'I CAN'T BELIEVE IT!' — A West Texas version of a groundhog found the cameraman more fascinating than his shadow here today. Legend has it that if the sun shines Feb. 2, the area is in for six more weeks of winter, but the animal seems to be dubious about it all, since springlike temperatures prevailed.

Takes half of delegates

Carter leads Democrats

PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — Jimmy Carter says his strong opening day showing in Maine's Democratic presidential preference caucuses may help his chances in next-door New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation primary.

"The first test of strength in New England is obviously of great benefit to our campaign," the former Georgia governor told newsmen after arriving here for a Sunday night rally.

Carter, who campaigned longer and harder in the state than any of the other candidates, won nearly half the delegates in the voting at caucuses here and at a handful of smaller communities. The lightly attended caucuses kicked off a month-long series of precinct meetings to pick delegates to the Democratic State Convention next May 7-9.

The 1,893 state convention delegates will, in turn, pick the party's 20 delegates to the national convention.

Carter was the leader in the first caucuses in the nation, in Iowa, but trailed Alabama Gov. George Wallace in Mississippi caucuses.

In Portland, which has 95 convention seats as the largest city in the state, Carter supporters won 44 seats, uncommitted slates took 32 seats, former Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma got 12, Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana got 3, Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona got 2 and Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Sargent Shriver each got 1.

In Caribou, Carter got six delegates and the remaining five were uncommitted; Gardiner picked seven Carter supporters and five uncommitted delegates, and Manchester chose one for Carter and two uncommitted.

The caucuses continue until the end of the month, but communities with populations of more than 5,000 must hold their meetings during the first two weeks of February.

Carter's extensive campaign in the state had the backing of former Gov. Kenneth M. Curtis, one of Maine's most popular Democrats.

Aside from Shriver, who made two recent visits to Maine, candidates spent little effort in the state. None showed up here Friday night for a candidates' forum sponsored by the Democratic State Committee.

Only about 500 of Portland's 13,500 enrolled Democrats, less than 4 per cent, participated in the caucuses here.

Delegates chosen in the caucuses must announce any presidential preferences prior to balloting, but they are not bound to any candidate and may switch preferences later.

Republicans also are holding municipal caucuses in Maine this mont, but all GOP convention delegates will be uncommitted.

In other political news:

—Bayh issued a statement calling for direct U.S. diplomatic contacts with the pro-Soviet faction in Angola.

"I believe the time has come for a reversal of American policy and a new diplomatic initiative by the United States," he said.

—President Ford's national campaign managers are taking command of his Florida primary operation in a shakeup they hope will strengthen the organization for the key March 9 test with former California Gov. Ronald Reagan. They believe the race is close, and they are not satisfied with the state campaign — despite the claim of Ford's Florida chairman that everything is in top shape.

The White House announced that Ford and members of his family will travel to New Hampshire to pursue votes next weekend. And U.S. News & World Report has conducted a poll which shows that better than 80 per cent of the Republican members of Congress believe Ford will defeat Reagan for the GOP nomination.

—In Washington over the weekend, official campaign finance reports confirmed that the President lags behind Reagan in the race for campaign money. Reports show Reagan raised $1.93 million last year despite a late start, while the Ford campaign collected $1.65 million.

The finance reports showed Sen. Henry Jackson retained his strong standing among Democrats. The Washingtonian ended 1975 with a cash balance of $911,848 and has taken in $906,586 in federal matching funds since then.

Udall was more than $300,000 in the red at the end of 1975, according to the reports, but has since received $537,478 in federal subsidy payments.

The reports showed that Bayh finished last year with a cash balance of just under $10,000 and has drawn $232,339 in public subsidies since then.

Rumsfeld admits covert Angola aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld says the United States has funneled money covertly to a faction in the Angolan war.

Asked to comment on reports the United States is sending money to England to train troops for Angola, Rumsfeld said "there has been what was once a covert activity on the part of the United States involving some funds to provide assistance to an element in the Angolan conflict." He declined to elaborate.

Appearing on CBS' "Face the Nation," the new defense chief also warned that more cuts in the defense budget could create an "unstable world" and said there have been no Soviet violations of strategic arms limitation agreements that endanger U.S. security.

Rumsfeld repeated statements that the Soviet Union and Cuba have put $3 billion in aid into Africa in the past five years.

"The military significance is obvious," he said. "To the extent that the Soviet Union improves its basing and airfields throughout the continent of Africa, it is able to project power to a considerably greater extent in that part of the world than previously ..."

However, he contended that Americans have been "confused" by analogies equating Angola to Vietnam, which are misleading, he said, because "there is no one in the government that I've talked to who doesn't fully recognize that we have no intention of putting any U.S. troops in Angola, and that has never been an issue.

"And it's really a misservice to the discussion to get into that Vietnam analogy, because it is so flawed." Any future U.S. activity in Angola "would be as a result of extensive executive and legislative branch discussions and possibly legislation," he said.

Floyd will seek post on council

Travis Floyd, owner of Floyd Automotive, filed this morning with the city secretary seeking the position of councilman, Place 2.

Floyd opposes Ralph McLaughlin, Kenneth Randall and Jack Watkins for the post. This post was held by Eddie Acri, incumbent, who chose to file for Position 1, opposing incumbent Harold Hall.

Mayor Wade Choate is opposed by H. V. Crocker for the mayor's spot.

Trans-Regional seeks commuter expansion

Trans Regional Airlines announced at noon today that it is in the process of making application before the Texas Aeronautics Commission in Austin to expand its commuter operation into seven West and Central Texas communities.

A letter of intent was filed with the TAC last week.

Officials for Trans Regional said that the plans for expansion do not involve Big Spring or current schedules between Big Spring, Dallas and Midland.

Officials also reported that Trans Regional will continue its headquarters here and as other routes are secured in the future the local business climate may justify including Big Spring in further expansion plans.

The world at-a-glance

Soviets face money pinch

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union may be facing a severe money pinch because of huge grain imports, including about $2 billion worth from the United States, an Agriculture Department specialist said today. USDA researcher Judith Goldich said Russia has sold large quantities of gold during the past two years to help finance imports, including other products as well as grain, and more recently has been looking for other ways to finance its foreign purchases.

Congress eyes natural gas

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress this week takes up natural gas deregulation, voter registration by postcard and rice legislation before beginning its first recess of the 1976 session. The recess, to begin this Friday and run for 10 days, is the traditional Lincoln's Birthday holiday to allow Republicans to attend party meetings over the country. President Ford was to confer today with some members of Congress about the prospects for ending natural price controls, an abolition that the Ford administration supports.

Viets say Nixon promised aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnamese leaders say they were promised $3.25 billion in aid by former President Richard M. Nixon and they indicated that might produce information on Americans missing in action, according to a congressman who visited Hanoi. "They told us they had a letter (from Nixon) promising $3.25 billion in assistance to North Vietnam," Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-Calif., said in a telephone interview Sunday night. "We didn't see the letter." McCloskey visited Hanoi in December with other members of the House Select Committee on Missing in Action, seeking information on the fate of 850 missing Americans.

Canada eyes alternate Olympic plan

INNSBRUCK, Austria (AP) — Montreal officials admitted for the first time today that there are contingency plans for the troubled Summer Olympics but vowed they will not be needed.

Dr. Victor Goldbloom, the Quebec provincial minister responsible for Olympic installations, emerged from a long session with the International Olympic Committee and said the Games will go on as planned July 17.

But he said Olympic planners had looked at the possibility of building an open-air swimming pool at the Claude Robillard Center, about two miles north of the main stadium complex now under construction.

He added the swimming pool at Montreal University was another possibility.

But Lord Killanin, president of the IOC, reaffirmed his belief that the Games will go as originally planned, with both track and field and swimming in the main complex.

"We are not talking of contingency plans as much as catastrophe plans," Killanin said.

The swimming and track and field are the only two of the 21 sports in the Olympic program which have been in doubt because the facilities are not complete.

Goldbloom, with members of the Montreal Organizing Committee (COJO), met with the IOC for five hours.

COJO presented a progress report which said in part: "All facilities essential to the staging of the Games of the 21st Olympiad will be provided to the satisfaction of the athletes, spectators and officials.

"All competition sites will be delivered to the organizing committee by June 6, as promised."

But Goldbloom said at a news conference that a large number of the 72,000 seats in the stadium will be temporary. He said he could not estimate how many temporary seats will be necessary. Nor would he give a date when it might be necessary to switch to contingency plans.

Goldbloom said the water circulating equipment is due to be installed in the swimming pool by March 15. At present, the pool is only a hole in the ground.

Killanin presided over the news conference but left most of the talking to Goldbloom and Roger Rousseau, commissioner general of the Montreal Olympics.

February has five Sundays

February has five Sundays. This will not occur again for 50 years.

It is a rare occasion when February begins on a Sunday and also hits a year that it has 29 days and ends on a Sunday.

Of course, 1976 is leap year and one of the years that has the extra day in the month.

The next time there are five Sundays in February, it will be the year 2026.

Mutiny aboard Soviet warship?

LONDON (AP) — Soviet sailors, led by their political officer, mutinied aboard an antisubmarine patrol vessel in November and headed for the West before being stopped by Russian warplanes and a submarine, the Daily Telegraph reported Saturday.

Soviet authorities in Moscow declined any comment on the report.

The reported mutiny would be the first known such case in Soviet history since the 1921 Kronstadt uprising in the early years of the Soviet state. Men of the Kronstadt naval base, who had supported the Bolshevik Revolution, mutinied in favor of workers and peasants demadning political and economic freedoms.

The Daily Telegraph quoted normally well-informed sources in Stockholm as saying the 1975 mutiny occurred while the Kotlin-class vessel was sailing from the Soviet naval base at Riga to Leningrad.

The Telegraph said the mutineers locked the captain and five other ship's officers in their cabins and apparently turned the ship, identified only by the number 628, toward the West. Soviet radar apparently spotted the ship going off course, and it was quickly intercepted by warplanes and a submarine.

The Telegraph quoted its sources as saying the mutineers were warned by radio they would be sunk if they did not surrender.

The paper said the ship then returned to Riga and was seen to have been damaged by gunfire, possibly from strafing runs by the warplanes.

The Telegraph said the patrol ship mutiny was believed to have occurred about Nov. 9. The Stockholm newspaper Daily Expressen, which recently reported "Latvian fishermen" giving a similar version of what was believed to be the same incident, said the mutiny occurred on Nov. 7.

A spokesman for the Swedish defense staff said "no unusual activities" were observed in Baltic waters between Riga and Leningrad at that time.

The Telegraph said it was not known how many of the 36-man crew joined in the mutiny. It said Soviet authorities clamped a tight news blackout over the whole incident and quoted sources as saying Riga authorities even arrested anyone just heard talking about it.

