Deadline Near for '66 ASCS Program Signup

Growers were reminded that April 1 is the last day for filing applications to take part in the 1966 cotton, wheat and feed grain programs.

W. C. Harwell, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County committee, points out that only growers who participate in the program will be eligible for price support on their 1966 crops of cotton, wheat, barley, and grain sorghums. As last year, the support is made available through loans, purchses and price-support payments. Besides qualifying for price-support loans, purchases, and payments, the participating grower also earns a diversion payment for shifting part of his cotton, wheat and feed grain acreages to a conserving use.

The chairman urges farmers who are interested in taking part in this year's programs to call at the ASCS county office as soon as possible, since there are only seven working days left before the signup deadline, and signing up is a necessary first step in program participation.

As of March 22, there were approximately 150 farms that had not been signed up.

Water Project Bond Election Called for April 25th

PROPOSED SALT FORK DAM AND RESERVOIR PROJECT

This map shows the proposed dam on Salt Fork River northwest of Wellington, the holding reservoir approximately two miles north of town and the canal system joining them. Irrigated areas in the Lake vicinity are indicated, but not shown on the map is a major irrigated area south and southeast off Wellington. The lake would hold a maximum of 102 acre feet of water and back up approximately five miles west of the dam.

An election has been called for Monday, April 25 to determine a $7,000,000 bond issue proposed by the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 to finance the dam on Salt Fork River and the irrigation canals and holding reservoir that are part of the project.

The election was called by the board of directors of the water district Thursday, March 17, Dan Henard, president, announced.

The proposition to be voted on calls for bonds in the maximum amount of $7 million to mature serially over a period of 40 years and to bear 6 per cent interest per year. It calls for a tax never to exceed 25¢ per $100 valuation of taxable property as shown by the tax rolls of Collingsworth county. In other words, the valuations of the property within the district shall be the same as the valuations on the tax rolls of Collingsworth County, Henard explained.

The announcement of the election was made in general terms this week. Beginning next week, the water board will seek to answer any questions concerning the election and the dam, and anyone with questions should direct them to the water board or C-C Manager N. M. Higdon, and they will make every endeavor to answer them.

Any property owner, of either real or personal property, who pays taxes on that property and is otherwise qualified to vote, may vote in this election.

While the $7 million figure is mentioned as the maximum amount of bonds to be issued, that does not mean that amount will be issued, Cortez Barnett, district vice president pointed out.

Federal financing of part of the cost will be sought through the Economic Development Administration.

"We are still eligible for financing of 50 per cent and there are indications we might get as much as 80 per cent," said Barnett. "We can't start to build the dam without the grants."

"We had thought it might be possible to clear the litigation pending against the district, but since that has not materialized time is running out as far as our grant eligibility is concerned and it is necessary that we get this in the mill," Henard said.

The litigation referred to are suits pending in 100th district court by four property owners seeking to be excluded from the district.

"Killing time has already increased the cost of this project," Temple Slay, board secretary, told The Wellington Leader. "The finance men and engineer are sure we can do it for seven million dollars, which they thought we could do for six and three-quarters in September. The difference comes from the rise in cost of material, labor, land and interest rates."

Referring to the proposed tax, Henard stated:

"This 25 cents is an approval of the people to build the project. The thing we want to bear in mind the most is that we shall never exceed 25 cents on the $100 valuation as shown by the tax rolls of Collingsworth County.

"The fact that we are voting this bond does not mean that we will collect these taxes every year, but the man who votes needs to look at it that way."

The Water Board has given a breakdown of the $7,000,000 proposed cost of the dam.

Dam and appurtenances, etc., —$2,800,000.

Balancing reservoir, etc. — $600,000.

Canals, gates, etc. $2,000,000.

Land, easements, rights-of-way, etc.—$500,000.

Engineering, contingencies, etc.—$400,000.

Interest during construction, etc.—$560,000.

Administration, organization, legal, etc.—$140,000.

Total—$7,000,000.

Four polling places have been set for the April 25 bond election.

Voting Box 1: County courtroom, courthouse in Wellington, with John S. Coleman as presiding judge, Mrs. Harold Watkins assistant judge, Mrs. Jones Singley and Mrs. J. W. Wells clerks. Qualified voters in the North and South Wellington boxes will vote here.

Ronald Mills New Wellington Head Coach

Ronald Mills, coach of the Groom winning football team, was elected head coach of Wellington high school in a called meeting of the school board Monday night, March 21.

Groom, a class B school, has won both district and regional championships, said Supt. J. L. Harper in making the announcement of his election.

Mills is a graduate of West Texas State University and has had eight years coaching experience.

He is married and has two sons, one in the second grade and the other three years old.

His coaching duties will begin officially with Wellington high school on Sept. 1, but Supt. Harper said it was the hope of the board and administration that he can be released from his present contract and come here before the end of this term.

Ed Crowder Dies Sunday

Edwin E. Crowder, whose effective farm and community leadership was outstanding in the Southeast Panhandle, died unexpectedly about 3 p.m. Sunday, March 20. He had gone out into a field to look after some cattle at his home south of Dodson when he was stricken. After he did not return home, Mrs. Crowder went in search of him.

He had suffered from a heart ailment for more than a year. Ed Crowder was 56 years old and a life-long resident of the area he served so well.

For 15 years he had managed the Dodson Co-op Gin, which under his guidance was expanded into the Dodson Co-op Enterprises. In that same period he did an almost unbelievable work for the many parts that made up the community in which he lived—school, church, lodge and the economic life of the area.

The Co-op operated only a cotton gin when Mr. Crowder became manager. In the years that followed, with the directors, he rebuilt the gin plant, built the large grain elevator which serves a wide trade area and tops the Dodson skyline, and introduced the now-traditional annual community auction.

His leadership in the cotton industry was felt area-wide. He was deeply concerned for the future of this crop and the farmers who depend on it, and he was instrumental in introducing and promoting in his area many new or improved methods of working with it.

Mr. Crowder was president of the Dodson school board 8 years. He worked untiringly for both the Dodson and Arnett systems, and one of the last things he did was sponsor for the Co-op a trip to Lubbock for the science clubs of the two schools.

He was a member of and a leader in the South Baptist Church at Dodson and he was a member of the Dodson Masonic Lodge.

He helped to organize and was a charter member of the Collingsworth County Farmers Union, which he was serving as secretary.

Mr. Crowder also was a charter member of the Dodson Men's Club, a civic organization. He believed his town was a good place to live and he had faith in it. Consistently, through the years, he promoted it and helped to bring in new businesses.

Underlying all these activities was the concern he felt—for his family, his friends and those who lived around him.

Mr. Crowder was born Feb. 7, 1910 at Hollis and he received his education there.

