

NAZIS CLAIM ALLIES TRAPPED

Here's How Nazis Strike--New Page In Warbooks

1. WAVES OF BOMBERS dive on Allied positions, each with a target selected from aerial photograph, dropping 500-pound explosives. This used to be artillery job. Light bombers follow. On return, bombers strafe enemy in hastily-built shelters, stimulating cavalry's striking force.

2. TANKS ROLL IN when enemy is weakened by air attack. Some fire light cannon, machine guns; others spray flame. Usually they move in formation with 60-ton monsters in center. Object is to break lines in air-bombing area and screen advance of infantry coming up behind the tank units.

3. INFANTRY DIVISIONS pour into war-torn area behind tanks. They are transported in trucks and armored cars. Purpose is to take over and organize the ground while planes and tanks force ahead, striking in same pattern as before to widen sides of pocket in enemy lines.

4. SHOCK TROOPS, on motorcycles, pour through the holes in Allied lines, dash up and down highways as infantry advances. Their machine-gun fire rakes over area, prevents shattered enemy from reforming forces. Occupying forces are protected by fighter planes.

GERMANS SAY 'MOP-UP' NEAR

By The Associated Press

BERLIN, May 25—Germany has trapped and is ready to destroy the entire attack army of France, an authorized source declared tonight.

The decisive Nazi military operations in the Netherlands, Belgium and northern France, he continued, have been accomplished by just one-third of Germany's 5,000,000 first line troops.

At present, he went on, the reich has 65 per cent of her army still unengaged and will be ready in a few days to take Paris, storm the main Maginot line or invade England.

Backed up against the English Channel coast within the area which the Germans have encircled in the past two weeks are 500,000 French, 400,000 Belgians and 200,000 English, this spokesman declared.

Since it can be considered, he went on, that France's attack army is gone, all she has left is 130 divisions of first line troops to defend Paris, hold the Maginot line and to protect her southeastern flank against a possible attack by Italy from across the Alps.

The figures on Allied troops caught by Germany's encirclement movement were affirmed here by military experts who calculated that Germany had used approximately 85 of her 350 divisions of first line troops in the speedy operations by which she has absorbed all of Holland, most of Belgium and a slice of France in about two weeks.

An authoritative source estimated that one fourth of France's first line force is trapped by the Nazi encirclement.

These troops, he said, are the cream of the French army, with the best equipment, including mechanized weapons, available in the Allied armies.

Nazis Outline Plans For 'Final Drive'

He went on to outline the nature of the operations and predicted an early cleanup of the trapped Allies.

Already, he recounted, the German drive which penetrated northward to Calais has turned eastward to try to blast a way through north of the Lille fortifications.

From Arras, in turn, a drive has been launched to sweep east and north of Lille, French industrial town within the curve of her frontier with Belgium.

This joint maneuver will bring encirclement within encirclement, which, he estimated, would cut off the bulk of British and French troops—perhaps 700,000 men—who will be "sponged up."

Further to the north a loop will be drawn outward to Ghent to absorb the bulk of Belgium, he declared, and after that, the remainder of the trapped Allied force would be crowded up against the channel coast and captured.

Thus Belgium, like Caesar's Gaul, will be divided into three parts, enabling the Germans to carry out the age-old military maneuver—divide and destroy.

This source predicted the mopping up of the trapped Allied forces within the next few days.

'Secret Weapon' To Be Brought Into Play

And then, he continued, Germany will resort to her much-discussed "secret weapon" and in operations on an "exciting scale" will bring about "great things."

The statement on the Nazi secret weapon came from a source whose information heretofore has been well-nigh official.

As to this secret weapon, the spokesman declared, it is more important than tanks, gas, or the famed 45 centimeter howitzer proved to be in the World war.

"On the authority of the high command of the armed forces, I say this weapon exists," he said.

"It is entirely secret. It is not gas, nor a speedboat, nor parachute troops, nor a glider, nor a flame thrower, nor troops landed from planes."

"Adolf Hitler knew he could win with this new weapon. In a few days you will see great things because that weapon is in general operation."

He declined to say whether it had been used so far in this war. It was reported that some secret device was used in the Nazi capture of Fort Eben Emael above Liege early in the German drive into Belgium.

Some doubt was cast on this report when a film of the capture of the fortress disclosed it had been blasted to pieces by air bombs and the heaviest artillery.

Spokesman Says German Victory 'Inevitable'

This spokesman asserted a German victory was "inevitable" for these reasons:

1. The first northern Allied army is gone because it cannot retreat.
2. German morale is high because of constant successes, superior weapons and superior force.
3. The Maginot line no longer is a problem since Germany already is in a position to get behind it.
4. The "new weapon."

As soon as the encircled area is cleaned up, he continued, the German army will have one-third of its forces freed from this task to join the balance of the army with three possible courses:

1. To attack southward and envelope Paris and the French army.
2. To turn east and strike behind the Maginot line.
3. To attack Great Britain.

The spokesman declined to say which course was scheduled first. During the day's operations Germany tightened her ring of steel around the Allied armies in Flanders' flatlands.

Dive-bombing Stukas attacked the English channel ports of Dieppe, Ostend, Dunkerque and Blankenberge to block the landing of British reinforcements. The French attempt to slash through to their beleaguered allies was described here as "weak."

At his battlefield headquarters, Adolf Hitler was believed nearing another decision—whether to hurl his blitzkrieg at once into England, or carry the war south to Paris.

Noose Around Allies Pictured As Tightening

German maps pictured the noose around the British as tightened by two-thirds within 48 hours, with these new gains:

1. Advance patrols from the thrust up the English Channel entered Calais, 22 miles from England, and battled with Allied defenders in the streets that broke the Scheidt river defense line smashed on east over the Lys river—Belgium's last natural barrier.
2. Spearheads from the northeast and southeast threatened industrial Lille—fortified since 1030—which changed hands three times in the opening months of the World war. The advance from the southeast drove over part of Vinny ridge.

With the pace of invasion speeded in apparent disregard of the cost in men and materials, German sources said the position of the trapped British and Belgian forces seemed hopeless.

Calais, although not yet claimed fallen, was reported rendered useless for British landing operations. Throughout the World war the Allies doggedly held Calais as the principal avenue for landing men and arms from Britain.

Some patrols were said to have circled Calais toward Gravelines, the next port northeast.

Military spokesmen added that the German air force was "capable of cutting off every possibility of retreat" from the last avenue of escape—Dunkerque, Ostend and Zeebrugge.

NEW HIGHWAY 9 ROUTE NOW OPEN

Efforts stretched over a six year period to effect a new highway connection to the south were completely realized this week.

Traffic has been routed over the new five mile segment of highway 9 south, a construction program started late in 1939 having been all but completed. Highway engineers turned traffic over the rerouted section Thursday night.

COFFEE POT BLAST KILLS MAN, WOMAN

RAY SHORE, N. Y., May 25 (AP)—Mrs. Henry Link, 29, hurried into the gallery of her cabin cruiser to prepare the morning coffee today.

Nearly, awaiting breakfast, on her 76-year-old grandfather, John A. Johnson.

The coffee pot exploded, fatally burning them both. Police said Mrs. Link had mistaken gasoline for water in a nearby jug for water, is preparing the brew.

Private Experts Will Be Called To Assist In The Defense Program

Coordination Group Set Up As Legislators Aim At 'Fifth Column'

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—President Roosevelt's intention to call private experts into the government to help with the extraordinary $3,297,911,332 defense program was announced at the White House today.

Stephen Early, press secretary, disclosed that Mr. Roosevelt planned to create a national defense emergency coordination group composed of both private individuals and government officials.

The chief executive intended to draw experts from industry, agriculture and labor, transportation, communication, finance and consumers, Early said. They would assist—but not supersede—the government officials he declared.

While this announcement was being made at the executive offices, legislation aimed at "fifth column" activities in the United States increased in scope and gained momentum on Capitol Hill.

Recommending senate passage of a house-approved bill providing drastic penalties for subversive efforts among the armed forces, a senate judiciary subcommittee added to it a section requiring the finger-printing and registration of all aliens in this country—estimated to number 4,000,000.

Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the subcommittee told reporters the revised legislation was a necessary part of the preparedness program and would be placed before the full committee Monday.

Other developments touching upon the defense program included:

1. Colonel Frank Knox, republican vice presidential nominee in 1936, appointed a committee to confer with government officials on means of coordinating civilian support of the president's defense program.
2. Senator George (D-Ga) suggested that the United States might buy, for cash, the island possessions of Great Britain, France and Holland in the Caribbean. The question of allied war debts should not be considered in connection with negotiations for such a purchase, he added in an interview. George suggested also that military training be instituted in CCC camps.

Weather Forecast

WEST TEXAS—Increasing afternoon cloudiness Sunday and Monday with local afternoon and evening thunderstorms in the south and west portions Sunday and scattered over the entire area Monday. Not much change in temperature.

