FEAR BLOWOUT IN LULING WELL

Test Threatens To Run Wild And Crew Fight Gas Pressure

Special to The Record News.

LULING, April 4.—Threatening a repetition of the wild antics of the Allen No. 2 well of the United North and South Oil company, Inc., the No. 9 well of the same company, located near the No. 8, which recently was completed for 10,000 barrels per day, blew out large quantities of gas and mud and threatened to get away from the drilling crew, who were attempting to clean out the hole preparatory to setting casing. A considerable amount of excitement was caused, and many oil men thought that the well would run wild and ruin itself.

The old No. 2 has been gassing again since the bridge was drilled out and the new crew have not yet been able to cement casing in that hole, though a considerable amount is being produced by the well and saved through a pick-up pit located below the derrick. Sixty wagons were loaded out here Wednesday morning by J. Ray McDermott & Co., for new derricks to be erected for the North and South in the Guadalupe county extension of the Luling field, and in addition the Magnolia Petroleum company, Grayburg Oil company, Texas company and J. K. Hughes Production company all are preparing for big drilling campaigns on the Allen lease, where all of them hold acreage.

The Allen farm contains 375 acres, and should all of it prove to be productive, the Guadalupe field will be more than half a mile wide. At present enough Allen wells have been brought in to make this field wider than the Caldwell county portion of the Luling field and a drilling campaign is now under way to determine the length and whether or not it connects with the Caldwell county field through the San Marcos river.

PRIDDY AWARDS HI SPEAKERS

Four Loving Cups To Students Given Last Night

Lindell Stone and Jeanette Scott won first places in the high school senior boys and girls declamatory contest held at the First Christian church last night. Lloyd Harrold Simmons of Alamo school and Merle Trigg of Sam Houston school won the first places in the junior boys and girls contests.

Last night's decision marks the climax to a week of intense speculation in the schools as to who the winners would be. These will represent Wichita Falls in the district interscholastic meets to be held at Electra soon, and, if winning there will carry the Coyote standard to the state meet held at Austin in May under the supervision of the state university.

Following the decisions last night, W. N. Priddy presented each of the winners with silver loving cups, four in all, those of the junior winners being but slightly smaller in size than those given to the senior winners. The cups are very beautiful in design and are excellent examples of the cubmaker's art. It has been Mr. Priddy's custom in the past to present winners in high school forensic contests with suitable prizes but this year he has entirely outstripped his former awards. The presentation of the cups came as a surprise to the contestants who had no inkling that they were to be given.

In the senior boys' contest Sam Bashara won second place and Carlton Bowman third place, while Frances N. Saunders and Dorothy Reed won first and second in the senior girls. In the junior division Thurston Scarborough of San Jacinto school won second place in the boys' contest with Cecil Sherwood taking third place. Margaret Cole of Travis school and Pauline Starnes of Barwise school placed second and third in the junior girls' contest.

A large crowd heard the contests.

CHRISTIE SHOWS EXHIBIT FRIDAY; MAKE BIG HIT

With two capacity crowds on hand, the Christie Brothers' Shows presented a double showing here Friday afternoon and night and earned the plaudits of spectators by having an exceptionally clean and amusing attraction.

The wild animal acts were above the average and the opening spectacle of the main performance, an elaborate tableaux entitled "Noah's Ark" was one of the most pretentious seen here in some time. Other features of the "big top" exhibition were uniformly interesting.

The shows, which exhibit today in Electra, are controlled and operated by Texans and make their headquarters at Beaumont. The summer tour which is just being started will include 26 states.

A street parade Friday morning attracted considerable attention.

STANIFORTH GETS WELL IN ARCHER

Texhoma-Staniforth's Kemp and Kemper No. 1, block 63, Wichita Valley Lands survey, Archer county, has been completed as 150-barrel producer from sand found at 1,581-92 feet.

TEXHOMA COMPANY GETS ARCHER WELL

The Texhoma Oil and Refining company's Kemp and Kemper No. 1, block 64, Wichita Valley lands, Archer county, has been completed from sand found at 1,578-93 feet and is rated at 200 barrels daily.

Rigging Up

By SUMMERS

The nation's first helium reserve, comprising 7,100 acres has of gas bearing lands in Emory county, Utah will be closed to public settlement, location, sale or entry.

The Petrolia field is now furnishing practically all the helium gas for the United States navy. The supply at Petrolia is limited.

The Oklahoma and Texas gasoline market during the past week has been firm but movements of the products has been slow. Domestic orders were curtailed by the inclement weather.

The proposed McCorkle Pipe Line company, which is to construct a carrier from fields in Oklahoma to Aransas Pass at estimated cost of $30,000,000 is thought to be financed by the Royal Dutch Oil company.

The slight increase of the nation's oil runs is credited to the Corsicana-Powell district. The average daily crude runs of the district is approximately 150,000 barrels.

Storage Rushed Baylor County Wildcat Well

Cranfill Brothers' W. B. Mills No. 1, block 2413, Texas Emigration and Land company survey, southeastern Baylor county, has set casing and will probably drill in Saturday. The sand was encountered Wednesday at depth of 1,416 feet and reports from the test Thursday were to the effect that approximately 1,000 feet of fluid was standing in the hole.

Additional storage is being erected at the test. Operators who visited the well were of the opinion it would make a commercial producer. Much attention is being manifested and the outcome of the test is awaited with interest by local operators.

Mystery Well Near Davidson

Special to The Record News.

FREDERICK, April 4.—The oil test being drilled by Spears and Gooch, near Davidson, became a "mystery well" following the taking out of a core barrel last night, according to S. F. Cannon, manager of the Davidson telephone system, who was here today.

He said that the drillers after taking out the core barrel, shut down and began making arrangements to install a standard rig, but made no statement as to what was in prospect. The test now is down about 1,700 feet. The drillers have leased practically all the adjacent territory.

44 TESTS START OKMULGEE AREA

Special to The Record News.

TULSA, April 4.—New drilling operations in the Okmulgee district for the week ending April 2 numbered 44. Completions totaled 11, including four oil wells with a combined initial production of 1,080 barrels, four dry holes and three gas wells. There are 333 drilling operations in Okmulgee, Okfuskee, Hughes, Seminole and McIntosh counties.

Wilbarger Well Encounters Oil South of Vernon

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, April 4.—The South Vernon Oil company's Stephen No. 3, section 83, block 14, H. & T. C. R. R. Co. survey, eight miles south of Vernon has encountered an oil sand at depth of 1,294 feet. Approximately 300 feet of fluid is standing in the hole, according to company officials.

Following the new strike stock of the company is being quoted at 3 to 1 in Vernon.

Today's Poem

THE SPRING OF LOVE.

A little sun, a little rain,
O soft win blowing from the west,
And woods and fields are sweet again
And warmth within the mountain breast.
A little love, a little trust,
A soft impulse, a sudden dream,
And life as dry as desert dust,
Is fresher than a mountain stream.

—Stopford A. Brooks.

PRESBYTERIANS ARE TO START DRIVE

Presbyterian women throughout the state are interested in the meetings of the presbyterials to be held this spring. These are the women's auxiliaries of the presbyteries, and at the meetings this year Christian education will be one of the leading topics for discussion, in view of the statewide movement to secure $1,350,000 for schools and colleges under control of that church.

Mrs. J. L. Brock of Bryan, in announcing the dates and location of meetings stated that Mrs. J. C. Erwin of McKinney, secretary of this church cause, would arrange to visit all meetings and bring the matter before the women of the church.

The schedule of meetings follow: Paris presbyterial at Paris, April 2-4; Brownwood preshyterial at Coleman, April 7-9; El Paso presbyterial at Big Spring, April 9-11; Fort Worth presbyterial at Itasca, April 14-16; Dallas presbyterial at Milford, April 16-18; Central Texas presbyterial at Austin, April 22-24; West Texas presbyterial at Laredo, April 23-25; East Texas at Orange, April 28-30; and Brazos at Galveston, April 15-17.

A REMARKABLE RECOVERY

Birmingham Lady Suffered A Long Time Before Finally Taking Cardui and Enjoying "First Health in Years."

BIRMINGHAM, Ala.—Before her recent remarkable recovery, Mrs. Florence Moore, 2309 Thirty-third Ave., North, this city, was frequently so ill and weak that she had to sit down while doing her housework.

"For many years I suffered with female trouble of every description," says Mrs. Moore. "I was told an operation was necessary to save my life. At times I was not able to stand on my feet. I have cooked many a meal sitting, while my husband and children handed me the things with which to do it.....

"I had given up all hope of ever being well again.....It is a sight what women will suffer before they will listen to the advice of others.

"Several of my friends had taken Cardui and been benefited by it. They told me about it, but I thought my case was hopeless. Finally I told my husband to get me some Cardui and I began to take it. After I had taken the first bottle I saw that I was improving. I took 11 bottles at that time before I was cured, but as it was the first health I had had for years I was thankful to do it.

"I can't praise Cardui enough."

GARNER A NATIONAL LEADER.

Congressman John N. Garner, according to Washington advices, would accept the place of democratic national committeeman if tendered to him by the democrats of Texas and while he would esteem it a very high honor he will not be an avowed candidate or permit his friends to enter into a contest to win the place.

According to the same advices Mr. Garner would look upon the confering of the honor by his fellow democrats at home as an evidence of their appreciation of his long service in Washington as a servant of the people and one who has ever been loyal to democratic principles and policies.

There are many worthy democrats no doubt, who aspire to this honor. Some are receptive candidates, some are of the dark horse variety, while others hope to be struck by lightening when the delegates assemble to select forty delegates to the national convention in the city of Waco late in the month of May.

John N. Garner has had a remarkable career. He has served many terms in the lower house of congress. He was a young unknown when the people of his district elected him for the first time and he is one democrat from the south and the west who has grown with the times and never stood still.

His record discloses this interesting fact: He worked his way from an unknown to leadership. His committee assignments have not been won throughout the years without intelligent work and loyalty to the principles on the part of this Texan who is a leader of his party today in national halls of legislation, whose name is known in every democratic household, whose face is a familiar one in the higher councils of democracy throughout the republic and who has the confidence of his fellow democrats abroad as well as those whom he serves at home.

Hard work, bulldog tenacity, fighting for principle, loyalty to the masses and not to the classes, unflinching courage and high personal integrity are some of the attributes which have made John N. Garner one of the foremost democratic leaders of his time.

He is a master of economics, and his taxation views are well known.

John N. Garner is not a genius—that is he was not born a genius. He has been a plodder all his life. In early youth he recognized that there is no royal road to greatness and that the winner is the worker and for a worker to win he must climb the ladder, rung by rung, never barter principle for expediency and stand steadfast at all times to the principles first ennunciated by Thomas Jefferson and carried on by the great leaders of democracy from the Sage or Monticello to that fearless democrat who was the war president of the republic and who will live in history as one of the greatest champions of the people's right and visioned in the coming some day of a parliament of the world founded upon the brotherhood of man and the fatherhood of God.

John N. Garner is an old fashioned democrat who moves with the procession. If the democrats of Texas should go out of their way to honor him, then they will only honor a man who has ever been a credit to his state and to his party at home and abroad.

OLD LAWS.

There seems to be some sort of a precedent established that laws, once on the statute books, should not be repealed.

If a law is a good enough law to be enacted, why shouldn't old, bad and obsolete laws, which are of no purpose for one reason or another, be stricken from the statute books.

Up in New Jersey it has developed that there is a law on the statute books which was passed in 1798, and which, under its present day interpretation, prohibits the use of radio on Sunday. The folks up there got into a row over blue Sundays, and when it came to a show-down, the radio was listed among the offenses.

Quite naturally, the folks were so strongly opposed to a law which prevented the hearing of sermons via the radio that they chucked the old law into the discard, without stopping to repeal it.

Wouldn't it have been better to have taken it off the statute books and substituted a law that would meet the present day needs of the people?

ONLY YESTERDAY A BEREAVED NATION RESOLVED NOT TO ADD HASTY CRITICISM TO ADMINISTRATIVE BURDENS

The Persistent Lovers

"No, rather not!" said Joyce. "Come and sit on the grass. I'm to have tea out here in a minute. How's everything up the hill? I've been working so hard that I've not been able to snatch a minute the last week." She was retyping one of Dick's rejected stories, she told him.