Funeral services were conducted at the First Baptist Church in Hollis Wednesday at

Under Red River Compact

Water of 2 County Streams in Jeopardy

The waters of two Collingsworth County streams tagged for future development will be allocated to Oklahoma if the trial proposal of the Red River Compact is given ratification.

On top of this, water from Salt Fork in excess of the 102,000 acre feet already held in water rights by the Water District, would go to Oklahoma.

This unlooked-for development in Collingsworth County's water picture was disclosed Monday, March 21 by Dan Henard, chairman of the board of directors of the Collingsworth County Water Control and Improvement District. It is based on all the information the district has been able to get, which Henard says is meager.

Furthermore, it is underscored the precarious position of all Collingsworth waters and need for action in their development.

One of these is Cottonwood Creek, north of Wellington, which flows into Salt Fork River a short distance west of the Highway 83 bridge.

The City of Wellington has discussed the feasibility of a dam near the mouth of Cottonwood Creek to impound waters for multipurpose use.

Application for the water rights has not been made, according to Mayor Hiram Cudd.

The Water District considers it from the standpoint of additional conservation storage.

The other stream affected by the compact is Wolf Creek which rises east of Lutie, flows through the Aberdeen area and into Elm Creek at a point just above the proposed site of a dam which the water district has on its agenda for later development. Water rights have not been applied for.

Engineering studies have been made on both Cottonwood Creek and Wolf Creek.

The proposed dam on Salt Fork at Dozier Creek is protected in the compact, as is Buck Creek.

Dr. Brim Has Paper Published

A way a child sees himself is a problem teachers are investigating through utilization of the way in which the child speaks. A symposium of four teachers, Agnes B. Hatfield, University of Maryland; Joan Moyer, University of Maryland; Jean Pugamire, Utah State University; and Burl Brim, West Texas State University, was held recently to explore the subject in its finer aspects.

In "A Case for Hearing and Interpreting," Dr. Brim feels a child's behavior is the result of how he perceives himself and the world about him. He feels that the way a child perceives things today will also be the way he sees things tomorrow. Dr. Brim explores in his article how one of the most important channels through which the teacher gains clues to the way a child "sees things" is the spoken lauguage.

The symposium, "Children's Language: Cues to Identity," was published in the January 1966 edition of Childhood Education. Requests for the right to reprint Dr. Brim's article have already been sent in by many magazines and religious papers.

Dr. Brim, who grew up here, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Brim.

Home Costs Rise 50% in Ten Years

COLLEGE STATION—What's the largest single investment you'll probably ever make? For many families, it's buying a house.

Consider carefully the many factors involved in home financing—and avoid the pitfalls, suggests Mrs. Laura J. Russell, Texas A&M University area Extension specialist in housing and home furnishings, and Jack Jenkins, area Extension farm management specialist, located at Denton.

The two specialists emphasize that during the last decade, the average cost of new homes has increased about 50 percent. Higher prices account for some of the increase, but higher incomes have led to larger houses, improved materials and more and better mechanical equipment.

Research shows that enclosed space costs range from about $9 to $20 or more per square foot. Costs vary according to location, size, type and quality of house. Other cost factors are the kind and the amount of mechanical equipment, as well as such items as garages, tiled bathrooms, paved terraces, heating and cooling systems and landscaping.

Builders houses — or those constructed in large numbers at one time — cost less than custom-designed, individually - built homes. Land costs vary as much as that of the buildings. Lot value is directly proportional to the desirability of the location and the size of the building site.

Before buying a building site it's a good idea to have an architect check the adaptability of the size for the plan, excavations, retaining walls and drainage—all of which add extra expense.

Lot investments in many areas accounts for about 18 percent of the cost of the house, compared with only about 10 percent a few years ago.

Additional home financing facts for families are contained in the new Extension publication B-1034, "Know Your Home Financing," written by Mrs. Russell and Jenkins. You may obtain copies at your County Extension Service office.

Local Composers, Youths Recognized at Wellington Music Club Program

The sanctuary of the First Methodist Church was the scene of the Wellington Music Club's study on music and religion on March 15. Mrs. Mack Bush, club president, was hostess for the reception honoring the guest performers in the chapel.

Following the club's "Say It With Flowers — Musically" theme, this meeting was entitled "The Lily of the Valley."

The commentator, Mrs. Hiram Cudd, spoke on "Children's Church Music: It's Value and Technique." Enlightening information on religious musical concern of those wearing the chorister vestments was given. She mentioned many of the things a director must consider when taking children's "voices to mold not only in singing but in teaching divine worship through singing." Evaluation must depend on the music library, its appropriate listings for age groups, the appropriate placement of a given hymn to be sung in worship service, etc. Each September the pastor and children's directors share their joy in bringing in new choir members.

"The choir program of the church is an experience of spiritual growth for both director and child," Mrs. Cudd said

Under the direction of Mrs. Richard Nall and Mrs. Cudd, the Junior Choir II of First Methodist Church presented "The Song of the Lilies," "I Do Believe," "Were You There?" "Sing Hosanna," "God Is Always Near" (an Indonesian folk song), "The Beauty of God's World." Members participating were Kathy Singley, Sandra McGill, Marsha King, Leigh Nall, Jan McGill, Mary Saied and Carey Lewis.

The second phase of the program was devoted to local composers.

"Quiet Moment" by Jane Nall was presented as a double duet by Kathy, Leigh, Sandra and Karey, with Mrs. Nall at the piano.

"A Hymn" by Bill Scruggs Wells was presented as a vocal duet by Mrs. Bush and Mrs. B. M. Sims with Mrs. Wells at the piano. The text of this manuscript is a poem, copyrighted in 1867 by Newton Berryhill, a relative of Mrs. Wells. This book of poems was salvaged from Civil War fire in Mississippi and came to Texas via covered wagon.

"Circus Cuisine" by Sidney Duncan was performed by the composer on the accordian. It is his newest composition and has been entered in the 1966 National Federation of Music Clubs festival, composition division.

Presented as Musician of the Month was Jamie Larson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Larson. Jamie, a Wellington high school freshman, started in band in the fourth grade and now plays trombone in "that Skyrocket Band." He is also a member of the Stage Band. He has been a member of the All-Region Band two years, as third chair in 1964-1965 and second chair in 1965-1966. He has received a first division rating twice on his solo at the Quanah Band Festival.

Jamie was one of a trombone trio that received a first division in 1965 regional solo and ensemble contest; last summer he went to Austin for the state level contest. He is All-State Candidate in 1965-1966; also made first chair in the Greenbelt Honor Band this year. As a member of "that Skyrocket Stage Band" Jamie has shared the joy in winning first in the Doc Severinson National Stage Band Festival and third in the Brownwood Stage Band Contest this year.

