Fulbright Farmer Attacks His Wife; Slashes Throat

Floyd L. Kelley, 58-year-old Fulbright farmer, slashed his own throat and died early Tuesday morning after attacking his wife with a cultivator iron.

Justice of the Peace Henry Hill of Bogata, returned a verdict of attempted murder and suicide, when he and Constable W. J. Corbell answered a call to the Kelley home at Fulbright about 7:30 Tuesday morning.

When Mrs. Ann "Grandma" Kelley, who made her home with her son and daughter-in-law, heard a commotion in the front bedroom of the Kelley home she went to investigate and found Mrs. Floyd Kelley unconscious on the floor and, as was later disclosed, suffering from a wound on the top of her head. The injury had apparently been inflicted by a heavy piece of iron found nearby.

Arthur Fisher was the first person to respond when 92-year-old Mrs. Kelley called for help. Attempting to revive her daughter-in-law, the elderly woman went into the kitchen for water and discovered the body of her son on the back porch. His throat had been slashed and a pocket knife was in his hand. He had been in ill health since he suffered a stroke last year.

The injured woman was carried to Red River County Hospital, and died early Thursday morning.

Floyd Kelley, born Nov. 13, 1897, was the son of the late A. W. and Sara Ann Johnson Kelley and grew up at Fulbright. The couple are survived by his mother; three children, Donald Kelley of Paris, Billy Kelley of Houston and Maxine Kelley of Dallas, a registered nurse; his two sisters, Mrs. Peter Storey of Deport, Mrs. John K. Ford of Bogata, and a brother, Hubert Kelley of Fulbright, and five grandchildren. A sister, Mrs. Etta Small of Canyon, and a brother, Lee Thompson, also survive Mrs. Kelley.

Dovie Marie Thompson, 57, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walter Thompson, was born Jan. 12, 1899 at Deport. She lived in this vicinity her entire life.

Funeral service for Kelley was held Wednesday afternoon at 4:30 and Mrs. Kelley, Thursday afternoon at 4:30 at Fulbright Baptist Church, both services conducted by Rev. C. G. Renfro of Deport, assisted by Rev. J. D. Carter of Fulbright. Burial was in Bethel Cemetery by Grant Funeral Home.

Named as pallbearers were Howarl Reaves, Bill Baker, Travis King, L. L. Stevens, Luther Rozell and Leo Ridens.

W. L. Cox and son, Phillip of Dallas, were visiting friends here Tuesday. Roger Dale, Simmons accompanied them home for a week's visit.

Little League Has Interesting Games At Humble Park

By LON JONES

In Little League games of June 14, the Green Sox ran over the Cardinals 18 to 8 and the Yankees out-scored the Cubs 18 to 12. The Green Sox whacked out 19 hits in its rout of the Cardinals to come from behind in the 4th inning. Five Green Sox men got three hits each. For the Cards B. Dixon and Waddell each had three hits. The winning pitcher was Roberts and the loser was Webb.

In the night game the Yankees scored 10 runs on only one hit in the first inning to propel them past the Cubs. Three Yankee hitters had two hits each and Kenneth Davis scored five runs, making it all the way every time he came to bat. For the Cubs, Stephen Buchanan got a single, double and triple and scored three runs to lead their hitters. The winning pitcher was Verble and the loser was Black. It was only the second win of the season for the Yankees who have split four games with the Cubs.

In games on June 19 the Cardinals beat the Yankees 10 to 6 and the Green Sox forfeited to the Cubs, although they played a practice game which the Cubs won 10 to 3.

In the afternoon affair the Yankees got 11 hits to the Cards' 7, but couldn't make them count. The winning pitcher was Russell who went all the way and the loser was Verble.

Slaughter got the most hits for the Cardinals, 2, and Matlock got 3 for the Yankees.

The Green Sox didn't have enough regulars to field a complete team and forfeited the night game to the Cubs. They played a practice game, however, with the Cubs coming out on top.

County and City Agree On Rural Fire Protection

Members of the Titus County Commissioners Court met with the Mt. Pleasant City Council Tuesday and the two groups reached an agreement on a contract for rural fire protection.

The new contract calls for the local fire department to answer calls in rural areas, with the county paying a flat $100 per month and in addition paying firemen who answer the calls. In order to protect the city's insurance rate, however, no more than seven firemen can report to rural fires at one time.

