Dance Saturday

Jubilee Week To Close With Big Dance Saturday Night

In addition to the Big Style Show, which will be one of the features of Jubilee Week in Wellington, David Dallas, director, stated today that Jubilee Week would close Saturday night with gala dance in the IOOF Hall across from the theatre.

"Plans are progressing nicely and the style show is going to be a real performance," Mr. Dallas said, "especially the Golden Jubilee Prologue in which ten local ladies will depicit the styles and fashions of the days gone by."

In this special Golden Jubilee prologue the ladies will wear costumes of oden days, deciicting various styles and will sing old songs, which are still dear to the hearts of hundreds of Collingsworth County persons, ,including "When You and I Were Young, Maggie," and "Down By the Old Mill Stream."

Mrs. Ben Boston and Mrs. Richard Cocke will wear wedding dresses, which were actually worn in marriages 30 years ago. The remainder of the ladies have gone to much trouble in securing their costumes, which will represent practically every phase of life in the years ranging from 30 to 50 years ago.

The prologue will include Mrs. Vernon Morris, Mrs. Ray Goodson, Mrs. Alvin Fuqua, Miss Isabel Deatherage, Miss Mary Lewis, Miss Gerta Lou Bonner, Mrs. Richard Cocke, Mrs. Ben Boston, Mrs. A. L. Cochran, Mrs. V. A. Porter, Mrs. T. A. Hudson, Mrs. R. L. Scott and Miss Ann West.

Ladies in the prologue will hold their final dress rehearsal at the theatre at 1 o'clock Thursday, Mr. Dallas said. The young ladies in the 1933 fashion parade will hold their first rehearsal at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and their final rehearsal at 9 o'clock Thursday

Arizona Governor Considers Plan To Employ Weaker Sex

PHOENIX, Ariz.—Guy B. B. Moeur, a gallant man, endeared himself to the so-called weaker sex today when he announced he was considering the discharge wherever possible of male state employes to make way for women

Governor Moeur said he based his contemplated action on the failure of the federal government to provide for employment of women in many portions of the recovery program.

The order would be aimed at men in the "white collar"class, the executive said.

This Woman Has System All Her Own In Cookery

Local Women Who Attend First School Thrilled By Lecturer's Methods

Every woman of Collingsworth county who saw and heard Beulah Makey Yates in her model "Happy Kitchen" at the Ritz Theatre Monday morning immediately felt, as have thousands of other housewives, that here was a woman who talked a housewife's language.

"There are many books, bulletins and articles on the subject of cooking," says Mrs. Yates, "so many in fact that one is almost bewildered by the thousands of rules and suggestions. It is no easy task, even for one who has had many years of experience in searching out facts, to sift the useful from the more novelty.

"In cooking, as well as in other arts, there is a constantly flowing stream of new ideas coming from the press; and it is the duty of us who devote our lives to this work to test and prove the practicability of these creations, throwing out the bad and simplifying the workable.

"During my time in Wellington I shall bring to housewives only those proved and workable receipts which experience and intelligence would chose for varying conditions.

"I shall show in the most simple manner just how to prepare many of these delightful dishes, how to balance menus, how to serve the proper thing for the proper occasion."

One Man's Plunge Into River Makes Heroes of 5 More

NEW YORK CITY.—Andrew Hyklor fell asleep on a dock before dawn today and awakened in the East River. His plunge made heroes of five men.

Nicholas Hockhold saw him fall and jumped after him. Hyklor head-locked Hockhold and both went under.

John Patsco went to their aid and was dragged down.

In jumped Frank Rye and all four sank.

Patrolman Edward Tooney was the next in, and Hyklor, Hockhold, Patso, Rye and Tooney went down.

Patrolman Anthony Batto dived in. He had his night stick in his hand and when an emergency squad arrived, Batto had the situation under control.

His report to headquarters:

"Four men, one policeman, found in East river, off pier. All rescued."

Explosion Saturday Causes Little Damage

Fumes Cause 1,129 Gallon Tank Truck To Explode While Being Welded

An explosion at 6 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the Farmers' Friend Blacksmith Shop resulted in the destruction of a large gasoline tank, but resulted in no injuries.

The accident occurred while Jim Baxter was welding a seam on a large truck tank for the Continental Oil Company and was thought to have resulted from the heating of fumes inside the tank.

The tank was blown into, but fortunately no one was hurt, either by the explosion or by fragments. The tank was 1,129 gallon capacity and was used by the Continental Company in long gasoline hauls.

The noise from the explosion startled the entire northeast section of the town and caused considerable fright for the persons in the blacksmith shop, but the damage to the tank formed the total loss incurred by the accident.

Roosevelt Plans Relief Program

While enroute to Chicago Monday, President Roosevelt announced the creation of a government non-profit corporation to buy and distribute the necessities of life to the unemployed this winter.

The gigantic relief corporation was organized with the dual purpose of providing food, clothing and fuel for the destitute and at the same time relieving glutted markets of their price-depressing surpluses.

It is a broad attack by the President to bring about a readjustment of the economic delimna of want and need coincident with a surplus of food and staples.

Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, was named by Mr. Roosevelt as chairman of the new corporation. He will work with Secretary Wallace and George Peek, the agriculture adjustment administrator, in directing the huge program.

Auto Crash Ends Fighting Career For Stribling

Young Stribling Suffers Loss Of Foot When Motorcycle Is Hit By Auto

Struck by an automobile while riding his motorcycle near Macon, Ga., Sunday afternoon, W, L. (Young) Stribling, former contender for the world's heavyweight boxing championship suffered injury to his left foot which necessitated its amputation just below the ankle.

He also suffered fractured hip and, Dr. A. P. Kemp, a surgeon at Macon Hospital, said, possibly a crushed pelvis.

His foot was dangling by a tendon and a shred of skin when he was brought unconscious to the hospital where his condition was said to be serious from loss of blood. No internal injuries have been found.

Dr. Kemp said Stribling's leg also was smashed above the ankle and a second amputation might be made later.

The accident occurred three miles north on the Macon-Atlanta highway as Stribling was riding from a golf club to the hospital to see his wife who a few days ago gave birth to their third child.

