Signs of spring

Spring is in full swing at the home of Niran and Polly Kellogg, 2211 Humble Ave., as tulips flaunt their blooms. Today is the first full day of spring.

FDA approves drug for AIDS treatment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government on Friday approved sale of the first drug for treatment of AIDS, a costly and potent chemical that despite serious side effects has been shown to keep people alive who otherwise would die.

Commonly known as azidothymidine, or AZT, the drug is not considered a cure for the deadly disease because it does not kill the AIDS virus. It does, however, inhibit an enzyme needed for the virus to replicate itself and therefore helps control growth of the virus.

Clinical trials last year demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Food and Drug Administration that AZT prolongs life for AIDS sufferers. The death rate for people receiving placebos was about 16 times higher than the people receiving AZT.

Those results prompted the FDA to end the trial early so all patients participating in the test could get the drug.

To be marketed under the trade name Retrovir by Burroughs Wellcome Co. of Research Triangle Park, N.C., the drug — taken in capsule form every four hours — could cost a typical patient $10,000 or more for a year's supply.

Derived from herring sperm in a complex chemical process, the drug suppresses bone marrow in many patients, thereby reducing the production of infection-fighting blood cells.

That effect is so threatening to some patients they have to be given blood transfusions to be able to stay on the drug. Less serious side effects include nausea and various gastrointestinal problems.

Iran accuses Reagan of lying about arms deal

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iranian President Ali Khamenei on Friday accused President Reagan of lying during his replies to questions about the secret shipment of U.S. arms to Iran.

Khamenei, speaking the day after Reagan held his first news conference since November when the shipments were disclosed, said Iran would publish its own account of the deal.

"In last night's news conference, Reagan, who had promised reporters not to say anything other than the truth, once again did not tell the truth and accused his colleagues," Khamenei said in a sermon during prayers at Tehran University.

"Concerned officials in the Islamic republic's government are preparing a report about the facts (of Iranian-American dealings). Then the world will know how much of what the (Tower) report and the American leaders have said is correct and how much is vicious and false," he added.

The speech was carried on the state-run Iranian television, monitored in Nicosia.

Reagan did not make new disclosures about the Iran arms case, but he acknowledged that it led to trading weapons for American hostages held by pro-Iranian Shiite Moslem extremists in Lebanon.

Iranian leaders have promised in the past to intervene with the kidnappers to free American hostages in Lebanon if the United States releases several billion dollars' worth of Iranian assets frozen in 1979.

Eight Americans are among 24 foreigners missing and believed held hostage in Lebanon.

"The American administration is still struggling with this affair and it doesn't seem that it will finish soon," said Khamenei.

"In the 500-page Tower report they have written anything they liked," Khamenei said, referring to the report issued after an investigation by a commission headed by former Senator John Tower.

Khamenei said that while the report contained "some truth," other parts of it were "largely fictional."

Senate OKs 65 mph speed limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate gave final congressional approval Friday to a new 65 mph speed limit for rural interstate highways, sending the White House an $88 billion highway and mass transit bill that President Reagan promised to veto as too costly.

The House-approved speed limit provision cleared the Senate on a 60-21 vote after Minority Leader Robert J. Dole, R-Kan., abandoned his plan to strip the highway bill of $890 million in road and bridge "demonstration projects" sought by lawmakers for their home districts.

These funds, which the White House criticized as intended for "favorite pork barrel projects" of individual legislators, are contained in a compromise highway bill which passed the House in January and the Senate in February.

Clements in favor of drug tests for teachers

By STEVE LEVINE
Reporter-Telegram Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — Gov. Bill Clements Friday said he "certainly wouldn't object" to local school districts subjecting teachers to urine tests for drug use.

Reacting as they did last year when then-Gov. Mark White made a similar comment, the state's four teacher groups called drug testing "a non-issue," damaging to teachers' morale, "wrong in its assumptions" and "probably unconstitutional."

Clements made his comments in reaction to reporters' questions about U.S. Attorney General Edwin Meese's statements on the subject. In a Mississippi speech Thursday, Meese said the Justice Department views "freedom from drugs as a valid condition of employment for schoolteachers."

The governor first said the issue "comes within the responsibility of the Texas Education Agency and the Texas Board of Education" and then said drug testing decisions should be made by local school trustees. "This is exactly the kind of decision that they individually should pass and put into effect or reject at the school board level," he said.

Asked if it was an "all right idea" with him, Clements said: "I certainly wouldn't object to it."

John Cole, president of the Texas Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, offered a counter-proposal. "I think we should drug test governors, because some of the proposals he's been coming up with lately makes me wonder what he's been smoking," Cole said.

Mike Morrow, executive director of the Association of Texas Professional Educators, said his group opposes drug testing because of the high error rate of the results and because there are no indications that drug abuse is a major problem among Texas' 210,000 teachers. "There's alot to be considered here when you're talking about an individual's stock-in-trade resting upon some test that at the current time is not a totally accurate and reliable test," Morrow said.

Charles Beard, president of the Texas State Teachers Association, called drug testing an expensive and "probably unconstitutional" way to deal with a problem that should be addressed through individual counseling of teachers suspected of drug or alcohol abuse. "We just don't think it is a very good move for government — period — to do anything like this," Beard said.

Jeri Stone, executive director of the Texas Classroom Teachers Association, said discussion of drug testing erodes teacher morale. "It's a non-issue," Ms. Stone said. "We find it extremely damaging to have the subject under discussion."

Doing good deeds all in day's work for 'Taxi Driver of Year'

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ron Cecil became the International Taxi Driver of the Year because he treats customers with kindness and care, but it didn't hurt any that he also has pulled a drowning man from the Mississippi River and made emergency medical deliveries.

It's all in a day's work for the King of Cabbies, as proclaimed by a panel of his peers at the International Taxicab Association.

"I don't want to come off as a do-gooder or an egomaniac," said Cecil, a driver for Laclede Cab Co. "I'm just a salesman. I sell myself and I sell the city of St. Louis."

Laclede spokeswoman Mary Herbst agrees that Cecil is a super salesman. But, she said, meeting him in St. Louis means much more.

"You can't believe the number of letters we get from people, especially out-of-towners, who want to thank Ron for getting their visit to St. Louis off on the right foot," said Herbst. "And pulling a drowning man out of the Mississippi River doesn't exactly fall within his job description."

Cecil, 41, received an award for the rescue in 1985, about a year after he was named "Citizen of the Month" by the St. Louis police for other work.

He once carried a severed thumb to a hospital so it could be reattached; he's carried blood and transported eyes to hospitals for transplants.

"But my main job is just to give my customers a safe ride and, knock on wood, I've succeeded so far."

Herbst said Cecil has an outstanding safety record, with no major accidents in his 12 years and nearly 800,000 miles of driving.

Town hosts shoot-'em-up bash to mark Wyatt Earp's birthday

By BOB SPRINGER

MONMOUTH, Ill. (AP) — Wyatt Earp, as much a legend of the Old West as wagon trains and Indians, was born in this western Illinois city 139 years ago. And this weekend, pardner, marks the second annual shoot-'em-up birthday bash.

The two-day celebration for city slickers and cowboys alike will feature frequent gunplay on the streets of Monmouth by actors in cowboy garb and daytime tours of Earp's birthplace — a two-story, Greek revival-style home.

Earp was born March 19, 1848 in this city of 11,000 present-day Midwesterners on the Illinois prairie, 16 miles east of the Mississippi River and about 190 miles north of St. Louis.

He left in 1869, at age 21, before becoming a legendary lawman and gunslinger famous for cleaning up the streets of Dodge City, Kan., and shooting it out with the Clanton gang at the OK Corral in Tombstone, Ariz., said Melba Matson, president of the sponsoring Wyatt Earp Birthplace Association.

In movies, books and on television, Earp has been portrayed as everything from a straight-shooting, principled lawman to a less-than-respectable scoundrel who could live on either side of the law with equal ease.

However, Mrs. Matson says that her own research into Earp's life convinces her that he wore a white hat.

"(Earp's) enemies started telling the reporters untruths" about Earp following the infamous 1881 gunfight at the OK Corral in Tombstone, she said, tarnishing Earp's image for generations of youngsters who re-enact in play the rough-and-tumble life of the Old West.

At the OK Corral, Earp, two of his brothers and Doc Holliday, a dentist, notorious gambler and gunslinger, faced off against Billy and Ike Clanton and Tom and Frank McLaury. The McLaurys and Billy Clanton were killed; only Wyatt and Ike Clanton escaped death or injury.

Dudes who want to learn more about the shoot-out can read all about it while getting some grub at the Filling Station Restaurant, where placemats are replicas of an 1881 Tombstone newspaper account of the gunfight.

Pennsylvanian Findley's importance obscured over time

Associated Press

Wednesday, March 21, 1787
PHILADELPHIA TODAY

The Pennsylvania Assembly had at least temporarily ended speculation that the state capital might move to Harrisburg. George Clymer proposed disbanding the committee appointed to study moving the capital. Clymer's motion carried and the committee was discharged.

The Pennsylvania Gazette had been following the proposal to move the capital to Harrisburg. Today, the newspaper pointed out that William Findley, the Westmoreland County assemblyman who had proposed to move the capital, was inconsistent in his interests. On Feb. 27, the Assembly had voted to improve certain public roads north and west in the state. Findley voted "nay." Thus, the Gazette noted, if the capital did move to Harrisburg, the citizens would not be able to travel there if the roads were not improved.

Today's Pennsylvania Gazette published the winning numbers in the state lottery. The prizes were: $5,000, $2,000, $1,000, $500, $100, $50, and $16.

CONFEDERATION TODAY

Congress did not have a great deal of power under the Articles of Confederation. But it did have the authority to make treaties. Concerned that individual states were trying to take this role into their own hands, Congress today passed the following resolution: "Legislatures of the several states cannot of right pass any act or acts interpreting, explaining, or construing a national treaty...nor for limiting or in any way impeding (such treaties)...(and) that all such acts...in any of the states repugnant to the Treaty of Peace ought to be forthwith repealed."

DELEGATES TODAY

George Washington recorded in his diary that the first signs of his various crops looked promising. "Vegetation advancing very quick," he wrote. "The grass had come on surprisingly and the blossoms of the early fruits were putting forth as were the leaves of the early trees, and the buds of all...The oats everywhere...are coming up very well and to appearance sufficiently thick." Yet, a promising spring does not always mean that the yield will be abundant. In northern Virginia and the other mid-Atlantic states there was a severe drought during the summer and the crops were a disaster.

Today Gouverneur Morris wrote one of his rare letters to Richard Harrison in New York. He was beginning negotiations to purchase Morrisania (his family estate in present-day Bronx, N.Y.) from his older half-brother Lewis Morris. Harrison was acting as his agent in the purchase. "My title to the premises devised must be perfect," he wrote, "and if all others act with the same good faith that I do there can be no difficulty about the matter."

LOOKING BACK
William Findley

1787 Constitution Daybook

William Findley was a tremendously important figure, obscured by the passage of time. Findley emigrated to America in 1763 from Ireland and settled near Waynesboro, Pa. He was of Scots-Irish descent and a weaver by training and settled into the Pennsylvania community to practice his trade. But the American Revolution interrupted his plans. He joined the Army, rose to the rank of captain, and remained in the service through much of the war.

Following the hostilities, he moved to Westmoreland County in Western Pennsylvania and became involved in state politics. Between 1783 and 1790 he served in the Assembly, the Supreme Executive Council, and the Council of Censors. Then, in 1791, he was elected to Congress, an office he held until 1817, with the exception of four years when he was in the Pennsylvania Senate.

During the ratification debates, Findley was a staunch anti-Federalist. He tried to delay the Pennsylvania Assembly in calling for a state ratifying convention by leading a boycott of fellow anti-Federalists from the sessions. Unsuccessful in this attempt, he became the major anti-Federalist force in the state ratifying convention. Although his side did not have enough votes to block ratification, his speeches pointed out major flaws in the Constitution; notably, he argued that the document did not include a guarantee of rights.

In Congress, he opposed many of the Federalist programs, but he was respected by the Washington administration and frequently consulted on frontier issues, except one — the excise tax on whiskey. He felt this tax was unfair to the western farmer and advocated resistance to collecting this duty. Later, he changed his tune when open rebellion broke out, and he worked for moderation and compromise. Still later he wrote a book, "History of the Insurrection in the Four Western Counties of Pennsylvania," to vindicate his position and, in part, to defend the participants in the Whiskey Rebellion. Throughout his career, he took many unpopular stands on political issues, but he was respected as a skillful and fair public servant.

Everybody wants to be marshal

TOMBSTONE, Ariz. (AP) — If Tombstone's new marshal, Gerald R. Hollway, ever decides to resign, there are plenty of people who want his job.

Applications for the position have been flooding in from all over the United States and even Canada, City Clerk George L. Kruse said recently.

Kruse said television shows about Tombstone had mentioned the vacancy. Shortly thereafter, the mail began bringing one to three letters a day from people seeing themselves as marshal of Tombstone.

At first, Kruse said, he did not keep the letters after he replied to them. But he began to keep them as more and more arrived.

Kruse said the letters ranged in quality from poorly spelled and written on tablet paper to professionally typewritten on letterhead paper.

Some included resumes. Many of the people who applied were well-qualified, he said.

A 21-year-old ranch hand and tree trimmer in Colorado wanted the job. So did a man employed by the Kansas Department of Corrections. A man in South Carolina wrote he wanted the job "to follow in the steps of Wyatt Earp."

A Canadian applicant described himself as a pilot with military, security, business and technical training. "Most of all, I'm honest, fair and I've had to have more guts than anybody in Canada to survive Communists and Criminals," he wrote.

He enclosed a photograph of himself in uniform.

Kruse says he replies to all letters.

"The least we can do is honor them with a response on City of Tombstone stationery," he said.

One man wanted only a refusal on Tombstone city stationery as memorabilia. Kruse said he put the city seal on his reply to make it nicer.

Voters refuse to pay costs to teach dyslexic

HENNIKER, N.H. (AP) — Voters have decided against paying the $17,000 it cost to teach a dyslexic student to read after she left high school at the top of her class.

The state Education Department had ruled that the district must pay the bill for sending Karen Morse, now a 20-year-old college freshman, to special classes after high school.

The district's lawyers have recommended an appeal.

Wednesday night school district voters refused to set aside $31,000 for Morse — $17,000 for schooling and $14,000 in legal costs.

Morse, who said she cheated her way to the top of her class, was diagnosed in the ninth grade as being learning disabled. But it was two years before her problem was identified as dyslexia, which causes people to jumble words and letters.

Morse did not receive help until her senior year, when she was assigned a tutor, she said. She refused to accept a diploma or graduate formally and spent two years at Landmark School in Beverly, Mass., which specializes in teaching dyslexics to read.

Perot contributes $15 million to San Antonio research center

Perot

STATE

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Dallas billionaire H. Ross Perot on Friday pledged $15 million to a biotechnology research development that city leaders predict will provide thousands of jobs in science-related fields.

The gift was made from the Perot Foundation to the Texas Research Park, which will be located on a 1,500-acre tract west of the city.

Perot said he was convinced the park, which will combine the efforts of private and academic researchers, would help Texas diversify away from oil.

He also said he wanted leaders to attract the best researchers.

"I would not have supported this institution if I felt it was going to be another mediocre Texas institution," Perot said at a luncheon honoring him. "Writing out a check is the easy part. Making it work is the hard part."

Gen. Robert F. McDermott, chairman of the Texas Research and Technology Foundation, said $31 million still is needed to balance the $102 million in construction costs.

The research park will be anchored by a new University of Texas Institute of Biotechnology.

Perot's money will be used as initial funding for that building and for construction for a research building at the UT Health Science Center at the city's South Texas Medical Center, McDermott said.

Ground for the new buildings should be broken within months and the research park will be operating before the end of next year, McDermott said.

Perot, who in 1984 chaired a state committee that came up with major educational reform proposals, said he wanted the park to become a center for economic and intellectual growth.

"I have great confidence you can do this in San Antonio," Perot told businessmen, physicians and scientists.

Businessman Red McCombs said he, McDermott and Mayor Henry Cisneros asked Perot to contribute to the park.

"He responded more generously than we had requested," McCombs said.

