School Bond Elections Saturday, February 8th Telephone Company Plans Many Improvements In Perryton

ESTABLISH DISTRICT OFFICES HERE; BUILDING TOLL LINES

WILL SPEND $25,000 AT ONCE IMPROVING SERVICE; PROMISE TO INSTALL A CENTRAL ENERGY PLANT IN 1931; NEW BUILDING

The Standard Telephone Co., owners of the Perryton system, have established district headquarters in Perryton and Arthur Yaggy, came in Wednesday from Spokane, Washington, to take charge of the division. Exchanges which will be under the supervision of the office here are Forgan, Knowles, Beaver and Balko in Oklahoma; and Booker, Wheeler, Mobeetie, Miami, Panhandle, White Deer and Waka in Texas. R. B. Fairly, general manager of the company, Lubbock, Texas; and Jim Keffer, former manager of this division and now traffic manager with headquarters at Lubbock, were here Wednesday making plans for many improvements which will be made at once. Material is now being unloaded for the building of a three circuit copper toll line to Canadian where it will connect with the Bell long distance wires. The estimated cost of this new toll line is between $16,000 and $18,000.

Mr. Fairly stated that his budget for 1930 called for the immediate expenditure of $7000 in making improvements in Perryton, such as more cable and extensions to take care of the growth of the town. He also said that the entire rural line system would be rebuilt at once so as to be ready for harvest. There has been much dissatisfaction in Perryton with the telephone service and it is hoped that the above improvements will do much to ameliorate the situation. Mr. Fairly stated that his company expected to purchase a building site this fall and erect a modern telephone building, and that in the early part of 1931, they would put in a new plant here using the common battery system.

Recent acquisitions of telephone properties makes the Standard the largest independent operating telephone company in the United States. At the present time, they are operating in twenty-six states with eighty-seven exchanges in Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

BUY QUANTITY OF PURE SEED

SEVERAL ATTEND FARMERS
SHORT COURSE AT LUBBOCK ON FIRST OF WEEK

Farmers in this section who are interested in the planting of pure certified seed will have the opportunity of securing his seed at absolute cost, through the cooperation of the local Chamber of Commerce, the county agents office and the Perryton Equity Exchange.

A quantity of certified seed has already been purchased and will arrive sometime along toward the last of February. The seed was purchased while representatives from this section were attending the Texas Tech short course at Lubbock the first of the week.

The initial shipment which will be received will include 2,000 pounds of kafir, 1,000 pounds of hegarl. More of the certified seed can be procured if it is found necessary to meet the demand. This seed will be marketed through the Perryton Equity Exchange at cost.

Those attending the short course were Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Rogers, Farnsworth, T. D. Moss, secretary-manager of the Perryton Chamber of Commerce and Guy R. Sheets, county agricultural agent. The party left Monday morning, returning Wednesday night.

A number of interesting subjects were discussed at the short course including sheep and poultry feeding, grain sorghums, cotton and marketing problems.

HATCHERY NOW IN OPERATION

FIRST SETTING, WAS STARTED MONDAY MORNING AT
PREMIER POULTRY
HATCHERY

The Premier Poultry Producer's big 50,000 egg hatchery in Perryton is now in operation, according to Earlene Jones, manager, the first setting of eggs being put into the mammoth incubator Monday morning of this week.

The incubator, designed and built by the Premier Poultry Producers, is electrically operated throughout. Electric heat elements with thermostatic control units, keep the temperature at an even heat, while twelve big ventilating fans keep the warm air circulating among the trays.

For the present time one setting of eggs will be put on each week and the hatches will come off each week. During the rush season however, Mr. Jones states that the eggs will be set so that they will hatch twice a week.

The Premier Poultry Producers are securing eggs from 5,000 culled and blood tested chickens for which they are paying a premium of eight cents per dozen. Mr. Jones states that they need at least 5,000 more hens, especially in the heavier breeds, to produce the required number of eggs.

All of the eggs brought in from these culled flocks are tested and weighed. No egg weighing under twenty-two ounces will be set.

After the eggs have been in the incubator for eighteen days they are transferred to a hatchery compartment, in order to keep the incubator clean and sanitary.

Community Supper

Notia Community Holding Entertainment Saturday Night At Their School

The Notia community are holding a novel form of entertainment at their school house, Saturday, in the form of a community supper and program.

Dave Shanks and R. T. Correll are to appear on the speaking program while Guy R. Sheets is arranging for a jazz orchestra to furnish music for the occasion.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Tepe and Miss Vera Tepe, Canadian, were Perryton visitors Wednesday.

HEREFORD BREEDER GETS WORLD'S HIGHEST PRICE

That it pays to raise good pure bred cattle was demonstrated last week at Hereford, Texas, when D. L. McDonald, well known breeder of Hereford cattle sold a 15 months old Hereford heifer for $5,200, which is a world's record high price for a Hereford female of that age. The aged 11 year old mother of this heifer sold for over two thousand.

The champion heifer was purchased by D. F. Urschel, Strong City, Kansas. Donna Anna 66th is a line-bred Anxiety 4th, every line in her pedigree point back to that world famous sire.

LIONS—BETTER STEP LIVELY, THE SCOUTS ARE IN CHARGE

The Boy Scouts of Perryton are to have charge of the next Lions meeting, to be held at the Hotel Perryton Coffee Shop, next Tuesday noon, in observance of the Boy Scout anniversary week and the Lions are cautioned to step lively or the youngsters are liable to put one over.

The Lions are especially warned to check up on their knot-tying and other scout activities if they don't want to be shipped up on. The scouts will have full charge of the program, and what they say goes. If their commands do not get a ready response, the "talkwaster" will furnish the necessary "prodding".

The nine patrol leaders as well as the Scoutmasters and their assistants have been invited to the meeting.

BUY ELM TREES FOR COMMUNITY

FIVE HUNDRED TREES ARE BOUGHT FOR LOCAL DISTRIBUTION; SCOUTS SELL THEM

Five hundred Chinese elms purchased by the local Chamber of Commerce during the first of the week, to be distributed to property owners in this community at actual cost. The trees will be shipped about the first of March and anyone wishing some is urged to get in touch with Guy R. Sheets who is in charge of the committee handling them.

It is the plan of the local Chamber to secure the assistance of the Boy Scouts in taking orders for the trees and in seeing that they are properly put out and cared for.

Mr. Sheets urges those wishing trees to place their orders immediately. All orders secured before the trees are shipped will be individually wrapped at the nursery and will come in much better shape than the balance of the trees and will be easier cared for. It is also possible that more than five hundred trees will be desired and if orders are placed early, others can be secured without delay.

Mrs. F. A. Edwards left Sunday for St. Louis, Mo. to buy spring merchandise for the Edwards' Toggery. She expects to be gone about two weeks.

HONOR FIREMEN C. C. BANQUET

LOCAL CHAMBER IS HOST TO MEMBERS OF VOLUNTEER FIRE DEPARTMENT, THURSDAY

The first annual banquet for the volunteer firemen of Perryton was given by the Perryton Chamber of Commerce last Thursday night, and so much enthusiasm, good will and cooperation was expressed at the affair that plans were laid to make it an annual event. Close to seventy were in attendance with the fire boys and the city dads as guests of honor.

Toastmaster C. W. Callaway introduced all the firemen, including Chief W. B. Lilly and Fire Marshall R. H. Gamel, and everyone of them sounded expressions of cooperation. Each of the city officials made short talks.

