Fusselman Pay Is Indicated In Old Big Lake Oil Field

First Fusselman production in the Big Lake multipay field in Southwest Reagan County appears to have been developed by Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 1-BL University.

Located on the southwest edge of one of the oldest fields in West Texas, the No. 1-BL has developed an estimated 600 to 800 barrels of 54-gravity distillate per day from the Fusselman lime at 8,902-920 feet.

It topped the Fusselman at 8,887 feet, on an elevation of 2,144 feet. On a drillstem test at 8,887-8,900 feet, recovery after one and one-half hours was 115 feet of 49-gravity distillate. Gas, which surfaced in three minutes, was estimated at 450,000 cubic feet per day.

Takes Second Test

Operators then deepened to 8,920 feet, still in the Fusselman, and took another drillstem test at 8,902-920 feet. Gas surfaced in one and one-half minutes and distillate appeared at the surface in 15 minutes.

Two minutes after the distillate surfaced, the tool was closed. Recover was 210 feet of 54-gravity distillate, from which operators estimated the 600 to 800 barrels capacity per day.

Large Gas Volume

Gas volume on the test was estimated at 5,000,000 cubic feet per day. Flowing bottom hole pressure was 1,400 pounds, and shutin pressure after 15 minutes was 3,600 pounds.

This prospective pool opener is now bottomed at 8,940 feet, still in Fusselman lime, and operators are preparing to take another drillstem test.

Drillsite is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 1, block 2, University survey. It is approximately 14 miles west and slightly north of the town of Big Lake.

More Clear Fork Pay Developed In NE Yoakum Area

Cabot Carbon Company No. 1 Clay, Northeast Yoakum County wildcat, one mile northeast of the Clear Fork discovery in the Cobb field, and 660 feet from south and west lines of section 12, block D, John H. Gibson survey, was swabbed between four and six barrels of new oil per hour from pay in the Clear Fork at 6,636-6,761 feet.

That zone had been washed with 500 gallons of mud acid and then treated with 6,000 gallons of regular acid.

The oil was cut with an average of 2.4 per cent sediment and acid water. There was no formation water. Swabbing to test and complete was continuing.

This possible new producer is four miles northwest of Tokio.

No. 2 Parks Slates Tests Late Monday

Producing ability of the Ellenburger is to be determined during the next few days at Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 2 Parks, Central-West Midland County discovery, 11 1/4 miles southwest of the city of Midland.

Operator had drilled out two retainers and early Monday was drilling cement plug from an open hole between 12,944 feet and total depth at 12,970 feet.

It was expected that the project would be in position to start making production tests on the 15 feet of Ellenburger so far penetrated by late Monday.

Dual Pay Indicated

That zone had flowed 123.71 barrels of 53.9 gravity oil in one hour drillstem test which was run before the casing was cemented at 12,944 feet—11 feet above the top of the Ellenburger at 12,955 feeet.

This exploration has shown flowing oil from the Pennsylvania lime and it also indicated possibilities of producing from the Fusselman section of the Silurian.

Location is 660 feet from north and 2,180 feet from west lines of section 10, M. Daugherty survey.

NW Upton Wildcat Tests Stained Zone

Sinclair Oil & Gas Company and Magnolia Petroleum Company No. 1 G. R. Davis, Northwest Upton County wildcat, six and one half miles southwest of the southwest side of the Pegasus multipay field, was taking a drillstem test in the Devonian at 12,11-178 feet.

Samples from that interval had some slight stain and porosity.

Location 660 feet from north and east lines of section 20, block 41, TP survey, T-5-S. The Devonian was topped at 11,500 feet on a minus datum of 8,636 feet.

The section being covered by the current drillstem test has the first shows of possible production so far developed in the Devonian.

The wildcat is slated to continue to about 13,000 feet to explore the Ellenburger.

Flash Flood Takes Toll Of 21 Known Dead, 33 Missing

WEST UNION, W. VA. —(AP)— At least 21 persons were dead and 33 missing Monday in the wake of flash floods that struck a six-county area of North-Central West Virginia early Sunday. The surging torrents rolled out of the darkness without warning.

Authorities fear the toll may go much higher. At least 12 of the 15 members of a family gathered for a birthday party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bailey at Smithburg, five miles west of here, are missing.

Only one member of the Bailey family is known to be alive. The body of Mrs. Bailey, about 60, has been recovered, and another body, believed to be that of a five-months-old grandson, also has been found.

The Bailey home was directly in the path of the flood. Sheriff Paul B. Davis said the house was carried nearly two miles downstream.

One Known Survivor

The only known survivor of the family is Charles Bailey, a son, who is in a West Union hospital with a fractured leg, cuts and bruises.

Six members of the B. J. Cooper family at Smithburg also were listed as dead in the swirling waters, and three members of another family there were killed when their home was pounded into bits against a railway trestle.

Berea, a little agricultural community located on a horseshoe curve of the south fork of the Hughes River south of here, also was hit hard. Six persons were known dead there, including a grandmother and two of her grandchildren.

Modern Paul Reveres

Postmaster Ray Bonnell said the toll at Berea might have been higher except for the Paul Revere actions of two of the town's young men, Harland Hodge and Charles Bridge,

Gambling Kingpin Gets $30,000 Fine, Two-Year Sentence

NEW YORK —(AP)— Frank Erickson, kingpin of a nationwide bookmaking business, Monday was sentenced to two years in prison and a $30,000 fine.

The chubby, 54-year-old gambling mogul, who had plied his multi-million-dollar betting trade for a quarter-century without spending a day in jail, was sentenced in Special Sessions Court.

He could have received up to 60 years in prison.

Erickson threw himself on the mercy of the court last Monday by pleading guilty to a 60-count gambling charge.

Briton Urges Atomic War On North Korea

LONDON —(AP)— A Conservative member of Parliament Monday urged Britain to seek use of the atom bomb against Communist-controlled Northern Korea.

This call came from Conservative Peter Geoffrey Roberts, a wartime major in the Coldstream Guards.

IRAN'S GOVERNING CABINET RESIGNS

An official source said the shah has named Lt. Gen. Ali Razmara, chief of the army general staff, to form a new cabinet.

Switchmen's Strike Brings Four Major Lines To Standstill

CHICAGO —(AP)— The strike of 4,000 AFL switchmen had brought four major Western railroads to a standstill Monday and had thrown thousands of other workers out of jobs.

Lines tied up by the walkout Sunday morning of the Switchmen's Union of North America are the 8,000-mile Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific; the 2,413-mile Denver and Rio Grande Western; the 1,500-mile Chicago and Great Western, and the 1,125-mile Western Pacific.

The fifth struck line, the 8,000-mile Great Northern, said it has maintained near-normal passenger service but its freight movements have been crippled.

Other Thousands Idled

The men left their jobs in support of a demand for a 40-hour week at the present 48 hours pay, equal to a wage boost of 31 cents an hour. In taking the strike action, they rejected a recommendation by a presidential fact - finding board that they be granted a 40-hour week and a pay increase of 18 cents an hour.

The strike deadline at 6 a.m. Sunday found the four railroads ready to halt operations. They had announced earlier that if final negotiations failed of a settlement, they would not try to run any trains during the strike.

They announced the layoff of at least 35,000 other employes, most of them effective Monday.

HST Pledges U. S. Backing To UN Efforts

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman Monday pledged full United States support of United Nations efforts to end the "unprovoked aggression" against South Korea.

In a statement, the President declared:

"Willful disregard of the obligatiton to keep the peace cannot be tolerated by nations that support the United Nations Charter."

He said the United States is pleased with the speed and determination of the UN Security Council in ordering a withdrawal of the invading forces.

Then his statement added:

"In accordance with the resolution of the Security Council, the United States will vigorously support the effort of the council to terminate this serious breach of the peace.

Sympathy And Support

"Our concern over the lawless action taken by the forces from North Korea, and our sympathy and support for the people of Korea in this situation, are being demonstrated by the cooperative action of American personnel in Korea, as well as by steps taken to expedite and augment assistance of the type being furnished under the mutual defense assistance program.

"Those responsible for this act of aggression must realize how seriously the government of the United States views such threats to the peace of the world."

Truman's statement was handed to reporters by Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross.

At no point did the President's statement say directly whether or

Rules Group Clears Bill To Give States Tidelands Ownership

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A bill to give the states ownership of lands beneath the marginal seas Monday was cleared for House action.

The House Rules Committee adopted a procedure calling for four hours general debate and permitting amendments to be offered from the floor.

Speaker Rayburn (D-Texas) told reporters later he did not know when the bill would be taken up in the House.

Chairman Sabath (D-Ill) of the Rules Committee said it had cleared the bill for House debate over his protest.

"It won't mean anything," he told reporters. "The President has vetoed it (the bill) and will veto it again. It will just be a waste of time."

The legislation would give the states ownership and control of the so-called oil-rich Tidelands despite Supreme Court opinions that the federal government has a paramount right to the oil and other minerals under the marginal seas off the coastal states.

Rules Panel Forbids Tax Bill Changes

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The $1,010,000,000 excise tax cutting bill was cleared Monday for House consideration on an "all-or-nothing" basis.

The House Rules Committee approved procedures which would bar any change or amendment once it was open for debate on the floor of the House.

The rule governing debate will, however, give Republicans one chance to offer a substitute proposal. Republicans, who have called the measure a "phony tax reduction," have not disclosed what substitute they have in mind.

Procedures such as were approved Monday usually are attacked as a "gag," but Chairman Doughton (D-NC) of the House Ways and Means Committee was joined on this occasion by GOP committee members in requesting a "closed" rule.

Doughton and Representative Reed (R-NY) told the rules group nothing but confusion would result if amendments were permitted by individual House members.

Therefore, the House will open debate on the measure Tuesday on a take-it-or-leave-it basis.

A vote is expected Thursday, clearing the way for House members to take a long Fourth of July weekend.

Midland Chairman Urges Cooperation In Bond Campaign

Stressing the "Save for your Independence" slogan of the U. S. Savings Bond Independence Campaign now underway throughout the nation, John P. Butler, Midland County bond chairman, Monday called upon citizens to cooperate in the drive by purchasing Series E bonds before the July 4 campaign deadline.

Butler said the drive is lagging here and elsewhere over the state, and that the two Midland banks are launching an all-out effort to reach Midland's $187,000 quota by the end of this week. Midland County has led the way in previous campaigns, Butler said, but sales in the Independence Drive to date have accounted for less than 50 per cent of the goal.

Pointing out the investment benefits of U. S. Savings Bonds, Butler said $75 invested in Series E Bonds today will be worth $76.50 in 1952; $82 in 1955; $92 in 1958, and $100 in 1960.

J. E. McDonald Gets Number One Place On Midland Ballot

The name of J. E. McDonald of Travis County will appear first on the Midland County ballot for the office of State Commissioner of Agriculture, according to L. A. Bartha, chairman of the Midland County Democratic Executive Committee.

The committee members met Monday morning to redraw for ballot places in the state race, in compliance with instructions from the State Democratic Executive Committee.

The State Supreme Court last week upheld McDonald's right to have his name printed on the July 22 Democratic primary ballot, after the State Democratic Committee had barred the veteran agriculture commissioner as a Democratic candidate on grounds of party infidelity.

The names of the other candidates will appear in this order: J. C. White, Charlie McLellan and Tom Fairey.

Bartha said the Midland committee also approved the county ballot which was to go to the printer Monday afternoon.

All Defenses Crumbling Or Knocked Out

SEOUL, KOREA—(AP)—As Communist invaders from the Red North threw a tank column to the outskirts of Seoul early Tuesday (Korean Time), President Syngman Rhee blamed the crisis on "too little and too late" American aid.

By O. H. P. KING

SEOUL, KOREA—(AP)—Invading North Korean Communists stabbed a tank column to the outskirts of this Southern Republic's capital early Tuesday and broadcast a demand for Southern surrender.

The surrender demand was made over the Pyongyang radio by Gen. Chai Ung Jun, commander of the Northern forces which suddenly invaded South Korea Sunday morning.

Prospects of total defeat of the Southern forces through bad morale rather than by being beaten in the field were in evidence at this zero hour.

The northern mobile column that thrust perilously upon Seoul did so by piercing two full Southern divisions that were engaged in a counter-attack.

It reached Seoul's outskirts with little or no resistence for the last dozen miles.

(Exact whereabout of the Northern column was not mentioned in this dispatch, filed at 2:20 a. m., Korean Time.)

Military Morale Shattered

Last official report had the Northern tanks nine miles north of Seoul at 10 p. m. Monday and pushing ahead fast Tuesday morning they were said to be on the outskirts.

President Syngman Rhee and his cabinet remained in conference all night but there was no immediate response to the Northern demand for surrender.

In some quarters it was known suggestions had been made to move the capital more than 200 miles south to the Port of Pusan.

The Southern government's reluctance to abandon Seoul was tempered by a defeatism that made complete capitulation appear the only alternative to moving the capital.

The public's morale remained high

Texas Temperatures Climb Again Monday

By The Associated Press

Temperatures well above 100 degrees were certain again Monday in some parts of Texas, with the other areas sweltering under readings of 90 and above.

The mercury climbed to 108 degrees Sunday at Presidio. Dalhart, Midland and Wink recorded 102; Amarillo, Lubbock and Childress 101, and Abilene, Big Spring and Laredo 100.

Elsewhere, temperatures generally were in the 90's, with Galveston recording the low for the state at 88.

No rain fell during the night, the Weather Bureau reported.

Stock Market Dips On First Appraisal Of Korean Conflict

NEW YORK —(AP)— The Stock Market took the steepest plunge in a year and a half Monday in the first nervous appraisal of hostilities in Korea.

Foods and industrial raw materials advanced sharply in the commodity markets. Some commodities shot up the maximum amount allowed in a single day.

The price pattern traced in markets all over the world was a familiar response to the threat of war.

At the opening of the New York Stock Exchange blocks of stock running to 35,000 shares were thrown on the market. Opening transactions were delayed as much as two hours while buyers and sellers got together on prices.

Key issues broke $1 to $5 a share at the opening.

For a while prices steadied. A little before noon selling forces lashed out with another savage attack and prices tumbled an extreme of around $8 a share. Selling orders came from all quarters.

The invasion of Southern Korea touched off a sharp drop in the London Exchange.

Items higher, included rubber, cottonseed oil, coffee, copper, cotton, and hides.

Torn Blanket Scrap, Human Fragments Tell Fate Of 58 Aboard Lost Airliner

ST. JOSEPH, MICH. —(AP)— A grim search got underway Monday in the depths of Lake Michigan, where it is virtually certain a lost Northwest Airlines plane went down.

An airline representative left little doubt that this resort community was the scene of doom for the capacity-loaded ship when he identified a torn piece of blue blanket Monday. The blanket was marked with the letters NW.

Other traces of plane wreckage and pieces of human bodies were found on the lake waters Sunday night. An oil slick has been sighted.

There was only the faintest hope that any of the 58 passengers aboard the airship could have lived through the worst air disaster in this country's history.

Paul Benscoter, sent here by NWA to help direct the search for the big plane, looked over some grim tokens of the crash—bits of bodies, the blanket fragment, a man's fur-collared jacket, other pieces of clothing, part of a suitcase.

But he said a plane log and maintenance report apparently did not belong to the Northwest plane.

Five Coast Guard cutters plowed into the wreckage area during the day.

Capt. Nathanial S. Pulford, representing the commander of the Ninth Coast Guard District, said the matter of sending divers down into the lake would be up to the airlines operations men.

Investigators examined a theory that the plane, flying non-stop from New York to Minneapolis, might have been hit by lightning.

Boyer Isn't Taking The Rap For 'Arch Of Triumph' Flop

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD — Charles Boyer isn't taking the blame for the peculiar odor of a $4,000,000 omelet known as "The Arch of Triumph."

The star has sniffed the surrender-you-fool perfume of screen sirens so often that he reacts with all the snap of Lassie to one false whiff from the chicken yard.

But there are no stains from the eggs laid at the box office by "Arch" on the hands that have lovingly cupped the expensive faces of so many movie queens.

"I won't take the rap," he told me on the set of "The First Legion," his first picture since 1947's "A Woman's Vengeance."

The Attar of "Whew," Boyer wants it known, came strictly from the room, where they stock the greenbacks that go into high-budget epics.

"Why," protested the heart-flutterer, "should I tak' the blam' for a picture that lost at the box office because it cost $3,000,000 too much? It was the storee of two people. The producers got it confused with 'Ben Hur,' I think."

A lot of Hollywoodites, he confesses, gave him the look that small boys who've been near skunks generally get after the picture was released.

"When you're associated with a flop, it always hurts you in pictures. The sam' thing was true with Ingrid. She, too, suffered from it."

As far as Boyer knows, nobody tossed dripping tomatoes at his enlarged screen image in the Enterprise smeller—"I got the best notices of my career," he said proudly—and no studio chieftains sketched skulls and cross-bones after his name on the roster of Screen Actors Guild.

The Boyer telephone went right on ringing. He beamed:

"I turned down more things than evaire before."

"The Arch of Triumph" was No. 3 in the star's Hollywood gripe sheet, carefully annotated since he swung from a big part with Jean Harlow in "Red Headed Woman" —"Then I could hardly speak 10 words of English"—to full five-pointed stardom.

Each time, Boyer generated the kind of anger that could fry crepes suzettes.

The first was when Fox put the curling irons to his locks and gave him Shirley Temple ringlets in a picture with Loretta Young tagged "Caravan."