Latin America 'Fifth Column' Is Watched

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—"Fifth column" activities in Latin America, widely expected to multiply many times in case of a German victory in Europe, are occupying the close attention of officials in several government departments.

The officials do not attempt to hide their conviction that if Adolf Hitler wins in Europe his preoccupation in the western hemisphere will not be, at least at first, any direct military threat to these shores, but rather German political activities within the 20 Latin American republics and the United States.

Such activities, they feel, will be aided by Italian fascist influences in Latin America, just as Italy is aiding Germany in Europe now by diverting a considerable portion of the French land and British sea forces from the main field of battle.

Various methods for solving the question of German penetration in Latin America are being actively considered. They hinge largely around the view that this is a problem for all of Pan-America, not merely the United States, and that the most effective results can be achieved through joint effort of all the republics.

Officials believe that, to avoid the feeling that the United States is engaging in "Yankee imperialism" in combating German influence in Latin America, she should have the assistance of the other American republics. If any republic feels it is unable of its own efforts to combat the German activities, it should receive a species of Pan-American assistance rather than United States assistance alone.

GREEKS CALLED

ATHENS, May 25 (AP)—The Greek government announced tonight that specialists and military classes of 1934 have been called up as a precautionary measure. It did not specify the number of men affected.

Joe Pickle Reviews

The Big Spring Week

Not so many months ago, a certain segment of society was clamoring for the European war to open up. The seeming inactivity appeared humorous. Today, these people have their wish with all its unimaginable horror and implications. Now, these same people are given over to gossip-mongering. More "spy" stories are floating around than you can count. So far as we have been able to learn, these stories are sheer twaddle—and-or malicious talk.

Perhaps we are too innocent, but we think such behavior is unbefitting to thinking American people. Doubtless there are subversive influences, and some of them conceivably could be at work in this region. But until there is proof to back up stories on any individual, there is no respectable point in passing on fantastic yarns. If anyone knows something, they ought to notify the FBI. If they don't, they ought to be level-headed enough to let hysteria stop with them.

The Red Cross is bringing out another side of the war picture, that of millions of innocent people driven from their homes into

Weygand Acts To Retard Nazi Drive

PARIS, May 25 (AP)—General Maxime Weygand tonight summarily dismissed 15 generals who figured in the French rout from the Meuse front and injected fresh blood into his allied high command for the decisive phase of the battle for the English Channel.

A war ministry communiqué published under the heading of "penalties" said the 15 commanders of all armies, corps, divisions and other army services had been removed from their posts. Their names were not announced.

Their commands already have been taken over by new men chosen by General Weygand in his flying trips to the front to lead the campaign against the German corridor to the sea.

Seven infantry colonels were promoted to be major generals to fill the places of those ousted. Promoted are Henri Martin, Jean Besse, Andre Durand, Charles Mast, Charles De Gaulle, Gustave Neany and Louis Buisson.

The Nazis poured masses of heavy tanks and infantry through their breach between the northern allied forces and the central French army in an effort to tighten their hold on the English channel coast.

On the northern side of the corridor the Germans occupied Vinny Ridge and other crest northwest of Arras, making contact with the new British-Belgian positions, and pressed their attacks on the Dover straits port of Calais.

On the southern side of the German salient French operations along the Somme river were reported continuing "with success."

The night high command communiqué said the situation in the north "was undergoing no important change." It added that the French were inflicting heavy losses on the enemy "in all encounters" and that between the Aisne and Meuse rivers the allies held domination over the Germans.

The Germans, gambling for all-or-nothing in the battle for the English Channel coast, tonight rushed their heaviest tanks and motorized infantry through their narrow corridor to the sea to support lighter advance units.

Allied counter-attacks were frequent and intense and French military spokesmen asserted these had squeezed the corridor's neck from yesterday's 30 or 35 miles to 20.

An early decision was indicated as the struggle developed on two main fronts, with the northern allied forces in Flanders and the central French army on the Somme continuing their campaign to form a junction and cut

VATICAN RECOGNIZES POSSIBILITY ITALY MAY ENTER THE WAR

VATICAN CITY, May 25 (AP)—Papal authorities today recognized the possibility of Italian entrance into the war by offering refuge to diplomats accredited to the Holy See and speeding completion of Vatican City's air raid shelters.

Prelates indicated Pope Pius XII is convinced Italy is going to war but that he refuses to leave Vatican City or consider using the air raid shelter provided especially for him.

Bombing of Vatican City—slightly less than 109 acres at the edge of Rome—is considered highly improbable in conventional circles, even if Rome itself is bombed.

MEXICAN PARTISANS RIOT, TWO KILLED

TORREON, Mexico, May 25 (AP)—Two persons were killed and five wounded tonight in a riot and pistol fight among 300 partisans of Mexico's two leading presidential candidates.

Two of the wounded were Mexican army colonels who have been campaigning for General Juan Andres Almazan.

The clash occurred on the eve of Almazan's arrival here for a political rally tomorrow which pro-government elements have threatened to break up.

Italy Clamors For Corsica

ROME, May 25 (AP)—In spoken and printed word and picture, the name of Corsica, French Mediterranean island, flashed before Italian eyes tonight against a background of exciting rumor.

Italy's preparations for war gained in momentum, but how or when fascism would act remained a matter of guesswork.

The fact that westbound Italian shipping, including sailing of the great flagship Rex, had halted until at least June 6, made that date a focus of speculation.

Foreign observers professed to see in the Corsica outpost a sign that Italy, if she goes to war at all, would move first in the western Mediterranean.

The French have held Corsica since 1786, and Napoleon came to France from there. But the island 114 miles long and separated only by the narrow Strait of Bonifacio from Italian Sardinia, is Italian by history, geography and tongue.

There were rumors, among others, that Italians in Malta, Britain's Mediterranean naval base, might send a delegation here to ask Mussolini for "protection" against the "persecution" which the Italian press insists Maltese now endure.

DEAD MAN 'NO-BILLED'

DALLAS, May 25 (AP)—Lewis Stone, 48, who was found shot to death Thursday after being charged with an attempted criminal attack on a 9-year-old girl, was no-billed today by the county grand jury. A suicide verdict was returned in Stone's death.

MARKETS CLOSED, FARMERS FACING SURPLUS PROBLEM

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Foreign markets closed by the European war and the spread of the barter system threaten to saddle American farmers with one of their worst surplus problems in recent years, despite production restrictions imposed under federal crop control programs.

Administration farm officials, deeply concerned, are searching for possible new outlets for crops which normally would be sold to European belligerents and to neutrals cut off from American supplies.

The agriculture department predicts that American farm exports will be reduced almost a third this year.

Normal yields of major crops this season would materially increase surpluses.

The prospects of such production and the shrinkage in foreign

Britain Drafts Peace-Born Generation

LONDON, May 25.—Britain, jarred into militancy from its centuries-old groove of ease and empire, called tonight upon its peace-born generation, boys of 15 to 19 1-2, to fill the gaps in home defense forces against the danger of invasion.

The war office asked for volunteers from the age groups just under the conscription range after German bombs thumped on English soil over a 200-mile stretch of coast and while German guns echoed from just across the channel.

Recruits gathered by tonight's call will have to enlist for the duration of the war in home defense battalions. When they reach the conscription age of 20, however, they will be transferred to the training units for service in the field army, wherever it may be.

The volunteers for home defense battalions are distinct from the thousands who are enlisting as "parashooters" to defend Britain against parachute invaders.

The leaders of Britain's new dictatorial system, who have pledged the nation to fight to the last gun, the last sovereign and the last man, also turned intense pressure upon organized labor.

Prime Minister Winston Churchill, in a letter to the trades union executive council, demanded a "supreme effort" by workers to defend the country and win the war, telling them the gravity of the situation "deepens hour by hour."

The conference endorsed the nation's conscription of labor and property and promised the army the work would be forthcoming to make "the arms and munitions you need."

The labor ministry set up a supply board to mobilize industrial manpower under the totalitarian law, adopted this week.

The change from a nation of quiet green fields and peaceful towns becomes complete on Sunday, when Britain works and prays. For the first time since the World war, factories will hum on full schedule while churchgoers, at the express command of their king, implore God

Red Cross Program, Roosevelt's 'Fireside Chat' On KBST Today

KBST will feature today a great program in the interest of the American Red Cross, whose needs are greater than ever before in the history of the world. A full hour of broadcast will be heard coast-to-coast over the three major networks, bringing to America special broadcasts from Europe and America. In America, will be heard Mrs. F. D. Roosevelt, and a host of Broadway and Hollywood stars, including Jack Benny, Bob Hope, Eddie Cantor, Jimmy Durante, Judy Garland, Vivien Leigh, Gertrude Lawrence and others. The time of the broadcast—12 noon until 1 p. m. Sunday.

