Two Die, Nine Hurt In Blast

Refinery Plant At Fort Worth Swept By Fire

Danger Of Second Explosion Is Put Down By Firemen

(By The Associated Press)

FORT WORTH, Sept. 20—A terrific explosion rocked Magnolia refinery No. 1 here at about 8:55 a. m. today, setting off a raging fire, killing at least two men and injuring at least nine others.

On-the-scene observers said that as late as 10:25 a. m. there was danger of another explosion, but city firemen were atop refinery super structure battling flames.

One Is Identified

One of the dead men was identified as:

George Aston, 42, refinery "still man," who lived in a company cottage near the plant.

E. R. Harris, refinery worker is missing.

Taken to St. Joseph's hospital:

J. W. Folmar, 58, refinery superintendent who lives at Hodge station, broken leg and hand and face burns and arm cuts; Thomas W. Cooper, 39, burns; M. L. D. Smith, 52, burns; C. F. Unruh, 53, burns; W. T. Wallace, 42, burns, possible broken right leg; W. A. Reagan, 46, burns; Lloyd Jamar, 26, burns; Charles R. Besbitt, 20, face, head, arm and leg burns; Murray O'Neal, shock and cuts.

Reagan, a coker, said apparently a valve had been left open in the engine room and that gas possibly backed into the room. He said he found a leak, closed the valve and then ran outside, escaping full force of the explosion by a few seconds.

"I thought everybody was out."

No More Bloodshot Eyes Or Shaky Paws

Tippling Hounds Of Britain Forced To Go On 'The Wagon'

PRESTWICH, England, Sept. 20. (AP)—With bloodshot eyes and trembling paws the drinking dogs of Prestwich scuttled into their favorite saloons today. They got a shock. Their drinks are cut off.

Dr. C. H. T. Wade, the city health officer, said the wave of tippling by dogs at the local pubs has got to stop.

"They have dirty habits," he said, "and most pubs only rinse the glasses."

Alderman A. L. Williams of the health committee agreed.

"We don't say our dogs are drunkards," he told a reporter, "but too many of them are drinking beer from the same glasses used by other patrons."

Bernard Hadfield, proprietor of The Ostrich, said most of the drinking dogs he know were moderate about it—half a pint or so a night. But he said he had seen at least one who'd had a drop too much.

"Mind you," said Hadfield, "he may have been new to it, but he certainly staggered home."

INFORMATION EXCHANGE TALKED

Parley On Atomic Secrets Underway

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20—The United States, Britain and Canada open negotiations today for a new agreement on (1) exchanging atomic secrets and (2) sharing the uranium from which the A-bomb is made. Their war-worn A-bomb partnership is at stake.

The negotiations at this stage are wholly "exploratory" because President Truman has promised that he will not make any commitments until after consulting Congress.

In an atmosphere that was only slightly less than completely secret, representatives of the three governments were called together at the State department.

Officials Are Restricted

American officials are closely restricted as to what they can do or say about atomic energy information—even within the conference with the British and Canadians. They are reported anxious to try to bring some threeway understanding as to the progress each nation has achieved in atomic energy and atomic bomb research and development in the past two years or so.

Yet their own hands are not free for such an exchange and presumably they would be unable to tell the British and French, for example, the size of the U. S. atomic bomb stockpile or the power and effectiveness of the latest

Second Polio Death In Family Reported

Darla May Dahinden, three-year-old Clovis girl, died of polio at 9 a. m. at Lubbock memorial hospital. She was adimtted late Sunday night—the same day her 18-month-old half brother, Rodney Paul Starr, was buried after succumbing to the disease on Saturday.

Her father, Dalbert Dahinden, an Air Force pilot, was killed in a plane crash in Kansas several years ago.

She would have celebrated her next birthday in October.

Survivors include her mother, Mrs. Elda Starr; her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Deavours of Lubbock and Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Dahinden of New York City, and her great-grandmother, Mrs. M. E. Deavours of Shallowater.

Sanders Funeral home attendants said the body was to be returned to Clovis this afternoon. Time for services is not definite. But she will be buried in the Clovis cemetery alongside her half-brother.

New Bride Faints As Hubby's Wife, Children Show Up

TAMPICO, Mexico, Sept. 20 (U.P.)—When oil worker Juan Orozco Soto walked from the church, a new bride on his arm, he found his wife and his five children waiting on the steps.

The bride fainted. His children ran to embrace him. The wedding guests became angry and threw stones. Orozo Soto leaped into an automobile and fled.

He failed to return for either wife.

Planes Watch Ocean Areas

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 20. (AP)—Navy hurricane hunting planes were investigating two widely separated "areas of suspicion" today, one in the Gulf of Mexico and the other east of the Lesser Antilles.

Grady Norton, chief storm forecaster in the Miami weather bureau, said there was "nothing to worry about as yet but we've got to watch them."

Area Is Located

The area in the Gulf of Mexico was located about in the center of the western half, between 800 and 900 miles west of Miami.

"This looks a little suspicious," Norton said. "It isn't a storm yet. It's a wave of showery, squally weather and we're going to have to watch it."

The other area was reported some 200 miles east of the Lesser Antilles, roughly 1,300 miles east southeast of Miami. "I'm not worried about this one at present," Norton said.

Hurricane hunting planes took off from Roosevelt Roads, Puerto Rico, and Corpus Christi, Texas, to check both areas. An army plane was scheduled to fly into the Lesser Antilles area this afternoon to continue the watch.

Mother Admits Shooting To Police

65-Year-Old Woman Charged With Slaying Of Daughter

(By The Associated Press)

KINGWOOD, W. Va., Sept. 20.—A 65-year-old woman is in jail here today on first degree murder charges after authorities quoted her as saying she killed her 25-year-old daughter and kept the body at home for a week.

Mrs. Jennie McIntee was ordered held without bond for the Preston county grand jury after she pleaded innocent at a hearing in magistrate's court yesterday.

Sheriff J. H. Benson said Mrs. McIntee told him she shot her daughter, Mrs. Mae Piper of nearby Grape Thicket, last Tuesday because "she perted me."

Mrs. Piper's body was found yesterday on a cot in the home she shared with her mother. Benson said she had suffered a .22 calibre bullet wound in the head.

The officer reported finding the body after a neighbor asked Mrs. McIntee about her daughter and was told:

"She is out back lying on a bed. I shot her."

The reason for the shooting.

Czech Priests Held To Boost State Control

Offers Of Salary Increase Fail To Win Clergy Favor

(By The Associated Press)

PRAGUE, Sept. 20 — The Czechoslovak government has jailed dozens of Roman Catholic priests and nuns in a big new wave of arrests aimed at breaking spreading resistance to state control schemes, a statement from church sources said today.

The report, give nto correspondents here and enumerating at least 30 arrests, was termed only a partial list. It said more arrests were expected as the long-state-church fight neared a showdown stage.

Offers Turned Down

In one case the entire personnel of a monastery was reported seized. In another the staff of a theological seminary were taken, together with their office printing equipment.

In some cases the reasons for arrests were not known. But, according to church sources, the campaign was apparently a widespread crackdown instituted after offers of salary increases and other blandishments had failed to win the priests over to the government's side in the state-church controversy.

The government has published a proposed church law, to be enacted by parliament this fall, which would give the state power over all church appointments and administration.

Objectives Listed

According to churchmen the government's drive apparently had three major objectives:

1—To break up a communications network by which priests maintain contact with Archbishop Josef Beran and the other bishops. Beran has remained inside his police-guarded palace since June 19.

2—To break priests' resistance to the proposed new church civil law which would make all churchmen civil servants and subservient to the regime.

3—To frighten priests from carrying out the Vatican's excum-

Blast Rips Dwelling, Burying Mother, Son

HOUSTON, Sept. 20 (U.P.) — An unexplained blast ripped the walls from a small apartment here early today, trapping a 25-year-old mother and her young son in the ruins.

Mrs. Harriett O. Potter was found by neighbors, lying amid the burning wood. Her son, Larry, 3, was still in his crib, pinned under huge wooden beams.

Both were rushed to a hospital in critical condition. Mrs. Potter reportedly suffered burns over most of her body.

Police found a note on a charred kitchen table, presumably written by Mrs. Potter. It said, "I seem to have made a mess of everything," and said her husband, Robert L. Potter, worked at the Letourneau Institute of Technology at Longview.

U. S. Industry Is Hit Hard By Labor Unrest

Number Of Idle Is Expected To Pass Two Million Mark

(By The United Press)

The coal strike threw the brakes on American industry today and it appeared that additional walkouts in the steel and auto industries would idle more than 2,000,000 persons within three weeks.

The strike by John L. Lewis' 480,000 United Mine Workers forced railroads to announce layoffs for 26,424 employes.

Furnaces Are Banked

Steel mills began banking their furnaces to let them cool slowly in the face of CIO President Philip Murray's flat statement that his 1,000,000 steelworkers would strike at midnight Saturday unless the firms acceded to his demands.

It appeared that only swift personal action by President Truman could head off the steel strike although Murray was scheduled to meet again today with industry officials under the guidance of chief federal mediator Cyrus Ching.

Throughout the land, a slow freeze hit production as firms put out stop orders while assessing their supplies of fuel and raw material in the light of actual or threatened strikes as labor opened an all-out fight for fourth-round wage boosts and welfare benefits.

Ford Strike Set

Walter Reuther's CIO United Auto Workers notified the Ford company that 115,000 workers would walk out Sept. 29 because of failure to agree on a new contract. About 2,200 employes at the Edgewater, N. J., Ford plant quit yesterday in a wildcat strike demanding action on a new contract, but they returned to their jobs today.

If the steelworkers join the miners, nearly 1,500,000 workers would be off the job by Monday. A Ford strike would boost the total to 1,615,000 four days later. From there, the total idle would snowball as plants shut down for lack of materials.

Lewis' miners were settling back for a lengthy autumn vacation without pay but the actual duration of the strike will depend on whether the mine leader reaches an agreement with southern operators at negotiations resumed today at Bluefield, W. Va., and with northern and western operators at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., tomorrow.

Layoffs Are Announced

By midnight last night, railroads began announcing lay-offs in maintenance shops or on trains operating in the coalfields. They included furlough announcements by: Pennsylvania railroad, 15,000

Civic Leaders Are To Gather

First arrivals were expected this afternoon for Panhandle-South Plains meetings here Wednesday to discuss organization of a permanent Canadian river water conservation project.

The meeting will be convened at 10:30 a. m. in the directors' room of the chamber of commerce and will be shifted at noon to the Hilton hotel for a luncheon and closing business session, according to Clarence Whiteside, Lubbock city commissioner who is chairman of the temporary organization.

Several Cities Included

The early arrivals, Whiteside said, are expected to include a delegation from Borger and Col. E. V. Spence of Austin, interstate compact commissioner of Texas.

Members of the Borger delegation were expected to include Joe Cooley, manager of the chamber of commerce and secretary of the temporary Canadian river organization, A. A. Meredith, city manager, George Finger, city commissioner, and Fritz Thompson, county commissioner.

Representations also are expected from Amarillo, Pampa, Canyon, Tulia, Plainview, Slaton, Tahoka, O'Donnell and Lamesa.

Participants in the meeting from Lubbock are to include city officials, the city water resources board and directors of the cham-

Supersonic Speeds For Sustained Periods Are Imminent

Fast New Planes Promised

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20—Aircraft able to fly at supersonic speeds for sustained periods are imminent, top government research experts told leaders in civil and military aviation today.

Supersonic speed—meaning faster than sound, which under average surface air conditions is 761 miles an hour—has been achieved many times in the X-1, a rocket-powered research craft. But the X-1 has fuel for only 2½ minutes at full power. Its dashes beyond the limits of sound speed are measured in seconds.

The approach of sustained travel in the supersonic range was discussed briefly today during the third annual inspection of the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA) flight propulsion laboratory. Officials did not say how long they meant by "sustained", or how soon they meant by "imminent."

More than 1,000 representatives of the defense department and other government agencies, aircraft, engine and equipment manufacturers, and air transport and research organizations accepted invitations for the three-day showing of the past year's achievements. The $50,000,000 installatio is devoted entirely to power plants for aircraft and missiles.

The X-1 has reached about 1,000 miles an hour at very high altitudes — something over ten miles up. Nearly two-thirds of its total weight is fuel which the four rocket

Romulo To Head UN

DELIGHTED BY MIRACLE OF SOUND—Deaf since birth, Patty Wyant, 5, utters a squeal of delight as she recognizes the beat of a tom-tom over the ear phones of an auditory training unit in Des Moines, Ia. Cindy Cox, 4, also deaf, beats the drum at rear. Youngsters who have lived in a world of silence since birth are taught words like "mommy" and "daddy" and hear for the first time barking dogs and the sound of a train whistle. In this training session, Patty is expected to knock over a block each time she hears a beat of the tom-tom. Both children have been training to hear sound for just a few weeks.

Delegates Of 59 Countries Are On Hand

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 — Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Philippines was elected president of the United Nations assembly today. He immediately challenged the 59 delegations to make this "the peace assembly."

Romulo was elected a few minutes after the assembly opened its fourth session in the packed blue and gold assembly chamber at Flushing Meadow park, site of the 1939 World's Fair.

Romulo got 53 of the 59 votes.

Asks For Cooperation

The Soviet bloc cast five votes for Vladimir Clementis, Czechoslovak foreign minister. The other ballot was declared invalid.

Romulo pleaded for cooperation among the big powers. He said world political conditions already were improving and it was the job of the assembly to see that this trend continued.

"This session," he said, "coincides with a turning point in post was international relations.

"Though many formidable obstacles to world peace remain, the danger of a new war which overshadowed our deliberations in Paris a year ago has greatly abated. . . .

"I hope this session will earn for itself the title," "the peace assembly."

U. N. officials listed 18 foreign ministers at the head of delegations, prepared to tackle 72 subjects already on schedule for debate.

WILD TRADING FOLLOWS POUND CUT

Exchanges Rushed With Gold Orders

(By The Associated Press)

Flurries of wild trading broke out today on the crowded floors of stock exchanges in some of the world's money centers in the wake of Britain's historic devaluation of the pound and the subsequent cheapening of their money by 18 other nations.

In London, the exchange reopened after Monday's enforced holiday. Gold, oil, rubber and industrial issues changed hands in huge blocks. Shares began a downward plunge toward the new cheapened pound, now worth $2.80. Government bonds started with gains of five to ten shillings.

Gold Orders Pour In

The same sort of excitement ran through exchanges in Rome, Milan and Johannesburg, South Africa. In South Africa, the exchange was a Tower of Babel as brokers struggled to handle thousands of orders for gold pouring in from every corner of the world.

Trading in foreign issues was barred in Paris.

The free currency market, which opened in the afternoon, was restricted to dollar transactions until further government order. The dollar opened, as predicted, at 350 francs. It closed 330.80 on Friday.

In Sydney, Australia, gold was the darling of traders. Twenty thousand shares in eighteen different gold companies changed hands during a bewildering morning session. As news of the world-wide gold increase got around, the demand skyrocketed.

Permanent Rate Seen

Prime Minister J. B. Chifley called a special cabinet meeting to review the financial situation.

Expert opinion, surveying the rise in the value of gold, said that it was not a transient thing but likely to be permanent.

The effects of Britain's far-reaching 30 percent slash in the value of her money was felt in the home islands in almost every walk of life. The threat of labor rebellion and inflation were among the most upsettinging. Despite the government's appeal to hold the wage line, railway workers began

Fair Boosters Make Trip In Area Today

Chartered buses, laden with balloons, rulers, free itckets for children and boosters of the Panhandle-South Plains fair to be held here next week, left city hall at 7 a. m. today on a trip including 13 area stops.

Abernathy, Hale Center, Plainview, Lockney, Floydada were visited this morning. Luneh stop was at Matador.

This afternoon, the boosters were to stop at Roaring Springs, Dickens, Spur, Crosbyton, Ralls, Lorenzo and Idalou before returning to Lubbock by 6 p. m.

Jerry Brooks and Randolph Rampy were co-chairmen of the trip. A fourth and final trip Thursday will take boosters to Hobbs and intermediate points.

More Rainfall Is Possible Wednesday

Cold Front May Make Short Duration Of Drying Conditions

Farmers took new hope at mid-morning as the sun penetrated a heavy, shroud-like layer of cluods and brought warmer, drying conditions to the South Plains.

The weather bureau station at Municipal airport was uncertain about how long the sunshine would last, however.

Harold Frost, chief meteorologist at the station, said a cold front which this morning was over Colorado might arrive over this area late Wednesday. The combination of the cold air with with warm air masses might result in further rainfall, Frost said.

Until the cold front arrives, Frost thought skies would remain only partly cloudy.

Meanwhile, fog again covered Lubbock and the surrounding area early this morning, dropping visibility to as low as one-half mile and the ceiling to zero. By 9 a. m., however, the ceiling was 1,200 feet and visibility seven miles, and an hour later the heavy cloud ceiling.

Loss Is Small In Burglaries

Three burglaries and two attempted burglaries were reported to the police department this morning.

Losses were summed up by complainants as:

From Students Service station at 405 College, approximately $15 from a marble board machine, about $2 from a cigaret veding machine, a $12 tire, $12 worth of antifreeze, and a "few" packages of cigarets;

Check Being Made

From T. R. Prideaux Lumber company, 1116 Seventh, 50 to 75 pennies that had been left in a cash drawer.

C. A. Ferguson, employe, reported that Acme Fast Freight, at 225 Ave. M, had been broken and entered, but that nothing apparently had been removed from the ransacked place. A padlock had been forced by intruders, he said. A check of freight was being made to determine whether any of it had been taken.

Nothing had been reported missing from Bo-Peep Baby shop, at 1712 Broadway, or from Peters jewelry, at 1013 Main, where attempted burglaries were reported.

Autos Recovered

Someone shot 42 holes in a window with a bb gun, Vernon Peters, owner of the jewelry, informed police. But, he said, a hole made by the air-gun pellets was not large enough to allow anyone to rech in and manipulate a catch

ONLY A FEW WILDCAT STRIKES

British Labor Thinks It Has Made Gains Under Socialists

(EDITOR'S NOTE: L. R. Blanchard is general executive editor of the 21 metropolitan papers—mostly in the East—in the Gannett chain. As one of the nation's most widely known and respected editors, Mr. Blanchard has often traveled the world for his papers, informing himself, first-hand, on what is going on. Recently he went to England to look at Socialism and the series of articles he wrote while on that trip are highly revealing. Because some politicians urge that the U. S. follow England in experimenting with Socialism, The Journal asked—and received—permission of the Gannett papers and Mr. Blanchard to present the series in Texas. We consider Mr. Blanchard's articles to be most significant, especially since Britain, largely supported by American tax dollars will seek from us next month more aid to be used in carrying on socialistic aims.)

By L. R. BLANCHARD
Executive Editor, Gannett Newspapers

MANCHESTER—British labor feels it has made great gains under the socialist government.

Those "gains" would be spurned by American labor.

Bolstering those so-called gains is the fact that organized labor feels its responsibility for the success of the government. Therefore it is docile. Aside from a few wildcat strikes and little flares of temper, Labor is quiet. It is saving its full fury for any government which might unseat the Labor government.

If Labor is overturned you may expect turmoil. This is not openly threatened. It is expressed in reverse.

"If Labor had not been elected," it is said, "we would have had political strikes and the nation's economy would have been ruined."

Therefore a sort of fear plays a part in the prospect that the government will be reelected next Spring—with a reduced majority.

