Farm Policies Hold Priority In GOP Plans

WASHINGTON —(P)—President Eisenhower declared Tuesday declining farm prices are a serious problem but he expressed confidence the new Administration will be able to handle it.

The President, at his first news conference, said the difficulties represented by falling farm prices largely were inherited from the Democratic Administration.

He added that the Republicans have been in office only a few weeks and farm prices have been falling two years.

Emphasizing the importance he attaches to the farm situation, Eisenhower chose that subject to talk about first at his initial meeting, as President, with newsmen.

Eisenhower quoted the Republican platform as saying the party is pledged to "a prosperous agriculture with free and independent farmers."

He said one way to deal with the situation is through what he called arbitrary power. That is the easy way, he added, making it clear that it is not the way for him.

Farm programs, he said, must be based on freedom for the nation's farmers.

The President said that on Jan. 19, 1952, beef livestock was selling at $34.22 a hundred pounds and that by the end of last November the price had declined to $31. Last January 24, he added, it was down to $24.51.

Since the recent removal of price controls on beef, the price has climbed a bit, except at retail, the President said.

He called that a narrowing of the gap between the farmer and the consumer.

Eisenhower's agriculture secretary, Ezra Taft Benson, has been the center of much congressional criticism, particularly from Democrats who say he has done nothing about falling farm prices.

Eisenhower told the conference that, in one move to improve the situation, the armed services are being urged to maintain maximum purchases of beef to help keep its price from declining further.

Eisenhower recalled that he pledged during the campaign to support the present law providing for government price support of basic farm commodities at a minimum of 90 per cent of parity. He said he intends to keep that pledge.

Duster May Spoil Spring Day In Area

Midlanders enjoyed a pleasant morning but occasional gusts of wind and a mild duster was expected to mar the fair and clear pattern Tuesday afternoon.

The mercury is due to dip to 30 degrees early Wednesday before returning to the low 60's in the afternoon.

Clear skies greeted Midlanders and other Texans Tuesday as the great dust haze of Monday swirled southward far out in the Gulf.

At mid-morning, no trace of the gritty stuff that enveloped Texas Monday remained in the state, the weatherman said. At El Paso, for example, you could see 50 miles.

Clouds were evident only along the Upper Gulf Coast and Southeast Texas but were to get thicker over the state by Wednesday the Weather Bureau said, along with warmer weather.

Monday's weak cold front knocked temperatures down during the night from Monday maximum of 46 at Dalhart to early Tuesday low of 18 degrees. Brownsville, Monday's lowest spot with 80 degrees, had a low of 58.

Skies cleared and temperatures dropped in the storm-swept central part of the country Tuesday.

Smokes, Coal Lumber Slated For Decontrol

WASHINGTON —(P)—Cigarettes, cosmetics, coal, lumber and major household appliances Tuesday topped a government list of items likely to be freed of price controls this week.

Office of Price Stabilization (OPS) officials predicted cigarettes generally would rise a penny a pack and cosmetics up to 10 per cent.

They said such increases would cost the public perhaps $300,000,000 a year—$200,000,000 for tobacco, $100,000,000 for cosmetics.

A top price official said other items tentatively placed on the current decontrol list which may be altered or increased by Wednesday, include:

Office equipment; manufacturers' prices of radio and television parts, already removed from controls at the wholesale and retail level; and some, but not all, remaining foods under curb probably will be put together in a decontrol package in the next two or three weeks.

Main food items still under ceilings include milk, dairy products, oleomargarine, bread and bakery goods, dry groceries and cereals, jams, jellies and some soups.

Beer May Be Substituted

An official said there is a possibility beer may be substituted for cigarettes on the current list.

The agency, meanwhile, went ahead with reduction of its staff as 30-day dismissal notices reached 1,700 field office employees. These will cut the OPS staff from approximately 3,500 on February 1 to about 2,500 on March 15.

The new slashes in the field staffs will wipe out 41 district offices and nine branch offices the middle of next month, but leave reduced staffs in 13 regional-district combined offices and enforcement staffs in nine district offices. Some enforcement staffs may be shifted to the nearest regional-district office.

The regional-district offices to be continued are Boston, New York City, Philadelphia, Richmond, Va., Atlanta, Cleveland, Chicago, Minneapolis, Kansas City, Dallas, Denver, San Francisco and Seattle.

The remaining district offices where some enforcement personnel will be retained beyond March 15 are Washington, D. C., Hartford, Conn., Detroit, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, St. Louis, San Antonio and Los Angeles.

Local Board Still In Dark On Future Drafting Of Fathers

Midland draft officials remained in the dark Tuesday as to prospects that fathers may be drafted within the next eight to 14 months, as hinted Saturday by national Selective Service Director Hersey.

The local board has received no information on the proposed draft policy, but Mrs. Nell Roberts, board secretary, predicted the order would be a general one and not confined to particular areas or situations.

Midland's 2,821 draft registrants, 265 are fathers who would be eligible for draft under the order, she said.

While Hersey did not definitely schedule the drafting of fathers, he warned the public must be ready for such a move.

Prosecution Witnesses Talk In Kermit 'Horsemeat' Case

KERMIT —State attorneys still were presenting their case Tuesday morning as the trial of Tom Gordy, Kermit wholesaler charged with transfer of horsemeat to another for human consumption, went into its second day. Several witnesses were called for testimony Tuesday.

The trial is being held before County Judge W. E. Cook, who Monday denied a motion for a 30-day continuance filed by Murray Howze of Monahans, Gordy's attorney.

Howze sought more time to prepare for trial, but after long arguments the motion was vetoed.

Gordy specifically is charged with possessing and transferring horsemeat to another person whom he knew or reasonably should have known would sell the meat for human consumption. If found guilty he could be fined $1,000, jailed for two years, or both.

Says Balanced Budget Should Precede Slash

WASHINGTON —(P)—President Eisenhower said Tuesday a tax reduction ought to be deferred until a balanced budget is in sight.

The President reaffirmed at a news conference the position he has taken all along on the tax cut question. It gained special significance, however, because of the drive among some Republican congressmen for a cut in personal income taxes next July.

Eisenhower said a tax cut now might mean higher taxes later.

A bill cutting personal income taxes June 30 cleared its first congressional hurdle Monday. There are signs, however, that it faces a rocky path of parliamentary roadblocks, delay and eventual tough opposition.

Eisenhower brought up the subject of taxes himself before reporters had a chance to question him about his attitude toward this bill.

He said he never has promised to reduce taxes but that he does believe it is an essential objective.

Later, in reply to questions, the President would not go so far as to say he would veto a tax cut bill. Reporters had framed questions in a way aimed to draw such a statement from him.

Eisenhower told them he did not know in what form such a bill might reach his desk and he could not possibly predict what his decision would be.

Conference Crowded

At one point in the exchange, the President indicated the Administration is studying a substitute for the excess profits tax law, which is scheduled to expire June 30.

Asked if he was thinking along the line of a substitute for the excess profits tax, Eisenhower said his advisers were giving some study to that. He did not elaborate.

Privately, the President had expressed conviction a stable economy is impossible until the budget deficit has been wiped out.

Tuesday's news conference brought out a crowd of 256.

The conference room in the old State Department Building which seats 215 was jammed to the doors.

The attendance compares with a record of 347 for a presidential news conference—set at the first meeting President Truman had with reporters.

However, the White House had taken steps to limit the attendance at Tuesday's meeting. It barred most of the government public relations men, always a sizable group at previous presidential news conferences.

As it was, some reporters were unable to get in. The doors of the conference room were closed at 9:10 a.m.—20 minutes before the start of the conference.

At the outset, Eisenhower—natty in a blue business suit with blue shirt and blue figured tie—told the newsmen he welcomed the opportunity to meet with them. He remarked that he had many old friends in the gathering.

He said, too, he was looking forward to many more news conferences during the next four years and they would be conducted on the same basis as heretofore under (Continued on Page 10)

Former Police Radio Dispatcher To Face Trial Here Thursday

Charles Lee Jenkins, 21-year-old former police radio dispatcher, will go on trial Thursday in 70th District Court on a charge of assault with intent to murder his girl friend.

The trial was set for Thursday when the docket was called Tuesday before District Judge R. W. (Bob) Hamilton.

Jenkins, now free on bond, was indicted by a Midland County grand jury in connection with the shooting last December of Louise Hutchins as they sat parked on a lonely road on the outskirts of the city.

District Attorney Warren Burnett told the court that Jenkins' attorney, Lester Boone of Odessa, had informed him he would be ready to go to trial Thursday.

Judge Hamilton also ordered a change of venue Monday in a similar case.

Trial of Oran Lee Grubbs, charged with assault to commit murder in connection with an attack on his estranged wife last August, was ordered transferred to Big Spring.

Midlander Hails Courage Of Firemen Fighting Plains Blaze

By TRACY FLIER

Reporter-Telegram Staff

"The rawest exhibition of courage I have ever seen" was the way a Midland eyewitness to the Plains explosion Monday described the act of two Plains volunteer firemen who attempted to quench an inferno before it could reach the dynamite which cost one of the men his life.

George McNab, 35, an oil company employee and a Plains volunteer fireman, died about 3 p.m. Monday in a Denver City hospital after suffering broken bones and internal injuries.

Another fireman, Sherman Tingle, Plains service station operator, was reported Tuesday to be in serious condition in the Yoakum County Hospital at Denver City.

Clem A. Ware, landman for the Neville-Penrose Company of Midland, arrived by car in Plains on a business trip several minutes before the fire started. He related that at 11:37 a.m. the Plains fire whistle shrieked a warning which brought out the firemen.

During World War II, Ware was trained by the Navy to keep accurate accounts of battles in which his ship participated, it being part of his job as chief quartermaster, he said.

Ware followed the crowd of about 60 townspeople to the scene of the blaze. "When someone called out that there was dynamite in the burning warehouse I got about 300 feet back," he said.

The fire truck had been parked in front of the warehouse, Ware reported, and when the warning of dynamite was called out, the truck was ordered further down the street.

"Sherman Tingle and George McNab obviously knew the danger," Ware said, "and each man had pulled a hose off the truck and rushed right up to the flattened warehouse door in an attempt to control the fire. Dynamite caps already had begun exploding inside the building."

"It took real guts to run those hoses up to the door. Tingle already was spraying the inside of the building and McNab had just started his spray when everything cut loose. Both men were within seven feet of the door and the impact blew McNab about 60 or 75 feet across the street."

Every spectator in the area was flattened to the ground, according to Ware.

Another fireman, Dwayne McDonnell, was about midway between the fire truck and the blaze when the blast occurred. He was carrying another hose to the front entrance, Ware said. McDonnell also was in serious condition in Yoakum County Hospital.

Ware said that the blast did about the same damage a 500-pound bomb would inflict. He said approximately three-fourths of the block on which the building was located was cleared off. The burning building disappeared completely, he related, and surrounding buildings were demolished. A corrugated iron building directly to the south of the inferno also vanished.

The Midlander described the aftermath as a scene of desolation similar to war. The first cry that went up, he recalled was a moaning "Oh, my God." Many persons said they had learned a lesson about going to watch "a good fire."

The explosion occurred at 11:47, according to Ware. The children of the town were in school at the time and Ware voiced the opinion that many of them probably would have gone to the fire when they were released for lunch.

Ware said he counted 25 persons injured in varying degrees with seven apparently hurt badly.

Most were rushed to the hospital in private cars, and ambulances took the severe cases.

O. B. Irion, dispatcher for the Rotary Engineering Company in Midland, says he picked up the plea for help from Plains at noon Monday.

Mississippi Giant Makes Size Pay Off In Hollywood

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD—(P)—As you can imagine, it's no fun being eight and one-half feet tall.

But Max Palmer, the Clarksdale, Miss., farm boy who grew to that height, doesn't do too much complaining about his plight.

"I figure that's the way it was meant to be," he remarked, "so I might as well accept it."

He's also making it pay off—not as a circus attraction but as a movie actor. He has landed his second part in Hollywood and is lining up more.

Right now he's playing the title role in "The Killer Ape" with Johnny Weissmuller. Max made his film debut as a Marlin in "Invaders From Mars." He's up for a role as bodyguard to a young boy in "The Role." The latter will be made in the big-screen Cinema-scope, and Max chuckled over the idea that the big-screen trend will aid his career.

"The studios seem to make enough adventure pictures so I could keep working," he added.

Things are looking up for Max, who first started to know the troubles of being tall when he was 14. He was a normal boy until that age. "Then something went haywire," he said.

Spurns Circus Offers
Max, whose parents and three sisters are normal size, shot up to his present height in five years. At 19, he stopped growing upwards, although he continued to put on weight. Now 25, he scales 450 pounds.

Somehow he managed to continue a normal life. He played basketball in school and worked on the farm. Then he traveled around, appearing on TV.

He has had offers to tour with circuses and carnivals, but turned them down. His reasons were interesting.

"It's a rough life, traveling all the time," he commented. "And you don't have any freedom. The people that run the show don't want you to appear in public. You're supposed to stay hidden so folks will pay to see you."