For the Music Club Jamie played "Morceau Symphonique" by Alexander Guilment. Regina Ferguson was accompanist for Jamie.

The home of Mrs. D. C. Lacy will be the meeting place for the club on April 19.

At Wayland

Betty Courtney Gains More Athletic Honors

Honors have tumbled one over the other for Wellington's Betty Courtney, a freshman at Wayland College, Plainview.

A member of that school's famed Flying Queen basketball team, she was named "Queen of the Week", an honor not often given a freshman. The Queens closed their home season recently by defeating the Temple Junior College girls team 72-39, and Betty, going into the game in the third quarter scored 12 points.

Betty goes in regularly for two first team string players, both All-Americans.

This week, the Flying Queens are playing in the Women's National AAU basketball tournament in Gallup, N.M.

Runner-up of last year's event, the Queens will seek to unseat the Nashville, Tenn., Business College team. Twenty-four teams are entered.

The tournament opened Tuesday, but both the Queens and Nashville drew byes in the first round.

At mid-month, the Queens took top honors in the Look Magazine tournament in Des Moines, Iowa. The Wayland girls won 42-36 over the Look Magazine team then defeated Commercial Extension School of Commerce 49-42 in the finals.

The basketball season was not over when she was named a member of the Wayland College tennis team. She is a former Wellington high school, district and bi-district winner.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Courtney.

"Sam Houston's Texas" Reviewed for 1954 Club Members on Texas Day

In observance of Texas Day, members of the 1954 Study Club opened their meeting with the Pledge to the Texas Flag at their regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Sam Adams on March 17.

Mrs. L. B. Bratten introduced Mrs. Henry Vaughan, who reviewed the book "Sam Houston's Texas" by Sue Flanagan.

Here are excerpts from her talk: The world has many historic highways, but the Old Spanish Trail which extends from Florida to California is inlaid with 400 years of rich tradition and thrilling history. It is the connecting link between the Spain of the past and the America of the future.

This transcontinental route is more than a mere streak of cement; it is more than a memorial to the heroes of a past; it is an enduring highway of friendship, joining together for all time the shores of two great oceans. It has more than one third of its length in Texas. This ocean-to-ocean highway enters Texas at Orange, passing Beaumont and reaches into Houston, and the cosmopolitan city of San Antonio, and on through the sunset gates of El Paso.

Over it marched the heroes of Gonzales, who fired the first shot for Texas independence, and over it went to their death the martyrs of the Alamo. Ovit journeyed Sam Houston and his compatriots to win our freedom on the field of San Jacinto. Sam Houston's phraseology was as modern as manned spacecraft. He warned against "socialism" in early 1850. Houston spent 31 years in Texas. One must admit he made his distinctive mark on Texas, and possibly no other man has ever had such opportunities for leadership. During 70 turbulent years he was twice a President, twice a Congressman, a Governor of two states, a general and a Senator.

On December 2, 1832, he entered Texas 25 miles northwest of Clarksville. His passport read: "General Sam Houston, Citizen of the United States, 38 years old." He had less than one year of formal education, but read widely, and even taught school. He spent three years with the Indians. He read law and was admitted to the bar in only six months, and was elected Governor of Tennessee in 1827. In 1833, he wrote to President Jackson:

"I may make Texas my abiding place." He was made Commander-in-Chief of troops at Nacogdoches.

He saw five pressing needs: Military unity, United States aid in money and men, open sea lanes, government reorganization, and Indian assistance or neutrality. It was now April 17, the day of decision, Fight or Flee. One path led to safety in the United States and the other to sure battle at Harrisburg. He is credited with the order "columns right" that led to San Jacinto and victory.

In his farewell speech to his soldiers before going to New Orleans for medical treatment of his wounds, he closed with the words, "It will be fame enough to say, 'I was a member of the army of San Jacinto.' " He was elected President of Texas by a giant majority.

In an address to the Senate, March 19, 1858, Sam Houston stated: "I made the State of Texas, but I did not make the people; and if they do wrong, the State still remains in all its beauty, with all its splendid and inviting prospects, with nothing on earth to surpass it in its climate, soil, and productions, all varied an delightful. It remains the same beautiful Texas."

While San Jacinto celebrates Sam Houston, the soldier, Huntsville reveals Houston the man. Here is the house in which he died, and his law office. There is also a Sam Houston Memorial Museum. His grave bears an inscription by Andrew Jackson, "The world will take care of Houston's fame."

Members attending were Mrs. Roy Jeffrey, Mrs. A. J. Fires, Mrs. Fred Cox, Mrs. Leon Hartman, Mrs. E. W. Clement, Mrs. Denzil Lacy, Mrs. Glen Taylor, Mrs. Don Lacy, Mrs. Paul Spillman, Mrs. Lynn Courtney, Mrs. R. L. Templeton, Mrs. Bill Hatch, Mrs. Sam McGill, Mrs. James Richardson, Mrs. Bratten, Mrs. Adams, and Mrs. Vaughan.

Mr. and Mrs. Ice Cummings of Littlefield spent the week end with his brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. T. C. Cummings.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Ivey and daughter, Glenda, and Miss Sherrie Faircloth of Aransas Pass visited with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hodge last week.

Mrs. Bertha DeBord returned Wednesday, March 16, from a visit with her sister, Mrs. Bula Hill, and her brother, Orton Jeffers, both of Electra.

Librarians Go to Conference

A Wellington quartet attended the first Texas Governor's Conference on Libraries in Austin Wednesday, March 23, when representatives from all through the state met to discuss problems and progress of libraries.

These were Mrs. R. H. Isbell, county librarian; Mrs. Ben Ratliff, Wellington school librarian; Mrs. John Coleman, recently appointed chairman of the Friends of the Library Club of the county; and Mrs. A. M. Saunders. Invitations were extended by the governor to a number of other county residents who were unable to attend.

Governor John Connally delivered the keynote message, "Library Excellence — Today's Necessity."

The program was held in the Austin municipal auditorium. Discussion centered around "What Are Our Problems?" and "What Can We Do?" A reception followed the day-long program.

Mrs. Isbell, Mrs. Ratliff and Mrs. Saunders remained for the workshop of the Texas Library Association to be held Thursday.

Wellington HDC Plans Meeting

The Wellington Home Demonstration Club met with Mrs. Cecil Masten last week, when dates were set for the March and April meetings.

Mrs. J. W. Tatum and Mrs. J. G. Gardner were selected as the next hostesses.

Miss Loleta Kees, home demonstration agent, discussed kitchen improvement.

Those present were Mrs. W. A. Morrow, Mrs. Tatum, Mrs. J. A. Lowe, Mrs. Gardner, Mrs. Masten and Miss Kees.

