Easy Way to Get Shellfish.

Many a Long Island housewife, when she wants oysters or clams for dinner, puts on her hat, strolls down to the shore that marks the boundary of her husband's property and there gathers the shellfish with her own hands. Then, again, she frequently takes one of the "hired help" along to do the actual work.

Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Utah are the only states in which there has not been a lynching. The record from 1885 to 1900 shows that there were 2,516 lynchings, 1,678 being negroes, 801 white, twenty-five Indians, nine Chinese and seven Mexicans.

SPECIAL CATTLE TRAIN.

FORT WORTH & DENVER ROAD TO HELP CATTLE SHIPPERS.

Fast Train from Amarillo to Stock Yards, to Put Cattle on the Early Market.

Complaint of poor railroad service in the handling of live stock has been made of the roads coming to Fort Worth, and the same thing may be said of all other markets. To meet the demands of cattle shippers, the Fort Worth and Denver road will put on a special fast stock train which will be run so as to do away with complaints so far as that road is concerned.

This train will run from Amarillo to the Stock Yards, leaving Amarillo on Sunday and Wednesday mornings, and will get into the Stock Yards early Monday and Thursday mornings, in time to have the cars unloaded and the stock fed and ready for the early market. It will pick up stock at all stations between Amarillo and Fort Worth, and deliver them at their destination promptly.

"This train is for the especial convenience of cattle shippers," said Mr. Sterley, the general freight agent of the Denver. "We want shippers to help us in making it a success, and this they can do by having their cattle loaded on the cars and ready to complete when the train gets to their station. By doing this, delays will be avoided, and they will have a quick run and their cattle will get in fresh and ready for an early market."

A CHANCE IN A LIFETIME.

A Free Scholarship in a Good School for a Tarrant County Boy.

The Burnetta College, through The Citizen, offers a free scholarship for a Tarrant county boy. It is free for the asking. What boy wants to go to college? This is the chance, and the offer will only last a few days longer. Write to The Citizen today, giving your name, age and grade.

Some boys think a college is only for boys who want to be a preacher, lawyer or doctor, but the fact is if you want to be anything, boys, above a day laborer, you must be educated, and this offer will start you on the road to be educated.

The best and most successful farmers, stock men and business men today are educated men, and this offer affords some boy in Tarrant county free tuition in a good college which may make him a finished scholar.

If you want this opportunity, send your name at once to The Citizen.

FOR A GIRL, TOO.

Since the above was written and put in type the president of Burnetta College has authorized us to make the same offer of a scholarship for a young lady. The same conditions and rules apply as to boys, which are given above.

If any young lady in Tarrant county wants to take advantage of this offer, she must send in her name at once.

TO TARRANT COUNTY READERS.

Does Your Church or Your Sunday School Need an Organ?

The Citizen proposes to furnish it. The very best, latest, most complete, and guaranteed for ten years. And it shall not cost you, your church or your Sunday school one cent.

That sounds too good to be true, don't it? Well, it's true, but the offer is good only to our Tarrant county subscribers, or those who will become our subscribers.

The Citizen has always been the home paper of the good people of Tarrant county, and now it has an opportunity to show its appreciation in a small way, by giving any church, chapel or Sunday school a first-class organ. This is for the ladies and children, for they all go to church and Sunday school, and all would enjoy the music.

What a nice thing it is to have a good organ in church and Sunday school! What person, old or young, does not enjoy the lesson and the sermon better when he has sweet music with it?

Ladies and children, ask your pastor or Sunday school superintendent to write to The Citizen, and tell what kind of organ your church wants. Tell him to tell The Citizen the name of the church, how many members it has, and how many Sunday school scholars are in attendance.

If you want an organ, we will make it easy for you to get it without cost.

COLLECTION OF FREAK CATTLE.

The San Antonio Express says: Geo. Saunders has added another animal to his collection of sports, freaks and reminders of other days in the cow business in Texas. This last was a cow which he has just bought from W. A. Lowe, of this city, which Mr. Lowe claims has the longest horns of any animal between New York and San Francisco, between Dan and Beersheba or between the north and south pole, but as he has never measured them he would not attempt to quote the length in feet and inches. George, in addition to this cow, has the Ike West steer bought a week or more ago, a thoroughbred Mexican steer weighing 1600 pounds, and the smallest two-year-old steer on record, which tips the beam at 250 pounds. Just what Mr. Saunders' intentions are has not been made public, but it is quite likely that the collection, with other additions, will make an interesting exhibit during the Fair.

BRONCHO PRICES GOOD

Sale at St. Louis Elicited a Large Demand and Active Movement.

The St. Louis Live Stock Reporter says: Something over fifty car loads of range horses were gathered together for the fourth range horse sale of the season at this market. The sale was begun in the early morning and before noon more than half of all the offerings had been sold. Prices paid were very good. Some did not think they were exactly as strong as two weeks ago, but neither was the average quality quite so good, and in this way the difference was perhaps accounted for. Suffice it to say that buyers were numerous, from all parts, and took hold of the offerings in a very active fashion, and it was a good market and good sale from most every viewpoint.

The top price of the sale was realized by a few head of broken horses, this being $53, while the highest price for a fullblood of range horses was $40.50. One carload of very choice fat, small, or rather medium horses, were bought by a Southern buyer at $40, and several loads from $31.50 to $36. Weanlings sold at [illegible]

There was not a great deal of activity in the native horse department, not because there were no offerings but the range horse sale monopolized the interest and the fact that no market was held had a quieting effect on the market. Some sales were made right along at retail, but they were not representative of the market's condition. The indications however point to steady and satisfactory trade on everything decent. Quite a few buyers are on hand and are only waiting the opportunity to buy. Available supplies are moderate.

Following are list of the range horse sales this forenoon:

Four head at $53; 22 head at $49.50; 25 head at $40; 24 head at $36; 25 head at $36; 25 head at $33.50; 26 head at $30; 20 head at $32.50; 25 head at $31.50; 25 head at $29; 27 head at $28; 26 head at $26.50; 26 head at $26; 26 head at $25; 25 head at $24.50; 24 mares and colts at $24; 27 head at $23; 25 head at $23; 27 head at $22; 25 head at $20; 25 mares and colts at $24; 26 head at $20; 26 head at $19.50; 26 head at $19; 37 head at $18, 27 head at $17.50; 28 head at $17.50; 20 head at $22; 25 head at $20; 25 at $17.50; 24 head at $17.50; 34 head at $16; 28 head at $15.50; 25 head at $14.50; 19 head at $14; 24 head at $12; 15 yearlings at $10.

Some Pygmy Animals.

A species of dwarf elephant used to live on the Island of Malta and in various parts of Italy. Judging from the bones which remain, these animals, about the size of a large sheep, were somewhat numerous. A dwarf elephant of this variety does not long forms a distinct species, being considered rather a "freak."

A very beautiful species of pygmy deer is found on the Sunda Islands. These little creatures are not much larger than a cat, but have all the points of a "full grown" deer.

Another [illegible] are the pygmies. The ordinary musk of Central Africa is a pygmy, or dwarf, of only about twenty inches in height at the shoulder and three feet in length.

An Owl Stole a Puppy.

A Connecticut paper, mentioning the purchase of a fine "Gordon puppy" by a gentleman named Haas, added: "On Thursday he went away to work, leaving the puppy shut up in the barn. He did not get back till 8 o'clock in the evening, and while putting out his horses the puppy ran out in the barnyard. In a few minutes Haas heard it yelping piteously. Thinking that one of the cattle had either hooked it or stepped on it, he ran out just [illegible] a large horned owl flying off with the puppy in his claws. He ran after him, hallooing, but the owl swooped off through the orchard, and this was the last seen of his Gordon puppy."

Quite a Merger.

There is a rumor abroad that the city hall is slowly and quietly sinking into the subway. Such a rumor about the other buildings in City Hall Park would not disquiet anyone, except the subway people, but really we cannot spare the city hall just yet.—New York World.

HOGS FROM SOUTHERN KANSAS.

