Ask Us

Q—How much would the school have to increase basketball ticket prices to raise the $4,000 need to pay the coliseum rental?

A—Supt. Dalton Moseley said attendance is not sufficient to make an increase, even if ticket prices were raised 50 cents or $1. Also, prices for district games are set by the district.

In Brief

Nurse sues

ODESSA (AP) — A nurse has sued a delivery-room doctor whom she accuses of causing her "extreme emotional distress" by intentionally squirting her with blood from an umbilical cord.

Bobbie Brookshire Heaney, daughter of Ector County Sheriff O.A. "Bob" Brookshire, asked for $500,000 in compensatory damages.

Ms. Heaney also is seeking an undetermined amount in punitive damages from Dr. William McIntosh.

The lawsuit alleges that McIntosh held an umbilical cord during delivery of a baby and intentionally allowed the blood to spray Ms. Heaney's face, neck and upper body.

Johnson rehearing is denied

The Supreme Court has denied a petition for rehearing for convicted murderer Dorsey Lee Johnson Jr., clearing the way for formal sentencing.

132nd District Court Judge Gene Dulaney received papers Wednesday notifying him that Johnson's petition for a rehearing was denied on Aug. 9.

Johnson and an accomplice robbed the Allsup's convenience store in Snyder on March 23, 1986. Johnson fatally shot Jack Huddleston during the robbery, which netted $160 in cash and two cartons of cigarettes.

Johnson was convicted of capital murder by a 132nd District Court jury in October of 1986 and received the dealth penalty.

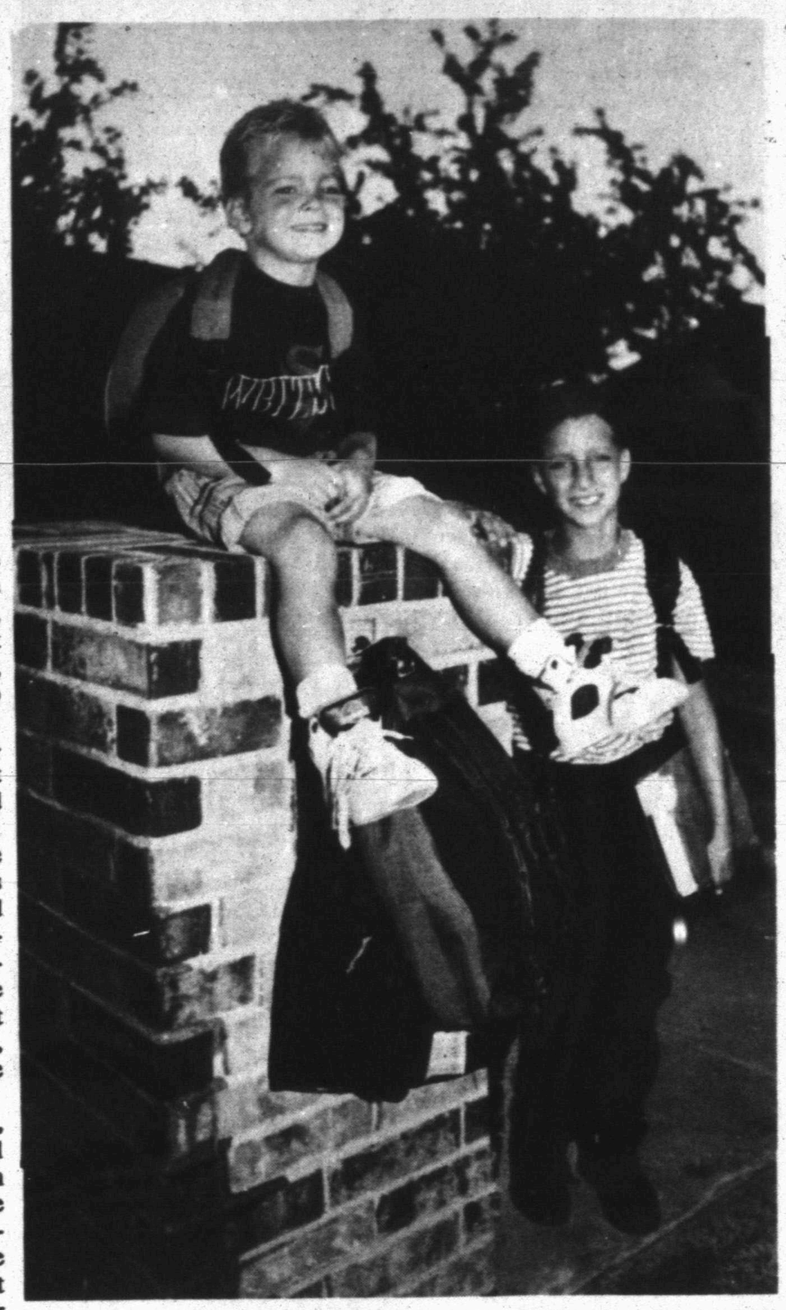

The case had come before the Supreme Court on April 26 of this year, when Johnson challenged the Texas dealth-penalty law in effect at the time of his trial. His attorneys argued that jurors were precluded from giving full weight to the defendant's youthful age, which was 19 at the time of the murder.

Jurors, in the sentencing phase, were told to consider two special questions — whether Johnson acted deliberately and whether he posed a danger to society. In testimony given before the Supreme Court in April, Texas Assistant Attorney General Dana Parker said nothing prevented the jurors from giving full consideration to his youthfulness as a mitigating circumstance.

In a 5-4 decision on June 24, the Supreme Court upheld the jury's decision, ruling that the former provision of state law did allow the jury to consider all relevant evidence.

On Aug. 9, the Court denied a petition for rehearing.

Johnson is expected to come back to 132nd District Court in the near future for formal sentencing and setting of an execution date by Judge Dulaney.

Israelis attack guerrilla bases

SHIHEEN, Lebanon (AP) — Shiite Muslim guerrillas killed at least seven Israeli soldiers today and wounded two in south Lebanon, and Israeli warplanes attacked guerrilla bases in retaliation.

The attack in Israel's self-declared "security zone" in south Lebanon was one of the deadliest single assaults on Israeli soldiers since 1988. It came less than two weeks before Arab-Israeli peace talks are to resume in Washington.

In Israel, a source said Israeli jet fighters attacked three Shiite guerrilla bases in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley. There was no immediate word on casualties or damage.

Islamic Resistance, the military wing of Hezbollah, said in a statement in Beirut that its guerrillas carried out the morning assault to mark the 24th anniversary of an arson attack on Jerusalem's al-Aqsa Mosque, Islam's third-holiest shrine.

Hezbollah, or Party of God, is a fundamentalist Shiite Muslim group backed by Iran. Hezbollah seeks to sabotage the U.S.-sposored Middle East peace talks, scheduled to resume in Washington on Aug. 31.

Israel's Foreign Minister Shimon Peres, speaking from Oslo, Norway, said: "It is a big tragedy. We have done our best to calm the situation in South Lebanon and this news is most alarming."

Israel waged a week of military strikes last month after seven of its soldiers were killed in south Lebanon, and a military response to Thursday's bombing was considered likely.

The security sources, speaking on condition of anonymity, said three bomb explosions hit a 15-member Israeli army foot patrol in the western sector of Israel's self-styled "security zone" in south Lebanon.

Israelis who survived the bombings were raked by machine gun fire and rocket-propelled grenades in an ensuing ambush near the village of Shiheen, about 21/2 miles north of the Israeli border, the sources said.

Several security sources in south Lebanon, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said eight Israeli soldiers were killed and four wounded. But in Israel, sources who insisted on anonymity said the toll was seven dead and two wounded.

The discrepancy between the two tolls could not immediately be reconciled.

President feels his age at 47

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton, who turns 47 today, was feeling his age a day early.

"Oh! God, am I sore!" Clinton said Wednesday while limbering up for a 51/2-hour round of golf in Arkansas.

The youngest president since John F. Kennedy was born Aug. 19, 1946, well after his predecessor, former naval aviator George Bush, was shot down in the Pacific theater during World War II.

