Market Demand For Texas Oil Next Three Months Set At 830,000 Barrels

PURCHASERS OF CRUDE SUBMIT THEIR FIGURES

Some Buyers Tardy With Estimates of Needs For Quarter

BIG BATTLE DELAYED

Operators Agree New Law For Curbing Output Is at Stake

AUSTIN, Dec. 29. (AP)—The market demand for oil from Texas fields during January, February and March was set at approximately 830,000 barrels daily in nominations to purchase on file today with the Texas Railroad commission.

The nominations were filed as part of the record in a state-wide hearing being held by the commission to set new proration allowables for the various fields and to consider production regulations.

Under the nominations, the market demand for January was 829,557 barrels daily, for February 833,609 barrels daily and for March 834,838 barrels daily.

Battle Delayed

Representatives of companies and persons making nominations to purchase oil were questioned at length by operators at the hearing. This procedure threatened to drag the hearing out by several days, if continued, and delayed the anticipated fight over the method of distributing the allowable in the East Texas field.

A reading of the list of purchasers who had nominated revealed that some buyers of oil had not responded to the commission's request that they send in the amount of oil they proposed taking.

Subpoenas were ordered issued for officers or representatives of the companies that had not nominated.

New Law at Stake

Senator Tom Pollard of Tyler told the commission that the market demand law, enacted by a recent special session of the Texas legislature, would "stand or fall" on the results of this hearing.

"If there are buyers of oil in Texas fields who propose to purchase but have not acceded to the commission's request for nominations so the market demand can be determined and they can not be forced to make nominations, then this law ought to be repealed," Senator Pollard said.

Jacob F. Wolters of Houston, representing the Texas company, agreed with Pollard that the market demand law faced its tests in results of this hearing.

Discourage Drilling

J. A. Elkins, representing the Pure Oil company, answering questions said he believed the railroad commission should issue some kind of an order that would prevent unreasonable and unnecessary drilling in the East Texas field.

"Unless something is done to interrupt the rampant drilling campaign, instead of there being 300 wells in East Texas without connections there soon will be 1,000," Elkins stated.

Elkins undertook to explain the attitude of J. Edgar Pew, of the Sun company, toward the situation created by a number of wells being without pipe line connections.

He said that he (Elkins) had undertaken, as a "go between," to state Pew's attitude to a group of East Texans, it being Pew's idea that something should be done by the commission to discourage unnecessary drilling in East Texas and that the commission should take into consideration, in fixing production allowables, acreage involved and other factors.

Denies "Ultimatum"

"It was Mr. Pew's idea that the commission could not fix a legal

HUMBLE TO BUY STORED CRUDE

Company Offers to Take 20 Per Cent of Oil

HOUSTON, Dec. 29. (AP)—The Humble Oil and Refining company late today announced an offer, effective immediately, to purchase 20 per cent of all crude oil stored with it in the East Texas field at the company's prevailing price of 75 cents per barrel. The offer, it was said by the company, affects in no way its standing policy of buying 60 per cent and storing 40 per cent of the oil offered in the field, applying only to oil now stored with Humble.

In addition to offering 75 cents per barrel, the company likewise said it would pay the 10 cents per barrel gathering charge heretofore assessed by the Humble Pipe Line company.

The announcement concluded:

"There are accrued charges (other than gathering charges) against East Texas crude oil in storage with Humble Pipe Line company, and it will be necessary that settlement be made for allsuch accruedcharges against the portion purchased and for Humble Oil and Refining commade for all such accrued charges and settle therefor with Humble Pipe Line company. In making settlement for oil so purchased, it will pay the value thereof as stated above, less such charges.

"This offer is subject to immediate acceptance by the several interested storers; and Humble Oil and Refining company reserves the right to withdraw same at any time without notice before written acceptance by the several storers is received."

Irish Extend Boycott To British Hangman

DUBLIN, Dec. 29. (UP)—The Irish Free State's boycott against Great Britain was extended today to include a British hangman.

The official British executioner, L. Pierpont, came to Dublin to execute Patrick McDermott, a young farmer convicted of killing his brother. The execution took place outside Mountjoy prison.

A crowd staged a demonstration outside the prison during the hanging, carrying banners with the inscription: "An English hangman destroys an Irishman! Is this justice?"

Grave Situation Facing Schools, Lynn Points Out

AUSTIN, Dec. 29. (AP)—A grave situation is faced by the state as the result of the financial condition of the available school fund, Moore Lynn, state auditor, said today in a report to Gov. R. S. Sterling on the status of Texas' main educational fund.

Lynn's report showed that if the per capita apportionment of $17.50 was to be maintained during 1934 and 1935 and if claims for additional state aid amounting to $843,200 were to be paid, the additional revenue required would be in excess of $19,810,000. The per capita apportionment for the current year, however, has been reduced to $16.

"The situation must be faced squarely," Lynn stated. "Nothing is to be gained by further postponement of the day of reckoning. Additional tax funds must be obtained from some source or state expenditures for schools will have to be decreased far below the level of $17.50."

Reduce Per Capita

Based on estimates made by Lynn, the funds now in sight for 1934 and 1935 would allow the payment of a per capita apportionment of $11.44 each year, as compared with $16.21 paid, and to be paid, in the years 1930 to 1932, inclusive.

Lynn stated the total cost of education to the state and its political subdivisions in 1931 was in excess of $83,280,000, of which more than $73,960,000 was spent for the public

Wounded Man Admits Stage Coach Robbery

DEMING, N. M., Dec. 29. (UP)—From a hospital bed, where he is suffering from a bullet hole in his abdomen, John Youschak, 29, Garfield, N. J. tonight confessed the holdup Tuesday of the Golden Eagle stage between Lordsburg and Deming, N. M., according to Sheriff Jess Thorn of Luna county.

Youschak was shot by Deputy Sheriff Bob Johnson today when the latter sought to arrest him at Columbus, N. M.

According to Sheriff Thorn, the confession was obtained after the stage driver and other witnesses had identified Youschak as the holdup man. Youschak is expected to recover.

Entry List Of 500 Birds Expected As Poultry Show Opens At Vernon Today

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Dec. 29.—An entry list of more than 500 birds of breeders in this section is expected here Friday morning with the opening of the second annual show of the Wilbarger County Poultry association. Final arrangements for the event, which will continue through Monday, have been completed by a committee composed of Adam Donges, show superintendent, L. P. Kramer, assistant superintendent, and J. E. Stegall.

The show will officially open at 11 o'clock Friday morning at the Hawkins-Williams building. Judging of exhibits will probably start Friday afternoon and will probably be completed Friday night or Saturday. Exhibits will remain both Sunday and Monday after judging has been completed.

I. L. Bandy of Godley, a licensed judge of the American Poultry association and generally regarded as one of the ranking poultry judges in the state, will judge the exhibits.

Entrants for the show will include chickens, turkeys, geese, ducks, and eggs. Premium ribbons

DEMO LEADERS DECIDE TO GIVE F. R. FULL SWAY

Broad Authority for New President to Reduce Costs Favored

KILL HOOVER'S PLANS

Reorganization Bill Will Carry Rider Allowing Executive Power

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. (AP)—Undecided upon an immediate program for balancing the budget, house Democrats approached the problem by the economy route today and proposed that broad authority be given President-elect Roosevelt to cut government costs through reorganization.

The Republicans, meanwhile, appeared to be concentrating on a move to enact a manufacturers sales tax, which the incoming chief executive's advisors say he definitely opposes.

Although looking for new sources of revenue, the Democratic leaders indicated they were looking to Mr. Roosevelt for guidance in the matter. The ways and means committee will consider the whole problem next Wednesday.

Keeping F. D. Posted

Although Speaker Garner made no statement as to whether he will go to Albany to confer with the governor, it was evident that the president-elect will be kept constantly apprised of the situation as it develops.

Coincident with their move to give Roosevelt power to cut costs by abolishing or consolidating federal agencies, the house Democrats set themselves to kill the reorganization program submitted to congress by President Hoover under the economy law enacted last year.

Chairman Cochran expects the house expenditures committee to take action next week on his resolution to block the changes proposed by Hoover. It will be brought in for house disposal and with the Democrats in control, its adoption is almost assured.

To Attach Rider

Under the reorganization plan as discussed by Speaker Garner and advocated by Representative Rainey of Illinois, Democratic floor leader, and Chairman Byrns of the appropriations committee, a rider—giving Roosevelt the proposed authority—is to be attached to one of the regular appropriation bills either in the senate or house. It would provide that congress have the right to pass upon any recommendation made, Byrns explained.

"I have concluded that congress can not effect such reorganization without the effective and active support of the president," Byrns, a Tennessee Democrat, said. "Congress would have the right in the last analysis to pass upon the president's budgetary estimates."

Cut Supply Bill

While the house Democratic leaders were talking economy today, numerous unsuccessful attempts were made to whittle down the $110,000,000 supply bill for the agriculture department. Many Republicans supported the slashes, most of which, however, were proposed by Democrats. The house will resume consideration of the measure tomorrow.

On motion by Representative McGugin, Republican, Kansas, to kill the agriculture department bill on

Hoover Fishing Party Anchor at Palm Beach

PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 29. (UP)—President Hoover and his party dropped anchor tonight off the Sail Fish club at Palm Beach after a troublesome day's voyage on the yacht Sequoia during which they frequently were stuck fast in the mud of the narrow, shallow channel of the inland Florida passage.

The president was greeted by a delegation headed by Mayor E. B. Donnell of West Palm Beach. The delegation went out in a cabin cruiser to greet him and found the Sequoia stuck in the mud at the head waters of Lake Worth, just off Palm Beach.

Stimson and Davis Talk World Affairs

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (AP)—Secretary of State Stimson and "America's ambassador at large," Norman H. Davis, compared viewpoints today on a number of problems affecting the amity and prosperity of the world.

Mr. Davis frequently has been mentioned as a possible successor to Mr. Stimson in the forthcoming Roosevelt cabinet.

Neither man had any comment to make for publication after the meeting, which was understood to have been for the purpose of discussing the forthcoming London economic conference.

Paraguayans Repulse Attacks by Bolivians

Heaving Mountain Threatens To Push Another Over On Durango

DURANGO, Colo., Dec. 29. (AP)—Carbon mountain shook and groaned and tossed more tons of rock down its scarred slopes today as Durango citizens gave serious thought to forecasts it might nudge its neighbor, Smelter mountains, over into the town.

Smelter mountain, which rises steeply from the edge of the city, is between Durango and Carbon mountain. Geologists said the fault causing the carbon mountain slides extended into Smelter mountain and that the latter might become active at any time.

There were many theories as to the cause of the movement.

Prof. Claude E. Needham of the New Mexico School of Mines, here to study the phenomenon, has inspected the mountain, and after considering all causes for similar actions, found none of them quite fit this case. Caving of underground caverns or mines, working of rock deposits on slippery foundations and many other theories have been examined and discarded.

Durango folk who have been quite pleased with the back door show of a full grown mountain doing a tumbling act, hurried out to take another look today when possibility of damage to the town was revealed.

It generally was agreed the prospect of Carbon pushing Smelter over into the town was not nearly so entertaining as the phenomenon had been when it was three miles away. No action has been noted in Smelter mountain, but residents who live at the base of its towering cliffs were preparing to evacuate at the first rumble.

A heavy snow which fell on the torn and scarred face of the mountain today was hurled off in showering cascades when the north and south fault became active.

The main east and west action,

NEW OFFICERS TO TAKE REINS

Courthouse Adminstrations Change Monday

Six county officials and one district judge who emerged victorious in last August's Democratic primary over a large beginning field will attain the final objectives of their campaigns next Monday morning when they are formally inducted into office to begin serving first terms.

Judge Irvin J. Vogel is the member of the group who has been graduated, by action of Wichita county voters, from the county's immediate official family to the rank of district judge. After serving two terms as judge of the county court of law, Judge Vogel was elected last summer over Judge W. W. Cook incumbent, and will become judge of the 78th district court Monday.

Changes in Official Family

H. W. Fillmore, one of the youngest attorneys ever to win election to a public office in this county, will be sworn in as judge of the county court at law. Mr. Fillmore outran three other young and popular local lawyers in the campaign of last spring and summer to gain the post.

Four other new officials will take office on the main floor of the courthouse Monday. They will be

Murder Charges Dismissed Against Deaf Mute

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 29. (UP)—A meek little man stepped up almost apologetically to police headquarters last March and slid a note across the desk. It said:

"I just shot a man."

Norman D. Hunt was arrested. Officers learned he was a deaf mute. Through interpreters they were told he killed Louis Coleman, another deaf mute, after a quarrel in sign language. Hunt accused the victim of paying attention to his wife.

Today Hunt got an answer to that terse note. It was from the prosecutor's office, and read:

"First degree murder charges against you have been dismissed."

Once tried, Hunt's jury failed to reach a verdict.

Acting Governor And Governor-Elect Squabble

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Dec. 29. (AP)—Wyoming's gubernatorial squabble today assumed an interesting aspect as Acting Governor A. M. Clark, Republican, exercised the executive right of pardon and commutation.

Clark's right to retain the gubernatorial chair is challenged by Governor-elect Leslie A. Miller, Democrat, who on Tuesday qualified for the office and assumed the role of chief executive five days in advance of his inauguration.

The governor's extension of executive clemency was to seven prisoners or former prisoners.

Clark said his acts of executive clemency were valid in view of his status as acting governor with full authority until next Monday.

Mexican Envoy to U. S. Named Foreign Minister

MEXICO CITY, Dec. 29. (AP)—The appointment of Dr. Jose Manuel Puig Casaurane, Mexican ambassador to Washington, to the post of minister of foreign relations was announced by the government tonight.

He will take the oath of office Jan. 2, succeeding Manuel C. Tellez, who may return to his old post as Mexico's envoy at Washington.

Governors Vote Enforced Cotton Reduction Plan

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 29. (AP)—A compulsory 50 per cent curtailment of next year's cotton crop was endorsed here tonight by the Southwide conference of governors as a means of bolstering the price of the staple.

The proposal, which carried the approval of Governors Conner of Mississippi and Blackwood of South Carolina, as well as representatives of the governors of Texas, Tennessee, Louisiana, Alabama, and Oklahoma, did not have unanimous agreement.

One minority report was submitted by Charles T. Coleman of Little Rock, representing Gov. Harvey Parnell of Arkansas. Another minority report came from Tom Linder, representing Governor-elect Talmadge of Georgia, a proponent of a cotton holiday for 1934.

The report adopted called upon federal authorities to provide loans to owners of occupied farms for the purpose of paying taxes for at least two years, and urged the granting of a two-year moratorium on farm mortgage foreclosures.

Not only was the report opposed by the official Arkansas delegation which sought an endorsement for the plan of Bob Snowden of Hughes, which embraced a demand for the abolition of the farm board and the repeal of the federal marketing act, and by the Georgia cotton holiday enthusiasts, but there was a dissenting voice in Governor Blackwood's own delegation.

Endorsing the Arkansas minority report, State Senator Carroll Nance of South Carolina jumped to his feet to say, "I'm dumb if I believe that report (majority) is going to get us anywhere."

"You can record my vote against the whole business," Nance continued. "I want to know what's accomplished. What we ought to do is memorialize congress not to lend us any more money for seed to grow stuff we can't sell."

Governor Blackwood said he personally favored a voluntary cotton acreage reduction, but that he had submerged his personal ideas in an effort "to do the best I can" with the problem.

Governor Conner expressed belief the conference had been fruitless of accomplishment in "presenting a definite proposal to the governors."

The Georgia report termed the majority report an acknowledgment of failure and said it "will convey the idea that this conference is deliberately sidestepping responsibility to take positive action."

COURT DENIES JUDD REVIEW

Attorneys Plan Appeal To U. S. Supreme Court

PHOENIX, Ariz., Dec. 29. (UP)—The Arizona supreme court today denied the petition of Winnie Ruth Judd's attorneys to grant her a rehearing on its decision upholding her sentence to death.

The supreme court handed down its denial shortly after the state attorney general's motion protesting the rehearing petition was filed with the tribunal.

The supreme court in its first decision denied Mrs. Judd's appeal from the sentence of deat' for the murder of Agnes Ann Leroi and set the date for her hanging as next Feb. 17.

Attorneys for Mrs. Judd contended Superior Judge Joseph Jenckes of Maricopa county was disqualified from sitting on the supreme court bench to hear the appeal.

With the declaration that he "expected the supreme court to deny our petition for a rehearing," O. V. Willson, chief of Mrs. Judd's legal staff, said he would immediately take her case before the United States supreme court through a writ of habeas corpus and a writ of certiorari. He said further efforts to save Mrs. Judd from the gallows would be hampered by lack of funds.

Meanwhile, the Maricopa county grand jury, which yesterday heard Mrs. Judd "tell all," postponed any action in its efforts to determine the identity of an alleged accessory said to have placed the bodies of Mrs. Leroi and Hedvig Samuelson in trunks, first dismembering that of Miss Samuelson.

Mrs. Judd was reported to have testified she did not dismember Miss Samuelson's body.

The grand jury is to meet tomorrow.

Rainey Wants Hoover To Keep on Fishing

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. (UP)—House Democratic Floor Leader Henry T. Rainey wants President Hoover to keep on fishing until March 4.

"The nation has lost confidence in Mr. Hoover and I hope he will continue to do what he is doing now," Rainey said in a statement. "It would be beneficial if President Hoover would stay fishing for the rest of his administration."

Montague-Clay Poultrymen Plan To Expand And Market Other Products

Special to The Record News.

SUNSET, Texas, Dec. 29.—J. W. Davis, secretary of the Montague-Clay Poultry Producers association, stated that plans have been made for the reorganization and enlargement of this association. Efforts will be made for the cooperative marketing of all kinds of farm products as well as poultry. Farmers in the many communities in Montague and Clay counties will be invited to join this association. None but farmers, poultrymen and dairymen will be allowed to hold membership.