They Can be Shipped to Fort Worth and Sold to Advantage.

The shipping of hogs to this market from Wichita, Kansas, by Armour & Co., was necessary because hogs could not be had on this market. Attention has been directed to the Southern Kansas hog supply, and it is found that they can be bought at ruling prices there, shipped to Fort Worth, and sold to advantage.

Best hogs are selling on the Wichita market at about $5.25. The same quality sell at Fort Worth for $5.80 to $5.85. The rate to Wichita from the adjoining counties is an avrage of about 11½ cents, and to Fort Worth 41½ cents. The difference in favor of Wichita is about 30 cents. After absorbing this difference, the Fort Worth market is still 25 to 30 cents above Wichita. Making due allowance for the greater shrink on the longer run to Fort Worth, there is still a profit for the Southern Kansas hog raiser in shipping to Fort Worth.

OUT AMONG THE FARMERS.

Rev. J. R. Goode, who has been out in the country, reports farmers feeling good over their fine crops. Corn has made an unusually heavy yield, and cotton, though late, never looked better. Farmers are turning their attention more than ever to fruit and vegetable growing, and though they have much to learn about the handling of these crops, they are fast "catching on." They are also raising hogs for the Fort Worth market, and will have a good many ready when the pigs are big enough for selling.

"It is a good sign of better things that our farmers are paying more attention to feed crops," said Mr. Goode. "It used to be that they thought but little of this, but now you will find most of our farmers preparing to feed stock. Sorghum is the preferred crop. They sow it thick and cut it for hay. When stacked or baled it makes fine winter feed. Corn is not now fed exclusively, but in connection with this hay, and the mixed ration is better for the stock and cheaper for the feeder."

THE WILD HORSE.

Improvement of Breed Introduced by Use of Thoroughbred Stallions.

Drovers' Journal: Wild horses in most instances are the descendants of domesticated equines that have had their freedom for several generations and their docility has been transformed into the instincts of wild animals. Like all undomesticated animals, they fear the presence of man. The wild horse of the western plains and of New Mexico are the traditional offspring of the horses abandoned by Cortez in his historical campaign against the ancient Aztecs. The abandoned horses found congenial environments and multiplied into the cayuse and broncho that roamed in immense herds on the western plains half a century ago. The bands were improved by abandoned native horses left by the early pioneers who sought the golden eldorado of California during the early discoveries of gold on the Pacific slope. Later many daring speculators attempted the improvement of the cayuse and broncho by the introduction of crosses of thoroughbred stallions.

The extraordinary activity and prosperity of the horse industry twenty-five years ago stimulated the corraling and distribution of vast numbers of these then practically uncommercial equines. There was a perennial infusion of new blood into these roving bands, and the size was increased, also the docility of temperament, by out-crosses of domesticated blood. So segregated and extended were the operations of the speculators that the different herds developed distinct individuality and were distinguished by improvement in physique and desirable general purpose qualities. Like the herds of buffalo, the original bands of wild cayuses and bronchos have faded away before the resistless march of western civilization. There are western range horses still being forwarded to wholesale markets in limited numbers, but they represent in most instances several crosses of improved domestic strains.

The Religious Column

BY REV. J. R. GOODE.

As we meet and touch each day
The many travelers on our way,
Let every such brief contact be
A glorious helpful ministry.

Protracted services will begin at the Crowley Baptist church next Sunday.

Bro. Blackburn of Peaster closed a very successful revival at Dido recently.

Brother Creed of the North Side M. E. church is engaged in a good revival meeting with his church.

The next 5th Sunday meeting of the Tarrant County Baptist association will be held with the Crowley church.

Dr. B. D. Gray of Kentucky has been chosen by the Home Mission board of the Southern Baptist convention to succeed F. C. McConnell as corresponding secretary.

Revival services will begin at the North Fort Worth Baptist church next Sunday. Rev. W. D. Rogers of the Indian Territory will assist Pastor Hillsman in the meeting.

The Tarrant County Baptist association met with the Kennedale church yesterday. The colportage wagon arranged for at the last 5th Sunday meeting at Arlington, has been purchased, together with a good team and a stock of books, and will be manned and put in commission at this session of the association.

"Endure hardness as a good soldier of Jesus Christ," was Paul's exhortation to a young preacher. There are two sides to the Christian life. Within the heart there is no peace without conflict. The Scriptures represent every Christian as a soldier in the army. The soldier who seeking an easy time speedily comes into great disrepute. The soldier who flinches and draws back from conflict is but a burlesque on his profession.

The study of Jesus has been only begun, in a superficial way; although it would seem that our religious leaders considered themselves very nearly past-masters in that knowledge, by this time. But when and by whom were "the unsearchable riches of Christ" exhausted? We have but scraped the surface. The unfathomabe mine will yield new treasure to all generations of searchers, and they may yet review our present religious literature and morals with much the same pity and wonder as are ours in reviewing the Dark Ages.

The pastoral office is one of great dignity and responsibility, so much so that the office must be respected when the man in it can not be. The office is of divine origin and every worthy pastor is set in his right place by the Holy Ghost. He is not a figurehead to be heeded or not as the whims of members may suggest. He is bishop or overseer of the flock. His is an office of rule, though he must not lord it over God's heritage. As overseer he must lay out work and have the supervision of it. If he be wise he will keep it in mind all the time that the world is the field and the church the force to cultivate it. He will feel that he must employ this force to the utmost limit to save the lost. To this end will he plan. He will see to the outlying, near by neighborhoods, and employ his force to reach them. He will study the economy of force to prevent waste. Real pastors are our supreme need.—Ex.

An Antichrist is a competitive or opposition Christ. Not an antagonizer of Christ, but a pretender of Christ, a false Christ, using the name of Christ; the object forbidden in the First Commandment, the "other god before me" or along with me. Anti means over against, not necessarily in direct hostility, although commonly so understood from the attitude. Many would-be interpreters of prophecy anticipate an "Antichrist" constructed in their minds from the idea of a cruel foe of Christianity—or, again, of the Jews in particular, repeating the atrocities of Antiochus Epiphanes. But the true idea is that of a treacherous simulacrum of Christ and his gospel; which, having a form of godliness with nothing of the power thereof, and thus releasing man from his conscience, gives freer rein than any paganism to his passions, and to the worst of them all, his persecuting intolerance of a religion that is holiness, and that not from man but from God, and to the glory of God alone.

JOSH BILLINGS ON HENS.

The best time tew sett a hen is when the hen is ready. I kant tell you what the best breed iz, but the Shanghigh iz the meanest. It kosts az much to board one az it duz a stage hoss, and you might az well undertake to fat a fanning mill running oats thru it. There aint no profit in keeping a hen for his eggs if he lays less than one a day. Hens are long-lived if they don't contract the throat disease; there iz a great menny goes to pot every year by this melonkolly disease. I kant tell eggsactly how to pick out a good hen, but az a general thing the long-eared ones, I kno, are the least apt to skretch up the garden. Eggs packed in equal parts of lime water, with the other end down, will keep from thirty to forty years if they are not disturbed. Fresh beef steak iz good for hens; I suppose four or five five pounds a day would be awl a hen would need at furst along. I shall be happee to advise with you at any time on the hen question, and take pay for my advice in eggs.—Josh Billings.

THE HAY INDUSTRY IN TEXAS.

Wild Grasses of the Prairie Sell for Big Money.

The Illustrator and General Narrator's "Diversification Number" is out, and it is worth the reading of any person who wants to know what Texas is doing. Free copies may be had by sending a 2c cent stamp for postage to D. J. Price, G. P. A., at Palestine, Tex. Among other interesting articles we find this:

Texas is steadily forging to the front as a hay producing state. Brazoria county alone markets yearly close to a half-million dollars worth of hay, made from her wild grasses, while several other coast counties market almost as heavily of hay. The last year or two large acreage has been seeded to alfalfa and other tame grasses, so that the prospect is that the sight of a Texas farmer hauling imported hay to his farm will soon be witnessed no more in all the land. And when the East Texas people get the timber out of the way, so that the wild grass can grow three feet high, like it used to do when the country was new, and it does yet when it has a chance, they will be right up with their coast country brethren in the ability to "make hay when the sun shines." Come to think of it, how great are the feed resources of Texas, not alone in hay, but in feed crops generally, as well as in pasture, tame and wild. And while these resources are largely latent, hay and pasture are attracting much attention of late, everything indicating that the next few years will witness enormous development in this form of wealth, which is equivalent to saying that the stock farm, with all it means of beauty, utility, good living and civilization, will keep even pace with the development of our mighty feed resources.

