Lawmakers blast Senate proposal

By DEBE GRAVES
Staff Writer

A proposed bill passed by a 17-1 vote in the Senate energy committee on Wednesday is drawing fire from Texas legislators.

The Johnston-McClure Bill rewrites the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 and calls for only one site to be characterized for placement of the nation's first nuclear repository.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-College Station, and Rep. Larry Combest, R-Lubbock, have some criticisms of the proposed bill which provides financial inducements for the state which accepts the repository.

"The idea of providing an inducement for a state to accept the site is a sound proposal which I support," says Gramm. "If successful, the proposal would save the taxpayers $2 billion and eliminate the anguish of forcing a state to accept the site against its will.

"However, the provisions of the Johnston-McClure Bill which would empower the Department of Energy to select a site in 1989 without the consent of the state and the people in the area where the repository is to be located are totally unacceptable."

Gramm said he will vigorously oppose siting the nuclear waste repository in any state which is unwilling to accept it.

"As the author of the provision in the Nuclear Waste Policy Act which specifically provides for local residents and state officials to have a say in the site selection process, I will demand that these policies be reinforced in any new legislation," he said.

If passed, the bill would provide the DOE with the authority to select one of three sites currently being characterized in Deaf Smith County, Texas, Nevada and Washington. The general belief is that the bill singles out Nevada as the site which would be chosen.

Sen. Chic Hecht, R-Nev., cast the lone dissenting vote in the committee. In documentary language, included in the report but not part of the bill itself, Hecht said that it looks like Nevada is going to get the dump and so should receive some favorable consideration for the location of DOE's Superconducting Super Collider project for which states are in heavy competition.

"The two cannot be combined each should stand on its own merit for safety measures," Combest responded.

Two sites in Texas are among those in competition for the high-dollar SSC project.

The full House and Senate must pass the bill before it can be signed by President Reagan.

"It's got a long, long way to go," said a Gramm spokesman.

Combest has reservations about passage of the bill in the House where numerous representatives, including Arizona's powerful Democrat Morris Udall, have expressed support for bills seeking a moratorium on DOE site characterization studies pending review of the site selection procedure and revisions in the program.

WDIC examines alternates roles

By JOHN BROOKS
Managing Editor

A change in by-laws to allow some form of alternate representation for absent members was the main topic of the monthly meeting Thursday night of the Waste Deposit Impact Committee.

Members John Fuston and Troy Sublett were out-of-town, and there is no provision in WDIC's by-laws for alternate representation.

"In a corporate setting, someone would send an alternate with a proxy vote," said WDIC Executive Director Phillip Niedzielski-Eichner. "It would still be a vote of the member, and it would place a burden on the member to make sure the representative knows the member's position."

"The representative with the proxy may speak out on any issue, but would make decisions that represent the position of the member."

"We would need to go back to each entity and contract with them for alternates," said attorney Rex Easterwood, WDIC's legal representative. "The inter-local governmental contract doesn't provide for an alternate representative."

Because the subject was not listed on the agenda, a final decision could not be made. WDIC could put the item on the agenda for the August 27 meeting.

Eichner reviewed WDIC's responses to a questionnaire submitted by US Sen. Bennett Johnson, chairman of the Senate Energy Committee, on possible changes in the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982 to allow more local government input in waste deposit activities.

Eichner explained that the NWPA was "drafted in the eleventh hour" and negotiators from the House and Senate, not wanting to get bogged down with deciding the official role of governmental bodies in the area of a proposed site, left out all references to the role of local governments.

"It's unique to this piece of legislation," Eichner said, "because most laws spell out the role of local governments in carrying out the laws."

"The Senate committee is now trying to find a way to provide impact from local governments, to specify burdens and responsibilities."

"I don't want four or five surrounding entities that might benefit to overwhelm us," said WDIC Secretary Frank Zinser. "What might benefit them might not benefit us. The larger communities might have different objectives."

Eichner also said he will present the budget for the fiscal year beginning Sept. 1 to each governmental entity for their approval before sending it to the Governor's Nuclear Waste Programs Office for final approval and funding.

The budget, paid by grant funds, is for $975,000.

Local Roundup

Woman injured in wreck

An 18-year-old pregnant woman is listed in stable condition at Deaf Smith General Hospital where she is being treated for injuries sustained in an automobile accident Thursday evening.

She was in a vehicle which spun out of control and landed against a tree when it was hit by a speeding car which ran a stop sign, according to witnesses.

Officers report three arrests on Thursday. A 28-year-old man was arrested for public intoxication and disorderly conduct and two boys, ages 15 and 16, were detained for shoplifting at the E-Z Mart store on Park Ave. The boys were released to their parents.

A woman reported that while she was in Tice Grocery Store, a man slashed two tires on her vehicle. A witness outside the store provided a description of the man and his vehicle and another witness was threatened at knifepoint not to talk to the police. The incident is under investigation.

A woman on Ave. K reported that her husband assaulted her. The woman called for assistance from a neighbor's home and met officers in the front yard of her home. The husband had locked the doors and the officers did not gain entry. The wife was taken to a family member's house. She told officers she will file charges.

A residence on the 600 block of Ave. F was burglarized during the day. Entry was gained by removing an evaporative cooler from a window. Jewelry and a V.C.R. were taken in the burglary.

Other stoler items reported include two packs of beer from Allsup's, a license plate and a red chow dog.

A clerk at Dairy Queen reported a man swindled her out of $20 by changing money back and forth and confusing her. The management gave officers a description of the man's vehicle and tag number.

Harassing phone calls were reported on Ave. E and a suspicious vehicle was reported on Grand. The vehicle drives by the residence every morning at 3:30, and the man found that to be suspicious. A check found the vehicle to be an Amarillo newspaper carrier.

A woman on Lee complained of a manure truck parked in her neighborhood. A man reported his 13-year-old daughter as a runaway but later called back to report she had returned.

A juvenile sought police help in retrieving a pair of bicycle handlebars and an officer reported damage done to his police car while parked in his driveway. Someone had thrown rocks at the car and scratched the paint.

Nine citations were issued.

Soviets present draft

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union today presented a draft treaty on reducing long-range, or strategic, nuclear forces and indicated it would continue to link such a treaty to limits on the U.S. Strategic Defense Initiative.

