Police Chief Resigns

Police Chief Don Hatley submitted his letter of resignation to Councilman Kenneth Williams Thursday.

In a letter to the editor of The Enterprise, Hatley stated he felt he was fighting a losing battle, referring to the discord between he and Councilman Joe Hall and Mayor K.Y. Givens.

He had asked that Givens and Hall resign their positions in a May 10 council meeting. The city officials refused to submit their resignations.

The letter of resignation reads as follows:

Sue Cannon, Editor,
Olton Enterprise

To my friends of Olton and the Olton community.

It is with deepest regret that I must now give to the City of Olton, and the City Council, my resignation as Chief of Police - effective June 10, 1977.

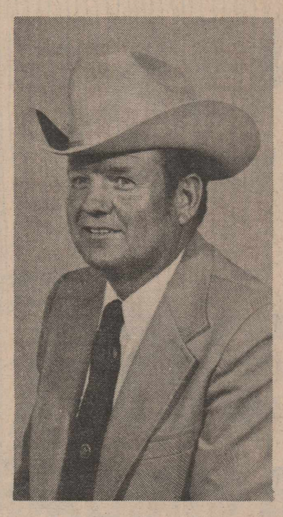

It seems I am fighting a losing battle. Everyone in our city knows the circumstances that I have been faced with in the past few months.

As a law officer, I cannot serve or protect the people in a proper manner with the present system doing everything in its power to break and beat me.

To all my friends, I thank you with all my heart for your concern, your help and support.

May God bless each of you in a very special way. My prayers and my thoughts will always be with you.

Don Hatley, signed

"ROCK HOUND" ROSCOE THOMAS

At Murpheesboro

'Hound' Finds Diamond

Picking up rocks for friends who were "rock hounds" proved to be a contagious action for Roscoe and Bert Thomas. That addictive hobby has paid off with many hours of pleasure, rewarding finds, new-found knowledge and a wealth of new-made friends along the years.

The most recent "find," one by Roscoe just last month, is a rare brown diamond which came from the famed Murfreesboro, Ark. diamond field.

Roscoe having learned some of the "tricks of the trade," was not searching where most others were looking. Periodically large mounds of earth are overturned by a maintainer and many searchers, Roscoe says, merely dig through shallow layers.

"I don't like to look in the gumbo," he says of that earth. "So I walked to the end of the rows where the rain had washed down them."

It was there, in gravel, that he found the 1.35 carat brown diamond which he plans someday to mount in a ring for himself. He does not plan to have the stone faceted but chooses to keep it in the natural condition in which it was found.

"Some people expect the diamond to be faceted," Bert says. Without man's cutting, the stone still gives out fire sparkles when caught in the light.

All the diamonds found in the Murpheesboro mine are cabachon shaped while those from diamond fields in Africa are cubed.

The Thomases had visited Murpheesboro in the 50's and searched three or four days without success. They had been looking about an hour and a half this time when Roscoe made his find.

Roscoe's find put him immediately in the "spotlight," Bert says. "Lots of people began taking his picture. One little lady asked, 'How long have you been digging?' and when Roscoe told her she disappointedly told us she had been looking nine days."

"We stayed another day but didn't find any more," Roscoe says. The diamond he found was the only one found that day.

Now a State Park, tourists flock there on an average of 400 visitors per day. The admission fee of two dollars per person allows the visitor to dig all day.

When Roscoe and Bert were there in 1954, the mining equipment was still set up by the mine. "They had two giant revolving wheel-like screens. They'd dump the dirt on there and water would wash the dirt through the screens, leaving the diamonds on the screens," Bert explains.

"But one of the fellows who had worked there during the time they were working the mine said it didn't really work right, the small ones would go on through," Roscoe adds.

The old machinery has been moved to a distant part of the area now, sitting as a reminder of how it used to be.