IN THE PECOS COUNTRY.

Cattle in Good Fix, and Not Many are Being Shipped Out.

J. W. Thornberg, state quarantine inspector at Fort Stockton, tells a Colorado City correspondent that cattle are generally in good shape and a lot of fat stuff will go to market. Ranchmen are not shipping out much of this stuff at this time, as they are afraid of the market and generally disposed to hold shipments back in the hope of an improvement. The calf crop in that section this year, he says, is fully up to the average, and no losses this season from blackleg or other causes. Ranchmen out there have shipped no calves to market this season and will ship none, preferring to hold them until they are yearlings and worth more money than they would command at present. Yearling steers are selling in that section at an average of about $13 around, but not much trading is in progress. There is apparently no increase in the number of ticks in Pecos county, and some of the ranchmen of that section are now putting in dipping vats to be used in the further extermination of fever ticks. The ranchmen down there are strictly in favor of the quarantine line and are doing all in their power for its support and maintenance. Mr. Thornberg says he has inspected and passed about 30,000 head of cattle this spring, which was about the same number that he inspected the previous season. During the open season he passed about 15,000 head over the line, which represents the normal movement.

RAVAGES OF CHICKEN MITES.

Ames, Ia., Aug. 18.—One of the most troublesome pests with which poultry growers have to deal is the chicken mite, or chicken tick as it is more properly called. When a flock becomes infested with this parasite the egg production is reduced and in many cases the profits seriously curtailed by the pest. Hatching hens and young chicks are especially liable to its attacks. A bulletin upon the subject by Dr. J. J. Repp, veterinarian of the Iowa experiment station, has just been issued and may be had free by addressing a request to Prof. C. F. Curtiss, director of the experiment station, Ames, Iowa. It contains information that is of actual money value to those who grow poultry either upon a large or small scale. The information is based upon recent experiments in combating the pest. Kerosene emulsion is recommended and full directions given for its preparation and application. The emulsion may be prepared at home at a cost of about 45 cents per 30 gallons, this amount being sufficient to spray the ordinary farm hen-house once. Altogether the bulletin is practical and helpful and by following its directions owners of infected flocks can exterminate the pests and place the flock upon a paying basis.

THE BEST RANCH proposition is the one that offers the largest income on the investment. A feeding farm or feeding ranch close in to the packeries and stock yards is what we offer. This ranch contains 3,0 0 acres. It is chiefly open prairie; it is well grassed—sedge and mesquite mixed; it will easily and safely carry 500 cattle; it has 600 acres of choice agricultural land suitable to cultivate; it is crossed by a creek of running water; there is an artesian well, a large tank, etc. The land is all fenced and divided by cross fences into six pastures and a farm of 140 acres; permanent water in each pasture, plenty of shade and protection, full set of ranch improvements, including dwelling, barn, granary, cribs, sheds, lots, pens and corrals; it fronts on public road leading to Fort Worth, which is distant only fifteen miles; it is surrounded by good farms—six to eight cotton gins within a radius of eight miles, which insures plenty of available feed at lowest market values; it is a natural feeding ranch, close enough to give every advantage in dealing with the packeries and stock yards. We can sell it for $4 per acre, one-third cash, and arrange satisfactory terms on balance. If you want to investigate this, call at our office in Delaware hotel building, and we will send party to show it to you. WINTERS-DANIEL CO., corner Main and Fourth streets.

IT BROUGHT RETURNS.

An Advertisement in The Citizen That Sold the Goods Advertised.

Fort Worth, Aug. 19.

Publishers of The Citizen, North Fort Worth.—Gentlemen:

We believe the laborer is worthy of his hire, and when he earns more than his hire, he should at least receive commendation.

We had a car of slightly damaged wall paper and told the good housekeepers of this city and county of the bargains we could give them in wall paper. In this connection we want to say that from the returns we had in The Citizen, we believe all the farmers of Tarrant county read it, and what is better, they have some money to spend when a bargain is offered them. We are well pleased with the ad we had in The Citizen one time, and will always remember it when we have a bargain to offer our country friends. Very truly,

BROWN & VERA.

NEW RURAL MAIL ROUTES.

Information for the Benefit of Persons Desiring Such Advantages.

For the benefit of our readers, The Citizen prints the following extracts from a copy of instructions issued by the postal department, regarding the steps to be taken for obtaining a free delivery route, and the rules to be observed in its conduct:

A petition for service must be made on the form adopted and prescribed by the Postoffice Department. These forms can be procured by applying to the general superintendent of the free delivery system, Washington D. C.

Requests for two or more routs should not be included in one petition; a separate petition must be sent in for each route desired.

Requests for two or more routes should a rule, be twenty to twenty-five miles in length and serve one hundred families. It should be so arranged that the carrier will not be required to retrace or travel over the same road twice the same day.

Upon receipt of a petition, favorably indorsed by the representative in congress, the United States senator, or both, the Department refers the papers to the special agent in charge of the division which includes the state in which the petition originates. A special agent from this division is assigned to visit the locality indicated, to investigate the conditions there and lay out the route (or routes) petitioned for, if, in his judgment, a favorable recommendation is advisable.

The special agent, in case he recommends the service, will examine applicants for the position of carrier, in accordance with the rules prescribed by the United States Civil Service commission.

Persons living near the line of a route and desiring service must conform to the official regulations in regard thereto, and must agree to erect such boxes for the receipt of their mail as have been approved by the Department.

Each box must be erected by the roadside, so that the carrier can easily obtain access to it without dismounting from his vehicle. The same box must not be used for more than one family, except in case of near relatives or those residing in the same house.

Persons neglecting or refusing to comply with these conditions will be regarded as not desiring rural free delivery, and the rural carrier will be directed not to serve them.

Rural carriers must not act as agents, salesmen, or solicitors for express companies, wholesale houses, corporations, or firms, but the law provides that the carriers shall not be prohibited from doing an express-package business; provided, it does not interfere with the discharge of their official duties. Section 214 of the Postal Laws and Regulations prohibits them from holding any county or municipal office. They may act as agents for newspaper publishers, sell newspapers or periodicals on their own account, or accept and collect subscriptions for the same.

Rural carriers are required to take with them on their trips, for the accommodation of their patrons, a sufficient supply of stamps, stamped envelopes, postal cards, and newspaper wrappers.

If a carrier finds an unstamped letter in a box and the requisite amount of money deposited, he is to affix the necessary stamp. Patrons depositing money in boxes should wrap it securely in paper. The carrier is empowered to register letters or packages and to deliver the same, giving and taking the proper receipt on forms provided. He is also authorized to accept money for money orders, giving receipts therefor, and, if the patrons of the delivery desire to make him their agent for this purpose, he may inclose the orders, when issued, in addressed envelopes confided to his care, and mail them without returning them to the sender.

A BOLL-WEEVIL EXTERMINATOR.

Col. F. H. Holloway of Burnet county has submitted to the boll weevil commission appointed by Governor Lanham what he claims by nearly thirty years of actual trial to have proved to be an effective means of exterminating all insects. He is utilizing it in his own extensive fields and is succeeding admirably in saving the squares. His device consists of a flat pan with a lamp in the center elevated just above the surface, fed by kerosene. He covers the pan's bottom with water and covers the water with a thin film of kerosene and sets it out in the cotton patch. He has a number of these scattered over the patch and he lights them every night. In the daytime he plows. He catches more than a bushel of bugs each night. He says there are not enough birds in Texas to do all season the work one lamp does in a single night. Col. Holloway is so well known among cotton and wool fiefers that his plan will no doubt be

THE KIND OF SHEEP TO FEED.

