'The Corn is Green' advances

Snyder High School's one-act play headed to region contest

Snyder High School's production of "The Corn is Green" took another step towards an appearance at state here Thursday by advancing from the Area 2 Class 4A One-Act Play Contest.

"We were really excited again, because you just never know," said SHS drama director Jerry Worsham. "Our show has gotten a lot better, we can tell that. We're just real thrilled to be going to regional."

Joining Snyder at the April 19 regional contest in San Angelo will be Pampa High School's "A Game," which was also selected Thursday to advance.

For the second straight outing, Snyder's Katie Thornton was chosen Best Actress. Thornton, one of the few "veteran" performers in "The Corn is Green" cast, reaped numerous awards last year and opened 1996 by taking Best Actress at the District 5-4A contest a week ago.

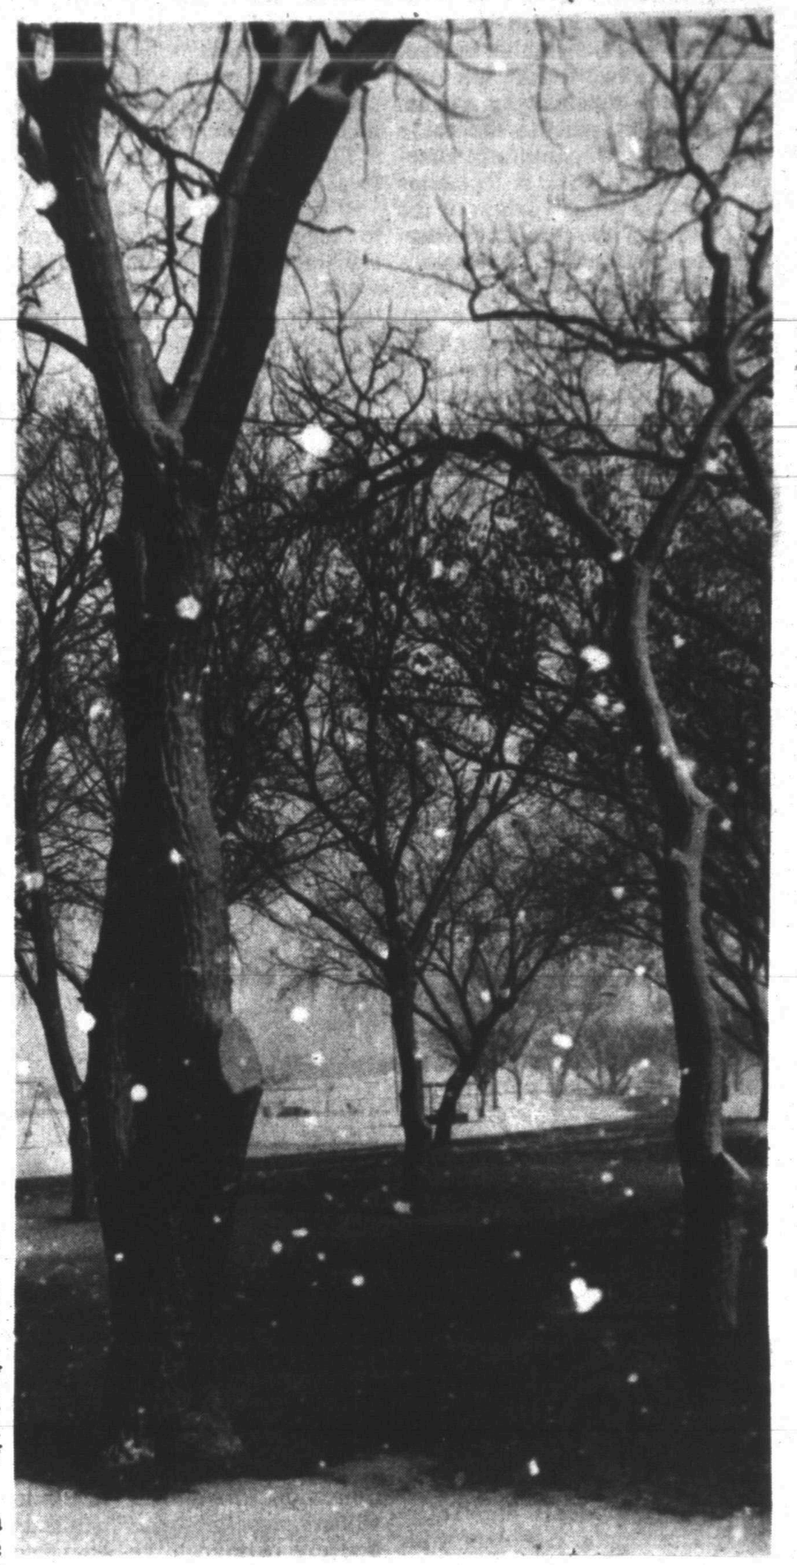

Hereford's Eddy Montoya was Best Actor Thursday. Named to the all-star cast were Jennifer Hancock, Emily Zeck and Jannica Northerns from Snyder; Ben Holman, Sammy McCullar and Jacob Bullard of Pampa; Jennifer Givins of Frenship; and Cody Auckerman of Hereford.

Honorable mention went to Matt Parker, Steve Taylor and Carl Strelecki of Snyder; Molina Tijerina, Justin Criner and Candi Stagner of Hereford; and Meredith Gill and Lori Hanna of Frenship.

Despite advancing to region, Worsham wasn't taking time to celebrate. Worsham Auditorium is the site of today's Area 2 Class 5A One-Act Play Contest, and the auditorium's namesake is contest manager.

SURPRISE SNOWFALL - Towle Park took on the looks of mid-December this morning as an unexpected snowfall dropped up to six inches in the area. The snow made travel especially treacherous as the sheriff's office received some 40 calls concerning accidents on the highways leading into town. (SDN Staff Photo)

THE SDN COLUMN

By Roy McQueen

The feller on Deep Creek says, "An old-timer is one who can remember when you built your garage on top of the house and called it an attic."

Keeping tabs on our neighbors: Colorado City Mayor Jim Baum writes the Chief Lone Wolf feature each week in the C-City Record. Baum, who also runs the C-City radio station, recorded some of Liz Connell's accomplishments following her death there on March 27.

He wrote:

"There will never be another Liz Connell. A human dynamo, she wasn't happy unless she was doing something. And in Colorado City she did plenty."

Mrs. Connell, the mother of Scurry County residents Betty Courtney and Connie Otto, moved to Colorado City in 1988 from her family ranch home north of Snyder near Polar. Mrs. Connell used the ranch to host numerous civic events over the years.

After moving to Colorado City, she was instrumental in helping found the Heart of West Texas Museum. The C-City chamber recognized Mrs. Connell's efforts in 1992 by naming her citizen of the year.

After Kiker-Seale Funeral Home donated its old building to house the museum, Mrs. Connell continued to push. The article continued:

"Wary city councilmen questioned how the museum could be operated on the budgeted amount in a larger building. 'We'll turn out the lights at night and turn off the air conditioner,' Liz promised with a grin. Then she added, 'We'll raise some money. Don't y'all worry about that. Don't worry about money...'