The directors of the association will meet in Bowie, Saturday morning, Dec. 31, and discuss the plans for reorganizing. If the final decision results favorably to the present plans, a company will be formed and stock will be sold, at $10 a share, to provide funds with which to build a large warehouse and cold storage plant in Bowie.

Bowie will be the headquarters and marketing center of this association. If the plans are carried out completely, farm products will be shipped from the Bowie warehouse in carlots. These shipments will include any sort of farm and truck farm products that may be

FIFTH VICTIM MAY SUCCUMB TO GUN WOUND

Crazed Murderer Killed By Guard After Rampage In Arizona

TWO OFFICERS TEXANS

Slain Captain and Wounded Lieutenant Natives Of Lone Star State

FORT HUACHUCA, Ariz., Dec. 29, (AP)—In a sudden, crazed onslaught, a negro private sped about this historic western army camp with a pistol today, slew two captains and their wives and seriously wounded a lieutenant before he was killed by the military guard.

The apparently demented negro was shot down by the guard as he was firing at Lieut. Harvie R. Matthews.

The whole carnage, which took the lives of two officers who were majors in the world war, was over in a brief few minutes.

Those killed were Captain and Mrs. Davis A. Palmer and Captain and Mrs. Joseph R. Wessley and the negro, identified only as Abernathy.

Army post officers said the reason for the shooting had not been determined.

Drives to Home

Abernathy, they said, started his murderous rampage by shooting and instantly killing Captain Wessley at the army gasoline service station, where Abernathy was attendant.

The negro took the officer's automobile, drove to the captain's home and killed Mrs. Wessley. He then rode to the home of the Palmers and shot them.

Coming outside, Abernathy wounded Lieutenant Matthews and then himself was shot dead by the military guard.

Colonel Notified

Col. R. S. Knox, commanding officer of the 25th infantry, to which the officers belonged, left Nogales by automobile tonight for Fort Huachuca to direct an investigation. The colonel was informed of the tragedy by army radio.

His regiment has been concentrated here because of plans of the war department to abandon Camp Stephen D. Little here and Camp Harry Jones at Douglas, Ariz.

Home addresses of the victims could not be ascertained immediately.

Captain Palmer, a 42-year-old native of Massachusetts, became a major during the world war as an emergency officer, reverting to the grade of captain in 1920. He was a graduate of three service schools—command and staff, infantry and signal corps.

Two Victims Texans

A native of Texas, Captain Wessley, 56, also was a world war emergency officer, likewise having served as a major. He joined the army in 1906, advancing from the private ranks. He was a graduate

Last of Mine Victims Found by Rescuers

MOWEAQUA, Ill., Dec. 29. (AP)—Rescuers today came upon the bodies of the last seven of 54 miners entrapped in the Moweaqua Coal company's mine Christmas eve.

The discovery ended the possibility that the men might have barricaded themselves safely in the far end of the north tunnel of the mine against the deadly gas which permeated the mine after an explosion.

The last seven, like those of the others whose bodies have been recovered a few at a time daily since the disaster, had died instantly.

Harvard Students Killed As Plane Plunges in Sea

WINTHROP, Mass., Dec. 29. (UP)—A plane piloted by a Harvard student and containing another as passenger, plunged into the sea and sank late today between here and Nahant.

Those in the craft were reported to be Edward Mallinkrodt of St. Louis, a Harvard freshman, and Donald W. Frost of Dover, Mass., also a freshman at Harvard.

A crew from the Nahant coast guard station grappled for the plane. Other aircraft flew overhead seeking to locate it under water.

Garner Place to Be Unfilled for Some Time

AUSTIN, Dec. 29. (UP)—Speaker John Garner's Southwest Texas district will be unrepresented in the house for some time after March 4, 1933, under a ruling the attorney general of Texas has sent to the speaker.

The hiatus will result from the legal tangle caused by Garner's concurrent election last month to the vice presidency and to another term in the house.

CRUDE DEMAND FOR TEXAS SET

Hearing Nears Start of Big Fight Over 'Method'

allowable order unless it considered a combination of the principal factors involved," Elkins explained.

Elkins said that he believed a statement by Carl Estes, of Tyler, president of the East Texas Producers and Royalty Owners association, that Mr. Pew had sent an "ultimatum" in behalf of a "group of majors" that unless acreage was considered in fixing a basis of proration "no more oil would be taken from East Texas," had done the Sun company official an injustice.

"I am certain that Mr. Estes did not mean his statement to sound like it did," he said.

The market demand for the East Texas field was set in the nominations at 304,000 barrels daily during January, 305,000 barrels daily during February and 306,000 barrels daily during March. Under the last order of the commission the field was allowed to produce 310,000 barrels daily and certain of the East Texas operators indicated they would vigorously oppose any effort to keep the field's production at or below this figure.

Total Is 789,845

The total state production allowed under the current order of the commission is 789,845 barrels daily, the nominations for future production representing a considerable increase over the present allowable.

Nominations for oil from Southwest Texas fields during January totaled 48,476 barrels daily during January; 48,401 barrels daily for February and 48,396 barrels daily during March.

In the gulf coast field nominations for January were 112,272 barrels daily; 113,272 daily for February and 114,772 daily for March.

Purchases nominated from the Conroe field for January were 27,-statement by Carl Estes of Tyler, 500 daily; 30,000 daily for February and 30,500 daily for March.

Nominations daily for other fields were:

North Texas, 59,457 barrels in January; 60,684 daily in February; 59,668 barrels in March.

West Texas, 144,063 barrels in each January and February and March.

West Central Texas, 13,197 barrels in each January, February and March.

Panhandle Figures

Panhandle, January, 45,727 barrels; February 43,627 barrels; March 43,627 barrels.

Stringent enforcement of the railroad commission's orders was urged by W. S. Farish, president of the Humble Oil and Refining company, in appearing before the commission to explain his company's nominations. Farish pointed out that production in the East Texas field in the past was reported as having exceeded by as high as 40,000 barrels daily the allowable set by the commission.

"Some have said the allowable was exceeded as much as 100,000 barrels daily, but I do not believe the excess went that high; I think about 40,000 barrels is nearer correct," Farish said.

Questioning of witnesses by Jack Blalock of Marshall, representing East Texas independents, however, failed to throw any light on where the alleged excess production came from, who transported it or where it went.

In answering Farish's urge for strict enforcement, Ernest O. Thompson, member of the commission, said "the time has come when the people can be positively assured that the allowables will be enforced by the East Texans themselves."

Thompson asserted that it would not even require a constable to see that the railroad commission's orders in East Texas were respected, saying, "the situation has developed to such an extent an operator in East Texas who does not obey this commission's orders will be ostracized."

"He will be unable to do business there," Thompson said.

Promises Enforcement

Under the law, Thompson said, the commission has the power to place companies that violate its orders into receivership. "We intend to enforce that provision of the law without exception," he said.

Consideration of acreage has been protested by a group of East Texas operators as a factor in determining the distribution of the field's allowable. The last order of the commission prorated production in East Texas on a combination per well, bottom hole pressure and acreage basis.

A. M. Donohue, head of the purchasing department of the Texas company, said his company was cooperating in the movement to give all wells in East Texas connections and that it expected to assume approximately 25 or 30 of the 300 wells not now connected.

Farish said his company was not in a position to take any more connections and said it now was taking more oil ratably than it could sell. The Humble is willing to make connections to any well but would not buy any more oil than it can consume. If the allowable production is based on market demand, the connections automatically will take care of themselves, Farish said.

Tells of Offers

Farish said he was not informed as to what pipe lines were moving the excess production in East Texas but said crude had been offered his company at below the market price by brokers but that his company had not purchased or transported the excess oil.

Donohue said that if the Texas company was not allowed to take all the oil it nominated from a particular field, it would take the same type of oil from any other field in which it had connections. He testified the Texas company was purchasing approximately 60 per cent of the oil it consumed and was producing 40 per cent from its own holdings.

The answers today are to letters selected at random after shuffling and mixing all unanswered questions during Madame Holton's visit in Wichita Falls.

T. H. W.—Please tell me if I will marry H. H.?

Answer—The impression you will not. You will marry W. W. N.

H. G.—Will I move to El Paso this coming year, and should I?

Answer—I get the impression you would be better off to stay here. You may make this move, but best not to, until June.

Mrs. S. M.—Is my son going to help with my support in the future?

Answer—Yes. I see that after next April he will support you.

P. P.—Is the mine going to bring me any money during 1933?

Answer—Yes, I see after next October you will make money with it.

G. F.—Do you see our business will pick up? Should we sell out?

Answer—Do not sell out. It seems most advisable to keep it.

Y. P. T.—Are we going to move East next June? Is it advisable?

Answer—It is advisable, and you will have success through the move.

S. B. C.—Dear Madame Holton. You answered my question over the radio about three years ago. Please tell me if my husband and I will continue to live together?

Answer—The impression comes to me that you will get a divorce soon. I advise you to stay together until the right time comes.

V. N.—Am I going to get the letter from my friend? And why did I not get it before?

Answer—This letter has been lost in the mails. However, I see you will get this letter soon. Looks like within 48 hours.

G. G. F.—Is the misunderstanding between my mother-in-law and me ever going to be forgotten and ended?

Answer—I advise you to forget this. Go to her, and explain the circumstances and she will understand, and forgive you.

R. E.—Does my ex-wife love me? Will she cause me any trouble?

Answer—She loves you and will cause you no trouble. If she did not love you, then she would like to cause trouble. She would like to have you back, but is too independent to ask you to come back to her. She surely loves you.

D. B.—Will I sell the land, which lies south of here, close in.

Answer—I get an impression you should place an ad in this paper. In doing so, a person will read it, who will buy it.

Q. S.—Would I do well as a teacher? And, should I try?

Answer—By all means, try. You are cut out for a good teacher.

T. S.—Will I find my purse? Where is it?

Answer—Your purse is misplaced. I get an impression it is in your own home. You will soon run across it. Seems to be on or near a shelf where many papers are placed.

P. L. I.—Will conditions change for me in the future?

Answer—A great improvement is shown for you starting after March.

J. J. J.—Will my son-in-law live off of his people as long as daughter will stay?

Answer—These people should live alone and both sides of the family should not have anything to say about it. They can get along all right if they try hard enough. He will make a living for her.

W. E. W.—Will we make a success of this business?

Answer—You can make a success but it will be hard for the next few months. It seems it would be most advisable for you to sell.

S. W.—Who should I marry, under which zodiac sign?

Answer—You are born under the sign of Scorpio and should marry some one under your own sign or Pisces or Cancer and expect three children.

R. F. T.—Will my husband get his job back?

Answer—It does not seem he will get his position back. He should be working for himself.

F. J.—Madame Holton you answered my question from the stage Sunday but I could not understand all of it, will I ever get over my deafness? What is your address.

Answer—You will never be completely cured but a big improvement is shown. My permanent address is 1142 East Seventeenth street, No. Portland, Ore.

N. R.—Will I get the position I expect?

Answer—You will get the position and it will be steady.

Light Rain Falls As Mercury Drops

A misting rain was falling in Wichita Falls at midnight Thursday and the entire horizon was hazy with overhanging clouds. The mercury took a sharp turn downward at 10:30 o'clock and stood at 45 degrees at midnight. The light breeze of Thursday changed from the northwest to the north and was increasing in velocity at that hour.

AUTO STOLEN

Ross Crittenden, 1105 Polk, asked police to aid in recovering his 1928 green Chevrolet coach Thursday night after it was taken from the 800 block on Seventh between 8 and 10 o'clock.

DALLAS, Dec. 29. (UP)—Three persons were burned about the face and hands when a gas stove exploded in a filling station here today. They are A. C. Turner, 38, Carl D. Beaty, 32, and R. E. Bentley, 41.

SCHOOL FUND FACES PLIGHT

State Auditor Reports To Governor Sterling

free schools. One-third of the cost of the public schools was derived from the per capita apportionment out of the available school fund.

Maintenance of the per capita apportionment at $16.21 would require more than $14,930,000 in additional funds for the two-year period, Lynn estimated. A reduction of one dollar in the per capita apportionment reduced the amount of taxes required by $3,130,000.

The plight of the school fund was attributed by Lynn to adoption of the constitutional amendment exempting homesteads to the value of $3,000 from state taxation and to a deficit inherited in 1933 from 1932, which probably will be passed through 1934 and 1935. The homestead exemption amendment was expected to reduce the income of the available school fund by $6,000,000 for the two years.

The deficit in the available school fund originated in 1931 when the state was able to pay only $16 of its per capita apportionment of $17.50. The $1.50 remaining from 1931 was paid in 1932 and only $14 of the apportionment for that year was paid, leaving a balance of $3.50 per student to be paid out of 1933 funds. If this is paid, the prospects are that an apportionment of $12.33 will be the limit that can be paid in 1933.

Action of the state board of education in fixing the apportionment for 1933 at $16 was criticized by Lynn. Its attempt to protect the schools from a bad situation in 1933, by postponing the liquidation of its $4,800,000 deficit, has had the effect of bringing the school system to a point where it faces an even worse situation for 1934 and 1935, Lynn stated.

Lynn said the board's power to apportion funds not reasonably anticipated had been questioned and the attorney general had been asked for an opinion.

Recommendation was made by Lynn that a careful search be made for every practical means of effecting economies without injury to the schools, and that new sources of taxation be tapped only in an extremity.

Among his recommendations was one which would reduce the number of administrative school districts from 7,425 to not more than 250 or 300 units. The school districts are administered by 27,685 trustees. Under the present set up, the school system is not organized for economy and efficiency in operation and a reorganization along business lines would result in important savings in overhead and administrative costs, Lynn said.

Lynn recommended that $50,000 annually be saved by eliminating the school census and placing distribution of the per capita apportionment on the base of attendance. Centralized purchasing also should be initiated, he said.

The report pointed out that estimates of the prospective status of the fund were based on present conditions. Conditions in the East Texas oil field are so uncertain that the estimates from the gross receipts tax on oil may fall far short since a reduction of 25 cents a barrel in oil would cause the schools to lose $360,000 annually, Lynn reported.

which runs from the floor of the Animas valley to the top of the mountain, had subsided today but had not ceased. The north and south action, however, increased greatly and new crevices appeared, several of them scarring the solid Mesa sandstone formation which crops out near the top. The action began almost two weeks ago.

Demo Leaders Bow To New Executive

the ground that no more funds should be expended until there is sufficient revenue, was defeated 52 to 1.

Majority Leader Rainey told newspaper men that in forming whatever revenue legislation the Democrats plan to propose "we can't trust the estimates of the treasury department as to the income of the federal government." He added:

"The Republican treasury department will have to be cleaned out so we can get some reliable information."

He charged that the "policy of the present administration and the Republican leaders is apparent" and that they "intend to block every effort of the Democrats for economy at the short session."

Big Slashes Made

Rainey said that already $425,724,000 had been cut by the house on the first three supply bills—treasury-postoffice, interior and agriculture—as compared with the present present office, interior and agriculture—as compared with the present fiscal year's outlays. He added this was $33,637,000 below the budget.

With the passage of the beer bill and the continuation of the gasoline tax, and economies to be effected, he said he hoped it would not be necessary for the Democrats to propose any "irritable taxes" and said he did not believe the sales tax could pass either in this or the coming congress.

In a letter to Chairman Cochran, Representative Griffin, Democrat, New York, asked for a hearing on his bill providing for a special tax of one cent on each dollar of gross income of individuals and corporations. He estimated it would yield $1,000,000,000 annually.

NEGRO SLAYS TWO COUPLES

Army Officers and Wives Killed at Fort

of the motor transport school of the quartermaster service.

Also a native Texan, Lieutenant Matthews, 33, was graduated with honors from the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical college at College Station, Texas.

Attending the officers training school during the war, he received his first regular commission in 1921 and became a first lieutenant in 1926.

Former Cavalry Post

This army post has been noted for years as a Mexican border cavalry garrison. Only recently has infantry been located here.

For many years the 10th United States cavalry (negro) was garrisoned here, and several of its companies were moved to guard encampments along the Arizona-Mexico border during the Mexican revolution of 1929.

Killings like those of today are not recalled in modern annals of the garrison, officers said.

Slayings have taken place, resulting from quarrels between enlisted men, but in nearly every instance they have occurred away from the post headquarters.

Officials Puzzled

Post officers, led in a preliminary inquiry by their commander, Lieut. Col. M. C. Tomlinson, expressed belief Abernathy either became suddenly deranged and attacked Captain Wessley without rational cause or had been laboring under some fancied urge for revenge upon commanding officers.

They believed Captain Wessley scarce had time to suspect an attack before the negro's first bullet toppled him from his car at the post gasoline station, where he had halted to have his machine serviced.

In December, 1930, Abernathy, a sergeant at that time, was released to civil authorities of Coshise county for trial on a manslaughter charge. He was acquitted.

The charge grew out of an automobile accident in Douglas, Ariz., in which a man was killed.

Prior to that time, Abernathy had been reported by his superior officers to have maintained a high character rating.

Captain Wessley was appointed from San Antonio, Texas, in 1917. Mrs. Wessley was from Cedar Rapids, Iowa. Lieutenant Matthews, who was wounded in the legs, but will recover, surgeons said, received his appointment from Chapel Hill, Texas, in 1921. The slayer, James H. Abernathy, negro private of the quartermaster's corps enlisted at Houston, Texas.

Captain and Mrs. Palmer leave two children, David 12, and Polly 10. David hid his sister in a closet and ran out of the house to spread the alarm when his parents were killed.

Captain Palmer received his appointment to the army from Beverly, Mass., and Mrs. Palmer formerly was Miss Mary Lowden of Bedham, Mass.

