Friona School Burns!

Fire discovered at 2 a.m. Wednesday morning gutted the Friona high school building before it could be brought under control through the combined efforts of the Friona and Hereford fire departments.

Listed as a complete loss is the building which housed much expensive equipment that was consumed by flames. Saved, however, was the old gymnasium on the south end of the building which is virtually undamaged.

Dalton Caffey, superintendent, estimated damage at $100,000. Of this, $80,000 will be covered by school insurance. Original cost of the building, built in 1931 by S. S. Truitt and J. L. Landrum, was $65,000.

Brick walls of the building are still standing, but the ceiling and interior parts have been consumed. Supt. Caffey said he imagined that the walls would have to be torn down and a new building put up.

The fire was discovered by unidentified high school young people as they drove by the school on Highway 60. It was not until about 4 a. m., however, that two fire departments were able to halt spreading of the flames. They were assisted in part by early morning showers.

Glenn Cunningham, teacher, and two high school students managed to enter the building in time to save most of the records in offices of the northern part of the building.

Origin of the fire remains undetermined.

FROM THE HOPPER

The only person we have encountered that was unhappy about the good rain Monday night was Buddy Jones, who protested that it had interrupted his fishing pleasure. "Now I've got to go to work," Buddy laments.

Checking back over the past month, Buddy said that "out of 27 days I only got in 19 days of fishing."

Have had several comments on our crack at the New Mexico Highway Department last week for not giving more attention to the tree growth along Mabry Drive between Texico and Clovis. Garrett Blair points out that four-lane piece of highway could be made one of the prettiest drives in New Mexico.

Instead, he says, the nine-mile strip of road it is commonly called Bottled Boulevard." The reference being to the presence of empty bottles and beer cans.

With all the wonderful pine and spruce that abound the higher elevations of New Mexico, why can't the highway department take on a program of planting a double row of pine and spruce between the two lanes of the highway? Tourists traveling over the vast plains country of west Texas would immediately form a favorable opinion of New Mexico if they were greeted with a highway decorated with native trees and shrub.

Empty beer bottles, tin cans and burned-off right-of-ways just don't make favorable impressions.

We are still plugging for a series of dams along Friona and Running Water Draws in Parmer County. Such a program would accomplish two things: provide recreational spots in the county and serve as recharging sources for irrigation wells.

With few exceptions, every year has seen thousands of acre feet of tumbling down these ordinarily dry draws that could be retained here. Why couldn't this be a good project for the Soil Conservation Service to undertake?

Some of these days we may wake up to find that the water rights along these draws have been grabbed up by some city or cities southeast of here as a means of municipal supply. Then it will be to late for us to act.

And while we are speaking of water, we might suggest that every farmer who has an irrigation well near his farm improvements should build a concrete tank to be kept full of water at all times as means of fire protection. Texico-Farwell, Bovina and Friona all have good fire-fighting equipment, capable of lifting water from surface tanks to fight fires. But without an adequate supply of water, the best of equipment is worthless.

Any fire department in the county will be willng to make rural calls when their services are needed, but unless there is a water supply at the scene of the fire they are helpless.

A bunch of hard-hit wheat farmers were discussing the dismal prospects of this year's crop down town last week. They were discussing various means of controlling insect damage which has accounted for more wheat than the drought.

They noted that it used to be that all farmers had to worry about for a good wheat crop was rain. Now, it seems as though several other equally distressing factors have been thrown in for good measure.

Then they talked about importing natural enemies of such insects as the greenbug, cutworm, and red spider. Several Parmer farmers hauled in ladybugs from Arizona to eat up the wheat pests.

"Heck", observed Olan Schleuter, one of the group, "wheat raisin's too much trouble nowadays. I think I'll get me some gentleman bugs and go into the bug business."

Bovina Seniors Hear Rev. Durham Speak

Sixteen Bovina High School seniors began their graduation exercises Sunday morning at the high school auditorium, as they heard Rev. M. D. Durham deliver an address titled "Looking into the Future."

The baccalaureate ceremonies, which started at 11 a. m., began with the processional march by Mrs. Doris Wilson as the seniors slowly filed into the auditorium. Rev. Oscar Bruce, pastor of the Bovina Methodist Church, gave the invocation.

The girls' chorus, directed by Aubrey Tucker, sang a song, and Miss Clara Derrick sang "The Lord's Prayer." W. H. Willoughby, superintendent, presented the speaker.

Rev. Durham read scripture from the 6th chapter of John, verses 60-71, and used as his text, verse 68: "Then Simon Peter answered him, Lord, to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life."

Lists Mileposts

Rev. Durham began his address by listing what he termed "mileposts" in the lives of people. Among these mileposts, he said, are those of birth, starting to school, acceptance of Christ, graduation from grade school, graduation from high school, and the choosing of a life companion.

"You are in the flower of your youth right now," the speaker told the seniors. "Hear the words of Jesus as he says 'I am the bread of life.'"

Rev. Durham likened the questions of youth to the question of Peter as he asked Christ, "To Whom Shall We Go?"

The speaker proceeded from this point to select several phases of life on earth in seeking the answer of Peter's question.

He first considered the worldly life. "To some it offers riches, to some poverty, to some travel and adventure. To some it offers sinful pleasure, and to some the world offers false gods," Rev. Durham said. He warned that Satan is "the prince of the world," and offers nothing but heartache and misery.

Look To Our Friends?

The second place that an answer might be sought, Rev. Durham said, was among friends. "Shall we look to our friends?" he asked. "Friendship is appreciated. We cannot live without some friends, and a friendless person is in a pathetic condition."

The speaker warned that earthly friends are good to have as far as they can go, but they are "like us—they are limited in power."

Thirdly, Rev. Durham asked, "Shall we look to military might?" In answering his question, Rev. Durham cited Alexander the Great as a significant example of his point. "Military strength is not sufficient alone. There must be a higher power. Alexander the Great tried military strength, but failed. He conquered others, but failed to conquer himself."

As a fourth phase, the speaker

Twin Cities Are Selected as Location For Construction $50,000 Feed Lots

Selection of a site south of Farwell has been made for the construction of a $50,000 cattle feeding plant that will be named the Farwell Feed Lots, it was announced this week by Jewel Castor, Clovis cattleman.

Castor, in disclosing the installation which will bring additional big business to Texico-Farwell and its trade-territory, said construction has already begun on the plant, and although things are not far along, he looks for completion of the lots by Oct. 1.

One-hundred-forty acres were bought by Castor from John Holland of Farwell, and the cattleman estimated that 20 acres of the 140 will be needed for the feeding facilities.

Present plans call for construction of 18 pens to be built in the immediate future, drilling of an irrigation-type well, erection of buildings to house employees and equipment, and installation of a feed mill for grinding locally-grown feeds.

"We probably will feed out 2000 head this year," Castor said, adding that he will be feeding Wilson Packing Company cattle. "We'll also buy hogs for Wilson," he said.

The huge feeding plant will be located approximately three miles directly south of Farwell on the paved state line road. This was one of the deciding factors in determining location of the lots, according to Castor.

Availability of large quantities of feed grown in irrigated areas in and around the feed lot location and east of there in the West Camp and Lariat sections prompted Castor to select his site south of the city.

Location of all-weather roads both both north, south, and east of the lots promised trouble-free transportation of animals and feed, and the location also will be served by REA electricity.

Work has only been in progress for about two weeks now, according to Castor, and at present quite a bit of his construction work is waiting on completion of a 10-inch well which will furnish the lots with an adequate supply of water.

He explained that watering would be entirely automatic, and until the system is laid, little building construction can be undertaken.

Also automatic will be all feeding operations. Only three men will be required to keep the lots going, Castor estimates, because of the mechanical devices which will be built into the plant.

Castor indicated that T. J. Tipton of Clovis probably will be manager of the feed lots. Tipton will live in Farwell, although Castor says he intends to remain in Clovis.

Erection of the lots will be of particular interest to grain farmers around Farwell, Texico, and West Camp, because Castor intends to use all the locally-grown feedstuffs as much as is possible. He has contracted for a feed mill to be installed near the pens.

Asked if new government orders affecting beef production would have any bearing on operation of the Farwell Feed Lots, Castor replied that they definitely would.

"Of course I can't tell what is coming," he said, "but right now we couldn't afford to buy beef at 33 cents and have to sell it at 30 next fall."

Present government plans are to have perodic cuts made in beef prices up to October.

Castor said that it takes 100 to 150 days to feed out cattle, "depending on the condition of the cattle when we buy them." Although the large majority of the cattle to be fed out by Castor will be Wilson's, Castor made it clear that he would also buy fat hogs and both feeder and butcher cattle from local sources.

Castor, who is married and has one daughter, was formerly with Ranchers and Farmers Sale Barns in Clovis. He has lived in Clovis for two years, having moved there from Amarillo. "I've been in the cattle business ever since I was 14," he laughed.

Farwell Baccalaureate, Commencement Next Week; Fields and Cole Are Speakers

Graduation exercises for the 1951 Farwell senior class begin Sunday morning at the high school auditorium, announces Jack Williams, superintendent. Commencement activity will be Tuesday night, also in the auditorium, he said.

Rev. C. M. Fields, pastor of the Texico-Farwell Baptist Church will deliver the baccalaureate address. Sunday morning's exercises will start at 11:15 a.m., beginning with the processional march played by the high school ensemble.

