Patty says she was raped before robbery

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Patricia Hearst says her mind was swamped with revolutionary rhetoric and her body ravaged by rape and other physical abuse when she robbed a bank under fear of execution.

Miss Hearst wept frequently as she testified before the jury for the second time Tuesday — a day on which the trial judge issued a memorandum saying the newspaper heiress had failed to convince him she was "a prisoner whose every move was made under the watchful eye" of her Symbionese Liberation Army kidnapers.

Miss Hearst, sipping water and using tissues to wipe away her tears, told her jurors that she entered a Hibernia Bank branch on April 15, 1974, certain that SLA chieften Donald "Cinque" DeFreeze intended to gun her down in front of surveillance cameras.

She watched a replay of the bank robbery and, when asked by defense counsel F. Lee Bailey why she frequently glanced over her shoulder at DeFreeze, replied, "I had thought that even though I would go in and do this, that he was going to kill me anyway inside the bank."

She said she reacted with disbelief when the SLA told her they were going to rob a bank and she would participate. They said they needed money, she testified, and that DeFreeze "wanted me to be wanted by the FBI."

The basis of Miss Hearst's defense is that she participated in the holdup under threat of death.

The jurors listened intently Tuesday as the defendant testified between replays of the tapes she said she recorded in blind terror.

She told them of being forced to have sexual intercourse with DeFreeze and SLA member Willie Wolfe in the cell-like closet where she was kept blindfolded.

Bailey said Miss Hearst would continue her saga today, her third day on the stand, as she moves into what he concedes is the "stickiest point" in her defense — a shooting spree that led indirectly to the deaths of DeFreeze, Willie Wolfe and four other SLA members in a shootout.

HC prof invited to serve on Science Review Panel

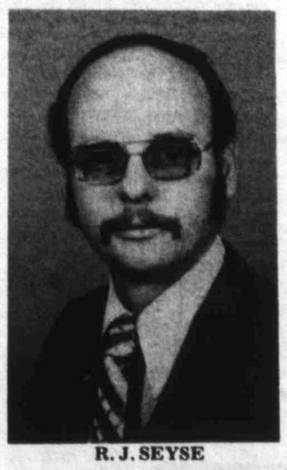

Dr. Robert J. Seyse has been invited to serve as a member of the National Science Foundation National Review Panel for 1976. Dr. Seyse is Chairman of the Science and Mathematics Division at Howard College where he has taught chemistry since Sept. 1, 1973.

The National Science Foundation selects outstanding scientists and educators each year to serve on the Review Panel to evaluate proposals from institutions of higher education requesting funds for special science education projects.

This panel helps to judge which proposals are most worthy of support from the Comprehensive Assistance to Undergraduate Science Education Program of the National Science Foundation in Washington, D. C. Because the Foundation receives a greater number of proposals than can be supported with available funds, the advice of distinguished scientists and educators are invaluable.

The Review Panel will convene for three days in Los Angeles, Cal., March 10-11-12.

Dr. Seyse received his A. A. Degree from State University of New York at Buffalo in 1961. He then served in the U. S. Army from 1962 to 1965 before returning to college at Colorado State College in Greeley to receive his Bachelor's Degree in

R. J. SEYSE

1967. He was awarded the Ph. D. from the University of Iowa in 1970. Since then he has done post-doctoral assistantship with Dr. Timothy Rose and Dr. K. A. Gringerich at Texas A&M University until he began work at Howard College in 973.

Dr. Seyse was a recipient of an NSF Traineeship from 1967-69 while working on his doctorate. He has had numerous publications accepted in professional journals.

Dr. Seyse resides at 1504 Stadium Avenue.

Consumers still suing lawyers

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A consumer organization challenging restrictions on advertising by lawyers apparently will continue with its lawsuit despite a proposed change in American Bar Association policy. "So far as I can tell it will have no effect," said Peter Schuck, an attorney for Consumers Union, after learning of Tuesday's action by the ABA House of Delegates. The delegates, in a session which wound up the ABA's six-day midyear meeting, approved a limited increase in the amount of information lawyers may give the public about their fees and specialties.

Kissinger slams Cuba

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Cuba is beginning to dominate Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's Latin-American trip despite his claim that he is not on an anti-Castro crusade. Kissinger told newsmen Tuesday night, "I don't need much encouragement" to talk about the Cuban intervention in Angola and the U.S. government's warning against similar action in the future. The Cuban issue was first raised during Kissinger's visit to Venezuela by President Carlos Andres Perez and recurred all through the day Tuesday.

Income up by one per cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — The personal income of Americans jumped by 1 per cent in January, pushed by an upward surge in payrolls for service and distribution workers, the government said today. It was the biggest increase in four months.

The Commerce Department said personal income climbed at an annual rate of $13.6 billion last month to an annual rate of $1,313.8 billion after adjustment for seasonal variations. It was the biggest advance since an increase of $16.3 billion in September.

The January increase put personal income 9.2 per cent ahead of where it was at the same time a year ago and well ahead of the current 7 per cent pace of inflation.

But wants to open mail

Ford bars domestic 'bugs'

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford today issued orders barring the CIA and other intelligence agencies from using electronic or physical surveillance to collect information on the domestic activities of most American citizens and organizations.

In a follow-up to his Tuesday night press conference at which he announced plans for reorganizing the intelligence community, Ford also said he would support legislation requiring judicial warrants for national security wiretaps and mail opening.

In a message to Congress, Ford indicated he would seek to expand the power of the government to open mail, which is now permitted only in criminal investigations. "We need authority to open mail ... in order to obtain vitally needed foreign intelligence information," Ford said.

Ford also proposed a stiff new secrecy law which would provide criminal penalties for any government employe or contractor who leaks intelligence secrets. The law also would give the government new legal powers to prevent the publication of such secrets.

A 36-page executive order that takes effect March 1 also would bar infiltration of domestic organizations, drug tests on unsuspecting humans and illegally obtaining federal tax returns.

The restrictions do not apply to the FBI which will be governed by a separate set of guidelines to be issued within 90 days.

The CIA would be completely barred from electronic eavesdropping inside the United States, and the National Security Agency would be prohibited from intercepting any "communication which is made from, or is intended by the sender to be received in, the United States."

"Unconsented physical searches," apparently including break-ins, would be outlawed within the United States or against U.S. citizens abroad except "under procedures approved by the attorney general."

An accompanying document said that the restrictions placed on intelligence activities provided for "limited exceptions" which, for instance, would allow physical surveillance of a U.S. citizen who is a present or former employe of an intelligence agency or one of its contractors, or is "reasonably believed to be acting on behalf of a foreign power or engaging in international terrorist or narcotics activities or activities threatening the national security."

At the news conference that dwelled on Ford's plans for changes in the control apparatus of U.S. intelligence agencies, the President also:

—Described Ronald Reagan as "to the right of me philosophically," though he later said there were no philosophical differences between Reagan and him.

—Said "anybody to the right of me, Democrat or Republican, can't win a national election." Later, Lyn Nofziger, campaign manager for Reagan, responded that Ford's implied references to Reagan as an "extremist" were inconsistent with Ford's earlier praise of Reagan and "at least in the eyes of Californians, he is no extremist."

—Declined to predict flatly that he would win the New Hampshire and Florida Republican primaries, saying instead, "I think we will do well in both."

—Said he sees no foreign policy complications caused by former President Richard M. Nixon's upcoming visit to mainland China.

—Said a Republican substitute for the $6.1-billion public works jobs bill he vetoed last week is "a far better piece of legislation."

—Said he believes the nation has made "substantial progress" toward ending inflation. "When I became President the rate was 12 per cent a year, it's now down around 6," Ford said.

Asked why he lent "the prestige of your high office to discrimination by golfing at Burning Tree Country Club which excludes women," Ford responded: "There are no federal funds going to Burning Tree."

Ford's plan to reorganize intelligence operations includes:

—A Committee on Foreign Intelligence to manage U.S. intelligence agencies under the chairmanship of Bush;

—A three-member Oversight Board headed by former ambassador Robert D. Murphy to review reports from the inspectors general of the various intelligence agencies; and —An Operations Advisory Group to be the successor of the so-called Forty Committee in directing covert operations.

Ford also said he would send legislation to Congress that "would make it a crime for a government employe who has access to certain highly classified information to reveal that information improperly."

Ford added that he would "also support legislation that would prohibit attempts on the lives of foreign leaders.

Ford's plan met with mixed reaction from members of Congress.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., second-ranking Democrat on the Senate intelligence committee, said he welcomed the President's initiative but added that he was concerned that "there is no apparent improvement called for in congressional oversight of the FBI."

Senate Intelligence vice chairman John Tower, R-Tex., called Ford's plan "positive and carefully planned" and said he would support the President's legislative proposal to impose criminal sanctions against executive branch members who reveal intelligence secrets.

Chairman Otis G. Pike of the defunct House intelligence committee complained that "the emphasis is on secrecy rather than oversight." Ford's plan would keep secrecy under the controls of "a very small number of people in the executive branch," Pike said. "It's going to depend on those people whether we go back to the abuses of the past."

In addition to former ambassador Murphy, the new Oversight Board will consist of former Army Secretary Stephen Ailes and Leo Cherne, executive director of the Research Institute of America. The Oversight Board will function as a subcommittee as the President's Foreign Intelligence Advisory Board, of which Cherne already is a member, one official said.

But the 'wets' know where to get it

The 'drys' have it

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — Trumpeting Abilene's rejection of legalized liquor Tuesday, a temperance crusader modestly labelled it "the greatest victory I ever helped to win."

A universiy president of the Baptist persuasion called it a "mighty fine day."

The anti liquor leader observed that "the will of the majority has prevailed."

Even the captain of the losing team found certain solace: "We view the election itself as a victory for our city."

"What election?" asked the mayor of neighboring Impact, rivalling "Dr. Livingstone, I presume?" in a classic example of understatement. The outcome of the election perhaps means millions of dollars for the Impact mayor.

The subject of all this unusual attention was the city of Abilene's scuttling of the second attempt in 37 years to legalize the sale of alcoholic beverages.

Legally dry for three-quarters of a century and sometimes called "the buckle on the Bible belt," Abilene was — and is — the state's second largest city without booze.

The vote was 12,905 against and 11,291 for, a margin of 1,614 in a West Central Texas city of nearly 100,000 with three church colleges and around 40,000 registered voters.

Certain moralistic and legal debates preceded the election, the outcome of which apparently was determined by overwhelming opposition in the Abilene Christian College and Hardin-Simmons University areas.

"I think most people know our position on this matter," said Dr. John C. Stevens, president of ACC. The vote in that district was 6-1 against legal sales.

"I remember Feb. 17, 1976, as a mighty fine day," said Dr. Elwin L. Skiles, president of HSU. In that area the opposition prevailed nearly 3-1.

In addition, the McMurry College box defeated the issue by a small margin. The president of that school, Dr. Thomas K. Kim, said of the over-all vote:

"I am obviously gratified .... The vote confirms the wish of the citizens to continue the fine and wholesome community atmosphere which traditionally has characterized Abilene."

Dr. Sam Morris of San Antonio, who said he spent $3,000 crusading against the Abilene proposal, declared:

"I've been in thousands of local option liquor elections all over the nation. Because of Abilene's unique situation with the fine Christian colleges, I consider this the greatest victory that I have ever helped to win."

