Bandits Elude Trap Today; Kidnap Two In Wild Flight

(By The Associated Press)

DURANT, Okla., July 21—Pete Traxler, Oklahoma outlaw, and his fellow convict fugitive, Fred Tindol, broke through a network of officers in the Washita river bottoms today and sped northward after kidnaping two farmers.

Both hostages were released after brief, wild rides over back roads with state patrolmen in close pursuit. When last seen, the fleeing convicts were speeding toward Tishomingo on a country lane leading northwest from Caddo.

When Traxler's wife, attractive Nell Traxler, was held in jail at Durant, the escaped Texas convict fought desperately to get out of the rough country into which officers had driven him after her capture.

After an all-night search through soggy river bottoms near the Texas line, during which Traxler and Tindol outran three McAlester penitentiary bloodhounds, the convicts entered the small town of Kingston, 25 miles southwest of Durant.

There they forced their way into the home of J. E. Benton, 44-year-old farmer, dragged him from his bed and roared toward Durant in his black sedan.

Break Through Patrol

About 6 a. m. the convicts broke through an officers' patrol on a narrow country lane near Durant. The patrolmen, who were talking to occupants of another automobile when the desperadoes roared by, chased them to Durant.

After racing through Durant at terrific speed, Traxler cut a zig-zag trail through the town of Armstrong then wheeled east to Caddo. State patrolmen said they passed through a back alley in Caddo at a speed of about 85 miles an hour.

From Caddo, the convicts cut back to the south, attempting to shake their pursuers on rough country roads.

At Pleasant Hill, three miles east of Caddo, the felons pulled up in front of the farm home of Frank Trimmer, a country school teacher, loaded Trimmer into his car while memberds of his family looked on helplessly, and headed back toward

Amarillo Plans For Greatest Celebration In All History

(By The Associated Press)

AMARILLO, July 21 — With the granting of the charter for the National Association of Mothers-In-Law Clubs, plans are moving forward rapidly for one of the greatest celebrations in the history of the southwest, to be held in Amarillo in March, 1938.

Definite assurance of the presence of Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, wife of the president, has formed the nucleus around which Amarillo is preparing to sponsor a show that "will attract the attention of the nation."

Pending the setting of the date by Mrs. Roosevelt's tour manager, it was understood here that March 13 or March 19 would be the day of the fete.

Gene Howe, publisher of the Amarillo Globe-News, and founder of the nation's tribute to mothers-in-law, was not available for quotations. He is visiting his mother, who is ill at her home in Connecticut.

Tentative plans for the celebration include the presence of the governors of five states, already pledged to attend if they can. The first executives of Texas, Colorado, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Kansas are expected here.

A parade ten miles long is planned, with each town in the area surrounding Amarillo furnishing a float that will honor their mothers-in-law. Amarillo has already made plans for one of the largest floats ever built—it is expected to carry fully a thousand mothers-in-law and their sons-in-law.

Military groups, 35 bands, and floats depicting the humorous and serious sides of the mother-in-law relation will also highlight the occasion.

Garner Taking Hand In Row

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 21—"Cactus Jack" Garner, who calls himself President Roosevelt's silent partner, is doing a lot of talking this week—but it's all behind the scenes.

The vice-president scarcely had unpacked his bags yesterday after a five-week Texas vacation when he became the center of negotiations for a court bill compromise.

Senators Pay Calls

One senator after another walked into his roomy capitol office. Seven came in a body.

A little later the bushy-eyebrowed Texan went to the White House. Apparently he delivered the senators' message.

His own views on the court bill have not been disclosed. Before he left suddenly on his vacation in the middle of the congressional session, insiders said he had urged Mr. Roosevelt to yield in his advocacy of additional supreme court justices.

They Listen To Him

That was what led observers today to believe that Garner was taking a hand in trying to end the disagreement among the Democratic senators.

It wasn't the first time that Garner has taken an active role in guiding legislation since he became vice-president. He refers to his position as a "fifth wheel," but legislators listen when he gives advice.

Friends said he doesn't hesitate to disagree with Mr. Roosevelt in the privacy of "the boss" office. They call him the administration's lead-

WASHINGTON, July 21 — Frequent conferences among administration leaders and a shift of senate voting strength gave indications today of a new modification of the Roosevelt court bill.

Senate leaders, after discussing the situation at the White House late yesterday, smiled and talked of "harmony"—something that has been lacking during the long conflict.

Vote To Recommit

Just before the conference seven Democratic senators—all but one of them uncommitted on the court bill—were reported to have told Vice-President Garner they would vote to recommit the measure if a settlement could not be reached speedily.

Another hint of compromise was seen in the delay of Senator Wagner (D-NY) in replying to the appeal from Governor Lehman of New York that he vote against the bill. Wagner was expected to issue his reply today.

Developments Expected

Quick developments were expected to follow the selection today of a new Democratic senate leader. It will be his task to carry out the administration's wishes on the controversial issue.

Both leadership candidates—Senators Barkley of Kentucky and Harrison of Mississippi—accompanied Vice-President Garner and President Pro Tempore Pittman (D-Nev) to the White House yesterday.

All four refused afterward to discuss the trend of their conversation. Some hinted they could not talk until the leadership fight was settled. Mrs. Roosevelt declined comment.

Drastic Economies Decreed In France

PARIS, July 21 (AP)—The second people's front government tonight decreed drastic governmental economies in an effort to pull France out of her economic and financial difficulties.

A series of sweeping decrees also shook up the command of the Bank of France and created a fund to "defend" government securities.

Premier Camille Chautemps' cabinet approved the program of Finance Minister Georges Bonnet, designed to meet at least part of France's huge armament and other expenses, and President Albert Lebrun gave his assent.

It was announced the government bond defense fund will be created through the increased value of gold in the Bank of France vaults as a consequence of devaluation of the franc, the first measure Bonnet instituted to restore French finances.

U. S. Officials Say Situation Very Grave

American Business Men Begin To Drill; Company Formed To Reinforce Soldiers

(By The Associated Press)

The 15th United States infantry stood by under full war packs at Tientsin today to defend the American concession if Sino-Japanese fighting is carried into that city.

While tension between Japan and China brought new fighting in the North China area, American business men at Tientsin organized a volunteer company, started to drill, and selected squads to build fortifications.

Reinforcements Asked

Taking a grave view of the situation, the United States consulate had asked that the company be formed to reinforce the regular army garrison.

Besides protecting American interests in the city, the 15th infantry was ordered to keep open the railroad to the eastern seaport of Chinwangtao.

What observers believed was a determination by Japanese to wipe out positions held by the 37th Chinese division in the Peiping area and a decision to attack other strategic points also led British, French and Italian authorities to prepare for protection for their nationals.

Deadly Blow Threatened

The Japanese commander south of Peiping threatened "another and more deadly blow" against the Chinese.

Japanese destroyed Chinese barracks with an artillery bombardment in a general attack yesterday against Wanpinkhsien, just north of the Marco Polo bridge west of Peiping.

Japanese answered reports that a number of civilians were killed in the bombardment by saying they had been "warned" to evacuate the area.

Attackers Are Riddled

Unconfirmed reports said Chinese forces attacking positions held by Japanese were riddled by machine gun fire.

The Japanese cabinet in Tokyo determined to enforce by guns what it declared was the surrender of North China officials to demands for extended Japanese influence in the area. The privy council approved the attack on Wanpinghsien.

At Peiping, Chinese sources said the Chinese military has agreed with the Japanese on a mutual withdrawal of troops from the Wanpinghsien area. The 37th division of the 29th Chinese army withdrew to Papaochun today, leaving Wanpinghsien garrisoned by gendarmes.

Three Men Are Captured In Attempt To Hold Up Store

HOUSTON, July 21 (AP)—Three men attempting to hold up a drug store were captured late last night in a gun fight in which two of them and a policeman were wounded slightly.

The captives said they were ex-convicts and identified themselves as John Ivy, 48, Oscar Frazier, 36, and Dan Sims, 46. Frazier said he lived in Beaumont but his companions refused to give their home addresses.

Eight officers engaged the men in a gun fight at the store. Policeman B. F. Roberts was shot in the left arm.

State Superintendent Plans To Speak In This Section

L. A. Woods, state superintendent of public instruction, has made tentative arrangements to speak at 10 o'clock the morning of July 30 at Plainview and to come to Lubbock that afternoon for a 2 o'clock address, said Joseph R. Griggs, Lubbock county superintendent.

Further, it is planned for the state official to make an address at 8 o'clock that night at Lamesa, said Supt. Griggs.

G. D. Holbrook, deputy state superintendent, will be in Supt. Griggs' office next week to transact department business.

Heat Expends Metals In Huge Neches River Bridge And It Stays Open For Two Hours

BEAUMONT, July 21 (AP) — Intense heat was blamed today for keeping open the $1,000,000 Neches river bridge, delaying several hundred motorists for two hours.

The bridge was opened at 10 o'clock this morning and could not be closed until noon. Expansion of metals in the mechanism of the bridge threw the machinery out of order. A dozen men were called to operate the manpower lever. Usually the electric motors close the bridge in four minutes.

Some drivers elected to go over a ferry, which took them 30 miles out of their way, than to wait while workmen toiled and fretted over the recalcitrant bridge.

Questions And Answers For The Farmer

Explanation Of How Proposal Offered By Marvin Jones Is To Stabilize Farm Prices

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 21—How would the Jones bill try to establish "fair prices and incomes for farmers and a stable food supply for consumers?"

By regulating the flow of farm products to market under a quota system. Each farm would be given an increase and marketing allotment of such major products as wheat, corn, rice, cotton, and tobacco.

Marvin Jones

What would be done with surplus crops—the portion not needed for domestic consumption and export?

They would be stored in granaries for release in years of crop failures, thus keeping "ever-normal." Sponsors say such storage would tend to stabilize prices for the benefit of both producer and consumer.

Denied Cash Benefit

Would farmers be required to comply with acreage and marketing quotas?

No, but those who did not comply would be denied cash benefit payments under the existing soil conservation act and other payments that might be authorized.

How would surplus products find their way into the granary?

The secretary of agriculture could require farmers receiving cash benefits to store up to 20 per cent of their crops. Loans would be allowed on the stored portion.

How would stored surpluses be released in poor crop years?

Call In Loans

By calling in the loans. It is presumed that most farmers would place on the market such stored products to obtain funds to retire loans.

Suppose surpluses filled granary needs; what steps would be taken to bring production in line with consumption?

Processing taxes would be levied on the major crops. Funds raised by these taxes would be used to increase benefit payments to farmers complying with acreage and marketing quotas.

In what other ways is the bill designed to help farmers?

It authorizes the secretary to help farmers obtain lower freight rates on their products. It also authorizes expenditures of $10,000,000 a year for developing new uses for farm products.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Chairman Jones (D-Tex) of the house agriculture committee has asked congress to enact a broad program to stabilize farm prices through an "ever-normal" granary system. The following questions and answers outline his bill's major provisions.)

American Is Pondering His Fate

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Staff Writer

SALAMANCA, Spain, July 21—Self-cast as a man without a country," Harold Dahl, 28, of Champaign, Ill., and Madrid, Spain, sat in a white-washed insurgent prison today, running nervous fingers through his thinning blonde hair and pondering the fortunes of aerial warfare that landed him there.

Specifically he was concerned by these problems of the future:

Would he ever see Champaign again? He was convinced that under the United States neutrality law he had lost his citizenship.

Would he be taken before an insurgent firing squad and shot as a mercenary enemy of the Spanish insurgents? There is a faint chance he will be.

Or, would he be traded with the Spanish government forces for an insurgent prisoner? He said he was sure he would be shot if he goes back to Madrid.

Mrs. Dahl, meanwhile, is living at Cannes, France, where she is supposed to be getting the $1,500 weekly salary which Dahl said the Spanish government promised for his services in its air force.

This writer visited the disconsolate Dahl in his cell—the first American he had talked with in some time. He conversed freely on his service with the Madrid forces—a brief record abruptly terminated in a gust of machine gun fire that ripped the fabric off the wings of the pursuit ship he was flying over the Madrid front.

But he told the story like this:

"It was a very silly move to come here for anything like this, I realize now—particularly when the only interest was money.

"I am not a Communist and never was but I had no job and I was coming here as instructor."

Dahl came to Spain with two other Americans also hired on a month-to-month basis and arrived at Madrid June 24. He said he had signed up in Mexico.

The aviator explained that he had learned flying in the U. S. army at a Texas field about 1931 and became a reserve pilot. He added he was a graduate of Columbia university.

Daily Average Runs Of Crude For May Show Big Increase

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—The bureau of mines announced today the daily average runs of crude petroleum for May amounted to 3,240,000 barrels, topping the record for April by 121,000 barrels, and beating the average for May, 1936, by 316,000 barrels.

The daily average imports of foreign crude oil during May totaled 85,000 barrels, a decrease of 2,000 barrels from April.

Stocks of crude oil at refineries at the end of May amounted to 53,919,000 barrels, an increase of 590,000 barrels during the month.