Carrillo files suit

SAN DIEGO, Tex. (AP) — Former District Court Judge O.P. Carrillo, convicted by the Texas Senate on an impeachment charge, filed suit today against three state officials, a district judge and the Duval County sheriff in an attempt to regain his post.

Carrillo—convicted by the Senate Jan. 23, removed from office and barred from ever holding an elected state office— said the suit "is the first step" in his attempt to appeal the Senate action.

Defendants in the suit are State Comptroller Bob Bullock, State Treasurer Jesse James, Secretary of State Mark White, District Court Judge Darrell Hester of Brownsville and Sheriff Raul Serna.

In the suit filed here, Carrillo says he is the duly elected judge of the 229th Judicial District, but is being denied the rights, privileges and salary of the office by the defendants.

Carrillo said Bullock and James are acting illegally and wrongfully by refusing to pay his salary for January 1976.

The suit also accused White of illegally and without cause removing Carrillo's name from the rolls of public officials of Texas. Carrillo said White has wrongfully declared that the judgeship is vacant and is accepting applications from candidates to run for the post.

Carrillo said that Hester has appropriated the office, privileges and the bench of the 229th District Court.

The suit said Hester had no power to preside over the court, and all actions by Hester should be declared void.

The legal action accuses Serna of taking command of Carrillo's office in the Duval County courthouse. Carrillo said the sheriff has trespassed in his office and has kept him from entering.

Is it Spring?

More spring-like weather. High today and Tuesday in the mid 70s. Low tonight, upper 30s. Northwesterly wind 10-15 miles per hour this afternoon and 5-10 m.p.h. tonight.

RARITY — Mrs. O. C. (Esta) Hart of Baltimore, Maryland, a former Big Spring resident, is holding what was considered to be a rare item even in the 19th Century. Can you guess what it might be? The answer will be supplied Tuesday. No, the tool is not an ice tong. Neither was it used to pull horse's teeth.

Friends of library give $1,000 for facility use

Representatives of the Friends of Howard County Library today offered County Commissioners Court a $1,000 contribution to be used for improving the library basement.

Librarian Susan Conley said more shelf space is needed for the adult book collection. She proposed moving the children's book section to the basement and expanding the adult book collection on the first floor.

Making a meeting room in the basement was also discussed.

Mrs. Anita Daniels of the Friends commended the court for past library progress and noted citizens attending the Goals for Big Spring's meetings favored library improvements.

The funds were raised through book sales and copying machine in the library, Polly Mays, another Friends member, said.

Mrs. Mays, who is Big Spring mayor pro tem, told Commissioner Simon (Cy) Terrazas city officials had not discussed participating in library improvements.

Commissioner Ikie Rupard suggested Mrs. Conley set priorities for basement renovation.

"Unless we get revenue sharing re-enacted, you better not make any definite plans," County Auditor Virginia Black warned. Prospects for the federal program continuing don't "look good now," Mrs. Black said.

All the revenue sharing funds for this year have been appropriated, Mrs. Black said.

Kenneth R. Johnson, chairman of a proposed Jaycee Air Show at Howard County Airport, won approval for holding the event May 30 or June 6. While the Jaycee membership here still must approve the event, Johnson promised liability insurance to cover spectators would be purchased if the show is held.

Plans to prohibit parking on two adjoining county roads were discussed.

Displays, aerobatics demonstrations, a parachute jump and spectator-participation events are planned.

In other business, the court:

Heard County Engineer Neel Barnaby tell about receiving concrete and corrugated pipe worth an estimated $1,500 from Webb Air Force Base.

And considered advertising a second time for bids on cooling tower and roof repairs. On Dec. 15, the court tabled the only bid of $12,400 for repair of the air conditioning tower. Eddie Harper, superintendent of courthouse maintenance, mentioned water leaking onto the third floor.

Shootings, auto wrecks take toll of Texans

By The Associated Press

At least 17 persons died of violence in Texas during the weekend, including nine in traffic accidents.

The Associated Press fatality count, which began at 6 p.m. Friday and ended at midnight Sunday, also listed four shootings, one stabbing and two fire deaths.

Among the victims were:

Harvey Ray Coufal, 21, of Wharton and an unidentfied man were killed Sunday night in a three-vehicle collision on U.S. 59 near El Campo in South Texas.

David F. Gonzales, 40, of Lubbock was shot to death Saturday night outside a club in northeast Lubbock.

Among the victims were:

Roy R. Housman, 54, was robbed and slain Sunday while at his Dallas furniture store to care for a pet bird. Police reported his hands and feet were bound and he was shot several times in the back of the head.

Police said James Buthram was shot between the eyes and left in an Odessa alley Saturday night. He died several hours after emergency surgery. Officers charged Marvin Junior Wright, 20, of Odessa with murder.

Two persons were killed Saturday night in a head-on collision on U.S. 190 at Point Blank, near Livingston in East Texas. They were Fred M. Boggs, 51, of Point Blank and Olin Dee Fuller, 45, of Houston.

Marjorie Toalson, 47, died in a Saturday morning fire at her home in Irving after saving her two children and her mother, firemen said. After the family was safely out of the house, Mrs. Toalson apparently tried to call the fire department from the kitchen and was trapped in the blaze.

Cheryl Irene Fowler, 23, of Deer Park was killed Saturday on Farm Road 226 six miles south of Nacogdoches when her small car clipped a traffic sign and rolled over twice. The driver escaped with minor injuries.

The mutilated body of Eddie Young Jr. was found Saturday in his mother-in-law's front yard at Houston. Officers said it bore hatchet cuts in the face and chest.

Alfonso Castro, 32, a Houston waiter, was killed Saturday when the bicycle he was riding was struck by a car on a Houston highway.

John Fox, 16, was killed Saturday when his car overturned in the Dallas suburb of Carrollton.

'Bottle mail' makes it in five years

CINCINNATI (AP) — Five years ago, Patrick Sandfoss put a note in a bottle and threw it into the Ohio River. Last month, he received a letter telling him the note had been read — in Scotland.

The letter got to Sandfoss in Erlanger, Ky., on Jan. 30. It was postmarked "Port Charlotte, Isle of Islay" in western Scotland, 6,800 miles away.

"My wife and children were walking on the shore of the west coast of this island today, 17 January 1976, when they found a bottle with a note in it," wrote James L. Bain.

"The note gave your address and bore the words, 'Dropped this note in the Ohio River June 10, 1971.'

"For a bottle to travel such a vast distance and stay afloat such a long time in the sea must be rare, if indeed not some kind of a record."

Bain asked Sandfoss to write back if his letter reached him.

The bottle was probably dropped while Sandfoss was fishing on his uncle's boat, said Mrs. Sandfoss. But the family is not sure.

"It was five years ago and you forget about things like that. You figure it's not going to go anyplace," she said.

Mrs. Sandfoss said her husband has put bottled messages in the river before, but this was the first one ever was answered.

"You know how people will drop bottles in the river thinking someone will pick it up down a ways — but Scotland? I guess it went down to the Gulf of Mexico and took off from there."

The bottle had to travel down the Ohio to the Mississippi River, past New Orleans into the Gulf and west and north across the Atlantic.

Speech, debate team prospers

The Big Spring speech and debate teams tied for sweepstakes honors at the Monahans Invitational Tournament Saturday, according to Miss Janice Cook, coach of the team.

Teams entered included Andrews, Alpine, Denver City, Fort Stockton, Kermit, Imperial, Pecos, and Rankin. Big Spring tied with Denver City for total points with Kermit second and Pecos third.

Joe Millaway of Big Spring placed first in persuasive speaking with James Burleson of Big Spring collecting second. In debate, Pecos won first and Big Spring's team of Mary John Cherry and Donny Knight placed second.

After four rounds of debate, there were four undefeated teams including a second Big Spring team of Steve Hughes and Marty Latta as well as the Knight-Cherry team. The one losing round by Big Spring was lost by one speaker point.

Another Big Spring debate team includes David McKenzie and Woodie Howell. In prose reading, Jamie Petty made the finals and placed. The other local prose entry is James Williams.

In poetry interpretation, Robin von Rosenburg made the finals and placed. Tish Tyler and Sean Grothwol also entered poetry reading.

Topics which won the persuasive event for Millaway and Burleson included "Should C. I. A. Be Exposed?" and "Should the U. S. Intercede in the Lebanese Civil War?"

Big Spring received a sweepstakes trophy with Millaway receiving an individual trophy and the debate team receiving medals for second place.

The next tournament will be Feb. 6-7 in Brownwood.

Accused Miranda killer read rights

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A Mexican alien has been charged with murder and his companion was being sought today in the slaying of Ernesto Miranda, whose appeal of a 1963 arrest forced police to recognize the constitutional rights of suspects.

Miranda, 34, namesake of the widely-known "Miranda Warning," was stabbed to death Saturday night in a struggle over a knife in a skid row bar. The struggle broke out after a fight over a $2 card game.

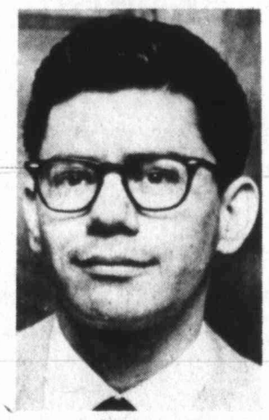

Police said Miranda was stabbed twice as he returned to the barroom after washing his hands, bloodied in a fistfight with the two men.

The man still being sought fled the bar after the fight. He was believed to have been the person who wielded the knife that killed Miranda, police said.

In custody was Fernando Rodriguez Zamora, 23, an illegal Mexican immigrant, who was arrested at a bar about two blocks away shortly after the stabbing. He was charged with murder, but police said the legal degree of the murder charge was not determined.

Miranda, who had been in and out of trouble most of his adult life, became nationally known in 1966 when the U.S. Supreme Court overturned his 1963 conviction for rape and kidnap on grounds the arresting officers failed to advise him of certain rights guaranteed under the U.S. Constitution.

As a result of that court decision, law enforcement officers now carry cards bearing the "Miranda Warning" to inform suspected criminals of their rights to remain silent and to free legal counsel.

ERNESTO MIRANDA

One of those cards was used to read Zamora his rights in English and Spanish.

Warm day is ideal tonic

City parks were overflowing yesterday as the first spring-like Sunday in several months hit the scene.

Moss Creek Park announced an overflow crowd of 1,062 persons fishing, picnicking and sunning Sunday for an all-time high in February of any year.

Comanche Trail Park was also filled with the golf course, tennis courts, the tennis courts at Figure Seven and most of the picnic table areas filled Sunday afternoon.

The ground hog announced Monday that there will be six more weeks of winter, but there was no sign of it Sunday in Big Spring.

Leavitt speaker to graduates

Speaker for the Webb AFB Undergraduate Pilot Training (UPT) Class 76-01 graduation at 6 p.m. today will be Maj. Gen. Lloyd R. Leavitt Jr., commander of Chanute Technical Training Center, Chanute AFB, Ill.

