James H. Harwell, executive director of the Texas Industrial Commission was sort of a surprise participant in the "Existing Industry Growth Seminar" here Tuesday.

Although one of Harwell's staff members had a major role on the program, those who had planned the event here did not know that Harwell himself would be on hand. As it developed, the executive director of the state industrial office had been scheduled to attend in Spur on Tuesday night and decided to come on this far in time to sit in on the seminar here.

Attendance at the seminar was somewhat larger than expected. There had been an indication that about 50 persons representing 18 to 20 cities and towns probably would be here. Well over 70 eventually registered. When the 70th registrant was logged in, Becky York, Board of County Development Secretary who manned the registration desk, began checking the list for any possible names which might be shuttled to the noon Lions Club meeting for lunch. Arrangements had been made to feed only around 55 at the coliseum, site of the seminar. But they got everybody fed.

The returns are finally in. Americans ate about 650 million hot dogs during the July 4 weekend. This piece of intelligence came from the National Hot Dog and Sausage Council, no less, which confesses that it made an error in forecasting that a mere 6.5 million hot dogs would be consumed during Independence Day celebrations. Someone got his decimals mixed up.

Many people are looking for someone, or some group, to blame for the failure of the recent convention to come up with a proposed new Constitution for Texas Voters to consider. The biggest boner may have occurred early in the game when the decision was made to turn the task over to the legislature. Some of us had reservations all along about commissioning one of the three branches of the state government to produce a new constitution. So, if anyone is to be blamed for the big fat zero the convention turned out, it must be the people themselves.

But this is no sour grapes, or "I told you so" observation. However, it must be charged off as experience and we can at least hope that the people will remember it.——WACIL McNAIR

Resignation Looms Tonight

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, his 2,026-day presidency shredded by scandal, told Vice President Gerald R. Ford today he is resigning as President of the United States, a White House aide said.

House Republican Leader John J. Rhodes confirmed in an interview that the President would resign, but later said he had been misunderstood.

Nixon arranged to address the nation over TV and radio at 9 p.m. EDT.

A House Democratic leader said he was told that Nixon's resignation would go to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger Friday, and that Ford would be sworn in later in the day as 38th President.

Rep. John McFall, D-Calif., the House Democratic whip, said he got that information from Majority Leader Thomas P. O'Neill.

In a brief interview, Rhodes was asked about reports that the President would resign, and said they were correct. He later issued a statement denying that he had said the President planned to announce his resignation tonight.

In that statement, Rhodes said only that it was his impression the President would make a definitive statement "that will leave no doubt in the minds of the American people as to the ultimate outcome of this tragic period which the country has endured."

However, an aide to Rhodes said that the original account of the Arizona congressman's information on resignation was correct.

Meanwhile, Ford canceled a 12-day trip through the West, thus heightening the indications that a transition of power was imminent.

Other congressional sources said the resignation would be effective at noon Friday.

Nixon spent an hour and 10 minutes with Ford today, and a White House aide said the President told Ford then of his decision to resign.

The President then summoned Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress to the White House for an early evening meeting.

No man has ever resigned from the presidency.

After days of intense speculation over Nixon's course in the face of certain House impeachment, the only question seemed to be the hour at which the President's decision would be executed.

Rhodes said Nixon would resign by late afternoon. The formal instrument of resignation would go to Kissinger as secretary of State.

Since Nixon's admission Monday that he concealed Watergate evidence from House impeachment investigators, the public and his own lawyers, the pressure has mounted for the President to quit.

A haggard Ronald L. Ziegler, his voice choked with emotion, made only a brief announcement on the day's plans, and did not confirm the resignation.

Ziegler told a White House press center conference that it was a difficult time.

Ford Postpones Political Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford canceled a 12-day political trip today as congressional leaders said he will be sworn in Friday as the nation's 38th President.

Cancellation of the trip was announced by Ford's press secretary, Paul Miltich.

The vice president met with President Nixon for 70 minutes today, apparently to learn of the President's decision to resign.

Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said only that Nixon had "asked the vice president to come over for a private meeting."

Ford became vice president on Dec. 6, 1973. He succeeded Spiro T. Agnew who resigned Oct. 10, 1973, after pleading no contest to a charge of evading federal income taxes.

Ford was to attend a Republican telethon to be broadcast in Los Angeles to West Coast states tonight. It was postponed this morning because of the "fast-changing situation in Washington," GOP National Chairman George Bush said in Los Angeles.

"That was the reason for our going today and that's the reason the trip's been postponed," the Ford spokesman said.

Asked what kind of opinion the vice president's office might have on the current situation, the spokesman replied, "I hear we're going on the trip, but we're just going a little later."

Before the announcement of the delay, Ford press secretary Paul Miltich said plans for the trip were unchanged. But other sources indicated at least part of the itinerary could be scrubbed at a moment's notice.

Also on Ford's schedule today was the presentation of posthumous medals to relatives of seven military servicemen at ceremonies at Blair House, across the street from the White House.

House Republican leader John J. Rhodes, who was among three congressional leaders to meet with President Nixon Wednesday, earlier canceled plans to accompany Ford to the telethon.

Meanwhile, Ford's press secretary denied a Chicago Sun-Times story that the vice president has instructed members of his staff to prepare an inaugural address. "That's a complete fabrication," said Miltich. The Sun-Times quoted sources c se to Ford.

The Washington Post printed a similar story today and said that associates of Ford have been working since Monday night on contingency planning for the transition to a Ford administration.

The Post said the transition plan calls for Ford to deliver a brief speech to the American people, calling on the nation to unite behind him, praising the courage of President Nixon for stepping down and asking everyone to put the crisis needs of the country first.

Ford would ask all Cabinet members and key aides to stay on, with special emphasis on Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, the Post said.

The Chicago Sun-Times said it had obtained a preliminary list of 14 potential candidates for vice president and former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird headed the list. Questioned about the list, Miltich said, "I know nothing about that. I have never seen such a list."

North Vietnam Alerts Six Home-Based Divisions

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam has alerted some of its six home-based Army divisions amid ominous signs of a possible countrywide Communist offensive in South Vietnam, U.S. officials report.

These officials said they are more concerned than at any time since the Paris agreement that was supposed to end the Vietnam war more than 18 months ago.

Some analysts suggested the Hanoi leadership may regard the Nixon administration's turmoil over impeachment as an opportunity to strike hard in South Vietnam.

Officials denied their expressions of worry were intended to influence the Senate to restore a $300 million House cut in U.S. military aid for South Vietnam.

They said North Vietnamese military pressure in South Vietnam has been building for weeks, with many firefights and heavy casualties on both sides. The current assessment speaks of a strong possibility that the North Vietnamese may widen their operations into a countrywide offensive.

Especially ominous to U.S. officials was the alert of home-based divisions inside North Vietnam, one of them stationed above the old demilitarized border. This raises the specter of another invasion of the South, as in 1972. Such an invasion would be a violation of the Paris peace accords.

Officials said there has been an increase in infiltration of troops from North Vietnam, some shifting of headquarters and other evidences of preparations for major moves.

Supply truck traffic has risen sharply, with about 4,000 trucks sighted in one recent two-week period.

Analysts said there are more North Vietnamese troops in South Vietnam now than ever before.

They estimated there are more than 200,000 North Vietnamese combat troops in 11 divisions throughout South Vietnam, along with another 100,000 to 150,000 support troops and guerrillas.

Texas Ricers Withhold Crops

HOUSTON (AP) — Many Texas rice farmers are withholding their crops from market where prices have tumbled as much as 50 per cent from last year.

Al Albrecht, sales manager for American Rice Inc. of Houston said the state's farmers have been turning down bids by millers at sales that have been under way for a month.

The harvest is at least 80 per cent complete in the rice belt west of Houston and a third finished to the east but only some 11,000 hundredweight of rice—production from about 250 acres—has been sold.

Texas farmers planted 565,000 acres this year, up from 553,000 last year. The state produced 22 per cent of the nation's crop in 1973.

A hurricane held down the 1973 Texas crop, U.S. Department of Agriculture officials said. Texas is normally the top rice producing state, an official said, with Arkansas, Louisiana and Calfornia also big producers.

Ralph Newman, general manager of American Rice, a marketing cooperative with contracts to handle 40 per cent of the state's production, said the cooperative has not sold a single pound of the new crop because of prices offered.

The farmers are holding out for $20 a barrel which is the equivalent of $12.35 per 100 pounds, said Jimmy Hopkins, owner of the Garwood Rice Sales Co. in Garwood, Tex.

