Tons of Steel Slammed Into Lurking Red Forces

Bell Pressing Rate Hike for Pampa Phones

Only two witnesses for Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. testified at the public hearing on telephone rate increases this morning before a well - filled city commission room.

Others will testify this afternoon.

Meat of the testimony was mostly technical and intricate intricate information on telephone company procedure in keeping books in compliance with regulations laid down by the Federal Communications Commission, especially on long distance calls on an interstate basis.

Most of the time was taken up by Henry Perry, supervising cost accountant for SWB at Dallas. Perry, with the aid of several exhibits, showed revenues and expenses involved in furnishing exchange telephone service in Pampa.

The local exchange lost $26,345 during the first six months of 1950, Perry said, adding that revenue had amounted to $120,158 as compared to expenses of $146,863. This, related to the fair value of the local property of $950,000, represented a 5.55 percent loss.

He said, too, all revenues and expenses in connection with handling of long distance business were excluded from the company's local operations.

He summed up the revenues as coming from monthly charges on telephones, public telephones, directory advertising, local private line service such as private telegraph, public address systems, radio loops, etc. Expenses included wages, depreciation, maintenance, accounting, supervision, etc.

(The lengthy morning session made it impossible to give a complete breakdown of the facts and figures presented by Perry. However, these figures, and others, will be presented in Wednesday's edition of The Pampa News.)

George Newberry, local manager, was the first telephone man to testify. Newberry, with the aid of charts, showed the increasing expenses of the local exchange since 1929 to the present day; the expenses increasing faster than the revenues.

Newberry pointed to increasing costs such as copper wire, aerial wiring, poles, instruments, wages, etc., having risen from 54 percent to 104 percent since 1941. In

Outgoing Mail Breaks Record

The Pampa Post Office has reported the largest outgoing mail day in its history.

First class letters and Christmas cards leaving this post office yesterday totaled 52,700 and outgoing parcels totaled 9000.

Incoming mail, according to the postmaster, W. B. Weatherred, is still light, but it is expect that today or tomorrow, it will pick up.

Weatherred stated that persons sending parcels long distances should air mail them for insured delivery before Christmas.

Firepower Blasts Attack Attempts

TOKYO —(AP)— Allied naval, air and ground forces slammed tons of steel today at Chinese and Korean Reds pressing down on the slim Hungnam beachhead in northeast Korea.

The allies slowly were giving ground with their backs to the sea.

A delayed field dispatch said the U.S. Air Force abandoned Yonpo airfield, Hungnam's major airport, Sunday. The dispatch had been withheld for security reasons. Army engineers destroyed supplies and disabled aircraft that had to be left.

North Korean Communist troops showed their biggest strength yet around the beachhead.

A U.S. 10th Corps intelligence officer said advance combat elements of three wholly reorganized Red Korean divisions had replaced the Chinese Communists on the right flank of the beachhead. He estimated the force at 7,000 to 8,000 men.

Allied firepower was credited with blasting Communist attempts to mount a major attack against the beachhead.

"Prisoners say they are trying to hit us in force but every time the officers get men massed for an attack our artillery scatters them," said Col. William Quinn, Crisfield, Md. "They just can't get started."

Refugee reports said Chinese Reds were looting abandoned Hamhung, big northeast Korea industrial city six miles inland from Hungnam. Terrified Korean civilians were reported streaming north and south from the looted city.

The Red Korean buildup on the east flank brought determined punches against that section of the allied line. A field dispatch said the Reds may be trying to capture high ground looking down on Hungnam's busy port.

Artillery fire smashed one such attack and killed an estimated 200 Korean Reds in 20 minutes.

Allied warships slipping through the Sea of Japan's icy waters off Hungnam port pounded 37 concentrations of Chinese and Korean Communists. The big naval guns dispersed one column of attacking Reds with heavy casualties.

Navy and Marine fliers roared off decks of Carrier Task Force 77 and an escort carrier fleet in stinging blows against the Reds.

The seaborne airmen winged inland as far as 60 miles, bombing, rocketing and machinegunning Communist troop concentrations. They claimed they killed or wounded 800 Reds.

U.S. Third and Seventh Division troops on the ground held off a series of Communist attacks mounted in darkness Monday night and early Tuesday morning.

A 10th Corps spokesman said the Reds attacked in almost fanatical fury.

In contrast, the western front north of Seoul was quiet. No direct contact between the U.S. Eighth Army and the enemy was reported Tuesday.

But around Hungnam, a 10th Corps spokesman said the Communists were building strength for an apparent drive to push UN forces into the sea.

The battleship Missouri joined the cruisers St. Paul and Rochester in hurling a curtain of shell fire against the Reds.

The Mo's big guns have a range of 20 miles or more.

Allied warplanes ranged over the whole North Korean peninsula, slamming the Reds at 100 target points.

ASSIGNMENT EUROPE—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has been named Supreme Commander of the integrated European defense force by President Truman. He will have the same position in Europe that Gen. Douglas MacArthur now has in the Far East. The general will begin early next year to organize an international army to defend Europe against Communist aggression. For further pictures, see Page 12.

Eisenhower Named Pact Commander

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower was formally named today to be supreme commander of an integrated European defense force against aggression. President Truman made the appointment, acting on the request of the North Atlantic powers that an American be chosen for the supreme command and on their suggestion that Eisenhower be the man. Thus the man who led a similar force of allied troops to victory in Europe during World War II headed abroad again to rally western democracies for defense against possible Communist aggression on the continent.

Army for Europe Underway for 1951

BRUSSELS, Belgium — (AP) — The 12 Atlantic alliance nations announced today Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower will begin early in 1951 to organize an international army to keep the peace in Europe.

A communique issued at the end of a two-day conference said the Atlantic Pact chiefs also agreed on plans for German participation in "an integrated force under a centralized command."

The 12 nations earlier had approved the appointment of Gen. Eisenhower as the supreme commander for the international force.

The terse communique said "German participation would strengthen the defense of Europe."

The bulletin emphasized that all plans agreed upon by the allies are destined for purely defensive purposes.

The council of 12 foreign ministers asked the United States, Britain and France, as the occupying powers in Germany, to "initiate" talks with the West German government on the question of getting Germans into the force.

The council also agreed to set up a sort of high command —

It had been a common assumption for months that "Ike" — who has a tremendous personal popularity in Europe — would be given the command as soon as planning of the united defense force had advanced to the point where filling of the post became advisable.

The formal appointment was disclosed in an exchange of telegrams between the President and Secretary of State Acheson, who is in Brussels for the North Atlantic council meetings.

In his telegram to Mr. Truman, Acheson said the pact council members had asked him to forward their request that a U.S. officer be named supreme commander, along with "their earnest hope that you will find it possible" to name Eisenhower.

In complying, the President told Acheson he agreed that "General Eisenhower's experience and talents make him uniquely qualified to assume the important responsibilities of this position."

The five - star general, now president of Columbia University, made it plain weeks ago he would accept the command if asked to do so.

On Oct. 27, he told reporters who asked whether he would accept the job if it was proffered that "I am a soldier and will do as I am told to do."

He has, in fact, continued to be a soldier throughout his civilian job as president of Columbia University. The terms of the law providing five-star rank for certain generals and admirals stipulate that they never retire, as do other military officers, but continue in the service although they can go on inactive status.

In that status, Eisenhower has been out of uniform since February, 1948, when he stepped out as army chief of staff to begin a vacation before assuming the

Meters Jam On First Day

City police officers requested today that persons patronizing the new parking meters installed this week, please put only one penny at a time in the meters. John Wilkinson, police chief, stated that the only way the meters will work properly is to insert a penny, wait until the buzzing has stopped, and insert another.

The request was made following a discovery today that a large percentage of the new meters were jammed after their first day of operation.

Air Guard Due February Call

WASHINGTON —(AP)— The Air Force announced today it will call five Air National Guard groups and "a number" of supporting units, into federal service on Feb. 1.

A brief statement said that a "designation of the units or of the bases at which they will be assigned cannot be announced because of security consideration."

Most National Guard groups are fighter organizations, with about 75 planes to a group.

Five guard groups already have been brought into federal service. They were called up in October.

Today's announcement followed closely on the decision of the Defense Department to call in two more National Guard ground divisions to be added to the four already in service. That decision was announced Saturday.

President Backs Valentine On Fixing of GM Car Price

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman said today prices of General Motors cars will be fixed at what the economic stabilization administrator says they should be.

The law will be enforced, Mr. Truman told a news conference in commenting on the action of the General Motors Corp. in halting sales of 1951 model Chevrolets, Cadillacs and Pontiacs after Economic Stabilizer Alan Valentine ordered a roll-back to levels of Dec. 1.

Valentine acted under the defense production act of 1950. This grants authority to freeze or roll back prices and wages.

A reporter asked if Mr. Truman's comments were to be taken as meaning government action to unfreeze the sales freeze ordered by General Motors. The President said the government will cross that bridge when it gets to it.

Meanwhile, Mr. Truman's request for additional wartime powers was greeted in some quarters as a sign that the machinery is in motion for all-out mobilization.

The President asked Congress yesterday to approve legislation that would let him juggle government bureaus and set up emergency agencies, as permit renegotiation of defense contracts.

Pampa Scout Seeks Father

Receiving a radio from his Boy Scout Troop here was a big thrill for Howard Youngblood, 14, who is a patient in John Sealy Hospital in Galveston, but what Howard wants most of all for Christmas is to see his father for the first time.

The boy became ill last May while in the seventh grade at Pampa Junior High School. He was taken to Galveston, where doctors said his illness was incurable.

Last week his mother, Velma Fay Stone, quit her job here and went to Galveston.

His mother has been searching for Howard's father, Artie Al Joseph, 32, for more than three months. The couple was divorced when Howard was six months old and his mother moved from Grove, Okla., to Borger. The last word she had was that Joseph served in the Army during World War II.

Troop 22, Howard's troop, had a Court of Honor about two weeks ago and Howard qualified for his first class Scout Badge. Russell Cartwright, scoutmaster, sent the badge to Howard along with the radio.

The radio belongs to the troop and is used by any member that becomes a patient in any hospital.

Chamber Lays Air Site Plans

A special meeting of the Aviation Committee of the chamber of commerce was held yesterday afternoon to try to speed up action on the selection of a site for the Pampa Municipal Airport. The decision has hung between the present site on East Browning and the Army air field north of town, known as Thompson Field.

The committee laid plans for presenting the advantages and disadvantages and full facts on each site to the people in early January. A straw poll will then be taken allowing the people to select the site themselves.

Hugh Burdette, chairman of the Aviation Committee, said that they were still waiting on certain cost figures from the Civil Aeronautics Administration before the full facts can be given concerning both fields. The committee also agreed that the poll should be taken after the holiday period so that people could give more thought to the measure.

Walton Rites Wednesday

Funeral services for Jack Walton, 52, will be held at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the First Methodist Church with Dr. Orion W. Carter, pastor, officiating.

Walton, who died Monday morning, is survived by his wife, Lillie May, and one daughter, Mrs. Don Taylor, and one grandson, David Lynn Taylor, all of Pampa.

After the funeral, the body will be taken to Coffeyville, Kans., by Duenkel - Carmichael Funeral Home, where Mr. Walton was born May 1, 1898.

He was a member of the First Methodist Church and the Masonic Lodge.

Pallbearers will be D. D. Doyle, Lubbock; L. A. Miles, Lubbock; J. D. Simpson, Abilene; Walter Dean, Charley Powell, C. M. Carlock, E. H. Edgerton and H. E. McCarley.

Honorary pallbearers will be J. E. Kirchman, Frank Yealy, L. H. Davies, Noel Dalton, Clyde Drew, J. C. Richey, C. L. Wooley, Reno Stinson and C. P. Conover.

Law Officers Pick Anderson

Sheriff Hugh Anderson of Hutchinson County was appointed, Monday, to head a committee to organize the law enforcement officers in the Texas Panhandle to combat burglaries, thefts, and robberies. The appointment was made at a Panhandle-wide meeting of law enforcement officers in the Pampa City Hall.

To serve on the committee with Anderson will be H. M. Massey, Liberal, Kans.; Sheriff Ray Fagan, Perryton; Sheriff M. E. Cantrell, Canyon; Ranger Frank Proyst and Capt. Polk Ivey, Texas Highway Patrol. An organizational meeting will be held in Borger in January.

J. L. King, chief of dectectives of the Amarillo police department, and regional chairman of the state organization formed in Austin a short itme ago, will serve with the committee in an advisory capacity.

The committee will attempt to set up an information center concerning known and suspected men believed to be implicated in any thefts in the Panhandle.

Between 70 and 80 law enforcement officers from all over the Texas Panhandle attended the regional meeting. Officers

Truman Refuses To Boot Acheson

WASHINGTON —(AP)— President Truman said today "I refuse to dismiss" Secretary of State Acheson.