The ceremony will be in the Chapel with a reception following in the Officers' Open Mess.

General Leavitt is a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point with a bachelor of science degree in engineering. He has a master's degree in public administration from the George Washington University and is a graduate of the National War College.

He has served as a fighter and bomber pilot as well as a pilot with the U-2 organization at Del Rio, Tex. During the Korean War he flew 100 combat missions in F-84 aircraft. While in Southeast Asia in 1970 he flew 152 combat missions, the majority in F-4s.

His bomber experience came during '61 and '62 when he completed training in the B-52H and was subsequently assigned to the 379th Bombardment Wing at Wurtsmith AFB, Mich.

Another overseas tour took him to Germany in '67 where he was assistant deputy commander for Operations of the 36th Tactical Fighter Wing and later director of Readiness Inspection for the Inspector General of the USAF in Europe.

Gen. Leavitt served with Headquarters USAF in the office of the Deputy Chief of Staff, Plans and Operations, as an operations officer. He returned in '71 as Deputy Director for Strike Forces in the Directorate of Operations. He later became Deputy Director of Operations (Regional Operations) in the Organization of Joint Chiefs of Staff. From there he went to his present assignment in July 1974.

VFW post will meet Tuesday

Regular meeting of the VFW Post 2013 and its auxiliary will be held at the post home on Driver Road Tuesday night at 7:30 p.m.

'Mendocino Rose' wages war on Russian whalers

MENDOCINO, Calif. (AP) — The sultry voice of "Mendocino Rose," speaking Russian amid the crackling static of marine radio, is a weapon in a war being waged by this ecology-minded town against Soviet and Japanese whalers.

"Hello, Soviet whalers. This is Octobriana, speaking to you from the former imperial Russian Colony in California."

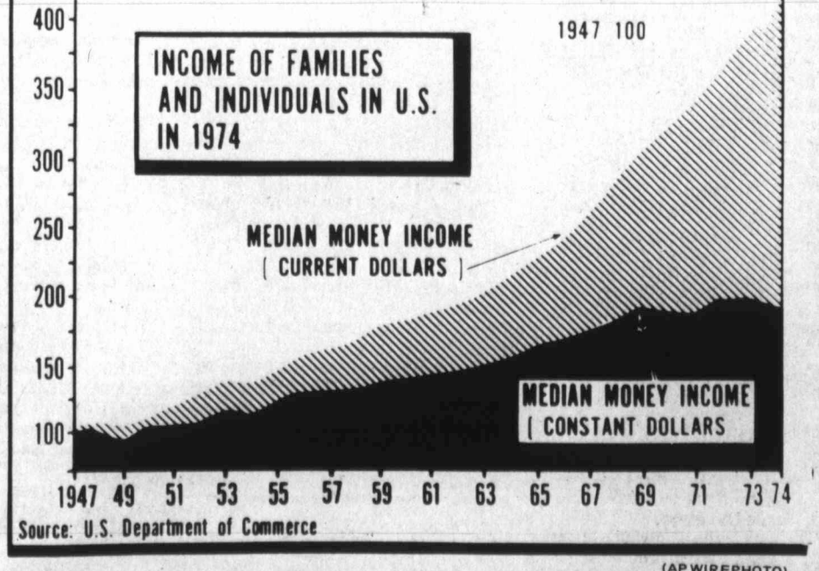

The Russian-born Californian is known as "Mendocino Rose" — a takeoff on World War II's "Tokyo Rose."

"Mendocino Rose," who declines to be identified because she fears for relatives in Russia, appeals to Soviet sailors to end their slaughter of California gray and sperm whales and defect to the United States. She offers the sailors food, housing and training for other industries in the United States.

Located on wind-carved coastal bluffs about 150 miles north of San Francisco, this town of less than 1,000 residents decided to unleash "Rose" and boycott Japanese-made goods after sighting a Russian whaler off the coast here six months ago.

"We are not against anybody, but we have to save God's whales," said Byrd Baker, 52, a wood sculptor and a warrior in the war.

CONSUMER INCOME

(AP WIREPHOTO)

REAL INCOME REMAINS SAME — The Census Bureau confirmed Saturday that increased earnings of American families in recent years have not made them any better off. American families in 1974 had about the same real income as they did in 1969, even though the dollar amount of earnings rose substantially, the Census Bureau study said. A 4 per cent drop in real income occurred in 1974, the biggest single drop for any year that the Census Bureau has been keeping records, starting in 1947.

NCOs tackle three projects

When NCO Leadership School Class 76-F graduated recently, they completed not only 19 days of hard academic study but also three additional projects to help the community.

The 13 members of the class spent approximately 42 extra hours each in doing the projects, according to class leader SSgt. Jerry Doyle of Field Maintenance Squadron.

During those 546 extra hours, the class repaired pews in the base chapel; helped fix up a house for Monsignor Andy Marthaler, the new chaplain at the Veterans and State Hospitals; and held a recreational fund drive and party for the Big Spring Nursing Home.

"The VA and State Hospitals are sort of like Monsignor Marthaler's parish," explains Sgt. Doyle. "And since he didn't have anyone else to help him out, we decided to chip in." The class helped prepare a room for a chapel in the priest's house, painted all the woodwork in the house and were working on building an altar for the chapel.

The class' major community service project was to help the nursing home. They threw a party complete with refreshments, entertainment and games for the home on Goliad Street. They also collected $160 for the home's recreation fund.

Officers here to take man

Law officers were expected today to remove Rennie Ray Patterson from the city jail and take him back to Elberton, Ga. to face four charges on check forgery.

Patterson was arrested at the American Motel Friday afternoon by City Detective Avery Falkner, Sgt. Bob Dugan and two patrolmen.

He was accompanied by his wife and six-months-old baby. Her parents came from Georgia to take them home.

Possum looks for warm spot

Edison Taylor, 1308 Pennsylvania, called police Sunday when he discovered a possum in his garage.

A city patrolman removed the possum and took it to the animal shelter. It is unusual to find possums this far north in the winter months.

Deaths

Dugan Carlton

Dugan W. Carlton Jr., 56, died at the Veterans Administration Hospital at 8:35 a.m. Saturday.

Justice of the Peace Gus Ochotorena Jr. ruled death due to a brain tumor.

Clinton Alan Nix, month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Nix Sr. of Big Spring, died at a local hospital Sunday morning after a sudden illness. Services will be at 3:30 p.m. today at Nalley-Pickle Rosewood Chapel.

The Rev. Eddie Thibodeaux, pastor of East 4th Street Baptist Church, will officiate. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Survivors include his parents; three brothers, Thomas Nix, Weldon Nix, Jr. and Kevin Nix, all of Big Spring; two sisters, Darla Jo Nix and Cassandra Lynette Nix, both of Big Spring; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Nix and Mr. and Mrs. James Edwards, all of Big Spring; and great-grandparents, Mrs. M. C. Patterson, Mrs. J. B. Edwards, Mrs. Lula Nix and S. P. Huitt, all of Big Spring.

Ernest White

E. A. (Ernest) White, 77, a rancher and former resident of Big Spring, died noon Sunday in his residence in Eastland.

Mr. White lived most of his life in Eastland except for a period in the early 1960s when he resided in Big Spring. During this time, his wife, Mrs. Elba White, taught at Howard College.

Among the survivors are two nieces, Mrs. Earl Trout and Mrs. J. W. Phillips, both of Big Spring.

Hawiian Open

Texan in 2nd straight

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

HONOLULU (AP) — There were two years of struggle, occasional temper tantrums and galling frustration so severe he even considered leaving the tour.

But Ben Crenshaw, a Texas grad, weathered it. He stuck it out. He worked at his trade.

And, almost three years after he hit the pro golf tour with such incredible impact, he's reached his maturity.

"I think he is coming up on the Ben Crenshaw we were expecting," said Hale Irwin, beaten by Gentle Ben in the stretch drive for the title in the Hawaiian Open. "I think he has realized his maturity. I think he will carry on into the upper levels of the game."

Crenshaw's final round, six-under-par 66 Sunday lifted him to his second consecutive tour title and re-established him as one of the game's brightest young stars — a role he held three years back, then surrendered in his times of struggle.

He won it by a comfortable four strokes with a 270 total, 18 under par and a record on the 7,219-yard Waialae Country Club course. The victory was worth $46,000 from the total purse of $230,000, set him up as the year's leading money-winner with $88,680, put him in the World Series of Golf and made him the first golfer of the season to win consecutive tournaments.

He'd won the Bing Crosby just the week before, following the same come-from-behind formula. In each tournament, he was three shots back going into the final round.

He made up most of that with a front-nine 31, five under par, took the lead to stay with a 12-foot birdie putt on the 10th hole and nailed it down when he picked up four strokes over Irwin in a four-hole stretch starting on the 12th.

Irwin, bothered by a heavy cold all week, finished with a 73 and tied unheralded Larry Nelson for second at 274. Nelson had a last-round 69.

U.S. Open champion Lou Graham, Charles Coody, Al Geiberger and Mike Morley followed at 275. Morley had a closing 66, Graham 68, Coody 69 and Geiberger 71.

Bob Murphy, who shared the lead at times over the first nine holes, bogeyed five of six holes coming home. He finished with a 74 and was tied at 276 with a group that included Lee Trevino, who shot four consecutive 69s. Arnold Palmer, who came so close to victory in this tournament a year ago, never really got in the chase this time. He had a final 71 and 279.

VICTORY LANE — Peter Gregg (L) of Jacksonville and his co-driver Brian Redman of Cargrave, England, hold their trophy in a rain-soaked victory lane at Daytona Speedway Sunday. The two won the 24-hour endurance race in a BMW. It was the third straight win for Gregg in this event.

Water zaps time warp

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Time stood still Sunday for Brian Redman and Peter Gregg. In fact, it even reversed itself by 72 minutes.

The gerrymandering of the race clock, a 3-hour, 49-minute cessation of competition and a suspected case of sabotage were the ingredients of Gregg's unprecedented third straight overall victory and the first for Redman in one of the strangest 24 Hours of Daytona endurance races ever.

The race clock was stopped during the event, for the first time in its 15-year history, at 10:12 a.m. Sunday when four of the front-running cars, including the race leading Gregg-Redman BMW CSL, sputtered to a halt with watered gasoline in their tanks.

Officials decided the problem was more than a case of unfortunate racing luck. An investigation located water in one of the compartments of a fuel truck that had serviced pit road just after daybreak.

At 9:01 a.m., the leader had routinely pitted for more fuel— and that's when the trouble began.

As the crews battled furiously to purge all the moisture from the porous, foam-filled gas tanks, the second-place Porsche Carrera of John O'Steen, John Graves and Dave Helmick began to chip away at the BMW's 16-lap advantage.