Mills have been bidding in the $9.25 to $9.35 hundredweight range. Farmers average $14 to $15 per hundred weight last year and the 1973 season ended with prices $17 to $19 per hundredweight. The U.S. government support price is $7.54.

Albrecht said at present prices farmers do not think they can get enough return on their investment.

Hopkins said Garwood Sales has been holding weekly sales since July 11 and said all bids have been turned down.

Immunity Resolution Introduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., today introduced a resolution expressing the sense of Congress that President Nixon should be immune from prosecution if he resigns and makes a public confession of guilt.

Meanwhile, Democratic Sen. Frank E. Moss of Utah said Congress should consider continuing impeachment proceedings against Nixon if he resigns without acknowledging guilt.

"If the President resigns still protesting his innocence, leaving the impression that he was forced out of office, then I think that Congress should consider going forward with the full proceedings," said Moss, secretary of the Senate Democratic Conference.

Brooke's resolution would express the sense of Congress that Nixon should be immune from federal or state prosecution if he resigns.

But Brooke said he would withdraw the resolution, or fail to press for its passage, if Nixon does not make a confession of guilt.

July Wholesale Prices Up 3.7%

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices jumped 3.7 per cent last month, the Labor Department reported today.

This works out to a staggering 44.4 per cent on an annual rate.

The monthly increase was the largest since the 6.2 per cent jump last August and compared with an average monthly increase of 1.4 per cent over the first six months of this year.

All figures are after taking seasonal variations into account.

Since wholesale price increases are usually translated into higher prices for consumers, the report cast a pall over a hopes for any slackening in the nation's double-digit inflation.

The biggest wholesale jump was in farm prices. A 6.4 per cent jump in July reversed four straight months of decline.

The Nixon administration had tied falling or at least moderating food prices to its predictions for getting inflation down to a 7 per cent annual rate of increase by year's end. Consumer prices are currently 11 per cent above a year ago.

The wholesale increase in food prices alone was 3.6 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis, with meat pacing the increase. Processed foods and sugar also posted significant increases. Prices for milk and fresh vegetables declined.

Foreshadowing possible future trouble for meat prices was an even larger rise — 5.5 per cent — for the processed foods and feeds farmers must buy for their livestock.

Auto prices, usually stable at this time of year, also rose.

Industrial commodities moved upward, although not as steeply as farm prices. The increase for the industrial commodities was 2.7 per cent, compared to a 2.2 increase the previous month. Wholesale prices have been increasing by more than two per cent all year.

The increase for commodities was virtually across the board, with the strongest rises in iron, steel, petroleum and its by-products. Lumber prices, however, declined for the third straight month.

The Labor Department said its index in July reached 161.7 per cent of its 1967 average, meaning that it cost $161.70 to buy, at wholesale a statistical amount of materials that cost $100 in 1967. The index in July was 20.4 per cent above the same month last year.

South Texas Get Heavy Downpours

By The Associated Press

Black sheets of rain poured down across South Central and Southwest Texas again today, dumping more than a foot of water in some places.

San Antonio gurgled under five inches of early morning rain that virtually cut off city streets and forced residents to stay home.

San Antonio police reported hundreds of cars stalled and all underpasses flooded. Fire department units were dispatched to evacuate residents in low-lying areas.

Police asked residents to stay home unless absolutely necessary. No injuries or deaths were reported, however.

Flash flood warnings in the area were in effect until noon.

The heaviest downpour Wednesday was just west of San Antonio. Cotulla has received 13.93 inches in the last 48 hours. Garciasville and Betesville have also received eight or more inches.

Early today, Cotulla was inside the boundaries of a heavy thunderstorm system that stretched from near Austin to near Victoria, Corpus Christi, near Laredo and Uvalde. Thunderstorms dropped rains in excess of an inch per hour in the Cotulla area.

Funnel clouds were reported Wednesday at Victoria in South Texas and near Amarillo, Dumas and Dalhart in the Panhandle. A tornado warning was issued for a four-county Panhandle area until 11 p.m., and rains continued in that section until the early morning hours.

Predawn temperatures varied from 61 degrees at Dalhart to 81 at Corpus Christi.

European Press Express Concern

By PETER EBERT
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Newspapers in the European countries of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are concerned that uncertainties over President Nixon's future may be holding up crucial decision in international affairs.

"Try as one may, it is now impossible to imagine any way in which Mr. Nixon could regain the authority that the presidency requires," The Times of London said in urging Nixon's immediate resignation.

Six of the seven national papers in Britain have expressed the same attitude and wish. The seventh, the Dairy Express, has not declared its feelings on whether Nixon should quit, although it does not expect him to remain in office.

Most newspapers in France, Italy and West Germany hve evaded direct comment on resignation, but several editorials have implied that Nixon should step down to remove a vacuum in U.S. policy-making.

As elsewhere, NATO governments have refused comment on the U.S. governmental crisis.

"What credibility can he have with other nations?" asked Paris's Le Figaro. "The greatest power in the world thus finds itself in an unprecedented position without a ruler."

La Stampa of Turin, Italy, described Nixon as "a burden for America and therefore for the world." He "has done his part, but the world can now do without him," the Italian paper said, and added that the world should be grateful "for all the good he has achieved."

The independent Dutch newspaper NRC-Handelsblad of Rotterdam said Nixon is emerging as "a national and international menace. One might expect that Richard Nixon would no longer deem himself worthy of the high office which he occupies, but such honorable expectations are defiled by Nixon as by no one else."

Britain's The Guardian, a powerful liberal paper, stated bluntly: "In one of his televised statements, President Nixon declared, 'I am not a crook.' The tapes have shown to be both a liar and a crook."

The British Daily Telegraph, a politically conservative longtime Nixon supporter, came reluctantly to the conclusion that the American President should resign.

Its editorial said Nixon "slipped into one misjudgment after another, into one semi-dishonest after another ... It may be fair to wonder how many other presidents would have immediately resisted the temptation to cover up.

Last Tapes To Sirica

WASHINGTON (AP) — The last of the White House tapes ordered turned over by the Supreme Court, save for 10 that apparently don't exist, are in the hands of U.S. District Judge John Sirica.

In turning over the subpoenaed tapes on Wednesday, White House attorney James D. St. Clair said at least 10 of the 64 conversations covered by the subpoena from special prosecutor Leon Jaworski were never recorded because they took place over a telephone which had no recording device.

St. Clair appeared in court Wednesday to account for the final 31 tapes sought by the prosecutor for use in the Watergate cover-up trial scheduled for Sept. 9

Among the conversations which St. Clair said were not taped are three phone calls between President Nixon and former aides H. R. Haldeman or John D. Ehrlichman.

MINIMUM OF CEREMONY

Transition To Be Quick, Complete

By DON McLEOD
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If President Nixon should resign or be removed from office by impeachment, the transition to a new administration would be sudden and complete with a minimum of ceremony.

The new president would take office as quickly as in the past when a president has died. But the fact that the outgoing president is alive and well complicates the matter a bit.

When one president succeeds another after an election, the tradition is that the mantle of office changes hands when the new man takes the oath. Despite the complications, that probably would be the case in the event of resignation or impeachment.

Should Nixon become the first president in the history of the office to resign, it is likely that the change of command from President Richard M. Nixon to President Gerald R. Ford would be accomplished before most Americans even knew about it.

All that would be required for Nixon to quit the office would be for him to transmit a document of resignation to the secretary of state.

But in the interest of national security in the nuclear age, Nixon almost certainly would have Ford on hand to take the oath of office as his successor immediately.

In the case of a president being forced from office by impeachment, the procedure would be a little more cumbersome but almost as immediate.

The only constitutional requirement for removing a president from his office is a two-thirds vote of guilty to any one article of impeachment. Technically, then, Nixon would cease to be president as soon as a losing vote was announced.

However, for such a momentous occasion, some ceremony is required. The Senate rules under which the trial would be conducted state that upon conviction "the Senate shall proceed to pronounce judgment."

Presumably, the chief justice as presiding officer at the trial would make the announcement. Then deposit of a certified copy of the judgment with the secretary of state completes the process.

Ford, no doubt, would be close at hand to take the oath. However, scholars disagree as to the embarrassing gap that would exist between the fatal vote, Nixon's notification and the filing at the State Department.

The Constitution requires a president to take the oath "before he enters on the execution of his office." But as a practical matter he must become president the instant a vacancy exists.