Perot founded Electronic Data Systems Corp. and sold it in 1984 to General Motors for $2.5 billion.

A critic of the GM management style, Perot sold the rest of his GM stock for $750 million last December.

In 1979, Perot sent in troops to rescue two of his employees who were held hostage in Iran. He also is the first businessman to receive the Winston Churchill award.

McDermott said that Perot's gift already has spurred interest from foundations from the across the country wanting to donate money.

Cisneros, who said the project could provide 2,000 jobs in the first year, added his thanks.

"When a gift of this size is coupled with Ross Perot's reputation for making things happen, it sends a clear message to the international business and scientific communities that something very special is afoot here in San Antonio," said Cisneros.

Other biomedical research facilities in the city include the Southwest Foundation for Biomedical Research, the Southwest Research Institute, Brooke Army Medical Center, Wilford Hall Air Force Medical Center and the Aerospace Medical Division at Brooks Air Force Base.

McDermott said he hoped the Southwest Foundation for Biomedical Research, which conducts research on primates, could move to the research park.

AIDS

Because Retrovir is still in short supply, the manufacturer has outlined a restricted distribution system intended to see that it goes first to seriously ill patients whose symptoms are closest to those who participated in the clinical trials last fall.

"Today's approval marks an important step, but by no means a final victory, in our ongoing war against AIDS," Robert E. Windom, assistant secretary of health at the Department of Health and Human Services, said in announcing FDA approval.

"Retrovir is not a cure for AIDS, but it has a demonstrated ability to improve the short-term survival of AIDS patients with recently diagnosed PCP and certain patients with advanced ARC," sid Windom.

PCP is pneumocystis carinii pneumonia, a rare form of pneumonia found mostly in AIDS sufferers. ARC is short for AIDS-related complex, a diagnosis just short of full-fledged AIDS.

The labeling provided doctors will say Retrovir is intended for AIDS and ARC patients with specific laboratory evidence of severely depressed immunity or a history of PCP.

However, once a drug is approved for sale, the FDA has no authority over how it is prescribed. Burroughs Wellcome has said it will rely on the word of physicians that the patient for whom they are prescribing it qualifies under the restricted distribution plan.

Given the absence of any alternative treatment, it is widely assumed that almost all AIDS and ARC patients will insist that their doctors prescribe Retrovir for them and that most doctors will comply.

The company has said it expects to be able to manufacturer enough Retrovir by the end of 1987 to supply 30,000 patients — enough for all of the estimated 14,000 with full AIDS and 16,000 of those with ARC.

REAGAN

"Until now all their work was based on lies, mixed with corruption and accusation of others," Khamenei said.

"From the day this issue was exposed there have been various contradictions in what the president and his aides have been saying. Obviously contradictions means lies. When one says two things, one of them must be a lie."

The Iranian president did not give specifics on the alleged lies.

Iranian leaders have said the contacts were the result of U.S. initiative, and Khamenei said the United States had three objectives in trying to improve ties with Iran.

One goal was to obtain freedom for American hostages in Lebanon, he said.

A second goal, prompted by the "mistaken analysis" that "there are groups of moderates and hardliners in Iran," was to attempt to woo the moderates, the Iranian president said.

A third objective was to "gain a foothold here in the neighborhood of their powerful rival, meaning the Soviet Union...to keep an eye on the Russians," Khamenei said.

He said Iranian policy rejected both superpowers and Tehran had "cut off the hands of all powers and showed that there is no room in Iran for America or non-America."

SPEED

Thirty-three Democrats and 27 Republicans supported, and 10 Democrats and 11 Republicans opposed, the speed limit provision, which was attached to the previously approved highway bill. Dole said the president's veto would provide a major test of his strength in Congress as Reagan seeks to rebound from the political damage of the Iran-Contra affair.

The overall $88 billion bill includes $70 billion for road construction projects and $18 billion for mass transit programs over the next five years, funds that should have started flowing to the states when the current fiscal year began Oct. 1.

Besides objecting to the demonstration projects, Reagan protested that the mass transit programs were too expensive, unfairly targeted for fewer than 20 cities and of dubious economic value.

"If this bill is presented to me in its current form, I will return it to the Congress without my signature," Reagan warned in a letter Wednesday to Senate Majority Leader Robert C. Byrd, D-W.Va.

Dole's aides said he dropped his plans for a bruising parliamentary floor battle over the $890 million provision opposed by Reagan because he doubted he had enough votes to prevail.

Dole told his colleagues that with warm weather approaching, he did not want to stall road construction projects by risking further delays in federal funds which the states should have received months ago.

Reagan, in a statement issued before the Senate vote, promised to veto the highway bill even with the 65 mph speed limit provision that he and many lawmakers from rural and Western states favor.

"Congress can't have it both ways," he said. "They can't talk about cutting unnecessary deficit spending and then vote in favor of bills that bust the budget."

Apparent argument leaves man dead, two others injured

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — An apparent argument and scuffle involving a gun early Friday left a 37-year-old man dead, his 18-year-old son in critical condition and another 24-year-old man in stable condition at Medical Center Hospital.

The shooting was still being investigated late Friday with no charges filed and no one in custody, Odessa Police Cpl. John McAhon said.

McAhon said the case probably will be presented to the Ector County District Attorney's office for review and possible presentation to the county grand jury.

Reports said Eusebio R. Hernandez, 1010 N. Tom Green Ave., was pronounced dead about 4:30 a.m. at the hospital by Justice of the Peace R.G. Hungerford. According to police reports, Hernandez was struck under the right arm by a single bullet that severed his aorta.

Demetrio P. Hernandez, the son of Eusebio, also a resident at the North Tom Green address, was shot in the chest and taken to Medical Center Hospital by private vehicle.

Abel L. Soriano of Odessa suffered wounds to both hands, his left wrist and the left side of his head. He was taken to Medical Center by ambulance.

McAhon said police dispatchers received a 911 emergency call about 1:48 a.m. Friday from the El Charro Lounge, 623 S. Crane Ave. Officers arriving on the scene a few minutes later found the three men.

According to McAhon, the argument developed between the younger Hernandez, one of his brothers and Soriano. After one of the men pulled a handgun, the ensuing scuffle included the elder Hernandez and his brother.

The gun discharged three times during the struggle.

Hot grease probable cause of apartment fire

From Staff Reports

Police Roundup

Five Midland Fire Department units responded to a fire at the Autumn Wood apartment complex, 2439 Whitmire Blvd., late Thursday evening.

The fire was probably sparked from a pan of grease on an stove, according to fire department reports.

The fire, which caused an undetermined amount of damage, occurred around midnight Thursday.

In other reports, a Stanton farmer reported the theft of $400 worth of equipment from a field in southeast Midland County, according to Sheriff's reports.

Harold Graves of Stanton, told deputies the theft occurred between 9 a.m. Thursday and 7:50 a.m. Friday at a field on County Road 1020 South about 1.6 miles south of CR 307 East.

A 538-gallon steel diesel tank worth $300 and a silver steel tank stand worth $100 were taken, Graves told officers.

CABBIE

"For most visitors, the cab driver is their first contact with the city when they come in and the last when they leave," he said as he found his way expertly through congested streets. He likes to give a tour of the city to customers with a little time to kill, and he does tend to gab.

"Good conversation makes their ride shorter and my day shorter," he said. "But if they're not in a mood to talk, I just let them sit back and enjoy the ride."

Cecil said he did not know there was any such thing as a "Taxi Driver of the Year" until one day last October when he got a radio call asking him to return to the office.

"I walked in and they showed me a news release saying that I had been selected for the award over 200,000 other drivers, worldwide," Cecil said. "You could have knocked me over with a feather."

The ITA is a trade association of taxi fleets in the United States and abroad. It is based in Kensington, Md., and says it represents about half of all U.S. taxis, with companies ranging in size from two to 2,100.

Previous winners of the award, first given in 1982, were from Tulsa, Okla.; Sydney, Australia; Paducah, Ky.; and Salisbury, Md.

Cisneros criticizes opponent bringing up religion

Cisneros

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Mayor Henry Cisneros, who considers himself pro-choice on abortion, has criticized his opponent for bringing religious issues into the mayoral race.

Cisneros, seeking his fourth term on April 4, is being challenged by former councilmember Phil Pyndus.

Pyndus' radio spots and mailouts question Cisneros' pro-choice stance on abortion and ask whether the city "can afford the luxury of a mayor who does not respect the life of the unborn."

Cisneros said he was upset that Pyndus raised the issue because they have nothing to do with city government.

"The city has nothing to do with these issues," Cisneros said. "I've served on the City Council for 12 years and none of these has ever been an issue in any form."

Pyndus, who challenged Cisneros in 1985, defended the advertisements.

He said the advertisements state his opposition to forced sex education, in-school contraceptive clinics and ordinances forbidding discrimination against AIDS victims.

"I merely am taking public information that was printed in the newspaper and informing people of Mayor Cisneros' stand on abortion," Pyndus said. "I think these issues are relevant to the let the public know where I'm coming from."

George Shipley, Cisneros' political consultant, questioned Pyndus' advertising.

Shipley said the language used in Pyndus' campaign is reminiscent of state and national campaigns in which the Christian right has been involved.

"It's my belief that right-wing extremist groups from the Republican Party are taking a shot at Henry through Phil Pyndus," Shipley said. "I think Phil is just a pawn in a larger game."

But Pyndus' campaign manager, Charles Becker, denied Shipley's allegations.

"I find it unusual that everyone wants to know the source of our talent. I think they didn't expect anything to be done at all," Becker said.

Cisneros said his pro-choice commitment stems from the belief that public officials should not restrict an adult woman's right to make a decision about her body.

The mayor said he "would have a hard time" letting anyone in his immediate family have an abortion.

Cisneros and his wife, Mary Alice, have two daughters and are expecting a third child.

Parolee abducts, allegedly assaults probation worker

TYLER (AP) — A prison parolee abducted a probation worker, took her on a meandering overnight journey through East Texas and allegedly sexually assaulted her twice before he was apprehended Friday, police said.

The 27-year-old employee of the state Department of Pardons and Paroles was able to pass one of her credit cards to a convenience store clerk in Marshall early Friday and tell the clerk she had been kidnapped, said Ron Scott, administrative assistant to Smith County Sheriff J.B. Smith.

Authorities put out an all-points bulletin for her car and managed to stop it on U.S. 69 in Hunt County shortly after 10 a.m., about 24 hours after the abduction, Scott said.

Police arrested Larry Ray Young, 22. Bond was set at $750,000 on charges of aggravated kidnapping and aggravated sexual assault, but Young was held without bond on a parole violation charge, Scott said.

He said Young had been released on parole from the Texas Department of Corrections March 12 after serving time for a burglary conviction.

Officials had determined that Young had been paroled on schedule and had not been part of an early release program designed to reduce overcrowding in Texas prisons, Scott said.

Young lived in a halfway house four blocks from the Smith County Jail, Scott said.

"She (the parole officer) was teaching a class at the halfway house," Scott said. "He indicated to her that he was dealing with some problems. He was suicidal, or something."

The woman agreed to meet Young to counsel him and was taken captive in her own car about 9:30 p.m. Thursday. During the night he took her to several East Texas cities and back through Tyler, he said.

Sometime Friday morning, she was able to get to a telephone to call her mother, a teacher, Scott said. The abductor listened.

"She made a call to her mother's school and talked to the principal, and he was sharp enough to ask her questions," Scott said.

Mysterious graves believed to be work of pranksters

YANTIS (AP) — Mysterious graves found in a secluded area of northern Wood County are believed to be nothing more than a prank, Sheriff Frank White said Friday.

The graves, 15 in all, were found last weekend by children who were riding bicycles nearby, he said.

Each grave measured three feet by four feet, but when deputies dug into each mound of dirt, they found nothing but more dirt.

"There's been something going on out there," White said. "There were a bunch of mounds of dirt, but that's all they were — mounds of dirt. Someone has certainly gone to a lot of work out there. They cleared about 50 feet of heavy brush and timber and made some type of a ritual-looking place."

White called the graves a prank and said he didn't know who dug them or why they would do it.

"It appears it was all done for show," White said. "We didn't find any bodies or anything like that, thank goodness. There were some old cow bones tied together and a cow skull or two placed near one of the graves, and there were some old funeral wreaths on a couple of other mounds."

One of the cow skulls was painted with a bright yellow fluorescent paint and several small bones were fastened together in intricate configurations. There also were a couple of small crosses at the base of a tree near the cleared area.

Number of vehicle accidents up

The number of motor vehicle accidents in the United States in 1985 rose to 32.5 million from 1984's 30.9 million and 1982's 28.5 million. Injuries in 1985 totaled 5,044,000 up from 4,850,000 in 1984 and 4,490,000 in 1982. Fatalities dropped to 45,600 in 1985 from 46,200 in 1984 and 45,779 in 1982.

White-tail deer crashes through home's window

AUSTIN (AP) — When Beverly Weeks told her daughter to clean the windows of their Lake Austin home, she didn't realize the consequences.

Near dusk on Thursday, a small white-tail deer crashed through the Weeks' dining room window, ran through the house and exited through the living room window.

"Maybe I shouldn't have cleaned them so good," said Lori Weeks, 15.

Mrs. Weeks said she apparently frightened the deer when she drove up to the house.

She said the deer, a buck, apparently was injured. It jumped into Lake Austin, swam about 300 yards to the other side and struggled up the bank. There was some blood and a four-point antler left in the house, she said.

Drunk driver sentenced

AUSTIN (AP) — A man prosecutors said was drunk when his van collided with an oncoming car, killing two people, has been sentenced to eight years in prison.

However, Tony Lee Castillo, 41, could be eligible for probation after serving at least 60 days in the Texas Department of Corrections, State District Judge Jon Wiesner said in announcing the sentence Thursday.

Wiesner found Castillo guilty Feb. 24 of two counts of involuntary manslaughter in the May 22, 1986, deaths of Keith and Kay Bateman in an Austin collision.

Testimony in the trial indicated Castillo had a blood alcohol count two-and-a-half times the legal limit and had refused an offer from friends to drive him home minutes before he hit the Batemans' car.

Prisons remain closed

HUNTSVILLE (AP) — The Texas prison system remained closed Friday after going over a state-mandated 95 percent capacity earlier this week, officials said.

For the eighth time this year, prisons closed their doors to new inmates at the end of the day Wednesday after more than 700 inmates were admitted during a two-day period, prison spokesman David Nunnelee said.

As of midnight Thursday, there were 38,416 inmates, or 95.08 percent of capacity — 31 inmates over the limit, Nunnelee said. Only 113 inmates were released on parole Thursday, he said.

The Texas Department of Corrections is not expected to open its doors until next Tuesday, repeating an open-and-shut cycle that leaves the system open only two days a week, Nunnelee said.

On Tuesday, the first day prisons reopened after a five-day shutdown, 480 new inmates arrived, while only 131 inmates were released, Nunnelee said.

Brandley granted stay

CONROE (AP) — Clarence Brandley, whose scheduled execution has drawn heavy opposition from friends who say he is a victim of racism, won a stay of execution Friday.

State District Judge Lynn Coker granted the former Conroe High School janitor the reprieve and sent the case to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals in Austin to determine if an evidentiary hearing is necessary.

Brandley, 35, was slated to die by lethal injection before dawn March 26 for the August 23, 1980, rape-slaying of Cheryl Dee Ferguson. Brandley is black; the victim was white.

Fitzwater: Carter 'wrong' to criticize Reagan's policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chief White House spokesman lashed back at former President Carter on Friday, saying he was out of line for accusing President Reagan of resorting to military solutions in foreign policy disputes.

"We are deeply disappointed by his comments, and it would seem that if he wants to to be helpful in the area of foreign affairs that he might want to forgo criticism of U.S. leaders while he is on foreign soil," spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said of Carter.

Reagan declined to comment on Carter's statements.

But Fitzwater responded immediately when questioned by reporters. "He's wrong," the spokesman said of Carter's assertion that Reagan is more inclined to use military force than diplomacy.

Defending Carter, New York Gov. Mario Cuomo, a Democrat, told reporters outside the White House that "I think the former president has a role to play, telling the truth as he sees it," and "I don't regard that as running down the president."