French Deputies Vote To Extend Loan To Austria

PARIS, Dec. 29. (AP)—The chamber of deputies, by a vote of 351 to 187, tonight authorized the government to participate in the projected reconstruction loan for Austria, which will mean an advance by France of approximately $14,000,000.

Former Premier Herriot, who was responsible for French policy on the Austrian loan question when he headed the government, vigorously defended it before the chamber.

One of the principal opponents of the action was Deputy Henry Haye, who said:

"Two weeks ago we refused to pay 500,000,000 francs to those to whom we owed something. Are we going to give 350,000,000 to those to whom we owe nothing?"

Farmers Plan To Market Products

grown and marketed by members of the association in the future. All kinds of poultry, eggs and cream will be marketed cooperatively. Mr. Davis said members of the association have already been offered 3 cents a pound above the ordinary market price for cream.

Since its organization three years ago, approximately 35,000 turkeys have been marketed through this association, bringing to the members more than $100,000. These producers have succeeded in getting the prevailing top prices for their marketable turkeys every year.

This association was started three years ago, in October, by a few men who conceived the idea that they could get a better price for their turkeys by marketing cooperatively than they could by selling individually. They organized, succeeded with the venture and have held on until they now have the prospect of going forward with the most promising organization that the farmers of this country have ever had the privilege of joining.

FREDERICK MAN SHOT TO DEATH

Rejected Suitor Killed At Girl's Home

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., Dec. 29.—A woman's rejection of his proposal of marriage was held indirectly responsible for the slaying of Earl Martin, 41, of Frederick, at a farm home near Davidson today. Fred White, 39, is in the custody of county authorities after having been charged with murder of Martin, who died instantly with a charge of birdshot from a shotgun in his chest. A preliminary hearing will be held for White at 10 o'clock Friday morning at the courthouse here.

To a representative of The Record News White described the shooting and said that he shot in self-defense as Martin advanced upon him, tugging at a gun in his pocket. A .44 caliber loaded revolver was found on Martin's body.

Difficulty leading to the shooting, White said, arose over Ruby Wood, 31, whom Martin sought to marry but who had repeatedly rejected the slain man's advances.

Martin, it was revealed, had proposed marriage to Miss Wood on Christmas day and had been rejected. Today, after dressing meticulously, he drove to the White farm, where Miss Wood is housekeeper for Fred White and his brother, Lee White, her cousins, again to press his plea that she marry him.

The woman repeated that she would not marry Martin, and, White said, the rejected suitor began swearing at Miss Wood.

White said he thought Martin was about to strike her and he ordered the man to leave the home. He said White then started toward him, reaching for the gun, which apparently became hung in the holster. As Martin advanced on him, White said he reached for a shotgun standing in the corner of the room and leveled it at Martin, telling his brother, Lee, who was in the room, to disarm the visitor. Martin continued to advance, and as he reached arm's length of White the shotgun was fired. The charge struck the man in the chest and also ripped off two fingers of the left hand. White said he was not sure but that he believed Martin seized the barrel of the gun a moment before it was fired.

The White farm is located a mile south and two miles west of Davidson, which is 12 miles south of Frederick.

Both principals in the slaying were well-known residents of the county. Both were war veterans. Martin formerly was a produce dealer in Frederick but recently had been employed by the Fairmount creamery here. He had been divorced from Mrs. Marie Martin who resides here with two children Helen May, 11, and James, 9. White was defeated in the Democratic primary race for county weigher.

Faith Masonic Lodge Observes Anniversary

A large group of Wichita Falls Master Masons joined the membership of Faith lodge No. 1158 Thursday night for celebration of the 11th anniversary of its organization. The program arranged for the occasion presented detailed lodge reports and talks on Masonic work.

A report presented by P. B. Curd revealed the lodge in good financial condition, according to Secretary C. O. Simmons. Other reports were discussion of the Masonic home by W. R. Creamer, lodge attendance by G. W. L. Spencer, and the recent grand lodge meeting by W. H. Caldwell.

Better Than Whiskey For Colds and Coughs

The sensation of the drug trade is Aspironal, the two-minute relief for colds and coughs due to colds. Authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed, and proclaimed by the people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, rock and rye, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are supplied with the wonderful elixir, so all you have to do is to step into the nearest drug store, ask for a bottle of Aspironal and tell the clerk to serve you two teaspoonfuls. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel the distressing symptoms of your cold or cough fading away within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

Take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and children, for Aspironal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for children as well as adults. Quickest relief for catarrhal croup and children's choking up at night.—Adv.

CITY TESTS GAS METERS

Engineer's Services Offered Wichitans

Services of the city engineer's department are available to local citizens for the testing of gas or electric meters, Mayor Walter Nelson Jr., announced Thursday after having received numerous complaints from local gas consumers relative to November gas bills.

Belief that meters at their homes either were not read, or that they are defective, was expressed by various complainants, Mayor Nelson said. For the information of such gas users, he outlined the provision made in the city's charter for the testing of meters through which fuel, power, etc., may be run by utilities concerns here.

Any customer may obtain examination of his meter, and accurate testing of its operation, by applying to the city engineer and posting a 50 cent deposit. If on examination and test, the meter shows less than a two per cent variance from exact accuracy, the 50 cents is retained by the city for expense of the test. If the meter, however, reveals a discrepancy of more than two per cent, the 50 cent deposit is refunded to the consumer, and is charged by the city to the utilities company using the meter in question.

Mayor Nelson invited local gas users who have reason to believe their meters defective to use the services of the city engineer's department to test such instruments.

Farmer Confesses Slaying Of Women

DEL RIO, Texas, Dec. 29. (UP)—Juan Lara, 50, Mexican farmer, today confessed he butchered to death his estranged wife and mother-in-law.

Bodies of Lara's wife, Josefa Rodriguez Lara, 30, and her mother, Mrs. Manuela Torres, 70, were found late yesterday on a creek bank near the small Mexican village of Las Cuevas, about 12 miles from Villa Acuna across the Rio Grande from Del Rio.

Mexican officials declare it was the most heinous crime in the history of this section of the border. Both women's throats had been slashed after they had each been stabbed several times in their chests.

At first Lara accused Rafael Aguirre, 38, of the crime. Aguirre was arrested and questioned, but released today after police had exonerated him. It was following his release that Lara issued the confession.

In his statement, Lara charged Aguierre with stealing his wife's affections.

Former Texas Ranger Succumbs at Austin

AUSTIN, Dec. 29. (UP)—Joe Oberg, 55, well-known Texas peace officer and Texas ranger under Gov. Pat Neff's administration, died here today after an illness of two months.

Oberg, a native of Sweden, served in the Spanish-American and world wars. He gained considerable reputation as a special investigator and once served as special investigator for the state highway department. He is survived by his widow.

Funeral services will be held here tomorrow.

State School Head Drops Teachers' Case

AUSTIN, Dec. 29. (AP)—L. W. Rogers, state superintendent of public instruction, today dismissed a contest involving teaching contracts at the Amherst school in Lamar county on the ground he did not have jurisdiction. Rogers held he could not consider the contest because the contracts involved had not been presented first to the county board of education to determine their validity before being brought to his office.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 29. (AP)—Dr. Herbert E. Bolton, professor of history at the University of California and retiring president of the American Historical association, told the association last night South America will be the boom continent of the future.

Commercial development in the Latin-American countries, Dr. Bolton, prophesied, will send waves of immigrants to them from Europe.

Escaped Prisoner at Greenville Recaptured

GREENVILLE, Texas, Dec. 29. (AP)—Sam Polk, chief of police, today captured a man who escaped from the city jail where he had been held on charges of burglary in Fannin county and charges of forgery in Grayson county. He escaped last week by sawing bars.

A woman and man were placed in jail in connection with the man's escape.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Is Hero To His Negro Valet, Irvin H. McDuffie

By MAX HARRELSON

ALBANY, N. Y., Dec. 28. (AP)—President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt is one man who is a hero to his own valet.

Irvin H. McDuffie, 50-year-old Atlanta negro, sums up the man he has served six years with the simple statement "there's no other man like the governor."

"A man's valet ought to know his faults if anybody does," says McDuffie or "Mac," as they call him around the mansion. "I've been with Governor Roosevelt since 1928, and honestly I didn't know any one could have a disposition as good as his."

McDuffie became Mr. Roosevelt's valet while the latter was on a vacation at Warm Springs, Ga., nearly two years before he was inaugurated governor of New York.

"If any one had told me then that I'd go to the White House as the president's valet," McDuffie grinned, "I'd have said he was crazy. I never dreamed of anything like this."

He has traveled with the governor all over the country on his numerous trips.

Born at Elberton, Ga., McDuffie worked in a drug store as a boy and began shining shoes at a barber shop when he was 15. He "picked up what I could about barbering" and became a practitioner of that trade at Atlanta, finally becoming manager of a 16-chair shop and later owning a place of his own.

"I never would have given up barbering to become Mr. Roosevelt's valet if my leg had not been scalded making it hard for me to keep up with my work," McDuffie related.

He said his wife, who has been maid in a prominent Atlanta family 23 years, would probably join him in Washington.

Gasoline Stocks Increase In Week

TULSA, Okla., Dec. 29.—In spite of the curtailment of crude oil runs by the principal mid-continent refineries the week ending Dec. 24, with a gain in shipments of motor fuels, gasoline stocks increased.

The weekly survey of operations of the principal refineries of the five states showed crude runs were off 4.4 per cent, while processing of other oils increased 3.1 per cent. Production of gasoline was down 10.8 per cent, and shipments increased 2.3 per cent and stocks gained a bare 1.2 per cent. The report by Platt's Oilgram follows:

Daily runs of crude to stills follows in barrels:

Area—	Past Wk	Prev. Wk
Kansas	51,569	49,122
Oklahoma	67,989	77,819
N. C. Texas	50,090	47,573
W. Texas	6,210	7,804
N. La.-Ark.	36,602	39,884
Total runs	212,480	222,202

Other oils run, in barrels a day:

Don't Waste Time When YOUR CHILD HAS A COLD

Protect Your Child from the Dangers of Serious Complications by using PENETRO, the Mutton Suet Salve, that Penetrates 4 Times Deeper to Drive Out Colds and Congestion Quicker

You Have to go IN After a Cold If You Want to Drive It OUT

Children don't have the resistance that grown-ups have. That's why a mother can't afford to waste time on half-way measures when her little ones catch cold ... for serious complications may develop rapidly.

Mothers know that children's colds are usually deep-seated, of a croupy nature, and accompanied by congestion. Penetration—deep penetration—is absolutely essential to get that cold out quickly.

Ordinary cold salves don't penetrate. Such salves stay merely on the skin's surface because of their mineral oil or petroleum bases. But Penetro has a base of highly refined mutton suet ... and nothing penetrates like mutton suet. That's why Penetro goes right in ... deep within ... and carries its powerful medication direct to the seat of cold infection ... where it breaks up congestion, soothes inflammation, and drives that cold out quickly ... before dangerous complications have a chance to develop.

It's Stainless, Snow-white—Ask for It by Name—Penetro

Don't dose your children with a lot of medicine and get their little stomachs out of order. Don't rely on ordinary cold salves that merely coat the skin's surface. Apply Penetro, the deepest, quickest penetrating cold salve ever developed. And not to be overlooked, Penetro is nice and clean to use. Stainless and snow-white, Penetro does not stain or soil bed clothes and sleeping garments. Today, ask your druggist for it by name: Penetro, 25c a jar. Large economy size jar, 50c. Family size jar, $1.

Here's the Way to Prevent and Relieve Head Colds

Perhaps you can prevent taking cold altogether by applying Penetro Nose and Throat Drops night and morning. It stops the spread of germs and prevents them from getting a hold. Penetro Nose and Throat Drops (contains ephedrine) brings instant relief to head colds and sinus trouble. Clinically tested and approved by leading nose and throat specialists. Generous size bottle, 25c. Large bottle, 50c.

Beautiful Bridge Luncheon Honors Viola Grace Doern

Mrs. G. Wayne Barker was hostess Wednesday at a lovely bridge luncheon honoring her pretty young daughter, Miss Viola Grace Doern, whose ability as a violinist has added charm to her social personality. The Christmas motif was noted in the pretty coloring used in bridge scores and tallies and the large square table where the delicious turkey luncheon was served, was lovely with its center of vivid red geraniums and poinsettia and glimmering red tapers in crystal holders. The crystal service added beauty to the luncheon table.

A floating prize was given as an innovation to stimulate the bidding and Miss Mary Virginia Barron was the winner of the handsome box of bon-bons given as this trophy. High prize was won by Mrs. D. G. Percefield, who received a handsomely bound book of adventure and the low, a silver vanity, went to Miss Margaret Dale.

Covers at the beautiful table were laid for Mesdames Garnet Parker, Olin Harvey, and D. J. Percefield and for Misses Genevieve Fritz, Mary C. Boone, Mathilde Donnell, Annabel Harrell, Lucile Elkins, Margaret Bone, Katherine Hawley, Helen Ruth Connelly, Mary Virginia Barron, Frances Louderback, Margaret Dale, Dorothy Lee Taylor, Miss Hazel Bryan of Dallas and the honoree, Miss Doern.

Luncheon Follows Golf At Country Club

Mrs. J. L. Waggoner was winner of the low ball in the nine hole game played at the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club Thursday. Mesdames W. S. Abbott and B. K. Booth were hostesses at the luncheon. Announcement was made that Mesdames Fred Couper and L. H. Estes will be hostesses at the next game and early reservations are requested.

The table was centered with a brilliant Christmas potted plant and the dainty luncheon was served to Mesdames W. S. Abbott, J. L. Waggoner, W. P. Bolding, Fred Couper, J. B. Hatchitt of Longview, Oral Jones, Harry Roberson, F. C. Rochon, H. H. Clark of Dallas, R. R. Fisk, R. L. Hargrave, A. Kahn, H. P. Ledford and H. D. Prichard.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

There's a word that has come into being in the last decade that is a terrible strain on incomes—the familiar and tantalizing word "accessories."

You always read it in descriptions of weddings; the bride, you know, wears an ensemble of—well, some color—with accessories to harmonize.

Once upon a time when a woman bought a new dress or suit, she bought it with joy unalloyed. Shoes were usually black or brown, or in summer white; possibly two generations ago, one might buy walking shoes of bronze.

But in this year of our Lord, one is in a bad way (unless she wears black and white altogether), should she purchase a new frock. That is not the end of things. She must have accessories. And accessories, which in the beginning meant shoes, hat and purse, have grown.

We believe that the word "accessories" is the mother to what is known as "costume jewelry." Young people wish for bracelets that jingle; for earrings that make a show; for a chain of some sort that goes around a slim neck and harmonizes with each dress.

Those who have bills to pay feel a gentle satisfaction that the female of the species does not wear nose rings in this country—or for that matter, rings on her toes.

But shoes and hats and pocketbooks and costume jewelry, if you wear it (which we do not) must either be the color of the outfit or a pretty contrast; else, to eyes that see the modes properly, you are not dressed correctly.

Time was when one could wear a brown or a black cloak with any sort of dress. That time is passed (for the modish), to which class we do not belong. We are writing now from observation.

There's been a depression for several years; (news to you?). That depression has probably cut down on the sales of jewelry but it has, if anything, increased those of costume jewelry.

This accessory business has gone so far that we know of pretty young girls who on special occasions, patronize the florist for a flower or a corsage to match a special frock.

The only thing that doesn't matter, it seems, is the man. Any escort will do for many sweet young things, in time of storm. But there must be a male at hand. "Dates" are even more necessary than any other sort of accessory. Quite often they are not in harmony.

Which brings us to memory of girls we know who have walked out on "dates," and for whom we feel a real admiration. Since the days of the 18th amendment—and since the days when some young men have come to think themselves lord of all they survey, it's a glory to know of a girl who will leave a car to walk, or who will take a taxi home. It shows there's still good taste left; one does not always have to have an accessory unless it is a harmonizing one. That is the height of good taste—not just fashion.

Pattern 2333

Slenderizing Details

We've never seen a lovelier, smarter model that tells such a complete story of fashion trends, where each detail reflects perfect taste and charm. The captivating new sleeves, set in raglan fashion, surplice bodice closing and slender skirt seaming create a gracious silhouette modestly relieved by the crushed sash. Beautiful for spring in one of the new printed crepes. Short flared sleeves are included with pattern.

Pattern 2333 may be ordered only in sizes 14, 16, 18, 20, 32, 34, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44. Size 16 requires 3⅞ yards 39-inch fabric and 1¾ yards 4-inch ribbon. Illustrated step-by-step sewing instructions included with this pattern.

Send fifteen cents (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred), for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. Be sure to state size wanted. Address all mail and orders to

Our Children

By ANGELO PATRI

It's Raining

"It's raining. Mother, it's raining. Does that mean we can't go?"

"You certainly don't expect to go out in the rain? If it is raining you have to stay in the house. That's all."

A groan runs through the anxious group about the window. "Stay in all day? What will we do? Couldn't we put on our things and go anyway?"

"Of course not. In all that wet. Don't think about it. Find something to do. When you can't go out you have to stay in."

"Uh."

There are some rainy Saturdays in every year and that means a lot of disappointed children for Saturday is their important day. They save up their treats for that day, they look forward to it all week, for weeks ahead. A disappointment like a rainy day is no light blow to eager children.

Sometimes the rain need not interfere. If the children were going to the circus let them go. The circuse in the rain is great fun. Usually it is under cover anyway. The distance between shelters can be safely bridged by rain things. The raincoats and hats are very attractive and they really ought to be used more. Concerts, plays, museum trips need not be affected by the weather. The outdoor trip, the picnic and the hike and the week-end camping may be impossible but sometimes there is a chance even for them. If there is let them take it.

