Davis Awaits Verdict

HOUSTON (AP)--Fort Worth millionaire Cullen Davis, who about 13 months ago waited in the West Texas city of Amarillo for a jury's verdict on a capital murder, waited once again today for 12 persons to decide his fate in a murder conspiracy trial.

Davis, 45, was acquitted in December 1977 of the slaying of his 12-year-old stepdaughter.

Today he sat in a crowded courtroom, this time in Houston, to await a verdict from seven men and five women who have listened to 11 weeks of testimony and final arguments.

Helicpters Collide

OPA-LOCKA, Fla. (AP)-Two helicopters collided over a busy suburban Miami airport today, strewing the field with bodies and debris, officials said. Police said at least four people were killed and there were no known survivors.

"There's all dead people out there," said a dispatcher for Randle-Eastern ambulance. "They're lying on the field like rag dolls."

Personal Income Up

WASHINGTON (AP)-Americans' personal income and the output of factories increased sharply in December as the U.S. economy ended 1978 on a strong ncte, the government said today.

The average American increased his or her income from wages, dividends or government payments by 1.1 percent last month, the third strong increase in a row.

That means the public will have more money to spend at the start of the year, possibly contributing to continued business and job expansion.

Quake Shakes Iran

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)-At least 129 persons were reported killed by an earthquake in southeast Iran as the rest of the country celebrated the departure of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Strong Actions To Conserve Energy Asked Of Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)-Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger told Congress today that a strong nationwide effort to conserve energy is needed to offset loss of oil exports from Iran.

He told the Senate Energy Committee that more stringent actions - including, as a last resort, gasoline rationing - may be needed if this voluntary effort does not work and if Iranian production is not restored soon.

Schlesinger said he has sent letters to state, county and local officials urging them to immediately embark on tough conservation programs as a result of the Iranian situation. Similar appeals have gone out to business leaders.

A Schlesinger aide, Jim Bishop, said that some 1,500 such letters were being mailed.

Schlesinger said the steps that can be taken include tougher enforcement of the national 55 mile-per-hour speed limit, lowering thermostats in buildings, encouraging car-pooling and, in the case of businesses, switching from oil to coal or natural gas wherever feasible.

Schlesinger said Iranian unrest has resulted in total reduction of some 5.5 million barrels of oil a day on the international oil market.

The effect of the Iranian cut-off to the United States is roughly 500,000 barrels a day, but Schlesinger said increased production by Saudi Arabia and other exporting nations is helping to offset this loss.

The main effect this is having on U.S. supplies is to reduce reserves. "We can live with drawdowns," the energy secretary said. "The situation is serious, it is not yet critical. We are not in any immediate difficulty."

However, he said that if Iranian production is not restored by the summer, the constant drain on reserves will make it difficult to build supplies again to take care of next winter's heating season.

Schlesinger said the voluntary measures he recommended can save 600,000 barrels a day, and "that would reduce the need for any other action on our part."

Under questioning by Energy Committee Chairman Henry M. Jackson, Schlesinger said mandatory steps the administration is ready to take if necessary include allocating oil supplies to areas that need it the most and diverting supplies from the nation's strategic oil reserves.

Indictments In Slaying Allege Capital Murder

Capital murder indictments were returned yesterday afternoon against Larry Bryant Williams, 20, and David Dell Rivera, 18, in the shooting death of Juan Garcia during a holdup at Gibson's Discount Center last Friday.

Williams, the man who allegedly fired the shot that killed the 28-year-old store manager, was indicted on a capital murder-murder charge.

Rivera, who, the indictment claims, is also known as Dale Rocha Rivera; was named in a capital murder-aggravated robbery indictment. He is the one investigators say demanded money from one of the store's cashiers.

In addition to the capital murder-murder indictment, Williams was also indicted on a burglary charge. Investigators said they found several knives in his possession following his Saturday morning arrest, and it is those knives, the burglary indictment claims, that were taken during a Jan. 7 break-in at Key Brother's Implement Co.

Four other indictments were also returned by the special session of the grand jury.

Two dealt with the Jan. 3 break-in of Eddie's Pharmacy. Named in those burglary indictments were Larry Dan Beard and Clay Max Bishop.

Howard Dean Smith Jr. was named in an indictment charging him with burglary of a vehicle. He is alleged to have burglarized a car on Jan. 14 that was owned by Edward Carl Phillips Jr.

A theft indictment was returned against Johnny J. Mata, 26. He is alleged to have stolen by fraudulent check a pair of guns from TG&Y on Dec. 20. The check, the indictment shows, was drawn for $433.

Serving on the grand jury were Mrs. Marshall Wilson, Mrs. H.F. Clark, Emily Collins, B.J. Bartels, Columbus Crayton, J. N. Eicke, N. Y. Benitez, Weldon Key, Louise Thompson, and Don Gray.

Fisher Jury Is Presented Dixon Case

The case of William Clarence Dixon, the driver of an oil truck that collided with a McCaulley school bus in which five children were killed, was presented this morning to a Fisher County grand jury.

The collision occurred Dec. 8 at the intersection of Highway 180 and Farm to Market Road 611, approximately 11 miles west of Roby. Four children were killed instantly. A fifth died about 2½ weeks later from injuries received in the crash.

The McCaulley bus was en route to Hermleigh and was carrying the boys and girls basketball teams to a tournament there.

Dixon's case was presented to the grand jury at 9 a.m. today, and one Fisher County Courthouse official indicated that it would probably be this afternoon before returns were issued.

The SDN Column

Can it be that the more mankind develops technologically and scientifically the more he is at the mercy of the elements?

The recent ice storm has brought on complaints and protests of interrupted services in numbers never before encountered. Dallas has had more than its share, although most places where the ice did damage and interrupted routines were included.

At one time, it was estimated that as many as 75,000 homes in and around Big D were without electric power. The power company put all of its available people to work and brought in extra crews from as far away as Oklahoma to help restore service. Still, some people over there didn't have any electricity for nearly two weeks. These were the ones who yelped the loudest, of course, and most people could sympathize with them.

The situation sent some of the news media people to their files and they came up with some interesting history. It seems that Dallas had a worse ice storm in 1949, but there were fewer complaints. Some Dallas residents went three weeks without electricity as a result of the 1949 storm. But the people did not face all of the inconveniences that plauged their counterparts this time. You see, very few dwellings in Dallas had central heating in 1949. Now, most of them do, which means that their heating systems were out of order when the electric power became unavailable.

Also, despite the fact that travel was hazardous, there were no freeway bridges to ice over in 1949.

And, otherwise, there were not as many buttons to push in 1949. People today seem to have become accustomed to instant solutions to many of their problems and they are not willing to settle for less, no matter what caused the problem or what it takes to hurdle it. But every so often the elements remind us that there are a few things that can't be solved in Washington, Austin, or even by pushing a button.

78 Vote Absentee On Consolidation

Seventy-eight absentee votes have been cast in the proposed consolidation of the Hermleigh and Snyder school districts, but it will not be known until Saturday night how the issue will be settled.

At stake is the proposed merger of the Hermleigh school district with the Snyder school district, an issue that was raised in Hermleigh last August.

For the measure to pass, it must pass in both school districts. If it fails in either, the issue is defeated.

The absentee voting period for the Saturday election ended yesterday. The election involves residents of Snyder, Hermleigh, and those people living in the Hermleigh school district but inside Fisher County.

The heaviest absentee voting was in Hermleigh where 50 votes were cast. Twenty-two absentee votes were cast in Snyder, and six were cast at the Fisher County Courthouse in Roby.

For the Saturday election, voting in Snyder will be held at the school administration building on 37th St. In Hermleigh, voters should go to the community center, and in Fisher County, the voting will be held in the coffee room of the courthouse.

Iran Soldiers Clash With Demonstrators

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—Troops clashed with thousands of anti-shah demonstrators in Ahwaz in the heart of Iran's southern oilfields today and heavy casualties were reported on the day following the monarch's departure from the strife-torn country.

The Tehran newspaper Ettelaat said the army opened fire after tens of thousands of demonstrators had gathered in front of a mosque in Ahwax. The newspaper's initial information was that there were hundreds of casualties, but there was no independent confirmation of the toll.

An official at an Ahwaz hospital said by early afternoon 25 casualties had been brought in and some of them were dead on arrival.

Prime Minister Shahpour Bakhtiar, head of a shah-appointed civilian government, called an emergency national security meeting to discuss the clash. Gen. Abbass Gharabaghi, chief of staff of Iran's 430,000-man armed forces, was among those attending.

The blowup confronted the Bakhtiar government with its first serious test of its ability to maintain law and order in the absence of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

Carter Urges Tax Credit To Help Workers

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Carter administration today urged Congress to give quick consideration to a special tax credit aimed at protecting workers who fight inflation by holding down their wage demands.

In effect, the government would make up the difference if an employee group's average pay raise of 7 percent or less is exceeded by inflation.

Budget Tabled By C-C Board

Directors of the Snyder chamber of commerce Tuesday night tabled action on a proposed $64,723 budget for 1979.

The board, meeting in regular session discussed at length the proposed budget and methods of financing the increased costs of chamber operations.

It was pointed out that income had remained stable for the past several years, but that inflation had caused normal expenses to increase drastically.

The board asked for a revision of the budget and then discussed ways to insure sufficient revenue to prevent a deficit budget. Chamber Manager Bill Warner presented the board with a list of delinquent members and also with a long list of members who pay below minimum dues.

Presently, individual membership dues are $36, and $72 for businesses. The board authorized the chamber to begin billing all below-minimum members at the minimum rate at renewal date.

The budget is expected to be officially adopted at the February meeting of the board. The $64,723 proposed budget had anticipated revenues of $44,707 from membership dues, $14,016 from the Board of City Development and $6,000 from city services.

In other business, President Dalton Walton announced committee appointments for the coming year. They are Ralph Miller, AJRA Rodeo; Ernest Sears, agri-business; Donna Holt, arts and humanitities; Milton Ham, athletics; Ed Mlcak, legislative; Bill Dryden, retail; Art Feinsod, tourist and convention.

Walton also reported that Truett Bryan, annual banquet chairman, is working to secure a speaker and that the date of the banquet depends on the speaker's availability.

A nominating committee headed by Roy McQueen was named to suggest a board member to fill the unexpired term of Darwin Melton who resigned.

The board set the third Tuesday of each month as the regular meeting date. Board members attending were Walton, Roy Kidd, Joe Flack, Milton Stephens, Tommy Lay, Howard Limmer, Jim Tulley, C.A. McCown and McQueen.

WTC To Expand Adult Vocational Offerings

Plans for vast expansion of continuing education offerings at Western Texas College were discussed Tuesday night at a meeting of the board of trustees.

Dr. Robert L. Clinton, WTC president, said that the trend in community colleges now is more emphasis on non-credit courses designed to fulfill the needs of adults in various vocations and professions. Many of these likely will be courses aimed at developing and polishing skills in specific areas which would require relatively few class meetings.

