MOODY SAYS DEPARTMENT MUST ACT

SITUATION AT BORDER IS ACUTE; RAIL STEPS TAKEN

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 10.—Unless the state department acts shortly to communicate officially with the Mexican government in an effort to influence reopening of the consulate at Laredo, Governor Moody will take the matter straight to President Hoover, he announced this morning.

After reading dispatches telling of the action of railroads in placing an embargo against Laredo because of the congested conditions there caused by the closing of the consulate and also an official statement from Mexico City that no action was in sight, he again called the state department at Washington on the telephone.

"I shall tell the state department that the day they had asked us to wait had passed, with another day thrown in to boot, and advise it if it does not act I shall feel it my duty to appeal directly to the president of the United States," the governor said.

HOPES LESS BRIGHT FOR SETTLEMENT

LAREDO, Jan. 10 (AP)—Hopes of Laredo for an early settlement of troubles with Mexico which led to the closing of the Mexican consulate here with consequent crippling of international trade, were less bright today after reports from various points.

It was announced at Houston last

MAY CHARGE HENDERSON

PROMISE OF ATTENTION IN PROTESTS GIVEN BY RADIO MAN

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — Promise that attention would be given very soon to protests against the asserted use of profane language over radio station KWKH at Shreveport, La., was given today to the senate Interstate Commerce committee by Chairman Robinson of the radio commission.

Robinson, who appeared before the committee as a witness on the Couzens communications bill, told Senator Dill, democrat, Washington the commission now had a sworn statement as to language being used.

Dill Voices Protests

Dill has been voicing protests on the senate floor against the station, operated by W. K. Henderson.

Robinson said Henderson had been "on the carpet" within the last year, but he had proved an audience of 160,000 wanted the station continued.

SOONER MAN LOSES TO 'BUNCO' PARTY

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 10 (AP)—J. O. Cales, Ralston, Oklahoma, oil operator, today sought two men and $3,500 of his money.

Cales came here hoping to complete negotiations with the men for sale of an oil lease at a price of $50,000. He was requested to place $3,500 in escrow to bind the deal, the other parties to the agreement promising to post $5,000.

His forfeit money was drawn by Cales from a bank, and he placed it in a wall cabinet in his hotel room. The two men to whom the lease was to be sold left his room after vainly awaiting arrival of a third man, who, they said, would obtain their $5,000.

Cales went to the lobby of the hotel. When he returned to his room the $3,500 was gone.

The son weighs 6 1-2 pounds and the daughter 5 pounds. The Kemp family is shown below.

COUNSEL FOR STATE BECOMES MIXED IN BRADY TRIAL; BROOKS ASKS THAT OTHER LAWYERS NOT TAKE ANY PART

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, Jan. 10.—District Attorney H. H. Brooks refused to discuss today his request to Harris and Harris, Austin attorneys, and John M. Mathis of Houston that they not participate as special prosecutors in the trial of John W. Brady for murder.

Judge Harris last night announced Brooks had written the attorneys employed as special prosecutors requesting their withdrawal.

To Trial January 20

Brady, former member of the court of civil appeals, is to go to trial on January 20 on an indictment charging him with the murder of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, stenographer. Miss Highsmith was stabbed to death on the night of November 9, and Brady has been in jail since.

In a letter to Brooks, June Harris told the 24-year-old district attorney it was "beyond us to understand why you should have taken this arbitrary, extreme and unprecedented step."

Harris claimed his firm's connection with Brooks in the case had been harmonious and it had "procured written, signed statements from the most important material eye witnesses to the tragedy and had delivered these statements" to him, and that it had located and furnished Brooks, "with names of other important and material witnesses."

Brooks had asked in his letter to the lawyers that his communication "be given no publicity."

Harris said Mathis had written him the "reasons given by the district attorney for his action were silly."

Harris said his firm and Mathis had been employed by the dead girl's father, A. G. B. Highsmith.

THEY'LL PAY BET

Anadarko Legion To Sweep Streets Barefooted

ANADARKO, Okla., Jan. 10 (AP)—When the Anadarko Legion Post loses a bet it pays. Consequently legionnaires tonight will sweep the streets of Carnegie, a neighboring town, sans shoes and sox.

A brilliant indian summer was shining two weeks ago when the wager was made over a matter of membership recruiting. January 10 was agreed on as the day of reckoning, the loser to sweep two blocks of the winner city's streets, barefooted.

For the last three days, temperatures and snow have been tumbling. But the Anadarko vets aver the debt will be paid.

WOMAN DIES IN BROWNWOOD FIRE

BROWNWOOD, Jan. 10 (AP)—Mrs. N. E. Weatherman,67, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed her house last night. A new stove near her bed was believed to have become overheated, starting the blaze. She was said to be survived by a son, Monroe Ethridge, Fort orth, and a brother named Dalton in Lubbock.

Cotton Men Face Senate Group Probe

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—The senate sub-committee investigating cotton exchanges decided today to reopen its hearing tomorrow and to summon next week the officers and records of the New York Cotton exchange.

T. Ralph Jones, Norfolk, Virginia, cotton dealer, and C. E. Morley of Oklahoma City were called to appear at tomorrow's hearing.

Miners Uprising In Rothbury Mine Area

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Jan. 10. (AP)—Resenting the government's action in moving two trains of coal from Rothbury, ten thousands miners were arrested today at various centers intending to march into the town. A detachment of 70 police was dispatched to Rothbury from Sydney.

A crowd of four thousand miners surrounded Aston Fields Colliery, stripped two non-unionists, who recently gave evidence against a labor official, and burned their clothing.

The coal fields seethed with excitement, and many centers bordered on a state of panic.

Missouri Action Gets Denouncement

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Asociation of University Professors through a special investigating committee has severely censured authorities of the University of Missouri for disciplining two members of the faculty who approved circulation of a sex questionnaire among students of that institution.

Findings of the committee, published today, denied charges of President Stratton D. Brooks and the board of curators of the university that the list of questions was shocking to the students and tended to make them lax morally.

Two More Hanged For Prison Break

FOLSOM PRISON, Calif., Jan. 10 (AP)—With the execution of Walter E. Burke and James Gregg here today, the state had claimed the lives of four of six men sentenced to death for the murder of convict George Baker, one of eleven persons killed during the Folsom Prison outbreak on Thanksgiving Day, 1927.

TWO NATIONS DIVIDED ON NAVAL PARITY

FRANCE AND ITALY TO PRESENT PROBLEM IN CONFERENCE

(By Associated Press)

ROME, Jan. 10.—Italy and France will go to the five power naval conference at London, convening January 21 with problems particularly themselves unsettled, and the lines of disagreement in their viewpoints drawn more definitely than at any time before.

Publication here of the gist of the French note of January 3 to the italian government disclosed that the Paris government rejected the Italian proposition of naval parity, a fundamental Italian thesis for further negotiation.

It was made known that the foreign ministry regarded the French reply as a rupture of negotiations which have gone on for many weeks between the two countries. The failure, whether momentary or permanent, gave rise to doubt of success in this capital about that part of the London naval program especially affecting France and Italy.

FRANCE UNABLE TO CONCEDE TO ITALY

PARIS, Jan. 10. (AP)—France is unable to concede naval parity to Italy as a basis for negotiation of a Mediterranean pact of non-aggression, but official circles do not feel too much importance should be ascribed to the fact.

The French foreign office authorities believe the entire subject of sea strengths should be settled from the stand-point of the security needs of each nation. Naval parity as such is held to be a doctrinal question of prestige only.

WOMAN CHARGED HUSBAND'S DEATH

PARSONS, Kas., Jan. 10 (AP) — Charged with poisoning her fourth husband, Mrs. Nora Dameron today was arrested here and taken to Oswego, Kas., for arraignment on a murder charge.

The husband, William T. Dameron, 58, section foreman on the Frisco railroad at Oswego, died Oct. 22 at Harjo, Okla. Two days later his burial was halted by his daughter by a former marriage, Mrs. Arthur Kiker, of Bartlesville, Okla., who demanded an investigation of the cause of death.

The state alleges poison was found in Dameron's brain.

The couple had been married about five years. Two of the woman's previous husbands died.

Vermont Town Is In Danger of Flood

SWANTON, Vt., Jan. 10. (AP)—Part of this town and nearby farms were inundated today as waters of the Merrimac river reached a level higher than the destructive flood of 1927. Attempts were made to dynamite an ice jam at the mouth of the river to release back waters.

IN PARTY FIGHT

Prominent in what promises to be the hottest political campaign in years in Alabama is Hugh A. Locke, below, Birmingham attorney, who is an independent candidate for governor. He has been barred from the 1930 state Democratic primaries because he was chairman of the anti-Smith campaign committee of Alabama in 1928.

DEATHS NEAR BEAUMONT ARE BIG MYSTERY

MAN SHOT TO DEATH AND ANOTHER CUT BY AN AXE

(By Associated Press)

BEAUMONT, Tex., Jan. 10—Axe wounds suffered by "Baby" John Hooks, 34, Bowers' Ferry farmer, yesterday proved fatal today.

Hooks died in a hospital at Silsbee almost 24 hours after he was shot to death.

Cause for the strange double killing could not be explained, since no one knew of ill feeling between the men.

Hooks' skull was badly crushed.

Staying in Same Room

Meager reports received here from Bowers Ferry were that Hooks was staying at Bowers' home during the absence of Hooks' wife. He and Bowers occupied the same room during the night, and the double slaying was discovered when members of Bowers' family entered the room after hearing a shot.

Hooks was sprawled across the bed, unconscious. Bowers lay dead on the floor, a shotgun by his side.

Gavin's Shooting Blamed To Officer

DETROIT, Jan. 10 (AP)—The Detroit News today said an investigation carried by officials into the shooting last week of Inspector Henry J. Garvin, head of the police crime and bomb squad, has brought the charge the attack was part of the plot of a jealous police inspector in the same department.

COLD WAVE IS GENERAL OVER STATE

RIO GRANDE VALLEY IS IN DANGER OF COLD; LUBBOCK COLDEST

(By Associated Press)

Winter's worst blow hit Texas today as seasonal records for cold weather, frozen and shattered, fell before the onslaught of sub-zero temperatures in the Panhandle and freezing or near freezing weather over the entire state.

The present cold wave's death toll was brought to at least three today with the death of a three-year-old boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Hale of Winters, in an automobile accident attributed to slippery roads. The deaths of a negro baby whose clothing was ignited by a gas fire turned too high to combat the bitter cold in Dallas and a fireman for the Santa Fe whose skull was fractured when he slipped and fell from his icy cab at Coleman, also were reported.

Coast Cities Struck

Coast cities reported temperatues slightly above freezing with the mercury falling. San Antonio experienced freezing weather expected to continue into the Rio Grande Valley with possible injury to the truck gardening area tonight or Saturday.

While North Texas was promised some relief from intense cold, the official forecast of unsettled weather, coupled with threatening skies, led some Panhandle cities to fear another layer of snow for the ten-inch fall already on the ground there.

Clarendon was unofficially the coldest city in Texas today with street thermometers reading 11 below zero. Lubbock held the official record with 10 below.

At Borger, the mercury stopped at

MUNDAY SUFFERS FROM FIRE TODAY

MUNDAY, Jan. 10. (AP)—Fire which broke out at 3 a.m., today in the E. E. Akers dry goods store caused losses totaling $100,000.

The Akers store and the Guinn Hardware company were destroyed the loss amounting to $40,000 on each. The Home Bakery and Mrs. Effie Alexander's Millinery store were damaged by water.

The burned structures were the property of Fred Boach and will be rebuilt. They were valued at $20,000.

Munday and Foree firemen, who rushed here in answer to a call for help, fought the flames for three hours with the temperature near zero.

Mrs. Hines Shows Slight Improvement

Condition of Mrs. Fred Hines, 309 Avenue J, who is seriously ill of bronchial pneumonia in the Lubbock sanitarium, shows slight improvement early this afternoon, it was announced by attaches at the institution.

Her condition, however, is still regarded as serious, it was said.

Mrs. Hines is manager of the Hilton Hotel beauty shop and her husband is pressman of the Avalanche-Journal publications.

Five New B. C. D. Men To Be Named Today

Five new directors for the Lubbock Board of City Development to take the places of the quintet whose terms expire, will be selected this afternoon at four o'clock by members of the City Commission, Mayor Harley D. Woods announced this afternoon.

The five directors will be chosen from a list of seventeen "high men," chosen by ballot on the part of the membership. The "high list" was originally supposed to be fifteen but a triple tie for last position forced it higher, it was reported by Mayor Woods.

THOUSANDS DIE FROM COLD

PEIPING, China, Jan. 10 (AP)—Parts of China are being swept by the severest cold in sixty years, with untold suffering and considerable loss of life resulting. Famine areas particularly have been hard hit.

The Press today published dispatches from Suiyuan district in northern Shansi estimating 15,000 aged under-nourished adults and children were dead due to exposure. In the town of Fengchen 2,500 were frozen to death, in Sahsien 2,000 died, and in Peotowchen 800 were killed by the cold.

Honan Province reported the coldest weather since 1870.

The Rengo News agency said 700 soldiers were frozen during the movement of the second army.

Peiping police reports said 167 men and 41 women had been found dead here since Monday, most of them frozen.

FARMERS ARE INVITED TO ATTEND MEET

DEAN LEIDIGH IS TO EXPLAIN STATUS OF FARM BOARD AID

Returning today from an executive board meeting of the Texas Farm Bureau Cotton association at Dallas, R. E. Overstreet, director of the organization, issued an urgent invitation to every farmer in Lubbock county to attend a meeting of the county unit of the association next Saturday at 2 o'clock in the court house.