Clinton already has celebrated his birthday at least twice.

Nearly 40 friends joined Clinton for dinner at a barbecue chicken joint in Fayetteville, Ark., on Tuesday night, where he was served a white cake with his frosted likeness on it.

Clinton's staff threw him a surprise birthday party before he left Washington on a working vacation last week.

Before cutting the cake at that event, Clinton told his staff: "And remember, if you're rested and happy and upbeat, you'll also do a better job for the United States."

For city...

Sales tax rebates up 56%

August's sales tax rebates for Snyder were up more than 56 percent from last year, according to information from the State Comptroller's Office.

The City of Snyder received $138,243.39 this month, compared to $88,529.80 during August of 1992. That represents an increase of 56.15 percent.

The surge in rebates is the result of a ½ -cent tax increase approved by voters, ¾ of which was implemented in July of 1992 and ¼ in October of 1992.

BCD urges cooperation

The Board of County Development, meeting at noon Wednesday, unanimously went on record as willing to cooperate with any plan for the betterment of Snyder.

The decision was a result of last week's economic development forum held at Western Texas College. Max von Roeder, BCD chairman said, "We did not accomplish what we set out to do."

The BCD chairman said chamber president Donna Gray had visited with him and suggested that each group interested in economic development send a representative to hammer out a plan that will be acceptable to all.

The BCD chose Mark McCormick to represent the BCD. No date has been set for the meeting.

In other business, Chamber Manager Ricky Fritz reported that July was a good month for tourism, and von Roeder noted that expenditures and budget were on track for the year.

BCD board members attending were von Roeder, McCormick, Tim Riggan, Pete Hester and Jack Smartt.

Every industry has 'em — you know, the company spokesperson who tries to make something good out of something gone foul.

The president has his press secretary and corporations have public relations folks. Their job is to turn a positive into a negative.

We loved the recent story about a topless woman who burst into the cockpit of an American Airlines jet as the aircraft was preparing to land at Chicago's O'Hare Airport.

The passenger was subdued by a flight attendant and a pilot who was riding in a cockpit jump seat but who was not part of the cockpit crew.

As the plane approached O'Hare, the woman pulled off her blouse and ran to the cockpit. Although the door was locked, the woman hit it hard enough to make it open.

As expected, the American Airlines spokesman said, "The plane was landed without difficulty." He added, "The pilot was not distracted by the incident."

And when the pilot got home and his wife asked about the day we're sure he said, "Just routine, nothing special..."

Sometimes trouble can find you. According to a friend, some things just automatically cause problems. They are predictable. These include boats, convertibles, anything that has to be assembled or runs on batteries, anything electronic, hospital gowns, four-way stops, putters, garden hoses, computers, credit cards, fishing lines and house pets.

Troubles come and troubles go, but some things are constant. He says there are three things that will inevitably cause trouble.

They are anything that wears perfume, has a motor or has to be cranked by pulling on a rope.

CED trustees board to meet at 7 o'clock

County Education District 11 board of trustees will meet in the Snyder ISD administration board room at 7 this evening to designate a successor-in-interest.

The CED system of school equity funding has been declared unconstitutional by the Texas Supreme Court. That system has since been replace with a new bill for the 19993-94 school year.

However, outstanding debts must be paid and revenues of the CED must be recorded and disbursed. Therefore, the 11-member board — whose representatives include trustees from Snyder. Ira and Hermleigh ISDs — must appoint a successor-in-interest to handle future matters.

Prior to designating the successor-in-interest, the board is expected to authorize the payment of outstanding bills incurred by the CED and the payment of outstanding refunds to property owners.

Having handled those current payments, the board will then designate the successor, then authorize the transfer of assets, liabilities, contracts and records to that person as of Sept. 1.

Republicans eye lineup for 1994

AUSTIN (AP) — One Republican has taken himself out of the running for a statewide office, but GOP officials say they're not worried about filling the 1994 ballot.

"I expect we'll have contested primaries for most statewide offices," said Karen Hughes, executive director of the state Republican Party.

On Wednesday, state Rep. Ashley Smith, a 14-year legislative veteran, said he is leaving politics and won't run for state treasurer next year.

Smith, 47, of Houston, who had been considered by many Republicans as a leading prospect to challenge appointed Democratic Treasurer Martha Whitehead, said he was retiring from politics to concentrate on his business interests and practice law.

But he echoed Ms. Hughes' sentiments about the party's prospects. He noted that U.S. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison, who won a landslide special election victory June 5, will be topping the GOP ticket.

"For a Republican committed to run for statewide office, there could not be a better time to run. Sen. Kay Bailey Hutchison will be to the Republican Party what Sen. Lloyd Bentsen has been to the Democrats for so many years — good for her party's candidates all the way down the ticket," Smith said.

The Senate race for a full, six-year term will top the ballot next year. Former Democratic attorney general Jim Mattox, who had considered challenging appointed Sen. Bob Krueger this year, is considered a likely challenger to Mrs. Hutchison.

In addition to that race, the top seven state offices, along with seats on the Railroad Commission, Texas Supreme Court and Court of Criminal Appeals will be up for grabs.

Ms. Hughes said she doubted that Mrs. Hutchison or Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry would draw GOP primary foes, but she said she expects Republicans to line up eagerly for the other slots.

With a filing deadline in early January, candidates already are sizing up their prospects.

Five Republicans have been mentioned as prospects to challenge Gov. Ann Richards: George W. Bush, managing partner of the Texas Rangers baseball team and son of the former president; Houston businessman Rob Mosbacher; state Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland; Dallas lawyer Tom Luce, an adviser to Ross Perot, and Dallas businessman T. Boone Pickens.

All but Pickens have said they expect to decide by Labor Day.

State to halt SSC funding

DALLAS (AP) — Super Collider officials have received more bad news while they wait for a final decision from the U.S. Senate on whether the $10 billion project will be scrapped.

The Texas National Research Laboratory Commission decided on Wednesday to halt any further funding until the federal government makes the final call in the Ellis County collider.

"It isn't that Texas has shut this thing down and slammed the door and said no more funding forever," said Charles Perry, chairman of the commission.

"The money is still there."

However, the commission decided to table a request from the Department of Energy for $79 million in state funds until the Senate's collider vote.

It is not an unexpected decision, SSC spokesman Russ Wylie said.

The Senate is expected to vote on it later this year after extensive hearings. In June, the U.S. House overwhelmingly voted to scrap the collider.

While some Waxahachie residents worry and wait for the Senate's decision, the 181 landowners who were forced to move for the SSC aren't happy that they may have been evacuated for no reason.

"Why did they start the thing if they're not going to finish it?" asked 63-year-old Victor Batson, who moved about two miles from his old house when the SSC plans gobbled up his land.

The giant atom smasher needed about 10,500 acres, and SSC officials estimated three years and $75 million to buy it all.

About 80 percent of the landowners agreed to a sale price through negotiations, but 20 percent wouldn't sell and were forced to leave through condemnation proceedings.

Jerry Rogers and his family were forced to leave their 10 acres when the SSC bought it for a buffer zone.

"It was like you ... ought to be thrilled to death to give up everything you love and everything you own and everything you worked for," said Rogers, who owned his home for 15 years.

"Now they go and cancel the project."

Although he didn't want to move, Rogers said he kept his end of the deal, and now Congress should do the same.

"Whenever the government makes a commitment to do something, they ought to commit for the duration," he said.

Monnie Bratcher's fight with collider officials has made the 85-year-old widow the unofficial symbol of disgruntled landowners. Ms. Bratcher sold her house and 42 acres to the state in 1991, but continued to live there until earlier this year.

In March, a justice of the peace ordered her out of the home she had occupied for more than five decades.

Attorney, lawman are indicted in insurance scam

HOUSTON (AP) — An attorney, a policewoman and nine others have been indicted in a scam to cheat insurance companies out of millions of dollars by faking car crashes and exaggerating medical claims.