W. B. LaMaster told of the excellent fire record that Perryton now has, stating that this city won second place in the U. S. Chamber of Commerce contest for cities under 20,000, and Perryton now enjoys the maximum fire insurance credit of fifteen percent. These are due to the good work of the firemen.

Mayor C. E. Forbes explained the ordinances pertaining to fires, etc, and urged Perryton people to observe these, stating that this would give the firemen a better chance to aid.

R. T. Correll urged cooperation and observance of the rules of the city. He praised the work of the firemen and announced that the banquet would be an annual event.

Dr. W. J. Brewer, as city health officer spoke on this phase of the work and urged a cleanup campaign for the business district of the city. This is essential as a means of prevention of fires and as a sanitary measure.

Jack Allen eulogized the firemen for the record they have made in past years, and said that everyone in the city was proud of the work they are doing. Mr. Callaway handled the affair in expert fashion. With all the many speakers the banquet lasted only two hours. W. L. McDivitt created much enthusiasm with his song leadership. He had the crowd singing such songs as "Hall, Hall the Gangs' All Here", the famous Lion's song, No. "22", and others.

W. J. Mitchell returned Saturday from the Shattuck hospital. He is still confined to his home but getting along nicely.

MUCH MISUNDERSTANDING REGARDING BOND ISSUE

It has been called to our attention that there is considerable talk going around that a person has to vote for one or the other issues in the school bond election which will be held in the Perryton district next Saturday. We want to state right here and now, that a person can vote for both issues; that they can vote against both issues or they can vote for one and against the other.

Accusations have been made that the propositions had been so cleverly presented that it was compulsory that a person would have to vote for one or the other. This is just another bunch of that so called campaign propaganda and we defy any person to show us where such opinion could be formed by any one of even below par intelligence, from reading any article or statement which has appeared in the Herald concerning the bond election.

FOUR GAMES ON CAGE SCHEDULE

LIBERAL AND BORGER HERE
THIS WEEK FOR DOUBLE
HEADERS, THURSDAY AND FRIDAY

The Rangers and Rangerettes are in for a heavy schedule this week end with Liberal, Kans., and Borger both here for double headers, on Thursday and Friday nights respectively.

The Liberal girls and boys will play the two Perryton teams on Thursday night while the Borger games will be held Friday night. Enthusiasm is running high among basket ball fans as the dates of the two contests are near at hand and records crowd crowds are expected on both nights.

Open Office Soon

Western Union Uptown Office Will Be Ready For Operation Soon, In Hotel Lobby

C. E. McNiel, official for the Western Union Telegraph company out of the Dallas office, was in Perryton last week, making final arrangements for the opening of the uptown office in the lobby of the Hotel Perryton.

WILL VOTE ON TWO PROPOSITIONS FOR PROVIDING ADDITIONAL ROOM

$60,000 ISSUE FOR ADDITION TO PRESENT
PLANT; THE $90,000 BOND FOR NEW BUILDING ON EAST SIDE AND ADDITION WHEN NEEDED

Next Saturday, February 8, the voters of the Perryton Independent School District will go to the polls, to decide whether the board shall be authorized to issue bonds for the erection of additional school buildings. Two separate propositions will be presented to the voters, one calling for the issuance of $60,000 worth of bonds, the other for $90,000. There is much interest in the election and a full vote is expected.

SPLIT GAMES AT PANHANDLE

RANGERS WIN WHILE RANGER-ETTES LOST TO PANTHER
TEAMS ON FRIDAY NIGHT

The Rangers defeated the Panhandle Panthers on their own court, last Friday night by a score of 16 to 9. The Rangers jumped into the lead right at the first and were never headed. The quarter ended 5 to 1, the half 11 to 3. During the second half the Panthers tried a comeback but the Rangers playing mostly to protect their lead never allowed their offensive to get started and matched point for point. The officiating for the boys game was of the highest class.

In the girls game the Rangerettes were on the losing end of a 26 to 23 score. Those who saw the game, however, do not consider it such a terrible loss. The Rangerettes in field goals, outscored the Panhandle girls by two goals, but could not match them in free throws as the Panhandle girls were given three attempts to one for the Rangerettes. The fouls called by the referee were exactly 17 against the Rangerettes and 7 against the Panhandle girls. Needless to say the same official did not work both games.

The box score for the boys game follows:

A thirty minute broadcast period has been given to the Perryton representatives through the courtesy of the Amarillo Chamber of Commerce, between 6:30 and 9:00 o'clock. A program of orchestra numbers, short talks, specialties is being prepared for the occasion.

MERCANTILE SOLD TO HILL

OVER PERRYTON MERCAN-TILE COMPANY'S STORE

The Hill company operates a chain of department stores in the southwest known as Hills Human Stores and are now in charge of the Perryton Mercantile company's store.

While Hill's are planning on completely remodeling the interior, the changes will not interfere with their business which will be conducted while the changes are being made. The same sales personnel been employed by the new firm.

Mr. Castle, formerly of Pampa, is manager of the store for the L. T. Hill company.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Lamb and children, Canadian, were Sunday visitors in the J. N. Conley home.

International Sunday School Lesson

for February 9
WARNINGS AND PROMISES
Matthew 7:12; 15-27

Rev. Samuel D. Price, D. D.

The content of the Sermon on the Mount, Matthew 5, 6, 7 will be more familiar after three lessons therein. This time the entire seventh chapter should be read with care, or better still, commit it to memory. This lesson is the quarterly one on Temperance and the text is finely adapted to that application. This subject is one of the most popular ones of the day. The newspapers have some outstanding reference in almost every issue. There is need for citizens of the Abraham Lincoln type to work out the national problem, for this nation cannot exist half wet and half dry any more than it could advance being half slave and half free.

The Golden Rule, verse 12, is possible of the most extensive application and surely has a direct import to the question of selling alcoholic liquor to others. The bootlegger would resent it if he was done by as he seeks so persistently to "do" others. Amos R. Wells says, "The Eighteenth Amendment is simply the Golden Rule put into our national constitution." There is one word in this verse 12 that needs particular attention. It is "therefore." Because God is so good to us always we should invariably seek to treat others up to our utmost ability. A negative statement, such as can be found in the writings of Confucius, is not good enough. Neither is negative religion. Now is the time for those who believe in righteousness to be positive in the defence of truth, which will be a blessing to mankind.

The lies of those who are eager to evade the Constitution and the enforcement acts are akin to the false prophets and those who appear in sheep's clothing. They are wolves indeed, and for personal gain will undermine life itself. Right now youth seems to be the target for attack. It is the adult sinner who helps forward hip-toting on the part of young men, who in turn dare the girls to partake.

The declaration of Jesus is most testing: "By their fruits ye shall know them." By this determinant reach your conclusions about any alcoholic beverage. Keep in mind that alcohol is a POISON and the reaction is always the same. A good character or worthy conduct can never be built up by the use of intoxicating drink. The very opposite begins to result with the first glass. Life insurance statistics should be sufficient evidence for any one to reach a conclusion for both principles and conduct. The records of both courts and society are full of accounts of destruction and produce nothing that deals with permanent construction as a result of using liquor as a beverage. Big business is beginning to understand about the "fruit" and is now demanding sobriety.

The closing parable has reference to the entire content of the Sermon on the Mount as well as to the theme in hand. The two houses may at first have looked equally well. First came the gradual wearing away and lessening of foundation strength by the stress of years. Then the awful storm broke and it was that force which brought complete destruction after the long-continued weakening process. Both physically and normally we must be able to withstand the long-time wear and tear, as well as the emergency when the blow may come so unexpectedly. There is a rock foundation that will stand any stress and upon which we can build our life structure. That sure Foundation is Jesus Christ and His teachings. He did not deal with affairs in the abstract but in vital life problems that still face us as individuals.

