Citizens to speak out on hospital lease proposal

7 tonight in district courtroom

Scurry County citizens will have three minutes each tonight to tell why they are for or against leasing Cogdell Memorial Hospital to Community Health Systems of Brentwood, Tenn.

The three-minute time limit is part of the points of order adopted by the commissioners court for the 7 p.m. public hearing set in the 132nd District Court Room.

Other rules speakers must follow include signing up prior to the meeting. Speakers will be called to the podium in the order they signed up.

The meeting is not a question-and-answer session, and questions will not be fielded from the audience although the meeting is a special called session of the commissioners court.

The fifth point of order adopted by the court asks for proper decorum and courtesy to be extended to all speakers and observers.

The time keeper, a representative of the sheriff's office, will call each speaker and will keep the time.

The meeting is part of the order for the proposed lease in which Scurry County voters will show their preference for or against in a referendum election on Aug. 9.

If voters approve the lease, the commissioners court still must find that the final lease document is in the best interest of the county before a lease is signed.

Presently, final terms of the lease are being negotiated for the county by George Scofield, an attorney with the San Antonio firm of Fulbright & Jarwoski.

Community Health Systems (CHS) has offered to lease the hospital for a 30-year period with an up-front payment of $8 million, plus other payments which would make approximately $12 million available to the county when the lease is signed.

Plus, the firm has pledged more than $3 million in capital improvements at the hospital over the next four years.

Scofield has said one major point of negotiation with the company pertains to which areas of the hospital CHS is to make improvements.

The attorney has met with several local physicians to get their input.

The possible lease has generated heated debates throughout the community.

Opponents of the lease state that the community would lose local control of the hospital. Proponents cite dollars saved by eliminating the tax subsidy as well as CHS's promise to take an aggressive stance on recruiting physicians.

Trustees want more revisions

Price is coming down for renovation project

Western Texas College trustees, studying revised, lower-cost plans for renovating the auto/diesel area on campus, told the architect Monday to go back and beef it up a little.

It was the next step in the ongoing, sometimes frustrating effort to turn the unused building into a first-class workforce training center.

It will likely be a training center without a meats judging lab though — the board informally decided last night to hold off on that portion of the project for now.

Trustees had originally been working from an estimated figure of $250,000 to renovate the 14,420 square-foot facility. However, the figure presented by Adling & Associates earlier this month put renovation costs at $750,000.

Somewhat taken aback by the difference in estimates, trustees asked for a revised plan.

Last night, arthitect Bill Adling presented the board with an estimate of almost $543,000.

To lower the cost, Adling revised the climate control requirements, selected vinyl flooring in some areas instead of carpet, and left about 600 square feet of the facility virtually untouched.

Trustees were pleased with most of the changes, but want the other 600 square feet of space to get some flooring, paint and whatever else is needed to make it look like the rest.

"I think we need to look at every point we can to save, but we don't want an inferior project just to get the cost down," said trustee Drew Bullard. "I think we have to look at it as an investment."

"Is it worth doing this, if it is not exactly what we want?" said trustee Jackie Greene.

Now, trustees want Adling to go back and revise the plan again.

"Have we confused the heck out of ya'll," said trustee Jackie Greene.

"Yeah," said Adling with a laugh. "I guess you have."

Adling told the board that it would cost $120 a square foot to build a new facility. That would cost almost $1 million at 8,000 square feet, and more than $1.7 million for 14,400 square feet.

"All the elements in a new structure would be exactly what we want in here," said Dr. Harry Krenek, college president. "We have space for offices, a computer lab, a distance learning lab, office space for part-time employees, a large classroom, and industry-specific areas. We may want to consider adding on later, but this meets all our needs right now."

To help reduce cost and improve other areas of the facility, trustees informally agreed to put the proposed meats lab on hold for now. That part of the project is estimated at about $60,000.

"It just seems to me those funds might be better used in areas where we can draw in more students. I'd like to see us have a

CoC oks funding request

Granting hotel/motel funds, summer events and a report concerning a new sound system for the coliseum topped the list of business at the chamber of commerce meeting Monday.

