NO ENEMIES ARE THEY — The biblical prediction that the lion and lamb shall lie down together comes true in Buelton, Calif., where a docile lion named Joe willingly posed for this photo with a month-old lamb. Joe resides in a new wild animal complex, Orphans of the Wild, and the lamb lives on a nearby ranch.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A bomb ripped through a downtown restaurant packed with mothers and children here Saturday, killing two women and injuring about 135 persons—mostly women and children, police said. At least 15 of the injured were reported in critical condition.

The guest list includes Aristotle and Jacqueline Onassis, the Henry Fords, former dictator Juan D. Peron of Argentina, the Begum Aga Khan, Prince Rainier and Princess Grace of Monaco, the Guy Rothschilds of Paris, Ismelda Marcos, wife of the president of the Philippines, U.S. millionaire Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, actor David Niven and wife, and bull-fighters Manuel Benitez, better known as El Cordobes, and Luis Miguel Dominguez.

More than 2,000 persons have been invited to Franco's El Pardo Palace for the marriage of Maria del Carmen Martinez-Borbou, 21, and Prince Alfonso de Bordon y Dampierre, 35, Spain's ambassador to Sweden, on Wednesday.

Although a private, not a government, affair, it will be the biggest thing since Alfonso's grandfather, the late Alfonso XIII, was crowned king in 1902. The union also is expected to propel the sports-minded Alfonso into an improved but yet undetermined political future.

But government ministers scoff at the idea that the marriage has political implications or that it will affect Alfonso's first cousin, Prince Juan Carlos de Borbon.

WASHINGTON (AP) —

Whatever the long-term results, President Nixon's China trip scored an immense and immediate psychological impact at home and abroad and widely affected the climate of foreign affairs.

The seven-day show is now over, the spectacular meeting of the U.S. and Communist Chinese high commands is history and stock-taking is going on around the globe.

The initial, tangible accords are few. Washington and Peking agreed to foster two-way trade and people-to-people exchanges and to set up regular diplomatic contact in someone else's capital, perhaps Ottawa.

MUST WAIT

As for the long-range outcome, only the years ahead will show whether Nixon was closer to the mark when he termed his visit "the week that changed the world" or when he rated it just a beginning in bridge-building across 22 years of Washington-Peking hostility.

But it was a spectacular week that produced:

—Apprehension among a number of America's Asian allies, particularly Taiwan, about their standing in light of Nixon's public togetherness with Chairman Mao Tse-tung and Premier Chou En-lai.

Nixon dispatched Assistant Secretary of State Marshall Green to friendly Asian capitals to soothe their worries and reaffirm longstanding U.S. treaty commitments.

—Heightened suspicion in Moscow, Nixon's next summit stop, about the United States and China ganging up against the Soviet Union despite Washington and Peking denials.

—A generally favorable response in the United States. Congressional leaders of both parties praised the trip and vied for invitations to visit Peking themselves.

—Rekindled criticism of Nixon by conservatives who accused him of a sell-out to the mainland Chinese.

So Peking's leadership was showing its pleasure with the results. But the guessing here is that the Chinese high command is also getting grumbles from allies and from conservatives at home.

The substantive centerpiece from Nixon's 20,000-mile journey and 15 hours of talks with Chou was the wind-up communiqué issued in Shanghai Feb. 27.

The remarkable 1,750-word joint statement avowed peace, not conflict, as the joint desire of the two great powers whose mutual hostility dated back to the Communists' takeover of the mainland in 1949.

Reviewing the . . .

Big Spring Week

. . . with Joe Pickle

If Spring isn't here, don't tell the apricots, plums, peaches and assorted other fruit trees. Most of them were in full bloom or preparing to achieve that state at the week's end. Temperatures ranged up to 85 at mid-week, then suddenly skidded to 25 one morning and then rose again. Little damage was done to the fruit. Some old timers professed to see signs of mesquite budding, but it seems a bit early for that venerable conservative.

The week was fraught with tragedies, some resulting from earlier mishaps. Three men died when their light plane crashed into Lake Colorado City. They were Bob Thompson, Colorado City, Robert Nail and Bobby To Brown, Odessa. A week ago today G. R. (Bob) Robinson, brilliant independent oil operator and drilling contractor, died of injuries in a Feb. 22 automobile crash. Gene Everett Salazar Jr., 12, died the day before from minibiike injuries on Feb. 20.

The death penalty was assessed Whitmer Jean Ballard at Alpine. He was charged with the murder of Stephen Currie, 71, Glasscock County rancher, Dec. 2, 1970. Jurors took 90 minutes to find him (See THE WEEK, Page 6-A, Col. 4)

Smith: Youths 18-21 Have Right To Drink

AUSTIN, (AP) — Gov. Preston Smith said Saturday he thinks those between the ages of 18 and 21 should have the same rights as those older, including the right to buy liquor.

Smith spoke to the annual state convention of the Phi Kappa Alpha fraternity, of which he was a member while attending Texas Tech.

Red Cross Seeking Help For Victims

The American Red Cross, through its national headquarters, is requesting financial aid for flood victims in the West Virginia area. According to N. E. Roll, local Red Cross director, those wishing to contribute may address checks to the American Red Cross, P. O. Box 1970, Big Spring, Texas, 79720.

Storms and heavy rains have created flood disaster areas in Minnesota, Massachusetts and West Virginia. The break of a dam in West Virginia caused almost total inundation of 2,000 homes and heavy loss of life. Over 500 families have been effected by floods in Maine as well as 3,300 in Massachusetts. In the two New England states, 3,500 persons were given emergency care. More than 1,000 are being sheltered in West Virginia, and more than 300 are missing. Hundreds of American Red Cross staff members and volunteers are on duty in these states.

The cost of giving aid to these persons may reach $2 million, and the national disaster fund is depleted. The American Red Cross is asking all local chapters to request public contributions to help in carrying on this work.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — A bomb ripped through a restaurant packed with mothers and children in downtown Belfast Saturday killing two women and leaving 72 persons injured, police said. At least 15 of the injured were in critical condition.

The bomb exploded without warning in the Abercorn Restaurant, crowded with women taking a break from Saturday shopping.

About 200 persons were in the restaurant and adjoining bar. On the floor above, about 300 were enjoying the show at an afternoon cabaret club.

The explosion threw the city center into chaos. Victims ran screaming from the wreckage covered with blood and dust. An hour later the less seriously injured were still being ferried away to four Belfast hospitals.

The blast shattered windows along the street, which was crowded with shoppers.

A soldier who was on the spot said: "It was absolute carnage. I saw a woman with no legs and raw bones sticking through. There were children in there, too."

The two dead brought the day's total to four and the Northern Ireland total since guerrilla war started in August 1969 to 263.

Earlier in the day a man was found hooded and shot three times through the head on the outskirts of Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second city.

Police said he was apparently a former member of the Ulster Defense Regiment—national guard. They theorized he had been assassinated by outlaws from the Irish Republican Army, which is battling to end Northern Ireland's ties with Britain.

In Belfast police shot dead Albert Kavanagh, 13, from the Roman Catholic Falls Road District. They said he was caught planting a bomb in the German-owned Olympia Business Machine factory on the city's southwest outskirts.

Bell Trial Opens Monday Morning

The murder trial of Robert Wilseth Bell, recessed after jury selection was completed Wednesday, will begin at 9 a.m. Monday in Odessa.

Bell, 22, of Big Spring, is on trial in the stabbing death July 2 of Mrs. Sophie Giovanni, 51, who was killed while on duty as a night clerk at an Odessa drive-in grocery.

Pan-Am Officials Offered No Help, Police Insist

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — The police chief of Edinburg, Tex., says his department received no assistance from college officials when officers began probing reports that athletes at Pan American University had raped several coeds, it was reported here.

The San Antonio Express and News also carried a report Saturday that a photo album showing lewd photographs of athletes and women had been used in recruiting prospective athletes.

FOUND OUT HOW DEEP IT WAS — Ed Trask of Needham, Mass., sits atop his car after he got stranded driving through a flooded area in Quincy, Mass. He said he didn't think the water was very deep when he started through but a dip in the road brought the water almost to the door handles. Heavy rains caused flooding that stranded many motorists and tied up traffic.

IN ELECTION YEAR Kleindienst Probe May Become Issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate inquiry into an out-of-court settlement of an antitrust action against the giant International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. is gathering political overtones and could become an election-year issue.

The reported discovery Saturday of a missing witness did little to clear the air.

The Senate Judiciary Committee began a special hearing Thursday into columnist Jack Anderson's allegations that ITT received a favorable settlement after it had pledged $400,000 for the Republican National Convention in San Diego next August.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Richard G. Kleindienst requested the hearing, saying he wanted the air cleared before he succeeds John N. Mitchell as attorney general.

Earlier the committee had given unanimous approval to Kleindienst's nomination and so reported to the Senate.

Technically, the special hearing which is to be resumed Tuesday is not a reopening of the nomination hearing. This would come only if the committee were to withdraw its report to the Senate—something it has yet shown no sign of doing.

Republican members of the committee insist that denials by Kleindienst and former Asst.

Att'y. Gen. Richard W. McLaren that there was any link between the antitrust settlement and the convention-finances pledge have satisfactorily answered Anderson's allegations. And they want the inquiry concluded promptly.

But Democratic members have questions they want to ask of Mitchell and, if she appears, of Dita Beard, an ITT Washington lobbyist. A memo reportedly prepared by Mrs. Beard for her boss, W.R. Merriam, is the keystone of Anderson's assertions that there was direct link between the antitrust case and the ITT contribution pledge.

On Saturday, an ITT spokesman said Mrs. Beard had been located in a hospital in Denver. Mitchell who stepped down March 1 to run President Nixon's re-election campaign, is to testify Tuesday.

Beard's memo said Mitchell, as attorney general, "is definitely helping us, but cannot let it be known." Mitchell has said he did not know what arrangements existed between ITT and the convention.

Stanton Voters To Decide Again On School Bonds

STANTON — Stanton residents will turn out Wednesday to vote again on a $1.2 million bond issue destined, if passed, to finance a new high school and other school improvements.

The bond issue was first presented to the voters last November, and was narrowly defeated, 350 to 300.

The bond issue would provide funds for a new high school and gymnasium, additional rooms on the present high school, which would be turned into a junior high school, and added rooms at the elementary school.

No organized opposition to the bond issue is apparent, according to school superintendent Russell McMeans.

"I don't know why the bond issue failed last time," he said.

Recent court decisions insure the legality of bonds issued by school districts following the San Antonio court ruling on the present system of financing schools.

BUT DEADLINE IS NEARING Youth Achievement Award Nominations Encouraged

The deadline for entries in the seventh annual Zales-Herald Youth Achievement Award event is March 15.

As of Friday, 13 seniors had been entered in the annual contest. They are: Jarell Wayne Hedrick, Susan Elaine Trim, Lila Phillips, Michael Gene Bearden, Bruce C. Broughton, George E. Huskey and Connie Gary, all of Big Spring High School; Kay Woodley and Debbie Fryar, of Forsan High School; Julie Choate, Mischa Read and Jeffrey Stewart Mitchell, of Coahoma High School; and Mary Ann Wallace of Sands High School.

The event honors young people in the Big Spring, Coahoma, Forsan, Sands, Lamesa, Colorado City and Stanton high schools for outstanding citizenship activities.

Anyone can make a nomination, and the form to be used appears in today's Herald on Page 5-D. Teachers, ministers, youth leaders, parents and friends are urged to submit names of those boys and girls whose civic concern merits attention.

The printed form in The Herald must be used, without additional material, and it is strongly urged that the material be typed or printed plainly, to permit mechanical reproduction of the forms.

After the March 15 deadline, a board of judges will select 32 finalists — eight from Big Spring High, and four each from Coahoma, Forsan and Sands, Lamesa, Colorado City and Stanton — and these will be guests, along with parents and dates, at the traditional awards dinner to be held at the Big Spring Country Club.

Every young person nominated will receive a special certificate. The finalists will be presented with special plaques, and seven winners — one from each of the high schools — will receive large engraved trophies and wrist watches.

It is pointed out that a nomination is a distinct honor within itself, since it pays tribute to young people who are active in many areas of good citizenship.

Items taken into consideration include scholastic standing, the type of extra-curricular program engaged in on the campuses, involvement in church and religious organizations, and volunteer work in various areas of civic improvement.

Rehab Center Addition May Be Ready June 1

Construction on the new addition to the Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center is going well, according to Jim Thompson, director, as center officials anticipate completion by June 1.

Walls on the new structure addition went up Thursday, and contractors reported the roof of the new facility was to have been put in place Saturday. Construction began on the addition Jan. 1.

Construction costs on the expansion building will be $79,000, plus $7,000 in architecture fees. J. W. Little Construction Co., of Big Spring, is constructing the new building. John Gary and Daryle Hohertz are the architects.

Only one problem remains.

According to Thompson, there is not enough money to finance the new equipment which will be required to equip the new additions.

Presently the center has but $1,200 to spend on new equipment.

Thompson said that due to this problem, the center will conduct a campaign to raise the necessary funds to purchase the needed equipment. Robert W. Whipkey is the chairman of the committee, that will conduct the campaign starting in April.