"Today we are presenting our draft (treaty) on strategic offensive missiles," deputy chief Soviet negotiator Alexei Obukhov said. He called the Soviet proposal "another major step in the negotiations."

Obukhov, speaking to reporters outside the U.S. mission before the meeting, said an agreement on space and defense systems to include limits on the U.S. "Star Wars" defense initiative "is a necessary prerequisite" for an agreement on long-range weapons.

The chief U.S. delegate on long-range weapons, Ronald Lehman, speaking separately, said: "That is not a reasonable linkage. It creates obstacles." However, he said the Soviet draft treaty submitted today was an "important step — now we can sit down and draft treaty language."

The Soviets presented their proposal at a joint plenary meeting of the two sides, comprising about two dozen negotiators and aides on each side.

The United States presented a draft treaty on long-range weapons in May and had been waiting for a Soviet response.

The two sides agreed at their summit in Reykjavik last year to halve their strategic arsenals, but they disagreed on how to do it. The United States wants to impose "sublimits" on the different weapons categories, to prevent either side from favoring one type of weapon. The Soviets, who are strongest on land-based missiles, disagree.

Strategic arms represent one area of the three areas under discussion at the Geneva arms control talks. The other two are intermediate-range nuclear forces and space and defense systems.

The Soviet move on strategic weapons follows recent movement in the other two areas.

Hopes for an intermediate-range missile accord rose last week when the Soviets announced that they would eliminate their missiles in Asia as well as Europe if the United States agreed to get rid of all its missiles.

Weather fair over Texas

By The Associated Press

A ridge of high pressure over the central United States continued to dominate Texas weather this morning, keeping skies clear over virtually all the state, the National Weather Service said.

The only active weather in the state was a lone thundershower in East Texas near Lufkin.

Temperatures this morning were on the warm side after a hot afternoon and evening. Temperatures were mostly in the middle and upper 70s with a few 60s in the Panhandle. Extremes at 4 a.m. were 57 degrees at Marfa in West Texas to 82 at Carswell Air Force Base in Fort Worth.

Other early morning temperatures around the state included 67 at Amarillo, 79 at Wichita Falls, 76 at Waco, Austin and San Antonio, 73 at Corpus Christi, 75 at Brownsville, 76 at Houston, 72 at San Angelo and Lubbock, 65 at Midland and 73 at El Paso.

Light southerly winds breezed across the state at speeds of 5 to 10 mph.

The hot Texas summer is going to continue with sunny skies today and fair skies tonight, the weather service said. There is a slight chance of scattered thunder showers in West Texas and in East Texas this afternoon. Highs were to be in the 90s with some 100s in North Texas and along the Rio Grande. Lows tonight will be in the 70s with 60s in the west and the Panhandle.

Chamber gets committee updates

An update on committee activities and projects was given by Mike Carr, executive vice president, when the Deaf Smith County Chamber of Commerce board met Thursday evening at the C of C office.

Carr recently attended a Texas Economic Development Commission meeting in Austin, where it was announced that TEDC and several state agencies will be under the umbrella of the Texas Department of Commerce starting Sept. 1. Carr reported he also visited with State College Coordinating Board officials about the plans for a Hereford campus of the Texas State Technical Institute.

Continuing meetings with TSTI and Amarillo College officials are being made, according to Carr, to work on funding proposals for a training center in Hereford. Carr said it is anticipated that the first course could be offered here by October.

The chamber manager reported that the Hereford Industrial Foundation and the chamber's Industrial Development Committee met to discuss possibilities of locating new industry in the county. They are working with a company at present, and the firm is expected to select a site in the next few weeks. The group's are also trying to establish funding for local economic development projects with an assist from local entities, said Carr.

Betty Taylor, Women's Division president, reported the ladies' group will have several game booths for youngsters in the Town & Country Jubilee Junction. The local organization will host a regional Women's Division Conference on Sept. 26 at the Community Center.

The board passed a resolution commending First National Bank for its involvement in the recent Fun Breakfast. Carr announced that the next Fun Breakfast has been scheduled for Sept. 17.

Directors present at the meeting were President Mike Bowles, Fred Rivera, Bill Harris, Allen Parsons, David Emerick, Larry Malamen, Betty Taylor, B.J. Gilliland, Lajean Henry and Carol LeGate.

Pre-registration will be held at Hereford High, and Stanton and La Plata Junior High, from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. each day starting Aug. 17 and continuing through Aug. 31.

Elementary pre-registration will be held Aug. 19-21 with hours of 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. each of the three days. A special orientation for sophomores at Hereford High will be held at 7:30 p.m. on Aug. 27.

Babbling Brooks

By John Brooks

A guy just walked by in a chicken suit, so I thought, while still sane, I would get to work and quit day-dreaming.

If learning all the new colors is a requirement for Yuppie-dom, then I shall remain a square, or whatever the tag is for non-Yuppies.

After the chicken left the office, in came a fancy-shmancy modern hanging lamp. The wood shades were in shapes that could not be described by even the best geometry teacher, and it was kind of a yucky yellow.

"I'm going to re-paint it," proclaimed the new owner, who actually paid $5 for the, uh, thing. "I'm going to paint it mauve."

"What is a mauve?" I asked, feeling the "D" I got in eighth grade art rising to the occasion.

"It's kind of a light rosy-pink."

"Like the bow in your hair."

"No, that's melon."

Now, wait. All of the melons I know are kind of yellow, like cantaloupe, or red or gold, like watermelon.

Maybe this was a muskmelon or kumquat or something else.

Muskmelon and kumquat are kind of like French cuisine.

You eat them by candlelight.

Only because you don't want it to be light enough for anyone to see you eating that junk in broad daylight.

Truthfully, I don't know a pastel from a brick. Whatever happened to things that were cherry red, ice blue, hot pink or deep purple? Why do things have to be mauve?

It carries over all over the place. Oklahoma University is not red and white, it's crimson and cream. The Houston Oilers wear Columbia blue.

I got off the boat back at the difference between antique white and beige.

Reagan headed for hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Reagan, paying the price for spending long hours in the sun, will have a skin cancer removed from the tip of his nose late today.

"They have to do a little peeling here on the end of my nose," Reagan said Thursday. He said he was feeling fine and was unconcerned about today's procedure at Bethesda Naval Hospital, which will be performed with a local anesthesia that blocks pain while allowing him to remain awake.