Getting a wetting is not going to hurt a healthy child. They are as waterproof as young ducks provided are in good health and their clothes are fit. There is beauty in a rainy day. The soft gray that veils the world enchants it. The everyday things take on an air of mystery. The smells and the feels of a rainy day are a welcome variety in the children's experiences. It would be a pity to deprive them of the delights that the rains bring.

The drip of the rain from the trees, the echoing voices, the soft thud of footsteps on fallen leaves, the smell of earth that lies open to the meat and drink that the season is offering, the colors and the atmosphere of our fall days offer something precious and lasting to the children who can enjoy them.

I don't like to teach children that a rainy day checks them completely. It may not be wet enough to change their plans. If a rainy day outfit will settle the difficulty let them put it on and go ahead. If it is too heavy a rain use one of the alternatives you have had in mind. Instead of the outdoor excursion make it an indoor one to some interesting place. Help them use the rainy day and enjoy it. The weather is very much a part of life and unless children are reared to take it as it comes and as a matter of course they are the losers.

The weather does not hurt healthy children. Dress them to meet it. Instead of dressing them by the calendar use the thermometer. A sweater can be worn with comfort on a cool day and laid aside with perfect safety on the following warmer day. We master the weather. We like it. We enjoy the changes in color and atmosphere and temperature that it brings. Who wants to be afraid of a rainy day?

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, inclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

Deaf Class Is Entertained At Christmas Party

One of the notably enjoyable Christmas parties was that given by Misses Ann and Nora Cargill for the St. John's Deaf class of the First Methodist Sunday school.

A variety of interesting games passed a pleasant evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Cargill on Collins street and pretty favors were presented with the delicious refreshment plate.

The guest list included Messrs. and Mesdames John Branham, Wiley Cowan, A. F. Schlehase, Carl Howell, J. C. Cargill, Mr. Charles Dennison and the two charming hostesses.

Lamar Baptist Circle Sends Box to Orphans

Members of circle six of Lamar Avenue Baptist W. M. U. met at the home of Mrs. T. P. Walker when Mrs. A. E. Stanley gave the devotional and opening prayer. The pledge for the seminary offering was completed and a box was packed for Buckner Orphans home.

Mrs. Walker taught an interesting lesson from the mission study book and gave the closing prayer dismissing six members and one visitor, Miss Evelyn Parrish of Tulsa, Okla.

Governor Shudders at Idea Of Next Winter

OKLAHOMA CITY, Dec. 29. (UP)—Bristling with pessimism and pleading for a reversal of the economic lever," Gov. W. H. Murray's New Year's greeting today said "It is not too late to achieve victory."

Just a year ago Governor Murray issued a message predicting revolution and calamity.

Today he said: "I do not dread this winter, but I shudder at the winter of 1933-34. Then, beyond, all is uncertainty and chaos.

"I repeat, we must needs reverse the economic lever and roll the train of state back on the main tracks from the siding upon which it now moves; else we shall roll on to depotism or revolution."

The unsuccessful candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination suggested two possible courses lay open:

1. Governmental, by wholesome policies of law and faithful administration; 2, personal and united cooperation behind dictatorial leadership.

JUDGE CALLS MURRAY DESPOT

ENID, Okla., Dec. 29. (UP)—Judge Fletcher Riley, who next month becomes chief justice of the Oklahoma supreme court, today called Gov. W. H. Murray a "despot" for his use of the militia.

Speaking before the state bar association in convention, Judge Riley termed oil proration "a colossal attempt at stabilization of the oil industry based on fictitious rather than actual waste of natural resources.

"The Oklahoma proration law," he said, "is a novelty in the statutory law, a departure from guaranteed Republican form of government, and contrary to our state constitution. However, federal and state courts have sanctioned the experiment. The fact remains we have too much government in business and too little business in government."

Governor Murray has waged a bitter fight on behalf of proration. In an attempt to curb overproduction and enforce proration, he called on national guardsmen to shut down a vast number of wells in the state's flush fields.

"Proration of oil from a common source of supply embraces common ownership of production and is an approach to equality of distribution," Judge Riley said. "To that extent it is communism."

Vast 'Pinwheel' Big As 24 Suns Formed In Space

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 29. (AP)—Out in space a gigantic pin wheel of two balls of fire as big as 24 suns has been discovered. It is whirling at the rate of about a million miles an hour, in a space only about as wide as a fifth of the distance between sun and earth.

The results of 12 years' observations which have proved the existence of this fireworks monster were reported to the American Association for the Advancement of Science today by Prof. Raymond S. Dugan of Princeton.

The pin wheel is the star Cassiopiae, so distant that even in a telescope it is just a pin point of light to a man's eye. This star is really twins, one whirling about the other, one 16 times the sun's diameter and the other eight times.

The big twin is made of a flaming substance averaging only half the density of air. The pair is "unusually close together," for twin stars that is, being separated by about 18,000,000 miles. They revolve around each other once in 18 hours.

Prohibition Men Raid Island in Mississippi

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Dec. 29. (AP)—Federal prohibition officers revealed today that they had raided island 37 in the Mississippi river near here yesterday while assisting other federal men in investigating charges of two North Carolina youths that they were held in peonage there for a week and forced to operate stills.

San Angelo Farm Bank Loans Pass $1,000,000

SAN ANGELO, Texas, Dec. 29. (AP)—The San Angelo branch of the Regional Agriculture Credit corporation has passed the million dollar mark in actual cash disbursed since its opening Sept. 15, 1932.

Eighty-seven borrowers today had received a total of $1,012,595.39, or more than double the total loans of the main office at Fort Worth and the other Texas branch at Houston.

FATHER KILLS FAMILY, SELF

Veteran Chauffeur Tells Of Plans by Telephone

CHICAGO, Dec. 29. (UP)—The late Clement Studebaker's veteran chauffeur killed his wife, his co-ed daughter, and himself today after learning he had been "disinherited by a newly found will of the millionaire whom he served for 29 years.

The chauffeur, Peter Peterson, shot his wife to death as she slept. He then killed his daughter, Pauline, 20, student at Northwestern university. Before committing suicide, he telephoned the home of Clement Studebaker, III, where he had worked since the death of his long time employer, Clement Studebaker, II.

Mrs. Studebaker answered the phone.

"This is Peter," the chauffeur informed her.

"I am lonesome for the old man. I've just killed my wife and daughter. They have already joined him in death. Now I am going to join him too. Good-bye."

Peterson hung up, called police, told them what he had done.

In the front bedroom of his home, officers found the bodies of Peterson and his wife, both shot through the head. Peterson was clad in his pajamas. The daughter's body was in another bedroom.

A note found in the home stated: "I have lost my life's savings and nothing to look for but poverty. I have always wanted my family to have and enjoy things. Now that I am not able to give them that, I would rather see them dead."

The federal office of education says there is one lawyer for every 500 persons in the United States.

How Doctors Treat Colds and Coughs

To break up a cold overnight and relieve the congestion that makes you cough, thousands of physicians are now recommending Calotabs, the nausealess calomel compound tablets that give you the effects of calomel and salts without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a glass of sweet milk or water. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you wish—no danger.

Calotabs are sold in 10c and 35c packages at drug stores.—Adv.

COWBOY'S LIFE DIMS ROMANCE

He Still Wears Chaps, But Rides in Auto

By HARRY MONTGOMERY

AMARILLO, Texas, Dec. 29. (AP)—The cowboy of 1932 differs not a great deal from the cowboy of 1882 in dress, habits, duties or the ability to ride a horse or rope a steer.

But neither the new model nor the old measured up to the specifications of that romantic hero—the cowboy who has lived almost a century in song and story.

Modern conveniences have changed the life of cowboys on big ranches less than that of any other class of individuals. What changes have taken place really are in methods of ranching rather than in the cowboys themselves.

Cowboys still enjoy sleeping under the stars, eating from chuck wagons and mastering wild horses, but they are concerned more with earning a livelihood than with romance.

Dress Altered Little

These observations sum up the opinions of those who have lived in West Texas and New Mexico, where there are still ranches as large as the state of Rhode Island.

Cowboy dress has changed little. Standard clothing includes big hats, high-heeled boots, spurs, leather jackets, colored shirts and blue denim trousers. Chaps are common in the mesquite country, but not so popular on the prairies.

Among the ranch hands are a good many youngsters, some of whom are college graduates. Wages always have been low, ranging from $15 to $50 a month plus board and lodging.

Most ranchers agree that present-day cowboys may not be as proficient with a rope as their predecessors, for much of the branding, dehorning, vaccinating and other work formerly done on the open range is now done in corrals and chutes. But they are better riders, because their horses are grain-fed and therefore stronger.

Arm Against Rustlers

Many go without guns. Others carry them to shoot jackrabbits and coyotes. But in the Big Bend country of Texas they fight off raiding bandits, and in parts of New Mexico rustlers still are active, although modern cattle thieves operate at night and haul the animals away in trucks.

Because the Panhandle, Kansas, and Oklahoma—once considered the greatest cattle country of the West—are being divided into small ranches, many have been led to believe that the real cowboy is becoming extinct. However, the big ranches have merely been pushed back into the rough country, where railroads have not been built.

On these ranches the cowboys often spend six or eight weeks at a time in the open, eating from chuck wagons and sleeping with saddles for pillows, in all kinds of weather. They still "ride fence" as of old.

Goes Places in Car

But the modern cowboy goes places in an open-top car. He can drive 125 miles to a dance in five or six hours, a distance that required three days for those of the eighties and nineties to negotiate on horseback.

Possibly the owner of the ranch is an aviation enthusiast, and occasionally sets his plane down alongside the chuck wagon to take lunch with his crew.

Trail driving largely vanished with the advent of wire fences and railroads, although in many sections cattle still are driven from 100 to 150 miles to a shipping point.

Groups Seek Dismissal Of Grain Rate Inquiry

CHICAGO, Dec. 29. (AP)—The Chicago Board of Trade announced today it had filed by mail with the Interstate Commerce commission at Washington, a petition asking on behalf of 12 mid-West organizations the dismissal of the commission's investigation of grain freight rates.

Agricultural interests have demanded reductions in transportation rates on grain and the Interstate Commerce commission has been holding hearings on the matter since last February.

The petition stated that the investigation into the rates had brought an unfavorable influence on business and resulted in lower grain prices.

Former Baylor Hospital Nurse Head Succumbs

DALLAS, Dec. 29. (AP)—Miss Merle Brymer, former superintendent of nurses at Baylor hospital, died today of acute pneumonia. She was survived by a brother, W. K. Brymer of Amarillo, and two sisters, Mrs. W. G. Streckert of Brownsville and Mrs. Bert O'Bryan of Dallas.

The prescription-filling capacity of the American drug stores has been estimated by department of commerce experts to be more than 10 times as great as the demand.

Old And New In Cowpunching

Today's cowboys aren't surprised when their boss brings down his plane near their chuck wagon. For ranch methods have changed somewhat, though cowpunchers like the 1932 model at the right are the same under the skin as the fence rider of 40 years ago (left). Even so, the boys "go places" in a car nowadays.

Publisher Offers Suggestions For Farm Recovery

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (INS)—A program designed to put the American farmer back on his feet has been offered by Frederick E. Murphy, an authority on agriculture and publisher of the Minneapolis Tribune.

His program, comprehensive in its scope, is set forth in the January number of Review of Reviews and World's Work, and lists seven major steps toward a restoration of production to a normal basis.

His seven steps for such a recovery are:

1. A governmental program to reduce acreage.
2. An excise tax of not less than 5 cents on imported oils and fats.
3. Authorization of the tariff commission "too act when depreciated currency makes it possible for foreign competitors to invalidate the clear intent of our tariff provisions.
4. A program to reduce interest and to refinance and adjust farm mortgages.
5. Reduction of farm taxes.
6. War debt revision with an eye to trade concessions.
7. That industry devote part of its research expenditures to the problem of converting excess acreage into a source of industrial raw materials.

Woman Amnesia Victim Recovers Her Memory

SHREVEPORT, La., Dec. 29. (AP)—A young woman who appeared here recently suffering from amnesia has recalled her name.

She is Gertrude Campbell.

She identified herself this afternoon after examining her baggage at police headquarters.

"I know who I am," she remarked. "I am Gertrude Campbell."

Then she recalled how she came to Shreveport. "I was in Little Rock a week," she said. "I had the flu. I was still sick when I left. I was on my way to New Orleans to spend Christmas with Mrs. Lucile Marulla, where I once lived. I came here in an automobile engaged through a travel bureau. I remember I was sick on the way."

Bank of Winnfield, La., Is Robbed of $7,000

WINNFIELD, La., Dec. 29. (AP)—The Bank of Winnfield was robbed of about $7,000 this afternoon.

President B. W. Bailey and Cashier J. A. Nugent were in the bank when two strangers entered and said "hands up." One man held a gun and forced the bank officials to lie on the floor, and the other scooped up money in sight, but overlooked most of the money in the bank.

Judge Wiley R. Jones walked into the bank while the robbery was under way and was forced to lie on the floor.

FILIPINO BILL TO PRESIDENT

House Passes Measure As Compromise

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29. (AP)—The house today approved the compromise plan for granting independence to the Philippines at the end of 10 years. This completed congressional action on the measure and sent it to the White House.

The reception awaiting the independence bill at the White House was considered doubtful at the capitol. President Hoover's personal views were unknown, but from closest advisors he has received recommendations adverse to the independence plan.

Two years ago, Mr. Hoover sent Secretary Hurley on a visit to the islands. Upon his return, Hurley reported to the president and opposed independence proposals in congress. When the original Hare bill for independence after an eight-year period was being drafted Hurley testified against it.

The bill grants independence 10 years after inauguration of a commonwealth government. This government would be formulated at a constitutional convention called within one year, approved by the president within two years then voted on by the Philippine people.

A popular vote approving the constitution would be considered an expression favoring independence.

During the transition period tariff-exempt shipments to the United States would be limited to 50,000 tons of refined and 800,000 tons of raw sugar; 200,000 tons of cocoanut oil and 3,000,000 pounds of fibres.

But on these exempt shipments an export tax would be applied beginning in the sixth year. It would to reach 25 per cent in the 10th year: begin at 5 per cent of the United States tariff, an increase each year

Hawaii enjoyed the healthiest year in its history the death rate in 1932 being 9.76 per 1,000 population against 10.21 in 1931, the previous low record.

A Washington Bystander

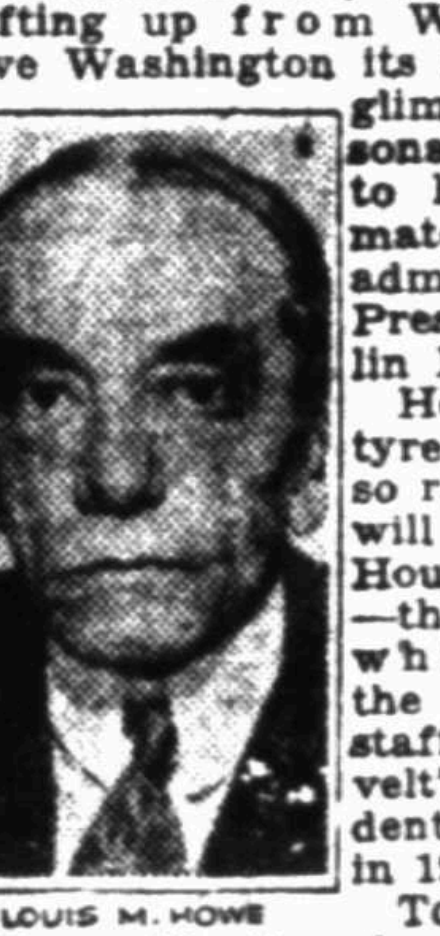
By KIRKE SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—Word drifting up from Warm Springs gave Washington its first informal glimpse of personalities destined to have an intimate part in the administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.



LOUIS M. HOWE

Howe, MacIntyre and Early, so ran the report, will be the White House secretariat—the same trio which formed the executive staff of Mr. Roosevelt's vice presidential campaign in 1920.

To any one familiar with the close relationship that has existed between this group of former newspaper men and Mr. Roosevelt ever since he came to Washington as assistant naval secretary in the Wilson administration this set-up for the Roosevelt White House secretariat returning now as president, seemed a foregone conclusion.

Schooled Together

Stephen T. Early, a Virginia-born newspaper man with experience in Washington before he went to the news reels, seemed likely to be in the picture somehow where those newly made colonels, Louis Howe, the new president's political alter ego virtually throughout his political career, and Marvin MacIntyre, Kentucky-born but a Washington resident for nearly three decades of active newspaper and news reel work, were associated in Mr. Roosevelt's interest.

That the three are reported now to be formally associated as the three White House secretaries of "the boss," the title they long ago gave Roosevelt in the intimacy of that inner circle, merely adjusts things to his new honors and responsibilities.

And to Roosevelt the trio, with only another man or two added, forms "the old guard" of his march to the White House.

Never a year has gone by since 1920 that "the boss" and "the old guard" have not foregathered in reunions to revive memories of the vice presidential campaign that defeat could not dim for them.

And always before them, bulking large in everything they did and said, was the hope, the expectation, finally the conviction that one day they would see Franklin Roosevelt nominated for the presidency.

The Old Job Expanded

Now, with Louie Howe as secretary-resident, living in the White House, and with MacIntyre and Early, both of whom have homes and families in Washington, the trio will just be working at the same old job in a new setting.

Aged Resident Of Sunset Area For 75 Years Is Ill

Special to The Record News.

SUNSET, Texas, Dec. 29.—Robert Savage who has resided in Denver community, seven miles north of Sunset, since 1857 has been ill for two months without much sign of recovery. His illness began when he accidentally fell and sustained painful injuries two months ago.

