The Gay Philosopher

By J. W. S.

HAVING BOUGHT a copy of THAT magazine and read the article "Let's Secede from Texas" by a writer we never heard of before and whose name we can't now remember, we're convinced that nobody will take it seriously. We kind of regret that we're not a subscriber of the magazine as we would enjoy cancelling a subscription.

Regardless of the fact that the article is pure tommyrot, we don't believe any magazine should print such stuff. Like newspapers, the magazines have an obligation to the public they serve — to publish factual articles. And, certainly, the Texas story ignored the truth.

We assume the writer of the article is an easterner. For our money, he can continue to live in the smog country. We'll stay in Texas, which produces more oil and gas than all the rest of the world. We'll continue to take pride in the knowledge that our state leads all other states in beef production, in cotton, in sulphur, and scores of other items.

The author of the article has sought through a hodgepodge of insults to attract attention. The best way to deal with him and his publisher is to ignore them. Our guess is that the magazine would sorely miss the revenue it receives each month from subscriptions and news stand sales in Texas.

A PICTURE OF Miss Mona Lee Cluck, daughter of the R. N. Clucks, appeared in The Dallas News the other day. She played a couple of violin numbers on a program for the Schubert Study Club in Dallas. She's a music student at S. M. U.

A STORY ON A fine musical program rendered at the Industrial Arts Club meeting here the other day failed to mention the fact that young Mr. Johnny Turner played the piano. On 10-minute notice, Johnny played and the club enjoyed his rendition very much. He's a freshman at the high school and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Turner.

MRS. LEWIS STARR reports that somebody lost the hub-cap of their Plymouth car near their residence on West 9th Street. If you've lost one, drop by the Starr home . . . And he is enjoying the experience very much.

THE CISCO ROTARY Club can take pride in their attendance record for January. The national attendance contest figures are in, and the Cisco club's 40 members had a weekly average attendance of 93.38 per cent. One member missed one meeting due to illness. The Club always has a top attendance record.

OUR LIST OF the "forgotten" makes of automobiles was short compared with others that have come in. Lists have come in from Edward Lee, Sam P. Baugh, E. A. Boone, Charles S. Sandler and others. Here's the more complete list:

Public Urged To Attend Meeting On Blood Project

Larry Hayes, director of the North Texas Defense Center at Fort Worth, will address a public meeting in Cisco at 7 p. m. Wednesday at the First National Bank's community conference room. He will explain the national blood program.

The meeting hour has been changed from 7:30 to 7 p. m. for the convenience of those who plan to attend prayer services at local churches.

Mrs. Charles S. Sandler, county Red Cross bloodmobile chairman, and Mrs. W. W. Wallace, local chairman, have urged the public to attend the meeting to hear the discussion of the blood program. The Red Cross is currently collecting blood for use by the National Polio Foundation in the preparation of serums for the prevention of paralysis in polio.

Mr. Hayes will be here Thursday to meet with leaders for the Cisco appearance on March 31 of the Red Cross Bloodmobile Unit.

Broiler Plant Is In Operation At Morton Valley

A model broiler plant with 2,000 New Hampshire Reds, nearly ready for the market, is in operation one-half mile west of Morton Valley on the Breckenridge road at the J. B. (Tip) Arthur place.

The 7½ weeks old broilers are being raised in a 24 by 76 feet corrugated iron building that also doubles as a turkey broiler house. The mortality loss of the chicks has been less than 3%, Arthur said.

The New Hampshire Reds are quick feathering, fast maturing birds and are one of the new strains of broiler chicks that are bred to make large, fast gains on a small amount of feed.

Arthur, who is associated with his brother in the processing business in Eastland, believes that a good quality broiler can be produced in this area as fast and as economically as they can be in East Texas or in Arkansas.

He invited those who are interested in the broiler business to come by in the next several days and see his birds. About one-fourth of them will go to the processing plant on March 16.

Loans to finance broiler houses as well as the feed and chicks for those who wish to go into the business is now available, according to information from the County Agent's office in Eastland.

GOLF EVENT PLANNED

The Ranger Country Club will be host to area golfers in a pro-amateur meet at 12:30 p. m. Saturday, it was announced here today. Cisco golfers have been invited to take part in the program.

