Top grads named for 1985 senior class

The top 10 graduates for each Snyder High School class — including this year's valedictorian and salutatorian — were revealed Wednesday morning at the annual awards day ceremony at SHS.

The top graduate for the Class of 1985 is Shana Hart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hart. She will end her high school career with a grade point average of 4.8055.

Revealed as the salutatorian Wednesday was Phyllis Whitfill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Whitfill. Her GPA was 4.7449.

Both girls will receive scholarship opportunities as a result of their finishing at the top of their class. Plaque presentations will be made also.

Honors for scholastics will also go to the remaining top 10 students in the senior class as well as for juniors, sophomores and freshmen.

The following is a complete list of the top 10 students scholastically at each SHS grade level.

Against Nicaragua...

Embargo will be imposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan plans to impose a total embargo on trade with Nicaragua and to deny U.S. access to Nicaraguan commercial airliners and flag vessels, according to unreleased White House documents.

To counter Nicaragua's "aggressive actions in Central America," Reagan also plans to abrogate a 27-year old U.S.-Nicaraguan friendship treaty. The actions were disclosed Tuesday to The Associated Press.

Secretary of State George P. Shultz informed Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Richard Lugar, R-Ind., of the measures late Tuesday before Reagan and Shultz left on their 10-day trip to Europe.

In departing Andrews Air Force Base late Tuesday, Reagan refused to answer questions about the economic sanctions. But later, aboard Air Force One, presidential spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters that Reagan "probably will make some decisions en route to Bonn," his first stop in Europe.

A White House draft announcement made available to the AP said the activities of Nicaragua, "supported by the Soviet Union and its allies, are incompatible with normal commercial relations."

Reagan acted after the House voted last week to kill an administration bid, as well as compromise proposals, for a resumption of U.S. aid to the Contra rebels fighting the Sandinista government.

Nicaragua's trade with the United States has declined sharply since 1981, reflecting the deterioration in relations between the two countries. Nicaragua imported about $110 million in U.S. goods last year while exporting about half that much to the United States, mostly bananas, coffee and other agricultural products.

A Nicaraguan Embassy spokeswoman, Sara Lee Porter, said Aeronica, the Nicaraguan national airline whose U.S. flights would be suspended, flies on alternate days between Managua and Miami, the only U.S. city served by the carrier.

The White House draft statement said the administration believes there is far greater support for economic measures against Nicaragua in Congress than there is for military involvement.

"Direct pressure represents the only effective means of moderating Nicaraguan behavior," the statement said.

It said the measures should be seen as "unmistakable evidence that we take seriously the obligation to protect our security interests and those of our allies."

Mark Helmke, an aide to Lugar, quoted the senator as calling the measures "an important step in the process of implementing a comprehensive policy. It is not the end-all and be-all, but it is a first step." Helmke said the embargo would not go into effect until May 7 because of various legal requirements.

In addition to the economic sanctions, Reagan also planned to suspend a 1958 U.S.-Nicaraguan Treaty of Friendship, Commerce and Navigation.

RETIREMENT GIFT — Leon Autry and his wife Polly were presented this rare "collector's" sign Tuesday by Bill Burns — owner of the Bill Burns Oil Co. of Sweetwater. The gift was to mark Autry's retirement from the wholesale oil business in Snyder. Burns purchases Autry's interest in the local Mobil distributorship (formerly Magnolia, which used the winged horse symbol) in 1981. Autry to leave fuel distributorship

Longtime Snyder petroleum products wholesaler Leon Autry was given a rare Mobil (formerly Magnolia) oil emblem Tuesday to mark his retirement from the business effective Wednesday.

The presentation was made to Autry and his wife Polly by Bill and Dale Burns of Sweetwater, owners of the Bill Burns Oil Co.

Burns purchased Autry's interest in 1981 and he has continued to manage the operation since that time.

He was given the "winged horse" emblem for Magnolia Oil Co. in commemoration of his association with the company that later became Mobil.

Autry began in business in Snyder in 1953 as the local jobber for Magnolia products. His retirement marks the end of a 32-year career in the wholesale oil business here.

He combined his local operations with the Bill Burns Co. in 1980 in the wake of a Mobil Oil decision to halt distribution in the smaller communities of West Texas.

At that time, they became the Texaco representatives for the Scurry County area.

During his career here, Autry has served on the board of directors of the Snyder Chamber of Commerce and on the board of managers of Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

He currently serves as chairman of the hospital board. Also, he has been associated with both the Snyder Kiwanis Club and Snyder Rotary Club.

His wife Polly retired from teaching in the Snyder public schools in 1983.

They have two daughters — Sandra Chapman, who now lives in the Republic of Singapore, and Mitizi Bishop of San Angelo.

Ex-city employee awarded payment

Former city employee Lloyd H. Merritt was awarded some $65,000 Tuesday in workman's compensation monies by an 132nd District Court jury.

The decision in effect denied an appeal by the City of Snyder, which had sought to overturn an earlier workman's comp payment granted by the Industrial Accident Board of Austin.

The IAB is an entity set up to administer the workman's compensation program in the state.

That payment equaled some $21,000 and had been granted the 81-year-old Merritt for injuries said suffered from an automobile accident which occurred on Oct. 26, 1983 while he was employed as the city animal warden.

The finding by the district court jury was that he had suffered "total and permanent disability" as a result of these injuries.

Merritt testified he suffered injuries to his chest and left arm and that as a result he was unable to work following the accident.

The Industrial Accident Board last May 25 awarded Merritt a workman's compensation payment of $21,077. The city then challeged this and filed a civil lawsuit here to have the matter placed before a local jury.

The actual award granted Tuesday was for payments of $189 per week for 401 weeks. Merritt has already received some workman's comp payments and, with these deducted, the total judgment equals approximately $65,000.

Testimony in the lawsuit — with District Judge Gene Dulaney presiding — began shortly after noon Monday. The jury began deliberations around 11:25 a.m. Tuesday. After a lunch break, they reached their decision at 2:20 p.m. following some 1½ hours of deliberation.

Merritt was represented by Forrest Bowers of Lubbock, who was assisted by local attorney Renal Rosson.

The city was represented by Billy Wolfe of Lubbock, a member of the firm Carr, Evans, Fouts and Hunt. He was assisted by local attorney Ernie Armstrong.

In Brief

Okay bill

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee today unanimously approved a $36.8 billion state budget for 1986-97.

Committee members said the spending bill could be financed without new taxes if legislators also approve a $220 million fees increase, a $275 million increase in college tuition and a net $72.5 million increase from reduced contributions to teachers and state employee retirement funds.

The Senate bill, which will be debated next week, compares with a $36.4 billion bill, from all funds, approved by the House.

Confession

HOUSTON (AP) — A Houston homicide sergeant has confessed to last week's shooting at the Houston Police Officers' Association building, an incident initially blamed on militant homosexuals, the police chief says.

Police Chief Lee P. Brown said Monday that the officer, whom he did not identify, came to his office Friday afternoon and admitted he had fired six shots into the building, adjacent to the Houston Police Department, at about 5 a.m. Thursday.

Arms talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration is blaming the Soviet Union for "no constructive move forward" in negotiations to slow the nuclear arms race.

A senior U.S. official, demanding anonymity, said Tuesday the Soviets not only had failed to put new proposals on the table in the Geneva talks but "backtracked" on offers they had made in the past.

He said it was possible the talks already had reached an impasse, but that a judgment was being withheld until results of the first round, which wound up last week in the Swiss city, were reviewed.

"There's been no constructive move forward, but it's what I expected," the official said.