"Dean A. H. Leidigh, of Texas Technological college, who attended the conference recently at Austin where he had contact with leaders in the cooperative marketing movement, will have an important message," said Mr. Overstreet. "He will convey to you what he gathered from conference with Governor Moody, Alexander Legge, chairman of the federal farm board; Carl Williams, member of the farm board; bankers and college heads."

"The time has come when every farmer should know what it means to be associated with cooperated marketing groups," continued Mr. Overstreet. His success in distribution is actually dependent upon his uniting a farm association.

"We are viewing the future of the association with optimism. We are anxious to put our message before every farmer."

Scout Troop Four To Hold Reunion

Former and present members of troop No. 4, Lubbock boy scouts, will unite here this evening at a homecoming banquet to be held in the basement of the First Presbyterian church at 6 o'clock.

Preparations have been made for seventy-five. Included in the list of former members are four scoutmasters, one assistant scoutmaster and eleven troop committeemen.

Rev. L. G. H. Williams, president of the South Plains Area council, will deliver the chief address. K. N. Clapp will review the history troop, which was organized five years ago, and short talks will be made by Alfred Adkisson, Earl Turner, Gene Adair, Ordis Forbess H. D. Woods and J. J. Clements.

MERCURY HITS RECORD MARK IN LUBBOCK

TEMPERATURE DROPS 10 DEGREES BELOW IN CITY

King Cold, resplendent in white uniform, sent his shock troops upon the South Plains at the zero hour last night and descended from his lofty observation point to 10 degrees below zero to capture thousands in icy embrace.

The downward rush equalled that of January 12, 1918 when 10 degrees below was recorded.

Coldest Day Recalled

Pioneers of the section recall, however, that the war gods of winter reached an objective of 18 below the zero mark in 1898, but the record is unofficial.

No injuries to human life were recorded during the frigid drive. Transportation facilities of the captives were greatly impaired by the increasing blasts of wintry troops.

Hasty survey of damages revealed today that approximately 200 automobiles were placed in service stations and garages last night and this morning for radiator repairs.

No Accidents Result

Hospitals announce no accidents while traffic officers say that motorists are driving cautiously. Roads frozen with layers of sleet and snow, are passable throughout the area. Busses are operating over all routes.

Crosbyton had a temperature of 10 below early this morning, equalling the record of January 11 and 12 of 1918. At 8 o'clock this morning the mercury in that city stood at 6 above.

Brownfield, Tahoka, Levelland, Littlefield, Plainview and Floydada reported temperatures varying from 8 to 10 degrees below zero last night. Temperature was rising, however throughout the section today and in each city the mercury is from 6 to 10 degrees above this afternoon.

RUM RUNNERS ARE ARRESTED

TWO ARMED MEN HELD IN DALLAS; GIN IS SEIZED

DALLAS, Jan. 10—Two rum runners, armed, they told police, to prevent hijackings by rival bootleggers, today faced charges of possession and transportation of liquor after their arrest last night and the seizure of 10,000 pints of gin.

Officers who ran the liquor truck to a curb were told the highpowered rifles the men carried were not for use against police, but for protection against hoodlums employed by a man they termed a well-known bootlegger and liquor-hijacker. The men did not resist arrest.

The gin, they said, had been brought here from San Antonio.

HOTEL MAN DIES

DALLAS, Jan. 10. (AP)—Funeral services for Mercher George Kearns 31, former Dallas hotel man who died yesterday in Wichita Falls, will be held here Saturday.

PROHIBITION AND CHRISTIAN RELIGION ARE ETERNAL OPPOSITES, SAYS SOLON

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 — Assertion that prohibition had "ushered in an age of corruption, intemperance, disrespect for law and contempt for government such as this nation never before witnessed" was made today in the House by Representative Schafer, republican, Wisconsin.

Making a charge that the "constitution had been changed from a charter of rights and liberties into a criminal statute book," the Wisconsin representative asked:

Can Respect Constitution?

"How can people respect a constitution that makes the act of temperance a crime?"

Granted an hour by consent of the House, Schafer spoke on the subject of "Prohibition Versus Christianity."

"You must choose between prohibition and the Christian religion," he said. "You cannot have both, for they are eternal opposites."

Cites "Four Horsemen"

Without mentioning names, Schafer said "the recent hysterical outburst of the four horsemen of the prohibition forces indicates the demoralization in their ranks and that they have reached a realization of the failure of the sumptuary prohibition laws."

He suggested that the "Four Horsemen" turn their "oratorical guns and attention to the states of Georgia, Idaho, Texas and Nebraska, where a deplorable condition exists."

PASTORATE AT NAZARENE CHURCH MAY CHANGE HERE, STATEMENTS ANNOUNCE

That a new pastor will soon take charge of the First Church of the Nazarene, 14th street and Avenue Q, was indicated here today in statements issued The Journal by Rev. H. C. Cagle, superintendent of the Abilene District of the denomination, and by Rev. S. H. Erwin, local pastor for a period of about two years.

Rev. Mr. Cagle's statement said Rev. Mr. Erwin had resigned his post here and that the resignation had been accepted by himself and the District Advisory board. Mr. Erwin, however, said that his resignation while issued, had been conditional but that he hoped the conditions set forth by himself might be erased in time for him to make a formal resignation statement to his congregation on Sunday.

Mr. Erwin told The Journal that he would make his resignation Sunday, provided he is paid in full for salary he says is due him, together with house rent and a note at a local bank. Mr. Cagle did not refer to these factors in his statement.

The church's building campaign, well under way, will be continued, Mr. Cagle said, under the direction of himself, the local board and the building committee but further announced that all solicitations on the project would cease for the present.

Foundation Is Laid

The church has erected a foundation for its new building, 14th street and Avenue Q, and has been meeting there in temporary quarters. The building will be constructed at that location and upon the present foundation.

COOLIDGE CITES ECONOMIC PROGRESS OF UNITED STATES IN ADDRESS LAST NIGHT IN FLORIDA INSURANCE MEET

(By Associated Press)

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Jan. 10—Economic life in America has made astounding progress since the birth of the republic and the causes have been the character of the people and the accumulation of capital, former President Calvin Coolidge said here last night. He spoke at the annual convention of the New York Life Insurance company.

"In any estimate of the power of a country, we find he chief asset in spiritual values," said Mr. Coolidge. "Without them all else is vain. In this respect we are well equipped. The heart of the people is sound.

Has Camp Followers

"Civilization always has its camp followers. We are not without a fringe of idle, vicious, boisterious wastrels. But they are conspicuous chiefly by their contrast with the great body of sober, industrious, thrifty, intelligent, honest, god-fearing men and women of high course and abiding faith, who make up the great body of our people.

"The material welfare of the country also depends upon the amount of capital it can command. It is not merely the superiority of the American people that enables them to do about one-half the world's work; it is because each operator has greater facilities, uses more improved machinery and is supplied with several times more horsepower than the workers in other countries."

Reveals Increase

Declaring that the rapid increase in accumulated capital is indicated in part by the records of banks and insurance companies, Mr. Coolidge said that in 1910 the deposits in savings bank were about four billions, in 1920, six and one half billions, and at present ten and one half billions.

The total amount of insurance in force for the same dates, he added, was about 15 and one half billions, 35 and three quarters billions, and one hundred and three billions.

"Nothing has been more fastinating than this economic development," said Mr. Coolidge. "Nothing more completely demonstrates the ability of the people under our system to take care of themselves. "The advocates of defeat have often asserted that the only economic salvation lay in communism, but the independent spirit of the American has constantly replied that the individual is sovereign, that the private ownership of property is a sovereign right, and he is able to take care of his own idestiny."

"While there are no accurate records," said Mr. Coolidge, "the first sources estimate our national wealth at from 300 to 350 billion dollars. Our income has increased from a little over sixty billions to more than ninety billions in the last ten years."

Davis Is Elected Petroleum Chairman

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—W. B. Davis of the Phillips Petroleum company was elected chairman of the production division of the American Petroleum Institute today, William Irish of the Atlantic Refining company becomes chairman of the refining division and H. M. Dawes, of Pure Oil, chairman of the marketing division.

Backing up the plan of Governor General Davis to increase the tourist traffic of the Philippines the Rotary club of Manila has established a tourist bureau in the city.

A FEW at a TIME

Flavor is risked when coffee is roasted in bulk. That's why Hills Bros roast only a few pounds at a time by a continuous process

If you put too many doughnuts in the hot fat at once, they will be soggy and greasy. When coffee is roasted in bulk, invariably some of the berries are roasted too much and some too little.

No wonder Hills Bros.' continuous process—Controlled Roasting—produces the better flavored coffee. By this method, only a few pounds at a time pass through the roasters and every berry is roasted evenly. No other coffee has the same matchless aroma and flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee because none is roasted the same way. Controlled Roasting is Hills Bros.' process exclusively.

Hills Bros. Coffee in vacuum tins is sold by grocers everywhere. Every bit of the aroma and rich strength produced by Controlled Roasting comes to you complete. Ask for Hills Bros. Coffee by name and look for the Arab—the trade-mark—on the can.

CROSBY CITIZENS REVIEW PROGRESS MADE DURING PAST YEAR IN ANNUAL BANQUET OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

(By Staff Correspondent)

CROSBYTON, Jan. 10.—Unity-minded Crosbyton county assembled here Thursday night to review accomplishments of 1929 and envisage the new program of work at the annual banquet of the Crosbyton Chamber of Commerce.

Cooperative spirit of all classifications of citizenship was evident as farmers, bankers and merchants renewed pledges of support to the organization. The occasion made evident the success with which Crosbyton has enlisted workers in the development of the county.

Wick Is Speaker

L. A. Wick, chief speaker of the evening, recalled the early days in the county when there ware only 22 voters. He came to Crosby county in 1909. Pointing out the rapid development, he said that there are now 3,000 to 4,000 voters in the county.

"This great development," said Mr. Wicks, "has been due largely to the splendid cooperation given by the citizens of Ralls and Crosbyton, coupled with the responsiveness of the farmers."

Visitors Talk

Other speakers were B. Sherrod and Garnett Reeves, Lubbock; J. Edd McLaughlin and A. V. Bullock, Ralls; J. I. Weatherby, superintendent of local public schools; W. M. Romane, director of the local organization; E. H. Hendricks, president of the Crosbyton chamber; and W. H. Haynes.

W. T. Dunn, secretary, read the report for the year 1929, which was indicative of a progressive organization. A trades day campaign was inaugurated, assistance was rendered the West Texas Old Settlers association, cooperation was given farmers in their program of terracing, while other information was freely given them and agricultural pamphlets sent out, a successful Christmas program was held during the holidays. He also said that the chamber is now on a cash basis.

Aids Cavern Route

"The Crosbyton Chamber of Commerce has had much to do with the Carlsbad Cavern Highway, which is now designated and marked through the town of Crosbyton," said Mr. Dunn. "This highway will bring many tourists through the town. Several letters have gone out to railroad officials calling attention to the fact, that Crosbyton would like an eastern outlet. These letters have brought favorable replies."

Bob Rutherford, prominent farmer and stockman, was toastmaster of the evening.

New directors, who were recently elected for the ensuing two years, were introduced as follows: W. P. Walker, R. S. McCarter, W. M. Curry and Joe Brown.

Other directors of the organization include: O. W. Young, E. M. Perkins, A. C. Wood, J. Kent Smith, R. C. Carter, Ed Haynes, Dick Reagan and W. M. Romane.

Following a banquet program, featured by musical numbers, several speakers were heard from Crosbyton and surrounding cities. A banjo and harmonica duet, by L. A. Coward and A. C. Currington was warmly applauded while another clever rendition featured the Crosbyton Ukelele cadets. Included in the personnel of the cadets were Misses Lucille Allen, Maurine McDaniel, Hazel McPhearson, Willie Mae Ezell, Ruth Curington and Elizabeth Fuller.

San Antonioans Named Officials

SAN ANTONIO, Jan. 10. (AP)—Andrew J. McKenzie was elected potentate of Alzafar temple, nobles of the Mystic Shrine, at the annual meeting held here last night in the Scottish Rite Cathedral. Louis W. Hartung was named Chief Rabban, Judge Anton N. Moursund assistant rabban, G. G. Grabenheimer high priest and prophet; Porter Loring, oriental guide; George C. Vernon, recorder, and John L. Clem, treasurer. All are from San Antonio.

All of the higher offices were filled by promotions except that of treasurer, Clem being reelected to that position. P. D. Mathis, recorder for 12 years, retired and the vacancy was filled by Vernon who was his assistant for the last nine years.

McLUCAS IS ELECTED

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 10. (AP)—Walter S. McLucas today was elected by the board of directors of the Federal Reserve bank of Kansas City to represent the tenth federal reserve district as a member of the federal advisory council.

He succeeds Peter W. Goebel, member of the federal advisory board the last four years who asked to be relieved.

RULING ON STATE BONDS GIVEN OUT

AUSTIN, Jan. 10. (AP)—The state treasurer cannot receive securities from bond investment and insurance companies, and state depository banks or certain other bonds that that might be deposited with him, but which are not absolutely owned by the state, without a deposit receipt from the comptroller, Attorney General R. L. Bobbitt ruled today.

He also held that these bonds cannot be relinquished except upon proper authority from the comptroller.

The opinion was given Moore Lynn, state auditor, who said he believed that if inquiry is made at the office of the comptroller or the state treasurer that it will develop that many millions of dollars of such bonds and securities are actually received by the treasurer each year without the comptroller's authority and that like amounts are actually relinquished by the treasurer without the authority of the comptroller.

