Mulattos fired on in Cape Town

Police battle rioters

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police gunfire reportedly killed one youth and wounded two others today on the second day of antigovernment riots in Cape Town as Prime Minister John Vorster flew to Switzerland for a meeting with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

The South African Press Association said the casualties occurred when police fired on stone-throwing youths outside a high school for coloreds — persons of mixed race who are subject along with blacks to most of South Africa's strict apartheid laws.

Tear gas was fired into the Trafalgar High School grounds in an attempt to keep pupils from marching on the downtown area, where police used volleys of tear gas and warning blasts from shotguns to disperse colored demonstrators and onlookers, many of them white.

Police broke up the demonstration with clubs and volleys of gas canisters in Grand Parade Square on Adderley Street, the city's major artery through the white commercial district.

Black, white and colored bystanders gathered in Adderley Street and refused to move, despite repeated warnings to clear the area.

Police fired tear gas and birdshot over their heads in a systematic sweep from the coastal city's waterfront into the downtown area.

In an underground shopping mall at the square, people vomited and collapsed after four tear gas canisters were fired inside.

Shopworkers and police helped evacuate victims up an escalator to open air. "It was like a gas chamber," a security guard said.

The downtown area was sealed off. All bus terminals were closed and many shops stayed shut and kept protective steel barriers on their display windows.

Mobs rioted for the second day in the colored township of Hanover Park, stoning the civic center. Police used tear gas to disperse demonstrating high school pupils.

Police confirmed that two colored men were shot dead Thursday and numerous arrests were made as unrest and rioting spread from the city center to segregated townships near the city. Hospital sources had reported three killed Thursday.

The deaths brought to at least 296 the number confirmed killed since rioting first erupted June 16 in Soweto, a township of more than one million blacks near Johannesburg. All but three were colored or black.

The prime minister as he left said he was going with an open mind for an honest attempt to find peaceful solutions to the problems of southern Africa.

Phillips Oil execs indicted on tax raps

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — The Phillips Petroleum Co., its board chairman and two former board chairmen have been charged with federal tax violations in an indictment alleging a global conspiracy that used misleading entries, code names and international couriers.

The indictment accuses the defendants of raising about $3 million in secret transactions and concealing the money in Swiss bank deposits and as cash at company headquarters in Bartlesville, Okla.

The government charged that the money was not reported as income on tax returns filed for 1963 through 1971.

Individuals named in the charges were William F. Martin, Phillips board chairman; W.W. Keeler, the firm's chief executive from 1967 to 1972; and Stanley Learned, chief executive from 1964 to 1967.

Martin succeeded Keeler on Jan. 1, 1973.

Each was charged with conspiracy to defraud the government in reporting and paying corporate income taxes.

In a statement from his office, Martin said the charges were unfounded.

"The case will be vigorously defended and I am confident that there will be complete vindication," Martin said.

Neither Keeler nor Learned were immediately available for comment.

The indictment said that as part of the alleged conspiracy, Phillips used "international couriers, code names, misleading entries, and false invoices and billings which would conceal from the Internal Revenue Service the true nature of the company's income and expenses."

This, the indictment said, prevented the IRS "from making a complete and accurate audit of the company's books and records for income tax purposes."

There was no estimate of the amount of taxes the company allegedly evaded during the eight-year period.

Besides the conspiracy count, Martin was charged with three counts of assisting in the preparation of false tax returns for 1969 through 1971. The company also was charged with three counts of submitting false tax returns for those years, and the indictment said the company failed to report a total of $581,000 in income during that time.

Focalpoint

Action/reaction: Fires, firewater

Q. Why do the people of west Big Spring have to be without fire protection while their fire station is being used to sober up drunks?

A. The people of west Big Spring inside the city limits have never at any time been without fire protection. The fire station near the rodeo grounds was closed many years ago, because it was not deemed necessary for competent fire protection, in order to save the citizen's money. It was used for a while by another group. The present Detoxification Center there takes a lot of alcoholics off the streets, and out of the gutter. The Detox officials expressed the hope that the questioner does not prefer to see these people, who are ill, lying by the side of the railroad tracks or on the sidewalks downtown.

Offbeat: Lawyer sued

LUBBOCK — Sherry Diane (Cox) Bates of Lubbock may have set a precedent here Thursday when she sued Lewis Terrell, a Lubbock attorney, for losing a court case.

Mrs. Bates is claiming in 137th District Court that Terrell's "gross negligence" caused her to lose custody of her son. She is asking $305,000 in damages.

The woman claims she retained Terrell in 1974 to represent her in a pending child custody case filed against her by her ex-husband.

Terrell, she claims, failed to notify her of the hearing date and, when she failed to appear, the judge entered a default judgment against her and awarded custody of the boy to her former husband.

Later, according to Mrs. Bates, Terrell told her he "would straighten out the affair and would appeal the case, but he failed to file the appropriate appeal bond and never carried forth the appeal as he had stated."

Mrs. Bates says she is incapable of having any more children.

Best bet on TV: 'Law of the Land'

On a night filled with movies, the best bet seems to be the NBC offering at 8 p.m., "Law of the Land," starring Jim Davis and Barbara Perkins. A sheriff in the frontier town of Denver puts his four inexperienced deputies to work searching for a deadly psychopath who preys on the town's prostitutes.

On Saturday night at 8 o'clock, don't miss the Texas shoot-out pre-season NFL Football game between the Dallas Cowboys and the Houston Oilers. The action is on ABC.

KISSINGER TO MEET WITH VORSTER — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger talks with President Ford during a stroll on the grounds of the White House Thursday. Kissinger will depart Friday for a weekend meeting in Switzerland with South African Prime Minister John Vorster.

'Big John-Little John Show'

Connally to run campaign

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Former Texas Gov. John Connally, who declined an offer to run President Ford's national election campaign, will direct the Ford organization in Texas along with Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., it was revealed here today.

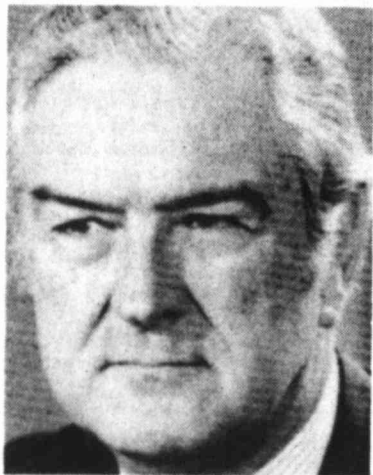

"It will be a 'Big John-Little John show,'" a spokesman for Tower said announcing that Connally's appointment would be made public at a news conference this afternoon at Tower's local office.

A Connally spokesman in Houston said the former governor was scheduled to be in Austin later in the day.

The Tower spokesman said Ford asked Connally to be his campaign manager in Texas when the former Texas governor visited the President in Vail, Colo., last week.

Sources said Connally's appointment was a move by Ford to appease the Texas delegation to the national GOP convention which voted unanimously for Ronald Reagan as the presidential candidate.

Connally was a near-unanimous choice of the Texan delegates as a vice presidential choice.

Texas GOP chairman Ray Hutchison of Dallas, who remained neutral in the Reagan-Ford battle in Texas and is now fighting for the state chairmanship with Reaganite Ray Barnhart, also was to be at today's news conference.

Connally and Hutchison were with

Ford in Vail, Colo., shortly after the convention to discuss campaign strategy.

Connally has said in the past that he intended to campaign actively this fall to increase the GOP strength in Congress.

Republican sources saw Connally's appointment as a boost to Ford's chances in Texas where the President was soundly defeated by Reagan in the May presidential primary.

But Democratic party officials felt Connally would not diminish their chances of carrying Texas in the general election.

"I don't think it (Connally's appointment) will have any effect at all," said state Rep. John Bryant, Dallas County cochairman for Democratic presidential nominee, Jimmy Carter.

Martin Frost, Carter chairman for North Texas, said: "I don't think this changes anything. I've thought all along we have a tough fight on our hands in Texas. I have thought we would win, and I still think Carter will win, but it's all there to be done."

Ford will formally open fall campaign the week of Sept. 12

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford will formally open his fall campaign road show the week of Sept. 12 in Ann Arbor, Mich., his spokesman said today.

White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said he had no specific date for the trip but that the President probably would speak at his alma mater, the University of Michigan.

Nessen would not say firmly that the university would be the site and declined to disclose the subject of the speech. He said it would be appropriate to the setting, but would not elaborate.

Ford has listed education as one of seven major issues he intends to discuss during the fall campaign.

In effect, the Ann Arbor trip will be the kickoff of Ford's campaign between now and the November election — but Nessen would not fully accept that interpretation.

"You could say the campaign began on July 1, 1975, when he announced his candidacy," Nessen told reporters.

The President's new campaign chairman, James A. Baker III, said earlier that Ford plans to stay close to the White House during most of this month, limiting his campaign travel to a series of relatively brief trips.

Baker said there are no plans for extensive travel or extended presidential vote-hunting trips during the first month of the campaign against Democrat Jimmy Carter.

Carter is formally launching his presidential campaign between now and November with a speech at Warm Springs, Ga., and Labor Day appearances at Darlington, S.C.; Norfolk, Va.; and Newark, N.J.

Nessen, in response to a question, indicated Ford will average about one campaign speech a week this month.

Baker said in an interview that Ford will be doing less on-the-road campaigning this month than during the presidential primary elections.

He said the President's travels will increase later in the campaign, but that even then, his managers will seek to avoid long, wearying, multiple-speech days.

The Ford plan clearly is intended to emphasize his incumbency and use the presidential stage.

Furthermore, Ford's advisers believe he is at his best when his itinerary is limited and his speeches don't come in bunches. They point to his speech accepting the Republican presidential nomination as the kind of campaign performance he can give when he has time to prepare and polish an address.

Carter has tentative plans to cover nearly 20 cities during his first five-day campaign week. It is to take him north to Connecticut, west to Chicago and south to Hollywood, Fla., with appearances in Pennsylvania, Maryland and Ohio in between.

Ford telephoned Ronald Reagan on Thursday to ask for campaign help from the man he defeated for the Republican presidential nomination.

A spokesman said they talked for 10 to 15 minutes.

"Gov. Reagan agreed to do what he could," said Deputy White House Press Secretary John Carlson.

He said Ford called Reagan in Santa Barbara, Calif., "to solicit his advice on the campaign and to ask his help."

There was no word of any Reagan plan to campaign actively for Ford.

Carter spent Thursday at home in Plains, Ga., preparing for meetings today with his running mate, Sen. Walter Mondale. The two Democratic nominees were to discuss plans for their campaign, which formally opens on Labor Day.

Mondale was in Kansas City, Mo., on Thursday, winding up his first campaign foray, a nine-day journey from coast-to-coast.

At a meeting of the National Conference of State Legislatures, the Minnesota senator said federal bureaucrats often have been arrogant and paternalistic and that a "new, creative partnership" between state and federal governments is needed.

FROMME AFTER CAPTURE — In a never-before-published police photo released today by the Sacramento Bee, Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme is shown in an interrogation room with an empty holster strapped to her leg shortly after she was taken into custody on Sept. 5, 1975 after attempting to assassinate President Ford outside the Capitol in Sacramento. She was later convicted and sent to federal prison for the assassination attempt.

Vincent man indicted for bribery

SNYDER — Bruce Hatfield, 39, of Vincent, was indicted by a Scurry County grand jury Monday for bribery.

The attempted bribery was alleged to have taken place at Lake Thomas on July 7. It was alleged that he attempted to bribe Larue Gambol, game warden, in connection with a violation of game laws. He was reportedly trapping catfish. Hatfield is out on $5,000 bond.

A GOOD TURN FOR A FRIEND — Retired McKinney, Texas carpenter, W.M. Jeter, 71, rounded up materials from friends, old buildings and just about any way he could to build a new house for his neighbor 73-year-old Julia McDade. He is doing the work free of charge.

Builds her new house for free

MCKINNEY, Tex. (AP) — As chilling winter rains swept East McKinney last January, retired McKinney carpenter W.M. Jeter decided he'd seen enough.

Outside, his 73-year-old widowed neighbor Julia McDade was tottering on an old ladder in an attempt to plug gaping holes in the tattered roof of her tarpaper shanty.

"I said to myself, 'Lord, I'm gonna do something,'" said Jeter.

What he did was completely build a sturdy, new two-bedroom frame house for his neighbor — without charging her a penny.

Jeter, a carpenter for 35 years, is nearly 71. Mrs. McDade will soon move next door into the new house, leaving behind her sagging shack, with its dirt floor, battered walls and wood-burning stove.

For the first time in her life, she'll have indoor plumbing.

"This woman needed a home and I decided to do it myself," said the lean, friendly carpenter, who lives across the street.

Jeter agreed to dismantle an old church parsonage nearby in order to obtain lumber, sheetrock, nails, doors and windows for the new house.

Mrs. McDade spent hours pulling nails from the lumber, while Jeter, a sixth-grade dropout, lobbied with city officials to obtain permits for his project.

He once appeared before the McKinney City Council — carrying rough blueprints penciled on the back of an old board.

Some of the materials and money were donated by area citizens and groups and one of Jeter's longtime friends, an electrician, did the wiring.

But Jeter did the remainder of the work, laboring nearly five hours a day since last April. He laid a foundation, built the frame, installed the plumbing, hung sheetrock and constructed the roof.

"Mr. Jeter is some neighbor," said the diminutive Mrs. McDade as flies buzzed through the screen windows of her shack. "He took it upon himself to build me a house."

Money from the North Texas area has begun to trickle in as people have heard of Jeter's project. He is planning an open house celebration in late September when he finishes the new house.

published as forecasts or production. Rather, he said, satellite figures will be compared after regular kinds of crop information are gathered to check on the accuracy of the sky-watch.

In the United States, Conte said, the LACIE project is not designed to replace fully the department's other crop information methods, which already are said to have a year-end accuracy of within 1 or 2 per cent of actual U.S. output.

