START MOVEMENT FOR ORGANIZATION OF A NEW STATE

INITIATE MATTER AT MEETING HELD AT SWEETWATER ON SATURDAY.

Also Resent Failure Of Legislature To Redistrict State, According To Population.

SWEETWATER, TEXAS, April 2.—Following a fervid speech by Judge James Spiller here tonight, five thousand citizens of Nolan and surrounding counties assembled, unanimously adopted resolutions demanding representation according to population as provided in the constitution. The resolutions, drafted by O. H. Roberts, editor of the Daily Reporter, and R. M. Chitwood, representative from the 121st district, were adopted without opposition on motion of R. C. Crane, postmaster.

SWEETWATER, TEXAS, April 2.—Division of the state of Texas by the organization of a new state as a protest against "taxation without representation" is the goal sought by an organization initiated here today, as a result of the governor's veto on the West Texas A. & M. bill and rural school aid measure, and failure of the legislature to redistrict the state according to population figures. Several surrounding counties are supporting the movement and have representatives present.

Support of the West Texas chamber of commerce will be asked immediately, it was learned from leaders.

Governor Neff's veto of the small appropriation for the purchase of a site for the West Texas A. & M. college is full notice to the people of the west that they are living under a "state government which denies them the chance to realize their hopes and aspirations," declared R. M. Chitwood, representative for the one hundred and twenty-first district, today.

ARCHER PIPE LINE NEARS COMPLETION, MORE LOCATIONS

DISCOVERY WELL FLOWS AT 175-BARREL RATE DAILY

No. 2 Is Now Drilling, Together With Several Others—Pipe Line To Be Ready Soon.

Pipe line connections will be available for the Texhoma's well on the Rose ranch in Archer county, early this week, it was indicated Saturday. The Texhoma company's line from the K. M. A field is nearing completion and will soon be ready for use. The line is 4-inch part of the way and 2-inch for the remainder.

The Texhoma's well, flowing regularly 175 barrels daily, may not long remain the only producer for the pipe line to serve. About a dozen derricks are either up or in process of construction in that vicinity, and the Gose ranch is taking on all appearances of an embryo oil field.

Of the tests drilling, chief interest attaches to Texhoma No. 2 Gose, which is going down steadily. Texhoma's No. 1 Taylor, north of the Gose ranch, is a derrick.

The derrick is being built for the location of J. I. Staley & Company, 3600 feet south of the discovery well, on the Kaufman-Yates tract, and another derrick is building for W. J. Grisham's location about 4,000 feet of No. 1.

The Lee Bass well on the N. Henderson tract is now drilling, and the derrick is up for the Couch-Winfrey well to the northwestward, on the Henderson tract. Roberts & Hill also have a location on the Henderson.

The discovery well continues to flow so consistently that no effort has been made to pump it. The standard rig has been completed.

INCREASE FREIGHT RATES AFTER AN AGREEMENT TO DISCONTINUE RATE WAR

NEW YORK, April 2.—Increases in freight rates on merchandise consigned to several ports on the Atlantic seaboard of Europe were made effective today by trans-Atlantic shipping companies after an agreement had been reached to discontinue a rate war which was inaugurated several months ago.

The increases in some cases ranged from 200 to 300 per cent and will apply to goods shipped to French Atlantic ports and ports in Belgium, Holland and Germany.

The schedule, announced today, raises the rate on agricultural implements from $2 a ton to $8; provisions 20 cents per hundred pounds to 50 cents; general cargo $4 per ton to $16; oil, 75 cents per barrel to $2.75. Rates to Hamburg, Bremen and other German ports were increased ten per cent over the other ports.

The rate war, which originally started in the French trade, caused millions of dollars in losses to operators after it spread to companies operating between this country and Holland, Belgium and Germany.

NO DISORDERS OF A SERIOUS NATURE IN BRITISH STRIKE

By Associated Press.

LONDON, April 2.—No serious disorders have taken place as yet in the great mining strike, although a number of coal mines have been left by the pumpmen and engineers to be flooded and the men are said to be displaying an uglier temper, especially in South Wales. Fears are expressed that there may be a much wider withdrawal of enginemen and pumpmen, and the government is taking all necessary precautions.

It is expected that on Monday orders will be issued for drastic rationing of coal for lighting purposes, householders being reduced to 100 weight weekly and factories and business concerns to fifty per cent of their normal consumption.

Food supplies are ample for the present, according to the board of trade, and there is no anxiety on this score unless a breakdown in transportation results.

BURROUGHS SLEEPS BENEATH FIRST FLOWERS OF SPRING, FUNERAL HELD SATURDAY

WEST PARK, N. Y., April 2.—John Burroughs slept today beneath the first wild flowers of spring.

The severely plain coffin which reposed the body of the famous naturalist was covered with a blanket of delicate blooms, which he had loved for more than four score years—the last tribute of the children who attended the little school near Riverby, the Burroughs estate.

Among the close friends of Burroughs who came to Riverby to pay their last respects were Thomas A. Edison, Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone.

WOMAN AND HUSBAND FINED AMOUNT OF MONEY TAKEN FROM POSTOFFICE

HOUSTON, April 2.—A fine of $2,749.87, the amount of the money missing, was fixed by Federal Judge J. C. Hutcheson today jointly against Mrs. Frances A. Robertson, former postmistress at Katy, Texas, and her husband, Fred A. Robertson, each of whom pleaded guilty to misappropriation of postal funds.

KING BRUCE FREED OF MURDER CHARGE

STOCKTON, MO., April 2.—King Bruce, wealthy Cedar county farmer, was cleared of a charge of wife murder by a jury in Judge B. G. Thurman's court today. The jury's decision probably marked the closing chapter in one of the most stirring murder trials in south Missouri in years.

Shortly before the arrest of Bruce, Mrs. Effie Decker was arrested on a charge of causing the death of her husband, C. E. Decker, December 26, 1919, by administering poison. At the time of her arrest, Mrs. Decker was housekeeping for Bruce, going there about a week after the death of her husband. Mrs. Bruce's death occurred January 10, 1920. Bruce's arrest followed a report made by chemists from the Missouri state university upon an analysis of the contents of the woman's viscera. The analysis showed traces of poison.

Mrs. Decker was released under bond of $15,000, which was furnished by her father, Eber White, a wealthy farmer. Her death from stomach trouble about six months ago saved her from the ordeal of a trial on a charge of poisoning her husband.

When Bruce was arrested, mob violence was feared and he was taken to the Vernon county jail at Nevada for safe keeping. The woman's bond was canceled and she was placed in jail at Stockton.

Bruce yesterday took the stand in his own behalf. He denied that he poisoned his wife or that he had been unduly friendly with Mrs. Decker prior to the death of his wife or that of Mrs. Decker's husband.

The alleged friendship of Bruce and Mrs. Decker was a matter of controversy throughout the trial.

PAY A TRIBUTE TO MEMORY OF CONEY

Business Suspended And More Than Two Thousand People Meet The Body.

BRUNSWICK, GA., April 2.—Business was suspended here today as Brunswick paid tribute to the memory of Lieutenant William Devoe Coney, daring aviator, who was fatally injured last week when trying to lower his own record for a trans-continental flight from Jacksonville, Fla., to San Diego, Cal.

Coney lived here as a boy and his death caused a great sorrow to his hundreds of friends in this city.

More than two thousand people met the train that brought the body here from Natchez, Miss., last night.

Upon arrival here with the body of the dead aviator, the mother found hundreds of telegrams from all parts of the country expressing sympathy of the flyer's friends and admirers.

The body was laid to rest today.

SENATE ADVOCATES PEACE RESOLUTION WILL URGE ACTION

TO SUBMIT RESOLUTION WHEN CONGRESS CONVENES

Not Known Whether Program Meets With The Approval Of President Harding.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Senate proponents of an immediate peace with Germany by congressional resolutions are understood to be standing firmly by their intention to present such a resolution promptly upon convening of the extra session of congress a week from Monday.

Information that members of the senate favoring a speedy peace by resolution had not abandoned their previous intention was obtained tonight after a notable day of white house conferences at which the advisability of a congressional declaration of peace, together with other questions involved in a peace settlement were understood to have been discussed.

Whether the intention of peace by resolution senators has been approved in any degree by President Harding, and whether it has the support of senate republicans generally, were matters on which no information was available.

In this connection it was recalled that some of the more prominent members of the senate favoring a peace resolution have stated definitely that action on matters involving peace would not be taken in conflict with administration views.

The conferences at the White House today were generally considered in the bearing on international affairs as probably the most important that President Harding has held since his inauguration.

Senator Knox of Philadelphia, former secretary of state and author of the republican peace resolution of the last session of congress; Colonel George Harvey of New York, selected as ambassador to England; Myron T. Herrick of Ohio, understood to be under consideration for ambassador to France, and Stephene Lauzanne, noted French journalist, who came to this country with former Premier Viviani, were among those with whom the president was closeted during the day. All of these who participated in the conference declined to say what specific proposals were discussed or to indicate when decisions might be expected.

By inference the day's developments were coupled with the visit here of M. Viviani, who has brought to American officials a first hand report as to the present attitude of the European government toward the league of nations and related subjects. Gossip about the mission of the former premier persistently has suggested that he proposed to persuade the administration not to push its peace declaration but rather to consider on what basis it might accept the treaty of Versailles.

Senator Knox went to the White House at the president's invitation and they spent more than two hours together. The visit started a new outcropping of speculation about the fate of the peace resolution but was followed by no authoritative announcement as to whether the measure would be pressed at the outset of the special session of congress that convenes a week from Monday. The impression given was that the administration was feeling its way in the light of the information and advice brought by M. Viviani and that a definite policy was yet to be framed.

PLAN TO DISCUSS THE INPORTATION OF COTTON TO GERMANY AND BELGIUM

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Proposals involving exportation of one million bales of American cotton to Germany and Belgium members of congress said today, will be discussed at the conference to be held Monday by the war finance corporation with southern bankers.

The exportation of large amounts of cotton to Germay and Belgium is understood to have been a subject of negotiation for some time between the war finance corporation and the exporting corporation recently organized at New Orleans under the Edge act.

FINAL ARRAIGNMENT OF JUDGE LINDSEY POSTPONED

DENVER, April 2.—Final arraignment of Juvenile Judge Ben Lindsey, who was ordered to pay a $500 fine or go to jail for a year, for contempt of court, was postponed until next Saturday by Judge Baggott of the criminal court today.

Judge Lindsey was to have appeared in criminal court here this morning to either pay the fine or go to jail. No reason was given for the postponement.

When Judge Lindsey faced delinquent boys in his court this morning who were to report their behavior, he said:

"I can't talk to you this morning, boys, because I have got to go to the criminal court where I may be sentenced to a year in jail for not snitching on a kid. Do you think I did right?" he asked.

"You sure did," shouted the boys.

"Do you think I ought to be put in jail?" questioned the judge.

"No! No! You ought to be put on probation like we are," the boys chorused.

LUCIAN W. PARRISH WILL BE CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR IN 1922

CONGRESSMAN ANNOUNCES HE WILL ENTER RACE IN PRIMARY NEXT YEAR.

HAS ADVANCE ASSURANCE OF STATEWIDE SUPPORT

LUCIAN W. PARRISH.

Lucian W. Parrish, congressman from the 13th district, will be a candidate for United States senator.

Just before being called back to Washington on special business for his district Thursday Mr. Parrish from his home at Henrietta announced that he had definitely decided to enter the race for the senate in the 1922 primary.

Mr. Parrish said that at the proper time he would make a complete statement of his views on the live issues of the day.

His announcement followed a visit to a number of the more important centers of the state in all of which he was pledged strong support.

Friends in Wichita Falls several months ago urged Mr. Parrish to enter the race for the senate. Mr. Parrish, however, did not definitely decide to become a candidate until a few days ago after his friends in many sections of the state had urged him to do so.

The announcement will be received with much satisfaction from thousands of Mr. Parrish's friends in Wichita Falls and throughout the district and it is believed that he will receive practically undivided support in Wichita Falls. An early move in the campaign, it is expected, will be the organization of a Parrish for Senator club in Wichita Falls with a big membership. His friends here, knowing his ability, earnest desire for service, and knowing his ability as a campaigner, are prepared to give him all the support within their power.

Mr. Parrish, who is 41 years of age, was elected to congress from 13th district in 1918. His record for work and service during his first term has been equaled by few members of congress. He was re-elected in 1920 and is now serving his second term.

Mr. Parrish is a native Texan, having been born in Clay county. He worked his way through school and college and at the University of Texas he was a leader in the student body and an athlete whose record will long be remembered at that institution. He began the practice of law at Henrietta, which he continued with much success.

He has many warm personal friends in Wichita Falls and the citizens here feel that he belongs as much to them as to Henrietta.

Mr. Parrish expects to make a very active campaign, if his congressional duties will permit.

PLAINVIEW THEATER DESTROYED BY FIRE

Flames Spread To Elks' Home And Other Buildings Are Threatened Last Night.

AMARILLO, TEXAS, April 2.—Losses aggregating $50,000 to $75,000 resulted from a fire originating in the projecting booth of the Maedi theatre at Plainview, 80 miles south of here, at 9:30 tonight. The theatre is a total loss, and was filled with patrons when blazing film communicated flames to the auditorium. All escaped with only minor injuries. Flames destroyed a grocery store and spread to the Elks home. Call has been extended to nearby towns for aid. Flames are spreading.

PROJECT IS AUTHORIZED BY THE STATE OF OKLAHOMA ON SATURDAY.

SURVEYORS TO BEGIN AT ONCE, IT IS SAID

Link From Oil Field To This City Will Be First Constructed, Announcement States.

Special to The Times.

DUNCAN, OKLA., April 2.—Charter for the Duncan, Oklahoma and Texas railroad, a proposed line extending from Oklahoma City through Duncan and the Stephens county oil fields to Wichita Falls, was granted today by the state of Oklahoma, according to word received here from W. E. Hawley, secretary of the chamber of commerce.

Organizers are Colonel Hawley, M. C. Houston, W. E. Reynolds, G. L. Wilson, Harry Baker and W. L. Brittain.

G. L. Wilson, president of the Duncan National bank, one of the organizers, said this afternoon that surveyors would be in the field immediately and that work on the line would start with all possible dispatch. The link, through the Empire oil field to Wichita Falls, will be the first constructed, after which the link through the east side shallow field to Oklahoma City will be built. Financiers are understood to have pledged their co-operation and the organizers, all of whom are Duncan men, are perfectly confident of the early completion of the line, which will afford direct connection from Wichita Falls, Oklahoma City and intermediate points.

NOTHING KNOWN HERE OF DUNCAN RAILROAD PROJECT

While declaring that Wichita Falls would be heartily in accord with any movement to give her a new railroad outlet, Wichitans who keep in touch with railroad matters said Saturday that they heard nothing of the project mentioned in the above dispatch.

Completion of the road would give, eventually, two direct lines between Wichita Falls and Duncan, as construction of a line from Waurika into Wichita Falls, giving connection with the Rock Island at the former place, is known to be among the earliest undertakings on the Rock Island program.

NO RECENT NEWS RECEIVED FROM THE FORMER EMPEROR

REPORTED THAT HE HAS NOT ENTERED SWITZERLAND—WIFE IS ANXIOUS.

MAY RENEW ATTEMPT TO REGAIN THE THRONE

Wanted To Issue Proclamation But Was Prevented By The Authorities.

GENEVA, April 2.—Herr Werkman, secretary of the former Emperor Charles, telephoned to the Associated Press at 9 o'clock tonight that no news had been received at Prangins from Charles, who has not yet entered Switzerland. Former Empress Zita is anxious over the absence of word from her husband.

VIENNA, April 2.—Former Emperor Carl still considers himself king of Hungary and intimated before his departure for Switzerland that he might make another attempt to regain the Hapsburg throne.

This information was contained in a dispatch received today from Steinamanger, where Carl made his headquarters during his attempted coup.

The dispatch stated that just before Carl departed for Steinamanger he wrote a letter, explaining he was convinced his country's interests demanded his departure, but that he still considered himself the legitimate monarch.

Carl, it was said, reserved the right to remount the throne later appointing Admiral Horthy, the present regent as his chief lieutenant during the interval.

The former emperor wished to issue a proclamation to the Hungarian people but was prevented by the authorities.

FORMER EMPEROR CHARLES BACK TO SWITZERLAND

BUDAPEST, April 2.—Former Emperor Charles, his move for restoration to the Hungarian throne thwarted by the government, will leave tonight or tomorrow morning in an automobile on his way back to Switzerland, according to semi-official information today.

The former ruler has been telephoning to Admiral Horthy, the regent, three or four times a day from Steinamanger beseeching him to change his mind on his declination to acquiesce in the resoration plans, but the regent has resolutely refused to alter his stand.

M. Fouchet, the French charge d'affaires here, has promised a French safe conduct for the former emperor.

Quiet prevailed in this city today and similar conditions were reported from throughout the country.

EX-KAISER WAS MUCH INTERESTED IN MOVEMENT

LONDON, April 2.—Former Emperor William and the former German crown prince have been watching from Holland with the greatest interest the attempt of ex-Emperor Charles of Austria Hungary to secure resoration to the Hungarian throne, the Evening News corespondent at Amsterdam reports.

Both the ex-kaiser and his eldest son have been kept well posted by telegraph of the progress of Charles' attempted coup and there has been much coming and going of prominent Germans during the last week.

The Dutch authorities, however, are watching the Hohenzollerns carefully. There was no question, it was declared, of the former crown prince leaving the country, the correspondent adds.

AMERICAN RADICAL ARRESTED IN MEXICO

Alleged That He Is Charged With Being a Deserter From The U. S. Army.

MEXICO CITY, April 2.—Linn E. Dale, American draft evader and radical, will be deported to the United States, it was learned officially here tonight. He will depart tomorrow for either El Paso or Laredo, where he will be handed over to American authorities.

MEXICO CITY, April 2.—Federal authorities last night arrested Linn E. Gale, an American radical, who for more than three years has published a monthly magazine here which of late has been sharply critical of the Obregon administration. According to semi-official information Gale will be deported immediately, but whether he will be turned over to American authorities has not been determined.

From official sources it is learned that the United States war department has been advised of the Mexican action and there is a general belief that a request probably will be made for Gale's deportation to the United States, where it is alleged he is charged with being an army deserter.

Gale was arrested while at work at his office and brought to a police station where he was held incommunicado. Inquiries at communist headquarters disclosed that his wife "had accompanied him."

Magdalena Gale is the business manager of Gale's "International Monthly," federal objection to which caused his arrest, but it is not known whether she is similarly charged with her husband.

Willard at their home in Ola, this county, on January 15. He was taken to the Dallas county jail as a precautionary measure. Priddy, a son-in-law of the murdered couple, had taken an active part in an investigation of the affair.

GERMANY NOTIFIED AMERICA DEMANDS PAYMENTS IN FULL

MUST ACCEPT FULL MORAL RESPONSIBILITY FOR WORLD WAR.

AMERICAN COMMISSIONER CONVEYS THE ULTIMATUM

Germans Admit Approaching The United States With Proposal For Settlement.

By A. L. BRADFORD.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—The German government has been notified of the United States' position that Germany must accept full moral responsibility and pay reparations for the world war.

The attitude of the United States has not been communicated to the German government formally, because the American government has no diplomatic relations with Germany, still being technically at war with that country.

Germany is understood to have been notified of the American position through Ellis Loring Dresel, American commissioner in Berlin.

The statement of the position of the United States is the outgrowth of a number of conferences between Commissioner Dresel and German Foreign Minister Simons. In these conferences, it was said the German foreign minister has sought to secure the sympathy of the United States for Germany in the clashes with the allied over the reparations question. Dresel communicated the gist of these discussions to the state department it is declared on good authority and the United States government instructed him to maintain the attitude of this country that Germany must pay, as outlined by a high official yesterday.

The communications outlining the American position were sent to Dresel for him to announce to the German government, before Rene Viviani, special French envoy arrived here, showing definitely that Viviani did not secure the statement of policy of yesterday.

It was understood to be gratifying to him, however.

This policy toward Germany, decided on by President Harding and Secretary of State Hughes, shortly after the new administration took office, was forecast exclusively by the United Press.

GERMAN GOVERNMENT ADMITS SOUNDED OUT UNITED STATES

By Associated Press.

BERLIN, April 2.—The German government officially admitted today having sounded the United States government with a view to the assumption by Germany of a portion of the allied debts to America through the latter accepting German reparations bonds in lieu of part of the allied obligations. No actual negotiations, however, it was said, had occurred between Germany and the United States regarding reparations.

Dr. Simons, the foreign minister, it was added, had explained to Loring Dresel, United States commissioner in Berlin, the German standpoint concerning reparations.

MORE THAN 7,000 GREEK CASUALTIES IN RECENT BATTLE

LONDON, April 2.—Heavy fighting is continuing around the city of Eski-Shehr, Asia Minor, according to a Reuter message from Smyrna, with the Turks holding up the Greek advance. The total Greek casualties are reported to be more than 7,000 and the Greek medical service is declared to have broken down.

The railways today, the message adds, refused transportation to Greek troops, it being the intention to force requisition of the railway lines in order to place responsibility upon the Greek government for whatever damage is caused to them.

FURTHER CONFIRMATION OF LOSSES SUSTAINED BY GREEKS

By Associated Press.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 2.—A further confirmation has been received here of the reports that the Greeks have suffered a severe setback at Eski-Shehr and also that they are unable at present to continue their advance.

The Turkish communique says: "We have won a complete victory on the Eski-Shehr front and are pursuing the enemy. We broke through the left wing and the center is yielding. The Greek losses are heavy."

PROMINENT CUBAN POLITICIAN KILLED

Political differences are said to have led to the tragedy.

CLAIMS OF VICTORY BY BOTH SIDES IN ELECTION TUESDAY

CANDIDATES FOR PLACE NO. 1 ESPECIALLY ACTIVE

Most Of Work Has Been Of Personal Nature With Few Public Activities.

But that's just what will happen for at least three of the aldermanic aspirants in Tuesday's elections. Their very own wives are not going to vote for them. If any of the candidates should lose by just one vote, he can go home and blame it on the missus.

Not that the wives don't want to see their husbands elected. They do. But they forgot to pay their poll taxes last January, not knowing then that their husbands would be candidates in April.

An increasingly large number of Wichita Falls voters have been realizing from day to day, during the past week, that there is to be a municipal election next Tuesday, with control of the city council as the stakes in the contest.

Interest in the election, which had been noticeably lacking up to the first of the week, has been heightened more by the personal button-hole work of the several candidates than by any public activities. Political activities of a public nature have been confined to two neighborhood meetings in North Wichita and on the east side, and to communications to the papers.

There was some talk of having a public speaking Saturday night, giving all aspirants for office a chance to present their claims, but as this is written, Saturday afternoon, the plans for such a meeting had not been furthered in any way.

Up to the first of the week, the so-called anti-administration candidates, particularly those for place No. 1, had been doing all the work, but during the week there were evidences of increased activity on the other side, the friends of which were bestirring themselves to a noticeable extent.

Interest has centered chiefly around the race for place No. 1, in which there are four candidates, all of them very active and energetic in their campaigns. There has been less activity in the race for place No. 2, in which J. B. Hatchitt and J. F. Reed are candidates, and still less in the place No. 3 contest between Rhea Howard and R. E. Shepherd, but friends of all the candidates have been more or less busy. In the police commissioner's race, both R. L. Yates and George Hodgins have been appearing at neighborhood meetings and taking advantage of opportunities to speak. Judge C. F. Spencer represented W. G. Bralley at a north side meeting, but neither the commissioner himself nor W. L. Smith has been making any speeches, so far as known.

The fact that the women-folks can vote in this election, for the first time, is not being overlooked by any of the political workers, and due attention is being paid to the female vote. The house-to-house canvass, which was not practicable in the old days when one had to take a chance on catching the old man at home, has been used extensively in this campaign.

No lack of confidence in the outcome is evident on either side of the fight, and some sweeping claims are being made.

UNIQUE RECITAL TO BE HELD TUESDAY EVENING AT THE PALACE THEATER

Miss Helen Davis, the celebrated mezzo-soprano, and Sibyl Sanderson Fagan, a whistler without a peer, assister by Willard Osborne, will be heard in an unique recital at Palace theatre on the evening of Monday, April 4.

Miss Davis is one of the most promising young singers now on the concert stage. She is thepossessor of a brilliant voice of glorious quality and an ability to interpret the songs that America loves. She was born in America and has accomplished all her vocal and artistic trajning entirely here, of which fact she is very proud.

When Sibyl Sanderson Fagan was a tiny girl she was given to making everybody in the family miserable by whistling loudly and eternally. One day, along came a professional whistler to visit the Fagan home in Springfield, Ohio, and Miss Fagan suddenly discovered that she really could whistle "a little better' as she modestly expressed it, than most people. She determined to make a real artistic profession for herself by means of her unusual gift. She studied breathing exercises, which are quite as important in whistling as in singing. Also, she studied the piano until her artistic ideals were developed. It ddn't take her long, after beginning piano lessons, to see that her whistling could be made a real art and not an entertaining novelty. Miss Fagan whistles by means of her two fingers. She says she wouldn't even try it any other way, for she can whistle longer and get less tired and avoid blistered lips by using her fingers.

Cards of admittance may be secured from Phonograph Shop so long as accommodations remain.

BOND SET AT $1,000 ON CHARGE OF OPERATING A PUBLIC GAMBLING HOUSE

Following a preliminary hearing before Justice of the Peace J. F. Maxwell, the bond of L. C. Brewer was set at $1,000 to await the action of the grand jury. Brewer was charged with operating a gambling house.

Brewer was arrested by Texas rangers Friday night at Newtown in company with nine other men who pleaded guilty to the charge of gambling. Testimony was offered that Brewer was in the game at the time when the officers approached.

The crowd in the building endeavored to make their getaway when Ranger Gonzaullas broke in the front door but Ranger McCormick was at his post at the rear of the building and after firing several shots into the air the crowd went back into the building.

It was stated that money was found on the tables as well as two dozen packs of playing cards, some dice and a quantity of choctow beer and corn whiskey.

ISSUES WARNING AGAINST CHILDREN STARTING FIRES IN STREETS AND ALLEYS

Fire Chief J. L. McClure has issued a warning against children playing with fire in the streets and alleys of the city, several cases of this kind having been brought to his attention recently. The practice, says the chief, of allowing youngsters to build bonfires of trash and rubbish in public thoroughfares is exceedingly dangerous, not only to the children themselves but to surrounding property. The high winds prevailing at the present time increase this danger a great deal, and the chief is very desirous of putting a stop to it.

SENORITA VILLA MAY NOT COMPETE WITH MRS. BURNETT

Forfeit Money For Appearance Of Mexican Challenger Has Not Yet Been Posted.

Cowboys and cowgirls from western ranches are beginning to send in their entries for the round-up which will be staged at the ball park April 28, 29 and 30, and among the entries already received are several experts who have never appeared in a contest here before.

Among those who will make their first appearance at the round-up here are Yakima Canutt, Canadian champion broncho buster who won the capital prize in this event at the Calgary Stampede, Rene Hafley of Ridgeway, Colo., champion cowgirl trick and fancy rider of Colorado; Mike Hastings of Pendleton, Ore., bulldogger and calf roper; Frank McCarroll of Boise, Idaho, bulldogger; Fox Hastings of Pendleton, cowgirl bronk rider; Bonnie McCarroll of Boise, Idaho, cowgirls bronk and steer rider, and many other experts who will enter the contest here for the first time.

Two extra features that have already been engaged for attractions to fill in between the regular contested events of the round-up are Mamie Francis, champion lady horseback rifle shot, and "Appollo," high jumping horse, an animal that leaps over a large size auto filled with passengers.

Although present indications are that the special roping contest between Mrs. Burnett and Senorita Villa will not take place, as the Mexico people have not as yet placed up their forfeit, Mrs. Burnett is not taking any chances on being caught out of practice and is working daily with the lariat on the Burnett ranch near Iowa Park, and will again be one of the principal features of the round-up.

ESTIMATE 20,000 DAILY PRODUCTION IN YOUNG COUNTY

THREE GOOD WELLS ARE COMPLETED DURING WEEK

Lively Drilling Campaign Expected During Spring As Result Of Developments.

GRAHAM, TEXAS, April 2.—The total production of the Young county field at this time is over 20,000 barrels daily, according to a conservative estimate of production figures of the larger companies. Pipe line runs are averaging something like 7,000 barrels daily, according to actual gauge readings of the Prairie Pipe Line company, the remainder of the 20,000 barrels being stored in tankage erected by the larger companies.

It is estimated that the McCluskey lease is producing 5,000 barrels daily; Godley, 4,000; Seaboard, 2,500; Mid-Texas, 2,000; O. P. & G. Co., 1500; Shamrock, 1,500; Roxana, 1,300, and Conner, 500. This makes a total of 18,300 barrels daily, to say nothing of production of smaller companies. These figures the very conservative and possibly fall much below the number of barrels actually produced daily in the field.

The Prairie Pipe Line company has never been able to care for the full production of the Young county field, even though they have just completed the installation of an additional line to the field. The total capacity of the pumping station is only 10,000 barrels daily, and illustrates only too clearly the need of additional pipe line facilities in one of the most important oil fields in the Unted States.

Production Figures Jump.

Production figures have jumped during the last week through the completion of three good wells—namely, the Godley's Nos. 4 and 5 and the Seaboard's No. 1, all on the M. K. Graham. These wells are producing over 2,000 barrels each. The Mid-Texas Graham syndicate well yesterday increased its flow to 2,400 barrels when the Seaboard No. 1 blew in on the same lease.

These wells have produced a wave of renewed activity in Young county and are regarded as the forerunner of a lively drilling campaign this spring.

As an indication of the widespread confidence in the Young county field a prominent refinery man remarked this morning that wells in the county would be producing twelve years from now. He also added the prediction that within the next eighteen months this county will outstrip Stephens county.

"My belief in the future of Young county," he said, "is based on the fact that this section is producing from five oil sands and not lime as is the case with Stephens county. And my belief is stimulated all the more because the Young county field is being drilled in the right manner."

With new locations extending in all directions in the McCluskey pool, and with two wells now drilling in the Bunger district, this county may reasonably expect one of the most active summers in its history.

Claim Invention Will Locate Oil Without Drilling

A recently constructed device for which it is claimed the distinction of being able to locate oil sands without ever piercing the earth has been brought to the attention of the Times through a letter sent to G. A. Prentice, 1606 Burnett street, by J. W. McDaniel and W. W. Hughart, the inventors.

The men have never attempted to place their invention on the market, it is said, but have spent the last three years in testing it out in the Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas oil fields. They now believe that they have proved conclusively the merit of the device and wish the public to know the result of some of their efforts.

McDaniel and Hughart were in Burkburnett in June, 1919, according to their letter, and after conducting tests in various places were clearly able to define the oil producing sands in that section. So far as they know, it is claimed, none of the wells have shown production which they designated as being outside of the oil territory.

The Bogarhard test, which was then drilling, they declared would be dry, and according to reports their prediction turned out to be correct. On the Testerman lease, which was drilled between two dry holes, they predicted oil, and this proved to be the case. In May, 1920, they conducted a series of tests in the vicinity of the East Wichta well and classed it as an exceedingly doubtful proposition, claiming that it was on the very edge of an oil sand and that there was not much promise of its showing any production.

In this connection it is interesting to note that the oil detecter indicates the presence of three oil sands near Wichita Falls, one running on the very outskirts of town, another near Call Field and the third and largest about ten miles east of the city. It also claims that within fifteen miles of Burkburnett there is a field, never touched heretofore, which is far more valuable than all the Burkburnett fields combined.

IMPORTANT DEVELOPMENTS BREAK THICK AND FAST IN DUNCAN FIELD EXTENDING EAST SIDE TERRITORY

DUNCAN, April 2.—Developments broke thick and fast in the last week in several sections of the Duncan fields, making important extensions on the east side as well as on the west side.

The most important occurrence since the Dalton brothers brought in the discovery well for the new 2,000-foot sand sixty days ago, was the reported reaching of a deeper horizon, at 2828 feet, by the Parsons & Gant test on the Slaving farm, in Sec. 29, 1 N, 8. W., now reaming down and intending to set casing around 2828 feet.

If this hole makes a well, it will mean the opening up of a deeper and, in all probability, a more prolific sand, than any hitherto discovered in Stephens county, Okla.

Danciger's Preserve Secrecy.

Joseph and M. O. Danciger are keeping developments at their deep test in Sec. 36, 1N, 9W, very quiet, but it is rumored that they have discovered the same sand which the Daltons found a few days ago for Parsons & Gant on the Slaving.

