SPENCE AND FRUECHTE IN RUN-OFF

Moody, Mayfield and Miller Maintain Primary Leads

LATE RETURNS FAIL TO MAKE BIG CHANGES

Connally Keeps Close Behind Mayfield For Senate

MAJORITY FOR MOODY

Love Poor Second To Miller; Parnell Loses Out

Moody, majority of 107,116 over three opponents.

Mayfield, 188,813; Connally, 146,-264.

A total of approximately 700,-000 votes were cast.

DALLAS, July 29. (TEXAS ELECTION BUREAU)—Sunday's returns from Saturday's primary merely swelled the totals of various candidates on the state ticket without materially altering their relative positions. The figures in the races for senator and governor disclose that more than 40,000 who voted for Governor scratched all six candidates for the senate.

The only upset of Saturday night's indications was on the congressional ticket where Wright Patman of Texarkana took the lead over Eugene Black of Clarksville, incumbent. All counties in the district have been heard from but none are complete. Patman's lead, however, seems to be safe.

Places Assured

The following candidates on the following seem to be safely nominated: First district, Wright Patman; second district, J. C. Box; fifth district, Hatton W. Summers; seventh district, Clay Stone Briggs; eleventh district, O. H. Cross.

The race is close but all the counties have been heard from and three are complete in the eleventh district.

Fifteenth district, John Garner.

Sixteenth district, Claud Hudspeth.

Eighteenth district, Marvin Jones.

In the seventeenth district, R. Q. Lee of Cisco and T. P. Perkins of Mineral Wells are expected to go into the August run-off, with Lee the high man.

Only one of the three contests for places on the courts of civil appeals have been determined. Justice Edward W. Smith has defeated Covey W. Thomas in the fourth district.

In the sixth district it is probable the official count will be necessary to determine the result.

Around 100 votes separate Justice R. B. Levy and J. N. Williams. In the Eleventh district Justice O. C. Funderburk will likely go into the run-off with B. W. Patterson.

Returns to the Texas election bureau at 12 p. m. from 236 out of 253 counties in the state, including 53 complete, show the following totals for candidates in Saturday's Democratic primary election:

ROAD VICTIM MAY RECOVER

San Benito Man Better After Shooting

Special to The Record News.

HASKELL, July 29.—Hope is held today for the recovery of Edward Smith, 34, of San Benito, who was shot, on the Haskell-Weinert highway, Saturday by an irate motorist who seemed to believe he should have been given more of the road by the car in which Smith was riding.

Smith was taken to the sanitarium at Stamford where reports late Sunday were hopeful that he woul dlive. At first it was thought there was small chance for his recovery.

Two shots were fired. One entered his mouth and the other entered his back. The physicians had not probed for the bullet in his back Sunday evening because of the patients condition.

Clyde Grisson, district attorney of Haskell, said Sunday that every effort is being made to trail the gunman, but that no arrests had been made.

Smith and several other men had been given a ride by an Oklahoma car as they were walking along the roadside. The driver of their car had turned out of the road to allow a large car to pass just before reaching Weinert. After passing through Weinert, the small car in which Smith was riding passed the large car parked by the roadside. Immediately the large car started after the little one, and as it caught up, one of the men in it fired twice into the small car. Both shots struck Smith, who since the shooting has been in such a serious condition that it has been impossible to question him.

DRYS FEAR AL WILL INITIATE CANADA'S PLAN

Smith Opponents Start Berating Plan Before Al Speaks Out

Church Leaders Lead In Spreading Word Of 'Failure'

By CHARLES S. HAYDEN
Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 29.—The experiment Canada is now making for control of liquor through a government monopoly may figure in the presidental campaign this year. It is known that some of Governor Smith's friends believe it offers the solution to the prohibition problem and, doubtless are urging him to come out for it.

Possibly in anticipation of some such action on his part the prohibition leaders are making a drive to convince voters in this country that the Conadian system has proven a failure. The board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, one of the groups sponsoring the anti-Smith movement in the South, has undertaken to show that the Canadian experiment is a failure. This organization issues a weekly clipsheet devoted largely to editorial denunciations of Governor Smith and its interpretation of his views on the liquor question. Interpreted with this, in a recent issue, appears various items dealing with the Canadian experiment.

More Bootlegging Charged

Quoting from a circular issued by the Buffalo (N. Y.) citizens' committee of 10,000 for law enforcement it is declared that "Some Canadians are discovering that instead of liquor being controlled by the government, the government is being controlled by liquor." It charges large increases in consumption of "hard" liquor and even an increase in "bootlegging" since the legal sale of liquor was resumed under government monopoly. No explanation is given for the latter assertion, which is contrary to the general idea as to government control, but Canadian authorities for it are cited.

According to statements contained in this circular increased sales of beer and wine have been accompanied by increased consumption of ardent spirits as well. This, if true, also would tend to refute claims advanced when the Canadian adopted the dispensary system, it being contended that if the milder beverages were available it would reduce the demand for "hard" liquor.

There is considerable doubt here that Governor Smith would give his approval of the adoption of the Canadian system in this country and it is questionable whether it could be done in the face of the language contained in the 18th amendment. Some high authorities, however, among them Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, the leading Republican "wet," have indicated a belief that it could be done and that liquor, either manufactured by the government or under its licenses, could be sold through government dispensaries and under restrictions which would minimize the evil.

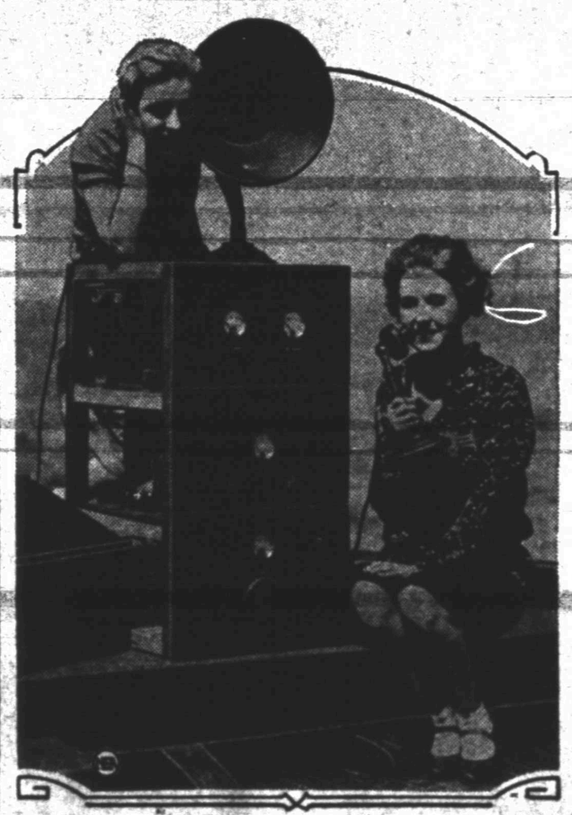

Hangs On Hoover

Of course the extent to which the prohibition issue will figure in the campaign depends in a measure upon how "dry" Secretary Hoover proves himself to be in his speech of acceptance. Many Republicans here are hoping he dismisses it with scant attention. They point out that regardless of what he may say he will be the champion of the "drys" and will get the votes of all who might be influenced by this issue. On the other hand they urge a clear cut and definite "dry" pronouncement will make it difficult to carry many industrial centers on which the Republicans have relied for victory in the past.

Eight Freight Train Bums Burn To Death When Gasoline Cars Blaze

Train of 27 Cars Bursts Into Flames When Wreck On Burlington Jolts Cargo

GUERNSEY, Wyo., July 29. (AP)—Eight unidentified men were burned to death in a spectacular freight train wreck on the Burlington railroad here today.

The eight men were beating their way in an empty box car and were trapped when gasoline from wrecked tank cars ignited.

Tank cars comprised the greater part of the train of 27 cars and flaming gasoline spread from the wreck down the Platte river for several miles, causing the river to appear as if it were on fire.

So badly were the bodies of the eight men burned that authorities believed they would never be identified. Some of the bodies were virtually cremated, they said.

Railroad officials expressed the opinion that the wreck was caused by loosening of the road bed by cloudbursts which occured last night.

CONVICT BLAST VICTIMS DYING

Two of 23 Prisoners Dead After Explosion

HOUSTON, July 29. (AP)—Two prisoners of 23 trapped in a death house Saturday night when flames swept hrough the west dining room of Blue Ridge state prison farm No. 2, near here, died Sunday in Houston hospitals from burns. Four others, burned almost beyond recognition, are not expected to live.

The dead are:

Floyd Pinson, who was serving a 10 year term for burglary, and William Key. The dying are Jesse Dalley, Henry Rivieres, E. Mercer and W. B. Hale. Seventeen others were burned seriously, but are expected to live.

Door Locked

Saturday night, 56 white prisoners were on the farm and a number of Mexican trusties trooped to the dining room for the regular weekly movie performance. The only door to the room was secured with a padlock.

A news reel had been shown and a comedy was flashed on the screen. The men were laughing when one of the convicts attempted to light a forbidden cigaret. The match broke and he blazing end fell into an open film container.

A deafening explosion was followed by a flash of livid flame. Laughter turned to cries of horror as the prisoners stampeded for the exit. Another blast came as a second film container exploded and flames swept through the frame structure.

Men Horribly Burned

Twenty-three men, who had been sitting between the projection machine and the door, and who were packed near the exit, were burned horribly. Flames licked about their bodies and ignited their rough prison clothing as they shrieked, cursed and prayed.

So tightly was the rocking mass of tortured humanity pressed against the door, it defied frantic efforts of guards to remove the lock. Men wept and shrieked for aid, but not a man could lift his arms to prevent the creeping flames from enveloping him.

Finally the door was opened and human torches staggered out into the air. Men dropped everywhere and lay unheeded on the grass as guards, with drawn pistols, busied themselves in preventing a wholesale escape.

BENZINE EXPLOSION KILLS 30 PERSONS

LODZ, Poland, July 29. (UP)—Thirty persons were believed dead and probably 300 injured in an explosion which wrecked several large benzine tanks, started a great fire, and thru the town into panic today. The exact number of casualties could not be determined late tonight because of the resulting confusion.

One hundred homes were damaged by the explosion, which was heard for many miles around and shook a wide area.

Half of the 300 persons reported injured were said to be in a serious condition.

The fire throughout the day, and panic-stricken residents of the city through the streets, screamed from windows, and caused general disorder.

Hospitals were crowded with emergency cases and temporary accomodations for the injured were arranged. Communications were partly interrupted.

