Jenna Vee Miller...

Clerk named today won't seek office

Jenna Vee Miller, a deputy in the county clerk's office the past 16 years and a county resident for 26 years, was appointed Scurry County Clerk Monday, a position she will hold only until the next regularly scheduled election.

"I have no political ambitions. I agreed to accept the post until someone else could be elected and I don't intend to run (for the office)," she said Monday.

With a 3-0 vote, commissioners made her appointment during their regular morning session.

Pct. 3 Commissioner C.D. Gray Jr. abstained from voting, noting that both she and her husband will be employed by the county.

Although her husband, Hospital Administrator Cy Miller, is employed by the county, her appointment does not violate state nepotism laws because he is not directly involved in her hiring.

In abstaining, Gray had asked also that the motion to appoint her include a salary reduction. The appointment will entail an increase to the salary paid to former County Clerk Beverly Ainsworth, who resigned May 19. Although her salary will increase about $9,000 annually, Pct. 4 Commissioner Ted Billingsley noted her position will not be replaced and that she will assume the clerk's duties in addition to her own.

The new appointment comes after opinions issued by the state attorney general's office regarding nepotism laws closed the possibility of naming Chief Deputy Frances Billingsley to the post.

Commissioners appointed Billingsley as "acting" county clerk at their May 26 meeting. This decision was prompted by the indication that her appointment

Voters to have say on 1611 proposal

By VICKI BROWN
SDN Staff Writer

With County Judge Bobby Goodwin's tie-breaking vote, county commissioners Monday agreed to place the fate of the FM 1611 project on the Aug. 8 ballot as a non-binding referendum item.

Goodwin broke a 2-2 tie on a motion made by Pct. 3 Commissioner C.D. Gray Jr. to include the item on the ballot. Gray and Pct. 2 Commissioner Tommy Pate voted for inclusion of FM 1611 on the ballot while Pct. 1 Commissioner Duaine Davis and Pct. 4 Commissioner Ted Billingsley voted against it.

At an informal meeting May 18 with locals Don Gressett, Wilson Howell, Vernon Rannefeld and Snyder Fire Chief Terry Don McDowell, commissioners indicated they would consider putting the issue on the ballot if Gressett could obtain at least 475 signatures on a petition calling for it.

During Monday's session, Gressett presented a petition bearing 680 names — 205 names over the 475 presented some months ago on a similar petition opposing the road's construction.

When he made the motion, Gray noted, "We have 680 names here, five organized groups for it and no organized groups against it. I think the least we can do is let the people decide."

Although Pate expressed opposition to the project's construction, he also added residents should be allowed to vote. "I'm not really for the road myself, but (with) this many people involved, I'm going to put it in the hands of the taxpayers by seconding the motion," he said.

Goodwin pointed out that because the issue is non-binding, the court will be under no obligation to act. "If an overwhelming

WHAT IS THAT CAR? — This question has likely been asked by several Snyder residents lately. The model, a Citroen 2 CV, has been imported here from France by French native Jack Pointeau. The effort took more than a year, he noted. The black and grey car features a two-cylinder, air-cooled engine and front wheel drive. He said it has been manufactured in France since 1936 with only minor modifications. Pictured are members of the Pointeau family, (from left) Francoise, Isabell, Virgine, Francois and Jack. At economic summit...

Sanctions are being eased

VENICE, Italy (AP) — President Reagan, in a gesture of harmony at the opening of the annual seven-nation economic summit, today announced he will partially lift U.S. sanctions on Japanese electronics goods.

Reagan said he would remove 17 percent, or $51 million, of the $300 million in penalty tariffs he imposed April 17 on Japanese computers, television sets and power tools.

The president said in a statement that the reduction of the duties is in response to some improvements made by Japan in complying with a 1986 semiconductor pricing agreemenmt.

"As we open this economic summit, one of our primary concerns must be the removal of barriers that seek to maintain trade imbalances and lead to protectionsim," Reagan said in a statement announcing the move.

Earlier, Reagan said the United States was not bluffing about warnings to Iran on the Persian Gulf as allied leaders gathered amid heavy security today for the economic summit.

Answering reporters' questions about tough U.S. statements about the possible deployment of antiship missiles by Iran, said, "I haven't bluffed once since I've been here. It's just a statement of fact."

Reagan refused to say what he would do if the Iranians deploy anti-ship missiles in the Persian Gulf that could threaten oil tankers. Administration officials earlier had urged Iran not to "run the risk of retaliation" by deploying the weapons, known as Silkworm missiles.

When a reporter suggested that warnings voiced by his key aides here had amounted to a threat against Tehran, the president said, "No. It's just a statement of fact."

Spokesman Marlin Fitzwater made the trade annoucement after Reagan met with Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone.

In Brief

Prices to peak

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The average pump price of gasoline may soon reach $1 a gallon, but the retail price should peak this month rather than at the end of the summer driving season, as it normally does, an analyst says.

Wholesale price increases have moderated, after jumping an average of a penny a gallon in the two weeks since Americans started hitting the road for their summer vacations, said Trilby Lundberg, president of the Lundberg Survey.

The average price for all grades of gasoline, including taxes, was 98.7 cents a gallon for the two weeks ending Friday, Ms. Lundberg said.