A meeting of the committee was held late Friday to determine steps to take in the campaign program.

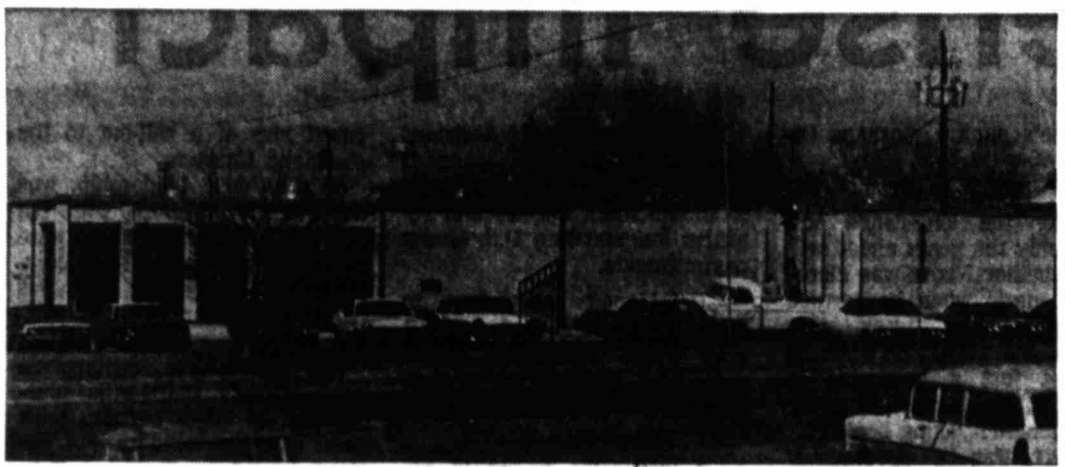

When the new facilities are completed, vast improvement of therapy capabilities will be incorporated in the center's present system, according to Thompson.

The facility will include four new booths made out of the present physical therapy gym, a new physical therapy gym, a new remedial training area for children with learning disabilities, a new class room for physically handicapped, a new sound-proof suit for audiologists, and four new therapy booths for speech therapy.

Also an extra class room will be made available, there will be an addition of three new personnel offices, and there will be a new area for occupational therapy.

Thompson requested the cooperation of all citizens in Big Spring when the campaign to raise money begins.

Love Comes First, Wives In Britain Are Advised

LONDON (AP) — "Making love is a lot more important than the ironing," prospective British brides are warned.

"Your husband is your No. 1 asset. You ignore him at your peril," marriage counselor Dr. Elizabeth Penrose said in the 17th edition of the British Medical Association's book, "Getting Married," to be published Monday.

Dr. Eric Trimmer forecast "new-style husbands" for the 1970s in another chapter of the book. They sound like the answer to a maiden's dream:

"Fitter, more virile and more durable than anything available from the 50s and 60s vintage years of men."

"Women as liberators seem to be winning all along the line and the doctors are right behind them if they can liberate their menfolk from the perils of fat, flab and overweight," he added.

But Dr. Penrose had plenty of do's and don'ts for brides to hold their new superhusbands. She listed what she called the "four important C's of marriage—compromise, consideration, communication and cooperation." Realists, she said, "would include copulation and contraception."

"Don't talk about him behind his back. Don't compare him unfavorably with other, apparently more successful, men."

"Don't want to be right so much that you insist on putting him in the wrong, especially in public. And anyway, could it sometimes be your fault?"

Dr. Penrose also had a spot of advice for the grooms: "Isn't your wife going to contribute as much to your life, as lover, friend, mother, helpmate and housekeeper as you will do to hers? You surely don't want her just to be a sleeping partner."

Police Training Course To Begin Here Monday

Texas A&M University's scheduled March 29. Reserve police training division will begin a three-week basic law enforcement course for members of the Big Spring Reserve beginning Monday.

The school is conducted by A&M's Engineering Extension Service. Instructor Charles Kenner said classes are scheduled from 6-10 p.m. at Howard County Junior College.

Included in the 70 hours of instruction are arrest laws, search and seizure, arrest mechanics, patrol methods, criminal law, evidence rules, case preparation, report writing, field interviews, interrogation, first aid, traffic laws and accident investigation. The final sessions are on police-community relations, Kenner said.

Racial Strife, Poverty Pits, Idle In News

MOSCOW (AP) — Russians got a rare long look at America on state television Friday night.

What they saw was a militaristic country with racial strife, unemployment, slums and pornography.

But Valentin Zorin, the Moscow broadcast commentator who narrated the show, said at least U.S. highways are nice.

"An American feels good when he is rushing along the highway at great speed," Zorin said. There were pictures of huge American cars hurtling along, which showed, according to Zorin, that "Americans respect force."

He also found something to praise in the gigantic twin towers going up in New York City. Zorin called them one of the most interesting buildings in America.

"They build not only economically, but well," he said. "But below the glistening towers you can see serious problems."

The program, an hour-long report made last fall, dealt mostly with the problems. It said the press reflected concern over high food prices, narcotics use among children, a weak dollar and sex movies.

The first part focused on sleazy Times Square, with shots of bums and prostitutes. It got good mileage out of a computerized robot cowboy against which amateur cowboys may test their quick draw.

"Who will kill whom, you the robot or the robot you?" asked the narrator.

"If you are fed up with toys, there are real guns," he said.

"One can buy here all the weapons of killing, and train when one is not in the army."

"Fall was not a nice red color of maple leaves but the red color of blood," Zorin said.

"Blood which is being shed thousands of miles from here but which is wounding the consciences of honest Americans."

Toward the end of the show, Zorin said Soviet viewers had seen good and bad, rich and poor and happy and indignant in America. He closed with a still picture of the cute, tow-headed child of an unemployed West Virginia miner. He said that when asked what she wanted, the 2-year-old replied, "I want to eat."

Stocks planning more houses

Contractor Joe Stocks, who has built about 20 residences here over the years, is starting another house at No. 8 Coachman Circle and is anticipating the construction of upwards to half a dozen more.

Stocks, an employee of Cosden Oil & Chemical Co., has been connected with the building industry here for about 20 years. His father, R. C. Stocks, was also a contractor.

Stocks builds his houses on a contract basis and usually hires 16 to 18 people. Average time of construction is 50 to 55 days.

The type of home he builds is in the $30,000 to $45,000 range.

Long-time residents of the area, Mr. and Mrs. Stocks are the parents of two daughters, Judy and June.

Ex-Mental Patient Is Linked With Slaying

HOUSTON (AP) — Authorities said Saturday they were questioning a man in connection with the slaying of one of 10 persons whose bodies have been found in Harris and Galveston Counties since last summer.

Sheriff's Capt. Bill Fisher said the man also may be involved in the death of another of the victims.

The man in custody was described by officers as a 35-year-old former mental patient and one time convict.

Although no charges have been filed, Fisher said he had what he termed circumstantial evidence linking the man to the death of Gloria Ann Gonzalez, 19, of Houston.

The body of Miss Gonzalez was found Nov. 23 in the then dry Addicks Reservoir west of Houston.

Three days later the skeletal remains of Colette Anise Wilson, 13, of Alvin, were discovered 35 yards north of the spot where the body of Miss Gonzalez was found.

Miss Gonzalez was last seen alive Oct. 28. The Wilson girl was last seen June 17 at an intersection near her home.

Fisher said the man in custody was arrested Thursday, a girl with him told police the man gave her a ride when she had car trouble.

The girl said she was forced to the floorboard of the car. She said she forced his foot on the accelerator, causing the man to lose control of the car, which jumped a curb.

A city police unit saw the accident, stopped the car and arrested the driver after hearing the girl's story.

The man is the second person arrested in the Gonzalez case. Last December a male nurse was cleared after officers said he successfully underwent a polygraph test.

In November, Harris County Sheriff C.V. Kern predicted the arrest of a man whom the sheriff described as sex maniac. A composite drawing of him was released.

Kern subsequently admitted that the man had no connection with the slaying, but never explained why he described him as such.

Goliad First To Reveal Dates For Spelling Bee

Nearly a dozen and a half schools are entering the final month of preparation for the Howard County Spelling Bee March 29.

Goliad Junior High is the first to announce dates for naming the school champion. (Incidentally Goliad furnished the county champ last year in the person of Maridene Margolis, who went on to win the regional at Lubbock and place 10th in the National Spelling Bee.)

Class eliminations will be launched this week at Goliad, and on March 22, the 10 finalists will compete for the honor of being the school representative and alternate.

Mrs. O. T. Brewster, who has served as the pronouncer for the Bee for many years, again has consented graciously to fill this role.

Meanwhile, many youngsters who did not get the spelling lists, the booklet "Words of Champions," can still obtain them at The Herald at only 20 cents a copy. A number who misplaced books have been obtaining new ones.

All the Big Spring elementary schools, and both junior high schools are taking part, as is Immaculate Heart of Mary School.

Any other school in Howard County may enter representatives in the county bee if they certify a winner to The Herald no later than Friday, March 24.

YMCA Offering Art Workshop

The YMCA is offering an art workshop for children ages 9-12 years old beginning March 13. Classes will be held on Monday and Wednesdays through April 12 from 4-5:30 p.m.

The eight lesson workshop will include sketching, drawing, shading, forms, and painting with tempera and water colors.

Mrs. Gary Oxley will be the instructor. Mrs. Oxley is an art major at the University of Texas at Austin and has had previous experience in working with children in various art media.

Registrations for the workshop are now being taken at the YMCA, 8th and Owens. Fees are $6 for Y members and $10 for non-members. An additional material cost will be nominal.

Press Conservative, Despite Agnew Lip

NEW YORK (AP) — An article in the Columbia Journalism Review says that although Vice President Spiro Agnew has convinced many people that the news media have a liberal bias, the nation's newspapers are overwhelmingly Republican and conservative.

"The irony is that Agnew in one sense is right—the newspapers of this country are out of step with the electorate—but they are massively out of step in the direction opposite to that which Nixon-Agnew claim," said the article by Ben Bagdikian, editor of the Washington Post and a commentator on the media.

Of papers that endorsed a presidential candidate in 1960, 78 per cent endorsed Nixon, Bagdikian said. In 1968, Nixon had 80 per cent.

Bagdikian quoted a survey by Rep. Bob Eckhardt, D-Tex., who found that two-thirds of the papers that endorsed GOP candidates also supported the conservative position on such issues as the antiballistic missile, the Carswell Supreme Court nomination, the Cambodian invasion, the McGovern-Hatfield antiwar amendment and Agnew's statement against dissenters.

Eckhardt's survey found that Northeastern papers were more conservative than those in the Midwest, Bagdikian said.

"One reason most publishers have felt sullen under the Agnew attacks is that they believe he's right," Bagdikian said. "They, too, think there is a radical conspiracy among their reporters."

"The typical American newspaper publisher lives in agony knowing he is paying people to report social developments he doesn't like."

H. V. Crocker Reveals Commission Candidacy

H. V. (Burr) Crocker, resident of Big Spring for the past 42 years, said Saturday that he is a candidate for the office of city commissioner.

Crocker retired a year ago as fire chief after 41 years service with the City of Big Spring.

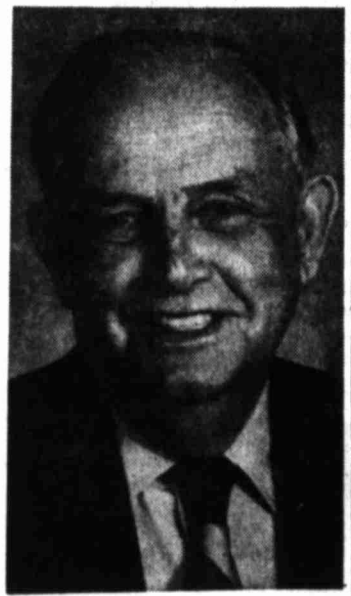

"This city has been good to me. My wife and I have raised our family here, and I feel I owe what ever service I can give to my city."

"I do not have an axe to grind, on the contrary, I am confident that my acquaintance with the people who make the city machinery work, as well with the operations of the city, can help in human relations as well as in progressive government. I think I can make a contribution to harmony and efficiency. In serving under six city managers, I believe I learned something about getting along with people, in and out of the city family."

Crocker went to work for the city when he and the late Bob Fields were the only two paid firemen. He later became assistant chief and Boyd McDaniels, then city manager, named him chief, a position he held for 28 years until retirement. He saw the department increase from two men and one partial station to 48 men in six stations.

He served on the board of the Texas A&M firemen's short course and was a faculty member. He also was on the Odessa College firemen's training advisory board.

He started many community projects while he was with the city, among them the Milk & Ice Fund in conjunction with Mrs. Fred Hyer, also the Christmas toy repair by city firemen (which continued 40 years) and the supporting Christmas Cheer Fund (the residue of which was used for medicines, etc. for people who needed help). He also started, with the late George O'Brien, the Firemen's Sunday School Class, which became a sort of downtown class.

