Nadar committee issues ratings of Congressmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ralph Nader's Congress-monitoring group gives Ohio's Democratic Sen. Howard Metzenbaum; Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, D-N.Y.; and Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., high marks in its report card on the 1978 congressional session.

Public Citizen's Congress Watch, in issuing its ratings Saturday, singled out Rep. Arlan Stangeland, R-Minn., as the man with the worst voting record in what it called a "Corporate Congress." Stangeland received a score of 3 percent.

Retiring Sen. Milton Young, R-N.D., had the lowest score in the Senate, 10 percent.

Metzenbaum, Drinan and Ms. Holtzman had scores of 98 percent.

The Nader group compiled its ratings on the basis of 40 votes on consumer protection legislation, government "reform," taxes, energy and "waste-subsidy."

Strangeland later accused Nader of attempting "to do a hatchet job on me." He said he voted against many consumer proposals because he considered them inflationary.

Rating members of Congress as having voted "right" or "wrong" has become an increasingly popular pasttime in recent years, and Nader's group claimed credit for producing the first "major voting index" of the Congress that adjourned two weeks ago.

Spokesmen for many groups say such ratings are a useful way of stepping up pressure on House and Senate members. In addition, the spokesmen say the report cards generate favorable publicity for their own organizations.

The League of Conservation Voters also released its report card Saturday, evaluating the Senate solely on the basis of votes on environmental questions during the two years of the 95th Congress.

It gave Sen. Muriel Humphrey a 98 percent approval rating, the highest among senators. Ms. Humphrey, who succeeded her late husband, Sen. Hubert Humphrey, in office, served for only part of one year.

The group, which said President Carter took stronger environmental stands than did the Senate, said the average score for all senators on 34 issues was 52 percent.

Had Carter been voting in the Senate, his score would have been 92 percent based on the administration's stated positions, the group said.

In addition, The League of Conservation Voters released a detailed accounting of the political donations it makes.

The 1978 report shows contributions of $72,000 to 30 candidates for the House and Senate and various gubernatorial posts.

Rep. Jim Weaver, D-Ore., a member of both the House interior and agriculture committees, received $9,500, the largest contribution. A spokesman said the money was raised through a fund-raising mailing the league distributed on Weaver's behalf.

Group invades theater showing pro-Nazi film

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Garfein said it reminded him of the old days, when nightriding Nazis broke into his house, ripped rings off his mother's fingers, threw his father against a wall and broke up their furniture.

However, the group that invaded Garfein's West 42nd Street theater Saturday night and tore it apart were not Nazis. They claimed to be a group protesting the showing of a film that they said was "pro-Nazi."

As 50 people in the audience watched "California Reich" at the Harold Clurman Theater, 10 marauders rushed through the movie house, pushed around an usher and a woman in the audience, ripped up the seats, and tore down the screen.

Garfein, whose mother and 8-year-old sister died in the gas chambers of Auschwitz and whose father died in the camp at Ordruf, watched as they grabbed the stage manager by the throat and choked him until he opened the projection booth so they could savage the projector and make off with the film.

He turned to a friend and said: "You know, I haven't had an experience like this since 1942."

Then he turned toward the audience and said, "If I'd wanted to, I couldn't give them a better demonstration of fascism."

Garfein, the theater's 48-year-old artistic director, survived two Nazi camps. When freed from his nightmare in 1944, he was 14 years old and

According to a caller to the Associated Press, the incident was the work of the "Revolutionary Socialist League and Committee Against Racism."

They are among the groups that have been demonstrating against the film, a documentary which some believe favorably portrays Nazi followers in California. It was nominated for an Academy Award two years ago.

Garfein laughs at the suggestion that the film, playing at the theater for the last 2½ weeks as a companion piece to Eugene Ionesco's play "The Lesson," is "pro-Nazi."

Supreme Court to review Texas child abuse officials

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court agreed today to review a decision striking down as unconstitutional the way Texas officials handle child abuse cases.

The court voted to study an appeal aimed at reinstating the state procedures.

At issue are portions of the Texas Family Code which were challenged by a suburban Houston couple, John and Mary Sims.

Three young Sims children were attending Houston elementary schools in 1976 when teachers began to suspect that the oldest child, 9-year-old Paul, was a victim of severe and abusive beatings.

After an investigation, a caseworker for the Harris County Child Welfare Unit took custody of all three children and filed a complaint against their parents in juvenile court.

Judge Robert Lowry signed an order which in effect removed the children from their parents' custody for 10 days.

Under Texas law, a judge has to order the children returned to their parents or order that the state take additional steps aimed at removing the children from parental custody permanently.

The Sims couple sued the state in federal court before the state proceedings were completed. Their suit charged that the state procedures for cases of alleged child abuse violated the constitutional due-process rights of both parents and children.

Status of peace talks appear to be in limbo

JERUSALEM (AP) — The status of the Israeli-Egyptian peace talks appears to be in limbo today as the State Department analyzes the positions of both sides.

There were no talks Sunday and on Saturday, Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance met separately with both delegations.

State Department spokesman Kenneth Brown declined to comment in Washington Sunday when asked if the talks were frozen and said he could not say if there would be talks today.

"We have received the reaction of both governments to the agreed draft text referred to them. The U.S. delegation is not working on another draft now. What happens next in the negotiations remains to be seen." Brown said.

Israeli Radio said Sunday said Washington was awaiting a letter from Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin to President Carter, and quoted U.S. sources as saying both sides worked out proposals with "far-reaching changes" before Israel's delegation returned home last week.

The broadcast said the Americans, after Begin's letter is received, will prepare a new draft treaty to try and bridge the reported differences between the two sides.

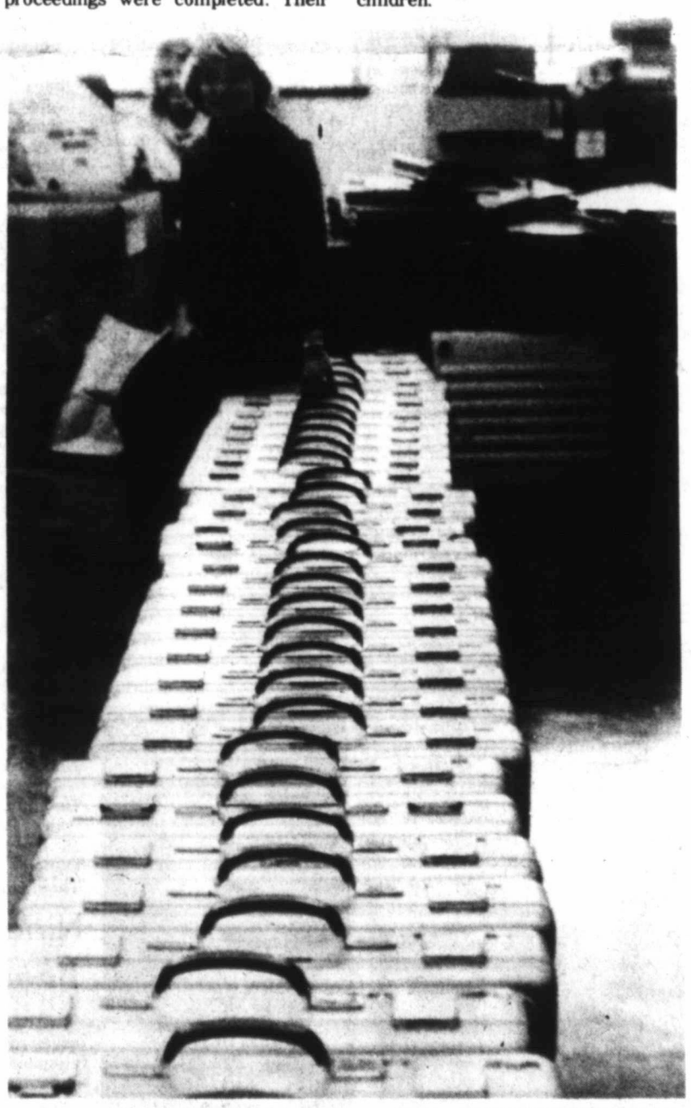

The letter follows complaints from President Carter that Israel's decision to expand Jewish settlements in the West Bank of the Jordan River was detrimental to the talks.

The text of the correspondence was not made public, but Israeli Cabinet Secretary Arieh Naor said it reiterated Begin's position at the Camp David summit that there would be an "addition of several hundred families" in the occupied area.

Vance said Saturday the decision to expand the settlements "deterred progress" at the peace talks. It apparently prompted Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to recall his negotiators, but Carter interceded and asked Sadat to keep his delegation in Washington, and it stayed.

In Baghdad, Arab envoys began gathering to prepare for a summit to counter the Camp David accords. The summit begins Thursday and is expected to draw most major Arab powers, among them Jordan and Saudi Arabia.

Both have criticized the accords, calling them inadequate, but neither has criticized Sadat for his participation.

LINING UP THE ELECTION — Jody Wright, and Annette Williams, in the background, are helping get the voting machine equipment ready for the coming general election on Tuesday, Nov. 7. County Clerk Margaret Ray reported 252 have voted absentee with 111 mailed out. Deadline for absentee voting is Friday at 5 p.m.

Probated judgements to be sent to district office

County Attorney Harvey Hooser said today that probated judgments taken in county court will be turned over to the district probation office.

"We got a curbstone opinion from the Attorney General's office which indicated we should work through the district probation office," said Hooser. "From now on, we'll send our probated judgments up there."

But, the county attorney added, the two county probationers who are to report to county court coordinator Mike Barton will be left as they are.

"To try to change the judgments now would probably result in making them invalid," said Hooser. "We'll just leave them as they are."

In September, two misdemeanor judgments instructed probationers to report to Barton and pay fees to the county, rather than to the district probation office. The change was initiated by County Judge Bill Tune, who said today that he agreed with the policy outlined by Hooser.