If this is true, it means that the field will be torn wide open for intensive drilling operations during the coming summer on the northwest.

Kilgore Stimulates East Side.

"Jack" Kilgore's famous East Side wildcat has started big drilling campaign by independents in the country around Sec. 11, 1 N, 5 W., in which that well is located. There now appears to be no question that the Kilgore is bound to make a well, and it may make a good one. It flowed 35 barrels last Wednesday morning, and the owning syndicate believes that it will be good for at least 250 barrels. They put a small bailer into the hole Thursday, and are still far from the bottom of the 1096-foot hole, but she is making lots of gas and plenty of oil all the time.

Boone Well Now Flowing.

The Boone, which topped the sand the middle of last week, at 1953 feet, is now flowing into the tanks, but no official estimate as to daily production has yet been given out by "Jack" Boone, head of the owning syndicate. This well is in the east half of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 29, 1 S, S. W. It was standing full of oil from a week ago last Thursday until last Monday. It looks like a good well.

Hobson Shut Down at 2200.

"Slim" Hobson's well, in Sec. 28, 1 S., 8 W., has been shut down at 2200 feet, where it topped the sand a week ago. They are reported to be setting casing at that level and are expected to drill in soon. All indications point to the probable getting of a big well here.

Schultz Causes Speculation.

The Schultz is being closely watched. If it makes a well, it will take the Parsons-Gant sand two and one-half miles to the northwest from the Parsons & Gant well in the southeast corner of Sec. 25, 1 N., 9 W. The Schultz is located in Sec. 13, 1 N., 9 W. They have been bailing the well to test the 2200-foot sand. The well began to show considerable gas after bailing down 750 feet. They are reported to be having a lot of pipe trouble. It is not known whether there has been a break in the pipe, or whether the casing has actually collapsed. She is making gas right along through heavy mud, and some oil. The pipe trouble probably will force a long delay in completion of the test of this 2200-foot sand.

Nance-McPhail Making Oil.

The Nance-McPhail, which attracted so much attention last week, when she filled the slush pit with oil, after topping the sand at exactly 2222 feet, is causing its owners a lot of trouble. Forty feet of open hole below the casing has been caving badly, and she bridged. The crew has been fighting to get through this bridge. But she is still shooting up lots of oil, backed by terrific gas pressure at the bottom of a hole filled with mud.

P.-G. On Young a Well.

The Parsons & Gant on the Young farm, on the south edge of Sec. 29, 1 N., 8 W., got a well, and she looks good for big production. The sand was topped at 2097 feet. She made one flow Saturday a week ago and another flow last Sunday. They were into the sand three feet on Monday. Then she started flowing steadily, and last reports were to the effect that they are hooking up with the Prairie pipe line.

The Best of All Oil company's No. 3 in S. W. of Sec. 24, 1 S., 9 W., topped the sand at 2200, was drilled in Saturday a week ago, and is said to be a better well than that concern's No. 1 and No. 2, which have been making 300 barrels each at 2200. Field experts think the No. 3 may reach 750 barrels.

The Old Colony Petroleum company, in Sec. 6, 1 S., 8 W., is reported to have a well good for 500 or over.

The Hivick, in N. E. corner of Sec. 36, 1 N., 9 W., which made a flow Friday night a week ago, ran the bailer the next morning, and she flowed and shot 160 feet into the air. The only reason the oil did not go over the Hivick crown block was because a high wind was blowing and carried the plume of oil onto a neighboring derrick to the north.

The state inspector for the conservation stepped in and ordered operations discontinued until the cement should set better, as she was making about one barrel at each flow. However, the Hivick is a well, and a big one, and may go to 2,000 barrels or better. It proves a continuation of the Parsons & Gant sand directly south from the P. & G. discovery well in 25-1N-9W.

The Gypsy is making a deep test in 15-2S-5W, two miles northwest of Loco. This is the first deep test in the shallow field, and is located about 20 miles east of Duncan. Drilling started two weeks ago, and she is down around 900 feet.

MANGUM, OKLA., April 2.—Peter Boyle committed suicide here Friday, using a sixshooter. He was 60 years of age and leaves a family. Ill health was said to be the cause.

Tag Day Appeared To Be Big Success At 6 P. M. Saturday

Tag day for the Day Nursey appeared to have been a big success when the 6 o'clock report was made to The Times. "We have done fine," a member of the finance committee stated at that hour. Money and checks were being counted and the workers were very optimistic.

A big feature of the day was the gift from Mrs. J. W. Stringer "and family" of a check to cover one whole month's running expenses at the nursery. A month's expenses averages about $400, it was stated.

A number of smaller but very substantial and much appreciated prices were paid for the little tags, and apparently every citizen downtown during the day had patronized the "vendors," all of whom were volunteer workers.

Two volunteer workers whose assistance was very much appreciated were Harry Baum, who made all of the collection boxes used on the streets, and Wilford Harrison, at whose drug store headquarters were maintained.

The side making the longest chain will be declared winner. The duet, "Nailed to the Cross," will be sung by Mrs. C. Y. Tully and Mr. Von Allmen, and a quartette, "The Old Rugged Cross," by Mrs. Tully, Miss Martin, Messrs. Neal and Von Allmen. During the songs a spotlight will be thrown on an improvised cross.

CENTRAL PRESBYTERIAN MEN ENTERTAIN WITH BANQUET

A congregational social meeting which was in the nature of a banquet was given by the officers of the Central Presbyterian church Friday evening at the church.

The meeting was one of the most pleasant get-together sessions of the church year, and an appetizing spread added materially to its enjoyment. Sandwiches, coffee, hot chocolate, pickles, olives, celery and cherry pie were served, and there were informal and interesting talks by Dr. Reed, J. C. Presley, D. B. Read and Mrs. George Fleming, who gave a report of the woman's work for the year. Musical selections, readings and songs later on contributed to the enjoyment of a general good time.

HUNDRED LEAGUERS ATTEND NONSENSE PARTY FRIDAY

A hundred leaguers of the First M. E. church attended the nonsense party at the church Friday night, the party turning out to be a rally for the Skyrockets and Skyscrapers, each side trying to outsing and outyell the other.

Miss Margaret Akin of the Skyrockets was winner of an April fool prize, which was handed to her but dropped to the floor and broken before she got it. Miss Florence McCulloch of the Skyscrapers won the spooning contest prize, and J. V. Cheairs of the same contingent was the best runner in the newspaper race. In the lemon race the Skyrockets gave the Skyscrapers the worst of it after a hard fought game. The Reds won, as usual, in the alphabet game.

PRESIDENT TO SOON DETERMINE THE FATE OF THE POSTMASTERS

NOW GETTING THE OPINION OF THE PARTY LEADERS ON THIS QUESTION.

EXPECTED TO FIND WAY TO CARE FOR REPUBLICANS

Civil Service Rule Of President Wilson May Be Revised To Meet Situation.

By MARK SULLIVAN

(Copy'rt 1921, by N. Y. Evening Post.)

WASHINGTON, April 2.—President Harding will shortly make a decision which will largely determine the fate of fully nine-tenths of the party leaders and workers who are seeking patronage. He is just now getting the opinion of the party leaders in congress and elsewhere and also a thorough report on the situation as is exists. The nature of this decision can only be understood by close examination of the law as it now stands. Ex-president Wilson in 1917, put all of the first, second and third class postmasters under civil service. The democrats therefore said that any action which President Harding may take will be antagonistic to civil service principles.

The democrats, in fact, rely on making this decision one of their major issues. The republican position on the other hand is that there was a "trick"—this is the word the republican use, in the language of Mr. Wilson's order. As Senator Lodge expressed it, "The order was very cunningly drawn." The way the republicans justify their charge is that: Mr. Wilson came into office March 4, 1913, during the following four years, of course, the term of all these postmasters expired automatically. The republicans charge that all of the first, second and third class postmasters appointed during this period were democrats. It is the universal practice of the party in power to appoint its own members to the postoffices. The republicans charge that only after the offices had been filled by democrats that Mr. Wilson put them under the permanent protection of the civil service. It was, in fact on March 31, 1917, after Mr. Wilson had been in office four years, that he issued the executive order which is now in question. The Wilson order provides that whenever a vacancy occurs, "as the result of death, resignation, or removal" his successor shall be appointed by a competitive examination under the civil service commission. The point, as the republicans make it, is that postmasters who did not die or resign and were not removed hold their offices permanently. As Senator Lodge expressed it, "The point that the expiration of a commission does not create a vacancy, therefore the man who is in office may be reappointed without the examination, and that, of course, was the purpose of the order." What irks the republicans, however, is that there are still in office some 8,000 postmasters not likely to "die, resign, or to be removed" within a sufficiently short time to give the publicans a chance at the offices. It is these 8,000 offices that republican workers throughout the country are eager for. While the republican workers throughout the country are eager for Harding to revoke the order which bars them from a chance at the postoffices, many of the republican leaders in Washington take a different view. It is gossip in Washington that at a White House dinner at which the subject was discussed the feeling was overwhelming against a return to the spoils system. What is likely to be done, however, is this: President Wilson's order will be rescinded and a new executive order will be substituted. This new order will compell the existing postmasters who have not been appointed under civil service rules to resign at the ends of their present terms. Their successors will then be appointed on the civil service basis. This will at least give to the republican workers the chance to take the civil service examination in competition with everybody else.

The new order will probably provide that the president shall appoint one out of the first three taking the examination, rather than the top man on the list. On theory that this will give the republicans a chance. Also, the examinations will probably be changed so as to be less purely bookish and to take into consideration the candidates qualities of personality and his experience and adaption to the kind of work a postmaster must do.

Suit for 5 Cents And Costs of Court Is Filed in Dallas

DALLAS, TEXAS, April 2.—Suit for five cents and court costs, the total of which would amount to $2.15, was filed in justice court here today against the Dallas Railway company by C. K. Bullard, a local attorney.

In his petition Bullard says he boarded a street car this morning and inadvertently dropped a dime and a penny in the fare box—an excess of five cents. The car conductor refused to refund the nickel, Bullard alleges, and even declined to permit the next passenger to make the refund and square the box. Instead, Bullard said, he was handed a printed slip informing him to present "his claim at the company's office."

"I haven't time to walk all over town for a nickel," Bullard said today. "It'll be worth while just to see the car company revise that rule and make less trouble for passengers."

ORGANIZE $250,000 OIL SYNDICATE HERE

Ten Wichitans Plan Operations In Field Locally And In Stephens County.

Organization of a $250,000 syndicate for general oil operations has been perfected by a group of Wichita Falls oil men, who expect to operate in Stephens county and local fields. The organization will be known as the Producers Petroleum company, and its affairs will be conducted by John O'Donohue, well known local oil man.

Those interested are: John O'Donohue, W. M. McGregor, C. E. McCutchen, J. S. Bridwell, L. Crowell, Frank Kell, R. H. Delaney, Orville Bullington, Fred M. Gates and W. M. Priddy.

Some leases have already been taken in the Duncan field, and the syndicate will probably acquire both acreage and production nearer home.

BANKRUPTCY PROCEEDINGS AGAINST OWNER OF BANK

HOUSTON, April 2.—Bankrupty proceedings against Charles L. Johnson, owner of the Houston Trust and Savings bank, which closed its doors Monday, were instituted in federal court today by seven depositors whose claims exceed $4,000. Hearing was set for April 15.

The petition was filed in opposition to receiver proceedings in the 80th district court which had placed the Houston Land and Trust company in charge of the suspended bank. It alleges that Johnson "induced certain creditors" to apply for the receivership.

RALLS TO HAVE ELEVATOR 75,000 BUSHELS CAPACITY

RALLS, TEXAS, April 2.—Construction of a grain elevator with an ultimate storage capacity of 75,000 bushels is being started. The first unit of the elevator will hold 25,000 bushels. This makes the third elevator in this town and as the prospects for a bumper wheat crop were never better, the increased storage will be badly needed. Over 180,000 acres of land in this county is in wheat.

MENTION WICHITANS FOR CONGRESS' RACE

S. A. L. Morgan And B. F. Johnson Said To Be Among Possibilities. Two From Denton.

Rumors recently in circulation that Congressman Lucian W. Parrish would enter the senatorial race caused some talk locally of possible successors to him in the 13th congressional district, even before Mr. Parrish on Saturday definitely made it known that he would be a candidate.

Two Wichitans and two residents of Denton have been mentioned as possible aspirants. S. A. L. Morgan, local attorney, and Representative B. Frank Johnson are names that have been heard from here, while it is understood that Alvin C. Owsley, Jr., and C. C. Thomas, speaker of the present Texas house, would be Denton county's aspirants.

When asked about the report Saturday, Mr. Johnson said he appreciated the compliment from whoever it was that mentioned his name, but had no other comment.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 2.—Frank J. FIGHT STARTED ON TRUCK MILEAGE TAX

Local Dealer Takes Lead In Forming Organization To Urge Repeal Of Measure.

A vigorous fight to obtain repeal of the truck mileage tax, enacted by the last legislature and recently signed by the governor, will be made by Wichita Falls truck dealers, who are planning an organization for that purpose.

W. J. Daugherty, one of the most active of the local dealers, started Saturday to form an organization to wage a determined effort for repeal, on the ground that the tax puts such a severe penalty upon motor truck operations as to make it impossible to use them to any extent.

B. F. Johnson will probably direct the campaign. Through Mr. Johnson's efforts at Austin recently, the governor agreed to submit the question at the coming special session. The governor's reason for signing the bill, it is understood, is that the legislature after making enormous appropriations, passed only one revenue bill which was the one hitting the truck industry so hard.

Wife of Oklahoma Official Seeks to Set Aside Divorce

SHAWNEE, OKLA., April 2.—A petition seeking to set aside the divorce granted E. R. Hughes, corporation commissioner of Oklahoma, from his wife, has been filed in the superior court here, it became known today.

The petition asks annulment of the divorce on the grounds that it was obtained through fraud.

Mrs. Hughes is reported to be living at Cleburne, Texas.

DENVER, April 2.—Because his 86 year old wife was tired of him, Gabriel Gajcser, a Hungarian, attempted to get a divorce so he could marry his wife's pretty 19 year old granddaughter, Lena Bertram.

The bribe was turned down and Gabriel told the decree would receive consideration without any remuneration on his part.

Both plaintiff and defendant filed a motion for new trial which was granted at that time but Saturday afternoon the judge set aside this order entering a clause, however, to protect the rights of both parties to file a new motion as well as giving notice of appeal. OLDEST JUSTICE OF THE PEACE IN OKLAHOMA HAD INTERESTING AND EXCITING WAR EXPERIENCE

DUNCAN, OKLA., April 2.—Claims advanced in behalf of Henry Miller, justice of the peace at Altus, that he is the oldest justice in the state, is disputed by Duncan—and the proof is given.

J. P. Sampson, for six years justice of the peace here, is three years Judge Miller's senior, being 79 years old. In addition he is presiding over another court, the city court, and dispatches the business of both courts with the speed and accuracy of a man many years his junior.

Judge Sampson has been a resident of Duncan for 30 years. He established the first newspaper ever published here, the Duncan Banner, now a daily publication, and he manager that newspaper until 15 years ago when he sold it to its present owner, Ed J. Leeman.

Judge Sampson was born in the Republic of Texas, under the administration of President Sam Houston, in Red River county. His boyhood was spent there.

He enlisted in the civil war and served four years in the Confederate army. He is the only man in the country who can claim the distinction of having sold cigars to the commander-in-chief of the federal forces, General Grant, while still in the service of the Confederate states. He is also the only living Confederate soldier who can claim the distinction of having helped to put down the negro riot in Detroit, Mich., during the progress of the war.

How It Happened.

It all happened this way:

Judge Sampson was taken prisoner by the federal forces and sent to the prison near Chicago. After a few months he managed to escape and went to the home of an uncle in Iowa, who was in sympathy with the Confederate cause. He sought financial aid from this uncle to get into Mexico, from where he intended to cross into Texas and again join his company at the front.

The uncle persuaded him that his idea was impossible of execution and got him to go to Canada instead. He crossed at Detroit over to Windsor—and it happened this way:

"When I got to the river I wondered how I was going to get a pass to go across. I hit upon the scheme of waiting until the last moment before the boat started across the river," the judge said in telling about it. "When the gong sounded I rushed breathlessly on board and managed to allow my hat to float into the river. When I got across I engaged the captain in heated argument, telling him that I had lost my hat in the river, and along with it my pass. He fell for my story and allowed me to land on Canadian soil."

The young soldier spent some time working at odd jobs on the Canadian side at a salary of 25 cents a day and board.

Finally one night the negro soldiers who were being trained in Detroit received their bounty of $500. They immediately started to paint the town red, all of them drunk. A call was sent across the river to Windsor for reinforcements to quell the riot. Sampson and another Confederate soldier who had escaped prison into Canada reasoned it out this way:

Rioters Were Enemies.

The negro rioters were union soldiers, therefore their enemies. They would cross over, kill as many as they could and in that way render a service to the Confederate cause.

They crossed and put in the entire night sharpshooting colored soldiers and relieving them of their valuables. Between them they relieved the soldiers of more than $5,000 in cash and some valuable guns and watches. They induced a fisherman to again carry them across the river before dawn and they caught the first train to Toronto. And thus the "Battle of Detroit" was the only one in which two Confederates whipped a whole army of union soldiers.

Tiring of Toronto Sampson and his friend decided to see the sights of New York. When they got off at Buffalo to change cars Sampson was arrested and thrown in jail, charged with being a line runner from Canada. His partner fled back to Toronto. When no evidence could be found against him, the officers not suspecting he was an escaped Confederate prisoner, he was released and also went back to Canada.

Later the two went to Baltimore and induced the man in charge of army stores to give them a permit to open a store behind Grant's army in Virginia. The store was opened, the men all the time awaiting a chance to break through to the Confederate lines. The chance never came and they were still selling to Grant's army when Lee surrendered at Appomattox. In the meantime they had sold cigars to General Grant and his staff, and had taken the chance of being shot as spies if they had ever been arrested and identified as Confederate soldiers.

His Narrowest Escape.

But Judge Sampson's narrowest escape from death came after Lee had surrendered. He embarked on a boat which had been declared unseaworthy for a cruise up the Potomac to Washington. A storm came and the vessel drifted out the James river to sea. It sprung a leak and the captain announced there was no hope for any on board, but all hands continued bailing and were finally picked up by a boat which landed them on the Rhode Island coast.

Judge Sampson went from there to Washington. He boarded at the same place with John Wilkes Boothe and knew the actor well. He was in Washington the night Boothe assassinated President Lincoln, and although a frequent visitor to Ford's theater did not happen to attend that night.

"I have always believed Boothe's partner, Long, had something to do with framing the killing," Judge Sampson said the other day. "Boothe was an educated man and a brilliant man, but a fanatic. Long was far the shrewdest. He dropped out of sight after Boothe's trouble. I never knew what became of him."

After the war Sampson was a member of the Ku Klux Klan in Texas. He entered the newspaper business at Greenville, Texas, after saloon-keepers and gamblers had warned him that a prohibition newspaper would not be allowed. He replied that he would start publication on a certain date and continue for one year to the dot. He did, although he lost $4,000 on the venture, but Greneville voted dry shortly afterward.

"During that time I had no more staunch supporter than B. F. Looney, who was last year defeated for governor of Texas," Mr. Sampson said. "He is a life-long and a sincere prohibitionist."

Although 79 years old Judge Sampson is alert and active. His mind is keen and he presides over his courts with dignity and dispatches business with speed. In the past 12 months he says business in both courts has increased approximately 300 per cent because of rapid oil development here.

RETAIL COAL DEALERS OF CHICAGO INDICTED

CHICAGO, April 2.—Indictments charging conspiracy, boycotting and blacklisting were returned today against officers of the Retail Coal bureau, the Retail Coal Merchants' association and several private detectives.

Bad Luck and the Devil Pursued Him

"I don't think any one has had more bad luck and sickness than I have. In 1905 I had two ribs, an arm and collar bone broken in a railroad accident. Then I had pneumonia. After recovering I crossed a pasture when a bull chased me, tossed me over the fence and broke my right leg. In 1910 I had typhoid fever; since then severe stomach and liver trouble, which no medicine or doctor touched until two years ago I got a bottle of Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, which proved the first ray of light in thirteen years." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. Mack Taylor and druggists everywhere.—adv.

VETOES HAVE MERIT OF COURAGE, AT LEAST.

No matter how we may view the wisdom of Governor Neff's action in vetoing the appropriation for the establishment of an Agricultural and Mechanical college in West Texas and in vetoing the $4,000,000 appropriation for the aid of rural schools for the next two years, he must be given credit for a courageous course. His reason given for the veto of the West Texas A. and M. appropriation was that it was opposed by the democratic state convention which nominated him and that a plank in opposition was adopted by that convention. His reason given for the veto of the $4,000,000 rural aid appropriation was that there would be insufficient funds to pay the appropriation. He also pointed out that he had already approved the bill appropriating $3,000,000 to supplement the available school fund.

Although, as Governor Neff explained in his veto, he was obeying the mandate of the convention which nominated him, there was a very insistent demand from many parts of West Texas for the establishment of such a college, and Governor Neff could not have done anything which would have given him greater popularity than to have approved the appropriation. It is true that there was sentiment against the appropriation in other sections of Texas but this sentiment apparently was by no means as strong as the sentiment favorable to it in West Texas. The governor's veto of the appropriation is certain to add impetus to the propaganda that is being spread in many communities in West Texas for the creation of a new state. This propaganda has gained considerable circulation since the failure of the legislature to redistrict the state and give West Texas proportionate representation in the state legislature and in congress with other sections of the state. While it is difficult to believe that such a step can be seriously considered, as said before, the governor's veto in the present instance will aid those who are spreading this propaganda.

Other than the reason that the money is not available for the $4,000,000 appropriation for the aid of rural schools there has been objection to this appropriation from some people who ought to know on the grounds that the appropriation is too large and that the provision for its distribution is not what it should be. But notwithstanding these reasons for its veto will bring condemnation upon the governor by many who have not analyzed the situation.

It is easy for a public official to do the thing that is immediately popular, but it is courageous to do that which is unpopular. Governor Neff's vetoes in these instances have, if nothing else, the merit of being courageous acts.

SELECTING A SITE FOR THE NEW HIGH SCHOOL.

The selection of a site for the proposed new high school is a matter of the greatest importance to the citizens of Wichita Falls and no action ought to be taken by the school board until after all property owners have been given an opportunity to present proposals for sites and until after public hearings have been held to give citizens an opportunity to present their views. Several sites, it is understood, have already been offered the board. Others may be available. Full opportunity should be given for the presentation of all proposals. Then with these proposals before it, and after citizens have been given an opportunity to present their views, the board can make its selection.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

FURTHER DISCUSSION OF SABBATH OBSERVANCE

Editor Times:

Although somewhat belated, my attention has been called to an article on "Sabbath Observance," reprinted in your issue of Feb. 20, from the Waco Times-Herald, in which I was much interested; especially in those portions of it which relate to the exemption clause of the Texas Sunday law, and the constitutional provision for religious freedom contained in the bill of rights for the state of Texas.

The above Sunday law exempts "any person who conscientiously believes that the seventh or any other day of the week ought to be observed as the Sabbath." But this requirement, that a man must "conscientiously believe" and practice a certain religious tenet before he can claim the benefits of the exemption clause, shows plainly that this law is a religious law; and it is therefore in direct conflict with that portion of the bill of rights which says: "All men have a natural and indefeasible right to worship Almighty God according to the dictates of their own conscience." For no man can worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience as long as the state insists upon selecting his religion for him in part or the whole, or insists upon his being religious at all.

A citizen who fails to observe Sunday as a religious institution, be he ever so conscientious in the matter, is branded by this Sunday law as a base criminal, unless he "conscientiously observes" some other day of the week "as the Sabbath." Is a man permitted to enjoy the "natural and indefeasible right to worship almighty God according to the dictates of "his own conscience" when he is compelled by law to render to the government an act of religious worship, which Christ tells him he should render to God alone? (See Matthew 22:21.) and which requirement is in direct conflict with the state bill of rights? And if he fails to render to the government this required homage, is he not branded by the Sunday law as a defiant law-breaker?

A law which requires an exemption clause in order to prevent it from coming into conflict with the inalienable rights and the conscientious convictions of American citizens is evidently a religious law, and consequently not a good law. And to admit that the government has a right to say whether an individual shall or shall not be permitted to exercise his constitutional and God-given rights, even in matters of religion, is to admit that the government has a right to deny him these rights. But this is not the doctrine of true civil and religious freedom. Nor it is the doctrine of the national constitution, nor of the Texas bill or rights which says: "No human authority ought in any case whatever, to control or interfere with the rights of conscience in matters of religion." All laws that are antagonistic to the provisions of this bill of rights are expressly declared by that document to be null and void. And among these laws the Texas Sunday law is justly included.

This law requires that the individual who observes any other day than Sunday must "actually refrain from business and labor on that day for religious reasons." This law, therefore, imposes upon the individual above said the observance of a religious duty, and attempts to regulate and interferes with his rights of conscience in matters of religion. But the Texas Bill of rights expressly provides that "no human authority ought, in any case whatever, to control or interfere with the rights of conscience." Thus the Texas Sunday law in its provisions directly violates the bill of rights, the people's charter of liberty.

Our forefathers, when they established the American republic, laid down the same principles for the nation that are contained in the Texas bill of rights; they said: "The free exercise of religion, according to the dictates of conscience, is something that every man may demand as a right, not something for which he must ask as a privilege. To grant to the state the power of toleration is implicitly to grant to it the power of prohibiting." This is true American doctrine, and needs to be emphasized in these days, in view of the demands made by the reform forces for religious, unconstitutional legislation.

To consent that an exemption clause in a Sunday law is right is to consent that the government has a right to compel everybody to observe a day of rest need no law to compel them to do so; while those who do not observe such a day religiously, can not justly be made to do so by law. The most that the government can do, when it attempts to enforce a day of religious rest upon its citizens, is to enforce a day of idleness. But it is not just to deprive a citizen of his time, so long as in the use of his time he keeps within the bounds of civility. It is industry, moreover, and not idleness, that is in the interests of both the individual and the government.

An exemption clause in a Sunday law is wrong, furthermore, because the exemption requires more of those who are exempted from the law than the law itself requires of those who are not exempted. Those who are exempted must "conscientiously" observe the day they keep before they secure the benefits of the exemption; while of those who are not exempted, no such requirement is made; although, as the exemption itself indicates, and as all men know, that is the implied intent of the law. Sunday laws, exemptions and all, are enacted for the purpose of enforcing the observance of a religious institution and of compelling the conscience.

An exemption clause is wrong, moreover, because to enact that which is professedly designed for the benefit of the consciences of one class of citizens only, is to enter upon class legislation, and thereby to consent that the government may disregard the consciences of all other classes in this respect. Those who ask or accept an exemption clause thereby virtually shut themselves off from protesting against the law from which they have asked to be exempted; but all men everywhere have a right to protest, and should protest, against religious legislation on the part of civil government now and at any time in the future.

Exemption clauses should be repudiated, also, because they assume that the majority have rights and liberties to grant to the minority, which is not true. Inalienable rights come from the Creator, and they are possessed equally; and with these rights belong the liberty to exercise and enjoy them. This assumption of superiority on the part of modern religious reformers, and of their being the dispensers of the rights and liberties of others on the part of Sunday-keepers, carries with it the idea that they may rightfully curtail or deny those rights and privileges whenever they see fit to do so. But this is not true, although it is unhesitatingly affirmed by them.

This whole scheme of religion-by-law is contrary to the principles of our American and state government. The United States senate well says: "Our constitution recognizes in every person the right to choose his own religion and to enjoy it freely, without molestation .... The proper object of government is to protect all persons in the enjoyment of their civil as well as their religious rights, and not to determine for any whether they shall esteem one day above another, or esteem all days alike holy. .... What other nations call religious toleration, we call religious rights. They are not exercised in virtue of governmental indulgence, but as rights of which the government cannot deprive any portion of its citizens, however small. Despotic power may invade these rights, but justice still confirms them."—Hon Richard M. Johnson, in his famous Sunday Mail Report, adopted by the United States senate in 1829.

It is evident from the foregoing considerations that the Texas Sunday law is a religious law, and that it requires conscientious, religious Sabbath-seeking on the part of its citizens. And being a religious law, it seeks to control, or interfere with the rights of conscience in matters of religion. It gives preference by law to particular religious societies and modes of worship. But these features of the law are all contrary to, and a violation of, the bill of rights of the state of Texas; and a bill embodying these objectionable features, if enacted into law, is expressly declared by the bill of rights to be null and void, and not a law at all. Such a law, therefore, has no legal existence.

There are many people who do their own thinking, and who see the injustice of such legislation, who naturally rebel when the government or a small minority in the government, seeks to force such measures upon them. The enactment and enforcement of such laws, therefore, fosters a spirit of rebellion and lawlessness, which later, is liable to extend to other laws which in themselves may be just. And just here is one of the causes—the enactment and enforcement of unjust laws—of the spirit of lawlessness with which the land is filled. The enforcement of such a law, a religious law, is neither just to the citizen, nor for the best interests of the government; for it will not have the support of public sentiment behind it. And as stated by the governor, in his address to the people of Texas on Feb. 17, concerning law enforcement: "Under our form of government the people are source of all power. . . . They are responsible for the enforcement of the law. Its enforcement is impossible in the absence of a sound, wholesome moral public sentiment." The sentiment of the majority of the people is against such legislation, and there is, according to the governor's statement, nothing accomplished by placing upon the statute books laws which do not have the sanction of the people behind them.

A local advocate of coercion in religion told us, some time ago, that ancient Rome "went down to hell" because of her lack of religion. But he failed to tell us that Rome, at that time, had more religious laws upon her statute books than at any time in her previous history. Her religious laws could not save her. It was so with other nations of antiquity. No nation was ever saved by having religious laws upon its statute books. Truth lodged in the heart, not upon the statute books, is what saves a nation.

For any class of persons to ask for or to accept these special privileges in religion embodied in Sunday law exemptions is nothing but selfishness. James Russell Lowell, in his poem entitled "Freedom," has well rebuked the asking of that sort of freedom in the following striking words:

Freedom.

Is true freedom but to break
Fetters for our own dear sake,
And with leathern hearts forget
That we own mankind a debt?
No; true freedom is to share
All the chains our brothers wear;
And, with heart and hand, to be
In earnest to make others free.

They are slaves who fear to speak
For the fallen and the weak;
They are slaves who will not choose
Hatred, scoffing and abuse
Rather than in silence shrink
From the truth they needs must think.
They are slaves who dare not be
In the right with two or three.

J. B. FITTS CRITICISES JUDGE SPENCER'S LETTER

Editor The Times:

In the Friday issue of the morning paper, Judge C. F. Spencer is quoted as saying that Commissioner Bralley is being opposed for re-election only by such people as do not want to see our laws enforced.

I am surprised at Judge Spencer, and disappointed in him, as well. I have known him many years, both in Montague county and since he came here to live, and while I can appreciate the fact that he might have a warm friendship for Mr. Bralley, I am no less indignant that I should be referred to as one who does not want the laws enforced simply because I choose to support some other than Mr. Spencer's candidate for police commissioner. Charlie Spencer, three years ago, when he was a candidate for congress did not refer to me, or to my friends, in any such language when he wanted our support, and if he thought we were that kind of citizens, I am surprised that he should have, at that time, shown such an apparent desire for our help.

I am coming to think that politicians are ungrateful, especially in defeat.

But are we opposed to law enforcement because we oppose Bralley?

Are we opposed to good government because we may be opposed to any or all of the present city government?

I think not. I think I can prove to the satisfaction of Mr. Spencer, or at least to the satisfaction of any fair-minded citizen, that we are not.

In the first place I and a good many of my friends are supporting George Hodgins for police commissioner because we think he is eminently qualified for the place. He is no newcomer to Wichita Falls. He has lived here something over six years, and is known to more than three times as many citizens as is Mr. Bralley. He has always occupied a good standing in the community as a clean, upright citizen, and one very competent to handle the work of the office which he seeks. And one who will always be found on the side of law enforcement.

I believe he can take the work of the police commissioner and reduce the cost of operating the work of the police department by an amount that will make an appreciable difference in the taxes, and that, after all, is one of the big items that appeal to our citizens at the present time. And he can do it, too, without detriment to the efficiency of the force.

