Precinct boundary changes proposed

Redisricting needed to obtain minority-dominated precinct

A county redistricting proposal would call for significant boundary changes in two of the four county precincts, county commissioners said today.

Tuesday morning, commissioners and County Judge Bob Doolittle met with the staff of Bickerstaff, Heath and Smiley in the law firm's Austin office to define what was initially suspected to be minor changes in the county's precinct boundaries. However during the meeting, it became apparent that to obtain a minority-dominated precinct, as required by the U.S. Justice Department, significant changes in Precincts 1 and 4 would need to made.

The proposed plan, to be formally submitted to commissioners during their 10 a.m. Monday meeting, would make new Commissioner Jerry Morgan's Precinct 1 the minority-dominated precinct with a minority population of 52.8 percent. The precinct now has a minority population of just under 46 percent.

Minor boundary changes would also be seen in Precincts 2 and 3.

Commissioners noted that there is currently no minority-dominated precinct in the county.

Under the proposed plan, Precinct 2's minority population would change to 16.4 percent from the current 17.06; Precinct 3 would change to 8.44 percent from 11.72; and Precinct 4 would change to 23.86 from 33.75.

The figures are based on county population numbers from the 1990 census. According to those figures, Scurry County has a population of 17,694 residents. These figures do not reflect the approximately 900 inmates at the Price Daniel Unit.

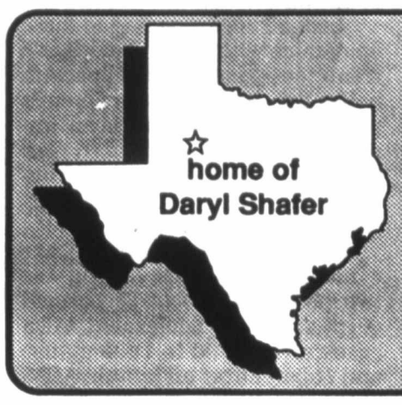

The plan had to be constructed using Justice Department guidelines which also specify there cannot be more than a 5 percent (up or down) deviation in population between each of the four precincts. However, commissioners said they feel comfortable with the proposed plan that allows a 5.56 percent deviation.

A public hearing on the proposed plan is expected to be set for Thursday, Aug. 15, in the county courtroom. If the plan is met favorably by the public, then commissioners say they will adopt the proposal during their Aug. 18 meeting.

The proposal will then have to be approved by the Justice Department.

In Brief

Prison fight

WOODVILLE, Texas (AP) — A group of Hispanic and black inmates at a medium-security prison sparked a recreation yard brawl, which guards ended with tear gas, a prison spokesman said Wednesday.

Four officers and one inmate were injured in the melee late Tuesday at the Lewis Unit about 50 miles north of Beaumont, said Department of Corrections spokesman Charles Brown.

Brown said the fight started at about 7:40 p.m. when a group of Hispanic inmates "made advances" toward a group of black inmates.

AJRA National Finals...

Fast times dominate rodeo's debut

By PHIL RIDDLE
SDN Sports Editor

Fast times dominated Tuesday's debut of the AJRA National Finals Rodeo at Scurry County Coliseum.

Mary Peril of Mountain Home turned in the fastest time in the girls 13-15 division in three years of barrel racing with her top clocking of 14.48 seconds. Peril and six other wranglers posted sub-15-second times around the barrels while five breakaway ropers finished in under four seconds.

The rodeo continues today through Saturday with nightly shows at 8 o'clock in the coliseum. Tonight's performance is "Senior Night" at the rodeo. All senior citizens get in for half price.

Tickets are $6 for box seats, $4 for general admission and $2 for children.

In addition to the evening performance, slack events were held Tuesday morning and Tuesday night, with new world champions named in girls' polebending.

Tibba Smith, of Carlsbad, N.M. claimed her second straight polebending championship in Tuesday night slack. She scooted to an event-best 19.85 finish. Erin Kelly wound up the season in second place.

Jennifer Smith became the new 13-15 title-holder by posting a 20.08 clocking, tops in the division. Sweetwater's Shasta Brooks finished third in the go-round with her time of 20.60 but took second for the season.

Ashley Looney of Del Rio flashed a 20.71-second time and picked up world champion honors in the girls 16-19 poles. Lorissa Edmondson of Roby captured the season's runner-up spot.

The top four finishers in the go-round carded times within .7 of a second of each other. Behind Looney's 20.71, Mondee Nelson of Eldorado finished in 21.35 and Snyder's Debbie Schwarz took a 21.40 for third in the round. Debbie's twin sister Deana wound up

Fed survey paints bleak picture of economic recovery

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States so far has seen a "slow, uneven" recovery from the recession with economic prospects dimmed by weak retail sales, lackluster factory demand and rising layoffs of state and local government employees, the Federal Reserve said today.

The Fed's latest survey of business conditions around the country painted a rather bleak picture of the economic recovery that the Bush administration says began in the spring.

It showed that any upturn in activity so far had been spotty at best with some segments of the economy actually doing worse in recent weeks.

"According to contacts around the country, national economic conditions continue to improve but at a slow, uneven pace," the Fed report said. "The pickup in home sales in the spring has lost some momentum and commercial real estate markets and nonresidential construction remain weak."

The Fed's generally bleak review of the economy, prepared by its 12 regional banks, was released one day after the central bank decided to slash a key interest rate in an effort to keep the economy from dipping back into recession.

The central bank, under pressure from the Bush administration, nudged down the federal funds rate, the interest banks charge each other, by 0.25 percentage point to 5.5 percent on Tuesday in a move that sparked a rally on Wall Street. Nervous investors took hope that the central bank was prepared to bolster the anemic economy with further credit easing.

Hearing set for Thursday in Hermleigh

A second public hearing to receive input in Scurry County's effort to apply for Texas Community Development Program funds will be held at 7 p.m. Thursday at Hermleigh High School.

A public hearing was held July 25 to discuss a grant application of some $250,000 through the Texas Department of Commerce to fund updates in the Hermleigh water system. The system services some 350 residents.

The county will apply for the maximum $250,000 and a matching five percent — $12,000 — will be added from system funds.

Citizens attending the previous meeting were told that if the grant is approved, the largest portions of the funds would be used to replace existing water lines. "The pipe was laid in 1927 and a lot of the original lines are still there," said Precinct 4 Commissioner Jerry Gannaway.

Todd Engineering of Abilene is conducting an engineering study to accompany the grant applications. Gary Traylor and Associates of Lubbock will write the grant.

Absentee turnout low

If the absentee turnout for the county educational district elections is any indication, Scurry County residents won't be flooding the polls this Saturday.

Only 81 people took the time to cast their ballots in the state amendment election at Scurry County Clerk's Office. The absentee voting period ended Tuesday.