Well-Bred Ewes or Wethers, if Thin, Will Soon Fill Out

Feeders are now paying more attention to sheep than they have been before and they come to the Fort Worth market for the stuff they want. The preferred kind are wethers or ewes of good blood, but thin.

"Such sheep make money for the feeder," said one who was loooking for them. "Being thin, they don't weigh much, and it doesn't cost much to get them. Put them on good pasture and if they are of good blood they will fatten so fast you can almost see them fill out. They will double in weight in a few months and sell for a good deal more per pound than they cost."

A BIG CATTLE DIPPING VAT.

The Chicago Drovers' Journal says: There has just been completed and put into use on the Carpenter-Sanborn 14,000-acre stock farm at Pukwana, S. D., what may properly be termed a "cattle dip" that for capacity, durability, completeness and convenience, likely surpasses anything of the kind in the west.

Experiment has proven that "dipping cattle," similar to the manner of dipping sheep, is highly beneficial as a preventive or cure of lice, scab, Texas itch, mange or other vermin and contagion in the herd. It may therefore be presumed that a brief description of the "dip" here referred to will be of some interest at least to those engaged in the cattle industry.

The vat is 48 feet long, 8 feet deep, 30 inches wide at the bottom and 36 inches wide at the top. It is all walled with stone and the wall is covered with a heavy coat of cement, as is also the bottom, so there is no leakage or waste of the "dip fluid." At the approach of the dip is a chute, arranged that it may also be used for branding and vaccinating. The exit is connected by two "dripping pans," 16x24, with a cement floor, and when the cattle are put through the dip they are left standing some twenty or thirty minutes on the pans to "drip off" and the drippings run back into the vat. A twelve-horse power boiler is used for heating the dip preparation, which is usually heated to a temperature of 115 to 120 degrees Fahrenheit. On an average it takes from fifteen to twenty seconds for a critter to swim through the vat, but 150 head of medium size cattle per hour is about the working capacity. The dip complete cost about $1,000, and although it is quite an expensive one, yet it is certain to last many years.

Messrs. Carpenter & Sanborn have just got through dipping about 3,000 head.

GOOD RAIN IN THE PANHANDLE.

The Amarillo Live Stock Champion says of conditions in the Panhandle:

Including the rain of Thursday night, the total rainfall for August has been 3.39 inches. The rainfall for the whole month of July was 3.38 inches and has already been exceeded by that of August before half the month has passed. Beginning with last Sunday it has rained every day during the week up to and including Thursday night. The rainfall of Tuesday night was the heaviest, 1.76 in., and during Thursday night, 1.07 inches fell, raising the total to the figure given above. The grass in this locality has been kept green by the continued rains, and if the old weather holds off long enough, stock cattle are sure to be in fine shape to withstand a severe winter. At present the plains country is a delight to the eye of the many visitors from abroad, and a constant source of satisfaction to the ranchman whose cattle graze over it.

GREAT ADVANTAGE TO FARMERS.

Republican, Neb., Aug. 17.—Nebraska ranchmen are working a revolution in handling the product of their dairy herds. Instead of hauling 1,000 lbs of milk to the creamery to leave 100 lbs of cream, and to haul back 900 lbs of milk, they separate the cream as soon as the cows are milked, and feed the skim milk, yet warm with its natural animal heat, to the calves and hogs. They make perhaps two trips a week to the cream station where formerly they made seven.

This plan has been but a short time started in this state, and, according to the views of the men who are following it, it is sure to help out the farmer more than any innovation that has been made in the West for the last decade. It practically revolutionizes the system of marketing butter fat, and largely increases the profit in handling the dairy herd.

This system is being extensively experimented with on the Heath ranch, which is located two miles from this city, in which there is a cream station. There are now ten cows in the dairy herd here, and the milk of this herd is separated by a hand separator twice a day. The warm milk is at once fed to calves and hogs, and the cream allowed to accumulate, being hauled to the cream station about twice a week, whence the cream is shipped to Omaha. The ten cows of the Heath ranch bring their owners from $35 to $50 a month for cream alone, and the advantage to the feeding calves and hogs is largely increased over the plan of hauling it back from the creamery and feeding it after it has cooled.

TONS OF GRASSHOPPERS KILLED.

Salt Lake City News: The state auditor has received a bill from County Clerk P. W. Eliason of Sanpete county for $859.18, $767.73 for grasshoppers killed, and $91.50 salary for receiving agents. The latter sum was divided as follows: J. N. Jacobsen, $30; and C. R. Allred, $16.95 for work done during June; J. N. Jacobsen, $41.50, services rendered during July. The hoppers killed were put at 76,773 pounds, or a little over thirty-eight tons, enough to fill four boxcars. The last legislature passed a law giving a bounty of one cent a pound, the state to pay two-thirds of a cent and the county one-third, it being optional with the counties whether they take advantage of the act or not. So far, Sanpete and Juab are the only counties to avail themselves of the provisions of the statute.

The Sanpete county clerk is under the impression that the state must pay the entire bill, to which the state auditor demurs, and calls upon the attorney general for an opinion.

It is developed that in six weeks 108,607 pounds, or slightly over fifty-four tons, of grasshoppers have been killed.

TEXAS STATE GRANGE OFFICERS.

Resolutions Adopted in Favor of the State A & M. College.

The Texas State Grange, at its meeting at Dublin, elected the following officers: W. D. McGee, worthy master; E. S. Reese, overseer; J. B. Long, lecturer; B. W. Kiker, steward; F. L. Kennedy, assistant steward; A. J. Rose, chaplain; J. T. Howell, treasurer; J. J. Ray, secretary; G. W. Lancaster, gate keeper; Miss Pearl Mulloy, Ceres; Miss P. Reed, Pomona; Miss L. V. Kennedy, Flora; Miss Tennie McCloskey, lady assistant steward. Executive committee: James Reed, I. A. Whitfield, E. L. Howell.

The following resolution was adopted:

"Whereas, the legislatures of Texas are seemingly always anxious to make appropriations in the interest of agriculture, and whereas

"The Agricultural and Mechanical college is the farmers' college, therefore be it

"Resolved, That it is the sense of the Texas State Grange that the Agricultural and Mechanical college management, faculty and directory should, as far as practicable, be the nucleus for expenditures of legislative appropriations made in the interest of Texas agriculture to the end that the directory of that institution may keep a proper check upon such expenditures."

EXPLAINS KANSAS HARVESTING.

College Boy Writes Friend an Account of His Experiences.

Kansas City Journal: One of the college boys who went to the western Kansas harvest fields, writes to a friend an account of his experiences, saying:

"Well, this isn't what it's cracked up to be, and Harold would have confessed himself all in and come home to mamma inside of two days after starting if he hadn't been worse afraid of the joshing of you devils than of blistered paws. Speaking of blistered paws, it's no joke. Before night the first day I had puffs all over my hands, and that night the fat old dame of the household stuck needles into 'em and tapped me until I ran water like a hydrant. But the old boy was good to me, and for two days he kept me choring around, hauling water, helping the fat dame cook and playing the baby generally. Then I tackled the header boxes again for ten straight days, and I really got to liking it. But, say, Willie, don't you believe that story about shortage in the world's bread crop. I know better for I pitched enough of the blamed stuff to make two crops of the world's breadstuff.

"And, Willie, there is another thing you can disabuse your festering intellect of. You can't spoon with these country girls with that joyous freedom you read about. We have a roly-poly girl here who doesn't wear corsets and who doesn't care how much soock she exposes when she kicks at the cat. I kissed her the other night. I won't do it any more. If I want exercise of a rapid kind I will go out and get an electric light wire through my handsome person. She whacked me on the side of the head with a fist like a ham, and don't you doubt it, Willie, she meant every word of it.