The present city government has gone through a riot of spending that is making the owning of property a burden, especially to the small home owner. And the police department is no exception to the rest of the government. There are just about twice as many men of the police force as there ever were before, and twice as many as are needed. These officers, most of whom have only been in the city long enough to get their grips unpacked, must do something to make a showing—to make a bluff at earning their pay—and as a consequence they spend the bulk of their time badgering and nagging our citizens for alleged infractions of the traffic law. It does not appear from the records that they have made any great success at catching thieves or putting a stop to the high-jacking, but, oh, how busy they have been filling the police court with citizens for wrong parking, cutting corners, etc., and guilty or not guilty, a fine is always imposed in order to provide funds to pay this excess baggage on the force. Making a money-making proposition out of the city court—and calling it enforcing the laws!

Personally, I have nothing against Mr. Bralley, or any other member of the present city government. But I do think that something must be done to curb the extravagant expenditure of the peoples' money. The working man, the small property owner, cannot stand the excessive taxation. It may be all right for some fellow who has made a lot of money in oil, but we little fellows just cannot keep on paying the cost of the fiddling, and we are going to vote for some one who will have a little consideration for our condition.

J. B. FITTS.

STATEMENT OF CITY ENGINEER RIDICULED

Editor The Times:

In recent months I have noticed the Times is going into the use of fiction to fill its columns. Sherlock Holmes and other writers of clever stories are given much prominence. But you are hiding your own talent under a bushel. In Friday's paper you had a fiction story of sewer pipe that left nothing for the fiction writer. Sewer pipe that had been strung out along the prairie leading from the southwest corner of the city to the Seymour road, to the home of one of our city commissioners.

You quote the city engineer as having said it had been put there by mistake.

Fiction.

You quote him as saying it was meant to have been taken to Hayes street. Do you realize the humor of the situation?

Our elaborate and expensive city engineering department makes a location for a sewer, blue prints are made, bids are advertised for and accepted, the contractor goes to work, and has the work well under way.

Then somebody begins an inquiry as to why there should be money for a sewer out beyond Cannon park, three and a half miles from the center of the city, and from there cutting across a nice little farm owned in part by another city commissioner to the home of a city commissioner, when a really congested part of the city cannot have sewer because there is no money to build it.

Then the elaborate and expensive city engineering department comes out and says it was all a mistake, that the city never intended to build a sewer through the pastures between the city and Holliday—that the teamsters had made a mistake and taken the pipe to the wrong place.

Imagine the teamsters hauling a mile of twelve-inch sewer pipe to the wrong place?

Maybe the teamsters made the mistake of having the blue prints made, and the bids advertised for, and the contracts let.

But its just too d—— bad that if the teamsters are to blame the error was not discovered before the miles of sewer was laid in the pastures adjacent to Archer county.

Fiction.

Fiction, pure and simple. Fiction furnished by the elaborate and expensive engineering department of the city government.

And shall they deny that its fiction, then it's incompetence. Incompetence that is costing the tax payers a lot of money.

And poor Jones has got to pay the freight.

WHY?—

Do Rheumatic Pains Often Foretell Rain?

(Copyright, 1920, by The Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

Persons who suffer from rheumatism, or some other bodily disorders of a similar nature, frequently maintain that they can tell when a storm is approaching, by the increasing frequency of their pains and the sharpness with which these dart through their body. Predictions of this sort are often attributed to imagination or to coincidence, while, as a matter of fact, they have a very solid foundation of truth.

The human body is comparable to a barometer, in that it quickly reacts to changes of air pressure because of the air in the intercellular spaces beneath the skin. When the air pressure on the outside of the body decreases—as it does before a storm—the outward pressure in these cells increases in a direct ratio, and in the case of diseased or abnormal conditions such as rheumatism, gout and the like, causes additional pains. There is an old couplet which describes the process quite accurately by saying:

"A coming storm your shooting corns presage,
And aches will throb, your hollow tooth will rage."

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

Playing the Man.

There is a richer treasure than of gold,
A fairer fame than glory or renown.
But few can ever wear the victor's crown.
And few the scepter of full power may hold.
Nor can all men in history be told
And have their records marked and written down;
Let soldier, preacher, artisan or clown,
Toiler or dreamer, youth or gray-beard old,
Need never sigh for love or fellowship.
The world's approval or the joy of friends.
Each can be kindly and with smiling lip
Welcome the day and all that duty sends;
Each has it in his power to play the man,
And this is greatness under every plan.

THE THRILL THAT COMES ONCE IN A LIFETIME

ROAD BUILDING TO EMPLOY 300,000 IF PROJECTS SUCCEED

By HERBERT L. WALKER
United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—More than 300,000 unemployed will find work during the next year on road building projects if states and counties push projects already approved and congress makes an additional appropriation of $100,000,000 as federal aid in highway improvement, officials of the department of agriculture estimated today.

The grand total cost of road building projects that have been approved and are awaiting completion $622,000,000. In other words, this amount may be spent during the next year if the work is pushed. This includes amounts allotted by the federal government, the states, counties and cities.

Estimating that sixty per cent of the cost of road building is a labor charge, H. D. Fairbank, editor of the department of agriculture's road magazine, pointed out that this would make approximately $375,000,000 available for hiring employes. This amount, he estimated, would provide employment for 300,000 men the greater part of the year.

Between 20,000 and 25,000 miles of road can be built if all the money is expended.

A first class hard surfaced highway can now be built for less than $30,000 a mile. Many states have discontinued work until the cost has dropped below the $30,000 mark.

FORMER SOLDIER SUICIDES IN HOSPITAL AT HOUSTON

HOUSTON, April 2.—Guy Carroll of Kansas City, Mo., former overseas soldier, undergoing treatment at the public health service hospital here, shot and killed himself yesterday, it was learned today when the coroner was called to hold an inquest.

The young man left a note for his mother in Kansas City, leaving all of the money due him, $700, to his mother, and a note to the local lodge of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, of which he was a member, asking them to provide for his burial.

He served overseas with the 48th company of the transportation corps and had a severe attack of influenza while in France.

REGULAR TICKET IS WINNER SATURDAY IN TRUSTEE ELECTION

"DARK HORSE" ENTRIES POLL A LARGE VOTE, BUT FAIL OF ENOUGH SUPPORT.

VERY FEW WOMEN ARE AMONG THOSE BALLOTING

Opposition Which Developed Friday Stirs Friends Of Nominees To Bring Out Fair Vote.

"Dark horse" entries in the school board race Saturday met defeat at the hands of the regular ticket, the result of the election being as follows:

W. W. Brown, 183; W. T. Willis, 183; W. R. Ferguson, 178; W. M. Priddy, 175; F. G. Swanson, 83; F. M. Willis, 70. Judge Carrigan and R. E. Shepherd received one vote each.

No opposition to the regular ticket was apparent until Friday, when it was announced in the Labor Journal that F. G. Swanson was a candidate and that his friends were requested to write in his name on the ballot. A mass meeting was held at the Labor temple Saturday afternoon and all present were asked to go to the polls and write the names of F. G. Swanson and F. M. Willis on the ballots. Mr. Swanson is an attorney who has taken an active interest in labor union affairs; Mr. Willis is a carpenter.

News that there was opposition to the regular ticket caused friends of the nominees to become active Saturday, with the result that a much heavier vote than usual was recorded. There was only one voting box, at the city hall. Less than a dozen women exercised their recently achieved franchises.

UNION LABOR MEN TO HOLD POLITICAL MEETING MONDAY

Members of all labor organizations in the city will hold another mass meeting next Monday evening which will be devoted to the discussion of politics. The various candidates for office in the coming city election will be given an opportunity to address the members. The meeting will be called at 8 o'clock.

The mass meeting Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock was held for the purpose of endorsing candidates for the school board. The election was held Saturday and the members present decided to lend their support towards the election of F. G. Swanson and F. M. Willis, whose names did not appear on the ballot.

CEREMONIAL PLANS ARE CONSIDERED AT SHRINER'S LUNCHEON

Plans for the ceremonial to be held May 9 were discussed at the weekly luncheon of the Shrine Club Saturday, and prepartions for a record event were reported by J. R. Monroe, C. O. Fritz, A. C. Ellis and other committeemen.

The ceremonial will be more of a daylight affair than its predecessors, it was stated, with the parade at 11 a. m., a barbecue luncheon at the Call Field hall at noon, the ceremonial proper in the afternoon and a big dance at night.

George Austin Moore, Palace vaudeville entertainer, pleased the nobles mightily with some of his darkey impersonations, and the usual excellent musical program was given by the Edler orchestra.

AN EX-POLICEMAN DOESN'T WANT JOB FROM YATES

Editor The Times:

Referring to declaration as found in Record-News of March 31, made by Mr. Yates, I deem it my personal duty in my own behalf, since he made exceptions with his reference to ex-policemen. I have not been to any political gatherings and have therefore done no hand-clapping. It is a well known fact that I served as policeman under the former administration. Was also elected by the new administration, took the oath of office, went on duty and worked two hours. Then without the knowledge or consent of any human being on earth except myself, I went to my room, number twenty-one in the Marion hotel, and put my gun in my trunk, wrote a letter of resignation, enclosed the letter with badge and handed same to Mr. Goodfellow, who was then our chief. I would have accepted position during the winter months with most any legitimate institution. But now I am not expecting any favors from the police department or in the future. I want it distinctly understood that I have not asked Mr. Yates for a place with the police department in the event of his election nor do I want such a place. I fear our friend, Mr. Yates, is just a little nervous over the outcome of this election. Our friend, Mr. Yates, must remember that whoever enters the list for the laurel wreath of renown must bare his head for a crown of thorns and prepare to drink of the bitter cup which sorrow has pressed to the lips of genius in every age. I have no unkind feeling for Mr. Yates. I have great respect for his size and ability. He is not authority for me, however, in things of interest to the public. I reserve the right to cast my vote for one I deem most capable of filling the place in question, and will save my part of the hand-clapping to take place in the event of his defeat.

Very truly yours,
C. C. WHEAT.

DINING CAR RATES ON DENVER REDUCED

RAILROAD MEETINGS HELD HERE SATURDAY

Five Different Lines Elect Old Officers And Consider Routine Matters.

Directors of five different railroads, all known in traffic parlance as the Wichita Falls lines, held annual meetings in Wichita Falls Saturday, and reelected old officers for the ensuing year. The railroads were the Wichita Falls and Northwestern, the Wichita Falls railway, the Wichita Falls and Wellington, the Wichita Falls and Southern railway and the Wichita Falls and Southern railroad.

C. E. Scharff, receiver for the M., K. & T. system, which now controls the first three lines mentioned; C. N. Whitehead, chief operating officer and assistant receiver; Joseph Bryson, general solicitor, and C. C. Huff, general counsel, attended the directors' meeting for the three roads, coming in a private car shortly before noon and leaving early in the afternoon. No changes were made in the official family.

Practically all former directors and officers of the Wichita Falls and Southern lines were reelected. The "railroad" company is building the line from Newcastle to Breckenridge, while the "railway" company operates the line already built to Newcastle. Officers and directors are:

W. F. & Southern Railway company —J. A. Kemp, president; T. J. Perkins, vice president; L. F. Linney, secretary; R. O. Harvey, treasurer and assistant secretary; O. B. Womack, auditor; J. A. Kemp, Frank Kell, J. J. Perkins, W. M. Priddy, C. H. Clark, S. W. Sibley, C. W. Snider, T. J. Taylor, Reese S. Allen, directors.

W. F. & Southern Railroad company —Frank Kell, president; J. J. Perkins, vice president; T. J. Taylor, secretary; L. F. Linney, treasurer and assistant secretary; Frank Kell, J. A. Kemp, J. J. Perkins, W. M. Priddy, Roy B. Jones, C. H. Clark, C. W. Snider, W. M. McGregor, L. C. Heydrick, directors.

BUILDING PLANS FOR Y. W. C. A. ARE SHOWN

Provide For Construction On Unit System As Need For Institution Increases.

Plans for a Y. W. C. A. plant in keeping with the city's needs along that line were laid before the building committee of the association Saturday afternoon by W. F. Thompson, architect, for the national board, who is associated with E. Stanley Field, local architect, in the matter.

Members of the committee viewed the plans with much interest. It is not contemplated that the plan as a whole shall be consummated in the near future, but it is intended to build on the unit system, whereby additions and enlargements can be made from time to time.

No action was taken on immediate building plans at the meeting.

THREE U. S. SAILORS ARE REPORTED SHOT BY MEXICO GUARDS

GALVESTON, TEXAS, April 2.—Three American sailors of an American merchant ship were reported shot in Tampico March 19, presumably by Mexican customs guards as they were attempting to return to their ship, according to Captain W. A. McGinn of the steamer Antietam which arrived here from Tampico.

TWO BIG DEALS IN REALTY SATURDAY

Curlee and Johnson Buy North Park Lots, Also Tract Southeast Of City.

The purchase of 145 lots in the North Park addition in North Wichita and of 100 acres southeast of the city, near the Denver tracts, by Curlee & Johnson was announced Saturday by that firm. The property was purchased from the estate of H. Brooks of Denison, who died here last winter. Mr. Brooks was interested in the Westland hotel.

The property southeast of the city will be divided into five and ten acre tracts and sold for suburban farm purposes, Mr. Johnson said. The North Park lots will be placed on sale at easy terms; the purchase by Curlee & Johnson includes all unsold lots in that subdivision.

JOINT CONFERENCE ON 44-HOUR WEEK

Proposition Is Discussed By Representatives Of Both Sides At Chicago Saturday.

CHICAGO, April 2.—The international joint conference council of printing employers and employes tonight adjourned to meet in New York on June 27, without reaching an agreement concerning immediate establishment of the 44-hour week advocated by the employes. James J. Freel, president of the International Stereotypers and Electrotypers' union, said the 44-hour week would go into effect on May 1, 1921, as previously agreed.

The controversy hinges about a referendum vote, taken in 1919 by the five unions of the printing industry, favoring establishment of the 44-hour week on the present 48-hour wage scale, and later agreed to by the United Typothetae of America. Many employers, however, contend they are not bound by the Typothetae's action, and representatives from various parts of the country appeared at open session today to voice their objections.

Speaking for the closed shop division of the Typothetae, Harris Hatch of Philadelphia explained that the council had no power, but had recommended the 44-hour week, which was accepted in convention. John W. Hasty of Chicago, another member, declared that the convention was not representative and that no organization of employers had the authority to represent the great body of employers over the country. He cited a Typothetae meeting here yesterday at which only six cities beside New York and Chicago were represented.

The unorganized group of employers does not feel bound by the recommendation of the council, nor the action of the Typothetae, in the opinion of Edward A. Brewster of Joliet, Ill. He explained that of the 35,000 employing printers in the country, 5,000 were members of the Typothetae, and but 1,500 of that number had closed shops. He declared himself against the 44-hour week, saying that such a movement would drive employers to the open shop. A. A. Tomlinson of Houston, Texas, and Lawrence E. Smith of Kansas City, Mo., added their protest to the shorter week, Mr. Smith asserting that business suicide was certain if such action was taken. Already, he said, large customers had notified Kansas City printing plants that they would withdraw their business if the printer employers acceded to the 44-hour week.

Vigorous talks in which the principle of the shorter week was upheld and declaration made that 60,000 printers and the 10,000 women of the bookbinders' union would fight against any opposition, were made by various union officers.

"LITTLE GIRL OF WHITE HOUSE" FEATURED IN MOVIES PAST WEEK NOT RELATED TO THE PRESIDENT

CHICAGO, April 2.—Everett Harding, a candy store owner, arrested today on charges of impersonating a federal official, tonight was declared by the police to have defrauded the Pennsylvania railroad out of nearly $2,000 and to have imposed on leading Chicago clubs and business men by posing as a cousin of President Harding, although actually no relation to the chief executive. The police said they believed Harding had obtained at least $10,000 from a group of business men by promising to use his influence in obtaining political appointments for them.

Harding, according to the police, found Chicago's leading citizens gullible. He took 22 of them to the inauguration in a private car, it was said, and paid the Pennsylvania railroad with a check for $1,918.44 which was returned, according to railroad officials, marked "no funds."

While on this trip, Harding became acquainted with a delegation from the Hamilton club, the chief republican social organization of the city. He posed before them as a cousin of the president, and was promised a life membership in the club, the police said. In return Harding was said to have promised his friends political appointments, telling them he was to be assistant secretary to the president.

Harding was held on bonds of $5,000 for hearing.

Harding, the police said, after becoming acquainted with prominent business men through posing as the president's cousin, confidentially promised to "let them in" on several business ventures which he said would be backed by the president. One of these was a "Harding hotel" to be erected in the fashionable north shore residence section, another was a chain of "Harding" candy stores, and a third was a monthly magazine. This magazine was to be known as the Inlook, and according to Harding's story as related by the police, was to contain an article in each issue by the president.

Pearl Harding, Everett's 13 year old sister, acquired considerable fame through the posing of her brother. She became known as the "whtie house baby," and it was said she was to go to Washington and live with the president. Her picture was widely sought by manufacturers to be used in advertising, she posed for scores of newspaper photographers, appeared in the movies, and was feted in Chicago.

Harding has been one of the most difficult of Chicago men to interview. He was always extremely busy on "government business" and kept friends seeking political appointments waiting for hours when they called on him. Once or twice a week, the police said, he would be "called out of town" and his friends were informed he had gone to Washington to confer with Senator so-and-so.

According to the police, Harding cashed in on his name by posing as Senator Harding's son during the republican national convention and passed several bad checks.

VOLUNTARY RECEIVERSHIP WITH U. S. FRIENDLY REFEREE SUGGESTED FOR EUROPEAN FINANCIAL TANGLE

By HAROLD D. JACOBS.
United Press Staff Correspondent.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Voluntary receivership, with the United States as a friendly referee in bankruptcy, is the only solution of the European financial tangle, Irving T. Bush, president of the Bush Terminal company, declared in an exclusive interview with the United Press today.

Bush, a recognized business and economic authority on both sides of the Atlantic, has just returned from a tour of Europe.

"The words 'bankruptcy' and 'receivership' are not exactly the definitions of the system that must be employed to extricate Europe from its present financial situation, but they are the nearest to describing the method we have in the English language," he said.

"My suggestion is this:

"Induce the European countries, which together owe the American government nearly $10,000,000,000 to scale down the interest rates on their international debts — their local 'liberty loans.' This will result in the saving of millions of dollars annually.

"In co-operation the United States would then reduce the interest charges on the foreign loans to even a lower level. For instance, if these European countries would cut the interest on their international loan from six and seven per cent to four, three and a half or three per cent, we would reduce our interest rates to a half or even one per cent under theirs.

"All of this, of course, would have to be accomplished through a sort of joint receivership, with the United States in the capacity of a friendly referee.

"There is no question in my mind that such an arrangement would have the immediate effect of restoring national and international confidence and eventually would lead to the liquidation of debts that now appear to be 'bad'."

"DEATH FARM" TRIAL IN GEORGIA TUESDAY

Expected Greatest Battle In The History Of State Will Be Staged.

COVINGTON, GA., April 2.—When John Williams, alleged "death farm" proprietor, goes to trial for his life here Tuesday probably the greatest legal battle in the history of Georgia will be staged. Not only will both sides be represented by legal talent that ranks among the best in the south, but the question involved will be one that is entirely new to southern courts.

If Williams, who is charged with killing eleven negroes and who goes on trial first for the murder of three, is convicted from all indications his conviction will be obtained almost solely on the testimony of a negro. This would be unprecedented.

Williams' conviction, if he is convicted, will be made on the testimony of Clyde Manning, negro, on Williams' alleged "death farm."

Manning has already confessed that under Williams' order he killed nine negroes.

He also stated that Williams killed one with his own hands and that he (Williams) ordered another negro, Charlie Chisholm (who was afterward put to death himself) to slay another.

LEGIONNAIRES TO TALK OF MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN AT TUESDAY'S MEETING

Plans for the new membership campaign and, probably, additional reports on the question of getting club rooms, will be among matters to come up at the meeting of the Pat Carrigan Post of the American Legion at 7:30 Tuesday night at the city council room.

A committee has been hard at work recently on the club room question and hopes to be able to report something definite. The need of a permanent meeting place has been sorely felt by the Legion since its organization, and it is hoped to fill this need very soon.

REACH THROUGH CAGE AND ROB BALTIMORE BANK OF $28,850 IN LIBERTY BONDS

BALTIMORE, April 2.—Reaching through the grating of the paying teller's window at the Calvert bank, in the heart of the shopping district today, three men succeeded in stealing $28,850 worth of liberty bonds, using sticks to which were attached bits of chewing gum to draw the bonds from the shelf behind the window. They then walked out and disappeared. The teller was absent from the cage at the time.

UNIVERSITY STAGES PARADE APPROVING GOVERNOR'S ACTION

AUSTIN, TEXAS, April 2.—Faculty and students of the University of Texas staged a gratification parade through the state capitol grounds today in approval of Governor Neff's signing of the bill to purchase additional land to the present site of the University.

The entire student body participated in the parade which was headed by the University band. Governor Neff responded to calls for a speech, declaring he appreciated the demonstration.

Governor Neff began speaking as the band concluded playing "The Eyes of Texas are Upon You." Banners were thickly sprinkled through the procession, one reading:

"I'm for Pat, Pa's for Pat, and we're all for Pat."

"We who loved the University years ago cannot easily forget her," said the governor, "we have loved her in adversity and we have loved her in triumph. I tried yesterday to do things over again and make the University of Texas forever a grand sweet song."

Dr. R. E. Vinson in a speech introducing the governor called attention to the contrast of this parade with the one four years ago when the students marched through the capitol grounds in protest against executive action practically vetoing the University appropriation bill.

BOLSHEVIKI FAIL IN EFFORTS TO CONTROL CITY OF VLADIVOSTOK

By Associated Press.

TOKIO, April 1.—Attempts by anti-bolshevik elements to gain control of the city of Vladivostok have resulted in failure, according to official advices received here. The fighting began in the city yesterday morning, but had not proceeded very long before officials of the Japanese garrison ordered the belligerents to cease firing and disarm. This order was obeyed and dispatches from Vladivostok state that at present the situation is not considered serious.

The incident was the outgrowth of an intrigue of the anti-socialists to seize the city, with the help of the remnants of the forces formerly commanded by General Kappel, anti-bolshevik leader in Siberia, it is said in special dispatches to this city. The authorities, however, had been informed of the conspiracy and took precautions against a serious uprising.

Some of the attacking forces arrived by steamer and opened the engagement at several points, notably near the railway station and around the fortress. They weredisheartened, it is said, by the failure of the 2,500 militiamen in the city to join them as was expected.

As they were armed only wth bombs and pistols, the attacking forces were soon dispersed by machine guns in the hands of the defenders of Vladivostok. There were a few casualties, two Japanese soldiers having been wounded by stray bullets. The commander of the attacking party and several reactionary leaders have been arrested.

SEEKS FREE ADMISSION INTO GERMANY OF FILMS PRODUCED IN AMERICA

By CARL D. GROAT,
United Press Staff Correspondent.

BERLIN, April 2.—Samuel Goldwyn, American moving picture magnate, began a fight today for the free admission of American films into Germany.

Other American impressarios here to complete alliance with the film industries of Germany joined him in the battle. They hoped to obtain an amendment to the laws which hold film importations to 15 per cent of the German footage.

The Americans argued that competition would result in better programs for the German "fans"; that it would be a source of revenue for the government and that it would serve to promote better feeling.

As a result of the Americans' recent effort the first advertisement of films from the United States are appearing in German papers. The films shown have been popular with audiences here.

An O. HENRY Story

Humor, Pathos Romance

The Girl and the Graft

By O. HENRY

THE other day I ran across my old friend Ferguson Pogue. Pogue is a conscientious grafter of the highest type. His headquarters is the Western Hemisphere, and his line of business is anything from speculating in town lots on the Great Skated Plains to selling wooden toys in Connecticut, made by hydraulic pressure from nutmegs ground to a pulp.

While in the metropolis Pogue can always be found at one or two places. One is a little second-hand bookshop on Fourth Avenue, where he reads books about his hobbies, Mahometanism and taxidermy. I found him at the other—his hall bedroom in Eighteenth Street—where he sat in his stocking feet trying to pluck "The Banks of the Wabash" out of a small zither.

I sat on his trunk while Ferguson Pogue talked. No one could be franker or more candid in his conversation. He told me stories of his profession with pride, for he considered it an art. And I was curious enough to ask him whether he had known any woman who followed it.

"Ladies?" said Pogue, with Western chivalry. "Well, not to any great extent. They don't amount to much in special lines of graft, because they're all so busy in general lines. What? Why, they have to. Who's got the money in the world? The man. Did you ever know a man to give a woman a dollar without any consideration? A man will shell out his dust to another man free and easy and gratis. But if he drops a penny in one of the machines run by the Madam Eve's Daughters' Amalgamated Association and the pineapple chewing gum don't fall out when he pulls the lever you can hear him kick to the superintendent four blocks away. Man is the hardest proposition a woman has to go up against. He's a low-grade one, and he has to work overtime to make him pay. Two times out of five she's salted. She can't put in crushers and costly machinery. He'd notice 'em and be onto the game. They have to pan out what they get, and it hurts their tender hands. Some of 'em are natural sluice troughs and can carry out $1,000 to the ton. The dry-eyed ones have to depend on signed letters, false hair, sympathy, the kangaroo walk, cowhide whips, ability to cook, sentimental juries, conversational powers, silk underskirts, ancestry, rouge, anonymous letters, violet sachet powders, witnesses, revolvers, pneumatic forms, carbolic acid, moonlight, cold cream and the evening newspapers.

Three times he had jumped in the way of automobiles.

"But I'm telling you about Artemisia Blye. She was from Kansas and she suggested corn in all of its phases. Her hair was as yellow as the silk; her form was as tall and graceful as a stalk in the low grounds during a wet summer; her eyes were as big and startling as bunions, and green was her favorite color.

"On my last trip into the cool recesses of your sequestered city I met a human named Vaucross. He was worth—that is, he had a million. He told me he was in business on the street. 'A sidewalk merchant?' says I, sarcastic. 'Exactly,' says he. 'Senior partner of a paving concern.'

"I kind of took to him. For this reason, I met him on Broadway one night when I was out of heart, luck, tobacco and place. He was all silk hat, diamonds and front.

"Vaucross stopped and talked to me a few minutes and then he took me to a high-toned restaurant to eat dinner.

"I declare, I must have looked as bad as a magazine artist sitting there without any money and my hair all rumpled. But Vaucross treated me like a bear hunter's guide. He wasn't afraid of hurting the waiter's feelings.

"'Mr. Pogue,' he explains to me, 'I am using you.'

"'Go on,' says I; 'I hope you don't wake up.'

"And then he tells me, you know, the kind of man he was. He was a New Yorker. His whole ambition was to be noticed. He wanted to be conspicuous. He wanted people to point him out and bow to him, and tell others who he was. He said it had been the desire of his life always. He didn't have but a million, so he couldn't attract attention by spending money. Three times he had jumped in the way of automobiles; but the only result was five broken ribs and a notice in the papers that an unknown man, five feet ten, with four amalgam-filled teeth, supposed to be the last of the famous Red Leary gang, had been run over.

"'How am I supposed to push along your scramble for prominence?' I inquires. 'Contrast?'

"'Something of that sort tonight,' says Vaucross. 'It grieves me; but I am forced to resort to eccentricity.' And here he drops his napkin in his soup and rises up and bows to a gent who is devastating a potato under a palm across the room.

"'The Police Commissioner,' says my climber, gratified. 'Friend,' says I, in a hurry, 'have ambitions but don't kick a rung out of your ladder. When you use me as a stepping stone to salute the police you spoil my appetite on the grounds that I may be degraded and incriminated. Be thoughtful.'

"At the Quaker City squab en casserole the idea about Artemisia Blye comes to me.

"'Suppose I can manage to get you in the papers,' says I—'a column or two every day in all of 'em and your picture in most of 'em for a week. How much would it be worth to you?'

"'Ten thousand dollars,' says Vaucross, warm in a minute. 'But no murder,' says he; 'and I won't wear pink pants at a cotillon.'

"'I wouldn't ask you to,' says I. 'This is honorable, stylish and uneffeminate. Tell the waiter to bring a demi tasse and some other beans, and I will disclose to you the opus moderandi.'

"We closed the deal an hour later in the rococo rouge et noise room. I telegraphed that night to Miss Artemisia in Salina. She took a couple of photographs and an autograph letter to an elder in the Fourth Presbyterian Church in the morning, and got some transportation and $80.

"The fifth evening after she got my wire she was waiting, all decolletee and dressed up, for me and Vaucross to take her to dinner in one of these New York feminine apartment houses where a man can't get in unless he plays bezique and smokes depilatory powder cigarettes.

"'She's a stunner,' says Vaucross when he saw her. 'They'll give her a two-column cut sure.'

"This was the scheme the three of us concocted. It was business straight through. Vaucross was to rush Miss Blye with all the style and display and emotion he could for a month. Of course, that amounted to nothing as far as his ambitions were concerned. The sight of a man in a white tie and patent leather pumps pouring greenbacks through the large end of a cornucopia to purchase nutriment and heartease for tall, willowy blondes in New York is as common a sight as blue turtles in delirium tremens. But he was to write her love letters—the worst kind of love letters, such as your wife publishes after you are dead—every day. At the end of the month he was to drop her, and she would bring suit for $100,000 for breach of promise.

"Miss Artemisia was to get $10,000, if she won the suit that was all; and if she lost she was to get it anyhow. There was a signed contract to that effect.

"Sometimes they had me out with 'em, but not often. I couldn't keep up to their style. She used to pull out his notes and criticize them like bills of lading.

"'Say, you!' she'd say. 'What do you call this—Letter to a Hardware Merchant from His Nephew on Learning that His Aunt Has Nettlerash? You Eastern duffers know as much about writing love letters as a Kansas grasshopper does about tugboats. "My dear Miss Blye!"—wouldn't that put pink icing and a little red sugar bird on your bridal cake? How long do you expect to hold an audience in a courtroom with that kind of stuff? You want to get down to business, and call me "Tweedlums Babe" and "Honeysuckle," and sign yourself "Mamma's Own Big Bad Puggy Wuggy Boy" if you want any limelight to concentrate upon your sparse gray hairs. Get sappy.'

"After that Vaucross dipped his pen in the indelible tabasco. His notes read like something or other in the original. I could see a jury sitting up, and women tearing one another's hats to hear 'em read. And I could see piling up for Mr. Vaucross as much notoriousness as Archbishop Crammer or the Brooklyn Bridge or cheese-on-salad ever enjoyed. He seemed mighty pleased at the prospects.

"They agreed on a night; and I stood on Fifth Avenue outside a solemn restaurant and watched 'em. A process-server walked in and handed Vaucross the papers at his table. Everybody looked at 'em; and he looked as proud as Cicero. I went back to my room and lit a five-cent cigar, for I knew the $10,000 was as good as ours.

"About two hours later somebody knocked at my door. There stood Vaucross and Miss Artemisia, and she was clinging—yes, sir, clinging—to his arm. And they tells me they'd been out and got married. And they articulated some trivial cadences about love and such. And they laid down a bundle on the table and said 'Good night' and left.

"And that's why I say," concluded Ferguson Pogue, "that a woman is too busy occupied with her natural vocation and instinct of grat such as is given her for self-preservation and amusement to make any great success in special lines."

"What was in the bundle that they left?" I asked, with my usual curiosity.

"Why," said Ferguson, "there was a scalper's railroad ticket as far as Kansas City and two pairs of Mr. Vaucross's old pants."

The theft of a black leather traveling bag, $40 in cash and a quantity of jewelry from Robert Williams, 1108 Burnett street, was the only report made to the police Friday night. A negro who had been working about the house is suspected and is now being sought by the officers.

H. G. Collier, formerly deputy internal revenue collector at the local office and later of the Dallas office, has been returned to Wichita Falls.

T. P. O'Gara of Fort Worth, oil industry specialist in income and profit tax reports, arrived in this city Saturday for a short visit.

FAIR WARNING

To All Who Have Purchased or Contemplate Purchasing Stock in the Florida Oil Company

THIS IS TO ADVISE YOU THAT YOU ONLY HAVE

SIX MORE DAYS

IN WHICH TO GET IN ON THIS REMARKABLE PROPOSITION AS THE MONEY MUST BE IN MY HANDS BY SATURDAY, THIS WEEK

We have cemented the well in which we struck oil at 770 feet in Walton county, Florida, and same will be tested out as soon as I arrive there, which will be about April 12th. If this is a paying well, all stock will be off the market as it would be worth 100 for 1.

The amount of stock purchased and paid for will constitute the Capital Stock of our Company at that time, as our holdings would be so valuable it would not be necessary to have any more Capital.