Dr. Clinton said that some colleges who have attracted great numbers of adults to their programs have found that short courses, or workshop-type sessions, have met many needs and attracted many students. This type of education is one of the prime objectives of the community college, Dr. Clinton said.

At the same time, the college will continue to maintain a quality program for college credit in both the academic and the vocational-technical areas.

Western Texas College basically serves a 12-county area. Dr. Gene McClurg, dean of occupational education and technology; Rex Hopkins, director of continuing education, and Jerry Barid, guidance-counseling director, said they already had encountered considerable interest in additional adult vocational education programs in the continuing education division.

Hopkins said that WTC already has been certified to offer courses required by new regulations governing nursing home personnel in Texas.

The board formally approved the appointment of Bill Hale as full-time instructor-supervisor for the WTC residential construction program.

Also on the agenda was consideration of the annual audit report but it was not completed in time for presentation at the Tuesday meeting. The board will hold a special session at 7 a.m. next studying the heart

Let's say two people have heart attacks. One recovers and goes on to live another quarter century. It happens frequently. The other dies in a matter of minutes or hours.

An examination of their hearts shows the damage is identical and quite small. Why are the results so different?

RESEARCH TEAMS throughout the world are trying to determine that difference.

A noted medical man, asked to comment about the problem recently, remarked:

"What we are interested in is trying to find out what determines the difference in survival. We know that the event which leads to the sudden death of the one victim is an abnormal heart rhythm, called ventricular fibrillation."

Experiments on baboons carried out by Professor Lionel Opie and others in Africa a few years ago provided an important clue.

"If you create a heart attack in an experimental animal like the dog by tying off the coronary artery," Professor Opie said, "They seldom die. Only about one in ten will die rapidly from ventricular fibrillation. The other nine will survive.

"If you create the same size of heart attack in baboons, on the other hand, about six or seven out of ten will die within an hour. They tend to behave like the human being in that respect.

"This, of course, has been a matter of great interest to us, and we have done a lot of studies to find out why, and in what way, the baboon's heart muscle differs from that of a dog in its response to the rapid reproduction of blood supply that occurs in a heart attack. We believe that the difference in behavior between baboons and dogs may contain an important clue in finding out why some people who suffer a heart attack die rapidly and others survive."

"That was when we stumbled across the role of the substance called cyclic AMP. This occurs in every cell. Just about every cell will respond, or has the capacity to respond, to stimulation of the sympathetic system, and one way the 'stress' hormones, adrenalin and noradrenaline, work at cell level is to cause an increase in the formation of cyclic AMP. What we found was that baboons have a much higher concentration of this cyclic AMP in their cells - notably in the heart and particularly in the area involved in a heart attack.

"We have shown experimentally that when the substance accumulates inside heart cells it renders the heart much more liable to develop a rapid unco-ordinated action, or fibrillation, which results in a dramatic drop in blood pressure and sudden death.

"It looks to us, therefore, that stress can tie in - not only with the occurrence of heart attacks - but also with what happens to the person suffering the heart attack."

ANIMAL EXPERIMENTS have shown clearly that stress can lead to rapid development of high blood pressure in a species in which there was a tendency to develop high blood pressure.

The experiments will continue and grow in scope because scientists think they are close to a breakthrough in efforts to reduce the incidence of heart attacks in human beings. And heart failure, as everyone knows, remains one of the leading killers of mankind.

crisis in flags

The State Department, according to Washington reports, had to move swiftly to avoid a diplomatic embarrassment on the occasion of the U.S. visit of Chinese Deputy Premier Teng Hsio-peng.

At almost the last minute it was discovered that there were no flags of the People's Republic available. A rush order (understood not from Taiwan) for 150 banners headed off the protocol crisis.

And if the Red flags hadn't come through there was always another possibility - lining the capital's streets with red official faces.

"I've been thinking — since everybody else has one, maybe we need a lobby in Washington to protect our interests."

at wits end

by erma bombeck

With so many women juggling a home and a career these days, my attention was drawn to a book by Shirley Conran called "Superwoman" in which she advised women on how to avoid housework.

Her ideas made a lot of sense, like: Don't keep pets. Don't polish floors. Use quilts or sleeping bags instead of making beds. Don't buy anything that needs ironing.

Don't dry dishes. Roast in foil. Line shelves with self-adhesive paper and pour a capful of liquid detergent in your bathtub before turning on the water so you don't have to scour it.

It's only when she suggested, "Squash toilet rolls so that the center becomes oval. That way the paper doesn't roll off so fast," that she lost me.

WHAT KIND OF ANIMAL DO YOU THINK I AM, SHIRLEY?

Oh, I've done a lot of cutting corners in my time. I was the first woman in my block to have black towels, the first to save on my food bills by taking the light out of the refrigerator and I hold the record for sending the same zucchini cookies in a school lunch for a year and a half, but squashing toilet tissue rolls is going too far!

You're talking to a woman who experiences absolute rage everytime she goes into a public restroom and has to do battle with the towel machine. You know what I'm talking about.

There's the "Little Teaser" model...the machine where you punch a button and crank it on the side and about two inches of paper comes out before it locks and you have to repeat the entire process. By the time you get enough paper out to dry off, the water has dripped down your elbow and onto your clothes.

There's the "Firmly Packed" model, where the machine is NEVER without paper. All you have to do is wedge your finger inside, get a piece of it caught on your fingernail and pull it out...a piece at a time.

And let us not forget the "Hanging Salute to Germ Tapestry." This is the linen towel that pulls from a machine. In three years of using the public facilities, I have yet to see a new one. I believe they come out of the package and get put into the machine with only four inches of clean towel left -- all of it next to the machine's end. The rest looks like it spend the night on the floor of the Rams' locker room.

I implore you, Shirley, to reexamine your priorities. We could cut somewhere else. Make leftovers ahead! Rent children! Move a lot! But when you tamper with functional needs....you're asking for war.

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA)— Much of the criticism of federal antipoverty programs traditionally has come from conservative Republicans who pose as staunch protectors and defenders of middle-income families.

Too much of the government's manpower and money, argue those GOP politicians, is devoted to aiding the poor while Washington officials invariably ignore the needs of the country's hard-working middle-class citizens.

But this city now is being treated to the bizarre spectacle of the second-ranking Republican leader in the House of Representatives complaining about federal resources being expended to assist residents of middle-income communities.

The highly unlikely source of that criticism is Rep. Robert H. Michel, R-Ill., who has devoted an inordinate amount of time and energy during the past year to a petty campaign to undermine ACTION, the federal volunteer agency.

Allied with him in that effort are three other conservative Republicans - Reps. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, Philip M. Crane of Illinois and William F. Goodling of Pennsylvania.

Michel, the House Republican Whip and the senior GOP member of the House Appropriations Committee, last year convinced the committee's Democratic leaders to conduct a full-scale staff investigation of ACTION's operations.

When the report of that probe was recently completed, Michel ignored committee procedures and publicly released it, accompanied by a virulent personal statement accusing ACTION of "blatant disregard for the agency's mission...to assist those stricken by poverty."

He was referring to the most frequently cited theme in the investigators' lengthy but unconvincing report on alleged ACTION improprieties: Those recruited under the agency's domestic volunteer programs, VISTA, often work with individuals and families who are not technically poverty-stricken.

A typical case involves VISTA volunteers "not reaching poor people" after being assigned to work with a community organizing group called ACORN in Arkansas, Texas, Missouri, Tennessee, Louisiana, Florida and South Dakota.

The report blames the situation on "ACORN's own philosophy of building a 'majority constituency' made up of all people shut out of power or, more specifically, 'low-to moderate-income' families."

The investigators complain that in Little Rock, Ark., and Sioux Falls, S.D., they found VISTA volunteers working in neighborhoods that "ranged in appearance from low- to middle-income."

Similar criticism is levelled at the assignment of VISTA volunteers to self-help organizations devoted to improving conditions for working women in Cleveland; Worcester, Mass.; Providence, R.I.; Concord, N.H.; Amherst, Mass.; and other cities.

Again, the report complains that federal officials failed to establish "that the working women were poor."

Other examples involve volunteers "trying to get a soccer field for the Polish-speaking residents" in one neighborhood and assisting people in becoming familiar with small claims court procedures in another community.

The report says the practice of assigning volunteers to work in "lower middle-income neighborhoods" is "contrary to the intent of the Domestic Volunteer Service Act."

In fact, that federal law specifically authorizes ACTION to finance "poverty-related" projects, and the agency's regulations allow support of disparate programs as long as their benefits will accrue principally to the poor.

But the Michel-inspired report suggests that the congressman has abandoned the interests of his middle-income constituents in his mid-Illinois congressional district whose largest city, Peoria, has long been a symbol of "Middle America."

The median family income in that district, according to the 1970 census, is a typically modest $10,100. But Michel apparently wants ACTION assistance provided only to families earning about half that amount - thus technically living in true poverty.

letter to editor

To The Daily News:

In response to the letter from Mr. Carl Williams:

As I understand the term "adjective", it is a word used to describe a noun. The "awful", and I quote, people who signed the consolidation petitions could best be described by the use of nouns not adjectives. As to whether the nouns fit, well, if the shoe fits...

No quarrel with Hermleigh School? No loyalty, perhaps.

Whether Snyder could or couldn't beat Hermleigh in football 30 years ago, or last year, or ever is academic. The question has no answer and even less importance. Apparently the University Interscholastic League does not think so either since they have never matched them in organized athletic competition. I do remember some controlled scrimmages with Hermleigh varsity against Snyder junior varsity. If memory serves, these were about even. So much for this little trip down memory lane.

Snyder has probably made as much progress in their educational system as they have in their athletic teams. No argument here. Could anyone be so naive as to think that education at Hermleigh or anywhere else is the same as it was 30 years ago, or 20 years ago, or five years ago, or last year? Every school has had change, and progress. The Texas Education Agency ensures this fact for all schools large, intermediate, and, yes, even small.

Successful Hermleigh graduates--How does one measure success? Here's how I measure success: I have a beautiful wife and two beautiful children. I am a Hermleigh High School graduate and a graduate of Texas Tech University. I live east of Hermleigh in a house my grandfather built with his own hands. I work for an oil company and farm a few acres that have been in our family for almost a hundred years. I owe notes at the bank. Successful? Yes, I am very successful because I am living the life I chose. We have our health, our friends, neighbors, and each other. Yes, we chose this life and we love it. I assure you, we had other options. We chose this way of life in which to rear our children. Many have more money, none are richer!

Each parent should do what he thinks best for his children, their welfare, and their education. Snyder has an excellent school system, and I do not fault anyone for choosing to send his children to Snyder. We at Hermleigh also have an excellent system, just smaller. We in Scurry County now have an option--large school or small school, which-ever we as parents think suits our children better. Hermleigh has students who live in Snyder and prefer to go to school in Hermleigh. Conversly, some students living in Hermleigh prefer to attend school in Snyder. This is fine, there is an option. However, if Hermleigh consolidates with Snyder, the option is gone.

