Scorching Temperatures In Texas Leave Parched Crops, One Prostration

(By The Associated Press)

PARCHED crops and pastures and one heat prostration gave evidence Friday of the severity of a heat wave which sent the mercury to a 104 maximum at Wichita Falls.

Waco reported a temperature of 103, one heat prostration and badly damaged corn fields in that vicinity. The maximum there was two degrees higher than that Thursday. Wichita Falls, also, reported the weather two degrees hotter than Thursday and a fiery south wind wilted crops.

Uvalde Has 102

Uvalde, in Southwest Texas, the home of Vice President John Garner, had a temperature of 102, the hottest day of the year there thus far, and reported crops and pastures were parched and much in need of rain.

Corn fields roundabout Corsicana likewise were scorched and the maximum temperature there was 101 degrees, compared to 103 Thursday.

Dallas reported an even 100, the highest this year; San Antonio, 98, the same as the maximum there Thursday; Houston, 93; Abilene, 99; Amarillo, 94; Lubbock, 96.

Beaumont Is Cooler

Light showers at Beaumont Friday morning cooled that city, after it had sweltered under a maximum of 102 degrees Thursday, and the mercury failed to go above 86 Friday.

The maximum at Corpus Christi was 92 at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m. compared to a top reading of 95 Thursday. Farmers in that vicinity reported the heat was aiding cotton and predicted a bumper crop of around 100,000 bales for Nueces county.

Series Of Meetings Will Be Held In All Counties When Full Details Are Received From Washington

COUNTY agents from this section of District No. 2 met with Sterling Evans, district agent leader, in the federal building Friday afternoon, to discuss plans for a series of community meetings to explain cotton acreage retirement.

An explanation of the plan and how it will operate, was given those present. Numerous questions asked by agents covering phases of the problem were unanswered because of lack of official advices from Washington.

Copies Not Distributed

Copies of the proposed contract were not distributed. It was announced the first lot of 2,000,000 being printed this week in Washington, had been mailed and others were being mailed daily. It is expected the first of the week should see copies of the agreement here.

W. T. Magee, county agent at Levelland, announced he had arranged for 12 meetings in Hockley county; D. A. Adam, county agent at Amherst announced nine meetings in Lamb county; W. W. Evans, Hale county agent, announced four for that county; W. R. Lace, Scurry county agent at Snyder arranged 12 meetings for Dawson county and 11 for Scurry county and O. G. Tumlinson, of Lubbock county, announced 29 meetings for this county.

Interpretation Is Read

Quota System Is Considered At Conference

Plan Would Permit France To Continue Indefinitely The Enforcement Of Quotas It Already Has Adopted

MacDonald Says U. S. Stand On Fixing Of Dollar Value Is Setback But That Activities Will Continue

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, June 23. (AP)—The troublesome currency issue was temporarily buried tonight as the world economic conference plunged into other work, with France proposing an immediately truce on quota restrictions.

While providing against any further use of the quota system as a weapon to curb importations, the plan would permit France to continue indefinitely the enforcement of quotas it already has adopted. The move was interpreted as a counterstroke to the American demand for elimination of import discriminations.

Join In Agreement

British and French delegations insisted international agreements could not be completed until dollar stability was achieved but finally joined today in a unanimous agreement to table the currency question.

Prime Minister MacDonald, chairman of the conference, asserted the failure of the Amedican government to agree to an immediate fixing of the dollar value was a "setback" to the international efforts here. But currency uncertainties, he said, would not be permitted to block the activities of the conclave.

The quota system, a favorite device of the French to prevent imports above a certain volume or

State Highway Departments To Have Control Of Programs; Texas Also Gets Large Sum For Army Project

BY DON J. KIRKLEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 23.— President Roosevelt's public works board today officially allocated among the states $400,000,000 for highway construction to put men back to work and took under advisement a $135,000,000 housing program requested by the army.

A thirty-hour week where feasible and "just and reasonable compensation sufficient to provide a standard of living in decency and comfort" were prescribed by the board in regulations announced for government road work contracts, along with the stipulation that American products must be used as much as possible.

New Construction Planned

The army's program, which calls for $40,881,524 in new construction and $10,146,752 in reconditioning present structures, along with about $85,000,000 for non-military works such as parks and cemeteries, was referred by the board to a sub-committee for a report next week.

The highway program, which will be relied upon to get hundreds of thousands back to work, calls for $24,244,024 to Texas; $22,330,101 for New York and $18,891,004 for Pennsylvania and lesser sums to other states.

Requirements Set Out

Surveys, plans, specifications and estimates for the roadwork will be under the immediate direction of state highway departments along with immediate supervision of the construction, but several board requirements were set down by the board today in its regulations.

The state highway departments must submit to the public works board for approval their assignment of funds to the following types of projects:

Federal-aid highway systems outside of municipalities.

Extension of federal aid highways into or through municipalities.

Secondary or feeder roads.

Considered In Order

In the selection of projects to be included in these classifications the board stipulated these things must

Mother Takes Stand To End Buck Defense

Tells Of Adversities Of Her Son And Declares That He Was Good Boy; Kenneth Is Again On Stand

(By The Associated Press)

BARNSTABLE, Mass., June 23 — The defense of Kenneth Buck, the hooded man of the McMath kidnaping, closed today after his aged mother testified in his behalf.

Mrs. Bertha Buck told of her son's adversities; his inability to get a job and said he was a "good boy."

She has been sitting in the court room every day since the trial opened on June 12. Her testimony today followed that of Kenneth who repeated sensational charges made yesterday.

Two Charged In Case

Kenneth and his brother Cyril, are charged with the kidnaping of Margaret (Peggy) McMath, 10-year-old Harwichport girl abducted from the Harwich Center school on May 2 and returned three days later after $60,000 ransom had been paid. The money was recovered in Kenneth's home. The girl had been kept in an isolated cranberry shack and under the flooring of a vacant house.

Kenneth, charged with having performed the actual kidnaping operations, startled the courtroom yesterday when he said he worked on instructions of an occult figure, "Bill," a bootlegger from Hyannis

Sourland Hills Home Of Lindberghs Will Become Children's Welfare Site

Plan Is Rumored To Be Memorial For Murdered Son

(By The Associated Press)

HOPEWELL, N. J., June 23. — The Lindbergh estate in the lonely Sourland mountains, with its gabled white farm house from which Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., was stolen by kidnapers, is to become a center for children's welfare work.

Whether Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh are donating the property, an act which would suggest the projected center is to be a memorial to their murdered son, or whether a purchase price is to be paid, could not be learned.

Have Interest In Plan

Such details as were made known, however, indicate the Lindberghs have an interest in the plan, to the extent, at least, of becoming trustees in the corporation which will direct the affairs of the property, henceforth to be known as "High Field."

From the office of Colonel Henry L. Breckinridge, legal advisor to Colonel Lindbergh, the following statement was issued:

"The property of Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh in Hunterdon county, New Jersey, will be used in connection with welfare work for children.

Project Yet Undeveloped

Declining Desertion Rate In Conservation Corps Seen

WASHINGTON, June 23 (AP) — A constantly declining desertion and discharge rate, coupled with words of praise for the manner in which the city bred foresters of the civilian conservation corps were tackling their outdoor work, was written today into the statistical reports of corps area commanders to the war department.

Robert Fechner, civilian conservation corps director, expressed himself as "very gratified at the reports" on his 240,000 charges, of whom 160,000 are actually in the work camps. He was told a report now being compiled would show a smaller desertion rate than the .9 per cent of some weeks ago. The first report showed 1.5 per cent of desertions.

Fixed Prices Are Now Being Urged

Textile Trade Plans Will Be Discussed Soon By Leaders

BY JAMES P. SELVAGE,
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 23. — The question of including price fixing in initial trade agreements is pressing hard upon Hugh S. Johnson, head of the national recovery administration, for early decision in setting the new pace for industry.

Johnson's idea has been that the first code presented by industry for his approval should pertain only to minimum wages and maximum hours of work, but many industrial leaders were understood to be taking the position that price fixing or something equivalent to wipe out what they deem unfair competition from sweatshops was equally essential.

Line Clearly Drawn

So clearly has this line been drawn it was expected that the cabinet advisory committee headed by Secretary Roper would be asked to consider the problem, which arose first during consideration of the recovery legislation in the senate.

At that time Senator Borah (R.-Idaho) obtained approval of an amendment reading:

"Provided, that such code or codes shall not permit monopolies, price fixing or monopolistic practices."

Part Stricken Out

At the instance of manufacturers and with administration support the price fixing part of the Borah

Old Man Goes Home With His Life's Savings

(By The Associated Press)

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, June 23.—An old man munching half a loaf, his clothes in tatters, excited the kindly interest of civil guards at Dundalk today and they took him to their barracks to treat him to a square meal.

