KLANSMEN TO STILL APPEAR IN COSTUME

Wizard Denies He Issued Orders Otherwise

By Associated Press.

ATLANTA, Ga., July 24.—Edward Young Clarke, imperial wizard protem of the Knights of the ku klux klan, late today issued a statement denying that he had unmasked the ku klux klan in Georgia or any other part of the country. The only thing he did, Mr. Clarke said, was to issue an executive order applying only to Georgia "stopping for the time being all parades and the use of the mask and costume for any purpose in Georgia by the klansmen except in the klavern, or lodge room of the klan.

Emphasizing that the executive order was confined to Georgia, Mr. Clarke in the statement said:

Flays Newspapers

"The correspondence between myself and Governor Hardwick regarding the ku klux klan published in the Sunday papers has been grossly twisted and it is causing considerable misunderstanding on acount of this fact.

"First, I have not unmasked the ku klux klan in Georgia or anywhere else in the nation.

"Second, the order affected Georgia only.

"I issued last fall a similiar executive order in Texas when the state was in the midst or turbulent conditions regarding law enforcement and had under way in the state a fight on the ku klux klan by those who wanted to see us destroyed.

CULBERSON IS STILL THIRD

Old Guard Refuses to Give Up Hope

Special to the Record News.

DALLAS, July 24.—While the old guard of Texas is still stubbornly clinging to the hope that the star of Culberson, their standard bearer in the senate for 24 years, has not set, their faith seems forlorn.

Ferguson was leading Culberson by 16,289 when the Texas election bureau suspended tabulating returns. He gained steadily in the returns beginning about noon and gained almost as many votes as did Mayfield, who is conceded first place.

455,000 Votes Cast

455,000 votes have been accounted for in returns from 238 counties, including 49 complete. The number of outstanding votes is uncertain, with the probability that the total will not go above 650,000.

The six candidates for the senate added to their Sunday night totals Monday as follows: Culberson, 22,271; Ferguson, 30,109; Henry, 9,727; Mayfield, 30,642; Ousley, 11,885; Thomas, 17,666. Ferguson had a lead over Culberson of 7,002 when the day tabulation started and finished with a lead of 16,289.

All other races have been finally disposed of. Governor Neff is renominated without necessity of entering the run-off primary of Aug. 26, having a substantial majority over the combined vote of his three opponents.

Dallas Workmen Beaten in Indiana

By Associated Press.

HENDERSON, Ky., July 24.—C. H. Mitchell and Frank West, both of Dallas, Texas, arrived here tonight and told police they were kidnaped and assaulted by strikers in the Howell (Ind.) shops. They said they quit their work in the shops to return home and were told by a striker to go a certain way and they would be safe. They followed the instructions, they said, and were later attacked by five men, who forced them into an automobile, later beating them, then throwing them out of the automobile.

Their assailants had pistols and knives, they claimed. They received medical attention here.

Girl Killed; 2 Injured In Auto Wreck

Ruth Schucht, Aged 13, Nearly Decapitated When Machine Turns Over Near Electra Early Monday Night; Two Companions Narrowly Miss Death; Injuries Serious.

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, July 24.—One girl, Ruth Schucht, 13, was killed and her two companions, Pauline Metzger, 14, and Cora Lawrence, 18, narrowly escaped death when their car turned over on the Sunshine Hill road, just northeast of here, tonight.

The girls had only been away from home a few minutes. Starting on a short after-dinner ride, they were going at a high rate of speed, according to spectators, when their machine, a Buick touring car, struck some fresh sand. The car turned completely over, and around. Ruth Schucht, who was driving, was thrown from the car, and instantly killed. Her head was almost completely decapitated.

The Metzger girl had a shoulder broken and a deep gash cut in her hip. She may have suffered internal injuries. The Lawrence girl was badly bruised, but her injuries were apparently not serious. She was taken home from the hospital a short time after the accident.

The car was traveling down hill at the time of the accident and it is thought Miss Schucht lost control of the car when it hit the sand. There were no other cars in view at the time.

The car was owned by Paul Schucht, father of the dead girl, a drilling contractor here. The Metzger's father is also in the oil business. Cora Lawrence makes here home with her brother, C. C. Lawrence, a drilling contractor.

Texas' Native Sons Neff Should Be Proud Changing Issues The Rule by Bloc

TEXAS IS GETTING TO BE the land of native sons. Charles A. Culberson is a native of Alabama. Clarence Ousley is a native of Georgia, Cullen F. Thomas is a native of Tennessee. Two native sons are the senatorial runners-off. James E. Ferguson is 51, and to the manner born. Earle B. Mayfield is 41, and his people, like those of Ferguson, were Texas pioneers. Pat Morris Neff is a native son, and there area number of native sons who are winners of congressional honors. Neff made a remarkable run, all things considered. There is unrest everywhere, factions everywhere, and industrial and social as well as political and religious upheavals from the gulf to the mountains.

NEFF SHOULD BE PROUD OF his race. He should be proud of his building program, if the law-makers aid him in putting it over. Mark you the success of the program will add a vast deal to the future prosperity of Texas and add millions to the citizenship of the state. The governor is a proud man, an ambitious man, a conscientious man and he hopes to leave behind him, when he retires from the office of governor, a record for constructive legislation that will more than equal the record made by James Stephen Hogg, who was the first really constructive governor of the commonwealth.

HOGG, LIKE NEFF, WAS BORN on the soil of Texas, and was proud of its history, its traditions, its institutions, its people and

Neff Gets Plenty Of Free Advice

By Associated Press.

AUSTIN, Texas, July 24.—Letters, resolutions and telegrams received by Governor Neff from railroad heads, employes' organizations and chambers of commerce over the state since the strike of the railroad shopmen were made public today. Some of the correspondence endorses his policy to preserve order and maintain train service, part of it merely describes the situation in railroad towns and part describes actual disturbances.

The correspondence has no special bearing on the governor's order of yesterday sending state rangers to Denison.

Two Arrested in Bielaski Case

New York Bank To Sell Bonds

NEW YORK, July 24.—Public offering tomorrow of a $5,000,000 6 per cent bond issue of the American Republics corporation was announced tonight by the Guaranty company of New York. The bonds which run for 15 years, will be offered at 9 and accrued interest, to yield 6.75 per cent. The corporation, through a number of subsidiaries, is engaged in production of crude petroleum, fabrication of steel plates for oil refinery equipment and manufacture and operation of tank cars.

Local bankers also are negotiating for a bond issue of 10 to 25 million dollars of the Province of Ontario, which will be floated in the early fall.

Southern Coal Men To Support Harding

By Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., July 24.—Representatives of the four states having membership in the Southwestern Interstate Coal Operators association, in executive session here today laid plans for support of President Harding's proposal to re-open the nation's coal mines.

A comittee of five was appointed for each state, Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Arkansas, "to confer and arrange with the county and state authorities for such proper protection as may be necessary to protect life and property in the mining industry."

The recommendation of a special committee that "the offer of employment by association members shall be made to experienced mine workers now in the field," was also adopted.

Guard Is Moved Through Wichita

Memories of other days were refreshed for a few Wichitans yesterday morning when four companies of the 142 infantry passed through at 2:30 a. m. en route to Denison. The units included in the battalion were from towns in the immediate vicinity of Wichita Falls.

Rumors that the artillery battery here had been ordered to entrain cannot be verified. Another rumor is that the rail equipment used by the troops which passed through here yesterday will be returned here in readiness for a movement of the local unit.

Foundation for the rumors can not be established.

'Farmer Jim' Speaks

By Associated Press.

TEMPLE, Tex., July 24.—"The dominate thought that should now be in the minds of the people of Texas" said former Governor James E. Ferguson in a statement to the Associated Press when election returns indicated that he would enter the run-off election with Earle B. Mayfield, for United States senator, "is how to make sure of supremacy of one kind of a government and that on a republic form of government—free from domination of kings and wizards."

Mr. Ferguson indicated that the federal reserve system would be one of the leading issues in the run-off election should he be second man.

HOOVER MAKES PROGRESS IN COAL MEETING

Operators Agree on Distribution Proposals

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Agreement upon the principles of Secretary Hoover's plan for protecting essential industries and the public in the face of an impending coal shortage was reached at a meeting late today of representatives of the interstate commerce commission, the departments of pustice and commercec, operators from the producing fields of six states and the American railway association.

Mr. Hoover's plan, which was designed to insure fuel distribution to railroads, public utilities and other necessary consumers and the maintenance of fair prices through preferential allocation of freight cars was declared today by Attorney General Daugherty in an opinion to be "entirely legal" and in violation of "no law of the United States."

More Work Necessary

The emergency program as now drawn was submitted tonight to the conference of nearly 100 producing operators which met with Secretary Hoover. The commerce secretary stated that while the plan had been agreed upon in principle, a great deal more work would be required of the organization, of local committees to administer its provisions and after discussion by the operators conference it would be necessary to resubmit the scheme to the department of justice and the interstate commerce commission.

Representatives of the various agencies who met with Mr. Hoover to draft the plan for submission to the operators tonight included interstate commerce commissioner, Atchison; C. D. Bockus of New York, heading a committee of operation M. J. Gormleygh and R. H. Aishton, of the American railway association, and officials of the departments of commerce and justice.

NO TROOPS ARE REQUIRED HERE

Strike Situation Quiet In Wichita

"The railroad situation here has not demanded the dispatch of any troops," Mayor Frank Collier said Monday in referring to a message he had just received from United States District Attorney Henry Zweifel and United States Marshal J. J. Baggett concerning the local strike.

"The boys on strike seem to be perfectly peaceable, and have not intimated any desire to create trouble," the mayor concluded, "and as long as they do not create trouble, there will be no need for troops or 'extra protection' in this city."

The communication received from the United States attorney and marshal follows.

"We respectfully ask the co-operation of your entire police force to assist the United States marshal and his deputies in the enforcement of the state and federal laws in your city. Your co-operation will mean that the northern district will need no troops."

British Mum on Prohi Question

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The state department was without any official word today as to the British attitude in connection with suggestions made by the American government for co-operative measures to curb liquor running from British insular possessions into the United States.

Pending receipt of the official communication from the London foreign office, comment was refused at the department on the nature of the American note, although no attempt was made to conceal the fact that diplomatic steps had been taken with a view to aiding federal prohibition enforcement officers of the United States.