He made that statement at a news conference when asked about the demands from Republicans in Congress for him to fire his top-ranking cabinet officer.

Anticipating the questions, Mr. Truman had a prepared statement which he read.

In it Mr. Truman recalled that President Abraham Lincoln, when asked to dismiss Secretary of State Seward, had refused.

"So do I refuse to dismiss Secretary of State Acheson," he said.

His statement went on to say this is a time of "great peril" which calls for unity.

It continued:

"Communism, not our own country, would be served if we lost Mr. Acheson."

Mr. Truman said that if communism were to prevail in the world — as it shall not be insisted — "Dean Acheson would be one of the first, if not the first, to be shot by the enemies of liberty and Christianity."

He said charges made against Acheson are "false" and have "no basis in fact whatever."

Separate meetings of Senate and House Republicans last week adopted resolutions asking the dismissal of Acheson. Their main contention was that his foreign policies in the Pacific area had failed and that Acheson had lost the confidence of the country.

Mr. Truman also told his news conference that Secretary of Defense Marshall will remain on at that post, and Robert A. Lovett will continue to serve as deputy secretary of defense.

He said there was nothing to a report given to newsmen by a White House official who would not let his name be used that W. Stuart Symington was being groomed for secretary of officially called a "Defense Production Board" to speed up and expand the manufacture of armaments.

In doing so the council was accepting recommendations made to them by the defense ministers of the 12 pact nations who met here yesterday. The aim is to speed up production of all sorts of war material including aircraft, ships and tanks.

U. S. secretary of State Dean Acheson told the ministers there would be a statement from Washington soon putting U. S. forces now in Germany under Gen. Eisenhower's command, since the two divisions represent the nucleus of the international force.

Acheson said: "It is essential that all the nations party to the Atlantic Pact put the forces now in being in those nations under the command of the supreme commander."

The U. S. secretary added that the forces now available in the pact countries were "not adequate, and must be built up with the utmost speed."

He pointed to the U. S. declaration of national emergency, the appropriation of huge defense funds and the partial curtailment of civilian production and urged the Atlantic partners to follow suit.

Company's Alumni Fill Defense Jobs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A leading industrial firm (SKF Industries, Inc.) is finding its files of former employes a "gold mine" in recruiting skilled workers to fill jobs created by mounting defense requirements. Recently the company, needing trained automatic screw machine operators, machinists and inspectors, partially filled its demands by contacting former workers in these lines. Among those who returned to their old jobs were a candy store owner and a tenant farmer.

Now the firm is building a manpower pool for future needs by polling its "alumni" to determine how many are interested in re-employment in the event of a severe labor shortage.

The government continued to move gradually with the broad legislation it already has.

The economic stabilization agency called in meat industry representatives yesterday but it said in a statement the session was "not to be taken as an indication of any imminent (price) controls on meats." The agency said Price Administer Michael V. DiSalle held only exploratory talks with officials of five packing firms, none of them the giants of the industry.

General Motors, meanwhile, told federal officials it is sending in an alternate proposal to the new car ceilings which ESA imposed on the whole auto industry Saturday night.

ESA gave out no details, but it was assumed that GM sought some modification in the rollback to Dec. 1. prices which the government ordered. That action cancelled out price hikes which had been announced by GM, Ford, Chrysler and Nash.

ESA's wage stabilization board, headed by Cyrus S. Ching, will meet tomorrow with auto industry management and union officials to discuss wages. Walter Reuther, president of the CIO United Auto Workers, served advance notice he will fight any attempt to freeze industry wages.

However, since then he has been back in Washington in an advisory capacity to President Truman and the defense secretaries and as chairman of the hoint chiefs of staff in a civilian role.

Eisenhower's Columbia University office reported he was enroute to Denver by train today from a speaking engagement in Ohio, to spend the Christmas holidays with his wife's family in the Denver area.

It was seven years ago when "Ike" went to work on his other big job in Europe. In December, 1943, the late President Roosevelt and then Prime Minister Churchill of Britain decided Eisenhower was their man and named him supreme commander of the allied expeditionary forct destined to liberate Nazi - held Western Europe and eventually to crush the German military machine.

Errol Flynn Is Headliner During 1950

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — As 1950 comes to a finish, it shapes up as Errol Flynn's year for headlines.

It started early with his engagement to Rumanian Princess Irene Ghika.

In May, he brought his foreign fiancee to Hollywood while he made a picture.

In August, Flynn was haled into court over his alimony to first wife Lili Damita.

Shortly afterward, Flynn startled everybody by announcing his engagement to his leading lady, Patrice Wymore. But what about the princess? He was asked. "It's up to the lady to announce a broken engagement," he replied.

The pair took their vows Oct. 23 in the Monoco City Hall at Monte Carlo.

The honeymoon was disturbed by a suit filed by a 16-year-old French girl who alleged that Flynn had lured her aboard his yacht a year previous and attacked her in the shower.

As the end of the headlined year approached, gossips reported that Flynn again would be in the news. There were whispers that all was not well with the new marrige.

RATE HIKE

1949, Newberry said, the company incurred $266,452 in expenses while taking in $224,867; a loss of $41,585. For the first six months in 1950 the company's expenses were $146,862 while the revenue amounted to $120,517; a loss of $26,345. Doubling this figure for an annual picture and adding it to the losses sustained in 1949 and 1948, the company has lost $112,000 since the beginning of 1948, Newberry said.

"Even if we didn't spend a dime in Pampa for additional equipment and services, we would need the rate we are asking for to make the telephone business a healthy business," Newberry declared. "We are operating a business with a property value of close to a million dollars and we have to get back to operating on a sound basis," he added.

The session started shortly after 9:30 a.m. when Mayor C. A. Huff called upon Ed Ernest, division manager from Fort Worth to introduce the telephone representatives. Ernest, in turn, turned the meeting over to Judge C. S. Slatton, general counsel for SWB who will moderate the meeting.

Generally, questions will be withheld by the city commissioners, citizens' committee and general public until after each of the telephone people are heard. This request was made by Mayor Huff to save time and confusion.

Slatton said he expected the remaining talks by the telephone men to take about 30 to 45 minutes this afternoon.

Pampa's Schools Closing Thursday

Pampa schools will close at the end of the last period Thursday afternoon, not to open again until the morning of Jan. 2, 1951.

The high school will have a special assembly Thursday at 9:30 a.m., which will be a Christmas drama presented by the Thespian Society under the direction of Thelma Henslee, sponsor. This is in addition to the annual Christmas concert by the A Cappella choir at 8 p.m. today.

These activities will be the school's observance of the holiday, along with the decoration of the school house. A large, lighted Christmas tree has been placed in the center hall of the high school. This is an annual project of the student council. Other decorations of the school are the cathedral-like front windows and a huge star on top of the building.

The junior high school will have its Christmas program in assembly Dec. 20 under the direction of Miss Len Lowe, Mrs. Edward Line and Miss Eloise Lane. Three choirs from the sixth, seventh and eighth grades will sing for the program.

Besides the assembly program, a Christmas tree has been decorated and placed in the center hall. Each day at noon this week, junior high students gather around the tree to sing carols.

Gifts for the school's White Christmas have been placed around the tree. Students bring gifts wrapped in white to be given to the needy children of Pampa.

Most of the elementary schools of the city are not having a Christmas program in a group, but individual rooms are planning their own Christmas trees and parties. The reason for the individual parties is the lack of assembly space. None of the new auditoriums are near completion enough to be used.

The Baker School classrooms will have their programs and parties Thursday as will Horace Mann classrooms.

Classrooms in Baker, Horace Mann and Woodrow Wilson are planning their programs and parties for Thursday. Sam Houston school students are to have their annual Christmas breakfast in the school cafeteria Thursday morning. The fourth and fifth grades will sing carols in the halls of the school Thursday.

Carver School will have its annual Christmas cantata at 8 p. m. today at the school house. "The Prince of Peace" will be presented by the high school chorus under the direction of Mrs. T. Curry Nelson, who is also accompanist. Mrs. Adell Brooks, soprana from the Macedonia church, will sing the solos of the cantata.

Following the cantata, an old fashioned Christmas tree will be held for the Negro children of the city, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, American Legion and Parent-Teacher Assn.

came from as far south as Paducah, as far north as Liberal, east as far as Wheeler and west to Muleshoe. A total of 18 counties was represented.

Three police departments were represented, Pampa, Amarillo, and Liberal. In addition, there were representatives of the Texas Highway Patrol, Texas Ranger, FBI, postoffice inspectors, railroad inspectors, sheriffs and constables.

During the meeting, conducted by John Wilkinson, Pampa police chief, visiting officers told of robberies and thefts they have had during the past month. It was decided that all those robberies in the northern part of the Panhandle were committed by the same organization.

The police and sheriff's department from Amarillo furnished a great deal of information about suspected safe crackers, thieves, and burglars.

An organizational meeting will be held about Feb. 15.

YOUNG HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT NOW ON FOOTBALL TEAM

HADACOL Supplied Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin And Iron Which His System Lacked

Delmar B. Callaway, Box 151, Church Point, Louisiana, says maybe he isn't the best football center in the country, but he'll bet his pocketknife that there isn't a boy his age who has got the energy he has. Yes, Delmar now feels great! ... and he says he has HADACOL to thank. Mrs. Callaway found that by giving her son, Delmar, HADACOL, his system overcame a deficiency of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin and Iron.

Here is Delmar Callaway's own statement:

"I am 13 years old and I am in the 8th grade in the Church Point High School. Last summer I didn't have a bit of energy. I didn't want to ride my bike and I didn't want to play baseball. Mother tried everything to get me to eat a good meal—but I just didn't feel like eating. Food didn't just taste good and lots of times food would upset my stomach when I did eat. Mother says I was underweight for my age. Then mother started giving me HADACOL. I know that in just a little while I started feeling a whole lot better. Now I am center on the football team. I like baseball and basketball, and I ride my bike every evening after school. Mother says she has never seen anyone with such a huge appetite. I like to take HADACOL. Mother says she is never going to let me be without HADACOL."

People of All Ages

. . . have been helped by HADACOL; yes, folks whose systems lacked Vitamins B-1, B-2, Iron and Niacin. The HADACOL formula is very effective for stomach distress, certain nervous disorders, insomnia due to upset stomach, vague aches and pains, and a general run-down condition when these troubles are caused by deficiencies of Vitamins B-1, B-2, Niacin and Iron.

Let HADACOL Help You

as it has helped thousands of others, if you suffer such deficiencies. Remember, there are no substitutes for HADACOL. Always insist on the genuine HADACOL. No risk involved. Buy a bottle of HADACOL, either the trial size, $1.25, or the large family or hospital size, $3.50, and if HADACOL doesn't help you, you will get your money back. If your druggist does not have HADACOL, order it direct from The LeBlanc Corporation, Lafayette, Louisiana. (c) 1950, The LeBlanc Corporation

FROM NINE TO FIVE — By Jo Fischer

If you'll just let me have a raise now, Mr. Wump, I won't expect ANOTHER thing from you for Christmas.

McLemore Inventories, and Then Prepares Final Will

By HENRY McLEMORE

Did you ever spring out of bed of a morning feeling better than you had in a whole week?

If you have, then you know how I felt yesterday.

Five minutes after I was out of bed my eyes were almost completely and entirely open, and when I bent down to start my exercises my fingertips came within an inch of reaching my knees. kns.

I didn't cough mor haen seven times before I brushed my teeth, and I said to myself, "Henry, ol' boy, you're as fit as a cello. You've got another fifty or sixty years in front of you."

Then at ten o'clock the phone rang.

It was Edwin McMahon Singer, an old Columbia rowing blue, who has been my lawyer for years.

He said that he had been making a check-up of his files and had discovered that the only will I had was the one I had made when I was in the Army in World War II, and he believed that I should make a new one.

"Make a tally of your estate," he advised, "and put down in black and white where you want what you have to go."

(He didn't say it quite that way, actually. No lawyer, even if he studied basic English under Bernard Shaw, could speak so plainly. Mr. Singer mentioned torts, first parties, coming - out parties, and habeas corpus.)

So I checked up on my "estate."

And here is my will, for all to see.

My money goes to Altman's, Macy's, Bloomingdale's, Sacks, Yowell-Drew in Daytona Beach, and Lord and Taylor.

To my wife I leave the dreams she had of a husband who was an All-American football player, a Morgan partner, and handy around the house.

To Craig Wood, Tony Penna, Jimmy Demaret, Lawson Little, Al Watrous, Jimmy Thompson, Sammy Belfore and Denny Shute I leave my golf swing. They are men who could own it and be affected by its eccentricities.