Life is a series of inconveniences for Max. I asked him if he drives a car.

"Nope. Can't find one that'll fit me."

When he travels any distance, he has to take the train. But a Pullman berth is out of the question. He must sleep in the coach cars, and pay for two seats at that.

Clothing Is Headache

Clothing is another headache. He wears a size 60 coat and naturally has all his clothes made especially. He never has owned a suit, preferring sport coats and slacks. One such outfit runs him $200.

His shoes are equally immense. He wears a size 20 on one foot and a 21 on the other. He can wear a pair for about a year. The cost: $100. He generally buys high shoes or boots, such as he used to wear.

on the farm.

What about sleeping? In his present hotel room, he sleeps in a normal-size bed without a headboard.

A couch takes care of the overflow. At home he had a bed that was nine by six feet, and he says he'll hunt for one here if his movie career prospers.

Max tries to lead as normal a life as he can, considering his size.

He dates often, and is reported to have a favorite girl friend in Texas.

In "Killer Ape" scenes, he towers above Weissmuller, who is a mere six-feet-four. The studio has Max decked out in a plastic nose, hairy face and a furry costume. The press department proudly points out that it takes six bear skins to cover him.

He dates often, and is reported to have a favorite girl friend in Texas.

In "Killer Ape" scenes, he towers above Weissmuller, who is a mere six-feet-four. The studio has Max decked out in a plastic nose, hairy face and a furry costume. The press department proudly points out that it takes six bear skins to cover him.

He has had offers to tour with circuses and carnivals, but turned them down. His reasons were interesting.

"It's a rough life, traveling all the time," he commented. "And you don't have any freedom. The people that run the show don't want you to appear in public. You're supposed to stay hidden so folks will pay to see you."

Life is a series of inconveniences for Max. I asked him if he drives a car.

"Nope. Can't find one that'll fit me."

When he travels any distance, he has to take the train. But a Pullman berth is out of the question. He must sleep in the coach cars, and pay for two seats at that.

Probers Seek Cause Of DC-6 Crash; Seven Victims Listed

MOBILE, Ala. —(AP)—A water-spout or a bolt of lightning may have knocked a National Airlines DC-6 out of the sky into the Gulf of Mexico 44 miles southeast of here Saturday.

These were two of the theories being raised as civil aeronautics and air line investigators sought an explanation Tuesday for the crash that killed possibly all the plane's 46 passengers and crewmen.

A sea-air search for 29 missing was resumed at daybreak after darkness brought a halt Monday night.

Relatives and friends resumed the grim, slow task of identifying the mangled bodies of 17 dead brought here by the Coast Guard cutter Blackthorn yesterday.

Seven of the dead passengers were identified by Coroner Thomas B. Henderson: J. W. Womer, Wichita, Kan. Mrs. M. D. Graham, Port Neches, Texas.

F. A. Thomas, Dallas, Texas. R. B. Friedman, Miami. Mrs. Alfred C. Bergman, St. Petersburg, Fla. Mrs. J. W. Womer, Wichita, Kan. (tentative). Mrs. F. Solomon, Miami Beach, Fla. (tentative). Coroner Thomas B. Henderson said some of the bodies were burned without any further evidence of a general fire and explosion and this suggested the possibility the craft may have been struck by lightning.

Draft Term Hike Sets Off Mutinies In Denmark's Army

COPENHAGEN —(AP)—Danish military authorities questioned hundreds of soldiers Tuesday, seeking instigators of a wave of small-scale army mutinies and hunger strikes against extension of the nation's draft term.

An Army announcement disclosed that some 600 men were involved in the demonstrations against the increase of their service terms—from 12 to 18 months—that broke out Monday in six military centers.

More than 300 demonstrators multied at two South Danish garrisons and started to march on Copenhagen. The first group of 40 men from Soegaard was turned back by a fire-eating speech from their area commander.

Another 246 from the Haderslev garrison in South Jutland was halted by civil and military police only five miles from their starting point.

Democrats Invited To Policy Parleys

WASHINGTON —(AP)—The Eisenhower Administration moved Tuesday to broaden congressional support of its policies by inviting Democrats to sit in on foreign and domestic policy talks.

Chairman Bridges (R-NH) called Secretary of State Dulles and Mutual Security Administrator Harold E. Stassen for testimony Wednesday before the 23-member Senate appropriations Committee on proposed foreign aid spending and general international policies.

The White House arranged to have congressional leaders of both parties briefed by Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and others on the world military situation at a Thursday conference.

A bipartisan group of lawmakers was invited to a White House discussion earlier the same day on proposals to set up a commission to study federal-state tax relationship.

Senator Saltonstall (R-Mass) proposed that Senate and House Armed Services Committees sit together March 4 to hear Gen. James A. Van Fleet explain his belief that a United Nations general offensive now could be successful in Korea.

These moves to allow Democrats behind the scenes followed fresh criticism by Senator Douglas (D-Ill) that the minority not only hasn't been consulted but that its past international actions were "misrepresented" by the President himself.

Douglas said in a speech at Atlantic City Monday night that Eisenhower was "surely inaccurate as well as ungracious (although I hope unintentionally so) when he said that under President Truman 'the United States Navy was required to serve as a defensive arm of Communist China.'"

Other Texans at the luncheon, second in a series of bi-partisan bread-breakings, were Rep. Wright Patman of Texarkana and George Mahon of Colorado City.

Ike Serves Solons Texas Lamb Chops, Louisiana Coffee

"No business was talked at all," Rayburn added and said the main course was "nice Texas lamb chops."

Representative Brooks (D-La) said the meal wound up with "good Louisiana coffee."

He called police Monday. Nine new pairs.

'New' Volcano Spews Ashy Smoke, Haze Over Alaskan Wilds

KODIAK, ALASKA —(P)— Dirty, ash-filled smoke hung Tuesday over the base of the Alaska Peninsula, cloaking the identity of a volcano—or volcanoes—which began a series of major eruptions Sunday.

The brownish-orange volcanic dust which spewed into the sky eight miles high and spread out 100 miles or more prevented close aerial reconnaissance.

The "new volcano" reported by through the thick, ashy haze Monday spotted what appeared to be a new volcano shooting steam 10,000 feet in the air.

This dark-cratered cone was about 10 miles from Mount Katmai, which first was believed the source of Sunday's first giant pillar of smoke. Later, commercial fliers familiar with the region said either Mount Mageik or Mount Trident, close by, suddenly had come to life, instead of Katmai.

The "New volcano" reported by the Navy plane apparently was none of these, but an uneasy peak opened up by the other volcanic activity.

No villages have been endangered. The volcanoes are in primitive wilderness about 110 miles north-west of here.

Mother's Attempt To Regain Custody Of Children Fails

LOS ANGELES —(P)— It was a heart breaking day for 36-year-old Mrs. Lillian Wilson Stewart as she failed to gain custody of her five children.

One by one, they testified that they preferred to remain with their foster parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville C. Collins, into whose care the children were entrusted eight years ago by Mrs. Stewart.

Mrs. Stewart sought to set aside the guardianship. She said she was separated from her husband when she felt it necessary to surrender her children's custody. Her husband died and she married Tunia O. Stewart. She told the court she can give the children a good home.

But 14-year-old Hazel Wilson, who calls Mrs. Collins "Mom," testified: "I love Mom very much; I don't want to leave her."

Charles, 17; Richard, 16; Robert, nine, and Kathy, eight, said they liked their mother "a little bit," but Mrs. Collins "a whole lot."

The court advised the mother to take time to get acquainted with the children and the foster parents.

Coffins are a common sight in the streets of its towns, and supplies of food, clothing and money are desperately needed. Americans, themselves no strangers to floods, have already donated tons of food and supplies for shipment to the stricken country. Ultimate cost of the disaster to the Dutch may be as much as $1,500,000,000.

Soviet Planes Shot First In Air Battle Over Japan

By WILLIAM C. BERNARD
TOKYO —(P)— Russian planes started that 10-minute air battle with American Thunderjets over Northern Japan Monday, the U. S. Air Force declared Tuesday.

The two LA-11 prop-driven fighters were intercepted about three miles inside Japan's aerial boundary off Hokkaido, an Air Force spokesman said.

Lt. Benedict A. Lacombe of Pineville, La., one of the U. S. pilots, said the intruders turned immediately and roared toward the Thunderjets, their machine guns firing. Neither Thunderjet was hit.

Lacombe said he hit one of the Soviet planes and set it afire. Both LA-11's fled toward the Kuriles, only four and one-half miles from Hokkaido. Lacombe indicated the damaged plane may not have made it.

Lacombe and his wing man, second Lt. James T. Holmes of Rye, N. Y., said they didn't get close enough to determine the nationality of the intruding planes. But they described them as "well-qualified, experienced pilots."

A Far East Air Forces spokesman said flatly the first shots were fired by the Russian planes.

That touched off the first air battle between American and Soviet fighter planes over Northern Japan.

The skirmish opened up at 16,000 feet near Nemuro, a town situated on a cape jutting out from Eastern Hokkaido.

Spotted By Radar

U. S. radar operators spotted the invading planes and guided Lacombe and Holmes toward them.

"We intercepted them as they bore south towards Nemuro," Lacombe said. He described them as "greenish black."

"They were flying at about 250 miles per hour but after contact was made, speeds went up to 400," Lacombe said.

"I maneuvered to get on the tail of the wing man. They were flying a widespread battle formation. They flew tight circles inside me and by the time I had one in my sights, they had made two more passes."

Lacombe said he got in one good burst "into the wings and fuselage" of the wing man.

"I could see the bullets rip into him," he said. "He began to smoke" and the last time I saw him he was losing altitude. I can't say for sure if the plane went down or limped home."

The Thunderjets broke off the chase under their standing orders to avoid violation of Russian territory.

Midland Sergeant Back From Korea

Sgt. Billy G. Taylor, son of Mrs. Myrtle Davis, 404 South Tyler St., is home on a 30-day leave after serving with the 5th Anti-Aircraft Artillery in Korea.

Sgt. Taylor arrived in Seattle, Wash., aboard the Marine Phoenix February 1. He enlisted in the Army Oct. 26, 1951, trained at Fort Dix, N. J., and was sent to Korea in February, 1952.

Before entering the Army the 22-year-old negro trained at the Tyler Barber College and worked as a barber in Midland.

His comments on the war in Korea were limited to praise for the member troops of the United Nations and the adequate food and shelter which was available under the conditions.

Sergeant Taylor will report to Fort Sill, Okla., for reassignment when his leave is up.

Youngsters Alert To Keep Kites Clear Of Power Lines

Texas Electric Company Tuesday appealed to parents to caution their children about flying kites near electric wires.

"The windy season brings kite flying time and this traditional sport is one that is lots of fun for children if it is done safely," R. L. Miller, TESCO manager, pointed out. "Many youngsters don't realize the dangers in this innocent pastime if certain safety rules are not observed, the most important of which is to never fly kites where there is the possibility of them getting tangled in electric power lines."

Other dangerous practices in connection with kite flying include using metallic cord or wire for the kite string, making the kite frame of metal, flying kites in the rain when even a cotton kite string can become a dangerous conductor of electricity, and trying to retrieve a kite in case it does get caught in electric wires, Miller stated.

Careful In Past

"Midland youngsters who fly kites have been careful and cooperative in the past and we've had no serious mishaps in several years, but each year, over the nation, there are many cases of injuries to kite flying," Miller said. "If kites are made right and flown right, kite flying is an enjoyable, wholesome sport."

To further impress children that safety is all-important in kite flying, Texas Electric Service Company is providing posters for all school bulletin boards and announcements for school principals.

Maryland Votes No 'Private War' With Soviet Union

ANNAPOLIS, MD. —(P)— The state of Maryland isn't going to "take on" big Russia, not just yet anyway.

The State Senate Monday night turned down by a 15-12 margin a bill that would have excused all foreign diplomats except those of the Soviet Union from paying the state's two per cent auto-titling tax.

Both Democratic and Republican floor leaders urged the measure. Asked if an "aye" vote would mean war between Maryland and Russia, Democratic Majority Leader Goldstein replied: "I hope so. I wouldn't be a bit reluctant to go to war to fight Russia if we had to right now."

The average hen lays almost five times her body weight in eggs a year if she produces about 200 eggs.

Santa Monica, Calif. —(P)— Five years' probation has been decreed for Mrs. Elizabeth Westcott Fraps, 44, who administered sleeping pills in the "mercy killing" of her mentally retarded daughter Joanne, 18, last August 29.

A murder charge against her was dropped and she pleaded guilty to the reduced charge of involuntary manslaughter. Superior Judge Orlando H. Rhodes Monday suspended proceedings and ordered her to continue medical and psychiatric treatment for the term of her probation.

The court also gave the woman permission to live with her husband, Joseph Fraps, 44, superintendent of construction on the Portsmouth, Ohio, atomic energy plant.

He was in Greenland when Mrs. Fraps, at the breaking point in her worry over her daughter, administered an overdose of sedative then shot herself in the chest. She has not fully recovered from the wound.

The court said the suspension of proceedings "should not be construed by anyone as condonation of the offense" but that "the court is impressed by the punishment already suffered by this woman."