TROOPS READY AT ARMY CAMP

300 Men Prepared at Austin

By S. RAYMOND BROOKS
(Austin Correspondent)

AUSTIN, July 24—Approximately 300 members of the Texas national guard reached camp Mabry at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon and immediately encamped ready for military duty in connection with possible strike guard duty orders of the governors.

Brought here in advance of the general infantry encampment beginnings July 27, the units are headquarters company, third battalion, and company 142nd infantry, Crowell company K Quanah, company L, Vernon and company M, Chillicothe. The panhandle militia are in charge of Colonel Charles W. Nixon of Wichita Falls.

Governor Neff declared late today he had nothing to say on the strike situation developments of Monday. Ranger companies were being ordered Monday to report to Adjutant General Barton at Denison.

Irwin Faces Music Again

By Associated Press.

LAWTON, Okla., July 24.—The Rev. Thomas J. Irwin, former pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Lawton, was placed on trial here today on ecclesiastical charges at a secret session of the judicial commission of the El Reno presbytery, the governing body of the Presbyterian church of this district.

The charges against the minister, who has gained notoriety through a bathing suit marriage ceremony, two alleged abductions, and a fire at his church for which he is facing civil trial on arson charges, were not made public. The church trial body excluded the public and the press and let it be known that nothing would be announced until a verdict is reached.

The hearing occupied all the afternoon and continued tonight with the prospect that an all day session will be required tomorrow.

Brick Hearings Set

AUSTIN, Texas, July 24.—The state railroad commission will on Sept. 22 hear application of various brick companies charging discrimination in favor of rock asphalt through lower rates on such asphalt and against paving brick, it was announced today; also an application charging discrimination on a similar basis against petroleum asphalt.

WORKERS SHUN SHOPS UNTIL ALL IS SAFE

Katy Positions at Denison Still Vacant

By Associated Press

DENISON, Texas, July 24.—Because statae rangers were not awaiting their arrival as had been expected, the vanguard of workers intended to fill the places left vacant in the local shops of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad by the strike of shopmen, did not arrive tonight. The men were stopped enroute by railroad officials. When the men would resume their journey was unknown tonight.

Troops On Way

Adjutant General Thomas D. Barton declared tonight that there will be a sufficient number of Texas rangers in Denison tomorrow to assure protection in any contingency that might arise. Governor M. Neff has ordered the entire force of Texas rangers to this railroad center to offer protection to railroad workers and railroad property.

Joseph S. Myers, commissioner of the department of labor, conferred with General Barton and United States District Attorney Randolph Bryant tonight and later went behind closed doors with the executive committee of the striking shopmen and the city officials.

It is reliably reported here tonight that Governor Neff has received requests for ranger protection for railroad workers at Sherman and Childress.

NO OTHER PLACES WANT RANGERS

AUSTIN, July 24.—No requests for rangers at other points reached the governor's office Monday following orders given ranger captains to proceed with their companies to Denison, it was stated at the governor's office late tonight.

Governor Neff expressed interest in statement of W. G. Crush, passenger traffic manager of the Katy railroad that rangers sent to Denison would be insufficient to handle the situation.

LEE HIGHWAY TO HIT FREDERICK

New Routing Will Be Boost for City

Special to the Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., July 24.—Citizens here are jubilating over the prospect that Frederick will be on the route of the transcontinental Lee highway, a midsouthern inter-ocean paved highway, originally marked to run west from Lawton via Heflin and Childress and on to Fort Bliss, but now planned to run from Lawton through Chatanooga, Frederick and Vernon, which would be almost a beeline from Lawton to Fort Bliss. Thus it would serve as a superb military highway. The proposed new route would have very sandy roads west of Altus.

A delegation from Frederick attacked a conference at Lawton Saturday and later in the day motored to Vernon, and was given an intimation by Dr. H. M. Johnson, director general of the association, and Senator Lee of New Mexico, who are now at Roswell, N. M., that the new route would be adopted.

Morse Suits Are Postponed

By Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Maine, July 24.—Charles W. Morse of Bath, and Rupert M. Much of Augusta will not be tried on indictments in New York and Washington until after civil suits by the Morse companies against the emergency fleet corporation have been tried. Then they will present themselves for trial.

This agreement was reached late today at the conclusion of habeas corpus proceedings in the federal district court to prevent their removal to New oYrk.

Steel Plants Face Shutdown Soon

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 24—The wholesale closing of steel plants throughout the country, and especially in the east which heretofore have not been affected by fuel shortage, will result if the coal strike is not settled before August, the head of a large steel corporation declared today.

Further falling off of operations among steel plants caused grave concern at their New York corporation headquarters.

Officials of the Bethlehem steel company announced they had banked fires and discontinued production at two of their largest furnaces with the resultant loss of employment of hundreds of men. Every plant in the east soon will feel the full effect of the coal strike, it was declared.

40 Eastern Lines To Maintain Individual Labor Organizations

Threatened Strike of 10,000 Station Agents Averted; B. & O. Starts Negotiations for Separate Peace With Men; Unions Say Road Executives Holding Up Settlement.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, July 24.—The averting of a strike of approximately 10,000 station agents, preparations for the formations of new unions of shop workers on 40 eastern roads, negotiations for a separate peace on the Baltimore & Ohio, marked the progress today of the railway shopmen's strike.

The move for new unions to take the place of the striking shop crafts was initiated by L. F. Loree, eastern regional chairman of the association of railway executives and was taken as an indication of the intention of the roads to hold out against the strikers demand for a return of seniority rights as preliminary to any settlement.

The eastern roads, according to Mr. Loree, plan to take advantage of rulings by the labor board by organizing new shopmen in such a way that each system will have its own union and will be able to negotiate separately with is men.

The efforts of W. L. McMenimen, labor member of the rail board, today prevented a further spread of the strike in a conference with W. J. Noone, head of the station agents organization. Mr. Noone complained that the station agents were being forced to do the work of the strikers, but Mr. McMenimen gave him such assurance that any grievance would be corrected that he afterward announced that the station agents would remain at work pending a conference with the labor board.

NEW ADMINISTRATION MOVE IS EXPECTED

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—While on the surface concrete developments in the railroad strike were lacking in Washington today the impression gained in official circles was that the situation was being rapidly "shaken down" to a point where a new move by the administration could be expected.

Cabinet members who discussed the situation, invariably declared that President Harding was in personal charge of the question and the belief prevailed that the cabinet would be called upon to consider it at the regular session tomorrow. Some of the president's advisers are said to have asserted that the government can permit the break down of the country's arteries of commerce to go no further.

Mails Unmolested

Instances of direct interference with the United States mails have recently been conspicuously absent, but postal inspectors today recorded the further annulment of important mail trains.

Administration advisers who favor a drastic move by the government are known to hold the view that President Harding should demand that the railroad executives make every effort to restore interstate commerce especially to the extent of abandoning their stand on the seniority issues. The disputants would later be expected to come together on the matter of a fair living wage for railroad employes, conceded to be the remaining important issue.

UNION STRIKERS SAY ROADS BALK SETTLEMENT

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Asserting that the rail strike has not already been settled "because the die-hard group of eastern road executives want it to go on," shop craft union leaders today admitted that only the roads refusal to assure returning strikers reinstatement of seniority rights prevented an immediate settlement of the controversy.

These statements brought from the eastern executive conference, in session today, a declaration through their chairman, L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson, that "responsibility of the strikers tying up eastern railroads had passed."

KANSAS SIGNS COMING DOWN

Merchants Follow White's Lead

By Associated Press.

EMPORIA, Kansas, July 24.—Placards, expressing sympathy for striking railroad men, were removed from the windows of stores here today, the merchants following the lead of Wm. Allen White, editor of the Emporia speech tomorrow. Governor Allen, a Saturday following the issue of a warrant, charging him with violation of the industrial court law. Mr. White, who put up bond to appear in court to answer the charges, said he would not continue to violate the law while the case was pending.

Allen Detained.

Governor Henry J. Allen, who was to have made an address here today at the Kansas State Normal school failed to arrive and he will make his address tomorrow upon his return friend of Mr. White, sanctioned the arrest of the editor and there was speculation as to whether the two men would meet when governor comes to town.

Mr. White has been a supporter of the industrial court law but differed with the governor in his interpretation of it. He maintained that he was within his rights of free speech in displaying the sign.

Trade Commission Dismisses Charges In Beech-Nut Case

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—The federal trade commission today dismissed without prejudice to its rights to institute new proceedings, about 40 complaints against as many nationally known business concerns, which had been charged by the commission with the practice of maintaining resale prices similar to that established in what was known as the Beech-Nut packing case. In the latter case, the United States supreme court recently upheld the contention of the commission that such practice was illegal.

The complaints dismissed today were filed nearly two years ago and action by the commission had been suspended to await determination of the Beech-Nut case. After the decision by the supreme court was handed down, the commission concluded that the cases should be dismissed as it appeared to the commission that the supreme court had settled the law with respect to price maintenance.

More Guards at Denison Asked For

By Associated Press.

DALLAS, July 24.—The force of Texas rangers ordered to Denison to protect railroad company property will be insufficient to handle the situation, W. G. Crush, general passenger traffic manager of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas railroad declared late today. The rangers were ordered to Denison as the result of recent disorders there in connection with the shopmens' strike.

"Nothing less than 400 to 500 men properly armed and trained can provide protection at Denison," Mr. Crush said.

About 50 rangers make up the force sent to Denison, it is said.

Just Like Movies! Local Merchant Chases Forger Through Streets

A spirited chase down Indiana avenue, ending in an equally spirited fight at the wagon yard on Sixth street and the subsequent arrest of a man charged with forgery enlivened a drowsy afternoon in the business district Monday. As a result of the affair a young man spent the night in the city jail and W. W. Anderson, prominent local merchant, spent several hours in getting his breath back.

The man now held by the authorities tendered a $15 check at the Anderson store on Indiana avenue and when Mr. Anderson questioned its authenticity the former broke and run. The merchant lit out in hot pursuit and after a chase of nearly two blocks cornered the fleeing fugitive. Two men at the wagon yard came to Mr. Anderson's aid and held the man until police arrived, whereupon the meeting was adjourned to meet in the city hall a few minutes later.

The check, which officials say was forged, was drawn on a local man named White.