What would happen if the incumbent, though convicted at an impeachment trial, insisted on holding on until he was formally notified and his successor sworn in, is anybody's guess.

The same would hold true if he resigns. Scholars are not agreed on whether a sitting president has any protection from prosecution, but whatever shield there may be is lost once he leaves office.

Resignation, however, would likely end the impeachment process, although it could go on. In the past the Senate has dismissed impeachment actions against men no longer in office.

The first constitutional object of an impeachment, to remove a person from office, would be satisfied by resignation. But impeachment also allows the Senate to ban a defendant from all future federal office, which would not be accomplished by resignation.

Whatever the status of the presidency, the office of vice president would be vacant the moment Ford ascended.

Production Record Set By CRMWD

For the first time, the Colorado River Municipal Water District topped 2.5 billion gallons of water delivered in July. It was the third consecutive month that the district pumped more than two billion gallons to its customers, and for the past five month deliveries have averaged over two billion—2,130,352,000 to be exact.

Municipal demand fell just a little short of the two billion mark in establishing the new monthly record. The 1,910,032,000 gallons represented about 50 million more than June. Industrial and mining deliveries amounted to 598,267,484 gallons, up about 50 million from June, but this was well below the peak for the year in March when 774 million gallons were delivered.

For the first seven months of the year the district has pumped 13,224,171,246 gallons to its customers, nearly three billion more than for the corresponding time a year ago. Of the total deliveries, 8,858,506,500 gallons have gone to municipal customers, 4,365,664,746 to industrial and mining users. Total deliveries are up 28.28 per cent, but for the municipalities the increase is 32.44 per cent.

Deliveries for July included: Odessa 692,519,000, up 53.45 per cent; Big Spring 419,490,000, up 35.57; Snyder 135,964,000, up 31.46; Stanton 14,826,000, up 37.41; Midland 431,970,000, up 7.67; San Angelo 215,263,000, up 27.81. Robert Lee, which had taken water in May and June, required none in July. Of the total deliveries to mining (oilfields) users, some 102 million gallons were in brackish water.

Names Can Cause Identity Mistake

By CHRIS SILVA

BROOKFIELD, Conn. (AP) — "Do you, Christopher, take Robert...?"

I shuddered when the minister said that during our marriage ceremony 18 years ago.

Christopher may have been okay as a moniker for Columbus. But I'm female, 5-feet-1, and for over 30 years I've been answering to that male tag. Life has been a succession of miseries.

Even though the women's liberation movement has opened many doors previously closed to us females, I believe sex discrimination has its place when it comes to names.

Ever since I started school I have tried to sneak by with only the nickname Chris, but officials, of course, must have your full name. So I have lived in constant dread of roll calls and introductions.

In high school I was enrolled in a boys' physical education group.

It took some tall talking to get out of that one.

At another point I almost wound up going to a boys' prep school. Seems they wanted me on the swimming team. A modern gal would now use these mistakes to her advantage.

Throughout my schooling, including my college days at Northeastern University, I have always had to engage in long explanations to wriggle out of embarrassing situations that arose from my legal name.

"Your parents were expecting a boy, of course?" people ask after looks of astonishment. I turn my usual deep crimson and may or may not explain that my parents were not expecting a male, but gave me the name Christopher on purpose.

As artists they thought Christopher Hay, my maiden name, would be a good pen name for an artist or writer. Even marriage didn't help. It only changed the maiden name to Silva.

As education writer for WINE radio, my voice behind the mike is strictly female. Listeners would be in shock, despite equal rights, to hear a soprano voice saying "This is Christopher Silva, WINE radio news."

To save our three children embarrassment, the name Chris has been used frequently. And their names were chosen with care, the boys Mark and Eric, and our daughter Lynne Anne. I didn't want them to suffer as I did from a name problem.

For positive identification of my gender I have to carry my driver's license and birth certificate at all times. Both state that I am female.

When I cash a check I always have to go to the same bank because they know I'm not trying to pull a fast one by cashing some male's check with a forged endorsement.

I used to get loads of mail addressed to Mr. Hay. The mail order houses and department stores used to haunt me to buy men's socks, shirts, hats and shoes.

One pamphlet exhorted me to join the YMCA, extolling the merits to the young male.

After turning 21 and registering to vote, I was afraid I would be hearing from the Selective Service Board. When I did, it only took one appearance at the local draft board to convince them I was ineligible.

Karate means empty hand.

Scottish Foundation Seeks Clan Members

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Calling all Scots — the MacGregors, Gordons, MacPhersons, MacDonalds, the clan Campbell and all the rest — all 22 million of ye American lads and lassies of Scottish descent back to the fifth generation: There's a need for your support.

That's the message from Lady Hamilton, born Natalie Wales, a true Yankee, in Cohasset, Mass., who is president of the nonprofit American-Scottish Foundation. She is carrying on the work begun by her late husband, Lord Malcolm Douglas-Hamilton, former Tory member of the British Parliament who had represented Inverness, Scotland's Highland county.

Known for her tenacity and charm — Lady Hamilton organized Bundles for Britain in 1939, collecting some $7 million worth of goods for war-torn Britain, establishing 3,000 chapters and organizing two and a half million workers — you can bet your favorite bagpipe she'll round up every last wee one of Scottish ancestry. She's already corraled an impressive list.

"When the Irish came to the United States, they were held together by the Catholic Church. The Italians and Poles had groups to hold them, but the Scottish people have had no one to boost them even though they made enormous contributions to the United States. In fact they were the warp and woof," she says firmly.

In researching George Washington's Cabinet she found that 73 per cent of the members were Scots. And Lord Hamilton was assisted by the U.S. State Department through President Eisenhower's interest, she says, to estimate the American-Scottish population.

"We want to bring practical cooperation between Americans and the Scottish people. A secondary purpose is to obtain a cultural headquarters for Scotland in the United States," she says.

As she envisions it, there would be a library, meeting rooms, a restaurant (with all 365 brands of Scotch) and it would provide a residence for important Scottish visitors. A place, too, for Scots trying to break into complicated business markets — a headquarters.

"It ties in with the fact that Scotland has no government," she explained. "My husband always hoped to see a supplementary parliament, a local assembly body that would handle local problems as we do in the United States. As it is, all Scotland's affairs are settled in London. London must give permission for a house to have a new bathroom. If a new engine is needed for a little fishing boat, one's MP must go to London and plead the case and even buy the engine in London.

"The issue is controversial now because of the oil discoveries off the Northern coast," she went on. "I'm working with some of the major American oil companies in trying to enlist their aid in helping the Scottish people — financing youth centers, providing money for colleges in their educational system, training young Scots in the oil business. I am in an unusual position of being an American woman who is almost the sole spokesman for Scotland in the United States."

To foster understanding, the foundation recently brought 12 young Scots to the United States for a two-weeks visit as guests of ASF members across the country. An impressive list of well-known Americans heads up the various committees of the foundation. Dr. Grayson Kirk, former president of Columbia University, heads up the education committee. An American-Scottish fashion committee is being formed and another subcommittee is in the field of medicine "because the Scots are famed for their surgery," she notes.

Lord Hamilton had organized the foundation in 1956. In 1971, six years after his death, Lady Hamilton started the Scottish balls, an instant success, held during Scotland Week (November 12-18). This year, an American of Scottish descent who has made "a great contribution to the United States" will be chosen for an award.

An accomplished pilot, Lord Hamilton was killed with his son when he flew a plane over Camaroon and became involved with an "uncharted magnetic field."

"It was really one of those great love stories," she says, in describing their first meeting in London where she had gone to speak to a group of MPs at the request of John Foster Dulles. "I couldn't think of what I had wanted to say when I saw him enter the room."

After their marriage in 1952 they lived in London, "and being an American woman," she says, she spent a great deal of time at Parliament and with her husband's Scottish constituencies, helping to see about the needs of Scotland.

The American-Scottish Foundation has active members in almost every state. A newly formed Connecticut chapter recently sponsored a Hunter Classic at the Ox Ridge Horse Show in New Canaan, a day that was highlighted by Scottish festivities, pipers and tartan cloths on luncheon tables.

Although Lady Hamilton's family was Welsh and English, there are Scots on a grandmother's side. In any event, her dedication to her husband's cause is "as they always say, people who are proselytized to a cause are more ardent than others."

COMPANY DINNER
Jackie Katz's Beef Curry
Rice Poppadums
Salad Bowl
Fruit Compote Beverage
As it's made in England.