TRAIN LOADED WITH LAWYERS IN COLLISION

More Than Score of Noted Barristers Injured In Wreck

'EL' TRAINS CRASH

Injured Toll Reaches 25 In Wreck of New York Trolleys

SAN FRANCISCO, July 29. (US) Nearly two score of persons were injured, some of them seriously, when the Cascade limited of the Southern Pacific today crashed into the rear end of a special train bearing hundreds of lawyers from all parts of the United States, who were returning from the convention of the American Bar association at Seattle.

The crash occurred at Cortena, three miles north of Williams. The bar association special, running as the third section of train No. 43, had stopped at Cortens to make repairs to the locomotive.

Warning Attempted

A flagman was sent back along the track from the special train and it was said that he made an effort to warn the speeding Cascade limited. The distance was too short, however, and the big locomotive plied in the observation car of the lawyers' train. The observation car which was filled with people, partially telescoped, and toppled from the tracks, according to reports of eye witnesses. It was followed by three other cars, which also laft the rails, although these cars were not shattered as was the observation car.

Reports from the scene of the wreck stated that about 25 people were trapped in the shattered and overturned observation car.

Elevated Crash

NEW YORK, July 29. (AP)—Twenty-five persons were injured, seriously tonight when two north bound elevated trains, crowded with passengers homeward bound from Sunday outings, crashed at 69th street and Columbus avenue.

The most seriously injured were two brothers, John Carlo, whose leg was crushed, necessitating amputation and Paul Carlo, who suffered fractures of both legs. Several others were sent to hospitals.

The collision came as a climax to a tie-up in which five trains were involved. The first train was stalled by a fire in a wheel box and its passengers were ordered out at 72nd street station.

An attempt was made to couple two seven-car trains which followed an overloading of the motors resulted in a short circuit which shut off power and light on the trains.

The rear end of the last car of the Sixth avenue train which had stopped at the end of the stalled line of trains was telescoped by the vestibule of the Ninth avenue train, which ran into it.

JOHN B. RHEA LOSES LEAD IN LATE RETURNS

Few Missing Votes Not Likely to Change Standings

TOTAL VOTE 9636

Martin and Raley Win Over Bunnenberg And Howard

Sam Spence, aparently had tied up first place on the second primary i nthe sweepstakes for district attorney when his lead over E. F. Fruechte, his nearest opponent, had amounted to 118 votes with late unofficial returns Sunday night.

Fruechte, with a heavy vote in Wichita and Archer counties, had been able to maintain his position in second place ahead of John B. Rhea, despite the record vote polled by Rhea in Young county. Fruechte, in second place, led Rhea, in third place, by 106 votes, the three-cornered race being one of the

District Attorney Sweepstakes	Spence	Fru'hte	Scott	Rhea

Bal 17, Wichita Co. (Incom.)	50	53	21	66

Young Co. (Incom.)	346	420	1179	806
Totals	2706	2920	3040	2846

Four boxes in Young county, with a combined vote of approximately 250, had not reported Sunday night. Two boxes in Archer county, with a vote of less than 100 combined, still were out. In Wichita county box 17 was only about one-third counted, with a possible additional vote of 200. Total vote out, approximately 550.

closest in the history of the district. The total vote tabulated gave Spence 3706, Fruechte 3590, Rhea 3448, and Scott 3040.

Vote Nearly Complete

Ballots counted included all but four small boxes in Young county, with an estimated total vote of 200; about 250 votes in precinct 17, Wichita county, and approximately 100 votes in Archer county from two small precincts.

Although judges at precinct 17 did not resume tabulation of results Sunday, the ballots were sealed and returned to E. C. DeMontel, county chairman, who probably will announce the result of the count Monday. Of 540 vites polled in this box slightly more than 200 had been counted Sunday. Precinct 17, Carrigan scvhool, was the only incomplete Wichita county box.

The tabulation of votes from Young county early Sunday morning had indicated that Mr. Rhea would lead the ticket by a narrow margin, but a check-up on the count there revealed that the heavy vote reported apparently had been in error.

In Archer county, figures of Sunday morning were augmented by late returns, with two boxes not reporting.

It was not believed that the ultimate result would change the relative standing in the district attorney's race, since precinct 17, largest block of votes out at the final count, showed 52, 56 and 64 votes respectively for Fruechte, Suence and Rhea.

There is a possibility, however, although it seems remote, that Rhea might nose into the run-off should the remaining votes to be counted show a more decided trend in his favor. Unless there is a radical swing in the unreported returns, howsver, the relative positions of the candidates should remain unchanged.

Light Vote Here

The vote in Wichita county was unexpectedly light, with only 9636 voters marking their ballots. Indications had been Saturday morning that the vote would be heavy. Three hours of rain Saturday afternoon, however, kept hundreds from the polls.

Spence led the field in the county

Last Three of Sugarland Fugitives Who Shot Way to Freedom Caught

HOUSTON, July 29. (AP)—With the capture of three of the seven convicts who shot their way to freedom from the Sugarland Imperial State farm No. 2 Friday, the most intensive manhunt in the history of this part of the state closed today. One officer was killed and three wounded in the dash for liberty.

Four of the fugitives were arrested a few hours after the prison break. Fred Burkett and Johnny Collins were taken in custody by city detectives in an exclusive residential part of Houston late Saturday night, and Irving Davis was tracked by bloodhounds and recaptured in the marshes near the Brazos river.

All three were near exhaustion from their flight. One of them was armed. They submitted without a struggle although it had been expected a battle would be fought when the officers came up with them.

One man is still at large. It is believed he had nothing to do with the shooting but escaped during the excitement.

Mr. Smith Keeps Lid Tight On Politics While Resting at Seaside

HAMPTON BAYS, N. Y., July 29. (AP)—A tight lid was kept clamped today on presidential politics by Governor Smith as he made the most of his oportunity at the seashore to get rest and recreation, and incidentally inspected two undeveloped state park areas at the eastern tip of Long Island.

Although he held an informal press conference with a dozen newspapermen who accompanied him here, the Democratic nominee steadfastly declined to be drawn out regarding his own candidacy or attacks made upon him. He dismissed the new assaults made by William Allen White, the Kansas editor, and Robert L. Owen, former senator from Oklahoma, with the remark that he had "nothing to say at this time."

Wichita Woman Makes Real Home Of Ordinary 'Rustic' Tourist Camp

By MARIE THERESA

Time was when feminine instincts were a disadvantage in the business world. That was in the age when women who elected to trespass the portal leading out of domesticity, did so at the cost of forfeiting her natural tendencies, assuming a mannish mien and adopting as far as possible, a man's perspective.

But business has learned to utilize women's natural tendencies and turn them into account in making the world a more pleasant and homelike place.

Among the various business places owned or operated by women, Wichita Falls has a tourist camp, both owned and operated by women.

The tourist camp, just off the Burnett street bridge, began to revive under the new management of a woman about a month ago, and is now a place with all the conveniences and homelike touches that only a woman's presence and ingenuity can achieve.

Those Rustic Camps

You know the old-fashioned tourist camp, with its bare cottages, called "rustic" since that word would cover so many deficiencies in the way of conveniences and small embellishments.

About the only advantage these cottages had over expense was they afforded some sort of shelter from the elements, so long as the elements were agreeable.

Bathing and cooking, as well as the necessary art of sleeping had to be indulged in with much optimism and exhaustive use of the imagination. As for beauty and a comfy appearance——

But what woman could manage one of these camps without putting into action her instinct to make those about her more comfortable and at the same time trim things up a bit?

That is what has happened at the tourist camp off the Burnett road, when the owner of the camp appointed Mrs. James Boyle to convert the place into a home.

She did and how?

Home-Like Houses

Now tourists may have at a low cost a cottage with furnishings that follow a definite color scheme, and either a bath of a shower and rooms that adjoin, so they won't have to walk around the house to to the other door to put the children to bed. These cottages may be had in one-room, two-room or even three or more rooms compartments according to wishes. Cottages with connecting doors and transoms may be drawn at the psychological moment. Clothing may be hung in a clothes closet and cars parked in a real garage.

And the grounds available for a playground. The land has been redeemed with engineering science and there is plenty of it for all purposes. In fact the place presents the appearance of a picnic in the day time and in the evenings the sound of phonographs and radios as well as the hum of human voices emanating from the region of shadowed hammocks and lawn chairs, create a home-like and congenial atmosphere.

In this natural setting there will soon be an indoor swimming pool that will similate in many respects the old swimming hole dear to the hearts of the past generation. The grounds will be plotted again and grass encouraged to grow where grass has failed to grow recently, due to the negligence of the men who once managed the park! So So, the new manager says.

Doted Laughter

The park is owned by Mrs. R. E. Montgomery, widow of Colonel Montgomery, who laid plans for the building of Wichita Falls and who gave Bellevue park as well as the site of the court house. Colonel and Mrs. Montgomery came to the city before the building of the first railroad, from Portland, Ore.

Mrs. Montgomery weathered a great deal of laughter at the time of the purchase of the large track of land which now houses the tourist park. But she had a vision of making a home for tourists with families. She built a beautiful Spanish bungalow for herself just off the park and within sight of her place of visions.

And that vision has materialized, but not until she conceived the idea of employing a housekeeping manager with definite ideas on what constitutes home.

The Bungalow Tourist park has been designated the only A. A. A. tourist park between Fort Worth and Childress, and due to its natural setting and almost unlimited grounds, has been called by tourists the most complete park between New York and El Paso.

CHIC CHERIE (Copyright, 1928 King Features Syn., Inc.) Latest Fashions

Cherie's favorite hat shop has sent her some new fall hats and, as you can see, she is about to try them all on. This one of black felt has a facing and a leaf applique of black hatter's plush. It hides one eye. It's a lovely hat and Dina loves it—it isn't likely that Cherie will have this one though it goes so well with her black satin dress—her dress with the triangular scarf and the loops of ribbon on each hip. Dina's panels to dress is an advance fall model with bits of lace, a flaring bolero and shirred skirt panels to prove that it's new. Getting back to the subject of hats and eyebrows, Dina calls Emily and Kitty, too, to see Cherie's new fall hats. You might expect what happens.

Emily find just the hat she has been wanting. A black soleil velours with the front of its brim turned back and quirked into a little pleat over one eye. She'll wear it with this dress of satin trimmed with ruffles of chiffon and lace. Kitty found a hat, too. "And if it's young enough for me, it's much too young for you, Cherie" she announced as she pulled it down over one eye. It's almond green soleil with little tucks across the front of the crown. It matches Kitty's dress of wool jersey (this is probably the first time you've ever seen wool jersey trimmed with ruffles of the same.) Dina liked the fourth hat, too, of blue soleil with a double pleat on one side. There's none left for Cherie.