Crocker is a member of the First Methodist Church and its men's class, the Chamber of Commerce, Masons, IOOF and associated orders. He and his wife, Lona, a vocational nurse, have four children, Anne Miller, Lubbock, retired PE professor at Texas Tech; H. V. (Sonny) Crocker Jr., long-time Herald employee; Mrs. Malinda Blackburn, a model in Dallas; and Johnny Crocker, senior at North Texas State University. He and Mrs. Crocker have made their home at 1707 Benton since coming to Big Spring.

Big Markup Is Noted In Sale Hiss Wins Right To U. S. Pension

PHILADELPHIA (AP) —

Two officers of the Shoup Voting Machine Co. have testified to a number of "commissions" paid to insure that obsolete voting machines could be bought from Tampa, Fla., for $30 for resale at $1,500 each.

David E. Chenoweth, a Shoup regional sales executive from Nashville, Tenn., and Martin R. Schott, executive vice president of the firm, both testified Friday as the complex federal mail fraud case progressed in U.S. District Court here.

Four Florida men are on trial for mail fraud: John C. Womack, 64, a Shoup representative from Jacksonville, Fla.; Joseph DiStefano, 67, former chairman of the Hillsborough County, Fla. Tampa election board; John Grimaldi, president of the Columbia Bank of Tampa; and Dominick Reina, 59, of Tampa. Also on trial is Southern Municipal Sales, Inc., a Florida firm of which Womack is a principal shareholder.

Chenoweth testified that in 1970 he passed an envelope containing $5,000 to Ronald Budd, chairman of the Hillsborough County election board. Although not indicted in the mail fraud case, Budd has been charged with perjury and jury tampering in the case.

Shott said he had authorized payment of several such "commissions" which he said he assumed were passed to various officials in Tampa.

The government charges that the payments were made to insure that the old machines could be bought at very low prices, and also so that Tampa would buy $530,000 worth of new voting machines from the Shoup firm.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Twenty-four years after his indictment in a sensational spy scandal, Alger Hiss won a court suit against the government and says the victory in a small way vindicates him.

A three-judge federal court ruled Friday that Hiss is entitled to a government pension and said the government has acted unconstitutionally in denying him retirement benefits for six years.

Hiss, now 67 and living in New York, was convicted of perjury in 1950 after denying before a federal grand jury that he gave state secrets to Communist spies.

The Hiss case, among the earliest and most prominent in the spy-scare era that rocked the state Department until the mid-1950s, was the vehicle that sped Richard M. Nixon to national fame.

Nixon, then a freshman congressman from California and a member of the old House Un-American Activities Committee, pursued the Hiss investigation relentlessly.

As President, Nixon appointed one of the three judges who ruled in favor of Hiss Friday, a quirk that Hiss enjoyed.

Hiss was a top State Department official during World War II and was instrumental in U.S. negotiations leading to creation of the United Nations. He accompanied President Franklin D. Roosevelt to the Yalta Conference at the end of the war.

He resigned from the government in 1947 to become president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, but left that position when the storm of accusations surrounded him the following year.

Hiss was the primary target for Whittaker Chambers, then a magazine editor who disclosed to congressional committees and radio audiences that he had been a Communist spy.

Chambers, now dead, fingered Hiss as one of the State Department officials who fed him government secrets.

Nixon subpoenaed evidence from Chambers who then led HUAC investigators to his Maryland farm where he revealed microfilm he had hidden inside a pumpkin. He said the film showed secret documents stolen from the State Department.

The congressional hearings led to the indictment of Hiss in 1948 and his conviction of perjury after two years of trials.

He served 3½ years in the federal penitentiary at Lewisburg, Pa. After his release in 1954, Congress passed a law denying government pensions to persons convicted of certain crimes, including perjury in national security cases.

The law was made retroactive and Hiss was denied retirement benefits.

Fundamental Truths Of Christianity

THE PERFECT LIFE

"But seek ye first the kingdom of God, and his righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you." (Matt. 6:33.)

Our text is one of those rare gems of the Master's sayings which comes close to the heart of everyone of us, thrills us with its rich providence; then sends us to our knees to ask for grace and mercy because we have kept it so poorly. It is a golden rule of action in the great drama of life, the very essence of Christian living and the key to the happiest and most successful life on earth.

Every man who would make a success of life must have something that is always first with him. If we really have faith in Christ, we know his blessed kingdom, which is His church, is entitled to the finest and best of everything we have and are — our affections, our possessions, and our service. Without the righteousness his kingdom affords, none of us shall be able to see the Lord. As we contemplate its beauty and exalted standard, regardless of our imperfections, we love to think and dwell upon it as the great divine ideal, and from it take renewed devotion.

It seems the providence part of the saying is more a gracious added gift than a reward. Some scholars say the thought is from the old custom of merchants to "throw in" some article with a large bill of goods purchased. As we have sought and found the great redemption which Christ has purchased for us with his own precious blood, so the Father has added unto us the food and shelter and the wherewithal we shall be clothed. God's temporal blessings have surely followed the righteous in every age, as said David of old, I have never seen "the righteous forsaken, nor his seed begging bread."

Persian Gulf Shiekhdoms Offer Contrasts In Life

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent

BAHRAIN, Persian Gulf (AP) — The ruling sheikhs of Arab states have an exotic flair for palace entertaining.

There is an air of desert democracy mixed with a certain noblesse oblige about the "majlis," the formal Arab court session in which the ruler sits on his throne, usually on a Friday night, and makes himself available to the entire populace in an open-ended session that frequently lasts until dawn.

Sheikh Zayed of Abu Dhabi, the richest ruler in the world, received us in the courtyard of his summer palace in the Buraimi oasis under a winter sky pleasingly pinked with the glow of oil wells pumping nearly $400 million a year into the royal treasury. His Majesty sat barefooted against a white washed wall digesting large chunks of roast goat fetched to the royal presence in washtubs on the heads of Somali servants. A visiting Pakistani poet and philosopher was reciting endlessly from his own works, while the royal falcons snoozed peacefully under their hoods on the gilded wrists of the royal falconers.

SEEK AUDIENCE
Arranged Indian fashion on the Persian rugs at His Highness' feet were an Iranian banker, an American hotelier, a British foreign office type and several Bedouin chiefs trying to get the royal ear.

In between more tubs of steaming goat and platters piled high with fresh fruit and Arab pastries, cousins by the dozens came to pay their respects, along with an Egyptian judge serving on the high court, several Jordanian school masters, some Japanese oil men bowing ceremoniously, a delegation of camelers just arrived with a date caravan from Oman and a number of tall aquiline-nosed village elders with beards dyed black against the ravages of time.

Only Westerners and non-believers wore business suits. The rest wore their Friday best, flowing desert robes and head scarves trimmed in gold and worn over silver sandals. For the believers there was the Moslem ritual of greeting the ruler by gripping elbows and gently rubbing each side of the nose against his, like cross-eyed Eskimos a little off the target.

In the court at Bahrain, a neighboring oil sheikhdom on the Persian Gulf, the Friday majlis was even more majestic in medieval pomp and splendor. Bahrain ranks eight places below Abu Dhabi among Middle East oil producers, but it got a 20-year head start in the royal art of spending oil revenues, now running about $38 million a year.

The amir, Sheikh Isa bin Sulman Al-Khalifa, sat before a coffee table on an overstuffed, neon-lighted divan flanked by incense-burning urns in a reception hall the size of a football field lined on all walls with upholstered straight-backed chairs for the court visitors. Over fields of Persian carpets, the royal coffee bearers advanced and retreated with their beak-nosed brass coffee pots, pouring out the tangy "herisa," herb coffee, with a waterfall flourish that accurately splashed the liquid into the tiny cups at a distance of several feet from the spout without spilling a drop.

The court attendants, who ushered supplicants up to the neon-lit divan, wore curved jeweled daggers in gold or silver at their waists. The household guards, at the door, wore fixed bayonets. His Majesty had a silver automatic pistol on his coffee table, which turned out to be a lighter for the cigarettes that he chain-smoked throughout the audience.

PIRATE COAST

From the British nobles who taught them the rudiments of ruling in the days when the sheikhdoms were known as the Trucial States and the whole Persian Gulf was called the Pirate Coast, the reigning sheikhs and amirs and sultans have acquired a penchant for hideous overstuffed furniture, outlandish floor lamps and ornate chandeliers that must have been high camp even toward the end of Victoria's reign.

Their colonial overseers also taught them the trick of mellowing the royal presence with a common touch, which in the court life of modern Arab is often carried to bizarre extremes. Sheikh Rachid of Dubai was recently in deep consultation with the departing British political agent when a nomad sheep, just in from the desert, burst in to beg a loan of one riyal — two cents — to cross the creek on the little rowboat ferry. The ruler reached into his robes, coughed up one riyal and returned an attentive ear to the queen's business.

Sheikh Rashed bin Ahmad of Umm Al-Qaiwain likes to sit outside his palace on a rickety wooden bench on Friday night, picking his feet and listening to the woes and requests of his subjects. Usually it is a fisherman asking for a royal loan to finance a new diesel engine or a pilgrim trying to get to Mecca.

Sheikh Khalid bin Mohammad of Sarjah received us in his blue and white palace less than a month before he was executed in an upstairs bedroom by his cousin, whom he had replaced on the throne. The cousin's comeback coup failed, due to the quick arrival of troops from the Abu Dhabi defense force, and the Sharjah throne has since passed to Sheikh Khalid's youngest brother.

Visually, the city has transformed itself totally since independence. The skyline of stately British Empire buildings is now dominated by steel superstructures and construction derricks.

Some development has outstripped demand. Many of Singapore's posh hotels report occupancy rates of 30 per cent and lower. They will simply have to hang on and wait, economists say.

TRAPPINGS FOR A TRANQUIL DAY — A lake, a fishing pole and children combine to make a rustic setting — and the trinity occurred locally. The above picture was snapped at Webb AFB on a lazy afternoon recently. The children seemed to be getting in a little practice for vacation time, which isn't too far away.

In Singapore, Old-Timers Tighten Grip On The Past

SINGAPORE (AP) — Visitors will find this place looks more like lower Manhattan every day. But they're still careful not to trip over python snakes lying on the sidewalk for sale.

Every day some new structure juts higher into the sultry sky which long ago assumed the yellowish-gray hues of modern city air. And the old-timers tighten their grip on the past.

Singapore today thumps and whines and screeches, but it still clacks, and shuffles and clinks.

Month after month, analysts warn that the boom must level off and the color of Chinatown and Malay kampungs must disappear. Neither shows signs of proving them right.

STILL CLIMBING
The growth that followed separation from Malaysia in 1965 has settled to a more steady climb, but it is still climbing.

In 1969 there were 3.3 million square feet of office space. By 1974, there'll be another 10 million. More than a half-million visitors drop in each year. Exports were up 14 per cent in 1971.

At the same time, hollow-eyed Chinese stare at the walls in mouldering death houses on Sago Lane where elderly relatives are brought to die because death at home is bad luck.

Eventually, of course, the new will wipe out most of the old. Already more than one-third of Singapore's two million inhabitants live in high-rise government apartments — their homes razed.

Singapore is spilling over onto its smaller outer islands, with a flashy tourist complex of nightclubs and gambling tables planned across the harbor on Sentosa, one of the larger islands.

A bustling financial district is rising next to what may be the world's third busiest port. Parking is already such a problem people are giving up driving to work.

It's all happening under the authoritarian government of Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew whose People's Action Party holds all 58 Parliament seats.

PAP must face the polls before April 1973, but hardly anyone expects them to lose more than a few seats.

Watershed, Flood Control Projects Built With Help

The Watershed Protection and Flood Prevention Act authorizes technical and financial help for the planning and carrying out of watershed projects for flood prevention, agricultural water management, recreation, municipal and industrial water supply, and fish and wildlife development.

"This program is administered by the Soil Conservation Service, but it's up to the individual to get things started. Local people start watersheds, and local people make them work."

Any qualified local organization may submit an application for assistance. Government specialists examine the situation, making certain benefits exceed the cost involved.

Principle Of Work Ethic Reintroduced By Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Up to 30,000 men and women between 18 and 65 will be ordered to go to work or lose their welfare grants beginning April 1.

Gov. Ronald Reagan gave the go-ahead for the program Friday after the federal government approved the year-old California proposal. The plan, which has drawn criticism here, will be tested for three years in 35 counties, mostly in the northern part of the state.

The program is intended to "reintroduce the principle of the work ethic to our way of life," the Republican governor told newsmen.

Reagan said the jobs will include all sorts of unskilled and "helping" jobs for both men and women with local schools, government agencies and nonprofit foundations. Among 56 kinds of potential jobs listed are parking lot attendants, kitchen helpers and playground and day care center aides.

The governor said recipients ordered to work will receive no extra pay for their work, which will be limited to 80 hours a month.

"Their grant is their pay,"

Reagan said. Should a person refuse a job "he'll be taken off welfare," Reagan said.

In Washington, Elliot Richardson, secretary of health, education and welfare, said the federal government "will be following the program of the project with great care" as a national pilot project. A similar, but more extensive, project was approved recently for New York by the federal government.