In the county educational district election at Snyder public schools administration building, only 56 people cast their ballots. Three voted absentee at Hermleigh. Ira school did not have figures available.

"I would say it is very low, very light," said County Clerk Frances Billingsley. "We hope for a better turnout Saturday."

Polls will be open Saturday from 7 a.m. until 7 p.m. at the four county precincts and at Snyder and Hermleigh school business offices and Ira Community Center.

The school finance law approved by the 72nd Legislature created 188 new county education districts, composed of single counties or groups of counties. In the case of County Education District No. 11, this includes Scurry, Crosby, Fisher, Garza and Kent counties.

The purpose of a county education district is to levy the required local first-tier tax to raise the equivalent of 72 cents per $100 of assessed market value and to redistribute the proceeds among school districts within the county education district.

Voters should be aware that there are two separate elections Saturday. At four precinct locations in the county, voters will cast their ballots on a proposed state constitutional amendment which would authorize county educational districts to hold elections to allow voters to decide whether to grant an exemption on a percentage of the assessed value of residents, whether to grant an additional exemption on the homesteads of elderly and disabled persons, and whether to impose taxes on certain types of property.

The second elections will be held at Snyder and Hermleigh school administration buildings and Ira Community Center. These elections act on the authorization of the state election.

The reason the two are held simutaneously is, if voters approve the proposed amendment statewide, the locally adopted options would go into effect without delay.

Precinct voting locations for the constitutional amendment election are:

—Precinct 1, encompassing voting box 14, Loyd Mountain; box 15, northeast Snyder; and box 16, north central Snyder, will be the Scurry County Health Unit.

—Precinct 2, encompassing voting box 5, Fluvanna; box 6,

The feller on Deep Creek says, "With so many efforts failing in raising funds for public education, it may be time for prayers in public schools."

A paperback book publisher, in hopes of free publicity, sent a news release on a new paperback entitled, "Life's Little Instruction Book."

It includes 511 suggestions, observations and reminders on how to live happy and enjoy a rewarding life. Most of the stuff is similar to those found on greeting cards.

Here's some samples:

--steer clear of restaurants with strolling musicians.

--if a fight is inevitable, hit first and hit hard.

--never encourage anyone to become a lawyer.

--resist the temptation to buy a boat.

--leave the toilet seat in the down position.

--resist the temptation to put cute messages on your answering machine.

--avoid a church that has cushions on the pews and is considering building a gymnasium.

--don't flush urinals with your hand, use your elbow.

--don't ever watch hot dogs, sausage or laws being made.

--never tell your wife "I told you so," even if you did.

To needle exchange...

Federal government should drop opposition

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal advisory panel on AIDS says the government should drop its opposition to needle exchange programs that let drug addicts swap used syringes for clean ones.

The National Commission on AIDS said Tuesday that the government should be doing more to combat AIDS and drug abuse in tandem because the twin epidemics are inextricably linked.

And it faulted the Bush administration for a "myopic criminal justice approach" to drug abuse that emphasizes punishment over treatment.

The commission said a third of all recent AIDS cases are related to intravenous drug use, yet federal agencies "have barely recognized the linkages."

"The failure to acknowledge this — the obvious — is bewildering and tragic," the commission said in its report, "The Twin Epidemics of Substance Use and HIV." HIV is the human immunodeficiency virus that causes AIDS.

The panel said programs that link needle exchange and distribution of bleach to kill the AIDS virus with drug treatment "have demonstrated the ability to get substance users to change injection practices."

"More significantly, these programs, rather than encouraging substance use, lead substantial numbers of substance users to seek treatment," it said.

It cited as an example a needle exchange program in Tacoma, Wash., that became the largest source of drug treatment referrals in Pierce County.

The panel advocated scrapping laws that restrict the sale and possession of syringes and other injection materials. Currently, 11 states and the District of Columbia require prescriptions to obtain needles.

"The present laws restricting sterile injection equipment do not prevent drug abuse but do increase HIV transmission," said Don Des Jarlais, a member of the commission. "These laws are obsolete and dangerous to the public health."

The Bush administration opposes needle exchange programs because it believes they can be viewed as sanctioning drug abuse. John Gibbons, a spokesman for the Department of Health and Human Services, said federal law prohibits the department from spending money on any such program.

National Drug Policy Director Bob Martinez said the commission's report and other studies on needle-exchange programs "fail to provide clear scientific evidence that such programs reduce risk-taking behavior."

The commission was particularly critical of Martinez's office, which it said virtually ignores the link between AIDS and drug abuse.

"Instead of responding to these epidemics with public health and treatment measures to cope with both, the federal government's primary response has been imprisonment and increased jail sentences, often ignoring drug-HIV relationships," the report said.

It said the "dire results" are evident in statistics linking the two problems. About 32 percent of all adult and adolescent AIDS cases are related to IV drug use and 71 percent of all female AIDS cases are linked directly or indirectly to IV drug use.

The commission recommended expanding drug abuse treatment efforts, developing more programs that fight AIDS and drug abuse in tandem and expanding research on the link between the two problems.

It also called for more government and private efforts to fight social problems such as poverty, homelessness and lack of medical care that can promote drug use.

Martinez said the commission's report distorts the government's position on drug treatment and that Congress has failed to provide all the money the Bush administration sought for treatment.

The 15-member commission, made up of House, Senate and White House appointees, was created to advise Congress and the president on AIDS policy.

Robbery sting...

Former police chief arrested

HALTOM CITY, Texas (AP) — A former Azle police chief who allegedly organized an outlaw squad to rob drug dealers in their homes has been arrested after he rushed into a Haltom City home filled with Texas Rangers, authorities said.

Officers said David Wilhelm was arrested in a sting organized by a Haltom City detective whom Wilhelm thought he had recruited as a member of an organization that was allegedly going to target about 15 drug dealers in Tarrant County.

Officers were searching today for a second man, a former Azle reserve police officer, who is believed to also be a member of the organization.

Authorities said Wilhelm and the other man believed they had recruited Haltom City Detective Charles Beltram, who had once worked with Wilhelm.

Beltram was cooperating with the Texas Rangers and Tuesday led Wilhelm to a house where nine Rangers were waiting, authorities said.

Wilhelm, 45, of Springtown, was being held in the Haltom City Jail today in lieu of $150,000 bail.

Haltom City police Commander Wayne McQueary said charges of engaging in organized criminal activity will be filed against Wilhelm.

Officers have not determined if the group had raided any homes of suspected drug dealers, McQueary said.

Wilhelm met with Beltram at a Haltom City restaurant Tuesday, then they drove to the house and set up surveillance, authorities said. While they were watching, officers said, a Texas Ranger posing as a drug dealer drove up to the house and went inside.

