No Choice On Nuclear Tests, Russians Told

Center Pier For Elevated Tank

Workmen finish up re-enforceemnt steel for the center pier on the site of the city's new 1.5-million-gallon elevated water storage tank north of IS route and east of the experiment station farm. The footing, more than 30 feet square, has been poured and the pier on top is to be completed today. Chicago Bridge and Iron Co. is moving in sections of the new tank and erection will begin this week.

GOP Ready For Chili Duel

AUSTIN (AP)—Texas Republicans are ready for a chili cooking duel with the Democrats.

Recently, Agriculture Commissioner John White, seeking reelection distributed campaign cards carrying a copy of "Texas' famous chili recipe, originated in Dallas County prison system."

A spokesman for state GOP headquarters asked today for rebuttal time.

"We're not claiming a 'first,' only that we did it before he (White) did," said the Republican protest.

Enclosed was a campaign card of Sen. John Tower, R, with a recipe for "good Texas chili."

Tower's recipe calls for: "A full pound of good Texas beef, ground; a large No. 2 can of sized can of chilies and tomatoes; ranch-style red beans; a medium-bud of garlic, ½ teaspoon of chili pepper, ½ teaspoon of salt, 2 big tablespoons of salad oil or other fat. Saute meat, diced onions, and finally chopped garlic in fat until golden brown. Add beans and seasonings, simmer for 10 minutes while you enjoy the delightful aroma."

White's recipe calls for: "2 cups ground beef suet, 2 pounds ground beef, 3 buds garlic, 1½ teaspoons paprika, 3 tablespoons chili powder, 1 tablespoon comino seed, 1 tablespoon salt, 1 teaspoon white pepper, 1½ teaspoons finely diced dried sweet chili pods, 3 cups water. Fry out suet in heavy kettle. Add meat, finely diced garlic, and seasonings; cover. Cook slowly 4 hours, stirring occasionally. Add water; continue cooking about 1 hour until slightly thickened. Serve plain or mixed with equal portions of cooked dried pink or red beans."

Another Democratic candidate has used a chili recipe in his campaign. Marshall Formby, running for governor, distributes a "good Texas chili" recipe on campaign cards and includes it along with a number of other recipes in his book "These Are My People," a story of Dickens County and the South Plains area.

Formby's recipe calls for: "3 pounds venison or beef cut in small chunks, 6 tablespoons chili powder, 3 cloves garlic, minced; 6 tablespoons flour, 3 tablespoons chopped suet (only if using venison), 2 small onions chopped, 3 tablespoons salt, 6 tablespoons fat, 1 quart hot water. Mix meat with garlic, flour and chili powder. In a deep pot, melt the suet and fat. Fry the onions until tender, then add meat mixture. Cook for 20 minutes. Then add salt and gradually pour on the one quart of hot water. Then simmer for one hour or until the meat is tender. . . If you just have to ruin this good chili by adding beans, then add Mexican-style beans with chili gravy. . . Remember if times get 'real tough' you can substitute rabbit and squirrel for the meat."

Stamp Trip

Mrs. Lena Schiraldi Griswold, 40, of Malvern, Ark., a war bride and a native of Naples, Italy, licks the last stamp for her 253 books of trading stamps. She has made arrangements to swap the stamps for a round-trip ticket to Italy to see an ailing brother.

U.S. Issues Last Warning On Ban

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Britain gave the Soviet Union an apparently final warning today that unless there is agreement on an enforceable nuclear test ban the new U.S. test series scheduled to start late this month will have to go forward.

In a joint statement released at the White House, the two governments called on the Soviets to reconsider their position on the inspection issue and to accept the principle of international verification.

"If they will do this," the statement said, "there is still time to reach agreement."

EFFORTS IN VAIN

The declaration then continued: "But if there is no change in the present Soviet position, the governments of United States and the United Kingdom must conclude that their efforts to obtain a workable treaty to ban nuclear tests are not now successful, and the test series scheduled for the latter part of this month will have to go forward."

President Kennedy and British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan chose the joint statement technique for stating their position, in preference to forwarding another direct appeal to Soviet Premier Khrushchev. Some U.S. officials said the time is considered too late for the personal communication method.

The statement was not presented as a Kennedy-Macmillan declaration but as one from the two governments.

LATEST ROUND

The 600-word statement reviewed the latest round of U.S.-British negotiations with Russia on a treaty to ban further testing of nuclear weapons.

The negotiations began at Geneva a month ago when Secretary of State Dean Rusk met Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko at the opening of the 17-nation disarmament conference.

A few days before the conference opened Kennedy had announced that unless a dependable ban on testing could be negotiated before late April the United States would begin conducting tests in the atmosphere over the central Pacific.

Today's declaration said that Gromyko—as well as other Soviet leaders—had consistently rejected the principle of international inspection as a means for policing a test ban. In the view of the Western powers a treaty without adequate verification to guarantee against cheating would be undependable. Therefore, the statement argued, the whole issue turns on Russia's rejection of the principle of objective international verification.

AIMED AT REDS

The declaration obviously was designed to place upon the Soviet government the responsibility for the resumption of the nuclear arms development race.

The Soviets last September ended a three-year moratorium on weapons testing with a series of about 50 atmospheric explosions.

Kennedy reported later that they had made gains in the improvement of nuclear weapons.

Without a reliable prohibition on further testing, Kennedy said, the United States would also have to conduct atmospheric tests in addition to the small underground explosions it began last fall.

The U.S.-British statement said the heart of the problem now is that Soviet representatives "have rejected international inspection or verification inside the Soviet Union to determine the nature of unexplained seismic events (earth shocks) which might be nuclear tests."

The two Western powers asserted that international inspection is "an essential element for assuring that a ban on nuclear tests is being observed by all parties."

During three-power negotiations on a nuclear test ban treaty beginning in 1958 the Soviets first accepted the concept of international inspection, the statement said, but more recently they have abandoned that position and rejected any kind of international verification on Soviet territory.

"The ground given," the statement said, "seems to be that existing national detection systems can give adequate protection against clandestine tests.

"In the present state of scientific instrumentation there are a great many cases in which we cannot distinguish between natural and artificial seismic disturbances."

Since many areas of the world are subject to frequent earth shocks one objective of an inspection system would be to check on tremors to make sure they were earthquakes and not secret underground nuclear tests.

Estes Testimony Veers Toward Anti-Trust Theme

AMARILLO (AP) — A fertilizer salesman in the agricultural empire of Billie Sol Estes testified today he lost $264,000 last year on his dealings alone by slashing prices below competitor's cost.

Each Jan. 1, said Gerron Wheeler, the losses wre written off.

"If they didn't join us, we whipped them," Wheeler said of independent fertilizer dealers.

Wheeler was a key witness as Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson probed for information Wilson said he believes will result in prosecution under Texas' anti-trust laws.

Wheeler said Estes, now under a federal fraud indictment, told him and other salesmen to sell below competitors' costs. "He told us what to charge," said Wheeler.

The witness said he was paid $10,000 a year, later boosted to $15,000, plus commissions.

He said there were no commissions because of the losses.

SERIAL NUMBERS

Wheeler also told of mysterious dealings in serial numbers of anhydrous ammonia fertilizer tanks, key to Estes' mortgage fraud indictment, and a statement by Estes that some insurance investigators were being paid.

Wheeler, filling station operator and independent fertilizer dealer until he moved into Estes' fold, said metal series numbers for tanks were flown to him. They were in several paper bags.

"I was told to put them on our tanks and to give the rest of them to Associated Growers," said Wheeler, adding that Associated Growers on the surface was a competitor.

Wheeler said similar instructions about serial numbers were given him on another date by telephone from Pecos, headquarters for Estes' empire.

"I was told to do the same thing, and I said 'I will not,'" the witness said.

YES OR NO

Wilson did most of the questioning, and many of the queries required only a "yes" or "no."

Wheeler was asked if he ever discussed with Estes his relations with the finance companies who now say they have $24 million in mortgages on fertilizer tanks and can't find the tanks.

"Estes told me 'don't worry about the peons who come around to check on you. I do business with top brass.'"

At another point, Wheeler said Estes told him, "Don't worry about any of them. They're paid all the way up."

Asked what kind of payment Estes meant, Wheeler said, "I don't know. I took it somebody was receiving money."

Earlier, the sheriff of Deaf Smith County told the court that Estes drove him out of the fertilizer business with cut prices.

Sheriff Lowell Sharp of Hereford said a firm he identified as an Estes enterprise, Lester Stone Chemicals, sold fertilizer delivered to the farmer at $80 a ton.

Sharp said the cheapest he could buy the commodity was $88 plus freight and handling costs.

Estes, world's largest seller of anhydrous ammonia fertilizer, and No. 1 Texas grain storage operator, is under federal indictment involving mortage manipulations. He also faces about $9 million in civil suits.

Sharp said he was a partner in Plains Fertilizer Co. of Hereford with Glen O. Edwards. He said he first became aware of Estes' competition in 1959.

COMPETITION

He said his firm, which he valued at $40,000 to $50,000, went out of business because of the competition. He did not pinpoint the year.

Wilson voiced confidence in advance that a court of inquiry would uncover grounds for prosecution. He did not name any individual or group as a target in the probe.

Amarillo's two TV stations both arranged to carry live telecasts of the proceedings.

Wilson, making no secret that he's a candidate for governor, obtained orders for exploratory court sessions April 6, one week after Estes, 37, and three other men went to jail on federal charges.

INDICTED

Estes, then reported to be worth up to $150 million and interested in 30-odd businesses, and the others since have been indicted on charges of using faked mortgages to milk finance firms from coast to coast of $24 million. The four men currently are free under bond.

Wilson and about 20 members of his staff arranged to take evidence and question witnesses today in Amarillo and to duplicate the court of inquiry tomorrow in Plainview. The attorney general said there probably will be others in at least two more West Texas cities.

"We have substantial evidence of violations of the Texas anti-trust laws in the sale by Billie Sol Estes enterprises of anhydrous ammonia (a liquid fertilizer) to farmers in West Texas at below-cost prices," the attorney general said.

"The sale of this fertilizer is closely linked with the Estes grain storage operations, and we expect to be able to develop a fairly complete picture of his entire operations through the courts of inquiry."

TO PRESIDE

County Judge W. M. Adams will preside for the Amarillo hearing and County Judge C. L. Abernathey for the Plainview session.

In response to questions from newsmen, Wilson said witnesses giving testimony would receive immunity from prosecution under antitrust laws but not necessarily other statutes.

He said none would take the stand if Dist. Atty. Frank Baughman of Amarillo felt examination of the witness would interfere with a case being investigated by local authorities.

Fourteen persons received subpoenas to appear here. Amarillo lawyer George McCarthy said he would contend four had not received 10 days to prepare for the hearing as required by law. Wilson said the statute did not apply in this instance.

McCarthy made his point and the four were dismissed.

CO-DEFENDANTS

Two are co-defendants of Estes in the federal fraud case—Harold E. Orr, 31, president of Superior Manufacturing Co., and Ruel W. Alexander, 45, secretary-treasurer of the company, both of Amarillo. The other two, also with Superior, are Shirley Husted and Robert McDonald.

Superior Manufacturing likewise is named in the federal indictment along with Estes, Orr, Alexander and Coleman McSpadden, 45, of Lubbock, a director of the firm.

Others called as witnesses in the Amarillo court of inquiry are William H. King, a Superior Manufacturing vice president; James H. Wingate and Lee Roy Rea, both with an Amarillo farm supply firm; Howard Fuqua and R. C. Sampson, Amarillo area farmers; Kenneth Caskey, assistant cashier of an Amarillo bank ordered to bring with him various checks drawn on the bank; J. R. Gill of the Bushland Grain Cooperative; Frank R. Farris, Amarillo estate manager, and Jack Cain and Dock Potts, with farm supply stores.

REDUCE BOND

In Dallas, Harry Moore Jr., appointed as receiver for Estes' operations, sought to obtain a reduction in the $10 million bond under which Estes would be allowed to continue grain storage under the federal farm programs, the Dallas Morning News said in a copyrighted story.

Moore sought the reduction from the Commodity Stabilization Service, headed in Dallas by C. H. Moseley. There was no announcement of the outcome after the conference with Moseley.

Exiles To Cuba For Prisoner Talks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Four optimistic Cuban exile emissaries flew to Havana today, hoping to bargain with Fidel Castro for the ransom of 1,179 war prisoners.

They said they hoped to interest the prime minister in a plan to swap the captives for merchandise.

"We have $26 million in cash and pledges with $2 million more in sight," reported Enrique Llaca, treasurer of the Cuban Families Committee for Reparation of War Prisoners.

Llaca and his three companions hoped to talk Castro into reducing the total $62 million placed on the prisoners.

"But we can also raise more money," he said.

Also in the exile delegation were Alvaro Sanchez Jr., chairman; Mrs. Virginia Betancourt de Rodriguez and Ernesto Freyre.

Some 50 refugees, including relatives of the delegates and relatives of prisoners bade adios at the airport. Many were in tears.

New Financial Battle Looms In Alleghany Corp.

BALTIMORE (AP)—A financial feud pitting against one another two of the nation's major fortunes smoldered anew today.

The revived frictions fanned speculation of another struggle for control of Alleghany Corp., which oversees a $7 billion railroad and investment company empire.

In a bitter proxy fight, the rich Murchison brothers of Dallas seized Alleghany 11 months ago from Alian Kirby, wealthy and conservative Eastern financier.

"They won election last year on a platform of promises which they have not fulfilled and criticism of an investment policy which they have not changed," Kirby said Monday.

"They did this against a background of scandalous allegations which remain completely unsubstantiated."

Kirby, who retains nearly one-third of the corporation's common stock—a block worth about $35 million—issued his blast after denying his support to the Murchison management at Alleghany's annual meeting.

John Murchison, corporation president, shrugged off Kirby's attitude as "non-constructive."

Alleghany controls the $2.5 billion New York Central Railroad and Investors Diversified Services, $4 billion Minneapolis investment company complex. It has other important railroad, real estate and insurance company holdings.

Without Kirby's support, the Murchison slate of incumbent directors was returned for another term by a comfortable margin.

Kirby was a power in Alleghany for 24 years before being toppled last May.

Kirby's mention of "scandalous allegations" referred to a fraud suit brought against Kirby and others by the Murchisons in an outgrowth of a quarrel involving IDS.

Kirby, 69, has a fortune estimated at $300 million built on a Woolworth store inheritance.

John Murchison, 40, and his brother Clint Jr., 38, started out with multi-millions run up by their father in gas and oil and multiplied in other fields.

John Murchison told the meeting 1962 looks "extremely promising" for IDS, by far Alleghany's biggest interest. First quarter earnings figured $3.29 a share as against $2.90 in the first three months of 1961.

