Egypt Approves Proposed Treaty

By The Associated Press

The Egyptian Cabinet today approved the proposed Egypt-Israel treaty, but, as a peace pact neared, violence mounted on the West Bank of the Jordan River where Israeli troops killed two Arab student protesters in the week's bloodiest clash.

In Israel, Foreign Minister Moshe Dyan disclosed that under terms of the compromise engineered by President Carter, Egypt will take early control of the Sinai capital of El Arish, a Dyan spokesman said.

The Israeli minister also reportedly disclosed that Egypt has demanded further "goodwill gestures" from Israel, but for now has dropped its demand that Egyptian officers be stationed in the Gaza Strip to oversee autonomy.

In Cairo, Egyptian President Answar Sadat said he thinks "we have achieved peace thanks to Jimmy" and he praised President Carter for his "marvelous" job of peace-making.

The Egyptian Cabinet's approval of the treaty had been expected. Prime Minister Mustafa Khalil announced the 32-member body had voted unanimously in favor of it after a four-hour debate.

The Egyptian Parliament's approval is considered certain. The Israeli Cabinet is expected to endorse the full treaty Sunday, and the Israeli Parliament soon afterward.

In announcing the Cabinet approval today, Khalil said he hoped that soon "the past enmity between the two nations will be something of a memory."

But he added, "The Palestinian question can never be ignored."

Palestinians in Israeli-occupied territories fear that their chances for statehood will be eclipsed by the proposed treaty.

Arab protesters demonstrated today in Halhoul and five other towns in the occupied West Bank. The military command said Israeli troops opened fire when "a group of soldiers and civilians was caught in a violent outburst by hundreds of students on the main road in Halhoul," 20 miles south of Jerusalem.

A 21-year-old Palestinian man and a 17-year-old schoolgirl were killed and another Palestinian was wounded, it said.

Ask Us

Q--I notice stories about local college students making honor lists appear from time to time and maybe some students in the same college will be listed in stories a week or two apart. Aren't they all announced at the same time?

A--Unfortunately; no. College publicity offices vary in their mailing schedules and in the case of major universities, the lists for various schools, or divisions, may be announced at different times. Also, students who live off-campus may not be listed on the college roll as being from Snyder and the newspaper will not learn of them until word is received from other sources.

Thursday update

Industrial Effort

A meeting was set this afternoon at the Snyder Chamber of Commerce office to discuss efforts to bring a major industry here.

It was announced late last week that a firm which ultimately could employ up to 1,000 persons was looking at the Snyder area as a possible site for a new plant. Local agencies immediately began work on the project.

Bill Warner, chamber manager, said the officials of the city, county, the Scurry County Industrial Foundation, the Scurry County Board of Development and the chamber itself were being called to attend a session this afternoon primarily to promote local interest.

It is believed that community interest and acceptance will be a major factor in the firm's final decision. The chamber is asking that local citizens write letters endorsing the efforts of the chamber. These will be presented to the industrial firm's officials during negotiations. It is hoped that a local group can visit the firm's plant now in operation in another state in the near future.

Carmakers Lash Out

WASHINGTON (AP)-Major automakers say the government's schedule for boosting car mileage could trigger an economic disaster for the industry and consumers while saving little or no gasoline.

Industry spokesmen told the House Commerce subcommittee on energy Wednesday that they can meet the overall goal of producing cars that average 27.5 miles per gallon by 1985. But they quarreled heatedly with the Transportation Department's step-by-step schedule to meet the target.

Rabies Transplanted

WASHINGTON (AP)-Government scientists have confirmed that an Idaho woman died of rabies in the first known instance of the deadly virus being transmitted through a cornea replacement, the most common of transplants.

Old railroad depots are being sought by various groups interested in history and nostalgia, according to the latest issue of the Texas Railroad Commission's bimonthly publication called "Texas Railroad Commission Today."

There is an article along with pictures of the old Santa Fe station at Moody, which has been moved to Temple and remodeled into a museum. There also are pictures of the old Katy station at West and the old station at Albany, which now houses a community center.

These old structures once were the core of brisk traffic, but with the decline of the passenger train and the development of modern communication facilities they are no longer needed in many smaller towns along the railroad lines.

At the same time, such accoutrements as the old blackboards where the depot agents posted the times of arrival and departure of the passenger trains are marketable, we are told.

This reminds us of the importance that railroad men used to attach to the time of day and the care they gave their watches. It always seemed to us that most of the railroad men we observed had their expensive pocket watches in their hands almost constantly. And, if you were on a passenger train traveling across the country, the conductor, breakemen, porters all would be glancing at their watches as they walked through the cars.

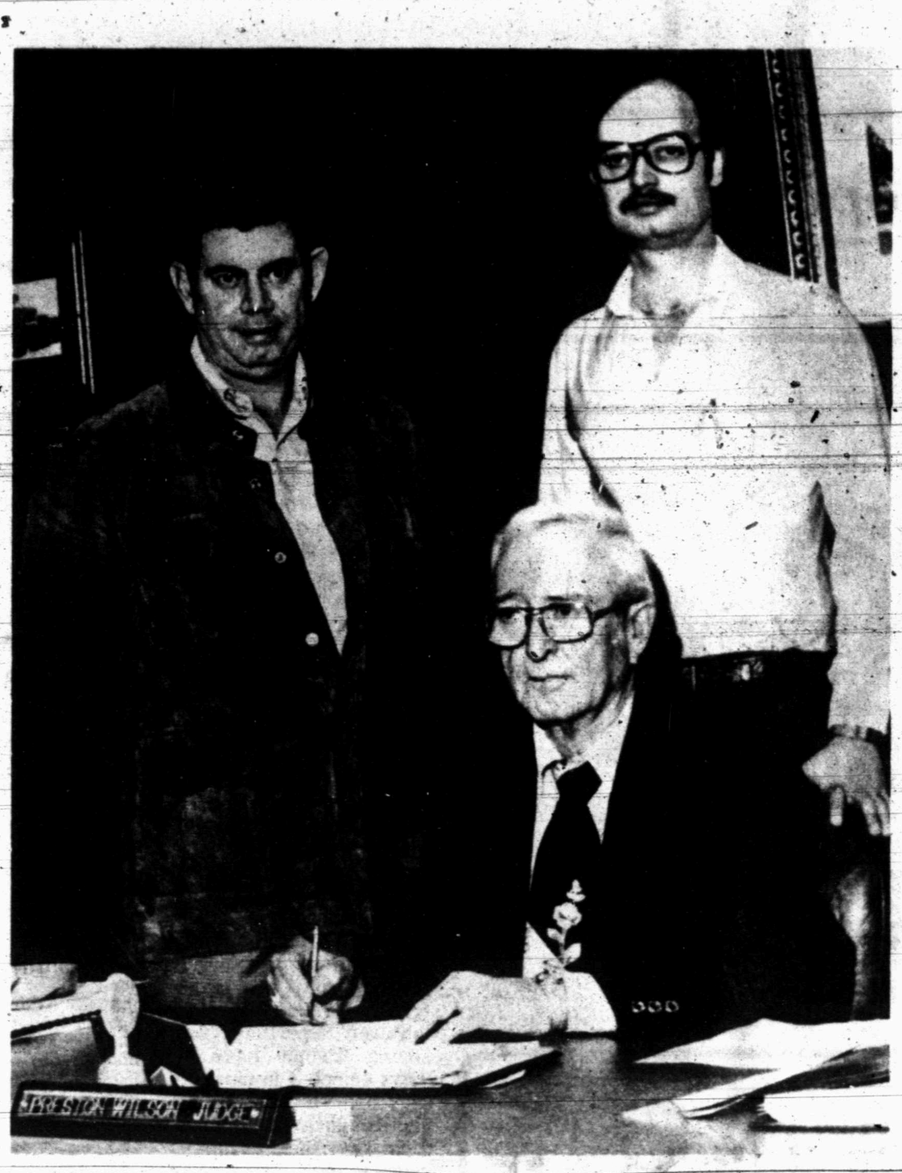

We learned rather early in life, that if you sat in the first car following the mail and baggage cars, usually there would be some railroaders riding free to an assignment up the road, or perhaps on a personal trip. If you were lucky, they would spin a few railroad yarns which helped pass the time. But always, they consulted their watches every few minutes.