The feller on Deep Creek says, "It's better to choose what you say than to say what you choose."

The other morning KSNY early morning announcer Bob Clifton told the story about a young man who had set a non-stop talking record. The school boy had talked continously for 156 hours to get his name into the record books.

We know a few persons of the feminine gender who will surpass that record--just as soon as they get finished.

One such gal is Beth Guynes who works over at Hair Haven. For months we've been trying to get her and owner Frankie Estep to offer shoe shines along with hair cuts.

Just suggest it to them if you don't think you can get plenty of conversation.

We were going into a local business Wednesday when we passed one of the best looking young ladies we've seen in a long time. We didn't know her, so we asked Harold Denson who she was.

"Don't know," said Harold. "But she's a West Texas 11."

Our puzzled look caused Harold to continue. "Yep, a West Texas 11 is a 10 body and a one mind."

Did you her about the old gentlemen who was riding an airplane for the first time. At Phoenix, the plane made a beautiful landing, and immediately a little red wagon rushed up to refuel it.

The next stop was Fort Worth, and again a good landing. Also, a little red wagon zipped up to refuel the airliner.

The same thing happened in Nashville--good landing and a little red wagon rushing out to refuel.

A fellow sitting next to the oldtimer remarked, "These planes certainly make wonderful time."

"Yes," replied the old man, "and that little red wagon ain't doin' half bad."

House set for blue law fight

AUSTIN (AP) — Blue Law repeal advocates have the House votes needed to win approval today of a bill that would free Texans to shop on Sundays, says Speaker Gib Lewis.

He predicted the repeal bill would get as many as 95 votes in the 150-member House.

"It's been resolved. They've got the votes on it," Lewis said Tuesday.

House approval would send the bill to the Senate, where supporters say the vote would be close.

"Same old fight," Bay City Rep. Tom Uher said of the latest round in the long battle of the Blue Law.

This year's repeal push has been aided by a coalition of major stores that want to open on Sunday. The Blue Law effectively bans Sunday shopping by prohibiting the sale of 42 items on both consecutive Saturdays and Sundays.

The bill set for House floor debate today is a total repeal measure, except that it would continue to bar auto dealers from selling cars on Sundays.

The Texas Automobile Dealers Association has been the most effective supporter of the Blue Law. The association does not like the repeal bill, even though it keeps them under the Sunday closing law.

Co-sponsor Hugo Berlanga of Corpus Christi, House speaker pro tem, agreed with Lewis that the House outcome seems assured. "I think it looks good. We've got upwards of 90 votes," he said.

"I think on the Senate side it's very close. I think the action on our bill will have an impact on the Senate side," said Berlanga.

Senate sponsor Ray Farabee, D-Wichita Falls, has said he is within "striking distance" of the votes needed to bring the bill to the Senate floor.

Uher plans to offer a "little amendment" to the repeal bill to add a "more modernized menu as to what items will be prohibited from being sold on a Sunday."

But the Uher plan would effectively keep most stores closed on Sundays, except during a Christmas shopping "window."

"Our approach will be representing the family, that's our primary concern," he said. "With both the husband and wife working today, if you have mama working on Sunday how are you going to have Sunday lunch? How do you go to church?"

The working parents argument also is used by repeal advocates, who say families need two weekend days of shopping.

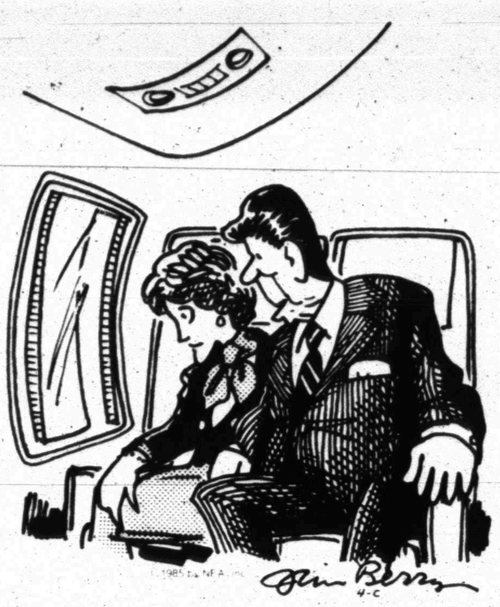

Rep. Bill Messer, D-Belton and chairman of the calendars committee, questioned many members before allowing the repeal bill to reach the floor. He predicted something short of total repeal.

"It looks like there's about a third to completely repeal, a third to not repeal anything and a third that's going to vote for something in the middle," he said.

"Something in the middle" will win, Messer added.

Delayed planting affects weevils

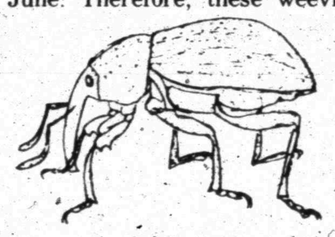

By DEANNA MYERS
County Entomologist

The uniform delayed planting date for cotton in the Scurry County area is May 20. The producers of Mitchell County have also set a date of May 20.

Although we are not expecting a heavy spring emergence of the cotton boll weevil it is important that area producers plant with the date. In a year when spring emergence is low the date can be instrumental in further reducing the number of weevils and can have an impact on numbers of weevils for 1986. Also, if many fields were planted early this year and we have a cool, wet July, problems could occur with weevils in August.

The strategy behind the planting date is to allow a large number of weevils to emerge and die before being able to reproduce. Weevils may lay eggs in ⅓ grown squares in order for the larva to develop.

Cotton squares grow from pinhead size to match head size to ⅓ grown before developing into a bloom. With a May 20th planting date, ⅓ grown squares in cotton should not begin to appear until the first part of July. The peak number of weevils normally emerges during the first part of June. Therefore, these weevils will die before ⅓ grown sqaures appear in cotton. The earlier the cotton crop is planted the more weevils will be able to survive and do damage to cotton yields.

BOLL WEEVIL

Julian Jones will set the boll weevil pheromone traps out next week and will check them for the first time the week of May 6th.

Lu Bright talks to B&PW

The Business and Professional Women met April 23 at the Martha Ann Woman's Club at 6:30 p.m. for the regular dinner meeting. Fay McCollum, president, presided.

Lu Bright was the guest speaker. She is a former teacher, an artist-of-the-month, illustrator for the "Scurry County Times" book, Bible teacher, mother and grandmother.

She has made each of her grandchildren a quilt using the individual child's favorite Bible stories. Each quilt features 10 seven-inch blocks on which are hand printed segments of those favorite stories.

Mrs. Bright talked about the measurements, materials and techniques used to assemble the quilts. She used permanent fabric paints to create 20 different original illustrations for the quilts and she included the Bible book and chapter on each quilt block.

Following her talk, Mrs. Bright presented each member and guest present with a mimeograph copy of her drawing of Noah's ark complete with the animals going aboard.

During the businss meeting, the members discussed the year books and various summer activities.

Guests for the evening included Dorothy Cox, Bertha Gilbert, and Thelma Sims, a former member.

Jimmie Cooper and Clemmy Andress, hostesses, had placed large Peace Roses on each of the three tables. Chocolate mints were plate favors.

Kelley Scott, bride-elect of Neil Paige, was honored with a bridal shower Saturday, April 27 in the home of Mrs. Bobby McCormick.

The serving table was graced with a floor length blue linen cloth and overlaid with a matching cloth accented with blue satin ribbon.

The centerpiece was featured in a crystal goblet gracefully balanced on a matching footed stem. Peach colored slender satin ribbons accented the pedestal.

