Attends Meeting Spanish-American War Veterans

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Finley have returned from Sweetwater where they attended the annual State Encampment of the Spanish-American War veterans and ladies auxiliary.

Mr. Finley stated that he met quite a few of his old friends, among them being General Jacob F. Wolters, who was his First Lieutenant during the war. "It makes our hearts sad when we see the ranks thinning so fast," Mr. Finley said, "but I was happy to meet so many who were able to smile during a time like the present."

The meeting will be held next year at Mineral Wells.

CHURCH OF CHRIST REVIVAL MEETING TO START JULY 3

Great plans are being made by the Haskell Church of Christ, for their coming revival.

The revival will start July 3rd, being the First Sunday of July. They are announcing the date of their meeting at this time so there will be no conflict with the arrangements of other churches of Haskell. They intend to hold their services in the First Christian Church auditorium. This place of holding services was decided up, after they were invited, by the First Christian Church, to use their building for the revival. It is reported that the First Christian Church, in a regular business meeting last Sunday, unanimously agreed to permit the Church of Christ to use their auditorium, just like their own for the duration of the meeting.

Evangelist L. R. Wilson of Knoxville, Tenn., will conduct the preaching service. Watch for a complete announcement in the Free Press.

STRONG PROGRAM FOR THE LUEDERS ENCAMPMENT

At a two-day meeting on the Lueders Encampment Grounds last week, there were present representatives of seven associations and indications from each one were to the effect that the encampment would be largely attended. It begins July 11 and runs through the 22nd.

Lueders Encampment grounds represent a value of about $35,000. The tabernacle is said to be the largest of any encampment in the State.

Numerous individual cottages have been erected. The management is offering free sites for the erction of private buildings. The grounds are only open for those who have property interests at times the encampment is not in session.

The management is arranging to feed three in a family or from a church group for the sum of $15.00 or $5.00 for the entire eleven days. Each additional member of a family will be given his meals for $4.50. Every effort is being made to help people get away from any drudgery and the prices have been made the lowest by far in the history of the encampment.

It is believed the program is the strongest that has ever been outlined. State workers will include Mrs. J. E. Leigh, Corresponding Secretary of the W. M. U. of Texas, Andrew Allen, from the Sunday School Department, and Miss Grace Conn, from the B. T. S. Department.

The small fee of $1.00 registration per car will prevail again this year. Those who wish to register before the encampment time will please write Mrs. J. E. Burnam, care of Simmons University, Abilene, Tex.

Misses Bonnie Jo and Dorothy Hammers and Lillian Lewellen spent Sunday with the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Hammers of Seymour, topping the day off with fishing and boating at Lake Whitney.

FEDERAL OFFICIALS CONSIDER REQUEST FARM CROP LOANS

Reconstruction Finance Corporation officials and Secretary of Agriculture Hyde will seriously and carefully consider the request for additional crop loans to farmers of the southwest, they promised a delegation from Texas, New Mexico and Arizona, which recently appeared before the relief agency.

Commissioner of Agriculture J. E. McDonald, a member of the Governor's contact committee, declared upon his return that "we were assured by the administration that a continuance of agricultural loans will be given serious and careful consideration."

"The Secretary of Agriculture has been pronouncedly opposed to loaning the farmers money to add further to the already burdensome surplus of farm products," he said. "He stated that some means must be found to curtail production if farming is to be returned to its proper economic status."

Texas members of the delegation were A. P. Barrett of Fort Worth, Leon Goodman of Midland and Commissioner McDonald, who, in Washington, joined Col. Albert T. Woods of New Mexico and former Governor T. E. Campbell of Arizona. John W. Carpenter and John E. Owens, of Dallas, chairman and member of the Governor's Committee, did not make the trip.

The delegation carried to Washington the plea that government funds should be available to aid farming just as long as funds appropriated by Congress are available to aid industry.

"It is discrimination to shut the door in the face of the farmer on May 1 when they continue loans to industry, commerce and transportation," Commissioner McDonald said. "We asked only for emergency crop production loans and aid for the farmers in purchasing livestock to consume their surplus feed.

"With a carryover of surplus feed from last season and a new crop coming on with no market, funds are needed to obtain livestock through which the feed can be marketed.

"We realize that livestock prices are very low, but it is about the only avenue through which the surplus feed may be marketed."

Mother of Mrs. Zahn Dies in Austin June 2nd

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Zahn returned the first of the week from Austin where they had been to attend the funeral of Mrs. Zahn's mother, Mrs. Mary Foster, who died on June 2nd. Funeral services were held in Austin. Mr. and Mrs. Zahn visited for several days in that section of the state before returning home.

Grasshopper Menace Recalls Campaign Eight Years Ago

"The grasshopper invasion which is menacing Texas recalls the early summer of 1924 when a gigantic campaign covering half of Texas was organized by county agents with the result that the hoppers were stopped 'cold' wherever demonstration methods were followed," states R. R. Reppert, extension entomologist of Texas A and M College. In that year record was obtained of 21,215 farmers who controlled crops on a million and a half acres at total savings of more than seven million dollars.