Following the approval of the minutes and financial statements, Gary Martin, assistant complex manager and head of the committee for its sound system, reviewed a chart displaying bids from 10 companies.

The bids ranged from $19,000 to $50,000.

In the final phase, Martin said plans are in progress to have four companies try out their systems on site. No action was taken on the matter.

Appreciation was expressed to Martin for his efforts to find the "best system for the money." The county has agreed to pay for the system.

Hotel/motel funds in the amount of $500 were granted to the Snyder Softball Association for a sign on the outfield fence and for postage and poster expenses.

Executive director Donna Fowler said work should begin in about three months for the Tejas Living Corporation assisted living complex, to be located across the street from St. Mary Healthcare Center on College Avenue. Applications for apartments will be taken in the chamber board room on Thursday, May 29.

Fowler announced two new chamber members — Tex Pack at 1511 26th, owned by Mr. and Mrs. D.C. Smith, and the Marriage and Family Therapy Association, located in the old RS&P Depot on 25th Street. A ribbon cutting is set for 10 a.m. Thursday at Tex Pack.

Upcoming upcoming events include the Western Swing Music Festival, June 18-21, and the annual July 4th celebration in the park.

Sandra Barbosa, secretary, said those wishing to reserve a booth in the armory or the barn for the Independence Day celebration should call the chamber office. She also said several new electrical outlets have been installed for food and activity booths in the park area and reservations should be made as soon as possible.

In addition, she said donations are needed to help defray the cost of the fireworks display.

THE SDN COLUMN

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Sometimes a hotel is where you give good bucks for poor quarters."

Dear American Express:

I am returning my card. I can't afford it, anyhow. I am suspect of a company that will pay somebody $30 million to be their spokesman.

Shoot, I bet Tiger Woods doesn't even have an American Express card. He doesn't need one.

I would have been your spokesman for half price, and would have already made your company $15 million.

Sure I have some athletic fame. In junior high, I once threw the shot put against Randy Matson. That was a few years before he became an Olympic gold medal winner.

While folks were watching Tiger Woods make the Byron Nelson Classic his second consecutive PGA victory - there were some Snyder connections.

Mike Standly, an Abilene native who played college golf at Western Texas College, tied for fifth place and split the purse. Standly took home $58,000.

But a couple of other WTC grads also deserve commendations. The record crowd at Los Colinas and at home watching on TV saw a perfectly-manicured championship golf course.

Todd Miller, a 1992 graduate of the WTC Golf Grounds and Landscape Technology program, is the course superintendent. The Wichita Falls native ended up at the TPC course after first working at Shady Oaks Country Club in Fort Worth.

Another 1992 WTC graduate is Troy Golden who is assistant superintendent at Los Colinas. The Lancaster native also worked at Shady Oaks.

Speaking of athletic claims-to-fame. Jerry Owen, owner of The Movie Stop, was on the Snyder Tiger baseball team that was beaten by Alvin in the state baseball tournament.

The pitcher for Alvin was Nolan Ryan, who finished out his major league career with the Texas Rangers. Owen recalls being struck out by Ryan.

J.D. Smith, major at the Price Daniel unit, also has a Nolan Ryan story. Smith says, "I was the last batter he struck out before turning pro."

Snyder man to serve time in prison unit

A 31-year-old Snyder man will now serve three concurrent sentences in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice following two guilty pleas in 132nd District Court.

Kim Allen Johnson of 2606 Ave. U pleaded guilty to March 12 charges of retaliation and obstruction. Johnson, who was indicted on the two charges by Scurry County grand jury in April, pleaded guilty to threatening to kill police officer Terry Snyder and of pushing deputy Brian Peterson.

Senior District Judge Gene Dulaney ordered Johnson to serve two six-year terms in the state prison system. Dulaney also revoked a 1991 five-year probated sentence given Johnson for burglary of a building.