Smith Regains Lead Over Murphy They'll Fight It Out in the Run-Off

The pendulum swung back the other way in the local election last night, carrying Fred Smith into the lead in the sheriff's race. Although the few remaining returns yesterday had nothing to do with the final result of the election in Wichita county, interest was centered here in the race between Fred Smith and "Pat" Murphy for nomination for sheriff, as they have been running within a few votes of one another since the first scattering votes began to come in.

Murphy was leading by seven votes until box 5 was completely counted yesterday, giving Smith 248 and Murphy 213. This put Smith in the lead again, 2,168 to 2,140.

But it doesn't mean anything.

They both will be in the run-off.

Fugitive, Weary of Flight From Justice, Surrenders at Frederick

Special to Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., July 24.—"This is a relief. I am tired of being a fugitive from justice," was the comment of a young man of 23, who presented himself before Sheriff Ed May Saturday, announcing that he had escaped from the Louisiana state penitentiary in October, 1916, and wanted to be sent back. He stated that he had come here from Wichita Falls, but would not make a statement as to the offense for which he was originally convicted. He is a man of pleasing appearance, speaks good English and is attired in a khaki suit, appearing to have been a harvest workman. He was placed in jail and the sheriff wired the Louisiana penitentiary warden for information and directions for disposition of the prisoner.

iding as president. It was to have begun operations toward the elimination or demotion of some 2,500 officers today, but was held up by the absence of one member.

Members of the board, which is representative of all arms of the service, were greatly concerned in their preliminary discussions today over the probable effect upon the morale of the army of the suspended sentence now hanging over the head of practically every officer in the service with the exception of General Pershing and the baker's dozen of second lieutenants now in the army.

There appeared also to be much concern among board members as to the view army officers might take of the board's action in recommending any officer for honorable discharge. Preliminary investigation indicates that probably more than 1700 officers now on the rolls must be "separated" from the active service in this way. The board, it is understood, will seek by every means to impress upon the army and upon the general public the view that discharged under the conditions in no way reflects upon the character of the service a discharged officer has rendered and that in a majority of cases at least the army would much prefer to retain these officers' services.

Board members are understood to feel that there is little prospect of finding many officers now on the rolls who merit discharge. The army recently cleaned house in this regard on its own motion.

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

its pessimistics. There are men who say that Neff will go higher; that he will close his career in the senate of the United States, as the successor of Morris Sheppard. Neff does not say it. He has all he can handle where he is, but all men are ambitious and it is a noble honor to represent the people of any state in the senate of the United States. There the giants of other days made the upper house the great deliberative body of the world and there the giants of other days enriched the literature of American history and wrote into the statutes the laws of the republic.

TIME SPARES NO MAN. Charles A. Culberson has made this discovery as many statesmen have made it when it was too late. Like many other statesmen of heroic mould it was his ambition to die in harness. When he entered the senate old lions of the Confederacy represented many of the southern states. Long ago they were gathered to their fathers and long ago republican giants of politics and statecraft who were their contemporaries passed on to that world invisible. This is a world of change. An old civilization perished on Flanders Fields. It was shot to death by the rifle bearers of the democracies of the world.

TWO YEARS AGO WHEN THE political upheaval swept Warren G. Harding into the White House idealists said that the reactionary age had returned. They must have been mistaken. This was only two short years ago. Since early spring many notable political figures have been swept aside in American states and two great agricultural states, Iowa and Dakota, nominated farm labor republicans as the successors of two widely known conservative republicans. There is a farm bloc, which includes labor in many of the agricultural states and just the other day the progressives or radicals in the republican camp in Nebraska nominated for senator a man as radical in his economic beliefs as Brookhart of Iowa, Frazier of North Dakota or Capper of Kansas.

THERE ARE TWO TEXANS in the senatorial run-off who are members or former members of the old farmers' union. Their platforms are well known to the people. They are as radical in their economic beliefs as the farmers' bloc members of the middle west or the northwest. There is little difference, however. These two Texans are violent champions of the rights of the state. At least they say they are and as they are the winners of the run-off their spoken words must be taken as evidence of their political beliefs. Charles A. Culberson aided in the making of the policies and laws of the Wilson administration. Cullen F. Thomas defended these policies from every stump in Texas and made the league of nations and prohibition his paramount issue.

CULBERSON AND THOMAS ran third and fourth. Clarence Ousley and Robert Lee Henry lodly declared themselves for protection for all the products of the farm and ranch. They introduced a new issue into the politics of Texas. Mr. Ousley ran fifth and Mr. Henry ran sixth. There are as many kinds of democrats in Texas as there are blocs of voters in the city of New York. Texas has more than a million qualified voters. To be accurate, there are 1,250,000. There should have been 800,000 democratic ballots passed but the total will fall far below these figures.

DALLAS COUNTY HAS 53,000 qualified voters. Less than 25,000 cast democratic primary ballots. And the same conditions prevailed in Tarrant and Wichita and other counties where the voting population is large. There must be more than 400,000 voters in Texas who are very indifferent democrats or who do not train under the democratic standard. There were no economic issues which had a chance to be uppermost in the senatorial contest this year. They were issues which did not concern taxation, transportation, education, modern marketing or the conservation of flood waters. Governor Neff did stand for these issues. He made them paramount and his majority over all his opponents demonstrates that he knew just what he was doing.

Much Fertilizer Used on Cotton

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Commercial fertilizer was used on about 33 per cent of the cotton acreage this year or on about 11,500,000 acres, according to reports gathered by the United States department of agriculture. On these acreages 249 pounds of fertilizer were applied per acre on the average and the total fertilizer used was about 1,429,000 tons with an average value of $29.48 per ton, a total value of $42,121,000 and an average value of $3.69 an acre. North Carolina led all states in the application of commercial fertilizer to cotton production, having used 410 pounds to the crop there. Little commercial fertilizer was used west of the Mississippi.

CAVALRY HIKE IS CALLED OFF

(By International News Service.)

HOUSTON, July 24.—The hike of the Texas cavalry from the home of the various units to Camp Mabry, which recently was authorized, has been called off on account of existing conditions on the recommendations of Brigadier General Jacob C. Wolters, he announced this morning. The hike was scheduled to begin August 2. Cancelling the march will have no effect on the encampment of the Texas cavalry to be held at Camp Mabry August 16 to 30, General Wolters stated.

Wabash Shops at Moberly Opened

By Associated Press.

MOBERLY, Mo., July 24. — The 203rd anti-aircraft artillery units of the state national guard arrived here this evening to guard the shops of the Wabash railroad, the second largest of the system. The militia was equipped with rifles, side arms and machine guns and went on guard immediately upon arriving here.

Approximately 70 workmen were brought here last night to take the places of striking shopmen and several hundred more were reported on their way.

It is the first attempt the Wabash officials have made to operate the shops since the beginning of the strike.

LATE SPORTS

BIDD'S LAKE, N. J., July 24.—Benny Leonard believes he is at the highest form he ever will attain as a boxer. He rates Lew Tendler a lesser man than Rocky Kansas, but he is training as hard as he trained for his important matches of the past. That, he said today, is why he thinks he will knock out the Philadelphian before the seventh round of their lightweight championship tilt in Jersey City Thursday night.

Leonard today began tapering off for the bout with Tendler. When he finished the grind, the champion said he would have a thorough workout tomorrow, go through light exercises on Wednesday and do a little road work.

Reduction On Gas Follows Crude Oil Cut In Wichita Falls

GASOLINE NOW CUT TO 21 CENTS

Strike Is Delaying Deliveries

Gasoline took a two cent drop in Wichita Falls on Monday, practically all of the retail stations reporting a new price of 21 cents a gallon. One of the larger companies made the cut on Saturday, with the others meeting the cut Monday.

This is the first drop in gasoline since the cut in the mid-continent crude prices, which amounted to 50 cents a barrel, in two cuts.

Tank wagon gasoline is now quoted around 20 cents, with car lot prices ranging upward from 16 cents. The market is reported somewhat uneven, owing to the difficulty in getting gasoline shipments out of the local yards.

CASING LEAK IS DELAYING WELL

Kissinger No. 1 Has Oil Showing

Drilling in of the Sinclair Oil and Gas company's No. 1 Kissinger, an "across the river" extension of the 2,500 foot sand in the East Bunger pool, is being delayed on account of a slight casing leak, according to Monday night reports from the field. There are several hundred feet of oil in the hole, and every indication points to a nice producer when the well is finally drilled in. The sand was touched at 2,552 feet.

Latest reports from the Snowden and McSweeney test, not far from the Sinclair well, are not favorable, showing the test down below 2,600 feet without result. There remains, however, the lime nay, for which this section is yet untested.

In the north end of the pool, where the Foster and Barens producers on the Mahaney have been sensational developments of the past several weeks, a number of new locations have been made and this section promises to be one of the most active in the entire South Bend field in a short time.

EVERY COLOR STYLISH COLOR IN FALL HATS

Early fall and winter hats certainly look out of place in the show windows just now and it may sound strange to advise the purchase of one, but the time to buy a hat is when the selection is good and when one can get what just exactly suits them. Not to be worn just now, of course, but to put on the shelf in its box until the first cold fall day and then to have it ready. All hats in the early fall showing are "made hats." They do not come in felt shapes with trimmings of feather or flowers added, but are wonderfully tailored of Canton crepe, duvetyn, velour, plushes and a new satin called "Fezzi." Trimmings are favored when made of contrasting materials with braid and needle work, touched up with silver and gold. A hat does not "match" a suit, but should harmonize in color. Among the colors and shades favored are melon, ember red, which is a badly burnt orange, purple, lavender, lilac, toast brown, greys, blues and blacks. The early fall hats run mostly to the small tailored styles, for the large hat is most popular where there is much night life. In large cities they are favored for restaurant and cabaret wear and for afternoon parties.

Veils will still be good with plain shapes and for those who like the softening effect of a draped veil.

Lesson No. 28.

THE SINGLE SLIDE TUNER

(Copyright, 1922, United Feature Syndicate.)

The single slide tuning coil is the earliest and most simple deuvice used in radio telegraphy for tuning purposes. It is true that signals can be heard without the use of any tuning coil whatever, using only the aerial, ground detector, and head telephones, but such a receiver would not give the operator any choice of stations or selection of waves. A circuit of this sort is therefor impractical and of use only in an emergency.