Roy Barrow, a Macon friend of Stribling's who was driving toward Atlanta, said he saw the crash. Behind his car, another machine driven by a woman was coming at a fast pace. As he

Husband Calling Contest Is Scream At Dodsonville

The Dodsonville Trades Day program which is sponsored by merchants of that town and is under the supervision of Vance Swinburn, is creating considerable interest in the community and town and also very entertaining as well. On last Saturday afternoon, which was women's day, a husband calling contest was the feature of the program and was enjoyed by the young and old alike. Married women and those who wished to be married or thought there might be a possible chance to be married as a result of the contest were eligible to enter. No special style or form was demanded in making the call. "Just be natural and call him anything and in any way," said Mr. Swinburn.

Practically every cotestant was a scream on the program. Mrs. Maude Patterson was first prize winner and Ester Faye Allen second prize winner. Prizes were three and two one-dollar bills.

Next Saturday afternoon will be men's day, featuring boys and men of all ages in a football contest which is to be very interesting. For the winners there will be at-

Large Attendance Marks Opening Of Cooking School

Beulah Makey Yates Lists Methods And Presents Menu To Audience

More Sessions

Tuesday And Wednesday Also Promise Interesting Entertainment

With a large attendance present, Beulah Makey Yates officially began the 1933 Wellington Leader Free Cooking School at the Ritz Theatre at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

The principal event of the first day included the preparation and presentation of one of Mrs. Yates' favorite meals, including hot biscuits, mixed frill, asparagus salad and "My favority ginger bread." The meal was actually prepared before the ladies, and samples were passed around to the entire audience.

In addition to this feature, Mrs. Yates explained scores of other cooking and home details, which are essential in the making of the "Happy Kitchen," the theme of the Free cooking school this year.

Tuesday and Wednesday also promise delightful surprises for the housewives of Collingsworth County. There will be gifts of all varieties and if there is any question about pies and cakes bothering local ladies they are invited to bring them up in the Tuesday session, which begins promptly at 9:30 o'clock. New recipes, ways to make the cold dishes look different, better—little tricks to brighten the home-makers task—all will be given.

Mrs. Yates, famed throughout the South for her knowledge of cookery and her insight into the everyday problems of the housewife, is offering her undivided attention to the ladies of Wellington for three big days and The Leader personally invites every woman in this county to take advantage of

Seven Convicted; Kelly For Trial

Under machine gun muzzles, George Kelly, ex-bootlegger, stumbled from an air transport in Oklahoma City Sunday to face the definite prospect of trial on capital charges for his alleged movements in the Charles F. Urschel kidnapping, according to Associated Press reports today.

Saturday, Harvey Bailey and Albert Bates, the three Shannons, and Barney Berman, and Clifford Skelly, of the twin cities, were convicted by jury in the Charles Urschel kidnapping trial today.

Isadore Blumenfield, Sam Kromick and Sam Kozler, of the twin cities, were acquitted.

Judge Edgar Vaught announced that he would grant three days for motions for retrial by those convicted.

Judge Vaught will pass a sentence next Saturday. The convictions were brought under the new "Lindbergh" law congress passed last year and leaves sentences to the judge.

The maximum sentence possible is life imprisonment. R. B. Cobbs, El Reno, foreman, said the verdict was reached after less than an hour and a half deliberation.

Black Eyes And Bruises Result Of Football Game

HOLLISTER, Cal.—Black eyes and bruises were nursed today by several football enthusiasts of Hollister and San Jose High schools who participated in a free for all fight here Saturday after a San Jose fullback leaped from the substitute bench, rushed onto the field and downed a Hollister player who was touchdown bound.

Players and rooters of both teams mixed in the fighting which started on the gridiron immediately following the fourth quarter in which the tackling incident occurred. Hollister won the game 13-0.

SKYROCKET REVIEW

Acme Tangle Shows Improvement; Meet Bobcats At Childress In Game Friday Night

Next Friday the Skyrockets meet the Strong Childress Bobcat eleven in their first game away from home this season. The Bobcats are doped as runners up in their district—and there is no doubt, Childress has a real team. The Skyrockets will do well to keep an eagle eye on Red Ratican, the highly touted Childress back. Ratican is plenty fast, and is a nice broken field runner.

But while we are talking about the Bobcats, we might just as well slow down long enough to give the Skyrockets their tributes. Coach Billy Jarvis is to be congratulated upon the development which his team, mostly from raw material, has shown during the past three weeks. He has some mighty nice plays and the boys are getting so they can use them, too.

Gene Glenn, Rocket right half, is fast and shifty. He showed himself to be football-minded last Friday night when he picked up a punt and sprinted 37 yards for a touhdown. Gene has the making of a real football broken field runner and Coach Jarvis is developing him into just that. This fact is evident from the style of plays in which Gene features and by next season and perhaps before this season closes, he is going to be one of the most sensational gridsters W. H. S. ever turned out—that is unless Coach Jarvis changes his present tactics.

Probably the most thorough, most effective and best quality the Skyrockets have is their blocking ability. As yet, most of the players haven't been taking the fullest advantage of this phase of the game, but their playing shows that they have been drilled to block and when the backs start taking advantage of this phase there is going to be some really sensational gains and playing.

To most football fans Woodrow Woods was a dark-horse in the opening game with Groom. Now he is the outstanding ground gainer of the entire team. He needs more experience, but he is gradually becoming known to the fans as the man who makes the yards when the team needs a few yards. Woods follows his interference better than some of the other backs and is developing into a real fullback.

A. L. Kelly had the hardest post on the entire team when the season started. He never played quarterback in his life before this season and he is filling the job unusually well. Kelly is a clever kid and should have been trained for a quarterback instead of a halfback from the first. Kelly has a hard job, but he is doing better than the average quarter in his first season. Did you ever notice that Kelly never carries the ball? This is one of Coach Jarvis' methods, apparently, and it is good in view of the fact

ROUGH RIDER MYTH

Probably 99 persons out of 100 who have read or heard of the famous Roosevelt Rough Riders of the Spanish-American War believe that those ambitious troopers charged up San Juan Hill on horseback, booted and spurred, sabers waving in the air.

A writer in a recent magazine graphically portrayed their exploit as that of "500 men on horseback standing in their stirrups and galloping along, shouting to one another like polo players."

The truth is that the Rough Riders marched and fought on foot in Cuba, as did other Cavalry regiments, their horses having been left behind when they sailed from the United States.

Due to Roosevelt's vivid personality and the large amount of publicity given the regiment by New York newspaper men, the Rough Riders received the lion's share of credit for the victory at Santiago, a share far greater than was their just due.