James Hall, the Reagan cabinet member who oversees welfare, said the only excuses that will be allowed are for the physically handicapped and mothers of children under age 6. Mothers of older children would be required to work while their children are in school.

Reagan said he anticipates the program will be challenged in court by welfare rights attorneys, but he said he is positive it is legal and that the federal waiver removed any doubt.

Assemblyman John Burton, D-San Francisco, a frequent Reagan critic, was waiting in the hallway outside Reagan's office when the announcement was made and told newsmen the plan is "patently illegal."

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) Follow through on that plan you have to add to present income without relying so much on others. First make sure you appraise your possessions accurately, as well as your debts. Avoid one who drinks too much.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) If you forget that situation that has been bothering you on and off for some time, you can do the things that help you to get ahead faster. Out to social events in p.m. and state your ambitions to the right people. Show you have poise.

NO SKATING — Weather was the story the past week at the World University Winter Games (FISU) currently under way at Lake Placid, N.Y., as the temperature reached the high fifties, and forced the cancellation of scheduled ice speed skating events. Pretty Debbie Knitz of the Bonne Bell Ski Team from Cleveland, Ohio, walks across the water-laden track where the skating events were to have taken place.

Congressman Being Sued

DALLAS (AP) — Tomas Rodriguez, wounded in the Feb. 19, 1971, search for the killers of three deputies, filed a $300,000 suit Friday against U.S. Rep. Earle Cabell, D-Tex., for damages he alleges were inflicted because of a letter the congressman circulated about the incident.

Cabell's letter was written to a constituent, Marcella Matthews, who had written him complaining of the treatment Rodriguez received during the hunt for the slayers.

The congressman's letter stated the officers had a search warrant to enter the Rodriguez apartment, that the Rodriguezes could probably speak English and that "subsequent investigation has indicated that Rodriguez was a dope pusher who sold a quantity of narcotics to one of the murderers."

Dallas authorities have said no search warrant was issued because none was needed. Mrs. Rodriguez said they did not know who was knocking on the door because they do not speak sufficient English.

The grand jury indicted Rodriguez March 8, 1971, on assault to murder charges for reportedly firing a pistol at officers when they broke into his apartment.

The grand jury took no action on allegations by Sheriff Clarence Jones that Rodriguez sold narcotics to one of the slayers.

Mass Dismissals May Be Nearing

SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — The Manned Spacecraft Center said Friday it will fire 75 to 100 persons between now and June 30.

The cuts, the latest in a continuing reduction in personnel, are part of an agency-wide move by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration because of declining budgets, a center spokesman said.

Boston Warehouse Now Prize-Winning Apartment

By The Associated Press

Many old buildings are being razed because some cities consider them useless. But foresighted people buy such structures as wise investments.

In remodeling an old waterfront warehouse, Boston architect Gerard R. Cugini, converted it into a triplex living arrangement above two floors of offices.

It earned him first prize in the 14th annual S. M. Hexter awards program as the "Interior of the Year."

LOTS OF SPACE

"One purchasing an old structure and helping to preserve it gives a city a sense of continuity," says Cugini.

"It is also a great way to acquire a lot of space in a building."

His award winning living interior is 21 x 60 feet with three major balconies of plaster leading into rooms. The painted walls are on the original old brick. Flooring is white oak. The main living area with music center is 21 x 37. At the same level are a master bath and bedroom 21 x 15.

"Warehouse construction is almost the easiest to deal with as there is no tricky demolition, but major site factors often must influence design solutions," Cugini explained.

Water, providing the only good view from the warehouse, was the stimulus for the multi-level design for the living area.

The water can be seen through a large expanse of glass. He also made great use of natural light coming from a skylight 35 feet above the living area. There are flattering patterns of light throughout the room.

The rear view of the building shows the north end of Boston and other warehouses.

Before buying such a structure, engineers should check out roof, floors and foundation, Cugini points out.

'A-OK' SIGN IS TABOO

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — "A-OK" may be acceptable in space lingo, but the familiar thumb and forefinger sign is taboo in Brazil because it has sexual connotations. Police raided clothing stores and seized T-shirts bearing the "A-OK" sign.

McGovern Likes Chances In Primary

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — President Nixon's Republican allies have staged their big New Hampshire show in behalf of "the man who isn't here," while a Democrat who is, Sen. George McGovern, claims he has a chance to score an upset victory in Tuesday's presidential primary.

The music was by Lionel Hampton, the songs by Lainie Kazan and then the politics by governors, senators and two members of the Nixon Cabinet as the Committee for the Re-election of the President sought to stir up the Republican loyalists and turn out a big primary vote for the absent Nixon.

RECALLS FUTILITY

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller recalled his own futile New Hampshire campaign eight years ago in a primary won by Henry Cabot Lodge, who was in Saigon at the time.

"The man who wasn't here won that primary," said Rockefeller. "Well, that's life... this time I think it's going to happen again. It's going to be Dick Nixon... he's the man who isn't here."

A crowd of nearly 1,500 turned out on a snowy New Hampshire night and heard Rockefeller, an old Nixon political rival, extol the President as "a man of the hour, a man who has that extra sense to look into the future."

Rockefeller said that is what Nixon did with his visit to Communist China.

"I'd like to say to those who don't agree with him about this trip, give him a chance to achieve that generation of peace," Rockefeller said.

One of those who doesn't agree is Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio, challenging Nixon from the conservative plank, who said Friday that Nixon's performance at Peking "was a sellout of American principles."

Nixon's other rival is Rep. Paul N. McCloskey of California, the liberal challenger who approved of Nixon's visit to China. He said the trip would "begin to break down the barriers between our peoples."

In the Democratic contest, McGovern told a radio audience that his campaign has gained real momentum and "I think it's going to be a razor-close finish."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine, the favorite in the Democratic primary, said in Salem, "I've got to win and win in such a convincing way that we convince these skeptics of the press. We've got to win big."

Pentagon press spokesman Jerry A. Friedheim indicated at a news briefing that Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird, a former eight-term congressman and top GOP strategist in past campaigns, would depart from the traditional stance of secretaries of defense who have stayed away from partisan politics.

Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, meanwhile, the party's number one campaigner, told a group of 1,500 GOP leaders in Washington the Democratic party "is still under the control of liberal leftists and elitists."

TAKE CARE

In a speech closing a three-day Republican Leadership Conference to plan Nixon's reelection effort, Agnew said Democratic presidential contenders "should take care that they do not give the enemy an incentive to prolong the war un-

FATAL CRASH SCENE—The wreckage of the Mohawk Airlines Fairchild F27 turboprop plane sits starkly amid the homes on Albany's Edgewood Ave. after it crashed into the raised-ranch home of building contractor Joseph Rosen late Friday night. The plane made a direct hit on the Rosen home, sparing others in the vicinity. 17 persons died in the tragedy.

Plane Dives Into Home; Death Count Reaches 17

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — An airliner making an instrument approach to Albany Airport with a capacity load of 45 passengers fell into a residential neighborhood and crashed through a two-story home.

Authorities said 17 persons were killed Friday night, including one resident of the house, but the homeowner, building contractor Joseph Rosen, 43, his wife Marcia, 35, and their young sons, Lawrence and Roger escaped serious injury. They were hurled out of the house.

The pilot and copilot of the Mohawk Airlines turboprop, a two-engine Fairchild F27, were among those who died. The third member of the crew, stewardess Sandy Segir, was one of the 33 persons admitted to hospitals. Mrs. Rosen and her sons also were admitted.

Also killed was Peter Sargent, who lived with his wife in an apartment on the second floor of the Rosen home. The raised-ranch house sat along a tree-lined street in a middle-class neighborhood.

"It was fortunate that there was no fire and that people were being carried away alive," said Thomas O'Leary, a Mohawk vice president who lives near the Rosens.

The site is about two miles from central Albany and near Washington Avenue, a major thoroughfare; a state office building complex and three hospitals.

The impact pushed the house 15 to 20 feet off its foundation. The first floor was shattered and the second collapsed on the fuselage. The cockpit came to rest in the backyard and the tail jettied from the front door.

The plane had shut off one of its engines as it was making the instrument approach through a light snow and overcast, a spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration at the airport said.

Only two exist outside China, a male in the zoo at Moscow and a female at London. Efforts to breed them in 1966 and in 1968-69 were what the wild life group called "a clamorous failure."

The conservationists said they "could only deplore the current practice of heads of state in giving away animals of rare species."

The group lamented that a couple of rare Asian lions — of which only 150 remain in India — died in the zoo at Brescia, Italy, after being given in 1966 to Pope Paul VI by the governor of Bombay. They did not reproduce in captivity.

Prospects of a fair volume of highway work were brightened. The county commissioners court gave its ecological blessing to a $1,264,000 overpass (probably about Owens Street), and contracts were awarded for resurfacing roads including 2.06 miles on US 87 from Loop 700 on the south to IS 20 on the north. This will cost approximately $74,000. Then the reconstruction of 1.6 miles of old lanes on US 87 just north of town was scheduled under the 1973 program of the Texas Highway Department.

Runway Tragedies Occur Frequently In Country

By The Associated Press

The plunge of a Mohawk Airlines turboprop into a residential neighborhood in Albany marks the seventh time since the beginning of 1970 that a commercial airliner has crashed while approaching a runway landing in the United States.

The 17 deaths in the Albany crash Friday night brought to 227 the number of fatalities in these accidents. It was also the first fatal air crash of any kind in the United States in 1972.

Crashes of other jetliners approaching airports took 75 lives at Huntington, W.Va., in November 1970, and killed 109 persons at Juneau, Alaska, last September in the worst aviation disaster in U.S. history.

Collisions in flight, usually involving big jetliners using radar and smaller planes flying without it, have taken more lives than the airport-approach disasters in recent years.

But the airport-approach crashes are of growing concern among airport and aviation officials because they have raised questions about the standards of instrument landing systems.

Unlike at least three other airports where crashes of this kind have occurred recently, Albany County Airport is equipped with a modern instrument landing system. Like most of the other crashes, Friday's occurred under poor visibility and weather conditions.

The plane had shut off one of its engines as it was making an instrument approach through light snow and overcast but disappeared from the controller's radar screen about five miles from the airport.

Testimony In Trial Is Confusing Some

ABILENE, Tex. (AP) — The complexity of the bribery-conspiracy trial of Speaker Gus Mutscher which began Monday has confused some observers on two points.

Both points involve the testimony of Houston promoter Frank Sharp.

Sharp testified before the House General Investigating Committee last August that he and Mutscher had a "tacit understanding" in 1969. When he failed to use that phrase Friday it led some to believe the prosecution's case had been damaged.

The second point involved a letter from Sharp to Mutscher in February, 1969, in which Sharp said proposed insurance of bank deposits through a state corporation would be in addition to, not instead of, federal insurance.

The prosecution feels both points are irrelevant.

The alleged tacit understanding was not a part of the conspiracy that is charged against Mutscher, Rep. Tommy Shannon of Fort Worth and Mutscher aide Rush McGinty.

The conspiracy to accept a bribe, the state said, involves only the three defendants, not Sharp.

It is beside the point, the state says, whether Sharp thought he would get legislation on state corporation insurance on bank deposits in exchange for loans to the defendants. The point is, the state says, that the defendants agreed among themselves that they would use their influence on the legislature in order to get the loans from Sharp's bank.

On the second point, the state feels it is unimportant whether the proposed legislation would accomplish what Sharp wanted it to accomplish. This involves Sharp's motive, and Sharp is not on trial.

Besides, even though his February 1969 letter says the insurance would be in addition to federal insurance, this stipulation was not in the legislation Sharp testified that federal that subsequently was drafted bank examiners harassed him. At Sharp's direction and ap- They criticized nearly all of the bank's loans, he said.

Market Shows Major Surge

NEW YORK (AP) — So far as the stock market was concerned, March came in like a lion — only they call it a bull in Wall Street.

That classic signal of market trends, the Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, started the week at 922.79 and finished it at 942.43.

It thereby reached the highest level since last April 29, when it was at 948.15, and was within striking distance of the 1971 high of 950.82, which came last April 28.

Except for Thursday, when it took time out to catch its breath, the market rose throughout the past week, and the trading volume was heavy much of the time.

By the Dow gauge, Monday was a good day because at 924.29 it passed the mid-February high point of 922.79 and began pushing toward the previous high of 936.06 on last May 14.

All this activity pushed the week's trading volume to 104,821,800 shares, compared with the previous week's 67,633,560.

It also put the various indicators on the plus side.

The Associated Press 60-stock average was up 5.2 to 335.9 during the week. The NYSE index of more than 1,300 stocks was up 1.12 to 60.07. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index rose 1.76 to 107.94.

SUCCESSFUL NERVES

Flying Doctors Treat Indians In Outback

SHAWANO, Wis. (AP) — Dr. Arthur Angove banked his twin-engine airplane to the left and the backwoods airstrip popped into view out the side window, a pencil line next to the forest.

He nosed the 200-miles-per-hour aircraft toward the ground — and the 19th century.

Shawano, with its airstrip, is a virtual last outpost of civilization south of northeastern Wisconsin's forests, where Indians know little of big city life and medicine men practice the healing arts of their ancestors.