"Grasshoppers are popularly supposed to come in seven year cycles," says Mr. Heppert, "but many factors may interfere with the regularity of appearance of these destructive pests. Indications from last year's scattered infestations did not point to a wholesale invasion this season, but early spring appearances have changed matters. The situation is already the worst since 1924 and may possibly develop to very serious proportions, especially if dry weather continues, in practically all parts of Texas.

"County agents are watching the situation closely and where necessary re-issuing and re-demonstrating the use of the poison bran mash which has become the standard control measure. This is made by mixing 25 pounds bran mash, one pound Paris green or white arsenic, and one pound common salt together; diluting one ounce high grade amyl acetate and two quarts cane or sorghum molasses in about two gallons of water; and pouring this liquid over the poisoned bran until every particle is moist. Further additions of water are made and the whole mass mixed thoroughly until a mash is obtained that is quite moist yet will fal lapart after being tightly squeezed. This quantity should be enough to broadcast over about five acres, which should be done in early morning before nine o'clock. If killing in grassland the entire acreage to be protected must be poisoed, but if resisting an invasion into cultivated fields poisoning need only cover a strip of fence row or pasture and a few rows of cultivated crops. Mash should never be placed in piles.

NO HASKELL VETS IN BONUS MARCH

The bonus "army" which has invaded Washington 20,000 strong has no Haskell county products in its ranks as far as information coming to the Free Press relates. Abilene and a few other West Texas towns have sent a few marchers.

Several hundred veterans from Texas and Oklahoma have arrived in the capitol or are on their way according to press dispatches.

REVIVAL AT FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH IS WELL ATTENDED

The revival campaign in progress at the First Christian Church began Monday night with a large audience in attendance, and interest has been increasing with each service of the revival.

Rev. D. R. Lindley, the evagnelist opened the campaign with a message on the subject "A Pauper in a Palace." He said: "The greatest pauper in Haskell is not the man who is financially bankrupt and who is begging his bread, but the man who is facing the setting sun, staggering toward the Great Divide, a bankrupt in life's resources, spiritually insolvent."

Tuesday night the subject of the message was "If Christ Were a Citizen of Haskell." and Wednesday night, "Life's Railway to Heaven."

Further subjects to be discussed are: Thursday night, "The Echoes," Friday night, "Chunks In the Wheel"; Saturday night, "The More Excellent Way." The campaign will continue through this week and next week.

One of the features of the revival is the inspirational song service under the direction of Rev. George Cherryhomes. Special messages in song are being given at each service, and the large Booster choir, composed of junior boys and girls, promises to be one of the high points of the revival.

Morning services are held at 10 o'clock each day. Evening services begin at 8:15 p. m. The public is cordially invited to attend.

BANKS TO LOOK AFTER NEW TAX PLACED ON CHECKS

Collection of the new two-cent tax on checks, drafts and similar instruments which goes into effect on June 21 will cause no inconvenience to bank depositors of the country, but will be handled entirely by the banks.

Cashier A. C. Pierson of the Haskell National Bank stated this morning that the local bank would be ready to enforce the tax on the effective day.

The Internal Revenue Bureau at Washington said Wednesday the banks would pay the tax to the treasury at the end of each month. During the period, the banks will keep count of the number of checks drawn by each depositor and at the end of the month enter the charge against his account and enclose a statement in the depositor's canceled checks.

DELEGATES TO DEMO CONVENTION ASKED TO WEAR COTTON

Southern delegates to the Democratic National Convention, to be held in Chicago June 27 are being urged by the National Association for Increased Use of Cotton to wear a cotton suit on at least one day of the convention.

Regional presidents of the Association are forwarding personal letters to all of the delegates from the cotton states. J. E. McDonald, Commissioner of Agriculture and President of the Texas Division of the National Association, forwarded the letters to Texas' 144 district delegates and 40 delegates at large.

"National delegates render an unselfish and patriotic service to their State and National, and this service can be materially broadened if every delegate from the cotton states should provide himself with a cotton suit to be worn on at least one day during the Chicago convention, Commissioner McDonald wrote. The National Association for the Increased Use of Cotton respectfully urges that you provide yourself with a cotton suit.

"A letter similar to this is going to every southern delegate to our National Convention. Our only motive is the promotion of more uses for cotton, and we have implicit confidence in our delegates cooperating in this endeavor."

NEWS FROM OVER WEST TEXAS

June Day Turns Out to be Rare Indeed as Wind Freaks Hit Graham.

From the Graham Leader—

June days are supposed to be rare, according to a certain noted poet, but June 8 turned out to be unique to the point of freakishness. Following the hottest day of the season a wind and sand storm of considerable velocity struck Graham shortly after 6 o'clock Wednesday afternoon, doing considerable damage to trees and awnings throughout the city. No serious property damage had been reported this morning.

After stunting from one angle to another, the wind was followed by a terrific downpour of rain, which was of short duration, however, the total precipitation being only 68 of an inch. Another weather freak was reported by the city night officers, who state that a hot wind blew in this morning about 2 o'clock with such suddenness that they investigated to see if it was caused by a nearby fire.

Knox City Water Rate Reduced for Summer.