Darla Jean Nachlinger, 30, of 1300 26th St. pleaded guilty to forgery by passing, a Dec. 2, 1996 offense. Judge Dulaney assessed a one-year sentence in a state jail facility.

Michael Brent Howell, 34, pleaded guilty to forgery by passing, a Jan. 13 offense. Judge Dulaney assessed a one-year state jail sentence for Howell who lives at 202 34th St.

Howell was serving a five-year probated sentence for a 1994 forgery, and Judge Dulaney revoked that probation and ordered a seven-year probated sentence for Howell.

Pops Concert set for 7 o'clock tonight

Snyder High School choir will present its Pops Concert at 7 this evening in Worsham Auditorium.

There will be a $3 charge.

"A variety of music will be performed both by soloists and groups. It should be an entertaining evening for all," said Ronda Haire, choir instructor.

Retailer pulls apparel which has 'destroy all girls' slogan

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A maker of in-line skating equipment thought it could attract aggressive young male buyers with a simple slogan: "Destroy all girls."

"The tag was supposed to say, 'Kill your parents,' but some people thought that was too extreme. Go figure," said Arlo Eisenberg, part-owner of Senate, the clothing and equipment company that put the slogan on its clothing's laundry tags.

Eisenberg was being flip, and some in the business say Senate's sales pitch works wonders with the kids. But retailers and parents were not pleased when they spotted the slogan.

Galyan's Trading Co. announced Monday it sent back the fall line of T-shirts, sweatshirts, pants and boxer shorts made by the company in Huntington Beach, Calif.

The store said it also is returning Senate's wheels, bearings and other skating gear carried at its nine sporting goods stores in Indiana, Ohio, Minnesota and Kansas.

A Galyan's customer in Minnesota was preparing to wash a T-shirt when she saw the slogan and called to complain.

"We will not have that in our stores. It's counter to the culture we have at Galyan's," said Joan Hurley, director of marketing for Galyan's in Plainfield, Ind.

Senate has gotten other complaints. As a result, it has decided not to include the tags on any new items. But it has no plans to voluntarily pull back the offending items, which have been on shelves only a few weeks.

"The stuff isn't literal. I don't expect anyone to go out and destroy all girls," Eisenberg said. "It's a niche market, so there's a lot of people that aren't going to get it."

Senate sold about $10 million in goods last year, primarily to teenage boys who skate aggressively, he said.

Eisenberg said he adopted the "destroy all girls" line from an alternative rock group called Scraping Fetus Off The Wheel. Senate also has put out shirts that say "Kill" in bold letters and another that said "Sinner" and showed a youth on roller skates with a shaved head and a bloody baseball bat in his hands.

Not everyone might take it as a joke, said Kurt Barnard, president of Barnard's Retail Marketing Report industry newsletter in New Jersey.

"There are enough sick minds around that take this sufficiently seriously," Barnard said.

Your Birthday

Wednesday, May 21, 1997

Improvements in material conditions are indicated for the year ahead. Conversely, however, your extravagant inclinations may also be stronger.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Strong self-motivation is required today if you hope to be successful. Lady Luck might not play a leading role at this point in time, so fend for yourself. Gemini, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and SASE to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Today, if you feel compelled to take a chance, gamble on your own abilities and not on another's. Betting blind could be disappointing.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're anxious to keep your household budget in line today, maintain control over your credit cards and ask your mate to reduce charging as well.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Results could be gratifying today, provided that a surrogate carries out your ideas. You may not be inclined to do much about them yourself.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Little financial surpluses you've accumulated could go out the window today if you go on a shopping spree. Keep this in mind before starting your trek.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually, you're a goal-oriented person who is tenacious in pursuing your objectives. Today, however, if things don't go easy, you might back off.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Associates will cooperate today if there's something in it for them. They won't put themselves out, though, if you're the only one who benefits.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Before making any large purchases today, give the matter much thought. Take care that your other expenditures don't get you in over your head.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You will have to exert a bit more conscientious effort than usual today if you hope to make the most of your areas of immediate advantage.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) A carefully thought-out decision might not go as anticipated today if you begin making little last minute changes. Be consistent.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be very selective in choosing your business involvements at this time. Do not plunge into deals before investigating everything thoroughly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Do not expect too much today business-wise from someone you know on a purely social basis. Try to keep your two worlds divided.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you opened the floodgates when you asked your readers for their definition of either a lousy or a great lover. I have always thought there should be a school to teach people how to be great lovers. There are so few of them around. A lady is lucky indeed to run into one, and truly blessed to be married to one.