That was up 1.15 cent a gallon from the price May 22, the eve of the Memorial Day weekend, when Americans traditionally hit the road for summer trips, but down 25 cents a gallon from the price June 1985.

Loses round

WASHINGTON (AP) — New Mexico lost a key round in its clash with Texas over the Pecos River water today as the Supreme Court said Texas may be entitled to compensation for past violations of an agreement between the two states.

The justices, by an 8-0 vote, sent the 13-year-old legal dispute back to a "special master" for further hearings to determine whether New Mexico must pay Texas extra water or money in compensation.

The court rejected objections both New Mexico and Texas had lodged to preliminary findings that New Mexico has short-changed Texas, depriving the Lone Star State of its fair share of Pecos water.

The justices also empowered the special master they appointed to serve as a fact-finder in the case, Charles J. Meyers, to appoint a "river master" to make sure the states from now on live up to a 1949 compact on apportionment of water from the Pecos.

School enrollment drops 1.1 percent by year's end

Snyder's school enrollment experienced an overall drop during the 1986-87 school year of 41 students when compared to figures for the same time period the previous year.

For the city's six elementary campuses--considered a better reflection of families moving out of the city--the loss was somewhat greater at 54 students.

From a percentage standpoint, however, the decrease systemwide was small, equaling 1.1 percent of the total student population.

The comparisons reflect end of school totals. This year, the total systemwide was 3,538 students compared to 3,579 last year.

By campus, the largest decline occurred at West Elementary, which was down some 9 percent when compared to end of school figures in 1986.

In actual numbers, West lost 45 students, ending the year at 417 compared to 462 the previous year.

Two other elementary campuses finished the year with fewer students, Central with 393 compared to 417 last year; and East with 335 compared to 351 last year.

The losses at three elementaries were offset by gains in enrollment at three others. Stanfield increased by 19 students, 357 this year compared to 338 last year.

Also showing slight increases were North, reporting 272 compared to 263 last year; and Northeast, with 385 compared to 382.

The junior high school enrollment was down 13 students, while the high school enrollment finished with 26 more students.

At the junior high, the current year total was 531 compared to 544; and at the high school, the current and former figures respectively were 848 and 822.

Sales, ad tips due at Tuesday session

A seminar related to selling techniques and advertising ideas is slated here Tuesday.

The session is designed to assist local businesses and has been scheduled by the business development committee of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce.

It will be the first of two business-related seminars due in June. A second meeting dealing with how to maintain good business records is planned June 23.

Tuesday's session will be from 7 until 10 p.m. at the Western Texas College planetarium building located on the north end of the campus.

It is being offered in conjunction with the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) based at Abilene Christian University.

The speakers on Tuesday's agenda include:

—Bob Prock, regional manager for the Texas A&M extension center, who will discuss professional selling and customer service.

Museum contract, bank bids slated at college

The renewal of a management agreement with the Diamond M Museum and consideration of bank depository bids will prompt board decisions Monday as Western Texas College trustees gather for their June meeting.

In addition, the board will get its first look at the proposed 1987-88 budget for the college. Regarding the budget session, the proposed operating estimate was described by Dr. Harry Krenek, college president, as "very preliminary."

He noted this was in part because state funding for WTC and other community colleges has yet to be set by the state legislature. The current estimate assumes "level" state funding, he said.

The budget is to be presented Monday to show cost comparisons with last year, he added.

The board will convene at 5:45 p.m. in the administration building on campus. The first item of business involves an executive session to discuss personnel and land transactions.

The contract renewal involving the Diamond M is expected to be a routine item, according to Krenek.

The Diamond M Foundation provides all funds to operate and staff the facility and the college contracts for its business management.

The bank depository bid is renewed every two years at WTC. The current depository is Snyder National Bank.

Personnel items will also come before the board Monday.

This incudes formally accepting the resignation of WTC men's basketball coach Phil Spradling. A resignation has been submitted also by Patrice McKinney, half-time instructor in the health, physical education department.

In other personnel-related action, a promotion in rank is to be recommended for one staffer, James Eby, currently an instructor and director of the golf course-landscape technology program.

The promotion would name him an assistant professor and is granted when staffers have fulfilled both a time in service requirement and all professional criteria. No salary increase is involved in the promotion.

Other agenda items before the board include:

—Approval of the small class report for the summer term now underway.

—Purchasing the copyright for instructional video tapes in history, English, foreign language and science areas.

Man freed by system's flaws

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — A loophole in parole laws led to the release of a parolee who has been accused of the stabbing death of a woman who was assaulted on a city bus, the Fort Worth Star-Telegram reported.

Emanuel Kemp Jr., 21, is held in lieu of $1 million bond, charged with capital murder in the death of Johnnie Gray and stabbing the driver.

The Board of Pardons and Parole and the Texas Department of Corrections never learned Kemp pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor assault charge because it came after his parole revocation hearing, the Star-Telegram reported Sunday.

Therefore, when Kemp reentered the TDC Texas laws for parole violators — instead of laws for parole violators with a new conviction — were applied, the newspaper said.

"The problem comes in when, if at the time of revocation, the prisoner is sent back to the TDC without a conviction. That's where the loophole is," said Debra Howard, parole board counsel.

