional, taken from the fifth chapter of James.

During the business session plans were made for the payment of the circle's part of the Baylor endowment fund and also their part of the expenses of the delegates to the Lueders convention. Two new members were added to the circle, Mrs. M. E. Wooten and Mrs. J. C. Watkins. One visitor was present, Mrs. Henry Crawford, of Marlow, Okla.

Those attending the meeting were: Mesdames J. L. Stevens, H. C. Camp, LeRoy Hawkins, W. M. Cheaney, C. D. Young, Jim Horn, F. A. Minderman, R. L. Curry, Walter Bird, W. J. Holder, W. H. Petty, P. E. Griffin, M. E. Wooten, Henry Crawford and J. C. Watkins.

Y. W. Circle

Mrs. E. D. Chesney was hostess to the Y. W. circle of the First Baptist W. M. U. Monday afternoon at her home on North Waggoner street. Mrs. J. R. Doyle led the devotional, from the first chapter of Acts, which was followed with open discussion.

During the business session plans were made to pay the circle's portion of expenses for delegates and other debts. Mrs. J. R. Doyle taught the first three topics in the book, "Things We Should Know," and Mrs. L. Gillum marked questions for examination in the W. M. U. manual.

During the social hour Mrs. J. L. McCombs was given a handkerchief shower, the gifts being presented on a silver tray by little Miss Madonna Francis Chesney. Punch and cake were served during the social hour to nine members.

Central Circle

The members of the Central circle of the First Baptist W. M. U. met Monday afternoon in the Alathean class room of the church, opening the meeting with the song, "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," followed with sentence prayers. Mrs. W. R. Skinner conducted the mission lesson, after which the minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Roll call was answered with verses of scripture. During the business session plans were made to pay old debts, to help on the expenses for delegates to the Lueders convention and also to pay their part of Mrs. J. M. Tanner's expenses to the Southern Baptist convention. Mrs. C. M. Moore dismissed the meeting with prayer.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service

by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

"Do make us some tea, Niel," Chiri coaxed. "I'm so low I could crawl under a pancake."

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Virginia Brewster, upon the sudden death of her father, goes to live with a friend, Clarissa Dean, and her father. Her fiance, Nathaniel Dann, objects to this for he mistrusts Dean's motives. Upon phoning Niel's studio late one night, Virginia is surprised when his model, Chiri, answers. This causes a quarrel which is later mended.

Hoping to get Niel away, Dean arranges to have him offered a position in San Francisco. Niel begs Virginia to marry him and go west, but she refuses to let him sacrifice his art.

Clarissa becomes jealous of Virginia, and the latter resolves to leave, but Dean opposes her departure and asks her to marry him. When she refuses, he threatens to reveal the fact that her father cheated him out of $100,000 in a bootlegging deal. Recklessly, Virginia pledges herself to marry him if she fails to earn the money to repay him in one year's time. She then goes to a cheap hotel after pawning one of her rings. The sordidness of the place makes her realize her changed fortunes, but real panic comes when she hears a brawl through the thin partition and then she knows that she has indeed made a mistake in her choice. She checks out immediately and consults her attorney who recommends a small, quiet hostelry to which she goes.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XIX

Virginia's things had arrived, she was told, and she asked to have them sent up immediately. It gave her welcome activity to unpack and make a list of the pictures and the few objects d'art she had in her suitcases. The trunks that should have been at the Deans' were not there, she learned. She called her former home on Park Avenue and directed the superintendent to send them to her new address. They contained nothing but clothing, very little of which she cared to wear now, so she was not impatient to receive them.

It was a different Virginia who presented herself at Mr. Gardiner's office a second time that day. A bit of the thrill of a good fight had got through her despondency and incited her to a desire for action. She handed over the pearls with remarkable composure and Mr. Gardiner hadn't the slightest suspicion of the pain it gave her to part with them.

"Call up in the morning and I'll let you know about these things," he said, referring to the list she had made.

"I really think I have a right to them," Virginia said wistfully. "They were mother's."

"Then of course they're yours, but we'll just make sure that they are not on the unpaid bills, so's to avoid the possibility of trouble."

This time Virginia left the building with a lighter heart. It meant something to be allowed to hope that she was not to be stripped of the very last possession that linked her with the life that seemed now to have been a fairy tale of happiness.

But she could not know beyond doubt until morning, and in the meantime she must communicate with Nathaniel. He might have called the Deans and learned that she was gone. Virginia was smitten with remorse that she had left the day so nearly go by without calling him. He would want to come to her at the first hint of trouble and she had no place to receive him in privacy. She thought of trying to tell him as much as she had planned to let him know, in the parlor of her hotel. That wouldn't do at all.

Virginia had glimpsed the cramped space of that room where every word spoken could be overheard. They might take a ride on a bus top up Riverside drive, but what a place for Nathaniel in a temper—as he was sure to be.

Well, why not go to his studio? It was the best place in the world, Virginia thought, to tell him what had happened with Clarissa. That would be enough to explain why she was breaking with the Deans. Nathaniel would be sure to urge an early marriage, but she could find some reason for putting it off without telling him the whole truth.

After a ride down to Washington Square on a bus Virginia walked to Nathaniel's studio and found him in a red bathing suit of a decidedly boyish cut. Nathaniel threw down his brush and knocked over a chair on his way to greet her when Virginia entered in response to his call to come in.

"Will-o-the-wisp," he chided; "I've been trying all day to get you but I couldn't get a peep from anyone at the Deans. Aren't they letting you use the phone? I suspected something like that."

Virginia forced herself to laugh at him. She wasn't going to let Miss Mond know that anything was wrong. "I've been busy with Mr. Gardiner," she explained after murmuring a polite phrase to Chiri. "It was so late when I left his office just now I thought you must be through for the day, so I came in to have tea with you."

It was a hint none too subtle for Chiri, but hints were not guiding stars in her life. She settled back on the couch that Nathaniel had been trying to reproduce as a stretch of sea beach and languidly curled her ivory-tinted legs into an intimate pose. "Yes, do make us some tea, Niel," she coaxed; "I'm so low I could crawl under a pancake."

Nathaniel threw gray daggers at her but he said pleasantly, "You make it, Chiri, while I fix a chair for Miss Brewster."

Virginia looked displeased, but Nathaniel gave her arm a little squeeze of promise as he led her to a chair from which he transferred an assortment of colorful costumes to the floor with one sweep of his hand. "I'll get rid of her," he whispered, and vanished after Chiri, who had shrugged her way into the kitchenette.

"Look here, you've got to get out," he told her firmly. "You were in a hurry to leave a while ago; don't be a dog in the manger, Chiri."

"Ha, that's good. What've you ever done for me that I should be grateful for? You'd be my man if it weren't for that hollow shell in there, and you expect me to step out and leave her the field. I won't do it, so there!"

"If you ever say anything like that about Miss Brewster again I'll be through with you for good." Nathaniel told her soberly. "I hate to order you out, but I guess I'll have to if you haven't sense enough to go."

Chiri laughed. "What wins wars? The orders or the scraps? I'm fighting, do you see? If you want me to go, make it worth my while."

"If you don't consider it worth your while to be decent I don't know what to offer you."

"This!" Chiri was in his arms, hands pulling his head down, lips crushing against his, her firm young body tense.

Nathaniel shoved her away and scolded angrily. "What an idiot you are!" Triumph blazed back at him from Chiri's gypsy eyes. She shook her hands off her shoulders and rubbed the places where his fingers had left red marks. "If you want to bruise me, do it with kisses," she said, with absolute seriousness.

"Good lord!" Nathaniel groaned. "Do I have to murder you?"

"Not today. I've got all I expect for the nonce."

"Then you're going?" hopefully.

"Oh, I must. So sorry to have to leave you!" She danced out of the tiny place and dived into the bedroom with a gay, mocking thrill on her smiling lips.

Virginia sat wide-eyed in her chair, wondering what method Nathaniel had used that worked so effectively in expediting Chiri's departure. Oh, well, artists were queer people—perhaps only they could understand each other! She sighed a little, feeling she never could be in complete harmony with a girl who stayed until she was put out and took it joyously.

Nathaniel came in with the tea before Chiri emerged from the bedroom. Virginia felt her unseen presence in Nathaniel's room like a damper on the conversation and made no attempt to impart her news to him. She began to think, after 10 minutes had passed, that Chiri would linger over her dressing unnecessarily, but presently she was surprised to see her come out. She was wearing a red crepe dress that cleverly revealed the contours of a remarkably well-formed body.

"I'd like to stay to tea," she said impishly to Virginia, "but Niel's just given me something I've got to put on ice."

"You didn't give her anything to drink?" Virginia charged Nathaniel after Chiri had slammed the door in her wake.

"I didn't give her anything. She took it," Nathaniel evaded.

"Well, I don't think you should have allowed her! I'm sure she's irresponsible enough as it is."

"Please, let's forget her, sweetheart," Nathaniel begged. "Tell me, I have a feeling that things aren't quite all right with you. Is there anything wrong, Virginia?"

"Clarissa and I had a misunderstanding," she confided reluctantly, hoping he wouldn't press her for all the details.

"I knew that would happen! That girl's got a yen on herself," Nathaniel declared vehemently. "How did it come about?"

"Well, she seemed to think I might change my mind about marrying you," Virginia told him in the same accents she'd have used to say that babies are found in hollow logs.

"Judging you by herself," Nathaniel remarked sourly. "I don't like to have you listening to that kind of persuasion," he went on earnestly. "You'd only be coming to your senses if you realized that you will make a bum marriage with me, Virginia, but I don't want you to find it out until it's too late for you to back out."

"There won't be any more of it. I left the house last night."

"So that's why they were so uncommunicative today! I couldn't get them even to take a message for you and if I hadn't heard from you by tonight I was going to raid the place. Where did you go when you left?"