Rev. A. D. Moore, pastor of the Oklahoma Lane Methodist Church, will give an invocation, following which the senior girls will be scheduled for a vocal selection.

Supt. Williams will introduce the speaker, and following his address, Minister Sol Morgan of the Church of Christ will pronounce the benediction, and the ensemble will play the recessional.

Cole To Speak

For commencement exercises Tuesday night, the seniors will be hearing one of the most widely-known and respected speakers in West Texas and New Mexico. Dr. Martin L. Cole, academic dean of ENMU in Portales, will deliver the address.

Dr. Cole's popularity as a graduation speaker is evidenced by the fact that he has been asked, and has accepted, important roles in eight graduation exercises this spring.

Dr. Cole came to ENMU in 1948 as university dean and has remained since then in practically the same capacity. Aside from being a speaker and educator of some distinction, he is author of several articles and a book.

Commencement exercises will begin at 8:30 p.m., as the ensemble again opens with the processional. Rev. Mayo Carpenter, pastor of the Oklahoma Lane Baptist Church, will give the invocation, Dot Kent will deliver the salutratory address.

Title of the salutatory will be "At the Crossroads." Title of the valedictory address, which will follow, is "We Inherit a Greater Demand." It will be given by Caryetta Grissom.

COMMENCEMENT SPEAKER—Dean Martin L. Cole of ENMU in Portales will deliver the commencement address to Farwell seniors next Tuesday night.

A vocal trio made up of Kayla Felts, Shirley Smith, and Darlene Sprawls will precede the commencement address by Dr. Cole. He has chosen as a title for his speech, "Chariots and Horsemen."

The 1951 senior class is made up of 27 students. They include Sandra Bateman, Nelma Jean Branscum, Bobbie Ann Christian, Wynema Cochran, Bettie Foster, Lila Gardner, Caryetta Grissom, Irene Hardage, Dot Kent, Frances Daude Kube, Sue Medley, Ann Storrs, Robert Armstrong, John Christian, Billy Don Crume, Gerald Curtis, Harold Dosher, Murrell Foster, Bob Geries, Buster Ham, Glenis Hughes, Orie Jones, Beryle Nix, Gerald Norton, Jerry Pool, Glen Smith, and Roy Threet.

School Election for $165,000 Set June 2

June 2 has been set by the Farwell School Board as the date for a $165,000 election to determine whether the school will enter a construction and general improvement phase in the immediate future.

Notices of the election were posted Tuesday at Parmer County Courthouse, the Farwell Post Office building, and the Lariat Post Office building. With the early posting of notices, the board felt that it was giving ample time for public consideration of the election.

Planning for the election has been simmering for several weeks, but it was not until Monday night at a called board meeting that the petitions were acted upon by the board members formally calling an election."

"It is the expressed desire," read a memorandum from the board, "that every person within the Farwell School District find out the needs of the school and weigh these needs against the election."

The board stressed that patrons of the district use the period before the election discussing and finding out about the bond issue and its purposes.

New High School

If the election is voted in, the $165,000 will be used to construct a new high school building, remodel the old one, and to build a new cafeteria. The school, according to findings of the board, has outgrown the present facilities available with its enrollment of 376. The board asserted that it felt immediate action should be taken by the members of the district to correct the problems outlined.

In describing steps that would be taken if the bond goes over the top, the board explained that with the building of a new high school the present facilities would be used by the grade school with the exception of the home economics and agriculture buildings.

The proposed high school buildings consists of six class rooms, two offices, one book room, one study hall, and two rest rooms. This building the board pointed out, could be constructed in such a manner that future needs could be taken care of by addition of new class rooms.

"The six class rooms with the home economics department and the agriculture department would take care of our high school in a very nice manner, "the board said. "This would leave the present building with its eleven rooms, after remodeling, to take care of our grade school classes (1st through 7th), music rooms, and visual education facilities."

They added that the present gymnasium would remain intact for both grade and high school physical educational and auditorium needs, and the eighth grade would be included as part of the high school system.

Cafeteria Crowded

The present cafeteria is feeding an average of from 325 to 340 daily, according to the board, and the members say that such a load is taxing the current cafeteria layout beyond limit.

Also, the board is anxious to make it possible for the cafeteria to be taken out of the basement where standards of sanitation are difficult to maintain.

A Little Water Never Hurt Anybody . . .

CONTINUAL RAINS PELT TWIN CITIES, WILL FAVOR ALL TYPES OF CROPS

What probably has turned out to be the heaviest single rainstorm since 1941 roared into Texico-Farwell and vicinity Monday night on the heels of high winds that had been blowing from the southwest for two day straight.

In Farwell, a soaking 3.16 inches was recorded on two rain guages within the 48-hour period, Monday through Tuesday. Most of the rain fell in the early morning hours, 1.20 coming Monday morning, and the remainder falling Tuesday night and morning.

Virtually every type of agriculture on the High Plains benefited from the rains. Wheat farmers, although they wanted water a month ago, were still happy to see it fall on what acreage remains prospective of crops.

These rains probably will be the green light for row crop planting, and stand a good chance of stimulating cotton acreage on dry-land farms.

Transportation both in and outside of town was snarled by the water, which snarled north-south traffic in Farwell Wednesday morning when sewer line fill-in earth collapsed from one foot to 18 inches below the surface.

The sunken earth, running east and west down the middle of street No. 2 south of main, stopped town-bound vehicles as it settled to the bottom of the sewer ditch which in some places was cut 12 feet below the surface.

Rural roads were flooded in some places from barpit to barpit. One farmer said he drove to town "just aiming car down the road between the fenceposts. I couldn't see the road at all."

Wreck Victims Are Treated at Friona

Three adults and three children received medical attention at the Parmer County Community Hospital in Friona, Sunday afternoon, following the wrecking of a 1950 Chrysler some two and one-half miles west of Friona on Highway 60, around 5:30, Sunday afternoon.

Driver of the car, Ed Winn, of Oklahoma City, received the most serious injuries, with a deep scalp laceration and a cut over the right eye, while Mrs. Clara Paschal, also of Oklahoma City, likewise has scalp lacerations and a sprained wrist.

The other occupants of the vehicle, Mrs. Gladys Shootman and her three sons, Gary, Richard and Robert, of Lynnwood, California, sustained bruises from the accident.

The auto apparently skidded on wet pavement and went into a spin, overturning two and possibly three times, it is reported. The injured were released from the hospital on Tuesday.

Robert "Prof" Morton, is recuperating from the mumps this week.

Local Baptists Plan Bible School on 28th

Vacation Bible School at Texico-Farwell Baptist church begins May 28, and will be held from 8:30 until 11:30 each morning. The school will continue Monday through Friday until June 8.

Four departments will be headed by Mrs. Will Hardage, beginners; Mrs. Ansel Doolittle, primaries; Mrs. Hugh Tucker, and Mrs. Luther Moss, juniors; and Mrs. C. M. Fields, intermediates.

Graduation and display of work is planned for June 8. Rev. C. M. Fields extends a welcome to all children.

GRADUATE IN NEW GYM

Graduation exercises for Friona High will be tonight (Thursday) in the new gymnasium, announces Supt. Dalton Caffey. The ceremony is scheduled to begin at 8 p. m.

Mrs. Jess Newton and Mrs. A. E. Hawkins spent the weekend in Albuquerque with Mr. and Mrs. Claude Gamble Jr.

Grand Jury Called For Special Work

The Parmer County Grand Jury met in special session here Tuesday. District Attorney Joe Shary of Plainview, who was here for the session, said they were called to reconsider an indictment that had been previously returned.

Sharp's only comment on the session was "the original indictment was withdrawn and a new one returned."

District Court will convene here on Monday, May 28, to take up cases on the criminal docted.

No Developments In Black Burglary Job

Sheriff Chas. Lovelace stated today that there had been no new developments in the burglary of the Black postoffice and store which occured on the night of April 29.

Cash amounting to about $235.00 from the store and postoffice was taken while Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Deaton, store operators, were attending a show in Hereford. Postal inspectors, FBI agents and the sheriff's department have been working on the case since it was reported, but no clues have been uncovered to date, Sheriff Lovelace said.

PLANT COTTON FOR DEFENSE!

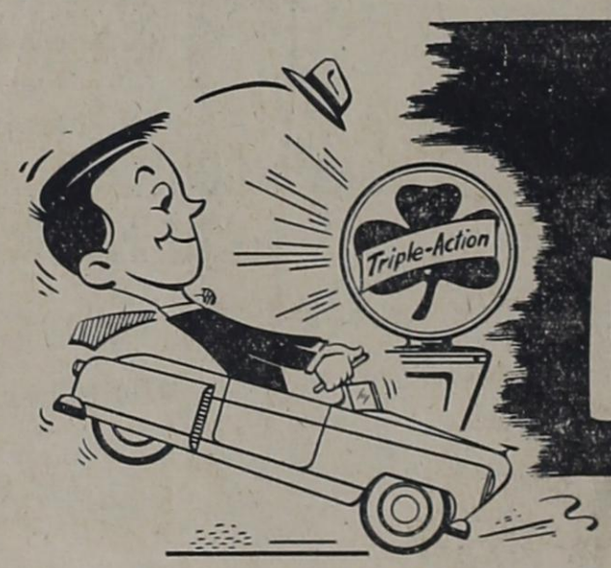

The Parmer County Cotton Improvement Association, made up of Cotton Growers desirous of increasing future Parmer County Cotton Allotments, respectfully urges each Parmer County Farmer to consider planting a reasonable portion of his land to Cotton this season.

