Allies Are Preparing For Kill

EDITOR'S NOTE: William B. Ziff, well-known writer on aviation subjects, believes that if Germany resorts to the use of gas, the United Nations can end the war in Europe in 30 days. In the following article written for the United Press, he also says that there will be no full-dress invasion of Europe this year, despite Allied air superiority and the weakening of German morale.

By WILLIAM B. ZIFF
Written For United Press

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The United Nations are getting set for the kill. And they are serving notice on the Axis that if Germany wants to play rough, we will close in on her relentlessly with gas or any other weapon she chooses to unleash.

Confidential reports received from Germany indicate a rapidly deteriorating position. The transport situation is particularly bad. German morale would seem to be perilously close to going up in smoke due to the vertical pressure exerted by incessant air raids.

Though the German Wehrmacht is still dangerously powerful, it is clear that the German nation is cracking under the strain. The great German army is in a desperate position and can pull out only by some swift, unexpected and decisive blow from which our forces cannot quickly recover.

One Great Weapon

There is still one great weapon left in the German arsenal, on which our military men are keeping a wary eye—gas.

The airplane has given the chemical weapon a power it never had before. If the Germans possess the air power to disseminate gas, they can very well attempt a blow to set us back on our heels. The blow would be aimed not against Russia, but England, and then would be turned against the Muscovites.

It is agreed by such authorities on chemical warfare as our own Brig. Gen. Alden Waitt that when gas is used it must be used in overwhelming amounts to gain a decision quickly. That is what we must be prepared for.

But we have the cards in our hands if Germany decides to get rough. Unless she can win by an unexpected, terrifically developed assault, her defeat is inevitable. Our danger is that we may be caught unawares. If we get set for chemical warfare, the instruments in our hands would allow us to end the war in Europe within any 30 days.

Even without reference to the German situation, the Japanese,

Recognition Is Given Ramirez

BUENOS AIRES, June 11 (AP)—The United States and Great Britain today recognized Argentina's new provisional government, set up under the presidency of Gen. Pedro Ramirez after a revolt just a week ago today.

Their actions followed by a day, recognitions extended by Germany and Italy, with which Argentina still maintains diplomatic relations, the only Western hemisphere nation doing so.

Notice Sent Today

Sec. Hull said at a press conference that Ambassador Norman Armour delivered the proper notice to the Argentine government at 10 a. m. today (CWT) or noon Buenos Aires time.

In reply to questions, the secretary said that all the American republics which did not extend recognition to the new government yesterday probably would do so today.

Collaboration Given

He said it was understood the United States had collaborated with the other American governments over the question of recognition but that each government is acting on its own initiative.

Asked whether he expected any

Three Pair Of Shoes Assured Consumers

WASHINGTON, June 11. (U.P.)—Office of Price Administration officials assured consumers today that they can use their new shoe stamp No. 18 for summer shoes without fear that they will be caught short in the fall.

OPA decided after analysis of shoe inventories and military and lend lease needs, to set the expiration date of stamp 18 for some time in the fall, probably mid-September. A new shoe stamp will become valid then.

Officials indicated that shoe ration periods will be approximately the same length as the first period at least for the time being. Prospects are good that Price Administrator Prentiss M. Brown's original hope for three-pairs-of-shoes-a-year quota for each person will be carried out.

Appeal Issued To Italy To Get Out Of The War

Restoration Of Italy As Nation Is Said Planned

WASHINGTON, June 11 (U.P.) — Citing the fate of Pantelleria, President Roosevelt today called anew on the Italian people to overthrow their Fascist dictators and get out of the war.

Talking to his press conference shortly after being advised by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower of Pantelleria's surrender, Mr. Roosevelt said the people of Italy could

POPE PLANS ADDRESS
(By The Associated Press)

The Berlin radio in a Vatican City dispatch reported today that Pope Pius XII would address 20,000 Italian workers Sunday at the largest reception to be given by the pontiff since the war began.

"Vatican circles believe that his speech may also be of some political importance," the Berlin radio said. The broadcast was recorded by the Associated Press.

feel assured that once their Fascist overlords are out of the way, the people will be given a free choice of a new government.

Renewal Of Invitations

His remarks were an open renewal of the invitations voiced frequently by himself and Prime Minister Winston Churchill for the Italian people to overthrow the Mussolini regime and place themselves on the mercies of the Allies.

The fall of Pantelleria, Mr. Roosevelt told reporters, provided an opportune moment to speak to the people of Italy through newspapers and radio.

Result Of Duce's Course

Mr. Roosevelt reminded the people of Italy that effect of the Allied campaign against Italy was the perfectly logical and inevitable result of the ruthless, traitorous course followed by Benito Mussolini.

Mussolini, the President said, has betrayed his own country in a struggle for personal power and aggrandizement.

The President said the warlike acts of Italy were not those of the Italian people, but those of Mussolini's personal and German-dominated Fascist regime.

Must Continue War

Harking back to his "stab in the back" speech when Italy made an unprovoked declaration of war against France, Mr. Roosevelt said the United Nations had no choice but to prosecute the war against Italy until complete victory is won.

Then he held out to the Italian people the hope of a government free of any German domination or fascism.

Would Restore Nation

When the German domination of Italy has ended, he said, the United Nations could well assure the Italian people of their opportunity to pick a non-Fascistic government of their own choosing.

He expressed a hope in behalf of the United Nations that Italy would be restored to real nationhood and take her place as a respected member—and he repeated

Jap Bombers Are Downed In Solomons

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP) — Marine and Army fighter planes shot down four Japanese Mitsubishi bombers in the southeastern Solomons Thursday, the Navy reported today, and army planes attacked enemy positions at Vila in the central Solomons.

The Navy communique said that on June 10th Marine Corsair (Vought F4U) and Army Lightning (Lockheed P-38) fighters intercepted and shot down the bombers over the north end of Malaita, and during the same day enemy positions on Vila, Kolombangara island, were attacked by Army Liberator (Consolidated B-24) heavy bombers and Warhawk (Curtiss P-40) and Lightning fighters with "unobserved results."

Malaita island lies directly northeast of the American airfield on Guadalcanal and is within easy operational range of that field.

Pantelleria Island Has Been Scene Of Strife For Centuries

(By The United Press)

Pantelleria was one of the three major units of Italy's Mediterranean island empire, composed also of the larger islands, Sicily and Sardinia, and many small islands. The area has been the scene of conquest and strife, the battleground of Christian and infidel, throughout history.

Pantelleria, although a small volcanic island, holds a commanding position in the Mediterranean which is vastly important from a naval standpoint. It was to Italy what Malta is to Great Britain because it dominates the east-west passage of the Mediterranean.

Allied planes and warships virtually isolated Pantelleria after Axis resistance in Africa was crushed. The Allied task of knocking out Pantelleria was simplified by the fact that it has only one natural harbor—that at the city of Pantelleria at the northwest end of the oval shaped island. The inner harbor is enclosed by a breakwater on the west and a smaller mole on the east. A third breakwater lies farther west. Two miles back from the harbor lies

House Passes Legislation To Curb Strikes In War Plants

Passage Comes In Close Vote

Opponents Hope Bill Is Vetoed

(By The United Press)

WASHINGTON, June 11. (U.P.) — The House today adopted a drastic anti-strike bill which, if enacted, would make it legally possible to send John L. Lewis to jail in event of another coal strike.

It approved the Senate-House conference agreement on legislation aimed primarily at the coal dispute but broad enough to prevent or delay strikes in all war plants.

The vote was announced as 219 to 129.

Early Approval Seen

The action places the bill in position for final congressional action in the Senate late today or early next week. Its enactment, however, depends on Presidential approval. Opponents of the bill hope that Mr. Roosevelt will veto it.

The measure would back up specific authority in President Roosevelt's action in seizing the coal mines. Any one who encourages or aids a strike in a government-seized mine or war plant would be liable to a $5,000 fine or one year's imprisonment or both. This is the provision that could be applied to Lewis and other coal strike leaders.

Must Give Notice

The bill also:

Provides the War Labor board with statutory powers, including authority to force the appearance of witnesses. Lewis repeatedly has refused the board's orders to appear before it on the coal dispute.

Prohibits the calling of a strike

Negotiations Ended By UMW

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The United Mine Workers voted today to put a formal end to the fruitless contract negotiations they have been holding with operators. Meanwhile, walkout fines imposed on the miners brought threats of still another strike.

While Exra Van Horn, chairman of the operator-miner joint conference, merely declared a recess in the sessions, the union took the position that they are ended.

The UMW explained that "failure of operators to attend" prompted its action. Van Horn read a telegram from the operators saying they would not return to negotiations until the War Labor board (WLB) has acted in the controversy.

Occupation Effected Within 22 Minutes

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP) — Ralph Howard, NBC reporter in north Africa, said in an NBC broadcast from there today that "exactly 22 minutes after our landing party came ashore, Pantelleria was in our hands."

He said that though the white flag was seen flying over the island this morning some slight resistance was encountered by the landing forces. He did not elaborate.

"Strong naval forces, consisting of cruisers and destroyers, backed up the landing forces," Howard said.

Price Rollbacks To Cause Black Markets Boom, Texan Says

Subsidy Plan Is Declared Unsound

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP) — A spokesman for the livestock and packing industry issued a statement today predicting the meat price rollback and subsidy plan would cause a wave of black market operations, and charging the plan was being ordered into effect over the opposition of high federal officials.

Judge Joe Montague of Fort Worth, Texas, representing the National Livestock and Meat council, issued the statement after a week of conferences, including one with President Roosevelt. The subsidy plan becomes effective in retail stores June 21.

To Cause Operations

"The subsidy plan is not based on sound economic views nor on an understanding of the situation," he declared. "It inevitably will result in a wave of black market operations.

"So far as we are able to determine, the responsibility is taken by the administration. Several of the heads of the agencies and bureaus with whom we in the meat industry have conferred are approving the subsidy plan solely because they have been ordered to do so."

Montague did not say who was doing the ordering.

Outgrowth of Situation

He said there was no convincing evidence that livestock prices if left uncontrolled would rise sufficiently to become dangerous or inflationary.

"The only evidence of extremely high prices for livestock has been in the black market," he said. "We feel that the black market is an outgrowth of the government regulation inaugurated in October of 1942, when all killers were placed on a quota of 70 per cent of their 1941 average kill."

Montague declared that before

Slayer Of Babies Is Convicted In Denver

DENVER, June 11. (AP)—A district court jury, after deliberating nearly 13 hours, today found 23-year-old Bernice Williams guilty of second degree murder in the drowning of one of three infants born to her out of wedlock.

The verdict was returned at 11:37 a. m. (mountain war time) by the jury of 11 married men and a bachelor, who had deliberated since 9:46 o'clock last night.

The dark-haired Denver woman, a buyer of infants' wear for a department store, also was convicted on a second charge—concealing the birth of an illegitimate child.

Conviction on a second degree murder charge in Colorado carries a sentence of from 10 years to life imprisonment, at the discretion of the sentencing judge. District Judge Joseph E. Cook did not say at once when sentence would be imposed.

Lubbock Man Heads Master Plumbers

Ralph K. Landreth of Lubbock was elected president of the National Association of Master Plumbers at the closing session of the annual convention in Chicago Thursday, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

Other new officers included P. C. Callahan of Houston, who was elected secretary. Landreth was vice president of the organization.

He is president of Lubbock Master Plumbers association and past president of the state association.

Landreth moved to Lubbock about two years ago from Longview, where he was in business many years. His home is on Levelland highway. He was plumbing contractor for Lubbock Army Air field and, more recently, for the aviation mechanic's school at Amarillo. Friends here said he plans to establish business in Lubbock after completing war contracts.

Accompanying him to the Chicago convention were Mrs. Landreth and their nieces, Misses Bess Broadway and Jeanne Johnson.

Also present at the convention from Lubbock were Mr. and Mrs. James Samson, 2312 Thirteenth street. Samson operates a plumbing and heating business here.

Briton Worried Over Kids' Brooklyn Lingo

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—The hope of Morris Barnett, a cook on a British merchantman, was that his ship would some day sail into New York harbor to permit him to see his two children who were evacuated in 1940 from London.

He saw them yesterday—Bernard, 7, and Myra, 17—and he's happy, but:

"One thing bothers me. Their Brooklyn accent is killing me."

Machinery For Collecting New Tax Started

Withholding Tax To Come Out Of Checks July 1

WASHINGTON, June 11 — The machinery for collecting 20 per cent — after exemptions — from the wages and salaries of all income tax payers beginning next month was set in motion today by the Treasury.

Immediately after President Roosevelt signed the pay-as-you-go tax bill late yesterday orders were flashed to internal revenue

NO COMPULSORY SAVINGS

WASHINGTON, June 11 (U.P.) — President Roosevelt told his press conference today that he had no intention of asking Congress to institute a system of compulsory savings.

He said some confusion followed his last press conference when he said that a combination of taxation and compulsory savings could be used to cut down the "inflationary gap." The President said there were any number of possible methods of taxation, but that it was up to Congress to decide the details. Reiterating his opposition to a general sales tax, the President said it was possible that Congress might pass such a measure over his veto.

He said that as long as the voluntary purchases of war bonds continues as well as they are now, he hoped that compulsory savings would not be necessary.

Primary Urged For Presidents

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Legislation to establish preferential presidential primary elections in all states may be laid before the Senate as a companion measure to a resolution limiting future presidents to two terms.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont), a supporter of the projected eight-year limitation, announced he is considering introducing the primary proposal in an effort to thwart what he termed "horse trading" by which he said political conventions some times have chosen party nominees.

"I may offer a constitutional amendment which would bring the direct primary into operation in every state in the presidential race," Wheeler said in an interview.

Voters Could Choose

Wheeler said he had in mind the establishment of preferential primaries in which voters could register their choice. Delegates to the party conventions, chosen as they now are and with the present ration between states maintained, then would be morally bound to support their state's

Isolated Lampedusa Expected To Fall

LONDON, June 11. (AP)—British military observers said today they expected the surrender of the Italian island of Lampedusa to follow the fall of Pantelleria.

Lampedusa 80 miles south of Pantelleria, was raided by a British scouting party earlier this week. It is isolated and probably is short of provisions.

Island Fortress Of Pantelleria Taken By Allies

Unconditional Surrender Completed By British After 22-Minute Fight; Aerial Bombardment Is Heaviest Ever Known

BY DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 11.—Aerial bombardment of the greatest fury the world had ever known compelled the little island fortress of Pantelleria to surrender unconditionally today, but British troops landing under the cover of naval guns had to fight 22 minutes against scattered enemy defenders.

The strategic stepping stone, some 60 miles from Sicily and 45 from Africa, was occupied at 12:22 p. m. (5:22 a. m. Central War Time) after a noon landing by assault forces 20 minutes after the display of white flags on Pantelleria's hills and a white cross on its air field.

The Axis garrison commander, it is believed, was unable to inform all his troops of the decision to capitulate before the actual invasion began and isolated gun posts fought on briefly.

Italian Fleet May Be Next

Sicily, Sardinia Set For Attacks

(By The United Press)

LONDON, June 11 — Huge Allied air and naval fleets that reduced bomb-blasted Pantelleria and virtually eliminated Lampedusa in the Mediterranean war theater today wedged an invasion spearhead into the outer fringe of Axis European defenses and appeared ready for a major clash with the Italian navy.

Sicily and Sardinia — or both —anticipated a major assault, dispatches from Madrid said, and the long-hidden Fascist navy is being readied to join with Axis air forces in defense of the biggest stepping stone islands to Italy.

Whether the Italian naval forces would come out and fight now that the steel ring drawn around Axis Europe was being closed on their home territory still was uncertain, but recent dispatches from Malta said that British naval sources expected a stiff tussle with Italian sea forces, especially the small units.

Topedo Boats Active

Italian torpedo boats have played an important role in some phases of the Mediterranean war and the Fascists have put great emphasis on their development.

Italy has six battleships—three of which were attacked by U. S. Flying Fortresses last week at Spezia — and perhaps 15 light cruisers as well as a considerable number of destroyers.

British sources have taken the position that the Italian naval forces might be "sacrificed" in a final, grand attempt to block an Allied invasion in the Mediterranean. That, they believe, would be good strategy from the Axis viewpoint during the first 48 hours of any major attempt to invade southern Europe.

Nazis Confirm Drop In U-Boat Tolls

LONDON, June 11 (AP) — Another marked drop in German U-boat claims was made today by the German war communique which asserted that Nazi submarines had sunk nine more Allied ships totalling 43,000 tons.

This report, which was without Allied confirmation, was the only German claim of Allied ship sinkings by U-boats this month.

The 43,000 tons claimed by the Germans for the first ten days in June indicates a monthly rate of 129,000 tons, or one-third of the 380,000 tons which the Nazis claimed in May.

Prime Minister Churchill told Commons Tuesday that May was "the best month we have had in the U-boat warfare since the United States was attacked by Germany, Italy and Japan."

Even Waiving WAVES May Not Get To Go Abroad, It Seems

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Batten down the hatches, girls—it looks like breakers ahead for that bill permitting WAVES to go overseas.

A sharp difference of opinion within the Senate naval committee was found today over the bill which sailed so smoothly through the House. Some of the opposition at least was reported to stem from objections of old-line naval officers to the general idea of a women's auxiliary.