Close Contest Staged Today For Office

Kentucky Senator Is Winner By 38 To 37 Vote; Served As Robinson's Assistant

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 21—Senator Barkley of Kentucky, won the Democratic leadership of the senate today in a close contest.

The vote was 38 to 37.

Barkley, who served as assistant to the late leader—Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas—was chosen by the senate's 75 Democrats over Senator Harrison of Mississippi.

Quick Secret Ballot

Barkley was supported by most friends of the Roosevelt court bill. Harrison had the backing of those against that measure.

The entire caucus took less than an hour. There were no nominations, but a quick secret ballot. Harrison then moved to make the selection unanimous.

Before the meeting broke up Barkley made a brief speech in which he promised to support Democratic policies and work for the nation and the party. He was cheered by his colleagues.

The Democrats then filed by and shook his hand, and the hand of Senator Harrison, who stood smiling at his side.

Gratitude Expressed

Speaking into a radio microphone, Barkley expressed his gratitude for the "honor accorded to me" and expressed confidence "we will all be able to work together."

He said the friendly nature of the contest, close though it was foreshadowed party unity.

Senator Harrison, following Barkley on the radio, said he had just congratulated the victor and said

Japanese Deny U. S. Charges

(By The Associated Press)

PEIPING, July 21.—Two American women were at odds with the Japanese embassy today on whether Japanese soldiers kicked them or merely "pushed them on their way".

A Japanese embassy spokesman declared investigation showed Japanese sentries did not use violence in forcing the women to leave the vicinity of the embassy yesterday.

The women, Mrs. Helen R. Jones, of Detroit, and Miss Carol Lathrop, of Washington, D. C., told United States officials that the guards kicked and shoved them.

Said Woman Slipped

Japanese sources, however said the lieutenant in charge of the guards said one of the women slipped on wet pavement.

The lieutenant's view was that the women crossed the street and tried to look inside sandbag barricades and that when sentries asked them to leave they refused and the sentries "merely pushed them on their way."

When she heard the Japanese version of the incident Mrs. Jones declared: "If being kicked and shoved as we were isn't violence, then I'd hate to meet the real article."

"It was my impression that the street was perfectly dry," she added.

Congressional Investigation Of Jersey Camp Demanded

JERSEY CITY, N. J., July 21 (AP)—Demanding a congressional investigation, a Jersey City unit of the Veterans of Foreign Wars pledged itself today to combat what it called fostering of an alien allegiance among youth at a German-American camp where the Nazi emblem is "hailed."

Through Rep. Mary Norton (D-NJ), the veterans sought investigation of the "source of funds and object" of the German-American bund, sponsor of Camp Nordland in the Sussex hills of northern New Jersey. Swastika banners carried by 1,000 uniformed men on parade, accompanied by a gray-shirted military guard, drew Fascist salutes by 8,000 members of the bund at a camp rally Sunday.

To Lead Democrats

Senator Alben Barkley of Kentucky, this morning was elected Democratic leader to succeed the late Senator Joseph Robinson. The vote was close, Barkley 38, Senator Harrison 37.

Rebel Forces Open Drive

(By The Associated Press)

MADRID, July 21.—Insurgent forces, struggling to plug a hole gouged in their lines west of Madrid by Gen. Jose Miaja's offensive surged on the government salient from three directions today.

Their massed drive wrested a strategic hill from Miaja's milicianos—"peak 660," from which they dominated Villanueva De La Canada, a village about 15 miles west of Madrid.

The government asserted it still held Valdemorilla and Villanueva Del Pardillo, at the mouth of the "pocket" which Madrid's "Milicianos" cut into the flank of the eight and one half month old siege lines on the capital's western front.

Trap Being Laid

Miaja's salient extends southward and completion of its curving sweep back toward Madrid would trap the insurgents or force their evacuation.

South of Madrid and east of Navalcarnero where other government forces are fighting to join Miaja's western front salient, the government reported its lines were held in the face of heavy counter-attack.

Reports from the Guadaiajara front, northeast of the capital, told of a continued concentration attack to break them up.

Officials Frown On Stunt Hops

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 21 — Commerce department officials said today there is little chance that Jimmie Mattern will be permitted to make a proposed North Pole flight to Moscow.

These authorities, wanted to prevent recurrence of such air tragedies as the loss of Amelia Earhart, said it also is doubtful that projected world flights by Howard Hughes and Dick Merrill will be authorized.

Similar views were expressed regarding a proposed globe-circling flight by Merrill and Mark Hellinger, newspaper columnist. Merrill had intended to take off from New York late this month in an effort to break the round-the-world record of 7 days, 18 hours chalked up by the late Wiley Post.

Settlement Of Differences In Labor Dispute Is Proposed

VERNON, July 21 (AP)—Examiner T. E. Dudley of the National Labor Relations board proposed a settlement of differences today between the Waggoner Refining company and a group of employes.

The proposal was that 17 employes allegedly discharged because of alleged union activity be reinstated; that an election be held to determine a collective bargaining agency; that the charges of unfair labor practices be dropped, and that a contract be made on wage and hour questions with a penalty provided for violation of the contract.

Lowest Rate In Years Given Approval Of Board Today; School Tax Is 7 Cents

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, July 21—The automatic tax board today set an ad valorem tax rate of seven cents per $100 valuation for per capita aid to Texas public schools next year.

The board fixed the rate for general revenue purposes at the constitutional maximum of 35 cents which with the constitutional rate of seven cents for Confederate pensions gave a total of 49 cents, the lowest rate in years.

Estimates Are Given

Statisticians for the comptroller's department estimated the seven cent levy would take care of $2,000,000 allotment for purchase of free textbooks and also would permit payment of $20 scholastic apportionment.

The apportionment for this year was $19 but recently the state board of education authorized $22 for 1937-38.

The from?u. w

Governor James V. Allred and Comptroller George H. Sheppard voted for the seven cent rate while Treasurer Charley Lockhart opposed the decision at this time.

Favors Asking Ruling

Lockhart favored asking the attorney general's department for a ruling on whether the tax board under the law was compelled to set the rate sufficiently high to meet the apportionment fixed by the board of education.

The ad valorem rate for school purposes this year was 20 cents and representatives of school teachers organizations and others urged it be maintained. Current rate for general revenue and pensions was the constitutional maxima.

Governor Allred said he had no desire to take money from the schools "to which they were entitled" but, on the basis of estimates by the comptroller's department, the available school fund would have a surplus of more than $3,000,000 at the end of this year and he believed the present rate would not be needed.

Education Board Criticized

"I think it is possible the schools will receive a $20 apportionment anyway for the estimates of revenue always have been very conservative," he said. "If a 20 cent rate were continued, then perhaps there would be another big surplus."

He criticized action of the board of education in setting the apportionment at $22 before the tax board fixed a tax rate.

"I think the education board was presumptious in basing an action

Twelve Texans Dead Tuesday

(By The Associated Press)

Swift death came to 12 Texans yesterday, victims of lightning, highway accidents and drowning.

N. W. Snow, 35, of Dallas, was killed by a lightning bolt which coursed along a light wire he carried under a house whose foundation he was examining. Ed Ford, 11, and his brother, Billie Joe, 6, died before their parents' eyes of lightning which struck at their Buffalo Springs home in Clay county.

Two other brothers, Oscar Henderson, 6, and Ray, 12, of Kingsville, drowned in Medina river. Divers recovered the bodies after the boys had fallen into a deep hole.

Bruce Drake, 60, Crockett county resident, was killed when his car turned over 35 miles west of Ozona. A tire blow-out was blamed. Two negroes, Annice Skillion, 16, and Morris McKinley, perished and a white man, E. E. Grimes of Tyler, was injured when two cars crashed head-on near Kilgore.

Two Injured Fatally

In another head-on collision, Rick Hooper, 29, and E. R. Alexander, 45, both of Whitewright, were injured fatally. Three were injured in the crash of a bus and automobile during a rain.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Bynum, both about 30, of the Meadow community, were instantly killed when their car crashed head-on with a lumber truck 15 miles southwest of Lubbock.

Mrs. W. D. O'Neill, the former Mrs. Ann Groth, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. P. Giles, 2517 Twentieth street, is being complimented with a series of parties, which began Tuesday night when Mrs. Floe Swenson, 1710 Avenue K, named her honoree at a Chatter Box club backyard supper. She received a shower of kitchen articles.

At Giles Residence

Thursday night Mrs. Giles is entertaining with a yard party in her sister's honor. Receiving hours are to be between 8 and 10 o'clock. A Mexican string orchestra will play.

Two-Day Program Starts Thursday

DICKENS, July 21. (Special)—A two-day program of the fourth annual round-up of Dickens county old settlers will begin Thursday.

Featuring carnival performances and square dances each night, the Old Settler's reunion is scheduled to draw the largest attendance of any previous round-up. Softball games each day, with a loving cup to the winning team, top the list of athletic activities, while skating each day and night and an amateur night Thursday will add to the entertainment.

A cash prize to the oldest settler in Dickens county and another to the oldest person who registers, is offered.

An old fiddlers' contest with a cash prize is slated for Friday night. An abundance of camping ground has been arranged, and plenty of spring water will be available, according to sponsors.

Second Annual XIT Reunion To Be Staged At Dalhart

Former employes of the XIT ranch who live in this section of the South Plains have been invited to attend a second annual reunion to be at Dalhart Aug. 9 and 10.

A historical pageant, a rodeo, street parade, chuck wagon feed, dances, and other features have been arranged. Towns surrounding Dalhart will send princesses, the leading one of whom will receive a free trip to the Greater Texas and Pan-American exposition at the Frontier celebration, at Dallas and at Fort Worth.

Rodeo prizes will total more than $1,000.

FOLLOW UPWARD TREND

The trend now is definitely toward shorter evening gowns. Designers continue to feature ankle-length dance dresses for more or less informal parties. Many truly formal, floor-length gowns are slit or intricately draped to look shorter in front than at the back. Judging solely by the past, drapes and slits always indicate that, within a season or two, hemlines themselves will be shortened.

Professional "Bums" Unemployed Because They Find Begging Easier Than Work

BY BILL WOOD

"Buddy, kin you spare a dime for a cuppa coffee?"

That is their request, those ubiquitous bums that jump out from behind corners or peep from doorways, but records in the office of the Salvation Army indicate 60 per cent of the panhandlers buy tobacco or liquor with alms collected.

Begging Is Easier

The professional bum is unemployed because he finds begging much easier and, in many cases, more profitable, said Capt. John G. Churchill, corps commander of the Army here.

Take the case of the hungry-looking individual who called on Churchill at Salvation Army headquarters not long ago and asked for a meal. He was given a 15-cent meal ticket and went to a nearby cafe. Ordering a 60-cent meal, the deadbeat placidly handed the waiter his inadequate pass and walked out. After being notified by the cafe owner, Capt. Churchill located the bum and asked him about the meal, whereupon the ragged moocher thrust a hand deeply into his pocket, handed the captain 75 cents, from money totaling more than $10, and walked away without comment.

Seek New Fields

Professional deadbeats usually are moving away from a declining "boom town," said Churchill. Having gleaned as much as possible from the citizenry of that money center, they board freight trains or old cars and search for new territories. A short while ago in Odessa, two hitchhikers went to various establishments asking for money. When followed by a curious benefactor, it was learned that the pair purchased liquor with their earnings. They repeated the incident a few hours later, and after failing to make enough on a third round, the bums reported to the Salvation Army they weren't "treated right" in Odessa and were going to leave. The Army offered no objections.

A reporter here was approached by a well-dressed individual who asked 10 cents. Curious as to what the fellow would do with the money, the reporter watched him. A cab pulled over to the curb, the moocher climbed in, rode to an apartment house, and tipped the driver.

Clothes Often Sold

In many instances, the Army finds that clothes given the needy are sold to second-hand dealers, and the money is spent for amusement.

The public is gypped more by transient families than by single men. A family will enter a town in an old car or truck, send their children out to beg for money and, when they return, use the profits to buy gas for their journey to the next town.

However, there is a human side to the problem. Many times a man with a family to support will go to the cotton fields, or wheat harvest, then return home on a freight train, begging for food, and saving his earnings for his family. These cases are in minority, but exist nevertheless.

Makes Investigation

Some time ago, Captain Churchill donned old clothes, went to a Salvation Army station and asked for a place to sleep. He was placed in a large room with some 25 or 30 others, who were answering questions of a clean-shaven young man, too well groomed to answer the description of an average bum. The man asked innumerable questions concerning the amount of money the others carried and their habits, finding that all had a small amount of "change" in their pockets. Curious as to the man's motives, Captain Churchill asked the fellow several questions, eventually learning: "I'm a newspaper reporter." He was a sham deadbeat.

The best way to handle the average bum is refuse to feed him, unless he works for the meal, according to Army officials. It is remarkable how quickly information is passed on that a certain house in a city is "soft". Shortly the kindly housewife will find herself host to a steadily growing number of visits from these "knights of the rail," said Capt. Churchill and police.