Bus driver David Jeanfreau, who survived the stabbing, told police a man commandeered the bus May 27 and forced him to drive to a city park. The man sexually assaulted Mrs. Gray, a hospital clerk riding the bus home.

Kemp had been out of prison five days.

Court records show Kemp was charged with three felony aggravated robberies in late 1982 and early 1983, but he pleaded guilty to two in a plea bargain agreement and was sentenced to seven years in prison. During his term, he was twice turned down for parole by the Board of Pardons and Parole.

Bishops invite Clements to SMU panel

DALLAS (AP) — A committee investigating the Southern Methodist University football recruiting scandal has invited Gov. Bill Clements to attend its final interview session.

United Methodist bishops aren't saying if Clements has accepted the invitation to the session that run from today through Wednesday.

"He's given us the assurances of cooperation," said Spurgeon Dunnam III, chairman of the committee. "I'm sure it is the hope of the committee that he will be present during some part of the meeting."

Clements earlier said he would meet with the committee after the Texas Legislature's special session adjourned. The Legislature is scheduled to reconvene in special session on June 22.

The committee will begin drafting a final report about the scandal this week and present SMU's Board of Trustees with it on June 19, Dunham said. Bishops are trying to determine who knew of and approved the payments.

Clements revealed in March that, as chairman of SMU's Board of Governors in 1985, he and other SMU governors approved continued booster payments to football players with the understanding that the payments be phased out.

Members will meet again June 15 in Arkansas during an annual bishops' retreat to make final revisions before presenting the report to SMU trustees.

Clements was chairman of the Board of Governors until January. He has declined to identify the other SMU governors involved in the decision to continue payments to certain athletes despite repeated requests from trustees.

The payments, a violation of National Collegiate Athletic Association rules, occurred while SMU was on NCAA probation for improper recruiting practices.

The NCAA in February suspended SMU's football team for the 1987 season and limited it to seven road games for 1988.

Dear Abby

Little Girl's Plight Brings Tears to Eyes of Reader

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1987 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: After reading that letter signed "Helpless in Pittsburgh," I was in tears. I can't imagine a mother being so cruel as to take the thick eyeglasses away from her 4-year-old daughter, and tell her she doesn't want anyone to see her in them because she looked so ugly. And this happened in the cry room of a church yet! God bless you for asking "Helpless" to write again and tell you the name of the church and the priest so you could intervene in that child's behalf.

Did you ever hear from her, Abby? Please let us know. I can't get that child out of my mind.

ALYCE FORSTER, FAYETTEVILLE, N.C.

DEAR ALYCE: Yes. I heard from "Helpless" who gave me her name, address and telephone number, as well as the name of the church and the priest. I phoned the priest and he promised to make every effort to locate the mother and handle the matter personally.

DEAR ABBY: You mentioned snakes in your column, so I thought I'd send this in: When I had a home and family of four, I put a hand-lettered sign in the front-door window and another in the back-door window. Both read: PLEASE DO NOT FEED THE SNAKE!

Ours was the only house on that street that wasn't burglarized.

JOHN HALL JR., HOUSTON

P.S. We never owned a snake.

DEAR ABBY: If you thought "Appalled in Sacramento" was overreacting to her son's teacher's error in grammar, you are fortunate in your lack of experience with same. As a parent, I have conversed frequently with teachers. Your hair would curl at some of what I hear.

I once heard a first-grade teacher tell a child, "You done real good." A third-grade teacher said to me, "He really seen me comin'." Trust me, Abby. These are not isolated occurrences.

A friend who taught in New York for more than 20 years once showed me a paper another teacher had "corrected." Next to a word the teacher had marked wrong was printed: "I advice you to look this up in the dictionery." (Ironically, the child had spelled the word correctly.)

When I attended school, assignments in any subject were expected to be punctuated and spelled correctly or points were deducted. When my son was a third-grader, his teacher showed me a story he had written. I was appalled at the errors in spelling and punctuation, and said so. The teacher prosed on about the wonderful creativity and imagination the boy displayed, until I asked if my son could not have been just as creative if he had been made to write and spell correctly. Abby, if you had seen the teacher's face, you would have thought I had suggested death by slow torture!

Learning to spell and punctuate correctly did not seem to have stifled Stevenson, Whitman, Poe, Millay, Dickinson, Tennyson, Austen and a host of others who have given so much pleasure with the written word.

CAROLYN GOLD, CLEARWATER, FLA.

Airlines: no refunds on discount tickets

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the airlines' latest marketing tools, the non-refundable deep discount fare, can be a source of cheap travel this summer, but for some people the airline bargain could turn into a costly mistake.

With only rare exceptions, the airlines are refusing to let travelers off the hook if their travel plans change, pointing out that the deep discount tickets clearly state they are not refundable.

But consumer experts, travel agents and airline officials say sometimes customers, eager to take advantage of savings of as much as 70 percent, do not heed the warning.

"When they see the $99 fare, that's the last thing they recognize," says Hoyt Decker, a consumer affairs specialist for the Transportation Department. "For everything else their eyes glaze over."

And, he says, the 100 percent no-refund provision is something new to air travelers since airlines have had a long history of taking back tickets if someone's travel plans change.

"People are properly warned, but some people take it perhaps not seriously enough," says Frances Gorain, owner of Vega International Travel Services in Chicago and president of the American Society of Travel Agents.

