SHOPMEN VOTE TO STRIKE

MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

It is a distance of twelve hundred miles from Denver to the Gulf of Mexico—or from the Rocky Mountains to Galveston Island. Seven of the twelve hundred miles along the Colorado to the Gulf Highway are paved and as smooth as a shell road. Five hundred miles remain to be put in first-class condition for tourists. There is a Colorado to the Gulf Highway association and citizens of three states are officers of the organization. There are Texans president and vice president of the association and representative citizens of Colorado and New Mexico fill the other executive offices. Capt. Bernard McMahon of New Mexico is the director general of the association. Hon. C. H. Walker of Dalhart is the president and Judge Hugh L. Small of Fort Worth is the vice president. Wichita Falls is on the line of travel and one of the most important cities between the Gulf of Mexico and the Rocky Mountains on the tourists' road. Wichita Falls gave a splendid reception to these Colorado to the Gulf officials and Capt. McMahon on their trip which began at Denver and ends on Galveston Island. Of course every city in every county in all three states touched by the Colorado to the Gulf Highway is vitally interested and the automobile men of Wichita Falls are the men who will be compelled to do most of the work expected from the people of this city and county. President Walker, Vice-President Small and Captain McMahon made interesting speeches at the luncheon spread at the Kemp Hotel. There were interesting speeches made by Mayor Cline, Representative Frank Johnson and others. They pledged the hearty cooperation of the people of Wichita Falls and whenever the people of Wichita Falls make a pledge, they keep it. This is the record of the men in the city that faith built. C. W. Nolen, secretary of the Wichita Falls Auto Dealers' Association contributed his part in speech making as well as in working out details, and in this he had the hearty support of the members of his association. Frank Johnson made a notable speech and it should be printed and circulated. He told the story of all tourists in relating his own experiences on the road. Governor Neff wired a message of commendation to the party when they crossed the Texas border and may join the tourists in South Texas and make the trip to the Gulf with these champion road blazers and advocates of a highway of the twentieth century type from that city which nestles away up in the dome of the continent to the great Gulf port on Galveston Island. Captain McMahon will make a return trip to Wichita Falls early in October and the progressive people of this city are expected to do their part making this twelve hundred miles of Colorado to the Gulf road an absolute success. It is a reality now. It is not in its experimental stage, several hundred miles having been built and the gaps should be completed in the near future. Really, H. N. F. is strong for the auto dealers not alone of Wichita Falls but of America. They are responsible for the greatest road building era in the history of the western world. With the coming of the motor vehicle, the demand for improved highways became country wide. Now, everywhere in every state owners of motor vehicles, pleasure or truck, are champion advocates of road bond issues, improved highways and the onward march of the car of progress. This is true of Texas. There are auto associations in every city and town. They are made up of live, wide awake, hospitable business men. They know the value of good roads. They preach the gospel of good roads. They give of their money and time to help the good roads cause along. They are never asleep at the switch. They know that modern highways annihilates distance and brings the city and the country together. They know that the farmer is one of the greatest beneficiaries of good roads. They know that where the highways are modern, in summer or winter, spring or fall, regardless of weather conditions he can truck or wagon his products to the consumer in city or town. They are responsible largely for the road laws of every state. They are responsible for the traffic laws for the protection of life and property. They are responsible largely for the traffic ordinances in cities and towns and the education of the public as to the law of the road in country and city and town. Right here in the city of Wichita Falls they are ever battling for improved traffic conditions and for the enforcement of the wise measures adopted by the law makers of the commonwealth and the commissioners or councilmen of the city for the protection of all the people from reckless or inefficient or indifferent drivers of motor vehicles. You have to hand it to them. H. N. F. remembers when the first motor car was brought to Texas. It was not many years ago. Colonel Edward Henry Rhodes Green, son of the famous Hetty Green, introduced Texas to the motor car. He made his home at Terrell, in Kaufman county. Terrell was the headquarters of the Texas Midland railroad. Colonel Green built the railroad. He owns it today. Well, H. N. F. made the trip from Terrell to Dallas on the Green car. It made more noise than a thrashing machine and two mechanics were constantly on guard. In that not remote past the roads of Texas were dust streaks

TEXAS RAISES ONE-FOURTH OF U. S. COTTON

Crop Combined With That of Oklahoma Totals One-Third of Entire American Yield in 1919.

More Than Two Million Acres Added to Planting During Period from 1909 to 1919.

BY B. N. TIMMONS,
Record News Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Texas produced more than one-fourth of all the cotton raised in the United States in 1919, according to figures made public today by the United States census bureau as part of its 1920 report. Texas and Oklahoma together produced more than one-third of the total amount of cotton raised in that year.

In 1919, the latest figures available, the total production of cotton was 11,876,130 bales compared with 10,649,268 bales in 1909. This was grown in 1919 upon 33,740,106 acres compared with an acreage in 1909 of 32,043,838. This was an increase of 5.3 per cent in the number of acres in cotton and 6.8 per cent in the number of bales produced. The actual increase in acres was 1,696,268 and in bales 726,862.

The states reporting the largest acreage in cotton in 1919 were Texas with 11,522,537 acres; Georgia, with 4,720,498 acres; Mississippi with 2,948,357 acres; and Oklahoma with 2,732,962 acres. The state of Texas alone reported a little more than one-third of the total acreage in cotton in 1919. To be exact, it was 34.2 per cent.

The average production per acre in 1919 was 0.34 per cent of a bale while the average in 1909 was 0.33 per cent.

The following states produced more than 1,000,000 bales of cotton each in 1919: Texas, 2,971,737 bales; Georgia, 1,681,907 bales; south Carolina, 1,476,645 bales; and Oklahoma, 1,006,242 bales.

The estimated production of cottonseed in 1919 was 5,327,721 tons as compared with an estimated production of 5,324,621 tons in 1909. In 1919 the estimates for cottonseed were based on the average gross weight of a bale of cotton and the ratio used was 35 per cent lint and 65 per cent seed. In 1909 estimates were based on a 500 pound bale and the ratio used was one-third lint and two-thirds seed, which was the customary basis at that time.

The growth of the cotton industry in Texas in the ten years from 1909 to 1919 is indicated by the following figures of the census bureau: Acres planted in cotton, 11,522,537 in 1919 compared with 9,930,179 in 1909; production, 2,971,737 bales in 1919 compared with 2,455,174 in 1909; estimated cottonseed production, 1,444,264 tons in 1919 compared with 1,227,587 tons in 1909.

REQUEST ALL TO CUT PRICE TO AID IDLE

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Plans for a business revival week during which merchants, hotel proprietors and railroads will be asked to reduce prices in order to stimulate buying and to bring trade to the city, were included in a letter sent today by Mayor Hylan to Commissioner of Public Welfare Bird S. Coler, chairman of the committee of unemployment.

The plan was proposed as a part of a general scheme to relieve unemployment conditions by bringing into circulation a large amount of cash and providing employment for hundreds of men for at least one week.

The industrial aid bureau has voted to call upon the federal government to take care of more than 15,000 alien seamen who are stranded here and to urge the federal, state and municipal governments to put into operation pending plans for more than $300,000 worth of improvements as a means of providing employment.

BAR KILBANE IN OHIO RING FOR QUIBBLING

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 18.—Featherweight champion Johnny Kilbane will not be permitted to box in a local ring again, J. B. Wilberding, chairman of the Cleveland boxing commission announced tonight.

When Kilbane signed articles recently to meet Danny Frush of Baltimore in a twelve-round bout here yesterday, it was agreed that the commission should name the referee and judges, the two boxers and promoters agreeing to stand by the commission's choice.

Kilbane first objected to the appointment of Harry Ertle, who refereed the Dempsey-Carpentier bout and then to Ed Smith, Chicago referee. Walter C. Kelly of Buffalo was then chosen.

An eleventh hour objection was taken by the champion yesterday to the appointment of Sam Hall, Chicago and Richard Guy, Pittsburgh newspaper men, as judges. Local men were substituted.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Several women who heretofore have not appeared in connection with the charge of murder on file here against Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle, were questioned today by District Attorney Matthew Brady and his assistants. Their names were not made public.

Arbuckle spent a quiet Sunday in the jail cell which has been his residence since a week ago last night, when he was arrested on a charge of murdering Miss Virginia Rappe, motion picture actress, who died, according to accusers of Arbuckle, after a drinking party in his hotel suite here and as a result of alleged mistreatment by her host.

Arbuckle will remain in his cell until Thursday when his preliminary examination begins on a murder complaint sworn to by Mrs. Bambino Maud Delmont, a guest at the party.

PRESIDENT'S CHAIR CAUSE OF LAW SUIT

Designer of Chair Alleges He Was Neither Paid Nor Permitted to Share in Honor.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The executive chair presented to President Harding by the editors of the country made from timber taken from the war sloop "revenge" of revolutionary fame, has been dragged into court, it became known today, to determine who should receive historical credit as its designer.

Mor Bartos, designer and manufacturer of furniture, has brought suit against Alfred C. Bossom, fifth avenue architect in the sixth district municipal court to recover $90 and costs, claiming that he was engaged by Bossom to draw plans for the chair and to superintend its construction. The designer alleged that the architect promised him $300 for the work. He drew the plans and specifications, the complaint stated, and delivered them to Bossom for the purpose of having the architect submit them to the president for approval. He heard nothing more about the plans or the chair, he charged, until he read of the presentation in the newspapers. Bartos further charged that Bossom, after obtaining the plans and specifications appropriated them to his own use and has taken full credit as designer of the now famous peace of furniture.

In his answer to the complaint the architect declared he paid Bartos $20 in "full settlement and satisfagion of all claims," on account of the designer's work on the chair.

NOTED BANK BANDIT TRIES PRISON ESCAPE

Tom Slaughter, Famous Oklahoma Outlaw, Kills Trusty Guard and Wounds Two on Penal Farm.

Dash for Liberty One of Most Spectacular Adventures Credited to Notorious Safe Blower.

By Associated Press.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Sept. 18.—Tom Slaughter, notorious Oklahoma bank bandit, today added another chapter to his long list of crimes, when in a sensational attempt to escape from the Arkansas penal farm he killed one man and perhaps fatally wounded two others, all trusty guards, with a rifle smuggled to him by some one on the outside.

Bliss Adkisson, draft resister, serving 18 years for murder committed when a posse tried to capture him and other resisters in mountains of Cleburne county, was killed. Jim Morris and DeWitt Taylor, the other guards, were shot through the body and are not expected to live. Lilburn Taylor, a convict, was injured in the right leg by a guard but is not dangerously injured.

Slaughter was brought from Tucker where the farm is located, to the penitentiary here this afternoon and tonight is being held in solitary confinement. Preparations are being made to try him for murder in Jefferson county, it is said.

Sentenced for Murder

Slaughter, who, with Fulton Green, was convicted of the murder of Deputy Sheriff Roy Brown of Hot Springs about a year ago, was wanted in Oklahoma, Texas, Missouri, Kentucky and Pennsylvania, according to officers, for bank robberies and murder. He had escaped from the Texas penitentiary just prior to the Hot Springs shooting, after striking a fellow convict over the head with a shovel and seriously wounding him. Slaughter and Green were captured at Independence, Kansas.

According to reports from the Tucker farm, Slaughter, early this morning, obtained the rifle smuggled into him from its hiding place in one of the large bath houses where there were more than a hundred convicts at the time.

He ordered the convicts to lie down and through a window began picking off th guards. Morrison was shot first and then Garrett. Crossing to another window he fired on Adkisson, killing him with the first shot. Slaughter fired at several officials and then started to make a break for the open. As he reached the door Sam Payne, life termer opened fire on him with a pistol. His aim was so accurate that Slaughter threw away his gun, raised a handkerchief and surrendered. On one of the occasions when Slaughter is alleged to have instigated a plot for the wholesale escape of convicts, the national guard was called out and kept on duty at the peni-

ACTION AS PROTEST ON WAGE REDUCTION WILL BE DEFERRED

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 18.—Railroad shop men belonging to the six federated shop crafts unions have voted to strike against the general railroad wage reduction of July 1, 1921, but will defer any action until the promulgation of working rules now pending before the United States railroad labor board, when another vote will be taken on acceptance or rejection of the rules.

This announcement was officially made by B. M. Jewell, head of the shop crafts organization at a mass meeting of Chicago shopworkers today.

Belief that a stronger fight could be made if a strike is called, with preservation of the shopmen's working rules one of the goals, led to the decision to withhold a strike call for the present. Mr. Jewell said he and other union speakers counselled the men to wait until the entire wages and rules situation was before them rather than rush into a strike, which Mr. Jewell declared, the railroad managements desired.

Wait to Make Fight

"We can make a real fight on the rules proposition when we might not have the full support of other branches of railway employes on a wage fight alone," Mr. Jewell said. The announcement was greeted with applause by the meeting and questioners jumped up in the parts of the hall to press for further details. Answering one question, Mr. Jewell asserted that the shop crafts would have the co-operation of other organizations, including the Big Four Brotherhoods, if a strike were called and urged his audience to prepare for action.

The strike vote, completed August 1st was announced as showing a constitutional majority against the wage which went into effect July 1st. This was the first official confirmation of the result which has been rumored for some time.

Condemnation of the operations of the labor board and of its decisions was voiced by all the speakers at the meeting. Mr. Jewell charged that the railroads were attempting to use the board to take an unfair advantage of the industrial situation. The board's methods of drafting rules to supplant the national agreements, a war-time measure under which the employes work at present, was asserted to be impractical because only seven of the 186 rules have been substituted. Mr. Jewell said he would demand of the board that "for once it meet a situation in a practical way and announce the remaining rules simultaneously instead of piecemeal."

Labor on Defensive.

"Labor's battle has always been on the defensive," Mr. Jewell said, "we ask only for justice—but will accept nothing less. There is hope for the future."

The present situation was declared to be the "most critical and most important" which ever confronted shop employes, by Edward J. Evans, representative of the electrical workers. He said the members were unalterably opposed to many of the labor board decisions, especially that governing overtime payment, which was included in the seven rules so far announced by the board.

N. R. Good, chairman of the Pennsylvania system federation of shop-crafts, told of his belief that the Pennsylvania had been selected to make a fight for the open shop as the first step in such a movement on all railroads.

General charges that the railroads were opposing demands of the unions as part of a movement which Jewell said was backed by "$9,000,000,000 or more," were made. The object, he said, was "to crush organized labor." He cited alleged unfair action by the railroads in offering to negotiate rules on each individual road and then failing to agree. Only five agreements had been completed among the 320 carries on which substitute rules were to be drafted. The unions seek to retain the preseint national agreements intact and the shopmen, according to the union officials, will make a harder fight for retention of those rules than in opposition to reduce wages.

TEXAS FOURTH IN RICE CROP, REPORT SHOWS

Lone Star State Ranked by Louisiana, California and Arkansas in Growing of Big Crops.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Louisiana continued to lead all states in the production of rice in 1919 with California second, Arkansas third and Texas fourth, according to figures announced today by the United States census bureau as a part of the 1920 census returns. Louisiana produced according to these figures, almost one-half the total amount produced in the United States, while Arkansas' product was about one-fifth and that of Texas about one-seventh of the total output for the country.

Considerable increase in the acreage of rice grown in the United States and the quantity produced was shown by the census figures for 1919 compared with those for the preceding census of 1909. The total production for the United States for 1919 was 35,321,712 bushels compared with 21,838,580 bushels in 1909, an increase of 13,483,132 bushels, or 61.7 per cent. The average production per acre in 1919 was 38.8 bushels, while the average in 1900 was 35.3 bushels.

Louisiana produced 16,011,667 bushels of rice in 1919 from 317,518 acres. California, second in rank, produced 6,926,313 bushels in 1919 from 130,367 acres. No figures were given for 1909 for this state.

Arkansas produced 6,797,126 bushels of rice in 1919 from 143,211 acres, compared with 1,282,830 bushels in 1909 from 27,419 acres.

The production of rice in Texas showed a considerable decrease in 1919. The production for that year was 5,297,169 bushels compared with 8,901,745 in 1909. The acreage of rice planted in Texas decreased from 237,586 acres in 1909 to 164,301 in 1919.

The only other states producing rice were South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Mississippi and Alabama, and the production in each of these was very small compared with those mentioned above.

NEW DEMAND ON DE VALERA PROMULGATED

Lloyd George Tells Irish Leader Sinn Fein Will Not Be Recognized as Separate Government.

Declares Further Peace Negotiations Impossible Unless Delegates Go as Subjects of English Crown.

By Associated Press.

BELFAST, Sept. 18.—A girl was shot dead and another was gravely wounded in a fusillade of revolver firing in Vere street this afternoon. The church-goers in the neighborhood were obliged to scurry to shelter. Soldiers hastened to the scene and turned machine guns on various points infested by gunmen.

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—Premier Lloyd George today added another to the brisk fire of telegrams between Dublin and Gairloch, which leaves Eamonn DeValera's search for a formula enabling him to accept the invitation to a conference still unsatisfied and the position on the Irish question is virtually the same as on Friday.

His message to the Irish Republican leader, the British prime minister remains firm in refusing to meet the Irish Republicans as representing an independent and sovereign state and declares that unless that section of Mr. DeValera's recent letter insisting upon the delegates acting as representatives of an independent Ireland was withdrawn, a conference between the members of the British cabinet and the cabinet and the Sinn Fein plenipotentiaries would be impossible.

Notwithstanding the firm tone of Mr. Lloyd George's note it is interpreted as displaying solicitude to furnish Mr. DeValera a favorable opening for abandoning his present attitude.

The second paragraph of Mr. De Valera's letter of September 12, to which Premier Lloyd George alludes in his latest telegram, is as follows:

"In this final note, we deem it our duty to reaffirm that our postion is, and can only be as we have defined it throughout this correspondence. Our nation has formally declared its independence, and recognizes itself as a sovereign state. It is only as representatives of that state and its chosen guardians that we have authority or power to act on behalf of our people. As regards the principle of government by consent of the governed, in the very nature of things, it must be the basis of an agreement that will achieve the purpose we have at heart—that is, the final reconciliation of our nation with yours. We have suggested no interpretation of that principle, save its every day interpretation, the sense, for example, in which it was understood by the plain men and women of the world when on January 5, 1918, you said:

"The settlement of Europe must be based on such grounds of reason and justice as will give some promise of stability. Therefore, it feared we feel that government with the consent of the governed must be the basis of any territorial settlement in this war.