Inside the goblet, two love birds held a silver wedding ring in their beaks as they nestled in a bed of white, blue and peach silk flowers accented with soft netting and seed pearls.

A silver tea service and crystal and China appointments enhanced the table. Guests were served an assortment of cookies, nuts, mints and orange juice or tea.

Shirley Head assisted the guests at the serving table and Pam Smith presided at the registration table.

That table was covered with a floor length embroideried cloth. The bride's book centered the table and was flanked with a miniature bride and groom encased in a crystal goblet which was accented with slender peach colored satin streamers. A feathered pen completed the setting.

With all four, ask for more

By James Jacoby

In 1933 Easley Blackwood invented the convention in which a four no-trump bid asks your partner how many aces he holds. The responses are 5 clubs — no aces, or all four aces; 5 diamonds — one ace; 5 hearts — two aces; 5 spades — three aces. If the four no-trump bidder continues by bidding five no-trump, he is asking for kings in a similar fashion. As this must be an attempt to reach a grand slam, the five no-trump bid guarantees that the partnership holds all four aces.

In today's deal, South made an artificial jump-shift rebid after North had made a one-spade response. The bidding proceeded as shown, with North raising diamonds, and then using the Blackwood convention to inquire about aces. Unfortunately North did not carry on correctly after South had shown two aces. North should have asked for kings as well. Doing so would have told South that their side had all the aces, and armed with the further knowledge that North was interested in a grand slam, South would simply have bid seven hearts. After all, to try for seven, North surely has the spade queen or diamond king or both. When North bid only six diamonds, South corrected to the better six-heart contract. Since South could not know about the club ace, he was unable to bid seven on his own.

Bidding five no-trump to guarantee all the aces would have made it easy for South to go all the way.

BOSS OF THE YEAR — The American Business Women's Association, Scurry Charter Chapter, honored Morris Sandlin, manager of Everybodys, when they named him Boss of the Year. He was presented with a plaque by Faye Layne (right) and Genetha Payne (left). (Staff Poto)

Sandlin named Boss of the year

The Scurry Charter Chapter of the American Business Women's Association met in the Martha Ann Woman's Club Thursday, April 25 for the annual Boss of the Year dinner and award ceremony.

Fay Layne presented Morris Sandlin, manager of Everybodys, with a plaque in honor of his selection as Boss of the Year. He has been the manager of Everybodys for one year and served as assistant manager for three years. Sandlin moved to Snyder from Lubbock where he owned and operated a grocery store.

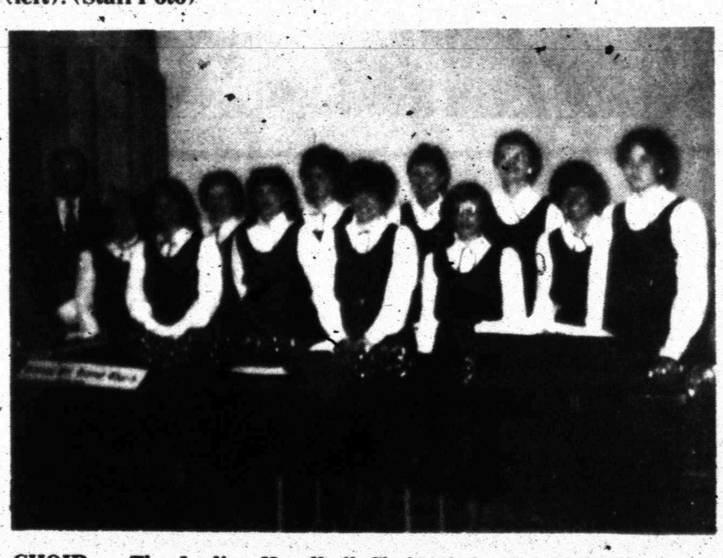

Inez Teaff gave a history of the ABWA which was founded in 1949. The local chapter was founded in 1960 and still has four charter members who are active in the organization. They include Clare Mae Noah, Inez Teaff, Mary Starnes and Maxie McNew.

Deborah Rodgers served as the vocational speaker. She has been employed by the bus staion for the past five years.

Entertainment was provided by the Ladies Handbell Choir of the Colonial Hill Baptist Church. This group was organized three years ago with a total of seven ringers and two octaves. Currently they have 12 ringers and four and one-half octaves. Under the direction of Gerald Garner, their program consisted of sacared and patriotic songs

Members of the handbell choir include Deborah Baremore, Diana Best, Glenda Boyd, Mary Ellen Campbell, Andrea Garner, Kathy Post, Mary Prior, Janie Rice, Ellen Rumpff, Freda Shepard, Micky Williams, Kristi Beasley.

A total of eight bosses, 13 guests and 25 members were present.

While most hotel guests ask for a room with a view, the majority of them don't ask about the size of the room they are getting, says David I. Karpilow.

Karpilow, marketing director for Treadway Hotels, says hotel reservation clerks know the size of the rooms in the hotel and will tell you if you ask.

"By finding out the size in advance, you can either upgrade your reservation and get a larger room if you think it's too small.

Tobacco made its first appearance in Europe in France during the 1550s, and in England about two decades later. The earliest European pipemakers copied the styles of American Indians, but they soon began to develop their own, and pipes made of ordinary white clay were common in England by 1600.

DENNIS THE MENACE

Hired Tuesday afternoon...

Chadwick new WTC coach

By BILL McCLELLAN
SDN Sports Editor

It's official. Western Texas College has hired Kelly Chadwick as its new women's basketball coach.

The outspoken, somewhat animated coach was in Snyder Tuesday where he signed a contract, met with former coach Joe Cushing and athletic director David Foster and did some quick recruiting.

"I'm really excited about coming to Western," said Chadwick, who coached at Amarillo College for the past seven years. "What sold me most of all was the people I'm going to be working with, the staff, the athletic director, the board of regents. I was very impressed with the board of regents," he noted.

Chadwick will be bringing two Amarillo College players with him, Pam Cox and Angela Jeans. He will essentially be starting from scratch, however, since all the freshmen from last year's Duster team have elected not to return.

"That's a decision that made me happy, really," said Chadwick. "It makes it easier for both of us. There's usually only three reasons a kid goes to a college. Either their parents went there, or it's a big name school, or they go there because of the coach. Some of those kids are going with Joe, and that that's fine."

Lynetta Richardson, Jill Rippentrop, Rhonda Chisum and Renee Ramaekers will be transfering to Panola Junior College in Carthage, where Cushing recently took over as women's basketball coach.

"There's only one thing I'd like to to do that Joe didn't do...take Western to a national tournament."

The new coach admitted that following Cushing would be no small task.

"It's going to be tough following Joe. I think he has the best overall record of anybody in the league in the past seven years. There's only one thing I'd like to do that Joe didn't do here, and that is take Western Texas to the national tournament."

Chadwick took Amarillo College to three national tournaments in seven years. His teams were ranked in the top 20 six times.

Despite the coaching change, Duster fans probably won't notice that much difference in the look of the team.