Disaster Lurks for Bald Headed Sheik Who Chooses Flighty Flapper

The Widower of 50 Is Incapable of Living Alone, Nor Can He Play Second Fiddle to His Children After Boosing Them for So Long —Therefore, He Should Marry, and That's Where He Needs to Watch Out.

I get a great many letters from widowers who are in the fifties and the sixties, telling me that they are very lonely since their wives died and that they miss their homes and asking me what I think about a man marrying that late in life.

And I strongly advise them to go to it. It is cruelty to dumb animals to turn a man who has been thoroughly house-broken and domesticated and had all of his original wild instincts trained out of him by 50 or more years of matrimony loose on a wilderness of hotels and clubs and boarding houses. He is just as forlorn and lost and incapable of taking care of himself as a canary bird would be in a primeval forest.

With a bachelor it is different. Necessity has taught him how to shift for himself and how to make himself comfortable, but the widower is accustomed to having his wife take care of him and look out for his creature comforts. Therefore, he is helpless alone. He can't remember to send out the laundry. He doesn't know how to order his meals and loathes restaurant cooking anyway. And it's the abomination of desolation to him to go back when the day's work is done to a silent, lonely, unlighted room.

Matrimony does curious things to people, and whether a man has been happily or unhappily married, it unfits him for the single life. He needs a wife, if only to have some one to quarrel with. He wants a home, if only to have a place to grouch in.

Going to live with his children does not settle the elderly widower's problem, for that is never a happy arrangement for either party. The man who has been at the head of his own establishment is never satisfied to play second fiddle in some one else's house. To save his life he cannot keep from interfering and trying to boss things for every father feels that he has a perfect right to make his children obey him so long as he lives. And if he has any sensitiveness whatever, he feels continually that he is a little in the way, always the third party who is de trop and that his children would be happier without his presence.

So I think that the elderly widower is wise when he marries and obtains for himself the comfort and freedom of his own home and company for the last long lap of the journey of life, when we need companionship more than we do at any other period. For the young can go out and hunt up pleasure and society but the old must find them at their own firesides.

Romantic love is not, of course, for those in whose veins the blood is slow and sluggish and cold, and who have lost their imagination with their hair; but they are still capable of a beautiful and tender friendship and comradeship. And that is what all marriage settles down to in its last analysis, if it is a happy and satisfactory marriage.

But one warning I would give these gray-headed and bald-headed sheiks, and that is to marry in their own age class, to pick out a contemporary for a wife.

On this hangs their every chance of happiness, yet many men, otherwise shrewd and intelligent, ignore it. On the principle that we all prefer luxuries to necessities, they succumb to the allure of youth and beauty and marry girls young enough to be their daughters or granddaughters. And disaster inevitably follows.

The young wife has nothing in common with her elderly husband. She is not interested in anything that interests him. She does not know anything that he knows. She has not the same point of view or the same traditions or memories. She does not want to do the things that he wants to do.

He has married to get a homekeeping wife who will cheer his loneliness. The last thing in the world the young wife desires is to be a fireside companion. His notion of a pleasant evening is to spend it toasting his rheumatism by the radiator. Her idea of enjoyment is an evening spent in rushing from dinner to the theater and from theater to night club. She has no aching joints that need coddling. On the contrary, she wants to shake them in the Charleston.

She sold herself to the old man for what he could give her and she is determined to collect the price. So the old husband of the young wife is either left alone or else he toddles along and sits on the sidelines while wife dances with boys of her own age, his only privilege being that of paying the check.

Another reason why it is so all-important for an elderly man to marry his contemporary is because as we grow older we like more and more to indulge in reminiscences of the past, and there is no stronger tie than that which binds us to those to whom we can say: "Do you remember?"

The thing that makes it hard for us to sustain a conversation with the young is that we have no memories in common. We cannot talk to them about the Rutherford B. Hayes administration or the wonders of the World fair at Chicago or discuss with them actors and singers and race horses and famous parties that they know as little of and are as little interested in as if they were events and personages of a pre-historic period. But with a companion of our own age we can gossip endlessly about the Mauve decade, because we both were part of it.

It is especially important now that we should marry our contemporaries, because the gulf between youth and age was never so great and unbridgeable as at the present moment. The ideas, moral point of view, the theories of life of the youth of today differ from those of the elderly as knee-length skirts and rolled stockings differ from trains and panniers and chignons, as oxford bags differ from skin-tight pants, as automobiles differ from side-bar buggies.

Therefore, it is inevitable that this conflict of opinion about what is right, about what is decent and modest, about what is good taste, is bound to bring about eternal conflict and argument in the family circle and no sane man looks forward to spending his last days in a hot debate with a wife who is younger and who has more fight in her than he has left in him. He wants peace and some one to agree with his theories, some one who thinks as he does, and he can only get this by marrying a woman who was brought up in the same tradition as he was.

And so I say again to the elderly widower: Marry if you want to, but marry one of your contemporaries. And may heaven bless you, my children.—DOROTHY DIX.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK.—A well-to-do cripple too, has his problems. An elderly man who lost a leg through an accident complains of his plight, not that he has nothing to live on. On the contrary, he has property valued at thousands of dollars. His problem arises from the fact that he does not betray affluence in his appearance. Every now and then when he goes out with his crutches some benevolent being slips him a coin or even a dollar bill out of a charitable urge.

One day he ate in a restaurant Before leaving he went over to the cashier to settle the bill. The cashier, a sympathetic young woman, told the cripple it would be all right if he kept the money, as she would settle it with the manager. It was with much persuasion that the cashier was prevailed upon to accept the money.

Now New York hotels are called upon for such a variety of services that when one of the customers does nothing but call for his key and leave his key at the desk, the front office staff begins to wonder what he does with his time and gets terrible suspicious.

A recent guest registering from a tiny town in a southern state, was seen at the desk or anywhere else in the house but twice a day—in the early morning as he left his key at the desk and fared forth, and early in the evening as he called for his key and went aloft. Not once had he telephoned for anything, not even for a rising call.

He had been there two full days when he approached the room clerk on duty and, haltingly, said:

"I reckon, brother, you're going to have to give me another room."

Glancing swiftly at the number on the key, the clerk looked sincerely surprised and inquired whether the room were not satisfactory.

"Oh, the room's all right, I reckon," said the guest, "but I've got a lotta clothes with me on this trip and I just got to have a clothes press."

"Why!" said the clerk, enormously relieved that the complaint was no more serious, "there is supposed to be a 'clothes press' in every room in this house. Is there not one in your room?"

"Yes, sir," said the southerner, "but there's a sign hanging on the door that says 'Do Not Disturb.'"

Ladies may smoke in this enlightened age, but many of them pay dearly for the privilege. At the matinee the other day the girl discovered her cigarette case was empty. The prospect of two intermissions and no cigarettes was too much. She hunted all over the lobby for a cigar stand, without success. In desperation she turned to an attendant and asked if she knew any place where she could get a cigarette.

The attendant smiled and produced a box of assorted cigarettes. The girl selected two and inquired the cost.

The answer was: "Ten cents."

Mental calculation revealed the fact that the attendant made a profit of 85 cents on every package. The girl knows now why they don't have cigar stands anywhere within walking distance.

Complete G. O. P. Money Statement Being Made

WASHINGTON, July 29. (UP)—J. R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican national committee, is preparing the first statement of campaign receipts and expenditures up to July 31, the national committee announced today.

It will be filed with committees of the house and senate Aug. 1. Supplementary statements will be made every 30 days during the campaign in accordance with the party platform pledge and records and books touching campaign funds will be open at all times to inspection, the committee said.

ABE MARTIN

Next t' hangin' around home till somethin' you've paid cash fer is delivered, th' hardest thing is waitin' till a night seein' bus starts. There's almost as much speculation o'er th' word "rigid" down our way as there was o'er th' word "choose."

Faithful to the Last

A SCOTCHMAN, a millionaire, died in the city of New York. He bequeathed a $5 bill to his widow and $2,500 to his valet. That man must have been a hero to the valet.

"Boloney" Pictures

IT BEGINS to appear that this presidential campaign is going to be relatively free from bunk, as far as the two leading candidates are concerned.

First Al Smith refused to pose for pictures as a bricklayer. He based his refusal on the simple ground that everyone knows he isn't a bricklayer, and that a picture of him posing as one would be "boloney."

And now Herbert Hoover has refused to let photographers snap him kissing a baby. He doesn't propose to go about the country kissing babies, and he won't have the cameramen talk him into it.

That's simply fine, in both cases. If only the subordinates of the two candidates can be as level-headed throughout the campaign, we may get somewhere.

Stephenson Must Serve

D. C. STEPHENSON, one-time Indiana Klan leader, must serve his life sentence in prison. The Indiana supreme court has denied his petition for a rehearing on his habeas corpus suit.

It may well be, as Stephenson maintains, that certain "higher ups" in Indiana are determined to keep him in prison from selfish motives. It doubtless is true that he could ruin even more reputations than he has already spoiled if he were to come out in the open and tell what he knows.

Yet, at the same time, it is permissible to be satisfied with his imprisonment. After all, he committed a dreadful crime. He is lucky that he did not pay with his life. However much some Indiana politicians may be working against him, the fact remains that Stephenson, the murderer, is exactly where he belongs.

A Beggar's Philosophy

A NEW YORK policeman the other day arrested a decrepit, seedy-looking beggar who sat on a stoop asking passers-by for money. Searching the man's pockets, the policeman found he had $170; indignant, he called him a "Bowery bum."

When the beggar was arraigned in court he protested the epithet.

"I'm not a bum," he said heatedly. "I've got $20,000 in the bank, and that's more money than this policeman ever saw in his life. He insulted me—and I demand an apology."

The court, it appears, lifted its eyebrows at this and sentenced the beggar to six months in jail. Furthermore, he did not get his apology.

In this age, when the possession of money serves to gloss over, in the public mind, whatever defects a man's character may have, we probably ought not to be hard on this man.

But the little story is interesting, illustrating the lengths to which some men are willing to go to make money. Self-respect can hardly live in a man who gets every cent he has by whining for it on the street corners, accepting rebuffs and insults by the dozen. And self-respect, for the average person, is the one thing without which life is unendurable. Yet this ragged beggar's scale of values was so topsy-turvy, apparently, that he not was able to dispense with his self-respect; he was able to invent a new one, whereby the words "Bowery bum" from a policeman became a bitter insult.

His viewpoint, unfortunately, isn't exactly unique.

