

Hired Hand The Great Game Of Baseball

With all due respect to you lovers of football, baseball is my nomination for America's greatest sport, and this is the day that the umpires boom and the bats crack throughout the major leagues. It's almost as if we turn over a new page. The winter season ends as of today, and the summer season begins. We'll all be turning on our air-conditioning systems (if we haven't already), we'll take picnics in the park, drink ice tea and dust off the old barbecue pits in the back yard. If you have a favorite major league ball team, you'll be following that team's progress as the days pass, hoping your boys get into the World Series next fall. Your favorite homerun clouter will be your big hero until autumn.

Baseball is the only profession I know of that a boy can enter and progress on sheer ability. When he does the cleats it doesn't matter if his pop's a vice president, if he's handsome or if he knows a U.S. senator. It won't help to marry the daughter of a club owner.

All that will matter is the batting average and how many times the baseball skidded off his glove or his skull. If he does well in these departments he even can be obnoxious—witness Jim Piersall. He can be squat and homely, witness Yogi Berra.

IT'S THE ONE PROFESSION IN WHICH HE CAN BECOME WEALTHY AND A NATIONAL HERO WITHOUT DEPENDING UPON "PULL" TO PROPEL HIM.

In the stands the only talents required of you is the ability to criticize. You aren't asked to accomplish a thing. You can rise up in high dudgeon over a play you couldn't make half as well, and you can use, without any embarrassment, hindsight when a manager pulls a pitcher in a crucial place. What a wonderful game! What a fine outlet for what eats you!

OFF ON A TANGENT — There's a good chance that the movie "Tom Jones," now showing at the Strand, will cop the Oscar as best picture of the year (Cleopatra notwithstanding), and I won't fuss if it is. It's a hilarious thing, beautifully done in color, and it reminds me somewhat of Chaucer. One thing for certain, you'll say you never saw a movie like it!

"I don't want to frighten you," said the third grader to his teacher, "but my dad says if I don't get better grades somebody is going to get a spanking!"

THE MAILBAG — "I read your 'Hired Hand' every day, and notice where you were talking about a 'good pot of beans.' Well, we are inviting you out to San Jacinto School on April 17 (this coming Friday) at 7 p.m. to a red beans and cornbread supper sponsored by the P.T.A."

FLAMES RAVAGE LUMBER YARD AT ALTUS

Loss Heavy In Altus Fire

ALTUS, Okla. (Special) — An all-alarm fire raged out of control for more than three hours Monday night razing two businesses and sending three firemen to the hospital in related incidents. Two hundred telephones were out of operation in the city as a result of the fire. The fire evidently started in the George C. Wright Lumber Co. and almost completely leveled the structure. In addition to the lumber company, the J&P Sign Service suffered damage. The Paul Corbin Motor Co. on the same block was saved from damage by hard working firemen and volunteer assistants. The destructive blaze could be seen for miles around and a pilot flying over the city reported that the fire was so large "it

New Members Sit On Council

A new mayor and four councilmen were sworn in at a brief session of the city council Monday night in which only a short agenda of business was heard. Following the formal canvassing of votes in last Tuesday's municipal election, outgoing Mayor John Gavin swore in J. Winston Wallander as the new head of the city government. Wallander then administered the oath of office to new aldermen Leroy Daniel, Cletus Schenk, Kenneth Hill and Pete Claytor. The councilmen replace Don Wade and Dr. Al T. Witcher, who did not seek re-election. Wallander, who resigned his post (Continued on Page 2)

Rumor Nikita Dead Denied As 'Rubbish'

MOSCOW (AP) — An unbelievable but electrifying rumor that Premier Khrushchev was dead set off a mad round of telephone calls in Moscow Monday night. The rumor was denied as "rubbish" early Tuesday but not before it had swept alarmingly around the world. The excitement was primarily among foreign news correspondents who were advised by messages from abroad that foreign agencies — not including The Associated Press — had carried the news that the premier was dead. A major part of the trouble was that none of the correspondents in Moscow had sent the news. It had been picked up abroad and circulated under foreign datelines. Even the correspondents of the agencies that carried it were astonished; they learned the news first on calls from their own home offices. The reports here were that a German agency and a Japanese agency had circulated the rumor. Correspondents here were highly doubtful of the news, but because of the premier's advancing years—he'll be 70 Friday—and his somewhat strenuous life, they knew anything was possible. Khrushchev had been out on the airfield at midday Monday welcoming Wladyslaw Gomułka, Polish party leader, and again at night was at a Kremlin party for the premier. He made speeches on both occasions. A major part of the problem

Cox To Seek Vote Support

Jack Cox of Houston, candidate for the U.S. Senate, subject to the Republican primary, will visit Wichita Falls Tuesday in connection with his campaign for the GOP nomination and race against incumbent U.S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough, a Democrat. Wichita County gave Cox 6,965 votes in his 1962 race for governor and he is hoping to retain this substantial support in his current race against three opponents, he said Monday in Houston. Cox will attend a coffee at the Wichita County Republican Headquarters at 7 p.m. Tuesday. In 1962 Cox received 715,000 votes for governor in the general election, far more votes than any previous Republican gubernatorial candidate received in Texas. He has pitched his campaign on the theme that "Cox is the only candidate who can beat Ralph Yarborough in November." He has limited his campaign to potshots at the incumbent senator whom he describes as an "extreme left-wing liberal" who is "certain to be the Democratic nominee." Cox said in Austin last week, that after completing two rounds of visits to every region in the state he is "more confident than ever that Jack Cox will win nomination on May 2 and that Republicans will win a significant victory over Ralph Yarborough in November."

Sidney Poitier Wins Best Actor 'Oscar'

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sidney Poitier, the hymn-singing Baptist who helped nuns build a Catholic church in "Lilies of the Field," won a best actor Oscar Monday night to become the first negro to receive a top Academy Award. Patricia Neal, the slatternly ranch housekeeper of "Hud," was named best actress of the year at the 36th annual Academy awards ceremonies at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium. "Tom Jones," rollicking reproduction of Henry Fielding's 18th century novel, scored as best picture and for best direction by Tony Richardson and for best adapted screen play by John Osborne. Melvyn Douglas, the patriarchal Texas rancher of "Hud," was a surprise winner for best supporting actor. Margaret Rutherford, the dowdy dowager of "The V.I.P.s," was selected best supporting actress. The auditorium erupted in cheers at the announcement of Poitier's victory. Wearing a broad grin, he trotted up to the stage to accept his award from last year's winner, Anne Bancroft. "Because it is a long journey to this moment," Poitier said, "I have many people to thank." Poitier, born 37 years ago in Miami, Fla., one of nine children of a well-to-do Nassau county farmer, thanked his fellow creators of "Lilies of the Field" as well as Academy voters. He added: "To all of them all I can say is a very special thank you." The only previous Negro actor winner was Hattie McDaniel who took best supporting actress honors for "Gone With the Wind" in 1939. Miss Neal, whose first Hollywood career ended because producers said she didn't have sex appeal, is eight months pregnant and was unable to attend. The actress, born 38 years ago in the mining camp at Packard, Ky., lives in Buckinghamshire, England, with her husband, author Roald Dahl. It was strictly old timers' night in the supporting performer category, Academy voters passed up the favorites, director-turned-actor John Huston and past winner Hugh Griffith, to name Douglas.

Reagan Recount Before Box Locked

By JACK COATS
Trustees of the Wichita Falls District declined Monday, on advice of their attorney, to recount votes cast in the April 4 election in which incumbent Mrs. Laura Doing defeated Mrs. Bill (Jan) Thacker by 13 votes. Mrs. Thacker, who appeared at the meeting with her husband, read this statement: "Mr. chairman and members of the board of trustees, my purpose in appearing before you is to present a request for a recount of all ballots in the April 4 school trustee election — the many persons who have contacted me suggesting such a recount feel that a recount would clarify the results of the election for all candidates. "As reasons for such action by this board, I would call attention to the narrow margin of votes which represents less than one-half of one per cent of the total votes — by over 5,000 voters — human error is always possible in counting this many ballots. It is my understanding that after all of the ballots had been counted at Reagan Junior High School voting box — that the ballots were recounted only for Mrs. Doing and myself. Public Should Know "I believe it is to the best interest of this school board and that the public is entitled to

Oil Industry Unity Urged By API Chief

DALLAS (AP)—Frank Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute, called Monday for industry unity and what he termed "business citizenship." Ikard appeared before the 15th annual pipeline conference of the API's division of transportation. He said in an address to the group, "More and more companies are encouraging their employees to seek out and support worthy candidates, to contribute to the party of their choice, to serve on federal, state and municipal commissions, and to stay informed on important political issues, not just at election time." Minimize Problems He said business citizenship means the kind of action that promotes understanding of the industry and thereby minimizes problems before "They bloom into king-sized crises." Ikard said the future of the industry, including pipeline operations, appears bright. He added, "But it won't be bright automatically...it certainly could be dulled by forces set in motion by adverse government actions." Oilmen—indeed all businessmen — must tell the industry story clearly and must contribute their knowledge and their experience to the processes of government," he said. Major Issues On unity, he said, "Good business citizenship does not consist of being interested only in one's own branch of the industry... Any person who holds down a responsible job in this demanding business of ours is smart enough to grasp the fundamentals of every major issue that affects this business." In a paper prepared for the sessions, Phelan H. Hunter of Humble Pipe Line Co., Houston, said automation has "changed the composition of our work forces, but has not diminished the importance of manpower."

know if a second count of one voting place and only for two of five candidates is authorized by the election laws. And also, to know all of the facts as to why these ballots were recounted, I know that you and I both want all doubts concerning this election to be removed. I am aware of the expensive and involved procedure of a contest of election suit in the district court — I do not believe such procedure would apply to this election — nor do I believe that this board will use such procedure as an excuse. It is my understanding that the law places the duty and responsibility for such election and the checking of the results upon this board. "I know and trust that you will give the voters full and complete reasons for whatever action you take on this matter through all news media. What- (Continued on Page 2)

Some damage estimates were running in excess of two million dollars late Monday night as the fire fighting units prepared to continue their watch through the night to make sure the inferno did not break out again.

In addition to handling lumber, the George C. Wright Lumber Co., which was built in the early 1920s, also carried floor covering, wall paper and hardware. The corner of the building was utilized as a service station, which was owned by the lumber company. The service station also was destroyed.

The company is the largest lumber supply house in southwestern Oklahoma and is a landmark in the city of Altus.