Whereas, while I'm on the subject of golf, I leave my memories of the best golf club in the world to the Lakeside Golf Club, North Hollywood, Calif.

My book (The Bobsey Twins at the Stork Club) I leave to the ashcan, and the ashcan I leave to Milton Berle, the only man who can take an ashcan and make it funny.

To Ty Cobb I leave the guys who think Babe Ruth was a better ballplayer than Cobb was.

To Frank Sinatra I leave the fat (mostly bacon drippings) that is in a coffee can on the back of my kitchen stove.

To the United States I leave the wonder why the greatest nation in the world has to knuckle down to countries whose rulers make it clear that they have no regard for God, Man, or Truth.

I leave the sort of peace that comes from that sort of buckling down to any poor American sap who wants it.

I leave my two blackjacks to Dashiell Hammett and Raymond Chandler.

I leave my $2 show ticket on Black Beauty to Bill Corum.

I leave my Persian rugs to the men who sold them to me as Persian rugs.

I leave my tartan dinner jacket to the first collegian who calls for it.

I leave — well, unwillingly, let's say.

United States Has Been in Emergency State Since 1939

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — (AP) — This country has been in a continuous state of national emergency since 1939. But this week President Truman is expected to declare a state of national emergency.

This may sound confusing but isn't. The declaration won't affect the general public in such a wide sense as price and wage controls and rationing.

Under a law passed by Congress this fall the President can order price and wage controls and rationing any time he thinks they're necessary. He doesn't have to declare an emergency to use them.

Why then declare a national emergency at all since we're already living under an emergency declaration and have been since 1939? It may, of course, sharpen the public's realization of national danger.

But — it is only by declaring an emergency that the President can put into motion certain laws which he may think are necessary for this country's arms preparations but can't be used without the formal declaration of emergency.

Generally — for the purposes of this story — it can be said Congress passes three kinds of laws:

1. Permanent laws. They're in effect in peace and war. They stay unchanged unless Congress itself changes them. Example: the Taft-Hartley Labor Law.

2. Emergency laws. They may have been passed years ago but Congress, because it thinks they'd give the government too much power in ordinary times, has written into them a warning that they can't be used unless the President says there's a national emergency.

Example: During an emergency the President can restrict the manufacture and distribution of explosives.

3. Temporary, wartime laws. Congress passes them in wartime to fill some special needs. When the war is over, or Congress thinks they're no longer necessary, Congress repeals them.

Example: The training courses for Army officers at West Point ordinarily is four years. During World War II Congress made this three years. Later it made the course four years again.

Back in 1939, when Hitler was rampaging, President Roosevelt declared a limited national emergency. (He later called it an unlimited emergency.) This permitted him to bring into action laws which already were on the books but couldn't be used except in emergency.

So this country still remains in a condition of unlimited national emergency because neither Mr. Roosevelt nor Mr. Truman has ever ended it. And we're still technically at war, too, since the war has never formally been ended.

But in 1947, two years after the shooting stopped, Congress decided that:

1. Many of the temporary, wartime laws it passed after Pearl Harbor were no longer necessary. So it repealed a number of them although the war itself was not declared over.

2. Many of the emergency laws were no longer needed. So Congress declared the emergency was over — in so far as it applied to use of some of the emergency laws — while letting the emergency continue in so far as it applied to some other emergency laws.

This meant that the President no longer could use those emergency laws — for which Congress said the emergency was over — unless he again declared a national emergency.

So, if he declares a national emergency this week, the President will be doing what he thinks is necessary in order to use some laws which would have to lie dormant on the books without such a declaration.

There's a question in the minds of some Congress members — because the emergency declaration would give the government much wider powers than it has now — whether the emergency declaration is necessary at this time.

Tennis Association Names Larsen Best

NEW YORK — (AP) — Lefty Art Larsen of San Leandro, Calif., and Mrs. Margaret Osborne DuPont are the nation's No. 1 amateur tennis players for 1950.

They headed national ratings announced over the weekend by ranking committees of the U.S. Lawn Tennis Association.

The rankings still must be approved by the USLTA general meeting next month.

Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., won the No. 2 position in the rankings followed by Budge Patty of Los Angeles and Ted Schroeder of La Crescenta, Calif.

Doris Hart of Jacksonville, Fla., was No. 2 in the women's rankings.

Pampa Chiefs Breeze Past Amarillo Plowboy's 89-37

McNeely, Bond Lead Chiefs to Easy Cage Win

The Noblitt-Coffey Chiefs had an easy time with the Graham-Hoeme Plowboys of Amarillo Monday night in the junior high gym.

After the final count was in, the Chiefs were on the long end of an 89-37 score.

Amarillo's cage quintet delayed its defeat by showing up 45 minutes late.

The Plowboys jumped into a two-point lead when Sorgee dropped in a long shot, but that lasted until the Chiefs took the ball in and Bill Bond meshed one from the free throw circle.

Bond hit a torrid scoring pace the first quarter, scoring seven times from the field. The Plowboys couldn't keep up with the hustling Chiefs, and they trailed at the quarter mark, 27-9.

Cliff McNeely, who did everything but dribble over the Plowboys, led the second quarter drive with four fielders. Pampa's Chiefs built their lead to 45-18 at halftime.

McNeely took scoring honors for the Chiefs with 24 points, followed by Bill Bond with 22. Ford Monk, Cowboys' long shot artist, kept the Amarillo five from an almost shutout by ringing in 12 field goals and three free tosses for 27 points.

The Chiefs scored 27 points in the first quarter and 28 in the fourth period, but were cold in the second and third stanzas, hitting 18 and 16 points.

Pampa's AAU cagers kept the Plowboys checked throughout the first three quarters, but they eased up in the fourth period as Amarillo had their best quarter, 12 points.

Aggies to Letter 35 Grid Players

COLLEGE STATION—(Special)—Thirty-five members of the Texas Aggie football team this season will receive varsity letters.

Nine of those receiving letters are graduating before the 1951 football season, leaving the Aggies with an array of 25 letter men returning next year. Those not lettering include six graduating seniors and eight sophomores and juniors.

One other player, Andy Hillhouse, a junior, lettered this season, but he will be ineligible next season.

Graduating lettermen include end Dorbandt Barton; tackles Tuck Chapin, Mickey Spencer and Dwayne Tucker; guards Max Greiner, Murry Holditch and Carl Molberg; and centers Bob Bates and Jimmy Flowers.

A&M will be two-deep or better at all posts next fall except at guard where there are only three returning lettermen.

Lettermen who return next season include the following:

Ends: Jerry Crossman, Clinton Gwin, Charles Hodge and Walter Hill.

Tackles: Alvin Langford, Sam Moses, Jack Little and Russ Hudeck.

Guards: Dick Frey, Elo Nohavitza and W. T. Rush.

Center: Hugh Meyer and James Fowler.

Quarterback: Dick Gardemal, Delmar Sikes and Darrow Hooper.

Halfbacks: Glenn Lippman, Charley McDonald, Yale Lary, Bill Tidwell, Gary Anderson, Robert Shaeffer and Augie Saxe.

Fullbacks: Bob Smith and Bernard Lemmons.

Harvester Cagers Engage Spearman

Pampa's once beaten Harvesters will engage Spearman's Lynx at 8 o'clock tonight in Spearman's High School gym. The Harvesters defeated the Lynx, 58-36, in the junior high gym earlier in the season.

The Harvester quintet has defeated Spearman once, Stratford twice, and Memphis once for four wins. Lubbock's Westerners tripped Pampa, 41-39, for its lone loss. Lubbock won the game in the last minute of play with a long field goal from the center of the court.

Pampa defeated Stratford, 58-43, 49-40; and chilled Memphis' Cyclones, 59-34.

Marvin Bond and Toney Jones have been running at first string forward positions; Duane Jeter, 6-foot 5-inch center, has been taking care of the pivot position; and James Claunch and Tommy Smith have been holding down the guard slots.

The Harvesters were strengthened by the addition of Buzzy Tarpley, who joined the squad after the football season ended. Tarpley has furnished the Pampa cagers added height under the baskets. He's a good rebounder and also has a deadly hook shot.

Two Noblitt-Coffey cagers will be on opposite benches tonight. Coach Cliff McNeely of Pampa and Coach Garland Head of Spearman are teammates with the Chiefs.

BEATING THE ODDS—Surrounded by Denver players, Al Bigos of Long Island University stretches to coax the ball through the basket at Madison Square Garden. The Blackbirds won in double-overtime, 58-56.

Amarillo School Board Retires Coach Bull Lynch

AMARILLO — (AP) — The contract of Howard (Bull) Lynch, head football coach at Amarillo High School 14 years, will not be renewed.

E. M. Blackburn, Jr., president of the school board, announced last night that the group by "unanimous action" had agreed not to reemploy Lynch.

Blackburn's statement added that the board hoped "that he will remain with the (school) system."

"I have no comment," Lynch said when informed of the board's action. He said it was the first time he knew of it.

Lynch first came to Amarillo High School as an assistant to Coach Blair Cherry in 1930.

With Lynch as head coach, the Amarillo Sandies won 126 games, lost 29 and tied one. This year Amarillo won four games and lost six.

Sooner Football Team to Receive Trophy Tonight

NORMAN — (Special) — Oklahoma's all - victorious football team, rated No. 1 in the Associated Press poll, will formally receive its national collegiate championship at a dinner beginning at 7:15 p. m. Tuesday in the Persian Room of the Skirvin Hotel in Oklahoma City.

Frank Leahy, Notre Dame coach, will attend and personally present the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell, CSC, Memorial Trophy to Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma coach.

Jimmy Conzleman, former coach of Washington University and the Chicago Cardinals, may be the chief speaker at the dinner, sponsored by the Oklahoma "O" club. Famous for his humorous after dinner speeches, Conzleman is now associated with a St. Louis advertising firm and is trying to clear his schedule for the Oklahoma City appearance.

Charles Zatarain, president of the Sugar Bowl, will be a guest.

Hickman Explains Why Army Backs Haven't Arrived

MIAMI, Fla. — (AP) — Coach Herman Hickman of Yale, who is drilling the North squad for Mahi Shrine's North-South all-star football game in the Orange Bowl Christmas night, today explained why three of his Army players are missing.

Navy players already are on hand with the South team but Army backs Gil Stephenson, Jim Caln and Jack Martin have not arrived.

"How come those Army players won't get here until Friday, Herman, when the Navy boys are already here," someone asked.

"Why, heck, " the Yale coach replied. "The Navy hasn't been to school since it licked the Army."

Meanwhile, Miami Coach Andy Gustafson and his aides made three changes in their South squad. Fullbacks Pat Field of Georgia and Egbert Van Buren of Louisiana State were switched to quarterback and halfback, respectively.

Quarterbacks John (Model T) Ford of Hardin-Simmons, Angus Williams of Florida and Field did most of the passing.

Shirt Is Given Credit for OU's Winning Streak

NORMAN — (AP) — A bright-colored sports shirt is going to make its third trip to the Sugar Bowl with the Oklahoma football team.

It'll grace the broad shoulders of fullback Leon Heath. By tradition he's duty bound to wear it to New Orleans Jan. 1. The shirt has had a prominent part in the history-making 31-game winning streak established by Coach Bud Wilkinson's teams.

The tale of this particular shirt goes back to 1948. Fullback Myrle Greathouse bought a pair of cowboy boots. He needed a loud shirt to go with them.

His mother-in-law, Mrs. W. K. Luden, Amarillo, heard about Myrle's desire and made him a real eye-knocker-out of a shirt. It was the lulu of the campus.

Wilkinson called a squad meeting before the Sooners headed West for its opening game in 1948 against Santa Clara.

"There'll be no slacks, bright-colored shirts, two toned shoes and sport coats," the affable coach ruled. We'll wear business suits."

Many players pleaded with Wilkinson "to make an exception — let Greathouse wear his new shirt — he considered it lucky. The shirt stayed in Norman. Oklahoma lost to Santa Clara, 20-17. After the game Greathouse said to Wilkinson:

"Coach, guess I should have worn that shirt."

"Yes, guess you should have, Myrle," Wilkinson responded ruefully. He added: "From now on you can wear the shirt on all trips."

That was the beginning of a great era in Oklahoma football. Greathouse wore the shirt the rest of the season — just like Wilkinson wears his grey suit and red tie for all games.

After the Sooners went unbeaten the rest of the 1948 season, Greathouse willed the shirt to mammoth guard Stan West.

West somehow managed to squeeze his bulky 240-pound frame into the shirt. He wore it throughout the 1949 season. He passed it along to Heath after graduation last spring.

Buffaloes Lead Nation in Total Football Offense

NEW YORK — (AP) — West Texas State led all small colleges of the nation last season in total football offense.

The Canyon school piled up 4,653 yards in ten games, an average of 465.3 yards a game. The National Collegiate Athletic Bureau announced the figures.