R. R. Commission Orders Increased Texas Oil Flow

Austin.—Stating there is every indication that new highs in imports will yet be established, the Railroad Commission ordered today an increase of 70,973 barrels a day in Texas crude oil production for July.

The order was based on a 16-day production pattern. The commission set permissive flow at 3,322,043 barrels daily for the month.

OFFICIALS PREPARE SOIL BANK CONTRACTS ACREAGE RESERVE

By FRED PASS In The Dallas News

In a few days soil bank contracts will be ready for farmers to sign. County ASC committee members are getting ready now the yield figures on which the payments will be based.

Farmers will have until July 20 to sign up for the acreage reserve phase of the program. (The conservation phase will not be ready before the fall.)

The acreage reserve applies only to 1956 crops of cotton, wheat, peanuts and rice. The program is purely voluntary. But if the farmer participates, there is a minimum and maximum number of acres he can put into the soil bank.

For wheat and rice, the maximum acreage will be 50 per cent of his allotment, or 50 acres, whichever is larger. (Farmers who grow 15 acres or less of wheat without an allotment cannot put those acres into the bank.)

For cotton and peanuts, the maximum acreage will be 50 per cent of the allotment, or 10 acres, whichever is larger.

The minimum acreage will be the larger of either 10 per cent of the allotment, or one acre for peanuts, two for cotton, and five for rice and wheat.

New-grower cotton allotments for 1956 will not be eligible for the soil bank. A farmer who released part of his allotment under the reapportionment plan cannot place those released acres in the bank. But the grower who acquired those released can do so. This rule applies only to the 1956 program.

The farm operator must sign the contract with the government. And if the operator is not the owner, the landowner must also sign. However, in cases where the renter pays cash rent, only he signs the agreement. The operator has until July 20

Nineteen Minutes For Profit

The average manufacturing company in America can count on only 19 minutes out of its 8-hour shift each day for profits. Only half the 19 minutes goes for dividends to owners; the other half is for reinvestment, says National Association of Manufacturers.

Nearly four hours go for materials and supplies. To pay all taxes—federal, state, local—uses up 43 minutes. To meet wages and salaries—2 hours and 19 minutes; repair and replacement, 29 minutes; research and promotion, 14½ minutes; lunch, one hour.

Capitalism's greedy, isn't it? Moscow Radio says so. So greedy, the capitalists take 19 minutes out of 480 in a working day for themselves.—Dallas News.

GE employees average annual earnings now are about $5,600, he said at a dinner of the Economic Club of New York.

Old Man Summer put in an official appearance Thursday, June 21, at 5:24 a. m. Spring temperatures did not hit the 100 degree mark but they have knocked about in the nineties.

There is tragedy in the bird world, as there is in the human race. Last week we told of a pair of Red birds nesting in a shrub at the editor's home, and how the beautiful male sang in expectation. Ink on last week's paper wasn't dry before a prowling tomcat caught the mother bird on her nest at night and destroyed the nest in the process. Her mate was around for a day or two then left. We hope there is not as much poignant grief in the bird world as man would suffer from such a catastrophe.

Probably a hundred or more times this editor has written his name on a slip and dropped it into a box as a chance to win this, that and the other. He has spent considerable money for chances on this and that—but he never won anything until last Friday when that pretty little Stevi Evans drew his name from among several hundred at the Community Public Service Co. open house that was good for a beautiful floor lamp, with indirect lighting and a three-power lamp features. We tried to convince the Mrs. that we needed the light at the newspaper office, but she had that lamp at home before you could say Jack Robinson.

Never Can Tell!

One can never tell about advertising, where it will go nor the results it will produce.

Recently a woman from Akron, Ohio, bought a copy of The Talco Times at our counter. She carried it home and there came an order to Ayres at Paris for a suit of Tuff-Nut khakis Ayres had advertised in that particular edition. A check for the suit and postage was enclosed with the letter, shown to the editor by Billy Mack Ayres.

Which also reminds us of an order a Chicago woman placed with Trout Furniture for a mattress and bed springs after reading his ad in The Talco Times.

A couple years ago four Talco women walked into Marshall's department store at Mt. Pleasant and asked to see a particular kind of dress he had advertised two weeks previous in The Talco Times. The quartette paid for and walked out with eight dresses at $8.95 each. That ad had served Marshall's well two weeks after it had appeared.