It's the third time in two years Reagan has had skin cancer on his nose. Experts say the 76-year-old Reagan likely will have recurrences of the problem — known as a basal cell carcinoma — for the rest of his life.

Skin cancer, which affects an estimated 500,000 people a year in America, is the most common form of cancer and the most easily cured.

Reagan, an avid outdoorsman and onetime lifeguard, called attention to his problem Thursday during a speech to anti-abortion activists. Pointing to a small bandage on his nose, where a skin sample was taken a day earlier, Reagan said, "This is just a small billboard that says ... 'Stay out of the sun.'"

Later, Reagan joked about his nose when reporters asked him about the seriousness of the cancer.

"Oh, my nose gets laughs all the time," Reagan said. More seriously, he said he had the problem because, "I went out into the sun too much."

Experts agreed. "Good old Ronald Reagan was out in the sun a lot with his occupation, Western movies and all," said Dr. Thomas Nigra, chief of dermatology at Washington Hospital Center. "The cowboy hat wasn't big enough. Instead of a 10-gallon hat, he needed a 20-gallon."

AUSTIN (AP) — Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby says he is mystified by the attention given to his decision against running for governor or seeking re-election in 1990.

The former newspaper executive told a news conference Wednesday he doesn't know what all the fuss is about.

"I've always thought on a scale of news values, when somebody announced they were not running for something, on a scale of 10 that may get a one," he said.

However, Hobby said, it's not time for his obituary, he said he wants to devote his energies the rest of his term toward restructuring the state's tax system.

"Contrary to what apparently is popular opinion, I have not died. I have not resigned from office. I will be lieutenant governor for 3½ more years," Hobby said.

"I just think I can be more effective during the next three years if I'm not perceived as someone with political ambitions or partisan motivations and so forth."

Hobby serves on the Select Committee on Tax Equity, which is expected to make sweeping recommendations to the 1989 Legislature for overhauling the Texas tax system. He said that is "a task that comes along about once a generation."

When he steps down, the 55-year-old Democrat will have been lieutenant governor for 18 years.

"Yes," Hobby said when asked if his decision was final. Asked he made it, Hobby said the time was right.

"The realities of running a campaign in a state as large as Texas are that it's always campaign time. There are always decisions to be made, decisions which are important not only to the candidate but to many other people as well. I could not decently defer those decisions any longer."

Hobby denied fearing a challenge from Attorney General Jim Mattox or anyone else, although he admitted he prefers holding office to campaigning for it.

"I don't like putting myself forward, projecting myself. I don't like to read stories in the paper...see myself on television. I'm just not basically that kind of person," he said. "I don't like doing it, but I've done it successfully for 14 years."

While declining a more elaborate explanation of his reasons, Hobby said he hasn't tired of public service and believes "I would make a very good governor."

Hobby said that except for a 1990 race, "I'm not ruling out anything."

Hobby said he plans no endorsements in either the governor's race or the race for his successor.

"I've never done that and don't plan on starting now," he said.

Asked who should replace him in presiding over the Texas Senate, Hobby replied, "The Democratic nominee."

One official whose name has been the subject of speculation about a race for one of those jobs, State Treasurer Ann Richards, said Wednesday it's too early to make a decision.

Equipment failure caused 'copter crash

FORT HOOD, Texas (AP) — Authorities linked the crash of a military helicopter that killed 10 people to an equipment malfunction, a heavy load and other factors, published reports say.

A source who has been involved in the accident investigation told the Killen Daily Herald on Thursday that high humidity and heat also contributed to the crash of a UH-1 Huey helicopter on June 22 at Fort Hood.

The source, who asked to remain anonymous, said the helicopter's compressor apparently stalled, causing a loss of power.

Ten National Guardsmen and Army Reservists were killed as they were participating in Starburst '87, the annual two-week training exercise of the 49th Armored Division, Texas National Guard.

The compressor on a helicopter engine forces air at high pressure into a combustion chamber, officials said.

"It puts a lot of air into a high-pressure fuel mix. The fuel mix feeds into turbines, which are connected to the drive shaft," one Fort Hood pilot explained. "A compressor stall creates a vacuum, causing loss of power to the rotor system."

The pilot said a compressor stall and the resulting loss of power would not necessarily cause a crash but other factors were considered.

"The helicopter was loaded to the max," the Fort Hood source told the Herald, "and the pilot was flying low and fast on a hot, humid day."

The source also said that the tail rotor blade of the chopper hit a tree. Part of the blade remained in the tree when crash investigators arrived on the scene, he said.

The tail section of the aircraft, however, was found on the ground. Official crash investigation results have not yet been released to the public. A spokesman for the 5th Army said one of the groups investigating the accident, U.S. Army Forces Command Headquarters at Fort McPherson, Ga., is to receive a collateral report on the crash today.

The Fort Hood source said he doubted that FORSCOM would receive the report that soon.

In addition to the 5th Army, Fort Hood, FORSCOM and the U.S. Army Safety Center at Fort Rucker, Ala., are participating in the crash investigation. Their findings will be put into one report, which will be reviewed by Gen. Joseph Palastra, FORSCOM commander.

FORSCOM has command of III Corps and Fort Hood and of the National Guard and Reserve units which lost men in the crash.

Excel workers retain old union

PLAINVIEW, Texas (AP) — A union formed during a 13-month strike at a Minnesota packing plant has lost its bid to represent workers at a Plainview packing company, but its leader said the vote may be challenged.

Employees of Excel Beef Packing Plant voted Thursday to retain United Food and Commercial Workers as their union, the plant's general manager said.

The vote was 496 for UFCW, 348 for North American Meat Packers, and 29 for no union, manager Warren Mirtsching said Thursday night after the votes were counted.

The challenging union was formed by deposed officers of the UFCW local representing Hormel workers in Austin, Minn., where they engaged in a 13-month strike before the parent union ordered them to call it off last year, said Bunn Butler, a representative from the Dallas offices of UFCW Local 540.

The Plainview Workers had to decide which union they wanted to represent them, or if there was to be a union at all. Mirtsching said 1,106 workers were eligible to vote.