Your definition that a lousy lover is hurried, selfish and inconsiderate was right on, but the list also should include being insensitive, having poor hygiene, poor verbal skills, and unwilling to give more than he gets, etc. I hope you print some of the responses you get. It will be interesting to see what your readers have to say on the subject.

BEBE IN LA MIRADA, CALIF.

DEAR BEBE: I certainly hit a nerve when I asked the question, because the responses are still pouring in. I had no idea so many women (and men) would have so much to say on the subject. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: A good lover, male or female, is one who is teachable.

SUZANNE IN PHOENIX

DEAR ABBY: In an interview, the actor Ricàrdo Montalban was asked, "What is a great lover?" He replied, "A great lover is someone who can satisfy one woman her entire lifetime and be satisfied with one woman his entire lifetime. It is not someone who goes from woman to woman; any dog can do that."

PATRICK IN NASHVILLE

DEAR ABBY: Great lovers have the same qualities both in and out of bed — they just manifest them differently in public (fortunately). They are chronically kind, have an incredible memory for what you like, touch you often, aren't in a rush, welcome new ideas, never fall asleep without saying, "I love you," and treat you like the most beautiful woman in the world, even if in reality you're 49 and porky.

STEVE'S INCREDIBLY LUCKY WIFE IN LA JOLLA

DEAR ABBY: A good lover is a person who takes into consideration the needs of the other person. He is unselfish and wants to satisfy his partner. He's always patient and takes his time when he is making love. A good lover makes every effort to find out what his partner wants and then he fulfills those needs. A good lover is gentle and caring with his partner. He gives soft touches, gentle caresses and sweet kisses in all the right spots. He also is passionate and honest. I was very fortunate to fall in love with a fabulous lover.

CRAZY IN LOVE IN RANCHO SANTA MARGARITA

DEAR ABBY: I never thought I'd ever have a chance at a great lover. However, at 65 I've been lucky enough to meet him. He is trustworthy in all things, not just sex; he wants to please and provide happiness in my life; he's able to control his own sexuality and bring us ultimately to even higher heights. By the way, my guy is in his late 70s.

P.S. I completely agree with your definition of a lousy lover. Been there — had that!

SEXY LADY IN ARLINGTON, TEXAS

DEAR ABBY: A lover who looks a woman in the eyes and tells her how beautiful she is and how much he loves her is a good lover. But what really makes it or breaks it, in my opinion, is if after all the afterglow fades — can you talk to each other? I am only 28 years old, but I am sophisticated enough to know that sex is only a bonus. A good friendship is a lifetime commitment. I have a man who talks with me. We have a wonderful sex life, but it has more to do with how happy we are — not how technically proficient we are. Abby, feel free to edit this and you are welcome to print my name. I want my Edward to know that he's a good lover because he cares.

The youngest in 18 years

By Phillip Alder

The winners of the Open Pairs I national title at the Spring Nationals in Dallas were Geoff Hampson and Eric Greco. Aged 28 and 21, respectively, they are the youngest winners of a national title since Jeff Meckstroth (then 23) and Eric Rodwell (then 22) won the Open Pairs title in March 1979.

Hampson, who won a silver medal on the Canadian team at the World Junior Championship in 1991, was gaining his third North American title. He is a bridge professional who lives in Fenton, Mich.

Greco is a senior at the University of Virginia. He won the Youth Player of the Year title (for age 19 and under) five years in a row.

Greco used the auction to guide his play on this deal from the final session. The bidding is typical of a pairs event, with no one willing to pass when he might bid.