Green beans should be uniform in size if they are to cook evenly. Test beans for freshness by seeing if they snap when they are broken in half. The best peas will be velvety to touch, bright green in color (never yellow) and rather plump. Plumpness indicates that pods are filled with peas of even size.

MONTGOMERY WARD

Approval For Dam Sought

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP) — Senator Morris Sheppard and a Texas delegation today urged Works Progress Administrator Harry L. Hopkins to approve proposed construction of the Possum Kingdom dam on the Brazos river.

The Texas congressmen and members of the Brazos River Conservation district asked acting Director of the Budget Daniel W. Bell to approve an additional grant of $1,500,000 to carry out the work as designed by river district engineers or $3,500,000 to build the type of structure recommended by U. S. army engineers.

Quick Report Asked

The group also asked Hopkins to report the matter as quickly as possible to Bell. No announcement has been made of the reclamation bureau's report but it was understood it favored the type of dam recommended by the army engineers.

"We feel that the government definitely is obligated to carry on the work," said Representative W. R. Poage of Waco. "They allocated $3,100,000 two and a half years ago. Just as we were about to let the contracts, Hopkins asked that army engineers make a survey. Differences in their estimates and those of the district engineers have held up the work since that time."

Texas Representatives Stage Conference On Austin Dam

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP) — Representatives of the Lower Colorado River authority of Texas conferred today with Col. Horatio B. Hackett, assistant chief of the Public Works administration, on the Austin dam project.

The Texans seek Public Works administration approval of a contract between the authority and the City of Austin for the dam site owned by the latter, and that part of the old washed out structure still usable. The cost of the proposed structure is $2,600,000.

Attorney A. J. Wirtz of Austin said it would be two or three days before final agreement is reached. With him are Roy Fry of Burnet, chairman of the authority, Fritz Englehard of Eagle Lake, and C. R. Pennington of Abilene.

Famous Dances Are To Be Seen Here

Famous dances will be included on the program tonight when Harry Hamilton and Wana Williams, noted artists, appear at Senior High school auditorium in the first artist course program of the second semester of Texas Technological college summer school. The program will begin at 8:30 o'clock.

Hamilton, at one time a member of the Chicago Civic opera, spent two seasons with Raol Pause's ballet moderne, touring the United States and making appearances in Mexico and Central America. Later he became director of the dance department of the Baldwin McGaw school of the theater in San Francisco. There he met Miss Williams, who has appeared in recitals at the Guild theater in New York, and the two began their tour.

In additon to the fantastic numbers in elaborate costumes and masks, the program includes simple, humorous dances such as "Pastorale in Discord" and a series of caricatures.

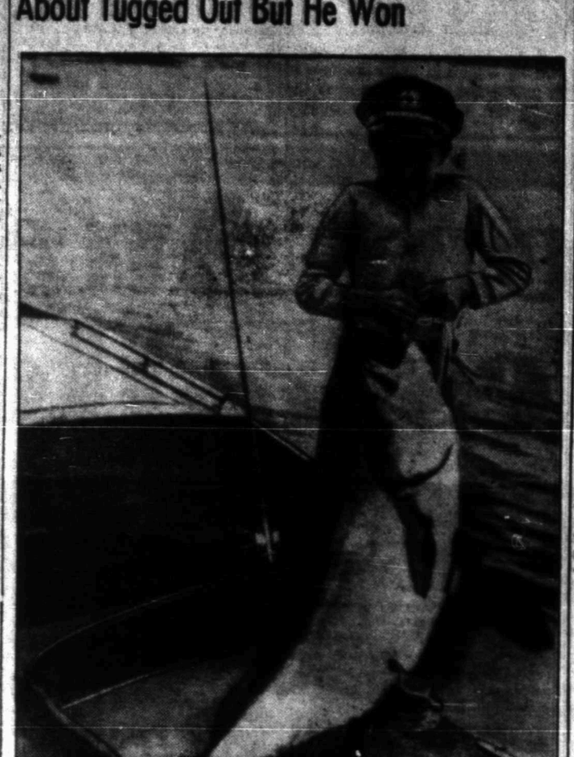

On division of tonight's program is a piano recital by the dancers' accompanist, Hadassah McGriffin. Miss McGriffin was official accompanist for the Evanston Musical Festival week in May, where Kirstin Flagstad, Gladys Swarthout, Alec Templeton and other concert artists were featured.

Admission is 35 cents for those persons not holding Tech artist course tickets.

Nationwide Mothers-In-Law Organization Launched; Is Incorporated In Texas

AUSTIN, July 21 (AP) — New charters announced today disclosed that five mothers-in-law living in Amarillo, the city leading a counter attack on mother-in-law jibes, had launched a nationwide organization incorporated under Texas laws.

Among the incorporators of the "National Association of Mother-in-law Clubs" was Mrs. Nellie Donald, mother-in-law of Gene Howe, Amarillo newspaper publisher and philosopher.

Howe Conceived Idea

Howe early in 1934 conceived the idea of an annual observance at Amarillo honoring mothers-in-law after repenting for making Mrs. Donald the butt of jokes in his column. Governor James V. Allred took official notice of the annual event and urged that the entire state pay homage to mothers-in-law.

Other incorporators, who will be directors of the organization, were Mrs. Melissa Griggs, Mrs. Lee Anna Thompson, Mrs. Sadie Curtis and Mrs. Willie Griggs.

The stated purpose of the corporation was to "preserve the American home, provide for the dissemination of such information as may prove to be educational and advantageous in the preservation of ideals that have historically clustered about the American home, and support benevolent, charitable, educational and missionary undertakings."

To Adopt By-Laws

The charter provided that persons not entitled to "the appellation and distinction" of mother-in-law would be ineligible to serve as directors.

The organization intends to adopt by-laws and elect a president, vice president, secretary-treasurer, parliamentarian and historian. It has no capital stock, and directors and officers will receive no salaries. The charter provided, however, that necessary clerical and office expenses might be paid out of the association's funds.

The charter is good for 50 years. It cost $10. Amarillo will be the corporation's headquarters.

Deaths through home accidents in the United States increased from 31,500 in 1935 to 39,000 in 1936, a total of more home accidents than motor vehicle deaths for the first time in eight years.

This Is A Fish Story

(but it is one of the estimated three per cent that are true)

Asa May, the prominent lumber dealer and in-door and out-door sport, was recently assessed a penalty for taking out more than the prescribed limit of fish at the lake in Buffalo Springs Park; and some of his critical friends say that he does not know a b c about fishing.

Whether these comments on Mr. May's ability as a piscatorial artist are correct is neither here nor there as relating to fishing possibilities at this lake, because women and children— even real anglers such as McKinney and Jones, Dentists, Dees Hutchinson, Bloom & Sloan —are taking out fish in pleasing and satisfactory number at this popular fishing and pleasure resort.

It can also be said that some of the amateurs including Jennings, Taylor, Shearer, Darnell, Webb, Uncle Andy and even Roy Rhodes and August Brockner occasionally take catches which they are proud to show; and George Smith gets some catfish sometimes.

Seriously, the lake is abundantly stocked and fishing is good. Buy an annual permit and fish with us the year round, or come out for a day now and then; we think you will be pleased.

Notices Of Election Are Sent Out To Judges On Tuesday

Notices to judges of Lubbock county's 20 election precincts that an election will be held August 21 on six proposed amendments to the state constitution were forwarded Tuesday by County Judge J. J. Dillard.

Notices of the election likewise were posted on a bulletin board in the lobby of the courthouse, as required by law.

Although more than a month ago, county officials said an almost entire lack of interest has been shown in the approaching poll. Estimates now are that fewer than one-third of the county's approximately 5,000 qualified voters will go to the polls. The number of qualified voters, they further explained, is only a trifle more than half the total of last year, when interest was stimulated in poll tax payments by national, state and county elections.

Thirty-Day Reprieve Is Given Pio Quesada By Governor

AUSTIN, July 21 (AP) — Pio Quesada, under death sentence for the slaying of Fernando Ramirez, in Willacy county, received a 30-day reprieve Tuesday from Governor James V. Allred.

The state board of pardons and paroles recommended the reprieve to permit investigation by Mexican government officials. It stated, however, it thought the evidence sufficient to warrant the penalty.

"The governor is of the opinion this request should be granted as a courtesy to the republic of Mexico and the consul general who desires to make an investigation of a citizen of Mexico," Edward Clark, secretary of state, said.

Ramirez was stabbed and shot in November, 1936, after a drinking party in which he, Quesada and others participated. Convicted of murder June 19, he was sentenced to die July 23.

Play In Annual Baseball Tournament Will Be Resumed Here Today

Double Header Is Scheduled In Afternoon

Provided the weatherman is satisfied with Tuesday morning's heavy downpour and last night's sprinkle, the seventh annual Lubbock Avalanche-Journal baseball tournament will be resumed this afternoon with a double header at the local park.

There was no baseball in Lubbock yesterday. Following the early Tuesday morning precipitation, workmen tried in vain to drain the ball park of the accumulation of moisture, some of it standing six inches deep in the outfield and behind home plate.

Brownfield Plays First

So yesterday's games, as well as all the rest for the tournament, were of necessity postponed one day. Yesterday's schedule will come off today, barring further wetness, and it will take a lot of wetness to put the park in unplayable position.

Brownfield and the Lubbock Tip-Top Collegians, defeated in the first round, will be at each other's throats this afternoon at 2 o'clock, one or the other of them to stay in the tournament, the other to fade from the picture. Two defeats means elimination in tournament baseball.

In the second game today, two new teams will be seen in action. The Cosden Oilers of Big Spring will meet the Wolfforth Wolves, managed by Fred Rich, well known as Public Enemy No. 1 of South Plains sporting teams.

Big Spring and Wolfforth originally were scheduled to meet Tuesday afternoon in the fourth and final round game. Several of the Big Spring players came on to Lubbock before Manager Pepper Martin could be told that the field was unplayable. Both returned home, and prepared to come again this afternoon.

A good part of the three-and-one-half-inch rain that fell southwest of Lubbock early Tuesday came on over the ball park, and the field was a lake, except for the turtle-backed infield.

Workmen used hoes and shovels all day yesterday, drained all the water off the field, and the hot sunshine did the rest. The field will be in perfect condition for play, barring further rain. And if rain falls, be it not extraordinarily great in density, the field will be ready, because water will drain easily now.

Tahoka Here Thursday

Every team in the tournament gained a day of rest and time for preparation, while the tournament lost a day, on account of yesterday's rain. So the clubs should be ready to start all over with their best hands in action today, and continue through the week.

The championship race proper starts Thursday when winners of the first round start meeting winners. Tahoka's sluggers, managed by Frank Larkin, come up against their old rivals, the Lubbock Hubbers, in the first 2nd round game between winners. The game is scheduled for 2 o'clock Thursday.

Loser of today's second game, between Wolfforth and Big Spring, will return Thursday also to meet New Moore, loser of Monday's first round game.

On Friday, the Amerada Oilers of Hobbs, conquerors of the defending champions, the Lubbock Collegians, return to engage the winner of today's second game, either Big Spring or Wolfforth.

Finals in the tournament, therefore, will be set up until Monday, instead of Sunday, due to yesterday's off day.

Look Out For Freddie

Tahoka's surprise team, winner over a favored Brownfield club in the first tournament game Sunday, are expected to bring a large audience from the Lynn county capitol. Rivalry used to be hot between Lubbock and Tahoka baseball teams and fans. The Tahokans demonstrated Monday that they're back in baseball, and they should not go unnoticed by the Tahoka population. Thursday's game between the clubs is due to pull one of the biggest tournament crowds.

Today's feature game, between Big Spring and Wolfforth, starting at 4 o'clock, will see one of the pre tournament favorites in action. Little is known of Freddie Rich's tournament plans, but the wily young man is certain to turn up with a powerful, and a loud, ball club.

Big Spring's Cosdens have appeared here in a two-game series this season, dropping both games to the Hubbers. But that was early in the season, and things have changed. Particularly have the Cosdens changed, and they'll be tougher and larger this time. Maxie Bearden, a lefthanded pitcher recruited from Coahoma, probably will be the mainstay in the Big Spring pitching corps. At least one other has been obtained, and the club still has Horace Wallin, former T. C. U. star, and Pat Stacey, heavy-hitting right-handed chunker, and Chuck Morgan to do the tossing. An addition to the club is Bill Cook, still another strong pitcher, so the Big Spring club comes here ably provided with moundmen.

With such sluggers as "Rat" Ramsey, Tommy Hutto, Carmen Brandon, Wallin, Jake Morgan, Jack Doran, Aubrey Harlow and Manager Pepper Martin himself, the Cosdens ought to get along pretty well this time.

Along with the Amerada Oilers of Hobbs and the Lubbock Hubbers, Big Spring is considered a favorite to enter the finals.

Sponsor Jimmy William and Manager Huffman of the Collegians promise a better exhibition today than that which featured their one-sided loss to the Ameradas Sunday. The lineup will be changed, at bat and in the field, in an effort to locate the best combination. The Collegian roster lists at least three players who were unavailable Sunday. A pitcher is included in this list.