INSERT CUT . . . enfosshtfi.

Drawing (A) in the above illustration shows the connections of the untuned circuit just mentioned. In drawing (B) are shown the connections of a single slide tuning coil circuit. The coil of wire in this position enables the operator, by means of the slider, to increase or decrease the number of turns of wire in the coil which are connected to the aerial and ground terminals. A glance at drawing (C) shows the effect the antenna has on the tuning coil other than that of intercepting the electromagnetic waves of distant transmitters. It is seen in drawing (C) that the aerial and ground have been replaced by a fixed condenser. The capacity of this condenser represents the capacity the aerial conductors have to the earth, or ground, which constitutes the other plate of the antenna—earth capacity. The air between the aerial and ground is the dielectric. The inductance of the tuning coil is thus seen to be connected across a capacity which makes possible the tuning of electromagnetic waves of any frequency within the limits of the coil.

It has previously been explained that when alternating current was flowing in a circuit containing inductance (inductance reactance), and capacity (capacity reactance), that the effect of the inductance was to retard or cause a lagging of the current behind the force (voltage) which causes it to flow; also that the effect of capacity was the reverse of this, that is, capacity tends to force the current ahead or to lead the force (voltage, causing the current to flow. These two effects being opposite could when brought together, be made to neutralize. This neutralization of reactance is "tuning."

It can be clearly stated now that the adjustment of the inductance or turns of wire on the coil, can be made to neutralize the reactance of the antenna capacity for any desired frequency. As frequency is indicative of wave length, it can now be seen that the adjustment of the single slide coil permits the tuning of any wave length within the limits of the coil.

In the interest of those who are considering the construction of a single slide tuning coil, the following general statements will give sufficient practical information. First, any size of tubing may be used. However, the smaller the diameter the greater the length must be for the same wavelength ranges. A diameter approximating two and three-quarter inches is a good average. Second, any size of wire may be used but efficiency, wear, and resistance recommend the use of wire sizes between No. 24 and No. 18, the larger sizes within this range being more practical. Third, the number of turns of wire for the same wave length range will be greater the smaller the diameter of the windings (tube). Assuming a diameter averaging from two and one-half to three inches, it will be found that 10 turns of wire for every 100 meters wavelength range will be a fairly practical estimate. Thus, to tune 400 meters use about 40 turns. To tune to 3,000 meters, use about 300 turns. This is not a hard and fast rule, but gives approximate correct values.

FREDERICK HAS HOT CAMPAIGN

Location of School Arouses Interest

Special to the Record News.

FREDERICK, Okla., July 21.—One of the hottest primary election contests in Tillman county will be the county commissioner race in district No. 1, or the Tipton district. The recent re-registration in that district shows more registrations than the district has ever polled in votes in any past election.

The interest results from a contest over location of a consolidated school, which in the last two years has run the gamut of the courts and was recently finally decided by the supreme court of the state. Ben Brisley, a well known farmer, is opposing the present incumbent, O. C. Ball, protagonist of the new school.

By The Associated Press.

CLEBURNE, Texas, July 24.—Sheriff W. W. Miller of Johnson county announced today he would put deputies on every road in the county in an effort to stop deportation or whipping of men coming here to take the places of striking railroad shopmen. Reports that eight men had been spirited from the county in the past 24 hours were current in Cleburne this afternoon but could not be verified. Some of the men taken away, according to the reports, had been whipped or beaten before released. Sheriff Miller said he hoped to be able to stop to practices reported by guarding the roads and stopping the parties concerned.

Dismiss Charges Against Stoneham

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Charles A. Stoneham, president of the New York National baseball club and a former stock broker, charged by F. R. Wilson of McLeansboro, Ill., with violation of a section of the penal code, which proclaims that brokers must furnish their customers with statements of stock transactions, was discharged by Magistrate George W. Simpson in Tombs court today.

The defendant testified that he, as head of the firm of Charles A. Stoneham and company, wound up the affairs of his stock brokerage in May, 1921, transferring Wilson's account for 800 shares of Studebaker stock to Hughes and Dier. Later the account was transferred to the firm of E. D. Dier and company, which recently failed with heavy liabilities.

KIRBY "WELL THOUGHT OF"

COL. JOHN HENRY KIRBY of Texas has been named by President Harding as deputy commissioner general of the American-Brazilian centennial commission and the management of the work of the commission in the United States will be directed by the Texan. According to Washington correspondents, in making the appointment, President Harding let it be known that the white house thought well of Colonel Kirby. Colonel Kirby is a native Texan. He is a multi-millionaire. He has vast lumber and oil interests. He is the founder of the Southern Tariff association. He has taken a deep interest in the development of South American trade. He has been a member of the commission for a year or more. He has never cashed a salary voucher. He has bunched the vouchers in his safe and at the proper time he will hand the bunch over to the director of one of his pet charities. There is one thing that must be said for the colonel.

He never hoards his money.

He isn't a miser.

He loves to be in the lead and a doer of things.

Just now he is doing his best to convert the democrats of the south to the protective tariff doctrine preached by Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts and other republican congressional leaders who hail from New England or the coal and iron states of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Ohio and Illinois. Colonel Kirby has made the discovery that Thomas Jefferson was the original protectionist, Andrew Jackson held to the faith, Grover Cleveland attempted to tear down the custom houses, Woodrow Wilson became a free trader and Thomas B. Love is attempting to place a free trade ring in the nose of the democratic donkey. Otherwise the colonel is all right. Here's hoping he will have a grand old time next summer in the city of Rio Janerio when the Brazilians celebrate their centennial. There are five German states in the republic of Brazil where the people have been the rulers since old Emperor Don Pedro was kicked from the throne and the throne itself sold to a dealer in junk. Flowers for the livin'. Don Pedro is dead.

HARDING AND HOWELL

PRESIDENT HARDING is the author of the ship subsidy bill now pending. He did not introduce the bill, but he suggested it and he is its principal backer. Nebraska republicans have nominated R. B. Howell as their candidate for United States senator. Howell denounced the ship subsidy in every speech he made during the campaign. He denounced the machination of Newberry in every speech during the campaign. He declared himself to be a thorough-going progressive who believed in the principles of the farm bloc and the legislation that the bloc demanded. There were three so-called progressives in the race with Congressman Albert W. Jefferies running as the candidate of the Harding administration and the conservative republicans of Nebraska. If all the republicans who call themselves progressive had voted for Howell his majority over the Harding candidate would have been 60,000 to 70,000. There may be another realignment of American voters in 1924. Party ties sit lightly. All the old issues appear to be dead issues.

IS IT A SHOWDOWN?

A FINISH fight against the striking railroad shopmen has been decided upon by the heads of 40 eastern railroads. They have concluded there was nothing left to do but to carry on a wearing down struggle in which the side that can hold out longest will win. And it goes without saying that the side that can hold out the longest is the side in control of the longest purse and the largest bank account. A year ago it was announced by those high in authority that the showdown is coming. Now the showdown appears to be here. This is a government of law and those who keep within the law are going to win the strike. There is a railroad labor board. It is a creature of congress. This board ordered the wage reduction. Now the rail executives are shrewd enough to say that it is not a strike against the railroads, but a strike against an order of a government tribunal. And there is where they have the strikers on the hip.

It would be fine, as the communists say, if every man could get all that is coming to him. But it might require enlarging the jails.

DR. CRANE EDITORIAL

THE WONDER BIRD

THE other day a ship sailed up the Thames to London bearing a huge collection of specimens from the ends of the earth and the islands of the sea for the London zoological gardens.

One collection which was brought was amazingly beautiful. It was a number of Birds of Paradise.

Man is very ingenious and has wrought some beautiful things. He has built temples like the Milan cathedral and monuments like the Taj Mahal. He has carved statues, painted pictures, woven cloths, and cut jewels which amaze us for their charm and ingenuity.

But he has done nothing to compare with the work of nature's skilful fingers.

He has never made so lovely a thing as a rose, a palpitating butterfly, a warbling canary, or a mechanism like the human body, with its superintricate machinery that works itself.

He has painted nothing that can compare to a sunset, and no canvas he has covered with colors can equal the message of the dawn.

While the contemplation of the smallest insect gives us a smattering idea of nature's consummate skill, yet when we look at such a creature as the Bird of Paradise the wonder is more palpable to our stupid senses.

"The Bird of Paradise is a prismatic fountain of feathers," says Mr. Mainland. "Some are sprays of jewelled plumes. Others have ribbons, crests, streamers or feathered shields."

It is natural that legends should grow around such superb creatures and Mr. Mainland tells us some of them.

It was said that they never left the air when they were dead, but flewup toward the sun. They could float on zephyrs and the female laid her eggs on the back of the male and sat on them till they were hatched. They lived on the pure dews of heaven, catching the drops before they were fouled by touching the earth.

Most of the old naturalists agreed that they had no feet. Even the great Linnaeus, father of scientific classification, immortalized the legend by calling the Bird of Paradise "Paradisea Apoda." Apodea means footless.

Dr. Wallace, a noted collector, tells us that one of the most gorgeous sights a man can see is a "dancing party" of the Red Bird of Paradise when the adult males flock to a single tree. He writes:

"A dozen or twenty full-plumaged birds assemble together, raise up their wings, stretch out their necks, and elevate their exquisite plumes, keeping them in a continual vibration.

"Between whiles they fly across from branch to branch in a state of great excitement so that the whole tree is filled with waving plumes in every variety of attitude and motion."

It is at these "dancing parties" that the natives shoot the birds with blunt arrows for the European market.

It is the male, however, who has all this adornment. The female bird is a quiet, dowdy, crow-like creature, dressed in dull chocolate or brown.

WHY WORRY?

PRICE of coal is going up. Price of gasoline is going down. Price of foodstuffs are going up. Price of labor is going down. There is a coal strike on. There is a rail strike on. But why worry? All these things have happened before. They've been happening ever since civilization began. They will continue to happen until civilization dies. Man came a long time ago. He has been coming ever since. He has been thousands of years traveling thus far.

He has thousands of years to travel before he approaches the stage of near perfection. If it isn't one thing it is another.

Every seven years a new spasm or ism hits the people. After the spasm or ism dies out or burns out they are rational for a time. Then they start in again. When in doubt, say nothing and saw wood. It is safer and conducive and longevity.