At Impact, the tiny town totally surrounded by Abilene and a legal source of exotic beverages, Mayor Dallas Perkins was uncommonly reticent.

With Abilene dry, Impact — which voted itself into cityhood 28-0 in 1960 — and this county's southern watering hole of Buffalo Gap remain the prime sources for quenching Abilene area thirsts.

"What election?" asked Perkins facetiously in response to a reporter's request for comment.

"Was today the day they voted? How'd it come out?....

"Mercy, I'm glad you called."

Still windy

Still windy. Westerly and 15-25 miles per hour this afternoon. Decreasing to 5-10 m.p.h. tonight. Fair through Thursday. High today and Thursday in the 70s. Low tonight mid 30s.

Roof of local mobile home whisked away

The roof was lifted off a mobile home at Space 29 at Chapparal Trailer Park shortly before 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Duffey, who live in the home, had neighbors over for supper. Their two children and the two neighbor children were seated at the kitchen table and the adults were in the living room.

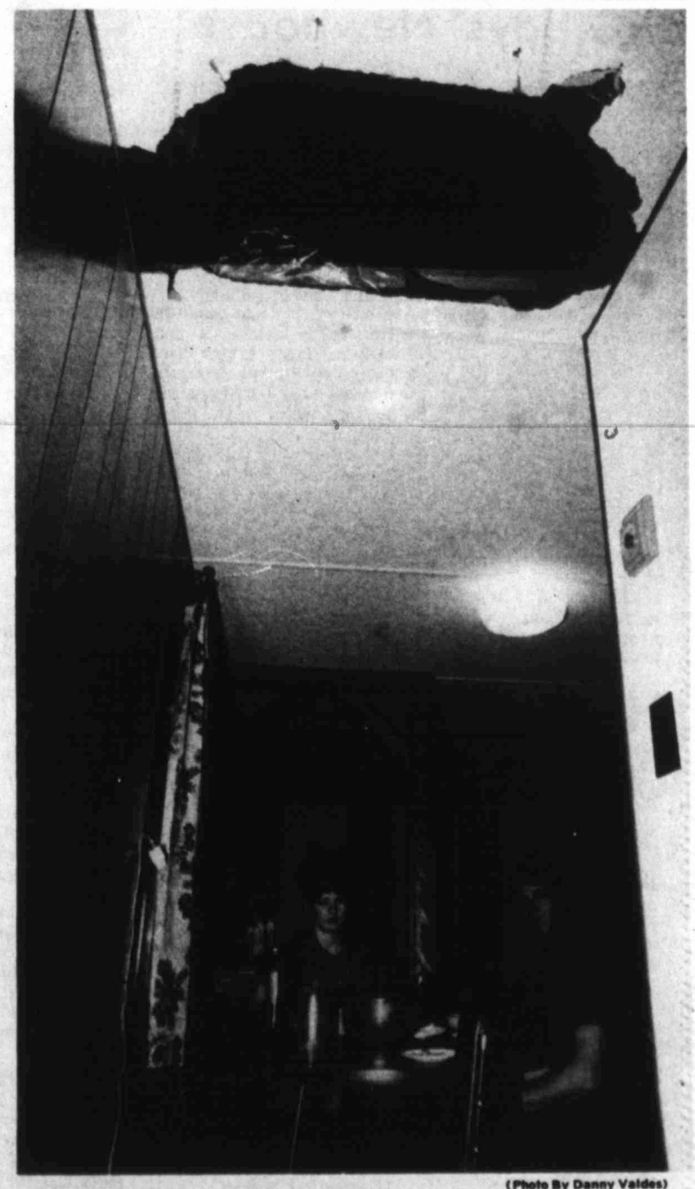

The neighbor had just commented to Mrs. Duffey, "Your trailer doesn't pop like ours when the wind is up."

Suddenly the entire roof lifted off the structure and a big hole was ripped on the inside ceiling just above the kitchen table.

"Bowls and dishes blew everywhere," Mrs. Duffey stated, "and three of the children came running at us screaming. The other one was trapped in the high chair and was really hollering. It was confusing for a while but nobody was hurt."

"I don't know whether a little twister dipped down or if the wind was that strong," Duffey said.

The Big Spring Experiment Station wind machine listed top winds at 48 miles per hour around 7:20 p.m. Tuesday. This is about a quarter of a mile away, but at the bottom of the hill.

HC trustees okay new pay schedule

By MARJ CARPENTER

A salary schedule adopted by Howard College board of trustees will improve the steps for increment raises among the faculty here.

The entire schedule will cost the college $60,000, though it is not a straight across-the-board increase. Its impact relates the number of years of education, experience and training the individual has.

Prior to approval of the schedule, the highest annual pay attainable was at $12,900. That figure now goes to $16,800. The average will also increase above the present $11,464.

In comparison to area colleges, Howard College was under the norm.

Odessa College's highest rate was $20,222, almost $8,000 higher than Howard College with an average of $15,055. Midland had top pay of $18,300 and an average of $12,990.

Dr. Hays told the board, "I know we can't be one of the highest paid of the 47 junior colleges in Texas, but we should be along about the middle."

The board approved the schedule, which was designed to add incentive to the system, after they heard that funds were available.

Members of the committee who studied and presented the plan included Mrs. Anita Booth, Mike Bruner, Gary Grant, Mrs. Doris Huibregtse, David King and Charles McCamant.

In other action, the board approved the audit which was reviewed by John Wilson of Hollingsworth, Wilson, Lee and Reynolds.

Wilson commended the college, for what he called a "clean opinion" and pointed out that the college returns to the community $957,111 in wages for $551,476 in taxes taken in to the college. This almost doubles the investment.

He told the board that the All Funds section showed, under the balance fund, total assets of $283,536 with $47,753 in liabilities. After deducting other necessary items, it shows a fund balance of $147,099 which must be restored to the future operation of the college.

"This is good in that the college is not rocking right on the edge, nor is it investing huge sums," according to the auditor.

Under revenues and expenses, the audit showed that with a total revenue of $1,588,056, and total expenditures of $1,472,967, the budget had an excess of $24,899 "which shows good close budgeting."

Dr. Hays also discussed with the board the possibilities of utilizing their Century Computer and setting up a full time college computer center. This would include plans to expand to eventually include the possibilities of serving other taxing agencies such as the city and public schools.

The board authorized the staff to study the possibilities along this line. They also authorized purchasing some needed shop equipment and accepted the report on Goals for Progress.

A resolution was passed, by the trustees commending Tom Locke and the Goals for Progress committee for their hours of time given to the preparation of the study. It was read by Dr. Charles Warren, board president.

A low bid of $5,355 was awarded to Craftsman Printers Inc., for publication of the college catalogue and bulletin. This was the lowest of six bids with $9,300 as the highest.

Plans were set to send a delegation to the National Junior College Conference in Washington D.C. in March with Dr. P. W. Malone, Dr. Warren, Mr. and Mrs. Don McKinney and Mr. Hays planning to attend.

A request was made to study the possibilities of adopting the school of radiologic technology, currently taught at Malone-Hogan Hospital into the college Allied Health Department.

The request was granted, with the staff asked to bring back detailed cost figures.

During the approval of the month's bills, a request was made to study the possibility of having grades picked up instead of being mailed out due to the high cost of postage.

The board also discussed the fact that the college pays $60 several times a year to move the college's one grand piano from the auditorium to the Student Union Building.

Board members discussed the possibility that somebody in the community might have a second grand piano they would donate to the college.

All board members were present except James Barr, who was out of town. They included Harold Davis, Jimmy Taylor, K. H. McGibbon, Dr. Warren, Dr. Malone and McKinney.

Dr. Hays was present along with Dean Ben Johnson, Dr. Larry Key, Mrs. Johnnie Lou Avery and Bruner.

'Straight' man enters prison for making false statement

By JOHN EDWARDS

A 55-year-old Big Spring ex-convict who apparently had gone "straight" for the last nine years has been sent to prison for making a false statement to buy a gun.

James Harris Crossnoe is being confined in the Federal Correctional Institute at La Tuna outside El Paso, Warden J. D. Riggsby said today.

U.S. District Judge Leo Brewster said in court at Abilene that the sentence was a lenient one. The maximum punishment is five years in prison and a fine.

Crossnoe changed his plea from innocent to guilty. The defendant admitted lying that he had never been imprisoned for more than a yea when he purchased a .22-caliber rifle from a Big Spring pawn shop.

Crossnoe said he is in the habit of misrepresenting facts on applications asking if he has been convicted, because, if he is truthful in applying for a job, he probably wouldn't get it.

"I don't read statements of that nature ordinarily," he told the court. "I just put 'no' if it says ex-convict."

Crossnoe said he got the rifle for his estranged wife who wanted it for protection.

The ex-convict said he did not realize making the false statement was a federal crime.

Local attorney, Richard Milstead, asked for a lenient sentence since client's past crimes, most of them burglaries, didn't involve violence. There was "no hint" that the gun had been used for any illegal purpose, Milstead told Judge Brewster.

Crossnoe has been employed about two years at the Big Spring State Hospital where he was a therapist-technician in the adolescent treatment program.

His employer, Charles Condray, a former highway patrolman, testified he trusted Crossnoe completely. The program director said Crossnoe "had some knack and was drawing some patients out of their shell.

Originally hired as a maintenance man, Crossnoe was promoted, Condray said.

Robert Earl Ethington, another Big Spring ex-convict, is charged with making false statements to buy a gun Aug. 31 and Sept. 3. This indictment, which was returned Jan. 8, is pending.

Start bond forfeiture proceedings

District Judge Ralph W. Caton Tuesday started bond forfeiture proceedings in connection with two pending second-offense driving-while-intoxicated cases.

L. R. Baxter and Ike Isaacs are the sureties on a $1,000 bond posted for a 56-year-old local man. But the defendant is expected to plead guilty today, making bond forfeiture unnecessary.

James Percy Rhone, 49, Snyder, is the second defendant. T. C. Goss was his surety on a $1,000 bond.

Will plant Liberty Tree on campus

A Liberty Tree will be planted on the campus of Howard College Friday at 10 a.m. This tree planting, in conjunction with the American Bicentennial, will take place on the south side of the gymnasium and will fit into the plans of the master landscape plan recently approved by the Board of Trustees.

The Texas Forest Service and the Texas Forestry Association will provide this symbolic "Liberty Tree' to the bicentennial committee which has been given, in turn, to the garden club to plant at an appropriate place. The Garden Club Council chose the campus of Howard College since Howard College belongs to all the people of the county and each county is given only one Liberty Tree to be planted on public grounds.

The Liberty Trees, as a state-wide bicentennial project of the Texas Forest Service and the Texas Forestry Association, will serve as a reminder to Texans of the rallying places under which the early patriots met to discuss events that were to effect their lives and ultimately give birth to these United States of America.

The Liberty Trees are, appropriately, pecan trees (the state of Texas tree) and will be the Tejas variety — the Indian word for "friendly" and for Texas. In addition to the Tejas pecan trees, the county bicentennial committee received a packet of information on how to care for the tree and how to make it.

Three to pick grand jurors

District Judge Ralph W. Caton said he has named three citizens to pick prospective grand jurors for a session starting Tuesday.