And it seemed that the farther behind schedule the train fell, the grouchier the conductor became.

Commercial air terminals have the traffic now that used to previal at the railroad depots. But somehow, they don't seem to have the character of an old-time railroad station, and you never had to be screened by a metal detector to get to the platform of a depot.

Mrs. Sullivan To Seek School Post

Mrs. Lillie Sullivan will be a write-in candidate for Place 1 on the Snyder School Board in the April 7 election, it was announced this morning.

Mrs. Sullivan, owner of the Lad and Lassie shop and wife of Guy Sullivan, local insurance agent, said that she had consented to become a write-in candidate after several people had urged her to do so. She said that she would file necessary papers designating her campaign manager, etc., today with E.D. Flynn, secretary of the school board.

She joins the race with incumbent Vera McSpadden and Vera Stansell for Place 1 on the board. She could not get her name on the ballot because the deadline passed on March 11.

Two places will be filled on the Snyder School Board in the April 7 election. Bill Seale and Don Stacy are candidates for Place 2, which is being vacated by Max von Roeder.

The pre-trial motions were filed Feb. 27 by Williams' attorneys, Tom Chorn of Snyder and Tra-expanding bureaucracy

"My first public office was as a member of the Sumter County School Board, and I have never lost my conviction that the nobles task of government is education."

When Jimmy Carter treated us to that autobiographical tidbit a year ago he was thinking of creating yet another gargantuan bureaucracy - a Department of Education. This from the man who, in the 1976 presidential election, promised to reduce the bloated federal bureaucracy.

What the president wants to do is yank the 142 "education" programs and their staffs from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, together with a handful of "education"-related programs from other departments, and make a full Cabinet-level Department of Education out of the resultant consolidation.

It is unclear whether HEW will thereafter be known as, simply, HW, though doubtless the Carter administration bureaucrats will appease Secretary Califano by inserting a new trendy concern - preferably something starting with a vowel so as to gender a phonetically viable acronym. Ontology, perhaps. Then we would say, in Cronkitese, "HOW Secretary Califano..."

(To which Joe Califano, honest Injun, might reply, "Ugh" - thereby establishing an intelligent discourse that was altogether missing over the years when it was HEW.)

The cost of the new Ministry of Truth will be a cool $14 billion. If we see a decline of an equal sum in the HW, or HOW, budget, we'll be surprised. It is the kind of money that will bring smiles to the National Education Association, the huge teachers union which just happened to endorse Jimmy Carter three years ago. The NEA has wanted such a federal preserve, in which it can dictate the nation's education policy, for years and years.

Even more ominous than the dollars the new department will steal from taxpayers is the suffocating conformity that will be brought to bear on education throughout the land. That is precisely an area of our cultural life where there should be no conformity. If deregulation is urgent for the airlines and the truckers, it is all the more important for the human mind.

Without a robust marketplace of educational ideas and methodologies - allowing enough margin for everything from Montessori to the schoolmaster's cane - what will predominate in this nation will be what the late critic Paul Goodman called mis-education.

Since the 1950s American taxpayers have spent billions on the Department of Health, Education and Welfare alone. Arguably (and in many cases, certainly) we are as a nation less healthy, less wealthy and less wise than when we started. Shortly after his arrival in Washington, Mr. Carter created a spanking new Department of Energy. It took less than two years for DOE officials to make provisions for gasless Sundays and rationing, insulting Mexico and strengthening OPEC in the process.

Anyone sincerely interested in the enhancement of education in this country will shiver at the prospect of a Department of Education. And that's the truth.

strange new worlds

A world half ice, half rock and so cold that a natural process known on earth may be reversed - snow may come up rather than down, oozing out of buried slush to crystalize on the frozen surface.

Another world resembling, in the irreverently memorable description of one scientist, a pizza.

A never before suspected ring around the solar system's largest planet.

These and many other wonders and mysteries have been recorded by the Voyager I spacecraft in its brief flyby of Jupiter. Brief because although the discoveries radioed back to earth have been making news for weeks, this is no time at all compared to the almost two years the 400-million-mile journey required.

It was a long way to go for something, but precisely what scientists may require a much longer time to determine.

What is immediately apparent from the mission, however, is that the more we learn about our immediate celestial neighborhood, the stranger place it becomes. No two worlds yet scrutinized are precisely alike.

The Jupiter revelations suggest that no matter how fanciful may be our earth-based speculation on what lies out there, the actuality is likely to be even more dramatic. With the spacecraft now on the next leg of its journey into infinity, the 20-month, 528-million-mile flight to Saturn, expected to yield an even richer scientific harvest, we can only ask: What now, Voyager?

cold inspiration

There's a proverb that says, "You have to plow in the cold to reap in the harvest."

Many of our Northern states which have suffered the most horrendous winter on record would like some reason to believe that snow and cold have at least some compensating value.

Seventy thousand years ago mostly naked nomadic men divided themselves. Many shivering prehistoric hunters fled south, seeking equatorial warmth.

Others remained in Northern lands, responded to the challenge of the glaciation, learned to use fire, learned to wear clothing made of animal pelts. These Stone Age men learned to cook and dry meats and store nuts against storm and blizzard times when hunting was impossible.

Thus they learned skills, developed endurance, devised tools of stone and bone. They grew strong and tall. This pertinacious breed did what they had to do—learned agriculture. Their trial by nature was long and difficult, but they advanced toward civilization in seven-league boots.

On the other hand, those Stone Age men who fled instead to more comfortable tropical climates took it easy, were not fruitful, were not progressive.

Today we see evidence that the enlightened cultures—industrial, artistic, literary—arose in snowy Northern climates.

Dynamism was spawned by the rigorous winters in Western Europe. Similarly, in our hemisphere, the remarkable scientific and technological ambitions were first realized in Northern America.

Africa and South America and islands of the South Seas were "Too comfortable," lacking in stimulus.

In our own lifetime, in our own country, we have watched the "sleepy Southland" come awake with the development of air conditioning.

Now one can enjoy the best of both worlds, sunshine and shade, temperatures made to order.

Granted, there are other factors influencing the productivity of specific geographical regions; cold weather alone has not been a motivator in the Andes Mountains of South America.

And successive winters rarely follow the same pattern. This year we have witnessed unprecendented snow and cold in Southern California, southern Arizona and the Nevada desert.

And yet I watch heretofore hardy Chicagoans, known for their bursts of productive exuberance, historically able to lift themselves from the ashes of fire and the calamities of climate, electing to flee to the Sun Belt.

As one of them I share the exasperation spawned by impassable roads, collapsed roofs, leaky everything.

But as an historian, the quest for creature comfort first, if not a backward step, is not forward either.

Crime in the bush country is an almost unheard of thing, said Rev. Thomas Lesley.

Lesley, the Ugandan missionary walking from Hobbs, N.M., to New York, passed through Snyder late last week and stayed over for a couple of nights waiting for a burst foot blister to heal.

I interviewed him for a news story, and afterward took him to a local eating establishment. He hadn't eaten anything since that morning, he said, and it was already late afternoon.

Although I parked my car only a few feet from a large window through which my car could easily be seen, I still felt the need to raise the windows and lock the doors. The newspaper's camera was inside and I didn't want it stolen.

Lesley claimed that in the bush country of Uganda it would have been unnecessary for me to lock my car doors. There, he said, crime is a very rare thing.

If by chance something was stolen and the thief found, Lesley said the fingers on the offending hand were cut off. That, he added, was for the first offense.

If the thief steals a second time, his hand is cut off. For the third offense the arm is cut off.

For the fourth offense, Leslie drew with his finger an imaginary line across his throat saying, "That's it," meaning that the offender is killed.

The villagers in the bush country where he lived knew right from wrong and knew what the punishments were for doing wrong, he said. Consequently there is little crime. Punishment is swift and sure if a bit harsh.

The difference between that and a civilized country, he pointed out, is that in a civilized country the guilty party is first slapped on the wrist and told not to do it again. Over in his part of the world, he continued, "they're not civilized yet."

Lesley went so far as to claim that the villagers in Uganda's bush country would even starve to death before stealing food.

He said he normally keeps some food in the huts of the villages he visits. Before leaving one village to go to another he is always careful to remind the village chief to feel free to take some food if his people become hungry.