Cuomo had just emerged from a meeting with White House staff chief Howard Baker on a proposal to set up a bipartisan congressional committee to help solve the country's major economic problems.

"I don't see the point of being critical if it doesn't produce any substantive good result," Cuomo said. "President Carter's purpose isn't to criticize a person who will never run again for the presidency; it's to achieve peace in the Middle East, and he believes that one way to do that is to excite more interest, more attention from the executive (branch) to get it a little more aggressive..."

During a visit to Cairo, Carter used some of the harshest language he has ever invoked in reference to his successor.

Carter told a group of businessmen and diplomats that Reagan "is more inclined to form a Contra army to overthrow the Sandinistas (in Nicaragua) or inject the Marines into Lebanon or use American battleships to shell villages around Beirut" than to seek negotiated settlements to problems.

The former president also faulted Reagan for the "missing leadership" in Washington and said Middle East political leaders lacked "courage, tenacity and dedication" in allowing the Middle East peace process to founder.

Carter, who was instrumental in arranging an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty before leaving office in 1981, was the target of repeated attacks from Reagan during the 1980 election campaign for his handling of the Iranian hostage crisis.

He also had lambasted Carter on the Panama Canal treaties and for seeking ratification of the SALT II arms control treaty.

Fitzwater also took sharp issue with Carter's assertion that Reagan had failed to come up with a plan to calm the situation in the Middle East.

"The administration has demonstrated a continuing diplomatic effort in the Middle East since the beginning of the administration," Fitzwater said.

"It is simply not true that this administration is neglecting diplomatic channels," he said.

Fitzwater acknowledged that while Reagan had no specific major gains that compared to Carter's Israeli-Egyptian Camp David accord, that did not mean the president has not tried.

Asked whether the White House believed that a former president should not criticize a sitting president, Fitzwater replied, "That's it."

NATION

Speakes' explanation differs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House spokesman Larry Speakes has a different version than President Reagan of how a clarification was issued last November when Reagan denied Israel's involvement in the Iran arms sales.

Reagan said Thursday night that his staff pointed out his mistake after his Nov. 19 news conference ended.

"And when they told me this...I said to them (media), 'Quick, write down a correction of this,' " Reagan said during his Thursday night news conference."...I said, 'I didn't realize that I had said that or given that impression....' "

But Speakes, in a briefing the day after the November news conference, said he knew when Reagan made the statement that no third country was involved in the arms shipments that "it was obviously a mistake, and then when he had another opportunity and did not correct it, then I suggested that we jot out a statement for his approval when he finished the news conference."

Speakes said the White House staff told the president he made a mistake. "And he said, 'I didn't realize that I did. I was mainly...trying not to identify the third country,' he said, 'but this statement is fine.' We read it to him, and then I came over and issued it."

Astronaut's widow donates shuttle flags

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Miniature Maryland and U.S. flags retrieved from the wreckage of the space shuttle, Challenger, were presented to the state Friday by the widow of Michael Smith, pilot of the space craft.

The two flags and a Challenger shuttle mission patch mounted on a plaque were accepted from Jane Smith by an emotional Gov. William Donald Schaefer, who told Mrs. Smith that on such occasions, "those (of us) in public life are almost speechless."

"We will find a very, very special place to put this in the State House," the governor said.

He asked Mrs. Smith to look around for an appropriate place, and she told him she already had one in mind.

Schaefer then marched down the stairs with Mrs. Smith so she could point out a spot near the guest register where visitors to the capitol building sign their names.

"Possibly, when they sign in, they can remember...," Mrs. Smith said.

Her husband was the pilot of the Challenger when it exploded shortly after takeoff from Cape Canaveral a year ago.

Commander Dick Richards, who entered astronaut training with Smith in 1980, told Schaefer that the flags carried aboard by the shuttle pilot were recovered about 50 hours after the tragic accident. They were contained in the official flight kit, which he said somehow broke loose from the sunken remains of the Challenger and floated to the surface of the ocean.

The kit contained items carried aboard the flight by the seven astronauts, including the flags included by Smith.

Mrs. Smith her husband spent more time in Maryland than any state except his home state of North Carolina.

"He would have been proud to have been honored here today," she said.

Smith was a graduate of the Naval Academy, and Mrs. Smith also presented a plaque with a mission patch and a U.S. flag to the academy Friday.

Arms talks negotiator hospitalized

WASHINGTON (AP) — Max M. Kampelman, the chief U.S. negotiator in U.S.-Soviet arms control talks, was hospitalized Friday with what an assistant described as "a minor heart attack."

Kampelman, 66, was sent to George Washington University Hospital by his physician earlier in the day, the assistant said. "The prognosis is good and he should be out about a week," she said.

He was scheduled to testify next Tuesday to the Senate Appropriations Defense Subcommittee on President Reagan's program to develop a space-based defense against missiles.

The negotiations in Geneva recently took on new steam. Soviet leader Mikhail S. Gorbachev proposed reaching an agreement "without delay" to eliminate medium-range nuclear missiles from Europe.

The U.S. delegation headed by Kampelman responded with the proposed text of a treaty, and the talks were extended through next week.

But an American official, who demanded anonymity, said the pace had slackened again and that the Soviets were expected to propose a text of their own, which would contribute to delay.

The official said he did not expect an agreement to be concluded in the current round of talks. The next one is scheduled to begin on May 8.

In the meantime, Secretary of State George P. Shultz plans to meet in Moscow in mid-April with Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard A. Shevardnadze and possibly Gorbachev.

This could give new impetus to the negotiations, and also set the stage for a summit meeting in Washington later in the year between Reagan and Gorbachev.

Kampelman is one of the highest ranking Democrats in the Republican administration. He was a pacifist in World War II and was closely associated with the late Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Kampelman's assistant said he would leave the hospital "angry with himself for having to be away from work for a week."

NATION IN BRIEF

Family receives threats because black friend helps them move in

GRINDSTONE, Pa. (AP) — A white man said his family was looking for a new place to live because of threats made after neighbors saw a black man help them move in several weeks ago.

David Redepenning said his wife, Denise, was "scared to death" when the couple and their five children, ages 1 to 9, found a wooden cross burning in their yard Wednesday. "The kids were afraid too," he said. "They don't understand why someone would do this."

Redepenning said residents of all-white Rowes Run saw his black friend helping move furniture. The friend stayed several days to help unpack.

"A neighbor told me that I'll continue to have problems just because people know I have black friends," he said.

Redepenning said his landlord, Norman Winslow, reported receiving a threat by phone. "Someone threatened to burn down the house if my black friend didn't leave," he said.

Redstone Township police Officer Roy Mehalik said an investigation was under way.

New flag stamp will be issued

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new American flag stamp, with fireworks in the background, will be issued May 9, the Postal Service announced Friday.

The 22-cent stamp replaces the current stamp showing the flag flying over the Capitol in Washington, and will be available nationally on May 11.

The first-day-of-issue ceremonies for the new stamp will be held in Denver, Colo.

Letter finds way to homeless woman

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Everyone knows mail will make it to your home through snow, sleet or hail, but in Manchester, it makes it to your hand even if you don't have a home.

The Social Security Administration sent a letter to a homeless woman addressed "On the Streets, Manchester, N.H.," and it reached her three weeks later.

Postal officials in Manchester sent the letter to the New Horizons shelter and soup kitchen for the homeless on Feb. 19. Late last week, the woman appeared at the center in search of some new clothes and picked up the letter.

Henrietta Charest, the shelter's executive director, said workers there recognized the name and held the letter, hoping the woman, whose name wasn't disclosed and is living in a half-way house, would visit the soup kitchen, as she does every several weeks.

Officials probing Laotians' return

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Friday it is skeptical about assertions by local-level Thai officials that 38 Laotians who returned to their homeland earlier this week did so voluntarily.

"We are not accepting this local-level explanation at face value and are actively engaged in seeking further explanation of the matter from Thai authorities in Bangkok," the department said.

On Wednesday, the Department suggested that the Laotian group was returned to Laos against its will. It said the incident may have been the worst case of forced repatriation involving Thailand since 1979.

The 38 Laotians were among 108 who were rounded up Sunday to be taken to a site where they were to undergo refugee screening.

First Trident protester sentenced

SHARPES, Fla. (AP) — The first of 186 activists to be convicted by a jury of trespassing during protests against a Trident 2 test launch has been sentenced to six months in jail.

Prosecutors had asked Thursday for the maximum sentence of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine for Willa Elam, 43, of Cocoa convicted March 11.

She crawled through palmetto groves and waded through swamps during her 14-mile hike to the Trident 2 launch tower at Cape Canaveral Air Force Station on Jan. 11. After reaching the 13th level of the tower, she called security guards twice to come pick her up.

She has been jailed since her arrest. Since then, unarmed Trident 2 missiles twice have been test-fired successfully twice.

Clerk sticks it to robbery suspects

SIOUX CITY, Iowa (AP) — A store employee stuck it to three men who allegedly robbed him when the glue they used to cement his hands to a counter top didn't stick, authorities said.

The men, arrested Wednesday, are suspected of robbing an Omaha, Neb., motel earlier that day. A clerk's hands were glued to a counter top in that robbery, Omaha Police Sgt. Kenneth Bovasso said Thursday.

Sioux City police arrested the men shortly after they allegedly robbed an electronics store, authorities said.

An employee foiled the attempt to prevent him from calling police by tricking the men into thinking his hands were stuck to the counter, authorities said.

The men tried to raise the employee's hands but he held his hands against the counter, police said. The men left the area and the employee called police, Sioux City Police Lt. Jon Morton said.

New MX missile to be tested today

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force plans to conduct the 17th flight test of the new MX missile this morning at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., the Pentagon said Friday.

A missile carrying dummy warheads will be launched from an underground silo at Vandenberg at 6:45 a.m. PST toward the Kwajalein Island test range in the western Pacific, the Pentagon said.

The previous tests of the MX have been termed successful by the Air Force.

Weekend will be fair

From Staff and Wire Reports

This weekend will continue to be fair with temperatures in the mid 70s, a spokesman with the National Weather Service at the Midland Regional Airport said.

Today will be sunny with a high in the mid 70s and winds from southeast at 10 to 15 mph. Tonight will be mostly fair with a low in the mid-40s.

Sunday will be sunny with a high in the lower 70s.

Friday's high of 77 degrees was 12 degrees cooler than the record high of 89 degrees set in 1934. The overnight low of 44 degrees was 17 degrees warmer than record low of 27 degrees set in 1965.

STATE

Brisk winds of up to 35 mph whipped through much of Texas Friday because of a low-pressure cell that extended south from a storm center in northeast Colorado down through the Panhandle, South Plains into the Big Bend.

The south to west winds breezed most of North and West Texas and the north part of south Central Texas at speeds generally in the 15 to 25 mph range with occasional gusts to 35 mph, the National Weather Service reported.

Elsewhere, a high-pressure system over East Texas produced east and southeast breezes over the southeast and the rest of the south. Speeds along the coastal bend reached over 25 mph, while 10 to 20 mph breezes were most common.

Patchy cloudiness dotted a narrow strip through the heart of the Lone Star State from the lower Valley north to the Red River near Wichita Falls. Meanwhile, the rest of Texas reported clear skies.

NATION

A winter storm churned into the northern High Plains on Friday, packing heavy snowfall and winds of up to 60 mph to parts of Wyoming, Colorado and Montana that forced the closing of schools and highways.

Though Friday was officially the day spring arrived in the Northern Hemisphere, winter storm warnings or watches and livestock advisories were posted in a wide area stretchings as far east as the Dakotas and Nebraska.

Snow blown by blistering winds closed parts of three interstate highways — 80, 90 and 25 — as well as many schools in Wyoming. Forecasters warned of near-blizzard conditions in parts of Wyoming and Montana for Friday night, with total snowfall of as much as 1½ feet forecast.

Chaps claim berth in finals

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

HUTCHINSON, Kan. - The fear of a letdown was so great that Midland College was scared right into an impressive 107-75 semifinal win over Herkimer College Friday night.

The Chaparrals, fresh from a day off after their biggest win in five years against San Jacinto Wednesday, stormed into tonight's finals on overdrive. MC will play Southern Idaho beginning at 8:15 p.m. for the National Junior College Championship. Southern Idaho nipped Mesa (Az.), 57-55 in the other semifinal.

And after the nail-biting win over top-ranked San Jacinto, the Chaparrals, 32-3, made a mockery of the semifinal, rolling past the century mark for a record 17th time this season. By halftime, a letdown was the furthest thing on anyone's mind.

"I've probably warned them 12,000 times about a letdown, and they usually listen pretty well," said Chap coach Jerry Stone. "Sometimes when you've beaten a team pretty good earlier in the season, they remember it. And if you start hammering them early, they start to think 'Oh no, here we go again.' So we really stressed getting off to a good start."

With a berth in the championship game at stake, MC got off to a good start, a good middle and an even better finish. They penetrated to the basket, drove the length of the floor, popped three-pointers at will and we're running away with the game at the final buzzer.

On defense, the Chaps stymied Herkimer's socring machine, Jim Smith, holding the 30-points per game scorer to just 18. The Generals' Mitchell Williams led all scorers with 25 points while freshman guard Calvin Griggs added 21.

But Herkimer, the surprise team in the NJCAA Final Four, found the Cinderella slipper didn't fit as Midland proved to be too quick, too determined and too deadly from the outside.

ELEVEN TREYS swished through the nets in all, tying a team record, on an amazing 69 percent from the 19-foot-9 distance. Sophomore Todd Duncan led the way, equaling his own club mark with six three-pointers on his way to a team-high 24 points. Duncan was a magnificent 9-of-10 from the floor, his only miss a three-point attempt.

"They were laying off of us for a while, letting us take it," explained Duncan. "If we play our game, our offense, the three-pointer will be there.

"I think we tired them out midway through the second half. We got that lead and they played us even for a while, but our bench just wore them down."

The Chaps placed five players in double figures, three with at least 20.

POINT GUARD Mookie Blaylock was the other outside threat, sinking four treys for 20 points. But Blaylock, who was celebrating his 20th birthday, went out late in the game with a foot injury. In a lot of pain and his foot wrapped in ice, Blaylock's status is uncertain for tonight's final.

"We'll just have to see if he can play," Stone said. "We need him, but if he can't play, worse things have happened. We'll just have more drive to go out and win it."

Should Blaylock be sidelined, freshman Stewart Barnett would get the call at the point, just as he did when Blaylock served a one-game suspension against South Plains in Janurary.

"It would put some pressure on me being the championship and all," Barnett said. "But we'll be all right, as long as I've got Coach and the rest of the team behind me. We'll just go out and win it for Mookie."

Despite the 32-point margin, Midland's biggest since the final regular season game against Frank Phillips, Stone thought he saw the rout as anything but easy.

"I realize it may have looked easy, maybe it was, but you can get sloppy and start styling in a game like that.

Midland, Lee records fall in state meet

From Staff Reports

AUSTIN — Midland High and Midland Lee swimmers had a good preliminary round Friday in the 1987 state swim meet here with records times being set at both schools.

For Midland High, which has seven swimmers and divers in the elite competition, things are going along pretty much as expected.

"They swam great. We're in super position," said MHS coach Jesse Marsh. "We really couldn't have asked for faster swims at this point but I think we can go faster tomorrow. Every time they get in the water, nearly, it's a new school record so they're swimming great."

Along with school records, Midland High's Michaela Hasek and Sam Perry had three times fast enough for consideration for High School All-American.

In the prelims, Hasek has the two highest rankings. Her best effort came in her best event, the 100 backstroke with a second place time of 59.02. She also qualified third in the 200 individual medley in 2:08.8. Both times are MHS records and both qualified Hasek for All-American consideration.

Perry set a school record a HSAA time in his best even, the 100 backstroke. Perry covered the distance in 53.25 to qualify fourth for today's finals.

A fourth school record was set by Shauna Voorhees, who qualified eighth for the consolation finals in the 100 butterfly in 59.30. She also sawm 5:18.4 in the 500 freestyle for 14th place.

For Midland Lee, Alan Reed is the only Rebel representative and his 4:43.30 not only broke the school record but qualified him eighth in the meet. Reed also finished 16th in 200 freestyle in 1:46.52.