IRISH PUBLICITY DEPARTMENT SILENT.

By Associated Press.

DUBLIN, Sept. 18.—When Premier Lloyd George's telegram arrived tonight it was too late to summon a cabinet meeting and according to the publicity department no statement could be issued tonight.

Mr. Lloyd George's request for withdrawal of the offending paragraph of Mr. DeValera's letter is believed to involve the re-summoning of a full meeting of the Dail Eireann, for when Mr. Lloyd George originally afforded an opportunity for private withdrawal by Mr. DeValera's the cabinet preferred to submit the matter to the Dail Eireann. The paragraph was then officially discussed and unanimously approved.

IS TARIFF BILL HELD UP AS CLUB AGAINST NATIONS IN PROPOSED ARMS MEEET?

By BASCOM N. TIMONS,
Record News Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Whether the holding up of the tariff bill by congress is for the purpose of placing a club in the hands fo the American delegates to the forthcoming international conference on the limitation of armament, or is for some other reason, is one which is being discussed to some extent in Washington. There are some who insist that congress will not act upon the tariff bill until after the sessions of the conference are concluded, but there are others who insist just as strongly that congress will not pass the pending tariff bill at all, nor one like it.

Soon after the new administration came into office, and congress was convened in extraordinary session, the majority in the house held its conference and it was decided that tariff legislation should have precedence over all other matters. The ways and means committee subordinated all other propositions to the tariff bill and the measure bearing the name of Congressman Fordney, chairman of the ways and means committee, was reported to the house, and passed in a short time.

But, about that time, it began o be undersood that the ariff was to be side-tracked in the senate for the tax bill. Some of the senators held that taxation was of first importance and should take precedence over the tariff, and the president himself let it be known that he concurred in the plan to hold back the tariff measure till after the tax bill has been disposed of. And then came the guesses as to what was back of the laying aside of the tariff.

Get Along Without Change.

The reason stated by the president and by senators is that the country can get along well enough for a time without any tariff change, but that it is suffering seriously from over taxation and that the first thing needed to start the nation back toward normal business condiions is tax revision. Without this, it is held by this element, the tariff would mean nothing, for there would be no business to be affected by the tariff.

But this explanation does not satisfy some persons, who do not hesitate in expressing the belief that there is another unexpressed reason for holding back action on the Fordney tariff measure, and that it is to be kept in the background, with as little further discussion as possible, until after the conference on the limitation of armament has been concluded.

The president, having called the convention and issued the invitations to the other powers to join in it, naturally does not want to have it fail, but he must have some more effective method of bringing about agreement to his views on the limitation of armament than the mere invitation to assemble here and discuss it. That the tariff bill is to be the club which will be swung over the heads of European delegates to the conference on arms is the expressed view of many persons here.

The proposition, as stated by persons who hold to this belief, is that the house tariff bill will be kept in the finance committee of the senate, which will proceed to tear it to pieces and make a different kind of a bill out of it, as soon as the tax bill is reported to the senate for consideration, and that the measure will not be passed in either shape until it is found out what Europe propose to do regarding armament.

Others Ridicule View.

This view is ridiculed by others, who assert that the proposed duties would amount to so comparatively little, in these days when business is calculated in billions, as to be of minor consequence to any or all European nations. It is pointed out that the total imports to the United States, if taxed an even 100 percent would not be so burdensome to Europe as to cause any complications, for importations have dwindled to a comparatively small figure. They hold that European nations are not very greatly interested in the tariff of the United States; but that it is he wages paid to our workmen, the conditions of labor and the freight rates which interest them for more than the tariff duties.

That the conference on the limitation of armament is to become more of a commercial and industrial gathering and result in some sort of an industrial and commercial understanding rather than one with regard to armaments is the view point of many persons here. And they are largely the persons who assert the belief that the tariff bill is to be held over the heads of the "disarmament conference" as a club to see that American rights are protected in whatever may be the outcome of the deliberations.

Regarded as Mercenary.

These persons are regarded as mercenary in their views, placing the dollars of trade above the protection of the world against wars. They are called "pessimistic" by the other class, who consider that great world service is to be rendered by the coming conference, through the removal of the burden of warfare.

"Idealists" is the term applied to this class by those who think the tariff of the United States and the trade agreements of the nations represented in the conference are of supreme importance and that their consideration will take precedence over that of world peace.

In the meantime preparations for the armament conference are proceeding; plans are being formulated for presenting to this conference a program for minimizing armament; and the tariff bill is being held back. Whether there is any connection between its delay and the pushing of the other plans is a question on which Washington does not agree.

"MOVIE MAD" MUST PAY FOR STARS' PHOTOS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—The axe of economy experts, which has been busy in all of the great motion picture studios here, has now fallen on "movie" fans scattered throughout the world.

The experts have figured out that a saving of from $850,000 to a cool million dollars can be effected for the studios and popular players if the fans are made to pay for photographs of stars.

It was learned that a movement to charge for photographs and donate the money, over the actual cost of making the pictures, to some needy cause had been very successfully tried out by Mary Pickford and a Hollywood photographer.

Many other film celebrities have indorsed the plan and are now co-operating.

Miss Pickford has been turning over the money received from the sale of her photographs to a Good Cheer fund for needy children, while other stars are swelling the coffers of a fund for aged mothers from the sale of their pictures. It is predicted by the managements of the leading studios that it is only a matter of time until all of the stars will enter into the new charitable picture distribution plan.

So next time you send for a free photograph of your favorite picture star don't be surprised if in return you receive a card which reads about as follows:

"Your letter asking for one of my pictures has just been handed to the committee selling my photographs for the benefit of the Aged Mothers' fund. There are numberless mothers who have sacrificed all their lives for their children and who find, as the end draws near, they have been too liberal with others at their own expense."

For some time a careful checking of the requests for photographs made from all parts of the world to stars and studios has shown in most instances the persons making the requests were attempting to make collections which would include all the leading players. Some of the persons writing have their appeals down to such a businesslike basis their letters are printed, the name of the player or studio being merely writtin in.

At many of the plants it has been customary for the stars to turn their letters over to studio attaches, and the pictures would be sent out at the expense of the studio managements. This has been especially the case where stars have been under contracts to a single producing organization.

The first day that Wallace Reid adopted the new plan three barrels filled with letters which had been sent to Reid were brought to his manager's office. Most of these letters made requests for photographs.

"I have spent a lot of time in answering mail from 'fans' for a number of years," said Reid to the correspondent. "I have put in many an afternoon trying to add a little sunshine to some lonely life by a little message of cheer. I have written these replies to 'fans' at times when I should have been out on golf links or in the sunshine recuperating from my long hours.

"I have, in common with other widely-known players, come to the conclusion it is an injustice on the part of the public to expect studios or stars to pay out large sums annually to supply photographs free. Those who really want them will be glad to pay a small sum for the pictures if they know the excess above actual cost will go to a worthy charity."

FATTY HAS "QUIET" DAY IN FRISCO JAIL

the shroud will be replaced by an evening gown, said to have been fashioned by Miss Rappe and flowers, the gift of motion picture friends, will be placed in her hair and corsage.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—A. C. Arbuckle of San Francisco and W. H. Arbuckle of Fresno, brothers of the film star, visited him in his cell in the hall of justice here late today. They talked for half an hour.

Mrs. Roscoe Arbuckle, known professionally as Minta Durfee, is expected to arrive in San Francisco tomorrow from New York to assist in her husband's defense. According to word received here she stayed in Chicago ten hours last Friday looking up acquaintances of Miss Rappe.

The Arbuckles have been separated for about five years according to friends.

District Attorney Matthew Brady and his aides today visited the suite of rooms in the Hotel St. Francis where Arbuckle's party was held. The furniture, according to Brady, was arranged exactly as it was found when the suite was vacated.

Twin beds in the rooms which had been remade, were ordered disarranged by Brady. This was done by Mrs. B. M. Delmont, Miss Alice Blake and Miss Zeh Prevost, women members of the Arbuckle party. The beds were put in the same condition, the women said, as when they entered in response to Miss Rappe's cries.

Brady said he had gone to the hotel to "get the lay of the land."

Dr. Arthur Beardslee, house physician of the hotel, who was called to treat Miss Rappe at the party, telegraphed today that he was on a hunting trip in Mono county, California and had just learned that Arbuckle had been arrested. He said he would start for San Francisco immediately.

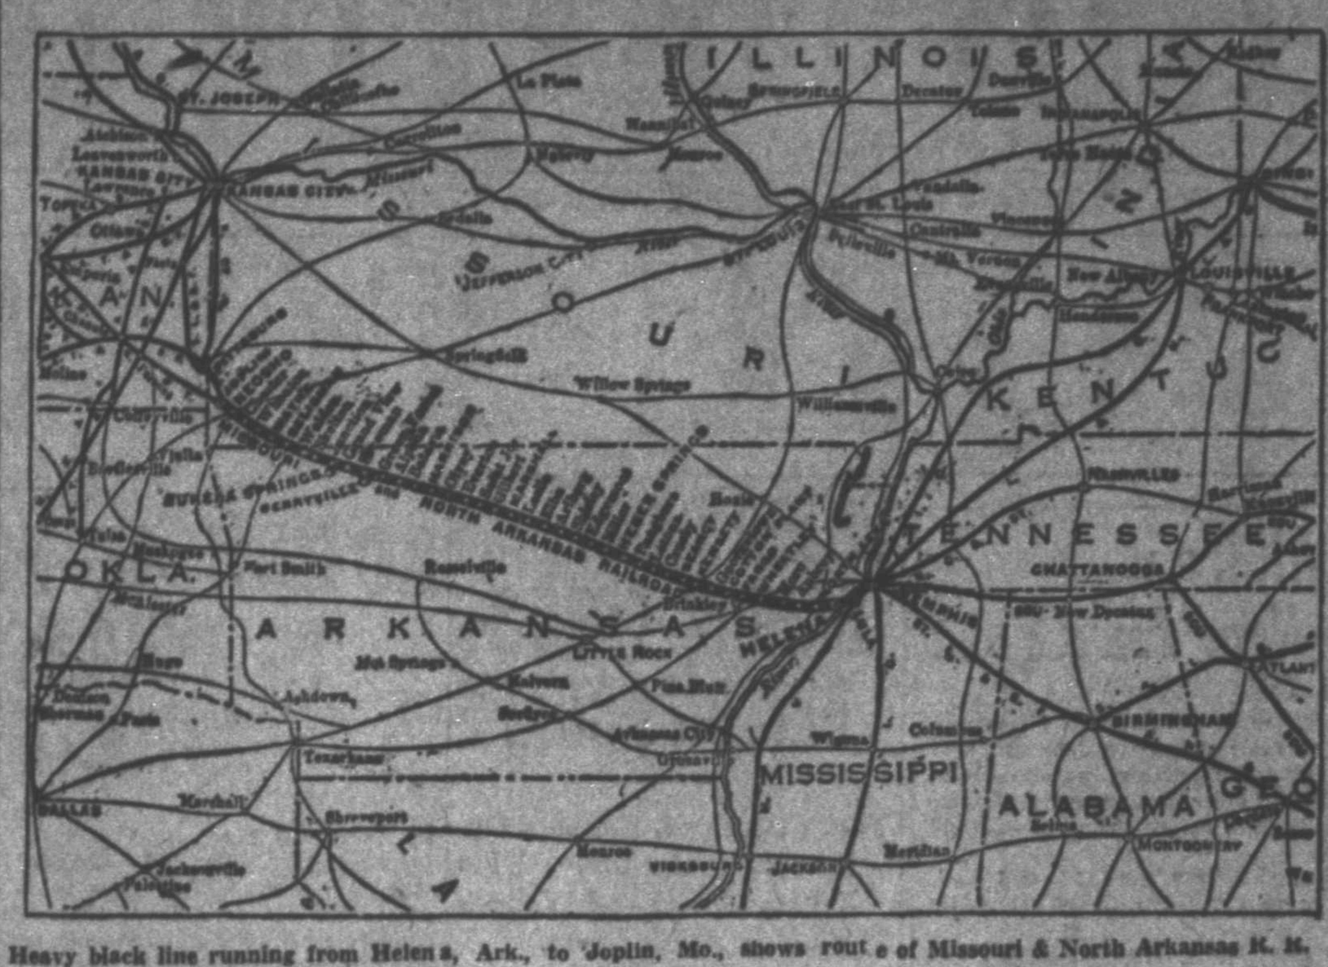

Upon information from Los Angeles that Lowell Sherman, film actor who attended the Arbuckle party, had left the city and started for the east, District Attorney Brady tonight telegraphed authorities at Salt Lake City and other cities to intercept and return him to San Francisco. Brady announced also that he had telegraphed the district attorney at Los Angeles to locate and place under surveillance Al Semnacher, Fred Fischbach and Ira Fortlouis, members of the Arbuckle party.

Brady said he wished to have Semnacher, Fischbach and Fortlouis watched to prevent their leaving the jurisdiction of the California courts.

SHREVEPORT VOTE NOT REVEALED

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 18.—Results of the strike vote by local organizations of the big four railroad brotherhoods and shop crafts while the vote is about complete, have not been revealed. It is understood from unofficial sources, however, that the vote will be, in effect, solid to strike.

HERE'S CHANCE FOR FORD TO PROVE HE'S REAL RAIL WIZARD

Heavy black line running from Helena, Ark., to Joplin, Mo., shows route of Missouri & North Arkansas R. R.

DETROIT, Mich. Sept. 18.—If Henry Ford a real rail wizard?

His friends assert that he is, and point to his feat in converting the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railway from a losing proposition into a profitable venture.

Most rail executives say that he is not, and declare that the D. T. & I. would still be a loser were Ford not able to divert a very large amount of his own freight business to that line.

Ford recently issued a statement in which he declared that the present prosperity of the D. T. & I. is mainly attributable to his business methods and not to the fact that he has divered an important percenage of his freight business to his line.

Ford's right to be crowned railroad king being thus in dispute, his friends and enemies alike hope he will embrace the opportunity now offered him of taking over a western road that has gone into bankruptcy and that suspended operations on August 1.

The road is the Missouri & North Arkansas, 386 miles long, running from Helena, Ark., to Joplin, Mo. Representatives of towns along the line recently came to Detroit to urge Ford to take over and operate the road. The committee was promised that Mr. Ford would analyze all details of the proposition with a view to speedy action looking toward acceptance or rejection of the proposition.

Members of the committee said that they were much impressed with the remarkable results obtained by Mr. Ford in the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad. They believe he can accomplish similar wonders with the western railroad. The M. & N. A. runs mostly through an agricultural region, serving no large industrial centers.

If Ford takes over the M. & N. A. it will not be possible for him to divert much of his own freight business to that line. Its success under this management would therefore mean a big triumph for him. On the other hand, if he should take over the road and fail to turn it into a money maker, much of the fame he has won through making a success out of the D. T. & I. would be lost.

MODERNIST ART BRANDED DEGENERATE

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Greenwich Village is rubbing its eyes.

Also the little Latin quarter over on the "left bank" of the East River—that is to say the artistic colony on Brooklyn Heights—is also pinching itself to make sure it's awake.

They have all been set by the ears. The artistic sanctum sanctorum of New York—the Metropolitan Museum of Art—has been denounced as a hotbed of Bolshevism.

Printed circulars, denouncing as "degenerate and pathological" the exhibition of modernistic art now on view at the Metropolitan have been going through the mail to a selected list of connoisseurs. Addressed by typewriter, and without return addresses, the pamphlets bear the printed signature, "A Committee of Citizens and Supporters of the Museum."

Condemning the exhibition as "entirely unworthy of the Museum," the "committee" characterizes in detail the pictures it deems offensive. "Vulgar in subject," "corrupt in drawing," "childish in conception" are the labels affixed to one group. "Simply pathological in conception, drawing, perspective and color," is another characterization.

According to the circular the Metropolitan is being made the tool of art dealers who want to "unload this rubbish on the public."

The trouble with modernism in general, and the Metropolitan's exhibition in particular, according to the pamphlet, is a combination of Bolshevism, commercialism and just plain insanity.

Deification of Ugliness.

"The world-wide Bolshevik propaganda," declares the brochure, "aims to overthrow and destroy all existing social systems, including that of the arts. This modernistic degenerate cult is simply the Bolshevik philosophy applied in art. The triumph of Bolshevism, therefore, means the destruction of the present aesthetic system, the transportation of all aesthetic values and the deification of ugliness. The philosophy of Bolshevism as applied to all channels of human action is the gospel of mental importance. Hence, the Bolsheviks would open the gates of the temple of art to the mentally lame, halt and blind of the human race.

Human Greed Factor.

The circular declare that the second force back of the modernistic movement in art is greed. The whole propaganda of this movement, it declares, was organized by European art dealers who had flooded the American market with French and Dutch pot boilers. But the real cult of modernism, the circular declares, began with a small group of neurotic egomaniacs in Paris who styled themselves worshippers of Satan, the God of Ugliness.

"The third moving force of modernism art is a well-known form of insanity," declares the committee.

YANK PROPOSALS INTEREST JAPS

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—The receipt of America's tentative proposal, upon which it is expected to build a definite program for the Washington conference in the limitation of armaments, has stimulated a new discussion and interest in the conference, which already is great. It is believed that the Japanese government is giving earnest consideration to America's ideas concerning China and Siberia and more especially to topics such as equal opportunity in commerce and industry, the general question of preferential economic rights and questions of concessions, monopolies and the extension of railways, including matters pertaining to the Chinese eastern railroad.

Dr. Knickerbocker Contrasts Old Gospel to Modern Theology

"Good news for Fatty Arbuckle, Henry J. Tonssaint, et al," the title of the morning sermon by Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, proved that of an earnest sermon contrasting the old gospel teachings with some of the substitutes of present day theologians, to the disadvantage of the latter. Dr. Knickerbocker brought out in his sermon, using these and other individuals for examples, that though apparently engulfed, yet the belief of the ancient gospel, which held out hope of unearned mercy and credit from God, offered them an escape which could come through no other means.