In deference to the Red Cross program today, the regular hour of the Assembly of God church program, conducted by Rev. Homer Sheals, will be changed by one quarter-hour. Instead of appearing at 12:45, Rev. Sheals has consented to move his program to the 1 p. m. time. Other programs will remain in their usual places.

Another special program for Sunday evening, will be a "Fireside Chat" from the White House, as President Roosevelt talks with America about present national conditions, in the light of war defense.

Jack Berch and his Radio Gang have returned to the air. This past week inaugurated a new summer series, and this rollicking music-filled series of quarter-hours has already gained its old audience back. Featured on KBST twice weekly at 1 p. m. (Tuesdays and Fridays) it's one of those refreshing bits of entertainment that'll help "cool off" the radio listener.

The Show of the Week goes the South American way today from 4:30 to 5 p. m. over the Mutual network, when Xavier Cugat and his orchestra demonstrate their interpretations of the rhumba, conga and tango. Happy Jim Parsons is emcee and Dave Driscoll the news reporter.

Outstanding representatives of the aviation industry will join with governmental aviation representatives on Mutual's "American Forum of the Air" from 6 to 7 p. m. The discussion will be informal and presented in connection with the National Aviation Forum of 1940.

Maverick Looking For 'Trouble' At Demo Meeting

SAN ANTONIO, May 20.—Mayor Maury Maverick, staunch third-term supporter, today predicted "trouble" at the state democratic convention in Waco Tuesday and accused a group of Garner-for-president leaders with an agreement to take over exclusive control of the meeting.

"It's going to be a tough fight if they try to sell us down the river," Maverick said.

Maverick was chosen chairman of the Texas county delegation at a meeting which disclosed strong Roosevelt support. He referred to the recent Garner-Roosevelt "peace agreement" by which Garner supporters were not to attempt to "stop Roosevelt," and third-termers were to declare for Vice President Garner in preliminary balloting at least.

"At the Munich agreement," Maverick said, "we agreed to give them Sudetenland, but don't intend to give them Poland, Czechoslovakia and Norway, too."

Scouts To Go To N. M. Camp

Two weeks from today, Big Spring Boy Scouts will be on their way to Camp Wehnapay, nestled in Potato Valley high in the Sacramento mountains of New Mexico.

C. S. Blomshield, Big Spring, council camping chairman, announced Saturday that scouts from Big Spring, Colorado City, Snyder, Sweetwater and Rotan and surrounding towns would attend the first 10-day period opening June 9. Those from Midland, Pecos, Wink, Kermit and other western points will attend the second period.

There are cabins enough to accommodate 105 scouts each period. Tentage is provided for possible overflow crowds, and senior scouts will build their own lean-to shelters and make beds of native trees.

The camp is in the heart of virgin forests and at the source of a small mountain stream. It is 25 miles from Cloudcroft and 12 miles from Weed, N. M. Elevation is 8,500 feet.

On the program are exploration, pioneering, archery, handicraft, swimming, treasure hunts, games, adventure trails, scoutcraft, advancement, campfires, and best of all, eating.

Competent leadership has been provided and is all volunteer. Among those in charge will be George Roswell, Coahoma school superintendent and camp director, Ross Covey, Sweetwater superintendent, the Rev. Harrison H. Black, Colorado City, and many others, including a corps of scoutmasters. Registration fee is 50 cents, the camp cost $10 for one period ($25 if the scoutmaster accompanies his troop) and deadline for registering is June 4.

Film Personalities, Now Flying Enthusiasts, Spend Night Here

Personalities known to moviegoers throughout the nation were Big Spring visitors Saturday night.

They have figured in the headlines as cinema stars, but at the present are interested in aviation, and it was bad weather encountered on a transcontinental flight that halted them here.

The group included Nancy Carroll, a darling of film musicals, a few seasons ago; Jackie Coogan, the "Kid" whose marital and financial difficulties put him in the news a few months back; Roger Pryor, band leader and leading man of the screen; and Faith Bennett, English actress and aviatrix.

The travelers were "ferrying" eight planes from Trenton, N. J., to Los Angeles, for T. W. Warner of Los Angeles. Mrs. Warner was a member of the party, as were Jimmy Mitchell, Earl Bacon, Don Disbarron and Kenneth Casad.

Miss Carroll, a friend of Miss Bennett, flew as a passenger. The former star, who is learning to fly, was in the hangar watching mechanics at work on a carburetor when encountered by a reporter, and the red-haired, blue-eyed actress was too engrossed with the mysteries of a plane engine to much more than nod a greeting.

Miss Bennett, who revealed she is a member of the Civil Air Guard of England, is a licensed pilot in England and America. With a charming English accent she told that she may have to go back to England if things develop to where she is needed and told that she has already received notice to be on call for duty. Miss Carroll was Miss Bennett's first passenger in America after she received her license and when Warner asked for eight persons to ferry his planes to California, Miss Carroll was asked along as a passenger and has spent her time en route learning all she could about flying.

The group started Wednesday from New Jersey but bad weather all the way has beset them and they figured on 11 more flying hours to complete the trip. They planned to leave early today.

EDUCATIONAL STANDARDS SET UP FOR GRADUATES AS THEY GET HIGH SCHOOL DIPLOMAS

Donald William MacKay, president of the Eastern New Mexico college, gave 110 high school seniors a searching question to go with diplomas passed out as a climax to the annual commencement exercises at the city auditorium here Friday evening.

went on to explain that the amount of education did not matter. Rather, he added, it was more important its scope, application and continuation.

MacKay listed six standards by which the question could be answered personally from time to time, and these were the points: Knowledge of international affairs, social affairs, of self, ability to earn a living, appreciation for the finer things of life, and understanding of basic science. He challenged the seniors to pause and take stock occasionally during their lives.

Billie Bob Phillips sized up the "individual and community value of schools" in Big Spring. She said that interest in the schools appeared to be divided between gossip, idle and malicious, plain talk, constructive and destructive criticism. Criticism, if in the proper spirit, was welcomed and meant progress, she believed. Billie Bob pointed out the transition and progress of the school system and the resultant attainment of a niche in the state educational set-up. She spoke a word about how students treasured their high school days.

Ralph Sheets and Billie Mae Ehrenkamp, named in order, were announced as the ranking members of the class. Others nominated to the national honor society were Reta Mae Bigony, Lawrence Deason, Kris Denton, Jacqueline Faw, Nellie Gray, Sara Lamun, Mary Evelyn Lawrence, Chesale Miller, Johnnie Miller, Billie Bob Phillips, Helen Pool, Janice Slaughter, Clara Sue Vastine and Sue Walker. Sneed Christian was named as winner of the Baugh & Lomb science award. J. A. Coffey, high school principal, announced the honor students, Harvey Morris the science winner, and Pascal Buckner, who recited history of vocational education, awards to senior Diversified Occupations class members.

Honor society membership was based 25 per cent on scholarship and 75 per cent on a list of ten characteristics. Next year the basis may be revised to place slightly more emphasis on academic scholarship. Ralph Gensert won the Engineering Club draftman set posted by Mrs. J. L. Thomas.

Diplomas were presented by W. W. Inkman, member of the school board. Processional and recreational and a third number were played by the municipal high school band under direction of Dan Conley. Dr. C. E. Lancaster, first Baptist pastor, gave the invocation and the Rev. A. R. Lightfoot, assistant East Fourth Baptist pastor, pronounced the benediction. W. C. Blankenship, city school superintendent, presided.

Mrs. Della K. Agnell left early Sunday for Dallas to visit with her daughter, Mrs. Walter Hornaday, and family, for a few days. She will go from there to Waco to witness the Baylor University commencement exercises.

CUSHING AWARD WINNERS, voted by class members of the seventh grade promotion group to the boy and girl best exemplifying characteristics of good citizenship, are Jerris Hodges, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Hodges, and Billy Joe Underhill, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Underhill. The award is posted by W. F. Cushing, Big Spring, and has been given for the past decade.

NINE ENLISTED HERE FOR ARMY SERVICE

Nine local youths were enlisted in the U. S. army during the past week, through the recruiting office here in charge of Sgt. Troy Gibson. Those enlisted and the service they selected:

Travis B. Wagley, engineers, Camp Ord, Calif.; Walter L. Kenyon, engineers, Camp Ord; Ralph Greenwood, engineers, Camp Ord; Howard R. Etheridge, engineers, Camp Ord; William M. McGary, medical corps, Fort Bliss; James

E. Dye, Jr., signal corps, Fort Bliss; Henry Hensley, medical corps, Fort Bliss; Jack E. Cutsinger, ordnance department, Fort Bliss; Hollis Stevenson, engineers, Camp Ord.