But the challenger also pitted for fuel, encountering the same problem. Finally, with the Carrera of Jim Busby and Hurley Haywood, Gregg's co-driver in the last two 24 Hours races, bearing down on the lead, officials of the sanctioning International Motor Sports Association blew the whistle.

During the delay, all fuel tanks were flushed and fresh gasoline was trucked in from Jacksonville, 70 miles away.

A spokesman for Union Oil Co., supplier of the 104 octane racing gasoline in all cars, said an investigation was underway to determine where the water had come from.

"It was probably sabotage, I know of no other logical explanation. The water didn't just suddenly appear. Someone had to put it in there," said one official, who asked not to be identified. "But we'll probably never be able to find out who did it."

The race was resumed at 12:49, with the official clocks turned back to 9 a.m., just before the trouble started. That restored the BMW's 16-lap lead over the runnerup and 26 laps over third and fourth.

The winners covered 2,093 miles, or 545 laps around the 3.84-mile Daytona International Speedway road course, at an average speed of 104.04 miles per hour, short of any records. The final two hours were run in an almost continual downpour, with a tornado watch posted for the area.

The official victory margin for Gregg and Redmond was nearly 15 laps over the Carrera of Al Holbert and Claude Ballot-Lena, which had a 45-minute stop to replace an engine early Sunday. One lap back was the Busby-Haywood Carrera.

CLEVELAND — Pakistan's Haroon Rahim upset top-seeded Alex Metreveli of Russia 6-4, 6-4 to win the $15,000 National Tennis Foundation Tournament.

TORONTO — Rick Dudley of the Cincinnati Stingers was suspended for two games for an altercation with an offical.

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. — Former Assistant Athletic Director William Cobey, Jr. was appointed athletic director at the University of North Carolina.

Hall of Fame

Three selected

NEW YORK (AP) — Fred Lindstrom, a .311 lifetime hitter; Roger Connor, who played before 1900, and former umpire Cal Hubbard were named to baseball's Hall of Fame today.

The Veterans' Committee unanimously approved their selection.

Those under consideration by the committee had to be retired as players for at least 25 years and must have competed for at least 10 major league seasons. Executives, managers and umpires must be retired for at last five years to come under consideration.

The three men selected today will be inducted into the Hall of Fame Aug. 9 at Coopestown, N.Y., along with former pitching stars Robin Roberts and Bob Lemon, who were elected recently by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Lindstrom was a standout third baseman-outfielder for the New York Giants from 1924 through 1931. He also played with the Pittsburgh Pirates, Chicago Cubs and Brooklyn Dodgers.

Lindstrom, 70, who now lives in Port Richey, Fla., includes among his achievements four hits in a single game in the 1924 World Series. He also got five hits in a game three times during the 1930 season and was the youngest man ever to play in a World Series when he appeared in the 1924 classic at the age of 18.

Connor, a native of Waterbury, Conn., who died Jan. 4, 1931, was a first baseman in the National League, the New York Giants and with Philadelphia and St. Louis. He played from 1880-1897 and had a lifetime batting average of .325. He also managed St. Louis in the National League in 1896 and was manager-owner of the Springfield club in Connecticut in 1902.

HC after win in Midland tonight

The Howard College Hawks travel to Midland tonight for their third straight road contest. Tonight's battle is a big game for both squads. Howard and Midland are tied for fifth in the Western Conference one game behind the fourth spot — the cut-off mark for tournament qualifiers.

Whichever team loses tonight won't be mathimatically eliminated, but any realistic chance for post season action will be snuffed out. After tonight the Hawks will have seven games remaining on the schedule, four with contending teams.

Those four games are all at the end, two at home and two on the road. The Hawks meet Frank Phillips and South Plains in the Hawk gym and they travel to Amarillo and Snyder (versus Western Texas).

The Hawks' next home game is Thursday against Odessa College.

LOOSE BALL BATTLE — Texas Tech's Rudy Liggins (32) battles University of Houston's David Marrs (50) for a loose ball in the first half of the Southwest Conference game at Houston Saturday night. Texas Tech's Steve Dunn (21) and Grady Newton (23) keep an eye on the action. Tech took control of the loose ball only to loose it on a walking foul.

Huskies hold top scorer scoreless

Washington, 17-1 and tied for the Pac-8 Conference lead with Oregon State and UCLA, each with 4-1 records, used James Edwards' 19 points and a tight defense that held Washington State's leading scorer, Ron Davis, without a field goal in beating the Cougars. North Carolina State, 14-3, squeezed past oft-beaten Virginia on Phil Spence's follow-up shot just before the final buzzer. Spence wound up with 14 points, while Kenny Carr led the Wolfpack with 19.

Tennessee took over undisputed possession of first place in the Southeastern Conference with a 7-1 record and lifted its over-all record to 14-2, downing Alabama with the help of Bernard King's 37 points and Ernie Grunfeld's 20. UCLA, 15-3, gained a share of the Pac-8 lead and posted its 95th consecutive home court victory, holding off Southern Cal.

Missouri, 17-2 over-all and the Big Eight leader, remained unbeaten in conference play, subduing Nebraska as Willy Smith scored 28 points and Jim Kennedy collected all of his 19 points in the second half. John Farmer's 24 points and 13 rebounds, substitute Cecil Rellford's 19 points and Beaver Smith's 18 points and 10 rebounds carried St. John's, 16-2, past stubborn Army.

Michigan, 13-4, received a big lift from its bench and overcame Iowa despite 36 points by the Hawkeyes' Bruce King and 30 by Scott Thompson. Robert Miller's 21 points paced Cincinnati to its rout over George Washington, increasing the Bearcats' record to 15-3 and their home-court winning streak to 44.

Centenary, 17-3, got 32 points from 7-foot Robert Parish and 28 from Nate Bland in crushing Houston Baptist. Reggie Ramay's 18 points keyed West Texas State to its 14th triumph in 17 games, over Drake.

Meanwhile, top-ranked Indiana rolled over Wisconsin 114-61; No. 2 Marquette trounced Chicago Loyola 85-69; fourth-rated North Carolina downed Clemson 79-64; Washington, ranked sixth, defeated Washington State, 75-65;

Hole-in-one

Don Stone, of Big Spring, playing in a foursome on the Webb AF Base course used a wedge to sink a hole-in-one on number 13. His playing partners were Bob Clark, Don Minyard and Mike Smothers.

SWC basketball

Three-way race

Some folks don't think the Southwest Conference basketball race will be settled until Valentine's Day when Texas Tech takes on the Texas Aggies in that place you wouldn't want to visit and play basketball—G. Rollie White Coliseum in College Station.

But the SWC chase is no longer a two-team affair. Permit Southern Methodist a dissenting vote in this election year.

The Aggies and Red Raiders rolled along Saturday night doing what they do best—winning in the clutch. A&M nicked Texas Christian courtesy of Karl Godine's 20-foot jump shot at the buzzer 66-64 and Tech rode Rick Bullock's three free throws to a 57-54 victory over Houston.

A&M is 7-1 and Tech 7-2.

Southern Methodist remained only a furlong or so to the rear with a solid 82-76 thumping of Arkansas. That gives the Mustangs a 7-3 record and Tech and A&M both must come calling at SMU's homecourt.

"We're definitely shooting for the championship again," announced SMU guard Mike Jaccar. "The schedule favors us."

SMU Coach Sonny Allen pointed to A&M's Feb. 10 visit and Texas Tech's Feb. 21 trip.

"I'll bet neither team is looking forward to it," said Allen.

More than 9,000 fans gave Arkansas a rowdy reception Saturday night which included such imaginative items being tossed on the court as a tennis ball, and chewing gum.

Baylor still has an outside chance with a 6-4 record after defeating Baylor 78-63.

"We'll have to win the rest of them," said Baylor Coach Carroll Dawson.

All four conference contenders are home Tuesday night. Texas Tech hosts Arkansas, Baylor entertains Texas Christian, Rice is at SMU and Texas is at Texas A&M.

If there was such a thing as a Coach of the Week medal, it would have to go to Texas Tech assistant George Davidson, who handled the Red Raiders in Houston while head coach Gerald Myers suffered at home by the radio with the flu.

"I got the word about 4 p.m. that Gerald wouldn't be here," said Davidson. "That was quite an experience. I've been a head coach before but I had more notice."

Houston Coach Guy Lewis tested Davidson's mettle with a stall but it backfired.

"I thought they might be just trying to get us out of our zone but when they were still in it with two minutes to play, I started wondering," said Davidson.

At that point Myers' abed with the flu was probably better off than Davidson on the Red Raider bench with a churning stomach.

It's been that way all year and now suddenly with SMU's revival three's a crowd.

Midlander wins LPGA

MIAMI (AP) — Judy Rankin might be one of the tiniest players on the women's golf tour, but she's the only one who kept her game together during winds which gusted to 45 miles per hour — and it meant $5,700.

"I don't suppose I've ever played in winds harder than that," the 5-foot-3 blonde from Midland, Tex., said Sunday after shooting a one-under-par 71 for a winning 54-hole total of 213.

"I don't keep the ball superlow. But I think I kept my head, understood what the wind was going to do and chose the right clubs."

She was the only woman in the Ladies Professional Golf Association field of 60 not to fall apart in the cold and rain at the 5,670-yard Kendale Lakes Golf and Country Club course.

She was three shots ahead of runnerup Pat Bradley, who closed with 74. Saturday co-leaders Jane Blalock and Kathy Whitworth soared to 76 and 77, respectively, to end up third and fourth at 217 and 218.

False health alarms

The Federal Aviation Administration is reconsidering the use of a new device that warns pilots when they are dangerously close to the ground. The gadget activates a red light and a recording that says "pull up! pull up!"

The FAA says there have been "an unacceptably high number of false alarms." So pilots tend to ignore the warning even when it should be taken seriously.

Perhaps it's time to re-examine the nation's health warning system (or lack of system) for the same reason — too many false alarms.

Only a scientific genius could sort through the dozens of health and safety warnings now in fashion and determine which should be taken seriously and which should not.

Just recently, a panel of scientists organized at the request of the Food and Drug Administration has decided that cyclamate, the artificial sweetener, is not a strong cancer-causing agent as was feared in 1969 when FDA took it off the market. Fine. But in the years since 1969, people who cannot or, for various reasons, should not eat sugar have been denied the use of an acceptable substitute.

Also, scientists are seriously questioning earlier warnings that birth control pills may be responsible for serious health problems. These scientists say that only a tiny percentage of women react unfavorably to the pill — no more than might react unfavorably to aspirin.

But meanwhile, thousands of women have been scared out of using the most effective and most convenient form of birth control.

We don't know the answer to the health warning problem. But we do know that the present Ralph Nader approach of shooting from the hip and getting the facts later doesn't work very well.

Doggy diplomacy

From Pelham, N. Y., comes word that the case of the diplomat's dog has been peacefully settled. There won't be a war, or even an international incident, after all.