The three-member grand jury commission will meet at 2 p.m. today.

About 35 cases, plus three for murder, will be presented to the grand jury, said Guy Talbot, special investigator for the district attorney.

Texas rigs making holes

The number of producing rotary oil rigs in Texas rose by two this week, from 623 on Feb. 9 to 625 as of Feb. 16. The number has dropped off from that of a month ago, 683, but is up from a total of 606 for this time last year.

The national figures continue to drop.

Trans Regional Airlines files flights application

The Texas Aeronautics Commission, Austin, has received an application from Trans Regional Airlines of Big Spring to provide air service to eight West Texas cities.

Austin, Brownwood, Abilene, Wichita Falls, Midland-Odessa, Houston's Hobby Airport, Lubbock and the Dallas-Fort Worth Air Terminal would be the points touched by Trans Regional on a twice-daily basis, if the application is approved.

A hearing on the application has been set for March 15 in Austin. Trans Regional representatives will appear before Examiner John G. Soule, 10 a.m. in Room 118 of the Stephen F. Austin Building, 1700 N. Congress.

Those desiring to appear as a party must file a petition to intervene or a notice of protest with the TAC Administrator on, or before March 8. A copy of the filing must also be presented to Trans Regional.

Anyone wishing to appear as an interested person must also file a notice of intent with the Administrator on or before March 8.

The deadline for filing a motion to consolidate the hearing of this application with that of any other is March 9.

All communications to applicant in regard to the hearing should be sent to C. G. Whitten, Attorney at Law, P.O. Box 208, Abilene, 79604.

Chaparral Airlines of Abilene is bidding for approval of routes serving many of the same communities. The firm's application will be reviewed by the TAC next Tuesday in Austin.

Chaparral would not touch down at Big Spring, however, under its present planning.

The Howard County commissioners court and the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce have already filed letters of protest with the TAC about Chaparrel's application.

Family sex crimes figure seeks bond reduction

Justice of the Peace Bob West today said he had filed a motion for bond reduction for Maj. Harold Roy Freeman, the man charged with family sex crimes.

But West said he had not ruled on the motion nor set a hearing time for Freeman's attorney.

Freeman, 38, RFD 1 Box 269, is charged with two counts of incest and one of sexual abuse.

In his motion for bond reduction, George E. Gilkerson, a Lubbock attorney, wrote: " 'Bail' is to be used only as security that the accused will appear and answer the accusation against him."

Gilkerson called three bonds for $50,000 each excessive.

"Such excessiveness amounts to the infliction of cruel and unusual punishment contrary to the Eighth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution and (an article of) the Texas Constitution," the attorney continued.

"The bail in this case is being used as a tool of oppression," he claimed.

The Lubbock attorney sought bond reduction to $5,000 or less "so that he (Freeman) may return to duty, take care of his financial obligations and enjoy the presumption of innocence."

Freeman, arrested Jan. 22 at Webb AFB has remained in county jail since then.

Freeman's wife was arrested and released on $25,000 bond the same day. She is also charged with incest.

LAMESA — Lamesa school trustees have approved a title change for one administrator and extended the contracts of several others.

Fred Weaver, formerly personnel manager, will function in his same duties under the title of assistant superintendent. The change calls for no pay increase.

Two-year contracts and salaries were approved for the following administrators: Weaver, $20,500; O. W. Follis, athletic director, $18,042; David Bond, football coach, $15,370; Charles Keese, high school principal, $19,736;

Other contracts were approved for Charles Varner, director of maintenance and transportation, and Luis Rodriguez, ESAA coordinator.

The board also okayed the purchase of three new 60-passenger buses at a cost of $13,000 each. The new buses will eliminate at least one city route.

Harte-Hanks buys Arkansas papers

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Harte-Hanks Newspapers Inc., a San Antonio-based newspaper group, has reached an agreement to acquire one daily newspaper and six weekly publications in Arkansas.

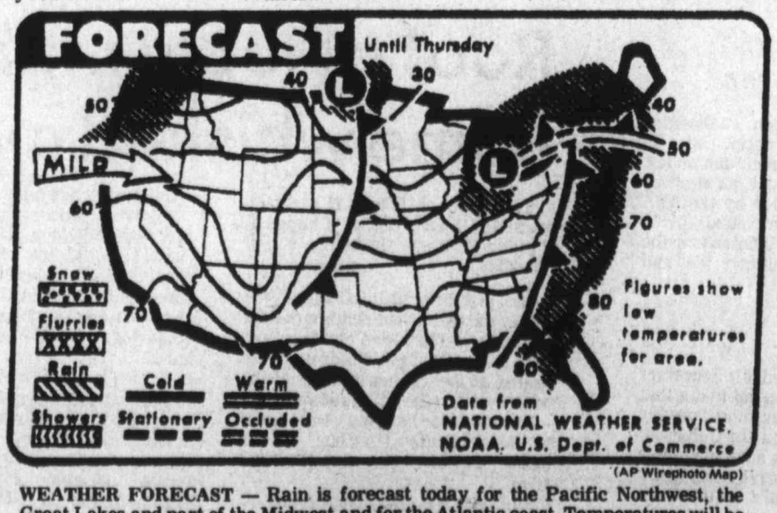

Announcement of the agreement was made Tuesday by Robert G. Marbut, president and chief executive officer of Harte-Hanks, and John Guion and Robert H. Breeden, principal stockholders in the Arkansas publications.

"We are pleased to have the opportunity to serve these exciting markets in the Arkansas River Valley," Marbut said. "These are the kind of newspaper communities we know best; they constitute the mainstream of our operations."

Included in the sale is the Daily Courier-Democrat of Russellville with a circulation of 9,600.

Five of the weekly publications are paid circulation newspapers: the Paris Express and the Paris Progress, the Greenwood Democrat, the Weekly Courier-Democrat of Russellville and the Charleston Express.

Also included is a nonpaid weekly publication, the Advertiser, serving the Russellville area.

Selling 'do it yourself' bumper sticker kits here

The Future Teachers of America are selling "do it yourself" bumper sticker kits for $1.

The ones they demonstrate tell about the state FTA convention in Houston which they plan to attend.

A lot of students have put such slogans on them as "Willie Nelson, Next Governor of Texas."

Some junior student put, "We're the Angels, We're from Heaven, We're the Class of '77".

Others have put their Citizens Band radio handles on the stickers or simply Class of '76, '78 or whatever.

One happy student simply put "Smile" on his bumper sticker. A few advertise their individual businesses with a bumper sticker.

All of it goes for a good cause and while the teenagers are putting original bumper stickers on their vehicles, the FTA is pocketing funds for their trip.

Candidate for nine Oscars

'Cuckoo's Nest' tops nominations

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shirley McLaine, Warren Beatty, Keith Carradine and Michael Douglas were nominated for Oscars — but not for acting.

James Whitmore is one of five best-actor nominees for his role in "Give 'em Hell, Harry," in which he is the total cast.

"Jaws" was nominated as best picture of 1975 but won no mention for direction, acting or writing.

These were among the oddities in the 48th nominations for Motion Picture Academy awards, announced Tuesday at the brand-new home for Oscar. To no one's surprise, the big winner was "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest" with nine nominations. "Barry Lyndon" was second with seven, but none for acting.

It was just one of those offbeat years, strange more than surprising. Observers wondered how Whitmore, who portrayed Harry Truman on stage hundreds of times before putting his monologue on tape, could logically compete with these film performances:

Walter Matthau, "The Sunshine Boys"; Jack Nicholson, "Cuckoo's Nest"; Al Pacino, "Dog Day Afternoon"; Maximilian Schell, "The Man in the Glass Booth."

Did Louise Fletcher ("Cuckoo's Nest") and Ann-Margret ("Tommy") play supporting or starring roles?

They were nominated as best actress, along with Isabelle Adjani of "The Story of Adele H," Glenda Jackson, "Hedda," and Carol Kane, "Hester Street."

And if "Jaws" was one of the five best pictures, why didn't it score in the creative categories? The other nominees: "Cuckoo's Nest," "Dog Day Afternoon," "Barry Lyndon," "Nashville."

George Burns, who costarred with Matthau in "The Sunshine Boys," somehow appears in the supporting actor category, along with Brad Dourif, "Cuckoo's Nest"; Burgess Meredith, "The Day of the Locust"; Chris Sarandon, "Dog Day Afternoon"; Jack Warden, "Shampoo."

What about the nonacting actors who were nominated? Shirley MacLaine was named as producer of the documentary, "The Other Half of the Sky: A China Memoir"; her brother Warren Beatty, as coauthor of "Shampoo"; Keith Carradine as writer of the song, "I'm Easy" from "Nashville"; Michael Douglas as coproducer of "Cuckoo's Nest."

Why was Federico Fellini nominated for his direction of "Amarcord" when the film won the foreign-language Oscar last year? Because "Amarcord" wasn't released in Los Angeles theaters until 1975, thus qualifying in all categories. Foreign language nominees don't have to be shown locally.

Other directors nominated were Milos Forman, "Cuckoo's Nest"; Stanley Kubrick, "Barry Lyndon"; Sidney Lumet, "Dog Day Afternoon," and Robert Altman, "Nashville."

The nominees for best supporting actress were: Ronee Blakley and Lily Tomlin, "Nashville"; Lee Grant, "Shampoo"; Sylvia Miles, "Farewell, My Lovely," and Brenda Vaccaro, "Once Is Not Enough."

Reporters should have known that this was going to be an odd year. The nominations were announced in the Academy's splendid new Samuel Goldwyn theater, with banks of telephones to spread the news to the waiting world. None of the phones worked.

The winners will be announced in March 29 ceremonies at the Music Center.

Laredo plans Washington birthday party

LAREDO, Tex. (AP) — Residents of this Southwest Texas border city cannot tell a lie: they did not officially celebrate Monday as George Washington's birthday like everyone else did.

Laredo, and its sister city across the Rio Grande, Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, are going to celebrate Thursday, Friday, Saturday and, of course, Sunday, Washington's real birthdate.

There will be a youth parade followed by a night fireworks display along the Rio Grande Thursday.

Friday night there will be the Colonial Ball, sponsored by the Martha Washington Society. Saturday will be the big day with the traditional abrazo—the meeting of Mexican and American officials at the center of the International Bridge—and the parade through Laredo. Noche Mexicana, featuring a number of singing and dancing stars from Mexico will be Saturday night while a Mexican rodeo will be staged Sunday in Nuevo Laredo.

Something had to happen

It had to happen, the fraud and abuse reported in the programs launched and maintained by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

HEW has simply grown too big and too dictatorial in its methods for the country's good. A congressional committee has reported the loss of millions of dollars yearly.

Congress should have moved in to harness HEW years ago but has been content to let it get bigger and less responsible to the legislative bodies and to the tax payers. Because of an almost utter lack of policing methods, according to a government operations subcommittee, the total loss isn't known and may never be.

HEW, which operates on a $118 billion budget and has 129,000 full-time employes, is so complex, in fact, that for five months its officials could not even agree on how many programs it has, the report said.

"During this period," it said, "at least four different figures on the number of HEW programs were supplied to congressional committees, ranging from a low of 250 to as many as 320."

HEW finally agreed on a figure of 279, of which 72 were administered by other agencies.

Rep. L. H. Fountain. (D-N.C.), was chairman of the subcommittee doing the investigation.