Laughing, Bert recalls that their first visit was before pants became the popular part of a woman's wardrobe. "We saw some women there digging in silk dresses and shoes with spike heels. It rained on us and those women just kept digging despite the way they were dressed - they'd paid to get to dig and they kept looking. They made a comical sight."

While they were in Arkansas, the Thomases had the opportunity to attend part of a three-day rock show, sponsored by South Central Federation of Gems and Minerals, at Hot Springs.

Recalling their beginning as Rock Hounds, Bert said that she'd admire the rocks they picked up to bring to the late Walter Schreier.

"Some were so pretty, I'd say to Roscoe, 'I'd like to keep these myself.' and he said, 'Well, why don't you?'"

Roscoe became interested then in discovering the composition of the rocks and minerals they gathered. Using Dana's "Rock Bible" (James Dwight Dana's "System of Mineralogy") he has found that phase of rock hunting very fascinating.

"He (Dana) was the first to ever classify minerals. Everyone since then, who has every dared to write a book, has not contradicted his findings, they've merely added to."

During their first years of rock hounding, Roscoe and Bert have found silver and have even panned for gold. They have discovered raw turquoise and blue topaz and many other "finds."

They have learned that the way to find the best dig sites is to talk with the people, the part of their hobby that Bert finds most rewarding.

"I love the people. We have met the finest, friendliest people. That's what I enjoy the most."

Searching for silver in Colorado, they talked with an old man who knew where the "dumpings" from an old mine were and there they found their silver.

Among their list of unforgettable people is an old fellow in Colorado who had panned for gold some 60 years. Inquiring if he might give them some clue to a good place to pan, Roscoe said the old man agreed he could tell the Thomases where to search.

"But his wife, a little old woman weighing about 90 pounds and wearing Levi's and a Stetson hat spoke up and said, 'Dad, you go ahead and show these people where to look, I'll milk the cow.' When we got back she'd roped that wild cow, tied her up and milked," Roscoe recalls.

"Well-to-do," with a beautiful home in Cortez, the couple were living out in the wilderness in a three room house which had one room set aside for feed and medicines for their stock.

Bert recalls the following day when she and Roscoe were panning for gold, the couple came by going into town to meet with their attorney on business. They stopped for a brief visit and the little lady sat down on still rain-damp earth beside Bert during their talk. When ready to go on, Bert says, she gave a brush to the dirty backside of her Levi pants and was on her way, unconcerned that the traces of her rest were still plainly visible.

"We haven't been anywhere yet that we didn't plan to go back to one day," Roscoe says.

"But there's one experience we don't care to repeat," Bert says with a big smile for Roscoe.

"We used to save our half-dollars and, here at the laundry, we'd get quite a few. Then we used them for our trips or something special," Roscoe remembers. "We'd gone to the Hondo Valley - we've gone there a lot, and become friends with Mrs. Blanchard who owns the Blanchard mine. She would always let us stay in her yard at night." (In their camper, the Thomases are at home away from home.)

"It rained so much that night we weren't going to be able to hunt so we drove back and stopped at Tinnie at a little service station for gas. We didn't know it, but the place had been robbed the night before of $1,400 including a good bit of change. When Bert paid for our gas with half-dollars, the station attendant got a little suspicious," Roscoe explains.

"He started talking to Roscoe and as long as someone wants to talk, Roscoe's ready. So we sat there visiting, not knowing the man had called the police and was trying to detain us," Bert says with a grin.

"Man, he polished my windshield till it really sparkled and he talked and then here came a police car. The officer walked up and asked, 'Where did you folks spend the night last night?' and I told him Mrs. Blanchard's yard and that we'd planned on rock hunting but the rain had the draw up so that we couldn't get across."

"Well, he knew that much was the truth. Anyway, he told us that the station was robbed the night before and when we had so much change, the attendant had become suspicious."

"After that we'd always change our half-dollars into greenbacks," Roscoe laughs.

"And we even quit saving half-dollars," Bert adds.

Yes, they're going back again to Murfreesboro, the Thomases say. Perhaps next time it will be Bert that finds a diamond but chances are quite likely that the "diamond" will be another new found friend.