"LACIE itself is really designed for use in foreign areas where there are no statistical descriptions as we currently know them," Conte said. "We are trying to get the system to meet a 10 per cent or less error criteria."

But Conte stressed that LACIE is still an experiment and that none of the project's crop reports will be much more accuracy than any system in the past has provided.

Del Conte, a member of the LACIE project's staff, said in the report that another satellite — the third in a series — is expected to be put to use late next year and that hopefully the experiment can end successfully by mid-1978.

"The LACIE plan is to look at wheat in the United States, Canada, the USSR, the People's Republic of China, Australia, Argentina, India and Brazil," Conte said. "These countries were selected because they are major wheat producers."

But Conte stressed that LACIE is still an experiment and that none of the project's crop reports will be Orbiting 570 miles above the earth, the satellites are feeding information back to a project called the "Large Area Crop Inventory Experiment" (LACIE) that has been going on since late 1974 and is scheduled for completion by mid-1978.

If the project is successful, officials said the USDA in the future will be able "to monitor developments affecting world wheat and perhaps other crops" with probably lower it," he added.

County maintenance crews notified Cosden Pipeline Company officials when the pipeline broke. The most prominent sign in the area was a Fina lease sign which was right at the area where the pipeline crossed.

Cosden, in turn, notified Mobil Pipeline Co. in Coahoma which sent workers to the scene.

The oil was gushing some 20 feet in the air and running downhill toward the Elbow school area. A lot of it was soaked into the dry ground.

Said one Mobil marketing official this morning, "The environmental people will come a running."

If there was 25-30 loads lost at the break, this would be over 4,000 barrels of oil, close to $50,000 in value.

There was no company estimate of the loss available.

UNWANTED GUSHER — A high pressure pipeline owned by Mobil Oil Corp. lost around 4,000 barrels of crude oil Thursday afternoon after a county maintainer broke open the pipeline. The break was located on the county road between Rockhouse Road and Elbow. That's oil running in the ditches.

Three jail sentences in August

Of 11 guilty pleas heard in Howard County's 118th District Court during August, four resulted in prison sentence.

Pleading guilty were three men sentenced to a total of 27 years. Probation was granted in seven other cases.

District Attorney Robert H. (Bob) Moore III filed six motions to revoke probation. But District Judge Ralph W. Caton did not revoke probation being served by anyone during the month.

One criminal case was dismissed because of insufficient evidence.

Pending Aug. 31 were 210 indictments.

In compiling civil suit statistics, District Clerk Peggy Crittenden noticed 54 divorce petitions were filed. This may be compared to the 32 divorce petitions filed during July.

Altogether, attorneys filed 86 suits, and Judge Caton disposed of 68. A jury returned a verdict in one civil suit.

Applications for two writs of habeas corpus were submitted to the court, but no writs were disposed of.

Judge Caton took no action as juvenile court judge during the month, leaving three cases pending.

Municipal Judge John R. Coffee set bond at $5,000 for the Sept. 1 burglary.

Among others attending the meeting were Bob Harbin, who will be the instructor and who holds certification in EMT from the State of Texas; Dan Finley, Texas Department of Health Resources, who is the certifying agent for the State of Texas and who administers the final certifying exams.

Representing Howard College at the meeting were Dr. Bobby Wright, dean of Occupational Education Division; Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery, assistant to the president; and Mrs. Lettie Lee, director of Allied Health.

Representing the City of Big Spring were Alvie Harrison and Paul Mize from the Big Spring Fire Department; Jake Glickman represented Big Spring State Hospital and Jimmie Wood, safety supervisor, came from Cosden.

From Malone-Hogan Hospital Inc. was Dr. Carl Marcum, who has been designated as the physician advisor for the course.

Norman Knox, administrator, Richard Kaufman, physician's assistant and Mrs. Rosemary Mathews.

Anyone interested in the course may contact Dr. Wright at the college for additional information.

Plans were made by the local board for the March of Dimes to take part in a booth at the Howard County Fair when they met Thursday at the high school library.

Two high school members of the board, Donnie Knight and Steve Hughes also told of plans to have a money making booth at the Howdy Carnival at the high school.

Craig Fischer, chairman of the board, updated board members on current projects of the five-county Caprock Chapter. They were told of three birth defect babies that are being assisted by the local division at this time.

The board set a financial limit for aid per family, with funds over an allotted amount to have board approval.

Fischer told the board that they will again sponsor an Airlift at the Howard County Airport in October with Vaughn Martin as chairman.

Unemployment rate highest this year

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate increased for the third month in a row in August, edging up from 7.8 to 7.9 per cent, the highest level so far this year, the government said today.

At the same time, the Labor Department said the increase in the number of Americans with jobs slowed last month after sizeable gains earlier this year. Employment rose by 74,000 in August to 88 million out of a work force of 95.5 million, after a gain of 90,000 in July.

There were some bright spots in the job picture, including a 240,000 increase in non-farm employment and improvement in the unemployment rate for adult men, usually the family breadwinner.

And the unemployment rate climbed at a slower pace than in June and July. After gradually falling since the spring of 1975, joblessness jumped a half a percentage point in June and

July, followed by the one-tenth of a per cent hike in August.

In August, the number of people without work increased by about 80,000 to 7.5 million, the largest since 7.8 million couldn't find work last December.

The increase in joblessness has thrust unemployment onto center stage as a key issue in this fall's presidential election campaign.

The increases have raised new fears among economists over the path of the economic recovery, and could create serious political problems for President Ford, who in campaigning for election, has adopted moderate economic policies to avoid a resurgence in inflation.

The Democrats and their presidential nominee, Jimmy Carter, have made jobs their No. 1 issue and are calling for new measures to reduce unemployment.

In addition, AFL-CIO President George Meany is blasting the Ford administration on the issue. In his Labor Day message, Meany said that "true unemployment — counting those persons who have given up looking for work or have accepted part-time work — is 10.3 per cent."

Since reaching its recession low in March, 1975, employment has grown by 3.9 million, or an average monthly increase over the 17-month span of nearly 230,000.

The unemployment rate is based on a nationwide survey of some 47,000 households. A more accurate but less extensive survey is made of the business establishments, which showed in August that non-farm payrolls were up by 240,000 to 79.4 million.

The government said employment increases occurred in about 60 per cent of 172 private non-farm industries surveyed. Manufacturing payrolls were up by 85,000 in August, in part due to settlement of several strikes.

Most of the increase in unemployment last month was among young females, aged 17 to 24.

Weather Clear, warm Labor Day seen for state

By The Associated Press

Texas are promised clear to partly cloudy and rather warm weather through the Labor Day weekend and, yes, you guessed it—still more scattered thundershowers, at least through Saturday.

Most areas will be uncomfortably dry until the past week grew almost waterlogged today as a rash of thundershowers lingered across much of Central, North and Northeast Texas and near the Middle and Upper Texas Coast. Occasional showers dotted parts of Southwest Texas.

Skies were generally clear in far West Texas, the Texas Panhandle-Plains sector and the southeast corner of the state.

Threatening turbulence during the night generated a couple of tornadoes—one near Godley in the Fort Worth vicinity and another at Richmond near Houston. Neither apparently caused damage.

Extended forecasts promised that most of the damp weather would dry up by Sunday.

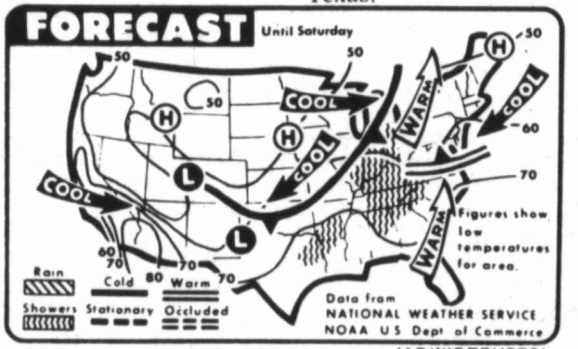

Temperatures in early morning ranged from 78 degrees at Brownsville and Palacios on the coast down to 57 at Amarillo and Dalhart in the Panhandle. Thursday's top marks hit a peak of 96 at Cotulla in Southwest Texas.

Young Demos name Shaw as chief

The Howard County Young Democrats was organized Thursday night, and Larry Don Shaw, Big Spring, was elected president of the group.

The group set its next meeting for Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the county courtroom at the courthouse. Shaw pointed out that the organization welcomes persons from the ages of 16 to 32 who are interested in working for the election of nominees of the local, state and national Democratic parties.

At the meeting, the group heard a report from Shaw about meetings with several officials this week in Austin.

He reported that Rep. Gonzalo Barrientos and the Mexican-American Democrats would help with the local group's voter registration drive by providing a Latin band for a free dance here for Mexican-Americans. It will be held to get more of them registered to vote. Date for that dance has not been set.

The group also voted to rent a building for its headquarters and invited the Howard County Democratic Party to locate its headquarters in the same building.

Also discussed were plans for a fund-raising western dance, and the give-away of a half beef.

Other officers elected were Troy Bryant, vice-president, Marian Williams, secretary, and Linda Harp, treasurer.

Farabee no big spender, audit report indicates

State Sen. Ray Farabee, (D-Wichita Falls) who represents Big Spring and District 30 in the State Legislature, is in the lower 25 per cent of the 31 members of the senate as to total expenditures for the fiscal year ending Aug. 31, 1975. This was disclosed with the release of the State Audit published last week covering expenses for members of the 64th Legislature.

During his first term in the Texas Senate, 19 bills authored by Sen. Farabee were passed into law. He served on the Finance Committee, the Natural Resources Committee and the Jurisprudence Committee.

During the interim between sessions, Farabee is serving on the Texas Legislative Council, the Texas Coordinating Commission for State Health and Welfare Services, the Property Tax Study Committee and the Texas Coastal and Marine Council.

Farabee was cited as "the top Senate newcomer" by "Texas Monthly" magazine and was presented the Senate Member Outstanding Legislative Service Award by the Texas Farmers Union.

Investments pay off for solons

I recently met Frank Conard, a colorful restaurant and truck stop owner at Colorado City.

As we talked, Conard asked me a question:

How is it that politicians eventually turn out rich?

That's an often-asked question, and I certainly don't know the answer.

TO THE average guy observing the world of state and national politics, it does seem that the people often elect a poor old country boy to represent them, only to discover four or five terms later that his net worth has climbed to a million dollars.

How can it be? The voters of Texas have continually resisted paying their state politicians anything but starvation wages, and the $40,000 or so a politician makes in Washington is a very nice living but hardly anything with which to accumulate wealth.

In fact, considering the prices of food and housing in the Washington, D.C., area and the lifestyle of entertaining that a politician must live, I would think that the $40,000 wouldn't go all that far.

This is especially true if you consider the costs that they must incur by having to commute from Virginia or Maryland, since very few of the politicians can stand to live in the town they have created and almost none of them will send their children to that city's public schools.

I think that very few of our politicians steal money from the people in the sense that they embezzle it or divert public money for their own private use. Some do, and some get caught, but I believe most of them would not fear a very close audit.

My opinion is that politicians, like some other kinds of professions, find themselves in a position to make some very good investments. By the nature of their job, they come across opportunities to sink money into projects or stocks that the average guy is not likely to encounter.

THIS WOULD not be illegal, or maybe not even immoral, unless the investment opportunity comes to a politician in return for his vote or support on an issue.

I doubt if this is often the case. Most politicians are courted by the various interest groups from labor to big business not an issue-by-issue basis but in terms of general and sustained support.

The situation reminds me of a story that Herald Ad Director Oliver Cofer related to me. As a boy, Cofer landed the best job in town: soda jerk.

The job didn't pay much in those days, but the fringe benefits were excellent. The drug store management allowed the soda jerk his first week on the job to eat all the ice cream and other goodies he could stand. The first two days, Cofer ate heavily into the soda counter profits, but by the end of the week, he found his appetite for ice cream all but gone. He was back working for wages again.

WHEN IT comes to personal wealth, politicians must rely not on the salary but for the other opportunities that come up.

But unlike the young soda jerk, some of them have appetites for the extra goodies that is not satisfied in one week or one term.

Conard, owner of Cattleman's Restaurant in Colorado City, should take hope, however, because the mood of the country these days is for more accountability by politicians in this area.

Perhaps we will see fewer examples of the politician who comes home rich in the decade to come.

Wife's thought

Art Buchwald

(Art Buchwald was so disappointed he wasn't chosen as President Ford's running mate that he has decided to take a few weeks off. He left behind some of his all-time favorite columns.)

It is regrettable that when the wife of someone running for public office is interviewed she can't say what is really on her mind. In order to be a good candidate's wife, she must show a stiff upper lip and stick with the standard clichés about her husband, her home and her children.

NOW, FOR THE first time, thanks to a new extrasensory perception process, I can reveal what is really going on in the mind of the wife of the candidate. Her thoughts are in parentheses:

"Mrs. Goodfellow, what is the most important role a wife must play in her husband's political career?"

"She must give him moral support when he is discouraged. She must be his ears and eyes when he isn't around, and she must be able to make him relax at the end of a hard day's campaigning."

As well as keep him off the bottle he's God's gift to women.)

"You have four children. Do you find they miss their father when he is out making speeches all the time?"

"I imagine they do. But Charlton's a wonderful father and he always makes time for the children, no matter how many political commitments he has."

(Would you believe he hasn't seen them since the Fourth of July?)

"Do you find the children understand that both of you have to be away from home so much?"

"Oh, yes, they're wonderful about it and they're as interested in the race as we are."

(THEY'RE ONLY run away from asked to be placed in an orphanage.)

"Do you get upset at the terrible things that are said about your husband during the campaign?"

"Oh, no. One must understand that politics is a rough business and I'm used to it."

(But if I ever see the wife of the against, I'll scratch her eyes out.)

"Mrs. Goodfellow, do you find it tiring to be constantly in the limelight and always on your best behavior?"

"I LOVE IT. When we first got married, Charlton indicated he wanted to go into politics, and I knew that although it would place me in the spotlight our lives would be exciting, thrilling and rewarding. I wouldn't change my life for anything."