Virginia gave him the name of her hotel, omitting all reference to the Ritz. She did not wish him to know how nearly destitute she was. "It's a satisfactory hotel," she hastened to add as Nathaniel's face darkened. "Mr. Gardiner recommended it."

Nathaniel reached for the cup of tea that trembled in her nervous fingers and placed it on the tray. "I suppose it was very unpleasant," he said quietly.

"With Clarissa, you mean? Yes, it was, and I'd rather not talk about it. But after all I couldn't stay there and do nothing. It's much better for me to find some kind of work."

"You're going to find it a life-sized job being married to me," Nathaniel returned earnestly. Virginia shook her head, but her eyes fell beneath the direct appeal in his, the eager questing for a happy answer. She loved him so, adored him.

His hands came to hers, spoke for him, pleaded. His voice, too, picturing a happiness that was like cool, sweet water on parched lips. Virginia prayed not to love him so much she would forget all else. His words tumbled on, drawing her from trouble, promising heaven. Her eyelids closed all the way; she sighed a little and bent to him arms.

AN AVERAGE MAN MEETS AN AVERAGE FRIEND

Why, hello, George; how do you do?
It seems like years since I saw you!
I'd hoped and prayed that you were well;
I've missed you more than I can tell.
(Why did I have to meet this guy?
I'd almost rather go and die!)

And George, how does your family fare?
I've asked about you everywhere.
You haven't acted nice at all;
You promised you would pay a call.
(This George is surely one big bum,
Thank Heaven that he didn't come!)

And how is business, George, old man?
I wish I made it like you can!
You always work, and sweat and try,
While others idly sit and cry.
(I'd be rich, too, in case I took His cheating means, the dirty crook.)

Well, so long, George; good luck to you.
Be careful what you say and do.
And we're expecting you to call
To see us; you must come, that's all.
(Of all the pests I have ever knew,
That George comes first, I swear to you!
Why he's a fool, the dirty pup;
Made money—now the boob's stuck up!)

And while you think, it may be true
That George is doing thinking, too.

GENIUS FOUND, THEN IS LOST

Borglum Hunts Boy Poet From Carolina

HOUSTON, Texas, July 11. (AP)—Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, has found a genius and lost him.

Some time ago, while working in his studio in San Antonio, Borglum discovered a youth watching him. The sculptor's assistants said they didn't know how the boy got into the studio.

Finally, the boy told the sculptor that he had walked to the Texas city from North Carolina to see the man who "did" the Mares of Diomedes, Lincoln, and the statue of Phil Sheridan.

He had some poems he wrote, some sketches he had made and a couple of models. He wanted Borglum to tell him if they were any good. So, through the day he sat and watched.

When night came he started back to North Carolina.

The sculptor was wrapped in his work. For several days he labored without thinking of the boy. Then he looked at what the boy had left.

"Where's that boy's home?" he asked his helpers.

No one knew.

So now Gutzon Borglum, one of the world's greatest sculptors, who insists that his youthful admirer's works had "genius" about them, is driving to North Carolina to find a ragged boy whose name he doesn't know.

"I want to find that boy. I want to tell him that whatever the others think, Gutzon Borglum believes he's a genuius. I want to help him, too, if I can," the sculptor said, here on his way to North Carolina.

Dallas' Political Ghost Is Woman—She Changes Her Mind

DALLAS, Texas, July 11. (AP)—Dallas county's political "ghost," Miss Josie Buck, has withdrawn from the legislative race.

For over a month the county Democratic executive committee tried to locate the mysterious candidate. They finally had decided to scratch her name from the ballot, but she beat them to it.

In a letter to the committee she said:

"I wish you would please explain to the voters that I do exist. Me being a lady and this being my first venture into politics, I suppose I have made a mistake, and leave it to the other two gentlemen to fight it out among themselves."

The letter was signed "Josie Buck" and said "the people of Dallas county will hear more about me when I get my law license."

The candidate, presumably a woman, sent in her $1 assessment fee to get her name on the ticket but never appeared at any of the political meetings.

New York Prof Praises West Texas Tech

Special to The Record News.

LUBBOCK, Texas, July 11.—"The Texas Technological college shows promise of being the leading technical school in the United States," Dr. E. R. Humphreys, professor of economics in one of the New York City schools, stated today while looking over the Tech campus.

Dr. and Mrs. Humphreys expressed surprise at what has been accomplished by Texas in the three years the school has been open. He stated that he has read much of the Tech but did not realize that Texas had the institution that he saw today.

PLAINS DAIRIES RANK HIGH

Association Has Pure Milk As Its Aim

ABERNATHY, Texas, July 11. (AP) Texas longhorns which sold on the ranges for approximately $10 a head have passed into history, and where the thundering herds of yesterday were heard, today pure bred Herefords and Jerseys are grazing. Pure milk from "contented cows" now is the slogan of the plains district, according to the Texas Panhandle—South Plains Dairy association, which has just completed a survey showing this country ranks among the best for dairy herds.

The greatest assemblage of high production and pure blood lines of the most noted sires in America is the boast of the South Plains, the survey shows. Under the direction of the dairy association this section has breeding stock second to none in the country. The association uses a system of cow testing which discloses exactly what improvements have been made in grade herds as a result of better sires. It is the plan of the organization to have a tester in each county of the district.

The question of elimination of the poor producers and the introduction of higher producers at a more economical cost is of vital importance to the industry, according to the survey. It has been recommended that more provision for silage must be made and more small grain for fall grazing must be sown.

"Our section is as well adapted to the dairy industry as any in the country from the standpoint of soil, crops, climate and markets," the report said. "In feeds we have a dependable supply grown on our farms which includes sudan, grain sorghums, cottonseed products and small grain.

HOTEL WORK RUSHED

CHILDRESS, Texas, July 11. (Sp) Brick laying on the new hotel building is well under way, brick having been laid about five feet up the rear walls and on the walls near the alley.

Few Steers Brought From Old Mexico

FORT STOCKTON, Texas, July 11. (AP)—Only a few steers are being brought out of Old Mexico into the Big Bend section of Texas, Arizona and New Mexico, according to Fred Cliett, commission dealer here. There are many steers in Mexico and prices of $40 and $55 are being paid for two and three-year old Mexican steers, he said.

"The best prices being paid in West Texas, Arizona and New Mexico for mixed calves is $45 for fall delivery. Prices as high as $85 a head are being asked for cows for immediate delivery," he added.

Cliett, who has just returned from a trip over West Texas, Arizona and New Mexico, said that all steers are practically gone from the markets and that he could sell many more if available.

The movement to grass from Fort Stockton and Pecos county was lighter last spring than in a long time, due to the shortage of old steers and to the fact that many younger cattle went to the feed early in the winter, he said.

Childress Firemen Make Good Records

CHILDRESS, Texas, July 11. (Sp) Five members of the fire department who attended the school of instruction of the State Firemen's and Fire Marshals' association in Denton, made an excellent record, accordinng to word received by the city council and the fire department.

Those who attended included the following: A. W. Withey, B. M. McWhorter, L. L. Alberston, L. Brathher and J. Ballew.

Stamford Camp Fire Girls Back From Camp

STAMFORD, Texas, July 11. (Sp) Stamford Camp Fire Girls have returned from camp at Diversion dam near Wichita Falls, where members of camps from Byers, Holliday, Petrolia and Dallas were in camp with the members of the hostess group.

Increase Noted In Altus Bank Deposits

ALTUS, Okla., July 11. (Sp)—With a total of $2,956,170.39 on deposit in three banks at Altus, at the time of making the report for the fiscal year, an increase of $772,281.09 is shown over the amount on deposit a year ago.

Motors' Chief Heads Demo Committee

bition issue would elect Governor Smith to the presidency, he added:

"It is too early to predict anything like that."

With the selection of Raskob over, the list of officers of the national committee was completed in jig time. Governor Smith accompanied by Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, his running mate, entered the club house shortly after 3 o'clock and held an informal reception for more than an hour.

Meeting Starts Late

In keeping with the quaint Democratic custom, the meeting was called to order nearly two hours late by Clem L. Shaver of West Virginia, the retiring chairman. To put the members in a good humor, Jesse Jones, chairman of the finance committee, and promoter of the Houston convention, read his report showing that the national committee is out of debt and has a surplus of nearly $200,000 in the bank.

Raskob was then put in nomination by Josiah Marvel, a Wilmington attorney, who said the party needed a man "who can think as all classes of the American people think." He described Raskob as a man "who will master his job as few men could." The nomination was seconded by Norman E. Mack, veteran New York national committeeman, in whose county Raskob was born. That closed the nominations for chairman and the choice was ratified.

While the committee waited for Raskob to be escorted to the stand, Chairman Shaver thanked the committee for the co-operation given him and expressed the hope that it would give the same kind of support to the new chairman. He added:

"If he does get that support, I know this campaign will be a success."

Raskob Applauded

The committeemen and committeewomen arose and applauded Raskob as he entered. The vast majority were laying eyes on the new Democratic chairman for the first time. Withal they got a favorable impression.

They saw a man who clearly bore the stamp of large affairs. Slightly below average height, sturdy and well-knit of body, clad in an inconspicuous blue double-breasted suit, with a gay dotted four-in-hand necktie, Raskob was the picture of an up-to-date business man.

His graying hair has receded from his naturally high, broad forehead, giving him a long narrow face, bronzed from many hours of golf. His eyes are brown and keen, an aquiline nose and a firm mouth give him a strong, vital countenance.

Raskob no doubt has addressed scores of directors' meetings but it was plain that a political speech was a novelty to him and he was quite nervous about it. He shifted uneasily from one foot to the other and his hand trembled slightly as he fingered the manuscript from which he read in a quiet, firm voice.