Here Is Why:

- 1. Cotton is second only to steel as a national Defense Commodity.
- 2. Cotton fits a Diversified Farming Program on either Dry or Irrigated land.
- 3. Cotton is essential to our balanced economy.
- 4. Parmer County has not had its share of the nation's Cotton Market.
- 5. Future controls and allotments are almost certain and any future allotments are likely to be based on current acreages.

LET'S MAKE THIS A BANNER YEAR FOR COTTON!

Yes, we are wishing for a rain, too!

Farmers Should War Weed Infestations

Joe Jones, county agent, urged this week, that area farmers declare war on bindweed, Johnson grass, and blueweed and to control them before they become more widespread.

The county agent says that bindweed is commanly known as possession vine. It spreads both by roots and seeds, and has increased at an alarming rate over northwest Texas in the last ten years.

Much bindweed is still found in small lots of ½ acre or less, which is a constant source of infestation for the remainder of the farm and surrounding areas. When the weed is found in small patches, it should be eradicated, regardless of the cost, the county agent adds.

Cultural practices that will prevent the spreading of bindweed, should by all means be followed when cultivating through bindweed plots. However, before eradication can be accomplished, farmers will probably have to esort to either selective or non-selective herbicides. When non-selective herbicides are used, armers should realize the rate it takes to kill bindweed and that it will leave the soil unproductive and nearly bare for a limited length of time. This depends on the soil and what is used Jones adds.

According to the county agent, there are several nonselective weed killers or soil sterilants, which can be used to help in control or eradication of bindweed. Included are sodium chlorate, 800 lbs. to the acre or 5 lbs. per square rod; borascue, 4,800 lbs. to the acre or 30 lbs. to the square rod; concentrated borascue, 2580 lbs. per acre or 16 lbs. per square rod; atlascide, 1120 lbs. per acre or 7 lbs. per square rod; and polybor chlorate or polybor.

All these are used at different rates and at different times applied to give varying kills, Jones says. Generally speaking, fall treatment followed by spot treatments in the spring gives the best results. Farmers wanting more information should see County Agent Jones, who can give the method proved best by the bindweed experts.

In the use of selective weed killers, 2-4D is available as esters, a mean salts, and a sodium salt. The esters and mean salt are liquid and the sodium salt is powder. One form is usually as effective as another when equal amounts are used, the county agent points out. Esters, however, are preferred on favorable growing conditions for bindweed control.

Best results are usually obtained when the weed is sprayed in the bud or bloom state, Jones says, and in most instances, the bindweed is blooming now, making this a good time for the use of 2-4D. One lb. of 2-4D acid per acre to date has given better results than lower rates of application and as good as higher rates, it is explained. Water is a satisfactory carrier for 2-4D and ground spray equipment is adequate to apply the mixture. It must be remembered, however, that on land where crops are growing, farmers should use the least amount of 2-4D that will do the job the eradicator can harm growing crops when used in quantities too large. It should also be remembered, Jones says, that 2-4D does its best job with any weed when the weeds are actually growing.

Compete With Crops

Weeds compete with crops for moisture, plant nutrients and sunlight, the county agent points out. Seeds have been reported germinating after remaining in the soil 20 years. With this in mind, anyone can see the difficulty in bindweed eradication, the agent explains. So, to accomplish weed ridance, farmers have to be as persistent as the bindweed. Jones advises that spots ten feet beyond the bindweed area be treated.

Johnson Grass

Discussing Johnson grass, Jones says the same sterilants are used as for bindweed, but different rates of application are practiced. Rates are found on the container; best time for application is when the grass is actively growing in the boot stage.

It should be remembered, according to Joe Jones, that some of these sterilants are fire hazardous, and care should be taken during application.

Blueweed Eradication

For blueweed control, good cultural practices will aid greatly in eradication, as in bindweed and Johnson grass. Blueweed spreads 99 per cent by the roots. Jones says if farmers will clip the tops of this weed each time they appear, stands can be reduced. Blueweed, although spread chiefly by roots, do not spread readily by cultivating through them and dragging roots to other parts of the field, as do bindweed and Johnson grass.

For best control other than cultural practice, use of two lbs. of amene 2-4D acid, 1 gallon of diesel fuel mixed with water as a carrier, can be used per acre. It will be necessary to use some substance such as Dreft to make oil and water nto emulsion, he says. It should be remembered that blueweed should also be growing actively at the time applied; and as a precaution to remember not to apply 2-4D in or near a cotton field or other crops, which are susceptible to 2-4D. Equipment in which 2-4D is used should not be used in applying insecticides to cotton, fruit trees, gardens, etc., the county agent warns.

The equipment can be cleaned of 2-4D but it requires a special cleaning compound and extreme caution should be exercised, Jones concludes.

'Snakes Alive!' She Says, Peering into Basement

Mrs. L. C. Moore of Bovina has a snake farm and doesn't know it. A few months ago she went down into basement and saw a rattlesnake. Not fond of killing reptiles, she returned upstairs where son Joe was summoned, stick in hand, to do the deed.

He came back upstairs with nine rattlers and a "button" for his trouble. That should have been the end of that, but just last week Mrs. Moore found another one in the basement—this time a little smaller, so she killed it herself.

She's taking no more chances now. She had the basement fumigated this week, and hopes to terminate snake production immediately.

Lt. Brock Assigned To Camp Polk, Ga.

Lt. Ted Brock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Brock of Bovina, is scheduled to be home a few days this weekend from Fort Knox, Ky., where he has been receiving his basic training in an armor school.

Lt. Brock, who graduated from the New Mexico Military Institute at Roswell last June, is being assigned to the 15th Armoured Calvary at Camp Polk, La.

COMMISSIONERS MEET

The Parmer County Commissioners Court was in session here Monday. In addition to approving payment of current bills, the following business was transacted:

Authorized County Judge A. D. Smith to invest $6,600.00 in Series G. government bonds, accepted a road petition from the Bovina precinct, and appointed Wilfred Quickel as county surveyor.

Quickel will not be paid a salary, but will operate on a fee basis, it was stated.

Young People Hold Special Services for Mother's Day Sunday

A special Mother's Day service, sponsored by the young people of the Oklahoma Lane Methodist church, was held Sunday morning at the church, it has been announced.

Mrs. A. D. Moore was presented a carnation corsage as the oldest mother present at the service; and Mrs. Leon Grissom received a like gift as the youngest mother present. The sponsors of the young people, Mrs. James Roach and Mrs. James McDorman were also presented with corsages.

Miss Caryetta Grissom gave the prelude for the special service; and Jackie Dosher presented the call to worship. Rose Atchley read the scripture, followed by verses by Phyllis Christian, Jerry Roach, Gwendolyn Christian, and Caroline Barber.

Glenn McDorman and Judy Roach made short speeches; and a special song, "Mother Knows" was rendered by Miss Grissom and Bettie Foster. Following another scripture reading by Miss Atchley, and the audience sang "Faith To Our Mothers". Louise Foster told the story of the "Vow of Hanna"; and Billie Christian gave the poem, "Mother's Hymn."

Pat Berry presented a trumpet solo, accompanied by Mrs. Ruby Billingsley on the piano. Following the presentation of flowers to the oldest and youngest mother, La Verna Christian gave a poem, "Thank God For My Mother."

The service was concluded by group singing of "Rock of Ages". The entire congregation attended services at the Baptist church, to hear Rev. Carlos Gruber speak.

Mrs. Effie Johnson spent Mother's day with her son and his family, Dr. V. Scott Johnson, in Clovis.

Courthouse Receives Thorough Cleaning

Parmer County courthouse has undergone a thorough spring cleaning, both inside and outside.

Noble Goldsmith began rejuvenation of the front and back lawns in March when he topped the ground with sodium nitrate. Since then, he has kept the lawn watered and mowed, and a thick stand of green grass now beautifies the grounds around the courthouse.

In the flower beds on either side of the west entrance of the public building, a varied number of flowers have been planted including marigolds, zinnias, poppies, petunias and roses. A new addition to the exterior landscaping, however, are cannas, which have been planted bordering the south drive. Goldsmith expressed his thanks to Mrs. M. C. Roberts, who donated the flowers.

Besides a thorough cleaning of the court house, from top to bottom, several changes have been made, for improved appearance. The sheriff's office was modernized by the removal of the iron grillwork on the counters. The county clerk's office was repainted in white.

Cemetery Project Gains Organization's Support

The cemetary project, sponsored by the local American Legion is gaining support from town civic organizations Wilfred Quickel, post commander, says, although more help is needed.

The Legion proposes to clean up the cemetery grounds and to maintain the improved appearance through help from other organizations. The first step in cleaning up the cemetary will be the burning off of weeds, Quickel says.

Visiting in the Frank Seale home over the weekend were her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sheriff of Lubbock.

Farwell P-TA Officers Installed for 1951-52

Officers for the Farwell Parent-Teachers association for next year were installed at the final meeting of the year last Thursday night. Mrs. Lenton Pool acted as installing officer for the impressive formal ceremony.