Annual Membership Drive Nets All But Five Businesses

Only five businesses remain unsigned in the business division of the annual membership drive of Olton Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture. The five unsigned memberships are all that prevent the local organization from being a 100 percent Chamber.

Although the annual drive is complete, those businesses can still become members and thus enable the CC-A to have the excellent record. A phone call to the Chamber office can get the membership in force.

The individual membership campaign will begin Tuesday. All persons who are interested in helping Olton grow and be a better home town may become members of the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture. Individual memberships are $3 per month and may be paid monthly, quarterly, semi-annually or annually. Bank draft payments can be drawn for the convenience of members who prefer that arrangement.

Each of the 12 members of the Chamber board of directors is aware of which individuals hold membership in the organization and will seek to recruit new members.

Persons not contacted who would like to share in the responsibility in making a better Olton, are asked to call the Chamber office, 285-2292.

Beef Referendum Questions Answered By BDT Hotline

Registration in the first national Beef Referendum began this week and Texas cattle producers are doing their "homework" before voting, according to the chairman of the Texas Beef Development Taskforce (BDT).

J.D. Sartwelle, a rancher from Austin County and chairman of the state BDT, reports excellent response to a toll-free Beef Referendum "Hotline". "We are getting dozens of calls each day from interested cattlemen," he says. "The vast majority indicate they favor the program, after getting their questions answered."

The most frequent questions, with Sartwelle's answers, include:

WHO CAN VOTE? "Anyone who owned cattle during 1976 is eligible to register and vote," he says. "This includes 4-H or FFA students who may have owned only a few head. Each producing entity -- whether an individual, a family, partnership or corporation -- is entitled to one vote. But they must register first."

WHO WILL ADMINISTER THE PROGRAM? "A 68-member Beef Board will administer the $30 million to $40 million raised each year," says Sartwelle. "These Board members will be cattle producers nominated by existing producer organizations in each state."

HOW WILL THIS PROGRAM BENEFIT CATTLE PRODUCERS? "Beef research, education, promotion and foreign market development will be the stimulus needed to put the

EDITORIAL

Editor's note: The following editorial is reprinted from the May 1977 issue of "Greater Lubbock." It is worth consideration of the people of Olton. Have you ever thought of what might be involved in running the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture office?

WHAT WOULD YOU DO if someone called you by phone tomorrow and said, "How far is it to Atlanta, Georgia, and what is the best route to take?"

WHAT WOULD YOU DO if that same morning you got a letter in the mail in which the writer asked, "Will you send me full information about your city?" "What is there to see; what are the industries and what is the population? I would also appreciate it if you would give me full information on the housing situation."

WHAT WOULD YOU DO if a few minutes later a stranger stopped in your store and asked you for literature and a city map?

WHAT WOULD YOU DO if throughout the entire day the phone rang and the questions flew thick and fast . . . How far is it to - - -? . . . What has charge of - - -? . . . Do you know where I can rent - - - ? . . . Where can I find - - - ? . . . What is the best way to - - - ?

YOU KNOW WHAT YOU WOULD DO -- Sure, you would Go Nuts! . . . but the Chamber of Commerce -- well, the Chamber of Commerce answers each phone call, each letter and each personal call. It gives the good people the information they want. It is set up to do just that -- but, that is the PART THAT DOESN'T SHOW!! That is the regular day to day services of the Chamber of Commerce that most people overlook unless they, themselves, need some information.

THE PART THAT DOESN'T SHOW is one of the greatest parts of Chamber of Commerce service. YOU, in your store or office, couldn't or wouldn't do it . . . None of the service clubs could or would do it . . . the schools wouldn't or couldn't do it -- the community's letters it answers, the community's telephone calls it handles and the community's customers it waits on. (Our visitors are our customers.)