Charley Wright and Bill Cross of West Texas had rushing yardage 1,203 and 1,197 yards respectively to finish second and third behind Eastern Washington's Merle Michelson. He rushed 1,234 yards.

Mayfield of West Texas State was sixth in total offense with 1,566 yards on 213 plays.

Miami of Ohio was second to West Texas in total offense with an average of 416.3 yards.

In rushing alone, West Texas was third for an average of 322.9 yards a game. St. Lawrence of Canton, N. Y., led with 356.1, followed by Lewis and Clark's 343.8 per game.

Brad Rowland of McMurry gained 1,018 yards rushing, placing him eighth for the year. His four year record is 4,347 yards, a collective record. It was the third straight year he was in the first ten.

College of Pacific, HS to Play in 1951

STOCKTON, Calif. — (AP) — Hardin-Simmons of Abilene and the College of Pacific have signed for football games in 1951-52.

The game next year will be played here Sept. 22. The 1952 will be played here the first or second week of the season.

SWC to Try Again At NCAA Meeting

NEW YORK — (AP) — The Southwest Conference will propose to the National Collegiate Athletic Association in its Dallas meeting Jan. 11-13 a rule giving an athlete aid without his working for it.

The conference asked for a year-round training table last year.

The NCAA voted it down.

The NCAA will be asked to modify its "sanity code" to permit grants in aid above regular scholarships to athletes. The latest proposal would permit grants for board and meals for needy cases if the NCAA is kept advised of the amounts granted.

Kentucky Quintet Gets First Place

By JOE FALLS

NEW YORK —(AP)— It looks as if Kentucky has a 24-carat basketball team to match its new $4,000,000 field house.

At least, the nation's sports writers and sportscasters think so. Yesterday they voted the unbeaten Wildcats the No. 1 position in the first weekly Associated Press poll.

Kentucky was given 93 of 165 first-place votes for 1,451 points. Bradley, winner of last season's final poll, placed second with 20 top ballots and 1,302 points.

North Carolina State was third, with 20 first-place votes, and 1,105 points. These were the only teams earning 1,000 or more points.

In order, the rest of the top 10 was Indiana, Oklahoma A&M, CCNY, Long Island, Missouri, UCLA and Toledo.

Coach Adolph Rupp obviously has brought his Kentucky squad a long way since that lopsided 89-50 loss to CCNY in the National Invitation Tournament last March. The Wildcats have chalked up five straight victories, including a stunning 68-39 romp over Kansas last Saturday.

Next on the list for the Blue Grass lads is St. John's of Brooklyn, ranked 13th, at Madison Square Garden on Saturday night. Bradley, which has rolled past six opponents, faces a busy week at Peoria, Ill., entertaining UCLA, tonight, then Centenary and Duke on Thursday and Saturday.

The North Carolina State Wolf Pack registered its seventh straight victory last night — a 65-62 squeaker past Michigan in overtime at Raleigh, N.C.

Indiana, with four victories in a row, appears to be the best bet to succeed Ohio State as Western Conference kingpin. The Hoosiers play Notre Dame and Butler this week.

Baylor Tumbled By Dons, 65-53

(By The Associated Press)

Texas A&M stayed home to defeat Sam Houston State 40-36 but two other Southwest Conference basketball squads out visiting took lickings last night.

Baylor fell 65-53 before the University of San Francisco in the Dons' home town and Arkansas lost 54-32 to the University of Missouri in Columbia.

Tonight Southern Methodist meets Mississippi Southern in Dallas. Baylor plays Stanford in San Francisco. Texas A&M goes against the University of Houston ine Houston.

Border Conference May Let Frosh Play

EL PASO — (AP) — President J. William Davis of the Border Conference had authority today to hold a mail vote on letting freshmen compete in athletics during the emergency.

The conference voted this action to the Texas Tech man at its closing meeting yesterday. A proposal by athletic directors to make freshmen eligible after the present semester ending in January was rejected.

Two thirds of the schools must approve a mail vote.

Cooper to Fight In Kansas City

Eugene Cooper, 165-pound Pampa boxer from Sheppard Air Force Base, won a berth on a team to represent 10 Southern states in the national tryouts to be held at Kansas City on Jan. 8-9, 1951.

Cooper has scored 11 consecutive knockouts since donning the gloves with Uncle Sam.

The smooth-swinging clouter has notched 142 victories since he started answering the bell. His fight career started at Lefors where he first attracted attention.

He punched out 90 straight mitt wins while at Lefors and Pampa before he lost a bout. Cooper has been beaten only five timed in the ring.

Other contestants who won berths on the Southern squad were Al McGullion, 190, Shreveport; Joe Moran, 175, Lackland Air Base, Texas; Allen Mayer, 147, Opelousas; Alvin Pelligrini, 136, New Orleans; Curt Davis 126, New Orleans; Joe Manucal, 116, Corpus Christi Naval Air Base, Texas, and Gene McCann, a flyweight from Shreveport.

Defense Minded Grid Teams Will Clash in Cotton Bowl

DALLAS — (AP) — If somebody scores a touchdown in the Cotton Bowl game here Jan. 1 he'll probably be the day's hero. That ought to be about the winning margin.

Which may be a slight exaggeration but it illustrates the kind of contest that the season records indicate when Texas and Tennessee get together in the Dallas New Year's Day classic.

The strength of both teams is dence.

Texas in 10 games allowed the opposition only 240.5 yards per contest. Tennessee was even more miserly. The Volunteers allowed 11 foes an average of 192.4 per game.

On the offensive side, however, Texas boasts a fair margin. The Longhorns made 287.1 yards per game while Tennessee got 268.

Texas has a halfback with one eye named Bobby Dillon, who ran back punts 334 yards. He won several games that way by either making long touchdown jaunts or setting up touchdowns.

But Dillon hasn't as yet gone up against a team holding down punt returners like Tennessee. The Volunteers gave 11 opponents just 159 yards in kick run-backs — an average of 14.5 per game. Dillon's single returns have averaged 22.2.

It is a strategy of Tennessee to play for the breaks, sit back and let the opposition beat itself. The Vols' pass-interception record indicates how well this has worked. Tennessee has gathered in 22 of 154 enemy passes thrown — more than a third as many as the opposition completed. Recovering 28 fumbles is another indication of how Tennessee plays 'em close to the chest.

Both Texas and Tennessee, however, use passes sparingly. Texas tried only 140 — an unheard of low for a Southwest Conference team. Tennessee was even more conservative. The Volunteers threw only 98. So pass interceptions aren't likely to be the thing that turns the tide in this game.

Miners Seek No. 2

Shamrock to Stay In District 1-AA

SHAMROCK — (Special) — Shamrock Irishmen will be in the newly organized District 1-AA beginning next fall. They were originally placed in this district by the Texas Interscholastic League about Dec. 1, but had been invited to join District 3-AA.

Wellington school leaders had been joined by other 3-AA teams —Memphis, Childress and Paducah — in inviting the Irish into 3-AA.

1-AA leaders, meeting at Dumas Dec. 14, voted to keep Shamrock in the 1-AA league, or the Panhandle District, as they choose to call it.

Phillips Blackhawks will be met by the Irish here Oct. 19; the Perryton Rangers there Oct. 26; the Dalhart Wolves here Nov. 2; and the Dumas Demons there Nov. 9. These four are the other 1-AA teams.

Shamrock will schedule six non-conference battles before the first district clash with the Blackhawks.

Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (AP) — Well, what do you know? A basketball coach who agrees with Phog Allen — almost. . .Yale's Howard Hobson, one of the game's keenest technicians, doesn't think Phog's idea of waiving all fouls answers one big problem completely, but he agrees that the Kansas coach has pointed up the need for increasing the penalty for goals. . .Hobbie was on hand when Allen tried his attention-getting experiment here last week and decided it was rather ridiculous to let the losing team foul repeatedly without being penalized. . ."But we can't stop until there is a more severe penalty for fouling. We should make free throws count two points," he says. . .Utah's Vadal Peterson, a conservative guy who says he never had a six-foot-five basketball player nor scouted an opponent before this season, tabs Southern California as the best court team he has seen this season. He had advance warning from the late Sam Barry, who told him last summer: "I have it this year."

Tired of footing the repair bills on a basketball time clock that wouldn't work last season, Bucknell Athletic Director Al Humphreys had a new one installed during the summer. . . It was a dilly of a gadget, with colored lights, electric timer and almost everything but a seven-foot pivot man. Al tested it a week before the opener and it was perfect. . .Then came the opening game and the clock ran just 40 seconds, then quit for the evening.

Schoolboy basketball in New England is making such headway that the opening Boston Garden program, Dec. 9, started at 9:30 a.m. and two other all-afternoon cards are planned. In all, 146 teams from six states are due to appear. . .But head-man Walter Brown moans: "I don't think the schoolboys could learn much from watching our pro team the last few years." . . .The Jeffords Stable of Philadelphia, just arrived in Florida for winter racing, probably is the only one divided into masculine and feminine divisions. All the colts and horses are raced in the name of Walter M. Jeffords; the fillies and mares in Mrs. Jeffords' colors. . .Fred Cason, the sought-after Plant City, Fla., prep footballer, has signed up for a regulation scholarship at the U. of Florida. He's the 215-pound back who, according to reports, was offered a seven-year free ride by some schools. He's in the naval reserve, too.

Dick Heidtmann, Harvard football tackle and heavyweight wrestler, once caddied for Frank Strafaci in the Long Island Amateur Golf championship. He probably could have carried Frank as well as the bag. . .Not to be outdone when the Wayne U. footballers picked an all-opponent team, student managers Bill Stephenson and Paul Schaefflin selected an all-opponent manager, Paul Terris of Temple. . . Do you suppose Paul took 'em out on every play?. . .Best chuckle in Ben Coll's lively book of verse: "I Love Golf," is in a prose note. Ben mentioned a mythical golfer who had five obstacles to a good game — 1, Woods; 2, irons; 3, putter; 4 and 5, his wife. Says Ben: "If he would see his pro, he would learn that three of these can be corrected."

Sauer Honored At San Antonio

SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — More than 300 high school football players and coaches, plus four college stars and Baylor Coach George Sauer were honored here last night.

It was the annual football banquet of the San Antonio Express-News Athletic Association.

The four college players were Kyle Rote of Southern Methodist, Byron Townsend of Texas, Bob Smith of Texas A&M and Larry Isbell of Baylor.

Sauer was chosen as the Express-News "Southwest Conference Coach of the Year."

ALL-AROUNDERS—These performers may mean the difference between just a good season and a conference title to their respective teams. Denver's Sid Ryen took home all the honors in the Skyline Six last time. Oregon State's Danny Johnston, the question mark of the Pacific Coast Conference's Northern Division, burned up the floor at Compton, Calif., Junior College. Kansas State's Ed Head sticks out in the Big Seven.

Bengal Gridders Name Townsend As Toughest Back

BATON ROUGE — (AP) — A Kentucky tackle and a Texas back were their toughest opponents this season, Louisiana State University's footballers have decided.

In balloting by the 30 LSU players who saw action, back Byron Townsend of Texas and tackle Bob Gain of Kentucky drew the most votes — 29 each.

Tied for second — with 28 votes each — were Kentucky quarterback Babe Parilli and Texas guard Bud McFadin.

Five Texas players were selected by the LSU gridders on their all-opponent team.

The LSU all-opponent team:

Tackles Bob Gain of Kentucky and Ken Jackson of Texas.

Guards Bud McFadin of Texas and Denny Doyle of Tulane.

Center Lee Stonestreet of Rice.

Backs Babe Parilla of Kentucky, Hal Waggoner of Tulane and Gib Dawson and Byron Townsend, both of Texas.

LOBOES LOSE

SHREVEPORT, La. — (AP) — Byrd High School's Yellow Jackets were forced to put on a late scoring spree in which they chalked up seven points in the final three minutes, and beat the Longview, Texas, High School Loboes, 43-36 here last night.

NEXT TO WORST

SOUTH BEND — (AP) — Only one Notre Dame football team ever fared worse than the 1950 edition. The 1933 grid Irish dropped five games, compared with the four losses and a tie in nine contests for the recent eleven. In 1905 and 1928, Notre Dame lost four times but there were no ties recorded.

AP Sports Editor to Speak at OC Dinner

OKLAHOMA CITY — (AP) — Ted Smits, general sports editor of the Associated Press, will speak at a Trophy Presentation dinner Tuesday honoring the University of Oklahoma's national champion football team.

Smits is director of the AP football poll which rated Oklahoma the nation's No. 1 team.

Notre Dame Head Coach Frank Leahy will present the Rev. J. Hugh O'Donnell Memorial Trophy to Bud Wilkinson, Oklahoma Coach. The trophy is awarded annually to the team rated first by the AP poll.