PANCAKE SUPPER PROGRAM IS ARRANGED AS BOOSTER'S MEET

Members of the Cisco Boosters Club made final plans for their Aunt Jemima Pancake Supper, to be held Thursday night at the First Christian Church, at their regular weekly meeting at the high school Monday night.

J. C. Fletcher is the general chairman for the supper. President Bob Latson appointed the following committee heads to work with Fletcher in preparing for the affair: entertainment, Bill Kendall; table preparation, I. A. Brunkenhoefer; kitchen, Larry Hebert; ticket taking, Paul Farrow.

President Latson reported that there were four contestants already entered in the pancake eating contest to be held in connection with the supper and that more would be obtained prior to Thursday night.

It was decided to have an entertainment program throughout the evening. The supper begins at 5 p. m. and lasts until 8 p. m. Pancakes will be served all during the three hour period and ticket holders may come any time during the affair. It was estimated that not more than 30 minutes would be required to serve any person.

The contest will be held between the hours of 6:30 p. m. and 7 p. m. A running score will be announced during the contest.

Most of the products used in the supper have been donated by manufacturers, jobbers and local merchants. The Aunt Jemima Pancake Flour Company will furnish the pancakes, and Aunt Jemima will be here in person for the supper. Mrs. Tucker will furnish the Meadowlake Oleomargarine; White Swan, the coffee; Penick and Ford, the Vermont Maid syrup, Surles Dairy and Tennessee Dairies, the milk and cream, McCauley's, the loud speaker; Armour, Swift, Hormel, Norvell and Miller and A & P, the bacon. Other donors will be named later.

All members of the club were asked to be at the church as early Thursday as possible to aid with the preparations, and in the serving.

The rain gauge at the city hall registered 1.6 inches, while the gauge at Lake Cisco showed a total of 1.5 inches. The rainfall was heavier to the south, and Rising Star reported between two and three inches. Brownwood had three and a half inches.

This was the first general rain in about five months for this area, and it came at an ideal time to benefit rural sections. Extensive spring plowing and planting will probably begin in the near future as a result of the rain. Stock tanks were in good shape.

The Cisco area received a total of 19.6 inches of rain in 1952. The last rain of any size fell on September 22, measuring 2.15 inches. October, November and December, 1952, were exceptionally dry months.

Rainfall so far this year included .17 of an inch in January and .44 of an inch in February. A total of 2.64 inches fell during the first three months of 1953. Weather forecasters predicted partly cloudy with little chance for additional rain for the next five days.

Both senior and junior team members will make the trip, the coaches reported.

Entries in the senior events will be Bobby Black and Kent Davis in the 100 yard dash; Jim Webb, Fred Hayes and George Callarman in the high hurdles; Hayes and Marcus Gallegos in the 440; Jim Reynolds, Arzel Hale and Buck Whitehead in the 880; Jerry Weiser in the mile; Jim Webb and Davis in the 220; Webb, Black and Carl Ingram in the low hurdles; Webb and Hayes in the high jump; Davis in the broad jump; Webb, Sherwood Gaines and Levere Adams in the discus; Adams and Bennie Edwards in the shotput. A 440 yard and a mile relay team will also be entered.

Tommy Reynolds, Ronnie Qualls, Howard Hamilton and Harold Phippen will be entered in the junior events.

Coach O. B. Graham of the Cisco Junior High School track team will also take his team to the Comanche meet for entry in the junior high school events.

The Cisco track team has accepted an invitation to enter the Tarleton Relays in Stephenville on March 21, and the Bluebonnet Relays in Brownwood on March 28.

Herman Reimers Hurt In Mishap

Mr. and Mrs. Herman Reimer were recovering satisfactorily Tuesday from injuries received Saturday afternoon in an automobile accident east of Ranger on U. S. Highway 80.

Mrs. Reimer was in Graham Hospital where she was receiving treatment for a broken pelvis and other injuries. Mr. Reimer was released Monday after being treated for chest injuries.

The accident occurred Saturday afternoon just east of Ranger Hill on U. S. Highway 80 when the car the Reimers were driving was struck head on by a car driven by a Lamesa woman. She was taken to a Ranger hospital where she received treatment. Mr. and Mrs. Reimer were brought to Graham Hospital here.