(Except to be married to a plumber or somebody else with a respectable job.)

"How do you manage to keep so beautifully dressed all the time?"

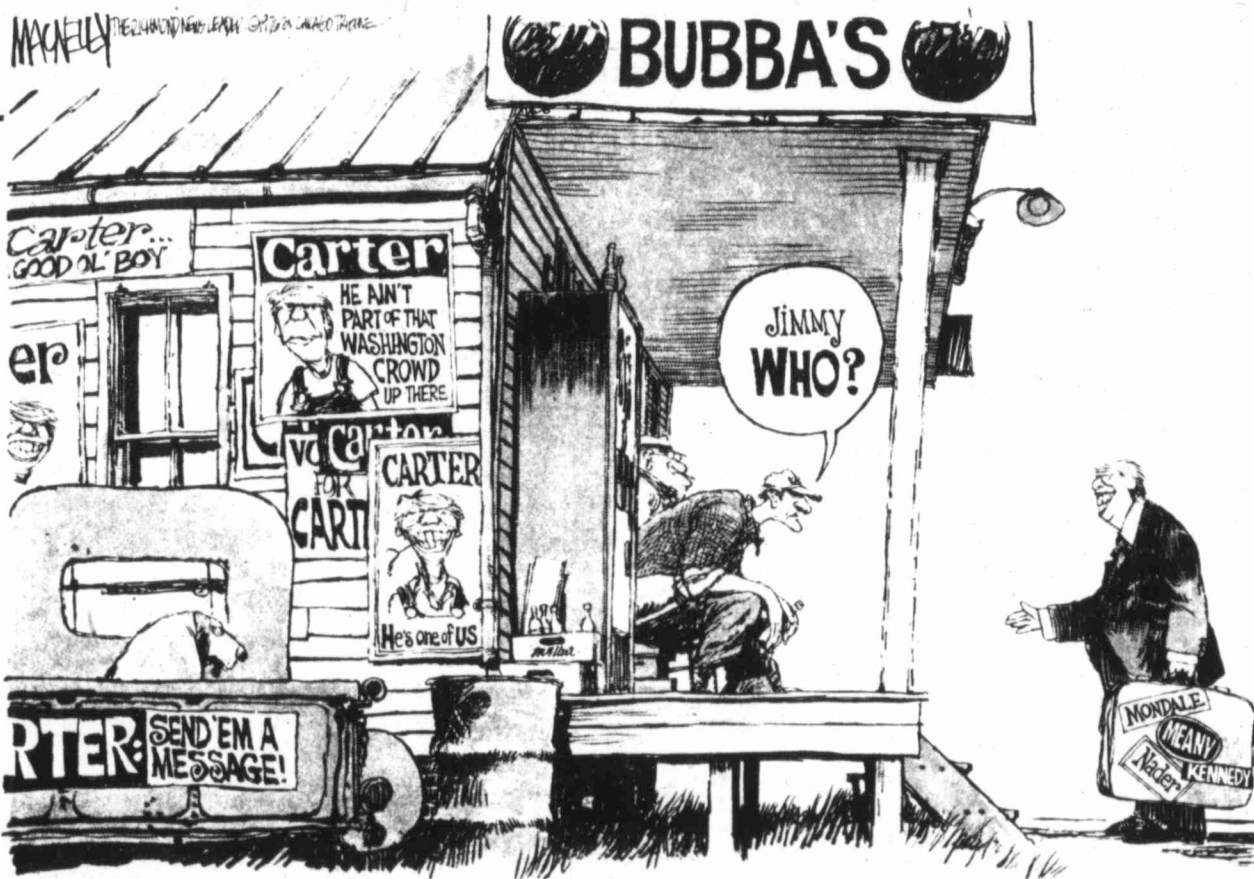

"I make do on Charlton's salary. You just have to know where the bargains are."

(If it weren't for the trust fund Daddy left me, I'd be in rags right now.)

"Mrs. Goodfellow, do you ever get any time alone with your husband?"

"Oh, yes. We steal many hours together and talk about the children and the funny things that have happened during the campaign and the intimate day-to-day happenings of our lives."

(The only other people present are his political campaign manager, his press man, his finance chairman, and 43 other volunteer workers.)

'True grit' can make medical miracle

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I'm 23 years old and have a curved spine. Could you recommend a doctor I can see regarding this? I don't know where to begin.

I would like to know how badly curved my spine will be by the time I reach 50. I'm terribly worried.

I don't want surgery, but wondered if there was such a thing as a removable brace to correct my posture. Is it because of the curvature that I am not tall? — Miss P. Y.

Such a curvature is the result of spinal muscle imbalance, in which muscles on one side of the spine or the other predominate and pull the structure out of line. It usually begins in childhood or adolescence, and ideally should be treated at that time.

At your age, straightening may be difficult because the spine tends to become fixed. But I don't think waiting to find out how bad things will be in another 27 years (when you're 50) makes any sense. It's difficult to say in any specific case whether the curvature will worsen over the years.

I can't say whether a brace (as the Milwaukee brace) would be effective or, if so, just how effective. There are exercises an orthopedist can suggest and there are special physical therapy departments in larger hospitals to help you.

You seem to need a good "pep" talk from someone who understands such conditions and what can be done for them. You are young and your musculature is still supple. Instead of wasting your time moping and wondering what you will be like at 50, get busy. Determination and sheer grit are responsible for many of the medical "miracles" one hears about from time to time. Start working on your own.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 19 years old, weight 110 and am 5-foot-6. I have been getting stretch marks on my upper legs, buttocks and a few on my lower back. I have never in my life been overweight, nor have I ever been pregnant.

Could you please tell me what is causing these stretch marks? — N. N.

You don't have to be fat to get stretch marks, nor do you have to be pregnant. Both conditions encourage them, though.

Stretch marks represent a weakening of the skin tissue locally. If a woman's skin is prone to such local stresses the stretch marks will occur. It could be from vigorous exercises — those that stretch the skin. Heredity is a factor.

Some folks mistakenly believe that stretch marks are caused inevitably by fatness. Not necessarily true. Your case proves that.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son's wife has a back problem. He manipulates and cracks her back to relieve tight muscles. I feel he could be doing more harm than good because he has no training to do this. Can you comment? — O. K.

Only to say that I agree with you. Doing such a thing without knowing the cause of your daughter-in-law's back problem and its extent is at best foolish, at worst potentially dangerous.

If her problem is chronic and not merely the result of a minor strain, then her back should be X-rayed to determine the source of the pain. Massage is an aid to therapy — after diagnosis.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband has had a strong-smelling urine over the past year. He goes to the bathroom during the night and doesn't flush at that time so as not to awaken me. When I get up, the bathroom smells very strong.

He was told by a doctor that he may be eating too much protein. What is your opinion? — Mrs. L. S.

A strongly acid urine can be the result of too much protein in the diet. Urea, a major urine waste product, is the result of the breakdown of proteins. But a strong ammonia odor might also indicate cystitis (bladder infection). His need to urinate during the night could be further evidence of cystitis — which can be chronic (mild but continuing) and could last in that form as long as a year.

I suggest a cystoscopic examination to detect any infection.

Low blood sugar is often the cause of faintness, headaches, visual and emotional disturbances. To learn how it can be identified and brought under control, write to Dr. Thosteson, in care of this newspaper, for a copy of "Help for Hypoglycemia," enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Are you in favor of prayers being said each morning in public schools? I was born and reared in a foreign country where we had compulsory prayers every day in school, and we did not have the crime, rape, murders or vandalism in school that is so common today. — L. S.

DEAR L. S.: There are so many complex issues involved in the consideration of this subject, and all are important. Many teachers do not claim to have a religious faith of any kind — so they don't feel they should be expected to conduct some form of religious worship in schools. Parents do not wish their children to be brought under the influence of religious teaching and expect their children to be excused from attendance at prayer time. Some educationalists seek the right to teach all religions to the children, without giving special emphasis to any one religion at morning prayers.

If the people of the United States want our country to be regarded as a Christian country, as is indicated by the wording of the Constitution, it could well be argued that priority should be giving to Christian teaching in schools, including the practice of some form of Christian worship.

Commendable though this might be, I would place greater emphasis on the need for prayer in the homes of our land. If parents could be encouraged to pray every day with their children in some form of family prayers, this would have far greater impact than inclusion of prayers in the school program. It is in the homes that the example needs to be set, and I would favor any move that seeks to bring this about.

Paul took it for granted that fathers would bring up their children in this way: "You know how we exhorted and comforted and charged every one of you, as a father does his children, that you would walk worthy of God" (I Thessalonians 2:11,12).

Is it worth it?

Around the rim

John Edwards

Is the NCR model 50 computer being leased by the county worth $1,297 monthly?

THE COUNTY spent $1,260 to enclose a room for the computer and make unrelated building modifications in the basement, County Auditor Virginia Black said. Also, County Commissioners Court authorized $2,981 for air conditioning and providing this tax office room with a humidifier and $1,875 for electrical work.

Zirah L. Bednar, county tax assessor-collector, has a reputation for demanding hard work and efficiency from her deputies.

She was emphatic when asked how many new employees were added because of the computer the county began utilizing in February.

"WE HAVE not added employees for the computer," Mrs. Bednar said. "I have the same number of employees I had working since beginning in office."

But the NCR model 50 computer has not yet reduced the number of county employees either. Other county offices will be benefiting from the computer as time passes.

ALREADY, JACKIE OLSON, assistant county auditor, runs the payroll on the computer with the help of Karen Harris, a programmer employed by the tax office.

Will other financial information be fed into the computer later?

"Sometime we will but not now," County Auditor Virginia Black said.

Tax appraisal data could be put into the computer, Mrs. Bednar said.

County court and district court jury panels, which are drawn from a jury wheel now, may be selected by the computer later.

"Up here, we'll use it for jury (panel) selection after a satisfactory plan is adopted by the commissioners court," District Judge Ralph W. Caton said.

By "plan," Judge Caton meant a program which selects names in a method deemed random by the court system.

County Judge Bill Tune said he would have county court jury panels selected by the computer when the program has been established for district court.

NAMES OF potential jurors for county and district court trials come from the voter registration roll, which is computerized.

Howard County paid the City of Big Spring $2,250 both in 1974 and 1975 for use of the city computer for voter registration rolls before the county computer was obtained.

Mrs. Bednar mentioned several other functions of the tax and motor vehicle registration offices which have been computerized.

Alphabetical lists of the names of vehicle owners in the county come from the computer. Also, the computer provides a listing according to license plate numbers.

Mrs. Bednar noted the state keeps motor vehicle registration information according to sticker numbers.

The numbers on stickers attached to renew license plates are in small print.

The tax office is preparing the tax roll by computer and collection information about delinquent taxes dating back to 1939.

Delinquent tax records for 1975 have been reconciled, Mrs. Bednar said.

ROBERT MILLER, an attorney who collects delinquent taxes for the county, college and state, saw how computerized delinquent tax records could assist him.

Delinquent tax records at the courthouse have been kept by year making it necessary to gather information from numerous books to determine the amount of taxes due on a piece of property, Miller said.

As Mrs. Bednar explained it, "you'd have everything in one spot" through computerized delinquent tax records, Miller said.

In this way, Miller said a delinquent tax attorney easily could learn which parcels have the most in delinquent taxes charged against them.

The problem of collecting delinquent county, college and state delinquent taxes will not be his firm's after Dec. 31, Miller said. Brown, Bancroft and Miller do not want to renew the delinquent tax contract with the county.

Doubts about Jimmy

Evans, Novak

WHEELING, Ill. — Lower-middle income voters in this western suburb of Chicago, whose abandonment of Democratic loyalties gave Richard M. Nixon a 1972 landslide here, are torn this year between desire for Democratic economics and misgivings about the Democratic candidate.

Aided by Patrick Caddell's Cambridge Survey Research, we interviewed 55 registered and habitual voters in an area of Wheeling Township which has been a fairly good barometer of recent Illinois statewide voting. The results of day-long interviewing on Aug. 29: President Ford, 24 voters; Jimmy Carter, 21; Eugene McCarthy, 1; undecided, 8; would not vote for President, 1.

THIS VIRTUAL DEAD heat suggests that Illinois may be in for another of its famous presidential cliffhangers. But beyond Illinois, our interviews show the possible shape of the coming campaign: Carter benefiting from doubts about Mr. Ford's ability to manage the economy and yearnings for a change in Washington to improve economic conditions; Mr. Ford helped by confidence in his honest and doubts about Carter's sincerity.

The area selected for us by Caddell's organization, forming Wheeling Township's 50th election district in 1968 and 1972, consists almost entirely of white homeowners under age 60. Their median income is $16,000, with 75 per cent in blue-collar, service and lower-paid white-collar jobs. While narrowly favoring Hubert Humphrey over Nixon in 1968, they overwhelmingly backed Nixon over George McGovern in 1972.

Their major concern this year is the economy. Of the 55 voters interviewed, 33 volunteered economics as the country's most important problem (compared to only four picking government honesty, the next highest category). That emphasis is the biggest reason for the swing back of Nixon Democrats.

"My husband's been out of work for two years," the 28-year-old wife of a construction laborer told us. "When Democrats are in, there are more jobs." Similarly, the 33-year-old wife of an unemployed credit executive told us she is taking a job this fall to make ends meet, adding: "Ford hasn't done enough for jobs." The two women, both Nixon voters, are vigorously backing Carter.

BUT OTHER VOTERS are distressed about Carter to a degree we did not find in Democratic primary elections. The only McCarthy voter, the 39-year-old wife of a tool-and-die maker, told us: "I really think Carter is a phony. We don't need someone who's always talking about his religion." A 28-year-old hospital administrative employee, a Democrat who says he backed McGovern in 1972, favors Mr. Ford because "Carter is false. That smile is just too much."

While "honesty" and "trying to do a good job" were most mentioned as what these voters liked about the President, "false" and "phony" were the words most frequently used in criticizing Carter.