"When Liz died, one last mystery was answered about the energetic ranch woman: her age. She had told friends, even family various ages, if she would talk about it at all. She usually shaved 10 to 15 years off her real birth date. A son-in-law, Ray Courtney, confirms this. He says she even had given an insurance company three different ages on her policies.

"The real date, Sept. 30, 1906, was finally discovered after her death. That was accomplished when the family located her birth certificate. It was where no one would ever see it, tucked away in the bottom of her purse."

Wherever she was, Mrs. Connell made an impact.

Typewriter may link suspect to manifesto

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — A typewriter found in the mountain cabin of a former math professor appears to have been used to produce the manifesto and letters sent by the Unabomber in recent years, a senior federal official said today.

The disclosure came as FBI and Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agents, wary of possible booby traps, worked with meticulous care on the search of Theodore John Kaczynski's cabin.

They expect to spend several days on the search of the cabin and a small outbuilding as they try to build a case that he is the person who has waged a 17-year campaign of bombings that killed three and injured 23.

This typewriter and another found at the same remote site are still undergoing analysis in the FBI laboratory, but "it looks like the manifesto and the letters from the Unabomber were typed on this machine," according to the official in Washington, who declined to be identified by name. "We'll know for sure after the detailed lab analysis."

The Unabomber's 35,000-word manifesto and letters to newspapers "were all

Snow sweeps Scurry County

Scurry County is finally getting some of that moisture it was needing, but in an unexpected way.

Rainfall Thursday evening turned into snow in the early morning hours today, blanketing the county with up to six inches by noon.

Packed snow was causing major headaches for local DPS troopers, city police and sheriff's deputies, who were called out on numerous accidents this morning. Many consisted of vehicles sliding off roadways and getting stuck.

The first mishap was reported on U.S. 84 east of Snyder when a pickup overturned due to slick highways. Throughout the morning, officers answered some 40 calls, including truck-trailers jackknifing, cars sliding off the roadway and cars being stuck. There were no reported injuries.

Residents were advised to avoid travel if possible. Especially treacherous were highways leading into and out of Snyder.

Classes had been dismissed for the Easter holidays on Thursday, so the snow caused no problems for public schools in the county. City and county offices are also closed today for Good Friday.

School officials canceled a district baseball game in Sweetwater scheduled this afternoon. It was actually a makeup game, since rain forced its postponement Thursday.

The city water plant reported almost an inch of moisture at 7 o'clock this morning. More precipitation is forecast in the form of rain or rain/snow mix. There is a 50 percent chance of precipitation tonight, with a low temperature of about 35 expected.

Saturday's forecast calls for a 30 percent chance of rain in the morning and a high between 50 and 55 degrees.

Scurry County wasn't the only area getting moisture, though most of the state was spared the snow.

Only a handful vote early in party runoffs

Only 33 votes were cast in Scurry County during the four-day early voting period for the Republican and Democratic Party primary runoffs.

There are more than 10,000 registered voters in the county.

A light turnout was expected, since there are no local runoffs. The races include a U.S. Senator's spot and a criminal appeals judge's place in the Democratic Primary and three appeals judge's places in the Republican Primary.

According to the voting clerk, of the 33 votes cast, 18 were in the Democratic Primary and 15 were in the Republican Primary. The clerk said a few ballots are still out in the mail.

Election day for the runoffs is Tuesday. Polls will be open at only two locations. Those voting on the Democratic ticket will cast a ballot at Towle Park Barn. The Republican voting box will be at City Hall.

Runoffs are:

Democratic Ballot

—U.S. Senator: Victor M. Morales and John Bryant.

—Court of Criminal Appeals, Place 2: Gary Taylor and Charles Holcomb.

Republican Ballot

—Court of Criminal Appeals, Place 1: Sue Holland and James (Daniel) Boone.

—Court of Criminal Appeals, Place 2: Paul Womack and Pat Barber.

—Court of Criminal Appeals, Place 3: Cheryl A. Johnson and Tom Price.

$2,400 needed for Cupboard

Freewill offerings taken during Holy Week services in Snyder have substantially helped toward the Food Cupboard fund drive of $8,000.

The Food Cupboard, a joint ministry of participating churches, is only $2,400 short of the $8,000 needed to keep the Food Cupboard in operation through November.

The Food Cupboard assists some 200 families, representing more than 800 people, each month. The Ministerial Alliance set a goal of $8,000 to be raised during Holy Week.

Individuals and churches wanting to make contributions should send it to the Scurry County Ministerial Alliance, 3011 Ave. X, in Snyder. Jerry Vestal is the treasurer.

Subway will assist the Food Cupboard Wednesday with a food drive between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m. Persons bringing in canned goods will be given a six-inch sandwich.

Researchers: more cases of deadly disease likely to occur

LONDON (AP) — The researchers whose study sparked Britain's beef scare say the new strain of the human brain-wasting Creutzfeldt-Jakob Disease, possibly linked to a cattle disease, could claim more victims.

The scientists reiterated in an article in the British medical magazine The Lancet that the link between the two deadly ailments has not been conclusively proven.

Human exposure to the cattle disease, bovine spongiform encephalopathy or BSE, is "perhaps the most plausible" origin of the new strain of the human disease, the The National CJD Surveillance Unit said in the article.

If the cattle disease is in fact linked to the human ailment, then more cases are likely to appear in humans, said the article, carried in the April 6 edition of The Lancet, which released advance copies today.

Acting on the advice of the unit, the government announced March 20 that mad cow disease was the most likely cause of 10 cases of a new strain of CJD in humans. Eight of the 10 have died.

Following the announcement, sales of British beef plummeted and the European Union banned its export.

This week, the government agreed to destroy all cattle older than 30 months.

"I think overreaction by the press has fueled public concern to an enormous degree," Dr. Robert Will, who heads the CJD unit, said in a BBC radio interview today.

"There is no scientific evidence to suggest that the widespread slaughter of cattle in this country would actually help matters as they currently stand."

A Gallup poll published today by the Daily Telegraph found that 86 percent of the respondents were "suspicious" of government statements about the safety of beef, and only 9 percent believed the government had kept the public fully informed. The survey was conducted March 17 and April 1 and polled 1,119 voters.

The researchers said they analyzed 207 cases of CJD in Britain since May 1990. They included 185 cases of "sporadic" CJD, striking patients at an average age of 65. Most died within six months.

The 10 cases of the new strain, however, were detected in patients between 18 and 41 years old, and some survived nearly two years.

Analyzing potential risk factors in nine of the 10 cases, the unit found that one had worked for two years as a butcher, another had visited a slaughterhouse for two days. None had worked with livestock, though one patient had spent a week's vacation on a dairy farm that has had no reported cases of BSE.

All nine had eaten beef or beef products in the past 10 years, the study said.

Patients had shown early changes in behavior including depression, difficulty sleeping, fearfulness and paranoia and were referred by their doctors to psychiatrists.