Against two no-trump, West led the heart six. East won with the ace and returned a low heart in the hope that the positions of the heart 10 and jack were reversed. After winning with the heart queen, Greco cashed his five diamond tricks, throwing a spade from the dummy. East had to make four discards. He selected the spade two, club seven and two hearts.

Declarer cashed the club ace before exiting with the heart jack. East could take two heart tricks and the spade ace, but then he had to lead away from the club queen into dummy's king-jack tenace. Winning the overtrick, which is so vital in a pairs event, gave Hampson and Greco 62 out of 77 matchpoints.

APPOINTMENTS IN THE DARK VALLEY

We meet the Lord as a comforter in this lonely place to which we must come. Being aware of the Divine companionship, the child of God passes through the shadow unafraid. Out of the darkness we can hear Him singing, "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for Thou art with me: Thy rod and Thy staff, they comfort me" (Psalm 23:4).

The Good Shepherd will neither fail nor forsake His faithful ones in the dark valley (Hebrews 13:5-6). He will lead them to the summit of the sun-lit mountain.

Jeff Bagwell slams Astros past Phillies

Bagwell got his 1,000th hit on a homer, then added a second to claim a tie for the NL home run lead, as the Houston Astros beat the Philadelphia Phillies 9-5 Monday night.

"It was nice to get it out of the way," said Bagwell, who said he was reminded of how close he was to the landmark every time he looked at a box score. "The Lord willing, I'd like to get 2,000 hits."

That would certify Boston's 1990 trade of Bagwell, a 22-year-old minor leaguer at the time, for faded pitcher Larry Andersen as one of the most one-sided deals in baseball history.

Since joining the Astros in 1991, a year removed from Double A ball, Bagwell has established himself as a dangerous slugger with a knack for driving in runs.

He has led Houston in RBIs in all six of his major league seasons. Last year, he established Astros single-season records for doubles (48), extra base hits (81), total bases (324) and RBIs (120).

This year, it's been more of the same. In addition to tying Colorado's Larry Walker for the NL lead with 14 homers, Bagwell is hitting .311 and has 41 RBIs in 44 games.

"Bagwell is getting in a pretty good groove," Astros manager Larry Dierker said. "When he does that, he makes it a lot easier for us."

The Astros already had a 4-0 lead, and two homers off Phillies starter Calvin Maduro (3-5), when Bagwell opened the sixth inning with a line drive homer over the left field wall for his 1,000th hit.

Jazz rolls 101-86 as Rockets misfire

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — This MVP stuff is all new to Karl Malone, so you'll have to excuse his behavior Monday night.

He practically snubbed David Stern. He gave the silent treatment to the fans. He made the media wait an hour for a postgame interview.

He didn't even play up to his MVP standards.

Still, the rest of the Jazz gave solid backing to Malone on the night he picked up his trophy as Utah defeated Houston 101-86 Monday night in Game 1 of the Western Conference finals.

Game 2 is Wednesday night, and much of the MVP hype should be finished by then. That didn't stop Malone from trying to put an early end to it.

Malone played — at least for him — a mediocre game with 21 points, 13 rebounds, five turnovers and a 6-for-16 shooting performance. But he also helped hold Charles Barkley to 12 points as part of a strong team-wide defensive effort.

"You look at the stats and see that Karl had a bad game — at least for him — and it's good because we won and we know he will be back stronger," Jeff Hornacek said.

Hornacek scored 19 points, John Stockton had 16 points and 13 assists, rookie Shandon Anderson scored 11 and and Greg Foster came off the bench to score nine points in the second quarter when Utah pulled ahead to stay.

Hakeem Olajuwon had 30 points but didn't score in the fourth period. Clyde Drexler scored 13 and Mario Elie 10 for Houston, which was playing just two days after finishing off Seattle in a seven-game series.

"We looked like a tired team, but I thought we would have applied ourselves more," Houston coach Rudy Tomjanovich said. "I'm very disappointed that we didn't make this closer."

The Jazz, who have won their last 20 home games, outshot Houston 44 percent to 38 percent and finished with only 15 turnovers after committing eight in the first quarter.

