Jobless veto

WASHINGTON — President Bush Friday vetoed a $6.4 billion expansion of unemployment benefits, arguing again that the program — the second he has rejected in two months — is an unjustified budget-buster at a time of economic rebound. Democrats vowed to press an override attempt, saying the president had turned his back on 8.4 million jobless people still in search of that promised recovery. The package, which Bush termed "poorly designed, unnecessarily expensive," would have added up to 20 weeks of unemployment benefits to those which now expire after 26 weeks./3C

Maquiladora suit

MATAMOROS, Mexico — More former maquiladora workers have joined a lawsuit that alleges they were routinely exposed to hazardous chemicals at an electronics plant in this border city, an attorney said today. The suit against Mallory Capacitors Co. now lists more than 60 children who suffered mental and physical birth defects as a result of the chemical exposure, said Ernesto Gamez, a Brownsville attorney representing the plaintiffs./9C

Nuclear ban

UNITED NATIONS — The Security Council on Friday banned Iraq's atomic program altogether to prevent it from being used as a cover for secret weapons laboratories, and decided to indefinitely monitor Iraq's weapons programs./6A

Redd Foxx dies

LOS ANGELES — Comedian Redd Foxx, who played a crabby junkman on the 1970s TV series "Sanford and Son," died Friday after suffering a heart attack on the set of his new show, a network official said. He was 68.

Foxx died Friday evening at Queen of Angels Hollywood Presbyterian Medical Center, said Jeff Sagansky, president of CBS Entertainment.

Foxx

Foxx was rehearsing a scene for the CBS series "The Royal Family" at a Paramount Studios sound stage when he collapsed.

He is best known for his role as a cantankerous Watts junk peddler on "Sanford and Son."

'Lynching,' says judge

Thomas blasts panel for day-long hearing

■ Nominee angrily refutes sexual harassment charges.

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Clarence Thomas denounced and denied the lurid sexual harassment accusations of a former aide Friday night, and called the reopened hearing on his Supreme Court nomination "a high-tech lynching for uppity blacks..."

After some seven hours of testimony in which Anita F. Hill leveled lurid graphic charges against him, Thomas returned to the witness chair and told the Senate Judiciary Committee that its proceedings were "a travesty ... disgusting..."

And after Thomas' angry, 90-minute rebuttal to Hill's charges of sexual pressure and X-rated talk, the panel was confronted with a direct, point-by-point contradiction.

"Here we are in a perplexed situation, trying to get to the bottom of it," said Sen. Howell Heflin, D-Ala., who asked repeatedly why Hill would have made such charges if they were unfounded.

Thomas said he didn't know.

"We have to figure this out," said Sen. Joseph R. Biden Jr., D-Del., the committee chairman.

They have until Tuesday, at 6 p.m., when the Thomas confirmation vote is set in the Senate.

Nine facts in question

WASHINGTON (NYT) — The Judiciary Committee hearings brought new light Friday on nine factual disputes which emerged beforehand as points for testing the credibility of Clarence Thomas and Anita F. Hill.

1. Did Clarence Thomas ask Anita Hill for a date in 1981?

Thomas: "Contrary to some press reports, I categorically denied all of the allegations and denied

CAF Airsho'91 takes wing today

By Ed Todd
Staff Writer

Today is the day of Airsho'91 staged and orchestrated by the Confederate Air Force at Midland International Airport.

Sunday's 2½-hour main show will be a repeat performance.

While gates to the airport will be open to spectators beginning at 8:30 a.m. both days, the main CAF air-power demonstrations of U.S. air might in World War II won't begin until 1 p.m.

The CAF show is to conclude at 3:30 p.m. today and Sunday.

Even while the 40,000 aviation buffs expected to show up each day of the show are poring over the restored vintage fighters, bombers, trainers and transports, aerial feats will be going on before and after the CAF main show.

Flying acts will begin about 10:30 a.m.

The CAF's dramatic and premier show is "Tora! Tora! Tora!," which is a re-enactment of the Japanese attack on American Navy and Army Air Forces at Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. The attack almost 50 years ago united the ODESSA — Don Cole heard a distant rumbling coming from the past into the present.

Once outside, he looked up and saw vestiges of World War II all over again.

"I heard this racket," Cole, 69, recalled. "It sounded vaguely familiar. I went out to the backyard to see what it was. And, lo and behold, it was a B-29 off one wing, a B-24, and a single-engine job that I couldn't quite identify," a post-World War II Beechcraft T-34.

What Cole and thousands of others were witnessing was a preview of today's and Sunday's Confederate Air Force Airsho'91 at Midland International Airport.

The sight and sound brought back memories to Cole not only of the air-

Bush picks Midlander as helper

■ President Bush named Bobby Holt of Midland as campaign treasurer.

N.Y. Times News Service

WASHINGTON — President Bush on Friday took the first official step toward re-election with formation of a campaign finance committee and plans for a million-dollar fund-raising strike in Texas later this month.

The White House announced the formation of the "Bush-Quayle 92" primary committee to comply with federal fund-raising requirements while Bush prepares to announce his candidacy early next year. Oilman Bobby Holt, of Midland, who co-chaired the president's 1989 inaugural gala, was named campaign treasurer.

Holt

Holt was among those who attended a re-election campaign brainstorming session with Bush at Camp David, Md., in July.

The oilman was not available for comment on his campaign role on Friday.

Bush, who already has drawn five Democratic challengers, will travel to Texas at the end of the month for appearances in Houston on Oct. 31 and in Dallas on Nov. 1, the White House said.

Organizers for the $1,000-a-plate Dallas event, billed as "Texans Salute Bush-Quayle," say they hope to raise $1 million. The fund-raiser, chaired by Dallas multimillionaire Ray Hunt, will be held at the Hyatt Regency.

The White House announcement of the Bush-Quayle committee dispelled any lingering speculation that Bush might drop Vice President Dan Quayle to find another running mate in 1992.

"That's been ruled out since day one," said White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater. "There's never been any question, really."

Political candidates are required to form primary committees when they raise or spend at least $5,000.

The spokesman said the formation of the committee is "not a formal declaration of candidacy" but will allow Holt, Bush's longtime friend, to organize Bush's fund-raising effort.

Swaggart passenger says she's a prostitute

INDIO, Calif. (AP) — A woman riding with evangelist Jimmy Swaggart when he got three traffic tickets Friday says she is a prostitute the preacher picked up for sex.

Swaggart was accompanied by Rosemary Garcia, of Coachella Valley when he was cited for driving on the wrong side of the road, driving an unregistered vehicle and not wearing a seat belt, said Police Chief Jerry Graves.

Garcia, 31, told two television news crews that Swaggart, who was disgraced in 1988 after his contact with a New Orleans prostitute was exposed, picked her up seeking a date, a common euphemism among prostitutes for sexual contact.

"For sex, I mean that's why he stopped me, that's what I do, I'm a prostitute," she told KNBC-TV in Los Angeles.

"He asked for sex," she said. "He was shaking."

In an interview with KMIR-TV in Palm Springs, she said Swaggart saw a police car behind him and became agitated, swerving his car as he tried to hide pornographic magazines, which caused him to be stopped.

In 1988, Swaggart resigned from the Assemblies of God church, the nation's largest Pentacostal denomination after a fellow preacher released photos of Swaggart with a New Orleans prostitute.

In a tearful confession at the time, Swaggart admitted to an unspecified sin. But he refused to bow to church discipline and resumed his ministry.

"He's the same guy who cries on TV for all these people to feel sorry for him ... to give him nation, gave it purpose, and plunged the United States into the war that had been raging in Europe since 1939 and in China since 1937.

The CAF's air-power demonstrations are to re-enact World War II air battles, including the Battle of Britain, the Pearl Harbor attack, the Battle of Midway, the Battle of the Coral Sea, the D-Day Invasion, and selected other action in leading up the Allies' victory in Europe and victory over Japan by defeating the Axis powers in 1945.

The air-power demonstrations may evoke remembrances of Claire Chennault's Flying Tigers taking on Japanese Zeros over China and Jimmy Doolittle's "Thirty Seconds Over Tokyo" raid with B-25s from the aircraft carrier Hornet.

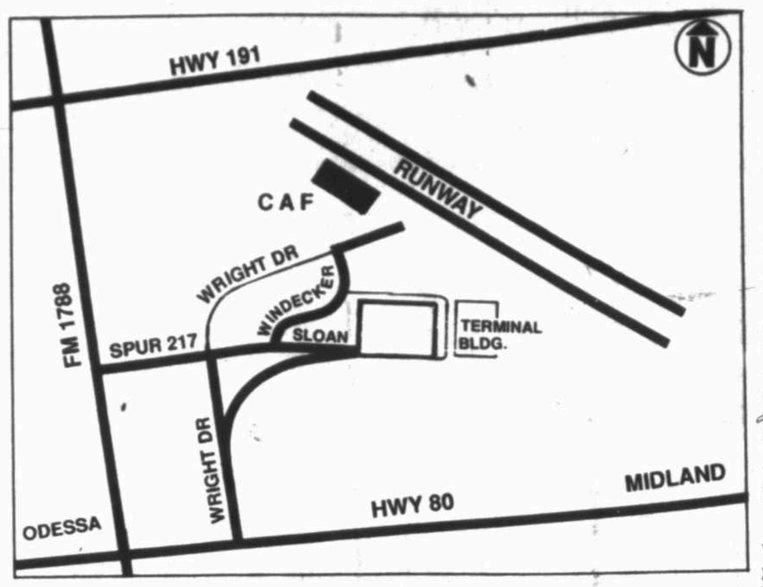
Admission to the show is $8 each for adults and $4 each for children between the ages of 7 and 12. Younger children will be admitted free.

The Midland Chamber of Commerce is running school buses on the hour beginning at 8 a.m. to the main gate to The Airsho'91 from Midland Park Mall, Basin Aviation at Midland Air Park, and from the Superblock near the downtown Midland County Public Library. Transportation to the airport and back is free.

Additionally, beginning at 7:30 a.m., buses will make stop at Midland's hotels and motels in taking people to the air show.

Those driving to the airport will pay $1 to Boy Scouts who will be helping with airport parking. Shuttle buses will operate from remote parking of the airport site at CAF Headquarters.

Aircraft in combat-like maneuvers at Airsho'91 will include the Curtiss P-40 Warhawk, the Lockheed P-38 Lightning, the Republic P-47 Thunderbolt, the North American P-51 Mustang, the Bell P-39 Airacobra, Grumman F4F Wildcat and F6F Hellcat, Martin B-26 Marauder, North American B-25 Mitchell, the Douglas A-26 Invader, the Chance Vought F4U Corsair, Boeing B-17 Flying Fortress, Consolidated B-24 Liberator, Boeing B-29 Superfortress, Douglas C-47 Skytrain, the Curtiss C-46 Commando, the British Spitfire, replica aircraft (Zeros, Vals, Kates) of the Imperial Japanese Navy and a restored Mitsubishi A6M2 Zero, the German Messerschmitt Bf 109, the Heinkel He. 111 and other warplanes, including the North American AT-6 and Vultee BT-13 and BT-15 Valiant trainers.



Special attractions both days will include aerobatic pilot Julie Clark in her Beechcraft T-34 military trainer; Otto, the Clown Helicopter; aerobatic sailplane pilot Steve Powell; a sky-diving act; and aerial demonstrations my military jet fighters.

The CAF airplanes' round and in-line piston engines will be stirring and whining, belching smoke and firing up, and, finally, brought again to life, will be roaring, rumbling and screaming with the eagerness of flight.

Their propeller blasts will be moving both man and machine.

Designed to bring about peace in wartime by dealing out terror in the skies and on sea and land, the aircraft may evoke sentiment, nostalgia, pride, patriotism and a historical perspective in many aviation buffs who view the rare and restored remnants from the past.

The 1957-founded CAF is dedicated to finding, restoring, maintaining, servicing and flying those rare and endangered combat airplanes from World War II.

Though mostly American, the CAF's Ghost Squadron of 150 warplanes includes other Allies' airplanes, notably British and Canadian, and some Axis powers aircraft, including German and Japanese warplanes.

Following the October Airsho'91 festivities, the CAF and the American Airpower Heritage Museum (AAHM) in December will host the symposium, "Prelude to Pearl Harbor: The Interwar Years," from Dec. 3 through Dec. 6.

The CAF's International Headquarters at Midland International Airport will be dedicated on Dec. 7 to coincide with the 50th anniversary of the Japanese attack of Pearl Harbor in 1941.

And the CAF's "Tora! Tora! Tora!" aerial act, which portrays history's account of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941, will be re-enacted this Dec. 7 at Midland International Airport.

And Midlanders have much to be proud of in their roles in rallying to "the cause" — to subdue the evils of war and to bring peace to the world by manning instruments of destruction: warring airplanes and other victory tools in the war.

What is now Midland International Airport was home of Midland Army Air Field (MAAF), the world's largest bombardier school. Before that, it was Sloan Air Field. MAAF's cadets in 1942 had viewed themselves as "The Hell-From-Heaven Men."

Today, 46 years after the war's end and almost 50 years after the United States plunged into the world's most violent and destructive conflict, there is a return to remembrances of the war that brought unity to the nation and its people out of the Great Depression.

Some called it the "last good war" because it had tested the mettle of a nation and its people. The overall results were heroic even though the tragedy of shed blood caused unprecedented heartache and grief.

Camaraderie was at its zenith. There was harmony in effort.

For many Americans, the end of the war meant that good had triumphed over evil.

It was a time to celebrate.

That time has come again. Only, there is more to laud than the grand feat of bringing forth peace.

One prize is the Confederate Air Force, that enterprising "outfit," so dubbed by its founder, Lloyd Nolen.

The 8,000-member CAF is dedicated to preserving, in flying conditions, examples of those "great" American airplanes, including trainers, fighters, and bombers, that play major roles in restoring peace to a world in turmoil.

The CAF is on a peace-keeping mission.

All the while, the CAF's spirit — its esprit de corps — is built on a common romance with aviation and the excitement which those propeller-driven airplanes, powered by in-line and radial engines, instill in aviation enthusiasts.

COLE: Man helped build airplanes during WWII

craft but of the men, women, boys and girls who had roles — military and civilian — in winning the war against the Axis powers.

"It was astonishing in a way," Cole said of the lumbering aircraft. "There they were loafing along about 10 miles an hour above stalling speed.

"They were some people . . . that felt pretty grim about seeing those things (the big bombers) overhead once upon a time. I knew so many people that flew them."

The airplanes were built with sound craftsmanship.

"The workmanship on them was beautiful," recalled Cole, who, early in the war, was chief inspector for a Wichita, Kan., tool company that made control surfaces — "fin feathers" — such as ailerons, rudders, elevators and vertical stabilizers for warplanes.

"There was no deliberate sloppy work," he said, "and that's all there is to it. And I never did see it even once. Now, people did make mistakes, but somebody down the line was going to catch these. A lot of pride went into them (the airplanes)."

During the war, Cole noted, "There were lots of little companies around" which were building parts for aircraft companies, such as Boeing, North American, Grumman, Consolidated, Curtiss-Wright, Republic, Martin, Chance-Vought, Lockheed, Bell, Northrop, Beech, Ryan, Cessna, and Douglas.

"Everybody got in on the act."

The company also made external gun pods for the fast and formidable Martin B-26 Marauder medium bomber.

"It was a flying scatter-gun," Cole said of the Marauder. "If that thing was going full blast, and somebody happened to fly through all the lead out there, it would absolutely dissolve them."

Working on those aircraft parts and armaments were not only women, including the legendary "Rosie the Riveter," and some men but teen-agers, Cole recalled.

"The best inspection crew that I ever had, and I was chief inspector, were grandmothers," Cole said, "and there was no possibility of their getting drafted."

The sub-contractor plant where Cole worked in Wichita employed, among others, reservation Indians that the government "wouldn't draft because they were from tribes they were beginning to run thin."

"Rosie the Riveter was right there. Believe me."

Before the war was over, Cole was serving aboard the "USS Norman," as he jokingly called his United States Navy duty station in Norman, Okla., where he taught battle-damage repair on aircraft.

Many of his student-sailors had returned from the war for additional training before then returned to aircraft carriers.

"Most of the ones I had were not particularly enthusiastic" about returning to combat," Cole said. "They were brought in for advanced training. They had no illusions about what went on out there. They were going back. They (younger ones) didn't know what they were faced with, yet."

After the war, Cole went to work in the old Consolidated plant, now General Dynamics, in Fort Worth where B-24 Liberator heavy bombers were built.

The CAF's B-24 Liberator will be among World War II warplanes in Airsho'91 today and Sunday at Midland International Airport.

"The CAF is in a class by itself," said Cole. "The rest of them are just tagging along behind," he said of similar organizations dedicated to restoring and flying those rare World War II airplanes. "These guys are dedicated."