William Allen White of Kansas, in midsummer, decided to grab the center of the stage as the champion of free speech. Now he has started something in Kansas.

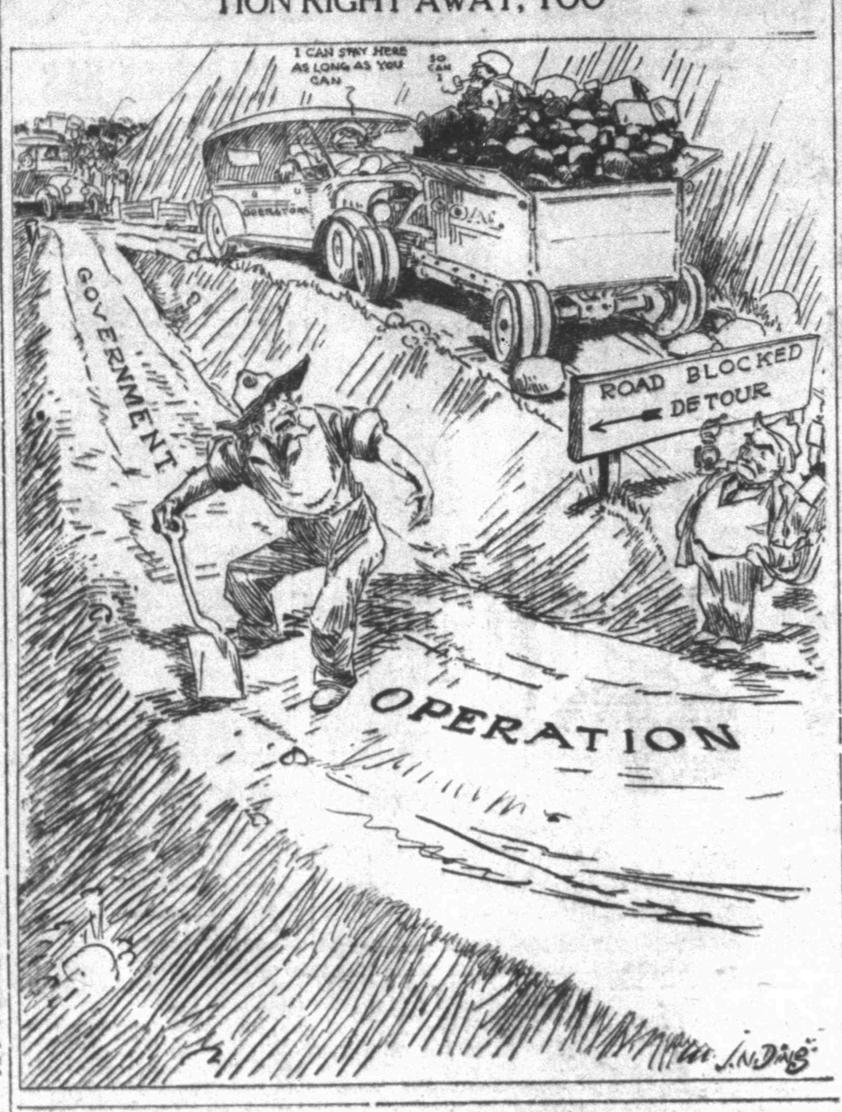

Rippling Rhymes

TOO ACTIVE

"My wife is too blamed energetic," admitted Hiram Dingbat West; "she thinks I am a sight pathetic because I'd fold my hands and rest. With mop and broom and feather duster she gallops on her course insane, and when I'd sleep I cannot trust her a decent silence to maintain. She's always scrubbing door or casement, or packing chairs from room to room, or hanging washings in the basement, until she fills my soul with gloom. She fills the house with sound and fury, she makes existence a distress; and yet there is no judge or jury who would not call her a success. She launders well, and she's a winner at making comforts for the beds, and if you want a well-cooked dinner she's surely there, on non-skid treads. Of all the virtues she's the owner, and I should speak of her with pride; my neighbors say I pulled no boner when she was chosen as my bride. And yet I often dream of Daisy, another girl I might have wed, a drowsy maid, so all-fired lazy she wouldn't even comb her head. With such a wife a man might idle through long and slumbrous afternoons, but she was taken to the bridal by Grocer Griggs, who deals in prunes. Because she's lazy he keeps knocking, and grief and care have made him gaunt; and thus we see that life is shocking—we do not get the wives we want."

THEY'LL SAVE A LOT OF TIME BY STARTING CONTION RIGHT AWAY, TOO

DOGHILL PARAGRAFS

By GEORGE BINGHAM

Frisby Hancock has been keeping house for a week while his family was visiting her folks on Musket Ridge, and he has now used up all the dishes and cooking vessels except one spoon.

Miss Peachie Sims spent the week end at Tickville, and the Tidings gave her a nice notice, saying she was beautiful and charming. Miss Flutie Belcher read it and remarked that the papers certainly do print a lot of things that are not so.

Six or seven flies accidentally escaped from the Tickville Cafe Saturday afternoon, but finally got back in.

The Once Over

YACHT CLUBS

A yacht club is a small body of boat owners entirely surrounded by dues-paying members who sit in green rocking chairs wondering what it is all about and urging that the steward be fired and replaced by one who will sell gin on the quiet.

Half of one per cent, of the members of the average yacht club own yachts. These members chain their boats in front of the clubhouse and spend the entire summer going back and forth between their yachts and the club by rowboat or power dinghy. They seem never to tire of doing this. At the end of each season a pewter cup is given the yachtsman who has made the greatest number of non-stop trips between the float and his craft.

Once in a great while some yachtsman, after rowing to his yacht, unhitches the thing, hoists sail or cranks the engine, and starts away. Members of the Rocking Chair Fleet startled by the spectacle of a yacht really under way, report the incident to the board of governors.

Whereupon the other yacht owners hop into their white pants, grab their binoculars, dash to their own yachts, and start in pursuit determined to find out where the missing yachtsman is going. This is called a cruise.

A yacht club is one of the few institutions of modern civilization opened and closed by gunfire. Every yacht club has as one of its indispensable possessions a small brass cannon. This is fired twice a day and serves, among other things, to let the world know that the club is still solvent.

One shot is fired at 8 o'clock every morning. This notifices the seven or eight men aboard boats that another day has rolled round.

For visiting yachtsmen it is the first call for bromo seltzer and aromatic spirits.

The second shot is fired at sunset. This notifies the entire membership that each member is a day older, and that all drinking from that hour on comes under the head of regular evening business.

The active head of a yacht club is called a commodore. A commodore is a cross between a humidor and a matador. He has to be kept damp like a humidor and bull-throwing like a matador. To be a commodore you have to be a subscriber to four boating magazines, own a boat that will float of its own free will, and carry your liquor gracefully.

In most clubs a commodore's boat must draw at least seven feet of water, and the commodore must draw at least six feet of gin.

Yachtsmen are sticklers for doing things in a way to puzzle people who have never ridden in anything but taxicabs. They even tell time by clocks that strike the wrong number of times. After a few years of practice with a ship's clock a person can tell time by fire alarm, churchbell, or orchestral chimes.

Yachtsmen also use flags or pennants for communication purposes. No yacht is complete without a chest of flags. Nobody knows exactly what any combination of flags means, but the skipper who hangs them up is sure to get an answer. The code runs something like this:

Blue flag with red circle hung above white flag with green star: "I am coming aboard."

Pink flag with four blue dots over a black flag with red cross: "The owner is absent."

Red flag with three gold balls in center: "The owner is in hock. Will sell ship, uniform, binoculars, and year's subscription to the Rudder for $45. All communications confidential."

Three plain white flags under six purple flags: "The owner is aboard."

Six purple flags under three white flags: "The owner is in no condition to know whether he is aboard or ashore."

Twelve red and black flags, over 14 orange flags with black centers, with six white streamers between and 42 red and green pennants atop the mast: "Have you gotta match?"

"When you meet a charming stranger do not take too confidently to him. He may be in very urgent need of that dollar you have in your pocket.

One way to make a living is to find a job of real work and make connections with a good pay roll through the job.

The Mucker

By EDGAR RICE BURROUGHS

And at the ranchhouse "hell was popping." The moment Bridge realized that some of the attackers had reached the veranda he called the surviving Mexican and the Chinaman to follow him to the lower floor where they might stand a better chance to repel this new attack. Mr. Harding he persuaded to remain upstairs.

Outside a dozen men were battering to force an entrance. Already one panel had splintered, and as Bridge entered the room he could see the figures of the bandits through the hole they had made. Raising his rifle he fired through the aperture. There was a scream as one of the attackers dropped; but the others only increased their efforts, their oaths, and their threats of vengeance.

The three defenders poured a few rounds through the sagging door, then Bridge noted that the Chinaman ceased firing.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

At the same instant the Mexican threw down his carbine and rushed for a window on the opposite side of the room. His ammunition was exhausted and with it had departed his courage. Flight seemed the only course remaining. Bridge made no effort to stop him. He would have been glad to fly, too; but he could not leave Anthony Harding, and he was sure that the older man would prove unequal to any sustained flight on foot.

"You better go, too, Sing," he said to the Chinaman, placing another bullet through the door; "there's nothing more that you can do, and it may be that they are all on this side now—I think they are. You fellows have fought splendidly. Wish I could give you something more substantial than thanks; but that's all I have now and shortly Pesita won't even leave me that much."

"Alle light," replied Sing cheerfully, and a second later he was clambering through the window in the wake of the loyal Mexican.

And then the door crashed in and half a dozen troopers followed by Pesita himself burst into the room.

Bridge was standing at the foot of the sairs, his carbine clubbed, for he had just spent his last bullet. He knew that he must die; but he was determined to make them purchase his life as dearly as he could, and to die in defense of Anthony Harding, the father of the girl he loved, even though hopelessly.

Pesita saw from the American's attitude that he had no more ammunition. He struck up the carbine of a trooper who was about to shoot Bridge down.

"Wait!" commanded the bandit. "Cease firing! His ammunition is gone. Will you surrender?" he asked of Bridge.

"Not until I have beaten from the heads of one or two of your friends," he replied, "that which their egotism leads them to imagine are brains. No if you take me alive, Pesita, you will have to kill me to do it."

Pesita shrugged. "Very well," he said, indifferently, "it makes little good as a wall. These brave defenders of the liberty of poor, bleeding Mexico will make an excellent firing squad. Attention, my children! Ready! Aim!"