The slate of officers had been determined upon in advance and the new chairman had no difficulties when he took up the gavel. First Miss Elisabeth Marbury, nommitteewoman for New York, nominated James W. Gerard, former ambassador to Germany, as treasurer of the national committee. That was promptly ratified. Charles A. Greathouse of Indiana was renamed secretary and Col. Edwin A. Halsey of Virginia, sergeant-at-arms.

Broker Elected

The only other change in the officer personnel of the committee was the election of Col. Herbert H. Lehman, New York broker, as chairman of the finance committee, to succeed Jesse Jones. Colonel Lehman was one of the few contributors to the pre-convention campaign fund for Governor Smith.

Senator Peter G. Gerry of Rhode Island, who was prominently mentioned as national chairman, was named by Chairman Raskob as chairman of the advisory committee. The other members will be named later. He also appointed the following vice chairmen and vice chairwomen:

Frank Hague, New Jersey; Governor Harry Byrd of Virginia; Scott Ferris of Oklahoma; Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, former governor of Wyoming, and Mrs. Florence Farley of Kansas.

Lucky Numbers

Chairman Raskob was authorized to name an executive committee to expedite and advise in the campaign. The contests over national committeemen and women in Oregon, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin were referred to a subcommittee and then a flood of resolutions of thanks were adopted that wound up the business of the committee.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Chairman Raskob added a touch of humor by remarking:

"Down our way the darkies have a game called craps. I do not know much about it but that there seems to be two lucky numbers—seven and eleven. If that is any omen we should have success in the campaign for this meeting is held in the seventh month and on the eleventh day."

my children to support and I need your votes."

For county superintendent of schools:

Burl Bryant: "I can answer every criticism that my opponent Wofford has brought forth against me and I am well qualified to hold the position. You people know what I have done and I will let you be judge of who is the best man for the place."

Clyde R. Wofford: "The rural schools pay all of the superintendent's salary therefore they should have all of his service. I want the rural schools to be served whether I do it or someone else does."

J. A. Hood: "With 17 years of school work I have the experience that will fit me for the position and enable me to promote and bolster up education all over the county."

Many for Assessor

For tax assessor:

N. A. Moore: "I am glad to tell you that I am going to be your next tax assessor. I have had experience and I know values."

Max Shumake: "I think that I know tax assessing and I will appreciate your votes."

Mark Banta: "I need your vote to carry out a plan of fair tax assessment and it will take good honest work to do it."

Robert Dunaway: "I have spent five years in the capacity of chief clerk in the tax assessor's office and I feel that I know the work."

B. L. Trevathan: "I believe that I have had enough experience to make you a good tax assessor."

Everett Hughes expressed his qualifications for knowing tax values and asked the support of the voters.

For district judge of 89th district court:

P. A. Martin: "I wish to thank the people for their support in the past and I ask your support again only on the grounds of my experience and ability. My opponent is a fine young man and there is only one thing that should keep you from voting for him. He is too young and inexperienced to hold the position."

Harry Bunnenberg: "Judge Martin has served you well and ably and he should be grateful for the favors that you have shown him. Age and years do not influence common sense and honesty so why should I not be just as capable a man as he? I ask you to ask any representative group of lawyers in this county if I am not capable and if they do not tell you that I am I will not ask for your vote."

For county attorney:

Wayne Somerville: "I ask you regardless of who the man is to vote for the one that is the most capable and the most able to serve you. If you can get a man to go back to his wife without bringing them into court, or if you can settle disputes by not increasing the agitation farther by a trial I think that it is better to do so and on that basis I have tried to run the office."

Bill Davenport: "I am here not to dig up the private records of my opponents. I will let you be the judge of that. If you think that I am capable, vote for me but if you think that one of my opponents is better qualified, vote for him, but I promise you that if I am elected, that I will prosecute liquor cases in the 78th district court and that is more than my predecessors have done."

Crane Issues Denial

Robert K. Crain: "No man who is not capable of holding the office, no matter what his needs are, should fill the position, unless he is qualified to do so. There has been a report circulated that I am an aethist but it is one of the greatest lies that has ever been told against me. I am a Christian and I was raised in a religious family. Since Mr. Somerville has been county attorney the county has been forced to spend $20,000 in hiring outside help to prosecute cases that he should have taken care of. Last week at Iowa Park I asked him to explain this but he only replied, 'It is not my business to do so.' Mr. Somerville says that he believes in keeping husbands and wives together when he has parted more of them in divorce cases than any lawyer in the county."

W. E. Wilson: "I am not in the race to do any mud slinging. The man that is most capable should be in the office. No man should have the office always and as it belongs to you I ask that you consider me in your ballot."

Marrs and Curd Clash

For county judge:

John P. Marrs gave a detailed summary of the duties of the county judge and based his address on the fact that a lawyer should be the man to sit on the bench. He also declared that he was in favor of a greater tax reduction.

P. B. Curd based his platform on the ground that a business man should take care of the office because it is a business office. Points in his speech were contested from the floor by Mr. Marrs, who had to be called to the office several times during his opponent's talk.

E. W. Nicholson: "This office doesn't need Mr. Curd or Mr. Marrs. It has been run according to Hoyle and according to the Queen's wishes. I have run it right and there is no reason to change it."

For representative district 111:

F. G. Swanson: "One of my opponents admits that he is incompetent and he seeks to cover up the fact by declaring that Mr. Graves and I are also. There is only a passing remark to be made on that 'As a man thinketh so is he.' One of the aspirants for the office is too young, the other too old and I am the medium between them."

R. J. Long: "For example of my opponent's capability I will refer you to his speech and ask you just how much you got from it. I said that I would quit the race if a competent man entered. We are not competent and if you do not believe me ask about it in Wichita Falls. Mr. Swenson is a radical and Dr. Graves is a dentist so I do not see that they are as capable as I."

CANDIDATE FOR SENATE SPEAKS

cheaper than the American women can buy them.

"All of this is a part of a great, indirect subsidy. It is on the basis suggested by Alexander Hamilton in the infancy of the republic as a measure to aid the upbuilding of our industries after his plan for a direct government subsidy had been turned down.

Benefits Manufactured

"This tariff benefits the manufacturer and means money in his pocket. It has to come out of some other man's pocket. The people do not see the tax so they don't know they are paying it. In the long run, it is the farmer who suffers. He must pay dearly for all his commodities, and there is no tariff to protect him. The tariff ought to be lowered to aid the farmer.

"Rail rates on farm commodities should be lowered. The United States Chamber of Commerce has said that any business which has to pay 40 per cent of its value to get to market is in a dangerous condition. In the Rio Grande valley, some commodities pay as high as 87 per cent.

"There should be a general revision on the freight rates, and the Interstate Commerce Commission should call a hearing and provide a differential to aid the farmers. Everyone should look into this problem.

"We should develop a flood control program and a water power policy.

"I was curious to learn the cause of the flood control fight, and I found out that the power trust was lobbying to hold it up until it could get congress to believe in selling the power that the flood control measures would create, to the power trust.

"The flood control measure as considered at the last congress, would provide for a number of dams and spillways. Each meant a waterfall and a source of untold power. It was this power that the power trust of Chicago, headed by Samuel Insull, sought to gain.

"A whole floor in a Washington office building was devoted to this trust and its private lobby. Former senators were hired by the trust in the hopes that they might have influence. Money was spent like water.

"You may remember that recently the federal trade commission called a special investigation of the 'educational' propaganda of the power trust.

Above Board Lobbies

"The United States Chamber of Commerce, the American Federation of Labor and the Woman's joint congressional committee are examples of good, open and above board lobbies at Washington which pare fighting for their causes. The power lobby is the finest flower of the private interest lobby system."

Mrs. Cunningham here told of the possibility of a tremendously lower cost if it was developed in the United States as in some other countries where power bills are much lower than they are here.

Farm-Laborites and Prohis Drop Idea of Forming New National Party

CHICAGO, July 11. (UP)—Abandoning the proposal to merge with the Farmer-Laborites, the Prohibition party in convention here today took up the committee draft of its platform which beckons to all friends of prohibition to join under its party banner to fight for the dry cause.

The coalition proposal was definitely set aside tonight when the Farmer-Laborites in convention assembled decided that no further progress could be made to bring the two parties together in the November election and that no further overtures would be made. The Prohibitionists earlier in the day had tabled the joint committee recommendation favoring the merger.

The "dry" plank, urging strict enforcement of the prohibition laws, criticized both the Democratic and Republican parties, "who for many years have nullified the 18th amendment."

The agricultural plank urging strong governmental measures for farm relief, states that the "McNary-Haugen bill would have equalized, in a measure, the disparity existing between organized capital and labor on the one hand and unorganized agriculture on the other."

The convention was expected to adopt the platform substantially as drafted by the committee on resolutions and platform draft, according to Will D. Martin, Hasbrouck Heights, N. J., committee chairman.

Discussing the status of prohibition in the United States, the platform states that "an amendment and a law were obtained but these were committed for enforcement to political parties divided and hostile."

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Skin Parasites and Itching

Many skin eruptions and itchings are caused by minute microscopic insects which enter and live in the skin. The itch insect is probably the most frequent culprit. The male is too small to be seen by the naked eye, but under a favorable light the female, which is a pearly white color, may be seen.

This insect is most frequently found in between the fingers and toes, on the back of the hands, under the arms, on the abdomen and the groins. It lives in a short burrow under the skin which shows as a faint white line with sometimes little blisters. This appearance is characteristic, but many changes may occur because of the scratching and resultant inflammation and pustular infection which may completely obliterate these burrows.

The treatment is to use warm soapy baths with much scrubbing after which sulphur ointment may be rubbed on the affected areas. The clothing should at the same time be sterilized, baked or fumigated.

Head lice may attack the hair. Their color varies from a light gray to almost black. Their eggs which are attached to the hair are usually called nits. This insect causes an eruption and itching of the scalp which may form pustular crusts and scabs. Sometimes the hair becomes cemented and matted together by these exudating crusts. In treating this condition, it is usually advisable to cut the hair short and saturate the affected parts in kerosene which should afterwards be washed off with hot water and soap and a carbolic acid lotion applied. This treatment will usually kill the nit as well as the live lice.