Mr. Savage is past 83 years of age and claims to have been in Montague county a greater number of years than any other living person in this county. He came to this country with his parents 75 years ago. They located near Denton creek, other people moved there later and the community was named Denver. A little later this became a busy frontier town with a postoffice and daily mail service.

Denver was the station of a company of rangers who guarded against the attacks of bands of marauding Indians here in the early settlement of this country and Mr. Savage is one of the only two living members of that company. W. A. Johnson, 80, of Sunset is the other living member.

When the Savage family came here only a very few white people lived in this part of the state. Such as wild turkeys and deer were plentiful and large herds of cattle grazed on free range.

Imperial Hotel Sold At Quanah

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Dec. 29.—The Imperial hotel has been purchased by Will F. Jones of Quanah from T. C. Phillips, banker, of Oklahoma City. The price was not made public, but it is believed this is the biggest real estate deal of Quanah property made this year.

The hotel building is a three-story rock structure, and is located across the street from both the city hall and the courthouse. About three years ago Gus Gober, then owner, refurnished the hotel throughout.

Jesse M. Christie has been operating the hotel for the past week or more, and will deliver possession at the termination of his lease March 1, 1933. Mr. and Mrs. Jones expect to operate the hotel from that date.

Mr. Jones owns considerable other Quanah property. He stated he believed "now" was the time to buy and was demonstrating his faith in Quanah property.

Taxpayers who want to see just where their money has gone might try a trip to Europe.

The Swing Back to the Farm

AMERICA'S farm population is growing. In spite of an agricultural depression that is both extensive and severe, the number of people who live on farms has increased by hundreds of thousands. Today, the department of agriculture believes, the total is not far below the record of 32,000,000 set away back in the palmy days of 1910.

This, of course, is due chiefly to the depression—the industrial depression, not the agricultural one. Young men and women who left their farm homes in the boom years of the '20s and went looking for jobs in the cities have been glad enough to get back home lately; men who had been city workers for years have taken over idle farm land in preference to staying in town and living on charity.

For the man on the farm has one huge advantage over the man in the city, when times are bad—he is right at the source of the food supply. As long as he has a few potatoes, a few vegetables, a few chickens, a few pigs and a cow or two he can keep on eating, even if his pocketbook is flat.

One wonders, though, how long this swing back to the farm will last. For the farmer has to pay taxes; he has to keep his land and equipment in shape; he has to buy stock, feed, fertilizer, seed and the like; he has, all too often, to carry a mortgage; and to do all of these things he has to have a cash income. Living at the source of the food supply doesn't help you much if a deputy sheriff comes along some day and puts you off because you can't pay what you owe.

Several years ago a New York business man found a way to make farm life pay. He bought a small farm and raised produce for his own consumption instead of for the market. He bought small mills for grinding grain, pressure cookers for canning vegetables, and so on; and presently he found that he was producing practically everything that his family ate, from green vegetables to wheat flour and corn meal; the income from his city job carried his farm's expense, and he was about twice as well to do as he ever had been before.

Will we, some day, come to some such system as that for large numbers of the population? Theoretically, the plan is perfectly feasible. In a time like this it might be worth thinking about.

What of the Harvest?

PROFOUND thought—possibly profitable—upon the subject of government in this country is stimulated by contemplation of a remark casually made here recently by a newly elected member of the state legislature. His statement was made with no particular purpose, and is one which normally would be passed over as of no consequence. He merely announced that the coming session of the new legislature is expected to last about four months.

It seems impossible, however, that the eye of any interested Texan can rest upon that statement without arousing in the mind a strong inclination to appraise this system by which we govern our state, and a disposition to analyze the results for which we may hope.

The function of this legislative body will be the enactment of laws to promote the welfare of the government, both by protection of rights and the promotion of privileges. Yet in contemplation of the innumerable statutes accumulated with almost a century of law-making in Texas, it becomes difficult to hope for any helpful or worth while additions during the ensuing four months.

Despite that fact, this sovereign state is about to employ approximately 150 legislators, plus a small army of clerks, pages, etc., over a period of four months for the purpose of manufacturing new laws. Unsatisfactory elements in the existing economic and political schemes perhaps are sufficient to make a one-year's session seem plausible—provided there be results to show for that effort. Therein lies the point which the interested citizen will make in contemplating this vast and expensive law-making enterprise—he will approve the venture, but he wants to see results. That matter is deserving of careful consideration by both the legislator and the public.

Smokers for Ladies

ACTION of the Lackawanna railroad in taking a poll among its commuters in the New York metropolitan area to see just what sort of smoking cars they want on their trains is a little reminder that customs in regard to smoking in public places and on public conveyances have changed vastly in the last few years—and it's hard for a public servant to tell just what to do about it.

Once upon a time a train had one smoking car and permitted smoking nowhere else. But one car isn't always enough, nowadays; besides, there are women passengers who want to smoke. What is a railroad to do?

Lackawanna's commuters are being asked if they want smoking permitted on every car, or if one car is to be set aside especially for non-smokers; and it is probable that other railroads doing a large commuting business will watch the returns in this odd little plebiscite with a good deal of interest.

Did Mother Nature Slip?

ANY movement is bound to have a certain number of supporters who do their cause more harm than good by the unrestrained and gaseous nature of their utterances. Theodore Roosevelt called them "the lunatic fringe"; and it seems rather evident that this fringe was pretty well represented at Washington during the recent house hearings on the beer bill.

Most startling of all statements made during these hearings, probably, was the assertion of a New York congressman that beer is actually some four or five times as nourishing and healthful as milk.

This, if true, would rank as one of the most amazing dietetic discoveries of the age. Our only reaction to it is a feeling of dumb wonder that Mother Nature chanced to overlook the fact when she created the order of mammals.

Q.—How many baseballs are used in a world series game?—L. B. P.

A.—The number varies with the number of balls that are hit foul, hit for home runs, and are discolored or injured in some way. The average for the world series games is much the same as during the regular season—almost always between three and four dozen.

Q.—Why were the Chinese troops called Boxers during the uprising against foreigners in 1900?—G. S.

A.—The Boxers was the name of a secret society in China. The Chinese name was Gee Ho Chuan, signifying "righteousness, harmony and fists" and implied training as in athletics, for the purpose of developing righteousness and harmony.

Q.—What other speaker of the house was elected vice president while he was presiding as speaker?—G. S.

A.—Schuyler Colfax. He was speaker during the 38th, 39th and 40th congress. He was elected vice president, November, 1868. He retired as speaker March 3, 1869.

Q.—Who sponsors the national corn-husking contests?—H. W.

A.—They are held under the jurisdiction of the American Association of Middle Western Farm Newspapers.

Q.—How much does a cubic foot of air weigh?—D. L.

A.—One cubic foot of air at 32 degrees F. and atmospheric pressure weighs 0.080728 pound.

Q.—What do stamp collectors mean when they talk about "first-day covers"?—S. N.

A.—A first-day cover is an envelope with a stamp of a new issue that has been mailed and the stamp canceled on the first day the new stamps have been placed on sale. Some collectors have blocks of four stamps of each denomination on each envelope.

Q.—What is a Homburg hat?—R. S. M.

A.—It corresponds to the style called fedora in this country.

Q.—How are the Pacific ocean seals protected?—D. D.

A.—The fur seals of the North Pacific ocean are protected by the North Pacific seal convention of July 7, 1911, among the United States, Great Britain, Japan and Russia. This applies specifically to the killing of fur seals in their breeding grounds since they are not customarily taken or hunted on the high seas.

Q.—Is vitamin D found in fruits and cereals?—P. M.

A.—Fruits, cereals, and green vegetables do not contain it. Egg yolk and butter are good sources of vitamin D, and canned salmon is particularly rich in it. Cod-liver oil, is, of course, one of the best sources.

Q.—Where does Yehudi Menuhin, the young violinist, live?—K. M.

A.—The Etude says that the Menuhin family, composed of father, mother, Yehudi, and his two sisters, is now living in France near Versailles.

Q.—How much flour does a bushel of wheat make?—R. H. W.

A.—A bushel of wheat usually weighs 60 pounds and can be made into 42 pounds of flour, 9 3-5 pounds of bran, and 9 2-5 pounds of shorts.

Q.—Is there a national park in the Everglades?—S. D.

A.—Not at present. A bill to establish such a park in Florida passed the senate last winter and is now on the house calendar.

Q.—When was Virginia's carillon memorial to her world war heroes dedicated?—G. H.

A.—It was dedicated Oct. 15, 1932.

Q.—What is the oldest cultivated fiber plant?—R. T. L.

A.—Hemp is said to be. It was grown in China as early as 2800 B. C.

Q.—Will wine or whisky age in sealed glass bottles?—S. W.

A.—The bureau of prohibition says that wine improves in sealed bottles when kept under proper conditions, but whisky does not change or improve when sealed in glass containers.

Q.—Senator Cutting of New Mexico was born in New York. To what association or heritage is his accent attributed?—C. N. J.

A.—Senator Cutting comes of an old New England family and as a youth attended Harvard university. He has as a result a marked New England accent.

Candy for Every One

Candied plums and cranberries for the little folk. Fudge and chocolate bars for the young grown-ups to nibble on! French burnt almonds and stuffed prunes for the older youngsters!

The sweet tooth is a universal taste that knows no age limit.

The booklet, Candy Recipes, contains instructions for making 144 different kinds of candies—fudges and creams and caramels and fruit balls and nougats, and myriads of other delicacies. By following its recipes every housewife, in her own kitchen and with her own utensils, can fashion a collection of confections that will tickle the palates of the children, the young set, and the older folk—to say nothing of the thrill the palates of the housewives themselves will receive.

Send for your copy today so you will have this booklet when occasion calls for candies. Use this coupon, enclosing 10 cents to cover cost and postage charges.

EXPLANATION OF YESTERDAY'S CARTOON

THE NORTHERNMOST TREE—Though Hammerfest, Norway, the most northerly town in Europe, is situated 300 miles north of the arctic circle and its inhabitants never see the sun from Nov. 18 to Jan. 23 each year, the vegetation found there is truly remarkable. But the locality doesn't have the frigid climate that we ordinarily concede it to have. The northernmost tree, a small birch growing on the outskirts of the city, can retain its title until another is planted directly north of it, because nowhere else on the globe will a tree grow at 71 degrees north latitude.

A BUTTONLESS SECT—The Amish are a branch of the Mennonites and have been socalled after their bishop, Jacob Amon of Switzerland, who separated from his brethren in 1692 and founded a new sect. The Amish are forbidden to wear buttons of any kind, neither may they shave their beards. In the days of Bishop Amon, buttons were made of animal bones exclusively, which conflicted with the sect's determined stand against animal slaughter. The Amish, who emigrated to America in the 18th century, were "conscientious objectors" during the war, and from their aversion to buttons were known as "Hook and Eye Mennonites."

PARIS LOVE

by NINA WILCOX PUTNAM

SYNOPSIS

Since her husband died 10 years ago, Kate Sayers had made $80,000,000 by continuing the manufacture in France of the now famous American motor car Europa. In constant attendance on her was Alfredo Santini, whom she knew only as a gigolo and racing car driver but who was the chief of a gang of jewel thieves. Mrs. Sayers' daughter Alacia had recently fallen in love at first sight with Armand de Pas, Prince d'Orsant, who was learning the business at Piron's jewelry shop. One of Santini's gang, employed at Piron's, substituted imitations for Mrs. Sayers' fabulous rubies the day Santini left Paris in the Europa racer he was to drive in the Grand Prix at Monte Carlo. Armand was arrested because he had handled the rubies but was released on bail. Alacia suspected Santini. Armand agreed to drive Alacia's exact duplicate of Santini's racer in the Grand Prix, and they started in pursuit in this car. Santini disappeared mysteriously at Monte Carlo. Armand was mistaken for Santini by a distrustful confederate, who warned him not to remove the rubies from the upholstery of his car seat, and to return to Paris. Armand decided to ram Santini's car in the race. Shortly before the start Alacia surprised Santini in the garage where he had secreted his Europa. He had killed his mechanic just before her arrival and when he saw her he rushed at her. As they struggled he slipped in a pool of grease and fell. He did not move. "I've killed him," Alacia said.

INSTALLMENT XXXIII

Slowly Alacia backed off, groping for the door, found it, and opened it, dreading to see what the light would reveal. Santini lay on his back, close to the car. Evidently in falling he had struck his head on the hub of the front wheel, and Alacia in terror, forced herself to touch him. As she moved his shoulders Santini groaned slightly, and her pulses bounded with relief. At least he was alive! What should she do? Surely by now there must be some soul in the neighborhood who would hear and be alarmed. Yet suppose no help came? And then there was the car. She must get that away and into the hands of the police before anything else could happen. Suddenly she remembered what Armand had told her about Santini being watched day and night by his own confederates. What if they were watching even now, waiting for him to come out?

Panic left her, and she began to think more clearly. If she left the car there, it might easily be gone when she returned with help. Then, too, she must leave that building in the most natural and inconspicuous fashion contrivable. Then all at once she saw, clearly, how it could be done, and in another moment, she was kneeling by Santini's unconscious figure, stripping off his overalls. When they lay in a little heap beside him she unfastened her dress and slipped it off over hear head, rolling it into a small bundle and tossing it into a far corner. Then she put the overalls on, closing the fastenings with fingers which trembled so they could scarcely do the work. The linen helmet fitted snugly over her bright hair and making sure that none of it escaped she added the driving goggles. Fortunately her shoes were heavy crepe soled affairs and her gloves of loose chamois. Santini was of medium height and slender, so that the clothing fitted passably. And when she was done, Alacia walked to the car and started the engine.

The garage was instantly filled with its deafening roar. To Alacia's mingled delight and horror the sound seemed to penetrate to Santini in his deep unconsciousness, for he made a feeble movement, although he was still too far gone to offer any resistance as she dragged him out of the way and left him in a corner where he would be hidden when the door was opened. Then she searched his pockets and found keys. One after another she tried them on the rolling door of the garage but none fitted, until she came to the very last. This worked, and in another moment she had rolled the iron curtain up and the square lay open before her. With the exception of an old woman with a basket on her head, it was as deserted as before, and with a little sobbing cry of relief Alacia sprang into the driving seat, and in another second the long grey car shot out in the open.

A clock on a neighboring church tower showed 12 minutes of 2 o'clock, the hour set for the start of the race, and it flashed through Alacia's brain that she could just make the starting point in time to catch Armand there, if luck was with her. Her whole being centered on the thought of reaching him as her foot pressed down on the accelerator. Taking the corner at break-neck speed, she saw a taxi laboring up the hill towards her. It drew up at the curb 100 yards ahead, the driver shouting something unintelligible and waving his arms. Never dreaming that the signal was meant for her she hardly noticed this exotic performance until a man got out of the tax and ran towards her. He was wearing white overalls like her own, and on his breast was a large red number five. Swerving the car a little to avoid him she would have passed without slacking her speed, but the man, a look of grim determination on his face swung himself aboard as she came abreast of him and dropped into the seat beside her.

"Damn your dirty soul, Santini," he said. "I thought you were not showing up!"

Strangely enough Alacia's first thought was of how on earth any one at close quarters could mistake her for the slender smooth-shaven man she had left behind her in that ghastly villa on the hill. But one glance in the driving mirror provided her with a good and sufficient explanation. What little of her face as was visible below the driving goggles, was begrimed to such an extent that she might have sprouted a two-days' beard for all any one could tell without feeling her chin. With difficulty she strangled a wild desire to burst into hysterical laughter. But the man beside her, once he had blown off an outburst of reproach in wholly unintelligible Nicois Patois, was too absorbed in the problem of reaching the track in time to pay any further attention to her.

"Evidently," thought Alacia, "this is the same man who talked to Armand in the dark at the paint shop. He doesn't know Santini personally. He's an outside man of some sort, obeying orders. All I have to do is to keep my mouth shut for the next few minutes, and I'll be safe!"

In the lower town the streets were almost impassable so great was the crowd which had poured in from London, Paris, Rome or Berlin, indeed from every part of Europe, especially for the event. The streets were blocked with parked cars, and as she took the last few turns leading out to Beausoleil, Alacia decided to hail the first gendarme within shouting distance. But it was then that she became aware of something uncomfortable pressing into her side. Instinctively she shifted in her seat, away from her companion, but the pressure followed, and glancing down to find out what caused it, she saw with a little chill that the mechanic had moved closer to her with deliberation. His loose overall bulged over the rim of the bucket seat, and she realized that the hard object from which she had attempted to shrink was a gun which was being gently but ominously pressed into her ribs.

"We are in a hurry," said a low voice significantly, "and I suggest that there is no delay. You are going through with this race exactly as scheduled, my friend, and if you attempt any little jokes I'm going to arrange it so that you do not talk."

It was incredible, this riding through the crowded street, unable to call for help. The very audacity of the performance in broad daylight made it seem the more fantastic, but the muzzle of the gun was uncomfortably real. Alacia opened dry lips, intending to reveal her identity, thought better of it, and remained silent. After all, freedom lay a few hundred yards ahead now, for this man would be forced to leave her at the start of the race, and then her chance would come. In any event her power of speech seemed to have left her and guiding the car automatically she descended the long hill to the back of the Condamine, the police in their comic opera uniforms clearing a path for her, and almost before she knew it, she was at the port.

On the flat stretch of the wide boulevard a large space had been roped off for the starters. A group of imposing looking gentlemen in frock coats and top hats mingled with the throng of mechanics, greasers, reporters, camera-men, and official scorers. Somebody in the crowd shouted that her highness, the Princess of Monaco, had arrived at the stand of honor and there was a roar of welcome to the popular heiress, which added to the existing confusion and general excitement. Two rival bands were playing in competition not 100 yards away from each other, and the yachts in the little harbor contributed to the uproar with a great blowing of sirens. It was exactly three minutes before the start.

