Lamabe Willing to Pitch Anywhere

FT. MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Jack Lamabe, 20, of Farmingdale, N. Y., is in his first spring training camp with full knowledge that he's going to be shipped to the minors.

"It doesn't matter where I pitch," says Lamabe, a strapping 205-pound six-footer who signed with the Pittsburgh Pirates and made their roster. He was declared a free agent by Commissioner Ford Frick when it was learned the Phillies had signed him last June between his sophomore and senior college years. The rule since has been changed. Lamabe had a 6-2 record at the University of Vermont under Ralph LaPointe last spring and then turned pro. He had 3-7 record with Wilson, N. C., in the Class B Carolina League.

Lamabe, who hopes to reenter "some school next September," probably will wind up in Class A ball with Lincoln, Neb., this season.

Mix together those small quantities of leftover vegetables and add to a cheese sauce; serve on toast for lunch. Top with hard-cooked sliced eggs if you like.

City Police Will Halt Speeders

Police Chief Bob Doffer said this week that city police are cracking down on speeders within the city limits, and emphasizing that the speed limit is 30 miles per hour.

Returns from the Chamber of Commerce questionnaire indicate that speeding violations occur with too much regularity in the residential area, and the police plan to do something about it, Doffer said.

Along with the speeding violations, too many motorists fail to come to a full stop at stop signs, Doffer added.

The center lane on Main street is for passing only, the chief pointed out, and drivers are asked to keep to the right if they don't want to be stopped by the city policemen.

Mrs. Aldon Bell, Mrs. Clifton Bell, Mrs. Drew Ellis and Mrs. J. C. Sims were in Oklahoma City, Monday and Tuesday.

Nutrias Can Mean Trouble
(By Dr. W. B. Davis, Texas A. and M. College)

To some folks nutrias are God's gift to fishermen because he supposedly imbued them with the capacity to convert vegetation-choked ponds and lakes into clear, open water. To others, they bring visions of wealth to be derived from the sale of live animals as breeders or their pelts. But to me they mean trouble and I'll tell you why. First let me discuss their natural history.

The nutria is a large, aquatic rodent resembling a beaver, but its tail is long, sparsely haired and round, not paddle-shaped. Adults may reach a total length of three feet and weigh on the average 20-25 pounds, occasionally as much as 35 pounds.

According to Larrison, throughout much of their native range in South America, nutrias prefer to inhabit swamps, marshes, and the shores of rivers and lakes.

In the coastal regions of Washington and Oregon where the animals have been planted, nutrias seem to find ideal habitat in the protected bays, tidal lagoons, salt marshes, fresh water marshes along the coast and inland lakes seem to provide conditions suitable for their well-being.

Let's look at their economic values. These animals are important fur producers in their native range. They are reared extensively on fur farms in South America and most of their pelts are sold on the European market. On the American market, however, nutria pelts are not readily accepted and usually are listed among the cheaper varieties of fur. Most of the feral nutrias trapped in the United States and offered for sale to raw fur buyers are rejected as worthless. Because of their known competition with muskrats, which are well established and valuable fur-producing animals in this country, it seems exceedingly unwise to permit the further spread of nutrias in the United States. Otherwise, we face the distinct possibility of having our muskrats driven out and replaced by much less desirable animals.

Do nutrias actually clean vegetation out of lakes and ponds? The answer is a qualified yes. They do reduce many kinds of aquatic plants, but they will not eat "moss" (algae) and many of the submerged plants. At times they do the job too well. The trouble is that once nutrias get established in a lake, their high reproductive capacity soon results in overpopulation. There are so many nutrias that the available food supply will not satisfy them and then trouble begins.

The old "rule" that introductions of non-native animals either fail miserably or result in creating serious problems still holds true. The muskrat introduced into European waters became a pest and has caused millions of dollars of damage. The same can be said for the European hare in Australia, the American elk in New Zealand,

Lt. R. E. Waide At Ft. Benning

2nd Lt. R. E. Waide, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Waide of Perryton has reported for duty at the ROTC (Atomic Warfare Unit) at Fort Benning, Ga.