Otherwise, he said, the food would stay where it was and the people would starve.

That's a world of difference, I think.

commentary

donald f. graff

WASHINGTON, D.C.— The House Administration Committee begins hearings today on a proposal to allow public financing of Congressional campaigns. It appears that once again we are being led down that long treacherous road of more government regulation, higher government spending, and less individual freedom. This is another example of an idea that sounds good on the surface, but, if implemented will radically alter our political system for the worse.

Advocates of this proposal point to the fact that the high cost of running for office is discouraging people from becoming candidates. Also they believe that the majority of the Congress is being "bought" off by means of campaign support they receive from various interests. This is very shallow and superficial reasoning. People have always selected lawmakers they believe will be most representative of their beliefs. They form groups to receive recognition on a collective basis and seek out candidates who agree with their political philosophy. Nearly every American belongs to some organization that is active politically, whether it be a political party, business association, a labor union, or a church group. All these interests are active in the election process. In our system of government, competing groups seek to influence their destiny through the legislative process. There is nothing sinister about this procedure; in fact it has served America very well for over 200 years.

Certainly the high cost of running for office is an ever increasing problem. The difficulty is that politicians are required to spend a large portion of our time campaigning and thus have to disburse large amounts of funds. This problem could be alleviated by shortening the election period.

With public financing of elections we get more bureaucracy and less personal freedom. This proposal gives the government power to determine the allocation of political resources. Politicians will be monitoring politicians. Also there are serious constitutional questions as to whether the government has the right to force a taxpayer to contribute to a candidate or a cause which he does not adhere to. It is my firm belief that every citizen has an absolute right to support the candidate of his choosing. However, we also cannot ignore the cost. In this era of taxpayer unrest it is not wise to start a costly new program with benefits of doubtful value.

My political philosophy is one that advocates less government spending and regulation and more individual freedom. Certainly if public financing of Congressional elections becomes law we will be spending $80 million of the taxpayer's money to hire 500 more bureaucrats, and the end result will be a severe limitation on each individual's right to participate in the political process. Rest assured that I will oppose this legislation should it reach the House floor.

Personal Needs Met With Active Relationships

COLLEGE STATION—Meet new people and keep active relationships alive--to meet your own varied needs, says Jenny Reinhardt, family life education specialist, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

PERSONAL NEEDS

Every individual has the need for recognition, support, love, understanding, acceptance, challenge, creativity and productivity, the specialist continues.

More relationships mean greater chances for fulfilling each of those needs.

OVERCOME 'PEOPLE FEAR'

For many, meeting new people is simple, but others find it frightening.

To overcome this fear, work on having some successes in meeting new people--in spite of feelings that the task is frightening, threatening or uncomfortable.

IDEAS FOR SUCCESSES

Below are ideas for meeting people. Choose the most comfortable ones for you--and try them:

-Take a class in a subject that interests you. Classmates may have the same idea and hope to meet someone with similar interests.

-Volunteer to work at a hospital, school, library or other community facility. Such settings offer many chances for meeting a variety of people.

-Be interested in other people. Comment on their helpfulness, dress, office or their personality. Others become interested in us when we show interest in them.

-Offer to help someone struggling with a child, groceries or laundry.

-Go places where there are people in a mood for having a good time. Beaches, ski slopes, dude ranches or resort lodges are great places for meeting people who are open to meeting others.

-Learn to go places alone --people are more likely to notice and single you out.

-Choose people you would like to meet, then introduce yourself. For example, share cookies with a neighbor or ask for advice on shrub planting.

The morning activities include committee hearings and visits in Legislator's offices, coffee with PTA members and Legislators, Legislative update, viewing house and Senate in session, followed with a luncheon with legislators.

The afternoon agenda includes a greeting by Gov. Clements and tours of capitol and state PTA office.

Forrest and Julia Fox, members of Stanfield PTA, and their two sons are attending these meetings.

GS Troop Has Party

Christy Gannaway was recognized at the party for selling the most cases of cookies in the troop. Christy sold a total of 22½ cases and earned a full campership award.

Members of the troop attending the skating event included Donna Anderson, Lesa Barkowsky, Bonnie Campbell, Carrie Fortune, Christy Gannaway, Becky Hanzalik, Stacie Hart, Sherri Hataway, Terri Holley, Sheila Martin, Kristi Neill, Kim Redeker, Chenelle Reeves, Cherisse Reeves, Tonia Robinson, Kim Seay, Laura Shifflett, Angela Wilson, Tonetta Wood & Christy Bruns.

Slam depends only on a 3-2 trump break, almost a 68 percent likelihood.

Even though declarer got the needed 3-2 trump break, careless play on his part led to defeat.

After winning the opening lead, declarer drew two rounds of trumps and saw that he would be able to ruff a club in dummy and discard his remaining club on dummy's fourth heart. The contract hinged on which order he chose to make these plays.

Without giving the hand sufficient thought, declarer played the ace and king of clubs and ruffed a club in dummy. He then played the ace, king and queen of hearts and was rudely awakened when East ruffed the queen of hearts and cashed the queen of clubs.

Declarer had ruffed that club too early. Once both opponents followed to the second trump lead South should have gone right after hearts. If East ruffed in on the third heart lead that last trump would still have been there to ruff a club and get him in dummy to discard the last club on the fourth heart.

If East refused to ruff declarer would get his club discard early and his club ruff later. Either way, the defense would just get their one trump trick.

In Artificial Insemination...

Researchers Warn Of Inadvertant Inbreeding

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer

BOSTON (AP)-Doctors who practice artificial insemination sometimes use the sperm of one man to impregnant dozens of women, raising the danger of accidental incest among offspring who unknowingly have the same father, a study warns.

The report also chastises doctors for failing to ensure that the men who donate sperm are genetically healthy so that the risk of birth defects will be as low as possible.

The study, prepared by researchers at the University of Wisconsin in Madison, estimates that between 6,000 and 10,000 children are born in the United States each year to women who are made pregnant with sperm from anonymous donors.

The investigators surveyed 379 doctors who practice artificial insemination. Their results were published in today's issue of the New England Journal of Medicine. The researchers said their survey was the first major one on artificial insemination since 1941.

The study found that over 95 percent of the women who receive artificial insemination do so because their husbands are sterile. However, 10 percent of the doctors said they also provide the service for single women.

Three-quarters of the doctors said they never use the sperm of one man to father more than six babies. However, 6 percent said they had used one donor for 15 or more pregnancies, and one doctor replied that one man had produced 50 children.

The doctors keep secret the identities of men donating sperm, and this can lead to inadvertant inbreeding, the researchers said.

"This complication can occur if two people mated who unknowingly shared the same genetic father or if a recipient was inseminated with the semen of a relative," the researchers wrote.

Doctors use sperm from donors who are the same race and build as the recipient's husband.

"A single donor may make a large contribution to a local ethnic community," they said. "Intramarriage within such a community would result in increased inbreeding due to artificial insemination."

The researchers said most doctors screen sperm donors for genetically transmitted defects, such as Tay-Sachs disease and the sickle cell trait, by questioning them about family histories. But only 29 percent of the doctors performed any tests on the men, and these were primarily for communicable diseases.

"I think more screening should be done than the average practitioner is performing," Dr. Sander Shapiro, one of the researchers, said in an interview. "The average practitioner who just grabs the closest male available is doing less than adequate service to his patients."

Most sperm is donated by medical students and hospital-affiliated doctors. However, some physicians said they also acquired it from patients' husbands or their personal friends.

Interest Hike Tentatively OK'd

AUSTIN (AP)—Chalk up another victory for anti-family, lobby-sponsored bills, a senator said Wednesday as his peers tentatively approved 18 percent interest on non-mortgage loans of $175,000 and up.

"We have before us, not only today, a series of attacks on the usury statutes of Texas that have protected us for more than 100 years," said Sen. Bill Patman, D-Ganado.

Separate legislation would raise the home loan interest rate ceiling from 10 percent to 12 percent.

"This is destroying the American family," said Patman.

The bill by Sen. O.H. "Ike" Harris, R-Dallas, would lower from $500,000 the amount of non-mortgage loans subject to 18 percent interest.

"This is Senator Harris' other anti-family bill," said Patman. Harris is also sponsoring a bill to charge 71 percent interest on nine-month loans of $150 to $300, he added.