At small spots in that forest, Dr. Angove and other flying doctors have set up two free clinics which have brought a new measure of medical care to the area's approximately 2,000 Indian residents.

HAS GOAL

The airstrip is 25 miles from Dr. Angove's goal, a clinic on the Stockbridge-Munsee Reservation. The other clinic is at Neopit, in Menominee County, which a decade ago was a Menominee Indian reservation.

A car, driven by an Indian volunteer worker, pulled up to the parked plane. The suburban Milwaukee doctor, a nurse and a medical technician climbed out of the plane.

As they loaded a black bag and boxes of medicines into the compact car, a single-engine fighter of World War II vintage dropped out of the sky.

Dr. Allen Crosby of Wauwatosa and another nurse clambered out of its twin cockpits and joined the group squeezing into the car.

The clinics are open one day every two weeks. About 75 medical personnel take turns staffing them. They range from dentists through osteopaths to podiatrists. They donate their time.

Cars had mashed the waist-high weeds, forming a circular drive up to the used mobile home housing the clinic. New cars driven by doctors who live closer to the area were parked next to cars rusted and worn by up to two decades of use.

Dr. Angove swapped his flight jacket for a medical coat and walked into the trailer just in time to have his stethoscope borrowed by another doctor.

Dr. Angove dropped his bag on a table in a bedroom and called for a patient. A nurse rummaged through the bathroom, now the pharmacy.

The clinics developed out of a training mission for the Civil Air Patrol — to which some of the doctors belong.

"We were sitting around thinking about working up a CAP exercise, flying in and setting up a complete medical facility at the scene of some mythical disaster," Dr. Crosby said. "Then someone suggested we do some good instead of just going through the motions."

SNOWBALLED

The idea of helping the Indians was suggested. The doctors approached the Great Lakes Intertribal Council, which liked it, and the project snowballed. Formal planning was minimal.

"They came up here with their medical bags and we found room for them," said Dave Besaw, an Indian health worker who helped set up the clinic and now is its receptionist.

The Indian area of northeastern Wisconsin is one of the most poverty-stricken in the state. About 90 per cent of the Indians have incomes below the poverty level. But few are on welfare.

The region is one of primarily second growth forest. The Indians make their living from its questionable bounty. Menominee County's only industry is based on logging.

The nearest doctors and medical facilities are in Shawano which is as much as 50 miles from the Indians' homes.

Indian health problems are magnified and complicated by attitudes and poverty.

"One of my patients tells me there are still some Indians, who when they get something wrong with them go to the backwoods to see a medicine man and get something," Dr. Crosby said.

Appeals Court Favors City In Bond Suit

FORT WORTH (AP) — A federal appeals court Friday in a suit that has tied up the rules for the city of Fort Worth sale of $33.35 million in municipal bonds for a year and a half.

In the 11-page decision, the U.S. Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans affirmed the decisions of two lower courts that in effect said that the federal judiciary had no jurisdiction in the case.

Six plaintiffs, represented by attorneys of the American Civil Liberties Union, filed the case in 1970 first to prevent the city from conducting the bond election and then to halt the sale of the bonds approved by the voters.

They claimed that city officials had violated the 14th Amendment of the U.S. Constitution by requiring the separate balloting of property owners and non-property owners.

NO JURISDICTION

Federal District Court Judge Leo Brewster allowed the election to proceed and submitted the case to a three-judge federal panel, which ruled that it had no jurisdiction in the case because a state court already had decided a similar case in the city's favor.

The plaintiffs appealed the class action suit.

In the Friday decision, the appellate court declared that two of its earlier decisions "are plainly controlling here as decided by the courts below."

"The parties were the same, the issues were the same," Judge J. P. Coleman wrote.

"The plaintiffs lost what they allowed to become a final judgment in the state court and started over again in the federal courts. That is the point to be emphasized here."

"The present parties are through," the decision continued. "That does not foreclose the right of others to file an appropriate action in the federal system if the occasion should arise."

The Fifth Court also rejected the plaintiffs' plea for injunctive action to halt any future bond elections the city might call.

"The plaintiffs say that this aspect of their complaint differentiates it from the complaint filed in Texas state court," the opinion said, "and thus that the additional relief requested removes the federal suit from the scope of the earlier decisions."

NO ALLEGATION

Coleman noted that the plaintiffs had not alleged that a particular election was pending or might be coming in the near future.

"Irreparable injury, indispensable ingredient of injunctive relief, is purely speculative at this time and it was purely speculative at the time the federal suit was filed, at least as to unspecified future elections," the decision said.

TRAP TROUBLES — Lee Trevino blasts from a trap on the 13th green as he took the second-round lead Friday in the $150,000 Doral-Eastern Open Golf tournament in Miami. Trevino was in five traps during the round as he came in with a second consecutive 69.

Texas Nabs Part Of Crown

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Sophomore Larry Robinson poured in 26 points Saturday as Texas broke loose in the closing minutes to whip Texas Christian 72-65, guaranteeing the Longhorns a share of the Southwest Conference basketball championship.

Texas would claim the title outright if Baylor were to have beaten Southern Methodist at Waco Saturday night. An SMU victory would force a playoff between Texas and SMU at Waco Tuesday night.

Longhorn fans mobbed the court at the final buzzer and hoisted Robinson, a native of Hobbs, N.M., onto their shoulders, cheering wildly.

It is the first title laurels in basketball for Texas since it was a co-champion in 1965 and also the first for Longhorn coach Leon Black, who took over in the 1967-68 season.

Robinson, 6 foot 6, coolly tossed in five consecutive free throws in the final 1:36 of play to clinch the triumph for Texas, which finishes the regular SWC season with a 10-4 record. The Longhorn's season record is 17-7.

TCU's fantastic 6 foot 4 leaper, Simpson DeGrate, had 19 points, but Robinson, 6-10, D. G. Brosthouse and 5-7 Len Howden offset DeGrate's rebounding.

Robinson had 15 rebounds, three more than DeGrate, who leads the Southwest Conference in that category.

The Longhorns — who lost their third leading scorer, John Wilson with a fractured ankle a couple of weeks ago — were playing with their second leading scorer, Scooter Lenox, slowed by a pulled leg muscle. The muscle was heavily taped, as Lenox played a portion of the game, scoring nine points. The total was below Lenox's SWC average of 14.1.

DORAL-EASTERN

Rains Delay Third Round

MIAMI (AP) — Heavy rains forced cancellation of Saturday's play in the third round of the $150,000 Doral-Eastern Open Golf tournament and prompted a unique decision that knocked 30 players out of the field.

A double round of 36 holes was rescheduled for Sunday over the 7,965-yard, par 72 Blue Monster course at the Doral Country Club, and all players in the field with scores of 147 and 148 were eliminated.

It took a score of 148 after Friday's round to make the cut for the final two rounds. The field was trimmed, as usual after two rounds, to the top 70 scorers and all tied for 70th position. A total of 82 made it.

After a long conference with other tournament officials, and representatives of Hughes Sports Network, the television network that had scheduled national television coverage of the event, Jack Tuthill ruled that all players with scores of 147 and 148 be given "equal share" money of $187 and provided with an exemption into next week's Florida Citrus Open.

Tuthill is the tournament director of the Tournament Players Division of the PGA and the man in charge of the field operations of the pro tour.

The so-called "equal share money" is that portion of the total purse that is set aside from equal division among players finishing below 50th position in any regular tour event.

Steers Destroy Abilene

ABILENE — The Big Spring Steerettes came from behind to dump Abilene High in a girls' volleyball game, 8-14, 15-10, 15-7 here Friday.

Kay Lou Caffey blistered her opponents' hands with her serving. Caffey paced the Steers in that department with nine points. Raylene Oliver and Mary Alice Terrazas backed her up at the net.

The Big Spring junior varsity team overpowered the Abilene squad, 15-4, 15-0.

Ruth Knight was high-point server with nine points. Carla Sundry and Cynthia Dennis assisted her with their spiking at the net.

The varsity team enriched its record to 13-2 over-all and 4-1 in District 5-4A. The junior varsity team sports a 13-0 season slate and a 5-0 tab in the district.

The Big Spring girls meet Big Lake here Tuesday.

Steers Capture Four Events

Four Big Spring High School freshmen placed first in a pentagonal track meet at San Angelo yesterday.

Virgil Spargo, Barry Canning, James Coffee and Ricky McCormick all finished first in their respective events in the practice track and field meet.

Spargo placed first in the pole vault; Canning jumped 5-foot-3 to take first in the high jump; Coffee captured first in the discus throw; and McCormick ran the three-quarters of a mile in 3:30.05 for first place.

Big Spring not only placed first in the discus throw, but they nabbed the second, third and fifth positions in the meet. Since the meet was just a practice, coaches could enter more than one person in each event.

McCarl came in second in the discus throw; Jerry Mintz placed third; and Marcelino Rangel made fifth.

Kyle Nabor, Ricky Darrow, Canning and Rangel combined to come in second in the 440 relay.

Joe Rios came in second in the 660-yard run. Mike Mounce came in second in the pole vault.

The Big Spring freshmen will go to the San Angelo Relays next Friday. The relays will attract 54 teams, some of which will be seventh and eighth grade teams. Gollad and Runnels will also go to San Angelo.

Jacksonville In Tournament

NEW YORK (AP) — The last time — and first time — that Jacksonville played a basketball game in Madison Square Garden, it set the collegiate record for single-game scoring by a team.

The next time the Dolphins invade the Garden, they'll be shooting for bigger game in a series of games — the championship in their debut at the National Invitational Tournament.

The Redmen of St. John's, N.Y., already own two records in the NIT — the most appearances, 20, and most titles, four. Jacksonville, St. John's, Fordham, Syracuse and Niagara were named Wednesday by Ben Carnevale, president of the NIT Selection Committee, the first five entries to be chosen in the 16-team, March 17-25 event.

Wilder Scores 23 Points For YMCA Raiders

The Panthers and Rockets both posted victories yesterday to capture the YMCA grade school basketball title with identical 7-0 records.

The Panthers clawed the Bears, 38-11 as Thompson gathered 12 points and the Rockets defeated the Bulldogs, 8-4 in yesterday's action.

Scotty Wilder poured in 23 points to lead the Raiders to a 34-17 victory over the Redskins. The Raiders captured second place with a 5-2 won-loss slate.

In the other game, the Buffaloes thumped the Mustangs, 27-16 to capture third place in the YMCA league with a 4-3 over-all record.

ABC Relays Attract Eight Teams For Next Saturday

The American Business Club will sponsor the renewal of the ABC relays in Big Spring at Memorial Stadium next Saturday. Eight teams will be participating in the meet. They are:

SCHOOLBOY OPENER — Pottsboro Post Benny Randles (55) maneuvers around Guard Mike Dunham (21) of Sanford-Fritch in their opener of the schoolboy basketball tournament at Austin Friday. Both are Conference A teams.

Morton Wins AA Tourney

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Relentless defensive pressure and two clutch shots by Elton Patton enabled Morton to beat Whitehouse, 62-59, Saturday for the Class AA championship at the state schoolboy basketball tournament.

Henderson and Odessa Ector were paired in the AA finals Saturday night, followed by the Pottsboro-Garrison game for the Class A championship.

Whitehouse, winners of 17 straight coming into the final game, lost the ball 18 times without getting off a shot against Morton's full-court defense. The Indians converted those mistakes into 12 points.

McCormick, Priebe Lead Big Spring

Mike McCormick, a senior at Big Spring High School, received a stress fracture on his leg almost a year ago. Yesterday he won the 880-yard race in the Snyder Invitational track tournament.

McCormick won the heat with a 2 minute and .5 second time. Coach Glenn Petty said, "Mike has been working hard all year building his leg back into shape. It has been painful for him, but I think he is over that problem now." McCormick placed second in the same event in Fort Stockton last week.

Bob Priebe, a junior Steer, won the mile run with a 4:32.5 seconds time. Priebe ran the mile faster than he ever had before. Coach Petty said, "Priebe is right on schedule for what we expected at this time of year. He beat his old record by several seconds."

Priebe got out front and never lost the lead in the race. Coach Petty said, "It is harder for a runner to get out front and lead the entire race." Priebe fought off a challenge by T. C. Perez of San Angelo in the late stages of the race.

Craig Brown, a senior from Big Spring, placed sixth in the discus throw with a 136' 7" hurl.

Charles Brown, Doug Smith, Mike Sizenbach and Edward Hurrington combined to win the 440 relay with a 44.5 time for their best of the year.

Rick Heckler ran his best ever in the half mile with a 4-minute, 52-second time.

Rice Signs 3

HOUSTON (AP) — Rice University has increased to 41 the number of high school football players signed to letters of intent with the university.

The latest signees are three out of state prospects signed Wednesday. They were Mike McGuire, a 6-3, 219-pound tight end from Malabar High School of Mansfield, Ohio; Bob Simpson, a 6-4, 235-pound defensive tackle, and Art Burns, a 6-2, 215-pound linebacker, both from Arapahoe High School of Littleton, Colo.