Walter Hinton, manager of the lumber company, said it took him 40 years to build his business now worth about $600,000. "It was pretty hard to stand there to see 40 years of work go up in smoke in 20 minutes," said Hinton.

Hinton said firemen were able to save four warehouses and one shed, all filled with merchandise. His paint store went up in flames. Hinton said the heat sent paint cans sailing high in the air and then exploding like timed fireworks.

Fire in Hinton's lumber yard started 20 minutes after he came home from work. When notified, he told firemen he had just left and there was no fire. The cause of the fire has not been determined. Hinton said a truck driver first noted fire on a power line pole.

Cause Not Determined

Hinton reasoned, but was not sure, the fire might have started there. Recently, he had some seven electric meters removed from his various businesses and consolidated into one meter. That meter was near the burning power pole.

The company has the place heavily insured, but Hinton said the insurance policies were in a safe which went through the fire. Firemen recovered the safe, but no one had been able to open the warped door. Hinton said "Tomorrow, we'll go down there and get the insurance paperwork."

30 Idled

Until the Wright Lumber Company can rebuild some 30 people will be idle. The company was doing a million dollar business each year in lumber, hardware, floor covering and distributing Gulf products.

Hinton said the fire destroyed many items that cannot be replaced. He sighed, "It burned my favorite shotgun."

Bob's Furniture Co., which occupies the southwest corner of the block, reported they suffered some smoke damage from the fire and quite a bit of damage to the furniture as workers hurried to remove as much of the wares as possible from the store.

Fortunately the fire did not spread to the furniture company before being brought under control shortly before 10 p.m. Monday.

Fire units from Altus, Altus AFB and many volunteer workers were used to bring the fire under control.

Police Nab Armed Robber In 30 Minutes

"This is a gun and it's loaded," said a nervous customer to Mrs. Pat Stewart at 9:10 p.m. Monday and then fled with more than $400 in cash from the Handy Food Store No. 3 at Fairway and Farm Road 369.

Thirty minutes later city police arrested a man at Beverly and Iowa Park Road answering Mrs. Stewart's description. At police headquarters she identified him in a line-up of four men.

The suspect, 20-year-old, and with a wild shock of blond hair, is awaiting possible charges of armed robbery Tuesday morning.

"He just walked in with this funny-looking pistol and told me to give him all the money," said the 45-year-old store manager Monday night.

"He didn't hurt me. Just scared the daylight out of me," she said.

Sgt. Vernard Hurd, by coincidence also a Handy Food Store employee, told police he saw the man's 1961 Falcon sedan parked at the store and felt suspicious about it.

Later, at the police station at Ninth and Ohio, Hurd identified the car belonging to the suspect.

"It was so unexpected that I didn't know what to do," said the attractively-dressed woman, who has managed the store for six years. "I was supposed to be off tonight, but a girl quit this afternoon. . . . I came to work here just after the store had been robbed about seven years ago."

Det. Sgt. Johnny Cawyer led the investigation of the case, one of several armed robberies in Wichita Falls this year.

Gemini Crew Is Selected

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A veteran space traveler and a rookie astronaut were picked Monday to close the gap in the United States' race to the moon.

Air Force Maj. Virgil I. Grissom, 38, the second American in space, and Lt. Cmdr. John W. Young, 33, a former Navy test pilot, got the nod as the first crew to fly a Gemini spacecraft into orbit later this year.

Named as backup crew were Navy Cmdr. Walter M. Schirra Jr., 41, pilot of a six-orbit Mercury flight Oct. 3, 1962, and Air Force Maj. Thomas P. Stafford, 33, a test pilot who has written textbooks on flying.

At a news conference at which the astronauts were named, it was also revealed by Dr. Robert R. Gilruth, manned Spacecraft Center director, that an ear ailment similar to the one suffered by former astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., knocked Lt. Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr., 40, from consideration for the first Gemini crew.

Government survey which would be conducted here this month.

McNeil and Davis told Silver the funds received, if the application was approved, would total $340-$350,000, and that such funds must be applied for on an annual basis.

Prior to adjournment, Randal announced that school board meetings would be held on the second Monday of each month at 2 p.m. at the administration building.

Randal also said he wanted to explain why "McNeil and other members of the administration cannot answer questions about policy matters which are referred to them by the public."

"McNeil is an employee of this board and cannot answer in policy matters. That's just like asking a rookie newspaper reporter about his boss's editorial policies," Randal concluded.

Reagan Recount Before Box Locked

(Continued From Page 1) ever the results of your action. I assure you of my continued efforts and cooperation for the best education for all our children.

"Thank you for your time. I leave this request in your hands."

Marvin R. Pierce, attorney for the school board, advised trustees that the board was not empowered to open the ballot boxes, and that such a recount could only be done as a result of a District court order or by the attorney general of Texas.

Statute

Thacker, a Wichita Falls land man who also is an attorney, asked Pierce about a statute to which he referred as "Article 8.19," which Thacker said prohibited election judges from removing ballots from the ballot box for a recount, such as Mrs. Thacker said occurred at the Reaganbox.

Pierce said it was his opinion that an election judge had the authority to recount ballots as many times as deemed necessary before placing them in the locked ballot box and formally completing election returns from that box.

Members of the board canvassed votes cast at the city's five polling places and declared these results:

Warren Silver, 3,402 votes; Mrs. Doing, 1,701; Mrs. Thacker, 1,688; Frank Gibson, 1,478; and incumbent R. W. Harless, 1,423.

On the basis of the official canvass, Silver and Mrs. Doing were declared duly elected and were sworn in for six-year terms.

Oath

The oath of office was administered by Floyd Randal, president of the board. Other officers elected were Ikard Smith, vice president; Mrs. Doing, secretary; and Ralph Davis (the school system's business manager) assistant secretary.

School Supt. Joe B. McNeil then offered a resolution authorizing payment of expenses of the April 4 election. No amount was specified by McNeil.

Trustee Dick Harris asked McNeil to give a total figure, and McNeil replied that he had not received notification of all expenses.

The board then passed the resolution with a stipulation that the expenses could be paid "not to exceed $1,000."

McNeil then presented a report on suggested radio rights for broadcasting of football and basketball games. He said he had met with the management of Wichita Falls' radio stations, and that the stations had agreed on a schedule for the 1964-65 season, subject to the approval of the board, and with the provision that the schedules would be rotated each year.

McNeil then read this schedule of radio rights:

KWFT, Wichita Falls High School; KNIN, Rider High School; KLUR-FM, Hirschi High School.

"KTRN has not expressed any interest," McNeil told the board. This comment brought a sharp retort from Harris, who asked McNeil, "Was KTRN contacted?" McNeil said he didn't know, but that KTRN had not expressed interest during the previous year.

Board members then instructed McNeil to contact the management of KTRN and give the management an opportunity to accept or reject possible broadcasting rights before any official action was taken by the trustees.

Teacher List

Mrs. Doing then presented lists of teachers-whom she said had been approved by her committee for positions should contracts be available to them, and teachers whom she said would not be teaching during the next year.

The lists were not shown to newsmen.

Trustees approved a resolution granting Texas Electric Service Co. a distribution easement and right-of-way for utility installations at Kate Haynes Elementary School.

Members of the board were given financial statements for operation of the school system for March and April.

In response to questions from newsmen, Randal said additional copies of the statements had not been prepared for newsmen, and that the reports had been handed out to trustees for their own information. "This information certainly is public record, however," Randal said.

Current Budget

Randal also was asked by a newsmen for a copy of the current operating budget of the school system. McNeil replied that there were no extra copies available.

Randal said, however, that state statutes require filing of copies of the budget with the county clerk's office and other state agencies, and that such copies were public record in those offices.

Harris asked Randal to place the report of the board's insurance committee on the agenda of next month's meeting of the schoolboard. "It's been three or four months, now, and we need to make some disposition of this matter," Harris continued.

"Now that we've been to Ft. Worth, and since the election is over, I also hope we can appoint a committee or that the entire board will serve in an effort to study possible needs in Wichita Falls of a vocational high school," Harris continued.

Survey Team

McNeil replied that a survey team of the Texas Education Agency would arrive in Wichita Falls Tuesday to begin making such a study.

Silver asked McNeil about the status of a recent request for federal aid under the impacted military area bill.

McNeil and Davis replied that the application was in Washington, D.C., but that word of approval or disapproval had not been received pending a second

Dr. D. Clifford Burross was named mayor pro tem.

In other action, City Clerk Bill Hicks submitted his resignation effective April 30 to enter private business in Wichita Falls. Hicks said in his letter of resignation he was ending his service with the City of Wichita Falls because he had been offered an opportunity "which I and my family cannot afford to turn down." Hicks said an announcement of his new position would be made shortly.

Wallander, in one of his first official acts, appointed three councilmen as representatives to three city boards. The appointments: Hill, traffic commission; Schenk, planning board; and Claytor, park board.

James Thomas of Wichita Falls also was named by Wallander to serve a second three-year term on the Civil Service Commission.

Gavin, in his last official act, read a statement commending city employees for "their tireless efforts" in connection with the tornado disaster here April 3.

The retiring mayor said 24 of the city's 34 departments participated in the protection of life and property and clean-up operations in various ways.

Auto Inspection Due Wednesday

Officials of the motor vehicle inspection division of the Texas Department of Public Safety reminded Wichita County motorists late Monday that only two days remain to have automobiles inspected before the midnight Wednesday deadline.

Representatives of many of the accredited motor vehicle inspection stations in Wichita Falls said Monday that long lines already were being experienced, and urged motorists to have their cars inspected as quickly as possible.

Italian Papers Carry Story Of Wichita Falls Tornado

News travels fast - and far - as Mr. and Mrs. Joe Fidelie learned Friday when they received a clipping from Rome's "Il Messaggero," a daily newspaper, covering the April 3 tornado here.

Fidelie's first cousin, Msgr. Benedict Fidelie, mailed the clipping to the Fidelies, who operate a restaurant specializing in Italian food at 913 Seventh.

"We were amazed to see the tornado covered so widely by a newspaper so far away," said Mrs. Fidelie. "The picture is just like the one in the Record News."

Atop the three-column story is an Associated Press telephoto scene of the famous tornado which appeared on the front page of the Wichita Falls Record News April 4, and was transmitted by AP wires over all the world the night before.

Bearing a dateline "Wichita Falls, Texas," the story explains how the tornado bore into the "centro della città," and inflicted damage on the "base aerea di Sheppard." It appeared April 5.