THOMAS: Nominee blasts committee, hearings

(From 1A)

Thomas was to resume his testimony on Saturday morning at 10 a.m., followed by witnesses to corroborate each side.

With his wife, Virginia, at his right shoulder, her eyes sometimes brimming, a grim and angry Thomas called the accusations against him sleaze, dirt, gossip, nonsense, garbage and trash.

"This is a circus," Thomas said of the riveting, televised hearings. "It's a national disgrace, and from my standpoint as a black American, as far as I'm concerned, it is a high-tech lynching for uppity blacks.

"It is a message that unless you kowtow to the old order, this is what will happen to you," said Thomas. "You will be lynched, destroyed, charicatured by a committee of the United States Senate rather than hung from a tree."

Hill, a 37-year-old black woman, testified for nearly 7 hours, insisting that her accusations of sexual harassment, accounts of Thomas pressuring her for dates, boasting to her of his own sexual prowess and repeated remarks about X-rated movies all were the truth.

"I felt that implicit in the discussion about sex acts was the offer to have sex with him," she testified.

"I think the one that was the most embarrassing was his discussion of pornography involving these women with large breasts and engaged in a variety of sex with different people or animals," she said. "That was the thing that embarrassed me the most and made me feel the most humiliated."

"I'm not given to fantasy," she said in the face of Republican efforts to shake her story. Her testimony was poised and insistent.

Hill said Thomas' explicit comments occurred when she worked for him at two government agencies between 1981 and 1983. She said she had feared for her career as a lawyer if she quit or lodged a formal complaint and, wary of retaliation, she said she tried to maintain a professional relationship afterward.

When she was done, many committee members said they admired her courage in going public, 10 years after the episodes she described.

Thomas said he had not listened or watched Hill's testimony.

"I've heard enough lies," he said. "...This is a travesty. You've spent the entire day destroying what it has taken me 43 years to build and providing a forum for that."

Hill's appearance had generated speculation that Thomas might withdraw as the Supreme Court nominee, particularly after one Republican said that it might kill the nomination.

But Thomas flatly denied all of Hill's allegations.

"Senator, I am incapable of proving the negative," he said under questioning. "It did not occur."

He said his integrity had been stolen by the Senate committee. "You have robbed me of something that can never be restored," he said.

"What I have said to you is categorical, that any allegations that I engaged in any conduct involving sexual activity, pornographic movies, attempted to date her, any allegations, I deny," Thomas said. "It is not true."

Thomas was called back for questioning on Hill's allegations as the unprecedented hearing stretched late into the evening.

She said she was neither a militant nor a martyr, and had made her complaint now only because investigators had come to her and the story had then become public.

Her testimony now, as the Senate considers Thomas' confirmation, is "a singular torpedo blow below the water line — and he sinks," suggested Thomas supporter Alan Simpson, R-Wyo.

ANSWERS: Testimonies given reveal nine different facts that I ever attempted to date Anita Hill when first interviewed by the FBI. I strongly reaffirm that denial. . . . During my tenure in the executive branch as a manager, as a policymaker, and as a person, I have adamantly condemned sex harassment."

Hill: She testified he asked her out 5 to 10 times between 1981 through 1983 and the "pressure to go out with him" embarrassed her. "I had a normal social life with other men outside of the office. I believed then, as now, that having a social relationship with a person who was supervising my work would be ill-advised. I was very uncomfortable with the idea and told him so."

2. Did Thomas discuss pornography with Hill in 1981?

Thomas: He flatly denied that, and said, "I have been racking my brains and eating my insides out trying to think of what I could have said or done to Anita Hill to lead her to allege that I was interested in her in more than a professional way, and that I talked with her about pornographic or X-rated films." He added, "But with that said, if there is anything that I have said that has been misconstrued by Anita Thomas or anyone else to be sexual harassment, then I can say that I am so very sorry and I wish I had known."

Hill: Thomas "talked about acts he had seen in pornographic films involving such matters as women having sex with animals and films showing group sex or rape scenes." She quoted Thomas as saying "you really ought to see these films I've seen" and said she felt his comments amounted to an "implicit" invitation to have sex. She said his comments seemed designed to make her feel vulnerable "so that I would have to concede to whatever his wishes were."

Thomas defenders: In questioning Hill, Sen. Arlen Specter, R-Pa., said: "You testified that you drew an inference that Judge Thomas might want you to look at pornographic films, but you told the FBI specifically that he never asked you to watch the films; is that correct?"

Hill response: "He never said: Let's go to my apartment and watch films, or go to my house and watch films. He did say: You ought to see this material."

3. If Anita Hill was sexually harassed, why did she follow Clarence Thomas from the Education Department to the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in 1982?

Thomas: "During my tenure at the Department of Education, Anita Hill was an attorney advisor who worked directly with me. . . . I recall being pleased with her work product and the professional but cordial relationship which we enjoyed at work. I also recall engaging in discussions about politics and current events. . . . I do not recall that there was any question or doubt that she would become a special assistant to me at EEOC, although as a career employee she retained the option of remaining at the Department of Education."

Hill: "When Judge Thomas was made chair of the EEOC, I needed to face the question of whether to go with him. I was asked to do so, and I did. The work itself was interesting, and at that time it appeared that the sexual overtures which had so troubled me had ended. I also faced the realistic fact that I had no alternative job. While I might have gone back to private practice, perhaps in my old firm or at another, I was dedicated to civil rights work, and my first choice was to be in that field. Moreover, the Department of Education itself was a dubious venture. President Reagan was seeking to abolish the entire department."

4. Did Anita Hill know coworker Phyllis Berry while they were both at the EEOC?

Thomas: did not mention.

Thomas defender: In cross-examining Hill, Sen. Specter challenged her comment quoted in the New York Times this week that "I don't know Phyllis Berry and she doesn't know me." (Ms. Berry said Hill made charges against Judge Thomas because she was frustrated that he was uninterested in her sexually.)

Hill: She acknowledged that she knew Berry as a co-worker and attended staff meetings with her, along with Thomas, at the EEOC. "We were not unfriendly with each other," she said. But she said Berry wasn't a close friend and would have no way of knowing about her sexual interests.

5. How did Anita Hill get her first legal teaching job at Oral Roberts University in Oklahoma after leaving the EEOC in 1983?

Thomas: "In the spring of 1983, Mr. Charles Kothe contacted me to speak at the Law School at Oral Roberts University in Tulsa, Oklahoma. . . . Anita Hill accompanied me on that trip primarily because this was an opportunity to combine business and a visit to her home. As I recall, during our visit at Oral Roberts University, Mr. Kothe mentioned to me the possibility of approaching Anita Hill to join the faculty at Oral Roberts University Law School. I encouraged him to do so and noted to him, as I recall, that Anita Hill would do well in teaching. I recommended her highly and she eventually was offered a teaching position."

Hill: "In the spring of 1983 . . . I participated in a seminar — taught an afternoon session and seminar at Oral Roberts University. The dean of the university saw me teaching and inquired as to whether I would be interested in . . . pursuing a career in teaching, beginning at Oral Roberts University. I agreed to take the job in large part because of my desire to escape the pressures I felt at the EEOC due to Judge Thomas." She said when she quit EEOC, Thomas told her "that now I would no longer have an excuse for not going out with him." She said, "I told him that I still preferred not to do so."

6. Did Anita Hill voluntarily stay in touch with Clarence Thomas after the alleged sexual harassment, and if so, why?

Thomas: "This is a person I have helped at every turn in the road since we met. She seemed to appreciate the continued cordial relationship we had since Day One. . . . Although I did not see Anita Hill often after she left EEOC, I did see her on one or two subsequent visits to Tulsa, Okla. And on one visit I believe she drove me to the airport. I also occasionally received telephone calls from her."

Hill: "From 1983 until today, I have seen Judge Thomas only twice. On one occasion, I needed to get a reference from him, and on another he made a public appearance in Tulsa. On one occasion he called me at home and we had an inconsequential conversation. On one occasion he called me without reaching me, and I returned the call without reaching him, and nothing came of it." She said she sometimes called Thomas's secretary, Diane Holt, "and on some of these occasions undoubtedly I passed on some casual comment to then Chairman Thomas." Although she had said in a press conference that she had never congratulated Thomas on his second marriage, she testified that when Holt told her of it, "I did say 'Congratulate him.' "

7. Did Anita Hill call Clarence Thomas in 1990 and ask him to make a speech at the University of Oklahoma?

Thomas: did not mention.

Hill: She wasn't asked about that invitation, but volunteered, "I have on at least three occasion been asked to act as a conduit to him for others."

8. What was Anita Hill's reaction when Clarence Thomas was nominated to the Supreme Court?

Thomas: did not mention.

Thomas defender: Sen. Specter questioned Hill about whether she told Atlanta lawyer Carleton Stewart this summer that she was "elated" about Thomas's nomination to the Supreme Court.

Hill: "I was very passive in the conversation. . . . I did say that it is a great opportunity for Clarence Thomas. I did not say that he deserved it."

9. Did Anita Hill provide the Senate Committee a sworn or unsworn statement in October 1991?

Thomas: did not mention.

Thomas defender: Sen. Alan Simpson, R-Wyo., repeated that when Hill first made her charges, they were in the form of an unsworn statement rather than an affidavit. However, Simpson went on to acknowledge that in subsequent days she got her statement notarized.

Hill: was not called on to respond.

SWAGGART: Woman says she's on date

(From 1A)

all their money," Garcia told the Palm Springs station. "For what? So he can come give it to us. That's pretty good."

Swaggart, 56, driving a 1989 Jaguar, was stopped Friday morning and passed a field sobriety test, Graves said.

A police department statement said the area where Swaggart was stopped was within a 10-block radius "in which Indio police targeted vice operations for narcotics and prostitution."

"The police officer who issued the citation knew (Garcia) by sight," said police spokesman Garry Heckman.

Swaggart is scheduled to appear on the citation Nov. 15 in Indio Municipal Court. Indio is about 120 miles east of downtown Los Angeles.

Swaggart was in California for a series of spiritual services, said his attorney in New Orleans, William Treeby, who added Swaggart was traveling with his wife, Frances.

The Associated Press called Treeby's home seeking additional comment after Garcia's claims were made public. A woman who answered said Treeby was unavailable. Swaggart's whereabouts were unknown.

A New Orleans jury in September found against Swaggart, his ministry and his attorney in a civil defamation lawsuit filed by fellow TV evangelist Marvin Gorman.

Gorman was awarded $10 million after convincing the jury Swaggart and others spread false rumors about him, alleging sexual misconduct, that drove Gorman's ministry into bankruptcy.

DEATHS

Reed Johnson

Services for Reed Johnson of Midland are set for 1 p.m. today at Ellis Chapel with the Revs. Larry Ashlock and Ty Morris officiating. Burial will follow at Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Johnson died Thursday at a local hospital.

Johnson

He was born and raised in Thalia and graduated from Thalia High School. He joined the Air Force and was stationed at Goodfellow Field in San Angelo before going to the European Theater of operations in World War II.

He married Norma Rogers on July 5, 1942, in San Angelo. They lived in San Angelo, Colorado City and Vernon before moving to Midland on July 9, 1951.

He worked for 25 years for Superior Oil Co. and took an early retirement. He worked for several years with one of his sons doing contract labor, before opening "Fiddles Unique" in Midland. He crafted and handmade fiddles and violins.

He was a member of the Crestview Baptist Church.

Survivors include his wife, Norma Johnson of Midland; two sons, Jerry Johnson and Tom Johnson, both of Midland; a daughter, Gayle Larez of Farmington, N.M.; four brothers, O'Neal Johnson of Crowell, Woodroe Johnson of Amarillo, R.E. Johnson of Amarillo, and Bob Johnson of Joshua; five sisters, Willie Mae Tucker of Vernon, Louise Price of Garland, Vennie Shook of Denver City, Mary Jo Sullivan of Fisherville, Va., and Claudia Niell of Oxnard, Calif.; 10 grandchildren and numerous nieces and nephews.

Pallbearers will be Jim Crumley Mark Hobbs, Leonard Howell, D.A. Penny, John Oliver and Berry Breining.

Honorary pallbearers will be the his grandchildren, Phillip, Mandy and Misty Yates; Aaron, Jared, Jacob and Jessica Johnson; and Traci and Christine Lewellan.

Memorials should be sent to Crestview Baptist Church Building Fund or the ALS Association, 21021 Ventura Blvd., Suite 321, Woodland Hills, Calif., 91364.

Ray Martin

DUNCAN, Okla. — Services for Ray Anderson Martin, 71, of Midland are set for 11 a.m. today at Don Grantham Funeral Home Chapel in Duncan with the Rev. Don Wheat officiating. Burial will follow in Marlow Cemetery in Marlow, Okla.

Martin died Wednesday at a Duncan hospital.

He was born on Feb. 23, 1920, in Cookesville, Tenn., raised in Temple, Okla. and was a Midland resident for 39 years.

He married Melba Lois Miller on April 4, 1942, in Duncan.

Martin was a salesman for Borden Co. for 27½ years, retiring in 1983.

He was a member of the American Legion Post 19 and Trinity Presbyterian Church, both in Midland.

Martin was a World War II U.S. Army veteran.

Survivors include his wife, Melba Lois Martin of Midland; one son, Jim Martin of Marlow; one daughter, Raylene Johnson of Sherman; one brother, Edward Martin of Burkburnett; one sister, Geneva Stinnitt of Tulsa, Okla.; and 14 grandchildren.

Honorary pallbearers will be Jim Jennings, Raymond Sesson, Claude Mills, Ronnie Mussy and Johnny Barnes.

Ab Ellis

Services for Ab R. Ellis of Midland are set for 3 p.m. today at Ellis Funeral Home Chapel with Clark Ford of Memorial Christian Church officiating. Burial will follow at Resthaven Memorial Park under the direction of Ellis Funeral Home.

Ellis died Thursday at a local hospital.

He was born March 21, 1925, in Houston, where he was raised.

After graduating high school, he joined the Army Air Corps and was stationed with the signal corps in Korea during World War II. Upon his discharge, he attended the University of Texas at Austin and in 1951 received his bachelor of science degree in geology.

He worked for Texaco for 30 years before retiring and joining Flare Petroleum, where he was president of geological production and had several assignments overseas before retirement in 1989.

He taught classes at Permian Basin Graduate Center and was a subsitute teacher in both Midland and Ector County school districts.

He married June Wells in Wichita Falls on March 10, 1955. They lived in Wichita Falls and Amarillo before coming to Midland in 1968.

He was active in many clubs including the Permian Toastmasters of which he was past president, the American Association of Petroleum Geologists, West Texas Geological Society, and the Downtown Lions Club.

Survivors include his wife, June Wells Ellis of Midland; two daughters, Karen Ellis and Gayle Ellis, both of Midland; one son, Ab Reed Ellis III of Midland; and one grandchild, one niece and one nephew.

Pallbearers will be Gary Bunch, Richard Blough, Steve Cummings, Bill Larson, Val Kotrou, and David Tanner.

Memorials should be directed to a charity of choice.

She died Thursday at a local retirement center.

Texas-OU rally uneventful, police report

DALLAS (AP) — The traditional Friday night rally in downtown Dallas before the annual Texas-Oklahoma football game was relatively uneventful, police said.

As of 11:45 p.m. Friday, 22 people had been arrested, police said. One arrest was for aggravated assault, one for driving while intoxicated and the rest for public intoxication.

An ordinance banning the public consumption of alcohol was not enforced during the bash that drew thousands of students and fans from Oklahoma University and the University of Texas.

Police were still watching for disorderly conduct or public intoxication.

FASHION FLASHBACKS

"Runway Memories" a musical revue and fashion show depicted a variety of fashions both past and present. Clockwise from above: Confederate Air Force Colonels Randy Wilson of Dallas and Van Mabee of Midland exhibit Nazi Germany military attire and high- fashioned civilian clothing; the '50s is brought back to life with poodle skirts, loafers and bobby socks; '40s evening wear is elegantly styled with formal gloves and jewelry ; the '90s styles are both chic and sophisticated; and pre-war furs dressed up the styles of the '30s.

Fashion show presents styles from past, present

By Elizabeth Edwin
Lifestyle Editor

The Holiday Inn Convention Center was ready to take off Friday as the American Airpower Heritage Museum (AAHM) presented "Runway. Memories," a musical revue and fashion show portraying the 1940s to today.

Almost 700 people packed into the ballroom for the affair to benefit the AAHM, presented in conjunction with this weekend's Airsho '91. Sally Wood, in charge of ticket sales for the event, said the group hopes the revue will make nearly $10,000 for the museum.

"We think it went very well," said Betty Tull, decorations chairman. "Midland has really been behind us on this."

