Texas Speed Confuses

By GARTH JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. AP — Gov. Dolph Briscoe is waiting on Congress to do something about Texas' speed limits.

The Texas legislature is waiting on Briscoe to say if there will be a special session on Texas speed limits.

And the poor Texas motorist is confused. Should he drive the maximum 50 miles per hour recommended by President Nixon, the 55 m. p. h. asked by Briscoe, or the 70 m.p.h. still posted on big signs all along the state's highways?

Apparently Congress holds the key to the whole Texas muddle.

The Texas Highway Commission tried last week to set the maximum limit at 55 m.p.h. as the governor had asked but Atty. Gen. John Hill promptly came back and said the commission did not have the authority to set speed limits, except for specific stretches of road where unsafe conditions exist. Hill said the legislature is the only one change the statewide speed limit.

Briscoe, who obviously thought the change was a mere commission formality, was taken by surprise. The 55 m.p.h. limitation was a key portion of his plan to solve the energy crisis. He said he had hoped the commission action would prevent "the necessity and expense" of a special legislative session.

However, Briscoe said he was not yet ready to call such a lawmaking session, even for a few days, because he wanted to see what Congress would do with a bill authorizing Nixon to set a nationwide 55 m.p.h. limit. The measure has passed the U.S. House and is expected to pass the Senate before Christmas.

"At that point," Briscoe said, "I will do whatever is necessary to assure that Texas has a legal speed limit in conformity with national policy to conserve fuel."

Briscoe's statement apparently indicated that Texas, or at least the governor, would not buck Washington on a national speed limit.

In Washington, Congressional and government lawyers have predicted that any state that attempts to defy the presidential order to lower speed limits will find itself on shaky legal ground. The House approved bill would take away federal highway funds from any state not complying.

Texas highway officials have already estimated they stand to lose up to $14 million in revenue if gasoline conservation efforts are as effective as expected. About $7 million would be lost from decreased returns of the state gasoline tax of five cents a gallon and another $7 million likely will be lost in federal matching funds.

Kissinger Urges NATO Unity On Energy Supply

BRUSSELS (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissin- proposed today that the North Atlantic allies take up the long term problem of energy supply together. He said it could be a basis for their continued unity.

U.S. officials reported from a closed door meeting of the North Atlantic Council that they concentrate on the medium and long term aspects of the problem.

Kissinger suggested the short term could best be taken care of by making the best effort toward progress on a peace settlement in the Middle East.

He promised his 14 allies that the United States will come forward at an early date with concrete proposals. Kissinger pointed out the problem was one that has been coming up for a long time and there would have been a crisis even without the war in the Middle East.

He said energy was only one of the new problems that could be taken up together, among those which have so far been considered to be outside the area of the alliance.

Kissinger said a question facing the alliance is could the members remain allies or will they drift into being competitors.

He was undertaking to bridge the rift between the United States and most of its European allies over the Middle East war. Worried about their dependence on supplies of oil from the Arab countries, most of the Europeans declined to support U.S. arms shipments to Israel.

"It is growing bigger and bigger," Secretary-General Joseph A. Luns told the opening session of the foreign ministers' semiannual meeting.

ON INCOME TAX

Nixon Awaiting Panel's Verdict

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon, after an unprecedented weekend disclosure of his finances, awaits the verdict of a congressional committee on whether he owes up to $300,000 in federal income taxes and interest.

Baring his federal tax returns for his first four years in the White House — and more than 50 other documents — Nixon acknowledged that accountants and lawyers disagree on the propriety of his 1969-1972 federal tax payments. They totaled less than $80,000, on an income of more than $1 million.

Nixon's Saturday disclosure were the first in a promised series he hopes will clear him of any taint of wrongdoing in the Watergate scandal and other controversial areas. His first installment went farther than any president before him in revealing intimate details of personal finances.

Nixon said he has enlisted the Senate-House Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation to decide two tax questions that could cost him heavily if it rules against him:

—Did he act legally in claiming almost $500,000 in deductions for donation of his vice presidential papers to the National Archives? Some argue he acted too late to take advantage of a donations law Congress voided in mid-1969.

—Did he make a taxable capital gain of $117,000 on the 1970 sale of part of his San Clemente, Calif., estate? Nixon's tax accountant claimed at the time had no gain, but a national auditing firm concluded recently that he had made a taxable profit.

The Senate-House Committee, chaired by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., seemed uncertain as to how it would proceed in fact-finding and ruling on the questions. Mills could not be reached for comment on how the committee would proceed.

Nixon's massive release of financial statements and documents also disclosed he has paid no state income taxes in California, or anywhere else, since becoming President, although he claimed San Clemente as his principal residence in order to avoid payment of federal taxes on the profit from his 1969 sale of a New York City apartment.

White House officials acknowledged Nixon would be liable for sizeable payments to California should state officials decide he should have filed tax returns there.

Court To Hear Arguments In Obscenity Case

By VERNON A. GUIDRY Jr.
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court indicated today that it may be ready to refine its sweeping decisions of last June that cracked down on what the court called "hard-core pornography."

The court agreed in a routine order to hear arguments in an obscenity case from Georgia in which the critically praised, R-rated movie, "Carna-Knowledge" was ruled obscene.

In other action today, the court:

—Declined to convene a three-judge federal panel to consider whether migrant farm workers can legally be excluded from coverage by federal and state laws protecting other workers.

—Declined to hear an appeal by the federal government urging that states which wrongly deny food stamps to eligible recipients be penalized.

—Agreed to review the conviction of five former West Virginia officials charged with vote fraud and prosecuted under an 1870 federal civil rights law. The officials maintain that the federal statute was improperly applied to a local matter.

Among questions raised by the Georgia appeal is one which has been voiced generally around the nation since last June's obscenity decision: Whether standards used to judge obscenity should be those of the state or of individual communities.

The case will be argued later this term with a decision expected by June.

The case brought to the Supreme Court by Billy Jenkins, an Albany, Ga., movie theater operator who was arrested in February 1972 after the Dougherty County sheriff's office siezed the film "Carnal Knowledge" at his Broad Avenue Cinema.

Jenkins was fined $750 and given 12 months probation for the offense.

His lawyers claimed that the Georgia laws used to convict him of obscenity were unconstitutional on their face and that he was denied due process of law at his trial.

In its 5 to 4 obscenity decisions last June the Supreme Court swept aside the previous requirement that obscenity be judged on a national standard.

The court also strengthened the hand of prosecutors by easing their burden in demonstrating obscenity.

Before last June they had to prove that a work had no redeeming social value. They must now demonstrate only that it is not a serious work.

Writing for the majority in the June decisions, however, Chief Justice Warren Burger said that only "hard-core pornography" would be subject to criminal sanctions under the decision.

