Good Sam Place one step closer

The board of directors for Good Sam Place was organized Thursday night, which moves the facility set up to lend a helping hand to Pampa's needy one step closer toward its planned operation February 1.

Jo Ann Jones of First Baptist Church was elected as president of the board.

Other officers elected to serve on the board include the Rev. Richard Whitwam, pastor First United Methodist Church, vice president; Ann Lemons of First United Methodist Church, secretary; Jo Love of First Christian Church, treasurer; and William Tuke of St. Matthew's Episcopal Church, property liaison officer.

A 24 - hour prayer vigil starting at noon Wednesday in St. Matthew's Episcopal Church will begin planned dedication ceremonies for the church - sponsored charity.

Dedication of the Good Sam Place office at 309 N. Ward will be at 12:15 p.m. Thursday.

Volunteers will staff the Good Sam Place office between 2 and 6 p.m. beginning next month.

The purpose of the charity is to provide food, clothing, temporary housing and in some cases, money and medical care to Pampans in need.

Volunteers and donations of canned goods, clothing and money are needed, the organizers say.

Pampa churches sponsoring the project include St. Matthews, First Christian, St. Vincent DePaul Catholic, First United Methodist, First Baptist, First Presbyterian, Lamar Full Gospel Assembly, Zion Lutheran, St. Mark CME, Central Baptist and St. Paul's United Methodist.

Wholesale prices climb less than any time in last 11 years

By SALLY JACOBSEN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices climbed 3.5 percent last year, the smallest rise in 11 years and less than half the gain of 1981, the government reported today.

In December alone, the Labor Department said, prices rose a minuscule 0.1 percent — markedly off from November's 0.6 percent and the smallest one-month change since prices fell 0.1 percent in September.

Economists, assessing the year's greatly improved inflation picture, point to the worldwide oil surplus, which has held down gasoline and heating oil prices; bountiful harvests; and the lingering recession, which has driven the unemployment rate to 10.8 percent, the highest since 1940.

Supporting that view, the department's own analysis said today that energy prices actually fell 0.1 percent since December 1981. In comparison, such costs had soared 14.1 percent in the preceeding 12 months.

Food prices, the department added, rose a modest 2.1 percent in 1982, up only slightly from the 1.4 percent gain of 1981.

The full-year wholesale price gain was sharply under the 7.1 percent registered for all of 1981. Wholesale prices rose 11.8 percent in 1980 and 12.8 percent in 1979.

The 1982 increase was the smallest since the 3.2 percent of 1971.

Wholesale prices actually fell in four months last year, the department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said. The sharpest monthly climb was a 1 percent jump in June.

For all of last year, the department said, the moderation in energy and food prices actually restrained the overall wholesale price gain for consumer goods, which, if those two areas were omitted, would have risen 5 percent.

The department gave this breakdown of specific changes in the Producer Price Index for finished goods, as the wholesale price calculation is formally known:

—Energy costs: Gasoline prices fell 8.6 percent last year, helped by a 0.3 percent drop in December. Natural gas prices, which had soared following congressional price decontrol in 1978, surged 20.7 percent in 1982, although dipping 0.8 percent last month. Home heating oil costs were unchanged for the year despite a 0.4 percent drop in December.

—Food prices: The moderate 2.1 percent yearly gain was helped by a tiny 0.1 percent jump in December. Prices for fresh fruits tumbled 11.9 percent last year and were down 4 percent for the month of December. Vegetable prices tumbled 12 percent for the year, compared with a sharp 12 percent gain in December. Beef and veal prices fell 2.9 percent last year, including a 0.7 percent drop in December. Pork prices, however, skyrocketed 19.7 percent in 1982, although rising 1.1 percent in December. Poultry prices rose a modest 2.2 percent for the year, even though tumbling 2.7 percent last month.

—Automobile prices rose a moderate 1.9 percent last year, compared with a 1 percent increase in December. Light truck prices were up 1.8 percent for 1982 and 0.5 percent in December.

—Capital equipment costs rose 4 percent for the year and 0.6 percent last month. Those costs are for machinery and transportation equipment used by business and industry.

All the increases are adjusted for seasonal variations.

In all, the unadjusted Producer Price Index for finished goods stood at 285.1 in December, meaning that goods costing $10 at wholesale in 1967 would have cost $28.51 last month.

If prices rose for 12 straight months at December's rate, the yearly rise would be 0.8 percent. In reporting its inflation figures, the department bases its compounded annual rate on a more precise calculation of monthly changes than the figure it makes public for the one-month change.

Most sheriff applicants flunk grammar-school test

By RANDALL HACKLEY

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Almost two out of three El Paso sheriff's department applicants flunked a grammar-school level entrance exam that, among other things, tested the aspirants' abilities to spell "felony" and add single-digit numbers, officials say.

Of 340 applicants for 56 openings in the El Paso County sheriff's department, only 128 applicants- or 37 percent- passed, said Sgt. Ralph Mitchell, administrator of the newly designed test.

Those taking the half-hour test must successfully add single-digit numbers, spell words such as "sheriff," and pass a physical and psychological test, said newly appointed Sheriff Mike Davis.

The sheriff's test also features math equations that ask a question but offer a trick sign.

"It's very basic math like two plus two equals four, but a sign might say six," Mitchell said. "That confuses most people only because they don't read the instructions."

"It's a challenging test, and does what it was designed to do-upgrade the department," Davis said. "I'm surprised how high the failure rate is."

A passing score is 74- "a C-grade from where I come from," said Mitchell, who holds a master's degree from Nebraska. "From my reference point, it's a 4th or 5th-grade level test. It's not that difficult."

But hard economic times and 12 percent unemployment rates have swelled the number of applicants for the $11,040-a-year job to a record high, Davis said.

"We're getting more applicants than ever before," the 34-year-old sheriff said.

Officials reported 400 to 500 additional applications already have been filed for any future openings in the sheriff's department.

Last month, Davis replaced former sheriff Reymon Montes, who was forced under Texas law to leave his post after he was convicted of official misconduct. The conviction came because of the misappropriation of a $1,900 check from the department's auctioning of a truck.

Davis, former jail administration and assistant county attorney, called the three-part test "very simple. We want people who can read, write, follow instructions and understand what they're talking about."

Wilkerson, Hunt retain appraisal board seats

By LORI-ANN D'ANTONIO
Staff Writer

R.D. "Jimmy" Wilkerson and Lloyd Hunt will retain their positions as chairman and secretary of the Gray County Appraisal District Board of Directors as a result of elections held at the board's regular meeting last night. Wilkerson and Hunt were reelected for 1983 terms by the board.

The board also voted to transfer $14,775.11 of surplus 1982 budget money to the account which will pay for the district's computer, expected to arrive in mid-February. Added to the $1,656.24 remaining in the computer account, the district had a total 1982 surplus of $16,431.35, according to Charles Buzzard, chief appraiser, who gave a financial report.

Buzzard also gave a reappraisal report, which detailed the areas in which appraisal has been completed by Buzzard and his staff. The Lefors Independent School District and the City of McLean have been appraised, he said, and the staff is now working on rural McLean.

The board also signed a contract with Troy Sloan, Inc. of Spearman, the company which will appraise all the oil and gas production in the appraisal area, as well as oilfield-related industries, such as Cabot Corporation, Celanese Chemical Co. and Ingersoll-Rand. the contract will cost the board $32,650.

Pampa family gassed by faulty furnace

By JEFF LANGLEY
Senior Writer

Four members of a Pampa family and a guest staying at the family's home were treated for carbon monoxide poisoning this morning at Coronado Community Hospital.

Rick W. Beauchamps, 33, his daughters, Shar, 12, and Doris, 9; his son, Rick Jr., 7; and an overnight guest, Tammy VanHoy, 11, daughter of Lois VanHoy, of 421 N. Wells; were stricken by symptoms of CO poisoning shortly after 9 a.m.

The wife and mother of the family, Doris Beauchamps, was reportedly at work when the victims were overcome by the fumes.

After treatment at the scene, the five were taken to the hospital by a Pampa Medical Services ambulance about 9:40 a.m.

A hospital spokesman said all in the group were complaining of the classic symptoms of carbon monoxide poisoning, nausea, grogginess, dizziness, and headaches. The spokesman said the victims were able to walk into the hospital, where they were treated and released.

Officials this morning blamed a faulty wall furnace in the living room of the Beauchamps' home as the source of the poisonous fumes.

Chamber offers two courses on money

The Pampa Chamber of Commerce will offer two seminars next Monday and Tuesday which are open to the entire Pampa community.

A Tax Seminar, for everyone who pays taxes, will be offered on Monday, January 17 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at Clarendon College. The fee for the course is $50 for chamber members and $75 for non-members. The course will be taught by four CPAs, two from the Lewis Meers firm and two from the Charles Cooley firm.

Covered in the course will be tax laws that pertain to businesses in the area. A question and answer period will be part of the seminar and coffee will be provided.

On Tuesday, January 18, from 7 to 9 p.m., the chamber will offer a credit and collections seminar in the Chamber of Commerce conference room, Hughes Building. The cost is $10 for chamber members and $15 for non-members.

The seminar, taught by Brian Vining of the First National Bank, will cover laws governing collection in Texas as well as in other areas. Participants will learn certain guidelines concerning giving credit to customers and handling problems involving that credit.

Also offered on January 17 and 18 is a two-day defensive driving course, taught by Jack Peoples, a safety engineer for Ingersoll-Rand. The cost is $20 per person, and the class will be in the Flame Room, Energas Building, 220 N. Ballard from 6 to 10 p.m. both nights.

This course is a certified Defensive Driving Course, and paricipants may take points off their driving records or save money on their car insurance.

To register for any of the seminars, interested persons should contact the Chamber of Commerce, Hughes Building.

Weather

The area forecast calls for fair weather Saturday, with afternoon highs in the mid 50s. Tonight will be clear and cold with lows in the low 20s, and light and variable northerly winds.

Arrest reveals

The incredible triple life of Audrey Hilley

Then...

By GARY LANGER

MARLOW, N.H. (AP) — A woman charged with murder created a new identity for three years, spinning fantastic tales of a tragic past and huge inheritance — even posing as her own twin sister to convince her new husband she was dead, acquaintances say.

Audrey Marie Hilley, accused of giving arsenic to members of her family before she disappeared in 1979, pleaded guilty Thursday to being a fugitive and was ordered held on $100,000 bail pending extradition to Alabama.

She is charged with killing her husband Frank in 1975 and of poisoning her daughter Carol in 1979, leaving her temporarily paralyzed.

As a fugitive, Mrs. Hilley built a comfortable if secluded life in Marlow, where she was married and living as Lindsay R. Homan, or "Robbie."

But her cover failed, leading to her arrest Wednesday, after she pretended she had died and coming back as her own twin sister. A suspicious co-worker went to the police.

"It goes to show you what you know about people — or what you think you know," said Ronald Oja, who was Mrs. Hilley's supervisor in the sales department of a Keene screw factory. "This one was good. What a con artist."