Steers Grab Twin Bill From Ector

Big Spring High School's baseball team tripped Odessa Ector in both games of a doubleheader yesterday, 3-2, 4-1 at Odessa.

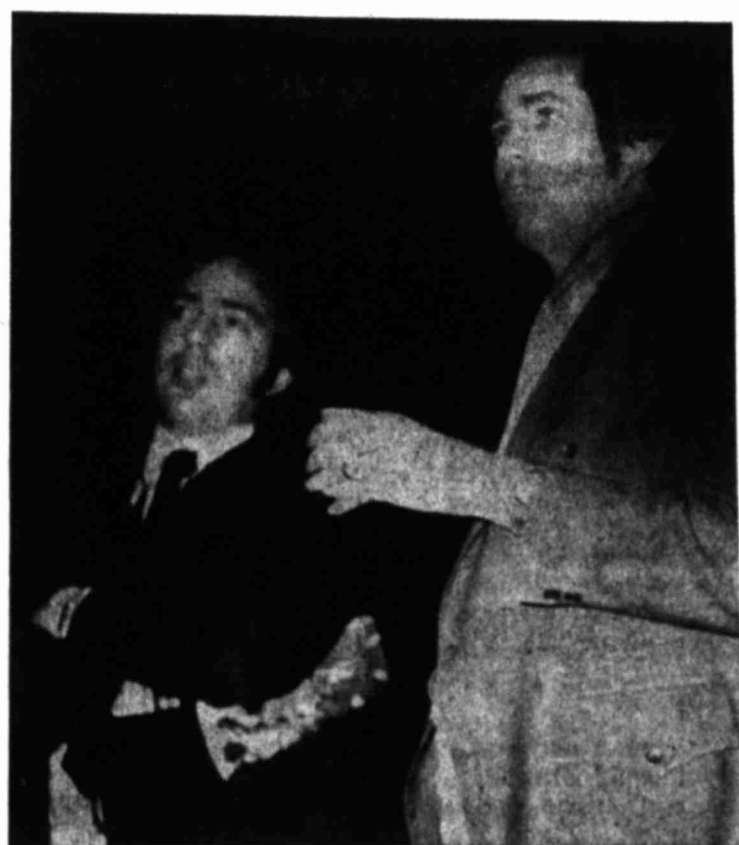

David Carter pitched a five-hitter in the first game to snare his second win of the season without a loss.

Carter received support from Tommy Tune and Earl Reynolds who both blasted two hits for three times at the plate.

The Steers pushed two runs across the plate in the sixth inning to cinch the first game. Tune doubled in that inning. Reynolds then knocked him home with a double and he later scored when Pete Shaffer blasted a double to drive Reynolds home.

In the second game, Earl Reynolds pitched a four-hitter game. Rick Steen backed up Reynolds' pitching by gathering two for three at bat. Steen singled to drive in Carter in the first inning and he scored the last run of the game after getting on base with a single and then racing home on an error.

By JOE HINDS

Welcome to Hindsight!

You know, I squeezed my brain for weeks in my search for subjects to write about in a sports column. I thought maybe I could write feature stories or dig around town for sports anecdotes or conduct interviews or . . .

Then the lightbulb flashed like in cartoons and an idea hit me smack dab between the eyes: why not let somebody, who has been around Big Spring longer than I have, tell me what Big Spring citizens might be interested in reading about. Well, knowing that all I had to do was find a sports buff, I settled back in my easy chair and said, "This ain't gonna be tough. This way nobody'll give me any guff."

But I decided the best way to find out what Big Springers were interested in was by taking a poll asking questions over the telephone. Now, if you have never taken a poll, you are missing something. The biggest problem was trying to convince people that there were no right nor wrong answers and that they didn't get a prize for answering the questions correctly.

The poll takers asked the questions to whoever answered the telephone. We announced that the subject was sports, but we didn't ask for the man of the house. If a lady answered and wanted to hand the phone to her husband, that was all well and good, but we didn't encourage it.

Many women did answer the questions and surprisingly they were interested in basically the same sports that men were. Some women did prefer the Olympics to the Super Bowl, but over-all their answers were similar to those of men and they followed the same pattern. One man, upon hearing the subject of the poll, called to his wife: "Honey, it's for you." Several children answered the telephone and most of them selected baseball.

Some people thought I was the Dialing-For-Dollars man in disguise and they blurted out the count and amount before I could untwist my tongue. But it was a real sports poll gang and here are the questions and the results:

(1) What do you think is Big Spring's number one sport?

Football won by a landslide with 80 votes out of 100. Basketball placed second with 11 votes; baseball finished third with five votes; track notched fourth place with two votes; and handball and television (television watching?) came in last with one vote apiece.

(2) What do you think is America's number one sport?

Football was the favorite again with 74 votes of 100. Other sports gathering votes were: baseball with 14, basketball with five, tennis with four, horse racing with two, and wrestling with one.

(3) What do you think is America's number one sports event?

The Super Bowl bowled over its opponents with 48 votes. The World Series captured 20 votes; the Olympics attracted 13 votes; the Indianapolis 500 and the Kentucky Derby tied for fourth with six votes; three people didn't know; World Championship boxing and the Cotton Bowl got one vote each; one person didn't care; and one fan voted for Grunion Day (Grunion Day?).

So football, without a doubt, is Big Spring's favorite sport. Tom Adams, coach of the freshman football team at Big Spring High School, answered the questions and said, "I think football is the number one sport around here and in the nation. Football has more action than other sports. Baseball is way too slow. Sometimes it looks like baseball players aren't doing anything. I think football does a lot more for the kids, too."

Most citizens agreed with Coach Adams. Mrs. John Affleck said, "I like football and I watch it on television with my husband. We particularly enjoyed the sport last season since the Cowboys did so well."

Lee Aken said, "Baseball was the main sport when I was growing up, but I like football now. I got interested when my children started playing the sport. It's a good, wholesome sport that has more action and physical contact."

Major Jim Aldrich voted for baseball as the sport he enjoyed. He said, "Baseball is a slower game, but I like it that way. There is nothing more exciting to me than a no-hitter baseball game. I'd rather watch baseball on television than any other sport because I once was a baseball player myself. I've also worked with children in the Little League program."

He continued: "Reducing the strike zone probably wouldn't give baseball any more action; it would slow the game down. The pitcher would walk more batters."

He didn't believe that the pitcher would just simply throw the ball down the middle and let the batter blast the ball out of the park. He said, "There's a lot of strategy in baseball, but it just happens slower."

NEXT WEEK: The number one spring sport.

BULLDOGGING FOOTBALL STAR — During the off season when he is finished crashing through the opponent's line, Walt Garrison, Dallas Cowboys' fullback, turns to rodeoing. Garrison takes part in local events when time permits. Here the six-foot, 205-pound cowboy wrestles a steer to the ground in bulldogging practice. Garrison has been rodeoing for the past 14 years, having started when he was in high school.

Davis Leads Houston To NCAA Playoffs

HOUSTON (AP) — The Houston Cougars' mid-season surge were struggling to keep above the 500 mark. "Then I saw him later in the season and I put him right back up there with the top forward prospects," Hamblin said. That's when the Cougars were enjoying an 11-game winning streak that helped them secure their ninth NCAA playoff berth. They'll square off against the Southwest Conference champion Saturday at Las Cruces, N.M. in the Midwest pre-region tournament. Two at-large

Ticket Prices For Sports Offering Purse May Rise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ticket prices of sporting events may be raised as a result of an increase in the purse or prize money, the Internal Revenue Service said.

The IRS said an increase in the purse is an allowable cost increase justifying a price rise even though the decision to increase the purse is made by the sponsor himself.

In addition, the IRS said, if a sponsor increases the purse, he may increase entry fees and charges for programs and similar items, as well as ticket prices.

The IRS emphasized the ruling applies only to sporting events offering a purse or cash prize, such as boxing

'BEST HANDICAPPED SKIER' Blind Skier Masters Sport In 3 Years

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Every Saturday David Swinney travels 80 miles into the Sierra Nevada mountains for a day of skiing. He wears two special pieces of equipment: a crash helmet and a big red sign saying "Blind Skier."

The 20-year-old Sacramento college student aims his skis according to directions shouted by a friend: "90 degrees left, 45 degrees right, now ride her out."

"That bright sign helps a lot," Swinney said in an interview. "People get out of the way. And if I do hit them, they don't get mad." Swinney's ski group, organized by the San Juan Unified School District here, took its first blind pupil to the slopes five years ago.

This year about 20 blind persons and about 20 deaf persons are participating in the program, along with 1,500 other youths.

Swinney took his first lesson in 1968. After mastering the snowplow turn and advancing into the stem turn, he is now trying to sell skiing to others who are blind.

A teacher once tried to dis-suaide Swinney because skiing involves body movements difficult for blind persons to imitate.

"I thought it would be much harder," said the youth. "Now, when I'm going good, I really don't worry about a thing. I just follow the instructions of my buddy or teacher, who skis behind, in front or alongside."

"Sometimes I get going too fast and out of control. I prefer to fall down than to take chances."

Swinney's instructor, Joe Hayes, a 35-year-old Sacramento school principal, said he tried skiing while blindfolded, just to learn of the problems involved.

"Funny thing, I couldn't tell if I was moving or standing still—unless I dragged my poles," said Hayes.

"David is our best handicapped skier. But do you know, one day there were some amputees taking lessons at Boreal Ridge and we told David about them."

"David thought a minute, and said 'Hey man, I don't see how anyone with only one leg could ever learn how to ski. That must take real courage.'"

Waterfowl Staying At Federal Refuge May Not Get Food

AUSTIN — More than two hundred waterfowl enthusiasts heard that short-stopping ducks and geese at Federal refuge will be attacked by reduction of cultivated foods. This was according to Kahler Martinson, Acting Assistant Director of Operations for the U.S. Bureau of Sports Fisheries and Wildlife. With Martinson at the Sportsmen's Clubs of Texas, Inc. (SCOT) sponsored Waterfowl Conference in Houston Saturday, were two Federal flyway representatives, Arthur Hawkins, of Minnesota and Ray Buller of New Mexico. They all agreed that the problem of short-stopping does exist and expressed concern over changing of migratory habits of waterfowl through making the food supply abundant at refuges.

The day-long conference discussions included talks by some well known waterfowl hunting guides including Tom Waddell, Marvin Tyler, Jimmie Reel, Joe Lagow, Dr. Jack Castle, Dick Fox and Arthur D. Hudgins.

James U. Cross, Executive Director of the Parks & Wildlife Department; Charles Stutmenaker, Texas waterfowl biologist; and the King Ranch biologist, Bill Kiel, also discussed current problems in waterfowl management. The gathering ended with a standing ovation as an act of appreciation to SCOT for calling the well organized and much needed Conference and at the same time, asked that another like meeting be held next year for hunters and duck and goose enthusiasts.

Cap Rock Volleyball Meet

The annual Cap Rock volleyball tournament starts this Friday and runs through Saturday at the Howard County Junior College gymnasium. The tournament committee invites girls' high school teams from 1958-62.

in the area to participate. Lou Wright, a former HCJC volleyball player, is organizing a reunion on the last day of the tournament at 11:30 a.m. at Furr's Cafeteria for former Jayhawk volleyball players from 1958-62.

BILL OVERTON SAYS:

Super-Star Blacks Make Less In Sports

NEW YORK (AP) — "Most black athletes are so naive that they can be compromised by a steak dinner and a glass of champagne," a former pro line-backer turned actor charged today.

"Scouts, agents, acoaches and team owners exploit blacks. It's a fact that some super-star blacks earn less money than mediocre whites."

The accusation was made by Bill Overton, 25, a Wake Forest graduate who was linebucker with the Dallas Cowboys and later the Kansas City Chiefs, although not a regular, before moving on to a successful career in the movies and on television.

With two active players — Mike Garrett of the San Diego Chargers and Bob Grant of the Washington Redskins — the handsome, 6-foot-2 Negro has formed an organization called Midlothian Industries, with headquarters in Los Angeles, for the purpose of counselling athletes in their business dealings and economics.

"We don't confine ourselves with blacks — we will take whites, too," Overton said in an interview. "It just happens that, because of their disadvantaged family life, blacks are the most susceptible."

"I don't like to refer to myself as a manager or an agent. I'm a god-father."

Overton insists that the enterprise is more philanthropic than commercial since so far the clients haven't paid a penny into the project. Besides, Overton doesn't need it for a livelihood.

He has had parts in four movies, "Made for Each Other," "Hail," "Mortadella" with Sophia Loren and "Richard" a takeoff on the President; appeared on television and on the stage "Bill and William" at Playbox Theater in New York and has done numerous commercials.

"When Hank Stram, Kansas City coach offered to pay me $150 a game to stay on the taxi squad," Overton said, "I decided football wasn't for me."

Overton grew up in a ghetto in Boston, began making decisions at the age of nine because both his parents worked, and won a scholarship to Wake Forest, where he majored in football and drama. He was graduated in 1968.

"I was really naive," he said. "The guys once took me to a Ku Klux Klan cross burning in Greensboro N.C. I was one of the first black guys to play at Auburn in 1967. The trainer didn't want to sit with me on the bus because he was afraid he'd get shot.