A dragging brake increases tire wear, in addition to cutting down speed and adding to the consumption of gas and oil. And don't think you will always know it when a brake drags. The new engines are so high powered they often make it imperceptible. The only sure method of saving tires, and getting the most out of your gas and oil, is to have your brakes adjusted properly from time to time.

Let "The Love Doctor" Prescribe Laughter, Gay Romance for You

Richard Dix, June Collyer as they appear in the Paramount Picture, "The Love Doctor"

GIVES 3 RULES FOR LOVELORN

RICHARD DIX TAKES LEAD
IN "THE LOVE DOCTOR"
OPPOSITE JUNE
COLLYER

Here are the three rules for love, as laid down by "The Love Doctor" at the Ellis Theatre, next Monday and Tuesday, and which cause all the trouble: FIRST, if you fall in love, say so, if you like, but never let the loved one be quite sure you mean it. Second, make yourself scarce. Be as devoted as you like but don't always be on hand. THIRD, try and make the loved one jealous.

Richard Dix as "The Love Doctor," the story from the famous play, "The Boomerang," has an awful time escaping his own advice. He being under the illusion that you can forget heart troubles.

"The Love Doctor" is a snappy farce of a young doctor and his society patients, suffering from all sorts of horrible maladies. The doctor cures with kind words, he men with his lovely nurses. Then comes the day when he finds that he is madly in love with one of his nurses, but a young blonde society girl thinks otherwise and goes out to get her man. She almost does—until she finds that the doctor intends to take her with him to an insane asylum and give her all kinds of notables as associates.

Clever situation, fast dialogue and sally commendable acting make "The Love Doctor" as good a farce comedy as has yet been produced in the talkies.

BETTY COMPSON IN TITLE ROLE

STREET GIRL HAS BRILLIANT
ALL-STAR CAST; IS A SPIR-ITED DRAMA; HERE
FEB. 12-13

A spirited and tuneful drama that clearly shows the possibilities of the new-form musical film entertainment is the Radio Picture "Street Girl," which shows Wednesday and Thursday at the Ellis Theatre. The picture is distinctive in that the movement of the story and the musical sequences are actually dependent and correlated. Betty Compsom, who has reached new heights through the medium of talking pictures, heads the cast of well-known players. This talented star possesses a rich, sweet voice and a wealth of dramatic power. Her role in "Street Girl" is regarded as the greatest characterization of her career.

Miss Compsom is seen as a girl who obtains employment as a violin player and entertainer in a small Hungarian cafe in New York's East Side. The ability of the little group of musicians with whom she works is finally regained after an unpromising start. Miss Compsom obtains for them a night of their own after a series of shortening experiences. Miss Compsom is well qualified to play this particular part, for she started her professional career as a violinist on a western vaudeville circuit. "Street Girl" was adapted from Carey Wonderly's story, "The Lonesome Charmer," a dramatic and alluring tale of that little known, intensely human district, New York's "Little Hungary." Jane Murn wrote the dialogue, and through her brought a poignant and authentic transcription of life in that section.

Featured in support of Miss Compsom is John Harron, whose performance marks him as one of the most skillfully made change of roles pictures. Coupled with the new drama of "Street Girl" is a sparkling comedy furnished by Jack Allen, Ned Sparks and Joseph Cawson, three of the screen's best comedians.

SUE CAROL IS IN TEXAS FILM

GIVES UP FLAPPER ROLES TO PLAY LEAD IN "LONE STAR RANGER"; ALL-TALKING

The well known cat in the strange garret had nothing on Sue Carol when she appeared in the "The Lone Star Ranger," Fox Movietone all talking romantic and thrilling drama, set to portray the character of Mary Aldridge. Sue had been playing "flapper" types in so many pictures that she felt herself in a strange atmosphere, but soon adapted herself to the part and declared it was a relief to enact a role that gives her a chance to be human and sympathetic.

George O'Brien plays the leading male character, Buck Duane, who circumstance compels to become an outlaw, but one with a heart—which he eventually loses. Others in the carefully selected cast are Walter McGrath, Warren Hymer, Lee Shumway, Russell Simpson, Edgar Kennedy, Joe Rickson, Roy Stewart, Richard Alexander, Billy Butts, Colin Chase, Elizabeth Patterson, Caroline Rankin, William Steele, Bob Fleming, Ralph Le Fevre and little Delmer Watson.

A. F. Erickson, former assistant director to F. W. Murnau, directed and A. H. Van Buren staged the production.

The "Lone Star Ranger" comes to the Ellis Theatre next Friday and Saturday, February 14-15.

"Rio Rita" Here Soon

Beautiful Bebe Daniels Plays With John Boles in Ziegfeld
Stage Hit

The voice that has been the talk of Hollywood this season will be heard from the screen of the Ellis Theatre, February 21-22.

It belongs to Bebe Daniels and will be heard singing the songs of "Rio Rita," the Radio Picture operetta sensation.

In all the revolutions and surprises talking pictures have brought into the film industry, nothing has created more of a sensation than the "discovery" of the remarkable singing voice possessed by this favorite of the silent screen.

Opposite Bebe in the film version of Flo Ziegfeld's most famous musical show will be seen John Boles, erstwhile favorite of the musical comedy stage, and the tenor most in demand in talking pictures.

The cast which has transferred the Broadway hit to the sound screen is a large one and includes many favorites of both stage and screen. Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey will be seen in the comedy roles they created in the stage version of "Rio Rita." Dorothy Lee, the baby-talk comedienne of "Syncope"; Helen Kaiser, one of Ziegfeld's "glorified" girls; Georges Renavent, French stage star; Don Alvarado and Nick de Ruiz, former tenor of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, are others in the large featured cast.

Much of the film was photographed in technicolor. The sets and costumes which dress this romantic operetta of the Rio Grande country are the most sumptuous yet seen on the sound screen.

"BIRD" ROGERS SAYS:

"There ought to be a law" has been said so often, by so many who wanted to curb, control, restrain or prohibit some of the activities of other, (and judging from the number of laws we now have a law was made every time), that there should be another law against anyone ever again saying "There ought to be a law against it." Of course, provision should be made to exempt from penalty, anyone who said it "Just in fun."

But seriously, don't you think something should be done to prohibit (that's the word: prohibit) all these candidates for office from getting us all excited so long before election? We have a closed season for the protection of game fish, why not a similar care for the peace and quiet of us poor fish whose votes are to be the quest of these angling office-seekers for the next six months? 'Twould not be so bad, if there were not so many fishing. So many hooks and lines are being thrown in, that it is going to be very distracting, not to say disconcerting, to the poor fish.

Another thing makes it worse and more worrying is that there are so many novices throwing in their hook and line. As long as there were only the old veteran anglers, who might be said to have a perpetual license to fish and hunt for votes, it was not so bad. The fish kind o' got used to them; knew what kind of bait they used and all that; but with so many new ones, with new kinds of bait and lure; well, it's going to be awful hard on the poor fish.

And still and also, another danger in all this early-bird business, is that when this thing is started so early in the season, a lot of those who might have been supposed to be content to be just worms for the early bird, become restless and feel strange feelings that develop into a kind of hallucination, (that's a good big word), and think they would rather be a bird even a late bird, than one of the worms. One of the anglers, rather than just a fish.