Christie Flanagan of Fort Arthur, Texas, a Notre Dame star halfback under Knute Rockne, will represent the Notre Dame Monogram Club at the presentation.

Cardinal Castoff Has Best ERA in National League

NEW YORK — (AP) — Two fugitives from the bullpen—Jim Hearn and Sal Maglie, both of the New York Giants — turned out to be the most effective pitchers in the National League last season.

Official averages, out today, showed that Hearn, a St. Louis Cardinal castoff, led in the department that determines mound greatness with an earned run average of 2.49.

His teammate, Maglie, produced the circuit's highest winning percentage with 18 victories and four defeats for .818.

Between them, they were 1-2 in both the important phases of pitching excellence — earned run average and winning percentage.

Maglie was second to Hearn in ERA with 2.71. Hearn followed Maglie in the percentage list with 11-4 for .733.

Maglie, a forgiven Mexican League jumper, pitched 31 straight victories in the late summer and hung up 45 scoreless innings before a fluke home run by Pittsburgh's Gus Bell stopped him five putouts short of Carl Hubbell's National League record.

Maglie won every one of the 12 complete games he pitched to lead the league also in that category. Hearn was second, winning 11 complete efforts out of 11.

Dickson Gun Plant May Be Reopened

HOUSTON — (AP) — The Dickson Gun Plant may start turning out artillery again as early as February.

F. W. Ayers, general manager of the Hughes Tool Co., said the government had asked the company to start preliminary work to reactivate the World War II plant.

Ayres said it was one of only two gun plants in the U.S. in the last war to cast gun barrels and finish them. The plant's machinery has been in mothballs.

The plant employed about 3,000 persons when it was in full operation and made guns ranging from 37 mm. to 105 mm. weapons.

THE STORY: Sgt. Eddie Engstrom's squad is wiped out by a bomb and the men realize they are dead when they find themselves back home in Westwaygo. So far only one living creature can see them—Eddie's dog Duke.

XV

WHILE Eddie and Joe were still killing time around the pool room the final edition of the Westwaygo News was brought in by a paper carrier. Eddie and Joe read the headlines over the bartender's shoulder.

YANKS LAND ON AGU

"Say Joe," asked Eddie, "ain't Agu where we was this morning?"

"Yes, that's it."

The bartender was reading another column. "The St. Louis Browns beat the Tigers today," he told a customer. "Six to four. Detroit's lousy this year." He sighed. "So I lose two smackers just for bein' an optimist."

Eddie saw no particular irony in that. He said wistfully, "I'd like to see a good ball game. I wonder how long we'll be here."

"Not long, I imagine," Joe told him. "You notice we don't meet up with soldiers of any other war hanging around."

"That's right. I wonder where they are."

"Probably the mystery of life and death is a serial story, just one installment after another. Somebody said, 'We pass this way but once.' Most likely it wouldn't be near so interesting to keep on with anything forever."

Presently other members of the squad dropped in. Most of them reported that there was not much of interest to do around home after they had taken a look at their families and found that they were alive and kicking. Mostly kicking—about rationing of grub, lack of gasoline, new taxes, the way the kids were acting and troubles at the boatworks where most of the men and many of the women were employed.

Lloyd Nelson had dropped in to see his fiancee. "We ain't engaged any more," he informed the gang.

"Why not?" asked Eddie sympathetically. "Did some other guy cut in while you were away?"

"Not that I know of anyhow," said Lloyd and then decided to tell the truth. "I was up in her room and she hadn't made her bed and everything was messy."

Joe laughed. "The trouble is your girl hasn't had top-kick like you had lately."

Lloyd disregarded that. "And the way she bawled her mother out for askin' her to help with the dishes. I'm glad I found out in time."

"Just what do you mean, 'in time,' Private Nelson?" Inquired Joe. "You've got all the time there is, plus eternity."

Private Lloyd Nelson turned that over in his mind with sudden stunned realization. "Even if I have, I'm glad anyway."

"I don't know if it's quite fair," said Eddie, "for us to find out what people do when they think they're alone."

LLOYD was still dwelling on his shattered romance. "She swiped her father's shoe stamp because she was going to buy herself a pair of slippers with fancy buckles. And she's got six pairs of shoes in her closet already."

"You peeked, you rascal," Joe accused.

"Why not? The closet was darn untidy too. Dirty clothes all over the floor. And she had the nerve to tell her mother she didn't have any stockings to wear and so she'd have to borrow hers, just to go to the movies. Who sees a girl's legs at the movies?"

"I've often wondered," said Joe agreeably. "Won't some of you gentlemen with more experience explain these things to Lloyd and me?"

"My dad," said Jake Snyder, "told my sisters they couldn't go to the movies every night on account of he hadn't any money left after paying income taxes and buying war bonds. And he won't let my brother—he's in high school—use the car but one night a week."

"That's tough," sympathized Joe. "Having to miss some entertainment just because G.I.'s like us need gasoline and stuff."

"Maybe there's angles we don't know about," argued Eddie. He often disagreed with Joe on general principles. "Maybe they really are having it kind of tough back here. I've heard that all the best grub is shipped to the Army and Navy."

ORMAN BERGLUND laughed. "You should have seen the stuff my folks had for supper while I was at the house. And I'd figured from the letters my kid brother wrote that they were practically starving."

"I wonder," said Oscar Mahoney, "if they would actually mind giving up things to help get the war over or if it seems more important to keep working for the high wages they're getting."

"Don't try to write an editorial about it," suggested Joe. "Leave that to your old man. He runs the town newspaper. The way I figure it most everybody would go the limit if it was put up to 'em but there's a good many trouble-makers who haven't got kids of their own in the service who go around shooting off their faces about how wrong everything is and after a while even the good citizens begin to believe it and maybe repeat it. They wouldn't if they'd sit down and think. Most people don't. It's in one ear and out of their mouths before they know it."

"Say," declared Oscar admiringly, "that's a good editorial right there."

"Listen, gang." Eddie held up his hand for attention. "I hear drums. Anybody else get it?"

In the hush of silenced conversation came a throbbing beat. It was drums all right.

Deadline Nearing For GI Education

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Veterans Administration is reminding veterans that July 25, 1951, is the last date that most of them may start education or training work under the GI bill.

The announcement said the coming spring school term will be the final term for most veterans to enter, or re-enter, schools before the deadline.

The law says veterans discharged before July 25, 1947, must start their courses by July 25 next year. This takes in most World War II veterans. Some other veterans, who enlisted under the armed forces voluntary recruitment act, have four years from their discharge from that enlistment to start training.

Special legislation for members of the armed services serving in Korea is under consideration by Congress.

The Veterans Administration is permitted to give special consideration to some veteran-trainees who may not be able to resume their training by the July 25 cutoff date.

FARMERS MEETING

MIDLAND — (AP) — Scores of farm operators and owners from West Texas were meeting here today with Texas congressmen for a hearing on migratory labor. The meeting was to determine if a law is needed to improve the farm labor program. Much of the discussion is expected to center around effect of the wage and hour law on cotton picking.

Thursday — Troop 28 Christmas party in the evening at the Girl Scout house.

Friday — Troop 21 Chirstmas party in Mrs. Vineyard's home.

Saturday — Senior Girl Scouts Christmas caroling.

Congratulations go this week to the Boy Scouts on their 22nd annual meeting of the Adobe Walls Area Council and thanks for sharing this experience with the Girl Scouts.

White Deer Brownie Troop

The Brownies of Troop 37, White Deer, celebrated their first anniversary with a birthday party Wednesday afternoon.

The girls played several games after which investiture services were held for two new members, Margaret Meeks and Ella Ann Smith. Year pendants were presented to all the charter members. Girls receiving the pendants were Karen Collins, Mary Ann Freeman, Kay Guyer, Donna Hamilton, Lou Ellen Howard, Marilyn Kotara, George Ann Smith and Judy Wells.

Individual cakes with a candle and ice cream were served to those attending.

Brownie Troop 34

At the troop's last meeting, the girls made Christmas gifts for their mothers. Mrs. S. M. Goodlet, committee mother, had charge of the meeting. The girls drew names for their Christmas party and heard a recording of "The Littlest Angel."

Those attending were Brenda Brown, Judie Cotter, Pamela Goodlet, Joan Hagaman, Patty Hoover, Mildred L. Johnson, Lynda Joyce Kennedy, Glenna Lewis, Markeita Morehead, Doris Ann Lovelace, Janet Osborn, Vicki Payne, Gerry Ann Robins, Joyce Snow, Mary Sturgeon, Dorothy Thompson, Sarah Nell White, Shirley Jean Wright. Leaders are Mrs. Verl Hagaman and Mrs. Aaron Sturgeon.

Senior Scouts

At a coke party Thursday in the Girl Scout office, the Senior Scouts made plans for their meetings. Troops 7 and 8 will meet once monthly together. Separate patrol meetings will be held either each week or twice monthly.

Leaders are Mrs. W. A. Claunch and Mrs. D. C. Culwell. Senior members are Janice Marie Baker, Martha Wicker, Claudia Ann Miller, Carol McCune, Virginia Gay Marlow and Adelaide Skelly.

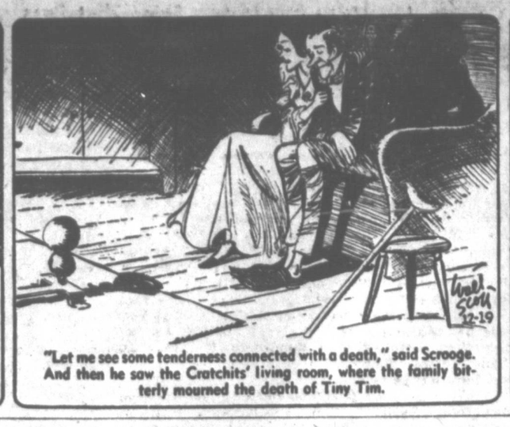
Troop 28

This troop served the banquet held last week for Service Station operators. Those who assisted with the banquet were Mary Elizabeth Young, Carol Carnes, Anita Wedgeworth, Ruth Steward, Myrna Matlock, Jeanie Hailey, Martha Skelly, Shelia Chisholm, Betty Hindon, June Smith, Dorthea Allen, Jerry Shelton, Patricia Johnson, Carol Hughes, Carol Miller, Jan Garlinghouse. Leaders are Mrs. J. C. Steward and Mrs. O. G. Smith.

A CHRISTMAS CAROL

By CHARLES DICKENS

"If there is any person in the town who feels emotion caused by this man's death, show that person to me, Spirit, I beseech you!" cried Scrooge. Whereupon the Spirit of Christmas Yet to Come showed Scrooge the dead man's debtors, who were happy indeed.



"Let me see some tenderness connected with a death," said Scrooge. And then he saw the Cratchits' living room, where the family bitterly mourned the death of Tiny Tim.

"Spectre," quavered Scrooge, "tell me what man that was whom we saw lying dead?"

Texas Is Firebug's Heaven Consumers May Have to Pay

(By The Associated Press)

Texas today is a firebug's heaven. It's a place of disaster for some farmers and cattlemen. And eventually, you, Mr. and Mrs. Sonsumer, may be hurt badly, too, by higher prices caused by shortages.

The dark situation can be blamed on the drouth and the early, harsh freezes. When the drouth will end, the weatherman refuses even to guess.

From the Panhandle to the Gulf Coast, grass which should have life is brown and dry. Even winter pastures are in bad shape. Wheat, which this time of year should be green and afford good grazing, is dead above the ground.

Here are some things the drouth and freezes have caused:

Thousands of cattle and calves in the Panhandle and on the South Plains are pouring into markets because there's no pasturage. These animals should still be on the farm, gaining weight for spring marketing.

Several persons have burned to death from grass and timber fires. Innumerable persons have been injured fighting fires. Several homes and innumerable outbuildings have been destroyed.

Great smoke palls caused by grass and timber fires have hung over Gulf Coaf and East Texas areas for days.

Cattlemen in Harris County alone are spending about $12,000,000 extra a month for cattle feed because their pastures are in such poor shape. Harris County (Houston) has more livestock on farms than any other Texas county.

Farmers in the lower Rio Grande Valley have considered seriously hiring a rainmaker.

The Rio Grande water flow this year is reported the smallest in 50 years.

The early freezes killed much of the vegetable crop in the Rio Grande Valley and winter garden areas.

Oats in Central and North Texas and wheat in the north and west generally are dead above the ground, although some hope is held that the roots still are alive.

There are innumerable other direct and indirect results of the drouth and freezes.

Most sections of the state have not had adequate rain since mid-September. Houston's drouth is called the worst for fall and early winter since 1924. And the grass fires there are called the worst in history.