"Gli abitanti di Wichita Falls alla TV seguono il ciclone che distrugge la città," blares the headline.

"Our cousin has been to Wichita Falls," said Fidelie, "about three years ago. Now he is a professor at a boy's seminary. He speaks seven languages. Seven!"

Mr. and Mrs. Fidelie are from Pennsylvania, but are of Italian descent.

Pencilled over the picture of the tornado, cousin Fidelie had written, "Is that true?"

"We were sorry to report that it was," said Mrs. Fidelie. "Although the couple suffered no direct damage from the twister, they felt, as all Wichitans did, the misery of natural disaster in their own 'back yard.'"

As assistant District Attorney he has been associated with all branches of law enforcement on local, state and national levels, and in addition to efficiently representing the State of Texas in such matters, he has been able to represent and protect the rights of individuals in all cases.

TIM EYSEN

A graduate of Texas Technological College at Lubbock, Eysen took his law degree at Southern Methodist University in Dallas. He is a member and past secretary of the Wichita County Bar Association and is on the Grievance Prosecuting Committee for the State Bar of Texas in this district. Candidates Face Query From Pastors VERNON, Tex. (Special) — Candidates for state senator and state representative made a bid for backing of religious leaders in two appearances in Vernon Monday.

Vernon Attorney Jack Hightower, a candidate for the state senator post, Vernon Teacher Jim Thomas and W. S. (Bill) Healy of Paducah, incumbent, candidates for state representative, spoke to a group of Baptist leaders at 8 a.m. Monday at the First Baptist Church and at the regular noon Monday meeting of the Ministerial Alliance at Ramada Inn.

Each candidate was asked his views on legalization of parimutuel betting, sale of liquor by the drink, whether a scientific test for driving while intoxicated should be required by law, and whether the state should contribute aid to church related institutions.

Each of three candidates were unanimous in opposing such legislation except that Thomas declined to express an opinion on the aid to education question without further study.

The candidates explained they would oppose the required test for driving while intoxicated as such a law would probably be declared in violation of the fifth amendment of the constitution which states that a person cannot be made to testify against himself.

High Tides Hit Coastal Alaska

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Tidal waters on Monday poured around waterfront buildings and covered beach roads in sunken coastal areas of Alaska's earthquake zone.

No major damage was reported as the spring tides neared April peaks. They will inch higher early Tuesday, then begin to recede.

Flooding of sectors which apparently dropped from three to six feet in the March 27 quake brought new trouble to Alaskans fighting their way back from the Good Friday devastation.

Property owners armed themselves with mops, buckets and brooms to rid buildings of water.

Calm weather was credited with saving the endangered towns of Seldovia, Homer, Kodiak, Seward and Valdez from greater losses from the tidal floods.

Jack English, town judge at Seldovia, on the Kenia Peninsula, said the water was three feet higher than he had ever seen in 40 years there.

Tri-City Group Seeks Link To Coast On Highway 277

The possibility of making U.S. Highway 277 from Wichita Falls to Abilene into a four-lane facility was discussed by delegates from Wichita Falls, Lawton, Okla. and Abilene at a Monday noon meeting in the River Oaks Motel here.

All three cities hope to see many thousands of vehicles coming their way in the near future if an all-weather route to the U.S. west coast is developed.

The four-lane section of the highway between Wichita Falls and Lawton will soon be completed in connection with the expressway-turnpike system linking the two cities.

W. R. (Bob) Gaston, chairman of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce's highway development action group, explained prior to the meeting: "We feel that this is the logical all-weather route to the west. It is never blocked by snow and passes through some fine scenery. Our aim is to persuade the Texas Highway Department to improve the highway between here and Abilene, bearing in mind that the use of this stretch of road is likely to increase rapidly. One must think several years ahead in the matter of highway development."

U.S. Highway 277 meets U.S. Highway 80 in Abilene, which in turn leads to El Paso, through New Mexico, Arizona and on to Los Angeles.

It was decided at the luncheon meeting that the Abilene group would call another meeting in approximately 30 days at some location mid-way between Wichita Falls and Abilene to meet representatives from other cities along the Wichita Falls-Abilene route.

All three groups Monday agreed that a four-lane facility is needed.

Delegates from Lawton included J. C. Kennedy, John B. Doelin, Ned Shepler, Bill Bentley, Wyatt B. Hendrick, Lloyd McClug, Maynard Fuller and Don Ronish.

Representing Abilene were Joe Cooley, Jesse E. Winters and Grover Nelson.

Wichita Falls was represented by a number of area businessmen and chamber of commerce officials.

The rest of the nation will be mostly fair to partly cloudy. (AP Wirephoto Map)

LBJ Honors Women Appointees

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson held a special reception Monday night in honor of 150 of his new women appointees. He said there is "no place for discrimination of any kind in American life."

Johnson arranged for eight women to be sworn into office as part of the festivities.

The oaths were administered by Judge Burnita S. Matthews, the first woman U.S. district judge—an appointee of former President Harry S. Truman.

Johnson said, "There are some days, all too few in number, when being president is all pleasure. Today seems to be one of them."

"I just attended a baseball game and returned to find my house filled with my favorite kind of people."

The guests included women appointees, top women in government posts, their husbands, and women who had helped recommend candidates for top federal jobs.

The Marine band played a medley of tunes that included "There is Nothing Like a Dame," "My Fair Lady," "I'm Gonna Wash that Man Right Out of My Hair," and "The Merry Widow."

Johnson said it had taken nearly 150 years to accept the simple truth of what suffragette Susan B. Anthony used to preach when she said: "It was we the people, not we the white male citizens, nor we the male citizens, but we the whole people, who formed this union."

The President said that his aim in promoting women and picking more women to serve in the administration was to underline "our profound belief that we can waste no talent, we can frustrate no creative power, we can neglect no skill in our search for an open and just and challenging society. There is no place for discrimination of any kind in American life."

Katharine White of Red Bank, N.J., ambassador-designate to Denmark and the top-ranking woman among those sworn in, thanked the President on behalf of his women appointees for the "solemn trust and magnificent opportunity" to assist in the nation's policy-making.

"We women accept this challenge with humility and with enthusiasm," she said.

"If you need glasses, be sure to wear them. There is nothing sissy about remedying an eye defect", according to the National Society for the Prevention of Blindness.

"Guard against eye disease, eyestrain and poor vision with an annual, professional eye examination by a Doctor of Optometry," advises Dr. S. J. Rogers of Texas State Optical.

LBJ Praised By New U.S. Chamber Chief

WASHINGTON (AP)—Trucking executive Walter F. Carey is the new president of the U.S. Chamber of Commerce and he gave guarded praise to President Johnson.

He also softened the tone of the Chamber of Commerce's long-standing campaign for a balanced federal budget.

Carey, 58, of Birmingham, Mich., succeeds the controversial Edwin P. Neilan, Wilmington, Del., banker who conducted a series of sharp attacks on several government works programs during his year in office.

Honorary Position

The customary annual change in officers by the chamber's board of directors moved Neilan to the honorary position of chairman of the board Monday.

Carey said he is looking forward to a conference with Johnson and he commended some of the President's policies without giving full endorsement to the administration.

Carey said at a news conference that one of his broad objectives is "to make the idea of a great business-government partnership less a cliché and more a productive reality."

He spoke of the "generally good climate for business."

In contrast, Neilan said recently that Johnson had exhibited a "false face of economy." However, most of Neilan's fire during the past year was directed at programs such as area redevelopment and urban renewal and he said congressmen, government officials and voters who support them are guilty of immoral conduct.

Some Overspending

Carey said he has "the feeling that there is overspending in some areas," but he added: "I'll have my own way of describing it."

"A balanced federal budget is going to be awfully important in the next few years," he said.

In answer to a question, Carey said he would prefer a balanced budget to a further cut in taxes.

Asked whether he favors the open public accommodations section of the civil rights bill, Carey said, "The objectives are good."

He said he is appointing a task force as soon as possible to study the problems of unemployment and poverty.

Sale Of Surplus Wheat

Carey said he believes most businessmen endorse the sale of U.S. surplus wheat to the Soviet Union, and he said further East-West trade in nonstrategic items is desirable.

He is not a registered member of either major party, Carey said, and he added: "I hope I am not setting an example for other businessmen — I would hope they would be more active" in politics.

He said he had not been active politically in recent years because of the press of business. Carey formally takes office April 29.

Burn Victim Fights For Life At Sealy

Little Carla Roy, seven-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wala Roy, 3203 Avenue R, still is fighting for her life in John Sealy Hospital in Galveston.

Carla was burned over 80 per cent of her body three weeks ago while trying to fight a grass fire which spread into the backyard of her home. As she and her five-year-old sister were attempting to extinguish the blaze, Carla's clothing caught fire.

She has undergone three major operations to graft new skin over the burned areas of her body, each bringing on a new crisis for the young girl who suffered second and third degree burns.

She may yet have to face another operation to restore other burned skin.

should you pamper a Princess?

Depends on which princess — the teenager or the telephone. All teenage princesses — so we're told — glory in a little pampering.

But the Princess® telephone is so well made and trouble free that no pampering is required. Just dust it occasionally or wipe it with a damp cloth.

That, plus a little care in handling, is all the attention any phone needs. And phones almost never need repair—but if something does go on the blink, we'll fix it promptly at no extra charge.

We think it's our job to keep right on improving your telephone service and making it of greater personal value to you.

Quake Rocks Yugoslavia And Hungary

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — An earthquake rolled across northern Yugoslavia and southern Hungary on Monday, shook the capitals of both nations, damaged dozens of towns and villages and sent thousands fleeing in panic.

At least two persons were killed in Yugoslavia and incomplete reports reaching Belgrade told of more than 100 injured, some seriously.

A man also died in Belgrade, apparently of a heart attack induced by the excitement of the shaking earth. He had survived last year's deadly quake in Skopje.

Thousands fled into the streets of Belgrade, which remembers the disaster of the earthquake last July at Skopje that killed more than 1,000. Buildings swayed and some walls cracked. No other damage was reported in Belgrade but schools and many factories and offices closed.

Budapest radio said the Hungarian capital was shaken and reported panic in southern Hungary. Several provincial towns were damaged but there were no casualties, the broadcast added.

The quake also was felt in western Romania but apparently caused no damage.

The Belgrade seismograph station placed the center of the quake about 125 miles west of Belgrade, and the first death was reported in that area: A 13-year-old girl was killed in the collapse of a staircase at a school in Djakovo.