Carter was praised most often for offering "change" and for competence and vigor in running his campaign, contrasted with some voters criticizing Mr. Ford's "lack of leadership" and "indecisiveness." These voters agreed, 3 to 1, that Mr. Ford is a good man who really is not in charge of things in Washington.

ALTHOUGH THE President's 70 per cent favorable rating slightly exceeded Carter's 64 per cent, these voters thought Carter had more vision to find solutions for the country's problems. In short, the voters seem to prefer Mr. Ford as a person but question whether he can do the job.

Nevertheless, they gave him a surprisingly high job rating as President of 60 per cent and gave his vetoes of Democratic legislation a slightly favorable edge.

The result: A murky picture of voters struggling to decide. A 33-year-old carpenter, one of the 1972 Nixon-voting Democrats, doesn't like Carter's "liberal policies" but feels he has no choice other than to vote for him because "Ford has no backbone in dealing with the economy." Another ex-Nixon supporter, a 62-year-old gas company crew chief, grumbled that "Ford is out there playing golf while I gotta work" but supports him anyway because he's "at least doing better than Nixon did" and "I don't know much about the peanut grower."

The outcome here will depend on undecided voters, such as a thoughtful 36-year-old electronic design engineer. While praising Mr. Ford for "not making a lot of rash promises," he criticized him for "not enough creativity or ingenuity." He feels Carter has "more ideas," particularly for dealing with the economy, but disapproved because he "has tended to be more liberal since the primaries."

CARTER'S STRENGTH in rural downstate Illinois may enable him to carry this and other Northern industrial states without the heavy margins usually needed by Democrats in lower-middle income bedroom communities such as Wheeling, Ill. Nevertheless, those nagging doubts about Jimmy Carter are slowing the natural return of Nixon Democrats, who also question Mr. Ford's handling of the economy. Those doubts may be the President's only hope for victory.

Conserving coastal resources 'Middle-of-the-road' approach wins praise

AUSTIN (AP) — Witnesses with divergent, even conflicting, interests hailed a "middle-of-the-road" program Wednesday to protect Texas' coastal resources.

Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong described the conservation effort as "the hardest, most challenging task that government has undertaken in my lifetime."

Gov. Dolph Briscoe appointed Armstrong to take charge of defining the state's role in balancing economic development and environmental quality along the coast.

A three-year study led to a series of recommendations, which have been publicized at recent hearings in 10 cities, ending in Austin.

The recommendations include a proposal to convert the Interagency Council on Natural Resources and the Environment (ICNRE) into a policy-level council to review and propose policies and priorities for the coast.

State agency heads now on the council would be replaced by a member of the agency's board or commission, who are appointed by the governor.

One of the most significant additions to ICNRE, Armstrong said, would be a nonvoting representative from the Legislative Budget Board. He noted that $120 million had been spent on coastal studies in the past 10 years, but no one had monitored those expenditures.

A data management system and a process for reviewing "environmental, social, and economic consequences of proposed coastal activities" would be established in the governor's office.

The recommendations also direct ICNRE:

- To determine how to notify purchasers and owners of coastal hazards.
- To determine where more protection is needed for coastal dunes.
- To review state efforts at solving subsidence problems.
- To propose how water should be distributed for upland and coastal needs during droughts.

Uniform saltwater fishing regulations were recommended for all coastal counties.

"The fact that we are not creating a whole new world of regulation is not bad," said George McGonigle of the Friendswood Development Corp. "It may be the greatest blessing we can bestow."

"We really do have a middle-of-the-road program," said Steve Frishman of the Coastal Bend Conservation Association. "There really is nothing to be afraid of. We have the makings of the best situation in the country right here in Texas."

Ed Small, an Austin lawyer representing the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers Association, said Armstrong had chided the group for "being against everything that has to do with land use," but "that's changing."

"Some (landowners) on the coast," said Small, "not only feel land use is not so ugly but absolutely necessary."

Legislation containing the final recommendations is to be presented to the legislature next year.

Wife of former Houston cop shot to death

HOUSTON (AP) — Authorities investigated today the fatal shooting of the wife of a former Houston policeman who was fired from the force last year.

Patsy McMahon Nixon, 36, died Tuesday in a hospital shortly after suffering a gunshot wound to the head. The shooting occurred at the couple's home, police said.

Her husband, former police Capt. Kenneth L. Nixon, 38, was fired by acting Chief R. J. Clark last year.

Nixon had been given an opportunity to resign from the force after allegations were made that he wiretapped his former girl friend's apartment when she broke off with him. His firing was upheld by the Civil Service Commission after a hearing last December.

Nixon's lawyer, Randy Martin, said he had advised his client not to make a statement.

Raul hopes tourists never 'wise up'

Shoeshine boy digs peso action

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Devaluation and inflation are meaningless words to 10-year-old Raul.

But he does understand his pesos won't buy as much as they used to in U.S. stores.

Raul, a shoeshine specialist in the Mexican city of Matamoros across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, was caught along with millions of others Tuesday when the Mexican government announced the peso would be allowed to float in the international money market.

Raul says he'll take pesos for his shoe shining chores but he'd rather the tourists pay him with American money because "it's easy to spend."

Following Tuesday's announcement, many American businessmen throughout the Rio Grande Valley quit accepting pesos.

Thursday, when the Mexican banks opened, the peso plummeted from eight cents to five cents.

A Matamoros banker blamed U.S. inflation for the devaluation saying, "We buy much more than we sell to the U.S. We have to do something to stimulate private enterprise in our country. We have brought the inflation in the U.S."

Nicanor Chapa Marti, director of the Banco Comercial Mexicano, also said American investors caught with a pocketful of pesos were not hurt by the devaluation because "they made so much profit in the past."

An American banker disagreed.

"It cost anyone with any pesos something," said Otis Parchman, president of the First National Bank in Brownsville. "Every investor dealing in pesos was hurt, depending upon the type of investment."

Marti opened his bank Thursday to a throng of curious customers and a constantly-ringing telephone. American bankers—and were anxious to establish a rate of exchange for pesos and dollars.

"We are buying dollars at 20.40 pesos," said Marti. "And we are selling dollars at 20.60 pesos. This rate was suggested by the Banco de Mexico. They help us determine rates but we will make adjustments every day according to the money market."

American businessmen resumed accepting pesos Thursday from customers like Raul and his mother who shop for food and clothing in Brownsville "sometimes three times a week."

Some U.S. banks along the border said they were exchanging pesos for dollars at 20 to one rate.

Before the devaluation, the rate was 12.5 to one.

Other banks—like the First National of Brownsville—accepted pesos for collection only.

"We are waiting until we can get an established system for exchanging pesos with the Mexican banks," said Parchman. "Our customers' accounts will be credited (in dollars) according to the rate of exchange set by the Mexican banks on the day the pesos clear the bank."

The McAllen State Bank, across the Rio Grande from Reynosa, Mex., said it was exchanging pesos at the 20:1 rate.

"We normally take in about $200,000 in pesos every day," said the bank's president, Glenn Roney. "We were caught with at least that much when the peso was devalued."

Employing simple arithmetic, the McAllen bank lost about $6,000 when the peso value dropped.

"Some of our losses will be absorbed by our customers who deposited pesos," Roney said. "Their accounts will be credited at the current exchange rate."

Another Rio Grande Valley banker, Robert de la Garza of the Border State Bank in Hidalgo, said the peso devaluation was aimed at keeping the pesos in Mexico.

"They want the people to buy in Mexico instead of the U.S.," he said. "As long as the tourists spend dollars in Mexico so the Mexicans can buy with dollars over here, we're all right."

"But when the tourists wise up and start buying in pesos, we've got a problem."

Raul hopes the tourists never "wise up."

Only one political reb on 'most wanted' list

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time this decade, the FBI is listing only one political radical on its list of 10 most wanted fugitives.

That doesn't mean all the others have been apprehended. Some simply have been dropped from the list, although they remain fugitives from criminal charges, and the FBI still wants to find them.

But several have been captured and brought to trial, often after years of hiding among friends in the underground. A variety of circumstances led to their capture — tips from informers, their own carelessness and sometimes nothing more than chance.

Katherine Ann Power rates as one of the most elusive of the political militants charged with crimes as a result of bombings and other violent protests during the turmoil of the late 1960s and early 1970s. She is the only radical remaining on the "most wanted" list.

She and Susan Saxe were charged in connection with the 1970 robbery of a Boston bank and murder of a pursuing police officer.

Ms. Saxe was arrested March 29, 1975, walking along a Philadelphia street. A policeman recognized her from a photograph on an FBI flyer. She is to go on trial in Boston Sept. 15 for murder and bank robbery.

After a lapse of several months, another radical on the "most wanted" list, David Sylvan Fine, was apprehended in San Rafael, Calif., after an informer tipped police of his whereabouts.

But Katherine Power has always been a step or two ahead of the authorities. FBI officials say they believe she and Ms. Saxe traveled together and lived in the same communities for a time. The officials say they have been unable to find her because, like most other political fugitives, she has been protected by friends in the protest underground, a culture the FBI has found difficult to penetrate.

Authorities say they believe Ms. Power still is in the United States, and the search continues.

Two others, Dwight Alan Armstrong and Leo Frederick Burt, were dropped from the "most wanted" list last April because the FBI, unable to find them, concluded they had fled to Canada.

Armstrong and Burt were charged with two others in the 1970 bombing of a University of Wisconsin building in which a researcher died.

The others, Fine and Dwight's brother Karleton Armstrong, have been arrested, convicted and jailed.

Among the other radical fugitives who have eluded capture are Bernardine Dohrn and Stephen Bingham.

Ms. Dohrn was removed from the "most wanted" list after most U.S. charges against her were dropped. But she's still wanted on a federal warrant for unlawful flight involving local charges in Chicago, stemming from her role in the 1969 Days of Rage in Chicago.

Bingham, radical lawyer and scion of a Connecticut political family, is wanted for murder and conspiracy, stemming from a bloody escape attempt at California's San Quentin prison in 1971. He was accused of smuggling a gun to black revolutionary George Jackson, an inmate.

Jackson, two other inmates and three prison guards were killed in the shoot-out. Authorities say they believe Bingham has fled to Canada.

Strippers in Big D to raise funds for crippled children

DALLAS (AP) — Diana will be taking off her clothes for a lot of crippled children Labor Day.

So will Caylen. And Kathy. And Sharon, and 13 other dancers at a Dallas topless club.

But it's all for a good cause, club owner Bob Murdock said Wednesday. Murdock said all 17 of "my girls have enthusiastically agreed to work 21 hours through the Jerry Lewis muscular dystrophy telethon and donate all their earnings."

He said it's no gimmick, or gold mine venture.

"How could it be?" Murdock asked. "I've got three kids of my own. I think God they're all healthy. We opened the club five years ago and I've always wanted to set aside some of the profits for UNICEF (the United Nations children's fund) but somehow we've just never done it. Then I got the idea to have the girls work from 8 p.m. Sunday to 5:30 p.m. Monday, donating all their tips to the muscular dystrophy drive."

Murdock's girls work for tips only. He expects the stripathon will produce $3,000 for muscular dystrophy.

Caylen is a lithe young woman with frosted blonde hair and a "personal interest" in the stripathon.

"I was raised on March of Dimes money. I was in hospitals a lot when I was a kid. This is my chance to really do something worthwhile. I'm not really sacrificing that much."

Diana is a smiling brunette who three weeks ago ended a seven year secretarial career to become a topless dancer.

"This job is exciting and here, already, I'm doing something for crippled kids. I'd never had a chance to do something like this before," she said.

Daily highs averaged 92 degrees

Temperature never reached 100 degrees and less than half the normal amount of rain fell during August the U.S. Big Spring Experiment Station reported.

The highest temperature reached was 99 degrees on Aug. 5. The lowest it fell was 58 degrees on Aug. 25. Neither set any record.

Daily highs averaged 92 degrees while the 61-year average for August here was 94. The mercury dipped to an average low of 65 degrees as contrasted to the normal of 69.

The experiment station measured five rains bringing a total of .82 of an inch during the month. A history dating back 77 years shows 1.97 inches to be normal.

This put the total for the year to date at 11.63 inches, below average by 1.13 inches.

Evaporation claimed 11.16 inches from an open pan. The 61-year average was 10.18 inches.

Wind velocity was slightly below normal; 3.6 miles per hour compared to 3.7 m.p.h.

HARRISES MOVED IN CHAINS — William and Emily Harris were ushered out of the Los Angeles Hall of Justice Jail bound in chains Thursday amid tight security by the Sheriff's department. They were moved from the jail where they have spent the past 11 months and began their separate trips to state prisons. They are under sentence of 11 years to life on a robbery-kidnap conviction. Later this month both will be tried in northern California for the kidnaping of Patricia Hearst.

Nudity in play not reason Dallas nixed production

DALLAS (AP) — An award-winning Broadway drama which features a totally nude man and woman in one scene apparently will play in Fort Worth instead of Dallas.

But no one would say outright Thursday if the nude scene in "Equus" is the factor that is sending the National Company production to Fort Worth.

Pericles Alexander and Dallas Theatre Three, the play's local sponsors, said they were unsuccessful in booking the Memorial Theater at the Dallas Convention Center or McFarlin Auditorium at Southern Methodist University.

"Equus" is a psychological drama that has run for almost two years on Broadway.

Jerry Barshop, assistant director of the Dallas Convention Center, said nudity in the play was not the reason the center turned down the production.

"We had to turn it down because of the state's liquor licensing laws that do not allow nudity at a site where a liquor license is in residence," Barshop said. "Our reasons for turning it down have nothing to do with morality."

Memorial Theater does not have a bar on its premises, but is considered a part of the Convention Center complex, which does have bars in other areas.

Haskell Hall, head of the Dallas office of the Alcoholic Beverage Commission, agreed with Barshop's licensing reasoning.

"You cannot have nudity where there is a liquor license," Hall said.

Will Rogers Auditorium, where the play will be performed in Fort Worth, does not have a liquor license.