Absentee ballots now total 24

County Clerk Margaret Ray said that 244 absentee ballots for the Nov. 7 general election have been cast to date in the Howard County clerk's office. Open Saturday to accommodate absentee voters, the clerk's office will accept absentee ballots through Friday.

In addition to the ballots cast at the odfice, 111 have been mailed out and 18 received back by the office.

Davis defense lawyers questioning prospective jurors in Houston today

HOUSTON (AP) — Defense lawyers who successfully stalled the proceedings for two weeks were to start examining prospective jurors today in the trial of millionaire Cullen Davis, charged with trying to solicit the murder of the judge hearing his divorce case.

Prosecutors contend Davis, 45, ordered the execution of Judge Joe Eidson. Although no one was killed, Davis could get up to 99 years in prison if convicted.

Defense lawyers, led by Richard "Racehorse" Haynes, obtained two postponements in the past two weeks. Davis' lawyers say they will show their client was framed by a vindictive wife and others.

The trial was transferred to Houston from Fort Worth, Davis' home and the headquarters for his business interests.

The state claims that Davis told FBI informant David McCrory to hire a "hit man" to kill Eidson and others on a lengthy enemies list.

Wired for sound and with federal agents videotaping the scene, McCrory, 40, met Davis on a restaurant parking lot last Aug. 20 and allegedly received $25,000 as payment for the judge's "death."

Davis has been in jail since that day.

MOTHER'S PLEA — Marilyn Sayegh, mother of six-year-old Cary Sayegh, pleads Sunday for the return of her son, who was abducted from a school playground last week and is reportedly being held for $500,000 ransom.

Church catches fire

DENVER (AP) — Carol Reid and David Murphy had to wait about an hour to get married because the church caught fire.

The wedding service had just begun when firemen burst into the Grace United Methodist Church to put out flames that were licking through the roof. The wooden shingles apparently were ignited by an ember from a house that was intentionally set on fire several hundred yards away by volunteer firefighters who were training, said David Way, chief of the Skyline Volunteer Fire Department. "I don't think anybody else has had a wedding like this," the bride said later. The fire Saturday damaged a 12-by-5-foot area on the roof.

Weapons sale denounced

ATLANTA (AP) — Calling the United States a "merchant of death," Rep. Robert Drinan, D-Mass., denounced American sales of weapons to other nations in a speech at the Cathedral of Christ the King.

The 58-year-old Jesuit priest said Sunday that morally conscious people are concerned about the buildup in armaments among industrialized countries. He also said Catholics had a responsibility to promote their faith by promoting worldwide justice. "We can't say we don't want to politicize this commitment," he said. "If we allow half the children in the world to die before the age of 5, can we say we are Christians?"

Airlines resumes service

POMONA, N.J. (AP) — A scheduled airliner landed for the first time in about eight years at the Federal Aviation Administration testing base here with eight passengers bound for the new casino resort in Atlantic city.

Allegheny Airlines resumed scheduled weekend service Sunday between Pittsburgh and the National Aviation Facilities Experimental Center, about 10 miles from the Boardwalk. Since the passage of casino gambling two years ago and the opening of Atlantic City's first casino last May, a number of other airlines have asked federal permission to resume service.

Increase would suffice

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States could correct its trade imbalance by increasing exports to the Japanese, says Mike Mansfield, the U.S. ambassador to Japan.

"What strikes me as extremely hard to understand is that in the first six months of this year our imports into Japan increased only 6.2 percent," Mansfield said Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press." Mansfield, a former senator from Montana and Democratic majority leader for 14 years, said Japan was trying to do its part by reducing exports of color television sets to the United States by 40 percent and car and steel shipments by 13 and 20 percent respectively.

JOHNNY BUSH

Nelson protege sings at club here saturday

By MARJ CARPENTER

Johnny Bush will perform at the Brass Nail Saturday. Cover charge will be $4.

Bush, who sings Country Western and got his start through his friend, Willie Nelson, has had quite a story.

His first national number one song was "Whiskey River" in 1972.

Some of his other big songs have been "What a Way to Live", "Undo the Right," "You Gave Me a Mountain" and "Jim, Jack and Rose."

In 1968, he was voted the Most Promising Male Vocalist of the year by Record World Magazine and in 1969 the same by Music City News.

It has been a long hard road for Bush, born in Houston in 1935. Everyone says that he has it made, but Johnny says that you are only as hot as your last record and no one ever has it made.

When you compare a price to drawing power, Johnny Bush and the Bandoleros might still be the best buy in Country Music.

Willie Nelson made it in the early 60s and Johnny went to his old friend and asked him to help him. Willie did. He organized a band called the Record Men and Johnny was leader and front man.

Still Nashville recording companies kept turning Johnny down. Willie was not discouraged. He used money out of his own recording career to help him.

"You Ought to Hear Me Cry", written by Nelson, was Bush's first recording success.

Some motorists can take heed

Tuesday is the last day auto owners may register their cars due for renewal in October. County Tax Assessor-Collector Zirah Bednar said that after midnight Tuesday, drivers will be subject to a fine if they have not yet renewed their plates.

"If they haven't driven the car since the plates expired, and will sign an affidavit to that effect, then the 20 per cent penalty can be waived," added Mrs. Bednar.

Accreditation is approved

The Veterans Administration Medical Center laboratory has been approved for accreditation from the Commission on Inspection and Accreditation of the College of American Pathologists.

To be eligible for ongoing accreditation, a laboratory must participate annually in the College's Comprehensive Quality Evaluation Program surveys. The current accreditation will continue through April 24, 1980.

"The result of this inspection indicates a high level of medical laboratory performance," said Joe M. Blumbert, M.D., Commission chairman.

BAIRD — A pickup truck driven by a nine-year-old boy hit speeds of nearly 90 miles an hour came to an end here Sunday night when the vehicle struck a fire hydrant.

Water service was disrupted in Baird for about two hours.

A 12-year-old passenger rode with the nine-year-old. Parents of the two may be asked to pay $100 for damages done to the fire hydrant.

Damage to the truck included a dented left door and a missing headlight and bumper.

The West Texas Funeral Directors Association, a regional association of funeral homes in the West Texas area, conducted a eye enucleation seminar in Abilene Oct. 26, according to Tommy L. Welch of Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home, a director of the association. There were 28 licensed embalmers from the West Texas area who completed the seminar and are eligible for certification to enucleate eyes.

This enables funeral homes in West Texas to work closely with physicians and the Lions Eye Bank in order that someone after death may have their eyes donated so that someone else may see.

Anyone desiring information regarding the donation of his or her eyes can contact any of the local Lions Clubs or Tommy L. Welch at Nalley-Pickle Funeral Home.

Those interested in living quarters in the proposed apartment complex should apply at the Housing Authority complex either by phone or in person. The office is located at 439 Oak Street.

Actual cost of rehabilitating the one-time hotel to living quarters for the elderly and handicapped has not been determined by Dennis Walding, executive director of the Colorado City Housing Authority, estimated it would cost $1 million, perhaps more.

If all preliminary study is completed on time, the rehabilitation work could begin by Jan. 1.

GATHERING FOR CHARLIE — A group of Stamford and Big Spring supporters of Charlie Stenholm gathered briefly at the courthouse today and hit the streets in the downtown area rallying support for Stenholm for Congressman of the 17th District. Stenholm started his campaign with a bus campaign to Big Spring in the summer of 1977 and ended it here today with another bus stop. He and his wife, Cindy are shown near the center of the group.

Several local residents joined about 45 citizens of Stamford and nearby communities today as a bus caravan campaigning for Charles Stenholm for Congress visited Big Spring. Stenholm and his wife Cindy were among the bus load of volunteers meeting the people, answering questions and distributing campaign literature.

The visit to Big Spring was arranged by J. B. Cooper of Roscoe, area coordinator; and Maurice Koger and Clyde McMahon, Howard County coordinators for Stenholm.

Stenholm said here today, "I regret having to spend time at this news conference focusing on allegations of my opponents and his campaign manager.

"We had hoped to concentrate on the issues and positive aspects of our campaign. We are happy to announce that we have now been endorsed by the Abilene Reporter-News, Wichita Falls Record News, Lubbock Avalanche Journal, Hamlin Herald and the Stamford American. The San Angelo Standard Times endorsed us during the primary.

"Some newspapers choose not to endorse any candidate, which is their prerogative and we have greatly appreciated the news coverage in Big Spring by the local radio station and the Big Spring Herald," Stenholm added.

He continued, "The main issue in this race now is which of the two candidates can best represent this district. I am disappointed that my opponent has apparently decided to launch a last minute campaign of distortions and political innuendoes in an attempt to discredit our campaign.

"I am very proud that we have received 82 per cent of our campaign funds from over 7,000 individual contributors who have invested out campaign. We have not accepted one penny of support from organized labor as our opponent claims and there are no strings attached to any contribution we have accepted," Stenholm emphasized.

Secondly, Stenholm pointed out, "Contrary to what my opponent is saying, I did not then nor do I now agree with the liberal philosophy and viewpoints of Sen. George McGovern. I did everything within my power to deny him the Democratic nomination in 1972 all the way to the national Convention in Miami. Cindy and I came home very disappointed and extremely concerned over the direction in which our Democratic Party was heading."

He added, "Richard Nixon was the only other choice we had in Nov. 1972. I didn't support him either and I do believe in the two-party system. I have worked within the system as a Democrat trying to make it better."

Stenholm also stressed, "I have not nor will I publically declare my support for Speaker of the House in the 96th Congress until, if I am elected for Speaker of the House in the 96th Congress until, if I am elected, I become a member of that group and know who the candidates are."

Then in anger, Stenholm said, "To me the statement that really was the biggest misquoted and complete political hypocrisy is the statement that I support Pres. Carter 100 per cent.

"Everybody who knows me knows that I have been going around the district for months before my opponent and have disagreed with him on the energy bill, the Panama Canal give away, the B-1 bomber, the Neutron Bomb, Representation for Washington, D.C. and the ERA extension," Stenholm stressed.