POLLYS POINTERS

Oil In Bath Is Good

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. DEAR POLLY — I found it too expensive to put baby lotion all over my four-month-old baby after each bath and again when we started out into spring winds. I knew she needed some type of oil on her skin, so I put a few drops of baby oil in her bath water and save the complete lotion bath for going out. The oil-in-water treatment does not leave her greasy yet her skin never feels dry and rough.

Another thing I discovered is to hang rubber pants by each leg after they are washed. All the water drips out instead of collecting in the seat.—MRS. R.W.

GIRLS—A few drops of baby oil is also nice for grownups to use in bath water. The skin feels noticeably softer.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — My hint is a painless way to teach little ones the ABC's of good manners and common courtesies. I did not realize my children had picked them up sooner than others until my eldest daughter's kindergarten teacher mentioned how well mannered and courteous she is. Then I noticed how often other neighborhood mothers said that my four-year-old son, who is all boy, remembers to be polite. Say "Thank you" even to a baby and he will pick it up. "Please" is another byword in our home. Another nicety was taught by saying "ladies first" when a batch of cookies was being passed out to the neighborhood children. Our son soon picked up this. Using a soup spoon correctly seems such fun that now the children want soup for lunch every day.—MRS. J. W.W.

DEAR POLLY — My grandfather was ill for several weeks and could not stand the weight of blankets on his legs. We made a tent-like arrangement at the foot of the bed to keep his legs warm without the blankets touching him. He had a reclining hospital bed and a string was tied to the top of the foot rail and a snap clothespin fastened to the string. The clothespin was then snapped to the bed covers to hold them up.—BRENDA

GIRLS — If the bed does not have a footboard, a straight, high backed chair might be turned with the back to the bed and the string attached to it.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — Any woman who must wear surgical hose as I do need not worry about their light color or looks. Just pull a pair of nylon stockings right over the surgical hose. No one can possibly tell you are wearing two pairs and you feel so much better groomed. Wear seamed nylons with seamed surgical hose and seamless with seamless.—VERA

With the burden of this fluid removed, related symptoms of weight gain, headache, low back pain, and nervous tension seem miraculously relieved! No habit-forming narcotics or antihistamines to cause drowsiness. No interference with daily activities at home or at work.

In addition, two analgesics in Cardui Tablets give fast relief from functional monthly cramps and pain. Discover for yourself this remarkable new advance in medication for women. Get Cardui Tablets from your druggist.

What do you do?
A—Bid four hearts. You may wonder what sort of hand your partner has that has suddenly become so strong, but you certainly have everything you have shown so far, plus.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding one no-trump, West responds one spade. North passes and East bids two diamonds. What do you do now?

Answer Tomorrow

is right from every standpoint except that of the actual result. West opens the ten of hearts and South notes that, in spite of the combined total of 28 points between his own hand and dummy, he may be in for some stormy weather.

He wins the trick and promptly leads a diamond in order to finesse dummy's jack. If East is even half way up on his toes, he will let that card hold the trick and save his king of diamonds for later.

Once he makes this simple little duck play, South will be doomed. South will probably try a heart lead to his king first to see if hearts will break 3-3. In that case, South would have nine tricks without having to try a second diamond finesse.

East will drop a small spade on that heart lead and South will abandon that method of attack.

He may refuse to try a second diamond finesse and settle for down one, but he is far more likely to try the finesse and go down two when East produces the king. South will be unable to reach dummy and he has three clubs and two spades yet to lose.

Good Listener

MEMPHIS (AP)—This exchange between two friends who attended a party together at a Memphis home recently helps affirm the opinion that nobody really hears what's said at a reception. "My," said one of the guests of honor, "Isn't she a brilliant conversationalist?" "No doubt," replied her friend dryly. "In her own language. Didn't you know she can't speak a word of English?"

ANN LANDERS SAYS

What's In A Name?

Dear Ann Landers: At last I've found a kindred spirit. The wife who signed her letter, "I Appreciate Him," feels just as I do. Please count me as another happy slob.

I hate housework and I make no secret of it. My husband is a casual person, too. In fact he encourages me to be relaxed about things. He says he got enough of the perfectionist, nit-pickin' routine when he was in the Army.

So, Ann, we really live in our home and it looks it.

Last week a guest found a stale doughnut under a sofa cushion. It must have been there for a month. I was not the least bit flustered. My adorable husband thought it was the funniest thing that had happened in ages.

So, Ann, please print my letter in support of relaxed, tension free living. It's great.—MRS. CONTENTMENT

Dear Mrs. Contentment: Happiness is a stale doughnut under the sofa cushion. Well, I've heard everything. But if that's the way it is at your house and everybody's relaxed — my congratulations and best wishes.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 17, a high school senior, and worried sick. Five months ago I became engaged to a boy I've been going steady with for two years.

Rich is a kind, sweet, wonderful person. I think I love him but as the wedding day draws near I become more unsure and frightened — almost panicky. I have just about decided I am not ready for marriage.

I always dreamed of going to work after high school, saving my money and traveling in Europe. The Orient fascinates me. I want to go there, too. My friends say I am crazy, that I shouldn't give up Rich for a foolish dream that will never come true. I'm so afraid they are right.

yet I hate the thought of getting married and being tied down without ever having seen the world.

Am I dreamer who is searching for glamor? Or am I sensible and realistic?—17

Dear 17: I hope you will recognize your feelings of panic and fright as storm warnings. If Rich is the one for you, he'll be around in two or three years — after you've had a chance to grow up and fulfill some of your ambitions. If he won't wait, then you are lucky to have lost him.

Too bad you can't read the stacks of pathetic mail I get from married teenagers who feel trapped. They'd give anything to turn the calendar back a couple of years and stand at the crossroads — right where you stand now.

Dear Ann Landers: A very good friend of mine came back to the office after a two-week vacation. She looks like a million dollars — after taxes. I could scarcely believe my eyes. In two weeks she lost 14 pounds!

When I asked her how she did it she said, "Easy." It's not WHAT people eat, but the combination of foods that makes them fat. In other words, if you stick to just one food for a 12-hour period you will not put on weight — no matter how much you eat.

This makes a lot of sense to me. Does it to you?—GIRDLED AND JEALOUS

Dear Jealous: No. It's ridiculous. If that "one thing" is a vat of macaroni you won't lose weight. You'll gain.

Fad diets can be dangerous. If you are really interested in losing weight, see your doctor and get his advice.

Ann Landers' frank and informative new book, "Teen-Agers and Sex" ($2.95), is now available at your book store.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of the Wichita Falls Record News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

TO WED—Graham, Tex. (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Lon Hill announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Yvonne, to Ronnie Ley of Espanola, N.M. The wedding will be an event of June 13 at the Bethel Baptist Church in Espanola. They will make their home in Las Cruces.

P.E.O. Has Meeting

FREDERICK, Okla. (Special)—Mrs. John B. Wilson Sr. gave the program at the April meeting of chapter AS, P.E.O., with Mrs. Dent Smith and Mrs. Bob Copeland, co-hostesses. Mrs. O. H. Searcy and Mrs. Joe Horton also participated in the meeting.

Cancer Research Study Reveals Important Facts

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—When you hide under a shady beach umbrella on a hot, sandy shore this summer, ask only that it keep you cooler.

For you could still get 80 per cent of the sunburn you'd receive under the open sky. If you go sailing or fishing on a mountain lake, you need less sunburn protection than on a wide-open bay or the ocean.

These sunburn tips came from new scientific measurements of the effects of the sun's ultraviolet rays. It is the ultraviolet rays that give you a pridelul tan, or painful sunburn. And too much exposure is a prime cause of skin cancer, especially among the Irish and other people.

The cancer danger led Dr. Frederick Urbach and associates of Philadelphia to "dip" the heads of mannikins, or dummies, with special chemicals to give accurate measurements of how much ultraviolet rays hit a person's head and neck under varying conditions of exposure.

The chemical treatment makes the mannikins skin color change from yellow to red, according to the degree of exposure. The mannikins were exposed to the sun on the roof of the Skin and Cancer Hospital of Temple University in tests described by Drs. Urbach, Ronald Davis and P. Donald Forbes.

Dr. Urbach summarized initial results in a report to the American Association for Cancer Research, amplifying in an interview.

The sunburn rays come not only directly from the sun, but from refraction or reflection through the air and terrain, he explained.

That is why, on a sandy beach, the skin burning rays zip right under the umbrella, because sand crystals are good reflectors.

Water reflects only about 5 per cent of the rays, he said. The mannikin studies seek a better understanding of skin cancers which are up to 95 per cent curable when detected early. About three-quarters of skin cancers occur on the head and neck. Outdoor workers, especially in warm, sunny areas, are far more susceptible than the usual season sun bather.

Other plans include a pilgrimage to Chandor Gardens in Weatherford April 25 with departure from the home of Mrs. Sam Cooke, and entering a float in the rodeo parade June 1. "Springtime Forecast" will be the theme, and Mrs. O. L. Hunt will act as general chairman for the float division.

Arrangements in tall, round and square containers were discussed by Mmes. Bill Scobee, Cooke and Franklin Foster, respectively. An arrangement contest begun in September was concluded with Mrs. R. C. Wade exhibiting for the yellow team and Mrs. Douglas Nix exhibiting for the winning green team.

Mmes. Wanda Garrett and Cecil Evans were hostesses.

TO MARRY—Mangum, Okla. (Special)—Mr. and Mrs. Otis Billington announce the approaching marriage of their daughter, Karen, to Robert O'Bannon of Eldorado. Miss Billington is a 1963 graduate of Mangum High School and her fiancé was graduated from Eldorado High School in 1958 and is employed by the Coca-Cola Bottling Company in Altus. The wedding will be early in May.

Volunteers Sought In Greer

MANGUM, Okla. (Special) — Volunteers still are needed to help take an immunization survey of the county in cooperation with the Greer County board of health, according to Mrs. W. T. Paxton, chairman.

Mrs. Paxton said that a total of 60 volunteers is needed, with 30 for the city of Mangum and 30 for the rest of the county. Six hundred homes will be surveyed.

The survey will be taken on Tuesday and Wednesday, April 14-15.

"If you have not been properly immunized against smallpox, tetanus, diphtheria, polio and whooping cough you are not fully protected," Mrs. Paxton said.

The Public Health Service recently received a grant of $161,640 from the federal government to improve the level of immunization in Oklahoma.