Mr. and Mrs. King Bowen and sons, Dwight and Jerry, visited with their daughter and her family, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Ford, Maxie and Shaynon in Guymon, Okla., last Sunday.

Visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Thompson over the week end were their daughter, Sammie Lou, and Kenneth Davis of Dallas. Sammie Lou is a student at Texas Woman's University in Denton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Sanford and daughter, Nancy, went to Roaring Springs Sunday where they met their son, Bob, for a picnic. Bob is a student at Texas Tech.

Mrs. Bartlett Speaks at Club

A book familiar to everyone who has ever taught school—or gone to school—was reviewed for members of the Belles Lettres Club Tuesday evening, March 14, when Mrs. Bob Hightower was hostess.

The reviewer was Mrs. Earl Lynn Bartlett, and the book, "Up the Down Staircase" by Bel Kaufman, a best selling novel of a few seasons ago.

Miss Kaufman drew on her 15 years of teaching experience in the New York City public high schools, Mrs. Bartlett told the group. The speaker then carried her audience, through the eyes of Sylvia Barrett, whose dream of the teaching profession was a far cry from the harsh realities she encountered at Calvin Coolidge High School.

Nothing in her training had prepared her for the shabby classroom, the endless administrative detail and the students who greeted her, "Hi, Teach."

The story is told in flashbacks, through memos, letters, and most meaningfully, the children's own compositions and notes to their teacher.

A teacher by profession, Mrs. Bartlett has been on the faculties of both city and small town schools, and could, by her vivid descriptions, carry her audience with her as Sylvia Barrett attempts to go up the staircase when everyone is coming down.

Mrs. L. M. Bartlett was the program chairman and Mrs. Coy Vaughn presided at the business session.

Those attending were Mrs. E. F. Bartlett, Mrs. A. B. Clark, Mrs. F. A. Hatch, Mrs. S. B. Owen, Mrs. Dick Richards, Mrs. L. M. Bartlett, Mrs. Howard Riggs, Mrs. Hurshel Tyler, Mrs. Joe Thompson, Mrs. Vaughan, Mrs. J. W. White, Mrs. Earl Lynn Bartlett and the hostess, Mrs. Hightower.

Most that is known of early tea drinking comes from paintings of the period, which show tea being drunk both from the cups and their plates, Mrs. Wells told the group.

Key to Good Storage Told

Inadequate storage seems to be the big problem for many homemakers, Miss Loleta Kees told members of county home demonstration clubs in a session Monday, March 21.

"Families own so many different things of varied shapes and sizes, that finding storage space where you can conveniently get to them and easily put them away is sometimes difficult," she said.

Slides used in the session illustrated principles of good storage which can be used by anyone to improve their storage space. The ideas were easy and inexpensive to put to use, it was pointed out, and they can be adapted to a variety of storage problems.

Each family's storage problems and the solutions will differ from those of any other family, but these six principles can serve as a guide, said Miss Kees:

1. Store things near the point of first use.
2. Store things at convenient heights.
3. Store together things that are used together.
4. Store things where they are easily seen.
5. Store things where they are easily reached.
6. Build to fit storage needs and keep storage flexible.

In Congress

Hearings Under Way on Community TV

WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special) — Congressman Walter Rogers said Saturday the future development pattern of American television service may well be determined in hearings beginning Tuesday before the House Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, of which Congressman Rogers is ranking majority member.

The Committee will receive testimony on two bills — one introduced by Congressman Rogers to prohibit the Federal Communications Commission from controlling or regulating the reception of broadcast signals. The other bill, supported by the Federal Communications Commission, would grant FCC regulatory jurisdiction of all community antenna television systems.

Congressman Rogers said the FCC-supported legislation would in effect "expand FCC jurisdiction to cover the reception of signals broadcast into the airwaves and received by anyone, and could permit a Federal bureau to dictate what a person can receive."

The Congressman added, "The exercise of control over broadcast reception by a Government agency borders closely on censorship and could measurably damage broadcasting."

Congressman Rogers will also participate this week in another series of meetings in which U.S. policy for the future is being debated. He will attend meetings Thursday and Friday of the Public Land Law Review Commission, a 19-member body established by Act of Congress to review laws and policies affecting the millions of acres of Federal public lands and to make recommendations to the Congress.

Representatives of governors of the States will attend the Land Law Review Commission sessions as objectives of the studies and proposed areas of the studies are formulated.

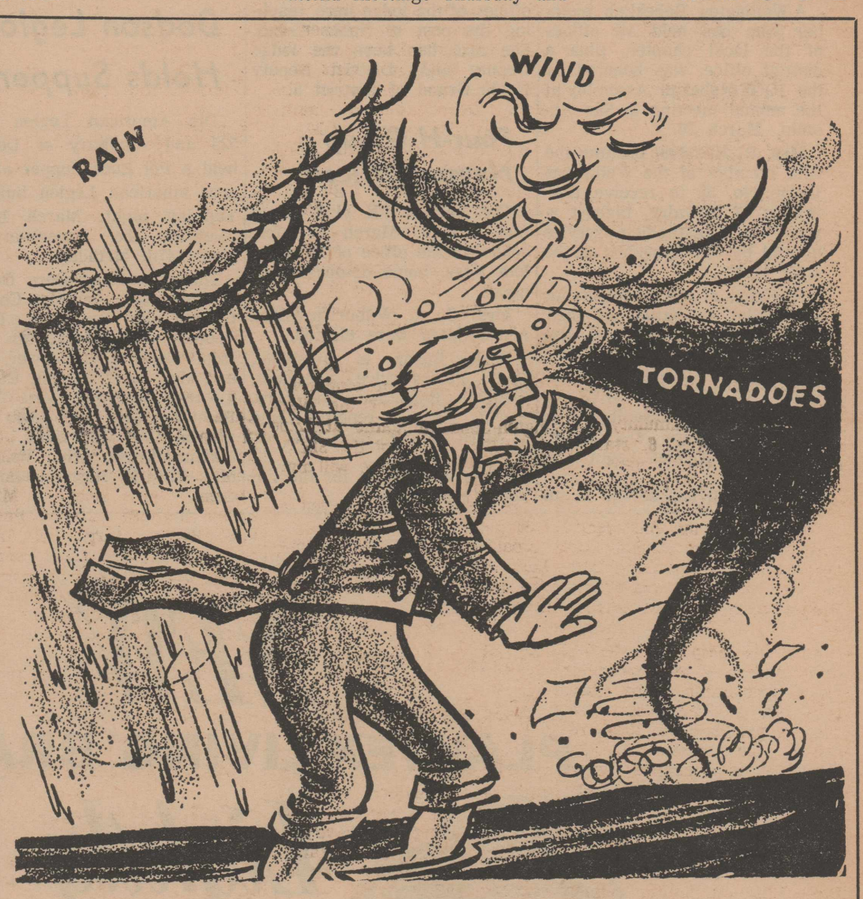

Congressman Rogers is one of six members from the House of Representatives who was named to serve on the body.