Don Magness, manager of the Will Rogers complex, quickly accepted the booking.

"There's no law against stage nudity, as evidenced by our playing 'Hair,'" he said. He pointed out that in 1971 Dallas theatergoers had to drive to Fort Worth to see 'Hair' with its total nudity scenes.

Bob Moxley, general manager of McFarlin Auditorium at SMU, said he refused the use of McFarlin because of a requirement that all shows in the facility must be tied with some school group.

The School of Fine Arts at SMU was approached about "Equus," which has won a Tony award in New York.

The school turned it down.

Allen Heaton, the acting dean of the SMU School of Fine Arts, said he had refused the offer of joint sponsorship although it would have required no financial responsibility for the department.

One of the sponsors, Theatre Three, has been in operation in Dallas about 15 years.

'Go' command scheduled to be radioed from earth

Viking 2 will attempt touchdown on Mars

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Awaiting only the final order from earth, the Viking 2 lander was ready to cast off from its mother ship today and attempt America's second touchdown on Mars.

After a meeting of the Viking command team, the "go" command was scheduled to be radioed to the spacecraft. That command will direct the two-piece spacecraft to split apart, the lander beginning its 3½-hour descent to the surface while the Viking 2 body remains in orbit around Mars.

The gray, three-legged lander, loaded with life-detecting instruments, was scheduled to land at 6:58 p.m. EDT on a northern plain called Utopia.

A check of the automated lander Thursday found everything in readiness. Mission Director Tom Young declared the craft to be "in very good shape."

The only concern, he said, was a sign that the lander may overheat after landing. It is summer in Utopia. Young said a plan had been drawn up to turn off some equipment and reschedule experiments to reduce the inside heat.

Viking 2 was aimed for a landing at a site farther north and about 4,600 miles from where Viking 1 made the first successful Mars landing July 20.

Because the air in the northern latitudes has more water vapor, Viking 2's destination is believed a better spot to search for life, the main Viking task.

The lander was designed to soar through space, plunge into the thin Martian atmosphere and, slowed by a parachute and braking rockets, drop gently to the surface.

Scientists believe the landing point, about 125 miles from a large crater called Mie, is covered with thick sand dunes that should soften the landing.

Within seconds of a successful touchdown, a camera atop the lander is to take the first of two black-and-white pictures. The first photo, showing one of the three footpads resting on the surface, was to begin appearing on television screens at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory at 7:30 p.m. EDT. A panoramic view was to follow.

Oil theft trial slated following guilty plea

BALLINGER (AP) — Trial date for two men charged in connection with the theft of crude oil from tanks in West Texas has been set for Sept. 27.

Pretrial hearings were held Thursday for Richard White of Houston and Boyce Cox of Abilene.

White waived a jury trial and his case will be heard Sept. 27. Cox charged with four counts of felony theft, is scheduled for a jury trial the same day.

A 41-year-old Houston truck driver, Clinton Wilkerson, pleaded no contest and received a three-year probation sentence Thursday to a charge of felony theft in connection with missing crude oil.

The state dropped two felony theft charges against Wilkerson in return for his testimony at the trials of others.

The indictments grew out of an investigation started last August by state, federal and local authorities into oil thefts in Texas and neighboring states.

Wilkerson was charged with stealing 127 barrels of crude oil from the James K. Anderson-Jacobs lease Aug. 6 1975. He admitted he was a truck driver in the scheme and an employee of White. Court testimony revealed that Wilkerson received no remuneration in the theft.

Seventeen wildcat oil wells drilled

AUSTIN (AP) — Seventeen wildcat oil wells and 21 gas wildcats were drilled in Texas during the last half of August, the Railroad Commission said Thursday.

Six of the oil discoveries from Aug. 16 through Aug. 31 were in South Texas. There were two each in the San Antonio, Southeast, Lubbock and North Texas areas, and one each in Refugio and Midland areas and in West Central Texas.

A total of 374 wildcat oil wells have been drilled this year, an increase of 75 over the first eight months of 1975.

The new gas discovery wells included five in South and Southeast Texas and the Refugio areas, three in West Central Texas, two in the San Angelo area and one in East Texas.

This raised the total of wildcat gas wells for the year to 594, or 95 more than at the end of August last year.

The commission said 4,929 oil wells, including wildcats, have been completed this year, an increase of 481 from the first eight months last year. A total of 2,755 gas wells, including wildcats, have been completed, an increase of 599 from this time last year.

Sterling extender reported

A Sterling County extender was reported this week. The Sterling portion of the Jameson (Strawn) field was extended ¾ mile west and slightly south with completion of Amarex, Inc., Oklahoma City No. 1 Phillips-Knight, 12 miles northeast of Sterling City, for a daily pumping potential of 10 barrels of 41 gravity oil, plus three barrels of water, with gas-oil ratio of 3,600-1.

Production was through perforations at 7,186 feet to 7,269 feet, which had been fractured with 32,000 gallons and 40,000 gallons.

Scheduled as a 7,600-foot wildcat, it was drilled to 7,500 feet, with 4 ½-inch casing at 7,499 feet, and amended to the above field.

Location is 1,929 feet from the north and 21,130 feet from the west lines of 141-2-H&TC.

Shelly concerned about mom's smoking

DEAR ABBY: I am 8 years old and my name is Shelley Seibel. My Mom is 27 years old, and the reason I am writing to you is because my Mom smokes constantly. Abby, please give me some suggestions as to how I can get her to quit smoking. I love my Mom and don't want her to die from lung cancer or heart failure at the age of 30. WORRYING IN EVANS CITY, PA.

DEAR SHELLEY: What a beautiful daughter you are for being so worried about your Mom's health that you would write to me! People who smoke "constantly" would like to quit, but they lack the strength. Perhaps when your Mom sees this and realizes how much you love her, it will motivate her to quit. I hope so.

Write to me again, Shelley, and let me know if my suggestion has helped. I care.

DEAR ABBY: Mac and I have been married for three years, and we went together for two years before that. He's a terrific husband in every way, but something has come up lately that bothers me.

Mac plays softball three times a week. I always enjoyed going to the park to watch him play, but now that we have a baby, I can't go so often.

One night, Mac said, "I wish you wouldn't come to so many games. You make me nervous."

He says he plays lousy when I'm there. Abby, I've been watching him for years and he never played lousy, and I never made him nervous before.

I got to thinking that another guy on his team tells his wife to stay home because she makes him nervous, and everybody knows he likes to flirt with other girls, and if his wife's around, it cramps his style.

One of my friends says, "Maybe Mac just wants a night out with the boys." Another one said, "I'll bet he just wants to fool around." What do you think?

MAC'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Since Mac has to contend with an umpire during the game, he doesn't need another "ump" when it's over. His overall batting average as a husband is what counts.

Some "boys" like to mourn their defeats and celebrate their victories sans wives occasionally, so don't be too possessive or suspicious.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a college graduate, and I only graduated from high school.

My problem is the way he is always putting me down in front of people, calling me a "dummy" and "stupid."

I worked in a factory so he could finish college. I have considered taking some courses at the local college, but if I start now, it will take me six years to get a degree, and in six years I will be 38!

PUT DOWN

DEAR PUT: And how old will you be in six years if you DON'T go to college? Start now!

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Marketbasket bill on average lower

Decreases in the amount paid to farmers for their cattle and hogs brought lower meat prices to consumers during August, putting the family grocery bill at a level only 2 per cent higher than it was a year ago, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

The declines were offset slightly by increases in the cost of some dairy products, including butter and eggs. Once again, the price on the supermarket shelf followed the trend at the farm level.

The AP drew up a random list of 15 commonly purchased food and nonfood items, checked the price at one supermarket in each of 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked the same store on or about the start of each succeeding month.

Among the latest findings: The marketbasket bill decreased during August at the checklist store in 11 cities, dropping an average of 2.7 per cent. The bill increased at the checklist store in Chicago and Salt Lake City, up an average of 1.7 per cent. Over-all, the bill at the start of September was 2 per cent lower than it was a month earlier.

The situation over the first eight months of the year was mixed. The marketbasket bill increased at the checklist store in six cities, up an average of 2.4 per cent, and decreased in seven cities, down an average of 2.9 per cent. Over-all, the marketbasket bill at the checklist store was down a fraction of a per cent from the first of the year.

Comparing prices now with those 12 months earlier, the AP survey showed the marketbasket bill increased at the checklist store in 11 cities and decreased in two. The over-all rise was 2 per cent.

The price of a pound of center-cut pork chops dropped in August at the checklist store in 11 cities, down an average of 2 per cent. The USDA, in its latest report on farm prices, said the price farmers get for hogs dropped $5.10 per 100 pounds in the month ended Aug. 15.

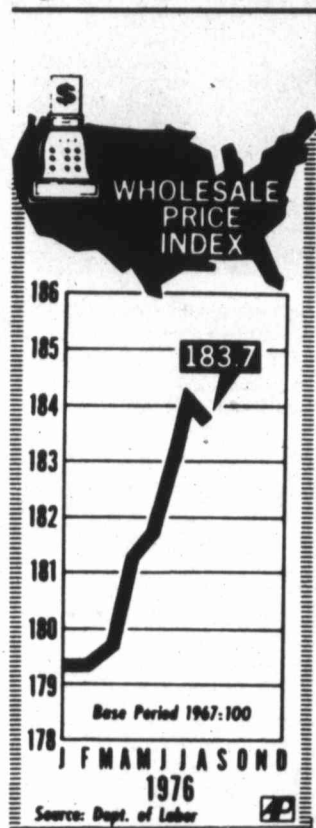

Chopped chuck, which has been dropping for several months, declined again at the checklist store in four cities and was unchanged in six cities. The price paid to farmers for their cattle dropped 70 cents per 100 pounds in the July 15 to Aug. 15 period.

Farmers have been complaining that they are losing money on their animals — even though the cost of corn used for feed has been decreasing. The USDA says retailers and processors are not passing all of the savings from lower farm prices on to consumers.

Higher prices paid to dairy farmers were passed on to consumers. The cost of a dozen eggs went up at the checklist store in nine cities. A pound of butter was up in eight cities.

The items on the AP checklist were: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice concentrate, coffee, paper towels, butter, Grade-A medium white eggs, creamy peanut butter, laundry detergent, fabric softener, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef frankfurters and granulated sugar.

PRICE INDEX DOWN — Chart shows drop in Wholesale Price Index to 183.7 for August from July's 184.3, the government said in Washington Thursday. This means that goods which cost $100 at the wholesale level in 1967 cost $183.70 last month.

Is Fly plane fool or daredevil?

DALLAS (AP) — The Human Fly says he is mostly steel and mostly a charitable daredevil.

Some would say he is mostly a fool.

The "Fly" plans to jet across Dallas Sept. 26, a DC8 jetliner buckled to his hind-side in what his earnest promoter bills as the death-defying, milk curdling last hurrah of jet-age barn-stormer.

Hooded at all times, mysterious, and somewhat dashing in a comic book way, the Human Fly plans to beat his own record with the Dallas stunt, travelling at 300 miles an hour.

The 29-year-old masked man streaked across the Mojave Desert last spring—just 100 feet off the sandy floor—at 250 miles an hour while anchored atop the DC8.

"It was a great feeling up there," he said. "I'm the greatest daredevil in the world."

Motorcycle stuntman Evel Knievel might disagree. But the "Fly's" engineers say he won't live through his planned Dallas stunt.

The "Fly's" front man, David Levine, said engineers preparing the steel brace which will support the masked man insist his body cannot stand the pressures. That could be the fly in the ointment.

His lungs will not inflate, and his rib cage will collapse, Levine said experts have warned.

Nonetheless, said "Fly", "I know I can do it. I'm in great shape."

The Human Fly is reminiscent of Captain America, or The Cop-perhead, popular movie series characters of the 1930s and 1940s. Outfitted in a red body suit, hood, and white cape, the Human Fly said a near fatal car accident several years ago compelled him to thumb his nose at death again.

The accident killed his wife and child and left him in the hospital for four years, Levine said the "Fly's" jaws are made of steel, much of his skull is steel-plated and steel rods strengthen his legs.

Moreover, promises the "Fly", half of the proceeds from his Dallas appearance will go to the Richardson, Tex. Jaycees for charitable work.

The Human Fly said his four years in a hospital exposed him to the tragedy of crippled children.

"I've got 50 million kids out there depending on me. That's the only thing I have. I've got a lot of people to support and this is my way of doing it," he said.

Levine said the "Fly's" real identity is known but to five people in the world "but it doesn't matter. He's a real life hero."

Extension of weather modification plan voted

A two-year extension of its weather modification project was approved for the Colorado River Municipal Water District by its directors in a meeting in Big Spring Thursday. The Board authorized not to exceed $80,000 from the Improvement and Extension Fund for the biennium 1977-78 for the purpose.

During the past two years the district has been working in conjunction with the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation and the Texas Water Development Board's weather modification divisions in a research and evaluation of cloud seeding. O. H. Ivie, general manager, said that he hoped more definitive answers could be learned in the next two years, although statistically there has been a greater amount of increased rainfall within the seeded target than adjacent to it over the past five years.

Also approved was an expenditure of $200,000 for drilling and development of four more wells in the Ward County field. These, said

Ivie, would provide greater operational flexibility and economy.

Looking ahead to possible water needs of the area, P. C. Harbour, Odessa, president, named John Currie, Big Spring, chairman, James Perry, Odessa, and Russell Yorgesen, Snyder, to a planning committee.

The board authorized the general manager to discuss water needs with other agencies in the general area. It also indicated a willingness to contract with the Texas Water Quality Board in the extension of a quality control study in the upper Colorado River basin.

Terms for issuing $1,500,000 bonds for a waste water control facility for General Tire and Rubber Company at Odessa were affirmed. The district will receive a lump sum payment of $23,000 for sponsoring the issue, plus an annual service charge. The company is to build a 67-acre evaporation pond at its Odessa facility.