Officers lighting their candles each symbolic of some phase of wisdom were: Mrs. Jack McManigal, president; Mrs. Sterlyn Billington, vice president; Mrs. Herbert Potts, second vice president; Miss Jennie Bolton, third vice president; Mrs. Everette Christian, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Tommy Hestand, publicity; Mrs. W. M. Roberts, publications; and Mrs. Tom Foster, parliamentarian.

In her summarization of the year's work, Mrs. McManigal stressed that the organization had striven to be helpful and cooperative and not one to interfere with the school in its progress. The special projects of the year have been the pre-school clinic and buying a movie projector for the school.

The organization is happy to report that all obligations have been met and a small amount of money will be carried over to start the new year, Mrs. Jack Williams, reporter, says.

Mrs. Erma Jobes and Mrs. Grace Anderson, recognizing music week, played three beautiful twin piano numbers, "Deep Purple", "Tea For Two", and "Malguena."

The eighth grade, which has won the majority of the prizes for the monthly room count, again won with 12 parents present.

Refreshments of punch, cake, and mints were served in the homemaking department.

Child Misses Recital Second Time After Rheumatic Fever

Beverly Joy Hubbell, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oris Hubbell of Clovis and formerly of Oklahoma Lane, has been ordered to go bed in the afternoons and can have no strenuous activities for the summer months due to a recurance of rheumatic fever and a heart condition. Beverly spent five months in bed two years ago with the same disease and was seriously ill for six weeks of that time, it has been reported.

History repeats itself for Beverly. When she became ill in March, 1949, she had planned a birthday party for May and her spring music recital was scheduled in April. This time, the same situation duplicated the 1949 episode, only one month later in the year.

Beverly had a party Saturday, however, though she was unable to attend her recital the previous week. Two years ago, her friends gave her a birthday party by mail.

Her family expresses gratitude for the kindness to Beverly during her illness. Last time, she kept a scrapbook of all the cards which she received. She has received a new scrapbook for her birthday this year, and hopes all her friends will remember to send her cards in the coming summer months.

Miss Roth Tells of Travels On Texico's Senior Trip

BY CARMEN ROTH

Nine Texico seniors and three sponsors left Texico at 9:00 C.S.T. Saturday morning, May 5, to begin their senior trip. First stop on the agenda was the state track meet in Albuqurque. There the group saw two class members win places in the meet. Wayne Tucker, who joined the group for the remainder of the trip, placed first in the low hurdles and second in the high hurdles; and Wayne Breeze, who returned home after the meet, took a fourth in Javellin.

After Tucker joined the group, they continued their drive to Pagosa Springs, Colorado, where the night was spent in the Pagosa Hotel. Early Sunday morning seniors arose and continued their journey. Just outside of Pagosa Springs, a halt was called and they proceeded to cook breakfast over the campfire. All hands joined in the preparation of bacon and eggs, coffee and oranges, and in making of sandwiches for the lunch which was eaten along the way to Colorado Springs.

Continuing their drive after the meal, the group traveled over beautiful Wolf Creek Pass, where they stopped on the continental divide to take pictures. It was decided to fill the water jar from one of the mountain streams in the region so Tucker started through knee-deep snow to one. Snow partly covered the stream and he went through receiving a soaking, but he got the water.

After reaching Colorado Springs, the seniors went to Camp Carson where the ypicked up Pvt. Melvin Curry who stayed with the group until his pass was up that evening. During the afternoon the seniors drove around town and up to the Broadmoor hotel, with its ice palace, private lake, swimming pool, and golf links. After eating dinner downtown, they returned to the Palomar courts, where they stayed during the rest of the trip.

Deciding to tour around Colorado Springs, the group arose early Monday morning and prepared breakfast in the kitchenette and sandwiches for lunch. First stop on the tour was the Seven Falls. After climbing the 290 steps to the top of the falls, the seniors scaled the mountains to Inspiration Point and Helen Jackson's grave at the point where she wrote part of her book, "Romona."

Proceeding to the Garden of the Gods, the seniors saw ship rock, and a petrified Indian. They also had lunch in the garden. Leaving the garden, the group went to the Cave of the Winds. During the guided tour there, castle the trademark of the cave, the bridal chamber, the old maid's kitchen, and various other rooms were visited. The seniors saw Willie's appendix there, too. Willie is supposed to have been a small boy who broke a piece of alabaster off the wall of the cave. Now the tiny piece called his appendix is all that is left of Willie supposedly!

Plans for a trip up Pike's Peak next so the group made the twenty mile drive to the top. When they got to the top, it was too chilly to stay very long, so they quickly snapped some pictures of the snow piled along the road and drove down. When the group arrived back in town, it was time for supper. At the conclusion of the meal, a group went back to the cabins, while another group went to the Broadmoor Ice Palace and ice skated. Learning was a bit risky for the most at first, but all managed to master the trick at last. Members who went reported that Carmen Roth really "fell" for somebody.

Scheduled for Tuesday was a trip to Denver, where class members went to the zoo. There they enjoyed seeing the peacocks, monkeys, buffalo, and other animals. According to Jo Beth Engram, the prettiest part of the zoo was a tropical house with everything from parrots to turtles in it.

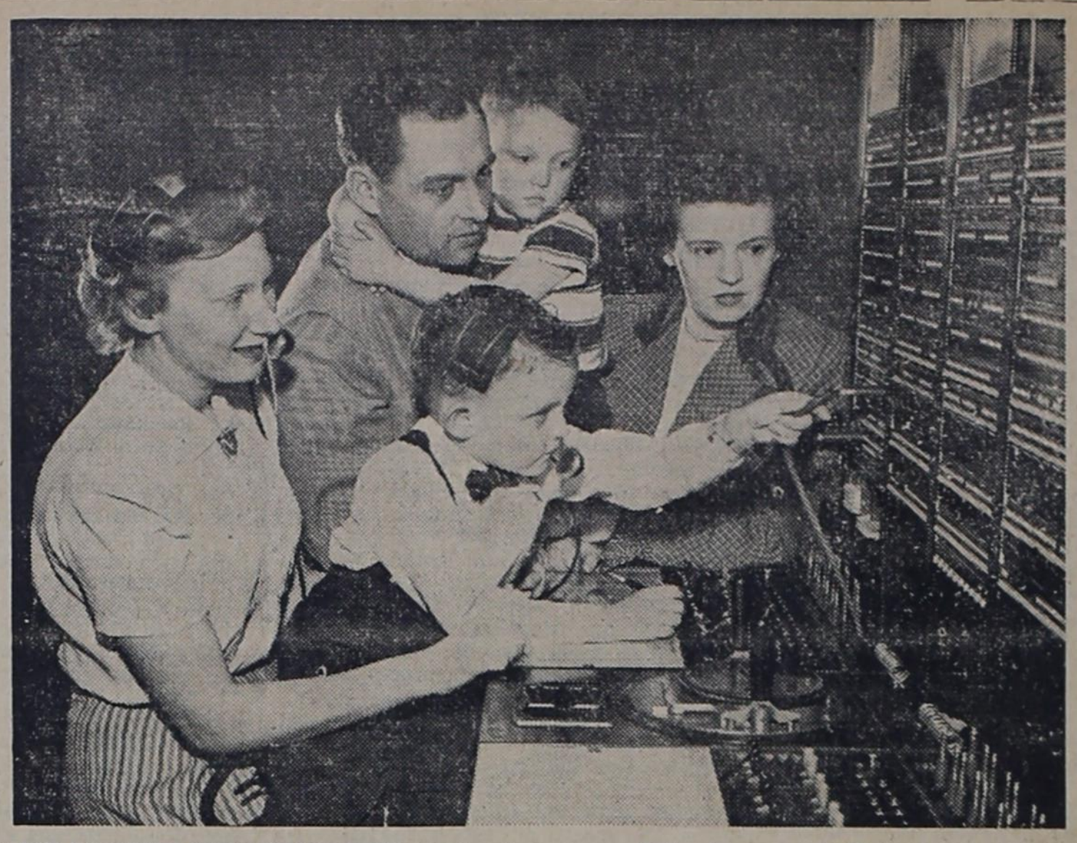

Following the lunch in the park, the museum of natural history was visited by the group. Fossils of prehistoric animals, gems, various minerals, and animals were featured in the building. Most interesting and beautiful according to Violet Curry were the mounted animals set in their natural habitat with lighting to represent the places in which they normally live. Highlight of these scene in the opinion of Bobbie Allred was one with the polar bear on ice fields with the northern lights behind him.

Traveling back to Colorado Springs, the seniors then drove up Cheyenne Mountain to the Will Rogers Shrine of the Sun. Seniors climbed to the top of the tower in the shrine and took several pictures then visited the curio shop at the entrance to the shrine. Supper time was nearing so the seniors went to El Mosquito for a Mexican supper, after which most of them went to a show while the remainder went back to Camp Carson to see Pvt. Curry.

Wednesday was the day set for coming home, but the group wanted to visit Royal Gorge and Colorado State Prison first. After driving to Canon City, the group went on a conducted tour of the prison. It hasn't been decided just what Mr. Stout was trying to smuggle in, but he surely rang the bell when he went through the electric eye! The tour of the prison included the dinette hall, the shops, the curio store where most of seniors bought a gift, the gas chamber, and one cellhouse. Especially of interest to most of the group was the cellhouse where they saw inmates listening to the radio, working on curios, or at various other occupations.