Beggar, worthless panhandler, unashamed cadger though he was, he was fortified always by the thought that he had $20,000 in the bank. No man with that much money could be wrong. The possession of bank books was an unfailing salve to wounded self-esteem. When called a bum he could remonstrate, "But I can't be a bum—I have $20,000."

Haven't you heard that sort of philosophy before? Oh, surely. Has a certain rich oil magnate who concealed wrong-doing by public servants and lied to a senate committee been dropped by any of his clubs or lost caste with his associates? Not he. He is very rich.

We're pretty familiar with that viewpoint. The idea that practically any course of action can be justified if it brings in the cash is widely held. It's easy enough for us to see the absurdity of it when the central figure is a panhandler. We're more apt to miss the point, though, if it's a multi-millionaire.

Money does talk. Sometimes we let it drown out everything else.

OWEN COMES FORWARD

Ex-Senator Robert L. Owen's statement that Hoover is the best qualified man offered for the presidency within his time shouldn't peeve Cal so very much, as that takes in Owen himself. The ex-senator exposed himself to the presidential bee at the San Francisco convention in 1920, you will remember.

And another thing—the statement reads very much like the recommendations we all heard about Taft in 1908, when he was declared to be ideally constructed and fitted for the presidency, because of all the different governmental positions he had had, including several cabinet portfolios and the governorship of the Philippines. And Taft, you may recall, carried two states—Vermont and Utah—with a total electoral vote of 8 when he ran for a second term in 1912.

TYPES OF REPUBLICANS

There are conservative Republicans and those of the wild eyed sort. There are cocksure Republicans and those rabidly positive. There are Republicans who will vote for the Democratic ticket next November and then there are those who say that Democracy won't carry a state in the union. How do they get that way?

We have encountered all these kinds of G. O. Politicians right here in Altus and if our memory is on straight, some of them were going to elect Harreld, some goosed themselves into betting on Benedict, others followed John Fields through two unsuccessful campaigns and one even thought he could be elected mayor of Altus. Such strange fellows, these Republicans that live down in this stronghold of Democracy.

It has even been suggested that we change the name of this sheet to the Altus Times-Republican—but as long as the negroes sell postoffices in Mississippi and Georgia, as long as Republicanism means plunder and pillage and privilege, special favors for a minority few, special privileges for wealth and, the interests, so long will we keep our title on straight and so long will we wonder haw they get that way.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service — by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Virginia Brewster is in love with an artist, Nathaniel Dean, but she is tricked into promising to marry Frederick Dean in one year if she fails to earn $100,000 that he alleges her father cheated him out of.

Brewster had lost his fortune in speculation before his death and Virginia is left destitute. She pawns some of her jewelry and a broker friend, Oliver Cutter, promises to invest the money for her.

She seeks work, but without success. She discovers that she is being shadowed and suspects that Dean has bribed the agencies not to help her. After word leaks out that the "Brewster girl" is job-seeking, she is besieged by reporters.

Cutter insists on taking Virginia out to dinner and hints that it won't be necessary for her to work for her money, but pretends innocence when she callenges his remark. Niel resents the attentions of Cutter and Virginia does not like the familiarity with which his model, Chiri Mond, treats him.

A gorgeous evening wrap comes to her hotel, and Virginia discovers that Dean has sent it to her. She phones him that she is returning it, and he tells her he doesn't want his future wife to work. His threat to ruin Cutter frightens Virginia and she warns Oliver. Then she hears of a splendid position and goes for an interview.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER XXXIV

For weeks after Virginia's first meeting with Mr. Welkins of the Blue Capella Steamship line she smiled whenever she thought of the fear that had gone with her to that interview.

As the days slid into late summer she forgot it altogether. It had concerned Frederick Dean. Would he have the power to stand in her way, to cause her to lose a position she desired to take? Virginia knew that his interests were far-reaching. That they might extend to influence with the ruling powers of the Blue Capella line was easily within the realm of probability.

If such were the case, at least he had not chosen to take any action against her. She had been engaged after a few minutes' talk with Mr. Welkins and nothing had occurred to cause her any regret or dissatisfaction in regard to the work. She liked it. At first it had been difficult to accustom herself to giving up her days to confinement within the four walls of an office, but she consoled herself with thinking how much worse it would be if she were employed as a companion and could not see Nathaniel each evening.

Each evening, that is, except those on which Oliver insisted that she keep a rendezvous with him. Virginia never could see that it was necessary to have those secret meetings. Again and again she told Oliver to use his own judgment about her "investments," but he stubbornly refused to go on unless she consented to talk over the deals he went into with her money.

"But I don't know when you ought to buy or sell," she expostulated. Patiently Oliver explained the operations of the market. He appeared anxious to have her understand what he was doing for her. But Virginia had no flair for the game, and though she listened she never was able to advise him. Oliver seemed to get on just the same. At any rate he gave Virginia great encouragement each time they met, which was once or twice a week.

"I believe we threw Dean off the scent," he was wont to remark with great satisfaction.

While it was true that there had been no onslaught upon his position in the financial world and no sign of enemy activity, nevertheless he did not neglect to caution Virginia against becoming careless. It was her practice to leave her hotel by the servants' entrance and step into a taxicab Oliver would have waiting at the curb. Her route to their meeting place was a round-about one down to and through the crooked streets of Greenwich Village and then south along the lesser thoroughfares until she reached the financial district. There she gained admittance to Oliver's office building through a side door which a porter was paid to open for her.

These visits troubled Virginia exceedingly. They savored of clandestine intrigue . . . the meeting of lovers with guilt on their conscience, and she did not like it. There wasn't anything else she could do, however. Oliver would not go on without her and without Oliver she could not hope to make $100,000. And they still feared Frederick Dean too much to disregard his threat. At times Virginia wondered if it had not been such an idle gesture on Dean's part to force her to break away from Oliver, but the latter professed to believe it would be dangerous to flout her enemy.

Moreover the deception she found it necessary to practice on Nathaniel when Oliver required her to meet him troubled her greatly. Yet she would not tell him about Oliver . . . he would know the whole truth then; and Virginia refused to hang over his head a sword such as hung over her own.

There was reason to believe that she would have the money in time to settle with Dean, but the bare possibility of failure was enough to shadow her life, and so she chose to endure it alone.

Nathaniel was doing splendidly with his mural work. It appeared to absorb him. It had been a long time since he had argued against her decision to work through the fall. Virginia was grateful for the ascendency of his love for his art and made no move to distract him.

Matters stood thus on a beautiful morning in September when Virginia stopped at the hotel desk for her mail on her way to breakfast in the dining room. She was subtly changed from the glorious girl who had driven down to her engagement party in her fiance's studio with stars in her eyes and heaven in her heart.

Her gray eyes were now deeper and darker, as though they had not looked on the sun for many years and her full red lips had lost the soft curves of youth to take on the chiseled lines of character growth. She was thin and devoid of color, but there was an intensity of feeling about her like the effulgence of a perpetual light. One sensed the glow of her—quiet, steady and determined.

The clerk on duty greeted her with respectful cheerfulness and handed over a pile of letters. Virginia glanced over them hastily and returned all but one to be held until evening. The one she took with her to read at the table.

The monogramed "J. C." on the envelope meant nothing to her. She thought it must be a letter from a friend and proceeded to open it expectantly. She did not receive many letters from her friends these days. They appeared to have accepted her decision to drop out as being sincere, as it was.

The sea shores, the mountains and foreign places had called them to sport and play. They had little time to think of a comrade who could join them only in fancy when she found a minute to close her eyes and shut out the sight of her present surroundings. Times were when the noise and the heat of summer had pressed and beat upon her until she found herself doubting if wind-swept golf courses and sea-leaping beaches were not things she had once known only in her dreams.

Her first summer in the city was over. She knew New York now as millions know it, and, strangely, she loved it the more for having shared its sweltering discomfort. A sea breeze and a mountain top would never again be just a sea breeze and a mountain top to her.

When poets sang of primroses now Virginia would know what a primrose might be to one whose life has touched with understanding.

The letter was short, just a note, in fact. It stated that the writer was in town for a day or so and asked her to call. There was a peremptory tone in it that brought a little frown to Virginia's brow. It was signed "Jean Cutter" with a flourish and no closing courtesy.

Virginia folded it up half resentfully, inclined to ignore the request. But the fact that it was from Oliver's wife caused her to reconsider and decide to think it over. She owed Oliver too much to disregard Jeanie's invitation even though it were couched more in the words of a command.

She had a busy day before her and forgot all about the note until that afternoon. The burden of making personal replies to the ever-increasing number of inquiries that came to her had become so heavy she had set herself to making up a set of booklets to answer the questions most often asked. These would more than cut her letters in half, and naturally she was eager to complete her copy and get it off to the printer.

She was now on her fifth pamphlet in which were discussed wardrobes suitable for wear aboard ship, and she determinedly typed away (with two fingers) until she reached the end. Then she called the Cutters' apartment and asked for Mrs. Cutter. She was certain she heard Jeanie's voice speaking to the maid who answered, but the girl asked her if she would give her message as Mrs. Cutter could not at the moment use the telephone.

"Ask her if she will be in at five-thirty," Virginia said, vaguely irritated.

Mrs. Cutter returned word that she would, and Virginia prepared to close her desk and leave promptly at five. She wished to avoid the overcrowding in the subway if possible, and since there were many thousands of office workers in the district who shared the same desire, there was not a second to be lost in the mad rush after the minute hand pointed at that hour.

Many there were, Virginia knew, who "beat the clock," but she was, if not too conscientious to follow their example, at least too grateful for having work that she liked to think of taking advantage of her employers.

It was a little later than 5:30 when she was admitted to Jeanie's attractive drawing room with the plain blue velvet rugs and rose-patterned draperies of black silk.

She stood a moment uncertainly as her hostess made no move to rise from a love seat where she reposed with her legs curled under her and puffed on a cigaret in an ivory holder a foot long.

For a moment of tense silence she surveyed Virginia as though her caller were a stranger whom she wanted to be rude to. Then she waved the long cigaret holder toward a nearby chair and nodded her head.

Virginia felt a tightening in her throat and a wave of warmth in her cheeks. Jeanie Cutter had been her friend. But there was no welcome in her manner or in the words she drawled at Virginia in the voice of one who is both amused and annoyed at the antics of a nuisance.

A USED CAR SALESMAN'S THOUGHTS

Yes sir! This car is as good as new;
The motor's tight; the wheels are true.
Sure, it is fast—don't ever fear;
Does fifty-four in second gear.
(I'll bet this darned old coffee mill
Cannot make forty down a hill!)

The tires are perfect—paint is good.
Although discolored on the hood.
The man who owned this car, you see
Attended it religiously.
(I hope these rotten tires will hold Until I get the darned think sold!)