The bonds referred to are not actually owed by the state and should not be confused with state-owned bonds that are held with the comptroller's knowledge, Lynn said.

Sudan's Schools Feature Growth

SUDAN, Jan. 10 (Special)—The little town of Sudan continues its rapid development. Its school has now reached an enrollment of nearly 900, the actual attendance running to 800. The heaviest total daily load of its ten busses has been 425. Every room of its $200,000 school plant is in use, and more pupils entering almost daily.

The high school is a member of the Southern Association of Colleges and High Schools, has 23 1-2 units of affiliation, employs 26 teachers, and is asking affiliation up to 27 units with this year's work.

Misrepresentations Claimed In Divorce

He wooed her with representations of wealth. After she said "yes" he took her to his home in a box car.

And he wasn't president of a railroad company either. He was a laborer.

Such were the allegations of a Lubbock young married woman who filed a petition for divorce against her husband late Thursday.

"When I discovered his misrepresentations I lost all love which I had formerly held for him," she charged. "He used violence in forcing me to live with him."

BANQUETS OVER AREA SCHEDULED

Checking over accomplishments of the past year, community leaders of the South Plains are now preparing for the new program of work, announcements from several cities reveal.

Five cities of the area will observe annual banquets of chambers of commerce within the next month.

The annual occasion at Slaton will be held next Tuesday evening. The railroad city, which recently united with Lubbock in voted heavily in favor of a bond issue to pave roads of the county, will review a long list of projects pushed to completion during 1929.

Tahoka Chamber of Commerce will assemble around the banquet table February 11. Brownfield banquets February 12.

Lockney Chamber of Commerce leaders will banquet January 21 and the Quitaque organization will January 23.

When Miss Winnifred Hig... daughter of the Lord Provost of Dublin, Ireland, was married recently, 10,000 people gathered outside the church to see her arrive and depart.

Because the owner of a bus company gave $500 toward the renovation of a church at Boston Stemp, England, a miniature bus was placed on top of the edifice.

Public Speaking Class Holds Banquet On Thursday Evening

Rob O'Hair Is Toastmaster For High School Pupils; Addresses Are Given

Supporting the present-day belief that one learns best how to do a thing by actually doing it, practically every student in Mrs. Ada L. Wolfe's public speaking class of the Lubbock high school took part on the program at a banquet given for that group Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the Yellow House.

Speeches given centered around the theme of public speaking, and musical numbers and reading afforded additional entertainment.

Rob O'Hair was toastmaster for the evening and made the opening address, which was followed by a song led by Reuben Dyess, a poem by Martha Brown, and a solo by Ruth Mildred Rylander.

Toasts Are Made

Toasts were given by Frances Nunly, Garland Smith, and Charles Sobb, after which a boy's quartet, composed of Reuben Dyess, Hildron Rogers, Roger Eaton, and Glen Rocky, favored the group with a vocal selection.

At the second course, toasts were proposed by Emily Davis, Stanley Gunn, Mary Louie Shropshire, and Alvin Blanton, and interesting discussions of "Pertinent Criticisms Heard in Public Speaking" were given by Christy Carruth and R. C. Douglas.

After-Dinner Speeches

After-dinner speeches were made by the following students: Carroll Thompson, "Before and After Ttaking Public Speaking"; Ragan Little, "The Fields Open to a Good Public Speaker"; Lottie Mae Jordan, "Debate Ahoy", Reuben Dyess delighted her audience with a vocal solo, and Martha Spencer entertained with "Our Class Prophecy." A "Good Night Speech" was made by Valton Brady, a solo was given by Elizabeth Montfort, and the closing few words were given by the master of ceremonies.

Committees in charge of the affair were as follows: menus and flower arrangements; Elizabeth Montfort Ragan Little, Valton Brady, R. C. Douglas, Stanley Gunn; flowers and favors: Mary Louie Shropshire, Velda Beth Gullege, and Frances Nunly; program: Martha Spencer, Lottie Mae Jordan, and several assistants; financial and transportation: Ragan Little, Garland Smith, Carroll Thompson, Homer Duncan Valton Brady, and Hildron Rogers; jokes: Robert Overton and Ruby Beale.

Drama Studied By Delphian Chapter

Pausing with bowed heads for a few moments in the midst of their program, members of the Lu Beta Delphian chapter paid silent tribute to Mrs. Tom Garrard, whose funeral will be held this afternoon in Midland, and to the late Charles F. O'Neall. Mrs. Garrard and Mrs. O'Neall both were charter members of the organization.

The meeting was held Thursday afternoon in Room 214 of the administration building, Texas Technological college, with Mrs. R. D. Moxley in charge of a program on "Pre-Shakespearean Drama."

Mrs. R. S. Rodgers gave a preliminary survey of the subject, and talks were made on the following topics: "George Peele," Mrs. J. H. Hankins; "Robert Greene," O. P. Kuykendall; "Christopher Marlowe," Mrs. Richard White; "Doctor Faustus," O. K. Peters. A general discussion was led by the president, and current events were given by Mrs. R. A. Mills.

Mrs. Rodgers presided for a business session, and Mesdames Russell Robinson, W. P. Jennings, and W. R. Blake were appointed as a committee to draw up resolutions of condolence to the Garrard and O'Neall families.

Intimate Chats with Eve Ve Verka on Personality-Beauty-Health

Madame Ve Verka Will Conduct The Avalanche-Journal Free School of Beauty And Charm, February 3-5

There was a rap-tap-tap at my door, and in response to my invitation the little lady came in.

The first thing I noticed was the careful concentration with which she closed the door. Then the flurried excitement with which her wide starry eyes sought mine, and the breathless delight with which she drew a chair close up to my desk.

I could have almost anticipated her first remark. She veritably gurgled as she cast a furtive little glance over her shoulder. "Now do tell me everything," she almost whispered, "everything about getting beautiful, and you can really trust me, I'll never, never breathe a word to a soul."

Secrets, Secrets of beauty; Each time I encounter that musty old idea I am newly amazed. Yet scarcely a week passes that some one does not come to me with just that mistaken viewpoint. Beauty-bent ladies who think that "everything about being beautiful" can be acquired with little formulas" whispered behind closed doors and brewed in witchy couldrons in the dark of the moon.

But the principle of beauty is not so simple as that. The acquiring of beauty is not so easy. Alas, how I wish it were. How much easier to cope with all life's problems if we could just concoct a salve and put on the place:

Certainly beauty is not earned in that fashion. True, we do make use of 'salves and balsams." The intelligent use of scientifically blended cosmetics is an important phase of enchancing our good points and disguising the not-so-good. But phase it is, and not even the biggest phase at that.

And so I talked and reasoned together with my Little damsel who wanted me to tell her my "secrets" of beauty. She was visible disappointed at first, but as the morning wore on she was converted.

"And so a good complexion begins with a rich clean bloodstream," she mused, and liver extract goes hand in hand with the rouge-pot and the greatest pal a tissue cream can have is a system of exercises—Well."

At this point her eye fell on the short row of books which flanked the desk where I was working. "Why, my dear," and she laid explosive emphasis on the word, and began mumbling the titles of treatises on food chemistry, dietetic; anatomy, phycho pathology, pedatries, and the like. "But my dear she protested, this type of thing—phycho pathology—what has that to do with being beautiful." She was growing incredulous again.

I explained that this ponderous-looking subject was essentially a study of nervous disorders, "And," I appealed to her common sense, "Can a woman who is troubled with nervousness in even its simplest forms of irritability and peevishness and exhaustion and tenseness be lovely?"

"But this"; And she held up a book of pediatrics. Pediatrics, the care and feeding of children, If we begin in babyhood to build strong and beautiful bodies, and radiant complexions and bright eyes, they are pretty likely to be that way when the youngsters are grown. A scientific management of children, moreover, keep mothers young and beautiful by relieving them of the nerve depletion caused by unscientific management, and also permit them to have more time for their own rituals of beautifying.

"And all these about food, food, food." Yes, little lady, there is no subject so close to beauty as the subject of food. We begin our beautifying on the inside, and finish with the outside. Inside, our knowledge of proteins and carbohydrated, of iron and calcium and phosphorous, of vitamines and calories, of acid-base balances, of metabolism. And outside, our knowledge of raspberry rouges and powder blends, of line and color and personality types.

But the craftiest application of raspberry rouge and ivory whisk of powder isn't going to do the trick if the vitamines and rouage and alkalinity proportions aren't all taken care of first.

"But it sounds so complicated and hard," wailed my little friend. That, I explained is where I come in. Making these vital technicalities simple and usable for busy folks. It really isn't at all hard, It's just the big words."

And with that she was all a flutter for more of these "secrets" that weren't "secrets" at all, but plain cold scientific principles. And when she left me, hours later, it was with a changed outlook on life beauty getting.

Miss Ora Brown Is Married Thursday

In a simple ring ceremony read Thursday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock, Miss Ora Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brown, became the bride of J. P. Steele. The ceremony was read by John T. Smith, minister of the Church of Christ, in his home, 1916 1-2 Main street. Miss Mary Steele, sister of the groom, was the only attendant.

The couple left immediately after the ceremony for Dallas for a brief honeymoon trip. They will return to Lubbock next week and will make their home here.

Miss Brown is head of the Latin department at the senior high school. She took her B. A. degree at the University of Texas, with a major in Latin, and did work on a master's degree during the past summer at Columbia university, New York. Mr. Steele is a farmer.

Miss Walden's room won the prize for having the largest number of mothers present among the rooms on the first floor, and Mrs. O. N. Baucom's room won the prize for the second floor. This is the second time in succession that Mrs. Baucom's room has taken the prize.

The president, Mrs. E. B. Wheelock, presided during the business session.

NEW REGULATIONS ON LEASING ASKED

AUSTIN, Jan. 10. (AP)—In its report to the governor, made public today, the University of Texas land leasing board issued a warning that it would be exceedingly difficult in the future to enlist regents as members of the board unless the body was relieved of the duties of surveying and geologizing university lands.

The land leasing board is composed of two regents and the land commissioner. It recommended that the responsibility of geologizing and surveying be shifted to the board of regents and that the land leasing board be required only to determine when and under what conditions and upon what terms oil and gas in the lands should be sold, to conduct the sales and to award the lands.

The board also asked for an amendment in the present laws so that the lands might be placed on the market in tracts not to exceed four sections in lieu of the present limitation of "separate whole surveys only." The report pointed out that in the event a test was contemplated an oil company would be unwilling to buy only one section on which to drill a test well.

Edward Crame of Dalla, chairman, and R. L. Holliday of El Paso are the two members of the board of regents who serve with J. H. Walker, land commissioner.

Sackett Approved As U. S. Ambassador

WASHINGTON, Jan. 9 (AP)—Promptly confirmed Wednesday by his colleagues to be Ambassador to Germany, Senator Frederic M. Sackett, of Kentucky, resigned preparatory to an early departure to Berlin.

Governor Sampson of Kentucky immediately appointed Representative John M. Robsion, for ten years a republican member of the house from the 11th district and manager of the Hoover campaign in Kentucky, to succeed Sackett. Representative Robsion will move tomorrow from the house to the senate.

Mr. Sackett was uncertain upon his departure tonight for New York on business just when he would sail for Berlin. He will go from New York to Louisville to arrange his business affairs.

Public subscriptions totaling $8,250 were raised to enable needy V. C.'s to attend the reunion dinner in London over which the Prince of Wales presided recently.

TWO BOUTS SCHEDULED FOR TONIGHT; NO TITLE TO BE AT STAKE IN EITHER

(By Associated Press)

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 10 — Lightweight Champion Sammy Mandell today said he was ready to repulse the left handed thrusts of young, Manuel Quintero, Cuban boxer, in the first major ring engagement of the Florida season.

The champion is favored, although Quintero will be one of the few left handers Mandell has encountered.

PAULINO AND PORAT JUST FIGHTING

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—With nothing at stake but their fistic reputations, Otto Von Porat, Norwegian from Chicago, and Paulino Uzcudun, Basque woodchopper, say it with gloves in Madison Square Garden tonight. The bout is for ten rounds.

Phil Scott, London fireman, has clinched the right to meet Jack Sharkey at Miami Feb. 27, so Paulino and Von Porat will have to think of something else about which to get mad. Von Porat will remember a previous meeting with the Basque, who punched out a decision largely because of the Norwegian slugger's own timidity. As for Paulino he can get himself worked up over reports he is going back.

PAYNE PRESENTS 1930 EDITION OF MATADOR QUINTET TONIGHT

IN THE REALM OF SPORT

WITH ALLAN CARNEY
Journal Sports Editor

Recent developments show that Coaches Henry Frnka and Del Morgan will have anything but a bed of roses to lie upon when the 1930 football campaign gets under way. The Lubbock High school mentors, in the first place, will enter the conference race under a decided handicap wrought by the critics who have already doped out the Westerners to walk off with the district championship. Ten regulars, all of who are almost certain to receive letters when the annual banquet is given the high school squad on Jan. 17, are seniors this year and will like be lost to the team. This group includes such men as Greer Frizzell, Yancey Price, Robert Rich, Clyde James, Joe Leaverton and Mina Watkins.