He said a pending plan for merging the New York Central with the Pennsylvania Railroad, if successful, should add substantially to the worth of Alleghany's 979,000-share holding in the Central.

School Strike Delayed A Day

NEW YORK (AP)—A strike of public school teachers scheduled to begin today was postponed for at least a day in a stormy session of the United Federation of Teachers' delegate assembly.

The assembly, meeting until 3 a.m., voted to reject terms of a strike postponement proposal offered by the city and to hold a full membership meeting at 4 p.m. today to determine a course of action.

German Child Leaps 9 Floors To Freedom

BERLIN (AP) — A 9-year-old East German boy jumped from the roof of a five-story building to safety in West Berlin today.

Eyewitnesses said the youngster appeared on the roof of a house overlooking Bernauerstrasse, the French sector street that marks the border. The sidewalk is Western territory while the houses belong to the East.

West Berlin border guards rushed out the fire rescue squad. They spread a net and the boy jumped into it. He was rushed to a hospital and was found to be suffering from shock and bruises.

An East German policeman escaped to the West during the night by running through a subway tunnel, West Berlin police reported. He was a member of the transport police, responsible for patrolling railroad installations. He was in uniform and brought his pistol with him.

The Western police disclosed the escape route because the East German authorities evidently had discovered it.

Two civilians also escaped to the West, but their method was kept secret.

Information Bureau West, the unofficial Western intelligence agency, reported that a leading East Berlin tennis player, Herbert Schmidt, had defected to the West while taking part in the United Arab Republic's tennis championships. IBW said instead of returning home, he flew to Frankfurt.

Texas Helps Up Oil Production

TULSA (AP)—U.S. oil production increased by 45,260 barrels per day last week, with Texas accounting for most of the gain, the Oil and Gas Journal said today.

Average daily production of crude oil and lease condensate last week was 7,382,345 barrels, the journal said.

Texas production is averaging 2,566,770 barrels per day, up 64,250 daily from March. Texas remains on an eight-day producing schedule, but April has fewer calendar days, which accounts for most of the gain.

25 CITIES REPRESENTED

Chamber Leader Workshop Opens

Representatives from 25 cities are in Big Spring today attending the second of three Chamber Leaders Workshops sponsored by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Shortly before noon, 79 persons had registered and others were expected for the noon luncheon and afternoon sessions. Special guests included Frank W. Mueller, manager of the state chamber service department of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

This is the second of three such leadership workshops being conducted in West Texas. It is being held at the Cosden Country Club.

Carroll Davidson, manager of the local Chamber, opened the workshop at 9:30 a.m. and Roy Reeder, president of the Chamber, welcomed visitors to the city.

A film entitled "What Is a Chamber of Commerce" presented various aspects of Chamber activity and how it affects the businesses and the community.

"A Chamber is people working together to improve the community and to build a better business climate," the film concluded.

Mueller, from Washington, D. C., was the keynote speaker. In an informal period during which visitors became acquainted with each other, he discussed the responsibilities of Chamber leaders.

Cards were passed out on which guests could write questions they wished answered at the session following a 10:30 a.m. coffee break.

Joe Pickle, managing editor of the Herald, addressed the group at the noon luncheon. Champ Rainwater, a director of the West Texas Chamber, presided over the luncheon meeting.

Afternoon speakers scheduled were Jimmie Lovell, manager of the Dumas Chamber; Howard Hicks, executive vice president of the Beaumont Chamber; and Russell Willis, manager of the Board of Civic Development, San Angelo.

Subjects for discussion were the Chamber's program of work, financing the chamber and committee management.

About a dozen leaders in the local Chamber were on hand. Other cities represented were Merkel, Abilene, Monahans, Lamesa, Brownfield, Andrews, Colorado City, Kermit, Post, Dell City, Van Horn, Midland and Stanton.

Others are Eden, Hamlin, Seminole, Sweetwater, Fort Stockton, Dumas, Snyder, Plains, Seagraves, McCamey, Denver City and San Angelo.

Cuban Communists Haven't Won Yet

EDITOR'S NOTE — Dave Roberts, travel editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer, visited Cuba two years ago when Fidel Castro was riding the crest of popularity and beginning his love affair with the Soviet Union. When an old friend in Havana recently asked him to fly down for a little fishing and hunting, Roberts felt it would be a good chance to find out what had happened to the Cuban people.

During a 10-day visit in March, sanctioned by the State Department and the Castro government, Roberts got in his fishing and shooting. He also drove more than 1,300 miles through Cuba's interior and nosed around Havana. Here are some of Roberts' findings.

By DAVE ROBERTS

Distributed by The Associated Press

After a few days of roaming around the island of Cuba, I came slowly to the realization that this was not a Communist country at all—not in the way Russia is Communist. I was witnessing a race still being run, not one that already has been lost.

The race is between men and their ideas, in which the forces of communism, by "education," are trying to win the hearts of free men before the free men can effectively organize their scattered strength.

CONVERTS, ENEMIES

Every day the Castro regime's educational campaign is making converts, but each day new opposition is born, particularly in the rural areas where Fidel Castro once had his strength.

Firing of the sugar cane fields, Cuba's main source of income, has long been the hallmark of Cuban farmers in revolt. Castro, still deep in the hills of Oriente in 1958, pointed to the smoke clouds as portents of popular support.

But for every fire lighted in support of Castro in 1958, I saw a dozen lighted against him in 1962.

In one 54-mile stretch I saw 16 fullfledged blazes within sight of the highway as we drove home from a morning of fishing.

The 1,300 miles I drove around the country showed me hundreds of scorched fields. About one third of the loads of cane being hauled by truck toward the mills was charred black. This can still be processed into sugar, but it loses two-thirds of its value.

CAN'T CATCH THEM

The Castro government has decreed death for anyone found guilty of burning cane, but the culprits are not easy to catch.

With Castro's agrarian reform program, farmers are beginning to realize that instead of getting ground for themselves, they're doing the same old work but for a new boss.

Cuban leaders look upon the island's schools as a proper vehicle for political indoctrination. They are depending on schools to indoctrinate the whole nation with the Communist philosophy before mounting anti-Communist forces can topple the government.

With government appropriations for schools second only to those for military purposes, Castro has done more for education in three years than was done in the previous 25.

But while students in the public schools will absorb a little readin', writin' and 'rithmetic, they'll also absorb full dosages in the science of communism.

TWO FACTORS

Castro is depending on two factors which he hopes will smother the seeds of anti-Communist rebellion until his system of Red indoctrination has had time to conquer the hearts of the Cubanos.

They are first, the military organization and second — actually part of the first—the enthusiastic, hard-working and sometimes brilliant young Cuban Communists.

Castro's strong and able military forces are made up for the most part of young men and women who share a common enthusiasm. The army polices Cuba. There are no other police forces such as we have in our cities and counties.

You can't spend an hour in the country without seeing evidence of the great need which must exist for strict and constant military control.

One of the most insistent sounds in Cuba these days is the "hup, hup, hup, hup" of squad sergeants shouting cadence for marching troops. You move nowhere without permission of the military.

"INVASION"

The primary purpose of these militiamen, according to the Castro government, is to be ready for the forthcoming invasion of "mercenaries" from the United States.

Castro's military machine has begun to move down the same road followed by ex-dictator Fulgencio Batista. There are arrests, tortures and executions, and they all increase the number of anti-government Cubans.

Another cause of mounting unrest is the shortage of food, although it is not as bad as some outsiders believe. Shortages appear in homes and restaurants. But while the old abundance is gone, there is still enough food to maintain a fair standard of living. In some of the night clubs and government hotels you can still find hints of the old luxury.

In homes, conditions appear considerably more serious. Still, if the present rate of rationing can be continued, no one will starve.

U.S. BLAMED

Uncle Sam and his Western Allies get the blame for everything from chinch bugs to broken drive shafts, from dirty flour to soleless shoes. How well this hate campaign is working is hard to answer.

I found no evidence of personal animosity from anyone anywhere in Cuba. I was as warmly received and as hospitably treated as I ever was.

But it has been only in recent weeks that the real chips have been down. Castro's been howling how much the United States was hurting Cuba. But Cuba had not been feeling much pain. Now things aren't going well. Fidel now has proof that Cubans are being hurt.

Mineral Water Seen As Key To El Paso Supplies

AUSTIN (AP)—A future water supply for El Paso may come from demineralization of nearby water supplies, a report published by the Texas Water Commission said Monday.

The report on ground water resources in the El Paso area said a substantial supply of ground water is in reserve in the area northwest of El Paso. Most of El Paso's water comes from wells.

The report was prepared by the commission in cooperation with the city of El Paso and the U. S. Geological Survey.

The report said the depletion rate is slow in the area—four per cent since 1954—but indicated annually diminishing supply of ground water.

Fresh water in storage in the Texas part of the lower Mesilla Valley was estimated to be about 560,000 acre feet plus 980,000 acre feet in the New Mexico side. An acre foot is 325,851 gallons.

Inmates Subdued

HUNTSVILLE (AP)—Tear gas was used to subdue 31 inmates who refused to return to their cells in the segregation unit of the state prison Monday.

WHAT IS THE CHURCH?

By A Christian Writer

Have you ever tried taking a pencil and paper and writing out a good, clear definition of the church? On any subject, if we begin our thinking with an erroneous definition, then our conclusions will likewise be erroneous. Jesus is the builder of the church (Matt. 16:18). He is also the owner. He refers to it as "my church." What ought the church to be called? Anything that the Bible calls it! I should be careful not to call it something the Bible does not call it.

Jesus is also the saviour of the church (Eph. 5:23). So, the church is the saved! The church is not the saviour, Jesus is (I Tim. 4:10). This does not mean that the church is not essential. Jesus saves what or whom? He saves the church! The church, then, is made up of the saved.

When does one become a member of the church? We shall try to give the answer in this space tomorrow.

Now in progress: Wednesday night lecture series. Speaker this Wednesday, W. T. Hamilton, 7:30 p.m., from Lamesa, Texas. Subject, "Developing and Using Our Talents."

You are always welcome at the church of Christ, 2000 West Highway 80. T. H. Tarbet, preacher (on Australian preaching mission 'til May 15). Box 1285.—adv.

Monkey Business

A drop of temperature in Atlanta, Ga., causes Bone, a one-pound monkey, to become affectionate with Andy, a 200-pound St. Bernard. The dog serves as a model for Ed Dodd's comic strip "Mark Trail." Dodd says that for getting about, the monkey perches on the head of Andy, even while the dog chases squirrels. After the chase the two settle down for a nap in Andy's kennel.

Adenauer Successor Issue Rises Again

BONN, Germany (AP) — Who will eventually succeed Chancellor Konrad Adenauer?

That question is popping up again while Adenauer, 86, takes a six-week rest in Italy.

Two leading possibilities have lost part of their political stock recently—Vice Chancellor Ludwig Erhard and Defense Minister Franz Joseph Strauss.

When Adenauer campaigned last year, he gave a half-promise he would retire before his term runs out in 1965. Lately, the situation has reached a point where many believe he will stay on.

Adenauer's Christian Democrats last year designated Erhard as the eventual successor, although Adenauer once described Erhard as lacking the experience required for a chief of government.

For several years, popularity polls showed Erhard's stature in the public image as the "father of the German economic miracle." However, West Germany's boom has been leveling off sharply.

The upward revaluation of the mark a year ago failed to produce any visible benefits for the economy. It made life more difficult for exporters. Some parts of industry hardly conceal their animosity against Erhard.

Strauss lost some of the Chancellor's support by backing Erhard for chancellor last year. Also Christian Democrats have become aware that Strauss' clamor for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to become a fourth atomic power is embarrassingly out of place with the U.S. administration's views.

Strauss also has become a principal figure in a parliamentary probe to find out whether he acted properly in recommending a Munich construction company to the U.S. Defense Department for a U.S. Army housing project.

There are several other potential successors.

Dr. Heinrich Krone, minister for special affairs and a former youth leader of the pre-Hitler Catholic Center party, helped bridge the Adenauer-Erhard rift. He is one of Adenauer's most loyal supporters but seems a man of compromise rather than action.

Heinrich von Brentano resigned as foreign minister last fall after the Free Democrats, part of the coalition government, opposed him. Brentano has since made progress as a floor leader of the Christian Democrats.

Dr. Gerhard Schroeder succeeded Brentano in the Foreign Ministry after heading the Interior Ministry since 1953. Schroeder is credited with settling an embarrassing controversy involving Hans Kroll, Bonn's ambassador to Moscow, who was alleged to have made proposals running counter to Bonn's position.

Much speculation has centered on Joseph-Hermann Dufhues, acting chairman of the Christian Democrat party. A hard-driving politician, he is a native of the Ruhr and would draw backing from powerful sections of industry.

Moody Grant To Colleges

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—The Moody foundation of Galveston has announced grants to private universities, colleges and junior colleges in Texas totaling $15,000.

Another grant of $15,000 went to the Texas Institute for Rehabilitation and Research of Houston.

This is the third consecutive year that the Moody Foundation has given financial assistance to private universities, colleges and junior colleges.

The Texas Foundation of Voluntarily Supported Colleges and Universities received $100,000 of the grants and $50,000 went to the Texas Private Junior College Foundation.

Twenty-two institutions will share in the $100,000 grant. They are Abilene Christian College, Austin College, Baylor University, East Texas Baptist College, Hardin - Simmons University, Howard Payne University, Incarnate Word College of San Antonio, Mary-Hardin-Baylor, McMurry College, Our Lady of the Lake, Sacred Heart Dominican, Houston; Southern Methodist University, Southwestern University, St. Edward's University, Austin; St. Mary's University, San Antonio; Texas Lutheran, Texas Christian University, Texas Wesleyan, Trinity, University of Corpus Christi, University of St. Thomas, Houston; and Wayland College.

Ten junior colleges will share in the $50,000 grant. They are Lubbock Christian, Decatur Baptist, Southwest Junior College, Keene; Southwest Bible Institute, Waxahachie; Lon Morris and Jacksonville Baptist Junior College, both of Jacksonville; Allen Military Academy, Lutheran Concordia, South Texas Junior College, Houston; and Schreiner Institute.

Co-Op Has Sharp Gains

Sharp gains in power demands are reflected in the March operating statistics of the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative.

The dry weather which stepped up pressure for pre-planting irrigation exercised strong influence on demands. In March the system brought 5,739,040 KWH of power and sold 5,082,658. A year ago the figures were 3,232,680 and 2,471,517.

For the first quarter of the year, the system has purchased 14,583,200 KWH and sold 11,996,178, and the comparable period for last year showed 7,800,665 purchased and 6,150,140 sold.