"There was some rust, but there was energy, too. So it all balanced out," Hornacek said.

Houston got a 3-for-10 effort from Barkley and a 2-for-9 evening for Matt Maloney. Olajuwon, who was 9-of-14 from the field and 12-for-17 from the line, was the only member of the Rockets to shoot above 50 percent.

"I played terrible," Barkley said. "I just write it off as a bad night. We were all terrible and I was the leader of the pack."

Second-hand smoke more risky for women

DALLAS (AP) — Regular exposure to secondhand smoke appears to almost double the risk of heart disease, Harvard researchers found in a 10-year study of more than 32,000 nurses.

The findings, indicating more harm than previous studies, could help advocates of a nationwide ban on smoking in workplaces and sites such as bars and restaurant that are often exempted from no-smoking rules. It also could be useful to those suing the tobacco industry.

For women like college student Carrie Carter, a nonsmoker who spends 25 hours a week waiting tables in a Dallas restaurant smoky enough to make her throat swell, the findings were not surprising.

"My doctor's, like, 'You don't smoke, right? You work in a sports bar, that's almost as bad,'" Ms. Carter said.

Past studies have linked secondhand smoke to an increased risk of heart disease, asthma and bronchitis.

In a study published last August, nonsmoking spouses of smokers had about a 20 percent higher rate of heart disease deaths than nonsmokers whose spouses did not smoke.

This latest study — published today in the American Heart Association journal Circulation — found that nurses who said they had regular exposure to smoke at work or home had a 91 percent grater chance of heart disease.

Nurses who reported occasional exposure had a 58 percent greater risk of heart disease.

"They're startling in terms of the strength of the association," said Ichiro Kawachi, assistant professor of medicine at Harvard Medical School and the study's lead author.

However, researchers did not differentiate between smoke exposure at work and home, and left it up to participants to decide what constitutes "regular" or "occasional" exposure.

Kawachi said that is one possible weakness of the study, along with the fact that the women were asked about exposure only once, at the beginning of the 10-year study period, then tracked for heart problems.

Michael Eriksen, director of the Office on Smoking and Health at the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, said the study is one of the strongest to date on the dangers of secondhand smoke.

The researchers at Harvard Medical School and Brigham and Women's Hospital studied 32,046 female participants in the Nurses' Health Study ages 36 to 61 who had never smoked and free of diagnosed heart disease, stroke and cancer in 1982.

During 10 years of follow-up, they recorded 152 cases of heart disease, including 127 nonfatal heart attacks.

Kawachi said his study took into account other factors that might explain an association between secondhand smoke and heart attack, including diet, exercise, obesity, high cholesterol and use of the pill.

The strengths and weaknesses of the study are likely to be debated in court if it is cited in lawsuits filed by those who claim their health was harmed by secondhand smoke. A nationwide class-action suit scheduled for trial June 2 in Miami will seek billions of dollars in damages for flight attendants who worked on smoking flights.

2 involved in custody dispute return to U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A mother and child at the center of a widely publicized, 14-year custody fight have returned to the United States after spending nearly a decade in New Zealand, according to court papers filed by the woman's ex-husband.

Dr. Elizabeth Morgan, 49, and her daughter, Ellen Morgan, 14, have been living abroad since the late 1980s, when a District of Columbia judge ordered that Morgan's ex-husband, oral surgeon Eric A. Foretich, be granted unsupervised visitation rights.

Elizabeth Morgan, a plastic surgeon, claimed that Foretich sexually abused the girl, then known as Hilary Foretich. D.C. Superior Court Judge Herbert B. Dixon Jr. ruled in 1987, however, at the time there was not enough evidence to support the allegation. Morgan went to jail for 25 months rather than reveal her daughter's whereabouts to the court. They both later surfaced in New Zealand, where Morgan's parents live.

Six months ago, members of Congress sympathetic to Morgan passed a law allowing her to return to the United States without fear of arrest.