"That's not what bugs me. What bugs me is that black athletes are being victimized by sharp agents and promoters — sometimes by their own coaches. We want to help them."

Overton said he had discovered that in many cases college coaches made secret deals with the agents and the agents, in turn, made secret deals with the pro teams with the athlete usually the loser.

"Even if you majored in economics, it would be hard for you to digest all of the small print in some of these contracts," he added.

"So what happens? Some smart operator takes a guy out to a fancy dinner, soft-soaps his family and slips the guy $100. Then he has him in his pocket. The guy will sign without looking at the contract. This is where we are trying to help."

Overton said he knew of a case involving a high draft choice in pro basketball who signed what he thought was a $500,000 contract only to discover he got about one-fifth that amount.

Another athlete was signed to an inferior contract through persuasion of a brother, who was slipped $10,000, Overton said, and still another was snagged because somebody carpented the family house.

"In the last pro basketball draft, sixteen of the top 20 were blacks," he added. "You can bet many of them came out of ghettos or from disadvantaged homes. They're susceptible to nice treatment."

"If Denny McLain and Lance Alworth can go bankrupt and Joe Namath can lose all his restaurants, what chance do these kids have without expert advice?"

LOCAL FISHERMEN

Ken Lancaster, Jerry Harry Go To Nationals

Ken Lancaster and Jerry Harry, members of the Big Spring Bass Club, left Friday for Sunny Florida to represent area fishermen in the Lake Kissimmee National Championship fishing tournament that starts Thursday.

The winner of the Florida national tournament, sponsored by the Bass Angler's Sportsmen's Society, will receive $1,500 in cash and a fully equipped Ranger bass boat and trailer. $15,000 in cash prizes will be filtered down to the top 35 winners.

Lancaster and Harry will stay at the Bass Anglers Sportsman Society headquarters near Lake Kissimmee practicing fishing in the lake for four days. Each contestant is allowed a four-day practice period prior to the three-day tournament.

The Bass Angler's Society has almost two million members. The profits from the Society are used to fight pollution of rivers, streams and lakes in America.

Lancaster caught the largest three-fish string for a total of an 11-pound, seven-ounce string in the last tournament at Lake Spence. Lancaster, the vice president of the local Bass Club, was last year's grand champion winner.

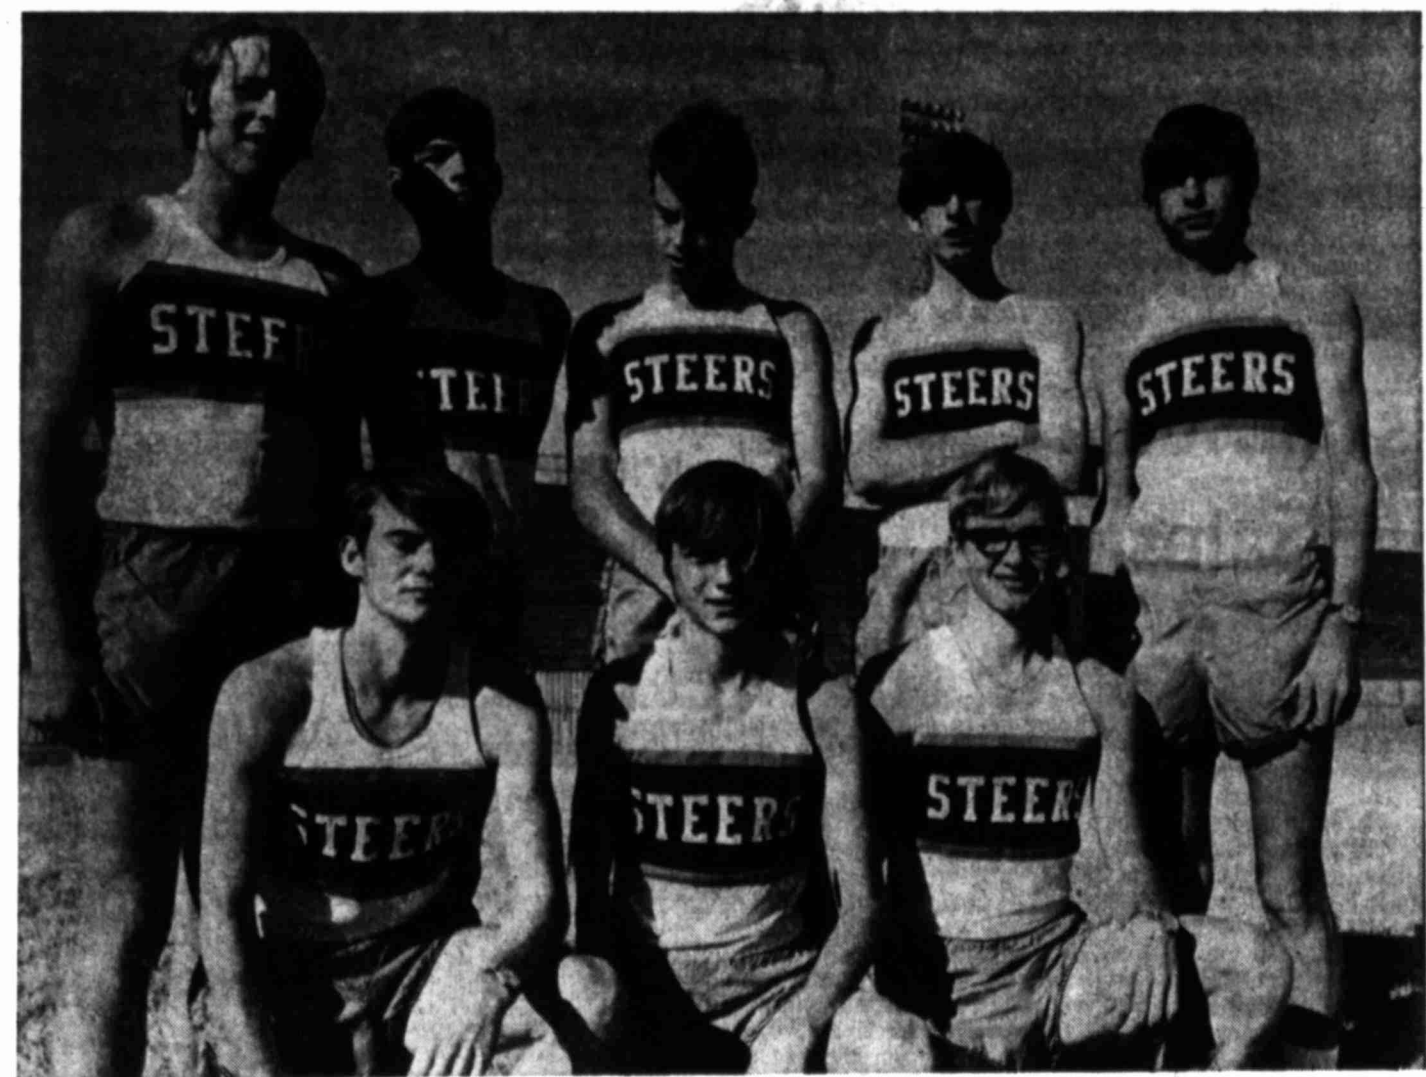

Jim Madden placed second in the recent tournament with a nine-pound, three-ounce string. Gerald McCasland came in third with a five-pound, 14-ounce trio.

Madden caught the biggest fish. It weighed in at 5 pounds, 13 ounces. Twenty-three members participated in the tournament.

Cowboy Rookies Are Orientated

Nineteen draft choices and 15 free agents received their introduction to the National Football League this week-end when the Dallas Cowboys held their annual rookie orientation.

Heading the list of newcomers were Bill Thomas of Boston College, the running back who was the Cowboys' No. 1 selection in the January draft of college talent.

"This weekend gave most members of our staff their first opportunity to see the rookies in person," said Cowboys Coach Tom Landry. "It will help us decide the position each player is best suited for."

The rookies arrived in Dallas Friday night. They were given physical examinations Saturday morning.

After lunch, the players met the coaches, trainers and the equipment manager before a 1½-hour workout at Texas Stadium. Dinner yesterday evening and a showing of the Cowboys' 1971 highlight film concluded the first day of orientation.

Coaches and rookies will meet for another hour this morning, followed by a second workout early this afternoon. The players then will be free to return home.

Texas Golf Tourney Attracting Bob Lunn

By The Associated Press

Bob Lunn, one of the longest hitters on the pro tour, and old pro Bob Rosburg have committed to play in the 1972 Colonial NIT. Also signing for the May 8-14 event are Bob Goalby, Dave Marr and Bob Dickinson. Tournament Chairman Pete Davis made the announcement stating that the steadily growing NIT field now stands at 20 players.

Lunn, who finished 19th on the PGA money last year, with $77,831 has scored at least one tournament victory four years in a row. His titles include the 1968 Memphis and Atlanta Classics, the 1969 Hartford Open, 1970 Florida Citrus Invitational, and the 1971 Los Angeles Open. He tied for 24th in last year's NIT by carding a score of 289. Although Lunn didn't turn pro until 1967, he has already taken over 37th place on the all-time PGA money list with $355,274.

Bob Rosburg, an old hand on the pro tour, regained his winning form earlier this year with a victory in the Bob Hope Desert Classic. The victory earned Bob a $29,000 pay check to go along with his career earnings of $345,076. Rosburg's pro career began in 1953, and since then he has won seven events, including the 1959 PGA Championship. He is also the winner of the 1958 Vardon Trophy and a member of the 1959 Ryder Cup Team. He played well in the 1971 NIT, finishing in a tie for 7th with a score of 286.

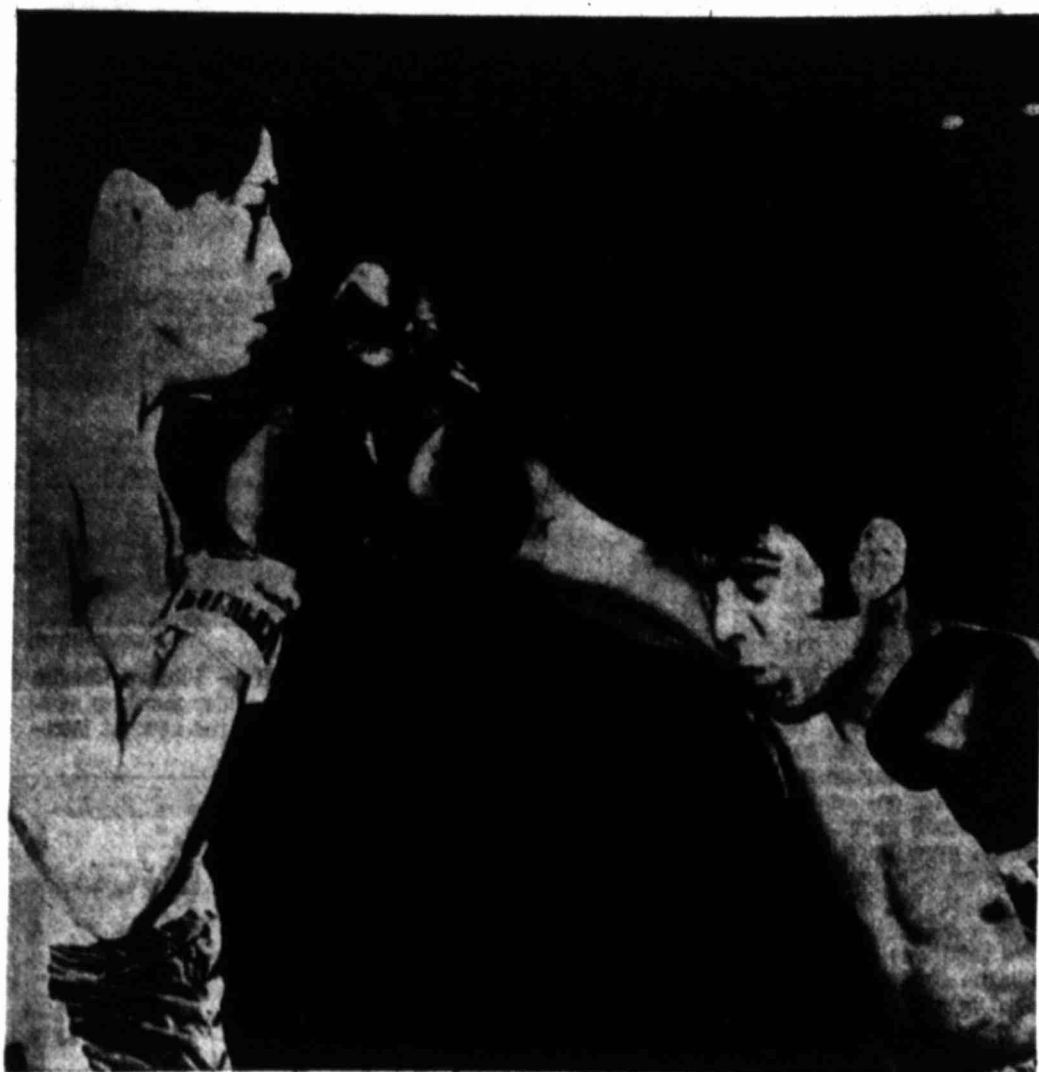

Goalby, a tour pro since 1957, is ranked 17th on the all-time PGA money winning list with earnings of $511,009. He has won 11 tour titles including the 1968 Masters. His most recent victory came in the 1971 Bahamas National tournament. The 1963 Ryder Cup Team member shot a 288 in last year's NIT.