A community church does not lean on a school to exist. Communities, schools, and churches complement one another, each is necessary for the survival of the other two. Remove one and the others decline and die. Examples are Camp Springs, Pyron, and more recently, Fluvanna.

There are no good reasons for denying school children the best possible education at any price! That "best possible education" being determined by the student and his parents. As to cost, read the Snyder Daily News front page stories on taxes and wait until next year.

Finally, after many points of disagreement with Mr. Williams, we find a point of agreement. No, Hermleigh residents do not think anything bad or wrong about Mrs. Roxie Soules. We love and respect her very much.

To The Daily News:

I would like to answer Mr. Michael M. Brown's and Mr. Burton Sandefur's letters, published in the Snyder Daily News.

First, Mr. Brown's point that "small schools are inferior, then..persons educated in them will also be inferior" is not relevant to the issue. No one has claimed inferior education in the Hermleigh school! However, during the past 200 years, there were no large schools then, like they are today. Also, their society was not computerized, nor as complex as today's. So the day of the two or three room classroom is gone. To compete for jobs, higher learning opportunities, and ascension in the social climate, narrow and limited education will not suffice in preparing students for the outside world. Pupils on ego trips, especially in the smaller schools, will not, on graduation, put food on their plates!

Mr. Brown has omitted the fact that today's parents either can no longer afford the college costs, or their children have already taken advantage of the vocational training afforded them in high school. These job training opportunities are not provided for in the small schools. One must conclude, therefore, that these types of learning advantages are "not possible" anywhere except in the "larger schools."

Mr. Brown has also omitted that the Snyder School System has had still is in

Most of us consider ourselves thrifty. Evidence is obvious lately in the people-crowded business bearing "sale" signs. Many (men, women and teens) sew to economize and have more clothes along with many other do-it-yourself projects.

Being the vain people that we are, spending on cosmetics is the one area we don't feel we can economize--but we can, according to Ms. Diane Taylor, writer for Farmer Stockman.

An inexpensive moisturizer requires only four simple ingredients. Mix one part of glycerin with two parts water, add one-half teaspoon honey and three of four drops of pure almond extract.

For those who need to wash their hair frenquently and need a mild shampoo, try shaving any white neutral soap, add one-half its volume of alcohol and set the mixture in a warm place until the soap is dissolved. When cool, it will resemble rock candy. Use along with rainwater for lustrous-looking hair.

An aid for a dandruff problem is to pour salt onto the scalp during the final sudsing and rub it in. Salt is an abrasive disinfectant that will clear up many skin problems.

A night cream that can compete with good quality cream on the market and easy to make is--fill a jar two-thirds full of fresh and odorless vegetable shortening. Add carbolated petroleum jelly the size of a pea (the preservative). Add a drop of good perfume and stir thoroughly.

Make two bottles of hand lotion for the price of one by pouring half a bottle of regular lotion into an empty bottle. To both bottles, add one-fourth part water. Shake vigorously. It will be richer in oil than regular hand lotion.

Herbs played an important part in early-day cosmetics. I'm sure this brings back some memories of grandmothers.

Herbs, either alone or combine with other herbs, are traditional ingredients. From a Family Circle magazine comes the idea that mint in the bath sooths the nerves, marjoram in the bath relieves fatigue, and rosemary in the bath stimulates love impulses.

An herbal bath of one tablespoon each of dried lavendar flowers, dried rosemary leaves, one dried mint and dried thyme, tied into a cheesecloth square and soaked 10 minutes in bath water before climbing in will sloothe frazzled nerves at the end of the day.

Rosemary, savory, sage and mint were included in lists of love portions in the old days.

Basil was used as a headache remedy, a fly repellent and a symbol of fidelity. A hair rinse of one-half ounce sage mixed with one pint of boiling water (let stand 30 minutes) can be used after shampooing to darken hair.

Making one's own cosmetics sounds fascinating as well as economical. The challenge of making something you need and use is almost impossible to resist.

Usually guacomole has to be made at the last minute to guard against the avocado darkening. our guacamole is a "make-ahead." Prepared in the morning, it still has its pretty color in the evening.

MAKE-HEAD GUACAMOLE

1 envelope unflavored gelatin
1/4 cup cold water
1/2 cup boiling water
1 tablespoon lemon juice.
1/2 cups finely mashed avocado
1-3 cup mayonnaise
3/4 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons finely diced mild sweet onion
1 small ripe tomato, seeded and finely diced (third cup)
Tortilla or corn chips

In a medium mixing bowl sprinkle the gelatin over the cold water and let stand about 5 minutes to soften. Add the boiling water and stir until dissolved. Whisk in the lemon juice, avocado, mayonnaise and salt to blend; stir in the onion and tomato. Turn into a 3-cup mold or bowl. Cover tightly with saran. Chill to set. Unmold or leave in bowl and serve with tortilla chips. The Guacamole will be soft enough to use as a dip; it may be made in the morning and served in the afternoon or evening without its darkening.

AVOCADOS-The above varieties, grown at the turn of the century, were called Alligator Pears. Print from the culinary picture collection of Associated Press Food Editor Cecily Brownstone.

When North followed his two-diamond response with a raise to three spades he hoped South would be able to make some slam try. Had South just continued to four spades, North would have passed. But South had enough extra to cue bid the ace of hearts. After all, a cue bid below game does not get you past game.

It did get North past game and six spades became the final contract. The slam would be a cinch if the diamond finesse were to work, but as you can see that finesse was doomed to failure.

South took his ace of hearts, ruffed a heart, drew trumps and lost the diamond finesse.

East returned the deuce of clubs. The ordinary South would probably have played low on the theory that if East held either the queen or 10 of clubs everything would be perfect. But this wasn't either an ordinary South or ordinary East.

Both were top experts and South wondered why East was playing clubs for him. South finally worked out why. East did not hold either the queen or 10.

South needed to keep that ace of clubs in dummy as an entry for diamonds. Then, if diamonds broke 3-3 there would be two good diamonds for club discards. So South rose with the king of clubs, attacked diamonds, got the break and made his slam.

Jimmy Dean Has It Made...

Singing Sausage-Maker Prospering

By TOM DeCOLA
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP)-The Head Sausage Peddler just kept turning over rocks, and sure enough, he came up with a big ol' bait worm.

That's really the way Jimmy Dean talks, whether he's working as board chairman of Jimmy Dean Sausage, country entertainer, music producer or jacket maker.

Dean has parlayed his poor, small town Plainview, Texas background and soft drawl into millions. Some of the cash comes from entertaining and other ventures, but most of it comes from hogs.

The hogs are made into Jimmy Dean's Pure Pork Sausage, and their skins are turned into wearing apparel. The proceeds from these processes provided the sausage company around $40 million last year, and Dean expects to gross around $100 million this year.

The man who gave us "Big Bad John," a recording about the fictional hero of a mine disaster, presides over these enterprises from different locales. There's a condominum along Dallas' plush Turtle Creek Boulevard, a home in New Jersey, a 53-foot yacht that's home for a couple months a year, and land in Charlestown, S.C., where Dean vows he will build a home some day.

If Dean's folks manner and casual style of dress are part of the man, so is the elegance of the Dallas office, on the 11th floor of a high-rise north of downtown. The furnishings are tasteful, but there are some hints.

The walls in the corridor leading to the office of the Head Sausage Peddler his own term are decorated with grade-school sketches made for a class project at a school in Iowa, where Dean has a meat packing plant.

Beneath a chair in the office lay two golf balls, often used for impromptu putting matches where a dollar or two may change hands. The putting is done on the carpet, sometimes across a sculpted corporate symbol-two cowboy boots arranged to somehow make you know they stand for "JD." Visitors probably should not putt against the peddler-he knows the breaks in the carpet.

His smile is easy, his laugh spontaneous.

But there is still a slight bitterness, a bitterness once greatly magnified in a falling out with his younger brother Don, who was his partner in the sausage-making business.

Many brothers fight, but the Deans feud. Jimmy at one point obtained a temporary restraining order to keep Don away from the family home at Plainview after he said Don nearly ruined the business. Jimmy bought Don out, and Don, who lives in nearby Irving, has a pending slander suit against Jimmy.

"It was really for the best," Dean said in a rare somber moment during an interview. "I was bitter for a long, long time. I think now it's more pity."

He said the two were never close growing up, calling Don the "fairhaired one" while referring to himself as "the black sheep, the wanderer."

Nor did Don take part in Jimmy's rise in the entertainment ranks.

Is Don jealous of Jimmy's celebrity?

"You know...I really feel like that probably may be the thing," Jimmy Dean said. "There was a certain paranoia there."

Dean is anxious to reopen a pork plant in Plainview. He shut the plant down a year ago, claiming it was costing him $27,000 a week to keep it open. He feels that some in his hometown are bitter about the lost jobs, but he hopes to make amends.

The rebirth of the Plainview facility is a key to his money projections. He won't say what will be produced there, but it won't be sausage.

"It's a totally new thing," he said. "I'll tell you what. I'm not an evasive person, but I'm not at liberty to say. But we will use about 8,000 hogs a week there, possibly more." He points out that the plant will mean around 110 new jobs, with additional benefits to farmers in the area.

"This is not like it was when we built the plant originally," Dean said. "We built it and said I hope we can sell some sausage. Everything that we will produce there this time is already sold."

Dean takes his sausage seriously. He said he got into the business because he believed there was a market for a quality product...and because he's liked sausage ever since he was a kid.

There is no claim that Jimmy Dean's sausage is perfect.

"I don't say we don't make a mistake," he said "You'll find a bond chip. You get a guy working real close with a boning knife and it'll get in there."

Dean believes in telling it like it is, and said he runs his business the same way. "We're all partners, really," he said. "There's no boss. I don't want our people cuss-fighting when we can talk about any problem."

He likes doing his own ads, too. "It's not Myrtle Bluckumfutch talking about Myrtle Bluckumfutch's chicken and she don't own none of it. Hell, I go into the plants. I know what's going on."

Dean cackles when he tells about a new product problem. He wanted to change the flavor of the sausage to attract a new market segment. He wanted to call the new product Jimmy Dean's Southern Style Sausage.

The federal government told him that was a no-no, because it was made in Iowa. Dean bristled, and said he called a government official.

"I told him, you know I'm gonna put out southern style anyway. He told me, 'I tell you what I'm gonna do...I'm gonna fine you $10,000 and put you in jail for 10 years.' I said I'd like to reconsider."

The product is marketed as Jimmy Dean's Special Recipe. He said, it's accounted for a big rise in profits.

The climb from boyhood poverty started with music, and it still has a part in the sausage-maker's life. He said he'll make a new recording soon in Nashville and is working on putting together a unit to play some dates in Nevada.

The boyish-looking 50-year-old said he saved his money from the music and invested "a little here and a little there. If you ever saw my act, you'd know I had to diversify."