Mr. and Mrs. Reimer reported that their cleaning plant here would be closed for several weeks while they recovered from their injuries. They asked customers to come for their clothes this week.

Band Parents Study Needs For Finances

Plans for raising funds to aid the Cisco High School band in its work were discussed at the regular meeting of the Band Parents Club at the band hall Monday night. Some 18 members attended the meeting.

President John Popalio presided at the meeting and led the discussion on various proposals. It was decided not to take action at the meeting Monday night. A special meeting will be called later this month for further study.

Slight Gain Seen For Cisco Lakes

A general rain of 1.6 inches — largest since September 22, 1952 — fell Sunday and Monday in the Cisco area and throughout much of West Texas. In some places, including San Angelo and Brownwood, heavy rain relieved water shortages.

Although the rainfall contributed little to Cisco's municipal water supply, it left farm and ranch conditions considerably brighter. Lake Cisco caught about two inches of water, and Lake Birnie fared a little better.

The rain gauge at the city hall registered 1.6 inches, while the gauge at Lake Cisco showed a total of 1.5 inches. The rainfall was heavier to the south, and Rising Star reported between two and three inches. Brownwood had three and a half inches.

This was the first general rain in about five months for this area, and it came at an ideal time to benefit rural sections. Extensive spring plowing and planting will probably begin in the near future as a result of the rain. Stock tanks were in good shape.

THE PRESIDENT'S CRUSADE

"We know now that Dwight Eisenhower was speaking with some conscious exactness when he used the word 'crusade' to describe his career as soldier, candidate and President," wrote columnist Holmes Alexander recently. "The emphasis on militant morality or conquest for righteousness, already noted by Mr. Eisenhower's friends, is now being remarked upon by his opponents."

It is this crusading spirit which, more than any particular and specific issue, distinguishes the Eisenhower Administration from its immediate predecessors. And it is the crusading spirit which is giving substance, unity and direction to the policies, aims and actions of both the President and the men who are close to him.

The new President is a deeply religious man, and ancient religious principles heavily influence his thinking. To quote Mr. Alexander again, "His own ancestors were members of a minority sect which migrated from Pennsylvania into Texas and Kansas, believing in the dignity of toil and never whimpering for the cold charity which governments often give in return for subservience. . . . Much of the President's hatred of Nazism and Communism seems to stem from the godlessness of those systems."

Here, certainly is a key to what we expect of the Eisenhower leadership in both domestic and world affairs. And it does much to explain what the Administration is now doing or trying to do in widely varied fields.

The President, for example, wants economical government; thrifty government. And this is not only because it would save the taxpayers' money, important as that is. Going beyond the realm of dollars and cents, the President is convinced that the attitude of mind which encourages or fails to prevent waste and prodigality is the attitude of mind that could lead to a breakdown of the national fiber and result in national ruin. He looks on graft and corruption in government — whether it be represented by the gift of a fur coat or a deal involving millions — in much the same way.

The President is also, it is clear, a firm believer in the idea that the Lord helps those who help themselves. He is 100 per cent opposed to the "give-away" philosophy.

We have seen some very significant examples of that since the Administration took office. One is in the Department of Agriculture. Secretary Benson made it plain that, in his estimation, price supports for farm products should be regarded as emergency measures, not as something farmers have come to expect as a matter of course. Some loud howls greeted this, but the Secretary got many a pat on the back as well.

Another is in the State Department. Nobody has a stronger desire to cement and strengthen the anti-Communist countries than Mr. Dulles. Nobody is more certain that the existence of the free world depends on this. But he has made it abundantly clear that the Western European powers must do much more than has been the case so far, both to reconcile their differences and to build their military strength. The American Treasury, he pointed out in effect, is not a bottomless well.

Finally, the general principle back of the Eisenhower program as a whole is that government should not do what private enterprise or local government or individuals themselves can do. He wants less centralized government, not more. He wants the people to be self-reliant instead of dependent. It looks now as if this idea will be the hallmark of his administration.

Starr Millet is Valuable New Forage for South

Cows pasturing on Starr millet.

Starr millet, a new variety of pearl millet or cattail millet, developed by Glenn W. Burton of the Coastal Plain Experiment Station, Tifton, Georgia, is easier to manage and will last longer than the common variety of the southern states.