He produced his golfball s. "You're been missed," he said. "I heard these little fellows crying in a hedge all alone, so I popped em in my pocket and brought 'em down They stopped crying the minute they found that they were coming here.

Joyce laughed. "Little devils I called them when they hid themselves! Thanks awfully for finding them. How on earth do you do it? Dick and I hunted and hunted."

They had tea, Joyce beamed upon him, and he forgot the empty days.

"You sleepy?" asked Audrey.

"Not an atom!" said Dick.

"I was in the car."

Dick smiled reminiscently. "I know," he said. "As a matter of fact, you went to sleep like a little tired kid, with your head on my shoulder."

Audrey laughed. "I didn't know it was your shoulder. It was awfully comfortable. Thanks for the loan of it."

"Not a bit," said Dick. "I shall be delighted to lend it you again at any time."

They were speaking almost in whispers because the windows of all the other bedrooms were wide open. It doesn't do to wake people up at 2 o'clock in the morning and wet sponges might be hurled at disturbers.

"Look here," said Dick, "there are two deck chairs in my room. Let's make ourselves entirely comfortable. It's so much easier to talk, and I've got millions of things to tell you, and—and we can see the sun rise."

Before she could say yes or no, he disappeared into his room like a shadow and came out again with a pillow and one of the deck chairs.

"Here you are!"

Audrey murmured "Splendid!" and let herself quietly into it. It gave a half squeak once. "Will you have any room?"

Dick arranged the pillow. Then he fetched the other chair for himself. There was only just space for it squeezed close against hers.

He climbed into it and spread a blanket he had brought over them both. That's all right!" he said. "Now we can talk. Do you mind a pipe"

"On the contrary," said Audrey.

He blew out a long puff of smoke. It was like a sigh of thankfulness. "Are you comfy?"

Audrey nodded. "Isn't it odd?"

"What?"

"I mean you and I sitting here like this, as if—as if we'd known each other for centuries."

Dick sat up and faced her. "Great Scott! I am glad Audrey looked her question.

"I mean," said Dick, "that you feel that, too. Do you know, I believe I've seen you before somewhere. I thought so at tea time. I still think so."

Audrey shook her head. "I'm sure you haven't—or at least I'm sure I've never met you. That's the extraordinary thing about it."

She sat up also, and they gazed at each other as if in the presence of unknown faces.

She went on again first. "About seven hours ago I saw you for the first time, and yet now you're just Dick to me—and that conveys everything. I call you Dick and think of you as Dick without any reserve. Why is it? Whats the psychology of it? I don't feel a bit the same with any of the other men."

"How"—he was going to say "ripping," but he amended it to —"how amazing!"

"To think of you to myself as Mr. Somebody-or-other is absurd," continued Audrey. "I couldn't do it. It makes me want to laugh. You're so essentially Dick. Do you see what I'm driving at? Why should you come along after all the others, and do that? Have you ever felt like that about anybody?"

Dick's pipe was out. His eyes were on the girl's as she waited for an explanation. "Yes," he said simply. "I felt like that about you—or at least not quite like that. I didn't know your name. I didn't want to—much."

Audrey looked puzzled. "What then?"

"I wanted frightfully to come over and take you away by ... and tell you—everything.' Dick looked away ... hesitation. Then he went on with a rush. ... of fact, you made me want to indulge in ... tism. I didn't want you to talk. I wanted ... while I told you all about myself. All the ... and the rest—simply faded away. They ... It was just you that I wanted to bare

For a moment after he ceased speaking she made no move. She remained with her eyes on his, both very solemn. The moon had faded. There was only that curious half gray light that precedes the dawn.

"How extraordinary," she said. "What does it mean, Dick?"

Dick lit his pipe again with a perplexed frown. "I don't know," he said. "It's rather weird, isn't it?"

There was another silence. The only sounds were the far away tide and the bubbling of Dicks pipe. He stirred.

"I'm glad about it," he murmured. "Are you?"

"Yes," answered Audrey.

And as they sat there, the shadow on the balcony was pushed back by the hand of dawn and with it went the bridge which the moonlight had built for these two to meet each other.

As the first day of sun shot out oer the world, they moved with a simultaneous impulse. Being suddenly able to see each other made them almost shy.

Dick got up and pulled the blanket from her feet and hung it over the railing while he moved the deck chair for her to pass. He felt her hand brush his as she did so.

"Good night, Audrey," he said softly.

She turned at her window with a little smile. "Good night, Dick." It came in a whisper and she was gone. Dick stood for a minute then went in his window, dropped his dressing gown and climbed between the sheets.

The scent of her hair was on the pillow.

CHAPTER VIII.
"I'm Coming With You."

In the succeeding days it became a tacitly recognized thing that these two were partners in any match or expedition that was arranged. Even Midge, with whom Dick had made an instantaneous hit, abandoned him without any further attempts.

Audrey and Dick found the others a little irksome. There was so much time to be made up, such heaps of things to discuss and agree upon—they hardly ever disagreed—that, without any word being said, they began to go off every day by themselves, over the downs or on the rocks, or out fishing in one of the boats.

Every night, when the men had had their last smoke and drink, Dick hurried up to his bedroom and went out on the balcony. If Audrey was not already there, she came at once on hearing him, and Dick brought out the deck chairs and the pillows and they sat and looked out over the sleeping town and the restless sea.

The balcony was their own, and there was no one to evade politely, nothing to disturb them. And the fact that they had to talk in whispers only added to the feeling of intimacy.

The idea of kissing her, or even of wanting to, never entered Dick's head. She was Audrey, and different.

He took her very seriously. He would never had dreamed of treating her flippantly. Whenever he lent her a strong hand rock-climbing it was as a pal rather than as a lover.

He felt no extraordinary thrill at the touch of her, and even one day when they found themselves cut off by a swirling mass of water and Dick had tucked up his trousers, slung his shoes with the socks inside them round his neck and carried her over in his arms, he had felt more pride and pleasure than anything else. The man-and-woman side of it did not come in at all.

It was the break-up the house party that altered the remainder of Dicks life and shattered Audrey's idea of him as a pal.

The break-up seemed to Dick like the end of all things. He was going back to Whiteleaf, emptier than ever because Audrey would not be there.

He might never see her again. What, never see Audrey again? That was absurd—foolish—impossible!

He went quickly out on the balcony—the balcony where they would never sit together again!

"Audrey!"

There was no answer to his call, but she came out and looked at him, silently, curiously.

And at that moment Dick knew.

"Where are you—going?" he asked.

"London," answered Audrey.

"I'm coming with you."

She nodded

"Are you ready?"

"No," said Audrey. "I'll hurry."

They went back into their rooms and Dick began flinging things into his suitcase with a wildly beating heart.

Audrey was his. She belonged to him. He would fight an army for her if it came to that. She had become a part of his life, the all-important part.

He ... DEPARTMENT ... with his suitcases.

"The Courteous

So Goes It

By BURNS HEGLER

The American people always can find something to argue about. With the Teapot dome investigation still going at a pretty good clip, and a lot of political arguments surging through the country, there appears to be a very strenuous effort to perpetuate the argument as to whether a woman should bob her hair.

To bob or not to bob, that is the question.

Women who bob their hair argue that it simplifies the matter of hairdressing; is just as becoming and couldn't possibly injure any one but the bobee.

We have no intention of being drawn into the argument, and after a certain amount of deliberation, have decided that it isn't any of our business, one way or the other.

If a woman decides to have her hair bobbed and has it bobbed, if there are any tears shed after she views her vanished tresses, they are her tears. The bob is hers; it isn't ours.

And if we had to express an opinion it would be something like this: That some women look exceptionally well with their hair bobbed, and that others do not. That women who look well with bobbed hair have just as much right to wear it as man has a right to adorn his upper lip with fringe.

That the woman whose general looks can not be improved, or permitted to remain in status quo, or as is, by the bobbing of her hair, should try and refrain from having it snipped off, merely for the reason that all women should be as good looking as possible, because the men expect it of them.

If men can wear beards and raise paint brush and Charlie Chaplin moustaches without any great protest from the feminine sex, there surely isn't any good reason why a woman can not bob her hair if she feels like it.

Men do not wear long hair, but there was a day when they did wear it down on their shoulders. Then they bobbed it, and they have kept it up until some of them have it cut so close that they appear almost bald, when they are not.

The whole argument revolves around one question, which should settle the controversy: "Whose hair is it?"

FT. WORTH MAN SAYS MEET SUCCESS

"Wichita Falls is to be congratulated on the wonderful spirit with which she entertained the guests of the Rotary conference. It was the spirit of Rotary, the best thing that can be said," Marvin Evans of the Fort Worth Rotary club said Friday following the close of the convention. "We have had a wonderful time, and the visiting delegations have been royally entertained."

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

TO A PREMATURE ROBIN

Oh! smug and priggish little thing,
Upon the same old tree,
You perched with each returning spring
And rudely sneered at me.
"Behold," you called, in strident song,
"The skies are clear and blue;
My judgment simply can't go wrong—
I knew that spring was due.
I guess the weather every year,
And always guess it right;
When winds blow warm I reappear;
I certainly am bright!

"Last week I mentioned to the wife
That I was sick of ease,
And following an idle life,
Among the tropic trees.
'It's warm up north by now,' said I,
'So let's be on our way;'
You know that when I prophesy,
I never go astray.
I need no isothermal chart,
Or storm report—not me—
Which proves that I am twice as smart
As any man can be!' "

And here you are; the sleet falls chill,
Upon your shuddering form,
About you whistles harsh and shrill
The bleak and howling storm.
Despondency is pictured in
Your beady little eyes,
And how you wish you hadn't been
So mighty weatherwise!
Cheer up! for briefly will abide
This passing springtime squall,
But after this, beware of pride
That goes before a fall!

Patience

By DR. FRANK CRANE

Patience, like peace, has got a bad name.

It is taken merely to be a variety of weakness.

Patient people, we are prone to think, are those who have not spunk enough or strength enough to rebel or protest.

Quite the contrary is the truth. Patience is decidedly an aggressive virtue. Patience is an evidence of strength and not of weakness.

Your own observation will prove that to you. For are not the most impatient people you know, the querulous, complaining and protesting people, really the weak people?

The strong man is not so much the man who can fight as he is the man who can endure.

A good fight is more or less of a spasm. Firm endurance means an abiding supply of strength.

Soldiers have said that the most trying hour is not the hour of attack but the hour of enforced waiting.

Patience implies intelligence. It is characteristically a human quality. Rats will fight; also dogs and wild beasts. But the animals who seem to exhibit patience are mostly spiritless creatures. When we come to human beings, however, it is the wisest who are "slow ot anger." It is the more ignorant and those who have the weakest moral inhibitions who are the most contentious.

Patience implies faith. It is a sort of confidence in one's self and in all the forces of the universe.

Patience implies vision for, as a rule, it is only those to whom the present moment is supreme, only those who neither see nor care for consequences, who are impatient.

There is a time to fight, a time to rebel, to cry out and to strike. But it is always the patient man who is the best fighter. And when the patient man cries out he is listened to much more than the man who is crying all the time.

When the patient man makes up his mind to fight he is a much more dangerous enemy than one who fights at every provocation.

Patience is the virtue of giants. Impatience is the voice of petty souls. It is common enough to find those who are ready and willing to do something, even something desperate, venturesome and dangerous; but the great discoveries of sceince, the great achievements of statesmanship, the great exploits in the realm of business and the successful prosecution of great military campaigns have been made, not by the force of nervous crises, not by the impetuous and desperate, but by those who have learned the art of patience and have known how "to labor and to wait."

Irrigation

SOILS AND OIL PHYSICS
Saturated Soils.

A gentleman who has been reading some of the more recent articles touching on the importance of proper ventilation in the soil remarked that apparently a heap of stones would be an ideal soil if ventilation was such an important item.