Harris County Prosecutor Terry Yates said Wednesday further indictments are possible against Metropolitan Transit Authority officers, firefighters, wrecker drivers and others suspected of helping the group locate potential clients.

The 11 indictments on charges of engaging in organized criminality bring to 14 the number of people arrested by the district attorney's new Barratry Task Force since last month.

Attorney Catherine Allen-Jones, 34, was arrested Wednesday on charges of engaging in organized crime and jailed in lieu of $75,000 bond. Yates said she ran Professional Law Firm in Houston.

Metro policewoman Jacqueline W. Matthews, 36, was arrested at 6 a.m. Tuesday when she reported for duty and promptly was relieved of her badge and gun. She was fired and placed in Harris County Jail under a $20,000 bond.

Paralegal Carl Dwayne Farris, 31, was jailed under a $750,000 bond. He already was under indictment on charges of offering money to a Metro policeman to turn over names of accident victims who could be hustled to become clients of personal-injury attorneys.

Yates said the three were engaged in what may be a fairly normal practice around Houston — locating wreck victims and then overbilling insurance firms.

He couldn't specify the exact amount of bogus charges the three may have filed in 1991-93, but said he can account for $263,000 in actual losses to the accident victims.

Child's Picky Eating Habits Gnaw at Grampa's Patience

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1993 Universal Press Syndicate

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Dear Abby is on a two-week vacation. Following is a selection of some of her favorite past letters from 1977.)

DEAR ABBY: My young grandson has a very peculiar way of eating — he will eat only one thing at a time. For example: If there are meat, potatoes, carrots and peas on his plate, he will finish eating all the meat before he even touches his carrots. Then, once he starts eating his carrots, he will taste nothing else until he's finished them. He positively refuses to mix his food. Now isn't that ridiculous?

When I try to tell him to eat a bit of one thing and then another, he says he doesn't want to. He refuses even to try.

I don't know whether this comes under the heading of etiquette, idiosyncrasies, health or habits, but it just looks peculiar to me, Abby.

Please classify this quirk and set me straight.

GRAMPS

DEAR GRAMPS: I would classify this as nitpicking. Children come in for enough criticism during their childhood without having something as inconsequential as this being called to their attention. Skip it. What's the difference? Be glad he's healthy and can eat everything.

DEAR ABBY: Eddie (not his real name) and I have been going steady for four years. I'm 25 and Eddie's 26. We definitely plan on getting married, but here's the problem. Eddie says we can't get married until he pays his parents back for putting him through college. Otherwise, he'd be getting married on his parents' money.

Abby, his parents are very well off, and I'm sure they don't expect to be paid back.

The way Eddie has it figured, it will take him at least five years to pay off his parents. He says in the meantime we should just go steady.

I suggested we get engaged, but Eddie doesn't believe in long engagements. What do you make of this?

EDDIE'S GIRL

DEAR GIRL: I think Eddie should be commended for wanting to repay his parents, but it seems to me he's giving you a five-year stall. Stalls are for horses and other four-legged animals. I'd say "Nay."

DEAR ABBY: I am involved with an older married man, and to tell you the truth, I feel a little guilty about it.

He keeps telling me I shouldn't feel guilty because a married man who is satisfied at home would never even look at another woman. The way he puts it, "If a man is well fed at home, he will not go to a restaurant."

Is that true?

GOT THE GUILTS

DEAR GOT: No. Regardless of how well fed some men are, six hours later, they're hungry again!

CONFIDENTIAL TO D.W.R.: The only sure way I know of to double your money is to fold it over once and put it back in your pocket.

ued with six clubs to offer an alternative slam contract. Six clubs, though, fails if East leads his singleton heart and later obtains a ruff.

Declarer won the first trick with dummy's spade ace. Now it became a question of finding the trump queen. Normally, one plays off the two top hearts. However, cashing the ace and then finessing through East if the queen hasn't appeared is only slightly inferior.

South, Tarek Sadek from Egypt, thought back over the previous deals in the session. He had noticed that West was a cautious overcaller. West hadn't bid one heart over one diamond when holding A-Q-10-6-5 of hearts and nine high-card points. So Sadek felt sure West would have at least 11 points.

If this was true, East had made a very light raise. Surely this suggested that East had a singleton somewhere. So Tarek crossed to hand with a diamond to his ace and led the heart jack, taking the finesse when West played low.

For once, the operation was successful and the patient lived.

Lunch, party cookies

By The Associated Press

Beginning school is always exciting!

Help make the occasion memorable: host an after-school party. To begin the fun, play name games and have sing-a-longs, where everyone can join in. To help classmates get to know one another, have them pick names from a hat and then interview each other.

When the party's over, put a list of the kid's telephone numbers in a paper bag that's filled with homemade chocolate chip cookies.

These cookies are also good for packing in the school lunch box or for a tasty after-school snack.

CHUNKY MILK CHOCOLATE COOKIES

2 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking soda
1/4 teaspoon salt
11/4 cups packed brown sugar
1 cup butter or margarine, softened
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 egg
2 cups (111/2-ounce package) milk chocolate morsels
1 cup chopped nuts
1 cup raisins

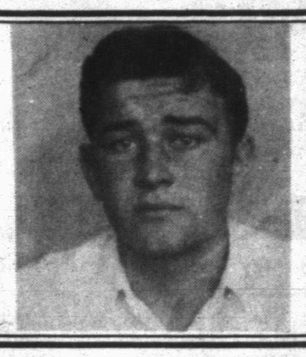

In a medium bowl, combine flour, baking soda and salt. In a large mixer bowl, cream sugar, butter and vanilla. Beat in egg. Add dry ingredients, beat well. Stir in morsels, nuts and raisins. Drop by heaping tablespoon, 3 inches apart, onto ungreased baking sheets. Flatten slightly. Bake in a preheated 375-degree F oven for 9 to 11 minutes or until edges are lightly browned. Let stand for 2 minutes; cool on wire racks. Makes 21/2 dozen cookies.

Note: If you want to omit the raisins, double the amount of chopped nuts.

Lady Tigers open 1993 spike season at weekend event

Snyder's Lady Tigers will open the 1993 volleyball season Friday with an appearance at the Monahans Tournament.

The varsity Lady Tigers will battle host Monahans at 10 a.m. Friday in pool play. Also in Snyder's pool at the tourney are Crane and Odessa High.

The top two teams in the pool will advance into Saturday's bracketed tournament. The third and fourth place teams in the group will move into the consolation bracket.

"The varsity looked real good," SHS spike coach Patty Grimmett said following a four-team scrimmage with Seminole, Andrews and Denver City on Monday. "They communicated well, they talked on the court and they called the ball. They worked real well together.

"We did real well passing and hitting the ball," Grimmett continued. We did a super job serving. That's something we're really working on a lot in practice. We want no missed serves.

Grimmett declined to name starters for Friday's opening match, saying that she will be trying several different combinations.

"I'm ready for them to play a game," Grimmett said, "just so we can see how we'll do under the pressure of a game situation. We'll use several different combinations to see how we handle it."

Snyder's JV will play Pecos at 1 p.m. Friday in Monahans. The junior varsity tournament is bracketed both days.

The freshmen A and B teams from SHS will also be in action this weekend, visiting Andrews for matches with AHS and Denver City on Saturday. Matches begin at 11:15 a.m.

The Snyder spikers' home debut is set for Aug. 24 when Denver City and Abilene Cooper visit for three-way matches. District 2-4A action begins with an Oct. 9 trip to Levelland.

Palmer breaks out of slump

Rangers third baseman gets three hits in 4-2 Texas win

NEW YORK (AP) — While Roger Pavlik spent the afternoon pitching on the edge, Dean Palmer was trying to regain his edge.

Pavlik needed four double plays in the first five innings Wednesday to collect a victory as the Texas Rangers beat the New York Yankees 4-2. Palmer, in a 3-for-34 slump, backed him with three RBIs, two on his second home run since the All-Star break.