The final report said HEW officials had made no attempt to evaluate the overall extent of the fraud problem. It said:

"The available statistics left no doubt that fraud and program abuse are causing enormous losses. HEW's tiny investigative unit is handling cases involving total fraud allegations amounting to $20 million.

"Suspected fraud cases reported in the Social Security and public assistance programs alone have totaled more than 40,000 per year. Some states had heavy concentrations of fraud and abuse cases while others with similar operations reported very few, a circumstance which strongly suggests that a great deal of fraud and abuse is not being detected and reported."

The report was sharply critical of HEW's fraud detection and investigation efforts. "Some major programs have no units with responsibility for combatting fraud and abuse, while other units exist mostly on paper," it said.

The report is symptomatic of a bureaucracy grown so big that it is inefficient, unresponsive, indifferent, wasteful, and conducive to fraud and abuse.

It is not enough to accept the fraud and abuse noted by the report as something inevitable that cannot be remedied.

Only Congress, through legislation, can correct this situation, and it should move with dispatch to do so.

Better approach needed

All indications are that Gov. Dolph Briscoe will undertake (with the help of the Legislature) strong anticrime measures in the ensuing months.

Atty. Gen. John Hill has already been petitioned to shape up an anticrime package. Hill said recently he thought Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and House Speaker Bill Clayton will join in the efforts to get the package through the Legislature when that body meets again next year.

Residents of the state have every reason to demand such action. The state's crime rate has been spiraling for a long time now, particularly in the larger cities.

The ease which "fences," those who buy stolen goods for resale, have operated in Texas over the years is astonishing. Laws against such shady businesses likely will be strengthened.

It has also been proposed that bail be denied to repeat offenders, particularly those who are prone to commit another felony when they are free.

Probably the most acute need is a speed-up of the judicial system, reducing the time that elapses between the arrest and trial of a suspect.

If society doesn't act to strengthen its crime-fighting systems now, the situation bids fair to get completely out of hand. A lot of responsible people realize that but they must overcome the lack of cooperation of others completely indifferent to the problem.

Nixon to China

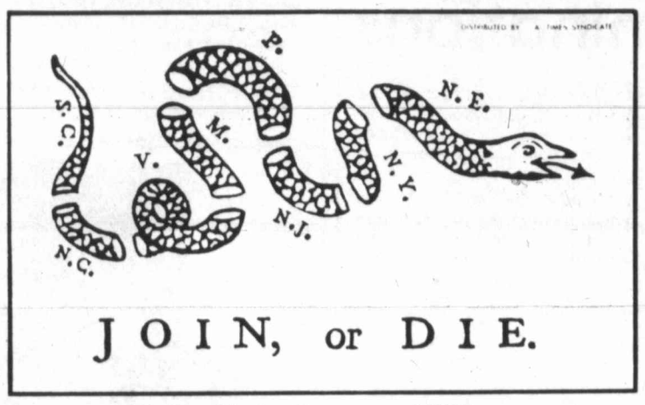

William F. Buckley, Jr.

Richard Nixon was the most feverish defender of executive prerogative in the recent history of the presidency. He vowed and he vowed again that he would not undermine the office of the presidency, giving that as the reason why he would not divulge his records to a Senate committee investigating charges leveled against him of impeachable gravity. He was forced by the courts to back down, but the arguments he made before the courts, and before the American people, survived the controversy, and history has not passed judgment on who was right on the theoretical point. The shaky authority Gerald Ford has in foreign policy is in fact directly attributable to the decomposition of the presidency under Richard Nixon. And now he is going back to China.

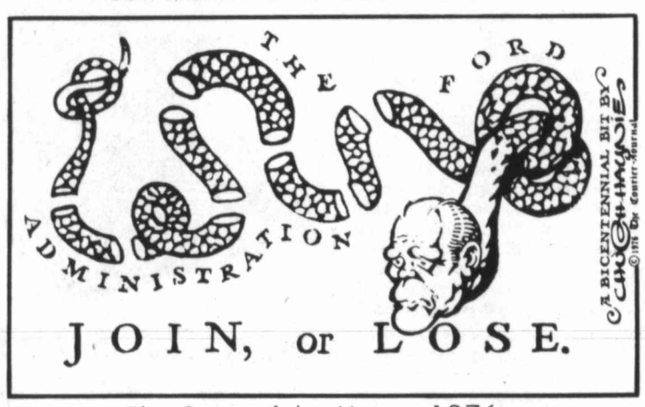

HIS TRIP is in no sense that of the private citizen. He is being received by the Chinese as something of a leader-in-opposition. The Chinese do not apparently know that Richard Nixon is not the leader of anything at all these days. He has less influence on the Republican Party than Howard Cosell. The Chinese clearly believe that they snookered Nixon, and they want to do more of it; and somehow they believe that having him back and giving him regal treatment is going to affect American politics. It may, but not in the way they think.

It has already been widely observed that Mr. Nixon's trip will correspond with the New Hampshire primary. Since, inevitably, Mr. Nixon will be in the news more conspicuously than at any time since he left office, the slightly rancid odor of illegitimacy is bound to affect adversely Mr. Ford's fortunes. Although I continue to believe he was wise and charitable in granting Nixon the pardon, mine is a minority point of view. And the spectacle of Nixon, wining and dining with the nabobs in the oriental palaces while Howard Hunt rots in jail and Mitchell and Erlichman and Haldeman live broken lives trying to pay their lawyers' fees, will aggravate sentiments of injustice which can only be exercised at the expense of Gerald Ford.

But that part of it aside, one finds Nixon's own explanation for the trip most baffling. Good relations with China are, he writes, "if anything, more important than four years ago." Let us suppose that to be true. It probably is, given the speed with which the Soviet military has surpassed us — thanks extensively to the policies of President Nixon. But if that is so, isn't it supremely the moment to get out of the way of the President of the United States, who is in charge of defining our relations with China? Or, if one disagrees with the policies of the President, to criticize those policies? Either openly in the press, or confidentially over the telephone? At least before he scheduled the present trip to China, Nixon had no problem in getting through to Ford on the phone.

Reagan boom

Rowland Evans

ANTRIM, N. H. — The potential disaster faced by President Ford in the Feb. 24 New Hampshire primary is affirmed by voters in this rockribbed Republican town, who are not truly anti-Ford but hope for Ronald Reagan as a political savior to regenerate the nation.

INTERVIEWS CONDUCTED in picturesque, 199-year-old Antrim at the foot of the White Mountains, with the help of Patrick Caddell's Cambridge Survey Research, showed a better than 3-to-2 edge for Reagan against the President. But this was not the usual lesser-of-two choice. Whereas Republican voters interviewed gave Mr. Ford a high 62 per cent approval rating, they gave an astronomically high 84 per cent approval of Reagan.

What these voters think they see in Reagan was typified by a 45-year-old commercial artist who professed to admire the President but is voting against him because "I think Reagan will bring in a breath of fresh air. At least, I hope so."

Antrim, whose population of 2,122 is largely lower-middle income of Yankee stock, was selected by Caddell as a statewide weathervane in recent Republican primary elections. If it should prove a good barometer again, Ford campaign operatives have totally failed in their New Hampshire efforts to paint Reagan as an incompetent. Indeed, for salvation the President may now need a self-inflicted Reagan wound of critical dimensions, or some spectacular break abroad.

Accompanied by Dotty Lynch, senior Caddell analyst, we interviewed 57 registered Republicans the second day after Mr. Ford's swing through New Hampshire, with these results: Reagan, 27; Ford, 16; undecided, 14.

CONTRARY TO widespread reports from New Hampshire about soft voting attitudes, Antrim Republicans were firm. Only three Ford voters and three Reagan voters seemed susceptible to change. Although undecided voters were unusually numerous, they do not seem a fertile field for exploitation. Most profess far less interest in the primary than decided voters, and many probably will not vote at all.

Thus, the Reagan edge here seems committed and hard, revealing a drastic shortfall in the anti-Reagan strategy. Reagan's $90 billion transfer plan was favored 4-to-1, getting approval from many Ford supporters. Despite Ford campaign efforts to paint Reagan as a high-tax governor, several voters mentioned his record there as reason for supporting him.

Climbing slippery incline

John Cunniff

NEW YORK (AP) — As measured by the numbers, this country's economy over the past decade has risen to the heights, plunged to the depths and is now climbing back up a slippery incline that has few footholds.

The numbers show retail sales are moving ahead, industrial production is rising, the job situation is improving, the stock market has recovered lost ground, inflation is tending lower and some interest rates are half what they were.

Sometimes we become hypnotized by these numbers, and tend to think they are a continuous measurement of the same economic body. But the numbers are mere abstractions, bare bones without the flesh of memory or emotion, unable to distinguish changes in the quality.

A look at the nonstatistical record will show that this past decade was perhaps even more violent than the numbers in regard to our business institutions, including retailers, airliners, railroads, banks, insurers.

Property and liability insurers have lost billions of dollars on underwritings over the past two years, perhaps more than $6 billion in all. Some have gone bankrupt, and others are looking for support or are retrenching.

The banking industry has lost billions more on bad loans, and the names of many banks are on various official problem lists. The list of failures, for years restricted to relatively small institutions, now includes giants.

The stock market took one of the deepest dives in its history, from 1052 points on the Dow Jones industrial average early in 1973 to 578 late in 1974, before beginning an unsteady climb to its current mid-900 level.

But these stock averages too are numbers that disguise the carnage, individual and institutional. This is a very different stock market today, even if the numbers suggest business as usual or, in fact, better than usual.

There are many thousands fewer brokers and hundreds fewer brokerage houses. While the volume sets records, there are fewer investors. Most of the trading is by funds and trusts and other institutions.

Moreover, the structure of the stock market is different. The big, individual exchanges have lost much of their individuality, their autonomy, their separate identities. We are attempting to evolve a central market place.

Needs must be established

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am very much interested in hearing your views on the use of estrogen for women over 50. Several of my friends use it daily and swear by it. They feel young and strong and healthy.

On the other hand I have questioned two doctors, both of whom discourage its use. One claimed that if a person were cancer-prone the estrogen would increase the chance of having it. The other frowns on the entire matter of the use of estrogen.

I would very much like to think I can safely use it, and feel as young and as good as my friends. I am 58. — I. M.

The female hormone (estrogen) is no panacea, nor can it provide eternal youth. The need for it should be positively identified before it is prescribed.

We are constantly being confronted with conflicting reports on side effects. Estrogen therapy is not recommended if the patient has a history of cancer or other disorders, as thrombophlebitis or liver disease. However, there are definite symptoms which call for its use, many of them menopausal. It is also helpful in women who show signs of changes of genital or bone structures in advanced years.

The point is that use of estrogen — any drug, for that matter — can still be desirable to combat an immediate medical problem in the face of potential risks. Doctors often are called upon to decide when such risks are "acceptable." Again, it is a decision to be faced with many other drugs.

Your doctors are being conservative. Why use medications whose use is not indicated, or which could perhaps produce side effects (no matter how harmless)? If you have sailed through menopause without serious or debilitating symptoms, there is obviously no reason for such therapy.

If, on the other hand, you have some of the unpleasant effects of menopause, there is no reason to avoid taking estrogen unless your history precludes its use. However, it should be in amounts carefully measured to alleviate the symptoms. Some women take estrogen cyclically or periodically as needed.