Acquaintances said Mrs. Hilley, 49, was an intelligent, competent and demanding woman who refused to drive a car and who enjoyed reading gothic romance novels. Her devoted husband, John Homan, brought her a gift every day, and the two lived quietly in a rented cottage three miles from the center of Marlow, population 600.

Oja said she was an "excellent worker" until she left work in September to stay in Texas, supposedly "for a climate change."

But in November, Homan and a woman came to the office to announce that "Robbie" had died from an infection.

"Here's her husband standing in the lobby, and with him is the person who's supposedly dead, but she has blond hair and she lost weight. He introduces her as Terri Martin of Dallas," twin sister of the dead Mrs. Homan, who was a brunette, Oja said.

"He's standing there crying as he's telling me this," said Oja. "I'm kind of a dumb son of a pup and I'm gobbling this all up."

FBI agents say they think John Homan also believed his wife was dead and that "Terri Martin" was her twin.

But a newspaper obituary troubled Oja because it reported the death of Robbie Homan — not Lindsay R. Homan, her "proper" name.

"So I started checking around. The obit said she donated her body to the Medical Research Institute in Texas; it said she was a member of the Sacred Heart Church in Tyler. But none of this panned out."

Oja went to police, who contacted state police, who thought "Terri Martin" might be a Terri Clifton they were looking for.

State police called the FBI, which sent an agent to question her. When asked, she admitted her true identity as Mrs. Hilley.

Police say Mrs. Hilley's odyssey began Nov. 18, 1979, when she vanished from a hotel near Birmingham, Ala., after being released on bond following her indictment for murder and attempted murder. The FBI says she apparently fled to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., adopted an alias and met Homan, a boatbuilder and they started dating.

Homan could not be reached for comment Thursday; he has no telephone.

Homan's relationship with Mrs. Hilley "was the happiest thing that ever happened to him," his younger brother Peter said. "He really loved her."

In September 1980, the couple moved to Marlow and they were married the next spring.

Peter Homan said his sister-in-law "had a lot of stories — mostly horror stories about everybody dying. We put up with a lot of weirdness. ... My brother took me aside one time and told me she had a brain tumor that could be terminal."

Later, she claimed to have a psychological disorder, he said. She also said she had two children by a previous marriage died in a car crash in Tyler, Texas, and her first husband had died of a heart attack.

'82 record shows Pampa grew

By LORI-ANN D'ANTONIO
Staff Writer

Recession or no recession, Pampa grew in 1982.

Sixty four more permits for building new houses were issued in 1982 than in 1981, according to assistant building inspector Shirley Muns.

The Pampa building inspector's office issued 88 permits to build new houses and 121 permits to move mobile homes onto lots, for a total increase of tax valuation of $8,602,219 in new homes in 1982.

Many Pampans elected to remodel or make additions to their existing homes last year. One hundred nine permits were issued for additions and remodeling, such as adding garages or carports or rooms, for a total increase in tax valuation of $782,041.

The Barbed Wire Restaurant, and the Northgate Inn, a new motel, on Perryton Parkway, are two of the commercial units for which permits were issued in 1982. A total of 55 permits either to build new, or remodel existing commercial units were issued.

Pampa's total increase in tax valuation for 1982 was more than fourteen and a quarter - million dollars, which compares to only slightly more than nine million dollars in 1981.

Energas explores a program for helping poor people pay their bills

AMARILLO - Energas, the company that provides natural gas service to Pampa and the surrounding area, has announced that it is establishing a new winter energy assistance program to aid customers in paying their bills.

The program was created as a result of a request by Texas Railroad Commission Chairman Mack Wallace, who urged all natural gas utility companies to create new programs for the disadvanteged, similar to the pilot programs started by utility companies in other states. The Railroad Commission is the state agency that regulates the oil and gas industry in Texas.

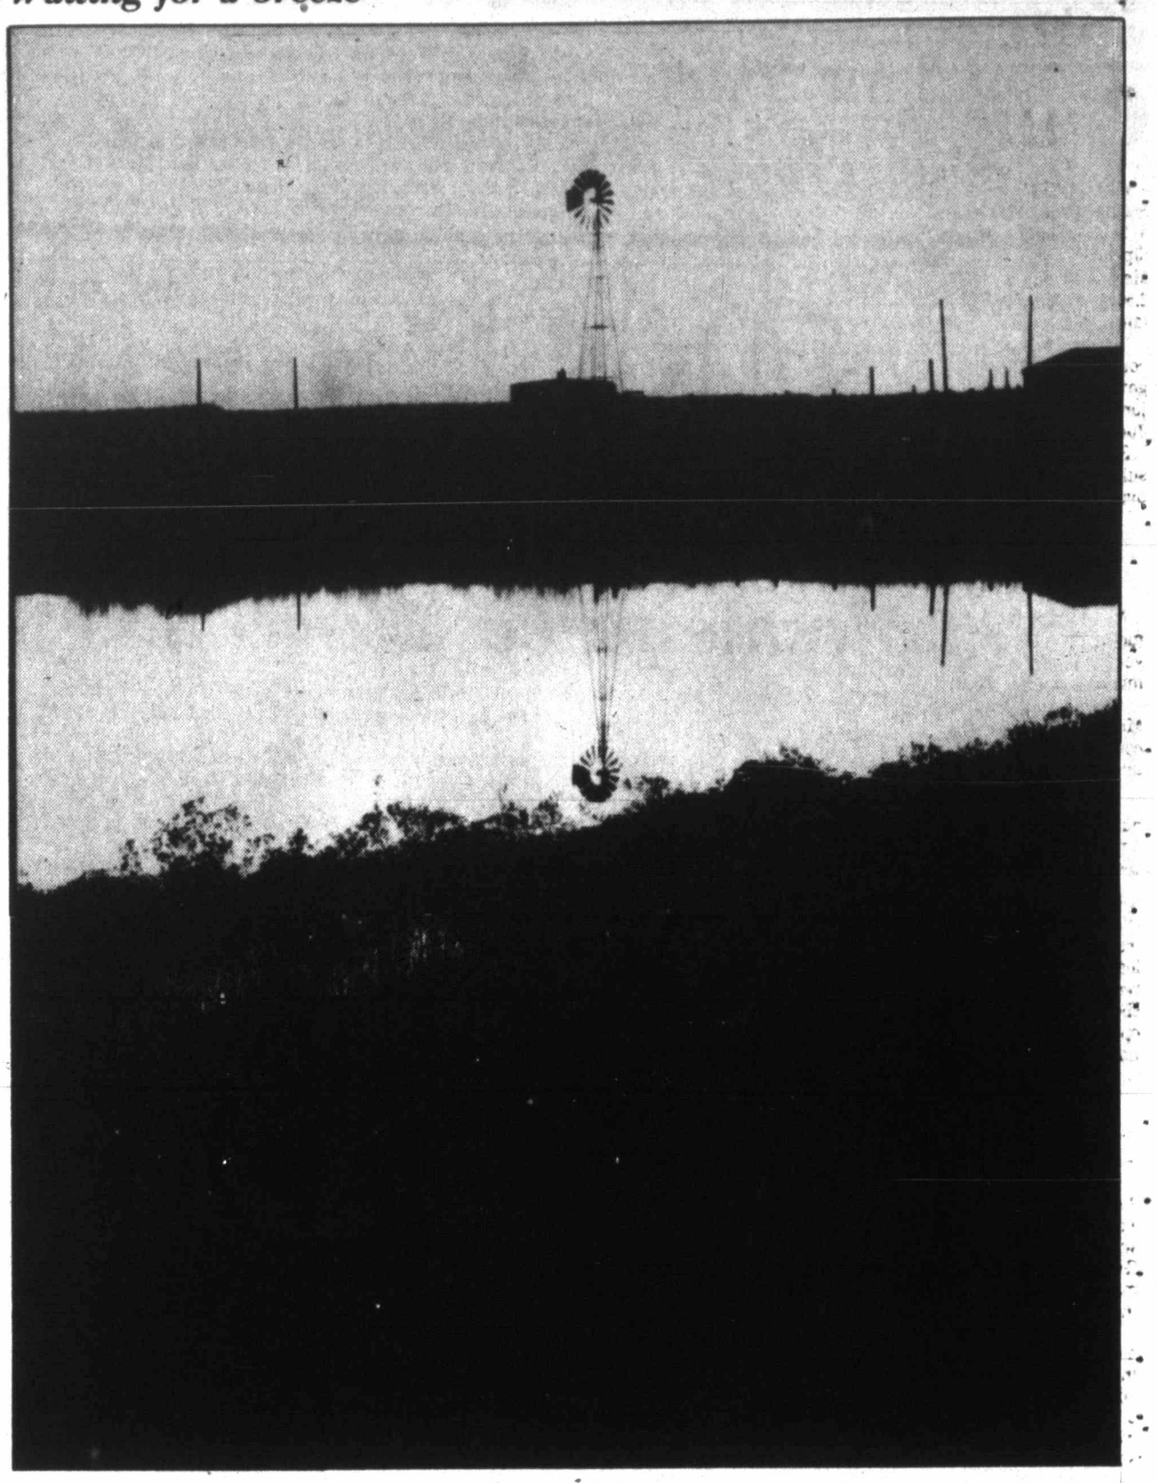

Energas is establishing a program to supplement existing programs of financial aid to customers who would otherswise not be able to pay their heating bills this winter.

"The new program is an extension of procedures Energas already has for halping our customers pay their gas bills," Charles K. Vaughan, Energas president said. "For years, Energas has offfered an individualized deferred payment plan to customers who need help. Now, on Commissioner Wallace's recommendation, we are adding a program of financial aid."

The new program will involve Energas and seven regional charitable organizations, which will receive and distribute money for heating assistance. Preliminary plans call for Energas to make contributions to the agencies, and the agencies will then distribute money to needy people.

Energas will also encourage its employees, customers and the general public to make contributions as well. According to Jerry Searcy, a spokesman for Energas, agreements with the charitable agencies are currently being finalized.

Lefors bus official to take EMT training at Clarendon

By LORI-ANN D'ANTONIO
Staff Writer

The Lefors Independent School District Board of Directors voted last night to pay for the Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) training of its bus supervisor, and extend the contracts of its superintendent and tax assessor for another year.

Johnny Woodard, school bus foreman, had requested the board pay his tuition to the Clarendon College EMT course in Pampa. The board voted to pay for his tuition and books for the course. Woodard will pay his own transportation costs for the four-and-a-half month course.

The contracts of School Superintendent Jerrel Julian and Tax Assessor Virginia Archer were each renewed for another year. The board went into executive session to discuss the contracts, then voted on the contracts in open meeting.

Board members also decided to join two school-related organizations, the Panhandle Area Association of School Boards and the Texas Association of Community Schools. Julian explained the associations and their fees to the board. The Panhandle association is geared to dealing with school problems particular to schools in th Panhandle, and dues are $15 per year.

The statewide organization is for school systems that have only one high school, Julian said. The yearly dues are $150 per year.

Board members also voted to spend $3,000 on repairing the high school track. Julian presented a bid from Vibra Whirl, Inc. of Panhandle, the company that built the Lefors track. The contract will include cleaning, repairing and remarking the track with metric markers instead of the current feet and miles.