At the end of March there were 2,318 miles of line energized, a gain of 25 for the month. It is 99 more than for March 31, 1961. The number of members connected rose to 4,821, an increase of 53 for the month. There are 384 members more connected than a year ago.

4 Denominations Are Called Essentially Ready For Unity

WASHINGTON (AP)—Leaders of four major Protestant denominations meeting here to discuss consolidation say their churches are essentially ready for concrete steps in that direction.

The concensus emerged after the first round of talks Monday between representatives of the Methodist Church, the Protestant Episcopal Church, the United Presbyterian Church and the United Church of Christ. The churches represent nearly 20 million members.

The conference, called to determine whether plans can be made for continued efforts at church reunion, ends today.

"The climate (for union) is more encouraging than at any time in the past 500 years," said Episcopal Bishop Robert F. Gibson Jr., of Richmond, Va., head of his church's delegation.

"Factors in the contemporary situation have created a genuine possibility for a break-through," said the Rev. Dr. John P. Dillenberger, of Drew University, Madison, N.J.

It was a general analysis by Dr. Dillenberger, a United Church of Christ theologian who teaches at a Methodist institution, that produced the reported concurrence of all sides that the time has come to resume old ties.

"In theology, we have moved closer and closer together," Dr. Dillenberger said. "Difference in essentials has all but disappeared. Culturally, the same thing has happened."

Nevertheless, fine distinctions in faith and practice remain, and whether means can be found to overcome, or absorb these differences is a central question.

In any case, churchmen said it will be a long process, at least 10 years and probably more, even with steady progress.

The Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of Philadelphia, chief executive of the United Presbyterian Church, noted that any solutions not only must win support of church representatives, but of their memberships.

Daniel, Wilson Call GOP Ballot Ouster Illegal

AUSTIN (AP) — Republicans have new ammunition today in their fight with Democrats over whether county clerks can refuse to certify GOP candidates for the general election ballot.

Rival Democratic candidates for governor—Atty. Gen. Will Wilson and Gov. Price Daniel—wound up Monday on the Republican side of a squabble sparked by Harris County Clerk, R. E. Turrentine.

Turrentine recently served notice that he would not put Republican candidates' names on the general election ballot unless the GOP holds primaries in all of the county's precincts.

He was backed by the Democratic Executive Committee, which urged other county clerks to follow Turrentine's lead.

Republicans said the refusal would be illegal and threatened court action. They contended county clerks' duties are strictly ministerial.

Wilson's opinion Monday reaffirmed a 1952 opinion by Daniel—then attorney general—that upholds the Republican contention.

"Where a certificate is regular on its face, he (the clerk) does not have the duty or authority to determine questions of irregularity or illegality in the nomination..."Daniel wrote, adding that the clerks act in ministerial capacities in placing nominees' names on the general election ballot.

Wilson's opinion requested by Dalhart Dist. Atty. William Hunter, also held that:

That names of candidates for district, county or precinct offices cannot be placed on primary ballots if the candidates do not pay assessments set by county executive committees.

That only nominees of the party are entitled to appear in the party column on the general election ballot.

Special Cotton Meeting Slated

A special meeting for cotton farmers has been scheduled Thursday at 8 p.m. in the St. Lawrence community hall, according to Oliver Werst, Glasscock County Agent.

Four specialists from the Texas A&M extension division will be on hand. John Box, extension agronomist will talk on fertility and fertilizers; Dr. R. L. Ridgeway entomologist, will discuss cotton insect control; B. G. Reeves will talk on cotton ginning for quality preservation and harvesting; and Fred Elliott, cotton specialist, will take up grass and weed control and defoliation.

Other topics, as requested by the audience, also will be included on the agenda. All farmers are urged to attend the meeting.

Threading Space Needle

This unusual photo of Seattle World's Fair 600-foot Space Needle was made during a lighting demonstration arranged for photographers. Paths of light are from a helicopter which "painted" the tower with powerful "sun guns." Seattle Times Photographer Joseph Scaylea made this time exposure from Queen Ann Hill, looking south toward Seattle's business district.

Glenn Uncertain On Identity Of Orbit 'Fireflies'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Astronaut John H. Glenn Jr. doesn't believe the "fireflies" he saw during his orbital flight were flecks of paint from his space capsule.

This theory was put forward last week by some officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

But Glenn disagreed Monday night and said, "We will have to wait for more information on the next flight."

Glenn addressed an audience of 6,000 at the National Guard armory where America's space Columbus received the Hubbard Medal—an emblem won by only a score of the century's foremost explorers.

Glenn's citation reads: "For extraordinary contributions to scientific knowledge of the world and beyond as a pioneer in exploring the ocean of space."

Dr. Melville Bell Grosvenor, president and editor of the National Geographic Society, ranked Glenn's achievement "with those of the great explorers who have gone before him—Columbus, Magellan—"

Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson presented the medal—named for Gardiner Greene Hubbard, first president of the National Geographic Society. It has been awarded to only 20 other men since it was struck in 1906.

The first winner was Adm. Robert E. Peary, discoverer of the North Pole. Others were Adm. Richard E. Byrd, Charles Lindbergh and Sir Edmund Hillary, conquerer of Mt. Everest.

Glenn gave an account of his flight and showed the official color film of the "Friendship 7's" voyage.

He also brought up the theory of the paint flecks.

At a symposium last Friday on Glenn's flight, Dr. John A. O'Keefe, assistant chief of NASA's theoretical division, and some of his associates posted the theory the fireflies were paint flakes from the spacecraft mixed with some snowflakes.

Glenn said, "My feelings on it (the luminous particles) do not match theirs. It's still an open item."

Glenn said that after watching the particles glowing in the sunrise for about four minutes on each of his first two orbits while riding backward, he turned the capsule around on the third orbit.

This time, he said, there were only about 10 per cent as many particles, but they still were numerous and some seemed to be coming toward him from a considerable distance.

"We have not fully determined what the particles are yet," he said.

Treasure Hunters Home, Tell Of Good Treatment

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A shipwrecked party of skin divers is home from Cuba with tales in agreeable contrast to those told by some Americans falling into the hands of Fidel Castro's men.

The seven men—treasure-hunters—said Castro put them up at a swank hotel and treated them as honored guests. Cuban authorities also offered to try salvaging the Americans' equipment which went down with their 42-foot motorboat near a reef off Baracoa, eastern Cuba.

"I had butterflies in my stomach" about landing on Cuban soil, said Fred Dickson Jr., 33, when he and his companions flew to Miami from Havana Monday.

The shipwrecked party's first contact with revolutionary Cuba was not reassuring. They were arrested as soon as they swam ashore by soldiers who thought they might be anti-Castro invaders.

As soon as they convinced the Cubans they were bona-fide mariners in distress they were welcomed, the skin divers said.

"We were shipwrecked sailors and our treatment was fair," Dickson said. "I would say it was good."

With Dickson, a former Ocean City, N.J., resident, were the expedition's leader, Gordon S. Patton, 62, of Ocean City, Md.; Bernie Nistad of Brooklyn, N.Y., Mike Freeman, 37, John E. Johnston, 21, and Joe Campbell, 20, all of Washington, D.C., and John Sterry, 28, of Brewster, N.Y.

They said they were heading for Jamaican waters to explore a sunken hulk when their boat struck a reef.

"We came ashore at a very remote place," Nistad said. "It took us quite a while to reach civilization."

Baracoa is on the north coast of Cuba, more than 50 miles from the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay. The skin divers' motor boat, Pisces, had been cruising through bad weather toward the Windward Passage en route to Jamaica.

The men's return to the United States was handled through the Swiss Embassy, which acts as intermediary between the United States and Cuba since diplomatic relations between the two countries were severed.

Police Officers Begin Second Training Phase

The second phase of the in-service training school for Big Spring police got under way Monday with Sgt. Billy Smith and Patrolman J. Ross Kemp of the Texas Department of Public Service, Midland office, as instructors. The sessions will be divided for morning and afternoon to allow all police officers to take part, Chief Jay Banks said.

The session Monday from 10 to 10:50 a.m. and from 2 to 3.50 p.m. covered traffic direction and motor vehicle laws. Tuesday sessions will all cover Texas Motor Vehicle Laws, as will Wednesday. Thursday and Friday sessions will deal with accidents and investigations.

Banks said the courses provide new men with detailed information needed and at the same time serve as refresher courses for experienced men.

"New developments are being brought into law enforcement all the time," he said, "and these are always brought out in detail so that proper investigation and enforcement may be handled by all men."

Sluggish Month

Lions' Broom Sale This Week

The annual broom sale, set for last Friday and Saturday by the Evening Lions Club, was postponed until this coming Friday and Saturday because of rain.

Earl Penner, general chairman for the sale, said Lions would cover the city in a door-to-door effort to raise money, through the sale of brooms, for their charities fund. The chief of these charities is the Lions Club Home for Crippled Children at Kerrville.

"We hope a generous reception will be given the Lions as they ring doorbells Friday and Saturday," Penner said..

DEAR ABBY

Too Old For Games

DEAR ABBY: My older sister, who is almost 18, and her boy friend, who is 18, rassle together in our living room sometimes. It embarrasses me. I wonder if you think it is all right. They have fun and he never really hurts her. I think they should not rassle like this. Am I being silly?

KID SISTER

DEAR SISTER: No, you are being sensible. They are almost old enough for wedlock — time to quit the hammer lock.

DEAR ABBY: Charles and I have been married eleven years. His parents live in the same city and my husband is their only child. Don't get me wrong, Abby, they are nice people and we get along fine. But about three or four nights a week, and all day Sunday, they visit us. Charles goes out in the garage and works on his car or else he goes down in the basement to his workshop, and I am left to listen to them and talk to them. When I complain (in a nice way) Charles tells me that after a hard day's work he likes to "relax." I'd like to relax, too. But how?

TRAPPED AND BORED

DEAR T. AND B.: Collar Charles when he is good and "relaxed," and tell him you are resigning as head of the entertainment committee. If he can't help you keep his parents company, he should at least take turns. (P.S. Don't you have a television set? It could solve your problem and EVERYBODY could relax.)

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I work adjacent to a marriage bureau and see the couples applying for marriage licenses. Sometimes it makes me sad to see the youngsters who are marrying. The boy hangs back, shyly, and makes the girl do all the talking. They look so childish. I want to say, "Don't do it. Wait! You are only babies." Of course I don't dare. There are older couples in their middle twenties and early 30's. They know where they are going and what they are getting into. And when the older couples come in, we are delighted. They are so cute together, and we think, "Bravo for them. No more loneliness."

Not Such Good Advice

Most husbands will receive the advice of Dr. George R. Bach, a California psychiatrist, with at least a few mental reservations.

"Fighting is a natural activity in healthy marital and love relationships," Dr. Bach said. "But the style of marital fighting should be such as to lead to the clarification of important differences between the partners. Hurtful fighting resulting in bitterness and alienation can be avoided and changed into therapeutic fighting."

After a few experiences, the average husband may be able to conclude, on balance, that marital fights do not hasten the end of the world, although the philosophy may stem from a feeling of resignation that they can't be avoided, anyway. But feminine logic being what it is, just how does one go about directing a fight into therapeutic channels? The average husband usually finds himself in a defensive position, unable to avoid, much less direct, the discussion.

Ammunition For Export Trade

A new chapter in American tariff history may be opened this year. Congress in 1934 delegated broad tariff-making authority to the President by authorizing him to cut duties on imports in exchange for equivalent concessions on American exports to foreign countries. The authority granted by the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act, initially for a period of three years, has been repeatedly extended and is now due to expire June 30.

The Kennedy administration, instead of asking simple renewal of the present law, has called for substantial enlargement of the President's tariff powers through enactment of a proposed "Trade Expansion Act." The 1934 law limited the duty reductions in trade agreements with other countries and forbade any transfer of products from the dutiable to the free list. Subsequent renewal legislation, has included increasingly restrictive provisions.

Prominent among the enlarged powers now sought would be authority, in tariff bargaining with other countries, to negotiate across-the-board reductions on entire commodity groups instead of having to seek and offer concessions of an item-by-item basis. If the administration bill goes through, the President will have power, moreover, to remove existing tariff duties completely in the case of certain products. The President wants these and other powers to safeguard the foreign trade of the United States. The European Common Market, composed now of six nations and probably to be joined in due course by Great Britain and numerous other countries, looms as a great tariff-free trading area considerably larger than the United States.

Economic unification of Europe has been urged by this country ever since the war. But as realization of the objective has drawn near, it has become plain that American exporters are going to face increasingly stiff competition in the European market. To make selling conditions as favorable as possible for them, and in particular to keep the Common Market's single external tariff as low as possible, the President will need all the bargaining power that he can get from Congress.

The question now is whether improvements in productivity abroad, already substantial, will be so great in the future as to shift the balance against U.S. producers. This is why the administration has been putting so much emphasis on avoiding wage increases that outstrip productivity gains. To help keep American goods competitive in world markets, President Kennedy on a number of occasions has appealed to labor to hold down wage demands and to manufacturers to hold down price increases. It is of vital importance to this country to maintain and increase its exports to prevent further growth of the deficit in the country's balance of international payments.

These and other considerations underlie the administration's case for liberalization of the country's foreign trade policy. On the other side is the possibility that to win foreign concessions of real value to American exporters, the United States will have to grant concessions that will subject some domestic industries to damaging foreign competition.

How much of the President's request will be granted by Congress remains to be seen. He won't get all of it by any means, but some close to the scene feel that if he asked for the moon, he would get part of the moon.

President's Influence In California

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — The power of the ins over the outs has been increasing in a ratio directly related to the growth of big government and big Federal spending. And with a President in the White House keenly aware of every political angle and how to play it, this means more than ever before.

HERE IN California, with a critical election coming up that may well determine the future of the Republican party, the pattern is all too plain. To elect Richard Nixon governor, so the argument of the Democrats is already developing, would be to put an enemy of the Kennedy Administration in the state capitol and thereby jeopardize the all-important relationship between Washington and California where defense contracts mean more than in any other state.

President Kennedy's popularity, as measured in the nationwide polls, is reflected in full measure in California. Private polls taken recently in some areas show that among Democrats 93 per cent approve the President's policies while only three per cent disapprove. This is an extraordinarily high percentage for a President in office nearly a year and a half.

IN THE POPULOUS urban areas of the southern part of the state new registration among Negroes is said to be 95 per cent Democratic. The ethnic minorities flooding into California from the East have in an ever-increasing proportion come down on the Democratic side. This has contributed to the three - to - two advantage in total registration that the Democrats have.