At the Royal Gorge the seniors first crossed the bridge—reputed to be the highest in the world. After the drive back, all entered the cable car on the incline railway—the steepest in the world—and descended to the bottom of the gorge. Afer a brief stay spent in taking pictures and looking at the bridge which seemed about the size of a toothpick from below. After a visit to the curio store at the head of the bridge, the trip back to Canon City was made, and lunch was eaten. On some of the hairpin curves Bobbie Allred was heard to utter a little shriek and then to burst into the song—"It's No Secret What God Can Do!"

The trip home was uneventful except for the fact that the group did get rained on a little.

THE MILLIONTH STOCKHOLDER of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company—the only business in the United States to achieve such a broad democracy of ownership—is represented by Mr. and Mrs. Brady Denton, of Saginaw, Michigan, who jointly own seven shares of stock. Denton, an automobile salesman, and his wife, Dorothy, and two of their three boys are shown above during a visit to their local telephone exchange. Johnny, 3, in his father's arms, watches as Brady, Jr., 6, learns about switchboard operating from Miss Doris Beiser of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Band Performance Given at Bovina

Aubrey Tucker directed a band program at the school auditorium Monday evening.

Included on the program was "Junior Band March", "Chorale", "Easy Steps March", "Sunset Meditations", "Dauntless", "Summer Evening Serenade", "Judy's Dream", "Legions of Victory", and "Star-Spangled Banner."

A trumpet solo was given by guest soloist, Clair Mollenhoff.

Hudson Hornet Wins

tough test of power, stamina, durability!

NEWS FLASH! Hudson Hornet adds two more "Firsts". Gardena, California, April 8, and Phoenix, Arizona, April 22, in Grand National Circuit races.

MARSHALL TEAGUE proves Miracle H-Power and "step-down" design are an unbeatable combination as he shows the way to 71 other drivers in National Championship Stock Car Race over rugged 160-mile Daytona course

BECAUSE it is built differently, the fabulous Hudson Hornet outran 71 entries to win the National Championship Stock Car Race.

"There's just nothing like this Hudson Hornet," said driver Teague. "It has everything. The low center of gravity you get with Hudson's 'step-down' design really paid off. And I've never known a sweeter engine."

For a sample of what put the Hudson Hornet out front—come in and drive this great car.

Under-Grads Beaten By Seniors, 31-0

A football team composed of graduating Farwell seniors blanked out the undergrads in a gritty contest Monday night at Farwell field 31-0. This was the finale for spring training, and the end result was that it left Coaches Hestand and Livingston a little disturbed over prospects for next year's squad.

Jerry Pool punched out two touchdowns. Bob Geries tallied the same, and Beryle Nix scored one. Squirmy Dosher did his honors by catching a pass for the extra point—in spite of the wind and dust.

Coach Hestand remarked that the younger team lacked experience in the line.

Co-Captains Elected

Co-captains for next year's squad have been elected. They are Jesse Coburn and Pike Jordan, seniors. In reviewing the roster for next year, coaches listed the following players and their positions:

Fullback

Dennis Raney.

Halfbacks

Frank Gulley, Darrel Norton, Junior Poteet, and Calvin Barber.

Ends

Jesse Coburn, Ronnie Dial, Lynn Carpenter, Charles Phillips, and Bobby Joe Crume.

Tackles

Donald Pipkin, Donald Jesko, Charles Kellogg, Dale Kersey.

Guards

Rex Pool, Ted Magness, Verne Pence, Doyle Vaughn, and Vane Dosher.

Centers

Buil Dollar, Duane Herington.

Quarterbacks

Phillip Cassidy, Pike Jordan.

Coaches said it was planned to use T-formation next year, and noted that it may be necessary to use a few freshmen to plug in the gaps for a team. "We'll need a lot of work," hey remarked.

Eighth Graders Top Sixth and Seventh

In an intra-squad football game Monday night, the eighth graders of Farwell schools, topped the sixth and seventh grade teams by one touchdown, 7-0.

According to Shelby Jobes, junior coach, both teams looked good on defense and showed signs of good offense. Numerous fumble and high winds grounded the aerial attack, however.

Gene Hardage scored the one touchdown; Billy Watts fumbled the placement kick, then rushed across the line. Hardage completed several passes to Roberts and Poteet in the game.

Women's Softball Team Will Be Organized

A meeting to organize a softball team for women is slated Saturday afternoon at 4:30 in the home of Mrs. E. R. Coffman, it has been announced.

Six or eight women have already designated that they will join the team, and anyone else who is interested in playing is asked to attend the meeting.

CALLED HOME

Mrs. Alice Mauldin and Lt. Norma Mauldin, mother and sister respectively of Mrs. Lance Hurst, were called to their home at Texas City Monday after spending a few days here in the Hurst home. Lt. Mauldin is a Navy nurse and is stationed at Philadelphia, Pa.

22 Years Later . . . The Last of the Crumes

Back in 1929, in the graduating class of the Farwell High school was a certain Paul Crume, son of C. E. Crume of this city . . . . and in 1951, 22 years later and five graduates later, Bill, youngest son of Charley and brother of Paul, is numbered among the seniors.

All in all, the total years amassed by the Crume family in the Farwell school totals 99 something which few families can duplicate. The entire grade and high school careers of the eight boys and one girl in the family have all been put in at the local institution.

First of the exes was Paul, who later graduated from Texas University and now is a member of the Dallas News journalistic staff. The Crumes hit the jackpot in 1934, when the third eldest brother, Buster, and the next-in-line twins, Kirt and Kater, were all among the seniors. Buster later spent some time at Texas University and is now living in California; Kirt is a resident of Portales, and Kater resides in Friona.

Next on the list came Dick, who concluded his local schooling in 1937 and is now a resident of Lubbock while in 1940 the solitary girl of the family, Mary Lou (now Mrs. Hayden Cason), received her diploma. She now operates a beauty shop in this city.

Two of the brothers went into their senior years at the school and then dropped out, with Joe being a local resident and Junior, just older than Bill, living in Artesia, N. M.

But Farwell will not be without a Crume on the register for some years to come, as Joe and Capitola have four prospects, with three of them now in school and the youngest slated to enter in the fall.

Miss Jeanne Dudley spent Mother's Day with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. M. Dudley in Silverton over the weekend.

Large Crowds Attend Weekend Revival

Large crowds attended each service of the weekend revival at Oklahoma Lane Baptist Church, Rev. Mayo Carpenter, pastor, says. Visitors were present from Lazbuddy, Bovina, Muleshoe, Farwell. West Camp, and House, N. M.

The revival was conducted by Rev. Carlos Gruber Latvian-Brazilian evangelist and musician of Plainview. His short violin concerts, accompanied by Mrs. S. S. Jobes, church pianist, made a definite contribution to the meetings, the pastor adds.

Rev. Carpenter also emphasizes that "his short, informative, inspirational messages were enjoyed by all who heard him."

The Sunday School attendance was 108, and the auditorium was filled to cpacity for the preaching service. Rev. A. D. Moore, pastor of the Oklahoma Lane Methodist Church, and his members were present for each of the services.

Rev. Carpenter says he would heartily recommend Rev. Gruber to the churches of this area, stating, "He will bless any church which is fortunate enough to secure his servies."

Farwell Grades Will Graduate on Monday

Rev. Mayo Carpenter, pastor of the Oklahoma Lane Baptist church, will be speaker for the Farwell eighth grade graduation exercise Monday night, at 8:15 o'clock in the high schol auditorium.

Mrs. Jay Anderson will play the processional for the service and Rev. C. M. Fields, pastor of the Texico-Farwell Baptist church will say the invocation. Lavoyda Billington will render a piano solo, "Song At Midnight.'

Gloria Sanders is scheduled to give the class history; and Pudge Rose will read the class will. Dick Felts, Don Geries, Gene Hardage, Lavon Jones will be featured in a boy's quartet number; then Geries will present the class prophecy.

All members of the class will sing the class song, and Lavoyda Billington will then give the salutatory address. Betty Billingsley will be featured in a vocol solo, preceding the valedictory by Gloria Dial.

Shelby Jobes, grade school principal, will introduce Rev. Carpenter, who will make the address. Mr. Jobes will then make award presentations, and Claude Rose, president of the school board, will present the diplomas. Rev. A. D. Moore of the Oklahoma Lane Methodist church will give the benediction and Mrs. Anderson will play the processional.

Class officers for the eighth grade include Gene Hardage, president; Don Pool, vice president; Lavoyda Billington, secretary-treasurer; and Robbie Foster, reporter. Class flower is the white carnation, colors are blue and gold; and the motto is "Up and at 'em".

Members of the group are Barbara Christian, Gloria Dial, Peggy Hardage, Elaine Martin, Mona McDorman, Agnes Meitner, Gloria Sanders, Loreta Stancell, Doris Threet, Dean Walls, Verna Mae Black, Lavoyda Billington, Ysleta Brown.

asked if we should look to science. "Great progress has been made in science," he said. "It can do wonderful things, but it cannot do some things. It cannot comfort a broken heart." Rev. Durham called God the greatest scientist of all.

Finally, Rev. Durham asked, "Shall we look to psychology or philosophy?" He told the graduating class that psychology and philosophy will not substitute for eternal security. "They might do to live by, but not to die by" he declared.

To Whom Shall We Look

Finally, Rev. Durham returned to the first question as posed by the apostle Peter, "To Whom Shall We Go?" God and Christ are the only answers, answered the speaker. "God is the creator of all things, and Christ is the symbol of eternal life," said Rev. Durham.