McCarthy banned from Texas ballot

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Three federal judges have ruled that former Minnesota Sen. Eugene McCarthy cannot be on the Texas ballot in November as an independent candidate, but they agreed with McCarthy's position that part of the Texas Election Code is unconstitutional.

McCarthy had contended before the three-judge panel Thursday that the code is unconstitutional because it allows independent candidates in all races except for president and vice-president.

The judges agreed with First Asst. Atty. Gen. Dave Kendall's argument that McCarthy was too late, and to allow his name on the ballot would disrupt the presidential election in Texas.

Kendall said McCarthy had not proved that he had community support in Texas and that he could rely on a write-in candidacy.

McCarthy's lawyer, former Rep. Don Gladden of Fort Worth, who once failed in an effort to become lieutenant governor, acknowledged that only "60 some odd" signatures had been collected on petitions supporting McCarthy's candidacy.

McCarthy told a news conference on the steps of the courthouse, however, that his lawyers felt "we couldn't solicit signatures (to get on the ballot) because of an absolute ban" in Texas.

The two-hour hearing was punctuated by Federal Judge Adrian Spears' lecture of Secretary of State Mark White for getting to the courtroom nearly an hour late.

White, a defendant, apologized and said a secretary in his office had advised him the hearing was at 2:30 p.m., an hour and a half after it actually started.

"Your secretary doesn't set court hearings," replied Spears.

"I did not know the precise hour of the hearing," said White, adding he understood he was only to hold himself available.

"Did you try to find out?" Spears asked.

"No," replied White.

White testified that if McCarthy had sought a ballot position early in the year instead of waiting until Aug. 25, there would have been time to get an attorney general's opinion.

Kendall said Gov. Dolph Briscoe might have been "prevailed upon" to call a special legislative session to handle the problem.

Asked why he didn't move earlier in Texas, McCarthy said, "Things piled up. We were short of personnel, short of time and short of money."

Normally, candidates have 55 days to collect 16,700 signatures, McCarthy told reporters it would be fair for the court to set a deadline but reduce the number of signatures required since time is short.

McCarthy said he had not worked out a platform, but he was fighting with the television networks to share time with Jimmy Carter and President Ford.

McCarthy suggested six hours, and said Carter should get three hours "because he has three different positions." Ford would need two hours, he said, because it would take him two hours to explain a position others could explain in one hour. "We can take care of ours in one hour," McCarthy said.

Holiday gasoline survey

HOUSTON (AP) — Motorists are expected to find gasoline plentiful over the Labor Day holiday but they will have to pay about one cent more a gallon than they did during the July 4th weekend.

The American Automobile Association reported Wednesday that a survey of 254 service stations indicated average prices of regular gasoline will be 57.4 cents a gallon, 59.4 for unleaded and 61.1 for premium.

The report showed 78 per cent of the service station operators indicated they would be open for business on Sunday and 88 per cent said they will be open on Monday.

Presbyterians Recommissioning Chapel

Members of First Presbyterian church held a recommissioning service for their original sanctuary, reopening it as a chapel in services Sunday night.

The construction was completed March 16, 1930 and it was used until 1963 when the new sanctuary was built. Recent gifts and work by the congregation saw it remodeled with special services held Sunday night.

Mrs. Kathleen Tedesco furnished the music. Lee Porter made the opening statement and Dr. S. C. Guthrie gave the opening prayer. Members of the old junior choir sang. The Rev. R. Gage Lloyd presented "Remembering the Past." He came to Big Spring 31 years ago on Sept. 1.

The Rev. Wm. F. Henning Jr. presented "Look to the Future."

The Rev. L. Allen Holley presented the benediction. Others on the program included Lois Ivey, Mrs. Dorothy Kennemur, Mrs. Louise Middleton, Miss Agnes Currie, Mrs. Jean Kuykendall, Mrs. Louise Porter, Dr. Glenn Allen and A. A. Porter.

Pat Boatler coordinated the renovation. Mrs. Elizabeth Johansen led a brief memorial dedicating a pulpit Bible in the chapel to the late Mrs. Ella Neill.

Baptists set high goal for missions

DALLAS — Texans won't be likely to forget the goal for this year's State Missions Offering by the 4,400 churches of the Baptist General Convention of Texas.

The goal is $1,776,019.76 — not only a reminder of the Bicentennial year (1776-1976), but also by far the biggest goal ever for the annual Mary Hill Davis Offering for State Missions.

The figure is 43.86 per cent above last year's, with the increase planned to finance a $575,000 mass media campaign known as "Good News Texas."

Leaders of the state's 2.2-million member denomination are planning the 1977 campaign to saturate Texas with the Christian gospel through newspapers, radio, television, and billboards. Executive Director James H. Landes calls it the most innovative evangelistic program by Texas Baptists in this century.

In addition, the offering will support programs to help people living along the Rio Grande River, scholarships for Latin American and Black students, establishment of new churches, assistance to churches in changing neighborhoods, and missions projects for retired persons.

Sept. 12-18 has been set aside as a "Week of Prayer for State Missions." Sunday, Sept. 26, will be Ingathering Day for actual giving of the offering.

The offering is named for early Texas women's worker Mary Hill Davis. This year's theme is "Free! Because He Lives."

Last year's goal was $1,234,567.89, and churches gave $1,280,570.57.

LONDON — Officials of the Foreign Bible Society here have made representations to the British government about the recent arrest and detention of a Methodist minister in Rhodesia.

According to information received by the Methodist Church here, the Rev. Henry Kachidza, who retired earlier this year as General Secretary of the Rhodesian Bible Society, was taken into custody on July in Salisbury, the capital of the breakaway British colony, and moved to a detention area about 200 miles away.

'We like to include God in daily concept'

By MARJ CARPENTER
Mrs. Peg McDonald, who has taught at St. Mary's Episcopal School since it opened 17 years ago said, "We are not here to be better or to be in competition with the public schools. We just like to give a choice."

"We like to include chapel in our school. We are not trying to make children into Episcopalians. But we do like to teach children to include God in their every day life. We can also try to teach them to think of God and include him in life's decisions."

This soft-spoken teacher is one of seven full-time and two part-time instructors at the school.

They started 17 years ago with 13 children who were 3-5 years old and had a kindergarten.

The school now includes pre-kindergarten, kindergarten, and the first through third grades.

There are 104 pupils this year and they have had as many as 120.

After they began the first year, they added one grade each year until they had the three grades for a primary school.

Present Head Master is the Rev. Harland Birdwell. The Rev. Don Hungerford was the first followed by the Rev. John Payne.

Mrs. Wanda Watson, who had a kindergarten that was closing, helped Mrs. McDonald start the program the first year in 1960.

Now the staff includes Mrs. Marsha Russell and Mrs. Susan Watts in pre-kindergarten four-year-olds.

The five-year-olds are taught by Mrs. Melinda Haurert, Mrs. Lolita Grimes and Mrs. Dottie Jones.

In the open space first through third grades, Mrs. McDonald, Mrs. Carol Carleton teach full-time; Mrs. Judy Wickman part-time with Mrs. Jones teaching art and Mrs. Sallie Wilson, music.

A lot of children who began in the program are now in college and the evidence of the expert teaching has shown through entire school careers.

It has a different atmosphere from public school and the teachers at St. Mary's are very proud of what they have been able to accomplish.

DAVE ROEVER

Ordained Minister

Navy veteran leads revival

Rev. Dave Roever will continue to speak at the Evangel Temple Church through Saturday night. Services are at 7 p.m. tonight and Saturday.

Serving with the Navy in Vietnam in River Boat patrols, he was critically wounded and still bears the scars of his injuries.

He has been meeting nightly at the church at 2205 Goliad, and "will be giving his testimony of how God spared his life." The public is invited to attend.

On July 26, 1969, while in an attempt to destroy an enemy bunker, he was wounded when a sniper's bullet penetrated the back of his hand. This caused a white phosphorus grenade to explode six inches from his face. He was burned over 36 per cent of his body, 30 per cent being third degree burns.

In 1974 and 1975, he returned to Vietnam on tours in world ministries.

Ministers claimed as last unliberated 'minority'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A group of men sit about the living room in easy-going conversation, joshing, commiserating, having drinks, trading ribald jokes, breaking into gusts of laughter. The pastor walks in. The men abruptly fall silent.

Then, after an awkward moment, they greet him, courteous, solicitous, but in a different, more restrained manner. The spontaneity, the free-flowing badinage, is gone. The mood is circumspect now, deliberated and careful.

The subtle "curtain" has been drawn between the pastor and people and it imprisons both, says Lucille Lavender, wife of an American Baptist minister in Bakersfield, Calif., and a researcher into the problem.

"It's time to liberate the last unliberated minority in the country — the ministers," she said in an interview. "Lay people also need to be liberated from the false need to be liberated from the false notions that set ministers apart as different and up on a pedestal."

She said most people realize intellectually that ministers are ordinary human beings with faults, weaknesses and needs like others, but that in personal dealings, "the alienation sets in," putting ministers in a special, separate category.

"This is an overwhelmingly prevailing condition in America," she said, citing results of questionnaire responses from 40 leaders of religious bodies, Protestant and Catholic, and interviews with hundreds of clergymen and lay people.

She said it impedes open and honest communication between ministers and people and leads to frustration and disappointments of both because of "abnormally high expectations" put on ministers.

SYMBOL OF NOBILITY

The bald eagle, a noble bird, emblem of America. And yet it was not the choice of Benjamin Franklin, one of our wisest patriots. To emphasize the differences between the world's first democracy and the warlike, aristocratic powers of Europe, Franklin chose the docile turkey, so common to America—instead of a bird of prey—to symbolize the United States. But the eagle, long a sign of courage, freedom and power, caught the fancy of Franklin's fellow patriots gathered at Philadelphia in 1787. To them "noble" meant more than hereditary rank. Noble also meant "an exalted moral character, admirable in conception, stately"—all qualities epitomizing the democratic experiment called the United States. And to this day the United States strives to retain that noble character symbolized by its emblem, embodied by its spiritual heritage.

Cadets operating forgery ring?

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — The Air Force has ordered a full-scale investigation into a lawyer's charges that cadets have been operating a forgery and theft ring at the Air Force Academy since 1972. A spokesman for the academy acknowledged Thursday that the Air Force Office of Special Investigations was conducting a probe.

Maj. Monte Blews, the academy's chief public relations officer, said Thursday that one cadet forger was court-martialed and dismissed, and that another accused cadet resigned in the summer of 1975.

"Since then," he said, "there have been a few isolated cases of forgeries, but no evidence of a series."

However, the lawyer, Edward Joel Meyer, said Thursday in a telephone interview from his home in Middletown, N.Y., that at least two dozen cadets were robbed of thousands of dollars by a forgery ring that still may be active at the academy, involving at least four of its more than 4,400 cadets.

Meyer said they stole cadets' checkbooks and military identification cards and cashed forged checks in restaurants and stores in nearby Colorado Springs, as well as at the privately run Air Academy National Bank on the institution's grounds.

The attorney said he became involved after the parents of a cadet accused of forgery asked him to take over the cadet's defense from a military attorney.

Meyer's client was exonerated and returned to the academy in good standing, and the lawyer believes the young man was actually a victim of the forgery ring.

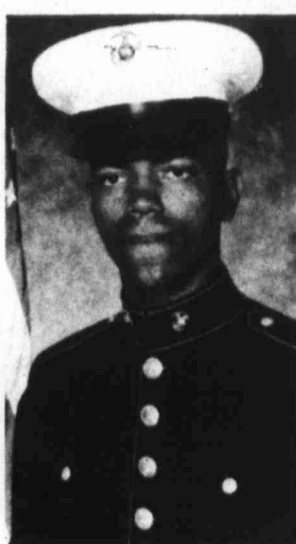

The attorney said that information he turned up in the course of defending his client was reported to the academy and that he was asked by its superintendent, Lt. Gen. James R. Allen, for all information he had on the subject.

Meyer said he sent Allen a letter last Aug. 23 detailing his charges, with transcripts of interviews with former cadets who allegedly admitted taking part in the forgery racket. He said he sent a copy to Air Force Secretary Thomas Reed.

Blews said that Allen ordered the investigation Aug. 27, the day after he received Meyer's letter.

Colorado City pair complete Marine basic Marine Private Edward Warren, Jr., son of Mr. Lorene S. Warren of 1327 Cypress, Colorado City, and Private Tommy L. Shoals, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Bradley, Colorado City, have completed recruit training at the Marine Corps Recruit Depot, San Diego, Calif.

During the 11-week training cycle, they learned the basics of battlefield survival. They were introduced to the typical daily routine that they will experience during their enlistment and studied the personal and professional standards traditionally exhibited by Marines.

They participated in an active physical conditioning program and gained proficiency in a variety of military skills, including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline were emphasized throughout the training cycle. Warren is a 1975 graduate of Colorado High School and Shoals attended the school. Both joined the Marine Corps in April, 1976.

Ben Barnes files suit against Dallas News

BROWNWOOD, Tex. (AP) — Attorneys have filed a libel suit on behalf of former Texas Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes against the Dallas Morning News in connection with a series of stories published earlier this week dealing with Barnes' financial activities.

Barnes alleges the stories have subjected him to "unwarranted abuse as private citizen" and seeks $20 million in damages. The suit was filed by attorneys Dave Nabers and George Day before 35th District Court Judge William O. Breedlove in Brownwood.

SANDWICH — Baltimore Colts' Raymond Chester is stopped by Detroit Lions' Jim Laslavic (52) and James Hunter (28) in the third quarter of Thursday night's game at Pontiac Stadium. Detroit won the game 24 to 9.

Ten Napel leads Detroit surge

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Garth may not have the girth, but he seems to have the guts to make it in the National Football League as a linebacker with the Detroit Lions.

The Lions have until Monday to pare 10 players to reach the league maximum of 43, but Thursday night Garth Ten Napel did his best to insure he won't be among those cut.

Ten Napel, a meager 210-pounder from Texas A & M, had perhaps the best performance of his career in a last-ditch effort to make the squad, and led the Lions to an injury-marred 24-9 preseason victory over the Baltimore Colts.