"I get $2 a day and 'found.' 'Found' means that the old man comes to your downy couch at 3 in the morning and, finding you asleep, whoops you out to feed the horses. By the time the horses are fed we are called to breakfast. Did you ever eat pie at breakfast? Well, we have pie for breakfast every other morning. It seems to be the idea out here if you have pie you can't complain at any other indignity. And every pie we have had so far is made out of raisins. Now, don't get it into your head that raisins won't make good pie. They do.

"After breakfast we hie us away to the field and cut grain until the fat dame waves a tablecloth out of the window to tell us that dinner is ready. Then we eat and go out and cut more wheat, and the old boy keeps us at it until it gets too dark to see. But, Willie, the way you can sleep after you have had a day like that! You go dead—that's all about it.

"I figure that I will get home with about $30 to the clear. The old boy says he will give me $25 a month to stay and plow, and a thresher man offers $1.50 a day and 'found' if I work for him. But $30 is capital enough for Harold. I am not grasping or sordid.

"P. S.—I had a heart-to-heart talk with the roly-poly girl last evening. She said I ought to be ashamed of myself for kissing her in the house where the dame might see. If it wasn't for school taking up I believe I'd tackle that job of plowing."

That Note Isn't New.

The information that "a certain musical note raised to a great number of vibrations per second will result in the sudden and complete paralysis of the mosquito" comes from Stamford, Conn. It is tantalizingly indefinite, but perhaps the Stamford discoverer is waiting to have the note copyrighted before giving it to the world.

WORK OF SUCCESSFUL FEEDERS.

Some of Them Tell the Chicago Drovers' Journal How They Feed.

The Chicago Drovers' Journal says:

On July 31 a leading farmer and feeder of Iowa was here with a car of fed branded cattle from Dakota that sold at $5.25. The good showing made by these cattle indicated that they had been well picked from a source that only a comparatively few years ago stockmen did not look for desirable feeding animals. It is no mean compliment to the cattle or the feeder that these cattle should have brought $5.25 per hundred. Something of the methods of this feeder will be interesting to our readers who are working for success in putting desirable cattle upon the market.

This Iowan likes a steer over 2 years old, coming 3. Angus steers are generally preferred and should be fed from seven to eight months. His steers are all yard fed, some four acres being given over to 200 head of cattle. No more shelter is supplied that is afforded by a shed.

Hogs follow steers in the ration of one to one. Those ranging from 75 to 150 pounds are preferred. Corn is commonly fed in the shock with good success. For other roughage clover and silage is given.

Concerning the general method of feeding we can do no better than to quote from his own description of his feeding as nearly as possible, as follows:

"For good quality of steers I prefer to feed those that are young, and especially if the cattle have never lost their calf fat, as they can economically be made to command top prices at about 30 months old. In feeding common cattle I would prefer more aged animals, as then all you have to feed for is the fat gain.

"Common steers should be bought as fleshy as possible and fed so as to make a short feed—for instance, five or six months. But, on the other hand, with good quality of feeders I would rather say thinner, so as to get the margin between the cost and the price they will command at the finish.

"I think heavy feeding to cattle that have been used to heavy feeding from calfhood up is likely to have a tendency to induce indigestion and tend to burn out their stomachs, so that what gain is made in pounds is fat produced at dear cost. Care must be observed in feeding that cattle are not foundered, since these cattle always consume too much feed for profit.

"Relatively everything depends upon whether the ears are large or small, hard or soft. In northern Iowa I prefer ear corn to shelled corn, and corn and cob meal to either. For a fast finish where the feeder has plenty of roughage I like medium ground shelled corn. Feed two pounds of oil meal to twenty-four pounds of ground corn. Two to five pounds of cotton seed meal will make more weight, however, and yield more oil or butter stock. Cattle that are intended for a long feed should not be fed heavily on cotton seed meal.

"Circumstances and conditions upon which the feeding is done have a great deal to do with cattle feeding as to the results of either profit or loss."

We were impressed with the fact that this feeder makes a serious attempt to feed a balanced ration. He very properly asserts that "they can be fed longer for a good gain."

Mr. Peter Behn, Battle Creek, Ia., was here recently with thirty-five head of 1434-pound steers that brought the very satisfactory price of $5.25. Mr. Behn prefers to feed Shorthorn and Hereford steers. Yard feeding is not followed exclusively, but if in his opinion weather conditions seem expedient barn feeding is followed, though not in the same degree that farmers of the east barn feed. The yard in which the feeding is done covers about three-quarters of an acre.

Hogs follow steers fed on this farm to the number of two of the former to one of the latter. No particular attention is given to the weight of hogs. Any pig that indicates that he can take care of himself and make a good showing for the feed he consumes has a chance.

Cornmeal is commonly fed. Considerable shock corn is used, but there is no cutting done. Additional roughage consists of clover hay and fodder. Oats are mixed with cornmeal in the proportion of twenty pounds of meal to five pounds of oats.

Steers are started upon a ration of four or six pounds and generally increased until they are able to stand a full ration of something in the neighborhood of twenty-five pounds per day, according to the size of the steer. Oil-meal is given to assist assimilation of feed and give finish.

Mr. Charles F. Hoppe of LaPorte City, Iowa, some time since was here with cattle averaging 1300 pounds that sold for $5.25. Feeders 2 years old are preferred and are fed for nine months. Yards are not used in his feeding, neither is the shed, but rather pasture and barn.

Hogs weighing some 150 pounds are selected to follow the cattle. As a rule two hogs are apportioned to a steer. These are considered sufficient to utilize all the waste feed that would otherwise be turned to no use.

Some shocked corn is fed. Grain is fed, other than what is given in shock, in corn, either on cob or shelled, and oats. These are mixed in the proportion of two-thirds corn and one-third oats. Roughage preferred is clover hay.

Steers are started gradually and worked up to the point where they are put upon full rations. They are then able to put in their best licks in laying on flesh, other things being equal. The first feeds are about one-sixth of a bushel of grain per day.

THE PEST OF PRAIRIE DOGS

West Texas Counties Take Action to Wipe Them Out.

The Colorado City Stockman observes: The unanimity with which the people of West Texas are taking hold of the prairie dog proposition under the new law, is pretty conclusive evidence that it is just what the country has been needing for a long time. In Haskell county an election was held last week to determine whether or not the dogs shall be exterminated under the new law, and the election went against the dogs almost unanimously. Nolan, Fisher, Taylor and Scurry counties are taking action in the matter, and will soon order elections. The result will be an orgarized and systematic campaign against the pests that must retire them from business in those counties. One of the most gratifying features of the situation is that the non-resident and don't-care dog owners in all those counties will be whipped into line and compelled to bear their share of the expense of extermination.

No longer can they continue to hold aloof and breed for the purpose of re-populating the holdings of their neighbors. If they don't kill their dogs they are killed for them and charged up against them. Under the operations of this law West Texas enjoys a better prospect of getting rid of the prarie dogs than she has ever known before, and it is to be hoped that Mitchell county and all adjoining counties will fall into line with the movement which promises the only feasible solution of the prairie dog problem. The grass and crops destroyed in West Texas annually by these pests amount to a very large sum of money.

HOW PLANTS LIVE AND GROW

Elements of the Soil That Enter Into Their Composition.

The plant is dependent upon the soil, the air and the sunlight for its being.

In the soil are soluble salts and some water; in the air oxygen and carbon dioxid; in the sunlight is a life-giving power (not understood) and heat.

The plant is influenced in its growth by every condition surrounding it. To study how a plant lives we must consider the factors of actual growth processes and the conditions to which growth is sensitive.

Let us look at water as a factor of growth first.

The rigidity of a plant is due to the water it contains. When a succulent branch is broken from the trunk it soon withers. This is because the passage of water from the soil is broken and, therefore, the water already in the branch is soon used and the consequence is the branch withers.

The ends of rootlets are tiny hairs which contain protoplasm and cell sap. These tiny hairs pass among the soil particles and absorb water by osmosis. In solution in this water are many food substances and the plant absorbs these as it needs them. All plants contain much water. It has been determined that green clover tops contain 85 per cent water and that dry clover seed has 6.4 per cent.