THE SHREWD advisers around Gov. Edmund G. Brown—they are comparable in some respects to the men around the President—have no illusions that the Kennedy popularity will automatically rub off on the Governor. But they do believe that the combination of the Kennedy personality properly exhibited and the power of the Federal government as it underwrites the prosperity of the state will help to swing the balance. That is why it is a safe bet the one day next October the President and the Governor will ride together in an open car through the streets of Los Angeles. And with all the persuasion that can be applied it is hoped there will be other such days in both the southern and northern halves of this extraordinary state.

WHEN HE WAS here recently the President told Governor Brown that the over-all total of defense contracts for California was 17½ per cent higher in 1961 than the previous year. This is the answer to Nixon's charge that California is being slighted under a Democratic Administration. As the production of manned bombers is phased out in the San Diego area, it will take more contracts, and here again persuasion and the relationship with the Administration in power are part of the political climate being generated by the Democrats. It may be an unhealthy relationship, as many critics aver, but with more than $50 billion in defense spending annually such a development was inevitable.

BUT BROWN'S election cannot be assured by Federal largesse linked to a popular national administration. A poll taken six weeks ago showed that the gap between Nixon and the Governor had been narrowed to two percentage points. But a later trial heat indicates that Nixon still leads by at least five or six points. The Brown problem is one peculiar to the peculiar politics of California.

Elections are determined here by the great middle mass, most of whom have come from the South or the Midwest. Whatever political convictions they brought with them have been diluted by California sun and smog. Earl Warren knew perfectly during his two and a half terms as Governor how to appeal to this middle mass. He rose blandly above politics, and the personal organization he developed had little relation to the Republican party. It evaporated when he left the political scene for the Supreme Court.

BROWN MUST get the same certification of the "good Governor," the leader who can rise above politics, if he is to be confident of election. And he must do this against the principal attack Nixon is certain to level against him—that he is wobbly, unstable, indecisive and one of the last of the big Democratic spenders.

The two opponents in a contest on which so much turns could hardly be more unlike. Brown seems philosophically resigned to whatever the outcome may be. Nixon has staked not only his career but, in a sense, his life on winning. And his image, poor but proud with all the self-made virtues, carries far in this fantastically growing state.

Moving Slow In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's like the sun in your eyes.

The flashy things—nuclear test ban talks, disarmament talks, Berlin talks—blot out much of the meat-and-potato business here at home.

That business is President Kennedy's programs.

He has dropped a mob of them in Congress' basket. After three months of 1962, it's a fair time to ask how he is doing with them. It's simply answered: He is setting no records and, at the rate he's going, he won't be.

THE LIST OF his proposals passed by Congress is impressively small. Only two items which could remotely be called major programs have won approval of both houses and been signed into law.

In one Congress raised the national debt limit to $300 billion, highest since the war, although it was only a $2 billion increase. The other permits training of up to a million unemployed workers for new skills.

The rest of his programs are either stuck in committees or have been passed by only one house of Congress and will die of exhaustion from waiting unless the other House also approves.

Two of his major appeals got a dismal reception. The House killed his plan for a new department of urban affairs and housing. His plan of federal aid for public schools looks as dead as it did last year.

IT IS UNDERSTOOD he will make an all-out pitch to get approval for his program of medical care for the aged, but his efforts on this one so far have not been rocking the walls of the Capitol.

On everything else he is using the same tactics as last year. Using these tactics, strictly professional and unsensational, the President works directly on the members of Congress, or through his aides, while avoiding ill-will, harsh words, or appeals to the public to put pressure on Congress.

The President's personal popularity, as reflected in the public opinion polls, is astonishingly high. So, even if much of his over-all program gets massacred, he'll probably remain highly liked.

Last week, after a lot of bickering among Republicans, Kennedy got the Senate to approve his request for authority to buy up to $100 million in U.N. bonds.

NOW THE HOUSE has to act and that may mean another rocky time of it. The House, but not yet the Senate, approved a boost in postal rates.

The Senate also approved a proposed constitutional amendment to wipe out the poll tax as a requirement for voting. Five Southern states still have it.

This won't get off the ground unless the House also approves. In the Senate the Southern Democrats filibustered a few days and then let the vote be taken. The filibuster was more a gesture for the benefit of the folks back home than a practical effort to stop passage.

The House, but not yet the Senate, passed a tax-revision measure. House and Senate both approved federal aid for college classroom construction, but they did it differently. This can't become law unless they agree on a compromise.

All the other major programs are still bogged down in committees. They include emergency power for the President to cut taxes and launch antirecession public works programs; broadening unemployment insurance; a new farm program; new civil rights legislation; continuation of foreign aid program.

Make It Shorter!

NEW YORK (AP)—Hollywood's annual big moment—its Motion Picture Academy Awards show—meandered along for more than two hours Monday night and into this morning on ABC before the television audience finally learned the names of its best picture, best actor, best actress and best supporting players.

There were many other awards of Oscar statuettes, too, of mild interest to the television audience. But those were the five that kept the yawning public up through endless "I want to express my gratitude to—" speeches. But if you like to look at stars, there were a lot of them to see, and Bob Hope managed to keep things moving as a bright master of ceremonies to the bitter end.

"West Side Story" picked up so many awards that it almost became monotonous. I wouldn't miss watching this annual show, but each year I wonder why Hollywood can't manage to honor itself with a shorter, more interesting program—and also why a great industry like motion pictures must have its big event of the year sponsored, this year by a manufacturer of home permanent waves and a tooth paste.

Edie Adams' half-hour musical special that preceded it on ABC was a bright and sparkling little program. This viewer even wished it could go on longer, a reaction rare in these days of hour-long specials which often seem padded to fill the time.

Miss Adams sang well and in a wide range of moods. Dick Shawn was amusing in a comedy bit and Andre Previn played the piano brilliantly. It was very nice, and one hopes she'll do this sort of thing often.

The special film of John H. Glenn Jr.'s flight, first on CBS and then—in color—on NBC, was most interesting, particularly the pictures of the astronaut taken during the historic flight in space and during the re-entry of the capsule into the earth's atmosphere.

The viewer felt Glenn's jubilation and relief when he reported, three times, that the parachute was working well. It was a fascinating hour, and even more interesting for the lucky ones who could see it in color. Color photographs of the earth far below the space ship were awe-inspiring.

Young Boy's Loss Of Hair Is Unusual

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: We have a 13-year-old son. Three years ago he lost all his hair. Why did it happen and what can we do for him? We have gone from doctor to doctor, and tried treatment after treatment. He only has a little fuzz. — MRS. A. W.

This is a serious problem for a boy of his age, and it will have to be handled carefully by you as parents, as well as by the doctor.

There are different types of baldness. Some are patchy spots on the scalp. Sometimes the head becomes entirely bald. And then there is complete loss of hair, body as well as head.

Exactly what causes these losses is not always clear, especially in the third type. In patchy loss, local disease or injury of the scalp is the more likely cause, but when complete loss of hair occurs, one must consider glandular, nutrition, and even psychological factors. This last is more common than is generally realized, and exactly how it operates isn't clear, either, except that we know from long experience that psychological disturbances can interfere with physical health.

The 13 - year - old is going through puberty ,and this may be related to the hair loss, even though such a reaction is not common. On that basis, however, it might be well worth while to search for a glandular defect.

In addition, the boy's own nervousness or embarrassment may be upsetting him emotionally, thus possibly creating a vicious circle. The presence of "a little fuzz" may mean that the follicles are still active and that the hair will mature normally in time. However, sometimes baldness has to be accepted as permanent, and it seems wise to me to reassure the boy subtly and quietly that loss of his hair isn't a major tragedy. It has happened to others, and they have still become healthy, successful adults. I'd hope for re-growth of the hair, but try not to let the boy think it is too important.

In some glandular cases, cautious use of steroid drugs has been made to promote re-growth, but I would not be inclined to attempt this while the boy is in the present important period of his development.

Dear Dr. Molner: I think I am overweight. I am 5 feet 10½, weigh 190 pounds and am 85 years old. I've had a good appetite all my life. I am enclosing 5 cents and a stamped, self - addressed envelope for your leaflet on reducing. — F. L. B.

"Lost Secret of Reducing"

Dear Dr. Molner: Is rectal temperature a degree higher than oral? If so, which reading should one go by? What length of time is required to take the temperature? — MRS. W. B.

Yes, rectal temperature is a degree higher than temperature taken by mouth (and axillary temperature, taken in the armpit, is about a degree lower than oral).

One can "go by" any of the readings, keeping in mind the normal differences but oral temperature is most frequently used, and that is what is meant unless one of the others is specified. It takes about two minutes to get a correct temperature reading.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of The Big Spring Herald for the booklet "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

The Age Of The Computer

According to a release which has reached my desk, the time is coming when you, as an individual, will no longer have to figure out your income tax.

This does not mean, as you might perhaps suddenly assume, that Uncle Sugar is planning in the future to take all of what you earn instead of most of it as at present.

Nor does it mean, as the more optimistic may believe, that the income tax is to be abolished.

THIS FUTURE DAY when John Q. Taxpayer will no longer have to sweat and worry over Form 1040 is somewhat distant. Seventy-five years hence, according to this release. That makes the matter of only the slightest academic interest to me.

And if you think that the system which will be in effect in 2037 is going to be good, think again! Your grandkids will not be a bit better off than you are. Indeed, they may even find it tougher than now.

THE GOVERNMENT, according to this release, will be using giant electronic computers to figure out just what tax every mother's son of us will owe. And these big gadgets have no margin for border line deductions.

There's another odd angle in store for the residents of this land in 2037, according to this report.

Not only will there be no income tax returns 1962-style—there will be no money to pay taxes or pay for anything else. It will all be done, as this prophet sees things, by machines.

WE'RE GETTING pretty close to the no money phase of now. (In fact, I've been getting along as best I could with practically no money for all of my life.) However, what I meant by saying we were well along toward the abolition of cold cash was the almost universal use of credit cards for everything we buy.

I heard about a fellow who drove into a service station and ordered some gasoline. When he tried to pay the attendant with cash, that individual balked. "What's the idea?" he demanded angrily. "How come you ain't got no credit card? How do I know this stuff (the money) is any good?"

THIS RELEASE from which I am cribbing this stuff relates:

"Money, as we know it, will be out of style (in 2037). Everything bought and sold and earned will be electronically recorded in banks.

"The banks in that day will have been converted into huge computers."

I am a little at loss to see how it all works and what you'll use for parking meters in that distant day. But, all things considered, I do not intend to worry overmuch about it.

The government, says this release, will compute the income tax with no shenanigans from old John Q. Taxpayer.

THERE WILL be one possible happy benefit, it is pointed out. A foolproof computer and no cash money will put crime syndicates out of business. I wonder about that.

Furthermore, the advocates of this golden age of the super IBM machines insist that the human mind, freed of facts and figures and income tax returns, will become more and more creative.

So?

Creating what? More gadgets to be scored on one's computer card as assets so that the government can take a deeper dig into the balance?

Let's stay the way we are, please!

Heroes Above Commercialism

How does a nation go about paying a hero for a deed of such surpassing bravery that both the doer and the deed are assured of immortality? What is the cash value of an heroic act that places the doer so far outside the range of ordinary mortals that the rest of us regard him with awe, admiration, pride and deep affection? What is the going price of a feat that earns the hero all the honors a grateful government can bestow?

SURELY, the answer is not a $24,000 house-and-lot in Houston, Texas! The astronauts, in turning down the offer, have only further endeared themselves to the American public. No one begrudges any of the seven a house. But no advocate would ever have persuaded the American public that the proposed gift wasn't tied to a real estate development and a super-promotion for the decorators and firms that proposed to furnish the Houston homes.

Despite all the denials from the Texans bearing gifts, the whole offer smacked of commercialism. For better or for worse, Americans want their heroes even as Caesar's wife: above suspicion. That may be hard on the heroes and unfair to them. But it is an undeniable fact.

OUR NATIONAL pride in these remarkable men has given the country a tremendous psychological lift. Their dedication and selflessness has made us all, young and old, feel eight feet tall. It may be hard on the astronauts to refuse a house in Texas, but it would be harder on American youth, which now worships these seven, to draw the conclusion that great service to one's country and supreme heroism carry their own quid pro quo.

When Sgt. Alvin York returned from World War I, the outstanding American hero of that conflict was met at the dock by innumerable agents representing all sorts of business and commercial enterprises. All hoped to cash in on the sergeant's fame. But Sergeant York stood tall and coined an immortal phrase when he told the herd offering him quick riches, "My services to my country are not for sale."

YORK, who had had two years of schooling, went back to the Tennessee hills where he was born. It was the grateful people of Tennessee, through their legislature, who gave York the house and farm where he has since lived. There was no commercial tie-in here. In the remote neighborhood he started a Bible school and a vocational school, and he built roads to bring the children to them.

For almost 20 years he resisted all efforts to put his heroism on film. When the picture, "Sergeant York," was finally made, his share of the profits went into his schools.

IT IS THE ironic fate of this hero that although his reputation is untarnished in the nation's eyes and he stands as tall today as he did in 1918, a reader will hunt in vain through the 1960-61 edition of "Who's Who" for any reference to the sergeant. It is doubly ironic that the government bedeviled him for years for income tax assessments on his film earnings.

But the measure of public affection and esteem in which he is held by his fellow citizens was demonstrated a few years ago by the speed with which they contributed to a fund to pay off the tax assessment when it became known that he was ill, bedridden and unable to raise the sum.

PERHAPS Sergeant York's story proves that a public hero should grab with both hands while the grabbing is good. But I think not. The public gratefully regards York as a hero sans peur et sans reproche, and thus honors him. No one has ever said it better than the ill-schooled sergeant when he declared, "My services to my country are not for sale."

We Need A Man Of Might

AIRBORNE TO U.S.A.—As the American traveler passes through the Mediterranean and back home via Europe, he does best if he refrains from delusions about the overworked "image" of the U.S.A.

Like the old gray mare, it is a long way from what it used to be. President Kennedy has had plenty of time by now to establish himself as the self-proclaimed Solver of the Sixties. He just hasn't done it.

ONE REASON is that he suffers by comparison in foreign minds with past American leaders. We at home know that Gen. Eisenhower was, in sum, a do-little President, but foreigners still see Ike as a beloved liberator of Europe and later as the good, gray lover of peace. Dwight Eisenhower, during his entire international career as soldier and statesman, threw the long shadow of prestige. Foreigners did not know that he could not find, in press conferences, the life-saver of a predicate to match his subject. It is hardly known outside of the political lodges that Mr. Eisenhower was the fuzziest kind of a thinker and the most disappointing of leaders. He looked good, even when he was terrible.