From the Knox County Herald—

Several months back the water rates for Knox City were reduced from a flat rate of $2.00 to $1.50 with 20 cents additional for each 1,000 gallons. For the four summer months, June, July, August and September, the flat rate is still the low, $1.50, but for the additional 1,000 gallons, the rate is reduced to 10 cents. This summer reduction will be good news to all city water users.

Stamford's Total Rainfall for Year 1932 is 15.1 Inches.

From the Stamford Leader—

This country was blessed with another heavy rain last Sunday night. The rain came in a huge black cloud that arose from the southwest and it did not look any too reassuring when it was boiling around. There was a great display of lightning which was followed by cannonading in the form of thunder and the rainfall as reported by A. C. Cooper at the Stamford Inn was one and one half inches. Put this with what we had already received and we have a fine rainfall for the year so far. It looks like we are to have some real, Indian corn in the roasting ears and none of the shipped-in varieties. It looks like a bumper crop of everything and it also looks like we are going to use just such a crop. Calling up the Swenson offices we find that since the first of January, we have had 15.11 inches of rain, which is excellent.

Post Office Will Use Cotton Twine to Help Farmers.

From the Wellington Leader—

Beginning July 1, the post office department will begin using cotton twine, according to dispatches sent from Washington this week. Negotiations have been made for the purchase of 1,000,000 pounds of this twine.

The movement followed activities on the part of Senator Tom Connally, who through this means seeks to raise the price of cotton for the southern states. Jute is $1.61 cheaper per 1,000,000 yards than the cotton twine, but the difference is so small that cotton has been accepted.

Resigned to Her Fate

A wealthy old lady was very ill and sent for a lawyer to make her will. "I wish to explain to you," she said weakly, "about disposing of my property."

The lawyer was sympathetic. "There, there, don't worry about it," he said smoothly. "Just leave it all to me."

"Oh, well," squeaked the old lady "I suppose I might as well. You'll get it anyway.

We Have All Helped to Make ELECTRICITY your most inexpensive servant

The West Texas Utilities Company strives constantly to provide electric service more economically. That's one reason why your electricity is so inexpensive today.

There is another reason. With the rate schedule arranged so that the unit price is less with each additional use, our customers have reduced their own average rates by applying electricity to more and more of their household tasks.

This working arrangement between customer and company makes electric service constantly more useful and constantly lower in cost. As you make fuller use of the service, your rate is always going down.

To Our Friends and Customers

We are taking this opportunity to thank you for your past patronage, and we are going to do everything possible to merit your favors in the future. We have worked our elevator over, and we are in position to serve you better in handling this grain crop than ever before. We hope you will favor us with your grain business this season.

We have tried to serve the people as best we could under present conditions. We have milled out about three hundred thousand pounds of flour for our customers, at a loss to ourselves.

The present exchange basis on wheat is one-fifth toll; the mill grinds about fifty bushels per day, which would give us ten bushels. The average price has been about thirty-five cents per bushel, or three dollars and fifty cents per day for the mill.

Out of this we have paid a man to operate the mill, paid for flour and bran sacks and the fuel bill. You can very easily see that this has been quite an expense to us, and at the same time we have saved everyone who has stored their wheat with us from 1 8to 25 cents per bushel, and we will do the same thing this year. Please take the above into consideration when you sell your wheat. Bring it to us either for storage or to sell, and we will give you the very best price the market affords. We make the above statement that our friends and customers might better understand our position in regard to this crop, and that we might all work together in this financial depression.

YOURS VERY TRULY,

Haskell Mill & Grain Co.

DETROIT BANKER'S RISE ENDS IN JAIL

Convicted of Embezzlement, He Gets Prison Term.

Detroit.—The star of destiny, which skyrocketed Robert Moffat Allan, youthful banker, to the peak of Detroit finances a year ago, has fallen, leaving a trail of blasted ambitions.

Allan, who at thirty-three years of age, became president of the American State bank, the city's largest independent bank, has been convicted of embezzlement. The conviction carries a sentence of from one to twenty years in Michigan state penitentiary.

The youthful banker's career was meteoric. He started as a messenger boy, and rose rapidly through the ranks to a directorship. Three years ago, in January, 1929, his fellow directors elected him president.

Under his control, the bank grew to embrace 30 branch offices in the Greater Detroit area. It was known as a one-man institution, with the youthful "Wizard of Finance" the guiding genius. Robert Moffatt Allan became a name feared and respected in Detroit finance.

Allan's star ascended with the "boom" period of 1929 and early 1930. His bank engaged in the pyramiding game of high finance, refusing to be swallowed up by other and larger institutions. Allan himself bought stock in banks, the state charged.

Then the crash. Stocks tumbling; disquieting withdrawals; the annual state banking examination, and the revelation all was not right with the Allan institution; indictment, arrest, trial, and lastly conviction.

During his ascent to power in the financial world, Allan rose to a position of equal importance socially. He joined and later became president of a golf club. He purchased a palatial suburban home, and entertained lavishly. He belonged to a yacht, university, and athletic club, as well as two lodges. His friends included all of Detroit's socially prominent.

Famed Bad Man's Bones Thought Found in West

Helena, Mont.—A skeleton, believed to have been that of James Daniels, early day "bad man," whose career was ended by a vigilantes' noose, was found buried in a Helena street by pipe-line workers recently.