The fundamental worth of sentiment as consrasted to materialism was the main thought brought out by Dr. Knickerbocker in his final Sunday evening sermon at the open air tabernacle, corner of Eleventh and Scott streets Sunday night. In connection with his announced subject "A Dog Versus a Chicken" the pastor had a chicken and a dog brought to the platform at the beginning of his talk.

Questions by the pastor to men and boys in the audience brought out the fact that the former preferred to own the chicken while the latter showed a preference for the dog. The pure sentiments of childhood explained the preferences shown according to the pastor.

Taking his theme from this illustration the pastor spoke briefly from the words of the Apostle Paul, "I will stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance." The speaker spoke of the memories all men and women had of their childhood and the great influence they had on their lives in later years. Declaring that there was more of sentiment in these childhood days than materialism a too common characteristic of mature years the pastor ended with an appeal for a return to the ideals and sentiments of youth.

BIG AIR BAGS RELEASED FOR BENNETT CUP

By Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 18.—Under intermittent showers and strong easterly winds the contestants in the balloon race for the James Gordon Bennett trophy left the ground this afternoon.

Up to midnight the Belgian aero club had no news of any of the balloons.

The big gas bags went away at intervals of ten minutes.

The wind was blowing between 30 and 40 miles an hour, giving the pilots considerable trouble, and Usuelli, the Italian entrant, withdrew owing to damages to his balloon.

A thrill was lent the start by a soldier who was assisting in holding down the Belgian entrant, Belgica, became entangled in the ropes. He was unable to extricate himself and was carried aloft as the gas bag ascended. The spectators watched the soldier hanging to the rope, swaying in the wind, as Lieutenant De Murster and his companion in the basket slowly hauled him up to safety. The rescue was made just as the balloon disappeared in the clouds.

Owing to the direction of the wind, the aeronauts are likely to be carried over the English channel or the Atlantic ocean. Some of the experts think there is a possibility of the contestants landing either on the Cronwall, England, or Brittany coasts others believe that the gas bags may be driven as far north as Ireland. Fourteen balloons started in the race.

NOTED BANK BANDIT TRIES PRISON ESCAPE

tentiary for more than a week.

Hold Inquest

An inquest was held over Adkisson's body this afternoon and the coroner's jury recommended that Slaughter be held to the Jefferson county grand jury on a charge of murder.

At the penitentiary Slaughter is said to have remarked that he "expected to go to the chair" for the killing, but did not appear worried.

Only the loyalty of the small band of trusty guards is said to have prevented the escape of 200 or more convicts. According to prisoners, Slaughter's plan for escape provided for other convicts to rush the guards as he shot them, obtain the guards' guns and join him in the fight. The determined efforts of the guards and their rapid firing kept the other convicts corralled in the bath house.

CONDITIONS IN EUROPE IMPROVING

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Signs of improved conditions in Europe are still few, according to the monthly summary of the economic and financial situation there, issued tonight by the commerce department on the basis of cabled reports from its foreign representatives.

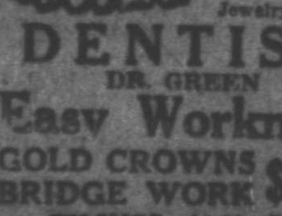

"There has been no very definite general alterations in conditions," the department said, "which would warrant the prediction of an immediate revival. Crop estimates in general are more encouraging than previous reports would indicate."

Taxation in Great Britain is the greatest impediment to a revival of business according to Commercial Attache Dennis at London.

While the recent place legislation in the United States has had no apparent influence on German business conditions in general, according to H. W. Adams, representing the department at Berlin the further depreciation of the mark has resulted in improved market values of cotton, potash, grain and metal products. Nevertheless, he asserted, the market is weak and speculation is on the increase.

The Austrian government's financial situation is critical, W. F. Upson representing the department at Vienna stated.

The commercial situation in Spain remains unchanged in that imports are increasing and exports decreasing, Commercial Attache Cuningham at Madrid declared. An increased number of sales, he said, are reported from Great Britain, France and Germany.

COTTON HAS ACTIVE WEEK OF TRADING

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 18.—This was a week of declining prices in the cotton market, the highest levels being reached on the opening session and the lowest prices practically on the close of the closing session. From the highest to the lowest there was a fall of 199 to 313 points, October being the weakest month and losing about $16 a bale in its fall from Monday to Saturday. It closed at the lowest of the week at 17.90 cents a pound. At the highest of the week prices were 35 to 80 points over the close of the preceding week, at the lowest they were 164 to 233 points under. The close showed net losses of 162 to 235 points.

In the spot department middling lost 175 points in the net results, closing at 18.50 against 28.00 a year ago.

Liquidation of the long interest was responsible for most of the selling pressure of the week, although the market had to stand considerable hedge selling, and as the decline progressed, traders on the short side grew bolder and began to offer cotton in larger amounts. By most traders the decline was regarded as a natural reaction following a prolonged advance. Here and there during the week hard spots appeared but recoveries were not wide, especially after the middle of the week. On the opening session the market made its strongest bulge, rising four dollars a bale on the strongest months on the telegrams from Texas telling of the great damage to the crop in those sections of the state which felt the unprecedented rains of the preceding week.

The week was not without its bullish news but the market got little real support, even though crop accounts continued highly unfavorable and the government made the statement in its weekly review of the crop that in numerous counties of Georgia picking activity had been completed. Several private reports on the condition of the crop appeared the highest of which was 44.7 per cent of normal and which, it was claimed, included the damage done to the Texas crop by the storm of the preceding week. The lowest condition report was 38.5, indicating a crop of 6,400,000 bales, the lowest condition ever issued and the smallest crop in the memory of most brokers.

Much of the selling out on the long side was done because of uneasiness over the outcome of first notice day for October and this is expected to be a disturbing influence during the week to come. First notice day for October will be Monday, September 26, and there is much difference of opinion regarding the size of the tenders it will bring. In the close of this last week December was at a premium of 20 points over October, closing at 18.10.

YOUTHS FLEE AFTER AUTO COLLISION

Hastily jumping from the Buick car which they were driving when they collided with a touring car driven by Sam Kimberlin, local merchant, on the lower Holliday road between this city and the lake, two youths Sunday night ran from the scene of the accident and when last seen they were making a hasty retreat near the holliday creek.

The fact that the two youths abandoned the car immediately after the collision led to the conclusion by motorcycle officers McDonald and Newton that the car had been stolen. Both machines were badly damaged, one wheel being torn off the Buick. The other suffered damage to the frame and engine.

Several persons were in the Kimberlin car but none were injured. The officers arrived on the scene soon after the two youths driving the car had disappeared.

According to occupants of the other car the Buick machine coming in from the lake approached them driven by two youths at a high rate of speed. The collision it was said, occurred due to the failure of the Buick car to give the other car the proper share of the road.

Officers were investigating the case Sunday night but at an early hour this morning the identity of the two men and the ownership of the car had not been established.

GOLF SHOOTERS SPEND DAY IN DRIVING MATCH

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18.—Driving contests and a team match occupied the golfers during the Sunday intermission in the national amateur golf championship of the St. Louis Country Club today, while the sixty four remaining contestants girded their lions for the grilling qualification test of 36 holes tomorrow to determine the 32 who will compete at match play for the rest of the week for the title now held by Chick Evans of Chicago. Champion Evans did not enter the stunts today, but many of the leading aspirants to his twice won crown were on the links. Robert T. Jones of Atlanta, who won the driving contest in which each performer drove three balls down a seventy-yard alley marked on the polo field in front of the club house. The Atlantan scored hits of 235, 230 and 218 yards, the wet field causing the balls to drop almost dead. Jones' average of 228, counting fractions of yards was 8 yards better than the second score shared by Bob Hunter of Los Angeles and W. F. McPhail of Boston.

The longest drive was made by Robert Gardner of Chicago, twice national champion, who sent the pellet 248 yards on his third attempt, after getting 215 on the first drive and topping the ball for 177 yards on the second. The second drive for length was 241 2-3, made by H. R. Wensler, a youthful player from Memphis and it was the first ball hit in the contest. The southern lad added 222 1-3 yards on his next attempt, but his long third went out of bounds. His average for the two good balls was 232.

Willie Hunter, British champion, sclaffed his first drive, getting 191 yards, sliced his second for 208 yards and topped his third for only 145 yards.

Heavy rain last night and a cloudy sky today made the putting greens much slower than they were on Saturday when some of the players complained that approaches shots had to be cut extra hard to hold the green. The moisture, however, increased chances of muddy balls, which cost some of the players putts in the elimination rounds.

FILE CHARGES AGAINST TWO ON DRUG ACT

In connection with investigations that have been conducted here for several days by Federal Narcotic Agent Brooks, working in conjunction with police officers, charges of having morphine in their possession were filed Sunday in federal court against L. Megan and George Withers, both of this city.

The two men were arrested Saturday by Brooks and Detectives Hawkins and Glenn of the police department and held for investigation. The federal charges were filed against the two men after a further investigation Sunday. One man arrested with Megan and Withers was released.

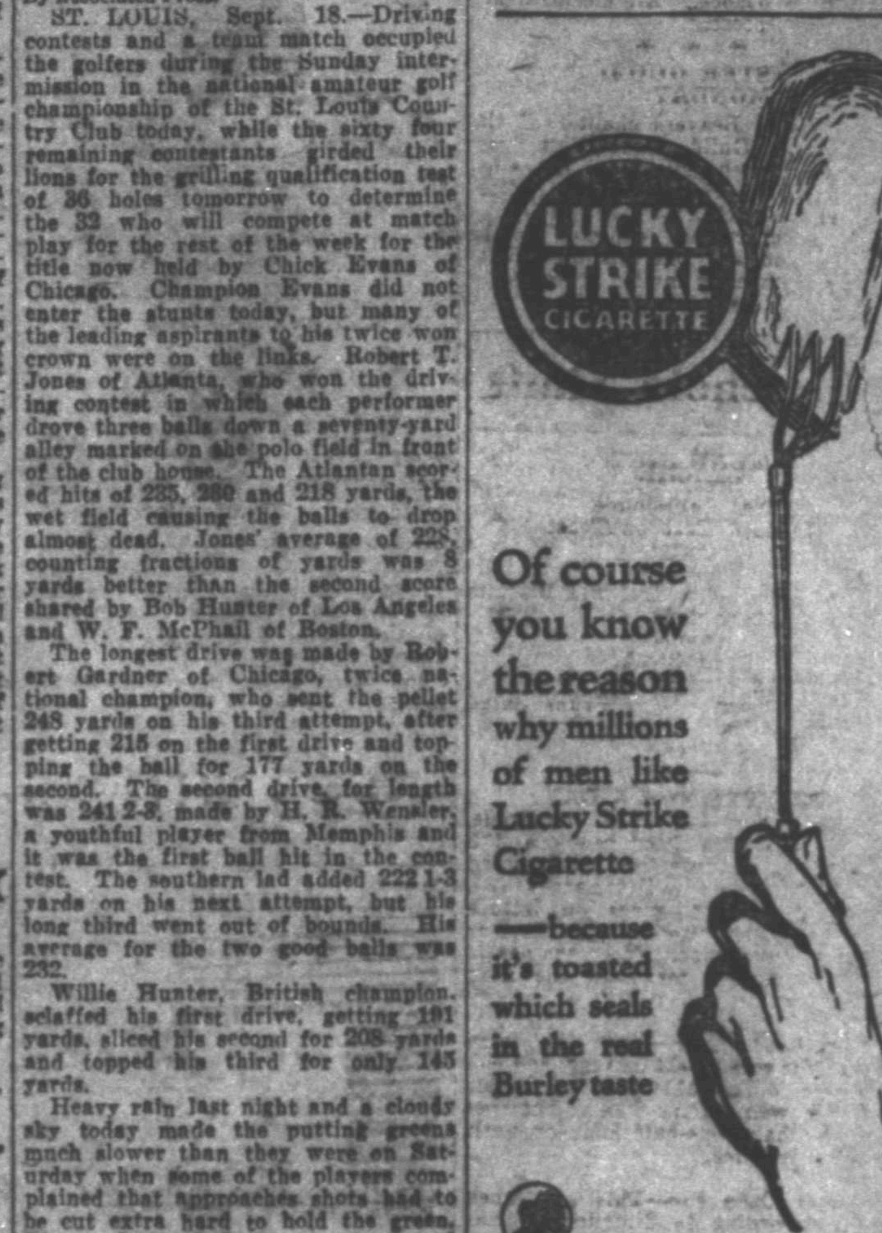

Although officers made no definite statement to that effect, it is understood that the investigations have led to the conclusion that morphine and other similar drugs are being used in this city and surrounding territory in unprecedented quantities. The two men arrested, according to the officers, had about $300 worth of morphine in their possession.

Agent Brooks left the city Sunday after filing charges against the two men. The men are held at the county jail and will have a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Lantz today.

The number of cases reached 8,000 at one time during the epidemic but mortality has been exceptionally low.

Orange Delight—Beat yolk of one egg slightly and add one table-spoon sugar, two tablespoons of orange juice, one-quarter teaspoon lemon juice and a few grains of salt. Cook over hot water until mixture thickens. Remove from stove and fold in one stiffly beaten egg white. Turn into a serving dish and chill.

Prune Souffle—Have ready one-third cup strained prune pulp. Add sugar and lemon juice to taste. Add one egg white and beat for ten minutes or until the mixture is very light. Pile lightly into a buttered baking dish, set in pan of hot water and bake in a slow oven until firm. Serve with boiled custard.

SMART FROCKS FOR EVERY HOUR

What is correct and smart for every hour of the winter day is very well shown in these three models pictured here. The morning frock, the afternoon gown and the dinner or dance frock are all represented here by exquisite little models from some of our country's leading makers. All of the frocks are notable for their simplicity are straight lines.

At the left is the afternoon gown made of black canton crepe trimmed with white self material embroidered in black. White binds the side panels which fall longer than the hem, forming the popular uneven bottom which is approved on most of the new dress frocks. The embroidered insets on these panels form the only decoration on the skirt and the embroidered cuffs form the only trimming on the plain blouse. The long, loose sleeves are shown on many of the newer models with pleasing effect.

The dainty dance frock in the center is also of black. Satin is the fabric while the sleeves, tiny gilet and tunic are made of all-over lace. Note the unusual idea of having wristlets which catch up the tunic.

The cloth frock for morning or informal wear, is shown at the right. It is fashioned of navy cloth banded in Karagulam, a fur fabric resembling caracul. A loose blouse, loose bell sleeves and lace vested are featured.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

Wallace Reid and his young son ready for their morning dip.

Can two geniuses exist in one family? The spotlight of public interest in this momentous question shifted from the Farrar-Tellegens in New York recently to the Wallace Reids here. The spotlight served to throw the home life of the Reids into strong relief against a dark background of rumors.

Just recently Mrs. Reid, known professionally heretofore as Dorothy Davenport, elected to return to the screen. She is playing opposite Lester Cuneo, a close friend of Wally's. This is the situation that started all the rumors about a divorce in the Reid family. The rumors have been vehemently denied by Mrs. Reid and her mother. The fact that she is taking another fling at pictures has nothing to do with the happiness of her family life, according to Mrs. Reid.

"Wally and I are as happy as we have always been," she declares. "I am even going to use my married name, Mrs. Wallace Reid, instead of Dorothy Davenport in my new picture which certainly is not indicative of a divorce."

During all the rumor Wally is having a fine time with Wally, Jr., playing about in the sand of the Reids own private swimming pool. The photograph shows young Reid in his swimming suit and if freckles mean anything in pictures he may be a second Wesley Barry. He resembles the fair Dorothy more than he does the debonair Wally.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

NED'S TELEGRAM

It was a very canny Cherry that suddenly decided not to telegraph her husband, in spite of her wild desire to do so. Far better to let her mother-in-law do all the mischief she wished, and then see how Ned would re-act to it. After all he was a man, and like most men despised intrigue and bickerings among the women of his family. Far cleverer for Cherry to stand pat, and refuse to throw any dirt, not matter what happened.

Mrs. Randall did send off a telegram to her son asking him to return as soon as possible, as things were at sixes and sevens without him and to please come at the earliest moment.

In return she received a curt one saying that he would return at the time he had stated to Cherry, and not before, and ended it by sending his love to Cherry.

Of course the astute lady said nothing of the contents of this wire to her daughter-in-law. She was too infuriated by it and at the thought that her son had got away from her early training, entirely. It was the first time he had refused to come to her call. Her power was certainly waning, and for all this she had Cherry to thank, a girl who had done nothing but cause disturbances ever since she had entered the family. Well, Ned would have enough of her and her ways before long. Then he would need his mother again. Only a mother could understand a son. It was always his mother that a man ran to when in deepest distress.

Of course she would scold him ever so gently when he did come to her, because of his folly in bringing home a girl like Cherry. By that time he would not mind her reminding him of the sort of person his wife really was. Ned, being young, would soon get over it and marry again, some sensible, home-loving girl, this time. And to this Mrs. Randall looked forward cheerfully.

It was finally by accident that Cherry discovered the contents of Ned's reply to his mother later on in the day. Mrs. Randall had left the telegram open on the mantel-piece in the library, and it was impossible not to read it in passing.

"Hurrah for Neddy," was Cherry's first thought. "Good boy. Didn't forget his girl even in this matter." And she put the yellow paper to her lips happily.

It was while she was reading it that Jane wandered into the room with a gleam in her eye.

"You busy, Cherry?" she asked.

"No," answered Cherry. "Anything I can do for you dear?"

"Yep, come up to my room and have a long talk. I'm just so moony I don't know whta to do. And mother's never a bit of good at these times. Always tells you how she used to act and think when she was a girl. That can't help me one little bit. But she doesn't seem to think so. They were all screaming about the write-up, just now, down to the drug store, Sis, but you should worry. At least you've shown them that you have the courage of your convictions. They are a lot of 'fraid cats, the women in Wellsburg, anyhow. I never could see how they managed to pass their time, they have to few real interests."