FOREIGNERS feel that F. D. Roosevelt had grandeur, and that Harry Truman had integrity. Whether these are deserved compliments need not concern us. But I have traveled in places where the American presence among aliens is a matter of world significance, and I must report that Mr. Kennedy has not projected it.

Glamour? Perhaps, because he is young and handsome, and because Jacqueline Kennedy has been the equivalent of the lovely British Queen. Interest? Of course, because the 1960 election, and the astonishing appetite of the Kennedy Clan for getting into the news and picture stories could not possibly go unnoticed.

BUT PUBLICITY is not prestige. And this distinction is asserting itself. With all the good will of an American heart, a traveler cannot find that Mr. Kennedy has turned one foreign eye, lifted one overseas head, caused a throb of confidence in any ally or dependent, or the tremor of fear or respect in a major or minor enemy.

To be brutal with the truth, J. F. Kennedy still has to prove himself as being anything more than the synthetic product of his family fortune's publicity machine. I was in Cairo with the present world's heavyweight champion, Floyd Patterson, who shares a number of traits with the American President. Neither of them beat anybody of note to take the title. Neither of them has won any notable fights to retain the diadem. In President Kennedy's case, he was beaten by a gutter-type in Fidel Castro, and he has approached his bouts with Khrushchev with such caution and ambiguity that respect could not possibly be the logical result.

BACK HOME, I know, we have the trust and patience to wait for Mr. Kennedy to find his nerve and strength, but this is not true in any land where I have sampled opinion. There is a little confidence that the President will keep his courage to the point of resuming atmospheric testing. If he backs down on this one, many Americans overseas will be looking for holes to hide their heads in. If the President does not soon improve his position in the testing grounds of West Europe and Southeast Asia (holding his own is not enough), the slippage will be catastrophic.

THE WHOLE picture of American leadership is immeasurably worsened by the example of French President Charles de Gaulle, who has shown what a resolute, fearless, strong-minded man can do for a country that is in far worse shape than ours. Without support of his parliament, with scant understanding from the world, despite mutiny within his army and much right on the opposing side, the decaying old Cross of Lorraine has been the Free World's exemplar — in the very months when the glittering Frontiersman has had to fall back on nothing more substantial than the faith of his friends.

Likes Slower Pace

Italian actress, Rosanna Schiaffino, feels that American people are friendly, but go at too fast a pace to suit her. She believes they hurry too much to enjoy life.

Italian Beauty Tells Eye Make-Up Secrets

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Many an admiring glance was given to Rosanna Schiaffino as she made her way to my table at Romanoff's. Her dark Italian beauty was set off by a lovely turban of roses.

"I'll be in Rome for Easter," she said as the waiter seated her, "but I'll wear my California bonnet."

Rosanna's English has improved during the past months at MGM where whe has been filming "Two Weeks in Another Town."

"I am going to miss California," she said after ordering a three-course luncheon with wine. "You Americans are so friendly, but you hurry too much to enjoy life."

Like all Italian women, Rosanna plays up her eyes. When I mentioned it to her she asked, "You are learning about eye make-up, no?"

"Yes, we are," I replied. "Tell me your own technique."

"I like to put a pencil line in black close to my lashes. Then I go over this with a brown line to tone it down. I like a round point on my pencil better than a flat one, but I sharpen it to make it fine. Then I pat white powder over my eyelids to keep the pencil line from smearing."

"You certainly don't need artificial lashes," I remarked.

"My mother, like so many Italian women, rubbed olive oil on my lashes when I was a baby. It does the most good, my mother believes, the first six months.

"I also like oil for cleansing my face. When I want to make my skin especially clean, I put salt with the oil." She rubs this with her fingertips on places that are likely to have plugged pores.

After lunch Rosanna used her finger bowl and then took her favorite perfume from her purse anc sprinkled a few drops on her hands. She had taken a break in the day with a leisurely lunch, and scenting her fingertips was as much a part of it as our after-lunch cigarette.

"Have you found it difficult to resist our mad, mad tempo?" I asked in parting.

Rosanna smiled. "It hasn't been easy," she said, "but I don't feel well when I rush."

Traveler Discovers Baby

A smiling baby boy, found abandoned on the front seat of an automobile parked at a Philadelphia airport, is held by nurse Judith Fisher at a Philadelphia hospital. Edward Waddington, 46, of Alloway, N.J., told police he found the baby in his car at the airport parking lot.

Federal Judge Orders Texas City Schools To Integrate

HOUSTON (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge James Noel ordered today the integration of Texas City public schools, beginning with the three high school grades in September of 1963.

The highest grade, the ninth, will be integrated in September, 1964. Thereafter, a grade a year downward will be opened to Negroes.

The plan approved by Noel had generally been recommended by a bi-racial committee appointed by the Texas City School Board.

Holman Lillienstern, lawyer for the school district, said integration in the high school was recommended first because there are only a limited number of Negro high school students. Many courses available for white high school students, he said, are not offered in the Negro high school.

Lillienstern said Negro schools on lower levels are believed to be as good as white schools.

Noel's order does not force a Negro to enter the white high school. If he wishes, the Negro may continue attending his own school.

The suit to integrate Texas City schools was filed last August in Galveston.

It was brought by three Negroes who tried to enroll in June for summer school at Texas City High School. They were turned away.

The Negroes are Clinton Evans, Lee Miles and Dorothy Jones.

The biracial committee appointed by the school board recommended that integration start in Texas City High School, and then work down gradually through all grades.

After its report the committee was dissolved.

The school board received the plan, but never officially adopted it.

Under state law, a school board cannot order integration without a public vote calling for it. If the school district integrated without a supporting referendum, it loses state aid.

However, it does not forfeit state financing if it is forced to integrate by court order. The districtwide enrollment in the Texas City school system is 6,486, of which 555 are Negroes.

In the Texas City High School (grades 10 through 12), 994 students are enrolled. At Booker T. Washington High School, 67 Negores are enrolled.

Just Wants Chairs Back

At first Maj. Robert Short didn't want to be embarrassed about it, but now he doesn't mind.

"All I want," he bemoaned, "is to get my chairs back."

Not long ago, just at the moment the offices were being closed, someone came by and wanted to borrow 20 folding chairs. They offered to put up a deposit or to pay, but they were issued the chairs without charge on a promise they would be returned promptly.

Somenow, no record was made of the checkout, and the major doesn't know who it was who got the chairs. This was embarrassing, but nothing like being short 20 chairs, he admitted.

New Members Added To Club

KNOTT (SC)—Eight new members were added to the Knott 4-H Club at a meeting Monday night in the Knott School.

Newcomers are Rita Jones, Cheryl Jones, Marlene Free, Judy Free, Richard Free, Paula Wood, Johnny McGregor and Randy James. There are 17 present.

Mrs. Catherine Crawford, home demonstration agent, and Lovell Kuykendall, assistant county agent, met with the group. They presented a program on preparing food and knowing grasses.

Martha Roberson opened the program by leading the club in the motto of the 4-H Club.

The next meeting will be a work night scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., April 23 at the school.

Club Owners Buy Station

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—Officials of Radio KENS said Monday the station has been sold for $700,000 to two Houston men who own controlling interest in the Houston baseball club.

The new owners are Roy Hofheinz former mayor of Houston and former Harris County judge, and R. E. Smith, who has extensive business holdings.

The station will be operated by the Texas Star Broadcasting Co. if the FCC approves the transaction.

An application for transfer of ownership of the Express Publishing Co. to the Harte-Hanks Publishing Co. will be filed with the application for sale of KENS. The Harte-Hanks interests will retain ownership of KENS-TV. The Express Publishing Co. properties also include the San Antonio Express and News and Airnews Inc., an aircraft distribution and charter firm.

Woman Arrested On Austin Charge

Mrs. Lillie Faye Andrews was arrested here today on an Austin warrant charging burglary. Big Spring police made the arrest about 11:15 a.m. and turned her over to Austin Detective Fred Estepp and a woman police matron.

The warrant was issued by Justice of the Peace J. H. Watson in Austin. Estepp and Detective Bert Bowman said the woman had been identified by two teen-age boys in Austin from photographs in the Colorado City police files. She was traced to Big Spring through license tags, the officers said.

New Members Of Commission To Take Office

New members of the Big Spring City Commission will be sworn in and the group organized following a canvass of election votes tonight by the city commission. Some business will be transacted by the previous commission before the new one takes over.

Bids will be opened and considered for the relocation of the 14-inch Moss Creek water line across property owned by Lloyd Curley east of Birdwell Lane and north of Marcy Drive.

The bids on the drainage of East Third and Fourth, originally scheduled to be opened tonight, will be postponed until the April 24 meeting, A. K. Steinheimer, city manager, said Tuesday. He said problems had arisen and that it is necessary to get these cleared up before bids are received.

George Zachariah, re-elected to the commission, Arnold Marshall and W. L. (Squeaky) Thompson, both new members, will take the oath of office after their election is certified tonight. These, with holdover members, Paul Kasch and John Stanley Jr., will elect a mayor and mayor pro-tem from the group.

Business to come before the new commission will be consideration of bids for a bank depository for the city for the year beginning May 1, 1962 and ending April 30, 1963. Bids for concessions at the city park will also be considered for the year beginning April 15.

Woman Hurt In Affray

A charge of assault with intent to murder was filed in Justice of the Peace Jess Slaughter's court Tuesday morning against Mary Gomez, following an affray at the Star Lounge, 400 NW 4th, Monday night. Carmen Sandoval, a waitress at the lounge, was treated and released from the Howard County Hospital Foundation for a knife wound on her left arm.

Detective Aubrey Hurley, who filed the charge against the Gomez woman, said the case would be taken before the grand jury now in session. Slaughter set bond at $2,500.

Police Patrolmen Jimmie Ellison and Ruben Gonzales passed the Star Lounge on patrol at 10:20 p.m. Monday and saw what appeared to be a fight in front of the place. They found one person holding the Gomez woman outside and others attempting to stop the bleeding on the Sandoval woman's arm.

Carmen Sandoval said her sweater was cut on one slash and she was cut in the arm on the second.

Tech Students To Visit Here

A group of around 20 senior agronomy students from Texas Technological College, Lubbock, will visit the Big Spring Experiment Station Wednesday, according to Dr. Jim Box, station superintendent.

"The group will be headed by Dr. A. W. Young, head of the department of agronomy," he said, "and will make a tour of the field station to become familiar with the research activities."

The group will be at the station from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Miss Carolyn Barre, a 20-year-old blue-eyed blonde from Yoakum, is shown wearing her crown as Miss Wool of 1962. Miss Barre, a student at Texas Woman's University at Denton, won over 19 contestants from other state at the Wool Festival held at San Angelo.

Candidates Make List Of Promises

By The Associated Press

Texans were promised more tourist business, oil production, water resources, education, and state's rights by Democratic candidates for governor Monday.

Gov. Price Daniel, seeking his fourth term, predicted in Dallas that Texas will initiate a tourist advertising program to attract foreign visitors to the state and said the U.S. Department of Commerce promotion program will bring millions of dollars in tourist trade to the nation.

John Connally, speaking at Wichita Falls, hit at foreign oil imports and said the oil industry needs friends and a helping hand. He also promised to upgrade education and to help attract new industries to expand the state's economy and increase job opportunities.

Connally said oil "borders on being a sick industry." He said that if elected he "hoped that he could speak effectively against new import orders."

He went on to Amarillo Tuesday morning for conferences and a luncheon, before leaving for Lubbock and a speech and reception.

At Andrews, Don Yarborough said he would push for increased oil production in his program to abolish the sales tax. At Lubbock, he proposed a scientific research program to develop methods of recharging the underground water supply.

Marshall Formby said in Houston that the governor's race "can mean the difference between our being a free state and our being a puppet state for Washington —and I know that Washington is concerned as to the outcome of this race."

In the congressman - at - large race, one Democratic candidate promised voters that if he is elected he will work to get the post abolished.

"The position of congressman-at-large in a state such as Texas is antiquated and a waste of political influence," Woodrow Bean said at El Paso. He said that if elected, he will push for reapportionment to abolish the job. He praised the recent U.S. Supreme Court decision that federal courts could hear cases in which citizens complain of a lack of representation.

Russell T. Van Keuren, Houston Democrat, said in Lubbock Monday that government controls over farmers should be reduced.

"The whole socialistic theory of a planned economy has been a failure. We need to gradually get the government out of business and off our farms and return to the American way of freedom in our markets," he said.

Joe Pool, a Democratic candidate, said in Dallas that "the Texas oil industry has suffered greatly because of the cheap foreign oil import policy initiated by the Republicans."

Republican Desmond Barry told a coffee audience in Austin Monday that "the Kennedy administration is responsible for making a huge amount of money available as a political fund for labor socialists."

Barry said the recent administration executive order on union organization of federal employes has already resulted in forcing 15,000 federal workers into unions.

Bobby Asks Ban On Unfair Literacy Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said today "we ask for nothing more than new remedies for old wrongs" as he pressed for enactment of a bill to ban any unfair use of literacy tests to prevent Negroes from voting.

"This administration believes states may legitimately require their voters to have the ability to inform themselves about election issues," Kennedy told a Senate Judiciary subcommittee.

"The wrong lies in the manner in which literacy and understanding are determined," he said.

"What we propose is to substitute an objective standard for the present subjective color bar to federal voting. The bill we support recognizes a fact of our national life: persons who have completed the sixth grade are qualified to vote and are fully capable of intelligent participation in the democratic process—by any reasonable standard fairly applied," he added.

Kennedy, in his prepared testimony, said that in 1959, in sixteen counties in which Negroes of voting age were the majority, not one Negro was registered to vote. In 49 other such counties, he said, fewer than 5 per cent of the eligible Negroes were registered.

He said the principal "cause and method of discrimination has been the abuse of the so-called 'literacy' or 'interpretation' tests and similar performance tests."

Two Fires, Same Place

Big Spring police received a call from the Collin Reese residence, 2611 S. Monticello, at 2 a.m. Tuesday, reporting two fires starting within 10 minutes of each other at the house.

Reese said a neighbor called and said something was burning under a window at the side of the house. He went out and extinguished the fire. In about 10 minutes a second fire was reported at the rear of the house.

Police Patrolmen Marvin Blackwell and Jimmie Scott reported finding rags, similar to those used in garages, piled in both places where fires started.

Other reports investigated included a theft and accidents, in addition to routine calls. A call to 1610 E. Third brought out information that a power car polisher was stolen three weeks ago.

Accidents investigated, locations and drivers of vehicles involved during the past 24 hours, included: 4100 Block Gregg, Artie McNeese Cobb, Midland, and a parked car owned by Oliver Reed, 609 N. Scurry; Twelfth and Owens, Lila Winters Estes, 1609 Osage, and Gove Gage Sandifer, Webb AFB; 603 Bell, Ira Elmo Wasson, 600 Bell, and parked car owned by Gerald Sterling, 603 Bell.