The price is right; you know it's true
I can't afford to lie to you!
This car will weather every test;
You won't regret what you invest.
(I hope it gets him out of town:
That pile of junk is falling down.
It takes some brain beneath the hat
To sell a man a wreck like that!)

Bootleg Liquor Rotten, Says Federal Chemist

HOUSTON, Texas, July 29. (AP)—Texas gulf coast beer makers are improving, but their whiskey is just about as bad as it could be, S. W. Holman, chemist for the federal prohibition forces in Texas and Oklahoma, said in a recent visit here.

"Rotten is hardly an apt word, but it seems to hit the mark when talking about bootleg liquor," Mr. Holman said.

Far From Civilization, Trotzky Spends Lonely Days Studying and Writing

Co-Creator of Soviet Russia Lives in Humble Priest's Former Home As Old Age Advances

By WILLIAM HILLMAN
(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service)

BERLIN, July 29.—Close to the Russian-Chinese border far from modern civilization, Leon Trotzky, colleague of Lenin in the creation of soviet Russia and once mighty overlord of its Red armies, is now spending his exile studying and writing.

In a tiny white house surrounded by a garden, where a Russian priest once lived, Trotzky is writing a book on the Russian revolution and collecting material for a work on "the economic management of Siberia and Turkestan." He has grown perceptably older in the last few months.

During moments of leisure he reads the life of Benjamin Disraeli and scans Russian, English, Italian, German, French and American newspapers.

Walks for Diversion

This is his only diversion except walking. Early in the morning he walks alone through the streets of the little Kirghis-Cossack village. During the afternoon he is accompanied by his wife.

For the first time since his exile, I am able to give authentic details of his life. They were supplied me by an engineer now in Berlin, whose business recently took him through Alma-Ata where Trotzky lives and where he was able to speak to Trotzky for several hours.

"I am a private individual," said Trotzky to his visitor. "I am living very quietly, you see, and am entirely satisfied with my home. I am not pledged not to leave this place, and move about freely.

"The soviet commissar comes to see me now and then and inquires about my health or asks if I desire anything. Whenever I visit the soviet officials of the town I am properly and politely received.

Writes for Living

"I now depend upon my writing for my livelihood. Since my arrival here, however, I have been living on funds from the government publishing establishment for former articles.

"Up to the present I have received several hundred rubles, which were sufficient for a few months due to the economical life I live.

"I shall have to sell some article soon, however, to keep on living here.

"I have tried to mechanize my home as comfortable as possible," he said. "Here is an electric iron, a typewriter and a fountain pen.

"I am writing a book about the Russian civil war and am collecting material for a work on the economic management of Siberia and Turkestan. These questions have absorbed me greatly during the last few months.

He Studies Geology

"I am also studying the geology and ethnography of these countries as well as the development of the Russian-Chinese and the Russian-Afghanistan relations.

"Many scientific questions and problems are absorbing my thoughts, too.

"Every morning a stenographer comes here to copy my notes on the typewriter.

"I have no personal friends. Probably the people are afraid to be on friendly terms with me. My best visitor is the postman. I always await him eagerly."

Trotzky's beard has become very much grayer and the lines of his face have deepened since his arrival in Alma-Ata. He was dressed in a gray-green basque, black trousers and high boots when he received his engineer visitor.

On cold days he puts on a sheepskin coat when walking and a red guardist cap.

Bans Alcohol

As he is suffering from stomach trouble, he eats very little and abstains from all fatty foods and alcohol. He lives in fear of developing cancer. His favorite repast is tea with rusks.

The little town of Alma-Ata is the capital of Kazakstan an autonomous soviet republic, inhabited in the most part by half-wild Nomadic Kirghis Cossack tribes. It is five days' journey from Anischan, which is located on the railroad running from Turkestan to Usbekiarsn.

The surrounding country is hilly and earthquakes occur there frequently. But the town is encircled by blooming gardens and orchards, whose apples are famed throughout Russia.

To the south and east Caravan paths lead over narrow mountain passes to China. India is nearer here than Moscow.

In the summer it is so dusty that one can hardly breathe in the town when the wind stirs. In autumn Alma-Ata takes on a dirty aspect and a cold, penetrating Asiatic wind blows day and night. In winter the streets are thickly covered with snow.

A wide street, bordered with trees, passes through the center of the town and finally ends in a forlorn square on which stands a lonely church. Next to the church is a tiny house, painted white, where the priest of the church once lived. This priest is said to have been shot because of his sympathy for the "White" Russians.

It is in this house that Trotzky resides. The same furniture the priest had still remains—old-fashioned easy chairs, broad cupboards and chests of drawers. Also an old piano on which the daughter of the old priest is said to have played her waltzes. The house is equipped with electric lights.

RADIO STILL IN ITS INFANCY

Greatest Growth Ahead, Says General Manager

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

NEW YORK, July 29. (UB)—Marketwise, Radio Corporation of America, in its spectacular upswing and its subsequent sharp reaction from the peak, has been mercurial in its action. Meantime, what progress has the company itself been making?

I sought the answer to this question from David Sarnoff, the brilliant 37-year-old vice president and general manager of the company. Apparently unconcerned with the ebb and flow of speculation, Mr. Sarnoff, an ex-messenger boy, is optimistic over the prospects of widening the field of radio communication and entertainment.

"The greatest asset of the radio industry," Mr. Sarnoff told me as we chatted in the general offices of the corporation in the Woolworth building, "is its ignorance—its recognition that there are things that yet remain to be discovered. Radio is alert to its possibilities. The industry has by no means finished its development. Its field is as broad as the air."

Better Earnings Seen

As for immediate business prospects, Mr. Sarnoff remarked: "I believe earnings for the full year 1928 will be better than last year's. Earnings this year will be the largest thus far. The gains represent normal trade improvement. The profits from the communications end of the business are stable; the gains come chiefly from the manufacturing end, which has become better stabilized. The licensing agreements which the corporation has made in the last year with 25 independent manufacturing concerns has helped the industry to settle down. Phonofilm will probably contribute nothing to earnings this year, but I have confidence in it for the future."

In the first quarter of the year, the corporation reported an income of $16,792,547, compared with $10,-572,490 in the corresponding period of 1927. The corporation has not yet published its second quarterly report, but it is understood that it will show a correspondingly large increase over 1927. The total income, however, was not as large as in the first quarter. There is normally a seasonal slump in the second and third quarters. The fourth quarter is usually the best quarter of the year.

Trade Outlook Bright

Mr. Sarnoff added that he considered the trade outlook for his company bright, and expressed the belief that electrical receiving sets, which obviate the need of batteries, and improvement in broadcasting programs had stimulated demand. Mr. Sarnoff believes that interest in political discussions and speeches, which will be transmitted over the air, will heighten interest in radio for the remainder of the year.

In visualizing spectacular changes which are looming, Mr. Sarnoff said that the company was studying means of exchanging radio programs with Europe. Mr. Sarnoff believes that such overseas broadcasting is scientifically feasible, and may be a part of the radio routine within a year. Mr. Sarnoff said that he was confident that such broadcasting could be placed on an economic basis easier than domestic broadcasting originally was. Mr. Sarnoff is of the opinion that advertising puts radio broadcasting on a sound economic footing.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE (357) Use of Stain

Woodwork is stained to improve its natural color. It sinks into the fibers of the wood and colors or dyes them but leaves the grain showing as plainly as before. They may be either put on with a brush or rubbed in with a rag. Generally two coats are given. Wood may be darkened in color by rubbing oil into it or leaving it exposed to the fumes of ammonia.

By NEA Through Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge. Copyright, 1923-28.

Stain is often used to make cheap woods look more expensive. The colors used chiefly are walnut, mahogany or rosewood.

Very often fancy woods are improved by stains the same color as themselves. Green, blue or red also may be used as stains.

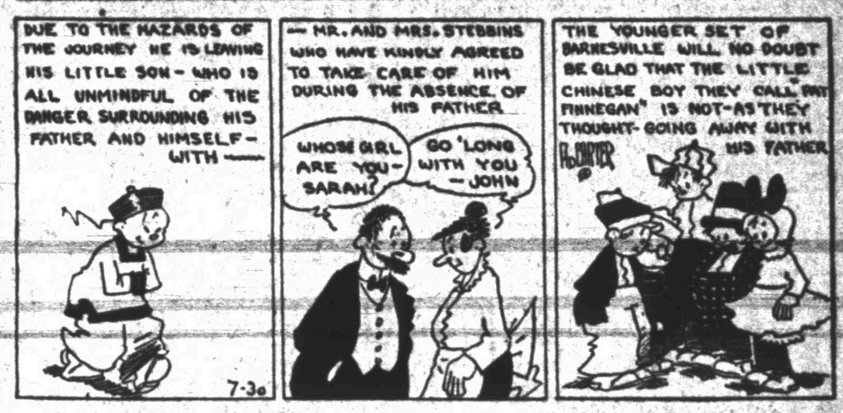

Wood surfaces should be smoothed carefully with sandpaper before stain is applied. Where several coats of a weak stain are used, sandpaper should be used after each coat, but be sure the stain is dry. Varnish stains are often used instead of simple stains. These are varnish and stain combined and save the trouble of varnishing and staining separately. 7-27

ANNETTE KELLERMAN

Annette Kellerman is a very beautiful woman — figuratively speaking. She is the original purveyor of the perfect thirty-six and premier bathing beauty de luxe.

After a long and triumphal career in Hollywood movie foundries, Annette has settled down to the serious task of conducting a physical culture school in New York, where one can learn to cut outs a figure or have her curves lifted or lowered by mail.

"I always laugh," Miss Kellerman told me, "when I think of a friend of mine who dabbles in water colors, and is rather proud of her results. Also, her complexion is the envy of all of her acquaintances—and sometimes spiteful things are said about her school-girl-bloom.

"At a dinner party one night she was seated next to a shy, awkward young man, who cudgeled his brain in vain for something to say. At last she took pity on him, and tried to open conversation by remarking with expectant modesty:

"'I dare say you have heard that I paint?'

"'Y-yes,' he stammered; looking at her face. Then he added, with a pleasant smile: 'But I don't believe it!'"

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

By DR. FRANK McCOY
Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Potatoes Are Wholesome

Potatoes were unknown in Europe before the discovery of the Americas. They were probably first introduced to the continent by the Spaniards. Europe did not take a fancy to the potato for a long time, even though they were a popular food in the new world. This was probably because of the peculiar ways in which potatoes were prepared by the Europeans, such as soaking them in wine, pickle juice and spices.