Senators approved 23-6 Harris' 18 percent interest rate bill. A final vote is expected in several days.

"People will be hunting with dogs the members of the Legislature who voted for this legislation," said Patman.

Harris introduced his bill with a $250,000 ceiling that was changed in committee to $100,000. After Patman threatened to filibuster the bill, the sponsor agreed to a $175,000 figure.

"This is a high bracket loan shark bill, is it not?" Patman asked Harris.

"No," the sponsor said.

"Well then why is there any need for 18 percent interest?" Patman inquired.

"It's just a good round figure," Harris answered. "If he don't want to pay it, he don't have to get the loan."

Patman unsuccessfully offered amendments to lower the interest rate in Harris' bill to 10, 12, 14 and 16 percent. He also tried to raise the $100,000 to $250,000 or $200,000, but senators rejected those changes.

"A hundred-thousand dollars is not a great amount of money nowadays, especially in farming and ranching," Patman said. "There's no telling what kind of abuses will result from this type of legislation. If anything, we should be raising that ceiling, not lowering it."

Harris said he chose $250,000 at first because that figure passed the Senate two years ago. During a Senate Economic Development Committee hearing, Harris said he decided it was more realistic to go to $100,000.

"Money is like a bar of soap," he said. "It costs whatever the law of supply and demand sets as the price."

Lubbock Police Give Warning To Iran Delegation

LUBBOCK (AP)—Police officials have threatened three representatives of Iran's new revolutionary government with arrest for criminal trespassing if they try to occupy the former residence of Iranian Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi.

The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, in a copyright story in today's editions, reported the three were ordered by officials of the Islamic Republic to confiscate all property left behind by the prince.

The son of the deposed shah reportedly flew to Morocco Sunday to join his family living in exile.

Assistant Police Chief C.G. Bartley told the newspaper Wednesday that the men, who asked not to be idenfitied, informed him of their intentions when they arrived Tuesday night.

He said the trio presented him with a letter of introduction signed by Hassan Ali Hanji, the revolutionary government's consulate general in Houston.

Bartley said according to the letter, the trio was appointed to travel to Lubbock to "confiscate all property left by former Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi."

Hanji declined to comment on the Lubbock delegation or its purpose Wednesday, and the newspaper reported Iranian embassy officials in Washington were unavailable for comment.

The prince reportedly paid cash for the $256,000 ranch-style house, which was extensively redecorated for his stay in this West Texas city while he was a student pilot at nearby Reese Air Force Base.

Bartley said he understands the title to the house is in the name of Lubbock realtor Stephen Von Phul. He said the Iranians would require either a court order or permission from Von Phul to enter the house.

Neither Von Phul, or his attorney Elgin Conner, could comment to the newspaper on the ownership of the house or the request of the three men.

However, the newspaper reported that while the deed is in the name of the realtor, a former Iranian military official is the overseer of the house.

The Avalanche-Journal said that official reportedly was en route from New York to Lubbock on Wednesday.

The first United States Congress met in New York City in 1789, and the Constitution went into effect in the ratifying states.

vis Shelton of Lubbock. Shelton also represented Aubrey G. Williams, a relative of the Snyder Williams, during his recent murder trial in Colorado City.

The motions ask for names of witnesses, witnesses' statements, inspection of grand jury minutes, and to discover possible criminal records of witnesses. Two other motions ask for limine and exculpatory evidence. One asks for discovery of physical evidence, police and laboratory reports.

Williams' trial is slated for April 30.

Experience In Bryant Campaign Is Reviewed

Melanie Barrier, former press secretary for Anita Bryant, gave the local Eagle Forum a report on her experiences as a close worker with the anti-gay rights activist in a meeting Monday night.

A native of Lubbock, she worked last summer for Miss Bryant's organization and had an opportunity to share the intimate life-style of Miss Bryant's family and their concerns for the future of America.

She said that when Miss Bryant grew tired and considered retiring, her son Billy, 9, remarked, "but Mama, what will America Do!"

She said that incident is typical of the family's backing and support and that they are close spiritually and emotionally. She said important scriptures in the family's life are Romans 1:24 and I Corinthians 6:9.

Miss Barrier, now a student at Texas Tech, reported on federally-supported counseling and social service centers for the American Nazis, Ku Klux Klan, pro-Castro groups and homosexuals. She said that Robert Kunst, a gay activist, operated a "Transperience Center" in Miami with a government grant of $55,000 until Anita Bryant spearheaded protests and the grant was withdrawn. However, she said $15,000 already had been spent.

She said that homosexuals are actively involving girls 7 to 12 years old in Miami with "A Country Experience for Young Women."

Also, she said that the Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) has a $640,000 grant from the government to study the "gay life-style" because homosexuals are considered disadvantaged.

The National organization of Women (NOW) is now working on a project to get prayer and the pledge of allegiance out of PTA meetings, Miss Barrier said. She reminded the Eagle Forum members of ERA advocate Gloria Steinam's now famous quote, "By the year 2000, we will raise our children to believe in human potential--not God."

She encouraged all to lend support, whether it be vocal or financial, to those fighting for preservation of American's heritage and God-given rights.

In other business, at the Eagle Forum meeting, Bertha Terry reported on her trip to Austin for the state-wide commemoration of the International Year of the Child. With a registration fee of $95, most of the 300 in attendance had their way paid with tax funds, it was reported. The local group heard repeatedly that there was a need for more government funds. The Department of Human Resources had a budget of $1,387,117.967 for this year and is asking for $2,131,-545.314 for 1981. This includes families with dependent children, abused and neglected children and child day care service.,

Lu Bright gave a report on a local group's trip to Lubbock to learn how to help the abused children and especially the battered wife.

Mrs. Bright also informed the group that the Snyder Eagle Forum is the largest supporter of the lobbyist in Austin. The lobby keeps the chapters informed on upcoming legislation which might endanger freedoms.

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Boiled would be better

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Some years ago I read in a British medical journal that raw eggs were unsafe for human consumption because of a substance they contained known as avidin, which has a devastating effect on the vitamins and minerals in the human body.

Recently on some TV commercials I observed that raw eggs added to beverages or drinks were being recommended. May I know what your opinion is about using raw eggs?

DEAR READER — If you want my personal opinion, just looking at a raw egg would be enough to keep me from adding it to any drink. The feel of the raw egg white doesn't tickle my palate, either.

But I suspect you want my professional opinion. There is some basis of truth in your letter, although I'm afraid it is a little exaggerated. The relationship of raw eggs to vitamin deficiencies is based on the egg white and not the yolk. The raw egg white contains an anti-vitamin called avidin. It is able to inactivate biotin which is a vitamin and is important in human metabolism.

In fact, biotin was first discovered because of the effects of feeding raw egg whites to rats. Fortunately, we are not rats so we don't have as much of the same problem.

Now, raw egg white will not affect any of the other vitamins or minerals that you consume. That's what I mean by saying your letter does exaggerate the case a bit.

In man, you'd have to consume a lot of raw egg whites to produce such an effect. Biotin deficiency can cause loss of appetite, nausea, vomiting, a shiny tongue, pale complexion, depression and dry, scaly skin.

We don't normally see biotin deficiencies in man. Why? Because the bacteria normally present in our own intestine manufactures it. In fact, there is so much biotin manufactured in your own intestines that there is three to six times as much biotin in the urine you eliminate as there is in all the food you eat.

Even though I'm not really worried that a few raw egg whites are going to cause vitamin or mineral deficiency in anyone, I do not really approve of their use. Incidentally, the avidin in egg whites is inactivated by cooking.

Eggs are a good food for bacteria. Raw eggs can be a good source for salmonella food poisoning. So I think it is best that all of the eggs we eat be cooked, at least sufficiently to destroy the harmful bacteria that might be present in the raw state.

This is not just an indictment of raw eggs, for that reason. Many of our food sources, including the meat group, are potential breeding and growing places for germs. The development of cooking habits has done a lot more for man than just please his palate. Boiling water has historically been one of the best ways to prevent the spread of water-borne diseases.

For information on what vitamins and minerals you should have, send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 4-6 Balanced Diet, Recommended Daily Dietary Allowances (RDA). Address your request to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Officials Named For Spelling Bee

Judges and the pronouncer have been announced for the Scurry County Spelling Bee set for Friday morning.