It Is No Labor Utopia

What does British labor have? It has been given a five-day week. It has been given more pay. Women can make up to $15 a week, perhaps a little more in special cases. A good man in a trade can get up to $30 a week. Unfortunately the increased pay is offset by contributions to the national insurance fund and by incredibly high taxes, not only on the luxuries of beer and cigaretes, but upon clothing and household needs.

In most laboring families both man and wife are employed. If four or five persons in one family are employed the income might go to $80 or $90 a week.

If the man lives in a government house he may pay $2 weekly for rent. He can buy subsidized standard foods at controlled prices. At that, he is not allowed to buy all the meat he can pay for. He is allowed to spend 16 cents a person each week for a piece of meat. How much meat he gets and what sort depends upon his butcher, who also sells at fixed prices. One never is sure that one can get a "joint" for roasting, or shanks or chops or whether it will be mutton, beef or lamb. Pork just doesn't appear in the markets.

MEN in the trades are skilled workers. They must be because so much of Britain's manufacturing still is in a handmade basis. Britain always prides herself on that fact and probably rightly so. Certainly British products have had great markets.

Now Britain would like to produce more. She isn't selling enough abroad to pay for what she must import. Also, in spite of cheap labor, her costs have soared. She cannot compete readily against the products of the modern factory. Therefore Britain is turning to the once scorned American method of fast, efficient manufacture. A great many American technicians are in England now setting up our machines, training operators.

Here again Britain faces a difficulty. She does not like to spend the necessary dollars to get that machinery. Every way she turns she finds herself up against something that impedes her progress.

The laboring man says he gets medical treatment for nothing. He doesn't. He pays $1 weekly for that and some other national insurance. The government pays all other medical bills for drugs, appliances and the like. The laboring man forgets that he contributes to those purchases when he buys a pint of beer or a pack of cigarets—the latter at 85 cents a pack.

Plenty Of Promises

He has the promise—some day—of cheap vacations, possibly in some old manor house turned over to the government because the former owner can't pay the taxes in force now. He does not reason that every taxable property given to the government eventually means high taxes for him and for others who earn wages.

While Labor thinks it has made gains under its own government, it is also true that it had made progress before that. British industry, as a whole, seems more paternalistic than is the rule in this country, despite recent gains over here.

Many industries had their own pension plans, insurance of different sorts, and they had established labor relations bureaus in their own plants. Many have a rule that the labor representative may see a manager at any time of the day. In such places there is a give and take, a frankness and cordiality rather amazing to anyone who believes labor and management must always be at each other's throats.

Some laboring men feel nationalization has hurt them because it makes their business so impersonal. Instead of taking a grievance directly to management it is forced to follow an intricate path through channels.

MEDICAL service has done away with free clinics of the old days. It also has displaced a "panel" plan under which, for as little as 6 cents a week, the worker could consult his doctor as frequently as necessary.

While not entirely lost as yet, Labor may find that industries will not be so free with plans for aiding employes. Socialism demands an exact equality. Therefore it frowns on the factory which offers any special attractions for its workers. It prefers to deprive the individual than to permit him to enjoy a benefit which it cannot offer to everyone.

Labor is told under socialism it always will have full employment. So far it has been easy to keep that promise because the world has been hungry for every stitch or every tack turned out. It may keep the promise indefinitely because England herself has a great backlog of needs which can't be met under the present economy. But, even if permitted to buy at home, what would the man use for money?

British labor seems condemned to go along on a low pay basis. The worker may draw some contentment from the fact that the government, which has assured him he is well treated, has brought all others down toward the same economic level.

U. S. Labor Called "Backward"

It is not envious of the great gains made in the United States. Indeed it is somewhat scornful.

"American labor is 20 years behind us," it says. "It still thinks capitalism can work."

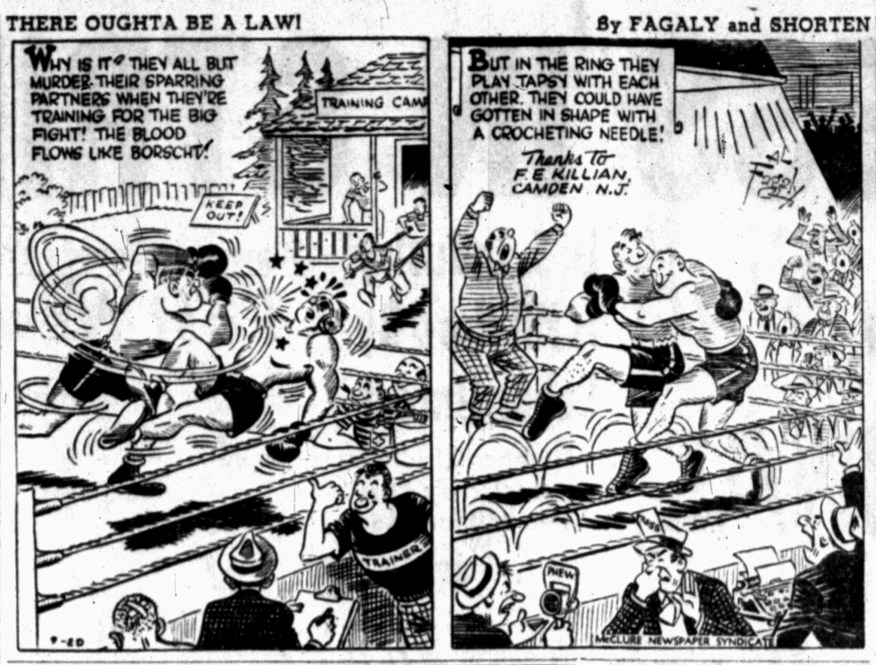

Probably American labor will look at its paycheck, at its trim little house, at its children in school and college, at its auto, at its freedom to go anywhere and work anywhere and then say to itself that capitalism does seem to have worked.

It will look at the groecry and market windows with satisfaction. It will be pleased that meat and fresh vegetables and fruit juices are freely offered and easily available.

An American worker probably would get little pleasure out of the prospect of an unpleasant, inefficient diet just because someone he disliked was being forced to get along in the same distasteful way.

THERE OUGHTA BE A LAW! By FAGALY and SHORTEN

Hunter Takes Shot At Dangling Squirrel But Wounds Both His Parents Instead

CANTON, O., Sept. 20 (AP)—John Reese, 33-year-old hunter, saw a squirrel move in a dence woods near here yesterday, so he shot at it.

What Reese hit, said Deputy Sheriff Nick Maxin, was his parents.

Maxin said the squirrel already was dead and was dangling from the hand of Reese's mother, Hazel, 57. Her husband, Homer, was sitting next to her on a stump.

Attendants at Mercy hospital here said Mrs. Reese was wounded in the hip and abdomen and in serious condition. The elder Reese was struck in the hip.

Rio Grande Valley's Cotton Sets Record

McALLEN, Sept. 20 (AP)—The Rio Grande valley's 1949 cotton crop is a record 543,152 bales.

The state department of agriculture said the number of bales ginned was a new record. A few late bales are still trickling in, though most gins have shut down.

Most farmers apparently made the Sept. 15 deadline for destroying stalks under pink bollworm regulations. Some plowed by tractor-light to do it.

Gin totals in the valley were:
Hidalgo county—193,033 bales.

Mexico Reports Record

Cameron county—223,846 bales.
Willacy county—113,009 bales.
Starr county—13,254 bales.

Meanwhile, in Mexico, the Matamoros district reported its cotton crop was estimated at 300,000 bales, also a record.

Rector Del Valle, international cotton dealer, said ginnings so far this season are hitting around the 280,000-bale mark in the Matamoros area alone. He estimated that another 20,000 bales are in warehouses awaiting processing. This accumulation probably will not be ginned and shipped until mid-October, however.

A. Willoughby, 83, of Bermondsey, England, ran in a veterans' race and finished last—but got the biggest cheer.

Success Of Pound Devaluation Depends On Britain's Workers

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

When the pundits have got through speculating on how England is going to fare with her devalued pound sterling, the matter likely will be settled by the British workingman and his missus in debate over tankards of 'arf-and-'arf at their club, which is the local pub.

The success or failure of this daring experiment in devaluation of the national currency rests on the sturdy shoulders of the folk who run machines or delve in mines or perform the hundred and one other tasks which entitles them to the rank of "workers." They can make or break the gamble by the simple expedient of turning thumbs up or turning them down.

Strikes Are Possible

The point is this: The experts expect the devaluation of the pound to result in a rise in the cost of England's living — how much nobody can foresee. If there is an increase, it will be because essential supplies purchased from America will cost more in pounds, shillings and pence. This cost will be reflected in the price of things sold over the counter in England. Already the price of bread is to be raised 3 cents a loaf and the average Briton eats a lot of it.

Now the British worker has been struggling with auserity of living since war days, and his stomach is full of that. He was calling for higher wages even before the devaluation of the pound, and an increase in costs might be expected to result in fresh demands for more pay. That could mean strikes which would curtail the all-essential production.

Sir Stafford Cripps, chancellor of the exchequer, has made it clear that the government intends to hold down wages whether the cost of living increases or not.

British newspaper editorials insist that there must be no demands for higher wages to counter-balance any increase in the cost of living. They agree that this would nullify the cuts in the prices of British exports—cuts which devaluation of the pound seeks to secure. The London News Chronicle calls Cripps' announcement of devaluation "a challenge to the British people and an opportunity." It puts it like this:

"It is a challenge to us to pay our way out of our own resources and an opportunity to make a fresh start in the long climb back to prosperity. So we must work hard without demanding extra pay, and the government too must use the strictest economy."

Further Austerity Asked

Britain's Socialist government is in a tough spot, in having thus to hold out the likelihood of further tightening of belts. As reported in previous columns, the government has felt that it had won strong public support by its free medical service and other social security measures. The Socialist leaders have been looking to the forthcoming general election with much optimism. Now they are faced with a fresh worry.

Well, the government has issued its edict: Further austerity and no increases in wages. Success or failure now rests largely with labor. If the worker should refuse to accept this decision, and should curtail production by striking for higher wages, the government's bid for relief through devaluation would go down the drain.

His decision will be awaited with real concern, though not necessarily with pessimism, for the British are a sturdy folk in the face of adversity.

Cleveland's Fire Hose Has Limits

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20 (AP)—"Battalion chief eleven," droned the fire department dispatcher over the short wave radio. "Fire reported at 2620 Lake View Terrace."

Battalion chief eleven returned the call a few minutes later.

"There's no such address," he said angrily.

"You mean to tell me I don't know my Los Angeles?" the dispatcher snapped back.

There was a pause. The party on the other end chuckled.

"You may know Los Angeles, but this is Cleveland, Ohio."

Sure enough, it was. A trick of the atmosphere had tangled up the two fire departments. They operate on the same wave length.

Mickey Cohen Being Tried On Charge Of Swearing At Police

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20 (AP)—The defense will have more to say today in the trial of Mickey Cohen, the cussin' clothier.

Informally, the little haberdasher has been described as mobster, gambler, vice lord and public enemy no. 1. But swearing at a brace of officers is the charge on which he is being tried.

The naughty-word trial opened yesterday, and red-faced jurors, nine of them women, heard the unexpurgated police version of Cohen's vocabulary.

Cohen, the prosecution contends, unleashed his unprintable tirade at Officer James Barrick and federal narcotics Agent Oscar Polcuch when they asked for the keys to Cohen's clothing store last Aug. 23, after the arrest of one of his henchmen.

It was shocking, Polcuch testified. Cohen shouted the nasty words so all the neighbors could hear. Shades were drawn and lights twitched off up and down the street.

"Were you disturbed by his speech?" Deputy City Attorney Roebrt Burns inquired.

Polcuch allowed as how he was.

The prosecution rested its case at the conclusion of Polcuch's direct testimony and cross examination. Defense Counsel Sam Rommel then read a deposition of Earl Brown, Life magazine writer who was present at Cohen's home when the incident occurred. Cohen cussed, the deposition said, but not as badly as the officers claimed.

Magnolia Seeking Permits For Tests

Magnolia Petroleum company has filed applications with the Railroad Commission of Texas requesting permission to drill two projects on the southeast side of the Kelly Canyon field in Central Scurry county, both of which will drill to 6,850 feet with rotary tools.

The company's No. 1-A Winston Brothers will be 660 feet from west and 890 feet from south lines of block 66, survey 38, Kirkland & Fields survey. That makes it four miles southwest of Snyder.

Magnolia No. 1 Ads Martin will be located 1,980 feet from south and east lines of section 190, block 97, H&TC survey and four miles southwest of Snyder.

Both are to explore the Canyon lime zone.

Abernathy Man Gets Suspended Sentence

Suspension of five-year sentence was allowed Cleon Higginbotham, 21, of Abernathy, Monday afternoon under recommendation of a 99th district court jury that heard him plead guilty of statutory rape of a 13-year-old Lubbock girl.

The girl's mother took the stand and recommended that the defendant be given "another chance," counsel said.

Both sides closed evidence at 3:20 p. m., after the state had called several witnesses, including the complaining witness, her mother, and a nurse. The state also introduced a birth certificate showing the complaining witness' age, and a confession of the defendant.

The defense called four fact witnesses, including the defendant, and these reputation witnesses: J. W. Strickland, Hale county deputy sheriff, Andrew Holt, Abernathy justice of peace, and W. A. Richter, Abernathy postmaster.

A. W. Salyars, assistant district attorney, prosecuted. The firm of Berry and Ball represented the defendant.

Double Wedding Follows Divorces

RENO, Sept. 20 (INS)—Two Oregon women won divorces simultaneously today and then traded husbands at a double wedding.

Mrs. Dorothy Janet Hayes, 31, and Mrs. Ruby A. Godard, 28, both of Cottage Grove, Ore., were granted divorces at Carson City from Harold D. Hayes and Leon C. Godard, respectively.

Then the two couples came to Reno and switched mates.

"They asked for a double wedding," Judge A. J. Maestretti of Reno said, "so I accommodated them."

Babs Hutton Now Visiting U. S. For Checkup On Health

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP) — Heiress "Babs" Hutton—a pale, thin woman of 36—has come back to her native land in search of health.

"I am feeling very badly," said Princess Barbara Hutton Troubetzkey as she arrived yesterday on the liner Queen Elizabeth.

The Woolworth five and ten cent store heiress, returning to the United States for the first time in three years, told newsmen she had come for a medical checkup.

She is staying at the Hotel Pierre here, and said she plans to remain in this country for a few months.

Has Four Operations

She said she expects her fourth husband, Prince Igor Troubetzkoy, to follow her to the United States shortly.

Princess Barbara, down to 92 pounds from her one-time tennis playng average of about 100, denied persistent reports that her present illness was caused by rigid dieting when she was a plump young girl.

She told of undergoing four operations in Europe during the past three years for kidney and intestinal ailments accompanying her illness.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Wife, Who Thought Marriage Was Happy, Is Stunned When Husband Asks For Divorce

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Six months ago my husband came to me and told me that he no longer loved me, was unhappy with me and wanted a divorce. There was no other woman, he said. I was stunned, as I had thought we had a very happy marriage.

My first reaction was to give him the divorce, but instead I pleaded with him to give our marriage another chance for the sake of our two children—who are one and three years old, respectively. He agreed to try some more, and since then I have done everything in my power to make him happy, but I can't help feeling its is useless.

He is kind and thougtful of me, but the affection and tenderness and mutual understanding is gone from our relationship. Still I love Dick desperately and am just about beside myself with grief, knowing he no longer loves me.

Should we keep on, as is, for the sake of the children? Or is divorce the only answer? We have many interests in common and the sexual aspect of our marriage has been very satisfactory. I am 24 years old. (Signed) V. V.

REAL ATTACHMENT EXISTS LATENTLY

DEAR V. V.: In a man's psychology of love, there is a difference between being "in love" and feeling a protective devotion, or sense of obligation to a woman.

When a man construes himself to be "in love" he is smitten, bewitched, hypnotized and/or intoxicatedby the lady, and his mind and body seem drawn to her involuntarily, as by incalculable voltage of mysterious magnetism.

In essence, and in most cases, this is apt to be a manifestation of sex attraction and unsatisfied sex hunger in the ascendant. And if marriage ensues and the contracting couple haven't brought to their relationship a serious ethical or religious concept of the sanctity and permanency of marriage, a distressing letdown is sentiment or purpose may follow after a time, as routine familiarity blights the "magic" of being together.

It seems that something of the kind has overtaken Dick, and that in his dismay he feels driven to confess, with rather childish selfish candor, that he no longer "loves" you. However, it appears that he has some latent, more mature sense of real attachment or protective obligation to you; and it is possible that by building on this, you may pull through together, out of this "Slough of Despond," and find increasing comfort in each other's company as the years roll on.

NEEDS SPECIAL AIDS IN ACUTE DEPRESSION

IT is a hopeful sign, and commendable of Dick, that he is being kind and thoughtful, and disciplining himself to give the marriage "another chance,"—and I think you were wise to cast out pride and plead from the heart, when his tentative bid for release was made. But in a period of conjugal trial such as this, when the soul of each is clouded with oppressive doubts, it's hardly possible to "solve' things without recourse to special aid.

The special aids I would suggest are: 1. Prayer, keyed to church going, and if possible the arrangement of a friendly consultative relationship with one's pastor, for ease of mind when anxiety weighs most heavily. 2. A pyschiatric review, perhaps in one session, of your "expectations" of marriage or conjugal love, and in particular a careful inquiry into the question of whether the sexual adjustment is as good as you fancy.

By taking these steps to (1) strengthen your spirit and (2) enlarge your undertaking, you will be indirectly reducing the threat of divorce, and preparing yourself to meet with composure whatever circumstances the future unfolds. (Signed) M. H.

CHILDREN PLAY MARBLE BOARDS

Constable's Drive Is Not Successful

(By The United Press)

LA PORTE, Sept. 20.—Dale Richardson's "back-to-school week" hasn't gone so well to date, the constable concluded today, after getting word that one-shot marble boards are still eating up the kids' nickles.

Three ministers from nearby La Marque, all leaders in that city's anti-vice league, conferred with the cowboy constable at his home here yesterday.

Play For Novelty

The Rev. Harry H. Burch claimed the one-ball tables, called "Coaltowns," had been moved into La Marque, and that schoolkids play the machines just for the novelty.

"It's mighty discouragin' news," observed Richardson, who initiated his "back-to-school" program two weeks ago. The main feature was a series of Houston raids in which he carted 70 of the allegedly illegal devices off to a warehouse to "keep the kids from playin' 'em."

With the Rev. Burch were the Rev. T. J. Roth and the Rev. Everet Burden, who have personally filed charges of "displaying gambling devices" against La Marque cafe owners. The men later paid fines before Justice of the Peace G. P. Reddell in Texas City.

Confers With Ministers

Richardson said he conferred with the ministers and passed along his "knowledge" gained during his raiding activities in and around Houston.

"The dope is that those La Marque boys spend their nickels on the machines just for the fun of it," said the constable. "It's just the novelty."

The Rev. Burch observed that he and his associates got "a lot of good points from him (Richardson), but we are reluctant to talk about it until we Investigate these new Coaltown machines."

MacArthur Approves Jap Change Of Yen, British Pound Rate

TOKYO, Sept. 20 (AP)—General MacArthur today authorized the Japanese to revise their yen-British pound rate. Japan's currency was not devalued.

"There is no intention to make any change at present in the existing yen-United States dollar rate," Allied headquarters added. This rate is 360 yen to $1.

Value Scaled Down

Under the new yen-pound rate, one pound will be worth 1,008 yen compared to 1,450.8 before devaluation. The new rate is effective on contracts approved after today.

What MacArthur did in effect was scale down the value of the yen for yen-pound deals in the same proportion as the British pound was devalued.