The potato is now one of the most important staple foods. Today Germany leads the world in the number of bushels grown per capita. In many parts of the world the potato is served three times daily. In combination with bread, this is more starch than can be readily handled.

Potatoes can be substituted to a large extent for other foods with benefit to health, as was proved in Denmark during the late war. I do not advise the use of any starchy foods during the dietetic treatment of certain diseases, and of course, this includes the potato, but any healthy person will find them wholesome and nutritious.

Potatoes should be stored in a cool, dark, well ventilated place, with an atmosphere of about 38 degrees. If there is a tendency to rot, they should be sprinkled with lime.

The potato is a member of the Nightshade family, and is a close relative to the tomato, the egg plant and tobacco.

Potatoes should never be eaten at the same meal with tomatoes or any kind of stewed or raw fruit. They form the best combination when eaten exclusively with raw and cooked non-starchy vegetables.

Potatoes have a popular reputation of being one of the most starchy foods in spite of the fact that they have only a third or a fourth as much starch as the grain products. Those who try to reduce usually eliminate the potatoes from their diet when they would have better results by avoiding the bread.

I consider the Irish potato one of the finest forms of starchy food. It is one of the few starchy foods that is alkaline forming. Even wholewheat bread contains from three to four times as much starch as the average potato.

Steaming, boiling and baking are the best methods of preparation. The most valuable alkaline elements are in and just under the skin. A good method is to boil potatoes in the skin after which they may be peeled and mashed, with a little cream and salt added. Baking destroys some of the elements just under the skin, but it makes the potato very readily digested. Frying is the worst method of preparing them and should always be avoided. Potatoes are delicious when cut into strips like French fried potatoes, salted, and then baked without grease. New potatoes may have their skins rubbed off before boiling without impairing their nutritive qualities. A pan of water placed in the oven in which potatoes are baking will prevent the potatoes from becoming too dry.

After potatoes have been lying in the sun for a few days they develop a green color which indicates the presence of a poisonous alkaloid called solanin. These potatoes should be discarded or the green party entirely cut away. This poison is also produced in a small degree by potatoes that have sprouted. The amount of solanin in potato may be reduced by slicing the affected potato and allowing it to stand for one or two hours in cold water before using.

Questions and Answers

Question— W. K. asks: "What causes the white cellular formations which periodically form in the throat opposite the palate? They cause a slight soreness until they loosen and come out. What can be done to prevent their formation?"

Answer—The cheesy masses which form in the crypts of the tonsils can be prevented from forming if you will be more careful with your diet. A good local treatment may be taken with the ultra-violet light. This application of actinic rays will kill any bacterial growth in the tonsils, and also tends to shrink the membranes to normal size. If your physician does not have this equipment he can treat your throat with some medical preparation such as silver nitrate.

Question—C. H. asks: "Does chili contain any nourishment?"

Answer—Chili is very high in nourishment, being made mostly of meat. It is highly flavored with peppers and therefore is irritating to the stomach and cannot be considered a wholesome food except for those who have been accustomed for years to its use.

Question—Mrs. G. D. asks: "Will you please tell me what to do for my arms? They get numb up to my elboy every night."

Answer—You are probably suffering from some kind of circulatory disorder, possibly due to some heart derangement which is usually caused by the pressure of excessive gas in an overloaded stomach crowding the heart. Try eating a smaller meal at night, and be careful about the food combinations.

BUFFALOES SWEEP THREE-GAME SERIES WITH SPUDDERS, 4-2

SHORES BESTED BY KEN PENNER

Benton, Eldred and Watkins Mace Three Hits Each

HOUSTON, July 29.—The Spudders' offensive efforts in the main were confined here Sunday to "Rabbit" Benton and "Brick" Eldred, each of whom garnered three singles, and the Buffs trimmed Galloway's crew 4 to 2, two sweep the series.

Ken Penner, determined to avenge the 11-round defeat he suffered recently in Spudderville, pitched steadily, and was given top notch support.

Bill Shores, big curve ball artist, hurled a brand of ball calculated to win most contests, but he had much trouble retiring Watty Watkins, stellar center gardener, who slammed out a brace of triples and a single.

Stanton Features

Buck Stanton supplied the fielding feature of the game when he cut off a pair of runs by making a sensational catch of Penner's liner in the sixth to start an unassisted double play.

Close to 7,500 enthusiasts turned out for the battle, a large crowd considering the Buffs have been drawing poorly on this home stay.

Rabbit Benton "golfed" a low, inside pitch to right for a single to open the encounter. Pete Turgeon flied to Watkins. Fitzgerald grounded to Selph, Benton taking second. Penner fed Brick Eldred a choice assortment of hooks, and Brick popped to Schuble.

Hock bunted out to Shores. Selph fanned swinging. Shores was putting plenty of stuff on his offering. Worthington popped to Turgeon.

EXPORTS, CATS SPLIT

BEAUMONT, Texas, July 29. (AP)—Jim Riley's natural inclination to peck away at Beaumont's short right field fence enabled the Fort Worth Cats to trim the Exporters 8 to 5 in the opening game of a twin bill today, but four hurlers could not stop the Shippers in the seven inning afterpiece which the locals captured, 8 to 2.

Going into the ninth inning a run behind, the Cats fell upon Walker, Phillips and Darrough for four runs, more than enough to settle the first game. Riley had a big afternoon in the first game, slamming out a home run and three doubles. Scores:

DAILY DOPE

By Larry Dailey

CHAMPIONSHIP of the Twilight league will be decided today. Apropos to this contest is a letter from a well-known fan here. It follows:

"One more game and the Twilight season is over. All of us fans should feel grateful to the companies for getting together the best bunch of amateur ball players ever seen in Wichita Falls. The players are to be complimented for the gentlemanly manner they have conducted themselves on the field. Our umpire (Nealie Vaught) has displayed unusual talent. Another official that has worked hard for the success of the league is our secretary and treasurer, (Leon Horn).

"He should be rewarded by the league by being presented a nice present if there is any money in the treasury.

"There isn't a man in Wichita Falls any more interested in amateur athletics than Alderman Roy Carter. The league would do well to elect him as president for 1929.

STILL VERY MUCH in the pennant fight despite the loss of the series at Houston, our Spudders moved to Beaumont today. While the setbacks at the hands of the Buffs were disappointing they are not to be viewed as conclusive. The Spudders are still very much in the hunt for the second-half gonfalon and unless accident or some other unforeseen calamity befall one or more of the athletes they will battle right down to the last bell.

The Spudders have played some great baseball in the last month or so and a slump was bound to ensue. They encountered that slump at Houston, albeit they were engaging a mighty hard club to beat. The combination of Buffs and a slight let-down in play was too much for them. But it is reiterated that the loss of the series at the Bayou city is not to be regarded except as regretful. They're still Our Spudders.

AFTER PLAYING today and tomorrow at Beaumont the Galloways start homeward, stopping off en route at Dallas for contests Wednesday and Thursday. Then they're home Friday for 14 days, including a double-header.

United States Leads in First Day Of Olympiad With Finland Second

Kuck Sets World Record in Shot Put and King Wins High Jump; Nurmi Makes New Mark in 10,000 Meters

By ROBERT J. PREW
(Copyright, 1928, by Universal Service)

OLYMPIC STADIUM, AMSTERDAM, July 29. (US)—At 4 o'clock this afternoon, two hours after the opening of the track and field events, the flag of the United States was hoisted above the result board and 30,000 people rose from their seats to greet the first American victory of the ninth Olympiad.

The event was the shot put, and John Kuck of the Los Angeles Athletic club got the United States off to a running start with a record-breaking toss of 52 feet 11-16 inches, easily smashing all previous marks.

Two hours later, the stars and stripes was hoisted again, this time to signalize the victory of Robert W. King of Leland Stanford university in the high jump, with six feet, 4 3-8 inches.

So, at the close of the first day of the ninth Olympiad, with the pace set by the two Californians, the American track and field team stands at the top of the heap of nations, with 35 points, while Finland is second with 18.

The only completed event which the the Americans did not win was the 10,000 meters, in which they had no special ambition and no hopes at all. The race, however, was the big spectacular event of the day.

Nurmi and Ritola, the two flying Finns, ran a beautiful race, clinging together with Wide of Sweden for a good part of the distance. In the final stages, the two Finns left all the others far behind, and Nurmi, using his reserve sprinting power, jumped ahead of Ritola in the last 50 yards.

There was thunderous cheering from the great throng as the runners crossed the finish; but it was noticed by many that Ritola failed to congratulate his countryman of his setting a new world mark of 30 minutes, 18 4-5 seconds.

All four Americans came through the first two rounds of the 100 meters dash, and it is generally believed tonight that one of them will win the finals.

In the 800 meters, also, all the entrants from the United States survived the first heat. Lloyd Hahn of the Boston Athletic association and Earl Fuller of the Olympic club of California stand as the favorites for the finals.

The events of the first day run off in sunny weather, with high winds blowing across the stadium. The seating accommodations were by no means fully occupied. There must have been at least 5000 vacant seats and standing places.

But there was no lack of enthusiasm. The most vociferous demonstrations came from the American and German contingents as their successes were scored. It was a good day for the German sprinters, but the shot-putters caused great disappointment to the adherents of the fatherland, while the middle distance runners seemed unlikely to gain premier honors.

Great Britain also failed to win distinction, and now is relying principally upon her hurdlers, chiefly Lord Burghley, to get the union jack hoisted in the stadium as a signal of victory.

France collected a few points, but found no cause for rejoicing.

Three of the four Americans entered in the shot-put, the first event to be decided, placed in the final and scored 18 points for America. Herman Brix of the University of Washington was second, a few inches behind Kuck, and Eric Krenz of Stanford university finished fourth behind Hirschfield, the German giant who was holder of the world record. H. P. Rothert of Stanford was the other American competitor, and the only one who failed to finish among the point winners.

Kuck's record heave was 15 meters and 87 centimeters, approximately 52 feet and one inch, three and a fraction inches further than Hirschfield's record of 15 meters, 79 centimeters, which the German failed to equal in today's competition. The order of the finish of the shot-put was:

Kuck, United States, 15 meters, 87 centimeters; Brix, United States, 15 meters, 75 centimeters; Hirschfield, Germany, 15 meters, 72 centimeters; Krenz, United States, 14 meters, 99 centimeters; Wahlstedt, Finland, 14 meters, 69 centimeters; Eubler, Germany, 14 meters, 69 centimeters. Wahlstedt won the put to decide the tie and took fifth place.

United States 18; Germany 5; Finland, 2.