Coach Ricky Palmer will attend the Kodak Coaching Clinic in Dallas January 28 and 29, at a cost of $274 to the school district, and Julian will attend the Mid-Winter School Administrator's conference in Austin on Feb. 24 and 25, the board decided.

Action on the student handbook was postponed, because High School Principal Allen Jenkins needed to make changes in the proposal he brought before the board. The handbook will be presented to the board one portion at a time, for approval, Jenkins said. The section presented last night dealt with high school cheerleaders.

Free tax advice coming for Pampa's seniors

Free income tax advice and assistance will be available for Pampa retirees starting Tuesday, February 1 through the Tax-Aide program of the American Association of Retired Persons (AARP).

Volunteer counselors trained by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) will operate a counseling desk in the Pampa Senior Citizens Center, 500 W. Francis, each Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from February 1 to April 15.

Carl Hoskins, coordinator for the tax program, said the service is designed to provide free income tax assistance to persons who cannot afford professional help. Volunteers assist with simple tax returns, particularly those of low income, elderly, shut-ins, and handicapped individuals.

Counselors will help taxpayers understand the various tax forms and take advantage of all deductions and credits to which they are entitled.

For more information, interested persons may call Hoskins at 665-2842.

Court hears century-old dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lawyer for the Mexican government has cautioned a federal judge not to "move into a diplomatic thicket" by trying to force Mexico to pay $1 billion to more than 2,500 descendants of former Texas landowners who lost their land.

"It just isn't wise on balance for our courts to question the acts of a foreign government that take place in a foreign jurisdiction," John H. Shenefield told Judge Thomas F. Hogan on Thursday.

Shenefield asked Hogan to dismiss a suit that revives a century-old battle over 12 million acres of Texas land taken in the late 1800s from its original settlers.

Mexico agreed in 1941 to compensate descendants of the landowners for their loss, but the descendants say no payment has been made.

"When property is taken, there's no discretion to pay," an attorney for the descendants, Vicki Jackson, told Hogan. "Payment is required as a matter of law.

"Your honor, we have waited 42 years," she said. "There are some reasonable limits."

After two hours of arguments witnessed by nearly 100 of the descendants, Hogan gave both sides two weeks to file additional comments.

Robert Salazar, another lawyer for the descendants, said that though 2,500 heirs have been identified, more than 20,000 eventually could benefit from a settlement.

Among those on hand for the hearing was Artemio Torres, 53, of Corpus Christi, who said he was seeking payment for hundreds of thousands of acres once owned by his ancestors in the Nacogdoges and San Antonio areas.

Sewer rates going up in Miami

Miami residents will be paying $10 more per year for their sewers next year, the City Council decided at its monthly meeting Thursday.

After calling the meeting to order, Miami Mayor Tom O'Laughlin told the council the time had arrived to start thinking about next year's budget.

In preparation for setting the annual budget, the councilmen reviewed city employee salaries and raising the sewer charge.

While concidering the sewer charge, O'Laughlin pointed out: the water treatment facility can't operate at a loss; according to city policy, the residents who use the sewer lines, should pay for it; and the cost of operating the treatment plant is rising. Larry Bryant, maintenance employee, said some of the lines may have to be replaced in the next year.

Councilmen voted to raise the sewer charge $10 per year for both residential and business users. This means the cost of using the sewer lines in Miami will go from $45 per year for residential and $55 for business to $55 and $65, respectively. This annual cost breaks down to $4.58 per month for a home on the sewer line.

In reviewing city employees' salaries, Councilman Merle Tennant spoke in favor of granting a cost of living raise. Others pointed out that some employees in Oklahoma businesses are having to accept a cut in salary, because of the recession. No action was taken, pending further investigation.

Roberts County is fixing a dump truck to use as a sand spreader. A spreader can be built for an estimated $300, O'Laughlin told the council, which then voted to pay half the cost of the spreader, because the county is going to let the city use the truck.

In other actions Councilmen voted to accept and pay January's bills, renew the city's certificates of deposits, and discussed where to place the traffic control signs which have been purchased.

The annual Appreciation Dinner which the city gives for the Miami Volunteer Fire Department will be hosted by the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority. The dinner will be February 1 at 6:30 at the school. The cost will be $5.

The next city council meeting will be February 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the City - County Building in Miami.

Board rehires two McLean school officials

McLEAN - The McLean School District Board of Trustees voted to rehire school superintendent Jim Rutherford and business manager Shirley Johnson at their meeting Monday night.

Rutherford's contract will add one more year to his three-year contract, at the current salary of state scale plus $4,500. Johnson's salary will remain at state scale plus $3,250.

Board members decided to hold the trustee election on April 2. Officials for the election will be Roger McCracken, election judge; Pat Durham, Mary Powell and Ruth Lowery, election clerks; and Rose Ann Shank and Sue Simmons absentee clerks.

Trustees also approved a budget amendment of $20,400 to pay for textbooks, special education mileage, athletic supplies, athletic officials and science equipment and carpet for the science - administration building.

Johnson told the board that she had received notice that the bankrupt Rock Island Railroad had offered to pay 90 percent of the taxes owed to the school district, but that the amount offered, just over $19,000, did not include any 1982 taxes or penalties and interest on the old taxes.

According to Johnson, tax lawyers in Amarillo are not sure that the school district could legally accept the proposal. The board voted to wait for the results of legal research before taking action on the offer.

Rutherford reported the cost of liability insurance had decreased dramatically and the school district might consider buying some to protect the school in case of possible liability suits against the school, the board or school employees

The board can buy up to $1 million in coverage for a premium of $770. The board voted for Rutherford to apply for the insurance.

Driver's education classes will continue to cost $75 this year, as a result of board action. Rutherford told the board the fee is about in line with other area schools, and recommended no change.

Jim Allison, board president, told the board he had conculted Jimmy Thompson, a Pampa lawyer, who told him that the school was definitely liable for students traveling to Pampa for the junior - senior banquet. Following a lengthy discussion, the board decided to allow the banquet to be held in Pampa as the junior class had requested.

The board voted to provide release forms for parents to sign if students were going in private cars, and to provide two buses for students whose parents will not allow them to drive to the banquet. Board members also decided to set a firm policy later in the year, so the question of where to hold the banquet will not have to be debated each year.

"If we set the policy before school starts so the kids and the sponsors know what they can or cannot do, I think we would have a fairer policy," Allison said.

Board members went into executive session to decide on the renewal of the contracts for Rutherford and Johnson, then returned to open session to vote on the contracts.

Canadian law force doubles

CANADIAN — The new Canadian police chief has hired a patrolman and may hire another to help him operate the first city police force in about 10 years.

Eddie Langwell began working as chief January 5, and plans are to have the Canadian Police Department fully operational by February 5.

The new city force is taking over law enforcement duties inside the city from the Hemphill County Sheriff's office. For about the past 10 years, the sheriff has provided law enforcement in Canadian under a city - county contract.

City officials said they created the new force because they were not satisfied with the law enforcement provided by the sheriff's department, particularly in the area of traffic control.

Langwell said enforcing traffic laws will be a high priority when the department begins operation next month. He said Canadian drivers who break traffic laws will be issued warning citations when the department first begins work. He said the break for drivers is to get citizens used to stricter traffic control. Later, however, Langwell said, errant drivers will be cited with tickets.

Lawyer says Chagra paid money but didn't order judge's murder

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Jamiel "Jimmy" Chagra may have paid a killer thousands of dollars to keep quiet about the 1979 murder of U.S. District Judge John H. Wood Jr., but he never ordered the assassination, his attorney told a federal jury.

Chagra delivered extortion money to convicted hit man Charles V. Harrelson after Harrelson approached him and said: "Chagra, I killed the judge. I want to get paid for it," defense attorney Oscar Goodman said Thursday in an opening statement at Chagra's murder trial.

Goodman said the defense would not try to disprove that Harrelson shot Wood in the back with a rifle on May 29, 1979, the day the stiff-sentencing judge known as "Maximum John" was originally to begin presiding at Chagra's trial on drug-related charges in Texas.

"Jimmy Chagra does not know if Charles Harrelson killed Judge Wood," the Las Vegas attorney said.

He said Chagra had no reason to fear a stiff sentence from Wood because his attorneys were only five years apart from government prosecutors in an effort to plea-bargain a prison sentence.

Tape recordings in which Chagra allegedly bragged of the murder to another inmate at Leavenworth Penitentiary resulted from Chagra talking "like a tough guy in order to survive" in prison, Goodman said.

"When you keep your mind open, look for motive. And when you listen to the conversations, ask yourself if these are real things that are being discussed," he told jurors.

Chagra, 39, is accused of paying Harrelson $250,000 to kill Wood. He is charged with murder, conspiracy to commit murder and conspiracy to obstruct justice. The trial was moved to Jacksonville because of pretrial publicity in Texas.

Earlier, prosecutor Ray Jahn said Chagra, a flamboyant high-stakes Las Vegas gambler, had Wood killed to remove him from the case.

"The evidence will show that Jimmy Chagra was afraid. The evidence will show that he took every legal recourse he could to have Judge Wood removed. The evidence will show that, failing that, he had Judge Wood murdered," Jahn said.

The first prosecution witnesses called were police officers who were among the first to arrive at Wood's apartment after he was shot. Photographs they took were introduced as evidence, as were FBI scale drawings and a model of the Chateau Dijon Townhomes where Wood was killed.

Also called was Chrysanthe Lambros, a resident of the Chateau Dijon who described being bumped in an entranceway by a "squinty-eyed" man on the morning of May 29, 1979, before the shooting occurred.

She said 18 months later she picked the man out of a lineup in Houston and he was identified as Harrelson.

EVER STRIVING FOR TOP O' TEXAS TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

Louise Fletcher, Publisher — Anthony Randles, Managing Editor

1983 shows signs of a good year

Because years are made memorable mostly by disasters, it's not a bad thing that 1982 was on the prosaic side.

Even though it was not the worst of times, neither was 1982 the best of times. Much of mankind on every continent was blighted by a deepening worldwide depression. The want and insecurity induced by an unemployment rate in excess of 10 percent in the U.S. were compounded almost everywhere else.

Tragically, the year was not without warfare. Britain's campaign to retake the Falkland Islands after Argentina's seizure of them and Israels's invasion of Lebanon to rid that country of the Palestine Liberation Organization's threatening presence saw young men dying in two brief, bitter wars that turned out well from our standpoint. And Afghans continued to resist the Soviet invaders of their homeland.

The communists tightened their grip over Poland and continued their guerilla aggression against Central America. Meanwhile, two major revelations during the year did as much as anything in modern times to expose the immorality and ruthlessness of the Soviet Union. On the basis of evidence it has uncovered, the Italian government has charged the assassination attempt on Pope John Paul II 19 months ago was part of an international conspiracy originating within the Soviet bloc, specifically in Bulgaria, the most supine of Soviet satellites. Inescapably implicated is the Soviet secret police, the dreaded KGB, and most significantly Yuri Andropov, who was its head at the time, and is now leader of the Soviet Union.