"I do agree with him on his current efforts to bring peace to the Middle-East. I agree that we need to balance our federal budget. I agree that Civil Service needs reform as well as our welfare system. I fully concur that the mustitude of federal regulatory bureaucracies needs to be brought under control," the Stamford candidate concluded.

Then he paused and added, "There are two Democrats to every one Republican on every major committee plus one Democrat. I submit to the people of the 17th District that I can, with my own God given ability and demonstrated leadership capabilities work more effectively for all the people of the 17th Congressional District as a strong conservative voice in the Majority Party. I am asking the people for that chance."

Stenholm, 40, is the Democratic nominee for the 17th Congressional District. He won the June 3 runoff with a landslide, two to one victory. He is seeking the post being vacated by the retiring, veteran legislator Cong. Omar Burleson.

A farmer-businessman from Stamford, Stenholm holds an M.S. in agricultural education from Texas Tech University. He has taught vocational agriculture, worked as the executive officer of Rolling Plains Cotton Growers and general manager of Stamford Electric Cooperative. He is a director of the First National Bank in Stamford.

Stenholm has served as president of the Stamford United Way, Stamford Little League, Texas Electric Cooperatives Association, Rolling Plains Cotton Growers and the Stamford Chamber of Commerce. He is a former member of the Texas State ASC Committee and State Democratic Executive Committee.

Stenholm's civic, church and political activities have led him to local, state and national recognition.

4-H Center dedication is slated

BROWNWOOD — The Texas 4-H Center, completed in 1975 at Lake Brownwood, will be formally dedicated Nov. 8, announced Andy Vestal, and Linda Fuchs; Asst. County Extension Agents with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Special ceremonies will begin at 11:00 a.m. And will include a "Burning of the note' indicating the final payment on the $1.5 million facility. A special plaque to be placed at the center will also be unveild.

Purpose of the center, built solely from private funds, raised and donated by individual counties, is to provide a setting for training both youth and adults in a wide range of areas but centering primarily on leadership. Since the center opened its doors in 1975, some 8,000 to 10,000 persons have received training annually.

Short course set this week

COLORADO CITY — A Beef Cattle Short Course will be held at the C.C. Thompson Meeting Room in Colorado City at 7:30 p.m. Thursday and at 9:30 p.m.

Dr. Jerry Cowley, area beef cattle specialist from San Angelo, will present information on supplemental feeding based on Range Forage quality, nutritional needs for reproduction, effects of heifer weight on breeding, and calving first-calf heifers.

On Friday morning at the Joe Maddox ranch live demonstrations of heifers, cows and bulls will be conducted on measuring pelvic wideth of heifers to predict calving difficulty, selecting bulls for fertility, scoring cow condition as it affects rebreeding.

This should be a very educational short course and all beef cattle producers are invited to attend, states Benson.

Halloween — a time for children. The fact that I feel a little left out this year — all my fun Halloweens are memories — may say something about my maturity.

I'm too old to go to all the carnivals and dress up, and my niece, Becky is too young for me to go under the auspicities of taking her so that SHE can have fun and get anyone to believe that excuse.

REMEMBERING ALL the carnivals and spook houses and scary movies I used to go to brings back all kinds of mental pictures — I'm sure it does for everyone. Things like:

—Walking to a friend's house in the dark after a Halloween vampire movie and seeing goblins and vampires everywhere. We ran from street light to street light, terrified of the darkness in between, but neither had the courage to admit to each other that we were scared.

—Getting all dressed up so that we would look like spooks when we trick-or-treated in my grandmothers neighborhood, thinking we'd scare everyone — and then getting scared half out of our wits when my mom, dressed in normal attire, walked up behind us and spoke.

—All the cake walks and fishing pole booths and cotton candy and such at the school carnival.

—Going into the spook house that the fifth grade had built, running out terrified, and feeling stupid because I was in the fifth grade class and knew all about everything in there. Only I found it seemed different and unfamiliar in the dark.

—GOING TO A CHURCH Halloween party and knowing the old witch in th corner couldn't be a real witch, but had to be one of the ladies of the church. The only doubt came when, no matter what we did, she wouldn't speak, wouldn't laugh, wouldn't move a muscle other than to rock in her chair and stroke the black cat (which moved nothing but its tail — back and forth, back and forth) sitting in her lap. We really began to worry a little, but days later learned that it was only my aunt — Faye Walker doing a good acting job.

—Bobbing for apples and trying to scare each other later with spook stories outside in the dark — or even better, in the dark in the graveyard across from my church.

—Not being able to sleep all night remembering the stories.

All these memories are of things that happened a long time ago, but the memories are still vivid. Perhaps I'll miss out on Halloween this year, but when Becky gets to be about five or six — old enough to enjoy Halloween — I'll have the excuse I've been looking for.

I can hardly wait to get back out to the carnival and trick-or-treating in full costume with the best of the Draculas and Frankensteins.

'No smile'

William F. Buckley, Jr.

LOS ANGELES — It is Merv Griffin time, and guess who is scheduled on? — routine, no fuss; just another guest. We have had on already Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murray, who although they may have taught us dancing in a hurry, didn't do so because they were in any particular hurry: they are in splendid shape, having recently celebrated their 53rd wedding anniversary. A second guest is a rock-ballad singer, envelopingly warm, talented, a Pat Boone type, who sings songs about father-son relationships. There is a smart-alert author type there to sell his new book. And . . . and . . .

What's my line? Well, she produces and directs porno flicks. The hard stuff. She looks rather like Kay Kendall. How old are you, dear? Twenty-three. What religion were you brought up in? Catholic. Still practice your religion? Well — tee hee — no, not really, don't go to church much. Did you go to college? Yes, Michigan State. Graduate? Yes. Major? Phys. Ed. What made you go into . . . porn movies? Wanted to get into the business, and worked for a while as a cashier at a movie house that featured X-rated movies, so got interested in the business, asked around, and went to Hollywood. Do you make . . . all . . . kinds of . . . films? No, we don't go into, well, bestiality, sado-masochism, that sort of thing. Just, you know, the regular stuff, only, in a way, you know, we try to experiment, new positions, that sort of thing.

The singer came in and said he thought it was all a pretty good idea. He and his wife had an X-rated film which they showed regularly on their home video-cassette system, and he thought it was very healthy, after all we're all part animal, and we have animal instincts, and what's wrong with recognizing anything that obvious?

The author mumbled something about it's also being an animal instinct to eat other animals, but we don't make movies about people eating other people, but the audience didn't like that. And Merv said to the author: Have you ever seen a pornographic film? Sue, the author said, I've done a lot of reprehensible things.

Well, that did it, what was so reprehensible about it: I mean, here's a sweet young thing, 23, Phys. Ed. from Michigan State, making the kind of movies that the singer and his wife showed in the privacy of their living room, so what's so bad about that?

At this point the author tried to take the offensive, but he sounded awfully stuffy. He said that the whole situation reminded him of the point Irving Kirstol ahd made in one of his essays for the Wall Street Journal, that such was the inversion of values in America, that an 18-year-old girl could legally have intercourse live on a stage in New York provided she was paid the minimum wage. Are you — he directed his question to the singer — in favor of permitting people to make snuff films?

What are snuff films?

Well, snuff films are where a guy (or gal) is actually killed in the film, the victim being a masochist inclined to go all the way, and the executioner being a sadist inclined ditto. It is reputed that there are in fact some snuff films, is that okay?

The porno-director shook her head, as did Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Murray, as did the singer, as did Merv Griffin.

Merv asked the lady how much she had spent on her current porn movie and she said about $116,000. How much money have you grossed from it? So far this year? Oh, about a million dollars. But we can go on and on selling it, it will last for years, she reassured Merv.

Vitamins not always cause

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 65 and have in recent years had trouble driving the car at night. I have read that night blindness is caused by lack of vitamin A in the diet. I mentioned this to my doctor. He said, go ahead and buy vitamin A pills if I want to, but he doubted I needed them and it was just my age catching up with my eyes. Now, is vitamin A the reason or isn't it, and if so why shouldn't the doctor insist that I take it? — N. W.

The matter of vitamin A and night blindness is not as simple as you think it is.

Vitamin A is important for healthy retinas (where we distinguish colors). But the eyes have ways of deteriorating with age, so you can't always hang poor night vision on the vitamin A deficiency hook. In fact, it seldom is vitamin related.

The liver stores most of our vitamin A. It apparently takes a long time for that store to be used up. In one experiment with humans, vitamin A was restricted for periods up to two years. In only 3 of 26 volunteers was there any real impairment of night vision.

The adult daily needs are set at about 5,000 I.U.s for the male and 4,000 for the female. Normal servings of dark green leafy vegetables and yellow ones such as carrots and squash provide sufficient vitamin A. If you are getting that and do have poor night vision traced to Vitamin A deficiency, the cause would lie elsewhere than in your diet. It could be either an inability of the body to store it or a tendency to lose too much of it.

Vitamin A deficiency would also produce skin symptoms. To further complicate matters, night blindness is also associated with retinitis pigmentosa, which seems to be hereditary. That usually affects children.

Doses of vitamin A for correction of a true deficiency are usually higher at first than normal daily needs. Finally, dosing yourself with this vitamin can be dangerous. It is one of the fat soluble vitamins. It is, as mentioned, stored, which means it can be poisonous in excess.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: How effective is gold therapy for arthritis? — Mrs. H. F.

It can be quite effective in early rheumatoid arthritis, less so in the advanced kind where there has been destruction of the joints. The chief disadvantage is the threat of reaction — chiefly rash, mouth inflammation and stomach upset. It's estimated that about 20 per cent of users are sensitive to it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My neighbor (about 80) is diabetic. Her legs and feet have been swollen for about two weeks. They are very hard and the ankle oozes. She has been doctoring herself with ointments. She refuses to get professional care, even though we suggest this to her. She claims she has had this before and will take care of it herself. — Mrs. J. G.