If we fail to get a well at this depth, we will continue on drilling and all money derived from stock and acreage will go into the Treasury of the Company and be paid back to the Stockholders in dividends except what is necessary to operate the Company.

The FAIREST PROPOSITION EVER OFFERED

is what they all say. We are selling thousands of dollars' worth of this stock to the biggest people in this city and rarely fail to sell anyone who has the money and gives us three mniutes of their time to explain same.

WHY? Simply because we have practically eliminated the gamble by having such an enormous acreage and drilling three wells.

The biggest brokers in the country will be selling acreage for the Company while wells are going down.

Can you begin to figure in Millions what it would mean to hit an oil gusher on 260,000 acres of leases practically in a solid body?

If a few days from now you read a huge headline in your daily newspaper, "Great Oil Well Gushing in Florida," how will you feel? Will you glow with joy over a fortune earned by a "lucky" investment or will you sigh over an opportunity lost, never to return?

If I did not think that I had one of the fairest and best propositions ever placed on the market in the oil business, I would not come and insist on my friends buying at this time. I know you have no money to lose and, furthermore, I don't want to see you lose any. My purpose is to make you money—not to skin you out of any. I don't need your money. We can sell every dollar's worth of this stock in Florida and Alabama. Conscientiously believing that I have something good, I naturally come to my friends first to let them in on it.

The Bank account of the Florida Oil Company will be carried in this city except enough to pay our operating expenses in Florida. We want to keep the money here at home. We want to make every Stockholder money.

We have such a wonderful proposition that it has already attracted Wall Street Brokers who want to handle our acreage while we drill these wells. We have attracted other Companies and Geologists to Florida, and since we begun operations some eight or ten other Companies have made locations and spudded in, in adjoining counties—two within the last week. Florida is going to have a thorough test and we believe will be the next new oil field.

While we have not put out any literature in Florida, yet the Chamber of Commerce of Jacksonville has been attracted and have advised our Mr. Logan that they will send their Secretary and Editor of the Times-Union newspaper to inspect our proposition and, if it is what we claim, they will take every dollar's worth of stock we want to offer. They are anxious to see an oil field in Florida and say they are willing to co-operate with us in every way possible.

OIL THE MILLIONAIRE MAKER

Come, let us reason together. Few people are born rich. The vast majority of us have to work—and work hard—for every dollar we make. Yet thousands and tens of thousands achieve riches. How do they do it?

Ben Franklin said, "Early to bed and early to rise, makes a man healthy, WEALTHY and wise." Withall due deference to Ben, it DOES NOT. The plugger, who works faithfully day by day and saves his money carefully, sometimes acquires enough to live on in his old age—but rarely more. Check up on all the really wealthy men you know. Did any single one of them make their fortune that way? The chances are 1,000 to 1 against it. They made their fortunes by TAKING A CHANCE—and generally a long chance at that. Think that over.

How did American Millionaires of today make their money? Here's one way: It is said that over FOUR THOUSAND Millionaires and Multi-millionaires made their money in oil. GET THAT? What a vast number, then, must have made thousands—a competence enough for all their needs—in oil. Future generations will look back on the money-making opportunities of today with astonishment and envy.

Remember, not one man only made this in each company, but practically all the shareholders who held their stock in these companies made the same.

If you want to make money, study how others made theirs. With one good oil well on our holdings, it would not be at all unreasonable to say that we might sell out our Company for ONE HUNDRED MILLION DOLLARS, in which event every $100 invested would bring our shareholders $20,000.

ON THE GROUND FLOOR

Most people do not realize that the chances of failure in a new field of this sort, well located geologically, are no greater than in "wildcat" territory adjoining a proven field; yet in such wildcat territory, owing to the high lease values, it is not unusual for a company having leases from 10 to 80 acres to have a capitalization as large as that of the Florida Oil Company with 260,000 acres. Our chances of vast earnings are just about one thousand times greater. The development of an oil field is necessarily speculative as to whether you are going to get oil or not. We do not want to mislead anyone on this point. No one knows what is down there half-mile or more in the earth. There is only one way to find out. We must send down the drill. It costs money—and lots of it—to do this. If you are willing to take your chances with the rest of us, we guarantee you a fair, square deal. If we bring in a good well and a new field, you will gain enormous profits. Our advice is invest in oil, but be conservative as to when and how you invest it. We know that we have started out on the right track to make money for our Company, and that our shareholders are going to get a big run for their money. This is evidenced by the fact that we have NOT RESERVED A SINGLE ACRE OF LEASES for ourselves out of the 260,000 acres of the Florida Oil Company holdings. One hundred dollars invested now may make you many thousands within a few weeks. Do you know of any other enterprise in which you can invest a small sum of money and hope to receive a fortune in return?

It takes action to win—action and the willingness to take a chance. Will you hoard every dollar, keeping it can only earn moderate interest at best, or will you set aside a part of your money, the part you can spare without suffering, and give it a chance to win a fortune for you? Are you content to sit back and never have an opportunity to make big money? Surely not.

EVERY IDLE DOLLAR IS AN UNSUCCESSFUL DOLLAR. Give them a chance to grow. They will grow faster than you imagine if you will give them the chance by investing in a safe and sane proposition like ours.

YOU MAY GROW TOO OLD TO EARN MONEY, BUT YOU'LL NEVER BE TOO OLD TO SPEND IT. Our proposition has been explained in detail in previous issues of this paper, but if you have not had it explained to you, CALL 6478 or come to our office, 306 MORGAN BLDG., and we will explain in detail just what this GOLDEN OPPORTUNITY means to you.

ALL THE NEWS OF ALL THE SPORTS ALL THE TIME

Classy Twirling by Ponder And Eberhard Gives Pirates 6 to 3 Win Over Spudders

Clarence Darrough had no end of trouble in getting a ball past the Pirate batters yesterday afternoon at Athletic Park and the diminutive Spudder hurler was nicked for an even dozen blows before he departed at the end of the sixth frame. These safeties netted the visitors five counters—more than enough to win, with the way the Pirate hurlers were going. The figures of the loss were 6 to 3.

Gibson sent Ponder out to do the honors for his club and the big right hander worked in admirable fashion during the six chapters he was on the mound. He was relieved by Eberhard at the beginning of the seventh, not because he was wavering, but because the Pirate leader wanted to give "Eby" a chance to work before his former rooters. The latter finished the game as well as his predecessor had started it and would have retired unscathed had not Rabbit Maranville attempted a bit of fancy work in the last session.

Mokan Welcomed.

Johnny Mokan was accorded a royal reception by the fans, and he lived up to all the nice things that have been said about him. He connected for his customary blow and took care of his three chances in the outfield in faultless style. He'd look mighty well in a Spudder unform in left field this season, but it is doubtful whether or not that will ever come to pass.

Bigbee led in the damage against the Spudders with a brace of singles and a double. He showed the local fans why he is one of the most feared men on the sacks in the National league when he dumped one down to Danny Gross that he easily beat out. He covered a world of territory in left and his all-around work was the feature of the matinee.

That the Salmites got off so light was due to the chances the Pirates took on the bags. They threw away at least three runs by running wild on the sacks and by evident failure to read signals flashed to them. They crossed themselves up on several different occasions, but it mattered not as they made it plain that they were out there for practice.

McDonald's Work Above Par.

Despite his one wild heave to the clubhouse, Tex McDonald's fielding was the one bright spot in the Spudders' play. The visitors took peculiar delight in poking the ball via third base. Gibson must be trying to make his men hit to left field as the majority of the clouts were in that direction. Tex had eleven chances yesterday and only one miscue was chalked up against him.

The Rabbit had a light day in the field although he made his presence felt with the willow. The one error charged up against him was the result of Barnhart's lack of co-operation. In the final chapter Moore bounced one to the Rabbit who intended to shoot the pellet to Barnhart and let the latter throw the man out. He fell down on his end, however, and the Rabbit was given credit for a boot. On the offense he delivered a one base blow and later a triple blossomed forth from his cue.

Buddy Tanner was the only local who was able to solve Ponder with any degree of accuracy and he garnered a pair of blows, one of which aided materially in a Spudder tally.

Darrough Starts Well.

Darrough opened up in big league fashion and the visitors went down in order. The first two Spudders to face Ponder greeted him with singles, but the fun stopped as quickly as it started. McDonald slammed one a mile a minute at Rabbit that he was lucky to stop. Buddy crossed the entire Pirate infield by pickling one on the nose and driving it past Grimm into right for a well placed bingle. Tex Romped to third on the blow. McElwee's best was a poke at Barnhart that advanced Tanner. Miller swung hard, but tapped to Ponder, and McDonald was run down on the line. Tanner reached third and Miller second before Tex was put out, but they remained anchored there when Comstock popped to Mokan in back of second.

Darrough was not so fortunate in the second round and the visitors started to get their war clubs into action. Two singles and a double were contributed and resulted in the first tally of the game. After Barnhart had skied to Gross, Whitted and Tierney hit safely. Whitted's blow was a screamer to right, but Tierney's was a puny fly that dropped between Tanner, Miller and Gross in back of second. Grimm followed with a wallop that was good for two bases, though it was not of the healthy variety. Whitted tallied on this clout and Tierney halted at third. Wilson whiffed and McDonald was thrown out by McDonald.

Keep Going in Third.

Another fusillade of drives was uncorked by the visitors in the next canto and two more runners crossed the plate. They should have had more, but two were plenty. Bigbe opened with a double that landed on the field foul line, but was out a moment later trying to steal third. Maranville and Mokan hit slashing drives that were good for one base each. For some unknown reason, Barnhart dumped one down and Maranville was easily forced at third, Darrough to McDonald. Whitted's hard double to left cleared the bases and he remained at second when Tierney flew out to Miller.

A three base error by McDonald on Wilson's bounder to him and a pass to Ponder after one man had been retired put the Pirates in a fair way to score again in the fourth, but Wilson was run down between third and home on Bigbee's tap to Darrough and Maranville popped to Comstock.

During these three sessions the Spudders were helpless at the plate. It was a case of three up and three down in each of their portions. They did manage to get a man on in the fifth when Gross opened with a single, but he quickly became the first victim in a double killing engineered by Maranville on Moore's grounder.

Both Tally in Sixth.

There was beaucoup counting in the sixth and the honors were even, each side chalking up two. Grimm and Wilson started the frame by singling and both men moved up a notch on Ponder's sacrifice. Bigbee delivered his second safety at this juncture and both runners counted. Bigbee tried to stretch the hit and was chased out by Tanner, who took Miller's relay. It was a costly out, as Maranville caught one to his liking and pasted it over McElwee's head for a triple only to die at third when Mokan skied to Moore.

Darrough got a life for the Spudders when Barnhart fell down fielding his bouncer. The latter recovered in plenty of time to get his man, but threw poorly to first and Darrough stepped on the bag while Grimm was poking Barnhart's peg out of the ozone. McDonald flew out to Bigbee, the latter going back to the fence for the drive. Tanner's poke to center put Darrough on second and both men advanced a peg when McElwee grounded out. Miller came through in the pinch with a paste to right that scored both runners.

"Rube" Marshall took up the burden of stopping the Pirates in the seventh and he did that little thing. While he was amusing the crowd with his antics he twirled some real baseball and was not scored upon until the final session when an error by Comstock on Barnhart's skyscraper and Tierney's two-ply wallop that Moore misjudged pushed around a score.

After Moore had reached first in the ninth on Maranville's excusable error, Ruth was sent in to pinch hit for Marshall and he did what was expected of him by poling one on a line between Bigbee and Mokan that was good for two bags. Moore tallied on the drive, but the game ended abruptly when the Rabbit gobbled up McDonald's drive and threw him out at first.

Think Paddock Will Smash More Records Within the Next Year

SAN FRANCISCO, April 2.—The fastest thing on two legs.

That's what they call Charley Paddock now. His admirers and fellow students at the University of Southern California have offered to back him with money, marbles or Mexican pesos in a race with an ostrich, a kangaroo or a grizzly bear running down hill. That's what they think of him.

Paddock is one of the boys who delights in competition. In fact he has made his best marks in competition. With Bob Hutchinson and Morris Kirksey pressing him in his record sprints he finished several feet in front of them after overcoming a lead.

Running against good record raters at the smaller meets in the south he made only ordinary speed. Both Kirksey and Hutchinson are considered extra good men and they forced Charley to extend himself. He did that little thing and hung up two records.

What he could do if he had Howard Drew for a competitor is an interesting thing to think about.

Dink Templeton, Stanford university track coach, thinks that within another year Paddock will be able to do the impossible—clip a fraction or so off the 9 3-5 seconds mark for the 100-yard dash. Loud shouts of mirth from the gallery inform Dink that it cannot be done.

Templeton answers that no one has ever done it yet but it will be done some day, and he hopes it will be Charley.

Not a graceful runner, Paddock gets over the ground in an uncanny fashion. He doesn't lean forward, but stands up straight and sets a tremendous push with his legs. Neither is he a fast starter as compared to some other sprinters. But, oh, after he gets going!

As others have found out, he can't be passed.

THREE GENERATIONS OF ONE FAMILY ARDENT GOLFERS

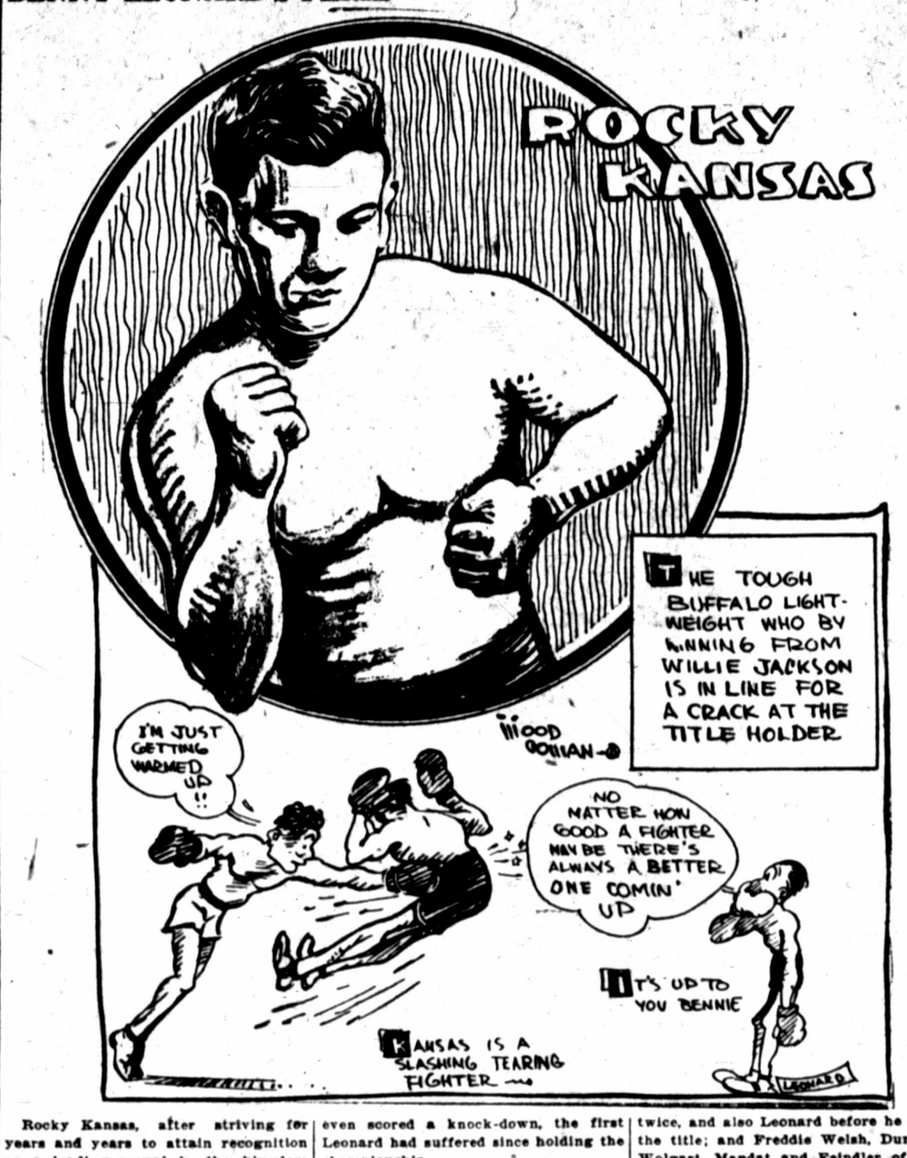

KANSAS CITY, April 2.—Three generations of the family of Miss Miriam Burns, 17 years old, who won last year's women's city championship here, are enthusiastic golf players. Miss Burns' mother, Mrs C. S. Burns, spends much time on the links, and her grandmother, Mrs. A. F. Berry, is quite as active a player. Mrs. Berry, indeed, frequently outplays her daughter.

Miss Burns had been entered in only one previous tournament when she won the city championship here last summer. Incidentally she established a new record for women for the eighteen-hole course at the Mission Hills club, where last year's tournament was played, making the course in 88. Miss Burns played in the national women's tournament at the Maywood club, Cleveland, Ohio, last October, but was eliminated before reaching the finals. She expects to enter several tournaments this year.

While Mrs. Burns and Mrs. Beery have not taken down any championship honors, they are enthusiastic and constant players. Indeed, during a rain storm last summer, when Mrs. Burns and her daughter had abandoned the links for the shelter of the clubhouse, some one asked where Mrs. Beery was.

"Oh, she's still playing," Miss Burns explained, "grandmother said she wouldn't stop for a little shower like this."

BENNY LEONARD'S PERIL —By Wood Cowan

Rocky Kansas, after striving for years and years to attain recognition as a leading mogul in the kingdom of fisticuffs, has finally reached the place where he is given headlines in the papers.

Over the prostrate form of Richie Mitchell, Kansas first began to realize his ambitions. It took him just one round to finish Mitchell, who had held Benny Leonard off for five rounds only a month previous, and had even scored a knock-down, the first Leonard had suffered since holding the championship.

Well, Jackson was the next to feel the sting of defeat at the hands of Rocky, and the latter now stands at the head of all contenders for the champion's laurels.

He has fought 'em all in the past ten years. As a featherweight he stood off Champion Johnny Kilbane twice, and also Leonard before he won the title; and Freddie Welsh, Dundee, Wolgast, Mandat and Feindler of the lightweights.

Kansas is better known in the central west than in the east. He is a rough and tough fellow, possessed of a sock. Like "Bat" Nelson of old, he can take a lot of punishment as well as hand it out. Rocky is five feet, five inches tall and has been fighting since 1911.

SAN ANTONIO FANS GLAD TO GET GROSS

Think That Last Year's Shortstop Is Much Better Man Than Patterson.

SAN ANTONIO, TEXAS, April 2.—The Bears, having disposed of, or, rather, having been disposed of by, the Cleveland Indians, have finished their exhibitions with professional baseball clubs and have begun intensive training for the season. One or two Sunday games with local semi-pro clubs and a few Regular-Yannigan games in a week or two will be the only remaining contests on the Bruin schedule before Beaumont opens here April 15.

Ther was no new development in the outfield problem during the week. Danielly showed no signs of hitting and Gresset gave no indications of learning to field ground balls. Boss Renson assures the local fans he is dickering for a good outfielder to take Eddie Brown's place in center but he refuses to divulge any details.

San Antonio fans are tickled over the trade of Bill Patterson to the Giants for Ewell Gross, last year's Bear shortstop, and Olin Voight, who has already pitched for the local aggregation and seems to have landed a regular job. Patterson continues to perform brilliantly at bat and in the field on one day, and throw ball games away and refuse to hit them back on the next. McGraw has the foundation for a wonderful ball player in Bill but he must iron out Pat's erratic tendencies.

The return of Gross, perhaps one of the surest infielders in the league in 1920, and a favorite here, is joyful news to the fans. The actual swap is being held up while New York gets waivers on Gross, but no trouble in this direction is expected.

The pitching staff, with Voight's addition, looks pretty good. It will be built around Voight, Bill Fincher and Ray Jordan. Bob Deason, young and tall southpaw, seems to have landed a regular job, and Ed Baldridge may be the fifth man. Gene Cochrehan, veteran, must also be considered.

CONNIE HASN'T MISSED AN OUT IN MANY YEARS

Connie Mack, boss of the Athletics, is as methodical and painstaking a man as the national pastime claims. He was playing a game of golf at the Olympic Fields club, near Chicago, last fall, and as it approached the noon hour he kept looking at his watch after every stroke.

"Forget it, manager," said Danny Murphy, one of his companions and for years a star baseballer. "What do you care if you are a little late for the ball game?"

Connie, who is no mean golfer, according to those who have played with him, didn't enjoy a moment of the remaining holes, and when he finally did manage to get away, took the quickest train back to the park.

"If he missed a single out, he considered the whole trip spoiled," said one of his players later in the afternoon. "I don't think he's missed one since I've been with the club and I'm no spring chicken."

THE PENNANT SPEAKS.

"I am the ghost of the pennant; I haunt every team in the spring.
I flap in each face at the start of the race when the birds and the bees are a-wing.
And I flutter near by to the fan's beaming eye as his breast bulges outward with hope,
As he opens a cheer—'Wow, the flag's coming here if there's anything left to the dope'."

"They have already won me in Cleveland—on Manhattan Isle I'm a pipe,
While the Pirates and Cubs class the others as dubs, or the certified essence of tripe.
And they shout in their glee as they're flirting with me in the warm, sunny days of the spring,

"You'd like to know what team'll win me? And where I will stop in the fall?
Will I put an embargo on crippled Chicago or give waiting Cleveland a call?
There's no use to rope me or pick me or dope me, for I am a frolicsome elf,
And how should you know where the dickens I'll go, when I haven't decided myself?"

In 1919 the Reds won a pennant for the first time in fifty years. In 1920 Cleveland's embattled Indians won a pennant for the first time in history. Now we have 1921 attached to the fact that the Yanks have never won a flag. Who knows but what this combination contains the essence of a hunch?

THE PRIZE PHENOM.

We still insist that "Babe" Adams, of Pittsburg, is the prize phenom of the peppery pastime.

Twelve years ago Adams was a World Series star. Four years ago, at the age of thirty-five, he was canned and tossed back to the minors as a has-been of faded quality.

Now, after two star years back on the old job, he is still one of the mainstays of his clan, with all the ancient magic in his repertory unimpaired.

RECORD HARD LUCK.

This contribution to the argument comes from a warm fight fan and a keen student of the sport:

Dear Sir: I saw the Wilson-O'Dowd fight from an arena seat high up, looking down at the boys silhoutted against the floor of the ring. I saw every move. I saw the most deliberate foul in many a fight as clearly as though it were plotted for a movie close-up. And it all fitted what seemed to go before. Wilson was badly hurt in the ninth. I know the actions—nervous jumps, fool grins—a bluff at lots of action in the clinches—plenty of technique, in other words—and he made the awkward O'Dowd look bad. He got weakened in the tenth. He's got good legs, though, better than his arms. O'Dowd knew he had him. Then came the twelfth, when Wilson was about through after a solid crack in the jaw. For three or four rounds he had been slipping in his punches lower and lower. So he snaps in a foul for any one to see with his alibi all ready—and apparently no official sees the foul! The referee rags Mike, the crowd gave him the rasz and he's a sick boy—and Wilson, stunned with his good fortune, takes a bow and a diamond belt and O'Dowd goes to the hospital! You could write a volume on luck in sports, but never would you get a better chapter than Wilson going down with a broken hand, trying to lose on a foul, and coming up with ten columns of praise and a diamond belt. But for O'Dowd, it's the record hard luck story of the year. C. V. W.

LIMERICK OF THE LINKS.

A duffer while going the rounds,
Played a long brassie shot out of bounds.
I'm a trifle afraid
I can't print what he said—
But perhaps you have heard how it sounds.

"Why should Frank Baker be considered all through by so many," writes L. L. J., "with Larry Gardner, of Cleveland, still rated as a star? Gardner is as old as Baker and has been in the major leagues just as long. And the same goes for Eddie Collins." Neither Gardner nor Collins has retired for a season, and it is still a matter to be proved as to whether a veteran can quit for a year and then report with all his ancient stuff intact. It might be noted also that Baker in his last season out was still several notches below Collins and Gardner.

Which doesn't mean that the year's rest may have done Baker more harm than good. There are certain quirks to the dope that only an actual test can unfold.

The conviction of crooked gamblers and crooked ball players caught debauching the game will not only be a fine thing for baseball, but an even finer thing for the law itself, which at one time had begun to look extremely futile and full of fuzz.

On the day the league season opens with its gay and giddy fanfare, what would you give to exchange feelings with a certain group of ball players, most of whom once operated for the Chicago White Sox?

When a man is seen now holding his hands about three feet apart, it is hard to say whether he is explaining how he missed catching a fish of that length or missed sinking a winning putt. In both cases the contemporary action denotes extreme vehemence, not unmixed with pain.

We trail with Colonel W. B. Hanna in his belief that stamina, fortitude and hustling energy mean more in baseball and other sports than brains. A high morale is better than a keen intelligence seven days out of any week.

The run-up shot is said to be a very important factor in scoring at St. Andrews, Scotland. The run-down putt is also a big aid at St. Andrews or anywhere else.

FANS MAY LOOK FOR THE UNEXPECTED WHEN TY AND HIS CHARGES STRIKE TOWN

Tyrus Raymond Cobb will bring his regular team here. As a matter of fact, Cobb will bring everybody in his outfit.

When the Tigers play the locals they will have Cobb in center field, Bobby Veach in left, Harry Meilmann or Chick Shorten in right, Luzerne Blue on first base, "Pep" Young on second, Donie Bush at short, and Bobby Jones on third base. Eddie Ainsmith, Johnny Bassler, Clyde Manion and Larry Woodall are the catchers, and among the pitchers are "Dutch" Leonard, George Dauss, Howard Ehmke, "Red" Oldham, "Doc" Ayers, George Cunningham, Carl Holling, Bert Cole, Jimmy Middleton and "Suds" Sutherland.

Cobb has upset most of the precedents used in managing a ball club on spring tours. He will not divide his squad, and he also refuses to use makeshift batting orders and lineups. He believes that to develop teem work the players that are to do the regular work must be kept playing together before the season opens.

Another thing that Cob binsists on and that is that his players try for every run possible and always play the strong out. He also makes them play each batter of the opposing team as carefully as if the club was engaged in a championship contest. His argument is that if a club gets to playing at top speed in the exhibition games the habit will grow and it will be impossible to get out of it after the season starts, while if that club scorns exhibition games and goes through them carelessly the habit will likewise grow and this carelessles swill crop out when the race begins.

Spectators Reap Benefit.

Cobb's policy has its advantage for the spectator as well as for the player, for while the club is carrying out the Cobbian dictum the spectator is treated to a real major league exhibition, and not a practice session.

In these exhibition games Cobb is trying the versatile style of attack that he intends to use in the American league race this year. His policy is to cross up the opposition, using a team attack much like his individual attack has always been. The Tigers are liable to begin picking on the first ball, and when the pitcher switches they also switch. They work the hit and run and the squeeze or the steal. They start a bunting attack and switch to a slugging offense when the bunt is expected.

On defense Cobb has worked out plays to take care of every situation liable to crop up in a ball game. These are worked in all games played at the present time, just as Cobb expects to work them after the season opens.

Detroit's pitchers are being worked in order now, as they will be after April 13. The regulars are organized, that is, the first string twirlers, and with the horde of pitchers that Cobb has at his disposal the veterans are forced to go at top clip to keep in the first string. Cobb has announced that pitchers will be selected on what they show and not on past performances.

Here Is the Way Ty Cobb Goes About It

One day in camp at San Antonio a baseball writer found Cobb's notebook and asked if he could peek inside. "Sure," said Cobb, "if it will make you a story, take a look."

The scribe copied off a page of notes for the day from the book and presents them as something interesting, showing the schedule of a team manager for a day. Here are some of the notations he copied, the initials being fictitious for good and sufficient reasons:

"Tell C. to take pos. forward in batters' box."
"Have H. correct S.'s move in throwing to first."
"Hustle work on sliding pit."
"Plan weight reduction."
"Lengthen outfield."
"Start running out batted balls."
"Hit to both fields."
"Ask L. to run more."
"Wire for bats."
"Have H. talk to P. about wind-up."
"Try J. at short."
"Tell I. to play deeper in outfield."
"Wire N. about exhibitions."
"Explain to F. about grip on bat."
"Assign two sets fielders."
"Practice pitcher bunts."
"Start swinging bunts."
"Show U. how to study batsmen."
"Tell O. about shifting position."
"Coach K. in leading off first."
"Change R.'s fielding position."
"Have Y. work curve ball more."
"Encourage T. in swing."

STEALING SIGNALS A MYTH.

At intervals some imaginative individual puts out stories about how one club steals the signals of another, but such stories are almost invariably myths. In games between the regulars and Yannigans of the same club, when both sides are using the same signals, it is impossible to steal the signs or rather their purport. The signals of nearly all catchers are the same, the only difference being in their meaning, writes one baseball observer.

Catchers signal with the fingers. It is not difficult to discover how many fingers a catcher displays to his pitcher, but it is a guess as to what is meant by it inasmuch as the real meaning is shifted as often as every inning and occasionally twice in an inning. A catcher will show one, two, three or four fingers, and possibly the whole four combinations in rapid succession. Only the pitcher knows which of the four signals to read and which to ignore. No one save a mind reader can know what a pitcher is going to throw even if he were to display his signals where everybody in the park could read them.

Old-Timer Nearly Stole Four Bases In Single Inning

"The greatest performance in the way of base running that I ever saw," said an old Coast league player when he got his turn at the fanning bee on a warm February afternoon, while the gang was sunning itself out in Los Angeles, "was by Bob Unglaub when he was playing with Sacramento in 1902. I don't remember the opposing team or its pitcher, but I don't forget what Unglaub did.

"When Bob came to the bat there was no one on. He hit a slow roller between third and short and beat it to first by a slide, getting the decision, for they didn't call them out for sliding to first in those days. On the next pitch, though apparently resting, Bob was off and made it safe at second by another grand slide. He was up and slowly dusting off, to fool the pitcher, when, on the next pitch, he was off again and this time got a close decision at third—it was close, but he fairly won it.

"Bob sat down like he was out of wind, held his side and puffed hard. The pitcher thought he was all in, so took a careless windup—and away went Unglaub for home. A steal of home was almost unheard of in those days and Unglaub's performance was a great sensation.

"That was as near to stealing four bases in one inning as I know of, for he surely stole first, if such a thing is possible. It wasn't his speed so much as it was his acting that fooled the pitcher into not believing he had any such intention as he showed which made the plays really clever."

DANNY CLARK WEDS POPULAR GALVESTON GIRL IN FORT WORTH

Spudder Second Baseman Makes Flying Trip To Panther City And Returns With Bride.

Well, boys, he went an' did it. He couldn't stand the strain any longer. Danny Clark hopped over to Fort Worth last Friday for the express purpose of signing a contract for life and according to a telegram received yesterday he "didn't do anything else but."

Yes, siree, the popular Spudder second baseman is a very much married man today. Miss Mildred Lillian Lackey of Galveston was the lucky girl. She first met Danny in 1919 when he was wearing a Galveston uniform and according to him it was a case of love at first sight on the part of each. Mrs. Clark was formerly a secretary of W. L. Moody & Co., of Galveston.

The couple will make Wichita Falls their home during the baseball season and spend the winters in Galveston.

It has been evident to all that Danny has not been himself since he reported this year. He's been in more or less of a trance ever since he arrived and he doesn't deny it. He admitted openly that he was in love and he has now made believers of all his mates.

He will return with his wife tomorrow in time for the Detroit series.

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE FOR DAVIS CUP PLAY

NEW YORK, April 2.—Various recommendations connected with the Davis cup and national championship play for the coming season were considered here today at the annual spring meeting of the executive committee of the United States Lawn Tennis association. It was decided to erect grandstands capable of seating 14,000 to 16,000 spectators for the Davis cup challenge round to be played at Forest Hills, N. H., September 2, 3 and 5.

It was voted to transfer the national junior any boys' championships from the Philadelphia national singles tournament to the national doubles. Matches to be played on the Longwood Cricket club courts, Boston, beginning August 23.

The committee also adopted a resolution favoring repeal of the government tax of 10 per cent collected upon tennis and other sporting games as being dertimental to development of amateur pastimes and recreations.

A GOLF WIDOW'S LAMENT.

"We won't go home till evening,"
The old song changes some,
"The gang" collects and stays away
Each from his happy (?) home.

Hurrying golfers—old and young—
Crack, amateur and dub,
Forget the call of business
And swarm out to the club.

They work at play most earnestly
With all their main and might,
If light would stay I'm sure they'd be
Upon the course all night.