The skeleton was turned over to the museum of pioneer history of the Montana Historical society.

Daniels was convicted of first degree murder after killing a miner as a climax to a quarrel over a card game and was sentenced to serve a term of life imprisonment in the state penitentiary. He was pardoned, however, by Gov. T. F. Meagher after serving a short time in the state prison.

He returned to his old haunts. A few days after he had returned vigilantes decided to administer justice in their own efficacious way.

He was hanged on the outskirts of Helena and when his body was found his pardon from the governor was still in his pocket.

Carpenter's Fall Reveals Rare Medical Disease

Wilmington, Del.—Victim of a rare malady, Paget's disease, Norwood Roe, forty-three, is now one and a half inches shorter than he was 13 years ago. And physicians believe he may shrink even more. Recently Roe, who is a carpenter, fell from a building. Rushed to a hospital an X-ray showed that his vertebrae had shrunk greatly and were abnormally thin, typical of Paget's disease, with which he must have been afflicted for years, they said.

Letter Is Returned to Writer After 11 Years

Farmington, Mich.—A lost letter, which wandered over the United States for 11 years, has reached its addressee here.

As Miss Florence Ratcliff, the addressee, wrote Franklin college, Ind., requesting credentials for a teaching job. The credentials were mailed in June, 1918.

They were delivered to Miss Ratcliff, now Mrs. Albert Leach. The paper is yellow and the ink faded, Mrs. Leach said. The most recent postmark is Fort Smith, Ark.

Paris Street Leads in Missing Persons

Paris.—Paris holds the world's record for being the city with the greatest number of missing people, according to statistics.

The Society for the Protection of the Family, which aids the French police in tracing missing individuals, announces that 27,000 people have disappeared from Paris during the past year. This is an increase of 7,000 over 1930.

It is emphasized, however, that many of these so-called missing have not fallen victims to crime, nor accident, but have merely suddenly left town for reasons of their own.

THE BICENTENNIAL CELEBRATION ABROAD

Extending far beyond the boundaries of the United States, the celebration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of George Washington's Birth has reached into sixty-seven countries to find enthusiastic participants in this unprecedented observance, according to official reports received by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

With an interest given tangible expression in every possible way, the people of these foreign countries have cooperated whole-heartedly with Americans abroad in honoring the First President of the United States. In many instances citizens of foreign nations have planned and carried out programs and other patriotic manifestations on their own initiative.

Many streets and public squares abroad have been renamed for Washington. Monuments are being erected to him by the members of patriotic societies and Americans in foreign countries, and numerous gatherings have echoed to his praise. In his honor the legislature of a great nation, the Reichstag of Germany, was assembled in special session, and for the first time in history, the strains of America's national anthem rang through this historic hall.

Not only have special exercises in honor of Washington taken place all over the world, but even more lasting manifestations of the esteem in which he is held have been given. Outstanding among these are the establishment of a George Washington Memorial Library in the college in Stuttgart, Germany; the naming of a municipal apartment house in Vienna, Austria, in honor of Washington; the building and naming of a park and avenue in Latvia in his honor; the issuance of a commemorative postage stamp in Poland, and other similar projects.

Never, in the history of civilization have so many Nations united to honor the hero of a foreign land. This tribute shows, clearer than all the biographies on Washington ever written, the feeling of reverence and respect with which the Father of our Country is held throughout the world.

The United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission issued no formal invitation to any foreign government to participate in the Bicentennial celebration. Through the Department of State, American embassies, legations and consulates were reached, while American chambers of commerce and other organizations were contacted directly by the Commission. As a result, Bicentennial committees were set up not only in practically every foreign country, but also in the principal cities of the world. These celebrations have all been financed by Americans living abroad and by the friendly citizens of foreign countries. In no case has the United States government or the Federal Bicentennial Commission supplied funds for that purpose.

Reports received by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission indicate that foreign interest and activity in the celebration will continue until the official close of the observance next Thanksgiving Day. Programs have been planned for many of the dates which will be observed in the United States, such as Memorial Day, Flag Day, Independence Day, Constitution Day, Armistice Day and other similar occasions during the year.

The countries thus far reporting participation in this great Bicentennial Celebration of Washington's Birth are:

Albania, Algeria, Arabia, Argentina, Australia, Austria, Belgium, Bolivia, Brazil, Bulgaria, Canada, Canary Islands, Chile, China, Colombia, Costa Rica, Cuba, Czecho-Slovakia, Free City of Danzig, Denmark, Dominican Republic, Ecuador, Egypt, England, Finland, France, French Indo-China, Germany, Greece, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Hungary, India, Iraq, Ireland, Italy, Jamaica, Japan, Java, Jugoslavia, Korea, Latvia, Liberia, Luxembourg, Mexico, Netherlands, Nicaragua, Norway, Palestine, Panama, Paraguay, Persia, Peru, Poland, Portugal, Rumania, Salvador, Scotland, Siam, South Africa, Spain, Sweden, Switzerland, Turkey, Uruguay, Venezuela.