IS TARIFF BILL HELD UP AS CLUB AGAINST NATIONS IN PROPOSED ARMS MEEET?

By BASCOM N. TIMONS,
Record News Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Whether the holding up of the tariff bill by congress is for the purpose of placing a club in the hands fo the American delegates to the forthcoming international conference on the limitation of armament, or is for some other reason, is one which is being discussed to some extent in Washington. There are some who insist that congress will not act upon the tariff bill until after the sessions of the conference are concluded, but there are others who insist just as strongly that congress will not pass the pending tariff bill at all, nor one like it.

Soon after the new administration came into office, and congress was convened in extraordinary session, the majority in the house held its conference and it was decided that tariff legislation should have precedence over all other matters. The ways and means committee subordinated all other propositions to the tariff bill and the measure bearing the name of Congressman Fordney, chairman of the ways and means committee, was reported to the house, and passed in a short time.

But, about that time, it began o be understood that the ariff was to be side-tracked in the senate for the tax bill. Some of the senators held that taxation was of first importance and should take precedence over the tariff, and the president himself let it be known that he concurred in the plan o hold back the tariff measure till after the tax bill has been disposed of. And then came the guesses as to what was back of the laying aside of the tariff.

Get Along Without Change.

The reason stated by the president and by senators is that the country can get along well enough for a time without any tariff change, but that it is suffering seriously from over taxation and that the first thing needed to start the nation back toward normal business conditions is tax revision. Without this, it is held by this element, the tariff would mean nothing, for there would be no business to be affected by the tariff.

But this explanation does not satisfy some persons, who do not hesitate in expressing the belief that there is another unexpressed reason for holding back action on the Fordney tariff measure, and that it is to be kept in the background, with as little further discussion as possible, until after the conference on the limitation of armament has been concluded.

The president, having called the convention and issued the invitations to the other powers to join in it, naturally does not want to have it fail, but he must have some more effective method of bringing about agreement to his views on the limitation of armament than the mere invitation to assemble here and discuss it. That the tariff bill is to be the club which will be swung over the heads of European delegates to the conference on arms is the expressed view of many persons here.

The proposition, as stated by persons who hold to this belief, is that the house tariff bill will be kept in the finance committee of the senate, which will proceed to tear it to pieces and make a different kind of a bill out of it, as soon as the tax bill is reported to the senate for consideration, and that the measure will not be passed in either shape until it is found out what Europe propose to do regarding armament.

Others Ridicule View.

This view is ridiculed by others, who assert that the proposed duties would amount to so comparatively little, in these days when business is calculated in billions, as to be of minor consequence to any or all European nations. It is pointed out that the total imports to the United States, if taxed an even 100 percent would not be so burdensome to Europe as to cause any complications, for importations have dwindled to a comparatively small figure. They hold that European nations are not very greatly interested in the tariff of the United States; but that it is he wages paid to our workmen, the conditions of labor and the freight rates which interest them for more than the tariff duties.

That the conference on the limitation of armament is to become more of a commercial and industrial gathering and result in some sort of an industrial and commercial understanding rather than one with regard to armaments is the view point of many persons here. And they are largely the persons who assert the belief that the tariff bill is to be held over the heads of the "disarmament conference" as a club to see that American rights are protected in whatever may be the outcome of the deliberations.

Regarded as Mercenary.

These persons are regarded as mercenary in their views, placing the dollars of trade above the protection of the world against wars. They are called "pessimistic" by the other class, who consider that great world service is to be rendered by the coming conference, through the removal of the burden of warfare.

"Idealists" is the term applied to this class by those who think the tariff of the United States and the trade agreements of the nations represented in the conference are of supreme importance and that their consideration will take precedence over that of world peace.

In the meantime preparations for the armament conference are proceeding; plans are being formulated for presenting to this conference a program for minimising armament; and the tariff bill is being held back. Whether there is any connection between its delay and the pushing of the other plans is a question on which Washington does not agree.

HERE'S CHANCE FOR FORD TO PROVE HE'S REAL RAIL WIZARD

Heavy black line running from Helena, Ark., to Joplin, Mo., shows route of Missouri & North Arkansas R. R.

DETROIT, Mich. Sept. 18.—Is Henry Ford a real rail wizard?

His friends assert that he is, and point to his feat in converting the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railway from a losing proposition into a profitable venture.

Most rail executives say that he is not, and declare that the D. T. & I. would still be a loser were Ford not able to divert a very large amount of his own freight business to that line.

Ford recently issued a statement in which he declared that the present prosperity of the D. T. & I. is mainly attributable to his business methods and not to the fact that he has diverted an important percenage of his freight business to his line.

Ford's right to be crowned railroad king being thus in dispute, his friends and enemies alike hope he will embrace the opportunity now offered him of taking over a western road that has gone into bankruptcy and that suspended operations on August 1.

The road is the Missouri & North Arkansas, 386 miles long, running from Helena, Ark., to Joplin, Mo. Representatives of towns along the line recently came to Detroit to urge Ford to take over and operate the road. The committee was promised that Mr. Ford would analyze all details of the proposition with a view to speedy action looking toward acceptance or rejection of the proposition.

Members of the committee said that they were much impressed with the remarkable results obtained by Mr. Ford in the Detroit, Toledo & Ironton railroad. They believe he can accomplish similar wonders with the western railroad. The M. & N. A. runs mostly through an agricultural region, serving no large industrial centers.

If Ford takes over the M. & N. A. it will not be possible for him to divert much of his own freight business to that line. Its success under this management would therefore mean a big triumph for him. On the other hand, if he should take over the road and fail to turn it into a money maker, much of the fame he has won through making a success out of the D. T. & I. would be lost.

COTTON HAS ACTIVE WEEK OF TRADING

By Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 18.—This was a week of declining prices in the cotton market, the highest levels being reached on the opening session and the lowest prices practically on the close of the closing session. From the highest to the lowest there was a fall of 199 to 313 points, October being the weakest month and losing about $16 a bale in its fall from Monday to Saturday. It closed at the lowest of the week at 17.90 cents a pound. At the highest of the week prices were 35 to 80 points over the close of the preceding week, at the lowest they were 164 to 235 points under. The close showed net losses of 162 to 235 points.

In the spot department middling lost 175 points in the net results, closing at 18.50 against 28.00 a year ago.

Liquidation of the long interest was responsible for most of the selling pressure of the week, although the market had to stand considerable hedge selling, and as the decline progressed, traders on the short side grew bolder and began to offer cotton in larger amounts. By most traders the decline was regarded as a natural reaction following a prolonged advance. Here and there during the week hard spots appeared but recoveries were not wide, especially after the middle of the week. On the opening session the market made its strongest bulge, rising four dollars a bale on the strongest months on the telegrams from Texas telling of the great damage to the crop in those sections of the state which felt the unprecedented rains of the preceding week.

The week was not without its bullish news but the market got little real support, even though crop accounts continued highly unfavorable and the government made the statement in its weekly review of the crop that in numerous counties of Georgia picking activity had been completed. Several private reports on the condition of the crop appeared the highest of which was 44.7 per cent of normal and which, it was claimed, included the damage done to the Texas crop by the storm of the preceding week. The lowest condition report was 38.5, indicating a crop of 6,400,000 bales, the lowest condition ever issued and the smallest crop in the memory of most brokers.

Much of the selling out on the up side was done because of uneasiness over the outcome of first notice day for October and this is expected to be a disturbing influence during the week to come. First notice day for October will be Monday, September 26, and there is much difference of opinion regarding the size of the tenders it will bring. In the close of this last week December was at a premium of 20 points over October, closing at 18.10.

YOUTHS FLEE AFTER AUTO COLLISION

Hastily jumping from the Buick car which they were driving when they collided with a touring car driven by Sam Kimberlin, local merchant, on the lower Holliday road between this city and the lake, two youths Sunday night ran from the scene of the accident and who last seen they were making a hasty retreat near the holliday creek.

The fact that the two youths abandoned the car immediately after the collision led to the conclusion by motorcycle officers McDonald and Newton that the car had been stolen. Both machines were badly damaged, one wheel being torn off the Buick. The other suffered damage to the frame and engine.

Several persons were in the Kimberlin car but none were injured. The officers arrived on the scene soon after the two youths driving the car had disappeared.

According to occupants of the other car the Buick machine coming in from the lake approached them driven by two youths at a high rate of speed. The collision it was said, occurred due to the failure of the Buick car to give the other car the proper share of the road.

Officers were investigating the case Sunday night but at an early hour this morning the identity of the two men and the ownership of the car had not been established.

GOLF SHOOTERS SPEND DAY IN DRIVING MATCH

By Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 18.—Driving contests and a team match occupied the golfers during the Sunday intermission in the national amateur golf championship of the St. Louis Country Club today, while the sixty four remaining contestants girded their loins for the grilling qualification test of 36 holes tomorrow to determine the 32 who will compete at match play for the rest of the week for the title now held by Chick Evans of Chicago. Champion Evans did not enter the stunts today, but many of the leading aspirants to his twice won crown were on the links. Robert T. Jones of Atlanta, who won the driving contest in which each performer drove three balls down a seventy-yard alley marked on the polo field in front of the club house. The Atlantan scored hits of 235, 260 and 218 yards, the wet field causing the balls to drop almost dead. Jones' average of 228, counting fractions of yards was 8 yards better than the second score shared by Bob Hunter of Los Angeles and W. F. McPhail of Boston.

The longest drive was made by Robert Gardner of Chicago, twice national champion, who sent the pellet 248 yards on his third attempt, after getting 215 on the first drive and topping the ball for 177 yards on the second. The second drive, for length was 241 2-3, made by H. R. Wenaler, a youthful player from Memphis and it was the first ball hit in the contest. The southern lad added 222 1-3 yards on his next attempt, but his long third went out of bounds. His average for the two good balls was 232.

Willie Hunter, British champion, scaffed his first drive, getting 191 yards, sliced his second for 208 yards and topped his third for only 145 yards.

Heavy rain last night and a cloudy sky today made the putting greens much slower than they were on Saturday when some of the players complained that approaches shots had to be cut extra hard to hold the green. The moisture, however, increased chances of muddy balls, which cost some of the players putts in the elimination rounds.

FILE CHARGES AGAINST TWO ON DRUG AC

In connection with investigation that have been conducted here for several days by Federal Narcotic Agent Brooks, working in conjunction with police officers, charges of having morphine in their possession were filed Sunday in federal court against L. Megan and George Withers, both of this city.

The two men were arrested Saturday by Brooks and Detectives Hawkins and Glenn of the police department and held for investigation. The federal charges were filed against the two men after a further investigation Sunday. One man arrested with Megan and Withers was released.

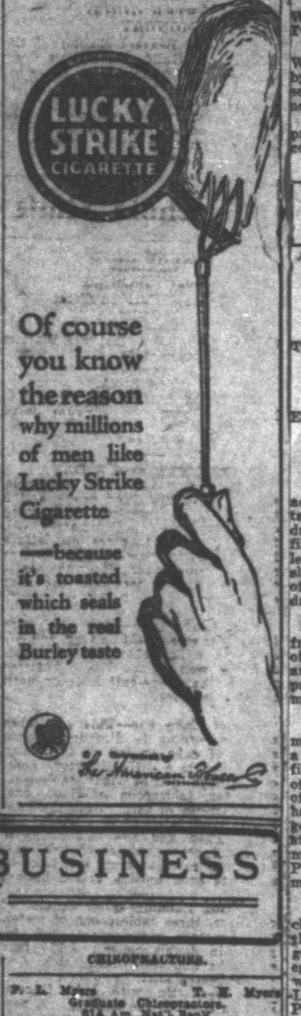

Although officers made no definite statement to that effect, it is understood that the investigations have led to the conclusion that morphine and other similar drugs are being used in this city and surrounding territory in unprecedented quantities. The two men arrested, according to the officers, had about $300 worth of morphine in their possession.

Agent Brooks left the city Sunday after filing charges against the two men. The men are held at the county jail and will have a preliminary hearing before United States Commissioner Lants today.

SMALLPOX IN CUBA REPORTED DECREASING

HAVANA, Sept. 18.—Smallpox cases in Cuba decreased in number from 305 on September 1 to 276 on September 10, it was officially announced at the national palace.

The number of cases reached 8,000 at one time during the epidemic but mortality has been exceptionally low

"MOVIE MAD" MUST PAY FOR STARS' PHOTOS

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—The axe of economy experts, which has been busy in all of the great motion picture studios here, has now fallen on "movie" fans scattered throughout the world.

The experts have figured out that a saving of from $850,000 to a cool million dollars can be effected for the studios and popular players if the fans are made to pay for photographs of stars.

It was learned that a movement to charge for photographs and donate the money, over the actual cost of making the pictures, to some needy cause had been very successfully tried out by Mary Pickford and a Hollywood photographer.

Many other film celebrities have indorsed the plan and are now co-operating.

Miss Pickford has been turning over the money received from the sale of her photographs to a Good Cheer fund for needy children, while other stars are swelling the coffers of a fund for aged mothers from the sale of their pictures. It is predicted by the managements of the leading studios that it is only a matter of time until all of the stars will enter into the new charitable picture distribution plan.

So next time you send for a free photograph of your favorite picture star don't be surprised if in return you receive a card which reads about as follows:

"Your letter asking for one of my pictures has just been handed to the committee selling my photographs for the benefit of the Aged Mothers' fund. There are numberless mothers who have sacrificed all their lives for their children and who find, as the end draws near, they have been too liberal with others at their own expense."

For some time a careful checking of the requests for photographs made from all parts of the world to stars and studios has shown in most instances the persons making the requests were attempting to make collections which would include all the leading players. Some of the persons writing have their appeals down to such a businesslike basis their letters are printed, the name of the player or studio being merely writtin in.

At many of the plants it has been customary for the stars to turn their letters over to studio attaches, and the pictures would be sent out at the expense of the studio managements. This has been especially the case where stars have been under contracts to a single producing organization.

The first day that Wallace Reid adopted the new plan three barrels filled with letters which had been sent to Reid were brought to his manager's office. Most of these letters made requests for photographs.

"I have spent a lot of time in answering mail from 'fans' for a number of years," said Reid to the correspondent. "I have put in many an afternoon trying to add a little sunshine to some lonely life by a little message of cheer. I have written these replies to 'fans' at times when I should have been out on golf links or in the sunshine recuperating from my long hours.

"I have in common with other widely-known players, come to the conclusion it is an injustice on the part of the public to expect studios or stars to pay out large sums annually to supply photographs free. Those who really want them will be glad to pay a small sum for the pictures if they know the excess above actual cost will go to a worthy charity."

the shroud will be replaced by an evening gown, said to have been fashioned by Miss Rappe and flowers, the gift of motion picture friends, will be placed in her hair and corsage.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—A. C. Arbuckle of San Francisco and W. H. Arbuckle of Fresno, brothers of the film star, visited him in his cell in the hall of justice here late today. They talked for half an hour.

Mrs. Roscoe Arbuckle, known professionally as Minta Durfee, is expected to arrive in San Francisco tomorrow from New York to assist in her husband's defense. According to word received here she stayed in Chicago ten hours last Friday looking up acquaintances of Miss Rappe.

The Arbuckles have been separated for about five years according to friends.

District Attorney Matthew Brady and his aides today visited the suite of rooms in the Hotel St. Francis where Arbuckle's party was held. The furniture, according to Brady, was arranged exactly as it was found when the suite was vacated.

Twin beds in the rooms which had been remade, were ordered disarranged by Brady. This was done by Mrs. B. M. Delmont, Miss Alice Blake and Miss Zeh Prevost, women members of the Arbuckle party. The beds were put in the same condition, the women said, as when they entered in response to Miss Rappe's cries.

Brady said he had gone to the hotel to "get the lay of the land."

Dr. Arthur Beardsley, house physician of the hotel, who was called to treat Miss Rappe at the party, telegraphed today that he was on a hunting trip in Mono county, California and had just learned that Arbuckle had been arrested. He said he would start for San Francisico immediately.

Upon information from Los Angeles that Lowell Sherman, film actor who attended the Arbuckle party, had left the city and started for the east, District Attorney Brady tonight telegraphed authorities at Salt Lake City and other cities to intercept and return him to San Francisco. Brady announced also that he had telegraphed the district attorney at Los Angeles to locate and place under surveillance Al Semnacher, Fred Fitschbach and Ira Fortlouis, members of the Arbuckle party.

Brady said he wished to have Semnacher, Fischbach and Fortlouis watched to prevent their leaving the jurisdiction of the California courts.

SHREVEPORT VOTE NOT REVEALED

SHREVEPORT, La., Sept. 18.—Results of the strike vote by local organizations of the big four railroad brotherhoods and shop crafts while the vote is about complete, have not been revealed. It is understood from unofficial sources, however, that the vote will be, in effect, solid to strike.

MODERNIST ART BRANDED DEGENERATE

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—Greenwich Village is rubbing its eyes.

Also the little Latin quarter over on the "left bank" of the East River—that is to say the artistic colony on Brooklyn Heights—is also pinching itself to make sure it's awake.

They have all been set by the ears. The artistic sanctum sanctorum of New York—the Metropolitan Museum of Art—has been denounced as a hotbed of Bolshevism.

Printed circulars, denouncing as "degenerate and pathological" the exhibition of modernistic art now on view at the Metropolitan have been going through the mail to a selected list of connoisseurs. Addressed by typewriter, and without return addresses, the pamphlets bear the printed signature, "A Committee of Citizens and Supporters of the Museum."

Condemning the exhibition as "entirely unworthy of the Museum," the "committee' characterizes in detail the pictures it deems offensive, "Vulgar in subject," "corrupt in drawing," "childish in conception" are the labels affixed to one group. "Simply pathological in conception, drawing, perspective and color," is another characterization.

According to the circular the Metropolitan is being made the tool of art dealers who want to "unload this rubbish on the public."

The trouble with modernism in general, and the Metropolitan's exhibition in particular, according to the pamphlet, is a combination of Bolshevism, commercialism and just plain insanity.

Deification of Ugliness.