There you have it. You old timers, don't you see that if you had not started this thing so soon, it might never have occurred to a lot of the fish to try to become fishers themselves? It sure sets a bad example, and something ought to be done about it. But what?

It may be some consolation to the veterans, that the larger the number of candidates for county office the cheaper the prorated cost of the primary will be for each. After all, it may be just a desire to help pay the cost of the primary, and thus lighten the load for the old veterans, that has prompted some of these volunteers. If this idea gets started there may be a list of candidate for county office that will look like a subscription list to some popular and worthy civic enterprise.

As long as volunteers continue to sign up at the present rate the prospect for an interesting primary will be good. Every week brings new enlistments in the ranks of the patriots. Just as soon as there appears to be any slowing up of enlistments, we should all join in a concerted effort to draft the slackers, by getting twenty-five signers to a petition to have the name of everyone who has not volunteered, placed on the list. It might simplify matters to have still another provision added to the present mixed up mess of election laws, so that in a year like this, in a county like this, we might just print the entire list of voters on the ballot, then all would have an even chance.

Say: that's a good idea. Each voter then would vote for the name following his own, with the one at the end of the list voting for the first name at the top, and each would then have one vote. That would be a tie all around and the matter could be settled by lot; whatever that means. Of course, it may be sometime before we can get this provision added to the unique laws that we call Texas election laws. Meanwhile, let's put a drive to get everyone's name on the ballot. But don't crowd, folks. Let's do this thing decently and in order. You are doing fine. About a dozen announce each week. This, after all, is one reason for starting so early, there will be plenty of time for all to get in the race, if they keep up at the present rate.

Those who are working hard on the wording of their letter of announcement, trying to get up something a little different from the conventional and time worn: "At the earnest request of my many friends, and at a great personal sacrifice, etc." should not be rushed.

It will be very much appreciated if we do have some variety. And here is a suggestion. 'Twould be refreshing if some would just be plain and brief, just say "I want the job."

And now to get away from such weighty and serious matters, just remember that we have 'till next August to settle these matters as to who shall have the county jobs, but it is only a few weeks before we select members for the school board. After all, this is more important than the selection of county officials and how much do we hear about it?

For County Voters Only, Voters of Perryton, Please Don't read.

Just joking of course, but a lot of us who may have in the past, voted against every kind of a school bond issue just on general principles or from force of habit, are thinking that if we do not want the $60,000 and the $90,000 bond issues to carry, we had better vote for the sixty and against the ninety.

And it is argued that to vote against BOTH, would be useless. If neither should carry, and the room is really needed (and we believe it is) those who have to provide will find some other way to build what they consider necessary. All they would have to do, would be to raise the rate of levy and we who are here now would pay it all now. The bonds will put some of it over for the some of those who are coming in after we get all these things provided.

It is significant that no one has attempted to reply to our criticism of the proposal to begin to build additional school houses in different parts of Perryton, for the grade pupils of Perryton.

While we still think it an unfortunate situation that makes it necessary for the country outside of the town, to provide for the grade pupils of the town, in order that high school facilities may be provided for all, we accept the situation as it is, and try to make the best of it. But we do emphatically protest the proposal that we provide the town pupils with the luxury of separate buildings for each small section of the town, in order to save the children from having to walk only a fraction of the distance that so many of the country children have to walk, and with no side walks, or the protection of buildings as they have in town.

If this matter is given the thought and consideration it deserves, there will be a good vote cast in the country FOR THE SIXTY THOUSAND proposal and AGAINST THE NINETY. It was because of the apathy of the voters in Perryton who thought that it would carry of course, and the lack of thoughtful consideration in the country, that resulted in the defeat of the sixty thousand proposal. The country vote, combined with the small, well organized vote of Perryton who wanted to defeat the smaller issue, in order that they might try to put over this ninety thousand dollar bond, that did just that. Now, unless we want the larger bonds voted, and unless we want to start something that will be hard to stop maybe, we should do some thinking. Who will say that a building is built out there southeast of town, that there will not be a demand (and with more reason) for other buildings in other parts, especially north of the railroad tracks? Better think this over folks.

I realize how all this may appear, presumptuous, and all that, but I see no reason for criticising a fellow who, though he may be foolish to do it, does come right out like this and sign his name to what we all, most of us, talk on the street and as we meet one another.

And now that I have come to the personal plane, I want to hereby apologize for ineptness and inexperience at this kind of thing, that has made this read like I was telling you what, or how to vote. I do feel, that if one sees a danger ahead, or what appears to him to be a danger, one does not do his duty if he does not call the drivers attention to it. Especially if there appears good reasons for believing that the driver does not see the danger ahead.

You, voters are the drivers, and if this be back seat driving make the most of it. Now what do you say?

—B. L. Rogers

THE LIKEABLE WOMAN

The woman who has many friends and who land a wedding ring is the one who is interested in other people. She cultivates her ear-drums rather than her tongue and is ready to listen as others dilate upon the topics nearest to their hearts.

Most men do not want a dumb-bell for a wife, but they like about the hearth, one who has something to contribute to the entertainment; but she must be ever ready to drop all her interests and devote herself to her husband's whenever they come into the offing.

Men admire beautiful women—at first. But they marry interesting women, sympathetic and kindly women who are good sports and do not wear chips on their shoulders. The likeable woman is adaptable. She fits in anywhere and is easy to get along with. She is interested in the things others are interested in and does not rub people's fur the wrong way.

Way of Life

BRUCE BARTON

A Boy Knows More Than His Father

There is a boy who does know more than his father. He would have been a very different boy if Abe Lincoln, age 16, had been guided by his father. Now, Abe, we can imagine him saying, "Don't waste time reading books. Reading never does any good, and what was good for me's good enough for you." Lincoln knew more than his father. It was a divine disobedience that led him to close his ears to the man who had brought him into the world, and open his heart to the vision that was to help him conquer the world. The boy who has not some firm convictions and a willingness to defend them, even against the arguments of those older than himself, is not likely to amount to much. But there must be convictions, not mere prejudices, not selfish impulses or passions. I know two men who "knew more" than their fathers. One boy is the office manager of a large manufacturing concern, and his salary is $40 a week. "Better go on in school," said his father to him when he was seven years old. "Better go to college; you'll get all the education you can and you'll have the chance." But the boy quit school and went to work. "You are that man?" said the father of his concern to me the other day. "There is a man who has become general manager of this business if he had had more education. His salary would have been $20,000 a year; instead, it's $2,000. He's reached his limit. What a shame he hasn't education enough to go on." He "knew more" than his father. And his boyish obstinacy is costing him $18,000 a year. "Keep yourself clean, my son," said the father of another boy. "You'll never regret it. And some day you'll thank heaven you did." But the boy knew more than his father. He knew that every young man who is worth his salt must be clean in his wild oats. He sowed right merrily. He saw him the other day. He told me about getting a job. "I could not give him a job; no one could. God knows what will come of him. YOUTH is the mainspring of the world. Its insurgency, its inquisitiveness, its eagerness to try the untried and the impossible, drives the world forward in spite of the conservatism of age. Fortunate are those of us who realize the divine importance of youth's cocksureness and conceit, and yet know how, gently and appreciatively, to temper it with the judgment of added years.