That they were brave men and good fighters none will deny, but they were in that respect no different from other troopers, some of whom received scant attention in the dispatches. The Rough Riders did no riding, rough or otherwise, in Cuba.

MONUMENT TO CUSTER

Recently a belated honor was paid to General George A. Custer when a bronze statue in tribute to his valor was unveiled at New Rumley, Ohio, his birthplace.

Custer is known to fame chiefly because he and his squadron of the Seventh United States Cavalry died to the last man in battle with an overwhelming force of Sioux and Cheyenne Indians on June 25, 1876, near the Little Big Horn River in Montana.

But before the day of his heroic death Custer had won the highest military honors for his brilliant exploits as a Cavalry leader in the Civil War and in Indian campaigns in the West. He was repeatedly cited for gallantry in action, and at the age of 25 was brevetted a major general of volunteers, receiving similar rank in the regular army a year later.

In his last fight Custer's command numbered between 212 and 277 men, according to various accounts, and not one remained alive after a desperate fight of perhaps not more than half an hour. A fact not generally known is that the Indians were armed with repeating Winchester rifles, while the American soldiers fought with single-loading carbines. The Winchesters had been supplied to the Indians through the stupidity of the Indian Department on the pretext that they were for the use of "good" Indians as a protection against savage tribes.

Many conflicting stories have been told concerning the so-called "Custer massacre," but the main fact is that 55 years ago on a wild Montana hillside a gallant band of American cavalrymen gloriously fought and died without a single survivor to tell the tragic tale.

Most of his men were scalped and otherwise outraged, but out of respect for his bravery the Indians refrained from mutilating Custer's body.

It is fitting that the memory of this intrepid soldier should be perpetuated by a suitable monument in the town of his birth. The name of Custer occupies a deservedly high place on the scroll of American heroes.

A DESERVED MEDAL

Few Americans ever heard of Dr. Charles Guillaume, a French scientist awarded a special medal by the British Physical Society for the discovery of three important metal alloys. Yet one of these called platinite, is said to save nearly $5,000,000 annually in the manufacture of electric light bulbs.

Another is elinvar, an improved alloy used in the manufacture of watch springs, whlie the third is invar, a nickel steel product which is practically free from expansion by changes in temperature, therefore of great value in the manufacture of metal surveyors' tapes, clock pendulums and other articles requiring stability of length.

Scientists like Dr. Guillaume are laboring constantly to adapt new forces and new materials to the service of mankind, and the advance of civilization is due largely to their skill and patience. They are entitled to all the rewards and honors which may be bestowed upon them.

AN ENCOURAGING SIGN

Most encouraging is a report just issued by Dr. Shirley W. Wynne, health commissioner of New York City, concerning the decrease of automobile and industrial accidents in that city in recent months.

Automobile deaths numbered 100 in January, but only 70 in May, despite the fact that more cars were on the road and more children playing in the streets. Industrial and other accidents dropped even more sharply, although more persons were employed in industry than in former months.

The records show 209 industrial accidents in April of this year as compared with 272 in April, 1932, while in May of this year there were only 208, as against 296 for May, 1932.

This reduction in the number of accidental deaths and injuries, as well as deaths from alcoholism, Dr. Wynne declares in this report, is largely due to the fact that the legalization of beer has reduced the consumption of whiskey and thereby promoted the cause of real temperance. He says:

"May, 1933, showed fewest deaths from accidents on our recent records. The conclusion is that the people of New York have been drinking less strong liquors and that the legalization of beer has saved approximately a life a day since April 7."

Anyway, it is encouraging to observe a reduction of the frightful death and accident toll which long has shown us to be the most careless people in the world.

It is said that 500 phychologist are studying the child problem. And any 500 mothers could tell them more than they will ever find out otherwise.

One who is able to score high in an intelligence test is probably too intelligent to waste time doing it.

It is estimated that Americans drink 75,000 cups of coffee every second. And no telling how many saucers.

Some debators consider it aganist their principal to pay the interes,t and against their interest to pay the principal.

BEULAH MAKEY YATES
Says Every Modern Home Should Have a Telephone -- Because

It's Indispensible--

Beulah Makey Yates, nationally known cooking school expert stresses the necessity of a telephone in the home in the saving of time and taking advantage of food bargains.

In Case of Sickness or Fire nothing can take the place of the telephone, which has in many instances saved hundreds of dollars—and lives of those loved ones, which are valueless.

An Extension Kitchen Phone was also recommended as a time saver and money saver for the perfection of the "Happy Kitchen" home, which every housewife should strive to maintain.

For Miss Yates convenience a telephone has been installed in the cooking school kitchen.

IT COSTS SO LITTLE—A few cents a day will pay for this service, which will save you dollars in the end.

Cagney Ponders The Kiss Question

James Cagney, to judge from the scene, finds himself intrigued by the lips of Madge Evans—but wouldn't you be? In Jimmy's new picture, "The Mayor of Hell," which begins its engagement at the Ritz Theatre today, Warner Bros. offer one of the most exciting and dramatic stories of the year. Most of the action takes place in a reform school. Included in the cast are a group of youngsters, with Frankie Darro most prominent, representing the reformatory's inmates, who offer portrayals that are said to rank with more mature stars.

Growers In Heavy Wheat Counties Are Signing Up

Approve Plan To Mark Retired Acreage Without Additional Cost

COLLEGE STATION.—A large part of the wheat growers in heavy wheat producing counties in Texas are signing applications for Government wheat contracts, but in the remainder of the State the sign-up is scattering, according to reports on the campaign received at Extension Service headquarters from county agents.

The final date for completing the sign-up for these domestic allotment contracts for wheat has not been named for Texas, but it is understood that the date of September 25 set for the entire country will not apply here. A postponement has been requested of the Administration because the completion of the cotton campaign delayed the start of the wheat campaign, and also because a re-check of Texas wheat production figures is in process.

Local committees are urged by the Extension Service to complete the signing of applications for contracts as quickly as possible. An early report is desired to determine the counties where total production figures given in applications are out of line with the production figures assigned by the Bureau of Crop Estimates.

A plan for marking retired acres withdrawn from wheat production under the adjustment contracts which will cost the farmers nothing has been approved by the production section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Acres which make up the "contracted acres," representing the 15 per cent reduction agreed to by the grower, must be measured and marked; but the manking can be done by ddriving stakes or setting posts at the corners o the retired acres.