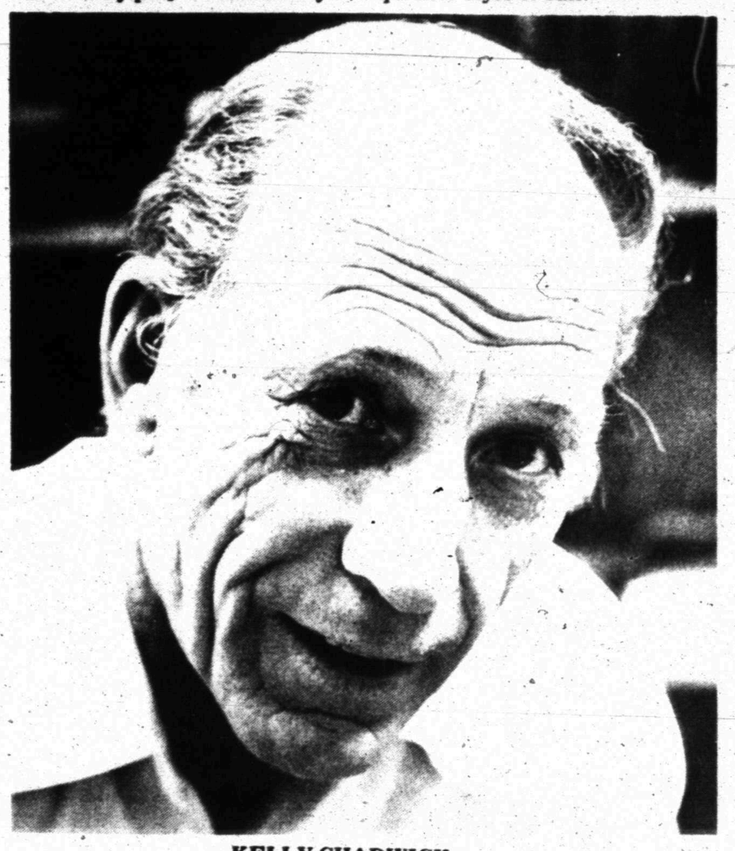

"It's almost impossible to believe that two teams could be so similar and be 240 miles apart," said Chadwick. "Joe's teams and my teams always play extremely hard. Some of the best games in this league have been played between Western Texas and Amarillo, between Joe and myself. We don't press much. I'm not a big believer in the press, but my kids always play hard and they always play good defense and hopefully we don't make too many mistakes," he said.

Chadwick believes he can put together a strong team despite getting a late start in recruiting but he is worried about finding a top-caliber post girl.

"I think size will be the main thing that will hurt us. We need some strong, 6-1, 6-2 post people. This league is usually strong inside and it's going to be difficult to get a real good post player at this point," said Chadwick.

Cox will give the team a spark, however. She averaged 12.1 points, 3.4 rebounds, led the team in steals with 41 and had 92 assists.

"We won't be hurting on the perimeter," said Chadwick. "Pam Cox will probably be the best perimeter player in the league next year," predicted Chadwick. "Angela Jeans is an excellent athlete that would have been a starter for us except that she had some injury problems throughout the season. I think we can sign three or four guards and some 5-11 wing people. We'll be hurting at post probably but we may play a different style, a quicker style of ball."

Bengals pick Degrate in 5th round of draft

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - It started as a celebration, the culmination of a career that included accolades and honors such as the Lombardi Trophy, symbolic of the best interior college lineman in the country.

It ended as a wake.

Tony Degrate had looked forward to Tuesday's National Football League draft for months. For days, he had paced the University of Texas campus, nervously anticipating what he thought would be the conclusion of a solid and, at times, spectacular college career as a defensive tackle.

He watched - along with his mother, father and younger brother - as a sports channel covered the first eight hours of the 28-team draft, expecting he would hear NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle step up and announce his fate.

He sat all morning. He sat all afternoon. And still no call.

Then at 6:40 p.m., the Cincinnati Bengals called to say he had been drafted in the fifth round. No early pick, no top money, no prestige.

"This just blows me away," the 6-foot-4, 285 pound Degrate told The Dallas Morning News. "I never anticipated anything like this."

Although Degrate had won the Lombardi Award, he had heard some disquieting stories in recent days. One of the many NFL draft previews had labeled him an underachiever.

There were also rumors that Degrate's stock had fallen in March because he had refused to be timed in the 40-yard dash during an NFL combine test in Phoenix.

"It was like winning the Lombardi didn't count at all," he said. "And there was talk that people were blaming me and Jerry (Gray, a Longhorn safety) for what happened last year."

"It's nice to be drafted," Degrate said. "I'm disappointed, naturally, that I didn't go higher. But all this means is that I'm going to go out and prove that I'm a good football player."

2-4A baseball roundup

Andrews and Pecos clinched post-season playoff berths after Tuesday night's league action and the only question remaining is which will be crowned the District 2-4A baseball champion.

Andrews kept its spotless district slate intact with a 10-8 win over Snyder while Pecos tagged Fort Stockton 5-1.

Pecos, now 8-1, will host the 9-0 Mustangs in the 2-4A finale this Friday. The game puts a district championship on the line since a win for the Eagles would leave both teams tied at 9-1.

Snyder's loss to Andrews knocked the Tigers out of the playoffs for the first time in the history of District 2-4A. The Tigers had won eight straight district championships, including three in 2-4A compeitition.

Shay Morris was the author of Andrews' latest victory, his eighth of the 2-4A season. He recorded 10 strikeouts in five and two-thirds innings. Todd Carlile belted a three-run homer in the first inning and Danny Neighbors added a go-ahead, two-run homer in the sixth to spark a 14-hit attack for the Mustangs.

Erasmo Acosta, 4-1, was the winner for Pecos. Guy Gladson took the loss. Fort Stockton's Fernie Gomez provided a one-run homer in the game.

Lamesa earned its third 2-4A victory with three-hit pitching from Johnny Gonzales. Gonzales struck out 13.

Domingo Baldarez took the loss for Monahans.

In addition to the Andrews-Pecos game Friday, Snyder is at Monahans and Lamesa is at Fort Stockton.

Two 'Texans' go in initial round of pro football draft

by The Associated Press

Texas A&M defensive end Ray Childress and Texas defensive back Jerry Gray were the only first-round draft picks from the Southwest Conference in Tuesday's National Football League draft.

Childress, drafted by the Houston Oilers, was the third player chosen. Gray was the 21st player selected, by the Los Angeles Rams.

The 6-6, 270-pound Childress was among the final 12 candidates for the Lombardi Award last season and the Oilers hope he'll be able to step into a starting position in the team's weakest area, the defensive line.

The Rams were expected to make a defensive lineman their top choice in the NFL draft, but because of circumstances, they went in a different direction.

"Obviously, we went away from what was perceived as our No.1 need, a pass rusher," said Rams' Coach John Robinson after the Rams picked Gray.

Although Gray played safety for Texas, the Rams plan to use him at cornerback.

The 6-foot, 185-pound Gray had 240 career solo tackles and 16 interceptions at Texas. He had seven interceptions as a senior.

Gray will battle starters Gary Green and LeRoy Irvin, and possibly cornerback-safety Eric Harris, for playing time.

Southern Methodist cornerback Reggie Phillips, chosen by the Chicago Bears, was the only SWC player taken in the second round.

Texas Christian led a parade of five SWC players selected in the third round. TCU defensive back Sean Thomas was tabbed by Cincinnati, wide receiver James Maness was taken by the Bears, and Denver chose Houston defensive end Simon Fletcher in the third round.

Baylor linebacker Ervin Randle was picked in the third round by the Tampa Bay Buccaneers, and Houston defensive back Audrey McMillian went to New England as the final choice of the third round.

Other choices from the SWC, or Texas, and their positions in the draft, were:

ROUND 4: Detroit, Kevin Hancock, lb, Baylor; Miami, Mike Smith, db, Texas-El Paso; Buffalo, Dale Hellestrae, ot, Southern Methodist.