"The whol' picture I was playing fiddles," he said. "I packed. I was ready to go back to Frahnce for good."

He still burns, but with a philosophical slow simmer, at the jokesters who keep running "Come, weeth me to de Casbah, 'Edy," into the ground.

There's a standing reward for anybody who can find that line in the sound track of any movie that Boyer has made. He shuddered:

"Hedy liked it very much, it was good for her, but my opinion is that it should have been dead long ago."

He admits, however, that he's mouthed the phrase on radio shows, big pushover that he is, because of his friendship with a few radio comedians and the clunk-clunk of sponsors' gold.

The Boyer arms describe a search-me when he's asked why snipers insist that he could, if he wanted to, speak Sir Laurence Olivier's brand of English and that he fakes the pate de fois gras accent just to slaughter women moviegoers.

"I assure you," he shrugged, "that I do the best I can."

Stays In Bounds

Right now Boyer is thrusting the memory of pin curls, Casbah jokes and his only movie flop behind him. He doesn't even wince in shoe stores when loose-talking salesmen toss around gab about fallen arches.

He's a warier Boyer. No scripts with built-in falling plaster, thank you, and no lover-boy roles that ought to be played by Peter Lawford or Roddy McDowall, either.

He says:

"I wan' to do the type of lov' storee befitting a man of my age."

There's a gorgeous new dish named Barbara Rush in "The First Legion" but he doesn't once beam his voice into her chambered ears.

Whenever the still photographer comes around, Boyer ducks away from Barbara. He says he had enough of the forbidden love stuff as Marlene Dietrich's eager plaything in "The Garden of Allah," and he doesn't want moviegoers pausing before posters showing him with Barbara and going "Hmmmm."

Bubbling on Boyer's cinematic stove now are a production of Albert Camus' "The Plague"—the author killed MGM's plan to do it with Spencer Tracy, and a screen biography of Clemenceau, the French statesman.

Boyer grinned:

"I can afford to lose a few more hair in the picture. You see, Clemenceau was completely bald."

When all 18 electric generators intended for the Grand Coulee Dam, in Washington state, are installed, their combined capacity will be about 2,000,000 kilowatts — or more than 3 1/2 per cent of the total in the United States.

Tax On Copper May Impair Good Relations With Chile

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON—America's carefully nurtured good neighbor policy in South America will get a swift kick in the pants if Congress fails to halt the automatic $40-a-ton tax on imported copper, due to become effective July 1. It is expected that prices on all copper and brass products will go sky high and that a lot of speculators will make fortunes.

The whole bitter copper fight is a typical Washington story. But the stakes have been just a little higher this time and the congressional tricks have been more ruthless.

Most interested party is the government of Chile. Uncle Sam needs more than 300,000 tons of copper a year more than can be produced at home. Chilean copper fills that gap and has become that country's most important industry. But the $40-a-ton tax could be ruinous to it.

The tax originated during the depression. When war threatened and the U. S. needed more copper, Congress suspended the levy. It has been kept on because of continued postwar high demand. However, renewal of suspension now is effectively blocked by special interest groups.

The Chilean case goes something like this:

"America promises us reciprocal trade agreements and good neighborliness. We have been one of America's best friends. The U. S. doesn't have enough copper. No American worker will be harmed by keeping off the tax. Yet if it is restored the whole economy of Chile will be harmed.

"The tax will have violent political repercussions in Chile and in all of South America. The Commies will make much hay. They'll say it's typical American ruthlessness. And all this comes just after the president of Chile was so enthusiastically wined and dine in your country."

If the tax goes on the whole copper market automatically jumps two cents per pound. When that increase gets pyramided into a consumer product the increase is much greater. In anticipation of the tax there has been very heavy future buying in copper scrap.

This gambling in scrap is revealed by Rep. Gerald R. Ford from Grand Rapids, Mich. Firms in his state such as furniture, auto parts and auto manufacturers comprise one of the biggest blocks of copper users in the country and will be hardest hit by the tax. He introduced a bill to kill the tax, but his measure and others like it have been kept buried.

An amendment to restore the tax has been cleverly tacked on a scrap metal bill. This neatly boxes in the President because he favors the scrap metal bill and recently said he was against the copper tax. And to sew up the case, they've tied up consideration of suspension with the general tax bill. There's no telling when a tax bill will get out of Congress this session, if at all.

Several Western senators have led the fight for the tax. Their contention is that the tax will bring into production some of the marginal copper mines in the country and give employment to many more miners.

Not the least interested parties to the shenanigans are the three major copper companies in the U. S. For some reason Kennicott has remained neutral. Anaconda is for suspension because most of its sources are in Chile. It is in the process of investing $150,000,000 more there in new mines. Phelps-Dodge, with all-domestic holdings, has pumped thousands in the campaign to get the tax reinstated.

James Douglas, brother of the ambassador to England, is representing the Phelps-Dodge firm in this effort. Former senator from Connecticut John A. Danahar is the representative of Revere Copper and Brass, Inc., and is leading the fight for suspension. His client fabricates copper and will be hard hit by the tax. He has used his privilege of going onto the floor of the Senate during sessions to fight for suspension.

Part of the whole complicated picture is the rumor that all parties might be willing to make some kind of a compromise on the tax with the possibility of putting a floor under the price of copper. But in the long run it's John Q. Public who will suffer.

Running an extension cord under a rug is not a good idea. If you must do this make sure the cord is flat and not round; these fla cords were designed for just this purpose.

Abundant Living

By E. STANLEY JONES

John 19:38-44; 20:19-23.

'FOR THEY WERE AFRAID OF'

Suppose the Gospel had ended where the Gospel of Mark was broken off, the rest of the narrative being lost: "They said nothing to anyone, for they were afraid of—" (Mark 16:8, Moffatt, who gives two attempts at supplying endings from various ancient versions.) The Resurrection had taken place, the whole of the redemptive process was complete, the gladdest news that ever burst upon human ear was in the possession of the disciples, but "they said nothing to anyone, for they were afraid of—" Suppose the Gospel had ended there? The disciples with good news but gripped by fears—the whole movement frozen by fear. Suppose they had not gone on to Pentecost where these fears were dissolved by a new invigoration of divine resources within them? How crippled, how unsatisfactory, how far short of human need would our Christianity have remained, if the Gospel had stopped at the pre-Pentecost stage! And yet that is where most of our Christianity has stopped. With glad good news entrusted to it, it has stopped in its tracks, "afraid of—" what? Everything—its inadequate resources, its power to grapple with the complete need of man; in short, afraid of itself and others.

A discerning layman explains the inadequacy of Christianity this way: "The present level of Christianity has exhausted itself against the problems of the present day. It will have to be renewed on a higher level to become functionally adequate." That higher level is northing less than the powers of Pentecost becoming our working capital.

The neo-orthodoxy of our time illustrates this vividly. It has no doctrine of, or emphasis upon, the Holy Spirit, hence it ends in pessimism and despair—"for they were afraid of." The Christianity produced is a sad, despairing type of the interim days between the Crucifixion and the Resurrection—of the first and second day, but not of the third day. It is a broken-off Gospel — a before-Pentecost message instead of an after-Pentecost—frustrated instead of fruitful.

Holy Spirit, I see what I need; I need Thee, not as an occasional visitor with me, but as my constant Guest within me. This three-storied house of my body, mind, and soul is Thine. Take over charge. Put light and heat in every room, and let the light shine from every window—with no part dark. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Senate Votes Late Monday On Increase In Farm Price Pegs

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Senator Ellender (D-La) claimed enough votes Monday to complete congressional action on a $2,000,000,000 increase in government farm price support funds.

As the Senate prepared to vote on the farm bill Monday afternoon, there was some determined opposition—aimed not at the price supports but at an amendment intended to halt or reduce farm imports from Canada, Mexico and other nations.

Leading this opposition were Senators Magnuson (D-Wash) and Morse (R-Ore). They have objected to spending government funds to keep prices high for U. S. farmers, while allowing potatoes, fruits, grains, beef cattle and other competitive imports to add to domestic price and surplus problems.

Magnuson and Morse want to send the price support legislation back to a Senate-House Conference Committee with orders to tighten up language intended to restrict imports of farm products.

Their argument collides with the Administration's tariff-cutting programs under the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act.

Senators Ellender, Holland (D-Fla) and other supporters of price support programs were pressing the Senate to accept the compromise already approved by the House.

Murder Charged In Amarillo Slaying

AMARILLO —(AP)— Mrs. Epsy Adams, 50, has been charged with murder with malice in the death of Madeline Thomas, 47.

Mrs. Thomas was shot fatally Saturday night on a city bus. She was accompanied by Mrs. Adams' husband, Otho, 48, at the time of the shooting.

Jonelen Hendley, 16, a bystander, was shot in the leg. Adams also was shot in the leg. Miss Hendley has been released from the hospital.

The shooting occurred at a downtown intersection at 11:30 p. m.

Louisiana Moves To Plug Competition In Alligator Business

BATON ROUGE —(AP)— Louisiana doesn't like other states muscling in on the alligator business.

The state House of Representatives voted Sunday night to cut off the supply.

The bill, passed 65-0, prohibits killing or capturing alligators under three feet long and prohibits the export of live alligators of any size.

Said Rep. E. J. Grizzaffi, one of the authors:

"Florida is buying hundreds of our baby alligators and using them to restock their marshes. The alligator is a valuable animal. In a couple of years he grows a very fine skin. Also he eats garfish and gar prey on game fish."

The bill now goes to the state Senate.

ANOTHER STRIKE

AGAINST THE PUBLIC AND INDUSTRY AND AGRICULTURE SERVED BY 5 WESTERN RAILROADS

President Truman's EMERGENCY BOARD recommends a 40-hour week and a pay increase of 18 cents an hour, or $1.44 a day for switchmen represented by the Switchmen's Union of North America.

● Notwithstanding the tremendous increase in their expenses involved, the Railroads' answer to Board is... YES!

Union leaders' answer to Board is.. NO!

In face of Board findings to the contrary, union leaders insist on 48 hours pay for 40 hours work. This would be an average increase of 31 cents an hour, or $2.48 a day. So Union leaders have called a completely unjustified strike on 5 Western railroads, effective June 25.

On June 15, an Emergency Board appointed by President Truman under the terms of the Railway Labor Act recommended the railroads grant switchmen a 40-hour week and a wage increase of 18 cents an hour, or $1.44 for an 8-hour day.

Despite the added financial burden involved, the railroads are ready to accept these recommendations, as they have always accepted Emergency Board recommendations on national issues.

But the leaders of the Switchmen's Union refuse to accept! They demand an average increase of 31 CENTS AN HOUR OR $2.48 A DAY—although their present earnings are substantially higher than those of workers in other industries!

Board Says Demands Unjustified

In its report, the Board declared this demand unjustified by all the evidence presented. It also pointed out that it would give the switchmen an unfair pay advantage over other groups of railroad employes, and would add too great a burden to railroad costs.

Here is another case of a railroad union flouting the findings of an Emergency Board—another case of calling a crippling strike in an outrageous and reckless attempt to force demands which the Board clearly labels as unjustified!

Leaders of the Switchmen's Union are calling this strike in defiance of the Board—in defiance of the facts—and at the expense of the public!

In its report on this case, the Board made this statement:

"The railroad industry, the Board believes, needs above all else a period of relative stability to adjust and adapt itself to present competitive post-war conditions."

Despite this warning, the leaders of the Switchmen's Union are upsetting the apple-cart—forcing a completely unjustified strike against everybody who uses the railroads.

It is time to put an end to such un-American tactics!

FIVE WESTERN RAILROADS AFFECTED BY THE JUNE 25 STRIKE

The five railroads affected by this strike, which goes into effect at 6:00 AM local time, Sunday, June 25, 1950, are:

Chicago Great Western Railway Company
Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad Company
The Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad Company
Great Northern Railway Company
The Western Pacific Railroad Company

The Answer to a Raw Attempt At Dictatorship is "No!"

In the interest of the public who depend on the railroads every day, there can be only one answer to this outrageous and dictatorial action by the leaders of the Switchmen's Union. And that answer is—"NO!"

EASTERN SOUTHEASTERN WESTERN RAILROADS

We are publishing this and other advertisements to talk to you at first hand about matters which are important to everybody.

SOCIETY

Esther Reeves And Lee Hardin Betrothal Told

Mrs. A. M. Reeves, 402 West Hart Street, announces the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Esther Pearl, to Clarence Lee Hardin, son of Mrs. C. J. Sikes of Goldsmith.

The marriage will be solemnized July 4 in the bride-elect's home, with the Rev. T. L. Pond of Tarzan, her brother-in-law, officiating.

Mrs. Reeves will have Jo Ann Jones as her only attendant. Joe Winkler will be best man. The bride-elect is a 1950 graduate of Midland High School and is employed at Brooks Variety Store.

Virginia Robertson And L. P. Flood Are Married In Abilene

ANDREWS — Virginia Robertson of Andrews became the bride of L. P. Flood of Tahoka Sunday morning in the parsonage of the Southside Baptist Church, Abilene.

The Rev. Mr. Alexander read the double-ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and close friends.

The bride wore a white marquisette frock with navy blue accesories, and carried a white orchid on top of a white Bible. For something old she wore an heirloom locket which belonged to her grandmother.

The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Harry Robertson of Abilene, brother and sister-in-law of the bride. Mrs. Robertson wore a dress of white eyelet and her corsage was pink carnations.

Mrs. Flood is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Robertson of Andrews. She is a 1949 graduate of Andrews High School and attended Texas Tech in Lubbock the last year.

The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Flood of Kingsville. He is a graduate of Kingsville High School and attended A&I College. Following a wedding trip to Mexico the couple will be at home in Tahoka where Flood is manager of the Blankenship Theaters.

9 Year Old Boy Now Feels Fine

Harold Wood, 2849 Lafayette Ave., St. Louis, Missouri, calls "batter up" and proudly displays his cap, which is an exact replica of the cap worn by the St. Louis Cardinals. Harold is now interested in all kinds of sports and spends most of his time in the healthy out-of-doors. Harold's renewed interest in athletics seemed to start just after he began taking HADACOL. Before taking HADACOL, he was sick quite a bit, but now Harold is one of the liveliest youngsters in his neighborhood.

Here is Harold's own statement: "I am 9 years old and I think your HADACOL is very fine. My mother thinks it is so wonderful because before I started taking HADACOL I was very thin and didn't feel like eating at all. After I took two bottles of HADACOL I started gaining weight and Mother says she is never going to let me be without HADACOL again. It gives me such a good appetite and helps me keep away from colds. I started my grandmother and grandfather taking HADACOL and they think it is wonderful too."

Harold was suffering from a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron, which HADACOL contains.

HADACOL Helps Build

Yes, HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (where Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ, and every part of your body—to the heart, liver, gall bladder, pancreas, kidneys and lungs, even to the eyes, hair and nails. Countless thousands are benefitting from HADACOL . . . even hundreds of doctors have recommended HADACOL to their patients.

You'll Feel Wonderful

. . . with the first few bottles of HADACOL you take, or your money back. Accept no substitutes. Insist on genuine HADACOL. Only $1.25 for Trial size; Large Family or Hospital size, $3.50.—(adv.)

Full Rehearsal For Melodrama Is Held Sunday

A full stage rehearsal of "Ten Nights In A Barroom," Summer Mummers melodrama which will open for the public Friday, was held Sunday in the American Legion Hall.

All performances of the play are scheduled for the hall because it is air conditioned and because it is arranged so tables for parties can be set up easily.

A private showing will be held Thursday night, with other performances scheduled Friday, Saturday and July 3, 6, 7, and 8. Reservations for tables may be made beginning Thursday at Tailorfine, Inc. No single seats will be available. Reservations may be made from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Thursday and every other performance day.

Crew Members

Stan Shaeffer is heading the stage crew for the melodrama, with Bill Adam, Paul Parker and Mike Flood as his helpers. Julia Rindsig, painting crew chairman, has Sylvia Gearley, Betty Erdmann, Betty Wright, Rosemary Bohl, Bonny Bogardus and Lon Cibulka as her assistants.

Ann Speers is in charge of properties and Virginia Flood, of costumes. Makeup is under the supervision of Pauline Lee and Maedelee Roberts and Gene Brusenhan is house manager.

Bobby Perry is making arrangements for programs and Al Hedden is concession chairman. E. J. Elliott is stage manager and Betty Simpson is assistant to W. H. Pomeroy, Jr., director.

Bob Richards is directing the olio numbers and Mary Williams will play the piano. Duke Jimerson will be the song leader.

Palette Club Plans Two-Week Course In Textile Painting

A two-week course in textile painting, beginning Tuesday, is being offered by the Midland Palette Club Art Center. Inez Parker, art director for Midland schools, will be the instructor.

Classes will be held from 7:30 to 9 a.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday mornings. The classes are open to the public and membership in the Palette Club or the art center is not required. All classes will be held in the Palette Club Studio, 604 North Colorado Street.

Anyone interested in enrolling in the classes may call Miss Parker, telephone No. 3445-R, or Mrs. Ralph Barron, telephone No. 14.

Sewing Stressed By Hospital Group

Sewing for the Midland Memorial Hospital will move at a fast pace this week. It is being done every day by members of the Women's Auxiliary to the Hospital in the sewing room they have furnished in the basement of the hospital building.

The sewing room will be open all day every day for members of the group's sewing committee and other members are invited to come and work if they have time. Monday and Tuesday are the days being stressed this week for all auxiliary members.