Northern U.S. Wet, Chilly

By The Associated Press

It was wet and a little chilly across northern sections of the nation today but fairly pleasant spring weather prevailed in most of the southern half of the country.

Most of the wet weather was in areas from the northern Pacific Coast to the northern upper Great Lakes region. Light showers fell in the far Northwest and there were showers and snow flurries in the central and northern Roekies and western sections of the central and northern Plains.

More snow powdered areas in the northern upper Great Lakes with two inches reported in a six-hour period in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Light snow and rain dampened parts of New England.

Cool spots during the morning included areas in Minnesota, with a reading of 11 in Bemidji and 15 in International Falls. Temperatures were in the 30s and 40s across most other parts of the northern half of the country except for 'teens and 20s in the eastern Dakotas and the northwestern upper Great Lakes.

The 50s and 60s prevailed in most of the southern half of the nation. The 70s and higher were reported along the southern border from the Southwest desert to the lower Rio Grande Valley, the lower Texas Gulf coast and in southern Florida. Top mark was 82 in Blythe, Calif.

Severe Storms Are Forecast

By The Associated Press

The Weather Bureau forecast Tuesday that tornadoes and severe thunderstorms are likely in a segment of Texas southeast of Childress where the Red River meets the Panhandle.

The forecast period was from 2 p.m. to 8 p.m.

The area in Texas is bounded approximately by a line from Childress to Breckenridge to Sherman.

Included in the area are Wichita Falls, Vernon, Sherman and Gainesville.

Most of the forecast section is in Oklahoma. The Weather Bureau said the area is 120 miles southeast of a line from Childress to Tulsa.

AF Man On Trial For Secrets Leak

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—Capt. Joseph P. Kauffman went on trial before a U.S. Air Force court-martial today on charges of betraying American military secrets to the Communist East German intelligence service.

The trial was recessed after 50 minutes of preliminaries while defense attorneys discussed the charges with the court.

No plea was entered at the beginning of the trial.

Kauffman, a 43-year-old native of Rutland, Vt., is charged with giving the East Germans information on the number and type of U.S. military planes in constant state of readiness in Greenland and data on the background and weaknesses of Air Force officers in Greenland and Japan.

Kauffman was arrested Nov. 19 at Castle Air Force Base, California, where he was a finance officer. He was flown to Wiesbaden in December and was given a closed pretrial hearing late in January.

The Air Force reported then that Guenther Maennel, who claims to have headed the American desk in the East German intelligence service, picked Kauffman from a lineup of officers as the person with whom he dealt in East Germany in 1960.

OIL REPORT

Cosden Stakes Borden Wildcat

Cosden Petroleum Corp. has staked an 8,700-foot Pennsylvanian wildcat in the southwestern portion of Borden County. The No. 1 Slaughter is located about three miles north of Vealmoor.

Another location was filed in Garza County's Kirkpatrick (Pennsylvanian) field. It is Shell No. 4 W. M. Kirkpatrick, about four miles southeast of Post.

Pico Drilling Co. No. 1 W. M. Spears, Howard County wildcat seeking to confirm the Coahoma (Wichita-Albany) field and testing zones to the Ellenburger, has been taken over by Texas Pacific Coal and Oil, which completed the discovery well of the Coahoma field. The new operator is testing the Pennsylvanian after acidizing and fracturing it heavily.

Borden

Cosden Petroleum Corp. No. 1 Slaughter is projected to 8,700 feet as a Pennsylvanian explorer about three miles north of Vealmoor. The site is 4,908 feet from the south and 2,259 feet from the east lines of section 12-33-3n, T&P survey.

Dawson

Shell No. 1 Cone is making hole below 10,114 feet. The venture spots C NW NW, section 98-M, EL&RR survey.

Texaco No. 1 Painter is drilling through lime and chert below 11,347 feet. It is C SE NW, section 23-36-4n, T&P survey.

Garza

Humble No. 12 Alexander is digging below 4,150 feet. Location is C NW NW, section 139-5, H&GN survey.

General American No. 3-744 Koonsman is bottomed at 4,896 feet. The hole may be converted into a water injection well. Location is C SE SE SW, section 744-2, H&TC survey. It is in the Red Loflin, North field.

Shell No. 4 W. M. Kirkpatrick, spotting C SE SW, section 3-2, abstract 15, GH&H survey, is set for 8,420 feet by rotary tool in the Kirkpatrick (Pennsylvanian) field. It is on a 640-acre lease about four miles southeast of Post.

Glasscock

Sinclair No. 12 Fannie Boyd is making hole in sand below 118 feet. This wildcat spots 1,980 feet from the south and 1,880 feet from the east lines of section 9-36-5s, T&P survey. It is an Ellenburger venture in the Spraberry Trend Area about 15 miles southwest of Garden City.

TXL No. 1 Currie is making hole through sandy shale below 5,406 feet. It spots C SW SW, section 22-34-3s, T&P survey.

TXL No. 1 Reynolds is digging in lime below 5,210 feet. Location is C NE NE, section 24-32-4s, T&P survey.

Howard

Midwest No. 1 Self is drilling through lime below 5,820 feet. The venture is C NE NE NE, section 39-32-3n, T&P survey.

Pico Drilling Co. No. 1 W. M. Spears, taken over by Texas Pacific Coal and Oil, has perforated the Pennsylvanian between 7,890-909 feet. The zone was acidized with 500 gallons of mud-cut acid and recovery was 500 barrels of load oil, with no shows. It was fraced with 20,000 gallons and 18,000 pounds of sand. After being shut in for 13 hours, the project flowed 25 barrels of load in one hour. Operator is still testing. The site is C NE NE, section 31-30-1n, T&P survey.

Socony Mobil No. 7 Kelly Roberts pumped 32.22 barrels of 31.2 gravity oil, with 50 per cent water, on initial potential in the Howard-Glasscock field. The gas-oil ratio was 252-1 and the well was fraced with 30,000 gallons. It bottomed at 1,760 feet, it was plugged back to 1,739 feet, 4½ inch casing is at 1,760 feet and perforations are between 1,603-15 feet and 1,675-85 feet. Location is C NW SE SE, section 112 - 29, W&NW survey, on a 320-acre lease about 14 miles southeast of Big Spring.

Williamson No. 1 Hamlin is making hole through lime and shale below 8,149 feet. Drillsite is C SW SE, section 5-32-2n, T&P survey.

Martin

Barnes No. 1 Slaughter is digging through shale below 9,885 feet. The site is C SW NW, section 86-B, Bauer and Cockrell survey.

Mitchell

Shell No. 1 Scott is drilling below 5,150 feet. The explorer is C SW NE, section 7-17, SPRR survey.

Cincinnati's defending champion Reds, first National League team to occupy 10th place since the turn of the century, will try to climb out today as the expanded circuit gets its 87th season rolling with a full program of second day openers.

The Reds, as original franchise holders in the NL, traditionally are accorded the privilege of officially opening the season at home each year. They raised the curtain for the 76th time Monday and were unceremoniously drubbed 12-4 by the Philadelphia Phillies.

They'll be trying to register on the other side of the ledger when they invade Los Angeles and help the Dodgers get under way before an expected sellout crowd of 56,000 in the new $18-million Dodger stadium.

Houston and New York will make their debuts under different circumstances, the Colts opening before the home folks against Chicago while the Mets are at St. Louis for a night game.

Milwaukee is at San Francisco and Philadelphia at Pittsburgh in the other openers as the National League unveils a 10-club circuit playing a 162-game schedule for the first time in its venerable history.

The Reds sent 21-game winner Joey Jay against the Phillies Monday and the ace of the staff lasted 2 1-3 innings before leaving with the score 5-0, including a homer by Clay Dalrymple in the second.

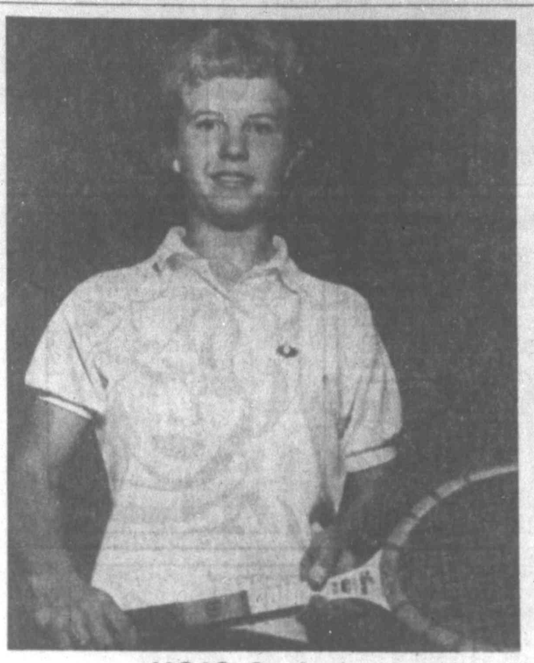

The Reds are expected to come back today with left-hander Jim O'Toole, 19-9 last season when Cincinnati won its first National League pennant in 20 years. Southpaw Johnny Podres (18-5 last year) will oppose him for the Dodgers, who launched their new ball park in Chavez Ravine Monday with a dedication program.

The Colt's send their cast of hand-me-downs front and center in a temporary stadium that will serve as home until a new domed ball park is completed. The Cubs will start with four rookies in the line-up—Lou Brock in centerfield, Ken Hubbs at second, Elder White at short and Cuno Barragan catching Don Cardwell (13-14). Bobby Shantz (6-3) will open for Harry Craft's Colts.

The Mets open with a host of old faces—Richie Ashburn, Charlie Neal, Gil Hodges, Gus Bell and Frank Thomas, pitcher Roger Craig (5-6)—and Manager Casey Stengel. Stan (The Man) Musial, operating in the No. 4 batting position for the Cardinals, can set another league record if he scores two runs. Larry Jackson (14-11) will be the pitcher.

Warren Spahn, (21-13), like Musial a member of the over-40 club, will be gunning for victory No. 310 when he takes the mound for the Braves at San Francisco, facing a Giant batting order led by NL home run king Orlando Cepeda.

The league-leading Phils will send Jim Owens (5-10) against Bob Friend (14-19) at Pittsburgh.

HCJC Soph Ace

Betty Ellison of Big Spring, a sophomore at HCJC, is one of the standouts on the Jayhawk Queen tennis team this season. Betty is largely limiting her play to doubles competition and her usual partner is Mary Griffin. The Queens have yet to suffer a team defeat this season and are leading the Western Conference standings.

Good Weather For Opener

HOUSTON (AP)—The weatherman predicted warm, summery weather today as the Houston Colt .45s met the Chicago Cubs to bring major league baseball to the South.

Bobby Shantz, a little left-hander who takes cortisone shots to keep his arm from hurting, was to be Houston's starting pitcher in the team's first National League baseball game.

Don Cardwell, a right-hander who won 15 and lost 14 for Chicago last season, was to start for the Cubs.

Houston got the jump on the National League's other newcomer — New York's Mets—because the Mets open at night against St. Louis.

Shantz posted a 6-3 record—mostly in relief—for the Pittsburgh Pirates last year. He dealt his change of speed pitches to a Chicago batting order featuring Ernie Banks, Ron Santo, Billy Williams and George Altman.

On his side, Shantz had a lineup with origins as mixed as the United Nations. The starting team came from five National League and one American League clubs. All but one of the players came from the National League pool.

On the eve of opening day, Houston Manager Harry Craft said:

"We don't go overboard on spring success. We know our weaknesses, but we think we have a good nucleus to build with. We're all anxious to get going.

"You reach a point when you think the season will never start."

This was Shantz' third season as a team's opening pitcher and Cardwell's first opener.

MAJOR LEAGUE STANDOUTS

BATTING—Bob Johnson, Senators, led attack with a two - run homer in fourth inning and two singles in Washington's 4-1 opening day victory over Detroit.

PITCHING—Benny Daniels, Senators, stopped Tigers with five-hitter, striking out seven while walking only two in presidential opener at Washington.

San Angelo Tries Longhorns Today

An enraged San Angelo Bobcat baseball team takes the field against Big Spring in a District 2-AAAA contest here at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The Cats, who over the weekend had the conference lead all to themselves, stumbled before Abilene Cooper in San Angelo in a makeup contest Monday, 3-2, and now share the top spot with three other clubs.

Defensive errors cost the Cats dearly Monday. The Cats saved Minton White (4-2) back to pitch against the Longhorns today and, from all indications, that was a blunder.

Glenn Rodriquez took the mound for the second time this year and had to accept the loss in the Cooper game.

Big Spring hasn't played in a week, so its pitching staff should be fully rested. The Steers' ace lefthander, Dexter Pate, probably will go to the mound today.

The Longhorns, 9-6 on the year, will play three times this week and two of those games will come on the road. The Longhorns go to Abilene Thursday for a makeup contest with the Eagles and visit Odessa Saturday for a 2 p.m. joust with the Permian Panthers.

Big Spring will be seeking to improve upon a 2-3 won-lost record in conference play. The Steers have beaten Cooper and Permian and lost to Midland High, Midland Lee and Odessa High.

Dog Show Slated In Odessa Friday

ODESSA—The West Texas Kennel Club will stage its annual spring all-breed dog show Friday in the Ector County Coliseum barns.

Judging will get under way at 9 a.m. and will continue throughout the day. Variety group judging starts at 3 p.m.

Two California men, Derek Rayne and Chris Shuttlesworth, will serve as judges.

River Oaks Stars Unlimber Today

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The big guns were to go into action today in the 28th River Oaks Tennis Tournament with Rod Laver leading the way.

Laver, the Australian who became the first foreign entry to win the Oaks championship last year and is top seeded this year, was paired with Jimmy Parker, a student at Rice University, in the first round of the mens' singles competition.

Parker and 15 other youngsters earned the right to meet the 16 exempt players in qualifying matches Monday.

Roy Emerson, Laver's countryman and finalist with him last year, was to meet Alfonso Ochoa of Mexico. Emerson is seeded second. Whitney Reed of Alameda, Calif., the top U.S. player and third seeded here, was to face Gabino Palafox of Corpus Christi University. Chuck McKinley, seeded fourth, was to play John Maloney, a student at Lamar Tech in Beaumont.

Pipers Claim Title In ABL

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Cleveland Pipers, storm center of the new American Basketball League much of the season, completed a hectic campaign Monday night by beating the Kansas City Steers 106-102 for the loop championship.

The Pipers, who faced a threat of being kicked out of the league for alleged noncompliance of ABL rules at midseason, got the job done by winning three straight in the best-of-five playoffs after losing the first two games.