On the edge of the place reserves two pairs of grimy hands seized Alacia's car and made way for her, guiding her into place. The man wearing the clothes of number five mechanic suddenly slid away over the edge of the seat, throwing her one last threatening glance as he vanished into the crowd which was now behind her, and as her car was rolled into clear view of the mob a great cry went up. "Santini! Santini!" yelled the backers of the favorite. The roar of applause was electrifying, and inspiring. Suddenly Alacia wanted to drive the race. A wild urge to go through with it came over her, and the desire to take the car which was her pride and her glory to victory through her own effort became overwhelming. In a flash she knew she had always wanted to race the Europa herself and had only been prevented because of her sex. There was one minute left in which to decide.

PLANE FINDS COMET SCARS

Science Finds Where Heavenly Body Hit Earth

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 29. (AP)—There need no longer be doubt what would happen if a big comet struck earth, for one actually seems to have hit in South Carolina a million years or more ago.

Its scars, discovered by airplane, and identified as those of a comet with a head about 400 miles in diameter, or one-third larger than the great Halley's comet seen in 1910, were described to the American Association for the Advancement of Science. The report was made in a joint paper by Dr. F. A. Melton and Dr. William Schriever of the University of Oklahoma.

According to what happened in South Carolina, millions might be killed, but the earth's civilization probably would not be destroyed. Instead the effects would be confined mostly to the area receiving the direct hit. In this case it would have been as big as a dozen eastern states.

Half Mile Long Craters

The traces of the South Carolina comet, still only in their beginnings, are more than 1,500 scars elliptical craters formed in the earth in that portion of South Carolina forming the "coastal plain bounded approximately by the Savannah river on the south and Cape Lookout on the north."

These craters average half a mile long. Some are two miles long. On account of their great size their nature went unrecognized until an airplane survey of an entire county revealed them in a bird's-eye view.

A comet, according to present astronomical ideas, is a loosely collected ball of meteors. The South Carolina craters were made unmistakably by meteors, but by such a flock of them as only a comet's head could carry. All, said the Oklahoma scientists, seem to have struck within one minute's time. The evidence for this is overlapping of many craters, just as would happen by dropping stones in sand.

Furthermore, the ellipitcal shapes show that this comet came from an angle between horizon and zenith. The elipses lie in parallel lines indicating that it came from the northwest. The evidence for this direction is strengthened by the rims of the craters being higher on the southeast sides, the direction in which the rocks tossed the earth.

25 Miles Per Second

The comet's velocity on entering the atmosphere was estimated at 25 miles a second, and its speed at striking was reduced to about six miles a second by friction against the air.

This coastal plane was only a small part of the area hit, the scientists estimated, and even in it the count of 1,500 craters is too low, expectations being of finally discovering 3,000 in that area alone.

"Such a globular of meteorites (the comet)" says the report, "would produce impact scars over the elliptical area 400 miles wide by 630 long, or 190,000 square miles. Of this area only 40,000 square miles lie on the coastal plain; the remaining 150,000 square miles lie in the Atlantic ocean, on the Piedmont upland, and in the southern Appalachian mountains. There the relatively rapid erosion has probably complete erased the surface features of the scars."

Such a comet, the report added, striking northeastern United States would cover the equivalent of New York, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Rhode Island, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, large parts of Vermont, New Hampshire, West Virginia and Ohio and half of Lake Ontario and much of the coastal waters.

Man Favored

The chances for escape for persons outside the creaters can also be guessed from what happened when a great meteor fell in Siberia in 1908. Recently scientists found this region. The place where the meteor hit was comparatively small. It was in a forest. And far around great trees had been laid flat, in windrows, as if by a mighty puff of wind. They were also scorched as if by a superheated blast.

But outside the area of impact the guessers favor man. For except its massive head, a comet appears to possess no substance sufficiently dense to do harm. Astronomers say the earth actually has passed through a comet's tail, without the slightest observable effects. The possibility of dangerous cases in a comet's tail formerly were considered, but recent studies indicate that the tails are mostly some form of radiation not much if any more tangible than light. The tails are known to be caused by the "pressure" of unlight upon the comet.

Some small meteors were found on the ground in or near the craters. No giant meteors have been found as discovery of deeply buried meteors requires usually years of work. For example, meteor crater in Arizona, nearly a mile wide, was examined for nearly 40 years before the giant meteor which made it was located recently. It was found to be buried about 700 feet deep.

FOOD SECTION---MENUS---RECIPES---HOUSEHOLD SUGGESTIONS

RELISHES FOR MEAT COURSE

Usual and Unusual Sauces Suggested

Certain meats seem to demand a definite type of pickle or relish to bring out their fullest flavor—thus definite types of sauces or relishes have come to be associated with one type of meat.

Lamb immediately brings mint sauce to mind—pork is linked gastronomically with apple sauce. But there are variations on the familiar and obvious relishes that may not occur to the homekeeper—variations that will appeal to family and guests alike, and give to a familiar dish a new guise.

And there are a variety of attractive ways of serving relishes so that they will appeal to the eye as well as to the palate. Sweet pickles should be drained from their liquid as should olives, but mustard pickles and those put up in heavy sauces should be served with the accompanying liquid for greatest flavor.

Home-made relishes always seem to have a special aroma and fragrance of their own—who has forgotten the fragrance of chili sauce cooking in an old-fashioned kitchen or is too blase to thrill to the sight of row on row of preserves and relishes in gleaming glass jars that decorate the shelves of a well stocked pantry?

But nowadays when space in the average apartment is apt to be limited it is gratifying to know that nearly all of the old-time relishes may be duplicated in the modern shop. A list of meats and the kinds of relishes most suitably served with them follows:

Beef—Worcester sauce, mustard pickles, spiced peaches, pickled onions, black currant or plum jelly, sweet tomato pickles.

Pork—Apple sauce, sauer kraut, dill pickles, stuffed olives, celery, sweet mixed pickles, radishes, currant jelly.

Lamb—Mint sauce, mint jelly, sour gherkins, radishes, chopped sweet relish, green olives.

Veal—Pickled beets, chill sauce, [illegible]stard pickles, catsup, sliced dill pickles.

Poultry—Cranberry jelly, sweet pickles, dill pickles, ripe and green olives, celery, radishes, currant jelly, black currant jelly.

Fish—Sour pickles, tartar sauce, lemons, cole slaw, sweet pepper relish, piccalilli.

Mohammedans Use Arabic Language In Old Feast Prayers

ISTANBUL, Turkey, Dec. 29. (UP)—The ancient feast of Ramadan, one of the five pillars of absolute requirement in the Mohammedan faith, opened as the moon appeared in the eastern sky tonight without the need of the faithful changing their prayers from the traditional Arabic to Turkish.

From the city's many mosques the chant of "Allah Akber!" struck the ears of the faithful as it has for many centuries. It was not "Tanri Uludur!" as decreed by Mustapha Kemal, Turkey's "strong man" who is seeking to change the age-old traditions of his people.

At the last minute the government informed the meuzzins, or prayer callers, that they might begin the feast with Arabic prayers. The decision was made because the faithful have been unable to learn the Koran in Turkish so far.

The turbaned preachers, crosslegged on chairs inlaid with mother-of-pearl, delivered their festival sermons in Turkish, with their listeners gathered about them on prayer rugs. The prayers themselves were uttered in Arabic.

Ramadan will last a month and it is required that the worshippers engage in absolute fasting from dawn to nightfall. The Koran decrees that each day of fasting shall extend "from the time when a white thread can be distinguished from a black one, and until nightfall."

Radio Message Reports Rescue of Crew at Sea

WILMINGTON, N. C., Dec. 29. (AP)—The coast guard Modoc late today intercepted a wireless message reporting the rescue of all hands aboard the burning American tanker, Dorris Kellogg, by the steamship Delaware Sun.

The message, from an unidentified source, said the crew had taken to sea in three lifeboats before the Delaware Sun picked up its members.

The tanker, bound from Port Arthur to Philadelphia, with a cargo of oil, was abandoned about 35 miles south of the Frying Pan shoals lightship.

Savings of Slain Woman Used for Burying Her

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 29. (UP)—Savings approximating $400, which a 74-year-old woman defended with her life, will be used to bury her tomorrow.

A month ago a burglar entered the home of aged Mrs. Regina Woelfelle, demanded her money, put a sack over her head and beat her brutally when she refused to reveal its hiding place.

Today Mrs. Woelfelle died of injuries sustained at the hands of the burglar, who despite his brutality, failed to obtain the loot.

Two Men Charged With Slaying of Brothers

TYLER, Texas, Dec. 29. (AP)—Murder charges on two counts each were filed today against Garland Clements and Hiram Wright in connection with the slaying of Pete and Barney McKay, brothers, at a Christmas dance at Garden Valley, Smith county.

The pair was charged with killing each of the brothers.

Pete McKay was killed almost instantly but his brother died several days later.

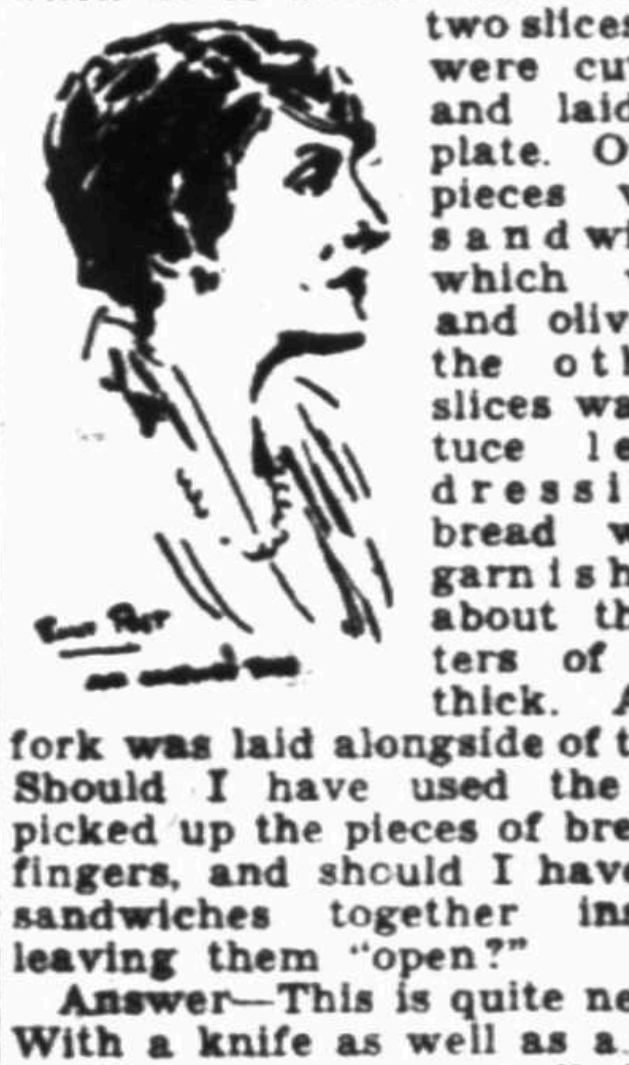
E. Post Writes Of Sandwiches And Of Service

By EMILY POST
Author of "Etiquette, the Blue Book of Social Usage"



My Dear Mrs. Post: In the future how should I eat a sandwich when it is served like this: The two slices of bread were cut in half and laid on the plate. On the two pieces were the sandwich filling which was egg and olive and on the other two slices was the lettuce leaf and dressing. The bread with its garnishing was about three-quarters of an inch thick. A salad fork was laid alongside of this plate. Should I have used the fork or picked up the pieces of bread in my fingers, and should I have put the sandwiches together instead of leaving them "open?"

Answer—This is quite new to me! With a knife as well as a fork you could manage very well, but without a knife I can't see what you could do other than nibble a half bite out of one piece, rabbit-fashion, and then nibble a half bite out of the other piece. Or perhaps you are supposed to put the two halves together, hold it tight in both hands and eat it as one who is given no knife and fork must eat a club sandwich.

My Dear Mrs. Post: Is it proper to serve myself first when I am eating dinner with a family who passes the food? Or would it be better to offer the dish to the person beside me, and if I did this last would I have to wait until the dish came all the way around the table to me later?

Answer—If you are a guest, certainly help yourself. If you are hostess, not on any account before another woman at table has been served.

My Dear Mrs. Post: What does a servant do when she is supposed to assist at a tea given by her mistress?

Answer—Opens door, sees that the kettle is kept full of boiling water, takes away used cups and saucers, brings in clean ones. Sometimes (but not always) she proffers a tray with cups of clear tea, a sugar bowl, cream pitcher and lemon on it, and also proffers dishes of cake or sandwiches to guests who do not go to the table for their tea.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is serving cocktails in the living room before dinner more proper than serving them the first thing in the dining room?

Answer—Yes, much.

For tea table detail write to Mrs. Post in care of this newspaper, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Piano Teacher Jumps To Death From Window

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (AP)—Mrs. Isabella M. Dudley, 55, a piano teacher jumped to her death from her sixth floor bedroom window in West 178th street today.

Police said they found a note she had written complaining that a neighbor's "insistent radio" had increased her nervousness until life was unbearable. She suffered an injury to her hip and spine in a fall about two years ago and was forced to use a wheel chair for 19 months, police said.

Mrs. Clara Joselit, 55, jumped to her death from a window of her fourth floor apartment in the Bronx. She recently had been a patient for mental observation at Bellevue hospital.

Mexico Cuts Import Duty on Lumber Half

LAREDO, Texas, Dec. 29. (AP)—A 50 per cent decrease in import duties on lumber to be used for construction purposes in Mexico will go into effect tomorrow, according to an announcement in Nuevo Laredo. Other changes in import duties, including an increase in duties on gasoline imported in volume into Mexico, were expected.

Chickasha Official Resigns Under Fire

CHICKASHA, Okla., Dec. 29. (UP)—W. W. Parsons, Grady county commissioner for the past six years, resigned today. He was removed from office two weeks ago by Judge Will Linn on charges of maladministration. Trial has been set for January.

Parsons said he had no money to fight ouster proceedings.

GANDHI PLANS ANOTHER FAST

Leader Issues New Ultimatum to Britain

POONA, India, Dec. 29. (UP)—Mahatma Gandhi, brown little leader of the nationalist cause in India, today laid down a new ultimatum to the British government in behalf of the nation's millions of untouchables.

Unless Great Britain sponsors an enabling bill to remove legal difficulties which forbid the depressed classes from entering Hindu temples by mid-January, Gandhi told the United Press, he will begin another "fast unto death" in Yerovda jail.

Ignoring reports that the British government is planning to release him from prison New Year's day, the frail little "great soul of India" said if the British viceroy refuses his demand, the cause of anti-untouchability will of necessity become a world issue.

Gandhi's first "fast unto death" undertaken last September ended after six days when caste leaders effected a tentative compromise on the question of communal representation for the untouchables.

Gandhi appeared cheerful and seemed in fair health when he received the correspondent today, hough he complained that his ankles cause him some pain and that his right hand is giving him considerable trouble, having become virtually useless. He is experimenting with food devoid of salt and occasionally abstains from goat's milk in an effort to allay his physical suffering. He weighs 102 pounds.

Russian Women Denied Right Of Buying Supplies

MOSCOW, Dec. 29. (AP)—Russian housewives, who now may purchase for themselves small rations of bread and sugar from the government stores, will lose that privilege after Jan. 1 and thereafter will have to earn those commodities by working in the factories.

The government recreed today that after the first of the year all housewives under the age of 56 will be deprived of the cards which entitle them to purchase sugar and bread. In the category of housewives are included all healthy women not engaged in "socially useful" work. The wives of a number of high government officials are in this class.

The new order reflects the continuing food shortage and is an extension of the government's "no work—no food" policy. Its object, apparently, is to bring more women into industrial occupations with a view to ultimate abolition of the home as the unit of family life.

County Clerk Indicted For Misuse of Funds

SAN ANTONIO, Dec. 30. (INS)—Jack R. Burke, Bexar county clerk, has been indicted by the district grand jury for alleged misappropriation in the sum of $7,500. This grand jury action follows two investigations made into the affairs of Burke's office, one at a court of inquiry still under way, and the other that of the grand jury.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough
Saves $2. So Easy! No Cooking!

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough. It's no trouble to mix, and costs but a trifle, yet it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water for a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist, put it into a pint bottle, and fill up with your sugar syrup. The pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is the most effective remedy that money can buy. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and clears the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound of Norway Pine, in concentrated form, famous as a healing agent for throat membranes. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

Famous Restaurateur Sees Crisis In Repeal Of Dry Law

Americans Must Learn Arts Of Eating, Drinking, Says Gaston

By SAM KNOTT
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Gaston, son of Ferdinand and grandson of Antoine, believes modification of prohibition will bring Americans face to face with a crisis.

The famous son of a famous father whose father was in turn more famous than either divides very modern history into three parts so far as it concerns this country.

First there was the war, says Gaston; then followed "14 years of hell" under prohibition. The third period, he believes, will be that immediately following prohibition modification. It will be a period when youths and girls reared in a "hard drinking, hard eating" country must learn how to eat and how to drink properly.

Gaston's grandfather was Anotine Alciatore of Antoine's in New Orleans. From him and from "Papa" Ferdinand, Gaston learned the art of eating as few men have had the opportunity to learn it.

"When prohibition came in papa told us that our art, that of eating, would become a lost one," says Gaston, "and he was right.

"The arts of eating and drinking are inseparable. When one is denied, the other vanishes."

Gaston's age is a mystery. He must be more than 40 for he remembers the Spanish-American war period well. He has the appearance of a man of 25. Handsome, always perfectly groomed, he fairly "sparkles" in any gathering.

In his cafe he is at his best. There, he knows, the conversation eventually must turn to eating, and in any conversation about eating, Gaston has no peer. When he speaks there is about his statement a certain finality which ends the discussion there.