Must Sign A Waiver

A more pointed criticism was that the bill would differentiate between women already in the service and future volunteers. All present members were enlisted or commissioned under a law that prevents their assignment outside the United States. The new bill provides that so far as existing personnel is concerned, only the WAVE who signs a waiver could be shipped abroad; the non-waiving WAVE stays home.

The bill, introduced by Rep. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Me), would lift the highest permissible woman's rating from lieutenant commander to captain. Opponents

Missouri River Flooding Again

KANSAS CITY, Mo., June 11 (U.P.) —The Missouri river, swollen by flood waters pouring from a dozen tributaries in northwest Missouri and northeast Kansas, rose nearly four feet here in the last 24 hours to reach a stage of 23.2 feet this morning.

That mark was 1.2 feet above flood stage and river men predicted it would go to about 26.5 feet sometime tomorrow as more water poured into the major stream from the Kaw and upper tributaries, making it the highest flood wave in the greater Kansas City area since 1917.

Government observers reported the Kaw river was in flood from Wamego to its mouth, where it flows into the Missouri at Kansas City.

We The Women

BY RUTH MILLETT

Women who get upset over reports of increasing juvenile delinquency, especially in war industry communities, should take to heart a phrase used in a recent address by Mrs. Alfred J. Mathebat, president of the American Legion Auxiliary. Condemning mothers of children under 14 years of age who take up war work in factories and shipyards, she described it as a form of "adult delinquency" which bodes ill for the growing generation.

In a nation-wide tour of war plants she saw young children sleeping in locked cars in factory parking lots while their mothers worked, children roaming on the loose, playing slot machines, going to the movies. She noted with surprise that in shipyards, women workers often chose the swing shift, from 4 P.M. to midnight, "which is the time they should not be out of their own homes if they have young children."

In "adult delinquency" Mrs. Mathebat aptly describes a truly bad condition to which manpower authorities and civic-minded employers should give serious consideration. I doubt if our manpower shortage is so acute at present that we can afford to gamble with the well-being and characters of our citizens of the near future.

In individual cases there may be good reason or necessity for mothers of young children working. But in many instances, the motivation is desire for the fat wages of war industry or the mistaken patriotism of women who want to "do something to help the war effort."

The latter is mistaken patriotism because the tiny material contribution to America's arsenal that one woman's war production can make is far overshadowed by the lasting contribution to our nation that she can make while raising a child or a family of solid, upstanding citizens.

DON'T BLAME "WAR"

Temptation lies in the fact that war factory work now has an aura of glamor that gives many women an ego-warming glow of "heroism" and raising a family is a tough unglamorous job that wins no newspaper photographs, public praise or ceremonial awards of "E" banners for efficiency. "Shirkers" rather than "heroines" might better describe the type of mother of young children that Mrs. Mathebat had in mind.

So when you blame "the war" for juvenile delinquency in your community, you might investigate, and see how much of it really is "adult delinquency." And if you are the mother of young children who would be without adequate supervision if you went to work, think twice — and if necessary three times—before you apply for work in a war production plant.

The wedding of Mrs. Eula Chappell Toone and Lt. Cyrus T. LaMaster took place Wednesday at noon in the Dallas residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Asa Chappell, with Rev. Marshall T. Steel, pastor of Highland Park Methodist church, officiating as the couple stood before an altar of tall baskets of white gladioli and fern trees arranged before the fireplace. White gladioli decked the mantel.

Mrs. Steel played the wedding music.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a yellow and black two-piece suit fashioned of linen and silk with three quarter length sleeves and a large black felt hat with shoulder length veil. Her accessories were black. She carried a white prayer book, topped with an orchid tied with orchid satin ribbons. The book belongs to the bride's sister, Mrs. Eugene Alderson, the former Miss Linda Chappell, and was carried in her wedding. She wore a strand of pearls worn in the wedding of another sister, Mrs. D. N. Corwin, the former Miss Mildred Chappell, who served as her matron of honor.

Lt. Dennis N. Corwin served as best man.

Sisters-In-Law Assist

Immediately after the ceremony, a reception honored the couple. The bride's table was laid in white and held on one end the ring wedding cake placed on a reflector and a silver punch bowl at the other end. White aster reeds, gladioli and fever few centered the table. Mrs. Harold Chappell of Sweetwater and Mrs. Raymond Chappell of Jacksonville, sisters-in-law of the bride, assisted in serving.

Wedding guests included Capt. and Mrs. W. B. Irvin.

After a short wedding trip, including a visit to Lt. LaMaster's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. LaMaster in Perryton, the couple will be at home in Sioux City, Iowa, where the bridegroom is stationed at the Sioux City Army air field as base athletic officer. The bride's traveling costume is a soldier blue garbardine suit with black and white accessories and an orchid corsage.

Mrs. LaMester is a graduate of Highland Park High school and Abilene Christian college and has done graduate work at Texas Technological college. For the past two years she has been a commercial instructor at Lubbock Senior High school. She is a member of Kappa Gamma sorority.

Lt. LaMaster is a graduate of Perryton High school and of Tech college. Before he enlisted in the service, he was physical training instructor and coach at Senior High school.

Ickes Seeks Power Over Gas Rationing

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 11.—Secretary Ickes disclosed today that he is seeking to obtain gasoline rationing powers now exercised by the Office of Price administration (OPA), and in testimony before a congressional committee also said:

1. East coast residents who heat their homes with oil cannot look for any larger fuel supplies in the cominy winter than they had in the last one.

2. The eastern seaboard gasoline famine would not be relieved by greater restrictions at present on use of motor fuel in the midwest since the gasoline saved could not now be moved to the East by already over-taxed transportation facilities.

Midwest Said Safe

Ickes' deputy as petroleum administrator, Ralph K. Davies, told the committee that the midwest would be safe from increased restrictions at least until August 1, when the Illinois-to-east coast leg of the 24-inch oil pipeline is completed. In this connection, Ickes said later in a statement:

"We are approaching the time when it is quite possible that we shall be able to move so much out of the middle-west that greater civilian restrictions in that section may be necessary in order to make sufficient products available.

"When that time arrives, we shall without a moment's hesitation recommend the imposition of such additional restrictions, just as we have said time and again that we would."

Inventories Decline

Ickes also asserted that inventories of petroleum products are "going down" in North and South Carolina, Georgia and Florida—the eastern states exempted from the recent ban on pleasure driving—and a surplus there will not exist very long.

As petroleum administrator, he testified before a special committee of legislators from Atlantic coastal states. In connection with his statement that he had asked the War Production board (WPB) to take gasoline rationing from OPA and give it to him, other sources said Ickes felt that under the present system he "sets up the bank account and somebody else has the check book."

Ickes is empowered now to say where gasoline should be rationed, but OPA determines the amount of the ration.

Step Said Wasteful

Asked why he did not favor building up reserves in the midwest through imposition immediately of the same rationing as in the East, Ickes said such a step "would result in waste rather than in conservation of gasoline."

"It would find its way into the black market," he added, criticizing what he called OPA's large scale issuance of supplemental ration coupons to motorists, which he termed "a blank check on the gasoline bank."

Although committee members were given no encouragement that gasoline rationing restrictions will be eased in the near future, they were told the OPA may permit seasonal residents to drive to their summer homes.

Paul M. O'Leary, deputy administrator, said that where summer residents would consume less gasoline at their summer residences than at their winter homes he would recommend permitting them to drive to their summer places. He added, however, that much as he would like to recommend that persons be allowed to use their cars for vacations, he was forced to make rationing rules conform with gasoline allotments set up by the petroleum administration for war.

There Will Be More Wars, Gen. Patton Tells Texas Lad

EL PASO, June 11 (AP) — Lt. Gen. George S. Patton, jr., wrote a ten year old El Paso boy who wants to be an Army mascot that "you can be sure that during your lifetime there will be more wars, and I feel convinced that being a boy from Texas you will give a good account of yourself when the time comes."

The lad, Bill Patton, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Patton of this city, had written the United States armored force commander offering his services as a mascot and recalling that his parents' ancestors came from Londonderry, Ireland, had asked if they were any relationship.

"Please answer this letter," Bill wrote, "so I can brag to the kids in school."

Answer Received

Today, two months later, this answer was received from General Patton:

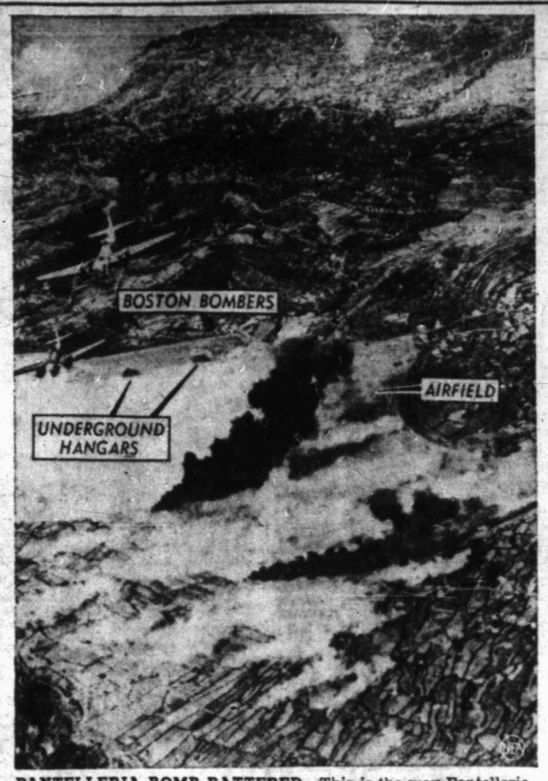

"My Dear Bill:

"Thank you very much for your letter, but while I have the greatest admiration for the Irish, I cannot say I have any ancestors from Londonderry, although my grandfather, Gen. G. S. Patton, did fight in the Civil war on the Confederate side. I believe that he was the youngest general in the Confederate army. He was killed when he was 26. Unfortunately, I cannot claim to be the youngest general in our army by a great many years.

"I certainly hope that by the time you grow up, that we will be in a period of peacetime, but you can be sure that during your lifetime there will be more wars, and I feel convinced that being a boy from Texas, you will give a good account of yourself when the time comes.

"Thanking you for your letter, I am most sincerely, G. S. Patton, jr., Lt. General, U. S. Army, commander."

Three Lubbock FFA Boys Are Honored

Elton Ray Taylor, Edwin Earle McWilliams and Shafter Bailey, members of Senior High school chapter of Future Farmers of America, have been advanced to the "Lone Star" degree because of their records in judging, according to notice announced Thursday from the state executive committee in San Angelo.

Elton is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Taylor of route 4, and last year was secretary of the Lubbock chapter. He showed the county champion calf at Slaton and also has done outstanding work with fat hogs.

Edwin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. M. McWilliams of route 2, and was president of the local FFA chapter and vice-president of the district organization. He has done outstanding agricultural work at home with his hogs and calves. Shafter is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Bailey of route 5, and was treasurer of the local FFA chapter. He fed out 150 hogs, and probably has succeeded in a financial way better than most of the Future Farmers. His friends say he shows over $1,700 in cash and live animals today as the result of his practical farm work at home.

Each Receive Gold Key

Each of the three boys will receive a gold key as a merit award and in recognition of their advancement in the national agricultural organization. Usually these keys are awarded at the state convention, with appropriate ceremonies, but due to the war the convention was not held and they were brought home by O. T. Ryan, area supervisor, and T. L. Leach, agricultural teacher at Texas Technological college, both of whom attended the committee meeting in San Angelo last Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

There are 10 areas in Texas. The Lubbock area is a large one, known as area No. 1. Attending from each also was one FFA boy and one agricultural teacher.

When the boys first become members of the chapter they are known as Green Hands, representing the first degree. They next become Chapter Farmers and this is the second honor. The third degree honor is known as the State Farmer degree, in Texas as the Lone Star degree. To attain this advancement, boys must have made not less than $250 with their agricultural projects, must have had three years instruction in a vocational agriculture school, and must be outstanding in leadership, application, and must meet other high standards. The fourth and highest degree is the American Farmer degree, conferred as a national honor. The three Lubbock county lads named above now will compete for the national honors, along with the best in the nation from other states, and from other areas in Texas.

Henry Elder, vocational agriculture teacher in Lubbock Senior High and Junior High schools was the boys' instructor.

Stephens CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC

CASE HISTORY No. 355. Boy age 11 had fever every night, backache in the small of his back, severe headaches, eye and ear trouble, stomach and kidney trouble. His face and feet would swell, could not sleep and his head would draw back at night; and in losing his appetite he was abnormally overweight. He began chiropractic service, after I had examined him thoroughly to find the cause of his trouble. I found severe nerve pressure leading to the affected parts of the body. I removed the cause of the boy's trouble and in a few weeks he was greatly relieved and on the road to recovery.

CASE HISTORY No. 522. Man, apparently in good health until 30 years old. After having a severe case of pneumonia he developed a shortness of breath. This went on until he was 56. His condition grew worse and he lost weight rapidly; and he became very weak. He began taking chiropractic adjustments and was dismissed from the chiropractic service. He returned to his business and is now enjoying the best of health.

CHIROPRACTIC PRINCIPLES: The chiropractic principle is that a vertebra or bone can be out of place; that the vertebra or bone, being out of place, can cause pressure on nerves; and that the pressure on nerves can and will cause dis-ease. Chiropractic does not treat disease, but he does find the cause of interference to nerve energy which chiropractic contends is the cause of disease.

Points And Pointers

(Official news of rationing, nutrition and other war programs affecting the home and kitchen, prepared by the regional Office of War Information.)

LOW POINT MEAT DISHES

OF COURSE it takes more time and cleverness on your part . . . but there seems no end to what the American woman can contrive in wartime. So do go ahead and make good use of the new low point value meats. Get a good-sized veal breast or shank—either is three points per pound with the zone in—or a low-point lamb roast like the chuck or shoulder, cross cut with bone in, at four points. Give it a long slow roast for the first meal, then keep in the coldest part of your refrigerator as you gradually use up the rest in some of these ways:

Cubed, with vegetables, under biscuit crust for a grand meat pie. Be sure to have plenty of gravy in the pie. A bouillon cube, a little hot water to dissolve it and a spoonful of flour for thickening will make a gravy of the water you cooked the vegetables in.

Ground meat goes into a gelatin, with plenty of vegetables, celery and lemon juice, to make a delightful cold main dish for summer evenings; croquettes are a treat when you add plenty of diced celery, apples or grated carrots to lighten and a sprinkling of Worcestershire sauce and onions and pop in a teaspoon of tart jelly in the center of each croquet.

Little meat pasties are a treat for most families. Ground meat, very moist with a gravy or white sauce, and plenty of seasoning, goes inside extra-short biscuit dough, for a quick bake. The way to do it is to roll your dough thin, cut in rectangles about three by six inches. Spread your meat mixture on half the rectangle, flip over the other half, pinch the edges together and bake in a hot oven. Any left overs are good cold, in the lunch box.

BE SOPHISTICATED

Enlarge your acquaintance with cheeses by visiting around among the varieties at three and six points per pound instead of sticking to the American favorite, cheddar, still at eight. Up to now, 75 per cent of the nation's cheese consumption has been American cheddar. It just happens that cheddar is one of the very best for keeping and shipping, so lots of it is going to our fighting men and Allies. They need it for repairing tired bodies in combat and bombed zones. Let's us try cream cheese, Brie or Camembert, Blue or Liederkranz. Or unrationed cottage cheese.

HOT WEATHER BUILDER-UPPER

DO TAKE advantage of the new low point value of tomato juice and serve it often all summer. Many persons who don't appreciate its taste at breakfast time will reach eagerly for a very cold, well-seasoned glass on hot afternoons or before the evening meal. It's chuck full of grand old Vitamin C for teeth and bones to stand up under years of wear and tear (if you get some every day). Salt it well not only for flavor but to replace the salt you perspire away these days. Add lemon juice for an extra fillip and additional C.

CANNED MILK RATIONED

Mothers of young babies who use condensed milk in the formula will have to readjust their red point budgets to take care of baby's milk. But after all, the 16 points in the baby's book are more than enough, and the baby on a formula hasn't been using them for meats, fats or cheeses up to now. And rationing of this commodity will help everybody get his fair share . . . that's the reason for rationing while there is still plenty available.

SNAPPIER SALADS

For those fresh vegetable salads you should be glorying in now, a variety of dressings is suggested. Gives the family some surprise to look forward to. To turn half a cupful of home-made mayonnaise or bought-in-a-jar dressing into about a cupful of something interesting, try some of these.

Quick Russian dressing: add an equal part of chili sauce.

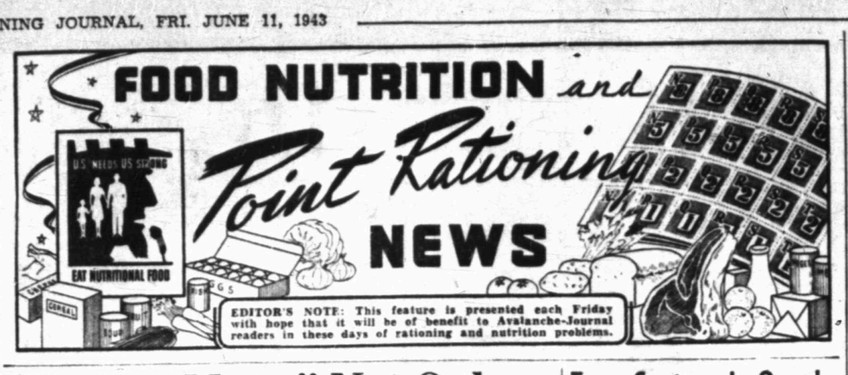

Cheese dressing: thin the dressing with a tablespoonful of top milk, add about one-third cup of cottage cheese and chopped hard-cooked egg.