Each union had the right to contest the outcome, and NAMPU spokesman Jessie Munoz said his group is considering disputing campaign tactics used by UFCW. Earlier this week he said workers at the plant were ready for new representation because UFCW was not fulfilling its obligations to the workers.

A charge was filed July 13 with the National Labor Relations Board against the company, stating that Excel had been engaging in unfair labor practices in connection with the January termination of Munoz and 24 other workers at the plant in Plainview.

The charge states the company fired the employees because of union activities on behalf of UFCW, said NLRB field examiner Ralph Gomez, who is investigating it.

UFCW is handling arbitration for Munoz and 18 others.

Although Munoz is no longer a member of UFCW, the union must still represent him because the termination occurred while he was a union member, Butler said.

On the other hand, Nigra said Reagan should not become a recluse from the sun, but should use sunscreen.

"I think the rest of his life, the president will be plagued by the recurrences of these things, but not seriously," Nigra said.

A biopsy of skin taken from Reagan's nose on Wednesday determined that he had basal cell carcinoma, as he did twice in 1985. Told of the diagnosis, Reagan canceled plans for a weekend at Camp David, Md., and arranged to go to the Bethesda facility just outside Washington.

The White House left open the possibility that Reagan might spend the night at the hospital, but said that was unlikely.

Dr. Perry Robins, president of the New York-based Skin Cancer Foundation, said the only reason for an overnight stay would be for cosmetic surgery. If a lot of tissue is taken from his nose, doctors will take some skin from behind Reagan's ear and graft it on his nose to minimize disfigurement.

Robins said that with removal of the cancerous patch, "He should have a very high cure rate."

Starting teachers salaries increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The average starting salary for school teachers jumped 7.1 percent this past year to $17,800, with six states offering more than $19,000 to newcomers, the American Federation of Teachers said today.

The hike over salaries over the year earlier was a larger boost than the 5.7 percent average pay raise for all public school teachers, the union said at the start of a biennial conference on school reform.

The AFT estimated that the average salary for all teachers in 1986-87 was $26,698.

The AFT said the current teacher salaries are the highest ever, even when adjusted for inflation. The previous high was $26,296 (in 1987 dollars) in 1972. The teachers' actual pay in 1972 was $9,705.

The 660,000-member union said starting salaries topped $19,000 in six states — Alaska, California, Connecticut, New Jersey, New York and Texas — and fell below $15,000 in seven — Idaho, Iowa, Maine, Mississippi, Nebraska, South Dakota and Vermont.

Alaska and South Dakota were the highest and lowest paying states, on average, for all teachers, even after adjusting salaries for regional differences in the cost of living, the AFT said.

The AFT's research shop gathered its data from state education departments.

But the union, using a cost-of-living index developed by private forecasters, said Texas moved up from 22nd to 5th when salaries were adjusted, while New Jersey tumbled from the 9th best paying state to the 36th.

AFT President Albert Shanker, noting that after inflation teacher salaries are back where they were 15 years ago, said in a statement: "Teachers seem always to be in the position of playing catch-up. The good news is that the education reform movement has given teachers some momentum. But how much longer can we afford to make education policy by looking at rear-view mirrors?"

Names in the News

MOSCOW (AP) — American rock star Billy Joel is giving belated high marks to Moscow audiences, but says economics stand in the way of a quick return to the Soviet Union after his tour ends.

He told a news conference Wednesday that a cool audience response was one reason he lost his temper during his second concert, when he overturned his electronic piano and smashed a microphone stand. But he didn't apologize for his conduct, which startled the audience. "I know it's shocking," he said. "That's rock 'n roll."

Asked to rate Soviet audiences, Joel replied: "In the beginning, not so good. In the end, as good as any audience I've ever played to."

He said people didn't seem to understand that they were allowed to show their emotions. "It was a little unnerving at first," he said.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor Sean Penn and his bodyguard got into a shoving match with a camera crew at the Los Angeles airport but apparently won't face any charges.

Bob Tur, owner of the independent Los Angeles News Service, was taping Penn's arrival from a film project in Germany on Wednesday when the actor, some friends, relatives and his bodyguard tried to enter an elevator at a Los Angeles International Airport parking building.

A shouting and shoving match ensued, said photographer Phil Ramey.

Tur's mother, Judy, said her son had decided not to press charges.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Stevie Wonder has joined actress Angie Dickinson and Atlantic Richfield Co. chief executive Lodewick Cook in planning a benefit concert to fight a hereditary form of blindness.

The concert Aug. 6 is to help raise money for a research center called "Wonderland" on behalf of RP International, an organization devoted to fighting retinitis pigmentosa. The disease strikes children and young adults, gradually making them blind.

"The world is blind," said Wonder, whose own blindness does not stem from RP. "We must prove we are not so blind so as not to see that victory (over RP) is near."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kiefer Sutherland, son of actor Donald Sutherland, has several films coming out and says he'd like to work with his father.

The 20-year-old actor, whose mother is Canadian stage actress Shirley Douglas, was acclaimed throughout Canada for his first film, "The Bay Boy," and has made nine movies since, including four that will be released during the next six months.

MISSION YEARBOOK: In 1969 some residents of Franklin, a neighborhood on Omaha's northside, came together to form a low-income, minority credit union. In spite of hard work, it was ready to fail, when Lawrence King returned to Franklin, his home community and was hired to manage the Franklin Community Federal Credit Union. King, a Presbyterian elder, drew on the help of his church and Presbytery as he turned the Credit Union around. It is an important resource in Franklin. We are asked to join in praising God for this source of hope and help, and to pray for its continued success.

There will be an unusual feature in this year's picnic—a Church Conference called for a membership vote to approve a fellow-member, Carl Thorell, as a candidate for the ministry. He has already been given the first required approval, from the church's committee on pastor-parish relations. Dr. Clifford Trotter, Amarillo District UMC Superintendent, will be at the picnic to conduct the conference.

Earlier in the afternoon there will be games for adults and children, singing, swimming and hiking. Meat for the supper will be hamburgers, donated by Johnny and Dee Anne Trotter. Families will bring salads, vegetable and desserts.

This is an annual family outing for members of the church and their friends. Other Sunday evening meetings will be merged with the picnic. Arrangements are being made by the Family Life Coordinators, Tom and Betty Conaway, Terry and Tina Langehennig, Bob and Sue Sims.