This lady needs professional attention. There is nothing she can do by herself to help the swelling, except perhaps restrict salt intake. The swelling can mean congestive heart failure, kidney failure, varicose veins or liver problems. The local applications can be damaging, especially ones that burn. The fact that she is diabetic increases her insensitivity to heat, so that should be stopped. Her stubborn independence is working against her. Isn't there an organization (like Visiting Nurses Assn.) that can help? Many elderly live out later years ignorant of the medical care (including medicines) available to them. You can help this woman by looking into the matter for her.

Big Spring Herald Mailbag

Dear Editor:

Contrary to how some people think and feel, the young people of this day and age are not all bad. Apparently Big Spring has some of these good kids.

I was in your city last Saturday, and stopped at Al's for some barbeque. When I returned to my car, I dropped my billfold which contained some money, as well as a number of Credit Cards and other personal items. When I called to ask Al if I had left my billfold there; I was told that some young lady had found it and left it with him. He went to the trouble of making some phone calls before I called him to let my family know that the billfold was there.

He did not know the name of the young lady, so I cannot thank her personally as I do not know who she is, but if there is a way you could let her know what a nice person she is by printing this letter or putting a thank you note in your paper for me; I would appreciate it.

I would like to know who the lady is, so that I can reward her. Not one penny was missing from that billfold.

Dear Editor:

Allow me to amend a comment made in Focalpoint, Thursday, October 19, 1978, about the Better Business Bureau and its actions with regard to bad debts.

We sympathize completely with the small businessmen who have trouble collecting for work they have done. However, we do not and cannot take any action to assist them in collecting such accounts.

If payment is being withheld because of alleged faulty workmanship or unsatisfactory service, the BBB will attempt to resolve the dispute, and thus perhaps clear the way for payment, but we cannot assist where it is simply a matter of the unwillingness of a party to pay, with no part of the job in dispute.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I believe that Jehovah is God and Jesus is His Son, but you keep referring to Jesus as God. What evidence have you for believing this? — J. P.

DEAR J. P.: If Jesus is not God then He would have rebuked Thomas when the disciple referred to Him as: "My Lord and my God" (John 20:28). Instead of rebuking Thomas, Jesus said that those who believed as Thomas did would be blessed — "Thomas, because thou has seen me, thou has believed: blessed are they that have not seen, and yet have believed" (v. 29).

Paul believed in Christ as God: "Christ came, who is over all, God blessed for ever" (Romans 9:5). John opens his account of the Gospel with the statement: "In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God" (John 1:1). The Word is a title given to Jesus and this verse states specifically that He is God.

Jesus is referred to as both God and Savior in Titus 2:13, "The glorious appearing of the great God and our Savior Jesus Christ." The Son is referred to as God in Nebrews 1:8, "Unto the Son he saith, Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever." Yet another reference to Jesus is found in 1 John 5:20, "We are in him that is ture, even in his Son Jesus Christ. This is the true God, and eternal life."

These are but a few of the statements in Scripture which, when taken together, prove conclusively the diety of Christ.

Watergate echo

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Atlanta attorney Charles Kirbo, the pal of the president, has been caught in a trap of his own making — a trap he had set for us, with the help of White House aide Richard Harden.

Taking a leaf from Richard Nixon's Watergate book, Kirby sought to discredit our story about the Robert Vesco scandal and to destroy our reputation in the process. He launched a Nixon-style investigation of us, coordinating his efforts with the White House and conferring regularly with Attorney General Griffin Bell.

The distinguished King and Spaulding law firm gave Kirbo and an associate, Charles Tisdale, time off to conduct the probe at no cost to President Carter. A White House spokesman acknowledged that the president is never billed for Kirbo's services.

IN A SENSE, KIRBO and Tisdale are now functioning as Carter's "plumbers." This is a nickname that became attached to G. Gordon Liddy and E. Howard Hunt, who conducted extracurricular investigations for Nixon.

The FBI has evidence that Kirbo plotted with Harden to suborn one of our news sources. Calling from the White House, Harden persuaded her sister-in-law, Mrs. Tina Harden, to induce the source, Cynthia Herring, to meet with Kirbo. (We have Cynthia Herring's permission to use her name.)

In am atmosphere of high intrigue, a rendezvous was arranged at Mrs. Harden's apartment in Albany, Ga. FBI sources say that Kirbo kept a private plane standing by to whisk him from Atlanta to Albany for the secret interrogation.

Mrs. Herring is represented by Benjamin B. Brown, a Rockville, Md., attorney, who retained one of the nation's sharpest private detectives to investigate the case. Mrs. Herring notified the detective, Richard Bast, of Kirbo's approach. To protect her, Bast wired her with a recording device so she would have a record of the conversation. The tape has now been turned over to the FBI.

Kirbo is a crafty country lawyer, slow and dry of speech, who made it big in Atlanta. But he still carefully cultivates an avuncular, cracker-barrel image.

He started off by reassuring Mrs. Herring that he came from her corner of Georgia. "I'm just an ordinary South Georgia cracker you're talking to," he drawled.

Together, Kirbo and Tisdale amiably pumped her for information that they could use against us. She did not give them the answers, however, that they wanted.

If this disappointed Kirbo, it didn't deter him. He simply distorted what she had said and mounted a calculated campaign of slurs and lies against us.

BUT LIKE NIXON before him, the unfortunate Kirbo has become snagged by a secret tape that contradicts his public statements. His campaign of denial and distortion therefore, has turned into a dead cat that now hangs heavy around his neck.

Here are a few of Kirbo's contradictions:

—Kirbo implied to newsmen after talking to Mrs. Herring that we had plotted with our informants to concot fake documentation. He knew this was untrue. Although she acknowledged on the tape that two letters had been reconstructed, she swore to Kirbo: "Jack (Anderson) did not know. He had no idea."

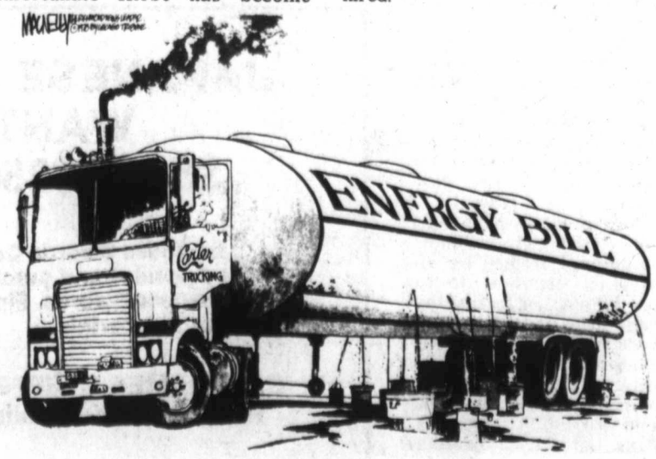

—Kirbo also suggested that we knew the letters weren't really reconstructions but fabrications. On the contrary, influence peddler R.L. Herring has testified in federal court that he lost the originals on an airplane flight and reconstructed them from memory. His former secretary, Gerolyn Hobbs, has also sworn before a federal judge that she typed and mailed the originals. In any event, Mrs. Herring told Kirbo: "I don't know why Herring had to do those letters because he had plenty of proof without that. Now that's what some of the other people connected with R.L. said."

—Kirbo contended that we presented the letters as genuine even though their authenticity had been challenged. Not true. From the first, we took pains to emphasize that the letters were disputed. We quoted the alleged signatory, Spencer Lee IV, as denying he wrote them. Our first reference to the letters carried the careful qualification "if valid." Of course, we also cited the secretary's sworn testimony that she had typed and mailed the letters.

—Kirbo told reporters that even after we learned about the dubious origin of the letters, we continued to base columns on them. This is not what Mrs. Herring told him. She stated on the tape that Anderson "said it was his duty as a reporter and as a citizen to make (the reconstructions) known as soon as possible . . . Jack did everything he possibly could to get the story out." The fact that the letters had been rewritten was also uncovered by us, not by Kirbo.

—In statements to the press, Kirbo claimed we did not initiate the investigation of the reconstructed documents as we had reported. He insisted we didn't act until Mrs. Herring told us voluntarily about her role in retyping one of the letters. Again, the secret tape proves Kirbo deliberately misrepresented the facts; she can be heard on the tape clearly confirming our report.

—The president's attorney even distorted the minor details. He told reporters that the private detective worked for us, although Mrs. Herring told Kirbo that Bast "was working for the lawyer in Washington that R.L. hired."

Smoke Controversy

DEAR ABBY: I read that the voters in California now have another controversial proposition that is causing a heated battle. It's Proposition 5, having to do with smoking. If passed, exactly what will it DO—and NOT do? I do not live in California, but there's been talk of initiating the same kind of legislation in my state.

LIKES TO SMOKE

DEAR LIKES: If passed, Proposition 5 will:

Recognize both the right to smoke and the right to breathe clean air.

Establish non-smoking and smoking sections in restaurants.

Guarantee non-smokers smoke-free places of employment while providing smoking areas for employees who smoke.

Create smoke-free hospital rooms unless a smoking room is requested.

It will not:

Prohibit or restrict the sale of tobacco products.

Regulate smoking outdoors.

Restrict smoking in designated smoking sections indoors.

Affect smoking in private places.

Cost the taxpayers money. Instead, it will save tax dollars.

Be carved in granite, since the Initiative allows the legislature to amend it with a mere majority vote.

DEAR ABBY: Our son and daughter-in-law have a son (a college senior) who announced that he plans to marry the girl with whom he has gone for a long time.

It seems that our son and his wife feel that this girl is not right for their son, so they suggested that the young couple live together for a year while he is in graduate school, hoping the love affair won't survive beyond that time.

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Although your son and daughter-in-law prefer to have their son live with the girl rather than marry her, the final decision will be made by the young couple, and not by either the parents or the grandparents. (Or me.)