The food particles are so small in soil water and such a few of them, that plants have to absorb much more water than they can use to get enough, and this surplus passes off through the leaves. The leaves are made with breathing cells or stomata on the under side to act as lungs in passing off the surplus water. This is transpiration. Dampness will check transpiration and higher temperatures will hasten it. If a plant transpires more water than it takes up it wilts, as it does when separated from the parent stem. This is why vegetation wilts on a hot day. Some may wonder how this water gets from the roots to the leaves to be breathed out. The roots and rootlets absorb soil water and this absorptive power and the transpiration of the leaves cause the water, with the plant foods in it, to rise through the woody fiber bundles and out to every leaf end.

Many soluble salts are absorbed, such as sodium and potassium nitrate, calcium phosphate and potassium sulphate. From these the plant obtains nitrogen, potassium, phosphorus, calcium and sulphur.

Oxygen is as essential to plant life as to animal. Oxygen is absorbed by the stomata and from them diffused all through the plant. This is inspiration. Expiration throws off carbon dioxid. Oxygen is also taken through the roots, and land plants whose roots are under water any length of time die.

But the element present in the largest amount in plants is carbon. This is derived from carbonic acid gas of the air. It is absorbed by the leaves and then its usefulness depends upon chlorophyl or green coloring matter and sunlight. The chlorophyl absorbs some of the energy of the sun and by using this energy the carbon unites with the water, forming starch, and the oxygen is breathed out. This is the reverse of respiration. We have said that higher temperatures or heat increases the rate of transpiration; it also increases root absorption, the amount of respiration and assimilation of carbon.

As a rule seeds will not germinate at the freezing point, but they grow best between a small range of temperature. Some plants will freeze much easier than others. The cotton plant and melons turn black and die when the temperature is above freezing point, while the green part of other plants, such as winter wheat and rye, will not be injured till the temperature is several degrees below.

The starch which results from the assimilation of carbon is stored in the leaves and when the sun has set and no more can be made the leaves change this; it may all be changed in one night, to a sugar. Some of it is used in growth and some changed again to starch and stored in tubers, stems or thickened leaves, for future use.

The external evidences of growth are changes in form and size. Young plants elongate through the whole stem but they soon attain their growth near the roots and elongate from the uper end, as may be seen by measuring the joints of a squash vine.

Now the roots grow differently. On the end of them is a small hard root cap. They grow just behind this cap and because of this they can go around most anything.

Woody plants, generally, increase in diameter by a layer of new growth, called the cambium zone, just beneath the bark.

People do not generally think of plants as sensitive things, but they are as is shown sometimes by visible movements, as the closing of the sensitive plant leaves when they are touched. But more often it is shown by movements so slow that we do not notice them except as we look from day to day, as the turning of the leaves to the light and the sunflower's face following the sun from dawn till dark.

"The reaction of plants to their surroundings may cause the plant to vary, or to assume new forms or characteristics and the new features may be of use to the farmer. Thus with more light the better are roses and carnations grown under glass; the richer the soil the stronger is the growth, and the higher the altitude the greater is the proportion of dwarf plants.

ALLEGED QUARANTINE VIOLATORS

Texas Cattlemen in Oklahoma Held to the District Court.

The Kansas City Drovers' Telegram of Saturday last reports:

Col. Albert Dean, live stock agent in charge of the bureau of animal industry, returned this morning from Perry, O. T., where he attended the preliminary hearing of the cattlemen under arrest on the charge of violating the quarantine regulations. Joseph Miller, president of the "101" ranch, Z. T. Miller of the same concern, and W. H. Van Sellers were bound over to the United States district court. The bail of the Millers was fixed at $500 each and that of Van Sellers at $1,000, all of which was promptly furnished.

It was charged that the men under arrest on July 28 shipped 400 head of Southern cattle to the native division of the Kansas City yards without having first secured a certificate of health from a Federal inspector. The cattle were inspected by J. McFall, an inspector of the Kansas live stock sanitary board, who had no authority to inspect cattle in Oklahoma. Nine men were arrested, including two Santa Fe railroad agents. The cases against the railroad agents were not called, it having been represented that they were in ignorance of the fact that the cattle had not been regularly inspected, simply taking the word of the owners that they had certificates of health for them. Of the others under arrest three are farmers who had no interest in the cattle, although they accompanied the shipment, and some of the cattle were billed in their names. The cases against them were not called, either.

ALFALFA IN WEST TEXAS.

A Mistaken Notion That it Needs Irrigation to Succeed.

W. S. Marshall writes from Channing to Farm and Ranch:

It is a great pity that most people who could and should put in alfalfa in the plains portion of the western third of the state are debarred from testing it under the mistaken notion that irrigation is an absolute necessity here. It is not. Alfalfa will thrive and prove the best and most profitable forage crop the stockman or farmer can raise on more than four-fifths of the plains lands. I know whereof I speak. I have been raising it successfully here for the past six years and not on irrigated land. I have tested it in the canyon valleys and on the high plains where it is 285 feet to water. I have it on my plains lands now over four years since seeding, roots strong and hardy. I can show it to you growing in the tough plains sod, volunteer, where seeds were scattered from my hay wagon over five years ago. I can show it growing in the middle of hard roads between here and Channing where nothing else but the native soap weed would have stayed. It is as hardy as soap weed. Tell this to our Western Texas men and they will get the idea of how hardy alfalfa is.

I put in stack from 100 to 125 tons per year from my alfalfa field. Have never failed of getting three cuttings per year after the second year from seeding. I am just putting my second cutting for this year in stack.

NOXIOUS WEEDS ON THE FARM.

Chicago Drovers' Journal: In the archives of the ancient records it is recorded that the earth was made to bring forth thorns and thistles to compel man to earn his maintenance by the sweat of his brow. The fruits of the vineyard, orchard and the Elysian garden that grew spontaneously amid paradisical environments are now cultivated under strenuous difficulties. The soil that was carefully prepared and the seed planted needs persistent attention to insure a bountiful harvest.

The arch enemies of agriculture are noxious weeds that grow luxuriously in all soils if undisturbed. Many hurtful plants not only struggle to crowd out the prospective harvest, but also take possession of uncultivated fields and become a public nuisance to any civilized community. While some weeds are indigenous to all soils and climates, others are exotics that have been distributed by cars, boats and foul seeds. When once started they take possession of highways and vacant lots, as well as cultivated ground, and greatly burden the operations of agriculture. The seeds of many pestiferous plants are widely disseminated by the wind, so that a small neglected plat of weeds soon inoculates a whole township.

Farmers know what a nuisance burdocks are in pastures. Sheep gather the burs in their wool and the horses in their manes and tails. The nuisance also adheres to cattle and are a great annoyance wherever they flourish. The thistle is also an unbearable enemy in fields of grain.

Nearly all the states have laws enforcing the extermination of noxious weeds. In some states a county commission is appointed to inspect the highways and farms and notify such owners as ignore the law that they must destroy the burdocks and Canada thistles on their premises under penalty of their being exterminated by the commissioner at their expense. A few years' enforcement of the law has wrought a wonderful transformation in many localities.

MULE FOOTED HOGS.

George Biddle came up from Missouri last night with a couple of mule footed hogs that he had captured down there, says the Shenandoah, Ia., Sentinel. When he discovered them they were roaming over the wilds, but he noticed the peculiarity of their feet and concluded they would make a fine exhibit for the Shenandoah fair and he collected a posse of men and they surrounded the beasts, and after a struggle of four hours got them safely boxed. They weigh about 250 pounds each and beat wolves for fighting or horses for running. They will be exhibited on the fair grounds absolutely free to all comers. Their chief peculiarity is in their hoofs, every one of which is a solid hoof like that of a mule. They are supposed to be the only specimens of the kind in captivity. Their age is unknown.

MOTHER SUPERIOR.

FEAR THE HOPPERS.

Many Montana Rangemen Will Not Attempt to Winter Stock in That Region.