Ken Minyard, due to pitch for the Collegians in the tournament, was left off the list because of failure to show up Sunday. The pitching duties probably will fall upon Euell Sprueill, young lefthander who is under contract for professional baseball and who looked fairly good Sunday.

Grudge Battle Will Be Staged In Local Ring

Here it comes!

The second main event meeting of Jack Hagen and Buck Lipscomb.

It didn't mean so much the first time they were scheduled to meet, but the outcome of that match has made the rematch inevitable, and it's on tonight at the Auditorium.

There'll be a supporting card of interest to grappling fans. In the curtain raiser, John Nemanic of Denver meets Gust Johnson of Minneapolis. These two are virtual strangers to local wrestling society. In the semi-final Tarzan Krause, the deaf mute from Yakima, Washington, meets Joe Kopecky, the panther-man from Houston, Texas' own middleweight product.

Since bad old Buck kicked Hagen loose from several sections of his backbone recently in one of the roughest tangles seen here in some time, Jack has been pleading with the promoter for a return engagement with the Hoosier Hotshot.

They Couldn't Wait

The tormented Hagen started asking for the second shot at Lipscomb as soon as he came to his senses after being knocked out of th by Buck in their last meeting. He threatened to "whip" Lipscomb next time he saw him, regardless of place or time. Dressing room were were prevented in later weeks, but last Wednesday night when Lipscomb clamored down from the ring after all but crucifying Panth-r Joe Kopecky, he brushed by Hagen, a ringside fan. Jack took it as affrontery, and they started swinging. Hagen got in a good lick before the long arm of the law interceded, hauled the both of them off to police court and slapped ea a $10 fine for each.

"I'll take that ten bucks out of his (Lipscomb's) hide if and when we ever meet in the ring," quoth Hagen.

So tonight's the night, and the match should be quite interesting. Buck has become tops in this corner of the circuit, having beaten nearly all the tough guys and the clean ones, too. His reign may be cut short tonight, but maybe not. A grudge fight, not a wrestling match, is in the offing.

Kopecky, victim of Lipscomb's rough usage last week, comes back tonight on the supporting card. He meets Tarzan Krause, the deaf mute who sometimes wrestles and now and then fights. He'll have to open up with all he possesses if he holds the crowd's respect tonight.

John Nemanic and Gust Johnson, originally scheduled to meet last week, but prevented when one of them couldn't get here, are tabbed to show their wares tonight. Nemanic is supposed to be one of the cleaner, faster, more scientific boys, while Johnson is something else again, announced as rough and tough and rarin' to go.

Oklahoma City Surges Ahead

(By The Associated Press)

If anybody intends heading off Oklahoma City as Texas league kingpins, now is the time to begin doing something about it. From this mid-season point it seems the Indians have a strangle-hold on first place and much relentless opposition will be needed to annihilate their 11-game lead.

The Indians won another last night, relying on Ralph Buxton and Ash Hillin for pitching and lusty 11-hit batting to turn back Galveston 5 to 3. The feature of the game was Stanley Sperry's good fortune in hitting in his thirty-fifth consecutive game. The Indian second baseman can tie the all-time league record if he hits in 37 straight games, as did Ike Boone for San Antonio in 1923.

Fight Still Interesting

Because of the Shaughnessy playoff system, Oklahoma City's wide lead did not make the pennant fight too listless. San Antonio again entered contention with their fourth straight victory, which pulled them to within a game-and a half of Fort Worth and the first division. The Missions hit less frequently but farther than Dallas to win 4 to 3. Fort Worth had dropped three straight to San Antonio.

Fort Worth slipped a bit more in losing to Beaumont 12 to 4. Two Cat pitchers, Reid and Belway, yielded 18 hits.

Tulsa polished off Houston 4 to 0, delivering the fourth straight game the Buffs have gone down under four-hit pitching. Leo Twardy was the Tulsa hurler.

Lubbock County Ranchers Will Join In Federal Program

Agreements to join in the federal range conservation program have been made by 11 Lubbock county ranchers, according to report Tuesday by County Agent C. C. Jobson and George Samson of Post, Garza county range inspector.

Objectives of the program were outlined and information on the acreage, number of cattle, etc., given Jobson by land owners.

Seven were contacted Monday and four yesterday. They were in Grovesville, Hardy, McClung, Becton, Northwest ward, Carlisle and Huriwood.

Samson only recently completed inspection work in his county. He left for Post last night.

Qualifying In Local Affair Set Today

The qualifying test in the annual Lubbock Country club's women's invitation golf tournament got under way this morning with thirty players teeing off shortly before noon. Late arrivals were to qualify this afternoon.

Favored for the medalist prize, as well as for a place in the finals was Miss Elinor Jones, young "veteran" who recently won the New Mexico state women's golf championship and later annexed the Big Spring invitation tournament title. Miss Jones fired a snappy 79, two over women's par, to set a new course record at Country club for women since the grass greens were installed. Mrs. Cliff Dean's 83 was the lowest score officially recorded.

The Albuquerque Jones girl bagged her 79 while playing in the mixed foursome event yesterday, prelude to the tournament proper which gets under way today and continues through the finals on Sunday.

The regular tournament Calcutta party and dinner will be held tonight at the clubhouse. Tickets for the event are available at the pro's office and are on sale by Country club women. The public is invited.

Although she had the lowest score among the 28 women who participated in the preliminary event yesterday, Miss Jones and her partner missed first place in the mixed foursome, a handicap affair. First honors were won by the Mrs. Hugh Skiles-George Benson duet. Mrs. Skiles, who with Mrs. Charles Worrell is representing women's golf of Clovis, N. M., finished with a net score of 75, while Benson posted a net of 72, for a total of 147 and the prize of a dozen golf balls.

Additional entries are expected today. Golfers from Amarillo, in particular, and possibly others from Midland, Odessa, Fort Worth, Slaton and elsewhere may arrive in time to qualify. The qualifying will be held open until 2 o'clock this afternoon.

Lubbock Poultry And Egg Wins From Post, 6-5, Last Night

Lubbock Poultry and Egg softball team barely topped a crack Post team Tuesday night to win 6 to 5 from the home club.

Lubbock's players scored five runs in the first inning, the winning tally going across the plate in the fourth. Sproul and Lingle made up the local battery.

The winners will play Spur in that city Saturday night.

Keeping Up With Yank Outfit Is Some Job

BY BILL BONI
Associated Press Sports Writer

Trying to catch the galloping Yankees these days is about as hopeful as trying to keep up with Gar Wood in a one-lung outboard, but you can't rule the White Sox or the Tigers off the track for trying.

The Sox have won six in a row to maintain their place as runnersup to the champions, now six and a half games in front after drubbing the Browns in both ends of a double header yesterday.

Tigers Win Five

The Tigers, encouraged by the promising recovery of Manager Mickey Cochrane, who for the first time since his injury put on a uniform during morning workout yesterday, have won five straight since handing the Yanks the lone setback of their current road trip.

Both have been fairly easy pickings the last few days. The Sox caught first the Red Sox and now the Senators in the throes of a losing streak, making it ten defeats in a row for the Nats yesterday with a 4-3 triumph in ten innings.

The Red Sox aren't proving too tough for the Tigers, either. The Hub crew was up in second place last week but has hit the skids again, that ten inning, 10-9 licking by Detroit being its fifth in a row.

Beyond Salvation

Even the fact that Jimmy Foxx chimed in with his nineteenth and twentieth homers and Colonel Mills and Eric McNair came up with one each couldn't save the Sox.

The extra-inning virus even affected the Yanks, who won the opener from the Browns in the tenth, 5-4, then belted four St. Louis flingers for eleven hits to win the nightcap, 9-6. Joe DiMaggio's 28th homer, with two on, was the big blow in the first game, but shared importance with Tom Henrich's peg from right field for a double play in the tenth.

The other American league game saw George Caster go the route while his fellow Athletics bagged fifteen hits off four Cleveland pitchers to win, 7-5.

The Giants, climbing back to within half a game of the rained out Cubs and the Dodgers, recovering from four straight trimmings by Chicago, also needed ten innings to win. Cliff Melton held the Reds to five hits as the Terrymen copped, 4-3 for their eighteenth victory.

Max Butcher tamed the Pirates with eight safeties to give Brooklyn a 2-1 decision.

The Cardinals threw in a few misplays and bowed to the Bees, 5-3.

Stoopnagle by Quin Ryan

WE WOULD take a shot at the Weatherman for messing up the baseball tournament, but it wouldn't do any good, in the first place; he has the first say in the second place, and in the third place the rains were beneficial in the first place.

At this writing, we don't know whether there'll be one, two or no ball games today, because this is written just before your getting up time and before our going to bed time, and the clouds are sort of thick over the ball park.

Unless it has rained a considerable portion, however, since Tuesday morning early, there'll be a couple of ball games for you to see this afternoon. One of them will be over before this goes into the street, but there's a second and feature game starting at 4 o'clock that you really should see. Big Spring's Cosden Oilers and Fred Rich's Wolfforth Wolves are clashing in the fourth and final first round game. The winner will join the winners of the three previous games in the championship bracket, one of the four to appear in the final game next Monday. The final originally was scheduled for Sunday, but then came the rain.

It will take a lot of persuasion to put the field in unplayable condition now. All the water that didn't soak into the ground Tuesday was drained off, and all that falls afterward will drain off quickly.

If the Weatherman is willing, there'll be two games tomorrow, the same which were scheduled for today, and that's when the second round begins. Winners start meeting winners and losers meet losers from now on, and that means that games will be more evenly matched, that the weaker teams will be fighting it out among themselves, and the stronger teams will be doing the same in the upper bracket.

Still be Lubbock Hubbers vs. the Tahoka sluggers in Thursday's main event, with the losers today meeting New Moore, the losers Monday, in the second game.

IF HAGEN'S SERIOUS THERE'LL BE BLOODSHED

We'd hate to miss that wrestling show tonight.

We have seen and talked with wrestlers after they have won and lost matches. Some have been proud and haughty. Some have taken it as a matter of course and look. Others have flared up, after requesting entertainment, to threaten all manner of punishment to the evil doers.

We never saw pretty parrot after losing to Joe Kopecky. He was even more peeved after losing to Jerry Markus—in a fall—in a semi-final bout. He raved so loudly that there was nothing to do but book him with Markus on a main go the next week, although another main event had been contracted. Markus hasn't been seen around here since.

But we have never seen a wrestler so perturbed over an-other wrestler as Jack Hagen has been over Buck Lipscomb.

Wrestling's all a frame-up, you say, and maybe it is—in the heavyweight division. We haven't run into any framing up in the middleweight ranks, and we've paid close enough attention to know if there is anything framed up about Jack Hagen's dislike for Buck Lipscomb.

Wrestlers, like anybody else, are subject to fits for fighting. They know this, and no matter how mad they get at each other, you seldom hear of them fighting one another outside the ring. They don't like to spend their hard earned money over the police sergeant's desk. But Hagen and Lipscomb spent some of theirs after last week's escapade outside the ring. It happened in plain sight of a lot of customers, as Lipscomb left the ring after taking Joe Kopecky apart.

Both grapplers were hauled into police court after an exchange of blows, and the customary fine was levied.

It has required the authoritative orders of Promoter Sled Allen and the taming of other wrestlers to keep Hagen and Lipscomb apart in the dressing quarters. Even though they are assigned dressing rooms across the hall from each other, they have been badgering each other every night that both have appeared on the same card. If left alone, they would have battled it out, in privacy if necessary, long since.

So use your own judgment about what they'll do tonight when they meet in the ring. Shudder, shudder.

City Program Will Be Held

Recreational supervisors in city parks began preparations of an all-community program to be presented in Seventh street park Friday night as the formal introduction of the new project to people of Lubbock.

Plans were tentatively completed at a meeting Tuesday afternoon of members of the parks recreation council, the city parks board and WPA recreational project officials.

First Of Series

As announced by Bill Witt, city parks recreational supervisor, the program will be the first of a series to be given weekly in various city parks. Usually, he added, a program will be given in each of the city parks, but the inaugural will be presented as a city-wide affair.

Attending the meeting at which the program was planned were E. N. Clapp, chairman of the city parks board under which the recreational council acts; J. I. Kilpatrick, chairman, W. O. (Dan) Daniels and H. C. Pender, of the recreational council; Miss Adelme Ziegenhals, district WPA recreational supervisor, and Witt.

Will Last Two Hours

The program, Friday, as tentatively outlined, will last two hours. The first hour will be devoted to a program, with recreational groups in each of the four city parks joined in the project presenting numbers. The parks at which supervised recreational activities are staged are Seventh, Twenty-seventh and Mackenzie, for whites, and negro park for negroes.

The second hour, Witt said, will be given over to square dancing and games of various kinds. Witt will attempt today to complete arrangements for the orchestra for which, heretofore, no funds are provided. D. L. Foston, described as amply experienced, will do part, if not all, of the calling for the dance.