Sour cream dressing: mix dressing half and half with sour cream.

Thousand Island dressing: add an equal part of chili sauce to the dressing, then one diced pickle and one-half hard-cooked egg, diced.

Ham dressing: add one-fourth cup tomato juice or a tablespoonful of tomato ketchup and a couple of tablespoons of chopped ham.

"Variety Meats" Not Only Rich In Nutritive Value But May Be Tasty Dishes

For no good reason, many Americans dislike the thought of using as food any of the functional organs of animals. Yet the "variety meats," tongue, liver, heart, brains, kidneys and other organs are not only rich in nutritive value but when properly prepared are very tasty dishes. If we are going to aid the war effort it behooves us to be open minded about trying new foods and new combinations. Also with 16 points per person per week to cover all meat, canned meat, canned fish, butter, cheese, cooking fats, shortening, salad oil and cooking oil, we will have to learn to eat meat of low point value. The "variety meats" are perishable. They do not ship well. They take time to prepare, the men in service are not accustomed to eating them, and, therefore, do not like them. These are all valid reasons why the Army does not use these meats. They are also valid reasons why civilians should learn to eat them.

In addition to being low in point value, variety meats are also low in cash value. However, they are extremely high in nutritive value. All muscle meat as well as variety meats are high in protein and iron, and low in calcium, but liver, kidney and heart contain much more iron than does beef, and tongue contains very nearly as much. Liver, kidney, brains, heart and tongue surpass beef in thiamin (vitamin B1) and liver and heart surpass beef in another vitamin, niacin, while brains, kidneys, heart and tongue very nearly equal beef in this vitamin.

Recipes Are Given

The least efficient of the organ meats from the standpoint of nutrition are sweetbreads and tripe Tripe, the lining of the stomach, being the more deficient of the two. Tripe is also harder to prepare.

Following are recipes for variety meats which have been tested in the Department of Foods and Nutrition at Texas Technological college:

MEAT EXTENDERS AND SUBSTITUTES

Braised Liver and Vegetables

1 lb. liver; 1 onion, diced; 3 T fat; 1 c tomatoes; 4 carrots, sliced; 5 potatoes, sliced; 2 t salt; ⅛ t pepper. Cut liver in two-inch squares. Roll in flour and brown with onions in melted fat. Add vegetables and seasoning. Pour in greased baking dish, add 1 cup boiling water (more if necessary) and bake in moderate oven until tender (about 1½ hours). (This may be simmered on top of the stove. In this case, more water will be necessary.) Yield 6 to 8 portions.

Biscuit Meat Rolls

1½ medium onions, thinly sliced; 3 T fat; 1½ lbs. lean beef, ground; 1½ t salt; ¼ t pepper; 3 T hot water; 1 recipe Baking powder biscuits. Saute onions in fat until lightly browned, add meat mixed with seasonings and water, and sear, stirring constantly. Roll biscuit dough into a rectangle. 1-4 inch thick, cover with meat mixture, roll as for jelly roll and cut in 6 slices. Place slices on ungreased baking pan and bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) about 25 minutes. Serve with tomato sauce or brown gravy. Yield: 6 portions.

Bean Loaf

1 c dried beans or 2 or 3 c left-over cooked beans; 1 c bread crumbs; 1 small onion (3 T), chopped fine and 3 T bacon fat; 3 T coarsely chopped pimento or parsley; 2 eggs; salt and pepper to taste. Mash most of the beans to a pulp, leaving some whole for contrast in texture, add bread crumbs, seasonings, eggs, and mix well. Shape into a loaf in a pan and bake in moderate oven about 30-45 minutes until browned. Very good served with tomato sauce. Yield: 6 to 8 portions.

Peanut-Carrot Loaf

2 c roasted, chopped peanuts; 2 c chopped cooke dcarrots; 2 T oleo or other fat; 3 T flour; 1½ c meat or vegetable stock; 1 c stale bread crumbs; ¼ c finely chopped parsley; 1½ t salt; ⅛ t pepper.

Make a thick sauce with the fat, flour and stock, mix well with the other ingredients, and form into a loaf. Pack tightly in a well-greased loaf pan lined with paper and bake in a moderately hot oven (375-400 deg. F.) for one hour. May be served with a creamed spinach or parsley sauce. Yield: 6 portions.

Escalloped Eggs and Vegetables

1 c peas or other vegetable; 4 hard-boiled eggs, sliced; 2 c medium white sauce; 6 T buttered bread crumbs; 1 t salt; 1-8 t. pepper. Mix peas, eggs and white sauce; add seasonings, and pour in greased baking dish. Cover with buttered bread crumbs and bake in hot oven until brown. Yield: 6 portions.

Pickled Tongue

1 tongue; 1 1/3 c vinegar of desired strength; 2 T sugar; 12 whole allspice; 6 whole cloves; 2 bay leaves; ¼ t paprika; ½ t salt. Scrub tongue. Simmer in salted water till done. Cool in cold water. Skin and cut in slices ¼ inch thick. Place in layers in a bowl or jar. Combine vinegar, salt, sugar, and spices and bring to boil. Pour over the sliced tongue and let stand at least 12 hours before serving. Keep tongue in the pickling juice till all is used.

Deviled Tongue

1 c cooked tongue, ground very fine; 2 T mayonnaise; 1 T vinegar; ½ T Worcestershire sauce; 2 t Al sauce; 2 t prepared mustard with horse-radish; ½ t dry ground mustard; ⅛ t black pepper; ½ t salt; 6 drops tbasco sauce. Combine all the seasonings and mix well. Add seasonings to tongue and blend thoroughly. To serve, spread on cracker, or thin crisp toast, or tiny hot biscuit, or fill into the hollow of celery stems cut into pieces 3 to 4 inches long.

Scrambled Eggs and Brains

Parboil 1 set of brains for 20 minutes and remove membrane. Place about a tablespoon of fat in a hot frying pan and add the brains, stirring constantly. Cook over low heat about 10 minutes. Beat eggs slightly, add 3 tbsp. milk and salt and pepper to taste. Add the egg mixture to brains and stir till eggs are cooked. Add a little chopped parsley and paprika and serve at once.

Breaded Sweetbreads

1 lb. sweetbreads; 2 eggs slightly beaten; 1/3 t salt; pepper; bread-crumbs. Simmer sweetbreads for 15 to 20 minutes in water to cover, to which 1 tsp. salt, 1 tbsp. vinegar and 1 sliced onion have been added. Plunge into cold water and remove membrane. Separate into pieces of suitable size for serving. Dip into seasoned egg and crumbs. Brown on all sides in hot fat or drippings.

Tray System Is Good For Busy Families

Your government and your community ask so much of your family these days, you're likely to find every one fitting work, volunteer activities and recreation into tight schedules that don't leave everyone the same hour for meals. The tray system is time-honored for breakfast. Now it's the war housekeeper's solution for many summer evening meals.

Trays with a minimum of silverware, dishes and a paper napkin are set up for each member of the family. The covered bowl of salad is in the refrigerator on the front row, labeled. Milk and iced tea likewise. The toaster is handy when there's a creamed dish in the double boiler. Other vegetables and meat or egg dishes are to be found at hand, in refrigerator or oven.

A neat little menu is placed in full view, to insure everybody's finding everything scheduled for them. Trays go gaily to dining room, porch or garden and should find their way back afterward to kitchen or pantry.

Don't forget the paper napkin on the tray, because the well-trained family uses it to whisk across the plate before putting it into the sink, or to de-crumb the tray before stacking it. Any neat, painted tray does the job so long as it's big enough to accommodate the whole meal comfortably.

Beans Being Plowed Up By Floridans

BATON ROUGE, La., June 11. (AP) — Agricultural agents returning from the "Bean belt" of the Florida parishes reported today farmers were plowing up hundreds of acres of beans unharvested because of a labor shortage and weak market and were preparing to plant another crop.

It was pointed out the farmers planted a heavy crop this year due to government request for food increase but that crop maturity was hastened by unfavorable weather and many of the beans dried prematurely in the field.

Kate Smith swaps stories with Miss Honey of Death Valley, California

WHO'D EVER GUESS that Death Valley miners could give helpful hints on cooking! Well, that's what happened to Miss Honey.

"When I came out to this mining camp in the Funeral Mountains," writes Miss Grace Honey, "the men were using Calumet. One of the boys showed me the virtue of Calumet, and now I feel I can't use any other baking powder. I am known all around here for being a good cook—especially cakes—and believe me, it's since I learned to use Calumet!"

"SOMETIMES you have to hand it to the men!" Kate answers. "But I wonder if your miners know what makes Calumet so dependable. It's because Calumet is double-acting—works once in the mixing bowl and again in the oven.

"Surprise your boys with this temptin' dessert. The first time I tried it, the orders for seconds came so fast, I almost missed getting some myself!"

You'll love Kate's Blackberry Roly-Poly!

2 cups sifted Swans Down Cake Flour
2 teaspoons Calumet Baking Powder
½ teaspoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening
⅔ cup milk
Melted butter
1½ cups fresh blackberries
6 tablespoons sugar

● Sift flour once, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift again. Cut in shortening. Add milk all at once and stir carefully until all flour is dampened. Then stir vigorously until mixture forms a soft dough and follows spoon around bowl. Turn out immediately on floured board and knead 30 seconds. Roll ¼ inch thick. Brush with melted butter, cover with blackberries, and sprinkle with sugar. Roll as for jelly roll. Moisten edge and press against roll. Place in greased loaf pan with edge of roll on under side, brush with melted butter, and bake in hot oven (400° F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Serve hot with cream or any hot dessert sauce.

Want To Try Out Dehydration Of Foods? Here Are Instructions For A Home Unit

THESE are the basic instructions for building a home dehydrator as recommended by the Department of Agriculture.

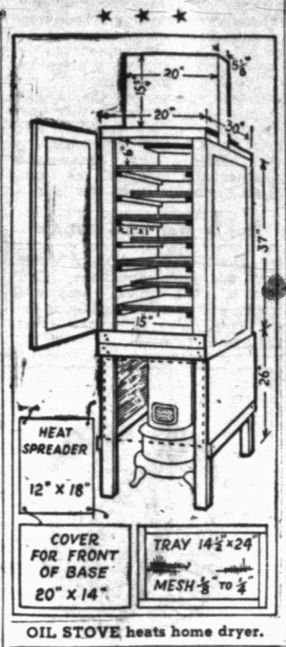

Construct the dryer from inside measurements.

Sides — Build two frames, with one brace flush with top of uprights, one brace 36 inches from top and one brace 10 inches from bottom. On these frames nail boards to a depth of 36 inches.

Tray Runways — Nail one tray runway 6 inches from top of wall. Place the remaining six 4 inches apart. Place the two side walls upright. Measure width of dryer, cut lumber accordingly for rear wall and top. Nail one 3-inch piece on top at door end. Allow a 3-inch opening as shown, for escape of moist air.

Lumber For Dehydrator

Posts and braces:
3 pieces 2" x 2" x 10'
Door frames and braces:
2 pieces, 1" x 2" x 9'
Sides, tops, and back, and door:
6 pieces, ½" x 6" x 10'
1 piece, ½" x 3" x 2'
Runways:
2½ pieces, 1" x 1" x 10'
Tray frames:
Tray frames:
12 pieces, ½" x 1" x 8' (or 35 laths)
Chimney:
2 pieces, 15¾" x 20" x ¼"
2 pieces, 19" x 4½" x ¼" plywood
2 pieces, 19½" x 2½" x 1" lumber
½" quarter-round 63"

OIL STOVE heats home dryer.

Rear Wall—Cover rear wall to a depth of 36 inches and nail a brace 10 inches from bottom.

Door—Nail 1- by 2-inch brace to frame, even with lower edge of side wall. Build door to fit.

Insulation — Fit into the sides, top, back and door around the actual drying chamber pieces of ½ inch celotex or other insulation.

Chimney—Attach each of the 1-inch wood pieces at right angles to one of the large plywood pieces, across the side at botom. Turn so the L's face outward with inside walls parallel and fit the 4½-inch pieces between the L-shaped pieces, tops even. Nail in place to form an oblong box 20 by 5⅛ by 15¾ inches, open at the top and bottom. This chimney slips on over vent in top of dryer.

Apron — Enclose space between lower braces and upper insulated walls with one layer of fireproof material. Do not nail the front piece in place. It must be removable to allow for placing the heater.

Trays—Cut 28 pieces of lumber ½ by 1 by 23 inches and 28 pieces of lumber ½ by 1 by 13½ inches for tray frames. Place quarter-inch mesh galvanized wire screen on strips and four similar strips over the screen. Nail together.

Heat Spreader — On inside of dryer, 6 inches from corners and 3 inches above the lower edge, suspend, by pieces of wire, a 12" x 18" piece of sheet iron.

Heat the dryer for 20 to 30 minutes before putting in the trays. Place thermometer on bottom tray. Shift trays every hour.

U. S. HAS MOST GOLD

Approximately 7000 tons of fine gold is held by the United States. This is the largest share of the world's supply of fine gold held by any nation.

The Pony Express, originated in 1860, was in existence only 16 months.

Try This Out If Your Family Doesn't Like To Eat Garden Greens

If your family eats greens enthusiastically, don't read this. If they refuse, try them once more, with this system of preparation especially adaptable for mature greens and handed down from a grandmother's bag of tricks.

Drop the greens into boiling water for just a minute, then lift out and transfer to another batch of boiling water, just enough to cover. A bit of fat meat belongs in this vessel. Cook till tender. Water should be absorbed. Meanwhile delicately fry some chopped onions in the skillet. Transfer cooked greens to skillet with onions, pop on the lid and steam for a few minutes.

Of course we should not advise this, as you will lose some of the vitamin value when you throw away that first pan of water, with the bitterness in it, so don't do it unless its the only way to get the remaining vitamins onto your family's plates in greens form.

Appeal Is Broadcast To Czech Patriots

LONDON, June 11. (AP) — The Czecho-Slovak government in exile broadcast an appeal today to patriots conducting guerrilla warfare in the homeland to increase their struggles "so as to hasten the fall of the Nazi regime."

The occasion was the first anniversary of the destruction of Lidice by the Germans, but it also coincided with the reported arrival in Prague of Gauleiter Fritz Sauckel, who was said to be disturbed over Czech resistance to Nazi labor mobilization.

Food Preservation Course Is Scheduled June 22-24

Victory gardens and the food situation in general have widened public interest in putting up food and as a timely service to Lubbock and Lubbock county housewives, Lubbock County-City Food and Nutrition committee is sponsoring a three-day food preservation program June 22-24 at which time correct and up-to-date methods of processing foods will be demonstrated by Miss Clara Pratt.

Miss Pratt, county home demonstration agent, will give the same demonstrations each day; June 22, West Texas Gas company auditorium; June 23, Community center, Avenue B and Sixth street; June 24, Senior High school foods laboratory. Women may choose the location nearest their homes and the day most suitable.

MISS CLARA PRATT

Four And A Half Hours

Demonstrations will be from 9:30 until 11:30 o'clock in the mornings and from 3 until 5:30 o'clock in the afternoons.

Miss Pratt will be assisted by Miss Gertrude Watson, coordinator of homemaking at Senior High school; Miss Helen Edwards, assistant county home demonstration agent; Miss Margaret W. Weeks, dean of home economics division, Texas Technological college, and Miss Mary Alice Crosson, West Texas Gas company home economist.

Hope To Establish Center

It is hoped a community food preservation center may be established in Lubbock this summef through efforts begun by Henry Elder, vocational agriculture teacher at Senior High school. This would provide a place where neighbors gather to put up food for family use or to help others, a project which has been popular in many cities in recent years.

In an effort to aid in the Victory food program, Miss Opal Wood of the food department of Lubbock district OPA is preparing a list of Lubbock women owning pressure cookers; those who want canning done on shares and those who want to do canning on shares. She has invited women interested to submit their names. She may be reached at her office in Lubbock National building by telephoning 7431, extension 46.

'Hush Hush' Oil Deal Charged

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP) — Senator Langer (R-ND) asserted in the Senate today that Secretary of the Navy Knox had executed an "oil give away" lease allowing Standard Oil of California drilling rights in the Elk Hills naval oil reserve, and a naval spokesman replied that the arrangement was a far-seeing one entirely in the national interest and a "good deal" for the government.

Langer told the Senate a "hush hush" contract was rushed to the White House and signed in a "single day," adding that it permitted "43,000 acres of the richest oil land in these United States" to be taken over and developed during the next five years by the Standard Oil Company of California.

"After the President signed it on November 18, and without waiting for any congressional approval or any congressional appropriation," Langer continued, "Standard Oil of California rushed its drills and derricks to Elk Hills and began drilling for oil. They began on November 20 and already have drilled eight excellent wells.

"Meanwhile, the secretary of the interior, in charge of public lands, who is also the petroleum administration, was not informed regarding this vital contract. Nor was the Justice department, whose lands division is supposed to negotiate contracts regarding public lands, informed of this give-a-way of the Navy's vital oil resources.