The Modern Cocktail

An old Dutchman, returning to Holland, was asked by a friend what, in his estimation, was the strangest thing he had noticed, and he replied:

The United States has many wonderful things, but the strangest is a drink called the cocktail—and here is how they make it: They put in whiskey to make it strong, then water to make it weak; gin to make it hot and ice to make it cold; lemon to make it sour; sugar to make it sweet; then they say: 'Here's to you!' and drink it themselves.

Reason Enough

An insurance company wrote out a policy for Samuel Johnson, and for a few years the premiums were paid promptly. Suddenly they stopped and after sending out a few notices, the company received this reply: "Dear Sir: Please excuse us, as we can't pay no more premiums on Sam. He died last May. Yours very truly, Mrs. Sam Johnson."

"Did you turn off the iron?"

"Yassum, I pulled the chain once, lak' you tol' me, den I pull it again to make sure."

THE PEOPLE OF TEXAS MUST DECIDE THE FATE OF TEXAS RAILROADS

● THE WELFARE of Texas and Texans has gone and will always go hand in hand with the welfare of Texas railroads. Their dependency upon each other is absolute.

In 1929 Texas railroads gave employment to 82,956 employes, to whom they paid annually $126,674,543 in salaries and wages. In 1930 this number decreased to 70,739 while the payroll declined to $109,892,226. In 1931 the number of employes fell to 57,098 and the payroll to $89,505,918.

This represents a decrease of more than $37,000,000 in purchasing power in Texas communities. There has been a corresponding decrease in purchase of materials and supplies by Texas railroads. The ability to have maintained railroad payrolls and purchases would have been a very important factor in overcoming the present trying economic condition.

The decline in railroad payrolls and purchases is due only in part to economic conditions. The revenues of the railroads have been affected not only by business conditions but to a very large extent by loss of traffic to trucks and buses using the public highways in competition with the railroads.

● The time has come when the people of Texas must decide whether the traffic of this state can best be carried by the railroads, using facilities which they built and maintain at their own expense, or by trucks and buses using the highways built and maintained at the taxpayers' expense.

NORMAL BUSINESS

When business becomes slow, many theorists become agitated, and clamor for startling new innovations, which are contrary to habits of our people, and to which the country would adjust itself with difficulty.

That is much like a doctor who gives his patient some violent remedy that exaggerates his distress. What he usually needs is rest and quiet, and mild treatment that removes obstacles to recovery.

So in regard to business. The needs of this time are not for radical and far-reaching changes, but for the removal of the more accessible obstacles to full prosperity, the cultivation of prudent and wholesome habits, and the avoidance of excesses, assisting our industrial system to work smoothly and naturally.

The unfortunate tendency of our people to rush to extremes precipitates business disasters. When business is good, they step high, see no possibility of disaster, and go in for extravagant plans of expansion. Then when business turns slow for a bit, they lose all faith and confidence, they say business will never be good, they refuse to buy goods, they lay off help, and business becomes worse because of panicky fears.

What this country needs is a spirit of calm moderation, that refuses to go joy-riding in times of expansion, and consequently is not loaded up with heavy burdens when business slows up, and its cheerful confidence helps to maintain courage and faith.—Valley Stream (N. Y.) Record.

GIVE NERVES A REST

In a recent statement to the press, a well known New York doctor calls attention to the fact that while science has made great strides toward the aboliton of diseases combatted for hundreds of years, a new series of ailments are arising to take their places.

Most of these ailments, he declares, are directly traceable to the fast pace of modern business and modern living. Thousands of human beings are running their health in the battle for the dollar, or as some call it, "the battle for recognition." People work and rush to the verge of exhaustion; then alcohol, coffee, tea or other stumulants are resorted to, resulting in neurosis, an ailment of the nervous system. Some advice in this connection is quoted:

"In such cases medicine is of little avail. What is needed is to give one's nerves a vacation through periods of rest and relaxation, even during business hours. Artificial stimulants should be avoided or reduced to a minimum. Coffee from which the caffein has been removed by scientific means is recommended. More time spent in the garden, on the golf links, or in boating and fishing, will yield returns in health and vigor."

While these suggestios apply with particular force to those men and women whose business and social duties are extremely exacting, they hold much sound advice for all who find themselves inclined to disregard the fundamental laws of health by overtaxing their physical and mental powers.

ON TEXAS FARMS

By W. H. Darrow, Extension Service

Cost of living studies made on farms during the last 20 years indicate that 40 to 60 per cent of the family living has been made on the farm. Food has constituted a little less than half the total living costs. As much as 50 to 75 per cent of the food supply has come from the farm, these studies show.

* * * *

The Texas 4-H pantry demonstration plan represents the extreme limit to which living at home can b epushed. It shows that it is possible to produce 87 per cent of the food requirements for a family of five on the farm. A few of the most efficient home demonstration club women and their families have actually accomplished this, and large numbers are producing as much as 80 per cent of the food at home. There are nearly 30,000 of these 4-H pantry demonstrators and cooperators in the State.

* * * *

The influence of 4-H pantry demonstrators extends far beyond the limits of the home demonstration clubs. Members have set as goals the coaching of from 50 to 85 per cent of all the farm families in their counties in gardening, budgeting food requirements, canning and organizing efficient pantries.