Eleven carbines were leveled at Bridge. In the ghastly light of early dawn the sallow complexions of the Mexicans took on a weird hue. The American made a wry face, a slight shudder shook his slender frame and then he squared his shoulders and looked Pesita smilingly in the face.

The figure of a man appeared at the window through which the Chinaman and the loyal Mexican had escaped. Quick eyes took in the scene within the room.

"Hey!" he yelled. "Cut the rough stuff!" and leaped into the room.

Pesita, surprised by the interruption, turned toward the intruder before he had given the command to fire. A smile lit his features when he saw who it was.

"Ah!" he exclaimed, "my dear Captain Byrne. Just in time to see a traitor and a spy pay the penalty for his crimes."

"Nothin' doin'," growled Billy Byrne, and then he threw his carbine to his shoulder and took careful aim at Pesita's face.

How easy it would have been to have hesitated a moment in the window before he made his presence known—just enough for Pesita to speak the single word that would have sent eleven bullet speeding into the body of the man who loved Barbara and whom Billy believed the girl loved. But did such a though occur to Billy Byrne of Grand Avenue? It did not. He forgot every other consideration beyond his loyalty to a friend. Bridge and Pesita were looking at him in wide-eyed astonishment.

"Lay down your carbines!" Billy shot his command at the firing squad. "Lay 'em down or I'll bore Pesita. Tell 'em to lay 'em down, Pesita. I gotta head on your becser."

Pesita did as he was bid, his yellow face pasty with rage.

"Now their cartridge belts!" snapped Billy, and when these had been deposited upon the floor he told Bridge to disarm the bandit chief.

"Is Mr. Harding safe?" he asked of Bridge, and receiving an affirmatives he called upstairs for the older man to descend.

As Mr. Harding reached the foot of the stairs Barbara entered the room by the window through which Billy had come—a window which opened upon the side veranda.

"Now we gotta hike," announced Billy. "It won't never be safe for none of you here after this, not even if you do think Villa's your friend—which he ain't the friend to no American."

"We know that now," said Mr. Harding, and repeated to Billy that which the telephone operator had told him earlier in the day.

Marching Pesita and his men ahead of them Billy and the others made their way to the rear of the office building where the horses of the bandits were tethered. They were each armed now from the discarded weapons of the raiders, and well supplied with ammunition. The Chinaman and the loyal Mexican also discovered themselves when they learned that the tables had been turned upon Pesita. They too, were armed and all were mounted, and when Billy had loaded the remaining weapons upon the balance of the horses the party rode away, driving Pesita's livestock and arms ahead of them.

"I imagine," remarked Bridge, "that you've rather discouraged pursuit for a while at least;" but pursuit came sooner than they had anticipated.

They had reached a point on the river not far from Jose's when a band of horsemen appeared approaching from the west. Billy urged his party to greater speed that they might avoid a meeting if possible; but it soon became evident that the strangers had no intention of permitting them to go unchallenged, for they altered their course and increased their speed so that they were soon bearing down upon the fugitives at a rapid gallop.

"I guess," said Billy, "that we'd better open up on 'em. It's a cinch they ain't no friends of ours anywhere in these parts."

"Hadn't we better wait a moment," said Mr. Harding; "we do not want to chance making any mistake."

"It ain't never a mistake to shoot a Dago," replied Billy. His eyes were fastened upon the approaching horsemen, and he presently gave an exclamation of recognition. "There's Rozales," he said. "I couldn't mistake that beanpole nowheres. We're safe enough in takin' a shot at 'em if Rosie's with 'em. He's Pesita's head guy," and he drew his revolver and took a single shot in the direction of his former comrades. Bridge followed his example. The oncoming Pesitas reined in. Billy returned his revolver to its holster and drew his carbine.

"You ride on ahead," he said to Mr. Harding and Barbara, "Bridge and I'll bring up the rear."

Then he stopped his pony and turning took deliberate aim at the knot of horsemen to their left. A bandit tumbled from his saddle and the fight was on.

Fortunately for the Americans Rozales had but a handful of men with him and Rozales himself was never keen for a fight in the open.

All morning he hovered around the rear of the escaping Americans; but neither side did much damage to the other and during the afternoon Billy noticed that Rozales merely followed within sight of them, after having dispatched one of his men back in the direction from which they had come.

"After reinforcements," commented Byrne.

"All day they rode without meeting with any roving bands of soldiers or bandits, and the explanation was all too sinister to the Americans when coupled with the knowledge that Villa was to attack an American town that night.

"I wish we could reach the border in time to warn 'em," said Billy; "but they ain't no chance. If we cross before sunup tomorrow morning we'll be doin' well."

He had scarcely spoken to Barbara Harding all day, for his duties as rear guard had kept him busy; nor had he conversed much with Bridge, though he had often eyed the latter whose gaze wandered many times to the slender, graceful figure of the girl ahead of them.

Billy was thinking as he never had thought before. It seemed to him a cruel fate that had so shaped their destinies that his best friend loved the girl Billy loved. That Bridge was ignorant of Billy's infatuation for her the latter well knew. He could not blame Bridge, nor could he, upon the other hand, quite reconcile himself to the more than apparent adoration which marked his friend's attitude toward Barbara.

As daylight waned the fugitives realized from the shuffling gait of their mounts, from drooping heads and dull eyes that rest was imperative. They themselves were fagged, too, and when a ranchhouse loomed in front of them they decided to halt for much-needed recuperation.

Here they found three Americans who were totally unaware of Villa's contemplated raid across the border, and who when they were informed of it were doubly glad to welcome six extra carbines, for Barbara not only was armed but was eminently qualified to expend ammunition without wasting it.

Rozales and his small band halted out of range of the ranch; but they went hungry while their quarry fed themselves and their tired mounts.

TODAY'S POEM

WE KNOW.

We know that doubt shall cease, and feeble terror;
That Thou wilt wipe all tears from every eye;
That Thine Almighty Truth shall vanquish error,
And death itself shall die!
We know that this shall be
Therefore we trust in Thee,
And pour in balm to human hearts that bleed;
And bring the broken and the bruised to-day,
And say, Rejoice! Rejoice!
For Truth is strong.
Exalt ye every voice
In one triumphant song—
For Truth is God and Truth shall make you free!
Evil is but a lie—Good is eternity!

Little Stories For Bedtime

MRS. BULLY ARRIVES IN THE OLD ORHARD.

All the rest of that day after Jenny Wren had told her neighbors in the Old Orchard of what Bully the English Sparrow had said to her when she asked him who he was and how he had told her that when he found which house suited him best he should take it even if somebody did happen to be living in it, there was a great deal of angry talk. Whenever any of the feathered folk happened to meet Bully as he flew about the Old Orchard they held their heads very high and pretended not to see him at all. At first Bully didn't mind this, but when Welcome Robin made an unkind remark about strangers Bully suddenly darted up behind Welcome Robin and plucked two feathers from the back of his head before he realized what was happening.

After that the little people in the Old Orchard were very careful what they said when Bully was near, but among themselves they said the very worst things they could think of about him. Some were for driving him away from the Old Orchard at once. They said that no one had invited him to come there, and that he had no business there. But others said that it would be better to wait until he really did something that would give them an excuse for driving him out. As yet he had done nothing but talk, and talk wouldn't hurt them. Perhaps when they knew him better they would find him a whole lot better than he appeared now.

So it was decided to wait, and meanwhile they would have nothing to do with this bold, untidy stranger. But if they left him very much to himself they watched him sharply, and every move he mad was reported and talked over. You see, two or three were a little anxious because of that statement that when he found a house to suit him he would take it. Not that they were afraid. Oh, my, no! They just didn't want to have a fuss and get all mussed up, and that was bound to happen if he chose one of their houses. But the day closed without any sign from Bully as to where he proposed to live, and there were several signs of thankfulness that night.

Very early the next morning, very early indeed, the Old Orchard was [illegible] by a pair of high-pitched voices talking in great excitement. [illegible] hurried out to see what it meant. They were not long in finding out. Mrs. Bully had arrived!! Yes, sir, Mrs. Bully had come to join Bully, and it was quite plain that he was telling her all that he had found out about the Old Orchard. She wasn't pretty, not a bit. In fact she was quite as untidy looking as he and not nearly as well dressed. Those who had turned up their noses at Bully's looks turned them still higher when they saw Mrs. Bully. And her voice was just as cheap and unpleasant as his.

Trim, neat, little Jenny Wren said that Mrs. Bully was a disgrace to the Old Orchard, and that nobody who too ksuch little care of her own person could ever be a good housekeeper. There were others who thought the same thing, even though they didn't say so. But Bully and Mrs. Bully paid no attention to anybody else. They acted just as if there was no one else in the Old Orchard.

"It's a very nice place and I think you'll like it, my dear," said Bully. "There is plenty of room, and there are several very nice houses. I'll show them to you after breakfast. Then we'll move right into the one you like best."

Mrs. Bully seemed rather cross. Perhaps it was because she was tired and hungry after her journey from the city. Anyway, she didn't seem to be paying much attention to what Bully was saying, and presently both flew over to Farmer Brown's henyard, where the chickens were being given their breakfast.

NEXT STORY—MR. AND MRS. BULLY GO HOUSE HUNTING.

Traders Paying More Attention To Strike Troubles

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The progressive reactionary tone of today's stock market clearly indicated that greater consideration was being given by traders and the public to adverse factors, notably the coal and rail strikes.

Dispatches from western centers declared that labor troubles were making increased inroads upon general business although railroad tonnage held close to the preceding week's total. The confidence of investors at interior points also seemed on the wan.

Prices Unsettled

Prices held fairly steady at the outset, but soon became unsettled on renewed selling of motors and their subsidiaries.

Reversals later encompassed the oils and many unclassified specialties finally extending to rails.

Weakness among the motors again was mainly due to Pierce-Arrow common and preferred, where additional severe losses were attended by more circumstantial report regarding the company's financial standing. Chandler was under constant pressure with Studebaker and the market for all motors was "thin."

Mexican Petroleum resisted the early setback in oils, but gave way in the final hour when most of the domestic division, especially California Petroleum, Sinclair and Standard Oil of New Jersey were freely offered with Mexican seaboard.

