HARDING TAKES HAND IN RAIL STRIKE

Shelf Lynching Bill—
Harding Must Act—
Progressive Texans—
They Diversify—

SENATOR HENRY CABOT Lodge of Massachusetts is responsible for the favorable report on the Dyer anti-lynching act.

Senator Lodge is engaged in the bitterest political fight of his career. There are 40,000 negro voters in Massachusetts. They demand the enactment of the Dyer bill. They say they will vote against Lodge unless a republican senate takes up the house bill and puts it over.

There will be no anti-lynching bill passed by the senate at this session.

SENATOR CULBERSON IS preparing the minority report.

Senator Borah of Idaho will assist the democrats in strangling the Lodge bill. It is a political measure intended for vote getting purposes.

All sane men are opposed to lynching. All law-abiding men are opposed to mobs. All the democrats of the senate who are arrayed in opposition to the Dyer bill are for the punishment of criminals in the courthouse. Republicans defeated a similar measure four years, and independent republican senators who have a regard for the constitution and the rights of a state should assist in shelving this bill which the Massachusetts Pharasee insists shall be railroaded through congress to gain votes for him on primary election day.

Professional politicians are the curse of the country. They are spoilsmen and not patriots. They turned civilization back 50 years when they defeated the Versailles treaty and now all the world knows it.

FEDERAL ACTION IN THE coal strike is predicted shortly. If so, President Harding has made a complete change of program. As a senator and as president he has ever declared his opposition to governmental interference with business.

It would be certainly good business for the president and his administration to bring the mine owners and the miners together and avert a coal strike this fall and winter. Mines have been closed down for months. Coal reserves are melting away. There is a railroad strike on. Harvesting time is here. Crops must be moved.

THERE IS A BUILDING REvival on the country over. Materials must be supplied to the contractors. There are tremendous road bond issues already passed the nation over and road building materials must be moved from place to place.

Now what is going to happen? A car shortage. Congestion of traffic. A freight blockade.

President Harding has plenty of work cut out for him and his cabinet heads. He is the chief executive. He is the head of the government, as well as the voice of the people. Now what is he going to do to break the coal strike? What is he going to do to avert a coal famine? What is he going to do to prevent a car shortage? He said when he was inaugurated that normalcy was returning. He has been saying it ever since.

THERE HAS BEEN A BREAKdown in Europe. There should be no breakdown in America. Politicians are responsible for the breakdown overseas. They are largely responsible for many of the ills which distract the people on this side of the water.

Congress has been in session for months and months and all the pet measures of the administration are up in the air just like the senatorial candidates and their managers in Texas. This old world must work itself out. This old world must dig its way out. There is no other way and all the political quacks this side of kingdom come cannot help those who have been taught to believe that legislative nostrums makes wealth for the many or that prosperity comes without hard labor and a market for the products and wares of the toiler.

RED RIVER COUNTY PROgressives are planning a million dollar road bond issue for highway construction. Red River is an agricultural county. It is the home of long staple cotton and its farm-

3 LEADING IN SENATE RACE SEERS ASSERT

Culberson, Mayfield and Thomas Run Even

By H. N. F.
Special to the Record News

DALLAS, July 11.—For 28 years the writer has been in every political campaign that has been fought out in Texas. This is his fourteenth bi-ennial pilgrimage up and down the highways and byways of the state. He began as a political reviewer when James Stephen Hogg was the leader and the idol of a large wing of the democrats of Texas. There have been many bitter campaigns in those years. There have been many wild uprisings on the part of the more temperamental of the voters. Regardless of this, it has been an easy matter for a newspaper man who has played the game to forecast results almost to a certainty.

This campaign, which is drawing to a close, is different. Conditions are different. All the campaigns of the past have been fought out on paramount issues, either local or national. There were giants on both sides. First Texas had the Hogg and anti-Hogg political battles. Then came the Bailey and the anti-Bailey political battles and all the time as a burning issue, the question of the prohibition of the liquor traffic was uppermost. Now the prohibition issue is said to be settled. Now the equal suffrage issue is said to be settled. Now there is the ku klux klan and the anti-klanners. This may not be a burning issue which appeals to those who realize that economic problems should be uppermost all the time and that the question of taxation and transportation vitally concern all the people.

Forecasts Dangerous

The writer refuses to make a forecast this year, at least at this time. He hesitates because all the politicians as well as all the candidates are up in the air, so to speak. There

ECONOMY URGED ON EXECUTIVES

President Says "Use Pruning Knives"

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Administrative officers of the executive establishments of the government who were assembled today for their third semi-annual business meeting, were called upon by President Harding for the utmost economy of expenditure during the current fiscal year and the use of their "pruning knives" upon the estimates for the succeeding 12 months.

The president further urged economy by federal officials as an example for the states and municipalities whose mounting debts he described as a "menace" unequaled in America today.

Real Achievement

Referring to operations of the budget bureau during the fiscal year just ended during which withdrawals from the treasury were reduced by $750,000,000 from the earlier estimated total of $4,554,000,000 as "a record of real achievement," he declared that the prospective net deficit of $425,000,000 for the present current year "is a challenge to us all." Receipts for the current year, he stated, were estimated at $3,074,000,000, while expenditures were placed at $3,771,000,000, an apparent excess of expenditure amounting to $697,000,000 but offset to the amount of $272,000,000 by the general balance in the treasury on June 30.

Wichita Links Rich Territory To Its Radius

Town Will Reap Benefit in Business by Its Venture of Glad-Handing Through Scores Of Nearby Towns, Declare Their Citizens

Special to The Record News.

JACKSBORO, Texas, July 11.—Wichita Falls is going to get more business out of this part of the state in the near future. That is what commercial leaders all along the line from Henrietta to Jacksboro told the Record News representative today.

Everywhere the trade trip special stopped it was greeted in a most hearty manner. The business men of these towns—Henrietta, Gainesville, Myra, Muenster, St. Joe, Nocona, Ringgold, Bowie, Bridgeport and Jacksboro — told the correspondent that they were awakened by that personal touch. Many have always had a tender spot for Wichita Falls. They openly declared today that they had visions of the town rising even as the leading metropolis of the state; many had often thought of sending a small order down to Wichita Falls, but had somehow backed out wondering if they would be properly served.

How the Merchants Feel

"It's be a different story, after this," a prominent merchant of Bowie told the correspondent. "You have dropped in to see us; circumstances prevented much of a show (a funeral was being held, but you have called; you have met us and asked us for your business. You know," the business man continued, "we folks sorta like this sort of thing; its the personal touch. This always counts. Wichita'll get returns from this trip—mind you, it may not be tomorrow or next week, but she'll pay. You'll see. You'll see it so clearly that you'll be coming along up here again next year—you'll have a bigger train, a bigger crowd and you'll know us better. It'll be a case of calling on customers."

Such is the sentiment of the leaders in the towns visited.

Results Already Seen

It is parallel with that of the Wichita Falls business men on this trade trip special. Every single member of the party believes that it already has accomplished far more than they had dreamed. They feel that they can enter this virgin commercial field now either with their newspaper messages, traveling salesmen or printed matter and get an audience.

Gainesville Greets T...

Mayor J. A. Thomas came out to extend the glad hand physically and verbally at Gainesville. He declared that Wichita Falls was always welcome to anything within the reach of Gainesville; that the citizens were glad that they had included Gainesville in the itinerary—proud of it, in fact.

Raymond Myers responded to the greeting. Explaining the venture as one tended to promote better feeling and not an organized effort to invade

New Tariff Rates

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—Tariff rates of 3 cents a pound on cottonseed oil and soy beans and 4 cents a pound of cocoanut oil and peanut oil, where such oils are imported for manufacture of edible products were approved today by the senate. The republican agricultural tariff bloc sought to make these rates effective in the case of imported oils entering into non-edible oils, but its amendment was rejected, 33 to 25.

DOVER QUITS HIGH OFFICE

Row With Blair Believed Cause

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—President Harding was understood tonight to have under consideration the resignation of Elmer Dover of Tacoma, Washington, and formerly of Ohio, as assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of customs and internal revenue.

Information of the resignation of Mr. Dover was received at the capital today from treasury sources but official confirmation or denial of the report was wholly lacking, both the president and Secretary Mellon declining comment.

The resignation of Mr. Dover, it was indicated, could be regarded as the culmination of his controversy with David H. Blair, commissioner of internal revenue, raging for several months over the proposed reorganization of the internal revenue bureau.

Reorganization of the customs service was effected by Mr. Dover early in the year but his plans for changes in the personnel of the revenue bureau ran counter to the administrative ideas of Commissioner Blair and Secretary Mellon. Friction officially described as "disagreement as to policy" reached its height recently when C. C. Childs of Ohio and A. D. Sumner of Iowa, supervisor of internal revenue collectors and deputy commissioner in charge of accounts, respectively, were dismissed through consolidation of their offices by Mr. Mellon upon recommendation of the tax simplification board. Charles R. Nash of Minneapolis was selected as deputy commissioner of accounts and collections.

May Get New Post.

In some official quarters the view was advanced that President Harding was withholding action on Mr. Dovers' resignation pending his assignment to a new post in the government. The opinon also was ventured that the president was not entirely pleased with Mr. Dover's methods of procedure in connection with the revenue bureau.

BIG 4 CHIEFS TO MEET WITH RAIL BOSSES

Troops Prevent Any Trouble In Strike Centers

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 11.—Leaders of the "Big Four" railroad brotherhoods and railway executives were hurrying to Chicago tonight to confer tomorrow on issues growing out of the shopmen's strike. State troops and United States deputy marshals meanwhile are on guard in half a dozen states to avert violence and prevent interference with the movement of the mails & interstate commerce.

At Bloomington, Illinois, where state troops have been guarding the Chicago & Alton railway shops, engineers, firemen, trainmen and conductors, members of the big four brotherhoods voted today not to enter the shops or yards as long as troops are stationed there.

Another issue for discussion will be the alleged insistence of carriers that members of the "big four" do work regularly assigned to the crafts on strike.

A rift in the strike clouds appeared today with announcement of D. W. Helt, president of the brotherhood of railroad signalmen, that his 14,000 members would not strike at this time, but expected to open new negotiations with the individual carriers regarding grievances. If unable to reach an agreement, the entire matter will be referred to the railroad labor board, he said. Shop crafts leaders assumed a more hopeful attitude today with receipt of advices that 18 railroads had made conciliatory overtures looking toward a settlement of the strike and that some were already conferring with the system federation committees.

No settlement will be made, however, except on a national basis, the union heads said, insisting that the railroads deal with the six international unions as a whole.

Little Violence

Little actual violence was reported today, although troops and guards remained vigilant. At Bloomington an attempt was being made by the strikers recalled following an exchange of shots between guards and snipers last night. Two hundred Kansas national guards were sent to Harrington, Kansas, to guard the Rock Island shops and officials of the Southern railway asked Governor Russell of Mississippi for troops at Hattiesburg to protect the property at the Mississippi Central shops.

All was quiet at Clinton, Ill., where state troops are stationed. Additional deputy marshals were sworn in to protect the Chicago & Northwestern shop employes and two companies of state troops were sent to New Franklin, Mo., to protect workmen on the Missouri, Kansas & Texas road. Minor clashes between the workers and strike sympathizers were reported from several points.

MARSHALS GUARD KATY AT GREENVILLE

By Associated Press.

GREENVILLE, Texas, July 11. More than a score of United States deputy marshals arrived here today and took over policing of the property of the Missouri, Kansas & Texas railroad in the vicinity of the railroad shops. City policemen were withdrawn immediately upon notification of the city council by Deputy Marshal Whittle that the deputies would relieve the local government of that duty. Fifty shopmen walked out here.

ALLIES CUT GERMAN DEBT

Reparations Payment Reduced

By Associated Press.

PARIS, July 11.—The reparations commission decided today to relieve the German crisis to the extent of reducing the monthly installment of fifty million gold marks due next Saturday on the schedule of payment to 32,000,000 gold marks.

Credit to the amount of 106,000,000 gold marks was given Germany on her reparations account for deliveries of dyestuffs made during the last few months to the textile alliance of America for all the allies and also for deliveries of coal, made to Luxembourg at the request of the allied governments. These credits had been due Germany for some time and the officials thought this time opportune to allow them.

The members of the reparations commission spent all day discussing the German crisis. The German representatives reiterated their country's inability to meet cash payments after July.