It is seldom a merchant will tell a publisher about good results from advertising, and it is

Clyde Lee Hahn Weds Dolores Doty

The Assumption Catholic Church in Franklin, La., was the scene of the nuptial Mass Friday morning, June 8, of Miss Dolores Doty and Clyde Lee Hahn. Rev. John Disch performed the single ring ceremony.

The bride, daughter of C. H. Doty, Sr., and the late Mrs. Doty, is a nurse with the Franklin unit of the State Department of Health. She is a graduate of Franklin High School and Mercy School of Nursing in New Orleans. Clyde Lee Hahn is a graduate of Talco High School and is associated with Humble Oil and Refining Co. at Grand Isle, La. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hahn of Talco. The bride and groom will make their home in Franklin.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose an original gown of ashes of roses nylon lace. The fitted bodice featured a high rounded neckline and short sleeves. Her circular skirt was ballerina length. The hat was also an original made of velvet autumn leaves. An ashes of roses orchid with cashmere bouquet buds on a white prayer book was the bride's bouquet.

The bride's only attendant was her sister, Mrs. J. E. Gullery of Thibodeaux, La. She was gown-dressed in a mint green nylon organdy dress, styled with a high neckline, buttoned waist, and a waltz length circular skirt. Her bouquet was made of white asters.

The groom's mother wore an aqua gown, navy accessories and a lavender orchid corsage.

Warren Doty of Franklin served as bestman and C. H. Doty of New Iberia, La., ushered. Both are brothers of the bride.

A reception followed the ceremony at the home of the bride. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the bridal table with silver candelabra on either side. The house was beautifully decorated with flower arrangements. Mrs. A. W. Indest, Jr., of New Orleans, cousin of the bride, served the cake. Mrs. C. H. Doty of New Iberia, poured coffee and Mrs. Guy Kauffman of Franklin served the punch. Assisting with the serving of dainty sandwiches were the bride's nieces, Maureen and Charleen Doty of New Iberia and Michael Davidson of Houma, the bride's cousin.

Out-of-town guests were Mrs. Elizabeth H. Keen of New Orleans, Miss Bertha Doty of Rayne, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Doty and family of Lake Charles, and Mrs. D. E. Moore of DeRidder, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Davidson of Houma, Mr. and Mrs. Victor Price and family of Baton Rouge, Misses Cecile Bourg and Ella and Elmire Guillot of Patterson, and Mrs. Iris Tholen and daughter of Berwick.

Alcorn Sees No Point in the World Waiting for Boom to Reach Him

Editor's note: Achin Alcorn, philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Sulphur, is talking about, if we understand his letter, international prosperity, although we may be wrong.

Dear Editor: One thing I don't understand about foreign aid—and understand, I'm in favor of it, I'm in favor of both foreign and domestic aid—is the argument that if we don't help other countries to get and stay prosperous, we can't stay that way ourselves.

In fact, I was reading just last night in a copy of a newspaper which a neighbor had wrapped some vegetables in and left on our doorstep as an example of domestic aid, where a foreign aid expert said in Washington that "we can't have world-wide prosperity as long as one segment of the world is still not prosperous."

I doubt this. Take me and the rest of the United States. As I understand it, the U. S. is at its most prosperous peak in history, people are making more money, spending more, borrowing more, owing more, than ever before, in fact, you might say prosperity is nation-wide, but you ought to see the segment of it bounded by the four sides of my farm out here. My situation seems to defy the argument you can't have nationwide prosperity as long as one segment of it hasn't got it, and I don't see why you couldn't stretch it to take in a world-wide situation too.

In fact, I have an idea if we're waiting for every single nation, and every single individual in every nation, to be prosperous before anybody can relax and enjoy prosperity, we've got a long and unrelaxed wait ahead of us.

In fact, if there's anybody in this country overflowing with prosperity and waiting for me to reach that status before he cuts loose and enjoys his, my advice is to go ahead and cut loose, don't wait on me. I've got a different system out here. It's ridden out not only prosperous times but depressions too; you can hardly tell the difference.

My advice to anybody with prosperity on his hands and bashful about what to do with it, is to forget about me and use what he's got. I have no objection to me being prosperous, but I know what it takes, it takes work, and that's a pretty high price to pay.

Yours faithfully, A. A.