Jenkins' lawyers argued that the Georgia obscenity law equates any portrayal of sex in motion pictures as obscenity.

They said the state law absolutely prohibits the showing of movies that contain portrayal of any of the acts which are prohibited by Georgia's public indecency law.

Thus, his lawyers continued, the law makes no distinction between ideas and communication protected by the First Amendment and commercial exploitation of obscenity.

The Supreme Court has not yet confronted an instance where so-called indecent exposure laws have been applied to films. But, Jenkins' lawyers said, its past decisions make clear that such an application is not permissible.

The Georgia Supreme Court split 4 to 3 in holding "Carnal Knowledge" obscene.

The film was written by Jules Feiffer and directed by Mike Nichols. It was shown successfully in other Georgia communities, and was listed, according to Jenkins' lawyers, among a number of "10 best" lists in 1971.

Fight Erupts On Golan Heights

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syrian forces destroyed an Israeli engineering unit today in one of two clashes that erupted on the Golan Heights cease-fire line, the Syrian army said.

The communique broadcast in Damascus said the first fight broke out at midmorning when Israeli engineering units pushed forward in the northern sector of the Golan front.

"Our artillery intercepted the move and forced the enemy to withdraw," the communique reported.

The second clash exploded several hours later in the central sector of the front because, the Syrians said, the Israelis moved up another engineering unit.

"Our forces intercepted and destroyed the enemy unit," the military statement said, without describing the unit.

The communique made no mention of casualties and the Israeli military command had no immediate comment.

The Golan front has erupted periodically in isolated clashes since the Middle East cease-fire six weeks ago. But United Nations observers have reported no signs the truce might collapse.

Israeli forces pushed beyond the pre-1967 borders during the October war and occupied parts of Syria proper. Syria has demanded that Israel pull out of that territory and the Golan Heights occupied since the 1967 war.

Arab oil ministers have said they won't lift their oil embargo against the United States until Israel agrees to withdraw from the Golan and all other Arab lands taken in 1967 and sets a timetable for the pullout.

Energy Panels Authorized

AUSTIN (AP) — Speaker Price Daniel Jr. today authorized three House committees to begin immediate public hearings on three energy crisis measures that might be considered if a special session is called.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe has said he will not consider calling a special legislative session until Congress acts on the speed limit bill. The governor's office said today he had not changed his stand.

Daniel said he was authorizing the House Committee on Transportation to study the matter of speed limit reduction on Texas highways, the Committee on State Affairs to consider legislation concerning construction of a superport off the Texas costs, and the Committee on Natural Resources to consider an oil field unitization bill.

Mrs. Virginia LaNell Wilson, 48, 203 Twenty-third Street, died last night in a San Antonio hospital, following a long illness. She was born Dec. 2, 1925, in Rotan.

Funeral arrangments were pending at Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

She married Truman Wilson on Sept. 24, 2942, in Sweetwater. He survives.

Also surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Patti Smith of Houston and Mrs. Jane Butler of Lubbock; two sons, Truman Wilson Jr. of Sulphur, Okla., and Joe D. Wilson II of San Marcos; her parents Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Hoover, and one brother, Carlton Chapman, all of Nocona.

Wheat Report Creates Tizzy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Agriculture Department public information chiefs are in tizzy over the handling of news announcements related to the overpayment of wheat subsidies to farmers last summer.

As the result of a routine news release last week, it was disclosed that the department needlessly advanced wheat farmers $475.7 million last July in "preliminary payments" specified by a 1970 farm law.

The payments were based on how much department experts thought wheat prices would average between July 1 and Dec. 1. Those, USDA believed then, would average $2.49 per bushel. Instead, the July-November wheat price was $3.99 per bushel.

Officials admitted to reporters last week that, if USDA had estimated wheat prices would be near $4 per bushel in the ensuing five months, no preliminary payments would have been made.

The point bothering top officials in the department's Office of Communication, however, is that, when the payments were mailed to farmers last July, no public announcement was made that the checks were being sent.

The law, which expires this year, specified that advances were to be made as soon as possible after July 1.

Responsibility for making the payments and initiating news releases about them rests with the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), one of the largest and most far-flung of the government's farm agencies.

1,000 Missing After Cyclone

DACCA, Bangladesh (AP) — About 1,000 fishermen were missing today following a cyclone that struck the coastal regions of Bangladesh, official reports said.

The official death toll from Sunday's cyclone was put at 20, but it was feared the figure might go higher as communications with the outlying areas were restored.

The reports said at least 200 fishing boats had capsized, and there was no word about the fate of about 1,000 on board.

Free message service started for runaways

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Since your column is read by millions, will you please help tell runaways about our program? It is called "Operation Peace of Mind," and was begun as a result of parents' anxieties following the recent mass slayings in Houston.

A runaway, who wants to let his parents or a loved one know that he is alive and well, may call us FREE from anywhere in the United States. He tells us whom to call and what he wants us to say. We will not trace his call or attempt to find him. We do no preaching or counseling. We do ask if he needs any help, and if he does, we tell him where it is available in his area. We then call his parents or loved one and relay the message.

Our telephones are manned by volunteers 24 hours a day. Our office space was donated by the Holiday Inn, and the Texas governor's office pays for the calls.

Out of state call 1-800-231-6946
In Texas call 1-800-392-3352
In Houston call 524-3821

Abby, will you please help us pass the word?

A VOLUNTEER WHO CARES

DEAR VOLUNTEER: Will I? You bet! What better holiday gift could a parent receive than to know that his child away from home is alive and well?

DEAR ABBY: I know for a fact that my father is having an affair with another woman. My brother is 21, and I am 26, so we both know what it's all about.

Our problem is, should we tell our mother? When we approached Dad, he denied it as we expected he would, but we know it's a fact. If we tell Mom, we will feel responsible for her hurt. If we don't tell her, she will find out eventually, and when she does she will feel that we have betrayed her by keeping it from her.

I am sure Dad will get caught sooner or later, but it is so difficult to see him lying and cheating. Should we wait and let him hang himself? Or should we tell Mom what we know and pray for the best? IN THE MIDDLE

DEAR IN: It's Dad's affair. Let him hang himself. The old saw, "The wife is always the last to know," ain't necessarily so.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 52-year-old widow. My son is being married. The bride's mother is putting on the wedding. She sent me an invitation so I called her up and asked her if I could bring my gentleman friend as an escort. She said: "No, I have you fixed up with Frank for the wedding."

I told her I didn't care for Frank, so she said: "If you don't care for Frank, you can go with Paul."

I asked her how old Paul was, because I didn't know him. She said he was in his late twenties!