The recommendations to be made by the Commission will affect the approximately 354 million acres of public lands outside of Alaska being administered by Government agencies. In addition, the Commission's study will concern itself with the 365 million acres of public land in Alaska.

Miss Vickie Mayhugh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Mayhugh, has graduated from Amarillo Beauty College and returned to Wellington to work.

Dickie Moore of Pampa spent this past week with his grandmother, Mrs. Leslie Moore.

The Wellington high school track team will participate in the Perryton Sports Festival Saturday, March, 26, according to Coach Don Beck.

This is one of the tougher events of the Panhandle.

"We will run against some teams we have not met so far, and we hope to rank in the top three or four. If we do we'll do real well," Coach Beck said.

This will be a two-division meet, with AAAA and AAA schools in one division and AA, A and B schools in the other.

Beck had praise for his men. "I feel like the kids have done a remarkable job. They were second in one meet, first in the other two and all have been extremely tough meets," he said.

"As far as the district meet is concerned, we can win only if our kids perform their very best, because Memphis and Canadian are very strong."

Collingsworthh Is Face to Face With a Day Crucial to its Future

The election on the proposed dam on Salt Fork River has been called by the Water Board for Monday, April 25. Beyond all doubt, this is one of the crucial days of Collingsworth history. It could well be that the results will spell out the future of the area.

The information released by the Water Board this week is general in nature and covers the election in a broad sense. It was not intended to answer all the questions. That will be done in the next five weeks.

It is the Water Board's intention to publicize by printed word, in meetings and by personal contact, every facet of the election and the water development project it will authorize. The members of the water board want each individual to know how the dam will affect him personally, just as they want the voters to know the effect it is certain to have on the county and its economy.

The proposed financing will be covered fully. It is not the Board's intent to hold back any information pertaining to the election and the Salt Fork Dam. They will put the facts before the public.

But that is only half of it. The people of Collingsworth will have to take hold of these facts, understand them, consider them, and then they will have to vote as their minds and consciences tell them is right.

BABSON'S POINT OF VIEW:

BRITISH ELECTIONS AND THE POUND

By Roger W. Babson

Prime Minister Wilson of England has been staggering from vote to vote in Parliament on the thinnest of margins. Success by Labor in recent by-elections has encouraged him to call for general voting on March 31. Contacts say there is an excellent chance that Mr. Wilson's Labor party will be returned to power by a fairly comfortable edge. He will then not have to fear being thrown out of office every time he asks for support from the House of Commons.

Heart and Core

However, there is grave doubt in financial London that—even with a strong majority — Mr. Wilson will be able to pull England out of the economic swamp into which it has fallen. The whole Free World is chasing after the rainbow of inflation. Among the front runners in Europe is England. We fear that her people have been enjoying a standard of living far beyond their financial means. With smaller resources than some other nations, and heavily dependent on foreign raw baterials, the "tight little isle" may find that the piper's bill may be presented early.

Signs of defeatism are seen in recent political developments. The Labor government has moved to pull back from once-vaunted naval bases in the East. The decision to buy military superplanes from the U.S.—rather than to expand Her Majesty's air arm — is the clearest signal of all that John Bull is willing to become more and more a protectorate of Uncle Sam. No appeals to glory can persuade a tightening of belts. This seems to be the heart and core of the drift in England . . . both political and economic.

On Borrowed Time

Last year the pound was saved from devaluation by massive financial help from the Free World, especially the U.S. Foreign money speculators — then called the "Gnomes of Zurich" — were beaten back. But the feeling is now growing in responsible money circles, both here and abroad, that the pound will be in deep trouble again during the months ahead. It is openly said that the present $2.80 parity of the pound with the dollar is now on borrowed time.

Fact is that Great Britain has been and still is enjoying a boom at home. Prices and wages have been climbing. Mr. Wilson had to sit hard on labor recently to avoid a crippling rail strike. The government even had to invoke fines against both unions and management to dampen inflation trends.

Such high good times might be all right . . . if it were not for the fact that England must export heavily to pay for needed raw materials. Anything that raises the prices of British goods makes it more difficult for England to sell in foreign markets and brings closer the day of reckoning.

Burden to Fall on U.S.

When the current wave of trouble for the pound started in 1964, the government moved to check imports by placing a 10% tariff on them. Surprisingly, this does not seem to have caused any big slowdown in consumption. Evidently things have been too prosperous.

Trade figures for January were disturbing, with imports running $100 million ahead of exports. Many more months like this and no amount of financial rescue operations can save the pound.

Now moves are starting in England to raise "user taxes" . . . to dampen the consumer boom. At the same time, spokesmen are warning the U.S. that if the British balance of payments does not improve by the end of 1966, England will have to cut back on her foreign aid and defense spending. Since chances of a large payments gain by the British are small, it is becoming apparent that the U.S. may have to bear the burden of defense and aid cuts.

Fading Hope

At the same moment, the Labor party is saying very little about the pound. Every effort is directed at keeping inflation from bursting its bounds before the elections. Financial circles in London, however, know the problem will not be cured by wage and price reins. Greater productive efficiency, not higher tariffs on imports, may be needed to do the job. Hope is fast fading that production can be expanded and exports increased in time to save the pound.

But the winners on March 31 will find the conundrum right on their doorstep. And this time it will not be easy to brush under the rug.

COST OF FIRES

The dollar value of property damaged or destroyed by fire in the United States rose from $78 million in 1875 to almost $1.37 billion in 1964.

"Don't be caught dead sitting on your seat belt." With those words as a rallying cry, America's 11,000 linen-supply driver salesmen will be helping save lives while they ply their truck routes this Spring.

According to the National Safety Council, you are at least 35% safer when you drive "buckled up" than you are with no seat belt to keep you from slamming into the windshield in an emergency. Although all new cars now are sold with seat belts, many drivers still resist using them.

"It's a fact," says Samuel B. Shapiro, executive director of the Linen Supply Association of America, "that probably five thousand people died last year who didn't have to. The National Safety Council says that's how many lives might have been saved out of the 30,000 who died in automobile accidents."

If seat belts are so vital, why aren't more people using them?

"We think people will use them more if they're reminded often enough," said Shapiro. That's where the 11,000 trucks of the 1,381 member companies of the association come in. Many of the Linen Supply trucks, which have helped other public service campaigns in the past, will be seen everywhere with their new safety signs bearing the reminder to millions of automobile drivers: "Safety Is a Snap. (Buckle Up)."