Kerr chosen to receive Goldwater Scholarship

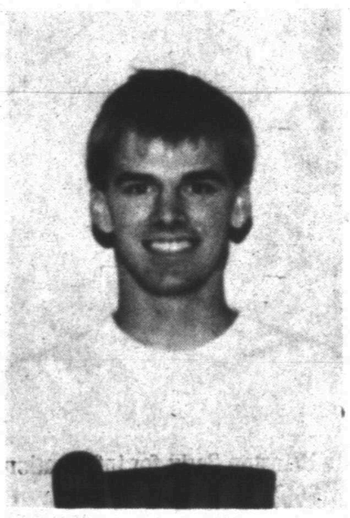

LUBBOCK — Three Texas Tech University students are among 264 students nationwide selected to receive prestigious Barry Goldwater Scholarships.

The group includes Tom Kerr, a sophomore cell and molecular biology major and the son of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Kerr of Snyder.

Rice University was the only other Texas school with as many recipients for the academic scholarships to be awarded in the 1996-97 academic year. The federally funded Goldwater scholarship endowment was established in 1987 by the U.S. Congress to foster and encourage excellence in science and mathematics.

The other two students from Texas Tech to receive the Goldwater scholarship are Richard Lombardini, a sophomore chemistry major, and Lara Wiggins, a sophomore cell and molecular biology major. Both are from Lubbock.

All three students are Texas Tech Presidential Scholars with 4.0 grade point averages. They are also fellows in the Howard Hughes Medical Institute Undergraduate Biological Sciences Education Program at Tech, in which undergraduate students actively participate in scientific research projects with faculty members.

The Goldwater Scholarship provides up to $7,000 to enable each recipient to complete his or her studies and research in math and science related fields.

Deaths prompt end of brain-drug study

DALLAS (AP) — Researchers ended a study of a drug meant to help protect patients' brain functions during open-heart surgery after eight of the 75 patients taking it died.

Only one person died among the 74 patients who received a placebo for the drug nimodipine in the study at Bowman Gray School of Medicine in Winston-Salem, N.C.

Nimodipine is one of a class of compounds known as "calcium antagonists" or "calcium channel blockers," which researchers hoped would protect patients by dilating arteries and allowing more blood to flow to the brain.

At least half of cardiac surgery patients suffer temporary and sometimes permanent problems with concentration, memory and learning associated with changes in brain function after open heart surgery.

The researchers said those problems likely are caused while patients are attached to a heart-lung machine, which oxygenates their blood and keeps it circulating during surgery.

"We wanted to see if nimodipine would prevent or reduce those problems by pre-treating them," said Dr. Todd Troost, chairman of neurology at Bowman Gray. He said nimodipine initially "appeared to have the characteristics we were looking for in that it would protect the brain from complications from surgery."

The drug, brand name Nimotop and made by Bayer AG, the German drug and chemical company, was approved for sale in the United States in 1988. It acts to widen the blood vessels, by inhibiting calcium from entering muscle cells, causing them to relax.

Calcium channel blockers are widely used to treat high blood pressure or chest pains called angina, but have in recent months been criticized by several scientists who feel they may bring on heart attacks.

Food and Drug Administration advisers said in January that the drugs appear safe, but that patients on some older versions should speak with their doctors about switching to newer ones.

Of the 13 patients in the study who experienced major bleeding, six died — including five in the nimodipine group. Three of those five deaths were attributed to blood loss and two were attributed to multiple organ failure due to significant blood loss. Three died of multiple organ failure but did not experience major bleeding.

The study involved 149 volunteer patients — 73 women and 76 men — with an average age of 60.

The report of the study ending appeared Thursday in the American Heart Association journal, Stroke.

Dr. John Hammon, a Bowman Gray surgeon, said that while there is insufficient evidence to warrant discontinuing the use of nimodipine in connection with surgery, "emerging evidence" exists that users of calcium antagonists have an increased risk of bleeding.

"We want surgeons to watch for bleeding problems if they give nimodipine or possibly other calcium antagonists to surgery patients," he said.

Hammon and his colleagues found "major surgical bleeding" in 10 patients in the nimodipine versus three in the placebo group.

The researchers said theirs was the first observation of major bleeding in association with the use of nimodipine undergoing cardiac surgery.

The study was stopped after 28 months in 1994. The research team published a brief report on its termination in the March 1995 issue of the British Medical Journal.

AP correction

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In a story Thursday about humor columnist Erma Bombeck receiving a kidney transplant, The Associated Press erroneously reported that her kidneys had been damaged by medication she was taking to treat cancer.

One of her physicians, transplant nephrologist Dr. Flavio Vincenti, said medication was not a factor in her condition, which he attributed to an hereditary disorder called adult polycystic kidney disease.

Bombeck, 69, received a kidney transplant Wednesday at the University of California at San Francisco Medical Center.

Spy agency has released long-classified files

WASHINGTON (AP) — The homing pigeon was exhausted. It could fly no farther. Its spy mission over, it became one of many footnotes to the history of the massive effort to break enemy codes during this century's two world wars.

The pigeon's story was found among the millions of pages of National Security Agency files made public Thursday at the National Archives. Much of the material documented the meticulous, often tedious, work of code breakers in the era before super computers took over the task of unraveling enemy codes.

File after file contained tattered code books, columns of numbers and letters used by diplomats on all sides in the two world wars.

Also included in the material was a long classified study of one of the most significant code breaking achievements of all time, the Zimmermann telegram, which played a crucial role in bringing the United States into World War I on the side of Britain and France.

The Zimmermann telegram was sent on Jan. 16, 1917, by Alfred Zimmermann, the German foreign minister, to a German official in Mexico City. It was intercepted and decoded by British Naval Intelligence.

At the time, the United States was remaining neutral in the war raging in Europe.

Written in 1938, William Friedman, the war department's chief cryptanalyst, called its interception and decoding "the most important of all time, either in war or peace."

Zimmermann informed the German minister in Mexico that the government was about to undertake unrestricted submarine warfare against shipping bound for England and France. He also directed the minister to sound out Mexican authorities on the prospects for Mexico's allying itself with Germany against the United States.

Mexico's benefit from such an alliance, suggested Zimmermann, would be regaining control over Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

Publication of the telegram caused a furor in the United States. President Wilson broke diplomatic relations with Germany and within months the United States entered the war on the side of England and France.

Friedman said code breakers were aided by the fact that Germany was forced by its isolated position to resort to wireless communication, preventing changes of the code books.

Code breakers apparently had little success with the homing pigeon, which was found in Ozone Park, L.I., on Jan. 29, 1942. The bird had a message attached to its leg.

The message read: "Je aime vous me petit dovel fri 30 - 119 degrees north - 35 degrees west - 3 oil (or ocl) P -23 - QX - 5369 (last digit may be 4)." The NSA document also noted that "the message contained a German swastika."

The message — roughly, in poor French, "I love you, my little dove" — was not translated. Attached to the report was a handwritten note saying "think it has something to do with the location of a ship."

More typical of the bulk of the material made available was the handwritten note dated April 3, 1943, from the military attache in the U.S. embassy in Madrid, reporting that the Germans in that neutral capital were "operating a clandestine radio station in Madrid during the past two months."

"We have managed to obtain some of the code work sheets."

The ability of Allied intelligence to penetrate the inner councils of the Nazi regime was illustrated by a report on "The Schornsteinfeger Project."