Devaluation Urged

The announcement came amid a rising Japanese clamor for devaluation of the yen. The Japanese think the yen will have tough going in world markets against the devalued currencies of Britain and other countries.

Despite the absence of MacArthur's and Washington approval for devaluation, the Japanese still believe the yen will be reduced in value.

Some look for a 20 per cent cut. That would make $1 worth 432 yen instead of 360.

Minister "Dutch" Liars' Club Champ

REINHOLDS, Pa., Sept. 20 (AP)—A minister who is also a state senator is the best Pennsylvania Dutch liar in these parts.

The Rev. Rrank Ruth of Bernville won the first annual contest of the Pennsylvania Dutch Liars' club yesterday by telling a story about a mean old tomcat who couldn't be killed.

When ropes and guns didn't eliminate the critter, Mr. Ruth said in dialect, a posse went out after him, cut off his head and burried him under a pile of rocks.

Three days later the old cat trotted on home, carrying his head in his mouth.

Six Missing In Ship Sinking

BOSTON, Sept. 20. (AP)—The 7,600-ton freighter Mormacfir rammed and sank the wooden fishing trawler Corinthian of Gloucester, Mass., last night in dense fog 60 miles southeast of Halifax, N. S.

Coast Guard officials said five of the 11 crew members of the fishing trawler, including the captain, were rescued by the Mormacfir, operated by the Moore-McCormack lines.

Other Survivors Sought

The freighter, the Coast Guard said, was still seeking other survivors, according to latest reports.

The Coast Guard cutter Coos Bay was en route to the scene from a weather station 250 miles to the east.

According to Lloyd's registry the 32-year-old Corinthian is 112 feet long and displaces 161 tons. She is owned by Gorton-Pew Fisheries. Co., Ltd.

Bound For Oslo

The Mormacfir left New York Sept. 16 bound for Oslo, Norway.

A fisheries company spokesman said the Corinthian's skipper, one of those rescued, was Capt. Jerome Noble of Gloucester.

The Coast Guard said the other survivors are Manley Goodick, Jerome Noble, jr., the skipper's son; Stanley Zeeman and Jack Amerault.

Missing are Harry Schulter, cook; George Gordon, engineer; Theodore Decker, Percy Noble, another son of the skipper; George Hemeon and Oke Peterson.

All are of Gloucester, except Percy Noble, who lives in Lynn, and Amerault, who is of Madlen.

The Corinthian left Gloucester last Thursday and was due to return in seven or eight days.

Solons Make Every Effort To Remain In Touch With Voters

BY DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 — Your congressman would like to know you better.

And chances are he is doing something about it, at considerable trouble and expense to himself. Keeping in touch with the folks back home is something of a major business, on the side, for a U. S. representative.

Naturally he wants you to keep his name in mind and vote for him if he runs again next year—as he probably will. But he also may be pretty serious about wanting to know your problems and how you feel about issues on which he will have to vote in the House.

While the House was on "vacation" this month a lot of its members got little rest.

Visits At Postoffices

Take Joe Martin of Massachusetts, Republican leader of the House. Every year he puts ads in the papers saying at such and such a time he will be in such and such a town—always at the postoffice—and the folks can come see him.

Last week on Tuesday he turned up at 14 postoffices, the first at 9:15 in the morning, the last at 5 p. m. On Wednesday he started at 9 and quit at 5:10 and showed up in another 14 towns.

On the same days, down in Virginia, Democrat Burr Harrison was making eight stops in an afternoon and 11 in a full day.

Mike Mansfield, Montana Democrat, whose district covers a third of a big state, doesn't make dates ahead of time but drops in on old friends at the back door, at the copper mines in Butte where he used to be a miner and engineer, or at the state university at Missoula where he was a history professor for 10 years.

Broadcasts Recorded

Some 160 representatives make regular recorded broadcasts to their states. Congress has its own recording station, a self-supporting enterprise. A member pays $3.50 for each record.

Probably scores of congressmen get out newsletters. Many write their own, but some have secretaries or clerks who serve as press agents.

Clare Hoffman, Michigan Republican, used a newsletter to tell his constituents such things as that if the $252,000,000,000 national debt was put in dollar bills it would go more than half way around the world—15,000 miles.

Harold Lovre, South Dakota Republican, puts out a letter entitled "In Washington With Harold Lovre."

A freshman congressman, Democrat Sidney Yates of Illinois, got a bit of a surprise when he went home on vacation and reports it this way in one of his newsletters:

Publishes Magazine

"I had anticipated some relaxation of the pressing pace which congressional duties in the capitol require, but there was little letup this week. People called me for appointments and I have been deep in immigration problems, civil service difficulties, veterans' claims, government contracts and a myriad of other matters."

A newly revived publication is "Burdick's Magazine," a 10-page memeographed affair with a cartoon on the cover, put out by Rep. Usher Burdick (R-ND).

Into it go a condensation of weekly newsletters, views on current issues, even a joke or two. Copies go to each editor in North Dakota and to anyone else who wants them.

Boys Ranch Rodeo Is Slated At Plainview

PLAINVIEW, Sept. 20. (Special)—Tickets are now on sale here for the Boys' Ranch Rodeo which will be held Friday and Saturday, Sept. 23-24, at the Plainview Rodeo arena.

The lads from Boys Ranch staged a successful rodeo at Amarillo at the Tri-State Fair grounds, and were asked by the Plainview Rodeo association to give a repeat performance here. Most of the proceeds of the show will go to Boys Ranch, Gene Bumpus, president of the association stated.

The boys at the ranch practice for the event under the expert supervision of all-round cowboy and arena director Leonard Stroud of Rocky Ford, Colo. He is a former world champion trick roper. A souvenir program will be sold at the rodeo with pictures of the activities of the boys on Boys Ranch. Plainview business concerns are contributing the program to the Boys Ranch rodeo.

Two Negroes Held In Robbery At Houston

HOUSTON, Sept. 20 (UP) — Two negroes were held for questioning today in connection with a $105 robbery last night.

W. A. Mansur, 56-year-old insurance collector, told police two negro men forced him into an alley, held a pistol in front of him and took the cash.

Escaped Convict Is Caught By Officers

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 20 (U.P.)—The patience of two deputy sheriffs was credited today for the quick capture of an escaped convict.

Joe Fletcher, serving a 10-year-sentence for car theft, surrendered to the deputies an hour after they heard a police broadcast that he had escaped from the Clemens prison farm.

Fletcher said he had been sent to Clemens from Huntsville for plumbing work. He smuggled two hack saws into his cell and escaped alone after fellow prisoners refused to join him.

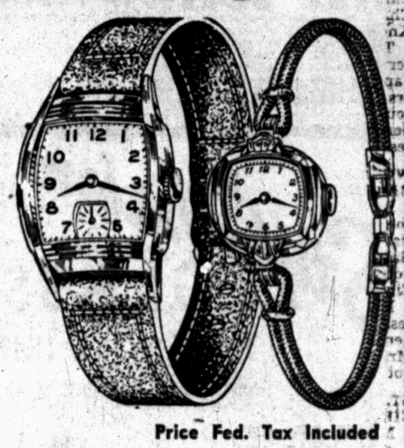

He said he hitch-hiked to Cuero, stole a car and headed for California.

The two deputies heard the description of the stolen car and parked at an intersection on a hunch that Fletcher would use the highway leading into San Antonio. They said they remained there an hour before they spotted the car.

PROTECTION COMPULSORY

For Better Life in Texas

Highways and By-ways..

Famed for superb highways, Texas is also striding forward in the development of its by-ways—the farm-to-market road system which contributes so much to the comfort and convenience of all of its citizens.

By investing in Texas county and district road bonds during the past forty-six years, Southwestern Life Insurance Company, exclusively a Texas institution, has had a substantial part in aiding this State's road-building program.

Such investments not only assure continuing security and protection to owners of Southwestern Life policies, but also work for all Texans as capital in the development of one of the State's highly essential resources—its highway network.

The first definite route of travel in Texas extended from near the present city of Eagle Pass through San Antonio to Nacogdoches and eastward. It was later known as El Camino Real, the King's Highway.

Acheson Asks Latin America To Help Check Revolutions

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP)—Secretary of State Acheson has called on Latin America to join the United States in a concerted move to end the years-long warlike turmoil in the Caribbean area.

He addressed a dinner meeting of the Pan American Society of the United States, which brought out the biggest gathering of high-ranking Latin American diplomatic and economic leaders in many years.

Acheson declared the United States is determined to encourage the growth of democracy in the western hemisphere and to help its economic development.

He said the U. S. will strongly oppose "aggression or plotting against any nation of this hemisphere," and added: "The security system which culminated in the Rio treaty is now facing a crucial test." This treaty by American republic pledges each to assist if another is the victim of armed attack.

The entire Caribbean area has at times "approached a state of political turmoil," Acheson told the dinner gathering.

He mentioned recent plots and counterplots which have disturbed the area, and increasing "military adventures."

"The nations of the Western hemisphere," Acheson said, "must abide by our regional commitments and maintain peace in our own midst."

Recognition Not Approval

He said that "if all . . . proceed along these lines, as we in this country intend to do, there is no reason why any nation in the hemisphere should fear aggression."

Acheson pledged that the United Stetes will "use our strongest efforts, in keeping with our international commitments" to oppose any actual or threatened aggression or plotting against any nation in the hemisphere.

Discussing the controversial issue of diplomatic recognition of revolutionary governments in Latin America, Acheson explained: "Recognition is not synonymous with approval," and U. S. policy is not inconsistent with "our encouragement of democracy."

Sending an ambassador is not intended to show approval of a government, the secretary said, out is to provide "a channel through which to conduct essential government relations and to protect legitimate United States interests."

Peak of the wartime selective service program was in March, 1944, when the monthly induction figure reached 233,000.

Canada Starts Probe Of Noronic Disaster

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 20 (AP)—A justice of Canada's supreme court will head an investigation of the Noronic disaster whose toll still stood today at 121 known dead and 84 missing.

A commission headed by Justice R. L. Kellock will begin its inquiry "as soon as possible." Canada's transport minister Lionel Chevrier told the House of Commons in Ottawa last night the department of transport already has started a preliminary investigation of the fire which flashed through the Great Lakes pleasure steamer Saturday night.

Bodies Identified

Police and Red Cross officials have made another appeal for survivors of the ship fire to report their safety. They hope many missing passengers from the ship have returned to their homes without reporting their escape.

Early today 41 of the 121 charred bodies in the emergency morgue here had been identified.

At St. Michael's cathedral here yesterday, nearly 1,500 persons attended a solemn high mass for the Noronic victims.

Last Rites Of Texas Oilman Slated Today

DALLAS, Sept. 20 (AP) — Last rites were to be held today for Oswyn Mowers, veteran oilman and once a co-worker with Luther Burbank in plant experiments.

He came to Texas in 1900 and entered the oil business as a research engineer in the old Spindletop field near Beaumont.

Mowers designed many oil field machines and drilling tools, among them the Guiberson oil well swab.

Burial will be at Houston.

Amarillo Bounces Back To Beat Albuquerque Dukes, 5-3

Gold Sox Trail By 2-1 Margin In Shaughnessy Playoff Finals

AMARILLO, Sept. 20 (Special)Amarillo takes a hope, a prayer and one victory over Albuquerque into the fourth game of the Shaughnessy playoffs here tonight.

It's an improvement for the Gold Sox, who had everything but the victory prior to last night. The Dukes succumbed on Texas soil 5 to 3 behind the tight pitching of Steve Lagomarsino, the occasionally brilliant Sox hurler. Lagomarsino had it last night.

Paul Halter also had it. He slammed three singles to drive in four runs, enough to win the game. He and the Sox opened up in the first inning for two runs and the winners held their lead throughout the game.

Gentzkow Gets Homer

Tom Breisinger, Duke southpaw, started off shakily, but settled down after allowing four of the eight Amarillo hits in the first. But he had trouble with Halter, who collected two two-run singles in the remaining frames, and with Dick Gentzkow, who banged a homer.

Lagomarsino yielded hits to Dick Gyselman and Jim Fiscalino —two singles and a home run— and gave up another safety. He fanned seven, walked three and hit one, but bore down in the clutch, all the way.

Tonight it will be Don Ferrarese, another southpaw, against either Jim Reynolds, a righthander, or John Joslin, a lefty.

Jerry Folkman and Crawford Howard opened the unusual first with singles. Doug Lewis fanned, then Halter unloaded a liner to left for two runs. He threw to second and was held at third on Gentzkow's hit on a slow roller to short. Breisinger tossed out Carr, then threw into the dirt against Ted Clawitter, causing Gentzkow to break for third. Halter hadn't tried to score, but was erased, Fiscalini to Len Attyd to Ray Hamrick to Attyd.

Lagomarsino walked Allen Maul, hit Gyselman, passed Fiscalini in the third. After Attyd fanned, Maul scored while Hamrick was forcing Fiscalini at second. Gyselman was trapped off third and called out for deliberate interference with Clawitter's throw to Halter.

Gyselman hit his homer in the sixth and Fiscalini punched one in the eighth. Lagomarsino retired the Dukes in order in the important ninth.

Halter drove in his third run in the fifth with two out after Howard had walked and Hamrick bobbled on Lewis. It was a sharp blow to right but he was erased at second after Cliff McLlain had thrown to Attyd who relayed nicely.

Gentzkow hit the first pitch of the sixth over the center field wall. Jerry Folkman led the seventh with a single and was bunted to second. Lewis fanned again but Halter swatted a single to left for the run.

Joe DiMaggio "On Way Out"

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Wirter

NEW YORK, Sept. 20—Reaching the end of the major league trail is a day of despair for the major league ball player but that appeared today to be the fate waiting at season's end for at least 30 fading stars—and Joltin' Joe DiMaggio just might be one of them.

It doesn't take too much to draw that pink slip out from under the big top, particularly in these days. You lose a bit of the speed, whether in the legs or the arms, or you go brittle with the swiftly adding years, and those eager kids are straining on some farm club to take your place.

DiMaggio May Go

Take the case of DiMaggio, plagued by painful feet, a weak arm and now bedded with influenza. Joe is a man with pride in his performance and not one to stumble along for an oversized paycheck until his name loses its brilliance. He is not one to ride the bench—so he might step out.

But for most of the others it is the long-dreaded but inevitable day of reckoning. The boss man says thank you, and goodbye. Nobody else is interested, although two, five or 10 years ago you would have been injured in the rush. So it's back to the bushes or, if you're lucky, into the business your foresight prepared for just this day.

Players Are Listed

But the list is there if you read the handwriting on the wall.

Four appear on their way out with the Red Sox: Tex Hughson, Boo Ferris, Earl Johnson and Lou Stringer. Hughson, twice a 20-game winner, now is used occasionally in relief because of a bad arm.

Satchel Paige, who admits to 41, and has a 4-6 mark this season, and Outfielder Hal Peck, used merely as a pinch hitter, appear to be marked men at Cleveland. Washington apparently will dismiss Pitcher Joe Haynes, a bad arm victim, and Catcher Jake Early. And when you're done with Washington you're done all the way in the majors.

Out with the Yankees will be portly Hugh Casey, 36-year-old reliefer signed as pennant insurance, and Spec Shea, a bull pen dilettante who had one brief flash of glory.

Ted Williams Paces Hitters

CHICAGO, Sept. 20. (AP)—Boston's Ted Williams is tightening his monopoly on American league batting marks, taking the lead in six divisions of play.

He topped five brackets a week ago and now has added a sixth—most runs batted in. In statistics through Sunday's games, Williams is ahead in batting with .351; scored the most runs, 143; slammed the most hits, 188, most doubles, 39, and homers 40; and has hammered across 153 runs.

Dale Mitchel of Cleveland was tops in three-baggers with 23 and St. Louis Bob Dillinger continued in the base-stealing lead with 18.

Second to Williams in batting was George Kell of Detroit with .341. He was followed by Dillinger with .316; Dom DiMaggio, Boston, .313.

Boston's Ellis Kinder took over the top pitching percentage record with 21-5 for .808.

Qualifying Slated In Golf Tournament

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 20. (AP)—Bellerive Country club course, a 6,505-yard layout, was ready again today for the 136 contestants in the 47th Western Amateur golf meet.

Clancy Miller, an Atchison, Kas., automobile dealer who is an unknown in major tournaments, shot the one par score, a 36-35, regulation for both nines, in the first round yesterday.

The 60 low shooters qualify for match play beginning tomorrow.

At 73 were Bo Wininger, Oklahoma A. and M. ace, Missouri State champion Jack Geiss of St. Louis, and H. W. Hardin, also of St. Louis.

Frank Stranahan, Toledo, O., made the first round five strokes over par, in 76. Defending champion Robert (Skee) Riegel, of Upper Darby, Pa., and Tulsa, Okla., played but did not turn in a card.

Austin Grid Team Voted First Spot

DALLAS, Sept. 20 (AP) — Austin is Texas' top high school football team, in the opinion of most of the state's sportswriters.

The Maroons nosed out Port Arthur for the honor in the weekly poll of sportswriters conducted by the Dallas Morning News.

Johnny Kitchens' capitol city eleven rated 194 points. Port Arthur had 192.

Last week Port Arthur held first place in the poll and Austin was second.

Amarillo jumped into the third place, Lubbock was fourth and Wichita Falls fifth. Others in the top ten were Abilene, Baytown, Breckenridge, Marshall and Jeff Davis of Houston in that order.

Lamar of Houston and Odessa tied for eleventh. Others in the second ten were Corpus Christi, Grand Prairie, Pampa, Kerrville and Sunset of Dallas (tie); Temple, Sherman and San Jacinto of Houston.

Coaches Speak At Grid Club

Coaches held the spotlight at the Quarterback club's weekly meeting last night in the Hotel Lubbock and some 200 football fans heard reports from five coaches.

Coach C. R. Pattison of Lubbock High school, Coach Dell Morgan of Texas Tech, Coach Damon Hill of Dunbar High school, Freshman Coach Allie White of Tech and Coach Tipp Mooney of Tech all spoke in regards to games played last week.

Pattison wasn't entirely pleased with some aspects of the Western ers' 47-0 trimming of Childress; Morgan was able to find some bright spots in Tech's 43-0 loss to Texas; Hill reported on Dunbar's 40-12 victory over Hobbs, N. M.; White analyzed Tech freshman prospects; and Mooney related aspects of the Texas Aggies loss to Villanova.

Pattison Speaks First

Pattison, speaking first, said that he was proud of his team, but that he still had trouble with the spread formation. He praised the way his team hustled, tackled and blocked, saying that the boys acted as though they wanted to play football.

The Lubbock High school coach warned that fans ought not to be misled by the defeat of North Side (Fort Worth) 25-12 by John Reagan of Houston last week. He declared that John Reagan had the best team in the City Conference and that North Side played them a tight ball game. He admitted that Childress didn't have enough to really prove just how good the Westerners were.

Discusses Texas Game

Morgan discussed the Texas game, showing where the Raiders made mistakes that cost them heavily. He also paid tribute to the work of several Techsan players, who played superb ball. He admitted that no team would beat the Longhorns in the opening game at this time of the year in Austin, but remarked that he wished the Raiders had made fewer mistakes so that they could have played a closer game.

The Raider mentor, however, found solace in the fact that the center of the Tech line was strong, that there was enough offense to promise better things in the future and that several sophomores came through with good performances.

White Surveys Frosh

Hill announced with characteristic modesty that the Panthers had opened the season Friday night at Hobbs, N. M., and had managed to luck out a 40-12 victory. He also announced that the Dunbar team would play Amarillo at Chapman Field in Lubbock at 8 p. m. Thursday. The public is invited to attend.