"The world-wide Bolshevik propaganda," declares the brochure, "aims to overthrow and destroy all existing social systems, including that of the arts. This modernistic degenerate cult is simply the Bolshevik philosophy applied in art. The triumph of Bolshevism, therefore, means the destruction of the present aesthetic system, the transportation of all aesthetic values and the deification of ugliness. The philosophy of Bolshevism as applied to all channels of human action is the gospel of mental importance. Hence, the Bolsheviks would open the gates of the temple of art to the mentally lame, halt and blind of the human race.

Human Greed Factor.

The circular declare that the second force back of the modernistic movement in art is greed. The whole propaganda of this movement, it declares, was organized by European art dealers who had flooded the American market with French and Dutch pot boilers. But the real cult of modernism, the circular declares, began with a small group of neurotic egomaniacs in Paris who styled themselves worshippers of Satan, the God of Ugliness.

"The third moving force of modernism art is a well-known form of insanity," declares the committee.

YANK PROPOSALS INTEREST JAPS

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—The receipt of America's tentative proposal, upon which it is expected to build a definite program for the Washington conference in the limitation of armaments, has stimulated a new discussion and interest in the conference, which already is great. It is believed that the Japanese government is giving earnest consideration to America's ideas concerning China and Siberia and more especially to topics such as equal opportunity in commerce and industry, the general question of preferential economic rights and questions of concessions, monopolies and the extension of railways, including matters pertaining to the Chinese eastern railroad.

Dr. Knickerbocker Contrasts Old Gospel to Modern Theology

"Good news for Fatty Arbuckle, Henry J. Toussaint, et al," the title of the morning sermon by Rev. H. D. Knickerbocker, proved that of an earnest sermon contrasting the old gospel teachings with some of the substitutes of present day theologians, to the disadvantage of the latter. Dr. Knickerbocker brought out in his sermon, using these and other individuals for examples, that though apparently engulfed, yet the belief of the ancient gospel, which held out hope of unearned mercy and credit from God, offered them an escape which could come through no other means.

The fundamental worth of sentiment as consrasted to materialism was the main thought brought out by Dr. Knickerbocker in his final Sunday evening sermon at the open air tabernacle, corner of Eleventh and Scott streets Sunday night. In connection with his announced subject "A Dog Versus a Chicken" the pastor had a chicken and a dog brought to the platform at the beginning of his talk.

Questions by the pastor to men and boys in the audience brought out the fact that the former preferred to own the chicken while the latter showed a preference for the dog. The pure sentiments of childhood explained the preferences shown according to the pastor.

Taking his theme from this illustration the pastor spoke briefly from the words of the Apostle Paul, "I will stir up your pure minds by way of remembrance." The speaker spoke of the memories all men and women had of their childhood and the great influence they had on their lives in later years. Declaring that there was more of sentiment in these childhood days than materialism a too common characteristic of mature years the pastor ended with an appeal for a return to the ideals and sentiments of youth.

BIG AIR BAGS RELEASED FOR BENNETT CUP

By Associated Press.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 18.—Under intermittent showers and strong easterly winds the contestants in the balloon race for the James Gordon Bennett trophy left the ground this afternoon.

Up to midnight the Belgian aero club had no news of any of the balloons.

The big gas bags went away at intervals of ten minutes.

The wind was blowing between 30 and 40 miles an hour, giving the pilots considerable trouble, and Ushill, the Italian entrant, withdrew owing to damages to his balloon.

A thrill was lent the start by a soldier who was assisting in holding down the Belgian entrant, Belgica, became entangled in the ropes. He was unable to extricate himself and was carried aloft as the gas bag ascended. The spectators watched the soldier hanging to the rope, swaying in the wind, as Lieutenant De-Muyster and his companion in the basket slowly hauled him up to safety. The rescue was made just as the balloon disappeared in the clouds.

Owing to the direction of the wind, the aeronauts are likely to be carried over the English channel or the Atlantic ocean. Some of the experts think there is a possibility of the contestants landing either on the Cronwall, England, or Brittany coasts others believe that the gas bags may be driven as far north as Ireland. Fourteen balloons started in the race.

tentiary for more than a week.

Held Inquest

An inquest was held over Adkisson's body this afternoon and the coroner's jury recommended that Slaughter be held to the Jefferson county grand jury on a charge of murder.

At the penitentiary Slaughter is said to have remarked that he "expected to go to the chair" for the killing, but did not appear worried.

Only the loyalty of the small band of trusty guards is said to have prevented the escape of 200 or more convicts. According to prisoners, Slaughter's plan for escape provided for other convicts to rush the guards as he shot them, obtain the guards' guns and join him in the fight. The determined efforts of the guards and their rapid firing kept the other convicts corralled in the bath house.

CONDITIONS IN EUROPE IMPROVING

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—Signs of improved conditions in Europe are still few, according to the monthly summary of the economic and financial situation there, issued tonight by the commerce department on the basis of cabled reports from its foreign representatives.

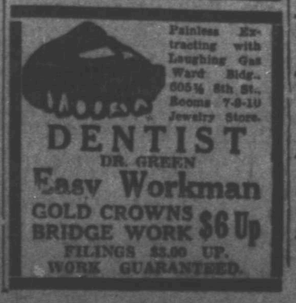

"There has been no very definite general alterations in conditions," the department said, "which would warrant the prediction of an immediate revival. Crop estimates in general are more encouraging than previous reports would indicate."

Taxation in Great Britain is the greatest impediment to a revival of business according to Commercial Attache Dennis at London.

While the recent place legislation in the United States has had no apparent influence on German business conditions in general, according to H. W. Adams, representing the department at Berlin the further depreciation of the mark has resulted in improved market values of cotton, potash, grain and metal products. Nevertheless, he asserted, the market is weak and speculation is on the increase.

The Austrian government's financial situation is critical, W. F. Upson representing the department at Vienna stated.

The commercial situation in Spain remains unchanged in that imports are increasing and exports decreasing. Commercial Attache Cuningham at Madrid declared. An increased number of sales, he said, are reported from Great Britain, France and Germany.

SMART FROCKS FOR EVERY HOUR

What is correct and smart for every hour of the winter day is very well shown in these three models pictured here. The morning frock, the afternoon gown and the dinner or dance frock are all represented here by exquisite little models from some of our country's leading makers. All of the frocks are notable for their simplicity are straight lines.

At the left is the afternoon gown made of black canton crepe trimmed with white self material embroidered in black. White binds the side panels which fall longer than the hem, forming the popular uneven bottom which is approved on most of the new dress frocks. The embroidered insets on these panels form the only decoration on the skirt and the embroidered cuffs form the only trimming on the plain blouse. The long, loose sleeves are shown on many of the newer models with pleasing effect.

The dainty dance frock in the center is also of black. Satin is the fabric while the sleeves, tiny gilet and tunic are made of all-over lace. Note the unusual idea of having wristlets which catch up the tunic.

The cloth frock for morning or informal wear, is shown at the right. It is fashioned of navy cloth banded in Karagulam, a fur fabric resembling caracul. A loose blouse, loose bell sleeves and lace vested are featured.

NEWS NOTES from MOVIELAND

Wallace Reid and his young son ready for their morning dip.

Can two geniuses exist in one family? The spotlight of public interest in this momentous question shifted from the Farrar-Tellegens in New York recently to the Wallace Reids here. The spotlight served to throw the home life of the Reids into strong relief against a dark background of rumors.

Just recently Mrs. Reid, known professionally heretofore as Dorothy Davenport, elected to return to the screen. She is playing opposite Lester Cuneo, a close friend of Wally's. This is the situation that started all the rumors about a divorce in the Reid family. The rumors have been vehemently denied by Mrs. Reid and her mother. The fact that she is taking another fling at pictures has nothing to do with the happiness of her family life, according to Mrs. Reid.

"Wally and I are as happy as we have always been," she declares. "I am even going to use my married name, Mrs. Wallace Reid, instead of Dorothy Davenport in my new picture which certainly is not indicative of a divorce."

During all the rumor Wally is having a fine time with Wally, Jr., playing about in the sand of the Reids own private swimming pool. The photograph shows young Reid in his swimming suit and if freckles mean anything in pictures he may be a second Wesley Barry. He resembles the fair Dorothy more than he does the debonair Wally.

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS

NED'S TELEGRAM

It was a very canny Cherry that suddenly decided not to telegraph her husband, in spite of her wild desire to do so. Far better to let her mother-in-law do all the mischief she wished, and then see how Ned would re-act to it. After all he was a man, and like most men despised intrigue and bickerings among the women of his family. Far cleverer for Cherry to stand pat, and refuse to throw any dirt, not matter what happened.

Mrs. Randall did send off a telegram to her son asking him to return as soon as possible, as things were at sixes and sevens without him and to please come at the earliest moment.

In return she received a curt one saying that he would return at the time he had stated to Cherry, and not before, and ended it by sending his love to Cherry.

Of course the astute lady said nothing of the contents of this wire to her daughter-in-law. She was too infuriated by it and at the thought that her son had got away from her early training, entirely. It was the first time he had refused to come to her call. Her power was certainly waning, and for all this she had Cherry to thank, a girl who had done nothing but cause disturbances ever since she had entered the family. Well, Ned would have enough of her and her ways before long. Then he would need his mother again. Only a mother could understand a son. It was always his mother that a man ran to when in deepest distress.

Of course she would scold him ever so gently when he did come to her, because of his folly in bringing home a girl like Cherry. By that time he would not mind her reminding him of the sort of person his wife really was. Ned, being young, would soon get over it and marry again, some sensible, home-loving girl, this time. And to this Mrs. Randall looked forward cheerfully.

It was totally by accident that Cherry discovered the contents of Ned's reply to his mother later on in the day. Mrs. Randall had left the telegram open on the mantel-piece in the library, and it was impossible not to read it in passing.

"Hurrah for Neddy," was Cherry's first thought. "Good boy. Didn't forget his girl even in this matter." And she put the yellow paper to her lips happily.

It was while she was reading it that Jane wandered into the room with a gleam in her eye.

"You busy, Cherry?" she asked.

"No," answered Cherry. "Anything I can do for you dear?"

"Yep, come up to my room and have a long talk. I'm just so moony I don't know whta to do. And mother's never a bit of good at these times. Always tells you how she used to act and think when she was a girl. That can't help me one little bit. But she doesn't seem to think so. They were all screaming about the write-up, just now, down to the drug store, Sis, but you should worry. At least you've shown them that you have the courage of your convictions. They are a lot of 'fraid cats, the women in Wellsburg, anyhow. I never could see how they managed to pass their time, they have to few real interests."

CONSTABLES FIND LARGE LIQUOR STILL

With a hot fire going and everything apparently in readiness to receive the liquor as fast as it was manufactured, a forty gallon still was confiscated about 10 o'clock Saturday night by Constable Frank Morgan and Deputies W. W. Belcher and W. A. Miles. Giving mute evidence of the haste with which the proprietors had left their still, on the approach of officers, a worn cap and pair of shoes were found nearby.

The still, for which Constable Morgan's force had been searching the surrounding hills for approximately a week, was located on the edge of a branch of the Big Wichita river, about seven miles west of Wichita Falls and about three-fourths of a mile from the river. The operators, apparently were using the stagnant branch water to manufacture their whiskey. The plant was so well hidden by shrubbery that even in broad day light it was not discernible at a distance of fifteen feet.

Slightly over a hundred gallons of corn mash were destroyed by the officers.

No liquor was found. The officers were of the opinion that the still had been only fired a few minutes before they discovered it.

TEARFULLY ADMITS WATERMELON THEFT

"I'll find my mother and she'll pay for every watermelon I ever did steal," was the tearful confession and promise of a nine-year-old urchin to Juvenile Officer Yates Sunday at the juvenile office.

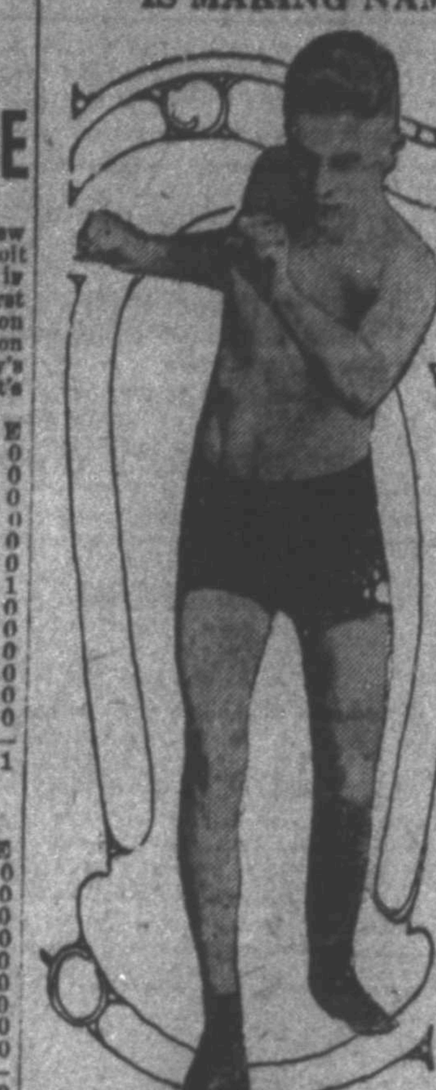

The boy and six youthful companions were arrested by police officers just as they were contemplating a successful raid on a watermelon patch near the Riverside cemetery. The boys were released by the juvenile officer after a lecture.

SPUDS WIND UP SEASON IN THIRD PLACE

FORT WORTH, Sept. 18.—Fort Worth won a farcical contest from Wichita Falls, winding up the season here this afternoon, 12 to 0. A field meet preceded the game. Rube Marshall, Spudder hurler, and Tiny Goodbred, the giant Cat moundsman, who are considered the two premier comedians of the Texas league, opposed each other on the mound in the late innings and threw the stands into convulsions with their comic antics in the box. Goodbred made his seventh hit of the season, a three bagger, in the eighth. Score:

MASS O'GOLD EARNS $10,000 AS FIVE-GAITED HORSE

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 18.—Mass O'Gold, a gelding, owned by W. L. Lewis, Tulsa, Okla., won the world's championship as a five-gaited saddle horse at the Kentucky state fair here yesterday. Eastern Star, owned by Charles L. Cook, Shelbyville, Ky., won the second prize and Mr. Lewis' Mare O'Violet Heming won third. The first prize was $10,000.

ALL-STARS WIN FIRST LEG ON CITY TITLE, BEATING UNIVERSITY CLUB 5 TO 3 IN FAST BATTLE

In a fast game featured by a number of spectacular fielding plays and a few excusable errors, the All-Stars grabbed the first leg on the city semi-pro baseball championship yesterday afternoon at Athletic Park, defeating the University Club nine 5 to 3. A crowd of more than 300 fans witnessed the game, and went away thoroughly satisfied with the brand of baseball exhibited. Both clubs fought hard to the final out in the ninth, and an eighth inning rally in which the University club team drove in three runs added considerable excitement to the pastime.

"Snipe" Conley and Beesley each hurled fine baseball, Beesley allowing 6 hits and Conley 7. The latter left the game in the seventh inning to make way for a pinch hitter, and Lynn Smith finished for the University club setting the All-Stars down in order in the eighth.

Bashara, University club shortstop was the shining light of the defense for his team, pulling two catches back of short that bordered on the sensational. Gordon, first sacker for the All-Stars, also turned in a pretty afternoon fielding record.

The All-Stars grabbed the first tally of the game in the second inning when W. Fowler led with a single to center field, went to second on a passed ball and scored on A. Fowler's single to left.

In the sixth the All-Stars collected two more, Gordon starting it with a center field single. Martin rolled one down the first base line, but Faichney's throw was too late to catch Gordon and both runners were safe. Cushman flied to Smith in deep center, both players advancing. W. Fowler smacked a single to center, scoring Gordon and Martin. Woods flied out to left, and Mooring struck out.

Two more runs trickled over the rubber for the All-Stars in the seventh. Neel flied to Bashara, who made a beautiful one-hand, running catch with his back to the ball, falling down but holding on to the pill. Beesley tripled to the left center field fence. Brooks hit to Jackson at second whose throw home was too late to nail Beesley at the plate. Brooks went to second when Conley and McClure got their signals crossed, and one of Snipe's shoots caught McClure in the meat hand. Gordon went out to Faichney unassisted. Martin singled to center, scoring Brooks. Cushman flied to Smith for the third out.

The University club collected their three runs in the eighth, when they landed on Beesley for four hits. Pete Fisher, batting for McNutt, singled sharply to center. On the hit and run, McClure doubled to center, scoring Fisher. Lynn Smith, batting for Conely, singled to deep short, putting McClure on third. Bashara flied to Cushman in right, McClure scoring after the catch and Smith going to third while Cushman held the ball. On a squeeze play, Smith scored and Carter beat out a bunt down the first base line. Walter Smith popped to Gordon, and Parker flied out to Woods in center.

Beesley steadied again in the ninth, however, and set the University club batters down in order.

The second game of the series to decide the city championship will be played at Athletic park next Sunday.

WISDOM and WORSE

By C. F. C.

"The tumult and the shouting dies,"
As Brother Kipling said;
The blessed Spudders finished third,
Now let's go back to bed.

At that, we'd rather be Walter Salm right now than Roy Ellam, Pat Newman, Johnny Nee, Billy Smith or Ham Patterson.

It was a wonderful fight while it lasted—but, say, it didn't end right a-tall; the Spudders slipped on the old banana peel, and we didn't sell enough of our books o' baseball verse to get that vacation. (Ah, well, business of yawning in a bored manner life is filled with them there darn upsets, reverses and disappointments. We can stand it if the rest of you can!

That was a darn good game the All-Stars and University Club put up at the Spudders' ball lot yesterday as an opener to the series for the city semi-pro championship. Texas league teams have played a good many games in that same park that were not one-half as interesting or as well played.

The California winter league this year is going to be a regular vest pocket edition of the majors. Ty Cobb will manage the San Francisco club; George Sisler is slated to pilot the Vernon team; Rogers Hornsby has landed the job of bossing the Los Angeles Angels, and Harry Heilman will have the reins in Oakland. It's a great life some of those boys lead, socking the apple the year 'round.