"Wilhelm and Beltram got out of their vehicle and walked up to the house. As soon as Wilhelm reached the door, the Texas Rangers came out," McQueary said.

Wilhelm told authorities he had been an international police officer for several years in the Marshall Islands. Before that, he was police chief at Azle until he resigned June 17, 1986, amid allegations that two of his officers tried to bribe a third into keeping quiet about money they found during an April 15, 1986, drug raid.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 67-year-old diagnosed with thrombocytopenia. As I understand it, there is a problem with the production of platelets. Can you give me any more information on my condition and advise if it is curable?

DEAR READER: Thrombocytopenia is a deficiency of platelets, the tiny blood cells necessary for proper blood clotting. The condition results from failure of platelet production, increased rate of platelet destruction or accelerated use of platelets.

Thus, common causes include leukemia, certain types of anemia, allergic drug reactions, liver disease, chronic alcohol ingestion, autoimmune disorders (such as lupus), kidney failure, severe infections and cancer. As you can see, these varied causes encompass a wide range of diseases.

In order to cure the thrombocytopenia, a doctor must first identify the underlying affliction and treat it. To complicate matters further, some patients exhibit low platelet counts without an identifiable reason, called idiopathic thrombocytopenic purpura.

Regardless of cause, thrombocytopenia leads to easy bruising, bleeding from the intestinal tract or respiratory tree and — in severe cases — bleeding into the brain.

As I mentioned, treatment involves correcting the underlying disorder. Also, cortisone often appears to have a beneficial effect. Finally, platelet transfusions may be necessary to prevent life-threatening hemorrhage.

Many types of thrombocytopenia are curable. For instance, if a person is in the throes of an allergic reaction to a drug, immediate discontinuation of the offending medicine will permit the platelet count to rise. Obviously, causes such as leukemia and cancer are more difficult to control.

Therefore, my answer to your question about cure must be a qualified "maybe." I encourage you to meet with your doctor to review the possible causes of your affliction, the tests that have been performed (a bone marrow examination is mandatory to examine the cells that manufacture platelets), and what therapy would be appropriate in your case. Don't delay. Uncontrolled thrombocytopenia can lead to hemorrhage, shock and death, so the condition should not be taken lightly.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Blood — AIDS." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Your Birthday

Aug. 7, 1991

There are strong indications that you may get involved in a profitable joint venture in the year ahead. Your counterpart will be enterprising and have good business acumen.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If there is something special you need from another today, don't be too direct. Present your case in a way that makes it seem as if the other party originated the idea. Leo, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Leo's Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your behavior will win you admiration from friends today, because of your fair way of dealing with them. You'll be generous in instances where you needn't be.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Financial gain is a strong probability today through a unique arrangement in which you're presently involved. If you don't receive your rewards now, you will shortly.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Although you may have to deal with a number of different individuals today, you'll single out one person to whom you'll devote most of your attention. It's an important relationship.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Be alert at this time for possible participation in a joint venture. This will be an enterprise that could become quite exciting for all concerned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A friend with an unresolved problem might come to you for advice today. This individual couldn't have picked a wiser counselor. You'll draw upon your own experiences to provide the answers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you have the possibilities to open a channel that might bring in additional earnings at this time, give it the serious attention it deserves. It could be good.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you're arranging something of a social nature today, restrict it to those who get along well with one another. Make a point to exclude dissidents.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is a good day to finalize situations that have been left hanging. You're a strong closer, and it will prove to your advantage to put the clincher in wherever you can.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your enthusiasm is contagious today, and your ideas will inspire companions. Even those who are generally lethargic or slow on the uptake will have their thinking elevated.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll know how to make accumulation an art form today. If there is anything to be gained by having something, you'll figure out a way to acquire it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your greatest gift today is your ability to initiate activity. You'll be especially adroit at originating endeavors that will benefit both you and yours.

Former mental patient charged with murder

UNIVERSITY PARK, Texas (AP) — Neighbors of a wealthy man accused of killing a newspaper carrier say he was "kind of weird," leading them to suspect he had mental problems.

Still, they were shocked to hear Walter Lewis Perryman shot and killed a North Dallas newspaper deliverywoman while holding a State District Judge and his family hostage.

Curtis Smith, who lived three houses down from Perryman, said "Oh my God," when he heard a radio news report of the incident. "The story in the neighborhood is that he had some mental problems," he said.

At about 2:30 a.m. Tuesday, Perryman, 38, arrived armed at State District Judge John Marshall's home. Marshall talked with Perryman for about an hour, then asked him to leave. He says Perryman stepped outside and proceeded to march as if guarding the house.

Marshall said he heard a shotgun as he dialed for the Dallas police. Police say that could have been the shot that killed 53-year-old Deanna Smith. Ms. Smith, who was delivering papers for The Dallas Morning News, was driving near the judge's house at about that time.

Perryman told police he shot Ms. Smith because he thought she was going to kill him, Marshall said. Perryman then turned to Marshall's house, shot through the door, and then broke into the house through a window. As Marshall lay on the floor and his wife and daughter hid in a closet, Perryman called the University Park police. At about 6:30 a.m., Marshall was freed and Perryman arrested.

University Park police say Perryman, a financial adviser, is jailed on $700,000 bail and charged with murder and kidnapping. He has a long history of mental illness and 10 years ago was committed to a private mental hospital.

In records, it's not clear when Perryman first experienced emotional problems.

He was born to millionaire oilman Walter Perryman Jr. and Betty Lu Slaughter Perryman, from a prominent University Park family. His parents divorced when he was 11. When he grew up, he was known to drive expensive cars and he invested in real estate.

In 1978 his mother asked a probate court judge to allow her to become her son's temporary guardian. Walter Perryman was 25 and his mother said he could no longer control his assets.

Three years later, she asked the court to find her son mentally ill and commit him to a hospital. Perryman was committed to Timberland Psychiatric Hospital by a Dallas County jury.

Four months later, Judge Marshall released Perryman, convinced he had recovered.

He remained friends with Marshall, lived down the street from him, and visited with him. Marshall says Perryman once had Thanksgiving dessert with the judge and his family.

However, Perryman's troubles persisted. Court records say he was arrested for a University Park rape in 1983. He wasn't charged. In 1988, Dallas police arrested him for possession of an illegal weapon, but the case was dismissed on a technicality.

One of Perryman's doctors at Timberlawn wouldn't discuss his patient's case. But he said the shooting incident is rare among manic-depressive people.

"The person who commits this kind of aggression is a minuscule minority," Dr. Byron Howard said. "You're more apt to be hurt by someone who's been drinking."

Make him pay

Everyone makes mistakes at the bridge table, even the greatest players. But it isn't much good for your side if, when an opponent blunders, you don't make him pay the full price.