Dean dresses modishly, with fresh-styled hair, fancy jeans and a sport shirt. He wears a gold-and-diamond watch, bracelet and two rings. His glasses are tinted, but he comes off more of a country boy than a celebrity.

His comments are direct and open. A female employee in the room is told, "You got a thing thread on your butt, there." She laughs and removes the thread.

A lot of the musician is still alive. He can recall and recite lyrics without pausing.

Dean made his way through the music world with only one encounter with drugs. He said he was playing Las Vegas, two shows daily, seven days a week for four weeks. "I was tired," he said. "I called this doctor...and he sent over some pills. I can't remember what they were called, but they were tiny yellow ones. He said take one about a half hour before each show. I took one, and boing I could have hunted ducks with a rake."

He said he later noticed that he was sweating and his heart was pounding.

"I took what was left of them pills and put them in the commode...flushed 'em, man. The lids blew off of the city sewers."

Nor were all the performances successful. He once had a horse fall on him prior to a performance in the Astrodome in Houston.

"I noticed during the set, I could hear the blood squishing in my boot. They had to cut off the boot."

Dean clearly enjoys his life and probably has all the money he'll ever need.

Will he retire?

"No, 'cause I'd die. I saw 'em take my graddaddy off the farm and kinda put him out to pasture...and the old man just kinda withered up and died."

With an 11th-grade education he hesitates to say it, fearing that children will use him for an example. Dean has managed to claw his way to prosperity. Any secret?

"I've always tried to be aware of where I was dumb...and then endeavored to hire the smartest son-of-a-gun I could find."

Grain Crop Hits Record Despite Curbing Effort

By DON KENDALL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-Huge crops of corn and soybean pushed farmers' total crop production to a record level last year despite efforts of the Carter administration to curb grain production.

The 1978 corn harvest produced a record of 7.08 billion bushels, up 10 percent from 1977, the Agriculture Department said Tuesday.

It also was 191 million bushels more than the previous department forecast of 6.89 billion bushels last November when the harvest was still in progress.

Last year's was the fourth record corn crop in a row, followed by 6.43 billion bushels in 1977, 6.27 billion in 1976 and 5.83 billion in 1975.

The huge harvests mean there is more than enough grain to meet all domestic and export demands in the coming year by a large margin. Corn is the main livestock feed grain used to produce meat, poultry and milk for American consumers.

Soybean production, also important as a source of high-protein meal for feed and vegetable oil, was estimated at a record of 1.84 billion bushels, up 5 percent from the previous record of 1.76 billion bushels last year. The November forecast was about 1.81 billion bushels.

Food prices this year are expected to average 6 percent to 10 percent more than in 1978, when they gained 10 percent, according to department economists.

The report did not include new estimates for 1978 production of wheat, cotton and rice, which were issued earlier.

Wheat production last year, reduced by farmers planting fewer acres, was about 1.8 billion bushels, down 12 percent from 2.04 billion in 1977, the department said previously.

Cotton output, reduced by poor yields and fewer acres, dropped 25 percent to 10.8 million bales from 14.4 million in 1977.

Rice production, however, soared 39 percent to a record of 137.8 million hundredweight from 99.2 million in 1977.

The department's "all crops" production index for total output last year was a record 131 percent of a 1967 base used as a standard, compared to the previous high of 130 percent in 1977. Last November the 1978 index was forecast at 128 percent.

Corn inventories, already at a six-year high when the new marketing year began Oct. 1, are expected to swell further because of the huge new harvest last fall. By next Oct. 1, the corn carryover could be at a 15-year high of around 1.5 billion bushels or more.

Despite the big supply of corn and other grain, prices at the farm have risen the last year, partly because of heavy exports to other countries.

Also, farmers have stored about 1.3 billion bushels of grain - mostly wheat and corn - under a government program to keep it off the market for up to three years to help boost prices.

In December for example, corn at the farm nationally averaged $2.07 a bushel against $1.96 a year earlier, and wheat was $2.99 a bushel, compared to $2.47 a year earlier.

Last year's record crop was due to generally good weather in the main corn areas, which helped send average yields to a record of 101.2 bushels an acre, compared to 90.7 in 1977 and the previous high of 97 bushel an acre in 1972.

Also, the administration's acreage set-aside program, while helping cut the 1978 corn acreage about 5 percent, was ignored by many corn producers when they planted their fields last spring. Wheat farmers, on the other hand, participated heavily in the 1978 acreage set-aside program.

Similar set-aside programs for wheat and corn have been announced for the 1979 harvests.

Production estimates for other 1978 crops, compared to 1977 harvests, included:

-Sorghum grain, 748,410,000 bushels in 1978 and 792,983,000 bushels in 1977.

-Potatoes, 360,467,000 hundredweight and 354,576,000.

-Peanuts, 3,977,465,000 pounds and 3,726,015,000.

-Tobacco, 2,015,695,000 pounds and 1,912,114,000.

-Sugarbeets, 25,868,000 tons and 25,007,000.

-Sugarcane, 27,022,000 tons and 26,830,000.

DISCO DANCING-Debbie Burney (right) leads Karen and Dub Buchanan through a step in one of the lastest dances at her studio on 37th Street. Ms. Burney will be starting new classes Thursday and again Tuesday, Jan. 23.

DiscoDanceClassesToBegin

Couples are dancing close again with the latest in dance, The Disco, says Debbie Burney, director of the West Texas Theatric Arts Centre.

"Disco dancing is for everyone and has been sweeping the nation for the last year. The dance itself," she says, "consists of beginners to advanced steps and is acceptable for all age groups."

Ms. Burney has been teaching Disco in the Snyder area since September and has offered high school and adult classes in the Latin Hustle and the New York Hustle. The course is outlined for non-dancers and dancers alike.

Ms. Burney recently returned from Dallas where she attended a disco dance convention under the direction of Linda Bove.

"Mrs. Bove has appeared on national television and entertained with 'One Plus One' in Madison Square Gardens," says Ms. Burney. "She has appeared on stage with, "the Tramps and the famed Mitzi Gainer. Because of her success with the disco in her own studio in New York, Mrs. Bove was asked to tour nationwide with Dance Caravan to share the latest in Disco, including the Spanish Hustle, The Three Step Hustle, and Charlies Line Dance," she said.

Spanish Hustle classes will begin at Ms. Burney's studio in Snyder Thursday and also Tuesday Jan. 23 at the West Texas Theatric Arts Center, 1910 37th St. Classes will meet one hour a week for five weeks at $25 per couple or $12.50 for singles.

Interested persons may contact Ms. Burney at 573-6269 or 863-2357 or 863-2289. Classes are limited.

Bishops Plan Meet In Mexico

PUEBLA, Mexico (AP)- Roman Catholic bishops meet here next week in what is already being talked about as a crucial gathering that will chart the course of the Roman Catholic Church in Latin America.

The meeting could set the church on a collision course with repressive South American governments or anger those pushing for change in an area where two-thirds of the people live in poverty.

At the least, the conference will provide some fireworks between liberal and conservative elements in the church. Its importance is underlined by the presence of Pope John Paul II, who will open the meeting on his first trip abroad since becoming pope.

The Jan. 27-Feb. 12 Third General Conference of the Latin American Episcopate - popularly called Celam III - will gather 350 Latin American bishops who have prepared for the meeting for over two years.

The theme is "Evangelization in the Present and Future of Latin America" and lines are already drawn between those who want the church to take a stronger, more involved role in helping the poor and those who feel the church can best help through traditional methods.

"Celam III, the third meeting of the bishops of Latin America must make decisions that will have crucial, transcendental importance for the church in Latin America and beyond."

Foreign Land Investors Spark Concern In Texas

WASHINGTON (AP)- Although foreign investors bought 93,000 acres of Texas farm land last year--including "some of the best soil in the state"--a Department of Agriculture report concludes that the purchases were "insignificant."

But a congressman in whose Northeast Texas district most of the land acquisitions occurred said Tuesday the foreign buyers have sparked "quite a bit of discussion among our farmers and ranchers.

"They are quite concerned over the increased land prices," continued Rep. Sam Hall, D-Texas. "They are in a state of apprehension because most of the property is being sold to foreigners."

The Texas Agriculture Extension Service, compiled the state figures included in a nation-wide report requested by Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Georgia, chairman of the Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry Committee.

The extension service noted that the "concentrated" purchases of cropland in Texas included "some of the best soil in the state." But the report also noted that the purchases represent "an insignificant portion of total agricultural acreage in the state."

If foreign purchasers continued buying land at last year's rate, it would take 25 years before one percent of Texas' 157.9 million farm, ranch and forest acres would be under foreign control.

The Prince of Liechtenstein was identified by the extension service report as the largest single foreign buyer last year, purchasing more than 40,000 acres.

By comparison, Prince Joseph II's country covers only 39,400 acres.

The prince's purchases last year included 17,000 acres in Hopkins County, 2,000 acres in Lamar County and a contract to buy 1,400 acres in Denton County.

Prior to the survey period, Joseph had bought 20,000 acres in Red River County.

Other significant foreign buys included:

--West German investor Adolph Scherer, 8,884 acres in Red River, Delta and Lamar counties plus a "reported" interest in 2,500 acres in Bowie County;

--Scandinavian investor Ulrike Schwerdtferger, 5,120 acres in Presidio County;

--and a group of Mennonites from Mexico, 6,400 acres in Gaines County.

The Extension Service said that foreigners were involved in 42 transactions in 26 Texas counties from Jan. 1, 1977 through June 30, 1978. The average purchase involved 2,219 acres.

The largest single group of foreign investors "would appear to be the West Germans," said the report that added "there is little or no indication that petrodollars are the source of the current purchases."

The largest concentration of foreign buying centered from "Dallas, northeast to the Red River."

Other conclusions reported by the Extension Service were:

--no indication that foreign buying accelerated during the survey period;

--most purchases involved financing by U.S. institutions;

--more rumors of foreign activity were identified than were actually verified;

--and 59 transactions were identified during the survey involving 48,799 acres being sold to 18 U.S. corporations.

Inauguration Has National Attention

BILL AND RITA CLEMENTS
...Tuesday was their big day

By JACK KEEVER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The inauguration of Dallas oil millionaire Bill Clements as Texas' first Republican governor in 105 years had overtones of national importance.

Two probable GOP presidential candidates - John Connally and George Bush - sat behind the inaugural platform Tuesday, and Clements himself has been mentioned as a possible contender.

Such a suggestion might seem premature as Clements, 61, has never before held elective public office, but his defeat of former Democratic Attorney General John Hill was a major upset.

Clements also gained national political experience as Richard Nixon's Texas campaign manager in 1972. He served as deputy secretary of defense in 1973-77 as Nixon's appointee.

Regardless of his political future, Clements has pledged to "do everything I can" to prevent President Jimmy Carter from capturing Texas' 26 electoral votes in 1980.

Hill, who spent inaugural day fishing off Nassau, plans to campaign for Carter.

Outgoing Gov. Dolph Briscoe also was absent as Republicans whooped and hollered through the 35-minute inaugural ceremony that included the swearing-in of Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby to his third term.