Ann Landers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I don't want to sound like a sourpuss but the world is changing and in some ways not for the better. People don't have the same respect for things that were once held sacred—like the flag, for instance.

A friend in Huntsville, Ala., sent me this little essay. Here's a message that needs to be read by everyone who lives in this great country of ours. Will you print it, Ann?—A Proud American DEAR PROUD: What a fine tribute. Here it is, with my thanks for sending it in.

REMEMBER ME?

Some people call me Old Glory, others call me the Star Spangled Banner, but whatever they call me, I am your flag, the flag of the United States of America. Something has been bothering me, so I thought I might talk it over with you.

I remember some time ago people lined up on both sides of the street to watch the parade and naturally, I was always there, proudly waving in the breeze.

When your daddy saw me coming, he immediately removed his hat and placed it over his heart. Remember? And you, I remember you standing there straight as a soldier. You didn't have a hat but you were giving the right salute.

Remember your little sister? Not to be outdone, she was saluting the same as you, with her hand over her heart. Remember?

What happened? I'm still the same old flag. Oh, I have added a few more stars since you were a boy, and a lot more blood has been shed since those parades of long ago.

But I don't feel as proud as I used to. When I come down your street, you just stand there with your hands in your pockets. I may get a small glance but then you look away.

I see the children running around and shouting. They don't seem to know who I am. I saw one man take off his hat and look around. He didn't see anybody else with his hat off so he quickly put his back on.

Is it a sin to be patriotic any more? Have you forgotten what I stand for and where I've been? Normandy, Omaha Beach, Guadalcanal, Korea and Vietnam.

Take a look at the Memorial Honor Rolls some time. Look at the names of those who never came back in order to keep this Republic free. One Nation Under God. When you salute me, you are actually saluting them.

Well, it won't be long until I'll be coming down your street again. So, when you see me, stand straight, place your right hand over your heart. I'll salute you waving back. And I'll know that you remembered.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I read your letter to E.A. in Riverside, the man who wanted to know why stores charge odd prices, such as $.99, $1.99, $2.99, etc. You answered: "It's a sales gimmick that's been around forever."

I am a 10-year-old boy and I think I have a better answer.

Around 1875, Melville Stone owned a newspaper named the Chicago Daily News. The price was a penny. Circulation was good, but after a while it began to drop off. He found that it was because pennies were in short supply. Mr. Stone persuaded Chicago merchants to sell their merchandise for a penny below the regular price. This put more pennies in circulation and it helped save the paper.

My source is: "Why Didn't I Think Of That?" by Webb Garrison. — N.C. Reader

DEAR N.C.: When I receive a letter like this from a 10-year-old boy it gives me fresh hope for the youth of this country. Thanks for writing.

What's the story on pot, cocaine, LSD, PCP, downers, speed? Can you handle them if you're careful? Send for Ann Landers' all-new booklet, "The Lowdown on Dope." For each booklet ordered, send $2, plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope (39 cents postage) to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 11562, Chicago, Ill. 60611-0562.

High court grapples with growing load of cases

NEW YORK (AP) — As religion pushes more vigorously into the social arena and opponents fight against it, a swelling welter of lawsuits work their way to the nation's highest court, where many issues remain tangled.

The upsurge of such cases was reflected in the recently completed 1986-87 term of the U.S. Supreme Court, and still more are pending when it opens its new term in October.

Both jurists and church-state specialists note that such cases have multiplied steadily in the last two decades, the number in that period surpassing the total for the entire previous history of the nation.

Twelve such cases were handled by the court last term. In six, the court declined to review or let lower-court decisions stand, and in the other six, it laid down new rulings.

"Separation of church and state was a big winner," says Stan Hasey of the Baptist Joint Committee on Public Affairs.

Diverse interpretations of the constitutional caveat — either strict elimination of religion from the government sphere or neutral accommodation of it — are the nub of persistent, unsettled litigation.

In its latest term, the high court made these decisions:

—It unanimously upheld a challenged 15-year-old congressional law exempting religious organizations from complying with the Civil Rights Act's ban on religious preferences in hiring practices.

Numerous religious bodies had filed friend-of-court briefs backing the right of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) to fire a former building engineer because he did not meet certain religious standards.

—The court by a 7-2 decision threw out a Louisiana law requiring public schools that taught evolution also to teach the "creation science" theory that life arose in abrupt stages.

The majority, without getting into the scientific basis for either view, held that the law's purpose, as shown in the state Legislature's discussion of it, was to advance a theory favored in some religious circles.

Dissenting justices contended the court shouldn't judge the intent of legislators, and said the scientific evidence offered for "creation science" justified schools including the abrupt-origins concept.

—The court, by an 8-1 majority, ruled that the state of Florida, by refusing unemployment benefits to Paula Hobbie, a Seventh-day Adventist fired by a Florida jewelry chain for refusing to work Friday evenings and Saturday (the Adventist Sabbath), violated "free exercise of religion."

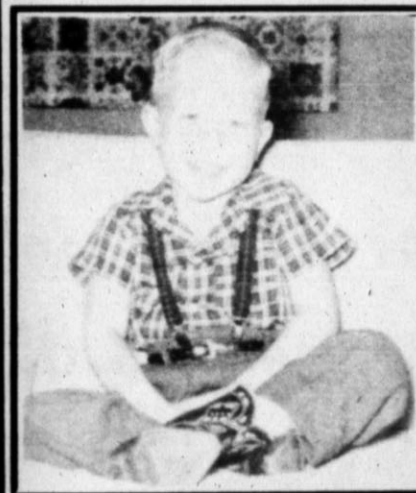

—The court ruled that the Los Angeles airport commissioners had no constitutional authority to impose a blanket ban on religious activities inside the Los Angeles International Airport.

Airport police had arrested a "Jews for Jesus" member for handing out literature.

—The court ruled that Jews qualified as a minority under an 1870 anti-discrimination law, used by a Silver Spring, Md., synagogue in a lawsuit against vandals who defaced the synagogue with Nazi swastikas and other anti-Semitic graffiti.

Astros defeat Braves, 8-5

Knepper breaks 4-game losing streak

By TOM SALADINO
AP Sports Writer

ATLANTA (AP) — The 1987 season has not been kind to the Houston Astros' Bob Knepper, but maybe the left-hander's luck is changing.