Clothing lice are slightly larger than head lice, and usually attach themselves to the clothing and suck the blood through the skin, causing minute red spots.

They are most frequently found on the neck, back and abdomen, and the arms and legs if they are covered with clothing. This irritation usually produces Urticaria, inflammation, scratching and roughening of the skin. These clothing lice are hard to eradicate, and the clothes should be baked for a long time or thoroughly fumigated, and the individual should use a prolonged warm bath to which bicarbonate of soda is added.

Crab lice are often found in the short hairs of the groins, pubes, under the arms and in the eye brows. To cure this trouble, the parts should be washed thoroughly with warm water and soap several times daily, followed by a mecurial salve, or larkspur vinegar.

Bedbugs live in cracks and crevices of the walls and bed. They may be killed by fumigating thoroughly with sulphur or cyanide, and scouring with corrosive sublimate or kerosene.

Fleas sometimes infest the clothing, carpets, upholstery and bedding. It is best to fumigate the premises with cyanide which can only be done by a professional fumigator. Sometimes the fleas will leave of their own accord when animals are kept out of the house. There are several good flea powders and liquid insect sprays on the market which may be used.

Ticks and harvest bugs may be destroyed by application of kerosene, benzine, sulphur salve or corrosive sublimate solution.

If and insect enters the ear it should be chloroformed and syringed out with warm water or oil.

Questions and Answers

Question: L. K. asks: "How can a bow-legged person straighten his legs? I am 18 years old, but I have been bow-legged for only about eight months. Can this condition be caused by lifting or carrying too heavy objects in your work?"

Answer: You can help your condition somewhat by taking various kinds of leg exercises, such as the deep knee bend, long walks, etc. Carrying heavy objects could only affect you if you are not using enough bone building elements in your diet.

Question: Mrs. A. M. asks: "Would a watermelon fast be beneficial for reducing?"

Answer: Because of the large amount of water present in watermelons they may in many instances be used for fasting. The nutriment is principally sugar, but the melons are rich in alkaline forming minerals which make them good blood purifiers. They are best eaten by themselves and not in combination with other food.

Question: A. W. asks: "Will you please tell me a remedy for granulated eyelids?"

Answer: Granulated eyelids sometime start from a local infection rubbed in by soiled fingers, but infection of any of the mucous membranes is generally only possible from an over-acidity of the stomach and intestines. The irritation of this hyperacidity seems to be able to affect any of the mucous membranes, such as those of the nose, throat and eyes. Local treatments should be used on the granulated lids, but the constitutional derangements must also be eliminated before a permanent cure can be expected.

Cantwells Return From Colorado

Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Cantwell returned to Wichita Falls Wednesday afternoon from Boulder and other points in Colorado, where they have been on vacation for the past month.

Dr. Cantwell said there was more snow than usual in the mountains. At times, he said, he drove his car through lanes where he could reach out with his hand and touch the snow.

Favorite Jokes of Famous People

FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By JULIAN ELTINGE

Julian Eltinge has toured the world several times in vaudeville. Besides owning a theater, he is probably the world's foremost female impersonator.

In these days of close-cropped hair, short skirts and cigarettes, the hardest part about a man imitating a woman is for him to appear mannish enough.

Here's his favorite rib-tickler:

"A long, lean Texas rancher," so the story goes, "led his overgrown son to a country schoolhouse.

"He called the teacher to one side and said: 'This here boy's after learnin'; what's yore bill of fare?'

"'Why,' replied the school master, 'we teach arithmetic, algebra, geometry, trigonometry——'

"'That'll do,' interrupted the father, 'loaded him up with that air triggernometry—he's the only pore shot in the family.'"

SPUDDER ERRORS AND UMPIRING HELP BUFFS WIN OPENER, 6-2

MIKE PITCHES SUPERB BALL

Cvengros Deserves Victory; Stanton Has Big Day

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

I am like the speaker at the banquet who was "too full for utterance," in setting about the task of narrating yesterday's pastime out at the ball orchard. However, it is not with a fullness of heart, but rather with rancor that the job of telling about the victory of the Buffs is begun. So here it is—and if these are bitter words, blame it on the heat, the umpires or just the fact that we lost a ball game that in many ways we shouldn't have lost.

Mike Cvengros and Bill Hallahan engaged in a southpaw battle and Houston's portsider emerged victor, 6 to 2. But figures, contrary to that old saw, DO lie. For the score, which would seem to indicate William bested Michael, is as deceptive as an old maid's bobbed hair and made-over face. For Mike bested Bill and except for some atrocious support and palpable incorrect decisions by the umpires, would have won.

Three errors by Pete Lapan, one the direct cause of a run, and a misjudged fly by Lyman Lamb that resulted in a two-base hit and sent a runner home after two were out, gave the hostiles two tallies.

Such Umpiring

And the umpiring! Shades of Hank O'Day! Mr. Roberts, please, when you have an important series in your league, can't you send us a couple or three GOOD umpires? Or are there any good umpires?

Anyhow, the arbiters made decisions yesterday that obviously were incorrect, that gave the Buffs two runs; and another verdict by a blue serge uniformed fellow deprived the Spudders of a probable tally.

The first help for the Buffs by an umpire was in the second inning. Schuble, who had tripled, was on third, with two out. Snyder struck out but Lapan missed the ball. He recovered, however, and tossed to Cvengros at the plate. Mike had the ball waiting for Schuble—but Grigg ruled the runner safe.

In the ninth inning with two out and Buffs on first and third, I didn't think there was any doubt that Selph swung—but Grigg again couldn't see it our way.

And Then Again

The third instance of such umpiring was in the second inning. Swenson, who had singled, and with two out, stole second. That is, he thought he was stealing second. Schuble took the throw, and hasn't touched Wally yet. But the umpire—this one was Erwin—said out. Of course, it might not have resulted in a run even had Wally been called safe. But the way Stanton, the next batter, was hitting yesterday the chances are that Wally would have scored.

Well, there you are.

Cvengros chucked a beautiful game, even in the face of such support and such umpiring. He allowed only seven hits, one a scratch and the other the misjudged double. Until the seventh inning only two knocks had been made off Mike. He struck out nine and passed only two.

Hallahan turned in a fair game. He fanned eight, but was touched for 10 blows.

Adding to their failure to win was the Spudders' inability to hit with runners on bases. In three innings the first Spudder at bat reached first base, only not to score. There were enough Spudders left on bases, nine, to win two ordinary ball games.

Now for the good.

Stanton Bangs Three Hits

Buck Stanton, who has been hitting the ball hard but in bad luck, came into his own. The kid banged three hits, one a double, and was the leader on the attack for the day. Lamb maced two blows and sacrificed a runner home.

By losing while San Antonio and Dallas were winning, the Spudders slipped from second to fourth place. They virtually are tied with the Steers for third, however, though mathematically in fourth place.

Spuds Tie and Lead

After Schuble had scored in the second as so harrowingly detailed above, the Spudders tied the score in the third. Stanton doubled to left. Lapan walked. Cvengros' bunt forced Lapan, Hock to Schuble, Stanton going to third. Benton's lift to Peel scored Stanton.

The Spudders went ahead in the fourth with a tally. Fitzgerald singled to left and went to second on Lamb's sacrifice, Hock to Selph. Eldred's single to center scored Fitzgerald.

Houston regained the lead in the fifth with a brace of markers. Walker singled past Benton. Walker stole second. Snyder strolled. Lapan threw the ball into center field trying to catch Walker off second, the Buff first sacker moving to third and Snyder to second. Peel was hit by a pitched ball. Hallahan grounded to Turgeon; Walker scoring and the other runners advancing a base. Hock's hoist to Lamb scored Snyder.

Buffs Score More

The Buffs counted again in the eighth. Worthington singled through Cvengros after two were out. Watkins' drive was where Lamb thought it wasn't and Worthington scored on the two-bagger.

Snyder's men tallied another pair in the ninth. With one out Snyder, sturdy Pancho himself, doubled to left. Peel singled to the same territory, Snyder of course stopping at third. The "of course" is used advisedly. Snyder is a great catcher and hitter and smart manager. But it requires a double to score him from second. Hallahan singled to right, Snyder scoring and Peel going to second. Hock forced Hallahan, Turgeon to Benton. Peel going to third. Peel and Hock worked the double steal, Homer scoring; Hock went to third when Lapan muffed Turgeon's throw but Catcher Pete tossed to Stanton to catch Eddie trying to score.

Bankers Lose Count Of Score and Dispute Win

It seems there is a dispute over this ball game. First National bank scored so many runs in their game with Security National bank yesterday that even the bankers lost count of the score. Anyhow, First National players became so tired running around the bases that they retired in the sixth inning. So Security National bankers claimed victory by forfeit, 1 to 0.

Notes of the Game

Right-handers will work the second and final of the series today, with Bill Shores opposing Jim Lindsey.

Skipper Galloway changed the lineup yesterday, sending Benton to shortstop in place of Roetz; Lamb to left field in place of Jenkins, and Eldred to right.

Howard Fitzgerald and Carey Selph made up. In fact, they shook hands and called it even. The occasion was at the last visit of the Spudders to Houston. Galloway and Snyder brought the former belligerents together and being nice boys and disposed to forgive and forget, Howard and Selph willingly shook hands and became friends.

Swenson came in fast yesterday and made a nice play on Watkins' bunt in the fourth.

The Buffs argued that Schuble, who was hit by a slow ball in the fourth, was entitled to his base, but Grigg ruled Heinie hadn't made sufficient effort to evade the pitch.

Schuble made a glittering stop of Lamb's bounder over Hock in the eighth and held Lyman on first.

Turgeon turned in a sparkling play in the ninth when he went far for Hock's harsh hit to force Hallahan at second.