Land thus withdrawn from wheat production is to be handled in accordance with approved replacement crop practices which will avoid contributing to surpluses in other agricultural commodities.

The marking system is held essential in order that representatives of wheat production control associations and others interested in the administration of the wheat plan can determine definitely and quickly just what acres have been set aside as "contracted acres" on each individual farm, under the wheat reduction agreements.

670 Caged Felons Set Sail For Life On Devil's Island

ST. MARTIN DE RE, France.—The convict ship La Martiniere sailed this week with a cargo of 670 caged criminals in its holds, vovaging in chains toward the "dry guillotine" of French Guinea, 4,000 miles away.

An anonymous crowd for the most part, condemned in many instances to banishment for life, the human freight was the first shipment in two years to depart for the three islands, including the famous Devil's Island, off the eastern coast of South America, that form the distant prison colonies of France.

Amony the unwilling passengers never to return unless they escape—and 100 convicts have escaped within the last year—was Guy Devin, 26-year-old ne'er-do-well, who was convicted of slaying an American, Richard Wall, for the $300 that Wall, a chance acquaintance, possessed. Devin, like many of his sorry shipmates, was sentenced to hard labor and exile for life.

Pale and listless from stays of a year or more in various French prisons, some of them ill or fainting from despair, the bands of malefactors, handcuffed and their feet in chains, shuffled aboard the ship between hedges of soldiers with bayonets fixed.

Old and hardened criminals and first offenders with the dawn of youth in their cheecks were reduced to the same monotonous level in their drab prison garb as they trudged up the gangplank and were herded into the iron-barred cages below decks by the helmeted soldiers.

There were no tearful farewells from families or friends, no fluttering handkerchiefs. The public was vigorously barred from the dock. The prisoners' good-bye was a long, last look at Ra Rochelle, rising dimly on the mainland.

League Adopts New 8-Semester Rules

AUSTIN, Teas—This year will see the inauguration of the 8-semester rule of the Interscholastic League, adopted a year ago last spring but effective September 1933. This rule is based on attendance in school rather than on participation in League activities, accordng to Roy B. Henderson of tht Unversity of Texas League Bureau, and makes ineligible any participant in any League event, either literary or athletc, after he or she has been in attendance in high school eight semesters.

This rule is prediacted on the belief that the Interscholastic League is designed for the average high school boy or girl, and that such a student would be handicapped in competing with older, more experienced boys or girls.

The first application of this rule will be with the opening of League football this month.

MEXICO'S REVOLUTIONS

Mexico has had 60 revolutions in the last 75 years. An average of nearly one revolution a year! This is a record for speed, but some other republics try to beat it.

350 Boys In Cast "MAYOR OF HELL" AT THE RITZ

More than 350 boys ranging in age from 12 to 16 years, play an important part in the new James Cagney feature, "Mayor of Hell," which opens at the Ritz today for a run of two days. Not since the release of "Public Enemy," has Cagney appeared in a role so powerfully human and dramatic as this one, according to critics.

The picture, which deals with reform schools and reform school methods, is said to reach a climax even more powerful than the recent sensation, "I'm a Fugative From Justice." Manager Bonner said to a representative of the Leader that it was his wish that every boy and every parent in Wellington and Collingsworth County could see the picture. He added that it was not merely a preachment . . . that it was anything but that; and that its entertainment value was not discounted by any other picture. But aside from the extraordinary entertainment value of the picture, it conveys a message so vital to humanity that every benefactor of the human race should see it.

Probably there is no other picture, or story, reflecting boys life, that will compare with this tremendous story in which more than 350 boys appear. And according to reports on the picture, there is no other that will excell it in romantic ferver. Since romance is the pendulem that is said to keep the ebb and flow of life regulated, it serves an important part in the story and plot of the "Mayor of Hell," but it does not supercede the tremendous value of juvenile achievement in this drama of human lives.

Manager Bonner said that he urged the schools to stress the importance of this picture . . . believing its influence would be of tremendous value to the boys of this community. It is a story that will sink deep into the hearts of every one who sees it, and those who miss it will have only a memory of regret when their friends relate its moral magnitude and entertainment excellency. It is one of the special bookings for Jubilee Week by the Ritz management, and is one of a complete week of super-feature attractions scheduled for Jubilee Week.

Texas Mills Show Big Increase In Use of 6,423 Bales

AUSTIN.—Consumption of cotton by Teras cotton mills during August of 6,432 bales was about 33 per cent greater than the 4,817 bales consumed in August last year but was almost 10 per cent less than in July of the current year, according to the University of Texas Bureau of Business Research.

"Production of cotton goods amounted to 6,520,000 yards, or 6 per cent less than in July," the Bureau's report said. "This was, however, 42 per cent above August last year. Sales of cloth, 3,882,000 yards, were 35 per cent below those of July and 48 per cent under August, 1932. Unfilled orders, 7,690,000 yards, declined 20 per cent from July and also from August last year.

"Active spindles, numbering 162,584, declined 2.8 per cent from July but were 17 per cent above August last year, while spindle hours were 4 per cent below those of July but 21 per cent above those of August, 1932."

Former Governors Drop Political Life After Terms

AUSTIN.—Dan Moody, once known as the "boy governor" but an even 40 now with thinning hair has no desire to hold another public office.

"I've seen too many political ghosts," said Moody recently when the prospects of becoming a candidate was broached.

"I quit when I was still young enough to get out and make a living. I have seen too many men give all their youth to public office. For a time it seems they can get anything they want. But the time comes when they lose and, seemingly, are forgotten.

"Go to any political convention. You will find the corridors plentifully lined with men who once were prominent office-holders.

Former Gov. Pat M. Neff is another who quit public office in time to give unspent energies to a new vocation. He accepted the presidency of Baylor University.

Former Gov. Will Hobby, ended his public life early enough to return actively to the publishing business, banking and insurance.

Former Governor Janes E. Ferguson at 68 seems to have reversed the program. He is expected to seek re-entry to public office. In the meantime, he edits the Forum, runs his Bosque county farm and dairy, practices law and advises his wife, Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson.

Former Gov. Ross Sterling, his once many figured fortune wrecked by the depression, is said to be waiting favorable opportunity to re-enter the oil business in which he amassed waelth before.