At least seven players suffered sidelining injuries, four of them Colts, but lightweight Ten Napel didn't seem to be the slightest bit damaged after playing virtually all the battering game on defense.

Not only was the seventh-round draft choice a tenacious tackler, but he also blocked a David Lee punt, returned it 29 yards for a touchdown, and intercepted a Bert Jones pass and returned that 36 yards to set up another TD.

"It was my greatest all-around effort ever," Ten Napel said.

Lions Coach Rick Forzano said: "The kid likes to play football. It looks like he has a good chance now of making the team."

While Ten Napel and his teammates were bubbling over their successful close to the exhibition season, the Colt locker room was solemn and coach Ted Marchibroda's eyes were reddened over the injury to his defensive tackle Joe Ehrmann.

'We'll get after them,' Robbins says of Steers

"We'll see what happens," Coach Don Robbins said of tonight football opener at Andrews, as the Big Spring Steers made final preparations for the 8 o'clock kickoff.

"I never enter a ball game thinking we can't win," Robbins continued. "It's not good to think negatively in this business. It's true Andrews is farther along than we are, and those people have some good boys back from last season. But we're going to get after them and see what happens."

The Longhorns, with 19 lettermen back, have a had a good fall. They took their lumps in a recent scrimmage with Sweetwater but they're learned a lot about football, especially on defense, they didn't know before. If Andrews prevails, it will come only after the war.

Ehrmann was helped off the field in the fourth quarter and later collapsed in the locker room. Lions team physicians Dr. Edwin R. Guise and Dr. Robert C. Nestor attended him and Ehrmann was put on a stretcher in an ambulance and rushed to a nearby hospital. Marchibroda said Ehrmann had a concussion.

Meanwhile, Baltimore starting linebacker Tom MacLeod suffered a torn Achilles tendon and was to undergo surgery today. He'll be lost for the season. Other injured Colts were offensive tackle George Kunz (knee) and cornerback Lloyd Mumphord (finger).

Detroit casualties were linebacker Paul Naumoff (leg muscle), tight end Charlie Sanders (pinched nerve in shoulder), and fullback Lawrence Gaines (ankle).

It's a wonder Baltimore didn't lose Jones to injury. He was sacked six times, while backup Bill Troup was sacked once. Besides the seven sacks for 91 yards in losses, the Colts lost their two fumbles, including one by Roosevelt Leaks at the Lion six-yard-line in the scoreless first period.

"Boy, they put on a great pass rush," Marchibroda said. "They really defended us. When you make one of 13 first down conversions, that's some rush."

The round of exhibition action continues today with four games. Chicago, 4-1, visits Washington, 2-3, while the Kansas City Chiefs and St. Louis Cardinals battle for the unofficial championship of Missouri. Atlanta, 1-4, meets Green Bay, 2-3, at Milwaukee and Cleveland, 4-1, travels to Buffalo, 1-4, in tonight's other games.

Few neutral observers give Big Spring much of a chance, although Andrews is a AAA ball club. The Ponies are being rated second in their own conference. Big Spring has been picked to wind up in the cellar in District 5-AAAA but those who have watched the Steers work out say "they're going to beat somebody."

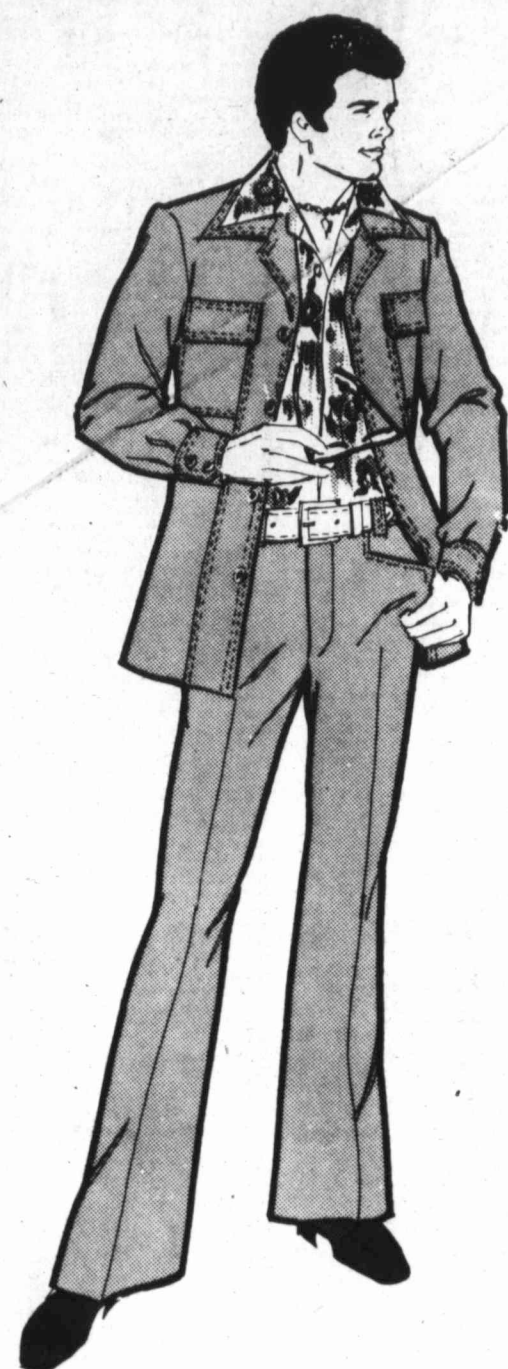

Bubba Stripling will be at the controls for Big Spring tonight. He's improving every day. "He only needs experience," Robbins says.

A sizable group of fans will follow the Steers the 62 miles between here and Andrews.

Big Spring plays its home opener against Hobbs, N.M., next Friday night. If the Steers make a creditable showing tonight, it, no doubt, will boost the size of the turnout next week.

As the worm turns Area fishing news

Action at most lakes is really slowing down now that September is here, kids are back in school, and the fishing fever is dying.

But there was some action, and here it is:

LAKE THOMAS
"Most everyone who comes out is catching a bunch of catfish," said Mrs. Tidwell at the Lake Thomas Lodge.

"In fact," she continued, "my husband just got through running his trotline and had eight more good ones this morning (Wednesday), after catching five big ones the day before."

She indicated that this will make for a big fish supper this weekend when her relatives join the throng that is expected at the lake during Labor Day weekend.

The success factor was slow at the lake last weekend, but the fishermen and skiers were out in force. A lot of bass, crappie and catfish are being caught off the bank on any kind of bait imaginable. Livers and shrimp seem the best bet, however.

Jerry Dudley of Big Spring, embellishing his Bass Club standings, brought in a six-pound, nine-ounce black bass on a black plastic worm. "He came into the lodge and said 'If you weigh this and it's less than six-pounds four-ounces, you can keep it,'" said Mrs. Tidwell.

The lake received an inch-and-a-half of rain Tuesday, and was expected to receive some run-off from the good rains Lamesa experienced.

MOSS CREEK
"Not many fishermen at all," is the word from Ned McCain. He says that the lake is about nine feet below normal, and the west end has dried up completely.

The fishing is poor, all except the catfish, but a few black bass in the two or three pound category can still be taken off the dam.

The lake received a "good" rain, but no run-off, and prospects for the improving of conditions must rely on the level of the lake.

SWEETWATER
Sweetwater and Fort Phantom Hill are still producing a few bass. The fish in the Sweetwater lake are biting on plastic worms both in deep water and in the shallow water catfish.

Phantom's action has been mainly in the 2 to 8-foot water. Early and late-day top-water fishing in weed beds has been producing some lunkers.

LAKE WHITNEY
Fishing slowed down some this week, however, there were a variety of species caught.

The lake level Monday was 526.70 feet (above sea level) or about 6 feet below normal. The lake temperature was 75 degrees and the total rainfall measured .04 inches.

The best reported catches follow:

JOHNSON'S BAIT & TACKLE SHOP — Albert Bigom and Ed Williams, 25 sand bass on Big Buds; Mary and Jay Bickel and Robbie and Raymond McCaffrey, 56 sand bass and 30 crappie on minnows.

ANGLER'S HAVEN LODGE — F.E. Anderson, 63 crappie; Curtis Trullinger, 33 crappie; Rex Vaughn and Cecil Hunter, 12 crappie.

DON'S GENERAL STORE — Elgin, Jim, Ruth Belvins, 3 strippers to 5 lbs. 12 ams. on Hellbenders.

DAVE'S MARINA — Charles McKnew and Fred

Thinning out

By Danny Reagan

McFarren, 7 black bass to 4 lbs. in Steiner Valley Flatts on clear chuggers; Mr. and Mrs. Late Drumm, 50 crappie to 1 1/2 lbs. on minnows to 5 to 7 feet of water; Becky Slover and Frank Albertson, 21 crappie to 1 pound in 8 to 10 feet of water in Steiner Valley on minnows.

UNCLE OUS — Wayne and Nita Mickle and Tom and Charlotte Horton, and Al Pahmeyer, 96 sand bass; Wayne and Nita Mickle and Charlotte and Tom Horton, 54 sand bass.

MURT'S LODGE — Ed Pireto and James Smith, 65 sand bass on spinners; Marvin Ulay, one 4 1/2 lb. striper on Hellbender; Frank Pireto, one 7 1/2 lb. striper on Hellbender; Mike Miller, one 7 lb. 10oz. striper on Hellbender.

WILKINS HARBOR — Don Stenmark, one 4 1/2 lb. striper; William and Randy Copeland, 12 sand bass to 1 1/2 lbs. and 4 black bass to 2 lbs.

KING CREEK LODGE — E.A. Hill, one 5 1/2 lb. striper and 4 black bass; Leon Jones and Ed Snerfield, 13 crappie and 5 channel cat; Leon Fagan, 5 crappie, one 4 lb. striper and one 4 lb. black bass.

INDIAN LODGE — Harry Wythe, and two fishing partners, 12 crappie.

LAKE SPENCE
The lake hosted the Snyder Bass Club over the past weekend. Everyone had a good time, but not much in the way of trophy-size bass were caught.

There were a few catches however. Buddy Mauldin, Midland — 9 1/4 lb. yellow cat, 5 lb. yellow cat; C.C. Weir, Lake Spence — 12 channel cat to 1 1/2 lbs; George Cowan, Sweetwater — 21 crappie to 1 1/2 lbs; Mr. and Mrs. O.C. Moore — Big Spring — 29 channel cat to 2 lbs, 1 striper at 3 lbs, and 2 blacks to 1 1/2 lbs; Harvey Mason — 17 strippers (turned all black but one that weighed 3 lbs., and four blacks to 4 lbs.; Y.J. Sherrill, Lake Spence — 3 blue cat to 6 lbs.

Konny says
"Although the hot weather has caused the fish to think twice before biting, there are still those careless ones who cannot resist the temptation. All a fisherman needs is the right 'tempter' at the right spot."

"The strippers are among the careless ones. They have been caught at weights up to 12 pounds, and at various depths this week. Slabbing seems to be the key here, but there are those who refuse to believe that trolling isn't the best way this week."

"The strippers usually stay within 25 feet of the surface. If the fish go deeper than 25 feet, they run the risk of suffocating because of the low oxygen supply."

"The black bass fishing is improving some also. Although most of the blacks caught this week were between three and five pounds, the largest caught was about six pounds. Various baits are being used to catch the largemouths in the shallow brushy areas around the bank."

"The white bass and the catfish seemed to have decided to be a little bit more careful about what they eat, so only a few of these have been caught. The authorities around Spence, however, seem to agree that with cooler weather, the whites' appetites will increase."

"So, there you have the fishing of forecast for another week. Just remember that cooler weather is coming, and with it, larger fish appetites. So the fishing should be good."

Kountry Girl, Konny
For the ardent angler, there will always be fish caught at any of the lakes. It may take a little patience now and then, but they are still there for the fisherman hungry enough to stick with them.

TRYING FOR A COMEBACK — Nancy Richey, 34, once an unrelenting precisionist who dominated professional women's tennis tournaments as Christ Evert does today, appears at the West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills, N.Y., Thursday during play of the U.S. Open tennis tournament. Miss Richey has once again honed her game in an attempt to reach her present goal — the taking of the U.S. Open Championship from Miss Evert.

Texan is eyeing crown

FORREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Before there was a Chris Evert, there was Nancy Richey — cut from the same bolt of cloth, a grim backcourt precisionist who destroyed opponents with a patient but unrelenting killer instinct.

Now she is on a comeback. A readjustment has been made in her private life. She is 34 but her game is finely honed. And she is playing on her favorite terrain, the clay court surface she dominated for years.

Her target: Miss Evert's U.S. Open Tennis Championship.

"I always play very well against Chris," the 5-foot-3, 120-pound Texan said Thursday. "I think my record against her is 5-4 in my favor in nine matches."

Nancy still has nightmares of her last meeting with Chris in a major tournament. It was the semifinals of the U.S. Clay Court Championships at Indianapolis a year ago.

"I won the first set 7-6 and had a 5-0 lead in the second," Nancy said. "In the sixth game, two points from winning, I blew two points. Then it seemed as if everything drained out of me." Nancy had to quit with the score 6-7, 7-5, 4-2 in Chris' favor.

"I would like a chance to redeem myself for that one," she said.

Texas pro title to be at stake

DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys and Houston Oilers tangle for the "Texas Professional Football Championship" Saturday night with the Oilers getting their final chance for a preseason victory.

The puncheon Oilers, who have been beset by injuries, are 0-5 while the Cowboys, 2-3, will be riding the momentum of a solid 20-10 victory over Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh.

Coach Bum Phillips of the Oilers isn't panicky but would like to see his team put forth a total performance before the regular season opener against Tampa Bay.

"We've played a lot of people and we've had a lot of injuries," said Phillips. "Of course, it would be something special to beat Dallas. They have a great football team."

Four of the five Oilers losses have been close. They fell 9-3 in overtime to Kansas City; 13-10 to New Orleans; 27-24 to the New York Jets and 10-6 to Miami.