It was a fine comeback for Coach Bill Sharman of the Pipers, too. Sharman created considerable controversy when he jumped the Boston Celtis of the National Basketball Association to become player-coach of ABL's Los Angeles entry. He got the coaching job at Cleveland when Los Angeles folded at the close of the first half and Piper management fired Johnny McClendon.

The Pipers, Eastern Division champions, failed to show up for the scheduled fifth game Sunday because of a squabble over the playing site. They really came to play Monday night.

The Steers, who had the leading scorer in Bill Bridges with 31 points, stayed in the game well into the second half. They led 76-72 in the third period when Barnett, Dierking and Bob Keller found the range to pull the Pipers in front to stay.

Cooper Upsets Bobcats, 3-2

SAN ANGELO — Coach Johnny Elam gambled by sending infielder Glen Rodriquez to the mound in a makeup baseball game with Abilene Cooper here Monday and San Angelo dropped a 3-2 District 2-AAAA decision to Abilene Cooper.

The win was the first in conference play for Cooper while the loss dropped the Bobcats into a four-way tie for first place in conference standings.

Rodriquez limited the Cougars to one hit through five innings but the Bobcat defense fell apart in the sixth, when Cooper scored two runs and tied the game.

Cooper won the game in the seventh when leadoff batter Harry Hamric singled, moved to second on a sacrifice by Roy McCharen, advanced to third on an infield bobble by Minton White and scored on a single by Bobby McGraw.

Cooper	000	002	1—3	5 3
San Angelo	020	000	0—3	5 6

Venable and Gribble, McGraw; Rodriquez, Chastain (7) and Spieker.

Williams Named Assistant Pro

MIDLAND—Bobby Williams, 25-year-old son of a Houston golf pro, has been named assistant golf pro at the Midland Country Club.

He succeeds Jake Bechtold, who quit recently to become head pro at the Odessa Country Club.

Williams will assume his new duties Thursday. Bobby's father is club pro of the Memorial Park course in Houston.

For the past year, young Williams has been serving as an assistant pro in Amarillo.

Head pro of the Midland course is Boyd Huff.

Redskins Face Dallas In NFL 1962 Opener

DALLAS—The National Football League Dallas Cowboys' 1962 league schedule, announced recently, is highlighted by out-of-conference games with Chicago Bears and Los Angeles Rams in addition to the regular home-and-home series with the Cowboys' Eastern Conference foes.

"This year's schedule is an ideal one, and will provide area football fans with an opportunity to see outstanding teams and individual stars in action in the Cotton Bowl," Cowboys general manager Tex Schramm commented.

The schedule marks the first appearance here by the Chicago Bears since the Cowboys joined the NFL in 1960. The Bears will be the opposition November 18 in the Cotton Bowl. The Cowboys geles on Sept. 30.

The Cowboys open league action Sept. 16 against the Washington Redskins here in the Cotton Bowl, and will wind up the season Dec. 16 at New York.

Home dates and opponents for the Cowboys are: Sept. 23, Pittsburgh Steelers; Oct. 14, Philadelphia Eagles; Oct. 28, St. Louis Cardinals; Nov. 11, New York Giants; Nov. 18, Chicago Bears; Dec. 2, Cleveland Browns.

The road schedule sends the Cowboys against the Rams on Sept. 30, then into Cleveland, Oct. 7; at Pittsburgh, Oct. 21; at Washington, Nov. 4; at Philadelphia, Nov. 25; at St. Louis, Dec. 9; and at New York, Dec. 16.

The 14-game league schedule provides for seven home games and seven away. An eighth home game is also slated as the Cowboys will meet the World Champion Green Bay Packers here Aug. 10 in a pre-season contest sponsored by the Dallas Salesmanship Club. The Salesmanship Club Game is the first of five pre-season games scheduled by the Cowboys.

Other pre-season action sends the Cowboys against the Detroit Lions in the first game of a double header at Cleveland on Aug. 18, (Cleveland will meet Pittsburgh in the nightcap); the Baltimore Colts, Aug. 25, at a site yet to be named; the San Francisco 49ers at Sacramento, Sept. 1 and the Minnesota Vikings, Sept. 8 at Atlanta.

Palmer Rally Wins Masters Tourney

By MERCER BAILEY

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—Golf is in its Palmer era.

Once it was the Jones and Hagen era.

Then it was the Snead and Hogan era.

Now it is the Palmer era. It's Arnold Palmer's all alone. No one shares it with him.

In any major tournament today, Arnold Palmer, the onetime steelworker from Latrobe, Pa., must be given the favorite's role.

What makes him greater than the rest is his tenacity, aggressiveness and refusal to concede defeat.

Twice in two days, en route to his third Masters golf championship, Palmer proved no one can equal his ability to rally sensationally when it appears all hope is gone.

In Monday's playoff with Gary Player and Dow Finsterwald, Palmer trailed Player by three shots after nine holes.

Then that characteristic Palmer comeback began unfolding. He birdied No. 10 with a 30-foot putt. Player took a bogey. On No. 12, Palmer got a birdie deuce with a tee shot 3½ feet from the cup. Again Player took a bogey and Palmer was ahead by one shot. Palmer collected two more birdies on the next two holes and it was just a question of how big his victory margin would be.

Palmer wound up with a 4-under-par 68, Player had a 71 and Finsterwald, who never got started, finished with a 77. They had finished the 72-hole route deadlocked at 280. Par for the 6,990-yard Augusta National course is 36-36—72.

Palmer's $20,000 first prize vaulted him ahead of Doug Ford and Cary Middlecoff to the top of the PGA official money winning list for the past 15 years, since official records first were kept. Palmer has collected $298,738 in official PGA purses, Ford $296,037 and Middlecoff $285,232 although Arnold has been a pro only since November 1954.

Player, who failed in his bid to become the first Masters champion to successfully defend his title, won $12,000 second money and Finsterwald pocketed $8,000.

Palmer's rally, which electrified a milling gallery of about 18,000 who stretched and craned and raced from one vantage point to the next, was his second in a row.

Leading Finsterwald by two shots and Player by four at the start of the fourth round Sunday, Palmer skidded to a 39 on the front nine, took a double bogey-6 on No. 10 and coming into 16 needed two birdies on the last three holes to gain a tie. He got them.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Sports dialogue:

ROBERT F. KENNEDY, U.S. Attorney General:

"Except for war, there is nothing in American life which trains a boy better for life than football. There is no substitute for athletics—there can be no substitute for football."

HENRICH

* * * *

TOMMY HENRICH, former outfielder for the New York Yankees:

"When I congratulated Roger Maris on his 61 home runs and wished him the best, I also said, 'I'm a Babe Ruth man.' He shrugged his shoulders and said, 'You're just like all the rest of the old guys.' An intense young man, Roger did it the hard way. While others before him had suddenly realized they didn't want to break Ruth's records, Roger became more determined by the day. He could taste those 61 home runs. As for his conduct this spring, I can only echo what he himself has said, that he was born surly. It is certainly a crime that he doesn't capitalize upon the honors bestowed. I don't think he's got a swelled head. It's just that he's had too much publicity and attention by the press he feels, well, that's he had enough. He is not very gracious. Perhaps in a few years he'll say to himself: 'I should have acted differently.' In the home run race this year, I'd have to take a healthy Mickey Mantle over Maris . . . Whitey Ford is a big-city boy, a guy with a lot of moxie. He did a lot for Mantle, you know, when Mickey first came up from a small town in Oklahoma. A lot of Ford's polish has rubbed off on Mantle. Toots Shor was telling me the other day that Ford walked up to Maris, put his hand on Roger's shoulder and said, 'It's going to take me five years to make a major leaguer out of you.'"

* * * *

SATCHEL PAIGE, the one-time Negro pitching great:

"I've already been at this business of pitching for more than 40 years. I was the first pitcher to wave in my outfielders after they had made three straight errors. Leading, 1-0, I then struck out the side. I once pitched a no-hit, 17-strikeout game to keep the local sheriff from putting me in jail in a Georgia town. I've pitched as high as 153 games in one year and have more than 100 no-hitters to my credit. I struck out 23 of the best hitters in the American league in an all-star game one time. I've played as many games in Canada and Central and South America as I have in this country. I won 100 games and lost only six in three years with a top Negro pro team. I pitched a no-hitter in Pittsburgh, drove all night to Chicago and won a second game, 1-0, in 12 innings. I have pitched three games in one day and won them all, including a full game in the morning, a relief game in the afternoon and a full game that night."

* * * *

JOE MEDWICK, former great outfielder, when asked which big league personality concealed his age the most:

"It must have been Leo Durocher. During the war, when the draft board almost took him, Leo's age jumped seven years overnight."

* * * *

FRANK HOWARD, football coach at Clemson:

"The Sugar Bowl folks in New Orleans don't want the Mississippi bunch to come back. They arrive at 11 o'clock on the day of the game with a $10 bill and the Ten Commandments and they don't break either one."

* * * *

TOMMY AARON, young golf pro:

"The one thing I want to do most is win a tournament. I've been on the tour two years, so you can see I'm working real hard for that first place. You don't know how much a victory helps a young guy. I know it's doing a lot for Bobby Nichols. I'm getting in the money more now, but this whole thing boils down to more experience. You've got to stick with it all the time, but playing the tour is the only thing I've dreamed of. Naturally, I'll feel a lot better when I get a big paycheck."

Arnold Palmer Reasonable Boss, Insists His Caddy

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer's longtime caddy says it's easy to tell when the Pennsylvania strong boy is going to make one of his now fabled charges on the golf course.

"He just jerks at his glove, tugs at his trouser belt and starts walking fast," Nathaniel (High Man) Avery said Monday.

"When Mr. Arnold do that, everybody better watch out. He's gonna stampede anything in his way."

High Man, a skinny, 6-foot Negro, who has toted Palmer's clubs in all eight of the Masters in which Arnold has played, said the Latrobe, Pa., pro is not a demanding or unreasonably difficult boss.

"Anybody who can't get along with Mr. Arnold can't get along with anybody," added High Man, who wore the No. "13" on his green and white overalls.

"I should know. I been almost in his pocket on every hole."

High Man said Palmer frequently asks his advice on what club to use but usually winds up making the final decision himself.

"Sometime he go with my advice—and it better be right," the caddy said. "If I misclub him, he don't chastise me. He just look a little mean, and I feel like going through the ground. But he is a great man."

High Man said he suggested the wrong club to Palmer Sunday on the fourth day of the tournament and caused Arnold to take a double-bogey 6

Record Crowd On Hand As Senators Prevail

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

President Kennedy has thrown his last pitch of the season, and Whitey Ford is set to fire his first today as the world champion New York Yankees start their campaign for a third consecutive American League pennant.

The President officially opened the baseball season Monday, throwing out the first ball amid the traditional pomp and circumstance in the national capital, then staying to watch Washington whip Detroit 4-1 behind Bennie Daniels' five-hitter.

The two teams take the day off today while the remainder of the league raises the curtain with Baltimore at New York, Cleveland at Boston, Los Angeles at Chicago and Minnesota at Kansas City.

Daniels went the distance in his opening-day assignment before the crowd of 44,383 that jammed the Senators' new $20-million District of Columbia Stadium. It was the largest crowd ever to see a baseball game in Washington.

Daniels struck out seven and walked only two while driving in one of the Senators' runs. The Tigers scored when Al Kaline hit into a force play following singles by Jake Wood and Bill Bruton. Bob Johnson led a 13-hit attack with a two-run homer in the fourth inning off Don Mossi that put the Senators ahead for good, plus two singles.

Ford, the little southpaw who won the Cy Young Award as the outstanding pitcher in the majors last season after compling a 25-4 record, will be backed by the powerful Yankee attack that numbers Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle among its homer hammerers. Shortstop Tom Tresh, filling the post vacated when Tony Kubek went into the Army, is the lone new face in the starting lineup.

Left-hander Billy Hoeft (7-4) will start for the Orioles, who'll have rookie sensation John (Boog) Powell in left field, trade acquisition Johnny Temple at second and Jerry Adair at shortstop in place of Ron Hansen, like Kubek a member of Uncle Sam's forces.

New Cleveland skipper Mel Mcgaha will unveil rookies Ty Cline and Al Luplow in the outfield and send Dick Donovan (10-10 at Washington) to the mound against the Red Sox. Boston will go with Don Schwall (15-7), rookie of the year in 1961, and start newly acquired Ed Bressoud at shortstop.

The White Sox, returning to the go-go formula that won the pennant in 1959, will have trade acquisitions Joe Cunningham and Charlie Smith at first and third base, respectively. Juan Pizzaro (14-7) will handle the pitching, facing the Angels' Eli Grba (11-13).

Ed Rakow (2-8) is tapped for the A's starting assignment and will oppose Jack Kralick (13-11). The Twins, still counting on the potent bats of Harmon Killebrew, Bob Allison and Jim Lemon, will go with an almost completely remade infield.

"THAT'S RIGHT, NO BITE!"
Says WINSTON DENNIS, cattleman and breeder of champion cutting horses at Aledo, Texas.

Soviets Matching U.S. Aid In Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The Soviet Union is still matching military aid the United States gives the conservative government of Laos by pouring in supplies to the divided kingdom's pro-Communist and neutralist forces.

This reporter last week visited the headquarters in the Plaine des Jarres of neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma and his half-brother Prince Souphanouvong, the leader of the pro-Communist Pathet Lao.

During a four-hour period at the area's main airstrip, six Soviet two-engine transports landed. At least 48 cases of small arms and ammunition were unloaded from each of four planes. The other two discharged bags of sugar.

A Laotian standing nearby said the planes had flown in from Hanoi, capital of Communist North Viet Nam. He said nine planes of that type regularly brought in supplies from Hanoi. Two single-engine transport planes were loaded with supplies for pro-Communist and neutralist front-line troops. They took off, returned half an hour later and loaded again. Each plane made three sorties.

A double-decker helicopter with Soviet pilot at the controls discharged cargo ranging from food to petrol barrels and arms. It shuttled back and forth several times to a nearby area.

At least 50 Russians moved about the area supervising operations.

International communism is represented in the Plaine des Jarres by the Soviet Embassy, a Czech delegation and economic and cultural missions from Red China and North Viet Nam. The Communist countries recognize Souvanna Phouma as the legal premier of Laos; the Western powers recognize Prince Boun Oum in Vientiane.

Center Point Rally Is Held

Candidates described the political rally at Center Point school last night as one of the most enjoyable of the current political season.

Sponsored by the seventh and eighth grade as a means of raising funds for a field trip for the classes at the end of school the cake sale which preceded the speaking netted a comfortable sum toward the goal sought.