Loss of Frizzell, James, Price and Rich will mean that Coach Frnka must build up an entirely new line. It would not be at all surprising to see "Big-un" McGeehee and Mina Watkins at ends to replace Price and Rich. This depends, of course, on the possibility that Watkins will graduate. Brawley and Williams are the veteran tackles who are likely to be back while Welch, Abbot and Griggs are the main hopes for the guard positions. All of this, however, may be changed altogether if Coaches Frnka and Morgan are not retained as coaches. Neither have signed contracts for another year and it has become generally known recently that both are considering offers elsewhere. Holdouts in the coaching profession have come to be just about as common as holdouts in professional baseball. Needless to say the question of salary will determine the return of the Western coaches.

A new team will be in the race for the Class A title in District Two when the 1930 season opens. Pampa is the city and the Harvesters should be able to hold their own with the majority of the teams already in the select circle. The Westerners will likely go to Pampa for their first game with the new member. This extra conference game may force the locals to push out one of the Class B teams that have appeared on their spedule for the past several years. The annual game with the Slaton Tigers stands, but the other Class B foes are uncertain.

Negotiations have been under way recently between Lubbock and Wichita Falls high school officials to arrange a home and home meeting between the Westerners and Coyotes. The proposed date for the Wichita-Lubbock skirmish is Nov. 11 and the first will be played here, according to early negotiations. This may not work so well, since the Tech Matadors are scheduled to meet the A. C. C. Wildcats here Nov. 11 and thus the conflict. It is hoped that the high school and college authorities can get together on their holiday dates in a way that will be satisfactory to all concerned.

The partially completed football schedule for the Matadors finds the college eleven booked to play at home on both holiday dates—Nov. 11 and Thanksgiving Day. Abilene Christian College Wildcats will come here on Armistice Day and the Simmons University Cowboys are due to come to Lubbock for their annual Turkey day joust with the Bull Fighters. This leaves the high school team out in the cold, as it were, with regards to the big dates of the grid season, since the Westerners are forced to use the Tech athletic plant to stage their games. Heretofore, the college authorities have been highly considerate in arranging their schedule of games to fit in with the high school program and allowing the Westerners to use their field, and we feel certain that the present situation can be worked out in some manner, even if it becomes necessary to make another holiday.

Although the Tech grid schedule for 1930 has not yet been completed, it became known yesterday that the Matadors are to have at least one Southwest Conference team on their program next fall. The Crimson gridders will invade Fort Worth for their annual clash with the Horned Frogs on October 25. Relations will be resumed with the West Texas Teachers, it has also been learned. The tilt with the Buffaloes is set for early November. There will likely be games with four members of the proposed new athletic conference. These include Canyon, Simmons, Howard Payne and the Texas School of Mines at El Paso.

Wire dispatches this morning inform us that Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires will wind up his winter fistic campaign tonight in Boston in his fight with Al Spohrer, Boston Braves' catcher. This action comes on a promise from the Shy One that he will forsake his ring career for the time being, following his exoneration from charges by both the Illinois and Michigan boxing commissions. The Boston backstop has been training earnestly for his bout with Whataman and the White Sox first sacker is likely to get just about all he can handle.

From the Minneapolis Morning Tribune we get one of the best spasms we have seen on the Retiring Shires. Here 'tis in part:

"The big wind from Chicago, Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires blew into St. Paul today to put on his pugilistic act with Tony (The Everlasting) Faeth at the St. Paul auditorium.

"The Great One came to town almost dude. You know, some guy swiped my cane in Detroit,' asserted the all-talkie. 'I always wear a cane. And I forgot the other one down in Chicago."

It was a desperate situation he found himself in as he stepped from the train—a cold morning and not a cane to wear. Practically undressed he was, without his stick.

When told that his opponent for the night would be Tony (Old Faithful) Faeth, he replied, "Tony, hey? Sounds like an organ grinder. Well, let me at him and I'll make a monkey out of him for sure."

On his way to the hotel, Shires dropped in at a newspaper office. He just hates publicity. "I've come up here to tell all you that I don't want nothing in your paper about me," Shy Arthur announced firmly.

LOS ANGELES OPEN STARTS TODAY

JACKRABBITS OF WAYLAND COMING HERE

TECH HOME SCHEDULE IS OPENED WITH CONTEST

Tonight in the Texas Tech gymnasium, Coach Victor Payne will present his 1930 basketball quintet in the first home game of the Matadors' collegiate schedule with the Jackrabbit cagers from Wayland Baptist college furnishing the opposition. The game starts at 8 o'clock.

The Rabbits are designated to furnish the opposition and from all indications and reports, they will do this very thing in a big way. A 40-29 defeat at the hands of the Tech five Tuesday night at Plainview has only served to spur the Kimbrough forces to a high fever of indignation, and consequently tonight's skirmish will be on the order of a comeback insofar as the visitors are concerned.

May Even Count

Tech's basketball machine performed almost to perfection in downing the Baptists in the opening game earlier in the week, and Coach Payne is aware of the fact that unless his basket shooters are firing on all cylinders in the return match, the invaders are liable to even the count for the week. With this in mind, the Crimson dribblers have been driven hard in their two nights of practice since the first tilt with the Rabbits polishing off their offense and perfecting a defense for the McGregor, Mobley, Davis et al scoring combination.

Tonight's game will open a long home stand for the Matadors. Eight games with rival college teams will be played here during the remainder of the month.

Although the Tech mentor is uncertain as to his starting lineup for the game tonight, it appeared almost certain that the same combination that was sent on the floor at the beginning of the Tuesday clash with the Rabbits would be sent out tonight. This quintet is composed of Hodges and Fisher at forwards; Maxwell at center; Tadlock and Vinzant at guards.

Coach Frank Kimbrough's strongest threat, made up of McGregor and Mobley at forwards; Davis at center; Lummus and Key at guards, will likely face the locals tonight when the opening whistle sounds.

Because of the increase in the number of women smokers in London, licensing justices are advising theater and movie proprietors to provide more ash trays.

MEET TONIGHT

Baseball will be forgotten tonight as Al Spohrer, top Boston Braves' pugilistic catcher and Art (The Great) Shires, below, stormy White Sox first baseman, meet in the ring in Boston. Shires, exonerated of all charges of 'fixing' a bout with Dangerous Dan Daly, yesterday promised the Michigan commission that tonight would be his last fight. The Sox infielder has been quite a sensation in the past thirty days both in and out of the ring and has gained considerable fame for his ability to conduct 'whispering campaigns.'

AMATEUR ATHLETICS HAVE PROMISING OUTLOOK FOR 1930; REDISTRICTING OF TEXAS DIVISIONS LIKELY TO BE MADE

BY DANIEL J. FERRIS
(Secretary-Treasurer, National Amateur Athletic Union.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 10. (AP)—The second year of the Olympiad is usually quite dull as compared with the other three, but this year promises to be an exception to the rule. Everything, even at this early date, points to 1930 being an extremely active year, at least in track and field, swimming, boxing, wrestling and gymnastics, major sports on the Olympic program over which the Amateur Athletic Union has jurisdiction in the United States.

The initial indoor track meet of the season last Saturday night in Brooklyn, with over 600 athletes participating, is indicative of the interest in track in an off-year. More than 50 large open indoor track meets have been sanctioned by the A. A. U. in the eastern half of the United States (the only part of the country where indoor track is practiced extensively.) These meets will furnish plenty of competition for the athletes desiring to run during the winter months. Noto even in Olympic years have there been more meets scheduled.

Foreign Athletes Invited

In recent years the games committees in charge of indoor meets have felt that foreign talent is necessary for the successful conduct of their meets, and although the national officers of the A. A. U. do not share this belief, nevertheless they extended invitations to several countries to send athletes here this winter. The international athletic rule which forbids an athlete from receiving expenses for a longer period than 21 days in a foreign country places foreign athletes coming to the United States and our athletes going abroad under considerable handicap as they are called upon to complete in their first race a few days after stepping off the steamer. This rule is the answer to the declinations thus far from the foreign countries invited.

Americans To Benefit

American athletes will probably benefit by the absence of foreign talent through being able to bask in the limelight and publicity which otherwise would be showered on the foreign stars. Recognition by newspaper writers of the improvement shown by an athlete very often furnishes the needed encouragement to make him strive for greater heights on the ladder of athletic fame.

Invitations are already in hand for track and field and swimming teams to tour Europe next summer; also for a track team to go to South Africa. If the British empire meet is held at Hamilton, Ont., in August, it will be followed by a British Empire-U. S. dual meet in Boston, New York and Chicago.

Pittsburgh Gets Meet

With the various fixtures in which the school and collegt athletes engage, the district association championship meets followed by the national championships at Pittsburgh, and the possibility of two or more dual meets between teams representing the district associations of the Amateur Athletic Union, the track and field athletes of the United States can look forward to a year full of activity.

DALLAS TO BE CENTER FOR NORTH TEXAS

HOUSTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—A redistricting of the National Amateur Athletic territory in this section is in immediate prospect, with Houston the center of a Southwestern Association and Dallas the headquarters of a North Texas association that would include Oklahoma, Jack Rafferty of Houston, A. A. U. vice-president said Thursday.

Mr. Rafferty said Lyman J. Bingham, business manager of the A. A. U. was en route to Houston to study the situation and make recommendations.

The Houston territory roughly would include that section of the state south of a line drawn from El Paso to Nacogdoches. The rest would be in the North Texas association.

Mr. Rafferty expressed the opinion that the resdistricting would stimulate A. A. U. activities.

Random Scraps Of News Pertaining To Sports World

Mickey Cochrane, the A's catcher, is one of those who are crazy to fight Art Shires—He was a middleweight at Boston University — Teddy Hayes, Dempsey's former trainer, told Mickey he could lick Shires and Trafton in the same ring—Bunny Austin of England, a very nifty tennis player, also is a demon at ping pong—So is Phil Scott, but we wish he wouldn't do it in the boxing ring—Hack Wilson once tipped a waiter in Houston $1 during spring training season, thus placing himself in the spendthrift class along with Babe Ruth, who also gave a waiter $1 during the springtide maneuvers—Hack said he would fight Shires but finally compromised with Mrs. Wilson who said he wouldn't—He agreed that maybe she was right—Jimmy Phelan's new team, the University of Washington, faces a 10-game card next fall, seven with Pacific Coast Conference teams, including Stanford, Southern California and California—Whoops!

SHIRES FREED ON CHARGES

ART PROMISES THAT TONIGHT WILL BE SWAN SONG

(By Associated Press)

LANSING, Mich., Jan. 9.—The Michigan State Boxing commission today absolved Charles Arthur (The Great) Shires from any taint of irregularity in connection with an alleged attempt to "fix" a fight scheduled in Detroit recently with Battling Criss of Rockwood, Mich.

The hearing held here Thursday before the full commission was a continuation of one held in Detroit last Saturday with Commissioner James M. (Bingo) Brown, chairman, and Commissioner Henry Komrofsky, the only members present. The motion for Shires' exoneration was made by Commissioner Komrofsky. Chairman Brown previously had recommended that the commission take steps to clear Shires of any guilt in the attempt to persuade Battling Criss to "take a dive."

Shires Denies Charges

Shires, both Thursday and last Saturday, emphatically denied any connection with alleged "fixing" attempts.

The commission left the matter with the provision that should future evidence reveal any connection with the alleged fixing on Shires' part, he would be recalled for another hearing. Shires' statement that he will fight no more after his Boston engagement was accepted as binding.

LARGE FIELD STARTS OUT IN BIG PLAY

RAIN-SOAKED COURSE NO BARRIER TO 129 PICKED STARS

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10—The rain-soaked course of the Riviera Country club today failed to dampen the ardor of 129 proven golfers as they started their three-day journey through 72 holes of medal play in the Los Angeles $10,000 open tournement.

Joe Kirkwood, Australian trick shot artist, and Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, professional who finished in a tie for the first place money at Long Beach, were conceded an advantage because of ability as "mudders."

Certain victory was in prospect for Mr. Par, for under ideal climatic conditions in last year's tournament, MacDonald Smith, Long Island, was able to finish with no better than even perfect figures when he turned in a 284 and won the classic.

Some of today's leading threesomes were:

MacDonald Smith, Horton Smith, Henry Cuici.

Leo Diegel, Auga Caliente; Bobby Cruickshank, New York; Al Espinosa, Chicago.

Kieckhefer's Hopes Lost In Tournament

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Augie Kieckhefer's hopes of competing in National Three Cushion billiard playoff were shattered last night in his defeat by Tiff Denton of Kansas City, 50 to 26, in 38 innings. The Chicago Southpaw's loss left this tournament in a tie between champion Johnny Layton of St. Louis and Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, who meet in the deciding block tonight.

Kieckhefer, who had dropped only one game prior to last night, needed the Denton match to remain in the running with Layton and Reiselt. Denton finished his tournamet play with a record of four wins and three defeats—a record that assures him of fifth place with the possibility that he may receive fourth money, should Allan Hall of St. Louis slip in his last two matches.

WRESTLING IS PLACED ON ORGANIZED BASIS BY NATIONAL ASSOCIATION OF SPORTS; 3,500 GRAPPLERS AFFECTED

(By Associated Press)

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Jan. 10.—Wrestling, a profession which never recognized any national affiliation and frequently witnessed many muddled championship situations, was placed today by the National Boxing Association on the organized basis of all governed sports.

Stanley M. Isaacs, president of the N. B. A., which last year included the mat game in its jurisdiction, announced that effective immediately all wrestlers are subject to the benefits, championship awards, suspensions and discipline of the national organization. About 3,500 wrestlers are affected.

High spots of the N. B. A. wrestling requirements call for defense of championships three times a year, posting of title appearance forfeits ranging from $2,500 to $5,000, public bidding by promoters for the privilege of staging championship bouts, wrestlers to accept terms of the highest bidder, national champions to be decided in recognized classes by April 20, 1930, and championship entries to be matched by public drawing.