Participation Is Widespread

In his first report of activities, Witt told park officials at their meeting Tuesday that more than 1,200 individuals participated in the initial week of activities of the recreational program—described as an attendance considerably larger than had been anticipated. The number, he added, did not include the several hundred spectators.

If weather conditions are favorable, a much larger participation is regarded as certain this week. Last week, only an afternoon program was given each day while members of the playground staff attended a school of instruction each morning. This week, supervised play periods are given both morning and afternoon, embracing a much wider range of activities than was possible last week.

How To Keep Cool

(By AP Feature Service)

"Is it hot enough for you?"

Follow a few suggestions from Dr. Robert Olesen of the U. S. public health service and you won't be stirred into hasty action the next time some perspiring fellow pops that silly question.

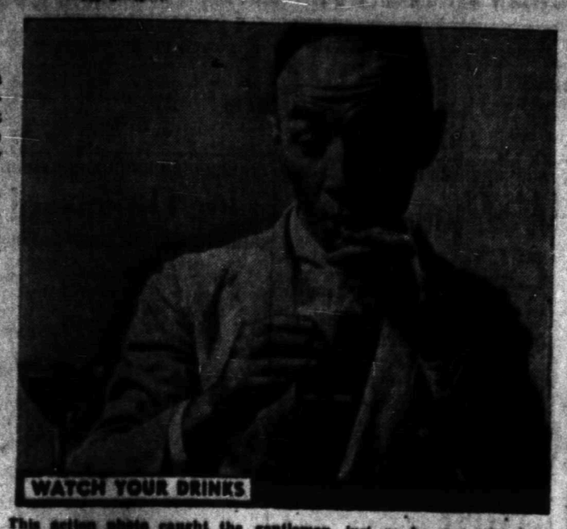

First, put your dark-colored clothes in moth balls, says Dr. Olesen—they absorb the sun's rays and make you feel hot. Wear white or light-colored ones of loosely-woven material.

Avoid foods that are heating—fruits and vegetables get the doctor's okay. Don't let the nice, cool tinkle of the ice in a tall drink bewitch you—alcohol makes you hot.

Continue to exercise—but before the sun gets high. Loaf in the afternoon. If you must work, be sure there's enough ventilation.

Get enough sleep—don't dance the whole night through.

Finally, says Olesen, "Acquire a cheerful and philosophic outlook on life."

WATCH YOUR DRINKS

This action photo caught the gentleman just as he was spurning a cocktail in favor of some nice cool milk. This is an unusually violent form of cocktail-spurning, not recommended in all cases. Just remember that alcohol makes you hotter.

KEEP THE AIR MOVING

A fan helps. A wet sheet hung where the fan will blow on it helps still more—for as the water evaporates, the temperature falls.

GET ENOUGH SLEEP

If it's too hot at home, take your pillow to a park. Lack of sleep—not the heat—is responsible for much of that tired, grumpy feeling.

other nationally famous feminine golf star.

That's the indication after reading and hearing about Miss Elinor Jones of Albuquerque and after seeing her handle the woods, irons and putter yesterday.

Unless a dark horse comes forward to challenge her in a surprise attack or unless some other well known feminine star pops up today, Miss Jones is a very torrid favorite to cop the championship. Her closest competitor yesterday in the mixed foursome event was nine strokes behind, and it was Elinor's second trip around the course.

She wouldn't win a Billy Rose beauty contest, this Miss Jones of New Mexico, but neither would many other females who brave the sun and wind in quest of birdies and pars. But mind you well, she's a comer in the golfing world; and who wouldn't trade her bridge table complexion for nation-wide fame as a superior golfer?

Sponsors of the tournament are grateful to the out of town ladies who came in early to get set for the tournament, and they'll be grateful to those who arrived today in time for qualifying. The field may be short in quantity but there's quality in them there niblick shots!

It is good to see Mrs. Rhea Vernon, whom Lubbock claimed for its own before she transferred to Taylor county, back on the course. She is one of the most delightful and delighted souls you ever saw, happy wherever she is, and to heck with the golf score. She's also a very nice golfer, and she'll go far in this tournament.

From Big Spring came other delegates in addition to those named yesterday—Mrs. Obie Bristow and Mrs. A. Swartz. Mrs. Gordon Phillips, Mrs. Harry Stalcup and Mrs. Theron Hicks, all capable golfers and pleasing personalities, arrived a day earlier. San Angelo sent Miss Elizabeth Pummill, Mrs. James Parr and Mrs. Jack Earhart, and from Clovis came those two exciting blondes, Mrs. Hugh Skiles and Mrs. Charles Worrell. There'll be more today, and they're very welcome.

Vigorous Campaign Is Being Staged Against Beer Sales

LITTLEFIELD, July 21 (Special)—Ministers and church leaders continued a vigorous campaign today seeking defeat of a proposal to legalize sales of beer in Lamb county at an election Saturday.

Opponents of the proposals announced their campaign will include the publicizing of names of 402 persons said to have signed a petition asking county commissioners to call the election. Members of the commissioners court said that the presentation of the petition with a prescribed number of signers made it mandatory that the election call be issued.

A statement signed by ministers and presented to Lamb county newspapers appealed to citizens to vote against legalizing of beer, stating the belief that "the best interests of Lamb county would be endangered" and that "economic and moral welfare of our citizenship would be jeopardized," if the proposal is approved.

I've told her how I own this business myself, and can't be nearest to everybody, so my way of drawing good regular trade is by giving them the mileage. And she said anyway her husband wants her to come here especially for Conoco Germ Processed oil—the only kind he'll have, because he wants an Oil-Plated engine. Other oils go draining back down to the crankcase, but this patent Germ Processed oil leaves a rich, slippy layer of lubricant strongly plated all over the insides of the engine. That's Oil-Plating. It doesn't get used up like just some thin spray of oil. It can't leave "dry spots" because it can't drain off. No matter if your engine is stopped, or if it's making time, it stays 100% Oil-Plated. Wear won't get a toehold, and you'll see you're not using up much of your Conoco Germ Processed oil. But the few times you need any, you will be coming here to my place to get it.

WELL, The Plainsman and Mr. Charles Wesley Ratliff, who skippers The Morning Avalanche, are back from an Associated Press meeting in Dallas, where they also took a peek at the Pan-American Exposition and generally disported themselves in the manner accepted by country boys in a big city.

The rumor is out that the gates of the Pan-American will be closed almost any day now, but according to Phil Fox, in charge of publicity, it is without basis.

"The show is not drawing the crowds originally hoped for," Mr. Fox freely admits, "but the fall sports program is figured to pull it out. Unseasonably hot weather—even for Dallas—has kept the crowd figures down, but cool weather will pick them up."

The Plainsman hopes Mr. Fox is right.

One of the two or three Texans who didn't make either of the Ft. Worth or Dallas Centennial shows last season, your humble servant was surprised at the things he saw down there the other day. In fact the only disappointment was in the feature he expected to be best—Rudy Vallee at the Casino. The Casino is a good show but Mr. Vallee didn't put out very much. Although The Plainsman caught him between 8:30 and 10 p. m. Saturday, when the big building was thronged, Vallee only sang one chorus and was only on the stage about 20 minutes.

INCIDENTALLY, if you are planning to go down to Ft. Worth or Dallas and the weather is dry you won't miss a bet if you go on Highway 24 through Dickens, Guthrie, Benjamin, Seymour and Jacksboro. We scooted down to Ft. Worth in a little over six hours and into Dallas in a little less than eight and didn't run any chances doing it.

Further, instead of continuing east from Jacksboro to Bridgeport and Rhome we went through Ft. Worth and The Plainsman believes he made fully as good—if not better—time than if he had skipped Cowtown. There's little traffic between Jacksboro and Ft. Worth via Springtown and the road isn't as narrow and as crooked as it is in spots in the neighborhoods of Rhome and Grapevine.

Down in Dallas we broke all precedents and traditions by passing up the Adolphus in favor of the Ambassador, which is operated by an old Lubbock boy who is making good in the city. In charge of the Ambassador is Clarence A. (Call-Me-Sheff) Sheffield, who used to run the Hotel Lubbock back in the days before the Galveston interests got hold of it. Sheff tells us that since June 7, 1936, there has not passed a single day that he hasn't had at least one guest from Lubbock. Sometimes, he said, he has as many as three or four. Located on Ervay at City park and away from the tall buildings, the Ambassador is almost unbelievably cool. It is well furnished and beautifully appointed and boasts large apartments and suites as well as rooms.

J. B. Crane, who used to be night clerk at the Lubbock when Sheff was here, is day clerk there and Dub Barnett, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Barnett, of Lubbock, is bell captain.

How many people heard the terrific clap of thunder which followed a particularly vicious bolt of lightning about 5 a. m. Tuesday? It must have been a dandy.

Mrs. Jack Williamson who works down here at the office says the lightning or the thunder, one, caused her front room light, at 2401 Avenue L, to switch on and that the same thing happened in the home of a neighbor across the street.

Something like a mile or more away, at 1810 Avenue X, the bolt caused the light to flip on the servant's house occupied by our colored girl so probably many another householder had a similar experience.

It sure was a lulu while it lasted.

YOU ought to see Arlington Downs. All it needs in the way of a funereal tone is a great, big crepe tied up in front of the main entrance.

The fine racing plant halfway between Ft. Worth and Dallas already has started to go to seed and Herefords of the Three-D brand are permitted to graze around and about the paddocks which once housed thoroughbreds of the turf.

Where the velvety grass infield was is now a lake and the entire scene is vaguely reminiscent of Goldsmith's "Deserted Village".

SYNOPSIS: Josh Hastings, owner of the Flying Six, tries to buy Kay Crandon's Lazy Nine after her ranch house and barn burn. He also tries to court Kay. She distrusts him and is determined to keep her ranch and rebuild. Hastings' cowhand, Scrap Johnson, molests Kay, but Ted Gaynor, a puncher she impulsively hired, rescues her and whips Scrap. Later they shoot it out, wounding each other. Hastings, hating both, murders Scrap, using Ted's gun. Ted crawls to a shack where a girl takes him in. Sheriff Zeke Farley brings the gun to Kay to identify, telling her it killed Scrap. She had given Ted the gun.

Chapter 26
The Case Against Ted

"No—no! I'm all right!" Kay pushed away Seth and the sheriff, as they reached out to steady her. "It's just the horrible thought of Dad's gun being involved in a murder, that— But, how do you know it was murder? There might have been a perfectly fair fight!"

"Where's this Gaynor bird then? Why didn't he report it?"

A horrible fear clutched Kay. "Perhaps he's killed, too," she faltered.

"We've searched all around there," the sheriff answered. "Of course this two-day storm washed out any tracks or clues, but my hunch is that he made a get-away right after the killing."

"But why would he have left his gun behind?" Kay protested. "He'd never have done that if he'd murdered a man!"

"Search me, but we've no time for guessing," the sheriff answered impatiently. "Tell me all you know about him." He looked from Kay to Seth.

"All I know," Seth broke in, is that he turned up here the night of the fire. Kay had been having him look over some timberland for her, and then decided to have him join the outfit."

"Where'd you get hold of him in the first place?" Zeke Farley turned to Kay, who braced herself for this question she had been dreading. In the midst of her confused horror at this terrible news, one thing was clear—nothing would make her give the real version of her meeting with Ted.

"Why, I wanted to get hold of some more timberland," she began, "and it seemed a good idea to get some one to go over it, so I—"

"Yes, yes. Never mind all that!" the sheriff cut her short. "What I want to know is, how did you come to choose Gaynor? Why not someone from around here?"

"I don't know just why," Kay decided the only line to take was a helpless, illogical feminine one. "I just thought I'd try him out, and then, if I liked him, he could join the outfit. You thought he was a good addition, didn't you, Seth?" She appealed to Seth, with an attempt to defeat the sheriff's direct questions by irrelevance.

"Sure I did," Seth answered. "He seemed like an A1 hand to me. But I've been kind of wondering about him, when he didn't turn up when he said he would."

His Threat To Scrap

"How long has this man been dead?" Kay tried another tack to turn the line of the inquiry.

"About four or five days, I should judge." Zeke Farley came back to Seth's remark. "What's that about his being expected back?"

"I'll tell you how it was," Kay forestalled Seth. "He'd planned to go back and get his mother and sister, and bring them here to live. You see, he'd worked out a plan for rebuilding." With a few quick words she sketched Ted's ideas, ending, "So I know he wouldn't have left us in the lurch unless something had happened to him. He might be wounded, and dead or dying himself, while you're accusing him of murder!" She choked up in spite of herself. "I think you ought to be searching for him, to see if he's in trouble instead of fooling around about a gun!" She fixed the sheriff with an indignant eye.

"We'll be searching for him all right," the sheriff commented grimly. "I just wanted to make sure my hunch about the gun was right. I thought I'd seen your father toting it. Now that I know you gave it to Gaynor, it clears up a lot, and things look pretty black against him, all right. You probably don't know that he was heard threatening this Scrap Johnson's life before quite a few witnesses?"