In conclusion, he advised the seniors not to look to the world or other things, but to God and Christ. "Thou has the words of eternal life," he told them. "Look into the future. Jesus is the friend you need. Seek him—his divine counsel. He will not lead you in the wrong direction."

Following the baccalaureate address, the chorus sung another song, and Bro. D. E. Lee of the Bovina Church of Christ gave the benediction. Mrs. Wilson played the recessional.

Nine New Homes Viewed at Friona

Doors that slide back into the wall at the touch of a finger, revolving "lazy Susan" cabinet shelves, touch-button lights, ceramic tile bathrooms and kitchens, and miles and miles of closet and storage space floated through the dreams of most of Friona's female population, Friday night, at the conclusion of the newer homes tour, sponsored by the Modern Study Club of the city.

Judging by the nine beautiful homes opened for public inspection during the tour, homemakers of today are weary to death of cramped closet space and inadequate storage room, and in building their new homes, have made these two factors predominant in their planning. In addition, most of the homemakers worked out ways to avoid that ever-lasting bathroom rush plague by installing more than one set of facilities in their new quarters.

Ranging in size from the conservative two-bedroom home to the more elaborate residences with three or four bedrooms and baths, every one of the new homes had a touch of something unusual or thought-provoking to prospective home builders, who toured the rooms noting all the latest improvements with thorough interest.

Between 175 and 200 people were on hand for the conducted tour, which began at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and continued until well after dark. Towns represented included Hereford, Black, Borger, Tulia, Dimmitt, Muleshoe, Farwell, Bovina and Friona, sponsors of the affair reported, with some club groups coming en masse.

The Wesley Foster home was first on the list. The brick residence is a three-bedroom affair, although with one daughter now away at school, one of the bedrooms was planned for a semi-den affair, with twin lounge couches available for extra sleeping facilities when needed. Yellow and green predominate in the den room, with a private bath opening off the room.

Continuing the green theme, the living room, carries out the same tones,, combined with beige, while the master bedroom is done in pink plaid paper, with huge closets, and daughter Pat's room is in blue and pink.

The Foster kitchen carries a red plaid and brown color scheme, with a snack bar for quick meals and the room is paneled in striated plywood. Throughout the house, only draw drapes are used, eliminating the need of curtains and shades. The house is heated by floor furnace and is carpeted in a soft rose-beige.

Ernest Osburn Home

Just across the street from the Fosters, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Osborn, occupied just last Christmas, was also open for inspection. The home is of asbestos shingle on the outside, in a soft rose tone.

Large picture windows dominate both the living and dining room of the home, which is heated by floor furnace. Mrs. Osborn gloates—justifiably—over her storage space, and the built-in theme is even noted in the living room where a wall bookcase is arranged, and the dining room, with a china closet.

One of the unusual features of the home are the yellow built-in cabinets in the sparkling kitchen, off of which opens a storage room with outside doors to the garage and back yard.

Young daughter Karen Sue has her own room, done fittingly in pink bow-knot paper with contrasts of blue, and closet rods are down low for young arms. The master bedroom is in solid paper of pink and wine, with a monster of closet space that features sliding doors. Mrs. Osborn also has a sewing room, done in plaid, which can double for the extra bedroom, and the bath is a beauty in pink and green colors, ceramic tile and plenty of makeup table space and linen storage room.

Except in the case of the kitchen cabinets, the woodwork in the house is varnished, and Bruce finish was used on the floors, with throw rugs carrying out the various color schemes.

Bathroom is a Knockout

Most visitors to the Weldon Dickson home fell completely in love with the bathroom, which Juanita conceived in startlingly beautiful colors of chartreuse and black, although sticking to the conventional white fixtures. Another bathroom feature—a small closet space for robes and house shoes, which caught many a builder's eye.

The home is a two-bedroom affair, with young Randy's room done in typical boy fashion, down to the model ship on the wall. Yellow, choclate and green combine to form a pleasing color scheme, and sliding doors open on a closet sufficient to take care of all needs.

The hall closets, three in number, also have sliding doors on the smaller sections, and one is sufficiently large to store a roll-away bed for extra guests. The master bedroom, pleasing grey and blue-grey with a dark wine ceiling, is furnished in grey oak.

Pink striated plywood circles the kitchen, with touches of blue and white completing the color scheme and pointing up a distinctive corner sink. The "old-fashioned" pantry has staged a revival in many modern homes, and the Dickson home is no excep ion. Under-cabinet lights furnish more illumination for drainboard work, and a chrome dinette suite is on hand for family meals.

The living room is done in pleasing light-toned grey, lighted by an unusual picture window that goes clear to the floor, and spotted for contrast with bright splashes of red and upholstery green.

The house has central heating and air conditioning with brick and asbestos shingle on the outside,

Blue is Predominant

The Granville McFarland home, a one-and-one-half-story brick, was the "oldest" on the list of the tour, and the downstairs rooms are predominantly decorated in various shades of blue, beginning with the entrance hall, which opens into the large living room and to one side into the den.

Visitors to the den were fascinated with the painting of the Seamonds ranch, near Friona, done by a local woman, Ethel Ruth Spring, while at the same time admiring the knotty pine paneling used. The master bedroom is done in blue with a bow-knot border at the top of the paper, while the downstairs guest room is colorful with grey walls contrasting briskly with bright red drapes and a black and red quilt. This quilt, incidentally, 104 years, old being handed down to McFarland by his uncle, Granville Shultz, for whom the local man is named.

In the blue and gray living room, another unusual item was a small handmade chair, at the end of the fireplace, and Mrs. McFarland revealed that it had been made by her husband's great-grandfather, John McFarland, and is now 112 years old.

The large kitchen is complete with a snack bar and eating quarters for family meals, while one end of the dining room is arranged with a drop-leaf table for larger gatherings. Kitchen colors are red and white.

Upstairs are two bedrooms, one for each of the two McFarland girls now at home. Gay Ann's room is a bit surprising with black paper liberally splashed with large red roses, while drapes, dressing table flounce, and bedspread are done in white taffeta. The closet, which has a door-control light, is painted inside in shocking pink to match the roses, as in a small built-in what-not shelf in the room.

The second bedroom, for Doris, is done in small floral paper stressing yellow drapes. Two short closets are arranged over the dormer windows, and taking up the remainder of the dormer room is one of the nicest things young mothers saw on the tour—a play room for the kids, complete with tops in natural arrangement.

The upstairs bath is finished in tile board with red as the principal color, while the stair well paper is blue and grey, matching that used in the living room downstairs.

Decorates With Own Flowers

Mrs. Fred White, who yearly produces some of the most beautiful flowers in Friona, moved most of her flower garden into her home, Friday, decorating with beautiful bouquets of iris and tulips about the charming two-bedroom home which is finished outside in white stucco.

Green, rose and blue-grey are used in both living and dining room of the White home, with matching paper in the two adjoining rooms. The living room features an entrance closet and a brick fireplace, while a built-in china closet catches the eye in the dining room.

The kitchen and bathroom wall treatment is most unusual, with Walltex being used above the tile board. Sky-blue Walltex is in the kitchen, with the bath done in green. and both are of a unique star-burst effect done in silver in the Walltex. The kitchen also has a snack bar built right at the back of the stove, where the family can "pull up a stool" and be served by the cook.

The master bedroom, nice and roomy, is done in blue and white, while the boy's room has a floral paper. Both have large, spacious closets, and three closets are also used in the short hall, with one being turned into a "hobby" closet by John Fred, who uses the space for storing his large collection of phonograph records.

Pull Drapes And Look Through

Two large picture windows are the outstanding development in the Wright Williams home, with the green, chartreuse and yellow living room being lighter from either north or south, or both, as the occasion demands. The room also opens onto a back terrace, actually built inside the walls of the house but open completely on the south, which is a favorite resting place of the residents.

Mrs. Williams' kitchen shows her preference for green, with a twining vine on green paper above the tile board, and the dining table was laid for the occasion with Franciscan china in the apple pattern. Two wall plates of the same pattern sprouted tendrils of ivy. Just off the kitchen is a small utility room, which opens into the garage, provides more storage space, and has room for laundry equipment, if desired.

The floral-papered hall opens into the two bedrooms and bath, with the guest bedroom being done in Colonial paper to compliment the furniture. The tile bath is stunning in wine with floral touches and the master bedroom has unusual organdy curtains in a dark brown which harmonizes with a large floral paper.

Central heating from forced air is used, and the wooden structure home is carpeted in a soft rose,

Wright's pride is his den, which is paneled in knotty pine, has a tile floor and a large storage closet. Couches in the room make it handy for an extra bedroom if the need should arise.

Green, Gold and Rose Combine

Green and gold combine with a floral Colonial paper in soft rose to make the Bert Chitwood living room very attractive. The L-shaped room is dominated at one end by a brick fireplace and at the front entrance by a large picture window, while the "dog-leg" part of the room is the dining room. For the occasion, the dining table was laid for service, with a beautiful crocheted cloth made by Mrs. Chitwood.