ROUND 5: Dallas, Matt Darwin, ot, Texas A&M; Philadelphia, Dwayne Jiles, lb, Texas Tech; Cincinnati, Tony Degrate, dt, Texas; Buffalo, Jimmy Teal, wr, Texas A&M; San Francisco, Bruce Collie, ot, Texas-Arlington.

ROUND 6: Green Bay, Mark Lewis, te, Texas A&M; Philadelphia, Ken Reeves, og, Texas A&M; Washington, Danzell Lee, te, Lamar.

ROUND 7: Detroit, Tony Staten, db, Angelo State; Cincinnati, Joe Walter, ot, Texas Tech.

ROUND 8: Minnesota, Nikita Blair, lb, Texas-El Paso; Detroit, Scotty Caldwell, rb, Texas-Arlington; Miami, Dan Sharp, te, Texas Christian.

ROUND 9: Detroit, June James, lb, Texas; Philadelphia, Dave Toub, c, Texas-El Paso; Chicago, Thomas Sanders, rb, Texas A&M; San Diego, Dan Remsberg, ot, Abilene Christian.

'Stangs clip Tigers; season ends Friday

ANDREWS -- Danny Neighbors' two-out, two-strike, home run in the bottom of the sixth inning provided the difference here Tuesday night as league-leader Andrews defeated Snyder in District 2-4A baseball action, 10-8.

The see-saw battle came to a climax in the sixth with Snyder holding an 8-7 advantage. Andrews tied the game when Renee Trevino walked, stole second, took third on an error and came in on a single from Todd Carlile. Snyder pitcher Jimmy Cain struck out Jeff Tidwell and John Morales and pushed two pitches past Neighbors before giving up the two-run homer.

The victory left Andrews at 9-0 in district play and sets up a key battle this Friday between the Mustangs and Pecos. Pecos is 8-1 in loop wars after defeating Fort Stockton 5-1 Tuesday.

For Snyder, the loss ends eight years of baseball domination. Now 5-4 in district play, Snyder will bow out of post season play for the first time since Coach Albert Lewis took over the reins.

Snyder did not give up easily here Tuesday. Though reliever Shay Morris got two quick outs in the top of the seventh, he handed a walk to Steve Parker. Chris Fryar followed with a single and Ricky Hunter stepped to the plate to represent the go-ahead run for Snyder. The count eventually went to full before Morris managed to strike the Tiger batter out.

Morris, who pitched the final five and two-thirds innings of the game, is now 8-0 in district play. The 2-4A MVP candidate struck out 10 batters along the way.

Snyder had taken a one-run lead off of starter Trevino in the first inning but Andrews came back to shell Snyder's Charles Bollinger in the bottom of the stanza. The Mustangs grabbed four runs on five hits - three of the runs on a homer from Carlile.

Snyder fought back in the second inning. Michael Long walked and went all the way to home on an error by third-sacker Carlon Branson. The error left Bobby Velasquez on third base. Next-up Parker singled to score Velasquez. Fryar then hit into a fielder's choice and Hunter followed with a walk. Jay Mayo tied the game at 4-4 when he cranked out a double. That was the end of Trevino, who gave up the mound for Morris.

Snyder wasn't through, however. Bollinger walked to load the bags and Justin Webb offered the go-ahead run when he also took a base-on-balls. Snyder scored one other run on an error.

The rest of the evening was a game of chase. Andrews pulled within a run, 6-5, in the bottom of the second, then tied the game in the fourth. Both teams scored on errors in the fifth to make it 7-7.

In the top of the sixth, Snyder went back in front when Mayo walked, moved to second on a walk issued to Bollinger, to third on a passed ball and came home on Webb's sacrifice fly to centerfield.

"We put some pressure on them, scored some runs, but we just couldn't get them out," said Coach Lewis, who added, "We had seven errors up the middle. It was just one of those nights."

Snyder came up with six hits while Andrews cracked the bat 14 times. Webb led the Tigers in a two-for-two performance.

Snyder, now 16-7, concludes the 1985 season Friday at Monahans.

The final victory of Cy Young's 511 major league wins was a 1-0 shutout in 1911.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1985 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: November Bride wrote: My fiance insists that when we feed each other the first two pieces of wedding cake we should grind it into each other's faces. We've seen this done at other weddings, and I think it's stupid and disgusting, but he is adamant. Am I wrong or is he being inconsiderate and immature?

You replied: You're not wrong. And if your fiance is adamant, knowing how you feel, perhaps you'd better take a second look at him. Marriage to such a man would be no piece of cake.

Abby, do you realize that you advised this bride to consider not going through with the wedding over a trivial difference of opinion?

Smearing each other's faces with wedding cake at a bridal dinner is all in fun. We did it at our wedding, and the picture we have of it in our wedding album is hilarious!

What's the matter with you, Abby? Have you lost your sense of humor?

JANUARY BRIDE

DEAR BRIDE: My sense of humor is still intact, but unless both parties agree to the cake-smearing bit, it should not be done.

There is more involved here than a "trivial difference of opinion"—it's essential that this bride realizes that she is about to make a lifelong commitment to a man who insists that she submit to something she considers stupid, disgusting, inconsiderate and immature. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: This is for "November Bride" whose fiance insists that they follow the "tradition" of grinding the first pieces of wedding cake into each other's faces.

First of all, it is not "tradition." The tradition is for the bride and groom to feed each other a bite of wedding cake to symbolize the beginning of sharing their food, their love and their lives with one another.

The crude and ugly business of grinding cake into each other's faces has recently become popular among young couples. Now for my story.

At our wedding, my husband offered me a bite from a large piece of wedding cake, and before I knew it, he had shoved the entire piece into my mouth! I was unable to swallow it, and I couldn't talk. I very nearly choked before I could chew enough cake to breathe and drink something to wash it down.

I felt betrayed and humiliated, and there were tears in my eyes when the photographer took pictures of the event. The day that I had wanted to be perfect was marred with anger and resentment.

Please print this. You will be doing other brides a favor and helping me, because I never told this to the man I married, although I've always wanted him to know how deeply hurt I was by that cruel and insensitive act.

DIVORCED A YEAR LATER

DEAR ABBY: In recommending that a small town newspaper editor leave bad alone, you quoted his disastrous attempts to correct a typographical error.

On my side of the Atlantic, we have a pithier example of the same problem.

An editor apologizes to his readers: "We very much regret our error in yesterday's edition in which we most unfortunately referred to the defective branch of the police force. We meant, of course, the detective branch of the police farce."

Two will give up cash seized

CORPUS CHRISTI, Texas (AP) — Two men who have been linked to El Salvador's rightwing ARENA party have agreed in a plea bargain to give up claims to nearly $6 million seized from them at a south Texas airport.

For a promise of probation, Francisco Guirola Beeche, 34, pleaded no contest and Oscar Rodriguez Feo, 48, pleaded guilty to conspiring to violate a federal law which prohibits anyone from taking more than $10,000 out of the country without notifying federal officials.

Documents confiscated upon their arrest linked them to the ARENA party, controlled by Roberto d'Aubuisson.

Man said to use influence for gain

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — A Beaumont businessman testified that state Rep. Frank Collazo offered to "get the heat off" him in exchange for a partnership in the businessman's shipyard.

Chester Slay, a shipyard owner and former state representative, said Tuesday that Collazo promised to use his influence with the Texas Water Quality Board in exchange for an interest in the Golden Triangle Shipyard.

Collazo, 53, D-Port Arthur, was indicted by a Jefferson County grand jury March 21 on a single charge of bribery, a second-degree felony.