Two Girl Scout troops were on hand to help seat guests who paid $35 or $50 per ticket for the 11:30 a.m. event. The box lunch, catered by the Holiday Inn, consisted of a turkey and cheese croissant, pasta salad and grapes. Tables were appropriately covered in red, white and blue cloths and each place setting featured a red, white or blue bandana embroidered with "The Airsho '91, Midland, Texas," by A Better Letter, as a souvenir.

Each table was adorned with an airplane constructed from yucca wood that flew over a large red star. Banners depicting Airsho'91 activities drawn by 2nd and 4th graders from Santa Rita, Henderson, Burnet and Parker Elementary Schools lined the walls of the ballroom. Trinity School Student Council lettered several other banners.

"I had a lot of wonderful volunteers to help me," Ms. Tull said, adding that Kim Landreth organized the making of the banners by the elementary school children.

Two almost life-size wooden plane frames covered in twinkle lights, constructed by Clarence Ray Allen, flanked the stage, and two large screens with projected images formed the backdrop for the T-shaped runway, often showing the shield of the Ghost Squadron and the American Flag.

JERRY LEWIS OPENED the show by singing the National Anthem and Don Luttrell served as master of ceremonies.

The 1940s came alive as three women dressed in authentic World War II USO uniforms hit the stage posing as the Andrews Sisters and lip-synced "Boogie Woogie Bugle Boy of Company B," complete with the typical Andrews Sisters movements.

The style show, organized by Andrew and Libby Swartz, was narrated by Andrew Swartz.

"Fashion of the '40s was by decree," Swartz said, explaining that often women had to settle for what was available. "A black line drawn on the leg often served to look like seamed hose. Drapery fabric was sometimes used for coats and suits."

He described the era as "domestic battle dress." Styles shown included double-breasted suits with peplum jackets and rounded, padded shoulders; straight skirts and evening gowns the likes of those seen on the silver screen during that era. Hats, heels and gloves were standard accessories of the day.

The stage was never bare, as mannequin models awaited their turn to walk down the runway, and dancers appeared to jitterbug the show into the '50s styles with "Rock N' Roll is Here to Stay."

"The '50s sparked a boom in the fashion industry," Swartz said, as models showed fuller skirts, bolder prints and more daring styles. Swartz said the '50s introduced the padded bra and waist cincher, and introduced the first recognition of teens as a viable market in the fashion industry.

Although the fashions of the '60s and' '70s are usually recalled with a giggle, Swartz said these years were very creative times. While the world was struggling with an unpopular war and numerous technological advances, it also struggled with the rebellious fashions that were a part of the strong youth movement. Mini skirts, bell bottom pants, psychedelic prints in bold colors, head bands, fringed leather jackets and go-go boots were all a part of being cool.

THE FASHION ITEM which created the most chatter in the audience was a pair of white 4-inch platform shoes that sported 6-inch heels, an absolute necessity for any fashionable woman of the time.

But for those on the more conservative side, Jackie Kennedy styles proved the perfect alternative for a classic look of the '60s, and is still popular today. Elegant suits with fur trim and evening dresses featuring empire waist lines were just a few of the classic designs.

In the '80s and today, the '90s, Americans are proud of their nation, Swartz said, and luxury dressing is the style of the day.

"Diversity is the key and every woman dictates her own unique fashion sense," Swartz said.

The '90s styles included textured fabrics, bold colors and a variety of styles sure to flatter any figure type. Pants in stirrup, pleated and straight styles were shown; skirt lengths ranged from several inches above the knee to almost reaching the ankle, but most hovered right at the knee.

The showing of '90s fashions resembled a rainbow as models came out in sets of ensembles in yellow, purple, winter white, red, blue and fuchsia. Black also proved to be a popular color, whether worn alone or combined with bold colors, and styles ranged from sassy to sophisticated.

"I really want to give credit to Steven Porterfield of Cat's Meow for getting together the earlier fashions. They were all authentic of the time periods they represented," Swartz said.

"Also MCT (Midland Community Theatre) and several individuals helped us get all this together."

SEVERAL MIDLAND MILITARY personel, past and present, were honored during the luncheon. They included Staff Sgt. Ron Lethcoe, Army recruiter; Capt. Marvin Murray, 494th Tactical Fighter Squad, deployed to Desert Storm; Petty Officer 1st Class Andy Briscoe, Navy recruiter (EM1); Petty Officer 2nd Class Art Neitch, Navy recruiter (MM2); Staff Sgt. Larry Kirkland, Marine Corps; Pfc. Clarence King, Marine Corps; Petty Officer 2nd Class Mark Gonzalez, Navy (AD2); Petty Officer 2nd Class Marvin Bostrom, Navy (MM2); Tech. Sgt. Joe McShane Jr., USS Shangri La, B-259-Doolittle; and Capt. Marion Myron, Operation Desert Storm and recent recipient of the 1991 Lt. Dolly Vinsent Flight Nurse award.

Chairman of "Runway Memories" was Dale Kimsey.

Sponsors were Mrs. Buddy Anguish, Backstage, Childress Royalty, Mrs. Allen Cowden and Mrs. Ben F. Black, Mrs. Robert Fitting, Mrs. Ron Holcomb and Mrs. Darrell Smith, Mrs. Robert B. Security Council bans Iraqi atomic weapons program

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council on Friday banned Iraq's atomic program altogether to prevent it from being used as a cover for secret weapons laboratories, and decided to indefinitely monitor Iraq's weapons programs.

Iraqi Ambassador Abdul Amir al-Anbari protested that the council's plan "puts Iraq under permanent trusteeship," and said it was an affront to Iraqi sovereignty, illegal under international law and contrary to the U.N. Charter.

The 15 council members unanimously adopted the resolution, which bans Iraq's nuclear industry and sends inspectors to check weapons programs as long as Saddam Hussein's Baathist regime is in power.

"It is going to be a rather long operation, I think, since we do not have the full cooperation of the Iraqi authorities," Soviet Ambassador Yuli Vorontsov said.

The Iraqi ambassador said the plan "is very dangerous and I doubt whether its going to be implemented."

"It is directed against Iraq, and no country or sovereignty, whether it is in the Middle East or anywhere else would accept such inspections or such a plan," he said.

The drive to tighten weapons monitoring gained new urgency this week when the International Atomic Energy Agency disclosed that documents it seized in Baghdad show Iraq was trying to develop thermonuclear weapons — H-bombs.

The Iraqis also had a much more extensive and advanced nuclear program than previously suspected, the documents show, and major facilities and laboratories survived the allied bombing in the Gulf War that followed Iraq's August 1990 invasion of Kuwait.

Iraq is obliged under the terms of the April 3 cease-fire resolution to permit thorough inspections of all installations where it was building or storing weapons of mass destruction.

A letter from Iraqi Foreign Minister Ahmad Hussein to Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar and the Security Council assailed Bush for trying to drive Saddam from power.

Hussein said Security Council resolutions "did not give the right or the competence to any authority or country to intervene in the internal affairs of Iraq."

He noted that Bush said in an Oct. 4 news conference that "he wished to see Saddam Hussein out of power so that the United States could normalize its relations with the Iraqi people," and that Bush vowed the U.N. economic embargo on Iraq will continue until Saddam is gone.

"The president of the United States of America persists in intervening in the internal affairs of Iraq, in implementation of a suspect policy that seeks to subject Iraq and the Iraqi people to United States colonial tutelage, using to that end ways and means that in no way differ from the ways and means of starvation and genocide," Hussein's letter concluded.

Under the recommendations of the International Atomic Energy Agency and the U.N. Special Commission that is destroying Iraq's terror weapons, Iraq's nuclear industry will be totally dismantled.

Iraq will only be allowed to use harmless isotopes for medical, industrial and geological survey purposes.

Since so much of Iraq's society is militarized and so many technologies have dual-use applications for civilian or military projects, the IAEA and Special Commission are working out guidelines to let Baghdad use some sensitive technologies in the civilian sector.

Iraq would have to submit reports every six months on projects that could have military applications.

Baghdad would also have to provide an inventory of all its nuclear installations and materials in 30 days, and list all power plants producing more than 10 megawatts of electricity. Nuclear research requires huge amounts of electricity.

U.N. and IAEA inspectors also will be permitted to go anywhere they want in Iraq, indefinitely.

Bangladeshi sells daughter to buy food

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — An impoverished Bangladeshi peasant sold his 8-day-old daughter to a postman to obtain enough money to buy a pound of rice, news reports said Friday.

The peasant, identified only as Tajuddin, sold the infant for the equivalent of 17 cents, according to United News of Bangladesh and Banglar Bani, a Bengali-language newspaper.

The reports said the child's 16-year-old mother had abandoned the family because of extreme poverty and abuse by her husband.

The incident occurred in the village of Amantagram in Jaipurhat district, 130 miles northwest of Dhaka, which was battered by severe floods last month, the reports said. They did not say when the sale took place.

Palestinian rams van into group of Israelis, killing two

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — A Palestinian intent on avenging the killing of Arabs at the Temple Mount last year drove his van into hitchhiking Israeli soldiers on Friday, killing two and injuring 11, police said.

The attack, condemned by Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir as an "act of terror," came as the Bush administration is trying to arrange a Mideast peace conference this month amid opposition from Israeli hard-liners.

Police said the 25-year-old driver from a militant village in the occupied West Bank was arrested and that he acted on "nationalist grounds."

Tel Aviv police spokeswoman Dalia Gilad confirmed radio reports the driver stated that he wanted to avenge the Temple Mount killings.

Friday's incident came three days after Palestinians marked the first anniversary of the shootings on the mount, which is known in Arabic as the Haram es-Sharif. Last Oct. 8, Israeli police opened fire to quell a disturbance at the site, killing 17 Palestinians and wounding at least 150.

The bloodshed set off a series of revenge attacks and counterattacks in which 19 Israelis, eight Palestinians and two foreign tourists were killed.

Arab-Israeli tension was further heightened by Wednesday's takeover of six houses in a Jerusalem Arab neighborhood by Jewish nationalists.

Shamir said the driver's attack, at a busy intersection in Tel Aviv, was "further proof of the murderous character of our enemies, who do not loathe using any method to harm our sons."

He pledged to "take all necessary actions to protect the lives of the citizens and prevent the reign of terror."

Rabbi Yerachmiel Boyer, mayor of the Bnei Brak suburb of Tel Aviv, said he would push for banning Palestinians from entering the city.

In Washington, State Department spokeswoman Margaret D. Tutwiler condemned the act as "brutal, murderous and insane." She said the driver was either mentally deranged or a terrorist.

One of the dead, Sgt. Shmuel Michaeli, 21, was from Bnei Brak. The other was Master Sgt. Aharon Kaluzne-Agmon, 36, from nearby Givatayim.

An Israeli sergeant whose first name is Gil said the van ran a red light, approached at 40 mph and struck the two military police officers who had been posted at the corner to keep order among the hitchhikers.

"He knocked three of the soldiers into the bus stop itself and another two flew about 20 meters from the station," said witness Avi Ben-Zikri on Israel TV.

Three of the injured were in serious condition, hospital officials

Human rights leader named Haitian prime minister

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (AP) — A human rights leader was named prime minister Friday in an apparent attempt to lend respectability to the interim government installed after the overthrow of President Jean-Bertrand Aristide.

The U.N. General Assembly, meanwhile, unanimously condemned the military coup on Sept. 30 and called for reinstatement of Aristide, Haiti's first freely elected president. The U.S. ambassador told the world body in New York that Haiti's military and a small band of collaborators "must not prevail."

Jean-Jacques Honorat, a critic of Aristide, was appointed by provisional President Joseph Nerette after consultations with parliamentary and political party leaders, state-run radio said.

Parliament installed Nerette, a 67-year-old Supreme Court justice, on Tuesday after soldiers stormed the Legislative Palace while deliberations on an interim government were under way.

Honorat, a 60-year-old lawyer who received the American Bar Association's 1991 International Human Rights Award, had said earlier that he wasn't "even tempted" by the idea of becoming prime minister.

But by Thursday, he had changed his mind, saying he would accept on condition negotiations are resumed with the Organization of American States, which is pressuring for Aristide's reinstatement.

The human-rights leader said he wanted "to prevent the isolation of Haiti by the international community."

During a break in a Senate ratification hearing, Honorat said he would be willing to accept Aristide's return under certain conditions.

He did not specify, but said: "I don't think the OAS will ask for the restoration of Aristide and let him keep doing the things he was doing before." He referred to allegations that Aristide overstepped his constitutional authority and encouraged mob violence during his seven months in office.

The OAS, representing most Western Hempisphere nations, has approved a trade embargo and a freeze on government assets.

Diplomats contacted Friday indicated that Honorat's appointment would have no effect on the international campaign on Aristide's behalf.

Nerette had submitted the names of 28 potential candidates for prime minister to the National Assembly, Haiti's parliament, which reduced the list to four.

One of the four, center-left politician, Louis Dejoie Jr., said Friday that Honorat was the consensus choice of the mainstream political parties. "He is credible; he has a good reputation as a defender of human rights," Dejoie said. "He will defend the constitution and national sovereignty."

Honorat, who holds degrees in law and agronomy, was tourism minister under the late dictator Francois "Papa Doc" Duvalier from 1958 to 1961. He broke with Duvalier over the formation of the dictator's brutal private militia.

Honorat was exiled to the United States in 1980 in a military crackdown on dissidents. Upon his return in 1986, he founded the Haitian Center for Human Rights.

In that role, Honorat frequently criticized Aristide, accusing him, for example, of influencing a court that took only 24 hours to convict Aristide's Duvalierist enemies of taking part in a failed coup in January.

VAN: Palestinian kills 2 Israeli soldiers

(From 7A)

said.

A soldier who caught the driver said: "He told me he ran a red light at speed and couldn't stop. But he was alone on the road and he had every opportunity in the world to avoid the soldiers."

Police said the driver is from the village of Qibya near Ramallah in the West Bank, captured from Jordan in the 1967 Middle East war.

Villagers identified the driver as Rateb Maslam and said he had planned the attack. They said for about $500 he had bought a stolen van with Israeli license plates so he could move about free of suspicion in Israel and that he had left a letter explaining his intent.

Qibya is a militant village where Israeli soldiers killed more than 70 people in 1953 by blowing up about 50 houses in revenge for the slaying of an Israeli woman and two children in a nearby village. The soldiers later said they did not know the houses were occupied.

Japan prime minister named

By Bob Deans
N.Y. Times News Service

TOKYO — Less than three years ago, Kiichi Miyazawa resigned in disgrace from one of the Japanese government's top jobs. On Friday, powerful party chiefs helped him bounce back to snatch the very top job away from an incumbent enjoying a 57 percent public approval rating.

That's only the latest twist in the remarkable career of Miyazawa, a seasoned technocrat who appears about to cap off a half century of public service by becoming the next prime minister of Japan.

Miyazawa was born in 1919, the son and grandson of successful politicians. He graduated from Tokyo University's law school in the spring of 1941 and went to work in the prestigious Finance Ministry.

He rose quickly there and worked closely with U.S. occupying forces after Japan's surrender ended World War II in 1945.

Six years later, Miyazawa was one of the Japanese delegates who negotiated a peace treaty ending the U.S. occupation. The treaty still forms the cornerstone of the U.S.-Japan security alliance.

He was elected to the Upper House of Japan's parliament, or Diet, in 1953, serving his home constituency near Hiroshima.

Since 1967, he's been elected nine times to the dominant Lower House, where he has earned a reputation as an issues-oriented statesman, in sharp contrast to the money-handling power-brokers who most commonly rise to leadership positions in Japanese politics.

Miyazawa began holding key government posts in 1962, when he was named minister of the Economic Planning Agency two years before Tokyo hosted the Summer Olympic Games as a grand symbol of Japan's breathtaking postwar rebirth.

Since then, Miyazawa has served as Japan's top diplomat, minister of Foreign Affairs; its lead trade negotiator, minister of International Trade and Industry; and its most influential economic policymaker, minister of Finance.

During part of his 29-month term as finance minister, Miyazawa established a cordial working relationship with James A. Baker III, who was then Ronald Reagan's treasury secretary and now is President Bush's secretary of state.

Miyazawa was forced to resign as finance minister in December 1988, after making a series of conflicting statements — each subsequently proven to be false — about his office's involvement with the company at the heart of Japan's biggest political scandal since World War II.

He finally admitted that one of his closest aides had reaped windfall profits from a preferential stock deal as part of a massive influence-buying scheme cooked up by the Recruit Co., a giant real estate and communications concern.

Most analysts wrote Miyazawa off after his implication in the scam. But Miyazawa played a quiet game for the next two years, waiting in the wings of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party (LDP), and practicing the fine Japanese art of political timing.