Hill defeated Briscoe in the Democratic primary, and Briscoe insists he could have beaten Clements. Briscoe maintains that the Democratic Party shifted too far to the left in accepting Hill as its nominee.

The Clements-Hobby inaugural was the first time in Texas history that a governor and lieutenant governor from different parties have assumed office together.

Clements obviously enjoyed himself as possibly the largest inaugural crowd in recent years gathered on the South lawn of the Capitol grounds.

Numerous women, including Clements' wife, Rita, 47, wore fur coats in the 50-degree weather. The sun only occasionally peeped through the cloud cover, and Clements exclaimed as he ended his address, "and we have sun."

Clements also laughed loudly as he finished the oath of office by repeating after Chief Justice Joe Greenhill of the Texas Supreme Court - "so help me God."

His laughter delighted the crowd of several thousand, with a bejeweled gray-haired woman leading a group's cheers from steps near the platform.

The spectators interrupted Clements' 20-minute speech 24 times with applause.

Hobby, too, received applause when he stated a similar theme - "truly the best government governs least."

The greatest response from the crowd came when Clements asserted, "You will hear voices during my administration. Clements, facing a predominantly Democratic Legislature with Hobby in control of the Senate, said he would persist in returning $1 billion to taxpayers even though Hobby has expressed reservations about the proposal.

"I want to conduct government in a business-like manner, with elected officials and government leaders responsible to the taxpayers just as a board of directors and company officials are responsible to shareholders," said Clements.

With his election, Hobby has become the No. 1 Democratic spokesman in the Legislature and has been mentioned as a possible opponent for Clements in 1982.

While Clements celebrated with a $125-a-couple Monday night party at the Municipal Auditorium, Hobby sponsored a free buffet reception at a popular restaurant.

After the inaugural, spectators slowly moved five abreast through three doors into the west wing of the Capitol for a barbecue lunch. They dined on plastic plates, with hundreds sitting on the stairs and the floor with their backs to the wall.

In 1909, Canada and the United States signed the International Waterways Convention, which led to establishment of the International Joint Commission.

Crude Flow Nominations Are Reduced

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - The railroad commission reported Tuesday that February nominations for the purchase of Texas crude oil total 2,825,681 barrels a day, a decrease of 25,394 barrels daily from January.

The figures reflect a revised system of compiling monthly market demand data in which the commission is using only purchaser nominations covering wells and leases to which the buyer is "physically or contractually connected."

"Additional demand estimates have been dropped from monthly demand calculations," the commission said.

Chief Engineer Bob Harris said the revised system "should more truly indicate actual demand for Texas crude oil."

The commission will meet Thursday to set the statewide oil allowable for February. The January allowable is 100 percent.

Inaugural Celebrations...

It Was A Great Night For Parties And Jokes

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) - It was his night to party and Gov. Bill Clements clearly enjoyed mingling with the pre-dominantly Republican crowds at his five inaugural celebrations.

Before it was over, Clements even joked about inviting Pope John Paul II to Texas.

After all, a Pole was expected to be elected pope as much as some folks expected a Republican to take the governor's office in Texas, Clements said.

"It's been an absolutely marvelous day," the GOP governor told some 2,000 gathered at the All Texas Ball at Austin's Municipal Auditorium.

"I think it was a sign from above that when I was sworn in the sun broke through the sky."

Earlier in the day, Clements took office as Texas' first Republican governor in more than a century.

Also celebrating Tuesday night, but in a less buoyant mood was Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby. The Democrat also was sworn in noon ceremonies on the capitol steps.

"You know this was a tough year for us Democrats," Hobby told more than 1,000 gathered at the Driskill Hotel.

"We lost the governorship," he said to applause and cheers. "Yet we Italians also lost the pope."

Clements and his wife Rita followed Hobby before $50 a ticket crowd.

"I think I'll ask the pope to come to Texas," the new governor said. "Yeah, that's a good idea. Lt. Gov. Hobby has a good idea every once in a while."

Some 7,000 spectators turned out for the five celebrations honoring the bi-partisan team. But they also swarmed over two others in the official party.

Former Gov. John Connally and former UN Ambassador George Bush signed autographs all night and posed with well wishers. Both men are expected to announce possible presidential campaign plans later this year. Both received much verbal encouragement for a run at the Republican presidential nomination.

"I hope he runs for president. I'll campaign for him," said Betty Green of Kemah after chatting with Connally and his wife, Nellie.

Members of the Texas Legislature, and judges of the State Supreme Court, Court of Criminal Appeals and the Third Court of Civil Appeals were introduced at the $10 per person All Texas Ball.

Also presented were Atty. Gen. Mark White, members of the Texas Railroad Commission, Agriculture Commissioner Reagan Brown, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong and Treasurer Warren Harding.

The official entourage then visited a free celebration across the parking lot in the Austin Coliseum where only 100 blue jean and cowboy hat clad crowd awaited their arrival.

The balls topped off the day that began with a prayer breakfast, church service, inaugural swearing in ceremony, a parade, ice cream party and a symphony concert.

And when it was all over, at least one ghost story went out of circulation.

"The rumor is that when we swear in a Republican governor, the statue on top of the dome is going to fall off. That's what everybody's waiting for," laughed Mildred Fike of Hempstead.

But the statue remained on top of the building when the day was over.

The saying "rule of thumb" comes from England, from several centuries ago when an inch was measured as the width of a man's thumb.

Hair loss and fatigue

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am desperate for any information you can give me. I get very tired, so tired that I can't seem to stay on my feet. Before this started I was doing a lot of walking and shopping. I have been having this trouble for over six months and it's getting worse.

I went to my doctor and he didn't seem to know what was tiring me. This irritated me so much that I almost had a nervous spell. I started losing my hair and at present I don't have enough to put up in curlers. My laboratory tests included thyroid examinations which were completely normal. I am losing my hair rapidly. I hardly have any left.

I put some clorox in a hair spray bottle to get rid of the larger bottle and I can't remember if I used it by mistake or not. I have made an appointment with the dermatologist because of my hair problem but I don't understand this being tired all the time.

DEAR READER — You did the right thing by having a medical examination. There are many causes for fatigue. In 80 percent of the cases no medical cause for the fatigue can be found. But that means one out of five cases of fatigue is associated with some medical problem.

It's pretty difficult to treat a person's fatigue unless you have a good understanding of what is causing it. If you really had low thyroid function that could cause you to be tired. Any number of medical illnesses, including infectious diseases such as tuberculosis, can cause fatigue.

Other hormone changes besides inadequate amounts of thyroid hormones can also cause fatigue. A good example here is a person who has low function of the adrenal gland. In its extreme form we call this Addison's disease. Weakness, weight loss and pigmentation of the skin may occur in this condition.

In the 80 percent of people who have no associated medical cause for fatigue, it is often caused by life style and psychological factors. Some people are bored because they don't have any goals in life. Others aren't enjoying life for a variety of reasons. One way to add a little zest to living is to do something every day that you enjoy.

Other people have a depression. These occur for a variety of reasons, but are most apt to occur in middle life. Often, depression to the point that it causes severe fatigue and inability to be active requires professional help.

To give you a better idea of fatigue, what causes it and what you can do about it I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-6, Fatigue: Feeling Tired and Weary. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019. This Health Letter will also provide you some helpful suggestions about what you might do about your life style to combat your tendency toward fatigue.

You should see a dermatologist if your hair is falling out. This can be associated with nutritional problems. If your diet has changed drastically in association with your current episodes of fatigue, that might be a factor.

Nervousness sometimes causes a loss of hair and as you well know, conversely, if you lose a lot of hair that can cause you to be nervous, too. A dermatologist can tell you whether you have any basic scalp or hair problems or hair disorders that will respond readily to treatment.

Storm Death Toll In Midwest Set At 61...

Chicago Gets Much Needed Blood

CHICAGO (AP)-Emergency blood supplies from the West Coast were airlifted to Chicago as travel remained snarled by snow in the Midwest. Temperatures finally warmed a bit, easing energy demands.

The death toll from the weekend storm and bitter cold rose to 61.

Checker Taxi Cab Co. offered $25 to anyone willing to dig out one of more than 100 abandoned cabs in Chicago, and National Guard troops planned to use hoists today in Milwaukee to free snowbound autos.

In Iowa, National Guard troops and farmers used helicopters and snowmobiles to take hay to starving cattle. Some animals were reported stuck in snow up to their necks.

Gov. Joseph P. Teasdale turned down a plea for National Guard troops to feed cattle in Missouri because "the state isn't equipped to handle" the job, a spokesman said.

The governors of Wisconsin, Missouri and Indiana added portions of their states to the list of states - Illinois, Iowa and Kansas - seeking or getting federal disaster relief.

There have been 22 reported deaths in Illinois, 15 in Wisconsin, nine in Kansas, six in Missouri, four in Iowa, three in Michigan, and one each in Ohio and Nebraska.

A 74-year-old man burned to death when his car burst into flame as he tried to free it from snow in Auxvasse, Mo., Callaway County authorities reported.

The temperature hit 21 degrees at 10 p.m. Tuesday in Milwaukee, where it has not gotten above freezing since Jan. 1. Natural gas and fuel oil demand was reported about 30 percent above normal.

Temperatures in the 20s, along with 1 to 3 inches of snow to add to the 29 already on the ground were predicted for today.

In Souix Falls, S.D., where temperatures have averaged 4 this month 18 degrees below normal - it was expected to be in the low 30s.

Students in chill-bound Kansas, Okla., have been on an extended Christmas holiday since Jan. 2 due to ice and cold, but today's forecast called for temperatures in the upper 50s.

Jack Mostetler, vice president of Oklahoma Natural Gas, said the warm weather would provide welcome relief. The utility has cut out-of-state emergency sales to cope with record demand.

The Red Cross said 1,200 pints of blood were shipped to Chicago from Los Angeles - 10 times more than in any emergency response since the agency initiated a blood transportation program four years ago.

"It will save us, but only temporarily," said Red Cross spokesman Dr. Thiru Vaithianathan.

Most Chicago hospitals canceled elective surgery, and some were taking emergency surgical patients only if blood was available. O-positive blood, the most common type, was in short supply.

"Right now our blood situation is lousy," said a spokeswoman for Michael Reese Hospital, where patients with O-positive blood were told they could not be admitted for operations.

Some blood - 300 pints - was delivered to Milwaukee airport because only two runways were open at O'Hare International Airport, the world's busiest. Normally, four or five runways are open. Two additional runways were expected to reopen today.

Lubbock Billboard Law Upheld By High Court

AUSTIN (AP)—The Texas Supreme Court today upheld Lubbock's 1975 billboard ordinance, an action which the Outdoor Advertising Association of America claimed could destroy the industry in Texas.

The high court did not write a new opinion but said it could find "no reversible error" in a decision of the Amarillo Court of Civil Appeals.

Lubbock Poster Co., which owns substantially all the billboards in Lubbock, attacked the ordinance was a violation of several constitutional rights, including the First Amendment right of free expression.