THE TIME BUDGET

The housewife who has a sense of being driven, always behind and unable to catch up, might arrange her work to better advantage by use of the time schedule. You would not think of building a house without a vague idea that the kitchen would be somewhere in this general direction and the parlor in that. Rather you make a blue-print, specifying the exact dimensions of each room, the materials needed, and the cost. So vital a matter as one's daily program of work, it is equally important that you have a definite plan. Given twenty-four hours a day, what will you do with them? Make a list of all the tasks which must be done each day; meals prepared; dishes done; care of person, or persons if there are children; straightening up the house, beds to be made, and so on. List tasks to be done only once a week, or twice a week, or once in three weeks or otherwise.

After each item, write the time it takes to do it. At first this will be merely an estimate. It may be necessary to keep records for a week or two to correct the figures.

List the things you want to do and estimate how much time should be allotted to them. Be sure to allow for interruptions, for company, sickness, family and neighborly demands.

Hints for Motorists

The drivers who dash up to traffic lights and then jam on the brakes for red, and those who try to jump to twenty-five miles an hour as soon as the light turns green, coat the concrete with rubber—and they pay for the coating. Some of the new engines are so silent at the idling speed that you can't tell, in the noise of traffic whether they have stalled. When in doubt, look at the ammeter needle. If it is flickering, the motor is running all right.

Mud, moths and dust collect in the radiator fins of a car and impair the efficiency of the cooling system. To clean the radiator, send a steady stream of water through the fins from the inside toward the front of the car. But don't put too much pressure into the stream, as it may damage the radiator tubes.

MANDS.

Do not try to cheat yourself nor expect the impossible of yourself. You cannot fool Mother Nature nor Father Time.

Now add your list and see how much time this program requires and how it fits into the working hours of the day, week, and month.

If it requires more time than there is, or more than you can devote to it, study the whole list carefully and see what you can cut out or cut down. Some tasks you can omit without hurting anything but a habit. Some you can do less often. Some you can delegate to others. For some you can substitute a ready-made product. Some you can do more quickly. Some you can simplify.

At any rate you have looked the bugaboo in the face and better management, better contentment, and a wiser and richer life are certain to result from it.

WELL-MANAGED HENS PAID GOOD PROFITS

The Oklahoma farmers who have kept records on their poultry flocks during the last year have proved that a profit can be made when improved practices are followed. The February 1 Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman reports the following facts from a compilation of 414 flockowner reports on 70,537 hens:

During the months of March and April the egg production was 3 1-2 times greater than the production during November and December. The demonstrators who had at least one-half of the flock in the form of healthy, well-developed pullets not only had greater fall egg production but had higher production throughout the year. Practically all of the demonstrators' flocks produced eggs at a profit each month of the year.

The cost of producing a dozen eggs during the month of November was 30 cents, giving a return, however, over cost of feed of 10 cents. Some farm poultry keepers discontinue the feeding of mash to the flock during June because of low egg prices. The records of the demonstrators who made the most profit showed close culling and continued feeding of mash to the producing eggs as reported by the demonstration flocks was 13 cents per dozen. Eggs were selling for 23 cents during June.

The total cost of feed per hen for the year, including cost of growing stock, was $1.69.

The total income per hen over cost of feed was $2.39.

The size of the demonstration flock decreased from 213 hens to 142 hens during the year.

The average sale of eggs per year was $515.98.

The average sale of fowls per year was $163.91.

The average cost of feed per farm for the year was $285.12.

The returns over cost of feed per year.

The greater the egg production the greater the feed cost, but the lower the feed cost per dozen eggs.

Mr. and Mrs. Roger Hays left last Saturday for Mount Pleasant for a visit with home folks, before moving to Amarillo where Mr. Hays has accepted a position.

In Appreciation

To Our Many Friends And Customers

We want to thank everyone for the courtesy shown us while in business at the Perryton Mercantile Co. We tried our best to treat everybody on the square and if our merchandise did not please, our loss was to make it good.

We can truthfully state that we were more than pleased with our customers and their business and now that we have sold to the L. T. Hill Co. of Oklahoma City, I wish to announce personally that I will still be with the store and hope to meet everyone of you and serve you in the same old way.

I do feel like we will be able to give you merchandise at a lower price than heretofore for by buying in larger quantities for a number of stores, we can buy much cheaper. We certainly want to please everybody, so come in and give us a trial.

Yours for business,

W. E. McMillen

Are You Ready

When your Children Cry for It

Baby has little upsets at times, and your care cannot prevent them. But you can be prepared. Then you can do what any experienced nurse would do—what most physicians would tell you to do—give a few drops of plain Castoria. No sooner than Baby is soothed; relief is a matter of moments. Yet you need not feed your child without using a single drop of Castoria. So it's safe to use as often as an infant has any little pain that cannot be pat away. And it's always the cruelest pangs of colic, constipation, or diarrhea; often for older children. Twenty-five cent bottles were bought last

School Trustees Claim Room Is Badly Needed

The following signed statement by the trustees of the Perryton Independent School District will no doubt settle the question that more school room is actually needed. The trustees of the district are in better position to know just what is needed than individuals. The board is asking the voters to carefully consider both propositions and then vote for the one which they think best, but by all means cast a vote for bigger and better schools for the children of the district. Their statement follows:

Two Propositions

The school board, in calling two bond elections, will give the people their choice of the propositions. More room is imperative for next year and an emergency now is confronting us in our schools. Part of the high school building is being used for grade pupils and this is highly unsatisfactory. Practically every grade room is crowded now but there is no place to use additional teachers.

The enrollment is continually increasing and the law allowing 6 year old children to go to school next September will make additional room absolutely necessary.

We did not make any statement on the issue that has just been voted on, and as a result less than one-third of the voters took any interest in the election. Our schools must keep pace with the progress of the country and provide adequate facilities for educating the children. We, therefore are asking you to study the two propositions outlined below and support one of them and reject the other.

Some people thought the last election was for a Junior College. Such was not the case! We are not trying to have a Junior College. We are not able to meet the state requirements and this matter is not being considered at all. What we need now is more room for the grades that we already have, and that is all that the present election calls for. Either one of the proposed bond issues would mean the building of a grade building and not a Junior College.

In either case the district expects to buy $20,000.00 of its own bonds and thereby save interest on this amount. The balance of the bonds in either proposed issue mature serially from one to twenty years and bear five per cent interest.

The $90,000.00 Proposal

If the $90,000.00 proposal is selected the following plans are to be followed:

Part I.

A. A ward school would be built on the east side of town, in block 51, which would have five classrooms, an assembly hall, boiler-room, and the necessary smaller rooms for offices, storage, etc. This building is expected to be ready for the opening of school next September and would cost about $30,000.00. It would be built so as to permit extra rooms to be added conveniently when needed later.

B. The rural children who come to school in their own conveyance or who ride the school-trucks would all continue to come to the present school as they have done heretofore as long as they could be taken care of.

C. The ward school would be used for all of those children who are in the grades 1 to 5, inclusive, and whose parents or guardians live within the city limits and on the east side of a line to be established by the school board (probably Main Street, unless more pupils are needed to fill the school). At the present time there are one hundred and four (104) pupils in grades 1 to 5 inclusive on the east side of Main Street. This number would require three teachers at present, although five rooms are to be built. All pupils above the fifth grade or beginning with the sixth, and higher, would come to the present school for junior high school and senior high school work. This zoning would be absolutely necessary and all pupils would have to attend school according as the zones are laid out by the school board. The zones can be changed when school conditions make it advisable.

D. Of course the pupils of the west of the line established by the Board and in the first to fifth grades inclusive would continue to attend the present school as they have done heretofore.

Part II.