"In June 1943 a conference was apparently called in Berlin ... at the instigation of Adm. (Karl) Doenitz for the purpose of presenting the problem of protecting U Boats against allied radar," said the report.

It noted that the project was named Schornsteinfeger or Chimney Sweep.

The intelligence report said the meeting discussed various possible techniques for developing what would have amounted to radar-eluding stealth submarines.

$10 million lawsuit is filed in beating of illegal aliens

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two Mexicans beaten by two sheriff's deputies after a high-speed chase have filed a claim for more than $10 million against Riverside County, saying the officers broke anti-torture laws.

Peter Schey, of the Center for Human Rights and Constitutional Law, said Thursday that he filed the claim seeking $10 million for Enrique Funes Flores and $10,000 for Santiago Garcia Pedroza.

The claim, the first step to a lawsuit, said the deputies "recklessly, intentionally and wantonly" beat Funes with batons and threw Garcia to the ground. Garcia had not previously been identified as a victim in Monday's attack.

Deputies Tracy Watson and Kurtis Franklin were suspended with pay pending investigations.

Funes and Garcia were among at least 19 illegal immigrants who fled sheriff's deputies in a pickup truck during an 80-mile chase that ended when the pickup pulled over on the highway. The group was suspected of sneaking over the border.

As the Mexicans scrambled from the truck, TV news helicopters videotaped a deputy striking Funes six times. The tape, broadcast repeatedly in the United States and Mexico, also shows deputies beating Alicia Sotero Vazquez. Both remained hospitalized in Los Angeles, their lawyers said.

It was not immediately clear whether Sotero would file a claim against the county.

Also Thursday, about 400 people led by Cardinal Roger Mahony protested the beatings outside the Los Angeles federal building.

Head-Spinning Numbers Cause Mind to Go Slack

by Abigail Van Buren

© 1996 Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: You printed a letter from Judie Songer of Rogersville, Mo., about junk mail. Her letter prompts me to write.

Ms. Songer stated that "Americans receive almost 2 million tons of junk mail daily!" This information apparently was obtained through Ms. Songer's research for a class speech. Abby, 2 million tons equal 4 billion pounds. If we assume the population of the United States to be 250 million, that equates to 16 pounds of junk mail for each man, woman and child in the country. I doubt that even you receive that much mail.

Ms. Songer's point is well-taken. The volume of junk mail is annoying and represents unreasonable waste. This letter is not a criticism of Ms. Songer, but when one refers to information sources, too frequently our discernment is in the "off" position.

Does this really matter? Yes, I think so. As Americans, we are called upon daily to make decisions that affect every aspect of our lives. For example: Please note that this is a presidential election year. I submit that we will hear numerous preposterous claims from individuals running for office. If we accept all these candidates' claims as stated, without some level of discernment, we will deserve what we get.

Now that I have that off my chest, I must admit that I, too, use some of the methods Ms. Songer suggested to discourage junk mail.

ROGER WHITE,
VANCOUVER, WASH.

DEAR ROGER: The person whose "discernment" was switched off was me, for failing to question the figures. I heard from many readers who pointed out the numbers were incorrect. When I contacted Ms. Songer, she replied as follows:

DEAR ABBY: After you printed my letter about how to get rid of junk mail, I was amazed at the positive letters and phone calls I received; and from that feedback, I learned that this subject is important to others as well. However, one caller questioned the accuracy of my numbers, so to satisfy my curiosity, I rechecked my sources. I did misquote them. Two million tons of junk mail are sent per year, not per day. My apologies to your readers.

JUDIE SONGER,
ROGERSVILLE, MO.

DEAR JUDIE: I appreciate the correction.

DEAR ABBY: I'm so scared. There are many students at my school with weapons, alcohol and even drugs. Yesterday, three kids were suspended because of their use of drugs. Earlier this year, someone brought a pocketknife on my bus.

I'm only in seventh grade, and I still have my whole high school to go through. One of my best friends even told me she wanted to get high just to see what it is like. (She also threatened one of my other friends she doesn't like — not because of me, though.)

I feel so defenseless. What can I do to protect myself? Please publish this in your column so others in my situation will know what to do. Thank you so much.

SCARED IN PENNSYLVANIA

DEAR SCARED: According to James T. Butts Jr., chief of the Santa Monica, Calif., Police Department, the best thing you can do to protect yourself is to report any unlawful or dangerous conduct you observe to a responsible adult as quickly as possible, and to be brave — because things will change only when everybody stands up for what is right.

What we must do as a society to reduce crime is make sure that help is available to those who need it — and assure that there are appropriate consequences for anyone who willfully endangers others.

CONFIDENTIAL TO YOU: Easter is nearly here, so if you plan to surprise a child with a live rabbit, a baby duck or a chick, please consider this: Living creatures need proper care, so unless you are certain that the rabbit, duck or chicken will receive the care it needs to survive, give a stuffed bird or animal instead. Living creatures are not "toys" to be mauled, abused or neglected.

Find out first

By Phillip Alder

What is the critical period in matrimony? One person's opinion is given at the end.

In today's deal, the declarer reached the critical moment and went wrong. But as is often the case, if he had taken the correct preliminary steps, he wouldn't have had to guess.

After opening with a strong two-bid and receiving a positive response from his wife and partner, South wasn't going to stay out of a slam.

It was difficult for West to find the killing spade lead. Instead, he started with the diamond jack. After covering with dummy's queen and ruffing away East's ace, declarer ruffed a low heart in the dummy and cashed the diamond king for a spade discard. But how should South continue? Should he draw trumps, hoping for a 4-3 heart split? Or should he organize a second heart ruff in the dummy, which requires finding clubs 3-2?

Knowing that a 5-2 heart break is 31 percent whereas a 4-1 club split is only 28 percent, South entered hand with a trump and ruffed another heart in the dummy. However, when East showed up with four clubs, South had lost trump control and finished three down.

South pointed out that he had followed the percentages, but his wife wasn't impressed.

"Why not cash the ace and king of hearts first, before taking a ruff? That way you learn how the suit is breaking. When it is 4-3, you can draw trumps and claim."

A. P. Herbert, the former British author and politician, claimed that breakfast time is the critical period in matrimony. Make of that what you will.

Worship With Us Easter Sunday
April 7, 1996

Looking for a small, friendly church with a place to hang your hat and a place for you to do the Lord's work? We are located at 1909 16th Street. Our Sunday School begins at 9:45 a.m. with our morning worship at 10:55 a.m. Sunday evening our Bible Training Class begins at 6:00 p.m., with our evening worship at 7:00 p.m.

The Northside Baptist Church (associated with the American Baptist Association) was organized on September 19, 1940 with nine charter members. Elder W.E. Lee of Lamesa led in the organization with Elder C.E. Leslie and L.H. Beane assisting. The name of the church in the beginning was Tabernacle Baptist Church, but was changed when property donated by Frank Sentell and J.E. Jones was secured and a building erected for worship.

In July 1948, a concrete block auditorium (currently used as our Fellowship Hall) was completed. In January, 1951, the Austin stone parsonage was completed at 1601 Ave. T. In March, 1954, the first floor of an education building was completed with the second floor completed in October, 1956. The present auditorium was completed in September, 1959, and was remodeled in August, 1984 with installation of carpeting and re-arrangement of the pulpit and seating.