Gaston has made the art of eating a religion. He never speaks of one's stomach. He calls it "tummy," and when Gaston says "tummy" he says it like a preacher would say "heaven."

Gaston believes beer and probably wine will be legalized. Legalization of beer will be a "psychological" help, he says, but not until wines are legalized and Americans can learn to drink the proper wines with the proper courses can the art of eating really return, he believes.

The problem, says Gaston, is one of flavors. He believes in modification in everything, whether it be eating, or drinking, or the amount of perfumes a woman uses. He considers it a sin to "gulp" liquors or to drink the wrong wines at the wrong time.

Since prohibition, says Gaston, many Americans have formed the habit of taking half a dozen "shots" of bootleg liquor before meals. That, he says, "kills" the sense of taste.

"They come here then and they want thick steaks," he says, "but it doesn't make any difference what you give them—they can't taste it anyway."

The danger of prohibition repeal or modification, says Gaston, is that the country may be "flooded" with inferior liquor and youths and girls reared in an era of "shots" won't know enough to demand something good.

"I feel so-o-o sorry for these poor boys and girls," he says. "They won't know what to order. They won't know when they get it whether it's good. They are used to hard liquor and they'll go right on drinking hard liquor, killing their taste and ruining their tummies."

Gaston believes, however, that eventually Americans may learn how to eat and drink. It is the period of learning that he fears.

"When they do learn," he says, "life will be slower—and it will be better." He pronounces "better" like a Frenchman and with that finality which means "Gaston, son of Ferdinand, and grandson of Antoine has said it—it must be so."

Italy Abandons Prison Island of Lipari Jan. 10

ROME, Dec. 29. (AP)—The prison island of Lipari will be abandoned on Jan. 10 as a place of confinement and the few remaining anti-Fascists living in exile there will be moved elsewhere.

This is in consequence of Premier Mussolini's declaration of amnesty celebrating the 10th year of Fascism, by which 20,000 prisoners were released. Many of those released had been sent to "confino" for attacks upon or conspiracy against Fascism.

Less than 400 political prisoners were left on the various penal islands, and all these are to be concentrated elsewhere.

FILLING THREE BIG COACHING JOBS CENTER OF N.C.A.A. TALK

OKESON LOOMS AS CHAIRMAN

Langford Indicates He Will Not Seek Position

By ALAN GOULD

Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Through a haze of tobacco smoke, football talk dominated the winter convention of college athletic leaders today as efforts to fill at least three important coaching positions mingled with speculation as to whether Walter R. Okeson or William S. Langford, both easterners, would succeed the late Edward K. Hall as chairman of the national football rules committee.

Tentative agreement was understood to have been reached at an executive session tonight to name Okeson as chairman and continue Langford as secretary under a mutually satisfactory arrangement.

Delegates to the National Collegiate A. A. convention from the West and South, as well as the East, were united in favoring the choice of these two men for the executive positions on the rules committee but there had been some disagreement on which to elevate to the chairmanship.

Favors Okeson

Langford, who was closely associated with E. K. Hall for years in the business of football rules-making, told friends today he had no desire to assume the chairmanship, if desired, as secretary, so long as his health and business permitted.

Apparently the majority of college leaders were in agreement that the functioning of the rules committee would be less disturbed by selection of Okeson as chairman, with Langford retained as secretary. Okeson is an officer of Lehigh university and at present commissioner of the Eastern Intercollegiate association.

As a result of Hall's death, as well as developments of the 1932 season, the annual report of the football rules committee, to be made tomorrow by Langford, is not expected to launch into any discussion of possible changes in 1933 or make any recommendations. A majority of the committee is understood to be agreed the radical changes made a year ago have proved satisfactory and should be retained.

Re-Elections Seen

The four-year term of two members, H. J. Stegeman of the University of Georgia and Amos Alonzo Stagg of Chicago, have expired, but both are expected to be re-elected as their district representatives on the football committee.

Due to the present restricted geographical set-up of the National Collegiate A. A., limiting membership on any of its committees, no move will be made to expand the membership of the football body to give immediate representation to the new Southern conference line-up, consisting of the colleges in the Carolinas, Virginia and Maryland. Stegeman or his successor will continue to represent the entire South.

Meanwhile, although many may have been called for consultation, none has yet been chosen to fill gaps in the coaching ranks at Chicago, Fordham and Holy Cross.

"There are at least six or eight men under consideration for the position formerly held by Mr. Stagg," said Thomas Nelson Metcalf, new athletic director at the Midway. "No choice has been made and none will be made for some time. I have talked with several men here but I am not at liberty even to mention their names."

Phelan Mentioned

Jimmy Phelan of Washington, former Notre Dame quarterback, has been mentioned in connection with all three of the jobs under chief discussion. Jimmy Crowley of Michigan State, one of the "four horsemen," also has been prominently mentioned as a possible successor to Major Frank Cavanaugh at Fordham, but he has given no indication he wants to leave his present post.

Capt. Lawrence M. (Biff) Jones, Louisiana State's head coach and former West Point mentor, was brought into the Fordham discussion today, when it developed the genial army officer had been approached by Jack Coffey, Fordham's graduate manager. Captain Jones, however, promptly told Coffey he was not a candidate and intended to return to L. S. U., where he has just successfully completed the first year of an anticipated four-year term of military as well as athletic duty.

Holy Cross, where Capt. J. J. McEwan was ousted as football coach late in the season as a result of internal differences, was not conspicuous in the lobbying, but William (Lone Star) Dietz, coach of the Haskell Indians and a disciple of the Warner system, was mentioned in connection with this job.

Presbyterians Fall To Baptists, 43-11

With both offense and defense clicking, the Highland Heights Baptist church cagers scored a wild 43 to 11 victory over the fighting little East Side Presbyterian Thursday night on the Floral Heights Presbyterian church. Petty, J. Janeway and O. Janeway led the offensive with top honors going to Jim Janeway with 15 points. Oran Janeway scored 12 points and Petty 11. Smith scored seven of the 11 points for the Presbyterians.

The game was filled with some sensational defensive work on the part of the Baptists with the entire Baptist lineup putting forth a great front in this department of the game. Oran Janeway and Howard Miller stood out in this department.

Mutangs Practice For Tilt With Mines School

DALLAS, Dec. 29. (AP)—Rain failed today to dampen the spirits of Southern Methodist university football players, who went through a limbering-up session under the direction of Head Coach Ray Morrison in preparation for a New Year's postseason contest next Monday at El Paso with the Texas School of Mines eleven.

Coaches Reveal Secrets To Stay Off Grid Injury

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (AP)—Evidence that proper training and close attention to physical condition can do much to decrease football injuries was presented to a discussion group of the National Collegiate Athletic association today by Herbert O. (Fritz) Crisler, head coach of football at Princeton.

Crisler said a series of knee exercises worked out by himself and Dr. Joseph E. Raycroft, of the Princeton medical faculty, and used by candidates for the football team in conditioning preparations, was so effective there had been no injury to the fragile joint during the 1932 campaign.

Crisler said injuries in football could be grouped into four categories, physical condition, equipment, proper teaching and just plain accidents for which no precautionary provision could be made.

Watches Weight

At Princeton Crisler said he carefully scanned the weight charts of the players and when he found a boy failing to put back on the following day weight he had lost the day before he knew the boy was becoming fatigued and twice as susceptible to injury. Crisler also evolved a series of exercises for use by the candidates in the late summer before they came to school. The precautions taken kept injuries to a few last year and only two which could be called serious, Crisler said.

Leroy Prentiss, athletic director of the Lawrenceville, N. J., school, also told of methods he used there to prevent injuries. He recommended the ankles of all youngsters be taped before they are allowed to compete. He followed that practice, he said, and had not one ankle sprain among 350 youngsters last year.

The two addresses created almost a sensation among the assembled coaches and athletic directors and brought a demand for more detailed explanations and charts of the knee exercises Crisler had evolved.

Ex-Lions Whip Lions, 52 To 40

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, Texas, Dec. 29.—In a last quarter spurt of ringing the basket, Vernon ex-Lion cagers tonight roundly defeated the regular Lion quintet, 52 to 40. Judd, flashy ex-Lion forward, led the scoring by chalking up a total of 24 points. Galloway, regular forward, was next with 18 points.

Although the exes were in the lead at every turn of the game, not until the final quarter did they accumulate a substantial margin.

The Lion regulars' game was marred by faulty passing and was a heavily contributing factor in their loss of the game. The regulars missed 10 free tosses while their foes failed on but three.

MAT PROGRAM AUGURS BLOOD

'Terrible Turk' to Tangle With Govro Tonight

Whitey Govro and Mustapha Pasha tangle tonight on the main event of the regular weekly mat program in what promises to be one of the fastest and roughest matches ever staged in Wichita Falls if the "Terrible Turk" lives up to all expectations of him. The big Turk ranks as one of the roughest heavyweights in the business and Promotor Govro will find his hands full in handling the big bone crusher.

Whitey still is plugging along the comeback trail, trying hard to get back into the stride once was his here when he was almost unbeatable. He is taking on one of the toughest men he has ever faced. Several other leading heavyweights of this section of the country were approached with the subject of meeting Pasha, but each of them backed out.

Newcomer on Card

The well-known Turk is being brought to Wichita Falls at a heavy expense, it is claimed, and comes after long hours spent in trying to secure Pasha for a match here. Pasha is one of the biggest drawing cards of the Middle West and has beaten some of the best in the business, and ranks high among the championship contenders.

Govro's last two efforts in the ring here have been tough ones for the local idol who was robbed of victory just when it seemed assured. He lost on a foul to Orth and in his match with Dick Raines went through the ropes with Raines on a flying tackle after Raines had been badly battered and the match was ruled a draw when both men were knocked out and unable to return.

A change has been made on the semifinal and Maurie Schrader will take on Steve Nenoff for the 45-minute entanglement. Schrader substitutes for Sheik Marralah who was injured this week in a match at Amarillo with Jack Curtis. Marralah went to the hospital with a fractured shoulder and is unable to fill his date in Wichita Falls tonight.

Likes 'Em Rough

Schrader comes highly recommended to the local powers as a real scrapper and one who will be able to give and take with the rough and ready Nenoff, the "Wild Bull of Poland."

While Schrader is a stranger here, Nenoff is well-known in this section of the country as one of the greatest exponents of the Marquis of Packinghouse rules. He likes his matches rough and according to all reports of Schrader he is the kind who can mix it with him in this kind of a bout.

There will also be another preliminary on the card, but just who the contestants will be is yet unknown.

Trojans Put In Light Practice

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29. (AP)—Coach Howard Jones of Southern California lightened the practice burden today of the unbeaten Trojans.

He sent the squad through a shortened workout with very little dummy scrimmage included in the preparatory exercises, which were open to newspaper men.

The semisecret drill was a direct departure from other years when the gates of Bovard field were closed to all comers before important games such as the impending contest with Pittsburgh at Pasadena Jan. 2.

When questioned about possibility of information getting out which might tip off some of the new formations to the opposition Coach Jones enjoyed a good laugh.

"I've changed things around a little," he admitted, "but I'll bet none of you fellows can tell me what the difference is and I didn't hold back anything, either."

There was no one willing to deny the statement. After a moment's hesitation he added, with a broad grin:

"Don't let that bother you. Some of my assistants who have been out there all the time haven't figured out several of the changes either."

Basket Ball Under Way Again on Bowie Court

Special to The Record News.

BOWIE, Texas, Dec. 29.—Opening up for the first time in two weeks, basket ball activities started anew Tuesday night on Bowie auditorium court with Bowie Independents beating Bellevue Independents 40 to 30; and Montague Independents beating Park Springs Independents 43 to 38. The Bowie-Bellevue game was a hard fought struggle but the locals forged ahead in the last quarter to win. This game wasn't as exciting as the Montague-Park Springs game, however. The Park Springs boys were minus two of their star players. Both quintets are a fast, hard fighting crew and all through the second and third quarter of their game, there wasn't over three points difference between them. It was in the last quarter that the Montague boys got "hot" and moved out in front to win.

There will be three games played Friday night.

Shanty Hogan Sold By Giants to Boston

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (UP)—Francis (Shanty) Hogan, veteran catcher has been sold to the Boston Braves, the New York Giants announced tonight. The sale had been expected. James J. Tierney, Giants secretary, said that it was an outright sale, with no other players involved. The price was not announced.

Virginia Van Wie Fails To Play Dallas Match

DALLAS, Dec. 29. (UP)—Due to threatening weather, Virginia Van Wie, women's national golf champion, abandoned plans to make an aerial trip to Dallas today.

From Birmingham, Ala., she advised friends here that she is journeying direct to Memphis, Tenn., by train. She will arrive there at noon tomorrow.

The women's golf champion was to have played an exhibition match for charity at the Dallas Country club today, being joined by three well known local golfers in a foursome.

There are approximately 22,000 persons living in the Virgin Islands.

SOUTH AFRICA QUITS GOLD

Union Not Linked With English Money

LONDON, Dec. 29. (AP)—The Reuter's (British) news agency correspondent at Cape Town reported today that he had been informed in the highest quarter that ever since the government's announcement last Tuesday halting the export of gold, South Africa has been definitely and irrevocably off the gold standard but not linked with the English pound sterling.

PRETORIA, UNION OF SOUTH Africa, Dec. 29. (AP)—Nicholas Havenga, finance minister, announcing a new and rather complicated position of South Africa's currency, made statements today which were interpreted widely here to mean that the government finally has abandoned the gold standard.

Mr. Havenga said:

First, that South Africa is not on a gold bullion standard for the reason that gold specie and gold bullion could not be obtained from banks in the union.

Second, that South Africa is not on a gold exchange standard because the government had not taken steps under the emergency powers to regulate exchange transactions.

Third, that therefore the banks had a free hand to fix rates of exchange for the South African pound between South Africa and other countries. He stated that the government has no intention of influencing rates which would find their true level in accordance with current monetary and trade conditions.

The finance minister announced that during the run which led to the government making notes inconvertible, nearly £3,000,000 left the country in three days.

Noted Climbers To Scale Pike's Peak As Annual Event

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Dec. 29. (AP)—The glistening white summit of mighty Pike's peak flung a challenge to members of the Adaman club tonight as its adventurous members completed preparations for their new year celebration on "top of the world."

To the climbers, each with a personal reputation for skill, the prospect of deep drifts on the trail and high altitude blizzards at arctic temperatures was not dismaying. Those things are "fun" for the Adaman club.

For the 10th consecutive year, if the climb is successful, the members of the unique organization will greet the new year with a dazzling display of fireworks from the top of the famous peak.

At 9 o'clock two rockets will blaze forth and a little later a hot air balloon bearing a clear white light will be released, a tribute to the memory of Roald Amundsen, the famed Norwegian explorer who was an honorary member of the club. Then, three hours later, just as the new year is born, the Adaman club will touch off the major display of fireworks. If the night is clear the lights will be seen more than a hundred miles.

The Adaman club derives its name from the custom that each year one new member, and only one, is added to make the climb. This year the new member is Francis M. Froelicher, head master of a boys school near here.

Quanah American Legon Gives Meat to Needy

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Dec. 29.—The Quanah American Legion and auxiliary have distributed hundreds of pounds of fresh meat to the needy during the holiday season, and are still active in this manner. The meat, donated by ranchmen and other individuals, was butchered by the markets here free of charge.

A milk depot has been established at the Floyd Snyder produce house on East Second street, and appeals are made for all farmers having excess milk, either whole or separated, to bring to this depot from where it will be distributed to those families where there are children and who are unable to provide milk. Also it was stated butter, chickens, vegetables, or anything of food value will be accepted at this milk depot and be distributed by the legion where it will do the most good.

Two Men Burned When Gas Stove Explodes

DALLAS, Dec. 29. (INS)—Two men were seriously burned and a third less seriously hurt here today when a gas stove in a filling station, in which the men were employed, exploded.

The victims were Carl O. Beaty, 32, and "Pot" Turner, 38, both seriously burned, and R. E. Bentley, 41, slightly injured.

Cause of the explosion could not be learned immediately.

Sunset News

Special to The Record News.

SUNSET, Texas, Dec. 29.—Mrs. Nettie Randolph is suffering from a broken ankle and shoulder, sustained when she slipped and fell a few days ago. She was just recovering from an injury which was caused by falling a few weeks ago. Her home is at Wellington and she came here to visit in the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Cummings. Owing to the accident she may be compelled to remain here all winter.

Rev. W. L. Crawford, 82, has been seriously ill for several days. He became overheated while working in his garden one day last summer and has been ill since that time and his condition has become serious.

Rev. John Raymond of Saint Jo will occupy the pulpit here at the Sunset Church of Christ next Sunday morning and evening.

Members of the Park Springs singing class, five miles west of Sunset, will entertain with a gospel song service Sunday afternoon, and will be assisted in the service by visiting singers from several surrounding classes.

Arthur Brown, from Los Angeles, Calif., is here as a guest in the home of his father, Bob Brown.

J. C. Daniel and family from Duncan, Okla., are visiting relatives in this vicinity.

DRY GOODS MARKET

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (AP)—Cotton goods were quiet today in finished and unfinished lines. Combed yarns have been reduced to a basis of 35 cents for sixties 2-ply. Scarcity continues in several sizes of rayon wanted for knitting and weaving. Knitters of full fashioned hosiery continue well sold for some weeks to come and are using more rayon for low priced numbers for spring. Burlaps were inactive. Inquiries are increasing for worsted dress goods for spring.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (AP)—After holding within narrow limits during most of the day, cotton advanced rather sharply in the late trading on covering influenced by a closing rally in stocks. Early advances on relatively firm cables and absence of southern selling pressure was well sustained throughout the greater part of the session on domestic and foreign trade buying. March contracts sold up from 6.00 to 6.11 and closed at 6.10 with the general market closing at net gains of 14 to 17 points.