The ordinance restricted billboards to three zoning areas commercial, light manufacturing and heavy manufacturing and imposed size, spacing, height, location and setback requirements.

It said noncomforming billboards must be removed by Jan. 1, 1982.

Lubbock Poster said only two of its 285 billboards conformed to the ordinance and only 36 more could be brought into line.

The practical effect of the ordinance almost entirely destroys the business of Lubbock Poster, the 64-year-old firm said in its appeal to the Supreme Court.

The civil appeals opinion, upheld by the Supreme Court, said the ordinance was a reasonable exercise of the city's police power.

It noted that while the company valued the billboards at $710,000, all would be fully depreciated by 1982.

Germany began its occupation of the Sudentenland in Czechoslovakia in 1938.

Guilty Pleas Are Heard

One prison term and one probation were assessed on two guilty pleas entered Tuesday morning in 132nd District Court.

Drawing the prison term was Lo... ...gene Sprague on a charge of driving while intoxicated. He was assessed an 18-month sentence. He had been arrested on the DWI charge Dec. ...

The probation was given to Sid Olivine Wright to a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle. Court records indicate that he is alleged to have used without authorization a vehicle owned by Dewey Grinslade last month.

Wright was given a two-year prison term, probated for a term of two years.

She's Looking For Unliberation

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Can you help me find a job as live-in housekeeper in a motherless home? It must be a modern house in the most desirable section of the city. (No country or farm locations, please.) The father must be between 38 and 50, no older. He must be at least 6 feet tall, since I am a well-proportioned 5 feet 7 and do not feel comfortable with shorter men around me.

I dress well, am attractive and well-groomed. I enjoy music, disco dancing and outdoor sports. I am 36, in excellent health, and can furnish references.

LOOKING IN WORCESTER, MASS.

DEAR LOOKING: You sound as though you are looking for a man, not a job. If it's a position you're after, register with an employment agency or place an ad in the classified section of this newspaper. If it's a man you're after, your approach is clever, but much too obvious.

DEAR ABBY: OFF MY CHEST IN DENVER wrote that her daughter in college sent all her bills home regularly, but never enclosed a personal note. ("It would mean so much if she just wrote 'love' and signed her name.")

May I respond to that letter?

First of all, a girl old enough to go away to college should be trusted with her own checking account and learn how to be responsible for her own bills. Perhaps the daughter is expressing (or not expressing) her resentment at so much parental control.

Second, children learn from us—their parents. If we don't tell them how we feel, then they won't tell us how they feel. If we want love and openness, we must communicate our needs to the others.

I would suggest, OFF MY CHEST, that you tell your daughter you need a point of contact with her, since you love her, and her absence after 18 years leaves a hole in your life.

Children who grow up and leave home need both roots and freedom.

I.M.: LA JOLLA, CALIF.

DEAR I.M.: U.R. an excellent psychologist. Thank you for a fine letter.

DEAR ABBY: KNOTTED KNUCKLES, suffering from arthritis, asked you if it is socially acceptable to type personal letters because holding a pen is oftentimes too painful.

I'm glad you said yes. For those with crippling arthritis in the hands, here's a suggestion:

Stick a pen (or pencil) through a large raw potato which can be easily and painlessly grasped by an arthritic hand.

Billy Rose won a shorthand contest using this method when he was unable to hold a pencil because his index finger was in a splint.

Pass this on to your readers if you think it's worth space in your column.

BRUCE L. IN MCLEAN, VA.

DEAR BRUCE: Considering the number of readers out there suffering from arthritis, if your suggestion relieves the pain of just one, it's well worth the space.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MY WIDOWED READERS. Good news! Since the first of this year, widows' Social Security checks are no longer decreased because of marriage.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

For Super Bowl Caliber Teams...

Intimidation No Big Thing

MIAMI (AP)--Lynn Swann, Pittsburgh Steeler receiver, will no doubt be the center of the Cowboys' attention on Sunday, just as he was in Super Bowl X.

Dallas, of course, is hoping its efforts this time around will be more successful.

"As far as I know, the last time somebody said they were going to intimidate me in the Super Bowl, I ended up the MVP," said Swann, on the end of a touchdown pass play that covered 64 yards and gave the Steelers their 21-17 victory over the Cowboys.

"Intimidation" has become the byword of this Super Bowl. Can the Steelers intimidate Tony Dorsett of Dallas? Can Hollywood Henderson of the Cowboys intimidate Pittsburgh? Does all the talk mean anything?

Apparently not. Virtually every player who has anything to say on the matter shrugs off this intimidation business, especially in a game with teams of this caliber.

"If a player can be intimidated, everyone finds about about it in a hurry and he isn't around very long - and he certainly doesn't get to the Super Bowl," says Swann.

"We don't talk about intimidation. People tell us that we are the intimidators. We just go out and play football. We've been coached that you win games by tackling and by moving the ball and scoring points.

"It always seems other people are telling them how they're not going to be intimidated by us. Sometimes they even try and reverse it, say they're going to be the intimidating team.

John Stallworth, known for the most part as Pittsburgh's "other" receiver before setting a National Football League playoff record with 10 catches against Denver, also brushes away suggestions that the Cowboys, with All-Pro safeties Charlie Waters and Cliff Harris, can intimidate Pittsburgh's pass-catchers.

"We've played against hard-hitting teams before - you can talk about the Oakland secondary with George Atkinson and Jack Tatum back there - so it's not a different feeling for us, playing against hard-hitting safeties like Dallas has," Stallworth says.

"Hey, y'know, we practice against two of the hardest-hitting safeties in the league, Donnie Shell and Mike Wagner."

And Stallworth's two teammates, standing nearby, grinned intimidatingly.

Stuart Upsets No. 4 Stove

HOUSTON--Betty Ann Stuart took advantage of erratic serving by fourth-seeded Betty Stove of the Netherlands for a 6-3, 6-3 upset victory in first-round action at the $125,000 Women's Pro Tennis Tournament.

In other matches, Dianne Fromboltz beat Caroline Stoll 7-5, 6-3; Virginia Wade of England rallied for a 7-5, 6-1 victory over Barbara Jordan; Terry Holladay defeated Linda Siegel 7-5, 6-4 and Lesley Hunt of Australia beat Marita Redondo 6-3, 6-4.

Snyder Slips To Sixth Spot

Snyder varsity boys basketball team, 20-5, stumbled to sixth place in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram Class AAA poll this week, following a 51-50 loss to Lamesa.

Silsbee, 24-1, holds the No. 1 spot followed by Mineral Wells, 20-3; Andrews, 21-2, Kerville-Tivy, 22-4; and San Antonio-South San Antonio, 21-4.

Snyder, now 1-1 in district 3-3A play, defeated Andrews earlier in the season, and lost by two points to Mineral Wells--both in the rankings. The Tigers also lost to Class AA No. 11 ranked Bowie, and two of Mineral Wells' losses came at the hands of Bowie.

In another note of interest concerning the poll, Snyder, Andrews and Mineral Wells are all in the same region and could eventually meet in a regional tournament with the overall victor advancing to state.

Travel To Sweetwater On Jan. 23...

Tigers Roll Past Cubs

Coach Jack Stephenson's varsity Snyder Tiger team took a light workout with Brownfield here last night, then presumably went home to mull over battles yet to come.

The Tigers made short work of the helpless Cubs, handing the visitors their 21st loss in 22 outings this season via an 86-62 romp.

Snyder, now 1-1 in District 3-3A play and 20-5 for the season, will be in the stands with an off date Thursday before traveling to Sweetwater (0-2) on Jan. 23.

"I thought we started out very well," commented Coach Stephenson, whose Tigers slammed to a 23-6 lead in the first period. "Of course its hard to keep it up when the other team gets far behind, but I thought we played a pretty good game."

Snyder put on a full-court press which stymied the slower Cubs and resulted in a number of turnovers early in the game. The Tigers also shot 56 percent from the floor in the first half, hitting the cords from near and far.

The Cats pulled ahead by 20 points in the second quarter and as much as 27 in the third. Stephenson whipped substitutes in and out with frequency, using his starters only sparingly in the final 16 minutes.

Brownfield, led by Dirk Bush and fiesty 5-6 Raul Romero with 10 points each, geared the visitors offense. Stephenson had a lot of praise for the Cubs and Coach Jim McFerrin, noting that the team was making strides towards better seasons on the court.

Richard Crayton, who led in rebounds with 10 and thieved the Cubs for four offensive fouls, paced the Tigers effort with 17 points.

"Offensively, I thought Richard played one of his better games. Of course he's always strong defensively, but he seemed more in control offensively tonight (Tuesday) than I'd seen him," related Stephenson. "We had five guys in double figures, and you can't say much wrong about that," he grinned.

Mike Hicks scored 15 points, while Brad Richardson had 13, Greg Hinton bucketed 12 and Sid Everton dropped in 10. Everton led in assist with 9, and in steals with 5.

Snyder's opponent Jan. 23, Sweetwater, fell to Lamesa 42-41 Tuesday, leaving the district standings at Lamesa 2-0, San Angelo Lake View 1-0, Snyder 1-1, Brownfield 0-1 and Sweetwater 0-2. Sweetwater earlier lost to Lake View, and Snyder dropped a decision to Lamesa, 51-50.

Cats Cop Win Too, 83-35

Snyder junior varsity boys team throttled past Brownfield here Tuesday, 85-62. The Tigers, 15-10, will travel to Sweetwater Jan. 23 for a 6:15 p.m. contest with the Mustangs.

Kenny Tate and Thomas Selmon led the attack with 20 and 17 points each. Eric Arnold garnered 10 points, while Kris Season and Barry Blackmon had 8 each. Keith McClain also bagged 11.

Brownfield was led by Williams' 7 points.

Snyder - playing solid defense and battering the Cubs all around the key offensively - took an early lead and never stumbled during the contest.

Ira Splits With Roby

One Under Protest

ROBY–Ira girls took the lead in district basketball action, beating previously undefeated Roby here last night, 30-23.

Linda Cooley led the Bulldogs with 8 points and Brenda Cooley had 6.

Ira girls are now 4-0 in loop play and 14-7 for the season.

The boys' game resulted in a protest game, with Roby coming out on top 52-51. Ira led until the final quarter when the Lions slammed in 24 points. Jennings scored on a rebounded shot with four seconds to play and was fouled in the process.

The two-pointer tied the totals, and Jennings' free throw capped the victory.

But a number of calls by officials led to protest. Action will be taken by the District Executive Committee - the various school superintendants - in its next meeting.

If the game stands, Ira will fall to 2-2 in loop action and 6-10 for the season. Roby will post a 1-3 mark in district play.

Ira will host Highland Thursday.

WTC To Host Mothers' Night

Mother's Night will be the theme Thursday evening at Scurry County Coliseum when mothers accompanied by their children will be admitted free to double-header basketball action.

All Scurry County and area mothers - and up to three children - will be welcomed free.