"Before—witnesses?" Kay's mind flashed back to the fight on the mesa, when Ted had told Scrap Johnson he'd kill him if he ever showed up on the range again.

"Yes, Gaynor and Scrap Johnson had a fight at Kelly's one day last week, and Gaynor got the best of it. Some of the boys who were there say he threatened to get Scrap next time."

With a sick feeling, Kay realized how black the evidence was that was piling up against Ted.

"But that's neither here nor there," The sheriff turned to the door. "The first thing is to join up with Sam Cutter, the Idaho sheriff, and catch the bird. We can save the evidence for later." He slipped the gun in his pocket and picked up his hat. "Sorry to be all this bother, Miss Kay. I've got to be getting on now, but while I'm away you try to remember every single thing you can about this Gaynor."

"Where are you going?" Kay asked fearfully.

"Over into the Clear Water basin to look up his mother and sister first. Then I'll report to Sam Cutter's deputy and come back by the pass and search around there some more."

"You'll let me know the minute you hear anything, won't you?" Kay tried to keep the desperate anxiety out of her tone. "We have no telephone now, but you could get hold of Babs at the Flying Six, and she'll ride over and tell me."

"Sure I will." Zeke Farley climbed into his saddle and rode off.

Ted's Volunteer Nurse

The early morning sun shone on the glistening dew that outlined the bunch of grass in the small clearing on the south slope of the central divide. It tinted the dark green branches of the surrounding pines and tamaracks with golden flecks, and one or two first rays finally searched out the tumbled-down shack.

The door of the shack slowly opened and a girl stepped out to lean against the door frame. Her whole attitude suggested intense weariness. As she closed her eyes, her face looked deadly pale in its frame of black hair.

Straightening up, she glanced back through the door, then tiptoed down the two dilapidated steps and walked through the dew-drenched grass to the center of the clearing where the sun was strongest. She took several deep breaths, picked a bit of fire weed and stood idly twirling it.

It was exactly a week since Marion Howell had looked out of her strange abode to find wounded Ted dragging himself toward her. No sooner had she brought him inside, than the storm had broken.

Ted had hovered by the slenderest thread between life and death, and Marion knew that nothing but her care and nursing had saved him. She had thrown herself into the task as a natural human response to the desperate need of a fellow creature and as a welcome escape from her own thoughts and troubles.

Two days before Ted had appeared, Marion's father had brought her to this hut, stacked it with provisions to last several weeks, and told her that if she valued her life and his, she must wait there, in hiding until he came back.

His wild manner, coming as it did after a mental breakdown, had terrified her into acquiescing. She was entirely in the dark about his reason for this move, but she had suspicions that she hardly dared voice to herself. Deciding it was best to humor him, she had listened carefully to his instructions, and promised to carry them out to the letter.

He had made her swear that on no account would she let there be any sign that the hut was occupied. While it was extremely unlikely that any one would penetrate to the tiny clearing, he wanted her to lie low, if they did, and give the place every appearance of a deserted hut.

He left her a small oil stove, and a few gallons of oil, which he had packed up, along with the rest of the stuff, on the two pack burros he had brought with them. Admonishing her on no account to light a fire, he had gone off, taking both their horses and the burros, after a scene that made her shudder even now.

It was her promise that had made her hesitate a moment when her horrified glance had first fallen on Ted. The severe battle she had had to save his life had been her own salvation. Marion realized as the days had slipped by and her father had not reappeared.

There had been no time for thought in the intensive nursing she had had to do. It was not until dawn this morning that the fever had broken, and she had felt any assurance that the battle was won.

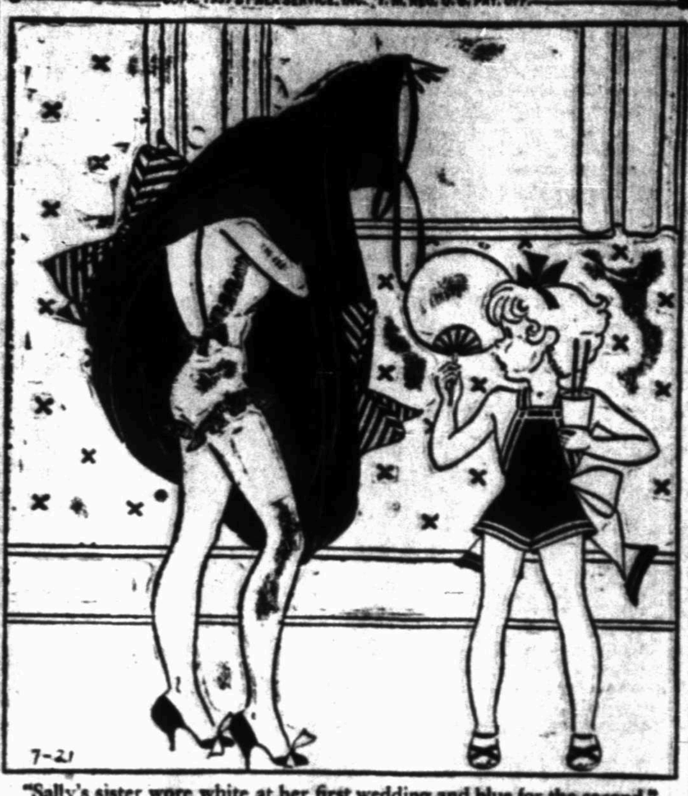

From Ted's delirious mutterings, Marion had been able to piece together something of his story. In this close association with a perfect stranger, she had come to be convinced that her first appraisal of him had been right, and that she could wait with confidence until he recovered sufficiently to tell the rest of his story.

As she stood there in the sunshine, she felt her strength gradually returning. She decided that, as soon as Ted should be strong enough to leave, she would go in search of her father, if he was not back inside of the three weeks he had stipulated. She would give him the full time he had asked for, but after that she could no longer stand this inaction.

Searchers for Ted find the tiny clearing, tomorrow.

IT LOOKS LIKE WE'RE GROWING SMARTER!

A turnout of only 71 persons in Atlantic City's huge Steel Pier to hear the Vicar of Darlington, who married the Duke and Wally, is ascribed by the vicar to the heat and to some misunderstanding on the part of his local auspices.

It would not be invidious, we hope, to suggest that there is a better explanation. The average mental age of the American was set at less than 13 years during wartime, but thereafter rose steadily to something like 17 years at the last count. It is a development that the lecturer from overseas must take into account in weighing his chances of a cleanup in the old Crown colonies.

It was brave of the vicar to lend his offices when it looked as if the Duke's marriage would have to go ahead without the benefit of clergy, and a large number of people thought it very sporting. Still, it was enough that the performance speak for itself. It does not improve it to discuss it before strangers for money, for charity or otherwise. At the moment we can think of nothing deader than the romance of Edward and his lady.

To this, and an increasing wariness of the American toward lecturers from other parts, we lay the slim attendance at Atlantic City; and however the vicar feels about it, it makes The Journal very happy.

Hollywood Chit-Chat

BY PAUL HARRISON
Journal Hollywood Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD, July 21—Deanna Durbin, Leopold Stokowski and about 110 other people are working in a picture called "100 Men and a Girl." The director is Henry Koster, who scored a surprise sensation with "Three Smart Girls," Miss Durbin's first feature. That one was made with unknowns, but this flicker is topped by celebrities. Mr. Koster has his hands full.

Bossing Stokowski is a job that few people would care to attempt. The maestro is gracious, but the maestro has ideas of his own, and he is not accustomed to anybody's discipline.

When the maestro decides how a thing should or should not be done, his mind is not likely to be changed by any director, producer, writer or studio overlord.

After all, the famous conductor is playing himself in this picture, and who is there to tell Stokowski how to act like Stokowski?

• • •

Stiffens Before Camera

Everyone knows that Stokowski is a consummate showman in his world of music. Before a camera, though, he stiffens visibly. He worries about his dignity. He and Koster have arguments about lines and gags which are intended as humanizing touches. But Stokowski always wins, and some of the speeches have been changed.

He tries to be very patient under Koster's painstaking direction. Sometimes they'll rehearse a scene a dozen times and then perform it five, six or a dozen more times for photographic takes.

I watched him in several scenes. One is supposed to be in his studio, and it is a luxuriously furnished room. Stokowski raised Cain about that set because his own studios, wherever he lives, are small and very plain. "Workshops," he calls them.

His new home and "workshop" here in Hollywood is so unpretentious that only an established celebrity could afford to be seen living in it.

• • •

Piano Not For Music

Stokowski is sitting at a piano banging out a bit of Bach when Miss Durbin enters and interrupts him. (She has come to try to persuade him to conduct an orchestra of 100 unemployed musicians, and that's what the story is about.)

He scarcely can suppress a shudder as he plays, because it is a spavined old instrument used for dressing sets and not for music. The music will be recorded later, on a fine piano, and dubbed in.

I hear that the maestro has a scheme for recording treble, intermediate range and bass on three separate sound tracks, so that when they're put together he'll sound like three people playing one instrument.

Stokowski is in Hollywood, and will spend much of his time here, because he is convinced that the movies are the ultimate medium for bringing the finest music to the greatest number of people.

"If Wagner or Liszt or Brahms were alive today," he says, "they'd go into the movies and on the radio."

• • •

"Crisis" Over Candy

Deanna Durbin, the singing star, is still pretty much of a child despite her more mature appearance on the screen. Fans have a hard time believing she will not be 15 until December 4.

She plays games on the set, speaks like a girl of 14, and dresses in short skirts and socks. Yet she shows a lively interest in details of the picture, offers suggestions to the director, and displays a well-developed temperament.

The other day Koster asked her to stop eating licorice. She refused, saying, "I'm speaking my lines all right, and this is just a rehearsal."

He shouted to the electricians: "Turn out all the lights until Miss Durbin finishes her candy!" She took out the licorice then, and apologized.

• • •

Not A Genius

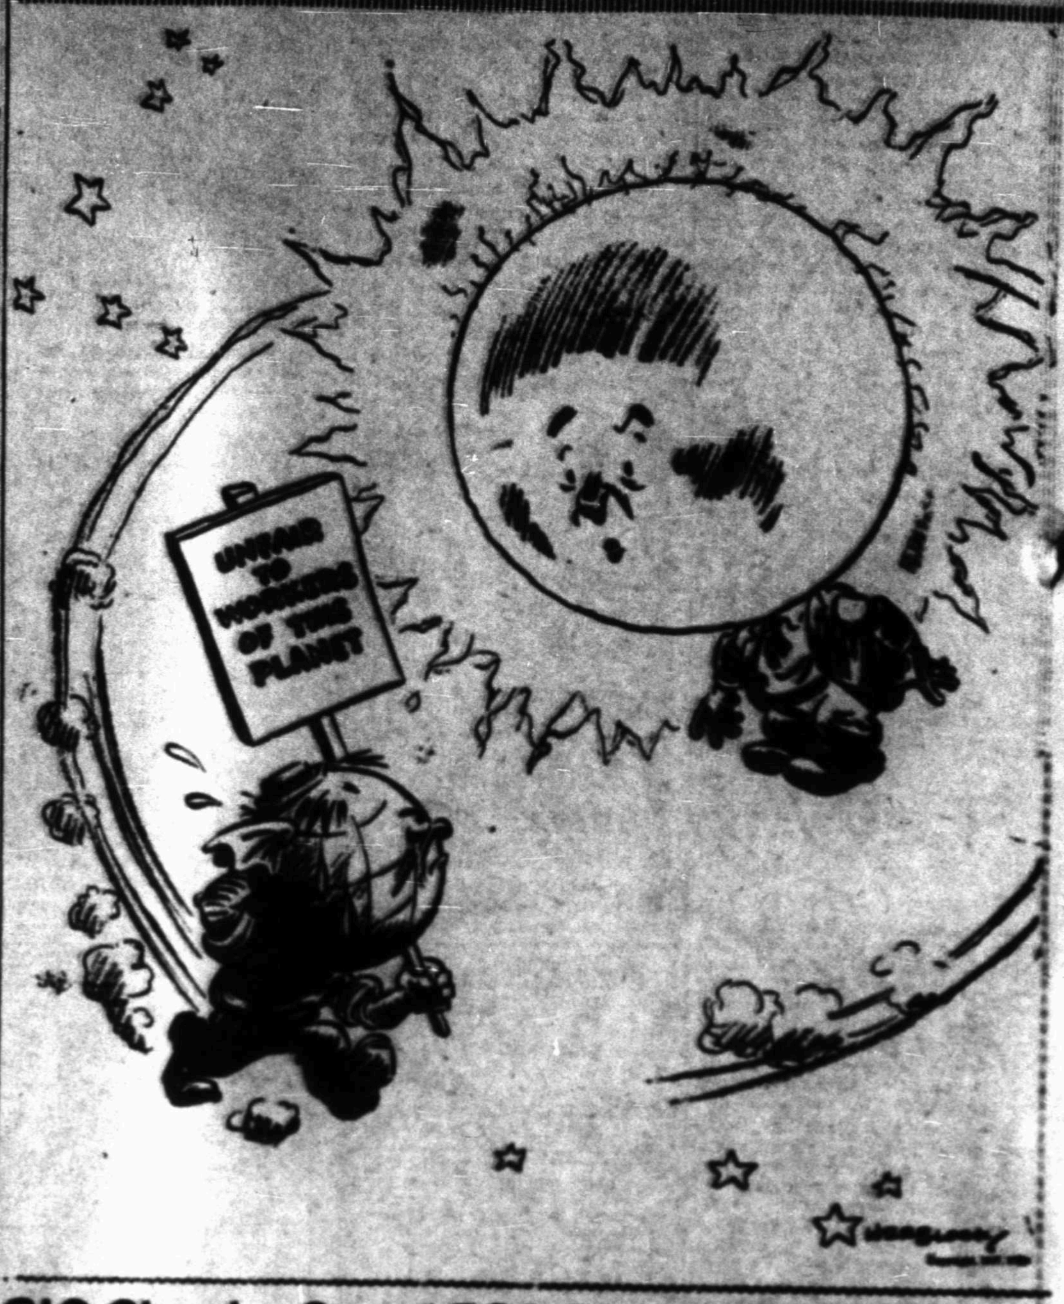

Mrs. Mary West, Deanna's school teacher, believes almost everyone with great musical talent is temperamental. "Deanna certainly is, anyway," she said. "She gets very angry sometimes, and often very low in spirits. I do my best to pep her up.