Radio broadcast of the evening service has been continual since beginning in the summer of 1953.

A children's chapel, meeting during the morning service, was begun in April, 1975, and continues for children ages 3 to 7.

Northside Baptist Church is the end of your search for a friendly church.

Rodeo team in great shape after 1 round

BIG SPRING — After the short go of the Howard College Rodeo, the Western Texas College rodeo team is sitting in great shape.

"We had a great start," said rodeo coach Todd Danley. "We played in the rain Thursday and who knows what's going to happen tonight."

WTC has four people sitting in first place with another 15 in the top six of their event.

Shawn Minor, sophomore from Gordon, Neb., is sitting in first in bare back with a 72. Cody Fry, freshman from Dimmitt, and Rod Lewis, sophomore from Abilene, are in fourth and fifth place. Fry had a score of 65 and Lewis 61.

Pete Ellis, sophomore from Fort Worth, had a score of 76 in the saddle bronc to lead the event. Minor is in second with a 71 and Lance Gaillard, freshman from Texhoma, Okla., is in third with a 65.

WTC has the top two spots in the team roping. Tanner Boyd and Rusty Henard are in first with a 7.3. Cole Criswell and Todd Loesch are less than a second behind in second with an 8.1

Three cowgirls from WTC have the top three spots in barrel racing. Jamie Stewart, San Angelo freshman, has the top time with an 16.87. Tona Wright, freshman from Moriarty N.M., is second with 17.06 and Hereford cowgirl Chasity Rickman is third with 17.43.

In calf roping, WTC has four of the top six spots. Canadian Guy Smith is in second with a time of 11.2. Brent Harvey, Todd Loesch and Henard have the next three positions with times of 12.6, 13.1 and 13.5 respectively.

KayCee Pluggee and Stacey Hatch are in second and fourth in goat tying. Pluggee has a 10.9 and Hatch 11.6.

Emily Schaffer is in third in break away roping with a 3.4 and Heath Hudson is fifth in steer wrestling with a 10.8.

The rodeo is scheduled to continue tonight with the finals Saturday evening.

Tigers-Mustangs rescheduled for fourth time

Rain in Sweetwater forced the cancellation of the Snyder-Sweetwater district baseball ball game Thursday.

The game was rescheduled for 5 o'clock this afternoon, but snow has forced what has turned out to be a fourth rescheduling for 2 p.m. Saturday. If the game cannot be played Saturday, the next scheduled time will be 7:30 p.m. Monday.

The game was originally set for 7:30 tonight, but was moved earlier in the week to Thursday in order to not conflict with the Easter holidays.

Kevin Gross pitches Rangers to win over Boston Red Sox

ARLINGTON (AP) — A year ago, Kevin Gross was threatening to retire. Now, he's part of a Texas Ranger pitching staff that at least has the respect of the Boston Red Sox.

Gross pitched seven strong innings and the Texas Rangers took advantage of four errors to beat the Red Sox 13-2 Thursday night for a season-opening three-game sweep. It was the first time since 1992 that Texas had won its first three games.

Gross had a brilliant spring, winning four games. It gave him the confidence he needed to start the season.

"This is an extension of my spring training," Gross said. "It's carried over for me. I didn't get a spring training last year and it may have hurt me."

Gross got off to a 1-6 start with a horrid 9.89 ERA last year, improving as the season went on, finishing at 9-15 with a 5.54 ERA.

"It was a tough year but the club had confidence in me and maybe now I'm starting to repay them," Gross said. "I know I have good stuff now. It's a good feeling to know I can pitch again."

Like Ken Hill and Roger Pavlik in the first two games, Gross was more than Boston could handle.

"Our starting pitchers had a strong spring, and they're still throwing the ball well," manager Johnny Oates said. "We know Boston is capable of scoring a lot of runs, and we held them down. It's a great way to start the season."

Mark McLemore went 3-for-3 with a sacrifice fly and a stolen base, and Juan Gonzalez hit a three-run homer. Texas finished with 16 hits and drew 10 walks from Tim Wakefield (0-1) and four relievers.

"We're getting good hitting and strong defense," Oates said. "Right now we have everything going."

Gross limited Boston to one run and four hits. He struck out four and walked four.

"I pitched a good game, we mashed the ball around and we caught the ball," Gross said. "I've always said if you just do two out of three, you can win a lot of games. We did all three. The run support was great."

He was wary of Boston but said: "I think we can match the pop in their lineup. In fact, we may be better than they are."

Wakefield lasted 4 2-3 innings and gave up seven runs on nine hits and five walks.

"You saw the three games. They weren't very pretty. Nobody is happy about it," an irritated Boston manager Kevin Kennedy said.

"We're not going to push the panic button. We walked too many hitters. The only positive thing is that these three games are over."

The game was delayed 48 minutes by rain.

Snyder JV pounded by MCHS, 23-2

One softball game was played in Snyder last night before the rain started. Midland Christian trounced the Lady Tigers' JV, 23-2.

The Lady Tigers could only manage four hits in the game. Amy Ricks had a double while Starla Davis, Magen Lee and Jill Willingham each had base hits.

Erica Garvin went the distance on the mound giving up 23 runs on 18 hits, one strike out and 12 walks. The Lady Tigers committed 12 errors.

No 'mad cow' disease here...

Commissioner Perry says Texas beef safe

AUSTIN (AP) — Putting the brisket where his mouth is, Agriculture Commissioner Rick Perry says Texans shouldn't worry about eating beef.

"There is no reason to be frightened" by reports of mad cow disease in Great Britain, Perry told a news conference held Thursday at a barbecue restaurant.

Then savoring a slice of steaming meat, he added, "We have a safe food supply. ... As a matter of fact, we will have beef tonight at my home."

Perry branded some broadcasts about the British cattle problem as distorted and said he wanted to reassure Texans about the safety of the state's cattle and beef industry.

"There is an old saying that a rumor can be halfway around the world before truth has got its boots on. That is what has occurred with this supposed 'mad cow' disease," Perry said.

"The facts are, we have a safe beef supply in America, we have a safe beef supply in Texas," he said. "Totally and absolutely safe."

Mad cow disease, actually called bovine spongiform encephalopthy, has not occurred in the United States. And no sign has been detected that its human equivalent, Creutzfeldt-Jakob disease, is on the rise, according to federal officials.

The British government last month said some unusually young CJ cases there — 10 patients under age 42 — might be linked to beef infected with BSE. CJ disease afflicts one in a million Americans a year, the same rate that it strikes worldwide.

Perry said he wants consumers to know that federal veterinarians have monitored the situation for more than 10 years and autopsies on more than 2,600 animals have found "absolutely no linkage at all between any cattle in the United States and BSE."

Joining Perry were two experts, Russell Cross, director of the Institute of Food Science and Engineering at Texas A&M and Wes Bonner, a veterinarian and former president of the Texas Cattle Feeders Association.

"I am confident that the disease (BSE) does not occur in this country," Bonner said.

State and federal agricultural officials said 499 live cattle were imported from Britain to the United States before such shipments were prohibited.