I then said: "I don't want any kid my son's age to escort me. I have a steady gentleman friend, why can't I bring him?"

She said: "Because we can't handle any more than we have already invited."

Abby, don't you think I should have been allowed to bring my own escort to my son's wedding? He's not just another guy. We are serious about each other, and will probably marry. GROOM'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: The bride's mother isn't up on her wedding etiquet. As the mother of the groom, you should have been asked to submit a list of those guests you wanted invited to the wedding. Had this been done, your friend would have received an invitation.

Diversion Project Activated

The Beal's Creek diversion project, design to influence the quality of water in Lake E.V. Spence, was activated Thursday.

It was started just in time to prevent the overflow of a series of playa lakes west of Big Spring into Beal's Creek, and hence ultimately into the Colorado River which feeds Lake Spence.

When it reaches full stage of pumping 2,200,000 gallons of water from Three and Four-Mile lakes back behind the Natural Dam 10 miles west of Big Spring, this will have the effect of removing 320 tons of chlorides daily as a potential pollutant of the water flowing toward Lake Spence. Of course not all this water would flow down to the Colorado River, but the objective is to drain the highly mineralized water from the lakes and remove the threat.

With the onset of winter's cooler temperatures, evaporation is less, and the lakes normally begin to flow to the creek. This had begun at Three-Mile Lake, but not from One-Mile lake just above Big Spring which feeds into the creek.

Water in Three and Four-Mile lakes now tests 35,000 ppm chlorides. At the contemplated rate of pumpage, the Colorado River Municipal Water District hopes to drain the two lakes within about three months, said O.H. Ivie, general manager. The lakes then would be able to contain any normal runoff from Spring rains.

Once the lakes are drained, the district may cut a channel through One-Mile lake, whose runoff is potable water, so that this good runoff can go on down stream. The project has been constructed at a cost of approximately $175,000.

Garbage Can Be Made Fuel

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — After months of sifting through the city's garbage, a team of university researchers has concluded it's worth too much to just throw away.

Dr. John Smith, a Memphis State University engineering professor who headed the team, says most of the garbage can be converted into fuel in these energy-short days and the rest of it can be sold for re-cycling.

"We knew from the start that organic solid waste can be converted to fuel, but we didn't know how much of it, city trash, was organic, how much was metal or how much was glass" Smith said.

So Smith and his research group spent several months and nearly $50,000 sifting through garbage brought into the city's three dumps.

They found that 82 per cent of the trash is organic and can be processed into fuel, 7 per cent is metal that can be recycled and 6.8 per cent glass which also can be recycled at a profit.

The concept of using trash as fuel is not new. St. Louis is experimenting with a system and Chicago has a pilot program in operation. Nashville plans to create steam to heat government buildings.

"St. Louis burns about 300 tons daily. We are looking at something on the magnitude of 1,500 tons daily," Smith said.

An $8 million plan will be needed to transform the trash into fuel. The City of Memphis has already kicked in about $2 million toward making the plant a reality and a bill is pending in the state legislature that would bring further funding.

The Tennessee Valley Authority has agreed to make the necessary adjustments at its Memphis power plant to handle a mixture of 80 per cent trash material and 20 per cent coal.

He estimates TVA will save about $750,000 per year worth of coal and the city will reap about $1 million per year through the sale of glass, aluminum, iron and non-ferrous metals recovered at the plant.

Smith said that under the present timetable, the plant will be built and the operation underway in three years.

Firemen Called Out Four Times

City Firemen answered four calls Sunday.

They extinguished a garage fire at 3112 Thirty-eight Place at 1:40 p.m. Owner of the property is Bob Layfield. Damage was minor.

They extinguished a cotton fire behind the Hermleigh School at 4:05 p.m.

They extinguished grass fires one mile west of Union at 5:25 p.m. and at Avenue O and Andress at 7:35 p.m.

Jaworski Gets Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House delivered "a significant number" of presidential tapes to special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski this weekend, his office announced today.

A spokesman for the prosecutor's office declined to say how many tapes or which conversations they contained.

In addition, he said, "a substantial number of the documents requested by the special prosecutor were also delivered and assurances have been given by White House counsel that searches are now in progress for other documents for which requests are outstanding."

Liz And Richard Reconciled

LONDON (AP) — "We are back together again," said Elizabeth Taylor, "and that must be good."

The film actress and Richard Burton arrived from Los Angeles by commercial airliner after a hospital room reconciliation. Burton wheeled her off the plane and they boarded their private jet for a flight to Rome.

"I am a very happy man," said the 48-year-old Burton.

He refused to discuss the reconciliation, telling newsmen: "Don't be so stupid. I am not going to tell you intimate details of that nature."

He said they would go to Naples, where he is making a picture, and would spend Christmas in Venice or Rome.

Burton said his wife would be recovered from her recent operation in about a month.

"It is just a question of recuperation," he said. "The trouble started when she injured herself in a fall while making a film. The injury led to the operation."

Until Burton arrived in Los Angeles Friday night, friends said Henry Wynberg of Los Angeles, a former used car salesman, was the No. 1 man in Miss Taylor's life.

But on Sunday it was Burton who pushed his wife's wheelchair onto the plane for London and told newsmen: "She's going to get a lot of rest and sunshine."

Girl Scout News

Brownie Troop 309 went to the planetarium at WTC on Monday and saw "Stars Over Bethlehem." After the program, the girls went to the Dairy Queen for refreshments. Those attending were: Eva Hernandez, Donna Hernandez, Audie Smith, Tennie Rainwater, Sheila Young, Teresa (Cissie) Deere, Tina Romero, Debbie Jones, Susy Doan, and Lisa Stock. Jo Ann Doan, leader, accompanied the girls.

Junior Troop 327 visited the planetarium at WTC this past Wednesday. Leaders of this troop are Mrs. Tom Houf and Mrs. James Noble.

Junior Troop 85, under the leadership of Mrs. Jean Neves, Mrs. Nellie Essery, and Dee Ann Pierce, visited the WTC planetarium last Wednesday. Thanks to Mrs. Noel Browning for providing transportation to WTC. These girls plan to start making Christmas gifts next week.

The Christmas party for Girl Scout Leaders will be held Tuesday, Dec. 11th, 9:30 to 11:00 a.m. at the home of Mrs. George Stewart, 2900-32nd Street. All leaders and assistants are invited to attend.

Cadette Troop 266, Brownie Troop 239, Junior Troop 85, Brownie Troop 315, and Brownie Troop 48, helped with one of the most important service projects of the year. These troops and their leaders helped in providing clothes, bedding, and various other items for the Sweetwater Girl Scout leader whose home was destroyed by fire. These girls and their leaders have shown the true spirit of Girl Scouting and are to be highly commended for their actions.