The commission expects a formal request from Germany for a moratorium in some form tomorrow; indications tonight were that the German note would ask that Germany be relieved of all remaining payments this year.

Weedless Cotton Field Near Vernon

By Associated Press.

VERNON, Texas, July 11.—There is scarcely a farm within the broad expanse of Wilbarger county that is not sponsoring its best cotton crop in years, but few can offer a showing that will compare even with the fields of William McCaleb, living one mile east of Vernon. Stalks in this farmer's field are waist high, and hundreds of them are being thinned out at the present to make room for their thousands of brethren.

Farm experts who have visited the McCaleb place declare that the cotton thereon eclipses anything in this section. One glances down the long rows laid out in perfect line, and sees a field in perfect order. Not an armful of weeds could be gathered on all of the acres owned by this industrious agriculturist.

Proclamation Issued By President Orders All Mails to Proceed

Men Willing to Work Have Same "Indisputable Rights as Others Have to Decline to Work," Chief Executive Holds; Mails and Interstate Transportation Must Not Stop

By The Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—President Harding, in a proclamation issued at the white house late tonight directed "all persons to refrain from all interference with the lawful efforts to maintain interstate transportation and the carrying of the United States mails."

In the proclamation which was issued after a day in which continued reports had reached the postoffice department of interference by railroad strikers with mail trains, the president invited the co-operation of all public authorities, state and municipal and the "aid of all good citizens" to uphold the laws and to "facilitate those operations in safety which are essential to life and liberty and the security of property and our common public welfare."

The peaceful settlement of controversies between shop craft employes and carriers, it was stated, "in accordance with law and due respect for the established agencies for such settlement are essential to the security and well being of our people."

Let Them Work.

The president took the position that men willing to maintain the operation of railroad trains in order to transport mail have the "same indisputed right to work that others have to decline to work."

President Harding was occupied throughout the evening with the preparation of the proclamation delaying his dinner one hour in order to go over the first transcript. He returned to the executive offices after dinner and remained there until the proclamation was made public about 10:40 p. m.

BLANTON VOTED FOR ESCH BILL

Currie Explains His Position

Special to the Record News.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 11.—Representative Curry, republican California, in a statement issued today denied that Congressman Thomas L. Blanton of Texas, voted against the Esch-Cummins bill. Curry, who according to the house record, was paired against the bill with Blanton, who favored it, said that Blanton's statement put him in a wrong light.

The California congressman indirectly raised the question of Blanton's veracity and pointed to the record of the house to bear him out. Congressman Curry's statement follows in part:

"I was sick in a hospital at the time the final vote on the Esch-Cummins bill was had in the house. I opposed the bill and requested the clerk of the house to pair me against the bill. I did not request a pair with Mr. Blanton or any particular person and did not know with whom I had been paired until the record was published the next morning.

"From this it seems clear that we were both properly recorded in the pair which had been arranged for us—he in favor of the Esch-Cummins bill and I against it.

"I make this statement because I do not wish the public to understand that I favored the Esch-Cummins law, which would be indicated if I were paired with Mr. Blanton and he was opposed to the law."

Tariff Bloc Gets Another Setback

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 11.—The republican agricultural tariff bloc got another setback today in the senate, losing 33 to 24 in its fight to make dutiable imported vegetable oils used in the manufacture of non-edible products. The senate then, without a roll call, approved rates of 3 cents a pound on cottonseed oil and soya bean oil and 4 cents a pound on cocoanut oil and peanut oil, where such oils enter into the manufacture of edible commodities.

The bloc did not vote as a unit on the proposition to remove the provision allowing free entry of vegetable oils for industrial purposes. The defection within its ranks wever, was more than made up by support from the democrats, eight of them voting to eliminate the provision, namely, Ashurst, Bronssard, Harris, Heflin, Jones of New Mexico; Kendrick, Ransdell and Sheppard.

Record News Presses Plane Into Service to Give Trippers News

For the first time in the history of Wichita Falls, newspaper circulation by air, was introduced yesterday morning.

Many Wichita business men, though far from home, received their copy of the Record News in time for breakfast. This was the report of the trade trippers who spent the night in Gainesville.

One of the commercial planes of Harold Hanes made a dawn flight under the hand of Pilot Burrel Tibbs, laden with more than 200 pounds of Record News. The fight required one hour and 18 minutes, an exceptionally good fight since the course was bucking the wind all the way. The air line route is 92 miles, which figures Pilot Tibbs' rate at better than 60 miles per hour. The return trip required only 55 minutes.

Taking off from Call Field shortly after daybreak, the air cargo of Record News began its journey. Stacked and piled in the fuslage of the Curtis Ju-4-D, the mornings news was carried to the business men of Wichita who are now touring the trade territory in interest of local commerce and industry.

The Record News arranged with Mr. Hanes to transport the papers to Gainesville yesterday, and he will again send a ship with Pilot Tibbs, to carry the paper you are now reading to the special train which spent the night in Breckenridge. And so again, regardless of when or where, the trippers will not miss the morning paper to which they have grown accustomed.

While the trade trippers met newsboys and found copies of the Record News on display at the news stands later in the day, owing to the early schedule hour of departing from Gainesville and Breckenridge, it was impossible to get the papers to these points by train. Daily they are sent through the regular channels through out this trade territory, but the air plane was used to get the papers to the trade trippers early in the morning.

Klan Appears At Chillicothe

Special to the Record News.

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, July 11.—The first appearance of the ku klux klan in the churches of Chillicothe occurred Sunday night when six robed knights marched down the aisles of the Baptist and Methodist churches and presented the pastors, Rev. C. E. Landcaster and Rev. L. J. Lipscomb with a letter.

Each of the letters contained a $10 bill, with instructions to use the money as they saw fit.

The letter stated that the klan was after the drunkards, bootleggers, gamblers, home-breakers, inter-mixing of the white and negro races, automobile speeders and bawdy houses on wheels.

The klan said in the letters that it was willing and ready to co-operate with the officers in enforcing be law and praised both pastors for their great work in Chillicothe.

It is said a number of letters have been mailed to citizens here telling them to live a better moral life.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

ers are as prosperous as those to be found anywhere in the south or the west. They are diversifiers.

They raise their own corn and bacon. They tax themselves for good roads, and for school houses. They know what they want and they are willing to pay for it. There are road builders nearly everywhere in Texas except in Clay county, where 16 men are the owners of a third of the lands of the county and 14 of the 16 are committed to the pioneer cow trails.

THESE COW TRAILS WERE good enough for their grandfathers, and what was good enough in grandfather's day is good enough in grandson's day. This is their argument against modern public highways. Some day after the undertaker has completed his work in Clay county, the enterprising citizens then on earth will vote bond issues and abolish the cow trails.

DOLLAR FINES PAID

Two speeders and a man charged with intoxication paid for their fun in Justice Gwinn's court yesterday.

Because they had each pleaded guilty, the judge dismissed them with a fine of a dollar each and costs of court.

West Texas Cotton Prospect Best in Many Years, Says Visitor

"West Texas has little ground to kick at the world," says E. M. Wellmann, periodical visitor to Wichita Falls.

Mr. Wellman says the cotton is in better condition that at any time since the bumper crop of 1919. The only chance to beat the farmers of the plains country out of a cotton crop now, is hail. The season is in the ground and the fields thriving in the hot weather.

At Crosbyton, Lubbock and Plainview, estimates place the average for the entire section at three-fourth of a bale per acre. Not only is the prospect good for a big yield, but increased acreage is going to bring their total production up to at least one-third more than that of the past two seasons.

Mr. Wellman says the fields are in better condition than he has ever seen them before. During the past two weeks, the section of the state just visited received good cotton showers, and most of them came at night.

Of course the harvest is about finished and many are already enjoying a degree of success from the present season, but they are equally jubilant over the feedstuffs and cotton.

The district lying on the lower plains is above the boll-weevil line and there is no fear fro mthat direction. Nor have they experienced any other of the circumstances which curtail cotton production.

Mr. Wellman is very optimistic over the general outlook of this section of the state, and particularly so over the cotton prospect.

Culberson Says He Never Voted To Discriminate Against Farmer

Senator Charles A. Culberson, writing from Washington, has issued a statement making clear his position on the tariff for many years back to the present time. In his statement he asserts that he has never voted to discriminate against the American farmer in favor of the American manufacturer

Some of the main points in Senator Culberson's statement follow:

"I favor the levying of revenue duties on practically all imports whether raw material or the finished product, and I am opposed to the levying of protective duties on any imports, whether raw material or the finished product."

That I have strictly adhered to this position during my entire service in the senate is easily demonstrated.

When the Payne-Aldrich bill was under consideration I voted for a 20 per cent ad valorem duty on wools advanced from the scoured state.—Congressional Record, June 9, 4909, page 3011.

I voted for a 30 per cent ad valorem duty on all wools, hair of the camel, goat, alpaca, and other like animals.—Congressional Record, June 11, 1909, page 3130.

I voted for a 15 per cent ad valorem duty on hides of cattle, ray or uncured, whether dry, salted or pickled. —Congressional Record, June 22, 1909, page 3667.

When the Underwood wool bill was under consideration in the senate I voted for a 20 per cent ad valorem duty on wool of the sheep, hair of the camel, goat, alpaca and other like animals. — Congressional Record, July 25, 1912, page 9638.

I voted to pass this bill over President Taft's veto.—Congressional record, Aug. 16, 1912, page 11081.

I have never voted to discriminate against the American farmer in favor of the American manufacturer.

I have always voted for a revenue duty on the raw material of the farmer when there was a duty on the finished product of the manufacturer.

the retail trading resources of the town, Mr. Myers declared that Wichita Falls was paying a fine annual hand-shaking visit to the town. Both the Gainesville official and the Wichita Falls orator were warmly applauded.

Peppy Show at St. Jo

The umbrella-carrying hosts put on a snappy march at St. Jo, reaching this town about 11 o'clock. Temple H. Yarbrough, attorney and candidate for county prosecutor, orated briefly on behalf of St. Jo, asserting that never was any group of representatives more heartily welcome.

G. W. Pratt of the Burroughs Adding Machine company of Wichita Falls, made the responding speech. There seems to be quite a bit of stump-speech talent along on this trip and Platt certainly held up the set standard as established on the former journey by C. C. McDonald.

It was at Nocona that the business evangels smacked their lips in that yum-yum sort of way and made known their weakness for chicken-fried. Nobody talked much during the feast, but after the various members of the party had succeeded in greasing their kerchiefs quite effectively they began to talk about that chicken. The way they talked out would naturally assume that these Nocona women know more about cooking and serving chicken than any other persons in the world. The dinner was served by the women of the Ceneton association to pay expenses of the graveyard. The dinner was served in the Berry building.

A. V. Peterson, superintendent of schools, made the welcoming address here and Judge Weldon, formerly a resident of Nocona, responded.

Pioneer at Bowie Dies

The ceremonies were set aside at Bowie, after leaders of the trade trip had been informed that a funeral was just about to be held for J. A. Cummins, prominent civil war veteran and pioneer, who had died.

J. W. Chanceler, mayor of Bowie, greeted the trippers at that place and Judge Weldon, who also had resided at Bowie once, responded. He told of the kindly feeling he had for the place and assured his auditors that every Wichitan in the party held the same sentiments for the town and for the people.

Bridgeport Gets Well

At Bridgeport Frank Tanner and L. P. Kirkpatrick declared to the visitors that they never were more welcome, as Bridgeport had just brought in a big oil well this very day. Mr. Tanner said he knew that Wichitans could sympathize with them in their excitement and feel the old fever growing higher once more. Raymond Myers responded to the addresses.

Reach Wichita at 6:25

The trade trippers are going from there to Graham where they stop several hours tonight and then to Breckenridge, and then on their last lap, covering Ellasville, South Bend, Graham, New Castle, Olney and Archer City tomorrow. The special is due to reach Wichita Falls tomorrow at 6:25 p. m.

The band will lead the parade from the station through the business section and to the Kemp hotel corner, where the vocal talent of the crowd will be exposed in the old home town.

son, Mayfield and Thomas are running neck and neck. There are wise men who say that overconfidence on the part of the Culberson supporters may lose their chieftain a place in the run-off. From the very beginning seven of 10 men everywhere agreed that Culberson would be in the run-off. This caused a feeling of overconfidence everywhere. There may be lots of democrats who would fail to vote on election day if they thought their man was sure to go over. There are others who would cast complimentary votes for this or that candidate if they were sure that Culberson had a cinch. They may be mistaken. No candidate has a cinch in this race.