Along with today's swimming finals, the divers will hit the pool for the first time this weekend. Midland High has two competing for state honors in Nate Neatherlin and Alan Gruzins.

Iowa rolls dice on three-pointer to nip OU

SEATTLE (AP) — Kevin Gamble sank a 22-foot 3-pointer with three seconds left in overtime Friday night to give sixth-ranked Iowa a 93-91 victory over Oklahoma in the West Regional semifinals of the NCAA basketball tournament.

Gamble, a 6-foot-6 senior, led the Hawkeyes with 26 points and blocked a late Oklahoma shot to force the overtime.

The Hawkeyes, 30-4, play the winner of Friday night's contest between No. 1 ranked Nevada-Las Vegas and Wyoming in Sunday's regional finals.

Oklahoma, 24-10, led by as many as 16 points in the first half but led only by one at intermission.

The game was close throughout the rest of the way. Iowa's biggest lead was six points at 78-72 with 6:54 to play in regulation. But the underdog Sooners built an 85-80 lead on Darryl Kennedy's stuff shot with 2:17 to play.

Then Iowa scored the final five points of regulation, the last on a 3-point bomb by B.J. Armstrong with 51 seconds remaining.

Oklahoma had a chance for the winning basket, but Gamble blocked Tim McCalister's 15-footer and Kennedy's desparation 10-footer failed to connect at the buzzer.

Iowa scored the first five points of the overtime, but the Sooners, plagued by foul trouble all night, managed one more comeback. They grabbed a 91-90 advantage on Kennedy's inside basket with 1:02 to play.

The Hawkeyes missed two late shots but got the ball back both times, once on an offensive rebound by Gamble and once when Oklahoma knocked the ball out of bounds. That set up Gamble's winning shot.

Sandies own Midland title

Second place good effort for Andrews

By TED BATTLES
Sports Editor

Amarillo High's Tray O'Neal and Grant Russell, one-two in scoring after the first day of play, ballooned to 83 and 81, respectively, while Andrews' Jeff Beal came out of the pack to grab tournament medalist honors and teammate Mike Burgen took fourth place.

But it didn't make any difference in the final team standings. Amarillo High hung on to win the first annual Midland Invitational High School golf tournament with a 296-323—619, a cushion of four strokes over the 306-317—623 Mustangs.

Nevertheless, Andrews Coach George Boynton was happy with the finish, "It was a big tournament with a strong field and I've got to be pleased, especially since we open district (2-4A) tommorrow in Lamesa."

BEAL LED the charge with his 75 to go with Thursday's 73 for a 168. "Jeff has been hitting the ball good all year. Now, he's beginning to score, too, said Boynton."

Actually, 75 was a good score for Friday's windy conditions and the confining boundaries at Ranchland Hills CC. Scores were uniformly higher, some spectacularly so.

O'Neal went from 69 to 83 and Russell from a 72 to 81.

Abilene Cooper slipped into third place with a 635 while San Angelo was fourth at 637 and Midland Lee fifth with a 640 as the 16-team field assumed a 4-5A look after the top two teams. In fact, Odessa Permian at 647 and Midland High at 649 were the next two teams.

ANDREWS' SECOND place finish sends the Mustangs into the district race on a roll.

Boynton has been golf coach six years and the Mustangs have won six straight titles, "But Dub Worden was the one who built the program over a 20-year period," says Boynton. "I'm just trying to keep it going," says Boynton.

In an explosion of sand, Midland Lee's Bobby Gee blasts his way from a trap on the fifth hole Friday at Ranchland Hills.

While scores climbed Friday, none did so quite like Midland's Ted Newman, who went from a 74 to a 102. "He was nine over after four holes," explained Coach John Ford, "and it was one of those days when he just never could get untracked."

On the flip side for the Bulldogs, Mike Johnson put together a consistent 77-76—153 to place among the top finishers.

WITH THREE tournament firsts and a third in the 38-team Austin meet, Midland Lee's fifth place finish was a disappointment to Coach Ronnie Stephens, "When Beau Brown, my sophomore, and Randy Milby finished with 79 and 77 at Green Tree Thursday, I figured we were in great shape with Bobby Gee and Larry Bryan out on the course." But both took 77s.

Things didn't improve appreciably Friday when Bryan's 79 was the low round for the Rebels.

"With district opening up in Abilene next week, maybe it was a good thing. We went into this tournament thinking we'd win it. This brought us back to earth," Stephens said.

"And the way Cooper played here, their performance would have to make them the early favorite in the district race, especially since they'll be playing at Abilene Country Club, a familiar course."

Midland Lee golfer Larry Bryan does a little celebrating after sinking a putt Friday in the final round of the Midland Invitational High School golf tournament.

Olajuwon guides Rockets to easy win over Clippers

Associated Press

Akeem Olajuwon scored 29 points and grabbed eight rebounds in less than three periods of play to pace the Houston Rockets to a 126-98 NBA win over the Los Angeles Clippers Friday night.

Rodney McCray followed with 17 points in only three periods as five Rockets scored in double figures for Houston, which won its third straight game.

The Clippers, who have lost five straight and 10 of their last 11 games, received 19 points from Mike Woodson and 17 from Michael Cage.

Olajuwon and Robert Reid combined for an 8-0 Rockets stretch that resulted in a 78-57 lead with eight minutes left in the third quarter. A 9-2 spurt, capped by Allen Leavell's technical shot, made it 101-74 going into the final period.

McCray had 11 points and four assists in the first quarter and Olajuwon scored 18 points in the first half as the Rockets built a 64-50 halftime lead.

The Rockets held on to a 13-point first-quarter lead throughout the second period with Olajuwon pouring in 10 points. McCray, Dirk Minniefield and Leavell hit all 12 of their first-half shot attempts.

Celtics 112, Sonics 108

Larry Bird scored 19 of his 42 points in the fourth quarter as Boston held off Seattle and extended its Boston Garden winning streak to 21 games.

Bird's 16-foot jumper with 1:15 left in the third quarter put the Celtics ahead to stay, 79-78. But Seattle threatened the rest of the way.

Bird, whose season high is 43 points, scored from the corner with 7:15 left in the game, giving him 10 points in the fourth period and the Celtics a 97-86 lead.

Then Bird capped off his outstanding game by scoring the Celtics' last nine points. The Sonics, who were led by Dale Ellis with 31 points, got as close as 110-106, but Bird responded with a layup with 1:12 left.

76ers 116, Nuggets 106

Charles Barkley had 26 points and 25 rebounds as Philadelphia defeated Denver.

Barkley grabbed equalled his own NBA season-high of 16 offensive rebounds, and also handed out nine assists as Philadelphia won its fifth game in seven starts.

Philadelphia's Maurice Cheeks, who was playing with a dislocated middle finger on his left hand, tore a tendon in the little finger on his right hand with 8:10 left in the first quarter and did not return to the game.

Denver led by as many as 14 points early in the second quarter and had a 41-34 lead with 5:29 left in the period. Philadelphia then went on a 17-5 run for a 51-46 edge with 1:31 left in the half.

Denver closed to within 60-58 midway through the third quarter, but six straight points by David Wingate in the last two minutes of the period gave the 76ers a 79-71 lead.

Cavaliers 106, Nets 105

John Bagley's jumper from the top of the key with three seconds to play gave Cleveland a victory over New Jersey.

The Nets, who lost to Cleveland for the second time this week, took a 105-104 lead with 10 seconds left when Buck Williams put in a rebound of Dwayne Washington's missed layup on a New Jersey fast break.

After a Cleveland timeout, Bagley took the inbounds pass near midcourt, fed the ball inside to Mel Turpin, who quickly passed it back out to Bagley at the top of the circle.

New Jersey called another timeout time with two seconds left, but Orlando Woolridge, stepped on the out-of-bounds line on the ensuing inbounds pass.

Hawks 114, Bucks 97

Dominique Wilkins scored 41 points and grabbed a season-high 16 rebounds as Atlanta moved into a virtual tie for first place in the Central Division with a victory over Milwaukee.

Atlanta, which entered the game trailing division leader Detroit by one-half game, has a 45-22 record and still trails the Pistons by .005 percentage points. Detroit, idle Friday, has a record of 44-21.

The Bucks fell to four games behind Detroit and Atlanta in the divisional race. After Randy Wittman hit a jumper to put the Hawks ahead 24-23 late in the first period, Atlanta never trailed again.

But it's hard to play Herkimer without wanting to run up and down the floor with them."

THE CHAPS had little trouble running the floor on the Generals as quick hands and fast breaks set up basket after easy basket.

The Generals, 32-3, stayed with the high-octane Chaparral offense for the first 10 minutes of the game. But Alex Stanwood and Minor combined for a five point run at 10:21 in the first half and the Chaps were off and gunning.

In Southern Idaho, the Chaparrals will face another team that likes to run the floor. The Golden Eagles of Twin Falls, averaged more than 100 points a game on their way to their No. 2 national ranking and a 36-1 season mark.

Knee ends season for Knicks' Ewing

NEW YORK (AP) — The knee injury that will sideline New York Knicks center Patrick Ewing the rest of the NBA season will not require surgery, and he is expected to have a full recovery by next season.

Ewing injured the left knee Thursday night when he slipped on a wet spot in the first quarter of the Knicks' 111-105 overtime victory over the Indiana Pacers. Last year, he missed most of the second half of the season after injuring his right knee, and he underwent surgery in March.

Knicks spokesman John Cirillo said Ewing will wear a knee brace for three to four weeks. The Knicks, who have virtually no chance to make the playoffs, play their final regular-season game on April 18 at Cleveland.

"If it was a matter of him (Ewing) playing in the playoffs, he might be ready," Cirillo said. "But we're not talking about a playoff situation here."

Ewing has missed three games this season with an inflamed left knee. He had arthroscopic surgery on his right knee a year ago to remove a piece of soft tissue, but despite playing only 50 games, he was the NBA's Rookie of the Year, averaging 20 points per game.

This season, Ewing averaged 21.5 points and 8.8 rebounds in 63 games. With 16 games left, the Knicks have a 21-45 record and are in next-to-last place in the Atlantic Division.

Shriver survives Turnbull

DALLAS (AP) — Second-seeded Pam Shriver overcame seventh-seeded Wendy Turnbull of Australia 6-4, 6-4 in Friday night's quarterfinal play at the $250,000 Virginia Slims of Dallas tournament.

Shriver will meet sixth-seeded Lori McNeil in one of Saturday night's semifinals.

Third-seeded Zina Garrison also advanced to the semifinals Friday. She will meet the winner of Friday night's final quarterfinal match between top-seeded Chris Evert Lloyd and unseeded Stephanie Rehe.

The final, with a first-place prize of $50,000, will be contested Sunday afternoon at 1 p.m. CST.

McNeil fought off three match points in the second set, won the tie-breaker and went on to a 5-7, 7-6, 6-2 upset of fourth-seeded Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria. Garrison had little trouble in defeating fifth-seeded Bettina Bunge of West Germany 6-3, 6-4.

Shriver and Turnbull have had their share of tight matches over the years. Shriver took a 12-10 series lead with Friday's victory, but Shriver has won 10 of their last 12 meetings.

Shriver won both sets with service breaks in the 10th games. She trailed 4-3 in the second set, losing her serve in a game during which she double-faulted four times.

But she broke back in a four-deuce game, evening the set at 4-4 with a volley into an open court. She took a 5-4 lead by holding serve with a neat passing shot.

Tigers hit key late shots to oust Demons

CINCINNATI (AP) — Nikita Wilson scored 24 points and Anthony Wilson hit a 15-foot jump shot with 25 seconds left to provide the winning margin as Louisiana State defeated DePaul 63-58 in the semifinals of the NCAA Midwest Regional Friday night.

The Tigers, 24-14, took the last of 13 lead changes in the game for a 58-57 advantage on Wilson's inside shot with 2:48 remaining.

LSU's Oliver Brown then stole a pass from DePaul's Andy Laux with 1:01 remaining. LSU went into its delay game, with Wilson driving and hitting the key jump shot from the left side for a 60-57 lead.

DePaul's Terence Greene was fouled by Bernard Woodside on a 3-point field goal attempt with 13 seconds remaining. He hit the second of two free throws to make it 60-58.

LSU then inbounded and went the length of the court, with Woodside hitting a driving layup while getting fouled with four seconds remaining. He hit the free throw for a 63-58 lead to send LSU to the regional championship game for the second straight year.

Indiana, 27-4 and the region's top seed, advanced to Sunday's regional final against Louisiana State, 24-14, which beat fifth-ranked DePaul 63-58 earlier Friday.

Mast holds New Orleans lead

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Dick Mast birdied the final hole to finish off a 68 that left him one stroke in front of the field Friday in the second round of the $500,000 USF&G Classic.

"I was burning the hole all day. I learned last year that you have to be patient," said Mast, 36, who had one of the strongest performances of his career, a seventh place finish, in this tournament last year.

"I made a couple of birdies coming in and that kind of saved the day," said Mast, who has spent most of his career on golf's mini-tours.

Mast reached the tournament halfway point at 132, 12 under par, despite his concern for his veteran tour caddy, 79-year-old Lee Lynch.

Lynch was hospitalized Thursday night suffering from acute emphysema, Mast said. "He was ready for cardiac arrest, but he's OK now," Mast said.

While Mast retained the lead, some of the PGA Tour's more experienced performers moved up as Jim Thorpe led the wholesale assault on par with a 9-under-par 63.

He said he received a tip from Lee Trevino on the putting green and suddenly "felt like I was going to make every putt."

He didn't make them all. But he did one-putt 13 times.

"Ideal conditions. Perfect weather, perfect greens," said Ben Crenshaw, who also remained in the title hunt.

Bob Gilder, a non-winner for four years, retained his second-place standing with a 68 that left him one shot back at 133.

Crenshaw, with a 68, Thorpe and Ronnie Black, who had a 67, were another stroke behind at 134.

They were followed by Hal Sutton and Mike Sullivan at 135. Sullivan had a 66 and Sutton made five birdies in a row in a round of 65.

Tom Watson, a two-time winner of this tournament, had another 69 that left him at 138, six shots back with two rounds to go.

Defending champion Calvin Peete improved to a 68 and was at 142.

Mast, who hasn't finished higher than fifth in an off-and-on PGA Tour career that began in 1974, was one shot back late in the day. But he pitched to within a foot on his 15th hole to gain a tie for the top and regained the lead alone with an 8-foot birdie putt on his final hole.

Clemens working out with old high school team in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — Roger Clemens is back throwing batting practice for his old team.

Not the Boston Red Sox, but the Spring Woods Tigers, the high school team he left seven years ago.

"My feelings are still the same, nothing has changed," Clemens said Thursday, refusing to discuss his contract dispute with the Red Sox.

Clemens walked out of the Red Sox' training camp in Florida March 6 and is being fined $1,000 a day. After posting a 24-4 record last season and leading Boston into the World Series, he wants a contract of $2.4 million over two years. Boston is offering $500,000 plus $350,000 in incentives for this year.

"I'm here for a week to see my wife and kids," Clemens said. "I'll work out in different places so I won't draw as much media attention. I'll let you know when I want to talk."

Clemens came to the Spring Woods workout unannounced on Tuesday and returned Wednesday and Thursday.

Clemens looked just like the other high school players, wearing school-issue gold cap, black T-shirt and gray sweat pants.

Thursday, he threw batting practice for about an hour.

"It's an honor to catch him," reserve catcher Scott Rogan said. "He inspires you. He makes you think if he can do it, I can do it."

Pitcher Greg Hammond said Clemens didn't say anything about his contract dispute.

"He was just out there working on baseball," Hammond said.

Stephenson still up by two in Tucson

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Jan Stephenson maintained her two-stroke lead Friday despite problems with her drives during the second round of the $200,000 LPGA Tucson Open.

Stephenson's card included scattered birdies and several par-saving putts for a 36-hole total of 137 over the 6,214-year par-72 Randolph North golf course.

Sally Quinlan shot the day's low round, a 68, to take over second place at 139.

Jill Briles bettered her opening round 72 by three strokes Friday for a 141 total. She was joined by Betsy King, last year's runner-up, and Shelly Hamlin. Both posted 71.