Carter Elliott, who recently went to the Chicago Cubs from the Yakima club of the Pacific International league, is another player that Ham Patterson might have developed, and from whom Ham might have made a wad of mazuma — but Patterson couldn't see Elliott for some freak reason. For that matter, Elliott is only one of many good men that Ham Pat has passed up at various times.

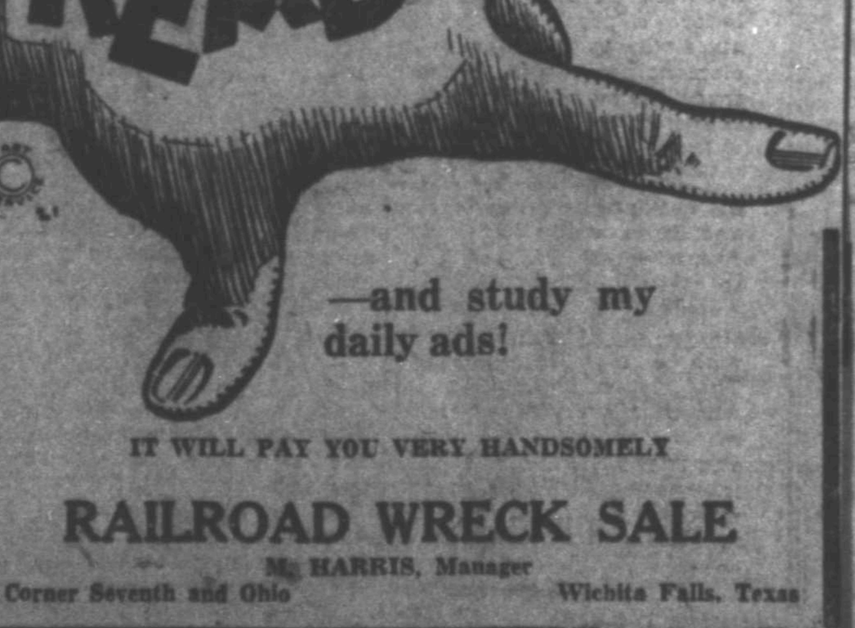

Elliott sought a chance with the Dallas club in 1919 as shortstop. Patterson gave him a brief workout, and he looked like a million dollars to Dallas sport scribes and to the Dallas fans. But Ham turned him adrift—and last year he played sensational ball in the California winter league and was recommended to a number of major league scouts. Last spring the Seattle club sent him to Yakima, and with the latter team he hit .360, established a reputation as a daring base runner and had a beautiful fielding record. Now he's with the Cubs.

Despite the see-saw status of the American league race, more applications have been received for world series tickets than the Cleveland club can allot, according to a recent statement by E. S. Barnard, business manager of the club. Those Cleveland fans sure don't intend to weaken. The Indians have a loyal home bunch pulling for 'em, and believing in 'em.

How do you feel about it, Cecil O'Hara? Ready to flip a coin for that pair of new dogs yet?

"The tumult and the shouting dies,"
As we remarked above;
Now let's discuss some other game
Like shooting craps—or love!

THE WONDERFUL YOHO VALLEY

GLACIER NEAR EMERALD LAKE

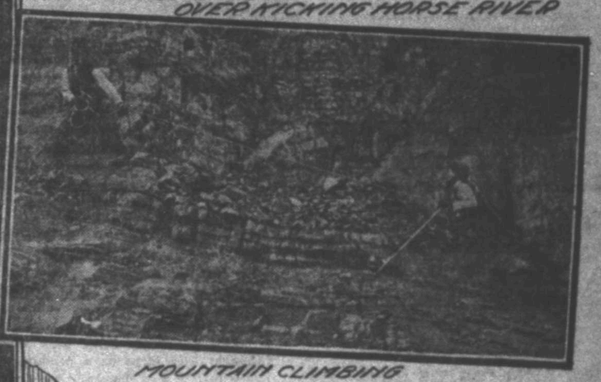

ENTRANCE TO SPIRAL TUNNELS

LAUGHING FALLS

NATURAL BRIDGE OVER KICKING HORSE RIVER

MOUNTAIN CLIMBING

Playground in Northwest Canada a Never Ending Treat for the Tourist—Beautiful Lakes and Falls —Mountains and Valleys On Every Side.

BY KATHERINE LOUISE SMITH

DID you ever hear of the Yoho Valley? If you are a hunter you may have heard of its grizzly bears, its Rocky Mountain goat, its black bears and porcupines. If you are a mountaineer you may have climbed some of the nearby Rockies, if you are an American trotter which is much more fashionable than being a globe trotter you may have visited this Valley of the Ice Gods in our storied Northwest where the mountains, glaciers and forests seem a picture of unending and changing masses of color. But only of late years has this Valley been opened to those who enjoy impenetrable silences and falls that dash from the heights of the Rockyland. The Yoho Valley is in the Canadian Northwest, in that land of the trail hills which since Captain Vancouver sailed from England and left his name on an island on the Canadian Coast has always fascinated.

Alexander Mackenzie was one of these who pushed his way up to the Arctic by means of streams—one stream bears his name today—and fascinating, alluring stories could be told of the Scottish Chief Factor of this region of the early voyageurs. Even today Northwestern Canada has been barely touched. Its panorama of mountains, lakes and glaciers are known to few East of the Mississippi. It is well worth a visit for there are few places like Banff, Lake Louise, Field and Glacier and just out of Field is the glorious Yoho Valley, an important addition to the Canadian National Park area. It is eight miles one way and thirty-two miles the other way and on the British Columbia side of the Rockies.

A Beautiful Valley

The Yoho Valley is considered by ambitious mountaineers one of the most beautiful valleys in the world. It is reached by a trail that skirts Mt. Burgess and near its entrance is Emerald Lake. The drive from Field to Emerald Lake is through some of the wildest scenery on this continent. The road crosses the Kicking Horse River—so called because an early prospector was thrown from his horse—and leads through a forest of fir and balsams. This ride down Snow Peak avenue is but a prelude to the grandeur of Emerald Lake and the Yoho Valley. It takes a couple of hours after leaving Field to pass over this route which in places is so constructed that there is a mile straight as an arrow, with a vista of sky and snow capped mountain at the end—a sight seen nowhere else save in Switzerland.

Down by the side of the trail, embowered in spruce and pine, the Kicking Horse River dashes, in one place crossed by a Natural Bridge of sandstone formation. Once the water dashed over the bridge and fell in falls below but today Nature has constructed a bridge on which one can stand and watch the water run madly underneath. At the end of this trail is Emerald Lake, a bluish-green body of water, delicately tinted as are all mountain lakes, and reflecting the white mountains that border its sides. It is the entrance to the enchanted Yoho and around it stand guard the Emerald and Ottertail Range and Mt. Burress.

Highest Falls In America

The enthusiastic mountaineer lingers only long enough to rest and pushes on with his little pony. Slowly he jogs his way to Yoho Pass—altitude 6,000 feet. What he is pressing on to see is Takkakak Falls, the highest known cataract in America. Fourteen hundred feet they fall, with a roar that deafens, with a volume of spray that fills the canyon, straight from a glacier that scintillates in the sun. These falls are six miles from Emerald Lake.

Some persons go only as far as the Takkakak Falls and are content but the real mountaineer has his appetite whetted by the glaciers, lakes and mighty peaks that he has seen on the way and he eagerly hits the trail again and pushes on to Laughing Falls, which have a leap of only two hundred feet, but which look milk white against the evergreen background. Another stop here, and the pony again takes up the burden and carries the mountaineer to Twin Falls, two separate cascades that leap side by side. But these beautiful falls of the Yoho are by no means the only attractions, for there are Prentiss Glacier and the Waputik ice field and the Yoho Glacier, one of the most beautiful of the Canadian Rockies gems. This glacier is at the end of the Valley and well repays the two days trip for it ends in a beautiful arch of ice from which the stream gushes with great violence.

Hunting Forbidden

Hunting is forbidden in the Yoho Valley, but just outside the Park the Canadian Rockies is an ideal field. Brown bears live in these mountains, and Rocky Mountain goats have their home here. The Rocky Mountain goat is the most daring of mountain climbers and this coat is white, soft and fluffy. He climbs steep precipices and like the Big Horn or Rocky Mountain sheep is considered a valuable prize for the sportsman. Both of these animals can be seen in the Yoho Valley slowly threading their way on precipitous cliffs and as the vigilance of both is most wary they seldom approach the lower ground. Moose and caribou are found in the open stretches and an occasional grizzly is seen.

The Yoho Valley and other parts of the Canadian Rockies show some of the most stupendous forces of Nature because the high mountains rise from valleys and not from plateaus. For instance, Mt. Victoria, near Lake Louise, is 11,355 feet above the sea and 5,650 feet above the valley and near Emerald Lake and the Yoho Valley there are seven high mountains, which are from 8,000 to 10,000 feet above the sea and 4,000 to 5,000 feet above the valley.

Among the Movie Stars

MABEL BALLIN

LOUISE GLAUM AND DONALD MAC DONALD IN "GREATER THAN LOVE"

ROD LA ROCQUE

SHIRLEY MASON AND RAYMOND MCKEE IN "LOVETIME"

CONSTANCE TALMADGE IN "UP THE ROAD WITH SALLIE"

EDITH STOREY AND PELL TRENTON IN "THE GREATER PROFIT"

JIMMY AUBREY IN "THE RIOT"

"Greater Than Love"—Mabel Ballin—"Lovetime"—Constance Talmadge—"The Greater Profit".

THE outstanding feature of "Greater Than Love" is its message. The Faith of the Mother in the play transcends all loves—the love of self, the love of dress and the love of love.

Louise Glaum appears as the unregenerate, the unbeliever whose heedlessness and selfishness disappear before a great love which, in turn, gives way to the "Greater Than Love" element personified by frail Miss Gertrude Claire the mother and which is shown to be Faith.

"The Journey's End"

"The Journey's End" tells the story of a young girl delicately nurtured and bred who leaves a convent in Rome, where she has been educated, to make her home with an uncle in America. Through force of circumstance she is forced into a marriage with a man infinitely her inferior. Then, when finally she meets a man who is in every sense of the word her mate, conditions become intolerable and she leaves her husband. How Fate intervenes to straighten out the tangle makes one of the most gripping, forceful stories ever flashed upon the silver-sheet.

"Lovetime"

The romance of "Lovetime" begins when an artist of noble birth, wandering into a village of Savoy under an assumed name, paints the portrait of a little peasant maid whose beauty has attracted him. The scene shifts to Paris, whither she goes to escape the attentions of an aged Don Juan and where she earns a living by her ability as a singer and dancer. The young artist follows her—so does the aged Don Juan—his uncle. The latter enlists the co-operation of the artist's aristocratic mother to prevent a union of the loving pair, and difficulties thereupon are erected. But all comes right in the end, of course.

"Up The Road With Sallie"

The story concerns a number of irresponsible young relatives who, at a given time have to account for the several ways in which they have employed five thousand dollars. The one who has put his initial bequest to best use will receive the bulk of a large estate. How Sallie, her initial five thousand dollars in hand, kidnaps her own aunt, bumps into a house infested by "burglars," is herself mistaken for a crook, is quarantined for smallpox, and finally falls prey to the very game which she herself is playing, make a fast moving screen story in which countless laughs are punctuated with a few sighs and many tense moments.

"The Riot"

Jimmy Aubrey in his latest comedy, "The Riot," undertakes to play the part of a Sir Gallahad—a rescuer of forlorn dames. His sweetheart and her tearful mother are about to be ejected from their humble home because they cannot meet the rent bill. Jimmy is penniless but his soul is afire with intentions. The landlord shall not pass the doorsill of his beloved's domicile! But unfortunately for Jimmy's Gallahad pretentions, the landlord is a veritable Goliath while Jimmy is not cast of an heroic mould. His most ferocious weapon is a twitching moustache. Jimmy, however, meets the issue and proves a modern David. He not only saves the girl but receives a reward in good old coin of the realm which is a fitting ending to a story of modern days when "Cush" is king.

"The Greater Profit"

The story of "The Greater Profit" is highly dramatic, revolving about a young girl of high ideals and her experiences in the underworld where she is compelled by circumstances to live among criminals and other undesirables. Fate, however, brings about her regeneration and there is a delightful touch of romance to leaven the stronger moments in which the production abounds.

HOW LONG CAN WE STAND IT?

German indemnity trade menace is showing some astounding developments in a situation where excessive American production and handling costs make it impossible for our goods to sell in markets which naturally belong to us, editorializes the New York Herald.

Example No. 1: A New York exporter found he could no longer bid low enough with American products to hold his business in San Juan, Porto Rico, although he had the benefit of no tariff duties in Porto Rico on his American goods, while other countries must pay the Porto Rico tariff. So he bought the goods in Germany, shipped them from Hamburg, paid the freight from Hamburg, paid the Porto Rico duty and got into San Juan with his German goods at a low enough price to hold his business—to Germany's gain.

Example No. 2: A New York exporter could make at this port for shipment to Santiago, Cuba, a price on a certain article to beat slightly the German price at Hamburg of a similar article seeking export markets. But an ocean freight rate all the way from Hamburg to Santiago, Cuba, could be negotiated so much lower than the freight rate for the shorter distance from New York to Santiago that the New York exporter to hold his Santiago business was compelled to buy in Germany and deliver from Hamburg to his Santiago customers. He kept his business, but the United States lost it.

Example No. 3: A New York broker, unable to deliver a certain quality of newsprint paper in Portland, Oregon, because of the shipping costs from our Pacific seaboard through the Panama Canal, discovered that he could buy the paper in Germany and ship it all the way to Portland, Oregon, through the Panama Canal for less than half the freight charge from the American Atlantic port to the American Pacific port. So he filled the order with the German product bought and delivered from Hamburg. And not the least interesting feature of this incident is the fact that the same steamship company did the carrying for him from Germany to Oregon through the Panama Canal for less than one-half what it wanted for doing the carrying for him from our Atlantic seaboard to our Pacific seaboard.

The German indemnity is being paid, but on such a basis how long can we stand it? How long can the allies, who are getting the indemnity but also getting the trade loss that we are getting, stand it?

BACK TO NORMAL.

Furniture has dropped more than any other article except food, and was only 1 per cent higher than that article June 14, according to the report of the Federal Reserve agents of New York city, says the July issue of the Grand Rapids Furniture Record, the leading retail furniture magazine of the country.

The following percentage of decline during 1921 for all commodities listed were as follows: Groceries, 49 per cent; furniture, 48 per cent; women's shoes, 43 per cent; men's shoes, 38 per cent; cotton dress goods, 36 per cent; women's suits, 34 per cent; silk hosiery, 33 per cent; men's suits, 30 per cent; china, 24 per cent; pianos, 16 per cent.

At the July markets held in Grand Rapids, Chicago and High Point, N. C., during July, furniture prices reached the lowest level in five years, dropping back to almost pre-war figures. It is doubtful, says the Record, whether furniture will remain at this level as lumber is advancing and other materials have reached rock bottom and are certain to rebound soon to some extent. Furniture probably will be stabilized, it is asserted, at 33 1-3 per cent below 1920 prices.

Navarro county gins have ginned 10,000 bales of cotton this year as compared with 6,000 bales ginned to September 1, 1920. Fortson Brothers of Rice in that county sold 15,000 bales of the crop of 1920 for $100,000 in cash. All this cotton will be manufactured in the United States and some of it goes to Texas mills. Cotton is moving.

Mayor Walker Sayle of Breckenridge resigned and his successor was elected by the city commissioners. Sayle hadn't the time to serve the people. He is a banker, a landed proprietor and an oil man and was the first mayor of Breckenridge. A man who had made his pile should be willing to give a little of his time to the public service "but it is none of our business."

Mexico has stopped hunting until next January. If Texas would stop hunting for five years there would be plenty of game in the good old state.

ARCHER WALL DOUGLAS' REVIEW

A nation-wide survey of prevailing crop and business conditions gives us definite knowledge upon which to base our conclusions as to the probable trend of things in the immediate future, writes Archer Wall Douglas.

The story is much the same everywhere: A partial and unequal harvest; plentiful returns in close juxtaposition with parched and burnt up fields; both prices and demand for farm products that are far from satisfactory to the producers. Yet these same products are seeking a market wherever they can find it that the obligations of the farmers may be discharged. There is an abundance of food stuff in the country despite small yields in some grains.

An enormous inflow of wheat to market indicates that there is nothing to that old stuff about farmers holding back supplies artificially to force up the price. Likewise that there is more wheat in the country than official figures declare.

One matter is most apparent in the horoscope of the future. The measure of the volume of business and of our commercial welfare hangs upon the demand for farm products and their consequent prices for the year. All other "barometeries" are as nothing by comparison, and can be relegated to the scrapheap. Fortunately at this writing, Europe is importing largely of our grains and the exports of cotton from July 1st to date are more than double those for the same period of last year.

Cotton, as usual, has done the unexpected. Sustained higher prices mean an amount of business in the south that can come from no other cause. Nor does it seem likely that there will be that fatal and futile holding of cotton for impossible higher prices that characterized the previous season. The memory of that desperate mistake and its enduring consequences are too recent to bring its repetition.

One possibility is at least worthy of passing thought. If there be a demand of any amount, both foreign and domestic, from now on, and this at least seems likely, the greater portion of the carry-over of cotton in this country will have been practically used up by July of next year.

With general business and readjustment on an ascending scale, both at home and abroad, we shall be facing a situation where the greater part of the world's supply of cotton will depend upon the growing crop in this country.

What such a contingency means to the prosperity of the South sounds too optimistic to put in cold print.

Already the new phase of the situation finds expression not only in widespread more cheerful feeling in the cotton belt, but also in somewhat freer buying. This is true likewise in the grain regions where farmers are liberally marketing hogs, wheat and corn.

The commercial world will not reap as much benefit from this as surface indications seem to promise. For a very considerable proportion of the money the farmers receive for their products will go to settling the obligations carried over and the banks will get their's first, and they are past masters in this art. In some sections where banks and dealers have been satisfied there will not be much left for the farmers for new purchases. Yet when all has been said the situation will be far better than at present.