One of the guards noticed a bulge in his shabby coat and asked him what he was carrying. To their astonishment he extracted $50,000 in bills.

The old man explained he had been his own banker throughout the American bank troubles and had returned to Ireland with his hoard after 46 years in the United States. He said the money was his life's savings and, although he had carried it for months in his pockets, he never had lost any.

When he returned to his old home in Dundalk he found the friends of his youth were dead. The civil guards assigned a special watchman to him. He refused to divulge his name but said he was 76 years old.

Satisfactory End To Session Looms

NEW YORK, June 23. (AP)—A satisfactory culmination to the disarmament conference was viewed as probable today by Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, on his return from Geneva for a meeting with President Roosevelt.

"I know there are a lot of hurdles to get over," said Davis, "but unless there is some unforeseen political disturbance, success at the conference can be reached.

"If we could reach an agreement right away, it would be like turning on a dynamo. It would do more than anything else to put people back to work. When we meet again in July, we may move along pretty rapidly. I can't tell yet."

"What is this, what is this, what is this?"

Adjutant General Camp escorted the arrested deputies to his offices near the capitol.

Picnic, Parties And Luncheon Are Among Events To Be Given Today

The Woman's Angle

BY BLANCHE BEAN WILSON
Avalanche Woman's Editor

THERE are people who know everything. At least, there are people who think they know everything. They can judge strangers by sight and can give you a convincing talk on what they have divined by virtue of their powers. These people know all about any subject that is under discussion and, to hear them tell it, they actually have first hand information.

People like this can detect the differences in coffees. They can tell what kind of a cigaret they are smoking even if you think there is no difference between it and one of another brand. They know everything.

Since we all know such people, a test that was made at New York university recently is interesting. It was an event that must have left some of the young people with red faces and might serve as a lesson to the rest of us when we are inclined to tell others how much we know.

Four radio receiving sets were arranged in such a fashion that blind folded students believed they were hearing four different sets. In reality they were hearing all four played together at four different times. Of the 423 students thus tested, only 28 said that all playing sounded alike while 138, or 32 per cent, showed a preference for what they thought was set Number 2. Twenty-seven per cent thought that what they thought was set Number 1 played the best.

It was just another test and on only 423 people so it really proves nothing at all. But there are a lot of us who can get a smile of satisfaction out of the occurence, since we never have believed that there are some people who know everything. We have suspected, and still believe, that it was all just imagination.

AMBITION is a funny thing. Some woman, whose name and home state can't be recalled just now, had a desire to sleep in the White House before she died. She is an elderly woman and Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt, hearing of the request, graciously had the old lady up for the night.

No doubt this has caused a lot of other people to express this desire to sleep in the White House before they die because there are plenty who have such ambitions. This same desire is the thing that makes people mill around on the toes of a lot of other people seeking autographs of the great, or stand for hours in the rain to catch sight of some personage or to break off the toe on some statue that is considered good.

There are plenty of people who have a peculiar kind of ambition that makes them use up years of their lives seeking some material thing that is actually of no value to them at all.

Most of us would like to meet the President or Mrs. Roosevelt if we could do more than rush past and get a hurried handclasp. Most of us would thrill at an invitation to spend the night in the White House, provided we were friends of the Roosevelts and could be received there as such. Most of us would like to have the autograph of some person of eminence if it meant, in addition, that our lives had been enriched by an actual friendship with him.

To say this invites argument, but a mere night under the White House roof seems to mean so little without the opportunity to meet and know the people who live there. An autograph, a name inscribed on a lifeless piece of paper, means nothing when it brings with it none of the person who scribbled it there.

Friendship is the most valuable thing one has in life. Every contact with another person enriches life, whether that person is a sword-swallower in the carnival or the most devout minister in the state. You can't pull your skirts about you and refuse to know others simply because they do not agree with you if you want life to be full.

The White House roof is no different from other roofs. It is made of inanimate metals or wood or stone. To sleep there is meaningless unless one's life has been enriched by contact with the personalities there. An autograph a just so much ink and paper unless it carries with it some part of the person who wrote it.

County Cotton Reports Given

Production For The Last Five Years Is Announced Here In Report Forwarded By State Agriculture Department

Lubbock county cotton acreages and production for the last five years, from 1928 to 1932, have been forwarded by J. E. McDonald of the state department of agriculture to County Agent O. G. Tumlinson. The figures are radically different in acreage estimated by Lubbock cotton men.

Austin's figures are as follows:

Year	Bales	Acres
1932	92,000	158,700
1931	70,000	167,000
1930	33,000	199,000
1929	45,000	207,000
1928	35,000	203,000

Based on the above figures, average lint yield per acre for these years were: 290, 209, 83, 109 and 86 pounds.

Following are the estimated yields and acreages for the same years, the acreages based on estimates of local cotton men except for 1929 when the U. S. bureau of the Census figures were used:

Year	Bales	Acres
1932	94,291	247,000
1931	72,308	225,000
1930	33,889	205,000
1929	45,926	205,276
1928	35,644	205,000

Using these figures as the basis for lint production, the yields were as follows: 191, 160, 83, 112, 87.

Average yield per year for the five years, based on the state figures, was 155 pounds of lint, while those based on the local estimates was 126 pounds.

Small Wheels Of Federal Machinery To Be Started

KANSAS CITY, June 23 (AP)—The smaller wheels in the government's machinery to aid the wheat farmer will begin turning here next week when the first of a series of conferences will be conducted for the purpose of acquainting county agents and extension workers with their part in the program.

Kansas City grain men have been notified that M. L. Wilson, wheat production administrator and sponsor of the domestic allotment plan, will be here next Monday to open a two-day conference with workers from Kansas, Iowa, Missouri, Nebraska, Colorado, Wyoming, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico.

The notification stated that those who attend the conference will make plans for a rapid survey by the county agents in every wheat raising county to obtain information on local conditions which the administration needs before beginning its program.

Says Uncle Sam Owes Her Sixty Years' Rent

Here is the old New York postoffice which, according to Mrs. Sarah Jane Flaherty (left), stands on land which belongs to her family and for which Uncle Sam has paid no rent for the past sixty years. Mrs. Flaherty, a resident of New York, claims that documents now on file at Washington give her a clear title to the land, which has an estimated value of $10,300,000 at present real estate prices.

Oil Well Fire Fighter A Specialist Just As The Man Who Drills For Oil

KILGORE, June 23. (AP)—In this, the world's largest oil field, the oil well fire fighter is as much a specialist as the men who drill for the oil.

These experts at battling oil field blazes experiment, exploit ideas and invent in preparing themselves for the special type of work. Individuals will differ as to methods of approaching a flaming well and on other plans in their fire fighting program.

Employs New Method

Recently Frank Fowzer employed a new method of reaching a burning well. He placed a metal tunnel on top of the ground and covered it with wet earth. That move saved many hours Tunneling underground to a well takes time.

Once in position Fowzer crawled through the tunnel, bored a hole in the casing, welded in a diverting line and the fire was conquered Despite that protection the fire fighters' faces were blistered when they came away from the well.

Are Fearless Lot

Probably the first tunneling as a means of approaching a burning well in the East Texas field at least, was done here in 1931 when fire fighters were battling the burning Bell-Graddy inferno. Fowzer had men tunnel to the well, then went into the narrow, hot and hazardous passage to do his work.

They are a fearless lot, these oil field fire fighters.

"It must take a lot of nerve to do that kind of work," said a spectator when Fowzer, red faced and wet with perspiration, pulled himself from a tunnel leading to a well he had just extinguished.

Requires Calmness

"No," Fowzer said, "it doesn't take so much nerve. It requires coolness and calmness."

Here in the field there is considerable rivalry between men who follow fire fighting for a livelihood.

Some individuals own small trucks ready to make runs to oil fires.

An oil well fire usually costs owners considerable money before it is extinguished. In addition to the destruction of costly equipment fighters usually are given large sums to extinguish the blaze. A fire here recently brought fighters more than $1,000.

A piece of wood estimated at 20 million years old was unearthed near Ellensburg, Wash., in 1931, and it was not petrified.

Nine In Race For Congress

Negro Attorney Of Galveston Seeks Place Left Vacant By Death Of Briggs; Voting Is Scheduled Today

GALVESTON, June 23 (AP)—Nine candidates were in the field today for tomorrow's election to choose a successor to Clay Stone Briggs, Texas congressman from the seventh district, who died in Washington several months ago. He had not completed his term.

For the first time in years, a negro was in the race. His entry was made possible because no primary was held and any citizen was permitted a place on the ballot by filing application.