* * * *

In Jack county the home demonstation clubs are trying to help 976 farm families this year. The home demonstration agent has established demonstrations in canning and care of poultry in nine unorganized communities. In a recent monthly check-up it was revealed that 28 home demonstration club women had shown 77 other families short cuts to a bountiful food supply.

* * * *

Agriculture is taking care of its own. No lines are drawn by home demonstration club women in extending the latest and best in the art of food production and preservation. Negroes are getting help in East Texas, Mexicans in Southwest Texas, and a Hidalgo county woman reports teaching the use of a steam pressure canner and sealer to Japanese neighbors.

A man once visited a strange cemetery and ran across the following epitaph on a tombstone:

"Remember, friend, as you pass by
As you are now, so, once was I.
As I am now, you soon will be,
Prepare for death and follow me."

The visitor quickly removed his pencil from his pocket and added the following inscription:

"Dear friend, ere I would be content
I'd like to know which way you went."

Equal Suffrage

An Arkansas mountaineer was running for the position of county judge and his family was very much excited.

"Maw," said the oldest son, "if Paw gets the judgeship, will we all be judges?"

"No, honey," answered the old lady "nobody exceptin' me and yer paw!"

History Up to Date

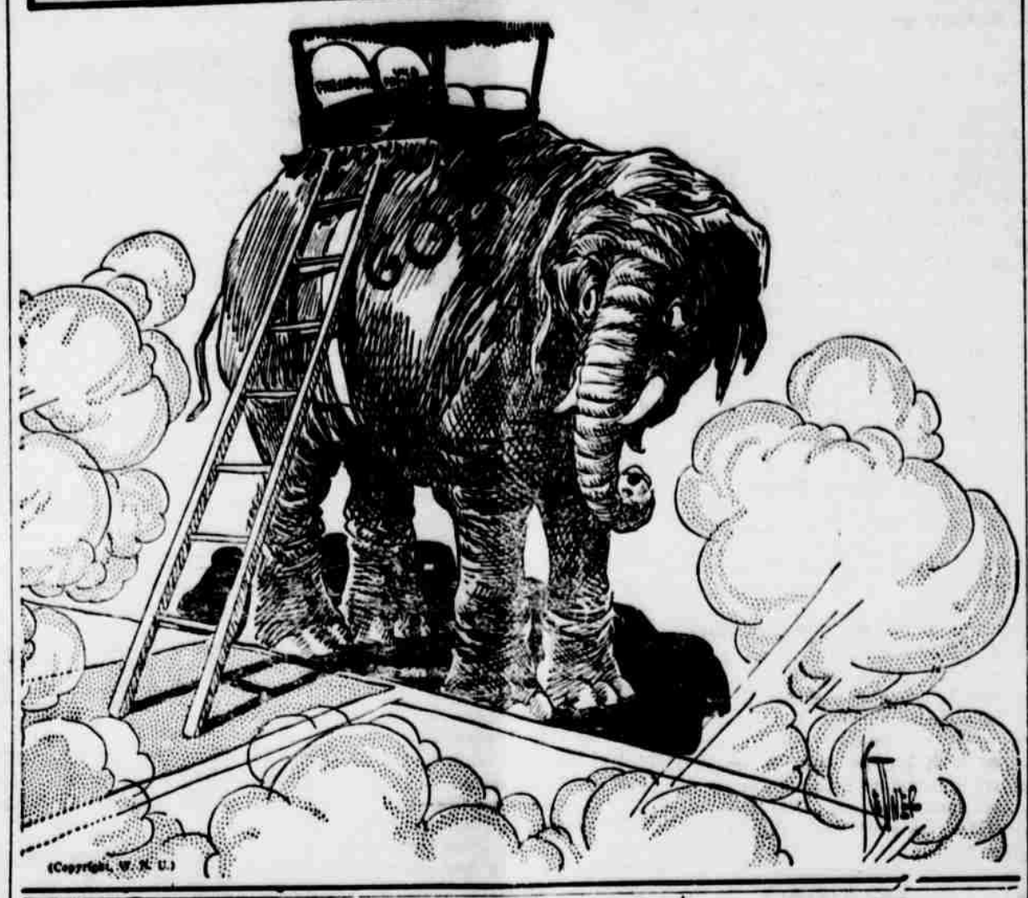

Teacher—Jack, who was Ann Boleyn?

Jack—Ann Boleyn was a flat-iron sir.

Teacher—Whatever do you mean by that?

Jack—Well, our history book says, 'Henry having disposed of Catherine, pressed his suit with Ann Boleyn.'

With a new automobile tire it is said that punctures are "altogether improbable." Depending, we assume, on the improbability of hitting a nail just right.

Trousers are the newest style for Soviet women. Guess they're determined to wear the pants literally as well as figuratively.

An eminent physician declares that most diets are all wrong. Boarding house patrons will concur.

A French professor opposes the study of mathematics by children under 10 years. The youngsters doubtless agree.

An Oklahoma stenographer sued a man who promised daily for 15 years to marry her but didn't. Some women are so impatient.

Investigation of campaign expenses this year promises to consist mostly of trying to find out why the boys didn't come across.