White was introduced to the crowd and then asked to survey Tech freshmen prospects. He gave a rundown on the probable first team and told a little history on each player. The Picadors open their season here Sept. 30 against West Texas State college fish.

Tipp Mooney, assistant coach at Tech, related highlights of the Texas Aggie-Villanova game.

Pictures of the Abilene Christian college-Texas Tech football game concluded the meeting.

Fort Worth Grabs Final Playoff Spot

(By The Associated Press)

One-half of the field for the Texas league's championship playoff was decided last night and it could be completed tonight.

Fort Worth gained the finals by beating Shreveport, 5-0.

Tulsa took a three games to two advantage over Oklahoma City with a 12-3 decision.

Bob Milliken spaced four Shreveport hits as the Cats wound up this series in five games. Shreveport won only one.

Walker Cress set Oklahoma City down with seven hits while his mates pounded out nineteen.

It was the third straight victory for the Oilers in five games. The sixth game will be played at Tulsa tonight.

Injuries Hit Aggies, Baylor And Rice

Meyer And Cherry Chill Hot Hopes Of Gridiron Boosters

(By The Associated Press)

A few injuries, plenty of hard work and some cold water quotes from two coaches sums up news today of Southwest conference football.

The injuries were at Texas A. and M., Baylor and Rice.

The hard work was at practically all seven schools.

The cold water quotes were from Texas Coach Blair Cherry and Texas Christian Mentor L. R. (Dutch) Meyer.

Texas Saturday beat Texas Tech, 43-0. The Longhorns' performance was "that sort of thing that neither discourages nor encouraged us," said Cherry yesterday.

Meyer Sees Faults

Texas Christian last week beat the University of Kansas, 28-0.

"Don't you guys get too high," Meyer told a quarterback club audience. "We played a pretty good opening ball game, but it was anything but superior in many respects. Our tackling wasn't too sharp and our downfield blocking was terrible."

A wisdom tooth extraction yesterday sidelined Rice's reserve quarterback Vernon Glass. Three other Rice reserves were nursing minor ailments.

Coach Jess Neely indicated Glass, Halfback Jake King and Tackles Charles Bittner and Bob Winship would be ready to play against Clemson Saturday night.

The Owls stressed punting, passing, punt returns and defense in practice.

Cherry was pleased with the showing of his sophomores against Texas Tech. He moved one, Center Joe Arnold, to first string offensive duty—as a tackle. Another, Don Menasco, moved up to No. 2 left end on defense.

Arkansas' Coach John Barnhill moved Don Logue, sophomore passing ace, and junior Halfback Buddy Rogers into the first string backfield.

Logue apparently has the starting T quarterback slot nailed down.

The Porkers yesterday stressed offensive timing and pass defense. They open play against North Texas State Saturday.

Defending champion Southern Methodist university, which opens against Wake Forest at Dallas Saturday night, worked at defending Deacon plays yesterday.

Exhibition "Not Good"

Coach Matty Bell said the exhibition was "not very good."

Right Halfback Doyle Moore, End Dorbandt Barton and Center Van Hetherly came out of a rugged Texas A. and M. scrimmage with minor hurts. All are expected to be ready for the Texas Tech game in San Antonio this week.

Baylor Coach Bob Woodruff let up a little on the Bears' practice yesterday. Most of the time he had offensive teams running plays against the freshmen.

Backs Jame Mott and Robert Reid have shoulder injuries. They may not play in the South Carolina game Saturday, Baylor's first of the season.

Walter Johnson notched 113 shutouts among his 414 major league victories during 21 years with the Washington Senators.

Big Spring Takes Fourth Series Win

(By The Associated Press)

Big Spring moved into the Longhorn league's final playoff round last night and Midland moved within one game of the championship series.

The Broncs beat San Angelo, 4-0, for their fourth straight victory in the best four-out-of seven games series.

Midland edged Vernon, 4-3, to take the lead in this series, three games to one.

Midland and Vernon play again tonight at Vernon.

All of Big Spring's runs were unearned as six San Angelo errors helped beat the Colts.

Pancho Perez and Julio Moreno each pitched six-hit ball.

Ken Jones' single in the ninth inning scored Midland's winning run.

Vernon had tied the score in the eighth with two runs, off Bob Huntley's single, Lew Ehlinger's double and a single by Lupe Gonzales.

Gladewater Shades Kilgore Club, 2-1

(By The Associated Press)

Gladewater tonight can win the East Texas league championship by whipping Kilgore.

The Bears beat the Drillers, 2-1, last night for their third straight victory in the best four out of seven game series.

Vernon Washington's single in the ninth inning drove home Bob Cullens with the winning run.

The Bears had taken a one-run lead in the first inning when Cullens doubled and L. D. Meyer singled.

Westerners To Prep For North Side Tilt With Hard Workout

A long, hard workout is slated today for the Westerner football squad following a poor showing Monday, and the team will be pointing for the Friday night engagement with dangerous North Side of Fort Worth.

Yesterday the pictures of the Lubbock-Childress fracas were shown, and the action film will be viewed again today so that players, can try to correct mistakes made in last week's game, which resulted in a 47-0 victory.

The visiting Steers are expected to field a ball club that is hard to handle, offensively and defensively, and the game will be one of the best seen here all season.

Blocking assignments was the main point covered in practice Monday as the linemen let the defensive forward wall crash through in early practice and swamp the intended ball carrier or passer. The offensive and defensive teams in the scrimmage were slow to react, but hard work this week should get the team to operating smoothly.

Defensive and offensive standouts in the Childress game were many, but the performance of Wayne Stroud from his left halfback post was very encouraging. The chunky speedster carried the ball nine times from scrimmage, accumulating 121 yards for an average of better than 13 yards each try. Stroud scored three touchdowns and kicked four extra points for a 22-point total for the night. He returned one punt 14 yards.

Substitute Tommy Fisher had the best average per carry. He ran the ball one time, picking up 63 yards.

Malcolm Young scored one touchdown, carried the ball nine times and picked up 77 yards from scrimmage.

Quarterback Bobby Brown ran five times from scrimmage to gain 55 yards, scoring one touchdown on a 30-yard sweep, and racked up 106 yards on punt returns, making the most spectacular runback of the night with a 70-yard sprint that stopped on the Bobcat 10-yard stripe.

Although handling the ball but four times, right Halfback Charlie Williams gained 46 yards from scrimmage and played a fine defensive game. He averaged 11½ yards each carry.

Other touchdowns were made by Mac Taylor on a 25-yard run, and Don Rawls pushed one across from nine yards out. Morris Turner gained 34 net yards on four tries, and Billy Tooke picked up 15 yards on two carries.

Pep Favorite In Title Bout

WATERBURY, Conn., Sept. 20 (AP) — A late rush for seats promised to make a financial success of the Willie Pep-Eddie Pep-Eddie Compo world featherweight title bout here tonight.

Twice postponed in July, and spoken about only in whispers, the 15-round fight apparently caught on over the week-end. And, according to promoter Rocco Mara, is "sure to be a financial success."

As heavy favored Pep of Hartford and Compo of New Haven were winding up prelims yesterday, Mara proclaimed that he already has $29,750 in his tills, and that didn't include 8,000 general admission seats which went on sale this morning.

"We figure a crowd of more than 10,000. We can't miss," claimed Mara.

Municipal stadium, the scene of the scrap, has been mapped to seat axactly 15,812 — just in case. Ten thousand paying customers would mean a gate of approximately $40,000, a profit for everybody, says Mara.

The all-Connecticut fight in which Willie is to defend his crown for the ninth time since he won it late in 1942 from Chalky Wright, is slated to start at 9 p. m. (EST). There is to be no radio broadcast or television.

For Pep, the 1 to 4 favorite, the bout — his first since he recaptured the 126-pound title from Sandy Saddler last February, has double significance. Today is his 27th birthday.

"It's going to be a happy birthday for me, I'm sure," says Willie. "I'm going to go after him early, but am ready to go the distance, if I have to do it."

To which Compo replies:

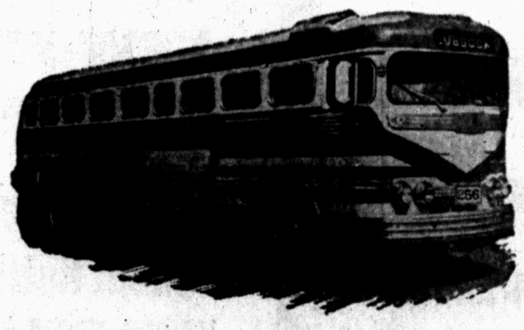

"Pep will look good against me in the early rounds, but I'll be faster later on. I expect to win, and what's more, I'm in the best shape of my life."

Compo, who has appeared in 60 fights, most of them in New England and New York, has lost but once.

Between the Lines
by Joe Kelly

Lefty Sollis deserves a bit of recognition for arranging the reception committee that met the Texas Tech football team when it returned Sunday from Austin. Lefty realized that the Red Raider squad members probably would have morale at a low ebb. He knew that nothing went so far as true support following such a loss as the Raiders took. It's easy to cheer, whoop and holler when your team wins, but the players don't need the laurels as much then as they do when they get kicked. So Lefty got in touch with Arch Lamb, Frank Junell, D. M. McElroy, Dr. D. M. Wiggins and others. They in turn got the freshmen to turn out. The result was a heart-warming greeting for a team that battled its best against odds far too long against them.

We don't know that the reception will do anything to make Tech play better ball, but it certainly gave the players a morale boost when they needed it most. It's bad enough to get beaten 43-0 and it's bad enough to know that you made mistakes that helped beat yourself that badly. But it's worse to come home feeling that no one will be behind you, that no one will be glad to see you and that most everyone will ask "what happened?" We think that the Raiders made mistakes in Austin that they won't make Saturday night. For one thing, the heat shouldn't be nearly as bad, the players will have more time to rest up from their gruelling bus trip and they won't have the fear of the Aggies that they had of Texas.

Coach Blair Cherry of Texas did a generous thing yesterday when he called a local man and asked him to keep the wolves off Dell Morgan. Cherry told the local man that Texas Tech had done nothing worse than to show one of the better coached teams to appear in Austin and to get most of the bad breaks. He said that the first half had been a fine ball game, but that Texas reserves and the terrific humidity had worn the Raiders down in the second half. Cherry added that he had found Texas Tech a fine opponent and that the losers had played a fine game. He also went on to add that, player for player, he didn't see how Tech could hold Texas as well as it did. Moreover, Cherry said that Tech just didn't have the players to beat Southwest Conference teams.

Eck Curtis, Texas backfield coach, with whom G. B. Morris worked at Breckenridge High school, spent Saturday night with Geeber. He related, in part, some of the remarks Cherry had made at the half. Cherry, in words to this effect, said: "What's wrong with you players? You aren't playing good ball and you were outplayed in the second quarter. Here these boys (Texas Tech) are from the Plains, where the air is entirely different. They were tired by the end of the first quarter. They rode a bus all day yesterday to get here. And yet they have been making you look silly. You're playing a good team, but you've looked bad." Apparently he said a few other things also.

Bill Serena, former Hubber pride and joy, made his second appearance in the Chicago Cubs lineup yesterday and it was a most disappointing one. Bill went into last Thursday's game as a pinch hitter and grounded out, which wasn't bad. Yesterday he started the game against the Dodgers and his two errors, only two of the game, handed the winners three of their four runs. As it turned out, the Cubs didn't have much chance of winning. Rex Barney tossed a one-hitter at them. Bill handled five chances for the day and appeared at bat two times officially. He walked twice and was one of three Cub runners for the day. He also fanned once. It wasn't an impressive performance, but you can bet your bottom dollar that he was scared, especially playing the vounted Dodgers. He led off and we have an idea that his next start will be different.

Incidentally, Lubbock, the West Texas-New Mexico league and West Texas ought to sue the announcer of yesterday's Cub-Dodger game. Here he is sitting in Dallas doing a Western Union canned play by play and yet he has the audacity to crack wise at West Texas. Seems that he referred to Bill Serena's home run record in the WT-NM loop without once referring to Lubbock. In addition, he remarked that it was quite a record, but "of course they didn't have any fences in that league in those days. We might remind the Dallas dimwit that WT-NM League fences generally are longer than those in the Texas League. And by the way, is Dallas still in the Texas League?

Lubbock High school's Westerners ground an impotent Childress eleven into small pieces Friday night in a game we wish that we might have seen. Observors told us that the Westerners showed the best blocking, both in the line and downfield, that they have seen in years. They were working against an eight-man line, too, which makes a big difference. Moreover, the Westerners used only four plays all night in rolling up one of the biggers scores for a local high school eleven in the opening game. But what pleased Coach Pat Pattison the most was the desire the players showed. They played as though they really wanted to, something that has been lacking sadly the past few years. This Lubbock team may be one of the great ones.

Slaughter Bids For Loop Hitting Title

NEW YORK, Sept. 20. (AP)—Jackie Robinson of Brooklyn and Enos Slaughter of St. Louis are hooked up in a man-to-man battle for the National league batting title.

Robinson's lead, once some 35 points, has melted to three points under Slaughter's persistent attack. Jackie has faded a bit, to be sure, but Slaughter's sensational rise has been the main factor.

Slaughter is smashing the ball at a .341 clip, close behind Robinson's leading .344. Averages, include Sunday's games, with only two weeks to go.

Stan Musial of the Cards is third at .332.

After the first three, it's strictly a race for fourth position. Only nine points separate Bobby Thomson of New York, fourth at .310, and Red Schoendienst of St. Louis, tenth at .301.

Basketball was introduced at Michigan State college in 1899. Since then the Spartans have won 457 games and lost 324.

Raiders Slate Contact Drill

Texas Tech football players this afternoon had better wear their special armor, for a lengthy and intensive scrimmage is in store for the Red Raiders.

Texas A & M looms heavy on the horizon and Coach Dell Morgan will waste no time seeing if mistakes made against Texas can be corrected. Scrimmage, against the freshmen, may hold the answer to many of the problems. There were several bright spots in the performance of the Raiders and if these can be polished and mistakes corrected, the Techsans may do well against the Aggies.

Yesterday's drill was light, with part of the squad being sent through a short scrimmage against the freshmen, while the remainder worked on offensive plays.

To Stress Defense

Emphasis this week will be on strengthening the play of the defensive ends and defensive halfbacks. Texas had little trouble running the ends and little trouble passing into halfback territory. Aggie scouts are certain to have noticed the deficiency and Tech will have to strengthen its defenses along these two lines.

Yesterday the varsity partially scrimmaged and partially ran dummy scrimmage. One group was sent against a rugged freshman team and the results of last week's experience showed up. The Raiders were blocking better and opening good holes through a first year line that only last Wednesday stopped the Raiders flat.

The stress in the drill was blocking of defensive linebackers, a phase of the game Saturday that was only fair from the Tech standpoint. Raider backs were doing a better job of taking out the back defenses, making it possible for the ball carrier to move downfield.

Meanwhile other members of the varsity squad went through a long offensive dummy scrimmage at the other end of the gridiron. Emphasis in this group was on offense, with particular attention laid to passing. Much of the dummy drill showed up weakness in the ends getting into the open to receive, although Raider wings had better than fair success against the Longhorns.

Trainer Mason Gorby reported that the injured players on the squad were making good progress and all but Fullback J. W. Thompson probably will be ready for the Texas Aggie game.

Tackle Rex Pinson, who underwent a minor operation last week, was in uniform yesterday. Tackle John Andrews, who has missed both games so far with a deep shoulder bruise, also probably will be ready. Halfbacks Walter Maloney and Herman Bailey should be ready to go. Maloney has recovered from the charley horse that kept him in Lubbock last weekend and Bailey, although still on the doubtful list, was taking a workout.

End Jack Davis, who wrenched an ankle Saturday, may not be able to play much, if at all, Saturday. He is hobbling on his bad ankle, but was not suited up yesterday.

Brooklyn Blanks Cubs 4-0; Phils Shade Cards, 4 To 3

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Brooklyn's "B" twins — Ralph Branca and Rex Barney—have hit their old stride again and the Dodgers' pitching staff appears at peak strength for the stretch run in the tight National league pennant race.

This is discomforting news for the St. Louis Cardinals, who saw their lead chopped to a game and a half last night and who have a three-game series with the pursuing Dodgers coming up tomorrow.

Branca and Barney, the erratic roommates who fell short of the 20-game victory marks predicted for them in the spring, may play a big role in the important St. Louis stand.

Both fashioned notable conquests the last couple of days over the Chicago Cubs. Manager Burt Shotton, who has used them spasmodically, indicates they can expect regular work here on out.

Barney Blanks Cubs

Barney turned in one of the best pitched games of the season yesterday in shutting out the Cubs on one hit, 4-0. He faced only 28 men, none reached second and the only blow off him was Phil Cavarretta's single opening the eighth.

It was his eighth victory against eight defeats but a vital one for the Dodgers.

A few hours later the Cardinals ran afoul a couple of Philadelphia rookies and lost to the Phillies, 4-3, to have their advantage whittled to 1½ games.

This adds new pressure to the Dodger-Cardinal series opening with a day-night doubleheader in St. Louis tomorrow.

Shotton announced he wouldn't use big Don Newcombe in two of the games as originally planned. Newcombe will pitch the first one, he said, followed by Preacher Roe and Branca or Barney as starters in the other two.

Branca, who pitched only 20 innings since Aug. 1, showed top form in setting down the Cubs Sunday, 7-1.

New York Wins

While the National league was growing tighter, the American began to loosen up a bit. The New York Yankees increased their lead to three full games over the idle Boston Red Sox by trimming Cleveland, 6-0.

It was the fourth straight triumph over first division foes for the Yankees and their ninth victory in the last ten games. They're not giving quarter.

Lefty Ed Lopat pitched a five-hitter in shutting out the Indians, recording his 15th victory of the season. Bob Feller was Cleveland's losing hurler.

Rookies Beat Cards

Rookies John (Jocko) Thompson and Ed Sanicki were the Phillies who jolted the Cardinals. Thompson, a 29-year-old lefthander, held the Cards scoreless for six innings and went all the way while giving up 11 safeties. Sanicki, a 22-year-old outfielder, batted in three runs for the Phils, two of them on a homer.

In the other National league games, the New York Giants won a ten-inning affair from Pittsburgh, 6-4, and the Boston Braves whipped Cincinnati, 6-2.

Ralph Kiner hit his 50th home run of the season for the Pirates to become the first player in the National league to hit that mark twice. Kiner, who is pressing Hack Wilson's league record total of 56, poled 51 in 1947.

Warren Spahn turned in his 19th pitching victory for the Braves in the game at Cincinnati which was a replay of the previous day's 1-1 tie.

The only other game in the American league saw the Philadelphia Athletics push over three runs in the eighth to subdue the St. Louis Browns, 7-4. Dick Fowler won his 14th game of the season, going all the way.

Bowling Results

The Commercial Bowling League opened its season last night at the Lubbock Bowling club, with Cadenhead Butane taking a double win over the All-State Insurance quintet.

Alpe Inn won a couple of games against one loss from Lester's Jewelry, while S. & Q. Clothiers duplicated against Hackney's Dental Lab. West Texas Gas also took a double win from the Unnamed five.

Cadenhead's keglers rolled high game with 1,027 and took three-game series with 2,947. Ken Kimble had individual honors with a sizzling 255-880. Jay O'Keefe followed closely with 245-845 and Lowell Caddell was right behind with 231-810.

In 1913, Walter Johnson hurled 56 consecutive shutout innings for the Washington Senators.

Deadline Set On Tech-Ag Tickets

All persons desiring tickets to the Texas Tech-Texas A&M football game Saturday night in San Antonio must pick up their tickets not later than 6 p. m. Thursday.