An addition on the north of the present building, would be built as soon as needed and would cost about $60,000.00. This building would be used for junior high school work, which is really the work done from the 5th to the 8th grades. If this building should not be built for a year or more, the bonds would be ready when they are needed and would cost the district nothing to hold. The money could not be used except as directed on the petitions and election orders. The bonds would not be sold until they were needed.

The $90,000.00 Proposal

If the $60,000.00 proposal should be chosen there would be built an addition on the north side of the present building that would balance the unit on the south that is used as the high school unit. The building would have a full basement and two floors. The basement would be used for boiler and fuel space, band room, practice rooms and cafeteria. The upper floors would be used for classes. On the two floors there are to be nine class rooms, three departments, library and reading room.

No assembly hall would be required as the present auditorium would take care of any needs in this line. All of this building would be used for straight school instruction.

HE BOUGHT AND THIS TIME HE GOT STUNG

Warning to farm people and people in small towns to watch out for peddlers who claim to represent merchandising houses in distant cities is sounded by a writer in the February 1 Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman.

"About a year ago a man 'worked' this community, claiming to represent a grocery company," he writes. "I was a bit suspicious and did not 'bite'. However, some of my neighbors bought. Last fall another man called representing a company at Omaha and after I had bought I recalled that he carried exactly the same case and same line of lingo, the same high sounding arguments and all. This time I was stung."

"The salesman starts out by asking the prospect whether he buys from mail order houses and whether he finds his business dealings with them satisfactory. He then proceeds to tell the prospect about his house, being careful to mention that they are building a big business along the same lines of satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded and postage and freight paid, etc."

"Opening his case, he offers first a standard brand soda for 3 cents a pound, navy beans, rolled oats, etc., at the same very low prices. When it comes to articles the price of which people do not so readily know, they will sooner or later awaken to the fact that they have paid from two to four times their actual value. When a customer's order arrives at the freight office, he can either pay the freight and take the goods home or refuse it and lose what he has already foolishly paid out on it."

FASHIONS, FADS, FOIBLES

Sixteen yards of goods for the polonaise, ten yards for the skirt, to be worn with three petticoats, each containing five or six yards. Thus was grandmother regaled. 'Tis said, it took one sheep two years to outfit a damsel then; now a silk worm can do it on a Saturday afternoon.

Dresses are lengthening with the shadows; below the kneecap for street and business, four inches below the knee for the afternoon tea-party; and as long as you please for evening. Materials are of the sheerest. Petticoats—if any—are light as a feather, made of stiff taffeta, boned to resemble hoop skirts.

Last year's party dress may be lengthened by a flounce of tulle. The flounce will serve to lengthen all our skirts. If the material does not match, add a few touches of it elsewhere on the garment to make it look as if it "belongs" as a collar, tie, belt or pockets. A narrow skirt may be widened by inset flares and godets.

HANGING PICTURES

Grouped pictures are in good taste, but they should be vertical or horizontal, never in stair-step design. They should be hung about the height of the eye, on wires or cords which are either hidden behind the picture or drop straight down from the molding. The triangle, made by the cord which stretches from a hook to each corner of the picture, is not in harmony with other lines in the room. A large picture looks better if hanging over a piece of furniture which has the appearance of supporting it, as over a mantel, bookcase or table.

FRUIT MOUSSE

Pack a can of any kind of fruit in a mixture composed of three parts of finely chopped ice to one of salt. Cover the can completely and let it stand for three or four hours. Remove from the can and serve with whipped cream. Salt fruit, cut in small chunks, is a delightful substitute for cracked ice in a fruit punch.

FRIED PINEAPPLE

Fry crisp several slices of bacon, and remove them from the fry-pan, but keep them hot. In the bacon grease, brown slices of pineapple which have been dipped in flour. Serve these on a platter and garnish with the bacon strips.

FIREPLACE HINT

To prevent a cloud of black smoke going through the room when you put fine coal on the fireplace, place it in a paper sack and set this on the flame. By the time the bag is burned the heat has fused the coal into a mass.

7. No doctor, when he comes right down to the question of right and wrong for the benefit and welfare of the town and country, is going to vote a bond tax on the people which will put every child in the county or the district, all in one place, so that when an epidemic breaks out, every child will be exposed.

8. No one on the school board will vote a bond tax on their fellow man who has honored them by voting for them and putting them at the head of one of the best school systems in the Panhandle of Texas, thus being selfish at the taxpayers' expense.

9. None of our ministers or our school instructors will feel like voting a bond or mortgage on their people, for we believe them all to be good Christian people, who wish to do unto others as they would be done by, and everyone of them would refuse to bite the hand that is feeding them.

10. The average person that stops to think for others than just his own personal greed or craving to make a few dollars in the way of a raise in value of property he might own, will vote against both propositions.

Don't be misled, Mr. and Mrs. Voter, to think that you have to vote for one or the other, for you do not have to vote for either for the good of the school, your town and your fellow man. Scratch them both for the above reasons, which are only a few. There are many more reasons which we could name for voting against both of these propositions.

GUNMAN'S BLUFF

By Edgar Wallace
COPYRIGHT BY EDGAR WALLACE

SECOND INSTALLMENT The Story This Far

Margaret Leferre, engaged to marry Luke Maddison, wealthy banker, is with him when he encounters Gunner Haynes, an American crook, apparently by accident, in a London hotel lobby. Danton Morell, a friend of Margaret's brother Rex, is watching them, and wonders whether the Gunner recognizes him after seven years. That night Rex is found dead with a revolver by his side and a note addressed to his sister saying that he has been ruined by taking Luke Maddison's advice. Morell tells Maddison later that Rex cashed a check for Eighteen Thousand Pounds ostensibly signed by Maddison.

Now Go on With the Story.

"My name was forged to it. I did not give Rex a check for that amount. I have been making inquiries. I find that he was heavily involved in a derelict West African gold-mining syndicate, most of the shares of which you bought for a song less than a year ago. He has been buying these shares on margin and they have been steadily dropping in value. On the day he paid you eighteen thousand five hundred pounds there came another demand for a larger amount."

Danton's heart sank though he gave no visible evidence of his perturbation. This man knew more than he had dreamed could be known. Here was a crisis in Mr. Morell's affairs which might easily lead him to ruin and undo all those fine schemes of his.

"I do not exactly know what you are suggesting," he said. "My interest in the company is a very slight one, and I was horrified when I learned that Rex had been gambling in the shares. I give you the fullest permission to make any investigation you wish."

Luke opened the drawer of his desk and took out a check. From where he sat Danton thought the signature was a tolerably good forgery. He had thought so when Rex had brought the check to him. It is the simplest thing in the world to forge a name, and so far as he had been able to judge there were no flaws in Rex Leferre's essay in that dangerous game.

"You realize what is wrong with this check?" asked Luke.

The other shook his head.

"Are you suggesting that I knew the check was forged?" he asked.

Before he could reply there was a tap at the door and Luke looked up angrily.

"Come in," he said.

"I am sorry to interrupt you, Mr. Maddison, but will you see Mr. Bird of Scotland Yard?"

In spite of his self-possession Danton half rose from his seat. The Sparrow was the last man in the world he wanted to meet that morning.

Luke thought for a minute.

"Just a moment."

He rose and opened the door leading to the corridor.

"I shall want to see you again about this check, Mr. Morell," he said.

"Why not see me now?"

It was a challenge, but Luke Maddison could sense its insincerity.

"Mr. Bird has come to see me on quite another matter," he said. "In due course we will interview him together."

He closed the door on his visitor as the Sparrow was shown in through the other door. Mr. Bird came heavily into the room and favored every corner with a long scrutiny.