America added to her point score in the high jump when Hedges won second place from the Frenchman, Menard, giving the United States at that juncture a total of 33 points. The surprise of the high jump was the showing of the unknown Filipino, Torbio, who took fourth place ahead of Harold Osborn of the United States. Lewden of France was sixth.

In the third final of the day, the 10,000-meter run, Wide, the Swede, was third to Nurmi and Ritola, and Ray Penn State runner, and Macauley Smith, the Boston middle-distance man, dropped out before the finish. Smith quit after 2000 meters and Romig gave up at the half-way mark. Others who placed were: Fourth, Lindgren, Sweden; fifth, Muggridge, England, sixth, Loukola, Finland.

With the three finals on the day's program completed, the United States led with 35 points. Other scores were:

Finland, 18; Sweden, 7; Germany, 5; France, 5; Philipines, 3; England, 2.

On Monday's program are finals in the 100-meter dash, in which all four of America's entries qualified, and the 400-meter hurdles, in which the two American stars, Morgan Taylor and Frank Cuhel have a splendid chance to finish one-two, and the hammer throw.

In the first round of the foil fencing, United States defeated Egypt 11 touches to five. The American foils team then defeated the Swiss, 14 touches to two. They will face stronger opposition against the Italian team tomorrow.

WOODMEN COP TWO

Modern Woodmen of America defeated the Window Glass factory ball team yesterday in a double header on the former's field. The scores were 13 to 1 and 9 to 3. The Wodmen issue a challenge to all amateur teams here.

CONTESTS END IN 9-6 SCORES

Championship To Be Decided in Clash Today

Texas Electrics and Panhandle Longhorns divided the first two games of the three-game title series in the Twilight league yesterday at Katy park, the Electrics taking the first game, 9 to 6, and the Longhorns winning the second, also by 9 to 6.

Lefty Robertson held the Steers well in hand until the ninth inning of the first contest when two walks, four hits and an error put over the six Panhandle tallies.

Kilowats Get 13 Hits

The Kilowats touched Gabe Harris for 13 hits in the first contest while the Longhorns clouted nine blows.

Archie Womack started the second game on the hill for the Electrics against Smoke Lupher. After the first inning the hard hitting Steers laced out safe hits almost at will off of Womack. He was relieved by Robertson in the sixth.

Title Game Today

Smoke did right well on the hill with the exception of a bad fourth inning when the Kilowats tallied six runs. He was touched for 10 blows while his teammates garnered 12 off Womack and Robertson.

The third and decisive contest will be played this afternoon at 4 o'clock on the Katy park diamond. Score:

PROPOSED constitutional amendment—authorizing legislature to grant confederate pensions regardless of date pensioner came to Texas or when widow married pensioner or when she was born. H. J. R. No. 15. House joint resolution. Proposing an amendment to section 51, article 3, of the constitution of the state of Texas, authorizing a tax levy for confederate soldiers and sailors and their widows, and providing for submission of same to the qualified electors of this state at any election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1928, and providing the necessary proclamation and appropriation to defray expenses of proclamation, publication and election. Be it resolved by the legislature of the state of Texas: Section 1. That section 51, of article 3, of the constitution of the state of Texas be amended so as to read as follows: "The legislature shall have no power to make any grant or authorize the making of any grant of public moneys to any individual, association of individuals, municipal or other corporations whatsoever; provided, however, the legislature may grant aid to indigent and disabled confederate soldiers and sailors under such regulations and limitations as may be deemed by the legislature as expedient, and to their widows in indigent circumstances under such regulations and limitations as may be deemed by the legislature as expedient; to indigent and disabled soldiers, who, under special laws of the state of Texas, during the war between the states, served in organizations for the protection of the frontier against Indian raids or Mexican marauders, and to indigent and disabled soldiers of the militia who were in active service during the war between the states, and to the widows of such soldiers who are in indigent circumstances, and who are or may be eligible to receive aid under such regulations and limitations as may be deemed by the legislature as expedient; and also grant for the establishment and maintenance of a home for said soldiers and sailors, their wives and widows and women who aided in the confederacy, under such regulations and limitations as may be provided for by law; provided the legislature may provide for husband and wife to remain together in the home. There is hereby levied in addition to all other taxes heretofore permitted by the constitution of Texas, a state ad valorem tax on property of seven (7) cents on the one hundred ($100) dollars valuation for the purpose of creating a special fund for the payment of pensions for services in the confederate army and navy, frontier organizations and the militia of the state of Texas, and for the widows of such soldiers serving in said armies, navies, organizations or militia; provided that the legislature may reduce the tax rate herein levied and provided further, that the provisions of this section shall not be construed so as to prevent the grant of aid in cases of public calamity. Section 2. The foregoing constitutional amendment shall be submitted to a vote of the qualified electors of the state at an election to be held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November, A. D. 1928, at which all ballots shall have printed thereon "For the constitutional amendment authorizing aid to confederate soldiers and sailors and their widows in indigent circumstances, and authorizing tax levy therefor," and "Against the constitutional amendment authorizing aid to confederate soldiers and sailors and their widows in indigent circumstances and authorizing tax levy therefor." Each voter shall scratch out one of said clauses on the ballot, leaving the one expressing his vote on the proposed amendment. Section 3. The governor shall issue the necessary proclamation for said election and have the same published as required by the constitution and laws of this state. The sum of $5,000 or so much thereof as may be needed is hereby appropriated for the expense of publication of said amendment.

STOCK-A-DAY

ARCHER-DANIELS-MIDLAND COMPANY

5-Year Record

The Archer-Daniels-Midland company came into existence as a result of the consolidation of the Archer-Daniels Linseed company, and the Midland Linseed Products company. The concern is one of the largest producers of linseed oil. Mills are operated at Toledo, Minneapolis, St. Paul, Chicago, Milwaukee, Buffalo, and Edgewater, N. J. The concern has a public elevator at Minneapolis and transacts a general grain business in that city. It has a number of subsidiaries engaged in allied lines of business and in 1928 added about 10 per cent to its output by purchasing the William O. Goodrich company of Milwaukee.

Sales have not been reported since the consolidation, but net income for each of the last three fiscal years has been equal to at least five times the dividend requirement on the preferred stock. Net for the quarter ended February 29, 1928, showed a substantial increase over the corresponding period of the previous year. Net income for the year ended August 31, 1927, was $1,605,000, or $37.31 a share on the preferred and $5.77 a share on the common. This compared with $1,585,000 in the previous year.

There is no funded debt. Capital stock outstanding consists of $4,300,000 in seven per cent cumulative preferred of $100 par value, and 215,000 shares of no par common. The preferred stock has no voting power except in default of three quarterly preferred dividends, in which event it has exclusive voting power.

Dividends were started on the preferred in August, 1923, and have been paid regularly since. On the common an initial dividend of 75 cents was paid February 1, 1927, and this rate has been continued quarterly since.

As of August 31, 1927, total current assets were $8,517,739; current liabilities were $878,576, and net working capital $7,638,963. Book value of the common stock amounted to $49.59 a share.

Zep Motors Fail Under Long Test

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, July 29. (UP)—With Germany's new giant transatlantic mail and passenger zeppelin practically completed and almost ready for inflating, the big air liner is being delayed in taking the air for its trial flights and transocean trip to Lakehurst by the failure to deliver the motors in time.

The five big 12-cylinder, 530-horsepower Maybach motors, designed and built especially for the Count Zeppelin, have been put through exceptionally severe tests to determine any weakness of material or construction. As a result of the grinding test of attempting to make the motors stand a 40-hour unbroken run at 25 per cent above the normal speed and strain, the counter-balancing weight on the crankshaft broke off in the thirty-eighth hour.

After being repaired a second test was made and the weight again flew off when the motor ran for hours at 1,700 revolutions, or about 300 above normal.

The petition will be presented to Governor Moody within the next few weeks.

Wilson, a theater cashier, was shot in an attempted holdup in the business section, January 31, 1927.

WHEAT FIELDS LEFT IN RUINS

Washington Fire Levels Big Grain Section

WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 29. (AP)—A blackened waste of wheat and pasture land, comprising some 80,000 acres, today marked the ravages of a fire that romped across the Eureka Flats grain country between Walla Walla and the Touchet river and was halted only after hundreds of fire fighters had fought the flames for hours.

A change in the direction of the wind brought success to the fire fighters, but only after a score of farmers had seen their season's crops destroyed, and in some cases their farm buildins also. The burned area, 19 square miles, was winter grazing pasture land, and about 3,500 acres wheat and in crops.

Farmers placed their grain loss at 50,000 bushels. Warehouses at Weiland, Adkins and Eureka Junction, filled with ravested wheat, were unharmed. The flames completely circled Adkins, where backfiring operations were successful.

About 20 farmers were affected by the losses, all of them reported to have been well insured.

The fire, believed to have been started near Wallula by sparks from a locomotive or by a carelessly thrown cigaret, burned several hours through pasture lands without attracting particular attention. When it reached the Fritz Plucker wheat ranch on the edge of the grain section, however, farmers turned out to fight it. Hundreds of ranchers and townspeople joined the army that fought the flames through the night.

DOG SLEUTH

Two Suspects Held For Frederick Thefts After Chase

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., July 29. The German police dog belonging to Lynn Blackwood is credited with the capture of two tire theft suspects being held by Frederick police. One of the men was held at bay on North Twelfth street by the dog until officers arrived and took the man in custody. Investigation of the car driven by the pair revealed seven casings, three of which were identified.

The other suspect was arrested, escaped from Police Chief Tom Cooper inadvertantly ran into Sheriff Jenks McCorcle, and was headed into a "blind" alley where he was stopped by E. A. Hefner only after he was entirely out of breath. Police plan additional investigations into the men's activities.

JOHN B. RHEA LOSES LEAD

Spence and Fruechte In Second Primary

by such margin as enabled him to hold his lead in the face of short votes in Archer and Young counties.

The greatest number of votes cast for any person in the primary in Wichita county went to Miss Elizabeth R. [illegible], unopposed, candidate for county clerk, who received 9503 votes.

Bob Long, "unqualified" proponent of the race for representative of district 111, place 1, shellacked his opponents in a vote of 4864.

J. D. Avis, unopposed for the same office, place 2, of the district gathered 9069 ayes.

A. V. Grant and Early Van Deventer, Constitutional proteges, slipped out of the running when Cecil Storey of Vernon amassed 8,127 votes in Wichita county alone and beat them real badly in Wilbarger county, in the endurance test for representative from district 112.