"I've been teaching in studios 12 years, and I know that nearly all movie children are extroverts. Deanna is more shy than almost any of them, though. In her studies she is above average, and a conscientious student, but she is definitely not a genius, which is a good thing. We try to keep her normal, her interests broad. I keep telling her that her talent is something she was born with, and that she is very lucky to have this gift, but that she is by no means a wonderful person just because she can sing.

"In this business people are constantly ruining the very thing they want in child actors. That is, they make such a fuss over the youngsters that they spoil their charm and freshness.

"Deanna won't be spoiled, though. Not if I can help it."

CIO Chortles Over AFOL Support; Maverick Is Yet Unbranded, Rodney Dutcher Finds

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Journal Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, July 21—President William Green's assurance that rank and file members of A. F. of L. unions will be permitted to support C. I. O. strikes if they so desire is interpreted by C. I. O. leaders as a big break for the Lewis group.

Dutcher

Some of the C. I. O. people optimistically predict that a by-product of the pronunciamento will be an acceleration of the disintegration of A. F. of L., which they fondly expect.

Green had been receiving heavy criticism from some of his own locals. There was an especially bad reaction to his public statement which gloated over the failure of the strike against four independent steel companies.

Lewis also has promised to support A. F. of L. strikes. But most big strikes have been C. I. O. strikes in newly organized territory, and if the Green statement means added support from A. F. of L. affiliates, as C. I. O. anticipates, the Lewis organization will be the chief beneficiary.

They're Hardly Engaged

"Attention, Washington editors!" shouted a famous radio voice as Congressman and Mrs. Maury Maverick entered the home of some friends.

The voice went on to say that the daughter of Congressman John M. Houston of Texas, and Maury Maverick, jr., would soon announce their engagement.

Well, the Washington editors picked up the tip all right. They learned that Maury, jr., was 16 years old and it seemed a news photographer had persuaded him to be photographed with Patricia Houston, who is 15. That's the only time Patricia and young Maverick ever saw each other. Further says the young man's mother, lovely Mrs. Terrell Maverick:

"I can't even persuade him to call her up, go to see her or to bestir himself in the direction of any other girl."

A Chair For The President

So many stories from the Roosevelt-du Pont wedding have gone into circulation that a publisher could almost make a book of them.

With the exception of Ethel du Pont—now a Roosevelt—members of the du Pont family are just as sour on the President as ever. Ethel has defended her now father-in-law in arguments with other du Ponts, at least once to the point of tears.

The President himself had a swell time at the wedding reception, however, allowing himself a liberal ration of champagne and wise-cracking with ushers and other young folks until he became practically the hit of the party. Previously he had argued heatedly with Mrs. Roosevelt, who had figured she couldn't come to the reception because of a radio broadcast date. She came to the reception, went in to Wilmington to broadcast, then returned.

Mrs. C. Porter Schutt, Ethel du Pont's cousin, nearly collapsed when secret service men came around to test out her chairs in advance of the President's arrival. Her chairs are antiques, some of them fragile. The secret service men lifted them high and pounded them down on the floor until at one point she screamed in vain: "You get out of here!"

The visitors kept on testing chairs until finally one man announced:

"The President will sit in this chair!"

• • •

No, It Wasn't Collect

One Washington correspondent who covered the wedding insists the gate where telegraph messenger boys had to wait for copy was nearly a mile away. Anyway, it seemed like that in the pouring rain. So he asked permission to telephone from the house and got it.

Half way through his report he felt a tap on the shoulder and a du Pont servant asked:

"Are you sending that message collect, sir?"

The newspaperman gave emphatic assurances. He was told:

"You see, sir, we've almost 2000 guests here today and the master gave us instructions to be very sure none of them charged long distance calls to him."

School Leader Starts Work

W. B. Irvin, new city school superintendent, was engaged in the active discharge of his duties today after having taken over the post to which he was elected several weeks ago as successor to Dr. Kenneth E. Oberholtzer, who resigned to accept a similar position in Long Beach, Calif.

Accompanied by his wife, he arrived Monday from Austin where he attended the University of Texas' summer school. When there, he made studies of special curriculum work under leaders nationally known in that field. He also did work on his final dissertation required before he receives his doctor's degree, he said.

Praises School System

After his first day at the office, he said, "Lubbock has an excellent school system, but for the future there are some things that need to be done and some that must be done. And with the progressive and cooperative spirit already shown by the city, there is no reason why we shouldn't have an educational center, as well as a commercial center, from the standpoint of both public schools and Texas Technological college.

"Everybody has been kind to me. The hospitality of the people of Lubbock already has been manifest in the scores of congratulatory messages sent to me by those whom I never have met. They made me mighty happy."

For twelve years, Irvin had been superintendent of the public schools at Perryton and prior to that he was associated with schools at Pampa.

He will maintain office hours at the high school building. He asked that all persons wishing to consult with him concerning school problems, see him there.

Until they make arrangements for other living quarters, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin will live at the Hilton hotel.

Two Bandits

Cadido, leaving Benton behind.

Under the very eyes of a band of state patrolmen, Traxler and Tindol veered back into Cadido, released Trimmer and raced onto a country road leading northeast toward Tishomingo.

Traxler and Tindol were surrounded by a heavily-armed posse at 250 federal, state and county officers in the Washita bottoms late yesterday after a gun battle 16 miles west of Durant during which Mrs. Traxler fainted and was captured.

The convicts returned the fire of officers and then faded into the timber, leaving Nell Traxler behind in their bullet-riddled automobile.

Mrs. Traxler told officers she believes the convicts never would be taken alive.

Wide Trap Is Formed

The posse, numbering both Texas and Oklahoma officers, began a giant encircling movement, flinging a cordon of armed patrols along roads and through the underbrush and timber of an area about 10 miles in diameter in which the desperadoes were believed hiding.

Traxler's companion, described by Mrs. Traxler as "Fred," is believed to be Fred Tindol, who with Traxler and seven others broke from the Huntsville, Tex., prison farm July 8.

Bloodhounds from McAlister, Okla., penitentiary took up the hunt at the scene of yesterday's gun battle.

Three officers, Deputy Sheriff R. J. McLaughlin and Ben Risner of Bryan county and Constable Greer Beams of Kingston, Okla., came upon the two prison breakers and Mrs. Traxler at the dead end of a little used Washita river bottoms road.

Officers Open Fire

The officers opened fire, riddling the Traxler car.

"Pete told me I'd better run," Mrs. Traxler said after her capture, "but when the firing began, I fainted and when I woke up Pete and gone and officers were gathered around."

The two fugitives jumped from the machine and ran into the timber. Other members of the posse tracked Traxler and his companion in the soft earth of the river bottom a short distance, then lost the trail.

Townspeople withdrew when the desperado boldly drove up the main street of Verden, Okla., got his wife, hurried her into the car, halter at a filling station, bought gas and raped southward.

E. L. Harvey, Verden peace justice, spread the alarm.

Hiding In Office

Harvey said officers had been hiding in his office, across the street from Mrs. Traxler's apartment, for a week but had given up the watch two days ago.

The peace justice was sweeping the sidewalk when Traxler drove up to get Mrs. Traxler yesterday morning.

"Yep, there he is,' I said to myself," he related afterward, "but I didn't say it very loud or stay out there.

"He give chase to those guys? Sir, me with a 22 rifle and one shell —he only chase I gave was to chase myself right back in the office. I think too much of my skin to get it shot off."

Undersheriff G. G. Murphy said Mrs. Traxler told him they drove from Verden to Denison, Tex., ate dinner and then went to Sherman.

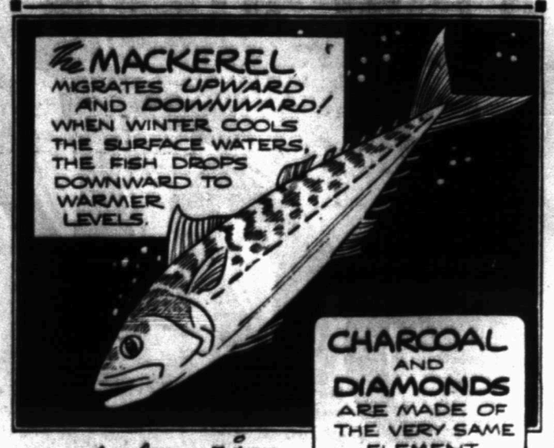

Fired On At Sherman

"We ran into some officers at Sherman and they fired on us," she told Murphy, "but we got away."

Mrs. Traxler told Murphy that about a week ago Traxler came to her home at Verden and attempted to induce her to come with Him. Since then Traxler, Tindol and another fugitive from the Texas pris-

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, July 21. (AP)—Cotton futures opened steady, down 6 to 10 points on lower cables and under liquidation and southern selling. Oct 11.76; Dec 11.72; Jan 11.74; Mch 11.81; May 11.82; Jly 11.82.

Wall street continued to sell some cotton but the bulk of the initial offerings came from Bombay and Liverpool. After new lows for the movement had been established in early trading, pressure let up and the market recovered on trade and spot house buying and covering.

December recovered from 11.71 to 11.79 and shortly after the first half hour was selling at 11.77, when prices generally were 2 to 5 points net lower.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, July 21. (AP)—Cotton opened barely steady today and initial transactions showed declines of 4 to 5 points in sympathy with lower foreign markets and a little liquidation in advance of the official weather and crop summary.

Oct. opened at 11.77, Dec at 11.80, Jan at 11.85, Mch at 11.91 and May at 11.93. Trading was quiet after the start but enough profit taking by recent sellers developed to lift near months 3 to 5 points above the opening lows towards the end of the first half hour.

Futures received no encouragement from goods markets which continued quiet.

Tax Rate

on what rate this board might levy," he said.

Lowest Combined Rate In All History Assured Lubbock

Lowest combined state-county tax rate in history was assured for Lubbock county by action of the state automatic tax board today in slashing the school ad valorem rate from 20 to 7 cents on the $100 of valuation.

Should the present county rate be held to 50 cents on $100, as now indicated, it will mean a combined rate of 99 cents for Lubbock county property owners. Present combined rate is $1.12, which represents an all-time low until now.

Big Reduction Given

H. B. Bryan, chief deputy county assessor-collector, estimated that a 99 cent rate wil lmean the tax bill of Lubbock county taxpayers will have been reduced at least $21,000 below what it would have been had the rate been continued at $1.12 cents.

Announcement that the reduced school rate had been set was received by Lubbock County School Superintendent Joseph R. Griggs with vigorous criticism.

"It looks as though members of the automatic tax board are playing for the political favor of big business," Griggs remarked. Members of the board are Governor James V. Allred, State Comptroller George H. Sheppard and State Treasurer Charley Lockhart.

Hit Small Taxpayer

Griggs contended that the effect of the rate reduction will be to saddle the cost of the per capita apportionment upon the small taxpayer to the benefit of, as he said, "the large oil companies, the big corporations, the chain stores, large property owners and big business generally."

Companies Face Trade Charges

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 20 — The Federal Trade commission charged General Motors corporation and the Ford Motor company today with making "false and misleading representations" in advertising the prices of automobiles.

General Motors sales corporation also was named a respondent.

The commission's complaint charged that advertisements for some General Motors and Ford cars result in "deception of the public and injury to competitors."

F. O. B. Price Featured

Saying the companies' advertisements usually feature in large type a designated F. O. B. price for certain cars, a commission statement added:

"The complaints charge the advertisements are arranged in such a manner as to create the impression that fully-equipped cars so illustrated and described may be purchased the F. O. B. or delivery point complete and ready for operation for the prices featured, or at other points for the features prices plus the cost of transportation."