Regulations Drawn

The regulations were drawn by a committee headed by Paul Prehn, former University of Illinois wrestling coach and a past president of the N. B. A.

The N. B. A. recognized only four weights—heavy, light-heavy, middle and welter. At present, Isaacs said, there is sufficient activity in the lighter classes to justify championships.

Five wrestlers were selected as worthy of an opportunity to compete for championships in each division. One man in each class was given a bye provided all five men enter the eliminations. The bye-man will participate only in the final match.

Refusal Is Elimination

Refusal by any wrestler to enter means his elimination effective in all 32 states under N. B. A. government.

Ranking heavies are Gus Sonnenberg, Providence R. I.; Richard Shikat, Philadelphia; John Pesek, Ravenna, Nebr.; Jim Londos, St. Louis, and Pete Sauer (also known as Ray Steele), Tulsa, Okla. Sonnenberg was granted the bye.

Light-heavyweights recognized are Clarence Ecklund, Buffalo, Wyo.; Ted Thye, Portland, Ore.; Hugh Nichols, Mexia, Texas; Pinkie Gardner, Schenectady, and Joe Banaskie, Chicago. Ecklund drew the bye.

Gus Kallio, Finland, was given the middleweight bye. The other four named were Charles Fisher, Butternut, Wis.; Ralph Parquet, Spencer, Iowa; Ray Carpenter, Lancaster, Ohio, and Bobby Myers, Portland, Oregon.

Helen Keller's Own Story

Of the Woman Who Taught Her

Anne Sullivan, Though Born Blind Herself, After Recovering Her Own Sight Gave Her Life Unselfishly to Teaching Miss Keller How To See, Hear and Speak and So Made Her One of the Foremost Women in America

Miss Keller teaching Cineman Chaplin the manual alphabet.

Good Fairy Anne Sullivan. No magic wave of her wand, but hard, patient work produced the miracle Helen Keller.

Sensitive fingertips placed on the loud speaker of a radio . . . enable Miss Keller to enjoy musical programs and to distinguish various instruments being played.

Typing words she has never heard on a machine she has never seen . . . is one of Helen Keller's least remarkable but most useful accomplishments.

HELEN KELLER was born, a perfectly healthy and normal child, in Tuscumbia, Alabama, on June 27th, 1880. At the age of 18 months she was stricken with a severe illness, the exact nature of which is not known. It left her deaf and blind; as a result of the deafness she soon became dumb also.

For five years she remained imprisoned. Then, through Dr. Alexander Graham Bell, to whom her father appealed because he knew Dr. Bell's interest in the deaf, a deliverer was sent to her in the person of a 20-year-old graduate of the Perkins Institution for the Blind at Boston, Mass., a girl by the name of Anne Mansfield Sullivan.

From the day of Miss Sullivan's arrival on March 2, 1887, the story of Miss Keller's life reads like a fairy tale. Within a month the teacher had presented the gift of language to her little pupil, an achievement in itself so miraculous that 50 years earlier no one had believed it possible.

Two years ago Helen Keller laid down—temporarily—her work for the American Foundation for the Blind, thinking to go quietly to her home on Long Island, and there with her teacher, Mrs. Anne Sullivan Macy, her secretary, Miss Thomson, and her Great Dane, Sieglinde, review the part of her life which had elapsed since her sophomore year at Radcliffe College when "The Story of My Life," which is the story of her childhood and young girlhood, was published.

She had not realized how difficult it would be to isolate herself. She could stop sending letters out, but she could not stop them coming in, nor could she head off the beggars who swarmed to her door.

Few people realize what is expected—nay, what is demanded—of her. Not a day passes without urgent and heartbreaking appeals from all over the world. They come by letter and in person—from the blind, the deaf, the crippled, the sick, the poverty-stricken, and the sorrow-laden.

THE letters were turned over to Miss Thomson and Miss Keller sat down to continue the story of her life. Almost immediately Miss Thomson was imperatively called away, and Mrs. Macy, who is nearly blind, and Miss Keller, who is quite blind, were left to struggle along as best they could.

They got their own meals, Mrs. Macy doing most of the cooking while Miss Keller washed the dishes, made the beds, did the dusting, and on Monday pricked out the laundry list in braille—the raised letter alphabet which the blind feel and read with their finger tips—so she could check it when the clothes came back on Saturday. When the morning chores were done and the most insistent letters answered she turned to "Midstream," the title suggested for the second volume of her autobiography. Poignant, heart-breaking days out of the past swept over her; even to think of them was pain.

Miss Keller had not been long at work before Mrs. Macy became ill. A temporary servant was called in. Mrs. Macy became much worse. The doctors were grave. She had been abusing her eyes. They had told her not to use them. Work on "Midstream" stopped abruptly. Nervous and anxious, Miss Keller paced the house and tramped the garden. She could not read, she could not write, she could not even think. It was not until Mrs. Macy was completely out of danger that the autobiography was resumed.

Doubts concerning the authenticity of Miss Keller's accomplishment have long since been laid to rest, even in Europe where for many years she was regarded as nothing more than a fine example of American exaggeration. It is only those who do not know her who suggest, now and then, that it is Mrs. Macy who tells her what to say.

Miss Keller has convictions of her own, and a stubborn way of hanging on to them. In most instances they are not those of her teacher. Temperamentally she and Mrs. Macy are utterly different, and the word "utterly" is not carelessly used. Each has chambers in her mind that the other does not, cannot, penetrate.

No one can be more surprised at some of the revelations Miss Keller makes in her book than the woman who has lived in daily association with Miss Keller for the last 40 years. Yet it is here that there is given the first and only real version of Helen Keller's own story of the woman who taught her.

"TWO insurmountable obstacles confronted me throughout my college course"—writes Miss Keller of her college days—"lack of books in raised letters, and lack of time. Most of the required books Miss Sullivan read to me, spelling into my hand. Often when everyone else in the house was asleep, she and I were busy with our books, trying to catch up with the day's reading.

"Miss Sullivan was ever at my side, not only reading to me and spelling the lectures into my hand but looking up words in Latin, German and French dictionaries. She was not familiar with any of these languages, and to this day I marvel how, with her imperfect sight, she accomplished such an arduous task.

"The barrier of my physical handicap lay between me and my classmates. Only one of them learned to talk with me on her fingers, but they had many charming ways of showing their friendliness. At Mrs. Hogan's lunch room, where we ate sandwiches and chocolate eclairs, they gathered around me and Miss Sullivan spelled their chatter into my hand.

"AFTER my graduation we went to Wrentham, Mass., where Miss Sullivan and I had already bought a small, old farmhouse, decidedly Puritanical in appearance, with a neglected field of seven acres.

"On May 2, 1905, the year after my graduation, my teacher married John Macy. She had devoted the best years of her womanhood to me, and I had often longed to see her blessed with a good man's love.

"Mr. Macy was an English instructor at Harvard University. He had classes in Radcliffe also. I liked him; he was eager, intelligent, gentle. He understood my difficulties, and promptly set about relieving me of them.

"I felt the tenderest joy in the union of Mr. Macy and Miss Sullivan. Dr. Edward Everett Hale, one of our oldest and closest friends, performed the ceremony in the sunny, flower-filled sitting room of our white farmhouse, and I stood beside my teacher and the ceremony was spelled into my hand. My mother and a few close friends were present. Then Mr. and Mrs. Macy left for their wedding trip to New Orleans, and I went south with my mother for a visit.

"A few days later we were delightfully surprised to see Mr. and Mrs. Macy walking into the house!

"My cup ran over! It seemed like a dream having them with me, reveling in the beauty of early summer in the Southland. The air was laden with the color of magnolias, and they kept saying how heavenly the song of the mocking bird was—they called it their wedding music. When we were all back in Wrentham, I heard that several people thought I was jealous and unhappy, and one letter of condolence was actually inflicted upon me.

"I wish I could engrave upon these pages the picture in my fingers that I cherish of those two friends—my teacher with her queenly heart and mind, strong and true, going direct to the core of the subject under discussion, her delight in beauty, her enthusiasm for large service and heroic qualities, her husband with his brotherly tenderness, his fine sensibilities, his keen sense of humor and his curious combination of judicial severity and smiling tolerance.

"Since I was out of active life, they both strove to keep my narrow round pleasant and interesting. Both had a magical way of breaking up the monotony for me with bright comments and rapid, frequent reports of things which I could not see or hear.

"Next to my teacher, John Macy was the friend who discovered most ways to give me pleasure and gratify my intellectual curiosity. He kept me faithfully in touch with the chief happenings of the day, the discoveries of science, and the new trends in literature.

"ALL through my life people who imagine themselves more competent than my teacher and I have wanted to manage my affairs. No doubt it would have been to our advantage if some of these ideas had been carried out. On the other hand, it is hard to see how all their suggestions could have been followed.

"There was an effort on the part of Mr. Anagnos, the successor of Dr. Howe as director of the Perkins Institution for the Blind when I was a little girl, to keep my teacher and me at the institution. Miss Sullivan thought that it would be detrimental to my development to remain in an institution. She has always believed that handicapped people should not be herded together when it is possible to keep them in a normal environment.

"When Miss Sullivan took me for my first lessons in articulation to Miss Sarah Fuller, principal of the Horace Mann School for the Deaf, and one of the pioneer teachers of speech in this country, I was nearly 10 years of age.

"The only sounds I uttered were meaningless noises, usually harsh because of the great effort I used to produce them. Miss Fuller put my hand on her face, so that I could feel the vibrations of her voice, and slowly and very distinctly made the sound 'arm,' while Miss Sullivan spelled into my hand the word arm. I imitated the sound as well as I could, and succeeded after several attempts in articulating it to Miss Fuller's satisfaction.

"I learned to speak several words that day in breathy, hollow tones. After 11 lessons I was able to say, word by word, 'I am not dumb now.' Miss Fuller tried to make me understand that I must speak softly, and not stiffen my throat or jerk my tongue, but I could not help straining and mouthing every word. I know now that my lessons should have been conducted differently. My vocal cords should have been developed first, and articulation afterwards.

Astounding Pupil Helen Keller and Astute Teacher Anne Sullivan with Hans, their faithful police dog. . . . "It was necessary," says Miss Keller, "that another should liberate me. . . . She is Anne Sullivan, my guardian angel."

"FOUR years after I went to Miss Fuller, I entered the Wright-Humason Oral School in New York where for two years I received lessons in speech and lip reading. From that time until I began to study with Mr. White, Miss Sullivan helped me as well as she could to improve my articulation. I was happy because my family could understand me, also those who met me frequently enough to become accustomed to my speech.

"I found out that to speak at all intelligibly meant the incessant mastery of difficulties that had been mastered a thousand times. For years I put my hand on Miss Sullivan's face, observed the motion of her lips, put my fingers in her mouth to feel the position of her tongue, and repeated over and over the sounds she uttered, sometimes imitating them perfectly, then losing them again. Yet I never wavered in my determination to learn to talk, nor did she waver in her determination to help me.

"It is to her that I owe most of the progress I made in this, as in everything else. Her work with me has been based on instinctive good sense rather than on technical knowledge of vocal problems. By persistent effort she improved my diction and kept my voice as pleasant as was possible under the circumstances. She has tried to cultivate softness, but this very process tended to make the vocal organs deficient in resonance. Moreover, the enormous amount of work required for my education rendered it difficult to give my speech sufficient attention.

"Since my tenth year I have labored unceasingly to speak so that others can understand me without concentrated attention. I have had excellent instructors and the constant assistance of my teacher. Yet I have only partially conquered the hostile silence. I have a voice that ministers to my work and my happiness. It is not a pleasant voice, I am afraid, but I have clothed its broken wings in the unfading hues of my dreams and my struggle for it has strengthened every fiber of my being and deepened my understanding of all human strivings and disappointed ambitions.

"FINANCIAL difficulties have seemed nearly always an integral part of our lives, and from time to time many people have tried to help us extricate ourselves from them.

"I do not know just when Mr. Carnegie began to take interest in my affairs, but late in 1910, when he learned through our friend, Lucy Derby Fuller, of our difficulties, he came to my aid with characteristic promptness and generosity. A few days after she talked with him he wrote her that he had arranged an annuity for me.

"It had been done without my knowledge or consent, and I declined as gracefully as I could. I was young and very proud, and still felt that I could succeed alone. Mr. Carnegie suggested that I give the matter further consideration, and assured me that the annuity was mine whenever I wanted it. 'Mrs. Carnegie and I gladly go on probation,' he said. So the matter rested for about two years.

"The first of April brought me face to face with the necessity of surrender. We were in Maine, filling a lecture engagement. When we reached Bath, the weather turned suddenly cold. The next morning my teacher awoke ill. We were alone in a strange place. My helplessness terrified me. With the assistance of the manager of the hotel we got on the train and went home. A week later I wrote Mr. Carnegie telling him what happened, and confessing my folly in not letting him assist me. The return mail brought a warm-hearted letter from him, enclosing a check which I was to get semi-annually.

"IN THE winter of 1920 we went into vaudeville and remained until the spring of 1924. That does not mean that we worked continually during all four years. We appeared for short periods in and around New York, in New England, and in Canada. In 1921 and 1922 we went from coast to coast on the Orpheum Circuit.

"It had always been said that we went into public life only to attract attention, and I had letters from friends in Europe remonstrating with me about 'the deplorable theatrical exhibition' into which I had allowed myself to be dragged. Now the truth is, I went of my own free will and persuaded my teacher to go with me. Vaudeville offered us better pay than literary work or lecturing.