U. S. Olympic Athletes Bound for Amsterdam

NEW YORK, July 11. (INS)—With New York harbor's myriad whistles shrieking a discordant bon voyage, the American Olympic team today sailed away for Amsterdam and the Olympic games, aboard the President Roosevelt of the United States lines.

Knight-Whippet Beats McElreath Nine, 13-2

Thirteen was a lucky number for the Knight-Whippet nine yesterday. They scored that many runs to defeat the McElreath Motor company on the Jalonic street diamond. Bell of the victors struck out 13 and allowed only two runs.

MORRIS BATTERY WINS

Morris Battery station defeated Bob Morris Furniture company nine yesterday on the former's diamond, 8 to 5. Batteries: Morris, Prince and Flack; Moore, Hall and Moore.

Bare Facts

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service)

NEW YORK, July 11.—Grover Whalen, who is director of New York City's doormat, says that no more Atlantic fliers will be welcomed on city hall steps.

Grover indicates that he has run out of municipal felicitations. He has given away so many keys that he cannot even get into his own apartment.

Grover welcomed Amelia Earhart and two other sea gulls last week while the hot sun gilded the dome of his high silk hat.

Yesterday Grover was wearing a Panama. By next week he will be wearing a sun bonnet.

Grover has no objection to Atlantic flying. He says they can start on city hall steps.

But they cannot finish there.

If you want to get the old borough welcome on the executive balustrade in the future you will have to do something different.

This welcome business started with George Washingotn who stood on the steps and said goodbye to the continental army. Then along came Einstein with a double-jointed theory about something and he got the keys to the subway.

Gertrude Ederle dove into a vat of grease and left her footprints all over the steps. It was on this occasion that the world first saw Grover's silk shako in all its pristine beaverishness.

Then Lindbergh looped the great circle and channel floppers followed Atlantic hoppers so fast that Grover had to fire his assistant and hire another hat.

The mobs swelled to such congested statistics that Mayor Walker couldn't get on the steps. He had to come in the back way.

All these welcomes have cost the city around three hundred thousand dollars which is terrific upkeep for two silk beavers.

JACK—MICKEY BUY PYLE BUS

Vehicle Owned by C. C. and Grange Changes Hands

By FRED VAN DEVENDER

CHICAGO, July 11. (US)—A palatial transcontinental bus—including showers, kitchen, sleeping compartments, and even an electric ice box—has changed hands.

There isn't anything very interesting in that news, but—

On the electric sign, in front of the bus, there used to appear the names:

Pyle and Grange.

But now those names have been replaced by:

Kearns and Walker.

It is the identical bus which carried "Crying Croesus" Pyle and Sir Harold "Red" Grange from Los Angeles to Joliet, Ill., where it did a stretch in jail while "Crying Croesus" was looking around for something to use for money, to get it out of hock. He found the money, got the bus and went on to New York.

The transfer of the bus only serves to remind you that Sir Harold is now in the movies, Pyle is on his way to Europe—whatever else it may be, the transcontinental bus is not a Leviathan—Walker is still the middleweight champion of the world, and Jack Kearns is his manager.

And there you have it. Kearns and Walker, in their meanderings from town to town, need some mode of transportation, and the bus happened to fit their needs. Walker can do his road work while Kearns rumbles along in perfect contentment, perhaps drinking cold red lemonade, and thinking of what a soft life he leads.

Or perhaps he's thinking about that decision his champion won over Ace Hudkins, the Nebraska farmer boy, in his recent battle in Chicago.

It was in that event that a majority of the newspaper experts at the ringside asserted Hudkins was the new champion, and in which opinion the referee concurred. The judges thought different, so Walker is still the champ, and Kearns is his manager, and they have a new bus in which to travel around.

DAILY DOPE

By Larry Dailey

EXPERT OPINION to the effect that the Spudders will be the club to halt the Houston Buffs and win the second half flag, if that feat is accomplished, has been rendered. No less a person than Frank Snyder, skipper of the Buffaloes, views the Wichita Falls club as a foremost menace to his nine's hopes of repeating their first half triumph. Frank doesn't say in as many words that the Spudders are the Buffs' foremost menace. But he says our team is "one of the strongest" in the league. Too, Frank's actions mean more than any statement he could make about the Spudders.

Snyder started Carleton in both games Tuesday with the Exporters and saved his more effective chuckers to work against the Spudders. Now, when they save pitchers for a club you can rest assured that club is highly regarded.

AN OPINION by a neutral lends strength to the optimism over the Spudder chances. Bert Ellison, skipper of the Dallas Steers, expressed the belief to this writer that the Spudders would battle the Buffs right down the stretch. Ellison thinks the Buffs will have much more opposition this half than in the first. "Practically every club in the league has strengthened since the first half," Ellison said. "Your club (Wichita Falls) looks particularly good to me. It will be up there all the way. Other teams will be dangerous, too. My club looks like nothing worse than one-two-three and we'll be fighting for one of those places. Houston will have a hard fight to win the second half, I am sure of that."

THE UNITED STATES Olympic athletes, modern crusaders, are on the high seas, bound for the battle on alien fields with the world supremacy in athletics at stake. It is with a feeling of intense pride and hope that Americans contemplate the invasion of foreign shores by the splendid young men and women representing this country in the international games at Amsterdam.

The team that sailed yesterday under the direction of Head Coach Lawson Robertson, looms as one of the greatest squads that ever participated in the Olympic games. It seems that this team will regain the somewhat waning prestige of United States athletics. Until eight years ago the United States held undisputed sway in the Olympics. Then other countries started making serious bids for recognition. Four years ago Jackson Scholz scored the only victory by an American in the races. Our vaunted superiority was at an end, and an era of Nurmi and other such foreigners was at hand.

THE DEFEATS four years ago served their purpose. The U. S. Olympic heads immediately started plans for this year's games, convinced that an infusion of new blood and enthusiasm was needed to maintain our supremacy. They have planned well. Out of the country-wide trials and finals one of the finest American Olympic teams that ever battled for the Stars and Stripes will compete this year.

Bonner to Meet Norton for Title

Champion Beats Wynne, 1 Up in Golf Semi-Final

J. H. S. Bonner, the defending champion, will play Morris Norton in the titular round of the all-city golf tournament. This was decided yesterday when Bonner defeated J. C. Wynne, 1 up, in their semi-final round over the course of the Golf and Country club.

Norton had gone into the finals by disposing of Jack Hale, 4 and 3, the previous day.

The championship final will be played Friday, or Saturday. Their cards yesterday:

Bonner out ....434 544 444—36
Wynne out ....434 542 446—36
Bonner in ....[illegible]
Wynne in ....[illegible]

Bonner, one under par, was 1 up at the turn. They were even until the sixth where Wynne's birdie 2 gave him the lead. Bonner squared the match at the eighth and took the lead at the ninth, with two 4s, to Wynne's pair of 6s.

They continued that way to the thirteenth where Wynne squared the match but Bonner took the lead again at the sixteenth and held his margin the rest of the way.

Charles Keirsey defeated Habe Bigers, 3 and 1 and will meet R. W. Marriott in the finals of the second flight, today or tomorrow.

Allen Rowen and L. E. Nichols will play the finals of the fifth flight today or tomorrow.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, July 11. (AP)—Cotton prices advanced nearly $2 a bale, on unfavorable features in the weather news, and a continuation of buying which developed on the rally yesterday. After selling up to 22.07 early, October broke to 21.82, but advanced to 22.26 in late trading and closed at 22.24, compared with 21.91 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed very steady, at net advances of 33 to 39 points.

The market opened firm at an advance of 11 to 16 points on the relatively firm tone of Liverpool and reports of further rains in eastern and central sections of the belt. The initial demand was supplied by realizing, and selling became more active after publication of the weekly report of the weather bureau which was evidently considered more favorable than anticipated. For a time the market showed considerable weakness under liquidation and local selling, July easing off to 21.59, and December to 21.68, or about 5 to 12 points below yesterday's closing quotations and 20 to 25 points from the opening prices. Demand picked up at the decline, however, and prices reached the best levels of the day in late trading on covering or rebuying by earlier sellers, while there also seemed to be large demand from brokers.

Prospects for additional showers in the eastern belt, and the detailed weather reports showing heavy rainfall in eastern belt districts, were factors on the afternoon advance.

Buying may have been influenced, also, by reports that one of the trade authorities estimated consumption of cotton in this country for June at 520,000 bales, and continued private reports concerning prevalence of boll weevil in some sections of the South.

July sold up to 22.08 and December to 22.11; net advances of about 35 to 40 points and recoveries of some 65 to 75 points from the low level touched on the break of Monday.

Private cables said there had been Bombay and continental buying in the Liverpool market and that the effects of recent American acreage figures had been offset by reports of unfavorable weather in the South.

Exports today 2299, making 7,586,663 so for this season. Port receipts 3600; U. S. port stocks 789,341.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, July 11. (AP)—Cotton prices scored a net advance of $2 a bale in active trading today despite several influences tending to lower values. Trade and speculative buying induced by indications of unfavorable weather in the belt carried October contracts up from 21.35 to 21.72. The delivery closed at 21.67, or 34 points net higher with the general market very steady at net advances of 34 to 40 points.

Liverpool cables were 5 to 9 penny points better than due and the market opened firm in response. First trades showed gains of 13 to 17 points but the failure of New York to respond fully to the favorable English market brought liquidation and prices eased off 10 to 15 points. Towards the end of the first hour, however, the market recovered most of this loss under speculative buying which developed on all dips.

When the weekly weather and crop summary was issued showing that the crop had made fair progress during the past week the market turned easy under liquidation by satisfied longs and October eased off to 21.25 and December 21.20, or 20 to 25 points under the early highs and 8 points below the previous close.