Hoyle Nix and his band played as a special feature. L. J. Davidson, county commissioner, was auctioneer.

Nearly all of the candidates were in attendance.

The next political rally on the calendar is set for next Tuesday at the IUOE hall across the highway from Cosden refinery. This is not a cake and pie supper.

What is probably the closing rally of the primary season will be on the night of April 28 at Forsan. A barbecue is planned at that time by the Forsan Service Club. The barbecue will be served at 6 p.m.

Grand Jury Still At Work

Howard County grand jury moved into its second day of investigation into felony complaints Tuesday. It was believed that the jurors would not be able to complete their work today and would probably be back on Wednesday morning.

The grand jurors reportedly spent most of Monday digging into a special case which had been presented to them by Gil Jones, district attorney. They pushed their way through most of the matters listed as "county cases" Monday afternoon and were moving into the city cases today.

Workers Find Rocky Engine

It was rocks in the crankcase when Big Spring city park workmen started to use a city loader Monday morning.

Someone had filled the crankcase with little rocks and had stuffed bigger ones through a hole from which the starter had been removed for repair over the weekend.

Skeet Forsythe said the rocks were discovered when the operator went to replace the starter. The oil filler caps bore evidence of having received smaller rocks and dirt.

Bruce Dunn, director of public works, said no damage was done to the engine, "thanks to the evidence left showing around the holes."

"The inconvenience came when the engine had to be dismantled for cleaning," he said.

Toastmasters Install Officers

Installation ceremonies for new officers in the Talon Toastmasters Club were held at the Cosden Country Club, Saturday. Speaker was Roy Thruston, Garden City.

Taking office for six-month terms are T. Sgt. John Watts, president; T. Sgt. Edward Lyons, educational vice president; T. Sgt. Gordon Griffin, administrative vice president; T. Sgt. Richard Clark, treasurer; S. Sgt. Juan Yaga, secretary; and Airman 2.C. Clyde Davidson, sergeant at arms. The new officers were installed by T. Sgt. Clark, area governor.

Out-going officers were S.M. Sgt. Charles Pogue, T. Sgt. John Watts, T. Sgt. George Schweikert, S. Sgt. Virgil Richardson, S. Sgt. Carey Matthews and T. Sgt. Edward Lyons.

Discuss Possible Merger

Spokesmen for four Protestant denominations are shown in Washington before start of talks about a possible merger of their groups. From left are: Rev. Eugene Carson Blake, secretary of the Untied Presbyterian Church Charles C. Parlin, vice president of the World Methodist Council; Rev. Charles D. Kean, rector of Episcopal Church of the Epiphany and Rev. Dr. Ben M. Herbster, president of the United Church of Christ.

Viet Nam Has Begun Hacking At Red Points

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam, on the offensive, has begun the job of hacking apart great pockets of Communist resistance dotting the country.

During the past month, the government, supported by U.S. advisers, equipment and transportation, has been hurling forces of up to regimental strength deep into strongholds of the Viet Cong guerrillas.

The Communists are fighting back, and casualties on both sides have sometimes reached 1,000 in a week. The long war is apparently moving toward a showdown—but the end could be years away.

A key problem is finding the Viet Cong in large enough groups to make massive operations fruitful. Certain sections are almost wholly dominated by the Viet Cong, but even in them the problem of finding large units is acute. Improving intelligence facilities have helped. So has the new mobility U.S. helicopters are giving Vietnamese troops.

"The Vietnamese Communists have invented a kind of war that may be unique in history," one U.S. official said.

"Merely to call it a guerrilla war does not fully describe it. They are careful to attack and destroy only the things they feel vital to their cause, leaving the countryside superficially at peace."

Estimates of Viet Cong strength and location depend partly on definition. The regular, full-time guerrillas are frequently shifted.

Intelligence estimates of total numerical strength vary widely, but well-informed U.S. observers feel the Viet Cong probably has 16,000 to 18,000 hard-core fighters plus many additional part-time supporters.

Most of their strength is concentrated in the southern third of the country, particularly in five large pockets. One of the most stubborn begins about 35 miles north of Saigon. This heavily forested zone is virtually free of government control. It is referred to by the Viet Cong as a liberated area.

Another stronghold is the marshy region comprising several provinces along the Cambodian frontier.

The Viet Cong apparently is paying no attention to the Cambodian border. It flees across the line whenever pursued. Government forces and aircraft have occasionally crossed by accident, adding tension between neutralist Cambodia and its pro-Western neighbor.

The largest Communist stronghold in the south is at the tip of the country—a wilderness of jungle, mud flats and waterways. The principal town, Ca Mau, and a few fortified villages are fairly free from Communist infiltration. Most of the countryside is securely in Communist hands.

In the north, there are two mountainous pockets inland from the China Sea where heavy artillery bombardments, frequent mopping-up operations and air strikes have failed to drive out the Viet Cong.

While most of the country is nominally under government control, the Viet Cong moves freely in large marginal areas. The jungle-covered mountains of central Viet Nam are believed to serve as an important infiltration route for Communist cadres moving in from Laos.

Virtually the entire 900-mile frontier joining South Viet Nam to Laos and Cambodia is believed to be infiltrated at least part of the time.

Lakeview YMCA Board To Meet

The Lakeview YMCA board will meet at 8 p.m. tonight in the Lakeview junior high school building.

On the agenda are a membership drive report, discussion on employment of a director, progress report on building rehabilitation, and discussion of plans for opening the new building.

Form Idea Wins Cash For Airman

Airman 2.C. Edgar W. Sipple Jr., chaplain's assistant in 3560th Air Base Group, was recently awarded $20 in cash for a suggestion under the Air Force's Management Improvement Suggestion Program.

Airman Sipple submitted a form to be used to report the financial statement of the Wing Chaplain's Fund. This method shows the complete breakdown of collections received and lists expenses. The airman noticed that regulations call for this report, but no form was available.

C-City Council Approves Higher Budget, $405,656

COLORADO CITY (SC) — The Colorado City Council adopted a budget of $405,656—Monday night, up from last year's budget of $395,268. The tax rate was set at $1.65, the same as last year.

According to City Manager Earl Keaton, the new budget will allow for a minor increase in salary for city personnel, a new fire truck, two new patrol cars for the police department, and $1,000 for maintenance of the City-County landing strip.

The council elected Councilman H. I. Berman as mayor to replace outgoing mayor Bob Robinson, and re-elected Sam Majors Jr. as mayor pro tem.

The council discussed the legality of donations to projects which are not a part of the city's own program, including the Federated Clubwomen's Library, Little League and the Colorado City Frontier Museum. The city has donated to the library and Little League in the past and support has been requested for the Colorado City Museum.

City Attorney John Worrell quoted several opinions to the effect that a city could not legally make such donations. It was pointed out that councilmen may be liable for such payments if they cannot be legally justified. The council promised further study of the matter.

The council also authorized an oil lease with the Standard Oil Company, leasing the company 40 acres in the north edge of town for $1,000.

Bauer Class Begins Park Improvements

Twenty-seven members of the sixth grade in Bauer Elementary school, with their teacher, Mrs. Jardis Ward, have launched an improvement program to make the city park adjacent to the North Side Fire Station a more attractive and orderly place.

The youngsters moved into the park Monday and spent a busy morning policing the grounds. Rubbish which had accumulated was raked up and carted away, and the grounds were put in order. The young civic workers then set about planting flowers.

Some time ago, Mrs. Ward explained, the boys and girls of the sixth grade planted seeds in cans which were placed in the classroom windows. The plants have been carefully nourished and have flourished.

They are now being planted in the park by the sixth graders. The seedlings are of various flowers and small shrubs. The boys and girls will see to it that their plants are provided with water and care through the spring and summer.

Further work is planned in the park by the class.

It is a part of the program to arouse greater interest in the students in matters of culture and civic pride. Most of the boys and girls in the class are from Latin-American families.

Attends Sister's Austin Funeral

Mrs. W. E. Smith was in Austin today for 10 a.m. rites for her sister, Mrs. Elma Merryman.

Mrs. Merryman died Sunday after a long illness. She moved with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Neill, to Knott in 1906 and they settled on land now occupied by the Knott schools. In 1910 she was married in her parents' home to Adrian Merryman of Logansport, Ind.

They lived there many years before they made their home in Austin where Mrs. Merryman was for 30 years associated with the oil and gas division of the railroad commission.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Elsie Woosencraft, and a son, Don Merryman, of Austin; one grandchild; two sisters, Mrs. Smith, Big Spring, and Mrs. Anna Jo McFarland, Dallas; a brother, George Neill, Brownfield; and several nephews and nieces.

Faulkner, Jones Attend Meeting

B. T. Faulkner and J. D. Jones were in Abilene today to attend the meeting of the Associated General Contractors chapter serving the West Texas area.

Faulkner, president of Pioneer Builders, was to be installed this evening at the annual meeting as a director. He will succeed Fred Kasch, Big Spring, on the board. Jones, head of Jones Construction Company, is on the chapter's labor committee.

Loren, Schell Wins Oscars

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie - TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Sexy Sophia Loren, stern-faced Maximilian Schell and splashy "West Side Story" go into the records as top winners of the 34th annual Academy Awards. But a sensational bit of gate-crashing stole the show.

Italy's Miss Loren is best actress. Vienna's Schell is best actor. Hollywood's "West Side Story" is best picture, winner of a near-record 10 Oscars. New York's Stan Berman retains his title as "world champion gate crasher."

Berman, 35, a cabbie who has made a career out of penetrating the impenetrable, stalked onto the stage in mid-telecast at Santa Monica Civic Auditorium, presented astonished emcee Bob Hope with an ersatz Oscar, and stalked off—leaving the film famous and a nation of onlookers flabbergasted.

AS DEFENDER

The handsome Schell won for his role as the defender of Nazi war criminals in "Judgment at Nuremberg"—reaching the top despite the handicap of starting in the shadow of his famous sister, actress Maria Schell.

The voluptuous brunette Miss Loren won her Oscar in absentia for playing the earthy war refugee in the Italian production, "Two Women"—climaxing a rags-to-riches tale that began on the streets of Rome. Hers is the first Oscar to a role played in a language other than English.

It was the first time since 1939, when Britishers Vivien Leigh and Robert Donat triumphed, that two foreigners have come out on top.

"West Side Story," a musical version of "Romeo and Juliet" set among the juvenile street gangs of New York, fell just one Oscar short of equaling the record of 11 set by "Ben-Hur" in 1959. Its sweep included support awards for George Chakiris and Rita Moreno, costume design, film editing, scoring of a musical, sound, color cinematography, art and set decoration.

CHAMPION CRASHER

The show was plodding dully along, seeming especially tame after last year's dramatic win by Elizabeth Taylor—until Berman strode on stage in the midst of a presentation by Vince Edwards, television's Dr. Ben Casey, and Shelley Winters.

Berman grabbed a pint-sized Oscar and held it up and said, "This is Bob Hope's Oscar for the big broadcast of 1938. To the world's greatest comedian from the world's greatest gate crasher."

Berman, who had his picture taken in the box with President Kennedy and his family at the inaugural gala, said stage crashing is a pushover.

"All you need is a tuxedo and the appearance of looking as if you belong," he said.

DIDN'T COME

Miss Loren didn't come for the awards, saying she was "too tired and too scared I might lose."

Schell flew in over the weekend from Germany. Chakiris came in from Hawaii and Miss Moreno spent 18 hours on a plane flying from a movie location in the Philippines.

"I spent the whole 18 hours wondering how it would feel to ride this far and then lose and have to fly back again," said the flashing-eyed Puerto Rican performer.

Chakiris, who has been around movie studios dancing for eight years, got his Oscar in his first major film role.

As Bernardo, leader of the Puerto Rican street gang in "West Side Story," Chakiris stole the picture from its better known stars.

"I feel so wonderful, so surprised, so flabbergasted that I know I won't believe it until I read about it in the papers tomorrow," Chakiris said.

Said Schell: "There are many people I can thank, but I must give a special thanks to Spencer Tracy. I played all my scenes off that finest of actors. If I looked good, it was because he made me look good."

The Oscar awards lacked the drama of last year's appearance of Liz Taylor, still tottering after a near fatal fight with pneumonia in a London hospital.

Too busy in Rome to make the traditional presentation of the best actor Oscar, the beauteous Liz nevertheless came in for a lot of ribbing from master of ceremonies Bob Hope.

Referring to her escapades with "Cleopatra" costar Richard Burton, Hope quipped: "People will go to see Cleopatra to see if the ancient Egyptians lived it up the way they do in modern Rome today."

Cliff Robertson To Portray JFK

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Cliff Robertson has snagged the plum role of Lt. John F. Kennedy in "PT 109."

Robertson, 36, is a seasoned performer in both movies and television.

The Warner Bros. picture is based on wartime experiences of President Kennedy.

Robertson's selection ended months of sifting through hundreds of actors for the right man for the sensitive role.

20,000 Said Held In Cuban Prisons

WASHINGTON (AP)—Reports from Cuba indicated today that the Castro regime has 50,000 political prisoners crowded into Cuban jails.

This was one of the considerations listed by U.S. officials in discussions by Washington authorities from President Kennedy down on Prime Minister Fidel Castro's offer to free the 1,179 Cuban invasion captives for $62 million.

The invaders who unsuccessfully attempted to topple Castro a year ago were Cuban refugees who had considerable U.S. support short of direct combat participation.

It was pointed out to newsmen here that the fate of other prisoners, who also contested Castro and in some cases may have suffered more than the invaders, should be considered too. It has been estimated that Castro jailed 200,000 persons in the wake of the invasion.

American officials said the Washington discussions have not resulted in the setting of any hard and fast U.S. policy on the invasion prisoners. Two general conclusions did emerge.

1. The U.S. government condemns as barbaric Castro's ransom offer and does not want to get into any deal with him involving a swap of money for human lives.

2. For humanitarian reasons, the U.S. government has no objection to voluntary actions by persons seeking on their own release of some or all of the captives.

The government has interposed no barrier to the proposed trip to Havana today by a delegation representing a committee of relatives of the invasion prisoners. The group hopes to negotiate with Castro.

In preliminary checking, American authorities also have uncovered no legal impediment to sending money to Cuba, even though from a foreign policy standpoint Washington wants to cut down on Castro's foreign exchange. Cuban refugees currently are able to send money to the folks back home.

Four representatives of the Cuban Families Committee were to fly from Miami to Havana today, although they have no assurance that they will be able to meet with Castro. Three of the four made a similar trip last August. They were unable to see Castro and finally left after a month in Cuba.

The committee has said it has $26 million in cash and pledges with which to begin negotiations for freedom of the prisoners.