Irrefutable evidence piled up during the year proved the Soviets and their surrogates are engaging in chemical warfare in Afghanistan, Laos and Cambodia. This has come to be know "yellow rain."

The rise of Andropov to head the Soviet Union after the death of Leonid Brezhnev was perhaps the most significant development during 1982. Instead of the indecisive, enfeebled leadership it knew in Moscow during Brezhnev's declining years, the West must now face a much more vile and vital adversary.

Thus the free world faces in 1983 a far sharper challenge in confining the Soviet Union and in negotiating some semblance of arms control.

Next in the order of crucial problems, of course, is the glob's lame economy. It appears the rest of the world will not be able to get out of bed until the U.S. does.

The recovery may not come as quickly or as vigorously as everyone hoped, but signs of it are much brighter than a year ago. There are now good reasons for some optimism. Even thought the stock market retains a disquieting degree of nervousness that is reflected in unexpected drops here and there, it has been steadily rising for a period of months. Arcane factors in the market have sometimes given off wrong signals about future recessions, but rising stock prices have never failed to herald economic recovery.

There are other hopeful portents: the government's index of leading economic indicators rose 0.8 percent in November, the seventh increase in the last eight months. And the sale of new houses jumped 12 percent in November to the highest rate in two years. "A recovery is building," says Martin S. Feldstein, chief of the president's Council of Economic Advisers, without equivocation.

This we can not afford!

By PAUL HARVEY

President Reagan has a problem. He is under enormous pressure from Congress and from his own advisors to cut military spending.

He does not sant to cut military spending.

As our Commander - in - Chief he is sworn to provide for our nation's defense and he is convinced our present hardware is inadequate.

However...

Nations can also die by drowing in red ink. And this year the red ink is 200 billion dollars over our heads and rising.

With men and nations there are things we would like to have which we just cannot afford. There is one thing our nation cannot afford.

We can do without extra firepower: we cannot do without quality military personnel.

Three years ago our military manpower was a shambles. It has improved dramatically.

Higher pay encourages reenlistment.

Effective PR has facilitated recruiting.

All services are meeting enlistment quotas without a draft.

The services are attracting and keeping more, better and more experienced personnel.

But now...

In our preoccupation with budget cutting we are canceling out recent military pay raises with reduced emergency leave money and reduced subsistence allowances and reduced mileage allowances and Congress is threatening further cuts.

This punishes patriotism.

I hear it argued that there is no way adequately to pay professional military men and women for their 60 hour work weeks and their no - overtime and their gypsy existence.

Nuts to that!

Generations past may have proclaimed allegiance without reservation - but this is a wiser generation.

Also, tradition says that America, between wars, spits on the uniform. We can't get away with that anymore, either.

And you are not going to attract and keep the supermen and women we need if you maltreat them or short - change their families.

Let's have one less battlewagon if that's what it takes to attract and keep our best men and women in uniform. To do less is to leave our awesome military technology in clumsy hands.

That we cannot afford.

Merely a GOP disaster

By Robert Walters

WASHINGTON (NEA) — For the Republican Party, the only solace provided by the results of this year's elections is that the GOP performance can be classified as merely a serious disaster rather than a major catastrophe.

Describing the change in the composition of the House of Representatives as a shift of 25 seats from Republican to Democratic control fails to fully reflect the magnitude of the political calamity visited upon the GOP.

The dimensions of the Republican setback become more apparent when viewed with respect to a number of especially revealing political indicators:

— Not since 1922, during the tenure of President Warren G. Harding, a Republican, has the political party in control of the White House lost as many House seats in the middle of its president's first term.

— The House battleground consisted of approximately 100 of the country's 435 congressional districts — and the Democrats won slightly more than two-thirds of the fiercely contested races in those marginal districts.

— Of the 29 incumbent representatives defeated in this year's general election, only three were Democrats while 26 were Republicans.

— In the 32 congressional districts where political control switched from one party to another, the Democrats scored 27 victories while the Republicans won only five races.

— The Republican Party assigned its highest priority to protecting the GOP freshmen seeking re-election — 50 new House members elected with President Reagan in 1980 and two others who won special elections in 1981. Notwithstanding the vast infusion of money and talent into those campaigns on the part of national Republican committees and sympathetic political action committees, one-quarter of those freshmen, derisively characterized by the Democrats "Reagan robots," failed in their bids for re-election.

— The Republicans were expected to be the principal beneficiaries of the redistricting requried by the 1980 census because they possessed the money and technical expertise to dominate that process and because most of the newly created districts are in the Sun Belt states of the West and South where the GOP enjoys substantial influence.

But in the 21 new congressional districts, Democratic candidates won 12 contests while Republican nominees were victorious in only nine.

Most of the Democratic victories in that category were registered in the three most populous Sun Belt states. The party's candidates won four of five races in California, all three in Texas and two of four in Florida.

The political division of the Senate — 54 Republicans and 46 Democrats — remains unchanged by the Nov. 2 elections, but the collapse of the Democrats' euphoric (and unrealistic) mid-October vision of recapturing control of that chamber this year provides little succor for the Republicans.

Most striking is the fact that the GOP was unable to record any net gain in a year when the 33 Senate positions to be filled included 21 Democratic seats and only 12 Republican seats.

Republican leaders privately acknowledge that it was crucial for their party to consolidate, if not strengthen, its political position in the Senate this year if it hoped to maintain control of the chamber in the mid and late 1980s.

In 1984, 19 Republicans and 14 Democrats are up for re-election while the 1986 ratio is an even more lopsided 22 Republicans and 12 Democrats — with a number of those GOP senators believed to be especially vulnerable to challenges.

Finally, the Republicans suffered a net loss of seven governorships, increasing Democratic dominance from a relatively close 27-23 ratio to a skewed 34-16. That represents the weakest Republican showing since the post-Watergate years of 1974 and 1976, when the GOP controlled only 13 and 12 seats, respectively.

Moreover, shifts in governorships have in recent decades become an unusually reliable "leading indicator" of the presidential election two years later — and the trend this year was clearly in the Democrats' favor.

Our greatest resource

By ANTHONY HARRIGAN

With the advent of a new year, it is worthwhile to look around and see the resources the country has in this period of adversity.

America's greatest resource is its bright, energetic and ambitious young people. From their dreams and work will come the prosperity of tomorrow. This is a fact, not simply a commencement season cliche.

Countless young people are in the early phase of their career. They expect to make their mark in life and be successful. If they lack experience, they also are fortunate in that they don't have the depression syndrome. They aren't inclined to look on the dark side.

Heavens knows, there's much to be concerned about today. On the other hand, the young Americans who will run the country a decade hence are confident that they can create wealth and improve our way of life. They are planning ways to put money to work in new business projects. If they are engineers or scientists, they are convinced that there are many inventions in our future, which will result in new business opportunities and better living.

The world is in one of its periodic down phases, but young people continue to be enthusiastic about the future. They know, for example, that Americans need more and better housing, improved public transportation, more advanced medical care facilities, new communications and learning machines. They intend to be involved in developing the goods and services that are coming into being in the 1980s.

The country is experiencing hard times after many good years, but pessimism isn't likely to take root in a people traditionally given to optimism. The can - do spirit is very strong in Americans, despite the problems of today. Innumerable young Americans are studying the changes taking place in our economy and society and pondering ways to find new opportunities in the climate of change. For example, a young man from Michigan recently told me that he had done very well in selling ski equipment in an area plaqued by layoffs at industrial plants.

I remember, as a youngster in the Great Depression, touring a model home in Garden City, New York. The economic situation was appalling, but the model house excited the attention of thousands of people who toured it and marveled at the super - modern kitchen. This type of model home sparked new enterprises. The same sort of thing is happening today as countless young people discover home computers and their extraordinary capabilities. From such discoveried will come new occupations, new jobs and new investment.

In the midst of hard times, we should look at the bright side and understand the importance of the dreams that fill the minds of young Americans.

Customers want phone bills doubled

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — More than 250 people in southern Wisconsin have asked a state commission to double their phone bills, hoping to protect 85 local jobs by helping a family-owned telephone company.

"This is the first time anybody in this agency can remember anything like this happening," Public Service Commission spokesman Al Guyant said Thursday. "It's a very genuine expression of part of the community's feelings."

As far as Guyant knows, no one has written opposing the proposed rate boost for financially ailing United Telequipment Corp., which serves 10,000 customers in Green, Iowa, Dane and LaFayette counties.

In effect, people writing the commission are asking to pay an average of $12.20 per month for their telephone services rather than the average $6.25 they now pay or the $7.20 rate tentatively approved by the commission last week, Commissioner Branko Terzic said.

Terzic and the commission chairman, Stanley York, voted to grant the company a total increase of $375,000 instead of the $1.05 million it had requested.

But this week, letters began pouring into the commission offices at the urging of a front-page editorial in the Monroe Evening Times last Friday. The newspaper encouraged its 8,500 subscribers to ask the commission to reconsider.

The editorial said the company would have to be sold unless it got the extra money, and asked what would become of United Telequipment's 85 workers.

"Let's face it, no matter who owns the company, telephone customers' rates are going to double, possibly even triple, during the next few months," the newspaper said. "Loss of a local company is not a subject to be taken lightly."

The company filed in August for reorganization under Chapter 11 of the Federal Bankruptcy Act, and commission auditors say it is $3 million in debt.

United Telequipment has not been allowed to raise rates since 1969 because its former president, James O. Driver Sr., refused to submit the required information to the Public Service Commission. He argued the company should not be subject to the commission's regulation.

Clements gets little applause

AUSTIN (AP) — The Texas Constitution required Gov. Bill Clements to make a closing address to the Legislature, but nothing said legislators had to applaud — and they didn't.

Legislators stood and applauded when Clements entered and again after he finished his state of the state speech Thursday. But they failed to interrupt his address with spontaneous applause even one time.

Clements noted challenges facing Texas — such as water, education, prisons and jobs — but said there is absolutely no reason to enact a new tax bill.

He asked the Legislature to carry on his crusade of reducing the size of state government and recommended less money for public education, non-partisan election of judges, an appointed Board of Education, a limitation of two four-year terms for all statewide elected officials and a procedure for bypassing the Legislature in enacting laws.

Legislators, so to speak, sat on their hands.

There was no applause during the 23-minute speech, which Clements, his voice cracking, concluded by saying, "God bless you and may you always have fair skies and a following sea."

"This is the first state of the state speech I've ever heard that was not interrupted by applause," said Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas. "I think it was a perfunctory attempt to justify the last four years, which I don't think will stand the scrutiny of history."

Two Republicans attributed the lack of applause to the seriousness of the governor's remarks and the fact that he is a lame duck.

"If he was an incoming governor, full of hope, vim and vigor, his speech would have been punctuated by applause," said Sen. Don Henderson, R-Houston.

Referring to applause for Clements before and after the governor's speech, Henderson said, "He was well received when he came in and it was better when he left."

Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby said he "didn't notice" how quiet it was, but he added that he thought it was ironic that Clements would assert there was no need for new taxes, yet submit a two-year budget that would require an extra $1 billion in tax revenue.