A place for his own is Bert's den, which is done in sportsman paper and his leather-upholstered easy chairs. An unusual lamp has a shade made up of actual color photos, enlarged for the purpose. A grey and wine bath, in ceramic tile with wine-pink fixtures, pens off the den.
pink fixtures, opens off the den.
one of the popular corner sink arrangements, and is circled in tile carrying out the colors of grey and wine. A dinette suite is on hand for family eating. The kitchen door opens into the pine-paneled double garage, at the back of which is a similarly-treated utility room, complete with latest laundry equipment.

The guest bath is done in blue and peach ceramic tile and fixtures, with wine and grey paper, and the guest bedroom is featured in shades of green and yellow. In the master bedroom, done in blue, soft blue nylon Priscillas criss-cross the large double windows, and the master bath, opening only out of the bedroom, carries out the blue theme in its fixtures, while the tiling is peach. The bath is large with a dressing table for convenience.

The brick home, occupied by the Chitwoods just last year, has touch--button lights throughout.

Kitchen, Baths Are Highlights

The ceramic tile treatment of the kitchen and the three baths was to most visitors the highlight of the Sloan Osborn home, although the family may have different ideas.

Entering the home, the guest goes into a hall, which opens to the left to the living room and to the right on Sally's bedroom, while at the far end the hall joins the hall going to the other bedrooms.

Green, grey-green and rose are used primarily in the long living-dining room, separated by a break-front of Austin stone which boasts a small inside garden of Ivy and vines. On Friday, the dining table was arranged to typify a wedding reception. The brick fireplace in the living room extends downstairs to the play room, where the younger set can gather for inside campfire socials.

A curving indowed wall on the north is the item of interest in the Osborn kitchen, which is done in blues and yellows. Mrs. Osborn also wanted room for storage, and included a pantry in the building plans, while plenty of room was likewise arranged for family eating, and a desk nook placed in one corner of the room for telephoning and writing.

Opening off the kitchen is the utility room, equipped with laundry facilities and a deep-freeze unit, and the small bath just off the utility room is done in yellow and wine, with a glass-enclosed shower.

Downstairs is the playroom, with one wall finished in brick, an asphalt-tiled floor, and the popular fireplace. Bamboo curtains are used in both the playroom and the den, back upstairs, which is paneled in driftwood and done is shades of green.

Peach and green are used in the master bedroom, with the ajoining bath toned in wine and grey. Sliding glass doors in all baths enclose the tub when the shower is to be used, and lavatories are built into the tile drainboards, with plenty of mirror space throughout.

Robbie's bedroom has twin beds and carries out a combination of yellow, green and wine shades, while Je and Charles share a bedroom with Western style furniture done in green and wine. Daughter Sally's room has a wall color that just shades off orchid-brown, and the children's bath is done in chartreuse and yelow with a papered plaid ceiling. Something different, a narrow full-length mirror just opposite the make-up table in the bathroom, and which, when pulled this way and that, will show the looker just how he appears from the back or side.

Cotton carpeting is used in the bedrooms, in colors to match the decorating scheme, and the walls are principally done in Textone. Closets are cedar lined. The home has an inter-communications system, with a number of phones about the place, and the garage doors are operated by radio control from the car or inside the building.

Recover From Fire

The visitor on Friday couldn't tell by looking that the Pete Buske home came close to being a chared ruin recently, when what could have been a disastrous fire was nipped in its early stages and the principal living quarters of the home have been redone.

One of the most beautiful wall treatments seen over town is in the home office of Mr. Buske, with the walls being paneled in Philippine mahogany. The furniture is covered in leather.

Young Kim's bedroom is done in red and green, while his parents chose wine and green for their sleeping quarters, and the master bath is finished in wine and chartreuse. Divided medicine cabinets are something out of the ordinary, all done with mirrors, and a revolving chrome gadget just above the lavatory swings out to reval the familiar toothbrush.

Draperies flowered in orchid and yellow set the scheme for the twin's room, with matching bedspreads on the two beds for the sisters, Phila Mae and Lila Gay. Deanne's room is done in pink and grey-blue and the three girls share a bath tiled in peach and wine. Down the long hall are tiny light's shaded at top and turned to the floor, for night navigating, and the hall is done is green.

The children's den done in red with an Austin stone fireplace, is a huge comfortable room, with three "pull-down" desks, equipped with lights and shelves, for studying purposes. A graceful iron grill keeps visitors away from the stairs to the play room in the basement. The stairs are in tile, as is the floor in the living room, and the basement open fireplace extends upstairs to the living room. Off the play room is a room housing the heating and cooling system for the house, as well providing space for a sink for after-picnic cleanups, and an outside entrance. Bamboo curtains are used in the rumpus room.

Upstairs is the kitchen, in colors of blue and yellow, and tiled all around for easier cleaning. Plenty of cabinet space is provided, and an upright deep-freeze unit sits by a large icebox. Space is provided -for family meals, and off the kitchen is the utility room with laundry equipment and a half-bath done in grey and yellow tile.

Mrs. Buske also enjoys her compact sewing room, brightened with splashes of red and floored in asphalt tile, and the guest room, completely away from the other bedrooms is running in dark greens and deep red, with corner windows and a wine and grey tile bath.

The home also has an inter-com system, radio control for the garage door, and is carpeted in wool to match the color schemes of the different rooms. Just in case the family wants to leave home for a few days, a watering system control can be set to take care of the yard at any time.

The dining room is done in green, with a built-in china closet, and the children's music room is a study in rose and blue, with rose draperies. Featuring the large living room is one wall completely paneled in birch, in the center of which is the fireplace. Other colors in the room are grey and green in harmonizing shades.

Both the Osborn and Buske homes feature brick construction on the outside, with the latter using contrasting Austin stone for an out-of-the-ordinary effect. The two homes were under contract to G. G. Gilliland, who on Friday complimented the owners during the open house with huge baskets of white peonies, interspersed with American Beauty roses.

"SUCCESS" THEME OF BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS TO 1951 FRIONA SENIORS

Speaking briefly and pointedly on "Success", Stanley Lockhart, minister of the Sixth Street Church of Christ in Friona, on Sunday night delivered the baccalaureate address to the 1951 Friona graduates, when exercises were held in the local Methodist Church.

"There is no more important topic to you graduates than success," the minister said in opening his discussion, and then quoted, "If a man would be successful, he must decide where he is going and start now. No race was ever won unless it was started."

Remarking that graduation was the beginning of the race for the students, the speaker then turned his attention to outlining a program for success, first pointing out, "You need to depend upon yourself...see what you can accomplish in life." In this connection, Minister Lockhart said that during past years, the graduates had in a measure been depending on their parents, but "the time has come when you must see what you can do as an individual," adding, "Success lives within us."

"I would remind you," he went on, "to use initiative and energy to reach your goal. In other words, start out to do a better job to achieve success among the top."

Stressing the fact that "grass may look greener" in other locatons, the speaker advised the graduates to "make good where you are" and used the life of Iincoln as an example. In this connection, he reminded that "a successful man is not one who has not made mistakes, but one who has overcome his mistakes."

"Do not always look for easy money and easy pay...remember that life is no bed of roses..and we must work for what we achieve", the minister said. "The test of a successful man lies within being able to take both the good and the bad of life", he went on to say, adding "there is no short cut to success, but there is always room at the top for the right man...and the top rung is reached by taking the others one at a time."

Turning to his definition of "what success is not", Lockhart warned against the popular conception that success is great wealth. He pointed out the story of the rich man, told in the Bible, and went on to say, "Can money buy a happy home?"

"I would not say to you graduates that you go into the world and become paupers," he emphasized, "but I would warn you not to make the attaining of great wealth your sole aim and purpose in life."

"Success is not worldly pleasure," the speaker explained, and referred his listeners to the story of Solomon, who had wealth, power, and worldly pleasures, and still was not happy.

"What does make a successful life?" the minister then asked, and called the attention of his listeners to Ecclesiastes 12:13, "Fear God and keep His commandments" as the conclusion of the wise Solomon. "Know that God is, and that He is the rewarder of them seek Him with diligence," he urged the students.

Quoting Micah 6:8, the speaker admonished the group to show justice, love mercy, and walk humbly with God as a means of "keeping His commandments". "You will never know success unless you keep His commandments...do justice to God and never forget to worship him...do justice to your neighbors...love mercy by showing kindness in your actions and with your tongue...and walk humbly with your God."

"All of us need a guide," Lockhart said further, comparing the futility of taking a trip across the continent in a black-out car and without directions to that of traveling through life without the Bible as a guide.

"It has been said that the Bible is a spotlight which penetrates the darkness and shows the pitfalls", he went on, in urging the students to take the Bible as their guide for life.

In conclusion, he summed up his topic by asking the group to "decide where you are going...find out what lies within your abilities...do not seek mere wealth and worldly pleasures...fear God and keep His commandments if you have a successful life."

Preceding the address, the invocation was given by Rev. James E. Tidwell, Methodist pastor, and Don Green offered a baritone solo," Panis Angelicus", Rev. George E. Meyer of the Congregational Church, dismissed the audience with the invocation. Mrs. Roy Miller was at the piano for the class marches, and also accompanied Green.

Band Banquet Held In Legion Hall 12th

The annual banquet for members of the Friona school band and guests was held in the American Legion Hall on Saturday night, May 12th. An unusual decorative idea was carried out, the social being arranged, with each depicting a different folk-lore story.

School colors of red and white predominated in the decorating scheme, with red and white carnations used on the tables, interspersed with red tapers and red crepe paper over the lights gave an interesting illumination.