Thursday's fare will pit Western Texas College men's and women's teams against conference opponent South Plains College.

Coach Nolan Richardson's WTC Westerners are currently ranked No. 3 in the nation in junior college basketball (NJCAA), boast a 17-1 season record and are 5-0 in conference play.

The visiting South Plains mens team is 8-10 on the season and 4-1 in loop action.

Joe Cushing's Duster team, 9-8, will be looking for its third conference victory. The Dusters, 2-1 in WJCAC play, will open the double-header by hosting South Plains at 6 p.m.

South Plains women's team notes an 8-8 and a 0-2 record.

Gymnastics Meet Rescheduled Here

Snyder High School gymnastics team has re-scheduled an optional meet here with San Angelo Central.

The meet - postponed two weeks ago due to adverse weather - will be held Saturday at 5 p.m. in Travis Gym.

"It should be a good meet," relayed Coach Doug Fitzjarrell. "San Angelo has probably the toughest boys team in the state, and one of the toughest girls teams."

The meet will be Snyder's first of the year.

Texas Picking Up Pace Now

By The Associated Press

The Texas Longhorns - pre-season favorites to win the Southwest Conference basketball championship - are beginning to play like the team Coach Abe Lemons had expected.

"There's just not any phase of our game that I was not pleased with tonight," said Lemons after the Longhorns popped the Rice Owls, 94-81, in Houston Tuesday night to improve the SWC record to 4-1.

"I have no idea why we didn't play better before," the Texas coach said, referring to earlier losses, including one to Texas Tech in their SWC opener at Lubbock.

The defending National Invitational Tournament champion Longhorns hit on 59 percent of their field goal attempts and were paced by Jim Krivacs' 30 points and Tyrone Branyan's 24.

Rice, now 2-3 in the SWC and 5-10 for the season, was led by Elbert Darden who hit 30 points.

In other SWC action Tuesday night, Baylor beat Houston 85-77 and Southern Methodist defeated Texas Tech 69-65.

A crowd of 5,400 fans - many of them dressed in clown costumes - filled the Rice gym. The clown outfits were the result of a comment Lemons made last year when he said Rice seemed to be playing like clowns.

"It didn't bother me," said Lemons. "Besides, they didn't have much to holler about."

SMU used a balanced scoring attack - led by Brad Branson and Reggie Franklin with 14 points each - to improve its SWC record to 2-1 with the victory over Texas Tech, which fell to 3-2.

"With a break or two, we could have come out on top," said Tech Coach Gerald Myers, who saw his team drop its second straight game after upsetting Texas to start its SWC schedule.

NBA Action At A Glance...

Pistons Blow It

By The Associated Press

"It breaks my heart," said Detroit Coach Dick Vitale. "I'll shed some tears tonight."

Vitale had just watched his Pistons blow an 18-point, third-quarter lead - and a six-point advantage in the final 1:48-and lose to the New York Knicks 111-110 Tuesday night on a steal and stuff shot by Toby Knight with two seconds to play.

"A lot of it was anticipation," said Knight of his winning play, "but a lot of it was luck, too. The ball came my way and I just grabbed it. As I went in I wanted to be careful not to carry the ball or turn it over.

"But I slammed it in because I wanted to make sure."

In the only other National Basketball Association games played Tuesday, the Denver Nuggets defeated the New Orleans Jazz 104-100 and the Kansas City Kings beat the Cleveland Cavaliers 86-79.

For one half the Pistons made the Knicks look awful, sinking 60 percent of their shots and forcing 15 New York turnovers. Detroit led 61-45 at halftime and 69-51 after 2:08 of the third quarter.

And then, without a hint of warning, the Knicks turned it around.

With Ray Williams running the attack, the Knicks climbed back into the game with a 20-4 burst.

Edward of Confessor, king of England, died in 1066.

Bean Highlights Phoenix Open

PHOENIX (AP)-Andy Bean, a big, raw-boned guy who's rapidly becoming one of golf's more prominent players, was far from coy about his plans for the Phoenix Open.

"I'm playing good enough right now to win a tournament," the 6-foot-4 Bean said after a practice round over the rain-soaked, 6,726-yard, par 71 Phoenix Country Club course, site of the 72-hole chase that begins Thursday.

"That's the reason I'm here - to win the golf tournament. I sure as hell didn't come here to finish second," Bean said. "I'm playing good and I've played good here before.

"I had a chance to win the tournament last year but I had to go for the green on the last hole and I hit it in the water.

"There's no reason I can't put myself in the position of needing only a par on the last hole to win it this year. That's what I'm looking for."

Bean noted as the tour's most famous alligator wrestler, has changed his image over the last year or so.

ORDER OF THE COMMISSIONERS COURT OF SCURRY COUNTY, TEXAS, APPROVING THE TREASURER'S REPORT FOR THE FOURTH CALENDAR QUARTER,

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS MAY COME, BE IT KNOWN THAT:

THE COMMISSIONERS COURT OF SCURRY COUNTY, TEXAS, did duly convene in Monthly Session at its meeting place in the Courthouse in the City of Snyder at 10:00 o'clock A.M. on Monday, January 15th, 1979 and, the entire membership of said Court, viz., Earl "Hassie" Sneed, Acting County Judge, presiding, and Eldon Perry, Earl "Hassie" Sneed, Charles J. Yoast & Ted Billingsley, Commissioners for Precincts, 1, 2, 3, and 4, respectively, being present, the matter of the comparison and examination of the Quarterly Report of BILLY W. THOMPSON, Treasurer for Scurry County, for the period October 1 to December 31, 1978, came to the attention of said Court and the said Court compared and examined the same and inspected and counted all the actual cash, certificates of time and demand deposits, and other assets in the hands of the Treasurer belonging to the County at and as the time of such report: NOW, THEREFORE, the Commissioners Court finds that the Treasurer at and as of the time of his said report did not have actually in his hands any money or other assets of Scurry County but the same were all on deposit in the West Texas State Bank of Snyder, Texas, the official County depository, except the following, viz., $121,000.00, Authorized negotiable securities of political subdivision; and that from the commencement of business at 8:00 o'clock A.M. on October 1, until close of business at 5:00 p.m., December 31, 1978, the beginning and ending balances for each fund of the Treasurer of Scurry County, Texas, for such quarterly period are fully and accurately reflected by the following tabulation attached hereto, incorporated herein by reference, and made a part hereof for all purposes; the "top-rated schools" of Texas. In a school system with 3000 or so students, absenteeism must undoubtedly run in the hundreds; how can the addition of less than 200 students, "overcrowd" teachers and facilities? Plus the fact, that a teacher, with less than one hour's school time, can teach any more or any less, to 5, 10, or 30 students. Students' initiative, can often put the school in a better light than the school deserves.

In reference to Mr. Burton, Sandefur's letter, his criticism is totally unjust of Hermleigh's past administrators. By what right and authority does Mr. Sandefur speak. Can he read minds? Is he in the position to pass moral judgment on the right of individuals to speak their opinion? We should admire the courage of people, who in a hostile environment, stand up and speak their mind. They, as well as anyone else, are guaranteed by our government to exercise their freedom of speech, without fear of reprisals, intimidations, threats, abuse, or the like.

Mr. Sandefur also puts the question as the Hermleigh's taxes being higher than Snyder's in the next ten years. Well, no one, save Mr. Sandefur perhaps, can predict the future, but if taxes and oil values decline and rise at the same present rates, YES, there is a good possibility that Hermleigh taxes will be higher than Snyder's. Why? Look at taxes over the past two years--they've doubled each year, contrary to the KTXS interview a few days ago; the school's budget has climbed rapidly because of over-spending allowed by the school. Any time the price of oil is allowed to go up--Snyder oil field, and in turn, Snyder schools, gain. So goes the need for any higher taxes.

To conclude, I would like to point out that with the advantages offered by consolidation for taxpayers, and students alike, why shouldn't we consolidate? In view that most of the Hermleigh School Board are Hermleigh graduates, who have allowed overspending of the budget, didn't respond to the tax-payer's outrage last August, and who do not hold master degrees, what is better than allowing Snyder to educate our children and take over our two-room school house!--if it isn't condemned first?

Go Big Red is right! The longer this school is allowed to go on, the bigger and deeper in the RED it will be!!!!!!

Evelyn Clifton
Hermleigh

Carter Sticking With Budget Slashing Plan

By GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)-President Carter is holding to his pledge to slash deficit spending to below $30 billion in the new budget, while still finding money for increased defense outlays.

Although the federal budget will be in the red for the 19th time in the last 20 years, the cover will be green, possibly reflecting the president's optimism that he can balance the budget in the next year or two.

The budget for fiscal 1980, which begins next Oct. 1, was going to press at the Government Printing Office today and will be presented to Congress, along with an accompanying presidential message, Monday.

The president told congressional leaders Tuesday it will be "a tight, spare budget." He has repeatedly said the budget is small enough to help restrain inflation, but large enough to discourage a recession.

Administration sources confirmed Tuesday that Carter will propose total spending of abut $532 billion for 1980, up about $40 billion from this year. Virtually all of the increase is, the result of inflation, however.

With revenues estimated at about $503 billion, the administration will project a 1980 deficit of $29 billion. That would be the smallest federal deficit since 1973, when it was $14.8 billion.

The deficit in the current 1979 fiscal year is projected at about $40 billion.

Defense spending would be increased in the new budget. But there would be cutbacks in other areas, including some trimming of jobs, welfare and education programs, administration officials have said.

Carter has decided to ask Congress to approve an increase of about 3 percent in defense outlays - over and above inflation - to a total of $122.8 billion in 1980 sources said. Defense spending this year is projected at $112 billion.

The increase for defense results from the president's pledge to the nation's North Atlantic Treaty Organization partners last year to raise U.S. defense outlays by 3 percent in 1980, with other NATO powers promising to do the same.

Most of the increase would be used for across-the-board modernization of conventional forces and weaponry.

But an additional $1 billion in spending, both from the budget and a supplemental request for 1979, will be proposed to pay for full-scale development of the new mobile missile.

WTC

Tuesday to consider the audit.

Following a report on a legal opinion, the board approved payment of the college district's share for compilation of the delinquent tax roll. Dr. Clinton said college officials had been uncertain whether the college district could leagally make an expenditure for this purpose, but attorneys had advised that it was a legal obligation. The county tax department assesses and collects the college district's taxes.

Board members were presented with printed information on mandatory retirement laws and the staff was asked to draft a retirement policy for WTC which would comply with legislation.

Next regular meeting of the board has been set for Feb. 12.

Man Suffers Bullet Wound

A bullet wound to the great toe of the left foot sent Ollie Pike to a physician's office where he was treated and released, police reports show.

The reports indicate Pike was handling a .22-caliber pistol when the gun accidently discharged. The matter was reported at 8:38 a.m. at 2106 Peyton St.

At 12:50 p.m., a three-car accident was reported in the 3500 block of College Ave. Involved in it were a 1972 Chevrolet driven by Beverly Clemons, a 1973 Ford driven by Richard Garcia, and a 1975 Pontiac driven by Bobby Blakey. Only minor damages were incurred.