There you have THE PART THAT DOESN'T SHOW. It is one of the most valuable and important jobs that YOUR Chamber of Commerce does for you. Yet it has no glamour; it has no romance; it can't and doesn't make the headlines; it is seldom even mentioned, but you will have to admit that IF the Chamber of Commerce did nothing else, this service -- unhonored and unsung as it is, would be worth the entire investment that you make in YOUR Chamber of Commerce.

Everything But The Kitchen Sink

By Mozelle Trotter

Late again! It's a bit belated to be making this acknowledgement but then I've never been noted for my efficiency.

For you who visited Olton Cemetery Memorial Day, you could not help but notice the flags placed at the graves of our veterans. How many of you, though, knew how they got there?

Did you say, "Oh, how nice! Someone has placed flags on the veterans' graves?

Long since dead in Olton, it wasn't the work of the American Legion Post. No, it was the thoughtful, generous tribute of a single man -- helped a bit by his young children. D.M. "Bub" Holt placed almost 100 small American flags on graves scattered across the cemetery.

Not enough credit is given either to caretaker Oscar Scheller. The rains had the grass so pretty and green but it also had the little weeds growing like Jack's beanstalk. Mr. Scheller, though, in his loving care has the cemetery looking pretty and well-kept. It isn't an easy job and his work too often is taken for granted. Countless minutes are spent each week by Mr. Scheller in keeping that refuse picked up so few persons are aware that the problem exists.

So, its great big "thank yous" to these two guys. Why don't you tell them too?

It was heart breaking to discover that the cemetery is still being used for late night "parties" yet empty beer cans littering the drives bear mute testimony of that shameful misuse.

Surely it must have been an accident and the concerned parties must have felt some guilt and remorse for one bad thing bore evidence that "redemption" had been attempted - and almost succeeded.

Perhaps the "accident" happened when a vehicle was turned around to leave.At any rate, it had to be a hard push that knocked one large marker from its base.

It was placed back again upon the base before the early daylight hours when Mr. Scheller reports for work. Placed so nearly in place that it was not even noticed for a few days that it was not in its precise place, the place where some type of seal is used to hold the stones in place.

It wasn't even noticed until Memorial Day although the remains of a nearby "party" had been cleaned away a few days earlier. It was spotted Memorial Day, however, by the watchful eye of Mr. Scheller.

The obvious efforts to un-do the wrong - and surely, it must have been an accident - do not erase the shame that a hallowed place is being abused.

If there's anything nicer than having one grandbaby aout the house, it's having two! That's how it was for a short time in the Trotter household last weekend. It was super-duper wonderful to have the enlarged family all together, albeit too brief.

MONDAY VISIT

Mr. Laughrey-Miss Machen Wed In Dumas Ceremony

Wedding vows were solemnized Saturday evening in the First Christian Church in Dumas for Miss Van Donni Machen and Wayne Nelson Laughry.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Williams of Dumas and Mr and Mrs. Deryl Machen. Mr. and Mrs. Dale Daughry of Dumas are parents of the bridegroom. The bride is the granddaughter of Mmes. Paul Burrus and Murrie Machen.

Nuptial selections were presented by Mrs. David Fry who also accompanied Miss Donna French who sang "Sometimes," "Evergreen" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Presented in marriage by her brothers, Wade and Ky Paul Machen, the bride wore a formal length gown of silk-faced organza designed with Empire bodice featuring a wide midriff and deep round yoke edged with lace flowerette insertion. Her long full sleeves fastened at the wrists with cuffs accented in matching lace. Softly gathered, her skirt was encircled with a wide ruffle of lace at the hemline and extended to a sanctuary train.

Her tiered veil of silk illusion was edged with lace insertion laced with satin ribbon. It was held by a lace crown accented with seed pearls and ribbon. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

For "something old," the bride wore a wedding band which had belonged to the late Mrs. E.N. Burrus, the maternal great-grandmother for whom she was named. She carried a sixpence brought from England by Mrs. Sid Alford.