Brave Mrs. Reppy, wand'ring lone,
Says, "Girls, I'm going fine!
R. has the week and Sunday morn—
But afternoon is mine!"

Now Mrs. Paskins beats the game;
You see, the artful elf
Brings out her John to join the throng
And plays with him herself.

Of all the many plays.
Judge says to get near nature's heart
At eventime he stays.

I love to watch the sunset grand,
(Or would if I had time,)
And hear the mystic twilight sounds—
Could put it all in rhyme.

It seems to me that on the links
All's well and peace abides;
A blessed tie of fellowship
Binds all the gang besides.

We can't go home till Bill and Frank
(Who figure up our fates)
Say how we stand and let us all
Collect our syndicates.

M'ABEE WINS OWN GAME WITH SINGLE

Wichita High Twirler Delivers In a Pinch And Locals Defeat Childress 4 to 3.

A single by McAbee, Wichita High twirler, in the seventh inning of yesterday's game between Wichita and Childress High broke up a perfectly good ball game and gave his side a 4 to 3 victory.

The game was a pitching duel between McAbee and Jeffries with the odds slightly in favor of the former. A costly wild toss by Jeffries which bounced of Robert's ribs in the seventh canto gave the locals the start for their winning run. Roberts promptly sole second and scored soon after on McAbee's drive.

McAbee's one bad inning was the third when the visitors chalked up all their counters. A series of hits by Jeffries, Pryor, Vaught and Slack gave them a temporary lead which was soon overcome.

The local squad will play a return game in Childress April 23 and will meet Vernon here next Saturday. Score:

HUTCHISON WINS NORTH AND SOUTH GOLF TOURNEY

PINEHURST, S. C., April 2.—Jock Hutchison, Chicago, professional golfer, won the north and south open championship today by completing his final round in 76 for a total score of 291. George Fotheringham of Bretton Woods and Fred McLeod of Columbia country club, Washington, tied for second place with a total of 295.

Hutchison won from the largest and best field which ever started in the event, and established a new record as the best previous score was 293, made in 1918 by Walter Hagen and in 1920 by McLeod.

The Chicago player had rounds of 75 and 69 on the number three course Friday and of 72 and 76 on the championship course today. His 69 was a new record for the number three course.

Joe Kirkwood, the Australian open champion, finished in a tie with Walter Hagen of Detroit and Emmett French of Youngstown, for ninth money. He was considered as having made a good showing, in view of the fact that he entered the tournament without previous experiences on sand greens.

SPEAKER RECEIVES FIRST CONTRACT HE EVER SIGNED

HOUSTON, April 2.—Tris Speaker was presented with the first baseball contract he ever signed here today by J. Doak Roberts, president of the Texas League in the first inning of the Cleveland-Houston game here today. Speaker responded by making a hit later in the game which started a rally which won for the Indians. Until the sixth inning the score stood 6 to 0 in favor of Houston. Speaker was the only Indian until that time to reach second and he was walked and went to the mid-station on a wild pitch. The Indians pounded Bolden in the last three innings and won by the score of 9 to 6.

After the bout, Dale went to the room occupied by himself and Virgis, packed his belongings and departed. It is alleged he also took Virgis' belongings. Today his landlady and Virgis joined in a complaint to the police.

A total of 1,350 individuals were helped by the Wichita Falls Welfare council during the past year, according to the annual report of Mrs. A. C. Ousley, just made public.

Funds for the budget of the ensuing year are to be raised this week, it being estimated that $5,000 will be needed to carry on the work of the organization, which serves as a sort of clearing house for all the charitable activities of the city. Directors and members of the council have agreed to cover various districts in the campaign as follows:

C. W. Reid and W. B. Hamilton, City National building.

T. B. Noble and W. D. Cline, First National building.

John W. Bradley and R. E. Shepherd, Scott avenue.

Edgar Mann and W. M. Priddy, American National building.

E. G. Cook and Bert Bean, north of Seventh street.

J. M. Baber and Wilford Harrison, Eighth street.

E. C. Dosch and Lamar Fain, Ninth street.

E. S. Goodner, Tenth street.

Members of the fund committee expressed the hope Saturday that it would be possible to complete the amount in a short time, and, owing to the acknowledged worthiness of the cause and the importance of the work undertaken, they hope to make rapid progress.

Mrs. Ousley's report shows a total of 202 cases handled, including 164 families; these families comprised a total of 820 individuals. Children under 14 years of age were helped to the number of 492; single men, 24; unmarried women with children, 14; children, 14; beggars were taken off the streets to the number of 182, and only six of that number were deemed worthy of being given aid.

HOSPITAL QUESTION IS NOW AT STAGE OF HOPEFUL WAITING

The situation with reference to the government hospital assumed a stage of "hopeful waiting" Saturday. Hubert M. Harrison of the Chamber of Commerce and J. G. Culbertson, who have been working on the matter at Washington, are now en route home, but have made all necessary arrangements to keep in close touch with the situation.

No information was available as to whether a representative of the locating board would be sent here, but it was believed locally that one would be.

Chamber of Commerce officials expressed satisfaction over the matter as it now stands, and were very, very hopeful that the offer of use of the asylum buildings would have the desired result.

CLINE, TY COBB, MUSIC AND HOSE SUPPORTERS TO ENTERTAIN KIWANIANS

Mayor Walter D. Cline will be the principal speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Kiwanis club at the Kemp Monday, and it is quite probable that Ty Cobb will also be among those present and will, of course, have to make a speeche. Some of the Tigers will be on hand, anyhow.

All male diners will be presented with a set, or pair, of Paris hose supporters, donated by Rex Watland of J. C. Penney & Co. Inspiration for the gift, it is understood, was furnished by the unfortunate plight in which a prominent Kiwanian recently found himself.

The attendance prize for the day will be a gold pencil given by Horace Smith. Raymond Myers will be chairman for the day. Vocal numbers by Misses Irene and Thelma Stuck, with their sister, Mrs. McMurray, as accompanist, are promised as musical features.

The Edison artists, who appear at the Palace Monday night, will also be on the program. Miss Helen Davis, mezzo soprano; Miss Sibyl Sanderson Fagan, Whistler, and Willard Osborne, violinist, are expected to render three or four numbers, so that the program promises to be an especially enjoyable one.

HOMES—HOMES HOMES

A good aeroplane 8-room home on one of the best paved streets. This place was held at $16,000 unfurnished, but we can make it for next few days at $9,250 and throw in furniture and fixtures, including new piano. It will take $4,500 to handle this, but the terms afterwards are good.

$5,500

A 5-room home on the pavement on Tenth street. Comparatively new home, plastered. Price reduced from $6,500 to $5,500 with only $750 cash and balance about $55. If you can't get up the $750, we might let you have it for $500 cash.

Ninth Street

A real nice 5-room home, newly painted and papered; 2-room servant house and garage. Was once held at $8,500, but for the next few days can sell it at about half this price and make good terms.

Van Buren

Good 4-room home on corner lot, 54x200 feet, $1,750, with $250 cash and $25 per month until balance is paid. Why pay rent? It has not modern conveniences, but could you expect 'em at this price.

We have some clients with first lien notes for sale at a very liberal discount. We have 'em, all sizes.

2 MORE PARK SITES DONATED SATURDAY FOR USE OF PUBLIC

W. B. HAMILTON, N. H. MARTIN AND UN-NAMED CITIZEN MAKE GIFTS TO CITY.

ONE NORTH SIDE TRACT, OTHER NEAR BALL PARK

Total Of Eleven Acres Is Added To Park Area—Is Fifth Recent Gift Of Kind.

Through the generosity of Wichita Falls citizens, which has evinced itself along similar lines several times recently, two more tracts available for parks were given to the city Saturday.

W. B. Hamilton and N. H. Martin of the Texhoma Oil & Refining company gave the city a four-acre tract on Houston street. In North Wichita on Houston street. The tract is in a thickly settled part of that district and will serve a community that is in need of a park.

Another Wichitan, who asked that his name be not made public, gave the city a seven-acre tract not far from the baseball park in the eastern part of the city. This is also easily adaptable of improvement.

Announcement of the gifts was made Saturday by W. S. Curlee, street commissioner, who expressed the appreciation of the council of these additions to the city's park area.

Within the past few weeks, the city has been given a 20-acre tract in the northern part of Floral Heights, by J. A. Kemp; a 15-acre tract near the water and light plant, by Orville Bullington, and the two gifts made Saturday. In addition, a gift of a similar nature was made Friday by J. B. Marlow, not to the city, but to a cause of a semi-public character, the Y. W. C. A., which was tendered a summer camp tract near Mr. Marlow's home west of the city.

Work of beautifying the parks already owned by the city has been in progress for several weeks, under direction of P. O. Harvey, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce park bureau, and some very gratifying results have been obtained. It is believed that when this work is completed this city's parks will be parks in more than name. As soon as expedient, the improvement campaign will be extended to the tracts given the city Saturday.

HENRY FORD SUMS UP HIS BUSINESS POLICY IN JUST EIGHTEEN WORDS

DETROIT, April 2.—Henry Ford today summed up his business philosophy in eighteen words. They are:

"The time for a business man to borrow money, if ever, is when he does not need it."

In an editorial in the Dearborn Independent, Ford declared that if a man really needs money "it is usually a sign that he needs something else first."

JAPAN FAVORABLE TO A CONSORTIUM OF FOUR COUNTRIES

By Associated Press.

TOKIO, April 2.—The Japanese government in publishing today correspondence relating to the international consortium for financing China, attached a statement that Japan had always tried to secure return of the American group to negotiations, and therefore welcomed the American proposal of 1919 for formation of a four-power consortium comprising Great Britain, France, the United States and Japan.

With reference to Japan's reservations regarding exclusion of Manchuria and Mongolia from the scope of the consortium, the government statement says it is regretable to hear discussions based apparently on misunderstandings of Japanese proposals, the object of which were merely to secure a new and definite understanding of Japan's special and legitimate claims. The reservations were not actuated by any desire to exclude completely the activities of other powers in the two countries, the statement asserts. Japan only desiring to insure her national defense and the security of her economic life.

The statement declares it sometimes has been alleged that Japan's insistence on reservations concerning Manchuria and Mongolia were due to her policy of aggression and that, therefore, she delayed formation of the consortium, but this allegation, the government says, is without foundation.

"The demand for assuring the right of self-preservation and for meeting the requirements of our national defense and economic existence presents a serious national sentiment which should not be regarded as emanating from the political ambition of a small section of people," the statement declared.

The government in conclusion says it is convinced Japan may rely in the exigencies of any situation that may arise on the spirit and mutual trust and friendship of the powers concerned, who understand Japan's real intentions.

TIMES DAILY MARKETS

COTTON MARKET.

New York Cotton.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Action of the cotton market today was regarded as indicating a continued disposition to even up accounts pending an improvement in foreign labor or political news. There was covering as well as liquidation but the latter determined the trend of prices. The general market closed barely steady at a net decline of 13 to 20 points.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of 8 to 20 points under Wall street and local selling which was promoted by less favorable week end reviews of the goods trade and reports of an easier tone in some southwestern spot markets late yesterday.

After the demand from scattering shorts had been supplied the market showed an absence of support and most of the active months made new low prices for the day in the late trading. The close was a few points up from the lowest. Sales of print cloths at Fall River, for the week, were estimated at only 70,000 pieces and curtailment of production at 125,000 pieces.

New Orleans Cotton.

NEW ORLEANS, April 2.—Active trading and lower prices attended the session in cotton today. The market opened lower and fell off until it stood 20 to 22 points under the close of yesterday. The close was steady at net declines of 14 to 18 points.

What appeared to be accumulation overnight of selling orders, based on an unfavorable opinion of the British labor troubles, caused the early declines but in the late trading there was selling pressure from Texas interests accompanied by reports from that state that the crop was making such good progress in the earliest counties that new bales might be expected at an unsually early date. More or less selling resulted from the better weather map and the rather unfavorable tone of weak end reviews of trade in general.

There were times during the session when shorts took profits in a moderately large way and this buying always produced steadiness. Partial recoveries on the close seemed to be due mainly to buying of this sort although brokers claimed the new investment buying was entering the market.

NEW YORK STOCKS.

NEW YORK, April 2.—Business on the stock exchange today was dull and narrow but these conditions offered no serious obstacles to professional traders intent upon further depression of quoted values.

Tobaccos and sugars, as represented more particularly by American Sumatra tobacco and American beet sugar were weak from the outset, losing 1 to 4 points on reports of adverse trade conditions and possible dividend revision.

Loss among representative industrials were relatively moderate until toward the close, when a drive against Baldwin Locomotive, Crucible Steel and Studebaker at hot declines of 1¼ to 3 points unsettled the general list.

Pennsylvania distinguished among the rails for another fractional decline to the new minimum price of 34, but other transportations were inactive and only slightly changed.

Aside from an increase of $93,235,000 in actual demand deposits the clearing house statement failed to reflect the heavy transfer of funds incident to the close of the year's first quarter.

Trading in bonds was nominal with a steady tone for liberty issues and most other prominent features.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

CHICAGO, April 2.—General covering by shorts and development of an active export demand for both old and new wheat caused a sharp rally near the close today which carried prices upward after the lowest figures of the season had been reached on all deliveries of grains and provisions. At the finish, wheat was 1¾ to 2¾c net higher, with May $1.37 to $1.37¾ and July $1.16 to $1.16½; corn was unchanged to 1@1c higher, while oats ranged from ¼ to ¼c down to 1@1c up and provisions were off 22½ to 75c.

There was a sharp bulge in wheat prices during the last fifteen minutes of trading and most of this held up to the close.

Reports of as high as four million bushels of wheat being worked for export and a St. Louis report that wheat had been marked for export based on the July delivery, tended also to unnerve shorts.

Coarse grains rallied with wheat, but offerings were light.

CONTESTED ROAD BILL FINDS WAY TO COURT

W. F. Underwood Files Suit Against Wichita County For Alleged Debt Of $994.

The contested road bill submitted to the county by W. F. Underwood for work performed on roads in Commissioner Lee Prescott's district No. 2 has found its way into court. Suit was filed by Mr. Underwood against Wichita county Saturday in the county court of law.

The plaintiff sets forth that he was engaged by Lee Prescott, a county commissioner who was authorized by the court to hire men to work on the roads and that in compliance with Mr. Prescott's orders he worked his terms on the road. That he submitted bills for work performed in December, 1920, and January and February, 1921, which total $994 but that County Auditor W. W. Murphy has refused to pay it.

A portion of this amount was submitted before the court of commissioners last Monday morning. The bill amounted to $564 but did not bear the approval of the county auditor. The court, however approved the bill and sent it back for payment but the auditor refused to issue a warrant for it on the grounds that the charge per diem for three up teams was not in accordance with the price paid by the other three commissioners.

Mr. Underwood and his counsel appeared before Mr. Murphy early in the week to ask payment on the bill but no agreement was reached. Mr. Murphy made a proposal to pay $12 a day for three up teams for December and $10 a day for January. This was refused. The bill submitted shows a charge of $15 per day.

Mr. Murphy told Mr. Underwood and his counsel at that time that if they would wait until the settlement of the case now pending in the district court against Mr. Prescott, that perhaps an arbitrary settlement could be made.

Be Expecting the Above Headlines a Realty in the Near Future

By statistics covering the entire state, the Wichita Falls field has paid more dividends and made more oil investors rich than any other field in the entire history of Oildom—for reasons cited below Montana stands every chance of being listed with the big and sensational ones.

Holdings Large

Our holdings consist of 200 acres 7½ miles southeast of Wichita Falls out of the L. F. Rounds survey, on one of the most pronounced structures in this district. You know what shot the Fowler Farms, Burk-Waggoner and K. M. A. stock high—it was holdings. A good well will bring you two things: big dividends and flattering offers for your shares. The people who have made money in oil stocks are those who have bought from the original capitalization.

Drilling Fast

We are below 1,500 feet and well will be rushed to the sand with all possible speed.

Increasing Dividends

As soon as well No. 1 is on the pipe line, we will set aside sufficient money to carry on the drilling of well No. 2. Remaining sums will be mailed to shareholders as dividends. This practical system will be followed later in bringing in wells Nos. 3, 4 and 5. So you see, right from the moment well No. 1 hits the pay and is on the pipe line you start to gather up greenbacks, and also the "velvet" paves the way for far greater things than we can even hint at. As each well comes in your dividends will increase. You cannot imagine the profits you will get.

Field Management

Our drilling contractor, John Wall, has drilled 59 wells in this district, 56 of which came in producers, including the Hearn, Mona Marie, Texas Amalgamated, several wells for the Gillam Company and some for the Texas Company. Therefore you can readily see that our driller is a practical man with years of experience and very successful, out of 59 chances bringing in 56 wells. Now this also shows the odds are all one-sided when it comes to getting a producer with careful drilling. It is our plan to drill this well 3,500 feet unless a good producer is brought in at a lesser depth.

A "Right Now" Proposition

We had two paths before us—one a slow drawn-out stock-selling campaign with heavy advertising expenses, and the other a "Raise-It-Fast" policy—and after careful thought, here is what we have decided on: We are offering a block of 10,000 shares at 50 cents on the dollar. The rapid sale of this will give us ample funds to drill day and night.

$25 will buy..... 50 shares
$50 will buy..... 100 shares
$100 will buy..... 200 shares
$250 will buy..... 500 shares
$500 will buy.....1,000 shares

QUICK ACTION

In our estimation these are the things the public wishes to know—location, drilling contractor and the management. We have given you this information and there is only one thing we wish to add, and that is, after the well comes in each shareholder will receive his dividends direct from the pipe line through a Bonded Trust Company, hence you can be fully assured you will get your pro-rata part for as many shares as you are holding. Remember, each hour brings the bit closer to the liquid gold for the drill will be running day and night, and when we reach the gusher sand the Montana will make many men and women rich. Do you want to be among them? If so, fill out the enclosed Coupon for as many shares as you can possibly take.

Gifted Lecturer Is Entertainer at A Lovely Party

Mrs. W. B. Hamilton of this city was responsible for one of the most beautifully planned thoroughly delightful entertainments ever given in Wichita Falls Thursday afternoon, when she presented Dr. Cosette Faust-Newton, gifted and charming young writer and lecturer, to an audience of two hundred guests in the ballroom at Kemp hotel in lecture recital.

The entertainment specially honored the hostess' sister, Mrs. James Walker of Dallas, and Mrs. W. J. Potts of Clarinda, Iowa. The inspiration responsible for the securing of Dr. Faust-Newton, said to be the youngest woman whose success is recorded in America's "Who's Who," was probably the acquaintance between the hostess and the talented scholar when they were classmates at Polytechnic in Fort Worth.

The setting for the party was exceptionally lovely, and a group of beautifully gowned hostesses, assisted by flower girls, ushers, and a handsome little card bearer, added to the attractiveness of the scene. The ballroom was in pink and lavender, the color scheme originating in a beautiful pergola-style structure erected at one end of the hall for the lecturer of the afternoon. Vines and flowers, with colorful butterflies poised here and there, covered the lattice work of the pergola, and palms and ferns were grouped at its base. Tall wicker baskets of iris and bridal wreath were disposed about the room, and other ferns and potted plants were used.

The guests were met at the top of the stairs by Master Edward Silk, who received the cards, and greeted in the reception room by Mrs. C. W. Snider, who presented them to the honorees and the hostess group. These included Mesdames N. H. Martin, J. D. Bright, J. J Perkins, J. A. Kemp, Clint Wood, C. E. McCutcheon, W. W. Silk, R. O. Harvey, W. B. Bolding, T. P. Adams, E. F. Greenwood, Pres Lea, Q. B. Lee, Charles F. Spencer, R. F. Evans, Chas. R. Hartsook, Mack Thomas, W. A. Freear, Walter Priddy, J. C. A. Guest, W. J. Grisham, A. H. Britain, and C. Y. Tully.

Two lovely little flower girls in pink and white, Misses Lida Lee and Virgie May Adams, were at either side of the door into the ballroom, and presented each guest with a nosegay of pink and lavender sweet peas and bridal wreath from big tulle-tied baskets. Inside the door Miss Helen Snider, in lavender tulle and picture hat, and Mildred Martin, in green and pink, escorted the guests to seats in the ballroom. Both girls carried beautiful baskets of lilac, tied with lavender and pink tulle bows.

The lecturer had chosen for her subject "The Echoes of Irish Politics in Irish Literature," which the hostess felt would be of special interest to many of her guests who are touching on the Irish political problem and on Irish art and literature in their club study. Following the brief preliminaries, Dr. Faust-Newton took up the pith of her discussion with the deep understanding and engaging sympathy of a countryman, analyzed the characteristics and customs of the Irish people, traced the restlessness and outbreaks of the past and present to the emotions born of those customs and characteristics, in a great measure, and presented the inseparable relation between their political and their literary life in a dozen splendid examples of Irish prose and poetry.

"The Irish characteristics of temperament run true to form, both in their literature and their politics," she said. "Both are the true outbursts of a great national emotion."

The main Irish characteristics were presented with splendid insight and sympathy, several poems of Irish authorship being read to illustrate various points. A specially attractive reading was the cutting of "The Workhouse Ward" by Lady Gregory, and another, the whimsically beautiful troll story, "Iosagan" by Padriac H. Pearse. Interesting conclusions and generalizations of an import bearing on the subject were drawn from these illustrations.

Mrs. Hamilton's guests were thoroughly delighted with Dr. Faust-Newton, and expressions of their pleasure were not lacking. Further adding to the completeness of the artistic program, Mrs. C. Y. Tully sang two Irish songs, "Four Leaved Clover," and an Irish lullaby, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. A. H. Britain, and Miss Berenice Jackson gave two violin selections, the "Romance" by Wieniawski and a Tirindelli number, "The Jest" as encore.

Delightful refreshments were served at the close of the lecture and musical program from a long table at one end of the ballroom, the service in buffet style. Strawberry ice cream was accompanied by lavender tinted angel food cake, carrying out the spring color scheme, and served in buffet style. Fruit punch was also served.

The entertainment was an artistic triumph, both in a social and instructive sense, and the hostess received a flood of congratulations from her friends on the exceptional beauty and success of the party.

The guests present included the following: Mesdames C. W. Gilliland, A. M. Hartsook, C. B. Felder, Harold Murph, J. H. Massie, W. L. Parker, G. L. Campbell, J. C. Mrs. L. P. Hammond was hostess to the members of the T. E. L. class of the First Baptist church at her home, 1624 Tenth street, Thursday, and about 100 members of the big class enjoyed a delightful afternoon as her guests.

During a short business session the members discussed plans for the big banquet which is to be given during the last of the month. The class, which began with 40 members a few months ago, now has 260 young matrons on its roll, and an interesting program for the year's work is being planned.

On the trip from Europe to New York the passengers on board the steamship Lapland held a beauty contest. Needless to say an American woman won it. Mrs. W. J. Hess, of New York, who returned home wearing the latest creation of the Paris milliners, won the award by a large margin.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY CLUB BIG DANCE AT WICHITA

The dance was prettily planned, with Peter Lombardi in charge of arrangements at the club rooms, and about seventy-five guests and members of the club present. Music was furnished by the Kats orchestra, and was commented on as especially good, a number of the most popular dance selections being played. Programs were made out for both the young men and women by the entertainment committee before the dance, and these were given out as the guests arrived.

A practically full list of the patrons and patronesses recently invited to come honorary members of the club for the special social affairs was present, and honor guests for the evening.

Delicious fruit punch was served during the evening.

TWO HUNDRED GUESTS AT BRIDGE AND "42" IN HONOR OF VISITOR

Two hundred guests spent a delightful afternoon Tuesday at Kemp Hotel with Mesdames A. E. Myles, T. A. Hunter, M. M. Walker, and E. P. Bass, hostesses, entertaining in honor of Mrs. Bass' sister, Mrs. Howell E. Smith of Athens, formerly Miss Fayrene Richardson of Wichita Falls.

The quartette of hostesses proved charming entertainers, and the party, devoted to "42" and bridge, was especially pleasant. A group of out of town guests also added to the pleasure of the occasion, these including Mesdames Hattie Hawn Smith of Athens, A. N. Martin of Clinton, Mo., Tolbert of Lubbock, and Earl Ebie of Brooking, South Dakota, beside the guest of honor.

The ballroom where the tables were arranged was very attractively decorated with baskets of pink and white flowers, suggesting a colour scheme which was carried out further in the party. Tally cards, presented the guests by Mrs. Clint Murchison and Miss Ethel Raney, were in pink and white, and the prizes presented featured the same decorative scheme.

High score at bridge was won by Mrs. George Woodruff, and at "42," by Mrs. Merle Waggoner. To both, the hostesses presented beautiful rose boudoir lamps, in covered hat boxes tied with pink tulle bows. Second high score at bridge was won by Mrs. H. H. Martin, and second high at "42" was won by Mrs. Martin Rowe, to whom were presented Dutch pottery flower pots of pink hyacinths.

LATEST STYLE

By LENORE

A petite brunett with creamy complexion will look charming in this quaint dress of brown taffeta with the faintest yellow organdie collar to blend with the skin. Drawn snugly to the figure, the old-fashioned little pointed bodice falls but slightly below the normal waistline in the back, where it fastens with a long row of novelty brown buttons. The skirt which, more than most of the styles, approaches the width that had been promised for the spring dresses, is built up on a series of graduated tucks.

PATTERN NO. 127.

A pattern for the above model (No. 127) can be obtained in sizes 34, 36, 38 or 40, by sending to Lenore, 8 West 40th street, New York City, your name and address, the number of this pattern and size required, and 25 cents in postage stamps. Be sure to keep this newspaper clipping of the sketch and description of the garment to use as a working model when the pattern reaches you—which will be within two weeks.—The Editor.

HOMES COMMITTEE FOR DISTRICT FEDERATION MEETS TUESDAY AT "Y"

The homes committee of the City Federation, under the general arrangements committee appointed to prepare for the reception and entertainment of the first district federation which meets here Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, April 25-27, is called to meet Tuesday morning at 10:00 o'clock at the Y. W. C. A.

Members of the committee already appointed include Mesdames C. B. Montgomery of the New Century club, Ben G. O'Neal of the Travel club, J. M. Isbell of the Standard club, Marvin Smith of the Delphian club, F. R. Collard of the Musicians club, J. L. Jackson of the U. D. C., J. W. Stone of the Civic league, John C. Kay of the Beta Delphians and Miss Clara Schultz of the Study club.

Mrs. Anderson, chairman of the committee, and Mrs. Maer, entertainment chairman, as well as the other members of the homes committee, are very anxious to have as many volunteer hostesses as possible, and to get the homes arrangement for the 200 delegates being prepared for out of the way as soon as possible. A number of hostesses have already volunteered, and all who can take guests are asked to phone the committee chairman or members at their earliest convenience. The committee is anxious that the entertainment not be confined entirely to members of the local clubs, as the district entertainment is a community affair, and it is hoped to place the guests in homes all over the city, without regard to club membership. Hostesses are also reminded that the guests will have their noon meals downtown, and the Wednesday evening meal as well, and arrangements will not have to be made for these in the home. The main body of the delegates will probably not arrive until Tuesday morning, and many of them will leave Wednesday afternoon, on account of the train service.

DATE OF CHATHAM-KIEL NUPTIALS IS ANNOUNCED AT BEAUTIFUL LUNCHEON

The date of the Chatham-Kiel nuptials, which will unite two well known young people of Wichita Falls this month, was announced at an attractive luncheon party given by the bride-elect's sister, Mrs. T. R. Boone, at her home on Ninth street Saturday afternoon.

Every detail of the beautiful dining room and table appointments conspired to make the luncheon one of the loveliest affairs of the year. A rainbow color scheme of pink, lavender and blue was carried out in the decorations, favors and place cards, and prettily suggested in the menu. The guests—11 intimate friends of the bride-elect—were greeted in the dining room by little Miss Mary C. Boone, daughter of the hostess, who presented each with a pretty Colonial bonnet and a corsage of pink, lavender and pale blue sweet peas. The dining table, lighted by tall pink candles in tulle tied silver candlesticks, was centered with a lovely floral design of sweet peas, lilies and forget-me-nots, from under which rainbow ribbons ran to the pretty place cards.

A five course luncheon was served, and at the conclusion of the salad course the girls were invited to take up the ribbons leading from the place cards and reveal the "surprise" concealed under the centerpiece. When they did so, miniature white envelopes, sealed with hand-painted love-knots, were opened, and beautifully hand-painted announcement cards, decorated with an exquisite spray of sweet peas, were found. On the cards was inscribed, "Gus—Chappie. Tuesday, April nineteenth." The announcements were the compliment and work of Mrs. Luther Hoffman.

A pretty surprise in the menu, carrying out the artistic daintiness of the whole luncheon, was the ice course, individual cupid moulds of fruit ice being served in the pink, lavender and pale blue tints of the luncheon.

Girl friends of the bride elect who made up the guest party included: Mesdames Julian McFall, R. E. Randolph, George Henderson and Bruce Winkworth, and Misses Mary Colquitt, Katherine Brothers, Florence Brown, Violet Davis, Florence Jackson, Winnie Davis and Florence Davis.

Miss Kiel is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Kiel, pioneer residents of Wichita Falls, a sister of Dr. O. B. Kiel, Mesdames T. R. Boone, Mark Moore and George Eamich. She has been connected with the Wichita Falls public schools as teacher for several years until a few months ago, when she went into her brother's law office.

Mr. Chapman is in the auto accessories business in which he has been engaged in Wichita Falls since he was mustered out of the U. S. Army a year or two ago, having lived in New York previous to his service with the army.

Both young people are well known among a large circle of close friends and acquaintances, and several parties are already being planned for the bride-elect during the coming two weeks. Miss Kathryn Brothers will entertain the girls of the Girls' Friendly club in her honor Friday evening of this week, among the first.

Mrs. Boone was assisted in entertaining Saturday by her sisters, Mesdames Moore and Eamich, and Miss Lalla Boone, Mr. Boone's sister.

MRS. P. P. LANGFORD HOSTESS AT BEAUTIFUL EASTER PARTY

The party was beautifully planned, with the development of the spring colour scheme in pale lilac, violet, wisteria, pink, and daffodil yellow reaching a climax of loveliness in the sun room and dining room. Wisteria, bridal wreath, daffodils, hyacinths, iris, roses, smilax and lilies were used in artistic profusion throughout the entire reception, living room and dining room suite, with a canopy formed of the vines and flowers above the beautifully gowned young matrons who assisted in the sun parlor. A double key note of colour was struck in each room, pink and lavender and lilac, and the purple of slender and lovely iris prevailing in the sun room, where three little flower girls assisted Mrs. Hyatt, mother of the hostess, in dispensing lavender tinted punch. The little girls, who represented the iris and the moss rose, were Misses Virginia May Adams and Mary Virginia Barron. The punch table was lovely with pink and lavender hyacinths.

Pale, creamy white calla lilies, their beauty accentuated by yellow shaded tapers in golden holders, daffodils in beautiful baskets, and the little daffodil-dressed flower girls, Misses Joline Wood and Elizabeth Langford, were used in the diping room, a mass of them centering the dining table. The little girls presented each guest with a daffodil favor from silver baskets. Mesdames W. S. Langford and T. T. T. Reese served ice cream, assisted by Misses Judith Sherrod and Virginia Miller.

The hostesses, Mesdames Langford, W. J. Donald, and Eugene Sherrod, received the guests after they were greeted at the door of the beautiful Langford home by Mrs. C. W. Snider, and they were presented in turn to the members of the house party. These included Mesdames Tolbert, W. D. Cline, C. R. Hartsook, C. C. Cabiness, A. H. Carrigan, E. B. Gorsline, J. A. Kemp, G. STATEMENT OF HIS CAMPAIGN IS MADE BY CANDIDATE SMITH

The Times has received a statement from William Lawrence Smith, candidate for alderman, place No. 1, as follows:

"I have made a clean campaign for Place No. 1 on the city council at the coming election. I have not said an unkind word about any of my opponents, or the men now in office. I do not believe in that method.

"In making the race for place No. 1 on the city council, I have not asked any organization of the city to indorse me for that place, but am making the race for that position on my merits and integrity as a man for the good I may be able to do for the city and the people at large, and am going about the city telling the people of the issues I stand for, and pledging them an honest effort to accomplish what I can in the way of promoting efficiency in public office to the end that all may get a square deal in matters coming before the council for their consideration.

"I realize the fact that the people as a rule are not unreasonable in their demands upon those whom they elect to places of this kind, but rather expect to be shown a reasonable consideration in matters effecting their comfort and safety as citizens of the city in which they live and have their homes. Hence I stand upon the proposition that a real American needs no indorsement as a qualification for public office in which so many interests are to be subserved, as our interests are at common, and it is along these lines that I am making the race for Place No. 1 on the board of aldermen.