The indictment alleges Collazo in 1982 solicited partnerships in two of Slay's businesses — the shipyard and State Welding and Marine Works — in exchange for offering to influence the Water Quality Board and the state Department of Water Resources.

Slay last year lost a water pollution lawsuit brought by the state.

Slay said during the first day of testimony Tuesday that after a July 1982 oil spill, the U.S. Coast Guard and Texas water resources staff frequently visited his shipyard business.

Slay testified part of the business included buying waste oil from Elias Vasquez, owner of an oil reclamation business, treating it and selling it back to Vasquez.

About one month after the spill, Collazo called Slay and offered to use his influence as a legislator, Slay testified in state District Judge Leonard Giblin Jr.'s court.

"His reason for calling was point blank to offer a partnership agreement between us. He said he could remove pressure from the Texas Water Quality Board. In return, he wanted part of my shipyard," Slay said.

"He said he could help me with problems with the water quality board. He said he was on various legislative committees and could get the heat off," Slay said. "He said, 'I don't have to have half, just 40 percent.'"

Vasquez testified he met Collazo after a friend suggested the Collazo might be able to help him with "a position" he was in.

He said that during their first meeting Collazo told him that "people like me, he would put out of business that he done a lot of things for people and didn't get paid, so he wasn't going to help anyone else without getting paid."

Collazo called Vasquez again later and the two men eventually became partners in Tejas Tank Co., a new business, Vasquez said.

Vasquez testified that Collazo later said he had offered to help Slay in exchange for the business partnership.

Index of farm prices hits 2-year low

WASHINGTON (AP) — Just a year ago, the government's index of farm prices was riding a record crest. Now, the index is at its lowest in nearly two years.

The Agriculture Department said Tuesday that prices farmers get for raw products dropped 1.5 percent in April. On the average, prices were down 9.6 percent from their record high a year ago.

According to USDA records, the preliminary April figures put the index at its lowest level since July 1983. It held steady in January and February before dropping 0.7 percent in March.

After hitting the peak a year ago in the wake of 1983's short harvests and rising grain prices, prices started down as prospects improved for 1984 crops. In August, the index began a five-month slide, leveling off during the winter.

In April, the report said, lower prices for cattle, hogs, milk, eggs and tomatoes were mostly responsible for the decline in the index. Higher prices for potatoes, corn, grapefruit and sorghum helped offset the drop for other commodities, however.

Meanwhile, the prices farmers paid in April held steady for the 10th consecutive month, although they averaged 0.6 percent lower than a year earlier, the department's Crop Reporting Board said.

Higher prices were paid for fuel and other forms of energy and for family living. But those were offset by decreases in prices of feed and feeder livestock, as well as seed prices.

Crop prices generally were down 0.8 percent from March and averaged 10 percent less than a year ago. Livestock and livestock product prices were down 2.8 percent from March and 9.3 percent from a year earlier.

Department economists say overall farm income turned up in 1984 because of greater production and a rebuilding of inventories. They said food prices rose 3.8 percent last year, significantly above 1983's 2.1 increase, the smallest since 1967.

For 1985, the department says net farm income could drop to a range of $19 billion to $24 billion from the forecast of $29 billion to $33 billion in 1984. Net farm income dropped in 1983 to a 12-year low of $16.1 billion, mainly as result of huge reductions in inventories.

The department says food prices in 1985 could increase an additional 2 percent to 4 percent.

According to the preliminary April figures, based primarily on mid-month averages, the index for meat animals was down 2 percent from March and also was 7.1 percent below a year earlier.

Generic drugs will do the job

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Why do some doctors insist on prescribing expensive medication when a generic would be just as good?

DEAR READER: All medicines are expensive. Some are more expensive than others, particularly if the drug is new and, by obtaining a patent, the manufacturer has a monopoly on the market.

Although generic drugs previously lacked consistent quality, the newer forms are quite reliable. In fact, many pharmaceutical companies now have whole divisions that make and distribute generic medicine. These are almost always cheaper than the brand-name items.

In my opinion, there is no valid reason for doctors to avoid prescribing generics. If your doctor insists on prescribing by brand name, ask him his reasons for doing so.

DEAR DR. GOTT: How often should one get a complete physical? Does it depend on age, or general physical condition?

DEAR READER: The issue of complete physical examinations is far from decided. Doctors used to insist on yearly exams for everybody, but — in the past few years — many experts have concluded that such a recommendation for healthy adults is ridiculous.

I believe that annual exams are a good idea for children until about the age of 14 years. However, people in good health do not need regular evaluation between the ages of 14 and 40. Between 40 and 50, two or three exams should suffice. Between 50 and 60, healthy patients do not need exams more often than every two years. After 60, an annual exam is appropriate.

Obviously, people who do not enjoy good health will need more frequent examinations. Of more importance — and greater disagreement among doctors — is the question of what constitutes the so-called "complete examination."

DEAR DR. GOTT: I read that men over 60 should have their prostates examined once a year. I told my family doctor, who belongs to my medical plan, and as he is not able to examine me, I was referred to the urologist who is also a part of the plan, at no cost to me.

He asked if I had any pain on urination or ejaculation. When I told him I had not, he exploded and said, "Why are you bothering me? If you had any pain, I could relieve the pain by removing the prostate. If I remove it now just because of enlargement, you will feel no different than you do now."

If he is right, why do all the articles and doctors I know say to have the prostates examined? I am 66 years old. Would you comment on this matter?

DEAR READER: You are correct that men over 60 years of age should have annual prostate exams. Cancer of the prostate is a major health problem for elderly men and is so common during the aging process that practically any man will be affected if he lives long enough.

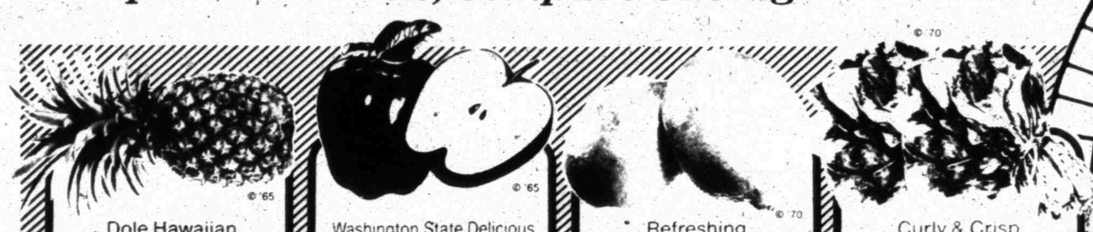

Because prostatic cancer can ordinarily be detected by any qualified doctor who performs a rectal examination, this examination should be carried out by every general physician who takes care of men over 60. Your doctor, whether he is in a prepaid plan or not, ought to be ashamed if he refused to perform a simple, harmless and fundamental rectal exam. If he will not modify his unreasonable approach, consider changing to a physician who will give you better service.

Send your questions to Dr. Gott at P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101. Due to volume of mail, individual questions cannot be answered. Questions of general interest will be answered in future columns.

Relatives charged with sneaking package inside

MADISONVILLE, Texas (AP) — The mother and brother of a Texas Department of Corrections inmate were charged with sneaking alcoholic beverages to the prisoner by leaving them outside the warden's house, authorities said.

Dorothy Sheppard, 40, and her son, Paul Thomas Sheppard, 20, both of Dallas, were released Tuesday after posting $10,000 bond each, said Madison County Sheriff Ed Fannin.

Each had been charged with furnishing alcoholic beverages to a prisoner, the sheriff said.

TDC spokesman Phil Guthrie said the two were arrested Sunday after Charles Blanchette, warden at the Texas Department of Corrections' Ferguson Unit, saw a car pull up to a barbecue pit near his home.