The spelling bee, involving students from all schools in the county, will begin at 9:30 a.m. in the fine arts theatre at Western Texas College. Parents and others interested are invited to attend.

The spelling bee officials include Dr. Tom Scannicchio, the Scurry County Spelling Bee Director; Mrs. Barbara Bigham of Snyder Public Schools, pronouncers; and judges, Dr. Ben Brock and Dr. Edward Barkowsky of WTC, Nancy LaRoux of the Snyder Jaycee-ettes, and Mickey Rundell of Ira Public Schools.

In addition to prizes presented to the top five contestants in the county bee, the winner will receive a plaque and compete for additional prizes in the regional spelling bee set for March 31 at Lubbock. Winner of the regional contest will win a one-week, expense-paid trip to Washington, D.C., to compete in the 51st annual National Spelling Bee the week of June 4.

The spelling contests are designed to help boys and girls improve their spelling, increase their vocabularies and develop correct English usage that will help them all their lives.

The nation-wide spelling event is sponsored by Scripps-Howard Newspapers. The sponsor in this region is the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Dog Vaccination Day

shots.

Last year was one of the worst for rabies in some time for both Texas and Scurry County.

Health officials reported that seven persons in Scurry County received rabies treatment in 1978. The treatment involves 23 shots, plus one extra one which costs $175.

For the state, 1978 was the biggest year for rabies since 1961. Rabies was confirmed in 563 animals, and the Texas Department of Health reports that so far this year, rabies has been twice as bad as last year in certain parts of the state.

Wild animals account for a big portion of the rabies cases, but it spreads to dogs, cats, cows and horses as well. Skunks are the biggest carrier of rabies, and these animals are reported to be numerous in some parts of Scurry County this year.

The special day for registering and vaccinating dogs was initiated by the city several years ago and has been regarded as highly successful. The fee for rabies vaccinations during the Saturday event will be $5 per shot.

The amount of the average, ordinary life-insurance policy purchased by women between 1972 and 1977 rose 86 percent to $13,420, according to the American Council of Life Insurance.

The first successful trans-Atlantic radio-telephone conversation was held between New York and London in 1926.

Treaty Tab; $5 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)- President Carter estimates an Egyptian-Israeli treaty will cost American taxpayers about $5 billion. Key members of Congress say that's a small price to pay for peace.

Both Republicans and Democrats said Wednesday that they foresee little trouble in approving new military and economic aid requests associated with the treaty.

Carter, who planned to begin a long weekend at Camp David today, briefed about 50 members of the Senate and House on his peace mission Wednesday at the White House.

Brownsville Pushes For More Rio Grande Bridges

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP)-Officials on the Texas side of the Rio Grande - eager to ease the burden on the traffic-choked international bridges - are trying to wade through the paperwork needed to start any new crossings. "It's strictly political," Brownsville Mayor Ruben Edelstein said of problems blocking efforts to add a couple of bridges here.

The four bridges in the Cameron-Hidalgo County area are often hopelessly snarled during peak hours. Officials in the two counties are working toward construction of eight new bridges.

But none of the officials are willing to guess on when or where the first new bridge will be.

"We have a little saying along the border," said Carl Griffin, superintendent of the Hidalgo-Reynosa bridge. "If you want a bridge in 10 years you better start today."

Brownsville has the only two crossings in Cameron County. Edelstein said the need for new bridges is "extremely critical."

"If there is an emergency and we have to get fire trucks or medical vehicles across they just couldn't get there," the mayor said.

Cameron County owns Gateway Bridge here. Henry Hickford, bridge manager, said the span carries 9,000 vehicles per day. During busy hours it can take more than a half-hour to make the short international crossing.

"Coming back from Mexico it's congested almost all the time," Hickford said.

The second bridge is a narrow crossing owned by the Mexican National and Missouri Pacific Railroads. The bridge can barely carry two lanes of traffic - and no cars cross when the trains crawl across.

County Judge Ray Ramon agrees with Edelstein on the need for more bridges.

"We need as many bridges as the government will let us build. The more bridges, the more commerce and the more communications," the judge said.

But that's about the only thing Ramon and Edelstein agree on. The city had applied for a bridge permit but U.S. officials turned it down.

"The State Department wants to force the city to work with the county on a joint venture on it," Edelstein said. "I can't for the life of me understand why."

So now the city and county are trying to hammer out a joint application. One of the stickiest questions involves the splitting up of revenue from the profitable bridge.

Edelstein said the prime site is downstream from the Gateway Bridge. In addition to a multi-million dollar crossing, the mayor hopes to see an extenstion of an existing expressway.

A second site in western Brownsville - is also being looked at.

A third effort in Cameron County is being made by Port of Brownsville officials. A new bridge proposed for the port area would be part of a massive program aimed at relocating railroad tracks now running near the downtown area.

Ramon is confident the city and county can work out their differences. But that may be less than half the battle, he added.

"The very difficult problem lies ahead in Mexico. It's always been our position that they pay 50 percent. It's a question of the Mexican federal government appropriating the necessary funds," the judge said.

Ramon is more confident about a crossing proposed for Los Indios - south of Harlingen and San Benito. He said officials in those two cities seem ready to work with the county on the project.

In Hidalgo County all Mexico-bound traffic must cross at Hidalgo or Progeso or take the hand-pulled ferry at Los Ebanos.

Bridge Superintendent Griffin said the Hidalgo-Reynosa span owned by McAllen carries 10,500 vehicles on weekdays and up to 13,000 on Saturdays and holidays.

The four-lane concrete bridge is the third at the site. The first fell into the river in 1939.

Griffin said the city wants to build a second span. The new crossing would carry only northbound traffic. The existing bridge would be used for Mexico-bound vehicles.

"Everybody's in favor of it but no permits have been issued yet," he said.

The other crossing in the county is the privately owned bridge at Progreso.

Officials in three other Hidalgo County cities are working toward new bridges.

"We figure the economic impact would be great," said Donna City Manager Mike Lopez.

"But there's a tremendous amount of politics involved. There's local politics, state politics and national politics. And on the Mexican side their politics get involved."

Donna has filed an application with the U.S. State Department. The cities of Pharr and Mission have received U.S. approval and are awaiting word from Mexico City.

Ramon, who has worked with the Mexicans in the past, warns that it could take awhile to hear from south of the border.

AUSTIN (AP)—Merry Nell Drummond, a woman who tries to make foriegners more comfortable in this country, says a bill to raise foreign student tuition is "punitive and just plain mean."

Sens. Bill Moore and Roy Blake are asking the Legislature to require foreign students to pay $75 a semester hour.

Some 85-90 percent of the foreign students in Texas now pay $12 a semester hour or a minimum of $200 a semester.

Tuition for most foreign students taking a normal 15-hour course load would rise from approximately $400 to $2,250 a year.

Moore, D-Bryan, told the Senate Education Committee on Wednesday the bill is designed to stop a "national scandal" - the recruiting of foreign students by American colleges.

After the committee hearing, Director Joe Neal of the University of Texas, international office said he knows of no public college that is recruiting foreign students but said some private colleges are recruiting.

Mrs. Drummond, a "volunteer" lobbyist for International Hospitality Committees of Texas, said the bill would deprive American colleges of the "best and brightest" foreign students.

The Moore-Blake bill also would triple graduate tuition for Texas residents from $4 to $12 a semester hour, and several students registered against the measure.

Moore and Blake, D-Nacogdoches, said a 1977 law raising foreign tuitions to $40 a semester hour had a loophole which students have used to keep paying lower rates.

Another bill by Sen. Oscar Mauzy, D-Dallas, would raise foreign tuition to $40 a semester hour - which is what out-of-state students pay at Texas state colleges - and close the loophole.

Yet another Mauzy bill would enable persons with permanent visas or classified as refugees to qualify for the lower "resident" college tuition.

All three bills were sent to a subcommittee, with instructions to report to the committee within two weeks.

Moore said "somebody in this country is making a business out of recruiting students" so colleges with declining enrollments will not lose state funds.

Of the 23,310 Iranians enrolled in American colleges, for example, 4,487 - or 19 percent - are in Texas, he said.

"Texas taxpayers are subsidizing foreign students, and they would be very unhappy if they knew about it," Moore said.