It seems foolish to "shop around" for a doctor who will prescribe something you may not need. If your friends feel better with estrogen therapy, they may well have needed it to begin with. If not they are wasting their money.

It will only make you feel "younger" by alleviating problems that are making you feel "older."

Dr. Thosteson welcomes reader mail but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

New philosophy

Around the rim

James Werrell

Last weekend my wife and I took a trip to Lubbock with friends for a day on the town. Between trips to the movies, a saloon, and a couple of great restaurants, our motley crew took a walk around the Tech Campus.

WE (AN ENGINEER, a teacher, a research assistant for a bank, a sales representative for a pipe and steel company, and two Herald employes) all managed to make it across campus without betraying our membership in the establishment. Blue jeans and smelly tennis shoes helped get us through.

It then occurred to me, though, that we could all have been wearing three piece suits and carrying brief cases and no one would have batted an eye. The establishment is no longer the dirty word it once was and college kids across the country are flocking to join it.

No one, of course, misses the bomb throwers or empty rhetoric of the late '60s and early '70s. But I, for one, miss the passion, the people who got "involved", the radical experimentors, and, in fact, the people and attitudes that changed the course of this country.

I read with dismay an article entitled "Silence On Campus" in this month's Harper's magazine. It was written by Joseph N. Bell, a professor at the University of California.

He wrote despairingly of the new apathy on campus. "The passive students today alarm me far more than the activists of a few years ago ever did," he said.

He blames this passivity on two things: "public hostility toward the universities during the hyperactivist years, and private disenchantment — not always rational — among young people over their inability to dent the system."

The "if you can't lick them, join them" philosophy pervades. Fraternities are stronger than ever. Figures show that college students don't vote. Enrollment in liberal arts courses is dwindling.

Bell writes of a course called "professional and pre-professional training", billed as a course for "A new breed of student who is thinking more about jobs, money, and the future." This course is oversubscribed.

Are these students running scared? Where do they find time to breathe in the headlong rush for security-obscurity!

EVIDENCE POINTS to the fact that today's students have lost much of the desire or will to try to shape the society we and they live in.

Most students have come to the realization that they will have to work for a living. But there no longer seems to be a need to find relevance (a '60s word) in what one does eight hours a day, five days a week.

This is a step backward. It writes off a whole decade or more of frustration and hard-learned lessons as an exercise in futility. Today's students run the risk of selling out at bargain basement prices.

To be fair — to apply the lessons learned of tolerance, rationality and patience — it is too early to judge. There may be reason in apathetic madness.

Professor Bell's own children pointed out to him that demonstrations stopped almost immediately after the military draft was suspended. Activists of the 60s were often not as selfless as they claimed or thought themselves.

But we are still living in the aftershock of the 60s and its effect hasn't been completely tabulated yet.

The answers to many of the questions asked then still lie unanswered. It would be almost too painful to bear, to have to re-walk the paths taken in those years, with generations yet unborn.

Smugglers helped

Jack Anderson, Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — The State Department is so entangled in red tape that it has hampered the effort to stop drug smuggling.

For years, prodigious amounts of heroin, cocaine and marijuana have poured into the United States from Asia, Latin America and the Middle East. Each year, more than a billion dollars worth of "brown" heroin is smuggled across the border from Mexico alone.

TO STEM THE tide, the U.S. has spent millions of dollars and assigned thousands of people. Yet project after project has been caught in the bureaucratic tangle at Foggy Bottom. Here are just a few examples:

—At one time, a United Nations team persuaded reluctant Thailand officials to allow an aerial survey of their poppy fields. The State Department, incredibly, turned the idea down. Rep. Lester Wolff, D-N.Y., one of the leading narcotics experts in Congress, pressured the bureaucrats to change their minds. But by this time, the Thais had changed theirs. The matter is still being negotiated.

—Under the code name "Operation Cocina," Colombia last June began cracking down on cocaine traffickers. The Colombians asked the U.S. for some special communications equipment. Two U.S. narcotics officials, whose sole responsibility was to aduit such requests, decided they wanted a "feasibility study." Special personnel from Washington were flown down to conduct the study, which dragged on for more than a month. Two months later, the bureaucrats solemnly reached a decision: the Colombians needed equipment but not the kind they had requested. Operation Cocina will end shortly, but the right equipment only recently arrived.

—After much haggling, the government of Mexico agreed to eradicate 20,000 poppy fields. At the time, the Mexicans used sticks to beat the heads off poppy plants. But they agreed that herbicides would be more effective. Thereupon, the State Department delivered a primitive system employing buckets to pour herbicides out of helicopters. Of course, the Mexicans really needed more sophisticated spray equipment, which was finally provided after Congressman Wolff intervened.

—The Mexican government has also agreed to conduct an aerial survey of their country to locate poppy fields. Using prop-driven aircraft provided by the U.S., the Mexicans can survey only 60 square miles a day. With a small jet, they could survey 600 square miles daily. Yet the Srate Department refused to provide a jet, and suggested instead the Mexicans lease one.

My answer

Billy Graham

DEAR DR. GRAHAM: Recently our newspaper has been advertising public lectures on a program of meditation which is supposed to be helpful to people under stress. I understand it originated in India, but some of my friends have found it helpful. What do you think of this? — Mrs. H. K.

DEAR MRS. K.: Yes, the sudden popularity of these movements has certainly been amazing. I think the rapid growth of such programs indicates that many people today are restless and seeking peace. There is a spiritual vacuum in the lives of many, and they grasp at anything that promises peace.

Although it is often denied by its advocates, the type of program you mention has strong roots in non-Christian philosophy and religion, and is basically an Eastern mystical religion. Such programs may bring a temporary sense of tranquility. However, such a state of apparent peace may in fact be very deceptive, for it can keep us from facing the real issues of life.

Man's lack of peace is only a symptom of a much deeper problem. The Bible tells us man's deepest problem is sin, and his deepest need is forgiveness and reconciliation to God. The only answer to sin and death is Jesus Christ, who reconciled us "unto God in one obdy by the cross, having slain the enmity thereby: And came and preached peace to you which were afar off" (Eph. 2:16, 17).

True peace does not come through a self-induced state of mind. Peace can only come, in a complete sense, when we know "we have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ" (Romans 5:1).

Jesus promised his disciples, "Peace I leave with you, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid" (John 14:27).

A devotion for today

"In the day of my trouble I call on thee, for thou dost answer me." (Psalm 86:7, RSV)

PRAYER: Dear Lord, in these busy days when we can sometimes get no further than the boss's secretary, thank You for providing a direct, toll-free line to the greatest power in the universe. Amen.

Slaton nips Bulldogettes

SNYDER — The Slaton Tigers hit 8 for 8 from the free throw line in the fourth quarter Tuesday night to lead them to a 34-33 victory over the Coahoma Bulldogettes in bi-district play.

Coahoma was leading 31-28 with less than two minutes to go, but three turnovers and the Tigers' perfect eye at the free throw line cost the Bulldogettes the game.

Slaton hit six free throws to put them ahead 34-31. Coahoma's Becky Snell, leading scorer of the night with 17 points, hit to make it 34-33 with eight seconds left. The Bulldogettes couldn't get the ball back and the game was over.

Slaton's Sandra Marcer did the most damage at the line hitting for six of her 10 points there. Debra Montgomery also had 10 points for the winners. Tersa Wright had the other two free throws and finished with eight points.

Slaton has now beaten Coahoma in postseason play three years straight by a total of four points. The Tigers won by one point in regional play two years ago when they won the state championship, and by two points last year in a bi-district game.

Coahoma finished the year 24-5. The Bulldogettes averaged 52.4 points a game to 35.4 by their opponents.

Slaton raised its record to 25-8. The Tigers play Phillips Saturday 11:30 in the Tech gym in Lubbock.

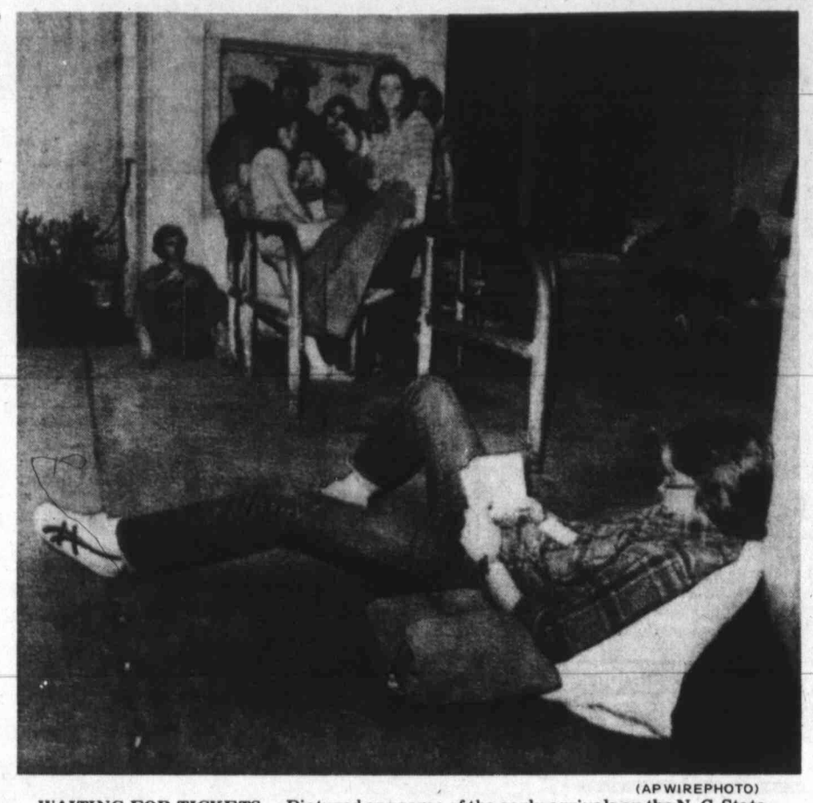

Nine of the 14 Bulldogettes were appearing in their last game. Coahoma should be strong against next year. Head Coach Sonny Barnes and his assistant Norman Roberts will have players coming up from the JV and freshman teams both of which had impressive records.

The JV's were 13-2 and averaged 51.8 ppg to opponents 31.8. Coahoma's frosh lost only one game, 10-1, and averaged 52.9 ppg to 23.1 by the opponents.

Overall the three teams had a combined record of 47-8.

Late heroics by Moore

BS edges Odessa

ODESSA — The Big Spring Steers combined a big first half with a strong fourth quarter Tuesday night to win a close one over the Odessa Bronchos 67-65.

The Steers got balanced scoring from Jim Ray with 17 points and James Zapp and Rob Aldridge with 16 apiece, but they couldnt' have won without the four pressure points Mark Moore put through.

Moore got his four points in the final minute of play. With Odessa leading 65-63 he hit a layup and was fouled in the process. He then sank the winning point.

While the Bronchos were struggling for a last shot they fouled Moore again, and he made the last point of the game.

The win brought the Steers record to 14-17 overall and 2-4 in the second half 5-4A race. Odessa fell to 4-28 and 0-6.

Big Spring plays its final game of the season at home Friday night 8:00 against San Angelo.