To bring about this improvement, however, it is first necessary to find out the present level of protection against these diseases here in the state.

This will be determined by a county-by-county survey such as the one planned here.

Mrs. Paxton pointed out that an immunization clinic is planned after results of the survey are compiled.

Other members of the county board are Mrs. Jack Ford, Granite, Bill Greer, Herman Bottom and Dr. H. H. Leanaburg, all of Mangum.

Believe me, I've cooked on both... and a GAS range is cooler. There's no hang-over heat.

Mrs. Tom Grimes has cooked on both gas and electric ranges and she knows from experience.

When you turn an electric range off—it doesn't get the message right now—like a modern gas range. So you get hangover heat! And who needs it? When you turn off the gas, you turn off the heat. Count on cooler cooking with gas because there is no hangover heat.

Modern, automatic gas ranges are not only cooler—they're cleaner. Because you broil with the broiler door closed. No greasy smoke. A wide choice of new gas ranges is now on sale at your gas appliance dealers. Buy one. The choice won't be easy—because they all look and cook so good!

Johnson Turns Tables On Cincy

★ ANGELS SWAT NATS, 4-0 ★ Double Cancels No-Hit Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ken Johnson, who helped pitch Cincinnati to the 1961 National League pennant, held the Reds to five hits Monday and with ninth inning help hurled the Houston Colts to a season-opening 6-3 victory over his old mates.

When Johnson faltered in the ninth with two out and three runs in, Hal Woodeshick replaced him. A two-run homer by Bob Skinner was the end for Johnson.

Two walks, a wild pitch, an error by Chico Ruiz and a two-run single by veteran Nellie Fox gave the Colts three runs in the fifth.

Houston got three more in the sixth on a single by Rusty Staub and Jim Wynn's home run which were followed by singles by Bob Aspromonte and John Bateman, an error and Eddie Kasko's force for another tally.

A crowd of 28,110 sat in under cloudy skies and few brief sprinkles of rain for the opener. Many had stayed away because of the threatening weather.

After holding the Colts to two hits through the first four innings, Cincinnati's Jim Maloney began to come apart at the seams in the fifth and withered completely in the sixth.

Maloney, a 25-game winner for the Reds in 1963 with a record of better than a strikeout an inning, fanned only two. He walked three and allowed seven hits.

The Reds could get only two hits off Johnson over the first eight innings. When they finally solved him, Woodeshick came in and promptly got catcher Johnny Edwards for the final out on a grounder to Eddie Kasko.

Johnson's troubles came just as many of the fans were beginning to leave.

Chico Ruiz was called out for bunting the ball twice, but Vada Pinson and Frank Robinson followed with sharp singles and Pinson scored on Gordy Coleman's force out.

Skinner followed with his high kick over the center field wall and Woodeshick came to the rescue.

Skinner followed with his high kick over the center field wall and Woodeshick came to the rescue.

Washington starter Claude Osteen managed the only Washington hit, a long fly ball that bounced off the center field fence in the third inning and was good for a double.

The Angels had nine hits, with Adcock, acquired in an off-season deal with Cleveland, leading the way with a double and two singles.

Los Angeles jumped into the lead in the third inning on Billy Moran's single, a walk to Jim Fregosi and Adcock's double that drove in Moran.

They stretched their lead to 3-0 in the fifth on another walk to Fregosi, a single by Adcock, who took second on the throw to third, and a single by Lee Thomas.

The Angels wound up their scoring in the eighth on a triple to center field by catcher Bob Rodgers, who scored on Bobby Knoop's slow roller to first baseman Bill Skowron.

McBride was in command until the seventh inning, when, with one out, he walked two straight men and had a 2-0 count on the third. Navarro came in, completed the third-walk-and-then struck out pinch hitter Dick Phillips and forced Don Blasingame to end the inning with an easy-roller to first base.

For Washington fans, most of the interested centered around the Presidential box, where Johnson sat surrounded by congressional leaders and members of the White House.

The presidential first pitch turned out to be a soft lob that

Finley Complies With Mandate; Plans 'One-Half Pennant Porch'

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Charles O. Finley, fiery Kansas City A's owner, said Monday he'll continue his battle against New York's short homer distances by building a "One-half Pennant Porch" in place of his replica of the right field wall in Yankee Stadium.

"In depression days they used to say it's better to have a half loaf than none at all," Finley said. "Therefore, we'll start at once on a porch starting from the 325-foot line instead of the 296-foot line of the unbeatable Yankees."

Ford Frick, commissioner of baseball, and Joe Cronin, president of the American League, ordered Finley to take down the V-shaped plywood fence. The point of the V is 296 feet from the plate, but just two feet in fair territory. The fence started at the 325-foot mark.

Frick warned the A's games could be forfeited and Finley could be fined for each forfeit. The commissioner declared "there's only one interpretation of the rule and I make that. There's no hearing, no appeal, no nothing."

The outspoken A's owner said he was ordered the porch down because of "their demands and the great respect and admiration I've always had" for their offices. He added it was "almost inconceivable" how these two offices could permit the Yankees such unfair advantages.

"Rules of any game should always be the same for everyone," he said. "Why in the world shouldn't the Yankees be made to put up foul line screens equivalent to the legal home run distance of 325 feet?"

Finley said if Yankee domination continues baseball will need years to regain its prestige — and it could reach the point of no-return. He pointed out the National League outdrew the AL by two million fans last season.

"We in baseball must surround ourselves with modern, aggressive leadership before we lose the title of the national sport," he said.

It might seem to some people, Finley went on, that Yankee Stadium is equally fair for each team in a game, but it's not that simple.

"Yankee pitchers learn how to take advantage and get you to hit it to their vast areas in the outfield," he explained. "Visiting teams play only nine games there, the Yanks 81. They (the visitors) get hurt by the cheap home run because they can't adjust and pitch differently than they do in the other nine parks. I know, because my manager, Ed Lopat, pitched for New York."

Koufax, Ford Get Nod For Defending Champs

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

The favored Los Angeles Dodgers and New York Yankees begin the defense of their league titles Tuesday when the rest of baseball's major leagues follow the lead of Washington and Cincinnati to complete the two-day opening program.

Sandy Koufax, the man of the year in baseball last season with his 25 victories and brilliant World Series, will try to get the Dodgers off on the right foot against the challenging St. Louis Cardinals.

The night game at Dodger Stadium is expected to draw about 50,000 despite the world champs' embarrassing weekend with the Angels.

The Yankees, anxious to bounce away from the gate under new manager Yogi Berra, will send pitcher-coach Whitey Ford against the Boston Red Sox' Bill Mongouquette.

Ralph Houk in his new role of general manager hopes for a turnout of 35,000 for Yogi's debut at Yankee Stadium.

Las Vegas odds quote the Yanks as 2-5 odds-on favorites in the American League and the Dodgers as 6-5 in the National League with the San Francisco Giants, a close up second at 9-5. A poll of baseball writers also picked both the Yank and Dodgers with the same degree of certainty.

If the Yankees are to be beaten, many regard the Minnesota Twins as the best bet. In fact, the Yankees themselves regard the Twins as their most threatening rival.

The Twins with their powerful home run punch open on the road at Cleveland. Despite the loss of Manager Birdie Tebbets for the year due to a heart attack, the Indians are hopeful of betting their position. About 20,000 are due to watch this game.

Detroit also has drawn some pennant support on the strength that added Jerry Lumpe and Don Demeter to the roster. The Tigers expect 35,000 at home when they face the Kansas City A's, who are having pitching and "porch" problems.

Baltimore and Chicago, two more potential rivals of the Yanks at Chicago where the White Sox will unveil another prize rookie in second baseman Don Buford. The Orioles make their first start under Hank Bauer, who has added Norm Siebern and Willie Kirkland to the cast.

The spring training champions, the San Francisco Giants with a 25-6 record, count on 42,000 at Candlestick Park to watch the Giants play the revamped Milwaukee Braves.

The two clubs made a major deal during the winter that sent Felipe Alou and Ed Bailey to the Braves for Bob Hendley, Bob Shaw and Del Crandall. Old dependable Warren Spahn will be shooting for victory No. 351 for the Braves against Juan Marichal, the Giants' ace.

Philadelphia, like Los Angeles, opens at night with the New York Mets as the opposition. The Phils are talking pennant with top flight pitching and the Mets are talking about their new stadium due to open Friday.

The Chicago Cubs and Pittsburgh Pirates meet at Forbes Field. The Cubs hope second baseman Jim Stewart can take over the job of the late Ken Hubbs and count on Billy Cowan, a rookie from Salt Lake City, to play center field.

Pittsburgh expects improvement from the 1963 cast, particularly Bob Bailey and Donn Clendenon.

The "second" openers will stretch from April 15 to April 22 when St. Louis and Milwaukee finally will bow in at home.

Postmark Time

The Post Office Department, whose annual operating deficits are as regular an event as the blossoming of the cherry trees around the Tidal Basin, is usually fair game for criticism concerning its service to the public.

The public but an important aid to many businesses and in many legal processes, as well as a necessity for election officials validating absentee ballots (which must be mailed by specified times.)

One also wonders what mail-contest judges will do when, in the event of a tie, the entry with the earliest postmark will be the winner.

Rep. Sibal protested to the Post Office Department "to no avail" and could not even find out how much money the alleged economy move was supposed to save.

LBJ Delegates Work

By BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Notwithstanding the image of President Lyndon Johnson rampant on a field of telephone wire, it is being suggested in some quarters that the White House today is much less an "influential presence" in the capital than under the late John F. Kennedy.

These comments pertain not to impact on the Congress but on the various departments and agencies of government. Under Kennedy, the White House hand was felt in many places. Under Johnson, say these sources, it is not.

Whether this is good or bad evidently depends on the view one takes of the White House role in the modern bureaucracy.

The late President and some of his most trusted associates were said to feel that the great bureaucratic glacier could not be moved into necessary new channels without heavy, thrusting pressures from the White House.

Symbol of that pressure was Kennedy picking up the telephone and asking some mid-range State Department officer what he meant on page 230 of department document 6402. Inquiries like that, supplemented by a cease of provocative memos from his desk, sent quivers through the department's quiet inner core.

Kennedy and his group felt that State and Defense were in especial need of producing. At Defense, Secretary McNamara largely did their work for them. State was a tougher case.

Difficulties did not wholly dismay them. White House attitudes and purposes were steadily communicated to many agencies. The presidential establishment intervened in disputes. It functioned almost as a kind of fourth branch of government, with supracabinet officers providing major guidance.