By CHARLES F. BARRETT
WASHINGTON—(AP)—A bill to cut personal income taxes cleared its first congressional hurdle with ease Monday, but now faces a rocky path of parliamentary roadblocks, delay and eventual tough opposition.

The proposal, championed by Chairman Reed (R-NY) of the would advance by six months to June 30—a 10 per cent cut in individual income tax rates. Present law provides for the same reduction December 31. It would wipe out the last increase of 11 per cent. The tax take now is higher, so the percentages differ.

For some 50 million individuals, the proposal means a five per cent reduction in their federal tax bill for calendar 1953. Under the Reed bill or present law, the full 10 per cent will be felt in 1954.

For the federal government, the Reed bill means an estimated loss of $1,500,000,000 in revenue at a time when the defense program will still be running strong and President Eisenhower has pledged to do everything possible to match federal spending with income.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said Monday the President's views on this issue had not changed.

In No Mood To Wait

Because of that prospective revenue loss, House leaders served notice they plan to hold off floor action on the Reed bill until May 1 or later—until they can force enough spending cuts to balance the budget, or come close to it.

But Reed, whose committee approved the bill, 21-4, indicated he is in no mood to wait. From that conflict could come to a touchy parliamentary situation.

Even if the House eventually passes the measure—as most leaders predict—it faces tough sledding in the Senate, where GOP Floor Leader Taft of Ohio and other influential members have urged that tax cuts be delayed until 1954.

And sooner or later, the Eisenhower Administration probably will have to recommend "yes" or "no" on the Reed bill. Democrats raised an outcry in the Ways and Means Committee Monday against acting on the bill without even hearing Administration views.

The possible parliamentary tangle could develop along these lines: Reed is expected to seek an order from the House Rules Committee barring amendments to his bill from the House floor. Leaders usually get such a rule on tax bills to avoid being swamped with a flood of proposed changes.

But Chairman Allen (R-Ill) said flatly the rules group "will hold up all tax legislation until at least May 1." He added that before his committee will clear a tax bill for floor action, it must be apparent that the federal budget will be greatly reduced, in order that we can live on our federal income without the necessity of borrowing another dollar.

Asked if that position was all right with him, Reed told reporters: "No, it's not all right with me at all." But he declined to say what he would do about it.

He had these alternatives:

1. He could try to build up pressure from House members and voters to persuade the rules committee to act earlier.

2. He could skirt the rules committee entirely by bringing the bill straight to the floor, wide open for amendments. The Ways and Means Committee has that privilege. There was talk that Reed was considering this course, and was trying to get commitments from members not to flood the bill with proposed sweeping changes.

3. Or he could try to force the bill out of the Rules Committee, with the no-amendments order intact, with a petition signed by 218 of the 435 House members.

Navajo Indian Who Speaks No English Rated 'Excellent G.I.'

PORT LEWIS, WASH.—(AP)—A Navajo Indian who went through 16 weeks of basic training without being able to speak English will be sent overseas unless given a hardship discharge, an Army spokesman said Tuesday.

The spokesman said an investigation has been started to determine if such a discharge is merited by Pvt. Ralph Descheny, 20, of Chinle, Ariz.

The chairman of the Navajo Tribal Council, Sam Ahkeah, recently wrote the commanding officer of this Army post asking that Descheny be released to resume helping his parents work their farm on an Indian reservation near Chinle.

Descheny recently finished basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo. The Army said he was rated an "excellent soldier" by his commanding officer.

A friend of Descheny who was with him in Missouri said the Indian got through by watching others and doing what they did.

The Army said it was not unprecedented to send a soldier overseas who spoke no English.

First amateur to win the National Open golf championship was Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, Neb.

'Shocking Amount' Of Useless Surgery Decried By Hawley

WASHINGTON—(AP)—A shocking amount of unnecessary surgery is being performed in this country, says Dr. Paul R. Hawley, director of the American College of Surgeons.

He contended, in a copyrighted interview with the magazine U. S. News and World Report made public Monday night, that much of the blame can be attributed to fee splitting between surgeons and physicians who refer cases to them.

Dr. Hawley said he had no overall figures. But he mentioned appendix removals and Caesarian operations in childbirth as two types of operations performed more frequently than is necessary.

Overcharging for surgery is also prevalent, he added.

One Man May Replace Council Of Advisers

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Congressional sources predicted Tuesday President Eisenhower soon will send to Capitol Hill a plan to replace the three-man Council of Economic Advisers with a single White House economic consultant.

The tipoff came Monday when the House Appropriations Committee turned down a request for $75,000 to finance the economic council and approved instead a $25,000 allotment to give the President an economic consultant.

First True Mosque For Muslims Arises In United States, Western Hemisphere

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Something new is being added to the Washington scene—and to the Western Hemisphere.

A true mosque and Islamic center is being built on swanky Massachusetts Avenue, on which many of the finest embassies are located.

Scholars say this is the first mosque in North or South America to fill all Moslem traditions.

The building has a two-fold purpose: (A) It will provide a place of worship for the capital's 1,000 or so Moslems, and (B) it will give Americans, through its Islamic center, a chance to understand Moslem culture.

The mosque itself, with a 152-foot minaret, won't be completed until later this year.

But Kamil Abdul Rahim, the Egyptian ambassador, gets the Islamic center, of which he is president, started tonight with a lecture on "Democracy in Islam."

The mosque represents a dream—and a lot of hard work—of seven years.

Cost Is Shared

Washington—(AP)—Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower called on the women of America Monday to use their influence in persuading families not now participating to adopt the plan of buying a savings bond a month.

She did so in a statement, the first formal one she issued since her husband became President, in connection with a reception for 100 members of the National Women's Committee for the Sale of Defense Bonds.

"The women of America have never failed to respond to their country's call and I am sure they will join in making this campaign a success," she said.

Researchers Seeking Battered Steel Hats

SEOUL—(AP)—Soldiers in Korea are being asked to surrender a treasured trophy—the battered steel helmet.

Lt. George B. Coe, physiologist with an Army research unit, said research is under way on a new, lightweight nylon helmet and toward possible improvements in a lighter, more effective steel helmet.

The researchers seek helmets which have been hit by any type of missile, from artillery and mortar shells to bullets.

Turkey and Yemen—are sharing the costs.

From Iran have come special Oriental carpets, from Turkey decorative wall tiles, from Egypt chandeliers and pulpits.

Many individuals have contributed liberally too.

Among the contributors: Farouk, who at the time was employed in Egypt as king.

It Faces Mecca

Although the two wings parallel the street, the mosque itself faces Mecca.

Modern lavatory facilities are available for the washing required of worshippers. In the basement is an acoustically tiled auditorium, which includes a projection room for motion pictures. The building is air-conditioned.

One other modern touch: Calls to prayer will go out five times daily from the minaret on a recording over a loudspeaker system.

Prison Official Dies Of Bombing Injuries

WALLA WALLA, WASH.—(AP)—The man who was holding the inmate-made bomb which exploded in the State Prison's business office a week ago died Monday.

He was Alfred F. Gruber, 42, State Prison's business manager the last five years.

A second prison official, Al Rembold, deputy warden, who also was hurt in the explosion, was reported improving.

Two makeshift bombs were found in a prison cell. Gruber and Rembold were examining one of the bombs when it exploded.

G.I. Bribes Keep Korean Servants Out Of ROK Army

TOKYO—(AP)—American soldiers say that for five United States dollars they can keep their Korean servants out of the Republic of Korea military draft.

At least that's the going rate in the Central Korean city of Chunchon, say the Americans, who ask that their identity be kept secret.

Many American units have, or have had, headquarters in the Chunchon area, which is cluttered with war refugees.

Recently the ROK draft officials in the battered city have begun questioning the status of "house boys" who travel with U. S. units.

A $5 bill silences these queries, the soldiers say.

Estimates of these house boys run as high as 1,000 per American division. Many have been with the divisions for more than two years.

At first they were drifters in the wake of moving units in the days of fluid warfare, then they found work obtaining fuel for stoves and running errands for headquarters troops.

Boys Transferred

Even battalion headquarters, only a few hundred yards from the front lines, have house boys. Some of them have been placed on division payrolls. Many are paid by their G.I. employers. When one soldier goes home on rotation, his replacement takes over the house boy.

Civilian Uprising Against Reds Told

TAIPEI, FORMOSA—(AP)—Ta Tao News Agency Tuesday asserted about 10,000 armed civilians occupied the main centers of eight counties in Red China's southwestern Yunnan province early this month in an armed uprising.

Ta Tao, an agency of Nationalist China's Interior Ministry, said Communist administrative officials fled for their lives and that numbers of Red troops and militiamen joined the uprising.

It did not say how—or if—the revolt ended.

Some of the boys are quite young, some old, but the majority appear to be of draft age. They wear American uniforms.

One American soldier said he refused to pay when an ROK official questioned the status of his house boy. Soon the boy disappeared. A few days later the American received a plea from the boy to send $5 for the official. He sent it.

A few days later, the boy was back at work, sweeping the soldier's tent.

Teenagers Must Pay Fire Hose Damage To School Building

TACOMA, WASH.—(AP)—Two teenage boys who opened a fire hose in Lincoln High School here last month and caused $5,000 damage were ordered Tuesday by Juvenile Judge Bert Johnson to spend the next year working to pay for it.

The judge also disclosed the boys' families each have mortgaged their homes for $1,000 and turned the money over as part payment for the loss.

In placing the boys on probation, Johnson ordered them to work one hour each school day, eight hours each Saturday and school holiday, and during all vacations. Their earnings are to be turned over to the school.

The boys, whose names are withheld by law, said after their arrest they broke into the school while it was closed for a weekend and turned on the fire hose in the hope they would get an enforced vacation. Both were behind in their studies.

"HANDS 'n' FACES"

... IS DINNER READY?

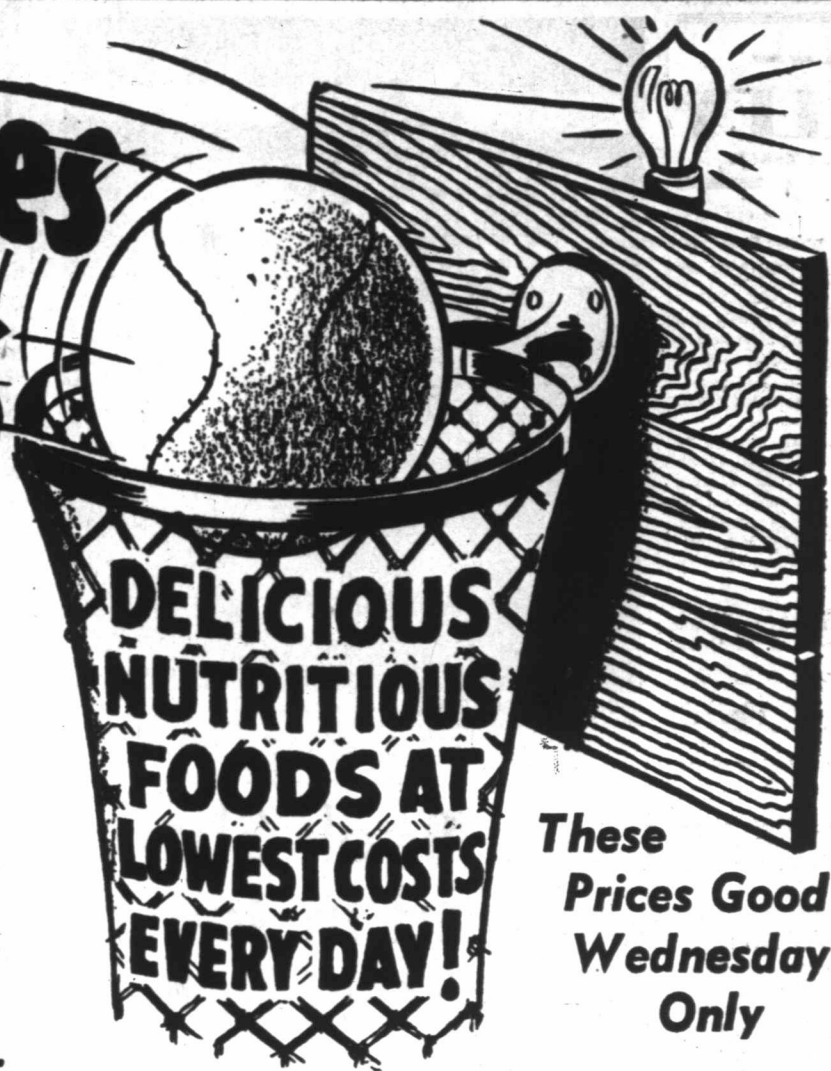

Jack Levin, creator of "Hands 'n' Faces", experimented with the complete omission of backgrounds in his drawings. Going a step further, he found that by using symbols to show backgrounds, a steering wheel to portray a car and a hand strap to symbolize a train or bus, he could put the main emphasis on expressions... then he omitted figures completely... so "Hands 'n' Faces" was developed. ## Sports— PARLEY

By CHARLEY ESKEW

Perhaps because their basketball teams were more to be pitied than Pampa's, as happened to be the case, three District 1-AAAA schools this week were paying much attention to problems of football—February or not.