Of those, 113 head are known to be alive in 22 states, and 19 of those are on Texas ranches. None have any signs of BSE, Perry said, but he expects they will be slaughtered.

Perry said he has met with some European officials and expects that some Texas beef eventually may be shipped to Britain. "As Britain restocks, I think Texas beef cattle will be a preferable place to come to restock," he said.

Neighborhood evacuated following shed explosion

MOSIER, Ore. (AP) — Authorities searched today for a self-described survivalist after a rural shack he owned was demolished in a series of explosions heard for miles.

Ray Hamblin, 51, was seen driving in the area Wednesday after the explosions began, "but he never did show up" at his property, said Wasco Rural Fire District Assistant Chief Robert Palmer.

On Thursday, investigators found more explosives, hundreds of pounds of them, on Hamblin's wooded land on a broad plateau above the Columbia Gorge.

The types of explosives were not revealed.

The possibility of further explosions prevented a thorough search pending the arrival of bomb disposal experts, said Jim Provencher, spokesman for the U.S. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

"With what we have already seen in here, if it blew up, we would all be killed," said Jerry Taylor, an ATF agent.

About 30 to 40 homes were evacuated within a mile of the site, about 60 miles east of Portland, although some residents chose not to leave their rural outposts.

Wasco County Sheriff Art Labrousse said without elaborating that evidence of wrongdoing was found on the property, but no arrest warrant was issued Thursday. Authorities want to question Hamblin, among other things to get details on what was stored on the property, the sheriff said.

At Hamblin's apartment in Hood River, about five miles east of the demolished shed, his adult son said Hamblin wasn't home and declined to comment further. His wife also had no comment.

The three explosions destroyed a 30-by-30-foot steel pole building and a 40-foot moving van on Hamblin's property. The blasts also rocked neighbors' homes and sent bullets, gun pamphlets and bomb-making literature shooting into the air, with paper fragments scattered four miles away.

A neighbor, Hobart Darter, said he had run into Hamblin just a few times since he bought the 16-acre plot last year and built the shed. Hamblin described himself as a survivalist and told Darter his name was Nichols.

"He wanted his privacy and I respected that," Darter said.

Records show Hamblin had a state permit to possess explosives, said Becky Daugherty, a licensing assistant with the state fire marshal's office. The permit application indicated he would store the explosives with a Hood River company.

Wasco County has been the scene of some anti-government activity. Seattle's Coalition for Human Dignity, a group that monitors such activity, says Wasco County is home to one of two "common-law" courts in Oregon. The idea of common-law courts to replace the government court system has been embraced by militias and anti-government groups such as the Montana Freemen.

First day blues

NEW YORK (AP) — Katie Couric admits it hasn't always been smooth sailing as an anchor of NBC's top-rated "Today" show.

Her first day on the job was miserable.

"I was five months pregnant. I had a terrible cold. I even got a bloody nose that morning, because I'd been blowing my nose so hard," said Couric, who marks her fifth anniversary as a co-anchor today.

Couric filled in when then-anchor Deborah Norville took maternity leave, then got the gig permanently when Norville didn't return.

Concert planned

BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Jose Carreras and Placido Domingo are teaming up with Diana Ross to help Hungary celebrate its millennium.

Their other partner will be Hungary's rising opera star Andrea Rost.

The July 30 concert at the city's 70,000-seat soccer stadium will coincide with the nation's 1,000th anniversary celebrations.

Fed judge rejects proposed pact in price-fixing lawsuit

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal judge opened the way to a bigger payday for pharmacies by scrapping a $408.9 million settlement in a price-fixing lawsuit against drug makers and sending the case to trial.

The class-action lawsuit brought by 40,000 pharmacies claimed the industry practice of giving big discounts to health maintenance organizations, mail-order drug houses and hospitals hurt independent pharmacy owners.

Some pharmacies said the settlement was insufficient because damages totaled well into the billions. Each pharmacy in the settlement would have received between $5,000 and $10,000 after legal costs.

U.S. District Judge Charles Kocoras said Thursday that his ruling had nothing to do with money. He said he was bothered that the settlement did nothing to halt the pricing practice.

"The absence of any statement as to how the defendants' behavior must be re-evaluated renders the proposed settlement unacceptable," Kocoras wrote, reversing his decision in February to grant the deal preliminary approval.

The ruling means the case will go to trial, possibly in May, said David Melnick, a lawyer for pharmacies that protested the settlement. It could mean a bigger award for the pharmacies if they win the suit.

"This is a big victory for not only independent pharmacies but ... ultimately the consumer," said Melnick, who represents the National Association of Retail Druggists.

Lung disorder can follow pneumonia

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please comment on bronchiolitis obliterans. My wife died of the condition last spring, and the information I received was quite vague.

DEAR READER: This term refers to swelling and scarring of the tiniest bronchial tubes, which supply air to the lungs. Formerly considered to be an infectious disease of childhood, bronchiolitis obliterans has recently been diagnosed more frequently in adults.

This dangerous lung disorder can follow viral pneumonia and the inhalation of toxic gasses, such as nitrogen dioxide. In fact, a common form of bronchiolitis obliterans, called "silo-filler's disease," affects people in that occupation, when they inadvertently inhale — even for just a few minutes — the nitrogen gas that collects in high concentrations above fresh silage.

Bronchiolitis obliterans is also a complication of rheumatoid arthritis, bone marrow transplantation (for leukemia), and an allergy to the drug penicillamine. Some cases of bronchiolitis obliterans occur without any recognizable cause.

In acute cases, such patients experience marked difficulty breathing, due to fluid accumulation in the lungs. After initial improvement, these patients relapse; they develop fever, cough and breathlessness. Unless treated aggressively — usually with cortisone drugs — the bronchial swelling and scarring may lead to suffocation.

The diagnosis is made according to the pattern by which the disease progresses, usually over a period of months. Biopsy may be necessary. Unfortunately, the effects of therapy are inconsistent. Those patients who don't die are often left with disabling pulmonary symptoms, requiring supplemental oxygen.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Living With Chronic Lung Disease." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is leukoplakia a form of cancer? What are the symptoms and/or side effects?

DEAR READER: Leukoplakia, an opaque, pearly, flat, non-tender irregular discoloration within the mouth, is considered to be pre-malignant; that is, it is a lesion that may become malignant over a period or years, although it is itself not cancer. Leukoplakia is more common in smokers and should be biopsied for diagnosis.

If general measures, such as stopping smoking, don't eliminate or reduce the size of the leukoplakia; excisional surgery should be considered.

Ordinarily, this pre-malignant disorder, which commonly affects the lining of the cheeks, the gums or lips, causes no symptoms.

Study points to altered genes as one cause of lung cancer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A damaged gene found in many lung cancer tumors appears to play a critical role in developing the disease that kills 160,000 Americans a year, cancer researchers said Thursday.

The discovery may lead to new approaches for cancer prevention, said Dr. Carlo M. Croce, director of the Kimmel Cancer Center at Thomas Jefferson University.

The gene, named FHIT, is involved in a number of airway and digestive tract tumors, and is thought to work normally as the vital shield that blocks the growth of many deadly tumors, researchers said.