Sergeant Gibson said vacancies open in the army included posts with the 82nd field artillery, the medical corps, the ordnance department, the quartermaster corps and the signal corps, at Fort Bliss, and in the engineers department and the field artillery at Camp Ord. Young men interested may see him at the First National Bank building.

145 Treated At Venereal Clinic Here

First report of the Big Spring Venereal clinic, covering a two-month period, Saturday disclosed that 145 persons have been given treatment.

From March 14 when the clinic opened under a cooperative arrangement by the City of Big Spring and the state department of health, 410 persons were examined, and 265 of the number were found not to be infected.

Of the 145 ascertained to be in need of treatment, 64 were new cases, that is to say they had not previously been treated by private physicians. The remaining 81 had received such treatment, but were more or less in the charity case category.

A further breakdown revealed 41 were white patients, 11 were Mexicans and 55 were negroes.

Besides its primary work in social diseases, the clinic also vaccinated a total of 932 persons against smallpox during the recent scare created by a moderate wave of the infection.

It was pointed out that there possibly are others who should be receiving treatment at the clinic for social diseases. All who employ domestic help were urged to require health certificates, thus lending protection for the home and indicating untreated cases for the clinic to handle.

STORY OF THE BUDGET—

Less Than Third Of City's Income For Year Will Come From Taxes

(This is the first of three articles dealing with the municipal budget, on which public hearing is scheduled for next Tuesday at 8 p. m. Other articles will appear in Monday and Tuesday issues of The Herald.—Editor's Note).

By JOE PICKLE

Budgets are based on two primary considerations: Revenues and expenditures.

Sound budgets, generally speaking, are those having revenues equal to or slightly exceeding expenditures. This is particularly true when the quest for resources does not create undue burdens and when disbursements are well advised.

Upon this basis the 1940-41 city budget must be judged. The time of judgment, so far as private citizens are concerned, is Tuesday at 8 p. m. when public hearing will be held on the proposed budget. To the end that citizens may be aided in their appraisal of the fiscal instrument, The Herald today presents a summary of estimated revenues, which total $343,660 to satisfy expenditures totaling $331,420.

Taxes are considered the basic source of revenue, yet it is interesting to note that the city estimates it will collect less than one third of its money for the year ending March 31, 1941 from what are ordinarily regarded as taxes. The estimates stack up like this: $7,800 from current (last half) taxes, $81,000 from current taxes, $16,000 from delinquent taxes, $3,000 in interest and penalties, and $2,000 in occupation taxes, or a total of $109,800.

Water-Sewer Receipts

Where, then, does the money come from? The water and sewer receipts are to the city what the automobile registration tax is to the county. From the water and sewer departments $135,000 is anticipated for the year. This, with taxes, boosts revenues to $244,800, leaving nearly $100,000 to come.

And the larger chunks of it will come from these channels, according to budget figures: $30,687 on paving now under construction or to be constructed during the year; $8,000 on delinquent paving accounts; $14,500 gas franchise (the city beta 25 cents per meter per month accounting for about half this total, the balance coming in the form of a gross receipts tax); $3,000 from airport operations; $22,743 due from PWA as final payment on waterworks grant; $1,255 from cotton compress for water lines; $1,475 for the telephone company franchise; $4,500 in fines and court costs; $1,200 from new water and sewer taps. The remainder is to come from a host of minor sources, none of which is estimated to yield over $500.

Revenues are split between the interest and sinking fund and the general fund. Taxes will send an estimated $52,160 into the interest and sinking fund and the balance into the general fund. Delinquent collections in the amount of $12,000 and $4,470 in last half payments will account for the $68,630 needed to care for the interest and sinking fund.

Outside the budget totals, there are other funds which will receive considerable revenues, but they are self supporting ones and are carried separately. They are the cemetery fund, which stands to receive $2,536, principally from lot sales and grave openings; and the swimming pool and park system, which is estimated to take in $7,165, of which $3,950 will be golf green fees and $2,475 from swimming tolls.

Red Cross Fund Climbs Slowly; Bigger Response Is Hoped For

Slowly, the total of contributions to the Red Cross chapter's war refugee relief quota of $1,125 rose Saturday, amounting to approximately $235.

However, the real campaign for raising the quota does not get underway until this week when Shine Phillips, chapter chairman, hopes that Howard and Glascock county people will respond unselfishly and raise the amount needed from the local chapter.

The public was reminded again that for one hour, starting at noon today, there will be a Red Cross program over the major broadcast units of the nation. Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt will be on the program, and entertainment will be furnished by outstanding Broadway and Hollywood stars.

Locally, there was one encouraging development. The knitting class under the direction of Mrs. Gilbert Sawtelle had just about completed its first quota of garments. SEES NO SIGN OF A MAJOR REVOLUTION IN MEXICO

MEXICO CITY, May 25 (AP)—General Felipe Rico, chief of staff of the war department, reported today that confidential army missions had just returned from inspection tours to every state in the republic with word that there was no evidence a "large-scale revolutionary movement" was brewing.

On the contrary, General Rico asserted, the officers comprising the missions said the people at large indicated they would support the pro-government candidate, General Manuel Avila Camacho, because he represented continuation of President Cardenas progressive administration.

In an interview, the chief of staff also minimized the possibility that a "fifth column" of nationalist agents could foment a serious disturbance of Mexico's internal peace.

Wyoming contains 1,600,000 acres of government-owned "primitive areas" in which no roads may be built.

It happens to the best of us. We all like to step out in something a little finer, a little smarter, a bit more able, than the other fellow has.

So when you can do that—and get a better buy in the bargain—why not step right up to the head of the class?

Just look around you. Can you name a sleeker, trimmer, neater, smarter-looking car than this 1940 Buick?

Do you see anything on the road that can keep pace with its husky, valve-in-head straight-eight engine—Dynaflex patterned for thrift, and electrically balanced after assembly to brand-new smoothness?

Ever see anything slicker than the way its soft, rear coil springs float the body serenely along, even though the wheels be dancing?

Dig into the tangible things that make value—you won't find a bigger car anywhere at its price, measured bumper to bumper, nor one with a frame as heavy and stout.

You won't find cooling systems sealed under pressure, Fore-N-Aft Flash-Way Direction Signals with automatic cut-off, nor as many cost-free "extras" such as locks on both front doors, dual windshield wipers, trunk lights and gas tank locks.

In short, here's your one best yardstick of 1940 car value—but that's only half of it.

Here's big value—within your reach! Current prices! begin at $895 for the business coupe, delivered at Flint, Mich.; transportation based on rail rates, state and local taxes (if any), optional equipment and accessories—extra as usual.

Net of all that is delivered-to-you prices so close to lowest-price-field figures that you'll get most of the difference back in the higher trade-in value your Buick will have later on.

So go ahead—satisfy that itch to be "tops"! First step is to see the nearest Buick dealer.

(Prices subject to change without notice.)

It's our biggest year... so you'll find the best deal in town at your Buick dealer's

Variety Of Wedding Gowns

June Brides To Have Choice Of Design

By ADELAIDE KERR AP Fashion Editor

The wedding gowns that spring brides will trail down flower-banked aisles show more variety than they ever have before.

The day when the satin princess gown was chosen by most brides seems to be gone. This year's brides have asked for—and received—every suitable type of material in a number of different designs. White and tinted, short and long-sleeved, sheer and heavy gowns all are to be found. Lots of them have a worldly look; more are as demure as Priscilla Alden's costume.

Two things they share in common—personality and a slim, trim waist, sometimes designed on molded, long-torso lines. After that they go their separate ways.

There are scores of youthful organdy gowns—sometimes in plain weave, sometimes stencilled for both garden and church weddings. Most of these have short puffed sleeves and square or sweetheart necklines. Many are edged on both skirt and bodice with a fine pleated frill. Next comes a long procession of gowns of net, point d'esprit, marquisette and mousseline, some cut with basque bodices, high-necked Peter Pan collars and long sleeves; others more frothy in effect. Most dramatic of all are ivory satins and tulle gowns which are almost all ways trimmed with lace. These intended for the most formal church weddings, are generally designed with long sleeves. The majority of sleeves in June bridal gowns are short, however, and are worn without gloves unless the ceremonial setting of the wedding demands them.

Most important thing to watch in the design of the bridal gown is the train, says Miss Theresa Morgan, who heads the bridal salon of one of New York's best shops. Here are cut to spread like a great fan as the bride walks up the aisle instead of dragging in a long queue. Cut with the fan spread, the gown presents a far more flattering effect to the guests who view the bride's back. Moreover, it does not drag in a dead weight which makes it difficult for her to move easily and with grace.

Vails may be either short or train length and are generally simple in effect.

In the bridal pageant this year

Dressed for her wedding day she wears a frock of white net trimmed with net ruching and topped by a short veil. The long sleeves are detachable. There's mauve orchids nestled in a spray of lace and constructed without frills. Not a ribbon in sight. Her bridesmaid wears a frock of soft blue mousseline with applique lace bows in the skirt.

are some colored wedding gowns of palest ice blue and bluish pink. But by far the greatest number of brides are choosing white or one of the off-shades. Favorites among them is bluish—no deeper in tone than a beautiful pearl and exceedingly flattering to skin.