Former Gov. O. B. Colquitt after leaving public life to go into an oil business returned to an appointive office when President Herbert Hoover made him a member of a labor meditation board. Recently he visited Austin. He is oldest of the living former governors of Texas.

Farm Products Of Nation Now Said To Be Worth Over Billion Dollars

Gross farm income will approximate $6,360,000 this year compared with $5,143,000,000 in 1932, assuming a continued improveed demand for farm products the remainder of this year, according to a preliminary estimate by the Bureau of Agricultural Economics. The estimate is made up of $6,100,000,000 from the sale of farm products, plus at least $260,000,000 in rentals and benefit payments by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration.

Most of the increase in gross income is attributed to better prices for crops, since prices of most types of livestock have averaged slightly lower this year than last. Unless livestock prices advance materially during the last four months of the year, gross income from livestock will not be greatly different from that in 1932, says the bureau.

The trend of farm prices in the next few months will be an important factor in determining the gross income of farmers for 1933 since farmers marketing are usually largest during that period of the year, the bureau explains. Should industrial activity improve during the remainder of this year, a further increase in consumer and industrial demand for farm products is expected. The bureau has assumed there will be some further improvement in business activity during the next few months, but at a somewhat more moderate rate than the improvement from March through July.

The marked reduction in production of many of the principal crops this year has strengthened prices by reducing prospective supplies for the coming year, says the bureau, adding that the reduction in wheat production to below normal requirement will result in the smallest carryover of wheat from the current marketing year, since 1929. Cotton production has been reduced to below average consumption, and a reduction of more than 30 percent in the output of cigar type tobaccos is in prospect.

The potato crop this year is 18 percent less than last year's but prices on August 15 were 255 percent of August prices in 1932. Farmers wil get more money from fruits and nuts this year than last, since prices of most fruits at the beginning of the marketing year were much higher than prices a year ago and the higher prices have been well maintained. There is likely to be less than usual waste of farm products this year because of smaller production and improved prices, says the bureau.

But supplies of livestock marketed this year are likely to be larger than in 1932, the bureau points out. Inspected slaughter of hogs during the first half of this year was 3 percent larger than in 1932, and slaughter during the last half of the year it is expected, will also be somewhat greater than in the corresponding period a year ago, due to increase of 13 percent in number of hogs six months old or older on farms June 1, and to an increase of 3 percent in the number of springs as saved in 1933.

The bureau says that the Agricultural Administration program of buying about 1,000,000 sows bred to farrow this fall, and about 4,000,000 little pigs under 100 pounds in weight, will not materially affect the quantity of pork which would ordinarily be made available for market the remainder of this year, but that it will greatly reduce the prospective supply for the first half of 1934 and thereby afford a better market for the hogs to be marketed this fall.

Cattle and calf slaughter this year, it is expected, will be larger than in 1932, especially during the latter half of the year. Inspected slaughter of cattle the first half of this year was nearly 6 percent more than that of a year ago, and the number of cattle on feed in the Corn Belt on August 1 was 13 percent greater than the number a year ago. Unfavorable range and pasture conditions over much of the country are expected to increase marketings of cattle this fall as compared with last fall and because of reduced feeder demand it is expected that a larger proportion of these cattle will be taken for slaughter. Calf slaughter so far this year has been in excess of that of a year ago, as somewhat lower prices. A slight reduction in sheep and lamb slaughter this year compared with 1932 is expected.

Income from livestock products and from poultry and eggs expected to be about the same as in 1932. Prices of whole milk and butterfat in July and August were somewhat higher than prices in the same months last year and should this favorable comparison with the same period a year ago be continued through the remainder of this year, gross income from dairy products in 1933 with probably about equal that of of 1932, says the bureau.

Chisos Mountain Holds Surprises For Explorer

A remote section comprising more than six hundred square miles and known as the Big Bend of Texas is, for the first time, awakening in the eyes of the public an interest, and showing it that here is one of the most beautiful spots in Texas.

Artists and writers have tried with brush and pen to give to the public a conception of the beauty the vastness, and the awe-inspiring wondering wonder of this section, but it cannot be fully appreciated until one has seen it through one's own eyes.

Government men who are looking for a site for a state park have been carried away with its beauty. Recently several of these men visited the Chisos Mountains, and what a surprise they got—what a surprise any traveler will receive if he is interested enough to go into some of the canyons, and to the top of a few of the towering peaks of these mountains.

From a distance the Chisos appear to be nothing more than a barren, desolate pile of huge boulders, uninviting and dreary looking to the traveler who is seeking an oasis in the semi-desert country. But on reaching the foothills of these mountains he is surprised to see large trees on the summit of the peaks, and, as he goes into the canyons he finds enclosed by the rugged mountains a veritable paradise.

The long leaf pine, the pinon, the live oak, white oak, fir, puniper, spruce, all kinds of cedars, and even the Arizona Cypress, said by some biologists to be identical with the Cedars of Lebanon, cover the canyons and mountain sides. Wild flowers of species too numerous to mention, and vines of different varieties cover the ground and intermingle with small scrub trees, making a forest where the Virginia flag tail deer roam, and where panther and bear watch with wary eye the entrance of a traveler into their domain. Here also, are the Arizona flag tail deer, the bob-cat, dove, quail and wild pigeons. A haven for wild animals where the foot of man seldom trods.

At the head of the Wade Canyon is a two hundred foot waterfall, fed entirely by springs, and a surprising and interesting fact about this fall is that as soon as the water reaches the canyon below it sinks. There is no stream running from the small pool it forms. It disappears into the earth, and forms springs for ranches ten and fifteen miles from the Chisos Mountains.

There are innumerable caves in the rocky cliffs—Indian caves and caves which may hold gold that is reported buried in different parts of these mountains. A veritable treasure field awaits the archeologist who is adventurous enough to risk his neck in searching these large holes in the cliffs.

Recently the inhabitants of San Vicente and Hot Springs were amazed at the sight of a thin wisp of smoke curling from the top of one of the peaks. Upon investigation this proved to come from an old volcanic crater on the summitt of Mt. Emery, and was found to be a breather, or a "kickback" from some active volcano either in Mexico or the United States.

Texas, though she does not realize it, has here a spot that equals almost the Yellowstone and Yosemite for beauty. And some day the Chisos Mountains in the Big Bend of Texas will become a national park, where the inhabitants of the world will beat a path and gaze with rapt wonder on the wild rugged beauty of these mountains. —Alphine Avalanche.