Cook and Allred

Ben Allred led the ticket in the contest for judge of the 78th district court, with 3,221, as compared with 2,660 votes polled by Judge W. W. Cook, runner-up. The handicap will be carried to the second primary. George Smoot and H. F. Weldon, with 1,991 and 1,543, respectively, also ran.

The judgeship of the 89th court was awarded to Judge P. A. Martin after much indecision. The vote in the race was, Judge Martin, 4,791, and Harry Bunnenberg, 4,484.

Eunice Jackson, seeking a second term as district clerk, amassed 7,337 votes as compared with 2,094 for her opponent, Jesse S. Smith. John P. Marrs led the race for county judge with 4,447 against the 3,230 for Judge E. W. Nicholson. P. B. Curd, third in the three-cornered drive, secured 1,640 votes.

In the county court at law contest, Judge C. M. McFarland led with 3,896, compared to 3,405 and 2,019 for Irvin J. Vogel and Ralph D. Pittman, respectively.

If the missing votes in precinct 17 align themselves in the right way, Wayne Somerville will not need to be in a run-off, but on the present count he'll mix again with Robert Crain in the race for county attorney. The vote was, Somerville, 4,645; Crain, 2,070; Bill Davenport, 1,725, and W. E. Wilson, 1,067.

Guy Raley seemed to have slipped by Arthur C. Howard, polling 4,337 votes while Howard counted 4,240, in the campaign for tax collector.

Hood Second in Race

Max Shumake led the way in the six-candidate drive for tax assessor. The vote was, Shumake, 2,764; R. S. Dunaway, 2,253; N. A. Moore, 1,390; B. L. Trevathan, 1,154; Everett Hughes, 1,037, and Mart Banta, 425.

Mrs. W. W. Gardner was defeated for treasurer by T. W. McHam by 3,633 to 5,729.

J. A. Hood, with 2,841 votes, will be in the run-off with Burl Bryant, with 4,000, in the county school superintendent's race. Clyde R. Wofford polled 2,547.

The vote of thanks to W. G. Bralley, sheriff, reached 6,239, compared to 2,286 for H. L. White and S. M. Spruiell. There will be no run-off.

In the senatorial race Connally topped Mayfield in Wichita county, while Governor Dan Moody handed Louis J. Wardlaw a three-to-one trimming.

Tom Love ran a little in Wichita county, giving way to J. D. Parnell and Barry Miller, who ranked one-two. The vote was, Parnell, 4,765; Miller, 2,173, and Love, 1,821.

In the undecided races for precinct chairmen, N. M. Matthews defeated G. W. Chapman by a vote of 59 to 10 in the Clara box. J. R. Ogle nosed out John Gould by a vote of 136 to 128 in Precinct 20.

Old Fight Revived

B. D. Sartin, A. V. Grant, and J. W. Nicholson were elected delegates to the county Democratic convention at the convention of voters in precinct No. 17, Saturday afternoon, Mr. Nicholson, precinct chairman, announced.

It was previously announced that J. B. Hatchett was elected a delegate from that precinct.

Mr. Nicholson took exception to the above in a statement Sunday. He said Mr. Hatchett was not present at the regularly called convention over which he presided, and which was the only regularly called convention of that precinct.

Mr. Nicholson added that any other delegates besides those elected in the regular convention could aptly be classified as "bolters."

Why He Didn't Attend

The report of Mr. Hatchett as a delegate in Sunday's paper was an error. Mr. Hatchett told The Record News Sunday he "went to sleep" and forgot to attend the precinct convention. Precinct 17 was the scene of a bitter fight, and a split convention when the precinct conventions were held in May. Two sets of delegates, one headed by B. D. Sartin and the other by Mr. Hatchett were elected to the county convention at that time.

Peaceful Occasion

The quietest election day in many years, and the quietest Saturday night in many months, was the way in which the police Sunday described Wichita Falls and its behavior Saturday and early Sunday morning.

W. G. Bralley, sheriff, complimented the city and its people, and Frank Burns, chief of police, said it was hard to believe that under the stress and excitement of an election night things could be so quiet.

One man was arrested for leaving his motor running. Drunks, fighting, reckless driving and the usual holiday violations were lacking, the police records show.

"Glorious Betsy" is to be some show, and more than that, according to Hans Smith, manager of the Strand. "That is a complete vitaphone picture with more dialogue than any picture we have had on the vitaphone to date," Mr. Smith said. "The cast is one of the famous vitaphone casts headed by Dolores Costello and Conrad Nagel."

Valley Villages Ruined by Floods

MOSCOW, July 29. (UP) — Eleven villages were reported to have been destroyed along the river Zeya by floods and cyclones. Officials reported the river was sweeping trees, cattle and horses before it.

Residents fled from lowlands. Cloudbursts at Chabarovsk are continuing. Cyclones from the region of the Chinese coast increased the damage.

Texas Farmer, 'Dead' For Seven Years, Faces Real End in Denver Hospital

DENVER, Colo., July 29. (UP)—For more than seven years James H. Lawrence has been listed as dead. Today he came to life here in the person of J. H. Lee, but the death he cheated is feared to be hovering near him now.

"I made a mistake," was the only comment of the prematurely old man as he admitted his identity to insurance company representatives.

Early in March, 1921, Kansas City police were confronted with the mystery of the disappearance of James H. Lawrence, reputed wealthy farmer of Edinburgh, Texas.

Lawrence's hat and coat were found on the banks of the Missouri river.

Detectives located a taxi driver who said he had taken a man answering Lawrence's description to the river's edge.

Family in Texas

Lawrence's wife was with her four children in Edinburgh and inquiries revealed she had received a letter from her husband after his arrival in Kansas City.

That was the last word she ever heard from him.

The only information she could give authorities was that her husband had been born in Belleflower, Ill., in 1870. He had moved to Rockwell City, Iowa, and through farming and grain elevator he operated there had acquired a fortune estimated between $100,000 and $150,000.

The life story of Lawrence apparently ended on the banks of the Missouri river. But the mystery of his disappearance was listed as "unsolved."

Mrs. Lawrence sought to collect $19,500 insurance which her husband had taken out with fraternal organizations and insurance firms.

Detectives Fail

The firms employed detectives to solve the mystery, but to no avail.

Last week, however, Harry Burnham, shop proprietor here, seemed to see in the face of J. H. Lee, clerk at the Commerce Apartment hotel, something strangely familiar.

"I have seen that man somewhere before," Burnham told his wife, "but I can't seem to place him."

"That man is James Lawrence we used to know in Rockwell City," he told his wife, "I am absolutely sure of it."

Mrs. Burnham confirmed the identification.

In some way investigators for insurance firms learned that the Burnhams had recognized Lawrence.

Scorns Identification

In the meantime, however, the white-haired man with the keen dark eyes had been taken to St. Anthony's hospital.

Complications resulting from rheumatism which had twisted his hands attacked his left leg and it was amputated above the knee.

"I had been in financial difficulties in Texas and had made a deal with Kansas City business men which I hoped would adjust things," Lawrence said when confronted by the insurance men.

"I had hoped no one ever would know. The man who revealed my identity is a scoundrel, I wouldn't have done such a thing to any man."

Lawrence has no idea whether his wife and children are still living.

SOLDIERS AND REBELS KILLED

19 Deaths in Battle In San Luis Potosi

EL PASO, Texas, July 29. (UP)—Seventeen rebels and two federal soldiers were killed in a battle in San Luis Potosi, Mexico, between a band led by Felipe De la Toree and Flacre Sances, and the 76th and 77th regiments, a dispatch to El Continental, Spanish language newspaper here, said today.

Two rebels were taken prisoner as the rebels fled toward the state of Guanajuato. The battle lasted several hours. Twenty rifles, 100 saddle horses and other war supplies were seized by the federals.

Gene to Announce Future Plans At 'Audience' of Scribes Today

NEW YORK, July 29. (UP)—The world will have to wait until Monday morning to learn the future plans of Gene Tunney, who won the heavyweight title from Jack Dempsey September 23, 1926, and has since successfully defended it against Dempsey and Tom Heeney.

So many varying and contradictatory rumors have been circulated about Tunney since he defeated Heeney Thursday night at Yankee stadium that is reasonable to assume that only Gene Tunney knows what Gene Tunney has in mind.

The champion will formally meet newspapermen in his suite at the Biltmore hotel Monday morning and at that time will make an announcement "of greatest importance." Until that time the world continues to speculate over what the champion may be about to undertake.

There are many indications that Tunney will announce his permanent retirement from the boxing profession, yet there are many reasons why the titleholder might elect to continue his activities in the boxing ring.

Hardly more than a week ago at his training camp at Speculator, N. Y., Tunney termed reports that he planned to retire after his match with Heeney as "ridiculous."

POLICE STOP CORPSE DEAL

Woman Planned to Sell Body of Her Son

LOS ANGELES, July 29. (US)—Charged with using the petrified body of her son in a scheme to defraud, Mrs. Alliece Sawyer, of Long Beach was arrested today.

According to postal inspectors, Mrs. Swayer obtained $32,000 from John L. Stutz, 63, and his wife, Laura Stutz, cousins by marriage, as a loan for the purpose of selling her son's body to scientists.

Her son, Theron Sawyer, is said to have died four years ago at El Centro, at the age of 21. Six months after his burial the surface of the gave caved in, and the body was found to have become petrified, it was said. This was ascribed to the character of the embalming fluid and the condition of the soil.

Promised Profits

The body was re-interred later, the charge goes, Mrs. Sawyer persuaded Mr. and Mrs. Stutz to lend her money to carry on a deal for disposing of the body, promising to share the profits with them.

Mr. and Mrs. Stutz live at Meridian, Miss. Congressman Ross Collins of that state is said to have played a part in the investigation referring the Stutzes to postal officials in Mississippi when they appealed to him for assistance.

Postal officials here say that Mrs. Sawyer, in a letter to the Stutzes, said:

Offers Range High

"We are putting the body through a test and if it goes through as we think it will, we will be high, dry and handsome for all time to come, for I can get a fortune and still own the body, which will be glory for me."

According to postal officials, Mrs. Sawyer said she had received offers for the body ranging from $25,000 to $350,000. The officials declare that no such offers were received by her.

Rocket Car Jumps Off Rails in Test Of Its Speed

BERLIN, July 29. (US)—A new version of the rocket-propelled car attained a speed of 128 miles an hour today in tests between Nordhausen and Gernrid. The "rocket motor" installed on a rail vehicle without crew was tested in three trials, on the third of which the car was derailed and smashed. The inventor of the rocket motor, Max Valier, said the car was too light, and that with a heavier car the speed could be increased. The rocket motor gets propulsion by a series of explosions on the same principle that the sky-rocket or projectile is propelled through the air.