"I've put a lot of pressure on myself the second half of the season," Palmer said after his first three-hit game since July 22. "I just went out today and tried to be as relaxed as I can."

After Ivan Rodriguez singled in the second off Jim Abbott (9-10), Palmer crushed a hanging curveball for his 23rd home run, a 410-foot drive to left. Texas, which closed within 3 1-2 games of first-place Chicago in the AL West, made it 4-1 in the fourth on consecutive doubles by Rafael Palmeiro and Juan Gonzalez, and Palmer's RBI single.

"With the team in the race, you want to start producing to help the team out," Palmer said.

Pavlik (7-6) scattered nine hits in seven innings, walked five and struck out three in winning for just the second time in seven starts. Pitching coach Claude Osteen wanted him to bear down before getting into trouble, but that wasn't the way it worked out.

"I was actually trying to find a spot to get him out of there," Texas manager Kevin Kennedy said in all seriousness.

Dion James singled with one out in the first before Don Mattingly hit into a double play. The Yankees loaded the bases with one out in the second before Pavlik struck out Mike Gallego and got Pat Kelly on a groundout.

New York got a run in the third on Danny Tartabull's RBI double and had the bases loaded before Bernie Williams ended the inning by grounding into a double play. The Yankees then got their first two runners on in the fourth and fifth, but Kelly and Paul O'Neill hit into double plays.

"Claude kept telling me, 'Just act like they're a couple of runners on every time you're out there,'" Pavlik said.

Mattingly hit his 15th home run — his third in four games — in the seventh. New York threatened in the eighth when Craig Lefferts walked Mike Stanley and Gallego singled with two outs, but Cris Carpenter relieved and struck out pinch-hitter Matt Nokes, an unusual switch that brought in a right-handed pitcher to face a left-handed batter.

"Lefferts has been giving up a lot of home runs (15)," Kennedy said.

Tom Henke, who has retired 27 of his last 28 batters, pitched a perfect ninth for his 29th save in 34 chances, dropping New York two games behind first-place Toronto in the AL East.

"People got caught up in the six-game winning streak," said Abbott, who lost to Texas for the third time this season. "They had us in the World Series and everything. We have a tough road ahead of us."

SIGNAL CALLER — Snyder senior quarterback Matt Cave signals to his receivers during Saturday's intrasquad Watermelon Bowl game. Grid scrimmage...

SHS to take on Fort Stockton

Following Saturday's varsity domination in the Tiger's annual Watermelon Bowl intrasquad scrimmage, Snyder coach David Baugh said that to really know how the football team is progressing, he'd need to see them against varsitv-level competition.

He gets his chance today when the Tigers take on Fort Stockton at Stanton High School in a controlled scrimmage.

The two schools' freshmen teams will square off at 5:30 p.m., followed at 7 p.m. by the varsity practice game. No JV scrimmage is scheduled.

Baugh was especially pleased with his squad's offensive effort in the Watermelon Bowl.

"We did have some good things happen," he said, "and we've improved a lot since practice started."

Quarterbacks Matt Cave and Jim Pat Griffin combined to complete 14 of 20 passes, including three for touchdowns to standout split end Larry Thompson.

"Larry had an outstanding scrimmage," Baugh said. "Our quarterbacks did a good job of getting the ball to the right receivers and we had some backs that really ran hard."

Running backs Chris Mitchell, Keith Orosco and Greg McAden carried the bulk of the Tigers' ground game against the JV.

Baugh said that an accurate appraisal of the SHS defensive unit was difficult after Saturday's scrimmage because the varsity dominated so completely.

"We need to see if we can do the same thing against another varsity team to see if we're as good as we looked," he said.

Snyder will travel to Ballinger for an Aug. 27 scrimmage, then will open the season Sept. 3 at Sweetwater.

The Tigers' home debut is slated for Sept. 17 when Abilene Wylie visits.

Accused killers in security cells

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP) — The two teens accused of killing Michael Jordan's father have been separated from other inmates in the county jail because of concerns about their safety.

"We are keeping them in security cells — not in isolation — for their own protection," said Mark Locklear, a chief investigator for the Robeson County Sheriff's Department.

"The Jordan family is well-liked. We don't want another Lee Harvey Oswald and Jack Ruby thing on our hands," he said. "These are threats that could easily be carried out."

Daniel Andre Green of Lumberton, N.C., and Larry Martin Demery of Rowland, N.C., both 18, have been charged with first-degree murder in the death of James Jordan. Authorities contend the men killed the father of the NBA superstar July 23 as he napped in his car alongside U.S. 74 near Lumberton, about 80 miles south of Raleigh.

Green and Demery are being kept in separate cells and are entitled to use the jail's canteen and recreation areas, but the areas are cleared of other inmates while they are using them, Locklear said.

Locklear said he has heard inmates, some in jail awaiting trial on homicide charges, urge jailers: "Send them back to our cell block. We'll save the state some money."

The two men have been told of the threats, and one asked to be separated from the other inmates, Locklear said. He declined to say which of the two made the request.

Public Defender Angus Thompson, who is representing Green, objected to separating his client from the general inmate population of about 350, Locklear said. Thompson could not be reached for comment Wednesday.

Also Wednesday, Demery's parents, in one of their first statements since their son was arrested Sunday, described the teen as a good son who tried hard not to disappoint them. He could face the death penalty if he's convicted in the slaying.

"It liked to torn my heart out of me. I never hurt so much in all my life. When I realized the seriousness of the situation, I went to pieces," Virginia Demery said.

A high school dropout, Demery was attending night school to earn a diploma.

According to TPWD sampling...

Largemouth bass thrive at Spence

SAN ANGELO — Texas Parks and Wildlife Department fisheries biologists were surprised by the number of largemouth bass collected at Lake E.V. Spence during a cove sample the first week of August.

According to biologist Bill Follis, the TPWD was expecting approximately eight to nine pounds per acre, but came up with almost three times that amount, about 24 pounds per acre.

"This increase is due to the rise in water level in early 1992," Follis explained. "Water level expansion increases the available cover and habitat for the bass to spawn and live in, and increases the available food supply."

According to Follis, the increase is the largest in the largemouth population since the mid-1980s.

The bass ranged in size from abundant small young-of-the-year, one to three inch fish, to a 23-inch, 7.6-pounder. A total of 11.08 pounds per acre of legal largemouth bass, 14 inches and longer, were collected, and over nine pounds per acre of fish in the 10-13 inch range.

At current growth rates, those bass will be legal size by next year.

Additionally, 3.01 pounds of small largemouth were taken. They should be keepers in two or three years.

The channel catfish population also looks very good at Lake Spence. Biologists snared 32 pounds per acre in their cove sample, including many fish 12 inches and larger.

Forage populations are also excellent at the lake, located near Robert Lee. A total of 18.25 pounds of sunfish and over 95 pounds per acre of shad were collected.

This large amount of forage will provide a good food supply for largemouth, white and striped bass and catfish.

Hamlin's Ponder joins WTC basketball squad

The 5-10 Ponder, a post for the Lady Pipers during her high school career, is expected to fill a small forward spot for the Dusters.

"Becky has a strong desire to play college basketball," coach Jones said. "She should work very hard to make the transition from being a post player in high school to a small forward in college."

Ponder averaged 16 points and eight rebounds a game for Hamlin High as a senior.

She was also named All-District 7-2A, all-area, was the Most Valuable Player at the 1992 Haskell Tournament, and earned all-tournament honors at Hamlin's own tourney.

"Coach Jones and WTC have given me a chance to do something I've always wanted to do," Ponder said, "to play college basketball.

BECKY PONDER

"I'm going to do everything I can to help improve their program."

Ponder plans on majoring in physical education and would like to have a career in coaching.

News Briefs

Bush seeks dad's advice

HOUSTON (AP) — George W. Bush is seeking his father's advice about running for Texas governor and hopes to make a final decision made soon, according to a published report today.

Republican sources told the Houston Chronicle that Bush, managing partner of the Texas Rangers baseball team, is at the family retreat in Kennebunkport, Maine, talking with his father, former President Bush.