They do have problems, but not in common.

Midland, for instance, got Spring drills underway Monday and Coach Tugboat Jones started digging through his material for backfield nuggets—some quartet to replace the whole unit of 1952, which will graduate. (Fourteen lettermen tried on the Spring suits.)

But at Odessa, Coach Cooper Robbins this week believed he has the stuff of which dream backfields are made. Among 15 lettermen he has Carl Schlemmer, Johnny Crain and Bobby Chormley returning, but he lost his starting line from last season.

San Angelo just has problems, period.

New Coach Bill Hinton, mindful of last year's winless campaign, told fans bluntly, "We're starting from scratch . . . but these boys (his 1953 team) are the finest physical specimens I have worked with in 14 years of coaching. What they need is confidence, and you, the fans, can help."

Then he touched on what San Angelo sports writers contend has been the biggest trouble with the Bebeats: "Leave the coaching to us. Our staff figures it has the background to do the job and home coaching won't help."

He marches his boys out to exercises February 23.

While the high schools are thinking of grid prospects, so is TCU.

In the middle of Spring practice, Coach Abe Martin has it figured how to get all of his heralded backfield talent (all former tailbacks) into the same lineup:

Use Malvin Fowler as the quarterback of the T-formation he's adopting, make Ray McGowan the fullback and start Ronald Clinkscale at left halfback. Ronald Praley, a defensive player fills out the first team.

Much of the criticism directed at TCU (for its losing) last year was prompted when McKeown, Clinkscale and Gil Bartosh, a former All-SWC performer, had to take turns at directing Coach Dutch Meyer's single wing and spread formations (Martin is keeping these also) while the change of Tailback Mal Fowler failed to ring the bell.

Their season over, several of Midland's basketball hands turn next to being spectators for the big tournaments:

Coaches Red Rutledge and Jimmy Williams of MHS head for the state high school tournament, March 6-7, in Austin.

Kenny Jastrow of Midland's Phillips 66 represents his club two weeks after that at the National AAU in Denver.

Frogs Seek Share Of Lead In Joust With SMU Ponies

By CLAYTON HICKERSON

Associated Press Staff

Texas Christian, Southwest Conference defending champs, can get a share of the lead Tuesday night with a win over Southern Methodist in a game at Fort Worth.

The Christians will be favored heavily over the one-time winner Methodists in the game, one of three involving conference quintets

Tuesday night.

In the other games Baylor plays Rice at Houston and Texas takes on the University of Houston at Austin.

The bayou battling will mark Baylor's effort to get back in the win column after last week's disastrous plunge from conference leader to fourth place.

In a game that meant exactly nothing in the race for the championship, big Walt Kearns did some fancy country shooting Monday night to pace his Arkansas Razorbacks to a loop win over Texas A&M, 66-46.

Kearns' long, looping shots at the basket in the fourth quarter broke the game wide open after what had been a see-saw battle for three periods. Maybe they should let Kearns do all the Pucker shooting . . . from just anywhere.

The lead changed hands a dozen times in the first half with A&M leading, 11-10, at the one-quarter mark, and Arkansas ahead, 26-23, at the half. Late in the third period, the Aggies went ahead again, 34-33.

It was about that time that they turned Kearns loose and he teamed with Orval Elkins to make a run-away of the game.

The night's play left the standings like they were, Arkansas in fifth place and Texas A&M in sixth place.

The Hook Grip Five of Lodi, N. J., scored the American Bowling Congress' record five-man team game of 1,342. It happened on April 14, 1952. Each man averaged 268.

TOWN BOASTS STARS

Dothan, Ala., where Alabama University's football-playing Browns—Johnny Mack, Billy and Tolbert—got their start, is also the home town of Wyatt Posey, Texas Tech assistant coach. Billy now operates a clothing store across from the Tech campus.

Cousin did just about everything but behave.

After winning one of the top races for a two-year-old in 1951, he spent the next year kicking, balking, trying to jump out of starting gates, standing when he should have been racing and racing when he should have been standing.

His vile disposition and stubbornness made him one of the most feared horses in American racing.

To try and civilize Cousin—in the hope of instilling manners and removing shenanigans—Vanderbilt sent him to Gerald Balding, who runs a quiet stable near Devizes.

All he had to do was behave.

By STERLING SLAFFY

DEVIZES, ENGLAND.—(AP)—The crankiest critter in Christendom—a Yankee racehorse named Cousin—is learning manners and calming his jangled nerves on these placid Southern England downs.

Let's hope so anyway. That may be too much to expect of a one-time nitwit horse.

Cousin has travelled a long way since last year, but he's been going in the wrong direction. Early in 1952 he was a hot hopeful for the Kentucky Derby and his future in the stable of Alfred G. Vanderbilt looked fine.

Meyer Goes To Brooklyn In Busy Deal

By BEN PHILEGAR

BROOKLYN—(AP)—The home folk think the Brooklyn Dodgers traded themselves into a second straight National League pennant by picking up Pitcher Russ Meyer.

The temperamental right-hander was the biggest name in a six-player three-way swap late Monday which shook up National League talent of four clubs.

It probably will take a season's play to figure out who got the best deal.

Philis Get Torgeson

The Philadelphia Phillies started the merry-go-round by trading Meyer and some cash to the Boston Braves for first baseman Earl Torgeson.

The Braves promptly sent Meyer to Brooklyn in exchange for infielder Rocky Bridges and Shortstop Jim Pendleton, then swapped Bridges to Cincinnati for first baseman Joe Adcock.

The Braves included another as yet unnamed player in the Cincinnati deal.

The shuffling may not be all over yet since the Reds have been trying to get outfielder Ralph Kiner from Pittsburgh.

Branch Rickey supposedly is interested in young infielders. So Bridges may end up with the Pirates.

Brooklyn supporters figure they got a starting pitcher while giving up only Bridges, a good fielder who hasn't proved he can hit, and Pendleton, a hot prospect from Montreal but still untried in the majors.

Won Thirteen

The Dodgers sorely needed another starting pitcher.

If he can produce, Meyer, who had a 13-14 record with the Phillies last season, will be taking his turn with Preacher Roe, Billy Loes and Carl Erskine.

This will leave Rookie of the Year Joe Black to perform relief chores, the job he handled so well last season.

If Brooklyn was happy so was Boston. A Braves spokesman said the club had been eyeing Pendleton for a long time but that last year the Dodgers wanted players and a lot of cash.

Odessa Here In MHS Finale

It's all over but the shouting in District 1-AAAA and unless the Midland High Bulldogs come out better than usual when they entertain Odessa Tuesday night—that's over, too.

What Midland wants in its final game is district victory No. 1.

And in this bout the Bulldogs think they have the best chance of all for a closer on the Odessa court, Midland came within a hair's breadth of finishing on top.

The Bulldogs stayed ahead until two minutes deep in the fourth quarter when a rush of Broncho baskets smothered them, 46-39.

Tuesday's battle begins at 8 p.m.

with no preliminary. Coach Pat Pattison's B-team already has ended its season and the mentor turned his boys out for track or football practice.

What gives Coach Red Rutledge's Bulldogs confidence for their season-ender is an improved showing in some of the most recent games. Against Abilene Saturday, Midland first stringers hit 10 of 24 first half attempts, indicating an improved eye for the basket.

In fact, the best percentage all season: The Bulldogs were not eliminated by Abilene until in the final quarter when three Midlanders were sidelined by fouls.

Adding that to a home court advantage and naturally inspired rivalry, the game promises to be another even-tempered duel like the previous clash.

And besides, Midland does not have to yield the height advantage in this game.

The tallest Odessa cagers is Billy Joe Harville, who compares to Midland's Bill Mims; both are 6-3 centers.

Odessa however is loaded with a sharp team and proved it by becoming the 1-AAAA surprise this season. Picked for seventh place, Coach John Malaise's quintet has won six of 13 games to retain hopes of finishing in a third place tie after Tuesday.

Tuffy Zellars, all-district candidate, leads the Odessa attack. He is a principal target for the Midland defense after he provided the last quarter spark (and 13 points) to beating Midland before.

Carl Schlemmer, Jimmy Jackson and Milton Gillispie fill out the starting Odessa lineup.

Midland's starting team will be composed of four Senior players taking part in their final game and one junior. They are Bob Kelsing, Jesse Hatfield, Harold Paden, Roy Kinney and Mims, a junior.

Coach Jones ran Brooks with one backfield unit and Jobe with another Monday as the ball carriers ran through fundamental plays for the new (for Midland) T-formation.

Horse Race Bill Hearing Postponed; Women Again Seek Service On Juries

AUSTIN —(P)— The possibility that big-time horse racing and parimutuel betting will return to the Texas scene looked dim Tuesday.

Rep. Ed Sheridan, San Antonio, the freshman legislator who stuck out his neck by introducing a bill to legalize horse race gambling, decided the opposition was too hot at the moment.

Monday, he asked postponement of the public hearing on his bill which had been set for Wednesday night.

The State Affairs Committee Monday night approved "indefinite postponement" of the hearing. Sheridan had said previously he merely wanted time to let his bill "cool off." He also said he might offer an amended version which he apparently thought would be more acceptable. House members privately predicted little chance of success for any kind of horse race gambling bill.

A bill to give Texans a vote on candidates for presidential nomination won unanimous approval of a Senate committee over fiery one-man opposition.

Bill-Phillips Debate
Former State Senator Joe Hill of Austin called the measure "a radical innovation" that could be "a final kiss of death for this republic."

Senator Jimmy Phillips of Angleton author of the proposal, said it was designed to end "rump delegations and stacked conventions."

"I have never seen anything wrong yet with the free ballot. I believe in elections. I believe the people of Texas and the nation are entitled to name their public officials," he declared.

Hill and Phillips were the only speakers in the hour-long hearing. The bill would set up a state-wide election on the second Saturday in June in each year a President is to be elected. There, delegates to the convention would be chosen by districts and told who to support on the convention's first ballot.

Women declared Monday they were ready and willing to serve on juries in Texas.

Women Take Kidding
And they took some kidding from the men of the House Committee on Constitutional Amendments in good fun.

"What would you do if you had to choose between Tyrone Power and Joe Pyle here?" asked Representative Tom King of Dallas. Pyle is a tall, lanky representative from Fort Worth.

"Well, I always did like good-looking men," Mrs. Hilton E. Greer of Dallas, a little gray-haired woman with snappy brown eyes, answered right back. "But I'm opinionated."

"Have you made a study of how much it would cost to fix up separate jury rooms for men and women when a jury has to be locked up overnight?" asked Rep. Thomas H. Stillwell, Texasana.

"I'm not legal-minded," Mrs. Greer replied. "I'd like for you men to handle the legal side and the expenses."

Mrs. Greer said she spoke for the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs. Two Amendments

The committee had before it two amendments to the constitution.

Water Injection Plan Ordered In Goldsmith Field Unitized Area
AUSTIN —(P)— The Railroad Commission has ordered a combination gas and water injection secondary recovery program in the proposed unitized area of the Goldsmith Field, Ector County.

The commission said the program should recover additional oil and gas that would otherwise remain unrecovered under primary methods of depletion.

Taft Promises Blast

WASHINGTON —(P)— Majority Leader Taft of Ohio has promised Senate action before this weekend on a resolution condemning persecution of Jews by Russia—in the strongest language the foreign relations committee can write.

proposed constitutional amendments to let women serve on grand and petit juries. There were some technical differences between the two. They didn't vote on either one, but told their authors, Reps. Horace Houston of Dallas and Ewert Hale of Corpus Christi, to work out one bill and report back next Monday.

Twenty well-dressed women crowded into the committee room to back up their spokesmen.

Texas theater operators held a successful premier showing on a bill to pave the way for higher movie prices.

The audience was the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, which sent the bill to the House with unanimous approval. Star Actor was R. J. (Bob) O'Donnell, vice president and general manager of Interstate Theaters.

O'Donnell said the theater business needs the proposed law giving a tax exemption on tickets up to $1 so the industry can charge higher prices and make enough money to show the revolutionary new "three-dimensional" pictures.

The innovation of three-dimensional pictures or movies which give the illusion of three dimensions has put the industry "in the same position we were in when we went from silent to sound pictures," said O'Donnell.

He estimated it would cost operators 15 to 25 thousand dollars to equip theaters for display of films which give the audience three-dimensional impressions. He said the first of these films, a jungle picture, is so realistic "the audience jumps" when a savage throws a spear.

Central theme of O'Donnell's performance was "eliminate the present state tax on theater admissions in the 51-cent to $1 bracket."

Mickey Threatened
A bill to regulate watchmakers was sent to a Senate subcommittee after it was called a threat to production of Mickey Mouse watches.

The State Affairs Committee instructed its study panel to report back in one week.

Henry Doscher, representing United States Time Corporation, Abilene, told the committee the bill's effects on his Abilene plant "worried" him.