Crum psyches team

Cards streak to 11th

LOUISVILLE (AP) — The Louisville Cardinals celebrated their return to the Top 20 by pulling the same shenanigans that last month cost them a spot among the nation's college basketball elite.

The 19th-ranked Cardinals, just short of miserable in the first half, needed some halftime psychology by Coach Denny Crum, a couple of lucky bounces and an overtime to down 16-time loser Tulsa 98-90 Tuesday night.

In the end, Louisville won its 11th straight game and boosted its record to 18-4 because 6-11 center Ricky Gallon took Crum's hint to heart. Limited to two layups and no rebounds in the first half, Gallon exploded for 21 points and six rebounds in the second half.

"Coach was waiting for us (in the locker room)," said Gallon of the halftime showdown. "All he said was, 'I'm through with it,' and then walked out of the locker room and shut the door.

"That had a great effect on me," added Gallon with a sheepish grin.

With an inspired Gallon taking control underneath, Louisville moved from a 40-31 halftime deficit into a 62-62 tie with 9:09 left in regulation. The Cards led by as many as four points down the stretch, but Tulsa fought back on the scoring of Dan O'Leary, who finished with 19 points.

The Golden Hurricanes had a chance to win the game in the final seconds, but Tom Vincent had two of three free throws bounce out before canning the one that tied matters 86-86 at the end of regulation.

Louisville got its act together in the extra period. Gallon hit a layup, Rick Wilson scored on a rebound and a steal and reserve Danny Brown hit a pair of free throws for a safe 94-86 lead with 1:54 left.

Was Louisville perhaps looking ahead to Saturday's nationally televised showdown here with second-ranked Marquette?

"We emphasized over and over again not to look ahead," said Crum. But Gallon had the Warriors on his mind just minutes after Tulsa had been dispatched.

Hayes won't quit

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Surviving criticism by sports writers, fans and even Ohio State University's president, the legendary Woody Hayes shows no signs of calling it quits as the Buckeyes' football coach.

Before Hayes took over the helm, Ohio State, which had had six coaches in 11 seasons, was known as a graveyard for college coaches. The dean of the Big Ten coaches has held the post for a quarter of a century.

Ohio State's 23-10 loss to UCLA in the Rose Bowl was Hayes' fourth defeat in his last five outings in the New Year's Day spectacular, but he is following it up with one of his greatest recruiting campaigns.

Hayes drew the ire of sports writers and others this January when he skipped a news conference after the Bruins' upset in the Pasadena classic. The Ohio State student newspaper called on the university to sack him.

The 25-veteran's behavior irked Ohio State President Harold Enarson. "Whether it's a coach or anyone else from the university, when he's representing the university, it's essential to have some sensitivity to public opinion and press relations," the administrator said.

Enarson said he had lunch with a major donor to the university, who said, "There seems to be growing concern about Hayes' behavior."

Hayes created another storm when he dismissed star defensive tackle Nick Buonamici from the squad without first telling the junior.

Hayes has been silent throughout. "You know I haven't been talking to the press," he told a banquet last week.

"What else would he do?" asked one. "Football is his life. He'll die on the 50-yard line with a whistle around his neck."

Judge adjourns Seattle suit

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — The final obstacle to reinstatement of American League play in Seattle was washed away Tuesday when a Superior Court judge adjourned the baseball trial.

Judge Frank Howard told the nine-woman, three-man jury that they were permanently dismissed although the $32.5 million lawsuit remains alive, on paper, until April 1977.

The suit was suspended with the understanding that it would be dismissed if the paper expansion team actually began play in April 1977.

Nine of the jurors said afterwards that they were leaning towards the side of Seattle, the state and King County. Almost all agreed that they wanted to carry the trial to the end and "see who won."

Clyde Parker, a gray-haired loan collector for a bank, said the trial "was a waste of taxpayers' money," but he agreed with the other jurors that he had wanted the trial to continue "because it's like stopping in the middle of the ballgame."

Vols vs. AP wire

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — University of Tennessee officials are defending the ejection of two Lexington, Ky., Herald-Leader photographers at the Feb. 7 Kentucky-Tennessee basketball game here.

Don Mills, editor of the newspaper, had written Tennessee President Edward J. Boling demanding an apology for the ouster of photographers Frank Anderson and E. Martin Jessee.

The two photographers had walked onto the playing floor during the first half of the game following an exchange of blows between Kentucky's Truman Clayton and Tennessee's Johnny Darden.

UT-Knoxville Chancellor Jack E. Reese said security officers asked the photographers twice to leave the floor.

On the third occasion, they were ejected from the fieldhouse after pushing a security officer, Reese said.

Mills had charged that the photographers were shoved and mishandled by policemen and did not fight back. The Associated Press Sports Editors Association in Boston also had protested the photographers' ejection.

Braves blitz Blazers

By The Associated Press

The Portland Trail Blazers are not only last in the National Basketball Association's Pacific Division — but also last in the minds of the referees.

At least Lenny Wilkens thinks so.

"I think the officials did their jobs tonight," said the Portland coach after a 116-113 loss to the Buffalo Braves, "but the calls seem to go the other way when you're a last-place team."

Wilkens had two specific calls in mind. Both times, Buffalo's Bob McAdoo drove for a basket in the closing minutes and both times, the Trail Blazers were called for defensive fouls. The NBA's leading scorer took advantage of the situation and cashed in four free throws to help turn the game around.

"McAdoo was able to do what he wanted," Wilkens said. "He's a great player and he doesn't need any advantages. The calls were questionable. I thought on one of them my man was standing in there all the time. Is he supposed to disappear? He turned and hit Lloyd Neal's shoulder. That was obvious. But what can you do? You can't make a federal case about it."

The Braves were losing by 108-102 with less than three minutes to go but later closed it to 108-107 with 1:53 left with the help of McAdoo's four foul shots. Big Mac later hit a baseline jumper and a free throw to give him 42 points for the night and help the Braves pull away.

Elsewhere in the NBA, it was Chicago 114, Phoenix 111; Kansas City 125, Philadelphia 107; Los Angeles 115, New Orleans 101; Washington 113, Milwaukee 112; Golden State 104, New York 96 and Cleveland 112, Atlanta 92.

Bulls 114, Suns 111

Jack Marin, hitting a season-high 34 points, connected for eight in the final 1:21 of overtime to lead Chicago over Phoenix.

"I'm finally getting into the flow of the offense," says Marin, who was traded to Chicago earlier this season from Buffalo.

Kings 125, 76ers 107

Nate Archibald scored a game-high 33 points, enabling Kansas City to snap a five-game losing streak by beating Philadelphia.

Lakers 115, Jazz 101

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar and Gail Goodrich scored 28 points apiece to lead Los Angeles over New Orleans.

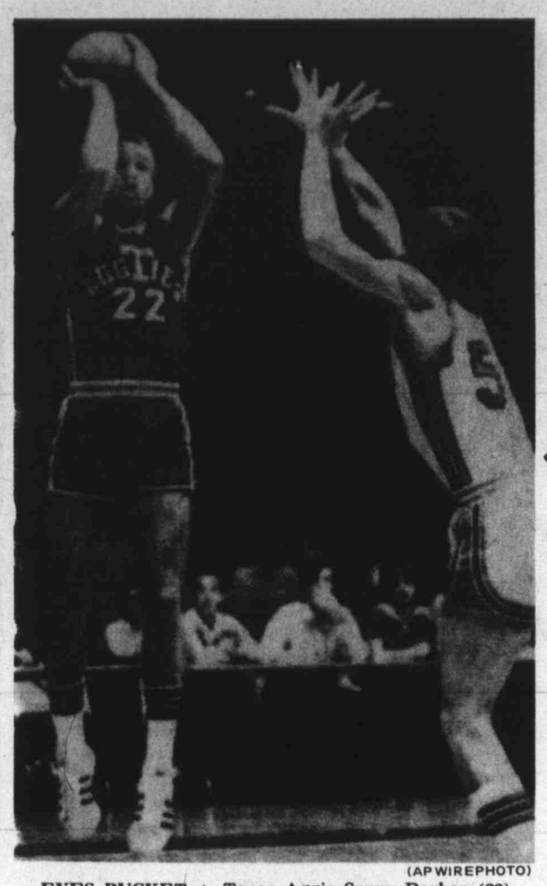

Bullets 113, Bucks 112

Phil Chenier poured in a season-high 42 points as Washington, 11 points down late in the third quarter, rallied to nip Milwaukee.

Goodyear on trial, racer's heirs sue

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Heirs to race driver Mark Donohue, who was fatally injured while practicing for the 1975 Austrian Grand Prix, are suing Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. and Bell Helmets Inc. for $20 million.

The suit, entered in Providence Superior Court on behalf of Donohue's widow and two children, claims there were serious defects in the tires and safety helmet Donohue was using when injured.

In addition to Goodyear and Bell, the lawsuit names the Penske Corp., which owned the race car, as a co-defendant.

Donohue died from a blood clot in his brain two days after his Formula I racer hurtled off the track Aug. 17 while on a practice run prior to the Austrian Grand Prix in Graz, Austria.

He was quoted in news reports following the crash as telling crew members that the left front tire blew out while the car was traveling about 160 miles per hour through a turn.

The suit states that Donohue, a graduate of Brown University here, received a severe blow on the side of his helmet when the car crashed through four rows of fences.

"The damages were based on his earning potential," said attorney Leonard Decof on Tuesday. "Mark Donohue had a very high income. Not only was he a front-line racing driver who was also an engineer, but he had lots of contracts in the automotive area."

Decof said he filed suit at the request of David Lawton of Lincoln, R.I., executor of Donohue's estate, on behalf of Carmen Eden Donohue, the driver's widow, and the couple's two sons.

He said the action was filed in a Rhode Island court Monday because Lawton is a resident of this state and because both Goodyear and Bell do business here.

The suit charges that the Goodyear tires used by Donohue failed to withstand "reasonably foreseeable stress and strain conditions while racing at high speeds."

Goodyear is also accused of failing to properly test, examine and inspect the tires as well as warn Donohue of possible shortcomings. The suit said this failure resulted in Donohue's death.

It further alleges that Donohue's helmet "failed to adequately and properly protect and guard" him from serious injury.

The suit alleges that Roger Penske, owner of Penske Corp., failed to provide proper parts for the car Donahue was driving.

Doctor gave drugs legally, US agent

SAN DIEGO (AP) — A high-ranking California narcotics agent says his office won't go after a University of California psychiatrist for supplying drugs to members of the San Diego Chargers.

Joseph House, supervising special agent of the state Bureau of Narcotics, said Tuesday that Dr. Arnold Mandell apparently acted legally in giving Chargers players drugs while he was the club's unofficial psychiatrist during the 1973 season.

Mandell, who heads the psychiatry department at the University of California-San Diego, has a medical degree from Tulane University in New Orleans.

As a medical doctor then, Mandell was qualified to administer drugs if he saw fit, House said.

Charger owner Eugene Klein said Mandell "dispensed" 1,700 amphetamine pills to his players in 1973, with 400 going to one unnamed player alone.

Klein also said he had witnesses who saw Mandell handing out pills despite orders not to.

But House said his office will not reopen the Chargers drug investigations of 1973 unless Klein can come up with evidence of wrongdoing.

Said House: "Anybody can make allegations. It would take a team of medical doctors to approve or disapprove of the dispensing of those 400 pills, whatever they are."