Lt. Waide reported for active duty on April 18. He is a graduate of Kansas State College and was an honor cadet in the ROTC unit. His wife and son are with her parents at Council Grove, Kansas at the present time.

and the English sparrow, the starling, the house mouse, the house rat, and the carp in the United States. We can point to only two successful importations in the United States where the animals have not become serious pests. These are the Hungarian partridge and the ring-necked pheasant, both of which are game species that are hunted regularly.

The moral to this story is that the introduction of any foreign species into our native fauna is highly dangerous, both to man and to the native wildlife. But since the American public are suckers for gadgets and cure-alls, we often in ignorance "cut off our nose to spite our face." With the possible exception of a few isolated instances, we have done nothing beneficial in bringing nutrias into Texas. On the contrary, it is my feeling that we have laid the foundation for serious economic and recreational losses.

Mrs. Arch Talley spent the last ten days in south Texas with friends and with her mother at Trenton.

Deadline Difficulties

NEW YORK (AP)—Dinners and deadlines are again causing opening night problems on Broadway. The league of New York Theater critics recently asked press critics if they would mind an 8:30 p. m. curtain, because so many first-nighters have trouble making the 8 o'clock curtain that has become traditional.

The critics answered that they need that extra half hour in order to be able to see a complete show—usually about 2½ hours—and still be able to get reviews written by newspaper press time.

Business and Pleasure

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger Stevens, Broadway's busiest show backer, recently visited his student daughter at Cambridge University—but also kept his mind on theater. Visiting London he acquired rights to three West End shows for staging here next fall.

Marlon Brando, Glenn Ford Star In 'Teahouse' Comedy

One of the greatest stage hits has been brought to the screen and will be seen at the Ellis Theatre on Tuesday, Thursday, May 21-23. It is "The Teahouse of the August Moon," a heartwarming and hilariously funny play which had audiences cheering on Broadway.

The story is about a shy and uncertain Army captain who is given the responsibility of rehabilitating a Korean village and is won over to the native point of view.

It is Tobiki to which the mild-mannered Captain Fisby (Glenn Ford) is sent by Colonel Purdy (Paul Ford) of the Army Occupation Team to assist in the recovery and welfare of the impoverished village, with the amiable rogue, Sakini (Marlon Brando) as his Okinawan interpreter and general handyman.

Fisby is supposed to run his job by Washington's "Plan B," which calls for the building of a Pentagon-shaped school house, lectures on democracy, and a general spur to efficiency and American get-up-and-go techniques. But the plan tells Fisby nothing about the Oriental way of doing things, such as the public meeting in which he is showered with gifts from the eager villagers, the best gift being the lovely geisha girl, Lotus Blossom (Machiko Kyo), who proves the first of his many complications.

The other ladies of the community, led by the aggressive Miss Higa Jiga, resent the unfair competition, but this is settled when Fisby agrees to have Lotus Blossom give geisha lessons to the Ladies League for Democratic Action.

Gradually, Fisby, encouraged by the resourceful Sakini and swayed by the charm of the Oriental way of life, resolves some of the other problems. The proposed schoolhouse gives way to a beautiful teahouse, where the villagers can observe the beauty of the sunsets. When the sale of native handicrafts proves a failure, the village economy is stimulated by the manufacture of a potent native brandy much sought after by Okinawa's Army and Navy installations.

When Captain McLean (Eddie Albert), a psychiatrist, is sent out by a perturbed Colonel Purdy to report on the situation, he blends his enthusiasm for farming to turn Tobiki into a den spot.

But when things seem nearing perfection, with the villagers celebrating the Teahouse of the August Moon with music, song and dance, an outraged Purdy, placed under technical arrest, is brokenhead the beautiful teahouse is to be orn down.

Registration Begins at 9 a. m.—Meeting Begins 10 a. m.