DEAR ABBY: What in the world do they put on this newspaper that causes an instant hay fever attack? Two minutes after I start reading my newspaper my eyes begin to water, my nose itches and I start to sneeze! In five minutes I'm weeping.

Has anyone else ever complained about this?

HOWARD E.

DEAR HOWARD: Much in today's world news would make anybody cry. As for your itching schnozz, maybe you have no nose for news. (P.S. An allergist might be more helpful.)

DEAR ABBY: My mother-in-law is so superstitious it's not even funny. I don't mind if she believes in all those crazy old-fashioned superstitions, but now she's starting in on me!

I have been married for seven years, and I'm expecting my first baby in October, and this crepe-hanger mother-in-law of mine keeps insisting that it is "bad luck" to buy even a rattle for the baby until it gets here. (She says "the devil" might be displeased if I talk too much about my good luck—and something might happen.)

I am furious, Abby. Some of my friends want to give me a baby shower, but with all this silly superstitious talk, I'm afraid to let them.

I am healthy as a horse and would like to prepare for this baby I've waited so long for, but I hate to go behind my mother-in-law's back.

What should I do?

EXPECTING IN TEXAS

DEAR EXPECTING: Tell your mother-in-law that YOU aren't superstitious, and you prefer to be prepared for the healthy baby you have every reason to believe you will have. Then go ahead and prepare, and good luck.

BEAUTY SPOT — Selected as the October Residential Beauty Spot in Big Spring was the property of Richard and Carole Lowstetter. Congratulating the couple above is Linda Williams of the Beautification Committee of the Big Spring Area Chamber of Commerce. October is the final month for the 1978 Beauty Spot project, so property owners have a few months to spruce up the yard before spring, when the search for local beautifiers begins again.

Simple alterations can create good fit

COLLEGE STATION — Simple alterations can create a "good fit" for many ready-to-wear garments, but decide before buying, a clothing specialist advises.

Good fit — a fashion "must" — makes a garment more attractive and comfortable, and many ready-to-wear garments need an alteration to achieve this, Becky Culp adds.

Mrs. Culp is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Good fit is a 'must,' because not even the best quality, color, fabric or the newest fashion trend can make a poor fit look good," she insists.

Consider skills and the time required for fitting and altering before buying a garment that needs alterations.

If ripping is a "dislike," then altering probably will be unpleasant.

However, if a less-than-perfect fit is uncomfortable, then successful altering can save money, expand the wardrobe and add to a good feeling about appearance.

All garments cannot be altered.

Garments more than one size too small or large usually cannot be altered successfully through existing seams — especially in areas such as the necklines, shoulders and across the back or upper chest.

Also, meanufacturing techniques, such as punched holes that mark darts, clipped seams and trimmed darts or seams, sometimes make it impossible to alter a garment.

Adjustments that usually "work" are those in the width of the bust, waist and hips, and those in hem lengths — since they have little effect on design lines.

For garments more than one size too large, the most successful adjustment is to remake it. Re-cut it using a pattern that does fit, and then re-sew it.

Altering results usually are more satisfactory when making a garment smaller — rather than larger.

Also, garments made in some fabrics are difficult or impossible to make larger.

One reason is that releasing seams or folds in some fabrics may cause the original stitching lines to show.

Gold Star moms meet

The Amrican Gold Star Mothers met in the home of Mrs. Truett Thomas, 1608 Osage, for their regular monthly meeting Thursday morning.

Coffee and fellowship were enjoyed prior to the meeting, which Mrs. Thomas, president conducted.

Delegates and officers who attended the Department Board Meeting in Dallas Oct. 13-14 reported on the meeting, including Mrs. S.R. Nobles, Mrs. A.W. Moody, Mrs. Huey Rodgers and Mrs. Thomas.

Hospital chairman, Mrs. Herbert Smith, reported that 64 patients at the V.A. Medical Center were served refreshments of coffee and cake Oct. 18.

Community Service Report notes donations of 44 trays of food to friends; 42 visits to shut-ins; $203 to charity funds; and 14 vases of flowers to friends.

Officers nominated and elected for the coming year include Mrs. Novles, president; Mrs. Ralph LaLonde, first vice president; Mrs. Smith, second vice president; Mrs. E.L. Perkins, secretary; Mrs. Rodgers, treasurer; Mrs. Moody, chaplain; Mrs. W.J. Barnes, americanism chairman; and Mrs. Thomas, historian.

An announcement was made that a Veterans Day program will take place Nov. 11 in the lobby of the V.A. Medical Center.

The next meeting will take place Nov. 16 in the home of Mrs. Novles, 405 Washington Blvd.

LVNs urged to attend

A special meeting of the Licensed Vocational Nurses' Association has been called at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 6 in the Reddy Room at Texas Electric Service Co., it was announced this week by Cyneather Woodruff, LVNA president.

In urging all nurses, whether members of the association or not, to attend the important meeting, Mrs. Woodruff quoted a letter from Martha McAlister, state president.

"The Nurse Practice Act will be introduced in the 1979 legislative session by the Texas Nurses Association," Mrs. Woodruff reminded. "If this bill passes, it may affect the scope of our practice much more than we realize at this time."

Quoting from the state president's letter, Mrs. Woodruff continued, "Those of you who attended the February seminar in Austin heard that the American Nurses Association is working diligently through several of its state associations to pass into law in each of those states the '1985 Proposal' which would phase out vocational nursing as we know it.

"Under the '1985 Proposal' students would have to go through a two-year program to be licensed. Many simply could not afford it. But obviously, those who do become two-year LVNs could displace many one-year LVNs in the job market, with health care costs increasing even more for our patients."

Concluding her plea for full attendance by all LVNs at the Nov. 6 meeting, Mrs. Woodruff said, "Think about it. This could affect you."

Ray speaks to BPW club

Jane Ray, Committeewoman of the State Democratic Executive Committee for Senatorial District 30, spoke to members of the Business & Professional Women's Club at their monthly program meeting at 7 p.m. Oct. 24 at the Brass Nail.

Kip Bracy, club president, introduced Mrs. Ray, who spoke to the group on the tax relief amendment and the eight other constitutional amendments to be voted on Nov. 7.

She passed around a sheet of paper listing the amendments with a brief explanation accompanying each item.

Mrs. Ray emphasized the pros and cons of the Tax Relief Amendment which proposes to provide tax relief for residential homesteads, elderly persons, disabled persons and agricultural land; personal property exemptions, truth in taxation procedures, including citizen involvement; a redefinition of the tax base, limitations on state spending; and property tax administration. She urged everyone to vote as they believed, but to vote.

A question and answer period followed all the amendments.

Oneita Sledge was introduced as a guest and Mamie Roberts announced that the Big Spring State Hospital Christmas party would be Dec. 12, and this club would help with the Half-Way House activities.

Also, the Club Christmas party will be held at the Brass Nail, Dec. 19 at 7 p.m. with club officers as hostesses.

The next regular meeting will be in charge of the Legislative Committee with Rozelle Dohoney, chairman.

Washington's subway behind schedule

The Metro: Some magic, mess

WASHINGTON (AP) — Traffic choked Washington's broad avenues and a pedestrian had "such moments as heart disease and brainstorms are made of." So, asked the Washington Post, why not a subway system for Washington?

The date was Dec. 5, 1909. Nearly seven decades later — on March 27, 1976 — the capital got its first five miles of a subway, a modern sophisticated system, but also one in which 14 percent of the computerized fare collection equipment is out of service at one time.

And it won't have a completed system until at least 1984, 11 years behind schedule and $4.3 billion above original cost estimates.

In short, Washington did not heed the advice of Superintendent Richard Sylvester of the Metropolitan Police, who warned in 1909 that a subway "should not be put off until the 11th hour..."

But the 11th hour was fine for Debbie Stutz, a 20-year-old secretary for the Federal Election Commission.

The Metro was extended toward her Alexandria, Va., home in July 1977. She had taken a half-hour bus ride into town; a combined bus-subway trip gets her to Washington 10 minutes faster.

While she's crossing the Washington-Virginia border, other riders ar coming from the Maryland suburbs and still more are moving within the city. Twenty-three miles of the planned 101-mile system are operating and 210,000 people ride the trains each weekday.

Ms. Stutz and fellow commuters speed under the Potomac River at 73 mph. "Your ears pop going through the tunnel," she said. "You look around and see everyone swallowing at the same time."

Above ground, the partiallybuilt system is not yet reducing rush-hour traffic, but District of Columbia officials say congestion is not getting worse. A survey this year estimated that 32.6 percent of subway riders would otherwise travel by automobile or cab.

Metro is a computer-age subway, and its sophisticated equipment is responsible for most of its problems.

San Francisco's BART has gotten most of the bad notices. But Washington's system has had troubles too; failures of computerized fare equipment are rattling the nerves of riders.

When Ms. Stutz enters the subway at a station next to the Pentagon, she buys a farecard — if the farecard machine is working. To get on the platform, she inserts the card into a special gate — provided the gate is working.

"Some days you wake up and you're not in a terrific mood," Ms. Stutz said. "You can't get your card into the turnstile and you miss your train. You feel like going back to bed."

Francis Francois, a transit authority board member, said the unreliability of the fare-collecting equipment has reached a crisis stage. "We are clearly losing riders and revenues," he commented.

At the same time, transit officials gladly cite the subway's benefits. Crowds of workers zip from one part of town to another during lunch hour, shopping and finding new restaurants. Wives meet husbands in town for lunch, often for the first time in years.

A $2 subway ride takes a family of four tourists from the Capitol to Arlington Cemetery in off-peak hours. A taxi ride is $3 to $4.

Metro, the nation's seventh major subway system, is almost free of violent crime, with only two robberies using force this year.

"I'm not afraid on the subway," Ms. Stutz said. "I've seen the TV monitors. If someone would approach me, I know (subway officials) are watching."