Klein made his claims during a news conference Monday, ostensibly called to announce the appointment of former Los Angeles Ram scout Johnny Sanders as the Chargers' new general manager.

Sanders replaces Harland Svare, who was fired by Klein last month. Svare was the Chargers coach in 1973 when Mandell was a guest of the club.

Klein said he fired Svare because of a book written by Mandell about the Chargers.

The yet unpublished book, entitled "The Nightmare Season," details Chargers problems on and off the field.

It is said to describe Klein as a manipulative tyrant and Svare as his weak and willing tool.

A major drug scandal broke out after the 1973 season and the National Football League fined Klein, Svare and eight Charger players a total of $40,000. Mandell also was ordered to stay away from the team.

Svare has threatened a libel suit against Mandell, saying his coaching career has been ruined by Mandell's book.

Mandell released a statement Tuesday saying that he would not talk to reporters until after the book is published.

Rice snaps string

Leaders win with subs

By The Associated Press

Texas A&M and Texas Tech demonstrated Tuesday night they can win without key players, and Rice proved it can win, period.

The Aggies, leaders in the Southwest Conference race most of the year, held that status with a 94-80 road victory over Houston despite the sudden loss this week of Karl Godine and Jarvis Williams.

The two freshman starters were declared ineligible Monday by the Southwest Conference for undisclosed violations believed to be involved with recruiting.

"I feel justice will be done," said A&M Coach Shelby Metcalf. "I base my opinion on the knowledge of these young men. They've always gone to class and they've never told me anything that wasn't on the up and up."

Texas Tech, which played two games without its starting forwards while they were ill and is still without starter Grady Newton because of an injured knee, stayed close to the Aggies with an 87-76 victory over Baylor. A&M is 11-2 and Tech 11-3.

But the one game in the loss column is bigger than it appears because A&M has beaten the Red Raiders twice and therefore can afford to lose one of its remaining three games and still claim a berth in the finals of the SWC tournament March 6.

Meanwhile, Rice broke its 18-game losing streak and won its first SWC contest in 14 starts by surprising Texas Christian 93-78.

A&M's star seniors, Barry Davis and Sonny Parker, became involved in a scuffle with a fan in the second half after Parker chased a ball out of bounds underneath the A&M basket.

"There was a lot of tension building up in this game," said Parker. "When I went for the ball, I reached out for it and the fan threw it away from me. I was so keyed up and it just took a little spark. I just reacted."

Parker said the loss of Godine and Williams "was an advantage to us in a way. We had to prove that we could win even without them."

Tech, which got 24 points from Mike Russell and 21 from Rick Bullock, trailed Baylor 37-33 at halftime but a 36-18 streak in the second half sparked the Red Raiders to victory.

"We were just a little sluggish in the first half," said Tech Coach Gerald Myers. "I don't think we were thinking about the A&M situation, just the loss (Saturday) to A&M. That took a little out of us."

Elbert Darden and Pete Meyers combined for 44 points to help Rice win only its third game in 24 starts.

"I'm pleased Rice broke the string but I just wish it hadn't been against us," said TCU Coach Johnny Swaim. "We were just flat-footed. We missed a ton of close shots."

Arkansas has a good chance tonight to solidify its hold on fourth place with a home game against Texas following the losses by Baylor and Houston.

The second through fifth place teams get home berths in the first round of the SWC tournament Feb. 28.

A&M's next game is Thursday night against TCU at College Station.

Suspended Aggies sue SWC and A&M

DALLAS (AP) — An effort to get two suspended Texas A&M basketball players back in uniform by Thursday night was being resumed today after a similar try fell failed Tuesday.

Lawyers filed a motion for a temporary restraining order that would block the suspensions of Karl Godine and Jarvis Williams by the Southwest Conference, and a hearing was set up for Tuesday.

But the hearing in federal court here was postponed because the players' counsel of record, Hugh Smith, was not present, a spokesman for U.S. District Court Judge Patrick Higginbotham said. The spokesman said it also was not determined whether the case would be heard by U.S. District Court Judge Robert Porter or Higginbotham.

Smith said, "I will try to get on (the docket) Wednesday. They ran us around to two courts today (Tuesday)."

Meanwhile, the first place Aggies beat Houston 94-80 Tuesday night without the services of the two freshmen starters.

Smith said the ruling suspending the players was based on "hearsay and erroneous evidence — no one has even advised us of the charges against them. The Southwest Conference has not informed me of the charges against them and has refused to divulge any charges."

Godine and Williams took lie detector tests Friday and they were ruled ineligible Monday to play the remainder of the season.

Smith said independent investigators have probed reports that the two players each received new cars plus bonuses and jobs with unusually high salaries, and their mothers received new washing machines and dryers.

Wesley Boyd, coach at Houston's Francis Scott Key Jr. High School, denied reports that cars allegedly provided Godine and Williams were registered in his name.

The Houston Chronicle quoted Smith as saying the two cars allegedly registered to Boyd comprised one point of the SWC investigation.

Boyd said he has a 1975 Thunderbird registered to a funeral home he owns, and has a 1975 Oldsmobile registered in his own name.

Both A&M and the SWC were named in the suit by the players. Smith said they are asking $10,000 from both Texas A&M and the conference, but added, "We don't care about the money damages if they will be allowed to play right now. The $10,000 is the minimum allowed in federal court."

He said A&M has denied the players due process "whether it wants them to be guilty or not."

Tornado kills two in Arkansas

HAMBURG, Ark. (AP) — A tornado whipping through three small South Arkansas communities Tuesday night killed two persons and injured at least 15, state police said.

They identified the dead as Eddie Anderson, 13, of near Wilmot and a 37-year-old woman from near Parkdale. The woman's name was withheld pending notification of relatives.

John Giles, director of emergency services in Ashley County, said reports indicated the tornado first touched down about 8:20 p.m. at Montrose and then moved east of Parkdale and east of Wilmot near the Arkansas-Louisiana border.

Mayor Bill Place of the 1,202-member Wilmot community said three houses and the Union Baptist Church, all on Arkansas 52, were demolished.

"Three or four other persons were trapped in the house where the boy (Anderson) died," the mayor said. "They had to be dug out. The house was destroyed."

Place said he observed the damage along Arkansas 52, noting that "big tree roots were twisted out of the ground.... Concrete slabs from the homes were thrown about."

He praised the town's two Vietnamese doctors who manned the Wilmot Clinic during the aftermath.

"They began work immediately," he said. "They certainly proved their worth."

Trooper Jerry Reinold, state police information officer, said several house trailers and power lines were down at Lake Village in Chicot County in an area near the intersection of Arkansas 293 and U.S. 82.

Mayor Jack Edwards of Montrose said no damage was reported inside his city limits, but one house was destroyed and a few mobile homes were damaged between Montrose and Lake Village.

One home reported was destroyed at Parkdale.

Commissioners may take up collection

HOUSTON (AP) — Harris County Commissioners may have to take up a collection to pay a $1,900 bill.

A bill collector appeared before the commissioners Monday saying the debt is outstanding from March 1974 when the county hosted a convention of the Texas Association of County Judges and Commissioners at the Rice Hotel.

Rice University, which owned the hotel at that time, wants the money, said George Hollis of the National Accounts System, a collection agency.

However, commissioners said the county cannot legally use tax dollars to pay for such a meeting.

Judge orders press restrictions in trial

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A state judge has ordered press restrictions during the upcoming trial of Alan Muhleisen, who is accused of raping and murdering his neighbor's 7-year-old daughter.

Criminal District Judge Bernard J. Bagert said his orders are similar to press restrictions two years ago which were upheld by the State Supreme Court. The U.S. Supreme Court refused to review the guidelines.

Unlike the earlier order, Bagert did not bar reporting of testimony in pretrial hearings.

Muhleisen, 26, of New Orleans, will be tried for first-degree murder in the slaying of Ingrid Simone Kelly, whose body was found nude, bound, gagged and stuffed into a plastic garbage bag.

If convicted, Muhleisen would face a mandatory death penalty.

Bagert ordered the media to avoid the following in the interest of a fair trial:

—Publication of interviews with subpoenaed witnesses.

—Publication of the criminal record, if any, or the discreditable acts, if any, of the accused unless made part of the evidence during the trial.

—Publication of any possible confession unless part of the trial record.

—Editorial comment preceding or during the trial "which tends to influence the court, jury or witnesses."

—Publication of any "leaks, statements, or conclusions as to the guilt or innocence, implied or expressed, by the police, prosecuting authorities or defense counsel."

—Use of cameras, tape recorders or any other electronic or mechanical equipment inside the courthouse.

High plains meeting set

HEREFORD — A look at diminishing water supplies and well cave-ins is one of seven topics to be reviewed in a High Plains Irrigation Conference in Hereford, Mar. 9 at the Bull Barn, beginning at 9:45 a.m.

Producers, agriculture specialists and industry representatives joining in the confab will also hear features of low cost pumping units, how to improve existing pumps, achieving efficient row and center pivot irrigation and relationship of soil water holding capacity to plant growth.

According to Leon New, Texas Agricultural Extension Service irrigation specialist and Juston McBride, Deaf Smith County Extension agent, the conference will feature as speakers experts in irrigation and water management. Among these will be J. K. Childress, district manager, FMC Corporation, Plainview; Joe Harbin of Bailey County Electric Cooperative; Jack Musick, agricultural engineer, USDA Southwestern Great Plains Research Center, Bushland; and Charles Schlabs, grower and chairman of the Deaf Smith Water Association, Hereford.

Also in the lineup of speakers will be Don Smith of the High Plains Underground Water District, Lubbock; Darrell Watts, Extension irrigation engineer, University of Nebraska; and Wayne Keese, agricultural engineer with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, College Station.

She said that the hardest thing for her is to take time to return several times to collect from the customers. The customer must pay in advance for the carrier to deliver the newspaper.

Sherry delivered 2,360 papers during the month with only one kick (loss of a paper) and also increased the number of papers she delivers daily.

She delivers papers in the Webb Air Force Base area.

Security guard shot, killed

HOUSTON (AP) — Police said they were seeking a man and a woman today in the shooting death of a security guard.

Louis Anthony Lemos, 23, was killed in his patrol car Monday at a Southwest Houston townhouse complex. Lemos, employed by National Security Services, Inc., of Houston, had answered a window peeping complaint at the complex, police said. They said he was shot several times.

Police quoted witnesses as saying they heard shots and saw a man with brown, shoulder-length hair run to a waiting car.

Insurance men ask for rate increases

AUSTIN (AP) — Insurance men were expected to ask the State Insurance Board today for higher rates for homeowners coverage. The board staff said losses would justify a 6.7 per cent average hike.

If approved by the three-man board, new rates would take effect some time this summer, probably in July or August.

The hearing follows by only two days the effective date of an 8.3 per cent average increase in homeowners rates.

Board staff actuaries put together a set of proposed new rates that would impose a 5.4 per cent, or $30 million, increase on Texans for all categories of building insurance taken as a whole—homeowners, fire and extended coverage.

Broken into categories, the board staff recommended these average increases:

—Fire, 5.2 per cent on dwellings. Other structures, however, would receive a 3.4 per cent reduction.