King highlighted her round with a 25-foot chip-in for a birdie 3 on the fifth hole, while Hamlin eagled the par-5 18th. Others at 141 were Sherri Turner, with a 70, and Lauri Peterson, who had been tied for second with an opening-round 69 but who slipped to 72.

Past Tucson Open champions Chris Johnson (1984) and Amy Alcott (1985) were among those bunched at 143.

Defending champion Penny Pulz shot a second consecutive 72 for a 144 total.

Deedee Roberts, who shared second place after the opening round, shot a 76 for a 145 total, joining Pat Bradley, the 1986 LPGA Player of the Year, who fired a 70.

Stephenson, who has worked through some recent putting problems, expressed fear she might have trouble with her driver.

The 13-year veteran, who played the back side first, missed the fairway on her first two holes, but recovered with par-saving puts from 15 and five feet.

She birdied her third hole, No. 12, by sinking a five-footer, then put her driver away for the rest of the round in favor of a 4-wood. She also birdied two par-3s, hitting a 6-iron within 18 inches on No. 15 and a 3-iron within five feet on No. 6.

Connors gains semifinals against Gilbert

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Top-seeded Jimmy Connors cruised to a quarterfinal victory Friday in the $315,000 PaineWebber Classic when a knee injury forced eighth-seeded Tim Wilkison to retire in the second set of their battle.

Connors was only one game away from victory anyway, leading 6-2, 5-2. Wilkison injured his left knee early in the match when he crashed into the stands in pursuit of the ball.

In Saturday's semifinals, Connors will play fourth-seeded Brad Gilbert, who beat Marcel Freeman 4-6, 6-3, 6-1.

The other semifinal pits third-seeded Tim Mayotte against unseeded Christo van Rensburg of South Africa. Mayotte downed Paul Annacone 6-1, 7-5, while van Rensburg rallied past Derrick Rostagno 2-6, 6-1, 7-5.

Connors, seeking his first tournament victory since October 1984, said Wilkison gave him a thorough test even though the scores indicated otherwise.

"It might have looked easy, but I thought it was a pretty good battle out there," Connors said. "I enjoy the way Tim plays. He hustles. You know you'll never get a free point."

Wilkison, who had recent arthroscopic surgery on his right knee, said he thought Connors would have won regardless of the injury.

"I kept playing because I thought the people were enjoying it and having fun," Wilkison said. "Once I got hurt, I knew there was no way I would win the match. Jimmy's playing really well, exceptionally well."

Wilkison earned just three points on Connors' serve in the first set. Wilkison held serve to go up 1-0 in the second set, but Connors won the next four games, including two breaks.

Gilbert performed sluggishly in the first set against Freeman. But he turned the match around with a break in the second set's seventh game. Freeman used an ace to go up 40-love, but Gilbert rallied with effective net play.

Gilbert dominated the third set, breaking Freeman twice.

Iowa State wants Iowa's thunder

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Iowa State, trying to deny state rival Iowa a record 10th consecutive NCAA wrestling championship, built a seemingly comfortable 14½-point lead Friday night over the Hawkeyes by winning all five of its semifinal matches.

The Cyclones, qualifying five finalists for the first time since 1972, built a 109-94½ edge although Iowa won in four of its five semifinals.

"I feel a lot better now," said youthful Iowa State Coach Jim Gibbons, whose team was a disappointing fourth last year. "I thought tonight could decide it and I hope it does."

"I'm not going to kill myself if we don't win it," Iowa Coach Dan Gable said.

About the only way Iowa could wrest the title away would be if the Hawkeyes beat Iowa State in their three head-to-head championship bouts and the Cyclones stumble in their other two matches.

In the only intra-Iowa semifinal, the unseeded John Heffernan, 16-11-2, was an 8-0 loser to fourth-seeded Stewart Carter, 31-6-2, of Iowa State at 158.

All-Iowa finals will match defending 126-pound champion Brad Penrith, 14-2, of Iowa against No. 2 Bill Kelly, 27-2-4; returning champion Jim Heffernan, 36-2, of Iowa against top seed Tim Krieger, 28-0, at 150; and No. 1 seed Royce Alger, 34-0, against Iowa State's No. 2 Kevin Jackson, 30-2-1, at 167.

Jackson survived a 2-2, 1-1 criteria decision over Penn State senior Greg Elinsky in a match decided by an overtime riding time advantage.

Gable is glad the title might be decided in the three intrastate matches.

"That's fine, that's great. That's the way it should be," Gable said. "Twelve points will be decided right there."

SMU votes out Governors

DALLAS (AP) — Southern Methodist University's Board of Trustees voted Friday to abolish the Board of Governors and replace it with an interim executive committee to protect against the possibility of another damaging football scandal.

"I believe that this will ensure that SMU will never have to go through the agonies of recent months again," said William Hutchison, chairman of the Board of Governors.

Gov. Bill Clements, who resigned as chairman of the Board of Governors before taking office in January, revealed March 3 that he and several other board members learned of payments to SMU football players in 1984 and decided to continue them.

On Feb. 25, the NCAA abolished football at SMU in 1987 because of a booster slush fund that paid $61,000 to 13 players after the school was placed on its sixth probation in August 1985.

"We felt that basically, due to some actions and statements that had taken place, it had probably lost its credibility," Dr. Leighton Farrell, chairman of SMU's Committee on Governance and a United Methodist pastor, said Friday of the 21-member Board of Governors.

Clements' press secretary, Reggie Bashur, said Friday the governor would have no comment.

The Board of Governors served as an executive committee of the 71-member Board of Trustees, which runs the university. SMU is owned by the United Methodist Church.

"The athletic part of it is a tiny piece of the university, and that's one of the obvious tragedies," said Dallas oilman Ray L. Hunt, chairman of the new interim committee and a member of the Board of Governors.

"In effect, a relatively minor part of the university has generated a grossly disproportionate amount of negative publicity," he said.

"I honestly think today's meeting was a watershed event in the history of this university," Hunt said. He said the changes would "ensure that the problems the university is going through right now will not occur again in the future."

The interim committee will serve until the trustees meet May 8 to consider a permanent restructuring plan, which is expected to include a permanent executive committee of 12 voting members, with the presidents of the student body and alumni association serving as non-voting members.

Farrell said the plan also would reduce the number of trustees to 41 — 36 elected members, SMU's provost and the presidents of the university, faculty senate, student body and alumni association.

The trustees would meet every other month, leaving day-to-day administrative duties to the university president.

SMU has not named a replacement for L. Donald Shields, who resigned as university president in November, citing health problems aggravated by the football recruiting scandal.

"We're going to have a new governance structure — modern and efficient and really modeled after the best schools in the country," Hunt said. "All of the issues that are really important to a president will have been just very freshly looked at."

Of the streamlined board of trustees, four would be United Methodist bishops, 22 would be nominated by the trustees' current nominating committee and 10 would be named by the College of Bishops of the United Methodist Church's South Central Jurisdiction, Farrell said.

The plan also would create a 75-member University Board, consisting of the trustees, the six bishops not on the trustees and 28 "friends and benefactors," he said.

"The recommendations outlined offer an orderly approach to a change in leadership and I'll do whatever I can to assist in that transition," said Edwin L. Cox, chairman of the Board of Trustees.

IRS issues formal ruling on mortgage 'points'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service, responding to heavy criticism from Congress, issued a formal ruling Friday to justify an announcement last year that restricted the immediate deduction of "points" paid in refinancing a home mortgage.

The ruling restated the IRS position taken in a news release last May 13 — that points may be deducted fully in the year paid only if proceeds of the mortgage are used to buy or improve a principal home.

When the mortgage proceeds are used to pay off an old mortgage or to finance an education, for example, points must be deducted over the life of the loan.

One day I was playing golf with a close friend who was a golf pro. After I had made great effort to hit the ball as far as I could—and it went less distance than I could have thrown it—he shook his head and said, "You surely waste a lot of money."

"What's money got to do with my bad golf shot?" I asked.

"Well," he said. "You spend all that money on golf clubs, then won't let them do their work for you. You're trying to guide the ball. That's the club's job."

I pondered the pro's words. It suddenly occurred to me that what I do with a golf club, I often do with life, especially with God's Word—the Bible.

The Bible is filled with truth and guidance; with great life-principles. Rather than accepting by faith God's Word, I often try to "make the shot" all by myself, rather than allowing His truth to guide the "shots" of my life.

LIFESCOPE

Life Offers Many Experiences! Your Lifescope Asks, "Which Path Will You Follow?"

The Lord pleads with you: ask where the good road is, the godly paths . . . and walk therein and you will find rest for your souls. You (O Lord) will show me the path of life; in Your presence is fullness of joy . . .

Teach me, O Lord, the way of Your statutes, and I shall keep it to the end. Give me understanding, and I shall keep Your law; indeed, I shall observe it with my whole heart. Make me walk in the path of Your commandments, for I delight in it. Incline my heart to Your testimonies, and not to covetousness. Turn away my eyes from looking at worthless things, and revive me in Your way.

Your Word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path. The curse of God is on the wicked, but His blessing is on the upright, so do not enter the path of the wicked, and do not walk in the way of evil. Avoid it, do not travel on it; turn away from it and pass on. For they do not sleep unless they have done evil . . . But the path of the just is like the shining sun, that shines ever brighter unto the perfect day. The way of the wicked is like darkness; they do not know what makes them stumble.

My Child, give attention to My words; incline your ear to My sayings. Do not let them depart from your eyes; let your eyes look straight ahead. Ponder the path of your feet, and let all your ways be established. Do not turn to the right or the left; remove your foot from evil.

Taken from Jer. 6, Ps. 16, 119, Prov. 3, 4,
The Living Bible and The New King James.

Are 'professionals' answer to priest shortage?

RELIGION

By DEAN GOLEMBESKI

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Roman Catholics may find at least part of an answer soon to their debate over whether resorting to lay professionals would cure the church's shortage of priests.

In a year-long study now getting under way, researchers will assess the economic costs of hiring professional parish leaders, but the effort will not address the religious or theological consequences of shifting away from ordained clergy.

"The study got started because of a particular problem the Catholic church is having in terms of providing ordained priests," said Jackson W. Carroll, director of research at Hartford Seminary.

"They're experimenting with a variety of patterns, one pattern including deacons who are unpaid, but another pattern being for paid professional laity."

These professionals include married Catholics, women and men who have had some seminary or professional training, Carroll said. These professionals can do everything other than celebrate the Eucharist and hear confessions, he said.

"In many cases, from what we understand, the bishops really don't know what the cost of this new pattern is. Is it more than an ordained priest or not?" Carroll asked. "So what does it cost if they're going to provide either an adequate salary or housing or other kinds of benefits?"

Carroll said the study will look at the costs of hiring a professional at churches which have gone that route — the Episcopal, United Methodist and Lutheran churches. The study also will look the costs of supporting a priest at the diocesan and local levels.

Carroll will be joined in his research by Dean R. Hoge, a Catholic University sociologist, and the Rev. Francis Scheets, a church management specialist. They have received a $141,399 grant from Lilly Endowment Inc. and will begin work this spring. Carroll said Thursday a report will be issued next year.

Eight standard metropolitan statistical areas defined by the Census Bureau were selected at random for the study. Within each region, the ledgers of eight Catholic parishes and 16 Protestant parishes will be examined. The eight regions are: Nashua, N.H; Trenton, N.J.; Oriando, Fla.; Mobile, Ala.; Longview, Texas; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Cleveland; and Bellingham, Wash.

The protestant churches were included in the study because they have had many years experience with professionals and some similarities of either sacraments or patterns of governance.

"On the Protestant side there's not a shortage, but there are many smaller Protestant churches that can't afford full-time ordained leadership in the traditional pattern," Carroll sadi. "There are a lot of other Protestant churches that are moving toward using professionally trained lay persons. ...We're trying to look at the various options for ministry."

The study also will look beyond finances and try to determine the perceived level of effectiveness of priests vs. professionals, Carroll said. Lay leaders will be asked to evaluate the appropriateness and effectiveness of their programs, he said.

The study will not make any recommendations to church leaders. It will simply provide information for church leaders as they weigh alternatives.

Priests at the Archdiocese of Hartford's 222 parishes receive stipends that range from $7,440 a year to $8,480 a year, according to Elizabeth Horton, fiscal administrator.

Women's Zionist Organization founded 75 years ago

NEW YORK (AP) — With a year-long series of events in the United States and Israel, Hadassah, the Women's Zionist Organization of America, is observing the 75th anniversary of its founding.

Hadassah was started in 1912 in New York City by Henrietta Szold, Zionist pioneer and daughter of a Baltimore rabbi. Evolving from a small women's study circle, it has become what is said to be the largest women's volunteer organization in the world, with 385,000 members.

Its goals, according to current president Ruth Popkin, are to enrich the lives of its members and to effect significant advances in the quality of life in Israel.

"Hadassah has come to symbolize the vital role played by women in American Jewish communal life and their wide-ranging contributions to their communities, the nation and world Jewry," Mrs. Popkin says.

Projects are geared to Hadassah's services in Israel, programs in leadership training and personal development, Jewish education, Zionist and American affairs and Zionist youth activities.

Recently the organization has been developing new programs aimed at helping young career women and wives balance the demands of work, family and service.

RELIGION IN BRIEF

Israeli Independence Day to be honored in Midland

Israeli Independence Day will be marked in Midland with "A Night to Honor Israel."

The event, slated for 7:30 p.m. Monday, May 4, at the Holiday Inn Convention Center, will occur as Israel begins its 40th year of statehood and on the 20th anniversary of the reunification of Jerusalem.

The cultural evening — part of Midland's annual Celebration of the Arts — also symbolizes a new spirit of unity moving through Jews and Christians in America.

"Representatives of both the Christian and Jewish communities began making plans for this historic evening in the Permian Basin" during organizational meetings in February, noted coordinators Jack and Judy Stone.

Among participants are Rabbi Tracy Klirs of Temple Beth El, Odessa; Noah Fishman, president of the synagogue; and Stanley Saikin, chairman of American-Israel Public Affairs Committee.

Addressing the May gathering will be the Rev. John Hagee, pastor of Cornerstone Church of Castle Hills in San Antonio and founder of Global Evangelism Television Inc., and "A Night to Honor Israel."

A musical salute will be presented by the Midland College Community Band, directed by Walter Osadchuck, and a local interfaith choir. Traditional Jewish dances will be performed by the Israeli Folk Dancers of Houston's Beth Yeshurun Synagogue.

Bringing greetings will be Midland's mayor and the Israeli Consul from Houston.

Persons interested in participating are invited to contact Jack or Judy Stone at 684-4052 or 694-3090.

Currently serving as subsitute pastor for the Wisconsin Synod in Florida, he has previously served in congregations in Wisconsin and Illinois.

The public is invited to the service.

Bowers addresses group

Bowers

The Rev. Marianne Bowers will be the guest speaker for Unity of West Texas Sunday, 9:30 a.m., at the Airport Executel, 100 Airport Plaza, in the Hospitality Room.

Ms. Bowers is the minister of Unity in San Angelo. Her lesson-sermon will be "Unconditional Love."

A graduate of the Unity Ministerial School, Unity Village, Mo., she was ordained in June 1980. She has served at the San Angelo church since that time.

She is a cum laude graduate of Purdue University, a member of the American Association of University Women, the International New Thought Alliance, the National Association of Female Executives and the International Platform Association. Revival to mark 200 years

Brown

The African Methodist Episcopal Church is celebrating its 200th anniversary this year. In honor of the event, Greater St. Luke A.M.E. will hold a revival Monday through Friday. The Rev. E.E. Brown, pastor of Sherman Chapel A.M.E. in San Antonio, will be the revival minister.

The A.M.E. Church was organized in 1887 by Richard Allen, an ex-slave. According to a church spokesman, Allen and other black worshippers formed the new church after leaving a Philadelphia Methodist Episcopal church in protest of segregation during the worship service.

The new congregation first met in a blacksmith shop. It was there that the symbol of the A.M.E. church, the Cross and an anvil, was first chosen. Allen chose the name for the new organization because, according to the spokesman, African was the only way of indentifying the black race at that time.

The organization has grown considerably since that time. The A.M.E. Church has founded colleges in the United States, one of which is Paul Quinn College in Waco. The church has also etablished churches in North America, Central America, and Africa. According to the spokesman, it has a total membership of close to nine million.