The candidates were: Julian Greer of Elkhart, state senator; Clark W. Thompson, Theoorode Stubbs and Thomas H. Dent, negro attorney, all of Galveston; Nall Colson of Conroe, Jake B. Clegg of Trinity, James D. Pickett of Palestine, R. E. Biggs of Liberty and Nat Patton of Crockett.

GIRL DROWNED

FORT WORTH, June 23. (AP)—Miss Doris Bradly, 16, Fort Worth was drowned today when she fell off a raft at the Eagle Mountain lake spillway. The body was recovered.

Sale Of Producing Magnolia Property Gets Confirmation

DALLAS, June 23. (AP)—D. A. Little, vice-president and general manager of the Magnolia Petroleum company, today confirmed sale of all its producing properties and tributary gathering systems in the Corsicana district to Coffield and Guthrie, with offices at Rockdale, Tex.

Little declined to reveal the cash consideration, at the request of the purchasers.

The property consists of approximately 4,000 acres of leases with 250 barrels daily production by pumping and more than 1,000,000 feet of casing. The Magnolia company had its beginning in that field many years ago.

The best speed of an average fox is estimated to be about 26 miles an hour—faster than a coyote but slower than a jack rabbit.

Hubbers Practically Set For Game With Kelly Field Fliers Here Sunday

Twin Bill Set For Sunday At New Ball Park

Sled Allen Sends Men Through Long Workout Yesterday As Hubbers Prepare For Fliers; Three League Games Carded

The Lubbock Hubbers engaged in their last important workout yesterday afternoon in preparation for the invasion tomorrow of Uncle Sam's army officers, the Kelly Field Fliers, who come here for a three-game series.

The veteran skipper, Sled Allen, appeared considerably pleased following yesterday's workout, which saw the Hubbers scamper through the routine with the pep and ginger required of and admired in a good ball club.

Sergeant Taylor E. Newman's Cadets, 17 strong, are to arrive here early tomorrow morning. A double header is slated for the College Avenue baseball park Sunday afternoon, and a single game on Monday. Sunday's opener will start at 2:30 o'clock sharp, the second game to follow as soon as the first is completed.

"Boob" Goodman To Start

Thomas "Boob" Goodman, star left hander, is slated to oppose Nudie Moore, the South Plains' outstanding twirler, in the opening game Sunday. Dick Ratliff, professional catcher who resides at Littlefield but who played last season in the Central League, is to catch all three games for Lubbock.

Almost daily workouts this week, following their big victory over Amherst Tuesday in which they tabulated 29 runs, have increased the quality of play in the Hubber ranks, and places which have shown up as weak will be reinforced in the Kelly Field series by players "imported" from other South Plains league towns.

Lubbock is scheduled to meet Slaton in a South Plians league game here Sunday, but the teams have agreed to postpone the contest until later in the week.

Tahoka To Abernathy

In the South Plains league tomorrow, Tahoka goes to Abernathy. Levelland to Amherst and Enochs to Morton.

As a result of Lubbock's victory over Amherst Tuesday, the Tahoka club was assured of the first half pennant in the league race. Two games yet remain on the schedule, but Tahoka, undefeated save for one time in eight starts, could lose both and still win the first half title.

TEXAS LEAGUE SPLINTERS

THE Texas League home run race has developed into a one man affair with the giant Zeke Bonura, Dallas first baseman, head man. Through Monday, June 19, Bonura had registered 16 circuit wallops, about nine in front of his nearest rival.

After Dallas and Fort Worth refused to sign "Pid" Purdy, the San Antonio Missions decided to give the former Indianapolis outfielder a chance. Purdy is making the most of it. Through June 19 he was leading the hitters with a .366, which is satisfactory hitting in any league.

THERE appears to be small doubt that Vernon George Washington, Fort Worth outfielder, will be the first to get 100 hits in this year's Texas League race. Through June 19, Washington had collected 93 hits and was the owner of a .346 batting average.

Dallas traded George Loepp, outfielder to Fort Worth. The Cats in turn released Loepp. Dallas resigned him and he played one game. He injured a finger and was handed his release. Fort Worth resigned him. George hopes one of the clubs will eventually decide to keep him for the remainder of this season.

ALEXANDER HOOKS, Tulsa first baseman, who led the league last year in triples is letting Stoneham, Tulsa outfielder, pace him this season in three baggers. The "triple race" is between Stoneham and Clift of San Antonio with Hooks far down the list.

Bubber Jonnard, Dallas catcher, is an ardent golf follower. During the Dallas Country club invitation he was at the starting tee each morning at 8 o'clock in spite of playing night baseball. Jonnard thinks Gus Moreland is just about the last word where golf is concerned.

HAPP MORSE recently released as manager of the Dallas Steers, is enjoying life. Operating his bowling alley and taking a few days off each month to go fishing. Morse appears to be satisfied after 23 consecutive years in the national pastime.

Frank Parker To Meet George Lott In Western Net Finals

RIVER FOREST, Ill., June 23 (AP) The tenth episode in the Frank Parker-George Lott tennis feud was within one step of posting after the quarter final round of the Western tennis association's men's singles today.

Parker, whose victory over Lott in this same tourney last year was one of the most notable of his seven-out-of nine triumphs over the Davis Cup veteran, today brushed aside John McDiarmid of Fort Worth, 6-3, 6-1, 6-2.

Lott had even less trouble in disposing of Jay Cohn, former national junior champion from Santa Monica, Cal., 6-3, 6-0, 6-1.

Roy Horstmann, Purdue's all-conference fullback, won the Big Ten honor medal. In seven semesters of the electrical engineering course he had 47 A's, 74 B's and 1 C's, no failures or conditions.

Barney Ross Gets Lightweight Belt

CHICAGO STADIUM, CHICAGO, June 23 (AP)—Barney Ross, 22-year old Chicagoan won the lightweight championship of the world tonight when he defeated Tony Canzoneri, title holder, on points at the end of ten rounds of furious fighting. The decision was booed, and Canzoneri, the dethroned titleholder, appeared stunned by the verdict.

Ross, happy as a school boy over the winning the title, posed willingly for photographers, while Canzoneri stood in his corner, wondering what had happened to him.

PUTTERS SHOULD STAND CLOSE TO BALL

Jerry Travers, one of the greatest putters of all time, claims most bad putters stand too far away from the ball. The ball should be played close to the feet, with the hands fairly close to the body. The head should be directly over the ball to enable you to get the true and correct line.

Travers also advises one not to bend too far and believes in only a comfortable bend at the waist, with the legs almost straight. Of course there should be a slight bend at the knees to prevent tension.

Browns Split Double Bill And Yanks Drop Second; Sens In Victory Over White Sox For 11th Win In 12 Games

(By The Associated Press)

ST. LOUIS, June 23.—The New York Yankees' defense cracked in the eighth inning of the second game today and tumbled the world champions down into second place in the American League. Two errors enabled the Browns to win the second half of a doubleheader, 5-4, after the Yanks had taken the opener, 10-6.

The New York errors came after Charley Ruffing had weakened and granted a walk and two doubles that tied the score. Tony Lazzeri fumbled Muddy Ruel's grounder and let Oscar Melillo, who had driven in the tying runs, reach third. Lazzeri threw to third in an effort to catch the runner napping and Joe Sewell let the ball go through him and the winning run scored.

AMONG the AMATEURS

By ADAM DUBB

A LOT OF weight, a sure drive, a perfect approach and a chip shot that is usually in the cup — sounds good—well Sid Thrash was good when he took Jo Dick Slaughter and Johnnie Edmisson out and off the ladder. Sid shot the first nine at the C. C. in 35 strokes to turn around and shoot it again in 33 strokes in match play and he had a little hard luck on the back nine to take a 38.

I don't know what the results were in his matches but at the turn Sid had Johnnie down 8 holes. There were two vacant places on the ladder after the match but one of them has been filled. Jo Dick says he is through with ladder match play.

THE "spy" on sports has gone in for "pronunciation" — while he has you learning a few names you had better add D. A. Dpwell, Joe Bihl and Doyce Clark to your list of "probable champions."

And speaking of Bays Bryant "being handicapped by a back injury" — a 73 at the Country club doesn't sound like he is thinking of the back "very much."

IF YOU don't think Jo Dick can play medal you have a short memory Mr. "Spy"—I recall the time that Clinton Bussey had Jo Dick dormie on the 13th hole and the match went to the 18th—if that isn't pressure—I'm a par shooter.

The chicken barbecue at the Meadowbrook is causing quite a bit of interest so soon in the game—it isn't until the July 16—and while we are on the subject concerning the Meadowbrook golf players Captain Neil Vanzant has asked that all players that are planning on making the Plainview trip please report at the club house at 11:30 o'clock tomorrow morning.