With the hospital opening scheduled for July 9, the auxilitary hopes all sewing can be finished this week. There are, however, many things still to be done, and the time and effort of all members is needed urgently if the tasks are to be completed.

Mrs. Hawkins New Wink Bank Cashier

WINK — Mrs. Lillian Hawkins has been named cashier of the Winkler County State Bank here, succeeding Jimmy Childs, whose resignation becomes effective Saturday.

Mrs. Ferrell McDaniel was elected assistant cashier by the bank's directors, and Mrs. Mildred Howard was employed as bookkeeper.

Mrs. Hawkins has been employed by the bank since last December. She formerly was employed by the Humble Oil and Refining Company and at Pyote Air Base. She is a Texas Tech graduate.

Mrs. McDaniel has been employed by the bank since August, 1949, and previously was connected with the Kermit State Bank. Mrs. Howard was employed by the Wink Public schools during the 1949-50 term.

Advice To Job Hunters: Ask Father

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

June is a big advice month. One may advise brides. One may advise rose growers about pests. One may advise poison ivy and sunburn sufferers. One may advise on where to go on vacations and how to deport oneself on same.

It is also the traditional month for advice on how to get a job. This, of course, is aimed at the group with the bloom on the cheek, career on the mind and sheepskin in the hand.

My own personal thought is that such advice should be reserved until late August. Almost any young job hunter who has been able to remain without a job through eight or 12 years of education certainly must be able to win a few more months on the family bankroll—long enough to enjoy a final, carefree Summer. Fall is time enough to start the rock road of becoming a success.

Observe Protocols

In seeking a job, one must observe certain protocols. Experts in job-hunting have been practicing for years, and they always tell the new graduate specific things. Many of them don't make much sense, but apparently these outward symbols must be maintained when one is storming the bastions of business for the first time.

The first thing to consider is appearance. Young men have it pretty easy. They should have their clothes pressed, their linen (white) spotless and they should sit up straight in a chair when being interviewed.

Girls are uniformly urged to go easy on make-up. A slight dab of lip-rouge is about all that is permitted. For some strange reason, people who seek jobs with the normal amount of make-up on their faces are considered to be showing a vacant mind.

Much Paint

It doesn't seem to matter that the prospective employer has a wife who applies cosmetics with a shovel. And after the job is once safely in the hand, it's all right to go back to one's usual make-up habits. But for the initial interview, the pallid, slightly shiny face is almost a requirement. This is important, for employers are conditioned to expect it.

No Jewels

Don't wear earrings under any conditions, or rings or brooches. The experts usually throw in a special admonition about pendant earrings, although I haven't seen any of these since Theda Bara made a personal appearance in our town a couple of decades ago.

Summary Of Qualifications

In this connection I might add that among business women the quality and quantity of jewelry worn is as obvious a sign of rank as the bars, leaves and stars seen on Army officers' shoulders. Once the employe acquires a private office, a secretary and a title, the required symbols of success are a plainly tailored but obviously expensive dress or suit, adorned by a double or triple choker of pearls and pearl earrings. But not before then and don't ask me why.

Neophytes in the business world are told never to lie about their experience. If you have had none, they are told, say so. When you say so, of course, the prospective employer will smile with finality and tell you to come back when you've acquired some. I'm afraid I can't tell you how to acquire experience in the event you want to eat at the same time. Maybe employers will tolerate lack of experience if you don't use make-up and eschew earrings, but the experts are a little fuzzy on this point.

Another item is to have ready a typewritten summary of your qualifications. This will make it easy for the prospective employer to tell you he'll look over your summary and let you know about the job in a few days. This is known as the easy out. He'll like you better if he has one. You might even hear from him in a few days.

Swimming Is Good Exercise For Health

By BETTY CLARKE
AP Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Swimming is a wonderful exercise for health and beauty—one reason why we should turn Swim for Health Week into a swim-for-health routine all Summer. Some girls can even take advantage of swimming all the year round in pools near their homes.

The girl who sits at a desk or stands at a filing cabinet or works in a factory will find that swimming is one sport that will give all her muscles a real workout. It helps utilize muscles which are generally inactive, and which become flabby and weak from lack of exercise. It also helps tone digestive organs thereby correcting cause of some skin blemishes.

In swimming, respiratory muscles are in constant play, tending to increase chest capacity and to help form the habit of deep, regular, healthful breathing. The heart beats faster so that the circulation of the blood may be speeded up to carry oxygen to the muscles. The blood circulation also is increased so that waste products may be more quickly removed.

Many orthopedic specialists include swimming in treatment for infantile paralysis because structural muscle defects, atrophied and weak muscles must be built up. Swimming is not a strenuous sport because it does not require that the weight of the body support weak muscles. The force of gravity is lessened, thereby, and one can exercise without putting strain on weak muscles.

If you've noticed how easily and gracefully lifeguards walk.

The Mature Parent: 6

Facing Child's Problem Can Solve Other Problems, Too

BY HAROLD F. STRONG
Written for NEA Service

It is right to correct our children.

We should claim that right against all comers.

Sometimes we refuse to claim it because we are uncertain that it is our right.

Occasionally our other family relationships seem to present such difficult problems that we don't feel equal to the task of dealing with our children's.

But it is by dealing with our children's problems that we often solve the others.

Consider the case of a wife I knew who lived in her mother-in-law's home. Accustomed to authority, the older lady objected to the scenes her grandson made when his mother corrected him. Her first concern was that her own son have peace and quiet in his home when he returned at night.

But the decision of the wife on the side of fear of displeasing her husband and mother-in-law failed in its purpose. Nobody had peace or quiet. The home was kept in constant turmoil by the demands of an unhappy and uncontrolled child, frightened by the disapproval of everyone around him.

Only when the wife became convinced that she had a right to train her youngster was she able to champion that right effectively. As soon as she herself became positive and sure of it, she found that she could defend it with assurance and authority. After a month or so, there was peace and quiet in that home.

What solved her problem with her child was a change of attitude. Her change of attitude also won new respect from her husband and his mother.

When we are confused, we are apt to find our circumstances confused, too.

Sometimes it is neighbors we fear to disturb by our child's loud protests at paying the price of misconduct. We will indulge that fear only to meet the tantrum again tomorrow.

Our youngsters may have a good reason for being angry. If they have, we won't discover it by ignoring his kicks and screams. We will discover what it is by correcting his method of making that reason known to us.

Like us, he must learn to resist injustice. He must also learn that he does not have to resort to tantrums to win fair treatment and interest in his point of view.

Tomorrow: Failure needs more than the soothing syrup of sympathy.

Perennial Postal Deficit

Bills to rescind the Post Office Department's recent cuts in mail service await floor action in both houses of Congress. But the lawmakers might better devote their energy to something else, for these measures won't mean anything even should they become law.

The reason is simple: Congress won't provide the money needed to restore the service reductions. In fact, the department in all likelihood will enter the 1950-51 fiscal year with its budget somewhat trimmed.

It's another case of the legislators trying to have their cake and eat it, too. Post office deficits are chronic. The Congress never has faced up to the problem of how to put the department on a consistently paying basis. This year postal operations are $545,000,000 in the red.

If the cuts ordered by Postmaster General Donaldson serve to stir the public enough to push the lawmakers toward some real solution, they may be a good thing. Even though, according to an early survey of the effects of the changes, a considerable number of business firms are suffering.

The reductions in service themselves certainly are no solution. At best it was hoped they would chop $30,000,000 off operating costs, but experience to date suggests the saving may be substantially less.

The big money losers in the department are the second, third and fourth class mail services handling, respectively, newspapers and magazines, advertising circulars, and parcel post. Only first class mail and postal savings earn their way.

Each of these red-ink services ought to be examined closely by Congress with a view to streamlining it and getting it onto the most efficient basis possible. Wherever they apply, the recommendations of the Hoover Commission should be adopted.

If such revamping does not produce the economies needed to wipe out the deficits in these categories, then Congress would seem to have no choice but to raise rates so operations can get into the black.

Any other course amounts to flat acknowledgment that Congress is prepared to carry the Post Office Department indefinitely as a cumbersome, inefficient giant that cannot earn its salt.

If the lawmakers should surprise by really buckling down to this task, they ought also to end for all time the absurd fiction of "air mail subsidies" to the airlines. American civil aviation may need subsidy to survive; that's a problem of another sort. But what is thought wise for the airlines has nothing to do with running the air mail service, which should function according to costs and standards suitable to its own special nature.

A Healthy Sign

The Bonn government of West Germany has acted to place the German people once more within the broad family of peace-loving European nations. It has approved joining the fledgling Council of Europe.

Not since 1936, when Nazi Germany stalked out of the League of Nations in one of the preludes to World War II, has this nation been linked in any way with an international body devoted to peace and order.

The action in Bonn is but a bare beginning. West Germany is half a country, and the Council of Europe the merest shell of a European parliament. Yet the signs are healthy. All the freedom-loving peoples should hail this step. They should hope, too, that it is only the forerunner of others which some day will carry a united Germany the whole way into the company of the democratic nations.

Judge Harry

You often hear that the job of President of the United States is that of referee among the many conflicting interests that arise in our national life.

President Truman seems to have that view of the job. In fact, he carries the thought down to the level of the most trivial controversy. The other day he refereed a dispute between a cab driver and a sailor on a street in Columbia, Mo.

If this notion is developed much further, we may expect next Spring to see Truman abandoning the traditional throwing out of the first ball and instead donning the umpire's mask at the ball park.

And there's no sign the abuse he'd be subjected to from partisan fans would bother him any more than has the criticism of his political foes. The plain fact is, the President likes being referee.

Deflation Has Set In

DREW PEARSON ON The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

(Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

Drew Pearson says: Mount Rushmore Memorial recalls aims of Washington and Jefferson; U.S.A. today has bogged down in age of fear; America's original goals must be extended to world to prevent war.

RAPID CITY, S. D.—I came out to the Black Hills Sunday to dedicate the gigantic lighting system which now floods the majestic, granite faces of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt, carved high on the side of Mount Rushmore in this beautiful national park.

Sometimes I think it is a good thing for a Washington newspaperman or even a Washington bureaucrat or for every American, as a matter of fact, to get away from his routine and do some thinking about our founding fathers and the great goals they set for us to carry out.

The four patriots whose faces are carved on this mountain side were all crusaders and, in a sense, dangerous revolutionaries. In fact, Washington and Jefferson were considered so dangerous that the crowned heads of Europe tried desperately—even as late as the Emperor Maximilian during our Civil War—to defeat the "subversive" democracy left in their wake.

Lincoln was another revolutionary, considered so dangerous by the South that it rebelled, while Teddy Roosevelt's "dangerous" campaign against big business caused the corporations of his day to heap more abuse on his head than that heaped on the head of another Roosevelt.

Nevertheless, these men set a creed of government and a goal for human living which has surpassed anything in the world today. They tried to take the basic principles of Christianity and apply them to the governing of peoples. Christ left to the world the doctrine of the dignity of man. The founding fathers, building in a new, clean world, tried to carry that doctrine out. The philosophy which Jefferson laid down for the guidance and protection of the individual man in the society of men was carried further by Lincoln's crusade to make all men free and equal.

How well we of this generation have succeeded in living up to their great goals will be for others to judge, but at least I think we have tried.

The Age Of Fear

However, in this year 1950, halfway through this modern and amazing century, we are in real danger of bogging down in an "age of fear."

Faced with the awful knowledge that others have the atomic bomb, faced with the fear of the hydrogen bomb, of bacteriological warfare, of new trans-oceanic submarines and trans-Atlantic rockets, we are in definite danger of relapsing into an age of fear, an age when we do not go forward because we are paralyzed with fright.

The symptoms of fear have been all too apparent in recent months—almost ever since President Truman announced that Russia had the atomic bomb. It is a well-known medical fact that fear causes paralysis and lack of decision. When injected into the human body it causes nausea and poison. Injected into the body politic, it has the same effect.

Perhaps that is why we have been so busy looking under State Department beds and worrying about five-year-old mistakes that we fail to look ahead to prevent the mistakes of the future.

Washington and Jefferson had a lot more excuse to succumb to fear than we. They were operating 13 weak and struggling colonies, surrounded by big and avaricious monarchies. But they were so busy pioneering, so busy pushing on to new frontiers, that they didn't have time to be afraid.

Yet we, the most powerful nation in the world, are so busy concentrating on armed defense that either we don't have time, or are too paralyzed with fear to take the offensive.

Ideas, Not Bullets

The Communists today are not fighting with bodies or bullets, but with ideas and men's minds. Bodies and bullets, artillery and airplanes are expensive. Ideas are cheap, though it takes ingenuity, perseverance and courage to use them.

We have sent billions in arms, food and materiel to Europe and the Orient; but we have not accompanied them with ideas. In most cases we have not even stamped them with a mark to let it be known they came from the American people. Sometimes we have stamped them with the initials "UNNRA" or "JRC," but few people know what those initials mean.

Almost never have we spelled out the fact: "These gifts come to you from folks just like you in Wichita, Wenatchee and Waukegan."

One trouble with us—and our allies—is that our arms program leaves no alternative but war. Adequate arms are necessary. But piling arms on top of more arms, with no other objective or alternative in sight, makes people lose hope. They know this leads to war.

Thus, long before war comes, they are paralyzed with discouragement and fear.

Age Of Hope

So perhaps what the world needs today are some new objectives, new goals, and new hope. Perhaps what we need to do is take the great goals which Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt set for us, and extend them beyond our own borders.

We have done a pretty good job of fulfilling those goals in this country, but we have rested on our oars of late in extending their creed to others.

Perhaps we need a new formula, a new means of extending the ideals of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln to the rest of the world, a new vehicle for selling hope.

I am not sure what that vehicle is. But I do know that we must offer ourselves and the rest of the world something more than arms and the inevitable war that comes from sole reliance on arms.

The first world war gave Russia to the Communists. The second war gave Russia half the world. The third world war, if it comes, would leave a chaos in which communism would thrive everywhere.

So let's get away from this age of fear and its sole reliance on armed force. And in subsequent columns I should like to discuss how we can get back to an age of courage, faith and hope.

So They Say

The only way out of the mess into which we are heading is complete political and economic integration of the free world.

"Please settle a question for us," writes a Minneapolis correspondent. "There is no question about how South should have played the hand to make his contract. The only question is whether South was the victim of bad luck or his own bad judgment.

"West opened the jack of hearts, dummy finessed the queen, and East won with the king. East returned a club, and South won with the ace. West dropped the deuce of clubs. South next led a trump, and East took the ace. East then returned the deuce of diamonds.

"At this point, South had to make the right play in diamonds in order to make his contract. He could afford to lose one, but only one diamond.

"After much deliberation, South put up the king of diamonds. He thought that West was more likely to be leading from the ace of diamonds than from the queen. His second point was that if he had only an even chance to guess right on this play, the play of the king (if successful) would give him an extra trick.

"When South's king of diamonds lost to the ace, a diamond return set the contract at once.

"South claims he had been confronted with an out-and-out guess. North claims that if South were a real bridge player he would have known who held the ace of diamonds. This was an easy statement for North to make, since he had been the dummy and had had the chance to look at the hands of the opponents.

"Should South, without being able to look at the hands of the opponents, have known which opponent held the ace of diamonds?"

Yes. South should have known which opponent held the ace of diamonds — without peeking at anybody's hand.

East had already shown up with the king of hearts and the ace of spades. If East also held the ace of diamonds, he surely would have taken some action over North's opening bid of one club. He might have been able to bid one diamond, he might have bid one heart, or he might have doubled. However, he would not have passed.

Since South knew that East had actually passed, he should have realized that East almost surely did not hold the ace of diamonds. With the ace of diamonds thus located in the West hand, South's only chance was to play low on the diamond lead by East.

There was one other indication to add to this deduction from the bidding. After winning the first trick, East did not return a diamond but led a club instead. The club was not an attractive lead and East would not have led the club if he had held anything better to lead. If East had held the ace of diamonds, for example, a diamond return would have seemed much more attractive to him than a club return. East's failure to return a diamond at the second trick was therefore an indication that he did not hold the ace of diamonds.

Science Is Searching For New Chemicals To Kill Off Insects

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

The constant battle against harmful insects, particularly those which cause such important diseases of human beings as malaria, yellow fever, plague and typhus, has made great progress. Control measures aimed at preventing insects from carrying human diseases actively have been pushed for only 50 years.

At first about all that could be done was to drain or destroy the breeding places for mosquitoes by putting fish into the pools where they breed, spraying oily substances over the surface, and measures of a similar nature.

Paris green came along a little later. Other insect-killing substances like pyrethrum have been improved in their killing powers. From the standpoint of the battle against insects World War II was a great success; better chemicals were needed badly and DDT was one of the results of the intensive studies carried out at that time.

DDT is not perfect in all respects—for example, house flies which are exposed to it gradually become resistant. Consequently, the search goes on for new and better insect killers.

But it is not diseases alone which make insects our enemies: the ordinary mosquito bite is uncomfortable enough. The reaction to mosquito bites is not always alike. In some people a bite will cause swelling and severe itching, while in others the reaction is slight and lasts only a short time.

When the mosquito bites, it probably pushes something into the skin but just what this substance is is still a matter of debate. It generally is believed to be similar to the chemical which bees inject when they sting.

There have been tries at making extracts from the mosquito in an attempt to create resistance or immunity in people. These trials, however, have not been wholly successful.