"The issues I stand for are briefly: efficiency in public office; economy in public affairs; improvements where most needed; enforcement of the sanitary regulations; appointing home men to all places; a building inspector; a city auditor.

"In addition, if I am elected, I shall support all matters affecting the people in all walks of life, for I take it that what is good for myself is also good for my neighbor, and the city at large.

Mr. Smith is foreman for the Wichita Falls Lumber and Building company in their manufacturing department, coming here from Dallas to take charge of that business more than three years ago.

PEACH CROP DAMAGE IS REPORTED HEAVY

Much Greater Loss Caused By Frost Than First Inspection Indicated.

The peach crop in the vicinity of Wichita Falls has been decidedly curtailed by the severe weather of the past week. Although first reports indicated that damage by frost had been considerable, later information is that the cold snap cut very deep into next summer's yield of peaches.

Orchard owners who at first thought their trees had not been hurt noticed, later in the week, that the tiny peaches were shriveling up, and on cutting some of them open found the seeds turned black and other unmistakable signs of the effects of the frost. It is believed that enough peaches survived to make a yield considerably larger than that of 1920, when there was almost no peaches at all, but the crop will still be a very short one.

Plum trees survived the frost in better shape than peaches.

Case Will Be Called By Judge Martin In The Eighty-Ninth District Court.

The tragic scene that occurred on the gallery of a moving picture house in Iowa Park on January 17, 1921, will be re-enacted in the 89th district court room when the case of the State of Texas vs. Loma Conn is called for trial, Monday morning, April 11.

No special venire has been asked for by R. E. Taylor, counsel for the defendant and former district attorney of the United States district court. The regular jury for the week will be utilized in the selection of twelve men who will determine the girl's guilt or innocence.

The trial promises to be one of public interest as the fate of a woman is at stake. This has been a rare occurrence in this county and for this reason it is believed that the court room will be a crowded one from beginning until the jury returns from its room after deliberating.

It is alleged that on the evening of January 17 the defendant climbed to the gallery of the moving picture house where the deceased was at work. Her younger sister accompanied her. It is stated that there had been some misunderstanding of some nature between the lovers. As the two walked around on the gallery on their way to a private room it is charged that Miss Conn turned and fired the shot that resulted in the death of Penrod. A .25 calibre Colt's automatic was handed the officers when the girl was placed under arrest.

The following morning the girl was brought to Wichita Falls and immediately the grand jury, which was then in session, called her before them. An indictment was returned on the 18th charging her with murder. She was released under a $5,000 bond.

Wichita Falls Ladies are amazed at low dress prices. The New York buyers for the Bon Marche, 723 Indiana avenue, Wichita Falls, Texas, purchased a beautiful line of canton crepe, taffeta and combination dresses, at such a value, that the Bon Marche are offering the same in the spring clearance sale now in progress, at a reduction of 40 per cent from the regular retail price. These dresses are of the richest and best material and of the most exclusive designs. The most discriminating buyer can find something among them to satify. 322-3tc

LAKE WICHITA SEASON IS EXPECTED TO START IN ABOUT TWO WEEKS

The summer season at Lake Wichita will start perhaps by April 17, two weeks from today, and at any rate not later than April 24, it was announced Saturday. It all depends upon the weather.

Rapid progress is being made upon the improvement program at the resort, where repainting, repairing, planting of shrubs and graveling of the circle road have been under way for several weeks. It is promised that the resort will present a much more attractive appearance this year.

A decided change has been made in the swimming pool arrangements, with the construction of a new pavilion, dressing room and grandstand. It is expected that some of the more hardy water-lovers will start swimming as soon as the pool is opened.

Appeal Made for Relief of Starving People in Ireland

The local committee for relief in Ireland makes the following appeal in behalf of that cause:

"It should be a real pleasure and a duty for every loyal American citizen and every other citizen of whatever nationality to give what he or she can to relieve the suffering among the women and children of Ireland.

"The following should be of interest to those whose sole thought would be to relieve suffering humanity, leaving the thought of politics or anything else entirely at spa.

"The chief sufferer from the industrial distress prevalent in Ireland is Belfast. Since last July 6,000 men have been out of work. With their dependents these total some 30,000 individuals, who for eight months have been relying absolutely on charity for subsistence.

"Already $750,000 contributed by the rest of Ireland, Scotland and England has been spent among them on relief. Yet when the American unit now investigating conditions on behalf of the American committee for relief in Ireland visited Belfast homes they found the conditions among the workers appalling. A pound a week ($2.90) was all the Macrory relief committee could allow families of from five to nine. Ten shillings of this had to go for rent and coal. The other half bought the family food, bread and tea or sometimes a bowl of soup. Nothing left for clothing, hence young children, fathers and mothers are forced to go barefoot, Belfast workers are facing eviction and starvation unless America comes to their aid.

"The American committee for relief in Ireland is non-partisan and it plans to raise $10,240,000 for the starving people. It is estimated that $10 per month per person will ward off the effects of malnutrition.

"Captain John F. Lucey, Herbert Hoover's first Belgian aid, is asking that money be sent quickly. Contributions can be sent to the treasurer of the local committee of the American committee for relief in Ireland or to Frank Russell, state treasurer, First National Bank, Houston.

"When 200,000 people in Ireland are homeless at present and some 150,000 men and women out of work and thousands of children living on a cup of cocoa and a slice of bread a day, it would seem that a wonderful opportunity for service is offered to those who are more fortunate.

"President Warren G. Harding makes the following statement as his endorsement: "I wish you the fullest measure of success."

Suppose you came home from work, penniless, and found your mother weeping because she hadn't enough to get your dinner? That was a crisis in the lives of two people in Basil King's latest novel. Read it in April Cosmopolitan.—Adv.

AMUSEMENT CALENDAR FOR COMING WEEK

Motion Pictures

Use Novel System To Give Fresh Air to Patrons of Strand

A novel—and expensive—system of providing fresh air for its patrons is that installed at Wichita Falls' newest playhouse, the Strand. Every three minutes, while the theatre is open, a house-full of clean, fresh air is sent into the building for customers to breathe, while they watch Beatrice Eczema plead with her lover not to rob the bank in the third reel.

Next time you are in the Strand, glance upward—if you can spare a glance from Mary Toothpick in "Why Kill Your Husband?"—and notice the seven rows of little openings in the ceiling; there are over 300 of these openings, and through half of them comes in fresh air, and through the other half the second-hand air goes out. The old ventilation plan in theatres provided for three or four very large openings, instead of a large number of small ones; the new plan is said to insure a much more general distribution of air.

A large motor, installed near the roof back of the screen, operates the plate fans that shove the air in one set of openings and yank it out of the others It is said that if the going-out" holes were to be closed, and no air allowed to escape from the room while new air continued to be pushed in, the pressure would eventually wreck the building.

The fans turn over about 24,000 cubic feet of air a minute, while the total for one day would run into figures large enough to make a layman wonder where all the ozone comes from.

CLARA KIMBALL YOUNG IN "HUSH" AT THE OLYMPIC

Dramatic suspense, alluring romance and red-blooded action to set the pulses throbbing and tug at the heart strings are some of the promises made for "Hush," Clara Kimball Young's latest photo-drama, which comes to the Olympic theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Add to these a wealth of scenic investiture and lavishness such as characterizes all of Harry Garson's productions, and the incomparable histrionic ability of Miss Young, and you have all the elements that go to make the super-production. Newspaper critics in Los Angeles who were given a pre-release peep at the picture unqualifiedly and unanimously proclaim this to be Miss Young's greatest screen achievement.

"Hush" was written by Sada Cowan and is a fascinating story of American romance. Vera is the wife of Jack Stanford, an adoring lover who has not permitted the convention of matrimony to lessen his unbounded affection for her. On the night of their first wedding anniversary Vera seems troubled. Jack importunes her to tell him what it is, and imploringly assures her that no matter what might have happened before their marriage nothing could dampen his ardor. And then she confesses that there had been another man. "Anything but that I could forgive," he tells her. And from that moment on things occur which make this one of the most intensely dramatic and absorbing film stories ever produced.

The interior scenes, including drawing rooms, reception galleries and boudoir sets, are of extremely elaborate make-up, and, it is said, run the cost of this production into an enormous total.

Mother love has been worn threadbare as a theme on stage and screen, but a mother's love for her own creature comforts, gained at the sacrifice of her only daughter's happiness, is something different.

Skilfully treated so as to extract every ounce of humor from the situations, "Mamma's Affair," a First National Attraction, which concludes the week on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The play was originally presented on the stage, where it scored a success. It was written by Rachel Barton Butler and won the annual prize offered by Harvard University for the best written play by a student. Adapted for the screen it has developed even greater possibilities of humor. The story moves swiftly, even though the plot takes sudden twists and turns that baffle the ingenuity of the spectators as to its final solution. Among the well-known players appearing in the supporting cast are Kenneth Harlan, Effie Shannon, George Le Guere, Gertrude LeBrandt and Katherine Kaelred.

The adaption is made by Anita Loos and John Emerson, names to conjure with in the roster of adapters.

"PLAYTHING OF BROADWAY" TO BE EMPRESS OFFERING

Not since "Humoresque" has a production conspicuously revealing the childhood of the slums been attempted with the exception of Realart's "The Plaything of Broadway," starring Justine Johnstone, which heads the week's movie bill at the Empress. Many of the most effective scenes of the play are laid on New York's lower East Side, and dozens of children ranging from babies of a few months to half grown boys are shown in these scenes. One group of five, six, seven, eight, nine, and ten, respectively, each a distinctive type, was obtained.

The lovable little character of Jimmie is interpreted by Raymond Hewitt. The part affords some splendid scenes with the star, Miss Justine Johnstone, and the lead, Crauford Kent, who portrays the role of the ascetic Dr. Jennings.

It would be difficult to imagine a more difficult role for a hero than that of a waiter. People just naturally don't connect waiters and romance together. Yet Conway Tearle in "Society Snobs," the latest Selznick picture showing at the Empress Wednesday and Thursday invests even this menial characterization with real personality.

The foibles and absurdities of society are pictured by the merciless pen of Lewis Allen Browne, who has a particularly happy faculty of driving right to the heart of things. The dangers to which ambitious mothers heedlessly expose their daughters are vividly set forth. Gorgeous setting are plentiful and it is easily seen that no expense was spared in making the picture in every respect a true mirror of society as it is among the extravagant members of the idle nouveau riche.

There is a realness and a humanness about "World's Apart," the new Selznick pictures production, starring Eugene O'Brien, that closes the bill Friday and Saturday which deserves special mention. It possesses the ingredients of passion, pathos, sincerity and humor in well modulated portions, never overemphasizing, never caricaturing.

Apart from the star, who has never done better work than in this picture, the supporting cast, including Olive Tell, W. H. Tooker, Florence Billings, Arthur Housman, Louise Prussing and Warren Cook, who portray their roles with a skill which does much credit to the director, Alan Crosland.

HAWAIIAN ORCHESTRA AND HULA DANCING ON STRAND'S LIST FOR WEEK

All the melody and charm of music from a real Hawaiian orchestra combined with genuine hula dancing by a maiden fair from the Pacific isles and vocal numbers by accomplished artists are to be on tap at the Strand during the coming week when the Hawaiian Jewels, a troup of native Hawaiians come for an appearance at every show.

The troup has labeled its performance "A Night in Paradise Isle," and from advance press reports it is all of that. The personnel includes Henry Ahiena, steel guitar soloist; Princess Lei Monie, hula dancer; Sol Hawahine, tenor and ukelele soloist; Mme. Kane, soprano; D. M. Makuakane, baritone and A. Keluao, guitar accompanist, all of whom are said to be at the top of their class.

OLYMPIC ATTRACTION THIS WEEK

"THE BROKEN GATE" TO BE ON PROGRAM AT STRAND

The Strand Theatre announces as the feature attraction for Monday and Tuesday of this week "The Broken Gate," starring Bessie Barriscale. This is the first appearance of the popular star under the management of the J. L. Frothingham Production released through W. W. Hodkison, and it is said to represent the best work of her eminently successful career.

The story is adapted by Jack Cunningham from the novel of the same name by Emerson Hough and presents an age-old problem in a strong and interest-holding manner. Miss Barriscale is seen in a role differentiating widely from others that she has formerly essayed. As "Aurora Lane, the best-known woman in Spring Valley and the woman with the least reputation," Miss Barriscale rises to heights of feeling that will establish her still more firmly as one of the foremost emotional actresses of the silver sheet.

May McAvoy and Bruce Gordon will be co-starred Wednesday and Thursday in "Forbidden Valley," J. Stuart Blackton's newest Pathe feature. An original story by Randolph Lewis, "Forbidden Valley" is concerned with the last fight between the Lees and the Mitchells, who had been enemies for generations.

In the Kentucky hills, a feud had reduced the Lees and the Mitchells to the last of their lines. The remaining Mitchell was taken from the valley when a child, and the Lees lived in terror of the day when the Mitchell would return and fulfill the curse that a Mitchell had put upon the Lees.

When that day came it brought a surprising revelation that will be as greatly appreciated by the Strand audiences as it was by Morning Glory Lee and her sweetheart.

"Half a Chance," is the attraction for Friday and Saturday and has all the virility, punch, drama and outdoor appeal of Jack London, Rex Beach and Robert Service. It's a regular "he-man" story of the "under dog"—a man who, sunken to the depths, beats his way through almost insurmountable obstacles with the sheer force of physical dominance, determination and will power.

Jesse D. Hampton produced "Half a Chance" for Pathe and labeled it a Robert Thornby production, which means that the director is a star. The idea of starring the director is getting to be quite the vogue, and a wise one, we believe, as it minimizes the danger of a good story being sacrificed to a star with a contract demanding that they occupy center position in nine hundred and ninety feet of every thousand.

ATTRACTIVE ARRAY OF OFFERINGS ON GEM PROGRAM

Reginald Barker's production "Godless Men," which comes to the Gem theatre on Monday only, of this week, is one of the most thrilling stories of the sea ever written or picturized. The plot from first to last is replete with intense situations that are not solved until the final few feet of the picture is finished upon the screen, and scenery and settings are of a kind to delight the heart of the most exciting.

Helen Chadwick, one of the most attractive screen stars appearing before the camera, is cast in the leading role, along with Russell Simpson and James Mason.

Nazimova in "Stronger Than Death" is to be the attraction on Tuesday, while Wednesday brings Charles Ray in another of his delightful rustic pictures, "Alarm Clock Andy." There is probably not another action in movieland that has made as many successful pictures as has the popular Mr. Ray, and there are no class of pictures that are in such great demand as those of the simple rural life which Mr. Ray turns out. "Alarm Clock Andy" is on a par with "Paris Green," "An Amateur Sleuth," "The Egg Crate Wallop" and many others.

Eileen Percy in "Why Trust Your Husband" is featured on Thursday and on Friday a Maurice Tourneur special "My Lady's Garter," will be the main attraction. Both of these pictures are listed among the best of their type and have drawn good crowds at all previous presentations.

Harrold Lloyd in "Haunted Spooks" heads the Saturday bill and will be supplemented by a good line-up of comedies, westerns and news reels.

VICTOR MOORE HIMSELF TO BE HEADLINER UPON WICHITA VAUDEVILLE BILL

Those in Wichita Falls who have had the pleasure of seeing the original production of "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway" will welcome the announcement that Victor Moore, who was the first actor to ever play the part of Kid Burns, will headline the vaudeville bill which comes to the Wichita this week. "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway" is generally considered to be the best of Geo. M. Cohan's stage plays, and Moore is reputed to be the most capable performer who ever appeared in the role of "the Kid."

He was starred in this production for several seasons, until the screen offered a king's ransom for his services and he became a movie favorite, making five features, within a short time. "Snobs," "Chimmie Fadden" and "The Clown" were the best known of these.

Mr. Moore appears now with Emma Littlefield, a rising young actress in a comedy skit entitled "Change Your Act or go Back to the Woods."

The bill which reopens the Wichita vaudeville this week is the same which will formally open a new million dollar theatre in Dallas two weeks from Monday.

"ALASKA JACK" TO APPEAR IN PERSON AT MAJESTIC, PICTURES AND LECTURE

A unique travel film, depicting life in the frozen wastes of Alaska, is to be exhibited all this week at the Majestic theatre, along with the personal appearance of "Alaska Jack," who has spent years in the north and who is familiar with the habits and life of the denizens of that interesting country.

The picture which is to be shown will include scenes of gold mining, Eskimos dancing, polar bear hunting, reindeer in herd and being driven, all Alaska sweepstake dog races, herds of walrus and seals and the midnight sun and glaciers. The United States government offered Alaska Jack $50,000 for his picture at one time, desiring to use it for educational purposes, but this was refused and the owner is now exhibiting it at the various theatres of the country.

The picture program for the week will start with a Selznick special "The Jungle Child" on Monday and Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday brings May Allison in "The Walk Offs," which should have been shown the last week but which failed to put in an appearance and on Friday and Saturday Jack Holt in "The Best of Luck," will be the attraction.

The suits offered range from straight lined tailored effects of Poiret twill to the nifty sports of Shantung, tricolette and French serge. THERE WAS NO CLASS IN UKELELES, FATHER, IN YOUR SCHOOL DAYS, BUT THINGS ARE VERY DIFFERENT NOW

By H. F. JOHNSON.

There is probably more than one successful business man in this city today who would have laughed long and loudly if, when he was attending high school, his teachers would have told him to make a ukelele during school hours and receive credit for it, and there is no doubt more than one woman not so far away who would have jumped at the chance to make a dress or hat in school hours and receive pay for it but who never dreamed that such a thing would be possible. Yet such stunts are taking place daily right here in the public high school and are regarded as commonplace, matter of fact things.

Commenting along the same line it would require no great stretch of imagination to believe that the idea of a husky football player practicing the gentle art of modeling statues in clay, making delicate pen and ink sketches or weaving tiny baskets or rugs would also call for a joyful razzing, but this, too, is enacted daily without attracting attention.

And then you folks who have lugged a good-sized lunch basket for a mile or more to the country school house in order to have something to eat at noon, if you had been told that your children could buy home made pie and cake, fresh milk, delicious chicken broth, sandwiches and candy, right in the school building, what would you have said? Delicacy will not permit us to chronicle what we think—but it's being done.

School's Scope Broader.

The tremendously wide scope of high school life at the present time, all the different activities which it embraces and its many sided and varied complexity, is utterly incomprehensible unless a visit is paid to the school and the actual manner in which the work is carried on given a thorough study. Yet, unless the different phases are pointed out by instructors and explanations made of the why and wherefore of each thing it does not seem so remarkable, for the work goes on quietly and systematically that it appears quite ordinary.

There are four departments in the local high school which are of special interest to visitors, but perhaps the one which claims the most attention is the art department, where the more unique articles are made.

The art classes are under the supervision of Miss Jennie Robertson, art supervisor for all the schools, and are made up now of about 125 pupils. Incidentally the department was first started at the opening of the present school year and is already listed as being one of the most popular of the entire school curriculum.

For those who have talent along such lines there is no limit to the things which are not made in the classes. Rattan baskets, trays, toys, clay flower pots, cream jars, woven rugs, pen and ink sketches, statues, in fact anything and everything which requires ability of an artistic nature is planned and fashioned by the students.

All Sorts of Pretties.

Baskets of all sizes and shapes are woven with reeds and raffia, small rugs are woven on real looms and such commonplace articles as cold cream jars and tin spice boxes are transformed into useful and tasteful accessories for milady's dresser merely by using a little paint. Included in the big display of things already completed by students is a miniature football player, posing in conscious pride and clad in a full uniform of the local high school. This was the work of Donald Cook, who is quite much of a gridiron performer himself when booting a pigskin over the landscape is in order.

Further along are paintings, ink sketches and drawings of every conceivable kind. All art work for the school publications, such as cartooning, designing, making headings, and illustrating stories is done in this department by the pupils. Materials are furnished free by the school and to those who are adept in the work every possible encouragement is given to become porficient, and although less than a year old the department even now compares most favorably in efficiency with those of other schools which have fostered such work for years. Miss Robertson returned but recently from Oklahoma City where she made an investigation into the work of the art department in those schools, and her report indicates that with the exception of size, Oklahoma City has nothing and does nothing that is not found in Wichita Falls.

These classes, according to Miss Robertson, draw not only from the girls, but have a very good representation of boys.

All About Calories.

In the domestic economy classes, cooking and sewing, the girls of the school are given thorough training in how to plan meals, prepare the food and serve it in the most approved fashion, while in the sewing department instruction in how to design, pattern and make dresses and hats is given. Fifty girls are taught in each of these departments, this number making up three different classes.

Acording to the supervisors, efforts are made to give the theory of cooking and then make practical demonstrations of these theories. In other words, the girls get the combined instruction of the old fashioned kitchen where ham was ham and the new, modern laboratory, where calories, heat units, proteins and other culinary atrocities are split up an datudied to the nth degree. They learn the why and wherefore of the thing, how the different ingredients should be combined and why such combinations are best, and then, by practical experience, they learn to do the work in the best way.

Regular "parties," where one of the students acts as hostess and the others as guests, are held weekly, with the result that a working knowledge of how to entertain is derived.

In this department, as well as in the sewing classes, the girls are coached in the art of purchasing economically and in making the most out of what they buy. Fancy goods and stylish dresses are discouraged to a large extent, the instructors believing that a grounding in the solid principles of the thing is much better than fostering the fancy frills.

Making Their Own Hats.

Making of dresses and hats which are not only worn by the girls themselves but which also command a ready sale in the stores of the city is not an uncommon thing in the sewing classes, according to the teachers, for many of the girls attain such proficiency that their work is more satisfactory than that offered by the commercial enterprises. Materials are purchased by the girls, and when made up are of course their permanent property. Dresses of all kinds, gingham, woolen, silk or calico, and hats of an equal variety are continually being turned out, thereby not only serving to give practice but also to reduce living expenses.

"It's wonderful the way some of the girls take hold," said the teacher, "and if we only had the room and equipment we could get classes three times as large as the ones we have now."

But the domestic economy and art classes, which appeal largely to the feminine element, have their equal in the woodworking department which of course is composed exlusively of boys. In these classes can be found timber articles of as varied a character, or even more so, than in any of the others, and certainly the products evolved by the youngsters are just as useful and artistic.

Training Boys' Hands.

A morning class last Tuesday, which was claimed to be one of the smallest of any, was composed of about a dozen boys who were working on at least half that many different pieces of material. Two boys were fashioning the sounding boxes of ukeleles, another was turning out the legs for a table, a third was finishing up a cedar smoking stand, while still another was ripping up lumber for a piano bench.

"The boys do it all," explained their instructor. "They draw a plan of whatever they want to make, fix a blue print of it, buy their own lumber and go ahead. The school of course furnishes the machines and tools and I watch to see that each step is done correctly, but aside from that I never touch a boy's work. When the article is finished it is his and he takes it home or leaves it, just as he wishes."

Arranged along the walls of the manual training room are completed works with which a furniture store could be opened and made to pay. Chairs, tables, foot rests, hat racks, cedar chests, piano benches, trellis work and countless other little odds and ends which only a boy can devise and fashion are found in profusion. This department, too, does a great deal of work for the art department, making wooden bottoms for the baskets, fashioning frame works and finishing up other articles which are a little too heavy for the girls to manage properly.

Feeding the Students.

Although connected in no way with the student activity of the school the high school lunch room is one of the most popular units of any in the institution. It is operated, under school supervision, by Mrs. S. Myers, an experienced catress, who makes a small margin of profit on all meals served. Anywhere from 100 to 250 students, depending on the weather, patronize the cafe each day, according to school officials, spending from 20 to 35 cents on their dinner. Sandwiches, pies, cakes, fresh milk, soup, chili, ice cream and candy are served at nominal cost in cafeteria style, enabling a pupil to obtain a good meal without going from the building. Many of the students bring their own lunches from home and eat them in the cafe.

Operated as it is under close supervision, the school authorities know that everything served to the students is absolutely clean and that it is handled in a thoroughly sanitary manner. Pies and breads are home made with real honest to goodness ingredients, and it is told that a salesman who approached the cooks some time ago with the intention of selling them commercial pie filling by the barrel narrowly escaped with a whole hide.

Need of More Room.

But in spite of the splendid work being done in all the departments of the school there is being felt a constantly increasing need of more room and equipment. In the art classes alone it is estimated that three times the number of students now being accomodated could be interested in the work if there were but facilities to care for them, while a similar belief is entertained in regard to the sewing, cooking and manual training departments.

"The children are highly interested in the work," said Superintendent Clark in commenting on it, "and we could interest many more, but we don't dare do it because we could not care for them properly. The efficiency of the work we are doing is as high as it is possible to make it, and our standard of quality compares very favorably with that of other schools in this state, in fact it is much better than school in towns of our own size, but we need and must have a larger high school in the very near future if the standard is to be maintained.

Public Is Invited.

"Our teachers and supervisors are constantly endeavoring to improve their work, and within the past two weeks five of them have made trips to Oklahoma City, Dallas, Fort Worth and Austin to study conditions there or to attend teachers' conventions, and they are supplementing these visits with constant research among educational periodicals and publications. If the people only knew how intense the need for space is I am sure that we would have our new building in a very short time, but we intend to have it anyhow as soon as possible, and when it is finished Wichita Falls will have reason to be proud of the work of its high school students."

An invitation to parents and citizens of the town to visit the school at any time and see some of the things which are being accomplished has been extended by Mr. Clark and the teachers, and the public is welcome at all times to attend the recitations.

So some of you old ex-grads, now sliding down the shady side of 40, hike out to the high school some time, watch the boys make ukeleles and sample some of the pies the young ladies make. And if you are as lucky as The Times reporter was you'll get a free feed in the cafeteria.

Blackheads indicate your cleansing method is wrong

BLACKHEADS indicate that the method you are using is not the right method of cleansing for your type of skin.

A skin specialist would tell you that blackheads are caused by excessive oil collecting dirt in the pores of your skin.

Then with a rough washcloth work up a heavy lather of Woodbury's Facial Soap and rub it into the pores thoroughly, always with an upward and outward motion.

To remove blackheads already formed, substitute a flesh brush for the washcloth in this treatment. Then protect the fingers with a handkerchief and press out the blackheads.

GET a cake of Woodbury's today, at any drug store or toilet goods counter, and begin this treatment tonight. You will be astonished to see how quickly your skin will improve in clearness.

A 25-cent cake of Woodbury's will last for a month or six weeks. The Andrew Jergens Co., Cincinnati, New York and Perth, Ontario.

ENGLAND SAYS "MURDER MUST STOP" IRELAND REPLIES: "WITHDRAW YOUR POLICE AND THEY WILL NOT BE KILLED"

Average Englishman Does Not Believe Stories of Outrages by Black and Tans—It Was to Maintain Order, Not to Do Dirty Work, That They Were Organized—Gibbs Condemns Reprisals, but Sees Little Hope of Peaceful Settlement.

By SIR PHILIP GIBBS.

The act of conscription, which was never enforced in Ireland, intensified the spirit of national resistance to English rule, and the recruiting, drilling, and training of Irish volunteers under Sinn Fein went on apace. I am told—and absolutely believe—that any attempt to enforce conscription would have led to bloody civil war. England could not, and did not, risk it, and during the last two years of the war the sinn fein organisation was perfected, and the administration of Dhail Erin, the Irish Republic, was put into actual practice. They established their own courts of law, whose judgments their people sought and obeyed; their volunteers acted as police in civic disturbances when the Royal Irish Constabulary, weak in numbers, and boycotted, could only look on and take no active notice. They did not for a time attack the English executive. They simply ignored it. Over a great part of the south and west of Ireland the king's writ did not run.

GUERRILLA WARFARE BEGUN.

Then came another phase when, after the war, the English government were able to turn their attention to Ireland with a greater determination to enforce the old rule. It was the phase of police murders, attacks on police barracks, ambushes, and all elements of guerrilla warfare. The average Englishman read with horror the repeated shootings of Royal Irish Constabulary men. His blood boiled at the thought of these guardians of law and order shot down so often in cold blood, or after seiges of their barracks in which, temporarily, they were greatly outnumbered by well-armed men. It seemed to him, and seems to him still a brutal campaign of murder for which there is no excuse and no defense. Again he does not know the Sinn Fein point of view, or, if he knows, rejects it as utterly poisonous in its doctrine.

The Sinn Fein view, I am told on trustworthy authority from the inside, is that the majority of policemen shot by armed bodies of men have been proved to be spies of Dublin Castle, gathering or concocting, secret evidence against Irish volunteers, and that, as in all warfare, it is acknowledged right to shoot spies on sight; so these men have been dealt with as such and not as ordinary duties of maintaining order.

That is not good enough for the average Englishman, and he says: "Murder is murder, and these crimes must be stopped by the full power of martial law." The Irishman retorts: "Withdraw your police, and your orders which turn them into spies and agents provocateurs, and they will not be killed!" The English answer is, "Let the murders stop first before there is any truce."

BLACK-AND-TAN ORGANIZED.

It was to stop murders, and to maintain order, apart from all political discussion, that the average Englishman gave his moral support to the government's strengthening of the military garrison in Ireland and to the enlistment of a new force of men, auxiliary to the constabulary, who now have earned a sinister name as the "Black-and-Tans." These men were recruited from the enormous numbers of ex-officials and non-commissioned officers who had not settled down to peace after the great war, who found it difficult or impossible to get decent jobs, and who were tempted at once by this chance of active employment in Ireland. Their relatives and friends believed that they were going to Ireland for honest work, even though dangerous and unpleasant work, such as might befall a body of special police in time of riot. They did not think they were going for dirty work which would bespatter the good name of England with mud and filth.

THEN CAME REPRISALS.

It was not until recently that a certain ominous word was mentioned in English newspapers and in the English parliament. Reprisals. Months after there were columns in Irish, American, and continental newspapers about this new phase of activity in Ireland did the ordinary English reader hear anything about it beyond a few obscure paragraphs, or occasional half columns, which gave him to believe that dreadful things were happening in some places across the Irish Sea when English soldiers and the new force of auxiliaries were firing back at the crowds which attacked them, and raiding private homes where they killed those who tried to kill them, or burning farmsteads and other houses and cottages from which they had been fired upon.

SIR PHILIP GIBBS

The ordinary decent Englishman deplored these things and said: "Surely to God this business ought to be settled!" but could not find it in his heart to blame any of those soldiers or police who defended themselves against ambush and assassination, and hit back hard against those who struck first. That is still the view, very largely, I am sure, of many incidents briefly reported to him, and the Englishman says to all sentimentalists: "Surely our fellows must be allowed to hit back, to shoot if they are shot at, to arrest the murderers at all risk, to burn their houses about their ears if they won't surrender to the forces of the crown in their duty of checking crime and maintaining order!" . . . If that were all, I think the average Englishman would be justified in his judgment, apart from the rights and wrongs of our government of Ireland.

CURRENT REPORTS IN ENGLAND.

It is only quite recently, within the last month or two that certain facts have been brought under the Englishman's notice which fill him with abominable misgiving. Charges were brought against the "Black-and-Tans" which at first he utterly refused to believe.

It was asserted by the Irish and their American friends that in Balbriggan, the Tuam, and many other places, these English auxiliary police had run amuck and had committed acts of arson and murder, not in self-defense, not in punishment of individual criminals, not even in the passion of rage against great provocation, but blindly, wantonly, and brutally, as those Germans who played the devil's game in Alost and Louvain.

It was further asserted that civilians were being shot and flogged; that buildings, creameries, farmsteads, and village homes were being burned, not as the sudden impulse of brutal men inflamed by a boycott in a hostile population and by murderous attacks, but under the direct orders of their military chiefs and as part of a deliberate and cold-blooded policy to kill the spirit of a people by a steady reign of terror. The average Englishman, the man in the street, of whom I am writing, the decent-minded fellow, proud of the good name and fame of England, resented such charges with indignation and disgust. The vast majority of people in England at the time I am writing still repudiate those accusations. They do not believe it possible that their government, or the military and police chiefs in Ireland, would tolerate such an abominable policy, or that soldiers who fought in the great war would carry it out. That is their position now at the time I am writing, and they are fortified by government denials in the house of commons.

It is there that I must leave "the average Englishman," tired to death of the whole Irish problem, anxious for any kind of settlement which would bring about peace without injuring the prestige and power of Old England, willing to grant the broadest measure of home rule this side of a republic, irritated with the truculence and narrow spirit of the Ulster men, and with the passion and fanaticism of the Catholic Irish, shocked by the anarchy now prevailing, abhorrent of the police murders, but upholding the right of retaliation so long as the tragedy and stupidity of the guerrilla warfare lasts.