According to the Rev. S.V. Ferguson, pastor of Greater St. Luke A.M.E. Church, the public is invited to the revival. The alter will be open for prayer each day at 7 p.m. The revival meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

'The Gathering' will begin

The First Presbyterian Church of Midland will hold the spring session of "The Gathering" beginning Wednesday. There will be four courses offered each Wednesday evening for seven weeks.

The courses are a bible study of the book of Acts, led by Wally Fullinwider; Charlie Shedd's film series, "Fun in the Marriage," led by Sally Green; Stress Management, taught by the Rev. Jerry Kelly; and a film series, "Ordering Your Private World," limited to those who attended the winter session.

Dinner will be served from 5:30 to 6:15 p.m. There is a charge for the meal. Adult courses and children's choirs will be held 6:30-7:30 p.m. There is no charge for the courses.

The Gathering is an educational program begun at the church in the fall of 1986. Fall and winter sessions averaged 150-200 people in attendance each week, according to pastor, Russ Ritchel. A different group of courses is offered in each session.

Registration should be made by calling the church office at 684-7821. The public is invited, according to Ritchel.

Family Night continues

Grace Presbyterian Church, 2801 N. Garfield, will continue its Family Night on Wednesday. A potluck supper begins at 6 p.m.

The program will be a mission film, "Lift Up Your Hearts."

Brown named to council

Kelley Brown of Midland was elected to a three-year term on Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary's advisory council at a recent meeting of the group.

Brown is vice president of Linebery Foundation.

The advisory council is a group of Christian laypeople who serve as advisers to the seminary administration in planning, promoting and building the school. Since 1959, the group has aided in obtaining gifts for capitol needs, endowment and student aid, and has worked for good will for the seminary in the U.S.

Southwestern Seminary, one of six seminaries affiliated with the Southern Baptist Convention, is, according to a spokesman of the school, the world's largest theological school. Each year more than 5,000 men and women prepare for ministry in Southwestern's schools of theology, religious education and church music.

He came to Midland in 1986 as mission developer and has served as vacancy pastor at Grace since September.

EWTN founder to visit city

Mother Angelica

At the invitation of Midland Council 3071 of The Knights of Columbus, the foundress of EWTN, the Catholic Cable Television Newtork, will visit Midland on March 27. Mother Mary Angelica will arrive at Midland Regional Airport Friday at noon and will be greeted by members of the Midland Chamber of Commerce M-Squad Ambassadors. Mayor Carroll Thomas will be on hand to present her with the key to the city.

Following the brief airport visit, the group will go to the Midland Hilton where Mother Angelica will be the guest of honor at a fund raising luncheon.

At 8 p.m. Friday Mother Angelica will make a public appearance at the Chaparral Center on the Midland College Campus.

"She will share with the audience how EWTN has become the fastest growing television network in the country," said KC spokesman Greg Elsner.

"Moreover," he added, "she will discuss the healing power of the Holy Spirit as He uses the medium of television to reach the minds and hearts of men."

Grand Knight David Tomlinson said the group is honored that Mother Angelica accepted their invitation to come to West Texas. "It is understood that she does not have much time for travel and this is the first time she has visited the Permian Basin."

Officials think suspects spying for Soviet bloc

PARIS (AP) — Six people arrested on espionage charges were seeking information on the propulsion system of Europe's Ariane rocket and were probably working for the Soviet bloc, officials said Friday.

Sources close to the investigation said privately that a seventh person was being sought and police were trying to determine whether the ring gained access to vital information. The four men and two women charged were arrested Monday.

The Soviet Union delivered a protest to the Foreign Ministry accusing French news media of a "campaign of disinformation and lies."

It said the Kremlin "categorically rejects the lying assertions, which harm the development of good relations with the U.S.S.R." The statement, made public by the Soviet Embassy, said the "inventions represent an attempt to cast a shadow over the advantageous development of cooperation between the U.S.S.R. and France, in particular on the question of peaceful exploration of cosmic space."

Ariane and U.S. NASA programs have monopolized the commercial satellite-launching market, but launchers in both programs are grounded because of recent failures.

Sources said the six people arrested were charged Wednesday with espionage for a foreign power that was not identified. Among the six are three engineers and a free-lance journalist working for Le Figaro, they said.

"It seems to have been established that a search for information on cryogenic propulsion had been carried out," said Jean Sollier, head of the European Propulsion Society, which builds Ariane motors. "It is up to investigators to uncover the extent and damage."

His statement said one of the six suspects was once employed by a subsidiary of the European Propulsion Society and most recently worked as a temporary at the National Center for Space Sciences at Vernon, Normandy.

Cryogenic propulsion involves liquid hydrogen and oxygen stored at very low temperatures, then brought together in the rocket engine. It was first mastered by the United States.

Frederic d'Allest, president of Arianespace and head of the National Center for Space Studies, said the alleged spies probably were working for the Soviet Union or one of its allies.

He said other countries, including Brazil and India, might be interested in the advanced technology of the Ariane rocket engines, "but I don't want to suggest a false trail. It certainly seems that it is the trail to the East that is concerned."

Sources close to the police said investigators were hunting Serge Notheaux, husband of Antonetta Manole, a Romanian immigrant among the six arrested.

They said investigators believed the ring was led by Pierre Verdier, an engineer at the Rouen office of the national statistics institute, INSEE, who is married to Soviet-born Ludmila Varyguine. Both were arrested, the sources said.

The other three arrested and charged were another statistics institute employee, Michel Fleury; Jean-Michel Haury, the former European Propulsion Society engineer, and journalist Philippe Mallard, the sources said on condition of anonymity.

Italian general gunned down

ROME (AP) — Two young men shot to death an air force general Friday in the capital. The government blamed the Red Brigades and a caller claimed responsibility for a group thought to be an offshoot of the leftist terrorist organization.

Cmdr. Francesco Di Mento, a Defense Ministry spokesman, said the victim was Gen. Licio Giorgieri, 61, an engineer in charge of buying and maintaining arms and aircraft.

Police said the 6:45 p.m. shooting occurred in the Aurelia neighborhood, a verdant section near the sprawing Villa Doria Pamphili park and about three miles from the historic heart of the capital.

The general was in a chauffer-driven air force car when two youths on a motorcycle, their faces covered by the shields of their white helmets, pulled alongside and shot him with pistols, the news agency AGI reported.

About an hour later, an anonymous woman caller told the Milan office of the Rome newspaper La Repubblica that the killing was the work of the Fighting Communist Union, the ANSA news agency reported. It said the group is believed a splinter group of the Red Brigades, which orchestrated a reign of terror in the late 1970s and early 1980s.

"This evening we took care of Licio Giorgieri, the top man in charge of constructing arms and air force and space armaments. A communique will follow. Fighting Communist Union," news media quoted the caller as saying.

Giorgieri, shot several times in the chest, was dead on arrival at a hospital, police said.

Giorgieri's driver was quoted as telling police that when he looked into the rearview mirror of the navy blue Fiat 131, he saw a motorcycle with two men aboard. Because the motorcycle kept flashing its headlight, the driver pulled over to the let it pass, he said. Then the firing began.

The motorcycle stopped alongside the car and the man on the rear got off and fired more shots at the general, police said the driver told them.

The killers then sped off. Police quickly set up roadblocks to try to block their escape and were examining a motorcycle found nearby to see if it was the one used in the attack.

Police did not identify the chauffeur. He was not wounded and was being questioned by Italy's anti-terrorist squad, DIGOS, news agencies said.

Reports said at least five and perhaps as many as 10 shots were fired. The rear window of the car was shattered.

The driver was quoted as saying Giorgieri regularly took that route home.

"The Red Brigades continue to operate," news agencies quoted Defense Minister Giovanni Spadolini as saying as he left the premier's office where a Cabinet meeting was about to begin to go to the scene.

The attack "constitutes a new blow in the plan launched to destabilize the country, a plan which will find, on the part of the state, a firm and decisive reply," Spadolini said.

Referring to the terrorist attacks that plagued Italy a few years ago, Spadolini said: "The killers are back among us...General Giorgieri was chosen as a most notable example of men in uniform who work for the defense, that is the independence and sovereignty of the country."

Communist Party leader Alessandro Natta noted the attack came in the middle of a political crisis, with politicians trying to form Italy's 46th post-war government following the resignation earlier this month of Premier Bettino Craxi.

Terrorism "yet again is able to strike with impunity in a phase of grave political instability," Natta said. He called for a quick settlement of the political disputes behind Craxi's resignation.

The Red Brigades was considered largely smashed in the early 1980s after a government crackdown. However, the urban guerrilla group recently resurfaced. On Feb. 14, gunmen ambushed and robbed a mail truck in Rome, killing two policemen, and the Red Brigades claimed responsibility.

For 14-year-old Tracey, the transition from childhood to early adolescence is not the same as it is for others. She is bored and depressed and displays frequent outbursts of anger. Behaviors that once were excused as discipline problems now no longer are acceptable to parents, teachers and others. To her family, home life has become strained and filled with frustration. They don't know where to turn for help.
Chronic sadness, inability to communicate with others or repeated school failure may indicate a serious emotional problem. For many adolescents and parents, Glenwood can replace confusion and frustration with insight and understanding. We want to help people learn to cope with life and its problems. South Africa's Botha says Israel's sanctions result of U.S. pressure

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Israel's adoption of sanctions against South Africa was "a direct result of pressure by the United States," Foreign Minister R.F. Botha said Friday.

It was the first government reaction to the Israeli move.

South Africa formally protested to Foreign Minister Shimon Peres in a letter delivered by the South African Embassy charge d'affaires, Johann Kilian, a ministry official said in Jerusalem. He insisted on anonymity.

Foreign Ministry officials in Pretoria refused to confirm this, saying Botha's statement was the only official comment on the Israeli Cabinet decision Wednesday to ban new military contracts and cut trade and cultural ties.

"The decision of the Israeli government is clearly a direct result of pressure by the United States," Botha said. "The measures announced, however, do not go further than those adopted by European countries."

The state-controlled South African Broadcasting Corp. said in a radio commentary, "One sad aspect of this development is the international blackmail role — the bully boy tactics — that the United States Congress has now resorted to in its vendetta against South Africa."

A U.S. government report to be released April 1 is expected to list Israel as one of Pretoria's five top weapons traders. Israel feared the report would strain relations with Washington and lead to pressure for a cutoff in U.S. military aid. Israel is to get about $1.3 billion in such aid.

The U.N. Security Council approved an international embargo on arms sales to South Africa in 1977. South Africa now is estimated to manufacture about 90 percent of its own arms needs as well as exporting weapons.

The Israeli announcement was greeted with dismay by critics as well as supporters of South Africa's white-led government.

The Star in Johannesburg said: "Israel has been handed a knife and told to stab a friend — or be stabbed instead."

Business Day, another Johannesburg newspaper opposed to sanctions and to the government's apartheid policies, said: "The awesome potential of the United States to inflict damage blindly on South Africa has been demonstrated once again in this country's previously warm, if discreet, relationship with Israel.

Police fire tear gas to disperse students at anti-government rally

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — Riot police swept onto a university campus Friday and fired tear gas to disperse an anti-government rally of about 600 students, witnesses reported. They said the youths fought back with rocks and firebombs.

About 900 police moved into Seoul National, South Korea's leading university, and dozens of protesters were arrested, the witnesses said. There was no immediate reports of injuries.

The newspaper Joong-Ang Ilbo said 132 students from other schools who tried to join the demonstration were stopped at the gate and taken away by police.

Student sources said sporadic clashes contined on the campus for about 90 minutes and protesters shouted anti-government slogans.

It was the first major campus protest against President Chun Doo-hwan's government since the spring semester began early this month at South Korea's 111 universities and colleges.

Apprehension has grown about the possibility of violent action to protest the death of a student under police torture Feb. 7.

Church officials said 40 Presbyterian ministers were completing the first week of a hunger strike Friday protesting the trial of a dissident clergyman on what they said were false charges and police use of force against his supporters.

The Presbyterian Church in the Republic of Korea, a national organization with headquarters in Seoul, said in a statement that the fast was being held at the Sungkwang church in the provincial capital of Chonju, 170 miles south of Seoul.

It said the fast began March 14 when police fired tear gas and used force to disperse about 200 ministers and laymen who tried to enter a court where the Rev. Kang Hui-nam was being tried on charges of violating the National Security Law.

Mr. Sears and Mr. Roebuck got together because of a classified ad!

In the late 1800's, Richard W. Sears had a pretty good business going selling watches and needed someone to handle his watch repairs. He placed a classified ad in the newspaper and Alvah C. Roebuck got the job. That's how the nation's biggest retailer got started... through a classified ad!

Bowie urges people to 'take AIDS test if they change sex partners'

LONDON (AP) — British singer-actor David Bowie said Friday that he has been tested for AIDS and urged others to follow his example.

"I would take an AIDS test every time I change a partner, and I suggest everybody take an AIDS test if they change partners," said Bowie, who is in London to promote a six-month, 100-city tour which begins in May. The AIDS virus is most often transmitted through sexual contact.

Bowie, 40, did not elaborate further on the test, in which blood is examined for antibodies to acquired immune deficiency syndrome. He called the virus "one of the most frightening diseases that this planet has ever faced."

A positive AIDS test does not mean a person has AIDS, but means the person has been exposed to the AIDS virus. The virus attacks the body's immune system and leaves victims susceptible to a variety of infections and cancers.

LONDON (AP) — Boy George, who hit the top of the British pop charts this week for the first time in four years, on Friday won a conditional discharge on a marijuana charge.

The singer, 25, known for his stage gowns and pancake makeup, received the two-year discharge after admitting possession of less than one ounce of marijuana last December. The ruling by Highbury Magistrates Court means he must stay out of legal trouble for two years.

"Thank you very much," Boy George, whose real name is George O'Dowd, told the magistrates. He wore black trousers, a blue sweater and no makeup for the 20-minute hearing.

Lady Moorea Black, chairman of the court, said the magistrates had taken into consideration Boy George's recovery from heroin addiction.

Since his recovery, Boy George has spoken out against drug abuse and revived his career. He soared to No. 1 this week with his latest single, "Everything I Own."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Cybill Shepherd is expecting twins, and the cast and crew of "Moonlighting" are thinking of them as "our two little spinoffs."

Bruce Willis, the wise-cracking male half of the "Moonlighting" detective duo, fielded questions with creator Glenn Gordon Caron for more than an hour as part of the Museum of Broadcasting's Fourth Annual Television Festival.

How will the series work around Miss Shepherd's pregnancy?

"Well, it was planned," Caron said. He added, "We're still sorting things out...The nature of 'Moonlighting' is that you spend a lot of time thinking about tomorrow and not a whole bunch of time thinking about next year."

"We like to think of them as our two little spinoffs," he said Wednesday.

Willis also denounced rumors of an off-screen feud between himself and Shepherd: "The thought that two people with such great chemistry and who work so well together could be fighting sells. It's really pretty much nonsense."

BOSTON (AP) — Mickey Rooney wants to produce and star in a television show about Bill Britt, a hermit being evicted by the government from a lean-to where he's lived for nearly 20 years.

Britt, 50 and legally blind, lives at the Chestnut Hill Reservoir in Brookline. Britt said on Friday that he does not have a signed contract.

"I simply gave my word. I would feel honored...if he would play the part. He's made for the part," he said.

Rooney, 66, is in Boston starring in "A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To The Forum." Rooney saw Britt on television and sent a limousine to take him to a restaurant Thursday night, where they had a knockwurst dinner.

"We are one in accord to get this done. And there is no more succinct title than 'The Hermit of Chestnut Hill,'" said Rooney, according to Friday's editions of The Boston Herald.

Britt, who lives on money he gets from returning discarded soda cans and bottles for deposits, has been ordered by a judge to vacate his home on publicly owned land by July 1.

NEW YORK (AP) — Revealing photographs of Vanna White are scheduled to appear in Playboy magazine, but the game show star says she owns the copyrights and is suing to block publication.

Hugh Hefner has said the May issue of the magazine will feature semi-nude photographs of Ms. White, who turns the letters on "Wheel of Fortune."