- 1 cup water
- Beef bouillon cube
- 2 bay leaves
- 4 whole cloves
- 1 clove garlic, peeled and halved
- 4 whole small dried hot red peppers
- 2 to 4 tablespoons oil
- 2 medium onions, coarsely chopped (1 cup)
- 2 pounds stewing beef, about 1-inch thick and cut into about 1½-inch chunks
- 2 tablespoons curry powder
- 1 tablespoon cider vinegar
- 6 ounce can tomatoes,

undrained

Bring to a boil the water, bouillon cube, bay leaves, cloves, garlic and peppers; simmer for 15 minutes; strain, reserving broth. In a large skillet in 2 tablespoons of the oil, brown the onion lightly; with a slotted spoon transfer to a large saucepot. In the skillet, adding more oil as necessary, brown the meat; with a slotted spoon transfer to saucepot. Add the curry powder to the skillet and, stirring often, cook gently, for 5 minutes; add to saucepot with reserved broth, vinegar and tomatoes. Bring to a boil, cover and simmer until meat is tender — about 2 hours. There will be just enough extremely hot sauce for the meat. Serve with plain yogurt (for cooling purposes); chopped cucumber; chopped apple mixed with plumped raisins and lemon juice; finely chopped tomatoes and onion mixed with lemon juice, salt and pepper; flaked coconut; mango chutney. Makes 4 to 5 servings.

OUR MAN ON BROADWAY

Dick Maurice

RAQUEL WELCH is fed up with being thought of as just another beautiful body: "In a way," she says, "I am the American Coke bottle... a symbol of pop art...the Hollywood sex symbol." Raquel is outspokenly proud of some of the turns her career has taken lately. In a TV special, she showed how well she can sing and dance. Now she hopes some producer will give her the chance to show she can handle a "serious and dramatic" role. If someone offers such a role, she swears she will not care how she must dress or be made up for it. She want to show what she can do professionally, not what she possesses physically.

My conversation with PETER FONDA revealed that he will never wear a tie, he will "never ever wear anything that I can't wash."...

It is reliably reported to me—in fact, I happen to know this for a fact—that the BEATLES who are litigating their brains out these days both in England and here both with each other and against an ex-agent earned with all their outlets—concerts, records, royalties, Apple Productions, etc.—the sum total of ninety million dollars in the last three years. Ninety million simoleons! No matter how you cut it that is a lot of long hair, right?

Country-Western superstar LORETTA LYNN says her house in Hurricane Mills, Kentucky, is more than 100 years old, and was a hideout during the Civil War. It's also haunted! Loretta says she hears doors squeaking and other strange noises constantly.

LYNN REDGRAVE had to turnay an offer of playing the leading lady to co-star JOHN WAYNE in "Johnny Battle," a flick he's flicking in England on account of her Broadway contract didn't allow her any clause to get out.

LIZA MINNELLI and DESI ARNAZ, JR. ran smack dab into each other at a screening at MGM of "That's Entertainment." But before you get any ideas, let us tell you that they didn't sit together or leave together, since both arrived stag. Seems that when love ends, it really ends.

Robert Productions, some new thing formed with BURT REYNOLDS and ROBERT ALDRICH, will knock off its first film, an action love story set in contemporary L.A. and entitled, "City of Angels," should this be the one piece of information you're waiting for?

CANDICE BERGEN doing the healthfood bit. Admittedly she is working very hard to stay beautiful. Like who isn't, right?

Did you know that CHARLES BRONSON earns $20,000 a day when he's cranking out a film? If you throw in his Christmas Club that could amount to a tidy sum every year, right?

SIDNEY POITIER will finally marry JOANNA SHIMKUS, on one condition: She first must bear him a son! They already have two daughters and Sidney has four other daughters from his previous marriage. Any questions?

HENNY YOUNGMAN told of the well-known Broadway comic who seldom reaches for a check: "In fact, one restaurant changed hands three times while he waited for someone to pay for his coffee."

Singer JOHN DENVER finally revealed his most closely-guarded secret: his real name is Henry Deutschendorf, Jr. And ENGELBERT HUMPERDINCK wonders why on earth Denver ever changed it!

There is a rumor that ARI just ordered a great, huge, Boeing 747 (that's the job that seats 350 ordinary humans) for Jackie's own private comfort aloft, and for a supposed $47 million dollars— a sight more than Playboy HUGH HEFNER's five-and-a-half-million-custom-built DC-9!

TELLY SAVALAS, bald and sexy star of TV's "Kojack," and Marilyn, his wife of 13 years, have divorced because of "irreconcilable differences." The couple have two daughters. Alimony and child support payments of $6,000 a month were awarded the former Mrs. Savalas. There is also a sizeable community property settlement involved. Our sources mention a figure close to half a million dollars.

STEVE ALLEN is thinking of suing the advertising agency that is using the catch phrase "I didn't know that!" for Ford commercials.

Nixon Photo Said 'Pathetic'

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) "It was pathetic. I had tears in my eyes."

The President of the United States, in shirt sleeves, was greeting his family — his wife, two daughters and their husbands — in an upstairs room at the White House Wednesday night.

The witness: Oliver "Ollie" Atkins, personal photographer to Richard Nixon in good times and bad since 1968.

Nixon, seemingly poised on the brink of becoming the first American president to resign the office, was gathering his family for a private dinner after hearing gloomy tidings from Senate and House Republican leaders and party elder Barry Goldwater.

Atkins was there, as on many occasions in the past — in Peking and Moscow and at inaugural balls — to record a moment in history.

Just a few minutes earlier he had photographed the beleaguered President walking in the White House Rose Garden with daughter Tricia Cox.

The White House press office reported Nixon and Mrs. Cox just happened to meet as the President was walking home to dinner and that Atkins just happened to walk by with a loaded camera as father and daughter decided to take an evening stroll.

In the past this explanation would, more than likely, have been the prelude to another public relation move — a distribution to the news media of official White House photos. In fact, two White House officials indicated that was the plan Wednesday night.

No matter. It was an evening to be recorded on film.

Just two days earlier, the President had made public a transcript of a 1972 conversation with H. R. Haldeman that was judged damning by many of Nixon's bedrock supporters in Congress. In addition to talking about using the CIA to thwart the FBI's Watergate investigation, Nixon and Haldeman discussed the campaign value of behind-the-scenes pictures by Oliver Atkins.

"... what good does an Ollie picture do?" asked Nixon.

"Doesn't do any good," replied Haldeman.

Perhaps that is why a White House spokesman said late Wednesday the latest Atkins' photos would not be made public. More likely this time the film was too private, too poignant.

"It was pathetic. I had tears in my eyes," Atkins said.

Rev. O'Brien Doesn't Think Guns Mailed

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — The Rev. Joseph O'Brien says convict Fred Gomez Carrasco did not have access to the prison chaplain's mail.

Prison officials have said they were investigating the possibility that the slain convict may have received weapons through the Roman Catholic priest's mail while Carrasco worked for the chaplain in the chapel.

Carrasco, another inmate and two hostages were killed last Saturday night in an escape attempt from the state prison after an 10-day siege. O'Brien, also a hostage, was wounded in the incident.

"I always pick up my mail across the street from the administration office," O'Brien said Wednesday from his bed at the Huntsville Memorial Hospital where he is recuperating from two gunshot wounds.

"Any of the other mail (such as packages) is delivered to me by security. I don't think the weapons came through the mail."

However, Don Kirkpatrick, Texas Department of Corrections assistant director, said the possibility could not be ruled out.

"There is a tremendous amount of activity in this unit—boxes, books, supplies and many things coming in," Kirkpatrick said.

"We are looking at the possibility that the guns came from inside the prison. They could have been brought in by a guard, a teacher or a chaplain, at least unknowingly.

"There are only three ways to get contraband inside the prison: by mail, by vehicle or by someone either on the outside or inside bringing it in."

Kirkpatrick said it was "a unit and classification committee decision to allow Carrasco to work in the chapel," and noted that it was "possible, but not probable that the guns were brought in by prison visitors."

O'Brien recalled the 10-day prison seige and its climax Saturday night.

"We all felt that if we got out of the (library) building we stood a 50-50 chance," he said. "We figured we would all be killed if we remained inside. We did everything we could to convince Carrasco to leave the building.

The priest said he "knew it was the end" as soon as he heard water sprayed at the makeshift shield.

Drug Woven Into Rug

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Customs officials have arrested a 74-year-old woman for illegally importing cocaine woven into a Colombian rug.

"Who could have done this to me?," Customs Inspector Charles Harvey quoted Madeline Partlow of East Stroudsburg, Pa., as saying when the drug was discovered.