Hobby said there was a "certain parallel" between the governor's remarks on finances and President Reagan "submitting a budget with the largest deficit in history" and proposing a constitutional amendment prohibiting budget deficits.

"It's kind of like Will Rogers said, 'Republicans go in on promises and come out on alibis,'" said Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin. "He entered office promising $1 billion in tax relief that never came.

State pay raises recommended by Clements

AUSTIN (AP) — Outgoing Gov. Bill Clements has submitted his budget proposal to the Texas Legislature, asking for a 6 percent annual pay raise for state employees and an 18 percent pay hike for schoolteachers over the next two years.

After giving his recommendation to the lawmakers Thursday, Clements promptly recommended it be cut by $1 billion to meet reduced revenues anticipated by the state comptroller.

Clements, who leaves office Tuesday when Gov.-elect Mark White is sworn in, said his budget would mean a total of $24.6 billion in state funds for 1984-85, an increase of $4.8 billion, or 24.2 percent, over the previous two years.

Clements said his $32.9 billion recommendation included $6.1 billion in federal funds, including $976 million from the recent increase in the federal gasoline tax. Including all funds, the budget is a 22.7 percent increase over 1982-83.

The Legislative Budget Board earlier recommended a $31 billion budget from all funds, an 18 percent increase.

Clements said the high points of his budget included:

— A 6 percent annual increase for state employees.

— A two-year increase of $294.2 million to provide additional staff and operating funds for the Texas Department of Corrections, plus another $309 million for construction and repair projects.

— A two-year increase for the Board of Pardons and Paroles to speed up inmate release and transition.

— A $20.1 million allocation for two years to provide additional traffic law enforcement of drunken driving laws.

— Funds to establish a commision on drug abuse.

— A biennial increase of $148 million for essential services to mentally ill and mentally retarded in state hospitals plus another $68.9 million for community care centers.

— More than $50 million for research and development in higher education.

— $30 million to upgrade facilities and enrigh programs at two state black institutions, Texas Southern University and Prairie View A&M University.

— An average two-year salary increase of 18 percent to schoolteachers.

— Supplemental school aid to the poorest school districts and to large district affected by population shifts.

Weapons cuts may be better

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Joint Chiefs of Staff would have been willing to give up some weapons funds for a military pay raise, but were not consulted before President Reagan decided on defense spending cuts, according to Gen. Charles Gabriel.

Gabriel, Air Force chief of staff, told reporters at a breakfast meeting Thursday that "the part that bothers us most in the military is the personnel pay cuts."

Reagan decided to freeze any fiscal 1984 pay increases for the 2.1 million men and women in uniform. The freeze decision, backed by budget director David Stockman, was reported earlier this week by sources in the Pentagon and elsewhere in the administration, but has not been acknowledged by the White House.

"We were not consulted in the way the cuts were made," Gabriel said, adding that the service chiefs would have been willing to trade some procurement funds for a pay increase.

About eight hours after Gabriel's meeting with reporters, the Pentagon issued an unusual statement representing the Joint Chiefs as supporting the president.

The statement quoted Marine Gen. Robert Barrow, acting chairman of the Joint Chiefs, as saying on behalf of all five of the service chiefs that the U.S. military establishment "is ready to respond to the president's request and do its part in restoring economic strength to the nation."

Barrow also was quoted as saying that "relations between the Joint Chiefs and the White House have never been better."

Since a pay freeze is reflected in prompt savings, it apparently was attractive to the White House at a time when the budget deficit for the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1 is expected to approach $200 billion without moves to trim it.

Marriage Enrichment at Central Baptist

The new "Marriage Enrichment" film series will begin at the Central Baptist Church at 6 p.m. Sunday, Jan. 16.

The eight - part series is open to the public without admission fee and a nursery will be provided.

The color films feature Dr. Carl Brecheen, a marriage counselor, and Dr. Paul Failkner, a certified marriage and family therapist who supervises counselor training for the American Association of Marriage and Family Therapy.

The film series offers bible - centered ways to renew stable marriages and also provides hope for troubled marriages. Brecheen and Faulkner have an optimistic, practical message for couples who are tempted to say, "Is this as good as marriage gets?"

The films contain live presentations plus illustrative dramatic scenes. Titles of the films are: Made for Each Other, The Trouble With Us Is Me, What Husbands Need to Know, What Wives Need to Know, How to Kill Communication, The Communication Lifeline, Speaking Frankly About Sex and Renewing Romance in Marriage.

Victory Faith Fellowship presents satellite seminars

Victory Faith Fellowship, 523 W. Foster, has become an affiliate member with Word of Faith in Dallas in the presentation of monthly "live by satellite" seminars.

The first of the seminars will be presented at 7 p.m. each evening Sunday through Wednesday, Jan. 16 - 19, with T. L. Osborne.

In the coming months such well known ministers as John Osteen, Bib Tilton, Jerry Savelle, Ken Copeland and Paul Cho will also be broadcast.

Pastors Ronnie and Sherri Branscum invite all who desire good "word" teaching and those needing miracles from God to attend the seminars.

The two hour program will be received by a satellite dish and projected on a large screen. A nursery will be provided.

Faith tested as hostage

By O.C. DOELLING
Associated Press Writer

For Kathryn Koob, a farmer's daughter from Jesup, Iowa, whose faith sustained her through an unusual international crisis, religion was part of her life "from the moment I was old enough to fold my hands and lisp 'amen.'"

At home, in "the land where the tall corn grows," she had mastered her Lutheran catechism without realizing how vital it would become for her decades later.

The severest test of her faith awaited her in revolutionary Iran, where the U.S. government sent her in 1979 to direct the Iran-American cultural center in Tehran.

As one of 52 Americans taken hostage by Iranian militants, she was forced for the first time to examine whether she truly could follow Christ's injunction to "love your enemies."

Her personalized account of the 444-day hostage crisis is as free of self-pity as it is of self-righteousness. She makes no attempt to hide the annoyance, anger and despondency she frequently felt while in the hands of the Iranian student militants.

She lived in constant fear although there was only one overt threat from her Iranian captors. Some bullied her. Others showed a zealous concern for her well-being or subjected her and the other captives to petty harassment.

Cut off from the outside world, not fully grasping the enormity of the crisis surrounding the hostages, she endured a "day to day battle for stability."

She became grateful for small pleasures. After hope faded that she would be released in time for Christmas 1979, she determined to "find out if Christmas was really what I had always claimed: the celebration of the birth of the Savior."

It wasn't until four months after the seizure of the embassy that she was placed together with the only other woman among the remaining hostages — Elizabeth Ann Swift, an embassy political officer who also found succor in her Christian faith.

Testimony of how well it served them came from Christian clergymen who were allowed to visit the hostages on Easter 1980. They reportedly told guards that "the women were the best adjusted of the hostages" they had seen.

One of those ministers, the Rev. Jack Bremer of Lawrence, Kan., provided the answer to one of Miss Koob's most troubling spiritual questions.

"I had wondered so often how to pray for the Ayatollah (Ruhollah Khomeini) and the leaders of Iran. Now Pastor Bremer had prayed that the love and light of God would so fill Iran that God's will would be done. Here was my answer," Miss Koob rejoiced.

Is the end near?

By George R. Plagenz

People were leaving the party and wishing each other a happy new year.

One doomsayer said gloomily, "Well, let's hope 1983 is a happy year. It could be our last."

A woman in her 50s chimed in, "I don't really care if the world comes to an end. I've had a good life and my children now are all grown."

If you are a fatalist, these are two possible ways to face the nuclear threat. You can be depressed over the prospect or you can take it with a shrug, figuring we all have to die sometime anyway.

There are other fatalists, however, who are literally excited over the probability that the world is in its last days. Strangely enough, these are religious people.

"We should be living like persons who don't expect to be around much longer — living with optimism, with anticipation, with excitement," says Hal Lindsey, author of "The Late Great Planet Earth," the best-seller of the 1970s which is enjoying a revival in popularity today.

"The end is so near," Rex Humbard told his TV audience not long ago, "that we ought to stop worrying about the signs and start listening for the trumpet sounds."

The reason for the optimisim of the Bible-believing Christians is that, in their view, while the world is teetering on the brink of the Great Tribulation, a cosmic disaster foretold in the Bible, the believers in Christ will be spared.

What will be the end for everybody else will be the living end for them.

They base their hope on something St. Paul said. The believers will be snatched away to safety by Christ (an event known as the "Rapture") before the Apocalypse or the final bloody battle at the end of the world prophesied in the book of Revelation.

It is possible, however, to see the signs of a world-ending nuclear war on the near horizon without being a fatalist.

The Physicians for Social Responsibility (PSR), for instance, are warning Americans about the horror in store for all of us in the event of a nuclear holocaust.

But they are holding out hope that Americans will be so aroused by the prospect awaiting us ("millions of rotting corpses, our defense mechanisms depleted by radiation, subject to epidemics of plague, polio and typhoid ...") that nuclear war can be avoided by a massive public outcry against the country's military buildup.

What the PSR is saying to those smug fatalists who are telling themselves, "We've got to die sometime anyway," is that in a nuclear war you cannot count on dying. Millions will survive a nuclear disaster but will experience a "horror beyond comprehension" (as Jonathan Schell says in his book, The Fate of the Earth") in which most doctors will themselves be victims and hospitals will be destroyed.

But though the hour is late and the skies over the world are ominous, the PSR says there is still time to save the earth if we wake up in time.

There is still another way to approach the worsening world situation in 1983. It is to tell ourselves that everything is going to be all right, that what the country is doing to strengthen our military arsenal will bring not war but peace.

It Takes a Lot to Satisfy
A HEALTHY APPETITE

Anyone that has ever tried to fill the bottomless pits of growing boys will tell you that it is practically an impossibility. Yet we must continue to feed them so that they will continue to grow.

With the right kind of encouragement from parents, these boys will develop a hunger for God's word. Take them to church Sunday where they may study and learn more of God's word.

"Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled."

Coleman Adv.

EVERYONE IN THE CHURCH — THE CHURCH IN EVERYONE

The Church is God's appointed agency in this world for spreading the knowledge of His love for man and of His demand for man to respond to that love by loving his neighbor. Without this grounding in the love of God, no government or society or way of life will long persevere and the freedoms which we hold so dear will inevitably perish. Therefore, even from a selfish point of view, one should support the Church for the sake of the welfare of himself and his family. Beyond that, however, every person should uphold and participate in the Church because it tells the truth about man's life, death and destiny; the truth which alone will set him free to live as a child of God.

Administration says that illegally gathered evidence should be valid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A policeman's error in collecting evidence, even when it technically violates the Constitution, is insufficient reason to dismiss a case, the Reagan administration has told the Supreme Court.

The administration, trying to kill the so-called exclusionary rule that bans illegally gathered evidence, told the court Thursday the provision contributes to the nation's crime problem.

Solicitor General Rex E. Lee said in a written brief that after 69 years of applying the rule, "The time has come for recognition by this court that, at least in the case of reasonable good faith violations of the Fourth Amendment, the exclusionary rule is entirely unjustified."