Senior Troop 83 held a meeting November 19, at the home of Diane Chastain. Diane conducted the meeting which was attended by Mrs. Eloise Pruitt, Deborah Pruitt, Michele Graves, Lynn Leavell, Karen Stewart, Elizabeth Mijares, and Ingun Grytli.

A visit to the planetarium along with the Colorado City Senior Troop was discussed. This will probably be arranged for some date in January. The decision was made that Troop 83 will pay for handbooks for the Central Junior Troop and the Junior girls may pay this back by installment payments.

The December 17th meeting will be held at the home of Elizabeth Mijares. Each girl is to bring a covered dish and gifts will be exchanged.

Colorful Flames In The Fireplace

COLLEGE STATION — "Fireplaces are a source of pleasure year round, but at Christmas they seem to have a special glow," Patricia A. Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist, observed.

A "different" glow can come from colored flames, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University System, specialist.

"To have beautifully colored flames in your fireplace there are a number of chemicals which may be used.

"First, select bits of wood, bark, driftwood, pine cones, sweetgum balls or similar materials. Then secure appropriate chemicals from a local hardware store or a manufacturing chemist.

"Colored flames can be produced by chemicals such as red with strontium nitrate or chloride, green with Borax, blue with copper sulphate, orange with calcium chloride, and yellow with common table salt.

"Caution should be taken when using copper salts since they will stain brick, tile and concrete— so be careful in placing the colored objects to avoid permanent stains."

To treat the materials, either dissolve the chemicals in a wooden pail or earthen crock—the chemicals will destroy metal containers, she warned.

"Use about one pound of chemicals to one gallon of water to treat ½-¾ bushel of material.

"Dip the material which has been placed in a basket or porous bag, in the solution.

"Remove the container, let drip, and then spread materials on paper to dry.

"After drying overnight, dip again and dry. They are now ready to use."

There are also several dry methods of treating the material, Miss Bradshaw noted.

—Dissolve one tablespoon of glue in one gallon of boiling water. Dip the cones or other material in this solution. Remove with a metal skimmer. Sprinkle with the chemicals while the cones are hot. A salt shaker with large holes make a satisfactory utensil for the chemicals.

—Pour melted wax over the material. Before the wax hardens, sift the chemical onto the cones. The chemical will adhere and will produce a very pleasant effect when burned. Remember to use wax sparingly with this method.

—Mix the chemicals and shellac with saw dust and sprinkle on the wood in the fireplace as desired.

GM Rolls Along With Confidence In Product

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — While Americans are warned daily by one authority or another to expect radical changes in their life styles because of inevitable shortages of physical resources, General Motors rolls along.

GM, the world's largest manufacturing concern, maker of more energy-using vehicles than anyone, is convinced that the American dream of a "better" life will continue to be wedded to the automobile.

While recognizing the need to conserve energy, GM believes "the car and truck remain the backbone of American transportation — and will continue to be as far as we can see."

That is the view of Richard Gerstenberg, GM chairman, in his yearend statement on GM conditions and prospects. Somehow, the willpower of the American public will, it seems, overcome the energy shortage.

"General Motors is in the business of providing the transportation the public wants and needs. The public has always dictated the kind of transportation it desires and will certainly continue to do so.

"General Motors stands ready, now as always, to respond to these needs in whatever form they take."

Some critics will question that statement by pointing to the loss of small car sales to foreign imports, at a cost of billions of dollars in the international payments balance, because American carmakers ignored market surveys and continued to push larger vehicles.

But, generally speaking, the American automobile industry has been remarkably effective in marketing its products and its views, and so the outlook of GM is especially valuable amidst today's uncertainties.

This is how the GM chairman views the future:

"Looking beyond the impact of the current energy emergency, there is every reason to expect that, even as other forms of transportation develop, the trends in car and truck sales which have been evident since the mid-sixties will continue."

It was during the 1960s, you will recall, when millions of Americans bought their first cars, hundreds of thousands of others moved up to multiple car status, and when suburb and resorts and shopping centers dependent upon the automobile were developed.

"With rising incomes, individuals and families will still want the convenience of dependable personal transportation. The steady expansion of suburban areas as places to live and work provides a strong incentive to own a car, and the truck will maintain its central role in the movements of goods and services.

"Although higher fuel prices can be expected to accelerate the demand for smaller special-purpose vehicles, larger cars, suitable for longer trips and larger families, will continue to be an important component of total passenger car sales.

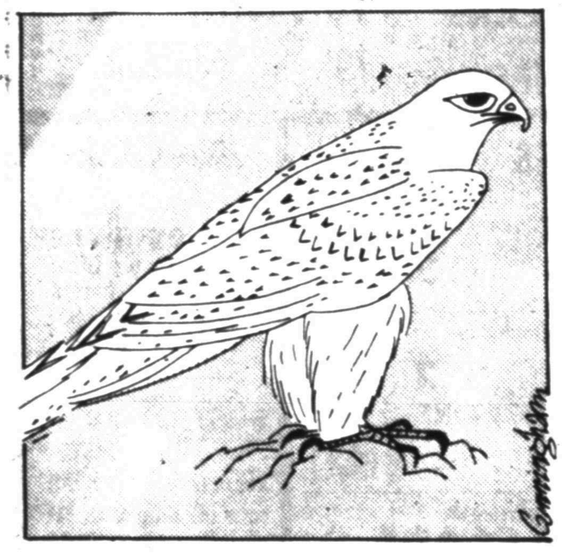

"We also anticipate that the trend toward multiple car ownership will accelerate in the years ahead. While 80 per cent of American households now own a car, only 31 per cent own more than one.

"There is every reason to expect that families increasingly will find use for a smaller car to supplement the regular car. Paralleling this trend will be a greater demand for special-purpose trucks designed to serve specific transportation needs with maximum efficiency."

Such confidence in the midst of the general doubts now assailing everyone will probably be welcomed by most Americans, despite their particular environmental views.

But where, GM, is the energy and money coming from?

Junior Editors' Quiz on THE GYRFALCON

QUESTION: Is the gyrfalcon a bird?

ANSWER: The gyrfalcon is a large bird of the Falconidae family of long-winged birds of prey, closely related to the hawk. The members of this family have a strongly hooked and notched bill; large strong feet with long curved sharp talons, and not very long tails, but rather long curved, powerful wings. They are fierce, powerful, fearless and predaceous, qualities which are valuable in the ancient and recently revived sport of falconry, a method of hunting game with trained falcons. The birds feed chiefly on birds and small mammals. Falcons do not build nests, but lay their eggs on the bare rocks of a cliff or in the abandoned nests of hawks and crows.