Even if a satisfactory substance could be discovered and prepared for this purpose, the resistance probably would not last very long and would have to be repeated each year and usually would not be worth the effort.

Hundreds of kinds of spiders are found in the Americas, but apparently only one, known as the black widow spider, is likely to produce severe symptoms by biting. This is a shiny coal-black spider, usually marked with bright red or yellow or both. The female is the one responsible for the bites.

MURDER LIQUIDATED

Copyright 1950 by Julius Long NEA Service, Inc.

I

ANOTHER envelope was in my key rack at the Shelby Square, the apartment house honored by my residence. It was 12 noon on the dot as I crossed the apartment foyer, trying to decide if the envelope was like the others. It was. Miss Croft, who was on duty at the desk, reached for the envelope and placed it before me.

"Well, Mr. Corbett! This is getting to be quite a habit, your coming home at noon for your mail! Must be very special mail—from a very special girl!"

Miss Croft tittered. At 47 she was still waiting for the right man, and the bubbling radio beneath the desk emitted a daily diet of soap opera goo. She tittered again as I leered and even tried to blush as I picked up the envelope. I carried it to the elevator and rode upstairs.

Not until I was inside my apartment did I open the envelope. I did so with trembling fingers. I trembled not because I was a swain in love but because I was a very much worried guy. The contents of the envelope slipped from my nervous fingers and fell to the carpet. I stared down at the crisp new $1000 bill.

I picked it up and felt of it. It was genuine, like the other three that had come on the three preceding days. I removed my billfold, took out the three bills and placed the fourth with them. Four grand. It was the first time in my life I had ever had that much money in my possession.

Note that I'm not saying it was the first time in my life I ever had that much money. I didn't feel that this was my money. I had no idea whence it had come. I knew no more about why it had been mailed to me. That's what was giving me the jitters.

The first bill had been in the only envelope in my mail pigeonhole downstairs four days ago. I had come home late in the evening and found the envelope awaiting me. I had been a little curious about it from the start, for ordinarily my mail is addressed in care of the state attorney general's office. The mail service is quicker there and more frequent.

I had opened the letter at once and pulled the first $1000 bill right out. I had quickly thrust it back, looked to see if the clerk on the job had observed it. But the clerk was absorbed in a book. I had taken the contents up to my apartment and examined it with fear and trepidation.

The envelope had been carefully sealed so that the bill could not be worked out with a needle. There had been no note with it, no explanation as to why the anonymous donor had sent it to me. But I had feared the worst.

AS chief investigator in the office of the state attorney general I had been offered many a bribe in the past few years. Perhaps the late Oscar Wilde was correct in saying that conscience is the trade name for cowardice, but whatever the reason for my purity of heart, the fact was that I had never accepted such bribes as were offered me. Perhaps I had never been offered enough.

But this matter of the four $1000 bills was something new in my experience. I suspected that the would-be briber was a shrewd psychologist who appreciated how difficult it is for any one to part with a substantial sum once it has come into his possession. The feel of the four bills in my hand convinced me that losing a tooth would be less painful than parting with them.

How long was this to go on? How many more $1000 bills was I

Not until I was in my apartment did I open the envelope. . . . I stared at a crisp new $1000 bill.

to receive before I learned the nature of the sine qua non expected of me?

I had already racked my brain trying to guess who the anonymous donor could be. Several routine matters were hanging fire in the office, and a few of them might be of enough importance to make such bribery worthwhile. As chief investigator I was in a position to splash a lot of whitewash.

My boss, the Hon. Burton H. Keever, trusted me farther than he would admit to himself. Many times he had gambled his career on my judgment and upon my reports. If I gave a clean bill of health to someone under investigation, Keever accepted my report as final. Such a case had happened during the past week. Keever had considered criminal prosecution of a bankrupt accident insurance company president named McGregor, but my report had caused him to abandon all thought of prosecution.

THE only conceivable answer to the riddle of the four $1000 bills was that someone wanted me to return another clean bill of health. Whoever that someone was, he could not stand investigation. He knew that investigation was inevitable, and he was anticipating it with a bribe. Perhaps the morrow would bring another installment.

Of course one way out would have been to go directly to my boss upon receipt of the first $1000 bill and to have gone to him with each succeeding installment. That was the obvious, the ingenuous course. But, in my years of working as investigator for the Hon. Burton H. Keever I had grown wary of the obvious and ingenuous.

I doubt that Keever is different from other men; he is only a trifle more callous and a considerable more ambitious. His political ambitions are lofty. He rose from the office of the district attorney of Capital County to his present position as attorney general, and his next immediate goal is the governor's mansion. But he listens seriously if some fawning political hack assures him that his ultimate goal is an imposing residence painted entirely in white.

Such a man turns the most casual occurrence to his advantage. He is an opportunist capable of seeing thousands of votes in an incident a less Machiavellian man would ignore. Working constantly for such a character I had become cautious. Any ingenuousness I had ever possessed had been eroded away by the sand-blast of Keever's ambition.

It was true that I could not figure out how he could crucify me for making a clean breast of the matter of the $1000 bills. But I was taking no chances. I had been rudely awakened many times before; I had drunk many a bitter cup of naiveté. The thing to do was to get the thing under control, learn all the angles before I unburdened my soul to Keever.

I thrust the four bills into my pocket, went to the writing desk and placed the envelope with the first three which I had received. I had checked those three envelopes for fingerprints, found only smudges probably left by postal employes and Miss Croft. The envelopes had been postmarked at Capital City at an early hour in the morning. They had all been addressed on a typewriter.

I was certain that they had been addressed to my apartment house because the sender had feared that they might be inadvertently opened in front of curious eyes if they had been directed to the attorney general's office. That fact indicated either that the sender knew the office staff very well or was merely guided by a general cynicism. At any rate I was glad that I had been given no chance to pull that first $1000 bill from its envelope in plain sight of the office help.

IT was agonizing not to be able to guess who the sender was. I could not even guess the sender's motive. I couldn't imagine anyone hating me enough to spend that kind of money to frame me, but I did wonder if some of Keever's big-time enemies sought to ruin him through disgracing me as the recipient of bribes.

Perhaps the sender had a purely selfish motive and expected some service from me after all. If that was the case, sooner or later he would contact me. But that would not happen until the advance payment had been fully remitted. I had a hunch that there would be just one more $1000 bill. That would make an even five grand, a respectable retainer even to a federal judge.

I left my apartment and went downstairs. Miss Croft stopped me with: "There was a call for you this morning. About 10, I think I meant to tell you before."

She leered knowingly.

"You don't know who it was?"

Miss Croft smirked. "She didn't say. It didn't sound like any of the girls who have called you in the past."

Two Indianans Boost Pre-Fabricated Houses Into Big-Time Business Firm

LAFAYETTE, IND. —(NEA)— A pair of enterprising young Indianas are well on their way toward boosting the manufacture of prefabricated homes into the big business arenas.

Ever since federal authorities tried to spur out-put of low-cost "prefabs" in the early postwar days, many companies have been struggling vainly to make a sizable dent in the housing market. Only in the last year have a few begun to achieve real progress.

One of those is the National Homes Corporation headed by the Price brothers, James and George. Starting with a small plant here in 1940, these two have hiked production to a present 28 houses a day—140 a week—and are promising to more than triple that figure in two years.

National Homes has shipped more than 17,000 houses during its brief lifetime, and claims to be the world's largest maker of pre-fabs. Whether true or not, the firm now is producing nearly a third of U. S. output.

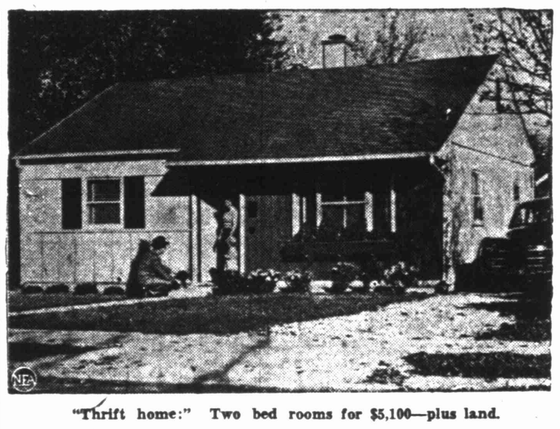
Cost Big Factor

The cost of their product seems to be a big factor in the Price brothers' success. Their two-bedroom "thrift home" sells for $5100—within range of the family earning only $40 a week. They turn out a three-bedroom model for $6300. Cost of the lot is not included.

Says James Price, company president: "The market is limitless. We are building for people who now live in trailer camps, attics and basements."

The government would agree that the market for homes in this price bracket is wide. Housing officials regularly call on the building industry to turn out a $6000 "economy" house that will tap the broad mass demand.

National Homes produces its dwelling units in room-sized sections, with plywood the chief material for exterior and interior walls. Unassembled pre-fabs are shipped from the factory in specially designed trailers which operate over a 500-mile radius. More distant shipments can be made by rail—two houses to a car.



"Thrift home:" Two bed rooms for $5,100—plus land.

Various Designs

The company now offers customers 16 different exterior resigns, eight each for the two-bedroom and three-bedroom models.

A major sticker in expanding pre-fab production always has been dealer trouble. Too often dealers have found it impossible to finance the purchase of enough units to get into business on a large scale.

National Homes gets around this problem by using its 150-man dealer organization to solicit orders before the houses are built in the plant. Thus, dealers do not have to pay for units they may not be able to sell.

Rather than accumulate a backlog of unsold pre-fabs, dealers focus their resources on developing community areas. They install sewers and other utilities, put down streets and sidewalks and landscaping.

Erection of pre-fabs in community groups is relatively new. National Homes soon will start building a 600-unit project at Columbus, Ohio. It has already put up 1000 in Indianapolis and 500 each in Fort Wayne and South Bend, Ind. Many are gathered in compact neighborhood settings.

Fifteen years ago James Price quit farming for a $75 a month job with a defunct bank. He got into real estate through his work in disposing of the bank's property holdings. From there it was a short stride to creating National Homes in 1940 with a meager $12,500 capital.

Gets Big Push

The war gave the company a big push into healthy production. Between 1941 and 1945 National Homes built 7500 units for war workers and military personnel. With the capital amassed in this period, the Price brothers were ready for an ambitious try when peace came. Their early postwar houses sold well, but they felt the $7000-$10,000 price was too high.

Hence was born the present "thrift home" in late 1948, it offers a 12x16 living room, kitchen with built-in sink and cabinets, utility room with water heater and wall furnace, considerable storage and closet space.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation granted National Homes a $6,500,000 working credit in 1947 but thus far the compay has borrowed only $2,000,000 against it. The Prices say the business is sound. But they expect rising production to necessitate further borrowing of at least $800,000.

The Price team wants to reach into the rich housing markets of the Pacific coast and the Atlantic seaboard. They claim they can ship a house to Los Angeles for $30 and still undersell competitors by $1000. And they're talking of establishing a branch plant in New York state.

Those efforts to spread nationwide may be the real test whether prefabricated housing is at last to make the grade as big business.

Relative Of Former Midlanders Killed By Freight Train

Mrs. Ed Baxter, 67, sister of Mrs. A. C. Hefner of Fort Worth and an aunt of Mrs. Lester C. Boone of Odessa, both formerly of Midland, was injured fatally at Santa Anna Sunday morning when she was struck by a fast-moving freight train.

She was walking to church when the accident occurred at a crossing near Santa Anna's Christian Church, according to reports received here. It is believed suction from the train drew Mrs. Baxter into its path. She was dead upon arrival at a hospital. She was walking alone at the time of the accident.

Other Survivors

Mrs. Baxter had resided in Santa Anna and Brownwood most of her life, and was the widow of the late Ed Baxter, former Santa Anna mayor.

Survivors, in addition to Mrs. Hefner and Mrs. Boone, include a daughter, Mrs. H. B. Thompson of Dallas, and three sisters, Mrs. A. R. Brown, Santa Anna, and Mrs. L. Frances Adams and Ruby Vollentine, both of Austin.

Funeral arrangements had not been announced Monday.

Booklet Has Simple Idea For Deodorizing

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The government is offering a new booklet for sale.

The title: "Control of Odors."

The publisher: The Bureau of Standards.

In a foreword the bureau says it "receives many requests for information or advice regarding odors, especially their elimination xxx."

Then, for the price of 10 cents, the bureau reaches a simple conclusion in its 12-page publication:

"The best solution of an odor problem is to find the material that is the source of the odor and remove it, if possible."

Scribe Tells Of Doings Around State

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

Texas doings:

Lewis P. Fore, 68, who lost a leg two years ago, gardens from a wheelchair at his Beaumont home. "I've been growing mustard, turnips, carrots, onions and beets, okra, tomatoes, snap beans, lima beans, sweet corn, blackeyed peas, squash and butter beans," he said. There's also a 100-foot run of zinnias. "You can't take the country out of the boy," Fore chuckled. . . . warm weather note: 900 cases of beer spilled on highway 90, west of Nome, Texas, when a truck trailer unit overturned. . . at Emhouse, Navarro County, a 15-year-old boy ran away from home, riding a white horse and leading a brown colt and heading for New Mexico. The young cowboy traveled only 17 miles before he was caught—victim of one of those newfangled police radio broadcasts.

A justice of the peace rates no special favors in the Corporation Court of Judge T. W. Kelly, especially when the JP is T. W. Kelly. At McAllen, Kelly holds both jobs. Last week corporation judge Kelly fined justice of the peace Kelly $5 for running a red light. This in spite of justice Kelly's brisk argument to himself that he had a right to run the red light since he was heading for the scene of what seemed to be a fatal accident. Corporation judge Kelly took the matter up with police chief Clint Mussey who said, coldly, that he thought justice Kelly ought to be fined. So justice Kelly paid the fine and said: "If anybody thinks I don't hate to part with $5 as much as the next man, he is missing the significance of this historic occasion."

Out at Lubbock, Texas Technological College Student W. J. Neal took a poll and found that 67 per cent of persons interviewed were against having elaborate funerals (for themselves) and that 33 per cent said they wanted an expensive funeral rite. Of 106 persons interviewed, 80 per cent said they didn't mind being buried in a "non-exclusive" section of a cemetery, but the rest declared they positively didn't want to be.

"This is a funny state," E. J. Headlee says in the Denton Record Chronicle. "In East Texas a dugout is a ravine while in West Texas it is a hole in the ground which might be used as a shelter from a tornado, which, by-the-way is usually improperly called a cyclone in East Texas. In East Texas most folks would not know what you were talking about if you said you crossed a 'draw.' In West Texas, that is a big ditch, a gulch or a small creek. In East Texas a pond is a 'tank.' Oh, well, we do not speak English in Texas but we get by surprisingly well when we travel."

Red Whatley Beats Lanham Riley In Calf Roping Match

PADUCAH—Red Whatley, Crosbyton, edged out Lanham Riley, Dublin, by eight-tenths of a second in a roping match here Saturday night. Whatley totaled 117.9 seconds on eight calves while Riley compiled 118.7 seconds.

Riley led Whatley by over nine seconds until the fifth calf on which he used two loops and took 23.5 seconds. The same calf had cost Whatley 19.9 seconds.

Both ropers together averaged a little less than 14.8 seconds per calf. Time per calf for Whatley was 19.9, 11.6, 16.5, 16.3, 13.5, 13.5, 12.6, 12.9.

Riley won first place in the jackpot roping with 11.8 seconds. Joe Gray was second with 12 seconds and Weldon Rutledge came in third with 13.5 seconds.

Pope Pius Completes Canonization Rites

VATICAN CITY —(AP)— Pope Pius XII Sunday completed sainthood rites for little Marine Goretti, "Martyr of Purity" who died at the age of 11 resisting a rapist.

Wearing a blood-red mantle symbolizing martyrdom, the pontiff celebrated the culminating pontifical mass before some 60,000 persons, including 11 cardinals and more than 100 bishops.

The two-part canonization ceremony began Saturday before an estimated 500,000 persons in St. Peter's Square.

City Determining Utility Main Costs

Midland city officials currently are busy determining the cost of construction of all utilities for the new C and D paving projects which soon will begin here.

Officials hope to minimize the tearing up on pavement for new water and sewer connections by making certain all mains are in before the actual paving begins.

The construction will be based on a report made in May by Joe E. Ward, consulting engineer from Wichita Falls.

Sunray Announces New Officers After Barnsdall Merger

TULSA, OKLA. — The agreement providing for the merger of Barnsdall Oil Company with Sunray Oil Corporation has become effective, and the two companies as of June 23 began to operate under the Sunray emblem, it was announced here Monday.

Stockholders of the two companies voted approval of the joining together at the annual meetings on June 19.

The new Sunray board of directors and its officers have been announced as follows—F. B. Parriott, director and chairman of the board; C. H. Wright, director and president; Edward Howell director, vice president and general counsel; Paul E. Taliaferro, director, vice president and assistant to the president; D. R. Snow, director, vice president —exploration and production; F. L. Martin, director, vice president — refining and sales; W. C. Whaley, director, vice president—California division; W. D. Forster, director and secretary; J. K. Ellis, director; Glenn J. Smith, director; Alfred A. Rose, director; A. A. Seeligson, director; D. L. Frawley, director; Don O. Chapell, vice president—manager, exploration; H. O. Harder, vice president — manager, production; L. W. Bennett, treasurer, and Ben L. Young, assistant treasurer. Snow, Whaley and Frawley were former directors and officers of the Barnsdall Oil Company.