The Texas College Coordinating Board endorsed Mauzy's $40 bill.

Mrs. Drummond said of 550,000 college students in Texas, only 17,000 are foreigners. California and New York have four times as many students in Texas colleges, she said.

She said the hospitality committees supported Mauzy's $40 bill, if some provision could be retained for financial need.

The Moore-Blake bill, she said, "is an insult and slap in the face to many other countries."

"Please," she said, "don't let a minimum of troublemakers dictate your views on tuition."

20-Year Term Assessed In C-City Case

COLORADO CITY — Twenty years was the sentence Aubrey Gene Williams was handed last night in the stabbing death of his ex-wife, Girlie Williams.

The 20-year sentence, the maximum that can be given to the second degree felony of voluntary manslaughter, was returned about 8:30 p.m. Wednesday in 32nd District Court.

The voluntary manslaughter verdict had been delivered Wednesday morning following roughly eight hours of deliberation by the seven-man, five-woman jury. Deliberation of the punishment phase began about 1:30 p.m.

The body of Ms. Williams had been found July 11 near the Buford Gin. Williams' first trial ended last December in a mistrial.

Russians Buy More Grain From U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department says the Soviet Union has bought an additional 300,000 metric tons of U.S. grain for delivery this year.

Officials said Wednesday the purchases were for 150,000 metric tons each of wheat and corn.

The new sales, reported by private exporting companies, boosted to more than 5.9 million metric tons of the amount of wheat and corn the Soviet Union has bought for delivery through the 1978-79 year that will end Sept. 30.

A metric ton is about 2,205 pounds and is equal to 36.7 bushels of wheat or 39.4 bushels of corn.

Last year the Soviets bought about 14.8 million metric tons of the two grains combined.

"Use Open Dating"

This aid provides you with a guide to product freshness. An example is milk! Look at the date imprinted in the top of the carton. This specifies the last date this item can be sold and still allow you reasonable time to store and use the product at home. You'll find this same kind of dating on many other products. Cottage cheese has the date stamped on the bottom. Egg cartons have the dates imprinted on the end. The places for the date may vary but their purpose does not.

WTC Gets Past Panola Junior College, 68-66...

Westerners Hutchinson Bound!

By BILL McCLELLAN

WACO—The pressures of junior college basketball can be tremendous. Just ask David Brown.

The lanky, 6-6 freshman missed two late free throw shots here last night, then - following a strategic time out by the opposition, designed to sweat the mind of the El Paso native further - he breathlessly sank the effort, aiding Western Texas College in a 68-66 victory over Region 14 champion Panola Junior College.

The victory sends Coach Nolan Richardson's Westerners to the NJCAA National Tournament in Hutchinson, Kan. for the third time in as many years. They will play South Eastern Community College of Burlington, Iowa at 9:30 p.m. on Tuesday.

Last night's game - actually round-one of the national JC tourney - was anything but a perfect game for the Westerners, who had swept through the final two contests of the Region V Tournament with an awesome look.

WTC was tight early in the game, and Panola's reveled defense was up to its predictions; extremely tough.

Behind 34-26 at halftime, the Westerners slowly began to trim the Panola lead however. The WTC defense, equal to the Ponies' if not even more ever-challenging, began to tell and the Westerners took advantage of a number of steals and turnovers.

With 13:08 showing on the clock, WTC pulled within eight points, 46-38, then rolled the scoreboard as Bill Patterson, Paul Pressey and Ronald Portee all scored in succession. Greg Stewart knoted the totals at 46-46 moments later, sinking two free throws off a technical charged to Panola Coach Andy Russo.

Stewart scored again to serve WTC its first lead of the game, but Andre Ewing dropped two points in the Panola bucket seconds afterward to lock it up again. Stewart - who basketed 14 of his 16 points in the second half - ripped the cords again moments later, and from that point on the Westerners took control.

Dwight Williams, sophomore co-captain, made his presence known immediately, hitting on three straight baskets to give WTC the go-ahead 56-48 lead. Later, Pressey found the hoop twice in a row to give the Westerners their biggest lead of the game, 61-50.

Things began to fall apart in the final minutes for WTC however. Patterson missed a layup, Pressey was charged with a fifth foul, and Stewart - so charged a referee - bobbled the ball out of bounds on another occasion.

With 1:18 left in the game, Stewart collected his fifth foul while blocking a Cherokee Rhone shot. Rhone hit the back end of the free shot combination, closing the gap to 65-62.

Kelvin Valentine, guard, trimmed the margin to 65-64 with less than a minute to go. The 5-10 freshman fouled WTC's Dwight Williams with 37 left however, and Williams put the Westerners back up by three (67-64), making both of his free shots.

Again Valentine scored for Panola, driving inside as before for his two-point basket. This time he was called for charging though, and sent Brown to the line.

Brown's effort at the one-and-one line failed to connect and Panola rebounded, with 27 seconds left on the clock. But that always-persistent WTC defense rallied to the occasion again, and with 19 ticks left the Ponies were called for traveling.

Again Brown was fouled and sent to the line. He missed his first effort, and Coach Russo called his team to the bench for some final instructions, and to let the weight lay on the 6-6 freshman a little longer.

Amidst a large crowd of screaming fans at the Highlander Gym, Brown sank the final free throw, insuring WTC at least an overtime. But tight defensive work held up the Ponies and Joe Larkins' desperation shot at the buzzer rebounded from the rim.

Brown collapsed with emotion.

"He was feeling pretty bad," noted Richardson following the victory. "He had msised those free throws and threw the ball away once. He was upset about it. He's a very emotional kid. I like that. He's the kind of player you want on your team," Richardson smiled. "And he made that last free throw that assured us a tie for overtime (if necessary). It was the biggest point he ever scored in his life. Hey, at least he'll have a chance to make up for those mistakes at Hutch (Hutchinson)," beamed the coach, who left for Snyder about 2 o'clock this morning because, "We were so keyed up we couldn't sleep anyway."

Panola was ranked No. 12 going into the game, while WTC was No. 20.

"I felt like we were the underdogs going into the game. They had the top ranking, they had beaten all the big teams (namely top-ranked Navarro Junior College) and they had seen us play at the Region Tournament," said Richardson. "But I still thought we could win the game. We play both ends of the floor, defense and offense. The offense takes care of itself, but we pick up a lot of baskets on defense. I don't think there is a better defensive team in the country than Western Texas College," he added.

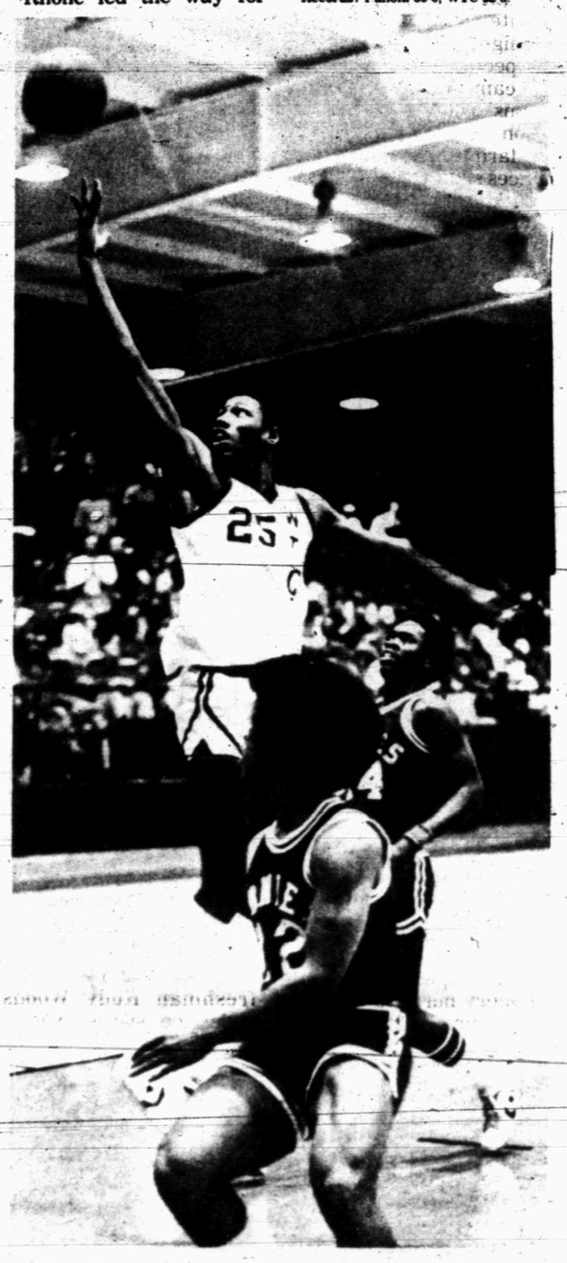

Pressey led the way defensively, ripping off eight steals in the game. The 6-5 freshman also came up with four assists, seven rebounds and 17 points.