Airline officials argue that the tradeoff for getting a ticket costing only a third of a regular fare is that travelers must make certain they will be able to fly on the day scheduled.

"For a legitimate medical reason and if a person can produce a letter from a doctor, then we will consider making a refund," says Alton Becker, a spokesman for American Airlines. But that's about the only acceptable excuse besides proof of a death in the family, said spokesmen for a half-dozen airlines.

The tickets also are not transferrable. If anyone else shows up "we can refuse to board you on the flight," United Airlines spokesman Joe Hopkins said. But identification is rarely sought when boarding an aircraft, industry officials acknowledge.

It may not be surprising, then, that the classified sections of major newspapers have been sprinkled with ads offering deep discount tickets for sale.

"AIR 2 R-T UAL, Dulles-San Francisco, nonstop. Lv 5-14, ret. 5-20, $150 ea. Mike," said an ad in a recent edition of The Washington Post.

The ad ran for three days without a firm offer and finally Mike tried to give the tickets away, but got no takers, he said in an interview, willing to discuss his travail only if he were not identified further.

"I would have loved to have gone out to the airport and made sure that plane left with those seats empty," Mike continued. He said he was left holding the tickets after he determined he couldn't go when planned because of work.

Major advances are unveiled

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The Associated Press has unveiled major technological advances in the transmission of photos and graphics.

The photo system, known as PhotoStream and displayed at the American Newspaper Publishers Association, is designed to deliver a picture a minute to new electronic darkrooms tailored to newspaper needs. It was hailed as the most significant breakthrough in the photo transmission process in half a century.

The graphics system, known as GraphicsNet, will deliver camera-ready art directly into the Apple Macintosh computers of participating newspapers.

Son held in mom's suffocation death

HOUSTON (AP) — A man charged with murder in the suffocation death of his 95-year-old mother apparently was worried both he and the woman would become financial burdens on their family, police say.

George Edward Maurer, 60, remained in the Harris County Jail Sunday in lieu of $10,000 bond in connection with the death of Josephine E. Maurer, who was suffocated Thursday afternoon as she slept in her son's apartment, police said.

Earlier that day, Maurer took his wheelchair-bound mother out of a nursing home, officials said.

Sgt. D.J. Gafford said Maurer telephoned two brothers — one in Houston and one in New York — Thursday afternoon and told them about the woman's death. One brother called police after Maurer allegedly said he was going to kill himself, Gafford said.

Officers who went to the residence persuaded Maurer to surrender later that night.

Sgt. Ted Bloyd said Maurer thought his mother's medical benefits were going to be canceled and that both he and his mother would then have to depend on family members for support.

"Two of his brothers were giving him a couple of hundred dollars a month," Bloyd said. "And he apparently felt that wasn't right."

Investigators said Maurer apparently misunderstood when a brother told him that the nursing home needed some information about the mother's Medicaid benefits.

Pilot Douglas "Wrong Way" Corrigan arrived in Ireland in 1938 after leaving New York with the announced intention of flying to California.

When the ruffing gets tough

By James Jacoby

South had such a strong hand he couldn't get out of his own way. Did North's bidding indicate any specific support of hearts? Not really. When your partner has opened with a strong forcing bid (artificial or not) and you show preference for his known long suit, you might be showing as little as two small cards in his suit. In today's deal, change North's heart jack into any small club and the bidding would probably still proceed as shown. So South was rewarded with a decent dummy when he jumped to six hearts. Unfortunately, after overbidding the hand, he underplayed it.

He won the spade lead, played A-K of diamonds and ruffed a diamond with the heart jack. He came to his hand with a heart, hoping against hope that he could ruff another diamond without being overruffed. East of course did overruff, and the defenders later took a club trick.

There is a little-known play that would bring declarer home. It was fine to ruff the first time with the heart jack. But rather than futilely try to ruff another diamond loser, declarer should come to his hand with the club ace. Then, when he plays another diamond, let him simply discard dummy's other club as West wins the trick. Now the fifth diamond in South's hand will be good, and declarer will be able to ruff his losing club in dummy. By discarding dummy's club on what is in any event a losing diamond, declarer transfers the ruffing trick he needs to a suit that cannot be overruffed by a defender.

Daughter of Anderson makes plea to kidnappers

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — American hostage Terry A. Anderson's 2-year-old daughter appeared on Lebanese television to ask his kidnappers to honor her birthday wish and release the father she has never seen.

In a one-minute video tape, the curly-haired Sulome said: "I love you, Daddy. Come to us, Daddy." Blowing out two candles on her birthday cake, she said: "Our hearts are broken. Where is Daddy?"

She also waved a picture of her father, the longest-held foreign hostage in Lebanon, and kissed it. A Lebanese announcer watching the tape appeared afterward on the screen wiping away tears.

The tape was filmed in Cyprus where Sulome lives with her mother, Madeleine.

Anderson, 39, a native of Lorain, Ohio, and chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, was kidnapped.

Dr. Gott

Peter Gott, M.D.

See specialist for vein problem

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am female, only 30, yet have protruding veins on the tops of my hands. It is as if my skin has become transparent. There is an occasional pulling or stretching sensation on the inside bend of my arms, and now the appearance of my hands has changed. There are "sink holes" right before the knuckles. My doctor has no explanation.