The Navy spokesman, who would not permit use of his name, declared, however, that "Standard Oil has entered into a deal for which they might possibly be a darn sight more liable to criticism than the Navy."

He said that the effect of the arrangement was to bring under complete Navy control 95 per cent of the vast reserves of oil in naval oil reserve number one and allow immediate exploitation of only five per cent.

If this arrangement had not been made, the spokesman declared, Standard Oil by exercising its legal rights on property it owned within the reserve area could have forced exploitation of most or all of the reserve at any time.

WHY NOT CALL HIM WAR BOND?—With all the pomp and ceremony befitting a returning hero, this little long eared, sad eyed unnamed Cocker Spaniel is shown being accepted as mascot of the 74th two-engine flight squad at Ellington Field. His path to fame was through a series of War Bond sales. The 74th outfit won him by 100 per cent War Bond Buying participation. His donor obtained him by purchasing $113,000 in bonds at a progressive auction at Houston.

Cash Government In Oklahoma Is Paying

OKLAHOMA CITY, June 11. (AP)—Oklahoma's cash system of government, perhaps the strictest in the nation, approached the end of its second full year today with $6,500,000 on hand to start off the next fiscal year July 1.

There is another clear $7,500,000 to $8,000,000 for use in paying off more than one-fourth of the state's bonded debt. That will be $28,376,680 by the end of the month, down $13,000,000 since the balanced budget plan was started in 1941.

The plan, proposed by then Gov. Leon C. Phillips, and approved by the voters as an amendment to the state constitution, provides that the state equalization board must carefully estimate expected revenue every two years and prohibits the legislature from appropriating more money than estimates.

The announcement came from Dr. W. H. Moursund, head of the college, which is in the process of being moved to Houston from Dallas and will begin work next month.

The appointment of J. L. Johnson of Sour Lake as business manager of the college of medicine was also announced. Johnson has been school superintendent at Sour Lake for 14 years. He is already at work.

For Saving Time, Energy And Money . . .

Fifteen Tips For Housewives

FOOD pennies, saved here and there, pile up into food dollars before you realize it.

There are a hundred and one ways of making small savings in the kitchen—savings that you will find valuable in stretching your food budget in this year of high living costs.

Here are fifteen best tips for saving time, energy and money:

1. Belong to a weekly marketing driving pool. Several housewives can drive in one car to market on Friday or when special prices and best assortments are available. During the week keep lists of foods which need to be replaced. Make out tentative menus. Compare prices in different food advertisements. A notebook kept for this special purpose is very convenient.

2. Select stalks of celery with fresh leaves which can be washed, chopped and used as seasoning for soups, stews, meat or fish loaves, and sauces. Dice and cook the tough outside stalks of the celery and add to cream sauce or combine with carrots, peas and turnips creamed. The tender inside stalks of celery are vitamin packed and refreshing served as is, in salad, appetizer or sandwich blends.

3. Select firm heads of lettuce. Wash quickly and store dripping in covered pan, in refrigerator. Use outside leaves in a tossed green salad. Carefully cut out the core of the lettuce head and store the rest for use as needed. When a lettuce cup is desired to hold a blended salad, place the lettuce under running cold water and let the stream of water at the faucet run into the cut-out center, and soon the leaves will easily loosen and can be separated.

4. When melted shortening is called for in cornbread or gingerbread recipes, melt the shortening right in the pan to be used for baking the bread. As the shortening melts it greases the pan.

5. If there are only a few drops left in a bottle of vanilla, lemon or other extract, add ½ teaspoon water to the bottle. Cork tightly, shake well and you will have enough liquid to flavor the average cake, cookies or pudding.

6. Platter gravy gets all the goodness out of a pan used for cooking steaks or chops. After the meat has been removed from the pan, pour in 3 tablespoons boiling water. Shake the pan so the water gets around it and after a minute of boiling pour these drippings over the meat, potatoes, vegetables, or into the soup kettle.

7. After breaking an egg, run your fingers around the inside of the shell to remove all the egg white. From a dozen eggs, you can save almost one egg white.

8. Serving whole oranges saves vitamins and minerals. It may take the family a little longer to eat their oranges, but it pays.

9. After squeezing lemon or orange juice pour a tablespoon of water over the reamer, shake it around slightly and you will have more juice.

10. Reheat small dabs of leftovers by placing in egg poacher. Cover and heat 5 minutes over low temperature. Rolls or biscuits can also be reheated this same way. Sprinkle them with several drops of water.

11. Do not crowd the frying pan when browning foods. Overcrowding will cause irregular browning often resulting in waste

12. When you are making gingerbread or molasses cookies and have just enough molasses for this one recipe, clean out the molasses can or glass jar by pouring in the liquid called for in the recipe. Shake it and the milk will collect any molasses sticking to the insides.

13. Pour leftover foods in glass jars, first rinsed out with cold water to prevent sticking. Cool, cover and store in refrigerator. Use up promptly. Each morning inspect the refrigerator for leftover possibilities.

14. If you have an enameled or linoleum covered table, be sure to cut bread on a wooden board placed on the table. You can get a small board at low cost. A knife will scratch the enamel and cut linoleum.

15. You can save a lot of silver polishing if you wash your silverware in hot soapy water and wipe quickly, directly out of the suds.

Fresh Fish Furnish Lots Of Nourishment

Why not try fish oftener? There's lots of nourishment there and the flavor of well-cooked fish has made many a chef famous.

Be sure to keep fishery products well iced or in the coldest part of the refrigerator. Fish and shellfish are very perishable; they must be kept cold when raw and quickly chilled after cooking if not to be eaten at once. Do not thaw frozen fish until ready to prepare for cooking. Never permit frozen fish to thaw and refreeze.

To remove any fish odor, wash hands or dishes in strong salt water and rinse them well before using soap.

If you incline to fresh shrimp, you'll find them much easier to shell and clean before boiling.

Any good cook book gives plenty of advice and recipes for fish cookery, but don't fail to realize the importance of sauces and garnishes for fish. Success is much more certain with plenty of lemon, parsley, tartar sauce or one of the cooked sauces like creole or white sauce, depending on the way you've prepared your fish.

Glamor Bus Of Old Wild West Helps Relieve Gas Shortage

(Associated Press Features)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., June 11.—A sight to thrill the gasoline generation, Colorado's multi-million dollar tourist business has gone back to the stage-coach.

Twirling a whip atop a shiny Brewster coach, which is a museum piece, no less, a high-heeled, big-hatted cowpoke wheels his span of six prancing bay hosses around the mountain.

Those horse-loving westerners thought they'd never live to see the day. Horseflesh in harness!

"The way people stop and peer into our livery, you'd think they thought we were crazy," says Frank Snell, a graduate of the old horseflesh school.

When the automobile crowded horseflesh from the highways, Snell opened an automobile sightseeing business. But because of rationing his garage now is filled with Brewsters and hosses.

"There will be thousands of people here this summer who will want to get around and see our famous scenery," he says. "Gas rationing will keep them grounded pretty much, but our stage line will solve the problem.

"For the first time in years, sightseers will get a chance to enjoy the country. They'll wake up to the joys we used to know 50 years ago, when things went slower and people enjoyed life more completely."

Snell and Joe Shabou, his partner in the auto livery business, got their stagecoach idea last fall. They toured the country, hunting Brewster coaches in first class condition.

The trip netted a half-dozen handsome vehicles. It was another job to locate drivers who knew how to drive a span of six horses on mountain roads but Snell finally got together a crew of ex-cowboys and former stage drivers.

The old coaches are in new condition, hand-finished. In the rear of each there's a sliding panel containing accommodations for a bar and an upper drawer with spaces for 24 glasses.

Besides short trips to nearby points, Snell plans stage "runs" of about 25 or 30 miles for a good all day schedule. Later he may revive the old route to the Cripple Creek gold diggings, which has to be done by relays.

Pacific War Veteran Says Folks At Home 'Fighting Tough War'

EDINBURG, June 11. (AP)—Maj. J. Hal York, commander of a heavy bombardment squadron in the Pacific, who has flown 100,000 miles over water and 6,000 hours over land and has helped bomb the Japanese scores of times, says:

"You folks at home are fighting a tough war!"

A veteran of seven months of unrelenting bombardment from bases in the south Pacific—he is now based on Guadalcanal — the major arrived home for a brief leave and planned to call for a double order of ham and eggs when he reached San Francisco, his first stop. When he got there they were having a meatless Tuesday. His first contemplated holiday when he got home to McAllen was a fishing trip in the Gulf of Mexico. He found wartime restrictions forbid the rental of a boat for fishing there.

He commented: "You're fighting a tough war over here."

Freddie Bartholomew Becomes U. S. Citizen

AMARILLO, June 11 (AP) — Private First Class Frederick Cecil Bartholomew, Freddie of the films, became a citizen of the United States Thursday when he took the oath of allegiance before Federal Judge James C. Wilson.

Bartholomew has been stationed at Amarillo Army Air field for two months. He came to this country from England in 1934 when he was 10 years old.

The long, curly hair of the young actor has yielded to a short military haircut. Girl reporters asked Freddie whether he was married.

"No", he replied. "I'm safe for a while yet."

Argentine Ban Cuts Off Axis Messages

(By The United Press)

BUENOS AIRES, June 11 — The Axis was cut off from all legal secret communication from the western hemisphere today as result of Argentina's ban on all radio code messages to foreign countries.

The ban, a direct diplomatic slap at the Axis, was announced last night only a few hours after Germany and Italy had recognized the new Argentine revolutionary government under President Gen. Pedro Ramirez.

Heretofore diplomats have been permitted to send 100 words in code daily by radio to their home governments and even this limitation, imposed last December, provoked vigorous protests from Germany and Italy.

U. S., Britain Unaffected

The measure does not affect messages passing between Argentina and the United States and Britain, since there are cable links to both countries.

The Argentine foreign office announced that its action was taken in compliance with resolution No. 40 of the anti-Axis accords reached at the Pan-American confeeence, at Rio De Janeiro. The accords also recommended severance of diplomatic relations with the Axis and all western hemisphere countries except Argentina have complied.

Otto Meynin, German charge d'affaires, delivered the German note of recognition to the foreign office late yesterday, revealing incidentally that the Germans delivered a preliminary note on the same day the revolution broke out last Friday, presumably in an attempt to be the first nation to recognize a new government.

Nazis Send Note

"The Reich government is pleased to take this opportunity to express on its own behalf the friendly intentions motivating it to cultivate good and friendly relations between the two nations," the new German note said.

A note delivered by the Italian charge d'affaires, Livio Garbaccio, said that the Italian government "harbors the same friendly intentions expressed in the Argentine note and feels happy to be able to continue to maintain good and friendly relations with the new government of Argentina."

(A German broadcast said Japan also has recognized the new Argentine government).

Recognition notes also were received yesterday and last night from Spain, Paraguay, Venezula, Peru and Uruguay.

(Reliable sources in London said that Britain probably will recognize the new government soon simultaneously with the United States. London believed that Argentina soon will sever relations with the Axis while maintaining a status of non-belligerency).

(Mexico announced that it would "continue" relations with Argentina, which is considered tantamount to recognition of the new government).

Blockade Of Axis Propaganda Urged

HAVANA, June 11 (AP)—Delegates to the second Pan-American press congress meeting in Havana yesterday approved resolutions demonstrating the liberty and democracy of the American press.

Among the resolutions approved in full was one presented by the Colombian delegate, Gilberto Vieira recommending the systematic denunciation of Nazi and Fascist intrigue and contributing to the blockade against enemy agents by refusing to publish news of firms included in the British and American black lists.

The same resolution recommended to the editors and directors of newspapers represented at the congress the establishment of a true self-censorship to prevent publication of news favoring the cause of the "enemies of civilization and human dignity."

Newspaper officials were urged in this connection not to publish the texts, containing propaganda, of communiques from the major Axis states, nor news from Berlin, Rome, Tokyo and the occupied countries which would tend to produce dissension in the camp of the United Nations.

Tech Plans Dallas Showing Of Textiles

An exhibit featuring non-woven textiles is being prepared by the department of textile engineering at Texas Technological college for the fourth annual Cotton Research congress in Dallas July 8-9, according to L. E. Parsons, acting head of the department.

Theme of this year's cotton congress, Parsons said, will be "Cotton Fights for Freedom." Capt. Burris C. Jackson, formerly postmaster at Hillsboro but now with the Army postal service, is chairman of the annual event.

Members of the committee of Texas Tech to make preparations for the congress are Dr. R. C. Goodwin, head of the department of chemistry and chemical engineering; Lloyd Jackson, instructor in the department of textile engineering; and Parsons.

New Tax Bears Harder When Ban On Raises Is Considered

BY JAMES MARLOW AND GEORGE ZIELKE
Associated Press Staff Writers

WASHINGTON, June 11. — Scratch your head over the new tax plan but don't let it make you overlook what the War Labor board has just said:

Henceforth for wage earners: No more than two merit raises or four automatic increases a year. The limits are tight.

This was a one-two punch on your pocketbook to stun inflation: The new tax takes money out of your pay envelope before you get it; the WLB puts a limit on the money going into the envelope before the tax takes.

Meanwhile the WLB tells the boss: Don't try to use raises as an excuse to jack up prices or production csots.

Payments Controlled

Remember: The WLB controls wage or salary payments where an employe earns less than $5,000 yearly if that employe is represented by a labor organization or is not engaged in an executive, administrative or prfoessional capacity.

Otherwise, the Treasury department steps in. The Treasury now is reported working over new salary controls of its own. These may be announced later, may tie in with WLB rulings.

The WLB's announced reason for issuing its new wage controls:

Some employers were dodging the wage stabilization program by granting wage increases on the ground that they were within an established wage or salary rate schedule when actually no real schedule existed.

Some Dodged Program

Some employers were dodging the wage stabilization program by granting wage increases on the ground that they were within an established wage or salary rate schedule when actually no real schedule existed.

The automatic raises permitted —if there was an agreement on them before May 31, 1943—can be granted together with merit raises. But all six must not exceed the total difference between the minimum and maximum rate of pay for a job.

Merit Raises Limited

The merit raises must not at any one time exceed one-third the difference between the minimum and maximum rate or, according to a WLB explanation, a total of two-thirds of the difference.

Example on merit raises: A given job's minimum rate is 60 cents an hour, the maximum 90 cents. The difference is 30 cents. The first one-third merit raise then would not exceed 10 cents. The second would not exceed 10 cents. The two merit raises together would not exceed 20 cents.

Draft Objectors Are Sentenced To Farms

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 11. (U.P.) — Federal Judge Ralph E. Jenney has announced that all persons coming before him for failure to be in the selective service because of religious objections will be sentenced to jail but will be given long periods of probation as farm and dairy workers. Edward Tootell, member of Jehovah's Witnesses, the first victim of this new ruling, drew a five-year probationary sentence to help relieve the shortage of farm labor.

City Seeks To Hire Women As 'Firemen'

CHINO, Cal., June 11. (U.P.)—One more heretofore exclusively male profession appears to be giving away by war necessity to being taken over by women. This is that of professional fire fighter. Fire Chief Arthur Wagner, with the ranks of his fire fighters decimated by wartime demands, has asked permission of the City Council to train women fire fighters. Ten have already signed up for preliminary training.

First printer in the western hemisphere was Giovanni Paoli of Mexico City, in 1539.

Policewoman's Start Was Riding Skooter

PASADENA, Cal., June 11. (U.P.) —When Policewoman Marguerite Haskins began riding to work on a motorscooter, her friends smiled. Later, when she graduated to a full-fledged motorcycle, they laughed. But when she applied for and got the appointment of a member of the motorcycle police corps — the first woman motorcycle police officer in California— they just took it a little more seriously.

Shell Refinery Closing Down

HOUSTON, June 11 (AP) - - The Shell refinery at Deer Park, near Heuston, began closing down today — after several hundred employes refused to go to work because of a dispute over the firing of a worker, Manager R. H. Waser said.

Dr. Waser said the midnight shift of between 300 and 400 men refused to enter the refinery gates, ignoring their union officers' recommendation.

The manager said the union officers earlier had agreed with plant officials on a method of settling the dispute.

Officers of the union, local 367 of the Oil Workers International union, had not been reached for a statement.

The refinery produces aviation gasoline for the Army and Navy and for lend-lease, Dr. Waser said.

Dog Puts The Bite On Tomato Worms

DENVER, June 11. (AP)—Some dogs catch rats, mice or cats but not so Peppy. He kills the tomato worms in the Victory Garden Mr. and Mrs. Joe Artese, his owners.

Tomato worms frequently are four inches long, tough-skinned and equipped with sharp jaws, the better to chew tender tomato plants.

Peppy saw Mr. and Mrs. Artese, at 5 a.m. of a morning, destroying tomato worms in the Artese garden. Soon Peppy was in the garden every morning before Mr. and Mrs. Artese, catching tomato worms. So they've turned the job over to him.

Pantelleria In Allied Hands

southern Europe from invasion is ruptured.

Nazi Feat Overshadowed

The Germans opened this field of warfare by the capture of Crete with air-borne troops two years ago but this is now overshadowed by the Allied feat in forcing an enemy island stronghold to surrender through the shock of aerial bombardment.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, Allied commander in chief, and Admiral Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, head of Mediterranean naval forces, were aboard a British cruiser and personally participated in a naval bombardment of Pantelleria's harbor guns Tuesday. Enemy shells fell within 300 yards of them, it was disclosed officially.