Stewart scored 16 points and had seven rebounds, while Dwight Williams had four assists and four steals, and Michael Smith added four steals. Williams and Smith each had 8 points.

Rhone led the way for Panola, scoring 18 points. Aroid Neal added 16 points whil Ewing had 12 and Valentine had 10.

And Brown...he scored one point, and became a man in the world of junior college basketball.

Coaches Luke Warm On Calls By Instant Replay

By JACK STEVENSON
AP Sports Writer

HONOLULU (AP)-National Football League owners planned to study instant replay television as an aide to officials today, but coaches aren't sure it will be of much value.

"I think our officials do a great job and instant replay would slow the game," said Chuck Noll, coach of the Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh Steelers.

Jack Patera of the Seattle Seahawks seconded Noll and added, "I'd hate to see an artificial means come in there."

Tom Landry of the NFC champion Dallas Cowboys said, "Basically, I'd love to have it, but I don't think it's practical. There are different angles and judgment even on film. We look at film and even with the coaches there is a 50-50 opinion on what is right or wrong.

"Much as I hate to see an error, the officials will make them as do coaches and players. If it becomes too mechanical, it will take something from the game."

The NFL experimented with instant replay on some of the preseason games of 1978. In the Hall of Fame game, when Philadelphia beat Miami 17-3, Dick Vermiel of the Eagles asked to see one replay. Don Shula of the Dolphins did not.

"My impression of that game was that things happened so fast that I didn't think instant replay," Vermeil said. "Maybe if we were so conditioned, we could think instant replay."

Vermiel and other coaches said the NFL has made every effort to see if instant replay can be beneficial, but so far there are some impractical areas.

Shula commented, "From everything I've seen, I can't say it's a surefire solution. I still think you can't take the human element out of our game...players, coaches or officials."

He added, "I think the addition of the seventh official last season was a big help. It enabled better positioning and there were fewer controversial calls. Baseball has an umpire over almost every play and the closer our officials are to the plays, the better."

Guidry, Seaver Far Ahead Of Mates

By Herschel Nissenson
AP Sports Writer

Ron Guidry and Tom Seaver are in midseason form. Unfortunately, the rest of the New York Yankees and Cincinnati Reds aren't.

Guidry, the hard-throwing left-hander who was the American League's Cy Young recipient last year with a 25-3 record and a 1.74 earned run average, made his spring debut with three scoreless innings, but even that couldn't prevent the world champion Yankees, winless against major league opposition, from dropping their seventh exhibition game in a row, 3-2 to the Kansas City Royals.

Meanwhile, Seaver went five innings, allowing just three hits and no runs as the Reds edged the Toronto Blue Jays 6-5 on Mike Grace's RBI single in the 11th inning. It was their second victory in five games.

Guidry walked one, struck out two and said he had no intention of "trying to blow anyone away. I don't want to leave it down here. I just want to work on my rhythm and my release points."

The Royals scored twice off Tommy John and won the game in the bottom of the ninth on Willie Wilson's two-out single off rookie Ron Daivs. Steve Busby, attempting a comeback from serious shoulder surgery, worked four innings for Kansas City, allowing one run and two hits.

Seaver, meanwhile, proclaimed himself "pretty much on schedule. I'm throwing as hard as I can. However, I'm not throwing as hard as I'll be able to throw. I'd say I'm about 80 percent. I can't move the ball as well as I'll be able to move it. My legs just aren't strong enough yet."

Elsewhere, the long ball was very much in evidence that the hitters were starting to catch up with the pitchers. Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell, Milwaukee's Ben Oglivie, Seattle's John Hale and Dan Norman of the New York Mets all had two-homer games.

Stargell hit a solo homer and a three-run blast, powering the Pirates to a 10-inning 7-6 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies. Oglivie reversed Stargell's order with a three-run homer and then a solo shot as the Brewers downed the San Francisco Giants 6-3.

Bengals Set for Track

BROWNFIELD – Snyder High School boys varsity team will be competing in the Cub Relays which begin here tomorrow at 1 p.m.

The afternoon-evening meet is the first of its kind the Tigers have competed in this season. Tomorrow's meet will also be the first time Snyder has competed against Brownfield.

Snyder girls open their season by attending the Spur Track and Field Meet on Friday also.

Saturday, Snyder eighth grade boys and girls will attend a track meet in San Angelo.

Cat JV Rallies Past Midland, 12-7

MONAHANS – Snyder varsity baseball team was to compete in Monahans Tournament play today, Friday and Saturday.

The Tigers, at 5-3, have won their last five games in a row.

Snyder JV recently slapped Midland 14-7.

Snyder broke open a 2-1 game after pitcher Steve Tate retired three Bulldog hitters with the bases loaded in the bottom of the third inning.

With that impetus the Tiger bats drove in nine runs in the top of the foruth. The Tigers added three insurance runs later in the game.

The contest was highlighted by the Tigers' defensive play throughout, keyed especially by Gary Atwood, Paul Gafford, Spanky Ragland and Neal Evans.

Offensively Ragland went four for four with a solo homer in the second.

9 Top Golfers In Bernardo Classic

SAN DIEGO (AP)-Friday is Hollis Stacy's 25th birthday and she'll be celebrating it with 116 other top women's golfers by playing in the $160,000 Rncho Bernardo Golf Classic which opened its 72-hole run today.

Nine of last year's 10 top money earners will be seeking the $22,500 winner's check on this fifth stop of the 1979 Ladies Professional Golfers Association tour, including defending champion Sally Little. Three amateurs will also be competing in the event.

Missing is Nancy Lopez, who defeated Stacy last week by one stroke to win the $100,000 Sunstar Classic in Los Angeles.

This event was played on the 6,212-yard Rancho Bernardo Country Club layout for the first time in 1978 and Little is favored to repeat her victory. She topped Lopez in the first hole of sudden death last year after both finished at 282.

Stacy, who led most of the Sunstar before Lopez edged her with a birdie on the 72nd hole, could have been a factor here last year but she only played two days.

Others Are Playing, Too...

NCAA Attention Focuses On Bruins, Sycamores

By The Associated Press

In case you hadn't heard, Marquette and DePaul and Louisville and Arkansas are playing basketball tonight in the National Collegiate Athletic Association tournament.

The problems those four teams face are the same ones that San Francisco and Oklahoma face, but in a far different way.

You see, second-ranked UCLA and No. 1 Indiana State are also playing tonight and, as might be expected, the Bruins and Sycamores are getting the lions' share of the attention.

Marquette, ranked 10th, faces sixth-ranked DePaul in the opener of the West Regional semifinals at Provo, Utah. Then San Francisco, ranked 12th, goes against a bunch of Bruins intent on proving that UCLA belongs back at the top, where it reigned for so many years.

In the Midwest Regional semifinals at Cincinnati, No. 13 Louisville opposes fifth-ranked Arkansas, then 16th-rated Oklahoma takes on the Sycamores, who are equally intent on proving that Indiana State belongs right where it is - No. 1 in the rankings.

There are eight other teams - all ranked - waiting in the wings for their chance to advance to the regional finals. On Friday night in the East semis, it's No. 8 Syracuse facing No. 14 Pennsylvania and No. 17 St. John's playing No. 18 Rutgers at Greensboro, N.C. And on the same night, the Mideast semis at Indianapolis send No. 4 Notre Dame against No. 19 Toledo and No. 3 Michigan State against No. 7 Louisiana State.

The NCAA has to share the spotlight tonight with the National Invitation Tournament's third-round games. Old Dominion visits 15th-ranked Purdue and Alabama takes on Texas A&M in Houston, with the winners playing each other next Monday night in the semifinals at Madison Square Garden. Indiana and Ohio State, who received third-round byes, will play the other semifinal leading to next Wednesday night's NIT championship matchup.