DEAR READER — The prominence of our veins depends on factors other than the veins themselves. For example, supporting tissue — such as fat and muscle — fills in the areas under the skin around the veins. When that tissue shrinks, as it may with age or weight loss, the veins appear more prominent.

From your description, I'm concerned that you may be losing subcutaneous tissue. This could result from a serious illness or a nutritional deficiency. Ask your doctor to refer you to a specialist in internal medicine. Such a diagnostician may be able to identify the cause of your problem and suggest treatment.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am 13 and have horrible gas. Every day after school lunch, my stomach churns and makes noises. I have tried a change in my diet and take at least 20 minutes to eat, but the problem remains. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER — School lunches, being high in fat and carbohydrates, can predispose certain youngsters to gas and intestinal rumbling — and carbonated beverages are particularly notorious for causing gas. The problem is worsened if you eat little or no breakfast, then "dump" these gas producers into an empty stomach.

Try altering your school diet so that it more closely resembles what you eat at home. Don't chew sugarless gum or mints; if they contain the inert sugar sorbitol, they can be real gas producers.

If a change in diet isn't effective, take Mylicon, an over-the-counter anti-gas medicine. Finally, see your doctor if the gas problem continues.

To give you more information, I'm sending you a free copy of my newsletter on DIGESTIVE GAS. Others who are interested in this report should send $1 and their name and address to P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I sneeze at least 15 to 20 times each day, releasing a reservoir of mucus. There is no one thing that triggers this problem. Can you suggest something for relief?

DEAR READER — Sneezing is a reflex reaction to irritation of the nose and upper airway. It usually indicates that the person has inhaled something to which he or she is sensitive. The discharge of mucus is the body's way of washing the substance away.

In my practice, the most common cause of sneezing is allergy — to dust, pollen, fumes and air pollution, such as smoke. You could be suffering from chronic allergies, and this problem may be cured once the irritant is identified.

First, check with your doctor. If he or she is unable to offer suggestions, seek a consultation with an allergist. By skin-testing you to various allergens, the specialist may be able to pinpoint the cause of your sneezing and — perhaps — make up a vaccine that could be used to desensitize you.

Fluvanna forms first ball league

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

FLUVANNA -- You wouldn't exactly call it the baseball capital of West Texas. In fact, until last Saturday night, you didn't even find baseball in this small town located near the edge of the caprock.

It's here now though, each Sunday night at 7:30. Fluvanna formed its first-ever Little League program recently and kicked off the event with opening ceremonies Saturday. Thirty-six boys and girls from ages seven to 12, coaches and officers were introduced to an understandably proud gallery of parents and fans.

Church of Christ Minister Don Campbell gave the invocation and Valerie Drum led the group in the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

After introductions, the Terminators took the field against the Hawks and Fluvanna's first Little League season began.

"It was a group effort," said league secretary-treasurer Dale Stansell. "Everybody pitched in and helped. Everybody is pretty excited about it."

There have been a number of sponsors, including Don Jones, Ralph Miller and Jimmy Aaron. Stansell's Dairy, Olney Savings and Loan and Two Friends donated the caps. The land belongs to Marvin Bouleware, who along with Miller, Don Jones and Don Blacklock make up the board of directors.

President and vice-president are Mike and Patrick Toombs, respectively.

Mary Ellen Keith is the scorekeeper.