To see if you would make a good bank manager, cover the West and South cards in today's diagram. After a straightforward auction, your partner West leads the spade king. Declarer wins with dummy's ace, plays a heart back to his ace and leads the club seven: eight, 10, queen. How do you continue?

This deal occurred in Europe, where the weak jump overcall is taking time to catch on. In the U.S., every red-blooded West would have jumped to two spades over the one-heart opening bid. This would make life much harder for North. Three hearts would be an underbid, whereas four hearts would be an overstatement.

At the table, East switched to a diamond at trick four. Declarer won, drew the trumps and gave up another club. His diamond loser was ruffed in the dummy.

From West's eight, it should be clear that South started with a doubleton club. East should cash the club ace at trick four and then lead his second spade. West will win and return another spade, effecting a trump promotion for East's heart queen.

Declarer was lucky. The correct play is to draw two rounds of trumps immediately. If the queen drops, the contract is ensured. If she doesn't, South has to hope he can guess the club suit for only one loser.

Whose bank balance (score sheet) was swelled after this deal, yours or South's?

Lottery offers immigrant visas to $40,000; it helps to be Irish

WASHINGTON (AP) — The rules are being readied for Chapter 2 of a lottery that only Uncle Sam could organize. It costs virtually nothing to enter and offers dream-come-true prizes to 40,000 winners.

Americans can't play, and it helps to be Irish. Others will need even more luck o' the Irish.

The action is expected to begin next month when people in or from three dozen favored foreign countries, including illegal aliens already in the United States, get a no-hassle chance at becoming American citizens.

A similar "lottery" was held in 1986, and Congress liked the idea so much it authorized another one.

In some ways, the term lottery is a misnomer because the applications will be granted in chronological order, not at random, and with special weighting for the Irish.

Still, the State Department has not come up with a better word, and there is a strong element of luck involved, pegged to the U.S. Postal Service and the mails worldwide.

Here's how it will work:

Officials will designate a particular post office in the Washington area to receive the applications, all of which must be mailed. Postmarks don't count; arrival time is everything. Applications that arrive before the official date will be disqualified. After that, immigrant visas will be issued to the first 40,000 qualified applicants.

The last time around, the post office was swamped with 1.4 million applications, and that number may be exceeded this time. As before, there is no limit on the number of applications anyone can submit.

The legislation that set in motion the lottery makes no pretenses about equality of opportunity. The legislation demands that 16,000, or 40 percent of the 40,000 winners, be of Irish descent.

The forces behind the program, mostly members of the powerful Irish-American caucus on Capitol Hill, had one goal in mind: helping the large numbers of Irish who have overstayed their visas because there are so few jobs back home.

A Bright Spot in our hometown...
R. Virgil Mott

For 33 years, R. Virgil Mott has been a giver — a giver of time and talents to make Snyder and Scurry County a better place for all of its citizens.

R. Virgil Mott may best be known for his Sunday morning radio program, a tradition over KSNY Radio for the past 26 years. The program began as a devotional period, but has evolved into a service program promoting the activities of many churches in this area.

R. Virgil Mott stands out in a crowd. His tall, lanky frame is topped by a wide smile just above his distinctive bow tie. His booming voice, whether speaking or singing, is just as distinctive.

Probably no one in Snyder has had a more varied ministry in Snyder. From 1958 to 1964, he served as minister of music and education director for the First Baptist Church. From 1964 until 1981, he served as pastor of the Bethel Baptist Church.

From 1979 to 1981, R. Virgil Mott served as choir director of the Trinity United Methodist Church, and from 1981 until 1983, he was minister of senior adults for Colonial Hill Baptist Church.

Starting in 1986, he began working with Ave. D Baptist Church as minister of music.

R. Virgil Mott is widely-known for his respect for people from all walks of life and he regards each person as an individual, willing to take the time to counsel with those in need.

His wife, Barbara, has been a supportive force in his life since 1932. She teaches piano lessons. The Motts have two children. Kathleen Kahn is associate professor of voice at Evanston, Ill., and Chapman Mott owns an audio-video production company in Houston. The Motts have one grandchild, Arabella Kahn.

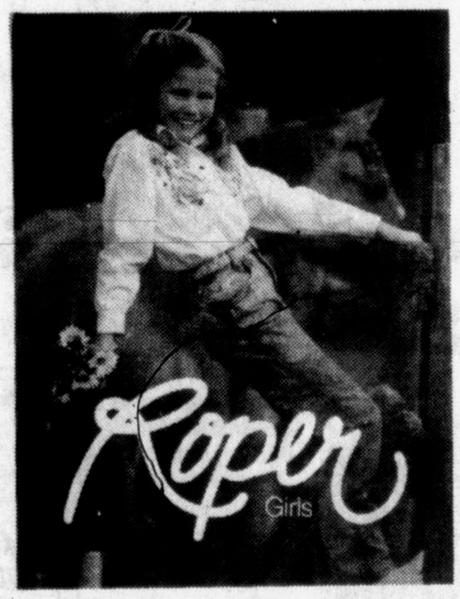

R. Virgil Mott continues to pay his community dues, by being one of the stable, dependable and positive forces in Scurry County.

COMMUNITY SERVICE — August's community service award was presented to R. Virgil Mott, a long-time Snyder minister. Making the presentation was Jack Gorman, Snyder National Bank vice president. The award in recognition of outstanding service to others is presented monthly by Snyder National Bank.

Cubans gather Pan Am gold

HAVANA (AP) — This is a first for the Cubans, and they're coming in first all over the place.

Cuba owns the 11th Pan American Games, the largest international sports soiree ever held on this island, and that's bad news for the rest of the Americas.

Through four days of competition, the Cubans amassed 51 total medals, 33 of them gold, distancing the U.S. collection of 41 medals, only 12 of which were gold. Canada was third, but so far back no one was counting.

George Steinbrenner, a new U.S. Olympic Committee member, is mad, and you can ask Dave Winfield what that means. U.S. athletes have more excuses than a pickpocket in a lockup, and their coaches shrug it off as a bad day at the OK Corral.

"Their peaking has been primarily for the Pan American Games," U.S. men's track coach Joe Vigil said of the Cubans. "And they will try to do even better because this is their show."

With Cuban President Fidel Castro and his ministers watching, this is a good time and place for the Cubans to do well, and it's apparent that the Pan American Games have taken on a new meaning for them.

"The people have inspired me to prepare for getting a gold medal," said Ana Quirot, who set a Pan Ams record of 49.61 seconds when she won the 400 meters Monday. "I consider this the greatest event ... .. because never has my country had an event like this one."