Knepper was a last-minute starter Thursday night in an 8-5 victory over Atlanta. He limited the Braves to six hits and two runs, one earned in five innings, to help the Astros salvage the last game of the three-game series.

Houston's offense was powered by Kevin Bass, who had three hits and drove in three runs, two coming on his 10th home run of the season, and Alan Ashby, who had a key two-run bloop single in the Astros' four-run sixth inning.

Until that point, Atlanta starter Rick Mahler, 6-11, had limited Houston to only one hit.

But an error by Braves shortstop Andres Thomas and two-out walks to Denny Walling and Glenn Davis led to Mahler's downfall.

Ashby followed with his single for two runs, Davis came home on a balk and Bass stroked a run-scoring single for a 4-2 lead and enabled Knepper, 4-12, to pick up the victory.

Knepper was told five minutes before game-time that he was starting in place of Jim Deshaies, who suffered a stiff left shoulder while warming up. "When you get your fourth win at the end of July, it's not anything to celebrate about," he said.

Knepper, a 10-year veteran who has a 118-130 lifetime record, was 17-12 a year ago, but was languishing with a 6.23 earned run average, four straight losses and seven defeats in his last eight decisions before Thursday night. He lowered his ERA to 6.03 by limiting Atlanta to only one earned run, walking two and not striking out anyone.

"When you're struggling like I am, the win personally doesn't mean too much, but it was a big win for the team," said Knepper.

"If I were 18-2, it would be a big win for me, but with the season so bad so far, I can't worry about numbers. I just have to get it going the second half," he said.

The Braves had taken the first two games of the series and had won three of four. The Astros ended a 10-game road trip at 5-5.

Houston's other runs came on a run-scoring double by Glenn Davis and a sacrifice fly by Bill Doran. Astros reliever Dave Smith picked up his 18th save with 1 2-3 innings of scoreless relief.

Dion James had three hits, including a solo home run to lead off the game for the Braves, and drove in two runs, while Ozzie Virgil had two hits and scored three runs.

Atlanta's Gerald Perry extended his hitting streak to 10 games with a bunt single in the third and also stole a base, his 24th of the season.

Following the game, the Astros announced they had sent utility infielder Jim Pankovits to Tucson of the Pacific Coast League to make room on the roster for shortstop Buddy Biancalana, who was obtained in a trade with Kansas City on Wednesday.

In other NL games, New York defeated St. Louis 5-3, Montreal beat Chicago 6-1, San Diego downed Cincinnati 12-8, and Philadelphia edged Pittsburgh 1-0.

Mets 5, Cardinals 3

The New York Mets did what they needed to do. They went into St. Louis, swept a three-game series from the Cardinals and tightened the National League East race.

Dwight Gooden, moved up in the rotation to face the Cardinals, pitched effectively Thursday night as the Mets won 5-3 and extended St. Louis' losing streak to seven.

"After we lost to Houston on Sunday when they came from behind, I wasn't sure we'd bounce back for this," Mets Manager Davey Johnson said. "We've struggled all year but the race is wide-open now."

New York moved within 5½ games of the division-leading Cardinals. St. Louis' losing streak is its longest of the season and the team hurt itself throughout the series against New York with poor baserunning.

Gooden, working on three days' rest, won his sixth straight decision against the Cardinals. He gave up two runs on four hits in the first inning but then settled down and raised his record to 8-3.

Gooden left the game after Jim Lindeman led off the ninth with a single. Tony Pena reached reliever Roger McDowell with a single and pinch-hitter Jose Oquendo sacrificed the potential tying runs into scoring position.

Vince Coleman then followed with a bouncer that first baseman Keith Hernandez bobbled. Hernandez had no play on Coleman but threw to catcher Gary Carter, who tagged out the late-breaking Lindeman in a home-plate collision. McDowell retired Ozzie Smith to end the game for his 15th save.

Carter and McReynolds drove in two runs apiece, although it was Howard Johnson's homer that sparked the most commotion.

Johnson, whose two-run homer in the 10th inning beat St. Louis on Wednesday night, hit his 25th of the season in the eighth for a 5-3 lead. When Johnson crossed home plate, he went to pick up his bat but Pena, the Cardinals' catcher, wouldn't give it back.

The Cardinals claimed the bat was illegally doctored. Umpire crew chief Paul Runge took the bat out of play, examined it after the game and then returned it.

"We had no way of keeping it," Runge said. "We took it out of the game to prevent a fight. The grain looked like it had not been tampered with (and) the weight was right. If he (Howard Johnson) had come up again, he would have been entitled to have it back."

Expos 6, Cubs 1

Mike Fitzgerald went 3-for-3 and drove in two runs as Montreal got 14 hits and won in Chicago.

Neal Heaton, 12-4, gave up just Keith Moreland's 20th home run in seven innings for his ninth victory in his last 11 starts.

Fitzgerald hit RBI singles in the second and the fourth innings. Vance Law, who also had three hits, singled home a run in the fifth against Bob Tewksbury, 0-3.

Padres 12, Reds 8

Carmelo Martinez hit a two-run single during a seven-run outburst in the fifth inning that carried San Diego over Cincinnati.

Luis Salazar and Benito Santiago had RBI singles in the Padres' big inning against Guy Hoffman, 7-6, and Bill Landrum.

Jimmy Jones, 3-4, won despite allowing six runs on 11 hits in five-plus innings. It was his first victory in five starts this season. Jones helped himself with a two-run homer, his first in the majors.

Phillies 1, Pirates 0

Bruce Ruffin and Steve Bedrosian teamed on a five-hitter and Glenn Wilson's RBI single in the ninth inning led Philadelphia over Pittsburgh.

The visiting Phillies were held hitless by rookie Mike Dunne before Von Hayes' leadoff single in the seventh.

Pinch-hitter Ron Roenicke drew a leadoff walk from John Smiley, 3-2, in the ninth before Mike Schmidt and Wilson singled off Brett Gideon. Wilson had been 0-for-18 before his game-winning hit.

Ruffin, 9-7, gave up five hits in 8 1-3 innings. Bedrosian got the final two outs for his major league-leading 29th save.

Hereford men's golf association organized

Plans for the formation of the Hereford Men's Golf Association were made Thursday night when 16 interested golfers elected officers and outlined goals and purposes.