Customs agents said one and three-quarter pounds of the cocaine was found in about 100 small plastic tubes woven into the wool rug that Mrs. Partlow brought into the country late Tuesday from Bogota.

"She said she went to Bogota with friends and they took her to the market and bought her this rug as a gift," said U.S. Marshal Melvin Mullis.

Harvey said she carried three pieces of luggage into customs and clutched the rug rolled up in plain brown paper under her arm.

He said he unwrapped the rug, poked at it and white powder spurted out.

"Cocaine," he said. "The woman's mouth fell open."

Officials said the half-inch diameter tubes ran the width of the carpet and were not visible except on close inspection.

Mrs. Partlow was released on a $10,000 personal recognizance bond Wednesday. A preliminary hearing was set for Aug. 27.

Ford Lists 14 VP Candidates

CHICAGO (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford has compiled a list of 14 potential candidates for vice president if Ford assumes the presidency, the Chicago Sun-Times said today.

The newspaper also said in a story from Washington that sources close to Ford indicate the vice president has already instructed members of his staff to prepare an inaugural address in the event President Nixon resigns.

In Washington, Ford's press secretary, Paul Miltich, said the report that the vice president had ordered preparation of an inaugural speech was a "complete fabrication."

Miltich said he personally had asked Ford about earlier reports that he was beginning preparations for his transfer to the presidency, and Miltich quoted the vice president as replying, "That's totally inaccurate."

As for the reported list of possible candidates for the vice presidency under Ford, Miltich said, "I know nothing about that. I have never seen such a list."

The Sun-Times said former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird heads the all-Republican list of potential vice presidents under Ford.

The newspaper said Laird is followed by Rep. Albert H. Quie of Minnesota and former Sen. Charles E. Goodell of New York.

It said the list also includes former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Sens. Howard H. Baker Jr. and William E. Brock of Tennessee, Sen. Robert Taft Jr. of Ohio, Sen. Robert T. Stafford of Vermont, Sen. Mark O. Hatfield of Oregon, Sen. Edward W. Brooke of Massachusetts, Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, Rep. John B. Anderson of Illinois, former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

The Sun-Times did not say where it obtained the list.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

This column of questions and answers on federal tax matters is provided by the local office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service and is published as a public service to taxpayers. The column answers questions most frequently asked by taxpayers.

Q. I have a joint bank account with my son. Are we each taxed on one-half of the interest received?

A. No. You are taxed on the interest in proportion to the amount you each contributed to the joint account. For example, if you contributed all the money in the account, you would be taxed on all of the interest.

Q. My mother lives with us. Her income consists of tax-free social security benefits and a small pension. Can I claim her as a dependent?

A. Yes. In general, you can claim your mother as a dependent if she had gross income of less than $750 (tax-exempt income, such as social security benefits, is not included in the $750 gross income test) and you furnished more than half of her total support. For more information, see IRS Publication 501, "Your Exemptions and Exemptions for Dependents." It's available free from your IRS office.

Q. After receiving $10,000 under an educational loan program to go to medical school, I agreed to practice medicine for five years in rural areas of the state. As a result, each year one-fifth of the loan is cancelled. Am I taxed on this amount?

A. Yes. If any part of the loan is cancelled in a particular year, that amount must be reported as income for the year.

Q. I work as a waiter. Do all my tips have to be reported to my employer?

A. No. If you receive less than $20 in tips in the course of your work for one employer during the month, you are not required to report that amount to that employer, but you may do so if you wish. However, you must include this amount in income on your tax return. If you receive tips of $20 or more in a month while working for any one employer, you must report the total amount of those tips to that employer on or before the 10th day of the following month. This can be done on IRS Form 4070, "Employee's Report on Tips," available from any IRS office.

Seminar On Excavations Is Scheduled

AUSTIN—An OSHA sminar on excavation and trenching operations will be offered Aug. 14 in Abilene. The free course is being conducted by the National Safety Council and The Texas Safety Association in cooperation with the City of Abilene.

Conducted by representatives of TSA, the Plank Company and Speed Shore Corporation, the Excavation and Trenching Operations training course will be held at Abilene Civic Center, North Sixth and Pine, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

With day or night inspection of any and every excavation and trenching operation now mandatory due to over 225 deaths in 1973, OSHA Compliance Officers under the U.S. Department of Labor, have made excavation and trenching a target program to insure compliance of federal standards relating to the industry.

Covering all areas from planning through excavation through final backfilling and compaction, attendees will have the opportunity to discuss installation of shoring as well as the advantages and-or disadvantages of the various types of shoring equipment available. Additional to such information as when to use soldier piles, shelton sheeting or solid sheeting, various soil conditions will also be discussed.

To register for the seminar, contact Director of Training, Texas Safety Association, P.O. Box 9345, Austin, 78766, phone 512-451-7421.

Charges To Be Traded For Act

NEW YORK (AP) — "I was not scared ... I was dying of happiness."

Philippe Petit, a 24-year-old French aerialist, was telling how it felt to walk a cable tightrope slung across the 140-foot gap between the rooftops of the World Trade Center's 110-story twin towers.

Today, Petit can be even happier. Authorities have agreed to drop charges of criminal trespass and disorderly conduct if he repeats his tightrope act on a lower wire in Central Park, for the benefit of local children.

Wednesday morning, Petit startled awakening New Yorkers with his dare-devil antics atop the seven-eighths-inch wide metal cable 1,350 feet above the pavement.

With a balancing bar but no net, Petit walked four times across the gap, at times sitting or lying down on the wire. Awe-struck spectators applauded from below. Police rushed to the rooftops. Traffic stopped.

It was an act he'd planned well in advance.

He and a half-dozen French and American friends had cased the center by playing roles as newsmen, delivery men and construction workers.

They had taken some 500 pounds of cable and other equipment to the rooftops of the towers in lower Manhattan, where four of them hid out Tusday night. At dawn they used a bow and an arrow to fire fishing line attached to the cable across the gap. Shortly after 7 a.m. Petit gave the city his act.

Petit, who arrived in New York eight months ago, said he had already walked high wires between towers at the Cathedral of Notre Dame in Paris and between bridge towers in Sydney Harbor, Australia. He spent his days here juggling, performing on a unicycle and passing the hat as a street entertainer — as well as scheming how he could put up a wire between the Trade Center's rooftops.

Why did he do it? He denied it was just for publicity. "If I see three oranges, I have to juggle. And if I see two towers, I have to walk."

Dunaway Applies For License

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Faye Dunaway, star of the current hit movie "Chinatown," and songwriter-composer Peter Wolf have applied for a marriage license.

Miss Dunaway, 37, and her 28-year-old fiance, whose given name is Peter Blankfield, appeared in Santa Monica Superior Court late Monday to apply for the license. No date was set for the wedding.

FIRM GOOFED

"Gummy" Gas Claims Filed

IDABEL, Okla. (AP) — "We goofed and we admit it," a Texas oil company spokesman said Wednesday of a shipment of bad gasoline which caused problems with at least 70 vehicles in Oklahoma.

J. W. Cahill Jr., corporate advertising and sales promotion manager for American Petrofina Co. of Mount Pleasant, Tex., said "Something just broke down—that's all. I've never seen anything like this happen in 20 years."

Auto mechanics in portions of Arkansas, eastern Oklahoma, and northern Texas reported numerous autos with frozen valves, bent pushrods and gummy carburetors about two weeks ago.

The problems were traced to a shipment of motor fuel produced at the Texas refinery.

Cahill noted that the company had acted quickly to "get the gum out" and that all unsold quantities of the bad gasoline were returned to the refinery for re-processing.

He said the problem stemmed from an excessively high "gum" content in the fuel. The responsible substance, he said, is normally found in minute amounts after the gasoline is refined and gum solvents are added.

Doug Rawls, an Idabel mechanic, said "That stuff got in these engines and gummed everything up as soon as it cooled off."

Rawls said he has worked on 29 engines which burned the bad fuel. Only about half required major work, he said. The others were restored to running condition by pouring large doses of solvent in their carburetors.

Petrofina said the fuel was distributed to stations in Hugo, Idabel, and Poteau.

Claims against the oil company are being handled by Travelers Insurance Co., but officials have declined to comment on the number of claims filed so far.

Boys Admit Setting Fire

SHERMAN, Tex. (AP) — Fire officials in Sherman said late Wednesday that three preteen boys admitted setting a fire which leveled a city block of warehouses.