His spokeswoman, Elizabeth Norris, said that in 1982 Ms. White showed Hefner pictures and "discussed the possibility of her doing a layout, but nothing came of it." Hefner circulated a photograph Thursday of Ms. White showing him some photographs.

Ms. White's publicist, Michael Levine, told the New York Daily News, "It's a lie. It may be Vanna showing Hefner some pictures, but certainly not the pictures in question."

In the federal suit, Ms. White contends she owns the copyright to the photographs. David Gurian, the photographer, was also named in the suit.

The lawsuit is Ms. White's second against Playboy. She filed a $5.2 million damage suit in state court in Chicago last month.

POTOSI, Mo. (AP) — USA Today chairman and founder Allen H. Neuharth's latest escapade is "Buscapade," a six-month, 50-state bus tour of the United States.

The silver-haired news executive began a chronicle of his trip Friday with a column from the nation's geographic center near Potosi, Mo.

Neuharth is traveling in a customized tour bus sporting a USA Today logo, the newspaper said. The column, "Buscapade USA," will run Mondays and Fridays on the national newspaper's "Across the USA" page.

It appeared Friday under Neuharth's byline. A photo showed Neuharth wearing a cardigan sweater vest and sitting at an old, manual typewriter in the bus.

Neuharth's first column contains many of the features of USA Today's innovative format and style. The column had a map locating Missouri and its major cities along with facts and figures, thumbnail sketches of a few residents and quotes that the newspaper called "Plain Talk from Missouri."

LONDON (AP) — The Rolling Stones may never play together again, according to the group's bass guitarist, Bill Wyman, threatening a flat finale to one of the longest-running acts in rock music.

In an interview broadcast in Europe on Music Box television Thursday, Wyman blamed Mick Jagger, the five-man group's lead singer.

"He decided to do his own thing and be famous in his own right. I think everybody likes to have success on their own but I think there are other ways of doing it," he said.

"The time comes when all good things must pass. It's just one of those things. It's a pity we didn't go out with a big bang instead of just a whimper."

Harrison Ford stars as Allie Fox, a man possessed with the dream of escaping from the corrupting influences of the modern world to a jungle Utopia in "The Mosquito Coast." Ford has been disappointed by critics' reactions to the film.

Reaction to 'Coast' baffles Ford

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The reviews for "The Mosquito Coast" are in, and the star of the movie, Harrison Ford, is shaking his head in wonderment.

"I don't think I've ever seen critical reaction to a serious film like this," he said. "So many of the critics have rejected the character out of hand.

"It's a move that surprised me very much. I would have thought that this character would have been more admired because of his unusual characteristics and the fact that he is not a normal film hero. It seems to have created more confusion than admiration.

"I must say, however, that I find audiences have a different relationship to the film than many of the critics...The emotional reaction to the film is very strong."

The character Ford was talking about is Allie Fox, a brilliant tinkerer who leads his family away from the pollution of the American environment and values into a jungle adventure that is at first joyful. Then it turns tragic as Fox reacts to adversity with increasingly erratic and destructive behavior.

Ford suspects that some of the adverse response to "The Mosquito Coast" comes from those who, like young River Phoenix in the film, have had similarly destructive fathers.

Allie Fox is 180 degrees removed from the swashbuckling Han Solo and the devil-may-care Indiana Jones, which he played in five films that rank among the eight biggest grossers of all time. He also broke away from last year's adventure image as the police detective in "Witness," which won him his first Academy Award nomination.

"I have always tried to do different things," he said. "From the very beginning when 'Star Wars' was a success, I did try to play different characters in different kinds of films with different (filmmakers). It seems to me the logical ambition of an actor.

"What sense is it to be an actor if you play the same thing over and over again? You need to challenge and broaden yourself."

Ford was doing his duty as star of a difficult-to-sell movie, submitting to interviews in a Century Plaza Hotel suite. He does not enjoy the publicity whirl, preferring the life he and wife, Melissa Matheson, spend at their spread in Wyoming. They are expecting their first child; Ford has sons who are 18 and 20 from his first marriage.

"I spend about half the year in Wyoming," the 44-year-old actor said. "It's not so much a matter of guaranteeing sanity. I could maintain sanity here, or something like it.

"It's something more than that. It's a life I prefer to live. I don't like cities; I prefer the country. I prefer the simplicity of the life I live up there. At the same time, I realize I need the jazz and the excitement of working in the city every once in a while as well."

Harrison Ford was born to an Irish-Catholic father and Russian-Jewish mother in Chicago and grew up in suburban Park Ridge and Morton Grove. He majored in philosophy for four years at Ripon College in Wisconsin without earning a degree, finding that roles in campus plays helped relieve his basic shyness.

A Columbia Pictures scout spotted him in a Laguna Beach, Calif., playhouse, and he was signed to a $150-per-week contract in the waning days of the studio system. After Columbia dropped him, Ford drifted into television, working as a carpenter during slack periods. George Lucas cast him as the out-of-town hot rodder in "American Graffiti," then gave Ford the role of the intrepid pilot, Han Solo, in "Star Wars."

He agreed to doing "The Mosquito Coast" after reading Paul Schrader's script. He recognized the challenge of playing Allie Fox, and he had the added inducement of working with Australian Peter Weir, his director in "Witness."

How much of Harrison Ford is reflected in Allie Fox?

"There's Harrison Ford in every character I play. I have nothing to work with but the experience of Harrison Ford, the psychology of Harrison Ford. You have to translate it into another character. You have to make that character predominate. There's a lot of me (in Allie Fox), yeah."

He admitted that the character was more complicated than any he attempted before but added: "The job of acting is no more difficult in a more complicated or a less complicated part, not for me, at least."

The problem with Fox, he said, "is that he's proving himself in a world where he doesn't have to prove himself. He has the love of his family, but he is continually abusing that love, brokering that love, trying to manage that love. He's a complicated, difficult character, but no more unusual than some people (meaning critics) believe."

Ford was asked if he still pounds nails.

"Yes, once in a while — on my own projects," he said with a smile.

Mirren plays wife in 'Coast' with active acceptance

By JERRY ROBERTS
Copley News Service

In Peter Weir's film adaptation of Paul Theroux's The Mosquito Coast, Allie Fox is more than just the dominant character. As played by Harrison Ford in the new movie, he's a ranting, barging, arm-waving mad genius and an overwhelming presence.

For one of England's most respected stage actresses to have accepted the almost passive role of Mother, Allie's wife, the sun-browned, sturdy earth-mother of the story — about a man seeking to create his own utopia in the Central American wilderness — she would have to have a design on the character that would color her enough so that she wouldn't disappear into the background.

"I didn't see her as passive," Helen Mirren said in a recent interview at the office of her West Hollywood publicist. "I would find it impossible to play a passive character. I call it active acceptance. She's a mythological character anyway, not one grounded in reality.

"I had questions about the character. Neither Peter nor I had the foggiest idea of how the character was ever going to work. It was the insecurity of that, plus the mystical side of the character, that I found attractive. If you've got someone like Harrison stomping around in the middle of the screen with almost all of the lines, everybody else could appear as if they don't have much to do.

"In a funny way, it was so much more interesting than playing the usual kind of female character. Now, in films, women are always feisty. They used to be sweet. Female feistiness has taken over. At least she's not the normal kind of film female."

IT'S A ROLE that's quite different from her role in Cal (1984), an older woman having an affair with a youth, which won her the 1985 best actress award at the Cannes Film Festival. It's a role that overlays her own personality. Ms. Mirren isn't what can be called the normal kind of film actress.

Her background is in Shakespeare and other classics on the stages of the island nation that has for centuries nurtured the most respected lineage of dramatic acting. Her most cherished experience in the profession and in life is a year spent exploring the inner-sanctum of her craft in France with the legendary eclectic, Peter Brook.

Ms. Mirren also is not the normal kind of film actress, because she'll readily reveal her age, 39, eschew all makeup for an interview and carelessly bundle her straight blond hair into a pony tail on the side, like Teri Garr on cleaning day, yet doll up her chassis with a white blouse, black skirt and flattering shiny ebony pumps.

It may be a physical manifestation of unpretentious classiness. In any event, director Weir chose the actress for the part in The Mosquito Coast based on her ambiguity.

"Helen Mirren came in," Weir is quoted in the press notes, "and there was very little doubt from the moment I spoke to her that she could do it. She's a complex person, and she provides a range of interesting and contradictory aspects to the way she plays the part. The number of implications that come off her appearance speak the words that aren't written in the script, give us the information that would take a long time to be written."

Mirren's ambiguities extend to many phases of her life.

Her British stage triumphs as Lady Macbeth, Cleopatra, Ophelia in "Hamlet," Titania in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and contemporary dramas such as "Extremities," "Miss Julie" and "Teeth and Smiles" have been supplanted in the past few years by film work, most recently mainstream American films such as "2010" (1984), "White Nights" (1985) and "The Mosquito Coast."

FOR AN actress who's famous for her strong-willed woman roles, she sees her self as quite fragile.

"Actually, I'm weak-willed and dependent," she said matter-of-factly.

"But it's not how I wish to be. Temperamentally speaking, on stage, I'm used to being queens and murderesses. They're the parts I love to play, anything with a crown.

"I love to stalk around slapping servants," she elaborated, "I like dark passion, sex and violence."

Because of Hollywood film obligations, Ms. Mirren has adapted to the Los Angeles lifestyle throughout the past two years.

"I'm one-half Russian and the child of an immigrant, so I was really brought up on the outside of British society," she said. "So feeling like an immigrant is not new for me. I really quite like it here."

It's a far cry from Belize, where Weir and producer Jerome Hellman shot "The Mosquito Coast."

"(Belize) is backwater in one sense," Ms. Mirren said. "You get on the plane in modern Miami and get off it 80 years ago in a Graham Greene novel. It's very untouristy and totally unsophisticated. You can feel the origins of the Caribbean there. The conditions were very difficult for the crew.

"We were there for four months. I rented an apartment that had one of the six swimming pools in the country. The restaurants were real holes in the wall. The roads were not made up. They had a good telephone system, which made the exile easier. An actor's — I hate the word actress, it sounds so stagey — life on location is a very lonely one."

Costello aims to be 'King of America' with latest LP

By MARY CAMPBELL

Costello

"Some people do their washing up to records. There's no handbook on how to listen to my records but I think it is unlikely people wash up to mine."
— Elvis Costello

NEW YORK (AP) — Elvis Costello, considered the most talented songwriter to emerge from English new-wave rock, released two records last year with songs he considers to be more compassionate than usual.

"King of America" was released last spring, co-produced with T-Bone Burnett and used country studio musicians.

"It's a more open record, more clear lyrically and more generous in emotion," Costello said in an interview.

"There are not so many mean songs on it. Some of my most successful songs have been quite malevolent. Those things are in me, like in everybody else. When I start thinking about angry things I become meaner. I've got some pretty mean songs lying festering away in my songbag, you know."

"Blood and Chocolate," Costello's 13th LP in the United States, uses his long-time band, the Attractions.

"I very much want the new record to be successful because I've had few commercial successes," he said.

"Over the last couple of years I haven't been doing songs of great emotional substance. People's feelings have been strong for more vivid material that came earlier in my career. I haven't gone to the hearts of people. The ones they get excited about are the old songs, still."

The Columbia record was No. 74 with a bullet on the Oct. 25 best-selling chart, and has been applauded by music critics.

"Some people do their washing up to records," said Costello, who thinks his songs require concentrated listening. "There's no handbook on how to listen to my records but I think it is unlikely people wash up to mine."

An aura of mystery and unavailability has surrounded Costello through much of his career.

"It was for avoiding having to do interviews," he said in an interview. "They had written the article before they came to you. There was very little point in saying anything.

"It was easier to foster being difficult or mysterious or violent or all three, so people stayed away from you. I was working at a very furious pace. Let them write the stupid nonsense they were going to write anyway. All I wanted to do was get on with the work."

Costello lives in London. He put his real name, Declan McManus, on "King of America."

"I'm 32. I was 22 when I started. It's a way of saying that a period of time has elapsed and that's my name. You're not to take my name changing too seriously. There's no psychoanalytical reasoning behind it."

About changing Declan McManus to Elvis Costello, he said, "McManus was hard to say over the phone, the N and M. And teachers had great difficulty pronouncing Declan. My great-grandfather's name was Costello. My manager added Elvis, like a stunt, a lifelong stunt.

"There was a sense of 'How dare you appropriate that name?' There was an attraction in that. I thought he (Elvis Presley) was pretty good. I never was a big fan. His name wasn't taken out of reverence or disrespect. I've worked with musicians who were in his band. They were good-humored about it."

Costello's grandfather came to the United States in the 1930s as a ship's trumpet player. His father was a trumpet player and singer.

"I've got a trumpet; I've always meant to take it up," he said. "Somebody gave me a guitar. It has taken up all my time since."

He left school when he was 18. "I was living in Liverpool. I worked for a bank, then a cosmetics firm and then I got in this business.

"I made my first records while still working," he said. "I'd take sick days off. I gave up the bank when they said I had to stand outside when the bullion was delivered and blow a whistle if there was a raid. The first person they're going to shoot is the guy with the whistle."

Costello's 1981 "Almost Blue" and this year's "King of America" are country. "I wasn't born in Kentucky," he said.

"It doesn't mean the music isn't real to me. I have as much right to sing it as anybody. It was all stolen from English and Irish folk music in the first place."

But he doesn't care for his two 1984 albums. "I think 'Punch the Clock' was ill-conceived and very badly arranged. There were some quite good songs. And the record wasn't very humorous. I think I'm getting funnier as I'm getting better looking. 'Goodbye, Cruel World' was well executed and well produced, of quite slight songs."

Costello has recently been doing some record producing for the Irish band the Pogues.

"I'm not technically minded as a producer. I'm more like a musical director. I grab something with imaginative feeling and strong emotional content and capture it. I can describe what I want to hear.

"T-Bone Burnett worked that way with me. He told me not to lose my nerve if I failed to get one version down. He told me not to tinker with it. Remember why I wrote it instead of getting anxious and trying to change it."

Professional players take cues from man with 'secret juice'

By JOYCE A. VENEZIA

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The real secret to a professional billiards player's tournament success may lie outside the game hall, where Leonard Bludworth repairs cues with specially baked leather tips and "secret juice."

The 46-year-old Houston resident has become as much a regular on Professional Billiards Association tours as the champions themselves.

Many of the country's top billiards players tell promoters they won't attend a tournament unless Bludworth is on hand, and he traveled about 70,000 miles this year going from competition to competition.

"I've got about 40 professional players on the world tour as regular customers," Bludworth said recently at a tournament in this seaside resort. The same tournament a year earlier was filmed for some scenes in the Paul Newman-Tom Cruise movie "The Color of Money."

As a custom cue spins in his lathe, Bludworth slices off the old leather tip. A spritz of rubbing alcohol strips the wooden shaft of old wax, dirt, grime, chalk and the residue of smoke that lingers in billiards halls.

A little spit and some steel wool removes tiny blemishes and scratches on the ivory ferrule, the ring that prevents the end of the cue from splitting.

"Next comes my secret juice," Bludworth said, squirting on a golden fluid that smells like a combination of oils and nail polish remover.

"It's got some goodies in it, that's all I'm going to say," said Bludworth, adding that he sells quarts of his homemade solution for $25 each to cue makers.

Then he slides his fingers back and forth to feel for minor imperfections that might cost a billiards player a shot.

But the key feature is a custom leather tip, textured just enough to hold the right amount of blue chalk, that Bludworth began marketing in November.

"It's a little crude looking and rough, but I've sold 100 for $5 each in the past four days," he said.

The tiny circles of leather are "soaked in my own solution, and then cooked and cooked and cooked some more in my wife's oven."

The difference between a Bludworth tip and a commercially made tip is in the hardness.

Leonard Bludworth maintains cues for some of the country's best billiards players. Traveling on national tours with the players, he cleans the cues, spritzes them up with his "special juice" and makes a custom leather tip that he says doesn't hit "like a hard-boiled egg."

"The trick to a good game is to get a solid hit, not a spongy hit. If you hit the ball but you don't feel the hit or hear it as well as you should, then you're in trouble."
— Leonard Bludworth, pool cue repairman

"These are like hard-boiled eggs," Bludworth said, holding a commercial tip. "It's like they have a hard shell, but a soft- to medium-hard center.