He granted the occasional interview, spun out a policy paper or two and showed up at lofty seminars where he parried in flawless English with foreign affairs experts like his friend Henry Kissinger, secretary of state under President Nixon.

Last January, Miyazawa began courting LDP kingmaker Noboru Takeshita, the former prime minister who was driven from office by the Recruit scandal six months after Miyazawa bowed out. Though publicly disgraced, Takeshita has remained behind the scenes as one of Japan's most powerful politicians.

By August, Miyazawa made it clear he intended to take a run at Prime Minister Toshiki Kaifu, publicly calling him a "relief pitcher," despite Kaifu's overwhelming public support.

"Mr. Kaifu's popularity is rather like that of high school baseball," Miyazawa told the Mainichi newspaper last month. "But, from the point of view of professionals, let's face it, he's rather bush league."

■ An Analysis

Miyazawa himself looked to be out in left field when he fired those stinging strikes. Kaifu, after all, had assumed office when only 3 percent of the public supported the LDP; as of several weeks ago, his support had risen to 57 percent.

Kaifu, however, was not his own man. A former education minister, he rose to premier through the grace of Takeshita, who picked Kaifu to rid the Liberal Democrats of their tainted image in the wake of Recruit.

Apparently Kaifu performed that job well. For on Friday, Takeshita decided the LDP was so popular that he could risk throwing his formidable support behind Miyazawa, endorsing the Recruit-stained veteran civil servant to succeed Kaifu as prime minister at the end of the month.

Kaifu's mistake was believing he really was the prime minister, and not merely the front man for Takeshita's own power base.

When the two finally tangled two weeks ago — over Kaifu's tactless insistence on political reforms — Takeshita withdrew his support. Without it, Kaifu was through.

Miyazawa won't be quite so vulnerable. Unlike Kaifu, he has his own support base within the LDP and 30 years of leadership in the bureaucracies has taught him much about the exercise, and the limits, of power.

Still, Miyazawa will owe his job to Takeshita, and ultimately much loyalty as well, proving to even the least cynical observer here how slowly change comes to Japan.

Picasso painting destroyed in fire

LONDON (AP) — A painting by Picasso and another by French painter Camille Pissarro were destroyed in a fire at an antiques warehouse that police believe was set, Scotland Yard said Friday.

A spokeswoman said detectives were treating Monday night's fire in the warehouse near London's Heathrow Airport as arson.

The spokeswoman, speaking on condition of anonymity, said she did not know the names of either the paintings or their owners.

British news reports said valuable paintings, bronze sculptures, antique furniture, porcelain and other treasures worth between $85 million to $171 million were destroyed.

James Bourlet and Sons Ltd., the owners of the warehouse, pack and transport valuable paintings and antiques for museums, galleries, private collectors and fine art dealers around the world.

Mojo zaps Zero on Lee

Lee's lopsided loss to Permian worst since '69

By Terry Williamson
Sports Editor

ODESSA — Ride with us back to the days of yesteryear when the Mighty Masked Mojo rode the Permian Basin in fearless domination of whimpering Rebels.

Odessa Permian 33, Midland Lee 0. Just like in days of nostalgia when no one could touch old Mojo. Back when he ruled the state — and West Texas.

In recent years, Permian has done quite well in the state playoffs, but had trouble kicking that Rebel monkey off the back in District 4-5A play, losing four of the last five meetings.

But it was back to power offense and mean-spirited defense at Ratliff Stadium Friday night as Permian put on a clinic of how to whip Lee's Rebels and make them accept it.

It was the worst defeat for Lee against Permian since 1969 when the Rebels lost by a 49-6 count. It was also the ninth time in the series that the Lee offense failed to score.

It was about as complete a victory as you could ask for as the Permian defense held Lee's once-proud offense to a meager 59 yards rushing and 13 yards passing. And while the Permian defense was stuffing Rebels in the hip pocket, the Mojo offense was rolling out 307 yards rushing and 95 passing, returning punts for big yardage, fumbles for touchdowns and kicking field goals. They were also passing for TDs out of option sets.

In short, Lee was never in this one after quarterback Stormy Case hit Kendrick Parrett for 38 yards in the first quarter. Parrett was wide open, but fell down — on his own. You just knew it wasn't a good sign.

Permian coach Tam Hollingshead wouldn't take the opportunity to rub it in after a playoff Death Penalty last year and a loss to Lee in his first season as head coach. He could have because this was a major statement coming from his explosive Panthers.

"I don't think it's a statement," Hollingshead said. "We just beat a good team. Lee has some excellent players, but this was just one of those things. Our kids played hard and with a lot of confidence. We had a lot of confidence on defense and beat them like they did us last year. You can't score when you don't have the ball and our defense kept the ball away from them."

And did they ever. Defensive end Tony Daniels, who missed last week with an ankle injury, was all over Lee. Never do you want to see this guy when he is healthy.

"We practiced hard and went with the game plan," Daniels said. "We thought going in that it would take four quarters to beat them and we went in with that on our minds."

Lee senior running back Brett Sullivan, who was held to just 17 yards on six carries, said, "They were really quick on defense and got to the ball in a hurry. They were all over us. I don't know what went wrong. Don't ask me. But I know we will recover from this."

Lee's vaunted Wishbone attack, designed back in 1983 when conviced that was the offense to beat Permian with, showed its one massive flaw. It was no

Givens runs through MHS

■ OHS halfback's five TDs outshines Bulldogs' first three touchdowns of the season.

Though Midland High's offense came alive for the Bulldog homecoming Friday night against Odessa High, Broncho back Brad Givens showed he can corner as well as any Italian sports car on the way to 161 yards and five touchdowns in a 42-21 OHS win.

Despite the fact that the Bulldogs — who entered the game having scored the least points of any Class 5A school in Texas with six (on two field goals) — scored their first three TDs of the year and passed for 291 yards, it was Givens who had the final say.

The 175-pound Givens used his uncanny speed to get around the corners while carrying the ball 21 times and helping the Broncs move their record to 3-3 and 1-2 in District 4-5A.

"That's what I was trying to do, just get to the corner and make it to the end zone using my speed," Givens said.

His season rushing total is now 757 yards, which leads the district and caused OHS head coach Bill Barron to call his star's Friday performance "just a normal day."

Were it not for Givens, though, MHS' passing connection of Geoff Simmons to Dewayne Culpepper may have stolen the show. Simmons sparked the Bulldog offense with a 14-for-32 passing night, while Culpepper

Greenwood stings Owls

By Joe Wyatt
Staff Writer

GREENWOOD — The Reagan County Owls stepped out on the grass at Greenwood's J.M. King Memorial Stadium Friday boasting an eye-opening 4-0 record. The Rangers didn't give a hoot.

Greenwood's Rangers plucked the Owls for a 20-6 victory in the District 6-3A opener for both teams, and they did it by shutting down an Owl offense that came in averaging over 30 points per game.

Quarterback Irvin Welch fired two touchdown passes in the second quarter and the Greenwood defense limited the Owls to three first-half first downs and later forced a pair of fourth-quarter turnovers as the Rangers upped their season record to 3-3 — and more importantly 1-0 — as the hunt for the playoffs began in earnest.

"You can't say it was one person because we played like a team," said Welch, a southpaw, who hit Jason Swopes and Eric Clutter with scoring tosses as Greenwood dominated the second quarter.

"Last year we had a win over them (Owls) at their place, but I think we left a little bit of doubt. We only beat them by six points (12-6)," Welch said. "But they have a great football team this year and I think we beat them pretty decisively tonight."

Reagan County, which fell to 4-1, 0-1, actually came away with a 207-182 edge in yardage. But much of that came as the

10th inning homer puts Twins up 2-1

N.Y. Times News Service

TORONTO — Mike Pagliarulo, the left-handed batter in the Minnesota Twins' platoon of third basemen, hit a pinch-hit home run in the 10th inning Friday night to give the Minnesota Twins a 3-2 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays in the Skydome and a two-games-to-one lead in their American League Championship Series.

Pagliarulo, who hit 32 homers with the Yankees in 1987 but only six for the Twins this season, batted for Scott Leius, the starting third baseman, against right-handed Mike Timlin with one out in the 10th.

He connected with a bases-empty drive over the right-field wall that was the Twins' first homer in the playoffs. It capped a comeback for the Twins, who fell behind by 2-0 after one inning, but chipped away to even matters after six innings.

Game 4 on Saturday night will see Todd Stottlemyre pitch for Toronto against Jack Morris, the Twins' starter who was the winner in Game 1 last Tuesday.

Toronto left-hander Jimmy Key lent an air of mystery to this particular start. Key was 16-12 over all this season, but the second half was somewhat of a strug-

Andrews surprises Sweetwater

By Tom Rutz

ANDREWS — The town of Andrews was not big enough for two Mustangs Friday night, one had to go.

So Andrews placekicker Eric Langehennig did something about it. He booted the Sweetwater Mustangs out of town with a 36-yard field goal as time expired for an exciting 13-10 District 3-4A win.

Langehennig also nailed a 41-yard field goal before the half which gave Andrews a 10-7 lead. The win was the first for Andrews coach W.T. Stapler over his old team.

Stapler came over from Sweetwater after winning a state title there in 1985. Stapler knew, however, that his team could not afford to fall behind gle, with his record after the All-Star Game break an unimpressive 6-8.

In addition, Key had not pitched since Sept. 30, voluntarily forgoing a start in Toronto's final game of the season, against the Twins in Minnesota last Sunday. It would have been only the second time he had faced Minnesota this season, a team he had limited to one run in seven and a third innings in his initial encounter.

Conversely, Key's opponent, Scott Erickson, had seen a lot of Blue Jays quite recently and had pitched quite well. His final two starts of the season were against Toronto and although he was 1-1 in them, he allowed only two earned runs in 14 innings.

Erickson, like teammate Kevin Tapani in Game 2, started off shakily. Tapani allowed the Blue Jays a 3-0 lead after three innings and the Twins never recovered in a 5-2 loss. Friday night, Erickson allowed the Blue Jays two runs in the first, but the Twins recovered to tie the score after six.

The first Toronto run came by way of a familiar vehicle — a laser-shot of a home run to dead center by Joe Carter, who collected 23 of his team-high 33 home runs and notched 64 of his team-high 108 runs batted in at the Skydome.

The home run was the first by either team in the series (not to mention the first in an American League playoff game in 51 innings, the longest homerless streak in the history of post-season play). A second run crossed shortly thereafter when Candy Maldonado followed a two-out walk issued by Erickson to John Olerud and an infield single by Kelly Gruber with a double to the base of the left-field wall.

The hit, the first of the series by Maldonado, also produced the first run batted in for Toronto by someone other than their 3-4-5 hitters: Carter, Olerud and Gruber.

Erickson settled down after that and worked his way nicely out of a two-on, no-out jam in the fourth. His determination proved important because the Twins, still in close proximity, started chipping away at Key in the fifth.

Key had allowed only one hit and one base-runner in the first four innings. But in the fifth, Shane Mack drove a ball to deep right, putting a triple on the board and a scare of the worst sort into the Blue Jays.

The scare was supplied by Carter, who tried a leaping catch by planting his left foot halfway up the pliable outfield wall. When he landed, he appeared to do so awkwardly. He then limped after the ball, relayed it, and went down in a heap.

Though Carter writhed in pain for a while, he was able to resume play. But he came out for a pinch-runner in the seventh inning after being intentionally walked. He was later described to be suffering from a slightly sprained right ankle.

Key, meanwhile, was not able to maintain his shutout. The next batter after Mack tripled was the struggling Kent Hrbek, who was 1 for 8 while batting cleanup against right-handed starters in the first two games of the series.

Batting sixth in Friday night's lineup, he had grounded out in his first time at bat against Key. This time, Hrbek hit a grounder again, but it was good for a run as Mack scored just ahead of second baseman Roberto Alomar's throw to the plate.

That made it 2-1, Toronto. But Erickson didn't stick around to see the Twins tie it. The right-hander opened the Jays' fifth by issuing his fifth walk of the game. He had a 1-2 count against the next hitter, Carter, when Manager Tom Kelly went to the mound and hooked him in favor of left-hander David West.

The former Met made it interesting by striking out the side, but not before issuing a second walk in the inning and throwing a wild pitch.

One inning later, Key lost the lead.

League's neck on line — again

SWC Report

This week's Southwest Conference schedule is about protection.

The Texas Longhorns (1-2) will try to protect the state's honor against the No. 6 Oklahoma Sooners (4-0) in their annual clash at Dallas, and the Baylor Bears (5-0) will try to guard their No. 8 national ranking against the Rice Owls (2-2).

There also are some streaks on the line.

Southern Methodist (1-3), which hasn't won two games in a row since 1986, will try to equal that streak against Texas Tech (1-4), which has a four-game losing streak. Preseason favorite Houston (1-3) will try to snap a three-game losing streak against Arkansas (3-2).

Texas A&M (3-1) and Texas Christian (4-1) have open dates.

Quarterback Cale Gundy has transformed Oklahoma into a balanced offensive attack that includes an effective passing attack off the Sooners' option attack.

Gundy has completed 46 of 78 passes for 665 yards and Texas coach David McWilliams would prefer the Sooners ditch their aerial game.

"They used to use power inside and option outside," he said. "Now, it's power inside and throwing outside with some option. When they fake that option, they can draw a lot of people in there for the run and turn around and do something else with it."

Oklahoma's passing yardage has exceeded its rushing yardage for the past two games, the first time for such a statistical flip-flop since 1967.

Texas leads the popular mid-season feature, 49-32-4, including 28-24 and 14-13 victories the past two years.

Baylor's 38-21 victory over Houston last week kept the Bears on pace with 1980, when the Bears won their first seven games before stumbling to San Jose State and then finished with a 10-1 record.

Baylor's J.J. Joe is the nation's leader in passing efficiency with a 181.3 rating, but the Bears may again be without fullback Robert Strait, sidelined by a knee injury. Sophomore John Henry has filled in in Strait's absence.

"It's going to be a great challenge for us," Baylor coach Grant Teaff said. "They've got the No. 1 rusher in the nation and a lot of very good athletes. It will be the toughest game we've played."

Texas beat the Owls 28-7 last week and held Trevor Cobb, the nation's league rusher, to 68 yards.

Rice coach Fred Goldsmith replaced quarterback Greg Willig with true freshman Josh LaRocca against the Longhorns and could start LaRocca against the Bears.

Arkansas is trying to make its final year in the SWC a memorable one before moving to the Southeastern Conference next season. The Hogs ended TCU's unbeaten season last week, rallying from a 21-0 deficit to a 22-21 victory.

Now they'd like to extend the Cougars' misery.

"I feel like I'm on a desert and see this canteen. I open it up and dust comes out," Cougar coach John Jenkins said.

David Klingler leads the nation in total offense with a 373.1 yards per game average, but the Cougars defensive and offensive line have been taking a beating. Houston ranks last in the SWC in total defense, allowing 448.5 yards per game.

Arkansas coach Jack Crowe is trying to get the right emotional mix for his young team.

"We've tried to create a lot of emotion in some games and I think we distracted them," Crowe said. "Then we preached concentration and we showed up without emotion, so we've either misfired or not been into the emotional swing of the game."

Crowe says the Hogs won't be fooled by Houston's 1-3 record.

"Houston has played as strong an early schedule as anyone in the country," Crowe said. "If you have weaknesses, they'll get exposed when you play good teams."

SMU and Texas Tech will be playing in Ownby Stadium at the same time Texas and Oklahoma are battling in the Cotton Bowl.

"It's tough," SMU coach Tom Rossley said. "But I think there are some loyal SMU fans out there who will come out to see a good college football game."

Tech coach Spike Dykes is more interested in stopping the Red Raiders losing trend than playing before a crowd.

"I don't think we're terminal," he said. "We know that we have some dynamite and fire but we just haven't put it together."

Texas-OU Notes

Associated Press

■ For the past few years, Texas has not practiced at the Cotton Bowl on the Friday before the game against Oklahoma because it was too difficult to get in and out of the State Fair.

"Plus one time they charged us to turn on the lights," Texas coach David McWilliams said. "I don't have enough money to pay for that."

■ Texas offensive tackle Chuck Johnson said he will be ready Saturday for Oklahoma's cannon and Sooner Schooner. Johnson was a little embarrassed last year when he jumped offside when the cannon boomed.

"That (cannon) and that chuck wagon they've got — I could do without both of them," Johnson said.

■ Johnson went on to elaborate why he likes to beat Oklahoma:

"It's fun to beat them. Their fans are obnoxious. Come to think of it, our fans are obnoxious, too. And we're pretty obnoxious to each other on the field."

■ McWilliams on the importance of the Texas-Oklahoma game:

"The OU game is a benchmark, regardless of records," McWilliams said. "It's a game that can make you, but it doesn't necessarily break you."