"There are plenty of tickets available," Tech Athletic Director Morley Jennings declared, "but tickets not claimed by 6 p. m. Thursday will be returned to San Antonio."

Tech students are being urged to make the trip for the game, which has been designated a "college game." In other words, special preparations are being made. Approximately nine special buses already have been ordered and the band probably will make the trip.

Former Tech Gridder Will Miss Pro Games

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 20 (AP) Bob Bryant, star tackle of the undefeated San Francisco Forty-Niners of the All-America conference, suffered a deep-seated hemorrhage in his left leg Sunday and is in St. Mary's hospital.

Coach Buck Shaw said that Bryant, former Texas Tech ace, would miss the Buffalo and Chicago games; and possibly the important tilt against the Cleveland Browns here Oct. 9.

Cager Drafted By Grid Coach

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 20—Casey Stengel's standing gag for his injury-ridden season has been "lose a man, win a ball game." . . . What's going to happen now that the Yankee cripples are beginning to round into shape? . . . When Harvard's football team takes off tomorrow for the Stanford game Saturday, it will be only the sixth long trip in Crimson football history and the second time Harvard has opened a season away from home . . . Tub-thumper Hank Johnston points out that the Harvard squad has a a B minus average, which has nothing to do with the fact they'll likely be minus a few players when the Indians get through . . . Duke's Wallace Wade has "recruited" basketball star Ceep Youmans and baseballer Tom Powers for his defensive football squad. And the word probably makes Wades blush every time he hears it.

Gift Is Recalled

Old-timers at the University of Wisconsin recall that back in 1895 a million dollars gave Chicago a victory over the Wisconsin team . . . The Badgers were leading 12-10 at half time, but just as the teams lined up to start the second half, the president of Chicago U. raced out on the field excitedly waving a telegraam . . . It was the news of a million dollar grant-in-aid to build athletic facilities . . . The Wisconsin players, who even had to buy their own suits and shoes in those days, were so overcome by envy (that's the old-timers' version) that they went down by a 22-12 score.

Coach Gets Shock

Hook Mylin, who at best hasn't many football players at New York U., got an awful shock the other day when Bill Matthews, flashy soph halfback, calmly phoned the news that he was transferring to Michigan . . . . When Mike Garcia of the Indians shut out the Red So 1-0 last July, a Cleveland fan made a recording of the play-by-play broadcast and presented it to Mike, who proudly sent it to his folks in California . . . Some unkind folks might say Mike hasn't been able to find the platter since then . . . An expert observer who saw Villanova thump Texas Aggies 35-0 (and who says it could have been a bigger score) adds: "Villanova has more depth at fullback than any college team I've ever seen."

Refinery Plant

he said at the hospital. "I don't know what caused the explosion. I mean it knocked me down. Look at me now."

Reagan crawled away from the scene.

The blast was heard over a great area of the city, and police and newspaper offices were deluged with telephone calls for more than one hour later.

Smoke rose above the scene to a height visible over much of the city.

Noel B. Machbanks, assistant superintendent, said he believed the first explosion came from a gas compressor room, a vital part of the cracking unit.

Sounded Like Big Guns

A coker at the cracking unit, Morgen Engstrom, was 40 feet from the cracking tower, behind the corner of a brick building, when the blast occurred.

"It sounded like a big gun going off," he said. "There were lots of blasts, but I didn't feel much concussion." He was unhurt.

J. V. Kikely, 32, of Rhome, driving alongside the refinery when the explosion sounded, said the concussion rocked his car from one side of the road to the other. He was stunned but not injured. The concussion broke his auto windows.

Miss Shirley Rosen, secretary at Rosen Machine Products company, a mile away, said the explosion shattered office windows.

Firemen Handicapped

The fire was under control about one hour after the initial blast.

Firemen were handicapped by absence of standard fire hydrants at the scene. Firemen said their city hoses would not fit the available hydrants.

Firemen battled the blaze with foamite, a power which must be forced into the water. In the first hour after the blast 75 five-gallon cans of the substance were used.

Police estimate more than 500 autos jammed the area shortly after the blast. Squads of police and five deputy sheriffs were dispatched to the area.

STILL AT LARGE

SNYDER, Sept. 20 (Special) — Police here were searching today for a 19-year-old jailbreaker who fled the city jail shortly after he had been picked up with two juvenile companions for questioning in connection with a series of motor scooter thefts in several Texas cities.

Vernie Head, deputy sheriff of Scurry county, said the youths were in possession of two stolen vehicles at the time of their arrest. It was believed they might also have been involved in the burglary of a school at Hermleigh earlier Monday.

Hungarian engineers have designed a new three-axle car, Budapest reports.

Government Suit Is Continuing In City

Hearing of the government suit against Raymond Grinstaff of Fort Worth, involving 218 bales of cotton, was continuing in U. S. District court today before Judge Joseph B. Dooley and a jury. The case is styled United States of America versus Raymond Grindstaff.

Three other defendants are represented in the case involving Grindstaff, a Morton warehouseman in 1941, Bailey and Henry and J. P. Williams, Lubbock cotton brokers, and the St. Paul Mercury Insurance company, bonding company for the warehouse.

It is the government's contention, through the Commodity Credit Corporation, that the cotton had been removed from the warehouses at Morton before they burned on April 6 and 8, 1941, and that the Lubbock cotton men were purchasers of the cotton. The government is suing for recovery of the cotton and all persons involved are participating in the suit.

W. A. Christian, Dallas; and Lee P. Pierson, New Orleans, are representing the government. Benjamin Kucera, Lubbock attorney, is counsel for Grindstaff. L. A. Howard and Geo. W. Gibson, jr., are representing Bailey and Henry; and J. Edwin Fleming, Dallas, and R. A. Sowder, Lubbock, are counsel for Williams. Ralph Malone of Dallas is representing the bonding company.

Trial of the case is expected to continue through Wednesday.

Jury To Try Murder Case Half Completed

Six jurors had been accepted when 99th District Judge G. V. Pardue recessed court for the noon hour in the murder with malice trial of Elias Garcia.

Garcia, 22, is charged in the Aug. 8 shotgun slaying of Antonio Urtado, jr. He is represented by the la wfirm of Berry and Ball. George Berry, in waiving a special venire, had reserved the right to examine prospective jurors individually.

Named jurors out of the first 11 persons examined were H. E. Ross, R. O'Dell, James Graham, Cashions E. Gard, W. D. Murphy, and G. R. Combs.

Roy Carpenter is a special prosecutor who is assisting District Attorney Lloyd Croslin in the case.

Devaluation

a slowdown for more money.

Since Britain took her startling monetary dive a string of other nations have plunged into the devaluation pool with a loud splash.

Jap Request Refused

In occupied Japan, General MacArthur authorized the Japanese to buy cheaper British pounds but turned down growing Nipponese clamor for devaluation of the yen.

The Canadian dollar's value was slashed 10 per cent last night. That means tourists and buyers carrying American dollars to Canada can get 110 Canadian cents for each U. S. dollar — a bargain that Canada hopes will boost her export sales and tourist business.

France cut her money loose from all franc-dollar controls with the idea of letting the free enterprise system determine how many francs the U. S. dollar will bring.

Countries Listed

Neither Canada nor France slashed their currency as drastically as Britain. The dollar-short British cut their pound 30½ percent — from $4.03 to $2.80 — in a drastic effort to start a buying boom by Americans who now can get British-made goods at cheaper prices.

A Russian radio commentator declared that Britain had "surrendered to the United States."

Here is the list of countries that have devalued their currencies:

Britain, South Africa, Ireland, New Zealand, Canada, France, Australia, Egypt, Israel, India, Burma, Ceylon, Denmark, Norway, Sweden, Iceland, Finland, Malaya, and Holland.

Sweden joined up with the other Scandinavian countries — Denmark, Norway and Finland — in devaluation late yesterday.

The Netherlands devalued the guilder. The government fixed the exchange rate at 3.80 guilders to the dollar. It previously was 2.65 builders.

UN Session

nearly three months, although U. N. officials set Nov. 30 hopefully as the date they should finish.

The diplomatic cheer grew out of a statement by Andrei Vishinsky, foreign minister of Soviet Russia, who said the assembly could solve its important problems with cooperation. He's said that before, however, and western delegates were waiting to get a look at the Soviet-style cooperation.

Sounds Encouraging

The United States Secretary of State Dean Acheson said Vishinsky "sounds encouraging." "I am confident that we will all reach some solution," he added.

France's Foreign Minister Robert Schuman said he hoped Mr. Vishinsky's declaration will become a reality. Ernest Bevin, the British foreign minister, made no comment on it after his arrival from Washington to complete the roster of big four ministers here for the assembly.

Woman Held

Benson quoted Mrs. McIntee ass saying, was, "she perted me last Tuesday."

Listed in the Funk & Wagnalls new college standard dictionary as an adjective meaning "disrespectfully forward or free," the word "pert" is used in these West Virginia hills as a verb.

It means the same thing, though.

Daily MARKETS

Stock Market

STOCKS PLUNGE LOWER

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP) — Heavy selling hammered stock prices down fractions to around 3 points today for one of the worst declines of the year.

About $1,000,000,000 was hacked away from the market value of all stocks listed on the exchange.

Selling never got out of control but the market showed little resistance most of the day. Demand increased a bit late in the session.

Golds remained on the plus throughout.

Brokerage houses reported that sales orders streamed into Wall Street from all over the country. Substantial business developed as turnover rolled along at a rate of around 1,300,000 shares for the full session.

Rubber, Sears Roebuck, Zenith Radio, American Telephone, American Smelting, Dow Chemical, General Electric, American Woolen, Santa Fe, Texas Co., Gulf Oil, and Transcontinental & Western Air.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20 (AP) — Cotton futures were irregular in dull trading today. With the peak crop movement coming up next month and spot prices easing, traders did not show much buying enthusiasm. The principal support in futures came through mill covering.

New Arrests Underway

Recounting recent arrests, church sources observed:

"It seems that the government has now given up its practice of promises, cajolery and offers of salary increases to the priests. It can be assumed after events of the last week that new waves of arrests are underway."

Among specific cases detailed was the arrest of Father Julius Veczey of Janik, in Slovakia, for refusing to perform the wedding of a couple who were considered excommunicated from the church because they supported the government-sponsored Catholic acton movement.

Meanwhile reports reached Prague that a local Communist official had been killed by angry peasants in Moravia following the arrest of a Catholic priest.

The news stirred speculation whether fresh peasant uprisings are brewing.

Evidence In Drunk Driving Case Heard

Calvin William Drury, 21, was being tried this afternoon before Judge Walter Davies and a county court jury on a drunk driving charge.

The state, represented by County Attorney Waggoner Carr and Travis D. Shelton, an assistant, had rested. Attorney Bob Porter, Drury's counsel, had almost completed his evidence, it was indicated.

City police arrested Drury June 5 and filed the complaint.

In a jury report to Judge Walter Davies Monday afternoon, William M. Underwood, 45, of Idalou, was adjudged innocent of drunk driving. Robert Beckham was foreman.

Former County Attorney John Steele represented Underwood.

Judge Davies also had filed Monday and today the following judgments, court officials said:

William Luther Chappell, 47, $100 and costs on a plea of guilty of liquor law violation; Horace E. Parrack, 34, $75 and costs, drunk driving; Norman Odell Cooper, $75 and costs, drunk driving; J. B. Couisins, 60 days in county jail, violation of liquor law.

Samuel R. Dickinson, 39, of Lubbock pleaded innocent of drunk driving and posted $400 bond for trial appearance.

Dr. M. Norvel Young Talks To Lions Club

A brief but informative talk on Germany by Dr. M. Norvel Young, minister of Broadway Church of Christ, featured the noon luncheon of Lubbock Lions club in Hilton hotel today.

Dr. Young, who returned recently from a three-months tour of points in Europe, Egypt and Israel, expressed the belief that there is no danger of Communism or a resurgence of Nationalism in the U. S. zones of occupied Germany.

Too many people in the western zone are escapees from Russian "culture," and the people as a whole are too well satisfied with progress toward rebuilding under the Marshall Plan, Dr. Young explained.

The principal speaker was introduced by Capt. Tom Gregory, local Salvation Army commander.

Six out-of-town visitors were introduced by Ray Wells. They were George Stewart of Turkey, Shelby Hammack of Dallas, Wendell Sparks of Ardmore, Okla., Harry Murdough of Greenville, C. O. Fox of Spur and Col. McGregory of Temple.

Groves Denman, president, presided. Invocation was given by Rev. David Zacharias, and Dick Richards led the singing.

Fast Planes

motors burn at a rate of about one tone a minute.

A standard jet fighter, the F-86, is reported to have exceeded sonic speed at high altitude, where sound travels about 660 mph in the cold air. The F-86 has flown faster than 670 mph near the ground, which was about 86 per cent of sound speed at the existing temperature.

NACA engineers said a 50,000-pound airplane uses 3,000 horsepower to go 400 mph at an altitude of 30,000 feet.

Thinner air reduces drag and slashes power needs sharply. Six miles up the air resistance is only one-third that at sea level. It drops to one-sixth at 50,000 feet, and to one-sixteenth at 70,000 feet.

Without that lessened drag, power requirements for supersonic flight would be fantastic. That is why modern warplanes and civil transports alike are designed to operate from four to ten miles high. It explains also why the huge B-36 bomber, which cruises at about 225 mph at low altitudes is able to approach 400 mph when it gets up to eight miles high or more.

employes; Reading, 1,040; Chesapeake and Ohio, 6,251; Chicago and Illinois Midland, 225; and Illinois Central and Burlington, 150.

Meanwhile, the CIO United Electrical Workers' convention at Cleveland prepared to consider a possible strike by 200,000 workers against General Electric and Westinghouse after reelecting its left-wing administration last night.

At San Francisco, CIO longshore leader Harry Bridges said he was willing to let the long Hawaiian longshore strike be submitted to a three-man arbitration board headed by a federal judge.

Against Arbitration

Hawaiian employes indicated, however, that they were against any form of arbitration in settling the dispute which has disrupted shipping between the islands and mainland.

Negotiations to settle the 12-day-old strike that halted trains on the Missouri-Pacific railroad were deadlocked. The four striking unions rejected a proposal to have their grievances settled by a presidential board. They proposed instead to negotiate the claims directly with the railroad before returning to work.

At Chicago, five major daily newspapers signed a contract with the AFL International Typographical Union, officially ending a printers' strike that forced them to use a photoengraving system of printing for 22 months. The papers hoped to have at least some of their columns in "hot-lead" by tomorrow as linetypes and type founts were returned to service.

Movie Censorship Boys Agreeable To "Refined" Wiggle

Nothing Very Sexy About Atom Strip Tease To Worry Mamas Of Bump-And-Grind Circuit

By VIRGINIA MacPHERSON
United Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20.—A blonde movie queen crashed the bump-and-grind circuit with an "atom strip tease" today—but the main street mamas scarcely bothered to notice.

They don't figure this newfangled nuclear fission will ever replace the spangled G-string.

For one thing, says Betty Rowland, the runway's red-headed "ball of fire," there's nothing sexy about an atom.

It may be the most powerful thing on earth, but it's no good behind blue lights. You can't jiggle it at the customers . . . You can't take it off . . . You can't even see the blamed thing.

Miss Rowland shrugged a bare shoulder.

Atoms Tiny Balloons

"How," she'd like to know, "would we ever get THAT past the vice squad?"

Nope, says La Rowland of the runway, she expects no competition from Miss Marilyn Maxwell of the movies. Even if the censorship boys did get all hot and bothered about her film "Atom Dance."

Seems those atoms are all that stand between the voluptuous Maxwell curves and the bald-headed row. That's the way it seems.

Actually, the beautiful blonde's wearing panties and bra underneath. And the "atoms" are hundreds of tiny flesh-colored balloons, clued carefully over the same strategic spots Miss Rowland covers with sequins.

BETTY ROWLAND

But smack in the middle of the dance, with Clark Gable ogling right along with the rest of the boys, the atoms explode. Just like Bikini—only twice as interesting.

Bumps Banned

It takes concentration. But Miss Maxwell is a girl with concentrated equipment. Before long she could explode her atoms with a simple bump-and-grind jiggle.

That's when the Johnston office got wind of the doings and moved in faster than chain reaction. No bumps, they ordered. No grinds either. A little wiggle here and there might be all right, they guessed, provided it was a "refined wiggle."

They also ordered up a special scene showing Marilyn fastening the balloons to her underdrawers. They were afraid some bug-eyed moviegoer might get the impression she's plumb nekkid under those "Hollywood atoms."

And that's why Miss Rowland and her sisters under the spangles aren't worried. You don't catch THEM dissillusioning the bald-headed row that way.

"This radioactivity's no good for burlesque, anyway." Betty sniffed. "You'd have to do it 10 miles away from the customers. And Minsky could tell MGM that's not good box-office. Not when you're takin' 'em off, it isn't!"

Texas Weather

had begun to break up.

The clouds were expected to take the form of cumulonimbus or thunderheads late this afternoon, said Melton Connell, weather observer.

A minimum temperature of 64 degrees this morning was followed by temperatures expected to reach the middle 80's during the afternoon. The mercury had climbed to 78 degrees by 1 p. m.

Elsewhere over Texas, the weather was just what the calendar called for today—mild with a touch of fall, garnished with a few clouds, the Associated Press said.

In contrast with thunderstorms earlier this week, no rain was falling in the state before noon, the Weather bureau said. The sun peeked through scattered clouds.

Clouds were heaviest in South Texas, where a few scattered showers are predicted through tomorrow.

Thunderstorms that rumbled over the state put on a spectacular show Monday but did little actual damage.

Some telephones were knocked out of commission at Laredo in South Texas and high winds blew over a 70-foot television receiving aerial in Dallas and lightning hit a house.

A building and powerlines were damaged at Baytown.

More than two inches of rain in 20 minutes in Baytown. Heavy rain fell at Laredo and coastal points reported drenching showers. So, too, did many other points in the state.

ber of commerce. All are invited to attend, Whiteside emphasized.

The meeting also will be open to cities other than those listed which might be interested in a Canadian river dam and reservoir as a source of domestic water supply, he added.

A permanent authority is needed, Whiteside explained, to provide a contracting agency to deal with the U. S. Reclamation service if the bill authorizing the $85,000,000 project is approved by the U. S. senate and signed by the president. The measure was passed by the house of representatives several weeks ago.

The creation of the permanent authority will require the formation of water districts.

The several methods of procedure in doing this, Whiteside said, are to be explained to the meeting here by Spencer L. Baird, of Amarillo, reclamation service attorney. Several other officials of that service also are to be here, Whiteside was advised.

Whiteside explained, however, that any plan of organizing water districts will require approval at elections by the people residing within them.

The chamber of commerce is to be host at the luncheon.

Engineer Predicts Energy From Sunlight Can Someday Substitute For Other Fuels

DALLAS, Sept. 20 (U.P.)—In the not too distant future, the world may be able to forget about coal, oil and natural gas and take all the energy it needs from the sun.

Frank R. Benedict, a Westinghouse Electric Corp. engineering executive, predicted it can be done.

He spoke last night at a meeting of the Dallas section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Benedict said that scientists must learn to capture energy now lost when the sun's rays bounce off the earth's surface before old sol can be put to work as a universal powerhouse.

Scientists also must find out how to soup up solar energy converted by the earth into combustible material such as wood or plant products.

He scoffed at reports that some day atomic power will give the world all the energy it can use.

"It is common belief," he said, "that in atomic disintegration we have an untapped source of practically inexhaustible energy. This is not true.

"Limited amounts of the two fissionable elements—uranium and thorium—will control the broad scale applications of atomic power.