Continued Growth

Continuance of the amended existing retirement plan of Barnsdall Oil Company and extension of its benefits to the employes of Sunray Oil Corporation also were approved by the stockholders.

The primary business of the "new" Sunray Oil Corporation is the discovery, development and production of oil and natural gas, and the refining of gasoline, fuel oils, asphalts, etc. The greater part of its activities are concentrated in the states of Arkansas, California, Illinois, Kansas, Louisiana, Mississippi, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Texas and Wyoming.

Organized in 1920, Sunray's original force of 30 employes has grown to more than 2,000, and more than 50,000 stockholders have an interest in the company. As a result of the Sunray-Barnsdall merger, Sunray will have a crude oil production of more than 60,000 barrels per day from 3,800 oil and gas wells, and becomes one of the largest independents in the producing and refining divisions of the oil industry, with assets of more than 260 million dollars.

Trolley Motorman Charged In 'Hit-Run'

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— A trolley left easily-traced tracks in getting away from a hit-run accident, police reported.

By following the trolley line for a mile and a half Sunday, Patrolmen James Metzgar and Walter Clifford overtook the streetcar and arrested the motorman, Albert Vogelman, 41.

Vogelman was charged with "hit-run by trolley." Police said Vogelman's streetcar collided with an automobile at an intersection, and then clanged away from the scene.

'Mama And The Girls' Loom As Next War's Big Problems

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK—(AP)—What are we going to do with mama and the girls if war breaks out again?

Let them pack an M-1 rifle? Not if the vets have their way. The boys generally are dead sot against fighting alongside a brassiere brigade or leading a petticoat patrol across no-man's-land.

The question comes up because la belle femme surely would have to play a greater role than she has in any previous American war. For women today not only outthink men—as always. They now outnumber men, too.

This means they inevitably will be more of a muscle factor in wartime. Rosie the riveter may have to man the factories all by herself, except for codgers too elderly for battle and too bald to be pinup boys.

But what about using women as actual frontline troops? A number of ladies I know say flatly that if another war comes they'll march on Washington if necessary to win the right to shoulder muskets and go overseas with the boys.

Undesirable Whistlers

Some see that as a patriotic duty of their sex. Others have more personal reasons.

"Darned if I'll stay at home and be whistled at for another four years by high school kids and old men in rocking chairs," said a bachelor lady of mature vintage. And a wife explained:

"I'm tired of hearing my husband tell how he won the last war. I want to be able to tell him how I win the next one."

Just how the Department of Defense will react to this feminine militancy is a Pentagon secret. It probably will deploy the girls "according to plan." This is a military term used to cover retreats, victories, band concerts, the promotion of colonels and the outcome of the Army-Navy football game.

But a group of war vets I talked to showed no delight at the prospect of going into battle with women—be they college girls, beauty contest winners, or just someone's dear old grandmother.

Their general verdict:

"War has enough hardships already. That would make it unendurable."

"Yeh," said a European veteran. "The women would start off by saying, 'Just treat me like one of the boys'—and in two weeks they'd be expecting you to stand up and tip your helmet everytime they changed foxholes."

Generals? Well, Maybe

Other comments:

"Imagine coming back to a girl friend who had run a machine gun and wore two more medals than you. What could you talk about?"

"If my wife went into combat I know the Army would put me on a bazooka team with her. That's not war—it's just a kind of outdoor marriage."

"How about a female wrestler? She could carry the base plate for the mortar squad. It's too heavy for an ordinary man."

The boys agreed, however, that they had a wide-open mind on the question of serving in an Army commanded by a woman general.

"What difference does it make whether a general is a woman or a man?" said one. "Who sees him?"

RIDES "LIKE A MILLION"— delivers for less than some sixes

POWER? Sure! Here's a whole bonnetful of Fireball straight-eight power.

Room? Plenty—in big, sofa-wide seats and generous room for elbows and shoulders.

Style? Well take a look—see anything on the road today that is so smart, so sleek, so quickly spotted?

But that's just a start in this beauty. Here you're going to meet the "ride of a lifetime"—smooth, level-going comfort in the quite matchless Buick manner.

Just see why this is so:

Most cars have coil springs in front. Buick has them all around.

Most cars now ride on low-pressure tires: Buick adds to them Safety-Ride rims to cut heel-over and sway.

Most cars drive through the rear springs, which means they have to be stiff. Buick drives through a firm torque-tube that takes up driving thrust and roughness.

And no other car—no, not a single one—has all these comfort extras plus husky frames plus Hi-Poised engine mountings plus middle-of-the-car seating plus the extra silkiness of Dynaflow Drive.*

Worth something? You bet it is. But it's riding luxury that doesn't show up in the price tags. Figures start at levels lower than on many sixes—yet every Buick has this matchless array of ride features.

Better come learn about them—by first-hand trial. Can you see your Buick dealer today?

*Standard on ROADMASTER, optional at extra cost on SPECIAL and SUPER models.

DADDY RINGTAIL

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail And Sniffer Business

Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, sat in the riverboat with Mother Ringtail, Sammy, Bobby, Pattycake, and Mugwump Monkey, too. It was vacation time, and the boat was floating on down the Whispering River where it ran through the Great Forest on its way to the sea.

"Happy vacation!" Daddy Ringtail shouted. "Happy vacation everyone!" And everyone laughed to hear him say it.

But pretty soon Mother Ringtail said: "Daddy Ringtail, do you suppose something's wrong? I think the Whistlesniffer is following us."

Daddy Ringtail listened. Way out on the river somewhere he could hear the Whistlesniffer, whistling and sniffing as he swam along through the water. But the Whistlesniffer of course was a friend. "Of course he's a friend," Daddy Ringtail said, and he smiled when he said it because he really wasn't worried at all.

But Mother Ringtail was afraid that something might be wrong. Said she: "I know the Whistlesniffer's a friend, but he keeps following us, whistling and sniffing, and why would he keep following us, whistling and sniffing, and why would he keep following us — if something isn't wrong?"

Daddy Ringtail didn't know. He put his hand to his mouth and called out across the water. "Oh Whistlesniffer! Oh Mr. Whistlesniffer!" Then he waited, while the whistles and sniffs came closer and closer to the riverboat. "We'll find out about this," Daddy Ringtail said.

And then came the Whistlesniffer, swimming through the water to the riverboat, whistling and sniffing as always. You see he always whistles and sniffs when he isn't swimming at all. "Happy vacation!" whistled and sniffed the Whistlesniffer, and he whistled and sniffed and laughed all at the same time. He did it to show what a happy vacation he wanted it to be. "Oh no!" he whistled and sniffed. "There's nothing wrong, and you shouldn't worry. I'm swimming down the river on Whistlesniffer business." Whistle and sniff.

So Mother Ringtail stopped her worrying about something being wrong, because no one should worry or fret at vacation time. Happy day!

Report Says Business Outlook Bright; Senator Taft Dissents

By DREW PEARSON
(Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — Business in the balance of 1950 faces rosy prospects, according to the Joint Committee on the Economic Report, a committee of senators and representatives created by Congress to make a bipartisan study of the nation's economy.

A copy of this report, still confidential, has been obtained by the Washington Merry-Go-Round and states:

"In the first five months of 1950, prices have generally stabilized or risen; disposal personal income increased in the first quarter to 201.3 billion dollars—an all-time high," according to the report. "Consumers' expenditures have risen, employment has improved and private domestic investments climbed sharply. Also the construction industry has reached an all-time peak. The May, 1950, survey of business expectations made by Dun and Bradstreet, Inc., showed that more businessmen expect increases in sales and net profits than at any other time since July, 1949. These signs point to a renewed upsurge in the economy."

The report cautions, however, that a "favorable short-term picture should not be allowed to obscure the underlying problems and weaknesses that must be corrected if maximum employment, production and purchasing power are to be achieved and maintained in a growing economy year after year."

Taft Objects

This is the report which Senator Taft, a member of the joint committee flatly has refused to sign. At first, Taft accepted the report, which is supposed to be unanimous. Then, with a startling display of frankness, he suddenly remembered he was running for reelection and was supposed to find fault with the Truman Administration.

"This is a nice essay, and I can agree with most of it," Taft told Senator Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, chairman of the joint committee. "But, doggone it, how do you expect me to campaign on a thing like that? I've got to go out and be against everything Truman stands for."

Taft's reaction was a blow to Senator O'Mahoney, who had toned down the committee report in order to obtain unanimity. In fact, he went out of his way to insert in the report the following emphasis on unanimity:

"What happens when the American economy vitally affects the long-range struggle between communism and democracy throughout the world? . . ." the report warns gravely. "Never was agreement more necessary than it is now, for the penalty of failure to reach agreement will be success for the communist cause. Needless to say, that would mean the loss of individual freedom in the economic as well as in the political sphere . . .

"The world peace Americans seek is a peace in which the individual shall be free, in which no dictator either political or economic shall be able to tell him what he must do, but in which the individual, by agreement with his fellows, will continue to devise and enforce rules for strengthening and expanding liberty."

The cost of keeping the peace—by aiding and arming non-Communist nations—is higher "than any military conflict in which the nation was ever engaged prior to World War II," the report declares.

In order to pay off the mortgage for World War II and finance our present peace efforts, the United States must keep up a high level of production and economic activity. For, if civilian income should drop, the government could not raise sufficient revenue. This means building up a market at home for the products of field and factory, as the postwar demand for goods dwindles. This best can be done, the report suggests, by improving the American standard of living.

Danger Signals

The congressional report warns, however, of certain danger signals ahead. For example, industrial output in January, 1950, was down 4.2 per cent below January, 1949, and industrial employment was down 5.4 per cent—in spite of technical advances.

Despite lower wholesale prices, consumer prices are being kept so high that consumer buying power is being undermined—especially in the lowest four-fifths of the income scale. As a result, about 11,000,000 workers seem to have parted with all of their "E" bonds since 1946 and the volume of installment credit is at an all-time high. This indicates many Americans are slipping from the black to the red side of the ledger.

Little businesses also have suffered a steady decline in profits since 1947—as compared with the peak profits reported by General Motors and the big steel companies. The rate of profit for businesses with assets less than $250,000 has declined by more than two-thirds since 1947 and the trend is still downward.

Farm incomes also are falling, though a drop from inflationary to healthy levels is not dangerous. However, it was this same trend that led to the depression following World War I, hence, if farm incomes continue to slide, it will be cause for alarm.

"The conclusion is inescapable that wise public policy demands a continued high level of production in which all groups shall have a responsibility and a share," the confidential report sums up. "Nothing could be more futile now or more destructive of the ultimate aims of the American ideology than a conflict among American economic groups on the domestic scene. Management cannot save itself alone. Labor cannot save itself alone. Agriculture cannot save itself alone. They are all in the same boat together . . . the luxury of special interest and class conflict must be postponed at least until the Cold War has been ended and the United States and the world are once more at peace."

However, Senator Taft still disagreed.

Promise Of Long Fourth Of July Weekend Promises Swift House Action On Tax Bill

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The promise of a long Fourth of July recess was held out to the House Monday as bait for prompt passage of a bill cutting excise taxes by $1,010,000,000.

It's the only controversial major business on the House calendar this week and passage is expected Thursday.

After that the House plans to hang up the "no controversial business" sign for 10 days and let its members get away to their home districts to campain for reelection. It will be the fourth time since January House members have been able to leave Washington to do some political spadework without missing a roll-call.

The Senate, less fortunate than the House as far as holidays have been concerned, might get a long weekend for itself. It is scheduled to pass a $1,200,000,000 foreign military aid bill during the week, with nothing else of major importance now carded.

Korean War Is Threat

International tension over the Korean warfare might change the picture and keep the lawmakers in Washington but for the present, at least, the plans for a long weekend were left unchanged.

A controversy over extension of the draft law could snag the holiday plans also. Unable to agree on the form of extension, Congress jammed through last Thursday a measure keeping the present law intact until July 9. The old law expired at midnight last Friday.

The House has voted for a two-year extension with a ban on actual inductions unless Congress expressly approves by separate action. The Senate passed a three-year extension bill with a ban on inductions unless Congress finds it necessary, but with permission for the President to order inductions in an emergency if Congress is not in session.

Congressional leaders are hopeful a compromise can be worked out this week without the necessity for another stop-gap extension.

With only a few big "must" bills still unfinished, leaders are optimistic about the chances for final adjournment of Congress around August 1.

Senate Calendar Crowded

The Senate still must act on the House-passed $29,000,000,000 omnibus appropriation bill and on the tax bill, in addition to the military aid measure. Its leaders may make one more attempt to obtain approval of a House-passed bill creating a Fair Employment Practices Commission.

On the House docket after the Independence Day holiday are the military aid bill, a bill to permit the Export-Import Bank to finance technical aid to economically retarded foreign countries, and possibly a bill to clear up the status of oil lands under marginal seas as a result of the Supreme Court decision in the so-called Tidelands cases.

Sometime during the coming week the Senate and the House will have to pass a bill providing emergency financing for federal agencies which can't get their new appropriations for the year starting July 1 until the omnibus money bill becomes law.

Texan Dies In North Carolina Road Crash

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. —(AP)— A 23-year-old Texas sailor, Ray Mercer, was killed Saturday night in an automobile accident near here.

State highway patrolmen said the car, driven by Emmitt W. Neel of Loraine, Texas, hit a stone bridge railing. Neel was not hurt seriously.

Both men were stationed aboard the USS English.

Neel said they were enroute from Norfolk to Raleigh.

HOT WEATHER SETS FIRE TO REFRIGERATORS

PATERSON, N. J. —(AP)— It was so hot in Patterson over the weekend that three refrigerators, laboring overtime, burst into flames.

The fire department put each one out with little trouble.

Cops Almost Struck By Flying Saucer

PHILADELPHIA —(AP)— Patrolmen Philip Buley and Albert McTague have seen some genuine flying saucers—in fact they were almost hit by a couple.

Buley and McTague received a riot call from a diner in suburban Upper Darby Sunday. As the two policemen arrived on the scene, they were greeted by a barrage of flying chinaware—including an assortment of saucers.

When Buley and McTague had managed to calm a group of patrons and a waitress, they placed two women and three men under arrest on assault and disorderly conduct charges.

Then Buley went to the hospital. He had been struck on the head during the melee—but not by a flying saucer. It was a bottle.

Legatees Receive Journey To Cuba

NORRISTOWN, PA. —(AP)— Victor Ritter used to think it was too bad the only times most families get together is for funerals.

So when Ritter — a furniture dealer of nearby East Greenville—died last June 16 he left a will which set aside nearly $4,000 to send his 12 nieces and nephews to Havana, Cuba.

Ritter stipulated in his will that any legatee who doesn't want to take the cruise must forfeit the right to a share in his $45,000 estate.

Victor's brother, Wilson of Carlisle, Pa., said Victor reasoned this way in making his will: "The money will be spent fast, but they'll always keep the memory of it. If I gave them cash instead, they'd spend it and five years later wouldn't know what they'd used it for."

VISITING IN ANGELO

Lorraine Collyns, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Collyns, is visiting her grandmother, Mrs. A. E. Collyns, in San Angelo this week. She was taken to San Angelo by her parents Sunday.

Racing Car Kills Mother, Child At New Jersey Track

BERLIN, N. J. —(AP)— A 33-year-old mother and one of her children were killed Sunday at Atco Speed, way by a speeding stock car racer that crashed through a guard rail. Another child was injured seriously.

Several thousand racing fans saw the car, driven by Don McFarland of Horsham, Pa., hurtle through the fence on the track's southeast corner. He was not hurt.

Killed was Mrs. Mary Suggs of Camden and her son, William, six.

The other child, Dolores Suggs, eight, is under observation at Audubon Hospital with a possible skull fracture.

The father, William Suggs, Jr., a truck driver, had taken the family to the races for a day's outing. He was standing not far from his wife and children at the time of the crash.

Tot Throws Doggy Party In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD —(AP)— This was one of the doggiest parties Hollywood ever had.

The hostess was four-year-old Ellen Weisman. It was a birthday party Sunday, not for her but for her eight-year-old cocker spaniels, Potsy and Clem.

The centerpiece on the backyard table consisted of bones, with plenty of meat left on them, garnished with dog biscuits and canine candy.

They counted noses at the height of the festivities and found 42 children and adults, and 21 dogs.

Like many another Hollywood party, there was a dandy fight—dog fight, that is.

Violence Takes Toll Of 17 Or More Texas Lives

By The Associated Press

At least 17 persons died from violent causes in Texas during the weekend.

Traffic accidents caused 10 deaths. Five persons drowned, another was shot to death and a woman was killed in a railroad accident.

The latest deaths include:

Fred Buchanan, Jr., 26, of Comyn, Comanche County, was killed Saturday night and his two companions injured when his pickup truck and a flatbed truck collided 10 miles north of Brownwood.

Roame Christian, 33, negro, drowned Sunday while fishing near Bonham.

Mrs. Lucille Baxter, 67, was killed Sunday when she walked into the side of a moving freight train at Santa Anna.

Wayne A. Chadwick, 25, of Arlington and Lloyd Lawrence Durham, 31, of Colorado City were injured fatally Friday night in a three-way collision 14 miles south of Mineral Wells.

Drowns In Frio

Filberto Ybanez, 18, drowned Saturday afternoon in the Frio River near Three Rivers.

James Edgar Carter, 25, of Dallas, died after his motorcycle and a car collided.

Adeline Thomas was shot to death in a crowded city bus at Amarillo Sunday night. Another woman was held.