The evidence of change is still fragmentary, but it does seem to be real.

A thoughtful Washington lawyer whose firm does constant business with three major government agencies says that the White House hand just is not there any more. Others he knows agree.

He happens to be one who thinks such guidance is good, and that the agencies suffer in not having it.

A source closer to the seat of power says Johnson sends State virtually no challenging memos. This man indicates that the department is "off the alert" and, by his measure, plodding ponderously along.

He also blames the long internal harangue over details of the antipoverty fight on lack of a White House figure authorized to set ground rules and knock heads together.

There are some signs the new President may look upon such White House overlordship as both meddlesome and unwise, that he wants his cabinet officers and agency heads to be masters in their own houses.

Ample testimony exists that he sees key government heads somewhat more often than did John Kennedy, that he relies upon them directly to get the job done, rather than employing his White House staff as prod and overseer.

Some index of the Johnson approach may be had from a close adviser who, talking of Kennedy's habit of telephoning subordinate State Department officials, said:

"I don't think that really achieves much. All that happens is that they stop concentrating on their own minutiae and attend to yours. There is no net gain in motion."

Atomic Water Plant

By ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — There should be a minimum of shilly-shallying by the Johnson Administration in acting on a spectacularly exciting report by a scientific task force urging the use of nuclear power to convert sea water into fresh water.

This is something just as important as Johnson's war on poverty, foreign aid and the building of nuclear bombs. The shortage of water already has become an international problem which could lead to war in several areas around the world. It is a problem that long has plagued California and the Southwest and, more recently, New York City.

According to the task force's conclusions, reached after a year-long study, a nuclear plant that could be built by 1975 would produce enough cheap fresh water to supply three million people and enough low-cost electricity to meet the needs of up to two million people. The cost of such a plant would be a piddling $740 million — less than one-third of the present foreign aid budget, and less than one-fiftieth of the defense bill.

The plant would produce 620 million gallons of water and 1.4 million kilowatts of power a day. It would cost 30 cents to produce 1,000 gallons of water, a figure comparable to the cost of carrying water from Northern to Southern California under the California Water Plan. Cost of the power produced would be half that of the cheapest power now available in the United States.

It is a fascinating opportunity the task force report offers. The plant would produce so much heat that just the waste heat could be used to warm a stretch of ocean 40 miles long and a mile wide. It could be used to dissipate smog in cities like Los Angeles.

Research indicates that the flash distillation process is the most promising method of taking the salt out of sea water. But this requires tremendous amounts of energy which only the nuclear monster can produce economically. Several desalting plants operated by the Interior Department have not yet reduced the costs of producing fresh water to a practical level. The fact is that desalting becomes practical only if done on a large scale, and nuclear energy offers the only means of operating such a large-scale project.

Southern California could use such a nuclear plant right now. The State's population is increasing at the rate of 1 1/2 million every five years and it desperately needs more sources of both water and power. Water from the Gulf of California could be desalted for use in Arizona and Texas, and a desalting plant on Long Island could supply freshwater to the New York metropolitan area.

The study indicates it would cost the U.S. government about $300 million to develop both nuclear power and water desalting technology to the point where such a plant would be feasible. But it envisions private financing of the plant, with the plant's cost recovered in 30 years.

This is a project that makes sense both economically and in terms of human needs. Roger Revelle, dean of research at the University of California, calls nuclear energy "a solution in search of a problem." The frightening statistics on the world-wide water shortage show that this monster, for too long employed to create the tools of mass murder, need look no further for that problem.

Pentagon Refutes MacArthur Interview

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — It's too bad that the old soldier who was laid to rest last week authorized those two bitter interviews regarding the Korean War. Both President Truman, who had some reason to dislike General MacArthur, and President Eisenhower, who didn't speak to him during the war years, had forgotten the past and paid him personal tribute.

But the posthumous interviews, in which MacArthur tried to write history the way he thought it should be, not the way it was, have now opened old wounds. They have also opened some hitherto confidential files in the Pentagon.

These files, plus other conversations with the old soldier, show that in his latter years, sitting high in the Waldorf Tower, he was a bitter, brooding man; brooding over the last battle he fought which ended in his summary retirement.

He continued so bitter that in the summer of 1960 he told one distinguished diplomat: "Eisenhower was always weak, even as a young officer." And, regarding the young senator who was later to become President, he said: "I remember Kennedy when he was PT boat commander in the Pacific. He should have been court-martialed. Those PT boats carried only one torpedo. They were under orders to fire and then get out. They were defenseless. Kennedy hung around, however, and let a Japanese destroyer mow him down. When I heard about it I talked to his superior officer. He should have been court-martialed."

Secret Bombing Deal
When you're sitting all alone in a hotel room, with a long vista of years to look back on, it's only natural that memory becomes dim and history is mentally rewritten. However, the real history of the Korean War, as shown in the files of the Pentagon proves the contrary of General MacArthur's memory.

And since the reputation of other military men, plus a former President of the United States, is at stake; and since many people have blamed Truman for refusing to permit bombing north of the Yalu River, this column will undertake to report from the Pentagon files.

They show three points which Gen. MacArthur either ignored or forgot:

- 1. There was a secret agreement with the Chinese Communists that we would not bomb north of the Yalu River and they in turn would not bomb south of the 38th Parallel.
2. The Chinese Air Force alone

had 2,000 planes, twice the force we had committed to Korea; and the Russians had an even bigger air armada massed in the Far East. This made the bombing agreement attractive to the United States.

American troops and supplies were confined to a concentrated area in Korea. This was a much easier target to hit than the vast plains of Chinese Manchuria or Siberia. If we had bombed Siberia, furthermore, it would have touched off World War III.

Here is a confidential statement from Pentagon files, made by the late Gen. Hoyt Vandenberg, then chief of staff of the Air Force, a nephew of the late Sen. Arthur Vandenberg of Michigan, a top leader of the Republican Party.

"We of the Air Force," he said, at a secret briefing not previously declassified, "have been concerned about the rising number of Russian twin-jet light bombers known as IL-28's. These jet light bombers have already been introduced into the Chinese Air Force, and the number is growing rapidly."

"If committed in quantity against U.S. airfields, ports, and supply lines in South Korea, these high-performance bombers could quickly jeopardize our whole position there ..."

"The situation in Korea is a special one such as never has occurred before and is not likely to occur again. Because of the peculiar circumstances of the Korean war, which are familiar to all of us, neither side has made full use of its airpower. We have not attacked enemy air bases, and the enemy has not attacked ours. We have not attacked the sources of his reinforcements and supplies, and he has not attacked ours ..."

"They have made no effort whatever against our bases in Korea and Japan, despite their superior strength in aircraft. Their ability to damage us grows every day as they introduce more and more jet light bombers into the Chinese Air Force."

Other data inside the Pentagon showed that American and UN forces in Korea were dependent on the single port of Pusan which was choked with shipping and very vulnerable to bombing attack. Our supply lines — one rail line and three highways — were equally vulnerable. The blunt truth was that a few communist air raids could have cut our forces off almost completely from their supplies.

This fact could not be published to refute MacArthur's criticism and still has not been declassified.

On the other hand, a target survey of Manchuria made by the air force during the Korean War showed only a dozen targets worth hitting. Most of these were in the staging areas, and neither as strategic or as vulnerable as our centers in South Korea.

Yet Gen. MacArthur, brooding in the Waldorf Tower to Jim Lucas and Bob Considine ten years ago, claimed he could have won the Korean War in ten days if given a free hand.

"The enemy's air (power) would first have been taken out," the old soldier was quoted as saying. "I would have dropped 30 to 50 atomic bombs on his air bases and other depots strung across the neck of Manchuria." Much of the secret story of the Korean War still remains to be told. How the bombing agreement was made with the Chinese and how MacArthur's intelligence proved faulty will be reported in an early column.

Allen-Scott Report

Wallace Is Just Started

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

And PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON — Alabama's Governor George Wallace is setting his political sights a lot higher than most Democratic party leaders and politicians realize.

By the time the Democratic national convention convenes in Atlantic City in August, the mild-speaking segregationist seeks to roll up one million votes in presidential primaries throughout the nation.

While publicly working to crystallize the opposition against civil rights legislation, Wallace's private political objective is to pile up this impressive vote total in Indiana (May 5) and Maryland (May 19), where his name is on the ballot, and from "write-ins" in Illinois (April 14), Massachusetts (April 28), Nebraska (May 12) and Oregon (May 14).

Wallace and his supporters are shooting for a "Lodge-type" surprise "write-in" in Oregon since this is the only primary where President Johnson's name appears on the ballot.

They are stressing that a sizable Oregon vote, along with impressive showings in other states, could have a major impact on the coming Democratic convention — especially the choice of the vice presidential candidate and the platform.

In private backstage talks since the Wisconsin primary, Wallace is personally expressing confidence that his million-vote goal is well within his grasp.

He argues that his campaign strategists in Maryland and Indiana report political conditions very similar to Wisconsin, where he reaped over 260,000 votes. His plans are to pick up the remainder of his million votes from "write-ins" in other states.

Wallace even hints that if his views are disregarded at the convention, he may be forced to bolt and form a third party designed to attract voters favoring his states' rights views.

The Wallace Iceberg

Although no announcement was ever made, Wallace set his vote goal last September, basing it on the receipt of more than 1,300,000 "favorable" letters the past two years in his fight against the administration's civil rights proposal.

Originally Wallace planned to enter primaries in California, Wisconsin, Maryland and Indiana since most of his mail outside the South came from those states. California was mysteriously dropped from the list after Wallace conferred with Governor "Pat" Brown in Washington during the Kennedy funeral.

While neither Wallace nor Brown will reveal what they discussed, one of Wallace's political advisers said the Alabama Governor ruled out California on the basis of these talks, despite the fact that more "favorable" mail came from that state than any other.

Wallace hopes to score big in Maryland since neither Governor Millard Tawes nor Senator Daniel Brewster, who jumped into the presidential race after a call from President Johnson, has taken Wallace's bid seriously.

Until jolted by the Wisconsin primary results, Governor Tawes had limited his campaigning to "ducking" Wallace whenever he came into the state to campaign.

On Tawes' orders, state highway patrolmen escorting Wallace are making private reports on Wallace's campaign activities. One recent report noted the similarity of Wallace's dark eyebrows to those of former Vice President Nixon.

voters in both Maryland and Indiana. In one instance, he spent a half hour talking to a former supporter of Senator Estes Kefauver. Unable to convince him to join his campaign, the Governor asked his wife to come to the phone to try to win him over.