The influence of the weekly statement was offset, however, by the detailed weather report which showed much rain in the eastern belt where dry, hot weather is needed and an official forecast for showers in that section. The bullish influences brought out a good speculative demand and there was also evidence of trade buying. Before the demand was supplied October had recovered to 21.72 and December to 21.68, or 47 to 48 points up from the lows.

There was a reaction of 4 to 5 points at the end on realizing and October closed at 21.67 and December 21.64, or 34 to 40 points net up.

Calling of Loans and Advanced Money Rates Causes Stock Break

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service

NEW YORK, July 11.—Durant and other bull leaders found it too difficult to fight the money factor and the stock market broke today. The effect of the advance in the Chicago rediscount rate was enhanced by calling of $20,000,000 loans, rise in the call rate from renewal of 6 to 7 per cent, and fear of bad news from the reserve bank here tomorrow.

General Motors and a few other pets of the stubborn bull leaders had fought against continued liquidation and short selling for most of the day. Then when the call rate jumped to 7 per cent in the last hour, offerings increased in volume so that support was withdrawn and the bulls thought it best to lighten the load they were carrying. Radio suffered most, dropping over 15 points, but General Motors was in heaviest supply as it dropped 8, while losses of from 3 to 6 points were numerous in both industrials and rails. A fairly good rally was staged after the weak opening that followed the Chicago action but it petered out when banks called more loans. Cotton moved higher on bullish weather advices as did other commodities with the exception of wheat which was hurt by the bearish crop report. Sterling held fairly well but other currencies remained reactionary.

Chicago advance in its rediscount rate to 5 per cent made everyone worry about a similar raise here at the meeting tomorrow. As usual most traders are paying more attention to "effect" than they do to the "cause." It makes no difference whether the New York rate is raised tomorrow or a month from now. Such advance is bound to come—unless an unexpected crash in prices so reduces brokers' loans as to make it unnecessary.

The "cause" of the higher rediscount rate was made more apparent by the advance in call money today. It is the obvious change in money conditions, which even the bull leaders recognize. Their realization of the tighter money conditions is apparent in their strenuous efforts to attract a public following by churning General Motors and a few other "decoys" so as to get sufficient public participation to permit of big distribution.

To what extent the higher rediscount rates are warranted is expected to be shown in the reserve banks statements. Another increase in brokers' loans is thought likely. General estimate places the gain at around $75,000,000. The statements also, it is thought, will show little if any correction in the reserve system or in that of the local bank.

The comparatively small amount of good news available to offset the bearish money developments had little influence. Steel sold down over 4 points although the Iron Age told of an unprecedented amount of new business for this season of the year.

From trade indications Steel's third quarter will be one of the best since the war so that as soon as the market correction is completed it should take a more prominent part in dealings than it has been doing. Rails showed almost as much drop as the industrials although there was less liquidation evidenced therein as few of the rails have been manipulated to the same extent as recently popular industrials.

MARKET REVIEW

R. O. Harvey & Co., rooms 630-35 Harvey-Snider building, received the following Wednesday on cotton, grain and stocks from their New York and Chicago correspondents:

Cotton

NEW YORK, July 11.—A more favorable weather report encouraged short selling with confidence with the trade showing more inclination to buy on the declines contracts were conspicuous by their absence resulting in a stronger market and higher prices. We favor purchases on recessions. Surely the crop is on the defensive.—E. A. Pierce & Co.

Stocks

NEW YORK, July 11.—The increase in the Chicago rediscount rate, substantial calling of loans by New York banks and a rise in call money to 7 per cent after a renewal of 6 per cent furnished the story of today's market. Heavy selling took place at the opening following which an irregular recovery ensued and for a time it looked as if the market was trying to pass over and possibly to ignore the latest developments in the credit situation. The recovery, however, was short lived, irregular and not convincing. Pressure became particularly heavy against General Motors, the resistance of the stock being gradually weakened. The disturbance in General Motors, which naturally was regarded as the market leader and the issue which gave a clue to the action of the industrial stocks, spread through the active entire list and while there probably was a substantial amount of short selling there was undoubtedly also a considerable amount of heavy liquidation. The market at the close was reactionary and the sole topic of discussion was the supply of money and the cost of accommodations.—E. A. Pierce & Co.

Grain

CHICAGO, July 11.—Liquidation was on in wheat as a result of a bearish construction placed on American and Canadian crop reports issued late yesterday and with a lack of support and increased hedging pressure from southwest and also selling by northwest the December dropped to a new low on crop and nearby deliveries into new grounds on present movement, and market showed a noticeable lack of rallying power, although there were intimations of a fair export business. Strength in Liverpool had some effect at the opening, but it was short lived and commission houses and locals were generally on selling side. Intimations that Russia was to buy more wheat led to buying in Liverpool, but that market broke later and closed ⅛ to ⅝ off. Winnipeg showed a heavy undertone from the start, export sales in all positions were finally estimated at 400,000 bushels. Weather conditions in northwest favorable for spring wheat crop and there were less rust reports.

Corn was unsettled with July acting rather tight and the December averaged higher, the latter being influenced by government report on the previous day and sold up to 85 cents at the opening, or 2⅝ over finish of Tuesday. However, the market weakened quickly as trade was not inclined to place much faith in government estimate and December reacted to under finish of previous day. September sold below the finish of previous day. Weather conditions over belt remain very favorable for new crop. Oats were unsettled and reacted after showing strength early. Rye was easier with wheat.

Aggie Ranch Round-Up To Draw 3000 Persons

COLLEGE STATION, Texas, July 11. (AP)—Preparations for the entertaining of more than 3,000 persons who are expected to attend the fourth annual ranchmen's roundup at the A. & M. college's experiment ranch station near Sonora on Aug. 14 and 15 are being made by A. B. Connor, director of the experiment department of the institution.

A number of addresses by prominent men connected with the ranching industry will be made. A number of contests and lectures also will be held.

By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE
Universal Service

CHICAGO, July 11.—Markets that disseminated principally grief with every fluctuation carried wheat and rye down to new low levels today while lifting corn upward. But the strength in corn was not up to expectations.

At the close wheat was down to 2⅝ to 3c; corn was up ⅝ to 1⅛c; oats were unchanged to ⅛ higher; rye was down 2 to 3c.

The government's estimate of the corn crop in its July report of Tuesday afternoon did not produce the results that enthusiastic bulls expected. Corn opened sharply higher, but it began to fall away from its tops immediately.

Forgetting everything about the corn situation except that there has been persistent effort to bull corn for months and that the government report was bullish, and applying these memories to the action of the market one might come to the conclusion that the bulge situation in corn has gone stale.

If that is the truth is is only a question of time when the December future will begin to give way. It may have temporary advances from the present level, but the selling it met with yesterday at the opening suggests that on those advances there will be plenty of offerings.

The closer we come to the harvest of the corn crop the less sympathetic effect tightness in the cash situation on old corn will have on the December future.

Crop reporting is largely dealing with figures that represent only hearsay opinion. It is a fine example of man's greatest sport: trying to make certainty out of something which in its nature is uncertain and will always be so.

Liquidation in wheat and rye was on again, but the selling may have been too general just as the buying of corn may have been too general. The markets themselves mean more than any extraneous circumstances connected with them, and no matter how they looked yesterday it is not impossible that wheat and rye may advance today and corn break.

In the cash market wheat was unchanged to 2c lower; corn was ½ to 2c up; oats were unchanged; rye was quiet; barley was 1 to 3c lower.

COSDEN PLANS NEW REFINERY

Operator Visits Oklahoma Oil Metropolis

TULSA, Okla., July 11.—Joshua S. Cosden of Fort Worth, Texas, who is making a new major company out of the J. S. Cosden and company, spent Wednesday in Tulsa. He checked over reports of his new wildcat well, the Cosden and company-Gray oil company-Westland Oil corporation's No. 1, in the southwest corner of 34-24-8E, southwest of Wynona, which opened a new Wilcox sand area.

The well is making 30 barrels an hour from the sand, topped at 2,637 feet and now in one feet. Mr. Cosden said that his future plans for west central Texas depends on the outcome of the four tests he is drilling in Howard county. Should they be good wells he plans a pipe line and also a refinery at Sweetwater.

Wichita Test Wins Attention

The district's most interesting test right now, and one that is being watched with considerable interest is the wildcat test of Bailey & Dammuth, located 150 feet north and east of the north 40 acres out of section 827, T. E. L. survey, abstract 291, A. Kasker lands, in north Wichita county.

The well which has set casing on a sand at 1875 feet, was bailed Monday and let stand over night, is showing slight traces of oil and is shut down.

That the bringing in of a commercial producer at this point would be the means of opening up a big scope of new territory is shown in its location, the test being three miles east of the Hirschi pool, two miles north of Clara production, and two miles west and north of the old Northwest pool.

Hoover to Discuss Policies Fully in Speech

INDIANAPOLIS, July 11. (AP)—Herbert Hoover, Republican presidential nominee, will discuss fully his views on the farm relief question in his speech of acceptance of the nomination August 11 at Palo Alto, Calif., he informed William H. Settle, president of the Indiana Farm Bureau federation, in a telegram today.

Settle had previously sent a telegram to Hoover asking the nominee to state his personal stand on the farm relief question.

"It is my purpose," Hoover said in his message, "to refrain from making any public declaration regarding policies or issues until my acceptance speech when I will deal with the subject fully."

American Adventurers Of Air Have Returned

SAN FRANCISCO, July 11. (UP) Two American adventurers of the air who set forth a little more than a month ago with two Australians on the conquest of the Pacific returned in triumph to their native shores today.

The liner Malolo, bringing Harry W. Lyon Jr., navigator, and James Warner, radio operator of the Southern Cross, back home from their long flight, docked here today.

A squadron of army planes from Crissy field cruised over the Malolo as it entered the Golden gate and an official welcoming party from the tug sea scout boarded the liner just outside the harbor.