Cuba's track stars led the early medals rout. In the first three days of track and field, the Cubans won eight golds, two silvers and three bronze. The United States, meanwhile, had one gold, six silvers and five bronze.

Cubans also were dominating fencing and weightlifting, the Cuban baseball team was a considerable favorite to add another gold — adding a no-hitter by Jorge Valdes and four more home runs Tuesday in a 14-0, seven-inning rout of Canada — and the powerful Cuban boxing team wasn't even scheduled to throw a punch in anger until today.

Three U.S. boxers — Bradley Martinez, Denard Trapp and Sanson Pouha — were paired against Cubans in the first round, although none were scheduled to fight today.

While the U.S. baseball team, which beat Mexico 12-4 for its second victory of the games, is an underdog to Cuba, there are some glints of gold for America.

The heavily favored U.S. women's basketball team already had clinched a spot in the medal round when the men advanced on Tuesday with an 87-81 victory over Argentina.

The U.S. men aren't exactly dusting the credenza with anybody, but they did clinch a berth in the quarterfinals. And team captain Christian Laettner says he and his teammates are comfortable with the way they're playing.

"I think we felt in control, just as we had in the first two wins," said Laettner, who had 15 points. "We show our youth and international inexperience, and that's what we have to work on."

The U.S. team left for Miami immediately after its victory and will work out in private before returning to Cuba for its quarterfinal game Friday night against the Bahamas.

U.S. wrestlers, some of the best in the world, went 20-for-20 in their qualifying matches Tuesday, and Americans have swept all three diving events so far.

"As a team, we need to let everyone know right off the bat that we're here to wrestle and to win," U.S. 136½-pound wrestler Issac Anderson of Albany, N.Y., said. "I think we sent that message today."

The U.S. women got a taste of gold Tuesday night in gymnastics, edging the Cubans.

And then there's the young gunner from El Monte, Calif., with the scary name and the even scarier fastball. Debbie Doom has thrown two perfect games in women's softball, and the Cubans are calling her "La Supersonica." She struck out 17, including 10 in a row in one stretch, against Nicaragua for a 5-0 victory.

FLYING DISMOUNT — Pete Hawkins of Southlake gets off in mid-air after scoring a second-place 65 in Tuesday's opening performance of the AJRA rodeo. Hawkins was one of only six roughstock riders to earn a score last night. The rodeo continues today through Saturday at 8 p.m. nightly. (SDN Staff Photo)

Rangers outlast Indians, 10-8

ARLINGTON, Texas (AP) — Someone suggested to Mike Hargrove, the manager for the Cleveland Indians, that Rafael Palmeiro is the best left-handed hitter for the Texas Rangers since Hargrove himself.

"Yeah, and it makes me mad," said former Ranger Hargrove after Palmeiro's four straight singles ignited a 10-8 victory over the Indians Tuesday night.

Chris James of the Indians said of Palmeiro: "He's awesome to watch up there. He's in another world, out of this league."

The Rangers had Palmeiro in the leadoff position for the first time this year.

Palmeiro raised his batting average six points to a major league leading .351 with his four-for-five night as he scored a run and produced another on a single followed by a bad throw. Wade Boggs of Boston is second with .340.

Palmeiro said he wasn't overjoyed about hitting in the leadoff spot because his RBI production could drop.

"I just do whatever I'm told but I'll take a night like this," he said. "I don't feel any added pressure batting leadoff."

Palmeiro bounced back after he went 0-for-4 and saw his 15-game hitting streak broken Monday night by Eric King.

"It's good to come back out the night after you get the collar and have a big game," Palmeiro said.

Texas manager Bobby Valentine said he decided to hit Palmeiro leadoff "to get him some extra bats and get something started. He had a great game and that's what we wanted from him."

Mike York (1-4) took the loss as Kenny Rogers evened his record at 7-7 and Jeff Russell got his 21st save.

Hargrove said it would be fun watching Palmeiro if he wasn't on the other side.

"He's a pleasure to watch, anytime you get to watch a guy swing like that," Hargrove said. "He'll get more at-bats by hitting leadoff. You get a guy hitting like that and the more at-bats per game it has to help.

"I wish he was on my team so I could enjoy watching him play everyday."

Palmeiro is hitting .420 in his last 40 games.

Texas had 17 hits off four Cleveland pitchers, including homers by Juan Gonzalez and Kevin Reimer.

"It was an interesting game," Hargrove said. "They have a good hitting lineup and if you leave pitches up, the pitchers don't last long out there. We gave them a run for their money."

Padres become Astros' 9th consecutive victim

HOUSTON (AP) — Darryl Kile is young and still learning about pitching in the major leagues, but the San Diego Padres think he knows too much for his age.

Kile looked like a seasoned veteran Tuesday night as he pitched the Houston Astros to a 6-1 victory over the Padres in a battle of the bottom two teams in the National League West Division.

The Astros and Padres are going in opposite directions, at least for now.

The last-place Astros extended a season-high win streak to nine games while fifth-place San Diego lost for the third-straight game.

Houston was led by the hitting of Luis Gonzalez and Casey Candaele, who each had a pair of extra-base hits, as the Astros made it the longest winning streak since they won 10 games in June of 1989.

Houston's power-hitting attack was overshadowed only by Kile, who won for the second-straight time to improve his record to 5-6. The rookie right-hander is 5-4 as a starter this season

Kile sailed along into the eighth with the makings of his first major-league shutout. But he walked leadoff hitter Jerald Clark and three batters later, Thomas Howard doubled to deep left center to end the shutout and the night for Kile. Al Osuna got the save for Houston.

Houston jumped on San Diego starter Adam Peterson (3-4) from the beginning. Steve Finley started the game with a double to right center, keying a three-run first inning. The Astros added another run off Peterson in the second behind Candaele's first double.

UIL suspends FW Dunbar cage coach

AUSTIN (AP) — Fort Worth Dunbar basketball coach Robert Hughes has been suspended for four games by the University Interscholastic League, which also tentatively agreed to reinstate Brownsville Porter to UIL competition.

Porter had been declared ineligible for all UIL activities for failing to comply with a league directive.

Hughes, one of the winningest coaches in Texas schoolboy basketball history, was suspended Tuesday by the UIL state executive committee after hearing testimony from the coach, players and parents.

The 33-year coaching veteran was found to have violated the UIL Constitution by holding an organized practice on Dec. 26, which is within the five-day restricted period for holidays.

Hughes was suspended for the first four games of the 1991-92 season, assessed a public reprimand and placed on one-year probation.

Dunbar players David Ross and Lincoln Richard claim that Hughes called them to the practice, while five other Dunbar players maintain that the practice was not organized by Hughes at a recreational center.

"We thought that if it was legal, we could have practiced at our own gym," Ross said. "We had a feeling."