COOPERATIVE BUILDING

LUNCH WILL BE SERVED

All Members Urged to Attend

● BUSINESS MEETING (2 Directors to be Elected)

● PROGRAM (Leslie C. Roenigk, Speaker, Director of Member Relations, Consumers Cooperative Association, Kansas City)

● PLENTY TO EAT!

● PRIZES TO BE GIVEN!

people speak louder than money!

That's the way it should be HERE, because this is the annual meeting of a cooperative.

Every patron of the cooperative can and should be present. Each shareholder who attends has just one vote . . . whether he owns a single share or many. Everyone has an equal voice in the affairs of the business.

But a voice they all have . . . and they make use of the privilege. Every body has a chance to be heard. Any changes in business policy are made at the meeting . . . any problems of management are openly discussed.

There's a point to think about. A COOPERATIVE BUSINESS IS DIRECTLY ACCOUNTABLE TO THE PEOPLE IT SERVES. Because it is . . . it is more sensitive to the people's needs . . . serves them and the community better.

Concert Group Is Suspended

Lawrence Ellzey, president of the North Plains Concert Assn., reported this week that the organization has not disbanded, but has merely suspended for a year.

This action was taken at a meeting of the board of directors two weeks ago.

Ellzey pointed out that the organization mailed out questionnaires to approximately 400 members, asking their opinion on whether or not to continue the association. There were 35 replies, 23 wanting to continue and of the 23, 15 said they would work on it.

This indicated a decided lack of interest to the directors, and they decided to suspend for a year. The present officers will remain in office for a year and all records, including duplicate membership cards, will remain intact.

Several members have joined concert associations in Liberal and Pampa. Information on joining these groups may be obtained from Ellzey, Mrs. Elizabeth Fuelscher or Moina Caldwell.

Chamber Asks Long Lease On Present Lots

The Chamber of Commerce directors met with the county commissioners Monday afternoon and requested a long term lease on the property where the Chamber of Commerce building is located, 5th and Main.

The Chamber officials explained that the organization has an opportunity to secure a new building for the Chamber of Commerce at the rear of this lot, with the Baumann Cleaners providing most of the money for the building in return for a lease on the front portion of the lot.

A building is planned which will cost approximately $12,000, with offices and meeting rooms for all Chamber activities.

Lester Baumann of the Baumann Cleaners made the proposition to build a building for the Chamber of Commerce in return for the use of the front portion of the lot as a parking and service area.

The county owns the lot and the building used by the Chamber. The commissioners took no action on the request for a lease, but promised to give the matter further study.

Last Stronghold of Free Enterprise

The depletion allowance which has long been given to oil producers, and to all producers of minerals, including coal and iron, has been under attack for the past three sessions of Congress. The liberal bloc has objected to anyone getting this 27 1/2 per cent depletion allowance, and the exaggerated stories of oil millionaires hasn't helped any.

This 27 1/2 per cent depletion allowance was set up by Congress years ago, long before the item of federal taxes became the major consideration in doing business. Doing away with it cannot be justified as a matter of "plugging up a tax loophole."

This depletion allowance has been given because oil wells and coal mines and ore fields are steadily declining assets. Their products cannot be replaced.

Specifically, the oil business requires more than that. A coal field or an ore field is fairly well defined by surface observation. Oil wells are where you find them. To keep pace with the consumption of oil and oil products, it is necessary to keep searching constantly for new ones. This costs money. Especially when you consider that one-fourth of all productive wells fail to return the cost of drilling. Only one well out of nine is a producer at all. Eight are dry holes. It costs just as much to drill a dry hole as a producer.

The only thing that will spur men on to risk their money in the search for oil is the thing that built this country—financial incentive. A chance to make money will inspire more effort than all the government edicts and red tape that the most starchy-eyed socialist can devise.

As a matter of fact, the 27 1/2 per cent depletion allowance is fast becoming the lone remaining area of wealth accumulation left open in these United States. The tax on personal and corporate incomes has become so great that there is actually little chance to amass a fortune.