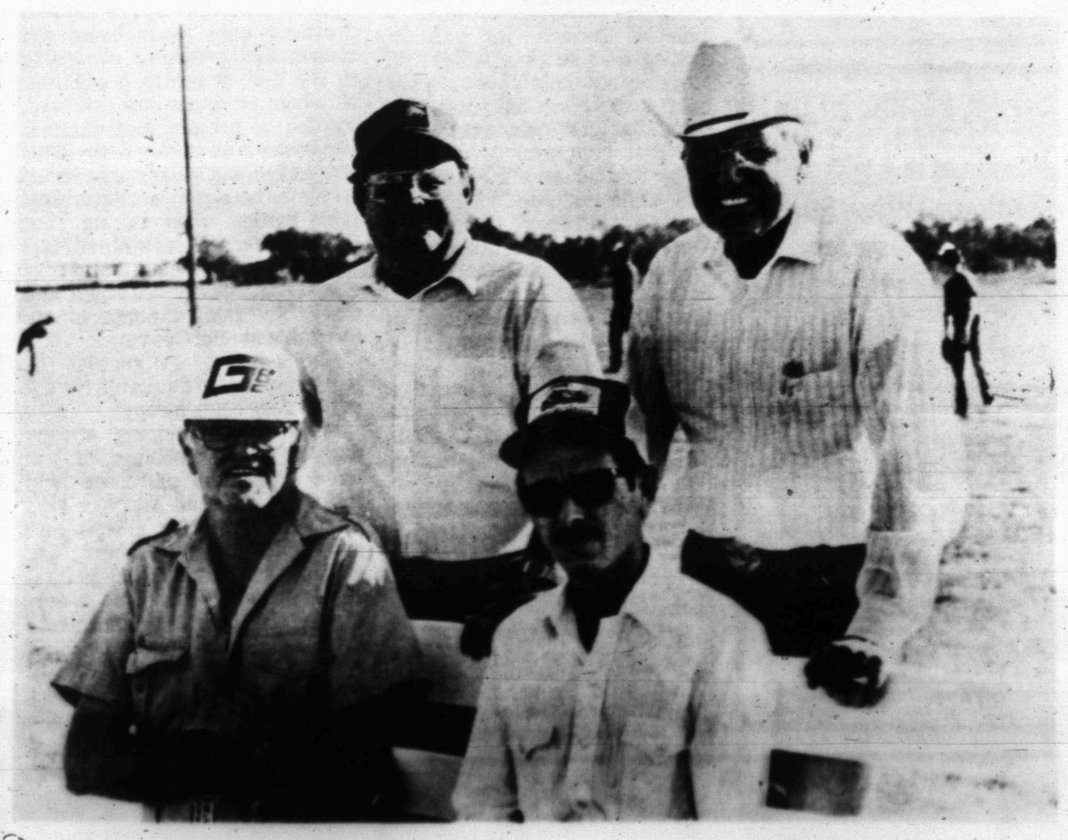

The rules vary from normal Little League rules, but only because the league is in its first season.

"Most of these kids haven't ever played baseball before, so we're taking it kind of slow this first year," explained Mrs. Stansell.

The teams play with 10 fielders and use a designated pitcher - Mrs. Stansell. Once the youngsters get experience in hitting and fielding the ball, they'll worry about pitching.

The emphasis is where it should be - on fun for the youngsters. Onlookers do their cheering from the tailgates of pickups mostly, taking time in between innings for a cup of lemondade at the makeshift concession stand.

It's a major league sport in a small community with a big heart. And that makes it just a little bit special.

Carey leads All-CWS team

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) - Stanford right fielder Paul Carey, who drove in two runs in the Cardinal's 9-5 victory over Oklahoma State in the NCAA title game, was named most valuable player of the 1987 College World Series.

Carey batted .381, scored nine runs and drove in seven in six games.

Carey, a freshman, had two doubles among his three hits in the title game.

Stanford's shortstop David Esquer and designated hitter Mark Machtolf also made the all-tournament squad selected by media covering the event.

Oklahoma State placed catcher Adam Smith, first baseman Jimmy Barragan, second baseman Brad Beanblossom and pitcher Pat Hope on the team.

Others named to the team were third baseman Scott Coolbaugh and outfielder Brian Cisarik, both of Texas, and outfielder Jack Voigt and pitcher Gregg Patterson, both of LSU.

Wildcat drilling reported significantly down

DALLAS (AP) — The number of oil and gas wells drilled in Texas during the first four months of 1987 plunged to about half of the number drilled during the same period in 1986, the Texas Railroad Commission said.

Through April 30, 133 wildcat holes and 89 gas wells were punched, down sharply from last year's four-month exploratory total of 181 oil and 270 gas wells.

When new wells in existing fields are added, Texas producers have drilled 4,273 wells through April 1987, compared with 9,202 for the same period last year.

Wildcatters have been strapped by continued weak oil prices and reduced exploration budgets.

Texas Railroad Commission statistics for the first four months of 1987 indicate exploratory drilling activity is down from last year in almost every area of the state.

The area of greatest activity this year is in RRC District 4 in South Texas, where 57 new gas holes and eight oil wildcats have been drilled through April. Last year the district had 86 new gas wells and 19 oil wildcats.

The overall state decline follows a year of significant wildcat acitivity for Texas.

An annual survey of the U.S. petroleum industry by Petroleum Information, a national energy consulting company, shows that Texas led all states in new field exploration in 1986 with 772 wildcat completions.

Of those, 65 opened new gas fields — the highest number of gas discoveries in any state in 1986 — while 63 resulted in new oil field discoveries, second only to Kansas.

PI also reports that Texas wildcatters enjoyed a 16.6 percent rate of success in 1986, 2 percentage points higher than the national average.

In West Texas, the Permian Basin ranked as the nation's most heavily drilled geological province in 1986, PI said.

Much of the successful exploration in West Texas resulted from deeper exploration in areas where established production is more shallow, PI said.

In East Texas, operators in Railroad Commission Districts 5 and 6 concentrated on drilling in and around existing fields, and development work in existing reservoirs during 1986. Only 21.9 percent of the drilling activity in East Texas was exploratory.

By year's end, 941 wells had been counted in the region, about 30 percent below the number of wells counted during the same period in 1985. The 1986 total includes 378 oil and 224 gas producers, a 64 percent success rate.

Pure exploration in the region accounted for 140 completions during the year, including 15 oil and 14 gas discoveries, a success rate of 20.7 percent.

It cost a regional oil operator about $62.08 a foot to drill and complete an East Texas well during 1986, down from $77.87 per foot the previous year. PI estimated the total amount spent on drilling in Districts 5 and 6 in 1986 was $372 million.

In South Texas, RRC District 1 was the site of continued delineation of shallow oil reserves, as illustrated by Bexar County's ranking as the second best in the nation for completions last year — 518 oil and gas wells were completed in the county with a 90.2 percent success ratio.

Another significant development in South Texas 1986 was the continued expansion of Bastrop County's Serbin Field, PI said. By the end of 1986, more than a dozen operators had secured leases and were drilling outposts along the southwest flank of the field.