Preliminary tests indicate that this leafy variety of pearl millet is one of the best of all summer temporary grazing crops for dairy cattle, beef cattle, and hogs over the southern two-thirds of South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi.

Starr millet differs from common cattail millet in several respects. It produces more leaves per stem, yet is several feet shorter than common millet due to its shorter internodes. Planting date, soil fertility, and rainfall determine plant height but it seldom exceeds six feet. It usually matures four to six weeks later than common millet. It does not start off as fast as common millet but the percentage and tonnage of leaves (the most nutritious part of the plant) produced by Starr millet have greatly exceeded those produced by common cattail millet.

Starr millet was compared with common cattail millet in six-acre pastures grazed with steers. Both strains were planted on land previously in oats and vetch that had been fertilized in the fall of 1947. No fertilizer was applied to the millet. Both pastures were divided into two units and were grazed rotationally. Common cattail millet furnished 128 animal days per acre from June 3 to August 11 and produced 223 pounds of beef per acre. Starr millet furnished 124 animal days per acre from June 3 to August 27 and produced 275 pounds of beef per acre. Steers on common cattail gained 1.7 pounds per day, whereas those on Starr millet gained 2.2 pounds per day and animals on the best improved pastures only 1.1 pounds per day.

Rotation grazing without mowing is adequate for Starr millet. Under such management only the extra grazing supplied by Starr millet after the common cattail is gone can account for extra production resulting from its use. When grazed continuously or given the management generally used, Starr millet should produce more milk or meat throughout the season.

A nitrogen fertilization study conducted in 1950 on a Tifton sandy loam low in available nitrogen proved conclusively that Starr millet will make a striking response to nitrogen on such soils. Adding 128 pounds of nitrogen to this soil tripled the yield and increased the protein content of forage from 8.8 percent to 14.5 percent.

The seed supply of Starr millet is now being increased to meet requirements. Certified seed may be obtained in limited quantities from southern seed dealers. Starr millet should be planted in cultivated rows for best results. Ten pounds of good seed per acre in 30 to 36-inch rows have given excellent stands in well prepared seed beds. Late April to early May has generally been the best planting season in the latitude of Tifton, Georgia.

DRAFT LAWS AND REGULATIONS

(Editor's note: This is one of a series of 10 short articles on the draft law and its rules and regulations.)

Any young married man registered with a draft board had better be on the alert about any expected additions to his family. If his wife is expecting their first child, it is to his interest to tell the board about it immediately.

As long as he has only a wife to support, he's as eligible for a hitch in the Army as a single man. When he has a child in his family or one has been conceived and not yet born, the law provides for his deferment, provided he tells the board about it before he is ordered for induction.

Draft regulations require that a man with an unborn child be deferred if he files with his board, prior to the time his induction order is mailed, certificate of a licensed physician that a child has been conceived.

If he does not take this highly necessary step and the draft board sends him an order to report for induction, then the draft board has no authority to defer him on the basis of the unborn child. Brig. Gen. Paul Wakefield, state draft director, points out.

Neither does the state draft headquarters or the national draft headquarters have authority to interfere with his induction under such circumstances. Draft regulations would have to be amended to permit consideration of his deferment solely because of the unborn child.

Afterward, the law requires a man to report birth of children in to his family, just as it requires him to provide the local board at all times with his latest change of address.

TROUBLE, TROUBLE—An automobile rammed the rear of a parcel van in New York, top photo, the driver was killed. But in Boston, below, Francis L. Long, 29, walked away uninjured from his overturned car when it collided with another auto. The occupants of the other car were slightly injured.

HEALTH TALKS

Prepared by the Texas Medical Association

Baby care used to be considered very much in woman's sphere. Not so anymore.

A teacher of classes in baby care believes that fathers-to-be and new fathers are more aggressive students than their wives. They show greater interest in learning to handle the doll used for demonstrations and their questions are more varied. Any six foot man who is willing to look ridiculous while trying to hold a tiny doll in a bath basin is bound to have his baby's interest at heart, an interest also shown in such things as diaper-pinching contests enjoyed not only by on-lookers but the participants themselves.