MRS. PAT DENSON, who is one of the favorites to win the women's city open tournament, shot the Meadowbrook course in 38 strokes on the front nine and 41 strokes on the back nine—this little lady is going to be hard to beat along with Mrs. Rhea Vernon, and Mrs. Sam Edmisson.

Duane Purvis, Purdue sophomore credited with the longest completed forward pass last fall, a 55-yard heave is the outstanding Big Ten javelineer this spring, shooting consistently beyond 200 feet.

Dunlap Beaten In British Go

Pair Of Scots Upset Dope To Beat Dunlap And Tolley In Semi-Finals; Scott Meets Bourn In Finals

HOYLAKE, Eng., June 23. (AP) — A bewildering twist in the annual battle for the British amateur golf championship brought defeat today to the twin favorites, George T. Dunlap, jr., of New York and Cyril Tolley, the massive Englishman, leaving in their stead two Scotch country gentlemen to play 36 holes tomorrow in the final round for the historic trophy.

To the astonishment of both the gallery and the 24-year-old American youngster, the Honorable Michael Scott, 55-year-old scion of a famous family, bowled Dunlap over, 4 and 3, in the semi-final round after the New Yorker had staged a remarkable parade through seven straight rounds seeking a title only two American homebreds, Jess Sweetser and Bob Jones, have won.

At the same time Thomas Arundel Bourn, dour veteran of many a title fray, methodically pushed Tolley aside by the tight margin of one up in twenty holes.

Dunlap Weakens

Scott put on a brilliant display to beat the slender little American who weakened just enough in the afternoon round to see a lead of two holes fade into a four-hole deficit and elimination before the veteran's inspired play.

The defeat of Tolley, who has been playing most of his golf recently in the United States, was equally surprising though his conqueror, Bourn, was closed champion in 1930 and is a former French amateur title holder.

Hitler Claiming Mammoth Support

BERLIN, June 23 (AP)—For his prohibition of the once-powerful social democratic party Chancellor Adolf Hitler claims the support of three-fourths of German voters.

In an interview today the Nazi leader boasted 75 per cent of Germany would endorse, if new elections were ordered, his system and yesterday's ban on grounds of treason of the socialists.

That this ban was the forerunner of the elimination of all non-Nazi parties was expressed in political circles, where the opinion also was held that the Catholic centrists and even the nationalists, hitherto allies, would be the next to be cut off.

Meanwhile, the boy scouts organization was dissolved by Baldur Von Schirach, new German youth leader, who ordered a blanket dissolution of similar organizations preparatory to welding the youngsters into a national youth group.

Property of the boy scouts was seized.

Silences Of Lonely Lake Athabaska In Northern Alberta Hold The Fate Of Three College Youths

EDMONTON, Alta., June 23 (AP) Silences of lonely Lake Athabaska in northern Alberta, hold the fate of three college youths feared to have perished as they sought adventure in the Canadian wilds.

The trio, students of the Golden, Colo., School of Mines, were Robert Burns, Nelson, B. C., Albert Comstock, Bronxville, N. Y., and Robert Weld, Waterton, Conn. The young men last were seen alive when they passed through the little frontier settlement of Athabaska six weeks ago. They were using three canoes to transport their outfit and supplies.

An upturned canoe drifted into the bay at Fort Chipewyan a few days ago. In the canoe were found a book, a wrist watch and a letter addressed to Robert Burns.

Royal Canadian mounted police began an investigation.

Backer Thinks Flier Is Safe

Siberian Aviation Company Is Anxious For Word Of Jimmie Mattern; Aviator Carried A Fish Hook And Net

CHICAGO, June 23 (AP)—While believing that Jimmy Mattern is safe in far northeast Siberia, despite his nine day absence on his world flight, S. J. Sackett, one of his backers, today received a cable from a Khabarovsk aviation company, indicating that no word from the flier had been received there up to last night.

The message, somewhat garbled read: "Don't refuse to inform us if coming back flier Mattern, who filed from Khabarovsk June 14. President Far Eastern Osoaviarhim, U. S. S. R., Grishakov."

This was interpreted by Sackett to mean: "Don't fail to advise us if Mattern gets back home safely," or "let us know if Mattern returning to Khabarovsk" Mattern did take off and return to that city once before his final attempt to cross the Bering sea to Alaska.

Sackett believes that Mattern did not try to follow the Aleutian Islands, but kept to the Russian mainland further north. He said the last word he had from Mattern before his last takeoff said the aviator was carrying a fish hook and a net, feeling that he could feed himself on fish indefinitely in case he was forced down in the Artic.

Unusual Operation Is Performed On Two Plainview Youths Here Friday

Two Plainview youths, children of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Witkowski, were resting at Lubbock sanitarium last night after undergoing operations for a rare disease, hereditary jaundice.

Spleens of the children, Vernon Witkowski, 18, and his sister, Wineferd, 13, were removed yesterday morning. Blood transfusions were given before and after the operations. The attending physician said that spleens of persons suffering the disease become enlarged and red blood cells were destroyed rapidly. The red blood cell count for the girl was about two million and the haemoglobin content only 30 per cent. The cell count for the boy was 1,800,000, and the haemoglobin content 30 per cent. Tests following the operation showed considerable improvement in the blood of both patients.

Jack Lowrey and Bill Angel, both of Plainview, gave a total of 775 cubic centimeters of blood to the girl and Jack Helms and Bill Isabel, also of Plainview, gave a total of 975 cubic centimeters of blood to the boy.

Thirty Years' War

IN the course of a commencement day address at Swarthmore college Newton D. Baker, secretary of war during the World war, referred to that world engagement as the second "Thirty Years' War."

He said he had borrowed the expression from General Tasker H. Bliss, who, when asked during the war how long it would last, said, "Thirty years," and then explained that he included in this period the post-war years of bitterness, hatreds and irrationalities engendered by the fighting. These, he believed, would live as long as the generation responsible for the war.

That leaves 11 more years for the world to forget and forgive, for General Bliss was not making a wild guess. He was up on his history of war and no one knows human nature better than a soldier.

If General Bliss erred at all, it was on the near side. Fifteen years have elapsed since the Versailles treaty and Europe is still carrying chips on several shoulders and showing no signs of either forgetting or forgiving. The European nations talk peace and sign peace pacts, but always to the accompaniment of war rumors and war threats. No one believes that Germany, France, Italy, Russia and the Balkan States would rather eat then fight, especially at a time when there is not enough to eat.

It has been suggested time and again that had the Versailles treaty been an instrument for peace instead of for vengeance world peace would now be a fact.

GUARD APPROPRIATION CUT

How many real soldiers there are in the National Guard the country stands to find out during the approaching payless days for the guardsmen. Those who soldier for the love of soldiering and out of concern for the national defense will accept federal economy as just another vicissitude of campaigning. The sort who are in the guard for the money there is in it will not be so anxious to reenlist.

By reducing its allowances to the state guard units the federal government has restored the guard to very nearly its status before its more complete federalization. Guardsmen have not always been paid for drilling and for their days in training camp, and they have paid for their own camp costs at times when it was just as great a hardship as now.

The federal government cut its appropriation to the national guard, not for the purpose of curtailing this factor in the national defense, but out of fiscal necessity. There is no intention, to all outward appearances, to reduce the size of the guard. And yet this is a part of the whole question whether the national defenses should be measured by the amount of money available for them.

Is a continuing, consistent policy with regard to the national defense to be enforced no matter how scarce the money or how much the nation needs it for other purposes? Or can the nation safely let down on its protections at a time when its real or imaginary enemies are in no better position to attack than the United States is to defend?

FEWER DEADBEATS

Records of 306 representative retail establishments in 25 scattered cities show less fraudulent buying now than at the peak of the prosperity period, no increase in bad check passing and surprisingly little increase in the volume of bad debts.

Partly responsible for this favorable situation is the increased vigilance of credit men as regards new accounts and the acceptance of checks. But there is some truth in the statement that prosperous times demand more caution than hard times.

Among certain classes of people the temptation to acquire articles by illegal means seems to be stronger when only luxuries are beyond their reach than when they are in real want. It is one of those paradoxes none can explain. Shoplifting is a problem always aggravated by periods of great prosperity, because the urge to keep up with the Joneses is irresistible. When everybody is retrenching and economizing that urge is not present.

Professional dead beats are to be found in every community, but their number is not augmented by adversity. There are more slow accounts on the books of most retailers today than there were in 1929, but these are not bad accounts. The return of normal employment will speedily balance them.

At that the novel with illustrations from the Hollywood picturization is an improvement over that of 20 years ago whose illustrations had nothing to do with the text.

Modern girls may not get red when they kiss, but the men do.