"It seems very unlikely that atomic power will ever supply any large proportion of our total energy requirement."

Engineers dream about direct conversion of the sun's radiation into electrical energy, Benedict said. Intensive research aimed at photo-chemistry and thermo-electricity is now being conducted at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and other universities, he said.

Atom Secrets

model weapons.

In contrast with the situation which now exists, the United States, Britain and Canada jointly undertook in 1943 the tremendous effort which finally resulted in the manufacture of the atomic bombs used in Japan.

At that time, it is set forth in a recent report by President Truman, they shared their information. British scientists participated in the production of bombs at Los Alamos, N. M., in the later Bikini tests and in the operation of some of the principal plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn. British and Canadian scientists consulted American experts of the metallurgical laboratory in Chicago on the design of an atomic energy plant which they later built in Canada.

Then and in the immediate post-war years, experts of the three countries not only had a pretty general sharing of atomic secrets but there was also a little-known agreement on the division as between Britain and the United States of available uranium ore.

Following the passage of basic atomic energy laws here, however, the American government tightened up on the information it supplied Britain and Canada. Meanwhile the division of uranium ore—produced mostly in the Belgium Congo—was revised to increase the amount assigned the United States.

Difficulties Are Found

Finally in January, 1948, the three governments agreed upon a working arrangement. This stabilized for a fixed period of time the types of information which they would exchange and the division of uranium raw material.

Subsequently Britain increased its atomic energy research and development and the government announced at London its intention of making atomic weapons.

The United States found difficulties within its own government—in the state and defense departments and the Atomic Energy Commission—in reaching agreement on whether to provide or withhold specific facts which the British or the Canadians occasionally requested.

From the British and Canadian side it was made apparent that the exchange of information was not satisfactory. In addition the British indicated that their requirements for uranium ore were increasing and this raised the question anew of the allocation of atomic raw material.

As the situation now stands, according to the best available information, the British-Canadians and the Americans know comparatively little about the progress which the other has made. In other words, the wartime partnership has reached a relatively low level of cooperation as compared with the extensive cooperation generated in the war years.

Army, ORC, Guard Officers To Meet

AUSTIN, Sept. 20 (Special)—Approximately 60 officers of the Regular Army, Organized Reserve corps and representatives of the National Guard and ROTC will meet here Wednesday for a three-day conference on Organized Reserve corps affairs, Col. Oscar B. Abbott, executive of the Texas Military district, has announced.

The purpose of the conference is to prepare recommendations pertaining to all aspects of Reserve summer training to be conducted in 1950. There will also be committees working on improving the operating efficiency of the Organized Reserve corps instructors' offices throughout the state.

Col. Abbott said this is the first time that Organized Reserve corps instructors have been called together since December, 1948.

Major James R. Samsel, Organized Reserve corps instructor at Lubbock, will be among the officers attending this week's conference.

Officer Speaker At Optimist Luncheon

Capt. William C. Neubauer, Army Signal Corps instructor at Tech, today told fellow Optimists at a luncheon meeting in Hotel Lubbock his experiences at the RQTC summer encampment at Fort Monmouth, N. J.

He said 19 reserve officer cadets from Tech attended the camp along with some 600 other students representing 36 American colleges.

Captain Neubauer was particularly proud of the fact that two Tech tsudents, Charles Pendergraft and D. A. Wilson, secured two of the 25 positions open as junior scientists at the Fort's laboratories.

President G. C. Stewart introduced J. C. Armstrong, new club treasurer replacing H. P. Watkins. Watkins resigned the post because of pressing business duties, Stewart said.

SEX AND WHISKY TESTIMONY OVER

Judge Carpenter Acquitted Of Attempted Murder Charge

ATLANTA, Sept. 20 (AP) — A jury gave the sex and whisky testimony of five days a 59 minute study and then freed Judge Robert Carpenter of attempted murder.

Courtroom spectators cheered as the jury foreman, hat in hand, last night acquitted the 44-year-old jurist of attempting to kill his former friend, attorney John Lockwood.

Judge Carpenter smiled and tried to blink back tears before turning to clasp his attractive 20-year-old step-daughter, Barbara.

A few minutes later the judge and Barbara escaped through crowding well wishers to the privacy of the chambers in Fulton county courthouse where he presides over civil court.

Accused By Mother-In-Law

Lockwood, A 53-year-old former Philadelphia lawyer, was not in the courtroom when the verdict was returned.

The state charged that Judge Carpenter pursued Lockwood four blocks the night of July 27 and shot him four times in the face. Lockwood is attorney for Mrs. Carpenter in her divorce suit.

On the witness stand the judge would admit only to shooting at Lockwood, exclaiming, "if ever a man was justified I was."

For five days the trial swirled around the relationships between Lockwood and Mrs. Carpenter, and between the judge and another woman, Mrs. Estelle Manful.

Mrs. Carpenter's 62-year-old mother, Mrs. Minnie Sullivan, took the stand yesterday to swear the judge once entered her bedroom in 1943 and made "some dirty advances and remarks to me."

Mrs. Sullivan said she promised the judge that if he didn't get out she would kill him.

"Advance" Explained

The defense promptly put the judge back on the stand where he declared:

"The only improper advance I ever made to her was to knock her down the steps when she came home filthy, lousy drunk, using vile language in front of Barbara and her playmates."

The judge said he had supported Mrs. Sullivan since his marriage and that he had sold his home "to make sure she'd never have room to live with me — eternally."

Twice during the trial Lockwood was placed by witnesses in Mrs. Carpenter's bedroom, once when Mrs. Carpenter was drunk and at home.

To this testimony, Mrs. Sullivan said she was with Mrs. Carpenter both times, except for about 15 minutes once in the Carpenters's apartment.

Lockwood testified that the night he was shot he and Mrs. Carpenter had been trying to catch the judge in a tourist camp with Mrs. Manful.

He also told the court that he once saw the judge in a New York hotel with a woman clad only in a blanket.

Throughout the trial the judge was described as the innocent victim of a plot by Lockwood to steal "his wife, his money and his reputation."

As for Lockwood he painted himself as a friend who was trying to help Mrs. Carpenter salvage her life from a husband who drank and gambled too much and ran around with other women.

One of the high points of the trial was the appearance of Barbara on the stand to testify that Lockwood had so influenced her mother that life no longer was bearable with her.

Barbara testified that Lockwood and her mother tried to undermine her faith in her step-father, who adopted her when she was four.

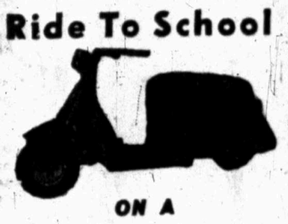

On the night of the shooting, Judge Carpenter said, Barbara had pleaded with him tearfully to "do something about John Lockwood breaking up our home."

Negro Is Given Life Sentence

SILVERTON, Sept. 20 (Special) A 110th jury Monday afternoon, after slightly more than an hour's deliberation, adjudged George Holland, a negro, guilty of murder with malice in the Aug. 2, 1947, slaying at Ralls of Crosby Sheriff J. J. Pierce, and recommended a punishment of life imprisonment.

The defendant accepted the verdict, which was signed by W. Coffee, jr., as foreman, and was sentenced by District Judge Alton B. Chapman.

Holland was convicted in a former trial of the case, in the 72nd district court of Lubbock county, and a recommendation of death was made by the jury. The Court of Criminal appeals reversed the judgment and remanded the case for a new trial.

Venue recently was changed to the court of Judge Alton Chapman upon motion of Judge Dan Blair of the 72nd district.

Defense Offers No Evidence

The court of criminal appeals held that Holland had been deprived of his right to file his bills of exception.

In today's trial, just as in that at Lubbock, the defense did not offer any evidence. It had sworn witnesses, but did not call them. No motions were filed, newsmen were informed.

The state was represented by 110th District Attorney John Stapleton, Crosby County Attorney Lloyd Wicks, jr., 72nd District Attorney Lloyd Croslin and assistant District Attorney E. G. Pharr.

The defense was conducted by A. C. Cooke and Bryan B. Dillard, of the Lubbock law firm of Dillard, Cooke and Dillard.

It required approximately one hour to complete the jury. The state completed its evidence in forenoon. After the noon recess, the defense announced it would close without offering evidence.

Actor Is Man With Two Wives, As Far As Court Concerned

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 20 (AP) — Actor David Brian has divorced his first wife twice. But so far as the Los Angeles superior court is concerned, he is still her husband—and a man with two wives.

Brian married actress Adrian Booth last June 19. On July 22 he obtained a preliminary divorce decree here from Mrs. Bonita Davis, from whom he had obtained a Mexican divorce June 3. His legal name is Brian James Davis.

Superior Judge William B. McKesson set aside Brian's California decree yesterday after his first wife filed an affidavit declaring she expects to become a mother in five months as a result of her relations with the actor after their separation a year ago.

Woman Changed Mind

Brian denied in an affidavit that he is the father of her expected child. He charges she deserted him when he was ill and broke, and now seeks to capitalize his recent motion picture success as Joan Crawford's leading man.

Mrs. Davis insisted she stepped aside to further her husband's movie career. Judge McKesson called it "a case where a woman changed her mind." Her attorney said he will file a cross complaint to Brian's suit and ask support. Brian's lawyer said he will appeal.

Wider Use Of Texas Cotton Is Goal Of Tech Research Group

Wider use of Texas cotton in fiber manufacturing may be the result obtained in a few years by the cotton research committee at Texas Technological college, which has added Dr. Lyle E. Hessler, formerly with the U. S. Department of Agriculture, to its staff.

Experimentation with cotton mill adjustments and fiber technology will be under the direct supervision of Dr. Hessler, who comes to the Tech campus as a research associate from the government's Beltsville, Md., headquarters.

Education Program Planned

"We hope to show the mill operators that Texas cotton is just as good as that grown east of the Mississippi for many types of cloth weaving," Dr. Hessler said in outlining his future work here.

Texas cotton has long been considered inferior in many respects for mill spinning because of its shorter staple, Dr. R. C. Goodwin, head of the Tech research committee pointed out.

"The undesirability of cotton from this area for weaving has been largely due to the lack of knowledge in how to adjust machinery to handle it," Dr. Hessler said, however.

It will be the aim of the research here to find ways of making local cotton adaptable to spinning and to show mill owners that its use will be cheaper for them.

Improvements Are Sought

Shorter staple of Texas cotton, and more especially that produced on the South Plains, is caused by climatic conditions, soil and seed varieties, Dr. Hessler explained. Studies are now underway to determine whether a seed variety not used here might improve the staple length.

Tech's research in the field of fiber technology is part of a three-fold plan underway here and at the University of Texas and Texas A and M. Texas is concerned largely with marketing, while Texas A. and M. deals with seed and breeding.

Dr. Hessler himself was with the department of agriculture for 13 years and worked in Austin, the University of Kentucky and in Beltsville. He is a graduate of the University of Minnesota with a degree in biochemistry, backed up by a minor in bacteriology.

Full Study Slated

Studies of the physical properties in South Plains cotton and methods in which they can best be utilized as a spinning fabric will be included in the research committee's studies. As the program develops, further uses of cotton will be sought and a chemical laboratory for scientific research is planned.

In explaining the need for research of this kind, Dr. Hessler reminded that practically all Texas cotton was exported before World War II and that those markets have been largely shut off since that time. Domestic millers have for many years considered cotton from this area as a sort of drug on the market, unfit for successful weaving.

"It will be our job to find new and more economical uses for Texas cotton and better methods of weaving it and to convince millers our product is as good as that produced from longer staples," the research associate asserted.

Nine men are now included on the Tech research committee, which will make use of data compiled from time to time by the government in their studies.

County Tax Rate Of 72 Cents Set; 1950 Budget Okayed

Levy Boosted By Two Cents

A 1950 county budget of an estimated $829,033.91 was adopted and a 1949 county tax rate of 72 cents on the $100 of assessed valuation was set Monday by Lubbock county commissioners court.

The budget figures $109,542.26 over the estimated budget for 1949.

The tax rate compares with 70 cents for last year.

Permanent Fund Boosted

County Auditor Joe Boyd said the two-cent increase in the tax rate was largely attributable to requirements of the permanent improvement fund. Only one cent to the $100 of assessed valuation had been levied in that fund in 1949, as compared with three and a half cents for 1950.

A club house to cost approximately $10,000 will be completed at Monroe, and a similar one is promised for Precinct 1, a mile south of Five-Point theater on land donated by George P. Kuykendall. Those improvements, together with possibly others, caused the fund to be increased, Boyd told the court.

Totals Are Given

Boyd gave these estimated figures of revenue sources, and their comparison with 1949, shown in parenthesis:

From ad valorem taxes, $388,800 ($292,959.25); delinquent taxes, $8,450 ($6,052.94); all other revenue, such as automobile registration, trial fees, stenographic fees, terracing, and the like, $431,783.91 ($420,479.46).

Expenditures Are Listed

The 1950 expenditures as estimated by the auditor follow:

Administrative (operation), $190,956.04; judicial and law enforcement, $120,847.12; health, $2,400; agriculture and livestock, $14,594; county library, $15,650; education (county superintendent's traveling expenses), $300; all road and bridge expenditures, $187,636; capital outlay (all new equipment), $104,306.75; payment on indebtedness, $131,209; transfer to charity fund, $6,000; transfer to officers salary fund, $25,000; transfer to health program, $16,000; reserve held, $14,135.

That makes the total $829,033.91.

Payments To Start Oct. 1

The budget is based upon round-number valuations of $60,000,000, less 10 percent figured off for delinquencies.

The 1948 valuation was $47,000,000 in round numbers.

Collections on the current tax roll will commence Oct. 1. Penalty and interest will be added Feb. 1.

H. B. Bryan, who took over the tax office several weeks ago, has done virtually the "impossible" it was said. All rendered property is now on the tax rolls. He has

Plaque Design Gets Approval

A bronze plaque honoring the Lubbock county dead of World Wars I and II moved a step nearer reality Monday when the county commissioners' court, meeting in special session, approved its design.

Mrs. J. Spruce White, commander of the Disabled American Veterans auxiliary here, said compilation of a list of names was near completion.

234 Names Probable

Only 21 names have not been verified as to spelling and other details, Mrs. White said. The plaque will contain a total of 234 names, it now appears, and 213 of these have been verified.

Mrs. White requested the aid of the public in verifying and learning further details about the following men reported to have been killed in action:

More Information Needed

Barstow, William Spencer; Brown, Harold G.; Brooks, B. F.; Boren, L. E.; Cates, Leroy; Cooksey, A. B., jr.; Dickson, Robert S.; Floyd, R. L.; Griffin, Everett T.; Hart, Ralph C.; Johnson, George G., jr.; Johnson, James Edward; McPherson, Gwen T.; Pierce, Clyde Alton; Rowe, W. T.; Scott, Thomas Quincy; Simmons, Edward C.; Slater, Rhesa Kelly; Williams, Cleveland; Brown, Ray; and Lindley, Edward.

Persons knowing the branch of service, serial number, or other facts about the above-named men were asked to call Mrs. White at 7622 after noon today or the rest of the week in order that the job of verifying their eligibility for the list might be completed.

Inebriated Defendant Has A New Excuse

DAVENPORT, Ia., Sept. 20 (INS) A 51-year-old Davenport man, arraigned on a charge of intoxication, had something new in the way of defense today.

Howard W. Coon told police Magistrate John J. McSwiggin that he was making the rounds of taverns in search of his dentist.

"I wanted to pick up a plate but couldn't find him in his office," Coon relate. "When he (the dentist(is not there he's visiting taverns," the defendant declare.

McSwiggin released Coon with a 10-day suspended jail sentence.

OPAL DIXON

THE QUESTION

Do you think World War II veterans are adequately provided for from medical and compensation standpoints?

THE ANSWERS

BOB PUGH, 2622 Twenty-sixth, national service officer for DAV at the regional office of the Veteran's administration: "I do not think they are adequately cared for as far as medical aid and hospitalization are concerned, and the Disabled American Veterans are strongly protesting the 16,000-bed cutbacks as recommended by the Hoover commission. I believe that some veterans are not adequately compensated for their disability. I don't believe that disability compensation and educational subsistence are adequate for the high cost of living that we have today."

HAROLD SHAW, 2414 Fourteenth, student at Tech: "I don't believe I know much about the medical part, but otherwise, they are. The subsistence allowance they get for attending school and on the job training allows better education for some than they would otherwise have."

L. W. LINDSEY, Shellowater, farmer: "Some are and some aren't. That's my impression. Single fellows get more in proportion than married men do in educational compensation."

TRAVIS CANNON, 2613 Nineteenth, partner in advertising firm in California: "In some cases, due to the fact that appropriations have been cut, disability compensation has been reduced to the point that the veteran is unable to support himself. I am speaking of cases where there has been no improvement, such as a permanent injury. I know one veteran with a pierced stomach, one hand gone, and three fingers on the other hand missing, who has been reduced from one hundred per cent disability to below fifty per cent."

SIDNEY SMALLWOOD, 709 Thirty-first, policeman: "Some are and some aren't. Some boys who really need more pensions aren't getting them. Lot of them have a hard time getting in hospitals; when they do, though, they get good treatment."

BOB SEARS, route 4, policeman: "No. You go see a government doctor and they act like it's coming out of their own pockets. They just don't have time for you. Some are also drawing compensation who don't need it."

VANDENBERG SIDES WITH DEMOS

GOP Support For Arms Bill Rallied

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20 (AP) — Senator Vandenberg of Michigan rallied Republican support behind the administration's program of foreign military aid today. Senate leaders agreed to drive for a quick final vote.

With no organized opposition in sight, senators said there is a good chance the issue will be decided Thursday, possibly even Wednesday. Friends of the program are predicting a top-heavy victory.

Vandenberg was one of the bigger guns lined up for the continuing Senate debate on the $1,314,010,000 program for re-arming friendly nations.

Wherry To Cooperate

He has told friends that the Senate foreign relations and armed services committees produced an improved aid bill as a result of bipartisan effort.

Recently Vandenberg has been critical of the administration for what he has called a failure to carry out a bipartisan approach in matters dealing with the Far East and the Middle East.

Republican Floor Leader Wherry of Nebraska told reporters he has promised Democratic leaders to cooperate in an effort to push the arms bill to an early vote.

So far, only five Republicans have asked to be heard, Wherry said. They are Vandenberg, and Senators Watkins of Utah, Cain of Washington, Jenner of Indiana and Kem of Missouri.

Wherry said there is a chance Senator Taft (R-Ohio), chairman of the GOP Senate policy group, may return from Ohio and oppose the arms program.

Test On Amendment

The first test vote is expected on an amendment by Senator George (D-Ga) to cut in half the $1,000,000,000 set aside in the bill for North Atlantic pact nations. George previously had backed a cut to $300,000,000.

Chairman Tydings (D-Md) of the Senate armed services committee told the Senate yesterday that General Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the U. S. joint chiefs of staff, thinks 40 to 50 divisions in Europe, in event of war, could hold on for months and perhaps turn the tide.

Tydings said the present arms program would equip and train about half that number as compared with a Russian military machine which now has 5,000,000 men under arms. Senator Cain said he understands this manpower represents about 100 divisions.

No Standing Army

But Tydings and Chairman Connally (D-Tex) of the Senate foreign relations committee made it clear the present arms program does not provide for a standing army in Europe of 40 to 50 divisions.

Connally told reporters that was merely the number of divisions which military men thought would be necessary to check an attack. He said there will be no effort to keep that many divisions under arms.

The Senate arms bill would give $1,000,000,000 in aid to western Europe, half in cash and half in contract authority. The other $314,010,000 would be divided among Greece, Turkey, Iran, Korea, the Philippines, and the China area.