DON'T BE CAUGHT DEAD SITTING ON YOUR SEAT BELT

In addition, decals bearing the words: "Don't be caught dead sitting on your seat belt" will be distributed free by many member companies.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

I see where three Job Corpsmen in a Texas camp got accused by the police of burglarizing a citizen's home the other day.

In fact, the officers got so brutal about this matter that they made the boys give back part of the loot before turning them loose without bond.

My all-heart neighbor is glad these laddies are under a federal wing, so they won't have to go to jail just because they flunked a field test in burglary job training.

Everybody says we have got air pollution and water pollution and scenery pollution in the U.S., and some claim our modern literature and movies are causing thought pollution.

My detergent-minded neighbor is happy to note that we're busy working on air and water purifiers and planting shrubs around some scenery sores.

And he thinks it would be a good idea to put purifiers on the minds of some of our writers. Or else plant beautiful flowers around them. Maybe lilies.

It has been said in a public revelation that the U.S. is going to win the moon race by putting somebody on same befor the Russians do.

My non-moonstruck neighbor says personally he could live with it if the Reds do get to the moon first. In fact, he sort of wishes they would all go there or farther.

Says anyway we need to find contests we can get into with the Russians which will be cheaper on people than this moon race, or a race to see who can go broke first. Maybe something like a tax-cutting race.

My safety bent neighbor notes that the auto makers are falling all over themselves to put more safety features on their products.

And Congress is getting set to legislate up great gobs of highway safety to undermine the hospital and cemetery enterprises, and make the country safe for insurance companies.

He reckons the time is coming when a man can slam his safety-engineered and lawfully jiggered car into a 10-ton truck and come out of the encounter healthier than before.

Representatives from 73 Texas Federal Land Bank Associations will attend the meeting. Mr. Plested will tell about the plans for the 50th Anniversary Year of the Federal Land Bank System—to begin with the calendar year 1967. A nationwide series of events will highlight the anniversary observance, including a nationwide open house sponsored by the 728 Federal Land Bank Associations in the United States.

Hal Weatherford, president of the Federal Land Bank of Houston, will report on the business activities of the bank during the past year.

Dr. Charles W. Jarvis, well-known inspirational speaker, is the featured speaker at the banquet Friday night.

Rayburn L. Smith is manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of Shamrock, which serves Wheeler and Collingsworth counties. The office is located at 111 N. Main in Shamrock and 911 West Avenue in Wellington.

Goose Crop Means Cash to Eagle Lake

AUSTIN.—The story of the coastal plains city that capitalized money wise on a major wildlife restoration project is told in a recent issue of Texas Game and Fish Magazine.

"Goose Hunting Capital of the World" is the boastful appraisal of Eagle Lake, county seat of Colorado County, which actually is only one of several towns benefitting commercially by the leasing of rice lands to hunters.

While the local residents thrive on the unique managed wild goose harvest, hunters from distant areas enjoy the sport. Some come from as far away as Chicago and Minneapolis.

Just about everybody shares in the bonanza centering about leasing of the rice fields to guides who then sub-lease parts of the land or parcel out hunting rights on a daily basis.

Typically, one family has installed assembly line techniques to its goose picking shop and on one opening day processed more than 400 geese at 50 cents per goose.

A COUPLE OF QUEENS—Deborah Bryant, Miss America of 1966, shared her crown with Lori Wagner, 5, of Milwaukee, who is the March of Dimes national poster child, when their paths crossed in New York.

Aoudads Due Dye Hip Hue

SAN ANGELO. — Biologist Phil Evans, stationed at Canyon for the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, hopes to mark aoudad sheep this year with red dye capsules. The non-penetrating pellets are fired from a special-made CO2 rifle manipulated in a light helicopter.

The success of the program depends on excellent visibility and good marksmanship at targets galloping over very rough terrain.

Aoudad sheep, also known as Barbary sheep, originated in North Africa and were introduced in Texas via New Mexico with the release of 44 head in 1957. They apparently have been thriving in the state's "Little Grand Canyon area" in the Palo Duro Canyon and for the last three falls controlled hunts have been authorized.

Seventy permits were issued last fall. Sixteen aoudads were bagged mainy by trophy hunters. One large rack has been nominated for an international rating.

If a sufficient number of sheep can be marked with the brilliant dye, information on herd movement and total aoudad sheep numbers can be determined.

Only one state in the U.S., Washington, has been named for a President.

Weed Control Makes Good Pastures Better

COLLEGE STATION—Weeds compete with pasture and meadow plants for moisture, plant nutrients, light and space. They often reduce yields by half, says E. M. Trew, extension pasture specialist.

Weed control is necessary for top returns from productive pastures and meadows, he adds, but may not prove profitable where yields are low.

The specialist points out that weeds are best controlled thru preventive measures. Practices which encourage dense, vigorous stands of grass are the best preventive measures and include thorough seedbed preparation, using adapted plants, planting the right amount of high quality seed by the best known method at the proper time, using adequate fertilization and proper grazing and forage use.

Both mechanical and chemical weed control methods are outlined in a recent Texas Agricultural Extension Service publication, L-476, "Weed Control in Cultivated Pastures and Meadows." Trew and John A. Long are the authors. Copies are available from the offices of local county agents or by mail from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station, Texas.

In connection with weed control, Trew says that rotary hoes do an excellent job of controlling seedling grass and weeds in new plantings of Coastal and Midland Bermuda grass. Killing the weeds when they are small will conserve moisture for use by the grass, he says.

If new plantings of Coastal and Midland are grazed before a complete cover or stand is obtained, it can mean that two years instead of one will be required to establish a good stand. This, he adds, is costly and multiplies the weed problem.

Food Packaging Is Big Business

Food packaging is big business, and it is expected to experience even greater growth in the future.

Although it is difficult to predict exactly what form packaging will take in the future, some influencing factors, according to Mrs. Gwen Clyatt of Texas A&M Extension consumer marketing department, are expected to be the greater use of pressurized (aerosol) cans; greater use of squeeze tubes; plastic bags which can be dropped into boiling water to heat the food within the bag, the use of plastics rather than metal in cans; "no stick" enamel lined cans for luncheon meats, and fully packaged produce and meat departments in many retail stores.

LOOKING AHEAD

OUR VIETNIK OBJECTORS

As 25,000 geneuinely patriotic demonstrators, anti-Communist almost to a man, marched in New York last month, and a similar number of Vietniks marched in Washington, the Southeast Asian Communists celebrated the occasion by releasing a couple of American soldiers captured two years ago.

These men are reported to have said in interviews (later denied) that they were anxious to return to the United States so as to help explain the futility of the Vietnam conflict and persuade their fellow Americans to press the U.S. government to pull out of South Vietnam.

The immediate reaction around the country was that these two soldiers had endured the kind of brainwashing that American prisoners received in Korea.