The rule is based on the Fourth Amendment, which prohibits illegal search and seizure. Enacted by the Supreme Court for federal trials in 1914, the rule bars illegally gathered evidence from criminal trials.

The court broadened the ruling in 1961 to cover state and local trials.

John Shattuck, representing the American Civil Liberties Union, told the court the Reagan proposal is "a devastating mistake."

Shattuck argued that judges would have no way to determine whether policemen were acting in good faith. He said they would simply have to accept the government's assurance that they were.

"This would send a signal to local police that it's not necessary to get a warrant in all cases and place a terrible burden on them in judging when to get a warrant," Shattuck said.

Modifiying the rule is a major objective of the Reagan administration's anti-crime program. Legislation it proposed to provide a good faith exception to the rule has stalled in Congress.

The Supreme Court re-opened the dispute last Nov. 29 when it asked for new arguments in an Illinois case specifically on the question of whether a good faith exemption should be created.

The case involves Lance and Susan Gates, suspects who have yet to stand trial in a Bloomingdale, Ill., drug investigation.

Police received an anonymous letter in 1978 alleging that the couple was shipping illegal drugs from Florida and had $100,000 worth of drugs in their basement. Acting on that tip, police officers followed the couple as they drove back from Florida and found 350 pounds of marijuana in the trunk of their car.

The police had a court warrant to search for drugs, but the Illinois Supreme Court ruled that the anonymous informant's information was too vague to support a legitimate warrant.

Walesa returning to shipyard

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Lech Walesa is going back to work at the Lenin shipyard in Gdansk, saying he is "determined to fight with peaceful means" for the aims of the independent labor movement he led from its founding at the Baltic port yards.

"I shall return to the birthplace of Solidarity convinced that at present I belong among the people who have given me their full confidence," Walesa said in a statement read by an aide to Western reporters over the telephone Thursday.

The statement said Walesa would return to his electrician's job today.

Solidarity, the only independent trade union in the Soviet bloc until it was suspended under martial law, was banned last Oct. 8 by a new labor law that sharply restricts the growth of new unions.

Under the law, workers cannot strike for political demands and nationwide labor networks like Walesa headed are proscribed. In their place, the government has created 2,500 local unions that critics say are too tightly controlled by the military government.

So far, only a small number of workers have joined the new unions in Gdansk and other parts of Poland.

Walesa was fired from the shipyard before Solidarity was created, but won reinstatement during the 1980 strikes in which the union was formed. Officials have said he is free to return to work or join the new union in Gdansk.

Walesa was interned for 11 months under the martial law imposed Dec. 13, 1981. He was freed in November after the government decided it had vanquished Solidarity when a strike call received only lackluster popular response.

But Walesa was optimistic as he prepared to return to work at the V.I. Lenin shipyard, which was the focus of sometimes violent worker protests before and during martial law.

Reagan vetoing proposal to create a drug czar

WASHINGTON (AP) — Concerned about costs and the prospects of increasing the government's drug enforcement bureaucracy, President Reagan is vetoing a crime bill that would have created a "drug czar."

Administration officials said the president planned to veto the measure today, disregarding the advice of a key Senate Republican and a liberal Democrat.

The drug czar would have been given extensive powers over federal agencies to conduct the government's efforts to stem the abuse of drugs and the smuggling of drugs into the United States.

Reagan was urged to approve the bill by Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and by Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., a sponsor of the measure. They visited the White House last week to lobby against a veto.

The congressional watchdog agency, the Government Accounting Office, supported the measure, stating that central management of drug enforcement was necessary.

The drug czar, who would have been appointed by the president, could order Cabinet officials to follow his priorities.

Associate Attorney General Rudolph Giuliani said the drug czar provision of the crime bill was "naive, simplistic and hopelessly flawed."

Giuliani called the measure irresponsible, saying it would force a reorganization of Reagan's Cabinet system and law enforcement programs without ever having been the subject of a congressional hearing.

"How could you have the attorney general tell the secretary of defense how to use his resources?" Giuliani asked, referring to the authority a drug czar, possibly the attorney general, would have over other officials.

As currently organized, the government's efforts to halt narcotics abuse in the United States involve the Drug Enforcement Administration and the FBI.

Giuliani said every federal agency taking part in the anti-drug campaign opposed the naming of a drug czar.

Dear Abby

Hidden fiancee worried that she may be a fool

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1983 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My fiance is divorced and has two children who live with his "ex." We've been engaged for a year and have been living together for over six months. In the last year I've seen his children only once. His ex-wife does not want them near me, so I am not allowed to see them. My fiance does nothing to correct this. He doesn't realize how hard it is for me to handle being treated like I'm invisible.

He doesn't let me answer the phone, and he won't let me put my name on the mailbox. When I complain about the situation, he either doesn't want to discuss it or he changes the subject.

I don't think his ex-wife and children know that I still exist. I would like them to know that I am still a part of his life, love him very much and do everything in my power to make him happy.

Why does he keep me hidden? Is he sick, or am I just a fool?

FOOL IN THE CLOSET

DEAR FOOL: He is not sick, he's slick. He has all the benefits of marriage and none of the responsibilities. You're a housekeeper, bed partner and obedient servant who lives in the closet because your "fiance" wants it that way. Demand to be acknowledged, recognized and treated like a fiance. If he refuses and you continue to live in the closet, you are indeed a fool.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Recently my son, Tony, got a speeding ticket while giving me a ride to a bingo game. He is angry about the ticket because he didn't want to do this in the first place. He says that's the reason he was speeding and, therefore, the reason he got the ticket. He insists that I go to court and say that he wasn't really speeding.

Abby, I don't want to be a liar, but with neither of us working, we just don't have the money to pay for a ticket. Also, I'm afraid of losing my son's friendship if I don't.

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Don't lie for your son. What you lose in "friendship," you will gain in respect.

You need to get your priorities in order, Mother. Since you are unemployed, bingo is an extravagance you can ill afford. Think about it.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: Thirteen years ago, I underwent psychotherapy regularly for two years. Today I would like to have access to (and review) my files, but I do not wish to return to the same psychotherapist. Whose files are they? Mine or his?

What is the proper way to handle this?

WITHHOLD MY NAME

Grads' give TV series high mark

NEW YORK (AP) — The songs are ended but the melodies linger on for the "alumni" of "Sesame Street," the long-running educational television series for children.

A new study of youngsters on the impact of the show they watched as preschoolers indicated that it helped 85 percent prepare for school.

In the survey conducted among fifth- and sixth-graders by the Center for Research in Children's Television at Harvard University, some 88 percent also felt that the series had taught them good ways to relate to other people, "to share, to be nice and to cooperate."

The researchers reported that Sesame Street, which has started its 14th season, retains a special place in the childhood memories of the 9-to-12-year-olds queried. Every one of the respondents remembered watching the show as a preschooler, with 89 percent stating they had viewed it every day. Ninety-two percent still could describe parts of programs.

The Muppet characters were most memorable to the youngsters, with Big Bird, Ernie and Bert subjects of the highest recall.

Local girls chosen for Miss T.E.E.N. contest

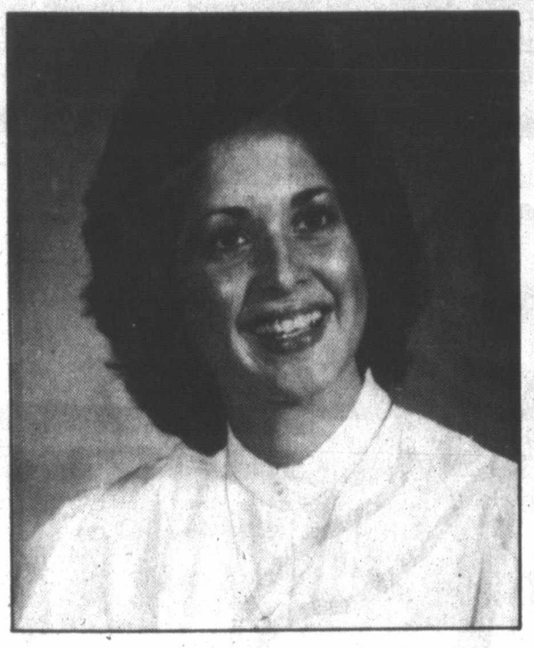

Two area young women have been selected to compete in the Amarillo Miss T.E.E.N. Pageant scheduled at the Quality Inn, Feb. 26. This contest is the official city - wide preliminary for the Texas Miss T.E.E.N. Pageant to be conducted in July, 1983, at The Loews Anatole in Dallas.

Area contestants are Kelly Finkenbinder, 14, of Pampa and Lorien Gay Taylor Woods, 13, of Skellytown. Miss Finkenbinder is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Finkenbinder of Pampa. Miss Woods is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donnie C. Woods of Skellytown.

Contestants from 16 area counties will be competing for the Amarillo pageant. All contestants are between the ages of 14 and 18 and must have at least a "B" average in school. They are required to participate in the Volunteer Service Program of the pageant, also. Through this program they become involved in community activities by contributing at least 12 hours of their time to a worthwhile charity or civic work.

Among the prizes the winner of the Amarillo pageant will receive is a $500 cash scholarship and an all - expense paid trip to compete in the Texas Miss T.E.E.N. pageant in Dallas. The stat winner will receive a $1,000 cash scholarship, personal appearance contract and an all - expense paid trip to represent the state at the national Miss T.E.E.N. pageant in Albuquerque, N. M., where prizes to be awarded will total more than $25,000.

Contestants will be judged on scholastic and volunteer service achievements, appearance, poise, personality, speech or talent and formal presentation. Contestants have the choice of presenting a speech or performing a talent on stage. No swimsuit competition is included in the pageant.

Gena on Genealogy

By GENA WALLS

Would you like to have a genealogy section in the library? Perhaps you would like to meet with other individuals interested in family history. All interested persons are invited to attend a meeting Tuesday, Jan. 18, at the Lovett Memorial Library beginning at 6 p.m. Donation of genealogical - related material would also be appreciated.

I am pleased that you enjoyed reading the will in last week's column. Wills can be an excellent source of information or may contain nothing of value. After searching months for a will to have it read "I bequeath to my beloved wife and children" without giving any names can be a big disappointment.

On the other hand, you may find the will meticulously gives names and identifies relationships for living as well as deceased relatives. When you locate this type of will, notice the order of the children mentioned as this might be a clue to their ages. Often they will be listed in order of birth. However, do not assume that all the children are listed. Some may have preceded him in death and others (especially sons) may have already received their share of the estate. A son receiving "one dollar" as his share of the estate probably received land earlier, so you might look for a deed to acreage that would have been his inheritance.

By English law, the eldest son received the land. However in this country, land was so plentiful at first that the eldest son received a double portion in consideration of his "birthright" and the remainder was dividing among the other children.

Sons usually received land, farm equipment and horses while daughters might inherit household items, the family Bible, any jewelry and cows.

Remember that during this time women did not own anything — not even kitchen utensils. If the husband died without a will, the wife would petition the court for possession of any material items she might need or want. Usually these petitions were granted. Petition records can be located in the probate books.