In order to help Senator Brewster, the White House is offering both money and campaign workers from the Democratic National Committee to line up voters for the pro-Johnson slate of delegates headed by the Maryland senator.

Political Flashes

Robert M. Mullen, chairman of the "Draft Lodge for President Committee," is forecasting a victory similar to that in New Hampshire for the former-GOP presidential candidate in Oregon's May 15 primary. Mullen is so confident that he is writing Republican state chairmen and national committee members, urging them to await the outcome of the primary before making known their preference.

Mullen, a Washington, D.C. public relations man with offices in New York and abroad, earned his political wings barnstorming the country for former President Eisenhower before the 1952 convention ... Senator Edwin Mechem, R-N.M., who at San Francisco will head his state's delegation pledged to Senator Barry Goldwater, is privately saying that Governor Scranton, Pa., is his second choice. However, he feels that a Goldwater victory in the California primary will make him hard to stop ... Democratic senatorial candidates are quietly being urged to play up their party connections rather than issues in the coming campaign. That's the frank advice given them by Representative Norris Udall, D-Ariz., during a recent campaign "school." "People don't vote on issues but the party," Udall reported. "Candidates should use issues only for something to talk about. Stress your party associations."

Inside Report

Barry Gaining

By ROWLAND EVANS

And ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — Sen. Barry Goldwater, whose chance for the Presidential nomination was pronounced dead by professional politicians weeks ago, may have been the victim of premature burial.

In a hard-boiled reassessment of the fight for the nomination, a few Republican politicians have come to these conclusions: Goldwater never really has been stopped. To the contrary, he is still very much the man to beat. His chances for the top prize now are assessed at around 50-50 — perhaps even better. More important, Goldwater's foes today have no clear-cut plan for stopping him. This is his vital asset.

Anti-Goldwater forces still are relying on the prospect of a convention deadlock between Goldwater and Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. But if Goldwater beats Rockefeller in the June 2 California primary, as now seems likely, Rockefeller is finished. Goldwater could enter the convention with perhaps 530 votes (only 100 less than is necessary for nomination) and nobody else even a close second.

How has Goldwater managed to stay out front, considering his disastrous performance in the New Hampshire primary a month ago?

For one thing, the Byzantine feuding within the Goldwater-for-President headquarters in Washington has subsided. A little of the toughness and audacity of the "Draft Goldwater" organization a year ago has returned to the Goldwater campaign.

But Goldwater's worst liabilities remain! Since Nov. 22, it's rare to find a Republican politician who gives him a chance to beat President Johnson. His Southern-oriented victory formula was nullified by Lyndon B. Johnson's presence in the White House.

Accordingly, many nominal Goldwater delegates are looking for an alternative. One Southern county chairman is typical. He would like to switch to Richard Nixon or Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania if only he saw a visible sign that other delegates would go with him.

The real source of Goldwater's resurgence, in other words, is that his is the only show in town. Despite his astounding showing in the polls and the prospect of another primary victory in Oregon May 15, Henry Cabot Lodge is without delegates and party support. Nixon has no base of support and no delegate strength. Friends have been unable to arouse public interest in Scranton. Rockefeller has been a political invalid since the New Hampshire debacle.

Moreover, state party leaders are finding it difficult to keep delegations uncommitted against single-minded Goldwater activists. Gov. John Anderson of Kansas is in that category. Because of his efforts to keep Kansas uncommitted, Goldwater men are trying to keep Anderson off his own state's convention delegation.

All of which makes it clear that Goldwater is far from dead today. He is surely stopped if Rockefeller manages an upset in California. If not, Goldwater's foes will have the difficult political problem of driving delegates away from Goldwater — possibly to Lodge, more probably to Nixon or (if he remains available to a draft) Scranton.

Uncoordinated Nixon activity keeps popping up here and there. Two young lawyers in Springfield, Ill., have been trying to promote a Nixon write-in against Goldwater in the Illinois primary next Tuesday (April 14.) Local Nixon men are quietly trying to deflect the Goldwater activists in Virginia and Tennessee.