Pantelleria's formal white-flagged surrender, effective once the Allied infantry landed, was made primarily to the Allied Air Force and before a single Allied soldier set foot on the rocky soil.

The island, 32 square miles in area and formed by a long dead volcano, lies 45 miles east of Cap Bon, Tunisia, about 60 miles by air south of Sicily and 220 miles by air from the toe of the Italian boot.

The special headquarters communique said:

"The island of Pantelleria today surrendered and is being occupied by Allied forces."

Result Of Bombardments

"This surrender is the result of a series of continuous and intense air bombardments supported by naval bombardments. Two previous offers (summons) to surrender made to the commander were ignored."

A white flag was displayed on hill 74 in the northern part of the island, it was announced early this morning. This information was conveyed immediately to the commander of the Allied forces on the African mainland and steps toward occupying the island were begun immediately.

Many hundreds of Allied planes darkened the sky yesterday.

Thirty-seven enemy fighters were shot down in combat during the attack and two others were destroyed over the Tyrrhenian sea, north of Sicily. From all operations six Allied aircraft failed to return.

Great Aerial Victory

This was the first time in the Mediterranean that air power almost alone had knocked out the enemy and it forced the surrender of an important outpost without landing of a single ground soldier.

The capitulation of Pantelleria's dazed and battered garrison came little more than seven months after AEF landing barges grounded on the beaches of French Morocco and Algeria.

The movement toward the continent gave added point to a declaration by Prime Minister Churchill in the British House of Commons Tuesday: "It is evident that amphibious operations of a peculiar complexity and hazard on a large scale are appoaching."

(The Italian high command was silent on the surrender. The regular Italian communique, broadcast from Rome and recorded by the Associated Press about 30 minutes before Pantelleria yielded, said the garrison, "although hammered by the pounding of about 1,000 enemy planes, again made no reply to a further request of surrender." Later broadcasts repeated that announcement).

8,000 In Garrison

(British military observers in London estimated about 8,000 men made up the garrison, chiefly artillery crews, air force personnel and ground staffs.)

Flying Fortresses, roaring into combat in greater numbers than ever before, spearheaded the continuous attack against the rocky island which Premier Mussolini began bolstering in 1937 with the idea of making it an Italian Gibraltar.

So heavy were the waves of the Allied aerial traffic—almost "nose to tail"—that some formations had to circle offshore for several minutes before soaring in to smother such gun emplacements, air field targets and other military objectives as had escaped the explosives and gunfire of their predecessors.

Blankets of smoke and flame lay above the debris.

American-made planes predominated in this final blow of an aerial offensive unique in concentration and continuity.

Despite the frantic attempt of Axis squadrons to check the attacks, many of the heavy bomber crews never saw an enemy fighter in the air over Pantelleria.

Store Classes Explained

Class 1 stores are those with annual gross sales of less than $50,000 which are "independent" stores. A store is defined as "independent" if it is not one of a group of four or more stores under one ownership whose combined annual gross sales are $500,000 or more.

Class 2 stores are those with annual gross sales of $50,000 or more and less than $250,000, if "independent." Class 3 are those with annual gross sales of less than $250,000, which are not "independent" and Class 4 are those with annual gross sales of $250,000 or more, whether "independent" or not.

Under the national subsidy plan, the producer's price is reduced 5 cents. The retail figures are arrived at by allowing 10 per cent mark-up in Class 1 and 2 stores and 8 per cent in Class 3 and 4 stores, officials said.

THIS IS THE ZOOT SUIT—Frank H. Telles, 22, held in county jail at Los Angeles on a vagrancy charge, shows what the zoot suit, conspicuous badge of roving bands of juveniles who have been engaged in rioting with servicemen in Los Angeles, looks like. His long drape coat is part of a $75 suit, while the peg top trousers, very full at the knees and narrow at the cuffs, are part of a $45 suit. The pancake hat features a feather at the rear. Telles, who said he was enroute to see his girl when he was arrested, holds a medical discharge from the army.

Razor-Packing Girls In Riots

LOS ANGELES, June 11 (U.P.)—Dark-eyed "Choitas" packing razors in the tops of their black mesh stockings took up today street fighting where their male zoot-suit counterparts were being forced to drop it.

Garbed entirely in midnight black, with an above-the-knee version of the hobble skirt, they grandiosely vowed to carry the battle against servicemen and police "until one side or the other is wiped out."

Three of them attacked a waitress coming out of a downtown tunnel, knocked her down, and slashed her with a razor.

Assailants Fled

Her assailants fled when an unidentified man ran to her aid. The victim, Miss Betty Morgan, 22, bore several cuts and was bleeding profusely. Taken to emergency hospital, she was hysterical.

There was no apparent reason for the attack.

The Cholitas, auxiliaries of the zoot suit gangs which for months have made walks on dimly lighted streets a risky affair, stoutly insisted they would not be diverted.

Although service men have been ripping the zoot clothing from the male mobsters, such treatment of the female branch presented a problem.

Won't Be Disrobed

"Nobody is going to take my outfit off me," a Cholita advised police.

Previously taken in custody was a young woman who carried a pair of brass knuckles, and who police said, "knew how to use them." A 20-year-old girl was taken to jail for inciting resistance to officers attempting to make an arrest.

The county grand jury began an investigation of the riots, which had led the navy to declare the entire city out of bounds and left the skidrow district on the army blacklist.

change in Argentina's neutrality position in the war the secretary said that nothing of that nature had been taken up between the United States and Argentina either directly or indirectly.

Declarations Aided

He added that of course the United States has had the advantage of the Argentine government's declarations of future policy.

He described the decision to recognize the new Argentine government as one of the usual steps in such cases and somewhat of a routine nature.

Asked whether the United States had acted in collaboration with the United Kingdom in its decision Hull replied that the United States had acted on its own initiative and added that the state department had of course been in conference with the governments of other American republics.

Enrollment by divisions is: agriculture, 54; home economics, 144; engineering, 223; arts and sciences, 431; and commerce, 124.

Floods Hamper Train Service

(By The Associated Press)

Trains striving to maintain war schedules ploughed through two to three feet of water inundated trackage in East Texas today as the Sabine river swirled out of banks at 41.15 feet.

The stream crested at 8 a. m. at 17 feet above flood stage and four feet over the all-time record.

Worst In History

Rising one-half foot during the night, the river was expected to remain at crest level for several days in what was described as its worst flood in history.

A second rise from the Greenville territory was expected in the Wood, Van Zandt and Smith county region momentarily.

The Kilgore-Gladewater highway was clear of water but U. S. 271 from Gladewater to Tyler and U. S. 80 Gladewater to Dallas still were blocked.

Train Traffic Resumed

Train traffic was resumed over Texas and Pacific lines but tracks were covered with two to three feet of water. All trains were behind schedule.

Rampaging waters menaced Texas' No. 1 oil producing region —the vital East Texas field. Properties of James Oil company, Selby Oil company and T. M. W. Oil company were reported especially hard hit.

Trinity Still Rising

No drownings were recorded and all livestock from flooded areas was evacuated before the crest hit the East Texas counties.

At Trinidad, the Trinity river was clocked at 35.7 feet and was still rising. Flood stage was 28 feet.

With thousands of acres of farmland in Wood, Smith and Van Zandt counties inundated, many crops were believed totally destroyed.

Hundreds of oil wells were flooded and several score had suspended production.

Pay-As-You-Go Tax

which begin on or after July 1. Thus the first weekly payroll period in July from which deductions could be made would end on July 8.

The Treasury is reported to have prepared a comprehensive program of new levies to meet Mr. Roosevelt's request for an additional $16,000,000,000 in taxes and savings to help finance the war.

New Proposals Presented

The Treasury proposals, said to have been presented to James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, include suggestions for a spendings tax, new excise levies and higher individual and corporation income taxes.

The new pay-as-you-go law grants a 75 to 100 per cent abatement on either 1942 or 1943 taxes, whichever are lower, but does not grant relief from the quarterly tax installment due next Tuesday on 1942 tax liabilities.

Abatements Provided

The 100 per cent abatement applies only to those whose tax liability is $50 or less. For those whose abatement year tax bill is between $50 and $66.67, a flat $50 abatement is granted, and for those whose abatement year bill is over $66.67, an abatement of 75 per cent is granted.

The remaining 25 per cent must be paid, 12 1-2 per cent next March 15 and 12 1-2 per cent March 15, 1945.

Must File Returns

Among the instructions issued by the Treasury is one requiring all employers who withhold a total of more than $100 from their employes' wages in any one month to turn the withholdings over to a Treasury depositary by the 10th of the following month.

In addition, employers must file quarterly returns with the internal revenue collector of their district reporting the aggregate amount of taxes withheld for the quarter.

At the end of the year they must provide each employe with a statement showing the amount of taxes withheld from the employe's pay.

Every employe must provide his employer with an "employe's withholding exemption certificate," a form in which he states his exemption status (whether married, etc.) so the employer can make the proper deduction from his pay.

choice as long as he had a chance to win.

Wheeler said it obviously would be impossible to obtain two-thirds approval by Congress and ratification by three-fourths of the states in time to become effective before the 1944 elections.

He declared that the proposal ought to be considered along with the resolution of Senator Bailey (D-NC) which calls for a constitutional amendment to prevent any president, after its adoption, from holding office for more than two terms. The Bailey proposal would not be operative against President Roosevelt if he seeks a fourth term.

Death Claims Increased Only Moderately In Spite Of War

NEW YORK, June 11. (AP)—Life insurance authorities said today that death claims had increased only moderately since Pearl Harbor despite the dislocations and hazards of war.

The Institute of Life Insurance, which represents a large percentage of domestic companies, said there would be an increase in over-all claims during the rest of the war but that mortality rates attributable to non-war causes might be expected to decline.

Many reasons were advanced for the more favorable rate of mortality among persons other than those subjected to actual combat in war zones. Included were:

The populace, although perhaps working longer, has more regular hours and because of increased activity demands and get proper rest;

Soldiers not in combat get plenty of exercise in maneuvers and in arduous training but also get sufficient rest and good food;

Despite shortages of certain food and rationing problems, persons have a more controlled diet and are not eating themselves into the grave;

A general shortage of doctors compels all to keep in better physical condition and emphasis now is on prevention rather than cure.

The institute said current death claim statistics were not comparable with those of World war I because then the devastating influenza epidemic ran claims up so as to not offer a true comparison.

News Briefs

Mickey Fawcett's bicycle, "most stolen bike in Lubbock in 1942," was recovered for him again this morning, police said. Taken at least 10 times last year by persons who would "ride it off and leave it wherever they got tired of it," it was discovered this morning in an incompleted residence. Police also reported a bike stolen, from Dean Wright of 2506 Twenty-ninth street, 1943 license 68. It was at Senior High school.

Mrs. Ben Mashburn reported to police this morning theft of $20 from 202 Conley building sometime Thursday night. There were no clues this afternoon.

Mrs. Wilson is employed at Lubbock General hospital. Sgt. Wilson is a former resident of Slaton, Lockney and Littlefield.

A fine of $25 and costs was assessed in the trial court on Martin's plea of guilty before Walter Davies, peace justice, after a jury had been waived. Total assessment, including costs, was $39.65.

Condition of D. A. Davis of 1402 Avenue S, president of the Household Supply company, who entered West Texas hospital Thursday after suffering a slight brain hemorrhage, was slightly improved this morning. His condition was not believed critical.

Other Clashes Seen

of the main reasons for the inactivity of the Italian fleet in the past but it would have sufficient for a final "splurge" when the show down comes.

It was considered, important, however, that the Allied threat can be directed against more than one point, not only in the Mediterranean but in northern Europe.

Axis concern over Allied preparations for an invasion of western Europe, meantime, was reflected in a Swedish dispatch quoting German Rear Admiral Luetzow as saying that German air reconnaissance had revealed "light invasion vessels" assembled in English ports along the channel coast.

Information reaching Madrid from France said that Berlin and Rome press and radio commentators admitted that a large portion of Pantelleria's defenses, including some of the giant 15-inch coastal batteries, have been destroyed in the terrific non-stop Allied air and sea bombardment of the 32-square-mile island in the Sicilian narrows.

Pantelleria

the island's only airdrome.

Pantelleria has an area of 45 square miles and a normal population of less than 10,000. It is fertile but lacks fresh water and the inhabitants supply themselves by condensing the vapor streaming from volcanic fissures.

Mediterranean sea-farers have been attracted to the island since ancient times. It was believed first occupied by the Carthaginians. Strange sepulchres and temple ruins give evidence of an early civilization about which little is known. The Carthaginians occupied it until the Romans came in 255 B. C. In the days of the Roman empire, many political exiles went there.

Arabs wiped out the Christian population of Pantelleria in the eighth century and held it until the 12th century when Roger of Sicily captured it. Later conquests were made in the middle ages by the Spaniards and the Turks.

Before the war, Premier Mussolini tried to convert Pantelleria into a base for small warships, submarines and aircraft.

Singing Convention Slated In Levelland

Service men and the public in general are invited to attend the annual Plains-Panhandle singing convention, which will meet for an all-day program beginning Sunday morning in Levelland.

Clyde Burleson, president of the association, who made the announcement, said about 30 counties comprise the district. The meeting last year was in Lamesa. Levelland is to entertain the convention this year for the first time.

The crowd, due to the war, is not expected to be as large as in past years, and many of the local singers are away in the war effort, but counteracting that, Burleson said, are many good singers in the area now who have moved from other parts of the country.

Those attending are asked to bring food baskets and join in spreading the noonday lunch in the open with the crowd. Singing will be from any book, but will be limited only to sacred songs. The Levelland High school building has been secured for the meeting.

El Paso Taking No Chances On Zooters

EL PASO, June 11 (U.P.)—Mayor Ed Anderson and Police Chief L. T. Robey were taking no chances on zoot suit riots in El Paso.

Noting that there had been isolated cases of young hoodlums attacking soldiers and civilians, Anderson ordered police to break up the zoot suit gangs.

A single blood cell makes 3,000 round trips through the body in a day.

Coal Miners Dispute

between the United Mine Workers and a Pennsylvania group of operators contributed also to the tenseness of the situation.

Ickes Orders Fines

Interior Secretary Ickes, federal operator of the mines since May 1, ordered the fines yesterday. They follow terms of the old U.M.W. contract, $1 a day for each miner for each day he is off the job without a valid reason. In this case, the men are away five days. The money goes to charity.

Although the miners were idle five consecutive days, it appeared they would be fined only for absences on the first four days. The fifth day was a Saturday, and aides of Ickes said the contracts generally made Saturday work optional with the miners, making fines inapplicable for that day.

Anthracite Not Included

Ickes himself was not available, but his assistants said they did not believe any anthracite miners would be subject to the fines because, so far as they know, no anthracite mine contracts carry a "fine-for-absence clause."

They added, however, that Ickes' instructions to levy fines where the contracts provided them applied impartially to anthracite and bituminous mines to take care of the contingency that some hard coal contracts on which they had no information might provide for fines.

Operators Not Present

In another development, the UMW voted to put a formal end to the futile negotiating conference because, it said, of "failure of the operators to attend" conference sessions.

The vote was taken this morning when Van Horn, read a telegram from the operators saying they would not return until the WLB had handed down its decision. Only the conference officers and UMW representatives were present.

UMW spokesmen said that although Van Horn merely declared a one-day recess, the miners' vote supplied the coup de grace to the conference and meant that if collective bargaining is resumed, a new conference will have to be set up.

Ickes pointed out that the government ordered the old contract continued when negotiations were deadlocked over U.M.W. President John L. Lewis' demands for $2 a day pay boosts. The union contended through a number of spokesmen however that the fines were illegal because the contract had expired.

Leaders Issue Warning

Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky union officials warned that the government fines would be "resented" by the men. Several came out flatly with a prediction of another walkout, and Lewis summed up his opinion of Ickes' order in these words:

"An unwarranted, illegal act which takes nearly $3,000,000 worth of food from the fingers and mouths of children of the mining camps — a brutal application of economic sanctions against free citizens . . . another step toward political tyranny in America."

Working Under Truce

The men are working under a truce that expires midnight June 20.

Meantime Lewis and the Appalachian joint wage conference failed to conclude an agreement on the basic demand — pay for portal-to-portal (underground travel) time.

Lewis and the Central Pennsylvania Producers association then disclosed a separate settlement, calling for a $1.30 a day increase for the underground travel. The association withdrew from the Appalachian conference.

The War Labor board took up this pact yesterday and by its questioning indicated that a majority of the members were not satisfied with the terms. Without WLB approval the agreement would be invalid.

Still refusing to acknowledge the War Labor board, Lewis remained away from the hearings.

Allies Preparing

watching the deterioration of the whole Axis military position, may break loose in an effort to take the required island positions as well as eastern Asia, to secure themselves for a long siege

Destruction Threatened

The German leaders have threatened that if they are to go down, they will drag the whole world into ruin with them. These threats are taken seriously by the Anglo-American leaders — hence the fear of a last desperate use of the chemical weapon.

The following facts appear clear today as a result of recent developments:

1. The best informed opinion is that the Germans will use gas before resigning themselves to defeat.

2. An effort will be made by the Allies to take Crete, Sardinia, and possibly Sicily, in order to clear the Mediterranean routes, but there will be no full-dress invasion of the continent this year. There is likely to be a series of exploratory raids in force, designed to gain landing experience and to keep the German nerves on edge.