—Extended coverage (windstorm, explosion, hail damage and the like), 7.8 per cent in the Seacoast Territory, 9.7 per cent in the Central Territory and 7.5 per cent in the North-Northwest.

—Homeowners, 7.7 per cent Seacoast, 6.3 per cent Central and 5.7 per cent North-Northwest.

—Farm and Ranch Owners, 1.5 per cent Seacoast, 3.8 per cent Central and 4 per cent North-Northwest.

The Seacoast territory includes Houston, Galveston, Beaumont-Port Arthur, Brownsville and Corpus Christi. The Central territory embraces most of the state, from Texarkana to El Paso and includes Dallas, Fort Worth, Houston, San Antonio and Waco. The North-Northwest territory includes Lubbock and Amarillo.

New rates that took effect Monday included an average increase of 8.3 per cent in homeowners premiums —well below the 13.8 per cent sought by the insurance companies.

Industry spokesmen said the new rates were based on statistics for the year that ended Sept. 30, 1974, and thus were obsolete from the start. Proposed increases to be recommended to the board are based on statistics through Sept. 30, 1975.

Hearing set in sold baby case

HOUSTON (AP) — A juvenile court judge has set a March 16 hearing on a petition to end the parent-child relationship of an 18-month-old boy whose mother said she sold him for $1,600 to buy heroin.

Judge Robert Lowry placed the infant under the temporary custody of the Harris County welfare department Tuesday, then set the March hearing date.

Sherri Alton, 19, told newsmen last week she sold the boy, Ricky, shortly after Christmas while she and the father, Ray Martinez, 21, were temporarily separated.

She said she and Martinez later staged a series of grocery store robberies to raise money to buy back the boy. Both are being held on robbery charges.

Welfare unit officials said the child will be allowed to remain temporarily with Rhonda Hovater, 25, a single secretary-bookkeeper.

Graham Moore, a lawyer for Miss Hovater, denied the baby had been sold.

Moore said his client reimbursed the parents for hospital, doctor and other expenses and that the couple signed an affidavit relinquishing their role as parents of the baby.

However, Lowry ruled the affidavit was illegal in that it bore no date.

DIVORCE IS THE ONLY ANSWER — After almost 62 years of marriage, Gordon and Ida Flint of Dallas, Tex., are getting a divorce. Not because they want to but the 88-year-old retiree can't give his wife the nursing home care she needs on his present monthly income of $488. Social workers told Flint welfare could take care of his wife's bills fully only if they were divorced so Flint is getting the Dallas Legal Services to file for the divorce.

Florida opposes Louisiana superport

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Florida has filed for federal "adjacent state" status which Gov. Edwin Edwards says would give it virtual veto power over a multi-million dollar Louisiana superport.

Edwards sent representatives to Tallahassee Tuesday to sound out Florida's intention in the filing.

Florida officials apparently fear that giant oil tankers bound for the floating port 25 miles offshore would navigate along the coast to avoid Gulf Stream currents, Edwards said.

He said adjacent state status under federal maritime law would put Florida in a position to create serious obstacles for the superport if environmental damage to its coastline was feared.

"I'm concerned because there's a very big environmental feeling over there (Florida) that disturbs me," he said.

Edwards has repeatedly said environemntal issues must take a back seat to solving the nation's oil supply problems.

Maritime authorities have 45 days to consider the application, which was filed this week.

Private corporations in both Louisiana and Texas have applied to build superports. But Edwards said Florida has not filed for adjacent status with Texas. He said neither Texas nor Louisiana has filed for the status with the other, although they border one another.

"We kind of have an agreement with them (Texas) that we won't interfere in their business if they don't interfere in ours," he said.

The governor said his representaives are seeking to induce Florida to withdraw its application or, failing that, to use the power sparingly if it is accepted.

Edwards said the law allows states to claim adjacent status if they can prove their interests are substantially affected by offshore ports in other states.

Jury selection begins in nurse murder trail

CORPUS CHRISTI, Tex. (AP) — Jury selection began Tuesday in the capital murder trial of Donald Gene Franklin, 24, charged in the grisly death of nurse Mary Margaret Moran of San Antonio, Tex.

Mrs. Moran, 27, was abducted last July 26 from the parking lot of the Audie Murphy Veterans Hospital in San Antonio and found four days later in a brushy field.

The attractive brunette was nude, blood-caked from 10 stab wounds and dehydrated from her ordeal under the summer sun. She died 12 hours later without identifying her attacker.

Franklin was arrested by San Antonio police hours after the abduction and days before a massive search group found the nurse.

Bexar County Dist. Atty. Ted Butler said he would seek the death penalty.

Petrofina earnings

DALLAS — American Petrofina, Inc., today announced earnings for the year ending Dec. 31, 1975 of $40,186,000, or $3.77 per share, compared with the record figure of $86,683,000, or $8.13 per share for 1974. Gross operating revenue rose to $986,036,000 in 1975 from $952,997,000 in 1974.

For the fourth quarter of 1975, net income was $9,241,000, or 87c per share against $22,418,000, or $2.10 per share for the same period in 1974.

The reduction in net income was due to increased crude oil costs which were only partially offset by higher refined products prices, as well as to a decline in petrochemicals and plastics sales and profits.

On Alaskan pipeline

Women are best workers

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the best workers along the Alaska Pipeline are women, says the boss engineer for the $7-billion project.

"My experience shows that women have been beneficial," Frank P. Moolin Jr. — here to pick up an engineer-of-the-year award — said in an interview Tuesday. "At least the men shower and shave.

"Of course, there's pairing off. But we don't try to establish moral codes."

About 1,000 of the 16,300 workers pushing the pipeline from Prudhoe Bay on the North Slope along the Arctic Ocean to Valdez on the Pacific are women, he said.

"Nobody calls them 'Klondike Annies' and they do everything the men do except welding," he said. "They're ironworkers, truck drivers, laborers, warehousepersons, cooks — and something there's no unisex word for — bull cooks. That means they clean the dorms."

The reason they don't weld, Moolin said, is "because welders are very close-knit. They move from construction job to construction job as a unit, a very fraternalistic group that likes to think they're the Marine Corps of the industry."

A lot of the women, he said, "feel they're pace-setting and strive to outdo everyone. Some of our best workers are women."

Not only do they do the same work, he said, but they get the same pay — about $1,000 per 70-hour week, for instance, for a truck driver of either sex.

He said all the workers, men and women, live in the same bunkhouses built along the 800-mile pipeline route, use the same toilet facilities and "it's up to them whether they go to the saunas separately or together."

Cities Service discovery

Cities Service Oil Co. No. 1-A-B Ferguson, 18 miles south of Sterling City, swabbed five barrels of new oil and 64 barrels of load water in four hours from the Dean-Wolfcamp. Testing continued through perforations at 6,154-159 feet. It was finaled Feb. 11 for 8.5 barrels of 37.9 gravity oil, with gas-oil ratio of 9,412-1.

Former patient praises mental hospital, staff

DEAR ABBY: May God bless you for asking readers who had spent three months or more in a mental hospital to write to you explaining the problems of getting back into society. You really do care about people, don't you?

I spent two years in a county mental hospital. At first I expected to be thrown together with freaks and nuts who would climb the walls, scream bloody murder and act crazy. Some were a little strange, and occasionally hostile and hard to handle, but none was dangerous. Most were in a deep state of depression.

Abby, will you please say a kind word for those wonderful people who work with disturbed patients? It takes a deep love for humanity to care for people who are mentally ill.

Today I am home, well and happy, and I know I never could have made it without the patient, loving and understanding people who looked after me. Thank you.

FORMER MENTAL PATIENT

DEAR FORMER: I appreciate your kind letter. And I still welcome letters from former mental patients. You need not sign your names. The response to my request has been heartwarming.

DEAR ABBY: I am a minister's wife, and I would like to tell you what Christmas means to me:

It means spending the holidays going to programs in which my musically talented children perform. (Most ministers marry women who can play the piano so they will always have someone to play for the services. These wives usually produce musically gifted children.)

Christmas means working hard to make gifts for the family in order to live within a limited budget. Ministers' wives have always done this. It means cooking everything from scratch for the same reason.

Christmas means being excluded from a lot of holiday parties because most people don't want us to know the kind of drinks they're serving. (We know anyway).

Christmas means spending all the time at the stove, sink or washing machine. Nobody offers to help with anything, and after a few tries, you end up doing it alone because it's easier than begging for help is.

Christmas means receiving gifts from your family that will enable you to serve them better—rarely anything to satisfy your personal, feminine desires.

Christmas means becoming physically exhausted and trying to keep it from showing. The family isn't concerned. Any suggestions, Abby?

NAMELESS AND NO LOCATION

DEAR NAMELESS: Yours is the saddest Christmas song I've ever heard. Clip this and show it to your family. If they don't know how you feel, they should.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "ATHEIST" IN BEAUMONT, TEX.: Religious freedom, which is a right in our country, entitles you to the privilege of worshipping at the church of your choice—or worshipping not at all. Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (28¢) envelope.

Drug may reduce cancer recurrence

BOSTON (AP) — Italian medical researchers have found a drug treatment they say can lead to drastic reductions in recurrence of disease in women after surgery for advanced breast cancer.

The New England Journal of Medicine, which published the study, said the treatment program could save hundreds of thousands of lives. The journal called the discovery "of monumental importance."

The study was conducted by Gianni Bonadonna of the National Cancer Institute of Italy and a team of associates.

In late 1974, the U.S. National Cancer Institute reported a clinical study had found that treatment with combinations of drugs, rather than one drug, produced longer survival times in women with advanced breast cancer.

Bonadonna, at about the same time the U.S. study was reported, said that early results from his then-incomplete study indicated a decreased recurrence rate among women receiving the drug combination.

The World Health Organization has called breast cancer the leading cause of death of middle-aged women in the Western countries.

A combination of three drugs was used to treat women who, during breast surgery, were found to have cancerous lymph nodes, the journal said. The drug treatment involved a combination of cyclophosphamide, methotrexate and fluorouracil (CMF).

The researchers said an earlier use of CMF "was recently reported to produce complete as well as partial remission in about 50 per cent of patients previously untreated with chemotherapy and to be superior to melphalan on a randomized comparison."

It said the same combination, with the addition of prednisone, had been "demonstrated in an uncontrolled series to have a high order of antitumor activity."

The researchers found that cancer eventually recurred in only 5 per cent of the women who had the treatment, compared with 24 per cent of those who did not, the report said.

While expressing strong optimism about the findings, the article by Bonadonna said the study lasted only 27 months and noted that the long-term effects of the chemotherapy program are unknown.

The medical journal said in an editorial the results are "nothing short of spectacular." It said the conclusions "can be accepted with confidence."

It added, "How many hundreds of thousands of lives can be improved, or indeed saved, by application of the present information in the coming decade?"

Bonadonna said despite technical advances in the past decades and other new approaches for treating breast cancer, "the over-all cure rate has remained essentially unchanged for at least 30 years."

The researchers said they found several side effects during the therapy, including loss of hair, loss of appetite, conjunctivitis and an end to menses. But they said all were reversible in most patients except cessation of menses.

Mrs. Roll Is vice chairman

In a Monday article under the headline "Beta Omicron chapter meets in club room" Mrs. Stephanie Roll was identified as president of the Howard-Glasscock Blood Centers.

She is not president, but vice chairman of the centers.