The National Whirligig

The News Behind The News

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

YOU may have noticed that Hearst and the senate nationalists had very little to say about Mr. Roosevelt's war debt policy. They were supposed to explode but the explosion was more like a cap than a cannon. There's a reason.

Mr. Roosevelt let them in on the inside of negotiations leading up to the final decision. He did that to show he had nothing up his sleeve. The result was he won their confidence. When the announcement was made they knew it was probably the best arrangement that could possibly have been made.

They had to praise it with faint damns.

That was not the smartest thing the administration did on the debt issue. The whole thing was handled with the same disarming cleverness.

The British and American notes were fixed up in a very friendly way. Each consulted the other about what he should write. The correspondence was made mutually satisfactory before it was written. Our boys fixed it so as not to ruin MacDonald's domestic political situation. He did the same for us.

It is whispered authentically that at one time we actually agreed to name a date in July when we would meet with the British on debts. They thought that was not necessary so it was left out of our note.

The boys near the top believe their debt troubles are over for the duration of the London conference. They think the temporary arrangement saved the conference. It did. They also believe MacDonald will keep his word to avoid future references to that subject in London. He probably will.

Their secret hope is that the London meeting will conclude before the final debt agreement is made.

In that they are too optimistic. If European diplomacy is handled as it usually is, you will see the London delegates turn around and ask about debts just when the time comes to sign some tariff and silver agreements.

It is a two-to-one bet they will never sign until they get a final debt understanding.

CUTS: The Democrats made a deal with Republican Leader McNary on government reorganization. They agreed to let the Republicans get in one kick at the presidential program if the Republicans would be satisfied with one. They were.

That is why you saw the senate unanimously adopt the McNary resolution deferring cuts in agricultural education work. Also why Republicans like Senator Reed suddenly dropped resolutions kicking at other points in the program.

The White House agreed to take the rap. Those agricultural cuts probably will never go into effect. Protests from the West were too loud and strong.

STEAM: Less drinking and drunkenness were noticeable at the closing session of congress this year. Usually the boys blow off steam that final night and use bottles for the purpose. This year fewer were drinking and they drank less.

The idea has been offered that the advent of beer promoted temperance. A more logical reason is that they were not sure up to the final moments whether it would be their last night.

A synthetically happy congressman who threw away money on the closing night of the last congress found a less expensive way to amuse himself this time. He made a speech. That is, he tried to make a speech. The House applauded so he could not be heard. He resented this and invited them all to do battle with him, singly or en masse. They refused to do either but continued to applaud.

There was nothing for the congressman to do but sit down. He did.

NOTES: The man who handled the debt negotiations backstage is Prof. Moley. . . . He is supposed to have been the liaison man with Hearst and the senate progressives. . . . The debt negotiations with the British probably will begin the middle of July and conclude in the fall. . . . We will be in no hurry to get it over before the London conference ends. . . . The time schedule may be rearranged if the Europeans start playing the London conference against the debts. . . . The boys at the top were more frightened than you know about the possibility of war debts breaking up the London conference at the start. . . . Mr. Roosevelt's intimates noticed the absence of his habitual smile during the closing days of congress. . . . He needed the rest he is getting now.

NEW YORK
By James McMullin

THE rebound of the dollar from $4.19 to the pound to $4.03 after the London conference got off to a seamy start was no coincidence.

The same American crowd which has been buying sterling and converting it to gold turned around and began buying dollars. It would be stretching it a point to say that they did so on orders. But they did get the intimation—very unofficially of course—that such a course would not be viewed amiss in Washington.

The maneuver was dollar diplomacy of a very high quality. Having showed England what we could do with the dollar if we had a mind to, we then said in effect that we wouldn't do it if she would do some real cooperating.

It all goes to show what Washington and New York can accomplish with their combined resources when they really get together.

DIPLOMACY: Mr. Roosevelt is credited here with miraculous skill in saving the conference from premature shipwreck.

The British were sore clear through. They resented what they called our high-handed methods and were all set to take us for a ride.

Then Mr. Roosevelt gave them a graceful out on their June 15th debt payment. You will never know how grateful they were for that. They have too many debtors themselves to indulge in the luxury of default and they could not have made full payment without serious risk of upsetting the government. At the same time the dollar was permitted to climb again in a manner which relieved English worries.

The British responded with more than flowers. Neville Chamberlain promptly made a speech in favor of credit expansion by cooperation of central banks. This is the heart of the Roosevelt program for world recovery. Chamberlain's remarks were especially significant because he had strongly opposed such a policy up to that moment.

At the same time vigorous British undercover opposition to James M. Cox as head of the Monetary commission—which had been amazingly bitter—suddenly changed to staunch support.

This should not be taken to mean that all the Anglo-American differences are smoothed out. We still don't care for the British idea of a proper level for stabilization. But at least a glimmer of hope has been revived that the conference will get somewhere.

A CHICKEN HOSTELRY

The Fritz Hotel, one of Miami's outstanding tourist hostelries, but 50 per cent completed when the realty boom ceased, has been converted into a modern poultry plant for the commercial production of fresh table eggs on a wholesale basis.

The birds are kept in a battery system of units, approximately 36 inches wide, 68 inches high—and 150 feet long and are confined in individual cages which are 17 inches square with feed hoppers and a fresh water supply in front of each cage.

The plant has a capacity for providing accommodations for 60,000 laying hens, besides 50,000 baby chicks for annually replenishing the laying flock.

International Uniform Sunday School Lesson For June 25

By Wm. E. Gilroy, D. D., Editor Of The Congregationalist

THE lessons of the second quarter have continued the studies begun the first of the year in the Gospel of the Son of God as contained in the Book of Mark. The general theme in the first quarter was "Jesus, Our Example in Service," and of this second quarter is "Jesus, Our Lord and Savior."

We see Jesus in the opening lesson ministering to Jews and Gentiles alike, healing the daughter of a Syro-phoenician woman, and though he referred to the deep race prejudice that existed, sl wing by his acts that the Savior of Men was a savior of all, regardless of race or color.

In the second lesson we find J us reminding those who had followed him that they must count everything but loss for the sake of his Kingdom and the Gospel.

IN the third lesson the story of the Transfiguration suggested the experiences of exaltation that are often necessary in the Christian way, the ecstasy by which th soul is warmed and faith restored in times of doubt and discouragement.

Then we have two lessons in which Jesus rebukes self-seeking. The story of the rich young man who came to Jesus and who went away sorrowful because of his great possessions is one that finely indicates the ultimate nature of the Christian life and its obligations.

The remaining stories of the quarter tell how Jesus himself was not free from this obligation of giving himself fully to his mission of salvation. It is a story of temporary triumph in which we have the pageant of his advent into Jerusalem while the throngs cried "Hosanna." and spread their garments in the way. But even in these hours of seeming triumph Jesus knew that the shadow of the cross was over him.

We have in one lesson a beautiful picture of Jesus among his disciples in the closing days, but it is followed by the dark picture of his betrayal and his denial.

Then comes the climax of the lessons, as the climax of the life and work of Jesus himself, in the lesson dealing with the Crucifixion and the last lesson, with the story of the visit to the women at the tomb and the Resurrection.

THE Gospel of Mark is distinguished even among the picturesque and beautiful writings of the New Testament for its simplicity and its directness.

Many scholars have supposed it to be the first of our Gospels to be written. Its author wastes no words, nor does he go unduly into secondary incidents. His great direct purpose is to set forth the supreme facts and truths in the story concerning Jesus of Nazareth, and he has done that in such a way that his simple story has lasted throughout the centuries, and will go on with its inspiring message concerning the Savior of Men for centuries to come.

From the half year's studies in the Gospel we turn now in the third quarter of the year to the early history of Israel, in a series of character studies that range from Joshua to Solomon. Then in the fourth quarter of the year we turn again to the New Testament to consider a series of lessons in the life of Paul.

AUSTIN, June 23. (AP) — Appointment by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson of John Wood of Timpson, Shelby county, as chairman of the Texas highway commission ended a long controversy over the office.

Wood was Mrs. Ferguson's second choice for the post. Her first nominee, Frank L. Denison of Temple, twice was rejected by the Texas senate. Denison lost a long court suit, brought as a friendly test of his right to the office.

Not Subject To Action

Wood's appointment will not be subject to confirmation by the senate until the regular session in January, 1935, unless a special session is convened meanwhile. It is probable an extra-ordinary session will be held in September, the administration has indicated.

Governor Ferguson appointed Wood a few days after the supreme court had refused to entertain Denison's application for a writ of error from decisions of the Travis county district court and the third court of civil appeals which had held that he could not legally hold the office because of the senate rejection.

The supreme court decision was entered on May 31. Wood's appointment was announced June 6. The legislature ended its regular session June 1.