■ Oklahoma coach Gary Gibbs on his team's potential:

"Well, we're not dominant this year, and we won't be next year, either," Gibbs said. "We still have only 80 athletes. But we're recruiting the players we want, and I'm satisfied with what we're building."

■ Gibbs on the Sooners' increased passing thanks to the ability of quarterback Cale Gundy:

"Cale Gundy gave us great credibility when he came here. He allowed us to step up the process. Now, we are recruiting outstanding receivers because of Gundy."

■ Mical Padgett, Texas' middle linebacker, admits there was smidgen of luck involved in the Longhorns' two consecutive wins over Oklahoma — a 14-13 victory in 1990 and a 28-24 victory in 1989. But Padgett says this year's game will be won decisively.

"This year, we're going to play solid and beat them solid. We're going to put all those words to rest."

MOJO: Panther running backs romp at will

(From 1B)

good for the catch-up game. Lee couldn't throw the football, and Permian stuffed runners with so much regularity that it seemed very predictable.

Permian struck on its first possession with Malcolm Hamilton ending a nine-play, 77-yard march in the first quarter to lead 6-0. Lee ran three plays, punted and then watched as Permian put a 44-yard field goal in lights off the toe of Shane Wells for a 9-0 lead.

Lee then ran one play and Sherman Dedrick fumbled, giving Mojo a 17-yard drive of trickery as backup quarterback Dennis Graham, playing in a running back slot, hit Will Wagner for an 11-yard TD and a 16-0 lead.

The Lee defense, which had given up only 24 points in five previous games, saw Permian backs come from all angles. Sophomore John Williams, who busted over 200 yards rushing last week, had 106 yards against Lee. Tailback Tim Ross had 93. Hamilton had 64 and two touchdowns. This one was over early, leaving the sellout throng of 20,000 rather quiet.

Permian at 6-0 on the year and 2-0 in district play is now tied with San Angelo for first place. Lee drops to 2-1 and 5-1.

If the weekend continues at this rate, Japan may win the re-enactment of "Tora, Tora, Tora," at Air-Sho'91 today.

RANGERS: Crane looms on Greenwood's horizon

(From 1B)

Owls' hurry-up offense drove 61 futile yards with under two minutes left in the game.

Jeff Dunn intercepted Owl quarterback Jackie Hill, ending the threat on the final game of the play.

"I thought it was a great defensive game," Greenwood coach Bob Purser said. "We weren't able to move the ball on the ground the way we wanted to, but we made some big plays when we had to."

But Reagan County made the first big play, turning a fumble by Clutter into a first down at the Rangers' five-yard line midway through the first quarter. The fumble came two plays after a huge Welch-to-Joe Kilgore aerial gain was brought back because of an illegal man downfield.

Tailback Michael Goodloe took advantage of the swing with a two-yard TD run and the Owls led 6-0 after the conversion kick sailed wide.

The Rangers clamped down after that, though, holding the Owls to just one more first down in the half and getting the offense untracked.

Welch guided the Rangers 49 yards for a score to start the second quarter, hitting Swopes with a nine-yard flip in the right corner of the end zone that knotted the game. Donny Strickland's kick was true and Greenwood led 7-6.

"The bootleg has been a pretty good play for us," Welch said.

The Rangers got their next opportunity when Owl punter Lorenzo Florez tried to run with the ball on fourth-and-one from the Reagan County 24-yard line. He reached the line of scrimmage before being buried alive by Rangers.

Clutter, who added a one-yard TD run in the fourth quarter wrestled Welch's 24-yard strike from the greedy hands of an Owl defender and landed in the end zone to up the lead to 13-6.

Clutter's game-clinching TD came after linebacker Nathan Moore separated Hill from the ball and Strickland recovered it at the Ranger 38. Nine runs later, including three by Manny Vigil, who led all Greenwood runners with 62 yards on 12 carries, and Greenwood had plenty of insurance.

Fullback Nuno Rivero led the Owl attack with 61 yards on nine tries.

The Rangers next task comes Friday in Crane, where the Golden Cranes will be waiting to do what they did a year ago to Greenwood.

"We can relax about 30 minutes after this win," Purser said. "You want to build on the positive, but we were in the same situation last year. We beat Reagan County and got beat by Crane the next week.

ANDREWS: Sweetwater left in do or die situation

(From 1B)

Sweetwater and expect to play catch-up all game long.

Instead Stapler's Mustangs forced Sweetwater to play catch-up. Sweetwater had never trailed in a game before entering its showdown with Andrews last night.

Sweetwater showed it had never been in the trailing zone. From the moment they fell behind the Mustangs seemed confused on the field. On a couple of ocassions in the first half, they burned timeouts because of wrong formations and they were also penalized on offense.

So how important was the win for Andrews? Stapler put it this way before the game. "Whoever loses will have to win them all from here on out. Sweetwater is now in that position."

Andrews displayed the traits that for years have made Sweetwater a perennial power in District 3-4A. The Mustangs played defense like there was no tommorow and the offense made good on its opportunities.

Andrews first shot came on the opening kickoff when Xavy Emiliano took the kick at his 10-yard line and raced 64 yards to the Sweetwater 26. Eight plays later Emilino ended what he had begun with a one-yard scoring plunge at 8:40 of the first quarter.

But the Ponies from Sweetwater were came right back on a disciplined seven-play 65-yard drive. Running back James Moore capped it off with a 26-yard scoring run and a 7-7 tie.

Each team then traded the ball three times each before Langehennig booted a 41-yard kick prior to the half.

In the third quarter, Sweetwater began an impressive drive at its 30. On first and 10 at its 49, running back Chris Hines took a handoff and scampered 45 yards to the Andrews six, where he simply ran out of gas and fell to his knees.

What seemed like a go-ahead score, however, turned into a tie, because the Andrews defense refused to fold, instead Sweetwater settled for a 22-yard tying field goal from Brian Mitchell.

Turnovers then plagued this game, Sweetwater picked off two Andrews passes in Andrews territory only to see them give back the pigskin on two fumbles.

Then came the dramatic fourth period. The sophomore Langehennig who they also call 'Old white shoe because of the white kicking shoe that he wears had never been in a game winning situation before.

"My leg was really numb before I tried the kick," said Langehennig. He was probably developing gangrene as Sweetwater called two timeouts to freeze the youngster.

"During the time outs all I thought about was having faith in my line and in myself."

Langehening showed plenty of faith, because the youngster split the uprights and broke the hearts of Sweetwater coaches, players and fans alike.

Both teams, however, return to fight again next week. Andrews 5-1, 2-0, will travel to Pecos while Sweetwater, 5-1, 1-1, entertains Monahans in a do or die game.

MHS: Simmons-to-Culpepper worth 252 yards

(From 1B)

hauled in 10 of those aerials for 252 yards.

And, as Culpepper said, it was about time for the 'Dog offense to kick into gear.

"I think this game was a stepping stone for us. We had been hearing stuff at school and reading the articles and just got tired of it," Culpepper said of the 0-6, 0-3 Bulldogs. "We've been struggling on offense and people were saying we might have the worst season ever at Midland High, and we just decided we weren't going to play like that."

As for the change of philosophy that saw MHS throw the ball 33 times, Simmons said it came as no surprise.

"Coach (MHS head coach Davis Corley) told us we were going to throw on them. We knew that their defense was kind of weak and our offense was psyched for it. Coach gave the seniors a little pep talk before the game and that got us ready," Simmons said.

And despite losing by 21 points, normally a safe cushion, MHS probably considered itself in the game at least until Givens' last TD with 6:44 left in the game.

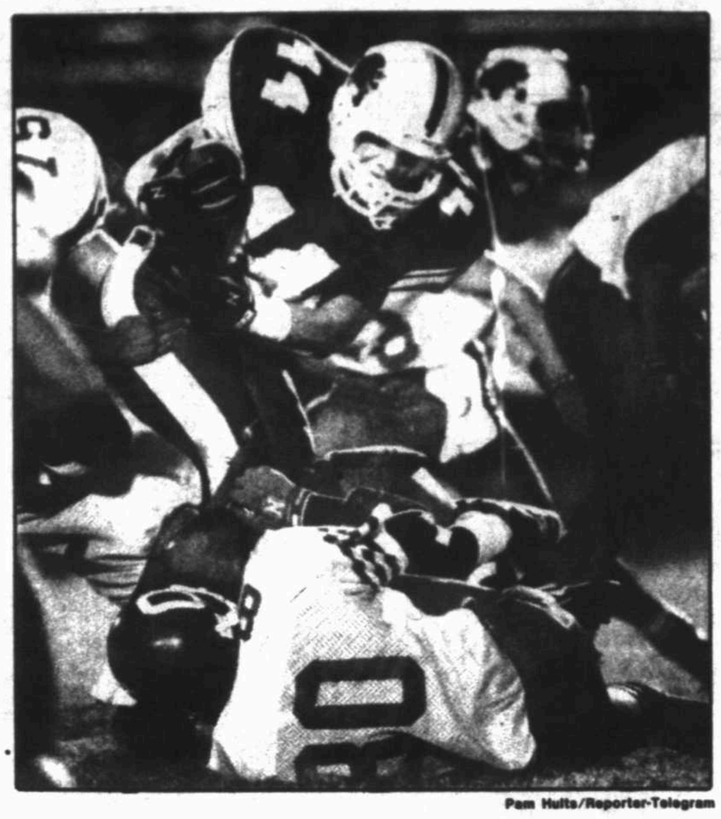
The Bronchos got on the scoreboard first with a 15-yard run from, who else, Givens and went ahead 7-0 with 4:57 left in the first quarter.

The 'Dogs, who took the game's opening drive to the OHS 9-yard line before sophomore kicker Jeremy Hernandez missed a 27-yard field goal try, answered in the second quarter.

Taking the ball at its own 21, MHS began moving as Simmons hit Culpepper for nine yards, Freddie Stricklin for 20, ran for eight, then found Culpepper again for 12.

Simmons then completed a pass to Marcus Anderson that gained nine yards and set the 'Dogs up at the OHS six. Two Benny Hernandez runs later, MHS had tied the game at 7-7 with 6:14 left in the half, and scored its first TD in 257 minutes and 47 second of play this year.

Then, trying to surprise the Broncs, Corley called an onside kick that almost worked before OHS' Joe Medina recovered at the Broncho 47. Davorick Taylor ran for one yard, then lightning struck as Bronc quarterback Erik Hartman found Spud Morris streaking down the right sideline for a 52-yard scoring pass that put OHS ahead for good.



Pam Hults/Reporter-Telegram

Matt Jones of Midland High runs for a gain as Odessa High's Adan Saldana tries to stop him in the Broncho win.

Holder Steve Gilpin pulled down the PAT snap and ran it in for the extra point that gave the Broncs a 15-7 advantage with 5:24 still to play in the second period. Less than four minutes later, Givens ran in a three-yarder that made the score 22-7 at intermission.

After the 'Dogs' first two third-quarter possessions ended in an interception and a lost fumble, Givens made MHS pay twice more and the Bronchos seemed to be on cruise control with a 35-7 lead and 5:43 left in the third.

But Simmons guided the Bulldogs on another long drive, this one starting at the MHS 26, and capped it with a 10-yard TD run just 2½ minutes later.

Then with 9:26 left in the game, Simmons hit Culpepper on a 64-yard TD pass, and all of a sudden MHS was within two scores again. That all changed after the next OHS possession, though, as another MHS onside kick try was returned 15 yards by Chad Rood to start the Broncs at the Bulldog 35. Six plays later, Givens iced the game with his fifth score.

Steers stun Lake View

By Doug Stewart
MRT Correspondent

BIG SPRING — "Fairytales" was the theme for the Big Spring homecoming parade prior to Friday's game with San Angelo Lake View, but there was to be no Cinderella story for the Chiefs as the heavily favored Steers would dominate 52-0. The Steers remain unbeaten with their first district victory as they improve to 5-0 overall.

Holding the Chiefs' offense to a grand total of 24 total yards with one first down, the Big Spring defense seemed not to skip a beat from its week off.

"We were not thrilled about having the time off," said Steers' head coach Dwight Butler, "Although we were a bit ragged in spots, the kids were really anxious to play and I think the first half showed that."

After a sluggish start in the first quarter, the Big Spring offense accelerated to its usual high pace en route to a 31-0 half time lead. Quarterback Gerald Cobos lead the attack with 9-of-17 passing for 165 yards, and he also converted on seven PAT's on seven attempts.

Pat Chavarria, a frequent target of Cobos, racked up 148 all purpose yards while scoring two touchdowns, one on the ground and one on the receiving end of a 36-yard strike from Cobos.

The Steers came out passing on four of their first five plays as Cobos hit end Pat Martinez from 23 yards out to begin the scoring and the long night for Lake View. After stopping the Chiefs on three plays, however, the Steers would turn to their equally effective running game as they put together a 67 yard drive, capped by Chavarria's 5 yard drive off left tackle with 3:37 remaining in the quarter. Chavarria, who is described by his head coach as having good skills yet succeeding because he is a great competitor with a great deal of heart, exemplifies the type of team the '91 Steers are as they continue their undefeated campaign.

Whether rushing or passing, the Steers' offense could do little wrong as it rolled to 20 first downs and had to punt but once.

"We feel pretty good about where we are now and we are excited as we look forward to playing some awfully tough teams," added Butler.

The next team on the Steers' agenda is Fort Stockton, next Friday, on the road.

Mays, others eulogize Durocher

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — An emotional Willie Mays, whose Hall of Fame career began under Leo Durocher in 1951 and flourished under his guidance, said Friday the death of Durocher felt like the loss of a parent.

"I can't stress the feeling that I have for this man," Mays said, his voice cracking, during a memorial service for Durocher at the Old North Church at Forest Lawn Hollywood Hills. "All I can say is that I have lost a dear father.

"All the things you heard about Leo, how evil he was. ... He never treated me any way but perfect. So much has happened to me with Leo Durocher, I can't put it into words."

Durocher died Monday at Desert Hospital in Palm Springs, Calif., of natural causes. He was 86.

Durocher is survived by a son, Christopher; a daughter, Melinda Michele Thompson, and 10 grandchildren.

Cougars even overall mark

Staff Report

ABILENE — The Abilene Cooper Cougars evened their overall record at 3-3 with a 22-12 win over the Amarillo Tascosa Rebels in non-district football action here Friday.

Cooper, 3-3, won despite allowing Tascosa fullback Stephon McQueen to ramble for 165 yards on 25 carries. McQueen outgained the entire Cooper rushing corps by more than 30 yards and scored both Rebel touchdowns.

McQueen's second touchdown gave Tascosa a 12-6 third-quarter lead, but Cooper pulled out the contest with two scores in the fourth quarter.

Cooper returns to District 4-5A action with a trip to Odessa high next Friday.

Aggie transfer suspended

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — Texas A&M basketball forward Shedrick Anderson has been suspended indefinitely for violating team rules, head coach Tony Barone said.

Barone did not release details on why the senior was suspended from the team.

Anderson, of Metairie, La., started 25 games last season after transferring from Delgado Junior College in New Orleans.

Mustangs roll again

Beck 'bruises' Geiberger's 59

PGA Las Vegas

Associated Press

LAS VEGAS — It took 14 years, but Chip Beck finally gave the PGA Tour another 59 Friday.

That's 59, as in 29-30, as in the second sub-60 round in tour history, as in 13 under par, as in 13 birdies and five pars.

"I knew it was going to happen. I'm surprised it hasn't happened sooner. I'm just amazed it happened to me," Beck said.

Al Geiberger, playing a seniors event in California, didn't appear surprised when told he had company in the record book.

"I've been dodging arrows for a long time," Geiberger said. "I'm lucky to have held it as long as I did.

"Records are funny. They're just there. You can't change them. There's nothing you can do about them. It's a kind of helpless feeling.

"Besides, the record wasn't broken. Just bruised a little."

Beck, 35, in his 13th season on the tour, birdied the last three holes on the Sunrise Golf Club course near the glitz and glitter of the Las Vegas Strip to reach the target that had been the goal of professional golfers since it was first achieved by Geiberger in the 1977 Memphis Classic.

It was worth a $1 million bonus, half to Beck and half to charity, and a share of the lead in the third round of the $1.5 million Las Vegas Invitational.

Sunrise is a members' course that Beck had never even seen before Friday, and it's unlikely he'll ever play it again.

It's listed at 6,914 yards but plays shorter in the dry desert air and has a par of 72. It is being used as a fill-in this year in the three-course rotation used for the first three rounds of the Las Vegas tournament.

"It was a team effort," Beck said. "I hadn't seen the course before. I couldn't have done it without my caddy, Dave Woosley."

In the end, however, it was Beck who had to pull the trigger and make the shots.

"I felt it could happen. I was so pleased I didn't get in my own way, that I let it happen," Beck said. "After the Ryder Cup it was like a walk in the park."