Hughes, who has been at the Fort Worth school for 17 years, also was given a public reprimand four years ago for holding summer practices.

The Flying Wildcats have been to the state basketball tournament nine times but have never won a championship.

"This is a classic case of parents who are interested in coaching the teams," said Hughes. "It goes on at every level. I tell you, it's scary.

"It sends a message. If you're not pleased with the situation, write a letter and the coach is in big trouble."

UIL Athletic Director Bill Farney said, "We are not questioning his integrity as a person, just his perception of the rules."

Dunbar also received a public reprimand, was placed on one-year probation and instructed to present a plan by Oct. 1 to prevent violations in the future.

In the Porter case, a combination of factors, including the failure of Principal Antonio Ortiz to file a report on investigations of alleged violations, resulted in the school being disqualified from all UIL events, the league said.

The Porter suspension will be removed when Brownsville trustees accept a proposal from a management team to help the school district comply with league rules, the UIL said.

'60 Minutes' newsman, Harry Reasoner, dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Harry Reasoner, the snowy-haired newsman who lent dry wit to "60 Minutes" and was paired unhappily with Barbara Walters in the 1970s in network television's first male-female evening anchor team, has died at 68.

Reasoner died Tuesday at Norwalk Hospital in Norwalk, Conn., where he had been hospitalized since June 11. Doctors had removed a blood clot from his brain, and he also suffered from pneumonia.

Reasoner joined CBS in New York in 1956 and became known for his light touch with the news and a warm, self-effacing style. He was a three-time Emmy winner and in 1968 became an original member of the "60 Minutes" lineup along with Mike Wallace.

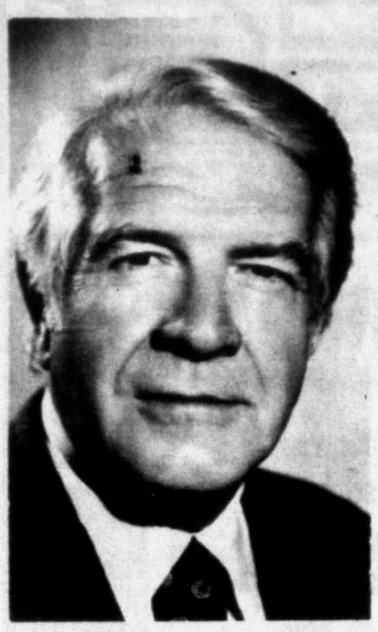

CBS interrupted its prime-time programming to announce his death.

"Reasoner was a journalist who we all envied," anchorman Dan Rather said. "His style, his ability to see through what the real story is. All of us at CBS will miss him."

Reasoner left CBS in 1970 to be co-anchor of "The ABC Evening News" with Howard K. Smith. In 1975, Walters was hired for $1 million a year as his co-anchor, and an angry Reasoner reportedly threatened to quit. He returned to CBS in 1978.

During the three-year collaboration, there often were signs of what viewers took as tension between Walters and Reasoner.

One evening after a piece on Henry Kissinger, Walters commented, "You know, Harry, Kissinger didn't do too badly as a sex symbol in Washington."

HARRY REASONER

"Well, you'd know more about that than I would," Reasoner replied.

Walters said Tuesday: "Harry and I had our differences many, many years ago but they were never personal and they never lingered. His death saddens us all. He was a superb journalist and a gentle and humorous man."

On May 19, during his 15th season with "60 Minutes," Reasoner, whose white hair, broad nose and jowly grin were well known to viewers, stepped down to become "editor emeritus."

"60 Minutes" newsman Morley Safer said Reasoner demonstrated to journalists "that it is possible to excel while not being an egotistical fool."

Howard Stringer, president of the CBS Broadcast Group, said, "Harry Reasoner was one of the gentle giants of broadcast journalism."

A native of Dakota City, Iowa, Reasoner studied journalism at Stanford University and the University of Minnesota.

He was drafted into the Army in 1942 and served until 1946. Also in the 1940s, he worked as a rewrite man and drama critic for the now-defunct Minneapolis Times.

After two years as a Northwest Airlines publicist, he returned to news writing in 1950 at radio station WCCO in Minneapolis, a CBS affiliate. In 1951, he joined the U.S. Information Service and worked in Manila for three years.

He asked CBS for a job and was told to get some TV experience, so he returned to Minneapolis in 1954 as news director for KEYD (later KMSP) until the network hired him in New York.

He also was co-host of the network's morning show "Calendar" from 1961 to 1963, was anchor of "The CBS Sunday News" from 1963 to 1970 and worked on the network's "CBS Reports" documentaries and many news specials.

Reasoner won three Emmys, in 1974, 1981 and 1983, CBS said.

His first and only novel, "Tell Me About Women," was published in 1946. His collected essays, "The Reasoner Report," were published in 1966 and his memoir, "Before the Colors Fade," came out in 1981.

Survivors include his wife, Lois, of Westport, Conn., and two sons and five daughters from his first marriage, to Kathleen Carroll Reasoner, who died in 1986.

Texas Senate to debate $30 million tax bill

AUSTIN (AP) — State leaders said work would continue on a tax increase to pay for state services, after the House passed a $30 million tax bill that doesn't come close to funding its own two-year spending proposal.

"I really think the people — our constituents — expect us to come down here and not punt these tough decisions ... I think that responsible voters want a responsible budget, and they want us to pay the bills," said Senate Finance Committee Chairman John Montford.

Senators are looking at revising the state franchise tax, increasing the gasoline tax and raising state fees, Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock said Tuesday.

The Senate's franchise tax plan contains differences from one pushed unsuccessfully in the House, which also turned down increases in the gas tax and numerous fees. The bill approved by the House would increase alcoholic beverage, criminal justice and insurance taxes and fees.

Bullock also predicted Senate passage of a Texas lottery, which would send the House-approved measure to voters for consideration. The game would raise an estimated $450 million over the next two years.

Montford said senators planned to work closely with House leaders, who had proposed a $3 billion tax bill.

Rep. Rene Oliveira, a member of the House budget and tax committees, called the measure passed by his chamber "a real sham bill." But the Brownsville Democrat said that it at least allows for work to continue in the Senate and, later, in an expected legislative conference committee on taxes.

But Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland, House Republican Caucus chairman, said he thinks the House will reject further taxes.

Rodent needs ride home

AUSTIN (AP) — A misplaced marsupial and a runaway baby rodent have inadvertently switched states.

Two weeks ago, an Austin couple just home from a backpacking trip outside Aspen, Colo., saw a bushy tail sticking out from the wheel well of their car.

"They thought they had hit something, so they pulled on the tail — and it pulled back," says Sharon Schermerhorn of Austin Wildlife Rescue. "They put the car in the garage, closed the door and put out water. That's when it appeared."