Heedless Horsepower

The Herald started last week a series of editorial cartoons, "Heedless Horsepower," furnished by the Travelers Insurance Co.

More than 40,000 Americans were killed and 2,368,000 injured on our highways last year, and an analysis of these accidents shows that human error was the biggest factor in a big majority of them.

Faulty equipment was to blame for only 4 per cent of the wrecks; bad weather in only 15 per cent.

The wrecks, for the most part, were caused by errors in human judgment—going too fast, not paying attention to the road or other drivers, taking chances, etc.

With the tornado season upon us, we in the Perryton area have had our share of storm warnings which throw fear into the heart of many. The fact remains that a person is taking a much greater statistical risk with his life in driving from Perryton to Amarillo than he is standing on the front porch watching a tornado cloud.

No Wonder We're Unpopular

A news story from Washington recently gives a clue as to why the United States is not so popular in the world today, despite the outpouring of money like water.

American officials are negotiating an aid agreement with Poland, trying to get them to accept wheat as a gift instead of money. The Poles, of course, would rather have the cash, but are about ready to settle for the wheat.

In addition to the wheat, the United States has offered to provide 105 million dollars in other aid, including such things as mining machinery, farm implements and other items.

This is all very well, but Canada is mad at us.

You see, the Canadian government had just about closed a deal to SELL wheat to Poland and considers Poland a continuing market for Canadian wheat.

There ought to be some sort of lesson here for our United States foreign policy experts.

From the SIDELINE

with HAROLD HUDSON

Here it is about time for school to be out and it seems that only a few weeks ago we were looking forward to the beginning of football season. We remember reading an article in the American magazine some years ago which stated that as a person grew older, time passed faster. The article pointed out that a day to a child often seems an eternity. To a 70-year-old, a day is but a fleeting second. We didn't quite agree with the article at the time we read it, but now it seems to be quite true.

As a matter of fact, it seems almost incredible that it was 20 years ago this month that our class of 1937 graduated from Perryton high school. All of our classmates look to be quite young, and they must be making calendars shorter than they used to.

As we remember it, our commencement exercises were approached with great solemnity, even to the extent of some furtive handkerchief dabbing by a few of our teachers. Frankly, we were scared to death. All this talk of the "outside world," had us buffaloed. We thought there was something that happened to a person on the instant of diploma grabbing that changed him somewhat. Our contact with the "outside world" was a let-down, proving to be the same thing as before.

Our class was a class which struggled most of its career through a depression, an era of hard times and little money. The Class of 1937 revived The Ranger, the school annual, which had been defunct for several years due to lack of funds. We prepared a half printed, half mimeographed book, sold it for $1.00 only half the class could afford it. This must seem absurd to the present generation.

Well, there's one thing about it. One advantage of old age is that you can take a nap every afternoon without being called lazy.

We haven't heard much comment about the proposed new jail building. Certainly there seems to be little enthusiasm, pro or con. Of course, there can be little denying the fact that a new jail is needed. One visit to the present edifice would convince just about anyone. That is one thing about it—only a very small percentage of the population have ever been inside the jail—even as a visitor.