Graffiti, which plague other systems, are not an art form here. The subway designers didn't make it easy; platforms have no pillars and do not touch station walls. Graffiti are treated like a spreading fungus, quickly washed away.

When finished, Metro will cost $6.8 billion, give or take $100 million. This compares to the $1.4 billion cost of the 75-mile BART opened in September 1972 to serve the San Francisco area.

If the full Washington system had been finished on schedule in 1973, the cost would have been $2.5 billion, transit officials said. But with inflation, labor disputes, minority hiring practices, design and environmental problems, the earliest completion date now is 1984.

Like other systems, this underground-surface transit operation must survive with local government subsidies. Fares cover only half the cost of a ride. But ridership has met or exceeded expectations for the areas being served.

Based on rush-hour rides, fares range from 40 cents to $1.05. An off-peak or Saturday ride costs 50 cents. A Sunday schedule is planned next year, a welcome development for Washington Redskin fans who could ride directly to Robert F. Kennedy Stadium. Trains recently carried 7,500 people to a Monday night football game, and subway officials say there's room for many more.

Now that the system is showing Washington its potential, those who put up with jackhammers and ripped-up streets can decide if the subway was worth the noise and aggravation. Jack Neslage, owner of an art gallery and frame shop near the Dupont Circle stop, is pleased.

Murder charges to be filed against Hurst man

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — Police said murder charges would be filed today against a 23-year-old Hurst, Texas, man who matches the description of a person reported seen Friday at the home of a prominent Fort Worth couple shot to death.

"We feel that at the time, we have sufficient information to file a capital murder charge," homicide Lt. Coy Martin said at a news conference Sunday.

Martin said investigators determined that John P. Muller III, 50, and his wife, Virginia, 53, were shot to death Friday during a burglary at their fashionable home in east Fort Worth.

The suspect was linked to the crime scene through "several items of evidence," said to be the couple's personal effects, recovered by police after the suspect's arrest at 6:40 p.m. Saturday at an intersection east of downtown Fort Worth, Martin said.

Evidence recovered from an undisclosed location Sunday includes a black cowboy hat matching the description of the hat a neighbor said he saw a man wearing Friday morning near the Muller residence, and "certain items taken from the (Muller) home," Martin added.

Muller was president of an auto parts distributing company in Fort Worth, with branches in Houston and Corpus Christi.

Officers initially had ruled out robbery as a motive after finding more than $1,200 in travelers' checks and some jewelry undisturbed on a bedroom dresser in the house.

U.S. funds available for study of tar balls

COLLEGE STATION — Ever wonder where those bothersome little tar balls come from that stick to your feet on the beach and indelibly mark your tennis shoes?

So does the federal government, and it's prepared to spend $16 million a year more than it currently does so the U.S. Coast Guard can find out.

A Cost Guard spokesman from New Orleans said the service is beefing up its "pollution patrols" in the 168,000 nautical square miles of the Gulf of Mexico.

Lt. Cmdr. James L. O'Brien told the Texas Coastal and Marine Council meeting at Texas A&M University that plans call for the Coast Guard to visit each of the 2,300 drilling platforms in the Gulf at least twice a year, once unannounced.

While there, they would inspect for safety, but would also check for possible sources of pollution.

"I can't tell you that 'X' amount of tar on the beaches is natural and 'Y' is from tankers. I don't know and I don't think anyone else knows," said O'Brien.

But in an effort to track down the possible causes of the pollution, which has far more harmful results than sticking to your feet, Coast Guard expenditures on pollution patrols will be bolstered $16 million.

That includes an overflight of the entire Gulf once a week, four more surface vessels to help inspect each platform four times a year and aircraft that would have infrared capabilities to detect oil spills or tanker discharge at night.

O'Brien said about a third of the 1,500 oil spills that occur in American waters each year take place in the Gulf of Mexico.

The pollution patrol efforts will mean an addition of 1,200 Coast Guard personnel, presumably both military and civilian, to man the aircraft, surface vessels and act in a support function.

Labor contract is announced

A new contract between American Petrofina of Texas and Local 826, International Union of Operating Engineers, covering dispatchers at the Big Spring Terminal was reached Oct. 18.

The contract provides increased vacation pay, pension plan participation, credit union check-off for Local 826 Credit Union, a 17 per cent cut in scheduled hours of work per week, weekly sickness and accident benefits, increased holiday allowances and approximately 20 per cent hourly wage increase retroactive to Sept. 1.

The new contract expires July 1, 1980. A re-opening clause for a wage increase can be exercised by the Union July 1, 1979.

Local 826 also represents the Shop and Truck Drivers at the Big Spring Terminal.

Weather

Cold front pushes towards Texas

A cold front pushed toward Texas from Colorado, but the weather man says fair weather should prevail again today in the Lone Star State, with highs mostly in the 70s.

Skies were clear over the state early today, except for some patchy cloudiness in the Del Rio area.

Light winds and the clear skies permitted temperatures to cool into the 40s and 50s early today at most locations across the state.

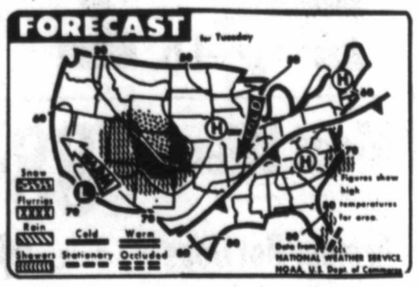

FORECAST
WEST TEXAS: Fair and warm today, increasing cloudiness and turning cooler north tonight with scattered light rain in the Panhandle and fair in the south.

EXTENDED FORECAST
WEST TEXAS: Fair Wednesday and Thursday becoming partly cloudy on Friday with cool nights and mild afternoons. Highs will be in the lower 60s in the north to near 70 in the south.

GRINDING AHEAD — Houston Oilers running back Earl Campbell drives ahead as he is pulled down by Cincinnati Bengals defenders in a game in Cincinnati Sunday. Although Campbell gained 102 yards rushing, the rest of the Oilers offensive attack was checked with the Bengals winning, 28-13.

Bad news Bengals bomb Oilers

CINCINNATI (AP) — The bomb is back in the Cincinnati Bengals' long-ailing offense. And so is quarterback Ken Anderson, who lit the fuse.

After managing only four touchdowns all season, the previously winless Bengals equaled that total Sunday in a 28-13 National Football League victory against the Houston Oilers.

With Anderson tossing completions of 43, 45, 57 and 45 yards, the Bengals ended a long scoring drought and snapped a club record nine-game losing streak dating back to last year.

The Bengals, now 1-8, did it at the expense of the No. 2-rated defense in the American Football Conference.

"We knew we had it. We just kept the faith," said rookie defensive standout Ross Browner, who has turned Cincinnati's defense around.

Coach Homer Rice, in a team meeting Saturday, told the Bengals that a turnaround was just a matter of time. "We're a time bomb. We're just waiting to explode," Rice said, prophetically.

With Anderson rounding into top form, Rice was convinced Cincinnati's offense was primed.

"Kenny hasn't been ready to go deep," explained Rice. "Friday he started zipping the ball again. I knew he had his arm back."

Anderson's passing set up two touchdowns and he added a 45-yard TD toss to wide receiver Isaac Curtis, who had not caught a touchdown pass in more than a year.

Curtis finished with four catches for 130 yards and Billy Brooks had two for 88.

Pete Johnson scored twice and Tony Davis once, each from the one yard line. Rookie David Turner, a replacement for injured Archie Griffin, set up the third TD with a 65-yard run.

"The big thing was we made the big plays. Things that make the offense click," said Rice, who got his first NFL victory after replacing Bill Johnson four weeks ago.

Anderson, passing with the pinpoint precision that made him the NFL's top passer in 1974 and 1975, completed 11 of 16 for 268 yards.

Anderson credited his offensive line with springing loose the running backs for a season high of 189 rushing yards.

"For the first time, our running game worked and that opened things up for our passing game. The five guys up front took charge. The difference was a diversified attack," he said.

Veteran offensive tackle Vern Hollard saw it as a case of revenge. Houston knocked the Bengals out of a playoff berth in the season finale last year. "That's all we talked about all week," he said.

Two of the touchdowns came after Rice spurned field goals, gambling on fourth-and-one situations near the Houston goal line.

"They deserved it," said Oilers' rookie running back Earl Campbell, "because they whipped us all over the field." Campbell led all rushers with 102 yards on 18 carries.

Houston's Dan Pastorini tossed fourth quarter touchdown passes of 16 and six yards to Ken Burrough and Mike Renfro, respectively.

That's trash, Greek!

DALLAS (AP) — The president of the Dallas Cowboys says a television report Sunday by Jimmy "The Greek" Snyder that Cowboy halfback Tony Dorsett will be traded after the season is "Greek trash."

Tex Schramm, president and general manager of the National Football League team, denied Dorsett is on the trading block.

During the CBS telecast Sunday of the San Francisco-Washington game, Snyder included Dorsett among several prominent NFL players who he said will be traded next year.

"All he (Snyder) has done is go around the league and find somebody who's had some kind of problem. It's never been talked about, never been considered. It's just tragic when a network gives responsibility to an irresponsible person," Schramm said.

Among other players Snyder said will be traded in 1979 are John Dutton of Baltimore, Cleveland Elam of San Francisco, Isaiah Robertson of Los Angeles and Greg Pruitt of Cleveland.

Bullets misfire on the road

By The Associated Press

It's the same old story in the National Basketball Association. This year is no different than any other — playing on the road is still a disadvantage.

Even if you are the defending world champions.

"We haven't played well for four straight games," said Washington Bullets Coach Dick Motta after Sunday night's 109-93 loss to the Los Angeles Lakers.

The loss was the fourth straight on the road for the Bullets, who had opened the season with four consecutive victories, including three at home.

"It's a long road trip," said Motta. "Not too many people are winning on the road, and we're amongst them. We won one game last year on the West Coast; we beat Seattle."