He said the plant hires 380 employees in assembly-line production of Mickey Mouse and Hopalong Cassidy watches. Only about four of them are watchmakers, he said.

He said he didn't know if the bill would be amended to safeguard his plant's future or not.

Watchmakers told the committee the bill was not designed to put anybody out of business.

"It gives the public more assurance of high grade work," said Lucian Thomas, Lubbock, state president of the Texas Watchmakers Association.

Kansas Boost Hikes U. S. Crude Output

TULSA —(P)— Only six states reported advances but a big boost in Kansas output helped U. S. crude oil and condensate production during the week ended February 14 to an 18,750-barrel gain; the Oil and Gas Journal reported Tuesday.

Total daily average for the week was computed by the journal at 6,553,650 barrels and cumulative production for the year at 291,139,428 barrels compared to 281,864,280 at this time in 1952.

Kansas' increase was 19,800 barrels to 333,900. Oklahoma was up 3,400 to 533,200.

Other gains were minor. Declines were reported for Arkansas, off 150 to 77,850; and New Mexico, 100 to 179,350.

Production was unchanged in Texas, 2,399,950.

Convicted Slayer May Inherit Wife's $279,888 Estate

HARTFORD, CONN. —(P)— When James G. Plunkett gets out of State Prison, maybe in three years, he can claim the $279,888 estate his wife left him in her will.

He's serving a five to eight-year term because he shot her fatally Nov. 1, 1949.

Plunkett was indicted for second degree murder, but was convicted of manslaughter. Since he was convicted of the lesser charge he is entitled to the inheritance, the Connecticut Supreme Court ruled Monday.

A Connecticut law prohibits inheritance by homicide but it mentions only first and second degree murder, not manslaughter.

Chief Justice Allyn Brown, who wrote the opinion, said the law "is so clear and free of ambiguity" there can be no mistaking its meaning.

Asian UN Block To Continue No-Troops-For-Korea Policy

UNITED NATIONS N. Y. —(P)— Twelve members of the Arab-Asian bloc in the United Nations reportedly have decided to reject any request from the United States or the UN for troops or supplies for the Korean War. None of the 12 is furnishing anything now.

Saints, Sinners Lampoon Senator Joseph McCarthy

WASHINGTON —(P)— Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) was lampooned Monday as the "fall guy" of the Circus Saints and Sinners, an organization devoted to fun and charity. He took it in evident good humor.

McCarthy was needed by professional actors for "lousing up" the day of Vice President Nixon by telling him President Eisenhower would live 30 years. And he was pictured as putting agents on the trail of Senator Taft (R-Ohio) because he had heard Taft rooted for the Cincinnati Reds.

Pickets carried banners proclaiming McCarthy "unfair to punks" and "unfair to pinks."

The Saints and Sinners also made McCarthy a lifetime member, gave him a watch and handled him a check for a pet charity, St. Theresa Seminary in Burma.

Painter Strike Halts Atomic Factory Work

AUGUSTA, GA. —(P)— Construction on the huge Savannah River plant of the Atomic Energy Commission was halted when 27,000 fellow workers refused to cross picket lines set up by striking painters.

An AEC spokesman said 780 AFL painters went on strike Monday in a wage dispute. The painters were employed by the Interstate Painting Company, a subcontractor to the E. E. du Pont Company, which is building the hydrogen materials plant in Aiken and Barnwell Counties, South Carolina.

Prior to the 15th Century, England's Thames River was spelled as Tamse whence it gets the pronunciation of tems.

Diplomatic sources reported this was the outcome of private Arab-Asian talks on what to do in the UN Assembly reconvening next Tuesday.

Indonesia reportedly hinted at a caucus last week that the U. S. should make up losses suffered because her trade with Red China was cut by the UN embargo on strategic materials for the Communist opponent in Korea.

Nations reported planning to refuse any appeal for troops and supplies were Afghanistan, Burma, Egypt, Indonesia, Iran, Iraq, Lebanon, Liberia, Pakistan, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Yemen.

India was said to have indicated she would not extend her help beyond the medical unit she has in Korea. Of the 15 countries which met last week, The Philippines and Thailand are the only two with troops in Korea. They expect to continue sending them. Ethiopia, which sometimes acts with the bloc, also has troops in Korea.

Nearing Economic Crisis Sidetracked For South Koreans

SEOUL —(P)— South Korea's economic crisis eased slightly Tuesday as the government issued rice rations to 35,000 needy and began trading devalued currency for the old inflated paper money.

It also lifted the $4,300 ceiling on the amount that could be exchanged by an individual. The government had planned to force savings beyond that amount.

Some shops reopened under the government thaw, but most remained closed.

Banks are extending business hours until 9 p.m. for several days to exchange old currency into new.

The money crisis hit South Korean Army units. They were unable to buy fresh food at markets to supplement the regular rice ration.

Italian Firemen Extinguish Blaze On French Vessel

NAPLES, ITALY —(P)— Firemen pumped thousands of gallons of water into holds of the French passenger and cargo ship Ferdinand de Lesseps Tuesday and put out a fire that forced the 11,150-ton vessel to make an emergency run into Naples harbor.

The ship, enroute from Djibouti, French Somaliland, to Marseille, France, with 460 passengers and a 1,977-ton cargo of sugar, peanuts, rice and coffee, arrived with smoke billowing from her two forward holds.

Naples firemen, manning two huge pumps, poured water at the rate of 1,200 gallons a minute to extinguish the flames.

Crew members said an explosion preceded the flames but the cause was not determined immediately.

Permian Basin Oil And Gas Log—

8,596 feet in the Wolfcamp and cemented 5 1/2-inch casing at that point. Operator drilled out the cement to 8,596 feet and perforated the casing at 8,400-80 feet.

That interval was washed with 500 gallons of mud acid. The well flowed to clean out and then on a 24-hour potential test flowed 196 barrels of pipe line oil and no water.

The flow was through a 12/64th inch tubing choke. Flowing tubing pressure was 850 pounds. Gas-oil ratio was 1,500-1.

Ponder Project In NW Dawson Finished As Pool Discovery

Ponder Oils, Inc., of Midland No. 1 M. C. Lindsay, wildcat in Northwest Dawson County, has been completed as a discovery from the reef line for a daily pumping potential of 115 barrels of oil plus 18 per cent water.

Completion was from perforations from 8,568 to 8,571 feet. That section had been washed with mud acid.

Gravity of the oil is 42. Gas-oil ratio was too small to measure.

Operator has suggested the new pool be named Ponder (Reef) field. Location is 660 feet from south and east lines of the northeast quarter of section 109, block M, EL&RR survey. It is 18 miles north-west of Lamesa and one and one-half miles northwest of the Mungerville (Pennsylvanian) field.

Stanolind Wildcat In Hockley Finaled As New Pool Opener

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 1 B. E. Thompson, wildcat in Southeast Hockley County, has been completed as a discovery and new field opener from the Pennsylvanian.

Operator reported a daily flowing potential of 208 barrels of oil plus 23 per cent water from open hole section at 9,875-9,908 feet. Gas-oil ratio was 537-1 and gravity of the oil 42 degrees. Tubing pressure was from 330 to 300 pounds and casing pressure 260 pounds. Completion was natural.

The flow was gauged through a 16/64-inch choke.

Pay was topped at 9,875 feet and total depth is 9,908 feet. Elevation is 3,438 feet.

Location is 660 feet from north and west lines of section 27, league 21, McCulloch County School Land survey. It is six miles southwest of the Ropes (Pennsylvanian) field and eight miles southwest of Levelland.

Casing To Be Set At Possible Opener In Dickens Sector

Pacific Western Oil Corporation is preparing to set and cement casing on bottom at its No. 1 George F. Smith, indicated discovery from a sand pay in Southeast Dickens County.

This prospector had shown for some sort of a new field opener in a drillstem test at 4,375-4,425 feet in a sand section which is now identified as being in the lower Permian.

That zone previously been thought to be in the upper Pennsylvanian.

The test on that section recovered 3,900 feet of 26-gravity oil and no water in three hours. Engineers say that the 3,900 feet of oil is equivalent to 40 barrels of oil.

Found Salt Water

The wildcat deepened to 4,458 feet and a drillstem test at 4,415-58 feet developed salt water. After that test electric logs were run and they showed that the project had approximately 25 feet of effective sand oil pay above the water table.

The hole was then deepened to 4,534 feet and apparently no further shows of oil were logged. Operator has now ordered that the casing be set on bottom and then perforated opposite the zone which showed pay on the test and the logs.

The zone will be tested and an effort will be made to complete an oil well from the oil-bearing formation.

Location is at the center of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 162, block 1.

Stanolind Taking Potential At Reef Opener In Howard

Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 1 Minnie Smith, Pennsylvanian reef line discovery in Central-North Howard County, is taking potential test to complete.

The production is from perforated section at 7,773-96 feet in 5 1/2-inch casing which is cemented on bottom at 7,850 feet. The perforated section had been treated with 500 gallons of acid.

In 17 hours of flowing through a 14/64th-inch tubing choke the wildcat flowed 165 barrels of new oil. There were no signs of formation water.

Location is 18 1/2 miles north of Big Spring and 1,961 feet from south and 1,965 feet from west lines of section 45, block 31, T-3-N, T&P survey.

It is in an undeveloped area between the Vealmoor and the East Vealmoor fields. Both those areas produce from the Pennsylvanian reef line.

It was the second time Eisner had spoken out to contradict the view expressed by Truman.

The first time was in his State of the Union message, when Eisner said this government has incontrovertible evidence that the Russians have atomic weapons.

He told a news conference he agrees with a statement by Gordon Dean, chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, that the Russians have achieved three explosions of atomic weapons.

Dean made the statement recently after former President Truman expressed doubt that the Soviet Union had a workable atomic bomb.

Eisner read Dean's statement to reporters. Then he said that so far as he is concerned, Dean's statement is absolutely true, word for word.

Lenten Services Set By Midland Churches

Special services have been announced by several Midland churches for the season of Lent, the six-week period of prayer and self-denial preceding Easter.

There will be services Wednesday in the St. Ann's Catholic, St. George's Catholic and Trinity Episcopal Churches, observing Ash Wednesday, the official opening of Lent.

A series of special services will open Friday in the Grace Lutheran Church.

In St. Ann's Church, the Blessing of the Ashes and the Imposition of the Ashes will be held four times on Wednesday—following the 7 a.m. and 9:15 a.m. Masses, at 3 p.m. and following the 7:30 p.m. evening devotions.

Included in the evening devotions will be the Way of the Cross and the Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament.

The Way of the Cross also will be observed at 7:30 p.m. each Wednesday and Friday during Lent, said the pastor, the Rev. Thomas Kennedy, O.M.I.

Scheduled Wednesday in St. George's Church by the Rev. Felix Solis, O.M.I., pastor, are the Blessing of the Ashes, High Mass and the Imposition of the Holy Ashes, beginning at 7 a.m., and the Rosary, a sermon and Imposition of the Holy Ashes at 7 p.m.

Other services are scheduled in the church throughout Lent. At 7 p.m. each Thursday there will be the Rosary and Holy Hour, followed by instructions for adults, and at 7 p.m. each Friday there will be the service of the Way of the Cross, followed by instruction for adults.

At 7 p.m. each Sunday is scheduled a special Rosary service and instruction for adults who work and are unable to attend the other services of the week.

The Trinity Episcopal Church will observe Ash Wednesday with Holy Communion and a brief devotional on "The Holy Spirit" at 10 a.m., the Rev. R. J. Snell, rector, announced.

Services also are scheduled each Tuesday during Lent. Preceded by a covered dish supper at 6:30 p.m., the services will include worship service at 7:30 p.m. in the sanctuary and a discussion group from 7:45 until 8:45 p.m. in the Parish House.

A nursery will be provided.

Beginning this week, there will be a service at 8 p.m. each Friday during Lent in the Grace Lutheran Church.

Topics announced by the Rev. G. C. Becker, pastor, in the order they are to be given, "Sacred Love—In Deepest Humiliation," "Sacred Love—In Majestic Confession," "Sacred Love—In Kingly Vindication."

"Sacred Love—In Cruel Condemnation," "Sacred Love—In Criminal Companionship" and "Sacred Love—In Prophecy Fulfilled."

Music for these services in the Grace Lutheran Church will be furnished by the junior choir, directed by Mrs. Victor Reinhold, and the senior choir, directed by Mrs. Bob Macina.

Interior Secretary McKay and Navy Secretary Robert Anderson also are scheduled to testify.

There will be four major through streets going north from the business district—North A, North Main, North Minneola and Edwards Streets.

Other streets which will be designated as through streets include: Golf Course Road, running east from Big Spring Street.

Maiden Lane, running east, and Cuthbert, running west, from Big Spring Street.

Illinois Street, all the way across the city.

Texas Street, all the way across the city.

Missouri running west from A Street.

Indiana, from A to Carlton Street.

College, from its intersection with Indiana to Park Street.

South Main Street.

Kentucky, running east from Main Street.

Taylor Street.

lowing the finish, it was not appreciated for a moment that Mrs. Dix had established a new record for the 415-yard course, one minute 7.2 seconds—a mark which will be shot at later Tuesday by women of Liberal, Kan., when they try to beat the Olney women in the annual race.