The dispute began when the town authorities of Pelham threatened to destroy an ill-tempered Alsatian shepherd watchdog owned by Barbados' Ambassador Waldo Emerson Waldron-Ramsey. His Excellency replied with a threat of his own.

Touch one hair on the head of his dog, the ambassador warned the town council, and there would be "international repercussions." The dog, said the ambassador, enjoyed diplomatic immunity.

Eventually, Waldron-Ramsey was called home, allowing his temper time to cool. In the meantime, the Pelham town fathers decided to give the pooch a reprieve. America's peaceful relations with the 240,000 citizens of Barbados once again appears secure.

Now that the danger is eased, one might even find a little comfort in the international dog squabble.

There is something reassuring in this age of nuclear threats, reprisal raids and terrorist campaigns that statesmen can still find time to argue over pet control.

We take it as a sign that the dangers to world peace and order can't be quite as great as the headlines seem to indicate.

But don't dismiss this bit of doggy diplomacy as something unimportant or frivolous.

In a 1975 survey, Mayors across the country were asked: "What do citizens frequently complain about?"

The number one complaint, mentioned by more than 60 per cent of the Mayors, was: "Dog and other pet control problems."

Man's best friend?

Around the rim

Tommy Hart

A little bit of comment about a lot of things:

The Johnny Horizon people say that if you want your kids to have roots in your community, and learn about ecology, encourage them to adopt a tree.

ACCORDING TO Dr. Robert Schneider, director of the Neoplasm Registry at the University of California's School of Veterinary Medicine, larger incomes, increased leisure time and movement to the suburbs have been partly responsible for the increased demand for pets. The canine population increased by 85.4 per cent between 1960 and 1970, in two counties in California, whereas the human population grew by only 23.5 per cent in the same ten-year period.

Incidentally, last year, animal shelters in the United States destroyed over 13 million dogs and cats. Why weren't they placed in homes? The blunt truth is, nobody wanted them.

★★★

It's a rather chilling statistic: Some 32,000 Texans will get cancer this year. Regrettably, most of them won't respond to the danger until it is too late.

The Carvel Corp., which specializes in the retail sale of ice cream, will expand into Texas in the next few months. The firm is the largest of its kind in the country. Each of the stores manufactures its own ice cream.

An insurance firm suggests that a few hours of the parents' time spent with a youngster prior to the opening of school can help make school days safe and pleasant, rather than a nightmare. The parents should take the time to visit the school with a first-time pupil, the insurance firm suggests. The child will then feel more comfortable on the first day of classes because he has already been there with his parents.

White Sands, N.M., which covers 300 miles, must be one of the strangest deserts in the world. It is not sand at all but 95 per cent pure gypsum. Red lakes usually appear there in October. Later, the lakes turn milky, then become clear. It's a phenonomen that, thus far, has defied explanation.

In July of last year, there were more electric meters in Big Spring but fewer gas and water meters than in the previous month.

Stump your mate with this question: Ask him or her to name the rivers that form parts of the Texas state boundary lines. In case you don't know, they're Red River (bordering on Oklahoma), Rio Grande (between Mexico and Texas) and the Sabine (between part of Texas and Louisiana).

My answer

Billy Graham

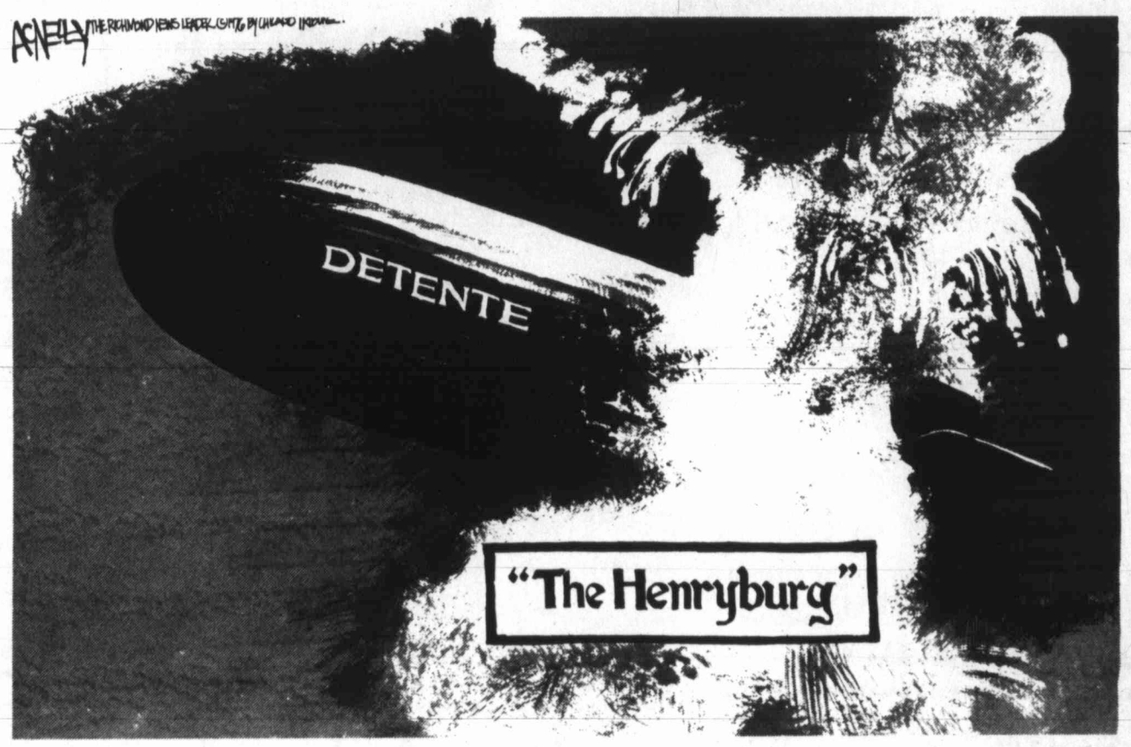

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: I understand from Scripture that God does not have a body. How then should we understand Genesis 1:27? If man was created in the image of God, would this not mean that God has a body? — S. E. F.

DEAR S. E. F.: Yes, the Bible teaches that "God is a Spirit" (John 4:24) and does not therefore have a physical body. The Bible also teaches that "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he them" (Gen. 1:27). The conclusion is clear that the image of God in man must be something other than man's physical body. Incidentally, one reason the Bible forbids idolatry is because God is not a physical being and therefore cannot be represented by something physical.

The image of God in man includes those aspects of man's being that are unique. Most theologians would include man's rationality (Col. 3:10) and man's moral and spiritual nature (Eph. 4:24).

The Bible, however, also teaches that the image of God in man has been blurred because of sin. Part of God's work in Jesus Christ is to restore the image to its original state (Romans 8:29).

While the Bible teaches that God does not have a physical body, it also teaches that God's Son became a man. God's love for us is so great that He sent His Son to die a physical death on the cross for our sins. As John's gospel says, "And the Word (Christ) was made flesh and dwelt among us, (and we beheld His glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father), full of grace and truth" (John 1:14).

EDITORIALS/OPINIONS

There are ways

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The powerful chairman of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., was marked for a full tax audit last Spring until he called Internal Revenue Commissioner Donald Alexander.

Once he spoke to Alexander about it, the audit was bobtailed and Ullman's tax forms were pronounced satisfactory. No additional tax was levied. The handling of Ullman varied dramatically from the thorough going-over most taxpayers get during an audit.

ULLMAN'S RETURNS were flagged by the computer under a formula which is supposed to spot unusual changes in income or deductions. Agents routinely notified him that he would be audited, which is usually a long, painful process.

As Ullman remembers it, he happened to call Alexander on an unrelated matter having to do with a lost or misplaced check. He mentioned in passing the audit of his 1974 returns.

The timing was coincidental, Ullman assured us. But since he had Alexander on the phone, as the Congressman tells it, he asked him whether the audit could be put off a short time. The Internal Revenue commissioner, who is beyond the telephone reach of ordinary taxpayers, quickly agreed to the brief postponement.

It would be a "totally false and erroneous impression" to imply he was pressuring Alexander, the Ways and Means chairman told us. "At that point, you couldn't have kept me from an audit at gunpoint," he said.

At Ullman's convenience, Alexander personally arranged for two agents to drop by the Congressman's Capitol Hill office. According to Ullman, "they dragged out all the books and receipts. They went through them carefully. All was in order."

He said the agents made two, possibly three visits to look at his papers. Ordinarily, an audit involves many more visits, exhaustive questions and harrowing inspections.

IN MY OWN case, my books were also in order, nevertheless, agents spent a full year investigating my returns. Of course, this treatment may have been a little extreme, since I was high on then-President Richard Nixon's enemies list and was also subjected to 11 separate Pentagon investigations, illegal CIA surveillance, FBI snooping, poison plots and other Nixon routines.

Both Ullman and Alexander professed to be scandalized at the very thought that Ullman might have received special treatment merely because he writes the tax legislation which Alexander administers.

But apparently, Alexander was equally solicitous toward Sen. Joseph Montoya, D-N-M., chairman of the Senate subcommittee which oversees Internal Revenue. Alexander reportedly blocked at least five efforts to audit Montoya's returns.

Treasury Secretary William Simon investigated Alexander's handling of Montoya's tax case and forwarded his findings to the Justice Department which has decided Alexander at least didn't violate the law.

Unlike Ullman, we were unable to reach Alexander on the telephone. Instead, his special assistant Glynn called back. He said it was "ridiculous" to suggest Alexander would grant a tax favor to Ullman or anyone else and made a veiled threat against us if we reported otherwise.

FOOTNOTE TO HISTORY: During the years that Richard Nixon misused the Internal Revenue Service, hundreds of employes retired in silent disgust.

The exodus was headed by Commissioner Randolph Thrower, himself, who resigned in 1971 for reasons that he said were "between me and the President." His successor, Johnnie Walters, also didn't last long.

Before Nixon began using the IRS to harass his enemies, the number of retirees ran about 1,400 a year. But in 1971, the year of the enemies list, the number jumped to 2,046.

In 1972, anohter 2,281 retired, and in 1973, the number hit 2,308. But after Nixon resigned in 1974, the number of retirees dropped back down to 1,625.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: Less than 20 miles from where the rare Siberian smew was recently seen by birdwatchers, a planned wildlife preserve is threatened by the Narragansett Electric Company and the General Services Administration. Chairman John Dingell, D-Mich., of the House Energy and Power subcommittee has privately written heads of several agencies charging GSA with pressuring the Interior Department to turn the proposed refuge land over to the power company.

— The Justice Department has quietly dropped an assault case against Edward Failor, a $37,800-a-year Commerce Department bigwig and former member of the White House "attack group" which plotted strategy against Democrats in 1972. Failor was called before an assistant U.S. Attorney by his former girlfriend, a young Capitol Hill aide, who claimed he beat her so badly she had to seek emergency treatment. Failor told us he only "slapped her a couple of times." Justice insists the case was handled routinely.