I write now for myself, not classing myself with the average Englishman because I have greater access to the sources of news, a closer knowledge of the forces at work, and personal acquaintance with some of the moving spirits behind the scenes on the English and Irish side.

WHAT IS THE TRUTH?

I am bound to admit that I am not satisfied with the government denials on the subject of reprisals. I cannot put on one side the admission of General Macready, which he had never denied, that it is a "delicate and difficult matter" to punish men who, under his authority and discipline, do acts of indiscipline and disorder in the way of reprisals. Vainly I searched the speech of Lloyd George at Carnaryon for any denunciation of reprisals, but found only an admission and defense. And since then I have seen a great deal of evidence coming in, but not admitted, as a rule, to the English newspapers, revealing certain criminal acts and brutal deeds, a callous and wanton cruelty amounting to a real reign of terror on the part of the "Black-and-Tans," which I am constrained to believe, though I hate to believe them, because of their origin and authority. From some English people living in Ireland, as well as from some of the Irish themselves, I have been given detailed accounts of the shooting of civilians, the "shooting-up" of villages, the destruction of property, for which I can find no justification, even by the laws of warfare, which are ruthless enough.

Personally I cannot stand for this. I love England too well to defend that which dishonors her. As a war correspondent in France during the years of slaughter, I was the chronicler of the heroism of all those young men of ours who fought for the ideals of liberty—who died for them—and I described the war with what passion I could put into my pen only because liberty seemed to be the goal for which we fought and the only justification of its horror, its insanity, its degradation of our civilized world. I should be betraying the dead, and all their faith, if now I tried to defend a reign of terror in Ireland which the united body of Irish Catholic bishops have described in words which cannot be put on one side in view of other evidence I have.

"We know that latterly, at least, all pretense of strict discipline has been thrown to the winds and that those who profess to be the guardians of law and order have become the most ardent votaries of lawlessness and disorder; that they are running wild through the country, making night hideous by raids; that recklessness and indiscriminate shootings in crowded places have made many innocent victims; that towns are sacked as in the rude warfare of earlier ages; that those who run through fear are shot at sight. . .

"For all this not the men, but their masters, are chiefly to blame. It is not a question of hasty reprisals, which, however unjustifiable, might be attributed to extreme provocation, nor of quick retaliation on evil doers, nor of lynch law for miscreants—much less of self-defense of any kind whatsoever. It is an indiscriminate vengeance deliberately wreaked on a whole countryside, without any proof of its complicity in crime, by those who ostensibly are employed by the British government to protect the lives and property of the people and restore order in Ireland."

There is no decent Englishman who, if he believes these things are true, as I believe some of them are, will for a single moment defend them as legiti-

HAPPINESS Will Be Placed in Thousands of Homes This Week

National Player-Piano Week Brings Special Opportunities for You!

HAPPINESS is the most precious thing in life; it is that intangible something which keeps us eternally young.

—Happiness makes the "kiddies" romp and play; it lightens work for the grown folks; it sends a man to business with a clear eye and a buoyant step equipped to succeed.

—Happiness is born in the home; it comes from association with those we love—and music. No home can be completely happy without music.

More Happiness

HAPPINESS is not a gift. It comes from association with folks we love—and music. Music makes friends.

The Player-Piano is the ideal musical instrument for the home—it enables you to create good music—it makes musicians of us all.

Will the folks in your home be among the millions made more happy this year because of music? Would you deprive your loved ones of this happiness for the sake of a few pennies a day?

The Player Piano

nite, in spite of all provocation. Unfortunately, the facts have been boycotted in England—apart from two or three courageous papers—and the mass of the people do now know them.

RESULT OF STUPIDITY AND WEAKNESS

I see in all this the inevitable result of lang stupidity and wickedness. The wickedness began again when Sir Edward Carson was allowed to raise and arm the Ulster volunteers—with German rifles—and defy the authority of the king and parliament by a threat of civil war if home rule were passed. I saw in Belfast the march past of those men, and banners which promised allegiance to the kaiser rather than submit to nationalist coercion. I saw riots there in which the Catholic minority were stoned and beaten with extreme brutality, and I saw the swearing of the covenant which raised again the old fires of religious hatred and political warfare, while the present lord chancellor of England, F. E. Smith, acted as "galloper" to the leader of the Ulster rebels.

It was the freedom given to Carson, the blind eye turned to the gun running of German arms and ammunition, which challenged the Nationalists and raised Sinn Fein. We went from one stupidity to another. Ireland would have accepted home rule if we had given it with real sincerity before the war. She would have fought with all her manhood by our side if in return we had pledged ourselves to anything like dominion home rule. She would have hated us less if for long years past, as still today, we had not placed in Ireland as our representatives men who did not understand the Irish temperament and were not courteous to Irish sensibilities but men who at Dublin castle were the avowed enemies of her national aspirations, hostile to her faith, and hard and brutal in their minds and manners. As we have sown in stupidity so now we shall reap in tragedy.

TWO WAYS OPEN.

What is now to be done? There are two ways open to us. Either a bloody conquest of these people by a hideous civil war which will leave Ireland a desert, or a truce of God when by a general amnesty and a withdrawal of troops we may come to some kind of peace treaty with the leaders of the Sinn Fein.

I am certain that the English people will not stand for that bloody civil war. The English people are tired of war. They want peace. Or, if there is to be any civil war, it will not be restricted to Ireland, but will flame out in England, too. Therefore, failing a new conquest of Ireland by fire and sword, there must be a truce and a treaty. That is not going to be easy of arrangement, whatever the good will of the English people.

The Irish people have no good will to us. They say: "We are not interested in your home rule bill. You can talk and talk and talk, and add clause to clause, but we care nothing for it all and will have nothing of it!" They say: "You may offer us dominion home rule, and if you clear out we shall be very glad and will breathe more freely in your absence. But we will carry on with the Irish republic, which is ours now in spirit as it will be in every future act. You may cut out Ulster to your heart's content, but Ulster is a part of Ireland, and as such shall be part of the Irish republic."

What is to be done with an attitude like that? Frankly, I do not know, unless we leave the Irish to fight it out among themselves, as far as Ulster is concerned, which seems to be an impossible proposition because of English and Scottish sentiment for Ulster's safety.

If Ireland will not accept any measure of home rule, leaving Ulster separate for the time being, nor anything less than a republic, then I am afraid that there will never be any bridge of reconciliation between our two islands. For the English people will not surrender, except by absolute compulsion, the Irish harp on their royal standard. They know that to accept an Irish republic would be the outward and visible sign of the breaking up of the British empire and the downfall of our pride and power. Anything less than that they will grant, but never that except by the ruin of their spirit and strength.

IRISH MUST SHOW GENEROSITY.

As an Englishman, friendly to Ireland, in spite of that rebellion which I cannot forgive except by a remembrance of tragic history which put prison on against the English into Irish brains and acknowledging with shame the folly and evil of many things which are now happening under our martial law—not justified despite the murders and guerrilla warfare which I equally condemn—I can see no hope in the future of avoiding greater tragedy, more fearful things, unless the Irish will show a little generosity on their side, wipe out many black memories, abandon their attacks upon military and police, and, in return for a complete and absolute truce, come to terms which will give them full rights over their own nationality while still remaining in the confederation of British peoples under the king-emperor. If they would agree to that they would get not only the friendship of the English people, among whom, in spite of all this tragedy, they have masses of friends, but they would rise to a height greater than that of nationality, which is the brotherhood of man in the name of Christ.

But, knowing the Irish people and their present passion and purpose, I think they will not agree to any of that, so that the future is as black as night.

GOVERNMENT DOING ITS BEST FOR DISABLED SOLDIERS—DOWN-AND-OUTER IN THIS CITY GIVEN $2,480

His frame racked by tuberculosis, his leg broken by a fall from a train on which he was trying to bum a ride, a certain young man not very long ago lay in the mud near the railroad embankment, and felt that life was not overly good to him. He felt no particular aversion to dying, and he knew that his relatives, if they knew he was dead, wouldn't pine away with grief. He was about as thoroughly down and out as folks get to be. Morally, physically and financially, he was a wreck.

An ambulance arrived in due season, picked him up and transported him to the general hospital, where a cast was put on the broken limb, rest and good food prescribed for the punctured lungs, and where life seemed somewhat more real. To hospital attendants, he said he had no relatives that would give a damn about him or that could help him any if they wanted to, which they probably didn't.

It was finally gotten out of him that he had been in the army; in our own 36th division, too. With some urging he produced a worn and dirty certificate of disability, due to tuberculosis.

Not very long after, and yet long enough, too, for Uncle Sam never hurries in such matters—he got a treasury warrant for $2,480, to pay for all he had gone through. It was $80 per month for 31 months from October, 1918, when he was discharged, that monthly allowance being fixed by the government in cases of total disability. He was transferred to the hospital at Houston for treatment, and the government not only paid him at total disability rates, but it allowed compensation to the hospital and physicians who had treated him. Because of the tuberculosis, his injured leg isn't healing as rapidly as it might, but he is considerably improved.

While the amount of compensation in his case is considerably larger than the average, he is only one of some hundreds of young men who have been and are being helped by the government for injuries received in the war. The amounts range from a few dollars per month for a missing finger, up to $80 for complete disability.

Dr. M. M. Walker is the government's representative in this work for Wichita Falls and surrounding territory, and scarcely a day passes that some claimant for compensation does not visit his office. A few of them, probably not over five per cent, are imposters, but about 70 per cent are found to have valid claims. In most of the cases, injuries are comparatively slight, but only too often tubercular cases are found, and for these the government is called upon to go the limit.

Not many compensation claims arise from gas wounds, it is said. Comparatively few ailments are traceable to poison gas, and the number of claimants for compensation for such ailments is decreasing. Where gas is found to have been the cause of disease, it is most likely to be kidney trouble, rather than affections of the lungs or throat.

Of the several hundred who have received compensation in some form, a great number served in other than Texas outfits. They came here when work was plentiful.

Would You Advise Me to Take Nuxated Iron?—I Am Weak

NERVOUS, and "ALL PLAYED OUT" after my day's work, but times are "hard" and money scarce and I do not want to spend a cent that is not absolutaly necessary

In "hard times" it is more difficult to make MONEY and "GET AHRAD" than it is in good times, you, therefore, require MORE PHYSICAL AND MENTAL VIGOR, STRENGTH, and endurance in "hard times" to help you overcome the numerous difficulties, obstacles and stumbling blocks you are bound to meet.

Now as to taking Nuxated Iron, what would YOU SAY a man should do if he had WEAK LEGS or no legs but had to get his food by running after it—would you advise him to get a pair of good strong legs if he could do so? The case is not exactly parallel but if YOU REQUIRE MORE BODILY AND MENTAL VIGOR to get ahead in "hard times" then isn't it good economy to purchase anything you can which helps make you stronger?

Many a man is struggling, trying hard to get ahead, but just as he gets a start something always seems to go wrong that sets him back, while another man with apparently less ability seems to get along famously with comparatively little effort—THIS GREAT DIFFERENCE in men may be due solely to the difference in their bodily and mental vigor and the AMOUNT of organic IRON IN THEIR BLOOD.

There are 30,000,000,000,000 RED BLOOD CORPUSCLES in your blood and each one must have iron. Without IRON YOUR BLOOD LOSES ITS POWER TO CHANGE FOOD INTO LIVING CELLS AND TISSUE and nothing you eat does you the proper amount of good—you do not get the full strength out of it.

Indoor life, overeating, household drudgery, gripping, galling worry and nervous strain are sapping the iron and thereby the very life, from the blood of thousands of men and women.

We do not advise what to do in individual cases as this is the province of the physician but we do say that if you lack sufficient iron in your blood to give you the strength, energy and endurance you need to get ahead and overcome obstacles, by all means try NUXATED IRON.

NUXATED IRON often increases the bodily and mental vigor of weak, tired, wornout, nervous people in two weeks time. It's like the iron in your blood and like the iron in spinach, lentils and apples. You can eat it if you wish. It will not blacken or injure the teeth nor disturb the stomach—it is entirely different from ordinary metallic iron which people usually take and which is made merely by the action of strong acids on small pieces of iron.

In addition to organic iron, Nuxated Iron also contains a product which represents the principal chemical constituent of ACTIVE LIVING FORCE for feeding the nerves. It may, therefore, be said to be both a BLOOD and a NERVE FOOD. Over 4,000,000 people are using NUXATED IRON annually.

Beware of substitutes. Look for the word "NUXATED" on every package and the letters N. I. on every tablet. Your money will be refunded by the manufacturers if you do not obtain perfectly satisfactory results. At all druggists.—adv.

Hubby Should Get Car "Just Because," Writes Contestant

"Just because—", since time began one of woman's old standby reasons for any particular thing, is again brought out and given a trot to the King & Weaver Automobile Co. The letter is one of the scores that are now being received by the popular Nash distributors in their letter writing contest, for a $15 cash prize to the women of Wichita county writing the best 250-word letter on "Why I Want My Husband to Buy a Car," or "Why I Want My Husband to Sell Our Old Car and Buy a New One." Either subject will do, according to the rules of the contest, therefore letting a larger number of women into the fun.

According to Mr. Weaver, by far the greater number of letters so far received are from ladies whose husbands do not own cars, and judging by expressions so far received, the good housewife will overlook a bet if she doesn't use some of those reasons on hubby directly. One letter is from a contestant admittedly in the throes of single "blessedness," but IF she had a husband he would most assuredly have to harden his heart and stiffen his neck to the breaking point to escape taking on a gasoline wagon.

The contest is to close at midnight, April 12, and the winning letter will be published in the Times of the following Sunday. Only letters in the office of the King & Weaver Automobile Co. or bearing postmarks prior to midnight, April 12, will be considered by the judges.

RECORD PERFORMANCE OF HUDSON CAR IS CITED

The Dallas distributors of the Hudson automobile has sent Lloyd Weaver of the Lloyd Weaver Automobile Co., local Hudson distributors, a clipping from the Dallas News of last Sunday giving an account of some remarkable service secured from a Hudson car by W. C. Beard of Wilmer. According to the News' story, Mr. Beard has owned his car five years, has traveled over 21,000 miles, and has just had it in a repair shop for the first time.

The News' story reads:

"W. C. Beard of Wilmer has had unusually good luck with a Hudson he bought in 1917.

"When the average motorist leaves home for his annual spring jaunt he usually prays to the little tin gods of motordom to keep him free of the misfortunes that nearly always beset him. If the gods hear his plea the folks in his particular neighborhood are forced to listen to his tale until they weary of it.

"Mr. Beard, however, boasts of a better record than can be made on any single trip and one that every owner of an aptomobile will appreciate. 'I have had that car for four years and have covered 21,000 miles with it,' he said. 'That is almost around the world in mileage, and today is the first time it has ever been in a garage for repairs.'

School Children Being Educated As to Traffic Laws

Despite the rapid growth of the city, fatalities due to automobile accidents have actually decreased in an astonishing way. Among school children between the ages of seven and ten, accidents have been reduced in many localities over 100 per cent.

This fine showing has been part of an educational movement fostered by the national automobile chamber of commerce. This work is also being presented to various local associations by such men as Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car company.

This movement plans to educate school children regarding traffic laws. The work is carried on through the schools in a most interesting and unique way. The teacher chooses one of the children to act as the traffic cop. The little one then stands in the middle of the room with hand uplifted and goes through the traffic signals as familiar to us all. Another child then acts as a tall building, another as a truck, still another as an automobile, and so on until the setting is similar to every day busy corner conditions.

Then, off to one side, one of the children plays the part of an older sister, leading a younger sister across the street. All eyes become fixed on the traffic cop. His signals are observed and according to his semaphore or his up-raised hand, the children go through with their play in strict accordance with actual traffic rules.

Not only do the children love to play the traffic game, but they carry away with them an understanding of the traffic laws which in Detroit, has been such a boon to the children of that city.

STRONG DEMAND FOR CHEVROLET CARS REPORTED

That the demand for Chevrolet cars was one hundred per cent better last week than any week this year, was the declaration of B. C. Cochran of the Cochran Motor company, local Chevrolet distributors. Mr. Cochran attributes this increased demand not only to better business conditions, but especially as a result of the announcement in last Sunday's Times to the effect that a cash refund of from $70 to $100 would be made to all purchasers of Chevrolets who buy their cars between now and July 31, 1921, provided the company's production for the period between January 1, 1921, and July 31, 1921, reaches fifty thousand cars.

According to the announcement, which reappears in today's Times, the Chevrolet people sold 186,147 cars during 1920, or at the rate of 108,500 cars for seven months. It will be seen, therefore, that the company has set less than half its last year's record as a mark to shoot at, and with the continued improvement in business conditions should easily make the grade.

WITH THE AUTO DEALERS

A Jordan playboy and an Oakland car were reported as having been sold to local purchasers by the Marshall Huff Motor company last week.

Sid Gaines of the Gaines Automobile company left Thursday night for a two-days' trip to Dallas, from where he expected to go to Rogers, Ark., for a short fishing trip on the White river.

William Myers, Dallas distributor for the Hudson and Essex machine is expected to be in this city the early part of this week.

J. G. Clark of the Lloyd Weaver Auto company drove a new Hudson up from Dallas the latter part of last week.

Paul Von Allmen of the Eckman-Von Allmen company, local distributors of the Hupmobile and Peerless machines, was confined to his home most of last week, suffering with a severe cold.

D. H. Rubsam, manager of the Marshall Huff Motor company, will leave Monday for an extensive trip through the Oakland and Jordan territory in this part of the state.

C. W. Nolen of the Nolen-Stringer company drove a new Haynes up from Dallas last Friday.

E. M. Coffin of this city purchased a Packard twin-six touring car from the Williams-Thompson company last week.

Two Hupmobiles were delivered last week to local purchasers by Eckman and Von Allmen, local distributors.

W. J. Daugherty of the Overland Motors company attended a state convention of Overland dealers and distributors held in Dallas last week and heard an address by John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland company. Willys, who is considered as one of the biggest business men in the country, it quite optimistic about the auto's future, according to Mr. Daugherty's account, and predicts that the industry will be back to normalcy in a short time. Money, he said, is much easier in the east and the demand for high-class cars is increasing all over the country. The Willys-Knight factory is now preparing to turn out 4,500 cars in April.

The storage facilities of the Marshall Huff Motor company have been greatly increased recently by a re-arranging of the storage room, according to Manager Rubsam, and the company is now prepared to meet any demands made upon it in this line.

The following sales were reported last week by the Lloyd Weaver Auto company: Hudson speedsters to N. O. Monroe and N. H. Martin, Essex touring cars to Sam Brown of Burkburnett and Lester Myers of this city and Essex roadsters to the Valentine Paint company and J. G. Watkins.

A "used car" week, at which time ten or a dozen good second hand machines will be disposed of at a great sacrifice will be held this week by the Lloyd Weaver Automobile company.

C. W. Nolen of the Nolen-Stringer company was in Duncan Monday and Tuesday of last week on a business trip.

J. R. Williams of the Williams Thompson company, local Packard distributors, was in Dallas last week.

What Counts in a Car?

A CAR ought to be a good investment, and to be a good investment means that you must get more out of it than you put into it.

The Overland is that kind of a car, for the service and satisfaction that it gives is out of all proportion to the little that it costs.

...LE PRECAUTION WILL REDUCE NUMBER OF AUTOMOBILES STOLEN

Ordinary precaution will reduce the number of automobiles stolen, according to Charles Bebout, special agent for the automobile theft bureau:

"Many of the automobiles are stolen from in front of theaters and other places of amusement by young men for the purpose of joy riding. They watch for an opportunity. When the owner of the auto enters the theater they wait for a few minutes, after which they look the car over. If it is securely locked they will not attempt to steal it, but if the key is left in it or if the car is only locked with an ordinary switch key they can very easily start the motor and away they drive.

"They are able to drive on the main streets of the city, passing the police officers without being stopped, because they know that the theft will not be reported for at least two hours, as the police will not be notified of the theft until the owner comes out of the theater and discovers the car missing.

"Another advantage in favor of the thief preventing immediate apprehension is that he will take license plates from another auto and replace the ones on the stolen car with these. It is very difficult for one to discover his plates missing at the moment and probably not until the next day.

"Furthermore, they know that the police are not equipped with fast autos so they are not afraid to be seen, because they nearly always steal high powered machines.

"The owners of automobiles can be of a great help to the police in stopping auto thefts by properly locking their cars before leaving them on the public streets for any long period of time. Do not trust switch keys for the car can be started with an ordinary knife or hair pin. There are many good auto locks on the market which are attached to the steering post making it impossible for anyone to drive the car away, or those which are attached to the wheel of the car. My own idea of locking a car securely without expense is to take an ordinary extension padlock, lock the steering wheel with the quadrant and also the spark and gas, and it will be impossible for anyone to drive the auto away. This lock can be put on any make of car on the market.

"The police department is doing its best to prevent auto thefts, but if the owners of autos do not attempt to lock their own cars properly it will be difficult for the police to stop auto thievery.

"Owners should not forget that the thief who steals the car does not care for it as the owner would, for when the car is recovered it is usually found to be in a damaged condition or stripped of accessories, such as spotlights, motormeter, robe, tools or tires."

MORE THAN TWO FORDS DAILY MARCH RECORD

More than two Ford cars per day was the record of the Motor Supply Co., local distributors, during the month of March. To be explicit, just sixty-three of the popular little cars were sold during the thirty-one days just ended. On the last day of the month, the company sold a car an hour up to 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

In counting the month's sales, the clerical force marked them off in tallies, like votes. Like Kentucky votes, in fact—in blocks of five. Of the sixty-three, all makes were represented from the roadster to the sedan.

SPRING OVERHAULING SEASON IS NOW ON

Are you preparing to have your automobile overhauled this spring?

If you are one of the millions of car owners who find recreation and amusement in caring for the mechanism of your own car, it is probable that the cold winter months have given you excuse for neglecting "little fixings" that you would promptly attend to in the good old summer time.

It's more likely—especially if your garage is not heated—that you have "put off" those frequent inspections and oilings that you took such joy in when the weather was good and, more especially, when the car was "brand new."

"The inconsistency of the average male human is illustrated by the industrious manner in which a new car is cared for," says D. H. Rubsam, manager Marshall-Huff Motor Co., local representatives of the Oakland Motor Car Co., of Pontiac, Mich. "When the car is new he treats it like a new babe. When it has served him a year or so, he begins to take his car in a matter of fact manner that frequently permits the vehicle to 'run down.'

"At this season our service department feels the awakening of motorists' desire to 'get the car in first class running shape and appearance. We're glad to do it, of course. Our service is more than a name as the Oakland policy is to give car buyers a warrant of future attention.

BATTERY FIRM OPENS BRANCH IN ELECTRA

The Wichita Falls Battery Co., local distributors of Willard batteris, has opened a branch store in Electra, placing their Mr. Clayton in charge.

According to Manager J. W. Maupin, the Wichita Falls Battery Co. has a large number of customers at Electra, and the opening of the branch in that city was for the purpose of giving these people first class service at the least possible inconvenience to them, as well as to increase the company's business in that territory.

THE MOTORISTS' PROBLEMS'

By WILLIAM H. STEWART, JR.

Motor Department: Please let me know through your query columns how to prevent the acid soaking up the positive post of my Exide 3 cell battery. The post seems loose. How can it be tightened?—Reader.

It is best to take your battery to the nearest battery service station and let them make the needed repairs. You cannot prevent the acid from attacking the posts where there is a leak. Even the acid fumes from the vent caps will cause more or less corrosion at the terminals. Keep the terminals clean and keep them covered with vaseline. This treatment will reduce the annoyance to a minimum.

Motor Department: On a Goodyear automobile tire it reads something like this (keep inflated to 75 lbs. or 5.25 kgs.) Please explain the 5.25 kgs. in your paper.—Reader.

Foreign countries use the metric system. The kgs. stands for kilograms. Seventy-five pounds U. S. reckoning equals 5.25 kgs. foreign reckoning.

Motor Department: Is it injurious to use four dry cells with an induction coil designed for four volts?—C. S.

If a coil is described by the maker as a four volt coil, it should be worked by two cells of a storage battery or four dry cells. The voltage of the latter will be somewhat higher, but since their internal resistance is also greater, the current delivered will be about the same. Most coils are made to operate on six volts.

Motor Department: I have a Maxwell car which when going down hill seems to backfire in muffler. Have had valve ground, but this does not seem to help it. It never skips when using gas when car is in motion. How can this be stopped?—Owner.

Usually such trouble is caused by a faulty mixture under conditions of coasting down hill where car pushes the engine, etc. This is unavoidable with some types due to the limited range of adjustment. So long as your motor performs well under all working conditions, it would be best to keep present adjustment. Do not close throttle entirely and note the change.

Motor Department: I have a 1918 car, but am troubled by oil getting up beyond the pistons. Would it be any advantage to cut another groove in pistons and add another ring on each, making four rings instead of three as now?—R. P.

There is not enough metal at that part of the piston. Cutting a groove would cut the piston in two. New piston rings properly fitted should overcome the trouble if the cylinders are not out of true. The rings must fit snug into the grooves to prevent syphoning of the oil into the combustion chamber.

Motor Department: My engine becomes overheated very quickly. I have cleaned the cooling system twice, renewed all the hose connections, and am sure the pump is working. The motor seems to be in good condition, and there seems to be plenty of power, but I cannot overcome the overheating. The carburetor mixture is cut down as low as possible. Can you offer any suggestions?—A. C.

If the cylinders are very much carbonized you are bound to be troubled with overheating. You can readily detect the conditions of the cylinders by removing the valve caps and making a close inspection of the condition of the combustion chambers. Use proper lubrication and check up the valve and ignition timing. Follow details of manufacturers instructions.

Motor Department: How can I make a paint for motor car rims which will prevent rust?—Owner.

Remove the rust from the rims by scraping and sandpapering. Clean thoroughly, and then apply a coat of ordinary shellac, mixed with some graphite. When this has dried thoroughly apply another coat. Some people use an aluminum paint to advantage.

Motor Department: I have a model 75 Overland which rides hard. I would like a set of shock absorbers, providing I could find one that was good and did not cost much to put on an old car. Could you advise me?—O. P.

There are several good shock absorbers on the market, but this department cannot recommend any particular one as being the best.

Motor Department: What grade of cylinder oil is best to use in summer, light, medium or heavy?—J. S.

There is no fixed rule to apply other than that advanced by the engine manufacturers. Usually a medium grade is best. However, this will be determined by the type of engine used, also condition of the engine.

Motor Department: I have an old car, for which I have no instruction book. Please tell me how often I should change the oil in the crank case. It has a pump over system with an overflow compartment below the crank case.—P. C.

Every thousand miles is the rule. After about 5,000 miles the crank case should be removed and the grit should be washed out and the case thoroughly cleaned with kerosene.

HELPFUL HINTS.

Do not overlook the distributor head in your spring cleaning. Remove it carefully and clean out the dust around the segments with gasoline and a cloth. If the segments are very black, use fine sandpaper and wipe off carefully afterward. Finish with a little oil on finger.

When you have the time study your starting and lighting system carefully, using your instruction book as a guide. Gradually the uses of the parts and the paths of currents will become clear to you. Give it the care it needs and you will get better service and have less trouble in the end.

See that the lamp reflectors are clean and polished. Dust works into the lamps and perhaps you wonder why they are not so bright as heretofore.

If ammeter shows nothing when car is running at 15 to 20 miles per hour, it shows that generator is not delivering current; automatic cut-out is not working, or that ammeter is defective.

If ammeter shows "discharge" when lamps are "off" a leak is indicated and should be traced immediately. Otherwise your battery soon will become exhausted.

TWO CARLOADS OF BUICKS ARRIVE AT LOCAL AGENCY

Two large specially constructed freight cars, packed to their limit with Buick automobiles, arrived in the city last week for delivery to the Dixon Motor company, local Buick distributors. This will enable the Dixon Motor company to make deliveries as sales are made, something the company has not been able to do for two or three weeks, and which, according to L. L. Dixon of the firm, prevented him from exceeding his February record of more than a sale per day.

"With the warm spring days, which I am convineed are here to stay," said Manager Dixon, "the demand for good cars is bound to stiffen. I believe I have a sufficient number of cars en route to meet any demand, and hope I will not be caught short again as during the month of March."

MOTOR TRANSPORT RANKS SECOND ONLY TO RAIL TRANSPORTATION

Statistics for 1920 show that motor trucks carried more tonnage than either inland waterways or interurban trolley lines. Motor transport now ranks second only to rail transportation.

In less than ten years' time motor transportation has grown from nothing to its present prominence. A concrete example of the remarkable growth is had in a check taken of traffic between Akron and Cleveland. In two years' time loaded truck tonnage increased approximately 200 per cent.

The rapid growth of the industry has been so pronounced that many vital problems have been only partially solved and its leaders face the task of retracing some of their strides in order to perfect weak spots in the structure.

The travel and transport bureau of the B. F. Goodrich Rubber company points out four problems that are up for solution now. They are, formation of local associations to eliminate rate cutting and other harmful practices; expanding in the field of junction terminal transfer of freight; to break shippers of the "exclusively railroad habit" and educate them to use motor trucks for short hauls; and to warn truck operators against overloading and overspeeding in order not to antagonize highway authorities.

Local organizations of truck operators are springing up throughout the country and are devoting much thought and action toward stabilizing the industry. The spirit of co-operation has been marked and is certain to become a powerful factor in advancing the industry, says the Goodrich bureau.

KNOWLEDGE FOR CAR OWNERS

Interesting and Important Facts That Every Motorist Should Know.

A clincher tire will not fit a straight side rim.

Do not neglect to try the fan occasionally to see if the belt is coming loose, as a loose belt allows the fan to slip.

When the engine is running, both the cylinders and pistons are subjected to extreme heat, which causes expansion, and when the engine is stopped, contraction sets in.

A car that has a tendency to skid or one with a violent clutch and harsh brakes will not give the same time mileage that a better designed and smoother operating car is capable of.

The mileage obtained from tires depends not only on the kind of tires used, but partly upon the construction of the car, and partly the way the tires are cared for.

Check valves, which control the flow of oil through the pump, where pressure feed lubrication is used, should be cleaned occasionally to insure positive working.

Even the tightest nut will be more or less affected by constant vibration, and a loose bolt should be tightened, since the play to which the looseness gives rise may result in the necessity for later repairs.

To prevent rattling of the doors on a car, pad out the hinges or catches with thin rubber sheeting. If the doors jam graphite their engaging faces or file down the high spots.

A drill can be made to cut an oversize hole by grinding one cutting edge a little larger than the other. This is a scheme that is useful in an emergency, when a hole must be made of a size for which there is no drill.

To determine the gear ratio of the differential gears, count the teeth of each and divide the number of teeth of the smaller gear into the larger. For example, the term "four to one gear ratio" means that the crankshaft of the engine completes four revolutions to one of the rear wheels. From this it will be noted that no gear reduction takes place in the transmission, but that direct drive is considered.

A simple method of determining whether or not cylinders are out of round, is to take a piece of wood or board and cut it so that two of the edges make an exact right angle. The length is made equal to the bore and the flat edge put up against one of the walls of the cylinder, the length being carefully cut off, so that the wood will just fit into the cylinder. It is then turned around to different parts of the cylinders, and if the clearance at the end varies, the cylinder is not round.

Chevrolet Sales Record

The production schedule of Chevrolet "Four-Ninety" Models for the seven months from January 1 to July 31, 1921, is fifty thousand cars.

We have received official notice that to each retail purchaser of a new Model "Four-Ninety" car at present list prices, the Chevrolet Motor Co. will make the following cash payments — "Four-Ninety" Touring, $70; "Four-Ninety" Roadster, $70; "Four-Ninety" Light Delivery Wagon, $70; "Four-Ninety" Chassis, $70; "Four-Ninety" Coupe, $100; "Four-Ninety" Sedan, $100; provided the Chevrolet Motor Companies manufacture and sell fifty thousand new Chevrolet Model "Four-Ninety" cars between January 1, 1921, and July 31, 1921. This offer to be subject to the terms as set forth in full in the refund certificate which will be delivered to each purchaser.

This refund represents savings in material prices under present readjusted conditions, which savings can be made provided Chevrolet factories continue to operate on the estimated average quantity production basis.

Fifty thousand cars is the minimum which Chevrolet engineers estimate will secure substantial savings in cost in manufacture. These savings will passed on to the purchasers of these fifty thousand cars.

Each purchaser of a Model "Four-Ninety" will receive a certificate from us. This certificate will be redeemed as indicated on its face.