Intimate Contact

Wood has been in intimate contact with the affairs of the state since Mrs. Ferguson was inaugurated Jan. 17. He has acted as one of her secretaries and has long been associated with Mrs. Ferguson and her chief counsellor, Ex-Governor James E. Ferguson.

The controversy over appointm of Denison was one of the most ter of the regular session. A vote his confirmation was taken af sharp debate and he reportedly tained a majority, but failed to r ceive a two-thirds vote. Governo Ferguson contended a majority w all that was necessary. She issu Denison a commission and he to the oath of office. Denison nev functioned, agreeing to the test s to determine the validity of h claim.

Eliminate Safety Hazards

Elimination of safety hazards, ch as railroad grade crossings, dening of narrow roads or bridges, placement of unsafe bridges, conruction of routes to avoid congest- areas.

In recognition of efforts to rehalitate the railroads, the board set orth a reservation that it could reuire construction of roads desired the United States railroad coordator to provide adequate yearund highway service in replaceent of branch-line railroad service roposed to be abandoned."

Designed to get as much manwer to work with pick and shovel possible, the regulations announced "it will be required that e maximum of human labor be ed in lieu of machinery wherever racticable and consistent with und economy and public advange."

No Convict Labor

As another point in the program to see that as many unemployed can be used are given jobs, the oard ruled "no convict labor shall employed and no material manfactured or produced by convict abor shall be used in any project onstructed under this act."

Contracts, the board decided, shall rescribe minimum wage rates, to be etermined by the state highway deartments, and the minimum rates hall be announced in asking for ids for the construction.

"Contracts for all projects under his act shall contain a stipulation hat except in executive, administrave and supervisory positions, so far s practicable and feasible, no inividual shall be permitted to work ore than thirty hours in any eek," the board went on.

Can Make Up Time

This requirement, it explained ould permit working time lost beause of bad weather in one week be made up in another and not ore than 130 hours of work a onth, to be substituted for the 30our week requirement on projects n localities where there was not ufficient labor available.

Neither of these requirements ould hold in areas where work amps are remote and inaccessible nd it is necessary to house and feed he labor, the board said, but this aust be determined by the state ighway departments and the fedral public roads bureau, with a flat tipulation that even in these cases, o employe may work more than 40 ours in one week.

The board held that projects must e initiated by the states and subnitted to it in the same manner as ther federal-aid highway projects, nd of the distribution in the state f the funds allocated said:

Distribution Plans

"Not more than 50 per cent of the unds apportioned to any state unter this act shall be applied to proects on the federal-aid highway ystem outside of the corporate limts of municipalities; not less than 5 per cent of such fund shall be pplied to projects on extensions of the federal aid highway system into nd through municipalities; and not more than 25 per cent of such funds shall be applied to secondary or feeder roads until provision has been made for the satisfactory completion of at least 90 per cent of the initial limiting federal-aid highway system in such state."

Army officials advised the public works board today they had plans and specifications ready to proceed immediately with the program they recommended, under which the largest amount $5,917,000, would go to Texas, with $5,800,000 for California and $4,469,000 to Virginia.

Price Fixing

amendment was stricken out in conference. This left the presumption, some business leaders contend, that price fixing was permissible.

However, Johnson has taken the view that too rapidly rising prices would offset the value of wage increases and has asked that only wages and hours be treated in the first trade practice agreements submitted. This was done by the textile trade, upon whose code hearings will begin Tuesday presided over by Johnson.

Plan Considered

In authoritative circles it was said tonight some industries nevertheless were considering a plan for presenting the agreements, with hours and wages effective immediately, but calling for price fixing at the expiration of 90 days.

These persons took the view that it was intended that through the relaxation of the anti-trust laws business should get some compensation for increasing wages and spreading work through reduced hours of labor.

MARKET REPORTS

Stocks

BY JOHN L. COOLEY
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, June 23. (AP)—Stocks rallied ambitiously in the late trading today, reversing yesterday's procedure.

Wheat, oats and rye climbing to new highs on reports of extensive crop damage, shares roused from an early afternoon siesta and closed with many net gains of 1 to 4 points. Despite this final spurge, which was fairly active, the day's business totaled only 2,334,660 shares.

Thursday's sharp dip had no overnight repercussions, for the market opened higher. Its vitality on this upturn, however, was feeble and by noon prices were back around the previous close, thereafter edging up and down in a narrow range until the grain markets developed buoyancy. Dollar exchange was reasonably steady.

The late rise in stocks covered a broad list.

The day was unproductive of financial news, apart from the boom in Chicago grains. Wall street anticipates that tomorrow's car loadings figures, covering last week's traffic, will show a good increase over a year ago and that the total will represent a new high for 1933.

Cotton

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, June 23. (AP) — Cotton rose sharply to within two points of yesterday's highs for the year in a late wave of activity today and closed at the top, up 14 points net. Earlier the market was quiet with advancing tendencies held in check by reports of rains where needed in the belt. Weekly mill takings, though under last week's, were regarded as good.

The opening was steady as Liverpool cables came in better than due and sterling was higher.

Prices eased with other markets and on reports of good showers in the central and eastern portions of the belt. October dropped to 9.46 and December to 9.61 or down 11 to 12 points from the early highs and net unchanged to 1 point down from the previous close.

The market turned firmer after midsession and became active in late trading owing to sharp advances in stocks and wheat which caused shorts to cover freely. Prices advanced to within 2 points of the season's highs reached yesterday. October trading at 9.63 and December at 9.78 or 16 to 18 points above the lows of the morning. The close was at the top, showing net gains of 16 points on all active months.

Liverpool is due on New Orleans tomorrow 8 penny points up.

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, June 23. (AP)—Reactions from an opening advance were followed by sharp rallies in cotton today.

Late buying was evidently stimulated by strength in the wheat and stock markets. After declining from 9.61@9.48, October advanced to 9.67 in the late trading and closed at 9.66, with the general market closing firm at net advances of 16 to 18 points.

Relatively firm Liverpool cables and the further depreciation in the dollar as reflected by foreign exchanges rates caused opening advances of 9 to 11 points.

Houses with Liverpool, continental and far eastern connections were credited with buying. There was a scattering trade and commission house demand on the initial advance of 9.78 for December. Later December sold up to 9.82 and closing quotations were within a point or two of the best for the day.

Reports of dry hot weather over much of the belt claimed attention, accompanied by further reports that farmers were giving acreage curtailment proposals favorable consideration in some sections.

Exports today were 14,263 making 7,-703,838 so far this season. Port receipts 13,158. U. S. port stocks 3,876,186.

who first talked with him of a liquor deal and later "hooked" him into the kidnaping. He said "Bill" had told him it was not an "actual kidnaping" because Neil C. McMath, father of the child, "knew all about it" and "needed money." Today Kenneth reiterated this.

Kenneth spent more than four hours and a half on the stand today completing his recital of the events of the kidnaping and then answering the questions of the district attorney, William C. Crossley.

Crossley subjected him to a succession of interrogations but Kenneth, contrary to previous deportment when his testimony was interspersed with tears, bore up well under the grilling and several times flashed defiance at his interrogator.

Mrs. Buck told the court her grandson, Kenneth, jr., had not gone to school since his father was arrested because the "other children teased him about his father." She said Kenneth had lived in her home and that he had done "plenty" work around the house.

Plains Agents

now planted, the farmer may either:

"Plan 1 — Receive in cash this summer, from $5 to $12 per acre for land retired from cotton, the exact amount depending on former average yields per acre; and an option at six cents per pound on as many bales of government owned cotton as the acreage retired would yield as determined by former average yields. This cotton may be sold by the government some time during the year and the difference between the selling price and option price paid the farmer.

Scale Announced

"The cash payments on this plan are to be paid according to the following scale: land yielding 100 to 124 pounds lint per acre, $6 per acre; 125 to 149 pounds lint, $7; 150 to 174 pounds lint, $8; 175 to 224 pounds lint, $10; 225 to 274 pounds lint, $11 and 275 pounds lint and over, $12.

"An example of how plan 1 would apply: A man has 100 acres planted to cotton. He retired 30 per cent of this, or 30 acres. It is determined his average yields have been one quarter bale per acre (125 pounds lint). He would be paid this summer $7 per acre for the 30 acres retired or $210. He would also be given an option at six cents a pound on 75 bales (the amount 30 acres would produce according to the former yields). If the cotton is sold and when the price goes to 10 cents per pound, he would be paid the difference between what 7.5 bales brought at 10 cents and the six cents option price, a difference of four cents per pound, or $20 per bale. He would receive from this $150. His total payments from having cooperated on plan No 1 would be in this case, $360.