Even Coaches Get in Action As Football Rash Breaks Out

Throughout Texas thousands of boys and young men are again taking to football. College, high-school, grade school or sand lot, it makes no difference, America's spectacle has taken youth. Above is an excellent view of a hot day in the Southern Methodist University training camp at Dallas, a bunch of prospective stars in their underwear, and a coach who believes in "getting in there and fighting." Coach Ray Morrison is attempting to block a pass so that Lonnie Smith, end, will learn all the methods of getting them, blockers or no blockers.

Rancher Reported Robbed Of $5,200

FORT WORTH,—Eli J. Marlin, 30,, Throckmorton rancher, reported to police he was held up and robbed of $5,200 as he came out of the side entrance to the First National bank this week.

He named a man with whom he hed been negotiating on a cattle deal.

Marlin, who is the son of J. W. Marlin, pioneer cattleman of Throckmorton, said he had met two men in Mineral Wells a week or so ago and had negotiated on a cattle deal. He was to meet the men in Fort Worth yesterday.

Keeping the appointment, Marlin said he met the men at a downtown hotel and that one of them accompanied him to the bank, waiting outside while Marlin went inside to get the money.

The rancher said he drew $5,200. As he came out the man displayed a small caliber pistol and ordered "hand it over."

The man snatched the money from Marlin, ran around the corner where he jumped into an automobile and escaped. Max Williams 16, newsboy, was standing about 50 feet away and saw the money change hands, although he did not see a gun.

The rancher Sunday sold 1,000 acres of land in West Texas, for which he received $10,000 cash. He deposited it in the First National Monday afternoon.

Coffee Content Important Factor

Assuming you are a normal sort of person, it doesn't make much difference how many cups of coffee you drink every day, provided your beverage is made from Admiration Dripkut Coffee and made by the drip method. Then you get a cup of coffee as clear as the Fountain of Youth. It is fresh as the morning dew, because Admiration is delivered by fast motor trucks direct from the roasting ovens to your grocer, every week or twice a week if necessary to keep his stock oven-fresh.

If you make drip coffee, you do not have any of those harsh irritants that come from the woody fibre of the coffee beans, but only the essential oils of the coffee in your brew.

All coffee that has been boiled, contains a certain amount of those irritating substances which take away from the real enjoyment of a cup of coffee.

Made in the modern way, from a blend of fine, winey, delicious berries, such as those that have always gone into the famous Admiration blend, your enjoyment will be complete.

But the women who attend the Wellington Leader Cooking School will learn many of the secrets of making a good cup of coffee and incidentally, several of those women will receive free cans of Admiration Dripkut each day. The makers of Admiration Coffee remind the public that, "if it isn't Admiration, it isn't Dripkut."

STOLEN SHORT WAVE RADIO CATCHES THIEF

CHARLOTTE, N. C.—A colored man walked into a radio shop recently and wanted to sell a radio with short-wave adapter which he was carrying under his arm. He put the set down and started to give the dealer an idea of its reception. The reception was so perfect that the man caught his breath, dashed out, and has not been seen since. The broadcast was a police description of the receiving set which had been stolen only a short time before.

Frankie Parker, 15-year-old tennis sensation, recently defeated George Lott for the third time.

Cows Have Time To Eat After Mosquitoes Leave

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—Mosquito abatement in California is producing a better grade of milk, the state department of public health informed Governor Rolph. "Cows now have more time for eating the grass than when they devoted their efforts to swishing away the insects," the department's health bulletin stated.

SUBMARINE IS USED TO SMUGGLE LIQUOR

UMEA, Sweden.—Submarine rum running seems to be the latest wrinkle in illegal liquor traffic.

According to a story told here, a group of Finnish seal hunters, operating not far from the Swedish coast, recently were stopped by a suddenly-appearing undersea craft. They were asked the location of a certain harbor on the Finnish coast. After getting the information the sub set off at a high speed toward Finland. The hunters are positive that the craft was neither a Swedish nor a Finnish ship, but rather an anti-quated German submarine. They believe that it was being used by a band of Baltic rum runners.

Seek Ban On Sale Of Machine Guns

AUSTIN, Tex.—The Texas legislature was requested this week to pass a law to prohibit the sale or lease, other than to officers, of a machine gun or sub-machine gun.

Enactment of the law was proposed as a means of curbing activities of kidnapers and gangsters.

Joseph B. Keenan, assistant United States attorney general, assigned especially to prosecution of defendants in the Urschel kidniping case in Oklahoma, in an address on last Saturday before members of the Texas League of Municipalities, recommended passage of a law as the governor proposed.

A similar bill was offered in the regular session and passed the Senate but never was reached on the House calendar.

The Governor presented 25 additional subjects, many of them of a local nature, to the special session of the Legislature, bringing the total topics opened by her so far to nearly 100. The Legislature still has 15 days to go before the session expires by constitutional limitation.

The chief executive proposed an amendment to existing statutes which would require foreign corporations doing business in Texas to maintain a set of books, minutes and records and make them available for examination at all times by the governing board of any county, municipality or other political subdivision desiring to investigate the organization, conduct and management of the business.

BIRDS EAT COTTAGE SHINGLES IN OREGON

Feathered "Peeping Toms" in the form of Oregon wood-peckers are making life miserable for H. E. Plummer at his beach cottage in Gearhart, Oregon.

The persistent birds recently bored through two layers of shingles, shiplap and stubbing. He patched up the holes. A few days later he returned and found five more holes, some of them two inches in diameter, bored in his cottage.

Genevieve Wyatt of White Sulphur Springs, Ga., a feminine tennis star, also is said to rival Helen Wills Moody in beauty.

NO "WILD WEST"

STOCKHOLM.—Sweden has put new teeth in its "Sullivan" law. Any one who fails to report to the police possession of any kind of a revolver or rifle or shot gun or even the purchase of ammunition is liable to a term in jail. Until now only fines have been imposed.

People Want To Know About New Anti-Knock Gas

H. O. Starks Explains Octane Content And New Production Methods

Recent announcement of the Phillips Petroleum Company that the anti-knock rating of its Phillips "66" gasoline has been raised to 70 octane has brought a deluge of inquiries regarding octane number and its significance, according to H. O. Starks, manager of Phillips' Amarillo Division.