Galveston County added a touch of the mysterious to the fire situation this week when residents of the county reported a plane was flying low, and dropping an object from which flames spilled and set grass afire. About 27,000 acres in the county have burned.

Many of the fires have been blamed on carelessness, but firebugs have set many of the blazes, particularly in East Texas timber regions, officers report.

Some observers see only one bright spot in the picture:

It's better to have the drouth in the fall than the spring.

They point out that if fall-planted small grains are lost, there still is time, if rains arrive to make good spring-planted crops, such as cotton, corn and grain sorghums.

Adding to a possibly profitable season for farmers is the fact that they can plant as many acres to cotton this year as they like. If their oats and wheat fail, they still can come out ahead with cotton. Last year, with acreage controls on cotton, loss of the small grain crop would have meant financial ruin for many.

No Change In Prorations

AUSTIN — (AP) — Little or no change in the state's crude oil proration pattern for January was anticipated today as oilmen gathered here from over the state for the railroad commission's monthly proration hearing.

The January order will be issued following testimony at today's hearing.

Advance nominations for January crude by major purchasers totalled 2,641,731 barrels daily, 34,563 barrels more than they asked for December.

January demand for Texas crude was estimated at 2,395,000 barrels per day by the U. S. Bureau of Mines. It was a 15,000-barrel increase over its predicted demand for December.

Average daily crude allowable last Saturday was 2,536,946 barrels.

A memorandum from Commission Chairman William J. Murray Jr. noted that crude oil storage for the nation is 247,747,000 barrels, riding slightly above the 245,000,000-barrel level industry has generally agreed is desirable.

Average bottomhole pressure for the big East Texas field dropped 3.71 pounds to 1,012.96 pounds per square inch from Nov. 1 to Dec. 1, Murray reported.

Turnesa Wins Havana Golf Tournament

HAVANA — (AP) — Fashioning a last round 65, Jim Turnesa of Briarcliff, N.Y., won the Havana Invitation Golf Tournament yesterday with a 72-hole total of 267.

Pete Cooper of Ponte Vedra, Fla., finished second with a 68 and final score of 270.

Defending champion Claude Harmon of Mamaroneck, N. Y., shot a blistering eight-under-par 64 to lead the last round, but he gained only a tie for third place at 723 with Herman Barron of White Plains, N.Y. Barron got a 68 in his last round.

The Canadian River Dam Bill

If the Canadian Dam bill gets the okay of the President much of the credit for the swift action in recent months can go to Rep. Ben Guill. Until he was sent to Washington to replace Gene Worley, who received a judgeship, the bill had lain dormant after Worley had gotten the unanious approval of the House in 1949.

Guill immediately got the bill out of committee and onto the floor of the Senate against the better judgement of many of the people in the Panhandle who had worked on the bill for the past several years. They thought he was moving too fast and too recklessly. But Guill apparently knew where he was headed.

Guill was the tonic that the Canadian River dam bill needed. He gave it a shot in the arm, saw the men who needed seeing and ironed out the rough spots to the satisfaction of all on the Washington end of the bill.

Also to be credited with an assist on the thing, from the Washington end, should be Rep. George Mahon of Lubbock, who spent considerable time and effort to get the bill okayed.

Guill and Mahon got the bill through the House of Representatives, in its revised form, in record time Saturday after it had been okayed by the Senate. The two able, young representatives from the Plains lined up both sides of the House and got the bill rushed back through the House only hours after its passage by the Senate. It is now up to the President.

Guill, in a message to The News, dated Dec. 15, on which day the bill was passed, said:

"The spirit of cooperation prevailed today in the House of Representatives and in the other body. They extended to the Panhandle of Texas the opportunity to, sameday, realize a dream that will eventually culminate in the construction of the Canadian River Dam. The efforts of many men have been put forth in trying to make this dream become a reality. I think this is the time to commend each of them individually, and the people of the Panhandle of Texas can thank the teamwork in the House and the Senate for making this legislation possible."

You're right, Ben. The people who want the dam can thank a lot of people, both here at home and in Washington, for the final passage of the bill. They have spent hours, days and weeks away from their own private businesses to try to get the final approval.

But it also took a man with energy and ambition representing them to see that the bill got through.

Capital on Edge

Today, in another column on this page, Westbrook Pegler makes mention of the President's previously little-heard-of flair for letter writing. We knew about his pop-off concerning the Marines. But recently he has taken to condemning and ridiculing in other epistles.

Probably the biggest blowup concerned the music critic's opinion of daughter Margaret's singing ability. The critic, Paul Hume, thought what he was doing was all in a night's work. But his view of Margaret's talent is still resounding.

Hume played his role like a hero. He realized that the President had just lost a close friend, Charley Ross, and that he was also under severe strain from world conditions. Hume dropped the whole matter. He was judging Margaret's voice as a professional musician, the only way she should have been judged once she stepped onto the public concert stage. Perhaps someday the President can see that fact, and apologize to Hume.

Another Washington incident that brought headlines the past week, and from which more will be heard, concerned the altercation between Senator McCarthy and columnist Drew Pearson.

Incidents such as that and the letter writing of the President, though inexcusable, serve to indiacte very clearly the nervous condition under which the capital is operating.

MOPSY Gladys Parker

Fair Enough-Pegler

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK — President Truman's threatening letter to a professional critic who had been unable to praise his daughter's singing is not an isolated offense. It is one of several outbreaks which prove that the President is an unstable man of brutal nature who has no personal respect for law of the "freedoms" which his party has exploited at the polls and flouted almost everywhere else. In 1948, he wrote a vicious personal attack on Bernard Baruch, including a side-long swipe at Baruch's brother, and permitted, or caused, it to leak out. Knowledge of it became current and Mr. Baruch privately admitted to confidants in the newspaper business that he had received the letter and that it was shockingly undignified, coming from a president.

My knowledge came a roundabout way from the White House. Baruch refused to disclose the text to these friends, but when he refused to tell me what the letter said I countered by telling him with slight reservations. He confirmed my version of the scurrility which the President had heaped on him for refusing to perform a political service in the presidential campaign. In closing, Baruch added that he never had been fooled by President Truman and bantered me because I had overrated him for a short time. "He is a rude, uncouth, ignorant man," Mr. Baruch said.

The next day, Mr. Baruch, who works in mysterious ways his wonders to perform, regretted his candor. He did not repudiate his words nor did he charge that his confidence had been violated. He did say, however, that he had not authorized anyone "to speak for" him and this had the effect of a crawl. I have been given to understand that Mr. Baruch did this because he was very badly worried lest the nation lose the benefit of his advice to Mr. Truman. He thought Truman needed wise counsel more than any other president in our time if not in all our history. Efforts to reestablish relations have failed, as Baruch should have foreseen that they would, so he might as well have stood his ground.

The President also wrote a letter to his friend and counsellor, Arthur Krock, the New York Times correspondent, which was so bad that Mr. Krock personally carried it back, and advised the President to destroy it. Arthur held that such a letter, written by a president, should not be permitted to exist. The abuse in this letter was not directed at Krock but at other persons. When he writes such letters and how he gets them past his secretaries are matters of speculation in Washington. Krock is one of the few persons in Truman's official and social orbit with the instincts of a gentleman. Boors and white-collar riff-raff predominate, maintaining the standard of the long Roosevelt regime.

One may wish to say that this flurry was much ado about nothing. Unfortunately, that is not so. The judgment which prompted the letter to Paul Hume, the writer who correctly belittled Margaret Truman's voice, is the same judgment which controls the lives of millions of Americans and the destiny of our nation and western civilization. The letter bespoke a brutal, vicious, lawless nature. These characteristics are plainly seen in the threat to commit a felony, to maim Hume and to deny him his constitutional freedom of reasonable expression. But even more frightening is the fact that the President committed an act of stupidity as bad as his failure to insist on access to Berlin. His intention was to redress an imaginary wrong against his daughter. But the result was that, whereas only a few thousand persons who had attended her concerts had known that she was not a good singer, her father broadcast the bad news all over the world. Now everybody knows it, thanks to Harry S. Truman. She can never live that down.

This young woman's career has been a minor scandal for a long time. One night the Associated Press wire began a review which politely hinted that Miss Truman's voice was not up to the professional standard. Then the story broke and an excited service message said "Bust this. Bust this. Bust this. Sub coming."

The substitute item was a discreet compromise.

On Nov. 11, following Margaret's performance in Springfield, Mass., Harley Rudkin, of the Springfield News, wrote that her voice was not up to the standard of the concert stage and "would probably be more at home within the smaller confines of the family parlor."

Mr. Rudkin said Margaret could not stay on pitch, which was one of Hume's observations, and that "the basic requirements for bigtime singing do not seem to be among Miss Truman's equipment." He moved to the back of the hall, seeking better perspective. From there he went to the balcony and he wound up his research verifying something he already knew, namely "that the acoustics of the auditorium are excellent."

The letter insulting the Marines at a time of tragic sacrifice by that magnificent corps of patriots is another written in this series, and on the very day that the Hume letter became public, Congressman Hebert, of New Orleans, received a missive which would have aroused public disgust except that the Hume letter topped it.

Truman simply is not a gentleman. His threat to unman Hume — and that was the plain intent of his language — reflected the nature of a mucker who never can rise above his ordained station. This is not abusive comment but sober appraisal of the man who publicly insulted Mrs. Strom Thurmond in the 1948 inaugural parade and threatened to maim a citizen who had withheld from his daughter praise which she did not deserve.

The Doctor Says

WRITTEN FOR NEA
By EDWIN J. JORDAN, M.D.

Why so many young men get tattooed in the first place I do not know but certainly a lot of them regret it afterwards. Both readers E. R. and J. W. have asked how their tattoos could be removed. It can be done and there are several methods which have been tried. The most popular involves tattooing tannic acid into the mark just enough to avoid bleeding. Silver nitrate is then rubbed over the area until it becomes black. The black crust is said to separate in about 16 days. Whether this or some other method is used, it should be decided by an expert since there are dangers. In most communities the skin specialists know of someone who is qualified to do it.

• • •

Q Is it true that carrots are good for the eyes? What vitamin could be purchased at the drug store that would strengthen the eyes?

C. H.

A—Carrots contain rather large quantities of a vitamin called carotene which has something to do with the ability of the eyes to see well at night. Except for that action neither carrotene or any other vitamin is likely to strengthen the eyes, and there is no need to go to the drug store to purhcase vitamins for that purpose.

• • •

Q Can a woman become pregnant who has had both Fallopian tubes and one overy removed?

READER

A—No. The eggs are formed in the overies but they cannot reach the womb unless at least one ovary and the tube connected with it are intact.

• • •

Q Is it an established fact that the hair and nails of a deceased person continue to grow indefinitely?

S. P.

A—This is an interesting question and has been the subject of much learned investigation. There is some difference of opinion but apparently the hair and nails may grow for a few hours or even days after the functions of the brain and heart have ceased. Also there is sometimes a shrinking of the tissues around the nail and hair after death, so that there is an appearance of growth even though growth has not actually occurred.

• • •

Q I am suffering from pernicious anemia, high blood pressure, and my blood sugar gets too low sometimes. My heart hurts and I have dizzy spells and blurring of vision. Should I go to see a doctor at once?

MRS. E. D. A.

A—By all means.

Q—I have ulcers in my mouth caused by acid, I believe. The food which give me the most trouble are strawberries, apples, peaches and tomatoes. Can you recommend something for this acid condition?

R. B.

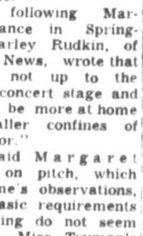
A—It seems most unlikely that your ulcers are caused by an acid condition. More likely there is some infection present or you are allergic to the foods mentioned. You can of course avoid the foods which cause trouble, but it would be a good idea, too, to have your doctor look at the ulcers to see if something else cannot be done as well.

NOTE ON QUESTIONS

Dr. Jordan is unable to answer directly individual questions from readers. However, once a week, in this "Q. & A." column he will answer the most interesting and the most frequently asked questions received during the week.

Success Secrets

By ELMER WHEELER



When I asked Dave Galliher, owner of Vallet Cleanegs and Dyers, Mitchell, South Dakota, for his success secrets, he insisted he was "just an ordinary guy," and not successful enough to be "written up."

But I had been hearing things about him through the Nettleton Commercial College in Sioux Falls, one of the hundred colleges that teach my courses in salesmanship. I had also read about him in the American Drycleaners, a trade magazine that thought enough of his ideas to want to pass them along to other cleaners.

Now Dave Galliher isn't a big money bags, but a small businessman. But by using his creative imagination, he has not only built a nice business but attracted nation-wide attention.

Creative imagination is his success secret. He "dreams up" promotions such as giving away a deck of Canasta Cards as a premium, and he writes his own advertising, which sizzles. Recently he sent out formal looking "invitations" for customers to come to his place of business.