Elsewhere in the NBA, the San Diego Clippers defeated Seattle 103-100; the Denver Nuggets whipped the Houston Rockets 134-121 and the Golden State Warriors turned back the Cleveland Cavaliers 99-94.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar scored 20 points to lead a balanced Los Angeles attack. The Lakers had six players in double figures and were also sparked by second-year guard Norm Nixon, who scored 14 points and was credited with seven assists and five steals.

Indians hoping

By the Associated Press

The McMurry Indians defeated Austin College, 9-3, and kept alive their slim hopes of tying the Tarleton State Texans for the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic Association championship.

With two games to play, the Indians, 6-2 for the season and 4-2 in the conference, trail the Texans by two full games. The Texans, 6-0 in league play and 7-0 overall, were idle Saturday.

For McMurry to catch Tarleton, the Texans must lose to Trinity next Saturday in San Antonio. McMurry has to beat Sul Ross, then win the showdown with Tarleton in the season finale.

The Texans are the No. 2-ranked team in NAIA Division II and boast the top defensive unit in the country.

In the only other conference game played Saturday, Trinity beat Sul Ross 26-0 in Alpine. Besides the McMurry-Sul Ross and Trinity-Tarleton games next week, the Austin College Kangaroos host Millsaps College of Mississippi in a non-conference game.

Rams favored over Falcons

ATLANTA (AP) — Defensive end Jeff Merrow of the Atlanta Falcons finally realizes his dream tonight.

"I have been wanting to play on Monday Night Football ever since they put it on TV," said Merrow, a 250-pounder in his fourth National Football League campaign since leaving West Virginia.

The Falcons, making their first such appearance since 1974, tangle with the Los Angeles Rams in the nationally televised (ABC) game, set for a 9 p.m. EST kickoff before a sellout crowd of 60,763 in Atlanta Stadium.

Los Angeles, which held the Falcons to only 74 yards in a 10-0 triumph earlier this season, is a seven-point favorite to continue its series domination which now stands at 19-3-2 over Atlanta.

However, Coach Leeman Bennett and the Falcons are hoping a roaring crowd can spur the Falcons to another major upset such as occurred the last time the Monday night game was played here. That came in 1973 when the Falcons ended a Minnesota winning streak, 20-14.

"If you make a good play on the road, you don't hear anything," Merrow said. "When you make one at home, the place gets to rocking and people start going crazy. And that just fires us up."

The Falcons must win to retain any hope of approaching the Rams in the National Conference West title chase. Los Angeles dropped its first game in eight starts last week when the New Orleans Saints registered a 10-3 upset over the mistake-plagued Rams. Atlanta is 4-4 for the year, having won three of its last four.

Both coaches are concerned about the rash of penalties that has hampered their teams this year. The Rams were penalized 13 times for 138 yards last week and now have yielded 657 yards on 71 infractions for the year.

ASU holds off A&I surge

By The Associated Press

Angelo State University, gunning for its first Lone Star Conference football championship, delighted a homecoming crowd of 16,650 Saturday night by edging Texas A&I, 21-19.

The No. 1 ranked Rams, now 8-0 for the season and 4-0 in the LSC race, were breezing along with a 21-7 lead early in the final quarter before the Javelinas scored two quick touchdowns in a dramatic comeback attempt.

Robert Poole bulled over from one yard out to cut the led to 21-13, but the Hogs failed on a two-point conversion attempt.

Then Martin Stroman hit Bryan Sweeney on a 23-yard touchdown pass, and the Hogs were within two points with 3:20 left in the game.

Stroman had Sweeney open on the two-point play for the tie, but underthrew him.

The Hogs got another chance when Wylie Turner fumbled the kickoff return. A fourth-and-inches at the Rams 40-yard line failed, and the largest crowd to watch the Rams play in San Angelo roared its approval.

Jerry Aldridge had another great evening for the Rams with 145 yards on 30 carries and his 11th touchdown.

It was the first win for the Rams over Texas A&I since 1973 and should assure them of a first place rating in the NAIA.

Mac wins Open

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Mac McLendon did very little right in the final round of the Pensacola Open until he won a sudden death playoff over Mike Reid, but he said the stroke that saved him was a 25-foot birdie putt on the 13th hole.

"I was thinking about acting sick and walking in after I had a third straight bogey on the 11th hole," McLendon said Sunday. "I played terrible, but I watched Bobby Wadkins putt on the 13th and saw the break in the green I didn't think was there. That putt won this tournament.

He went on to birdie the 538-yard 15th hole by dropping a wedge shot six inches from the cup and shoot a 1-over-par 73 for a 272 total that put him in a playoff with Reid.

Newman is second

FLOWERY BRANCH, Ga. (AP) — Actor Paul Newman drove to a second-place finish behind Frank Leary in a C production class auto race at the Road Atlanta Classic Sunday.

"You better slow down or you are not going to be in my next movie," Newman told Leary, of Santa Clara, Calif., after the race. "It is you and Jacqueline Bisset if we can make a deal for you to slow up on the race track."

The screen star started third but dropped to fifth midway through the 18-lap Sports Car Club of America race around the 2½-mile track. But after fender-banging incidents with two other drivers, he moved up to second, 12½ seconds behind Leary, at the finish.

Both Newman and Leary drove Datsun 280Z's.

Nice guys finish first

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

This is the season for tired chicken croquettes, roast beef, potatoes, green salad, trophies and rhetoric. Wash it down with hot coffee and apple pie a la mode.

It's post-season awards time for the grand old game, baseball. There are the Cy Young Awards, going to the best pitchers of each league; the MVP (Most Valuable Player), Rookie of the Year, Player of the Year, Manager of the Year and the All-Star Teams of the Year.

The luncheons and trophies are endless.

Now let us add another to the lengthening list of post-season salutes — an award long overdue.

It's the major leagues "Good Guys" team. Here 'tis:

1b — Steve Garvey, Dodgers.

2b — Joe Morgan, Reds.

3b — George Brett, Royals.

SS — Don Kessinger, White Sox.

OF — Lou Brock, Cardinals.

OF — Dave Parker, Pirates.

OF — Lou Piniella, Yankees.

C — Johnny Bench, Reds.

DH — Rod Carew, Twins.

LHP — Ron Guidry, Yankees.

RHP — Gaylord Perry, Padres.

MGR — Chuck Tanner, Pirates.

The trophy will not be a halo embossed with gold and studded with jewels but a locker room stool properly bronzed and a convenient spittoon to catch vagrant tobacco juice.

These are not men ready for sainthood. Their private lives do not enter into consideration. They may beat their wives, indulge in all sorts of high jinx on the road and even get involved in a few bar room brawls — although it's highly unlikely.

They are honored for qualities the name suggests. They are simply "good guys." They haven't let themselves become spoiled by success. They don't push roughshod through queues of autograph seekers. They don't snub the fans. They communicate.

While others — not all, mind you, but far too many — may become arrogant or paranoid, hoisted by wealth and success, and brood in their locker room stalls, these are men who treat everyone — teammates, fans, the media — as human beings.

Ask one of them a pointed question and he doesn't spit in your face or, worse still, turn his back as if you didn't exist. To the man, they are open, down to earth, completely natural, inclined to common courtesy.

Believe us, they represent a rare breed in this age of multimillion dollar contracts, outside influences and commercial pressures.

Morgan and Bench are superstars who never have lost their humility and graciousness. Garvey is Frank Merriwell in the flesh — it's difficult to imagine anyone so faultless. Brock has been an example with the Cards for years. Guidry is a "good ol' boy" from Louisiana who seems immune to snobbery.

Piniella is renowned for a violent Latin temper but it's always aimed at himself, never others. They call Parker the "big bear with the marshmallow heart." Perry, Carew, Brett and Kessinger are of the "gentlemen's school."

Other sports have their "good guys" — the best examples being Arnold Palmer and Jack Nicklaus in golf, Arthur Ashe in tennis, O.J. Simpson in pro football — but they must await another day.

This is "Good Guys Week" in baseball.

Anson whipped

The Coahoma freshman and JV teams had an easy time against Anson last week. The freshman improved their record to 4-1 with a 22-0 win.

Touchdowns were scored by Randy Paige, Renaldo Abrego, and Shawn Mayhall. Offensive standout was Lynn Hinsley, defensive gem was David Roberts.

The freshmen next play Colorado City on November 9.

The junior varsity also shut out the Anson squad, gaining a 21-0 win. Six points were scored by Mike Waters and twice by Ambrosa Uranga. It was the first win for the junior varsity this year.

Offensive standout was Ambrosa Uranga, defensive standout was Jay Hall.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, OCT. 31, 1978

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Daytime finds you with some unusual conditions to face. If you handle them sensibly and intelligently, you make rapid headway toward some original or progressive goals. Evening becomes steadily more adverse and you would be wise to get a good night's rest.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can handle responsibilities well and be more successful, but use care and caution in the evening. Try to please loved ones more and be happier.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Come to a meeting of minds with your partners and accomplish a good deal. Avoid individuals who keep you from gaining your desires, aims.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Put new life into the work you are engaged in and derive greater benefits from it. A fellow worker sees you from a different angle now and can be more cooperative.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try a different kind of amusement today that will elevate your spirits, bring you more happiness. A special thought for a loved one is wise.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Study well the situation at home and don't irk anyone there. Once your business affairs are settled, do some entertaining at home. Think along more current lines and accept the best of these.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get the information you need which has not been forthcoming in the past and then use it wisely. You get pleasant news, but don't answer the letter under any circumstances until tomorrow.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Spend your money wisely and get fine results therefrom. Be more economical in the evening, though. Start a new savings account and gain more benefits.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Don't give in to the temptation to do bizarre things or you could get into big trouble. Start working on some unexplored talent and relieve tensions.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Something turns up that upsets your routines, but not for long. Be firm as to your own principles and make no radical changes, despite temptation to do so.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) A good friend shows you how to economize, so listen carefully to suggestions given you. Don't get emotional about a friend's worries or they become your own. Lend a helping hand where most needed.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A public matter could cause you worry but alertness is wise and later all is okay again. Don't criticize a higher-up or you get into trouble.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) A new situation arises that will be to your benefit, so be prepared for it. You have an opportunity to take a trip and this will bring good results.