Prettiest frocks for bridesmaids are of marquisette, net, organdy or tulle in such soft colors as hyacinth blue, pale green, yellow and peach. Many combine an evening frock and bolero so that they may be worn later at summer parties. Straw or horsehair hats of palest ice blue and bluish pink. A number of brides are choosing bridesmaids' frocks that copy the wedding gown's lines, but which are of some contrasting color.

Texan Rallies To Gain Win Over Estelle Page

FORT WORTH, May 25 (AP)—Valiant Mrs. Frank Goldthwaite substituted a great heart for a lagging golf game in the darkest spots of a dramatic golf match today, coming back on the fading holes to defeat Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, 2 and 1, for the women's southern title.

The hometown idol, champion of Texas and winner of the Southern as a budding youngster seven years ago, courted trouble for twenty six holes and then quickly swept away the Chapel Hill, N. C., veteran with a grooved game that reappeared as suddenly as it left her in the morning round.

Three down and eleven to play, staying that close to Mrs. Page's velvety game only through some miraculous recovery shots that came hole after hole, the attractive young mother of two infant daughters started firing at the pins.

Just as suddenly did Mrs. Page's game start folding. On the twenty seventh she pulled her tee shot into the rough and floundered through the weeds and trees on three more shots before finally reaching the green. Mrs. Goldthwaite picked up the hole with a coasting six.

Into the last nine they went. Mrs. Page started leading by two holes and twelve feet from the hole with her second iron. Mrs. Goldthwaite, eight feet short of the green, studied long the chip into the rolling green. She slipped it perfectly, watched it roll fifty feet and into the hole for a birdie three.

Mrs. Goldthwaite won a Southern golf title with that shot. It set her game on fire and she squared the match at the thirteenth green.

All even. Mrs. Page's tee shot on the thirteenth hole settled under a clump of trees and in an adjoining hole around the trouble and on the green she hooped an ace second out of bounds. She fired again, but the tee on the second shot. Finally on four, she three-putted for a save to lose and put the Fort Worth woman on even terms for the first time in the match.

On the fifth hole, the thirty first, Mrs. Page fanned away another with a poorly placed tee shot to the rough behind trees a fair way and in an adjoining hole. In put 21, a toothsome one up the match saw had struggled for the first time in the day.

On the sixth hole, the thirty second, Mrs. Goldthwaite made it two up and on the seventh hole, the thirty third, Mrs. Page was in a hole in the ground and Mrs. Goldthwaite, usually almost miraculously steady, played a Once home on the thirty fourth, Mrs. Goldthwaite called on her courage after missing a third shot, laying out fourth dead to the pin from forty yards to earn a hole. On the fifth hole, the Texas woman stepped up to the four footer that meant the title and hit it with a birdie stroke.

Through out the morning round Mrs. Goldthwaite, usually almost miraculously steady, played a

Barons Play Two In Midland Today

RETURN HOME MONDAY WITH AMARILLO

The Big Spring Barons keep shooting for a first division slot today, facing the respected Midland Cowhands in a twin bill in Midland. The first game will get underway around 3 o'clock.

Monday evening they return home in a Ladies Night game with the Amarillo Gold Sox in the first of a three game series. The Big Springers will also face Clovis on Thursday and Friday night before invading Lubbock for a two game series Saturday and Sunday, June 1 and 2.

Will Ramsdell's nine hit pitching enabled the Big Spring club to sweep their abbreviated series in Lamesa Saturday night.

Scoring in each of the last three innings, the Barons, playing errorless ball, came out on top by a 7-2 tally.

Ramsdell chalked up his seventh triumph of the campaign, beating "Pat" Patterson in a pitch-laden 7-2 victory. It was Patterson's first defeat in five league starts.

Patterson lost the game the tough way, pitching excellent ball to hold the Barons to two earned runs; but his mates kicked in five more to lose 7 to 2. Ramsdell also was invincible after the second inning, pitching to only 21 men in seven innings, and one time retiring 14 men in order. Spangler hit the second pitched ball of the game out of the lot.

NO CASUALTIES Among High School Gridders In Exams

The Sugar Bowl football trophy, won last January 1 by Texas A&M champions, will be put on display at the New York World's Fair.

Jack Dornan, who several summers ago played independent baseball here, was elected the most valuable baseball player of Texas A&M for the season just closed. All of the members of the Big Spring high school football team waded through their final exams last week with flying colors.

Carl Shively, Cornell, Matty Bell, Southern Methodist, Jess Neely, Rice, Fred Thompson, Arkansas, Buster Brannon, Rice, and Jack Wilson, Baylor, will serve as instructors at the Saint Mary's university coaching school and clinic July 25 to Aug. 3.

Basketball as well as football will be discussed.

Favored team in the City golf league, which begins play at the country club today, is Phillips Tire team No. one. With Darryl Farmer as captain, the team also boasts such veteran mashie welders as Robert Satterthwaite, Dub Prescott and Herman Stewart.

It is generally agreed that Lewis Heavel, Forsan shortstop, is about the best all-around softball player active in the Major City league.

Carl "Scotty" Scott, softball umpire, has been approached on the idea of assuming the directorship for the TAAF district softball tournament, which has been awarded to Big Spring this year.

Gala Career Of Lillian Russell Dramatized In Picture At Ritz

Faye, Ameche And Fonda In Cast Of New Film

The New York of golden splendor is the background for the story of Lillian Russell, America's first and greatest glamor girl, the queen of them all. She holds the spotlight again in Darryl F. Zanuck's production of "Lillian Russell," the 20th Century-Fox film featuring Alice Faye, Don Ameche, Henry Fonda and others which is offered today and Monday at the Ritz. The film comes here almost on release date, as one of the newest of Hollywood's spring output. The amazing life and loves of the great Lillian Russell were headline news in her day, and the picture, it is claimed, makes it easy to realize why the beautiful actress was so famous and the songs of her day so popular. Some of the songs that are sung in the picture include: "After the Ball is Over," "Rosie, You Are My Poole," "The Band Played On," "Strawberry Blond," "My Evening Star," "Adored One," and "Blue Love Bird."

her. No one could take her place, and no one has.
Also featured in "Lillian Russell" are such outstanding screen personalities as Edward Arnold (as Diamond Jim Brady), Warren William, Leo Carrillo, Helen Westley, Dorothy Peterson, Ernest Truex, Nigel Bruce, Claude Allister, Lynn Bari, Weber and Fields, Eddie Foy Jr., Una O'Connor and Joseph Cawthorn.

The Week's Playbill

'Virginia City' Offered At The Lyric

Errol Flynn, Miriam Hopkins In Story Of Wild West

With Errol Flynn in the type of dashing role that had "Dodge City" breaking records, and Miriam Hopkins awarded the important leading role on the strength of her fine performance in "The Old Maid," Warner Bros. "Virginia City" returns here for showings at the Lyric today and Monday.

The background of the film is a page out of America's most gripping historical era, the West during the Civil War. The setting is the colorful, lawless "mushroom" mining town, Virginia City, during its rowdiest days. The theme recounts an authentic episode which Robert Buckner adeptly wove into the moving screen play. Michael Curtiz, one of Hollywood's most skillful directors, filmed the production.

As a Union Intelligence officer, Kerry Bradford, portrayed by Errol Flynn, is sent to the new Virginia City to track down a gold shipment intended for the Confederacy, sent by Southern sympathizers in Nevada. His romance with the Queen of Nevada's dance halls, Julia Haynes, Miss Hopkins' role, is short lived when the girl has him kidnapped and he learns she is a Confederate spy. Bradford is taken prisoner on the Southern gold caravan, led by Vance Irby, played by Randolph Scott. When attacked by bandits, led by a notorious guerrilla, portrayed by Humphrey Bogart, it is Bradford who outwits the band and saves the caravan. He refuses to surrender the gold, claiming it belongs to the men who mined it. Held for court martial, it is news of the war's end that exonerates him in the eyes of the North, the South and Miss Julia Haynes.

The impressive supporting cast includes such seasoned players as Alan Hale, Frank McHugh, Guinn "Big Boy" Williams and John Lel.

RESIGNS POST
AUSTIN, May 25 (AP)—The resignation of Assistant Attorney General Dick Stout, formerly of Houston and a member of the state's legal staff more than three years, was accepted today by Attorney General Gerald C. Mann.

TO RICHLAND SCHOOL
T. B. Henson, who has been teaching in Martin county, has been named as head of the school in the Richland community. He was here checking over his new duties last week.