Miss Shawnalee Copeland of Amarillo was maid of honor. She wore a formal white dress of chiffon and lace fashioned with midriff inset at the high-rise waistline. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Dan McDowell of Dumas was best man. Guests were seated by Bobby Laughry of Amarillo and Johnny Laughry of Dumas, brothers of the groom.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Dan McDowell of Dumas.

The newlyweds were honored with a reception in the Williams home. The bride's table was laid with a white eyelet cloth and decorated with spring flowers. At the center of the table was the three-tiered wedding cake which was encircled and topped with spring flowers. Appointments were crystal and silver.

Presiding at the bride's table were Miss Gale Laughry of Albuquerque, N.M., sister of the groom, and Mrs. Bobby Laughry, sister-in-law of the groom.

In another room, a party table was laid with yellow. Yellow daisies encircled a champagne fountain. Sandwiches, hors d'ouvres and dips were served.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Burrus, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie T. Burrus, Kauli and Boe, Mrs. Dubbs Granbery, Kellie Sweigart and Suzanne Taylor, all of Olton; Mrs. L.L. Holyfield of Lubbock; Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Owen and Amy of Plainview; Mrs. Don Gregory and Becky of Dimmitt; Mr. and Mrs. Bill Okley and son of Borger; Mr. and Mrs. Sid Alford, Tiffany and Sidney and Mr. and Mrs. Erks Williams of Petersburg.

She Cooks For The Weak

"I'll never be bored, I have plans for a lifetime," says Mrs. T.C. Covington and her enthusiasm leaves no room for doubt of her claim.

Taking up oil painting just a few years ago, maybe four or five, Wilma finds that ~~wielding~~ a brush on canvas can be as relaxing as a tranquilizer. She also finds it so fascinating that she has to be reminded by Tullie that tomorrow is another day.

"I'm not an artist, I don't have talent, but I just love it," she says. The only lessons she's had have been those from Maxine Struve, mother-in-law of the Covington's daughter, Tomie.

"All I know, I've learned from her and, if my work is any good it's because of her."

Wilma's work is, indeed, good and she has a number of opportunities to sell some of her paintings although she prefers to paint for the pleasure of giving to loved ones and friends. She'd rather work with larger pictures than with miniatures.

Her first paintings hang in the Covington home and Wilma confesses she'd have given them away or stored them out of sight if it were not for Tullie. His sincere and insistent, "I like them and want them," keep them on the walls of the home in town into which they moved in March.

Wilma remembers her girlhood in Turkey and an artist there who had studied in New Mexico and in Europe. "I thought that was really something. I never dreamed then that one day I'd do any painting myself.

Smiling over the memories of her childhood, she explains that as the last of 13 children, there would never have been money enough for art supplies. She remembers, though, filling her "Big Chief" tablet with lots of pictures.

Wilma and Tullie grew up in Turkey. They lived there until after the arrival of their son, Layton, and Tomie were born. They moved to Hereford where Tullie operated a ready-mix concrete business and stayed there until 1951 when they moved to the farm near Hart Camp.

Layton lives in Perryton. He has three little daughters and two little step-sons who are very much Covington grandchildren.

Tomie and Robert are parents of Shelli and a little boy who has his grandfather's name.

Wilma loves to sew and says that she has probably sewed enough "to go around the world twice." Scraps from school dresses she made for Tomie have been transformed into a pretty quilt, another favored pastime for Wilma. She has pieced, all by hand, numerous dacron quilts. She is presently working on an appliqued quilt for Tomie.

Explaining that Tullie has some Cherokee Indian blood, she says she's making the Indian Maiden quilt for her "own little Indian maid." The quilt blocks are designed with Indian dolls rather than the Dutch girl or overall boy. The little maidens are complete with the traditional shawl and their black hair ends in pig tails.

The Covingtons enjoy traveling and, on their last trip, Wilma carried along her sewing machine and fabrics but left them untouched to fish with Tullie. She did find time, however, to work on dimensional felt Christmas decorations that she's making for the grandchildren. Almost complete with the old traditional motifs of Christmas, she is planning to do Sesame Street characters before the holiday arrives.