UCLA, which had a few centers of note (Lew Alcindor, Steve Paterson, Swen Nater and Bill Walton) during its championship seasons, now must overcome San Francisco's 7-foot-1, 255-pound All-America Bill Cartwright, owner of a 24-1 point scoring average and an NCAA-leading 16 rebounds a game. Among the Dons' other starters are 6-8 Guy Williams, 6-8 Bart Bowers and 6-6 Doug Jemison.

"They are big and physical and also very quick," acknowledges Bruins Coach Gary Cunningham. "They'll be the biggest team we've played this season."

The Marquette-DePaul game is a rematch of the teams' regular-season thriller, when Gary Garland's basket just before the buzzer gave DePaul a 61-60 victory. "We always play close," says DePaul Coach Ray Meyer. "They know us. We know them. They know our style. We know their style. It should be a good game and it will go one way or the other by a point or two."

Arkansas Coach Eddie Sutton naturally has Louisville's Cardinals on his mind at the moment. "Anyone of their starters could have a 20-point night. They're explosive. They have as much talent as anyone we've played," he says.

But he's also looking ahead to a possible date with the unbeaten Sycamores.

"Indiana State, day in and day out, may be the better team than his Razorbacks but at this stage of the game anyone who's left has a shot."

Denny Crum, Louisville's coach, expressed a bit of concern over Arkansas, methodical style. He said he would have preferred to face a run-and-gun team.

"They do an excellent job of controlling the tempo," Crum said of the Razorbacks. "Personally, I don't like their tempo, but I can't argue with their results. They do what they have to to win."

Lee Rose, Purdue's coach, is also looking ahead a lot further ahead than Sutton. "We've been learning to play together and I think we're beginning to develop some confidence," he said of his Boilermakers, the only ranked team left in the NIT. "Hopefully this will carry over into next year." And as for Old Dominion, Rose said, "We're scrambling to find out more about them. All I know is they're a run-and-gun team-and a good one."

Randy Johnson Signs Contract

SAN ANTONIO, Texas (AP)-Quarterback Randy Johnson, who played 11 National Football League seasons with four teams before retiring after the 1977 campaign, signed Wednesday as a player-coach of the San Antonio Charros of the American Football Association.

Johnson, 34, a former NAIA All-American at Texas A&I, is an account executive for a local car-truck leasing agency.

Reggie King Is Well...

Tide Confronts Aggies

HOUSTON (AP)-Alabama basketball coach C.M. Newton has some bad news for the Texas Aggie basketball team-Reggie King is well and eager to play in tonight's National Invitation Tournament quarter-final game in the Summit.

"Reggie is fine. He'll be ready to go," Newton said of Alabama's all-time leading scorer. "I wish we had a little more time to rest but we don't. We're going to try and go out and not play tired."

Hurls No-Hitter

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)-Sophomore Bobby Landry hurled a no-hitter in his first starting assignment of the college baseball season Wednesday night, leading Louisiana State University to a 1-0 victory over Southern Mississippi in the opening game of a double-header.

Landry, whose two previous appearances had been in relief, struck out seven.

The Aggies, 24-8, and the Crimson Tide, 21-10, will be battling for a spot in the semi-finals of the NIT in New York Monday night against the winner of another quarter-final game between Big 10 co-champion Purdue and Old Dominion.

King sat out the pregame warmup Monday night because of a stomach virus then went out and scored 43 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead the Tide into the quarter-finals with a 90-88 victory over Virginia.

King, the Tide's 6-6 center, will battle A&M's 6-11 All-Southwest Conference freshman Rudy Woods under the boards. Woods, 6-11, has paced the Aggies' strong inside game since becoming an instant starter this season.

"There's not a lot of time to prepare a team for a game like this one," Newton said. "We're so close. It would be awfully disappointing to come this far and lose. Still it's an honor to get this far. But we're shooting for one more win to get to New York."

The Aggies, who finished third in the SWC, will be the official home team in the game in the 15,500 seat Summit. NIT officials opted for the Summit instead of A&M's 7,500 seat G. Rollie White Coliseum on the A&M campus, deserted because of spring break.

The crowd will be mostly Aggie fans but crowd preference hasn't affected the Aggies' play this season. Thirteen of A&M's 24 victories have been on the road, including victories over New Mexico and Nevada-Reno in two earlier NIT games.

"To me, you go out and play the best you know how to play, and the crowd shouldn't bother you," said Vernon Smith, the Aggies' leading scorer. "Besides, if you knock off a good team in front of their crowd, that just proves it to people."

Ohio State and Indiana, a team the Aggies beat on the road in regular season, already have gained byes into the NIT semifinals.

Mexico Quake Kills Four

MEXICO CITY (AP)-The powerful earthquake and after-shocks that jolted Mexico left four persons reported dead, 32 injured, 400 treated for hysteria and widespread damage, including 150 toppled homes, officials said today.

The Seismological Institute said the quake hit shortly after 5 a.m. Wednesday, registered 7.0 on the Richter scale and was centered near Acapulco. Eighteen aftershocks registering as high as 5.0 continued for hours and lesser ones lasted into the night.

Police said a 14 year-old girl was killed by falling debris in Mexico City. Ham radio operators reported two deaths in remote areas, and a girl was reported crushed to death by a crumbling wall near the center of the quake.

Twenty-six persons were treated as out-patients and six required hospitalization, the Red Cross said. Police said 400 persons were treated for hysteria, adding more would have been hurt had the tremor struck during a busy hour.

Two Vehicles Are In Mishap

One minor traffic accident was investigated by city police Wednesday.

The mishap occurred at the Sonic Drive-In about 11:45 a.m. and involved a 1973 Plymouth driven by Kathryn Hanks and a 1970 Datsun driven by Russell White.

A Life in Need Of a Hope-Buoy

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 40 and my life is worth absolutely nothing. This is not just middle-age depression. I've been this way all my life. I have failed in every relationship I've ever had, beginning with my family while growing up.

I was a complete failure as a wife, too. (I cannot have children, but I probably would have failed as a mother, too.) I have failed in the business world also. I can't seem to succeed in anything.

I have really tried, Abby, but everything I do ends in failure. Suicide seems to be the only solution. Please don't tell me I need a psychiatrist. I have been going to the same one every week for 14 years, and he hasn't helped me. If he had, I wouldn't feel this way.

Other than suicide, is there any answer for someone who is so hopelessly miserable?

I guess maybe I'm trying to find some reason to go on living because I'm really afraid to die. Please help me.

DISCOURAGED IN ARLINGTON

DEAR DISCOURAGED: Your letter tells me that you DO have hope and WANT to live.

If your doctor hasn't been able to help you after 14 years of weekly treatment, ask him to refer you to another therapist.

Please write again in two weeks, and tell me how you feel. I care.

DEAR ABBY: My husband had too much to drink last night and confessed that the reason he bought me a lovely overnight bag for Valentine's Day was because he'd bought one for his girlfriend, and he felt guilty. Now I don't even want the bag.

What do you think?

B.J. IN WASHINGTON, N.C.

DEAR B.J.: I think you husband should quit drinking and looking at bags.

DEAR ABBY: My mother recently remarried and told us she was selling the family farm. Because my sisters and brothers (and I) loved the farm so much, we asked her to sell it to us to keep it in the family.

Without telling any of us, my mother sold the farm to a total stranger!

Abby, we are all so hurt that we are going out of our way to avoid seeing or talking to our mother.

I feel guilty about avoiding my own mother, but I just can't bring myself to forgive her. The others feel the same way.

Can you or one of your readers who has experienced the same situation help us?

Right now, I don't care if I never talk to my mother again.

DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: See your mother and ask her to explain her actions and talk about her feelings frankly. Don't judge her until you have all the facts.

DEAR ABBY: Can a girl get pregnant from kissing with her mouth open?

CONNIE IN ANCHORAGE

DEAR CONNIE: No. But it's a good beginning.

Wedding bells in your future? Whether your lifestyle is bridal gown or blue jeans, Abby lays it all out for you in her booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents) self-addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Contrary to popular belief, lightning can strike more than once in the same place.