Branch of Louisville Bank Robbed of $4500

LOUISVILLE, July 11. (AP)—Three robbers entered a branch of the First National bank at noon here today, covered employes and a customer with pistols, snatched up $4,500 and escaped in the customer's car.

AMERICAN MURDERED

VIENNA, July 10. (AP)—Austrian police, acting at the instance of the American legation and consulate, were investigating today the murder of a man believed to be John Swetina, thought to be an American. The face and body of the man who was about 45, bore many marks of violence, indicating that he had made a fierce struggle to defend himself. He was found at Steindorf with his hands tied, strangled to death.

Two Die in Clay County Accidents

Special to The Record News.

HENRIETTA, Texas, June 11.—Two persons were killed and a number injured in eight serious automobile accidents in Clay county during June, the report of Joe Persky, county motorcycle officer, to the commissioners' court here Tuesday said.

The report showed that 30 speeders had paid fines during the month, while several persons were charged in county and federal court with "drunk while driving."

About 200 automobiles were stopped during the month, Mr. Persky estimated, and cautioned against improper lighting, which, the statement contended, was responsible for the accidents.

The officer was ordered by the court to arrest all persons driving automobiles on which the head and tail lights were faulty.

DUKE HONORED BY VETERANS

Spanish War Association Shows Growth

W. R. Duke of Wichita Falls, retiring departmental commander of the United Spanish War veterans, has been honored by his organization in the presentation of a solid gold, past departmental commander's jewel, it was learned Wednesday after the return from the annual state convention at El Paso of W. S. Lankford, W. T. Culley and Mr. Duke.

The jewel is the highest honor the state organization can confer on any of its members or officers.

Those who attended the meeting report one of the greatest conventions in the history of the organization. In the past year, under the departmental leadership of Mr. Duke, the department of Texas has doubled its membership and has grown from 16 to 32 camps.

Lions Send Greetings To Iowa Convention

Lions of Wichita Falls wired greetings to the International Lions convention now in session at Des Moines, Ia., on receipt of a wire at the Tuesday noon luncheon from Dr. R. H. Graham, president, and Frank Cripliver, secretary of the local organization, who are in Des Moines.

R. O. Kenley made a short talk in which he praised the local Lions club for bringing out of town visitors here to see the zoo.

William Donnell played a violin solo, and Miss Elizabeth Donnell played the piano accompaniments. S. M. Gose and A. B. Maples were in charge of the musical program.

James King, vice-president, presided at the meeting. W. E. Wilson corresponding secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting. Mr. Aldrich led the singsong.

State Deaths

JOHN N. SUGGS JR.

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, July 11. John N. Suggs Jr., age two years and six months, died Wednesday morning at 2:10 at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Suggs on the Maganolia lease just north of the city, following a week's illness.

The funeral services took place Wednesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in the Owens Funeral home, the services being conducted by Rev. M. B. Hays of the First Baptist church. Interment followed in the Burkburnett cemetery.

Three other small children survive with the parents.

MRS. FRANCES H. MONDAY

Special to The Record News.

BURKBURNETT, Texas, July 11. Mrs. Frances Hellene Monday, 40, wife of L. C. Monday, Gulf company employe, died suddenly in her home in the Bogart addition from heart failure about noon today.

The funeral arrangements are not fully made, but the burial will take place Friday or later in the week at Wichita Falls.

Mrs. Monday is survived by her husband, her father, J. F. Page, who lives in her home, and three brothers. The family has lived in Burkburnett for the past eight years.

Mrs. Monday's death was a great shock to her family and friends. She was apparently in normal health and was talking to a neighbor in her door, when she suddenly collapsed and death came before a physician could reach her.

Shades of the well known days, a decade ago, when we shoveled coal, cussed influenza quarantines and let out the hungry yell of "When do we eat?" are vividly called to the top of the column by the cry of "When do we fight?" as expressed in a war comedy now getting the electric lights at the Olympic theater.

"When do we fight," is one of those incidents that happen when George Sidney and Charlie Murray are trying to find themselves in "Lost at the Front." Natalie Kingston is seen in this warlike fun as the leading woman star.

"The Girl From Chicago," a show that holds some real excitement after some of the wishy washy melodramas that have happened along, is due to open Friday at the Strand. It has vitaphone music accompaniment. Myrna Loy and Conrad Nagel are starred.

Fans at the Mission theater are already trying to solve the mystery of "who is the man without a face?" "The Man Without a Face" is a serial picture, and the next installment will be shown at the Mission Saturday.

Anna May Wong, the little Chinee girl from Denver, who has cut quite a swath in the movies the past few years, is seen as a dancer in "The Chinese Parrot." It seems rather funny for this little Oriental to be cast as a dancer but as she is one of the cleverest women on the stage or screen, her work is bound to be good.

Here's what the "well dressed cop," Charlie Murray, will wear in "Lost at the Front" at the Olympic theater starting Thursday.

Mrs. Wilmans Urges Lower Auto Fees in Short Address Here

Revenue lost under a drastic reduction in the automobile tax under the plans proposed by Mrs. Edith Wilmans, of Dallas, candidate for governor, would be amply cared for by reclamation, flood control and development of much of the idle lands of Texas, she told about 50 persons who heard her in an unannounced address at the courthouse Wednesday morning.

Under her plan of development of the unproductive lands, she pointed out, property values of the state would be enormously increased, resulting in an increase in the state revenue comparable to the decrease caused by almost complete reduction of the automobile tax.

"I favor retention of a tax large enough to care for the cost of license plates, but I do not believe it necessary that plates be purchased each year," she declared.

Mrs. Wilmans, who expressed herself as sure of her election to the office of governor and seemed surprised that anyone should entertain a contrary opinion, also offers as means of counteracting the decrease in revenue resultant from a lowered automobile tax a sweeping reform in the present prison system.

She pointed out that at one time while she was a member of the 38th legislature on one prison farm about 800 negro convicts earned only $1.50 per month toward their upkeep, necessitating an appropriation of more than $80,000 for the farm on which they were imprisoned.

After a 15 minutes address in the 89th district courtroom at the courthouse beginning at 9 o'clock Wednesday morning, Mrs. Wilmans left for Amarillo.

"I do not announce my itinerary," she said, "because I have found that my opponents in the race arrange as many diversions as possible for me."

After her address here Mrs. Wilmans told a Record News reporter that although she had no idea who would be in the run-off with her, she hoped it would be Gov. Dan Moody, "for," she said, "he would be the easiest of my opponents for me to defeat.

"They can no more stop me from being the next governor of Texas than they can stop the sun from shining," Mrs. Wilmans declared.

Services Held For Donald Harrison

Funeral services for Donald Harrison, 19, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Harrison of 1610 Fourteenth street, who died at the family residence Monday, were held from the home Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock, with the Rev. A. F. White, pastor of the Grace Methodist church officiating. Burial was in Riverside.

Kay Davis, Eldon West, Dick Long, Crawford Stovall, Eugene Crossland and Wilson Gray were active pallbearers.

TAX BOARD IN FINAL HEARING

Protests To Be Completed At Session Today

The county board of equalization, meeting at the court house, will hold its last hearing on protests of county taxes Thursday. Tuesday and Wednesday the board listened to protests of taxpayers on real estate. Thursday they will hear complaints of banks, corporations and oil companies.

Should the work not be completed Thursday, which is improbable, County Judge E. W. Nicholson said, unfinished business will be taken care of in a Friday morning session.

The assessment rolls must be completed in time to reach the state department at Austin on July 16, Judge Nicholson said.

CONGRATULATIONS

Optimist Club Adopts Resolution On Lions Zoo

Congratulations to the Lions club of Wichita Falls on the work of collecting animals for the municipal zoo, thanks to Dr. R. H. Graham for his leadership in the work, and to C. C. Bunnenberg, superintendent of parks for his hard work and service to the wishes of the citizens in connection with the zoo, were expressed in a resolution adopted by the Optimist club of Wichita Falls at the Wednesday noon luncheon meeting of the club.

O. R. Hartt, chairman, introduced the Rev. N. F. Grafton who spoke on "What It Means to Be an Optimist."

J. W. Gray reported on three boys now being cared for in a local Optimist home. B. D. Sartin led the community singing.

Since Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

DAUGHTER OF MRS. G. H. CORDLE
833 Hazel St., Macon, Georgia

Macon, Ga.—"I am taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and feel much relieved and I am giving it to my daughter, too. At twelve years of age she was so pale that even her lips had no color. She couldn't hold out to do any work to amount to anything. I gave her the Vegetable Compound and now at 13 years of age she is like a different girl. We are willing for you to use these facts for a testimonial as we cannot praise the Vegetable Compound too much. We will continue to take it and tell of its wonderful value."—Mrs. G. H. Cordle, 833 Hazel Street, Macon, Georgia.

Will Answer Letters

"I am a young mother, eighteen years of age. From early girlhood I suffered terribly because of a run-down condition. My mother advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to see if it would help me, as she was worried. I did, and now I feel fine. After suffering for five years like I did and then taking nothing but the Vegetable Compound, you may be sure I am recommending it to others. I am willing for you to use anything I say as a testimonial and I will answer letters from any woman wanting to know about the medicine."—Mrs. Dewey Moore, 827 Broderick St., Columbus, Ohio.

DEATON RITES HELD TODAY

Services at 10 A. M. For Wichita Girl

Funeral services for Miss Louise Deaton, 22, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Deaton, 1208 Austin, who died Tuesday night in a Dallas hospital, are to be held at 10 a. m. today from the First Methodist church, with Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor, in charge.

Miss Deaton, who was in Dallas visiting her sister, Mrs. H. G. Maltz, succumbed after an attack of acute indigestion. Her sister and parents were at her bedside when death came.