Singer dropped out of Jehovah's Witnesses

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Michael Jackson, who once pledged to tone down his music because it had offended fellow Jehovah's Witnesses, has quit the religion, according to a published report.

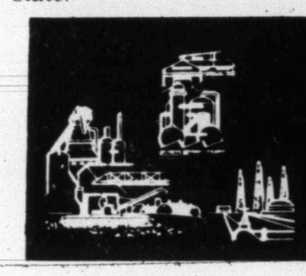

The denomination "no longer considers Michael Jackson to be one of Jehovah's Witnesses," according to a May 18 letter from its Brooklyn headquarters, the Los Angeles Times reported Sunday.

Jackson's manager, Frank Dileo, refused to comment or ask the reclusive singer to respond. But a member of the Woodland Hills congregation where Jackson has worshipped said the report was true.

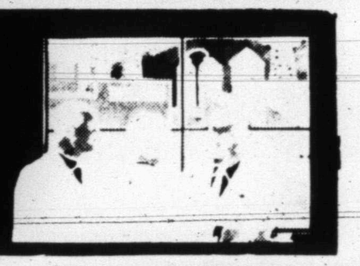

"Michael Jackson has disassociated himself from the Christian congregation and no longer wants to be known as a Jehovah's Witness," the member, who was not identified by name, told the newspaper.

He refused to elaborate or to describe how active Jackson was in the congregation, located in the San Fernando Valley not far from the singer's Encino mansion.

Jackson's Grammy-award winning album "Thriller" and the video of the same name caused tensions among Witnesses.

Medal commissioned for Pope's visit

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP) — A group of Hispanic restaurateurs hopes to donate as much as $100,000 for the restoration of San Fernando Cathedral from the sale of a medal adorned with the portrait of Pope John Paul II.

Mario Cantu, one of the founders of the International Hispanic Food & Beverage Association, said the group plans to commission 50,000 to 100,000 medals designed by local artist Chista Cantu. The gold-plated medal will have the pope's face on one side and a chalice containing ears of corn on the other.

"We just felt like we needed to get involved in the community and the pope's visit," said Cantu.

Warning to Iran said one of Reagan's aces

VENICE, Italy (AP) — President Reagan is counting on a few hundred nuclear missiles and some tough talk aimed at Iran by his associates to carry the day for him at the economic summit.

The missiles can be taken out of Europe and Asia now that West Germany has joined the rest of NATO in approving a tentative U.S. deal with Moscow.

The negotiators in Geneva have some work to do yet, but Reagan already is hailing the prospective treaty as historic.

Like Richard Nixon more than a decade ago, he is banking on arms control to rescue him from political misfortune.

The tough pre-summit talk is coming mostly from Reagan's two top aides, Howard Baker and Frank Carlucci, along with his press secretary, Marlin Fitzwater, and officials back home in Washington.

They are keeping Iran guessing about whether Reagan might order a pre-emptive strike to destroy Chinese anti-ship missiles that are near deployment.

The tough talk is calculated to deter the Iranians from using the Silkworm missiles against Kuwaiti tankers when they are put under the U.S. flag and cloaked in a pledge of U.S. protection, probably later this month.

It is also designed to build up Reagan's image as a resolute leader as he opens three days of meetings with the heads of West Germany, Britain, France, Japan, Italy and Canada.

Reagan's chances of scoring at the summit look good.

American presidents always start out with an edge since their country is the strongest of the seven.

Besides, several of Reagan's Venice partners are in tough political shape themselves. The host, Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani of Italy, is merely a caretaker as his country goes into elections June 14-15.

Japanese Prime Minister Yasuhiro Nakasone may be out of office by late fall. British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher will stay at the summit for less than 24 hours in order to campaign for re-election Thursday. And West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl has some political problems too.

So they are not likely to hold the Iran-Contra affair against Reagan, or even to bring it up.

Congress and the American public are another matter, however. The scandal has shaken Reagan's authority at home. That makes a nuclear deal with Moscow and a successful summit even more important for him.

Trying to deter Iran from attacking Persian Gulf shipping is another matter.

That's where the tough talk — backed by an itchy U.S. naval presence in the gulf — comes in.

EDITOR'S NOTE — Barry Schweid, who heads The AP's State Department staff, is on assignment at the Venice economic summit.

Prison sentences getting longer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal judges are cracking down harder on convicted felons, imposing sentences last year that were more than 30 percent longer than those handed down in 1979, a federal report shows.

The Justice Department's Bureau of Justice Statistics, in a report released Sunday, said the average length of federal prison sentences increased 32 percent between 1979 and 1986.

The average sentence for a drug offense was 38 percent longer last year than in 1979, while the length of a sentence for fraud was 43 percent longer.

Sentences for weapons offenses were 41 percent longer, while sentences for robbery increased 10 percent.

The report compared sentences imposed between July 1, 1978, and June 30, 1979, to sentences handed down between July 1, 1985, and June 30, 1986.

Last year, 51 percent of the 40,740 people convicted of federal offenses were sentenced to prison terms.

number support it, then the court would have to take a second look," he said.

Gressett added that, according to figures from the state highway department, the state spends approximately $3,520 per year per mile to maintain state-owned roads in the county.