Ron Weishaar was elected president of the new organization. Other officers will be Joe Kerr, vice president; Bob Baker, secretary-treasurer; Max Goforth, tournament director; and Gene Coulter, membership chairman.

Purpose of the organization, as outlined by the new officers, will be to promote golf in the area through tournaments and other activities, emphasize the establishment of legitimate handicaps, promote proper rules and etiquette of golf, and work with the golf pro and city officials for golf course improvements.

The association plans to hold a men's tourney in a few weeks to sign up members and adopt formal bylaws and rules. Dues will be $10 per year. Interested golfers may sign up now at Coulter Insurance, 244 N. Main.

Weishaar said several of the men attending the meeting had heard the group was forming in opposition to the golf pro and were "trying to get him fired."

"This is certainly not our purpose or intention," said Weishaar. "We mean for this association to have a positive influence for golf in this community."

He added that the association could come up with recommendations to the pro or city commission about the municipal golf course, "but it would be the voice of the association, not a bunch of petty gripes."

The association will hold a brief meeting after its first tourney to receive input from members and adopt bylaws and rules.

Bo Jackson's contract with Raiders is $7.4 million

DALLAS (AP) — Bo Jackson, the full-time baseball player and soon-to-be part-time football player, will be the highest-paid non-quarterback in NFL history when he begins his career with the Los Angeles Raiders around mid-season, a published report says.

The Dallas Morning News reported today that the former Heisman Trophy winner, now an outfielder with the Kansas City Royals, has a five-year, $7.4-million contract with the Raiders even though he might be available to the Raiders for only eight games a year.

Only Miami's Dan Marino, whose multi-year contract is worth $9 million, Tampa Bay's Vinny Testaverde, who will get $8.2 million, and Buffalo's Jim Kelly, who earns $8 million, have more lucrative total dollar deals, the newspaper said. But they play a full schedule.

Denver's John Elway is expected to sign a new long-term contract for $2 million per year before the start of the season, the newspaper said.

The present value of Jackson's contract, computed in today's dollars, is $4.5 million, the newspaper said. That reflects deferred compensation in base salary and bonuses.

Neither Jackson nor the Raiders has been willing to divulge contract details. The newspaper did not reveal how it obtained the figures.

Jackson's contract includes a $1-million signing bonus and base salaries that average $864,000 a year. It also has an injury protection clause that guarantees he will be paid in full should he sustain a career-ending injury playing for either the Royals or Raiders once he passes his first Raiders physical in October.

The contract is not based on the number of games Jackson plays. It simply requires him to report to the Raiders 10 days after the conclusion of the baseball season and allows the Raiders to begin using him in games at their discretion.

There is nothing in the contract that forces Jackson to choose between the sports, the newspaper said.

The base salaries for the five years, which will be deferred over a 12-year period, are: $668,975, $748,499, $840,184, $960,886 and $1,101,456, the newspaper said. The total base salary compensation is $4.32 million, which will be paid in equal installments, about $360,000 a year, from 1987-1999.

Jackson's signing bonus of $1 million will be paid in two installments: $500,000 when he reports and passes the physical this year and $500,000 when he does the same in 1988.

He will get a $420,000 deferred bonus for each year he plays. If he plays the five years, the Raiders will pay Jackson $2.1 million in 25 years. That has a present value of $300,000, the newspaper said.

There is a $300,000 loan, which is not included in the $7.4 million total because it must be repaid in 25 years, the newspaper said.

There is no clause for renegotiation if Jackson, an All-American at Auburn, decides to only play football. And unlike Jackson's baseball contract, there is no buyout period and payback requirement if he drops the sport.

Pelluer rebuilding his spirit

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
AP Sports Writer

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Young Steve Pelluer is rebuilding his spirit at the 27th Dallas Cowboys' training camp.

His confidence was badly shaken last year when he became the starter after Danny White suffered a broken wrist.

With Pelluer at quarterback, Dallas went 1-7.

"It was a tough and trying time, but I got some great experience and I feel it will help me immensely down the road," Pelluer said.

"I started pressing and put a lot of pressure on myself, and I hope I won't ever do that again."

Pelluer had trouble reading the confusing maze of NFL defenses and was sacked 47 times. He was battered and bruised from the experience.

"I had some lower back problems from it, but I'm fine now," Pelluer said. "I just have to make sure I stretch and warmup properly."

Pelluer has a reputation of being a great scrambler, but the Cowboys' coaches didn't want him to do that last year.

"I started out scrambling away from the pursuit, but the coaches discouraged doing that," he said. "I thought my scrambling could be a positive tool for the offense. However, the coaches didn't want to fly out of there at the first sign of trouble."

Pelluer hasn't conceded the starting job to White although he realizes it will be tough edging out the veteran.

"I'm No. 2, but I don't feel I'm out of the race for No. 1," Pelluer said. "I have to be prepared to start every game this year."

Pelluer's quarterback rating was only 67.9 points in 1986 after suffering 17 interceptions. He had only eight touchdown passes.

"My confidence level kept slipping," Pelluer said. "I wasn't at my best when other teams loaded up on me."

Pelluer, a fifth-round draft choice was Washington in 1984, said he thought the offensive line got a bad rap last year.

"They did a good job considering all the injuries and position changes we had," Pelluer said.

He said he learned that he can't be a one-man gang at quarterback.

"I kept trying to make the big play and make something happen instead of being consistent," Pelluer said. "I feel I can seriously challenge for Danny's job."

"I support him but my job is to push him."

Cowboys' Rohrer is holdout, leaves camp

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — Dallas Cowboys' starting outside linebacker Jeff Rohrer has declared himself officially a holdout after leaving training camp.

Rohrer, in his option year of his contract, met with coach Tom Landry in hopes of straightening out the situation. But after the meeting, Rohrer packed his bags Thursday night and left for his home in Manhattan Beach, Calif.

"It's very distressing," said Rohrer before leaving. "This is very hard for me to handle. But that's life. I'm disappointed. But there's not much I can do."

Rohrer made $192,000 this year. He is the third-highest-paid linebacker on the team behind other starters Mike Hegman, at $250,000, and Eugene Lockhart, at $225,000.

The six-year pro was behind only Lockhart in team tackles last season, with his 111 tackles just 10 short of Lockhart's total. He said he deserved more money.