Radical Departure
Now he has carried the "different" crusade to the pictures themselves, and has made a horror film without being horrid. The man who created such creepy characterizations as "The Monster" in "Frankenstein" is seen now in "Black Friday" as a famous surgeon imbued with a pioneering spirit so compelling that men's lives mean nothing to him. As the surgeon, Karloff wears no make-up whatever. The thrills are in the dramatic situations, which begin when he transplants part of the brain of a dying criminal into the brain of a mild little college professor.

Favorites In Cast
Besides Karloff and Lugosi the cast of "Black Friday" includes such well known players as Stanley Ridges, Anne Nagel, Anne Gwynne, Ames Craig, Edmund MacDonald, Virginia Brissac and Paul Fix.

THE ROARIN' WEST—Errol Flynn and Miriam Hopkins are shown above as the stars of "Virginia City," a colorful story of one of the vivid chapters of American history—the taming of the open West—which returns here for Sunday-Monday showings at the Lyric.

NO MAKE-UP—Without weird makeup, but nevertheless in a role that is calculated to produce thrills, Bela Lugosi is starred in the Queen theatre's feature for Sunday and Monday, "Black Friday." Boris Karloff, another "horror man," is in the picture, and Anne Nagel has the leading feminine role.

TOAST OF THE WORLD—Lillian Russell, first and foremost of the glamor girls, takes the spotlight again, this time in the movies, with the film production "Lillian Russell," which plays today and Monday at the Lyric. Alice Faye has the title role, and among those counted as her admirers in this story of New York's "golden age" are Don Ameche, Edward Arnold, Warren William and Henry Fonda.

Mahon Favors Govt. Backing Of Farm Loans

A farm tenant-mortgage insurance bill which would place government guarantees behind low interest rates on farm ownership loans is being given support by Rep. George Mahon of the 19th congressional district.

Supervising and guaranteeing the loans similar to the FIAA program. "I have been cooperating with Marvin Jones, chairman of the house agriculture committee," said Rep. Mahon, "and I shall continue to work for the improvement and passage of the measure."

Support also was given by Mahon to a plan which would authorize the RFC to make loans up to $50,000,000 to continue the Farm Tenant Purchase program operated since 1937. House approval of this plan in the agricultural appropriation bill was noted.

Mahon pointed out that virtually all differences in house and senate appropriation bills for agriculture have been ironed out and it now appeared that there will be available about $440,000,000 for soil conservation payments, $212,000,000 for surplus commodities consumption and $30,000,000 for tenancy loans. While allotments have varied as to purpose, the aggregate is about the same, said Mahon.

Editorial

Scarcely a single voice dissents as the United States launches into a vast military preparedness program.

The bitter lessons driven home each week, each day, each hour in Europe are being learned at last.

The United States has not sought this. For 20 years we have not built a battleship. We disbanded our great World War army, and kept a standing army smaller than Switzerland's. But the rest of the world was unwilling to follow suit. We are in the world, and we must play the world's game.

We must rearm. That means a reduction in our standards of living. It will touch every man, woman and child in the country. To fail to recognize this truth and face it squarely is to weaken the armament effort itself.

How did Germany succeed in building its uncannily efficient military machine? By sacrifice. By guns instead of butter. By putting half of everything the German people produced into the building of the machine, and making them live on the rest and like it.

Because the United States is richer, that is, has more productive facilities, it ought not to be necessary for us to go that far. But the principle is the same—it is all a matter of degree.

Production and productive facilities must be greatly increased. The Wage-Hour Act, the Walsh-Healey act, and many measures taken to increase the standard of living of workers are already being attacked by army officers. France and England had to jettison the short work week as soon as they got into war, and Australia is having conflicts over these factors.

Profit-limitation will immediately come to the fore. It is all right to ask an automobile plant to re-tool to build airplane engines. How much of the expense and trouble should be paid for in cash, and how much charged up to patriotism? Certainly the arms program must not be made a profiteers' holiday. Yet restrictions making losses inevitable? Defense must be paid for, and the most paying ought to be done by those who have the most to defend. But every man, woman and child must pay in one way or another.

To say these things, to look squarely into the teeth of the course into which events have forced us is the best way to navigate that course effectively.

Washington Daybook

WASHINGTON To hint at the collapse of a nation—even if that nation should be one whose acts you don't like—is 99 times out of 100 more wish than thinking.

Nations just don't go bust, poor, like that. Remember only a few short years ago economists were writing about the sour predicament of Germany. Now she's waging war, the cost of which would black out the most vivid imaginations.

This is all by way of cautions prelude because Washington is hearing that Japan is in a bad way. I don't argue that it is not. I just mean that if you are a Japanese sympathizer, don't go committing harikari—or if you are anti-Nipponese, don't start holding any joyful wakes.

The facts are pretty simple. The three-year Chinese interlude has been costly. The cost of living has skyrocketed. Wages (except in the munitions industries, which are creating the most amazing class of nouveau-riche you ever heard of) haven't. The foreign trade business looks good in yen, but the country is painfully short on foreign exchange... and—gold.

JOLTED BY WEATHER

Last year Japan had a drought. It knocked the very vitals out of the vital Japanese hydroelectric power system. A coal shortage caused households to turn their charcoal braziers into central heating plants.

Then came that same blizzards spring which swept America. Latest reports say it has put the blight of frost on Japan's important crops. Latest government information is that the Japanese silk crop may be affected as much as 90 per cent by the spring frozes.

This kind of it is truth and I can give you the figures if you are mathematically minded. For example, the general retail price index is 58.1 per cent above the June, 1937 level. The wage index for March was only up 14.7 per cent in the last year. The munitions industry, which employs a comparatively small percentage of the population, accounted for a lot of that. Spring estimates indicate substantial crops of wheat, barley and rice. There's a general trend toward inflation; a significant decline in the absorption of national bonds; an increase of 50 per cent in the national debt; a much heavier tax burden; a mounting shortage in nearly all commodities; a decline in labor efficiency.

PRICES KEEP CLIMBING

The inability of the government to control prices was admitted a contributory cause of the fall of the Abe cabinet. Price controls is one of the major aims of the present administration.

Your government has received confidential or official confirmation for all of these statements.

There are other straws in the wind. Washington hears that the morale of the Japanese at home is at its lowest. There have been grumblings no end over the fuel shortage, over the high prices and low wages, over the wage favoritism shown munitions workers, over the thousands and thousands of "little white boxes" of ashes of war dead that keep coming from the war in China; over the endless chain of propaganda lies intended to bolster the spirits of the masses.

One government reporter, a little more lyrical than the rest, included the phrase that not only in the cities but in the sticks Japan wears the pitiful air of a nation—sick by the plague.

I wouldn't know. Whatever the truth, Washington is finding time, between comments on the whirling dervish that's sweeping over Europe, to talk about the Orient.

Man About Manhattan

NEW YORK If you are interested in foreign affairs—and if you aren't there isn't be something the matter with you—then you will want to know something more about Mr. Raymond Gram Swing, the ablest analyst of foreign affairs on the air today.

Mr. Swing is able because he is lucid and coherent, and because he has spent 24 years in covering wars and the European news front, and also because he has a profound understanding of the European economic structure, without which there can be no real understanding of the continent as it is today.

People who have heard him on the radio but who have not seen him may be a little surprised at his appearance. Before I had seen him I imagined him to be gray and a little stout—any about 45 years old.

Raymond Gram Swing is six foot, with wide shoulders and a lanky frame. He has brown, unruly hair that is just faintly tinged with gray, and he wears heavy horn-rimmed glasses. All in all, he looks more like a midwest college professor than a student of current events. At 52 he has come into his own as an authority on world events, and today his voice is more eagerly awaited than that of any other commentator.

Mr. Swing talks to the nation, or the greater part of it, five nights a week, from 10 to 10:15, E.S.T. These talks are appraisals of what has happened in the world during the previous 24 hours. He arrives at his office, which is at 1440 Broadway, each day around noon. From then until six o'clock he reads the newspapers, the intercepted foreign broadcasts, and the dispatches and communiques from HOLLYWOOD—There's a new angle to women's hats after all.

Having seen women's hats from all angles with no small degree of wonder and horror, I was surprised at this discovery. I had thought that women's hats, as a subject for scientific exploration, had been covered thoroughly. But that was before I met Dorothy Yost. Miss Yost told me about the Hat That Doesn't Come Off.

Miss Yost is a screen writer. She is a bright moment, and practically no bigger than one. She three tangled, conflicting threads he pieces out the significant trends in the news. Then he sits down and writes his broadcast, a script of approximately 2000 words. After this is written he edits it, reads it aloud, alters its wording for precise shades of meaning. If nothing happens to change these trends, he carries this script to the air.

If you check back on Mr. Swing's career you will find he is the son of a Congregational minister, that he studied piano at the Oberlin (Ohio) Conservatory of Music, that he worked as a reporter on numerous dailies and that once he was managing editor of the Indianapolis Star.