There are about 50 species of falcons, the largest of which is the gyrfalcon, which is 2 feet long or more. This huge bird lives in the Arctic region of North America, Europe and Asia. The gyrfalcon of the Arctic tundra, much used in falconry, adapts itself to the training of hunters.

Facts Come In Mailbag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist wouldn't know if he didn't open his mail:

The Egyptian Sphinx is not a lady, as most people believe. The model for one of the world's best known monuments was a male baboon, sacred in ancient times. The creature is no longer found in Egypt.

The hand that rocks the cradle now also steers the wheel as well. In 1940 fewer than 25 per cent of all licensed drivers were women. Now 44 per cent are.

Parrots are lazy householders. They do not bother even to build a nest. They simply lay their eggs in the soft dust that accumulates at the bottom of decayed tree trunks.

New auto bumper sticker in Washington, D.C.: "Don't bother me. I can't cope."

It takes a lot of little things to make a great big human being. For example, one of your red corpuscles is so tiny that a cube only 1-25th of an inch across could hold enough of them to equal the population of Chicago. Yet, small as these corpuscles are, each of them is big enough to contain 100 million hemoglobin molecules.

Quotable notables: "The only victory over love is flight." — Napoleon Bonaparte.

Top stories: What were the biggest news stories of the last 75 years? A poll of news media leaders by a soft-drink company came up with these nominations: Man lands on moon, the dropping of the atom bomb on Hiroshima, the assassination of President Kennedy, World War II and World War I, the bombing of Pearl Harbor and the Russian Revolution (tie), the great depression, the Wright brothers' flight, and the Vietnamese war. Would you yourself list them in that order?

History lesson: What U.S. president started the custom of having a Christmas tree in the White House? He was Franklin Pierce, who requested the first one in 1856.

Worth remembering: "A man who spends his time fiddling around rarely gets to lead the orchestra."

Folklore: A play will fail quickly if anyone back stage is cross-eyed. Salt pork worn around the neck will help heal a sore throat. You can also cure a headache by tying the head of a buzzard around your neck. To get rid of lameness, rub the affected part with a mixture of skunk grease and wildcat grease.

It was Franz Kafka who observed, "Anyone who keeps the ability to see beauty never grows old."

Lady Baden-Powell On Ceres Medals

ROME (AP) — Olive Lady Baden-Powell, widow of the founder of the Scout movement, appears on the "Ceres" medal of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization.

Lady Baden-Powell, 84, heads the 6.5 million-member Girl Scout and Girl Guide movement. The movement has been involved in nutritional and rural assistance programs in developing countries.

"Do you realize that unless people stop using electricity needlessly, we may be brushing our teeth by hand soon?"

The Consumer Alert

by John L. Hill
Attorney General

AUSTIN--With the holiday season in full swing, many organizations take the opportunity to appeal to the public's good will and generosity of spirit to solicit contributions.

Many times this is done by sending goods through the mail and requesting that the recepient make a donation to the organization.

Most often, these direct mail solicitations come from well-known, respected charitable organizations that perform a worthwhile service.

Sometimes, however, they come from businesses which specialize in preying on people's sympathy for a cause that may be of dubious value, or one that produces little income for the charity it purports to represent.

Many recipients of unordered merchandise wonder. "Do I have to pay for this item if I use it, or am I required to return it if I don't want it?"

The answer is no. There are both state and federal laws that now protect recipients of unordered merchandise.

According to a law passed in Texas in 1969, people who receive unsolicited merchandise have no obligation either to pay for it or to return it, unless the merchandise was sent accidentally. If that happens, the burden of proving a bona fide accidental error in delivery is upon the sender.

In addition, the Federal Postal Reorganization Act, which became effective in July, 1971, provides virtually the same protection.

Most of us are familiar with the traditional Christmas seals sent out by the American Tuberculosis and Respiratory Disease Association, and with other responsible charities that conduct direct mail programs. We are aware of the good work they do, the research and educational programs they sponsor.

Most of these reputable organizations are very careful to stress that the items they send are gifts and that the recipient is under no obligation whatsoever to send a donation.

But unfortunately, there are some organizations that trade upon the desire to help the needy or less fortunate.

These groups may imply that the merchandise they send has been produced by the handicapped, the aged, or by members of a certain minority group, or that sale of the item will benefit such people when the fact only a few such persons have been associated with the organization or will be helped by it.

These same groups may send merchandise along with a letter that implies that recipient should pay for the goods or return them. Or perhaps they simply fail to state that the recipient is under no obligation to pay for or return the item.

Either tactic may cause persons unsure of their legal obligations to pay for merchandise they don't want, don't need and haven't ordered.

Sometimes most of the money received by such organizations goes to the manufacturer of the item or is spent on operational expenses, leaving only a very small percentage for the charity supposedly being helped.

Items that are often mailed out at this time of year include greeting cards, neckties, pins, various types of buttons, key rings, handkerchieves, name and address labels, and other similar small items.

If you have any questions about the organizations sending these or other items to you, check with the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's office, your county or district attorney, or local better business bureau.

Monopolistic Trend Is Causing Food Shortage

WASHINGTON (AP) — A monopolistic trend in the food industry is leading the United States to a food shortage that could rival the fuel pinch as a national crisis, a consumer activist contends.

"Today's oil crisis is the inevitable result of this concentration of market power" by huge multinational firms, Jim Hightower, coordinator of the Washington-based Food Action Campaign, said in testimony prepared for a hearing today by a Senate subcommittee on monopoly.

"If we are caught unaware by the fuel crisis, and if we are chagrined by the lack of competition in the oil industry, then we ought to know the same phenomenon is occurring now in the food industry," Hightower said.

As economic conditions force small family farmers out of business, a handful of large corporations that already control the processing of food are taking over the production end as well, Hightower said.

A report prepared by the Agribusiness Accountability Project, another consumer group, and submitted with Hightower's testimony said the impact of corporate control already was being felt.

"We have the most productive agriculture in the world, but we are faced with the real possibility of food shortages," the report said. "Our food costs more and is of lower quality than ever before."

Speaking in Indianapolis, Ind., today, Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz said American farming capacity was far above the nation's needs and that the key to economic health to farmers lay in "a vigorous and growing export market."

Exports amounted to about one-fifth of total farm production in fiscal 1973, and without it 8 per cent of the nation's work force would be without jobs, "a disastrous consequence," Butz said in remarks prepared for the Indiana Farm Bureau.

In his presentation, Hightower said the Food Action Campaign wanted legislation requiring an annual review and report by the Federal Trade Commission on the market structure and competition in the food industry.

He also called for laws to protect the financial position of family farmers in dealing with processors and to require more consumer information on food labels and in advertising.

The subcommittee, chaired by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., is to hear representatives of food companies, farmers, growers, unions and other consumer groups during its three-day series of hearings this week.