Firemen battled the blaze for more than two-and-a-half hours before it was contained Wednesday night.

No official loss estimate was made, but authorities said the damage to commodities stored in the warehouses could alone be in excess of $1 million.

Those commodities included cotton, surgical supplies and foods.

Wright Hits Big Banks, Fed Reserve In Testimony

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Big banks and an outdated and inflexible Federal Reserve Board philosophy is ruining the American economy and "transforming us from a nation of investors into a nation of lenders and borrowers."

This summarizes one small aspect of John Wright's testimony this week to the House Banking and Currency Committee, and except for the accompaniment of a great amount of research, it probably sounded like an old refrain from a rigid mind.

The banks, he said, have interposed themselves "between the owners and users of capital ... causing the transformation of equity capital into debt; investors into lenders and businessmen into borrowers instead of partners."

The Federal Reserve, he said, threatens the traditional American free enterprise system by denying working capital to American business and by insisting that high interest and a no-growth economy are needed to fight inflation.

Interestingly, Wright isn't a Populist so much as a businessman. His investment management and advisory organization handles directly about $250 million of investments. It advises 17 New York Stock Exchange member firms. And most significantly, it advises about 500 banks and institutional investors.

Americans, Wright says, in effect, are taking it in the neck because of some irrational thinking on the part of the nation's leaders who, he says, are worsening the very problems they claim to battle.

In his prepared testimony, he said that in 1965 the bank prime lending rate was 4.53 per cent and the consumer price index rose 1.7 per cent for the year. The prime is now 12 per cent and so is the rate of price increases.

High interest rates today add to the cost of doing business, says Wright. They lead to higher prices. They add to everyone's cost of living. And they deliver the economy into the hands of the big banks.

High interest rates draw money from the equity markets, of course, and the latter are now almost comatose. Corporations cannot raise equity capital and so are forced to borrow from the banks.

Wright proposes an investment tax credit of $50 for every $1,000 in savings or investment growth, as an incentive for capital formation. And he would sharply restrict the rates on big certificates of deposits, which he feels indirectly leads to higher rates for loans.

And he would recast the Federal Reserve Board, which has "virtually destroyed our equity markets," so that it would be more responsive to the national economic and financial goals.

Junior Editors' Quiz on THE KITE

QUESTION: Tell me about the Kite

* * *

ANSWER: The Kite, a bird of prey, belongs to the Accipitridae or hawk family of birds. This group also includes eagles, hawks and ospreys. About 260 members of the group are distributed widely over the globe. Of this number, about 70 species are Kites. They have long narrow wings and are graceful gliders. They flap and sail through the air looking for their prey and are able to sail or glide long distances.

There are four species of Kites in the United States. They are found in the south and southeast. They differ in appearance and vary in size from 13 to 25 inches. Kites feed on insects, lizards, snakes and small frogs. The Everglade Kite subsists on a certain kind of large fresh-water snail exclusively. Kites are friends of the farmer and the sportsman because they eliminate pests.

Waste Motor Oil Recycled

By BILL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — For Cameron L. Kerran, that dirty, sludgy stuff drained from an auto crankcase is the beginning of a cycle that not only eases the energy shortage, but is helping the ecology too.

That waste motor oil is the raw material for Kerran's Double Eagle Refining Co., one of the few oil re-refiners left in the United States. And Kerran says if restrictive laws on re-refiners aren't changed, the shortage of lubricating oils will make the gasoline and heating oil shortage look like a potentate's feast compared with a backyard picnic.

Kerran takes that dirty oil, runs it through his refinery and says the finished product is as good, or better, than it was the first time around. And re-refined oil sells at only 60 to 70 per cent of the cost of new lubricating oil from a major oil company.

The waste oil comes from service stations, garages, truck lines and airports within a 600-mile radius of Oklahoma City. And, for Average Joe Motorist who changes his own car oil, Kerran has even placed barrels at fire stations where the old oil can be dumped.

But Kerran is worried about the future supply of lubricating oil.

"I've been to meetings where people who know a lot more about it than I do have presented papers saying that the lubricating oil is that part of the barrel of oil that is going to be in much greater shortage than anything else because the crude oil in the world today is not of lubricating oil quality," he said.

To add to the problem, Kerran said that "when the energy crisis got critical last winter, many of the industrial plants in the North and East began to use waste motor oil for fuel oil for industrial burners and boilers.

"Once it's burned, you're done — you'll never recover it again."

By re-refining, however, much of the oil is saved. But he said the waste in burning the motor oil is only a small part of the problem — that an even greater danger comes from the contaminants the burning produces.

He said that on the national level, moves are being made to ban the burning of waste motor oil in boilers or burners, just as moves are being made to remove what he calls restrictive laws on re-refiners. But he said the action is slow.

The Double Eagle plant has been here since 1931 and started out as a service to garages which had to find a way to dispose of the oil they drained from customers' cars. While helping filling stations and garages, it left Kerran with a problem — what to do with the sludge left after the re-refining process.

"It can't be burned because of pollution laws and we have to be very careful where we dump it. The environmental protection laws are very stringent and require that if it is dumped in a land fill, it must be in a certain type of land fill where it won't seep into underground streams."

Kerran said that for each 100 gallons of waste motor oil, the re-refining process removes an average of 20 gallons of water, 10 to 15 per cent dirt and additives and 5 to 10 per cent gasoline or solvents which have been poured in.

"From that 100 gallons of waste motor oil, we end up with about 55 gallons of finished lubricating oil," he said.

Extensions Granted In Texas Clean Air Appeal

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals says some of the clean air regulations imposed on Texas cities by the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) need reconsideration, although it was correct in calling the state's provisions inadequate.

The federal court's 51-page decision dealt with Texas' appeal of EPA regulations and EPA's refusal to grant a blanket two-year extension of the target date for reaching acceptable clean air standards.

Among other things, the decision said Texas must set higher emission control standard for four "air quality control regions" (ACQRs) covering Austin-Waco, Dallas-Fort Worth, San Antonio and El Paso.

In concurring, Judge Charles Clark complained that throwing emission control issues into the appeals court level without lower court hearings is poor procedure.

"No formal hearing has ever been held in this highly technical, factually complex matter," he said, and the result is that a very complicated matter is put before the appeals court without issues first being sifted and organized.

"The subject matter of this action involves the health and welfare of millions of citizens, the continued business vitality of tens of thousands of firms and compliance expenditures costing billions of dollars," he said.

"These extensive rights deserve a more orderly process of judicial reflection."

Highlights of the decision include:

—Austin-Waco ACQR was granted an extension of the deadline for attaining the national clean air standard for oxidants. EPA regulation for vapor recovery during gasoline marketing operations is invalid.

—Houston-Galveston ACQR was granted deferment of land-use and transportation regulations but EPA regulations on degreasing, vapor recovery during the filing of storage tanks at service stations, vehicle maintenance and inspection are valid and enforceable, as is a requirement that old cars be fitted with emission controls.

—Dallas-Fort Worth ACQR was granted extension of date for compliance with national air standard.

In the San Antonio ACQR, EPA transportation regulations were deferred pending reconsideration of the refinery reactivity factor. Regulations for degreasing, vapor recovery during the filling of service station storage tanks, vehicle inspection and maintenance are valid and enforceable.

El Paso ACQR, regulations on vapor recovery during gasoline marketing operations were deferred pending reconsideration of the refinery reactivity factor.

Nixon Reports Like Echoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chasing reports that the President would quit was like being in a cave full of echoes. Everybody had heard something. Nobody was sure where it was coming from.

It was a hunt for one of the biggest news stories of the century. Here is how it was Wednesday for reporters who didn't find it.

Two newspapers, in Phoenix and Providence, said Nixon had decided to resign. White House spokesmen wouldn't give a straight answer. The game was afoot.

Reporters sought out Vice President Gerald R. Ford, who would be sworn in the moment the President stepped down. No clues there. Ford went ahead with plans to appear at a routine ceremony Thursday morning.

One White House aide reported that Nixon would resign, but wasn't sure when. Nothing first-hand.

A Democratic member of the House Judiciary Committee, Charles Rangel of New York, said he had been told by one of Nixon's Republican defenders on the committee that a resignation might come soon. "He said, 'Don't write your impeachment speech, you won't get a chance to use it,'" Rangel said. "I tried to pump him, but he wouldn't say anything." Intriguing, but what did it mean?

There was a rumor that Edward Cox, the President's son-in-law, had been summoned to Washington from New York. The rumor proved to be true. Then it was reported that the President had met with his family at the White House. But what did he tell them?