Admitting that Culberson and Mayfield and Thomas are in the lead today, there is a chance for one or two of the three to stumble and fall before they get their noses under the wire. Mayfield is making a desperate fight to get in the run-off. He has the backing of four of the five Titans of the Texas klan. If instructions have been given to the klansmen and they follow those instructions, Mayfield is certain to get the bulk of the klan vote. Men who are in position to know say that these instructions have been given and in so far as the leadings klansmen is concerned, Henry has been eliminated by those who are high in the councils of the invisible empire.

Thomas Fighting.

Thomas is making a desperate fight. His followers are organized in nearly every county of Texas. He is playing for the church vote and the women as well as the Wilson vote. He is playing for the klan vote. He hasn't said anything offensive or harsh concerning the klan or its leaders. It is said that more than two hundred thousand circular letters were mailed out to voters this week attacking the prohibition record of Mayfield. This attack is said to have its origin in the camp of the Woman's Christian Temperance union and the friends of Thomas hope that it will make votes for him. Mayfield is a member of an old and influential Texas family and politically speaking the name Mayfield has been before the voters for a quarter of a century. His second cousin, Allison Mayfield has been a railroad commissioner all that time. His father was a prominent citizen of Texas and highly thought of throughout east Texas. This helps to make the name of Mayfield a household word. In other years the railroad commissioner was a member of the Farmer's union, an organization which is said to have largely lost its influence and its hold upon the farmers when its appointed heads attempted to make a political party of the organization.

HANES TO ADD TWO AIRPLANES

Aerial Coach Will Be Put In Service

Another enterprise is about to receive added impetus in Wichita Falls.

Harold Hanes, local commercial air pilot, is expecting another ship to add to his fleet, while still another is in the course of construction.

The plane which Mr. Hanes expects first is one equipped to carry two passengers, with the seating arrangement in tandem, the pilot seat being in the rear cockpit. With this addition, Mr. Hanes feels that he can accommodate the passengers of the air line until the specially designed coupe arrives from the Lincoln Standard factory.

The coupe is a work of art, according to Mr. Hanes, built along the lines of a Cadillac automobile. Three passengers are carried in the glass enclosed cab. Port holes along afford observation advantages, but the force of the wind and noise both are excluded through the construction. Upholstered with excellent materials, the cab is constructed for comfortable flying.

The fleet of ships which will soon fly from Call Field as a home station, will mark one of the most efficient services operated in the southwest.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Record News:

There is a lot of space given to tariff discussions. Without objection, when understood, all tariffs are special privileges accorded some industry or group on some alleged argument of patriotism or national need. For example, prior to Texas joining the United States, there was as much sense in tariffs against Texas by the United States as it then existed or by Texas against the United States, as may now appear in tariffs against Mexico or Canada or other foreign countries.

Since no talk is now made that Texas should protect itself against Oklahoma, Louisiana, New Mexico or other states, it must be admitted that the tariff question is a specie of "nationalism" as well as an economic problem. The economic problem exists as it did before the annexation, or would still exist if Canada and the United States joined, which probably, however accomplished, would stop all talk of tariffs between the two. Because national legislation may prevent, does not stop talk for that which people want, as witness the liquor question. Yet hearing no talk of tariffs by Texas against the rest of the United States, it appears conclusive that the nationalism argument must be a large part of tariffs. If it is not the following is suggested as equitable, fair, just and ought to be acceptable to all except nationalist fanatics, to-wit:

Arrange treaties between all countries, to effect that no tariff will be enacted by either except as agreed to by both, with equal division of duty as export and import. That would bring to the front at once the evil effects of tariffs so high they stopped all exchange of goods, with resulting economic loss and waste in manufacture and production by each of that to which not naturally adapted, as well as loss of revenue if total tariffs are low enough to not materially retard trade and exchange of goods.

Fire Does Small Damage to Foundry

Damage totaling approximately $50 was sustained at the Wichita Falls foundry and machine shop, 307 Barwise street, when two small fires broke out Tuesday night over a large furnace. The first blaze was discovered shortly after 7 o'clock and was put out by firemen from the central station with a loss of $25.

At 11:10 a second fire was found in the same place and was extinguished with another loss of between $20 and $25.

Pipeline Connections Due to Reach Freeman Well Today

800 BARRELS NOW STORED UP

Pump to Be Put In Operation

Pipeline connections will reach the Freeman and Hampton well, Archer county's new sensation, some time today, it was reported Tuesday.

The Texas Pipeline company is connecting this new well, four miles south of the K. M. A. pool, with its K. M. A. lines.

There are 700 or 800 barrels of oil in storage at the well, it is stated, which the well has produced in intermittent flows.

The pump will be put in operation by Friday or Saturday, it is reported. At this time it will be possible to make a thorough test. The well is rated at 200 barrels or better.

Several new tests are in prospect in the immediate vicinity of the new well.

A 20-acre acre offset lease was reported sold by Kemp and Kempner to J. I. Staley, for a consideration of $1,000 an acre. Drilling will start here immediately, it is understood. Other tests will be locations or possibly in the derrick stage by the end of the present week, or the first of next, it is stated.

GULF GETS 200 BARREL PUMPER

New Well Is In 1900 Foot Sand

The Gulf Production company's No. 11 Burnett, lease C in section 5, north end of the original South Electra pool, has been completed for a 200 barrel pumper.

This new well is in the sand at 1960 feet, one of the deepest completions in the 1900 foot sand in the south pool.

The Gulf in their No. 18 Burnett, lease A has drilled into a sand at 1871 feet, which is showing some prospects of making a producer, it is reported.

This well failed to make a producer in the 1700 foot sand, from which the Texhoma Oil and Refining company's No. 1 Throckmorton, is producing. This is in semi-wildcat territory.

25 DERRICKS GO UP AFTER NEW WELL

Special to the Record News.

CISCO, Texas, July 11.—The bringin in by McKamey et al Saturday of their well on the Armstrong lease about 500 feet west of the rainbow end, making from 1000 to 2000 barrels is creating wide interest here and marks the northeast extension of the Pioneer field. The well is expected to settle to a production of 750 barrels. Already leases are in big demand and latest reports are that from 25 to 30 new derricks are going up, some operators being almost ready to spud in.

It is reported on good authority that the Drury Lase No. 1 right in the backyard of Cisco will resume operations by July 15. A great deal of interest hinges on this well as if it is brought in it will bring the pool right up to the town.

Material Arrives For Quanah Line

Special to the Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, July 11.—Material for the Eldorado-Quanah high tension line is arriving, and the work of construction commences Wednesday. Sixty days is the contract for completing this job, when it will be ready for transporting the electric current to Eldorado for lighting and power purposes of that community.

WELL CABLE BREAKS

Special to the Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, July 11.—Last week while drilling the cable at the 44 well broke and it was necessary to get a socket to send down the hole in order to remove the drill from the bottom of the well. The first socket was too large for the business, filling the casing too closely, and one of smaller diameter was made at Electra. When sent down the socket settled right on the drill stem and after a couple of jars the drill was pulled out and the hole cleared.

COX TO FT. WORTH

S. E. J. Cox returned to Fort Worth Tuesday after spending several days in Wichita Falls. He talked with old acquaintances here and it is reported that he is interested in some valuable leases in this territory.

WELL SHOT TO BOOST UP ANOTHER

Shooting oil wells to increase their production is one of the most usual practices of oil operators, in every pool. But a most unusual occurrence is recorded in the Bunger pool in Young county, where a heavy shot in the Gulf Production company's No. 1 Newby resulted in increasing the Ralco Petroleum company's No. 1 Roark by about 400 barrels daily.

The Gulf well wasn't helped at all by the shot and has been abandoned as dry, while the Ralco production shot up from 1100 to 1500 barrels the day the Gulf well, which is only about 300 feet away, was shot.

BREAK GROUND ON RAILROAD

Big Plows Dip In Early Today

Graders on the Byers-Waurika railroad contract are expected to break ground today at Byers. Outfits have arrived, it is said, from Fort Worth and more are coming in from Dallas.

The big plows are due to dip in early this morning, according to a report reaching Wichita Falls and by the middle of the week the grading work is expected to be in full swing.

KNIGHTS TEMPLARS TO INITIATE 12

Wichita Falls commandery No. 59 is planning a big time for Thursday, July 20 when a class of 12 or more candidates are expected to take the work.

The regular conclave will begin at 4 o'clock in the afternoon and a banquet will be held in the banquet hall at 6:30 o'clock. There will be special music throughout the evening and a large attendance is expected to witness the conferring of the orders.

Candidates who are eligible for the commandery are expected to communicate with the commandery drill team at once as the team has an unusual plan to offer, it is said.

Because of the good progress of the commandery during the year fall activities of the drill team are expected to be unusual. All members of that body are said to be still enthused over the trip to New Orleans and are anticipating with pleasure the trip to the grand commandery in Dallas next spring.

Triangle Moves Rig to Electra

Special to the Record News

VERNON, Texas, July 11.—A considerable furor has been caused in local oil circles over the action of the Triangle Oil company, operating in the Sigley field, in moving its rig and part of its equipment over Sunday to the south Electra field where it is planned to commence a new hole immediately. The Triangle company, capitalized for the most part with Wilbarger county funds, was down in the neighborhood of 2,100 feet, and considered its prospects locally to be of the brightest.

Considerable indebtedness, however is said to exist against the rig and some of the equipment, and the quick removal is declared to be the result of a desire to avoid any litigation in this county. J. E. Watts is president of the company, and his organization has operated in these parts at intervals for the past two years.

Chicago's Own

Political prognosticators predict the bitterest mayoralty campaign in the history of Chicago if former Mayor Carter Harrison, Jr., decides to run against Mayor William Hale Thompson. The Harrison wing of the democratic party is said to have "knifed" Bob Schweitzer, candidate against Thompson several years ago. And the Schfeitzer faction now is waiting to return this favor.

DENISON NEAR NEW ACTIVITY

Magnolia Wildcats In Oklahoma

Special to the Record News.

DENISON, Texas, July 11.—The Magnolia Petroleum company is preparing for its first wildcat oil well in the Woodville, Okla., district, according to a letter from J. T. Crane, cashier of the First National bank of Woodville to the chamber of commerce here.

A stake was driven in the northeast quarter of section twelve, eight miles west of Woodville Saturday morning by R. M. Johnson of the Magnolia Petroleum company. Casing, machinery and derrick timbers are being unloaded in Woodville today.

The Magnolia people have large acreage in and around Woodville and Kingston, Okla., and it is understood that several tests will be made in those districts. If this field is opened it will be only 25 miles from Denison via Woodville over fairly good roads.

ARDMORE WELL IS FLOWING 500 BBLS.

Special to The Record News.

ARDMORE, July 11.—With the drill six inches in the sand topped at 2,048 feet, the P. C. Dings, trustee, No. 2 Sparks, southwest of southeast of 30-2s-2w, Graham district, is flowing at the rate of 500 barrels daily, through the 8-inch casing. Temporary connection to take care of the productnon has been made to a water tank, and steel storage is now being erected. The Prairie Pipe Line company is rushing connection.

The well is flowing by heads at intervals of an hour, with each flow about seven minutes duration and yielding approximately 25 barrels This is the best well yet brought in in the Graham pool and estimates of its production when the pay is penetrated further are running to 1,000 barrels, if not better. Location of this well is on the north edge of the field and offsetting the Graham-Mineral Trust-Kirk Oil company's No. 2 Bennett, northwest of northeast quarter of 31-2s-2w, which came in for 300 barrels from sand at 2,130-57 feet.

Fifteen Minutes of Radio a Day

By EDWARD N. DAVIS
(Formerly Technical Electrical Expert for United States Government)

Lesson No. 17
THE CONDENSER

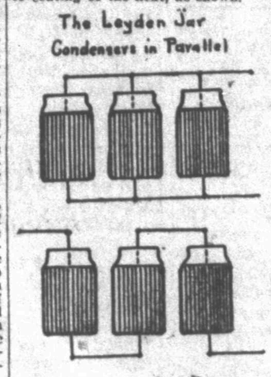

An important function of the condenser, in the circuit of the radio transmitter, is to store up energy in the form of an electrostatic field and then to release this energy by discharging across the spark gap and setting up oscillations of high frequency.