Mrs. Dix, flipping a pancake in a skillet along the route, beat the previous record for the course by eight-tenths of a second.

The Olney pancake race is believed to have originated in the 18th Century when a woman heard the church bell ring while she still was frying a pancake and in her excitement she made a dash for the church with the pancake skillet in her hands.

A Roman Catholic, she refused to enter the Anglican church for the pre-Lenten shriving service which immemorably has been a part of the town's curious race.

She struck a compromise with the flustered vicar, the Rev. Ronald W. Collins, by agreeing to sit on the church porch while the service went on within.

One Dead, Many Hurt As Blast Rips Plains

PLAINS —(AP)—A man standing a block away was injured fatally and more than a score of other persons were hurt when dynamite exploded in a burning warehouse here Monday.

Firemen fighting the blaze and spectators were included in the injured, at least three of whom were in critical condition Tuesday.

George McNabb, 35, died in the

Yokum County Hospital at Denver

City several hours after the blast.

Sam Trivitt, Brownfield contractor, estimated damage from the blast at $150,000. Firemen said the blaze started from a welding torch in use in the warehouse.

Deputy Sheriff R. H. Chambliss of Yokum County said the burning building went up in a funnel-shaped cone of debris.

Chambliss said Pierre St. Romain, owner of the warehouse, shouted, "Dynamite! Dynamite!" just before the blast. Some of the firemen and spectators ran, he said, but others stood their ground, apparently not understanding.

Chambliss said he saw two firemen laying a hose line knocked flat by the blast and watched another blown across the street into a vacant lot.

Force of the blast destroyed the burning building which housed supplies of the Plains Telephone Company, caved in doors, heavily damaged nearby structures and jolted Denver City, 20 miles south and about 15 miles from the New Mexico border.

Most Hurt By Debris

Almost all the injured, including the man hurt fatally, were struck by flying debris, although officers said concussion caused some injuries.

Sheriff W. W. Anderson said persons strolling downtown streets several blocks from the blast were bowled over and some injured.

Anderson said a car parked across the street from the explosion was demolished but a woman sitting in it escaped without serious injury.

Nail Driven Into Chest

Critically injured were Dick McGinty, 40, internal injuries, an employee of a frozen food locker firm; Duane McDonnell, 19, head injuries, an oil field worker, and T. J. Miller, 28, oil company employee, internal and head injuries.

Sherman Tingle, 41, service station operator, received a broken collar bone when a nail was driven head first into his chest. Brownfield doctors removed it.

All the injured were in Denver City. Those held overnight were J. W. Moore, Jr., 43, dry goods store owner; E. R. Wason, 26; St. Romain, owner of the Plains Telephone and Water Company, and the Rev. F. R. Pickens, pastor of the Plains Methodist Church.

Others injured were discharged Monday night after first aid.

Dallas Telephoners Ballot On Walkout

DALLAS —(AP)—Balloting continued here Tuesday among 4,000 workers of Southwestern Bell Telephone Company on a strike vote.

T. E. Webb, Texas director of the CIO Communications Workers of America, said, "A full-blown strike or arbitration will be decided in our balloting."

Traffic employees voted during three periods Tuesday. Plant, accounting and commercial employees voted Monday.

The dispute arose recently when a woman worker who had been employed by the company 23 years quit her job, then returned to her old job. The union claimed the woman should have lost her seniority when she resigned.

Some 1,300 workers walked out in protest last Monday but returned to work the next day.

Heart Fund Campaign Launched In Midland

Midland launched its 1953 Heart Fund Campaign Tuesday with an early-morning kickoff breakfast at which Delbert Downing, Chamber of Commerce manager, stressed "aggressive salesmanship" as the key to success for the drive.

About 45 volunteer workers heard Downing list "knowing the product" as the major step in selling the Heart Fund. Know the importance, reason and goal of the drive, he told workers, and therein lies the success or failure of the work.

Lauding volunteer work as the strength of America, Downing told the early risers that their best answer to excuses they may meet is the basic idea that "giving never ends."

Duke Jimerson, chairman of the drive and toastmaster at the breakfast Tuesday, said he had set no goal for Midland's part in the $10,000,000 national campaign. "We'll leave the goal up to the donors," he said, and added, "What they give to the fund will be our goal."

Earlier, Dr. H. Glenn Walker, state district representative for the Heart Fund, listed the three problems faced in the fight against heart disease, major killer among all diseases which strike Americans. They are, he said, research, educational projects, and community service. The heart fund drive, he continued, is an effort to meet the challenge of these problems.

Most Remains Here

A breakdown of the fund showed that 60 per cent of the money would remain for use in Midland and 40 per cent will go to the state fund. Of that state share, 25 per cent goes to the American Heart Association for use in national projects and 15 per cent goes for use in research at Texas hospitals.

Dr. Fred Gaarde, president of the Permian Basin Heart Association introduced Dr. Walker and emphasized research as one of the key answers to heart drive—and the fund drive as the best answer to that research.

Many of Midland's service and social organizations have enlisted in the drive. They will distribute plastic hearts and also placards to local business firms.

Unit workers were asked Tuesday to deposit their collections at the Heart Fund office by Friday afternoon.

Climaxing the drive Saturday, however, will be a campaign by the Half-Timers of Midland High School who will seek contributions in the business district. They will carry small plastic hearts to pin on donors.

Jimerson introduced the six local men who will head the units of the drive. They are A. T. Barrett, office buildings; Jess V. Lindsey, business houses; Charles F. Matthews, schools; P. V. Thorson, general solicitations; and Dr. Gaarde, doctors and dentists. Mayor Perry Pickett, who was unable to attend the breakfast, will contact attorneys.

Judge Bars District Attorney From Alice Grand Jury Room

ALICE —(AP)—At least four more witnesses were to appear Tuesday before the special grand jury probing the assassination of a South Texas politician's son.

The investigating group resumed its probe Monday after District Attorney Raeburn Norris had been barred from the jury room by District Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin.

Norris was the law partner of Nago Alaniz, one of two men charged with murder in the slaying of Jacob S. (Buddy) Floyd, Jr., son of a prominent Alice lawyer and arch political foe of Boss George Parr.

Both Norris and Laughlin were backed by Parr in last year's primaries and elections and the slain youth's father said his son's slaying grew out of the election in which Laughlin defeated former Judge Reams, also a Parr foe.

Before Monday's barring, Norris already had disqualified himself as a prosecutor in the case. But he wanted to listen in while the grand jury delibered further into the University of Texas law student's death.

The grand jury said he couldn't, marched to the courthouse lawn, and conducted its conferences out of earshot of Norris.

Judge Laughlin then barred the district attorney from the jury room and it resumed its hearings there. Questioned were Herbert Skidmore and Juan Navejar, both of San Diego, Duval County seat and home of Parr.

Five Rangers Present

Shortly after the grand jury moved to the lawn Monday, five Texas Rangers showed up and nonchalantly hung around the courthouse. Five Rangers in one group is an unusually large number to be seen at one time.

Judge Laughlin appointed District Attorney Bill Alcorn of Brown County to substitute for Norris in grand jury sessions. Alcorn will prosecute the case against Alaniz and Mario (El Turko) Sapet when they are tried on a charge of venue in Brownwood.

Laughlin dismissed the jury recently before it had completed work on its calendar. The jury previously had indicted Laughlin on charges of defrauding Jim Wells County by selling it his law library for more than its worth. The judge bought the books back and the charges were dropped.

Jury Reinstated—When he dismissed the jury, County Attorney Sam Burris asked the State Supreme to order the jury's reinstatement. But Laughlin reinstated the jury before the court could act, saying he had "reconsidered."

Monday's meeting of the jury was its first since it had been reinstated. The elder Floyd, Norris and Alcorn went into the grand jury room and a short time later, the group moved away from Norris and onto the lawn.

IN CITY THAT CARE FORGOT—

Revelry Rules New Orleans; Mardi Gras Reaches Climax

NEW ORLEANS —(AP)—The shimmering kettle of revelry in the "City That Care Forgot" boils over Tuesday as Rex, Lord of Misrule, reigns over New Orleans.

Hundreds of thousands jam the streets for the climax of Mardi Gras carnival season.

Thousands of these merry-makers all dressed as clowns, pirates, gorillas, flappers and other outlandish characters.

Stores and banks are closed as the city gives its last and biggest roar before the beginning of Lent. Cathedral bells will ring at midnight and the devout will begin the 40 days of Lent—a period of fasting and penance.

Rex, head man of all the kings who have ruled New Orleans for the last 10 days, will ride his regal float through the milling crowds packing historic St. Charles and Canal Streets.

Come The Kings

Named Rex was a mechanical engineer, Charles G. Crawford. His queen is Adelaide Wisdom, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bell Wisdom.

Comus, king of the oldest carnival organization, will follow Rex in a torchlight parade Tuesday night.

But another king took the spotlight briefly before Rex and Comus close down the show.

King Zulu floated down the Mississippi River in his royal barge and landed at the foot of Canal Street.

Tesses Coconut As Zulu and his early-morning parade waved through downtown streets, he tossed out the traditional coconuts, taking care that no one is injured.

The torchlight parade of Comus ends the carnival for most people. But for the socially prominent, the climax is yet to come.

Grand balls will be staged by both Rex and Comus. At midnight the two kings toast each other to signify the end of the carnival season.

Churchman Cherry Draws Prison Term On Plea Of Guilty

FORT WORTH —(AP)—Hal C. Cherry, 62, has drawn a sentence of five years in prison after pleading guilty to charges he misused $8,944.45 of church funds.

Cherry entered his plea to 11 indictments of forgery by indorsement of Central Texas Methodist funds. He was sentenced to five years on each charge but Judge Willis McGregor ruled the terms could run concurrently.

A twelfth indictment against the food products manufacturer and church leader, charging embezzlement of $6,450 of Methodist Church funds, was dismissed.

The indictment, returned last September, accused Cherry of misusing the funds while serving as treasurer of the Minimum Support Commission of the Central Texas Methodist Conference.

Postmaster Thanks Longtime 'Tenant'

PITTSBURGH, PA. —(P)—Edward Ackheim, 63-year-old retired Heinz Company department head, recently got a letter from Postmaster James C. Smith congratulating him on being the oldest box-holder at the Pittsburgh post office.

The former Californian has been renting the same box, No. 402, for more than 50 years. He signed up for it when he came to Pittsburgh in 1902.

Although he now gets his mail at the United Presbyterian Home in suburban Wilkesburg, Ackheim still holds Box 402.

Yugoslavia Has Its Troubles But Moscow Isn't In Command

By GRACE HALSELL
E-T Special Correspondent

BELGRADE, YUGOSLAVIA — The Yugoslavs have made themselves one jet airplane. Motors were secured from France, the frame they built themselves.

Yugoslavs impressed me as being a proud people. Poor but proud and self-assured.

Belgrade reminds me of the Soviet sector of Berlin. A drabness about the city, no nice stores nor "luxury" items, and clothing unattractive and expensive. A pair of nylon hose cost $5—that's almost a week's salary for the average worker. They get 10 cents an hour.

American Embassy employees say it would be frowned upon for them to "steady" with a Yugoslav because of the security risk, and Yugoslav boys told me they might be reprimanded for going with "foreign" girls.

Charm Of Tito

Tito has "great personal charm," Americans who have met him say. His pride and joy now is a "three dimensional" camera given him by an American business man. His new bride he doesn't show off too often. At a press gathering he answered reporters' questions for almost an hour, and finally when one correspondent asked: "When do we meet your wife?" Tito joked: "What? I am Tito. Am I to bring my wife here, and take a back seat at this gathering?"

To a Yugoslav, an American's interest in Mrs. Joseph Broz seems unusual. "She is just another average Yugoslav woman." She may be seen on the streets and at the beauty shop of the Majestic Hotel, a shop which has a little "beauty" about it as a nightclub at 7 a.m. To use a descriptive American term, the place is plain "crummy."

Wooling By Russia

Not much is said about it officially but Yugoslav jet pilots are being trained at U. S. air bases in Germany. Others are sent to America.

The Soviets still are trying to woo back their Communist brethren in Yugoslavia. Soviet propaganda is floated down the Danube in bottles.

I saw a big quantity of it just after fishermen had dragged it in. Many "cartoons" depicted Uncle Sam holding a puppet Yugoslav and others showing fat, cigar-smoking American businessmen "dictating" to the Yugoslavs.

Allegedly there is entire religious freedom in Yugoslavia. As one party member explained:

"All Communists are atheists. You can't be a good Communist and believe in religion. You have your freedom to choose which you want—Communism or religion. You can't have both."

U. S. Propaganda

There is a large United States Information Service building located in the center of Belgrade. It supplies news bulletins and information about the United States.

It was more crowded when I attempted to worm my way in than a New York subway at 5:05 p.m.

American books and movies (all shown in English) and American popular songs, such as "Tennessee Waltz" and "Mona Lisa", are popular, though the songs and movies get to Belgrade months after their popularity in the states.