Take your pick, fuss

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — About the only thing the following items have in common is that they fall into the category of provocative economic commentary, almost guaranteed to disrupt the polite conversation at any social affair.

The first is by Albert H. Cox, Jr., the chief economist of Lionel D. Edie & Co., the economic consulting arm of Merrill Lynch, the nation's biggest broker:

"Bear in mind, of those in the 'hardship' unemployment category (out of work 15 weeks or more, some 3.1 per cent of the total labor force), a heavy portion are receiving substantial unemployment benefits for as long as 65 weeks.

"In the opinion of some economic observers, including Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve, such lengthy benefits may actually contribute to 'unemployment' by reducing the incentive to work.

"Thus we may be seeing a vicious cycle wherein unemployment leads to higher unemployment benefits, which lead to higher unemployment, yet higher benefits, etc.

"This could involve a minor part of the labor force now but it could become much more than that."

Next, John Wright, head of Wright Investors' Service, a company that advises on the handling of hundreds of millions of dollars and which is dedicated to analysis based on numbers rather than hunches:

"The current level of stock market pricing, despite the big improvement during the last 13 months, is still far below 'normal,' no matter how 'normal' may be computed.

"In terms of current earnings, price-earnings ratios at 12.6 to 1 are close to the averages of their annual lows, not highs, during the last 10 years.

"More significantly, they are even lower in terms of prospective 1976 earnings, since corporate earnings this year are expected to be at least 12 per cent above last year's rate."

But Business Week Magazine asks "Is the market heading for a correction?" and offers this reminder on what it says is a recovery less than totally robust:

"Autos sales have plateaued at a seasonally adjusted 7.8 million a year. Housing starts have slipped to a seasonally adjusted 1.3 million, and permits are running substantially lower.

"Capital spending is now expected to decline 4 per cent in real terms, and weekly retail sales, after the Commerce Department's little-noticed downward adjustment of Jan. 15 are less than 1 per cent above those of last summer.

Mental disorder drug

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I hope you can relieve some of my anxiety. My husband has been treated with lithium carbonate. He is deeply depressed and has been for many months.

How long does it take before signs of improvement are seen? What are the side effects of lithium carbonate? How does it work? What is it, and what is it supposed to do for the patient? How is the patient affected? Why does it help manic-depressives? — Mrs. I. R.

This drug has become popular in treating manic-depressives. You are wise to want to learn as much about it as possible, a good idea with regard to any medication.

Lithium is a naturally-occuring earth metal. In the form of lithium carbonate, it is present in very small amounts in the body as one of the "trace metals."

Years ago its therapeutic potential was tried in various ailments, such as arthritis and gout, but without success. Lithium fell into disrepute as a medicinal agent. About 15 years ago its value in mental illness was demonstrated — particularly for the manic-depressive state, which is characterized by wild up and down swings of the emotions. It is not effective, however, in schizophrenia, another mental disturbance, which can resemble manic-depression.

How is acts physically is unclear, but it has been shown that there are chemical derangements in mania and depression and that lithium apparently corrects this, thus minimizing the emotional swings.

The effects are rather rapid — a matter of seven to 10 days. Signs of improvement are a decrease in the hyperactive phase. When withdrawn, a relapse can occur, so in many cases prolonged therapy is required.

Side effects have been noted — chiefly a mild depression of thyroid gland activity, nausea, vomiting and occasionally skin rashes. Careful dosage control through monitoring of blood lithium levels is important.

In severe depression specific anti-depressant drugs are sometimes used along with the lithium.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 66 years old and have an undescended testicle. Recently I met a doctor who told me that it has to be cancerous by now. Is there any time limit within which it could become cancerous? He made no recommendations about what should be done. — A. T.

You shouldn't accept this casual (and unfortunate) remark made in an apparently informal conversation as a substitute for a diagnosis.

Cancer in an undescended testicle is rather rare, but the testicle should, nevertheless, be looked at. My consultant states that if the testicle is not tender and not enlarging, it could be left alone at your age. But it does require periodic evaluation.

To learn the major categories of prostate trouble — symptoms, treatment, how to speed recovery — read Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "The Pesky Prostate." For a copy write to him in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents.

Big Spring Herald

Mailbag

Dear Editor:

Being a relatively newcomer to Big Spring, I was very pleasantly surprised by the array of talent displayed in Campus Review '76.

Not only was I impressed by the talent of student performers, but also by the degree of professionalism exhibited by the entire production. Never have I seen such a professional touch in a high school production.

My compliments to the students in the production and their faculty advisors, and I might add, I'm looking forward with anticipation to Campus Review '77.

Dear Editor:

I read with interest, but more amazement, Marj Carpenter's account of my appearance at the City Council meeting Friday, and her rather confused accounting of what I presented in connection with the water rate increase.

In effect, what I presented were the true facts and figures of the amount such increase would benefit the City of Big Spring in revenue. To put it briefly, and so Marj can understand it, the figures on the chart given by the City Manager, Harry Nagel, to the City Council, were calculated on the increase with reference to some 8,620 meters in the City — briging in an increased revenue of some $272,461.20 — when the truth and in fact the 1975 Audit shows we have somewhere between 9,003 and 9,120 meters, all of which will bring in additional revenue.

Discounting the Big Spring State Hospital, and perhaps a very few others whose rates will not be affected, the number of meters not added into the increase falls somewhere between 387 and 500 meters — but such meters in this figure make up for some 33 per cent of the total revenue — which include, among other things, all apartment houses, motels, mobile home parks, business buildings, etc. Thus, my calculations are that the additional revenue to the City would be some $389,407.86 — somewhat more of a "cushion" than the City could justify to the citizens in light of the increase by CRMWD ($155,000.00) passed on to the City, and in turn increased and passed on to the people.

The City Manager pointing out that the City has gone five years without having to raise taxes, fails to see that increases in water and garbage rates is in effect an increase to the average citizen. Taken together with the recent raises given other utility companies, which have greatly increased everybody's utility rates — and such raises having been given and granted by the present City Council — it may not be an increase in ad valorem taxes, but it sure hits the pocket books of the people. I'm sure the increases in utilities has been felt and duly noted by everyone.

Now — this may not be plain to Mrs. Carpenter — but I feel sure the average citizen, trying to keep up with the rising rates of utilities on all sides, can understand it.

No leads in theft of 119 Picassos

AVIGNON, France (AP) — Police say they have only two "very thin" leads to three hooded men who stole 119 unsigned Picasso paintings from an exhibition of 201 late works by the artist in the 14th century Palace of the Popes.

It was one of the biggest thefts in art history.

The police said one of the three armed robbers had a Spanish accent, and a tourist reported seeing a rented white van in the vicinity at the time of the theft Saturday night.

The gunmen beat and bound three guards and loaded the paintings into a van in the palace courtyard, leaving 17 Picassos stacked by the stairs in their haste, officials said. One of the guards freed himself and called for help; the other two guards were seriously injured.

The paintings in the exhibit were produced by Picasso between September 1970 and June 1972 and were sent by him to Avignon to be shown a month before he died in April 1973 at the age of 91. They were unsigned because the artist customarily did not sign a work until he was ready to sell it.

The 201 paintings were insured for a total of $2.47 million, but police said they were worth more than that. Works from Picasso's later years have been valued at $50,000 to $100,000.

The thieves are expected to contact the insurance company and try to get the paintings ransomed.

Four fishermen lost in Gulf

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Coast Guard planes and boats searched early today for four fishermen from Texas lost in the Gulf of Mexico after their 23-foot boat drifted away from an oil rig in heavy seas and capsized.

A fifth fisherman was picked up after three hours in the water by a passing oil company boat, the Miss Rick, which relayed a belated distress signal to the Coast Guard.

A helicopter, a twin-engine aircraft, the 82-foot cutter Point Hope and other boats in the area continued a search through the night.

"We feel they're in the immediate area," a Coast Guard spokesman said Sunday night. "They can't have drifted too far.

"Two of them were last seen wearing life jackets, another was hanging onto a ice chest and the fourth man was trying to swim in seas of four to five feet. We've recovered two ice chests so far, and the search continues."

The Coast Guard also found the 23-foot fishing vessel floating nearby, but none of the fishermen had stayed with it.

The rescued man, Tonis Moustakelis, told the Coast Guard by radio that he had been fishing with Sam Pazlibis, Paul Pazlibis, Paul Kristohfer and Jak Iakodidis, all from the Houston area, about 35 miles southeast of Galveston when the boat capsized.

Because of high winds and heavy seas, small craft warnings had been posted most of the day for the northern Gulf.

Water temperatures were about 60 degrees in the area Sunday, and survival manuals estimate a 50 per cent chance of unconsciousness within two hours at that level.

In another incident, the 60-foot fishing trawler Gitano radioed that it was sinking almost in the middle of the Gulf of Mexico about noon Sunday with three men aboard.

The closest commercial vessel, the Mobil Endurance, was expected to arrive on the scene this morning.

As several ships in the area steamed to the rescue Sunday afternoon, the Coast Guard sent out a plane to drop two pumps to the Gitano, about 360 miles due south of Gulfport, Miss., to keep it afloat until help arrived.

Crop info talks set

Cotton and grain sorghum production and marketing will be discussed 10 a.m. Thursday in the Reddy Room at the Texas Electric Service Company, 409 Runnels St.

This is an effort of the Crops Subcommittee of Howard County Program Building Committee to furnish Howard County producers with the latest information on cotton and grain sorghum production and marketing.

Speakers on the program and the topics they will discuss include the following:

1. Kenneth Lindsey, area agronomist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Fort Stockton — cotton and grain sorghum varieties, cotton and grain sorghum fertilization, use of quality planting seed and weed control.

2. Charles Neeb, area entomologist, TAEX, Fort Stockton — county entomologist program, cotton and grain sorghum insects, leafhoppers, bollworm, green bug, surghum midge and beneficial insects.

3. George Philley, area plant pathologist, TAEX, Fort Stockton — cotton diseases, verticilluim wilt, fusaruim wilt and grain sorghum diseases.

4. Gary Condra, area economist-farm management, TAEX, Fort Stockton — cotton outlook, cotton futures, cotton marketing tools available, contracting, use of marketing information to make marketing decisions and grain sorghum outlook and contracting.

All producers and interested persons are invited to attend.

Atwood will be candidate

SNYDER — Bill Atwood Jr., a Snyder businessman, has filed for the 63rd state representative seat in the Texas Legislature now held by Mike Ezzell, also of Snyder.

Atwood is associated with his father in the Bill Atwood Construction Co., Inc., an oilfield construction firm.

The two will oppose each other in the May 1 Democratic primary election. Ezzell filed for re-election early in January.