In its simplest form a condenser consists of two conducting surfaces separated by an insulator, known as a dielectric. For high voltage condensers the dielectric may be air, glass or mica and for low voltage condensers thin sheets of hard rubber or oiled paper.

If two conducting surfaces are so placed that there is a thing layer of air between them and the surfaces are connected to a supply of direct or alternating current, and electrostatic field will be created which sets up electrostatic lines of force in the thin layer of air between the surfaces. If the supply of current is now removed and the surfaces connected, through the external circuit, the electrostatic field will discharge and cause an electric current to flow through the external circuit.

The Leyden jar condenser and the mica condenser are two types commonly used under no conditions of high voltage where the potential across the condenser may be several thousand volts. The Leyden jar condenser is in general use in marine installations and consists of a copper-plated glass jar with walls approximately one-eighth of an inch thick. Connections are made to the inside and outside coatings of the jar and the jars are usually mounted in a battery of six, connected in parallel. The maximum voltage to which Leyden jars may be subjected is 15,000 volts.

Several Leyden jars are shown connected in the following diagram. When connected in parallel, the outer coatings are connected to the one side of the circuit and the inner coatings to the other side of the circuit. When connected in series, the inner coating of one jar is connected to the inner coating of the next and the outer coating of this jar is connected to the outer coating of the next, as shown.

Condensers in Series

Another type of condenser used for high voltages is constructed of glass plates and sheets of tin foil On each side of a glass plate is glued a sheet of tin foil of such size as to leave considerable margin between the edge of the tinfoil and the edge of the glass plate. The plate and tinfoil sheets receive a coating of shellac or paraffin and after drying are bound together in groups and the groups submerged in oil. By means of projecting portions of each tin foil sheet the alternate layers of tinfoil are connected to common terminals. The limiting voltage of this type of condenser is approximately 15000 volts.

Glass or mica may be used as the dielectric in high potential condensers due to their ability to withstand high voltages without being punctured. For low voltage condensers 500 volts or less, oiled or waxed paper with alternate layers of tinfoil may be used.

FUNDAMENTALS OF DEMOCRACY

THERE is a senatorial campaign on. There are at least two of the contenders who style themselves protection democrats. They subscribe to the platform and demands of the Southern Tariff association launched two years ago by Col. John Henry Kirby. There are contenders for the nomination who are not protectionists.

Hon. William G. McAdoo in his address to the Kansas democrats declared foreign trade necessary to prosperity. This is what he said: "Why is the preservation and expansion of our foreign trade necessary to our prosperity? Because we produce under normal conditions more than we can consume. If this surplus is forced upon our home markets, when they are incapable of absorbing it, our producers are forced to accept ruinous prices, which affect not alone the surplus but the entire product. If the surplus can be marketed abroad at remunerative prices the value of the entire product is favorably affected and losses are turned into profits. Foreign markets are therefore of first importance to our farmers, our working men and our producers generally.

"How are we to preserve and expand our foreign markets? Primarily through political action. If the political action of our government is such as to close or restrict these markets business depressions are inevitable with all their attendant evils of unemployment, stagnation and general distress. Republican leaders at Washington seem to be obsessed with the idea that it is to our advantage to isolate ourselves from Europe politically and economically. They have not only refused to cooperate with other nations in establishing peace and order in Europe but they are now engaged in passing a tariff bill which will render still more difficult, if not impossible, the maintenance of our foreign trade."

American producers should take his words home, "We produce under normal conditions more than we can consume. If this surplus is forced upon our home markets when they are incapable of absorbing, it our producers are forced to accept ruinous prices which effect not alone the surplus but the entire product." This is the viewpoint of statesmen and not the viewpoint of politicians who are seeking votes. America must have great foreign markets for surplus products. Speaking of this necessity Mr. McAdoo said: "Europe has always been our best customer. Oriential and Latin-American trade, important as they are, do not compare with our interests in Europe. Not alone is European trade larger and more profitable to us than any other trade but European nations owe the United States about twelve billion dollars which is very much to our interest to collect some day. By co-operating therefore, to the extent of our power in the maintaintence of peace and retsoration of stable and prosperous conditions in Europe, we help ourselves in every direction.

"Speaking of the republican tariff bill which was pending last month and is still pending, the former secretary of the treasury said, "what a preposterous idea this tariff bill is. Its frankly declared purpose is to destroy or restrict our foreign trade. If we destroy it or reduce it to small proportions, what possible use is there for an American merchant marine? There will be no ocean going trade for it to carry. And yet our great mind republican leaders are gravely proposing a ship subsidy bill which will take thirty-five million dollars each year out of the already over raided pockets of the American people to keep the American flag on the high seas. Why keep this great sum to float our flag around on ships which have no commerce to carry? It would be far more sensible to keep the flag at home along with our goods which the new tariff bill will prevent us from shipping than to waste thirty-five million dollars per annum of the taxpayers' money to float it at sea on empty bottoms." Mr. McAdoo was the choice of a large majority of the democrats of Texas as the presidential standard bearer of their party in 1920. Should he be willing to engage in political activities he may be the presidential standard bearer of the party two years hence. There appears to be many kinds of democrats offering for office in Texas.

These are the fundamentals of democracy as McAdoo understands the fundamentals: "The democratic policy seeks international co-operation to destroy war and permanently to secure peace throughout the world; to preserve and enlarge our foreign markets so that the farmer and the laboring man and the great masses of our people may get the largest awards for their thrift and industry; to reduce taxes and to redistribute them so that the rich shall not be favored at the expense of the poor but that the rich and the poor shall bear their just share of the burdens of government in proportion to their ability to pay. The democratic party must stand firmly for these policies. It must continue to be the party of liberalism and progress.

"It must continue to be the defender of the rights of the people against the assaults of special privilege. It must never cease to fight for social justice and for equal opportunity for all." It would be well for the warring factions in Texas to take these McAdoo truths home. He is a democrat because he believes that the democratic party is the party of the people, the party of liberty and progress, the party that stands for universal justice and equal opportunity for all. "The greatest prosperity to the greatest number" is a cardinal tenent of the democratic faith.

1,100 HOMICIDES

MORE than 1,100 homicides were recorded in Texas in the last five month. And yet there are citizens of Texas who say they are for law and order who are forever criticizing their governor for his law enforcement policy. This is a hideous record, a blotch on the escutcheon of the Lone Star State and a reproach to the civilization of the commonwealth. Now why shouldn't the gun man be put away? Why shouldn't the man who slays his fellowman without remorse of conscience be put away? Why should there be more killings in Texas in a single year than take place in the British Isles in twenty years? Texas has a population of less than five millions and the British Isles forty to fifty millions. Why should the rich or the influential slayer of his kind escape the noose? Governor Neff did a splendid day's work when he dismissed the pardon board, when he turned a deaf ear to pardon broken lawyers, and when he announced as a policy of government that men convicted of crime should pay the penalty.

LEARNING FROM ENGLAND

CHIEF JUSTICE WILLIAM HOWARD Taft has made a study of the English bench and bar in order that he may make suggestions for reform of the American judicial system on his return to America so that the administration of justice will be simpler and speedier. Of course the chief justice on his return to America will tell his fellow countrymen that the high courts of England would not dare to set aside a law or laws made by the British parliament. If justice is simpler and speedier over there this may be one of the reasons why.

Lawmakers of England enact the law. If it is unpopular or oppressive the legislative branch of the British parliament repeals it, but the courts of England do not set it aside. England is without a constitution. America has a constitution and yet the chief justice has made the discovery that there is a speedier administration of justice wherever the Union Jack floats.

VERILY, WE NEED MORE JUDGES

THERE are to be 24 new federal judges throughout the country and Texas has been allotted one of these judges. New Mexico has one federal judge with very little business, and yet it is pointed out the pending bill proposes to give New Mexico an additional judge.

Twenty-four additional judgeships will place 24 fat plums in the laps of 24 ambitious lawyers. Came the eighteenth amendment and the Volstead enforcement act. This made the federal district judge a police court judge with police court docket. He has before him the violators of the anti-narcotics law, the violators of the Volstead act and the moonshine makers and rum-runners of his district.

Regardless of Congressman Hatton W. Sumners and other critics, additional federal judges were necessary. There must be law enforcement, and if the states of the American union saddle all responsibility and all the work on the federal judiciary, why shouldn't there be new judges and new districts carved out?

There are signs that the shimmy has about finished its coarse.

The pitcher's work is lighter this year. All he has to do is throw the ball and dodge.

EVENING MEDITATIONS

Often in the quiet gloaming by my cottage door I sit, from my tangled whiskers combing chinchbugs, sandburs, dust and grit. And I see the people chasing to some silly maudlin show; all diversion-mad they're racing, on their errands vain they go. Where the garish lights are burning in a long parade they tramp; no one's reading, no one's learning, banished is the evening lamp. In my youth I read the pages writ by men of mighty domes, for there were no movie stages calling children from their homes. When the evening chores were finished, I sat in our humble cot, and with pleasure undiminished read Bill Shakespeare, Pope and Scott. And my head is always ringing, as the day of toil expires, with the music of their singing, with the echo of their lyres. And I soothe myself with verses as beneath my vine I rest, and while the boys, in speedster hearses, rush to see some Chaplinfest. Times have changed, and oft I wonder if with change we risk or sink, with the evening lamp gone under, and the poets on the blink. In their cars of tin and iron folks are going to the show; no one spends a night with Byron, as I used to long ago.

The Once Over

DUMM AND DUMMER ON GLAND GRAFTING.

"Well," said Senator Dumm, rather gleefully, "in another ten days you won't know me."

"And why not?" asked Representative Dummer.

"I am about to submit to a grafting operation!" explained Dumm.

"Ships, munitions, or army clothing?" inquired Dummer, naively.

"Glands!" announced Dumm, with emphasis.

"I didn't know the government was dealing in 'em," replied Dummer.

"Don't be so absurd, old drainpipe," rebuked Dumm. "You are thinking of the wrong kind of grafting. I am speaking of the transfer of glands from the sheep, goat, monkey, or other animal to a human being for the purpose of renewing youth."

"Pick monkey glands, by all means" urged Dummer.

"Why?" asked Dumm.

"I'll get a hand organ and we can work together," returned Dummer.

"The fact I refrain from crushing you to a pulp after that kind of a crack is the best proof I need revivifying," answered Dumm. "You may think it a joke, but when you see me in less than two weeks frolicking around like a youngster again you'll change your viewpoint."

"I'll have some mechanical toys, some nice pollypops, and a hoop for you to roll when you come out," said Dummer. "I'll be a lot of fun to watch you teethe all over again and learn to say 'dada.' Can't you get it over with before two weeks? I hate to wait so long to be entertained."

"Ten days will probably see me up and about again" declared Dumm.

"All right, GLANDrOP," said Dummer. "It's your affair, not mine. But it's very depressing to think you capable of such a silliness."

"You take no stock in this gland transfusion business?" asked Dumm.

"You might expect to take a leg off a new Victrola, nail it into a floor-lamp," and get a new baby-grand piano," sneered Dummer. "It's all nonsense."

"This man McCormick did it and he feels wonderful," argued Dumm.

"He won't feel so well when he gets the doctors' bills."

"Why do you knock the gland grafting business, anyhow? What do you know about it?" demanded Dumm with anger.

"For every man who really feels young again, fifty feel terrible. I know one old geezer who submitted to a transfer of the glands of a goat a few months ago," replied Dummer. "All he did was to create an insatiable appetite for celluloid collars, broken bottles and tin cans. Whenever he ran across a public dump he was seized with a desire to graze in it. Night after night when he'd fail to come home his friends would go out and find him on all fours in some ash-hap having what he imagined was a banquet at the Ritz."

"You can't frighten me," scoffed Senator Dumm.

"I don't want to. I'm telling he truth. This fellow grew a couple of goat horns and finally had to wear a derby hat with holes in it. He would have been a total loss to his family but for the fact his wife found that by hitching him to a goat cart he could be used to take the children out for a ride in the park afternoons."

"That's the bunk!" sneered Dumm.

"The wife never could keep him around the house. He used to roam from dresser to dresser and from chiffonier to chiffonier eatingg the pincushions and butting the mirrors," went on Dummer.