Dense Dorothy is so dumb that she thinks the Siberian steppes are new Russian dance tunes.

This inventing business is being carried too far. An Austrian has devised a contraption whereby eight kettle drums can be played at once.

In Memphis a man knocked a girl down when she tried to kiss him. She must have been one of those whose best friends won't tell her.

A Canadian gentleman reports the loss of $45 taken from his trousers pocket while he slept. The case is greatly complicated by the fact that he has no wife.

Safety hint: Don't turn a corner that isn't there.

"Business Leaders to Thresh Out Ills"—Headline. And when the threshing is done they'll probably find a surplus crop on their hands.

If Not Older

A maiden lady of uncertain years became very indignant when the census taker asked how old she was.

"Did you ask the girls next door," she demanded, "the Hill twins?"

"Certainly," replied the census man.

"And did they tell you their age?

"Yes."

"Well," she snapped, "I'm just as old as they are."

"Oh, very well," replied the census man; and he wrote in his book, "Sarah Stokes, as old as the Hills."

Mrs. Jones—My husband is so careless. His buttons are forever coming off.

Mrs. Smith—Perhaps they are not sewed on properly.

Mrs. Jones—That's just it. He's so careless about his sewing.

A Shut-In's Prayer

Last night the moon pulled anchor
And sailed down the milky way;
She peeped through a sanatorium window,
Where a lonely shut-in lay.

Then the moon seemed to shine much brighter,
Each star seemed to nod its head,
And the night became more peaceful
When they heard what the shut-in said:

"Dear God away up in Heaven,
I earnestly pray to thee;
You'll answer my prayer, now won't you?
Lay a healing hand on me.

Dear Father, the world forgets me
I've been a shut-in so long;
I'm needing your love, dear Jesus,
Instill in my heart a song.

I trust that I am not asking
Too much of your 'Heavenly wealth,'
When I so humbly pray you,
To give me back my health."

The moon sailed on her journey,
While the stars twinkled from above;
The shut-in drifted to dreamland,

What is greater than God's [illegible]
—Satan

Harry—I went to the war because I was a bachelor and I liked [illegible] ties.

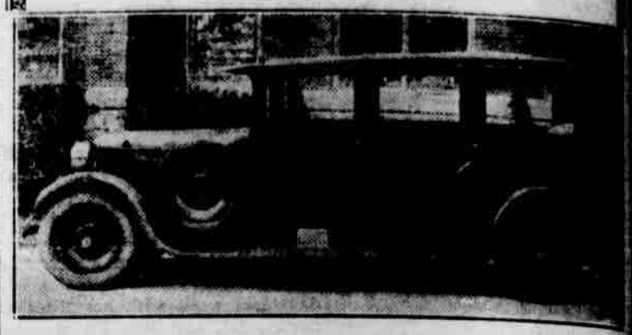

Tom—And me, I went to war because I was married and [illegible] peace.

Record Race Victor Thanks Firestone

Upper left, Harvey S. Firestone, Jr., referee of the race, and Edsel Ford, pacemaker on the first lap. Lower, Fred Frame, the winner, and Jerry Hauck, riding mechanic, in the car they drove to victory.

Men, automobiles and tires set amazing new records of speed and endurance in this year's 500-mile international race on the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. Giving a splendid exhibition of cool and steady driving, Fred Frame, veteran of many races, won the event in record-breaking time. With an admiring throng milling around him after his sensational victory, one of the first things Frame did was to send the following telegram to Harvey S. Firestone, pioneer tire manufacturer:

"I want to congratulate you and thank you on the wonderful performance of Firestone tires which helped me win the Indianapolis 500-mile race today without tire trouble, setting a new record of more than 104 miles an hour for the 500 miles."

The race throughout was a remarkable Firestone triumph. Every car to finish was equipped with Firestone Tires. The first four broke the former record of 101.13 miles an hour made by Peter De Paolo in 1925. In all the history of the famous motor race there has never been a more severe test of tires and never a finer demonstration of their qualities than was furnished this year. It was the thirteenth consecutive victory for Firestone.

Extra VALUES

GUM-DIPPED CORDS
The Firestone patented Gum-Dipping process transforms the cotton cords into a strong, tough, sinewy unit. Liquid rubber penetrates every cord and coats every fiber, guarding against internal friction and heat, greatly increasing the strength of the cord body, and giving longer tire life.

TWO EXTRA GUM-DIPPED CORD PLIES UNDER THE TREAD
This is a patented construction, and the two extra Gum-Dipped cord plies are so placed that you get 56% stronger bond between tread and cord body, and tests show 26% greater protection against punctures and blowouts. It sets a new standard for tire performance on high speed cars.

NON-SKID TREAD
Tough, live rubber specially compounded for long, slow wear. Scientifically designed non-skid gives greater traction and safe, quiet performance.

THE BATTLE OF BUNKER HILL

On this day, 157 years ago, there happened an event known to every school-child in America as one that all his life has thrilled him with pride in being an American. That event, we are told by the United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission was the Battle of Bunker Hill, the first real battle of the American Revolution.