The entire plan is a straightforward business proposition presented in a straightforward way. Whether you are in the market for a new car or not, you must not fail to learn the details of this unique and simple plan. It offers to every man of sound business judgment an opportunity to take advantage of the best automobile value obtainable.

All retail purchasers of Model "Four-Ninety" cars since October 1, 1920, will receive their certificates through their local dealers or retail stores on application to them.

Production results will be announced not later than August 10, 1921. Certificates will be subject to payment according to their terms, thereafter, up to September 15, 1921.

During 1920 the Chevrolet Motor Company averaged 15,500 cars per month—or 108,500 cars in seven months. This program provides for less than half that record!

LAW'S TROUBLES COME IN SETS OF 3, AND WHEN IT HAPPENS YOU CAN LOOK FOR TWO MORE JUST LIKE IT

By E. F. FRUECHTE.

Three ? ? ? ? ? ? ? ? III ? ? ?

Do happenings and events, luck and misfortune, common and uncommon things, occur in threes? Is the old, old version that if some calamity comes about that there will always be two more, a superstition, a fact or a whimsical idea?

Can any importance be laid at the door of Greek mythology which recites of the three goddesses of fate? Do these three goddesses—Clotho, who spins the thread of life; Lachesis, who determines its length, and Altropos, who cuts it off—still rule the affairs and destinies of mankind as they did according to the version of the ancient Greeks?

Within the walls and behind the bars of the Wichita county jail, as well as among some reputable citizens of the city, we find that the figure "3" plays a role. A certain importance is attached to it by some who will aver that misfortunes always, constantly and determinedly come in triplicate.

This belief attached to the numeral three was called to the attention of a certain attorney who had a client in the county jail awaiting trial. The case had been set for the morrow. There had been a conviction in the court that day. The prisoner urged that it was highly important that he see his counsel and asked the jailer to call him.

The Triple Jinx.

The attorney obeyed the summons. The prisoner with an acute expression of fear in his eyes asked if his case could not be postponed. An inquiry for a reason brought the reply:

"Two men have been convicted in succession up there in the court room and I sure don't want to be the next one to go on trial because if I am tried, I am destined before the trial begins."

This episode called for a search in the minutes of the 30th district court, wherein are recorded the happenings during the December term of court. And this is what we discovered.

There was a conviction in each of the first three cases tried. One was the death penalty, one a seventeen-year sentence and the other a two-year sentence. There was a lapse of a few days and then there were recorded three more convictions, all for two years each.

The next party brought to trial was found not guilty and the next two drew suspended sentences. The following three men tried were all found guilty of aggravated assault.

"Haven't you ever heard of the THREE trees?" was the retort from one of the prisoners in the county jail when asked why such a foolish belief. Our education having been neglected in this direction, we asked for an explanation.

"The THREE trees," same the information, "is nothing more than the gallows. Everybody fears that. It requires three trees to make the device that ends it all for some of us: two upright ones and a cross piece."

Further argument was presented to substantiate the belief, as implied in the nummeral three.

"Go search the statutes of the state of Texas and find how many crimes are punishable by death. You will find six—two times three."

The search was made and the following six capital felony cases were found: murder, rape, robbery with firearms, treason, arson where death results, and perjury in the trial of a capital case where execution has occurred.

And Triangles, Too.

The eternal triangle, three people, form the basis of many a divorce suit. The records at the court house will show that in at least 60 per cent of the divorce cases filed one of the causes of the action is a third party.

The third party comes in for his share of the allegations in a majority of criminal cases. In at least three cases that were tried in the courts here last fall, the third party, who always got away and who happened to be "Blackie" in each instance was the man the officials should have caught according to those on trial.

Three young men were arrested in connection with one of the most sensational highway robbery cases tried in the court. There were three times three—nine men—engaged in the crap game that was held up. The three young men were all found guilty and two received sentences of five years each while the third received three times the amount of either of the other two.

During the so-called crime wave in this county in the fall of 1920 there were three cold blooded murders within a week.

Some More Threes.

Following the investigation of the grand jury at that time indictments were returned against three officers of the law in the county.

during the past two weeks three cases white slavery cases were filed in the United States district court in this city and the jail roster shows that during the past wo weeks hree cases of assault with intent to murder have been filed and arrests made.

It takes three men to settle a disagreement, the two litigants and a judge or the two participants and a policeman.

Having almost convinced us of the horribleness of the numeral three, we happened to think that it was near two times THREE o'clock and that we had an engagement with two other parties for the third meal of the day and that these two parties had this day received a check of $100, we hurried on our way.

Harrold Carrier Misses but Three Trips in 10 Years

ELECTRA, TEXAS, April 2.—Dan L. Vaughn rural mail carrier out of Harrold, has perhaps the best record of any mail carrier in the state of Texas. He has served Uncle Sam for 10 years and four months and during that time has only missed three trips around his route. He has braved snow storms, rains, frozen trails and the heat of summer and has gone to extreme ends to serve his patrons.

The route that Vaughn serves is 23.4 miles and has about 800 patrons, 200 families and 137 boxes. It leads out of Harrold to the north and thence east almost to the Wichita county line and includes the richest farming country in this section of the state. Vaughn has the old time idea of government service men and believes it a disgrace to miss a trip if it is possible to make it.

He had a clean slate until 1920 and missed all three trips during that year. One was caused by a snowstorm that piled up the banks until it was impossible to get through which caused him to miss two trips in January. The third time he failed was in October when heavy rains washed out the bridges.

When Vaughn first started carrying the mail he purchased two small mules. One of them had already served on the route for two years with a previous carrier. These mules are still used when it is too bad to operate an automobile. One of the mules has served 12 years and the other 10 years. Vaughn says they are still bronks and try to run away with the wagon when he hitches them up.

In speaking of making his rounds Vaughn said that on one occasion it was impossible to get through with his hack and he paid $4 for an oil field team. He received $4.17 for the day's work thus receiving 17 cents for facing the cold and exposure to fulfill that which he believed to be his duty. The postoffice at Harrold burned early this year but the route patrons received their mail the following day just the same.

Vaughn says that his patrons are all readers of daily papers. He said that one daily had a circulation of nearly 100 on his route. His kind of service makes more business for the dailies because the people get them every day with the same regularity as in a city with free delivery.

In estimating the number of miles that he has traveled Vaughn says he has traveled enough to go around the world three times and has not been any place either.

By H. C. SCHERER

While the famous Pennsylvania State Police, for fifteen years the most efficient and highly organized police force in the country, is not thinking of withdrawing its greatly admired horses from the service, as these animals still have their uses, especially in riot duty, time changes all things and in efficiency the Keystone state has again shown the way to keep up to date.

Many times in recent years, especially when on the track of an automobile thief or when endeavoring to run down one of that ever-increasing tribe of "speed fiends," the state troopers have felt the need of a swifter mode of traveling than was possible with their horses. So the force has finally been motorized.

Pennsylvania first tried out the motorcycle for its men less than a year ago, when at Harrisburg, the capitol, a group of state troopers, the finest and huskiest lot of men one could ever hope to meet, lined up before the capitol steps for inspection by Governor Sproul. Every one in the "division," as it was called, was proudly designated by the commander as a "four square, straight-shootin' he-man," and they sure did demonstrate who was boss of the law.

This group, in their sombre-grey uniforms and "Sam Brown" belts, looked good to the vast crowds that came to see them, and, what is more to the point, they made good at once by recovering two high priced stolen automobiles on their very first day of service.

Headed by Major L. G. Adams and Deputy Superintendent Major W. H. Mair, the Pennsylvania state police force is composed of five troops with headquarters at different points throughout the state. Each troop has fourteen sub-stations with three to five men and equipment, so that the state is virtually covered as with a blanket. Each of the five main troops is composed of one captain, one lieutenant, and eighty enlisted men. Each troop now has a full equipment of motorcycles as well as horses.

Ever since the motorcycle troopers got on the job, they have had enough hazardous experiences in an average day to last most persons a year. The job of dealing with "speedy" criminals of all kinds has very frequently necessitated the use of pistol or club; of traveling miles at breakneck speed over a roundabout course to head off a law-breaker bound for the state line, or giving chase to recklessly driven automobile over a tortuous mountain road.

Late last summer the New Brighton sub-station was apprised of the fact that thieves had gotten away with the city recorder's car from in front of the Pittsburgh county-city building. Private Breese on his motorcycle, after an exciting chase, overhauled the car. The men were heavily armed and strongly resisted arrest, but Private Breese, single-handed, arrested and disarmed them. The prisoners had with them a veritable arsenal of automatic revolvers and cartridges, as well as a complete apparatus and tools for the erasure and reprinting of automobile numbers.

While on night patrol duty on the Lincoln Highway, a motor policeman observed a wildly-careening car advancing toward him at a high rate of speed. He gave chase. The reckless driver swung his car sharply to the left in an effort to run down the state cop directly behind, every time he approached at the rear of the car and commanded him to stop. This kept up for many miles until finally the motorcyclist decided on a show-down. He sped rapidly along until he was at the side of the driver, and then deftly shoved the barrel of his revolver into the fellow's ribs, and again commanded him to stop. He stopped, with a suddenness which sent the rear-seat passengers sprawling over those in front. The party of four was taken in. It was found that the automobile, as well as the load of booze, had been stolen.

Only a few weeks ago Troop "A" headquarters received word that the messenger from the Citizens Deposit and Trust company, in a Western Pennsylvania city, had been held up and robbed of $82,000. Four young men in a big touring car, headed east, were alleged to be the guilty parties. Six motorcycle men were immediately dispatched to the scene from troop headquarters, and they began combing the entire vicinity. The same day word was received from the garage in a nearby town that four men, with a big blue touring car, had come to the garage, and, after having a new tire fitted to one of the front wheels and the gas tank filled, politely thanked the garage man by viciously assaulting him with an engine-starting crank.

The Bedford station, in which direction the car was headed, was notified and two motorcycle policeman from that station traveled thirty-four miles and intercepted the car with its load of crooks, after they had traveled twenty miles from the garage. The gang, while not guilty of the robbery of the messenger, admitted that they had robbed a garage at Beaver Falls. On investigation, it was found that two of the men were wanted by the city of Detroit for highway robbery and murder.

The need for motorcycles was brought out most pointedly, perhaps, while the first men were in training. An urgent call came into Troop "D" headquarters from Butler, advising that a band of robbers with an automobile had looted the local bank, killed the bank president and cashier, and wounded a couple of others. The job was detailed to Sergeant Martin. The sergeant mounted his horse and speeded into the place at his charger's best pace, but the bandits had already skipped town.

The trooper tried to borrow an automobile, but without any luck, and as a result, even though he spurred his horse to the utmost, it was impossible for him to catch up with the bandit automobile. The disappointed sergeant tried to head off the car by telephoning, and then by appealing to city police, but without results. Later when he reported his failure at headquarters, he was asked how he thought he could have captured the fellows. He replied that he could have done the trick easily had he learned to ride a motorcycle.

The troopers learned their "paces" on the motorcycles as only quick-thinking men can. Hardly eight weeks elapsed from the time the order for motorization was placed to the time the men assembled on the capitol steps at Harrisburg, ready for action. Five men from each troop had been picked out and sent to Milwaukee for a three weeks' intensive course of training in the care and operation of motorcycles. This was done so that they, in turn, could assist in the training of their fellow-troopers in the art of handling their machines which they have now accomplished. Of these, twenty-three had never ridden a motorcycle, and five of them not even a bicycle.

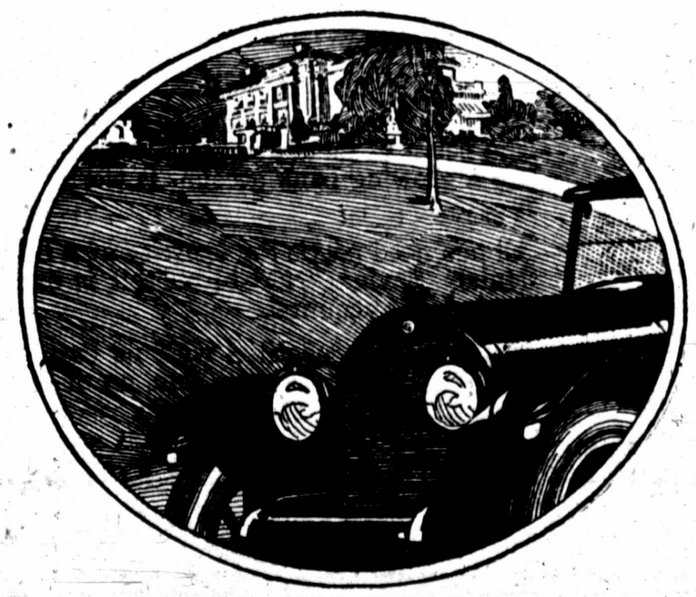

Teaching green men in two weeks all the ins and outs of motorcycle care, operation and maintenance—knowledge that the ordinary motorcyclist gradually picks up during a year or two of training—is not the easiest thing in the world, but it was done. Each trooper, schooled in discipline, and with the motto "Your duty is to make the Pennsylvania state police force the finest thing in the world," worked in military style and with characteristic efficiency, until they mastered the mechanism.

As soon as the men finished training, they again began their patrols and delighted to "show up" their fellow cops on the "beat" by bursts of speed that would have made them liable to arrest if they were not policemen. They have been the first to respond to calls for assistance at short notice; they have matched their speed with the most powerful racing cars and won, and have often escaped accidents only by sheer nerve. They have made it their business to keep the tail light of a fugitive's car always in sight.

GROWS FROM 600 PEOPLE TO SPLENDID BUSINESS CITY

By H. A. STROUD.

ELECTRA, April 2.—April 1, 1921 was the 10th anniversary of the North Texas oil fields. Ten years ago Clayco No. 1 came in two miles north of Electra, making four hundred barrels, and today, after over half millions of barrels of oil have been produced by this well the pumping jack is still moving and twenty barrels of oil is being extracted daily.

The little townsite of six hundred souls has now blossomed into a flourishing city with a commission form of government, a city manager, an excellent chamber of commerce, paved streets, sewers, water works, schools with a state-wide reputation and beautiful brick churches.

The Discovery Days.

Considerable wildcatting was taking place all over the country as early as 1910, following a showing of oil found in a well drilled by the W. T. Waggoner interests for water. The operations were practically being conducted by the major companies and reports of later years state that the discovery well was in reality Waggoner No. 2 drilled by the Texas company near the Wilbarger county line. But be that as it may the general public did not learn of the oil strike until Putnam No. 1, which was then the property of the Clayco Oil company broke loose and flowed over the derrick.

The next few weeks following this discovery were similar to the ones following the discovery of the Fowler well at Burkburnett. The boom did not reach as great proportions on account of the low price of crude oil, which made the new field of appeal more to the larger companies prepared to operate on a large scale. This fact has probably, ultimately, been an important one to the long life of the field for it prevented the over drilling of the field as has been the case in more recent discoveries. The field was greatly extended in all directions and the more noteworthy extensions opened up were the Piper pool, Ramming pool, Culberson district, Sunshine Hill and Fawlkes. The latest extension is the South Pool, or Gladiolus district.

City Keeps Step.

Like all boom towns, Electra was first settled up with boomers. Tents and shacks were used for residences and business houses and in those days Electra was a filthy, vile-smelling place about like Newtown, Bridgetown and other boom settlements. But as the field spread out in several directions and it was learned that this would probably be a good distributing point for years, the contractors started building substantial homes and the business men putting up brick buildings. The city government became active and adopted a commission form, which made it possible to vote bonds for improvements. The first step was securing an adequate supply of water. This was accomplished by building a big reservoir north of the city where an eighteen months' supply of water is always available. Following the water came the sewers, the paved streets, the fire station and a city manager. The next step is free city mail delivery, which will be inaugurated in about thirty days.

A Distribution Point.

Electra is regarded as an ideal distribution point and a logical headquarters for drilling operations. Five major supply stores carry supplies in stock here, four lumber yards keep standard and rotary derricks and timbers, two of the best machine shops in North Texas are located here, a manufacturing tank company with the largest stock in Texas has this as general headquarters. These things have been instrumental in causing hundreds of contractors to live here and use this city as their working headquarters.

In addition to the above supplies Electra has two nitrogiycerine factories, two refineries and five casing-head gasoline plants. One of the casing head plants, the Texas Company's, is the largest in North Texas with a apacity of three million cubic feet. It is estimated that the capacity output of gasoline in the Electra district amounts to 70,000 gallons daily. The nitrogiycerine factories furnish explosives for the South Texas fields and the Hewitt fields in Oklahoma, as well as in nearby fields.

Field is Still Active.

In spite of the ten years of drilling and development new territory continues to be opened up. The latter part of 1920 saw the opening of the Gladiolus pool south of the city, where a production of nearly 2,000 barrels has already been connected to the lines. Last week the total production of the field showed a daily increase of nearly five hundred barrels, bringing the total of the field up to 12,000 barrels. In the days of flush production the daily average at its highest point reached about 17,000 barrels, and it is considered remarkable that the daily output has maintained such a high average.

There is much territory yet to be drilled. In the early days, when the price of oil was down to forty cents per barrel, the shallow sands were passed up as unprofitable. Today we see the major companies and many independents redrilling the old districts after the shallow production, which is now a paying proposition. The Texas company has thousands of acres of undeveloped leases on the Waggoner ranch that will probably be drilled during the next year. This will lead to renewed activity and more production.

Electra's 10th birthday finds prospects brighter and business on a sounder basis than ever before in her history.

HOME-MADE WILLS ARE OFTEN —FAULTY—

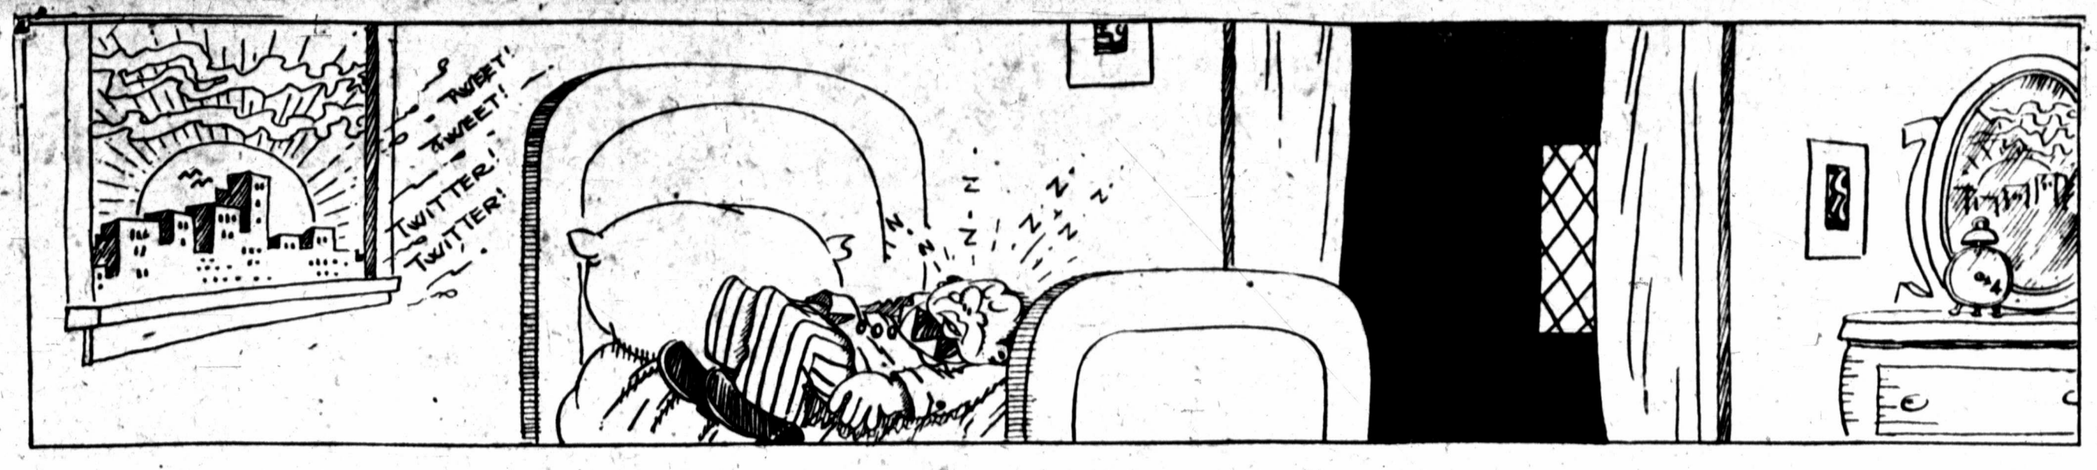

Everyone owes it to himself and his heirs to make a will. It is the only means of insuring the disposition of your property in accordance with your own wishes and desires.

To make sure that the will is properly drawn—conforming to every requirement of law custom—it should be prepared by a capable lawyer.

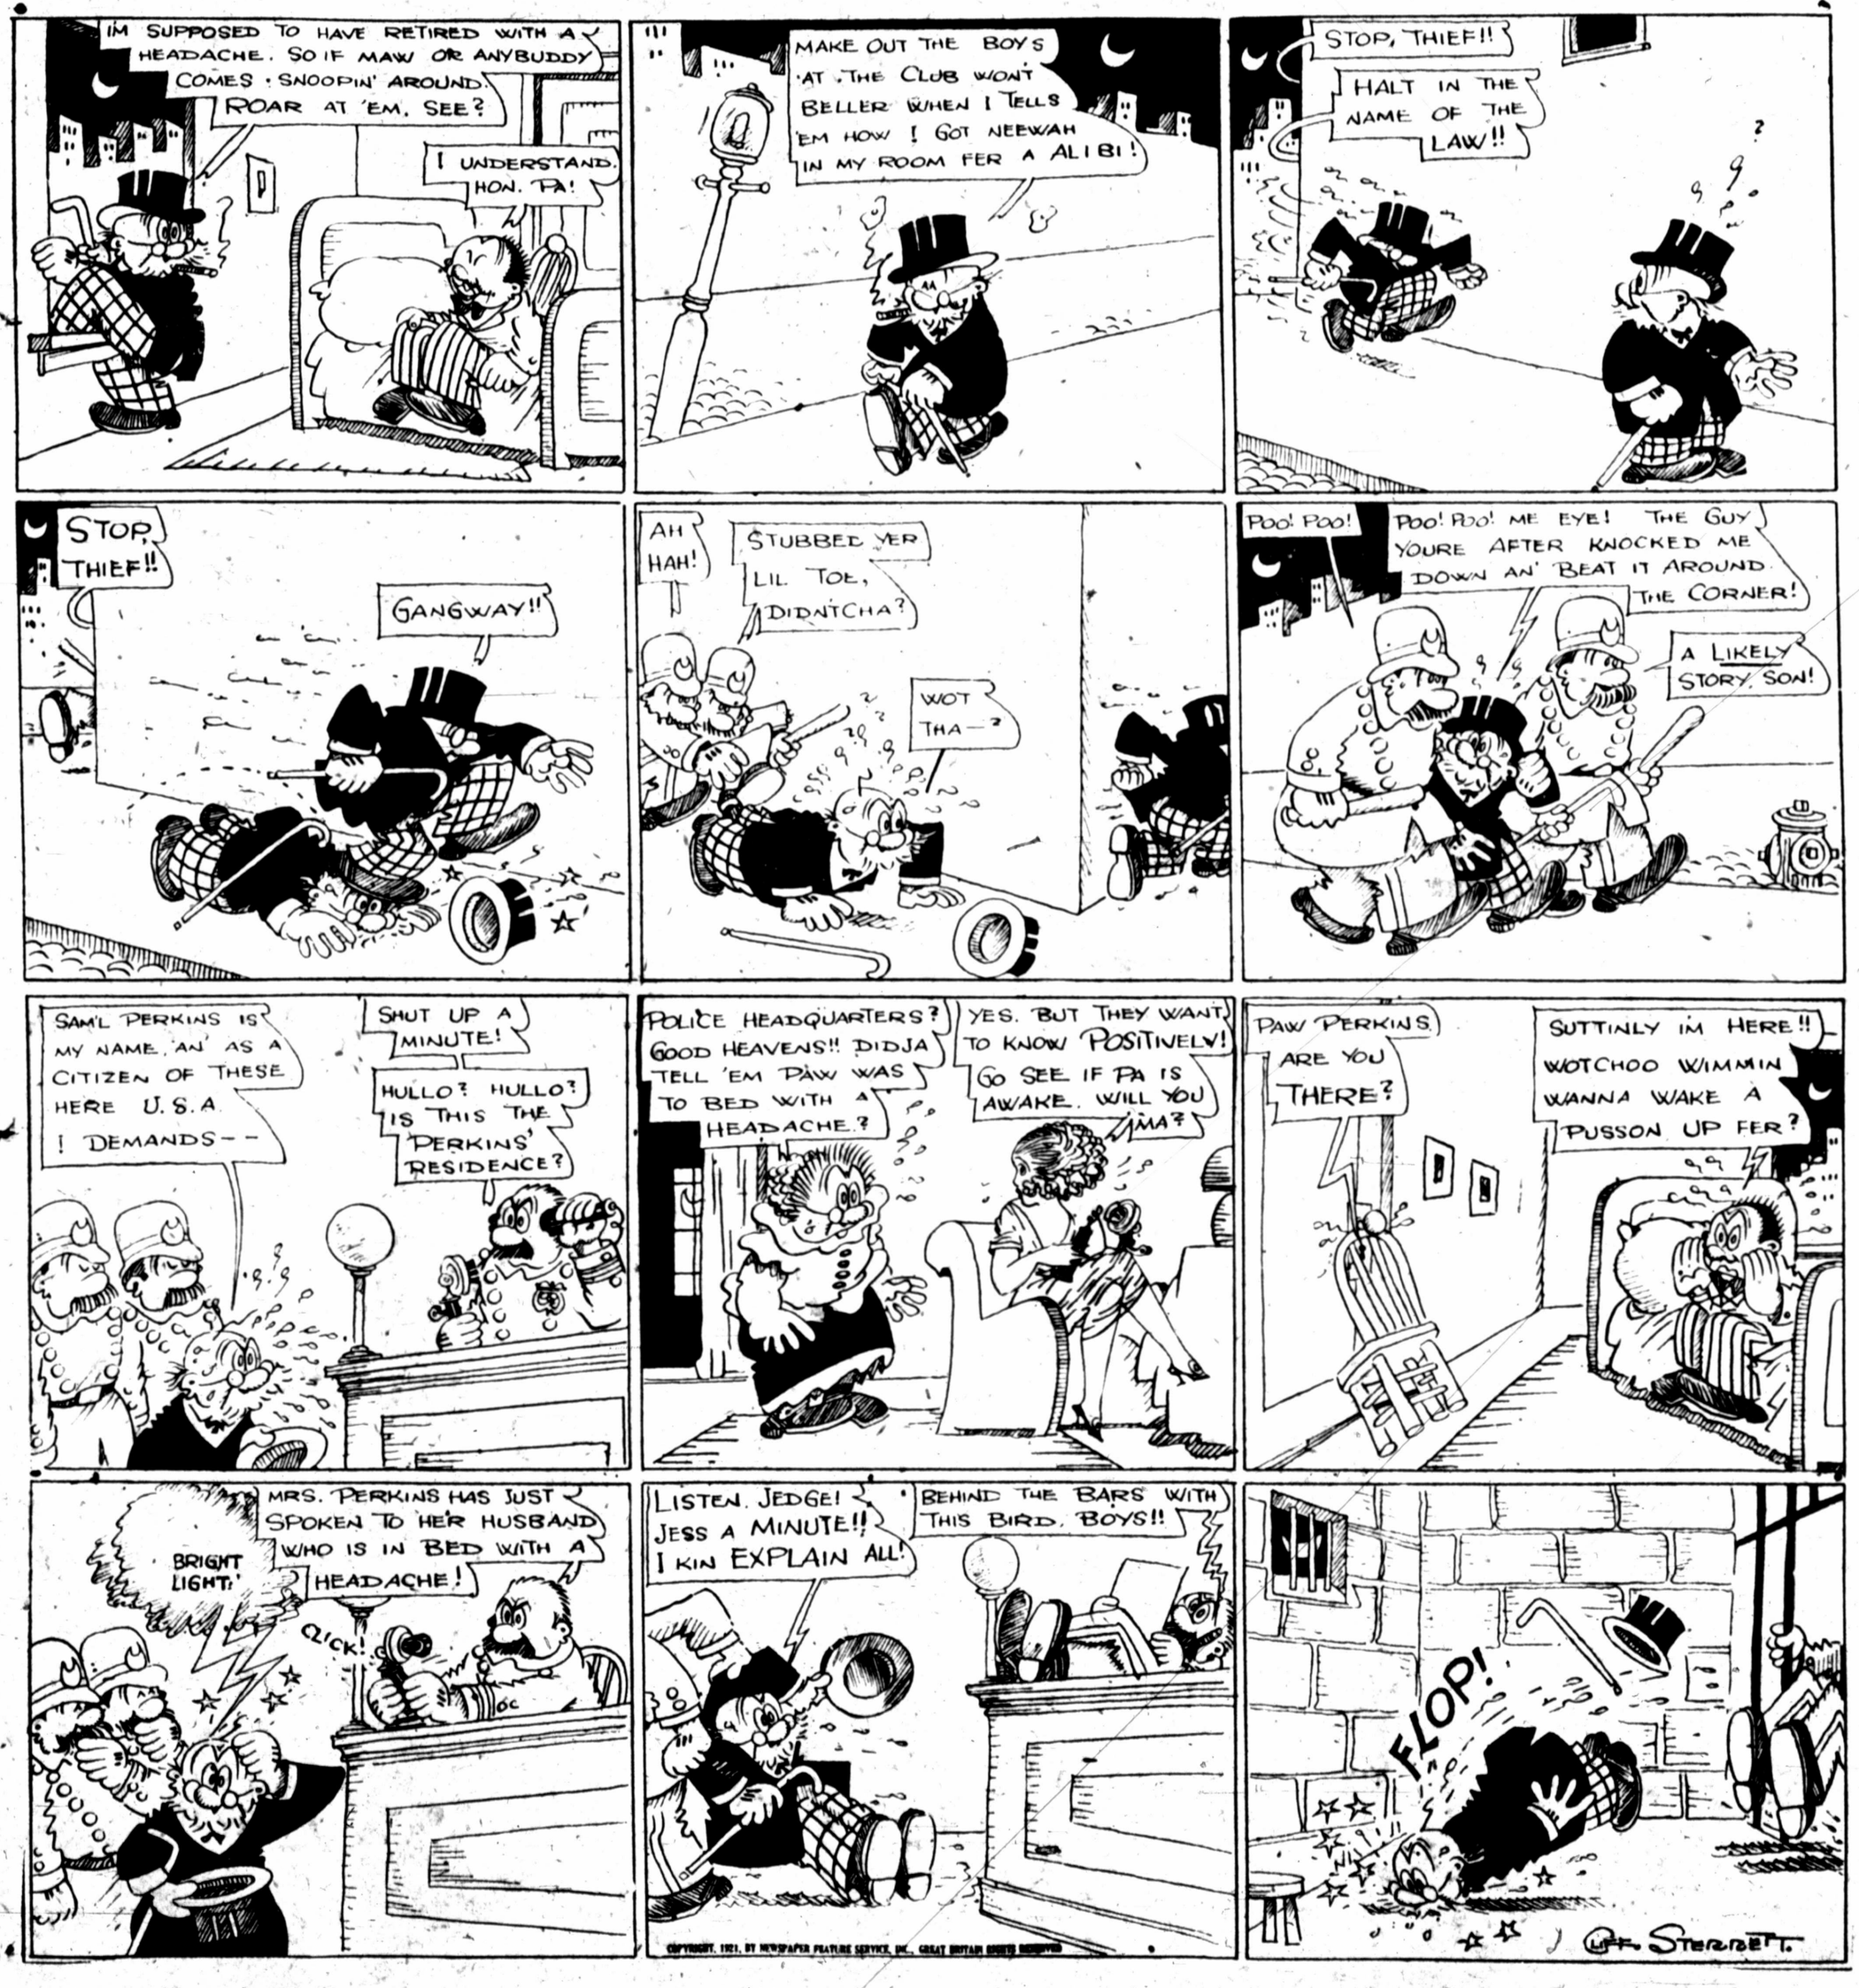

Because the bequests in your will represent your sincere sentiments, it is therefore wise and prudent to entrust their execution to an agent qualified by experience, equipment and moral and financial responsibility—an institution of enduring ability and specialized experience such as the State Trust Company.