"Well, I'm not going to have goat glands," declared Dumm.

"It makes no difference, I knew a feller that took sheep glands. He spent the rest of his life trying to convince people he was a roast of lamb. His folks could only quiet him by throwing him into a bathtub full of mint sauce."

The Mucker

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

"You mean that you are going to turn me over to General Villa?" asked Bridge. "You are going to turn an American over to that butcher knowing that he'll be shot inside of twenty-four hours?"

"Shootin's too damned good fer a horse thief," replied Grayson.

Barbara turned impulsively toward her father. "You won't let Mr. Grayson do that?" she asked.

"Mr. Grayson knows best how to handle such an affair as this, Barbara," replied her father. "He is my superintendent, and I have made it a point never to interfere with him."

"You will let Mr. Bridge be shot without making an effort to save him?" she demanded.

"We do not know that he will be shot," replied the ranch owner. "If he is innocent there is no reason why he should be punished. If he is guilty of implication in the Cuivaca bank robbery he deserves, according to the rules of war, to die, for General Villa, I am told, considers that a treasonable act. Some of the funds upon which his government depends for munitions of war were there—they were stolen and turned over to the enemies of Mexico."

"And if we interfere we'll turn Villa against us," interposed Grayson. "He ain't any too keen for Americans as it is. Why, if this fellow was my brother I'd hev to turn him over to the authorities."

"Well, I thank God," exclaimed Bridge fervently, "that in addition to being shot by Villa I don't have to endure the added disgrace of being related to you, and I'm not so sure that I shall be hanged by Villa," and with that he wiped the oil lamp from the table against which he had been leaning, and leaped across the room for the doorway.

Barbara and her father had been standing nearest the exit, and as the girl realized the bold break for liberty the man was making, she pushed her father to one side and threw open the door.

Bridge was through it in an instant with a parting, "God bless, you little-girl!" as he passed her. Then the door was closed with a bang. Barbara turned the key, withdrew it from the lock and threw it across the darkened room.

Grayson and the unwounded Mexicans leaped after the fugitive only to find their way barred by the locked door. Outside Bridge ran to the horses standing patiently with lowered heads awaiting the return of their masters. In an instant he was astride one of them, and lashing the others ahead of him with a quirt he spurred away into the night.

By the time Grayson and the Mexicans had wormed their way through one of the small windows of the office the new bookkeeper was beyond sight and earshot.

As the ranch foreman was saddling up with several of his men in the corral to give chase to the fugitive the boss strolled in and touched him on the arm.

"Mr. Grayson," he said, "I have made it a point never to interfere with you; but I am going to ask you now not to pursue Mr. Bridge. I shall be glad if he makes good his escape. Barbara was right—he is a fellow-American. We cannot turn him over to Villa, or any other Mexican to be murdered."

Grumbingly Grayson unsaddled. "Ef you'd seen what I've seen around here," he said, "I guess you wouldn't be so keen to save this feller's hide."

"What do you mean?" asked the boss.

"I mean that he's ben tryin' to make love to your daughter."

The older man laughed. "Don't be a fool, Grayson," he said, and walked away.

An hour later Barbara was strolling up and down before the ranchhouse in the cool and refreshing air of the Chihuahua night. Her mind was occupied with disquieting reflections of the past few hours. Her pride was immeasurably hurt by the part impulse had forced her to take in the affair at the office. Not that she regretted that she had connived in the escape of Bridge; but it was humiliating that a girl of her position should have been compelled to play so melodramatic a part before Grayson and his Mexican vaqueros.

Then, too, was she disappointed in Bridge. She had looked upon him as a gentleman whom misfortune and wanderlust had reduced to the lowest stratum of society. Now she feared that he belonged to that substratum which lies below the lowest which society recognizes as a part of itself, and which is composed solely of the criminal class.

It was hard for Barbara to realize that she had associated with a thief—just for a moment it was hard, until recollection forced upon her the unwelcome fact of the status of another whom she had known—to whom she had given her love. The girl did not at the thought—instead she squared her shoulders and raised her chin.

"I am proud of him, whatever he may have been," she murmured; but she was not thinking of the new bookkeeper. When she did think again of Bridge it was to be glad that he had escaped—"for he is an American, like myself."

"Well!" exclaimed a voice behind her. "You played us a pretty trick, Miss Barbara."

The girl turned to see Grayson approaching. To her surprise he seemed to hold no resentment whatsoever. She greeted him courteously.

"I couldn't let you turn an American over to General Villa," she said, "no matter what he had done."

"I like your spirit," said the man. "You're the kind o' girl I ben lookin' fer all my life—one with nerve an' grit, an' you got 'em both. You liked thet bookkeepin' critter, an' he wasn't half a man. I like you an' I am a man, ef I do say so myself."

The girl drew back in astonishment.

"Mr. Grayson!" she exclaimed. "You are forgetting yourself."

"No I ain't," he cried hoarsely. "I love you an' I'm goin' to have you. You'd love me too ef you knew me better."

He took a step forward and grasped her arm, trying to draw her to him. The girl pushed him away with one hand, and with the other struck him across the face.

Grayson dropped her arm, and as he did so she drew herself to her full height and looked him straight in the eyes.

"You may go now," she said, her voice like ice. "I shall never speak of this to anyone—provided you never attempt to repeat it."

The man made no reply. The blow in the face had cooled his ardor temporarily, but had it not also served another purpose?—to crystalize it into a firm and inexorable resolve.

When he had departed Barbara turned and entered the house.

CHAPTER XII
Billy to the Rescue

It was nearly 10 o'clock the following morning when Barbara, sitting upon the verands of the ranchhouse saw her father approaching from the direction of the office. His face wore a troubled expression which the girl could not but note.

"What's the matter, Papa?" she asked, as he sank into a chair at her side.

"Your self-sacrifice of last evening was all to no avail," he replied. "Bridge has been captured by Villistas."

"What?" cried the girl. "You cannot mean it—how did you learn?"

"Grayson just had a phone message from Cuivaca," he explained. "They only repaired the line yesterday since Pesita's men cut it last month. This was our first message. And do you know, Barbara, I can't help feeling sorry. I had hoped that he would get away."

"So had I," said the girl.

Her father was eying her closely to note the effect of his announcement upon her; but he could see no greater concern reflected that that which he himself felt for a fellow-man and an American who was doomed ot death at the hands of an alien race, far from his own land and his own people.

"Can nothing be done?" she asked.

"Absolutely," he replied with finality. "I have talked it over with Grayson and he assures me that an attempt at intervention upon our part might tend to antagonize Villa, in which case we are all as good as lost. He is none too fond of us as it is, and Grayson believes, and not without reason, that he would welcome the slightest pretext for withdrawing the protection of his favor. Instantly he did that we should become the prey of every marauding band that infests the mountains. Not only would Pesita swoop down upon us, but those companies of freebooters which acknowledge nominal loyalty to Villa would be about our ears in no time. No, dear, we may do nothing. The young man has made his bed, and now I am afraid that he will have to lie in it alone."

For a while the girl sat in silence, and presently her father arose and entered the house. Shortly after she followed him, reappearing soon in riding togs and walking rapidly to the corrals. Here she found an American cowboy busilye engaged in whittling a stick as he sat upon an upturned cracker box and shot accurate streams of tobacco juice at a couple of industrious tumble bugs that had had the great impudence to roll their little ball of provender within the whittler's range.

"O Eddie!" she cried.

The man looked up and was at once electrified into action. He sprang to his feet and whipped off his sombrero. A broad smile illumined his freckled face.

"Yes, miss," he answered. "What can I do for you?"

"Saddle a pony for me, Eddie," she explained. "I want to take a little ride."

"Sure!" he assured her cheerily. "Have it ready in a jiffy," and away he went, uncoiling his riata, toward the little group of saddle ponies which stood in the corral against necessity for instant use.

In a couple of minutes he came back leading one, which he tied to the corral bars.

"But I can't ride that one," exclaimed the girl. "He bucks."

"Sure," said Eddie. "I'm a goin' to ride him."

"Oh, are you going somewhere?" she asked.

"I'm goin' with you, miss," announced Eddie sheepishly.

"But I didn't ask you, Eddie, and I don't want you—today," she urged.

"Sorry, miss," he threw back over his shoulder as he walked back to rope a second pony; "but them's orders. You're not to be allowed to ride no place without an escort. 'Twouldn't be safe neither, miss," he almost pleaded, "an' I won't hinder you none. I'll ride behind far enough to be there ef I'm needed."

Directly he came back with another pony, a sad-eyed, gentle-appearing little beast, and commenced saddling and bridling the two.

"Will you promise," she asked, after watching him in silence for a time, "that you will tell no one where I go or whom I see?"

"Cross my heart hope to die," he assured her.

"All right, Eddie, then I'll let you come with me, and you can ride beside me, instead of behind."

Across the flat they rode, following the windings of the river road, one mile, two, five, ten. Eddie had long since been wondering what the purpose of so steady a pace could be. This was no pleasure ride which took the boss's daughter—"heifer," Eddie would have called her—ten miles up river at a hard trot. Eddie was worried, too. They had passed the danger line, and were well within the stamping ground of Pesita and his retainers. Here each little adobe dwelling, and they were scattered at intervals of a mile or more along the river, contained a rabid partisan of Pesita, or it contained no one—Pesita had seen to this latter condition personally.

At last the young lady drew rein before a squalid and dilapidated hut. Eddie gasped. It was Jose's, and Jose was a notorious scoundrel whom old age alone kept from the active pursuit of the only calling he ever had known—brigandage. Why should the boss's daughter come to Jose's Jose was hand in glove with every cutthroat in Chihuahua, or at least within a radius of two hundred miles of his abode.

Large Group of Campfire Girls Return from Week Spent In Scout Camp

Campfire Girls of the First Methodist church, south, who have been in camp for nine days at Craterville, Okla., at the Boy Scout camp under the direction of Miss Glenore Fisk returned home Monday. Others assisting in the work who returned also include: Misses Jody Fisk, Mary Mathild Akin, Ruth Downing, Marguerite Kaye, Lona Brown and Mesdames Broyles, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bauchman, Rev. E. C. Huckabee and Mr. Taylor, director of the Boy Scouts.

The week was pleasantly spent in hiking, trailing, nature study, star study, first aid, camp craft, calisthenics, swimming and handcraft. Frank Rush, United States Forest supervisor conducted the group on an all day hike through the National game reserve, which contains wonderful Indian relics and the largest buffalo in the world, besides wild turkey, elk, antelope and other game. This was one of the most pleasing features of the entire camp.

Sunday evening a ceremonial meeting was held, when guests from Wichita Falls, Lawton, Okla., Cache, Okla., and other surrounding towns were present. Fifteen took the first degree, two attained the second.

Honor beads were awarded to every girl and all but three received the special camp honor. At the close of the camp fire talk, Mr. Rush presented the girls with a magnificent pair of elk antlers from himself and three of his rangers, Ed Hawthorn, Romy Ford and Earl Smith. The antlers will be mounted by Ed Bauchman and placed in the Camp Fire Girl's club room at the church.

Plans are already being made for the camp next year when 100 girls are expected to attend from June 10 until August 1.

Those returning Monday included: Misses Jody Fisk, Marguerite Kaye, Mary Mathild Akin, Marguerite Akin, Jewell Rose Akin, Lona Brown, Nell Warman, Roberta P'Pool, Jean Fisk, Zona Bauchman, Juanita Bauchman, Carrie Yalcik, Rita Allen, Violet Merkle, Mabel Gwinn, Thelma Gwinn, Melba Ashabranner, Muriel Jones, Ruth Moore, Beulah Gardner, Theresa Kauffman, Maxine Pope, Ruth Downing, Frances Gregor, Luelle Leon, Marguerite Cone, Olive Ruth Walker, Mary Louise Clark, Mercery Jones, Hazel Dell Harriss, Rev. TODAY'S POEM

DESOLATION

Sometimes, perhaps, from other lands more happy,
A faint wind, slow, exhausted, ventures there,
And loses itself in silence, like a muscle,
And then—who knows?—beneath that alien air,

Which moves mysteriously as memory over
Forlorn abysms and peaks of stone and sand,
Ghosts of delight wake for a shining moment,
And all is troubled, and that desolate land

Remembers grass and flowers and birds that sang there
Their miracles of song in lovely trees,
And waters that poured, or stood, in dreaming azure,
Praising the sky. Perhaps once more it sees

The rose, the moon, the pool, in the blue evening,
And knows that silence in which one bird will sing
Slowly and sleepily his praise of gardens,
Perhaps once more, for a moment, it remembers spring.