There were some nervous moments, however, in a round that had some remarkable parallels to Geiberger's tour of the Colonial Country Club.

Both rounds came on Friday, both players began from the 10th tee, and both needed birdie on the final hole to crack 60.

Geiberger did it with a 10-foot putt. Beck didn't want to face that.

"I wanted to get it close and kick it in. I didn't want to be standing over any 10-footer for 59," he said.

After a big drive down the fairway on the 408-yard ninth hole, Beck had 157 yards left to the green.

Chip Beck

"That's usually a 7-iron for me, but it was a little downhill and a little downwind," he said, "so I hit an 8-iron. When I hit it, I said, 'Boom, that's it.'"

The ball stopped about three feet from the cup.

Beck went to the back of the green to take some practice strokes — "stay in my routine," he said — while his three amateur partners completed the hole.

Then it was his turn.

"It was a tough putt, a little left to right. The longer I stood there, the longer it got. I played it left edge and it went in off the right lip," Beck said.

It was his 13th birdie of the day and third in a row. It was worth $1 million in bonus money from a hotel chain, $500,000 to Beck and $500,000 to charity.

While Beck had used the words "incredible" and "amazing," he said he wasn't completely surprised.

"After I played that back nine — my front side — in 29, I felt I could do it," he said. He dropped a 40-foot putt on his first hole, then ran off a string of six consecutive birdies beginning on his third.

"Sometimes," he said, "you have a feeling on the golf course that the burden is leaving you. You have a peace about you that transcends golf.

"That happened to me today."

He hit short irons inside of 10 feet on the first two holes after the turn and birdied both, going 9-under for the day.

A little chip left him a 2-footer for birdie-4 on his 13th hole and he went 10-under.

He missed a 10-footer on the next hole and was unable to birdie the par-3 sixth, his 15th hole of the day.

That left him needing to birdie in to match Geiberger's score.

He hit a 2-iron second shot to the 498-yard seventh hole and had a 25-footer for eagle. He left it inches short and tapped in for birdie.

Judge denies lawyers access to job records

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A judge ruled Friday that William Kennedy Smith's attorneys can't see the job records of a woman accusing Smith of rape, another setback in their efforts to delve into her past.

Attorneys for the 30-year-old woman said her privacy rights under Florida's constitution were being threatened. Smith's attorneys contended her employment history could help Smith's defense.

Circuit Judge James Stewart said after looking over the records, "the content do not lead to the discovery of any admissible evidence."

Smith's attorney, Mark Schnapp, told the judge the woman's "checkered employment past" may show why she accused Smith of rape. Smith, 31, has maintained his innocence.

"A motive in this particular case for making a false accusation may be, ultimately, financial gain," he said.

He also argued that the woman's job history could be evidence of instability.

Schnapp said Smith's attorneys want to know why she left jobs and whether she lied or made false accusations while working.

The 30-year-old Florida woman worked in accounting and statistics at Disney World in 1985-87 and as a clerk at a Winter Park law firm in 1987-88.

Her attorney, Douglas Duncan, said her work history has "absolutely no relevance" to the case. The woman wanted the records blocked to maintain her privacy, he said.

A Disney World finance employee who worked with the woman said she did well on her job.

"She was excellent," Gene Lemoine told The Palm Beach Post in a story published Friday. "She was extremely hard-working and very bright. ... She gets along well with people."

Stewart heard the arguments because Circuit Judge Mary Lupo, the trial judge who has heard previous motions in the case, was out of town.

Ms. Lupo has ruled against most defense requests for access to the woman's medical and psychological records, which Smith's attorneys say could support their contention that she fabricated the charge.

The judge has set jury selection to begin Oct. 30 and opening statements for Dec. 2.

Banks brace for new lending laws

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — In an embarrassing slap to the banking industry, the federal government is expected to release reports showing minorities are rejected for loans up to four times more than whites.

The reports, due to be released during the week of Oct. 21, are based on information gathered under the Home Mortgage Disclosure Act.

Alan Fishbein, a community lending expert with the Center for Community Change in Washington, said Thursday that because of the reports, "the regulators and banking industry are quaking in their boots."

At the American Bankers Association annual convention here this week, a Federal Reserve Board official said the reports will show members of minority groups on average will be turned down two to four times more than whites.

Griffith Garwood, director of consumer and community affairs at the Federal Reserve, said the wide gap in loan rejection rates could result in considerable negative publicity for the banking industry.

An American Bankers Association magazine, the ABA Banking Journal, urged in its latest issue that "banks must be prepared to counter-attack" bad press "and demonstrate that their (lending) decisions are based on sound credit factors."

The reports are not new. But the latest versions will have more detail than ever before, with statistics on a loan applicants' age, gender, race, area of residence and income and whether the loan was accepted or rejected. The expanded reports are required under the 1989 thrift bailout law.

The reports are based on 6.4 million mortgage loans or applications from some 9,000 lending institutions, the Federal Reserve said.

The reports come at a time when community activists are using the Community Reinvestment Act of 1977, the nation's key law to ensure fair lending to poor and minority communities, as a tool to challenge the spree of big mergers that are reshaping the banking industry.

Activists are pressing banks for increased lending for low-cost housing and start-up loans for small businesses.

The Federal Reserve on Tuesday rejected the proposed merger of First Interstate Banc-System of Montana and Commerce Banc-Shares of Wyoming, the second merger ever rejected under the 1977 act. The agency cited First Interstate's poor lending record on the nearby Northern Cheyenne Indian Reservation.

The repercussions of the reports could alter the debate over pending bank reform legislation in Congress at a critical time, Fishbein said.

Baker plays down Syria's position on talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State James A. Baker III on Friday played down Syria's reluctance to hold talks with Israel on some issues and held an inconclusive session with Palestinian Arabs on whether they would attend a Mideast peace conference.

Syria's stand "is not something that would prohibit or ban a peace conference or bilateral discussion between Israel and her Arab neighbors about peace," Baker said as he prepared for another trip to the Middle East.

Baker spoke to reporters after other U.S. officials disclosed Syrian President Hafez Assad had told him last month in Damascus that he had strong reservations about attending the phase of the conference that would deal with water resources, the environment, an arms buildup in the region and Palestinian refugees.

He then held his second session in two days with a group of Palestinians, grappling with what Baker has described as the biggest problem he faces in trying to set up a peace conference — terms for Palestinian participation.

Baker made no statement after the 90-minute meeting. Faisal Husseini, who spoke for the Palestinian group, said: "This meeting was a serious one and we made some progress."

While Husseini said he and some of the others were leaving Washington Friday night there would be "some contacts" with the State Department on Saturday, before Baker departs for Egypt to begin a four-nation trip to the region.

"We agree with Faisal Hussein that some progress was made," a U.S. official said.

When Baker gets to Syria he may take up with President Assad whether he was willing to attend the phase of the peace conference that would deal with such issues as weapons proliferation in the Middle East and scarcity of water.

Bush vetoes bill to provide unemployment aid

WASHINGTON (NYT) — President Bush on Friday vetoed a $6.5 billion bill that would have provided as many as 20 additional weeks of unemployment benefits for 3 million people who have been out of work more than half a year. Bush said the measure would damage the economic recovery by abandoning budget discipline.

Bush's 23rd veto was accompanied by a message intended to blunt the political issue the Democrats have made out of his opposition to this bill and a similar measure that he killed in August.

He said his administration was "deeply concerned about the needs of the unemployed and their families." Bush added that if a "responsible" bill were passed that did not violate last year's budget agreement, he would sign it immediately.

But he did not seek to draw attention to his action Friday. The veto, which was threatened before Congress passed the bill last week, was announced while much of the nation's attention was concentrated on televised hearings concerning Judge Clarence Thomas' nomination to the Supreme Court. Bush had until Oct. 19 to act.

None of Bush's vetoes have been overidden. The Democrats who pushed this bill are not optimistic about overriding this one, for they would have to persuade two of the 35 Senate Republicans who opposed it last week to change their votes.

The 65-35 vote there was short of the two-thirds majority required under the Constitution to override, although the 300-118 margin in the House exceeded it comfortably.

The Senate will take an override vote next week, said Sen. George J. Mitchell, D-Maine, the majority leader, who complained that with the veto, "President Bush has once again demonstrated that he is more willing to assist those abroad than Americans here at home."

As evidence of that attitude, he cited Bush's willingness to issue emergency declarations under last year's budget act to help Kurds, Turks and Israelis.

This measure would be financed by declaring an emergency and increasing the deficit by its cost. Bush was able to kill a similar measure in August without a veto because it was drafted in a way that allowed him to sign it first and then refuse to declare the emergency. The bill he vetoed Friday already included a declaration of emergency, so he had to veto it to kill it.

The Democrats' interest in making a political issue out of unemployment was reflected not only in Mitchell's language, but also in the announcement by Rep. Vic Fazio of California, chairman of the Democratic Congressional Campaign Committee, that his organization was running radio and television advertisements in the districts of House Republicans who opposed the bill.

But Sen. Bob Dole, R-Kan., the Senate minority leader, said the veto would force the Democrats to choose between real extended benefits for the jobless "or just political benefits at the expense of unemployed Americans."

He said the Democrats could choose between two cheaper measures, with shorter periods of extended benefits, which Bush would sign. One is his own and the other is offered by Sen. Dave Durenberger, R-Minn. Both would be paid for by extending a tax law procedure for using the Internal Revenue Service to collect defaulted student loans and by auctioning off unused radio frequencies.

The Durenberger bill would cost $3.9 billion and provide as many as 15 weeks of extended benefits for workers whose regular 26 weeks have run out.

The Dole bill would cost $3.3 billion and provide as many as 10 weeks of benefits in the states with the highest levels of unemployment plus special provisions to be made in pockets of very high unemployment.

Democrats in both houses have been reluctant to move ahead with the plan of auctioning the frequencies, and broadcasters have opposed the idea.

In complaining about the veto Friday, Mitchell and other Democrats said there was about $8 billion in a federal trust fund set up to pay extended benefits of as many as 13 weeks.

Rise in retail sales masks underlying weakness in economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — New car sales pushed retail spending up 0.7 percent in September, but analysts said Friday's seemingly bright news masked underlying weakness in the U.S. economy because there was no overall pickup in consumer activity.

In another sign of sluggishness, wholesale prices edged up a tiny 0.1 percent last month, a separate government report said. That's encouraging data on inflationary pressures but also points up that the idle economy has kept a clamp on price increases.

Meanwhile, American business leaders, gathered in Hot Springs, Va., issued a downbeat assessment of the nation's future economic prospects. Executives of 100 of the nation's largest companies said they feared continuing layoffs will act as a severe drag on economic growth next year.

The mediocre retail sales report from the Commerce Department shows that consumer spending is below par for an economy trying to make a convincing comeback from the recession, analysts said.

"I don't believe the sky is falling or that this is the start of a new depression," said David Wyss of DRI-McGraw Hill. "But, on the other hand, we said it was going to be a half-speed recovery, and that's still what it looks like."

The White House had a different view of the numbers, calling them "extraordinarily good news." The economic reports came out as President Bush was vetoing an extension of benefits to the long-term unemployed.

Presidential spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said the Labor Department's report on wholesale prices "indicates that prices are staying low, that inflation is down, there's plenty of room for interest rates to be low and stay low and get low."

"It's an ideal foundation to be stimulating growth in the economy when you've got inflation low and under control," Fitzwater said.

The two reports — one showing weak retail sales and the other showing only slight inflationary pressures — could help convince the Federal Reserve to provide another round of interest rate cuts, analysts said.

But there was no immediate response from the Fed on Friday. Last month, shortly after the government reported that August sales fell to a seven-month low, the central bank slashed two key interest rates.

Private economists said September's 0.7 percent increase in retail sales, a bounce back from a steep drop in August, was misleading because it was largely due to companies buying new fleets of 1992 model automobiles.

The average consumer didn't do much buying in September, the analysts said. Excluding the auto category, retail sales rose a barely noticeable 0.1 percent in September.

Retail sales are key to a recovery because they represent one-half of consumer spending, which in turn accounts for two-thirds of the nation's economic activity.

The 0.1 percent increase in retail sales, not counting auto sales, was "a pretty miserable performance," said Robert Brusca of Nikko Securities.

Sales totaled a seasonally adjured $153.3 billion, up from $152.2 billion in August, the Commerce Department said.

Demonstrators protest gay rights veto

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Thousands of demonstrators, chanting "Recall Pete" and "We won't go away," marched Friday on the state Capitol to protest Gov. Pete Wilson's veto of a gay rights bill.

The rally was held on "National Coming Out Day," meant to encourage homosexuals to make themselves known in their communities.

"We've pledged to this Pete Wilson. We're going to stand up. We're going to speak up," said the Rev. Frieda Smith of the Sacramento Lesbian and Gay Town Council.

Demonstrators blew whistles, waved placards, blocked traffic, staged a kiss-in and threw eggs, but the protest was mostly peaceful. Police said one woman was arrested on suspicion of assaulting an officer.

Police said about 4,000 people rallied on the Capitol steps. Rally organizers said there were 10,000 to 12,000 protesters, including many who traveled from Los Angeles and San Francisco.

More than 200 police officers ringed the Capitol. Police helicopters circled overhead.

On Sept. 29, Wilson vetoed a bill that would have outlawed job discrimination based on sexual orientation, saying the measure would unduly burden employers with a flood of litigation. Homosexuals and their supporters have held almost daily protests since the veto.

On Friday, gay rights activists urged protesters to take politcal action against Wilson for what they consider a betrayal.

"The whole goal is to make sure that if Gov. Wilson seeks re-election, he will not be re-elected," said San Francisco County Supervisor Roberta Actenberg.

"Perhaps the governor should start looking for some other kind of employment," said San Francisco school trustee Tom Ammiano.

Demonstrators wore buttons with pink triangles and T-shirts with a circle and a slash over Wilson's name. Some men wore dresses, wigs, pancake makeup and mesh stockings.

A giant rainbow flag, a symbol of the gay movement, was draped over the west entrance to the Capitol.

Wilson worked in his office, undisturbed by the protest, said spokesman James Lee.

"Obviously, we're not going to dignify any of those personal attacks with a response," Lee said.

In another development related to "National Coming Out Day," Berkeley, Calif., began accepting applications Friday under a law that recognizes non-married couples — both homosexual and heterosexual — nationwide. The city pioneered a domestic partners law for city employees.

Couples wishing to register need only to fill out a registration form, sign it under oath and pay a $30 registration fee. Non-residents must register in person. The new law offers people who don't work for the city domestic partners status but doesn't guarantee them benefits.

Anti-abortion leader freed

WICHITA, Kan. (AP) — A federal judge Friday set aside an order threatening leaders of a national anti-abortion group with arrest if they return to Wichita and freed a leader jailed for violating the order.

The 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver earlier in the day lifted a requirement that the Rev. Joe Slovenec of Cleveland post a security bond to be allowed to stay in Wichita.

"Justice has been served, I understand. I'm a free man. I'm allowed to stay in the city. That's all I wanted," Slovenec said.

Slovenec was jailed Oct. 4 when he returned to Wichita to speak at an anti-abortion rally.

Slovenec, a leader of the national group Operation Rescue, helped lead protests in Wichita over the summer that led to more than 2,600 arrests.

U.S. District Judge Patrick F. Kelly threatened in August to have Slovenec and his co-defendants in a protest-related civil lawsuit arrested if they returned to Wichita.

On Monday, Kelly gave Slovenec the option of leaving, signing a peace bond that would make him responsible for damages to abortion clinics if protests kades resume or going to jail. Slovenec chose jail.

Kelly proposed the peace bond under a preliminary injunction protecting two clinics suing over the protests. Protest leaders refused to sign it and challenged the injunction.

The federal appeals court said Friday the challenge of the injunction would be held in abeyance until the U.S. Supreme Court rules in a similar case. Operation Rescue lawyers will argue Bray vs. Alexandria Women's Health Clinic before the high court Oct. 16.

Minister for Cherokee tribe to address Methodist women

By Georgia Todd Temple
Staff Writer

The Rev. Meredith K. Whitaker almost stood up the 18th annual meeting of the United Methodist Women of the Northwest Texas Conference.

Whitaker

Guest speaker for the meeting being held at Midland's First United Methodist Church, Ms. Whitaker ran into some obstacles on her trip to West Texas.

"We got on the plane, and then they came on and said there was a problem," she said. "At first they thought they were going to fix it, and then they cancelled."

She remained calm, an ability she has which she feels has been reinforced by the people with whom she works.

"Indians believe that things happen the way they are supposed to happen," Ms. Whitaker said. "I don't get too bent out of shape about things."