The sources said the younger Bush hopes to have made a final decision on whether he will run by the time he returns home at the end of next week.

But even if he decides to seek the Republican nomination, he may not immediately announce his plans, the newspaper said.

"The guy's got significant name identification and support in the party. He doesn't need to be rushed," Republican political consultant Karl Rove said.

If Bush enters the Texas race for governor, it could winnow the field of GOP gubernatorial candidates.

State Rep. Tom Craddick of Midland has said he will not run if Bush enters the fray, and Dallas Lawyer Tom Luce, a GOP candidate in 1990, said a Bush candidacy could make a difference in whether he runs.

Another possible GOP contender, Rob Mosbacher, does not plan to base his decision on whether Bush runs, spokesman Mark Sanders said.

Sander said the key question for Mosbacher is whether he believes he can defeat Gov. Ann Richards.

Stillborn child found in laundry

EL PASO (AP) — Employees at a commercial laundry found the body of a stillborn baby that had been accidentally thrown in with a hospital's dirty linen, a hospital spokeswoman says.

Workers at the Supreme Laundry and Cleaners, the contract laundry service for Columbia Medical Center-East, found the body Tuesday morning, said hospital spokeswoman Holly Fields.

The baby's body was returned to the hospital morgue.

Ms. Fields said the full-term stillborn baby was delivered Saturday at the hospital, and the body was sent to the hospital morgue.

But on Monday, a family member asked to see the baby and the body was retrieved.

After the family viewed the baby, it was wrapped in four blankets and returned to the morgue. But the person who cleaned the morgue that night apparently didn't realized what was in the bundle of blankets and tossed it into a linen cart.

The hospital is changing policies and procedures to ensure a similar incident never occurs again, Ms. Fields said.

She said morgue access will now be restricted to the nursing supervisor, who will also be responsible for handling any linen that may need to be removed from the morgue.

Ms. Fields said cleaning of the morgue will only be allowed when there are no bodies there.

No lotto winner

AUSTIN (AP) — No tickets matched all six numbers from Lotto Texas Wednesday night, meaning the jackpot will swell to an estimated $25 million for Saturday night's drawing.

Wednesday's numbers were 3, 32, 33, 35, 44 and 45. A ticket with all six numbers would have paid about $17 million.

But the secretary of state's office, which administers the lottery, said 160 tickets had five numbers correct. Each of those tickets pays $2,041.

There were 8,523 tickets with four correct numbers, paying $138 each. There were 191,202 with three numbers, worth $3 each.

Lotto sales top $730 million since the game began last November.

SAT scores inch up

AUSTIN (AP) — SAT scores for Texas high school students are up but remain lower than the national average, according to the College Board.

The average verbal score on the Scholastic Aptitude test was 413 for the state's seniors, up three points from the previous year's graduating class.

The national average was 424, one point higher than the previous average, according to the board, a non-profit education group that sponsors the test.

On the math section, Texas' average was 472, up six points. The national average was 478, up two points.

"Our scores improved for every subgroup — African-Americans and Hispanics as well — and that's significant in my mind," Texas Education Commissioner Lionel "Skip" Meno said Wednesday.

He also said that while the results are encouraging, much work needs to be done.

White students' average score rose in math from 489 to 495, and the verbal from 435 to 439. Mexican American students' math average rose from 424 to 429, and verbal from 367 to 370. African-American students' math average increased from 383 to 391, and verbal from 341 to 344.

Forty-five percent of projected high school graduates took the test in Texas. The national figure is 43 percent, and the range is from 4 percent in Mississippi and Utah to 78 percent in New Hampshire.

Governor eyes PUC nominees

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards says she's impressed with Sarah Goodfriend as a possible nominee to the Public Utility Commission, and Walter Washington to head a state agency that represents residential utility consumers.

Ms. Goodfriend, of Austin, currently is director of the economic and regulatory policy division at the PUC, which regulates electric and telephone utilities.

Washington is deputy counsel at the Office of Public Utility Counsel, which represents small business and residential consumers.

"I have talked to Sarah, and have expressed to the appointments office that I thought she looked good," Richards said Wednesday. "I have no idea, though, where the appointments office is. They go through a lot of hoops before we check these people out, so I can't tell you. Same thing on Walter."

Ms. Goodfriend would replace Marta Greytok of Houston, a Republican whose term expires Sept. 1. The other PUC members, Robert Gee and Karl Rabago, also were appointed by Richards, a Democrat.

Washington would take over from Luis Wilmot, who has announced he will resign effective Sept. 6 to become Southwest regional counsel for the Mexican AMerican Legal Defense and Educational Fund.

Also Wednesday, the PUC was considering a proposal by Gee to limit the number of questions that may be asked of utilities during rate cases. It's an effort to speed up the cases, but some consumer advocates object to the idea as potentially limiting information.

PUC spokesman Guillermo Garcia said the commission wasn't expected to immediately act on the proposal.

Snyder police made four arrests Wednesday and early today.

Police arrested a 54-year-old man for public intoxication at 8:57 p.m. Wednesday in the 2500 block of College Avenue.

At 12:39 a.m. today, officers responded to a 911 hangup call in the 100 block of 25th Street. Upon investigation, officers arrested a 31-year-old man for assault/family violence.

Police were notified of another disturbance at 1:20 a.m. today in the Fieldcrest Apartments. Officers arrested a 38-year-old woman for public intoxication and disorderly conduct/language, and a 21-year-old woman for public intoxication.

At 8:14 a.m. Wednesday, police were contacted by employees of Wilson Motors in reference to a burglary. Taken were a stereo from of a 1991 Chevrolet pickup and a rear license plate from a 1989 Dodge pickup.

At 9:35 a.m. Wednesday, a man came to the police department to file charges on a subject for disorderly conduct/language.

At 1:50 p.m., a woman came to the department to file charges against a subject for disorderly conduct/language.

Class C assault/family violence charges were filed at 7:11 p.m. Wednesday by a female who had been having problems with her boyfriend.

A woman contacted police at 10:06 p.m. Wednesday in reference to an unknown subject entering her house in the 2600 block of Avenue K. A report for Class A criminal trespass was filed.

Police also worked a couple of traffic accidents Wednesday. At 7:56 a.m., officers investigated a two-vehicle mishap in the 4000 block of Avenue V. Involved were a 1988 Ford driven by Mindy Deanne Rasmus of Rt. 2 and a 1987 Chevrolet Suburban driven by Terri Dennis Price of 4202 Lubbock Ave.

Rasmus was later treated for a cervical strain at Cogdell Memorial Hospital emergency room. She was released following treatment.

Boy "divorces" natural mother

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A state appeals court, ruling in the case of the boy who "divorced" his mother, declared that minors cannot sue on their own to terminate their parents' rights. But the court still upheld the "divorce."

The Fifth District Court of Appeals said that the lower court ruling terminating Rachel Kingsley's parental rights was valid because adults with the right to sue — including the boy's guardian — had also sued on his behalf.

The appeals court also reversed on procedural grounds the boy's adoption by his lawyer, George Russ. It sent the adoption case back to the trial court for further proceedings.

While the ruling on Wednesday was a setback for advocates of children's rights, it appeared to have little immediate impact on the life of 13-year-old Shawn Russ, who was known as Gregory K during last year's court battle.

Shawn heard the news while watching television at the Russes' Fruitland Park home in central Florida.

"He said he didn't want to leave," said Russ' wife, Lizabeth. "He didn't want to become Gregory Kingsley again. He was afraid he would have to leave and live with her again."

Orange County Juvenile Court Judge Thomas Kirk had ruled Sept. 25 that Shawn had legal standing to sue his mother for divorce. After a two-day trial, the judge severed Ms. Kingsley's parental rights on grounds of neglect and abandonment and permitted the boy to be adopted by Russ.

Gregory was the first child in the nation to be granted legal status to sue for divorce from his parents, according to Ms. Kingsley's attorney, Jane Carey.