—Conrad Aiken, "Priapus and the Pool."

Miss Parker was presented a dainty hand painted fan and each guest received miniature decks of cards as favors.

FASHIONS

Distinctly Dainty Is This Linen Frock For a Small Girl.

The dainty frock for a two to six year-old shown in the sketch is of white linen, the trimming being sampler stitch embroidery in the linen or cotton thread in several high contrasting colors. A tiny bow of black or colored ribbon holds the frock at the neck. It is cut on kimono lines, and its fashining would not require a long time.

Dotted swiss frocks, either white dots on a colored background or colored dots on white, are very popular this season. They are usually accompanied by matching hats. Sometimes such a frock and hat will be trimmed with narrow bindings of fine linen in a color to match the dot in the fabric, and again with tiny ruffles of plain swiss match the dot.

Plain linen is frequently combined with dolled swiss in making charming little bloomer frocks, the heavier material to be used for the bloomers, with frock of swiss trimmed in pipings or bindsings of the line. This combination was featured in some charming little suits recently seen on small boys. A smock of swiss, with touches of colored embroidery or smocking about the yoke, was worn over cunning little wide-knee trousers of colored linen. One suit featured a belted-in smock, the belting of colored linen. Another was allowed to hang straight and unbelted.

Smocks of linen fashioned much on the lines of the little dress shown in the sketch are accompanied by trousers in matching or contrasting colors for boys of two years or less, and trousers of colored linen accompanied by sheer white linen or cotton blouses are also popular for the very young male.

Naturally there must always be match, whether the outfit is for a girl or a boy.

Corned Beef and Cabbage)

Take a nice piece of lean corned brisket and boil it for three hours. If it is not over-salted, the water need not be changed. Do not take it suddenly out of the boiling water, but let it stand a while before lifting. Meanwhile in another container gently boil young cabbage, the size of two small fists, first cutting in quarters. Be sure not to boil too long and do not salt until a few minutes before taking up. Cabbage treated delicately is as sweet and attractive as green peas. Place the beef upon a platter and then set the quarters of cabbage wreathwise about it, each section of the vegetable being buttered at the last minute before serving. The success of the dish depends upon its being served piping hot.

Little Stories For Bedtime

FARMER BROWN'S BOY FORGETS HIS LUNCH

Farmer Brown's Boy has nimble fingers. They fairly flew as he picked the luscious big blue-berries up in the Old Pasture. Not one did he put in his mouth, because—well—because he knew that if he put one in he would put two in, and if he put two in he would put three in. In short, he knew that if he once started them he would fill his stomach before he did his pail, and that wasn't what he had come for. So he shut his mouth firmly and thought of that berry pie his mother had promised him. Thinking of that pie and how good it would taste made it easier not to think of the berries themselves. And all the time he picked and picked as fast as ever he could, and little by little the pail filled.

"When I've got it full and heaping up I'll eat my lunch and then I'll eat all the berries I want before I go home," thought he.

At last the pail was full, leaping full. He gave a long sigh of satisfaction and pride as he carefully sat it down in the shade of a big bush. Then he took the lunch he had brought with him and started for a certain spring of clear, bubbling, cold water, of which he knew and which was not far away. When he reached it he opened the paper in which his lunch was wrapped and took out two thick sandwiches. He put these on a flat stone close by the spring. Then he stretched himself flat on the ground and plunged his hot face in the cool water while he drank and drank.

He had lifted his dripping face for breath when he heard a noise back where he had left that pail of berries. It sounded as if some big animal was over there. Now, there were some young cattle which had been turned into the Old Pasture to spend the summer there and right away he guessed that one of them had wandered over where he had left his berries.

"It would be just my luck to have one of the stupid things upset that pail of berries. I guess I better go look after them," he muttered. Now Farmer Brown's Boy believes in doing a thing when you first think of it. So he didn't wait to take so much as a bite of one of those thick sandwiches, but started to look after his precious berries. He had worked too hard to get them to take any chance of losing them.

Now it just happened that that very day when Buster Bear and Farmer Brown's Boy had decided to go berrying in the Old Pasture some one else had decided to have a look around up there. It was Old Man Coyote. He had been promising himself for some time that he would run up there and see if he couldn't surprise old Jed Thumper, the big gray Rabbit, who, you know, was the father of little Mrs. Peter Rabbit. But old Jed Thumper was not to be surprised. Old Man Coyote hunted a long time before he found old Jed Thumper, and then he was safe in his brier castle. Hot, tired and disappointed, Old Man Coyote decided he must have a drink and headed for the very spring where Farmer Brown's Boy had planned to eat His lunch. He got there just in time to see Farmer Brown's Boy disappearing among the bushes on his way to look after his berries.

Now Old Man Coyote has a very wonderful nose, and it told him right away that there was something good to eat there. He first made sure that Farmer Brown's Boy really had gone. Then he followed that wonderful nose of his straight to the flat stone where Farmer Brown's Boy had left his lunch. Old Man Coyote's eyes glistened as he saw the two thick sandwiches. Almost before you could say "Jack Robinson" he had bolted them down, not leaving so much as a crumb. Then as noiselessly as he had come he disappeared, licking his chops and grinning wickedly.

"I guess," said Old Man Coyote to himself, "that Farmer Brown's Boy is going to be surprised."

Famous Film Stars' Favorite Coiffures

Dorothy Dalton

For women who have round and full faces this style of coiffure, which is Dorothy Dalton's favorite is very effective. The hair is dressed fairly low with only its natural wave. It is one way to dress short hair so that it seems full and rich and yet it does not give the kinky flapper effect. There is also an absence of frills which is especially becoming to one of Miss Dalton's type.

Blast of Salvaged Explosives at Camp Travis Kills One, Hurts One

By Associated Press.

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, July 11.—The explosion of a pit full of salvaged war-time explosives at Camp Travis last night resulted in the instant death of Hipolito Baltierres and the serious injury of Dolores Lozano, who were engaged in planting the ammunition in the pit to be destroyed later. Lozano was standing on the edge of the pit handing the explosives to Baltierres, who was inside the pit, when the blast occurred.

Baltierres was horribly burned and mangled and Lozano, though not killed, suffered the loss of both his legs. He was immediately rushed to the station hospital at Fort Sam Houston.

Laborers close by were thrown to the ground by the force of the explosion, and the report was heard for many miles.

The ammunition was being destroyed by the Columbia salvage company near the old powder house along Salado creek.

AFTER BABY WAS BORN

Many Mothers Left in Weakened Condition

Many, many letters similar to the following recommend the Vegetable Compound as a wonderful medicine for bringing the mother back to normal health and strength.

It is an excellent restorative, contains no harmful drugs and can be taken in safety by a nursing mother.

Thousands of mothers who have regained their strength by taking it are its best recommendation. Very likely you know some. Why not take it yourself?

"Will Gladly Answer Questions"

Olney, Ill.—"For over a year after my boy was born I was troubled with weakness of the female organs. Also my stomach would bloat up and I had heartburn, headache, backache, and simply could not do anything. I saw your 'ad.' in the papers and read what your Vegetable Compound did for others, so gave it a trial. After the first few doses I could tell a change. (Some might think this impossible, but it is true.) I took two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and felt so fine that I neglected to take any more for about a year. This last winter I had pains again so I have been taking it to relieve them. I tell everyone I hear complaining of female troubles that it is grand. If any woman asks me questions about the medicine I will gladly tell her what I know."—Mrs. CHARLES VAUGHN, Olney, Ill.

Baltimore, Md. — "I first used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for general weakness following the birth of my first child. Later on the advice of my mother I used it for a dull pain in the small of my back and for a bearing-down feeling. These pains had an effect on me to such an extent that very often I was unable to stand on my feet to do my housework, and at times I was compelled to lie down for short periods. I found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound very helpful and recommend it highly." — Mrs. LORETTA B. SIMONS, 645 S. Belnord Ave., Baltimore, Md.

"Cannot Thank You Enough"

Allentown, Pa.—"After my last baby was born I lost weight and was in a very run-down condition. After taking the second bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I began to gain strength and flesh. In the past four months I have done all my own housework and do an extra wash besides. I do not feel at all like I used to and I cannot thank you enough for my health. My friends ask me what I am doing and I recommend your medicine."—Mrs. WM. STECKEL, 241 Elliger St., Allentown, Pa.

Returning Spudders Divide With Dallas in New Home

KEENE OUTDUELS SWARTZ IN OPENER; TANNER'S HOMER SAVES SHUT-OUT IN SECOND

Fans Treated to Great Game When New Hurler Bears Down; Many Compliments on Stands; Bescher Has Perfect Day in First Game; Numerous Brilliant Plays Seen

By "SPIKE" COOPER

Vic Keene introduced the fans to a new stand and a great game of base ball, as well as himself, when he hurled the Spudders to a 2-0 win over the Dallas tribe of ball hustlers in the opening game of a double header yesterday afternoon. Allowing but four blows, all of which came after seven and two-third innings of superb hurling, Keene blanked the Gallowayites 2-0 when he counted one run himself and Bob Bescher tallied another. However, Keene's marker was sufficient to win.

The second go, an abbreviated affair, went to the visitors by a 4-1 count when Roy Mitchell proved invincible in the pinches. Tanner's blow over the left wall was all that saved the Spudders the same humiliation suffered by the Giants in the opener, a shut-out.

The first contest, a duel from the mound between Swartz and Keene, was all that the fans could ask.

Summary: Two-base hits, Lovelace, Weiss; home run, Tanner; sacrifice hits, Massey, Segrist; bases on balls, off Wheeler 1; struck out, by Wheeler 1, by Mitchell 1; left on base, Dallas 4, Wichita Falls 4; wild pitch, Wheeler; double plays, White to Adams to Beck; time of game, 1 hour 25 minutes; umpires Hill and Sweeney.

Swartz was in rare form, and of the eight safeties allotted, a portion were of the scratch variety. Bescher's steady pounding resulted in a pair of singles and as many doubles, just half of the Spudder bingles.

Keene was exceedingly stingy with his hits, liberal with passes, yet joy-killing with strike-outs. Seven Dallas hitters saw their chances flit by at the plate, three beholding his assortment of tricks in the third round. This feat he followed with two more in the fourth, making a string of five in a row.

Both clubs played superb ball in the first game, not a bobble resulting. The second was not so cleanly executed however, and four Spudders committed acts of malice, not to mention some loose playing on the infield as runners were permitted to advance when "heads-up" playing might have resulted in a different count.

The cloudy spots were forgotten though, when excellent fielding on several occasions brought the fans to their feet. Both teams were responsible for numerous robberies during the matinee and the game-hungry fans accorded visitors and Spudders much applause, and indiscriminatingly.

Great Ninth Inning.

As the first contest neared a close, the Dallas tribe were recipients of much encouragement by Keene, but failed to count. As the ninth opened, Spencer and Massey drew passes and Segrist beat out an infield hit toward third filling the bases. Fans held their breath as "Bad News" Jim came up. They well remember the numerous games he has ruined in the last go-round, and he well nigh did that thing yesterday. A vicious grounder to Beck resulted in a lightning-like double play to the plate and back which put things in a far more comfortable condition. But the suspense was not ended, for Mat Donohue, one of the leading Dallas sluggers came up with the needed run on second and third. A single would ruin a perfectly good game. Pitching closely, yet nothing "fat," Keene passed the hitter, filing 'em up again. Lovelace grounded sharply over second, but a great stop by Adams enabled him to tag the bag for the final killing.

Spuds Count First.

The Spudders got their runs in the third frame. Keene proved himself champ pitcher killer, by fouling no less than a dozen tips in every direction and hit everybody in sight. Bescher's ear was knocked down as he waited to go to the plate. Umps Sweeney stopped a couple and Lingle got one, not to mention the half dozen spectators who happened to sit in the path of foul drives. After all the damage possible, Keene then singled over second and counted when Bescher doubled to right center. Tanner then dropped a neat sacrifice in front of the plate and Bob went to third. Shorty Adams followed, and the two executed a perfect squeeze, Bescher counting.