Being the family's breadwinner is not enough; a complete family life demands an actively participating father, believes the medical profession. The father's interest, which should begin early during his wife's pregnancy, has several important aspects. First, he has a chance to make the most of the mutual emotional attachment between him and his new son or daughter, which grows as the child grows. Second, he can ease some of the physical, mental, and emotional strain from his spouse's shoulders. Third, he can brag about his skill in bathing, feeding, and otherwise taking care of "his" child, bragging that is bound to come as his efficiency increases.

A diaper that slides off at first soon becomes as neatly folded and pinned as a four-in-hand tie. A slippery, soaped-up baby doesn't baffle for long an ex-football player or the ex-farmboy who won a greased pig during a county fair. The words "football hold" and "body-arm hold" creep into his vocabulary, and the amount of formula the baby took during this morning's feeding is reported before his latest golf score or how much he won in last night's poker game. By this time, he's a real gone guy on the newest member of the household.

Another thing papa might like to know. Psychologists claim that a baby responds to low tones of music more than to high notes. This means that bathtub Carusos

How do you get to be a hospital patient? Do you just walk in and ask for a room?

In an emergency, of course, hospitals treat a patient at his request. However, the usual route is through his doctor, who notifies the institution that he would like for a room to be assigned.

At admission the patient is expected to furnish certain information: for example, his name, address, and occupation, and the name, address, and telephone of his next of kin. Hospitals usually like a member of his family or a friend to accompany the patient to answer these questions if he doesn't feel well enough. At the time of admission, also, the hospital likes to know how the patient's bill will be cared for: whether through hospitalization insurance, cash, or installment payments. In most hospitals arrangements can be made for the care of patients who can pay little or nothing.

In an emergency, much routine questioning is delayed until the immediate needs of the patient are met. The patient is treated either by his own doctor or a member of the hospital staff, according to his preference, the hospital's regulations, or the urgency. In certain instances the doctor will need first to question the patient closely to be sure that he gives the right kind of treatment. From the emergency room the patient may be dismissed and allowed to go home or admitted to the hospital, in some cases going directly to the operating room, laboratory, or x-ray department without being assigned a room.

After the patient is assigned a room or ward, his history is taken by a physician or a trained historian employed by the hospital; then a physical examination is performed by the house doctor. Laboratory studies may include examination of the blood and urine. If the patient's private physician is unaware that he is being admitted, he is notified, nicely.

If the patient expresses a religious preference and would like his minister to be notified, the hospital is glad to do this.

Mrs. Y. J. Rylee of 900 Humble Avenue, who underwent major surgery in the Gorman Hospital Friday, is reported as doing being admitted, he is notified, nicely.

WHEN THE TIME COMES — to sign the deed both buyer and seller are usually in a hurry. But alas! it is then the buyer demands an abstract and the seller discovers that he has lost his abstract or never had one. As all title work must be carefully done in these modern days, it takes time and much work. To avoid situations such as these let us suggest you place your abstract orders well in advance of an anticipated need.

Summer School Is Planned For Deaf Children

A summer school will be held at the Texas School for the Deaf beginning May 27 and closing June 6, it was announced here today.

Any parents and pre-school deaf children who are residents of the state will be potentially eligible to attend this school. Mothers who attended the same school last year will not be eligible this year, since it is assumed that they will carry on from their experience of last year.

Any child who has a considerable degree of deafness is eligible to attend provided he is not over eight or nine years of age. Preference will be given those children who will become six years of age by September of this year. However, any pre-school child is eligible. Difference in planning for age groups will make it impractical to accept children of more than eight or nine years of age. Any seven, eight or nine year old child who may already have been in school, other than the School for the Deaf, will not be eligible.

The mothers, with their children, will be provided room, board, and laundry, as guests of the Texas School for the Deaf during this ten day period. Each mother with her child will have a separate room in one of the dormitories during the session. Fathers will be accommodated in one of the boys' dormitories. The instruction and lectures will be primarily designed to aid parents in the care of their child before the child is eligible to attend school. No attempt will be made to train the parents as teachers, but to help them understand the problems and development of a young deaf child before entering school.

During the parents' stay at the school, people will be available to take care of the children while the parents are in classes. Recreation workers will be with the children to supervise their play. Attempts will be made to determine if the children attending do