He is correct, providing of course that plants growing in a heap of stones could have an adequate supply of plant food furnished them and could also have their root systems surrounded by a proper amount of capillary moisture.

Of course such conditions are mechanically impossible in a heap of rocks but certainly ordinary farm plants would grow far better if such a thing were possible than in a saturated soil with no ventilation.

If you want to kill an ordinary farm crop just shut off its supply of air and oxygen by submerging the soil with water over a period of time.

Without irrigation a farmer has but little to say about his water supply. The best he can do is to see that his fields are well drained both on the surface and underground.

Where irrigation is practiced he has his water supply largely under his control and can prevent the soil from becoming water logged and the oxygen cut off.

One of the reason a hard soil will not produce as good crops as a more friable one is on account of the lack of sufficient air in the soil.

The principal reason why a wet saturated soil will not produce a good crop is that all the spaces in the soil are filled with water an dthe supply of air and oxygen is shut off.

AIRES.

This is an excellent day for business activity: however, a tendency to undue haste should be avoided, to obtain best results, especially between 10 a. m. and 2:10 p. m. Keen intuition will be noticeable.

A child born today will be of an erratic temperament; but, if allowed to follow natural inclinations, will succeed along artistic lines.

If today is your birthday, you have a rather weak character, although there is much that is lovable in it. Your impulses, at times, seem to be a little twisted, and you often lack the will power to resist them. The "still small voice" impels you to form many good resolutions: your natural weakness frequently makes you break them.

Your disposition is cheerful, and you make light of troubles that would weigh others down with sadness. You are affectionate in a marked degree, and very demonstrative. You place your friends on pedestals, and act towards them with an exaggerated sense of quixoticism.

You do not fit in very well in any business capacity, as you are neither methodical nor commercially instinctive. You are better equipped for a profession, where the "steady grind" is not demanded, and where flashes of brilliancy meet with reward. Writing or painting—and it is along these lines you are gifted—would give you the necessary outlet for your temperamental spells.

In your home life, you prefer the nomadic to the permanent; you are too unreliable to put up for very long with the ordinary routine of family life.

As a lover, your emotionalism carries you a long way; you are, however, inconstant, and very exacting: you do not, therefore, ever receive, and rarely give, that pleasure, which your impetuosity seems to justify.

You are charming and entertaining, whenever you are disposed to exert yourself to be so; you are, however, very quickly bored, and show it by indifference.

Fleety emotionalism is a sandy foundation, whereas steadfastness is the rock, on which to build character.

Rip Wheeler, Hippo Hodges Pitch Today

ALEXANDER TO PITCH SUNDAY FOR CUBS; MORGAN, CHEEVES AND FREEMAN ALSO SELECTED

Rip Wheeler, last year Wichita Falls' pitching ace, will hurl for the Chicago Cubs here this afternoon, according to advices received at Spudder headquarters Friday morning. Grover Cleveland Alexander will be on the slab Sunday.

The games today and tomorrow will be the only appearance here this trip of a major league club. They will be called at 3 o'clock, Saturday and Sunday.

Hodges

Hippo Hodges, Bloomington southpaw light, has been chosen by Skipper Buddy Tanner to start today's contest, Dick Morgan, one time Paris pitcher, will be held to follow Hodges.

Cheeves-Freeman

Sunday, "Chief" Virgil Cheeves is slated to do mound duty against his former teammates, while Buck Freeman, another Cub of other days, will take over the hurling later in the game. Unless the Spudder pilot changes plans, Freddie Fussell, the other pitcher on the lot once pastiming with the Chicago Nationals, will not appear.

Cubs Order

Following is the Cubs' order as they will start against the Spudders, according to a wire received from Bill Killifer: Statz, center field; Adams, shortstop; Granth n, second base; Griges, first base; Friberg, third base; Miller, left field; Heathcote, right field; Harnett and O'Farrell, catchers. It is probable Denver Grigsby, slugging Spudder right gardener last year, and Hooks Cotter, first baseman, will get into one of the affairs.

Spudders

Wichita Falls will start in the following order:

Coombs or Williams, right field; Tanner or Dorman, third base; Weiss, left field; Fitzgerald, center field; White, second base; Locker, first base; Michaels, shortstop; Jonnard, catcher.

Cubs From Amarillo

The Cubs will arrive here today from Amarillo, where they played yesterday against the Golden Sandstorm, high school team. They arrived in Amarillo from Altuquerque Friday morning.

Manager Tanner stated Friday he was well pleased with Dorman's game at third, Thursday, and would not play today unless he felt in shape. The skipper has had a sore hand and a stiff ankle, all at the same time. However, his injuries were coming around alright yesterday, he said.

Workout Friday

Friday was taken up with plenty of play at Athletic Park. There was no practice game, as the hopefuls have had their share of contests the last several days. Batting and infield practice sessions were the main go.

Catcher Zeke Smith limbered up at the plate awhile, during the infield work. The new backstop did not cut loose with anything in the way of whips, but handled a big mit. Straight conditioning has been the lot of the red-topped catcher since his arrival here last week. His first break into a game will likely come next week, against Minneapolis and St. Joseph.

Today's Iron

By T. T. HUNT.

Today is the first of the only two major league appearances here this season. The other is tomorrow.

The time has now arrived. Despite predictions of pessimistic souls, the norther and blizzards, rain and snow, have not come yet to cancel the big games of the trip.

Today and tomorrow there will be plenty to do besides play baseball. There will be looking over the men, figuring and doping, etc. It is no secret the Spudders want players and intend to have them. As is the custom, things will probably open up some the next two days.

The Ripper slinger has a fine job this afternoon. Mighty nice to let the home boy go on up to play with his friends. But he will probably feel a little forced, as it wouldn't do to lose this one. Maybe so, and maybe not.

Alexander, the great, will be somebody to watch Sunday. In this choice of slingers, many should be satisfied and all content.

Former Cubs, Cubs, Spudders, Spudders-to-be, and former Spudders, will mix and mill all around. Whether or not it will be hard to distinguish the outfits is left to individual concern.

Amarillo did well in getting the Cubs to play with 'em. It necessitated throwing the Coyote series into disorder and a double-header at the last minute without notifying Coach Henderson, but that's all right. Can't blame the Sandies for taking the opportunity, one way or the other.

Such was the message of Jamie Herron. He is a big man, forceful, convincing, and himself innoculated with the idea of the service he preaches. He is a poet, the term, "business man's poet", being frequently applied to him. He brought many of his points home with quotations here and there from his own works, his poem on "Texas" closing the address. Throughout his talk he stressed the importance of the chamber of commerce in the community, making it clear that the only real progress is founded on mutual benefit in business transactions.

He was introduced by Hubert Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce, following the dinner at which more than a hundred were present. Chamber of commerce officials from Vernon, Electra, Henrietta, Burkburnett, and Devol, Oklahoma, were among the visitors, a special invitation having been extended to them by the local organization. The meeting was one of a series planned for the business council of the local chamber of commerce for 1924, each of which is to feature some speaker of exceptional merit.

"13" to Play Big Part In 13th District Trip To Toronto Conference

Lutcher Stark Hits 13 Hard and Often When He Backs Convention.

"Many Rotarians fail to realize how important the International conference really is," stated Lutcher Starke of Orange in an address on "The International Convention" before the closing Rotary session Friday afternoon.

"The convention is made up of you," the speaker continued, "and doesn't amount to anything unless you go—you and other 'yous' from every corner of the globe. I very often hear men at International conventions referring to what 'they' do or have done in convention session, leaving themselves out of the picture. The 'they' of Rotary International is you. Rotary is what you make it, and the interests of Rotary take individual attention.

"One of the biggest ideals of Rotary is to unite the world in service. How are we best to realize this ideal unless it is in International convention where we meet Rotarians of every nationality in a great legislative body where projects are carried out first hand and at the minute.

"Yours is the opportunity to object to or develop plans which are brought up for discussion. Your voice means just as much and carries just as much weight as any other in the assembly. Yours is the opportunity to develop Rotary as you personally want it to go. Yours is the power of a voice in the legislation of Rotary.

"Our thirteenth district is the largest in the entire International convention of Rotary. The district contains 81 clubs, more than any other district, and the attendance is larger by 50 per cent at Rotary International than any other district.

"District thirteen has always had the best organization and the most unified and spirited delegation in attendance, and this year it is imperative that the attendance be as large as possible. I would hate to see the culmination of a fine regime such as the district has had under Governor Lester fall down in the matter of attendance.

"Don't let the word 'thirteen' scare you off.

"The Thirteenth District leaves Fort Worth in June on Friday the thirteenth on a train carrying thirteen coaches. Engine number 413 will pull the train with a crew of thirteen men each wearing overalls with thirteen buttons. The conductor guarantees to have thirteen brand new stories, and the party leaves on Lutch Starke's thirteenth wedding anniversary."

"Full detailed information is given in an attractive manner in the booklet 'Across the Line' which has been distributed, and which is by the way, one of the finest pieces of advertising literature published. Don't forget to send in $10 to reserve your room by not later than May 1. It will be refunded if you do not attend.

"There are many wonderful summer trips that may be planned following the convention," said Mr. Starke, who mentioned several of the Canadian beauty spots of note.

"The trip will be worth your while in many ways, and we are definitely planning for a mammoth delegation from the thirteenth district."

"If You're Out of Rotary You're Out," Charles Gable Tells Conference Friday

"By the outs and ins of Rotary, we mean that those outside of Rotary are called the 'outs.'" Charles Gable of San Antonio said in an address on the "Ins and Outs of Rotary," before the assembly of the Friday morning session of the Rotary district conference. "When we become a friend, a fellowman, who will stand shoulder to shoulder and help in time of need, then we come into Rotary. We must not forget that those outside of Rotary are as hungry as we are for associations."

Mr. Gable stressed the value of the understanding of Rotary. "The membership of Rotary is conservative as a whole. An element to consider in membership is that Rotary is an honor, that it cannot be bought with money, cannot be gained through political influence, but is based on the individual's interest."

He urged that Rotary not be made of a small group or of a few members in a clannish spirit, for that would lead to a club of bigotry, an end to the conception of Rotary. "Rotary demands of each member that he be a fighter. He must stand four square in the business world," and the speaker pointed out the problem of relationship that existed with the Ins and Outs.

"The future destiny of Rotary as of every other organization rests in the final judgment of public opinion."

Mr. Gable stressed the importance of the influence of the Rotarians toward the oldest members of the house, and the influence they have on the boys who are to carry on the work of Rotary. "These children of ours whom we wish to see carry on the fruits of Rotary produce rotten fruit if we are not in sympathy with them in their hardships, guiding and directing them."

In conclusion, he stated that the suggestions for concrete things that can cause men to live up to the ideals of Rotary consisted the desirability of guarding ourselves against the human frailty of our natures; engaging wholeheartedly in enterprises which give members definite opportunity, seeing to it that the members do not shirk their responsibilities; and helping to solve the knotty problems of all, working different suggestions to those members who wish to establish a right relationship of the Ins and Outs.

The meeting of the morning was opened with a sing-song led by Danny Greider of Terrell, and the meeting was called to order by district governor, Lester Dawley.

Announcement was made of a booth which was opened Friday at Rotary headquarters in the interest of Rotarians who are considering attending the international Rotary convention at Toronto, Canada.

A telegram was read from the Kiwanis club of Amarillo asking the Rotary conference to meet in that city in 1926.

An address by Frank Kell was one of the features of the morning.

The address of Colonel Ernest Thompson was not given because of lack of time. Mr. Thompson made a few remarks in the interest of Rotary the reading of the resolutions and the presentation of the gift to governor and Mrs. Dawley, the program of Friday morning was concluded.

Electra Lions Club Planning City White Way

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, April 4.—The Electra Lions has heard a report from its committee on the establishment of a white way for this city. Reports from the committee, with two electrical engineers, who have been making a survey of the town the past two weeks, show that the cost will be aproximately $11,000. It is proposed to make Main street from the railroad north to Bryan, and on Bryan west of Waggoner, the latter street from the post office, one block north, to Cleveland, two blocks south, the white way.