A United Methodist missionary, Ms. Whitaker serves as director of the Cookson Hills United Methodist Center and General Board of Global Ministries mission to the Cherokee people in Cookson Hills, Okla.

"It's a ministry to the Cherokee tribe. We have services in poverty; we do clothing, food, work with the elderly, do home repair, that kind of thing.

"We also work with education. We have some scholarships for kids in college. We do reading programs with children and workshops on all kinds of life needs — cooking, canning, gardening.

"We also work in health. The Reagan administration cut $9 million out of public health service so we have services that help offset those cuts. We do blood pressure, blood sugar tests for free, inoculations.

"We have an AA program, pre-Alateen because alcoholism is rampant in Indian communities. We have a 12-step meeting which covers AA variety of addictions. It's a small community, but we have about 40 to 45 people every Monday night. We have an extension to the mission I work at, which I am also director of, that has similar services."

"Faithful Witnesses for God" is the theme of the 18th annual meeting. Registration today begins at 10 a.m. and the meeting is set for 1:30 p.m. A dinner will follow at 5:30 p.m. in the church fellowship hall. Those attending are invited to bring children's clothes or monetary donations which will go to Cookson Hills United Methodist Center.

Ms. Whitaker said she plans to "talk about what I do and talk about what the women do and how they need to be a part of ministry in serving people even if they're not trained formally in ministry."

The daughter of a U.S. Air Force sergeant who has lived all over the world, Ms. Whitaker is a graduate of Brockport State University in Brockton, N.Y., where she received a bachelor's of science degree in physical education. After teaching high school physical education, she realized she wanted to focus her energies in another direction.

"I was helped by Christian people. I discovered at a point where I had to make some major decisions in my life that I was happier in the church than anywhere else. I was teaching school at the time, and I had to continue my education in order to be certified and just really felt God called me into mission work. I never really wanted to be a minister. I wanted to be a missionary."

She received a master's of religious education degree from Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary in South Hamilton, Mass. While in seminary, she served as a student intern working with the Kiowa and Wichita Indians in Anadarko, Okla. She became an ordained minister in April of 1984 in Lockport, N.Y.

"What's special about what I do are the people and particularly the children. It's not a style or ministry or a place; it's the people."

Ms. Whitaker served a large church in Lockport, N.Y., as the director of Christian education and did extended ministry in the Niagara County jail and on the Tuscarora Indian Reservation.

Ms. Meredith continued her education while in New York at Colgate Rochester Divinity School, working on a doctorate in church history. In January of 1985, she assumed the position of director of campus Ministry at Bacone College, an institution for higher education aimed primarily at Native Americans in Muskogee, Okla.

"I still do jail ministry. There are some people that are just comfortable with the down and out, and I am. I'm much more comfortable with addicted people and poor people than I am with wealthy because that's where God's called me to work. I think God gives you that comfort zone."

RELIGION IN BRIEF

■ Churches plan revivals

■ Cottonflat Baptist Church will hold its Fall Revival Sunday through Wednesday with the Rev. Kenneth Gene Patrick, pastor of First Baptist Church, Big Spring, as evangelist.

Patrick has participated in more than 200 revivals and evangelistic campaigns.

Music will be directed by Larry Russell, staff music evangelist, First Baptist Church, Greenville. Russell has led hundreds of revivals since 1957, is a member of the Texas Singing Men and has recorded six albums.

A get-acquainted luncheon will be served in the activity building immediately following the Sunday morning wroship service. Brisket will be provided by the church. Those attending are asked to bring a salad, vegetable or dessert.

Service times are 11 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday and 7:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday. The public is invited to attend.

■ New Jerusalem Baptist Church is holding its Fall Revival at 7:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Speakers for the revival include the Rev. A. Mills, pastor of Greater Mount Zion Baptist Church; the Rev. L. Green; the Rev. J. Brooks; the Rev. F. Strambler; and the Rev. M. Atchinson.

Conducting the nightly music will be the Rev. L.C. Rhea, pastor of the Mount Siniah Baptist Church, Odessa.

■ Missionary to give talk

Grace Evangelical Lutheran Church, 3000 W. Golf Course Road, is holding its Mission Festival 1991 on Oct. 20.

Guest speaker at the 10:30 a.m. service will be missionary Ron Astalos, who recently returned to the United States from the Lutheran Church-Mission Synod Mission in Okinawa.

Astalos and his wife, Kimiko, have served the last four years in Naha Lutheran Church, the only Japanese-speaking Lutheran congregation in Okinawa.

The public is invited to hear him speak and to attend a pot-luck dinner which follows the service. For more information call 697-3221.

■ Judge to be guest speaker

ODESSA — Judge Donald W. Price will be the speaker for the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship International meeting at 7:15 p.m. today.

The meeting will be at the Holiday Inn Centre, 6201 E. Highway 80 in Odessa.

Dinner will be served at 6:30 p.m. The dinner will cost $8 for adults and $4 for children.

Price served Artesia, N.M., as municipal judge for 12 years and then served as New Mexico State Magistrate for 20 years. He now is retired and works with Prime Time Christian Broadcasting.

His testimony is one of years of alcoholic problems and grief through the loss of a son to cancer.

For more information call Leroy Linney, 1-756-3688, or Jerry Jones, 1-570-8386.

■ Church to host garage sale

St. Mark's United Methodist Church will have a garage sale Friday and Oct. 19 in the fellowship hall, 1701 N. Main St.

Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and 8:30 a.m. to 3 p.m. Oct. 19.

Furniture, books, tools, clothes, dishes and bric-a-brac will be available.

■ Luke basis for sermons

Charley Taylor, minister of the Westside Church of Christ, is presenting a series of Sunday morning sermons this fall from the Gospel of Luke.

These sermons are focused on Jesus as seen through Luke's eyes. The series is called "Luke's Lord: Just What the Doctor Ordered!"

The worship service begins at 10 a.m.

The public is invited to attend the services and the class at 4410 W. Illinois Ave.

■ Fall Festival to be held

The Youth Department at Calvary Assembly of God will hold its Fall Festival next Saturday at 1001 S. Goode.

Hours are 6 to 8:30 p.m. Tickets for the booths will be four for $1. They may be purchased at the door. Proceeds from the Fall Festival will go to missions.

■ Ushers program scheduled

The Annual Ushers Program is set for 3 p.m. Sunday at Goodwill Baptist Church, 1508 S. Main St.

Special speaker will be the Rev. L.H. DeGrate, who conducts fund-raisers to send youth messengers to district and state conventions.

■ Church marks anniversary

White's Chapel Church of God in Christ, 1106 E. Cherry Lane, is celebrating its 31st anniversary at 3 p.m. Sunday.

Vigil continues at St. Paul's

Christians of all denominations are invited to attend a monthly prayer vigil at St. Paul United Methodist Church today.

The vigil began Friday.

The Permian Basin Prayer Vigil was started in July of 1989 and has involved 30 to 35 churches and more than 300 Christians each month. Bob Hilton, of Com Unidad Alabare, served as organizer for the past two years and has been assisted by laypersons from many different churches and fellowships.

The vigil, which was set aside as a time to pray specifically for the community of Midland, its local concerns and national problems, is held on the second weekend of each month and begins at noon that Firday and continues until 10 p.m. that Saturday.

The designated building is open round the clock between those hours for people to attend at their convenience. This is a time dedicated to prayer only.

For more information call 699-5149 or 689-7033.

Open Doors plans banquet

The International Ministry, Open Doors with Brother Andrew, has scheduled its banquet at 7 p.m. Thursday at the Odessa Hilton, 5200 E. University.

Special speaker for the banquet is Johnson Chua, Open Doors' Bible courier and Bible teacher to the Islamic nation of Malaysia. He will speak on the challenges and opportunities the church faces in countries closed to the word of God.

Brother Andrew's Open Door ministry was founded 36 years ago. Beginning with smuggling Bibles into Russia, it has expanded to include most areas of the world including China and Africa.

Reservations are required for the complimentary dinner and may be made by calling Robert and Nancy Sturges, evenings at 1-362-9509, or Doris Thompson, evenings at 1-333-5706.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! IN THE NEXT YEAR OF YOUR LIFE: Change things around. Find the job and lifestyle that suits you best. Being productive means more to you than just collecting a salary. Partnerships will enjoy highly favorable influences early in the new year. Next spring, choose allies whose talents complement your own. Older children should be encouraged to make more decisions for themselves. Resist the temptation to hover.

CELEBRITIES BORN ON THIS DATE: tenor Luciano Pavarotti, actress Susan Anton, sportscaster Tony Kubek, activist Dick Gregory.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): You can be responsible only for your own actions. Protect yourself in a ticklish situation. You will never regret being discreet! Seek expert advice on reducing a tax burden. Savings are possible.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): A child plays an important role in your life. Extra study will pay off at school or work. Dress for others, not yourself, when attending a public event. Make your family proud.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): A childhood sweetheart resurfaces. Go slow or you could have regrets later on. Tension disappears when a financial question is answered. Be willing to put in extra hours on a promising project.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Explain your objectives to a partner or loved one and he will show new understanding. Obtaining financial support depends on how convincingly you present the facts. Lay your cards on the table.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): You usually wind up ahead when you trust your own judgment. Be firm! Those who cannot resist pressure from their friends and loved ones will fare poorly. Examine your beliefs and values.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Listen to your associates now; they may have a clearer picture of what is going on. A flirtation could turn serious. Accept a special invitation. It is important to make a good impression.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Clear the air with someone who has angered you. You will feel more ambitious once you have cut certain ties with the past. Ponder a recent lesson. The financial picture continues to improve.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): A male-female relationship is in the spotlight. You find yourself attracted to someone you hardly noticed in the past. An alliance forged now has an excellent chance of lasting.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): You could be in for a unique experience this weekend. Family, old friends and romance occupy your thoughts. A decisive manner will help you attain your heart's desire.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Loved ones are responsible for a special moment that occurs this weekend. Tears of happiness come to your eyes. Rev up your motor if you want to be a community leader.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Other people are looking to you for guidance. Influence them by setting a good example. The future looks brighter than ever. Pursue romance to its logical conclusion.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Do not take the coward's way out. Be more aggressive about promoting a pet project. An effervescent attitude will help reduce stress on the home front. An old romance can be rekindled.

President Carter won't attend library dedication

ATLANTA — Former President Carter won't attend next month's dedication of the Ronald Reagan Presidential Library because he will be in Africa monitoring elections.

Carter

President Bush and four former U.S. presidents — Carter, Reagan, Gerald Ford and Richard Nixon — and their wives had been scheduled to attend the Nov. 4 opening of Reagan's library near Simi Valley, Calif. It was to be the first time all five had been together.

But Carter backed out because he is to monitor elections in Zambia on Oct. 31 and will stay in Africa through the first week of November.

"He would like very much to be there," said Carter's spokeswoman, Carrie Harmon. "It's simply that the date for the Zambian election had not been set at the time he accepted the invitation to the Reagan library."

Last year, all living presidents except Carter made the dedication of the Nixon library in Yorba Linda, Calif. He cited previous commitments.

While he was president, Reagan came to Atlanta for the dedication of the Carter library in 1986.

Reagan defeated Carter in his re-election bid in 1980.

RALEIGH, N.C. — A futuristic fiddle being road-tested by David Ragsdale of the rock band Kansas was stolen during a Sept. 27 performance during the band's show, said police Sgt. Warren L. Massey.

Two men were seen upstairs, but Showcase employees thought they were with the group because they were seen talking to band members earlier.

The instrument is worth about $3,600.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Actor Jim Varney said his alter ego, the wise-cracking Ernest P. Worrell, has toned down in recent years.

"He used to be really abrasive, a true Bubba-type who rolled his cigarettes up in his shirt sleeve," Varney said in an interview published Friday in The Tennessean.

"We have a softer, gentler know-it-all now — or, as he likes to think of himself, 'A man of vision and scopes.' "

Varney started playing the character in commercials and moved on to movies, the latest of which is "Ernest Scared Stupid."

HARARE, Zimbabwe — Britain's Queen Elizabeth II visited an open air market and her husband, Prince Philip, declined a witch doctor's offer of aphrodisiacs Friday, their second day in this African nation.

Queen Elizabeth

Amos Rusike, a tribal healer in Harare, said the prince asked him about his remedies.

"I told him this medicine gives men more power," Rusike said, referring to brown, green and yellow powders made from ground plants.

Philip smiled and said: "That's nice," but he declined a sample of the aphrodisiacs.

The royal couple is spending five days in Zimbabwe in southern Africa. The nation officially gained independence from British colonial rule in 1980. The queen is titular head of the 50-nation Commonwealth of former British overseas territories.

NEW YORK — The Dalai Lama arrived in New York for a three-week religious and cultural festival organized by one of his longtime followers, actor Richard Gere.

The 56-year-old Buddhist monk, the spiritual leader of Tibet, arrived Thursday for the International Year of Tibet Festival at Madison Square Garden.

The Dalai Lama, who fled Tibet in 1959 after an unsuccessful uprising against Chinese rule, has campaigned relentlessly for preservation of his homeland's people and culture. He was awarded the Nobel Prize for peace in 1989 for his peaceful efforts on Tibet's behalf.

"We started the Year of Tibet to focus attention on the Tibetan situation — the politics and truth of their history, this incredibly brutal invasion and occupation by the Chinese since 1949 that continues to the present," Gere said in an telephone interview.

Gere, 42, has studied Buddhism for 18 years and first met the Dalai Lama in 1980.

"His behavior is simple, his lifestyle is simple and his needs are simple," Gere said. "He only wants the best and happiness for everyone else."

HONOLULU — A lei-laden Phyllis Diller searched the shelves of a grocery store for her chili, joking that her cooking has earned her the nickname "Wizard of Ooze."

Philli Dilli Chili, based on her grandmother's recipe, has been available for three years on the mainland but is only now being introduced to Hawaii.

"Tell us a joke," cajoled a fan Thursday near a display of the chili at a Foodland store.

Lottery firms seek low profiles

AUSTIN (AP) — A newspaper reported Friday that out-of-state lottery companies are laying low in next month's Texas lottery election, but a gambling foe said the companies are last-minute converts to that strategy.

The lottery companies sought the state-run gambling game for years, including hiring several big-name lobbyists to persuade lawmakers to put the question on the Nov. 5 ballot, one key opponent said.

"They are lately converted to the idea of laying low, because they've really been involved in the thing from the beginning," said Weston Ware of the Texas Baptist Christian Life Commission.

"I can understand why they don't want to be tagged with the idea that they bought the election, but their money has been in it all along," Ware said in a telephone interview from the commission's Dallas offices.

The Dallas Morning News on Friday reported that companies involved with lottery games "say they decided to avoid a big-money campaign to deflect accusations by opponents that out-of-state businesses were trying to buy the Texas election."

Such charges surfaced in California, where one lottery company put more than $2 million into that state's election and triggered an outcry from gambling opponents. A California lottery was approved, but the vote was closer than some lottery backers had expected.

Opinion polls in Texas have shown as many as three-of-four people favoring lottery.

The Morning News reported that pro-lottery forces in Texas don't want to do anything that might upset voters before Nov. 5.

One lobbyist, speaking on the condition of anonimity, told the newspaper that the companies don't want it to appear as though they are squabbling over the spoils before the election has been won. "It's sort of like honor among thieves," said the lobbyist.

The pro-lottery forces say they don't plan to spend much before Nov. 5 unless a snag develops.

"It is probably going to pass on its own, and it's best if we lay low and leave it to the policymakers and the public," an unidentified lobbyist told the Morning News. "We don't want to give the opponents anyone to argue with publicly."

Two teens charged with murder

PORT ARTHUR (AP) — Two Nederland teen-agers were jailed Friday on charges they robbed and fatally stabbed a Lufkin mental patient, who police say may have been killed as part of a "skinhead" initiation rite.

Darrel Ray Hughes and Arron Lee Malone, both 17, were charged with capital murder Thursday and remained at the Jefferson County Jail, each in lieu of $75,000 bond, Port Arthur police Sgt. K.J. Landry said.

The body of Charles E. Sides, 36, was found in a vacant lot Monday morning. The body had more than 15 puncture wounds and part of an ear had been cut off, police said.

Hughes and Malone, who both sported closely shaved heads and military garb, told police they were members of a loosely knit "skinhead" group, a supremacist group that has been linked to violence against blacks, homosexuals and Jews.

Police said the assailants may have killed Sides, who was white, to prove they could commit acts of violence and to gain acceptance as a "skinhead." The ear may have been severed as proof of the slaying, officials said.

Sides had been staying in a Port Arthur home where residents sometimes take in transients. He was undergoing treatment for mental problems and was on medication.

The State

Drive-by shooting claims innocent victim

RICHMOND (AP) — A Missouri City teen-ager was in Fort Bend County Jail Friday charged with murder in the drive-by shooting of a 14-year-old girl while the suspected triggerman remained in juvenile custody.