You are hereby commanded to appear by filing a written answer to Plaintiff's Original Petition at or before 10:00 a.m. on the first Monday after the expiration of Forty-two (42) days from the date of the issuance of this Citation, same being the 20th day of November, 1978, at or before 10:00 o'clock a.m., before the Honorable District Court of Howard County, Texas, 118th Judicial District, at the Courthouse of said County in Big Spring, Texas.

Said Plaintiff's Original Petition was filed in said Court on the 6th day of October, 1978, in this Cause No. 25849, on the docket of said Court and styled ELBERT L. STRICKLAND and wife, VERNA JO STRICKLAND, vs. MRS. L.M. ELLIS.

A brief statement of the nature of this suit is as follows, to-wit:

Lot 16, Block 36, Original Town of Forsan, Howard County, Texas, according to the proper map or plat of said townsite of record.

Plaintiffs further allege that they hold title to the above described land and have held peaceful, continuous and adverse possession of said land, using and enjoying the same, and paying all taxes due as the same became due for a period of five years consecutively after defendant's cause of action, if any they have accrued, and before the commencement of this suit, and Plaintiffs seek to recover under allegations of peaceable, continuous and adverse possession of said land for five years, using and enjoying the same.

Plaintiffs further allege that they hold title to the above described land under the ten year statute of limitations of the State of Texas, which they are affirmatively pleading, and Plaintiffs seek to recover under allegations of peaceable, continuous and adverse possession of said land for ten years, using and enjoying the same.

Plaintiffs also allege that if any of said Defendants have apparent record title to said above described land, none of such persons has, during a period of twenty-five years next preceding the filing of this suit, either exercised any dominion over said land or paid any taxes thereon and that Plaintiffs and those whose title they hold have openly exercised dominion and asserted claim to said land and have paid taxes thereon annually before same became delinquent for as many as twenty-five years during such period, by reason of which allegations Plaintiffs seek to recover title to said land under the twenty-five year statute of limitations of the State of Texas.

If this citation is not served within ninety (90) days after the date of its issuance, it shall be returned unserved.

The officer executing this process shall promptly execute the same according to law, and made due return as the law directs.

ISSUED and given under my hand and seal of said Court, at office in Big Spring, Texas, on this 6th day of October, 1978.

Ridin' fence

Thank you very much

with Marj Carpenter

The recent survey of the local area by telephone by an independent survey bureau showed some good and happy things about the Big Spring Herald.

I really appreciate the readers who said they enjoyed this column, because I enjoy writing it more than anything else I write.

It was amusing to hear some of the justified and unjustified criticisms. And rewarding to hear some of the praise.

But as they talked about errors, I remembered a paper somebody brought in recently on sentences taken from actual and true letters received in Philadelphia at the Welfare Department.

And I'd like to share them with you.

1. "I am forwarding my marriage certificate and six children. I had seven, but one died which was baptized on a half sheet of paper."

2. "I am writing the Welfare Department to say that my baby was born two years old. When do I get my money?"

3. "Mrs. Jones has not had any clothes for a year and has been visited regularly by the clergy."

4. "I cannot get sick pay, I have six children. Can you tell me why?"

5. "I am glad to report that my husband who is missing is dead."

6. "This is my eighth child. What are you going to do about it?"

7. "Please find for certain if my husband is dead. The man I am now living with cannot eat or do anything till he knows."

7. "I am very much annoyed to find you have branded my son illiterate. This is a dirty lie as I married a week before he was born."

9. "In answer to your letter, I have given birth to a boy weighing ten pounds. I hope this is satisfactory."

10. "I am forwarding my marriage certificate and three children, one of which is a mistake as you can see."

11. "Unless I get my husband's money pretty soon, I will be forced to live an immortal life."

12. "You have changed my little boy to a girl. Will this make any difference?"

13. "I want my money as quickly as I can get it. I've been in bed with the doctor for two weeks. If things don't improve, I will have to send to another doctor."

14. "In accordance with your instructions, I have given birth to twins in the enclosed envelope."

None of those have anything to do with anything, but they do show how words can get "mixed around." So we really appreciate your patience when ours do.

It's all in the way you look at it. My Pennsylvania Dutch aunt used to say, "I run the hill up and I run the hill down and there was a snake waiting for me to bite."

Then I remember the time that our own Cuban photographer, Danny Valdes was telling me that when they cleaned out the Big Spring, they found bicycles and rails and beer bottles and everything.

I said, "What kind of rails? Fence rails?"

"No," Danny said. "Railroad rails?" I asked.

"No," Danny answered, "Rails like you fish." "Oh, I answered, you mean reels." And Danny laughed.

But that's the way we managed to misunderstand as we go merrily down the road of mistakes. Thanks for your patience, Big Spring readers.

You all are wonderful — out there where I ride fence.

Dollar keeps tumbling while gold skyrockets

LONDON (AP) — The sagging dollar tumbled to new lows and the price of gold skyrocketed in early trading on Europe's money markets today amid continued concern over American economic troubles.

The price of gold jumped nearly $7 an ounce in Europe's main bullion markets, Zurich and London, as speculators sought their traditional sanctuary against monetary uncertainty in the precious metal.

Dealers said the renewed pressure on the dollar began in Tokyo and spread to Europe.

The dollar, which closed in Tokyo Friday at 179.625 yen, set three new lows today — an opening of 178.50 yen, a trading level of 178.30 and a closing 178.475.

One dealer reported: "The dollar's poor performance has to do with exporters unloading dollars during the day. They're afraid the dollar might decline even further."

Europe's markets opened after Tokyo had closed and the dollar was in trouble as soon as trading began.

A Frankfurt broker commented: "There honestly seems to be no floor for the dollar in the market's mind." The dollar opened at a new low there in nervous dealing — 1.7400 marks. It quickly dipped to 1.7388 marks, down on Friday's closer of 1.7615 marks.

Many European dealers said the dollar could go lower. "The dollar is much lower than it should be," one dealer commented. "But we have no news that makes us feel it should be on the upswing."

In Paris, the dollar fell through the 4-franc level for the first time in three years. It opened at 4.00625 francs, well down from Friday's 4.07125-franc closer, then dipped to 3.9875.

"No one seems to want dollars," a dealer said.

In Zurich, the dolar opened at 1.4982 Swiss francs, down from Friday's 1.5040-franc closer. By mid-morning it had tumbled to 1.4917 francs.

In Milan, the dollar was quoted at an unofficial 33-month low of 789.25 lire, down from Friday's 795-lire closer.

In London, the pound jumped more than 3½ cents to $2.0990, the first time it has been as high as $2.09 since mid-September, 1975. The pound closed Friday at $2.0630.

In Amsterdam, the dollar fell sharply to 1.8940 guilders in early trading from Friday's closer of 1.9400 guilders.

Some European dealers commented that only central bank intervention could stop the dollar sliding further. However, a Tokyo dealer reported that despite the U.S. currency's fall there the Japanese Central Bank made no move to prop it up.

Come in threes

By Bill Albright
Executive Vice President, Big Spring Area Ch. of Commerce Industrial Growth and Development

Good things come in threes. At least they have this past week.

The first of the 'good things' was an exceptionally outstanding Arts & Crafts Festival, sponsored by your Chamber of Commerce, and planned and organized by Mel Prather and his Arts & Crafts Committee. Favorable comments were showered on Big Spring, the new coliseum and the total operation of the Festival.

Critics and professional exhibitors rated the affair in the 'top five' in the state of Texas — and this is only the 2nd year it has been held. As of this date, 87 booths are already reserved for the 1979 Festival.

Of course, the favorable press and reputation will serve Big Spring well in future activities but the here and now benefits were evident in the more than fifty thousand visitors to the 2 day show. Affairs such as this certainly enhance our community as a convention & visitors site and establish Big Spring as a real competitor for the travel and recreation dollar.

The second good thing was a very interesting and fruitful meeting of the U.S. Chambers National Food & Agriculture Committee. Many important items requiring the recommendation of the committee were on the agenda. Among them were trade negotiations, farm marketing practices, foreign ownership of U.S. farmland, priority on exports, crop insurance, legislation and regulations pertaining to food and feed quality.

A tour of a major element of a 100,000 acre family owned and operated farm, a visit to a 42,000 acre working ranch (a part of the Texas King Ranch), an interesting visit to a very large citrus grove and a look at an extensive sugar cane operation near Belle Glade, Florida rounded out the 3 days of the meeting.

The committee will continue to minitor legislation and make recommendations to the U.S. Chamber Board of Directors. A future meeting will be held in Washington D.C. in April, 1979.

The third good thing was the "Third Annual Conference of Managers and Operators of Former Federal Installations" which was held here in Big Spring. The event brought well over a hundred visitors from 25 states, Washington D.C., Canada and Puerto Rico. The conference was hosted by Big Spring and proved to be a real success with many fine compliments concerning our hospitality.

The effort to obtain this event took place a year ago when the site was determined at the 2nd annual meeting in Topeka, Kansas. Big Spring competed against other communities and won the bid for the conference.

Such competition is very keen and reflects a dedicated effort on the part of several community leaders and groups including your Chamber of Commerce.

Our economy can continue to flourish and will grow in direct proportion to the number and frequency of such activities that bring out of town visitors to Big Spring.

You can help — you can ask your club or organization to hold its state or area or regional meeting here at the "Crossroads of West Texas", where hospitality is a way of life and progress is an every day occurance.

The force behind such a unique and envious statement as that is called — you guessed it HUSTLE! HUSTLE! HUSTLE!