While the plan has in no way been adopted, the club has just taken the matter in hand, and will make an effort to promote it, with the assistance of the city officials and the property owners along the proposed thoroughfares. The reports shows the cost of installation of each light, and the cost of maintenance, per month.

The territory outlined in the report covers eight and one-half blocks, and it is thought will receive the earnest attention of the proper authorities when brought to their attention.

FORGERY WAVE HITS COUNTY

Merchants Here, At Electra And in Burkburnett Are Victims

An epidemic wave that has cost merchants in Wichita Falls, Electra and Burkburnett several hundred dollars in the past ten days has been called to the attention of local officials and has resulted in a drive to apprehend the offenders. Two men are now under arrest, while others are being sought for the part they are supposed to have played in a clever and successful swindling scheme.

Information furnished the county attorney's office Friday indicates that Electra has been the hardest hit. Half a dozen or more merchants of that city have lost amounts ranging from $25 to $75, it is said, all of which have been paid out on checks made with protectographs and numbered serially. Fictitious oil company signatures are signed to the checks, it was said.

Burkburnett merchants are also reported to have lost considerably, while a number of Wichita Falls business houses are known to have been victimized.

Panther Rotary Head in Praise Wichita Spirit

"Wichita Falls has shown the spirit of the west in its entertainment of the ninth annual convention of the Thirteenth District Rotary conference," Roscoe Smith, president of the Fort Worth Rotary club declared Friday as he was leaving Wichita Falls for his home city.

"It is to be hoped that the real fellowship of Wichita Falls and Fort Worth Rotarians will be the nucleus of a closer sentiment of the two wonder cities of west Texas. The Fort Worth delegation has enjoyed its visit with your city, and the Rotarians and the Rotary-Anns wish to thank the Wichitans for their kindness and courteous treatment and the pleasant entertainment given us while in Wichita Falls."

OIL COMPANY TRIAL ON IN U. S. COURT

The case of the Continental Supply company vs. the Waggoner Refining company, in which the plaintiffs seek collection of approximately $42,000 as payment on supplies furnished the defendant, was called for trial late Friday afternoon in federal court. The jury was selected and opening evidence introduced.

It is alleged by the plaintiffs that in the summer of 1923 approximately 47,000 feet of six-inch standard line pipe was sold to the defendant, for which payment has never been made. The defendant, in reply alleges that the supplies sold were of defective quality and that delivery was not made at the prescribed time.

The firm of Weeks, Morrow, Francis & Weeks represent the defendant, while Fischer & Fischer represent the plaintiffs.

JURORS IN U. S. COURT EXCUSED

With the exception of the twelve men now in the box on trial of a law case, all jurors in the United States district court were dismissed for the term by Judge William H. Atwell Friday afternoon. The jurors were called for service when court convened here about three weeks ago and have been subject to call since that time.

In finally excusing the men Judge Atwell thanked them for the diligence and service they had shown in attending to the matters laid before them.

The case in which the remaining jurors are now engaged is expected to be completed Saturday and it is thought that these men will then be dismissed.

Diner and Pullman Destroyed By Fire

A dining car and Pullman, the property of the Lachman Shows, were destroyed at 3 o'clock Friday morning when flames broke out in the diner as the two cars were standing on a siding of the Wichita Falls and Southern railroad at Call Field. The loss was estimated at being something in excess of $5,000.

The origin of the blaze is unknown. Firemen were called to the scene, but the field is outside the city limits with no water facilities available.

Three Acquitted, Two Guilty in Knox County Bankrupt Case; Verdict Friday

After deliberating just an hour, a jury in federal court Friday afternoon returned a verdict of not guilty in the case of the government vs. Ralph Newsome, Max Silverberg and Heine Fiegenbaum but convicted I. A. Silverberg and Adolf Fiegenbaum of charges of concealing assets from a referee in bankruptcy. The case was given to the jury shortly before 5 o'clock and the verdict was returned before six.

The not guilty verdict regarding the defendant Newsome was given on instructions from the court, which held that no evidence had been introduced that would warrant a conviction here.

All five men were indicted on charges preferred by the U. S. department of justice in connection with dry goods stores operated by the silverbergs and Fiegenbaums at Munday, Haskell and Stamford. It was alleged by the prosecution that prior to the time bankruptcy proceedings were instituted, stock from the Silverberg store at Munday and Haskell was transferred to the Fiegenbaum store in Stamford and there concealed.

Adolf Fiegenbaum admitted on the stand that this had been done but declared it was merely a matter of accommodation and was done with no intent to defraud. Charges of alleged bribery were made by the government in the case, it being testified by a government witness that one of the defendants had attempted to bribe him to insure secrecy.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Goldenrod Eggs—Boil six eggs until hard; separate whites from yolks. Prepare a white sauce of one tablespoon butter, one of flour and a cup of milk. Season with salt and paprika. Chop whites of eggs fine and add them to the white sauce and pour mixture over squares of toast. Put pulverized egg yolks on top and serve hot.

Date Whip—Chop one cup of apples and one cup of dates in food chopper. Beat the white of one egg very stiff and fold into the mixed apples and dates.

Filled Fish Balls—Three pounds of fish, one onion, salt, two eggs, two teaspoons sugar, one carrot, pepper, one-half cup bread crumbs, one tablespoon chopped almonds. Clean fish thoroughly, scrape from bones. Put fish, onions and carrot through the food chopper, then add above ingredients to the chopped fish. Make into balls. Take head and bones, three onions, one carrot, put in pot with two or three quarts of water. When boiling gently add fish balls and boil two hours. Season to taste by putting more pepper and salt into the boiling water.

Cabbage Salad—Take one small, hard cabbage head; cut fine. One-half pint vinegar, one-half tablespoon salt, one-half cup sugar, one tablespoon prepared mustard, one heaping tablespoon butter. Heat all, pour over cabbage and let cool. Take one cup sweet milk, one egg, beaten light, one-half cup sugar, one teaspoon cornstarch. Beat all together and cook. As soon as it thickens pour over cabbage. Let it get very cold before serving.

Dish Saving Ginger Cake—Break an egg into a cup and fill it up with molasses. Pour into a bowl. Add one-half cup sugar, one-third cup shortening in same cup, one teaspoon soda in cup and fill up with hot water. Beat together, add one and one-half cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt, ginger and spice to taste.

BRIDE DAY GIFTS

For the bride—bracelets watches, strings of pearls, one brooch, vanity case, pendant, earrings—daytime earrings of semi-precious stones and evening earrings of precious stones.

For the bridegroom—A wrist watch—should be the best one can find.

For girls—all kinds of charms. You can have the Coue charm, a medallion engraved on one side, "In every way," etc., and on the reverse, "Ca passe." A Coue bracelet is formed of twenty beads. Other bridesmaids' gifts are pendants in crystal or enamel engraved with dates and monograms of bride and groom.

For the best man—Cuff links with two monograms—on one, that of the recipient and on the other that of the giver. Wallets, cigarette cases of leather, gold or silver. Abroad canes are given, but this is not so usual here.

The Recipes

Rhubarb Charlotte.

One quart cooked rhubarb, 4 tablespoons gelatin, 2 cups cold water, 4 tablespoons orange marmalade, 3 cups whipped cream.

Dissolve gelatin in cold water, then set in pan of warm water. Add gelatin to rhubarb, then beat in orange marmalade. Stir occasionally until mixture begins to set. Fold in the whipped cream and pour into mold. Set in cold place to stiffen. Make half recipe for small quantity.

Scalloped Tunafish.

One can tuna (13 oz.), 2 carrots diced, 2 medium potatoes diced, 1 medium onion chopped, 1 cup green peas, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 1-4 teaspoon paprika, 1-8 teaspoon pepper, 1-4 cup bread crumbs.

Boil carrots, potatoes, onions and peas together until tender in a small quantity of salted water. Make a white sauce of butter, flour or milk; add seasonings and mix sauce with the tuna. Place vegetables and creamed fish in layers in a greased baking dish; cover with bread crumbs and bake 20 minutes.

Strawberry Mousse.

One tablespoon gelatin, 2 tablespoons cold water, 1 teaspoon lemon juice, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1 pint heavy cream, 3-4 cup powdered sugar, 1 box strawberries.

Hull and crush all but a few of the berries. Add half the sugar and press through a coarse sieve. Add lemon juice, salt and remainder of sugar. Dissolve gelatin in cold water and set over hot water. Remove and cool, then stir into the whipped cream. Combine cream and pulp mixtures and turn into a melon or fancy mold. Bury in equal parts of ice and salt for four hours. Unmold and garnish with cold berries.

New Peas and Potatoes.

One pint shelled peas, 1 pint new potatoes, 1 1-2 cups milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, sprig of mint.

Boil peas in water, adding salt ten minutes before removing from fire. Scrape and boil new potatoes separately, shaking over flame to dry. Prepare white sauce of milk, butter and flour, pour over potatoes and add peas. The mint should be added to water in which peas were boiled.

Italian Veal Chops

6 loin veal chops cut thick.
2 tablespoons flour.
1-2 teaspoon salt.
1-4 teaspoon pepper.
1 small onion.
1 bayleaf.
2 whole cloves.
1 chopped green pepper.
2 tablespoons shortening.

Blend flour, salt and pepper, and pound into chops. Melt shortening or veal fat and brown chops carefully in it. Lay chops in baking dish, add tomato, onions, clove, pepper and simmer about an hour and a half with lid on. Serve with baked potatoes or plain boiled macaroni.

Eggs Neapolitan

6 eggs.
1 cup tomato soup.
1 cup water.
1 tablespoon flour.
1 tablespoon butter.
1 teaspoon dry mustard.
1 scant teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne.
2 teaspoons sauce—worcestershire.
1-2 cup finely cut sharp cheese.
Toast points, parsley.

Have ready hot platter with rounds of buttered toast. Mix tomato soup and water and heat in shallow skillet. Break eggs into this sauce, poach slowly and remove to toast rounds. Blend the buter and flour, add seasonings, and stir into liquid remaining in pan. When smooth, add the cheese and continue stirring until cheese is perfectly melted and blended with sauce. Pour around eggs, garnish platter with toast points and parsley and serve at once.

Strawberry Shortcake.

One and one-half cups flour, 1-2 cup cornstarch, 4 level teapsoons baking powder, 1-3 cup butter, 1-2 teaspoon salt, milk, crushed berries and sugar.

Sift flour, cornstarch, baking powder and salt. Work in butter with knife; add milk to mix to a soft dough. Divide dough in halves, and pat out to fit two round tins. Bake in quick oven. Have fruit mashed with sugar. Spread each cake with mashed berries, put together and garnish top with whipped cream and whole berries.

Rogers Praises Wichita Falls' Rotary Efforts

"Wichita Falls has done a wonderful thing over the entire Rotary district, and has made the ninth annual convention a success from every standpoint," said Harry H. Rogers, newly elected district governor of Rotary, Friday afternoon. "We are hoping to make the next year at Galveston equally as good.

"I congratulate Wichita Falls Rotary club on the boys' work it has done, especially the work with the Boy Scouts which is equal to other cities similar in size throughout the state.

"Rotary is working on things worth while," Mr. Rogers declared, "and during the year, Rotary will improve its business standards to influence boys' work." Plans will be made to put every Rotarian to work on a task which will lead towards better citizenship, happiness and goodness."

911 VISITORS AT CONVENTION

Report of Credentials Committee Shows Many In City

The report of the credentials of the Rotary conference that closed Friday was given by Fred T. Couper, chairman. It mentioned the difficulties under which accommodations were secured for some of the visitors and stated that the committee had endeavored to give the best service possible to the visiting Rotarians.

Mr. Couper mentioned especially the splendid work of Tom Smock of Wichita Falls and Claude Braggen of Beaumont who had done noteworth work at convention headquarters.

Following a statement of the officials and distinguished visitors present at the convention, Mr. Couper read a list of the clubs of the district stating how many delegates each had at the conference, and the number of votes to which the club was entitled in the conference.

Mr. Couper stated that of the charter clubs in the district, 73 were represented and seven clubs were absent. That there were 632 Rotarians at the convention and 279 women and visitors, totaling 911 who attended the conference. Total votes in the conference he stated, were 165 with a membership represented of 4,519.