White vows to defend school reform

AUSTIN (AP) — While some parents have attacked the 1984 education reform act as a backwards step in public schools, a group of PTA members came to Austin to say they don't want lawmakers to tamper with it.

"We oppose any bills intended to amend House Bill 72," Parents For House Bill 72 said in a letter to White, Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby, Speaker Gib Lewis and lawmakers.

Speaking before the group Tuesday, Gov. Mark White promised the group he would block any legislative efforts to stray from the public school reform bill.

White told the group to "never let up" in working for better schools.

The Senate has approved a bill aimed at cleaning up, but not weakening, the reform measure approved last summer. The clean-up bill is sponsored by Sen. Carl Parker, D-Port Arthur, author of the reform bill.

The House is working on a series of clean-up bills. Lewis has said he prefers to deal with each problem in a separate bill. But he said Tuesday the House might have to accept the Parker omnibus bill.

"I don't think it's that harmful. I don't think it deviates away from the true intent or damages HB72 to any great degree," he said.

Lewis added that Parker has given him "pretty good assurances" that Parker would fight weakening amendments added by the House.

"And I've got pretty good assurance from the governor that he would veto any bill that would weaken HB72," the speaker said.

Efforts have been made to change several major portions of HB72, including the no-pass, no-play provision and required competency tests for teachers. So far, neither effort has succeeded, although the Senate bill asks the State Board of Education to review the no-pass, no-play provision that bars failing students from extracurricular activities.

White said statistics show that the failure rate in schools has not increased, even though the passing grade is now higher.

"We are seeing a strengthening of programs. We are seeing people say this is for real, this is serious, it's going to require harder work and I think you will find they'll do better," White said.

"Teachers can't do it all, parents can't do it all, but I do believe we can do it if we all work together," he said.

Miniature horses — shorter than 34 inches at the base of the mane — sometimes sell for over $10,000, depending on their conformation and size.

Adults gather at site

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeff Smith, one of roughly 50,000 American children left fatherless by the Vietnam War, never knew the dad he came to honor at the black granite Vietnam Veterans Memorial.

"I was only 5 months old when he died," said the 18-year-old Fairfax, Va., youth as he and four others held a simple ceremony for their fathers Tuesday on the 10th anniversary of the fall of Saigon.

"My mom says we look a lot like our father, and what a brave guy he was," said Smith, one of late Lt. Cmdr. James Smith's four sons. Mike and Pat Smith, 21-year-old twins, were also there.

The children, all members of a group called "No Greater Love," arranged the ceremony at the V-shaped memorial with 58,022 names of dead Americans etched in it. "No Greater Love," a nonprofit organization, helps the children of parents killed in wars.

The five walked slowly past the names, almost brushing the wall. They planted 10 small American flags in the ground, and then laid a wreath of red roses at the apex of the V. "Taps" was played.

Patricia O'Grady Aloot, 32, said she was there to represent the families of men whose names on the wall were marked by a cross. That meant they were missing in action.

"For me, the war is not over," said Mrs. Aloot, a college professor from Marymount College in Arlington, Va.

"All I want to know is what happened to him," said Mrs. Aloot of her father, Col. John O'Grady. O'Grady was reported missing April 10, 1967, when his parachute was found on the Ho Chi Minh Trail.

Although the U.S. government officially listed O'Grady as dead in 1976, Mrs. Aloot said there is "good data" there may be some Americans alive.

The "No Greater Love" group has tried to make the children understand their fathers were good and brave people serving their country, she said.

Missing girl found in Denton after telecast

DENTON, Texas (AP) — A 9-year-old girl whose picture was shown on the "Missing" broadcast that followed Monday's reshowing of "Adam" was found in Denton Tuesday afternoon with her 7-year-old brother and her mother, police said.

The mother, identified as Terry Lanotte-McDonald, 34, was arrested about 4 p.m. on a Fresno, Calif., warrant that alleged child abduction, and the children were placed in the temporary custody of the Texas Department of Human Resources, Denton Police Lt. Joe Waddill told The Associated Press.

Teresa McDonald, 9, had not been seen since her abduction in Fresno on Aug. 1, 1983, California authorities said.

Denton Juvenile Officer Dennis Baker located the woman and her children after receiving information earlier Tuesday from Fresno authorities about the possibility they were in Denton, Waddill said.

Ms. Lanotte-McDonald was taken to Denton County Jail, and bond was set at $8,000, Waddill added.

Placed in temporary foster care along with Teresa was her brother, Edwin, 7, but it was uncertain whether he had been abducted in what apparently was a custody dispute.

An aide to California Assemblyman Gray Davis, D-Los Angeles, who has spearheaded missing children activities, said the arrest followed an anonymous tip to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children, who referred the tip to the district attorney in Fresno, who forwarded it to Denton police.

Davis had worked with the missing kids center to get Teresa featured on the "Missing" program, said the aide, Steve Glazer.

Teresa's picture had been featured on posters on the Bay Area Rapid Transit system in San Francisco, as well as on products.

According to Glazer, the girl's father told Davis late Tuesday night that he was on his way to Denton for a hearing today.

In New York, it was announced Tuesday that two teen-age sisters missing for seven years and an 8-year-old girl missing since July were reunited with their mothers after viewers of the telecast about missing children called authorities with leads.

The girls' fathers were arrested, officials said.

They were living with their father, who was being held on Illinois felony warrants for abduction, authorities said. The girls were recognized by school authorities in Ohio, who alerted police.

Alex Ferguson, deputy director of the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement, said the girls' father had taken them from his ex-wife's home while on a visit.

Another missing girl, abducted in Ohio, was found at a Harbin Springs, Calif., commune Tuesday. Her father was arrested and held without bail pending extradition to Ohio. He was arrested for investigation of taking his daughter from his parents' home in Springfield, Ohio, in July 1984, the sheriff said.

NBC spokesman Stan Appenzeller said 32 other children have been recovered as a result of two earlier broadcasts of "Adam," which was rebroadcast Monday before the "Missing" documentary.

"Adam" is based on the true story of Adam Walsh, a 6-year-old Florida boy kidnapped in 1981 and murdered. His parents, John and Reve, started an outreach center in his memory.

Stun guns might be misused

By The Associated Press

Stun guns are new additions to police arsenals, but they have already generated a civil rights conviction in San Antonio, allegations of torture in New York City and questions about the safety and effectiveness of weapons that disable with an electric shock.

Police and sheriffs departments around the nation have purchased the pocket-size weapons, which temporarily immobilize people with a touch. On the market for two years, stun guns send a 5,000-volt jolt that "can cause an attacker to fall to the ground and result in some mental confusion," according to the manufacturer, Nova Technologies of Austin, Texas.

The City Council of Baltimore, where police do not use stun guns, banned the sale of the weapons to the public Monday night. Council members cited the recent controversy in New York City, where some police officers were accused of torturing suspects with stun guns, which are not police issue.

Nova, which says it is the only U.S. manufacturer of stun guns, contends the device has been widely used without problems. Clinton Giles, vice president of law enforcement marketing for the company, said there has not been a decline in sales since the New York allegations.

UPI plan approved

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal bankruptcy judge has approved an interim financing plan for United Press International which UPI management says will enable the news service to pay its employees and continue operations.

Attorneys also said at a Tuesday court session that negotiations were being held with the British news service Reuters and a Florida-based group of investors about the purchase of UPI.