The "it" she refers to turned out to be a marmot, an animal related to squirrels and woodchucks that lives in the mountainous regions of Colorado and burrows into the dirt.

Ms. Schermerhorn has been taking care of the stowaway and has named the baby rodent "Martha." The animal is about 10 inches long.

"She's adorable," Ms. Schermerhorn said Tuesday. "But she needs to go home. Texas is way too hot for her, and we don't have the right kind of food. She needs to be back pretty soon because marmots need to hibernate."

Ms. Shechermerhorn has contacted several of her Colorado counterparts to seek advice on how to care for Martha and, more importantly, how to arrange for her to make a trip of about 1,000 miles back home.

Marmots normally feed on upland grasses, but Martha has been content to munch on broccoli, pecans, corn on the cob and spinach, Ms. Schermerhorn said.

the so-called "beige book" when they took their action Tuesday, although the document was not publically released until today.

The new survey will provide the basis for discussion by policymakers when they meet on Aug. 20 and is likely to lend ammunition to those who believe the Fed should go even farther to cut interest rates in order to spur economic demand.

The generally bleak review of the economy during the month of July was certain to increase fears of a possible double-dip recession, in which weak growth in the April-June quarter will be followed by further declines in the gross national product as the recession returns full force.

just behind with a 21.41.

Stephanie Brown of Big Spring turned in the night's top time, a 14.69, in girls 12-and-under barrel racing while Rankin's Shanna Owens ran the cloverleaf course in 15.24 seconds — the evening's best among the 16-19 year-old girls.

Snyder's Riggan brothers, Russell and Tyler, claimed first and third position in boys 12-and-under barrels. Russell registered a 14.75 elapsed time and younger brother Tyler wound up with a 15.06. Sandwiched between the locals was Chris Irwin of Andrews, who guided his mount around the barrels in 14.76 seconds.

Roughstock riders had a tough time at Tuesday's rodeo with only six of 20 contestants lasting the full eight seconds.

Heath Cook's 69 left the Princeton cowboy in the bareback lead after one ride; Reed Corder of Melvin impressed the judges to the tune of 72 points and first place in junior bull riding; and bull rider Brandon Woodall of Gardendale scored a 68 to finish on top in the 16-19 year-old boys event.

Shawn Wise of Vernon was the fastest breakaway roper Tuesday evening. She captured her calf in just 3.14 ticks for the girls 13-15 lead. Valley Spring cowgirl Kippi Kuykendall turned in a 3.41 time for first in the 16-19 division.

No riders were awarded scores in steer riding or saddle bronc riding.

Tuesday morning's slack saw Deana Schwarz and Caryn Standifer of Colbert, Okla. tied for the event lead with identical 7.34 scores in girls 16-19 goat tying and T.J. Good of Elida, N.M. rush to a 2.90 time in boys 12-and-under breakaway roping.

Families look for answers as more charges are filed

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Eight more murder charges replete with grisly allegations of dismemberment and necrophilia were filed against Jeffrey Dahmer as the victims' families sat nearby in court, trying to make sense of the slayings.

The charges filed Tuesday bring to 12 the number of people Dahmer, 31, has been charged with murdering.

Authorities said in court papers that Dahmer had sex with four men after death, painted three victims' skulls after boiling them to remove the skin, and kept one man's biceps in his freezer.

About 60 of the victims' relatives sat through the 10-minute hearing, holding hands and leaning shoulder-to-shoulder as crimes were detailed.

"I'm here because I want to know why," said Shirley Hughes, mother of victim Anthony Hughes, 31.

Dahmer has admitted to 17 killings since 1978, including three at his grandmother's suburban Milwaukee home and one at his boyhood home near Akron, Ohio, police said. Police found parts of 11 bodies in Dahmer's apartment on July 22.

District Attorney E. Michael McCann said additional charges may be filed at an Aug. 22 hearing.

The murder charges each carry a mandatory life sentence and are accompanied by an additional count of habitual criminality, which adds 10 years to each term.

Circuit Judge Jeffrey A. Wagner released the victims' bodies to their relatives after Dahmer said he had no objection. Wagner also raised Dahmer's bail from $1 million to $5 million.

Dahmer often stared at the floor during the hearing but looked directly at the judge when answering questions.

"I just saw that he was a human being. Just like you and me," said Lucy Robertson, grandmother of David Thomas, 23, who was identified as a victim.

"God made him," she said. "Just as surely as God made the devil."

WITI-TV, quoting from what it said was Dahmer's confession, reported Tuesday he used his hands and a leather strap to strangle the men, butchered them in a bathtub and flushed pieces down the toilet.

Also Tuesday, police identified one of the victims as Steven W. Tuomi, who was 24 when he disappeared Sept. 15, 1987.

The name of a Hispanic man believed killed at the home of Dahmer's grandmother in the mid-1980s is now the only one not yet released, police said.

SO probes reports

Scurry County sheriff's office transferred a prisoner and investigated two theft reports Tuesday.

At 1:18 p.m., a gas drive-off was reported at Hermleigh Allsup's. A clerk advised a deputy that a black and yellow Honda vehicle had left the scene paying only $5 of a $9.86 gasoline bill. The vehicle was not located.

Anna Evans of Lear and Ave. M reported at 2:10 p.m. that a trailer was missing. Value of the item was estimated at $500.

In other activity, a 23-year-old male was transported from Fort Worth and booked into Scurry County Jail for a misdemeanor probation violation.

Police report routine activity

Snyder police handled several domestic disputes and helped citizens who had locked their keys in cars Tuesday.

No arrests were made.

Dear Abby

Children of Any Age Are Still Kids to Their Parents

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1991 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: When I read the letter in your column about calling 35- and 44-year-olds "our children," I had to smile.

Our children are 26, 27, 29, 30 and 34, and we still call them "the kids."

My husband is 59 and I am 50, and his parents always refer to us as "the kids." But what really strikes me as being funny is hearing the grandparents who are 76 and 75 years old call my in-laws "the kids."

Don't you just love it, Abby? It sounds so loving and youthful.

MARJORIE GELLAT

DEAR MARJORIE: I more than "just love it" — I can relate to it. My husband and I, at age 73, are still called "the kids" by his parents, who are 92 and 93 years old. And may the good Lord continue to bless that beautiful couple, Rose and Jay Phillips of Minneapolis, married 74 years ago today. Happy anniversary, Mother and Dad!

DEAR ABBY: In the words of William Wordsworth, "The child is father of the man." The definition of a "child" as offered by the couple who signed themselves "Ohio Parents" was limited. (They felt that at age 35 and 44, it was inappropriate to refer to their heirs as "children.")