Following a sing-song by the delegates led by Edgar LeBlanc of the Longview Rotary club, accompanied at the piano by J. Sidney Pitman of Wichita Falls, Julian Montgomery introduced Clint Denman, president of the Waxahachie Rotary club to whom he presented in behalf of the Wichita Rotary club a silver loving cup, the prize offered for the largest representation of messages sent by any club in the district concerning the radio concert given by the Wichita Falls club March 21.

C. I. A. QUARTET WAS BIG HIT

Denton Girls Were Rotary Convention Feature

"Wear a, wear a, wear a little Rotary smile" has found no staunchcer group of advocates during the term of the convention just closed than in the quartet of musicians from the College of Industrial Arts who have entertained hundreds of visiting delegates by their concerts in the lobby of the Kemp hotel. At various intervals throughout the days and evenings the girls, surrounded usually by representatives of the Denton Rotary club, have played the repertoire of Rotary songs, in which often many bystanders participated.

Even "Sweet Adaline," the strains of which have enlivened convivial and sover occasions back through the years, was rejuvinated yesterday morning when an extemporaneous song leader, who until the moment of his debut had occupied a dignified place on the hotel davenport, suddenly rose to his feet, threw back his head and poured the favorite melody to the high ceiling of the lobby. z z

The girls, all students at the College of Industrial Arts, furnish music for all Rotary meetings in Denton. They are Louise Ridpath of Ardmore, Okla., piano; Margaret Peavy of Lufkin, violin; Margaret Cochrum of Groesbeck, violin, and Ethel Kublman of Houston, ukelale.

Young Forger Held in Jail; Case Puzzles

A 19 year old youth, recently out of college, confessed Friday to Assistant District Attorney Wayne Somerville that he had been passing a number of worthless checks on various merchants and business men in the city. He is now in the county jail and has been formally charged with the offense.

Several features connected with his case have caused considerable speculation since he had obtained practically nothing for his pains despite the fact that a dozen or more checks were cashed. His plan, it seems, was to purchase $25 or $30 worth of merchandise at a local store, order the goods sent to a fictitious address and tender in payment a check for an amount only a few cents larger than his bill. He is said to have received on an average of 35 or 40 cents in change from each of the transactions.

When the residence in question could not be found, the goods were returned to the store, hence being of no use to the man. Officers are puzzled over the case since it is one of the most unusual they have ever been called on to contend with.

De Luxe Lunch Formal Opening Today at Noon

ADDS ANOTHER EATING PLACE

Operated By Walter Harvey And Associates

The catering profession in Wichita Falls continues to grow as the months of the calendar roll by. The latest addition being the De Luxe Lunch, 712 Indiana avenue, operated by Walter Harvey and associates.

Mr. Harvey is an experienced cafe man and has promised the public a "de luxe service plus de luxe food," according to his motto. Music will be had from 12 until 2 and from 6 until 8 each day and especially is he prepared for an unusual large trade when he opens formally today at noon.

AMARILLO GETS ATTENDANCE CUP

Elijah Coles Trophy Goes To Plains City Friday

The Elijah Coles Loving Cup awarded at the anual conference each year for the best attendance was presented by Mr. Coles Friday to Allen Early for the Amarillo club whose percentage was 82.25. Denton came second with a percentage of 66.03 and Orange numbered 65.20 per cent. The percentage is figured by Mr. Coles who takes the club attendance at the conference, multiplies it by the mileage and divides it by the membership of the club.

An amusing situation arose when Amarillo was announced as winner for the best attendance, when it was discovered that only one member of the Amarillo club, Mr. Early, was in the confernece hall, the others having taken the noon train home.

Mr. Coles complimented the club highly on its standing in the district, and remarked on the progress the club has made since it was organized in 1918 under his regime as district governor.

Victor Crunder of the Cuero Rotary club discussed club singing, Randolph Binnion of the Commerce Rotary club spoke on new members, telling of the importance of educating new Rotarians and expanding the club slowly. "Catch 'em wise, feed it to 'em and make 'em like it" was his clever paraphrase on the familiar "catch em young, treat 'em rough, and tell em nothing."

Bruce Bogart of the Dallas club spoke on the vital importance of attendance and how his club had successfully secured high percentages in attendance through good programs and a group system of managing them. He stated that interclub attendance contests were far more successful than those carried on within the club. A Port Arthur Rotarian spoke on club bulletins urging that they be informational and concise.

HEIRESS BREATHES AIR OF FREEDOM AFTER BITTER FIGHT FROM ASYLUM

Dorothy Gordon.

BOSTON—For the first time in years Dorothy Gordon, pretty heiress to half a million dollars, is happy. She is breathing free air again.

For three years Miss Gordon has been confined in a hospital in Waverly, Mass., for treatment of mental disorders. Now she is living quietly with friends here.

She was committed to the institution despite a sensational court in which it was charged she was being "railroaded" to the asylum in order that her fortune might pass to other hands. r There were counte charges, too.

The court finally decided that Dorothy ought to go back to a hospital for a while, and ousted her guardian, William F. Jardine, a figure at the same time in a $25,000 breach of promise suit, with John M. O'Donoghue, the present manager of her estate.

Even before that she had been a center of court proceedings and the subject of much publicity. She was only 17 when she was committed to an asylum for the first time. In 1918 she was discharged as cured. Three years later her guardian decided she ought to go back. The court battle resulted.

Home-Wrecking Is Always An Inside Job

Lays Blame For Stolen Affections on Lack of Effort

The Father Who Persistently Discourages His Children—Shall She Marry a Foreigner Against Her Parents' Wishes—The Poor Young Man Who Is Attracted by a Girl Who Possesses Luxuriant Tastes.

Dear Miss Dix—What do you think of a father who is always telling his children that they have no sense, and will never amount to anything? In spite of his discouraging remarks, his daughter, who had to listen to his croaking all during her school years, has a splendid position, and is thought highly of in her place of business. The son, a splendid boy of sixteen, has not only this same croaking to contend with, but the father is always threatening to send him to the reform school, for no other reason than that the boy occasionally goes to a movie, or a school dance, and presses his clothes to make them look neat. Ought not the father to thank God for having children who have never caused him a bit of worry or trouble, and who have practically supported themselves since they were fourteen, by working in vacation, and doing odd jobs in school time?

ANXIOUS.

Answer: I think this man is not only a cruel and unnatural father, but that he is a fool as well. He has failed to do a father's part in cherishing his children, and he has deliberately done all that he could to make failures of them by discouraging them and supping their courage.

One of the greatest forces in the world for good or evil is the power of suggestion. With it you can almost make success or failure, and these children must have had exceptionally strong minds and wills, or else they would have succumbed to their father's tactics, and become the nonentities he tried to make them.

In former times, it was thought good for a child's soul to keep before its mind all of its defects, and to tell it continually how dull and stupid it was, and what an humble place it was destined to take in the world, or how homely and awkward it was, and to make it generally feel that it was such a hopelessly unpromising specimen of humanity that its parents should have taken it out and drowned it as we do the runt one of a litter of puppies.

But intelligent people know better than that now. They know that you can get the fixed idea of its stupidity so firmly implanted in a child's mind that it will never make an effort to exercise its intelligence at all. We know that the more we speak of a child's awkwardness the clumsier it gets. The more you convince a girl she is homely, the homelier she will be.

And, on the contrary, by praising a child's intelligence you can fire it with ambition that will keep it at the head of its class. You can cure awkwardness, which is only self-consciousness, by flattering a child into thinking better of itself. And you can make almost any woman pretty by dressing her up and making her vain enough to carry herself like a beauty.

We all unconsciously live up to our blue china and try to be what people expect us to be.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am twenty years old, and very much in love with a young man who is in business for himself. He is a fine character, and has proved himself very much of a gentleman in every way. My parents refuse to let me marry him because he is a foreigner by birth, but he has been in this country nearly twenty years, is a naturalized American citizen, and was an officer of high standing during the war. Still, in their eyes, he is a foreigner. That is the only objection to him. I have decided to marry him anyway, but thought I would ask your advice first. What shall I do?

HEARTBROKEN.

Answer: Wait another year, Heartbroken. If your father and mother have no other fault to find with the young man except that he is of foreign birth, they will be almost sure to come around when they find that your happiness is really at stake and that your love is not just a passing girlish fancy. Certainly, they are very unreasonable to stand between you and your happiness for the sake of a silly prejudice against foreigners.

That is the result of provincialism and ignorance, because the Anglo-Saxons have no monopoly on virtues. The people of every nation have the same good qualities and bad, and there are just as many kindly, honest, well-meaning people in one country as in another.

International marriages are nearly always unhappy when an American girl has to go to her husband's country to live, because American women do not easily adapt themselves to the customs of other countries, and American women have much freer and broader lives than do the women of foreign countries that they feel as if they were imprisoned by the social usages of other lands.

But when an American girl marries a foreigner who lives in this country this danger is eliminated and the marriage stands just as much chance of being happy as an American one. Indeed, many foreign husbands have qualities that American husbands might well emulate, for the foreigner is often more of a lover to his wife, more domestic and more interested in his home than is the American husband.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a young man with a profession, and a bright future before me, but I am making little at present, and will not be in a position to get married for at least four or five years. There is a young girl I am interested in, but not in love with, who cares a great deal for me, and can't help showing it. But she has such big ideas about the way she wants to live that I am afraid she is too extravagant for me and my pocketbook. I don't want to encourage her too much, yet I don't want to get engaged. What shall I do?

PERPLEXED JOHN.

Answer: I should think your only safety is in keeping away from the girl, as she evidently fascinates you. That kind of a girl, the girl with luxurious tastes and who wants the best of everything for herself, has a great allure for poor men simply because she is something that they can't afford. It is on the same principle that our appetites crave cake instead of plain bread, and we would rather have the luxuries than the necessities of life.

But it is a terrible mistake for a man with a thin pocketbook to marry the girl with millionaire ideas. She always spends more than he can afford. She always keeps him poor, and she is always dissatisfied. No greater misfortune can happen to the man with a near-beer income than to have a wife with a champagne taste.

But if it is going to be four or five years before you can marry, you have no business thinking about matrimony at all. Don't tie yourself up in the noose of a long engagement. Wait until you are ready to marry, and then pick out your wife.

DOROTHY DIX.

Drunk Invades Court Room, Tries To Address Jury and Lands in Bastille

A man, fairly well known in court house circles here but who is not a resident of Wichita Falls, lost out Friday afternoon in an attempt to play Daniel in the Lion's Den. He was in the county jail last night, reflecting on the matter while court attaches were divided in their opinions as to whether he was possessed of colossal nerve, extreme stupidity or was merely irresponsible.

He ambled into the court room during the progress of a trial, stumbled over a chair or two and surveyed the court, jury and attorneys with an air of good natured tolerance. The court bailiff eyed the visitor suspiciously and waited for further developments.

They came.

An attorney was examining a witness and making satisfactory headway but the stranger evidently wanted to speed things up. He started an oration which might have been an argument to the jury, a motion to the court, a cross-examination of the witness or merely an arraignment of the indictment. Whatever it was, however, was sufficient to bring prompt action from court officials.

The intruder was steadied by two deputy sheriffs and led from the court room, waving an amiable farewell.

He was booked as a plain drunk on the jail docket and was still sobering up at an early hour Friday night.

De Luxe Lunch Formal Opening Today at Noon

ADDS ANOTHER EATING PLACE

Operated By Walter Harvey And Associates

The catering profession in Wichita Falls continues to grow as the months of the calendar roll by. The latest addition being the De Luxe Lunch, 712 Indiana avenue, operated by Walter Harvey and associates.

Mr. Harvey is an experienced cafe man and has promised the public a "de luxe service plus de luxe food," according to his motto. Music will be had from 12 until 2 and from 6 until 8 each day and especially is he prepared for an unusual large trade when he opens formally today at noon.