Could Lincoln Have Been Wrong

By DAVID BAXTER

PART TWO

In some ways Lincoln and Franklin Roosevelt had much in common. The original Lincoln Republicans believed in strongly centralized Federal government and less state rights, or sovereignty. Lincoln always did make a big issue of that. The Republicans, generally, made a policy of centering power in Washington, until Roosevelt gave them a belly full of it. Since then they've bellowed about state rights and Federal Bureaucrats almost as loudly as the southern Democrats. I suppose the thing depends pretty much on whose foot the shoe fits. If Roosevelt taught the Republicans a lesson about Federal controls, that's one useful thing he did, anyway.

For another thing, Lincoln probably gave Roosevelt the idea of conscription, that is, legally stealing men's lives and property. The Civil War president was all for drafting other people's sons, although he kept his own favorite son out of the army by hiring another young man to take his place. That was legal during the Civil War. If drafted, you could hire some other person to take your place upon payment of $500. Roosevelt, of course, did not attempt to keep his sons out of World War II. He had them all made captains, remember? They started off, without any experience, right at the top.

Another close parallel between Lincoln and Roosevelt was their glorification by a lot of hoodlums called "the majority," who favor any kind of immorality and dishonesty if a government or president sanctions it. The Federal jails were full of Lincoln's political opponents and dissenters against his war on the south, many of them—northern men—summarily dealt with without trial. It was the Union president who coined the term "copperhead," in referring to people who disagreed with his policies, just as Roosevelt used the same term on some of us, including Lindbergh and Senator Wheeler, who were against his plunging us into World War II. History having been falsified and the truth suppressed, it is likely that in due time F. D. R. will be "immortalized", worshiped almost as a god, and a big temple and statue like Lincoln's erected to his memory in Washington.

As for consistency, Roosevelt, in seeking his third term, denounced the "bureaucracy" and "extravagance" of the Hoover administration, yet, as president, he himself built up the worst bureaucracy the nation ever saw and spent more money than all previous presidents combined. Lincoln, as a congressman, denounced the proposal of president Polk to annex California to the Union, yet it was California's gold which later enabled Lincoln to win the Civil War— an aggressive war to prevent southern states from exercising their right to be self-determining and withdraw from the union. The present world Federalists will give the U. S. a dose of the same medicine if we get into a one-world government, don't like it and try to get out.

It is obvious that, with all his good qualities and humble, log-cabin background, Abraham Lincoln also had some traits that were not so good, chief of which was his violation of state rights and individual independence in favor of more and more centralized and bureaucratic Federal government, the same bad trait F. D. R. had. If this sounds as though I had become a rebel, you're entitled to your opinion. I am only going on what reliable historians have recorded, which many people have missed because they have no liking for history. One thing is is certain had I been living during the Lincoln administration I would have had some pretty strong objections to its policies, and would probably have been called a "copperhead" and thrown in the jug. I have an old history book of post Civil War vintage which was owned by a lady who was 21 years old when Lincoln was president. This old history bestows a great deal of praise upon the "martyred" president but I notice the lady scribbled on the margin, "Lincoln lied. He said he would keep us out of war." Her son tells me that when the news came in of the president's passing, his mother, ordinarily a good Baptist, jumped up and down shouting, "HALLELUJAH!" A northern woman, too.

The south, of course, lost the shooting war. It remained in the union against its will—by force. But whether the south lost the war of IDEAS is something else again. A principle is a principle. If it's a true one you can't destroy it with bayonets. It's still true, no matter how many people you shoot for believing in it. Which leads us to the issue, the principle involved in the Civil War —the same one that is with us today—the issue of individual independence vs collectivism.

news behind the news

By RAY TUCKER

WASHINGTON — The intra-party struggle within the Republican Party over the question of an official demand for Dean Acheson's dismissal represents a renewal of the ancient Dewey - Taft rivalry for GOP control at the presidential convention in 1952. The New York governor and the Ohio senator are jockeying for position in that race.

Mr. Dewey intervened in Capitol Hill Republicans' discussions of the Acheson problem at the moment when it seemed that they were determined to frame a formal demand for ouster of the secretary of State. The immediate effect was that Senator Irving L. Ives of New York, a Dewey pal, began to weaken in his anti-Acheson maneuvers.

Although Senator Ives had voted for Mr. Acheson's confirmation and adhered to bi-partisan handling of foreign policy questions, he had become convinced that the country had lost faith in President Truman's foreign minister.

The Ives shift caused more worry at the White House and State Department than any other anti-Acheson maneuvers at the other end of Pennsylvania Avenue.

BUCK — Senator Taft immediately recognized the purpose behind the New York governor's protest against making Mr. Acheson's face a party matter. Although the Ohioan has been a severe critic of the administration's handling of foreign affairs, he quickly refused to assume responsibility for sponsoring a dismissal resolution.

As chairman of the Republican senators' Policy Committee, he passed the buck to a caucus of the full GOP membership.

As a prospective 1952 nominee, the Ohio senator does not want the Democrats to be able to pin the label of "obstructionist" or "isolationist" on him, as President Truman tried to do in last month's effort to end Mr. Taft's political career.

Nor did he want the Albany man to be in position, in 1952, to brand him as "out-of-date" and "out of step."

INTERFERENCE — Governor Dewey's intervention in Capitol Hill Republicans' decisions on national and international issues is resented fiercely here, even by those who incline to agree with him.

Since he has no vote or voice in such matters, being a mere state executive, they cannot understand why he "pokes his nose into the situation," to use their homely phrase.

They liken his present interference with his action last winter, when a joint committee representing House and Senate Republicans, and spokesmen from the national committee, framed a "declaration of party principles."

A bloc representing the Dewey type of "liberal" — Senators Ives of New York, Lodge of Massachusetts, Aiken of Vermont, Smith of Maine, and Representative Javitts of New York — denounced it as a collection of "vague generalities."

ATTACK — Indeed, on the same day that this declaration appeared with a mere promise of "protection" of the rights of minority groups, the Republican-controlled Assembly at Albany memorialized Congress to enact the FEPC legislation demanded by President Truman. The Dewey demand was spurned here by both Democrats and Republicans.

Inasmuch as the Washington declaration was largely a Gabrielson-Taft product, the Dewey denunciation was interpreted as an attack on them.

Both National Chairman Gabrielson and Mr. Taft stoutly defended their handiwork, and it has been the inspiration for their attitude toward the Truman Fair Deal on Capitol Hill during the present session, as it will be when the 82nd Congress assembles next January.

ASSET — The prospective removal of General "Ike" Eisenhower from the 1952 Republican picture is believed here to be one of the main reasons for Governor Dewey's decision to declare open war on the so-called "federal faction" of GOP leaders.

The military hero had been regarded as a Dewey asset in the presidential race, provided the New York Governor could not win the nomination for himself. Mr. Dewey has advocated an Eisenhower nomination.

It seems obvious now that the 1952 convention struggle will resolve itself into a desperate battle between the Dewey and Taft forces. Whereas many GOP leaders have been won to the selection of the Ohioan because of his remarkable run last month against the allied Democratic, labor and liberal hosts, his selection would mean permanent exile of Tom Dewey from party influence, councils and from the Cabinet, if Mr. Taft should win.

As of today, almost any Republican could defeat Harry S. Truman, which makes the 1952 prize so desirable from an opposition standpoint.

FAVORED — Although they might not appreciate the honor, in view of the Dewey-inspired bitterness among Republicans at Washington, the New York Governor's favored 1952 entries are understood to be Governor Earl Warren of California, the Albany man's running-mate in 1948, and Senator-elect Everett McKinley Dirksen of Illinois, a Dewey adviser in the ill-fated 1948 campaign. Had Dewey been elected, Mr. Dirksen would have been named to the Cabinet.

Thus, although it seems that no party could be more hopelessly divided and weakened than the Democrats at the present moment, the Republicans also suffer from a seemingly irreconcilable conflict between the Taft and Dewey forces and the philosophies they symbolize.

The way to make use of creative ideas, he tells me, is to carry a supply of 3x5 cards in your pocket at all times. When you get a bright idea, a hunch, an inspiration, jot it down on the card before you forget it.

"Everybody gets ideas," he says, "but the trouble is they get away unless you nail them down."

The Nation's Press

WHAT DID YOU EXPECT FROM ENGLAND?

(The Chicago Daily Tribune)

The British are knocking themselves out trying to avoid getting entangled in a major war with China or the communist world empire. We can't blame them too severely. Mr. Truman and Mr. Acheson have got us into this jam, and the British, having seen the appalling result, are saying, "Thanks, no. We have a previous engagement."

This attitude, however, puts a considerable strain on the fiction that the dirty work in Asia is a United Nations war and that "collective security" is in process of being attained.

When Sir Gladwyn Jebb was called upon for a few well chosen remarks before the U. N. security council, he studiously refrained from any mention of aggression by the Chinese Communists, contenting himself with a routine denunciation of North Korean aggression. This showed a high talent for disregarding the obvious staring one in the face.

Yet it has been a consistent pretense that anything that the United States did in Korea involved 52 other nations equally, as this was a United Nations war approved by that many noncommunist states, and our forces were there merely as U. N. agents. When it comes to laying it on the line, however, everybody else takes a walk.

There is no reason why this should come as any surprise. What Britain has made it abundantly clear that it will honor international commitments only as long as they are in the British national interest. Everybody had proof of that last June, when the executive committee of the ruling Labor party turned thumbs down on the Schuman plan for pooling western European iron and steel resources.

The party pronouncement rejected any merging of Britain's politics or economics with other countries, declared opposition to any "supra-national authority," and said that England would not take "mandatory decisions by a majority vote" from any international organization.

If there were any surviving doubts about Britain's position, they were set to rest in the proceedings of the Council of Europe's consultative assembly in Paris just before the Chinese Communists launched their Korean offensive. The idea of a European federation with supra-national authority was abandoned there in deference to the clearly expressed refusal of England to have any part of such an arrangement.

There is not the slightest reason to believe that Britain would make an exception of the United Nations and depart from its established policy of holding aloof from supra-national authorities denying England the power of independent decision in its own interest. This, in the British view, may be a U. N. war, but America can fight it.

Last May, at Madison, Wis., Mr. Truman said that the sole course before the United States was to "move forward ... in cooperation with other free countries."

"Isolationism," he said, " is no alternative. Isolationism is only a counsel of despair. Isolationism would bring on another war, and it would be a war in which we might stand alone against the rest of the world."

We have the war, and for all practical purposes we are standing alone, and isolationism certainly did not bring it on. Internationalism brought it on, but the other countries that have wished the doctrine on us are not sharing the results and responsibilities.

The Excess Profit Tax Hurts The Working Man Most

The politicians undoubtedly will enact an excess profit tax, already approved by the House, not because it helps the working man, as most people believe, but because it is popular—because it makes votes. Little do they care whether an excess profit tax lowers the standard of living of all people or not.

An excess profit tax is a violation of moral law and therefore is uneconomical and harmful. That is true because no act that is a violation of the Commandments or the Golden Rule is good or practical in the long run.

The so-called "excess tax" is harmful because it takes away from the 10 talent man his ability to serve himself and mankind. It takes the tools out of the hands of those people who know how to use them to produce the most. It puts the tools in the hands of the politicians who decide things by voters rather than by production. The result is, of course, that the men who work with their hands mostly have to work with poorer tools and therefore can produce less and therefore their wages have to be less. That is true because no man's wages for long can be more than he produces. Wages are not increased because of labor unions or collective bargaining or laws intended to help the one talent man, but wages are increased for one reason only—and that is when we have more and better tools and more knowledge, and knowledge is a tool.

But our Congressmen want to let the great mass of people believe that they are going to pay for the war by some mystical thing called "excess profits." Nobody could define excess profits who has any conception of morals. It is invariably arbitrary. It invariably works great injustice to those it affects. It is based on the arbitrary will of men, not on the moral law that all men are equal before God. It denies that the rain falls on the just and unjust, and assumes that men, our Congressmen, are wiser than Providence.

The excess profit tax is putting the same error in taxing groups as a graduated income tax puts on private individuals. It is simply putting a graduation on corporations as well as on individuals. It is just as absurd to have an excess profit tax or graduated income tax as it would be to tax or penalize soldiers who captured or killed the enemy. The more enemies they captured or killed, the more they would be penalized.

The excess profit tax and the graduated income tax are based on the erroneous theory that man's producing wealth harms some individuals, and that he gets rich by impoverishing other people rather than enriching them. If a corporation produces great wealth, this wealth would belong to the stockholders who put their money in it. And any income made by corporations for rendering a service that people most need, does not harm anybody. It helps everybody.