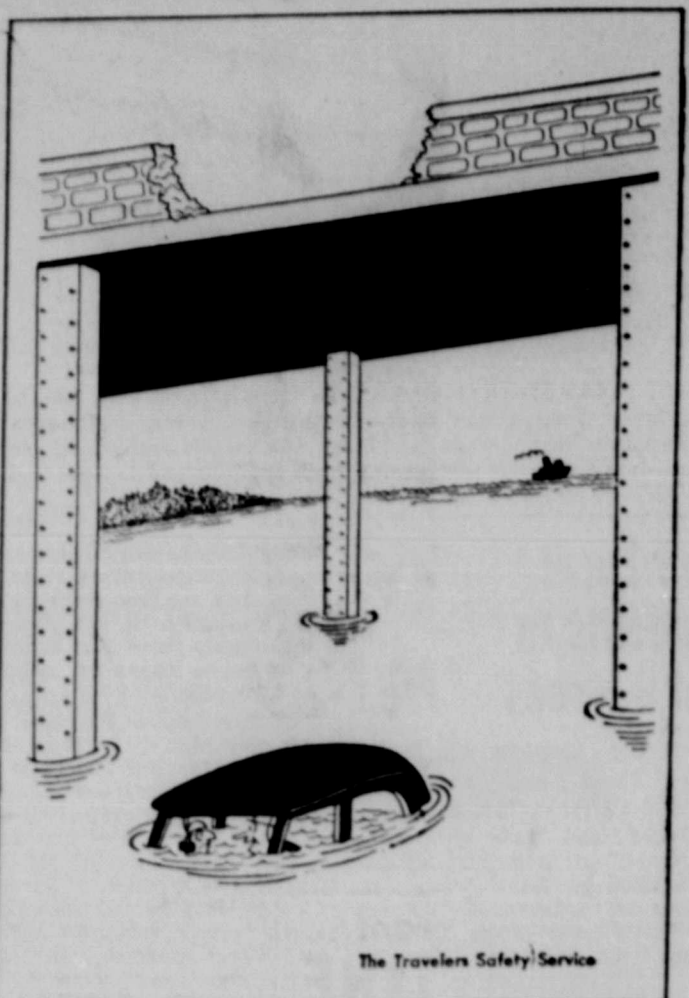

Maybe there should be an open house at the jail before the election is called to vote on a bond issue. The grand jury visited the jail last year and the members were certainly impressed, especially the women.

A fellow down at Ralls says he is all "shook up" because the post office has financial troubles. He says he has no faith left in free, capitalist enterprise since learning the post department is insolvent and hopelessly in debt. It's the only business in the world with a billion dollar income that cashes no checks, extends no credit, and gets payment for its goods in advance—and it's gone broke!

A wife can often surprise her husband on their wedding anniversary simply by mentioning the date.

school was that the other kids get allowances.

It turns out that the North Plains Concert Association is not disbanded—it is merely suspended, and there is a great deal of difference between the two terms. As matters now stand, the association remains intact, with the same officers, the records being held intact, but the organization is not operating. A meeting will be held in April, 1958, to decide whether or not to give it another try.

This was the year to start a lawn. Those new lawns in the southwest part of town are growing like mad and making the entire section look beautiful in this spring weather. For the past few years it has been a rough go to establish a lawn or even to provide the minimum care without piling up an immense water bill. Last summer was particularly hard on grass, flowers and shrubs. It seems that nothing can take the place of rain and snow—all the well water in the world doesn't have quite the same effect on the plants.

Talk about pessimists—we had a conversation the other day with a man who attempted to put a damper on our enthusiasm about the developing oil fields around Perryton. This chap said not to get too excited about oil. About the time they get oil wells operating everywhere and maybe have some plants established, atomic power will be made so cheap that there will be no demand for oil, he pointed out. Therefore, move with caution. This oil play is probably a temporary thing. The place to put your money, we suppose, is in gilt edge atomic stocks.

And one of our friends was complaining the other day that the first thing his kid learned in

Wolf Creek Philosopher

What Does Farmer Know of Future?

(Ed. note: The Wolf Creek Philosopher is trying to find a short cut to a farming profit, his letter this week indicates.)

Dear editor:

Everybody is talking about the budget these days, as though budget troubles were something new, and they may be for some people, but not me—I've been having budget troubles ever since I can remember—and I was especially interested in an article I read in a copy of a newspaper which I picked up in the road near my house yesterday morning. I think somebody had thrown it out the night before with some tin cans wrapped up in it.

According to it, officials in Washington are worried about the size of the budget and worried more about what'll happen to them if they cut out the wrong items, and consequently they've decided to call in a bunch of economists to tell them if the budget is so big it might break the country, and if not whether the national economy is going to continue up or start down or hold its own.