AMARILLO GETS ATTENDANCE CUP

Elijah Coles Trophy Goes To Plains City Friday

The Elijah Coles Loring Cup awarded at the anual conference each year for the best attendance was presented by Mr. Coles Friday to Allen Early for the Amarillo club whose percentage was 82.23. Denton came second with a percentage of 66.06 and Orange numbered 65.20 per cent. The percentage is figured by Mr. Coles who takes the club attendance at the conference, multiplies it by the mileage and divides it by the membership of the club.

An amusing situation arose when Amarillo was announced as winner for the best attendance, when it was discovered that only one member of the Amarillo club, Mr. Early, was in the conference hall, the others having taken the noon train home.

Mr. Coles complimented the club highly on its standing in the district, and remarked on the progress the club has made since it was organized in 1918 under his regime as district governor.

Victor Crunder of the Cuero Rotary club discussed club singing, Randolph Binnion of the Commerce Rotary club spoke on new members, telling of the importance of educating new Rotarians and expanding the club slowly. "Catch 'em wise, feed it to 'em and make 'em like it" was his clever paraphrase on the familiar "catch em young, treat 'em rough, and tell em nothing."

Bruce Bogart of the Dallas club spoke on the vital importance of attendance and how his club had successfully secured high percentages in attendance through good programs and a group system of managing them. He stated that interclub attendance contests were far more successful than those carried on within the club. A Port Arthur Rotarian spoke on club bulletins urging that they be informational and concise.

HEIRESS BREATHES AIR OF FREEDOM AFTER BITTER FIGHT FROM ASYLUM

Dorothy Gordon.

BOSTON—For the first time in years Dorothy Gordon, pretty heiress to half a million dollars, is happy. She is breathing free air again.

For three years Miss Gordon has been confined in a hospital in Waverly, Mass., for treatment of mental disorders. Now she is living quietly with friends here.

She was committed to the institution despite a sensational court in which it was charged she was being "railroaded" to the asylum in order that her fortune might pass to other hands. r There were counte charges, too.

The court finally decided that Dorothy ought to go back to a hospital for a while, and ousted her guardian, William F. Jardine, a figure at the same time in a $25,000 breach of promise suit, with John M. O'Donogue, the present manager of her estate.

Even before that she had been a center of court proceedings and the subject of much publicity. She was only 17 when she was committed to an asylum for the first time. In 1918 she was discharged as cured. Three years later her guardian decided she ought to go back. The court battle resulted.

Home-Wrecking Is Always An Inside Job | DorothyDix | Lays Blame For Stolen Affections on Lack of Effort

The Father Who Persistently Discourages His Children—Shall She Marry a Foreigner Against Her Parents' Wishes—The Poor Young Man Who Is Attracted by a Girl Who Possesses Luxuriant Tastes.

Dear Miss Dix—What do you think of a father who is always telling his children that they have no sense, and will never amount to anything? In spite of his discouraging remarks, his daughter, who had to listen to his croaking all during her school years, has a splendid position, and is thought highly of in her place of business. The son, a splendid boy of sixteen, has not only this same croaking to contend with, but the father is always threatening to send him to the reform school, for no other reason than that the boy occasionally goes to a movie, or a school dance, and presses his clothes to make them look neat. Ought not the father to thank God for having children who have never caused him a bit of worry or trouble, and who have practically supported themselves since they were fourteen, by working in vacation, and doing odd jobs in school time?

ANXIOUS.

Answer: I think this man is not only a cruel and unnatural father, but that he is a fool as well. He has failed to do a father's part in cherishing his children, and he has deliberately done all that he could to make failures of them by discouraging them and supping their courage.

One of the greatest forces in the world for good or evil is the power of suggestion. With it you can almost make success or failure, and these children must have had exceptionally strong minds and wills, or else they would have succumbed to their father's tactics, and become the nonentities he tried to make them.

In former times, it was thought good for a child's soul to keep before its mind all of its defects, and to tell it continually how dull and stupid it was, and what an humble place it was destined to take in the world, or how homely and awkward it was, and to make it generally feel that it was such a hopelessly unpromising specimen of humanity that its parents should have taken it out and drowned it as we do the runt one of a litter of puppies.

But intelligent people know better than that now. They know that you can get the fixed idea of its stupidity so firmly implanted in a child's mind that it will never make an effort to exercise its intelligence at all. We know that the more we speak of a child's awkwardness the clumsier it gets. The more you convince a girl she is homely, the homelier she will be.

And, on the contrary, by praising a child's intelligence you can fire it with ambition that will keep it at the head of its class. You can cure awkwardness, which is only self-consciousness, by flattering a child into thinking better of itself. And you can make almost any woman pretty by dressing her up and making her vain enough to carry herself like a beauty.

We all unconsciously live up to our blue china and try to be what people expect us to be.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am twenty years old, and very much in love with a young man who is in business for himself. He is a fine character, and has proved himself very much of a gentleman in every way. My parents refuse to let me marry him because he is a foreigner by birth, but he has been in this country nearly twenty years, is a naturalized American citizen, and was an officer of high standing during the war. Still, in their eyes, he is a foreigner. That is the only objection to him. I have decided to marry him anyway, but thought I would ask your advice first. What shall I do?

HEARTBROKEN.

Answer: Wait another year, Heartbroken. If your father and mother have no other fault to find with the young man except that he is of foreign birth, they will be almost sure to come around when they find that your happiness is really at stake and that your love is not just a passing girlish fancy. Certainly, they are very unreasonable to stand between you and your happiness for the sake of a silly prejudice against foreigners.

That is the result of provincialism and ignorance, because the Anglo-Saxons have no monopoly on virtues. The people of every nation have the same good qualities and bad, and there are just as many kindly, honest, well-meaning people in one country as in another.

International marriages are nearly always unhappy when an American girl has to go to her husband's country to live, because American women do not easily adapt themselves to the customs of other countries, and American women have much freer and broader lives than do the women of foreign countries that they feel as if they were imprisoned by the social usages of other lands.

But when an American girl marries a foreigner who lives in this country this danger is eliminated and the marriage stands just as much chance of being happy as an American one. Indeed, many foreign husbands have qualities that American husbands might well emulate, for the foreigner is often more of a lover to his wife, more domestic and more interested in his home than is the American husband.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a young man with a profession, and a bright future before me, but I am making little at present, and will not be in a position to get married for at least four or five years. There is a young girl I am interested in, but not in love with, who cares a great deal for me, and can't help showing it. But she has such big ideas about the way she wants to live that I am afraid she is too extravagant for me and my pocketbook. I don't want to encourage her too much, yet I don't want to get engaged. What shall I do?

PERPLEXED JOHN.

Answer: I should think your only safety is in keeping away from the girl, as she evidently fascinates you. That kind of a girl, the girl with luxurious tastes and who wants the best of everything for herself, has a great allure for poor men simply because she is something that they can't afford. It is on the same principle that our appetites crave cake instead of plain bread, and we would rather have the luxuries than the necessities of life.

But it is a terrible mistake for a man with a thin pocketbook to marry the girl with millionaire ideas. She always spends more than he can afford. She always keeps him poor, and she is always dissatisfied. No greater misfortune can happen to the man with a near-beer income than to have a wife with a champagne taste.

But if it is going to be four or five years before you can marry, you have no business thinking about matrimony at all. Don't tie yourself up in the noose of a long engagement. Wait until you are ready to marry, and then pick out your wife.

Drunk Invades Court Room, Tries To Address Jury and Lands in Bastille

A man, fairly well known in court house circles here but who is not a resident of Wichita Falls, lost out Friday afternoon in an attempt to play Daniel in the Lion's Den. He was in the county jail last night, reflecting on the matter while court attaches were divided in their opinions as to whether he was possessed of colossal nerve, extreme stupidity or was merely irresponsible.

He ambled into the court room during the progress of a trial, stumbled over a chair or two and surveyed the court, jury and attorneys with an air of good natured tolerance. The court bailiff eyed the visitor suspiciously and waited for further developments.

They came.

An attorney was examining a witness and making satisfactory headway but the stranger evidently wanted to speed things up. He started an oration which might have been an argument to the jury, a motion to the court, a cross-examination of the witness or merely an arraignment of the indictment. Whatever it was, however, was sufficient to bring prompt action from court officials.

The intruder was steadied by two deputy sheriffs and led from the court room, waving an amiable farewell.

He was booked as a plain drunk on the jail docket and was still sobering up at an early hour Friday night.

DRUG PLOT IS FOUND AT JAIL

Officers Nab Man In Effort To Smuggle Drugs To Wife

An attempt to smuggle a quantity of morphine into a woman prisoner in the county jail was frustrated Friday morning by Deputy Sheriff W. P. Belcher and other sheriff's department ofifeers who, through a tip they had received, had been on the lookout for the drugs.

Several days ago, a letter was received by a woman now awaiting transfer to the federal penitentiary at Caldwell, N. J. to serve a sentence for violation of the narcotic laws. It was written by her husband and among other things stated that "I am bringing you three slugs next week."

Friday, which is visitors day at the county jail, the man appeared and asked to see his wife. He was compelled to submit to a search, which resulted in the finding of a quantity of drugs cleverly concealed in some medicinal tablets.

The man was locked up himself on charges of possession of narcotics in violation of the Harrison act.

ANDERSON GETS 15 YEAR TERM

Convicted By Jury In 89th Court on Charges Of Assault

Charles F. Anderson of Burkburnett was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary Friday afternoon by a jury in the 89th district court which tried and found him guilty on charges of criminal assault upon a young Burkburnett girl. The jurors deliberated less than half an hour in arriving at their verdict.

The alleged offense was committed in June, 1923, according to testimony introduced in the case. The defendant was tried on same charges as those preferred against another Burkburnett man who was arrested on complaints of the same girl and who was sentenced to twelve years in the penitentiary.

It is said that Bull Montana is forsaking the screen for the legitimate stage. He has been engaged as one of the stars of "Smiles of 1924." Annette Kellerman heads the cast of "The Smiles."

Bralley's Motion Makes Rogers' Name Unanimous Choice for Rotary Leader

"Here is a man who stands for Rotary spirit and service; he is held in high esteem by his fellow citizens of San Antonio.

"I move you that the election of Harry H. Rogers for district governor candidate be made unanimous by rising vote."

This motion, made Friday afternoon by F. M. Bralley, himself a candidate for the office, brought thunderous aplause from the Rotary convention in the Palace theatre. The motion carried, and continuing, Mr. Bralley said:

"One hundred thousand business and profesional men are brought together in service when Rotarians meet together, to sing together, to play together. It makes better men of us.

"The fellowship of Rotary and of Rotarians breaks dowe marrowness and prejudice in the community, in the nation, in the state, and in the world. Rotary renders a distinctive and constructive service that has never been given before.

"I want to say for the good of the Rotarians of the thirteenth district international that the day is never too long, nor the hour too dark for members of Denton Rotary and "Bones" Bralley to respond to the cal of duty when issued.

"We are back of Harry Rogers and will take orders from him in the true spirit of Rotary service."

Holbrook Blinn in "Janice Meredith."

Holbrook Blinn, noted screen actor, has just been added to the cast of "Janice Meredith," the forthcoming Cosmopolitan production adapted from Paul Leicester Ford's stirring story of American revolutionary days in which Marion Davies will appear. Blinn will play the part of Lord Clowes.

Mr. Blinn portrays a leading part in Miss Davies' production of "Yolanda," now at the Cosmopolitan theatre. In the latter picture he appears as King Louis XI.

May Vokes, well known comedienne, will make her film debut in "Janice Meredith," Miss Vokes, whose last appearance in New York was in the original cast of "The Bat" and who is recognized as one of the most popular delineators of the comic slavey character on the legitimate stage, has been engaged to play Susie, the maid.

Many veterans of the World War are being used in making "Janice Meredith." Men who distinguished themselves on the battlefield of France, many of them disabled, are appearing as "extras" in scenes depicting the battles of Lexington and Trenton, the occupation and evacuation of Philadelphia and the surrender at Yorktown. They also appear in the colorful Boston Coffee House scene, the gorgeous court at Versailles, the ball given in honor of General Washington at Trenton as well as many other spectacular episodes.