Accident Is Probed

MIAMI (AP) — The National Transportation Safety Board will try to learn today what caused a decompression accident that resulted in a man being sucked out to his death from a plane flying at 40,000 feet.

Fourteen witnesses have been called for the hearing, to be presided over by NTSB member Louis M. Thayer.

G. F. Gardner of Beaumont, Tex., was pulled out of the National Airlines DC10 on Nov. 3 over New Mexico after a piece of a disintegrating engine fan punctured the window beside him.

Other passengers tried to keep Gardner in by grabbing his legs but could not hold on. His body has never been found.

The plane, a wide-bodied jet carrying 128 passengers from Miami to San Francisco, made an emergency landing at Albuquerque International Airport after the accident.

Officials said it was the first decompression accident involving a turbine airliner.

The mishap has been blamed on a faulty cowl ring around the leading edge of the engine.

Man Says Accidents Not Fair

MIAMI (AP) — "Why does God hate me?" Alan McDonald asked from his hospital bed.

"When the gunpowder went off, I couldn't believe it," he said. "I just couldn't believe it. I said, 'No, God couldn't do this to me again.'"

McDonald, 23, lay in serious condition in the burn ward of Miami's Jackson Memorial Hospital, severely burned for the second time in his life.

In February 1960, McDonald was doused with flaming gasoline by a playmate. He was massively burned and disfigured. It took skin grafts from an older brother and years of plastic surgery to restore his charred body.

Last week, on an Everglades hunting trip with friends, McDonald was squatting over a bowl of gunpowder near a smouldering campfire, making bullets to save money.

The fire suddenly popped. A spark ignited the gunpowder.

"I didn't realize what had happened at first," he recounted. "And then I heard that sound from 13 years ago. I was burning. I rolled to put the fire out and I thought, 'Oh God, not again.'"

His companions helped quench the fire and struggled with him to the nearest road, where a passing Florida trooper called an ambulance.

"If my friends hadn't been there, I would have jumped into a canal with a rock around my neck," McDonald said.

Bonnie McDonald, who had met her husband-to-be in high school and fell in love with him before surgeons had completed the restoration of his face, said fate seemed to haunt him.

"Alan was really looking good after all those years and now this," she said.

"Man, it just isn't fair."

No Estimates On Yuletide Mortalities

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Co. William E. Speir, director of the Department of Public Safety, said the DPS will be unable to make an estimate of Christmas-New Year's holiday traffic deaths because of changing travel patterns brought on by the national energy shortage.

However, Speir said, it was hoped the traffic death count would fall below the average 14.5 persons killed daily during last year's Christmas period and the 18.5 daily average for the 1973 New Year holidays.

Speir said it was impossible to compare total deaths with previous years because the holiday period this year covers 102 hours compared with 78 hours last year.

JUNIPERPERPER

The Elf Who Couldn't Do Anything Right

CHAPTER 3
BY BOB BOYLE

"What would you like to see first in the North Pole?" Santa asked Juniperperper. "The toy factories, the stable where the reindeer stay, the superscope room, or perhaps, the Christmas Ball factory?"

"Gee, Santa, there is so much I don't know what to say," Juniperperper replied. "Let's start out at the Christmas Ball factory."

Santa and Juniperperper left the warm kitchen and went into the boot and coat room.

"You'd better bundle up, Juniperperper," Santa said. "We have to walk over to the Christmas Ball factory and it's mighty cold out."

"I know, Santa," Juniperperper said as he bundled himself in his little elf's coat. He brought a big scarf out of his pocket and wrapped it around his neck.

"You're not taking any chances, Juniperperper," Santa said.

"You bet I'm not, Santa," he replied as he pulled out a hat from his other pocket and tugged it over his ears.

Santa put on a greatcoat and his hat and said, "Okay, let's go, and watch the wind doesn't blow you over."

"This is the Christmas ball factory."

The two braced themselves against the howling wind and walked over to a big bright green building.

"This is the Christmas Ball Factory," Santa said.

Santa and Juniperperper went into the Christmas Ball Factory. Hundreds of elves were busy working or running back and forth and scurrying about.

"How do you like this?" Santa asked.

"I'll say they're busy, Santa," Juniperperper said. "But how do they make the Christmas Balls?"

"Come on into the storeroom and we'll start there," Santa replied.

As he walked toward the storeroom, he said to the working elves, "Hello, there. How are you today? My, that's a nice job you're doing. Keep up the good work."

When they got to the storeroom, Juniperperper saw a sight to behold. Row after row of gleaming, gilstening white Christmas Balls, were before him.

"My, they're beautiful, he said. "And they're so nice and white."

"They are nice, aren't they? " Santa replied.

"But tell me, Santa, why are they all white?" Juniperperper asked.

"Well, they must be white because that's how they're made." Santa replied.

"Let me tell you how Christmas Tree Balls came to be," he added. "Many years ago Christmas trees were used without balls. The green trees sat in everyone's home, but they didn't have any ornaments.

"But one day some of my elves were having a snowball fight near the green tree forest. The snowballs that missed the elves stuck to the green Christmas trees.

"I happened to be passing by and I saw how pretty the white snowballs looked on the green Christmas trees. So I asked myself, why couldn't all Christmas trees have white snowballs on them?"

Juniperperper laughed, "I know why, Santa. They would melt."

Santa laughed, too, and said, "You're right, Juniperperper, but I put the problem to my inventing elves, and they came up with a solution."

"What did they do, Santa?" Juniperperper asked.

"Well, we know that the snow would melt and we tried hundreds and hundreds of different ways to make crystal white, gleaming Christmas balls and nothing seemed to work.

"Finally our elf, Jeepers, came up with the solution," Santa replied.

"What was the solution, Santa?" Juniperperper asked.

"Well, he got some snow from the Magic Snow Forest and he then built a Christmas Ball-making machine. He put two spoonsful of snow from the Magic Forest into the Christmas Ball-making machine. And then he added his own formula of stardust, snow twinkles and the brightness from a crystal clear winter night.

"Before you could say, Jinkers snipes, we had our own special made Christmas Balls.

"That year we put them on trees all over the world and everyone was so happy with them.

"Gee, that's wonderful, Santa," Juniperperper said. "I'll bet all the elves would like to work here in the Christmas Ball Factory.

"Many do," Santa replied. "But we have to be very, very careful. A little too much stardust or a little too much brightness will make the Christmas Balls disappear so we use only the most careful elves in this factory."

"Gee, Santa, do you think I could work here?" Juniperperper asked.

"Well, let's not rush things," Santa replied. "I'm sure before you decide where you want to work you should see the rest of our factories.