At a gala reception for the Turkish foreign minister, everyone turned out in formal attire, the men in black tie and tails, the women in long evening dresses, and everything was quite stiff and proper, as receptions usually are. Then the orchestra assembled. I was all set for soft classical selections and Viennese waltzes, but was somewhat startled to hear loud renditions of Tin Pan Alley tunes. The natives didn't seem to notice and went on looking proper and shaking hands.

DON'T HIDE THAT BADGE

MEXICO CITY—(P)—New rules for faces went out to Mexico's soldiers Monday.

If beards are worn, they must be short enough not to cover collar insignia.

Quizzing By Reds Harasses Visitors

BANGKOK, THAILAND —(P)—Chinese Communist authorities treated Thailand Chinese visiting their mother country so badly that no more Chinese want to go home. Two steamship lines running between Bangkok and Swatow have suspended operations owing to a lack of travelers, resulting from the bad treatment.

As soon as their ships, loaded with Thailand Chinese, arrived at Swatow, the officials said, passengers were herded into a "guest camp." They were kept there for several days during which time Communist investigators questioned them about Thailand and their families. Sometimes Red officials woke them up from sleep to continue interrogation.

Father, 71, Shows His Glee Too Much

GREENCASTLE, IND. —(P)—A 71-year-old man celebrated a little too much after his 35-year-old wife gave birth to a boy.

Mayor Evan Crawley sentenced him to 180 days on the State Farm on charges of being drunk and for reckless driving, but he suspended the sentence on provision the offender leave the county as soon as his wife and baby get out of the hospital.

One pound of nitrogen fertilizer when used with balanced portions of other plant foods and moisture can produce 12 pounds of cotton lint.

Here's the fourth of six articles of just such wisdom, written by a mother whose own mother is a well-known child-care specialist. Now that the baby is getting a larger variety and quantity of solid foods, he is able to go for longer periods of time without eating.

We said before that with the addition of solids, he would begin working toward a three-meals-per-day schedule. This, like everything else, won't happen overnight or at any set time.

It may be that your baby already has made the switch; perhaps he won't be ready for some time. There is no need to hurry him, but you can be manipulating things a bit in that direction.

During this period of transition, to three meals a day, it doesn't matter when the baby drinks his milk, so long as he gets at least 20 ounces a day.

He'll Stay Happy

We don't mean by this that you can give him milk so immediately before a meal that it will spoil his appetite, but it is permissible to eliminate milk at lunch if he drinks about seven ounces in the middle of the morning.

We repeat that a schedule like this should be reached gradually. After breakfast, return him to bed for as long as he will stay happily. If the baby cries for milk at 10 a.m. and has little appetite at 12 for his solids, he isn't ready for a three-meal-a-day regime.

He Sits Up

By the time your baby reaches his ninth month, he may be doing all or some of the following things:

1. Sitting up. Some babies, usually fatter ones, will have a hard time assuming the sitting position for several months yet, but once they are seated they can hold the pose easily.
2. Rolling over. There is trouble with this also if the baby is heavy. Or maybe he just doesn't want to.
3. Adding consonants to his speech. "Da da," "Ga ga," and so forth.
4. Moving rhythmically to music. Sometimes with his entire body, sometimes just the head or arms or legs.
5. Creeping. There are almost as

When his breakfast is over, return baby to bed for as long as he'll stay there happily. After lunch, he'll nap again.

Thanks, Fred!

Citizens of Midland, of West Texas and of the Lone Star State owe a great big, sincere and a lasting vote of thanks to Fred A. Wemple of Midland, who has just completed a six-year term as a member of the great Texas Highway Commission.

Surely, everyone appreciates the personal and business sacrifices this able and public-spirited Midlander has made in serving his state, but few of us perhaps ever get around to expressing our appreciation. Yet, the work done by Fred Wemple in further developing the great highway system of Texas long will stand as a reminder of his faithful service.

Wemple, however, has not sought and does not seek personal glory for the work he has done in serving his fellowmen. His unselfish labors in the public interest have been many and varied through the years. For instance, he is a former commander of Midland's American Legion Post; served as president of the Midland Rotary Club in 1934-35, and then was district governor of Rotary International in 1936-37. He served as president of the Texas Good Roads Association in 1941-42, and was appointed to the State Board of Education in 1943.

Fred Wemple's six-year term as a member of the Texas Highway Commission began Feb. 16, 1947. He was appointed chairman of the commission Jan. 6, 1949, serving in that capacity until Feb. 26, 1951.

The six-year period was an exceptionally busy one for the Highway Commission, and marked the greatest expansion in road mileage and work volume in the history of the Highway Department.

Construction expenditures during that period were $470,157,736, while maintenance expenditures totaled $147,064,340. A total of $17,644,746 was spent to replace worn-out equipment and to meet the needs of expanded mileage. Other expenditures totaled another $17,803,683. Then there were administrative expenditures totaling $7,682,476 to bring the total expenditures for the six-year period to $660,352,981.

Construction projects were let or started on 22,232 miles of highways at a cost of $529,345,333. This includes 14,310 miles of Farm-to-Market road construction projects costing $170,337,036.

But that is not all by any means. Highway routes on city streets were improved materially during Wemple's term of office. The expressway projects in the larger cities have provided needed assistance in the efficient handling of heavy traffic.

Total state road system mileage under maintenance has increased from 26,327 miles to 41,696 miles, a gain of 15,369 miles, according to figures released by the Highway Department. Farm-to-Market road mileage under maintenance (included in the above totals) has increased from 2,013 miles to 15,992 miles, a gain of 13,979 miles as of Dec. 1, 1952.

Yes, the work of the Texas Highway Department is big and important business, indeed, and the three highway commissioners work overtime in administering its affairs. Theoretically, the position of highway commissioner is a part-time job, but actually it doesn't work out that way. It places a heavy demand on the time and energy of the individual. Wemple has traveled 225,287 miles during the last six years on official highway department business. It is quite an assignment and one which requires unlimited personal sacrifices on the part of the office holder.

As D. C. Greer, state highway engineer said recently, "The State of Texas has benefitted greatly through the years by having able, honest, public-spirited men like Fred Wemple on the Highway Commission, willing to make personal sacrifices to assist their state with their wisdom and counsel."

Midland's Fred Wemple is that type of man, and it has been fortunate, indeed, that he has been willing to serve his community and his state as he has through the years.

Congratulations to Fred A. Wemple upon his distinguished service, and all best wishes to him as he returns to private life and to his own business interests.

Now there is hope that there will be plenty of work for everybody. Just as some people feared.

Definition of nervous breakdown—worrying too much about not knowing how not to worry.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

(Copyright, 1953, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Drew Pearson says: New Agriculture chief may lose job over farm crisis; Farmers complain about high costs, low profits; New GOP club evokes ministers' criticism.

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Benson doesn't know it, but the White House is thinking of firing him if the farm crisis gets much worse. His hostile attitude toward price supports at the same time farm prices are skidding dangerously has made him the logical target in case the Administration decides it's necessary to appease the farmers.

One White House aide remarked privately that Benson is "expedient" and may be jockeyed out of his present hot seat into a less controversial job, perhaps as an ambassador.

Meanwhile, here are the latest clouds on the darkening farm horizon:

1. Farm prices, now at a post-war low, are expected to fall another five per cent in the next few months. Yet the cost of marketing farm products has gone up. Thus the farmer, who got 54 cents of the housewife's dollar in 1945-46, now receives only 45 cents.

2. Farm exports have fallen off 30 per cent in the past year, leaving the farmers' bins overloaded and adding pressure to the downward price trend. The situation is so bad that senators are considering an international food reserve to stabilize the international market and shift food from surplus to starvation areas.

3. Farmers are so wrought up over plunging prices and Benson's remarks against supports that some farm-state Republicans actually were afraid to go home for Lincoln Day speeches. Senate Agriculture Committee Chairman George Aiken of Vermont is trying to shush congressional critics, is pleading that the storm will blow over. However, the lid is about to blow off Capitol Hill.

Farmer Pays More
What has the farmers especially riled is that their costs are creeping up at the same time their prices are tobogganing down. For example, consumers paid $722 in 1951 for what is known as the "farm food market basket." Of this, the farmers got $360 and the handlers, processors, and distributors got $362—an even split. One year later, however—1952—the same "farm-

Have A Laugh

By BOYCE HOLSE
During a grouch, two cattlemen were talking. One asked, "How are things with you?" The other said, "Pretty bad; my cattle are so thin that, by using carbon paper, I can brand two at a time."

Texas ain't what she used to be. If you see a fellow make a sudden motion, you needn't duck; he's not drawing a gun—just looking at his wrist watch.

To appease Young, Benson sent his new Commodity Credit Corporation chief, John H. Davis, around to pay a good-will call. However, Davis promptly got off on the wrong foot by lecturing the senator that he shouldn't be criticizing Benson but helping him.

"We are all part of the same team," Davis pleaded. Abruptly Young retorted that he intended to keep on criticizing the senator as long as farm prices are declining and the farmers are facing disaster.

NOTE: Translated into commodities, the farm recession over the past year has bumped beef cattle from $27.30 per cwt. to $19.70; hogs from $17.90 per cwt. to $16; wheat from $2.22 a bushel to $2.12; corn from $1.68 a bushel to $1.50; oats from 95 cents a bushel to 84 cents; cotton from 40 cents a pound to 31 cents, and butterfat from 76 cents a pound to 70 cents.

PETER EDSON'S Washington News Notebook

Agriculture Economists See No Signs Of Depression In Falling Farm Prices

WASHINGTON —(NEA)—Present declines in farm prices—particularly meat and cotton—offer no signs of the beginning of another 1929-1932 depression, according to top officials of Department of Agriculture.

While a number of senators and congressmen have pointed with alarm to the fact that depressions generally begin with a drop in farm prices, agricultural economists insist there is no bust in the making now.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson, asked if he saw any parallel to 1929 in today's situation, said flatly, "No, I do not."

O. V. Wells, head of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, told the Senate Agriculture Committee that the drop was more like that of 1948-1949. After reaching a peak of more than 300 in January, 1948, the index of prices received by farmers dropped to 240 in December, 1949. It then rose for two years to an average of 302 for 1951.

The drop all through 1953 brought the index to 267 in January, 1953. A further drop of about five per cent, bringing the index to around 250, is possible in 1953, according to BAE.

Predicts Price Increase
The latest BAE "Outlook Digest" points out that the sharp decline in farm prices is about ended now, and even some increase is in prospect for the next few months.

In an effort to reassure farmers and stop mild panic, the Digest emphasizes that of 12 major groups of farm products, the prices of meat and wool alone are lower now (by about 10 per cent) than before the war began in Korea.

Cotton and fruit are up less than one per cent over pre-Korea levels. Tobacco is eight per cent higher, grains 12 per cent higher, dairy products 30 per cent higher, poultry and eggs 40 per cent higher, truck crops 19 per cent higher and vegetables 55 per cent higher.

What turns the farmer, of course, is that prices now are below the 1951 Korean war boom peaks. Cotton, truck crops and meat are 30 per cent below these peaks and wool prices are off 57 per cent.

Friction Between Guam Neighbors
Gov. Carlton Skinner of Guam, who has had his troubles with the Navy ever since civilian government was established on this U. S. Pacific island outpost, has submitted his resignation to President Eisenhower but will stick to his post till his successor is named.

Rear Adm. R. O. Litch, U. S. naval commander of the Mariana Islands, continues to make his headquarters on Guam, so this cause for friction between civil and military governments has not been removed.

JACK JONAS stood near the huge stone fireplace, leaning slightly against the back of a couch, looking down. Across the room was Rudi, sitting straight and tense in a high wingback chair. He, too, was staring at the couch. Both he and Jack looked as though they had been frozen in that posture for hours. Formal dinner clothes emphasized their immobility. Lida Jonas sat in one corner of the couch with her arms tightly wrapped about Mia Jacobs, holding the woman's head close to her slim shoulder and patting it gently. She didn't move when I came in. Jack looked up quickly and his solemn dark face smiled widely.

"Hello, Wilde," he said quickly, obviously pleased with any interruption. "Come in. Come in. Lida, dear," he prodded his wife's shoulder. "Lida, here's Mr. Wilde."

Lida raised her eyes briefly and forced a meager smile. She nodded silently and indicated Mia Jacobs as her excuse for not speaking. I cocked one eyebrow at Jonas.

"We've . . . we've all had a shock," he said tightly. "The death of an old friend. It struck poor Mia all of a heap." He looked back at the couch again. "Let's go into the drawing room," he said tentatively.

"No," Mrs. Jacobs said faintly. "No, that is not proper." She pushed herself away from Lida's shoulder and sat upright. She kept her hands before her face and her long brown hair fell nearly to her shoulders, looking longer and fuller on the bare shoulders that rose from her dinner dress. "I shall be quite all right now," she said. "Excuse me for just one moment." She stood with an unsteady motion, caught herself with one hand on the couch and walked slowly toward the lighted doorway.

Lida rose then and came toward me, holding out her hand. "I am so sorry, Mr. Wilde," she said gently. "It has been a difficult evening."