FASHIONS

Smart and Practical is This Little Frock

Made of flannel, a heavy sports silk or linen, the little tailored frock shown here would be very smart. It is a one piece model with a scalloped peplum set on to simulate a coat, and the touch of contrasting color carried in the binding of all the edges adds to the charm of the outfit. Sports shoes either in all white or in white with a touch of the frock's trimming color carried in the piping or a fringed tongue might accompany the frock with very good effect.

The vogue for knited sports dresses continues this season, and the frock might be of a knitted fabric either in silk or wool with self fabric bindings in contrasting color.

A sports dress for fall, made of a knitted fabric, recently imported and copied by an American manufacturer, shows a low waist line much like the one sketched with full length panels of self fabric in contrasting color set in on either side of front or back. The dress has a side fastening and long slightly flared sleeves also finished with inset panels of the material in contrasting color runing their full length on top.

The circular skirt is unquestionably destined to make a strong bid for favor for fall and winter appearing in both day and evening frocks. The circular skirt is the most noticeable new feature of fall apparel so far displayed, the general trend otherwise being in close keeping with styles featured and approved during the past several seasons. The straight silouette continues to be the dominant one, regardless of the circular skirt vogue, and this straight silhouette is emphasized by the greatly increased skirt length.

As to fabrics, crepe weaves are still in high favor and there is to be a great leaning to satin finished materials.

NEW ORLEANS, July 24.—After advances of about a dollar a bale in the early trading today, cotton fell off sharply under selling stimulated by a private condition report which placed the percentage at 73.5, a figure considerably higher than most traders and brokers ahd been thinking of as probable for the present stage of the crop. The decline continued into the late trading when the active months were 52 to 58 points under the last prices of Saturday. October standing at 20.78, as compared with 21.58 at the highest of the day. On the close the market was steadier and prices showed net losses on the day of 46 to 50 points, October closing at 20.83.

NEW YORK BONDS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, July 24.—The activity and strength of liberty issues again made dealings in the bond market noteworthy today. New Maximums were made by the 3½s at 101.08, first 4s at 101.30, second 4s at 100.80, second 4¼s, 101, and fourth 4¼s at 101.68.

Foreign loans were uneven, fractional gains in French government 8s and several of the French municipals being offset by heaviness in Mexican 4s and 5s, Argentine 5s and Japanese first 4½s. Guided largely by the reactionary course of the stock lost, many domestic rails eased fractionally to one point, notably Union Pacific 4s, Erie general 4s, St. Louis and San Francisco incomes, Atchison general 4s and Chesapeake & Ohio convertible 4½s.

Industrials owed their moderate strength to sugars, which were more responsive to better trade conditions, but utilities, including local tractions, gave way to pressure. Total sales (par value) aggregated $12,421,000.

New underwritings of the day embraced the Virginia Carolina Chemical $12,500,000, 15-year, 7½ per cent convertible bonds and city of New Orleans $1,400,000, 4½ per cent paving certificate issue.

CANTALOUPES ON SALE HERE

Home Grown Produce Sells Well

Monday's farm market was featured by a big supply of home grown cantaloupes which brought the prices down slightly although on the whole the prices stayed around the 60 cent level which was the low range for Saturday. Watermelons held their own, according to size, ranging from $3 to $4.50 per dozen.

Home grown roasting ears are getting scarcer and scarcer on the market. The supply Monday was not nearly so plentiful as it was the latter part of last week and the grade was not as good. A great deal of the corn being offered now is in reality too old.

S. S. S. Fills Out Hollow Cheeks, Thin Limbs!

Men and women,—whether you will ever build yourself up to your normal, just-right weight depends on the number of blood-cells in your blood. That's all there is to it. It's a scientific fact. If your blood-cell factory isn't working right, you will be run-down, thin, your blood will be in disorder, and perhaps your face will be broken out with pimples, blackheads and eruptions. S. S. S. keeps your blood-cell factory working full time. It helps build new blood-cells. That's why S. S. S. builds up thin, run-down people, it puts firm flesh on your bones, it rounds out your face, arms neck, limbs, the whole body. It puts the "pink" in your cheeks. It takes the hollowness from the eyes, and it fools Father Time by smoothing out wrinkles in man and women by "plumping" them up. S. S. S. is a remarkable blood-purifier. While you are getting plump, your skin eruptions, pimples, blackheads, acne, rheumatism, rash, etter, blotches are being removed. The medicinal ingredients of S. S. S. are guaranteed purely vegetable. S. S. S. is sold at all drug stores, in two sizes. The larger size is the more economical.

PAINS SO BAD WOULD GO TO BED

Two Women Tell How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Stopped Their Suffering

Iron Mountain, Mich.—"I had terrible pains every month and at times had to go to bed on account of them. I saw your advertisement and took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound with very good results. I can work all day long now at my sick time. You may use these facts as a testimonial and I am recommending the Vegetable Compound to my friends."—Mrs. A. H. GARLAND, 218 E. Brown St., Iron Mountain, Michigan.

Xenia, Ohio.—"Every month I had such pains in my back and lower part of my abdomen that I could not lie quietly in bed. I suffered for about five years that way and I was not regular either. I read an advertisement of what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for other women, so I decided to try it. Itsurely has helped me a lot, as I have no pains now and am regular and feeling fine."—Mrs. MARY DALE, Route 7, Xenia, Ohio.

If you suffer as did Mrs. Garland or Mrs. Dale, you should give this well-known medicine a thorough trial.

Pat Flaherty Blanks Crabs With 4 Hits to Sweep Series

SPUDDERS DRAW UP STILL IN FIFTH PLACE BUT ONLY TWO GAMES BEHIND LEADERS

More Major League Hurling Backed by Hitting Attack Knocks Galveston from Top; Summa Breaks Out Again on Hitting Spree; Flaherty Knocks with Runners On.

By "SPIKE" COOPER

Pat Flaherty bowed to Spudder fans yesterday afternoon in his debut and in turn the Sand Crabs bowed to him as he blanked the league leaders 8-0 with four hits for the final and sweeping game of the series.

It was Pat's game all the way. He was never in danger and allowed but one runner to advance to third base and on that occasion two hitters had already been retired. Four lonely singles did Pat allot the Crabs, two of which came in the seventh with two down. In addition he delivered the necessary knock with runners aboard and accounted for three of the Spudder runs.

Manager Newnam sent Devinney, his spitballer, to the mound, but he failed to weather the storm, and was derricked in the fourth for Pierotti. The latter fared little better and yielded up half the runs counted.

Summa returned to the hit column after Sunday's vacation and turned in a triple and a pair of singles for the day. He counted two of the runs as well.

By virtue of the win yesterday, the Spudders took undisputed possession of the fifth place in the standing. Houston, suffering defeat at the hands of Fort Worth. The Cats again took the lead, but are only two full games in front of the Wichita hard-nine, and Galveston are their guests today. Despite seven straight losses, the Spudders have battled their way toward the top at an irresistable clip which has its promises. Another week is going to show a different standing to that of today.

Art Weiss again pulled a hair-raiser when he went over into right field and nigh the fence to take Eibel's nearest semblance of hit. It was a great catch and the youth was gladhanded as he came in.

Flaherty Pleases Fans

But the fans, and a banner Monday crowd they were too, had more than eyes and ears for Flaherty. His curve ball was breaking deceptively and six hitters shared the fate of whiffing. Pat unlimbered a fast one occasionally just to demonstrate his ability. His work was smooth and deliberate all the way and he toyed with hitters at his will. The confidential smile never left his lips and he continued to "pour it on 'em" with precision and regularity.

Houston comes today for a stay in the local lot.

First Inning

Distel fanned. Moore shot a single to left center. Hendricks popped out to Adams. White threw Connolly out at first.

Second Inning

Eibel drove to the fence in right center, but Weiss took the ball after a hard run. Thrash singled to left. Brown walked, but was forced at second when Griffith bounced one off Flaherty's shins which Adams recovered in time to throw to White. Devinney forced Griffith at second, Adams to White.

Summa led off with a triple against the right center fence. Weiss gorunded fiercely to Connolly, and was out at first, Summa holding third. Beck popped out to Hendricks. White grounded out to Eibel.

Third Inning

Distel flied to Weiss. Moore fouled out to Tanner. Hendricks popped to White.

Bischoff dropped a Texas leaguer behind third and took second when the ball rolled toward the foul line. Flaherty whiffed. Bescher was out, Connolly to Eibel, Bischoff going to third. Tanner was out Distel to Eibel.

Fourth Inning

Connolly walked. Eibel sacrificed and Connolly took second. Thrash lined to White and Connolly was doubled off second.

Fifth Inning

Brown was out, Adams to Beck. Griffith fanned. Pierotti drove one between White's feet, but Distel flied out to Bescher.

Summa got his third hit, a single to center. Weiss fouled out to third. Beck doubled against the right field fence and Summa scored. White and Bischoff walked again filling the bags. Flaherty sent a drive over second which Distel speared with one hand to throw him out at first, but Beck scored. Bescher tripled to center and White and Bischoff counted. Tanner flied out to Brown.

Sixth Inning

Moore fanner. Hendricks flied to Summa. Connolly fanned.

Adams was out, pitcher to first. Summa lined out to center. Weiss fanned.

Seventh Inning

Eibel fanned. Thrash was out, White to Beck. Brown singled past Tanner. Griffith singled to right, but Pierotti was out at first when Pat covered the bag on a grounder to Beck.

Beck flied out to center. White sent Thrash to the fence after a drive to the wall. Bischoff was out, Distel to first on a nice stop.

Eighth Inning

Distel fanned. Moore was out, Adams to Beck. Hendricks grounded to Beck and Flaherty covered the bag.

Flaherty singled to left, his second hit of the game. Bescher hit into a double play when he grounded to Distel. Tanner was out, Distel to Eibel.

Ninth Inning

Connolly popped to White. Eibel grounded to Beck, who made a nice stop and got the runner himself. Thrash filed to Bescher.

IOWA PARK TRIMS ELECTRA SUNDAY

The Iowa Park team of the Oil Belt league defeated the Electra All-Stars at Electra Sunday, 11 to 4. The game was one of the best that has been staged by amateur clubs this year. The pitching of Warren for Iowa Park was of a caliber that is seldom seen outside professional ball. Two of the eight hits counted off of him were due to errors by the outfielders.