Nearly everyone knows that octane number is a measurement of the anti-knock quality of motor fuel; that the higher the octane number the greater the anti-knock characteristic of the gasoline. In other words, a gasoline of 70 octane, which is top rating in the regular price class, will not knock on hills or during sharp acceleration, while a gasoline of 65 octane or less will, according to H. O. Starks.

What seems to be arousing the curiosity of most motorists is the reason for use of the word octane. It's all the fault of the technologists—the research engineers who develop and test gasolines in the many refinery laboratories throughout the country, Starks says.

After trying out many testing fuels to which gasoline might be compared for absence of knock, the scientists finally agreed on a mixture of octane and heptane, two pure hyrdocarbons which burn like gasoline. Octane won't knock; heptane makes a motor sound like a riveting machine. As the proportion of octane to heptane in the testing fuel varies, so does the amount of knock vary.

The gasoline motorists buy is tested in a one cylinder motor under conditions which stimulate those of actual automobile operation. The test engine is equipped with dials to show the force of detonation, or knock, and to record temperature conditions. If the gasoline knocks just like testing fuel composed of 50 per cent octane, 50 per cent heptane, then the anti-knock rating of that gasoline is called 50 octane. If the gasoline's detonation is the same as that of a 70 per cent octane—30 per cent heptane mixture, the gasoline is 70 octane, which is just right for modern high-compression motors, according to automotive engineers.

But pure octane and pure heptane cost about $25.00 per gallon. Their use exclusively as testing fuel would be like burning so many dollar bills. In actual testing then, fuels with known characteristics in relation standard octane-heptane mixtures are used as a standard by which gasoline to be tested and evaluated.

So after all, octane number is an arbitrary figure, according to H. O. Starks, valuable only because it is the one on which all refiners have agreed as a measure of anti-knock quality.

"And if you think the public isn't responsive to an increase in anti-knock quality, you should see the way Phillips '66' sales have jumped since we came out with our 70 octane gasoline," Mr. Starks said.

Scientists Find Dinosaur Bones In River Canyon

BERKELEY, Calif.—Successful exploration of 3,000 square miles of Southern Utah and Northern Arizona, including two canons of the Colorado river, was reported here recently by Ansel Franklin Hall, chief of the division of education and forestry of the national park service, who organized the expedition.

"For 60 years scientists have been searching for fossils in the rocks of the Navajo sandstone, which covers thousands of square miles in northern Arizona and southern Utah," said Hall. "They never have found any. Our expedition also searched without results until the last day, when they were all ready to pull out.

"Then L. W. Lowrey of Winters, Calif. discovered the remains of a small dinosaur—the most important single discovery of the expedition."

A second feature of the expedition was an adventurous exploration of the San Juan and Glenn Canons of the Colorado, 11 men using seven small folding boats especially designed for the task. Hall said he had just been informed of the safe arrival of the 11 at Lee's Ferry, Ariz. completing their journey without the loss of a boat or a man.

"The objective was to report on the possibility of finding cliff dwellings in the side canons," Hall explained. "I understand they found some very interesting material."

Sleeping Sickness Has Many Signs

This unfortunate name seems to have stuck and we have therefore taken it for our title as the popular name for what the doctors call encephalitis lethargice or epidemic encephalitis.

This sleeping sickness now prevalent in the middle west has nothing to do with African sleeping sickness due to the bite of the tsetse fly. The patient with encephalitis is not necessarily sleepy though stupor is the most common symptom. Sometimes he shows what is called sleep reversal, being drowsy in the day time and wakeful at night. The patient often has strange hallucinations—he sees creatures and hears noises that are not really there. These hallucinations get mixed up with his dreams. Dreams, after all, are a kind of hallucination.

Often an early sign of encephalitis is great weakness. There may also be dizziness. In the present epidemic headache has been often the first symptom and there has been nausea, vomiting and diarrhea or constipation. Later all kinds of nerve disorders may develop—jerkings of the muscles, double vision, drooping of the eyelids, ringing in the ears, rigidity of the neck, profuse sweating and so on.

The disease was first recognized in Vienna in the winter of 1916-1917. Either it spread very rapidly over the world or else it had been occurring all the time but had not been recognized. Once doctors were on the look out they soon recognized it. But as yet we do not know how to prevent its spread. Sleeping sickness is one of several arguments for spending money on medical research.

Soviet Balloon Fails To Rise

MOCOW.—The Red Army's project of sending three men on an exploratory trip into the stratosphere was called off after repeated attempts from dawn until noon failed to lift their balloon into the air.

The silver-blue "U. S. S. R,"—boasted to be the largest in the world—could not gain height during seven trials, presumably because engineers miscalculated the amount of hydrogen needed to elevate the heavy gondola, which never got more than 20 feet from the ground.

Low hanging clouds completely obscured the sun as the ground crew in the presence of 1000 officials and soldiers, time after time was ordered to release the anchoring ropes. But the balloon merely slid horizontally across the field before a strong west wind.

After the first four unsuccessful attempts a halt was called when it was discovered a rope controlling a valve on the gas bag had been fouled.

Finally one of the three stratosphere balloonists climbed out of a porthole in the bondola and hoisted himself hand over hand on a rope a distance of over 60 feet. He succeeded in untangling the line as the crowd applauded.

State Establishes Football Class For Small Schools

Interscholastic League Enrolls More Than 450 In Texas Football

AUSTIN, Texas—More than 450 have enrolled in Interscholastic League football, according to Roy B. Henderson, athletic director of the University of Texas League Bureau. This is the largest football enrollment in the history of the Interscholastic League in this State, Mr. Henderson said. Last year approximately 425 schools participated.

Much of the increase this year is due to participation in the newly established "Conference C," whch is composed of schools of 150 enrollment or less. There are fifty or sixty such schools that have signed for League football this year, some of which have formerly competed against larger schools in Conference B. Competition in Conference C will end with the determining of the district championships in the six or seven distrcts yet to be blocked out, whereas regional championships are determined in Conference B, and only Conference A, comprised of schools of 500 or more enrollment goes to the State championship.

"Establishment of Conference C fills a need that has been felt for several years for appropriate competition for small schools," Mr. Henderson explained. "Many of these schools have been competiing with much larger schools, and have suffered the handicap of not having adequate material for such competition. Conference C will give them the opportunity to play against schools of their own size."