In court papers filed Monday, Foretich's attorney, Jonathan Turley, said he contacted New Zealand courts and confirmed that Morgan and her daughter have returned to the United States, The Washington Post reported in today's editions.

Turley also has filed a federal lawsuit challenging Congress' intervention, claiming it as a "bill of attainder" narrowly designed to punish one person to the benefit of another.

The papers filed Monday said Foretich will continue to challenge the law and will ask Dixon to order court supervision of the girl.

Turley said Foretich only wants to know that his daughter is safe and healthy and does not intend to seek custody or ask again for visitation rights.

American student rescued in Kenya

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A young American woman emerged with swollen feet, bruises and a big appetite when rescued after a week lost in a dense bamboo forest on Africa's Mount Kenya.

Jessica Lundquist's rescue Monday spurred celebration in Kenya and in her hometown of Mellen, Wis., where the city hall bell rang for the first time in 16 years.

"I kept on praying to God to help me get my way out of the forest," Lundquist said from her hospital room in Nairobi.

Lundquist, a 22-year-old senior at Northland College in Ashland, Wis., was separated from her school group May 13 while descending the 17,068-foot mountain, Africa's second-highest.

"My packed lunch was soaked in water so I had nothing other than water to drink," Lundquist said.

Jungle trackers, Kenyan police and 11 U.S. Special Forces personnel began searching. Lundquist was sleeping Monday when she heard a helicopter.

"When it began descending, I waved at it several times until somebody grabbed me by the hand and I found myself inside it," she said.

She was given first aid, greeted by her parents, Mary and David Lundquist, who had just arrived, and then the family traveled to the Kenyan capital of Nairobi, 150 miles to the south.

Kenya's President Daniel arap Moi visited Lundquist late Monday in the hospital and wished her quick recovery. The president planned a reception for the family today.

On hearing the news of her rescue, Lundquist's jubilant family members alerted Mellen Mayor Joe Barabe, who had promised to ring the city hall bell to let worried neighbors know that their friend had survived.

Though it was about 4 a.m., Barabe walked the block from his home to city hall only to discover his key wouldn't open the lock to the bell tower.

"I took the door off the hinges and rang the bell for about 15 minutes," Barabe said.

Is vitamin E therapy risky?

By Peter H. Gott, M.D.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Everything I read about vitamin supplements stresses vitamin E. Is there a toxic level? I have been taking 400 units a day, without side effects.

DEAR READER: Vitamin E has been the object of considerable attention in both the lay and scientific press. Because the vitamin is so abundant in foods (especially vegetable oils), deficiencies are unheard of.

The interest in the vitamin stems from the supposed benefits of megadoses. The Recommended Dietary Allowance is about 10 units a day; some vitamin proponents have advised taking up to 2,000 units.

Medical studies have shown that vitamin E in large doses can relieve the symptoms (pain and cramping) of vascular disease in the legs, may act as a weak anticoagulant, often helps the discomfort caused by cystic breasts in women, and sometimes retards the progression of Peyronie's disease (crooked penis).

Doses above 800 units are sometimes associated with fatigue, headache, weakness, chapped lips, nausea, diarrhea, and other symptoms. The vitamin should not be taken with anticoagulant drugs, such as Coumadin, except under medical supervision.

Nonetheless, vitamin E is surprisingly safe in doses up to 1,000 units a day. There is no known toxic level, but if you choose to take E supplements, I wouldn't exceed 1,000 units.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Fads I: Vitamins and Minerals." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10156. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have been bothered by burning feet for 15 years. Nerve tests and arterial X-rays have been normal, yet — at 76 — I am in quite a bit of discomfort and don't know what to do.

DEAR READER: This common symptom may reflect nerve damage or — as is more likely given your age — a circulatory deficiency. With appropriate testing, your doctor has properly ruled out nerve damage and blockages in the large arteries to your feet.

I say "large arteries" because they are the ones that are X-rayed; smaller arteries simply can't be seen during this test. Therefore, I conclude that you probably have "small artery" disease: arteriosclerotic blockages in the tiny blood vessels.