A member of one of the pioneer families of Wichita Falls, Miss Deaton was well known here, and had a wide circle of friends. She received the degree of bachelor of arts from Southern Methodist university at Dallas in June, 1927, and was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Alphia Theta Phi, both honorary sororities. In addition she was a member of the Alpha Delta Pi sorority. She graduated from the Wichita Falls high school in in 1923 with high honors.

Pallbearers at the funeral have been announced as follows: Oral Jones, S. H. Whitley, V. F. Trout, Lester Jones, Guy C. Raley, and Bob Dunaway. Honorary pallbearers will include W. L. Robertson, J. N. Sherrill, I. A. Farris, M. H. Stratton, T. B. Smith, Dr. R. C. Smith, J. H. Emmert, Roy A. Jones, Walter Robbins, and L. W. Callender.

Surviving are her parents; her sister of Dallas; her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Deaton; her maternal grandmother, Mrs. W. P. Billingsley; and a number of other relatives.

Crowded Program For Vaudeville

The complete program for the free vaudville program at Bellevue park was announced for Thursday night as follows:

Mary Holland; Miss Frances Phillips, Miss Lorene Tucker and Miss Jean Fisk, vocal selections; Marion Reesby, the boy whistler, of bird songs; the Lions club boys' band under the direction of Leo Underwood; the I. B. Thompson string quartet; Miss Marjorie Hoenscheidt in songs and dances; Miss Eleanor Pitman and Mrs. J. S. Pitman in songs and monologs; and Guy Rogers, the boy harmonica king.

Schedule Changed For Swimming Lessons

A change in policy in the free swimming lessons being given by the city park department, effective immediately, was announced Wednesday.

For greater convenience and efficiency, all lessons will be given the balance of this week and all of next week at the Westmoreland swimming pool. The instruction will be under C. C. Frazee and his assistants.

The schedule is changed, and by it, the boys and girls under 18 will receive lessons daily from 4 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon.

Women's lessons will be given from 3 to 4 o'clock, and from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons. Instruction for men will be from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons.

Fillmore Asks Aid In Weed Campaign

Dr. H. D. Fillmore, manager of the city health department, said Wednesday that while many have taken the warning of the city to remove the weeds which have been cut and piled in alleys, that some have been left.

"The city is seeking the co-operation of all the people in removing the weeds as they constitute both a fire hazard and a menace to health," the doctor said. "Those who don't know what to do with the weeds will be given our cooperation and advice if they will telephone to the health department in the city hall."

Shelter Provided For "Miss Sugar"

A shelter is to be built at the Lions club municipal zoo for Miss Sugar, the elephant.

It was explained at the offices of the park department Wednesday that Miss Sugar is on public view and exhibition, and that if she is allowed to go inside of her barn, she will be out of sight of the crowds.

The shelter will give her shade when she wants it, and also will give protection against sudden showers in case she does not choose to get wet.

Oral Jones to Attend Bankers' Meet at Dallas

Oral Jones, cashier of the City National bank, will attend the meeting of the eleventh federal reserve district to be held in Dallas, Thursday.

The purpose of the meeting is to discuss means of bringing about close cooperation between the 800 banks and the federal reserve bank in Dallas.

Charges Against Shook, Pryor And Shumate Set for Trial July 16

Sixteen criminal cases are set for trial in 30th district court before Judge E. G. Thornton for the week beginning July 16, according to setting released Wednesday by Gage McDermott, assistant district attorney.

Ed Pryor, Henry Shumate and Tom Shook head the list of settings with their case on charges of burglary to be called Monday morning.

Pryor, Shook and Shumate were arrested in Electra several weeks ago the day following a break from the county jail here in which Henry Shumate, Robert Moore and J. D. Whitt escaped.

Pryor, according to officers, was sleeping with the escaped man at the time of the arrest. Shook was arrested at his home a short time later. Following their indictment a week ago, Pryor, constable at Electra, and Shook, a former police chief there, were allowed to make bond of $1500.

The settings, with defendant and charge follow:

Henry Shumate, Ed Pryor and Tom Shook, burglary; Henry Shumate, burglary; Henry Shumate, robbery by firearms; Mary Pearson, robbery; Jack Flippin, theft over $50; Beulah Howe, burglary; Frank Kelly, burglary; Frank Kelly burglary; Frank Kelly, burglary; Douglas Lister, burglary; Jenny Lee Helm, Burglary; R. L. Marshall, forgery and passing; Inez Wilkes, forgery and passing; Inez Wilkes, forgery and passing; T. C. Smith, theft over $50; and T. C. Smith, theft over $50.

Grand Jury Adjourns Without Report On Jail Breaks Here

The grand jury in 30th district court adjourned at noon Wednesday for the July term, subject to call of E. G. Thornton, judge of the court, without having reported upon their investigation into recent breaks from the Wichita county jail.

Fourteen indictments were returned by the body Wednesday, bringing the total to 37 for the July term, according to Gage McDermett, assistant district attorney.

The report made by the body to Judge Thornton did not include recommendations of any nature, but the jurors lauded the work of Ben P. Allred, district attorney, and his two assistants, Dick Kenley and Mr. McDermett.

Indictments returned Wednesday included: An assault to murder charge against G. W. Crumley; charges of driving while intoxicated against J. G. Rush and W. L. Hamrick; forgery and passing charges against R. L. Marshall and Joe Owens, and charges of theft over $50, theft over $50 by bailee, manufacture and possession of liquor for purpose of sale, three charges of forgery and passing and three charges of embezzlement against persons not yet arrested.

Another Snake For Zoo

A mystery snake was received Wednesday by the city park department from Bentonville, Ark. It was shipped in, and there was no indication as to the donor, according to the department officials. The snake is a blue racer and is described as being an exceptionally good speciman.

Police Relief Fund

The value and service of the police relief fund in Wichita Falls was commented on Wednesday by W. E. McBroom as he sent five checks in payment of five small bills totaling $34.50 for medical attention and supplies.

"This fund has saved the life of one man and has been of aid to many more," the city clerk said.

Railroad Visitors

George Kay of Dallas, commercial agent of the Southern railway system, was a Wednesday visitor at the Wichita Falls and Southern and M-K-T offices here.

G. S. Sanders, demurrage inspector, J. A. Slater, traveling passenger agent, and K. Van Slyck, industrial agent, of M-K-T railway are visiting the Wichita Falls office of the M-K-T.

R. L. Davidson, of Fort Worth, traveling time keeper of the Fort Worth and Denver railway was in Wichita Falls Wednesday.

CITY PLANNERS MEET FRIDAY

New Board to Map Work At Conferenec

Committees will be named, organization and work will be outlined, and the divisions of work decided upon at the first meeting of the city planning and zoning commission Friday morning at 10 o'clock in the directors' rooms of the chamber of commerce, according to announcements made Wednesday by Walter S. Curlee, chairman.

"Every member of the commission should make a sincere effort to attend the meeting," Mr. Curlee said. "There is a great deal of work to be done, and it is essential that we all start out with the same general idea and knowledge of the work."

FREE MOVIES

Free motion pictures will be presented by the city park department Thursday evening at the North Side community house and also at O'Reilly park, it was learned at the offices of the city park department Wednesday.

RALEY GIVES VOTING RULES

Transfer Necessary In Change of Residence

Persons wishing to transfer their poll taxes from one precinct to another must do so within four or five days of election, depending on whether or not they are making a transfer within the county on an inter-county transfer, according to announcement made Wednesday by Guy C. Raley, county tax collector.

Residents of the county who have moved and wish to vote in their new precinct must make the transfer at the office of the county tax collector at least five days before election. Persons who have moved to this county and wish to make a transfer must do so at least four days before the election. All transfers are made through the tax collector's office.

Persons 21 years of age since the last election who have not taken out exemption papers and who lived out of Wichita Falls on January 1 will be entitled to a vote. Persons living in Wichita Falls on January 1, however, cannot cast their first vote unless they took out exemption papers, Mr. Raley said.

Services Saturday For Mrs. R. E. Huff

Funeral services for Mrs. R. E. Huff, who died recently in Bordeaux, France, as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident, will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday from the First Baptist church, Rev. O. L. Powers officiating.

Judge R. E. Huff and Dr. R. E. Huff Jr., arrived in New York late Tuesday, and left Wednesday for this city, with the body.

Lodge Association Holds Meeting

IOWA PARK, Texas, July 11. (Spl)—After a drill on the streets of Iowa Park, the Wichita County Odd Fellows and Rebekahs association convened in session here tonight. After the opening ode, and the evening prayer, the address of welcome was given by Mr. Humphrey. Miss Myrtle Cooper responded to the address. Musical selections by Mrs. Sherwood and her daughter, and a reading by Miss Mae Majors followed.

After the business session, the Iowa Park band gave musical selections. Other readings and musical selections were given by Harold Mulkey, the Wilson quartet, Eugene Tomilson, George Taylor, Helen Mae Jackson, and Mr. Humphrey.

The committee in charge of the program consisted of the following: Mrs. Helen Roberts, chairman; Ora Ackerman, Nettie Davis, R. Brubaker, and Mr. Golden.

RECORD SHIPMENTS

CHILDRESS, Texas, July 11. (Sp)—An average of from 15 to 20 carloads of freight each day and a maximum of 40 carloads for one day, is the record set at the local depot.

My Bleach for Tan and Freckles

"I continue my photographic posing all through the summer," says Miss Emily Boyle, noted New York camera model, "and being inclined to tan and freckle, I have to have a bleach that will keep my skin white and flawless and at the same time is harmless.

"For my bleach I use no ready-made preparation, but simply get three ounces of Orchard White at the drug store and mix it with the juice of two lemons. This makes a quarter pint of a perfectly marvelous bleach for a few cents. Rubbed into the face, neck and arms, it bleaches away tan and freckles and makes any dark, sallow or discolored skin beautifully clear and white. This is the bleach all the studio models learn about soon after they begin posing. No ready-to-use preparations can equal it, because, for one reason, you use it while it is still fresh."—Adv.