"And because I could not have succeeded alone, being imprisoned in a great darkness and silence, it was necessary that another should liberate me. That other is Anne Sullivan, my guardian angel.

"I have been frequently asked what I should do without her. I smile and answer cheerfully, 'God sent her, and if He takes her, His love will fill the void,' but it terrifies me to face the thought that this question brings to my mind."

Thought For Today

The wicked flee when no man pursueth; but the righteous are as bold as a lion.—Proverbs 28:1.

Oh, how cowardly is wickedness always!—Statius.

For A Trinket

A couple of hold-up men entered a New York shoe store the other night, pointed their revolvers at a 60-year-old clerk, backed him into a corner and proceeded to relieve him of his valuables.

The old gentleman didn't have much, but what he had they took. They took everything, that is, except a cheap ring he was wearing. That he refused to part with.

The gunmen got angry and threatened to kill him. He was obstinate, although the ring, obviously, was not worth much. They persisted, he hung on to it—until, at last, one of the thugs got tired of arguing about it and shot him to death.

Now this provided a brief mystery for the store's manager and the police, after the hold-up men had gone. Why should the old chap have clung so desperately to a little, tarnished ring that could be duplicated for a dollar or two in any store?

Then it was learned that the ring was a keepsake which the old clerk's dead wife had given him, years ago. And that, of course, cleared up the mystery. There wasn't anything puzzling about it any more.

Or—was there? We can understand, of course, how the man felt; but can we begin to explain the much deeper mystery that lies back of it all—the mystery that is involved in every building up of affections, memories and sentiments about some reminder of a beloved phantom?

All of us, to some extent, share in that sort of thing. For everyone there is some token of the past that is dear beyond words. It may be something cheap, even slightly ridiculous—an old ring, a withered flower, a broken toy, a faded snapshot—but we would not part with it. It means sometimes, as much as life itself.

Why should this be so? Perhaps it is because we all know something that we do not often talk about—that the world is, at bottom, a terribly lonely place; a lonely place, and often a cruel place. We cannot make a go of it by ourselves. We have to feel that somewhere in the universe there is another spirit which we can touch.

But these others, on whom we depend, go away. So we cling to the inanimate objects that they used or wore, or gave to us; and, by clinging to them, we conjure up ghosts; lovely, comforting, companionable ghosts, that make life endurable and keep us from going mad with loneliness.

Yet it is still a mystery. We have our moments of doubt, in which we are not quite sure whether we are lonely because we are such a long way from our true home, on the other side of the stars, or simply because we have no home there at all, and are eternally adrift in black night. So we clutch our trinkets close—and defend them with our lives.

Good Cooks

People who have been places and seen things are fond of saying that the art of cookery, in the United States, has fallen upon evil days. Most of our housewives, they tell us, are bunglers—and our restaurants are the worst in the world.

Maybe so. But we happen to know a chap who recently returned to this country after spending 10 years abroad. He had visited every country in Europe. He had lived long in Paris, where good cooks go when they die. He had eaten tons, probably, of the roast beef of old England. He had tackled the tasty, solid food of the Germans. He had dined in Scandinavia, where every woman is a perfect cook.

And he said that the very nicest thing about getting back to the United States was the fact that he could get good old-fashioned American-cooked food once more!

So, perhaps, we're not in such a parlous state after all.

Many a man who prides himself on being a liberal thinker is pretty slow in reaching for the dinner check.

THE PLAINSMAN Says

That Girl on Broadway says when the average woman claims she's reducing she is referring to some man's bank account.

Not long ago The Plainsman, Dr. John C. Granbery, of the Tech faculty, and George Brown, Slaton legionnairs, engaged in a three-cornered discussion on choosing annually a 'Most Useful Citizen' for Lubbock. The proposition was introduced by Doctor Granbery, seconded by The Plainsman and laid at the door of the Allen Brothers Legion post here by Mr. Brown, who pointed out that legion posts throughout the state were doing the job. Now comes a letter from a reader which certainly merits some space in this department. Originality is the spice of life and this reader urges the selection each year of 'Lubbock's Most Useless Citizen'. He writes as follows:

"Some time ago I saw where you and a man at the Tech were trying to get some club here to select Tthe Most Useful Citizen in Lubbock each year. It is my suggestion that this is an old racket and like a second-day shirt, needs changing. Therefore, why not spend some time each year selecting Lubbock's Most Useless Citizen? That would be a novelty.

"The person elected probably would be known to more individuals than the average Most Useless Citizen. That would be a there'd be more competition in the Most Useless Citizen class. Nearly everyone could compete in that event.

"A man will have to travel a long way and rob lots of filling stations these days to find a city, village or hamlet not well equipped with men who would be promising candidates to wear the collar as Most Useless Citizen.

"For instance: Show me a community without an outstanding chronic griper (that's an oratorical question, but just show me, anyhow.) He peers behind the scenes of every civic enterprise and finds a dead rat, or one that ought to be dead, or a place where a rata might die. He insists that the enterprise may have merit but the men at the helm are all wrong, or, the men at the helm are all right but they've been misled, deluded and ensnared by a bum theory.

* * *

"Can you name any? (That's another oratorical question but the writer believes most anybody can.)

"The election of The Most Useless Citizen might solve a problem which confronts most cities, Lubbock included, that of the "eternal applicant"—the individual who gets his name in the box for everything to be appointed. Election of these men as Most Useless Citizens would at least give them a certain position and might check the overflow of applicants.

* * *

"At this opportunity I want to state that I have refused the request of all members of The Windy Forum club and the Hot Stove Debate league to mention them as candidates for Most Useless Citizen. These men have the inside track in this race and I want to be impartial and give the others a break. Running the Forum club members and the debaters a close race second, however, is the outstanding reform leader to be found in most community centers. I don't mean the reform leader who posted his land with a notice that 'if this hell-raising on my property ain't stopped I'll persecute to the full extent of three hound dogs and a double-barrel shotgun that ain't loaded with no sofa pillow.'

"Instead, I mean that sturdy band which works untiringly and unceasingly for moral, religious, educational, city, county and mental shakeups by the process of attacking the present systems but offering no suggestions for the future. They all belong on the ticket.

"Then there's the man who plays 'Piccolo Pete' on the radio, the phonograph and, worst of all, the piccolo. I never did like piccolos anyway!"

All right, folks. The Plainsman is ready to help with this worthy enterprise. This column wants to be fair in everything and if we offer to help in the selection of The Most Useful Citizen we can't very well decline to aid in The Most Useless Citizen class. We'll give fair warning, however—and that is it's going to be a lot harder to pick the Useless champion than it is the Useful one. If anybody'll start the campaign off by sending their entries in to this column, we'll promise to read them carefully before throwing them into the waste-basket.

(P. S. While The Plainsman blushingly admits that he possesses many natural attributes for candidacy in the Most Useless Citizen race, in order that he may view the candidates with an impartial eye he must refuse to enter the lists! This note is being written to outsmart some of you wisecrackers who would take great delight in mailing in a hundred or two slips with 'The Plainsman' written in as a candidate!)

Maybe You've Never Heard Of John Holland But He's The Best Sleuth In Washington, Correspondent Dutcher Says

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Dec. 10.—Five statesmen of more or less renown comprise the official membership of the subcommittee of the Senate judiciary committee which has developed so many sensations in its investigation of lobbying in Washington.

But the engine which makes the machine go is a young man 30 years of age named John Holland. This young Mr. Holland is the committee's investigator. He gets the facts and turns them over to the committee. He sits behind the committee members and makes suggestions to them as they question the witnesses.

Without young Mr. Holland or someone like him the committee wouldn't get very far. And there aren't very many like him.

Tom Walsh Trusts Him

Around here Holland is distinguished as the one man who knows the inside of the investigations of Senator Tom Walsh of Montana. Walsh works alone—and how! Holland, working for Walsh also works alone and doesn't encumber himself with assistants.

Holland, when he was only 24, got off to a large start when he became Walsh's investigator in the famous Teapot Dome scandals. He became the only investigator in whom Walsh had any great confidence. Now they are teaming up together again. Although men like Borah, Caraway and Blaine are on the lobby committee, Walsh, the old bulldoggy, matchless injuistor, has nearly made this lobby investigation his own show.

The committee has been successful because Holland has gone into the private files of the lobbyists and their employers and revealed things they didn't want to be known. After he has given the main facts to the committee and sit ready to prompt the inquisitors there isn't much for witnesses to do but tell the truth.

Holland was born in 1899 and comes from Butte, Mont. He graduated from the Montana School of Mines and came here in 1921 to study law at night while working as a clerk in Walsh's office during the day. He passed the bar all right but was delayed a year in finishing his post-graduate work because he had to work so hard on Teapot Dome.

He went into that after Secretary Albert B. Fall had compiled with the LaFollette resolution asking him to turn over all the records on the naval oil leases. Up to that time Holland had been engaged in minor work, principally checking up points of law for Walsh. But along came a cartload or two of documents from the Interior Department and the young man was put to work on them.

Walsh was the most active democratic member of the public lands committee. He had given Holland a tough job, but also an opportunity for great achievement which he seized. Before long he had learned that Fall had neglected to send along some of the most important papers. Walsh and Holland had started with the idea that they were dealing with a question of law concerning the voidability of the leases. Thus Holland dug up the facts which were used in the civil suits which finally ended in the supreme court with the recovery of the naval oil reserves by the government.

Holland served later as an assistant counsel for the same committee in another investigation, but since 1926 he has been chief trial attorney at prohibition headquarters in New York, supervising investigation work among alcohol permit holders and prosecuting when necessary.

After about two weeks of hearings the lobby committee became uncertain how far it could go on its own steam and Walsh wrote to Holland to come down. Holland arrived in Washington the day after he received the letter. Right away he went down and dug into the records of Mr. J. A. Arnold and the Southern Tariff Association, where he found the evidence which exposed a plan to help the republicans in the south by electing negro democrats in the north as well as the fact that a million dollars had been collected in four years from prominent and wealthy men and concerns—the disposition of some of which is still somewhat obscure.

Showing Up a Witness

The head of the Cuban sugar lobby had given what was considered a frank and full statement of his activities. But after Holland had gone into his files he was called back and made to admit that he had hired a lawyer because of his supposed influence with President Hoover and had boasted of the matter to the president of Cuba.

No one knows how long the investigation will continue. The committee isn't half way through with the tariff lobbyists yet. But the chances are that young Mr. Holland would be able to continue digging up "hot stuff" for the next two or three years.

As Brought Over Associated Press Wires Today

Propose Bonuses

NEW YORK—A bonus for each child of a clergyman is proposed by Dr. Clarence G. Campbell, president of the eugenics research association. "We know from reliable factual data," he said in an address, "that the best qualify of leaders arises, and arises in great frequency, from the progeny of the clergy. Any proposal to increase the progeny of the clergy by supplementing their stipend is not only a human obligation but a eugenic measure which contains the greatest promise."

Two Make Grade

TORONTO—Ninety-eight people out of every 100 are financially incompetent, as Dr. S. S. Huebner, professor of insurance and commerce at the University of Pennsylvania, figures it. Only one out of ten men at the age of 65 has enough money to assure him an income of even $50 a month. Dr. Huebner spoke to Toronto underwriters.

Slightly Weak

NEW YORK—Folks probably will be more suspicious now of sudden delivery of "real stuff," just off a ship. Edward Sonin and Albert Glasser are under arrest. Their game, say investigators, was to go to friends of some one who had just gone abroad, present a forged radiogram arranging for completion of a deal or something such, whisper that liquor was meant, collect in advance, then send a case of water.

Pioneer Of Gray County Dies Today

PAMPA, Jan. 10 (AP)—Coleman W. Bradford, 70, long a resident of Gray county, died today. Mr. Bradford was remembered in connection with the state's suit to obtain title to river bed oil leases on his land in the suit styled State versus C. W. Bradford, et al., now on appeal as a test of the Small land bill validating such "vacant" titles.

Westbrook Will Be Candidate Again

FORT WORTH, Jan. 10 (AP)—State Senator Ed Westbrook of Sherman here for a conference with Senator Julien C. Hyer on legislation at the special session beginning January 20, announced he had abandoned plas for seekig the post of county judge of Grayson county to be a candidate again for the senate from Grayson, Cooke and Fannin counties.

Educator tells the scientist at Des Moines that youth begins to "revolt" at the age of 12. If that man had ever tried to get a bowl of spinach down a three-year-old who didn't want it, he'd know it begins a lot earlier than that.

The Union Pacific railroad is to cancel its carload rates on beer shipments, "because there is no longer any movement of such traffic." Oh well, maybe they can pick up those rates and use them on the Detroit River.

A schooner containing $180,000 worth of whisky was seized off Boston when coast guards found it running without lights. We would have thought that anybody carting that much whisky around would be well enough lit to satisfy anybody.

In New York

With Swan

NEW YORK, Jan. 10—What's new in New York—D. W. Griffith, who has been sleuthing about town disguised as the three juggling Ginzbergs, has finally pounced upon Walter Huston for the role of "Lincoln," in the talkie to be made under that title. . . . Few character actors have drawn quite so many hurrahs in late years as this Huston. . . . New Yorkers first began getting excited when he appeared as Ephraim in "Desire Under the Elms." . . . When the films grabbed him, he appeared as the editor in "Gentlemen of the Press." . . Then he hopped back on the stage to do a particularly fine bit in "The Commodore Marries."