MRS. T.C. COVINGTON

Laughing she says, "I told them I was 'cook of the week' but around here, they're always weak." A couple of the recipes she shares are unique to this column. She offers a recipe for lye soap which she still, sometimes, makes. The second unusual recipe, Bollos, are toothsome little morsels which make excellent hors d'oeuvres.

SOAP

Pour 1 qt cold water over 1 can lye. When it cools some, and is completely dissolved, add 5 lbs lard that has been melted and strained. Let stand until lukewarm.

Then add: 4 T 20 Mule Team Borax, ¼ c ammonia, 2 T sugar, 1 T salt and ½ c water. To scent mixture, add 10 drops Oil of Citronella (you may buy this at drugstore). Stir until thick.

A syrup bucket will measure out 5 lbs lard but have lard lukewarm when you pour it into the lye water. Don't breath ammonia fumes when pouring it in! (Makes about 4 cans at a time)

BOLLOS

Cover ½ lb dried black eyed peas in water (about 2" over top) and soak overnight. Drain and rub (or grind) peas between paper towels to rub off husks. Add hot green pepper and 2 cloves garlic. Run through food chopper twice. Add salt to taste and fry in deep fat until golden. Sprinkle tops lightly with salt when done. Drain on paper towels and serve hot.

STRAWBERRY JELLO

1 pkg strawberry Jello dissolved in 1 c boiling water. Add ½ c ice water and 2 sm pkg frozen strawberries. Stir well. Add ½ sm can pineapple and 1 lge banana, sliced. Pour half of mixture in pan and put in deep freeze until hard set. If desired, add nuts to second portion of Jello. Place in refrigerator and let set until almost firm. Whip ½ pt whipping cream and add small amount of sugar and vanilla. Pour over hard set Jello. Spoon other Jello mixture over top. Return to refrigerator until ready to serve. Can be made several days before serving.

CHEESE CAKE

1 pkg lemon Jello
1 c boiling water
8 oz cream cheese
1 c sugar
3 T lemon juice
1 t vanilla
1 can Milnot (chilled and whipped)
3 c mashed vanilla wafers or however many you need to cover square pan.
½ c melted margarine

Mix wafers and margarine to make crust, put in square pan. Disssolve Jello in boiling water and chill until slightly thickened. Cream together cheese, sugar and vanilla. Add Jello and lemon juice and blend well. Fold in stiffly beaten Milnot. Pour over wafer crust. Sprinkle with slight amount crushed vanilla wafers. Chill. Cut in squares and serve.

By offering this new lease, Lindsay is sharing some of the same risks that you face every year. Corn prices fluctuate, which affects your profit picture. That's why Lindsay developed the exclusive Zimmatic Corn Crop Lease . . . a revolutionary program that tailors your lease payments to the changing price of corn, from one year to the next.

The Zimmatic Corn Crop Lease is designed so you can lease a Zimmatic without using your normal operating credit sources . . . your Zimmatic pays its own way by turning on your production.

The number of Zimmatics available under this program and the time period of this offer are limited so come in soon and get all the details on the Corn Crop Lease and other exclusive leasing programs available only through Lindsay Credit Corp.

County Crusade Report

"The Fieldton community donated a total of $97.49 to the American Cancer Society's recent crusade, and their report was erroneously omitted from the county-wide total last week," said Mrs. Lady Clare Phillips of Littlefield, crusade chairman.

"We apologize to that community for this error," she said, "and we want to thank Mrs. Glenn Blackman, Mrs. W.C. McCain and Rita Cook for their efforts in that community, and to every citizen of that community who donated to the fund," Mrs. Phillips emphasized.

"With the Fieldton contribution, a new total for the county is now at $8,840.70," she concluded.

'Fly Up' Ceremony Held

A "fly-up" ceremony was held last Thursday to honor six Brownies in troop #349 who will become Junior Scouts next year. Seven Brownies were honored for participation in the scout program for the past year.