CHILD HEALTH CONFERENCES

Child Health Conferences will be held in various communities throughout the state at their request this fall under the auspices of the home economics extension department of the University of Texas. Miss Jean Pinckney has charge of this work and will leave immediately to visit a group of towns, where conferences will be held during the next few weeks. Child health conferences will be held by Miss Pinckney in Brownwood, Wichita Falls, Burkburnett, Iowa City, Electra, Clarendon and Panhandle.

Miss Pinckney's work is with children of the pre-school age, from six months to seven years. The purpose, she says, is to see that children are in proper physical condition before they enter school. Each child is given a thorough physical examination by dentist, specialist, and physician, and permanent health record is presented to the children examined. Follow-up work will be done in these places, since there is already a county health nurse located in each of the places scheduled for conferences.

Traveling expenses for this work are furnished by the extension department of the University, but local entertainment is provided by the towns benefited. Various civic and health organizations in the different places are responsible for securing such child health conferences.

EXPORTS SHOW INCREASE

Exports of wheat and flour advanced sharply during August as compared with July, according to foreign trade reports issued by the Commerce Department. Cotton exports declined somewhat.

Wheat exports for August totaled 59,000,000 bushels, valued at $81,000,000, as compared with 25,000,000 worth $37,000,000, in July. Flour exports for the month aggregated 1,873,000 barrels, worth $12,000,000 as against 1,286,000 barrels valued at $9,000,000 in July.

Cotton exports for August aggregated 495,000 bales valued at $30,000,000 as compared with 527,000 bales worth $32,000,000 inJuly.

Exports of all breadstuffs during August aggregated $114,000,000 as compared with $63,000,000 in July, and for the eight months' period the total was $566,000,000, as compared with $635,000,000 during the first eight months of last year.

Mineral oils exported in August aggregated 287,000,000 gallons, valued at $26,000,000, as against 183,000,000 gallons, worth $21,000,0000 in July.

Meat and dairy products exported in August came to $35,000,000, as against $32,000,000 in July.

COLD WEATHER COMING

According to Joseph L. Cline, meteorologist, United States weather bureau a change to cooler weather often extends southward over Northern Texas during the middle, or latter part of September, but freezing temperatures generally do not occur until well into October, and in some years freezing temperatures do not occur this far south until in the month of November. About one year in four there are no freezing temperatures this far south during the month of November, but it is rare when a December passes without freezing temperatures.

"After the advent of the fall rains, or the first cool wave, the nights generally remain cool, but day temperatures of 90 degrees or above occasionally occur during October, and temperatures of 80 degrees or above frequently occur as late as November, and such temperatures have occurred in December.

It is impossible at this time to foretell just when the first freezing temperature will occur this fall over Northern Texas, but weather bureau records show the average date of the first killing frost in the autumn varies from October 25 in the northern portion of the cotton area, to December 1 in the extreme Southern portion of the district.

The frost date line of November 1 runs across Central Oklahoma and Arkansas, North-Central Mississippi, Alabama, Georgia, Northern South Carolina, and East-Central North Carolina. Ten days later killing frosts occur on an average in North-Central Texas, extreme Southern Oklahoma, North-Central Louisiana, South-Central Mississippi, Alabama and South Carolina, Central Georgia, and to the Southern limit of the cotton area in Eastern North Carolina.

By November 20 the average killing frost line advances south nearly as far as Austin, Texas; Baton Rogue, La.; extreme Southern Alabama, Southern Georgia and South Carolina, while by December 1 killing frosts on an average occurs well to the southern limit of the cotton belt.

Rippling Rhymes

DELIBERATION

The things we do in foolish haste make heart and conscience sore; rash impulse causes half the waste that prudent men deplore. Like autumn leaves the money flies, because the joyous skate won't ask himself, "Now, is it wise, this splurge I contemplate? Oh, shall I blow this bundle lank, I've earned by labors hard, or put it safely in the bank, where moth and rust are barred?" He won't sit down and view his wad, and think how much it cost, the strain that bends his shoulders broad, the efforts that exhaust. He won't call in his wife and aunt, their counsel wise to win; he'd think it was some sort of plant if those girls butted in. Oh, oftentimes I am impelled to seek the marts of trade, where bargain counter sales are held, and blow the coin I've made. But long ago I made a rule to think such yearnings o'er; and in a day said yearnings cool, and I am sane once more. Today I'd buy the car that flies our gasping village through, tomorrow morn I'll realize that my old boat will do. It's impulse leads the boys astray; the rash and thriftless gink should buy himself a bale of hay, and sit on it, and think. And he should think how foolish 'tis to waste the hard-earned bones, while foolish spenders round him whiz, and yonder papuer groans.—Copyright by George Matthew Adams.

GREEKS FIGHT FOR OTTOMAN EMPIRE POWER

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 18.—Because the Turkish nationalists, rebelling at the Treaty of Sevres, which stripped the old Ottoman empire to the bone, and the Greeks, who profited heavily by the document, are fighting it out in the near East, the Black Sea and its gates again are a field of world events.

The treaty which practically ended Turkish power in Europe, made an entirely new entity known as the Zone of the Straits out of the narrow waters that separate Europe and Asia Minor—the Dardenelles, the Sea of Marmora and the Bosporus—and their shores. Over this was placed an international commission. The door which had so long been kept closed by the Turks when they desired, to the detriment of commerce was to be flung wide open to permit the passage of ships of trade or war belonging to any nation. That this has already been accomplished in a measure is shown forcibly by recent dispatches stating that Greek warships—barred from the Black Sea since the prosperous days of Byzantium—are again sailing its waters and have shelled towns held by the rebellious Turks.

Road to the Golden Fleece.

For thousands of years history and tradition have been busy about this chain of waters, from the mouth of the Dardenelles at the tip of the Gallipoli peninsula to the point nearly two hundred miles to the northeastward where the narrow Bosporus susck its mighty scream from the Black Sea. Tradition has it that Jason and his fellow searchers for the golden fleece passed through the straits, and later hardy Greek ... and colonists, and after them Romans and Genoese, built ... on their shores and established over their waters the world-important trade routes of their days.

The Dardenelles, or Hellespont as the Greeks called it, is the longer of the two great salt-water rivers that separate Europe from Asia Minor. It winds its way from the Aegean Sea with two sharp turns and numerous gentler curves for forty miles before it expands into the Sea of Marmora, the Grecian Propontis. The strait varies in width from a little more than three-fourths of a mile to five miles. On the European sides rises the steep ridge of Gallipoli where so many Australians and New Zealanders perished while seeking to seize the Dardanelles. On the Asiatic side lies the plain in which stood old Troy.

"The Sea of Cities."

"The Sea of Marmora, from which the Hellespont leads, is about 140 miles in length and forty miles wide at its greatest width. It is thus somewhat smaller than Lake Ontario, the smallest of our Great Lakes. But though relatively small, the Marmora in its time has been center of the world. Probably about no other body of water of such size have so many important cities stood. Of these, Constantinople alone is of importance today; but living and dead cities cover the shores of practically every harbor and headland of the little sea. The settlements that still exist are not even the heirs of the great cities of yesterday, but rather ill-kempt interlopers that under Turkish domain occupied their sites.

Typical of the ancient Marmora cities was Cyhicus on the peninsula of that name on the southern shore of the sea. It was founded earlier than Rome or Byzantium and had a long life, possessed at various times by Athens, Sparta, Persia, Macedon, Pergamus and Rome. It was one of the finest of ancient cities in its prime and its gold coins were the standard of their day, as the florins of Florence became the standard in renaissance times. But when Byzantium, thanks largely to its incomparable location on the Bosporus, rose to power, the glories of Cyzicus faded. Today practically nothing is left of the once great city. Its buildings were not left to fall; they were torn by Byzantines and after them by Turks and the stones used in the construction of the latest and still flourishing metropolis of the straits.

Gate to Heart of Europe.

Though it is both narrower and shorter than the Dardenelles, the Bosporus third link in this chain of historic waters, is perhaps most important; for it is the immediate gate to and from the great Black Sea, which reaches toward the heart of Europe. To command this strait is to command one of the great trade routes of the world, a fact which has been written deeply into history from from the days of the early Greeks to those of the waning Turks. The strait is about twenty miles long and varies in width from a third of a mile to two miles. Darius, Persian king, who invaded Europe, took his army over a bridge of boats which he had constructed across the Bosporus.

At its northern end the Bosporus expands suddenly into the Black Sea. This is no small sea comparable to one of our Great Lakes, but a great body of water 750 miles long and 200 to 400 miles wide. If located in the northeastern portion of the United States it would cover all of the New England states as well as New York and Pennsylvania.

Touched by Many Nations.

More nations are now grouped around the Black Sea than perhaps at any other time in history. On the European side of the mouth of the Bosporus is the tiny patch that remains of Turkey in Europe. Next comes the new northern extension of Greece. Bulgaria and Rumania share the western end of the sea, Rumania holding the lion's share. Across the north stretches the old Russian territory which may contribute one or many nations to the Black Sea family. To the east, their status equally questionable, the republics of Georgia and Armenia have a Black Sea shore line, at least on paper. The whole of the rocky southern shore was allotted by the peace conference to Turkey.

But it is not only the countries which have a Black Sea frontage that are interested in that sea and its outlets to the south. The broad, navigable Danube carrying the commerce of inland Austria, Czecho-Slovakia, Hungary and Juzo Slavia to ... tlements in regard to this broad expanse of water a matter of vital interest to a large part of Europe.

A large crowd was observed hovering around the front of the store at Bounding Billows, this morning. The Depity Constable, being always on the alert, hurried to the scene to find that the excitement was caused by the arrival of a bunch of bananas.

This community was aroused from its slumbers last night when a fusillade of shots rang out on the still night air. The noise was traced to the home of Fletcher Henstep, who had put in too much sugar and corked it too tight.

The barber shop at Bounding Billows has added a last week's daily paper to its reading department.

Breakfast Stories

A couple of negroes were digging a hole in hard ground under a sidewalk. One, down in the half finished hole, held a small iron pipe upright, upon the end of which the other pounded with a large sledge in order to loosen the dirt.

The sledge wielder swung the heavy tool rather recklessly, and it looked as though he might miss at any moment and strike his companion's head, just below. A passing white man cautioned: "Better be more careful, Tom, or you'll bring that sledge down on Andy's head."

"All right boss," replied the sledge swinger, seriously. "Ah'll be more careful; dis am de only sledge we got."

Bishop Bratton, at a dinner in Jackson, Michigan, was genially patronized by a millionaire.

"I never go to church," the millionaire said. "I guess you've noticed that, bishop?"

"Yes, I have noticed it," said Bishop Bratton, gravely.

"I guess you wonder why I never go to church, don't you?" the millionaire pursued. "Well, I'll tell you why, bishop. There are so many hypocrites there."

"Oh, don't let that keep you away," said Bishop Bratton, smiling. "There is always room for one more."

An old colored mammy came in for her monthly allowance. As she could not write, she made her mark. Previously, she had always made an X, but on this occasion she made a circle.

"Why, Linda," said the man in charge, "why don't you make an X as usual?"

And Linda replied earnestly: "Why, I done went and got married yesterday and changed my name."

Who's Who

WADE H. ELLIS.

Attorney General Daugherty intends to resign his office soon and launch an active campaign for the Republican nomination for U. S. senator in his home state of Ohio, according to a recent dispatch from Washington. The same dispatch also states that Wade H. Ellis, from Ohio, stands the best chance of succeeding Daugherty as attorney general in case the latter resigns.

WADE H. ELLIS

Ellis, who is a close personal friend of the president, served as attorney general of Ohio at the time President Harding was lieutenant governor. During the Taft administration h. served as assistant to the attorney general of the United States and as such was the official "trust buster." He is a citizen of Ohio, maintaining law offices there as well as in Washington. The fact that Mr. Daugherty is from Ohio and that Mr. Harding might find it desirable to name his successor from the same state gives added significance to the possibility of Mr. Ellis's selection.

Mr. Ellis was born at Covington, Ky., on the last day of December, 1860. He graduated from Washington and Lee University in 1880 and was admitted to the bar the following year. He was editor of the Cincinnati Commercial Tribune, 1893-7; attorney general of Ohio, 1904-8; assistant U. S. attorney general, 1908 and 1910.

in summer and mud bogs in winter. All this has passed away. Texans have thousands of cars today. Cars are found everywhere in country and town. With the coming of the car the road builder became very much in evidence and since 1905 there has been a revolution in public sentiment in Texas. Now all the progressives are road builders and when H. N. F. speaks of progressives he has in mind a large army of farmers and stockmen who vote for every road proposition that is offered. Now why should the tourists in all the old south states east of the Mississippi river go to the Rocky Mountains and the Pacific coast overland every summer by way of Louisville, St. Louis, Kansas City and Cheyenne? Why shouldn't they cross Louisiana and make the trip via the Colorado to the Gulf Highway and on through Ratoon Pass to the golden coast of California? They take the northern route because they have not been educated to the superior advantages, in summer or winter, of the southern route. They do not know that in the winter time they can cross the mountain ranges and speed onward to southern California. It is a matter of publicity and the organizers and promoters of the Colorado to the Gulf Highway knew that the people east of the river had to be educated when they launched which has been a success thus far. David P. Talley, a former citizen of Wichita Falls, dreamed the dream. No one wishes to rob him of the honor. Speakers at the luncheon reminded those present that the idea first found root or was conceived in the brain of a citizen of Wichita Falls and David P. Talley was its creator. It is related that away back in the ages of the Ceasars, when Rome had vanquished all her powerful enemies, time weighed heavily on a famous commander of the Roman legions. His soldiers were without foeman to fight. He knew that it is best for man to be kept busy to keep him out of devilment and so he made road builders of his soldiers, he built the Appian Way, the highway marvel of the centuries and the roads that he constructed are as substantial today as they were long before the coming of the fall of Rome, so graphically pictured by Gibbon in his rise and fall of that most magnificent and warlike of ancient nations. Texans are building roads today. Why not build them as the Romans built them in the long ago? Texas has three thousand convicts. Texans have millions of dollars invested in prison farms. This year the penitentiary commission reports a deficit of one million dollars. Why not junk the penitentiary plants? Why not sell the penitentiary or prison farms? Why not create a mammoth state cement plant, the work to be done by convicts to furnish road building materials? Why not make road builders of the three thousand convicts and place this imperial commonwealth at the head of the procession of states as a commonwealth where ... has added hundreds of millions to the wealth of the state and the Lord knows how much to the comfort and convenience of its people. On with the work of filling in the gaps on the twelve hundred mile highway from the snow-capped peaks of the Rockies to the white-capped waves of the Gulf of Mexico.

The Late Comer.

St. Peter had had a busy day and Gabriel had not loafed any himself. Throngs had visited the gate and been looked over.

Those who answered their questionaires successfully and satisfactorily were admitted. For others it was, "Going down!"

Finally, when the books were about to be closed for the day, a soul that had belonged to a newspaper man when on earth came puffing along. "What'll we do with him—the books are practically closed for the day?" said Peter to Gabriel.

Before Gabriel had had time to answer, the shade of the journalist timidly spoke up:

"You might label me 'Too Late to Classify,' and let me in anyway. I can't go to the other place—I forgot my badge."—From the Retail Ledger, Philadelphia.

GREENLANDERS GET FIRST GLIMPSE OF DANISH KING

King Christian of Denmark reviewing school children at Good Hope, Greenland.

Natives of Greenland recently saw their ruler, King Christian of Denmark, for the first time. The royal family stopped there on its tour of the Danish possessions. Greenlanders turned out in gala costumes to greet the monarch, who is popular in all parts of his kingdom, judging by his reception. The royal party visited many parts of the island, inspecting the homes of the natives and admiring the beautiful needlework of the Greenlander housewives.

FILLING ENGLAND'S WHALE OIL ORDER

Workmen skinning part of a whale before extracting the blubber from which the oil is extracted.

A Norwegian company is now busily engaged in obtaining 42,000 tons of whale oil to fill an order placed by England. The photo shows workmen "carving" one of the many whales caught by the whalers for the firm, located in Christiania, from which the oil is being obtained.

BANKERS WISH TO RESTORE MONEY VALUE

Motley H. Flint.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—Financial matters of national and international importance, including the restoration of the dollar to its pre-war purchasing value, will be under consideration by some of the greatest minds in the banking world when the annual convention of the American Bankers' association is held in Los Angeles, October 3 to 7.

Thirty-five hundred delegates from the banking institutions of the nation, which number almost 32,000, will be present. It is planned to have expressions from notable speakers who will be called upon to address the various groups of the convention, including national banks, savings banks and trust companies.

The entertainment committee of the Los Angeles Clearing House committee, of which Motley H. Flint, a prominent Los Angeles banker, is chairman, is arranging an elaborate programme of a week of entertainment for the visitors.

On Sunday, October 2, automobile rides will be provided for the delegates and their families. Places of interest in the city and some of the large motion picture studios will be visited.

On Tuesday evening the Los Angeles group of the Investment Bankers' association will give a smoker for the delegates at the Los Angeles Athletic Club. Wives of the visitors will be entertained at a theater party, followed by a supper.

The Clearing House association of Pasadena and the Pasadena Chamber of Commerce will be hosts for the visitors on Wednesday afternoon, and that evening they will be taken to Universal City to see a film studio.

The formal ball of the association will be held Thursday evening. A golf tournament will be staged Friday morning. In the afternoon a magnificent lawn fete will be given. Saturday has been set aside as Catalina day. Special boats being provided to take the visitors to the island resort.

Officers of the American Bankers' association are John S. Drum, San Francisco, president; T. B. McAdams, Richmond, Va., first vice president; John H. Puelicher, Milwaukee, second vice president; Harry J. Rubey, Golden, Col., treasurer; Thomas B. Paton, New York, general counsel; L. W. Gammon, New York, manager protective department; G. E. Dangerously Ill.

Said the woman's husband at the door: "The missis is very ill, ma'am, and won't be able to come this week."

"Oh, I am so sorry, George. Nothing very serious, I hope?"

"Well, ma'am, she was so bad last night I had to go to the pictures by myself."