George is seeking to have the western European program cut to $300,000,000 in cash and $200,000,000 in contract authority.

Man Is Tried On Two 14-Year-Old Murders

HARRISBURG, Pa. Sept. 20 (AP) —Guerino Carlucetti is being tried on murder charges today in a double slaying that happened 14 years ago.

Carlucetti went on trial yesterday, accused of slaying Emilio Givannetti and his wife, Laura, of Swatara Station, Pa., in 1935.

Carlucetti was adjudged insane by a lunacy commission three months after the slayings and was committed to the Farview state hospital.

Last May, hospital authorities informed the state they considered his capable of standing trial.

Shortly after the trial got under way, Carlucetti entered a plea of "not guilty by reason of insanity."

The prosecution told the court it will attempt to show Carlucetti became mentally unbalanced while awaiting trial in 1935 and that the Givannetti slayings were "premeditated."

Labor troubles continue to cloud Bolivia's prospects for a big tin output in 1949.

Lamesa Holds C Of C Event

LAMESA, Sept. 20 — Such a heavy burden has been placed in recent times upon the American home that the security and stability commonly associated with it has almost been destroyed, declared the Right Rev. John E. Hines, bishop coadjutor of the Episcopal church of Texas, in an address last night at the fourth annual membership meeting of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce.

Bishop Hines, one of the outstanding churchmen of the state, had as his topic "Keeping the Republic." He spoke before a crowd of approximately 225 persons.

Two Suggestions Made

At the outset, Bishop Hines reminded his listeners of Benjamin Franklin's comment made soon after the United States became a republic: "You have a republic," the statesman said, "if you can keep it."

The balance of Bishop Hines' address dealt with two suggestions for keeping the republic:

First, he said, "American home life must be redeemed," and second, "not only must we redeem the American home, but also we must redeem education."

"There is an inevitable tie between home life and national life," Bishop Hines declared. As a matter of sociological history the home is the basis for our culture, he pointed out, but added that "such a burden has been placed upon the American home that security and stability connected with it has largely been destroyed.

Spiritual Rootage Pulled Up

"If the home has failed, then the task of the school and the church is made harder because they in turn are burdened," he said.

"Home life is tremendously valuable in our American estate."

Going to his second suggestion for keeping the republic, Bishop Hines declared that "one of the most vital factors is education."

However, "for decades we have been busy pulling up the spiritual rootage from our educational system and have not bothered to put it back," he declared.

He pointed out that many of the nation's major colleges and universities were founded by the church, and traced the influence of the secular world upon private schools.

Criminal Age Drops

In 1776, he said, 100 per cent of the material used in educational textbooks was devoted to moral and spiritual emphasis, while at the present time, less

TEXAS MAY NOT QUALIFY FOR FUNDS

New Housing Plans May Ease Need For More Rent Dwellings

HOUSTON, Sept. 20 (U.P.) — The acute shortage of moderate-price rental dwellings will be greatly eased by plans for slum clearance and urban redevelopment, a national housing official predicted today.

Nathaniel S. Keith, director of those programs for the Housing and Home Finance agency in Washington, was guest speaker at the Southwest Regional Council conference o fthe National Association of Housing officials.

Texas May Not Qualify

He told some 500 delegates that "hundreds" of apartments and dwelling units would likely be built by private capital, renting between $60 and $70 per month, and rising on slum areas cleared by the city and the Houston Housing authority jointly.

The same situation, Keith said, would prevail in other U. S. cities.

Keith expressed some doubt that Texas could qualify under the 1937 state housing act for its share of the millions allotted for slum clearance and urban development.

Check Needed

"The reason we can't say Texas have not yet been given the money by Congress to set up our staff and check thoroughly into the state law," he explained.

Financing of the actual clearance comes directly from the United States treasury. Keith's agency can call on the treasury for $1,500,000,000 in loans and grants.

Speakers at the convention's final meetings tomorrow will include John Taylor Egan, public housing administrator; Marshall W. Amis, general counsel for the Public Housing administration; John P. Broome, assistant commissioner for field operations of the PHA, and Lee F. Johnson, executive vice president of the National Housing conference.

Chipmunks Have Their Own Unions

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept 5 (U.P.)—Chipmunks, like people, have their own unions and share-the-wealth plans.

Harold E. Broadbooks, University of Michigan researcher, studied 557 chipmunk. He said the little animals divide the forest into sections and each chipmunk may collect only the nuts on his claim.

Broadbrooks said the average male chipmunk forages 3.8 acres and the female only 2.36.

Oil Field Worker Wins Damage Suit

HOUSTON, Sept. 20 (AP) — An oil field worker was awarded $125,000 in personal injury damages by a federal district court jury.

The damages were awarded to G. T. Allbritton, 36, of Houston, injured Feb. 24, 1947, when an oil well derrick fell on him on a Chambers county lease of the Sunray Oil corporation.

Allbritton's suit, alleging total disability resulted from multiple spine fractures, had sought $159,391.61.

Attorneys in the case said they were confident it is the largest personal injury damage award ever made in Texas.

Mayor Of Texas Town Quits After Dispute

HOUSTON, Sept. 20 (U.P.) — Bellaire, a separately incorporated segment of Houston, was without a mayor today.

Mayor John T. Scott, retired businessman, resigned last night during a heated council meeting.

Scott was elected in July as Bellaire's first mayor under the city's home rule charter.

He would not discuss his resignation, but council members hinted it was over a dispute on certain zoning restrictions.

Could Take Lesson From Silent Movies

Films Need More Action And Less Talk, Comedian Advises

By JACK QUIGG
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 20 — Today's film comedies, said Red Skelton, in a rare reflective mood, could take a lesson from the silents.

Movies would be funnier, he thinks, if they used a lot less gab and a lot more action.

"Ever since sound came along, people have felt that pictures had to talk," the comic complained on "The Yellow Cab Man" set.

I found Skelton flat on his dressing room couch, gnawing an unlit cigar. It is fashionable this year to find fault with the films, and Red, who is chronically unhappy with his roles, was not reluctant to air his views on why the flickers aren't so funny.

Plans Talkless Movie

"For 20 years people have been trained to depend on clever lines for a laugh," he said. "They've forgotten how uproarious visual comedy can be. That's why Harold Lloyd's 'Movie Crazy' (a recently exhumed oldie) is such a smash—it's a change."

Red said Charles Chaplin once asked him: "How can they say I'm the greatest pantomimist? No one else has tried it since the silents."

Skelton plans to remedy that. His ex-wife and manager, Edna Skelton Borzage, has prepared a pantomime movie for him.

"We plan to use a narrator occasionally," Skelton said, "but none of the actors will talk. We'll act out the whole story."

This and Red's other pet projects will have to wait until his MGM contract expires in 1951. Then he plans a series of movies in the old style.

Giveaway House Expensive

Newest giveaway headache hereabouts: Mrs. Mary Brod of suburban El Monte won a $12,500 brick home "absolutely free." Except . . .

The house, on a reinforced concrete foundation, had to be moved to her lot, for which she had paid a high price. The moving cost her $3,000. She had to have $2,000 completion bond to guarantee that all city building restrictions would be met. She paid for light, water, sewer and gas connections.

Landscaping, a garage and driveway polished off the rest of the family's $10,000 bank account. Then came the income tax man—with a bill for $3,000.

Now, says Mrs. Brod, she'll have to sell the house to meet financial obligations.

Settlement Near In Strike At Refinery

HOUSTON, Sept. 20 (U.P.)—The ten-week strike at the Crown Central Petroleum corporation's Deer Park refinery was reportedly on the verge of settlement today, with the next step to be taken by the CIO union membership.

Arthur Hajecate, secretary of Local 227 of the Oil Workers International union, said a tentative contract agreement was reached at midnight last night. It will be submitted to some 350 striking oil workers today, Hajecate said.

The Crown Central plant was struck last July 7. The dispute did not involve wage disputes, but the work stoppage came about through disagreement on certain points in the contract, Hajecate stated.

He added that the new tentative agreement is "greatly clarified."

"This courtesy is contagious!"

One of our party-line customers decided the other day that the others on his line deserved a round of applause, and he wrote us a letter about it. He said:

"I am writing this note to compliment my party-line associates for their thoughtfulness in sharing the line. They are what makes party-line telephone service extremely enjoyable and satisfactory.

"If they try the line while I'm using it they very gently lift the receiver; and when they hear a conversation going on, they—also very gently—replace the receiver.

"Also they limit the length of the conversations. I have yet to wait more than two minutes for them to release the line after I have tried it to make a call.

"This courtesy is contagious; they have me doing it."

Party-line service is the choice of about half our customers in normal times when anyone who wants it can have an individual line. But today a good many party-line customers are waiting for the individual lines they would have if equipment were plentiful.

We want to be able to give everyone the service he or she prefers. Where equipment in neighborhoods permits it, we are making some progress in that direction now, despite the continuing heavy demand for telephones from those still without any service.

What we are working to do is eventually to get everyone the type of service and as much service as he or she wants. We appreciate your understanding.

Dean Of National Press Club Put Out By Admittance Of Women To New Men's Bar

By HARMAN W. NICHOLS
United Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Woman's place is in the English Channel!

That's from Homer Joseph Dodge, one of the oldest members of the National Press club.

"And you can quote me," said Dodge, giving his 24-hair (by count) goatee a shary twist.

Dodge has a red neck about letting women into the press club tonight for the grand opening of the men's new $30,000 bar. The club's board of governors says its a temporary thing and after a few hours of whoop-la, mere man again will be able to relax without the frau coming in un-announced.

Women Have Own Room

Up to now no woman ever has set foot in the men's bar. The women have a room of their own in the club, but the men's bar is sacrosanct.

The board of governors decided to let the bars down just for a few hours. Dodge takes a dark view of this concession.

The new bar, which replaces the crowded quarters the club had before, is a thing of rare beauty. It has green and brown leather cushions around the many luncheon tables, has indirect lighting and even curtains on the windows. Something for men only.

"I've seen it happen before," said the dignified Dodge.

The first thing you know, he said, the members will be having their drinks out on the sidewalk in front of the National Press building, like they do in Paris.

Dodge, a well-known correspondent, looked back across the years and while he was doing it felt a little sad about they way the press club has gone from male—well, to female.

These are all his comments:

In the very early days, the girls were allowed in the club, maybe, about three hours a year. "Which was too much by about three hours."

They got a tiny foot in the door. The progress was steady from there on.

Next was the dining room—once a month on a Sunday evening when you could serve only light wines and beer. Then every night in the main dining room.

They eventually got their own room—something we call the east lounge. A man can't go in there and loosen his shoe-laces any more. Account of women present.

Last Time For Girls

Dodge is fearful that the women will go all the way.

Next, he says, the girls will be wanting admission to the bar on New Year's Eve, the inauguration of all officers, and a lot of other occasions.

But Dodge is a fair and square newspaperman. He referred me to Jerry Green, chairman of the Press Club bar committee.

Jerry made it clear that tonight, when the bar is officially opened, it will be a first and only for women.

"You can see from the high peek-window," he said, "that no wife could ever look in and see whether her husband was at the bar. She can call him on the loud speaker system, but he's on his own then.

"The ladies deserve a chance to familiarize themselves with the place where a lot of news is made. Maybe they'll understand."

They sure will! Tonight.

Including Mrs. Dodge and Mrs. Nichols.

Anyhow, for the record, the new bar is made of fine old oak. It's a pretty thing and will accommodate twice as many husbands as the old one.

The ladies can take a long look. The committee says it will be their last.

Officer Gets Texas Engineering Post

GALVESTON, Sept. 20 (U.P.) — Lt. Col. William John Penly will take over Sept. 26 as officer-in-charge of the Fort Worth suboffice of the corps of engineers, it was announced here today.

Penly, 36, will succeed James A. Cotton, who resigned to join a Dallas engineering firm. The appointment was announced by Lt. Col. Ellsworth I. Davis, Galveston district engineer.

As head of the Fort Worth suboffice, Col. Penly will supervise construction of Benbrook, Lavon, Grapevine and Garza-Little Elm reservoirs, new being built in the Dallas-Fort Worth area. He will also direct construction of a military housing project at Carswell Air Force base near Fort Worth.

Col. Penly, a native of Waterloo, Iowa, and graduate of the Iowa State college, saw action in World War II in New Caledonia and on Guadalcanal.

He will be in Fort Worth tomorrow, accompanying District Engineer Davis to a luncheon sponsored by the Fort Worth Chamber of Commerce.

Teaching Staff At Tech Is Increased

Seven late additions have been made to the teaching staff of Texas Technological college for the fall semester, it was announced Monday by Dr. D. M. Wiggins, president of Tech.

Included are instructors in civil engineering, psychology, geometry, marketing, mechanical engineering, library, and cotton research.

James E. Platz has joined the library staff to become assistant librarian in charge of circulation, while Dr. Lyle E. Hessler has been chosen, as research associate in the field of cotton research. Both men will be concerned more with other phases of work rather than with instruction, however, Dr. Wiggins pointed out.

Tech Grad Returns

Edward L. Holt, who holds a master's degree from the University of Colorado will be assistant professor of geology. He comes to Tech from the West Virginia Institute of Technology.

Adrian C. W. Bowden will be instructor in civil engineering. He holds a degree from Tech. Milton Thompson, who received his master's degree at Tech, is returning as instructor in education and psychology after doing work towards his doctorate at the University of Texas.

Warren Rice and Robert W. Friedberg will be instructors in mechanical engineering and marketing, respectively, to round out the recent additions.

Ghost Village Is Discovered

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla., Sept. 20. (AP)—An abandoned village with human bones strewn around has been found deep in the Everglades.

Three men from nearby Wavie—Hully Stirling, William Hill and L. P. Harvey—made their way to the ghost village and brought back a report of their find, the Fort Lauderdale Daily News said.

The village, located on a high hammock, once contained about a dozen buildings, including a sugar mill, the men reported.

Bones of humans and animals, broken canoes, bits of pottery, copper caldrons, and "every conceivable kind of debris" was scattered among the rotting buildings, they added.

Sighted From Air

All the buildings were of cypress, held together with handwrought nails of copper and bronze.

Stirling, a war-time pilot, first sighted the village from the air. The trio then went as far as possible toward the spot in a flat-bottomed boat equipped with an airplane propeller to skin over the shallow water. Then they hacked their way hrough thick foliage and jungle growth.

Stirling said the site is about 10 miles from the intersection of U. S. highway 27 and state road 84 and 30 miles west of Fort Lauderdale.

They hope to find out what happened to the people who built the village and inhabited it for some time before disaster overtook them.

Burglars Steal Car To Carry Away Safe

MARSHALL, Sept. 20 (AP)—Safe crackers borrowed a new station wagon to haul off the Dunn Motor company's safe.

Police Chief C. M. Ezell said the station wagon was found virtually undamaged five miles east of here yesterday. The safe, chiseled open, was found east of the city. An undetermined amount of cash was missing.

Officers Seek Cause Of Train Derailment

NEWTON, N. C., Sept. 20 (AP) — Southern railway investigators today sought the cause of a passenger train derailment that killed two trainmen early yesterday and injured about 50 passengers.

Thirty-one persons still were in a hospital here. The fireman and two railroad employes were reported in critical condition.

The diesel engine and six following cars tumbled into a ditch as the train, running about 20 minutes late in a morning fog, came into a U-turn near the Newton station.

Newton is a textile town of 6,000 about 40 miles northwest of Charlotte and 90 miles east of the mountain resort city of Asheville.

Negro Cooks Killed

The toll might have been greater if four pullman cars on the back of the Salisbury to Charlotte train had left the tracks. Most of the passengers were asleep in the pullmans, which had come from Washington and points north and been attached to the train in Salisbury.

Two negro cooks on the train were killed. They were identified as Robert Freeman, 60, of Salisbury, N. C., and Hersten Longmire, 50, of Knoxville, Tenn.

SOME fellow on the radio the other night was talking about average citizens, how fortunate most of us are who are average citizens; what average citizens mean to the country, and all that sort of thing.

He wound up by suggesting that there should be a monument set up in Washington, depicting the average citizen and his family. He said it would be good for the representatives, the senators, the cabinet members and all the other bigwigs in the national capital to be able to see this replica in stone of John Jones, his wife and kids, so they wouldn't lose the proper perspective so much of the time.

The fellow on the radio had a good idea and nearly everybody will agree with him. There's no getting around it. The average citizen and his family are the most important people in the country.

In fact, multiplied by their number, they are the country.

Putting up a monument to stand as a reminder to our great and near great in Washington public life might not be practical.

At least, there's little chance of the step being taken.

But since the Congress is forever investigating this, that and the other thing, it occurs to us that it might sample average citizen opinion as it does so; that it might well find out what John Jones and his wife are thinking and what they'd like to see done.

EVERY time the Congress wants to know something, the committee in charge of finding out brings in a flock of so-called experts of one kind or another and asks their opinion. That's all right—up to a point. Expert opinion—technical opinion—is valuable in the solution of any problem and should be gathered, weighed and sifted.

But expert, or technical, opinion isn't always correct, nor does it always bring up the proper answer.

Congress and other governmental bodies might gain a great deal from time to time by turning to the average citizen for some opinions and ideas.

In addition to the opinion sought and received from the experts and the technicians, investigating bodies frequently turn to political bigwigs for counsel—some of them who have been far removed from the people for so long that any opinions they may have on any public question are hearsay. For instance, from time to time Henry Wallace, repudiated by everyone except the home-grown Communists and other fractions of the lunatic fringe, is asked by officialdom to express his opinion about something.

It doesn't take a representative or a senator to realize, after a quick thought, that Wallace—and many other "seers" to whom they turn—aren't exactly qualified to speak for the people.

Vastly more practicable would be to call in a few John Joneses and ask them what they're thinking and why; what their neighbors are thinking and why.

WE think it would be fine psychology to have monuments of John Jones and family in front of the New House Office building, the Old House Office building, the Senate Office building, the Capitol, the Supreme court building, AND in front of the office entrance of the White House.

We think it would be fine thus to force officials, from the President on down, to remember that, in the final analysis, they are supposed to be serving the great mass of the people and not just other politicians, or those in pressure groups which make the most noise.

But even better would be for governmental agencies to ask the people—the real people—what they want once-in-awhile, what they don't want, and what they think about how the country is being run.

If the gentlemen in high places did this sort of thing on occasion, we might have a much better operated country.

At least, we wouldn't have any worse operation.

What the radio fellow had to say about the average citizen of the U. S. also can be said about Texas' average citizen—and his family.

His suggestion about a monument in Washington could cover, too, a monument in Austin. And all we've said about the need for federal officials to think occasionally about the plain people also may be said about state officials.

It has been a longtime belief with us that if the average citizen of this—or any other—state could peek behind the scenes at his state capital, a political revolution would result; that every officeholder would be defeated at the next election, including the few who shouldn't be.

This condition will continue until—if ever—proper attention is given the average citizen, his wants and his needs.

BY DREW PEARSON: SENATE WILL PROBABLY OKAY HOUSING FOR MIDDLE-INCOME GROUP

Bevin Is Called "Ernie" At Jovial Senate Lunch

WASHINGTON—Over steak and apple pie, British and American leaders kidded each other merrily the other day at an off-the-record luncheon given by the Senate foreign relations committee.

PEARSON

Senator Vandengerg set the mood by greeting British Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin with a breezy: "Hello, Ernie."

Later Chairman Tom Connally of Texas pretended to be solemn, but the twinkle in his eye gave him away, when he called upon Bevin for the usual "few remarks."

"Whenever the British come over here," Connally declared in his introduction, "we always feel a little elevated, a little lifted up—a little lighter."