Perhaps few Americans noticed, however, that the released soldiers were saying only the same things that our Vietnik peaceniks on these shores were saying.

Some of their ideas, indeed, were being loudly expressed by prominent U.S. senators and other celebrated leftists.

We were waiting for responsible commentators to remark that surely most of our peacenik demonstrators had been brainwashed. There was something about room for dissent and the effect of world opinion but nothing at all about any overt acts of patriotism on the part of the demonstrators.

The sponsoring organizations out in Berkeley wanted the stop-the-war demonstrations to seem pacifist rather than pro-Viet Cong. So did the North Vietnamese, who had provided as much advise and strategy as possible.

A handful of South Vietnamese students has been touring American campuses, only to find that explaining the viewpoint of Saigon toward Hanoi was not easy on many campuses.

At the University of California at Berekeley, where it is said that free speech originated, the delegation was put off repeatedly.

It was to be expected that Young Americans for Freedom and other groups would attempt to present counter tactics. The YAF sponsored debates, and programs of blood donations, mailing cards and gifts, and sending petitions. All over the nation, the American public was showing that it was fed up with all the foolishness of draft-card burnings, and other treasonous activities. Such developments will not convert the native Reds, of course, but will do much to encourage any American leadership which appears irresolute.

The potlitical effects of our apparent confusion are undeniable. President Johnson reads the polls and finds most of us with him, but Hanoi watches the polls, too.

They find encouragement in suicides and peace proposals, believing that their war is a "people's war" and that the American people will force a change in U.S. policy.

They see us arguing about bombing Hanoi and blockad-Haiphong. How can we do the latter, they think, as long as we let Canada ship wheat?

The result of our confusion is that Hanoi is confused also, and misled as to our purposes.

Does not the Americans for Democratic Action virtually declare war on Mr. Johnson for bombing the Viet Cong? Do not certain professors, ADA members and otherwise, bitterly assail U.S. foreign policy?

There has been some aggressive counteraction taken against the dissension of "a small but vociferous group" that snipes at American efforts in South Vietnam. This group of COMPETENT scholars has published an open letter asserting the facts overlooked by the Vietniks and placing the finger on North Vietnam for its Communist aggression in the South.

David Lawrence has referred to the treasonous aspects of Communist sympathizers in this country who, in the words of the Constitution, "are found "adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort."

Misguided persons there are, doubtless, who have joined causes they are unfamiliar with or who join demonstrators without checking to find out what is back of the excitement. The Congress, he believes, must serve the nation by defining Communist activities and describing treasonous relationships.

He favors full disclosure of subversive movements inside this country that are financed by foreign governments. Lacking Supreme Court backing of the intent of Congress to have Communist Party members register, the nation should explore other ways to protest its sovereignty and its people within.

Collegians Greet Spring at Home

Many of the college and university students of Wellington flocked into town this week end to spend the first day of spring with their friends and relatives. Some of these students were:

From Texas Tech, Lubbock, Bill Tyler, Vickie Anderson—visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cummings—Karen Richardson, Gail Henard, Donna Allred, Mark Fires and Bryan Hatch.

Southwestern State College, Weatherford, Okla., Randy Wooldridge and Rommis Forbis.

Richard Mauldin of Okla. State at Stillwater , visited in the home of his parents this weekend, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Mauldin.

Lubbock Christian College, Gary White and Freddie Peters.

West Texas State University, Canyon, Raymond Horton, Jr., Charles Floyd and Herman Childress.

Other students here were Anna Kay Kelso of Abilene Christian College and Sammie Lou Thompson of Texas Women's University in Denton.

Many of the students have made plans to return here during their spring vacation which will be some time in April.

Exotics Raid Anglers Bait

TYLER.—Notice to Mr. and Mrs. Gray Francolin and family. Your purpose in being propagated in Texas is to provide some upland game shooting for the natives. And not—repeat not—to harass fishermen!

The admonishment comes from Wildlife Biologist Joe B. Davidson. He was checking the exotic game birds' status in McCulloch county and encountered two Colorado River fishermen who complained they returned to their camp to find the two gray francolins feasting on their red worm bait. The biologist added that, as would be expected, the foraging francolins seem to be doing very well indeed.

New Residents Must Buy New Vehicle Tags

AUSTIN—Most new residents of Texas are required to buy new vehicle registration plates for their automobiles as soon as they establish residence in Texas. The same is true of those who accept gainful employment in the state.

Actually, Texas observes a reciprocal passenger car registration agreement with all other states. Fourteen states permit non-residents to obtain new license plates at varying periods after they establish residence or obtain gainful employment. All other states demand immediate purchase of new plates and—in observance of the reciprocal agreement—so does Texas.

R. W. Townsley, director of the Texas Highway Department, Motor Vehicle law enforcement, has reminded all law enforcement agencies in the state of the reciprocal licensing agreements.

"Enforcement of out of state license plate agreements is very important to law enforcement since a current license plate, in addition to providing revenue to build and maintain roads, serves to identify the vehicle with its owner," said Townsley.

He pointed out that varying "grace periods" are allowed to new residents moving to Texas from these states:

30 days — Alabama, Colorado, Georgia, Mississippi, Ohio, Tennessee, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

60 days — Virginia and Wyoming.

Six months — Connecticut and Minnesota.

On the next Dec. 31 — California and Kansas.

New residents from all other states must obtain license plates as soon as they move to Texas, or as soon as they accept a job in the Lone Star State. The only exception are daily commuters from bordering states, who need not relicense their vehicles though they may work in Texas.

Non residents in Texas as visitors or students and not engaged in gainful employment may operate on Texas highways with their current home state license plates. However, such plates must be renewed prior to the non resident's home state enforcement date or Texas plates must be purchased.

Exotics May Hike Bag Take

TYLER.—Joe Davidson of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department staff theorizes future hunters may be able to harvest a bag limit of native game birds, then take a turn around a nearby field for exotics.