During the World War he was in Berlin for the Chicago News, and he scooped the world on the story of Germany's "Big Bertha." As an active correspondent he witnessed the shelling of the Dardanelles. Once he was aboard a Turkish freighter when a British submarine suddenly bobbed to the surface and commanded the ship to halt. When one ship asks another "Who are you?" the information required is the name of the ship, but when the submarine captain demanded of the freighter "Who are you?" Swing stood up and replied, "I am Raymond Gram Swing of the Chicago News." This was an incident that went into the sub's log, later to be picked up and used by the late Rudyard Kipling, and today it remains a part of the Royal British Navy's legend.

When Mr. Swing first began to broadcast some two and a half years ago, many radio editors, under the influence of the times, listed his name under the popular dance band programs as "Raymond Gram Swing."

But it is safe to conclude that few editors fall into this error now.

was wearing The Hat when I met her for lunch. She was wearing also a very trim tailored suit of soft stripes with a jeweled green fish at the lapel and a good luck ring of green stone. She also wore a wedding ring because she's Mrs. Dwight Cummings. He is a playwright, a psychology professor and the one who picked out the Yost attire, including The Hat.

The first odd thing about The Hat, I noticed, was that it looked like a hat. It had a crown and a brim, and it looked very smart, but it probably wasn't because no hat that looks like a hat is smart any more. After the first shock of seeing a hat again, I forgot about it because the face under this hat was bright, interesting, alert.

"I never take it off," she said, "because if I get kicked out of my office, then I don't have to go back for it."

This, of course, was rankest persiflage. Miss Yost never has been kicked out of any office, although she has been invited into many. She is invited most frequently when there is a producer who has a script that won't sell. Every producer's shelves are full of juicy scripts lacking in cinematic pectin. Every producer's shelves are filled with scripts lacking not only pectin, but juice and meat. Miss Yost is invited in to supply the shot of Vitamin B-1, or whatever it is that makes sour scripts turn sweet. Miss Yost has been doing this so long now that it has been years since she has had time to turn out a script of her own. She used to write her own when she gravitated to films about 1917, fresh from carrying on the journalistic torch that still flares in the Yost family of St. Louis.

Miss Yost smiled away her numerous feats of salvage—it's fun taking a script that has had the benefit of many writers, each of whom has contributed something," she said. "All I do then is to pick out the good pieces, discard the poor, fit them together—and take a bit of the credit."

Incidentally, there's a lady at my house I want Miss Yost to meet. I want them to talk about hats, and how Miss Yost's husband, who has such good taste, selects Miss Yost's.

High Tide

Chapter Four
TOUR OF THE HOUSE

"Lance is cheerful!" Jan defended. "At least most of the time. He—has courage."

"And I haven't. Well, in case no one ever told you, it takes courage to die. Did you tell your brother about me?"

"Not about your trying to—"

"Drown myself?"

"Please don't tell him," she asked quickly.

"Afraid it might put ideas into his head? That's childish psychology. So he believes I'm just a poor devil who overestimated his strength and swam out too far, is that it? Let's see, I could be a lone orphan, just kicked off the WPA, with no place to go."

"Lance and I are orphans," she said shortly, "and the only things which keep us off government relief are two roomers and Lance's model planes."

"Sorry. I have a penchant for stepping on people's toes. So now, on top of all your troubles, you have me. Why on earth didn't you leave me alone? Or do you go looking for trouble?"

"I hoped you'd be pirate treasure or ambergris," she retorted. "I'm going looking for some cheap clothes for you right now. Maybe I can find something at the salvage store."

As he appeared completely mystified she explained that Sea Tide had five stores overflowing with clothes, furniture, cooking utensils and odds and ends which, purportedly, were salvaged from steamships and railroads. "I doubt if it is, though," she finished. "That's just a colorful way to dispose of cheap junk."

"What, won't I have a Bond Street cutaway?" he pleaded.

"You'll be lucky to get a pair of blue jeans and a shirt! And," she added triumphantly, "you can't go along to interfere with my choice."

"Meaning you're too proud to be seen with a man in a pink quilt?" False pride, I contend. Mind if I postpone meeting your brother until I have something besides this padded sarong to wear? I shall try to make a good impression, seeing that I'm to be a permanent guest here."

"Correction, please—we can't afford guests. If you stay here, you will be obliged to work for your keep."

He sighed, lugubriously. "I hope it will be a pleasure."

She didn't want to say it, but she couldn't resist. "By the appearance of your hands you have small acquaintance with work of any sort."

"Holding up his fingers he squinted at them ruefully, flexing the joints. "Never worked a day of my life. Hurry up with those clothes, will you?"

Slipping into a short tan reefer she started out for the store, her thoughts in jumbled chaos. This was definitely the most exciting thing that had ever happened to her. It would be grand to have someone gay and young around the house, even if he was a non-committal potential suicide! Who was it said something about the unknown always being more fascinating than the known?

Millionaire Wastrel? Perhaps that was exactly what ailed him. Her mouth tightened with sudden purpose. Her imagination, rampant again, had him a millionaire wastrel who had gambled away his inheritance and desired death rather than poverty or hard labor!

Derek, left alone, hugged the quilt about him and began reconnoitering. He opened cupboards and peered at stacks of flowered dishes, shining pans, and groceries on neat, clean shelves. He pulled back the curtains at the kitchen windows and observed the unimpressive rear of a sand-wich stand where old pasteboard cartons and tin cans littered the sand.

Quietly opening the door leading to the rest of the house, he entered a square dining room paneled with dark oak and furnished with a ship's table and plain, spindle-legged chairs. He went on, interested now, to the living room which took up most of the downstairs. Curtains of close, fine net covered the windows, shutting out idly curious glances of passersby. There were varnished cases against the walls filled with all shapes and sizes and colors of sea shells, a ship's compass, part of a wheel and a ship's log book. He took this last out and thumbed through it. Found it was the log of the Singapore Moon, a cargo ship plying between the west coast and the Orient. The captain was one Peter Merriner. The last entry read briefly:

"June 8th, 1935. Two hundred miles off San Pedro. Barometer falling, fear bad storm. Storm upon us, burst boilers, ship sinking. I will put the crew in the two lifeboats with papers and records. There is one seat left, but my wife refuses to leave me."

An example of true love! Derek muttered. "And what of the children left alone?" He replaced the book, observing how stained and warped it was from salt water. So this, briefly, was front door opened and Jan said: "I see you're up Johnny. This is my new handy man. And Derek, this is Johnny Benton, one of my roomers who plays a swing trumpet at the very ultra-ultra Surf Club in Santa Monica."

The Thrill That Comes Once In A Lifetime

Johnny turned his eyes suspiciously from one to the other. He didn't like the way things were going at all. He did not stop to rationalize his sudden bristling belligerence, but there it was. Then he spied the clothes over Jan's arm. "What you got there, Jan?"

"Some clothes for Derek." She extended white duck trousers, white cotton polo shirt and tennis sneakers. "Do get off that ridiculous quilt and put these on," she ordered, smiling against her better judgment at the storm brewing on Johnny's face.

Derek took the articles hoisted up his "sarong" and ran up the stairway.

"So, Johnny accused, frowning with the green silk scarf at his

LITERATURE SALES BRING CLASHES IN SAN ANTONIO

SAN ANTONIO, May 25 (AP)—
Police were kept busy today quelling clashes between war-jittery citizens and members of a pacifist religious sect.

Radio cars and patrol wagons were rushed to several sections of the city as crowds of angry folk attempted to prevent the sale of literature attacking organized religion and militarism.

The first outbreak occurred when crowds cornered pamphlet-ers in a downtown parking lot.
They were rescued by police and taken to headquarters.

Two other disturbances occurred shortly thereafter.

Says There'll Be Harmony Among Demos

DALLAS, May 26 (AP)—Myron G.
Blalock of Marshall, head of the Garner for president organization in Texas, said in a statement tonight that "troublemakers and extremists" in the democratic convention at Waco Tuesday will be "brushed aside."

His statement follows:

"On the eve of the state convention, it can be definitely stated that an overwhelming majority of the delegates have been instructed for and will insist upon the following program:

"1. A ringing endorsement of President Roosevelt and the achievements of the Roosevelt-Garner administration.

"2. A reaffirmation that this has not been and is not an anti-Roosevelt or stop-Roosevelt movement.

"3. A representative delegation of Texas democrats to Chicago instructed to work and vote for John Garner for the democratic nomination for the presidency.

"This is the harmony program heretofore agreed upon by close friends of both President Roosevelt and Vice President Garner and leaders of their respective organizations in this state.

"The extraordinary political situation resulting from the war is upon us and the convention will insist upon this harmony program.
The trouble makers and extremists will be brushed aside and those who would muddy the waters by bringing up collateral issues during these last hours will be ignored."