Now the thing about this move that interests me is that among the economists and leaders invited to the conference is a farmer. They didn't say what farmer, but just added that in addition to leading economists, professors, business advisors, etc., there'd also be included a farmer.

What I want to know is: who is this farmer who knows what the economy is going to do in the next twelve months?

Furthermore, does he believe in it strong enough to plant by it? And if so, does it work? And if so, how come he's been keeping this information to himself?

That is, you take me. I've been trying to guess what the market 12 months away is going to be on the products from this farm out here for years, and I can count on the fingers of one hand the times I've hit it right. I don't know about this farmer that's going to Washington, but I don't have any more idea at planting time what the market is going to be at harvesting time than what the weather er will be like next Tuesday. Moreover, if there are any other farmers that know, they don't live close to me.

If Washington ever identifies this farmer that knows what the national economy is going to do in the next twelve months, I'd like to start a collection to bring him to Perryton and let the rest of us get a close look at him. There are several questions I'd like to ask him about this year's crops, not to mention what the cattle market will be like this fall.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

IN, Tex.—In a final burst of energy, the Legislature passed a bill which would set a record for action this session and cleared the way for winding up money matters this week.

Report by the joint conference committee on the general appropriations bill was laid out for study. Approval of this bill plus two others designed to raise funds for teacher pay raises will be the signal for a fast finish.

Most observers feel certain that enough money will be found to give the teachers a $400 across-the-board increase.

TEXAS-SIZE MESS—Relief workers face multiplying problems as they wade into the multi-million dollar mess spread over water-glutted Texas.

Preliminary estimates placed damage at $85,000,000. This was before the Lower Brazos spread to a width of 13 miles in some places.

Federal Civil Defense Administration has an initial grant of $1,000,000 to help restore restore community-owned facilities. More is being sought. One of FCDA's more pressing problems is helping rural residents decontaminate flooded wells and spray against insects that breed in standing water.

In all, some half-dozen state and federal agencies are working to salvage public buildings, roads, business and farms.

Farmers got a setback, however, when federal officials refused to let them switch flooded acreage for higher land in the soil bank program. It means some will have usable land they can't cultivate because it was previously allotted to the soil bank and other land, not in the soil bank, they can't plant either, because of flooding.

Even so, encouraging reports continue to come in from rural areas. First post-drought sales show grass-fattened cattle bringing higher prices. Small town bankers are daring to spend again in anticipation of good crops.

ENOUGH SAID—Senate apparently wants no more long talks on the segregation bills.

First such bill to come up brought on a record-breaking 36-hour filibuster. But the second one was shoved through in minutes after a vote to shut off debate.

Passed was a bill to require local elections before schools can be integrated.

Last apparent hope of the segregation opponents now is that the bills will be referred to the attorney general and ruled unconstitutional. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said he has made preparations to handle the bills promptly, if asked. Governor Daniel said he plans a thorough staff study of each bill before deciding whether to seek a ruling.

BETTER PAY APPROVED—If voters consent, future legislators may avoid some of the financial pinch many complain of now.

Senate approved a House constitutional amendment providing for annual sessions and more pay. But it upped the House-suggested salary of $4,800 to $7,500 a year.

Present arrangement is $25 a day for 120 days. It totals $3,000 for two years unless a special session crops up. Since May 7, when the 120 days ran out, lawmakers have been on their own moneywise.

Legislators' wives have been heard to speak bitterly of "going

Floods Damage State Hatcheries

AUSTIN—Some 12 million bass fry will be delivered to Texas lakes and streams this year despite serious water damages to several of the 13 hatcheries of the Texas Game and Fish Commission, according to the Chief Aquatic Biologist. The old state hatchery at San Angelo was wholly flooded. There will be fish production, however, from the old federal hatchery there, recently acquired by the Commission.

Heavy damage also was done to the Dallas hatchery, while the Sheldon hatchery near Houston also sustained some damage. The hatcheries at Lake Cisco and Medina Lake, near San Antonio, have been out because of previous drought.