Adrian Willis, 17, was being held under $100,000 bail after being charged with the Tuesday slaying of Willowridge High School student Hurlena Hamilton.

Miss Hamilton, who had missed her bus, was riding home from school with friends in a truck. A passenger in a car behind the truck fired five shots at the truck, one of which shattered the back window and struck Miss Hamilton in the back of the head, police said. She died later that night.

Investigators believe the shooting stemmed from an earlier argument between one of the suspects and one of the two boys with whom Miss Hamilton was riding. The victim did not know any of the suspects, police said.

Police say Willis was driving the car from which the shots were fired.

"As the driver, he can be implicated because he drove right up behind the truck, and they'd been following it," Police Chief Les Guillot said.

A 16-year-old boy accused of shooting at the truck remained in the custody of Fort Bend County juvenile authorities. Prosecutors said they will try to have him certified as an adult to stand trial for murder.

Companies recall canned beans, chili

DALLAS (AP) — Two food companies on Friday began recalling 16-ounce and 15-ounce cans of Wolf Brand Chili and Van Camp's beans after finding a processing problem that could lead to harmful spoilage bacteria.

Quaker Oats Co. and Stokely-Van Camp Inc. said the recall applied to five varieties of Wolf chili, sold in nine Southwestern states, and six varieties of Van Camp's beans, sold nationwide.

Cans with a product code that begins with "D" are affected. The two-line product code is stamped on the top or bottom of each can.

Customers who find that code on the can should return the beans or chili to the grocery store where it was purchased for a full refund, he said.

Court appoints trustee for Fort Worth nursing home

FORT WORTH, Texas (AP) — The court-appointed trustee of a Fort Worth nursing home under fire from the state said Friday that his investigation of the facility has turned up a group of "happy, content patients" whose "needs are being met."

"There are some technical problems that can be repaired with some retraining," said Henry Adams, a Fort Worth hospital consultant who has been appointed to manage the 145-bed Webber Nursing Center. "But they are problems of a minor nature."

Adams was appointed trustee to the Webber Nursing Center after the nursing home was placed under the court's control this week amidst allegations that the facility is guilty of unsanitary conditions, improper care and inadequate staffing.

The allegations are included in a lawsuit filed by Texas Attorney General Dan Morales, who described the alleged wrongdoing by the nursing home as "coldhearted disregard" for some of its residents.

Among accusations from Texas Department of Health investigators and Morales are several health code violations, including urine odors in four bathrooms, soiled diapers and inoperable cleaning and sanitation equipment.

But Adams, who was appointed to manage the nursing home by District Judge Joe Bruce Cunningham, said Friday he and two nurses found no major problems after extensive interviews Wednesday and Thursday with patients and staff.

"The first thing we did in the first two hours was visit with every resident to see if there was any immediate threat to their health," Adams said. "They were well hydrated, there were no residents with wet conditions or skin conditions hazardous to their health.

"What we found was a group of happy, content patients and tremendous interaction between staff and patients."

Woodie Webber, a spokesman for Texas Home for the Elderly which owns Webber Nursing Center, said in a prepared statement Friday that the nursing home was the victim of politics.

"We would suggest ... that Webber Nursing has been caught in the current, political cross fire between Gov. Ann Richards and state health department bureaucrats," Webber said in the statement.

The allegations against Webber Nursing came one week after Richards blasted the Health Department's Bureau for Long Term Care, which regulates nursing homes in Texas.

"We ... condemn the storm trooper tactics and witch-hunt mentality of health department bureaucrats, now willing to slaughter the innocent along with the unscrupulous, publicity-oriented campaign for the public's absolution and the favor of the woman who now signs their paychecks," Webber said.

Cunningham set an Oct. 18 hearing to consider Morales' request for an order banning patient neglect and forcing improvements at the facility.

Late Wednesday, Cunningham issued a temporary restraining order against the nursing home, based on a lengthy list of health and safety code violations cited by the Texas Department of Health and Morales' consumer protection division.

More families join maquiladora lawsuit

MATAMOROS, Mexico (AP) — More former maquiladora workers have joined a lawsuit that alleges they were routinely exposed to hazardous chemicals at an electronics plant in this border city, an attorney said today.

The suit against Mallory Capacitors Co. now lists more than 60 children who suffered mental and physical birth defects as a result of the chemical exposure, said Ernesto Gamez, a Brownsville attorney representing the plaintiffs.

"It would literally be millions to one that we'd have these kinds of deformities in one area without the plant," Gamez said.

The lawsuit, as originally filed in state district court in Brownsville, named more than 40 families seeking unspecified damages from the company. In the past few weeks, at least seven more families have joined the legal action, Gamez said.

"I heard about the suit on the television, and that's when I came forward to look for (the attorneys)," said Marta Marroquin, a former Mallory employee.

Ms. Marroquin said she suffered seven miscarriages while working at the Matamoros plant between 1972 and 1976.

Other women who worked at the now-defunct plant during the 1960s and 1970s also say they suffered an inordinate amount of miscarriages and stillbirths because of the chemicals.

The chemicals involved have not been identified.

Prosecutor hopes rumors in rape case disappear

BAY CITY (AP) — A special prosecutor has adjourned a grand jury investigating an alleged rape at a party attended by numerous elected Matagorda County officials to "let everybody back off a little."

"There has been so much rumor and speculation," David Weeks, the Walker County district attorney who has been named to the case as a special prosecutor, said Thursday. "We're narrowing down the investigation, but we're going to let everybody back off a little."

The case involves a 24-year-old Matagorda County probation officer who went to a going-away party for a bailiff Sept. 23. Among the two or three dozen guests at the party were the county's highest elected officials.

The woman said she was assaulted that night.

On Wednesday, the grand jury met for about two hours and talked to prosecutors and investigators.

The party, after work, was held at the offices of Bay City attorney Jerry Horowitz. The following morning, blood was found on the door to a courtroom at the courthouse, prompting rumors it was related to the assault.

Laboratory tests of the blood so far have been inconclusive and additional tests are being conducted.

The victim has told police she doesn't remember what happened, Weeks said.

"A lot of people are very concerned in this city that something is being swept under the rug," Bay City Police Chief Mike Baker said.

Weeks was called in as prosecutor after Matagorda County District Attorney Danny Shindler disqualified himself because he also attended the party and believed he might be called to testify or give a statement. Shindler said he was there only about five minutes.

Baker said none of the elected officials who were there was considered a suspect.

A&M wins $10.8 million for ocean research

COLLEGE STATION (AP) — The U.S. Minerals Management Service has awarded a $10.8 million contract to the Texas A&M University System to establish a new oceanography research program, school officials said Friday.

The program, to focus on the Gulf of Mexico, is part of a $16.2 million, three-part federal effort to reduce risks in oil and gas operations on the continental shelf along the Texas and Louisiana coasts.

Researchers will gather environmental data and a physical understanding of the dynamics of water movement on the shelf, for water depths of 30 feet to 700 feet, officials said.

"The movement of Gulf water influences the stability of structures such as oil platforms, the transport of pollutants ... and the ecosystems that may be impacted by oil and gas operations. We are seeking increased understanding of these water movements and the properties they transport," said Worth Nowlin Jr., project manager and principal investigator for the A&M portion of the project.

WAR
Against Hunger

The United Way has made a big difference in the way Midlanders take care of Midlanders. Our United Way is a campaign for the hearts, minds and lives of our community. By giving to the United Way we can fight the war against hunger -- a force that strikes Midlanders of all ages.

The United Way's 17 agencies fight these battles every day by serving meals to people who have no means of cooking for themselves, by delivering meals to senior citizens and handicapped persons, and by giving food to families whose pantries are empty.

Agencies involved in this battle include Community and Senior Services, Salvation Army and Casa de Amigos.

Victories come in all sizes, shapes and colors. With your help, talent and resources, we're going to win this war the Midland way -- The United Way.

Victim dies

Staff Report

ODESSA — A man beaten with a baseball bat during a robbery on Tuesday evening died Friday morning, police said.

Larry Alan Willsey, 44, of Odessa died about 10:52 a.m. at Medical Center Hospital, where he had been since the beating, police said. An autopsy was ordered by Justice of the Peace Julian Pressley.

Willsey was injured during the robbery of the Party House Lounge about 9:20 p.m. Tuesday. Two men entered the establishment, one armed with a short-barrel rifle, the other with a baseball bat.

One of robbers beat Willsey and Charles William Bouchard, 41, with the bat before taking an undetermined amount of money from the cash register, wallets and Willsey's car keys.

Willsey, Bouchard, another man and a woman were then forced into a back room, where a shot was fired through the door before the assailant fled in Willsey's car, police.

Bouchard was treated and released from the hospital for injuries.

One suspect was descibed as Hispanic, in his mid-20s, 5 feet 7 inches tall, 150 pounds with a dark moustache. He was wearing a ski mask and dark coveralls and armed with the rifle, possibly a .22-caliber.

The second suspect was described Hispanic, in his late teens, 5 feet 11 inches tall and 190 pounds. He was wearing a ski mask and armed with the bat.

Police are seeking the two on capital murder and aggravated robbery charges.

Man charged

An Odessa man recently arrested on cocaine charges made an initial appearance before a U.S. Magistrate Thursday, federal officials said.

Jose Enrique Mendoza has been charged with distribution of one ounce of cocaine, distribution of five ounces of cocaine, and conspiracy to possess with intent to distribute one kilogram of cocaine, documents stated.

Mendoza was arrested after selling and conspiring to sell the drug to undercover agents between April 25 and June 6, 1991, according to records.

Teen arrested

ODESSA — A 17-year-old man was arrested Thursday afternoon on a warrant for an attempted murder that occurred outside an apartment complex on the evening of Sept. 6, police said.

Paul Jason Adams of Odessa remained jailed Friday in lieu a $25,000 bond set by Justice of the Peace R.G. Hungerford, jail officials said.

A warrant for Adams was issued following an investigation into the beating and shooting of Scotty Don Swindall, 39, of Odessa, police said.

Swindall was injured outside the La Casa Bonita Apartments, 5025 N. Dixie Blvd., when he went outside his apartment to ask some rowdy people to be quiet, police said. A fight ensued and Swindall was kicked, beaten with a baseball bat and shot once in the abdomen, police said.

The victim, who was taken to the Medical Center Hospital, underwent surgery as a result of the injuries.

Two men die

Two Midland men were killed when the pickup truck they were in overturned about noon Friday at 1003 W. Scharbauer Drive, police said.

Joseph Lee Frasier, 21, of 3512 W. Michigan Ave., the driver, and Jeff Allen Thomas, 44, were pronounced dead at the scene by Justice of the Peace Keith Jobe, police said.

The pickup, a 1982 Toyota, was travelling eastbound on the inside lane of Scharbauer Drive near D Street, while an eastbound 1987 Plymouth Horizon was in the outside lane, police said.

Frasier apparently attempted to change lanes and collided with the Horizon, driven by Linda Barber, 42, police said.

The collision forced the Horizon to scrape a small embankment and the pickup to flip over and land upside down on a brick wall, police said.

The cab of the pickup was crushed and the men, apparently dead, were trapped inside, police said.

Linda Barber and Lashunda Barber, 21, a passenger, suffered minor injuries.

Frasier and Thomas were taken to Ellis Funeral Home.

Odessan treated

ODESSA — A 23-year-old man was treated and released from Medical Center Hospital Friday after having his thoat cut during a fight about 2:20 a.m. that day, Ector County Sheriff's Office officials said.

Larry Phillips was injured during a fight inside a car in West Odessa, officials said. The reason for the fight was not released and no arrest had been made by late Friday, officials said.

Brazos River acts as tie that binds

Associated Press

WACO — Baylor University's T. Lindsay Baker shares a story about how settlers along the Brazos River watched in disbelief in 1842 as a flood came from nowhere.

Under a clear, blue sky, water flooded the plains and scooped out acres of soil. "Many buffaloes, wild horses and smaller game were seen floating down the river intermixed with driftwood," wrote John Washington Lockhart, who lived at Washington-on-the-Brazos.

People were perplexed by the flood, "attributed by the knowing ones to the melting of snow near the sources of the river," wrote Lockhart. "Of course, we, in those days, knew very little of the source of the Brazos, as we had no communication with that far-off region."

People know the Brazos better these days. They even communicate with folks upstream.

A diverse group of people gathered at Baylor recently to think and talk about the Brazos — the interests it unites, the ecosystems it entwines, its history and its future.

The Department of Regional Studies invited people from across the state in the sciences, the arts and many posts in between to cultivate information and consciousness about the Brazos.

Interim Regional Studies Director Rebecca Sharpless said goals include the sharing of ecological information about the Brazos, projects focusing on social or scientific issues, and in general better public awareness about the Brazos and how it affects people.

Study traces human impact at Thoreau's Walden Pond

By William K. Stevens
New York Times writer

"Time is but the stream I go a-fishing in," Henry David Thoreau wrote in the famous account of his two-year experiment in thinking, living and studying nature at Walden Pond.

Now, taking up where Thoreau's nature studies left off and using intellectual tools unavailable in his time, a scientist at the University of Wisconsin has dipped more deeply into the stream of time at Walden than Thoreau could ever have hoped to do.

By analyzing frozen core samples of pond sediments that embody a 600-year-old ecological record, Dr. Marjorie Winkler has come up with a fascinating profile of the pond's history.

Her samples record changes that took place over the past six centuries in the pond and its environment, showing how they have continuously been altered by humans, including Thoreau himself.

By the time Thoreau took up his semi-reclusive life on Walden's shore from July 1845 to September 1847, Winkler found, people already had greatly rearranged the mixture of wild plants and trees around the pond.

They had also discharged several substances into the water, changing its chemistry and the composition of its microscopic food web.

Already far from pristine, the pond of Thoreau's day contained clay, sand and gravel from shoreline digging; charcoal from the trains that ran along its edge, and brush burned by the railroad.

Thoreau contributed by throwing burning logs from his campfires into the pond and by accidentally setting a fire near Walden Woods in 1855.

The arrival of Europeans in Massachusetts is signaled in the Walden core by a surge in ragweed pollen, an unfailing fingerprint of colonization. Ragweed is a native plant that runs riot in areas disturbed by human settlement.

And the extinction of the native chestnut trees around Walden — Thoreau wrote of gathering chestnuts on the shoreline — is sharply reflected in a disappearance of chestnut pollen in the top layers of the core.

Analysis of changing algae and plant species contained in the core showed that the pond in recent times has become more eutrophic, meaning that it contains a higher concentration of nutrients and algae than before and is therefore less clear.

Taken to its end, the trend would cause the pond to stagnate gradually, fill in with weeds and disappear over thousands of years.

The algae also show the pond to be more acid than it was, probably, Winkler said, because of acid rain.

No core samples are needed to discern some of the present-day pressures on the Walden ecosystem. Preservationists last year bought out a proposed condominium development in Walden Woods and are engaged now in a contentious negotiation to acquire the site of a second proposed development there, this time an office park.

The high-profile preservation effort includes a phenomenon leagues removed from contemplation and science: a series of fund-raising rock concerts at Madison Square Garden later this month.

Thoreau, as far as is known, was the first American naturalist to study a lake ecosystem. His main purpose at Walden, outside Concord, Mass., was to live the simple life, to strip away the trappings of the industrial society then emerging in America, and get down to the essential, irreducible realities of existence.

MOONLIGHTING!
The Midland Reporter-Telegram has several distributorships which need to be filled with responsible individuals.
OFTEN ASKED QUESTIONS:
Is it worthwhile for adults also?
Yes! Our current distributor force is already 90% adult and 10% youth. Morning newspaper routes are attractive for:
• ADULTS who have full-time jobs, yet want to supplement their income with a steady part-time job.
• MOTHERS who can't justify a small job and daycare, because as a distributor, you do not need daycare!
• COLLEGE STUDENTS needing a part-time job which will work with classes!
• SENIOR CITIZENS wanting regular exercise, added income, or just want to work with people, neighbors, and friends.
How much money can I make as a distributor?
Depending on the size of the distributorship from $300 to $700 monthly! Some make even more!
How long does it take?
The actually delivery takes 1 - 2 hours Monday - Saturday, and 2 - 3 hours on Sunday, again depending on the size of the distributorship. Also, a few hours a month are needed to collect from subscribers. Many distributors choose to handle some of this by putting envelopes in subscribers' papers. Collecting in person will be necessary though!
When do papers have to be delivered by?
6 a.m. Monday - Friday and 7 a.m. on Saturday, Sunday and holidays.
Do I ever get a day off?
The job requires a 7-day a week commitment. However, distributors do take days off by finding a friend or family member to substitute for them!
RESERVE YOUR
DISTRIBUTORSHIP NOW!