Giants Take Second.

In the second game, Galloway managed to complete the circuit after a bit of lucky assistance. He singled past Beck and the ball took a bad hop past Summa, rolling to the fence in right. Galloway drew up at third before the ball was relayed in. Donahue grounded out Tanner to Beck, but Lovelace beat out an infield hit toward second on a squeeze play and Galloway scored. Wheat singled into right and went to second when Summa threw Lovelace out at third on the play. A wild pitch advanced the runner to third and Mitchell dropped a Texas leaguer over first and Wheat scored.

Tanner promptly got back part of the runs when he kicked out one of Mitchell's spitters and whammed it far over the fence in left. It was a terrific drive and cleared the pickets by many feet.

Adams followed Tanner with a short hit to third. Summa drove a liner to left but was out. Weiss singled to center and Adams went to third. Mike Massey ruined the game right then and there. Beck hopped a high one over Galloway's head that looked like a hit and the tying run, but by a super-human effort, Massey reached the ball and caught Beck at first. It was one of the neatest pieces of baseball seen this year.

Another string of horseshoes helped the Dallas bunch over in the sixth. After two were out, Adams and Summa beat out infield hits to second. Weiss followed and tore Segrist's glove off his hand with a drive that was labeled hit. The ball dribbled straight to Stow who recovered in time to force Summa at second and retire the side.

Jake Miller made a great running catch of Galloway's drive in the first game when he went into left center after the liner, but accepted it cleanly.

New Stand Completed.

Fans relished the new comfortable stand to a large extent. Bert Adrain agreed to have it ready when the team returned home and that he did. Although all the wire was not stretched in front, nothing else could be detected as lacking. Exactly 19 days actual construction were required to erect the new stand, exquisitely arranged and built for comfort. The seats are built with raised bases and comfortable backs. Feet will not soil clothing of those in front, nor is there that cramped feeling. Frequent aisleways add to the convenience, and numerous exits permit the fans to leave without crowding. Boxes are tiered five deep, each on a gradual rise which extends to the last of the grandstand seats. The circular arrangement makes all seats advantageous, with little discrimination, except for those who desire to sit behind the plate and inspect the balls and strikes.

There's room for everybody, and a goodly number are expected out for the final game of the series today.

TWILIGHT TEAMS TO SEE CHAMP GAME

Through a mutual agreement, the scheduled game between the Methodists and American Legion teams, in the Twilight league, will not be played until Thursday.

The game has been postponed that the players may see the game between Ponds and the University Club which will determine the pennant winner of the loop.

The final game will be called on the Gulf grounds today at 5 o'clock.

WEALTH OF YOUG HURLERS PROMISING

The remarkable showing of a host of rookie hurlers with the major league clubs this season is probably without precedent in the history of the big show.

The outstanding star of these rookies, from the standpoint of statistics, is Charley Robertson, White Sox lad who pitched a no-hit, no man reach first game early in the season. But there are a couple of dozen other newcomers who have pitched consistently and brilliantly enough to rank them as high as Charley.

In the American league the Tigers present the greatest trio—Herman Pillette, Li'l Stoner and Olesen. These three youngsters are the mainstays of the Detroit staff. With the veteran George Dauss and the youngster Johnson, Pillette's teammate on the coast, to help them, they are carrying the hurling burden of the Jungaleers in that team's spectacular drive.

The White Sox youngsters come next. Robertson and Gorham Leverette form a good pair. Heimach and Yarrison are giving the Athletic fans cause for joy. Heimach is the gent Connie's son, Earl, sold his dad. Yarrison is a young collegian.

While Van Gilder and Bayne, two of Fohl's stars, are youngsters they can't be listed as newcomers. But "Fadeaway" Hubert Pruitt is making a bid for a regular berth.

George Murray is demanding comment with the Yanks on the same team with Hoyt, Bush, Jones and Mays.

Clark Griffith opines that young Joe Gleason, a pitching double of Walt Johnson, has a brilliant future. He has already shown great promise.

Alex Ferguson is demanding attention with the Red Sox.

Cleveland has two good looking youngsters, Jim Edwards and Jim Lindsey, but neither has had much opportunity as yet.

In the National league the Cinci Reds are displaying the two best looking youngsters, Pete Donohue and Keck. Roy Gordinier and Harry Shriver of the Dodgers and Bill Ryan of the Giants are giving greater Gotham fans food for fanning bees. Young George Stueland is fighting for a place at the top with the Chicago Cubs. Johnnie Singleton of the Phils must be added to the list also.

There are half a dozen others who rank with these boys. All told, they indicate that the pitching in the big shows the next few years isn't going to slip. In fact, they give an inkling that we may see less slugging and more tight games in the coming seasons.

HAGEN LEADING GLENCOE FIELD

Open Tourney Well Under Way

By Associated Press.

GLENCOE, Ill., July 11.—More than 100 of the 325 entrants in the national open golf tournament today struggled through a 36 hole qualifying round which sent all but 24 of the starters into the discard and produced golf which, figuratively was much like the weather—full of clouds one minute and sunshine the next. Only 24 won their way into the finals.

Walter Hagen of Detroit, American, who has held almost every professional title in the world, led the field with a score of 141.

John Farrell, Quaker Ridge, N. Y., professional had the low round with a 68. One fourth of the qualifiers were amateurs with Eddie Held, 19-year-old St. Louis wonder, low among the amateurs with 147 and eighth among all.

Today's field was the second of three sections of entrants to try and qualify. Twenty-seven qualified yesterday, due to ties, making a total of 51 for the two days. The final group will go out tomorrow, the low 24 and ties getting into the finals Thursday and Friday.

The work of Walter Hagen, whose one over par for 36 holes was a game which temporarily threatened to get into the class of Jock Hutchinson's 135 score of yesterday. Collectively, the amateurs were the ones who really stood out. Eddie Held's work was wonderful, while Jesse Guilford shot golf of the type that brought him his title at St. Louis last year.

The reported deal which was announced last week by Manager Salm, in which Pitchers Bowman and Flaherty were to change clubs seems to have fallen through.

Flaherty balked at the transfer and refused to report to the Spudder club.

Bowman returned yesterday with the team and was at his accustomed place on the coaching line at third.

Nothing definite has been ascertained as to what will be the final action in the case.

MANY NET MEN ENTER FOR TOURNEY

First Day Sees Big List Signed

Entry lists for The Record News tennis tournament began piling up yesterday. More than a dozen took advantage of the first opportunity to sign on the dotted line and are now waiting for the drawings which will pair the players.

From present indications, there will be more than 75 players enter for the two events.

Much enthusiasm is being manifested by court followers of the city, and competition for the trophies will be strong.

The committee in charge of arrangements found that courts can be obtained for play and that hours set for match play will be observed by all. Nothing will interfere with the meet, providing sufficient notice is given.

All arrangements will be complete before time for the pairings, and play will start on the scheduled day, Wednesday, July 19.

MAGNOLIA OUT OF OIL BELT LEAGUE

A surprise was sprung in the Oil Belt league Monday when Manager Cunningham of the Magnolia team announced that his club would withdraw from the circuit. The Magnolia team has led the league all season and the present action is an outgrowth of the meeting last week when a new schedule was adopted.

Some time ago the Burkburnett team withdrew and a meeting was called to fill the vacated place. At this session the Iowa Park independents were invited to join the league. The Magnolia manager protested the action and when the governing board refused to bar the newcomers, he announced his intention of withdrawing. The teams were scheduled to meet in Iowa Park Sunday.

Gordon Clark, manager of the Iowa Park club, has issued a challenge to the Magnolia nine to meet them at any date they desire and has offered a purse for the winner. The Magnolia team has not answered the challenge.

Had the Magnolia club continued in the league the second half of the split season would have been a close affair. With the team out the first half will be in dispute and a special series will be required to determine the leaders.

NEW YORK BONDS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 11.—The feature of today's bond market was the firmer tone of internaational flotations, both the French and Belgian government loans recovering part of yesterday's losses.

Rallies of large fractions to 8 points resulted from buying and speculative covering in French and Belgian 7½s and 8s and French municipals were moderately better, though making less headway than government issues.

The New York Central railroad companies new $25,000,000 5 per cent refunding bonds over subscribed almost at the opening of the subscription books were quoted at a slight premium on the "curb." Other new underwritings of the day were readily absorbed.

Better Weather Puts Prices Up

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, La., July 11.—Prospects of showery weather over a good part of the belt, a better feeling regarding the foreign situation and what were considered bullish mid-month condition figures put the price of cotton higher and held them at small advances practically throughout the session. At the highest the trading months were 32 to 33 points up. In the late trading a burst of liquidation carried the market off to the lowest of the day, to levels 2 points under to 1 point over the last quotations of yesterday, but steadiness developed at the close which was at net advances of 9 to 16 points. After rising to 21.63 October fell off to 21.29 and closed at 21.45.

For a Vacation Without Mishap

Avoid Usual Discomforts—Return Entirely Fit

The real enjoyment, the great benefit of vacation, comes from the all-day life in the open, from the outdoor sports—fishing—swimming—base-ball—tennis—golf.

But unaccustomed exercise is apt to make the muscles sore, stiff and painful. Other spoil-sports are sunburn, insect bites and poison oak or poison ivy.

Vicks can be applied to prevent these discomforts and is also a soothing relief. It helps, too, in case of summer colds, hay fever or headache.

A Bridge for Natural Gas

Texans know the idiosyncrasies of the Red River. They are never surprised when it starts into mischief.

The pipe lines of the Lone Star Gas Company cross the Red, and in this crossing it has been found necessary to erect a bridge, and carry two great lines of pipe overhead. These pipe lines represent a large part of the great investment that places gas at your disposal.

Under Constant Guard

Each pipe line is carefully guarded so that when an accident happens, your supply is still maintained. They go thru rough country over hills and under streams, further and further afield as the supply recedes.

The maintenance of these pipe lines and their quick repair, in case of accident, are your main reliance for heat and comfort.

Regular Inspection

There are 875 miles of these lines in your service. Every foot of them is patrolled regularly. When necessary, renewals are made, and at all times every effort possible is taken, first to insure you good service, and second, to prevent the leakage of gas.

We are proud of the fact that along these 875 miles, the leakage is insignificant, and we are proud of the fact that there has been less in service than of any other interruption of the Lone Star class of public service.

GRAFTON HEARD BY STUDENTS

Wichita Pastor Talks On Reserve Power

The baccalaurete sermon delivered by Dr. H. F. Grafton of the First Presbyterian church of Wichita Falls to the graduates of C. I. A., at Denton, has attracted general interest. The sermon is reproduced in the ex-students association publication.

Speaking on the subject "Reserved Forces" based on John 4:32 "But He said unto them, I have meat to eat that ye know not of," Dr. Grafton said in part:

'Meager and circumscribed is the life that has no resources outside its own little circle," pronounced Dr. Grafton, emphasizing the significance of the Master's words in the text quoted. "Happy the individual who can walk, calm and serene, in the midst of the whims, caprices and petty trials of life, knowing that he has resources unlimited. If your stay within these buildings has not increased your resources, enlarged your reserve powers, lifted you from above the petty trifles, then it has been futile," he told the students. "But if it has lifted you up, increased your resources, augmented your strength, then it has not been a failure.

Law of Reserve Power.

"There is a law called the law of reserve power," continued Dr. Grafton, making the application to life and to things. Illustrating in the mechanical world, he mentioned the law of strain, explaining that bridge-builders and other masters of construction test every piece that is used carefully to see that it can stand the test of conflict with the elements. He mentioned the Woolworth building, which was erected only after figuring the amount of strain to which it would be subjected, and allowing for it.

"In the business world, Bradstreet shows that 83 1-3 per cent of the failures are due to lack of reserve capital," continued he. It is the same in the realm of politics, he explained, using Webster's famous reply to Haynie as an example, of reserve power, and in history, as examined by the Battle of Waterloo.

"All great souls have reserve power, 'meat to eat that ye know not of.'" Dr. Grafton declared, "and this power lifts them to independence. Every life is played upon by opposing forces, forces that draw upon its resources, and sap the very vitality of life, forces that would eat the kernal and leave." Mentioning the Master as the supreme example, Dr. Grafton continued: "At one hour He was meeting the demands of the multitude, people who like the leech demand His all. At another hour He was alone tied onto the eternal.