"We must prepare to defend the liberties we have won."

He said the new volunteer corps would be apart from the regular army and would be associated with the police force "to watch over the security of the people and to watch for the first sign of attack upon us."

the swelling refugee stream. They have nothing, and least of all hope. The Red Cross appears to be the logical instrument for stepping into the breach. It can do the job only to the extent that people of this nation provide through contributions. So this week, when the local chapter stages its real drive to raise its quota of $1,125, think long and seriously before you refuse to give.

Directors of the rodeo association and others talked over the possibility of having a show here this year after all. No performance is assured as yet, but there is much about it—the idea does not seem dead as it appeared to be a few weeks ago.

Big Spring cast 110 graduates into the workaday world in annual commencement exercises Friday evening. Their chances depend largely upon the individual. They got good advice in being told to continue their education from day to day. It is now up to them.

Defense legislation deserves the inside track right now, but we believe that the next important enactment by congress should be to compel all eating places to cut fried chicken a certain way—the way Mama used to do it. Personally, we tire of eternal anatomical surprises when fried chicken is on the menu.

City officials here last week learned something new about a city planning board—that it can deal with operations and fiscal matters as well as landscaping, etc. A wide awake board of this type could prove an invaluable aid in efficient government.

Dry weather and the war situation has sort of thrown a blanket over business here, but all is not dark. For instance, building permits are now only about $2,000 under the total for the first five months of last year, when more than 50 per cent of the building total was achieved. At least, this looks like a better construction year.

From Max Bentley, convention manager and WTCC activities director, comes appreciation "for the wonderful cooperation of the local committee chairman and workers" in staging the recent WTCC convention. "Everybody and everything clicked especially around the end," he said. Thanks Mr. Bentley. The same to you and yours.

The chamber of commerce would appreciate business men thinking about holiday closing dates for the remainder of the year. If all will get together and agree on certain holidays, nearly everybody will be satisfied and a lot of unnecessary confusion will be avoided.

for a victorious peace. Today military men described the situation on the channel edge of the continent as "very grave and very confused" but held out hope that a joint Allied action would beat back Germany's iron cavalry and rip apart the base of the Reichswahrer salient which stretches across northern France to the Straits of Dover.

With ammunition and airplane factories working throughout the weekend with the greatest activity of the war, 326,259 more men were called to arms to aid the hard-pressed British expeditionary force and fill the ranks of the navy and Royal Air Force.

This registration of 27-year-olds pushed the number of men under mobilization past the 3,000,000 mark. Early morning German bombings of Yorkshire to East Anglia and Essex covered more than 200 miles of English coast, injuring 11 civilians and awakening the nation fully to awareness it is bearing the weight of war.

"Local defense volunteers" flocked from towns and farms by the thousands to give their spare time as "parashooters" against German paratroopers.

By nightfall it was estimated nearly 400,000 had registered.

off the German salient. Between the main allied forces, their advance guards struck again and again into the German spearhead thrust westward to the sea and pointed toward the British Isles.

The allied advance units harassed the German line of communication. The outcome of the Flanders battle depends on the allied effort to close the breach and pocket the Germans on the coast.

The gap between the northern and central allied armies, originally described as extending from the Somme to Arras, now is bounded by the Peronne and Bapaume sectors.

Until now the light mechanized German forces and infantry had formed the spearhead. The movement of heavy forces from the rear indicated the crucial struggle was near.

Albaugh Blocks For Terry Test

A wildcat test in Terry county on the diagonal trend from the Slaughter pool in Hockley county and the Cedar Lake pool in Gaines county loomed Saturday with the closing of a 9,760-acre block by Ray A. Albaugh.

The test will be located in the northwest quarter of section 49-T, D&W-RR and will be known as the Albaugh No. 1. Frances Brownfield. It is three miles east and slightly south of Brownfield.

Albaugh leased the entire spread from the Brownfield estate for $2 per acre consideration and a 5,500-foot test to be spudded within 90 days. He blocked 480 acres out of 19 sections and all of section 49.

The projected well is about 20 miles southeast of the Livermore test, recently brought in as the first producer for Terry county and is about midway between the two pools.

The operator said he would drill to around 4,500 with rotary and then shift to standard.

His No. 2 John A. Robinson in section 54-M, ELARR, northwest Dawson county, was completing the switch from rotary to standard at 4,900 feet and will drill plugs Monday to complete the wildcat test which is reported to be structurally high.

Slight Rally Ends The Market Week

NEW YORK, May 25 (AP)—War gloom lifted a trifle in the stock market today, without any special news to account for it, and leading issues stepped out of a generally disappointing week with a fair-sized rally.

Steels, aircrafts and coppers came to the fore for gains running to 3 or more points after a sluggish first hour. Top gains were reduced in most cases at the close.

The Associated Press average of 50 stocks held a net advance of 3 of a point at 381 but for the week showed a net loss of 23 points. It was the fourth consecutive week's decline in this composite. Today the barometer was 4 of a point above its two year low established Tuesday. The 1940 high was 522.

Transfers for the two hours amounted to 554,330 shares compared with 1,663,270 last Saturday when quotations were topping. The week's volume of some 10,000,000 shares contrasted with about 17,000,000 the week before.

FDR's Defense Talk Tonight To Carry Deep Significance

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Against the somber background of the battle in Flanders, President Roosevelt's radio talk tonight on the state of the union—and its preparedness to defend itself in a war-mad world—takes on deep significance.

A tale of horror outmoding all written history is being written there. Irrespective of Franco-British or German fortunes swaying uncertainly in the balance from hour to hour, the unfolding story of that battle gives Mr. Roosevelt an opportunity to point its defense moral for American ears.

And that moral is this: In Poland, in Norway, in Holland, in Belgium, in France and even at sea—England a terrible price in blood and treasure has been and is being paid for inadequate readiness for defense.

Just how Mr. Roosevelt intends to state it is a matter of his choice. The facts are plain enough. They heavily underscore the failure even of France, at elbow-touch with arming Germany, to apprehend the full significance and import of the Nazi war preparation or to foresee the powerful war mechanisms that could and would be loosed against her.

Administration leaders have made it clear that the events of actual war in Europe, beginning with the first German "blitzkrieg" in Poland, have destroyed all previous conceptions of national defense needs. That involves not only types of weapons, but the speed with which industry must be re-gearred to produce them in sufficient quantity.

There was a plain intimation in President Roosevelt's suggestion to congress that this country might need 50,000 bay's planes, to insure the western hemisphere against incursions from Europe or Asia, that he regarded time as of the essence. Since he spoke the flame of war in Flanders has swept forward to the continental coast of the English channel.

Insular England faces real—not imaginary or theoretical fears—of invasion despite her sea power. The seemingly impossible of three weeks ago has become the not only possible, but the probable, perhaps the inevitable, of today.

All of it enters into the revision of American defense policy and the fashioning of American means of defense which will be the announced keynote of the president.

Cities Scramble For Arms Plants

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Scattered cities and towns are already vying for the arms and airplane plants, air training centers and military posts contemplated in the administration's vast preparedness program.

Officials said today that the pleas of civic and commercial representatives—bolstered in many instances by members of congress—were being heavily on Secretary of War Woodring and Assistant Secretary Louis Johnson at a time when these and other top defense officials were hard-pressed for time to cope with urgent military questions.

The applications have been welcomed, nevertheless, and were being analyzed and classified for future reference.

LIGHT SHOWERS SPOT BIG SPRING AREA

Rapidly approaching a planting deadline, drought-stricken Howard county were tantalized Friday and Saturday by spotted thunder-showers.

Only in small, isolated areas did enough rain fall to be of benefit. Two of these were in the Hartwells territory and immediately north-east of Center Point. The western part of Big Spring received a brisk shower, but elsewhere the fall appeared to have been light and insufficient.

MEXICAN POLICE HUNT TROTSKY ASSAILANTS

MEXICO CITY, May 25 (AP)—Special police squads patrolled this capital and all Mexican ports and border towns tonight in an effort to apprehend the machine-gun band which attempted to assassinate Leon Trotsky early yesterday morning and kidnapped one of his secretary-guards, Robert Sheldon Hart.

Harte's father, Jesse Harte, of New York City, arrived late this afternoon by plane. He immediately conferred with police and American consular officials and said he expected to get in touch with Trotsky later.

DEBT LIMIT RAISE MAY BE SOUGHT

WASHINGTON, May 25 (AP)—Talk arose today that the administration might send congress a last-minute request to increase the $45,000,000,000 debt limit by $1,000,000,000, but several senate leaders still insisted that no action would be necessary at this session to finance President Roosevelt's emergency defense program.

The treasury is making a study to determine how much prospective congressional appropriations would exceed the debt limit. Senate revenue experts said that they probably would top the present limitation by about $1,000,000,000. The debt stands now at $42,750,000,000.