"Yes," I said. "About Mrs. Fornier, I suppose? I read about it. I remember you telling me you were friends."

"Yes," she said wearily. "For such a long time. Monique was always the gay one, you know."

I mumbled something. "You're the heiress, aren't you?"

"In a way," she said in a thin voice. She went toward the door. "I will see that Mia is comfortable."

"What do you care who inherits, Mr. Wilde?" That was Rudi's hard flat voice. He hadn't moved from his chair. Both hands lay still and relaxed on the arms, but in the time I had been there he had tensed like a steel spring.

"I don't know," I said. "I had a thought, but I guess it doesn't fit now."

JACK JONAS moved away from me toward the couch. This time he sat slowly and reaching down through his pocket to open the hinge for his left knee. He sank down with a grateful sigh. "I don't see how that's important to you, Wilde," he said lightly. "But Lida isn't the heiress. Mia inherits."

"Inherits what?" I asked. "The paper . . ."

"I know," Jack said. "Lida is named in Monique's will for all the separate items. Mostly small sums in trust for other people. A couple of pieces of nice jewelry. Mia gets a ruby ring. And the residue."

"What does that mean?" Jack shrugged. "She's the residual legatee. That means she gets everything not specifically willed to someone else. In this case, it's the Portmanteau fortune. About seven million before taxes."

I whistled and Grodnik echoed the whistle. "Did she know she was due to get it?" I asked.

"I believe not," Jack said. He transferring this island and Tinian from the Trust Territory to U. S. Navy control, hasn't been decided. A volunteer charity collection for the relief of Charles E. Wilson, ex-General Motors president who went through such an ordeal getting confirmed as secretary of Defense, has been started by Franklin Courtney Ellis of Winnetka, Ill.

Ellis explains his drive in a letter to the Wall Street Journal. "Where does Mr. Wilson come out?" it asks. "He gives up more than half a million dollars a year of income . . . and on top of that has to pay several hundred thousand dollars on the sale of his stock, which he was required to dispose of."

"It would seem only just if we ordinary Americans who stand to gain from his sacrifice would chip in and pay his tax. I, for one, have just mailed a dollar bill to the director of Internal Revenue at Detroit with a notation that it is applicable to the tax of Charles E. Wilson."

Smokers Burn
Orders from the new Eisenhower Administration bosses that smoking at desks and in the halls be discontinued have upset many government employees no end. There's a gag going around Washington that, as federal workers go into the washrooms to sneak a smoke, they write on the walls, "Killjoy was here."

Tearful Session
The new House Committee on Veterans Affairs was treated to an emotional scene at its first meeting. Veterans' Administrator Earl Gray opened with a general statement on VA programs. The various congressmen patted General Gray on the back for his good work.

Adm. Joel T. Boone, head of VA hospitals, followed on the stand and opened with a moving account of what a great job he thought General Gray had done. At least it moved into a handkerchief all the time Dr. Boone was extolling the general's virtues.

25-YEAR SERVICE HONORED—Earl Ridge, left, district traffic superintendent of the Midland district for the Southwestern Telephone Company, received a 25-year service pin from Roy Porter of Fort Worth, division traffic superintendent. He started with the telephone firm in Kansas City, Mo. He came to Midland in 1942 from Fort Worth.

squirmed to a more comfortable position on the couch. "We just got a wire from Monique's attorney when we came home this evening. Knocked us all for a loop. Mia especially. She insists she won't take the money. Wants me to have it for Future Americans."

Vaguely I wondered what Mia Jacobs was crying about. "You going to take it?" I asked. "Of course not," Jack said briskly. "I don't need any money." I introduced Grodnik and Connelly. Lida came back and took the chair next to Rudi. I looked inquiringly at the lieutenant.

"I'll handle it," Wilde said serenely. "Mr. Wilde got a new client today. She said her name was Mrs. Claude Ogilvie. Would any of you know her?"

Lida coughed slightly. "But of course," she said quickly. "Mrs. Ogilvie was one of the original sponsors for Future Americans. For a time she assisted when we were first establishing the office. I recall that she wished to donate certain funds, but that was never necessary."

GRODNIK nodded without looking down. "Do you happen to remember when you saw her last?"

"No," Lida said without hesitation. "No, I cannot remember that. I think possibly I have not seen her since the last party we gave. Would you remember, Jack?"

"None," Jonas said. He swung his phony leg up over his right knee and leaned on one elbow. "Stupid, fluttery type. But a good soul, I dare say. I don't even remember whether she came to that party. It was about two months ago."

Grodnik put his stare on Rudi. "And you?"

Rudi flipped both hands in a brisk gesture. "I have no memory, either."

"Um-huh," Grodnik murmured. "Well, Mrs. Jonas, I wonder if you might have recommended that she hire Mr. Wilde to get divorce evidence for her?"

Lida gasped. "No! Certainly not! I have recommended no one to Mr. Wilde."

Pannell Brothers Continue Expansion To Meet Demand

Installation of a big, new batching plant recently by Pannell Brothers has enormously increased the capacity of the firm to fill any size orders for transit mix concrete, sand, or gravel in the West Texas area.

Located at the intersection of Pecos and West North Front Street, the plant has a huge 200 yard bin with six compartments for sand and gravel, plus one for concrete. Four heavy-duty scales are available for weighing out the exact ingredients desired. A 200-foot tunnel for the under stock pile leads up a conveyor belt to the big bin.

Also recently constructed is a ground storage bin, 24 feet wide by 200 feet long. The bin is 15 feet high. The new buildings and equipment are part of the continuing Pannell Brothers expansion plan.

But in spite of the size of the plant, the firm gives the same efficient attention to small orders as well as large ones. Free estimates on concrete work may be obtained by dialing 4-4952.

Pannell Brothers stand by their reputation of satisfactory service. Years of experience and training have equipped them to serve customers with skill and fast delivery. Members of the firm are ready at any time to explain the advantages of concrete building purposes to an interested customer.

Daddy Ringtail

Daddy Ringtail
And Nobody Here
But Us Chickens

Daddy Ringtail, your monkey friend, one day met Mr. Always Hungry, who was tall and skinny, and always "hungry, hungry, hungry!" he said. "Yes, and I'm hungry now," Mr. Always Hungry said.

Daddy Ringtail's monkey house was much too far away for them to hurry home for something to eat, and so they hurried over to Miney Moe's house to eat supper with him. Unfortunately, however, Miney Moe was away digging for gold. To make matters worse, the only food in his house was a bag of chicken feed for the chickens that Miney Moe didn't have any more.

"I'll eat it," said Mr. Hungry, and he poured it in a bowl, and some water over it for milk, play-like.

"Cut-cut-cudaw!" said Mr. Hungry like a chicken when he had eaten all the chicken feed.

"Your poor fellow," said Daddy Ringtail. "Here you have eaten so much chicken feed, you think you are a chicken."

"I don't either," said Mr. Hungry. "I know who I am. I'm only practicing like a chicken to make Mr. Miney Moe ashamed of himself that I had nothing to eat but chicken feed, right here in his very own house." With these words, Mr. Hungry did his practice to be a chicken all over again. "Cut-cut-cudaw!"

"Seeh!" said Daddy Ringtail. "Mr. Hungry, there comes Miney Moe now."

But Mr. Hungry would not shh. "Cut-cut-cudaw," he said again. He flapped his skinny arms like chicken wings, and then walked like a chicken out to the chicken house. He hopped a chicken hop up to the chicken roost, and squatted down to pretend he was going to sleep a chicken-sleep. He did it to make Miney Moe ashamed of himself that Mr. Hungry had found only chicken feed to eat in Miney Moe's house.

"Happy day there, Daddy Ringtail," said Miney Moe.

"Happy day to you, Miney," said Daddy Ringtail.

"Cut-cut-cudaw!" squawked Mr. Hungry like a chicken on the chicken roost.

"Mercy me!" said Miney Moe. "I do believe I have chickens again and he wasn't unhappy about it at all. He hurried into his house for chicken feed and made Mr. Hungry eat some more, which the poor fellow did, and he slept on the chicken roost all night because he thought he was really a chicken, or something I suppose, don't you? Happy day!"

Midland Students Make Flying Visits To Webb AFB

HIGH ALTITUDE—Visiting students learn how to use an oxygen mask in the altitude chamber at Webb AFB where airmen undergo experiments under conditions simulating high altitudes.

ON THE GROUND—Airman Lynn Merritt of the Webb Air Force Base welcomes Gene Morgan, left, Carol Henry and their students from Terminal Elementary School to Big Spring.

Pioneer Air Lines, cooperating with Webb Air Force Base, has inaugurated a program of air education for school children that may well set a pattern for similar industries throughout the country.

On its regular 7:30 a.m. flight into Big Spring each morning recently, for example, anywhere from nine to 15 children from Midland schools arrive at Webb Air Force Base. Before they return to Midland on the 9:20 flight, they are given a special tour of the base facilities.

By the time the kids reenter their classrooms, many of them have had their first trip in an airplane and their first look at Air Force planes and training equipment.

123 Midlanders

Pioneer has carried 4,300 school children on these flights over all its routes to date, most of them in Texas.

Webb Air Force Base, during the last two weeks, has been host to 123 of the children and their teachers from Midland.

The visitors are delivered by Pioneer's Martin 202 airliners to the Webb base operations office. From there they are picked up by an Air Force bus and toured over much of the base.

High Altitude Flights

First stop is the base's brand-new physiological training unit, which is just a scientific name for a high-altitude indoctrination building.

Here the children are given thorough explanations of how the high-altitude pressure chambers are used to show cadets how they will feel and react when they take their first flights to 30,000 or 40,000 feet.

The cadets sit in the compression chambers in complete flight outfits, including oxygen masks, while air is sucked from the room by high-capacity pumps. Observers, including the children and teachers, can watch the cadets' reactions from peep-windows in the side of the air-tight room.

Science Spurge

Capt. Truman Parker, the physiological training officer at Webb, explains to the kids the effects of lack of oxygen on the human body and tells them how the pilot feels at various altitudes, with or without oxygen.

After the scientific spurge, the kids are toured through an Air Force mess hall, taken out to the mobile control tower at the flight runway to watch the jets and propeller-driven airplanes land and take off, and finally they are taken to maintenance hangars and given real close-ups of jet planes in various stages of repair.

Airman Lynn Merritt, of the Webb office of information services, arranges and conducts the tours.

Fares Are Cut

Billy R. Watson, Pioneer station manager at Webb, said that probably several hundred Midland school kids would tour Webb before the local program is complete.

Pioneer, under regulations of the Civil Air Board, is allowed to cut the school children's and their teachers fares in half, and exempt the fare from federal tax. The trips are limited in length to a flight from the departure point to the next station on the route, Watson said. Then the children must return home on the next scheduled flight.

Perhaps other industries might utilize such a plan to familiarize children with their operational setups and working organizations. Pioneer officials think their plan will be invaluable in creating favorable public opinion about air travel.

LIFE SAVERS—The Terminal youngsters crane their necks to see high up in the Webb AFB parachute loft where the life-saving canopies are inspected, repaired and packed.

Eisenhower Asks Lawmakers Boost FSA To Cabinet Rank

WASHINGTON —(P)— Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said Monday President Eisenhower wants to make a cabinet-rank government department out of the Federal Security Administration and has set machinery in motion to create such a department.

Taft, the Senate Republican floor leader, gave this word to reporters after a 40-minute meeting of congressional leaders with the President.

He said much of the session was spent in discussion on the question of repudiating certain "secret agreements" made by Presidents Roosevelt and Truman.

Some progress was made toward drafting a repudiation resolution such as Eisenhower has called for, Taft added.

In his State of the Union address, Eisenhower said he shortly would ask Congress to repudiate any secret agreements of the past which involved the enslavement of free peoples anywhere.

Meets With Newsmen

Taft and House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) met with newsmen in the office of White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty immediately after they and other GOP leaders had held their regular Monday morning strategy conference with the President.

FSA now is headed by Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby, who sits in on cabinet meetings. Mrs. Hobby voiced the hope before she took office that her post would be raised to one of full cabinet rank.

FSA includes the Social Security system and a complex of other federal health, educational and related services.

On the matter of repudiating secret agreements, Taft said the President was referring primarily to the Yalta agreement between President Roosevelt and the Russians.

The Ohio lawmaker said he does not know of any agreement made with the Russians by the Democratic Administrations which still are secret.

He said Eisenhower, in speaking of "secret understandings" in his State of the Union message, was referring to agreements which were kept secret at the time they were made and for some time thereafter.

The Ohio legislator made it plain Congress will not be asked to repudiate any complete agreement but only those parts of agreements which "indicate any acquiescence on our part to the suppression of freedom in satellite countries or elsewhere."

... and here's a message to parents:

For safety's sake, ask your kite flyer's to fly their kites AWAY from all wires—and ask them not to try to dislodge kites that do become entangled in wires.

ANYONE who sees a kite in our lines should promptly call our office. Linemen will remove the kite—undamaged, if at all possible.

Let's all cooperate in making kite flying SAFE this spring!