"Havin' a visitor, Mr. Maddison? I thought I saw somebody come in whilst I was waiting in the street outside."

Luke nodded curtly.

"Mr. Danton Morell," he said. "Do you know him?"

The Sparrow smiled.

"As one knows the Lord Mayor from a distance, I'm humble. You never find me bargain' in on society. I've had one dress suit seventeen years an' wear it twice a year—once for the Police Dinner and once to give the moths a cold."

"Do you know anything about him?"

The Sparrow's wide smile grew wider.

"His name an' address—an' that's as much as any policeman wants to know about anybody. Bad business, this young Leferre case, Mr. Maddison. You don't want to appear in it, I suppose?"

Luke looked at him, startled.

"If how on earth do I come into it?"

Mr. Bird coughed.

"Well, you do and you don't," he said. "I happened to search the body an' the room. I found three loose checks on the Northern & Southern Bank—that's where you keep your private account, ain't it? An' this—"

Very leisurely he took out a fat and worn leather case from his pocket, laid it flat on the desk and rummaged in the inside. After a while he found what he was looking for—two folded sheets of paper, evidently torn from a school exercise book. He smoothed these flat and Luke saw a succession of signatures, one under the other: "Luke Maddison—Luke Maddison."

"Looks almost as though you'd been scribblin' absent-mindedly." The detective's shrewd eyes were on the young banker. "But at the same time I couldn't imagine a business man like you doin' anything so silly! If you'll excuse the liberty, I called at the Northern & Southern Bank yesterday afternoon, but they were reticent—'reticent' is a good word—an' referred me to you. But by an underhanded an' despicable trick I found that young Mr. Leferre cashed a check the other day for eighteen thousand."

"Yes—I gave him a check for that amount."

The Sparrow was frankly skeptical.

"Did you now? Maybe you'd like to show me that counterfeit of that check?"

For a second Luke was taken aback.

"If there were any reason for doing so, I could," he said coldly, "but I see no reason."

Mr. Bird was not abashed; he leaned his huge arms on the table, and when he spoke his voice was serious.

"I've no right to ask—I'm not the sort of man who would attempt to pull a bluff on a gentleman like you. I'll put my cards on the table. That check was met in notes and I want to know where those notes went. There's a bird in London I want to catch. I've got one of the best little cages for him that was ever built, an' while it's empty so is my heart. If that check was a forgery it might get the deceased a bad name, but it would make it very easy for me to pull in a certain man for uttering."

"I'll tell you the truth, Mr. Maddison; I want the man's finger prints so much I wonder I don't knock him down in the street an' take 'em!"

Luke's eyes were averted; he gave no sign until the detective had finished.

"I'm sorry I can't help you," he said. "The check was drawn by me and signed by me."

Mr. Bird rose with a sigh.

"You're too kind to the criminal classes, Mr. Maddison," he said. "No wonder Gunner Haynes thinks you're a good feller—six months he got yesterday for bein' a suspected person. What a man! When I tried to pump him about your friend he wouldn't let on that he knew him even."

"Morell?" Luke was thrown off his guard, as he saw by the Sparrow's grin.

"That's the name. What's the use of talkin' at cross-purposes? He's the—"

"I knew nothing about Morell," Luke was emphatic. "He was a friend of Rex's—of Mr. Leferre's. I'd rather not discuss him."

The Sparrow sighed again, galled by the papers on which the unfortunate Rex had practised the signature, and stuffed them back in his pocketbook.

"Nobody helps the police," he said dolefully. "All hands are against the natural guardians of the children of the poor. I'll be getting along."

He offered a limp hand and went heavily out of the room. The door had hardly closed upon him before the telephone rang, and for the first time since the tragedy Luke heard the voice of the woman he loved.

"Will you see me to-morrow, Luke?" Her voice was very low.

"Now, if I may—darling, let me come to you now!"

But her level voice denied him. "To-morrow—after this ghastly business, Luke, did Rex owe you any money?"

The unexpectedness of the question threw him off his balance, and when Luke Maddison was flurried he was invariably incoherent, for the same reason as others are incoherent in the circumstances—he thought too quickly for speech.

"Yes—but it isn't worth discussing. He was heavily insured, you know, and I don't think the policy is invalidated."

He heard the quick breath and grew panic-stricken.

"I was thinking of you—that there was no need to worry about his affairs. He owes me practically nothing."

"Will you see me to-morrow?"

Before he could reply he heard the click of the hook being depressed.

"I see no reason in the world why the wedding should be postponed, Luke."

The hideous business of the coroner's inquisition was only a day old, and an accountant's statement that the dead boy's affairs were involved was accepted and no details were asked.

Margaret Leferre could not understand herself; her own calm astonished her. Had she ever loved this suave man who stood before her, apparently agreeing, as though Rex were his dearest friend? Sometimes she was afraid that he would read her loathing of him in her eyes—she was amazed to find herself telling him now, with the greatest calmness and in a tone that was sadly sweet, that she saw no reason why the ceremony should be postponed.

poned.

"My poor darling!"

He took her in his arms, and she did not resist. Rather, she raised her cold lips to his, and hated herself. But the Judas kiss was his, not hers—that was a tattered comfort.

"There is nothing in the world I would not do to make life a little more smooth for you," he was saying. "If money could buy you happiness I would beggar myself!"

She smiled faintly at this. Here was a man ready to betray his gods. He had ruined Rex; he had always hated him. She remembered half-forgotten phrases of his, little irritated comments upon Rex's carelessness in financial matters.

He put her at arm's length and scrutinized her a little sadly. The pallor and the soft shadows beneath her eyes gave her an unearthly loveliness.

"Naturally I've been worried sick. What a fool I was on the phone to talk of insurance—it was indecent. I just didn't know what to say—"

"Luke, are you awfully rich?"

She was always staggering him with questions like that.

"Why—yes, I suppose I am. The bank isn't doing terribly well—on the trading side. We are merchants as well, you know—but I have over half a million private fortune. I thought you knew."

She smiled faintly.

"I have never asked you. I'm worried about—poverty. We have been poor—desperately poor. My father left us nothing, poor dad. It must be wonderful to be so rich—to have command of money—never to be bothered about bills never, to feel the frantic urge to go out and earn something."

He was regarding her in open-eyed astonishment.

"But I never knew, my dear, how awful I thought you had an income?"

She shook her head. This time she was not acting.

"If money will give you a sense of security, and of course it will, I'll—why, I'd give you control of every cent I have in the world—"

He saw her incredulous smile and was angry with himself, as though in that gesture of unbelief he detected some reservation, some gesture of insincerity in his offer.

"Why not? Thousands of men put all their property in their wives' names. It's a sane thing to do—it keeps a man steady and it will make us really partners. Wait."

He was at the phone—as eager, as enthusiastic as a boy pursuing some new and delightful idea.

"Luke, is that your lawyer you're calling?"

Conscience overwhelmed her with a sudden fear; she realized for the first time the enormity of her treachery and was terrified.

"Yes, Hilton—it is Luke Maddison speaking . . . you had the draft of the antenuptial contract? Well, include everything! You have the list of my securities? . . . Yes, all. And the cash in bank—everything. My interest in Maddison's . . . no, I'm not mad!"

"You are!"

She was standing by him now, her face white as death. The words came tremulously.

"You're mad, Luke!"

Think Well Before Casting Your Vote in the School Bond Election

Below Is Listed What Is Considered The TWO PROPOSITIONS And The Advantages Of Them As We View It!