"One day the crowd was spreading olive branches in his path and shouting, 'Hail.' The next day the very same crowd was execrating Him and crying 'Crucify Him!' At twilight He is sitting quietly at the table surrounded by His friends, at peace. At midnight He is fighting alone the greatest battle of His whole life. In the hour of triumph we find Him calm, in the hour of turmoil and danger."

Lost His Beard

Darrel Figgis, with beard, and a correspondent.

Darrel Figgis, poet, novelist and Sinn Fein editor, is wearing his beard neatly trimmed these days. Figgis' beard, once Ireland's pride, was hacked beyond repair some time ago by three youthful Irish republicans who forced their way into his home. Since them he has been compelled to wear it closely cropped.

BIG CARNIVAL AT IOWA PARK

Veterans Put On Attraction

A large crowd was out Monday night to attend the opening of the American Legion carnival at Iowa Park.

The show is sponsored by the Bruce Cobb post and will continue throughout the week ending Saturday night. The proceeds will go to help build a clubhouse for the members of the post.

The Poole Carnival company has charge of the performances and the show is complete from the gate to the last tent. All concessions are in the hands of legionnaires and every device for the entertainment of the public is to be found on the grounds. A large Ferris wheel is in operation and a merry-go-round is there to delight the youngsters. It's a regular carnival with all the customery color and noise and arrangements are made for large crowds each night.

Friday night has been set aside as visitors' night and veterans of the Wichita Falls and surrounding posts are especially invited to attend. Scott Ralston, commander of the post, has promised special features for this night and a large crowd is expected.

CITY DEFEATED IN ROAD FIGHT

Injunction Petition Is Overruled

Wichita Falls lost the first step in its fight against Wichita county Tuesday, when a petition for a writ of injunction to stop the county commissioners from continuing their paving plans on the Meridian highway was overruled by Judge H. R. Wilson in the 30th district court, and the injunction denied.

Judge P. A. Martin and Judge Ed Napier of the 89th and 78th district courts, respectively, were called in by Judge Wilson to advise in the hearing the case.

Arguments for the city were ably presented by Senator Townsend and City Attorney Mann, while the county attorney, E. L. Fulton, assisted by the firm of Weldon, McDonald & Cummings, represented the commissioners in the litigation.

When the court had overruled the petition, thus denying the writ, the city gave notice of appeal.

The court litigation was begun recently by the city at the instance of the city commissioners, when, after long debate before the council by various city property holders regarding the proper routing the Meridian highway should take through Wichita Falls, the council authorized City Attorney Mann to bring suit for an injunction to prohibit the county from pouring concrete on Lamar, Fort Worth and East Seventeenth streets.

The court held yesterday that the special Wichita county road law, enacted by the legislature recently, authorizes the county commissioners to connect a state highway through this city on any route the commissioners may choose.

With this ruling, it became known definitely that the route will proceed down East Seventeenth to Virginia, down Fort Worth to the city limits.

Dodge Machine In P. B. M. Window

An attraction of considerable interest to the pedestrians of Indiana avenue, is the new all-steel Dodge Brothers coupe, on display in the front window of the P. B. M. company, this week. Through the courtesy of Jack Barnard, manager of the P. B. M. company, McFall Brothers were enabled to show the new model, while their own headquarters on Ohio is in the hands of the carpenters, undergoing extensive remodeling.

The new coupe is being shown here for the first time and is first of the new models to be received by the local Dodge Brothers' dealers. The car represents a new achievement in the manufacture of motor cars, being the first closed car, the body of which is built throughout of steel. The coupe is especially adapted to the use of salesmen and business men, due to its sturdy construction and wearing qualities.

Clean Up Or Pay Is City's Order

Clean up or be fined.

That was the warning intimated by Judge W. H. Caldwell Tuesday morning, when a man brought before him on a charge of having an unclean meat box in his butcher shop was fined.

The court fined the defendant $5.

SCOUTS TO HIKE

Local boy scouts will hike to Cache, Okla., in the near future for a seven-day camping trip, according to statements made Tuesday by Scout Master Jimmy Allred.

Plans for the week's camp, Mr. Allred said, will be formulated at a meeting of the scouts next Friday evening, which will be held in the basement of the First Presbyterian church.

The scoutmaster urges that all scouts who are interested in the trip meet with him at the church on Friday evening. He anticipates about 50 boys for the expedition.

NEW JOY PATH

Auto joy-riders living in the vicinity of Burkburnett have a new toy about ready for use.

Officials of the Potts-Prentice Construction company said Tuesday that about 10 miles of new concrete roadway is opened for use, and that tourists and joy-riders are finding the highway a good place to ride.

When the project is completed, Burkburnett residents can ride to Wichita Falls in a short space of time, it was said.

Man Loses Money; Calls Cops; They Find It Under Bed Sheets

R. M. Houston had lost his money—$300.

He knew he had lost it—he knew furthermore that it had been stolen. He was positive of the fact that some bold burglar had entered his bedroom in a local hostelry, while he himself was lost in the arms of Morpheus, and had robbed him of all his greenback.

It was a pitiful tale, as he told it to the local police yesterday morning. Houston narrated that he was en route to visit his wife, whom he had not seen in some time, and that his $300 was all the money he had, except the $6 and a watch which the bold, bad robbers had left him.

So the officers, feeling compassionate after having heard Houston's tale of woe, journeyed to the hotel and conducted a thorough search of the place. Every guest was rudely aroused from sleep to inform the officers athat they had been asleep for hours and hours, and that they knew nothing of the theft.

And then, Detective Jack Miller conceived the idea that Houston's room would be a good place to look—and it was.

The detective found the money beneath the counterpane, where Houston had placed it, presumably in his sleep.

CROSS ACTION IN SUIT IS SETTLED

A jury of six men found for C. O. Walling Tuesday in the county court at law before Judge Guy Rogers, in the case of A. P. Henderson vs. C. O. Walling, cross action in a suit on a $100 note.

Walling instituted a suit against Henderson on the note, resulting in the cross action brought by the latter, in which Henderson sued Walling for $610 damages alleged to be due him because of the presence of property on certain lands Henderson had rented from Walling.

ROBERTS GOES TO JOIN TRIPPERS

H. N. Roberts traffic manager of the W. F. & S. departed Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock for Graham where he will join the Wichita Falls trade trippers on their return homeward.

The trade excursionists will journey back to Wichita Falls over the W. F. & S.

STUDENTS TO OFFER 250 SCHOLARSHIPS

The Lass-O, official organ of the ex-students association of the College of Industrial Arts at Denton, is carrying on the campaign for the student's loan fund to aid deserving young women to obtain an education at C. I. A.

The paper is appealing to ex-students to invest $5 in the association and by making these appeals sufficient money is expected to be obtained to let 250 young women secure the advantages of an education at C. I. A., thereby fitting them to earn their own living and become useful citizens whereas unless the fund is raised they might not get the advantage of an education.

SPIZ WATER OKEH

Spiz water is not under the ban in Wichita Falls.

This became known Tuesday when it was learned that although steps have been taken to taboo the water sold here by J. H. Hall that the city chemist Dr. A. H. Douglass has passed on the water and has declared it to be "safe for drinking purposes."

The water it is said was about to be tabooed because certain Wichitans had thought it to be impure.

Dr. Douglas in a letter addressed to Mr. Hall yesterday says that a test of the water shows it to be pure and wholesome.

BATTERY D TO DRESS UP IN DUDS

Battery D, 131st field artillery of the Texas national guards, is going to dress up.

At least that is what John Fletcher, commander of the battery asserted Tuesday. Commandant Fletcher asserted that a carload of equipment consigned to himself had arrived here Tuesday morning and was ready for unloading.

Later in the day, it was announced that the car had been unloaded, and that the battery members will be given their uniforms and guns within the next few days.

The battery will be headquartered in one of the hangars at Call Field, according to the commander.

ROAD WORK RUSHED

Officers of the Potts-Prentice Construction company asserted Tuesday that mixed number 2, which has recently been moved to a point east of Burkburnett, will start pouring concrete again this morning.

The mixer is located two miles east of Burkburnett. Approximately 1 3-4 miles of roadway are to be concreted in the strip where the mixer is now located, it was asserted.

NO CHARGES IN MYSTERY CRIME

Machine Stolen Here Found Burned

Another day in the investigation of the mysterious murder of Ed Phelan, 20, at a lonely spot near Jolly, Sunday, closed yesterday without any charges being brought again anyone in connection with the deed.

The only development the day's probe brought was the information received at the police station early Tuesday that a Columbia roadster, which had been stolen from the Elliott Plumbing plant at Sixteenth and Lamar, late Saturday night had been found this side of Jolly, burned. The police are of the opinon the car has some connection with the murder, due to the fact that clots of blood were found on the running board of the vehicle.

Ranger Koonsman asserted yesterday afternoon that although six persons have been arrested in connection with the affair, that no specific charges have been placed against any of these persons. "We are holding them for further investigation," the ranger said yesterday.

Mrs. G. R. Fulton, who was found by tourists late Sunday afternoon in a serious condition, with several gashes about her head, and who related later than an "unmasked man" had held up she and Phelan, and then had murdered the latter, was reported yesterday as improving rapidly, and her condition now is not thought to be fatal.

The Town Mystery

Tuesday was another one. But it was not quite as hot as it was the day before, according to some reliable mercury caged up around town. Monday the mercury shot up to 100 in the shade in one place and Tuesday it did not get higher than 98 in the same place. There were some people in Wichita Falls who would have wagered it was 100 plus a dozen or more. Despite the heat there were three men seen on the streets with coats on during the day and the peculiar thing about it was that there appeared no bulge on their bootleg pockets.

Bentley to Make Number of Talks In Wichita County

Ed R. Bentley, candidate for state superintendent of public instruction, will arrive in Wichita Falls Saturday, and will deliver several addresses in this county while here, it was announced Tuesday.

A meeting of Mr. Bentley's campaign committee, it was asserted, will be called for Saturday morning, the hour of the conference to be announced later.

Amateur Thieves Get Smokes and Cash

Thieves broke into the Olympic confectionery early Tuesday morning obtaining 15 cartons of cigarettes and $15 in cash.

The robbery was discovered by J. R. Cassell proprietor of the confectionery, when he opned his place of business yesterday morning and was immediately reported to Detective Chief Jack Miller. Mr. Miller and the police department were conducting an investigation into the robbery late yesterday.

It is the opinon of Cassell that the thieves were amateurs, due to the fact that a number of packages of cigarettes which were pulled down to the counter were not taken away.

Officers are of the opinion that the entrance was effected through the front door, which had apparently been pried open.

WORKERS KEEP GOING AS SUIT IS ARGUED

Working under instructions from the county commissioners, and having received no instructions from that body to desist work, the Tibbetts Construction company poured concrete yesterday while in the 30th district court, representatives of the city and county wrangled over the right of the latter to direct the route of the Meridian highway down Lamar, East Seventeenth and down Fort Worth street to the county line.

The construction company began to pour concrete at the end of Lamar street Monday, and had poured about a third of a block Tuesday evening when work was suspended for the day.

WINTER WHEAT 55 PER CENT

Drops Off 10 Points Over Month

According to the Texas crop report issued July 10 by the state agricultural department, the corn crop of the state on that date was 78 per cent normal with a yield of an average of 20 bushels per acre on 6,165,000 acres, making the Texas yield 123,300,000 bushels.

The winter wheat crop was reported 55 per cent normal or a drop of 10 points from the past month. The yield for the state is figured at 9,565,000 bushels from 1,023,000 acres.

The grain sorghums are reported to be doing unusually well, especially in the western portion of the state, with indications of a greater yield than last year.

SUIT IS CONTINUED

The case of G. C. Rhodes vs. J. D. Evans, suit for $30,000 damages, was still on trial in the 89th district court yesterday before Judge P. A. Martin, and the indications were that the case will not be in the hands of the jury until some time late today.

Rhodes is suing Evans for damages on the grounds of alleged disruption of farm crop activities brought about through the activities of certain oil corporations.

BRIDE WINS DIVORCE

Charges of cruel treatment brought against her husband were sufficient in the estimation of Judge H. R. Wilson for Bertha Mae Kirkbride to be a divorce from Thomas F. Kirkb

So Judge Wilson, sitting in the 30th district court, granted the divorce yesterday afternoon.