Leland M. Pryor of Pasadena, Calif., died several hours after he was in a head-on automobile collision four miles east of Colorado City Saturday. Four other persons were injured.

An unidentified man was killed Saturday night when two trucks collided near Sulphur Springs.

Struck By Freight Train

Willie Solis, 22, died Sunday after his automobile was struck by a freight train at Hondo.

Edwin Prinz, 22, a Fort Worth aircraft worker, drowned Sunday while swimming at Lake Texoma.

A three-car collision five miles south of Victoria Sunday killed two Corpus Christi residents and injured six persons. Dead were Martin Lamont James, Jr., age six, and Robert Dale Lawrence, 26.

Two men drowned Sunday in the San Antonio River four miles southeast of Southton while on a fishing party. Witnesses said Mario Mendoza, 15, fell into the water, and his uncle, Edward M. Mendoza, 26, drowned in an attempt to rescue him.

Barney Johnson, 52, died Sunday night of injuries received Saturday night when struck by an automobile while walking to his home in Galveston.

Scene Of Accident Buzzes With Activity

ORANGE, CALIF. — (AP) — The scene of a truck and freight train collision here literally was turned into a bee-hive of activity Sunday.

The Highway Patrol said a truck driven by E. C. Cantrell of Buena Park rammed into a tank car behind the locomotive of a Southern Pacific train. The truck was loaded with beehives.

Cantrell and Eugene Drake, his passenger, lay unaided in the shattered truck. Bystanders were unable to approach because of the bees.

Five beekeepers finally were called in, and the men were removed to a hospital.

Bossy Loses 400 Pounds During Six Weeks In Sinkhole

SMYRNA, TENN. —(AP)— Red can walk in the sun again and munch the grass and feed that may restore the 400 pounds she lost.

The five-year-old Jersey cow fell into a dank, 10-foot-deep sink-hole six weeks and two days before she was pulled out by an auto wrecker Sunday.

Bobby and Thomas Maxwell heard some mournful moos as they walked across a field Saturday. "That sounds like Red," they said. They saw the sinkhole, looked in, and there she was.

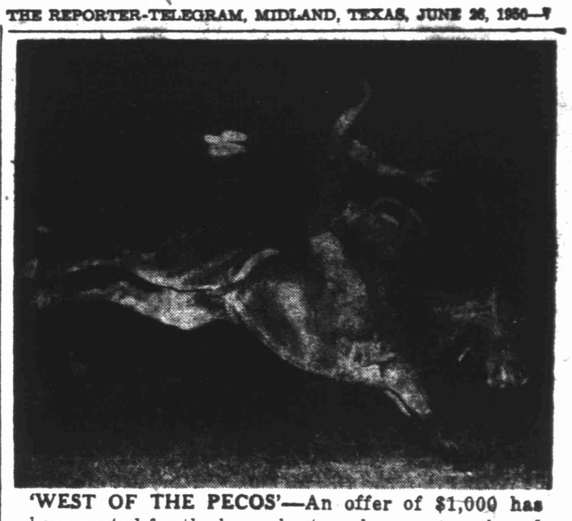
Their father, Sidney Maxwell, thought his cow had been stolen when she disappeared May 12.

Thirty persons gathered for the rescue. A chain of grass sacks was fitted under Red and the wrecker hoisted her out.

"She looked like a skeleton," said Leslie Wright, an electrician. "We started pulling weeds and grass and she ate it all and walked away."

Maxwell said the cow had wasted away from 900 to 500 pounds.

But Red, somewhat more content, bedded down in dry, clean straw in the barn Sunday night.



'WEST OF THE PECOS'—An offer of $1,000 has been posted for the bronc buster who can stay aboard "Pecos" for more than two jumps at any performance of the annual Pecos Rodeo, July 1-4. The bronc is said to be one of the roughest and toughest ever seen in West Texas.

Parade Saturday Will Open Big 'West Of Pecos' Rodeo

PECOS—The shades of old Trav Windham and Mort Livingston, imporial trans-Pecos pioneers and participants in the world's first rodeo, well may be looking on when the twenty-second annual "West of the Pecos" rodeo takes place here on the nights of July 1, 2, 3 and 4. For the present rodeo will be held just a few hundred yards from the site of that original rodeo which took place on July 4, 1883.

Residents of a wide area of West Texas and New Mexico heard all about the Pecos rodeo last week, when rodeo enthusiasts of Pecos made a series of trade trips advertising the show.

"West of the Pecos"—a wild untamed bronc is to be one feature of the big show. A cash award of $1,000 has been posted for the buster who can stay aboard "Pecos" for more than two jumps.

The Buetler Brothers of Elk City, Okla., again are producing the Pecos show. There are six thousand grandstand seats for the crowd and the Pecos rodeo arena is considered one of the finest in the country.

All of the shows will start at 8 p.m. On opening day, Saturday, a colorful rodeo parade will march through the streets of Pecos. The Air Force Band from San Angelo, the Pecos High Band, and the Sul Ross College Band will be in the line of march. There will be hundreds of cowboys and cowgirls and many old wagons, buggies and other relics of the old West.

Odessa Takes Two Games From Tribe

The Midland Indians wind up their series with the Odessa Oilers Monday night at Odessa.

The Tribe returns home Tuesday night to open a two-game set with the Ballinger Cats in Indian Park. Vernon will follow the Cats here, giving the Indians a four-day home stand this week.

ODESSA—The Odessa Oilers swept both ends of a doubleheader from the Midland Indians Sunday afternoon in Oiler Park to take a three to none edge in the series which opened here Saturday night. The Oilers romped to an 8-1 decision in the first game and came back with a 4-3 win in the nightcap.

Ken Carley, hurling the first tilt for Midland, let the Oilers in for five runs in the fifth inning of the opener. That was enough for Lefty Miller, Odessa hurler, as he protected it well.

Midland's only run came in the third to knot the score momentarily. Odessa added two in the fourth and then broke out with the five-run burst. Emil Ogden and Leo Eastham clouted homers to spark Odessa's attack.

Second Game

John Singleton chunked the finale for Midland and held the Oilers to five hits but he walked in the winning run.

Odessa took a 3-0 lead in the fourth but an Indian rally had tied the score in the fifth.

Lou Dawson opened with a single and Bob Phillion followed with another. Singleton walked to load the bags. Scooter Hughes slammed a single to score Dawson and Phillion. Frank Duggar then walked Jim Prince and George Firnback to force in the third run.

The fatal fifth was all the Oilers needed. They loaded the bags and Singleton walked Bill Cearley to force in the winning tally. Miller relieved Duggar and held the Indians in check.

Darkhorses Rule In National PGA Meet; Semi-Finals Monday

COLUMBUS, OHIO —(AP)— The $40,000 National PGA Golf Tournament is making a farce of the old axiom that youth must be served.

There are no youngsters (in the 20-year-old classifications) left in the meet Monday. Usually the six-day grind sends the older pros to the sidelines.

This 1950 meet on the long, 7,032-yard Scioto Country Club course has become, generally, a race of darkhorses.

Into the 36-hole semi-finals go Henry Picard, responding like an old fire horse; Henry Williams, Jr., of Secane, Pa.; Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and rainbow-hued Jimmy Demaret.

The youngest in the 36 holes of match play Monday is Williams, 33.

The semi-finals send Demaret against Harper and Picard after Williams.

Picard advanced by trouncing Johnny Palmer, 1949 runner-up, 10 and 8 in Sunday's 36-hole quarter-final session.

Williams fought off a closing round rally to whip Dave Douglas of Wilmington, Del., 1-up.

Demaret came home in the last 18-hole stretch to oust Ray Gafford of Dallas 5 and 4.

Harper cinched a 1-up surprising win over Lloyd Mangrum.

Johnny Craft Eyes Trans-Miss Crown

OMAHA —(AP)— Johnny Kraft would like to celebrate his twenty-first year of tournament golf with another Trans-Mississippi championship.

The Denver schoolmaster is back for another fling at the title he won in 1942.

Johnny, 5 feet 7 1/2 and 143 but who says "Don't ask my age" (about 48, almost got a second Trans-Miss title in 1948. He was runnerup. Naturally, he'd like to do better at Omaha's 6,827-yard Happy Hollow Club this week.

Kraft believes anybody can win now that Charles Coe of Ardmore, Okla., the National Amateur champ, has decided not to defend his Trans-Mississippi crown.

The entry deadline was extended until Monday afternoon after 110 contestants had registered. The championship flight has 128 places. There will be championship playoffs Tuesday to cut the field to 64.

DUTCH BOXER KILLED

ROTTERDAM, THE NETHERLANDS —(AP)— Jean Remie, 26, Dutch lightweight boxer, died Monday after a prize fight with Jan Nicolaas for the Dutch title. It was Holland's first fatal boxing accident in 25 years.

HANDSHAKE FOR NEW BOSS — Veteran Steve O'Neill, left, new manager of the Boston Red Sox, receives congratulations from a top hand, slugger Ted Williams. O'Neill, who has piloted the Cleveland Indians and the Detroit Tigers, succeeds Manager Joe McCarthy, who retired because of ill health from a career as baseball's most successful manager. The manager switch found the Red Sox in St. Louis.

by SHORTY SHELBURNE

Tom O'Barr, the Abilene High School hurler, pitched one of the best baseball games we have seen this year when he stopped the Joe's Gulf nine of Midland Saturday night in the Semi-Pro Tournament at Indian Park.

O'Barr, hurling for the Odessa All-Stars, showed the stuff that has made major league scouts camp on his door step.

The tall righthander is fast and breaks some good curves in there.

—SS—

Since the Midland Glaziers advanced to the tournament finals with their second victory in a row Sunday, it might be that O'Barr will oppose Midland's Frank Roberson in a duel next Sunday.

Roberson hurled a six-hitter Saturday to win the first-round tilt for the Glaziers.

The Odessa team plays the Ackerly A's next Saturday in the championship bracket semi-finals. The winner of that one will be pitted against the Glaziers for the championship Sunday.

A Frank Roberson-Tom O'Barr duel or a Roberson-Bobby Beall mound match would be tops.

—SS—

An all-district team will be selected from the tournament teams and to the players selected will go certificates from the National Baseball Congress. All will be players who never have played professional baseball.

It's a good bet that Dwight Fleming, the hustling catcher for Joe's Gulf, will be named for one spot. He was the hit of the day Saturday.

Little Jack Rogers, catching for the Glaziers, also has performed like a champion behind the plate.

—SS—

Speaking of voting for all - star teams, Inez Hedges of 411 North Fort Worth Street thinks it's mighty hard to pick a Longhorn League team.

She says, in a letter which accompanied her ballot:

"It's awfully hard to pick just five players from the Indians because they all are good. I think, the best in the league.

"Even though we aren't in first place or second or even third. I still wouldn't trade any of the Indians for any other players in the league.

"By the end of the season I believe Midland will be on top again but if we should even come out on the bottom, I'm still for the Indians one hundred per cent."

—SS—

Bobby Rose, ex-Indian infielder, may be putting in here any day now looking for a job.

Rose Sunday was cut off the roster by Borger to make room for a pitcher.

He was with Pampa part of the season.

Longhorn League—
Odessa Passes 50 Mark In Victories

By The Associated Press

Odessa passed the 50 mark in Longhorn League victories Sunday, strapping Midland 8-1 and 4-3 in a doubleheader. It brought the string to 51 games and put the Oilers eight games ahead of second-place Roswell.

Two homers sparked a 10-hit attack in the opener with Emil Ogden getting one and Leo Eastham the other. In the nightcap John Singleton walked in a run in the fifth to furnish the margin by which Odessa won.

Roswell walloped San Angelo 14-4. Frank Hill scattered seven hits, struck out 13 and socked a two-run homer for the victors.

Big Spring beat Sweetwater 5-2 with Bert Baez pitching a six-hitter while notching his eighth win of the season.

Vernon and Ballinger split a doubleheader. Ballinger won the first game 7- 6 with a double by T. U. Williams driving in the deciding tally in the eighth. In the second game Vernon came through 4-2 with a three-run homer by Dick Tross shoving the Dusters to victory.

MAJOR LEAGUES—

Five Men Smash Pair Of Homers In Big Leagues

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Quick now, baseball fans, what is a bunt?

Silly question? Not at all. In this era of the lively ball the bunt, along with the stolen base, hit-and-run and squeeze play, is becoming as extinct as the dodo bird.

Why lay down a sacrifice bunt when King Homer sits on the throne and every pitched ball has a four-base label on it?

Never have the poor pitchers pounded so unmercifully as in the last four days. Since Thursday unsympathetic batters have slammed them for 111 homers including 31 Sunday.

Clouts Two Homers

Five players hit a pair of homers Sunday. They were Ralph Kiner, Pittsburgh; Hank Sauer, Chicago Cubs; Larry Doby and Ray Boone, Cleveland, and Eddie Joost, Philadelphia Athletics.

It was a three-run homer by Hoot Evers in the last of the eighth that gave the Tigers a 6-3 second game victory and a split of their doubleheader with the Yankees. Homers by Joe DiMaggio and Hank Bauer helped Eddie Lopat and the Yankees win the opener against Hal Newhouser 8-2.

The split left the American League leading Tigers still three games in front of the runnerup Yankees.

The climbing Cleveland Indians were stopped by Washington 5-3 after winning the opener of a doubleheader 7-6, for their fifth straight. Four homers, capped by Al Rosen's grand slammer in the eighth, won the first game for Early Wynn.

Red Sox Come Alive

The Red Sox swept a pair from St. Louis 11-5 and 8-2 to give them four straight over the Browns—all under the management of Steve O'Neill. Walter Masterson pitched his first complete game for the winners.

Philadelphia's Athletics defeated the Chicago White Sox 13-4 in the second game of a doubleheader. The Sox won the opener 7-6.

Philadelphia's Phils rose within a half game of the National League leading Dodgers by dividing a twin-bill with Chicago while the Pirates were thrashing Brooklyn 16-11. The Phils won the second game 2-1 after the Cubs had won the opener 11-8.

Vern Bickford, Boston righthander, blanked the St. Louis Cardinals 4-0 and the Cincinnati Reds swept a twin-bill from the Giants 6-3 and 6-4.

Richie Ashburn's single with the bases loaded and two in the bottom of the ninth enabled Philadelphia's Robin Roberts to earn a pitching duel from Bob Rush for his ninth triumph.

Ewell Blackwell gained his fifth triumph for the Reds in the first game while Frank Smith won his first game of the season in the nightcap against the Giants.

Midlanders Cop Honors In Tourney

ODESSA—Calvin Rhodes of Dallas defeated Tommy Roberts of Hobbs, N. M., 1-up Sunday to win the Odessa Country Club Invitation Golf Tournament.

Roane Puett of Midland fell to Arlyn Scott of Odessa in the championship flight consolation finals. Puett made it a close battle.

Julian Muller of Midland copped the fifth flight, H. C. Jones of Midland won the sixth flight and Earl Wilson of Midland was runner-up in the third flight.

Barker, Ligon Shine

Midland golfers took over in the senior flight for golfers more than 50 years of age.

Bill Barker, a crack Midland Country Club linksman, won the medal play event with a total score of 231 for three 18-hole rounds.

Vann Ligon, also of MCC, finished second with a 233.

Graham Mackey, a top-notch young Midland player, lost to Bill Roden of Odessa in the championship flight semi-finals.

City Major Loop Slates Two Games

Monday night's City Major League softball schedule sends Shell against Rotary Engineers at 7:45 p.m. and Rendezvous against Standard in the nightcap at Wadley Field.

An Optimist League game is slated at 6 p.m.

Glasses Win Skeet Honors At Abilene

ABILENE—George Glass, Sr., of Midland Sunday finished second to Herman Ehler of Dallas in the .410-gauge division of the State Open Skeet Shoot here. Ehler broke 48 to 47 for Glass.

George Glass, Jr., of Midland won Class B in the event.

The senior Glass copped the Class B division in the small bore event.

McKINNEY COPS RIVERCREST

FORT WORTH —(AP)— Bud Mckinney of Dallas defeated Don Matheson of Fort Worth 6-5 Sunday to win the twenty-fifth River Crest Country Club Invitation Golf Tournament.

Oakmont Club Gets 1951 PGA Tourney

COLUMBUS, OHIO —(AP)— Historic Oakmont Country Club near Pittsburgh, Pa., scene of numerous national golf tournaments, Monday was awarded the 1951 PGA Championship.

The Dapper Dan Club of Pittsburgh will sponsor the event from June 28 to July 4, with a record $45,000 prize list.

NEW NCAA GOLF PRESIDENT

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. —(AP)— The Rev. George Holdrith of Notre Dame is new president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association Golf Coaches' Association. He was elected Sunday night to succeed Bert Katzenmeyer of Michigan. Fred Cobb of North Texas was named first vice president.

Max Harris Pitches Win In Championship Bracket

Two Midland teams copped decisions Sunday and advanced to the finals in the National Baseball Congress District Semi-Pro Tournament being held at Indian Park.

The Mid-West Glass and Paint Company's Glaziers whipped the Grandfalls Eagles 8 to 5 in a championship bracket semi-finals tilt with Lefty Max Harris, ex-Midland High School and Midland Indian hurler, going the route. The win rocketed the Glaziers to the finals, where they will battle for the West Texas District title next Sunday afternoon.

The Midland Colts sent Francisco Campos to the hill in Sunday's consolation bracket semi-finals tilt and he stopped the Hobbs Oilers by a 9 to 5 count.