"Every care is being taken to get as good a production as possible, because of the increasing demands we will have with so many lakes and ponds refilled by the recent rains," the biologist said. "Right now we have nothing but bass production. Later there will be catfish, crappie and bream. We cannot supply delivery of bass to impoundments smaller than ten acres before cool weather in September. Persons who can pick up the fish at the hatchery, however, can do so by making arrangements with the local superintendent."

Humanity's need of spiritual growth and progress will be brought out at Christian Science services this Sunday.

Keynoting the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Mortals and Immortals" is the Golden Text from I Corinthians (15:53): "This corruptible must put on incorruption, and this mortal must put on immortality."

Readings from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy will include the following (263:5): "Mortals must gravitate Godward, their affections and aims grow spiritual,—they must near the broader interpretations of being, and gain some proper sense of the infinite, in order that sin and mortality may be put off."

Scriptural selections to be read include the following from Psalms (89:15): "Blessed is the people that know the joyful sound: they shall walk, O Lord, in the light of thy countenance."

Legion Poppies Have Long and Bright History

The American Legion Auxiliary is making plans for the annual Poppy Day, to be conducted in Perryton on Saturday, May 25, and the sale of these replicas of the World War I flower will be worn as a tribute to those who fought and died in this nation's wars.

Memorial poppies were first sold on a nationwide basis by the Legion and Auxiliary in 1921. At first the artificial poppies were made by French disabled veterans and widows and orphans, but by 1922 the first poppies made by American veterans were produced in hospitals in Minnesota.

The poppies worn in 1921 were made of silk, but the one you will wear on Memorial Day is made of crepe paper because it can be easily worked and materials are inexpensive. Today poppies are made by disabled veterans in more than 80 hospitals and workrooms in some 40 States.

In 1924 the Legion gave complete charge of the national poppy program to the Auxiliary. A few Legion Departments, however, still conduct the programs in their states.

All in all, the observance of Poppy Day gives substance to the promise Miss Moina Michael made in her poem To Keep the Faith: "And now the torch and poppy red We wear in honor of our dead. Fear not that ye have died for naught; We've learned the lesson that ye taught In Flanders' fields!"

Walter Rogers Is Speaker at Boys' Ranch

When graduation rolls around May 17, boys ranchers will receive double honor. They will be awarded their coveted diplomas and hear Walter Rogers, U. S. Representative of the 18th Congressional District, deliver the commencement address.

Congressman Rogers has always taken a personal interest in the Ranch and has frequently expressed a desire to visit and speak to the boys. While in this part of the country on a government mission, he will fulfill his desire.

Ranch graduation exercises this year will honor 31 eighth graders and 16 Seniors. Eight of these Seniors completed their work at mid-term but are returning to the Ranch to receive their diplomas and participate in the graduation exercises with their classmates.

A peculiarity of this year's exercises will be that the eighth grade has two valedictorians and no salutatorian. This was brought about through an exact tie between the two top students.

It has been some time since Congressman Rogers has been to the Ranch and considerable expansion has taken place. The young ranchers are expanding their talents to the hilt in readying the Ranch for his visit.

When the ranchers learned of his expected visit, one young rancher created chuckles among the older boys when he asked, "Is he any kin to Roy?"

Seven Southern Assn. baseball players drove in 100 or more runs in 1956.

No Gimmick

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (U)—J. Ralph Thompson, television dealer who offered a free automobile with every TV set purchased, had a good time, he thought, but he found purchasers wary.

Some prospective buyers thought the offer would be tied to expensive color sets. Others were more interested in the cars, all "nice" 1946 to '50 used models.

"I've been providing some of the sets the car dealers give away with the sale of a car so I figured why not sell the television set and give away the car," Thompson explained. "That's all. No tricks."

Steals Trash

VICTORIA, Tex. (U)—Louis J. Kornegay wonders why whoever swiped a can full of garbage from his home didn't empty it first.