The good news is that you don't need surgery to unblock these arteries — technically, they are too small for surgery. The bad news is that treatment to relieve your symptoms is not altogether satisfactory, and consists mainly of keeping your feet warm at all times, stopping smoking, using an aspirin a day (to prevent blood clots), and remaining as active as you can; in fact, daily exercise (such as walking) will improve circulation to your feet.

This is a disorder that comes with age. Keep walking and follow your doctor's advice.

Space crews nearly finished

The crews of the space shuttle Atlantis and Russia's Mir station were almost finished hauling more than 3 tons of supplies and equipment between the docked spacecraft.

The seven-member shuttle crew and three Mir men — two cosmonauts and an American — must have everything in place by Wednesday morning, when the hatches between the two spacecraft are to be closed. Atlantis is to undock that night and return to Earth on Saturday after nine days aloft.

Early today, the astronauts and cosmonauts had completed more than three-fourths of the transfers. The eight men and two women were almost done moving 10 100-pound bags of water into Mir.

They made a key swap within hours of Atlantis' arrival Friday night, trading NASA astronaut Michael Foale for Jerry Linenger, who had lived on the station since January. Foale began a 4½-month stay.

"Mike is going to have a challenge ahead of him," Linenger said on a CNN interview this morning, referring to potential problems on the aging station.

Sentence probated for Hermleigh man

Terry Jim Nachlinger, 57, of 8515 CR 4124, Hermleigh, pleaded guilty Monday morning to a third-degree felony charge of driving while intoxicated and was sentenced to 10 years in the Texas Department of Criminal Justice, probated seven years.

Nachlinger had been indicted by the Scurry County grand jury on May 5 for an April 10 offense.

He had been convicted previously of driving while intoxicated on Aug. 19, 1995 and Jan. 26, 1996. He had been free on $5,000 bond awaiting trial.

Nachlinger's trial had been set to begin at 9 a.m. Monday with the selection of the jury.

meats lab, but frankly, it's not going to draw in any more students," Dr. Krenek said.

However, the workforce training center is expected to generate funds for the college. While no figures have been presented, it was noted last night that 38 companies have contracted with WTC for instruction over the past year.

Specifically, the training center will house areas for Lorber Industries of Texas, Pennzoil and Amoco — through working with those companies, WTC has secured some $700,000 in grants from the state.

In fact, most of the furniture and computers needed for the training center will be purchased through those grants. The grant funds cannot be used for construction or remodeling, however.

To pay for the renovation of the auto/diesel area, trustees are expected to direct administrators to take $200,000 to $300,000 from contingency funds, and add the difference to the college's existing revenue bonds, due for payout in 2001.

As to the construction timetable, the facility won't be completed until mid-January, it appears.

"This is an aggressive schedule in our opinion," said Adling.

He estimated a month for design development, a month to complete the construction documents, another month between bidding and awarding contracts, and at least three months for construction.

In the meantime, WTC will begin training Lorber Industries employees elsewhere.

The college has certain obligations under the grants, but those obligations can be met on or off campus until the training center is open, said Dr. Krenek.

All board members were present Monday, to include Greene, Bullard, R.C. Patton, Carolyn Barbee, Lee Presswood, Eddie Peterson and president Dr. Jay Kidd.

Snyder man held in Fisher Co. jail

ROBY — A Snyder man was taken into custody here Monday and charged with failure to stop and render aid after the vehicle he was driving collided with a sheriff's patrol unit Sunday.

Twenty-two-year-old Xavier Alfaro turned himself in at the sheriff's office Monday morning, after allegedly fleeing the scene of the accident a day earlier.

According to reports, Alfaro was driving a 1985 Chevrolet which collided with a 1996 Crown Victoria driven by Fisher County Sheriff Gene Pack at a location just west of the four-way stop in Roby at about 6:30 p.m.

Alfaro left the scene and eluded a search.

Pack was taken to Fisher County Hospital for X-rays. He was treated for bruises at the emergency room and released.

Alfaro is being held on $2,500 bond in the Fisher County Jail.