"This study indicates that the FHIT gene is the target for genetic alterations caused by smoking," said Croce, a senior author of a new study of FHIT.

Dr. Robert Comis, director of clinical programs for the center, said further study of the gene could lead to indicators of those people most susceptible to lung cancer.

"There are 44 million people in the United States alone who are former cigarette smokers," he said. "So what one would hope is that the FHIT gene will help us understand who in that huge public health population of 44 million might be at risk."

The Jefferson researchers published their findings in Friday's issue of the journal Cell. Croce announced the discovery of FHIT (fragile histidine triad) on Feb. 23 as a starting point for many common human malignancies, but the new study is more specific.

The gene may be more fragile in some people than others, said Dr. John Laszlo, national vice president for research of the American Cancer Society.

"We've been puzzled for so long about how some people can smoke two packs of cigarettes a day and get cancer, and others smoke just as much and don't," said Laszlo, who did not take part in the study.

"The findings of the Jefferson group seem to suggest there may be an interaction between genetic susceptibility and exposure to tobacco," he said.

But preventing lung cancer will still begin with giving up cigarettes, Croce and Comis said.

Poll says Clinton tops Dole

WASHINGTON (AP) — As Ross Perot continues to flirt with a third-party run for the White House, a new poll shows an independent campaign against President Clinton and GOP candidate Bob Dole would be stronger without the Texas billionaire.

According to the national survey released Thursday by the nonpartisan Pew Research Center, general voter opinion of Perot has soured. When respondents were asked to choose a single word to describe Perot, "rich" was most frequently uttered, followed by "crazy," "idiot" and "egotistical."

The poll also found Perot appeals to a substantially different constituency — less affluent, less educated and less Republican — than the one that handed him 19 percent of the vote in 1992. And, only half of those 1992 backers would support him again.

In a three-way contest with Clinton and Dole held today, Perot would take 16 percent of the vote, the survey found. An unnamed, hypothetical third-party candidate, on the other hand, would claim 20 percent.

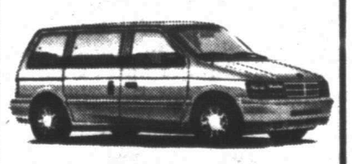

But in both scenarios, Clinton polled at least 10-points ahead of Dole. In numbers unchanged from Pew's January survey, Clinton would win 53 percent to Dole's 41 percent in a head-to-head matchup.

SIMON CALLED PETER!

PETROS, OR PETER, IS THE GREEK TRANSLATION OF THE ARAMAIC "CEPHAS" (A STONE, OR ROCK). THIS IS THE NAME WHICH JESUS OF NAZARETH BESTOWED UPON SIMON ON HIS FIRST MEETING (JOHN 1:42). THE PROPHETIC MEANING OF THIS NAME WAS AFTERWARDS RECOGNIZED BY THE OTHER APOSTLES (MATT. 16:18,19). SIMON, OR PETER, WAS THE SON OF A MAN NAMED JONA (MATT. 16:17), A HUMBLE FISHERMAN, WHO FOLLOWED HIS TRADE ON THE SEA OF GALILEE. PETER, WITH ANDREW, HIS BROTHER, FOLLOWED IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF THEIR FATHER AND THEY ALL HAD A PARTNERSHIP IN A FISHING BOAT WITH THE SONS OF ZEBEDEE, JAMES AND JOHN, AND ZEBEDEE, HIMSELF. AT THE TIME OF HIS FIRST MEETING WITH JESUS, PETER WAS A NATIVE OF BETHSAIDA, LATER, HE LIVED WITH HIS FAMILY IN CAPERNAUM. IT IS INTERESTING TO NOTE THAT JESUS PICKED MEN OF A HUMBLE STATION IN LIFE TO BE HIS FOLLOWERS AND DISCIPLES. IN FACT, IT IS RECORDED IN THE ACTS (ACTS 4:13) THAT PETER AND JOHN WERE "...UNLEARNED AND IGNORANT MEN..."! YET THEY COULD SWAY CROWDS WITH THEIR RHETORIC, LOGIC, AND COMPLETE UNDERSTANDING OF SUBJECTS THAT ONLY EDUCATED MEN WERE SUPPOSED TO HAVE! OF COURSE, THE FACT THAT THEY GAINED THEIR LEARNING AT THE FEET OF JESUS, SERVED TO GUIDE THEM AS THEY CONFRONTED HOSTILE PRIESTS, OR WITLESS LISTENERS, TO THEIR TRUTHS! FROM THE FIRST, PETER'S ARDOR, HIS COURAGE AND VIGOR MARKED HIM AS THE ULTIMATE LEADER OF THE DISCIPLES! AND CERTAINLY, DURING THE EARLY YEARS OF LEADERSHIP IN THE CHURCH, PETER WELL JUSTIFIED HIS NAME, "THE ROCK", WHICH JESUS HAD GIVEN HIM!

Cruise ends: luxury liner strikes reef

SHARM EL-SHEIK, Egypt (AP) — A luxury liner that struck a reef in the northern Red Sea was towed today to the Egyptian coast, abruptly ending a round-the-world cruise for 560 passengers.

The passengers from the Royal Viking Sun — including 351 Americans — were to be taken off at this resort port city and flown to Europe, said William Spears, spokesman for the ship's owner, Cunard Lines Ltd. of London.

It was not clear when the passengers would return home.

The ship, which also carried a crew of 450, began taking on water after hitting the coral reef in the Strait of Tiran late Thursday.

Obituaries

Toribio Ribera

1912-1996

Funeral service is set for 2 p.m. Saturday in Our Lady of Guadalupe Catholic Church for Toribio Ribera, 83. Father Patrick Maher will officiate, and burial will follow in the Snyder Cemetery.

Rosary for Mr. Ribera will be held at 6 p.m. today in the Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home Chapel. Deacon Frank Oregon will officiate.

Mr. Ribera, a former long-time resident of Snyder, died Wednesday, April 3, in Austin's St. David's Hospital following a brief illness.

Born in San Antonio, he married Carolina Rocha on Aug. 11, 1940 in Karnes. She died in 1989.

Mr. Ribera was a retired farm worker and had lived at Del Valle, near Austin, for about one month. He was a member of Our Lady of Guadalupe Church in Snyder.

Survivors include six daughters, Lucy Ramone of Rotan, Petra Padilla and Maria Rivera of Austin, Cecilia Gunderson, Rosa Rivera and Dominga Torres, all of Snyder; eight sons, Jacinto Rivera of Del Valle, Inacio Rivera and Mike Rivera of Roscoe, Gabriel Rivera and Raul Rivera, both of Snyder, Louis Rivera, Robert Rivera and Tony Rivera, all of Austin; many grandchildren, great-grandchildren and great-great-grandchildren.

Alma Lopour

1903-1996

Graveside service is set for 11 a.m. Saturday in Hillside Memorial Gardens for Alma Letha Lopour, 92, who died Friday, April 5, in Snyder Oaks Care Center.

Officiating will be Dr. Marty Akins, pastor of Snyder's First Baptist Church. Arrangements are under the direction of Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home.