Which reminds me—they do whisper about that Eugene O'Neill has worked out a talking picture version of his "Desire Under the Elms," but unless film producers have changed tastes suddenly, I can't imagine a great rush for this grim tragedy of New England.

Fuller Stoddard, the young man who perfected one of the best player pianos, is about to step forth with a kitchen range which will produce almost any dish in the calendar. . . Like the roll-playing pianos and other automatic affairs, this stove will be able to mix its own meals. . . All you'll have to do is press a few buttons and supply the ingredients and the machine will make soups and trick dishes such as mother never thought of.

For the first time since 1885, the Metropolitan dragged out one of Verdi's earlier opuses the other night—"Louisa Miller," it is titled and it is so little known as to amount to a premiere performance. . . And when Rosa Ponselle appeared after her absence, the house wouldn't let her leave the stage for 10 minutes.

Manuel Komroff, who will be the next book-of-the-month author, with his "Coronets," has been trying for years to get an audience for his books. . . He wrote excellent novels, but never achieved popular success with them.

Richard Halliburton, who goes travelling around and writing about it, tells me that he'll tackle the Forbidden City next. . . Just try and keep that lad out. . . And up in Harlem, the caste system among the colored folk operates so thoroughly that the latest resort is attended only by those light sepia colored aristocrats who wish to mingle neither with the white slummers nor the ebony hued. . . Notice Houdini's widow has a tea room now. . . And Rockwell Kent, the artist, showing how he yodeled to the Eskimos when wrecked recently in Labrador. . . It was amusing, ly enough, a German folk song.

And Grace Moore, a pretty maid from the Tennessee hills, is the latest to make good at the Met, landing a talking picture contract on the strength of her work in "Manon." . . . And Herbert Bayard Swope, the great editor, is said to sleep in a trick nightcap to keep his hair slick.

One of the producers who gets lots of manuscripts has a slot for "turn-downs" over which he has posted the sign: "Killed in action."

And the next thing in New York theaters will be so intimate that its location will be in a large studio. . . . It will be called "The Candlelight," and performances will not begin until midnight, catching the smart crowd of stay-ups. . . It will be very literary and swanky, and many of the performers will be Broadwayites who come over after doing an evening performance at another theater. . . The program will be made up of short numbers, most of them of the Molnarish type of sophisticated European comedies.

Thousands March Before New Princess

ROME, Jan. 10 (AP)—More than 22,000 men of arms, the pick of Italy's contingents, passed in review today before the new Princess of Piedmont, Italy's future queen, who until her marriage to Prince Humbert yesterday was Marie Jose of Belgium.

Families of both the prince and princess witnessed the ceremony.

Climax of the review came in aerial formations by 300 airplanes brought from all Italy's air camps.

WHEN COUGH IS CHRONIC; X-RAY CHEST Answers To Mothers

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.
—Jewish Proverb.

"My boy of six years is troubled with a bronchial cough. The doctors tell me he will outgrow it. It isn't so bad now as it used to be, but I am worried over it. He coughs only when going to bed or in the morning, and it seems loose, but he very seldom raises anything. Would cod liver oil help him any? I am giving him cough medicine now.

"MRS. H."

Inflammation of the bronchial tubes can come from many things, among them the wrong diet which predisposes them to infections, sensitization to certain foods, etc. There is one other thing I should speak of, regarding chronic coughs in children and even in adults—especially those that come on when lying in certain positions—and that is the possibility of pins, tacks, and other foreign objects being lodged in the lungs or bronchial tubes. One who suffers from a peculiar chronic cough should always have an X-Ray picture taken of the chest. You'd be surprised how often foreign bodies are disclosed in children! These can be removed with special instruments by physicians who specialize in this type of work.

Children may outgrow some things but while they are outgrowing them the conditions may cause a great deal of damage which they won't outgrow.

I wouldn't give any child cough medicine over any period of time. Yes, you could give your boy cod liver oil. It is a nourishing food, high in the growth vitamin A and in the anti-rachitic vitamin D.

We have a list of modern books on the general care and feeding of children which you may have. See column rules for obtaining this.

"Dear Doctor: While I was pregnant I plucked the hairs from between my eyebrows. My little baby girl has a slightly red V-shaped mark on the same place on her forehead. Do you think this will remain there, and do you think that my plucking the hairs marked her? MRS. P."

Babies not infrequently have those little blush-like marks, of the type you mention, Mrs. P., and they disappear after a while. The cause is probably some little instability of the superficial blood vessels. (If they are actual birth marks—port wine and strawberry stains—they won't disappear without treatment. These, however, can be removed by a competent skin specialist.)

The marks your baby has have no more relation to your having plucked your eyebrows, Mrs. P., than they have to your keeping your finger nails trimmed.

Mrs. E.—If you had seen as many thousands of babies as we doctors have, with mouths deformed by thumb and finger sucking, and whose health is undoubtedly disturbed in many ways by the practice, you would realize that it is not cruel to put the little cardboard cuffs on the elbow to prevent the habit. It is true that all babies put their fingers to their mouths, and everything else they can get hold of, but when this instinct results in a constant habit, it certainly must be controlled.

Thanks ever so much for sending the picture of your darling baby girl, and your interest in the column.

REDUCED ACREAGE OF GRAIN OPPOSED
BY SMITH W. BROOKHART
United States Senator From Iowa

(Smith W. Brookhart was born in Scotland county, Mo., Feb. 2, 1869. He was educated in country schools, had a year and a half of high school training and also studied at the Southern Iowa Normal school. He taught for five years in the country schools before he was admitted to the bar in 1892. After serving as county attorney of Washington from 1895-1901, he engaged in the agricultural business. In 1922 he was elected to the senate to fill a vacancy. In 1925 he was re-elected but Daniel F. Steek contested the election and was seated. Brookhart again was elected in 1926. He is a Progressive Republican.)

I think the proposition of Chairman Alexander Legge of the farm board for reduction of the crop output and thereby reducing surpluses is the most unsound and unfriendly proposition that has ever been made to agriculture. The most desirable thing in America, not only for the farmers but for all business, is a large agricultural exportable surplus, provided this surplus is properly financed and not permitted to depress the home market.

This can be done exactly as the industries are now financing and disposing of their exportable surpluses. It was the principal purpose of this new farm bill to do that identical thing, but now Mr. Legge is saying to the farmers instead: "Quit raising cotton, wheat, corn, and hogs."

In the first place, this thing of quitting agricultural production is an impossible procedure. Short acreage may produce a larger crop than a large acreage. Weather conditions control this and not the farm board. In the next place, Mr. Legge promises the farmers only a 20 per cent increase if they reduce their production and 20 per cent is not half enough.

An exportable surplus of agricultural products is more desirable than any other sort of an exportable surplus. The reason is because the whole world demands foods and also clothing. The real fact is that so far as the whole world is concerned, there never has been a surplus of farm products.

Wheat and cotton are the two biggest items of export. Mr. Legge had just about enough money to handle these two in 1929 in a business-like way but instead of doing that he has promised only $53,000,000 and actually loaned only about $12,000,000. I concede he does not have enough funds.

I want to give him the intermediate credit bank but I also want to give him $200,000,000 of tariff debentures which he can use to cover losses if any. These items will give him about enough to handle the whole exportable surplus.

If Mr. Legge reduces the production, he will increase the price to the consumers of the country a good deal more than 20 per cent in order to make up both for the shortage of crops and the 20 per cent total volume increase he proposes to give the farmers thereby.

If all the farm surpluses are protected alike, there will be no shifting in production and no greater surplus in any line. This surplus ought to go abroad and bring back a balance of trade for the benefit of the whole United States.

Finding Withheld In Naval Inquiry

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—A finding has been made in the court martial case of Lieutenant Harold Wilson Northcutt of the navy's construction corps, who disappeared from his station at Norfolk, October 2 and was found 12 days later by government agents in Vancouver, Canada.

Navy officials, who must review the finding, refused to announce acquittal on any of the three the verdict. No notification of an charges against Northcutt has been given.

The charge were desertion, entering a foreign country without permission and "conduct unbecoming an officer and gentleman." They were based upon the disappearance of the 26 year old former star student of the navy, and his discovery in Canada.

Part of the White House offices burned. Maybe President Hoover had better appoint a commission to prevent fires.

PLAINVIEW TO IMPROVE MUCH DURING YEAR

INSTALLATION OF CITY TRAFFIC LIGHTS, PAVING ORDERED

(Special to The Journal)

PLAINVIEW, Jan. 10—An immediate improvement program for the City of Plainview which will include the installation of traffic signals on the business streets, the paving of forty or fifty blocks in the residential section of the city, further city park improvements and employment of a city engineer to supervise the work, was given the favorable recommendation of the Plainview City Council in regular session here Monday evening.

Should the program be carried out as favored by the council there will be three traffic signals installed on the busiest streets of the city.

The demand for this improvement has been created by the increased amount of traffic in the city and the council is of the opinion that the signals will prove of inestimable value to the traffic department.

Paving Is Proposed

Forty to fifty blocks of paving in the residence section of Plainview is favored by the council and it is estimated that the total cost to the city will not exceed $50,000 and the actual cost of the paving will be approximately $200,000. The number of blocks to be paved depends on the type of paving selected, it is pointed out by Mayor Tom Shelton.

The public park improvement program will probably include the construction of a municipal swimming pool as well as additional improvements to the present parks.

Mayor Shelton has been authorized to secure the services of a competent city engineer to supervise the improvements that are contemplated and will begin receiving applications for this position within the near future.

The completion of the program as outlined by the council will be the culmination of a program that has been contemplated by the council for some time and which has received favorable comment from the citizenship in general. It is pointed out by the mayor and the council that the program can be successfully carried without the necessity of a bond issue and warrants will be issued in order to begin immediate work on the program.

"Well, this is great," wee Clowny cried. "I love to watch those monkeys ride. Just watch them hanging by their tails. They're clever as can be. But, even so, I must confess, I'd do as well as them, I guess. I will not do it, though, because you'd all just laugh at me."

"Don't brag," snapped Scouty. "That sounds cheap. The best thing you can do is keep real still about what you can do till you can prove your worth. The people I dislike the most are those who always stand and boast. We all would be much better off if there were none on earth."

This held poor Clowny for a while. And then his face spread in a smile. "Oh, look," said he "that monkey's standing on the handle-bars. The rest are chattering out loud. Of him they all seem rather proud. I hope they do not scratch our bike or fill it full of mars."

And then the monkey man cried, "Hey! You monks have had enough of play. Stop riding now and bring that bike back here by my side. I want you all to rest a bit until you're sure you're feeling fit. Then, for the Tinies' benefit you'll have another ride."

The monkeys jumped off, to the ground and chattering, they ran around. "Sit down," exclaimed their owner. "I have told you all to rest." One monk had disappeared from sight. The owner said, "Things are not right. The monk that's gone is up to tricks. He is a little pest."

Then Scouty cried, "He's having fun. Just look at him, and what he's done. He's taken our nice bike apart. Why did you turn him free? He should be in his cage right now! But, I will catch the pest somehow." And Scouty chased the monkey till it scrambled up a tree.

TERRACING WORK IS NOW IMPORTANT PART IN AGRICULTURAL WORK IN JONES

(Special To The Journal)

STAMFORD, Jan. 10.—Despite the fact that much of the land in Jones county is of the prairie type, this county is one of the few in Texas in which over 50 per cent of the cultivated land is terraced or has water-levels run on it.

Of the 276,100 acres of tilled land in this county, over 142,000 acres has terraces or water levels, according to a recent survey of the county by County Agent C. C. Jobson. Approximately 30,000 acres was terraced during 1929 in the county, that acreage being included in the 142,000 acre total. The county agent says at least that much more will be terraced during the next sixty days.

It has been found, in this county, that the production of land that appears to the eye to be almost level, will be greatly increased by running the terraces or water levels, so as to conserve and keep on the land, all the water that falls on it.

For the past thirty days, Jobson has been devoting a large part of his time to holding terracing demonstrations in various parts of the county and he plans to continue that work for another month. There are over 100 men in the county capable of operating farm levels in laying out lines for terraces and there are 75 levels in the county and a large percent of both the men and levels are being used regularly in this work.

Hospital Inmate Slashes Physician

HARRISBURG, Pa., Jan. 10. (AP)—Dr. B. E. Miller, staff physician at the Harrisburg State hospital, was killed today by Moses Sweet of this city, patient who attacked him with a razor. The physician's throat was cut so severely he died 15 minutes later.

Dr. E. M. Greene, superintendent at the institution, said Dr. Miller had just entered the ward in which Sweet was confined and the physician had talked with Sweet for a few moments. When Dr. Miller turned to talk to another patient, Sweet attacked him with the razor.

Superintendent Greene said Sweet's only explanation of the attack was that Dr. Miller "was keeping me here."

Hearing On Fruit Fly Case Is Set

AUSTIN, Jan. 10 (AP)—A hearing on the application of the Glen St. Mary Nurseries company of Florida to enjoin George B. Terrell, Texas commissioner of agriculture, from enforcing an embargo against shipments of citrus fruit trees into the state, will be held in Austin before Judge Duval West of the United States District Court on Jan. 27.

W. T. Williams of Austin, representing the nurseries, returned today from San Antonio, where he appeared before Judge West, who granted a temporary injunction Terrell, his assistants and agents from enforcing the embargo, which was put on to protect Texas orchards against spread of the Mediterranean fly.

Williams said that the suit is based on the point that action of Terrell was violative of the interstate commerce clause of the United States constitution.