"Let's continue our tour and I'll show you where we make our tricycles and bicycles."

Tips On Job Search

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

what job would you like to see explored in this column?

Dear Joyce: I am in dire need of advice and direction regarding employment. In July I lost my job in an office and haven't been able to find a permanent position. I'm 25 and have a liberal arts degree. -- J.B., New Orleans

Your question raises a problem many Americans may have to face in months ahead. Although unemployment is down now, it's almost certain to rise as a fallout of the energy crisis. We can guess a few obvious areas likely to be in trouble -- industries dependent on plastics and petrochemicals, and nonessential activities such as recreational boating and pleasure flying. But the precise manpower implications for the economy as a whole aren't yet clear.

SEVERAL EXAMPLES of how various occupations could be adversely affected: Traveling salespeople -- how much will employers be forced to reduce staff if salespeople can't make enough calls traveling 50 mph, or efficiently arrange air flights now cut by one-fourth, to pay for their keep? Electric sign repairpersons will have fewer signs to fix. If store hours are cut back, how many sales clerks will be let go? If gas rationing becomes fact, some small businesspeople, located in out-of-the-way neighborhoods and dependent on customers coming in cars, will be forced to look for new livelihoods.

WHILE THE ENERGY CRISIS may pass in months, the energy dilemma will go on for years -- with numerous unforeseen changes in the job market. The best insurance against unemployment you can have in these gyrating times is to gain an understanding of the process involved in getting another job.

My next group of columns will deal with the jobsearch. Today, we'll start with observations on what to do if you're afraid of being fired.

THE EXIT INTERVIEW. While many employers know little of the science of hiring, hordes more know even less about firing. Most people feel like crumbs before and while firing a subordinate. If you recognize this tense, guiltlike state on your employer's part, you may be able to shuffle the pink-slips to your advantage during the termination talk. A few ideas:

• Negotiate for severance pay. The minute the boss says "Sorry, but ..." immediately jump in and bargain for severance pay. Ask for six months, instead of the usual two weeks, and settle for the most you can get. The main thing is to seize psychological advantage of the moment while the boss is feeling his greatest discomfort; after you're gone and the boss starts convincing himself that he did the right thing, it may be too late.

• Approaches in negotiating for pay. Your tactics will vary, depending on the reason for firing and whether you've had advance notice. If your boss says it's for economic reasons, reply that you'll have a terrible time relocating in a time of rising unemployment and you'll starve (unemployment compensation doesn't last forever). If you've been warned and your performance was marginal, perhaps there was a health or emotional reason why you couldn't do better -- in short, appeal to his charitable instincts. If you weren't warned, say that firing without notice is unconscionable. If you're a victim of power politics, and your boss has a few skeletons, you can hint that you know where the closets are IF you really have the ammunition and are tough enough to use it; an empty bluff can backfire on a later job reference. In fact, the only restraint on bargaining like a son-of-a-gun for more cut-out pay is overstepping the fine line of making the boss angry enough to give you a lousy reference. That's why an appeal to his better nature is a safer gambit than a threat.

If you would rather hang on to your job, a different strategy is called for and we'll discuss that next time.

Big Spring Wins Reef Tournament

Big Spring's surprising Steers defeated Borger 65-57 for the championship of the Canyon Reef Basketball Tournament here Saturday night.

Snyder's Tigers dropped a 65-60 decision to Midland in the battle for third place. In a second round game Saturday morning, Borger put down the Tigers 74-64 and Big Spring eclipsed Midland 75-65.

Estacado won the consolation title with a 65-60 triumph over Dunbar. In second round games on the losers' side of the bracket Saturday morning, Estacado eliminated Kermit 76-67 and Dunbar beat Ector 75-68.

Big Spring held a slim lead all the way in the championship game. They led 16-12 after one quarter, 32-36 at halftime, and 47-11 after three periods.

Randy Marshall and Tim Dunn each roped 17 points for the Steers and John Smith contributed 10 points. For Borger, Chuck Forrest was high point man with 24 points.

In the third place game the Tigers got off to a slow start and trailed 20-10 after one period. They were still behind 36-24 at halftime and 52-39 after three quarters. Larry Johns, Chester Cobb and Welton Cobb led Snyder with 16, 14, and 12 points respectively. Midland had four lads in double figures: Mike Cobb with 16, Donald Roberts with 14, Willie McCoy with 13, and Alan Buonasera with 10.

Estacado took a big 27-12 lead in the first quarter of its consolation game with Borger and held on, although the lead was trimmed to 37-22 at halftime and 47-40 after three periods.

Victor Hicks roped 29 points and Ronnie Phenix put in 18 for the Matadors while John Henderson scored 21 and Sidney Davis tallied 29 for the Panthers.

Snyder also trailed virtually all the way in its second round contest with Borger. The Tigers trailed 10-15 after one quarter, 26-37 at halftime and 43-58 after three frames. Chester Cobb was the only lad in double figures for Snyder, and he hit 24 points. For Borger, Joe Kerr, Chuck Forrest and Richard Mitchell hit for 33, 21, and 10 points respectively.

Big Spring led Midland all the way in their second round tilt, holding a 24-13 lead after one quarter, a 44-20 margin at halftime, and a 57-34 lead after three frames. Albert Smith roped 16, John Smith netted 13, and Randy Marshall posted 12 for the Steers. For Midland Mike Cobb pitched in 22 points and Willie McCoy netted 11.

After trailing 16-21 after one period, Estacado rallied with a 22-11 edge in the second frame to take command of their second round game with Kermit. Green scored 21, Malcolm Matthews posted 15, Dwight Phillips netted 14, and Wade Cox put in 10 points.

Pokes Beat Skins

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Denver Broncos can't wait to get their shot at Oakland, the Washington Redskins can't wait to get another shot at Dallas ... and O.J. Simpson can't wait — period.

"We're gonna beat 'em. You better believe it!" Coach John Ralston shouted above the din of the Denver locker room Sunday after his mile-high Broncos set up a showdown next Sunday with the Raiders in Oakland by battering San Diego 42-28. The Raiders had knocked their arch-rivals, the Kansas City Chiefs, out of the playoff picture Saturday by administering a 37-7 thumping.

Charley Johnson, ignoring battled-scarred legs so sore that he couldn't even practice early in the week, kept Denver within half a game of Oakland, the American Conference West and the defending divisional champion, by firing two touchdown passes to spark the Broncos' critical victory.

"Everything feels good," said the 35-year-old veteran, the AFC leader in passing yards and touchdowns. "I feel a great deal of satisfaction in being well enough to show I could play."