E. Mason Hopper is directing the production and it is his wish, as well as that of Miss Davies and the Cosmopolitan corporation, that veterans of the World War be engaged for battle scenes wherever possible.

Eleanor Boardman Goes on Milk Diet.

Eleanor Boardman has gone into a week of intensive training before beginning work in the leading role of Rachael Crothers' stage success "Mary the Third," to be filmed by King Vidor for Goldwyn.

Marie Prevost and Florence Vidor in "The Marriage Circle"

Miss Boardman has entered a milk farm, and for the next week will subsist on milk alone. She is to drink a glass of milk every half hour, and take absolutely no exercise for the next ten days.

The object of this is to gain weight, inasmuch as the character of "Mary the Third" requires a plumpness which Miss Boardman does not possess.

Eleanor claims her plight is not as bad as it might be, inasmuch as most film actresses spend their lives trying to keep down weight instead of trying to gain it.

Production on the Vidor picture, which is to be made under the tentative title of "Mary the Third" until a better one is suggested, is scheduled to start soon.

Hampton Buys Stories.

Jesse D. Hampton, who produced Rex Beach's novel, "The Spoilers," for the Goldwyn Pictures Corporation, has purchased five stories for production in the spring. Hampton has the film rights to four more Rex Beach stories.

FILM NOTES.

Carmel Myers is tired of being the lovely and alluring vamp who entices the man from his wife and who gets left in the end. She wants to be respectable and "get a man" to keep.

Oh for the life of an extra! A flock of unkept men have been kept on hand to play pirates and things in Sabatini's "The Sea Hawk." For three months they were required to let their hair and whiskers grow. The big scenes finished, they all had to dash to the barber's, then to don tuxedos and enact the part of strutting "cake eaters" in Colleen Moore's "Perfect Flapper."

Eight million extras are to appear in the next Sol Lesser picture. Eight million—count 'em—eight million. They are "cyclops"—tiny one-eyed organisms that live in the water. And they are to perform for Louis H. Tolhurst, the scientist-director in his "Secrets of Life" series.

Gloria Swanson worked in a department store recently to get legal color for her next picture, "Manhandled." Although she was disguised she was finally recognized and almost caused a riot in the establishment.

Thelma Morgan-Converse, twin sister of Mrs. Reggie Vanderbilt and daughter of Harry Hay Morgan, consul general to Belgium, is a Spanish countess in George Fitzmaurice's "Cytherea."

Paul Sloane, who is writing the scenario for Thomas Meighan's next Paramount picture, "Whispering Men" has gone to Indianapolis to confer with Booth Tarkington, the author. "Whispering Men" is an original for the screen by the famous Hoosier author, the second he has done for Meighan. The first was "Pied Piper Malone."

Ann Pennington and Brooke Johns, the Ziegfeld Follies entertainers, a story of whose secret marriage has just been published and denied, have another secret which they are not denying. They have been playing in the movies for Gloria Swanson's next picture, "Manhandled," which Allan Dwan is making at the Paramount Long Island studio. The scene was a party in a New York sculptor's studio.

Anna Q. Nilsson, who recently arrived in New York, has begun work at the Paramount Long Island studio in the Herbert Brenon production, "The Mountebank." Ernest Torrence has the title role in this picture and Neil Hamilton and Louise Lagrange are also in the cast.

George Ade is expected at the Paramount Long Island studio within the next few days to write the titles for Thomas Meighan's new picture, "The Confidence Man." After writing "Our Leading Citizens," "Back Home and Broke" and "Woman-Proof" for Mr. Meighan's screen use Mr. Ade was so successful with the titles that he was urged personally by the star to travel east to assist in editing his latest picture.

COLOR CUT-OUT.

A Paper Easter Lily That Stands.

"Won't my friends be surprised at my luncheon to find little pots of Easter lilies for favors at their places!" said Mrs. Cut-out when Freda finished making a model of paper that had four sides and stood up just as a real flower pot would do.

"When you've lived in a greenhouse all your life you find out just how many petals and leaves the flowers have," was Freda's answer. "Then it's easy to copy them."

"I'm going to invite you two girls to my luncheon to reward you for making the favors," promised Mrs. Cut-out.

Mark on the back of the large picture of the Easter lily here with your pencil till it is good and black, then trace the lily on four different pieces of white paper. Folding each paper in the center, put the backs of the papers together to make a four-sided pot. If the papers do not seem to fit together, try them backward and you'll discover that the four meet as they should. Color the leaves green and outline the white flowers in black crayon. Make the centers yellow. Paste the four parts together and use the pot for a table favor.

Day IS RAIL DEFENSE

Local Man Supports Proposed Mergers Of Lines

EXPLAINS PROJECT

Predicts Better Service If Plans Are Carried Out By Systems

"Next to the tax budget, I consider the transportation the greatest problem that confronts the American people," Frank Kell of Wichita Falls said in an address on the transportation question at the Friday morning session of the Rotarian convention. Giving a brief review of the history of transportation, he stated that the transportation act that became effective March 1, 1920, was he greatest legislative benefit to the railroad ever enacted in the history of the country.

"It is not complete in every particular," he declared, "but its basic principle is piched on a firm foundation and if it can be allowed to stand a few years it will work out and prove efficient."

In speaking of transportation section 15A and the merger clause of the act, Mr. Kell stated that if allowed to remain on the statute books, it would bring the railroad industry into a sound business-like system.

"Going back into history, you find many failures of the railroads. The railroads fought among themselves until they could not operate successfully. Regulations finally came in, and reached a maximum height of restriction in 1915," he said.

"Following this period, business interests went to congress with a practical plan for the control of the industry, and in March, 1920, the transportation act went into effect. This deals with the rates of the country, and is dealt with by politicians. A guarantee was given to a railroad that if it earns a six per cent return it can keep it, but if it earns more than six per cent, one-half of this surplus over six per cent goes into the government treasury, and the other half into the treasury of the railroad, not to be paid out in dividends. If a railroad does not earn above two per cent it is a failure.

Mr. Kell explained the merger plan saying:

"The country is divided into 19 or 20 districts under the merger plan and the roads that fail to earn six per cent are merged with the stronger lines, and when all these mergers are completed we will have great railroads that serve the country as it has never before been served."

Citing examples of the merger plan Mr. Kell referred to the present proposition of merging the Gulf Coast Lines and the International and Great Northern. The more extensive merger that is now before the interstate commerce commission is that of the Great Northern, Northern Pacific, Burlington lines, Colorado and Southern, Fort Worth and Denver, Texas and Brazos Valley and the Wichita Falls and Southern.

One of the roads earning above the six per cent, Mr. Kell stated, was the Wichita Falls and Southern, which contributes each year to the federal treasury. "I believe that is the best part of the law. When the highest tribunal upheld that section of the act, it was the greatest hing that ever happened for the aid of transportation."

He asserted that Texas had seven short lines in service. I would be opposed to the merger of any two of these, for it would lessen competition, but under the present plan, it would be impossible to merger all of them in a manner that would in no way interfere with competition.

"In the year 1922 there was a loss that the number of miles of track repf 2,000 miles of trackage meaning resented the difference between the roads that were junked and the new roads. I do not agree with the man who said that 25,000 miles of railroad in the United States should be discontinued. A railroad in any country that builds up industrial activity and pays should be allowed to live."

Mr. Kell told of the deep sea project from the St. Lawrence to the head of the Great Lakes which would cost $400,000,000 government money, and would reach comparatively few people for the expenditure.

"This project would mean nothing to the people south of the Potomac to those south of Missouri, and it will prove harmful to the business of all southern and Atlantic ports. The traffic that has been directed through Houston, Port Arthur, Galveston and New Orleans would be diverted to Chicago and thence to Milwaukee, and to foreign ports from the Atlantic. I ask that you give this thorough consideration and I hope that Texas will do her part toward knocking this project in the head."

Rotary-Anns End Meeting At Luncheon

Opening with a singsong led by Mrs. Luella B. Thompson, the last feature of the Rotary-Anns came to a close Friday afternoon, following a delicious luncheon served to 160 women at the Wichita Country club. Mrs. T. B. Smock of this city was toastmistress, and introduced Mrs. "Sue Belle" Couper, wife of "Laddie Fred Couper," member of the local Rotary club. Mrs. Couper made a short talk on what the visit of the Rotarians and the Rotary-Anns had meant to the local women and clubs. "We invite you to come again and come often," she said in conclusion.

Mrs. "Ella" Cline, wife of the president, of local Rotary, W. D. Cline, gave a toast to Mrs. Lester Dawley, wife of district governor Dawley, "To Enthusiastic Women." Mrs. Dawley answered with a gracious response.

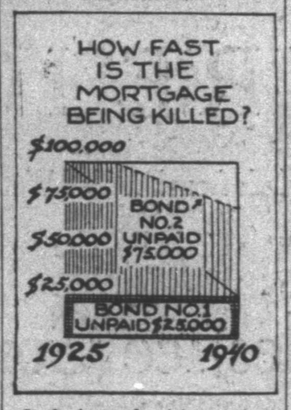

Mrs. Frank E. Fuller of Paris favored the guests by singing several numbers. Miss Pearl Smith, local artist, gave several delightful readings.

Mrs. Smock included Mrs. Haseltine of Dallas, "the New York of Texas;" Mrs. Lilas Penick of Stamford; Mrs. McClanahan of Paris; Mrs. Rogers of Amarillo and Mrs. Mary Bralley of Denton.

MONEY At Work

Brief but Important Lessons in Finance, Markets, Stocks, Bonds and Investments.

In buying real estate mortgage bonds there are several things to look at beside the rate of interest. One of these is, how quickly is the bond issue being amortized or "killed off."

In the case of many buildings which real estate mortgage bonds are financing at this present moment no provision has been made for reducing the principal of the mortgage for the next five years—and these next five years will be critical ones. A mortgage bond issue which provides for killing off the mortgage at 5 per cent per year, starting the year after the building is completed, may generally be regarded as sound because this will only leave 25 per cent of the original mortgage standing at the end of 16 years.

Beware of those issues which do not start to kill off the mortgage until 5 years after the building is completed and then at the rate of only 2 or 2 1-2 per cent. When you see a very high interest rate offered on these real estate mortgage bonds, find out where the trick lies—there must be some large amount of hidden risk or a lower rate would be offered.

OIL, STEEL AND RAILS STRONG

Constructive Forces Working Caused Big Play On Futures

Market Features

Total stock sales 912,200 shares.

Twenty industrials averaged 95.30; net gain .39.

High 1924, 101.24; low 93.08.

Twenty railroads averaged 86.32; net gain .60.

High 1920, 86.32; low 82.74.

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Constructive forces were at work in today's more active stock market, continued strength of the railroad shares being accompanied by bullish demonstration in the oils, steels and public utilities. So brisk was the demand for rail shares that the average of twenty leading stock established a new high record for the year.

Operations on the long side, while more aggressive than on any other day this week, were restricted somewhat by the apparent disposition of several large operators to await publication of the Dawes report and senate action on the tax reduction bill before extending their commitments.

U. S. Steel common crossed par for the first time since the middle of February, closing 1 1-4 points higher at 100 3-8, its best price on the day, despite predictions that the tonnage statement for March to be issued next week would show a reduction in unfilled order. Gulf States Steel advance 1 3-4 and Crucible 1 1-2.

Buying power in the rail group was well distributed, New Orleans, Texas and Mexico touching 112, a new high for the year. Big Four jumped nine points and Omaha 2 3-4, while Rock Island, Erie first preferred, Delaware and Hudson, Western Pacific preferred and Wabash preferred B advanced 1 to 2 1-2 points.

Oil was bought on reports that consumption was rapidly overtaking production, gains of a point or so being recorded by the Pan-American issues, Houston, Standard Oil of California, Mexican Seaboard and Phillips.

ing. Although there was a brief period of reaction following the first spurt on fears of small mill taking, the market gathered fresh upward impetus when it was found that mill taking for the week were 208,000 bales, or much larger than expected. May scored an advance of more than six dollars a bale before the advance was checked.

The market reacted fairly during the afternoon profit taking mainly and on the theory that the recent advances had been a little to rapid and some reaction was due.