STATEMENTS FROM TWO MEN ORDERED IN DESMOND TAYLOR MURDER MYSTERY

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 10.—As a matter of protection to his office, but with "no idea that they will throw any light on the mystery," District Attorney Buron Fitts last night ordered statements taken from Otis Nelson and Henry Peavey in connection with the interviews they are alleged to have given to the last few days regarding the murder of William Desmond Taylor in 1922.

"None of the statements made so far by Nelson or Peavey contain new evidence upon which I can act," Fitts said. "They are attempts at sensationalism. I am ordering statements taken from them by investigators as a matter of protection. I have no idea that they will throw any light on the mystery."

Taylor, prominent motion picture director, was killed in his Hollywood apartment. Edward Sands, Taylor's secretary, disappeared and never has been found. Nelson has alleged that he accompanied Sands in an automobile to Taylor's apartment the night Sands found the body, and Peavey, Taylor's manservant, has been quoted as having said his attempts to name the slayer were blocked in the original investigation.

Fitts cited the thorough questioning to which both Nelson and Peavey were submitted soon after the murder, and on subsequent occasions, and the fact that their information uniformly has been found useless in attempts to solve the mystery of Taylor's death.

Jones County Man Sells Much Cream

STAMFORD, Jan. 10. (Special)—During the 12 months of 1929, L. B. Westmoreland, of Sinclair community in the central part of Jones county, received an average of $41 per month from the sale of sour cream from five cows.

The Westmoreland family had all the dairy products for home use that was needed and the money realized from the sale of the cream was more than enough to pay the family grocery bill. All the feed consumed by the cows was home-grown and the milk producers had a sudan grass field for pasture the entire year.

A perfume finer than pine or bacon woodsmoke or wistaria!

THE ODORS that please you are many—roses and the redwoods, bacon sizzling over a hickory fire, an off-water breeze, or buttered batter cakes.

Yes, there are hundreds of these perfumes that enchant you when they come your way—and are never missed when they're absent!

There is only one that your nostrils hunt for, wait for, must have.

That is the aroma of hot coffee!

What a relief it is, when you're shaking off sleep and facing another day's problems, to have a whiff of that perfume come your way! You feel braced before ever the coffee is tasted.

That first sniff-sniff in the morning is all important. It's a tip on what is coming—coffee that will either make or break the day. If you're disappointed, nothing that happens all morning can set matters right.

You can bank on this; you'll never disappoint your sense of smell or your sense of taste with the delightful, bracing aroma or the delicious flavor of White Swan Coffee.

By controlling every step in preparation and distribution of White Swan, the Waples Platter Company makes sure that no finer coffee can be brought into your home for the price you are asked to pay.

Supervision as exact as that in your own kitchen is enforced in each important process.

Modern roasting ovens bring out the natural flavor of the imported coffees which are so artfully combined and balanced in achieving the full, rich quality of the White Swan blend.

After roasting, White Swan is packed in sealed tins and handled with dispatch. No chances are taken with the freshness of its flavor. Each of the 10,000 dealers is within easy shipping distance of one or more of the 22 Waples Platter Houses which are strategically located to insure prompt distribution. Fleets of motor trucks operate over a system of routes making regular deliveries to your grocer.

The best of modern method and time-tested custom are thus combined with the skill acquired by more than a half century of experience in developing the famous White Swan quality.

Now, and whenever you need a fresh supply, White Swan Coffee is available at your grocer's freshly packed in one and three pound cans.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10. (AP)—Representative Strong of Kansas, ranking member of the house banking committee, today formally introduced his bill to eliminate branch and group banking.

The measure would forbid use of mails by any bank included in a group or chain of banks, and would bar the articles or messages of such a bank from interstate or foreign commerce.

STOCK INCREASED

AUSTIN, Jan. 10. (AP)—The American Fire and Marine Insurance company of Galveston increased its capital stock from $600,000 to $1,000,000, under a charter amendment approved by Assistant Attorney General H. G. Chandler today.

MORE GAINS RECORDED ON STOCKS TODAY; LEADERS UP

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—Stock prices made further recovery at the opening of today's market, with buying stimulated by a decrease of $72,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans. Allied Chemical advanced 3 1-2 points. General Electric 2 1-2, Otis Elevator 2, Columbian Carbon 1 3-4, and initial gains of a point or so were registered by Coty, J. I. Case, American Telephone and Bethlehem Steel. U. S. Steel opened with a block of 5,000 shares at 172 1-4 up 1 1-4.

High priced industrials and specialties were in the forefront of today's early advance, but some coppers, motors and amusements were backward. Auburn Auto extended its gain to 5 1-4 points before the end of the first half hour, Allied Chemical and Columbian Carbon to 4 points to 173 1-4, but met heavy S. Steel common, moved up 2 1-4 points to 173 1--4, but met heavy profit-taking at that level and quickly lost half its gain. Andes Copper and Fox Film were conspicuously heavy.

Foreign exchanges opened firm, with sterling advancing slightly to $4.87 1-16.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 10 (AP)—Wheat here took an early downward course today, influenced by slackness of export deman dand by sagging quotations at Liverpool.

Starting 1-4 to 3-4 down, Chicago wheat later continued to decline. Corn, oats and provisions were also easier, with corn opening 1-8 off to 3-8 up, and subsequently receding all around.

It Is Remarkable Says Mrs. Perkins

"I Suffered About 20 Years And One Half Bottle Of Orgatone Has Completely Relieved me," Says Wichita Housewife

"I sincerely think Orgatone is a wonderful medicine and wouldn't be without it for anything," said Mrs. J. Perkins of 201 Patterson, Wichita Falls, Texas.

"For twenty years I have suffered from a terrible, chronic case of stomach trouble. I had such miserable sick headaches, I would get blind and numb and simply wasn't able to stay out of bed. Every time I would get one of those spells I would have to quit my work and lie down until I got over it, and sometimes it would last for hours. I had dizzy and bilious spells, almost every day, and wasn't able to eat hardly anything, without it bothering me. I had pains in my back and sides, which bothered me most all the time, and was severely constipated. My liver also was out of order, and I think, this was the cause of my pains."

"I heard about how Orgatone was benefitting so many of our people right here in Wichita, so I decided to try a bottle. It began to help me right from the start. I haven't had a dizzy or bilious spell since taking the first one-half bottle. I eat anything I want, and am completely relieved of those miserable sick, dizzy headaches, and the pains in my back and sides are gone. I do not have those blind, numb feelings anymore, and my constipation has been relieved. I have recommended Orgatone to my friends, for I know what it will do for you. I think it is a wonderful medicine and wouldn't be with out it for anything, and I'm going to take it as long as I can secure it."

COTTON IS UP SLIGHTLY

FIRST TRADES REVEAL GAINS; LOSSES ARE MADE LATER

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 10 (AP)—The cotton market opened fairly steady with cables rather indifferent. First trades showed one point decline to three points up. The market improved slightly after the start owing to the bullish character of December textile statistics issued after the close of the market yesterday, and prices rallied to levels one to three points above yesterday's close with March at 17.32 and May at 17.60. Later prices eased off slightly on a private estimate placing December consumption at 4,777 bales which was considered rather small. At the end of the first hour the market was steady and 2 to 3 points above the lows.

The market gradually eased off in moderate trading due to reselling by recent buyers. The easier tone was due partly to small private estimates of domestic mill consumption in December and partly to disappointing weekly statistics. March traded down to 17.13 and May to 17.39, or 19 to 21 points down from the highs. At noon the market was barely steady and at the lows.

OPENING IS STEADY ON NEW YORK MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 10 (AP)—The cotton market opened steady today at an advance of 2 points to a decline of 5 points. Overnight buying promoted by firmness of yesterday and a bullish view of the standard cloth statistics for December was reported. Demand tapered off after the opening, and prices eased under the offerings which sent March off to 17.33 and July to 17.75. The general market showed net declines of about 6 to 9 points at the end of the first half hour.

Trading was less active later. There were additional spurts of buying, but contracts appeared to be more freely offered than yesterday, and the bulges were not fully maintained. At mid-day March was selling around 17.33 and July 17.74, or 7 to 12 points net higher.

LAREDO CASE

night that an embargo on freight business using Laredo as a gateway had been declared by the Missouri Pacific lines and the Texas-Mexican railway to last indefinitely. Freight going only as far as Laredo is not affected.

Merchandise Tied Up

Four firms of customs brokers established branch offices at Eagle Pass to handle export business until settlement of the controversy, caused by threats of District Attorney John A. Valls of Laredo to arerst former President Calles of Mexico on a charge of conspiracy to murder. The brokers said they had 250 cars of merchandise tied up here.

The Mexico City newspaper El Universal Grafico reported official sources said Mexico will not reopen the consulate until Valls modifies his attitude toward Mexicans.

ists today as a result of prohibition."

"In these states," Schafer said, "under federal prohibition, bootlegging, drunkenness, and drunken vehicle drivers have increased tremendously; fundamental rights guaranteed to our people under the constitution flagrantly violated; lives snuffed out without due process of law by irresponsible and fanatical enforcement agents; the privacy of life and the sanctity of the home guaranteed under the constitution ruthlessly violated."

Senator Harris lives in Georgia, Borah in Idaho, Sheppard in Texas, and Howell and Norris in Nebraska. All are dry leaders, and have taken part in the recent dispute.

TEXAS WEATHER

eight below Amarillo, Plainview, and Shamrock reported two or three degrees under the zero mark.

Others Record Cold

Other cities reporting the coldest weather of the season included Wichita Falls, where the reading of six above was the lowest since December, 1924; Dallas, with 14.3 above for a new winter mark; Gainesville, with a new low of 11.5 above.

Summer was chased out of the Rio Grande valley as the mercury fell to 38 above at Brownsville. No crop damage was reported.

Brownwood and surrounding points, nearly isolated by failure of many telegraph and telephone wires to the west central region, had a minimum temperature of 15 degrees, but a shining sun promised relief. At Sweetwater the mercury stood seven above.

Telegraph and telephone repair crews were working all over the state to restore service broken down by ice-laden wires. Telephone lines between Dallas and Temple, Lampasas and Waco, were out today and no wires were available to reroute calls.

FOUR DEATHS GIVEN IN OKLAHOMA AREAS

Arrival of sub-zero weather last night retarded efforts of the state to dig out from under its worst blizzard in many years. All forms of transportation were affected, and many highways were made impassable by snow drifts.

Three of the dead were victims of coasting accidents. Millard Thomas, 13, and Claud Russell, jr., 16 were killed last night at Ada, when their sled, hooked to an automobile, skidded into the path of a car. Benjamin Russell, 12, was injured seriously in the same accident. James Akeridge, 10, met his death in a similar accident at Elk City Wednesday night. Earl C. Hitt, 20, Healdton druggist, was killed when his automobile went over an embankment near Comanche.

Thermometer readings of nine below zero were reported this morning at Cherokee, Ponca City and other northwestern Oklahoma points.

FREIGHTER IS AGROUD

BLOCK ISLAND, R. I., Jan. 10. (AP)—The freighter Edward Luckenbach grounded on southwest point in a dense fog today and probably will be a total loss. It was believed here as a strengthening southeaster pounded the vessel with heavy seas.

LONSDALE, Minn., Jan. 10. (AP) Three bandits held up the State Bank of Lonsdale today and escaped with approximately $10,000 in cash.

BAD BREATH, DULL FEELING

Virginia Lady Tells How She Gets Rid of These Symptoms.

Rural Retreat, Va.—"Every so often," says Mrs. L. W. Hilton, of this place, "I am troubled with sick headache and biliousness, the result of constipation. My health gets bad, and I feel dull and lifeless. Such a spell follows constipation, and I have found it wise never to allow it to run on.

"At the first sign of such symptoms, I begin taking a course of Thedford's Black-Draught, and in a few days I am feeling well again.

"I have found that I always feel better after I have taken it. I am glad to recommend Black-Draught to others. We have used it in our family for six years or more."

Constipation dams up poisons in the bowels, where they are absorbed into the general system, causing many serious symptoms. At the first sign of constipation, take Thedford's Black-Draught.

This valuable remedy has been in use since 1835, with constantly increasing popularity, because of its real merit. Insist on the genuine, in a yellow package, marked "Thedford's." Price 25¢. E2-G30

OBSTACLE IS BEFORE PRO LAW STUDIES

OPPOSITION FROM RANK OF HOUSE LEADERS PRESENTED TODAY

BY RICHARD L. TURNER
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 10 (AP)—Opposition from the foremost rank of House administration leadership today presented a formidable obstacle to the fulfillment of President Hoover's desire for a joint congressional committee to study prohibition enforcement.

Chairman Snell of the all-powerful rules committee, through which all House legislation must pass, was sponsor for the statement that republican leaders of his branch of Congress consider the establishment of the agency requested by the chief executive unnecessary.

Must Have Machinery

"We feel," he said, "that we have the necessary machinery already set up in the House to effect the transfer of the prohibition unit from the treasury to the justice department, if that is what they want. We prefer to legislate in the regular way; to let the regular committees handle the tranafer of the unit."

Meanwhile, official Washington kept an eye on the Hoover law enforcement ecmmission and sought to substantiate reports that group had become involved in a serious disagreement which has prevented the preparation of a public statement promised three days ago. The commission, officially in adjournment until February 5, was ignoring the rumors of dissension and giving no indication of how soon its utterance would be ready for publication.

Center Shifts

The center of Washington's tumultuous prohibition enforcement controversy has shifted noticeably from the Senate to the House. Confined very largely through the Christmas recess to exchanges among "dry" senators and officials of government enforcement agencies, a heated discussion has taken place at the opposite end of the capitol since Congress re-convened.