The Next Plan

"Plan No. 2: Farmers wanting all cash payments and not desiring to take an option on government cotton are offered a higher scale of cash rental payments than offered under the first plan:

"The cash payments on class 2 are made according to this production table, yields to be determined on the basis of former average yields per acre: land yielding 100 to 124 pounds of lint per acre, $7 per acre; 125 to 149 pounds, $8; 150 to 174 pounds, $11; 175 to 224 pounds, $14; 225 to 275 pounds, $17 and all over 275 pounds, $20 per acre.

Example Is Cited

"Example of how plan 2 would apply: Taking the same case of a man who retired 30 acres out of 100 acres planted in cotton, and whose former average yields are determined to have been one-quarter bale per acre, he would be paid this summer $9 per care for 30 acres, or a total of $270."

County agents were given a sample form on which farmers who desire to retire cotton are asked to sign. The agents will have prepared for their community meetings. These forms read:

"Volunteer offers to retire 25 to 40 per cent present cotton acreage: Subject to contract agreement, acreage and average yield as determined by inspection, to approval of local cotton committee, and finally subject to the voluntary cotton retirement plan being authorized by the U. S. secretary of agriculture. Space is given for the name of the farmer, his address, the number of acres in cotton in 1933 and the acreage the farmer offers to retire.

Don't Begin To Plow

"The government has not decided to plow up the cotton," Mr. Evans pointed out." It merely wants to know at this time how many acres farmers are willing to plow up. You should impress on farmers they should not begin to plow right away.

"We want to wire into headquarters each night from this area the number of farmers and number of acres they are willing to plow. That information will be wired into Washington the next morning."

Each agent was urged to name a community committee in each community in the county. These groups will handle all local details, such as securing information on reduction, signing of contracts and other work.

Agents and others present included: D. A. Adam, Lamb county; W. W. Evans, Hale; W. T. Magee, Hockley; C. B. Martin, Swisher; W. R. Lace, Swisher; Wayne Thomas, Castro, and O. G. Tumlinson and R. N. McClain, assistant, Lubbock; Don L. Jones, superintendent state experiment farm; A. C. Magee, farm management specialist; Ray C. Mowery, Texas Technological college; Alvin Debman who will work in Dawson county and Miss Myrtle Murray, district county agent leader and Miss Isla Mae Chitwood, home demonstration agent.

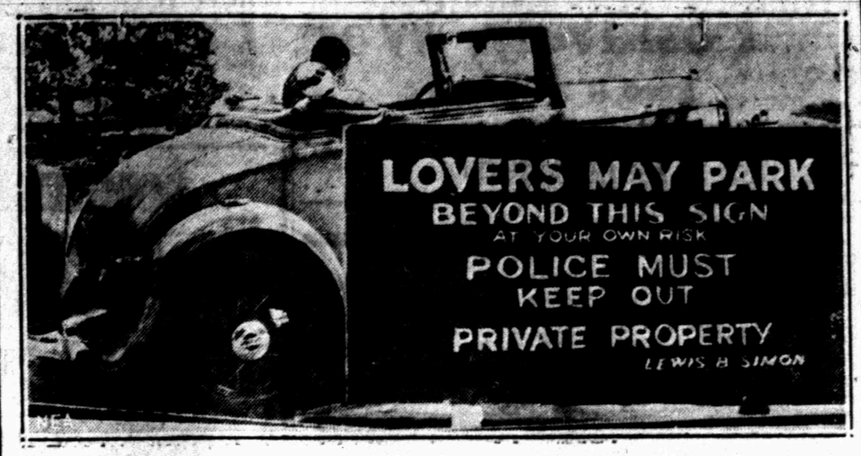

Susquehanna university, Selinsgrove, Pa., has elected the first woman member of its board of directors since the school was founded 75 years ago. She is Miss Mildred Winston, New York.

Lovers have found a real paradise beyond this sign, erected by Lewis B. Simon on his farm near Camden, N. J. Either a sentimentalist or shrewd man, Simon has established a "necking ground" from which all cops are barred. More than 50 couples took advantage of his offer the first night. Here's one ripening romance.

Man Becomes Used To Ups And Downs So He Desires To Be Mayor Of City

BY M. O. CHENOWETH
Central Press Writer

CLEVELAND. — The operations necessary in manipulating a passenger elevator and running a large city may appear to fall into different classifications of labor in the opinions of most people.

To Elevatorman H. Vincent Watkins, however, the difference is not so great. The ups and downs of an elevator are quite like the successes and reverses of a metropolis, he believes, and so, now that he is an accomplished lift operator, he has become a candidate for mayor.

The executive chair of Cleveland, the nation's sixth city, is the goal sought by Watkins. Already he has petitions in circulation to get his name on the ballot for the fall election on the Non-Partisan Independent ticket.

Passengers Sign

Only a few days were necessary for him to get 500 signers. Many of them were tenants at the downtown building where he works. With his courteous "Good Morning" greeting and affable "Floor, please?" he has won many friends, he says.

Strangely enough, these same friends unknowingly gave him the idea to run for mayor, as well as forming his platform for him.

"I'm a fella who has been around a lot," he says, "I've learned a lot about city government and have studied it for 25 years. So when I hear people on my elevator talking about the government, I'm right at home.

"The people are sick and tired of political machines. They don't want smart men in the mayor's chair. They want honest men. And I'm as honest as they make 'em.

Blames Politics

"Every day I hear of someone complaining about the way Cleveland is run. They say the taxes are too high, and they say politics are rotten. So do I, and I think it's because of the political machines."

Needless to say, Candidate Watkins' platform includes a plank for lower taxes. He also would operate the government at cost, waste none of the taxpayers' money, and in addition, provide for a five-cent street car fare. (The Cleveland fare is now 10 cents).

"Running this elevator, I get to know what's wrong with the city from the people's point of view. I've formed my platform from what I've heard people complain about, and I know it's what the people want.

Stresses Hinesty

He isn't worried about the strength of the major parties at the polls, and believes the people "are ready to give an honest man a chance."

Watkins, now 47, formerly worked in a St. Louis brewery, sold fans and rented opera glasses in a theater and says he made $6-a-day selling guide books at the St. Louis World's Fair. In his later years he worked for the service department of St. Louis, and was a pipe fitter's helper in a steel company.

What with his campaigning and elevator job, he works more now than ever before. "About 16 hours a day", he estimates.

Lindbergh Home

which the house and a great part of the 500-acre estate are situated.

In papers of incorporation, filed today in Jersey City with Gustav Bach, clerk of Hudson county, it was stated the purpose of the corporation is "to provide for the welfare of children, including their education, training, hospitalization, or other allied purposes, without discrimination in regard to race or creed."

Others Are Listed

Besides Colonel and Mrs. Lindbergh and Colonel Breckinridge, Abraham Flexner, the educator, and Owen R. Lovejoy are named trustees. James M. Phelan is listed as statutory agent.

The house, built on a lower slope of a mountainous region, steeped in legends of eerie happenings, is only about two years old. The Lindberghs began spending week-ends there late in 1931. The kidnaping was on March 1, 1932; and little more than ten weeks later the baby's body was found about five miles away at a spot from which the house, visible for miles around, could be seen.

Property Diseribed

A private lane, winding up a rugged slope from the Hopewell-Wertsville road, leads to the house, which is partly surrounded by a waist-high wall. On the first floor there are a library, dining room, kitchen and study; on the second, bedrooms and a nursery. The garage is in a wing of the house.

The Lindberghs spent little time there after the finding of their son's body, apparently preferring the home of Mrs. Lindbergh's mother, Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, at Englewood.

AHEAD OF SCHEDULE

PULPIT HARBOR, Me., June 23. (AP) — President Roosevelt shot far ahead of his schedule today and after anchoring in Pulpit Harbor in Penobscot bay at nightfall authorized his secretary, Stephen T. Early, to express his satisfaction with London economic conference developments and deny reports he would go there.

London Parley

value, would remain stabilized in its existing status, under the French proposal, which would forbid any additions to restrictions now in effect.

Work In Committees

Before adjourning tonight over the week-end the conference worked in eight committees or subcommittees simultaneously seeking to reach accord on issues not immediately connected with the stabilization question.

The development of a practicable permanent monetary standard, the elimination of artificial trade restrictions, the checking of government subsidies for inefficient industries and prevention of flooding of markets were the principal topics on which the delegates concentrated.

"We will go as far as we can and fill in the blanks later," said Finance Minister George Bonnet, the chief of the French delegation before leaving for a short stay in Paris.

MacDonald Determined

Chairman MacDonald receiving the representatives of the press of all nations made an eloquent announcement of his determination to keep the conference going and his faith that it would achieve success despite obvious difficulties.

"All the work that can go on will go on," he said.