This playful reference to Britain's success at lightening the U. S. treasury wasn't missed by Bevin.

"I have heard it said that a blood transfusion is good for both the donor and the donee," he retorted with a wry smile. "It relieves the donor of excess blood and relieves the donee by putting new blood in his veins.

"The only worry is whether the blood is of the same type. But there is no concern about the blood of our two countries being of the same type."

Thanks To George III

Then the British foreign secretary referred to King George III, whose tyranny started the Revolutionary war.

"There is a picture of George III hanging on the wall of the foreign office," twinkled Bevin. "Every morning I used to lift up my eyes and thank George III. For, if it hadn't been for him, the United States wouldn't have been populous or wealthy enough to help win the war."

But Bevin was dead serious as he added: "there are some who believe we are still living in the age of George III. It has been spread around that we are an old nation, but I want to tell you we are not old. We are young and vigorous."

DURING the lunch, Secretary of State Acheson recalled how he and Bevin had met in the elevator one evening on the way to a crucial meeting with Soviet Foreign Minister Vishinsky at the Paris conference. Leaving the elevator, the U. S. secretary of state and the British foreign minister walked arm in arm down the long corridor singing "The Red Flag."

This brought a warning from Senator Elbert Thomas, Utah Democrat, that Acheson had "better not let the FBI know about that."

"Oh I can protect him," offered Bevin. "Mr. Acheson didn't know the words. He just went along 'tra-la-la-la-la.'"

V.P.'s "Domestic Affairs"

Senator Connally came up with another subtle crack about the widow from St. Louis when he introduced Vice President Barkley.

"Barkley used to be a member of the foreign relations committee," explained Connally, "but recently he has taken more interest in domestic affairs."

The senator from Texas lost his good humor, however, by the time Senate Majority Leader Scott Lucas rose to speak. The speeches had begun to drag, and Lucas suggested: "Mr. Chairman, I think it is about time for us to go. I don't have anything to say."

"Well, if you feel that way, you can go!" snapped Connally.

Lucas reddened, but went ahead with a two-minute speech.

The only other difference was over the steak. Senator Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa announced that they were eating "good Iowa steak."

But Senator Ken Wherry of Nebraska piped up: "They're not as good as Nebraska steaks. Next time you come, we'll serve good Nebraska Steak."

NEXT big housing battle in Congress will occur when the Senate considers the Sparkman "middle income" housing bill, which recently emerged from the House badly mangled by the real estate lobby, with the aid of their friend G.O.P. Representative Jesse Wolcott of Michigan, plus a deft assist from American-Laborite Vito Marcantonio of New York.

What few people, except those directly affected, realize is that almost one-third of the nation's families have incomes insufficient to enable them to rent or buy decent homes under current sky-high housing costs.

And the public housing bill recently passed by Congress doesn't help this middle-income group, who earn from $2,000 to $3,750 a year. It provides rental housing and slum clearance only for families in lower-income brackets.

The Sparkman bill is aimed primarily at helping these $2,000-$3,750 families, chiefly war vets, by direct government low-interest loans under a cooperative arrangement similar to the government's financing of rural electric cooperatives.

However, by some skillful parliamentary maneuvering at a time when 340 members were absent—most of them attending the swearing-in of Tom Clark to the Supreme Court—the real estate lobby struck this important section from the house bill.

However, the Senate is still to be heard from, and forthright Senator John Sparkman of Alabama is confident he has the votes to reverse the House sellout to the real estate lobby.

Johnson Fires More

Forthright Secretary of Defense Johnson will soon eliminate 30,000 more civilian employees from the federal payroll, including several thousand working on public relations. Deep cuts in defense payrolls, incidentally, will lead to the dismissal of a lot of the military and civilian gumshoe workers making loyalty checks—due to the fact that not so many federal employees will now need to be checked.

When Joey Adams and Tony Canzoneri were rehearsing for their maiden picture, "Ringside," a quickie which will open at the Rialto next week, Adams made the former two-class champ reduce 25 pounds, down to his last fighting weight, 142 pounds. When they came onto the set, the director shrieked. Tony was cast to play a washed-out pug who had let himself grow fat. They had to feed him up like a turkey for the Thanksgiving market, and had a week to do it. Tony made Joey kick in for the cost of the extra grub. The press department confides that "Ringside" is a "sleeper," and Adams wants to know whether that applies to the audiences, if any. He says it was shot with a Brownie Number 2 and that he posed longer for his bar mitzvah photos. The Rialto was long the House of Horror. Joey is willing to follow that policy, in fact he has asked for a blow-up poster out front, showing him scaring Boris Karloff out of the theatre.

AN organization is being quietly formed, to be called the Patrick Henry League, which has been incorporated as a non-profit entity, dedicated to the proposition that "taxation without representation is tyranny." It will drive for national membership, cutting across both major parties. Its purpose is to seek legal steps whereby it can stop collection and expenditure of tax dollars without tax-payer representation, which, the Patrick Henryites claim, the citizens does not enjoy in the bureaucratic set-up and the general trend toward delegated powers for dishing out the public dough. It will go to law against States exacting taxes from residents of other States, unless those so assessed are allowed to vote in those States.

JAMES CAESAR PETRILLO, undisputed and uninhibited czar of the musicians' union, a maverick though affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, is determined to put the American Guild of Variety Artists AGVA) out of business. And he will unless AGVA, which controls the actors in vaudeville and nightclubs, returns to all musicians the fees it has made them pay and rescinds the rules forcing them to so pay. AGVA has ruled that any musician who says a word or makes a gesture which is beyond playing his instrument is an "actor." Dozens have been thus nicked for double dues. Petrillo's threat is that he will pull out all musicians appearing in any show with any AGVA member. That, he envisions, would cause wholesale withdrawals of AGVAs, so they can, as they must, work with music. There is no chance that the musicians may quit their outfit. Nobody talks back to Petrillo. Not even Congress, which passed a law especially designed to curb him, and the President, who signed it, get flip with Caesar, whose gall is divided into three parts—one-man dictatorship, blacklisting anyone who doubts that, and laughing at anyone who doesn't like that.

THIS column gave to a palpitating world the first intelligence that when Xavier Cugat will tour Spain he will be paid off in olive oil. The rumba leader was at once approached by Airline Fruit Corp., which offered to take every drop off his hands, at about $18,000 a week, in Yankee dollars, before he sails. . . The basement under the old Roseland Dance Hall, at 51st, just east of Broadway, in 40 years had been occupied by 35 cafes and cabarets, and all failed. Then the China Doll defied the jinx, an Irishman, Tom Ball, creating the only Oriental nightclub in New York. Almost every other club that started when he did is already kaput, including many that chose quarters because they were "lucky" . . . And that word reminds me: Franklin Hughes, the esoteric New York nightclub decorator, has a chain of nightclubs in Italy, backed by "Lucky" Luciano.

The Return Of The Prodigal

New York Battles Give South Opportunity To Chide North

ATLANTA, Sept. 20—There is a very popular song down here these days, which may afford some indication to the temper of the South. The song is called, with charming directness: "Save Your Confederate Money, Boys, The South Will Rise Again."

This song is believed with remarkable confidence, in much the same tone that we used to be told that prosperity was just around the corner, or that Americans would never fight on foreign soil again.

RUARK

But the South is beginning to feel pretty cocky about the North, almost patronizing, since the recent union riots and the great big bloody battles that occurred on two successive Sundays when Paul Robeson attempted to take his culture to the people, and a fat donnybrook resulted, with cracked skulls and upset cars all around, all around.

The South remembers all the terrific fuss that was stirred by some of the northern press when a few hoodlums flung a couple of eggs at the rumpled head of Henry Wallace, down in inlightened North Carolina, and is beginning to speculate a bit on just which sector of the nation is gaudiest in its public manifestations of disapproval.

North Not Immune

Mr. Wallace, recalls Hodding Carter, the liberal editor of the Delta-Democrat Times, of Greenville, Miss., reported in anguished tones that he "had seen the evil face of fascism" when a couple of embryo omelettes whizzed past his head. Mr. Carter also reflects in print that Robeson, the ideological-type singer, had remarked after the first Peekskill outbreak that he had believed New York was "immune" from rioting and race violence.

"Apparently," writes Mr. Carter, "New York isn't immune. Even the presence of more than a thousand special deputies and state policemen failed to prevent far more serious disturbances the following Sunday . . . but the angry veterans and other protesting Westchester county citizens managed to make the egging of Henry look remarkably weak."

MR. Carter chides the New York Times for running without amplification a story that forthcoming Republican and Democratic primary campaigns in Buffalo have been centered on racial issues and personalities, and "that feeling is running high and a heavy vote expected.'

"The metropolitan papers of the east might at least tell their readers as much about racial antagonism and high feelings in New York state politics as they do about Mississippi." Mr. Carter says, recalling that the South as a whole was denounced for the spectacle presented by the late Theo Bilbo when he made his own intolerance the issue of his race for relection to the Senate.

Mr. Carter mentions that there may be a certain grim satisfaction in the South, as it contemplates the idea of a burning cross in Yankee-land, but disavows any attempt to make disparaging comparisons in an effort to distract attention from southern misdoings. But a certain satisfaction is there, after all the abuse the chitlin' belt has taken in recent years.

As ever, I am real neutral in these things, as an unfrocked southerner gone to live among the Yankees must be, but a word of warning might be issued here.

If you folks up there in the ideology sector don't behave yourselves more graciously in public, especially when it involves freedom of speech, religion, race and politics, the kulture konklave of the Klan might just pay you a visit and impress a little etiquette on the northern barbarians. This branch is 'way apart from the barn-burning and lynching department, and functions only to advise the North that it is unwise to heave dornicks below the Mason-Dixon when there are so many glass houses on the frosty side of the line.

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

AST. LOUIS husband is seeking a divorce from his wife on grounds that she frequently complains about the servants, the children, finances, and other matters.

MILLETT

He claims he doesn't get at home the relief from complaints he is entitled to, after hearing complaints all day at work.

It was bound to happen. Women have been told often that they should meet their husbands with a smile, stifle the urge to unload the day's troubles on their big, broad shoulders, yet be willing to listen sympathetically while their husbands tell what went wrong at the office. So the men are sure to expect that kind of treatment as their due.

But they'd be wise not to make a divorce issue out of the unloading of troubles. Because they're too often guilty on that score themselves.

Papa may be the soul of diplomacy at the office. He may nobly stifle the urge to tell off the boss or an annoying co-worker or a know-it-all client.

But he reserves the right to let off steam when he gets home, and he expects his wife to soothe his ruffled disposition.

MEN OFTEN GUILTY

BEING a man, he may not be as understanding when his wife starts in to tell him her troubles. Few wives actually expect a man to be.

But even if he doesn't exert himself to cheer her up he ought to be resigned to some complaining. After all, the woman who runs a house and looks after children meets with as many frustrations and annoyances as a man in any business or profession.

So while he may not welcome her complaints, he certainly shouldn't regard them as grounds for divorce. Home is sometimes a battleground. It can't always be a haven.

The man who gets a wife who never complains and never burdens him with her troubles is lucky.

But it's just plain luck—not his natural due. And let's not start giving divorces on the assumption that it is.

'Try And Stop Me"

IN a "top-secret" espionage school, where the cream of the German secret-service operatives received final instructions, the faculty included a Herr Linz. His particular job consisted of teaching the little niceties of behavior that would enable his proteges to mingle freely in British society and send back vital information to Berlin.

One of his last-minute tips always was this: "Open an account at a well-known bank, and 'accidentally' drop the book before acquaintances. This will reassure them as to both your social status and your financial responsibility."

A great many of Herr Linz's pupils succeeded in reaching London, but every one of them was apprehended before selling a single vital message home. The dropping of a bank book was a little signal arranged between the British secret service and its highly regarded agent, instructor Linz.

Today's Journal Editorial

A PUBLIC SERVICE PERFORMED

It is quite true that Senator H. B. Hickenlooper, of Iowa, did not succeed in forcing the major shakeup he demanded when he became the chief accuser and critic of the Atomic Energy commission during recent congressional investigations of that agency.

But his efforts certainly were not the "painful failure" they have been branded in the latest official bulletin of the AEC.

Chiefly because of the Hickenlooper disclosures, the AEC is no longer handing tax-paid college scholarships to Communists. It has tightened the slipshod methods which allowed precious secrets to leak into questionable hands and has desisted in some degree from its wild extravagances.

His efforts, in short, already have paid dividends to taxpayers and in terms of strengthened national security—and he says he hasn't finished with the AEC yet.

If these achievements are "painful failures," then most Americans would like to see more of them.

Death Penalty Asked For Boy Charged With Killing Father

BUCKHANNON, W. Va., Sept. 20 (AP)—The death penalty has been asked for a 14-year-old boy accused of killing his father because he wouldn't buy him a bicycle.

Upshur county prosecutor J. D. Jennings asked the death sentence yesterday in opening remarks to a jury convened to try Jerry Riggs, 14, of nearby Tallmansville for the fatal shooting of his father on Aug. 9. Jerry pleaded innocent.

Jerry's younger brother and sister found the body of their father, Harry L. Riggs, 48, in a cornfield with a bullet wound in his back.

State Police Corporal R. C. Culp quoted Jerry as saying he shot his father because he spanked him and wouldn't give him money for a bicycle.

Culp said the boy told him he later bought a bike after he had taken $1,325 from a cache in his home and hidden all but $60 of it along a road.

$500 Damages Action Asked By Lena Horne

CHICAGO, Sept. 20 (AP)—Singer Lena Horne asks $500 damages from a Chicago restaurant for allegedly refusing her admittance because she is a negro.

Miss Horne, in her suit filed in superior court yesterday, said she and five friends, three of them negro, were refused entrance to Caruso's restaurant by an employe on Sept. 16.

The suit said one of Miss Horne's companions was Mrs. Lillian Harper, a negro, wife of Lucius Harper, executive editor of the Chicago Defender, negro newspaper.

Latest estimates place Australia's 1948-49 wool clip at 966,000,000 pounds compared with 913,869,500 pounds the previous year.

48 Candidates Seek Places On New State Board Of Education

AUSTIN, Sept. 20 (U.P.)—A drawing will be held today to determine the place of candidates for the 21 state board of education posts on the special Nov. 8 ballot.

The posts were created by the Gilmer-Aikin education reform law, and filing ended at midnight last night with 48 candidates making the deadline, according to assistant Secretary of State Louis Scott Wilkerson.

Opinion Is Given

Three members of the old elective board seeking election may be disqualified unless they resign.

Wilkerson expressed an opinion that it was illegal for those serving on the present appointive board to seek election while holding a state office.

The application of Miller Matkin of Center was being questioned because he forgot to include a loyalty affidavit. Two other candidates who had neglected to forward their affidavits presented the documents before the deadline.

Plans To Resign

Jack Binion of Houston, candidate for District 8, said he would resign from the present board. Mrs. Joseph M. Perkins of Eastland, District 17, said she would withdraw from the race and retain her present appointive job, leaving E. J. Woodward of Sweetwater unopposed in that district.

Vernon Singleton of Dallas, District 5, third member of the old board seeking election, had not indicated what step he would take.

Cecil A. Morgan of Fort Worth and Gordon Griffin of Brownwood were the last candidates to file. Griffin flew in in a special plane while Morgan arrived on a commercial airliner.

Rites For Lubbock Man Set Wednesday

Funeral services for Herman Sims Weiss, 48, who died at noon Monday at his residence, 3412 Twenty-first, from a heart attack will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday in Westminster Presbyterian church.

Rev. D. L. Zacharias, pastor, will officiate. Burial will be in Lubbock Memorial cemetery under direction of Sanders Funeral home.

Weiss had been ill since February and had returned Saturday from Dallas where specialists pronounced his condition as hopeless. The body will lie in state at the residence Tuesday and Wednesday morning.

Mr. Weiss was born in Nocona, April 20, 1901.

Mr. Weiss had been a resident of Lubbock the last 22 years. He was the owner of the Downtown Motor company and a deacon in the Westminster Presbyterian church. He also was a member of the American Business Men's club. Before going into business for himself, Mr. Weiss was a longtime employe of the Kuykendall Chevrolet company.

He is survived by his wife; three daughters, Mrs. Len Orr, Austin; Mrs. Charles B. Fraser, jr., Austin; and Miss Billye Weiss, Lubbock; three sisters, Mrs. L. C. Stouder, Nocona; Mrs. J. T. Thompson, Nocona; and Mrs. W. M. Apple, San Antonio; three brothers, Ray of Lubbock, Grover of Douglas, Wyo., and Roy of Nocona.

Rural Road Group Meets At Dimmitt

DIMMITT, Sept. 20 (Special) — Col. Joel I. McGregor, vice-president of the Texas Rural Road association, made the fifth stop in his county-to-county campaign to improve the farm roads of Texas here at a meeting held at 8 p. m. Monday in the county courthouse.

The meeting attracted 45 persons who elected County Judge Robert Estes president of the new local group. Willis Hawkins was selected as vice-president and Swain Burkett as treasurer. Joe Cowen was chosen secretary.

The first special meeting of the local road group was called for Sept. 29.

Judge Otho Dent of Littlefield, state president of the road association, was present at the meeting tonight.

"I am simply amazed at the response and enthusiasm that I have encountered on my tour to organize the people of the state in better farm road programs," Col. McGregor said at the completion of the meeting. "I will stop at Littlefield Tuesday night, Tahoka Wednesday night and Levelland Thursday night to wind up my tour," he announced. "However, we plan to start a new tour series by the middle of October."

Charging Texas' natural resources are fast being exhausted, the Rural Roads association is carrying its fight to the state legislature for a severance tax on all such products. Money so raised would be used only to build roads and other permanent improvements in the state.

Jury Weeps Over Sentence Of Death

LONDON, Sept. 20 (INS)—Pvt. Margaret Williams, 21-year-old British army girl, was sentenced to death today for the murder of her husband while the jury that convicted her wept.

Mrs. Williams, who killed her 30-year-old husband, Cyril, while both were on duty in Austria last July, trembled and almost collapsed when the black-capped judge pronounced sentence.

A woman on the jury that convicted the defendant openly cried as the death by hanging was pronounced. The jury had recommended mercy.

As a correlation, he pointed out that the average age of the nation's criminals has become steadily younger.

He reminded his listeners that "this republic was founded not upon man's achievements but upon man's faith in God."

"There is a question in the minds of many as to whether the republican way of life will survive the Marxist, atheistic influences confronting it," he said.

"There is also a question in the minds of many others as to whether the republic can survive a moral secularization."

Program Presented

The dinner meeting was held in the cafeteria of Lamesa's beautiful new high school building.

Connally Baldwin, president of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce, presided. Invocation was offered by Rev. Julian Atwood, pastor of the First Baptist church of Lamesa.

A chorus composed of 12 young Lamesa matrons, directed by Richard Crawley, sang three songs. They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. H. B. Miller.

Out of town guests at the meeting were introduced. They included David Nicholson, manager of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce; Houston Crump of Odessa; Delbert Downing, manager of the Midland Chamber of Commerce; Miss Edith Gates, secretary of the Big Spring C-C; Douglas Orme, president of the Big Spring C-C; Jim Carle of San Angelo; Dewain Davis of Midland; Virgil Crawford, president of the Brownfield C-C.

F. W. Groce and Earl B. Collins, of Lubbock; J. M. Crook, assistant manager of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce; Mrs. A. A. Reagan, jr., of Dallas; L. G. Dardy, of Seminole; H. C. Kyle, of the Seminole Chamber of Commerce; Joe Hussey, Odessa; L. A. Wilke, of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce; and Charnell Jobe, a director of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.