If a will specifically states "to my (son or daughter), (name), I leave (particular item or amount of money) and that is all I intend for them to have" you probably found a child that was not in good standing with the father. In this way, he acknowledged his children but showed his anger and prevented the will from being contested by "forgetting" to include all his children.

It might be worthwhile to check the wills of all family members as they might give clues to other family members and location of birth and other information. A bachelor might have left his estate to his nephew or sister or even parents.

Wills or documents showing the distribution of property belonging to an estate might be recorded in the order books, in deed books, or in some other court record. In several of the early counties of Georgia, you will find this material in the court minute books.

Wills required two witnesses and often these people were related to the person making the will. At the time of probate, the witnesses were required to take an oath that they did actually witness the signing of the will and that the maker was "of sound mind." Check this record for the relationship if it is not given on the will. The administrator and - or executor could be a relative or a friend and neighbor.

Clutch Player

Ed "Too Tall" Jones (72) of the Dallas Cowboys leaps over the Tampa Bay offensive line in an attempt to block a field goal in last Sunday's NFL playoff game in Dallas. Jones takes pride in being considered a clutch man in the playoffs. Dallas meets Green Bay Sunday in the Super Bowl Tournament. (AP Laserphoto)

'Too Tall' plays best in NFL playoffs

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP) — Just call Ed Jones the Dallas Cowboys' "Mr. January."

"Too Tall seems to rise to his most awesome heights in the playoffs," trumpets the Dallas media guide.

If the All-Pro defensive end does play his best with the money on the line, as evidence suggests, then he's someone Green Bay quarterback Lynn Dickey will bear watching Sunday in the second round of the National Conference playoffs in Texas Stadium.

Some "awesome" examples of an unleashed Jones in the playoffs:

— In 1977, Jones had 23 tackles, 2 quarterback traps, two batted-down passes and two forced fumbles.

— In 1978, he had 19 tackles, two sacks and a fumble recovery.

"Sure, I take pride in being a clutch man in the playoffs," said Jones. "I want to play the best I can all the time but it gives you a special feeling to deliver when it counts, when the money is there."

The incentive for Super Bowl XVII is $64,000.

The Cowboys already have earned at least $10,000 by virtue of their 30-17 victory over Tampa Bay last weekend in the first round of the Super Bowl Tournament.

"It's dollar time, but Green Bay won't be easy," Jones said. "I'm impressed with Dickey. He throws the ball well. He doesn't drop back very deep and gets rid of the ball fast. We'll try to make him rush those throws."

Making a quarterback rush his throws is something the 6-foot-9 Jones does the best.

Jones, the fifth-leading tackler on the team, has batted passes down five times this year and forced numerous uncharted overthrows.

"Ed is a much more intense player than he has ever been," said defensive coordinator Ernie Stautner. "He's also quicker and stronger."

Jones plays across from the tight end in Coach Tom Landry's "flex" four-man front and his primary responsibility is against the run. He has made 46 tackles this year carrying out his assignments.

However, it's his long arms on the pass rush that drives quarterbacks to early retirement.

"I try to throw my hands up in the pasing lanes and throw off his timing," said Jones, now in his eighth year as a former No. 1 draft pick out of Tennessee State.

Dallas obtained the rights to Jones from Houston in exchange for Tody Smith and Billy Parks. The Cowboys also got a draft coice they used to pick Danny White, now their starting quarterback. It was one of Dallas' better bartering sessions.

Pampa hosts Brownfield tonight

Brownfield has perhaps one of the weaker teams in District 1-4A this season, but Pampa High Coach Garland Nichols won't be taking the Cubs for granted when they invade Harvester Fieldhouse tonight.

"They've been playing people tough," Nichols said. "They gave Levelland a good game Tuesday night."

Levelland won, 24-21, but were trailing Brownfield by three points going into the second half.

"They're really not that far below .500, something like 5-6," Nichols said. "They use their bench, running five players in and five players out."

Pampa's Phil Jeffrey may be missing from tonight's lineup after suffering back spasms in the Harvesters' 72-57 loss to Borger last Tuesday night.

"I may have to hold him out," Nichols said.

Jeffrey, a 6-6 senior, is the team's top rebounder (9.8 rpg) and third leading scorer (10.5 ppg).

"We've had good practices Wednesday and Thursday," Nichols said. "We're ready to go."

Nichols gives credit to Borger for its lopsided win over the Harvesters, but he's looking forward to the Bulldogs coming to Harvester Fieldhouse.

"Borger has a good team," Nichols said. "They're quick and they just took it to us, but they've still got to come and play us here."

Tonight's contest gets underway at 7:45 p.m. The girls' varsity game tips off at 6 p.m.

Pampa sophomores defeat Canyon

Pampa rallied in the third quarter to defeat Canyon, 49-42, Thursday in a sophomore game played at Harvester Fieldhouse.

Pampa trailed by five points, 19-14, at halftime, but outscored the visitors, 18-10, in the third quarter to take command.

Richard Rogers and Wade Howard paced Pampa with 18 and 17 points respectively.

Pampa's record now is 3-5 overall and 1-0 in district play.

Pampa sophomores will will play in the Canyon Sophomore Tournament starting Saturday.

Pampa's ninth-grade teams split two games Thursday with the Blue team winning and the White team losing.

Pampa Blue downed White Deer, 44-33.

Pampa Blue is 11-1 for the season. The team is coached by Sparky Roberts.

Pampa White lost to Highland Park in overtime, 48-47.

The White record is 8-6.

Pampa Blue plays at Canyon White Monday while Pampa White hosts Borger Red.

Olympic Hopeful

Pampa's daughter to try out for Olympic cage team

Denise Evans, daughter of Richard Evans Sr. ,Pampa, plans to try out for the 1984 Olympics women's basketball team. Miss Evans, who played at Byng High School and Panhandle State University, had her basketball future stalled when she suffered torn ligaments in her ankle in 1981. However, her doctor reports now that Miss Evans is fully recovered.

By JULIA CLARK
Staff Writer

She tore three main ligaments in her ankle playing basketball on her college team one year ago, but Denise Evans, daughter of Richard Evans Sr. of Pampa, will tryout for the 1984 Women's Olympic Basketball Team in June.

Denise was just selected as one of the "Outstanding Young Women of America for 1982.

She was nominated for this award by Carroll Gribble, Dean of Students at Panhandle State University, in Goodwill, Okla. She is being recognized for giving her "time, talents, and unselfish service to enrich the quality of American Life," according to a letter from the board of advisors to her father.

Denise's basketball playing career started in the third grade.

When she was a junior in highschool, she made the Mid - America All Tourney Basketball Team; second team guard on the Ada, Okla. All Area team; and was a member of the 2 - A State Runner - up Basketball Team.

She continued to earn not only basketball honors, but scholastic honors, as well.

She is a member of the Oklahoma Honor Society; was on the President's Honor Roll in 1979, spring semester; was listed in Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges, 1979 - 80; a member of Phi Theta Kappa (National Honor Fraternity - Jr. College); and a lifetime member of Oklahoma Zeta Chapter of Alpha Chi.

Her brains and basketball playing ability earned Denise "full ride athletic scholarships for four years of college."

Denise graduated in 1982 from Panhandle State University Magna Cum Laude with an over - all grade point average of 3.7.

She is currently working on her second major, English, and the Assistant Women's basketball coach at PSU. Her first degree was in Health, Physical Education, and Recreation.

"I am training for the Olypic tryouts for this summer," she said. They will be held in Colorado Springs, Colo. June 9 - 12.

"I feel I am just as good as any other player my size (5 - 7) who is trying out for the Olympics." Denise said. She does feel that the fact that she has not played for a nationally known team, could be a disadvantage.

She may not have played for a nationally known team, but her basketball playing honors sound like a "Who's Who" in student basketball. She broke the most points scored at PSU in one game in 1981, against Amarillo Jr. College - 36 points; was on the Kansas - Newman All Tourney Team, 1980; the Fleur - De - Lis All Tourney Team, 1981; and the Friends All Tourney Team, 1981.

Another disadvantage could be the fact that Denise tore three main ligaments in her right ankle on January 5, 1981, while playing in a basketball game against Texas Tech; she still won Most Valuable Player for the season.

"However, I am determined to get in the best physical shape that I can, and show the Olympic Committee what I can do," she said.

According to her doctor, Denise is now in 100 percent condition.

Oilers to undergo therapy

HOUSTON (AP) — The houston Oilers plan to enroll two cornerbacks in a therapy program after the players were arrested leaving a northside bar and one was charged with possessing a controlled substance, head coach Ed Biles says.

Greg Stemrick was charged with possession of a controlled substance Thursday and released from the city jail on $5,000 bail, said a spokesman for Harris County District Attorney John Holmes.

J.C. Wilson, 26, was charged with driving while intoxicated and driving withou a valid license, the spokesman said. He was released on $1,600 bail.

The two were arrested Wednesday night by officers making a narcotics investigation at a north Houston bar.

"We have good therapy programs that are available to the people who want help," Biles said Thursday from California.

"We obviously have encouraged this," he said of the treatment. "Maybe we'll have to take stronger steps now."

Biles was been scouting players at the East-West Shrine Bowl in Palo Alto, Calif.

The coach mentioned liquor and drugs at a Houston news conference last week as two problems that plagued the 1-8 Oilers this season. He later said he had not meant to imply the Oilers' problems were greater than any other National Football League club.

Narcotics Lt. W.B. McAfee said Stemrick, an All-Pro selection in 1980, was suspected of carrying 2½ grams of cocaine.

Dolphins favored over San Diego

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

A year ago, things got a little out of hand when Dan Fouts, Kellen Winslow, Don Strock and the rest of the San Diego Chargers and Miami Dolphins got together for a friendly playoff game.

Records fell like dominoes as the Chargers survived 41-38 in overtime. Coach Don Shula and the Dolphins will keep things a little more under control this time. They'll beat San Diego and set up an American Football Conference championship game against ... the New York Jets.

In the National Football Conference, the Washington Redskins are on a roll and should have an easy time against Minnesota. But the Dallas Cowboys look ripe for picking and will get picked apart by Green Bay.

Last week's mark against the spread: 5-3. The record through 10 weeks: 67-64.

This week's picks (home teams in caps):

Saturday:

American Conference

LOS ANGELES RAIDERS minus 4 vs. New York Jets: Running back Marcus Allen of the Raiders will have one of his typically brilliant days. But quarterback Jim Plunkett will spend much of the day either on the run or on his back. Freeman McNeil of the Jets won't rip up LA the way he did Cincinnati, but Richard Todd could have one of his greatest games. Take the Jets.

National Conference

WASHINGTON REDSKINS minus 6½ vs. Minnesota Vikings: Defensively, the Vikes are generally weak against the pass, which means 'Skins quarterback Joe Theismann will have a field day. Against the run, Minnesota's only so-so ... so we see a 100-yard game from John Riggins. Washington's front-line will tee off on Tommy Kramer. Take the Redskins.

Sunday:

American Conference

San Diego Chargers minus 2 vs. MIAMI DOLPHINS: A year ago in the playoffs against San Diego, Don Strock had to come to David Woodley's rescue. But Woodley has matured and, teaming with the [illegible]ura Franklin-led ground game, he'll methodically roll up the yards and points while the Chargers bomb away at the Miami pass defense, the league's best. Take the Dolphins.