"The suggestion for adjournment of the conference is foolish and cannot be imagined."

The picturesque British premier said American difficulties in trying to stabilize the dollar now were "very real" inasmuch as phychology is so important for the American price-raising program.

The success of the conference will depend finally on currency stabilization, Mr. MacDonald acknowledged, but he faced the outlook with "a very buoyant and hopeful heart."

THREE ARE KILLED

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Iowa, June 23. (AP)—Three Council Bluffs men were killed last night nine miles east of the city when the plane in which they were flying caught fire and crashed on the farm of John Lee. The occupants, Dick Mason, 21, pilot; James Hitchcock, junior fire captain, and Charles Fries, mechanic, were killed instantly. The bodies were badly burned.

TARZAN OF THE APES No. 18

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

Tarzan was anxious to return to the cabin and continue his investigations of its wondrous contents. So early one morning he set forth alone. He found the knife, beside the bones of the gorilla. Entering, he closed and locked the door and then turned his attention to the picture books.

The pictures caught his fancy most. One, of a little ape similar to himself, fascinated him nightily. It had a strange colored fur, for such he thought the coat and trousers were. Beneath the picture were these little bugs—B-O-Y. Under another picture the "bugs" appeared again—A B-O-Y AND A D-O-G.

Long he puzzled; but slowly, very slowly, he learned. By the time he was fifteen he knew the various combinations of letters that stood for every picture in the little primer and in one or two of the picture books. He persevered for months—each time he came to the cabin.

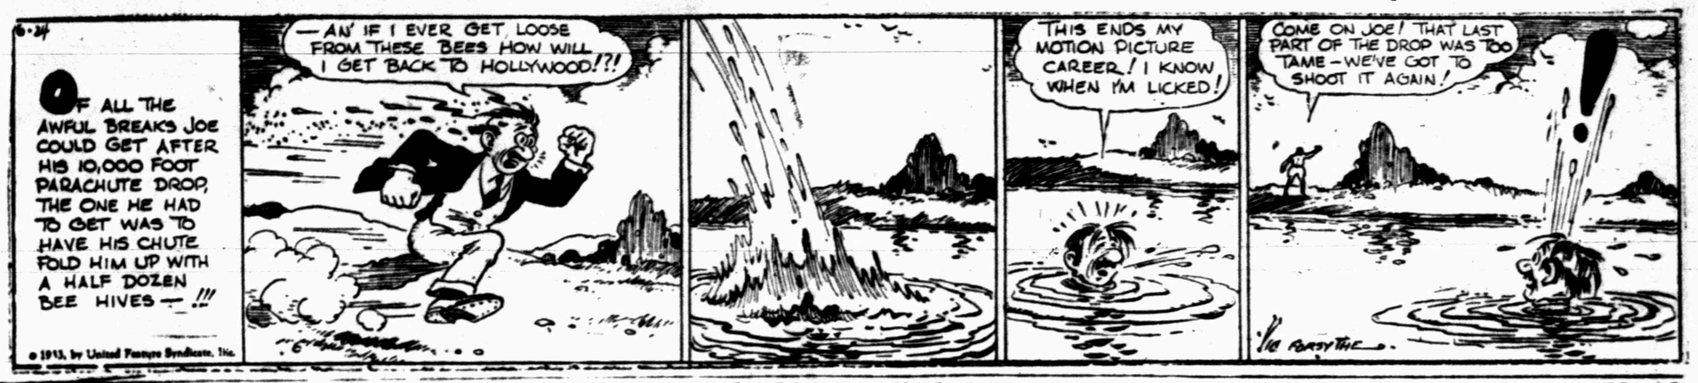

One day he found a number of lead pencils in a drawer. Scratching upon the table top with one of them, he was delighted to find the black line it left behind it. He attempted to reproduce some of the little "bugs" of his books. It was a difficult task.

Repeated experiments taught him how to hold a pencil. Thus he made a beginning at writing. From then on his progress was rapid. His reason now told him he was of a different race from his companions. He was a M-A-N. He didn't know he could not speak man's language.

Federal Plan Given Praise

State Agriculture Commissioner Says New Cotton Plan Is First Workable Measure To Be Given Farmers

CORSICANA, June 23. (AP)—J. E. McDonald, state commissioner of agriculture, today explained the new federal cotton acreage reduction plan to some 800 Navarro county farmers and business men.

"This looks like the Christmas tree that John Texas should have his stocking on," the commissioner said. "God pity us if sufficient acreage is not contracted to cause the secretary of agriculture to declare the plan effective. The market will certainly drop and the farmers of the nation will be worse off than ever."

First Workable Plan

In presenting the plan of cash payment to the farmers and business men, McDonald said while the plan did not include everything that might be desired, it was the first time the farmers had been offered a definite workable plan of relief.

He explained the opinion that "no thinking man" would refuse to cooperate in the movement to the extent of plowing up from 25 to 40 per cent of his acreage when he would be paid for it, and also obtain an added price for the remainder that would equal the price he would have received from the entire acreage.

Calls For Vote

After McDonald had declared the fate of the plan rested largely with the state of Texas because it produces about one-third of the cotton grown in the nation, the presiding officer called for a vote.

Only one man of the 800 present stood in opposition to the plan.

McDonald previously had said not one man had openly announced opposition to the plan before he came to Corsicana. McDonald has been touring the state explaining the plan.

The floor of the palace has been treated especially for tonight's dance.

"My work is inside work and at times I get constipated," writes Mr. I. H. Webb, of Waco, Texas. "This causes me to have headache and a terrible worn-out feeling. I will get real sick and dizzy. When I get up in the morning, I feel all tired out. I heard about Black-Draught being good for this trouble and decided to try it. I found it was as recommended. Now when I feel that I need something and my head begins to feel heavy, I take a few doses of Black-Draught and get relief."

Former President Hoover Soon Will Start On New Job; He's To Preserve Secret History Of Important Events

BY KATHERINE BEEBE
Associated Press Staff Writer

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif. June 23 (AP)—In the cloistered calm of campus surroundings, former president Herbert C. Hoover will soon set quietly to work at a new task—the preservation for posterity of history that never has been told.

New shelves are going up in the archives of the Stanford library and a "work room" is taking shape in a wing of the building where the man who was directing a nation a few months ago will pore over documents in many languages and map out research procedure for assistants.

Work On Old Hobby

Mr. Hoover will be devoting himself to an old hobby in his new role. The Hoover war library—the largest collection of its kind — was founded in 1919 with funds provided by him. Ever since, he has talked to university associates of the day when he could find time to outline to librarians the scope of the material awaiting classification.

Some of the material probably will be edited for publication under his direction, libararians said. Much of it, however, is secret and sealed, not to be made public for many years. Men must die before some of the documents are read. Governments must fall, or pass into other hands.

Has War Documents

Among the several million items now included in the growing collection are documents dealing with war negotiations of almost all the countries in the world. During the armistice, Mr. Hoover, as food relief administrator, was in intimate touch with all the governments of Europe.

"And I was venal enough," he said in an informal conference with newspaper men the summer before his election in 1928, "to utilize that intimacy in securing war documents from all governments as a personal favor to me."

Under a permanent endowment, Mr. Hoover bestowed upon the library in 1924, its affairs are administered by a board of directors headed by Prof. Ralph H. Lutz of the Stanford history department.

Contribute New Material

A board of honorary curators constantly contributes new documents.

On the board are Stanislas Arct, of Warsaw; Francis Bessenyey, Budapest; Major Gist Blair, Washington; Yrjo Hirn, Helsingfors, Finland; Slobodan Jovanovich, Belgrade, Yugoslavia; J. E. Khuri, American university at Beirut; Antonius Piip, University of Tartu, collector for the Baltic region; Constantine Stephaneve, University of Sofia, Bulgaria; Rafael Heliodoro Valley for Mexico, and Ladislav J. Zivny, University of Prague, Czechoslovakia.

In 1936 the first of the sealed documents are to be opened.

Others will remain untouched for 35 years, or longer.

CLEAR LIGHT and Sharp Outlines

THIEVES work under cover of darkness. Shady characters go about their business in half-light. Honest men walk boldly at midday, for they have nothing to fear.

Shoddy merchandise cannot be advertised. It would ruin the reputation of its sponsors. The half-way good is not worth an investment in these pages. The merchants of this community and the national manufacturers, who advertise to you, are glad to come out in the open for all to see. So confident are they of the quality of their goods, that they are ready to talk to all the people about that quality, staking their business future on the validity of their claims.

You will find their messages helpful, their descriptions of merchandise interesting, their news of style authentic, their prices fair. These days, as never before, your dollars will buy more—more durability, style, comfort, more happiness—if you read and heed the advertisements of reputable advertisers in these pages!