A Miles City, Mont., dispatch says: The grasshopper scourge seems to have thoroughly alarmed the cattle growers in eastern Montana and convinced them that it will be useless to attempt to winter stock in this region this year. Cowden and Pemberton are going to clean up everything that has a semblance of being fit for shipment at once. The cattle are ranging along the Little Missouri, and Mr. Pemberton says that, while the spring was dry, there was enough grass made, and the late rains would have helped to take the stock through in pretty fair shape, but the range has been denuded by the hoppers.

P. G. Moore, cattleman in Custer and Wyoming, will ship out everything that is marketable and the balance will be driven into Wyoming. H. R. Wells, manager of Scott and Robinson's Hat X outfit, which brought in about 13,000 head this year, and is ranging them on the north side, does not feel alarmed about conditions there this year, and will take no steps at present. He thinks the hoppers may vacate by next year, as they move from place to place, and the north side of the Yellowstone has not yet been seriously affected, though the insects have made their appearance. It is too late, however, for them to do any considerable damage this year.

AMERICAN HENS THE BEST.

That egg-laying race is a novel international competition in Sydney, Australia. The contest was open to the world. Several competitors entered. The American hens are leading. The test is to last one year. Expert Thompson thus describes it:

"Fifty breeds are represented. The students at the college eat the eggs. The fowls are doing splendidly, and the number of eggs from the competition is 180 per day.

"The American brown leghorns are ahead just now, and they have been from the first. The last time I took the number they were ahead of the best Australians by five eggs. The best Australians are silver laced Wyandottes, owned by G. Howell, of Wentworthville, N. S. W.

"I was disappointed that there were two sets of white Wyandottes in the American lot. I wanted the selection to be three different breeds, so we could have an even better idea of what the Americans can do.

"If things go on with this competition the way they have I'll have to hire a secretary surely. I'm now getting about five letters a day, but what will they be when the competition is closing next March? Do you know, toward the end of our last competition—that was the 31st of March—I had to answer fifty letters a day, and I had to do that in addition to all my other work.

"Was there much work connected with this competition? Yes; wouldn't you think so when we had to put aluminum rings around one of the legs of every one of the 420 hens, and get them all in their pens in good condition for the competition?

"The rings are to identify the birds in the competition if they should get astray. The students at the college take a great interest in the competition, and they do all the work—the manual work—connected with it, under charge of a poultryman. Am I getting any letters from the United States about this? O, yes, a few already, but I expect to get more before it is over."

IS THE MULE DOOMED?

The Chicago Live Stock World says:

According to United States Consul-General Richard Guenther at Frankfort, Germany, the great American mule is doomed to extinction despite the boost he is to receive at the St. Louis show. Guenther, who is evidently determined to earn his salary, says the zebra is to be the nemesis of the mule.

He says of the superior qualifications of the zebrula: "The German papers contend that it has been demonstrated that the mule, being a cross between the horse and the donkey, is inferior to a cross between the horse and the zebra. Formerly the opinion prevailed that the zebra was almost extinct. The opening up of Africa, particularly the eastern part, reveals these fine animals in large numbers.

"Compared with horses and cattle they possess peculiar advantages, as they are immune against the dangerous horse disease of Africa and also the deathly 'tsetse' fly. The question therefore was raised whether the zebra could not take the place of the mule commonly used in the tropics. The greatest credit with reference to the solution of this problem is due to Prof. Cossar Ewart, who has been trying since 1895 to produce crosses between horses and zebras with a view of developing an animal superior in every respect to the mule. He has succeeded in doing so."

STOCKING-ROOM IN BANK.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 18.—A "stocking room" has been built and furnished in the National Bank of Commerce of this city. It is called the "stocking room" because it is a place where a woman may go to be alone and out of sight while she takes from her hiding place the money she wishes to deposit. The most interesting things in the room are the mahogany stools about twelve inches high with a leather cushion at the top of each. The stools are for women to put their feet upon while they are taking out their money.

W. H. Winants, vice-president of the bank, said that many women carried their money in such strange places that the room was a necessity.

CITY AND COUNTY.

Eddie Jarrett of Riverside has made a present of a pet coon to the city park of Fort Worth.

Col. E. W. Taylor was elected commander of R. E. Lee camp Confederate Veterans, to succeed Commander Shaw.

R. McKinley drove in from his farm near Fort Worth with 5 head of hogs, averaging 226 pounds, that sold to Armour & Co. at $5.67½.

Work has begun on the paving of Houston street with asphalt, and it will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

Albert Peary of Fort Worth, about 17 years old, was found dead near Myrtle Springs, last Tuesday, shot with a 38-caliber pistol. The inquest called it suicide.

A maddog caused some excitement in Fort Worth, on Monday. It bit two other dogs and chased a man, who got out of the way. The dog was killed by a policeman.

John Hill was brought to Fort Worth from Baird by Sheriff Honea on the charge of criminal assault near Britton, in this county, and was placed in the county jail.

Young calves of 200 pounds at $4 will bring the shipper more money than a 3-year-old thin cow of 600 pounds at $1.25. Such sales have been made on this market within a week.

Lewis White, 14 years old, was hurt by running against a barb-wire fence last Saturday. He was playing baseball, and ran into the fence, cutting a gash extending from his mouth to his ear.

Whit Dryden, who sent in his resignation as deputy U. S. marshal to accept the position of secretary of the Commercial club, has withdrawn his resignation and will hold on to his present position.

The Fort Worth Board of Trade is pushing delinquent subscribers to the packing house bonus. Of the $100,000 subscribed only $60,000 has been paid in, though the packers long ago carried out their part of the agreement.

Will Hurst was arrested and gave bond Wednesday afternoon on the charge of an aggravated assault on Doc Ward, and also for carrying a pistol. Ward was pretty badly bruised. Both parties reside in the Bedford community.

Prof. Brule gives it as his opinion that petroleum exists in paying quantities within a mile of Fort Worth, and that it could be had at a depth of 700 to 800 feet. Prof. Brule is manager of the Sabine Mineral and Oil Co. of New Orleans.

M. C. Prince, working for the Northern Texas Traction company, was seriously hurt by a heavy trolley line pole falling on him. He was helping to put one of these poles in position when it fell on him, and his chest was crushed and bruised.

Mrs. N. M. Steel of Fort Worth will forward to the World's Fair a quilt which contains 3,980 pieces of regulation size. The coloring is harmonious, and the design artistic. It required two years to make it, Mrs. Steel working during leisure hours.

A young woman was found at a wagon yard in Fort Worth, last Saturday, violently insane. She had come from Hillsboro with her husband, who began drinking, then sold his team and deserted her. These troubles preyed upon her mind and she became insane.

W. R. Farmer of Aledo was at the stock yards Tuesday. He had a shipment of cattle to Chicago last week that were in a wreck near Kansas City, and some of them were killed. Those that were unhurt sold at $4.70 to $4.95. Mr. Farmer says a great many cattle have been fed in the country around Aledo, but not many are on feed now.

John McDuff, whose farm is near Fort Worth, was at the yards Wednesday with a sample of sugar beets raised by him. It weighed 14¾ pounds, was 25 inches long, and 19 inches in circumference at the largest part. Sugar beets are not of much importance for sugar making in this part of Texas, but they are a fine stock feed, and have excellent fattening qualities.

A correspondent of the Fort Worth Telegram, who describes himself as an employe of Swift & Co., makes an appeal to the merchants of Fort Worth to keep open after 6 p. m. on Wednesday. He says he and other employes of the packing houses cannot get to Fort Worth until after 6 and then they find the stores closed. They are limited to Saturday to do their buying, and as they get their weekly pay on Wednesday, many of them have no money left by Saturday.

Sheriff Honea and some of his deputies raided the gambling halls last Saturday night and arrested 17 men who were found in them. The most important of the gambling places was at the corner of Sixth and Houston streets, where a finely fitted up room for gambling purposes was found. The furniture of the room had arrived and been unpacked on Thursday, only two days before the raid was made that closed the place. Charges of gambling were made against all of the men arrested.