Judge George Francis Bason Jr. approved a plan which called for Foothill Capital Corp. of Los Angeles, UPI's principal lender, to extend a $4 million line of credit to keep the company operating through its court-supervised reorganization. The plan also permits UPI employees to be paid.

UPI filed a Chapter 11 federal bankruptcy petition on Sunday, saying it had $45 million in liabilities against an estimated $20 million in assets. Tuesday, UPI attorney Richard Levine told Bason that UPI's liabilities were $35.4 million against approximately $12.8 million in assets. He said UPI's annual revenues were about $92 million.

Attorney Stephen Rubin of Miami told Bason that his client, Pedro Ramon Lopez, chairman of General Federal Savings & Loan Association of Miami, headed a group of investors who were negotiating with UPI co-owners Douglas Ruhe and William Geissler to purchase UPI.

Gary N. Jacobs, a lawyer representing Ruhe and Geissler, said they had been negotiating the sale of UPI with Reuters.

Dotson ordered freed

CHICAGO (AP) — Gary Dotson, who has spent six years in prison for a rape his accuser now says never happened, was impassive but relieved by an Illinois Supreme Court ruling that he can be released on bond during appeals, officials say.

Dotson's mother, Barbara Dotson, said she had arranged a $10,000 bank loan to meet the cash requirements for the $100,000 bond ordered Tuesday and that she planned to bring her son home today for the second time in a month.

"I'm a little scared, but I just don't feel they can do it again to him," Mrs. Dotson said. "I just know in my heart they aren't going to take him back again."

Dotson said, "Oh, fine," when told by Dixon Correctional Center Warden Linda Giesen, said corrections department spokesman Nic Howell. Ms Giesen described Dotson as impassive but "relieved," Howell said.

"I think it's the correct decision," said Warren Lupel, Dotson's attorney. But, "after what has happened in the past, it's difficult to be confident."

The supreme court overturned an appeals court's denial of bond, but postponed a decision on Dotson's request that it hear an appeal of Circuit Judge Richard Samuels' April 11 ruling upholding Dotson's conviction.

If it heard the case, it would bypass an intermediate appeals court.

Samuels in 1969 sentenced Dotson to 25 to 50 years in prison on a conviction of aggravated kidnapping and rape on the basis of testimony from a teen-ager, Cathleen Crowell Webb, now married and living in New Hampshire.

Mattox praised by some

AUSTIN (AP) — Attorney General Jim Mattox has been criticized and praised for his part in a Waco probe into the murder confessions of Henry Lee Lucas.

Williamson County District Attorney Ed Walsh, a possible Republican candidate for attorney general next year, told a Capitol news conference Tuesday that Mattox, a Democrat, and Waco District Attorney Vic Feazell were jeopardizing unsolved murder cases by listening to Luca's claim he was "led" to confess by enforcement officers.

Mattox had no immediate comment. He was due in Waco Friday for a resumption of the grand jury probe into Lucas confessions.

However, the father of a Lubbock woman believed to be a Lucas victim said the attorney general seems to be the only official interested in questioning Lucas' mass murder claims.

"What I think is it's about damned time somebody paid attention," said Bob Lemons of Gainesville. "I think Mr. Mattox has."

Deborah Sue Williamson, 18, was killed Aug. 24, 1975. Lucas was indicted last year after confessing. But Lemons, who mounted a personal investigation, said he does not believe Lucas was the killer.

"The fact is they messed up," Lemons, 50, said of investigators who have worked on the Lucas case.

House moves to restrict car market

AUSTIN (AP) — The House has voted to clamp down on "gray market" cars — prestige foreign autos purchased in Europe and shipped to United States customers at reduced prices.

The gray market also includes European cars not otherwise available in the U.S.

House members on Wednesday gave preliminary approval, in a voice vote and with no debate, to a measure that would require proof that foreign cars not made for use here have been converted to meet federal safety and pollution standards. The bill faces a final vote today.

Girl recalls horror of kidnapping ordeal

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — When she closes her eyes, she says, she can see the scraggly beards and smell the stench of the two men who abducted her after beating her companion and shooting three innocent passers-by.

An 18-year-old Fort Worth woman talked to newsmen Tuesday about the two men who she said raped her and drove toward the east coast after robbing and pistol-whipping her boyfriend and shooting three men, one of them fatally, who came to their aid.

One of her abductors, she said, chattered about changing the color of her blond hair and keeping her in Fort Lauderdale as his girlfriend. But both had threatened to kill her if she tried to reveal them as they fled to Florida from the crime scene at Inspiration Point, overlooking Lake Worth near Fort Worth, she says.

Delbert Boyd Teague Jr., 22, and Robin Partine, 28, both of Arlington and still in a Louisiana jail late Tuesday, were charged with capital murder late Tuesday in the incident that began late Sunday, said Robert Nelson, a Tarrant County assistant district attorney.

Doug Clarke, Fort Worth police spokesman, said the suspects have waived extradition and will be returned to Fort Worth after their arraignment in Plaquemine, La.

The woman and her parents returned home about 3:15 p.m. Tuesday to banners, balloons, streamers and cake. She hugged Thomas Emmitt Cox, 22, her boyfriend of two weeks, who was with her in his pickup truck when the gunmen appeared.

They men had pulled up to the truck and later robbed them of $4, she says. They then jerked Cox out and beat him with a gun butt before kidnapping her, she said.

As the gunmen drove away with her sandwiched between them, they shot three men who had just pulled up at the scenic overlook, she said.

At one gas station, she told them she had to go to the bathroom. They agreed to her request, but stood guard outside the door after demanding she "make it faster" than previous trips.

She said she walked calmly to the door, her purse under her arm, took out a pencil and piece of paper and scratched a note, then laid it on the sink and left.

Another woman found the message a short time later and gave it to an attendant, who notified law enforcement officials.

Lemon law is revised

AUSTIN (AP) — The Senate has approved and sent to the House amendments to the 1983 "lemon law" bill which until recently was tied up in federal courts.

Approved 28-0 Tuesday was the change that would prevent car dealer members of the Texas Motor Vehicle Commission from taking part in any contested case involving the brand of vehicle he handles.

The so-called "lemon law" was first passed in 1971 then amended by the 1983 Legislature. However, a U.S. district court ruled the 1983 legislation was unconstitutional because there were new car dealers on the commission and no manufacturers. The challenge was brought by Chrysler Corp.

However, in March the 5th U.S. Circuit of Appeals in New Orleans overruled the district court and declared the 1983 measure still effective in Texas.

Under the law, the nine-member commission is empowered to enforce new car guarantees and settle complaints from unhappy new car owners.

2 late bills proposed

AUSTIN (AP) — Rep. Bill Blackwood, R-Mesquite, has two legislative proposals he says will protect parents accused of abusing their children after being "outraged by cases of parents' rights being violated in suspected child abuse cases."

"Child abuse is indeed a shocking crime, but equally disturbing is the fact that innocent parents have been harassed and even had their children taken away uithout knowledge of who took them and why," Blackwood said in a statement Tuesday.

"Taking a child from his or her parent without notifying the parent of who took the child or why is a clear and blatant violation of the parent's right," Blackwood said.

The bill proposes requiring the agency to present written notice to the parents explaining why the child was taken, who reported the case, who to contact in the agency for information and a summary of the parents raghts.

The second bill would hold people who make a false report of child abuse liable for damage to the child and any other person affected by the report.

It also allows false reports made by a parent involved in a custody suit to be introduced as evidence against the reporting parent.

"Persons who report child abuse are presently immune from both civil and criminal liability unless the report is made with malice or in bad faith," Blackwood said.

James I., King of Scotland, was stabbed to death in 1437.