In Sunday's other National Football League games, Dallas whipped Washington 27-7, Buffalo belted New England 37-13, Cincinnati shelled Cleveland 34-17, Pittsburgh punched Houston 33-7, St. Louis stung Atlanta 32-10, Baltimore surprised Miami 16-3, Detroit mangled Chicago 40-7, New Orleans beat San Francisco 16-0 and Philadelphia nipped the New York Jets 24-13. In Saturday's other game, Minnesota defeated Green Bay 31-7.

On Monday night, Los Angeles hosts the New York Giants.

Cowboys 27, Redskins 7

"We've been down before," Washington Coach George Allen said after his Redskins, with a chance to lock up their second straight National Conference East title, got thumped 27-7 by Dallas and fell back into a first-place tie. "I just hope we can play the Cowboys again," Allen added.

If they do, it'll be in the playoffs. Both teams are in the running not only for the division crown but for the conference's wild-card berth. But the titlist will be able to play its playoff opener at home while the wild-carder will have to venture onto the frozen, unfriendly turf of the Central champion Minnesota Vikings.

The Cowboys, who not only had to win but to do it by at least eight points in order to keep alive their division title hopes, totally stymied the Washington offense, giving up the 'Skins' only touchdown on Ken Stone's 12-yard run with a blocked punt.

Roger Staubach, meanwhile, passed and scrambled the Cowboys to victory. He completed 16 of 25 attempts for 223 yards, bootlegged the ball five yards for a touchdown and handed off twice to Calvin Hill, who plunged in from one and two yards out.

Bills 37, Patriots 13

The frozen turf in Buffalo was anything but unfriendly as far as Simpson was concerned. He went into Sunday's game against New England knowing he had to amass 280 yards in his final two games to surpass Jim Brown's once-seemingly untouchable record of 1,863 yards in a single campaign.

So he exploded for 219 yards and a touchdown in the Bills' 37-13 romp. Rookie quarterback Joe Ferguson passed to Bob Chandler for two more scores.

Simpson needs just 60 yards against the Jets next Sunday to break Brown's mark. "I'm going to try not to think about the record — but it'll be pretty tough," the soft-spoken Simpson said.

Bengals 34, Browns 17

Cincinnati's young Bengals, led by quarterback Ken Anderson's three-touchdown passes to rookie receiver Isaac Curtis, whipped Cleveland 34-17, perhaps one of the sweetest victories in Bengal Coach Paul Brown's 39-year coaching career.

"The old coach couldn't be happier," said the 65-year-old Brown who built the Browns into a virtual dynasty, then was fired 11 years ago.

Steelers 33, Oilers 7

Pittsburgh owns the other half of first place. It snapped a three-game tailspin by forcing nine Houston turnovers and holding the Oilers to a measly 83 yards on offense en route to a 33-7 romp.

Cards 32, Falcons 10

"I think we got up a little more for this game because they didn't even think we could put on a show," Terry Metcalf of St. Louis said of Atlanta after he'd rushed for 100 yards in a ball-control offense and Jim Bakken had kicked six field goals in the Cards' 32-10 upset that all but killed the Falcons' playoff hopes.

Colts 16, Dolphins 3

The Colts, on fourth successive fourth-down situations, went for the yards instead of a punt or field goal. It made all four, the last on a Marty Domres-to-Tom Mitchell touchdown pass that locked up a surprising 16-3 victory over Miami.

Lions 40, Bears 7

Quarterback Bill Munson fired touchdown passes of 23 yards to Al Barnes and 30 yards to Ron Jessie and Mel Farr ran for touchdowns of four and seven yards as Detroit put on its biggest show of the year, battering Chicago 40-7.

Saints 16, 49ers 10

Bobby Scott, a second-year taxisquaddier from Tennessee subbing for an injured Archi Manning, completed eight of 19 passes for 118 yards in nearly three quarters of action and, backed by Bill McClard's three field goals, carried the Saints past the 49ers 16-10.

Eagles 24, Jets 23

John Outlaw's 45-yard touchdown return of an intercepted pass capped a rally that wiped out a 17-point New York lead and sparked Philadelphia over the Jets 24-23.

Western Hosts Phillips Tonight

Western Texas Junior College, sporting a 7-3 season record and a 1-2 conference mark, host Frank Phillips Junior College at 7:30 tonight in the WTC gym.

Coach Mike Mitchell of the Westerners said he doesn't know much about Phillips. He said they've only played four games this season. They lost to Amarillo by two points in Borger and have a victory over Lubbock Christian College.

Coach Mitchell said he probably will start the same five lads who started the last game. That would include Luis Blanco, 5-11 sophomore from Fort Stockton, and Danny McDaniel, 6-2 sophomore from Little Rock, Ark., at guard; Norman Barnes, 6-8 freshman from Richmond Va. at center; and, Eugene Harris, 6-7 freshman from Hattiesburg, Miss. and Harold Ward, 6-6 sophomore from Passaic, N.J., at forward.

Others Coach Mitchell can call on are Eric Grant, 5-10 sophomore guard from Hondo; Kevin Jones, 6-5 freshman forward from Snyder; Gary Brooks, 6-3 freshman guard-forward from Snyder; Ken Fowler, 6-2 freshman guard from Austin; Greg Hill, 6-3 freshman guard-forward from Midland, Pa.; Kent Horsley, 6-8 sophomore center from Snyder; Brian Minor, 6-5 freshman forward from Richmond, Va.; and Jerry Brooks, 6-3 freshman guard-forward from Snyder.

In the girls division, Roby defeated Highland 42-21 for the championship. Loraine took out Hobbs 48-24 for third place; and, Paint Creek tripped Hermleigh 35-34 for consolation.

Question:

Is Lone Star doing everything it can to hold down costs?

Answer:

Yes!

We're operating more efficiently than ever before. But our costs are going up none the less... just like yours.

For instance, the interest rates on money we have to borrow for constructing new gas supply systems have increased dramatically. These rates have recently been at all time highs.

Within the last 18 months, we have invested nearly $100 million:

- ☐ to build a large diameter, 400-mile pipeline from West Texas to the Dallas-Ft. Worth area,
- ☐ for other facilities along this pipeline,
- ☐ to attach major new reserves and
- ☐ to pay for well drilling by producers...

all for the purpose of assuring continuing natural gas supplies to our customers.

These investments don't even include the cost of all the gas we must buy to fill the line. In 1969, natural gas cost us about 19 cents per thousand cubic feet. Recently we paid more than 85 cents for major new supplies. And the price is still rising.

Costs like these are the price Lone Star must pay for your continuing natural gas supplies. It's important that you understand our need for adequate rates so we can continue to deliver clean gas energy to your home for winters to come.

We're doing everything possible to hold down controllable costs. But even with gradual rate increases, natural gas from Lone Star will still be your most economical and efficient non-polluting fuel.