"For the preservation of the family, that is marvelous," Carey said of the appeals court ruling.

3 injured in accident

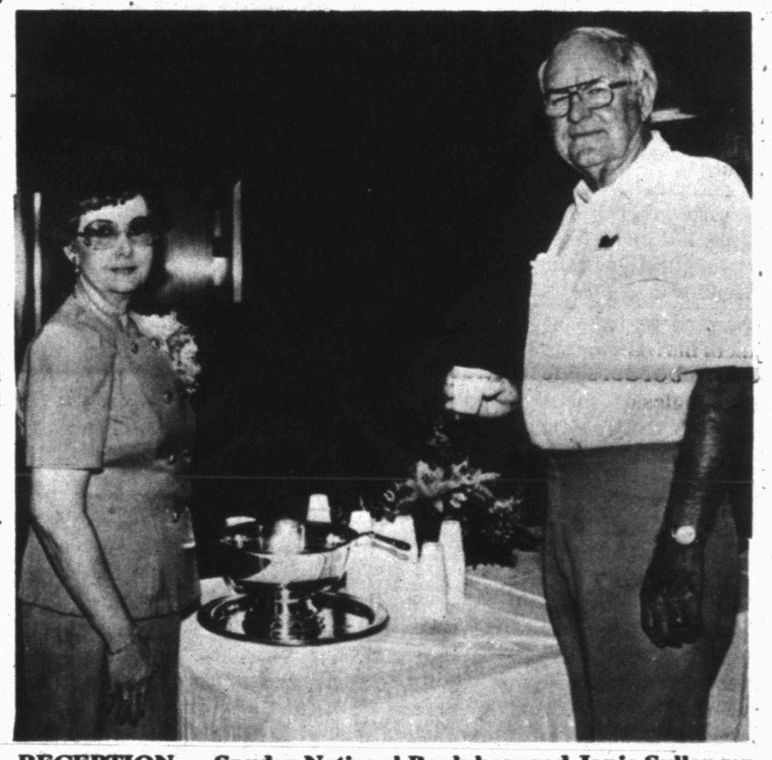

A 21-year-old Arlington woman was admitted to Cogdell Memorial Hospital and two other women were treated for minor injuries after the van in which they were traveling wrecked along U.S. Highway 84 Wednesday.

Mindy Griffen of Arlington was taken to Cogdell emergency room by Snyder EMS at 10:02 p.m. Wednesday. She was treated for a fractured collarbone, multiple contusions and abrasions, and admitted for 23-hour observation.

Also brought in by EMS were Melanie C. Phillips, 13, of Lubbock, who was treated for a lacertation to the forehead, and Judi Phillips, 53, of Lubbock, who was treated for an elbow injury. Both were treated and released.

The one-vehicle accident occurred about 9:10 p.m. 5.4 miles south of Hermleigh.

DPS troopers who worked the accident were not available this morning for further details.

In Dallas...

TI to construct new plant

DALLAS (AP) — A published report today says Texas Instruments Inc. will construct its first large microchip factory in Dallas in almost a decade — at a price tag of as much as $1 billion.

The expansion plan for the electronics giant follows booming worldwide demand for microchips and the need for the Dallas-based company to stay competitive.

The Dallas Morning News in a copyright story said the factory is expected to employ 200 to 300 workers when its first construction phase is completed by the end of 1995.

Semiconductor industry executives who were briefed on the plan told the newspaper Wednesday that the factory will employ 700 to 800 people when the second phase is completed in 1998.

A news conference was scheduled by TI for 11 a.m. today at DMOS 4, the last significant chip factory constructed in North Dallas in 1984.

The newspaper said the new factory will be located at TI's headquarters at the northeast corner of LBJ Freeway and North Central Expressway.

Demand for microchips has helped boost TI, which reported record second-quarter earnings of $112 million this year. Officials said the new plant would be the first major boost to TI's Dallas employment in almost five years.

Following a half-dozen consecutive losses in 1990 and 1991, the company's North Texas workforce has been trimmed to 25,000, including 22,500 in Dallas, from 34,600 at the end of 1988.

Company chairman Jerry R. Junkins and semiconductor group officials declined to answer questions late Wednesday about the plant. A TI spokeswoman did not immediately return a telephone call from The Associated Press.

The new factory would be capable of making computer chips containing as many as 20 million transistors on a fingertip-size slice of electronic circuitry, said officials of the world's sixth largest chipmaker.

"This is a bold move," James Poyner, a technology analyst for Oppenheimer & Co. in New York, told the newspaper. "It's bold because it's domestic and it's bold because it's on their nickle."

In at least the first stage of the new plant, TI is expected to handle the $300 million cost out of pocket, the executives said. The newspaper said TI had $1.2 billion of net working capital at the end of June.

The plant's second phase will cost as much as $700 million, the newspaper said. Analysts said the proposed plant's price tag was almost standard for such a facility.

"It's pretty much required of most companies nowadays," Jerry Hutcheson, chief executive officer of VLSI Research Inc., a Silicon Valley research company, told the newspaper.

The world's largest chipmaker, Intel Corp., said in April it would build a $1 billion addition to its factory at Rio Rancho, N.M., that would employ 1,000 people.

Feds may relax ban on chemicals

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move long sought by the agriculture and chemical industries, the Clinton administration is proposing to undo a blanket ban on cancer-causing pesticides in processed foods, according to interest groups who have been briefed by officials.

Instead the administration seeks a standard that would allow small amounts of carcinogens if the government determines they do not pose a significant health risk.

Administration officials "described to us that they would support a negligible risk policy," said Sherwin Gardner, senior vice president for the Grocery Manufacturers of America. "Negligible risk" would be defined as one added cancer case for every million people.

It is the most controversial aspect of a broader food-safety legislative package being prepared by the administration. If enacted by Congress, it would overturn the so-called Delaney Clause of the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, which prohibits even negligible amounts of carcinogens in processed foods such as applesauce, ketchup and juices.

Already, environmental and consumer groups who were briefed by government officials Tuesday and Wednesday are condemning the move, while industry representatives who attended separate briefing sessions praised it.

"We cannot accept a reform package that undermines a central public health concept embodied in the Delaney Clause," said Jay Feldman of the National Coalition Against Misuse of Pesticides. "If we allow that provision to be repealed, we undermine the longterm goal of getting cancer-causing pesticides out of the food."

"We feel strongly that carcinogens should not be in the food supply," said Polly Hoppins, director of World Wildlife Fund's agricultural pollution prevention project. But she applauded some other aspects of the administration's plan as a "good start."

Mark Nestlen of the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture said the administration was moving in "a positive direction to make the changes in pesticide regulation that have been needed for several years."

The Environmental Protection Agency, Agriculture Department and Food and Drug Administration are working together on the food safety legislation, which is to be presented in congressional hearings on Sept. 9.

According to a list of administration goals obtained by The Associated Press, the legislation also would:

— Prohibit export of pesticides that are banned on crops in this country.

— Promote development of "safer pest management alternatives."

— Make it easier to bar pesticides that are found to pose health risks.

— Seek more funds to speed EPA's pesticide registration program.

EPA spokeswoman Loretta Ucelli refused to comment on the package, saying it was still being developed.

Demjanjuk's return in hands of court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is pressing a Cincinnati court to block a possible return to the United States by John Demjanjuk, the retired Cleveland auto worker who stood trial in Israel on war crimes charges.

But a Jewish group says the U.S. government should stop waiting and go to the Supreme Court.

The Anti-Defamation League on Wednesday sent Solicitor General Drew Days III a letter urging him to "seek Supreme Court review on an emergency basis, before the order stripping Demjanjuk of his right to be present within U.S. borders is rendered meaningless."

Rep. Charles Schumer, D-N.Y., said he also has asked the department to stop waiting for a response from the Cincinnati court.

Demjanjuk, 73, was cleared by Israel's Supreme Court of allegations he was the vicious guard "Ivan the Terrible" at the Treblinka death camp during World War II. But the court said it found convincing documentary evidence he was a Nazi guard at other camps, and Holocaust survivors are seeking a new trial on that evidence.