Ray entered the box for Electra but was soon knocked out and his place taken by Sylvester. The Oilers counted 12 hits against the two burlers and had Sylvester going at the end of the game. Four errors were made by Electra while Iowa Park had two marked against them.

Batteries—Electra, Ray, Sylvester and Courtney; Iowa Park, Warren and Munden.

There's Psychology to Tennis Too; Judge Opponent by Your Own Mind

By DON WELDON

Tennis psychology is nothing more than understanding your opponent's mind and studying the effect upon his game caused by certain conditions. You cannot be a successful psychologist of others without first understanding the workings of your own mind and the effect on yourself of the same happenings under different conditions. You must realize this effect and act accordingly. Does it help your play? Does it increase your efficiency? If so strive for it, but never give it to your opponent.

If it deprives you of concentration either remove the cause or ignore it.

When you have judged your own reactions to conditions, study your opponent to learn his weaknesses. Like temperaments react similarly, and you may judge men of your type by yourself. The physical appearance of a man is generally a pretty clear index to his type of mind. The stolid, easy-going type who prefers to stand at the base line and play the ball safely over the net usually does so because he hates to stir up his slow mind to map out a plan of attack. There is another type of base line player who is really dangerous. This is the thinking type who prefers to remain at the back of the court to direct a game intended to break up your attack. He varies his style and keeps you wondering where the ball will go next, by mixing his length and direction. He is a good psychologist. Johnson and Parke use this style of game with much success. The first type mentioned plays his strokes with little idea where they are going but is only interested in returning the ball over the net.

The erratic net rusher plays by impulse and is an easy victim for the psychologist. He can be drawn to the net by feints and will run himself to death if he is given the chance. He will make brilliant plays at times but will never play hard consistent tennis. The dangerous man is he who mixes his play from back to fore court at the direction of an ever alert mind. He is careful not to tire himself with useless rushes and to play with a definite purpose. The player of this style, used by Brooks is the most subtle antagonist in the world.

Rule 14: It is a good return if the ball strikes in the proper court, even if the ball strikes the net; but a service otherwise good which touches the net shall count for nothing and shall be termed a let.

Rule 18: A player loses the point if he fails on the volley or the first bound to return the ball in play into his opponents court; or if he touch it with any part of his body, or anything that he wears or carries except his racket, or if he touch the ball with his racket more than once or if he or his racket, or anything that he wears or carries touch the net or any of its supports, or the ground within his opponents court, while the ball is in play; or if he volleys the ball before it has passed the net.

FASTEST PLAY OF TOURNEY MONDAY

Bebb Sends Haynes Out of Singles In 2 Sets

By DON WELDON

The best tennis of the Record News annual tournament was seen yesterday by an enthusiastic audience when Bebb defeated Haynes 63, 9-7, true to his customary style, played a safe and sure game, placing the ball with perfect accuracy, while Haynes showed excellent easy form with forehand and backhand strokes to Bebb's back line. Here Bebb displayed real sportsmanship and won the admiration of every one who saw the match. Many of Haynes' drives came so close to the back line that they were in doubt, but Bebb always insisted upon calling them good even though he failed to return many of them.

Haynes came back fighting in the second set with the score 5-1 and won five straight games. He played the ball hard and displayed good tennis form. It's good to see a man with the nerve to play the ball hard with score set-point staring him in the face. The points were played with earnestness and the game was filled with excellent tennis and spectacular returns.

Ellis Wins Again.

Ellis took two sets from Kirkpatrick 6-1, 7-5. The first set was one-sided and Kirkpatrick was long in striking his stride but when he did start he gave Ellis a fight for every point. Ellis was at his best and played a sure game putting the ball in the corners of the cuort and returning the serves with accuracy and speed. His service was going fine and Kirkpatrick found it hard to judge the twists given the ball. In the second set he came back with a rush and made Ellis give his best to take the match. At the end of the match Kirkpatrick was improving and putting up an excellent game.

Hamilton Shows Well.

Parks went down before Hamilton in two sets 6-2, 6-2. Both men put up good exhibitions of tennis but Hamilton showed rare form and played a strong aggressive game. Parks had trouble with his service and gave Hamilton several points on doubles. He played a lobbing game and kept his opponent well back in the court but we was not able to stop the winning streak of the hard-playing Hamilton.

Today's Games.

Today Hines will meet Bebb in the semi finals at Thirteenth street courts. Hamilton will meet Ellis at the same time. The winners of these matches will meet Wednesday in the finals to decide the championship in the singles. The games today will be hard fought as all the players have defeated crack net men and are well matched. The Hines and Bebb match should be a hard affair as the two players have met many times before and neither has been able to take a majority of games. Ellis is known to be a net man of real worth while his opponent is not so well known, never having entered a tournament here before.

Noble-Little Prize.

Play for the consolation prize will begin today. Noble-Little Hardware company has offered the choice of their tennis racquets to the man who succeeds in winning from the list of men who were defeated in the first preliminaries of the main event. There are ten men qualified to enter the play and the matches promise to be snappy. Many of the men defeated in their first games are really excellent net men and put up tennis exhibitions of a fine type. Today's games in the consolation tournament will be played at 4:30 to leave the courts clear for the semi-finals in singles. Myers will meet Akin, Worthington will meet Gordon.

The trophies for the winners in the doubles and singles will probably arrive today and will be shown in Collier & Landons window during the week. The cups to go to Bebb and Ellis in the doubles will be in duplicate, each player to receive a trophy with his name and appropriate engravings.

MAGNOLIAS TAKE GAME AT FREDERICK

The fast Magnolia ball club of Burkburnett took a game Sunday at Frederick, Okla., from the team there, 16 to 0. The game was witnessed by a large crowd which was unanimous in declaring the Texas team the best that has played there. Bouriski pitched a fine game for the winners, striking out 13 of the opposing batters. He allowed only three bases on balls and held the Oklahoma club scoreless.

The manager of the Frederick team was so impressed with the showing of the Texas club that he made them an offer to represent Frederick in a three-game series during the fair to be given there. The team was unable to accept as the players have jobs that require their presence.

JOHNSON RILED AT DUGAN DEAL

Says Such Things Must Stop

By Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 24.—President Ban Johnson of the American league tonight declared the deal which sent Joe Dugan, star third baseman with the Boston Americans, to the New York Yankees was a "regrettable" transaction and that trades of this character in mid-season must be discouraged and legislated against.

The Yankees acquired Dugan and Elmer Smith, a hard hitting outfielder, in exchange for Elmer Miller, an outfielder; John Mitchell, a substitute shortstop, Wilson Fewster, an outfielder, and a pitcher to be elected later.

"A point has been reached where the public regards with aversions and apprehension any deal for players between the Boston and New York clubs," President Johnson said.

Legislation Likely

As a result of the Boston-New York deal, new legislation probably will be enacted, according to President Johnson, fixing July 1 as the latest date by which trades can be made except by waiver. The present date in both Major leagues is August 1.

President Johnson tonight called a meeting of the club owners to be held here August 27. The meeting was not called as a result of the New York-Boston deal, but legislation prohibiting mid-season trades probably will be discussed, Johnson said.

SUNDAY IS 'NO MORE WAR DAY'

Y. W. C. A. Plans Pulpit Program

Next Sunday, the eighth anniversary of the beginning of the world war will be celebrated in Wichita Falls and many other cities of the United States as "No more war" day. Mrs. B. L. Fain, president of the Y. W. C. A. in this city, said Monday that the various pastors of the city will be asked to mention the matter from their pulpits Sunday and it is expected that there may be some special sermons on the matter. In addition to this the Y. W. C. A. girls will send a message to Washington urging that everything possible be done to eliminate wars in the future.

It has been hoped that some kind of a special celebration could be held for the "No more war" day but on account of the various clubs of the Y. W. C. A. being suspended for the summer and so many women who take active parts in the work being away for the summer there will be no celebration beyond the special services mentioned.

IRRIGATION TO COST LESS HERE

Lay of Land Saves Wichita Money

Distribution of water and the entire distribution system of the Wichita valley irrigation project will be much cheaper than the distribution system of the lower Rio Grande valley, according to R. A. Thompson, chief engineer of the local project, who with b. S. Heyser has just returned for an inspection of the Rio Grande valley systems.

"The fact that we have plenty of gravity in our project to get a free flow of water will make the system cheaper for one reason," said Mr. Thompson. "Down there they have to pump the water over the various lifts. Then, too, because the land is so level the water does not flow with sufficient speed to keep the ditches cleaned out. This causes silt d posits in the ditches and a great deal of vegetation springs up which makes it cost money to maintain the distribution systems. On account of the soil down there they have a heavy waste of water through leakage. This will not be the case in the Wichita valley project. We can build smaller ditches and get the same amount of water distributed because the water will flow faster and because the land is well adapted to holding water. There will be no leakage. either will we be bothered by the vegetation growing in the ditches because the flow of water will keep them clean."

Mr. Thompson said that he found the heavy floods of several weeks ago had not damaged the irrigation systems in the valley to any great extent. He said a great deal of cotton on the first lift had been destroyed but that the farmers on the second left are averaging three fourths of a bale to the acre despite the fact that the boll weevil is entering the top crop of. He said gins are running full time with the yards jammed with cotton ready to be ginned.

Mr. Thompson stated that as soon as topographic may now being made of the Wichita valley project is completed, the principal laterals on the south side of the irrigation project will be located and will be completed by time there is sufficient water in the lake to distribute.

Wool Tariff Bill Provokes Clashes

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, July 24.—Failing to get action from the senate finance committee majority, Senator Lenroot, republican, Wisconsin, launched today in the senate his fight to limit to 60 per cent ad valorem the duties in the pending bill on coarse wools, both in the raw and the manufactured state. His proposal met with sharp opposition from spokesmen for the committee and senators engaged in production of wool and there were frequent and, at times, sharp exchanges.

Declaring that the 33 cents a pound duty proposed would result in an increase in the cost of woolen clothing, Senator Lenroot asserted that the republicans would have no difficulty in justifying to the people in the large cities proper protective duties for the wool producers, but that they could not justify "this enormous equivalent ad valorem duty, equaling in some cases, 127 per cent, on wool of a kind not produced in this country to any appreciable extent.

Automobile thieves must be the meanest kind of thieves!

At any rate, they have little respect for personages, or for what a man is trying to do for himself.