Born June 26, 1903 in Chickasha, Okla., she married Willie Edward Lopour on Nov. 11, 1928 in Snyder. He died in 1974. She was also preceded in death by a brother, Arthur Turner.

Mrs. Lopour was a homemaker and a member of the First Baptist Church.

Survivors include a daughter and son-in-law, Willadean and Dewayne Wilson of Sweetwater; a sister, Blanche Galyean of Snyder; and several nieces and nephews.

Tony Matos

1958-1996

MIDLAND — Department of Public Safety Region IV recruiter Tony Matos, 38, died Tuesday, April 2, in a Midland hospital.

Funeral service for Trooper Matos was set for 1 p.m. today in the Midland Christian Fellowship. Burial was to follow at Sunset Memorial Garden in Odessa, with full DPS honor guard.

Corporal Matos' recruiting area included Scurry County and he participated in numerous career days and job fairs in the area.

Born in Cuba, he was reared in Hollywood, Fla. Mr. Matos served in the U.S. Air Force for four years. He then joined the DPS in Del Rio and moved to Midland in 1983.

Trooper Matos was a member of the Texas State Troopers Association and a member of the Midland Christian Fellowship.

He married Susan Guerrero on Aug. 17, 1985 in North Miami Beach. She survives.

Also surviving are a son, Joseph Matos of Abilene; his parents Jose and Haydee Matos of Hollywood, Fla.; five brothers, Archie Matos of Hollywood, Fla., George Matos of Orlando, Fla., Jesus Matos of Tuscaloosa, Ala., Henry Matos of Bethem, Ga.; and James Matos of Niceville, Fla.; and a sister, Thaide Revero of West Palm Beach, Fla.

Janice McMackin

1936-1996

Funeral service for Janice McMackin, 59, is scheduled for 10 a.m. Saturday in Snyder's First United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Ernie McGaughey, pastor, and the Rev. Marvin Applin, pastor of Gentle Dove Ministries, will officiate. Interment will follow in Hillside Memorial Gardens, under the direction of Bell-Cypert-Seale Funeral Home.

Mrs. McMackin, a housewife and resident of Snyder for the past 11 years, died Tuesday, April 2, in Midland Memorial Hospital following a brief illness.

Body discovered

POTTER VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — A body found in a partly drained reservoir may be that of a 14-year-old girl who disappeared after she and a friend accepted a ride with a suspected drug dealer, authorities said.

Friends, relatives and other volunteers have been looking for a month for Raina Bo Shirley, who disappeared March 13. The Northern California reservoir where the body was found had been partially drained last month to make it easier for divers to search.

Sheriff's officials said Thursday a Pacific Gas & Electric Co. employee found the body near a fish screen in the Van Arsdale Reservoir. Authorities did not say when they expect to definitively identify the body.

Raina and her friend, 13, accepted a ride with another 13-year-old friend and his 28-year-old uncle, a suspected drug dealer, the Mendocino County Sheriff's Department said.

The other girl was later found dazed and stumbling down a street. She told authorities she had been drugged, raped and then released, but didn't know what happened to Raina.

The nephew was arrested but authorities have not been able to find his uncle, Arnoldo Jorge Manzo, who was believed to be hiding in Mexico. District Attorney Susan Massini has said Manzo could be charged with murder if Raina is found dead.

Raina's clothes and backpack had been found upstream from the reservoir, on the north bank of the Eel River near Potter Valley, about 110 miles north of San Francisco.

Hours after the body was found, about two dozen volunteers who assisted with the search held an emotional closed-door meeting.

Two jailed; thefts reported

One person was arrested Thursday while another was taken into custody at 1:07 this morning.

Officers arrested a 36-year-old male at 7:44 p.m. Thursday in the 2400 block of College for driving while license suspended and for misdemeanor possession of drug paraphernalia.

Officers arrested a 22-year-old female early today for misdemeanor driving while intoxicated. She was taken into custody in the 1200 block of Avenue R.

In other activity Thursday, an officer was requested at 8:42 a.m. at the Western Texas College pro shop in reference to the theft of an undetermined amount of currency.

Jerry Grimes requested to speak to an officer at 9:30 a.m. in reference to someone stealing a floor jack from 811 16th St.

An offense report for family violence was submitted at 7:07 p.m.

An officer was requested at Skinny's on 37th Street at 8:07 p.m. in reference to a teen-age male going into the store and flashing the clerk.

Lawana Anderson requested an officer at 8:25 p.m. from 3306 Ave. J in reference to someone breaking a window in a door of her residence. An offense report for Class C criminal mischief was submitted.

A two-vehicle accident at 8:30 p.m. in the 3400 block of College sent two people to Cogdell Hospital by private vehicle. Treated and released at the hospital were Shanna Block, 18, of 105 Milburn and Trisha Block, 14, of the same address.

Local police, DPS units and other law enforcement agencies were working numerous accidents this morning — most of them weather related. No specific accident reports were available.

snow has made it a real mess out there. They've filled up the motels in town so I'm sure the motels are glad, too," said Worsham.

Rehearsals were going on this morning, with the contest to begin at 2 p.m. with "The Golden Years," performed by Lubbock High School. Following on the hour will be Grapevine High School in "The Mariners," Odessa Permian in "Dancing at Lughnasa," Plainview in "The Rope Dancers," Wichita Falls Rider in "The Kentucky Cycle - The Homecoming," and San Angelo Central in "King Stag."

Critic judge is B.J. Floto of the Chamizal National Theatre in El Paso.

In addition to Snyder and Pampa, other schools performing Thursday were Frenship with "To Burn a Witch" and Hereford with "The Importance of Being Earnest."

typed on the same machine," the official said. "We believe he did that intentionally as a way for us to know the communications were authentic."

The Unabomber's treatise on the inhumanity of industrial society was published last year by The New York Times and The Washington Post in the Post. The Unabomber promised to stop trying to kill if the treatise was published. There have been no bombings since.

So far, the search of the cabin also has yielded a partially assembled pipe bomb, bomb-making materials and literature.

Kaczynski, 53, was charged Thursday with possessing the bomb components and was held without bail. The charge made no mention of attacks by the Unabomber, who has killed three people and injured 23 in 18 years.

The charge was designed to hold Kaczynski while agents build a case, officials said. He was being held today at the Lewis and Clark County Jail.

Kaczynski was taken into custody Wednesday so federal agents could search his cabin in the wilderness 50 miles northwest of Helena and four miles from the tiny town of Lincoln. They had been staking out the cabin for several weeks, since Kaczynski's mother and brother pointed authorities to him after finding old writings they believed were similar to the Unabomber's manifesto.

A federal agent speaking on condition of anonymity said the search of Kaczynski's hand-built 10-by-12-foot cabin was going slowly because, "We're not sure if it's booby-trapped."

"We have an explosives ordnance team X-raying everything before we touch it," the agent said.

Evidence already found in the cabin include a partially assembled pipe bomb, chemicals and meticulous notes on making explosives, according to an affidavit by FBI agent Donald J. Sachtleben.

Ten three-ring binders were filled with "page after page of meticulous writings and sketches which I recognize to be diagrams of explosive devices," Sachtleben said. The diagrams show cross-sections of pipe bombs and electrical circuitry.