The Cutter Analytic Laboratory, whose headquarters and factory are at San Francisco, Cal., are catering particularly to the Texas stockmen's trade. They are by no means new to the trade, and are among the largest dispensers of blackleg vaccine of any concern represented in this state. They have a general distributing branch office at Kansas City, Kan., and fresh virus is handled by leading Fort Worth and Dallas druggists. It is probable that they will establish a branch office in this city at an early date.

Mrs. Minnie Street and her son Fred, a young man of 23, attacked Ed P. Holland at his office, 605 Rusk street, last Saturday, and after knocking him down, beat and kicked him until he was seriously injured. Mrs. Street claimed that Holland had come to her room in a hotel and addressed language to her which she considered insulting. She and her son were arrested. The wounded man lay for some time without medical attention, the city physician refusing to take care of him because it was a case for the county physician. From the explanation of these officials it appears that the city of Fort Worth will not care for any person needing medical attention if he has lived in the city for six months. Only strangers or persons who have resided in Fort Worth less than six months will be cared for by the city physician. It is commented on as a peculiar law that withholds assistance from a citizen who has lived here for years and paid taxes, to bestow it upon a stranger who drifts in and stays here a few days.

Four Sovereigns.

The American sailors to whom the kaiser desired to make presents were the three men who stood at his chair while he dined. It isn't every day that one sovereign has three other sovereigns at his elbow, and it is not a matter for wonder that the emperor wished to commemorate the occasion.

All That Glitters Is Not Gold

The official room of the Vice President of the United States is one of the handsomest in Washington, but those who have been elected to the position say that four years of sitting in a gaudy apartment, surrounded by expensive mirrors and gazing directly at a $200 silver inkwell, symbols of a reunited North and South, palls on a soaring, ambitious soul until ennui enwraps him and buttons itself up his back.

CORNER FOURTH AND CALHOUN STS., FORT WORTH.

CITY AND COUNTY.

Eddie Jarrett of Riverside has made a present of a pet coon to the city park of Fort Worth.

Col. E. W. Taylor was elected commander of R. E. Lee camp Confederate Veterans, to succeed Commander Shaw.

R. McKinley drove in from his farm near Fort Worth with 5 head of hogs, averaging 226 pounds, that sold to Armour & Co. at $5.67½.

Work has begun on the paving of Houston street with asphalt, and it will be pushed to completion as rapidly as possible.

Albert Peary of Fort Worth, about 17 years old, was found dead near Myrtle Springs, last Tuesday, shot with a 38-caliber pistol. The inquest called it suicide.

A maddog caused some excitement in Fort Worth, on Monday. It bit two other dogs and chased a man, who got out of the way. The dog was killed by a policeman.

John Hill was brought to Fort Worth from Baird by Sheriff Honea on the charge of criminal assault near Britton, in this county, and was placed in the county jail.

Young calves of 200 pounds at $4 will bring the shipper more money than a 3-year-old thin cow of 600 pounds at $1.25. Such sales have been made on this market within a week.

Lewis White, 14 years old, was hurt by running against a barb-wire fence last Saturday. He was playing baseball, and ran into the fence, cutting a gash extending from his mouth to his ear.

Whit Dryden, who sent in his resignation as deputy U. S. marshal to accept the position of secretary of the Commercial club, has withdrawn his resignation and will hold on to his present position.

The Fort Worth Board of Trade is pushing delinquent subscribers to the packing house bonus. Of the $100,000 subscribed only $60,000 has been paid in, though the packers long ago carried out their part of the agreement.

Will Hurst was arrested and gave bond Wednesday afternoon on the charge of an aggravated assault on Doc Ward, and also for carrying a pistol. Ward was pretty badly bruised. Both parties reside in the Bedford community.

Prof. Brule gives it as his opinion that petroleum exists in paying quantities within a mile of Fort Worth, and that it could be had at a depth of 700 to 800 feet. Prof. Brule is manager of the Sabine Mineral and Oil Co. of New Orleans.

M. C. Prince, working for the Northern Texas Traction company, was seriously hurt by a heavy trolley line pole falling on him. He was helping to put one of these poles in position when it fell on him, and his chest was crushed and bruised.

Mrs. N. M. Steel of Fort Worth will forward to the World's Fair a quilt which contains 3,980 pieces of regulation size. The coloring is harmonious and the design artistic. It required two years to make it, Mrs. Steel working during leisure hours.

A young woman was found at a wagon yard in Fort Worth, last Saturday, violently insane. She had come from Hillsboro with her husband, who began drinking, then sold his team and deserted her. These troubles preyed upon her mind and she became insane.

W. R. Farmer of Aledo was at the stock yards Tuesday. He had a shipment of cattle to Chicago last week that were in a wreck near Kansas City, and some of them were killed. Those that were unhurt sold at $4.70 to $4.95. Mr. Farmer says a great many cattle have been fed in the country around Aledo, but not many are on feed now.

John McDuff, whose farm is near Fort Worth, was at the yards Wednesday with a sample of sugar beets raised by him. It weighed 14¾ pounds, was 25 inches long, and 10 inches in circumference at the largest part. Sugar beets are not of much importance for sugar making in this part of Texas, but they are a fine stock feed, and have excellent fattening qualities.

A correspondent of the Fort Worth Telegram, who describes himself as an employe of Swift & Co., makes an appeal to the merchants of Fort Worth to keep open after 6 p. m. on Wednesday. He says he and other employes of the packing houses cannot get to Fort Worth until after 6 and then they find the stores closed. They are limited to Saturday to do their buying, and as they get their weekly pay on Wednesday, many of them have no money left by Saturday.

Sheriff Honea and some of his deputies raided the gambling halls last Saturday night and arrested 17 men who were found in them. The most important of the gambling places was at the corner of Sixth and Houston streets, where a finely fitted up room for gambling purposes was found. The furniture of the room had arrived and been unpacked on Thursday, only two days before the raid was made that closed the place. Charges of gambling were made against all of the men arrested.

The Cutter Analytic laboratory, whose headquarters and factory are at San Francisco, Cal., are catering particularly to the Texas stockmen's trade. They are by no means new to the trade, and are among the largest dispensers of black-leg vaccine of any concern represented in this state. They have a general distributing branch office at Kansas City, Kan., and fresh virus is handled by leading Fort Worth and Dallas druggists. It is probable that they will establish a branch office in this city at an early date.

Mrs. Minnie Street and her son Fred, a young man of 23, attacked Ed P. Holland at his office, 605 Rusk street, last Saturday, and after knocking him down, beat and kicked him until he was seriously injured. Mrs. Street claimed that Holland had come to her room in a hotel and addressed language to her which she considered insulting. She and her son were arrested. The wounded man lay for some time without medical attention, the city physician refusing to take care of him because it was a case for the county physician. From the explanation of these officials it appears that the city of Fort Worth will not care for any person needing medical attention if he has lived in the city for six months. Only strangers or persons who have resided in Fort Worth less than six months will be cared for by the city physician. It is commented on as a peculiar law that withholds assistance from a citizen who has lived here for years and paid taxes, to bestow it upon a stranger who drifts in and stays here a few days.

Four Sovereigns.

The American sailors to whom the kaiser desired to make presents were the three men who stood at his chair while he dined. It isn't every day that one sovereign has three other sovereigns at his elbow, and it is not a matter for wonder that the emperor wished to commemorate the occasion.

Lacks Scientific School.

In a letter advocating a plan for the establishment in England of a great scientific school, Lord Rosebery says: "It is little short of scandalous that our ambitious youths should be obliged to resort to the United States and Germany for technical training."

All That Glitters Is Not Gold

The official room of the Vice President of the United States is one of the handsomest in Washington, but those who have been elected to the position say that four years of sitting in a gaudy apartment, surrounded by expensive mirrors and gazing directly at a $200 silver inkwell, symbols of a reunited North and South, palls on a soaring, ambitious soul until ennui enwraps him and buttons itself up his back.