Campos gave up 12 hits but he scattered them well. The Colts supported him with a 19-hit attack.

The Glaziers will meet the winner of the Odessa Stars-Ackerly A's tilt, scheduled next Saturday afternoon, for the district title.

Colts In Finals

The Colts take on the winner of the Joe's Gulf-Midland Cats tilt, scheduled Saturday afternoon, for the consolation bracket championship. The finals are slated at 8 p.m. Saturday in Indian Park.

The Glaziers hopped on Pinkey Puckett for six runs in the third inning in Sunday's game and coasted in. A triple by Bull Whitson and singles by Marion Tredaway and Max Harris sparked the rally.

The Grandfalls team will battle for the third-place money next Sunday afternoon.

The good hurling of Campos and the hitting of Jesus Carrasco put the Midland Colts on the winning track. Martin, Nunez and Chavez also were handy with the stick.

Chavez doubled with the bases loaded in the fifth to spark a four-run Colts rally off Manager J. T. Williams, who hurled for Hobbs.

Saturday, Sunday Slate

The schedule next Saturday sends Joe's Gulf against the Midland Cats in the consolation semi-finals at 2 p.m. and the Odessa Stars against Ackerly in championship semi-finals immediately following.

Saturday night, the Colts and winner of the afternoon consolation tilt meet at 8 p.m. for the championship trophy in that division.

Sunday afternoon, Grandfalls and the loser of Odessa-Ackerly play at 2 p.m. for third place honors in the championship bracket.

The title game for the district championship and the right to enter the state tournament is slated immediately following the third-place game.

The Glaziers will oppose the winner of the Odessa-Ackerly game for the title.

WT-NM League—
Lubbock Holds To Half-Game Margin

By The Associated Press

The West Texas-New Mexico League race stayed as tight as a drum Monday with daylight between the top teams.

Both first-place Lubbock and second-place Pampa won Sunday and Lubbock held a half-game bulge over the Oilers.

Lubbock beat Amarillo by a football score — 31-20. The Hubber shelled five Amarillo pitchers for 25 hits while Amarillo pounded 21. It required almost three and a half hours to play the game.

Pampa walloped Borger 17-6 with five homers in the first four innings. Roy Parker, the winning pitcher, got one of the homers and limited Borger to six hits. Pap Williams of Borger hit his twenty-third circuiter.

Third-place Lamesa licked Clovis 13-9, Bo Dempsey's home run with two on base furnishing the punch in the ninth.

Albuquerque whipped Abilene 10-6 although the Blue Sox got 15 hits. Bob Spence kept them well-scattered.

Texas League—
Three Clubs Tied For Fourth Place; Cats Far In Front

By The Associated Press

There's a traffic jam in the middle of the Texas League but it won't last long.

As of Sunday night, three clubs—Oklahoma City, Beaumont and Dallas—were tied for fourth place. Monday night Oklahoma City moves into Dallas so at least one of them will fall out.

But for the nonce the gold-plated Dallas Eagles are feeling quite gay. They have won five of their last six games. They beat Houston 10-6 Sunday night.

Beaumont clubbed Oklahoma City 18-12 to bring about the triple tie for the last spot of the first division.

Fort Worth's top-running Cats broke a four-game losing streak to trip San Antonio 5-4 in 13 innings and maintain their seven - game lead over second-place Tulsa, which whipped Shreveport 9-6.

Fort Worth won the battle in thrilling style. Tommy Tatum hit a home run with one out in the last of the thirteenth to bring the victory. Chris Van Cuyk, who went the route, notched his twelfth pitching triumph.

It was Fort Worth's twenty-fourth one-run victory of the season. The Cats have lost nine by one tally.

Beaumont slashed out 20 hits in beating Oklahoma city, a game that saw the lead change hands four times. The Roughnecks got five runs the seventh to put them out front to stay. Oklahoma City pounded 15 hits.

Dallas outslugged Houston to win the series finale with Elvin Stabelfeld spacing nine hits effectively. Jerry Witte, the Dallas cast - off, finally got a home run. Witte hit 50 for Dallas last year then was sold to Rochester. Houston picked him up and his first appearance at Dallas brought out a lot of extra fans. But it wasn't until the last game that he could poke one over the fence. It didn't do any good, however.

Earl York homered in the first inning with one on and Jack Baumer clubbed one in the fifth with a mate aboard as Tulsa jumped in front and led Shreveport all the way in sweeping the three - game series.

who dashed through the community knocking on doors to warn residents.

Property damage is expected to run high. In West Union, 200 homes were destroyed. City officials at Weston, 25 miles to the southeast on the West Fork River, estimated the damage there at $2,000,000.

All of Weston except sections on the hillsides was under water at one time.

Two of the victims at Berea, Mrs. Clara Bee, 70, and her brother, William Gribble, 72, of Cleveland, lost their lives trying to warn the other four who died there.

Brother, Sister Drown

Mrs. Bee and Gribble, who was in Berea on a visit, tried to reach the home where Mrs. Grover Koontz, 65, lived with her two grandchildren., Lester Sullivan, 10, and Wilda Sullivan, eight, and Mrs. Hobart Brake.

Brother and sister were caught in the flood. Residents of the town told of hearing them scream as the surging water carried them away.

At Weston, fireman had to chop a hole in the roof to evacuate Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Peters and their four children, who had fled to the attic of their home. The water still was climbing and they had no avenue of escape.

At Troy, to the south in Gilmer County, an 80-year-old couple was rescued from an upstairs bedroom. They were standing on the bed with water lapping at their knees.

Ira Reed, a merchant in Troy, said "Most of us had time to run to the hills when it struck."

Two Injured In Automobile Accident

Two Midlanders were treated Sunday afternoon at Western Clinic-Hospital for injuries received in an automobile accident at West Missouri and F Streets.

Jack White, 508 Banner Street, and Truman Copeland, 922 North Loraine Street, were occupants of the car. They were treated for abrasions and contusions, and dismissed after treatment.

Collapsed Bridge Derails Freight Cars

MT. PLEASANT, TEXAS —(AP)— Eighteen cars of a Cotton Belt freight train were derailed Sunday when a bridge collapsed at a Sulphur River crossing near Naples, 13 miles west of here.

No one was injured.

Yardmaster Grant Baldwin at Texarkana said the accident occurred when a strap around a car of poles broke and some of the poles struck the bridge.

Cotton

NEW YORK—(AP)—Monday noon cotton prices were 40 to 85 cents a bale higher than the previous close. July 33.60, October 32.28 and December 32.79.

Plane Crash—

of human bodies gave some support to this explanation, but it was doubtful whether it could ever be proved.

A Coast Guard patrol boat from the South Haven, Mich., station came upon the gruesome evidence after a long search of the lake by fleets of planes and boats.

The Coast Guardsmen found a part of a woman's skull, part of a man's back, and a piece of human stomach flesh.

In addition, they reported picking up blankets marked "NW," life jackets and parts of life jackets, and a plane log and maintenance report.

The discoveries were made 12 miles northwest of here and six to eight miles off shore. At that point the lake is 110 feet deep.

Chief Boatswain's Mate Frank Rydlewicz, commander of the South Haven Guard Station, said he was certain the findings were from the lost plane.

NWA flew a group of executives here for the investigation.

The airline also announced it will give accommodations to kin of the victims who want to come here.

The plane carried 55 passengers and a crew of three.

West Texas Oil And Gas Log—

Terry County, is preparing to run a drillstem test on a 30-foot section of new hole at 9,731-61 feet.

This development had a recovery of 74 barrels of clean oil during a three-hour drillstem test at 9,697-9,730 feet. Gas came to the surface in 55 minutes and continued for a good blow for the remainder of the period.

No formation water was developed. Gravity of the oil was 41 degrees. Open flowing bottom hole pressure at the end of the three hour test was 750 pounds. Shutin bottom hole pressure, after 15 minutes was 4,000 pounds.

Reef Top Picked

Top of the reef lime was picked at 9,705 feet. That gives it a datum of minus 6,428 feet.

After that test the project cored at 9,731-61 feet. Recovery was 28 1/2 feet of white limestone. That core is now being analyzed and the core hole reamed out preparatory to running the drillstem test.

Location is 660 feet from north and east lines of section 39, block DD, John H. Gibson survey. It is three miles southeast of Wellman and 10 miles southwest of Brownfield.

Scurry Wildcat To DST In Ellenburger

Standard - Fryer Drilling Company, Kingwood Oil Company, and associates, No. 1 G. Harrell, Northeast Scurry County wildcat, 10 1/2 miles northeast of Snyder, and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 81, block 2, H&TC survey, entered the Ellenburger at 7,464 feet, according to a tentative, unofficial call.

It had logged no shows of oil or gas in penetrating to 7,480 feet and was making more hole.

Elevation is 2,321 feet to give the exploration a datum of minus 5,143 feet on that marker.

It has not reported having encountered any shows of possible production in any of the upper beds.

Operators will explore the full Ellenburger section.

Devonian Water Is Developed In Gaines

Samedan Oil Corporation No. 2-D-E-A Andrews, outpost to the Robertson multipay field in Central-South Andrews has developed sulphur water in the Devonian, and operators have decided to plug back and test for commercial production in the Fullerton, rather than to deepen to the Ellenburger pay in that area.

The No. 2 Andrews, southwest offset to the opener of the Devonian and Ellenburger pays in the Robertson field, recovered 6,800 feet of clear sulphur water 2,700 feet of drilling mud and salt water cut mud in a drillstem test at 10,125-155 feet. No shows of oil or gas were developed.

Top of the Devonian was picked at 10,120 feet on a minus datum 6,-787 feet. This is low to the No. 1 Andrews, which developed flowing production from a thin layer in the Devonian at 10,062-90 feet.

Instead of deepening to the possible Ellenburger pay, which was also productive in the No. 1 Andrews, operators have decided to plug back to the Fullerton where 375 feet of clear oil was recovered on a drillstem test at 7,050-7,132 feet.

The No. 2 Andrews is 660 feet from south and east lines of the northeast quarter of section 19, block A-24, psl survey.

C-E Reeves To Get Shallow Prospector

John W. Byrd has staked a 1,600-foot wildcat in extreme Central-East Reeves County, 21 miles east-southeast of the town of Pecos.

Byrd No. 1 S. E. Ligon and Byrd is to be 330 feet from south and west lines of section 30, block C-3, psl survey.

The shallow venture is approximately one and one-half miles west and slightly north of a 1,230-foot dry hole drilled by the same operator some years ago.

Operations on the proposed venture are to begin immediately.

Edge Site Staked To SE Loving Pay

Donnell Drilling Company has staked its No. 1 J. J. Victor on the west edge of the Wheat-Delaware sand pool in Southeast Loving County.

Drillsite is 1,662 feet from southeast and 2,323 feet from northeast lines of section 4, block 2, W&NW survey.

The venture will be approximately three miles northwest of Mentone. Slated depth is 4,400 feet, which will tap the Delaware pay in the area.

No Signs Developed By Lynn Wildcat

J. H. Snowden of Fort Worth and associates, No. 1 Williams, Central-East Lynn County wildcat, 15 miles east and slightly north of Tahoka, failed to show any signs of production in a drillstem test at 8,556-76 feet in the Pennsylvanian lime.

The tool was open two hours. Recovery was 135 feet of drilling mud, with no shows of oil, gas or water. The prospector is coring deeper.

The top of the Pennsylvanian lime was called at 8,521 feet. That gives it a datum of minus 5,567 feet on that point. No shows of possible production have been reported from the section between 8,521 feet and 8,556 feet.

The venture is contracted to 10,000 feet to explore the Ellenburger.

Location is 660 feet from east and 1,980 feet from south lines of section 1407, block 1, EL&RR survey.

Tex-Harvey Area To Get Another Project

On the northeast edge of the Tex-Harvey-Spraberry pool in Central-East Midland County, Joe Rosenthal of Fort Worth has staked his No. 1-10-A B. W. Floyd Estate.

Drillsite will be 660 feet from north and west lines of the northeast quarter of section 10, block 37, T-3-S, T&P survey. This places it 15 miles southeast of the city of Midland.

Slated depth is 8,500 feet. Operations are to begin immediately.

Magnolia Stakes Reinecke Offset

Magnolia Petroleum Company is to begin operations in the immediate future on its second exploration in the Reinecke-Canyon field of Southeast Borden County.

Magnolia No. 2 H. H. Toombs is to be 660 feet from east and south lines of the northwest quarter of section 52, block 25, H&TC survey.

Drillsite is one-half mile west and slightly north of the Pan American Production Company No. 1 Holley, blazing oil well in the center of the Reincke field.

Slated depth for the proposed venture is 7,000 feet.

Priests Arrested, Vatican Radio Says

VATICAN CITY —(AP)— Vatican Radio said Monday that nearly 1,-000 priest, monks and nuns were rounded up in Budapest June 9 and transported to concentration points.

The Vatican speaker said secret police of the Communist regime, which recently intensified its measures against the Catholic Church in Hungary, raided monasteries and convents during the night.

They rounded up 322 priests and monks — including 90 jesuits and 600 nuns.

Vatican Radio said the police climbed convent walls in the dead of night, entered through windows and in some instances smashed down doors. Each arrested persons was permitted to take only ten pounds of personal possessions.

KEEPING TRACK OF THE TRACTOR—The newest Ford tractors now come off the Detroit, Mich., assembly lines equipped with the "Proof-Meter" (see inset), an instrument that takes the guesswork out of tractor operation. The multiple meter shows engine speed, tractor speed, power take-off speed, belt pulley speed and total hours worked by tractor. By careful bookkeeping a farmer can use these data to figure his costs.

Three Midlanders, Andrews Man Hurt In Two-Car Crash

ANDREWS.—Three Midland residents and an Andrews man were injured in the collision of two automobiles at 8:30 p. m. Sunday five miles north of here on Highway 51.

J. W. Hudgins, an employe of the Lone Star Cabinet Company in Midland, his wife and a daughter, Eunice, were the Midlanders injured.

T. S. Catlett of Andrews was in the other automobile.

The Hudgins' all suffered bone fractures and were transferred to an Abilene hospital for special attention following emergency treatment in an Andrews hospital.

Mrs. Hudgins was injured more seriously than the others. She suffered a compound fracture of the right leg and a fracture of the right arm and multiple lacerations of the face and body.

Shattered Elbow

Hudgins received a shattered right elbow and multiple lacerations.

The daughter, 16, suffered a chipped jaw bone and cuts.

Catlett, a driller for a major oil company, suffered a broken leg and numerous cuts and abrasions of the face and body.

The accident occurred as Catlett was passing another automobile. The Hudgins car, traveling south, smashed into the side of Catlett's car as he tried to take the ditch on the left side of the road when he discovered the Hudgins vehicle bearing down on him.

Investigating officers said both automobiles were total losses.

Oil Field Workers Injured In Blow-Out

Two Odessa oil field workers, Lee D. Martin and Don C. Johnson, were injured early Sunday when a well near Rankin blew out.

The two men, both employed by Oscar Bourg of Odessa, were working on a drilling rig in the Benedum field, on a Shell Oil Company well, at the time of the accident.

They were rushed to Western Clinic Hospital by ambulance and given emergency treatment. Both were admitted to the hospital. Martin, a driller, received head injuries, a fractured left arm and burned eyes.

Johnson, a roughneck, was cut about the head, injured his right hip and suffered burned eyes.

Doctors reported their condition as good.

Kiwanis Club Sees Movies At Meeting

Midland Kiwanis Club members saw two color movies at their regular Monday noon meeting in the Crystal Ballroom of Hotel Scharbauer.

The movies were shown by President Albert Kelley. One, produced by Harding college, showed the virtue of the American Democratic system, as opposed to the lures held out by "isms." The second film, "The Dawn of Better Living," produced by Westinghouse, showed the development of electric service in American homes.

Attending the meeting were 47 members and four guests. President Kelley presided.

Piano Mover Takes Stock Of Situation

SWAMPSCOTT, MASS. —(AP)— Cows that need a lift should call a piano mover. The other day a cow was jolted off a truck and hurt so that she couldn't stand.

Traffic was tied up for hours because nobody could figure out how to attach a tow car hoist to the bossy. Then piano mover Thomas Anderson showed up with his piano straps and made a gentle rescue. The cow is reported on the mend.

Korea—

in the face of the surprise onslaught Sunday and throughout Monday despite adverse reports from the field and a spectacular machine-gunning of Seoul's streets by the North's Russian-made Yak planes.

The morale among men in uniform was not so good, however, an unimpeachable source reported.

Southern resistance collapsed at Uijongbu, 12 miles north of Seoul.

A further defense was being put up three miles south, but there were no details.

U. S. Burns Secret Papers

The American Embassy burned its important secret papers in a huge bonfire. Air raid sirens screeched. The city was buzzing after Northern planes strafed downtown streets.

The flying column rushed toward here from the Uijongbu Valley. A southern counter - offensive there failed miserably during the day. Heavy artillery softened up the Uijongbu defenders and the tanks pushed them out of town after savage street fighting.

Two Southern divisions totaling 20,000 men dug in outside of the town of Uijongbu. But the determined onslaught of heavy tanks pushed them aside and the Northern invaders, who were halted temporarily Sunday, rolled on toward the capital.

Advices said 30,000 Southern troops along the boundary between the U. S. sponsored republic and the Russian-backed North were in dire straits.

Another segment of the Southern army was in trouble at Kangmung, 15 miles due south of the 38th parallel on the East Coast.