"When I signed, I was not a starting linebacker," said Rohrer. "But now I'm starting and I'm a top producer. I hope to take that into consideration. At this point, though, I don't think they have."

He is negotiating without an agent and has talked in person to team Vice President Joe Bailey once since June 28.

Rohrer said he did talk to Bailey by phone Thursday but "it was an abrupt conversation."

He said he came to camp hoping that he could go to meetings and go through light workouts that wouldn't make him susceptible to injury.

"I could've helped the rookies and been educated on the new schemes," said Rohrer. "But they didn't want to do that. So it's time to split."

"I'm kind of stunned right now because the team means so much to me. I like being a part of it, being with the guys, the camaraderie, the hitting, the bad food. I'm going to miss it."

Bonilla helps Yanks defeat Royals, 6-3

NEW YORK (AP) — Three weeks removed from being a Class A player-coach, Juan Bonilla sat in the New York Yankees clubhouse and talked quietly about dreams fulfilled. He wore a black T-shirt that read across the front: "When Ever."

"Like in 'When Ever' you want me, I'm ready," he said. "I never lost hope. I thought that one day I would get my chance."

Bonilla, making his fourth start at second base since being recalled, had a double and two singles, scored one run and drove in another Thursday night as the Yankees beat the Kansas City Royals 6-3.

The American League East-leading Yankees opened a two-game lead over idle Detroit. The Tigers begin a three-game series tonight at Yankee Stadium.

The Royals, swept in the three-game series, have now lost 17 of their last 21 games.

In other AL games, Milwaukee beat Chicago 6-1 and Cleveland defeated Baltimore 6-4 in 10 innings.

Tommy John, 10-3, allowed three runs in six innings. Reliever Tim Lincecum pitched three scoreless innings for his fourth save.

Henry Cotto also had three hits and Rick Cerone hit his first Yankee Stadium home run in five years.

"I've only been here a short time, but I'm beginning to taste it," Bonilla said. "I want so much to get to the top. I've never been on a contending team before, and it's exciting. I can feel the pressure of the pennant race. I can feel how hard people in here want to win."

Trailing 2-0 after first-inning RBI doubles by Kevin Seitzer and Frank White, the Yankees tied the game on run-scoring singles by Cotto in the third and Mike Pagliarulo in the fourth. Bonilla, exhibiting some daring baserunning, scored the tying run by racing from second base on a shallow hit to left field.

In the three-run fifth, which broke open the game, New York scored its first two runs on a bases-loaded wild pitch and a botched up rundown. But Bonilla capped the inning with a two-out RBI single off starter Bud Black, 4-6.

John, who has accumulated more victories this season than his previous two combined, gave up only four hits after the first inning, the final one being Bo Jackson's leadoff homer in the seventh.

"Tommy struggled the whole game," Piniella said. "It's the worst rhythm he's had in quite a while. But he settled down enough to get us into the seventh inning."

Brewers 6, White Sox 1

Glenn Braggs, Paul Molitor and Bill Schroeder each drove in two runs each as Milwaukee beat visiting Chicago.

Mark Knudson, 1-2, got his first AL victory. He gave up one run on eight hits in 6 1-3 innings and Chuck Crim finished with hitless relief for his first major-league save.

Braggs hit a triple, double and two-run single. His single put the Brewers ahead in the sixth inning against Neil Allen, 0-5.

Molitor had a two-run double in the seventh and Schroeder hit a two-run double in the eighth.

Indians 6, Orioles 4

Cory Snyder ended his 0-for-20 slump with a two-run homer in the 10th inning that lifted Cleveland over Baltimore.

Snyder hit his 22nd home run after Carmen Castillo's one-out single off Mark Williamson, 5-7. Brook Jacoby's two-run homer, his 21st, gave the Indians a 4-4 tie in the eighth.

Sammy Stewart, 4-1, got the victory. He struck out Mike Young with runners on first and third in the top of the 10th.

Eddie Murray, Ray Knight and Floyd Rayford homered for the visiting Orioles.

Running back Woolfolk is released by Oilers

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
AP Sports Writer

SAN ANGELO, Texas (AP) — Houston Oilers Coach Jerry Glanville acted swiftly to make running back Butch Woolfolk a former Oiler Thursday.

Glanville said he made the move at the player's request after an attempted trade fell through at noon.

"He came to me during Operation Headstart (off-season workouts) and said he wanted to be traded if he wasn't going to be a starter," Glanville said. "We tell the whole squad, 'if you don't want to be here, come and see me.'"

Woolfolk had a different story. "He approached me," Woolfolk said. "He told me they were going to try to trade me."

"I said I'd prefer two things, an early trade so I could adjust to a new team and I'd like to be traded to a team that needed a running back."

Woolfolk said late Thursday night he had received calls from two teams.

"It kind of gives me confidence that I can still play," Woolfolk said, although he added that he was actually sorry to be leaving the Oilers.

"I'll be better off as a player but I wanted to be with this team because it's going to win," Woolfolk said. "I think they'll go over .500 this season, probably 9-7. I wanted to be a part of that and that's what I'll regret."

Glanville also said goodbye to offensive lineman Mike Kelley, starting his third pro year with the Oilers. Kelley said he was tired of playing football.

"He said he loved his teammates and that had nothing to do with his feelings," Glanville said of Kelley. "This game is very, very hard if you want to be here. If you don't, it's not worth it."

The Oilers also announced late Thursday that Walter Johnson, the team's second-round draft pick from Louisiana Tech, had agreed to terms.

Woolfolk played at fullback last season before suffering a shoulder injury and missing the final six games of the season.

He rushed 57 yards on 23 carries and caught 28 passes for 314 yards and two touchdowns.

The Oilers made Miami running back Alonzo Highsmith the third player chosen in the 1987 draft and also took Oklahoma's Spencer Tillman in the fifth round.

Woolfolk was slated to return to a running back position this season and came to camp on the third team behind Mike Rozier and Allen Pinkett.

Kelley, 6-5, 280, was a third-round pick out of Notre Dame in 1985. He played all 16 games his rookie year on special teams.

Kelley was injured in the Oiler's final preseason game against the Dallas Cowboys and missed the 1986 season with a neck injury.

The Oilers also announced that Rob McCrary, a free agent wide receiver from Georgetown, left camp.