The excess profit tax is a political move to keep the present Congressmen in power. No man can defend an excess profit tax or a graduated income tax if he is obliged to answer questions without evasion. He cannot defend them because in the final analysis he could not set down any general principle or rule as a guide in determining how taxes should be levied. They deny the moral law that all men should pay to the government in proportion to the cost of the service the government renders to the individual. That is if one man has 10 times as much property as another, he should pay 10 times as much tax. He should pay in proportion, but not progressively.

The excess profit tax and the graduated income tax are purely Communistic. They are a way of socializing and communizing and impoverishing the American people.

It is a crime that our congressmen are fooling the voters. When the blind or wicked lead the blind they both fall in the ditch.

In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD —(NEA)— I've got Barbara Stanwyck's word for it that Robert Taylor's legs—in case anybody's worried about them — are just jim-dandy in "Quo Vadis."

Barbara isn't saying how they'll stack up to Errol Flynn's shanks when he slips on the tights or to Lex Barker's muscled calves when he swings on those jungle vines.

"All I can say," she told me, "is that Bob's legs are very good in the picture. I saw them and I know."

Take it from Barbara, just any movie profile king couldn't put on the short, above-the-knee costumes that her hubby wears in the $7,000,000 epic and get away with it.

Nothing's been that brief in the line of skirts since Clara Bow Charlestoned her way through Elinor Glynn's "It" back in the silent era.

"Bob was concerned about his legs, all right," Barbara deadlevels. "Believe me, he has nothing to worry about."

She didn't spend much time looking over the director's shoulder in Rome while her better-half emoted in MGM's saga of Christians and lions tangling in the Roman arenas.

It was blazing hot in the city that Ingrid Bergman, Roberto Rossellini and Anna Magnano call home. Shudders Barbara:

"They were shooting scenes with lions and bulls. Everything smelled to high heaven."

"HI YO, SILVERTOP"

The Italians gaped at Barbara's gray hair and some newsmen described it in print as her "silver top."

Barbara gave them the straight of it on her Mother Machree locks.

"I told them it just got gray. I hate bleached hair. I just loathe it. Some people tell me I ought to do something about my gray hair. Good ', why?"

She photographed as blonde as Clark Gable's Sylvia when she costarred with Gable in "To Please a Lady" and she'll be hornswoggled if she'll dip her tresses into BANQUET—Juniors and Seniors of Lefors High School feasting at the annual banquet in the Schneider Hotel Dining Room Saturday night.

Reeves Speaker At Lefors High Junior-Senior Fete

LEFORS — (Special) — E. R. Reeves, former superintendent of Lefors schools, was the guest speaker at the annual Junior-Senior Banquet that was held at 8 p.m. Saturday, in the Schneider Hotel Dining Room.

"Hitch Your Wagon to a Star" was the theme for this fete honoring the seniors of 1951, directed by junior class sponsors, Norma Lee Lantz and L. H. Berryman.

Guests for the banquet were the members of the junior and senior classes, class mothers, and the members of the high school faculty.

R. C. Wilson gave the invocation. Shirley Perkins, toastmaster and junior class president, welcomed the seniors, to which David Coeger, senior class president, responded. Lawson Shaw gave the benediction.

For entertainment, Edward Wiggins sang "Stardust" and a sextet, composed of Melba Hill, Fern McCathern, Wanda Vaughn, Jaculyn Chitwood, Bobby Jack Bishop, and Wayne Sims, sang "Swingin' on a Star."

The tables were decorated with place cards, nut cups shaped as wagons hitched to stars, and centerpieces formed of large silver stars.

Summer drapes of plastic fabric need only be dusted.

Josephine Bowers, Ray Showalter Exchange Vows

SHAMROCK —(Special)— Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Josephine Bowers of Lubbock, daughter of Stanley Bowers of Maple, to Ray L. Showalter of Shamrock, director of the high school band.

Nuptial vows were exchanged Dec. 2 at Lubbock in a double-ring ceremony. Judge Davidson officiated.

Mrs. Showalter, a graduate of Plains high school, took a degree in elementary education at Texas Technological College, Lubbock, and at the time of her marriage was teaching in the Petersburg schools.

Mr. Showalter graduated from the Hobbs, N. M., high school and Texas Tech, with a major in band. He served 18 months in the Air Corps. The couple is at home in Shamrock.

MINIMUM WAGE

Dear Grace:

I have been told that California has a law that no woman can be paid less than 65 cents an hour. Will you please tell me if a business place such as a store or laundry can pay a woman or girl less than 65 cents an hour.

Mrs. T.

Dear Mrs. T.

California has a minimum wage law of 65 cents an hour for women. Learners may be paid 50 cents an hour for the first 200 hours then must be raised to 65 cents.

Domestics are not covered in this law.

If you are employed in a laundry in California and have worked there more than 200 hours you should receive 65 cents an hour.

INCONSIDERATE GUESTS

Dear Miss Friend:

Recently my husband and I invited two other couples to go with us to our mountain cabin for a week end. The day before we were to leave one of the couples called to tell us that they had asked two of their friends to join us for the week end.

Now, it is true we were all going to share the expense of food etc. but the cabin is ours and my husband and I felt that these people should not have invited others to go along. We have been wondering if we are unfair in our attitude about such things so decided to ask you what you think.

Mrs. F.

Dear Mrs. F.

Certainly the couple were wrong to invite others to join you for your week end. The cabin was yours and you had made the arrangements. Even though everyone was to share the cost of the food, it still was up to you to do the inviting. Your guests were most inconsiderate in inviting others to join you without consulting you first.

You can see where this would lead if each couple decided on their own to invite another couple. Someone would be sleeping out in the cold.

Texan Is Proud of Sorghum Molasses

PARIS, Texas —(AP)— When you pour that sorghum 'lasses on those hot pancakes these cold mornings, give thanks to men like H. E. Hall, who is one of a vanishing clan of Texans who know how to make the succulent syrup.

Hall lives in the Maxey community of Lamar County. For nigh on to 30 years now, he's been growing his own sorghum, pressing it and cooking it into molasses.

For 15 years he's been using the same mill to press the juice out of the stalks. He built it himself. "That old mill just keeps rolling, says Hall, "and the molasses just keep pouring."

But, says Hall, the secret of good sorghum molasses is in the cooking.

Hall tests his sorghum when the leaves start turning brown. "That juice has gotta be sweet," he said.

"The you strip it in the field," he says. It is allowed to lay in the field a day or two "the longer the better. Makes the cane sweeter."

Then it is run through the mill and the juice is carried by pipe to a barrel. Then with a bucket, Hall transfers the juice to another barrel atop the cooking vat.

"That's where the real syrup making starts," says Hall. The juice is turned into the cooking pan with a spigot. It takes about 55 gallons of juice to make seven gallons of syrup.

The pan contains a series of 14 troughs that open into each other. Hall stands guard to strain out all impurities. The juice travels through the troughs, cooking more and more as it goes. By the time it reaches the last trough, it is a golden brown ready to go on those hot cakes.

"Boy," just take a whiff of the aroma," Hall bragged this fall as he looked through a cloud of steam from the pan. He explained that it took two hours to cook the juice properly.

He says the handling of the syrup in the pan is the real secret of success. He had his pan made to his own specifications.

His cane crop was a little short this summer. He made about 300 gallons from his two and a half acres. Last year he produced about 150 to 160 gallons from the same acreage.

After making his own run, Hall cooks molasses for friends up and down the Red River Valley.

Last year, Hall produced about 500 gallons for himself and friends. This year, he ran off 600 or 700 gallons.

"Syrup making isn't as big a business as it once was," Hall recalled. "Back in 1942 and '43, we'd put out, 2,000 gallons a season. Folks just don't grow much sorghum nowadays.

Hall comes from a molasses-making family. His father, the late E. D. Hall, was famed for his skill in making syrup.

About the only modern touch in this manufacturing process is the power for the mill. A long wooden pole horizontally atop the mill is turned to grind the sorghum. For years, a horse walked around and around the mill, pulling the pole. Hall has substituted a tractor for the animal.

GEN. EISENHOWER—MOLDER OF ARMIES

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, liberator of Europe in 1944-45, has been recalled from his civilian job as president of Columbia University to head up the collective armed forces being formed by 12 North Atlantic Pact nations for the defense of Western Europe. Here are some candid glimpses of the famous five-star general, who has told President Truman "I am always available for any duty in uniform to which I am assigned."

Artist's sketch of General "Ike" as a soldier. In Europe he would command a unified army of 50 divisions, plus strong naval forces and a mighty air armada.

At left, General Eisenhower in Europe, December, 1944. The crusade was nearing its end. General Ike's genius as a molder of allied armies into one successful fighting machine had paid off. At right, the general takes over as president of Columbia University in New York to become a molder of youth.

Ike at the White House, October, 1950, where he assured President Truman he is always ready for any call to duty as a soldier. The hat has been thrown into the political ring by everybody but "Ike."

JACOBY ON CANASTA

Avoid Dishonest Mannerisms

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

There is no such person as the perfect canasta player. Even the best of them, on occasion, seem to have trouble counting to 120. A card will be discarded; the next player will reach for it, pause, look a little sheepish and finally draw from the stock.

This is a mannerism that can't be helped. Furthermore it usually helps the enemy because it warns your right hand opponent against throwing you anotner card of the same rank.

With this in mind I was recently asked if there was any excuse for going through that same act when you had no use at all for the card ordered to you.

The answer to that question is a very definite "No." It is unethical for a canasta player to try to fool his opponents by any mannerism. Poker is the only card game in which such tactics are proper. In canasta and all other card games you must use only honest mannerisms and as few of them as you can.

A player should also lean way over backwards to avoid a mannerism that must be of help to his partner. For example, I recently watched two good canasta players struggling with a hand in which they had been having 120 trouble. The opponents had melded early, grabbed some discard piles and were off to the races. The only hope of this partnership was a quick out.

Finally he put down the kings and queens. Then he thought a while and added a deuce to the kings. This clearly showed his partner that he did not have another king or queen in his hand. Then he put the other deuce on the table, thought several seconds, added the pair of tens and discarded the nine.

Partner B is not only a very good canasta player; he is also very ethical. After drawing from the stock he added a queen to make the fourth queen. Then he melded four nines and produced two deuces.

Before doing anything with the deuces he said, "Partner, I know positively from the manner in which you melded that you have another nine in your hand. When you first put down the deuce and then studied what to put with it, it was obvious to me that you had two pairs in your hand.

"However, it is absolutely certain that you cannot hold a queen or you would have melded a deuce with the queens. Therefore I am going to add the deuce to the nines and am only making this little speech so that the next player will know that you are certain to go out."

Last time Barbara batted her eyelashes at Gable was when he was a Mr. Nobody back in 1933 in a picture titled "Night Nurse."

"Clark had a stinking role", she chuckles. "He played a chauffeur. The picture made him a star, though. The day it opened at the Strand theater in New York, it is was my name and Ben Lyon's on the marquee. The second day they changed the lights to read, 'With Clark Gable.' On the third day, it was Stanwyck and Gable. The fourth day all you could see was CLARK GABLE."

Barbara is a lass who's right in there pitching in front of the cameras when other movie queens are pleading shingles, anemia, virus and a plain-pooped-out state to producers who suggest it would be a good idea to do more than one picture a year.

She says she'll do as many as they pitch at her, because "I get tired sitting around."

Her business manager can yell about higher income tax brackets until the cows come home.

"Oh, Hades, so you give the money to the government," Barbara reasons. "Look, I work to improve myself and to make pictures with certain people. Not that I'm an angel with a halo around my head. Sure, I'd like to keep the money, too. What would n't?"

WANTS TO GO WESTERN

Right now she's pining to go galloping across the plains as a wild west Dusse.

"I don't mean the little gal who's left behind at the old rancho and waves goodby to the men. No, something like 'The Furies' with shooting and carrying-on.

"Let's see, I've done two other westerns, 'Annie Oakley' at RKO yeers ago and 'California.' I was crazy to do 'Belle Sta.' but Zanuck fired me before I could get a chance at it."

"Once in a while you have to depart from pictures like 'Double Indemnity' and 'Thelma Jordan'—the ones where you're screaming and hollering and falling down stairs."

Except for a hankering for at least one whack at being a Maisie of the movies once in a while, Barbara has no blueprint for the future.

"I just want to act," she sighs. "I just want to try to learn something before they finally shoot me."

Her maid tagged her "Missy," she explains, and most people call her that.

"But Bill Holden calls me 'The Queen.' And Errol Flynn calls me Hefa. That last one sends me straight to the showers."

Video producers are adopting Hollywood's old trick of dialogue written on out-of-camera range blackboards for forgetful stars. In his declining years, the late John Barrymore alyays demanded a blackboard for difficult passages of dialogue. He refused to be chided about it, explaining:

"There hasn't been a line of dialogue written since Shakespeare that's worth memorizing."