Ripoff adds up

Firm pinches pennies

DALLAS (AP) — Some Dallas restaurants reportedly have designed a way that may reduce any future penny shortage while increasing the establishments' profits.

And, according to a Dallas Morning News article, it's being done at the expense of restaurant customers a few pennies at a time.

The article said many restaurants are rounding up, to the nearest nickel, the amount of sales tax charged on a customer's bill.

A recent dinner check from a highly publicized restaurant came to $4.25, the article reported. Twenty-five cents sales tax was then added. It should have been 22 cents.

"That's illegal," rejoined the customer. "The sales tax should be 22 cents."

"Well, this is a restaurant policy," said the waitress. "You'll have to pay the extra 3 cents. It's just too much trouble fooling with pennies. I don't have time to fool with this now. We're busy."

The restaurant was very busy indeed. It was estimated that it gives out 300 customer checks a day. At an average overcharge of 3 cents per check, the restaurant owner stands to clear $3,285 a year in overcharges, the newspaper reported.

The same restaurant corporation—which was not named in the story—owns five other restaurants in the city. Three of them were checked and they all overcharged on sales tax.

The waitress at the first restaurant adamantly refused to take 3 cents off the sales tax tab. Two other people at the same table noted they had been overcharged also, one for 3 cents, the others for 4 cents.

"You're going to have to abide by restaurant policy if you're going to eat here," the waitress said icily. "I'm not changing the check."

One customer said: "You overcharged me 4 cents. Why not lower the tax to 20 cents, rather than raise it to 25 cents? That way it's just a penny over."

"Because," snapped the waitress, growing impatient, "we'd lose money."

"I'm losing money," said the customer. "What's the difference. You don't send in the extra you're picking up to the sales tax people. You're keeping it. That's illegal."

The waitress, very flustered and very angry, finally changed the checks to the correct total.

The article also reported the waitresses raised their voices when discussing the subject, so that everyone in the restaurant would realize the customer was making a scene over a penny or two.

The restaurant management said "the girls (waitresses)" made the rounding-off policy on sales tax. "The girls" said it was restaurant policy.

Bill Collier of the State Comptroller's Office, which handles sales taxes, said his office had not been informed of such sales tax abuses. He said the question of legality has, therefore, never been raised. "But I would say it is not legal," he added.

Collier added: "We would like to see the practice get publicity so that people will let us know when a business tries to do this. That is the only way we can do anything about it."

Local club gets award

The Optimist Club of Big Spring was one of two clubs to win presidential citation awards at the second quarter board meeting of Optimist International's North Texas District at Abilene the past weekend. The conference extended three days.

The Breakfast Optimist Club of Abilene also received the award.

Optimist International President Patrick Grady of Indianapolis, Ind., and vice president Truman Evans of Arlington were among the 250 persons who attended the meeting, held at the Starlite Inn.

The Big Spring and Abilene clubs were lauded for their work with youths and in other activities.

David Hancock, Odessa, was presented the "Outstanding Lieutenant Governor Tray" by Grady.

The North Texas district encompasses more than half of the state and comprises 104 clubs.

Hearing to be held Feb. 9

E. L. Short (D-Tahoka), chairman of the House of Representatives Committee on Intergovernmental Affairs; and Ed. Mayes (D-Granbury), chairman of the Subcommittee on Local Government, have announced that a public hearing will be held by the Subcommittee in Brownfield, Texas Feb. 9. The hearing will be held in the Terry County Courthouse and will begin at 10:00 a.m.

Main subject of the Brownfield hearing will be the problem that Texas Hospital Districts are having in the area of non-resident indigent care. The Subcommittee is attempting to formulate a plan which would allow hospital districts to recoup their losses resulting from the care given to non-residents who are unable to pay. A previous meeting on this subject was held in Ft. Worth.

The members of the Subcommittee include Latham Boone (D-Navasota), Anthony Hall (D-Houston), Dick Reynolds (R-Dallas), and Doyle Willis (D-Ft. Worth). Chairman Mayes invites all interested citizens, groups, and organizations to attend the hearing.

City council sets election

FORSAN — The Forsan City Council designated April 3 as the date of the city election here, in which a mayor and two councilmen will be chosen.

Also at the meeting, the council approved its contract with the tax appraisal board.

New lives—part one

Housewife enters law school

Editor's Note: Older women are going back to work. The divorce rate is soaring. Singleparent (male or female) families are growing in numbers and gaining acceptance. Government statistics show the changes clearly. More and more people, especially women, are making dramatic lifestyle changes which often create enough stress and emotional turmoil within their families to break them apart. Here is the first of four portraits of people who decided to change their lives in midstream.

By VICTORIA GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — "I was just a little Bronx housewife. I was amazed I could have such a big thought," says Pauline McDermott, who "started a new life" and entered law school at the age of 49.

"I didn't just want a job. I wanted a career, something that would mean something," says Mrs. McDermott, a grandmother who started law school last August.

"It was my decision, for me, by me and nobody else. Nobody told me or expected me to do it," she says. "Realizing I could really change my life was a little like having a heart attack.

"I did it. Wow!

"It's a real shifting of gears and mental gymnastics I go through about feeling guilty and making demands on my husband," she says. "It's nonsense, but I can't help feeling that I'm not doing what I should, which is cleaning house. He does it all.

"I want to tell him 'Thank you, thank you. You're so marvelous. You even dusted.' Wow!"

Pauline had been married more than 20 years and had dropped out of school to put her husband through school. "It had never occurred to me that I might do something, too," she says.

She had three children. She worked as a teacher's assistant, welfare counselor and did administrative charity work. She went to night school and earned a degree in philosophy.

"Mostly, I was a housewife in the Bronx. I wasn't happy. I needed freedom and I needed out," she says.

In 1968, she got a divorce and supported herself despite her husband's prediction that she couldn't survive alone. In 1971, she married David McDermott, editor-in-chief of the book division of the American Management Association.

She is small, enthusiastic and talkative, smiling and laughing, explaining and gesturing, thrilled and pleased with herself. Still a little amazed at her new life.

With her long auburn hair, blue jeans and sneakers she doesn't look like a grandmother who's turned on by property law.

David, 43, is a small, quiet and smiling man. He seems serene with himself and pleased for his wife. While she talks, he sits back, stroking Emily the cat. It's her show, and he's glad to help. It's really no sacrifice for him.

After they were married, David asked Pauline what she really wanted to do.

She decided on law school, and she was accepted last June at Hofstra Law School in Hempstead, N.Y.

Together, they changed their lives for her.

They sold their $385-a-month co-op in Manhattan. They moved into a modest $240-a-month-apartment in Queens, midway between her school and his office. They turned one bedroom into her study.

She left her plants behind and worried at first about decorating the new apartment. "Then I decided I do not want to build a nest. I will do just what is necessary, but beyond that, nothing should interfere or distract me," she says.

Although she hadn't driven a car in years, they bought a car for her to commute to school.

She borrowed money for the $3,300-a-year tuition.

David does all the housework, and Pauline hasn't cooked a real meal since August.

"My husband has deprived me of my last excuse, my last cop-out," she says with a laugh.

"My children are grown. We've worked everything out. I can't say I shouldn't go to law school because I have to do the housework or my husband needs me at home.

"Sometimes I think: 'Oh, I'm burdening you. What if I fail? What if I can't get a job? What if you're stuck with a debt?' It's up to me. I have no one to blame."

David does the housekeeping: cooking, cleaning, shopping, laundry, and errands.

"I think this is wonderful for Pauline," David says. "I don't think anyone should be held back. What else could I be doing? It's not that hard. Of course, Pauline's idea of housekeeping and mine are rather different." They laugh.

"One of my friends says I'm crazy to disrupt my life," he says. "But I think it's a good compromise. My biggest sacrifice is riding the subway."

Pauline says her friends are happy for her. Her mother, now in a rest home, told her with some amazement: "I never knew you were so smart."

"Most of the kids in my classes accept me," Pauline says. "A few don't and a few are bewildered. On the day my granddaughter was born, I was in school and very excited.

"One student asked me: 'How old are you, anyway?' When I told him, all he could say was, 'Astonishing.'

"I feel my life is an adventure now. I'm out in the world and thrilled by things that others take for granted. I feel I'm seeing things for the first time."

BIG SPRING, TEXAS, MONDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1976

Viets celebrate Tet holiday

TULSA (AP) — Approximately 300 Vietnamese refugees celebrated their Tet holiday here Sunday.

Tet Nhat, which is Vietnamese for the first day of the return of spring, is "the equivalent of America's Christmas, New Year's Eve, Easter and Thanksgiving," said a member of the city's Vietnamese Refugee Committee.

The exotic odor of incense filled the air as Nguyen Dinh Bong, the first refugee to arrive in Tulsa, offered traditional Tet prayers before the altar. It was only a folding table on the floor of the Oklahoma National Guard Armory.

The Vietnamese brightened when Bich Nguyen, a pre-med student at Claremore Junior College, took the microphone and sang a traditional Viet song of spring and the new year. The pianist who had accompanied her struck up a patriotic Vietnamese tune and the group joined in.

After the singing, it was time to eat from a table filled with casseroles of sweet rice and bean sprouts, pastry shells filled with spiced meat, oriental noodles and deep fried sweet cookies—all traditional Tet foods.

Dallas gets woman mayor

DALLAS (AP) — The first woman mayor of this bustling, commercial city, the eighth largest in the country, says it was a family decision that caused her to run for the city council in 1972.

It was a decision last week by then-Mayor Wes Wise to run for the U.S. House of Representatives that vaulted Adlene Harrison to mayor.

It also means two of the nation's ten largest cities, both in Texas, now have women mayors. Lila Cockrell took over as mayor of 10th-ranked San Antonio last year.

In both cities, the mayor's job is part time with a city manager running the day-to-day government.

But Mrs. Harrison says she has already decided she will be mayor only until April when a special election will be held to fill the post.

Mrs. Harrison, who was chosen mayor pro tem last September, says she plans to run an active government until a successor is chosen.

"The largest problem I face right now is figuring out how many more hours I can heap on top of what I'm already working," she said.

The two-term council member said one of the first things that will probably have to be cut is the number of ceremonial functions the mayor is usually called on to perform.

Hard work is nothing new to Mrs. Harrison, who says she already works 16 or 17 hours a day in her position on the council.

Mrs. Harrison grew up in Dallas and attended the University of Missouri where she received a bachelor's degree in 1944.

She returned to Dallas where she worked for a number of different companies including Nieman-Marcus and Volks.

"I can't say I really enjoyed my working career because I never felt I was in the right place," she said in an interview in the Dallas Times Herald.

In 1955, she married Maurice Harrison, a local businessman. The two are the parents of Janie, a freshman at Northwestern University.

Harrison says he is responsible for his wife's running for the city council in 1972.