We have had this discussion in our house many times. In biblical usage, "children" are descendants regardless of their ages.

I have two adult sons. I maintain that I will always be their mother. Consequently, these fine young men, both in their 20s, will always be my children.

MICHIGAN MOMMY

DEAR ABBY: Your correspondent, "C.C. in Florida," is misinformed. The story that a Japanese manufacturer marked his products "MADE IN USA" in an attempt to mislead the buyer is not only false, it is a rumor that has been going around for at least a quarter of a century.

This tale was given worldwide publicity when it was published in Reader's Digest back in the 1960s. Your column is so widely read that the letter from C.C. will probably do as much to keep that rumor alive.

Abby, there IS a "Usa," Japan, but it is a tiny village with no manufacturing facilities. A check with the Japanese consulate in Los Angeles should confirm that. Also, no Japanese city has changed its name to "Usa" to mislead people.

Finally, a Japanese product marked "Made in USA" would be in violation of U.S. Customs regulations, and would not be allowed into this country.

JAMES STEELE

DEAR JAMES STEELE: Thank you for setting the record straight. I hope C.C. sees this.

Curfew for teens slated in San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — San Antonio Police almost issued their first citation for violating the city's new curfew to a leader of a student group battling the new ordinance.

Police said that Adanjesus Quavez, 15, co-chairman of Students United for Justice, escaped receiving the first citation early today by claiming one of the many exemptions in the ordinance.

"He said he was exercising his First Amendment right to assemble." said Patrolman James Jones, who was prepared to write Quavez a ticket shortly after the curfew went into effect at 12:01 a.m.

"That's one of the weaknesses of the curfew, these exceptions," Jones said.

Officers began enforcing the city's new curfew shortly after midnight after receiving special citation forms and watching an instructional video on curfew enforcement.

"The debate is over," Capt. Al Philippus of the police department's planning department said Tuesday night. "City Council passed the ordinance. Our job is to enforce the ordinance, and we will do that citywide."

The ordinance bans youths under 17 from being out in public between midnight and 6 a.m.

Five members of the League of United Latin American Citizens Youth Council 301 gathered on a sidewalk to greet the start of the curfew with a protest.

Chavez joined the group.

Enforcement of the curfew started only hours after the board of the San Antonio Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union voted to oppose the curfew.

Patrolman Jones and Patrolman Patrick Gallagher confronted the youths who had gathered for the protest.

"Hey Adan, you gonna be the first?" Jones asked. As Jones prepared to write the citation, Quavez and the others told the officers they were exercising their First Amendment rights to assemble peacefully.

"We all realize what the curfew is meant to do, but Friday night there's going to be hundreds of kids out here, claiming that they're exercising their right to assemble," Jones said of the area that is a popular hangout for youths.

Local ACLU chapter President Michael Smith said his group will oppose the curfew and provide legal assistance in a court challenge.

"We voted to stand in solidarity with the young people who are opposing the curfew," Smith said.

Corn smut said diners' delicacy

ALBANY, Ga. (AP) — It's repulsive-looking, and farmers call it corn smut. But when the fungus swells yellow corn kernels into a gray mass, Cristina Arnold sees a fortune in the rediscovery of an ancient delicacy.

Chefs and diners are taking a liking to corn smut, also known as "maize mushrooms" or "Mexican truffles." And interest is strong enough that agricultural scientists are seeking ways to cultivate it and a few farmers are adopting a new attitude toward something they once plowed under as nature's garbage.

"It is the ugly duckling of the mushroom kingdom," said Arnold, owner of El Aficionado in Arlington, Va., a food wholesaler specializing in Mexican fare. Her company annually supplies restaurants with 2,000 to 4,000 pounds of maize mushrooms.

"It has an element of texture, but it's a soft texture," Arnold said recently. "Like caviar or truffles, it is not particularly beautiful to look at. You don't consume it for its looks, you consume it for its taste. It has an earthy flavor, but it does taste somewhat like corn."

The Aztecs called it "cuitlacoche" (weet-LA-coo-chee). Wind-borne spores infect the corn and in about two weeks the kernels swell into a silvery-gray fungal mass.

Miss Fort Worth wins top title

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Miss Fort Worth, Katie Young, today begins her reign as the 1992 Miss Texas USA after beating out a field of 87 contestants for the title at the Bayfront Plaza Auditorium.

Miss Young, 18, wore an off-the-shoulder red evening gown as she tearfully accepted the crown from reigning Miss Universe Lupita Jones of Mexicali, Mexico. A brunette, she vied with 14 other semifinalists in evening gown, swimsuit and interview contests.

Along with her title and a year's worth of engagements, Miss Young won some $110,000 in prizes and scholarships and the chance to compete in the Miss USA and Miss Universe pageants. Among the prizes were $12,000 in scholarships, a car, a fur coat and a Caribbean cruise.

A sophomore at the University of Texas-Arlington, Miss Young is studying pre-med and plans a career as an obstetrician.

Miss Central Texas, Jennifer Scott, was named first runner-up. Miss Scott is a sophomore at McLennan Community College and plans to become an attorney after studying at Baylor Law School.

Houston Symphony performs at special music event in Japan

TOKYO (AP) — The Houston Symphony winds up a seven-concert tour of three major Japanese cities tonight, completing the second annual Pacific Music Festival.

The Japan-based project was founded last year by the late American composer Leonard Bernstein in an effort to coach 155 young musicians who are selected through auditions worldwide.

"Music really erases all the borders of behavior, the limitations built in people by civilization and religion. Music widens and opens the human being totally," said Christoph Eschenbach, director of the Houston Symphony.

Eschenbach, 51, served as artistic director, along with Michael Tilson Thomas, principal conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra, for the July 13-Aug. 4 festival. The Houston Symphony performs its last concert tonight in Osaka.

Bernstein, the exuberant conductor and prolific composer of ballets, symphonies and the Broadway musical, "West Side Story," fell ill during the festival tour last year and died in October. But he already had planned most of this year's festival.

Students from 24 Pacific Rim nations participating in the most recent festival were tutored in both American and European musical styles by members of the Houston Symphony, the Vienna Philharmonic and visiting soloists. A course for vocalists was added this year.

"It's amazing how these young people identify with the feelings in music, the very simple, archetypal feelings. ... Almost, sometimes you discover wisdom in their music," Eschenbach said of the students, whose average age was 24.

The festival presented 66 concerts. A special addition was "Pacific Soundings," created by Thomas and devoted to what he called "a meeting of Occidental and Oriental music," found in compositions by John Cage and Toru Takemitsu.

The Houston Symphony, which performed alone and with members of the Pacific Music Festival Orchestra that included the young musicians, also gave informal demonstrations for the public of woodwind and brass instruments, harp and timpani.