A call to yet another Republican congressman brought this response:

"I've been listening to the radio all afternoon. Nobody will tell me anything either."

Another Democratic congressman, who asked not to be named, said a senior Republican colleague had told him Nixon would quit Friday. But there was no indication where the information originated.

Various television news reports quoted various sources as indicating Nixon would resign.

Finally, in late afternoon, Nixon summoned Republican congressional leaders to the White House. Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater said afterward that Nixon had reached "no decision" on whether to quit, a significant softening of his previous vows to stick out his term. He said he had told Nixon the impeachment picture was "very gloomy".

The resignation picture remained very unclear.

Adviser Explains Resignation

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas lawyer Cecil Emerson says he resigned from the White House legal staff last March because a top aide to President Nixon would not let him go about his assigned duties of listening to the White House tapes.

Emerson said Wednesday he now realizes he was not allowed to hear all the tapes or read their transcripts because of what he called "a coverup of a coverup."

Emerson was one of two chief advisers to White House counsel James St. Clair for six months, and represented Nixon during the Senate Watergate Committee questioning of White House personnel.

He said the tapes were withheld from him while he was White House coordinator with the Federal Bureau of Investigation during a probe into the original 18-minute gap in the Watergate tape recording.

Emerson said presidential counsel J. Fred Buzhardt, "wouldn't let anybody hear them but himself."

"I couldn't ever figure out who was concealing what," Emerson said. "But I knew something was being concealed between Buzhardt, Gen. Haig (Nixon's chief of staff) and Nixon. ... Buzhardt had to have known about these three missing tapes because he was listening to the tapes and providing the transcripts."

Last March Emerson said he believed Nixon was "innocent, totally and completely," of any impeachable acts. After reading the transcripts this week, Emerson said he now feels Nixon apparently did know what was going on in the Watergate Coverup.

Emerson said, "I couldn't really think it was Nixon himself. But evidently it was Nixon and Buzhardt and Al Haig."

Suit Filed On Party

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The U.S. District Court has been asked to stop the Texas Democratic Party from holding its state convention on Sept. 17, in conflict with Rosh Hashanah, a Jewish holy day.

The suit was filed Wednesday by the Texas Civil Liberties Union in the name of 11 persons who said there are of the Jewish faith and are elected delegates to the state convention.

State Democratic Chairman Calvin Guest and the State Democratic Executive Committee members are defendants.

More than half of Iran's 29 million people farm or herd flocks of sheep and goats.

ENLIST IN NAVY—These two Snyderites have enlisted in the U.S. Navy and have gone to Great Lakes, Ill. for basic training. At left is Alan Roberts who enlisted in the Nuclear Power Program for six years. He was enlisted in the advanced pay grade of E-3 with automatic advancement to E-4 upon completion of basic electronics school. At right is Johnny Erwin, who enlisted for four years.

Drilling Pace Maintained

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The drilling pace of wildcat oil wells in Texas remained ahead of last year, but gas wildcats were about even, the Railroad Commission reported Wednesday.

Nineteen wildcat oil wells were drilled in Texas from July 15 through Aug. 1, the commission said, for a yearly total of 163, or 38 more than at this time a year ago.

Only five wildcat gas wells were drilled for a yearly total of 203, compared to 202 at this time in 1973.

The new wildcat oil wells included four each in the Houston, Abilene and San Angelo districts, and one each in San Antonio no. 2, Corpus Christi, Kilgore no. 5 and Kilgore no. 6, Midland, Lubbock and Wichita Falls districts.

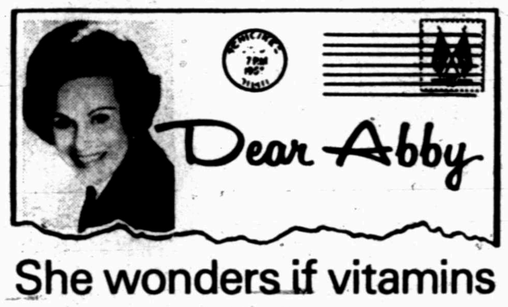

The new wildcat gas wells included three in the San Antonio no. 2 district and one each in the Kilgore no. 5 and Abilene districts.

A total of 303 oil wells were completed during the two-week period for a yearly total of 2,-901, or 477 more than at this time a year ago. Sixty-seven gas wells were completed for a yearly total of 1,0[illegible] or 133 more than a year ago.

The commission said 208 wells were plugged, including 205 dry holes.

She wonders if vitamins improve his hangovers and sex life.

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who has always been a bit of a hypochondriac, is now on a vitamin kick.

He takes huge doses of vitamin C to "prevent colds." He takes vitamin B-complex in enormous quantities to "cure a hangover." And now he's added massive doses of vitamin E to "improve his sex life and prevent heart trouble."

Please ask some of your medical consultants if those vitamins do what they claim they'll do.

I don't take anything and I'm in better shape than my husband. ANTI-VITAMINS

DEAR ANTI: "Taking something" has become a popular national pastime. No one should introduce a foreign substance into his body (vitamins included) without the knowledge and approval of his physician.

Dr. Irvine H. Page, who has done exceedingly productive research in the prevention and alleviation of heart ailments says: "There is growing evidence that gross overdosage of vitamins can cause not only harm to your pocketbook, but to your body."

It's not much of an exaggeration to say that half the sick people in the world can be cured by going to bed, and the other half by getting up.

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for three months. This is my second marriage and Harvey's third. I am 55 and Harvey is 60.

We are living in Harvey's lovely large home, but I am not happy here. You see, Harvey has shared this home with his two former wives. There are so many memories here for him, as well as things that belong to his first wives.

Also, this house is much too big for just the two of us. I would much rather have a smaller, cozier place. He could easily sell this house at a profit.

I love Harvey very much and he says he loves me. I've never told him how uncomfortable I am here. Would it be wrong to ask him to move? NUMBER THREE

DEAR THREE: Ask him. And if he loves you, you're in for a moving experience.

DEAR ABBY: This is in regard to "Desperate," whose widowed mother started "running around" at age 62, joining different social clubs, including a "swingers' club."

I would get down on my hands and knees and thank God for such a mother. Most sons and daughters complain because their widowed mothers refuse to take an interest in anything other than their children and expect "the family" to entertain them constantly.

And if a 62-year-old widowed mother should be lucky enough to find herself a man for companionship (with or without marriage) it would be a blessing for everyone, for she would then be living her own life, and freeing her children to live theirs. NOT FREE IN N.J.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NEEDS ADVICE IN TULSA": It's pointless to tell a grown daughter: "If you ever get into any trouble, come to me first." If the proper relationship has been built over the years, she will. If it hasn't, the words will be meaningless.

Problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclosed stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Local All-Stars In State Meet

The Miss Softball America State Tournament gets underway tomorrow in Abilene. Three games are on tap for 6 p.m., followed by three more at 8. The tournament is scheduled to wind up with the championship game at 2 p.m. Sunday. The winner will advance to the National Championship, which will be in Odessa over the Labor-Day weekend.

The Snyder Major League All-Stars will meet Dallas Castleview at 8 on the Will Hair Park Field. The Dallas team is from the same district as the team that was defeated by the Snyder Minor League All-Stars 39-6 on the same field two weeks ago. The Snyder Minor League All-Stars went ahead and won the state tournament, which is as far as the minor leagues compete.

The 6 p.m. contests will include Big Spring vs. Midland Maroon at Will Hair Park, Odessa West-Abilene North at Sears Park, and Breckenridge-Denison on Field 5. The other two 8 o'clock games will be Albany-Odessa East at Sears Park, and Midland Orange-Abilene South on Field 5.

The Snyder All-Stars will include girls from the four teams that competed on the local level. Joyce Reaves is the manager, while the coaches are Howard Jones and Nada Cotton.

The Miss Softball America Major League is for girls ages 13-15. At the State Tournament there will also be a Senior League All-Star Division, which is for the 16-18 age group. Snyder did not have a Senior League, but two local girls, Karen and Cathy Weber, will be at the tourney representing the Big Spring All-Stars.

Miss Softball America has been in operation in Texas for three years, with Snyder participating all three years. This is the first year that a Snyder All-Star team has won a state tournament, although the Minor League All-Stars did place second last year.

Evel Knievel Granted Permit

BOISE, Idaho (AP) — Motorcycle daredevil Evel Knievel has cleared the last hurdle prior to his planned jump over the Snake River Canyon.