The cars so advertised, the commission alleged, are not those usually sold for the featured price. The featured prices, it said, usually is the cost of the companies' less expensive cars.

The companies were given 20 days to answer the charges. Hearings then may be held after which the commission will decide whether to issue cease and desist oredrs.

Caliche Base Is Complete

Laying of caliche base has been completed as the last step to paving a Hockley county highway project and to provide a hard-surfaced road between Lubbock and Levelland, according to information given at district WPA headquarters here Tuesday.

The basing of the Hockley unit, extending from Lubbock county line due west to Levelland, a distance of 15 miles, has been completed with remarkable speed, according to district WPA officials.

Completed In Few Weeks

Contract for an asphalt binder to make it a hard surfaced road already has been let by the state highway department, and will be completed, officials of that department said, probably within the next few weeks.

Lubbock county part of the highway to Levelland was completed recently, the work involving grading, drainage, caliche basing and the pouring of the asphalt "hot top."

Considered Important Route

All the work thus far done, officials said, is in the expectation that the next year or 18 months will see the base covered with a permanent coating several times thicker than is done with hot topping. The road already heavily travelled, is regarded by highway and WPA officials as having the potentiality of becoming one of the most important in the whole of West Texas. It already serves, they explained, a growing agricultural area, one which has oil development potentialities, and one which will provide perhaps a major connection into New Mexico when the highway system of that state is tied into that of Texas as is now contemplated.

Completion of the Hockley hot-topping will provide 27 consecutive miles of paving on highway 84, from Dickens through Crosby and Lubbock counties to Levelland. Beyond Dickens the highway extends to Seymour, Fort Worth and the whole of east Texas.

Latter part of this week, PWA officials also announced, also will see the completion of another highway project of major importance to South Plains. It will be the basing and topping of the remaining unpaved road from Tahoka to Brownfield, on highway 84, a distance of 29 miles. The present project involves 21 miles, which adds to eight miles completed early in the spring. Highway 84 extends eastward through Post and Garza county to Clairemont in Kent county, where it links with highway 70 extending through Sweetwater southward to San Angelo.

Sales Of Paint And Wall Paper Have Been Keeping Pace With Building In Lubbock; Possible Advances In Prices Predicted

By DAN TARPLEY
Avalanche Staff Writer

Keeping pace with the increase of building in Lubbock this year are the sales of paint and paper, which reflected decided increases in distribution in the first six months of this year as compared with the corresponding period of 1936, according to information obtained from paint and paper companies, lumber companies and other businesses dealing with building materials.

This increase has been steady and has shown substantial gains despite an increase in the price of both materials. Not only have sales of paint and paper increased with construction of new homes in Lubbock, but the town as a whole has staged probably the largest homes improvement campaign since predepression years and possibly in the town's history, dealers said.

Shown In All Types

The increase in the consumption has been shown in all types of paints. Distribution of paints, according to managers of lumber companies, has increased up to 30 per cent. One store, with figures available, determined its increase for the first six months of the current year over the corresponding first half-year of 1936 at 26 per cent.

Although other building materials have shown considerable increases in retail prices, the jump in paints has been slow. The estimated increase of today's prices as compared with the figure for July of last year is less than 10 per cent, said a paint and paper manager.

Predicts Possible Advances

However, he predicted possible advance within a short time. He advised home owners who plan to remodel and "fix up a bit" to purchase paint as soon as possible.

"It won't get any cheaper soon, and it probably will increase in price," he reasoned.

Dealers pointed out that seldom has there been such a steady movement of paint stocks through the winter months only to be followed by a spring surge of buying.

The liklihood of a continued increase in price is forecast by the increase of material costs in manufacturing paint, local dealers explained. Some of the increases are: lead, 40 per cent; a similar increase in zinc; and about 15 per cent in oils.

Hand in hand with the increase of paint consumption have been sales of wall paper. Already a 10 per cent increase has become effective in price with predictions of further increases in August or September. "The increase in wallpaper may be as much as 20 per cent," one manager predicted.

This year's business as transacted by the paint and paper companies and the paint and paper departments of the lumber and building material companies, is nearing the 1928 and 1929 figures, representative dealers said. In describing the years since 1929 they said: sharp decrease in 1930, lower in 1931; bottom in 1932; slightly up in 1933; more business in 1934; slight decrease in 1935; and the best since 1929 in 1936; with prospects for a better year in 1937.

No Labor Troubles

Despite the volume of business and the demand for these products, companies here, in the main, have had little trouble in obtaining goods because of labor disorders, it was pointed out. There have been no strikes in the paint factories, and only a few in the wallpaper industry.

The indirect effect upon distribution of paints and papers by strikes is that many construction projects have been delayed because of other building materials affected by strikes.

A reason, given by a lumberman, for the increase in paper sales is that the improvement in design, color, and durability have multiplied its uses as a decorative background for all type sof interiors.

Has Been Nation-Wide

This increase has been nationwide, both wholesalers and retailers say. Factories in many divisions of the paint and varnish industry are experiencing the best year in their history in both dollar and gallonage volume. Nearly all producers have been running at capacity since the first of the year.

Running at capacity, wallpaper mills have turned out from 15 to 30 per cent more paper than in corresponding periods of former years. It is expected the 1937 output will reach 495 millions, or an increase of 20 per cent over the 415 million last year.

Eleanor Discusses Divorce But Isn't Humming "Only A Rose" She Declares

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, July 21 — Elanor Holm Jarrett has been singing "let's call the whole thing off" to Art Jarrett, she disclosed today, but she has no intention of humming "only a rose" to Fannie Brice's husband Billy.

The well-proportioned backstroke champion, center of a storm that kicked up waves of champagne about the Olympic team's boat last year, said she had discussed a divorce with her crooning band leader husband. But she insisted that did not mean a romance with her boss, Billy Rose, as Cleveland gossips had it.

"What has poor Rose got to do with it?" she asked, while an air of injury whirled about her pink, white and blue negligee. "My goodness, he's married. Happily married."

"I know nothing about it except as the producers of the show in which she is the star," said Rose, who receives $1.00 a day for running the "Aquacade Revue" here in which the 23-year-old swimmer sings and swims with Johnny "Tarzan" Weissmuller.

"I am married to Miss Brice and I intend to stay so," Rose declared in New York."

Miss Jarrett said she and Jarrett, who is appearing at the Dallas, Tex., exposition, had discussed "in the abstract" the future of their four-year-old California marriage.

Art Jarrett Refuses To Comment On Situation

DALLAS, July 21 (AP)—Handsome Art Jarrett, film and radio singing star, said today it "would be very ungallant on my part to make any sort of comment" on reports that his wife, Elanor Holm Jarrett, swimming companion, had discussed a divorce.

Jarrett, star of the Pan-American Casino show here, met questioners who told him his wife had admitted in Cleveland today that she had discussed the matter, with:

"Situations like this are extremely personal and require considerable tact. It would be very ungallant on my part to make any sort of comment. I do not care to discuss my domestic affairs in the public prints nor do I intend to do so. This will be the extent of any reference to the subject by me. I believe most people will understand my position."

Bothered With The Hiccoughs? Suggestions For Curing Them Varied And Nonsensical

From the plastered inebriate under the street lamp to the teething infant in the cradle, there are always people bothered with hiccoughs.

For this disturbance, suggestions such as holding a glass of water in the hand and "drinking" it by tipping the glass away from one is offered. A Lubbock man said that when he had hiccoughs he cou'd hold a figurative glass of water in position to drink and cure himself.

Concentration and fright are the basis of the old superstitions and customs that are passed around to suffers, Lubbock doctors said.

Spells of hiccoughs are caused by irritation of the phrenic nerve, errors in diet, and in some cases swallowing of tobacco, physicians in Lubbock said. Some of the causes of the disturbance are "idiopathic" one doctor said.

Doctors say there's not too much value in age-old remedies, but that, on the other hand, there are a lot of people who think they are cured of hiccoughs by remedies such as concentration on the last cottontail rabbits they saw (jack rabbits won't do), drinking nine swallows of water without breathing, mashing on the pit of the chest, or standing on one's head. Some people offer a remedy that carries fright, such as saying "boo" to the afflicted one.

"Get Him Mad"

If you say something to the hiccough victim that will make him mad, he will get his mind off his jumpy feeling and concentrate on what "he's got to be mad about," was one of the freakish contributions.

Hiccoughing may be a symptom of diseases such as epilepsy, brain tumor and acute infectious diseases, one Lubbock doctor said.

Drunken people have hiccoughs because of alcholic neuritis and irritation of the phrenic nerve. Hiccoughs can be caused by mental and cerebral disorders. Breaking the reflex of the central nervous system is the direct cause of hiccough dissipation, said a doctor.

Rural Electrification Lines To Be Built In 3 Counties

DALLAS, July 21 (AP) — G. C Hengy, engineer for the W. E. Callahan Construction company of Dallas, said today work would start in about 10 days on 311 miles of rural electric power line in Hill, Ellis and Johnson counties.

The construction company yesterday was awarded the contract on a bid of $245,126, it was announced by W. G. Morris, engineer for the Hill County Electric cooperative under the federal government's rural electrification program.

CAMAS, Wash., July 21 (AP)—Disgusted over the repeated snapping of a tow rope, C. A. Miller used his trousers for the job.

The trousers held as he towed a car 10 miles.

Present Aids To Be Modernized

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, July 21 — The bureau of air commerce announced today a $5,000,000 program of airways construction.

The bureau said its program is designed primarily to improve the existing system of air navigation aids by modernizing present aids and providing new facilities to fill in gaps in the present system.

Projects Approved So Far

Projects so far approved under the 1938 fiscal year program were said by the bureau to include:

New full powered simultaneous weather broadcast and radio range stations will be established at Brownsville, Tex., Delta, Utah, and Bloomington, Ill.

Medium powered stations equipped for simultaneous transmission of radio range signals and voice communications from a five tower vertical radiator system, will be established at the following Texas places:

Abilene, Corpus Christi and Dallas.

To Locate Equipment

At the following Texas sites will be located low powered radio localizers transmitting directive signals from loop antennas, which serve as localizing guides for airmen within a radius of approximately 15 miles:

Austin, Galveston and Tyler.

Tower and radio telephone broadcast equipment will be installed at the following vertical antenna stations not now equipped for simultaneous voice transmission, and simultaneous operation will be provided:

Canadian, Tex.; Texarkana, Ark.; Wink, Tex.

On the Goffs-Needle, Calif., section of the Los Angeles-Amarillo airway, the intermediate landing field now at Goffs will be discontinued and a new one established at Needles. One beacon on this section will be relocated.

Protest Made In Clubbing

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, July 21. (AP)—Police with bared bayonets last night charged and dispersed 500 students protesting the clubbing yesterday by police of two members of the Serbian Orthodox church.

The youths gathered in Kalimegdan park near the Serbian cathedral, shouting epithets and stoning police. One policeman was wounded when struck by a stone. Many persons were arrested.

Thousands of members of the Serbian Orthodox church, embittered over clubbing of the two members, flocked to churches to pray for defeat of the unratified Yugoslav concordat with the vatican. Orthodox churchmen say the agreement would give the Roman Catholic church greater privileges than the Orthodox church in education and politics. The concordat was signed in 1935.

The elderly Orthodox Bishop Simeon of Sabatz was badly hurt, a medical bulletin said, in the affray yesterday when police broke up a parade of members of his sect. Authorities had said they feared the parade would be a demonstration against the concordat.

No Charges Filed In Case This Morning

A 29-year-old man had not been charged this morning as outgrowth of an asserted offense involving "raising" of a government check from $13 to $1,300, said Tom Hanson, United States secret service man of Dallas and who continued to question a woman he had grilled Tuesday.

The man, who formerly lived at Lubbock and at Slaton, was arrested under unusual circumstances, said officials.

Sheriff Tom Abel and Bedford P. Carpenter, chief deputy sheriff, were en route to Slaton on a tip the man had visited parents there over the week-end. Both officers watched the roadside for license numbers of automobiles, hoping to locate motorists for whom "pickup orders" were out.

They saw a machine sticking out from a tourist cabin and recognized the numbers as belonging to an automobile the man they sought had been driving. Going into the cabin, on South Avenue H, they surprised the man under his shower. He told them he would have been gone in 15 minutes.

All but $175 of the $1,300 the man is charged with getting at a Sinton bank after assertedly being identified by a brother had been spent, Hanson said.

The man against whom charges will be filed formerly was in the United States Marines and had been receiving disability checks.

The asserted offense happened July 7, and sihce that time officers traced the man to Corpus Christi, San Antonio and then to Lubbock.

The man probably will be arraigned before a justice of peace in the absence of Mrs. Olive Fluke, United States commissioner, Hanson said.

The agent arrived early Tuesday to investigate the case after he had been notified of the man's arrest. He will complete his work on the case here today, he said.