Shelli Struve, Kim McNeely, Janabeth Potts, Wanda Daniels, Taralena Cole and Tammy Creek crossed over a gaily decorated bridge to receive their fly-up wings, year pin and badge.

This was the first year that Brownies have been able to earn badges for participating in an activity program.

The leaders, Mmes. Sheila Massie, Lynn Walker and Jo Helen Harrell, presented each scout with a gift. Mrs. Linda Hughes helped with the ceremonies.

Special guests were the six fly-up scout's mothers, who were present to pin their daughter with the Girl Scout pin.

Refreshments of punch and rolls were served by Mrs. Harrell.

Following the ceremony, the girls were treated with a cookout sponsored by troop #335 under the direction of Ms. Carol Scribner. A meal of chile dogs and banana boats were prepared and cooked on an open fire by Cadettes Melba and Debra Lockett.

The Brownies had the resonsibility of buying the correct amounts of food. This fulfilled a requirement toward earning their badge. The Cadettes were responsible for teaching the girls the correct ways of fire building, preparing the food, cooking on an open fire and extinguishing a fire. This fulfilled requirements they needed toward earning their outdoor challenge.

New Fertilizer Available For Soybean Crops Here

For soybean growers in Olton areas, Folian TM, the new soybean foliar fertilizer, is now available, says Don and Steve Spain owners of Olton Farm Supply.

According to Allied Chemical agronomists who developed Folian, 10 to 20 percent yield increases can be expected the new fertilizer is applied to soybeans under favorable conditions and according to manufacturer's recommendations. The most recent study -- conducted in Brazil during the 1977 January-to-April growing season -- showed an average yield increase of 22 percent.

Folian contains special forms of nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium and sulfur (12-6-6-.5S) which enable it to be applied in concentrated form directly on the growing plant without serious injury under normal conditions.

"We are offering Folian as a yield boosting supplement to regular soybean fertility programs," says Don and Steve Spain. "It is recommended for good stands of healthy, non-stressed beans that already show a high yield potential."

"Growers can expect the greatest return on investment from applications during early or mid pod growth stages," Don and Steve Spain add. "If crop prospects continue to be favorable after the first application, a second application 10 to 14 days later also can be expected to give growers a good return on fertilizer investment."

Don Johnson, Allied Chemical's Manager of Agronomic Services, explains how the foliar fertilizer works: "During the pod filling stage, the developing beans demand more nutrients than the plant is able to supply, even in fertile soil. Plant food applied directly to the foliage during this period can get more nutrients into the plant so that more beans can fill to harvestable size. Folian offers a means of doing this safely."

Recommended application rates are 100 to 110 pounds of fertilizer per acre, applied by either conventional high-clearance ground equipment or aerial applicators.

Folian has undergone five seasons of comprehensive testing. Average yield increases have ranged from 10 to 32 percent. In large scale field trials throughout the major soybean producing states in the summer of 1976, some test sites with favorable conditions showed 15 to 20 bushel per acre yield increases from a grower investment of $10 to $20 per acre.

The Blame Rests With You

Vacations are wonderful, but if you come home to find your home has been burglarized you will be very unhappy. The Olton Police Department wants you to have a very enjoyable vacation and will keep a watch on your property, but they must be informed of your absence.

Remember it is your home and your property and you have the prime responsibility to protect it. In the last two articles we have given you suggestions on protecting your home. We can only offer these suggestions, it is up to you to act.