"I kiddingly said, 'Why don't you run?'" Harrison said. "Adlene had been working with the city and for the city for many years."

The work has continued and grown since her election as council member from District 3.

"It has been four years since I read a novel just for fun," Mrs. Harrison said.

She said she knows the rest of her term as mayor will be full of work because of such things as a 17.8 per cent rate increase request by Dallas Power and Light Co.

But she says she is hopeful in spite of the hard work facing her.

"There are so many problems and so few clear-cut answers," she said. "But never before has there been so much citizen involvment."

"So no matter how tired I get sometimes, I know this work is worthwhile, so I pick up the pieces and perform as best I can," she added.

Your Daily HOROSCOPE
from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You may want to make a new start at a project that appeals to you but this is not the right time to do so. Study the agreements you have made before working on new plan.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you are too forceful with an associate, you will get little cooperation and could lose out where it counts most. Use tact.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get rid of limitations by taking positive action on your part now. Listen carefully to what an expert has to suggest.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Steer clear of an argument with a good friend or you could lose this valuable ally. Stick to work and avoid the social.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't take any risks with a higher-up or you lose valuable support quickly. Don't jeopardize your good name.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't permit an argument to start with a new ally because of a language barrier. Try not to arouse anyone's resentment.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Not a good day to come to a better understanding with the one you love. Tomorrow is better. Sidestep an argument.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Use tact in dealing with associates whose ideas may not be up to par. Be forgiving with one who's argumentative.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Work up some enthusiasm for the work ahead and it will soon be behind you. Take no chances with your reputation.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you do not overspend where recreation is concerned or you will regret it later on. Use good judgment.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Control your temper at home and safeguard the security you are now enjoying. Harmony is yours for the asking.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Put that extra energy you radiate today to good use. Be careful in motion. Delay a decision regarding a money matter.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Take care you avoid making mistakes in a new project. Study all data carefully. Find ways to cut down on expenses.

TONS OF MARIJUANA SEIZED — Coral Gables park foreman George Dimitros, sits atop a truck load of marijuana, part of 13-tons plus that was seized by officers in a nighttime raid of two boats in Biscayne Bay at Miami, Fla., early Saturday. Dimitros helped load the marijuana. Police Lt. Richard Bannon said the weed had an estimated street value of 8.3 million dollars.

Gail teacher attends Washington session

Mrs. Shirley Kountz, Home Economics teacher in the Borden County schools in Gail, attended the Jan. 10-21 training session conducted by the National Office of the Future Homemakers of America held in Washington, D. C.

Other states represented in the meeting included Louisiana, Arkansas, Vermont, North Dakota, South Dakota, Arizona and Connecticutt.

Mrs. Kountz was one of seven persons recently appointed National Consultants. Each will serve as extension home economists of the National Staff. They will hold workshops on university campuses throughout the United States and, in addition, will be available for various meetings and training sessions of high school students and teachers.

The workshop presented the National Philosophy of the Future Homemakers of America and many techniques for making FHA an integral of the Home Economics curriculum. Another major emphasis was the development of leadership roles.

While in Washington, Mrs. Kountz visited Reps. George Mahon and Omar Burleson and discussed the status of education and the present role of Home Economics Vocational Education.

Mrs. Kountz is the wife of Van Kountz, who coaches girls' basketball and track in the Borden County school system. They have two daughters, Debra, 12, and Sandra, 10.

In addition to her teaching duties, she is a member of the Vocational Homemaking Teachers of Texas. She is also an active member of the Epsilon Omicron Chapter of the Delta Kappa Gamma Society, Lamesa.

Fund goal is $5,600

In a proclamation issued today, Wade Choate designated February American Heart Month and urged all residents of Howard County to support the 1976 Heart Fund campaign to be conducted across the nation.

The mayor asked citizens to support the efforts of the Howard County Heart Fund campaign and to help in the fight against the nation's number one killer, heart and blood vessel diseases.

Mayor Choate stated in his announcement that these diseases claim more than a million lives each year and account for 52 per cent of deaths from all causes.

During American Heart Month, local volunteers will join the more than two million volunteers nationwide to distribute heart-saving information and collect funds for research programs, and educational and community projects dedicated to combating diseases of the heart and circulatory system.

The Howard County Heart Fund goal is $5,600.00. Heart Sunday kick-off is Feb. 15.

Newsletters available

COLORADO CITY — Consumers can "get the cost of living down" — instead of vice versa, according to a new letter series on shopping at sales — currently offered to Mitchell County residents by the county Extension office.

"Consumers can save as much as 30 per cent by shopping wisely at sales — and this newsletter series tells them how," Mrs. Janis Choate, Mitchell County extension agent, said.

"It explains why articles are on sale, which sales to expect throughout the year, and how to distinguish the real bargains from the 'lemons' — so the consumer can become a smart shopper," she added.

The series, "S. O. S. — Smart on Sales," is available from Mrs. Choate by writing Box 1349, Colorado City, Texas 79512 or by phoning 728-3111. Please do so before Feb. 6 to insure receiving the first mailing.

"S. O. S." newsletters — mailed each month — will feature such topics as buying bedding, men's and women's clothing, gardening supplies and tires along with a calendar of annual sales and a shopping log to help consumers "chart their sale course," the agent added.

BLUE SANDS AMY

Local cat rates high

The American Cat Fanciers Association, international cat registering body, has announced the highest scoring Russian Blue cat in North America for 1975 is owned by a Big Spring couple.

Mrs. Angel speaks at celebration

Mrs. Clyde Angel was the featured speaker at a banquet in Hamlin, celebrating America's Bicentennial and the town's founding on Jan. 29, 1906.

Mrs. Angel resided in Hamlin 25 years ago, and returned to present a program entitled "Come to a Birthday Party for a Lovable America."

During her speech, she said that everyone in the nation should respond with a common purpose to make the country greater.

Also included in the program was the Sound of Celebration Choir from the First Baptist Church of Hamlin.

Mrs. Angel was in Temple on Wednesday to present a program to the City Federation of Women's Clubs. For the program, she reviewed the book, "Ladies, Please Come to Order", by Peggy Cameron King.

More on lawsuit surgery

DEAR ABBY: I am sorry for SERIOUS IN N.Y., who is considering suing his parents for $100,000 for having him circumcised while he was a helpless infant and unable to fight back. He claims that he was "disfigured," which is hardly valid, because most of us wear sufficient clothing so that no one will know whether we are circumcised or not.

When I was born, 73 years ago, circumcision was not very popular, and I doubt that my parents, who lived on a minister's salary, even considered it. I fervently wish that they had circumcised me because much of my life I have had trouble.

In the years before men wore clothing, the foreskin provided some protection. Perhaps if nudism comes in, circumcision will go out.

RETIRED MINISTER, ASHVILLE, N.C.

DEAR ABBY: As a dull-witted Englishman, the "brotherly love" characterized by the American people who sue each other on the slightest pretext is still beyond my comprehension. I refer to that SERIOUS male moron who wants to sue his parents for having had him circumcised when he was an infant. Well, now I have heard everything!

May I inform "Serious" that circumcision is not only practiced by the Jewish people, but also among the male members of the English royal family? Yours truly,

JOHN R.

DEAR ABBY: I hope that man in N.Y. sues his parents and collects the $100,000. I, for one, am opposed to any kind of surgery unless it is absolutely necessary. There is entirely too much chopping up these days, and the one who benefits most, of course, is the doctor.

If the good Lord had meant for males to be born without foreskins, He would have made them that way. It is an insult to God to try to improve on His work.

SERVANT OF GOD

DEAR ABBY: Please tell SERIOUS IN N.Y. that here in Jefferson County, Ky., it would be against the law for him to exhibit his "disfigurement."

RUSSELL MC DANIEL
CHIEF OF POLICE

DEAR ABBY: The 32-year-old fellow who wants to sue his parents for having circumcised him should have his head examined. I have been circumcised (doctor's orders), and I am over 60! It is embarrassing and not an operation one can boast about in one's old age.

A friend of mine told me that years ago, he and his fraternity brother got liquored up and "circumcised" each other. They ran into a lot of trouble and had to hunt up a urologist for repairs shortly afterwards.

It's best to have it done in infancy.

GREETS CRIPPLED CHILDREN — President Ford stoops to shake hands with Kathie Cuffe, 15, of Dearborn, Mich. in a reception line at the Midwest Republican Leadership Conference in Dearborn on Saturday. Moslem Temple Potentate Frank Ellis holds Tommy Hood, 7, of Garden City. Ford, member of Saladin Temple in Grand Rapids, signed autographs for the children, then gave them the pens he used.

Former BSHS director to give choir concert

Kenny Sheppard, former Big Spring High School choir director, will conduct a performance of the Southwestern University Chorale this evening in the BSHS auditorium.

The performance will begin at 8 p.m.

Sheppard is the director of the Southwestern University Chorale in Georgetown. The choir is on a short tour from Jan. 30 through Feb. 3.

The 30-member chorale's repertoire for the evening will include works by Hammerschmidt, Buxtehude, Dvorak and Oldroyd, among others.

Sheppard was director of the BSHS choir from 1967 until 1971 and had a number of outstanding choirs in those years.

The public is invited to attend the concert.

Appliance shoppers need buying guide

COLLEGE STATION — Using "shopping know-how" in new appliances purchases is the best way consumers can be sure they get what they wanted, Mrs. Janice Carberry, a family resource management specialist, says.

She's with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

She suggested some "good judgement" guidelines for appliance shopping.

—Be sure there's enough room to move the appliance in and out of the house, to clean and service it and provide ventilation around it.

—Check gas or electricity to be sure they are adequate for the new appliance. Water supply and drain facility should be checked for washers, dishwashers and food waste disposers.

—Consider appliance size in relation to family size and future needs.

—Before installation, be sure the brand, style, model and color of the appliance is satisfactory.

—Be sure "extra" features which add to purchase price are needed and will be used.

—Be sure the appliance is sturdy enough to meet the family's needs, that finish, trim, working components and decorative parts are high quality, and that it's easy to maintain and works as claimed by the seller. Ask if a demonstration is possible.

—Ask about the warranty before buying and be sure it plainly states what is covered or not covered.

—Consider whether competent service is available nearby.

—Look for seals verifying that certain performance and safety requirements have been met.

—Compare efficiencies of otherwise similar units and consider the size of various models in terms of what each will cost to operate. Labels on the appliance itself and data available from dealers, manufacturers and industry trade organizations can be most helpful.

Homemakers hold meeting Thursday

The Howard County Young Homemakers held a meeting Thursday night in Coahoma high school.

Mrs. Francis Barr, who teaches sewing classes in Big Spring, showed the group how to make bias scarves.

Mrs. Bob Lindsey, president of the group, said that the next meeting for the Young Homemakers will be Feb. 27 at the home of Mrs. Betty Burton. Mrs. Burton will give a lesson on macrame.