3. German morale, aided by the pressure of relentless overhead pounding, may be ready to collapse. Washington is optimistic on this score—perhaps too much so.

4. Mr. Churchill makes a clear bid for an Anglo-American understanding on world commerce as well as military alliance, to continue into the post-war period. There is an unspoken reference to future ruinous economic warfare which may follow cessation of hostilities, the key to which will be air transport.

GLIDER PIONEER DIES

MOSCOW, June 11. (AP)—Lt Col. Dmitry Koshitz, Soviet glider pioneer, died on active duty, it was announced today.

Koshitz had been in aviation since 1924 and was one of the first to experiment with trains of gliders towed by transports.

Mann Asked To Rule On Pensions Bill

AUSTIN, June 11. (U.P.)—Atty. Gen. Gerald C. Mann today received a request from Executive Director J. S. Murchison of the State Welfare department for an opinion on a bill passed by the recent legislature allowing old age pensioners to earn up to $250 a year without being penalized on pension payments.

Murchison asked a series of questions on the new law, but was mainly concerned as to how it might be carried out without breaching federal requirements.

The federal government matches state funds each month to pay pensioners, but, at the same time, set out requirements which must be followed as to judging and certifying how much aid each pensioner should receive.

If the new state law conflicts with federal rules, Murchison asked what action the department should take rather than risk losing the matching funds. He also wanted to know if the $250 a year earnings had to be wholly from doing agricultural work or could it be gained from other enterprise without penalty.

WAVES Legislation

were said to be ready to go a couple of grades better and vote for woman admirals, on the theory the Navy would storm forth with objections that would kill the legislation.

One member of the Naval committee, Senator Brewster (R-Me), said he saw no reason why WAVES should not be sent abroad now that suitable positions are open in shore jobs around the world. South Carolina's courtly Senator Smith sighed that he reckened it would be all right to send WAVEs abroad as long as we are sending WAACS.

Chinese Score New Triumphs

(By The Associated Press)

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's triumphant armies were officially-credited today with new successes in fighting along the upper Yangtze river front as Chinese troops stormed and captured a town northeast of the main Japanese base of Ichang.

Dispatches said the Chinese occupied Wangchiachang after an all-night battle in which 300 Japanese troops were killed.

Other Chinese columns broke into Yingshan, important Japanese stronghold 90 miles northwest of Hankow, inflicting heavy casualties in street fighting.

U. S. Fliers Entertained

Chinese authorities royally entertained U. S. Army fliers who disrupted Japanese troop movements, destroyed supply columns and blasted gun positions to help forge the great Chinese victory on the upper Yangtze last week.

In the southwest Pacific, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's bombers dropped 40 tons of explosives among more than 100 Japanese planes in a four-wave attack on the enemy base at Rabaul, New Britain, setting 19 fires visible for 50 miles.

On the Burma front, RAF raiders pounded the Japanese army headquarters at Kalewa with bombs and machinegun fire, attacked motor transport and river shipping, and bombed enemy strongholds at Rathedaung and Buthedaung.

With monsoon rains prevailing, the land front was quiet.

Chisox Giving Rest Of League Trouble

They're Only 4 Behind The Yanks

The middle of the American league standings is as jammed as the middle of Times square on a Saturday night.

There are four clubs that can't play a game without changing their positions, or sometimes can't even remain idle without moving.

In two days the Detroit Tigers have dropped from third to sixth, the Chicago White Sox have risen from fifth to third, the Boston Red Sox have advanced from seventh to fifth and on Wednesday the Philadelphia Athletics took temporary possession of third place without even playing.

Wins 9 Out Of 12

Jimmy Dykes' White Sox have been responsible for much of this disorder by winning nine of their last 12 games and parading right up the standings from seventh to their present position in third place, four games back of the New York Yankees and one and a half behind the second place Washington Senators.

The Sox, once known for their feeble hitting, walloped the Detroit Tigers yesterday 11-5 with a 17-hit offensive that started with four runs in the first inning and finished with five in the ninth.

Chandler Wins Sixth

The Yankees meanwhile paddled the Athletics 8-2 with clusters of hits to boost Spud Chandler to his sixth victory and hand Jesse Flores, the rookie sensation who won seven successive games, his third setback in a row.

The Senators lost ground and a 2-0 decision at Boston as Oscar Judd pitched three-hit ball for his sixth success against one defeat. Pete Fox hit the only home run of the day for the Red Sox's first score.

Browns Whip Tribe

The last-place St. Louis Browns narrowed the gap at the bottom of the standings by beating the Cleveland Indians again 2-1 in a night game and moved within two games of the seventh place Indians.

National league activity yesterday was limited to two games in which both the St. Louis Cardinals and Brooklyn Dodgers triumphed.

The Cardinals conquered the Pittsburgh Pirates 5-0 in a night game viewed by 13,356 fans with Lefty Max Lanier taking charge of the show. He pitched six-hit ball, struck out nine and himself drove in the Redbirds' first two runs with a single in the second inning.

Durocher Plays Again

Brooklyn had to battle from behind in the ninth inning to win its game 4-3 from the Boston Braves and it was Max Macon who received credit for the victory although big Bobo Newsom pitched four-hit ball and fanned seven before he had to be relieved in the ninth.

Manager Leo Durocher returned to shortstop for the Dodgers for the first time since September 28, 1941 and drove in one of Brooklyn's runs with a single. Altogether Brooklyn made 14 hits, but Al Javery kept them spaced until the ninth, when he was batted out as the Dodgers bunched four singles.

Stengel Can Hardly Wait To Get Even With Those Umps

By JACK CUDDY
United Press Staff Writer

BOSTON, June 11.—All was quiet in St. Elizabeth's hospital in suburban Brighton when suddenly Casey Stengel roared, "I'll murder those umpires now; at last I've got the weapons."

Stengel is like a compressed bundle of T-N-T. He is ready to explode June 18 when he resumes active managership of the Braves. That will be nearly two months after he had his right shinbone shattered in an automobile accident.

He'll Use Crutches

Casey, leaning back on his cot with his leg in a cast, said, "I have just had myself measured for crutches. They will help me bear up under this cast until the Braves get home again. Then I'll really move in—kicking the umpires with my cast and batting them with my crutches."

He added:

"It's a lucky thing for those umpires that I was tied to this cot during the close games of the Braves recent western tour. They won only three and lost nine on that trip, but most of their defeats were of short order or over the extra-session route."

Now In Fifth Place

The Braves, once in second place now are in fifth.

"I guess the boys played over their heads early in the season just to give me something to sing about on my hospital cot," Stengel said. "But you could forget about me and the inspiration, because they had two grand guys directing them—in my place—Coaches George Kelley and Bob Coleman."

Stengel expected much of the 1943 squad. And the men upon whom he depended to lift the Braves into first division in the National league came through.

Got Better Club

Stengel mentioned better pitching and tighter fielding play due to the efforts of Pitchers Red Barrett and Nate Andrews and Outfielder Charlie Workman and infielders Johnny McCarthy and Bill Wietelmann.

"We got a better club this year," he added. "Whether it would be more effective if I were out of the hospital or on the bench I don't know. But, if we have those close and extra-inning games when the team comes home, you'll see me in there swinging at the umpires with my crutches and my right-leg cast."

Nova To Get Test In 10-Rounder Tonight

PORTLAND, Ore., June 11. (AP)—Lou Nova, the California heavyweight who used to mix the yogi business with fighting, has blossomed out again with a sheared noggin—and that, he says, means a chance once more to beat on the championship doors.

Whether it means anything or not will depend upon how Lou does in a 10-rounder here tonight against Paul Hartnek, a rather durable heavy from Omaha who has been in with some pretty good boys before.

Joe Louis Would Like To Fight Billy Conn

Champ Plans Four More Years In Ring

HOLLYWOOD, June 11 (U.P.) — Sgt. Joe Louis said today he does not intend to retire from the ring for "at least another four years," and he wants another crack at Billy Conn before he does.

For that matter, he said, he would like to meet Conn again right now, because Conn is the only, logical heavyweight contender.

Joe's comments were forthcoming while he rested between chores on the set of the film "This Is The Army." His claim to motion picture stardom rests principally on his ability to eat, a pleasant task for Joe.

Augie Galan Named Comeback Of Year In Major Leagues

NEW YORK, June 11 (U.P.)—Illness and injury played havoc with the career of Augie Galan but despite six-seasons of bad breaks, the little Brooklyn outfielder today looked like baseball's comeback man of the year.

Galan may have found the formula for success or maybe nothing else can happen to him. The Army report that tagged him 4F would indicate he's had all the ailments in the baseball book.

He's sound now except for a splintered right elbow that he cannot move any further than a right angle and a broken kneecap held together by a wire binding. His left knee is so weak it can last a full game only with the aid of a metal and elastic brace.

Galan is currently batting .303, third best average on the club, and it was his never-say-die spirit that provided the Dodgers with a 4-3 triumph over the Boston Braves yesterday.

Texans To Be In AAU Meet

Rice And Texas Stars To Compete

DALLAS, June 11 (U.P.) — A five-man track and field team will represent Texas in the National AAU track and field championships in New York next week, Graham Pierce, Southwestern AAU president, announced today.

Pierce, who had hoped to send a ten-man team, said that the move is the first step in a plan to send a representative team as a unit from the Southwestern AAU each year, rather than have individual schools or clubs enter their athletes.

Others Had Been Invited

The three Rice and two Texas stars competing in the NCAA meet at Chicago this week-end will move on to New York for the AAU show.

They are Bill Cummins, hurdler, Bill Christopher, broad jumper, and Bob Porter, miler, all from Rice, and Jerry Thompson, distance runner, and Doug Jacques, hurdler, from Texas.

Three Texas A. and M. stars invited to make the trip are now in the Army. They are Joe Vajdos, Pete Watkins and Bill Henderson. Dewitt Coulter, sensational shot put star from Masonic Home high, couldn't make the trip because of summer work at A. and M.

The tenth man, Charlie Parker, brilliant San Antonio schoolboy sprinter, was stricken with appendicitis on the eve of his departure.

Two "Long Shots" Winners In Races

MEXICO CITY, June 11. (AP)—Two "long shot" horses owned by Mrs. A. Busiel, North American resident of Mexico City, won successive races at the Hipodromo de las Americas yesterday.

Mrs. Busiel's Big Bim, paying 16½ to 1, won the featured sixth race, and her Silver Play, 11½ to 1, the seventh.

Lamotta's Win Is Unpopular

Fans Protest In Defeat Of Zivic

PITTSBURGH, June 11 (U.P.) — Jake Lamotta of New York held split decision over former Welterweight Champion Fritzie Zivic of Pittsburgh today but most of the 11,987 fans who saw a fight felt the victory should have gone to Zivic.

Referee Al Grayber cast the deciding vote after 10 rounds last night when the judges split on the decision and touched off a 15-minute spectator demonstration, which had to be quelled by police.

Crowd Favors Zivic

The United Press score sheet credited each fighter with four rounds and registered the sixth and ninth even but to the crowd Zivic, a 5 to 7 underdog in prefight odds, should have won.

Fans jumped on the seats and threw papers and cigarets into the ring when the decision was revealed. Zivic's handlers rushed the announcer in protest.

Zivic fought a masterful battle, had blood streaming from his opponent's left eye from the third round and from the fourth on it appeared to many at the ringside he could only lose by a knockout.

The New Yorker was aggressive throughout, constantly rushing the former welterweight champion, who hadn't lost a bout in his home town in four years. LaMotta's first good round was the seventh, however, when he rocked Zivic with two ripping lefts.

LaMotta put on a savage attack in the tenth, with the 30-year old Zivic tying up his 21-year old opponent much of the time, but not so successfully as in earlier stages.

ARMSTRONG TANGLE WITH ANGOTT TONIGHT

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—The laughable lightweight frolics—the fight game's answer to the padded cell industry—comes a bit closer to getting its kinks straightened out tonight when Henry Armstrong and Sammy Angott tangle in a ten-rounder in Madison Square garden.

Wichita's Touchdown Twins Join The Navy

ABILENE, June 11. (AP)—Wichita Fall's touchdown twins have joined the Navy.

Robbie Dee and Bobbie Lee Smith, who starred on the Wichita Falls High school team that won the state football championship, enlisted here. They are 18 years old and graduated from high school this year.

An older brother, Hubert Weldon, is a machinist mate first class and is now stationed aboard a submarine somewhere in the Pacific.

WANTS HIS BROTHER'S JERSEY—Charles Smith of San Angelo, walked into the office of Coach Homer Norton at Texas A. and M. college, pointed to a picture of the 1939 Aggie National football champions on the wall, said "I'd like a shot at wearing Jersey No. 29". No. 29 was worn by Lt. Herbie Smith, Charles' brother, who died in a plane crash in Pennsylvania last year. Herbie was a star on the 1939 team. Charles, 17, (r) said he had promised his brother to play football for the Aggies and become a flier.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP) — Saying it with figures . . . up to a week ago today, American league baseball clubs had played 29 extra-inning games and had 57 contests decided by one run . . . A year ago on the same date there had been nine overtime games and 37 one-run affairs . . . Which shows you what happens when 154 guys, most of whom can hit, go into the armed forces . . . It costs $11 to make a saliva test of a horse at the Detroit fair grounds, and with 567 races (in the schedule, the season's bill will run to $6,336 to test each winner.

SUGGESTION BOX

The United States Golf association museum recently acquired one of the Red Cross medals that were used as prizes in the 1917-18 "Liberty" tournaments on July 4. It was won by Joseph I. Melanson at Swampscott, Mass., in 1917 and was donated by his son, who lives in Wolfeboro, N. H., after the U. S. G. A. had searched several years for one of the medals . . . There must be a good many more still lying around, so how about putting them back into circulation at this year's July 4 Red Cross tourneys — either as special prizes or . . . war bond auctions?

SERVICE DEPT.

Pfc. William Privett of Amarillo, Texas, who used to ride crooner Bing Crosby's horses, figures he's finally aboard a sure winner. He's flying between the south Pacific islands with the Marine air corps . . . Lieut. Thomas Borders, tackle on the 1940 Alabama football team, is listed as missing in action in Africa. He was pilot of a flying Fortress.

CLEANING THE CUFF

Dain Clay, the outfielder the Phillies got in that trade with the Cards, and later traded to the Reds, once threw a ball from home plate in the Houston ball park over the right field wall 322 feet away. Bucky Harris will be happy if he can hit 'em that far.

Jane Dillard Wins Swim Team Position

NEW YORK, June 11 (U.P.) — Women swimmers from Indianapolis, New York and Oregon won 13 places today on the All-America swimming team of 1943 chosen for Collier's by nine experts selected by the Amateur Athletic union.

Five swimmers were selected from Indianapolis' Riviera swimming club while four each came from New York and Oregon, three from Ohio and one each from Florida and Texas. Six of the 18 were chosen on the basis of team performance.

Selected for the team on individual merit was Jane Dillard, Austin, Tex.

Jack Marshall Defeats Scott

Dallas Fighter's Record Still Good

DALLAS, June 11. (AP)—Jack Marshall, the veteran battler from Rylie, held the Texas heavyweight boxing championship today and Buddy Scott of Dallas still boasted his unusual record of never being knocked off his feet in eight years of fighting.

The two hooked up in one of the best bouts ever seen in Dallas last night with Marshall taking the fight by a slender margin over the fifteen-round route. The match had been sanctioned by the state labor commission as for the title.

Three thousand fans saw Marshall, one eye almost closed for fourteen rounds, stage a strong finish to take the decision.

Marshall opened a light cut over Scott's left eye in the fifth round and had the Dallas fighter's side bruised and battered with his terrific work in the clinches. But Scott was still standing up trading blow for blow when the last bell rang.

Scott now has gone through 172 fights—68 amateur and 104 professional—without going down for even a count of one.

Jack Chevigny Now Officer In Marines

SEATTLE, Wash., June 11. (AP)—Jack Chevigny, one of Notre Dames' great backfield stars, later an assistant coach at the South Bend school, and former head football coach at the University of Texas, yesterday became a first lieutenant in the U. S. Marines.

Major William McKay announced Chevigny's appointment after he had passed his physical examination here.

Major McKay said that Chevigny will be assigned to Camp Elliott, Calif.

THE other day we had here a story about a Washington general and a raw buck private and it went over pretty well. Here's another, culled from the Houston Chronicle's Austin column:

"An Army officer here at the caiptal (Austin) tells this story on a Washington general. He says that neither the general nor the colonel has denied the story and he is quite certain it happened in this fashion—

"A general walked up to a colonel in his office and asked for a very special favor for a man back in the general's home state. The colonel replied that it would have to be handled in the routine channels back in that state first, and if it failed to work out in this routine fashion he might then take the necessary steps in Washington.

"This did not satisfy the general at all and he exploded,' as generals are wont to do. He said he knew all this, but he wanted it done at once and in the way he suggested. The colonel replied that he was profoundly sorry, but it could not be done that way.

" 'Colonel, I am your senior, as you well know,' the general roared. 'Do you want me to have you hauled up for insubordination?'

" 'General,' replied the colonel, 'I am a colonel of the United States Marines and I don't give a damn what you do!' "

WHENEVER as many as two persons engage in conversation these days, sooner or later someone asks "when is the war going to end?"

Since a lot of guesses—most of 'em wild—are being made, we've dug up an "oldie" that was knocking around during the last year of World War I and which is still good, because it indicates that somewhere, someone knows the answer to this highly important question.