The $60,000 Issue Means:

1. Building at main school building at once, sufficient to supply all needs.
 2. No dividing line any where in the town and that all children anywhere in the town will have access to the best school the district affords.
 3. All will enjoy the inspiration and the association of the entire school spirit.
 4. All will have the advantage of gymnasium and indoor play ground.
 5. Immediate erection means immediate relief of the heating proposition. The present plant cannot and does not sufficiently heat the present building, and the additional heating plant that will be in the new building on the present plant site will help heat the two buildings we now have.
 6. Year around first class janitor service under the direct supervision of one person. Which means protected buildings through the summer as well as the school season.
 7. You vote for a district proposition and not a town proposition. That means every child of any school age will have the best advantages the district affords regardless of what part of town or district he lives in.
- If a town matter should be considered, is not the big hotel, the city hall and the court house on one side of town and the school building on the other about as near equalization as we will get? No school board will have the authority to carve the town up into certain districts and direct that certain children shall go there regardless of what disadvantage it may be to them and their welfare.
8. You vote for a proposition that has merit and a chance to go over which means a vote for the continued advancement of Ochiltree county, as well as our town.

The $90,000 Issue Means

1. A $30,000.00 building on east side of town at once and an addition to the present plant sometime in the future.
2. The town will be divided into wards at the will of any school board that may be serving. The division is not yet made and if made can be changed to divide the town north or south or east or west "by straight or irregular line."
3. Inspiration and association will be divided and partly lost for smaller divisions of the school.
4. Privilege of gymnasium and indoor play ground denied in other wards.
5. The delay of improved heating conditions in the present building until such time as the board in the years to come shall feel disposed to build the additional building after the ward building is finished. Can we afford the delay, of one to five years?
6. Inadequate janitor service on account of the small compensation for a small job would most assuredly carry through the school season and little or none through the summer.
7. You vote for a proposition to give the present or any succeeding school board the authority to carve the town any way it desires, any time that it desires and thereby robbing some children of advantages that others enjoy. You vote for a proposition that will make it possible that higher grades than the fifth grade may be designated to be taught in the ward school and still larger children than now proposed may be forced to be divided up unnecessarily. You are letting the gap down and inviting more school complications than can be enumerated and in which the welfare of the children of the district will suffer.
8. You vote for a proposition that is most likely doomed to defeat, thereby failing to support our schools. You vote with those that are supporting the proposition with sincerity but, you are also voting with those that are against any bond issue for schools and are attempting to vote those that are really favoring school but voting for a proposition that will most likely fail.

If you are for the advancement of the Perryton and Ochiltree County school system, cast your vote for the $60,000 issue. It has a mighty good chance to go over and the other issue is almost sure to be defeated. Some people that are opposed to any bond issue may insist that you vote for the $90,000.00 issue for they feel that a vote for it is the same as a vote against any bond issue for they feel that the small issue will be the only one that can pass. Don't be fooled by such talk. Cast your vote for the $60,000.00 issue-----why pay more?

Remember that some of the bitterest opposition to the east ward proposition which is the $90,000.00, is from residents of the east side of town. They see the disadvantages and handicaps ahead of their children.

Vote for the $60,000.00 Issue! Why pay more when That will do the work?

Mayhew, D. B. Trammell, Aaron L.
Mayhew, W. S. Trammell, and the unknown heirs, their unknown heirs and legal representatives of each of the above named defendants; the cause of action being as follows:
Plaintiffs allege that on the second day of January, 1930, they were the owners in fee simple of the following described land and premises, situate in Ochiltree county, Texas,
described as Survey No. 43, Block 11, Certificat 4, Wm. Ahrenbeck and Brother, original grantee, and Survey No. 65, Block 11, Certificate 55,
Wm. Ahrenbeck and brother, original grantee, each survey containing 320 acres of land, more or less.
That on such date they were in possession of such lands and premises; that afterwards, on the 2d day of January, 1930, defendants unlawfully entered upon and dispossessed plaintiff thereof, and withholds from them the possession thereof to plaintiffs' damage in the sum of $10,000.
Plaintiffs specially plead that they, and those whose title they hold, have held said lands under deeds duly registered, having paid the taxes thereon as the same accrued and became due for a period of more than five years, and especially plead the five year statute of limitation as a bar to defendants' cause of action, if any they ever had, which plaintiff specially deny.
Plaintiffs specially plead and claim title under the ten year statute of limitation, alleging that they and those under whom they hold title have had the open, continuous, peaceable and adverse possession of said land for a period of more than ten years before the filing of this suit, using, cultivating and enjoying the same, and paying the taxes thereon as they accrued, and that the cause of action of defendants, if any they ever had, which is not admitted but especially denied, is barred by the statutes of limitation for ten years.
Plaintiffs pray for title and possession of said lands, for costs of suit, and damages, and for relief, legal and equitable, etc.
You are commanded to so summon the defendants, and to serve this citation by making publication of such citation once in each week, for four consecutive weeks, previous

ADVICE is cheap and sometimes very valuable
There's an old saying "advice is cheap." To this should be added, "...and sometimes mighty valuable."
Take advice on farm electric plants, for instance.
We're the authorized Delco-Light Dealers in this locality. And we've advised a lot of people on how a Delco-Light would make farm life easier and pleasanter. And in every case where this advice was followed we made a friend.
Let us tell you the facts about electricity on the farm as supplied at little cost with a new 1930 "Red Line" Delco-Light. It costs nothing to investigate.
And to it you'll be glad you did it... once you know the facts.

Band Meets Tuesday
Musical Organization To Be Ready For Public Appearance In Near Future

The Perryton Municipal band, under the leadership of Rudolph Willmann, will be ready for a public appearance in the near future, if the splendid practice meetings on Tuesday night continue. There were twenty-one members of the organization present at the meeting this week.

The next regular meeting will be next Tuesday night and all members are urged to attend and bring others that are interested in band work. There is no reason why Perryton can't have a first class thirty-five or forty piece band. The talent is here, the organization has an excellent director, the band members have plenty of enthusiasm and Perryton wants the band.

The organization is working on several new pieces, both marches and concert numbers.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McMillen had as their guests Sunday Mrs. J. R. McMillen and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. McMillen.

Mrs. C. E. Woods and Mrs. M. M. Collier entertained the Christian Missionary society at the home of Mrs. Woods this afternoon, Thursday.

Stamps at Hurn's Now
Are Headquarters For S. & H. Green Trading Stamps In Perryton Territory

Announcement has recently been made by the Sperry & Hutchinson Co. that the Hurn Dry Goods Co. of this city, is now the official headquarters for the redemption of S. & H. green trading stamps in Perryton and vicinity. Any person holding stamps can order premiums at this store and they will also give these popular trading stamps with every purchase.

The Sperry & Hutchinson Company, with headquarters in New York City, and the largest and only national discount stamp company operating in the country, recently purchased the entire business of the Legal Stamp Company which has been successfully operating in Boston, Mass. for the past twenty-five years. The Legal Company, one of the soundest concerns financially in New England, is now serving about twelve hundred merchants among which are many of the most successful and leading stores in Boston.

Another recent purchase by this company was that of the United Stamp Company, Toledo, Ohio. The latter concern has confined its stamp operations to the state of Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, serving, in those states, about two thousand merchants.

The acquisition of these large stamp companies by The Sperry & Hutchinson Company means the greater expansion of the discount stamp business in these two communities. The transactions create the largest concern in the world for the distribution of premium tokens to customers by retail stores.