"Wandering Jew" Printer Is Ready To Settle Down

CASPER, Wyo.—Nate Bergman familiarly known as the "Wandering Jew," last of the once populous tribe of tramp printers, visited the Casper Independent last week, making one of his irregular stops for work, a task that he has followed for 32 years.

Bergman became a tramp printer when he was only 18 years old and is now nearly fifty. "I'm all washed up," he said. "My game is over. Everywhere I go, now, they can tell me that they have all they can do to take care of the local boys. I'm looking for a place to become a local boy myself. It's not like it was in the old days when the tramp printer was welcome anywhere."

Time was when the tramp printer was eagerly hired at whatever shop he chose to stop. He brought with him new ideas, new shop methods, and the news from other sections. But now the once honorable and ancient profession of tramp printer is almost extinct. Bergman is a survival from a time that is past. Realizing it, he now wishes to settle down.

His principal difficulty seems to be that there is nowhere that recognizes him as a "local boy," unless it be Cheyenne, where his father, a wealthy retired pawnbroker, died a few years ago. When Bergman's rich father died he left him about $500, the rest being willed to a recent bride. Bergman, Sr., had married a woman of 36 when he was 68. With the $500 Bergman attempted to break the will, but the court decided in the bride's favor. Blood relationship was not as strong as the marriage bond in the eyes of the court.

Since then Bergman has found that being a tramp printer has become more and more difficult. "The depression bum," he says, "has ruined our trade. The only work I get nowadays is from my friends who voluntarily lay off a day or so that I may work."

Bergman has been in Casper several times before and has worked here. Recently he came from Montana and six weeks ago he was in California. His trips are faster now, with fewer stops for work.

Scene From "Mayor Of Hell"

Old Fashioned Coffee Pot Is Given "OK," Too

Someone has said, "boiled coffee is spoiled coffee." If you do make it "boiled," it will bear watching.

The makers of Admiration Coffee point out that the quotation makes good sense, but they simplify it by saying it is all right to continue to make coffee by the old fashioned coffee pot method, if you understand that after the water has taken up the eseential oils from the ground coffee, the brew should not be allowed to boil or you will get a certain amount of bitterness in the taste that is "not so good." In other words, the moment coffee "comes to a boil" in an old fashioned coffee pot, the pot should be moved to a place on the stove where the coffee will keep hot but will not boil.

They say when you order coffee for an old fashioned coffee pot you should be sure to tell your grocer that you want steel cut Admiration Coffee. They also grind Admiration finer, by a new exclusive, patented process for modern drip coffee making devices. This is known as Dripkut Admiration and is easily identified by a prominent strip at the top of the Admiration can. If it isn't Admiration, it isn't Dripkut.

Women who are interested in getting the most food value from the groceries they buy, or the food they raise will have many a thrill at the Leader School of Cookery this week. A listed number of cans of Admiration Coffee will be given away free to some of the women in attendance each day during the school.

Minister Flees Wrath Of Dames Minus Galluses

JONESBORO, Ark.—A new minister's attempt to occupy the pulpit of the Jonesboro Baptist Tabernacle, scene of bitter intra-congregation strife for weeks, ended last week in his flight from an attacking group of women, minus his suspenders and Bible.

The Rev. Doc Applegate, a former deputy constable and ordained minister, mounted the platform at tabernacle services and announced he had been sent to preach in the place of the Rev. Dale S. Crowley, one of the rivals for the pastorate.

Immediately, according to reports to officers, 15 or 20 women members of the Rev. Joe Jeffers faction, in possession of the tabernacle advanced upon him.

They seized Applegate, tore off his suspenders and part of his shirt and threw him off the platform, officers reported. He fled from the tabernacle, leaving his suspenders and Bible behind.

Whether warrants would be issued in connection with the new flare up in the church war was not announced.

Crowley, recognized by a chancery court order as the tabernacle pastor, has remained away from the building the past few weeks while members of the Jeffers faction held control. Jeffers, militant evangelist who sought to oust Crowley is in Miami, Fla., his place being taken by Jake Sharp, who has been chosen pastor in an election which Crowley contends was illegal.

that it holds down jealousy on the team.

Friday the Skyrockets fell for an old trick—or at least they made a trick of it. When an Acme player signalled for a fair catch the boys swarmed down on him, tackled him—and consequently were penalized 15 yards. It is nice that this could happen in the Acme game because they will certainly remember the incident, and it may save them 15 yards in some game when such an amount of yardage might cost them the game. Lots of things have to happen like that to a team of new players, but pretty soon before you know it they are all veterans and know all of the answers to all of the questions.

One of the best decisions the Skyrockets have made was when they chose Ross Presnal as captain. In addition to being one of the best little tackles in this immediate section, Presnal knows more about the game than most of his teammates. Besides, he is a worker and is into almost every play.

C. C. Williams has been doing some mighty nice work as an interference man, but Friday night he crashed through with a 20 yard run which netted the Skyrockets a touchdown. Williams looks good. The fans want to see more of that boy.

Byron Duncan and Shields got some mighty nice tackles during the game and both of the boys look like good material.

Hardy also played a mighty nice game Friday night and is one of the most consistent players on the entire team. M. V. Vandiver also made some excellent passes from center, while Blassengame and Brown filled their posts well.

waved to Stribling, Barrow said he saw the woman would hit either him or Stribling. Stribling ran off the pavement in an effort to dodge her but was sideswiped, the impact crushing his leg and throwing him from the motorcycle.

The crash brought an end to Stribling's boxing career, which had seen him fight three world champions. Recently he won a newspaper decision over Maxie Rosenbloom, the light-heavyweight king, in Houston, Texas. It was his last fight.

Starting his ring life some fifteen years ago, Stribling fought from Coast to Coast and abroad. He was often called "king of the canebrakes," because he fought so many second-rate boxers in his quick hops about the country.

In 1923 he had two battles with Mike McTigue, then light-heavyweight champion. The first in Columbus, Ga., brought about the famous controversy over Referee Harry Ertle's decision, which was changed three times before finally listed as a draw. In 1931 he was knocked out in the fifteenth round of his heavyweight championship fight with the then champion Max Schmeling in Cleveland.

In other major duels Stribling lost to Paul Berlenbach in New York, to Ernie Shcaaf in Chicago and to Jack Sharkey in Miami. He knocked out Phil Scott in London and won one bout and lost another, both on fouls, with Primo Carnera, now champion.