Dun's Report

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, April 4.—Dun's tomorrow will say:

By retarding spring tivities, inclement weather has accentuated the contraction of business. April opened with snowstorms along the Atlantic seaboard, which checked demand for seasonable goods and impeded transportation and low temperatures and fl s in some other sections have been added drawbacks. Apart from the restraints imposed by the elements, the commercial movement shows more plainly the effects of the cautions forward buying in most lines. Production in certain quarters associated steel industry, approximates the best previous records, but apparently exc ds consumption, and output in some instances, notably at textile mills, is being curtailed because of the small volume of new orders.

SETBACK FOR CORN IS NOTED

Lack of Sustained Demand Is One Cause

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, April 4.—Increased selling pressure together with lack of sustained demand to a setback in price today for future deliveries of corn. Closing quotations were unsettled, 1-2 to 5-8@3-4 cents net lower, May 78 1-2@5-8 to 78 5-8 cents. Wheat also finished unsettled 1-8@1-2 cent down, May 1.01 3-4 to 1.01 7-8 and July 1.03 1-8, with oats 1-4 to 3-8 cent to 5-8 cents off, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents higher.

Notwithstanding estimates that 1,000,000 bushels of Canadian wheat had been taken for shipment to Europe, wheat values here sagged throughout the day. Fine weather and the fact that United States wheat was held at above a world parity appeared to be more or less responsible offsetting the influence of further buying on the part of domestic mills.

Word that oats were being seeded at some points in Illinois had a bearish effect on the oats market.

Higher quotations on hogs gave a lift to provisions.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK.

By The Associated Press.

FORT WORTH, April 4.—Cattle trading was steady today, with prices generally inclined with the week's advance. Only 1,200 cattle and 500 calves were available. Beef steers gained 25 cents and were 50 to 60 cents beter than Monday, or generally 25 to 35 cents higher than at last week's close. Fat cows picked up 10 cents. Yearlings, bulls and calves remained steady and sold readily. Four loads of grassers averaging under 1,000 pounds went at 7.00. Some cows were taken at a range of 4.85 to 5.00. The best yearlings sold around 7.50 to 7.75. Bulls brought 3.50 to 3.75.

Traders called the hog market five to ten cents higher. Nothing brought more than 7.60, but choice hogs were worth more money. Most of the run of 600 head went at a spread of 7.25 to 7.55.

LEGAL NOTICE

THE STATE OF TEXAS
County of Wichita.

To the sheriff or any constable of Wichita county, greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon Anton Allmendinger and the heirs of Anton Allmendinger, whose names are unknown, to appear at the next regular term of the district court of Wichita county, Texas, 78th judicial district to be held at the court house thereof in the city of Wichita Falls, on the first Monday in May, A. D. 1924, same being the 5th day of May, A. D. 1924, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court, in cause No. 13478-B, wherein J. A. Kemp and Frank Kell are plaintiffs and Anton Allmendinger and the unknown heirs of Anton Allmendinger are defendants.

The cause of action being alleged as follows:

That plaintiffs on or about January 1, A. D. 1924, were lawfully seized and possessed of the northeast 1-4 of section 6, S. P. R. R. company survey, certificate No. 16-180, in Wichita and Areber counties, Texas, holding and claiming the same in fee simple, but on such date defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiffs therefrom, and unlawfully withhold from them the possession thereof, to the plaintiff's damage in the sum of $5,000.00. That plaintiffs have held said land under a duly recorded deed and paid all taxes on same for a period of more than five years prior to January 1, A. D. 1924.

WHEREFORE, plaintiffs pray that the defendants be cited and that plaintiffs have judgment for the title and possession of said land, for writ of restitution, damages and relief, general and special.

You are further commanded to serve this citation by publishing the same once in each week for four consecutive weeks previous to the return date hereof, in a newspaper published in your county.

Herein fail not but have you before said court on the first day of the next term thereof, this writ, with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Witness, A. F. Kerr, clerk of the district court, of Wichita county, Texas.

Given under my hand and seal of said court, in the city of Wichita Falls, this 14th day of March, A. D. 1924.

A. F. KERR,
Clerk of the district court in and for Wichita county, Texas.
By WINNIFRED PICKENS, Deputy.

A NEW DISCOVERY
Overcomes the biggest difficulties in chick raising.
The medical profession prescribe cod liver oil to cure and prevent rickets which in chicks is leg weakness. The poultry husbandry departments of some of the agricultural colleges including Wisconsin and Illinois have demonstrated that the use of cod liver oil is a preventative of leg weakness in chicks. By including it in Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter by a process which keeps the feed sweet, dry and granular we are placing a complete feed at the service of every poultryman. Leg weakness which so frequently causes disaster to early hatched chicks is practically eliminated where Ful-O-Pep Chick Strater is fed and the birds are properly housed and cared for. Ful-O-Pep Chick Starter solves the greatest problem which the poultryman has. It will grow his chicks more rapidly, with greater safety and economy, bringing out the best that is in them. DAWLEYS GIVEN ROTARY HONORS

Retiring Governor and Wife Presented With Club Tokens

"This is wonderful. I thank you," were the words of appreciation that Mrs. Lester Dawley spoke on the presentation of a beautiful tea service that was given her and the retiring district governor, Mr. Dawley, given on the behalf of the clubs of the thirteenth district of Rotary International. A pair of gold cuff links were also presented to Mr. Dawley.

The presentation speech was made by Rotarian James K. Thompson, past president of the Fort Worth Rotary club, and pastor of the First Presbyterian church of that city. He praised the work of the retiring governor, for his untiring services given Rotary during his year as chief officer of the district.

Mrs. Dawley was escorted to the platform for the ceremony by Mrs. Roscoe Smith, wife of the president of the Fort Worth club. The service was first presented to her, as a "token of love and esteem from the clubs of the thirteenth district." The district governor and his wife were asked to join hands by Mr. Thompson who blessed them, and presented the cuff links to Mr. Dawley.

"Rotary owes nothing to me, but I owe all to Rotary," Mr. Dawley said in response. "It has broadened our visions, and our achievements. It is my wish that Rotary may continue to strive to achieve the ideals set for the organiation."

Deaths

The body of J. P. Woodruff, 29 who died at Iowa Park after a short illness Thursday, was forwarded to Holland, Texas, Friday, for burial by the Merkle Undertaking company.

Mr. Woodruff is survived by his widow, his mother, Mrs. M. E. Woodruff, of Holland and five brothers, all of whom are employed by the Callahan Construction company, with whom Mr. Woodruff was connected at the time when he became ill, several days ago.

THINGS YOU SAY, DO AND SEE AND SOME YOU DON'T

The local real estate board will meet at the chamber of commerce this afternoon at 2 o'clock when every real estate firm in the city is requested to be present. There will be an election of officers, according to an announcement made Friday.

Mrs. A. M. Majors of Burk-burnett was in the city Friday.

Ruby McAshur, who has been a guest of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Orchin during the Rotary convention, returned Friday to her home in Jacksonville, Texas.

Two girls who mixed up in a lively scrap on the carnival grounds Thursday night furnished the feature of the Friday morning police court session. One drew a nominal fine and the other was released.

Judge Walter F. Schenck of Graham was in the city Friday visiting friends at the court house.

Arch Tyler, former prohibition enforcement agent in Wichita Falls and now connected with the prohibition office at Fort Worth was in the city Friday.

All outbound trains Friday carried a heavy compliment of departing Rotarians. These, with the specials and automobiles that entered the city, fairly well cleaned up the quota of visitors.

Six marriage licenses issued Friday set an easy record for the week at the county clerk's office.

Rotary Resolution Calling for Aid For Cripples Fails to Be Adopted

The following resolutions were read at the report of the committee on resolutions at the morning session of the Rotary conference Thursday by the chairman, William T. Cayen of Marshall. The first one being the resolution petitioning the legislature to enact a law providing for the care, cure and education of our crippled children. The resolution read:

"Having full faith in Rotary's watchword, 'Service,' and believing that we render the greatest service by helping those least able to help themselves, we offer a resolution to the effect that this organization respectfully petition our law making bodies, when next in session, to frame and enact laws, the purport of same being to care for, cure, insofar as is possible, and educate the crippled children of our state, to the end that they may be able to gain the greatest pleasure from life, and be a source of revenue instead of a burden to the state; further, that our secretary forward copies of this resolution to the heads of such law making bodies, and further that our worthy district governor use his influence in securing capable sponsors for this movement in said branches of our law making bodies."

Lutcher Stark, past district governor and past vice president of Rotary International said, in speaking on the motion, that "We want to thoroughly understand this matter. Rotarians, think on this seriously, and if all are in favor of the motion, pass it. You would be surprised to find the number of crippled children found even in the small towns if a survey were made.

"No doubt this is a matter toward the betterment of statesmanship and the betterment of the state. Other states have passed similar measures, and the children of Texas are as dear and just as great as those of other states."

At the request of Mr. Stark, Frank Jones of Houston, told of the work that the Shriners are doing towards relieving the crippled. He explained that more than 600,000 Shriners in the United States had given $2 per year to the work or a total of $1,250,000. It was found in a recent survey made of North America that 400,000 crippled children were to be found.

In his talk, Mr. Jones told of the hospitals built by the Shriners, mentioning the one erected at Dallas by the Hella temple. He also told of the work at Houston where 4,000 Shriners are maintaining a free clinic in connection with one of the largest hospitals, besides paying its assessment for the great cause.

"The Shriners have taken up the work of caring for the crippled children, and they intend to construct plenty of hospitals and carry on the work thoroughly," he said.

The resolution failed.

A resolution deeply regretting the absence of George Holmgreen of San Antonio, who was kept from attending the conference because of illness was unanimously adopted.

Other resolutions adopted by the Rotarians was one commending the service and work rendered by the Boy Scouts of Wichita Falls and their leader, Frank B. Creighton; and the other, thanking the Rotary club of Wichita Falls, the city officials and the entire citizenship for the entertainment, programs and the success of the conference.

"BLUNDERBUSTLE" COPIES RECEIVED HERE

First copies of "The Blunderbustle," anonymous April Fool publication of students at Texas university at Austin, have been received in Wichita Falls.

The edition this year is but a memory of the famous "Buss" of three years ago which libeled every professor and officer of the university and did not hesitate to drag his family into the mire. The kick of the original publication is gone, a distinctly legitimate aspect being its feature this year. Beyond a few humorous hits at campus fraternities it is harmless.

The "Blunderbuss" is awaited every yer at the university and by alumni with a great deal of interest.

THE WICHITA FALLS RECORD NEWS

Published daily at Wichita Falls, Texas for April 1st, 1924.

State of Texas.

County of Wichita, ss.

Before me, a notary public in and for the State and county aforesaid, personally appeared N. R. Buckley, who, having been duly sworn according to law, deposes and says that he is the business manager of the Wichita Falls Record News, and that the following is, to the best of his knowledge and belief, a true statement of the ownership, management, circulation, etc., of the aforesaid publication for the date shown in the above caption, required by the Act of August 24, 1912, embodied in section 443, Postal Laws and regulations, printed on the reverse of this form, to-wit:

1. That the names and addresses of the publisher, editor, managing editor, and business manager are:

Publisher, The Record News Company, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Editor, Burns Hegler, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Managing Editor, Herschel Hunt, Wichita Falls, Texas.

Business Manager, N. R. Buckley, Wichita Falls, Texas.

2. That the owners are: N. R. Buckley, Wichita Falls, Texas; Burns Hegler, Wichita Falls, Texas.

3. That the known bondholders, mortgagees, and other security holders owning or holding 1 per cent or more of total amount of bonds, mortgages, or other securities are: Mergenthaler Linotype Co., Brooklyn, New York; Ludlow Typograph Co., Chicago, Ill.; Newspaper Publishing Co., Waco, Texas.

4. That the two paragraphs next above, giving the names of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company, but also, in cases where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given; also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiant's full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that any other person, association, or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than as so stated by him.

5. That the average number of copies of this publication sold or distributed, through the mails or otherwise, to paid subscribers during the six months preceding the date shown above is