Three judges of the Israeli court Wednesday decided not to order a new trial. But Chief Justice Meir Shamgar delayed Demjanjuk's deportation for a third time until Friday to give Holocaust survivors and other petitioners a last chance to plead for a new trial before the full, five-member court.

Demjanjuk said he is a victim of mistaken identity and denies being a death camp guard.

Demjanjuk was sentenced to death in Israel in 1988, and if the Israeli court doesn't order a second trial, he will be deported. A three-judge panel of the 6th Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati has decided that Demjanjuk should be allowed back into the United States to help with the appeal of his 1986 extradition to Israel.

The government is appealing that decision and pressing the court to rule before Demjanjuk is released from a Tel Aviv prison.

On Wednesday, the department sent the court its fifth "hurry-up" letter, offering "to appear in Cincinnati for argument on the motion at any time, including tomorrow or Friday."

A Justice Department spokesman said there was no decision on whether to ask the Supreme Court to overturn the 6th Circuit decision.

"We're still hoping the (full) 6th Circuit will stay that order," spokesman Carl Stern said.

The department has told the court that because two federal judges have found that Demjanjuk served at Trawniki, a Nazi training facility for death camp guards, "the Attorney General has determined that Demjanjuk should not be allowed to return to the United States."

That decision rests on a law barring entrance to people who assisted in Nazi persecution.

Without entry papers from the United States, Demjanjuk would face an uncertain fate if deported from Israel.

Army agrees to return president that they ousted

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — Army rulers have agreed to the return of the president they ousted by Oct. 30, but until then they don't want to see Jean-Bertrand Aristide's face. On anything.

Five Aristide supporters were transferred to the National Penitentiary on Wednesday for distributing leaflets that carried a photo of Haiti's first democratically elected president. A judge refused to free the five on bail, presumably while they await trial.

Their fate could have been worse. On Aug. 12, soldiers killed one photograph-carrying Aristide supporter in Tet-a-bef, a hamlet 25 miles west of the capital Port-au-Prince. Ten others were wounded.

Since the 1991 military overthrow of Aristide, scores of people found to have a photograph of Aristide have been arrested without charge.

The repression symbolizes the military's reluctance to yield control despite its agreement to a U.N.-mediated pact to restore democracy, said Jean-Claude Bajeux, whose Socialist Party backs Aristide.

"Aristide's photo has the mystic power of an icon," Bajeux told The Associated Press on Wednesday. "If his image can cover the walls of the country, it means the cause of democracy is victorious."

Bajeux insisted that, because Parliament recognized Aristide's authority in June, "his portrait should already be hanging on the walls of every government office."

In another step toward restoring democracy, the Senate on Wednesday approved Aristide's choice for Haiti's next prime minister, businessman Robert Malval. The House of Deputies must now vote on the matter.

Boy found after 3 days

LONGVIEW (AP) — A 5-year-old Kilgore boy survived a car accident that killed his mother and clung to a ravine through two nights without food or water before he was found by authorities.

Derrick Brittain, who suffered head and facial injuries spent his birthday in the ant-infested gully about 40 feet away from the body of his mother, Vicky Brittain, 22.

Authorities say the fact that Derrick survived for three days in the blistering heat is a miracle. Tuesday's temperatures were near 100 degrees

Trooper Jim McCubbin, a 29-year veteran in law enforcement, said this is the first time he has seen a severely injured survivor live for an extended period of time without food or water.

The crash occurred when the Brittains' car ran off the road at about 10:30 p.m. Monday and hit several trees. The vehicle was hidden beneath brush and tree limbs that had fallen on it during the crash.

Rig shopping in Texas

PAMPA (AP) — A former Soviet republic's oil ministry has gone shopping in Texas.

Five people from Kazakhstan visited Wednesday with Pampa drilling rig manufacturer IRI International.

"Russia (with the other republics) is the entire world for us," IRI President Vic Raymond said. "There's no domestic market except for occasional parts orders."

The Pampa unit has shipped 20 rigs this summer to clients in the former Soviet bloc. IRI managers plan to visit Russia and its neighbors at least four times in the next eight months.

Increasing demand for Western technology has kept the orders for drilling equipment steady, Raymond said.

Perot looks at free trade

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas billionaire Ross Perot says he will have a new book analyzing the North American Free Trade Agreement in bookstores by Labor Day.

Perot, an outspoken critic of the agreement, charged during the presidential debates last year that NAFTA would create a "giant sucking sound" of American jobs flowing to Mexico.

The book, titled "Save Your Job, Save Our Country: Why NAFTA Must Be Stopped — Now," was co-written with Washington economist and author Pat Choate.

Capitol for a day

AUSTIN (AP) — Gov. Ann Richards has announced a program to bring voters closer to the lawmakers they elected.

Richards says she will travel with legislators and state agency heads around the state to answer questions and address citizens' concerns during daylong seminars.

The program will begin on Sept. 2 in the East Texas city of Carthage, she said.

"We hear more and more that the citizens are disenchanted with government," Richards said Wednesday. "They feel that government doesn't listen, doesn't help and is out of touch."

The officials willl be available at a central location in the community and later will participate in a public forum with Richards.

"As I travel around the state, I have been told of instance after instance in which someone has had an unpleasant experience or lack of attention from the government their tax dollars support," Richards said.

New stop-smoking plan

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas pharmacists have announced a program to try to help smokers quit smoking.

Forty-five members of the Texas Pharmaceutical Association will complete an intensive training session to serve as support counselors.

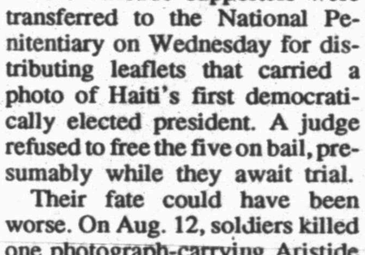

The effort, dubbed Reskue, was successful in Georgia last year, officials said.

Smokers who combine counseling with a smoking cessation device, such as a nicotine patch, are twice as likely to succeed, the TPA said.

"Nicotine is probably the most addictive and harmful drug known," said Paul Davis, TPA executive director. "Breaking the habit means conquering both the physical and psychological addiction — and that's what this program is all about."

Troops serving foreign commanders debated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Go multinational. That's the U.S. approach to the dangerous business of peacekeeping in places like Somalia and Bosnia and half a dozen other explosive regions.

But with that answer comes the politically touchy question of whether U.S. combat troops should serve under foreign commanders.

On Capitol Hill, the first reaction was outrage.

"Nutty idea," was Sen. Malcolm Wallop's reaction to a report that President Clinton is likely to issue an executive order next month clearing the way for U.S. combat forces to take orders from foreign commanders.

"I can't imagine the Congress going along with it," the Wyoming Republican said.

Even Democratic Sen. James Exon of Nebraska likened the idea to Clinton's plan to permit gays to serve openly in the military, a proposal that created a furor and ultimately was drastically watered down.

Exon said Clinton ought to be reminded of "some of the mistakes he's made in the recent past by going off on tangents with regard to military matters."

Another Democrat, Sen. Robert Byrd of West Virginia, wrote in an opinion article in The New York Times today that the plan should be thoroughly debated by Congress. "Unless there is a national consensus in favor of U.S. involvement, any such military endeavors could be disastrous," wrote Byrd, chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

The negative reaction in Congress stemmed in part from a feeling the administration was moving ahead without consulting the lawmakers. It wouldn't be the first time for this administration or any of its predecessors.

But there also was the matter of U.S. troops taking orders from foreigners.

Opinion polls indicate most Americans aren't keen on seeing the United States get deeply involved in Bosnia. Air strikes against Bosnian Serbs get support. But they are perceived as relatively risk free.

Ground troops are another matter. Clinton and his Republican predecessor, George Bush, consistently emphasized they had no intention of sending ground forces to the former Yugoslavia except as part of a U.N. peacekeeping force deployed after the Bosnian Serbs, Croats and Muslims agreed to stop shooting.