The market opened 5 to 11 points higher in sympathy with firmness at Liverpool and an accumulation of trade buying orders both for foreign and home account. There was no increase in the limited offerings from the South and as a result local selling pressure was again checked. Foreign buying was reported in the more distant positions but otherwise there was no fresh developments and volume was limited until the closing rally. A little commission house selling around mid-afternoon caused partial reactions of about 3 to 5 points from the earlier highs but even at these low levels for the day the market was still about 5 to 8 points net higher. The late rally carried prices up about 9 to 11 points from the lows.

The New York cotton exchange service reported that inquiries indicated distribution of approximately 500,000 bales of cotton by the Red Cross had resulted in a possible increase of consumption of not more than 50,000 bales, partly because a large portion of the goods received by the Red Cross came out of stocks and partly because the larger part of the value in goods received by the Red Cross represented labor and other manufacturing costs.

Local spot houses reported slightly better inquiry from southern mill centers. Liverpool cables said the market there was higher on end-month trade calling while Manchester was quiet but cheerful.

Exports today 58,903 making 4,089,880 so far this season. Port receipts 17,252. U. S. port stocks 4,844,545.

Futures closed very steady, 14 to 17 points higher:

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 29. (AP)—Cotton turned firmer with stocks today and although trading was rather quiet for most of the session the trend was upward and the close, at the day's best levels, was very steady, showing net gains of 9 to 11 points.

The market opened barely steady although Liverpool came in better than due and sterling was slightly lower. Private cables said the market was quiet with end of month trade calling and holiday feeling. Manchester cabled the tone there was quiet, but feeling generally cheerful. March opened only one point up but later months showed gains of 3 points in sympathy with a firmer opening in New York cotton. After the general market showed gains of 5 to 6 points, prices eased off on hedge selling, May dropping to 6.11 and July to 6.22, down 3 points from the highs.

The market rallied 5 to 6 points later in the morning in sympathy with firmer stocks and one some trade buying and covering by shorts and in the afternoon active months made new highs for the day at 6.05 for March, 6.19 for May and 6.31 for July or 8 to 9 points up from the lows of the morning. The close was at the top with March 9 points net up for the day, May 10 and July 11 up.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 3 to 4 penny points up.

Port receipts 17,830, for week 148,192, for season 5,711,939, last season 6,302,172. Exports 57,103, for week 138,446, for season 3,866,654. Port stock 4,791,321, last year 4,701,905. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 185,820, last year 114,296. Spot sales at southern markets 17,561, last year 24,602.

Liverpool Cotton

LIVERPOOL, Dec. 29. (INS)—There was a better demand for spot cotton at the opening today with prices steady. Receipts totaled 20,100 bales, all American.

At midday middling fair was quoted at 6.31d, strictly good middling 5.86d, good middling 5.56d, strictly middling 5.31d, middling 5.16d, strictly low middling 5.01d, low middling 4.86d, strictly good ordinary 4.66d, and good ordinary 4.36d.

Futures opened steady with Jan. at 4.91d, March 4.93d, May 4.96d, July 4.97d, and Oct. 5.01d.

CHICAGO COTTON

CHICAGO, Dec. 29. (AP)—Cotton closed at the top for the day 9 to 13 points net higher. The opening was 2 to 9 points up which was a full response to cables that were about two penny points better than due. The market worked higher when stocks took a spurt in mid-morning. Month-end price fixing contributed strength to values. The close was very steady. Rain fell over south Alabama and most of Georgia and the Carolinas. Temperatures are mild. The forecast is for rain in all cotton states, except Arkansas and western Tennessee.

Stocks Feel Rally And Prices Higher In Largest Turnover In Six Weeks

By JOHN L. COOLEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. (AP)—Stocks rallied with better success today, thereby celebrating the conclusion of all but last minute tax sales for the year.

Unlike yesterday's session which saw a late relapse, this market was higher all day and closed at its best prices in the largest turnover since Nov. 11. Rail stocks ran along in the vanguard, but other groups did equally well, especially during the uplift that characterized final dealings. Strength of German bonds and easiness of U. S. governments stood out in the investment market.

Although technical considerations appeared to provide most of the lifting power for stocks, Washington news was of a character to command attention. Notable in this budget was word that the Democrats proposed to give the new president broad powers to reorganize the government on behalf of economy. Plans for fiscal legislation designed to rectify the discrepancy between treasury income and outlay appeared to be awaiting next week's Roosevelt-Garner conference.

Since this was the last day for sales in the "regular way"—tomorrow's and Saturday's must be for cash—transactions in both stocks and bonds witnessed a fairly large volume of such transfers, especially through the earlier trading. But shares withstood much better than on Wednesday whatever pressure came from this source. General Motors charted a more even course, closing fractionally higher; it was reported that a large block of this stock had been liquidated. American Telephone and U. S. Steel came forward prominently toward the close, the former gaining 2 points, the latter 1⅛, net.

American Can, Allied Chemical and American Tobacco, New York Central, Santa Fe, Consolidated Gas of New York, Woolworth, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Corn Products and Public Service of New Jersey were among the leaders up 1 to about 2 points, while Socony Vacuum, Du Pont, Texas Corporation, Union Carbide and North American gained major fractions. Union Pacific gained 3. Volume aggregated 1,606,430 shares.

Foreign exchange favored the dollar, far easterns being down in sympathy with bar silver's new low of 24¼ cents. Sterling lost more than a cent and French francs were under the theoretical gold point. The Bank of England's reserve ratio dropped to 16.8 per cent and circulation both there and in France was up, reflecting the Christmas holidays.

Further car loadings statistics strengthened the evidence that last week's traffic was above 1931, for the first time, due principally to a later Christmas in 1932. But movement of goods this year is holding relatively well, whereas the close of 1931 saw a heavy shrinkage under way.

Currency circulation in this country dropped 43,000,000 for the week ended Dec. 28, indicating a quick return to the banks of holiday funds which this year had been withdrawn in somewhat smaller volume than usual. Money normally begins to flow back at this time.

Changes shown by the federal reserve system were small. Discounts fell about $3,000,000 to $267,382,000 against more than a billion last year. Monetary gold stocks increased $17,000,000, which was slightly more than the amount received from England during the week in payment on the debt installment.

New York City member banks cut loans and investments by $35,000,000 net, though the loss was entirely in the former item since investments were $1,000,000 higher. Holdings of securities other than U. S. governments rose $22,000,000; the banks sold $21,000,000 in federals.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, Dec. 29. (AP)—Good demand for wheat but poor for other grains was reported on the Fort Worth cash grain market.

Quotations ranged as follows, basis car loads on track at Fort Worth, freight paid, delivered Texas gulf port, export rate, or Texas common points: Wheat—No. 1 hard according to protein and billing 49½@50½c. Barley—No. 2 nominally 31@33c; No. 3 nominally 30@31c. Sorghums—No. 2 milo per 100 pounds, according to color 48@50c; No. 2 kaffir 34@46c.

Delivered Texas common points or group three: Corn—No. 2 mixed 34½@35½c; No. 2 white or yellow 39½@40½c.

Delivered Texas common points: Oats—No. 2 red 24½@28c; No. 3 red 23½@24c.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Dec. 29. (AP)—Stimulated by official reports of precarious prospects for winter crops in a large section both of Kansas and Nebraska, wheat prices turned upward late today.

Gains in wheat values here were in the face of the fact that the Liverpool market had virtually failed to reflect yesterday's price upturns on this side of the Atlantic, and that British exchange rates had fallen. Helping to strengthen wheat in Chicago were New York stock market rallies and a better export demand for wheat from Canada.

Chicago wheat prices closed firm, ¼c to ⅝c up compared with yesterday's finish, corn at ¼@⅜c advance, oats unchanged to ⅛c higher, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 2 cents.

Among the strikingly adverse official crop reports from the West and Southwest today was that Nebraska winter wheat condition estimates were as low as 33.3 per cent in the western part of the state. No rain of consequence was reported in the western third of Kansas. Some Chicago unofficial authorities said moisture now would be of little benefit in drouth districts. Traders here continued also to give attention to the fact that buyers were able to obtain May and July wheat at present without payment of a carrying charge.

Mississippi river points reported sales of No. 1 hard winter wheat today at prices equal to 3 cents over May, delivered in Chicago, an advance of 2 cents. The primary movement of domestic wheat was exceedingly small, and Winnipeg likewise reported receipts they were meager. Relative weakness of the Liverpool market was ascribed to big offerings of wheat from Argentina.

Corn and oats responded to scantiness of rural offerings. Indications of damage to the new Argentine corn crop had a little effect.

Provisions averaged lower with hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat, Dec. 42⅝c, offers; May 43⅝@¾c, 44⅝@¾c; July 43⅝@¾c, 44⅝@¾c. Corn, May 25⅝@26c, 26⅛@¼c.

TWO NAMED IN LIQUOR CHARGE

Still in Operation Seized Near Burk

Charges of possessing a still were filed in justice court here Thursday by Sheriff Perry Browning against George Harper and Miles Moore as the result of a raid led by the sheriff Wednesday night when a large still was interrupted in operation on the banks of the Red river about 12 miles west of Burkburnett.

Accompanied by Deputy Sheriff Pat Allen, Police Chief Bill Garland and Constable Dad Sanders of Burkburnett, Sheriff Browning apprehended the two men and a boy of 14 years at the liquor-making plant. Operations were under way in a dugout 25 feet long and about 12 feet wide, located in the side of a ravine opening upon the south bank of Red river. A 50-gallon copper still was in use, and 22 barrels of mash were on hand. Only a small amount of whisky was found, the distillation having begun only about two hours before the officers arrived, it was said.

The boy arrested with the two men is being held in the juvenile ward of the county jail to await investigation by County Juvenile Officer James A. McDonald.

New Officers To Take Oath Monday

Julian McFall, county clerk; Jim Robinson, tax collector, M. L. Hines, county commissioner for precinct No. 3 (Iowa Park), and Lee Cooper, commissioner for precinct No. 1. The remaining member of the group to be inducted Monday is C. L. Bradford, elected over several opponents as constable of precinct No. 1.

Any state, district, county or precinct officer may be sworn in by any notary public, County Judge John P. Marrs pointed out. Judge Marrs administered the oaths of office to many of those inducted Jan. 1, 1931, and is expected to perform similar rites for many of those who start new terms next Monday morning.

Last Meeting of Commission

Mr. McFall will succeed Miss Elizabeth Hall as county clerk, and Mr. Robinson will follow Max Shumake as county tax assessor. Mr. Hines succeeds L. L. Kuntz as commissioner from the Iowa Park precinct, and Mr. Cooper takes the office being vacated by M. A. Bundy in precinct No. 1. Mr. Bradford's predecessor in the office of constable is Fred K. Smith.

The final meeting of the present commissioners court, composed of Mr. Bundy, Mr. Kuntz, F. R. Knauth of Burkburnett and Henry Haynes of Electra, in addition to Judge Marrs, is to be held at 9 o'clock Friday morning. Completion of the final revision of 1932 tax rolls is the business of the court for the called session, it was stated.

Bridwell Named To Good Roads Board

Chairman J. S. Bridwell of the chamber of commerce highway committee has accepted a directorship on the board of 31 for the Texas Good Roads association. Mr. Bridwell was appointed by President W. O. Huggins of Houston. His name was placed before the association several weeks ago at a meeting in Fort Worth attended by Manager John Boswell of the chamber.

Directors are named for each of the 31 state senatorial districts. Mr. Bridwell will represent the group on projects in the Wichita area and including the counties of Hardeman, Foard, Knox, Wilbarger, Baylor, Wichita, Archer, Clay and Young.

The association aims include maintenance of present gasoline tax rates for road benefits and to prevent transfer of highway funds to other uses. The group also seeks to qualify Texas for additional aid in developing the state system.

Scientists To Give Chewers 'New Deal'

MADISON, Wis., Dec. 29. (UP)—Scientists at the University of Wisconsin announced today they have discovered a way to make ordinary chewing tobacco taste like liquor.

They haven't selected a name for the product yet, but unofficially they hinted it would be something "democratic," because tobacco chewing, they believe, is a democratic habit. And besides that, they added unofficially, this discovery promises tobacco chewers the same kind of a "new deal" that the country's Democratic president-elect promised politically.

The formula for making the tobacco taste like liquor was discovered by Prof. James Johnson, university horticulturist. It is being kept secret.

"Of course, there is no harm in letting it be known that we had to apply to the government for permission to use certain kinds of flavoring," said Lester Galvin, a director of the Wisconsin cooperative tobacco pool, which worked with Johnson in perfecting the product.

FREAK QUAIL

Quanah Hunter Kills Bird With White Breast, Wings

Special to The Record News.

QUANAH, Texas, Dec. 29.—A freak quail was killed a few days ago by L. S. (City) Walker. The bird had a solid white breast and the tips of the wings were also white. Walker said when he flushed the bevy this bird was the lead bird of the bunch, and that its unusual color attracted him and he selected it out of the covey to shoot. The bird was of normal size and except for wings and breast was marked like any other quail. Walker brought the bird to town and exhibited it and will probably have it mounted.

Mr. Mackechney had posted a reward of $10 for recovery of the coat by Dec. 26, but Mr. Sims was eliminated by a matter of three days. A $5 reward stands for conviction of the thief at any time.

Final Junior C-C Meet

The fifth and last group meeting this week of Junior chamber of commerce members will be held at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon at the organization offices in outlining 1933 activities. Frank Wolf will preside at the session. Summaries of suggestions and criticism offered at each gathering will be studied by the program of work committee next week under direction of Chairman Charles B. King before the outline is presented to the directors for approval.

Cleaner Alleys Sought

Assistance of local merchants was asked Thursday by City Manager V. R. Smitham and City Health Officer Dr. R. B. Wolford in keeping alleys in the downtown section clean. Trash thrown into bins, boxes, etc., early in the day becomes scattered over the alley before night, it was stated. If such waste matter could be withheld from the trash receptacles until late afternoon, it was pointed out, it would be picked up by trash-collecting wagons at night. Dr. Wolford and Mr. Smitham asked that business houses downtown comply as largely as possible with that request.

County Relief Head

Manager D. A. Bandeen of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce plans to recommend to Gov. R. S. Sterling at once that a Wichita county chairman be nominated by him for heading a unified welfare group in this county. The action is planned as a result of conferences here with Director Robert W. Kelso of the R. F. C. relief service calling attention to federal requirements for a county-unit organization. The chairman to be selected will head a super-structure group in making and receiving reports of social service agencies already operating in Wichita Falls and other cities of this county. Wichita county is one of about 15 of Texas' 254 that does not have a unit organization, Walter D. Cline said Thursday.

Carbon Monoxide Gas Fatal for Dallas Woman

DALLAS, Dec. 29. (UP)—With the death here today of Mrs. Nellie Thieme, 48, carbon monoxide gas had claimed its fifth Dallas victim within a month.

Mrs. Thieme had been in a critical condition since the night of Dec. 17 when she was overcome by carbon monoxide which escaped from a gas heater in her room.

POSTOFFICE TO CLOSE MONDAY

New Year Holiday Provided For Workers

The approaching close of the holiday period calls for special attention of Wichitans who plan to use facilities of the postal service at the Wichita Falls postoffice, Postmaster O. P. Maricle said Thursday.

The postoffice will observe Monday, Jan. 2, as a New Year holiday. The money order and postal savings windows of the office will be closed all day and the remaining windows will be open only one hour from 8 to 9 o'clock Monday morning.

No mail deliveries will be made except for letters and parcels carrying special delivery postage. In addition starting this week the former schedule of no deliveries on Saturday afternoon will be resumed. Wichitans who desire delivery of mail at any point between noon Saturday, Dec. 31, and 12:01 a. m. Tuesday morning, Jan. 3, must use special delivery stamps.

Tri-State Oil Parley Proposed By Kansans

TOPEKA, Kan., Dec. 29. (UP)—A conference to consider oil and gas problems of Kansas, Texas and Oklahoma was proposed today by the state public service commission.

The commission invited the Texas Railroad commission and Oklahoma Public Service commission to meet at Oklahoma City Jan. 20.

Carl Estes, Texas, Cicero Murray, Oklahoma and Marvin Lee, Wichita, Kan., were nominated as advisers to the commissioners.

Thurman Hill, member of the commissions, said action would be sought to prevent a repetition of "conservation efforts in the states being hit by a recent court decision."

ROTARY HEARS 'CHEF QUARTET'

Food Jugglers Presented In Singing Act

Musical numbers and announcements of coming meetings comprised the program presented before members of the Rotary club Thursday noon at the weekly luncheon meeting at the Kemp hotel.

Impromptu singing by groups enlisted from the Rotary membership provided several numbers, and Steward Larry Schwamb brought forth from the Kemp food laboratories a "chef's quartet" of duskies for several more songs.

Ralph Morgan, retail automobile dealer, and former president of the Altus, Okla., Rotary club, was introduced by Herbert C. Voelcker as a new member.

Announcement was made of an intercity Rotary meet at Amarillo on the night of Jan. 6, and of the joint meeting of local Kiwanis, Lions, Optimists, and Rotary clubs at the Kemp hotel next Wednesday, Jan. 4, at noon.

Father Weeps as Boy Held on Robbery Charges

HOUSTON, Dec. 29. (AP)—While his aged father wept, Roy Zimmerman, 19, was bound over to the grand jury without bond this afternoon after an examining trial on three robbery charges.

Young Zimmerman was charged with the $920 robbery of the Kirby theater Monday night; the $66 Personal Loan bureau robbery Dec. 22 and the $7.50 robbery of the Majestic theater Dec. 19.

Officers finally led the father from the courtroom and escorted him home.

South America's first television company was formed in Argentina.