This division was being attacked from both the north and south by the Communist Northerners. An urgent call for reinforcements was received in Seoul. An American military official said he was uncertain whether the reinforcements would be forthcoming.

Counter-Offensive Fails

In Seoul itself morale was high despite the strafing of several downtown streets by Northern planes.

News that 10 American fighters awaited South Korean fliers in Japan boosted spirits all around.

Northern forces had been halted short of Uijongbu Sunday. Southern forces started a counter-offensive Monday. The Seventh and Second Divisions of 10,000 men each were thrown into the fight.

From the start things went wrong. Intense artillery fire rocked the Second Division back on its heels. Tanks ripped into them, halting what little forward movement the Southerners had been able to make.

The Seventh ran into trouble at the same time.

Northern forces seized their advantage and rolled forward. By 8 p.m. all Southern troops were forced out of Uijongbu and had taken a position outside of the city.

Southern forces reportedly were being reorganized about a mile from the city, which is only 12 miles north of Seoul.

Guerrillas Behind Lines

Defense Minister Sihn Sung Mo first reported the retreat.

Sihn Sung Mo said four small planes had been rushed to the area to try to knock out the Communist artillery.

"We are greatly disturbed," he said. "Our communications are broken and the Northern forces are resuming their advance."

A company of guerrillas reportedly slipped behind the Southern forces and destroyed bridges and severed communication lines, adding to the confusion.

Sihn said the Russian-supported Northern artillery had made the South's Second Division at Uijongbu helpless.

The Communists rolled down Sunday morning from the North, spearheaded by tanks.

Suicide squads of South Koreans were reported to have knocked out several tanks.

6,000 Killed, Wounded

The invading force was estimated at 50,000 to 75,000 men.

Six thousand men were estimated to have been killed or wounded on both sides.

Seoul's airport was raided once.

An encounter was reported between a Russian Yak-3 and an American Mustang protecting U. S. nationals ordered evacuated.

The North Korean Air Force made its first raid on this capital of the South Korean Republic. A single Yak-3 fighter dropped three bombs, killing six, and then attacked a U. S. fighter plane.

Ten eyewitnesses at the U. S. Embassy said one of the two Mustangs over the city drove off the Yak. But a U. S. military observer said the Mustang simply took evasion action and eluded its attacker.

The Mustang apparently was one sent here from Japan to protect the evacuation of 700 American women and children by sea.

U. S. Ambassador John Nuccio, in a radio speech, predicted the Communists would be defeated. He said there were "favorable portents" which could not be disclosed because of "military security."

not this country would send armed forces to Korea if the United Nations asked for them to back up its cease fire order.

Ross declined to add anything whatsoever to the brief prepared statement.

U. S. Troops Big Question

He would not discuss the possibility of the use of American troops.

Ross did say Truman would see Secretary of Defense Johnson later in the day.

The President was keeping his schedule clear of routine in order to concentrate on the Korean situation.

The big question being asked in this capital was whether the United States was ready to supply armed forces if the United Nations asked for them to back up its weekend "cease fire" order in Korea.

Reporters got a chance to put it to Secretary of Defense Johnson when he visited the Capitol for discussion of the general military assistance program with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Like Pearl Harbor

Johnson's reply: "That's a good question."

A reporter: "But what is the answer?"

"I didn't give an answer."

Senate Republicans held a party meeting and some of them criticized the Administration for not having had accurate intelligence reports that a North Korean attack could be expected.

Senator Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader, told reporters:

"The Administration is confused. It is as surprised by this attack as it was by the Jap attack on Pearl Harbor."

At the Pentagon, the joint chiefs of staff had an afternoon session scheduled but a spokesman said it was arranged a month ago to discuss budget matters and was not the result of the Korean situation.

Generally, the hope was that the Korean war in any event could be prevented from exploding into a broader conflict.

Investigators Hear FBI Transcript Of Service-Jaffe Talks

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Justice Department Monday turned over to Senate investigators the FBI's transcript of a conversation in 1945 between Diplomat John S. Service and Amerasia Editor Philip Jaffe.

Service was questioned about it behind closed doors.

Edward P. Morgan, counsel for a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee, said the transcript was delivered by Assistant Attorney General James M. McInerney, chief of the Justice Department's Criminal Division.

Senator Tydings (D-Md), the committee chairman, told newsmen he did not know whether the transcript would be made public.

C. H. Rhetts, Service's attorney, said Service had no objection to the full transcript being made public, but that the decision was up to the committee.

Senator McCarthy (R-Wis) has declared the 1945 Service-Jaffe conversation, overheard by the FBI through a hidden microphone, indicated Service passed military secrets to Jaffe.

Service has said he never gave Jaffe any military information. He said he had no such information to impart.

Morgan said he understood the Senate committee would keep the contents of the transcript secret until the group has completed its inquiry into the Amerasia confidential documents episode.

INTERNATIONAL TEAMWORK TO SAVE LIVES—The above map shows the network of North Atlantic Ocean weather stations which goes into operation on July 1, 1950. Through the International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO), eleven nations have agreed to operate a vast network of 10 ocean weather stations, employing 25 ships. Information and services—including air-sea rescue work—will be pooled to help make the much-traveled region safe for air travelers. In addition to the six nations operating weather ships, financial aid to the network will be given by Sweden, Belgium, Denmark, Ireland and Portugal.

Demand For Durable Goods Amazing To Economic Experts

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK—(AP)—The boom in durable goods amazes some of the experts to day.

Neither higher prices nor climbing personal debts stays the American public from buying more cars and more household gadgets than ever before.

The unusually high marriage rate since the war may be what's causing it, experts in the Commerce Department opine.

Groundless fears of an inevitable and approaching war may be what's urging them on, says Paul G. Hoffman.

"When inquiry is made of would-be purchasers of cars," says the Marshall Plan administrator, who used to head the Studebaker Corporation, "they often explain they figured to play it safe and get a car while the getting was good."

Hoffman deplores this belief in the inevitability of war as playing directly into the hands of Moscow. But he says it may explain the continued, surprising heavy demand for new automobiles.

Sales of all kinds of hard goods, as well as autos, are running higher than could be expected from income and price levels, Commerce Department experts say.

Demand Sensitive

They admit there still is some demand for cars left over from the war. But they say that new car demand is "extremely sensitive" to changing business conditions and prices and, therefore, they think that when the deferred demand is played out, price reductions could replace it as a stimulus to production and sales.

New car registrations in the last four years ran 14 per cent above those in the four years immediately before the war, the department notes. But it adds there was a 50 to 100 per cent gain in the postwar period in the output of refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, electric ranges and electric washing machines.

This gain ran hand in hand with the home building boom. And the department links both to the unusually high marriage rate, which hit its peak in 1946 but still is above the prewar rate.

Final Question On Exam Was A Sticker

PARIS—(NEA)—Five pretty girls turned up at Noisy airfield, outside Paris, the other evening to tackle difficult written and oral exams.

Then all five of them got up and jumped off a 40-foot tower.

This was not out of desperation because they had failed. The jump was the last question of the exam and had to be answered five times—with full parachute equipment.

Full equipment is worn by June Dreshfeld, 21-year-old Paris secretary, as she prepares for her first jump from the 40-foot tower.

After that the girls were ready to go on with advanced training for enrolment in the Voluntary Air Parachutist Nurses Group, brainchild of the Marquise Madeleine-Claire de Villeroy, probably the most air-minded woman in France.

The dynamic Marquise started flying when she was 11, which was sometime before World War I. She obtained her pilot's license in 1918, and ever since she has owned her own plane just as other women own a car. She has jumped more than 20 times, too, which stirred up her interest in parachuting.

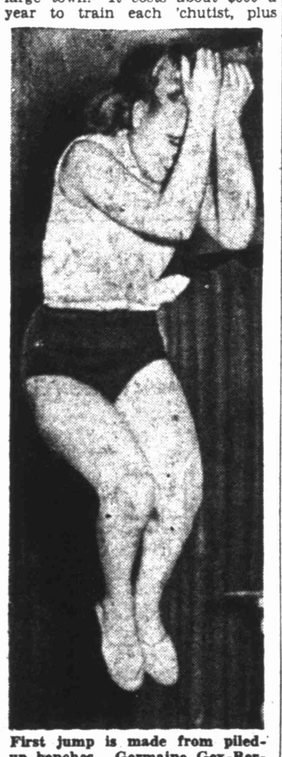
"Russia is the only country where women parachutists are trained seriously," she explained. "A few young Frenchwomen were parachuted into the underground during the occupation and successfully accomplished dangerous missions. My aim is to prove that it's possible to train young women 'chutits for useful work, not only in wartime but in other emergencies."

The Marquise has no lack of candidates for her jumping nurses. She trained 50 in Lyons in the past year, and now is training 15 more in Paris. Many more than she can handle have applied, all of them white-collar workers such as secretaries, office workers and dressmakers. Age limits are 15 1/2 to 35.

Judo Included

Training starts with physical education, including judo. First jumps are from plied-up benches, then from the 40-foot tower. It takes between 12 and 15 months of night courses, three times a week to pass the second-degree test, by which time the girls must have completed 30 jumps from tower and from plane, 15 with automatic control and 15 with retarded control.

So far, the Marquise has been devoting most of her private income to the project, but she'll have to find outside help to reach her goal of groups of 15 to 20 girls in every large town. It costs about $600 a year to train each 'chutist, plus $50 for jumping equipment. The girls provide their own uniforms, which the Marquise designed.



First jump is made from plied-up benches. Germaine Gex-Bertrand, 20-year-old Lyons dressmaker, covers her face as she leaps.

Veteran among the jumping nurses is Helene Sibert, 21-year-old Lyons secretary, who holds the rank of top sergeant of the group. She dismisses the 30 jumps to her credit this way:

"Once in a while we have to nurse bruises and bumps, but so far there have been no serious mishaps. Anyway, nothing could stop us."

Land Of The Free Gives DP's New Start In Life

AP Newsfeatures

MEMPHIS, TENN.—Four months after arrival in America on a shoestring, the brilliant family of a Hungarian professor talked about plans for a home.

Edwin Samay is not a wealthy man as he was in Budapest. But he isn't penniless as he was four months ago. He and his friends tell a story of American opportunity and hospitality — against an old country background of hardship.

Samay was a well known educator in 1945 when the Communists took over his home, large farm and an Oriental rug factory—property valued at $500,000.

He fled to Austria, where he managed to keep his 10-member family together. Then, last December 27, the Samays arrived in New Orleans from Bremerhaven, Germany, as displaced persons.

Off To False Start

Not long after they arrived at Little Rock, Ark., they got their first jolt—the man who was to employ them said circumstances would not permit it, things had changed.

Next came another promise — a job on a farm near Crawfordsville, Ark., but that fell through, too.

They moved into an abandoned, rat-infested prisoner of war camp in the vicinity. To them it bore a striking resemblance to European concentration camps still vivid in their minds. For 14 days they lived there without heat or warm food during January weather.

That was the situation when the Red Cross and local residents stepped in. Abundant help followed.

Picks Up Odd Jobs

Papa Samay, 47, who at one time was professor of agriculture for deaf and dumb students in Budapest, is stacking lumber and doing odd jobs at a lumber yard here. His employer says he'll lose him as soon as Samay learns English because he is "too brilliant" to stay on a laboring job.

Anthony, 24, a college graduate, is working in the catalog department of a large mail order house. Attila, 21, with two years of college, is wrapping and shipping merchandise for a department store.

Ildiko, 19, is learning to run an office-building elevator on a part-time basis while she waits for a promised job as saleslady. While in Hungary, Ildiko taught a kindergarten class of 200.

The total income of the family runs about $90 a week.

Their employers says the Samays are genuine workers, well - liked by fellow employes and in general they have "made a hit" with all their associates.

Hope To Make Rugs

But the Samays have their hearts set on re-establishing themselves in rug-making. In fact, they say two looms with which to begin operations, "are on the way."

The mother, Maria, is keeping house in a ten-room residence lent by a Catholic Church. At home with "Mama" are two small sons—Zsombor, five, and Marot, three, both born in Austria. Three other children attend school. They are Edwin, 16, Farkas, 12, and Csilla, seven.

In the short time the Samays have been in Memphis they have learned to fit into religious and social doings despite language difficulties, which they are trying to remedy with evening lessons.

Entertain Archduke

At home, Papa plays the violin and Mama the piano to add to the musically talented family's entertainment.

One of their greatest thrill so far was the recent appearance here of the Prince Archduke of Hungary, Hapsburg Otto, the claiment to the throne in exile. The quintet sang the national hymn and folk songs of their native country for Otto. In turn, the prince gave Mrs. Samay a bouquet. She wept.

Congress To Study Veteran's Insurance Program Cost Cut

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Legislation to cut the cost of the veterans' insurance program may soon be introduced in Congress. A House Expenditures subcommittee has ended hearings on National Service Life Insurance (NSLI) and hopes before Congress adjourns to come up with specific recommendations for ironing out wrinkles in the program.

Rep. Porter Hardy (D-Va), subcommittee chairman, made it clear however that the insurance protection of veterans and servicemen who now hold policies cannot be affected. "NSLI policies," he said, "are definite, irrevocable contracts between the government and the insured." But Rep. Hardy may recommend changes in the types of policies to be issued from now on. What they will be he isn't saying until he can study the evidence further.

One likely recommendation might reduce dividends slightly on present policies. During the hearings the subcommittee questioned whether the three per cent interest paid by the government on invested NSLI fund was not too liberal a subsidy. The Secretary of the Treasury, not Congress, could bring this interest rate into line with the current market rate of 2.2 per cent. The subcommittee said the government in this way could have saved $210,000,000 up to October 1949 and still kept the NSLI fund intact.

It also said the high administrative cost of NSLI—which the government pays — could be reduced only by the Veterans Administration (VA). It is estimated that handling each NSLI policy costs $14 a year compared to $8.49 for policies in the five largest commercial companies. It questioned whether the VA should not pay dividends to the government when premiums were paid by the government. As an inducement for enlistment, aviation cadets since 1940 have been granted $10,000 free insurance with the government paying all premiums. However, when those premiums were discovered to be excessive, dividends totalling $16,000,000 were paid back not to the government, but to the cadets.

Two Recommendations

Two significant recommendations were laid before the subcommittee by the VA insurance chief, Harold W. Breining. He said if Congress did not extend NSLI five-year term insurance it would be "a very desirable thing" for veterans and the government. He pointed out that World War I vets who kept term insurance are getting to the point where annual premiums are prohibitive. (Renewal of term insurance costs more as the insured gets older.) Congress has already extended twice the World War II term insurance carried by more than 3,000,000 veterans.

Breining also said that in another national emergency an NSLI scheme "would not be satisfactory." He recommended some for of death gratuity instead of insurance. A Defense Department spokesman disagreed and said if a serviceman becomes uninsurable during service NSLI gives him a certain amount of insurance he couldn't get on discharge. He said enlisted men cannot afford adequate commercial coverage and each year in service penalizes them.

The Hardy subcommittee was set up under the Congressional Reorganization Act of 1946 to investigate the efficiency and economy of agencies in the executive department. The report soon to come out on veterans' insurance will be based on 10 months' research and four weeks of hearings.

You Can Be Proud Of Your Girl Scout

By DAVID TAYLOR MARKE
AP Education Writer

Childhood is the time when the most important decisions of our lives are made. There are people and events and conditions to guide us. From them we develop values and decide what things in the world really matter. These decisions give our lives a basic direction which through the years, helps us to become the persons we are now.

About a million and a half girls, aged seven through seventeen, are members of the Girl Scouts of America and the Camp Fire Girls, Inc. They are guided by their primary objectives—the development of good human relationships and ability to develop aptitudes as well as attitudes that make such relationships possible. Both organizations also recognize the need for wholesome, leisure-time activities for girls.

These worthwhile organizations and activities are brought in focus by two booklets, "The Girl Scouts in 1950," and a "Handbook for Guardians of Camp Fire Girls." Each, in its way, is trying to help build a better world. Each seeks to perpetuate the spiritual ideals of the home and to aid in the formation of habits for health and character. And each is trying to project these attributes on the larger plane of community and nation.

Trace Development

From Blue Bird and Brownie Scouts, through Camp Fire Girls and Girl Scouts, through Horizon Club members and Senior Girl Scouts both booklets trace the development of young girls to womanhood—adults who can respect the rights of others and work willingly with them; who are resourceful and self-reliant; who have imagination and courage; who try to live according to their belief in the fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man.

Despite these fine objectives and accomplishments, say the Girl Scouts, only one girl in twelve of scout age becomes a scout. "If you who read this report," says Mrs. C. Vaughan Ferguson, their president, "believe that there can be a better world, will you help to extend Girl Scouting to some of the thousands of girls who want and need it?"

'Mongoloid' Cat Brought To Light

ENID, OKLA. —(AP)— The Science Department at Phillips University here is marveling at a "mongoloid" cat with the head and tail of a monkey.

The little monstrosity was brought to light when farmer Charles Crites brought it to town after his cat gave birth to it. The body is like a cat's but it has no nostrils and the paws are like claws.

The monkey-kitten was classified as a mongoloid — a rare biological phenomenon—by Dean Clifford J. Shirley of the Phillips Science Department.

Dean Shirley gave it little chance to survive, although it recognizes food and drinks milk from a dropper.

Crites reported the mother cat had two normal kittens which she accepted, but spurned the mongoloid. It is being kept at the university for observation.