"The trick to a good game is to get a solid hit, not a spongy hit. If you hit the ball but you don't feel the hit or hear it as well as you should, then you're in trouble."

Bludworth started working in the shipyard industry in Houston, playing pool as a sideline, but the industry went into a decline.

He said he then took to the road as a professional billiards player, selling cues on the side, but soon realized his advice on the care and repair of cues was worth more than his game.

He's also training his 19-year-old son Donald in the art of cue repair.

"We don't have any other employees," he said. "We don't want anyone lousing it up."

Bludworth said he doesn't know of anyone else who repairs cues on a full-time basis, and that he is the only one who sets up repair equipment at tournaments.

"To be successful at this, you've got to be out on the road with these guys," he said. "I'm out there helping the guys who are helping me feed my family."

He even keeps a tin of saddle soap handy to clean the players' leather cue cases.

"I keep my boys and girls in good shape all around," he said.

Harrison Ford stars as Allie Fox, a man possessed with the dream of escaping from the corrupting influences of the modern world to a jungle Utopia in "The Mosquito Coast." Ford has been disappointed by critics' reactions to the film.

Reaction to 'Coast' baffles Ford

By BOB THOMAS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The reviews for "The Mosquito Coast" are in, and the star of the movie, Harrison Ford, is shaking his head in wonderment.

"I don't think I've ever seen critical reaction to a serious film like this," he said. "So many of the critics have rejected the character out of hand.

"It's a move that surprised me very much. I would have thought that this character would have been more admired because of his unusual characteristics and the fact that he is not a normal film hero. It seems to have created more confusion than admiration.

"I must say, however, that I find audiences have a different relationship to the film than many of the critics...The emotional reaction to the film is very strong."

The character Ford was talking about is Allie Fox, a brilliant tinkerer who leads his family away from the pollution of the American environment and values into a jungle adventure that is at first joyful. Then it turns tragic as Fox reacts to adversity with increasingly erratic and destructive behavior.

Ford suspects that some of the adverse response to "The Mosquito Coast" comes from those who, like young River Phoenix in the film, have had similarly destructive fathers.

Allie Fox is 180 degrees removed from the swashbuckling Han Solo and the devil-may-care Indiana Jones, which he played in five films that rank among the eight biggest grossers of all time. He also broke away from last year's adventure image as the police detective in "Witness," which won him his first Academy Award nomination.

"I have always tried to do different things," he said. "From the very beginning when 'Star Wars' was a success, I did try to play different characters in different kinds of films with different (filmmakers). It seems to me the logical ambition of an actor.

"What sense is it to be an actor if you play the same thing over and over again? You need to challenge and broaden yourself."

Ford was doing his duty as star of a difficult-to-sell movie, submitting to interviews in a Century Plaza Hotel suite. He does not enjoy the publicity whirl, preferring the life he and wife, Melissa Matheson, spend at their spread in Wyoming. They are expecting their first child; Ford has sons who are 18 and 20 from his first marriage.

"I spend about half the year in Wyoming," the 44-year-old actor said. "It's not so much a matter of guaranteeing sanity. I could maintain sanity here, or something like it.

"It's something more than that. It's a life I prefer to live. I don't like cities; I prefer the country. I prefer the simplicity of the life I live up there. At the same time, I realize I need the jazz and the excitement of working in the city every once in a while as well."

Harrison Ford was born to an Irish-Catholic father and Russian-Jewish mother in Chicago and grew up in suburban Park Ridge and Morton Grove. He majored in philosophy for four years at Ripon College in Wisconsin without earning a degree, finding that roles in campus plays helped relieve his basic shyness.

A Columbia Pictures scout spotted him in a Laguna Beach, Calif., playhouse, and he was signed to a $150-per-week contract in the waning days of the studio system. After Columbia dropped him, Ford drifted into television, working as a carpenter during slack periods. George Lucas cast him as the out-of-town hot rodder in "American Graffiti," then gave Ford the role of the intrepid pilot, Han Solo, in "Star Wars."

He agreed to doing "The Mosquito Coast" after reading Paul Schrader's script. He recognized the challenge of playing Allie Fox, and he had the added inducement of working with Australian Peter Weir, his director in "Witness."

How much of Harrison Ford is reflected in Allie Fox?

"There's Harrison Ford in every character I play. I have nothing to work with but the experience of Harrison Ford, the psychology of Harrison Ford. You have to translate it into another character. You have to make that character predominate. There's a lot of me (in Allie Fox), yeah."

He admitted that the character was more complicated than any he attempted before but added: "The job of acting is no more difficult in a more complicated or a less complicated part, not for me, at least."

The problem with Fox, he said, "is that he's proving himself in a world where he doesn't have to prove himself. He has the love of his family, but he is continually abusing that love, brokering that love, trying to manage that love. He's a complicated, difficult character, but no more unusual than some people (meaning critics) believe."

Ford was asked if he still pounds nails.

"Yes, once in a while — on my own projects," he said with a smile.

Mirren plays wife in 'Coast' with active acceptance

By JERRY ROBERTS
Copley News Service

In Peter Weir's film adaptation of Paul Theroux's The Mosquito Coast, Allie Fox is more than just the dominant character. As played by Harrison Ford in the new movie, he's a ranting, barging, arm-waving mad genius and an overwhelming presence.

For one of England's most respected stage actresses to have accepted the almost passive role of Mother, Allie's wife, the sun-browned, sturdy earth-mother of the story — about a man seeking to create his own utopia in the Central American wilderness — she would have to have a design on the character that would color her enough so that she wouldn't disappear into the background.

"I didn't see her as passive," Helen Mirren said in a recent interview at the office of her West Hollywood publicist. "I would find it impossible to play a passive character. I call it active acceptance. She's a mythological character anyway, not one grounded in reality.

"I had questions about the character. Neither Peter nor I had the foggiest idea of how the character was ever going to work. It was the insecurity of that, plus the mystical side of the character, that I found attractive. If you've got someone like Harrison stomping around in the middle of the screen with almost all of the lines, everybody else could appear as if they don't have much to do.

"In a funny way, it was so much more interesting than playing the usual kind of female character. Now, in films, women are always feisty. They used to be sweet. Female feistiness has taken over. At least she's not the normal kind of film female."

IT'S A ROLE that's quite different from her role in Cal (1984), an older woman having an affair with a youth, which won her the 1985 best actress award at the Cannes Film Festival. It's a role that overlays her own personality. Ms. Mirren isn't what can be called the normal kind of film actress.

Her background is in Shakespeare and other classics on the stages of the island nation that has for centuries nurtured the most respected lineage of dramatic acting. Her most cherished experience in the profession and in life is a year spent exploring the inner-sanctum of her craft in France with the legendary eclectic, Peter Brook.

Ms. Mirren also is not the normal kind of film actress, because she'll readily reveal her age, 39, eschew all makeup for an interview and carelessly bundle her straight blond hair into a pony tail on the side, like Teri Garr on cleaning day, yet doll up her chassis with a white blouse, black skirt and flattering shiny ebony pumps.

It may be a physical manifestation of unpretentious classiness. In any event, director Weir chose the actress for the part in The Mosquito Coast based on her ambiguity.

"Helen Mirren came in," Weir is quoted in the press notes, "and there was very little doubt from the moment I spoke to her that she could do it. She's a complex person, and she provides a range of interesting and contradictory aspects to the way she plays the part. The number of implications that come off her appearance speak the words that aren't written in the script, give us the information that would take a long time to be written."

Mirren's ambiguities extend to many phases of her life.

Her British stage triumphs as Lady Macbeth, Cleopatra, Ophelia in "Hamlet," Titania in "A Midsummer Night's Dream" and contemporary dramas such as "Extremities," "Miss Julie" and "Teeth and Smiles" have been supplanted in the past few years by film work, most recently mainstream American films such as "2010" (1984), "White Nights" (1985) and "The Mosquito Coast."

FOR AN actress who's famous for her strong-willed woman roles, she sees her self as quite fragile.

"Actually, I'm weak-willed and dependent," she said matter-of-factly.

"But it's not how I wish to be. Temperamentally speaking, on stage, I'm used to being queens and murderesses. They're the parts I love to play, anything with a crown.

"I love to stalk around slapping servants," she elaborated, "I like dark passion, sex and violence."

Because of Hollywood film obligations, Ms. Mirren has adapted to the Los Angeles lifestyle throughout the past two years.

"I'm one-half Russian and the child of an immigrant, so I was really brought up on the outside of British society," she said. "So feeling like an immigrant is not new for me. I really quite like it here."

It's a far cry from Belize, where Weir and producer Jerome Hellman shot "The Mosquito Coast."

"(Belize) is backwater in one sense," Ms. Mirren said. "You get on the plane in modern Miami and get off it 80 years ago in a Graham Greene novel. It's very untouristy and totally unsophisticated. You can feel the origins of the Caribbean there. The conditions were very difficult for the crew.

"We were there for four months. I rented an apartment that had one of the six swimming pools in the country. The restaurants were real holes in the wall. The roads were not made up. They had a good telephone system, which made the exile easier. An actor's — I hate the word actress, it sounds so stagey — life on location is a very lonely one."

Costello aims to be 'King of America' with latest LP

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Elvis Costello, considered the most talented songwriter to emerge from English new-wave rock, released two records last year with songs he considers to be more compassionate than usual.

Costello

"King of America" was released last spring, co-produced with T-Bone Burnett and used country studio musicians.

"It's a more open record, more clear lyrically and more generous in emotion," Costello said in an interview.

"There are not so many mean songs on it. Some of my most successful songs have been quite malevolent. Those things are in me, like in everybody else. When I start thinking about angry things I become meaner. I've got some pretty mean songs lying festering away in my songbag, you know."

"Blood and Chocolate," Costello's 13th LP in the United States, uses his long-time band, the Attractions.

"I very much want the new record to be successful because I've had few commercial successes," he said.

"Over the last couple of years I haven't been doing songs of great emotional substance. People's feelings have been strong for more vivid material that came earlier in my career. I haven't gone to the hearts of people. The ones they get excited about are the old songs, still."

The Columbia record was No. 74 with a bullet on the Oct. 25 best-selling chart, and has been applauded by music critics.

"Some people do their washing up to records," said Costello, who thinks his songs require concentrated listening. "There's no handbook on how to listen to my records but I think it is unlikely people wash up to mine."

An aura of mystery and unavailability has surrounded Costello through much of his career.

"It was for avoiding having to do interviews," he said in an interview. "They had written the article before they came to you. There was very little point in saying anything.

"It was easier to foster being difficult or mysterious or violent or all three, so people stayed away from you. I was working at a very furious pace. Let them write the stupid nonsense they were going to write anyway. All I wanted to do was get on with the work."

Costello lives in London. He put his real name, Declan McManus, on "King of America."

"I'm 32. I was 22 when I started. It's a way of saying that a period of time has elapsed and that's my name. You're not to take my name changing too seriously. There's no psychoanalytical reasoning behind it."

About changing Declan McManus to Elvis Costello, he said, "McManus was hard to say over the phone, the N and M. And teachers had great difficulty pronouncing Declan. My great-grandfather's name was Costello. My manager added Elvis, like a stunt, a lifelong stunt.

"Some people do their washing up to records. There's no handbook on how to listen to my records but I think it is unlikely people wash up to mine."
— Elvis Costello

"There was a sense of 'How dare you appropriate that name?' There was an attraction in that. I thought he (Elvis Presley) was pretty good. I never was a big fan. His name wasn't taken out of reverence or disrespect. I've worked with musicians who were in his band. They were good-humored about it."

Costello's grandfather came to the United States in the 1930s as a ship's trumpet player. His father was a trumpet player and singer.

"I've got a trumpet; I've always meant to take it up," he said. "Somebody gave me a guitar. It has taken up all my time since."

He left school when he was 18. "I was living in Liverpool. I worked for a bank, then a cosmetics firm and then I got in this business.

"I made my first records while still working," he said. "I'd take sick days off. I gave up the bank when they said I had to stand outside when the bullion was delivered and blow a whistle if there was a raid. The first person they're going to shoot is the guy with the whistle."

Costello's 1981 "Almost Blue" and this year's "King of America" are country. "I wasn't born in Kentucky," he said.

"It doesn't mean the music isn't real to me. I have as much right to sing it as anybody. It was all stolen from English and Irish folk music in the first place."

But he doesn't care for his two 1984 albums. "I think 'Punch the Clock' was ill-conceived and very badly arranged. There were some quite good songs. And the record wasn't very humorous. I think I'm getting funnier as I'm getting better looking. 'Goodbye, Cruel World' was well executed and well produced, of quite slight songs."

Costello has recently been doing some record producing for the Irish band the Pogues.

"I'm not technically minded as a producer. I'm more like a musical director. I grab something with imaginative feeling and strong emotional content and capture it. I can describe what I want to hear.

"T-Bone Burnett worked that way with me. He told me not to lose my nerve if I failed to get one version down. He told me not to tinker with it. Remember why I wrote it instead of getting anxious and trying to change it."

Professional players take cues from man with 'secret juice'

By JOYCE A. VENEZIA

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — The real secret to a professional billiards player's tournament success may lie outside the game hall, where Leonard Bludworth repairs cues with specially baked leather tips and "secret juice."

The 46-year-old Houston resident has become as much a regular on Professional Billiards Association tours as the champions themselves.

Many of the country's top billiards players tell promoters they won't attend a tournament unless Bludworth is on hand, and he traveled about 70,000 miles this year going from competition to competition.

"I've got about 40 professional players on the world tour as regular customers," Bludworth said recently at a tournament in this seaside resort. The same tournament a year earlier was filmed for some scenes in the Paul Newman-Tom Cruise movie "The Color of Money."

As a custom cue spins in his lathe, Bludworth slices off the old leather tip. A spritz of rubbing alcohol strips the wooden shaft of old wax, dirt, grime, chalk and the residue of smoke that lingers in billiards halls.

A little spit and some steel wool removes tiny blemishes and scratches on the ivory ferrule, the ring that prevents the end of the cue from splitting.

"Next comes my secret juice," Bludworth said, squirting on a golden fluid that smells like a combination of oils and nail polish remover.

"It's got some goodies in it, that's all I'm going to say," said Bludworth, adding that he sells quarts of his homemade solution for $25 each to cue makers.

Then he slides his fingers back and forth to feel for minor imperfections that might cost a billiards player a shot.

But the key feature is a custom leather tip, textured just enough to hold the right amount of blue chalk, that Bludworth began marketing in November.

"It's a little crude looking and rough, but I've sold 100 for $5 each in the past four days," he said.

The tiny circles of leather are "soaked in my own solution, and then cooked and cooked and cooked some more in my wife's oven."

The difference between a Bludworth tip and a commercially made tip is in the hardness.

Leonard Bludworth maintains cues for some of the country's best billiards players. Traveling on national tours with the players, he cleans the cues, spritzes them up with his "special juice" and makes a custom leather tip that he says doesn't hit "like a hard-boiled egg."

"The trick to a good game is to get a solid hit, not a spongy hit. If you hit the ball but you don't feel the hit or hear it as well as you should, then you're in trouble."
— Leonard Bludworth, pool cue repairman

"These are like hard-boiled eggs," Bludworth said, holding a commercial tip. "It's like they have a hard shell, but a soft- to medium-hard center.

"The trick to a good game is to get a solid hit, not a spongy hit. If you hit the ball but you don't feel the hit or hear it as well as you should, then you're in trouble."

Bludworth started working in the shipyard industry in Houston, playing pool as a sideline, but the industry went into a decline.

He said he then took to the road as a professional billiards player, selling cues on the side, but soon realized his advice on the care and repair of cues was worth more than his game.

He's also training his 19-year-old son Donald in the art of cue repair.

"We don't have any other employees," he said. "We don't want anyone lousing it up."

Bludworth said he doesn't know of anyone else who repairs cues on a full-time basis, and that he is the only one who sets up repair equipment at tournaments.

"To be successful at this, you've got to be out on the road with these guys," he said. "I'm out there helping the guys who are helping me feed my family."

He even keeps a tin of saddle soap handy to clean the players' leather cue cases.

"I keep my boys and girls in good shape all around," he said.