Ruby Shaffer, president of the band organization, acted as toastmistress first presenting D. M. Kelley, school principal, who offered the invocation. The wecome was given by Mary Joyce Miller, and an instrumental number offered by "The Hungry Five in Germany and Spain", the performers including Joyce Miller, Vera Ann Jones, Dudley Bainum, Betty Pope and instructor Glenn Cunningham.

Joyce Miller gave a resume of the years activities, and "The Bluebells of Scotland" was offered as a tenor saxophone solo by Glenn Reeve, accompanied at the piano by Dorothy Robbins.

Various folk songs were offered by the faculty quartet of the school, Dalton Caffey, Glenn Cunningham, Raymond Cook and Cecil Robinson, after which Instructor Cunningham, took over to present special awards to the students.

Don Green was given a medal for "the most improvement" during the recent school term, and Joyce Miller was recognized as an all-around student in music. Ruby Shaffer, Vera Ann Jones, Betty Pope and Mary Lou Miller also received medals also for outstanding work in music.

Cunningham spoke briefly on the progress of the band, following which Matthew Baker offered the benediction.

Officers of the organization this year include Ruby Shaffer, president; Vera Ann Jones, vice president; Mary Joyce Renner, secretary-treasure; reporter and student conductor, Dorothy Robbins; and drum major, Joyce Miller.

The meal was prepared by members of the Band Mothers Club, and served by young students, all attired in folk costumes.

Guest attending the banquet included:

Graduation Exercises Mark End of School

Thirty-five students who have completed school work assembled in the auditorium f the Friona Methodist Church, Wednesday night of this week, to hear Rev. George E. Meyer, Congregational pastor, deliver their commencement address.

"Where do we go from here?" was the question asked the eighth graders of Friona by the speaker of the evening, the Rev. George E. Meyer of the Congregational church of Friona.

The Rev. Mr. Meyer stated that in this 51 Atomic Age, that while the question could be put on the universal, the international, the national, scientific and economic level that there is was unanswerable; that on the individual level alone might the question be answered; and that the "individual's answer" was up to the individual.

As a pattern after which real lives and real living should be cut, the speaker quoted Luke II; 52 and challenged the young people to the striving to their utter most to increase as Jesus did, in wisdom, in favor with man and most of all with God.

The speaker enlivened his address with many stories from his wide experience in work with young people.

The complete program included the class marches, with Miss Vera Ann Jones at the piano; invocation by Rev. Russell Pogue, of the Baptist Church; welcome, by Deann Buske; duet by Deniese Magness and Dudley Bainum; the valedictory by Zelma Faye Beatty; a double duet featuring Zelma Beatty, DeAnn Buske, LaMona Neff and Oleta Lloyd; a vocal solo by Don Edwin Lewis; presentation of diplomas by Principal Ben Hillis, and the benediction by Supt. Dalton Caffey.

Ushers for the occasion were Sally Osborn, Roberta Reed, Jerry Houlette, and Maurice Gaede.

Diplomas were presented to Cleta Rea Stowers, Deniese Magness, Dean London, Deann Buske, Jimmie Sue Fallwell, Zelma Fay Beatty, Paul Coker, Dorothy Vaughn, Cliff Coffman, Alice June White, Lois -Marie Deaton, Earnest Kuykendall, Charles Duane Lloyd, Joyce Gibson, Letha Fay Day, Bobbie Nell Veazey, Don Edwin Lewis, Jerry Zachary, Roy Messenger, Oleta Lloyd, Jane Phipps, Alice Fay Palmateer, Jimmy Dean Robason, John Thomas, Carol Blackburn, Betty Zon Ashcraft, Margaret JoAnn Agee, Keith Beatty, Lester Burnett, LaMona Neff ,Dudley Bainum, Marion Gay Cass, and Gerald White.

Eighth Graders Have Program Wednesday

Baccalaureate and commencement exercises fr the 1951 seniors and eighth grade graduates mark this week in Friona, with the seniors slated to conclude their high school work and receive their diplomas in the final program of the year tonight (Thursday).

The senior commencement will be held in the local Methodist Church, beginning at 8 o'clock, officials announced, with Dr. H. E. Robinson, of the Texas Education Department, from Austin, on hand as the principal speaker.

Other program features include processional and recessional marches, with Mrs. Eva Miller at the piano; the invocation by Rev. Russell by D. M. Kelly, high school prin-Pogue, local Bapist pastor; a vocal solo by Mary Lou Miller; a baritone solo by Bety Jean Pope; the presentation of diplomas by Supt. Dalton Caffey; dispersal of special awards by D. M. Kelly, high school principal; the valedictory address by Vera Ann Jones; salutatory by Martha Ann Blankenship; and the benediction by Rev. George E. Meyer, of the Congregational Church.

Vera Ann Jones had an average of 95.1 and Martha Ann Blankership had an average of 94.0.

Exams Given

Final examinations for the students of the school were given the early part of the week, with the windup of such work on Tuesday. No school was held Wednesday or today, and the actual closing of the 1950-51 term will be noted tomorrow, May 18th, Supt. Caffey reported.

Students will not be required to return to the school for report cards, as these will be mailed, he added.

"Moral Stability" Is Discussed at Club

Mrs. Fred White and Mrs. George E. Meyers were featured on the regular program of the Friona Woman's Club, last Wednesday afternoon, when the ladies met at 2:30 at the club house for a program on "Moral Stability."

"The Responsibility of the Hoe in Building Character" was taken up by Mrs. White, who stressed that "three steps in character building in the home are love, example, and cooperation."

Mrs. Meyers took the topic "The Teachings of Jesus As a Guide to the Solution of Present-Day Problems." In her discussion, she pointed out that "a return to the simple teachings of Christ would solve many of our problems", and also remarked that "bad officials are elected by good citizens who don't vote", in pointing out individual responsibility.

Donna Blackburn sang "Pollywog" and Mocking Bird Hill", and a chorus composed of Mikie Welch, Pamela Sue Roden, Brenda Collier, Donna Janet Smith rendered "My Little Boat", and "Sing a Song".

Pat Cranfill took the letters making up her name to offer an original "Puzzle Song", which was very unusual and entertaining. All the youngsters are students of Miss Margie Burnet.

At the conclusion of the afternoon the hostesses, Mesdames J. D. Sanders and S. S. Pritchard, served lovely refreshments to twenty-five members and eight guests.

Summer Bible School Planned by Baptists

The first vacation Bible school for Friona for the current summer period has been announced this week by Rev. Russell Pogue, who states that the Baptist group will sponsor its school in the near future, with classes beginning on May 28th.

Preparation day, at which time workers and students will gather at the church for an enrolling period, has been set for Friday, May 25th, at 3 o'clock, and the following day, Saturday, will see the students in a parade through the downtown business district of the city, he added.

Afternoon classes will begin on Monday, May 28th, and continue through Friday, June 1st, with a commencement program planned for Friay night, when handwork will be displayed at the Church.

Mrs. Mattie Faye Crow is to serve as principal of the school, while other superintendents include Mrs. Pogue, nursey; Mrs. Pete Buske, beginners; Mrs. Ralph Smith, primary; H. T. Magness, junior; and Mrs. Ophelia Bennett, intermediate.

Rev. Pogue said that classes would be available for children from four though sixteen years of age, with the nursery being planned to accommodate children to enter classes. All not old enough to enter classes. All children of the community whose ages are included are cordially invited to take part in the school.

Grade School Children Present May Program

One of the most interesting programs of the year was presented by the Bovina grade school Friday, May 11. The children performed from the floor of the gym while the audience sat in the bleachers.

The general theme of the program was that of a May festival. A May Queen was crowned at the very beginning and the rest of the program consisted of entertainmnet in her honor.

The prettily decorated thrones and the girls' lovely, bright colored evening dresses against a colorful background, made it a festive affair.

Joe Bruce was master of ceremonies, and did a spendid job of seeing that the entire program went off smoothly.

The sixth grade presented a play, "Those Jolly Final Exams."

The fourth and fifth grades sang some pretty spring songs and formed the background for the Queen's party. The Queen and her attendants were chosen from these grades. To introduce the coming of the Queen, the girls formed the word "MAY" with colorful streamers and after the Queen was seated, did a dance for her.

Next the second grade children presented a playlet called, "Terry and the Robins" and their rhythm band played for the Queen.

After these numbers the Queen sang a lovely solo, accompanied in part by the entire chorus.

The third grade entertained with their harmony band. This band is something new in the school this year. It consists of alto, soprano, and tenor chimes, flutes and pipes, and the children not only play a melody but harmonize as well.

The third grade also did their version of the May dance. This was very pretty and well done. One little boy didn't have a partner so he asked the Queen to dance with him, and she did.

The first graders were all dressed up and entertained the Queen with a group of singing games. They were, "Picking up Paw Paws," "Step, Slide," and "Swinging in the Lane."

The audience enjoyed these very much, especially the little unexpected things that first graders just naturally do in a program.

The finale was three pretty spring songs by the entire grade school, after which Joe bade the audience good night.

Joan Kay Ezell was a lovely Queen of May and her handsome escort was David Berggren. Her attendants were Sandra Rhinehart and her escort Elmer Snodgrass. Crown bearer was Barbara Taylor, flower girl Mildred Yung, and heralds were Bobby and Richard Leslie.

Comments heard from some who attended were, "It was more interesting because the whole thing was planned around a main idea."