Houston running backs Fred Willis and Ronnie Coleman are injured. Joe Dawkins has been obtained from the New York Giants but Houston is having trouble finding Albie Taylor, formerly of the Detroit Lions.

Dallas leads this National Football League preseason series 7-2 and some 55,000 fans were expected in Texas Stadium for the nationally televised (ABC) 8 p.m. CDT kickoff.

There are several critical position battles that will be decided in the contest.

Can Bucs recover?

By The Associated Press

Is the National League writing the early chapters of a book called "The Miracle of 1976?"

Through the years the NL has come up with exciting firstplace races that have kept interest high in the sport right through to the World Series.

A month ago it appeared there would be no hot September pennant fight in either league. But, now the defending Eastern champion Pittsburgh Pirates and Los Angeles Dodgers in the West have turned things around.

Thursday, the Pirates pulled to within nine games of Eastern leader Philadelphia with a 5-0 victory over San Diego.

Larry Demery, 9-4, pitched a fivehitter as the Bucs' seventh consecutive victory drew them closer to first place than they've been since July 18.

Pittsburgh has cut 6 1/2 games from Philadelphia's lead since Aug. 24, helped by a six-game losing streak by the leaders.

Junior highs to scrimmage

Goliad and Runnels Junior High football teams will play it low key until next week.

Eighth and seventh grade teams of the two schools scrimmage Saturday in Blankenship Field, the seventh graders at 9 a.m., and the eighth graders at 2 p.m.

This will be controlled type scrimmage, with no kickoffs.

At Goliad, Coach Wayne Nail is enthusiastic about his eighth grade team. He has 51 boys in uniform in the eighth grade and another 60 to 65 in the seventh grade.

Despite the numbers, there's not enough depth on the eighth grade level at Goliad but the team has great speed and could put it to great use this fall.

Ambitious kids challenging Vets

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The old guard of amateur golf including current British champion Dick Siderow and former U.S. Amateur king Bill Campbell faces tremendous pressure from fuzzy-cheeked kids.

As the 76th National Amateur Tournament enters its fourth and fifth rounds today, even defending champion Fred Ridley of Cypress Gardens, Fla., is older than most at only 24.

Three of the 32, left in competition are teen-agers. Seventeen others are from 20 to 22.

Siderow could join an exclusive list including Bobby Jones and Lawson Little by adding the U.S. title to his British crown in the same year. He doesn't think youth has a great advantage.

"I'm in good shape and I don't think double rounds will hurt me," he said of the two rounds slated both today and Saturday before Sunday's 36-hole finals. "It's a matter of condition."

Campbell, 53, in his 33rd national amateur, could have a little more difficulty on the hilly Bel-Air Country club course.

Campbell drew 21-year-old Jim Blair of Logan, Utah, for his fourth round, after beating 18-year-old Gary Hallberg of Barrington, Ill., 2 and 1 in the third round. Blair eliminated the Arizona State player from Camarillo, Calif., 3 and 1.

Ridley, a senior in law school at Stetson University, appeared pleased after beating Fred Kask of Wethersfield, Conn., 2 and 1.

"I think I might be playing better at this stage of the tournament than at the same stage last year," he commented. He won his title with a 2-up victory over Keith Fergus at the Country Club of Virginia at Richmond.

At 24 this time, he's meeting 22-year-old Jim Mason of Kirkwood, Mo., today. A couple of other young tigers tangling in the same bracket are 20-year-old Tony Campregher of Long Beach, Calif., and 22-year-old Clayton Vance Heafner of Cary, N.C.

Campregher has been the spoiler of the tournament with a victory over ex-San Francisco 49ers' quarterback John Brodie 3 and 1 on Thursday. He's virtually unknown, but the Heafner name is familiar. Vance's late father twice was runner-up for the U.S. title.

DAVID ALTON (55), JEFF TURNEY (BEHIND ALTON) STOP ANDREWS BALL-CARRIER

Andrews JV's defeat local gridders, 26-6

Elementary mistakes, which can be corrected by work, cost the Big Spring JVs a 26-6 decision in their inaugural game with Andrews here Thursday night.

The Steers didn't adjust well to Andrews' jump motion, yielding yardage at crucial times. Two of the visitors' touchdowns were unearned.

"We were disappointed, naturally," Coach Don Robbins told following the game, "but not discouraged. We have a good little group.

Ninth graders win over Ponies, 36-0

ANDREWS — Big Spring's ninth graders hit the ground running and never eased up in beating Andrews, 36-0, here Thursday evening.

In the ninth grade B game, Andrews managed a 6-0 win despite the fact that the Little Steers moved to within the shadow of the Andrews goal on three occasions.

In the feature contest, fullback Ronnie Walker scored two touchdowns on runs of 20 and 25 yards. Halfback Dennis Morrison ran back a punt for a touchdown and added two extra points on a run. Wide receiver Joe Jones scored on a pass from QB Gilbert Rubio, the play covering 30 yards.

Gilbert Rubio intercepted an Andrews pass and returned it 50 yards for the other Big Spring score.

Halfback Eugene Boodle pushed the ball in for a two-point conversion. Fullback Rickie McKee tackled on two more points with a conversion run.

Big Spring led at half time, 14-0. The Big Spring coaching staff took a squad of 70 to Andrews for the two games and all got into one game or the other.

Tackle Jack Odom stood out like the proverbial sore thumb on defense for Big Spring. The whole defensive secondary showed to advantage for Big Spring in the A game. Buddy Claxton, Gilbert Rubio, Mark Harris and Jimmy Marquez were the defensive backs for Big Spring. Defensive end Neil Humphrey was also impressive.

Outside of Andrews' one scoring thrust in the B game, the Mustangs never crossed the midway stripe.

Tryce Austin proved to be Big Spring's most effective running back. The whole defensive alignment distinguished itself for Big Spring.

Andrews intercepted a pass deep in Big Spring territory in the second period and pushed it on in.

The Big Spring ninth graders go to Snyder for a 7:30 p.m., game Thursday. Those who don't play in that contest will suit up for a game with Brownwood here a week from tomorrow. Game time then will be 3 p.m.

Missouri will play for U.S.

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The University of Missouri Tigers will fly the colors of the United States in the R. William Jones Cup International Basketball Tournament Oct. 1-5 in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

The Tigers were selected to compete against teams from Africa, Spain, Brazil, Argentina and Italy by the U.S. Amateur Basketball Association. The University of Pennsylvania represented the United States last year when the tournament was played in Italy.

The tournament is held annually in conjunction with the Oct. 5 birthday of Dr. Jones of Great Britain, who retired recently as executive director of the International Federation of Amateur Basketball.

There's nothing wrong we can't correct if we work at it."

The Jayvees return to competition next Thursday evening in a 7 p.m., game against Snyder.

Byron Harris managed Big Spring's lone TD on a 44-yard end-around play. Andrews led at half time, 20-6.

Lloyd Jones proved to be Big Spring's most effective ball carrier and the Steers' two quarterbacks, Wade Cobb and Billy Ray Johnson, had their outstanding moments. Cobb particularly looked good at throwing the ball.

Split end Ricky Torres was Big Spring's most effective receiver.

The Steers moved in close on two other occasions, but couldn't punch it across.

Big Spring didn't field a punt all evening and that will have to change. Too often, the Steers wound up in poor field position.

"We were grabbing at people all night," Robbins said, reflecting on the play. "We have to start hitting people, if we hope to win."

The coaches suited out 75 boys and all got into the game.

Janet Newberry shocks Martina

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Swedish sensation Bjorn Borg and Argentina's Guillermo Vilas fought off opponents in wind and rain and Janet Newberry supplied the thunder at the water-logged U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

Showers which began early Thursday soaked the clay courts at the West Side Tennis Club throughout the day, delaying the start of play for two hours and stopping it for two more during the afternoon.

Several matches were postponed and others were played in continuous drizzle on soggy courts.

All of that was just fine with Miss Newberry, a 23-year-old scrapper from La Jolla, Calif. Miss Newberry took on thirdseeded Martina Navratilova early in the evening and stunned the Czechoslovakian expatriate 1-6, 6-4, 6-3 in a thrilling center-court match.

Miss Newberry, coming off a knee operation and 20 pounds lighter than she was six months ago, took advantage of a lapse in concentration by her opponent to win the second set after being crushed in the first.

She repeatedly fired passing shots past the charging Navratilova, mixing them with soft, accurate lobs.

She broke Martina twice en route to a 5-1 lead in third set, dropped the next two games, then won the match in the ninth game with a sizzling forehand down the line, followed by an ace.

Martina slumped into a chair at courtside and wept.

Derby winner stays active

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Foolish Pleasure, the 1975 Kentucky Derby winner, will run two or three more races, then retire to stud, says owner John L. Greer.

A&M uses pro set

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Texas A&M Coach Emory Ballard said Thursday the Aggies will break its triple-option wishbone-T offense at times this fall and operate from a pro set.

Ballard told touring Southwest Conference writers: "We plan to throw with greater frequency... we plan to break the wishbone and go into a pro-set on occasion. How consistent we are will depend on the opponent's defense. We're going to play some real tough defensive football teams, but we're going to challenge them."

Ballard said "We're playing maybe the best we've played since I've been here."

The offensive line is doing a fine job, and the quarterback situation is the best it's been. David Shipman is the No. 1 quarterback, but we wouldn't hesitate to play either Keith Baker or David Walker. We have excellent running backs. They are young and inexperienced, but they have the talent to play well."

The Aggie coach was equally satisfied with his defense. "We'll be the same type of defensive team we were last year. We may not have as good statistics, but we'll play well. I think our front four is as good as you'll find anywhere. We have good depth, except in the secondary. We need to keep our first line players well to give the younger players a chance to come along."

Ballard singled out several of his players as being "as good as you'll find anywhere." They included Shipman, fullback George Woodward, guard Dennis Swilley, center Mark Denard, defensive end Tank Marshall, defensive tackles Edgar Fields and Jimmy Dean, linebacker Robert Jackson and safety Lester Hayes.

The varsity lost their initial game 11-15. They improved a weak block and won the second game 15-7. Time ran out in the third game when they were 9-14 and had the serve.

The junior varsity lost their opener 14-16 and their second game 6-15. The freshman had the first game horrors and lost 3-15 and 1-15.

Stanton gained a total of 244 yards, 134 of them through the air, against Coahoma. On its first possession, Coahoma wound up with a minus yard total.

Bisons go to Bronte

FORSAN — The Forsan Bullallos journey to Bronte tonight seeking revenge for a 16-14 defeat last season.

Coach George White is taking a lot of experience with him with Ralph Miranda, quarterback, Rusty Henderson, fullback, Randy Cregar and John Medlin, half-backs for an all-letterman backfield.

The Buffs have only one injury with Roland King, defensive tackle, expected to be out for a couple weeks.

We hope to be running because a running game is going to be our strength this year, according to Coach White.

The coach said he knew the Forsan fans will accompany their team. "They always do."

Ridin' fence — The amazin' Mays

with Marj Carpenter

"I've been working on the railroad since I was 16. The University of Texas exes may think they have a corner on that song, but the original tune applies to the father of all rail residents. We're taking about Floyd D. Mays, father of Dr. Floyd Mays of Big Spring. Son Floyd never says anything much about his family, but he never be caught saying anything about his father's railroad career. But Illinois citizen brought us a book on the "History of the Illinois Central Railroad" and from it we glean these quotes:

"Much of the impetus for motive power on the I.C. in the late thirties and early war months was because of one man, Floyd R. Mays. As general superintendent of equipment from 1928-1939 and later general manager, Mays had long been a top assistant early in 1939, he was elevated to vice president and general manager."

"Born in Virginia, Mays had started his railroad career at the age of sixteen as an apprentice in the machine shop of the Norfolk and Western. Moving on to the southern lines of the I.C. in 1901, he had for a dozen years been fireman, engineer and traveling engineer before going to positions of higher responsibility.

"Even though his formal education had been limited to high school and business college, he was an expert on motive power. Graduate mechanical engineers down at the Paducah Shops sometimes privately questioned the orders given by Mays, as dozens and dozens of locomotives were upgraded in the late thirties and early forties. The ideas of the man who came down from Chicago often seemed to violate the theories earned in college, but the ideas generally worked, and as a result the locomotive roster of the Illinois Central grew in efficiency and tractive power."

In a later section of the book, it mentions that "During the years of 1941-45, due largely to the insistence of Floyd Mays, the total tractive power was increased more than 10 percent, from 75,046,000 pounds in 1941 to 83,147,000 pounds in 1945."

"The durable freight equipment, plus the more powerful locomotives that had resulted from the planning of Mays, resulted in record after record in total freight performance. The really big years were 1943 and 1944."

Is it any wonder that the Illinois Central named a train for Floyd Mays? They had some of the first diesels in the United States and back in 1939 named their first NAMESAKE — This diesel, belonging to the Illinois Central, was named for Floyd Mays, father of Dr. Floyd Mays of Big Spring. Here Russell Sharp, sales engineer for Electro-Motor Division of General Motors, tells Harry J. Bruce, senior vice president of marketing for the Illinois Central Gulf Railroad the features of this 3,000 horsepower turbo charged locomotive.

Masked firemen in Fort Worth 'save' two boys

FORT WORTH (AP) — Masked firemen, groping through smoke in a back room of a small frame house they thought was empty, found two young boys today. The fire fighters first feared the boys were dead.

Quick action with an artificial respirator kept the boys, ages two and seven, alive until they could be taken to John Peter Smith Hospital where they were reported in critical condition.

"The boys' mother was supposedly working," said Scott Robnett, a fire department investigator.

"It wasn't much of a fire but there was a lot of smoke," Robnett said. "The firemen found the youngest boy at the doorway of the back room and the other was found in a corner as if both were trying to escape."

"The firemen just didn't know at first if the boys were alive or dead," he said.

The boys were identified as Reggie Anderson, 7, and Howard Anderson, 2.