SAY CLERK NEVER WAS IN MEXICAN BANDITS' HANDS.

MEXICO CITY, Mex., Sept. 18.—Assertions are made here that Henry Clark, who was supposed to have been captured by bandits and held for ransom in Chihuahua, has been playing a little comedy for some purpose and that he was never in the hands of bandits.

No effort is made to explain why Clark should have attempted a deception beyond a hint that he might have thought of collecting a ransome for himself.

Clark is said to be a British subject and not an American. He is employed by the International Land and Live Stock Co., a Chicago corporation which owns large tracts in Northern Mexico.

The assertion that Clark told of imaginary bandits is similar to the charge made against former Consul W. O. Jenkins, of Puebla, after he had figured in a sensational $15,000 ransom case.

When Chess Experts Meet.

The two great chess players had sat facing each other for a long, long time. Neither had spoken or shown any inclination to move. At last one raised his head and half opened his dreamy eyes.

"What time is it?" he asked.

The other's hand went to his pocket. He withdrew his cigarette case.

"Thursday," he answered.

His opponent yawned.

"Hope we shall be able to finish this game," he drawled, "but we shall have to hurry up. I've promised to go away next Tuesday week."—From the Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

"I'm not pleased with your school report, Bobby," said the father, with solemn look.

FROM AROUND THE STATE

QUANAH.

QUANAH, Texas, Sept. 18.—E. H. Shackelford, an oil operator, who a few years ago wanted to drill a well for oil near Quanah and who put $5,000 in one of our banks as a guarantee that he would do so, contingent only on him securing a block of leases which he designated but which the owners of declined to lease except at a prohibitive price, is under arrest at Duncan, Okla., charged wth killing J. C. Huff, formerly of Wichita Falls. There were no eye witnesses to the tragedy. Shackleford surrendered on his own volition. He sad that Huff had threatened his life. They had been partners in oil land leasing.

Miss Alice Specht left for Wichita Falls for a two weeks visit, after which she goes to Gainesville to visit the family of her uncle, Will Harper.

The Quanah Cotton Oil Mill will start up Monday morning. This will be good news for all the workmen and for the business men of the city alike.

About eight cars of seed, this year's crop, have been received to date, and it is estimated that ten thousand cars will go to the mill from this territory against about eighteen thousand cars last year.

C. B. Simpson has gone to Pampa, where he has been buying wheat lately. They made a good crop in that country, and Mr. Simpson says elevator room at one time was so scarce that he had to put 47,000 bushels upon the ground, no cars being available. He is still buying wheat at the rate of 45,000 bushels per week.

Mrs. Frank Hook and Miss Lucile leave Tuesday for C. I. A., where both expect to finish their studies this term.

A. J. Norton and E. F. Norton went to their Wheeler county ranch yesterday to ship the fat end of their yearling steers to Kansas City market. This stuff is in prime condition, it is stated.

Mrs. Ed Newman and baby returned from Wichita, Kansas, the last of the week.

Through the efforts of the Quannah Chamber of Commerce, Groesbeck Creek will be stocked with fish from the state fish hatchery this year. Requisition was made for bass, crappie, bream and catfish, and the fish game and oyster commission promises to send several thousand fish early in November.

According to information furnished the creek has not been stocked by the hatchery since about thirty years ago, and their full allowance has been asked for, and it will be one of the biggest single shipments of hatchery fish this season. Other creeks in west Texas are to be stocked.

The A. Mosley & Bro., farms have been prepared for another crop of wheat, all Kanred. The total is 963 acres which has been plowed with tractors. Edward Mosley who has had the work in charge, says that the one field which he plowed this summer had Johnson grass head high.

The plows cut about eight inches deep, and the roots of the grass were large and intertwined. The hot sunshine killed them out pretty much. This, says the West Texas Chamber of Commerce is one of the best methods of killing the pesty Johnson grass.

STAMFORD

STAMFORD, Texas, Sept. 18.—Jones county is preparing an exhibition for the various state fairs this fall. It will be assembled at Anson, Wednesday and taken first to the West Texas Fair at Abilene and from there to the Dallas fair and then to the Texas Cotton Palace at Waco and possibly to the South Texas Fair at Houston. The towns of Anson, Hamlin and Stamford will co-operate in this movement and will make the exhibit a creditable one. In this connection it might be said that careful observers say that the crops of Jones, Haskell, Fisher, Dickens and Stonewall are perhaps the best of any tier of counties in the state. Recently good rains have fallen in most of this territory and has greatly benefitted the crops.

More than two thousand bales of cotton have been marketed in Stamford to date. Since the price has ranged around 20c the farmers are selling as fast as it is gathered. Today has been the lowest in price of any day for about ten and as a result there has been a little lowering in the sale. Cotton seed is running from $35.00 to $40.00 per ton and farmers are happy over the situation that obtains.

At the meeting of the City Council last night the election returns of the bond issue, held September 6 were canvassed and resulted as follows: For the issuance of bonds, 113 votes; against issuance of bonds, 13 votes. This election was for the issuance of $125,000,000 bonds, the proceeds of which will complete the water works system, purchase the present system of waterworks or construct another. There is every reason to believe that the city can acquire the present water work system same to be used as a distributing plant only, thus completing the greater water works programme of the city of Stamford, and give connection with the water to be impounded on the Cleer Fork of the Brazos river, sixteen miles from the city. The dam is nearing completion and when it is closed it will impound more than two billion gallons of water. The city will send the necessary papers in connection with the bond issue to the attorney general without delay. And the details in connection with the issuing of the bonds will be closed up as speedily as possible.

It is believed that Panhandle farmers are losing 2 to 10 cents a bushel on the price of their wheat because of the prevalence of smut, a disease that can be controlled, they declare. Approximately 75 per cent of the wheat marketed is sold for a few cents less than it normally would mean because smut is noticeable. "If there ever was work for county agents state department of agriculture and state extension service to do, it is among the farmers of the Panhandle" said a representative of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce yesterday. "It really grieves me to see farmers reducing their income because they will not make any serious attempt to control smut. It is safe to estimate the farmers lose on the average of 5 cents a bushel on wheat due to smut. Formulas have been worked out to control smut, and I believe that farmers should avail themselves of it."

CHILLICOTHE

CHILLICOTHE, Texas, Sept. 18—Contract for the construction of the wagon bridge across Pease river was awarded to the Austin Bros. Bridge Company by the county commissioners of Hardeman and Foard counties in joint session at Crowell. The formal contract was signed by all parties to same and work will be started as soon as possible. This bridge will be 1950 feet long and similar in construction to that which the same contractors are building across Red River north of this city at this time. The contract calls for completion of the structure by or before Nov. 15. The contract calls for each county to put up $6,000.00 in cash.

James D. Breedlove, deputy game commissioner from Houston is here and states that the department has two field men now working in the north part of the state, besides the local wardens, distributing copies of the game law and licenses, principally with the gun and ammunition dealers. This is being done so that the people can become familiar with the law. Following are a few of the laws: Anyone hunting out of the county in which they reside are requested to have license. Dove season opens September 1, and closes December 15. Fifteen a day is the bag limit. Ducks, plovers, curlew and snipe season opens October 16 and closes January 31. RECOVERS FROM STAB THROUGH HEART; SKIPS ROPE IN SEVEN WEEKS

Frank Farino skipping rope

Frank Farino returned to his Brooklyn home recently after seven weeks in the hospital and promptly proved his entire convalescence by jumping rope. Rope skipping, as we all know, is a strain upon the heart. Seven weeks ago Farino fell upon a sharp instrument and ripped a gash in his heart. Several stitches in that most vital organ were taken and he announced, upon regaining consciousness, that he would live because he must to support his mother. He did.

MOTORISTS CARRYING FIREARMS

Automobile owners are beginning to adopt some sort of firearms as standard equipment for their cars, so as to have some sort of protection against holdup men, who ply their trade on deserted country roads, according to statements of local hardware men and gun store dealers. Most of the automobiles take out permits to carry firearms, which is permitted by law where the owner is going from his place of business to his home or vice versa, or is travelling through the country, but a great majority, according to police, do not go to that trouble.

Most of the automobile owners who buy guns select the .45 automatic in preference to other sizes and designs of firearms. Reasons for the popularity of this bore, gun dealers say, is the admitted deadliness of this size as well as the fact that there is no economy of carrying space needed in a car, the pistol usually being carried in a side pocket on one of the front doors.

There are few sales of .32s. The word sale used in this connection is somewhat inaccurate, as the gun dealer is prevented by law from "selling" firearms. He, however, "rents" them on a ninety-nine year "lease," which is equivalent to a sale. In "renting" a gun the dealer takes the name of the lessee, his address and the number of the gun. This is done, dealers say, for the protection of the lessee of a gun in case of theft as well as to help police authorities find the owner of a gun, in case of an accident or shooting.

Whether the presence of guns in an automobile will have a deterrent effect on "hi-jacking" is a matter of conjecture. One automobile owner who makes drives to the oil fields every day sometimes in the night is not very much in favor of armed motor cars.

"A gun is liable to cause more trouble than good unless the owner keeps his head. A robber is generally a desperate man intent on mischief and has the drop on a car before he gives the command to stand and deliver. The best way is to try to speed away from the highwayman and, if willing to run the risk, let him take a shot at the car," he says.

BUSINESS SHOWS IMPROVEMENT ON STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Sept. 18.—The substantial expansion of operations on the stock exchange this week, mainly at higher levels, reflected further pronounced improvement in sentiment in leading lines of business and industry.

Trading in bonds also at materially better prices was in keeping with the upward movement of stocks. Liberty issues were especially active but the quick response of the banks to the $600,000,000 treasury note offering and ready sale of several new private underwritings bespoke greater confidence on the part of investors.

That the money market gradually is becoming normal was evidenced by the absence of any flurry in connection with the mid-September income tax payments and loans running into the final months of the year were made at concessions from recent rates.

Financial relief for the railroads and drastic revision of prevailing tax and tariff schedules, it is asserted, will more than counterbalance burdens imposed by the increasingly complex foreign situation.

The cotton and grain markets were orderly and for that reason attracted less attention. The extent to which credit conditions have already been benefitted by the advance in these commodities is partially disclosed in this week's reports from western and southern reserve centers.

Production at principal points of steel and iron manufacture shows slow but steady growth for the first time in several month price schedules tended upward. Prominence of Baldwin Locomotive and related issues seemed to be based on prospective contracts for domestic and foreign consumption.

MINE WORKERS SURRENDER ON MURDER CHARGE

By Associated Press.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 18.—C. F. Keeney, and Fred Mooney, president and secretary respectively of district 17, United Mine Workers of America, against whom indictments were recently returned in Mingo county, growing out of the fatal shooting at Merrimac last May and whose whereabouts had been unknown since then, today surrendered to the authorities at the office of Governor E. F. Morgan, according to an official statement.

The surrender had been previously arranged, the announcement added, after Governor Morgan had promised two men police protection for Williamson.

Two men were killed during the shooting at Merrimac and other mining towns along the Tug River which resulted in the true bills against the mine union officials.

BOY ON HORSE TOURING COUNTRY TO WIN PRIZE

GENEVA, N. Y., Sept. 18.—Andrew J. Abell, Jr., 18-year-old high school graduate, of SanFrancisco, recently rode into this city astride a horse and accompanied by his dog, Grit. To obtain a complete education Abell is attempting the feat of visiting every State capital in the United States within a year. His only conveyance must be a horse. He left San Francisco on March 1. Abell says a Western philanthropist made him the proposition, which he is now well on his way to achieve. If he succeeds he can choose any college or university in the world in which to polish off the rudiments gained in the lower grades of learning. The philanthropist, Abell said would pay the bills. Abell left here destined for New England capital cities.

Heavy Auto Wins Combat With Monument

An automobile won in a combat with one of the new traffic posts at the corner of Seventh and Ohio streets Sunday.

Since the posts were placed in the center of the street intersections in the downtown section, several weeks ago, a few have been called upon to stand the onrushes of Fords and other cars of heavier construction. In all cases the traffic indicators have won, the Henries and other cars bouncing off with damage to themselves but none to the signs.

But Sunday a Cadillac ploughed through the ton of iron and concrete knocking off the crown and carrying off the "turn to the right" indicator on the fender of the machine. The base of the post was rolled to the side as the car, with slight damages continued on its way.

"I have instructed the department to make every effort to locate the driver of the car whose license number we have" declared Police Commissioner Fitts Sunday afternoon "and I hope that the guilty party is apprehended and given a heavy fine as such an occurrence is unexcusable."

"We will place traffic posts on the corners that will stop a tractor if necessary" declared the police commissioner in further comment on the failure of the traffic post to withstand the opening baptism of fire.

JAPS CHANGE VIEWPOINT ON ARMS PARLEY

TOKIO, Sept. 18.—A section of the press of Tokio, aided by progressive members of the Hara administration and many minor officials, has taken on a tone entirely different from what was evident during the series of attacks on America during the passage of the California land bill. Before the suggestion of the disarmament conference, but particularly since President Harding's suggestion has been received here, there has been noticeable liberal element in the public statements and in many of the speeches of public men.

So strong has the element of liberalism come to be in some cases that those defending the motives of the United States have gone so far as to call such men as Marquis Okuma, former premier, into account for his so-called indiscreet utterances; they have openly attacked university professors for what is called "anti-American twaddle," and in other ways have exhibited the tolerance which they are beginning to learn is a valuable asset in the empire today.

Shortly after the Turlock (California) affair I talked with officials of the foreign office, with newspapermen and with minor office-holders. While sections of the press checked the action of the laborers in California up to the existence of an anti-Japanese feeling, "throughout the entire United States," there was a noticeable sentiment of tolerance, a feeling expressed in press and in public statements that the United States was no more to blame for the Turlock occurrence than Japan was to blame for a burglar's attack on an American or British resident in Tokio or Yokohama.

Press Attacks Uyesugi

While the Yomiuri and some other newspapers predicted that the Japanese foreign office would take up the matter of the Turlock incident with the Washington government it was learned unofficially that Japan was pleased with the sentiment of the press and the government in America. This was true especially in the case of Governor Stephens of California. It was shown that the United States felt an injustice had been done and sincerely regretted it. "The sentiment, as expressed by the press in a section where anti-Japanese feeling has always been considered most bitter," said the Yomjuri, "goes to prove that feeling toward the Japanese in the United States is improving.

"The article of Dr. Oyesugi, of the Imperial University, regarding the disarmament conference," says the Osaka Mainichi, "proceeds from the premises that there is no way but war to settle international disputes — a warlike outburst. He has the temerity to repudate a disarmament conference, and we cannot but be ashamed of his insane and outrageous statement. Dr. Uyesugi said, 'If Japan loses her present armaments her position in the Orient will disappear.' But if Japan maintains her present armaments will not her relative power corresponding ly decline if other countries establish greater armaments than ours? Dr. Uyesugi further says, 'The Japanese should sacrifice education and industries for the time being,' but after all how long is the time being? If other countries compete with us, with their greater resources, Japan must contrive to meet this, if the doctor's line of reasoning is to be followed, and thus competition will only continue in a vicious circle.

"Is it [illegible] sacrifice her industries and education? How can even a country obtain armament funds if her industries and education are to be sacrificed?

Twaddle Condemned

"It is quite easy to explode Dr. Uyesugi's hysterical outburst, but we fear lest such twaddle should be reported to foreign countries as representing a section of Japan. We believe that a restriction of Japanese, British and American navies can be realised without complicating the Far Eastern situation. While Dr. Uyesugi's argument is scarcely worth repudiating it may not be amiss to show that his twaddle is not approved by the general public of this country."

Marquis Okuma, whose position as antagonist to the present Hara Ministry has caused him to burst out in more than one campaign of criticism against the position of Japan internationally, has received the attention of at least one "certain high official."

Quoted in the Nichi Nichi, this official says, "It was shameful for the Japanese press and people to make such a fuss over the disarmament conference when it was first suggested. The most deplorable feature has been the way in which veterans like Marquis Okuma and others have demanded a change of ministry. Statements like this don't hurt much when read only by the Japanese, who are able to estimate the speakers, but when they are translated, printed in foreign papers and cabled abroad the consequences to Japanese diplomacy are more than I care to forecast. Especially bad was the giving of publicity to statements of public men of Japan who publicly expressed doubt as to the motives of the United States and Great Britain."

The Limit.

SERBIANS PLOTTED LENINE'S DEATH IN 1918, VIENNA LEARNS.

LONDON, Sept. 18.—High emissaries of the Serbian Government organized a plot to assassinate Lenine and Trotzky in 1918, according to the Vienna correspondent of the Daily Herald, who reports that details have been published by Stainslaw Vinaver, former Serbian Military Attache at Moscow.

M. Spalajkovic, Serbian Ambassador to Moscow, picked several Serbian soldiers to kill the two Soviet leaders, according to this account. He led them to believe that Lenine and Trotzky were German agents and told them they would be doing a patriotic act. The soldiers, however, overheard a conversation which led them to believe otherwise, and they refused to have anything to do with the plot.

Several days later, reports the Herald's correspondent, Serbian officers who were implicated were arrested in Moscow and sentenced to death. Lenine himself intervened in their behalf, saved their lives and then had them deported.

DON'T STUB YOUR TOE!

—One dark night—so the story goes—a certain monarch placed a large boulder in the middle of the road. Thousands of his people, thereafter, severely stubbed their toes or troubled to walk around. At length, one lusty youth—wiser than the rest—seized the stone and heaved it from his path. And where it had rested, he found a bag of gold.

—Are you stubbing your toe? Are you overlooking any bags of gold? How about the advertising in this paper? Do you read it—consistently? It is a bag of gold to many of our readers.

—In our columns you will find the advertisements of alert progressive merchants and manufacturers who seek to tell you something they think you ought to know. This advertising is news about the very things that interest you most—articles that will save you money, lessen your work, or add materially to your comfort and well being.

—Thrifty men and women read advertising. To them it is a plain, every day business proposition—a duty they owe themselves and their purses. It tells them where they can buy exactly what they want at a price they can afford to pay.

—Advertising pays them. They make it pay.

It Will Pay You, Too. Read It.