National Conference

DALLAS COWBOYS minus 7 vs. Green Bay Packers: Dallas' defense wasn't that good last Sunday. The Bucs' offense was terrible. The Green Bay bomb squad won't be quite as accomodating. The Packers' defense is virtually the equal of Tampa Bay's, which means the Cowboys are going to have to rely on coming up with the big plays again. Don't count on it. Take the Packers.

Astro-Graph

by bernice bede osol

This coming year there will be a marked improvement in overall conditions which affect your life. You could be lucky now in areas which were previously unfruitful.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Conditions should work out to your benefit today, provided you take a hand in your destiny. Be determined regarding end results. Order now: The NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic combinations, compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Capricorn Astro-Graph predictions for 1983. Be sure to specify birth date.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your leadership qualities will be very effective today. You'll know how to get others to do your bidding, yet make them feel it was their idea.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) One of the reasons you have so many friends is because they know that they can count on you to back them up when needed, as you'll do today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Establish worthy objectives for yourself today. You have the ability to achieve whatever you set your mind to. The secret is to want to enough.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your gracious ways win approval today, especially from members of the opposite gender. More compliments than usual are likely.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something profitable could develop for you today through one of your social contacts. If a pal starts talking business, listen attentively.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're likely to do better through partnerships or joint ventures today than you will be attempting things on your own. Seek strong cohorts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Rely more upon yourself and less upon your companions today. It's likely that, if something essential has to be done, it will be up to you to do it.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Try to balance your efforts and activities today so that you can devote some time to productive endeavors and yet have time left over for the fun.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If you have any serious matters to take care of now, you are likely to do better handling them later in the day when you'll be thinking more clearly.

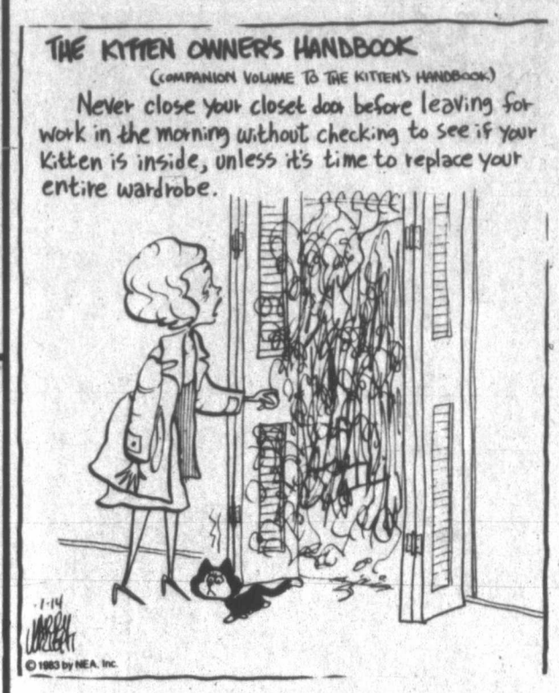

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You should be rather fortunate materially today, but your opportunities could be short-lived. Strike while the iron is hot.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do not be overly concerned regarding the outcome of events today, especially those of a financial nature. Trends tend to favor you.

SPEAKING OF SOAPS

by Mary Ann Cooper

RENEE CRAWFORD McCULLAH

Renee Crawford McCullah is a new bride, but she says there's no comparison between the relationship she has with her husband and the one she shares with her TV "boyfriend" in her role in the CBN soap opera "Another Life."

In real life, Renee has been married for all of two months.

"And it's just marvelous," she exclaimed.

But as Marianne Prescott on "Another Life," she faces a big decision: Her boyfriend, Russ Weaver, played by Chris Roland, holds a set of beliefs and values vastly different from hers.

Nevertheless, she cares for Russ. Part of her wants to continue dating him. Part of her knows she shouldn't.

Fortunately, Renee's real-life situation is much more stable. She and her husband, Chuck, are from California. Both came to Virginia Beach, Va., where "Another Life" is produced, for career reasons, though neither one knew the other at the time. Nor was either one looking for a mate, she said.

"When I moved here," Renee explained, "I had no desire to meet anyone."

Obviously, that changed.

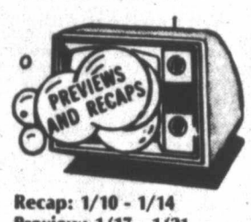

Chuck was a neighbor of Renee's living in the same apartment complex. Renee noticed him but he never seemed to return the favor.

"I thought he was stuck up, but I later found out he was shy," Renee said. "He finally got up enough courage to ask me to go jogging and bike riding with him."

While jogging and bike riding were a step in the right direction, it limited their conversation. Finally, they took up walking and talking and their friendship blossomed. Less than three months later, they married at the Mt. Paran Church in Renee's hometown of Atlanta.

Though she may not always agree with Marianne's decisions in the storyline, Renee understands the character she portrays.

"It's not hard to play Marianne because I can relate to her," Renee said. "I've been in similar dating relationships a couple of times and I had to just cut them off. But going through what I went through has increased my gratefulness to God for giving me a loving Christian husband."

Recap: 1/10 - 1/14
Preview: 1/17 - 1/21

GUIDING LIGHT -- Amanda finds an unconscious Mark on the floor in her room. Brian tells Mark he has evidence proving that Mark is Sam Pasquin. Scotland Yard issues an all points bulletin for Brian Lister and Sam Pasquin. Kelly sees Morgan kiss Josh. Rebecca threatens to tell Nola that Quint killed their child. Ed takes away Rick's license for a month. Amanda tells Ross she loves Mark.
THIS WEEK: Hope and Alan fight about Philip. The Police are suspicious of Mark.
RYAN'S HOPE -- Siobhan is about to be evicted when some hookers come in and save the day. Delia agrees to help Maeve find Siobhan. When Delia finds Siobhan and begins to talk to her, both of them get picked up by the police for being hookers. Catsy backs off from throwing out Kim and Arley. When Kim shows her the note naming Kirkland as her father. Amanda takes care of Pat when he is mugged. Ox is arrested for sabatoging Kirkland's equipment.
THIS WEEK: Jill and Seneca become sentimental. Jack investigates Pat's mugging.
ANOTHER WORLD -- Steve threatens to leave Rachael when he finds out she has been filtering money into the company. Julia flirts with Sally's date. Stacey begins working on Maggie's custody case and tells Sandy they should try to get Elena to testify against Cecile. Lewis promises Felicia two million dollars if she doesn't hurt him at the press conference. Cecile moves into Lewis's penthouse without Maggie. Mac goes to comfort and admits to Ada he still cares for Rachael.
THIS WEEK: Blaine reconsiders her relationship with Sandy. Cecile prepares to fight for Maggie.
THE EDGE OF NIGHT -- Gavin does not tell the Police about seeing Nicole leave the scene of the murder. Nichol takes care of a badly bruised Miles and tells Jody she never did get to see Nora. Gunther finds out that Nora was not pregnant after all. Mitzi tells Cliff that she was at the movies the night of the murder but she can not remember the name of the movie. Gavin confronts Nicole about being at the scene of the crime.
THIS WEEK: Miles tries to remember but has another memory lapse. Cliff doubts Mitzi's story.
AS THE WORLD TURNS -- Margo finds out she's pregnant. James is awakened from a sedated sleep by a sudden noise, and sees John Dixon standing in the room, staring at him. Betsy and Craig prepare for the wedding. Tom is excited when he finds out that James's alibi has some holes in it.
THIS WEEK: Is John Dixon back or is it all an illusion? Lyla senses something is wrong with Margo.
SEARCH FOR TOMORROW -- Ringo and Rusty score off the man who's trying to blackmail Jenny with her past as a hooker. Kristin suggests Warren try to convince Suzi to marry him as soon as possible. Stephanie is stunned to learn that Keith and Wendy are married. Martin is upset when Jo seems to be taken with Rusty.
THIS WEEK: Jenny begins her new job. Aja spends some time with Travis.
CAPITOL -- Tyler is convinced that Sam jeopardized the M'Shoba mission. Trey thinks about asking Kelly to marry him. Julie and her family declare a cease-fire.
THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS -- Cindy worries about getting further involved with Paul. Julia fought her feelings for Victor. Stu thought about reconciling with Liz.
ANOTHER LIFE -- Lance and Ronnie are angered and tell Charles they may kill Miriam. Brubaker figures out Miriam has been kidnapped and urges Charles to cooperate with the police. Lorie remembers more. Russ begins working with Ronnie and Lance.
THIS WEEK: Miriam shares her faith. Russ is disturbed by his work.
ALL MY CHILDREN -- Cliff throws Nina out when he learns of her relationship with Steve. Lars and Ellen run into Mark and Erica who run into Silver and Kent at a nightclub. Brooke agrees to help Nina win back Cliff. Ray dies in the bomb blast. Palmer tells Steve he hopes Steve will marry Nina.
THIS WEEK: Tom still cares for Brooke. Jenny is in a state of shock.
ONE LIFE TO LIVE -- Stubbs is murdered in the hospital. Jenny thinks she saw a nurse leaning over him before his murder. Katrina asks Brad to give her an alibi for the time of the murder and he agrees. Dorian suspects Larry of the murder. Edwina and Gary run into Marco in Puerto Rico. Karen chooses to go away with Steve.
THIS WEEK: Drew has questions about his future. Marco returns.
DAYS OF OUR LIVES -- Mickey is bitten by a snake in the jungle. Liz can not get over her jealousy of Marie. Kayla survives. Stefano has a police officer working with Roman killed to teach Roman a lesson. Don admits he loves Maggie. Doug, Julie, and Robert find out that Stephone entered the country with a lot of undeclared money.
THIS WEEK: Don defends Roman. Mickey's life is in danger.

Lainie Kazan has different moods

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — The old college connection, so important in the world of business, is having an impact on Hollywood these days. In fact, it just could lead to an Oscar nomination for Lainie Kazan.

We all know Lainie Kazan as a singer, a big-voiced, big-busted singer who is a top performer in clubs and concerts. For a long while now, she has successfully combined her fine voice with her good looks to create a sexy package.

But, look! Would you believe that is the same woman.

Car is star in 'Knight Rider'

By David Handler

NBC's "Knight Rider" has the distinction of being the first prime-time series since "My Mother the Car" to have a four-wheeler as its chief personality. Meet Kitt.

Kitt is black, sleekly built and bulletproof. It talks, of course. Kind of a nasal, whiny voice for such a macho-looking machine, if you want to know the truth.

Kitt can also think, drive itself, shove dump trucks, trace phone calls, fly, see through walls, imitate a police megaphone and crack jokes. If left out of the action, it has a tendency to get jealous.

I don't know what kind of mileage it gets, though I suspect Kitt's turbo booster is murder on fuel consumption.

According to our narrator, "Knight Rider" is a show about "a lone crusader in a dangerous world." Not quite true. Though it has no need for one, Kitt has been given a human sidekick.

A mistake. After all, most of the top-grossing films of the past five years have starred non-humans.