Using those figures, he estimated the county would realize a savings of some $8,800 on a 2½ mile stretch of county road that would become part of FM 1611 if it is extended. "Taking also the $100,000 already earmarked, the payoff on the road would be about 11 years," he added.

Goodwin expressed concern that the cost to the county could be significantly increased due to a recent judgment to heirs of the Winston brothers, original owners of the property the road would cross, for some $2,200 per acre for an electric line easement.

An appraisal of the property in April of 1986 valued the land at some $400 per acre for such an easement, which would be the county's responsibility to pay.

Gressett also noted that state highway officials have earmarked monies for the project until after the election and another vote by the commissioners court.

The commissioners court originally voted to support the project in May of 1986, then voted to withdraw support last February on a 3-0 vote with Gray abstaining.

The plan regarding 1611 is to extend it from west 37th St. around the city to intersect with the Big Spring Highway (State Highway 350) and further east to the Colorado City Highway (State Highway 208), creating a western truck route around Snyder.

In other action, commissioners asked Sammie York, Margaret Drum and Elizabeth Potts to check with the chamber of commerce board of directors about the possibility of placing sponsorship of the chamber's annual July 4 celebration in the hands of the Board of County-Development.

The request came after chamber representatives asked the court to fund some $1,402 for $500,000 in general liability insurance. The figure does not include insurance on fireworks which is already carried by Western Enterprise, the company from which the chamber purchases fireworks.

A BCD-sponsored program should place the event under the county's general liability insurance plan already in force. Clyde Hall, the county insurance representative, stated he could not guarantee that the chamber would not be held liable in court if an accident occurred.

Hall suggested that all contracts with booth sponsors and all advertising be done in the BCD name and that the chamber's name should not be used.

The women indicated the matter will be discussed during the board's meeting next Monday. Parks superintendent Jimmy Ward also attended the discussion.

Commissioners were due to reconvene at 1 p.m. to consider awarding bids for dirt and electrical work at Winston Field and to name judges for the Aug. 8 election.

Site sponsors not giving up

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — A site near here was knocked out of the fight to represent Texas in the national competition for the "super collider" but sponosrs of the Garden City location aren't ready to go to their corner.

The Garden City SSC Commission is scheduled to meet at 10 a.m. today in the San Angelo Convention Center to decide whether backers of the West Texas site will forward their proposal to Washington, D.C.

But two state representatives said Garden City site backers should prepare for political battles in Austin if they end-run the two proposals — near Dallas and Amarillo — that won official state sanction.

Pope John Paul II speaks with General W. Jaruzelski

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Pope John Paul II urged Poland's Communist leader to respect human rights and give ordinary Poles a greater say in running the country as he began his third pilgrimage to his homeland.

The spiritual leader of the world's 800 million Roman Catholics met with Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski at the former Royal Palace in Warsaw after hundreds of thousands of Poles turned out to greet him at the start of a weeklong visit.

Jaruzelski said the government was open to change, provided that reforms did not threaten Communist rule and socialist principles.

The Communist leader said pointedly that Poland now is creating "new forms of social life."

"We will not leave that road," Jaruzelski said, speaking firmly as the pope stood looking down toward the floor about 15 feet away.

Jaruzelski said, in an obvious reference to Solidarity, that "the turmoil has subsided."

"The flames incited by foreign powers have calmed down," he added, clearly a reference to Polish officials' claims that Western countries aided the now-outlawed Solidarity movement, once the only free trade union federation in the Soviet bloc.

The pontiff made no mention of Solidarity in his talk to Jaruzelski, nor did he specifically call for restoring the rights of free trade unions. He issued such appeals during his 1983 visit, after Solidarity was crushed by the imposition of martial law from December 1981 until July 1983.

John Paul, speaking cautiously, told Jaruzelski, "If you want to conserve peace, remember man. Remember his rights, which are inalienable, because they derive from the humanity of every person."

"Remember among other things the right to religious freedom, the right to freely associate and to express one's own opinions," he added, speaking in his native Polish.

Jaruzelski hopes the pope will give his support for what the government calls national reconciliation after the turbulent Solidarity era.

The pontiff acknowledged Poland's severe social and economic troubles, and stressed the need for most citizens to take part in public life.

He spoke of the right of all Poles "to participate in the running of public life."

The pope's week-long tour of eight cities will include a meeting with Lech Walesa, a Solidarity founder. It also will include the pope's second meeting this year with Jaruzelski, who led the martial law crackdown.

Roman Catholic bishops see the visit as a way to fight pessimism and passivity and consolidate spiritual values linking the people of the overwhelmingly Roman Catholic nation.

In an address to cloistered nuns in the 14th-century St. John's Cathedral in Warsaw's historic Old City, John Paul today emphasized "the Polish reality."

"You know well that this reality is difficult, full of painful tensions, full of uncertainty and human crisis, made worse by sin, which at times, is the consequence of human weakness, but not only that ...," the pontiff said, his voice trailing off.

In the audience was Mother Teresa, who won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1979 for her work with the poor.

Hundreds of Poles pressed against police street barricades to hear the pope's remarks over loudspeakers.

The pope's Alitalia DC-9 jetliner arrived at 10:40 a.m. Jaruzelski and Cardinal Jozef Glemp, primate of Poland, led the official greetings.