That exception now looms somewhat larger.

Under the threat of NATO air strikes, Bosnian negotiators are making some progress in stopping the fighting. No one knows yet how real or how lasting this forward movement will be, but the initial progress raises the possibility that an agreement can be reached and peacekeepers deployed — including Americans.

Who would give the orders in such a force?

Most likely the commanders would not be Americans.

At the Pentagon, officials responded to the issue with caution.

"There is consensus within the department," said one official, speaking only on condition of anonymity, that "in appropriate circumstances where we are satisfied with the command structure and arrangements and are satisfied with the risk to American forces, that American forces might be placed under the operational control of a U.N. commander who is not American."

In other words, if the United States likes the arrangement it will go along, if it doesn't, it won't.

To emphasize the point, the official quickly added, "The U.S. would retain ultimate command authority over such units."

A characteristic of multinational forces is the insistence of most nations on retaining some sort of vttopower over the use of their troops.

For example, there has been a long-running dispute in Somalia between the United Nations command and Italy, which moved its forces to a different part of the country in a dispute with the U.N.

Some U.S. forces — logistical units in Somalia, for example — already serve under foreign command. During the Persian Gulf War, a few specialized units were placed under French command to fill a particular need.

But such instances are rare, and the initial reaction on Capitol Hill indicates a conviction among politicians that it is not an idea the American people will readily accept.

Claims U.S. planes attacked

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — U.S. warplanes dropped cluster bombs on an Iraqi air defense battery near the northern city of Mosul, wounding a soldier and a civilian, the Iraqi news agency reported.

A U.S. spokeswoman, Maj. Nancy Cochran, told the Associated Press from Incirlik air base in southern Turkey that "an incident involving U.S. warplanes" had taken place in northern Iraq. She did not elaborate except to say further details would be released later.

A U.S.-led allied coalition air force has been based at Incirlik since the end of the 1991 Gulf War to monitor Baghdad's treatment of its Kurdish population in northern Iraq. The warplanes fly daily reconnaissance flights over northern Iraq.

Former Corpus sheriff indicted

CORPUS CHRISTI (AP) — Former Nueces County Sheriff James Hickey and his lawyer, Bradford Condit, have been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges that they conspired to embezzle and misapply funds from the sheriff's department.

The indictment, returned Wednesday, stems from more than $158,000 in payments Hickey made from a federal drug forfeiture fund during his last years in office.

A federal official said Hickey is believed to be the first law enforcement official in the country to be charged with stealing federal drug forfeiture funds.

Hickey, 55, and Condit, 40, issued a statement through their attorneys.

"This indictment is a typical bureaucratic over-reaction to a financial dispute," said attorneys Robert Berg and Paul Kratzig.

Berg, who stepped down as assistant U.S. attorney Jan. 15, is representing Hickey. Kratzig is Condit's attorney.

"Unfortunately, grand juries most often do not have the benefit of hearing both sides of a matter before returning an indictment, the statement added. "Sheriff Hickey and Mr. Condit are satisfied, however, that their innocence will be clearly established in open court."

The indictments allege that the money was used as gifts to employees, the purchase of a departing employee's vacation time, a $48,000 retroactive pay raise for Hickey and a $100,800 payment to Condit for current and future legal services.

Hickey and Condit have been ordered to appear Aug. 27 before U.S. Magistrate Eduardo de Ases for arraignment.

"We didn't feel that an arrest was necessary," said Mark Dowd, Berg's replacement as assistant U.S. attorney in charge of the Corpus Christi office. "We trusted that they would appear and face these charges by summons."

"It is a very sad situation that hit me just as I was coming into office," said Nueces County Attorney Carl Lewis. "I had always had good feelings about Brad. I always thought Hickey had good character. I thought they were wrong, but they didn't see it that way."

The investigation began last ist year when a county audit revealed the payments to Hickey and Condit.

Hickey said the payment to himself constituted a retroactive pay raise, and that he paid Condit from the drug fund to represent him in lawsuits during his last few months in office and afterward.

Hickey and Condit have contended that the payments were legal and that they abided by the U.S. attorney general's guidelines for spending federal drug forfeiture money.

Hickey could not be reached for comment, the Corpus Christi Caller-Times reported today. Condit referred all comment to his attorney, the newspaper reported.

If convicted, Condit and Hickey could face a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison.

Tot rescued by firemen

SAN ANGELO (AP) — Firefighters rescued a 13-month-old child late Wednesday from a fire that they say was started by his brothers, who were playing with matches.

Daniel Stephen was in critical condition at the Intensive Care Unit of Shannon Medical Center early Thursday, a hospital spokeswoman said. Daniel had not been burned, but suffered from smoke inhalation, she said.

"When we got there, the flames were extending out of the windows of the front bedroom," said Capt. H.L. Turnbow, acting battalion chief. "A woman was in the front yard screaming that her baby was in the back bedroom."

Rescuers entered the home and the boy was handed safely to a firefighter outside through an open window.

Daniel Stephen was not breathing when he was rescued, but firefighters revived him with cardiopulmonary resuscitation, officials said. He was breathing on his own by the time the ambulance left the scene, officials said.

Preliminary indications were that the fire was started by children playing with matches while their mother, 22-year-old Sandra Stephen was asleep, said Fire Marshal Ken Land. When she woke up, the house was full of smoke, he said.

Ms. Stephen was able to get the other two boys, ages 2 and 3, to hold onto her leg as she escaped the burning house.

"She attempted to go back in to rescue or get her 13-month-old son, but the smoke was too much," Land said.

Ms. Stephen and police officer Rick Keeling were treated for minor injuries and released from Shannon Medical Center.

Protein disorder damages organs

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 49-year-old brother has been diagnosed with amyloidosis. He's been athletically inclined all his life, never sick, and I'm having difficulty understanding why he would acquire this condition.

DEAR READER: Amyloidosis is marked by the progressive accumulation of various proteins in many of the body's tissues. Eventually, these proteins impair organ function, leading primarily to heart and kidney failure. The cause is unknown, but amyloidosis is often associated with other chronic diseases, such as myeloma (a type of blood cancer), tuberculosis (and other infections), Hodgkinson's disease and rheumatoid arthritis. Some forms of amyloidosis appear to be inherited; others appear during aging.

Amyloidosis is diagnosed by biopsy.

Treatment of an underlying disease may arrest the progression of amyloid deposits. Also, cortisone is often used in patients whose organs rapidly deteriorate.

However, for the most part, amyloidosis is incurable. The poor prognosis notwithstanding, most cases of amyloidosis progress slowly. In addition, the complications, such as heart failure, can be treated with medication, thereby extending the patient's life and independence.

Amyloidosis is not brought on by exercise, diet or any known (and controllable) environmental factor.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My sister suffers from high blood pressure and is on Tenormin twice daily. Her doctor has added Procardia, and she complains daily of nausea. Is the new medication causing this side effect or is it unrelated?

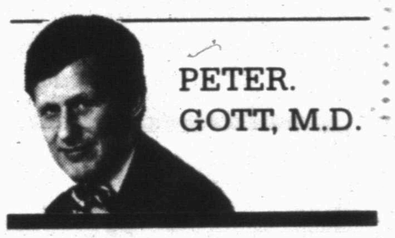

DEAR READER: Procardia (nifedipine, a calcium-channel blocker) may cause nausea in about 10 percent of patients who use it. Although it is a safe and effective medicine, it may be the cause of your sister's upset stomach. With her doctor's approval, she should discontinue the drug.

As a substitute, a diuretic (such as Dyazide or Maxzide) would be appropriate. Not only do these drugs enhance the beneficial effects of Tenormin (atenolol, a beta-blocker), but they help counteract Tenormin's tendency to cause fluid retention — and they don't cause nausea. The combination of Tenormin/diuretic is so successful, in fact, that the manufacturer now markets a combination pill called Tenoretic. Ask the doctor about this.

To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my new Health Report "Hypertension." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the title.