If you're over 35, you'll likely remember:

Absolute knowledge I have none
But my aunt's washerwoman's sister's son
Heard a policeman on his beat
Say to a laborer on the street
That he had a letter just last week
Written in the finest Greek
From a Chinese coolie in Timbuktu
Who said that the natives of Cuba knew
Of a colored man in a Texas town
Who got it straight from a circus clown
That a man in Klondike heard the news
From a firm of South American Jews
That a chap way over in Borneo
Said that he had happened to know
Of a sublimated social rake
Whose mother-in-law would undertake
To prove that her husband's sister's niece
Had stated in a printed piece
That she had a son, who had a friend
Who said he knew when the war would end.

THE Plainsman has a good deal of confidence in and respect for Bill Jeffers, the Omaha railroader who bosses the nation's rubber business.

One reason is, Mr. Jeffers seems to be making fine progress on his very difficult job. And still another is that he is the direct antithesis of the pussyfooting, politics-playing, theoretical, day-dreaming, parlor pink type of bureaucrat of which we have too many in high places.

But despite our admiration for and confidence in Mr. Jeffers, we are not ready to accept at face value the rubber czar's recent optimistic declaration that fall will find the nation's synthetic rubber industry rolling at high speed and that 1944 will see the end of military and civilian rubber shortages. It isn't that we lack faith in Mr. Jeffers, or in what he says. It's just that so much has been said by so many people about rubber, and when it will be plentiful again, that we're afraid to go "whole hog" with any optimistic view of the situation in the immediate future.

However, the nation will not have to wait much longer before it will know—providing Washington permits it to know—just where we stand on rubber.

Some time in the late fall we'll hit the crisis. By that time our stockpile of natural rubber will amount to little more than 100,000 tons, regarded as the minimum reserve. If the synthetic program is as ready as Mr. Jeffers believes it will be, there'll be nothing to worry about.

If it isn't—well, why borrow trouble?

THIS year's military and civilian rubber demand is estimated at 612,000 tons. We started the year with 440,000 tons of natural rubber; we expect to bring in, during the twelvemonth, some 35,000 tons of natural rubber from South America and other points, and the synthetic output is expected to reach 214,000 tons.

What 1944's natural rubber import will total is anybody's guess. But if everything goes as Mr. Jeffers seems to think it will, our 1944 production of synthetic rubber will reach 800,000 tons. If there has been an error in that estimate, or if "bugs" crop up, there may be serious consequences.

So don't waste your rubber. Don't drive a single mile more than necessary. Keep your tires properly inflated. Keep "switching" your tires from wheel to wheel. If there's plenty of rubber next year, all well and good. If there isn't, you'll be ahead of the game.

And meanwhile, let's all hope Mr. Jeffers will be proved to be right!

"Hirohito's Boys Will Die Where They Land"

Chapter 10

In addition to their landings in Northern Luzon, the Japanese put troops ashore at Legaspi, Mauban and Antimonan to the south and east of Manila. Our own forces there were very small, they were quickly overwhelmed and the Japs pressed on toward the capital.

By then it was obvious that unless we had some planes, we could not win, and on December 22nd I determined to go up north to Clark Field and investigate for myself whether or not we still had an Air Force. I still thought we did — despite what had happened on the first day of the war—and couldn't understand why it wasn't attacking the Japanese transports and landing parties.

I arranged with a Spanish-Filipino university graduate in his early twenties, whom I shall call Carlos, that he drive me out in his automobile, a fairly new Ford sedan that was in good shape. He wanted to see the war and asked only money for gasoline. A Filipino reporter named Juan thought he wanted to come along too.

I went to USAFFE headquarters to pick up the morning communique before starting out. The communique was brief and startling. It said that an enemy flotilla of eighty transports and warships had been sighted early that morning off Lingayen Gulf, headed for the shore. Everybody breathed a little faster. We ran for our cars and rushed for the wireless offices to get off urgent flashes to New York. But first I had a word with Diller.

In my story I reported that the Army made it clear "there was no doubt this was the beginning of Japan's major drive on the Philippines."

I went up to our office and told Ray Cronin, "The Japs aren't going to by-pass this flank after all."

"Well, at least," Cronin said, "they are hitting us where we are most ready for them. Our defense plan has been prepared for years. I understand that the south shore of Lingayen Gulf is strongly protected with barbed wire, trenches, and heavy field artillery. We have a flock of tanks at Stotsenberg. It is a defense in depth."

I said, "I'm going up to Clark Field anyway and have a look at our Air Force, if any, and try to find out what chance we have of stopping them. If we don't have any planes left, we haven't got a hope in hell."

Carlos and Juan and I finally got away shortly after noon. Just as we stepped into the car the air alarm sounded. We debated momentarily whether to stay and cover the raid or get going. We decided to go on. We drove out Rizal Avenue at fifty miles an hour, passing the cars and horse-drawn vehicles which had pulled over to the side of the street, and left the wailing siren behind. We saw the dive bombers plunging low over Zablan Field, and then circling in strafing runs.

The Japs were wasting bombs and bullets, because as we already knew there were no planes left at Zablan.

Manila ended abruptly, except for scattered homes and small factories. We stopped outside the city and fastened a big cardboard placard with the word "PRESS" to the radiator with adhesive tape. But the wind soon blew the tape loose and we didn't bother to put it on again. The road headed straight north, through level rice fields. Up on the right loomed Mt. Arayat, with the mountains of Zambales on the left. That was the country of the tiny Negritos, whose king had brought in three trussed-up Japanese aviators to Stotsenberg a few days before and had sworn a blood feud against the enemy.

Those mountains looked reassuring. "The Japs can't land on the west coast there and climb over those mountains," I said. "They'll have to come right down the middle from Lingayen, through this flat country and the plains of Pangasinan Province, and squarely into our defenses."

The Filipinos along the road had heard news of the landing at Lingayen and they apparently thought we were reinforcements for the front, because they waved at us and held up their hands, with their first two fingers separated in the V-for-Victory sign. There were Filipino sentries every few miles along the road, and air raid wardens in each village. Numerous times they stopped us by blowing whistles, and we got under the trees or sheltered in ditches as Jap planes passed overhead. The Japs strafed various parts of the road throughout that day, but we missed all the attacks.

In an hour and a half we reached Tarlac, capital of Tarlac Province and the biggest Luzon city north of Manila. We drove down the wide main street and I telephoned Cronin from the Tarlac exchange. All the other public phones along the road had been closed and most of the buildings in Tarlac, like those in the villages, were boarded and closed.

"The telephone lines to the north have been cut but I'm going on up," I told Ray. "You probably won't hear from me for a few days but I'll get the story in as soon as possible. Where we go will depend on how things look ahead. We'll probably spend the night in Baguio. I've always wanted to see it."

"Okay, but you better look out," Ray said. "Baguio is past our extreme right flank. Army communications seem to have broken down and we have no news here up to now."

We drove on, expecting momentarily to come to our third lines. I expected to see trenches like those in France in World War I. But there were no lines and only a few sentries. One of them stopped us a few miles north of Tarlac and we showed him our press cards and went on, wondering now when we would come to our second line.

Cars from the north were speeding down the road. We saw one that had stopped to repair a flat tire and went over to talk. An American woman, with a baby in her arms, was weeping. "We went up to Baguio when the war started," she said, "thinking we would be safe. But they have been bombing all around us. Last night we heard the noise of big guns, over at Lingayen Gulf, all night long. This morning the Japs bombed Camp John Hay at Baguio again. We seem to be surrounded. What shall we do?" I advised her husband to keep going until he got to Manila.

Trucks were loaded with beds and chairs and all the people who could crowd aboard. Filipino families told us they had seen the Jap ships in Lingayen Gulf that morning, and the planes had come over, and many people had been killed in Lingayen City and the other towns along the south shore. We reassured them, "Our army is fighting them now. Within a short time you will be back in your homes."

Traffic to the north was sparse and we noticed that the nearer we got to Lingayen, the slower it was moving. Traveling fast we overtook a few jeeps and army trucks and motorcycle riders. Some of the occupants were Americans.

Approaching the gulf at about five in the afternoon we reached a fork in the road. The left-hand road led out to Da Mortis, four miles away on Lingayen Gulf. The right-hand one went to Baguio. We could see the waters of the Gulf, but no ships. The Japs were further over to the west. An American soldier rode up and stopped his motorcycle.

"Those Japs are pretty smart," he said. "They made a feint at landing on the south shore of Lingayen, where we have strong defenses. Then they sent their main forces along the eastern beach from Da Mortis, over here to Bauang, which is about twenty miles north. The Twenty-Sixth Cavalry is fighting them a couple of miles up this left-hand road." He advised us to turn back and then rode on, slowly, toward the fighting. We had about two hours of daylight left and had to decide fast.

Juan wanted to take the soldier's advice. Carlos was neutral. "Let's go on up to Baguio, where headquarters for this area are located," I said, "and find out what the score is. I want to see Baguio, and this might be my last chance. We'll have a good sleep in the cool air and get going in the morning."

Juan objected, "But the Japs may cut this road in the night."

I said, "Hell, amigo, they are fighting the American Army now and the American Army will hold them on the beach forever. Hirohito's boys will die right where they land."

This Curious World

BY WILLIAM FERGUSON

Today's Journal Editorial

THE $64 QUESTION

The President appeared to derive great satisfaction in his farewell broadcast to the delegates the other day from the fact that 44 nations took part in his recent world food conference.

Perhaps it was significant that 80 per cent of the world's nations, as he claimed, participated in the meeting. Perhaps much good was done. The world doesn't know about that, because the world doesn't know what the conference proposed to do, nor how it proposes to do it.

But one fact tends to minimize the significance of the attendance. It is the fact that nations, like individuals, usually will lend their presence to anything from which they hope to profit.

Coupled with that is the further fact, supported by a great deal of experience, that 43 of the 44 nations represented doubtless expect to take a great deal more out of any world food pot that may be established than they intend to put in. Just one nation faces the certainty of having to put in much more than is taken out. That nation is, of course, the U.S.A.

So, if the President is happy because 44 nations sent their representatives to the parley, one question becomes pertinent:

How many would have taken part if they expected they might have to put more into the world food pot than they hope to take out? All of them? Possibly. Unfortunately, Uncle Sam's experience with nations does not lend any slightest support to such a conjecture.

Demands Of Unionists May Make "Deserted Village" Of Akron

Decentralization Of Rubber Industry Looms

By PETER EDSON

Journal Washington Correspondent

IT IS recognized doctrine and practice of organized labor to make gains while business is good. Employers can't be expected to shell out while business is in the red or dangerously near to it. But when business is in the black, then is the time to ask for increases with every expectation of getting results and keeping them. That has happened in every major industry during this war period — in steel, autos, aircraft or what have you. It is happening right now in coal. It stands a good chance of happening in railroads.

EDSON

In the case of the Akron rubber workers, however, it is perhaps permissible to raise the question of whether labor can't be too smart for its own good, can't push its war, boomtime demands to such a point that it will in the long run work to its own disadvantage. From the Washington angles on the story, this is definitely the prospect in sight.

You have to recall some of the recent Akron rubber history to get this one in correct focus.

To relieve depression unemployment distress in Akron, a "share-the-work" program was instituted in 1930. It included provision for a six-hour day and at one plant — Goodrich — a maximum 1800-hour work year. From 1934 to 1937 employment in the industry was between 37,000 and 39,000, all working on the basic six-hour day. 1936 and 1937 were pretty fair years. Carrying out this idea that labor makes its greatest advances in good times, those were the years that marked the rise of the CIO United Rubber Workers' union and the consolidation of the social gains made during the depression.

EXODUS FROM AKRON

SUCCESS of the union had an unusual effect on the industry. Wanting to insure a more continuous flow of production, not wanting all their rubber eggs in the Akron basket where labor disturbances were upsetting the basket too often, some of the rubber companies began a decentralization of their industry and moved plants out of town to find lower wages and better working conditions. There had been some decentralization of the industry in the 1920's, but this second exodus in 1937 left a good many of the rubber workers in a bad way. Employment dropped to an all-time low of around 26,000.

But the six-hour day and the five-day week, meaning the 30-hour work week, hung on. The Goodyear strike in 1939 was largely caused by fear that the companies were moving toward the 40-hour week. It was not until war demands really took hold that the industry was able to move away from the short week.

At Goodrich, it was raised from 30 to 36 hours, finally to 40 hours, but time and a half is paid for all work over 36 hours a week, and the average work week is still under 45 hours. At other plants, the basic week is 40 hours, overtime beginning after the 40th hour, with an average 48-hour week.

Following the accepted labor dogma of making gains while business is good, however, Akron rubber workers put in their demands for further increases in basic wage rates. But take a look at the long range implications of these demands.

WAGE INCREASES

THE 3-cents-an-hour wage increase which the War Labor board recently authorized brings the average straight time earnings to between $1.18 and $1.23 an hour. Actually, by the setting of new rates for new operations, the average has been raised from $1.28 to $1.33 an hour, though the War Labor board does not recognize such increases as being a factor. Nor does the board consider as a factor the average take-home of from $1.55 to $1.60 an hour, including overtime.

But even the lower figures are from 30c to 33c an hour higher than wages paid tire and tube workers outside the Akron area. Faced by that added competitive cost, rubber manufacturers are again beginning to think about the decentralization of the industry which took place after 1937, and to talk openly of more of the same.

Everyone would like to see the rubber workers and everyone else make a lot of money, but the issue here is whether it isn't possible to force too much of a gain, spread the wage differential between Akron and other cities too much, force more of these rubber factories to get out of town where the labor is cheaper, and so put the rubber manufacturing capital of the world back into another period of despond.

What the previous depression did to Akron, the inhabitants still remember with a shudder.

Additional Sentences Given Two Convicts

DALLAS, June 11 (AP)—Walter Lemay and C. M. Mershon, escaped convicts captured in a chase by police, were each sentenced to 24 years in prison by a court at Canton, Texas, yesterday while a grand jury at Groesbeck indicted them in 16 other cases.

The men were taken to Canton from Dallas, tried and convicted in two hours of six separate cases of burglary, for which they were given four years each. They were then returned to Dallas.

Sixteen indictments each for burglary, robbery and theft were returned at Groesbeck against Lemay, Mershon and Steve Roberts of Nevada, Texas, third member of the trio.

The three men were held in Dallas county jail.

Central Agency For Relief Is Considered

WASHINGTON, June 11. (AP) — A vast American plan to set up a central United Nations agency to feed, clothe, shelter and generally rehabilitate the people of liberated territories was under consideration today by 42 other governments.

Before them was a draft agreement submitted by the State department for a United Nations relief and rehabilitation administration, with a council, a central committee and an executive staff headed by a director general.

Some observers saw in it a possible pattern for a postwar political organization of the nations to solve international problems and preserve peace through collaboration.

Approved by the British, Soviet Russian and Chinese governments, who were consulted in the drafting, its acceptance by the other united and associated nations in the war against the Axis powers was expected here.

Hearings Scheduled On Extending Hours

AUSTIN, June 11. (U.P.)—Hearings will be held before June 22 on applications of six Houston and Galveston industries to employ women laborers a maximum of 70 hours a week, State Labor Commissioner John Reed said today.

The concerns are now operating under temporary authority for a 70-hour week, and have requested the permission for six months. Rights to employ women in certain industries longer than the regular 54 hour week provided by state law is allowed in an act passed by the recent legislature.

STOCKS DRIFT DOWNWARD

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP) — Stocks generally turned their backs on good war news in today's market and, with scattered exceptions among peace issues, the drift was downward from the start.

Selling never was urgent and volume for the full proceedings was under that of Thursday, approximating 900,000 shares.

Stocks under water the greater part of the time included U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, Oliver Farm, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft, Western Union, Santa Fe, Great Northern, American Smelting, Dupont, J. C. Penney, U. S. Gypsum and Standard Oil (NJ) on the upside at intervals were Goodrich, U. S. Rubber, Woolworth, Eastman Kodak, Allied Chemical, Electric Power & Light and Hercules Motors.

Bonds were irregular. At Chicago grains advanced on the federal crop estimates. Wheat finished up ⅝ to 1 cent a bushel, oats were ahead ¼ to ¾ and rye was 1⅛ to 1⅜ higher.

CHICAGO EPORT

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP) — Bullish enthusiasm over-ran the grain pits today, sending wheat up more than a cent at times and pushing oats and rye to new seasonal peaks. Turnover was heavy and profit-taking stemmed the advance, but the market remained firm through to the close.

The July oats contract featured trading by establishing new high for the past 23 years. September rye hit $1.00 a bushel. Buying in all pits was based upon the June 1 government crop report, which showed a substantial decline in grain production this year.

At the close wheat was ⅝-1 cent higher, July $1.45½-⅝, September $1.43¾, and corn was unchanged, July $1.08, oats were up ¼-⅜ and rye gained 1⅛-1⅜.

President's Appeal

the word "respected" with emphasis—of the European family of nations.

When the Germans are driven out and Fascism is abolished, he said, only then will the good judgment of the Italian people become evident.

Speaks From Memorandum

In taking what he described as an opportune moment to say a word to the Italian people, the president spoke from a memorandum which he said he had prepared and thought first of issuing as a formal statement. Instead of making a formal statement, however, he talked directly to his press conference, referring frequently to the three-page document in front of him.