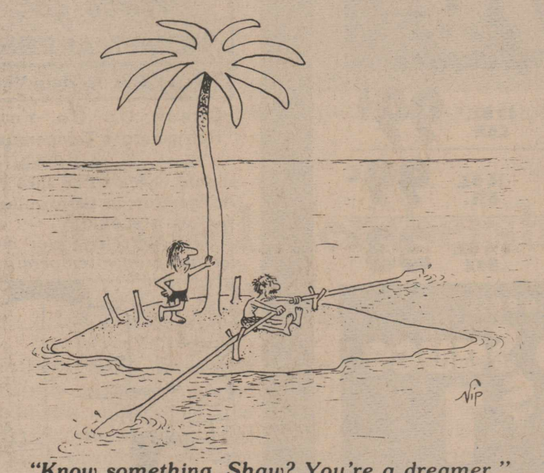

If you do not inform us of your planned absence and ignore the value of neighbors, friends and relatives you can be a victim of a burglary.

Let us assume you have gone on a vacation and not informed us. You are gone for two weeks and on your return you find your home was broken into and most of your valuables are gone. The burglary occured the day after you left. This means our investigation is about thirteen days late in getting started, the property that was taken away may be in Mexico, Oklahoma, New York or California. Another problem is that we will likely be unable to get any fingerprints at all and other investigative resources will be too late to help at all and if everything follows the pattern you will blame us.

The truth is the blame rests with you, after all, it is your property. Yes we want to help and if we would have known of your absence along with a neighbor, it might have been only a few hours after the crime occured that the breakin was found and our investigation might be aided by the time saved and we might have your property back on your return. Better yet, if we would have known of your absence and you followed our other suggestions, there may not have been any burglary or we might have apprehended the criminal at your home because we knew you were gone and so we were patrolling your home more frequently than normal.

We are here to help you, but you must share the responsibility. Enjoy your vacation and return to a secure home.

This is the third in a series of articles to help you.

"Know something, Shaw? You're a dreamer."

cattle business back on a profitable basis," he says. "This program will increase beef consumption and help stabilize market conditions which will benefit cattlemen and consumers alike.

"Nutritionists say the average American is eating only half of the meat needed for good health," Sartwelle adds. "Through nutrition research and consumer education, consumers will improve their diet and beef producers will get their fair share of any increase."

IS IT A GOVERNMENT PROGRAM? "No," declares Sartwelle. "This is a producer program all the way -- financed by producers and administered by producers. The role of the Secretary of Agriculture is limited to that of a referee -- to assure that the program is administered according to the intent of the Act, which is to help the beef industry."

CAN I GET A REFUND PROMPTLY? "Yes, any producer who is not satisfied that the funds are wisely invested can request and get a refund within 60 days after the request is made," answers Sartwelle. "This amounts to a Money-Back Guarantee."

Registration for the Beef Referendum began June 6 in more than 2,000 county ASCS offices across the U.S. Cattle producers have until Friday, June 17, to register for the Referendum. Actual voting will be July 5-15 at the ASCS offices.

Texas cattle producers with additional questions can call, toll-free, 1-800-682-4106 for additional information on the Beef Referendum.

Tested Tips To Help You

Check Up On Your Refrigerator's Temperature

There are two things you should check to be sure your refrigerator is performing as well as it should.

Is your refrigerator maintaining proper temperatures?

If the milk is very cold, then the refrigerator section should be about right. If the ice cream is good and firm, the freezer's set about right. But don't check just one spot; move the milk and ice cream around and see if the same degree is consistent in other areas of your refrigerator or freezer. Whirlpool home economists advise that the refrigerator section should be no warmer than 40°F., and the freezer performs best at 0°F.

By maintaining these proper temperatures, foods can keep better and longer.

Most refrigerators have adjustable coldness settings, so if you find that your refrigerator is not as cold as you'd like, check your owner's manual about how to make it colder.

Is the door gasket sealing properly?

Letting in warm air reduces the coldness in the interior, so you'll want to test the gasket too. Whirlpool home economists offer this easy way to check your refrigerator's gasket. They call it the "dollar bill test." Place a dollar bill on the inside edge of the door (half in and half out) and close the door on it. Next, try to pull out the dollar. If the gasket is in good condition the bill will be rather difficult to pull out and you'll feel the friction created while pulling it. If the bill slips out easily, the gasket is not sealing properly and should be replaced.