The state of Idaho granted Knievel a permit for the scheduled Sept. 8 jump on Tuesday. Knievel plans to use a rocket-powered motorcycle to jump the canyon, which is about a quarter-mile wide and about 500 feet deep.

Pitchers' Duels Mark AL Games

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Both Nolan Ryan of the California Angels and Roger Moret of the Boston Red Sox took no-hitters into the late stages Wednesday night, only to lose their grip.

Ryan's no-hit bid dissolved in the ninth inning and he lost a 2-1 heart-breaker to the Chicago White Sox. Moret held Milwaukee hitless until the eighth inning but needed relief help to beat the Brewers 1-0.

After Ryan struck out Jorge Orta, his 13th strikeout of the game, leading off the ninth inning, Dick Allen beat out a slow roller along the third base line for a hit.

Then the roof fell in and the White sox poured across their winning runs against the Angels' strikeout king.

In the other American League games, the New York Yankees beat the Baltimore Orioles 4-3; the Kansas City Royals took a doubleheader from the Minnesota Twins 7-6 and 5-1; the Detroit Tigers nipped the Cleveland Indians 3-2 and the Oakland A's ripped the Texas Rangers 8-4.

After Allen beat out a roller off the hard-throwing Ryan, Carlos May reached first on an error by first baseman Bruce Bochte and Ken Henderson singled to center to score the tying run for Chicago.

Henderson, who took second on the throw home, held the base as Bill Melton fouled out for the second out of the inning. Bill Sharp then came through with a dramatic hit to right, scoring pinch runner Lee Richard with the winning run.

Red Sox 1, Brewers 0

Moret had two out in the eighth when light-hitting Pedro Garcia lined the first pitch to left field for a single.

That moved Bob Coluccio, who had walked, to second, and brought Dick Drago out of the bullpen. The veteran right-hander got Don Money on a line drive to end the inning. Mike Hegan accounted for the Brewers' other hit with a lead-off single in the ninth and Bob Veale came on to preserve the victory.

Yankees 4, Orioles 3

Thurman Munson drove in one run and scored what proved to be the winner in New York's victory over Baltimore. The Yanks took a 1-0 lead in the first when Brooks Robinson fumbled a grounder by Bill Sudakis, scoring Roy White, then added two more runs in the third.

Royals 7-5 , Twins 6-1

Amos Otis drilled his third hit of the game, delivering George Brett with Kansas City's winning run in the eighth inning as the Royals defeated Minnesota in the first game of their doubleheader. The Royals won the nightcap as Jim Wohlford, Brett and Frank White tripled in runs.

Tigers 2, Indians 2

Detroit left-hander Mickey Lolich tossed a seven-hitter and the Tigers scored all their runs on five straight singles in the seventh inning to edge Cleveland.

A's 8, Rangers 4

Oakland's Reggie Jackson cracked a three-run homer and Joe Rudi added a solo shot to ignite the A's over Texas.

National League scores: Philadelphia 3, Chicago 2; Pittsburgh 10, New York 1; Montreal 7, St. Louis 5; Houston 6, Atlanta 4 and Cincinnati 2, Los Angeles 0.

WFL Storm Ties Texans

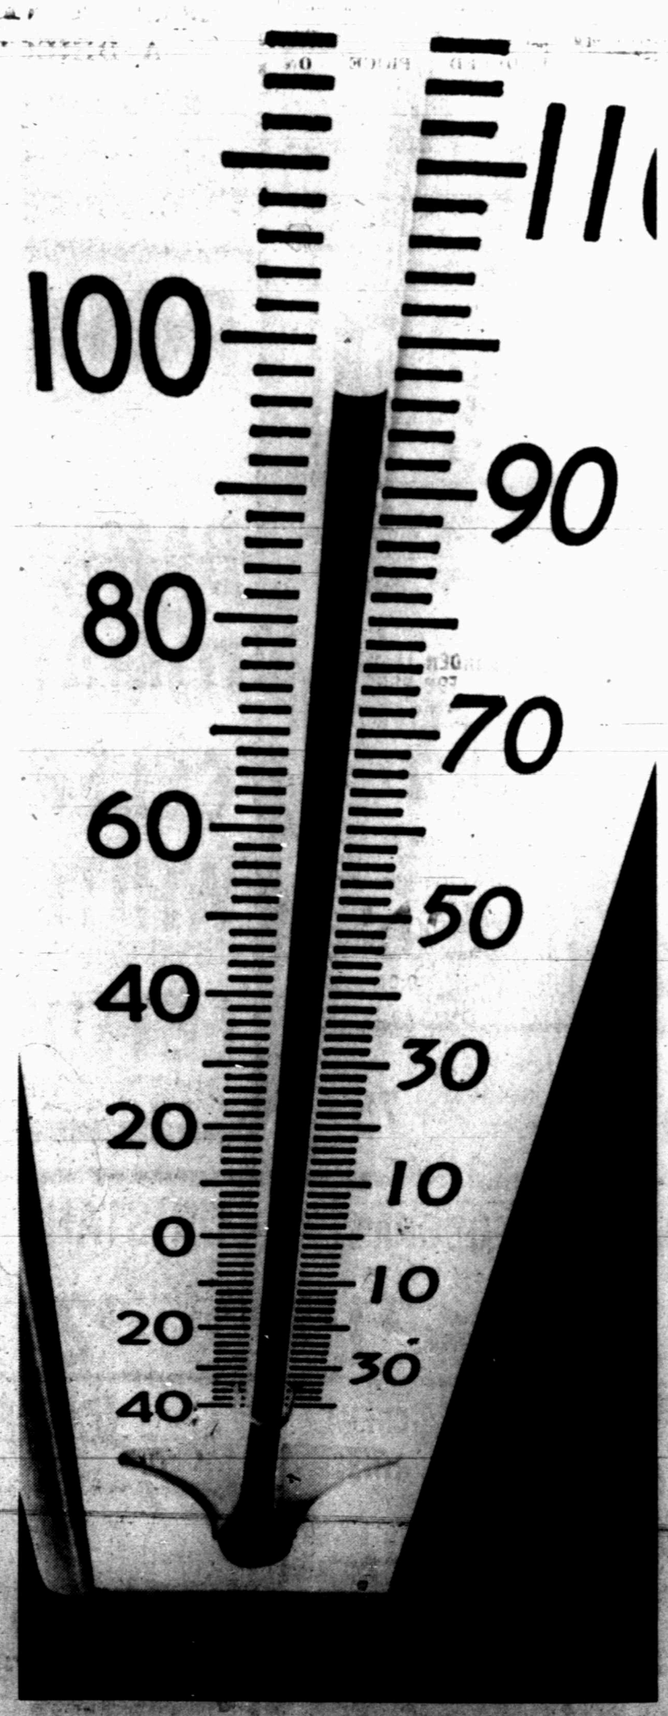

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Rookie quarterback Ken Johnson's 15-yard scoring pass to Sam Dickerson with 13 seconds left gave the Portland Storm a 15-15 standoff with the Houston Texans in the World Football League's first overtime game Wednesday night.

Johnson, making his first pro start, ran for the action point but was stopped just short of the goal.

If your electric service bill is higher this summer than last summer, you're looking at the biggest reason.

If your electric service bill is higher this summer than last, the biggest reason is that it has been hotter this summer.

This means you are probably using more electricity for air conditioning.

The "degree days" — a technical term to indicate how much cooling you need — are up about 42 per cent during the period May 1-July 15 this year as compared to last in this West Texas area.

This means that air conditioners are working longer and using more electricity, which is reflected in your electric service bill.

While the recent rate increase is part of the reason your electric service bill is higher this summer, it's a small part compared to the effect of higher temperatures.

There is still quite a bit of summer ahead of us. With that in mind, you may find these suggestions helpful:

A thermostat setting of 78-80 has been recommended.

Check the filters in your air conditioning units at least once a month. Replace disposable types or clean permanent types as needed. Clogged filters make your unit work longer and use more electricity.

Keep doors and windows closed as much as possible, and be sure the fireplace damper is closed to keep the cooled air you're paying for inside where it belongs.

For more helpful ideas, ask for a free copy of our folder about using electricity efficiently for air conditioning. You can get a copy by dropping by our office or requesting a copy on the comment portion of your electric bill.

Or if you need answers right away, call us. We'll be glad to help.

Cooling degrees are the number of degrees by which the average outdoor temperature each day exceeds 70 degrees. If a day's morning low and afternoon high average 85 degrees, we record it as a 15-degree cooling day.