Mr. Roosevelt also had in front of him Eisenhower's message about Pantelleria. This message was handed to him about 8:30 a. m., as soon as he awoke.

His statement was regarded as another strong bid to the Italian people to get out of the war. It followed much the same pattern of a similar invitation issued recently to the people of Italy when Prime Minister Winston Churchill joined in a Presidential press conference during his last White House visit.

GERMANS ARE WARNED

STOCKHOLM, June 11 (AP) — Twenty-four hour, large-scale German anti-invasion maneuvers were held in the Oslo area of Norway on May 30, reliable reports from Norway said tonight, while Nazis were reported to have warned the German people that an Allied air attack may reach all corners of Germany "at any moment."

EFFICIENCY

GRANTS, N. M.—Petticoats—literally—are ruling the range country.

Rancher Floyd W. Lee tried hiring some Navajo Indian women as sheep herders, and said men herders were never like this.

Each squaw wears at least a dozen flaring, gypsy skirts, he explained — doffing them as needed to wrap up chilled, newly-born lambs.

HE STARTED OVER

BOISE, Idaho — Smiles greeted Staff Sergeant Alan B. Citron of Philadelphia as he requested and received a copy of form 52.

More smiles when he presented the document to officers at Gowen field for their signature.

Next he presented it at the dispensary, seeking treatment for a cold.

Then he learned that form 52 is a death certificate.

UNWANTED

BERKELEY, Cal. — Sheila Sutton walked into a bar, climbed up on a stool and ordered.

The bartender called police. By the time they arrived Sheila was sipping a soft drink.

Officers escorted the two and a half year old girl home.

APPEASEMENT

DENVER—Johnnie E. Lee, 19-year-old Navajo Indian, was accidentally killed by a rock while working with a railroad section gang.

Twenty-six other Navajos, despite persuasion, quit the gang.

Interpreter Richard Redshirt said the 26 believed the great spirit was displeased and wanted them to return to their reservation.

FROM WAR TO WAR

WENDOVER, Utah — Gov. Herbert B. Maw inspected the Wendover Army Air base, and Capt. Clark E. Pardee, Birmingham, Mich., a squadron commander, stepped forward with hand extended.

"After 25 years, this is a surprise," he said.

They were tentmates at Kelly field, in 1918.

PARA-SHOOTER

KANSAS CITY — Parachute packs have become common among military luggage at the union station, but baggage handlers are approaching them with caution now.

A redcap scooped up a pack by the ripcord yesterday.

Clouds of white silk and shroud lines spurted forth over lobby crowd.

Missouri River

of the choked Kaw, was safe from the water. Pumps were being used to push drainage over the levee as the sewer line into the river was blocked off to prevent flooding by backwater.

Howard H. Martin, river forecaster, declined to estimate last night what the eventual crest would be at Kansas City but warned that the most severe flood of the year would hit the entire length of the Missouri valley below this point.

Drive Is Started For 'Dead' Beer Bottles

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., June 11. (U.P.)—The lowly beer bottle, popularly known as a "dead soldier," has risen to the dignity of being the object of a six-day statewide drive. A shortage of beer bottles has develpoed and the Brewers' Institute called for a patriotic effort by the population in rounding up all the "dead" ones.

Hannah Claims She Was Faithful Wife

WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., June 11. (U.P.)—Hannah Williams Dempsey gazed steadily at her attorney in Supreme court today and denied that she had ever committed adultery with Lew Jenkins and Benny Woodall, the prize fight figures with whom Lt. Comdr. Jack Dempsey alleges she had been intimate.

Testifying for the second day in her half of the double-barreled divorce suit she and her husband filed against one another, Mrs. Dempsey climaxed her story of verbal and physical mistreatment at Dempsey's hands, by asserting that she had been a faithful wife.

Strike Is Ended By Bread And Water

FORT WORTH, June 11 (U.P.)—A diet of bread and water brought an end to a "sit down strike" in the women's section of the Tarrant county jail, officers reported today.

The women prisoners struck when ordered to sweep their cells.

After 24 hours of bread and water, they were willing to sweep the floors, deputies said.

Triple Award Given To Col. John E. Barr

NEW DELHI, June 11. (U.P.)—Col. John E. Barr of Gilbert, S. C., and San Antonio, Tex., who developed the technique of dropping 1,000-pound bombs from fighter planes, received a triple award today — Silver Star, Distinguished Flying Cross and Air Medal — for his service with a famous fighter squadron based in Assam province.

Maj. Gen. Clayton Bissell, commander of the 10th U. S. air force, decorated Barr, who has flown more than 50 missions over China and Burma. He has been the group's executive officer. He has been ordered to the United States for reassignment and will leave at once.

The planes flown by Barr's group carry a dragon insignia with the motto: "Our Assam Dragon."

WARNING ISSUED

EUGENE, Ore., June 11 (U.P.)—Guardians of western forests were warned by a U. S. Army officer today that the Japanese may attempt to fire valuable stands of west coast timber through release of free balloons bearing incendiary bombs.

Subsidy Plan Hit

the subsidy plan is put into effect the government should first try an industry proposal, under which a war meat management board comprised of industry and government representatives would control the price by using the huge army and lend-lease orders as a lever.

"After a little more than a month's deliberations, which began in April, the director of the OPA, Prentiss Brown, War Food Administrator Chester Davis, and the quartermaster general of the United States, Major General E. B. Gregory, signed a statement endorsing the suggested plan with some minor administrative changes," continued Montague.

However, the plan has not been put into effect and instead, the OPA announced that the plan of price rollback and subsidy would be instituted.

REVOLT OF WAGE EARNERS PREDICTED BY GREEN

WASHINGTON, June 11 (AP)—Predicting a "spontaneous revolt" of wage earners unless living costs are cut, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor (AFL) told a Senate committee today a $2,000,000,000 yearly subsidy is necessary to roll back living costs to levels of 13 months ago.

The only alternative, the AFL chief said, is to increase the 15 per cent Little Steel formula controlling wage increases "per cent for per cent of our failure to cut the cost of living down to the May, 1942, level.

Immediate Action Needed

"The workers of the nation feel that their government has gone back on its promise to extend them equality of treatment in the cost of living control," said Green.

"Unless immediate and express action is taken to carry out the policy pledged and promised to the wage earners of the nation, a widespread protest and spontaneous revolt on the part of the workers against the rising cost of living is inevitable."

Earlier members of the Senate banking committee before which Green testified, said they favored legislation restricting sharply the amount and number of subsidies that could be paid to compensate for price cuts.

Anti-Strike Bill

in any war plant pending a 30-day strike notice and a secret ballot among employes.

Can't Make Contributions

Makes it unlawful for labor unions to make political contributions to candidates seeking office in a federal election.

Requires the WLB to keep its rulings within the confines of national labor relations act provisions — a requirement which some members believe will prevent the board from issuing closed shop or maintenance-of-union membership orders.

The bill differs from the one passed in the House a week ago. This one does not require labor unions to register with the NLRB or file financial and membership data.

Reds Establish Air Supremacy

(By The Associated Press)

MOSCOW, June 11.—The Russian air force has established supremacy in the Kuban valley after two months of violent mass aerial combat over the Axis western Caucasus bridgehead, dispatches from the front said today, and this fact was declared to account for the comparative lull in fighting in that area.

An Izvestia dispatch said that since the end of May "our Stormovik bombers have been able to punish German troops on the battlefield at will, without loss to themselves."

Military observers here said it was understandable that the German troops were not anxious to do battle if deprived of strong air support and that the German air force was unwilling to engage the stronger Russian air fleet, with its faster, higher-climbing planes.

Nazi Planes Shifted

One other explanation for the let-down in the Kuban was offered that the Germans had shifted their planes to concentrate on bombing vital targets such as the Gorki war production factories behind the center of the Russian line.

The Germans also expected a Soviet attack on the central front rather than in the Kuban, and they may be holding their air reserves for use in that sector.

Recent Russian communiques have bee silent on the Caucasus war, where recently heavy land battles northeast of Novorossisk and in the swamps of the Kuban delta were reported supplemented by heavy aerial warfare.

The Germans lunged yesterday with hundreds of tank and plane-supported troops against the Russian lines between Rostov and Taganrog, 35 miles westward. A temporary German gain was pushed back by a Red army counter-attack that cost the Germans 300 men, five tanks and two planes.

Both the midnight and the noon Russian war bulletins told of heavy losses inflicted again on Nazi troops dug in before Smolensk and in the Sevsk region northeast of Kursk.

(A German military commentator, Lt. Gen. Kurt Dietmar, hinted last night at the imminence of a new German summer offensive. "The front in the east has put on fat again," he said in a broadcast from Berlin, asserting that the German troop dispositions in Russia now offered a "platform for operations of offensive tendency."

(The German radio also said "several hundred bombers and fighter planes" dropped more than 500 tons of explosives and more than 100,000 fire bombs on a synthetic rubber plant in a raid Wednesday night on Yaroslavl, 150 miles northeast of Moscow. The raid came after a series of aerial assaults on armament plants on Gorki, 250 miles east of Moscow).

BOMBINGS REPORTED

CAIRO, June 11. (AP)—The United States Ninth Air Force dropped 3,500,000 pounds of explosives on Axis installations in some 200 missions in May, Major Gen. Lewis H. Brereton, its commander, announced today.

Pantelleria First Blood In Invasion

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press Staff Writer

Surrender of the Italian island fortress of Pantelleria under bombardment from air and sea represents first blood for the Allies in their all-out aerial offensive against the Axis.

This strong point in the Mediterranean bottle - neck between Sicily and the African mainland literally has been blasted into submission. Troops are going ashore without suffering the terrible losses in men and materiel which would inevitably have attended invasion without such preparation.

Provides Stepping Stone

The submission of Pantelleria removes a grave menace to Allied shipping from the narrow channel which the Allies must control for further operations in the Mediterranean. This volcanic island provides a stepping stone in the direction of Il Duce's unhappy country. One would expect to see bombing of the great islands of Sicily and Sardinia stepped up now.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull may have been speaking with prophetic voice when he referred yesterday to "the timely end to which he (Mussolini) is rapidly approaching."

Needn't Rush Invasion

Actually, Italy already is so battered in morale that it's far from the threat it used to be. From the standpoint of security, the Allies needn't rush invasion of the Italian mainland if they don't want to.

In Italy, Radio Commentator Camillo Pellizzi, national councillor, said that "there is at present a general state of confusion which . . . cannot last long." The war has entered its second stage, he explained, and many issues relied upon at the beginning now look different. At the outset it looked as though the war would be confined to Europe, but it became a world conflict.

The councillor didn't amplify that last remark about a world conflict, but it doesn't take much mind reading to figure out that he is regretting America's participation. Mussolini didn't expect that when he rushed to stab France in the back so as to get aboard the Boche band-wagon before Hitler forced the Allies to surrender unconditionally. Anyway, Pellizzi remarked sadly:

"It is now too late, far too late, to turn back and think over the facts and proposals of that (early) period."

DR. J. FRANK NORRIS

Norris Speaks Here Tonight

Rev. Dr. J. Frank Norris, nationally known Fort Worth and Detroit preacher and evangelist, is speaking at Tabernacle Baptist church here tonight on the subject "The World's Greatest Revival." The program will begin promptly at 8 p. m., said the pastor, Rev. Ben D. Johnson, since Doctor Norris must catch the train for Fort Worth, leaving Lubbock at 9:45 p. m.

For the past eight years Doctor Norris has been dividing his time between his First Baptist pastorate in Fort Worth and the Temple Baptist church, Detroit, largest church in the motor capital. Currently he also is a leader in the Mission Fellowship, composed of 3,000 churches with missionaries in various foreign fields including China and Africa.

Sees Post-War Prosperity

Fresh from Detroit, Doctor Norris this morning quoted K. T. Keller, president of chrysler motors, as believing American post-war unemployment unlikely on a widespread scale. Keller told Doctor Norris in a recent conversation that the opening of world economic frontiers after victory, plus the necessity of the U. S. keeping a large Army and Navy, will "soak up" approximately 8,000,000 Americans. The armed services will require a combined total of 4,000,000 men, the Chrysler chieftain believes, while engineering and transportation on world-wide fronts will use 2,000,000 men each.

Doctor Norris said his sermon address tonight will cover his opinions of post-war revival not only from a spiritual angle, but also from the economic and political standpoints. Doctor Norris believes a United Nations victory will be followed by the greatest period of prosperity the world has ever seen. "But," he said, "if we do not have that prosperity, the world will enter the worst period in its history from every standpoint."

While in Lubbock, Doctor Norris visited with his sister, Mrs. M. H. Duncan, and Mr. Duncan. The latter is a former Lubbock schools superintendent.

Crisis Facing French Group

ALGIERS, June 11 (AP) — The newly-constituted French committee for national liberation wrestled with a fresh crisis today as Gen. Charles de Gaulle was reported threatening to resign unless the committee bowed to his demands for dismissal of certain Frenchmen still holding government posts in French North Africa.

His opposition to a number of French officials because of their former connection with the Vichy government was one of the snags which delayed the committee's formation.

Presents Long List

Gen. de Gaulle came to organization meetings with a long list of officials he wanted proscribed. Marcel Peyrouton and Gen. Auguste Nogues were two on the list. Pierre Boisson, governor-general of French West Africa, was said to be another. Peyrouton stepped aside as governor general of Algeria just before the committee was formed and Nogues bowed out as president general of Morocco soon after.

De Gaulle yielded to arguments that a provisional French government first be set up and the question of ousting former Vichyites be taken up later.

Attitude Uncompromising

It was indicated he now was pressing his demands. Sources close to de Gaulle said he had not handed in his resignation but added settlement would be difficult in face of his uncompromising attitude.

De Gaulle adherents also said he still opposed Gen. Henri Giraud's taking the post of minister of national defense while remaining commander-in-chief of the French army.

'Beware Of Vicious Man', Dogs Warned

LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 11. (U.P.)—When the City Council ordered the City Attorney to draw up an ordinance designed to keep dogs out of victory gardens, Councilman Charles A. Allen said he had solved the problem by posting a sign on his garden reading: "Listen, Dogs. Vicious Man Inside." When any dog read the sign and still ran over the garden, he did get vicious, he explained.

Destroying Property Charge Against Man

LEVELLAND, June 11 (Special)—Jimmie Reeves, 30-year-old oil field worker, was held by Hockley county officials on a charge of destruction of private property.

Sheriff Ed Hofacket said a complaint signed by Robert Franklin of Lubbock, who was in charge of the J. R. Sharp No. 2 oil test four miles northwest of Sundown, resulted from Reeves' allegedly having damaged the well.

The sheriff said he had been informed Reeves became angered at P. J. Moore, a driller on the well, beat Moore, ran the company car Moore was driving into a building, cut its tires with a knife, then took a heavy hammer and badly damaged the heavy stationary engine that supplied power to the rotary rig that had drilled the hole to 4,300 feet.

Damage was estimated, the sheriff said he had been informed, at approximately $1,500.

Candidate Found For 'Meanest Thief'

PASADENA, Cal., June 11. (U.P.)—Mrs. Bessie Winder gave the police her definition of the "meanest thief." He stole her pocketbook containing some money and her ration book with Coupon No. 17 good for one pair of shoes still unutilized. She told the chief she had been saving it to buy a new pair of shoes for spring. She said she did not mind the money stolen, but to have to go without a new pair of shoes was just too much

WAACS Arrive At Local Field

Twelve members of the Woman's Army Auxiliary corps arrived here Thursday afternoon for duty at Lubbock Army Air field.

The cadre was headed by 1st Lieut. Jamie Pauline Luttrell, who left a position with the Kentucky State Board of Education nearly a year ago to join the WAACs at Ft. Des Moines, Iowa. She was stationed at Daytona Beach, Fla., and Chanute Field, Ill., before she was transferred to Lubbock, while the others were transferred here from the Fifth WAAC Training Center, Ruston, La. Only other WAAC officer is Lieut. Margaret M. Griffith, mess and supply officer, from Canton, Ohio.

No fanfare heralded the arrival of the first contingent of khaki-clad women to be assigned to the Lubbock post. Only the sound of "Hut-two-three-foah" in feminine voices varied the routine of the post.

Moments after their arrival, which nearby cadets and enlisted men watched with obvious interest, the WAACs were busy lugging their overnight and barracks bags, gas masks, etc., into spic-and-span barracks which had long been ready for their company.

The WAACs at LAAF, as well as at other posts, will handle their own administrative details. They are to have their own orderly room, supply room and mess hall. Like the male GI's, WAACs too must pull "KP" — nicely put, "mess attendant" in the Army nowadays.

They are responsible for the appearance of their barracks and the area around the WAAC detachment.

The interior of their quarters is very similar to that of the enlisted men, except for such notable additions as a beauty parlor, curtains, bath tubs instead of showers, dressing rooms, a complete laundry, and small cupboards for lockers at each bunk.

Like the enlisted men, the WAACs will sleep on steel cots, with GI mattresses and blankets. Their military routine will likewise include that Saturday morning incident—inspection.

The rest of the WAAC company will arrive during the next few weeks, and will upon arrival be interviewed and classified for assignment to duties for which they are best qualified. Many of the group will be assigned to clerical positions in headquarters now held by male soldiers. Others will take over jobs as chauffeurs, photographers and other jobs for which they have been specially trained.

Their principal purpose will be to release men for combat duty overseas.