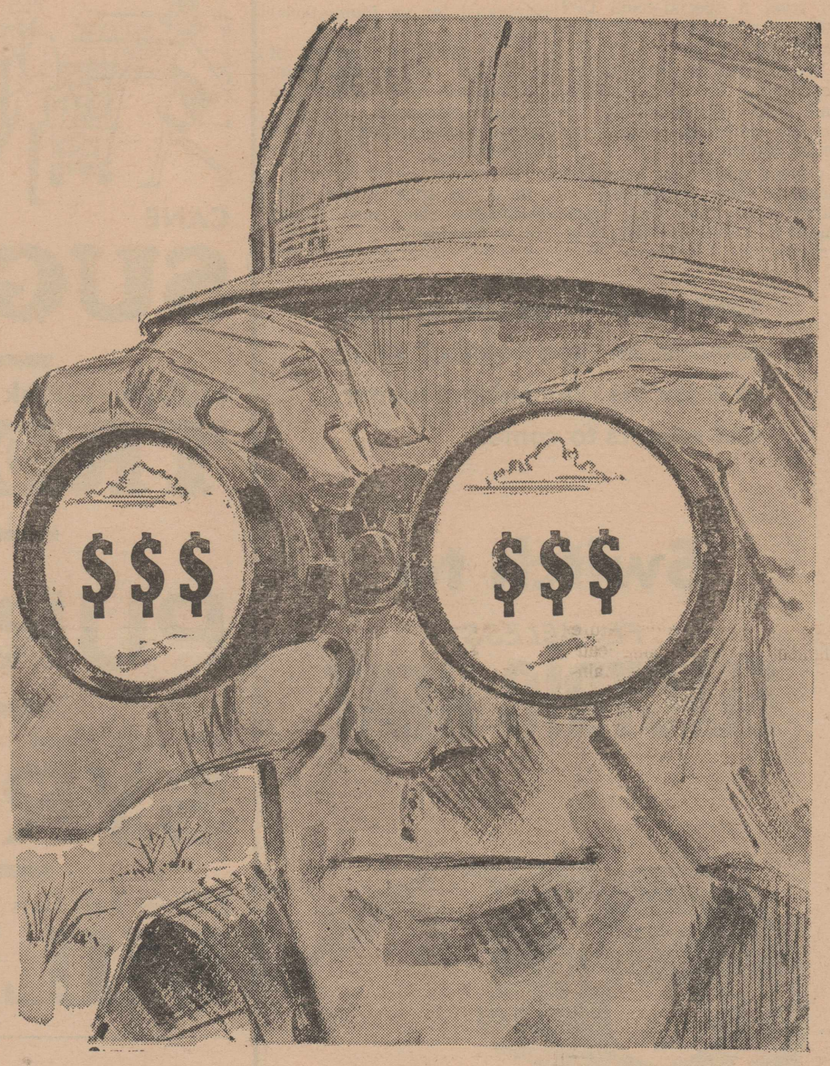

This, he explains, will depend on the ability of one or all of several exotic birds now being investigated by the Department to adapt themselves to habitat conditions in Texas.

This work is strictly experimental, says Davidson, but it's an important part of the Department's plan for the future of good hunting in the state.

Ringneck pheasant are being tried in Matagorda, Brazoria and Wharton counties, and the Afghan white-winged pheasant is due for release in Lubbock, Lynn and Gaines counties very soon.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

Water is the lifeblood of the nation — more important than oil, coal, steel, gas, copper, gold, silver and many other minerals and substances we consider so essential to our welfare. Pure air is the only element whose intrinsic value is of more immediate indispensability than water. Life dies in a matter of minutes without air and perishes in the space of a few short hours without water. These obvious facts are known and understood by practically everyone.

There are more subtle and pertinent reasons for pure air and water in our complex civilization and economy and some of them are not so easily understood. All urban life depends upon an adequate supply of water and so do most of our manufacturing processes and our present way of life depends upon these just as it does upon our ability to produce abundantly on the farms and the ranches and the garden and orchards while harvesting the untold wealth of proteins and vitamins from the sea. In all of this, water is one of the major keys to future progress.

We believe that the coming election on April 25 which calls for the passage of a $7,000,000 bond issue for the creation of a dam on Salt Fork is the most important decision the people of Collingsworth County have been called upon to make in the history of our county. We must retain and use these waters on our own lands or else they will be given to others and they will be gone forever. In the next few weeks we will try to explain more about the importance of this election. In the meantime you should try to learn as much as you possibly can about every aspect of the election. The welfare of your children and grandchildren will depend to some extent on what you decide on April 25 as well as the immediate progress and prosperity of Collingsworth County.

Some people may be surprised to learn that Oklahoma has secured a fairly reasonable claim on the waters of Wolf Creek which drains into Elm; but I was astounded to learn that the energetic and ambitious people across the border are laying claim to the waters of Cottonwood Creek which is only five miles north of Wellington and runs into Salt Fork from the south side near the bridge on Highway 83. The City could have cinched our rights to this water years ago if they had done the right thing at the right time.

Spring has arrived in a hurry and the fruit trees and other flowering plants have burst into bloom. The prairies are covered with a carpet of yellow flowers from here to Childress as well as in many parts of the Wellington area. The wheat needs rain, but the row crop farmers say that the ground is plowing in excellent shape which means there is more moisture than some of us thought.

For a few weeks we had the only sweetgum tree in Wellington. Now George Scott has one in his front yard at his new home on South Corsicana. He employed experts to landscape his grounds and in my opinion they have done a wonderful job. He won't have to spend the rest of his life digging shrubs and trees up and planting new ones. I have spent more money digging trees and plants up than I ever did in putting them out.

All that smoke Tuesday evening which gave the illusion that the entire northwestern part of Wellington was burning was nothing more than a pile of burrs on fire. The fire added by the high winds covered the western part of town in dense smoke. This is the time to be careful about grass fires. One careless flip of a match can cause thousands of dollars in damage. (Don't look at me —when April 22 arrives, it will have been a year since I lit a cigarette.)

John Coleman has returned from a trip down under on the other side of the world and he reports that New Zealand is the most beautiful country he has ever seen. Considering how many places he has been and how much he has seen that is quite a statement. Anyway you will find it most interesting to talk with him about his latest trip.

tion will be filed immediately for approval by the Economic Development Administration, an agency of the Department of Commerce in Washington, D.C.

Approval of the application will enable the district to receive funds for its operation from the EDA. The next steps will be to hire a director and other office personnel and begin work on the project.

The Shortgrass Economic Development District is made up of 12 southwest Oklahoma and southeast Panhandle counties who were designated under the old ARA program, forerunner of EDA, or which lie contiguous to two counties that were approved. Collingsworth is the only Texas county that received ARA designation.

EDA districts will be set up over the nation.

"This will be one of the first districts to get official recognition in this part of the country, and there has been talk of using it as a pilot program," Willis said.

Shortly after operation begins, a survey of the 12-county district will be made to show the industrial potential of the area. This work is done by staff members of Oklahoma State University, Stillwater, and the University of Oklahoma, Norman.

of the Compact document from Congressman Walter Rogers.

The Red River Compact, upon final approval, will allocate the waters of that river and all its tributaries in the states through which it flows—Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana. Each state is represented by a commissioner and there is a federal member who acts as referee in case of tie votes, Henard has explained.

He has been in correspondence with the Texas member of the commission, R. L. McKinney, Jr., of Denison, since March 8 concerning the proposed allocation of the waters.