Man Wanted Here Is Held

Arthur Lee Harding, who is wanted in Scurry County on a felony forgery charge and for sentencing in three misdemeanor cases, was taken into custody yesterday afternoon in Big Spring.

Law enforcement officers reported he is also wanted in connection with charges there.

Locally, Harding is charged with forgery by passing in connection with a Dec. 5 incident in which he is alleged to have passed a forged $100 check. In misdemeanors, Harding is wanted for sentencing on two cases of evading arrest and one case of unlawfully carrying a weapon.

Spikes Group Buys Banks

Sam Spikes, a Snyder native and son of Mrs. Opal Spikes of Snyder, has joined a group of business men in Brownfield and Seminole to purchase majority interest in two banks.

Spikes, president of Brownfield State Bank and Trust Co., has purchased along with a group of Brownfield businessmen the controlling interest in the bank. Spikes will continue as president and chief executive officer.

Spikes and a group of Seminole area businessmen earlier purchased majority stock in the Seminole State Bank. Spikes, former president of that bank, is now chairman of the board.

Tickets For Kaun Concert Are On Sale

Tickets for Friday night's concert by Kathleen Mott Kaun are now on sale at Snyder Drug and the Fine Arts Division office at Western Texas College.

The program is being presented by Western Texas College and the inactive Scurry Concert Association, and will be held at 8 p.m. in the Snyder High School auditorium. Tickets are priced at $2 for adults and $1 for students.

Ronald Clinton, pianist, will accompany Mrs. Kaun and will present a portion of the program.

Exports Of Cotton Up

WASHINGTON (AP)-Cotton exports, particularly to China, Japan and South Korea, are up more than had been expected, says the Agriculture Department.

Counting domestic use, total cotton "disappearance" during the 1978-79 year that will end July 31 is expected to be the most in five years, the department said Friday.

As it looks now, exports will require about 6 million bales, up 200,000 bales from previous estimates, and 9 percent more than the 5.5 million bales exported in 1977-78.

Domestic use was projected at 6.3 million last year, however.

That will put total cotton use at 12.3 million bales this year, the most since 1973-74, the report said.

The cotton reserve or "carryover" when the new marketing year begins on Aug. 1 is expected to be about 4.1 million bales, down from 5.3 million carried over last Aug. 1. The 1978 cotton crop, at 10.8 million bales, was down 25 percent from 14.4 million harvested in 1977 because of a smaller acreage and poor yields.

Don Maynard Will Speak In C-City

COLORADO CITY-Don Maynard, former wide receiver for the New York Jets during the 1960's will be the keynote speaker at the C-City Chamber of Commerce banquet Thursday at 7 p.m. in the Civic Center auditorium.

New officers and directors will be installed at the annual event. Several awards will also be presented.

Tickets are $8 per person and are available at the chamber office.

Briscoe Marks Bible Verse

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)-When Gov. Bill Clements took over his Capitol office Tuesday he found a special verse marked by outgoing Gov. Dolph Briscoe in the Bible, a tradition followed by Texas governors.

The verse, from Micah 6:8, read:

"He hath shewed thee, 0 man, what is good; and what doth the Lord require of thee, but to do justly and to love mercy, and to walk humbly with thy God."

When Briscoe took office six years ago, then-Gov. Preston Smith left this verse, from Proverbs 12:19:

"The lip of truth shall be established forever; but a lying tongue is but for a moment."

If The People Want Him...

Prince Says He May Someday Rule In Iran

LUBBOCK (AP)-Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi, son of the Shah of Iran and heir-apparent to the throne, says he would return to rule his country one day "if the people want me."

"If they want me and they think I could help them--the 35 million people of Iran-then I would be ruler," said the 18-year-old prince who is receiving supersonic pilot training at Reese Air Force Base near Lubbock.

"This is what I have been studying for--economics, military and things like that--to help. If the people want me, I hope it will work out."

Prince Reza, who cannot legally ascend to the throne until he is 21, commented Tuesday during an informal news conference outside his home in this West Texas city.

He said he believes his father "probably will return to Iran" despite speculation the shah has gone into exile.

Earlier Tuesday, the shah and Empress Farah flew to Cairo on what was officially termed a vacation, although many called it the beginning of exile for the beleaguered monarch. It was speculated the shah and his wife would continue to the United States from Egypt.

"I hope everything will get better very soon," Prince Reza said. "I don't know if my father will ever regain power. The new government is basically taking care of everything."

The prince said he knew little more of the events in Iran than what has been reported in local newspapers and on television.

Prince Reza said he knew of no plans for the shah to visit Lubbock, though the U.S. State Department said it was possible the shah would stop here to stay with his family or pick them up en route to another destination.

Prince Reza said he believed any stay by his father in the United States would be only temporary.

Meanwhile, the presence of three children and the mother-in-law of the Shah of Iran stirred little reaction in Lubbock as the party took up residence Tuesday at the prince's plush, western-style home.

Lubbock residents went about their business. A group of Iranian students attending nearby Texas Tech University, numbering about 500, were also quiet, although they had a staged a protest march against the shah last summer.

An attorney for Lubbock Legal Services, which has represented the students in the past, said he knew of no plans to protest the presence of the shah's mother-in-law, Farideh Diva, and Princess Farahnaz, 15; Prince Alireza, 12 and Princess Layla, 8.

They arrived at Reese Air Force Base in predawn darkness Tuesday aboard an Imperial Iranian 707 jet that left McGuire Air Force Base, N.J., Monday night.

Security around the prince's home was beefed up as off-duty Lubbock policemen guarded the gates.

Despite the turmoil Tuesday, Prince Reza attended flight classes as usual at Reese.

The shah's family was apread across oceans and across a big chunk of the United States. In addition to Cairo and Lubbock, family members also were in California.

Texas Delegate Regains Rules Committee Seat

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Texas congressional delegation, revamped by the retirements and defeats of several powerful lawmakers, has regained several crucial committee assignments in the U.S. House.

The biggest news Tuesday for Texans was the appointment of freshman Rep. Martin Frost to the powerful House Rules Committee by Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill.

Two Democrats, Reps. Jack Hightower and Sam Hall were, as expected, named to fill key committee posts vacated by the retirement of George Mahon of Lubbock and the primary defeat of John Young of Corpus Christi.

Hightower moved from the House Agriculture Committee over to the Appropriations Committee. Hall, beginning his third term, joined fellow Texan Jake Pickle on the Ways and Means Committee.

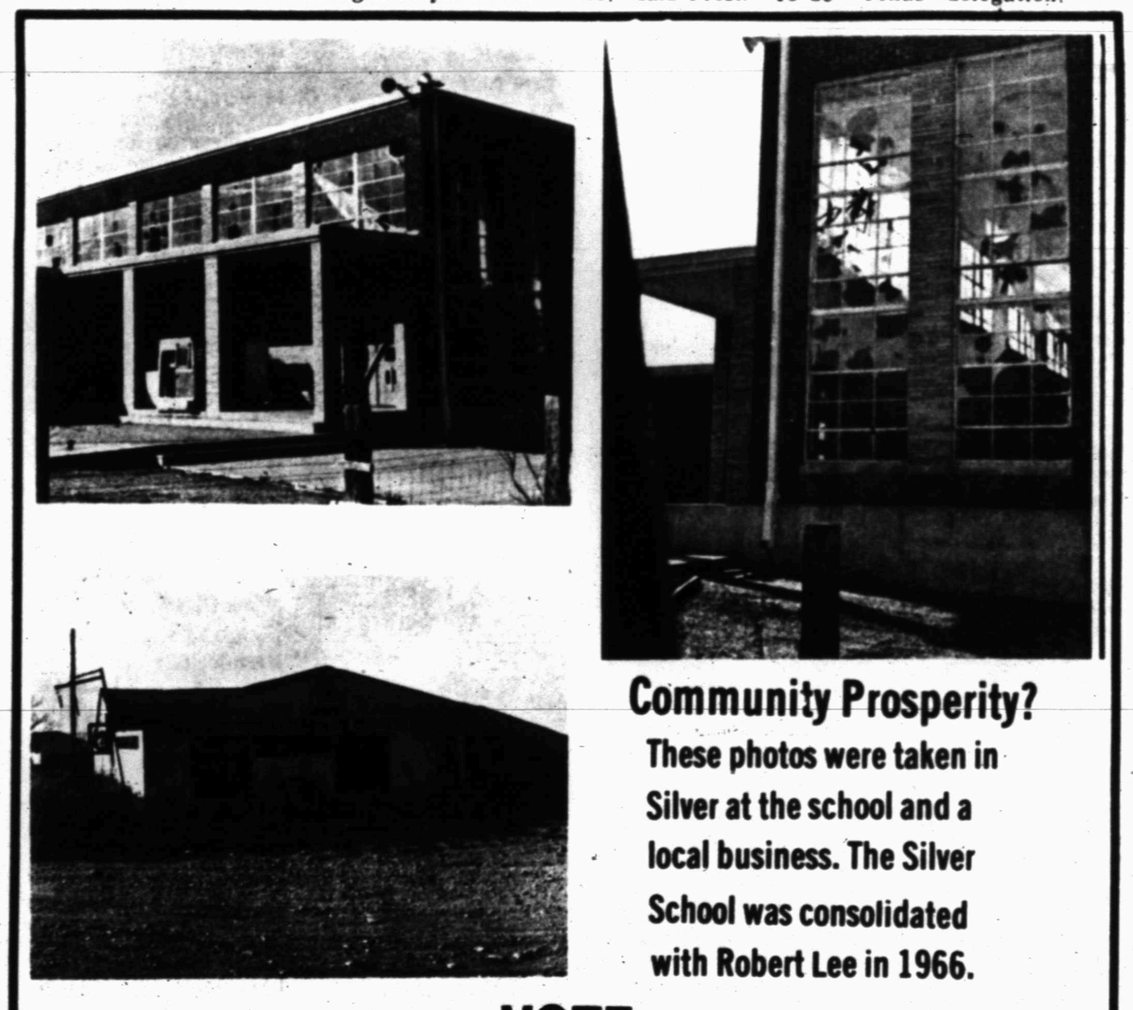

Frost, a Democrat from Grand Prairie will replace Omar Burleson, one of nine Texans who retired from the House last year.

Each bill must pass through the 11-member Rules Committee before reaching the floor of the House.

"I am deeply honored that Speaker O'Neill has placed his confidence in me by nominating me for the House Rules Committee," said Frost. "To be named to the committee as a freshman Democrat is a humbling experience and I will work hard to justify the speaker's trust."

Frost won election to public office for the first time by defeating Dale Milford in the Democratic primary last year. He was aided by a strong district organization and almost $60,000 in campaign contributions from organized labor political action committees.

After being named to the committee, Frost credited his political coup to House Majority Leader Jim Wright and Rep. Jack Brooks, the dean of the Texas delegation.