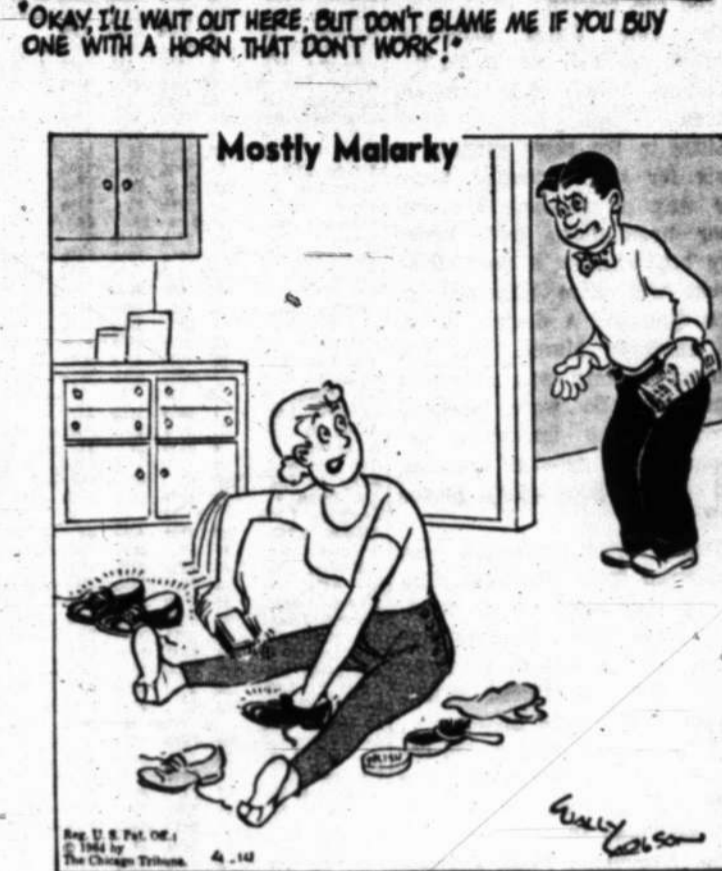

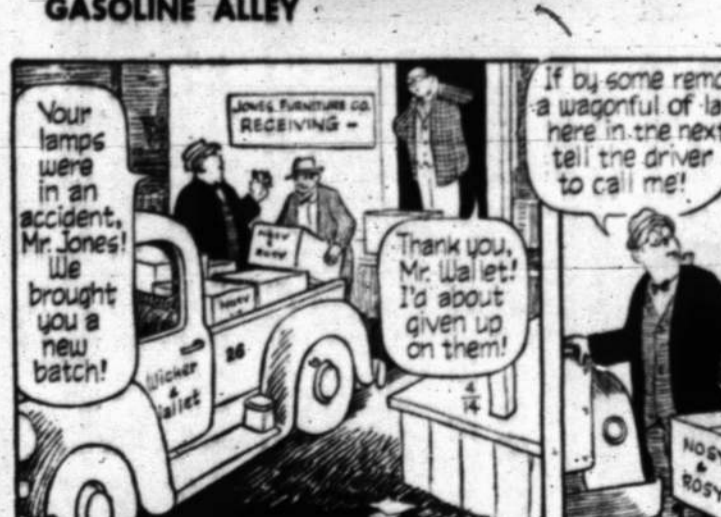

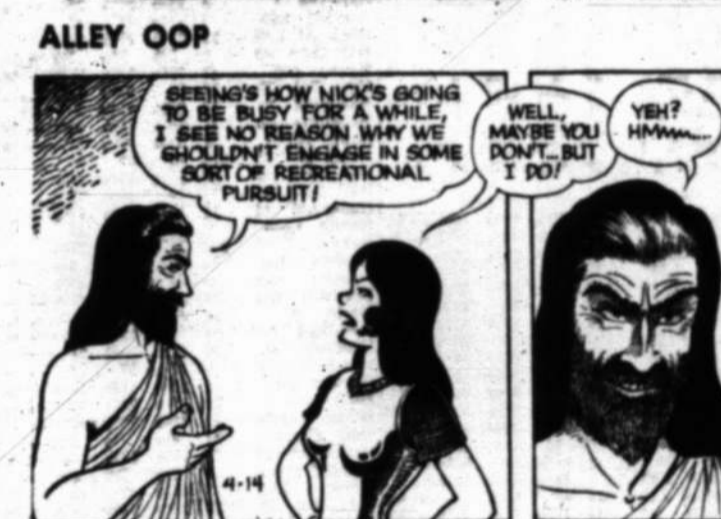

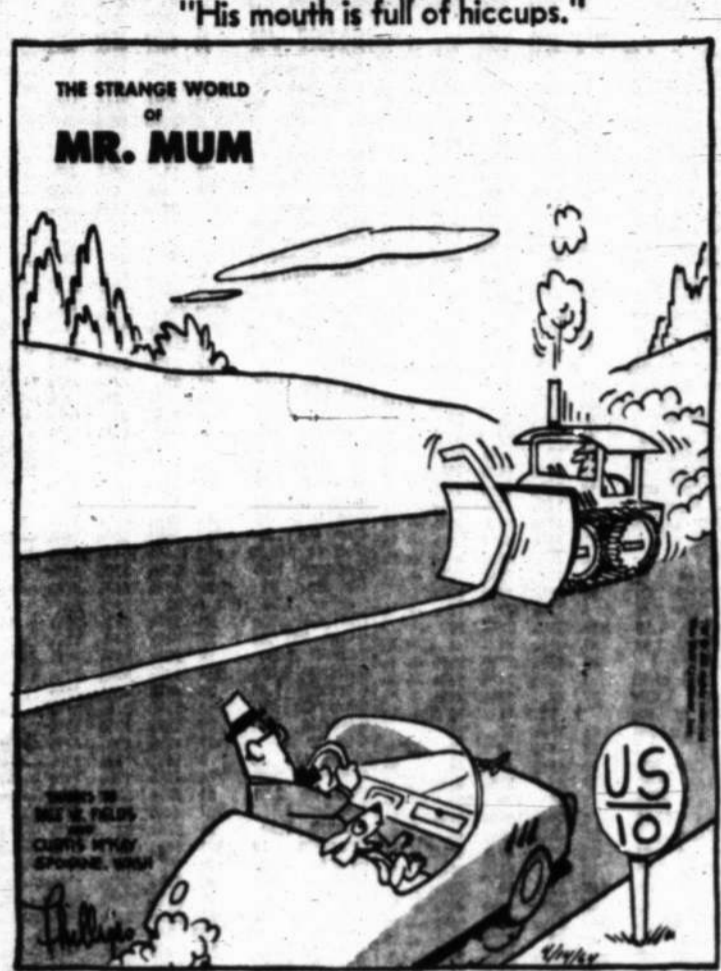

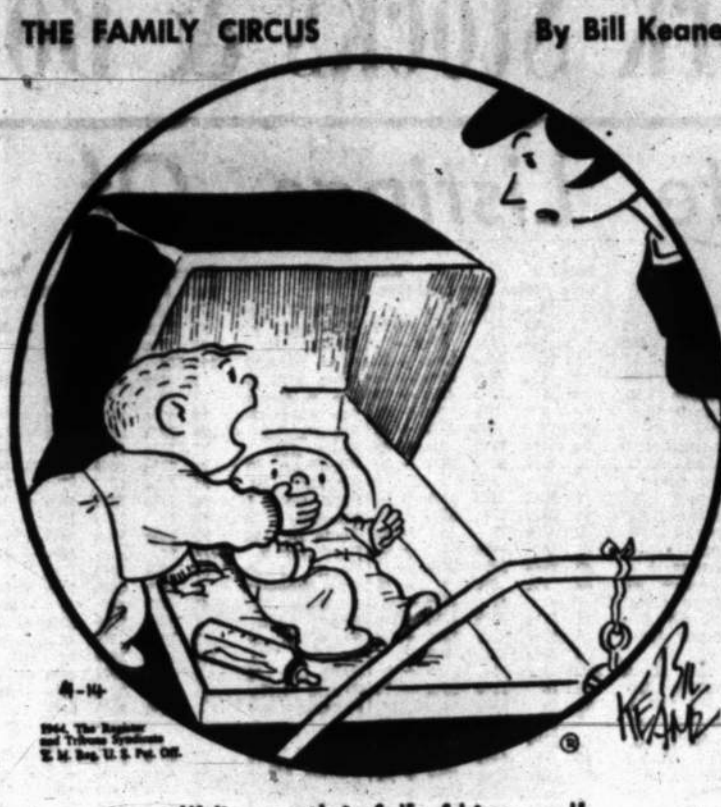

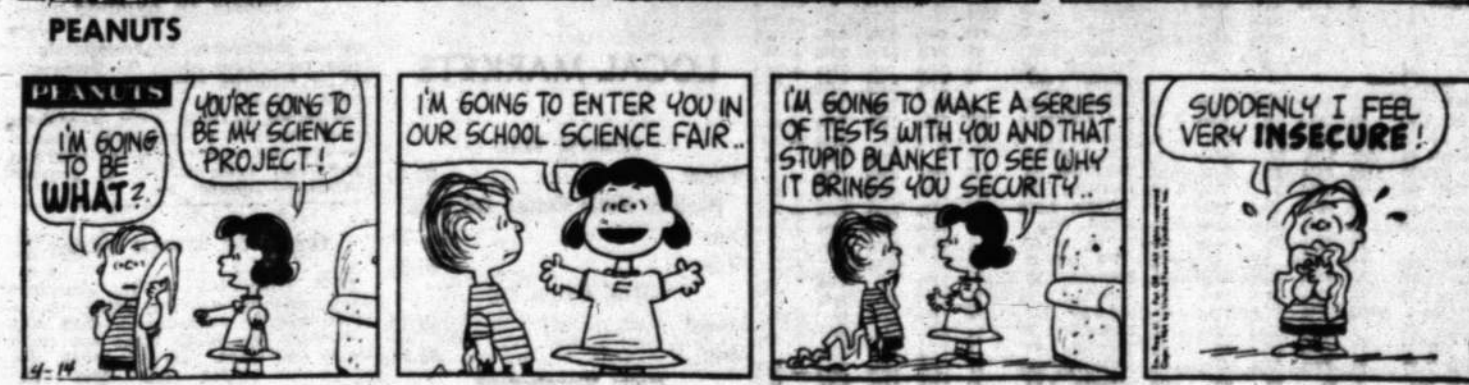

Of course, this sort of thing can't really hurt Goldwater. What veteran politicians agree would hurt him is an anti-Goldwater movement led by a party leader with great prestige among party workers in many states and control over a good-sized package of delegates.

Only one man snugly fits this description: Ray Bliss, the veteran Republican State Chairman in Ohio. Bliss, no Goldwater man, is privately inclined toward Nixon or possibly Scranton. But whether he would risk leading a national stop-Goldwater drive is questionable.

That the basic education is the directing of growth — mental, physical and spiritual, and outlined a list of "bees" for educators.

"First of all, be concerned," the speaker urged, "next be prepared and understanding." Other "bees" were be personal, be firm, fair, friendly and forgiving, be professional, be persistent and resourceful and be exemplary.

"The most important thing for you to remember," Grooms noted, "is that as professional educators and board members, we are people working with people to live more abundantly in a world made for people."

Speed Needed
In closing, Grooms said

"We must remember that if we delay the improving of our educational program and instruction, we are missing the best years of some child's childhood . . . years that can never be replaced." The speaker was introduced by Dr. Joe B. McNeil, superintendent of schools.

Dr. Lois Martin, incoming president of the Wichita Falls Teachers Association, presented Joe K. Reed, retiring president and master of ceremonies, a president's pin from members of the association.

Dr. McNeil introduced board members and other guests.

Thomas Shaw, choral director at Wichita Falls High School, conducted a sing-a-long, and Mrs. Harold Crossin, a music teacher at Alamo School, presented musical selections. Mrs. Karel Johnson, Fa School, provided dinner music.

Woman Strangled In Boston Area

NORWOOD, Mass. (AP)—A 63-year-old mother of three was found strangled in her bed Monday and after an investigation authorities refused to call it a slaying.

The victim was Goldie Fine, described as a sickly person who was scheduled to undergo an operation for eye cataracts next week.

Medical Examiner Joseph A. King said after an autopsy that Mrs. Fine "died of asphyxiation by ligature with two silk stockings around her neck."

He added that his examination could not determine how the stockings were placed around the neck.

Police Chief James M. Murphy said there were no signs of molestation or marks of violence on the woman's body. He added that there was no evidence of forced entry into the residence or signs of a struggle.

Norwood, a town of about 25,000 in Norfolk County, is 12 miles southwest of Boston.

Perkins Lecturer Says Love Wins Battles Of The Spirit

By NATHAN FAIN
A modern application of lessons drawn from the Biblical story of David and Goliath was advanced by Rev. A. P. Tremlett, a prominent London vicar, in his fourth lecture delivered from First Methodist Church this week.

Demonstrators Plead Innocent

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The 226 civil rights demonstrators arrested over the weekend for sit-ins at automobile agencies pleaded innocent Monday, demanded jury trials, and had their cases continued to Friday.

Twenty attorneys were on hand to represent them.

There were too many defendants to enter the courtroom of Municipal Judge Clayton Horn at one time. He had them separated into four groups.

Actor Sterling Hayden was among the demonstrators who had to be carried to police wagons.

The charges against the 226 included unlawful assembly and resisting arrest.

Speaking at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Rev. Tremlett appeared as a guest of the Perkins Lectures, a foundation begun for the church by the late J. J. Perkins and Mrs. Perkins of Wichita Falls.

"There are three very valuable thoughts to be gleaned from the parable of David and Goliath," began the vicar.

Memory
"First, the memory of past deliverance gave David the strength to overcome such a formidable adversary as Goliath. He told King Saul not to fear for him because he was small and unarmed. God was with him, and he needed no other armor, because on occasion God had delivered him from a lion and a bear."

"Memory is an extraordinary powerful thing," said the vicar, "and we can face life, no matter what our secret worries, if we recall God's individual love for us personally."

Hopeless Odds
"Second, the apparently hopeless odds against David made his victory all the more dramatic."

"Just think, the sheer, enormous weight of communism's number: how small, how ineffective!

the Church is. Think of the cruelty and lust of materialism. Yet David triumphed because God was with him."

Faith Alone
"And third, David won his battle because he fought, not with Saul's heavy sword and armor, but with his faith alone."

"I am personally suspicious of a movement, in England called 'Moral Re-Armament,' which tries to wage a war of spiritualism with the weapons of materialism — publicity and slogans."

"I am opposed to this sort of thing. Please, please don't try to fight battles of the spirit with weapons of the earth. Christ fought his battle—with a gospel of love, and won it. He won it dying on the cross."

The Crucified
Ending his brief but powerful lecture, the vicar said: "He won it with a sling of a crucified body; with the stone of an empty tomb."

Preceding the Perkins Lecturer was a vocal solo by Max Kreutz. "Let Not Your Hearts Be Troubled."

Dr. H. H. Hollowell, pastor of First Methodist Church, presented Rev. Tremlett.

Next lecture for the British clergyman is at 10 a.m., Tuesday in the church, when he will speak on "Christ and Three Men." The public is invited to attend.

Boards And Bees

Speaking on "The Boards and the Bees," Grooms said there are biological, psychological and philosophical factors for school board members, administrators and teachers to consider in the education of children. "We often tend to over emphasize the biological facts," the speaker stated, "when they should be combined with psychological and philosophical facts in order to make life the rewarding and abundant experience for the students that it should be."

Grooms related to the group.

Woman Strangled In Boston Area

NORWOOD, Mass. (AP)—A 63-year-old mother of three was found strangled in her bed Monday and after an investigation authorities refused to call it a slaying.

The victim was Goldie Fine, described as a sickly person who was scheduled to undergo an operation for eye cataracts next week.

Medical Examiner Joseph A. King said after an autopsy that Mrs. Fine "died of asphyxiation by ligature with two silk stockings around her neck."

He added that his examination could not determine how the stockings were placed around the neck.

Police Chief James M. Murphy said there were no signs of molestation or marks of violence on the woman's body. He added that there was no evidence of forced entry into the residence or signs of a struggle.

Norwood, a town of about 25,000 in Norfolk County, is 12 miles southwest of Boston.

Twenty attorneys were on hand to represent them.

There were too many defendants to enter the courtroom of Municipal Judge Clayton Horn at one time. He had them separated into four groups.

Actor Sterling Hayden was among the demonstrators who had to be carried to police wagons.

The charges against the 226 included unlawful assembly and resisting arrest.