Every boy or girl born or taught in this country knows the story of that little army of patriots who dared to defy what was then the greatest military power on earth that they and their descendants might live here in a land free and independent.

We know they were driven from their side redoubt only when their ammunition was gone and they were about to be overpowered by overwhelming numbers of the best trained troops of Europe charging with bayonets. We know that the patriots lost 140 killed, 271 wounded and 30 prisoners. These losses occurred, not so much during the action and afterwards during the retreat, when the warriors for freedom had neither bayonets to defend themselves, nor powder for their deadly marksmanship. But though in the technical military sense the outcome was scored as a defeat for the patriots, while they did have the power to fight, they dealt such blows to their enemies as had an effect on all the rest of the war. Indeed it is only now, after these many years, that military historians are able to calculate this moral effect of the Battle of Bunker Hill on the whole after-course of British military operations during the Revolution.

Until recent years, Bunker Hill has been traditionally regarded as a magnificent but futile gesture on the part of the patriots—not so much a military action as the subject of poems and the inspiration for patriotic speeches. Now the students of military history concede that Bunker Hill had profound influence on after events and was one of the turning points in the successful struggle for Independence.

It will be remembered that soon after Bunker Hill, General Sir William Howe was placed in supreme command of the British troops and every student of history is familiar with the covert sneers aimed at Howe as a dawdler. His delays are given as one of the chief reasons why Washington prospered so well against him. Now the keen military analyst sees the reason for Howe's otherwise unaccountable unwillingness to press the frequent advantages he won over General Washington.

The United States George Washington Bicentennial Commission points out that Howe, before taking over the chief command, was the general leading the British assault on Bunker Hill. Like the brave man he was, he charged with his men and was an eye witness to the dreadful slaughter of his troops from the deadly fire of the patriot riflemen in their redoubt. Never had he seen such accurate marksmanship. Every school boy knows the patriot command to "Hold your fire till you see the whites of their eyes," and how well the command was obeyed. Especially had the American marksmen been told to pick off the British officers, and well they did their work.

Howe escaped, but the modern military authorities are of the opinion that he received the shock of his life during that slaughter of his men. The British soldier had never been trained to shoot with accuracy; his reliance was on the bayonet. And at Bunker Hill he never got a chance to use it until the patriot rifles had got in their killing fire, and then had run out of powder. The Americans, on the contrary, had been accustomed to the rifle from boyhood. They learned to use it against the Indians and in bringing down the game they needed for food. Remarkable accounts have come down of their skill and accuracy. Indeed this deadliness with musket or rifle became one of the main reliances of the patriot army.

At Bunker Hill, Howe learned about this new method of warfare, and students of his later course in the Revolution are of the opinion that he never forgot the lesson. He rarely again undertook a bayonet charge against the patriots when he found them strongly entrenched. They had taken that kind of fight completely out of him, and at least one military historian, Thomas G. Frothingham, is of the opinion that the startling experience Howe received at Bunker Hill may have had a great deal to do with his subsequent lack of initiative. Time and again he had Washington cornered against overwhelming numbers, and neglected his opportunity. The reason, says Frothingham, was Bunker Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Railey and little daughter returned home last Saturday, after spending several days with friends and relatives at Winnsboro, Texas.

Prepared for the Worst

Young Husband — Sweetheart, what did you do with that rubber plant Aunt Jennie gave us?

Wife—Why, honey, I put it upstairs in the window. Why do you ask?

Young Husband—Oh, no reason at all. I was just wondering what you put in this salad.

She—And my love for you is like a ring—it has no beginning.

A MAN AND A MULE

Over a hill trailed a man behind a mule drawing a plow. Says the man to the mule:

"Bill, you are a mule, the son of a jackass, and I am a man made in the image of God. Yet, here we work, hitched up together year in and year out. I often wonder if you work for me or I work for you. Verily, I think it a partnership between a mule and a fool, for surely I work as hard as you, if not harder. Plowing or cultivating, we cover the same distance but you do it on four legs and I on two. I therefore, do twice as much work per leg as you do.

"Soon we'll be preparing for a corn crop. When you is harvested I give one-third to the landlord for being so kind as to let me use this small speck of God's universe. One-third goes to you and the balance is mine. You consume all of your portion with the exception of the cobs, while I divide mine among seven children, six hens, two ducks and a banker. If we both need shoes, you get 'em. Bill, you are getting the best of men and I ask you, is it fair for a mule, a son of a jackass, to swindle a man—a lord of creation—out of his substance?

"Why, you only help to plow and cultivate the ground, and I alone must cut, shock, and husk the corn while you look over the pasture fence and hee-haw at me.

"All fall and most of the winter the whole family, from Granny to the baby, picks cotton to help raise money to pay taxes and buy a new harness and pay the interest on the mortgage on you. And what do you care about the mortgage? Not a damn! You onery cuss. I even have to do the worrying about the mortgage on your tough, ungrateful hide.

"About the only time I am your better is on election day, for I can vote and you can't. And after election I realize that I was fully as great a jackass as your pupa. Verily I am prone to wonder if politics were made for men or jackasses, or to make jackasses of men.

"Tell me, Willyum, considering these things, how can you keep a straight face and look so dumb and solemn?"—Contributed.