Marr joined the pro tour in 1960. He has won four tour events including the prestigious PGA Championship in 1965. In recent years Marr has turned to sportscasting, and now plays in only a few tournaments each year. He has career earnings of $338,348.

Dickson was low qualifier in the 1968 Spring Qualifying School for Approved Tournament Players. He had a great amateur career, winning both the U.S. and British Amateur Championships in 1967. He recorded a victory his first year on the tour, the 1968 Haig Open. He won $28,122 in 1971 and finished a tie for 46th at the NIT.

Pros who have signed for NIT to-date are Charles Coody, Dave Stockton, Bob Lunn, Rod Funseth, Bud Allen, Bob Rosburg, Bob Goalby, Bob Dickinson, Grier Jones, Larry Wood, John Schroeder, Larry Wadkins, Chuck Courtney, Mac McLendon, Dave Marr, Ron Carrudo, Billy Maxwell, Randy Wolff, Bobe Hickey and Jack Montgomerie.

Texas Leads Nation In Small Boat Sales

Texas became the nation's best market for small pleasure boats, outboard motors and boat trailers in 1971, according to a research study by the Boating Industry Association.

The Lone Star State maintained its four-year hold on the top spot in outboard boat sales, corraling 9.89 per cent of the national market. It held its five-year lead in boat trailer sales, accounting for 11.72 per cent of the market. And if displaced Florida as the nation's top outboard motor market, claiming 8.90 per cent of sales nationally.

Florida was runner-up in all three categories: 7.12 per cent of boat sales, 7.99 per cent of trailer sales and 8.03 per cent of motor sales.

Other leaders:

- Outboard boats: Minnesota, 6.60 per cent; Wisconsin, 5.78 per cent; Michigan, 5.48 per cent; and South Carolina, 3.18 per cent.
- Boat trailers: Louisiana, 5.87 per cent; Wisconsin, 4.71 per cent; New York, 4.20 per cent; Michigan and California, each 4.02 per cent; Minnesota, 3.84 per cent; Ohio, 3.39 per cent; and South Carolina, 3.39 per cent.
- Outboard motors: New York, 6.07 per cent; Minnesota, 5.24 per cent; Wisconsin, 5.06 per cent; Michigan, 4.86 per cent; Louisiana, 4.70 per cent; California, 4.65 per cent; Illinois, 3.55 per cent; and Ohio, 3.41 per cent.

Such populous and traditional boating areas as the East and West coasts and the Great Lakes states aren't declining as boating markets by any means, observed Marianne Napier, BIA market research director.

"Business is good in these areas, but their share of the market is declining because their market penetration was better much earlier. Boating is relatively new in much of the South and Southwest, and with growing population and prosperity, more new reservoirs and the mild climate — we're expecting these areas to make even larger percentage gains in the immediate future," Mrs. Napier predicted.

HC Teacher Will Appraise System

General chairman of the team, which will appraise the work at both Midland High School and Robert E. Lee High School, will be Dr. John McFarland of UT-El Paso.

Members of the team will gather for a banquet in Midland this evening. The teachers will be occupied with the assignment Monday through Thursday.

LPGA TOURNAMENT

Lady Who Flips Wig Is In Field

HOUSTON (AP) — A lady who likes to give her wig a flip after a bad shot, a former North Texas State cheerleader, and a lady who usually wins the money, are in the field for the $27,000 LPGA Lady Eve golf tournament beginning Thursday.

They are part of the caravan of touring women pro golfers who begin championship play Friday in the 54-hole tournament over the 6,407 par 73 Memorial Park layout. A $2,000 pro-am is set Thursday.

Long-hitting JoAnne Carner and Burdine's to get a good start this year in the Cup competition.

Also in the field is Pam Barnett, who had her best year on the tour in 1971. If she continues to improve, other pretties might take up her habits of throwing her wig following a bad shot. She says it relieves tension.

The Lady Eve tournament is the second stop along the 27-tournament Lady's tour, which is playing for a record total prize of $925,000 this year.

LPGA Tournament Director Bud Erickson said the 1972 prize money was a 40 per cent increase over 1971.

Points are awarded to the top 10 finishers in each of the 27 tournaments on the lady's tour and compiled at the end of the tour to determine the winner. Winner of the cup gets $7,500 this year and the runnerup gets $5,000.

Miss Palmer, the pert former North Texas cheerleader, finished in a tie for second to Mrs. Hagge at Burdine's to get a good start this year in the Cup competition.

Petty Expected To Whip Foyt In Ontario Today

ONTARIO, California — from being considered the driver to beat today when the Miller High Life 500-mile race is held here at the multi-million-dollar Ontario Motor Speedway.

The nation's leading motorsports journalists and broadcasters who make up the exclusive Union 76 Racing Panel of Experts have named Petty as the favorite driver to win the Ontario event. The Union 76 Racing Panel is the only group of professional motorsport press members to regularly establish the favorite driver of major automotive events held in the United States.

Petty was also the Panel's favorite to win the Daytona speed contest.

Petty, who is driving a 1972 Plymouth, received 34 first-place votes from the Panel members to be named the race favorite. His predicted winning average speed ranges from a slow 95.476 mph average to a fast 165.196 mph for the 500 miles.

Chevrolet driver Bobby Allison, 34, of Hueytown, Ala., was the second choice of the racing press as the man who is most likely to take the checkered flag at Ontario. Allison cornered 19 first-place votes.

Daytona 500 winner A. J. Foyt, 37, of Houston, Tex., received 15 votes as the favorite to be the Panel's third choice as potential winner. Foyt will be in the same 1971 Mercury with which he won at Daytona.

Other drivers receiving votes of confidence from the racing press are: Buddy Baker in a Dodge (4); Bobby Isaac in a Dodge (3); and Mark Donohue in a Matador (2).

Work On US 87 North Looms

The reconstruction of two lanes on U.S. 87 highway north of Big Spring is included in the two-year consolidated highway program of the Texas Highway Department.

The commission, according to District Engineer J. C. Roberts, has approved the expenditure of $382,000 for the work which involves 1.6 miles of rebuilding.

Joe Smoot, resident engineer, said that the project begins at 2.6 miles north of US 20 and will consist of reconstruction of grade, structures and surfacing on two lanes from the highway prior to its conversion to four-lane status. These are partially in low-lying areas and have a considerable water and sand problem. The new work will lift the lanes above the grade where traffic would be affected.

Work is still progressing on widening and reconstruction of the Andrews Highway from Big Spring west to near the Hartwells cutoff. Indications are that this project should be completed by midyear, providing a widened road all the way to Andrews.

New Scout Unit Plans For Drive

Boy Scout Troop 33 will hold its first annual Pop Bottle Drive on Saturday.

Troop 33 is a new Scout troop sponsored by the First Christian Church with Ron Mercer, manager of the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce as Scoutmaster, and the Rev. John Beard, assistant Scoutmaster.

"Being a new troop, we have no equipment whatever," said Mercer, "and the boys desperately want to participate in the coming Scouting activities. This will be impossible if we can't make any money to purchase what we need. Activities include spring and summer camps. "The Scouting way is to work for what we have to have rather than ask for handouts. So the Pop Bottle project seems to be our answer."

Members of Troop 33 will go door to door throughout Big Spring asking for donation of any and all pop bottles, cartons or cases. Those who want to help, but will not be home Saturday, are asked to leave the bottles on the front door step.

ORIENTAL INSPIRATION is seen in hair, makeup and clothes as fashion embraces the "China Doll." A multi-colored dragon of sequins and beads strides across the bodice of this snow jersey gown.

Be A China Doll

—fragile as a butterfly's wings

COTY AWARD WINNER John Kloss uses red herons in flight for this silky, Oriental inspired at-home gown. It's designed to wrap around, with kimono sleeves and self tie closing. Makeup oriented to the look features a delicate complexion, thin eyebrows, shadow emphasizing almondine appearance of the eyes and a brilliant, crimson mouth color.

Highlight of the luncheon was a fashion show of clothing entered in the contest. Models paraded down a runway flanked at the entrance with green floor plants, potted chrysanthemums and large brass candlesticks holding yellow candles. Assorted spring flowers accented either side of the green felt runway.

Mrs. William Trembour provided descriptions of the styles, accompanied by Mrs. Willis Rice, pianist. Models were Mrs. Mark Heilmann, Mrs. Pchelkin, Mrs. Michael Karaffa and daughter, Kimberly, and daughter, Wanda, Mrs. Warren, Mrs. Bassett, Mrs. Mike Nash and daughter, Kimberly, Mrs. Wyngaard, Mrs. Cook and children, Carrie and Julie, and Mrs. Joy and children, Todd and Leslie.

Other tables were laid with white cloths and highlighted with decorated boxes and candles made by Mrs. Johann.

'Get Down On Knees To Study The Desert'

"In order to study desert plants you need to get down on your knees," said Wyatt Lipscombe Jr. of Odessa as he narrated slides during a Wednesday morning program at the First Federal Community Room. The talk was given for members of Big Spring Garden Club, but the program was open to the public.

Wyatt explained that many beautiful desert blossoms are so small that they cannot be seen from a car, or even from a few feet away. He said a number of the plants had been used by the Indians for food, especially the agave.

"Indians roasted the century plant and made a food called Mesquite," continued Lipscombe. "The Mexicans used a type of century plant to make the drink, tequila." He noted that Spanish Dagger blossoms and sheep sorrel are good for making salads.

Lipscombe, who is associated with the U.S. Soil Conservation Service, said he had worked the First Federal Community Room. The talk was given for members of Big Spring Garden Club, but the program was open to the public.

"Indians roasted the century plant and made a food called Mesquite," continued Lipscombe. "The Mexicans used a type of century plant to make the drink, tequila." He noted that Spanish Dagger blossoms and sheep sorrel are good for making salads.

Spring Attention Turns To Styles

"April is the cruellest month... mixing memory and desire."

That line from T. S. Eliot may well describe the feelings of some women who await the approach of spring and the new fashion look that comes with it.

The presentation of a new spring line will find many women holding their breath, wondering what they can salvage from last year's wardrobe and still remain in fashion.

But the memory of last year's "anything goes" look will clash with the totally coordinated, tailored look for spring '72.

'BREAD AND BUTTER' TOPICS Westside Community Center Launching Family Forums

Bread and butter topics make up the backbone of a Family Forum series the Westside Community Center is launching Tuesday, 7 p.m.

These informal discussions with emphasis on the forum, will include plenty of time for questions and discussion.

The first topic is "Family Economics," and like all the others, it was chosen by the families in the area served by the center. Children took home questionnaires asking what subjects their parents would like to have discussed.

Experts in every field have been enlisted as volunteer speakers and resource personnel for the meetings. After they make a basic presentation of the subject, they will open the forum to questions posed by parents.

The Family Economics topic includes budgeting and spending money wisely, how to figure interest rates on loans, banking services, basic facts on how individuals can make their money work for them, and how to manage it better.

Other topics and their dates are: March 14, Shopping for Groceries (what are best buys? How can you feed the family well on less money? What about nutrition and food values?); March 21 (no program due to the Westside Center choir program at the HJCC auditorium); March 28, Automobiles (How to buy a used car; taking care of the car; simple repairs that can be made at home; April 4, Utilities and City Services (What services are offered; how bills are made out; how to get help when something goes wrong).

April 11, Insurance and Funerals (What kind of insurance does an individual or family need; how much should be spent from a limited income on insurance; funeral costs and burial insurance); April 18, Family Health (how to improve the family's health; immunizations and public health programs; how nutrition can help keep families healthy); April 25, Legal Services (how to get help with legal matters; citizenship and individual rights; legal aid for families with limited income); and May 2, Cooking on a Budget (How to come out with better meals for less money, cooking with government commodities; practical tips for tasty dishes).

These meetings, which will be held at the center at 1308 W. 5th, are open to all interested. There is no charge, and there will never be any sales or collections.

Presiding will be the Rev. Jim Collier, Julian Patterson, Mrs. Douglas Williams and other members of the board.

Automobile Safety Is Stressed

A two-part program on automobile safety and auto repairs a woman can make was presented by Mrs. T. C. Richardson and Mrs. B. J. Petty for Elbow Home Demonstration Club Thursday in the home of Mrs. R. B. Covington Jr., 2405 Clanton.

Mrs. Richardson said it takes only five minutes to check a car's emergency or parking brake, turn signals, lights, and tires, as well as listening for unusual noises while the car is running or leaks while the car is parked.

Mrs. Petty said women should learn to make minor repairs on an automobile, such as tire changes, cable checks, replacing light bulbs and oil.

Mrs. Stewart Anderson presided, and Mrs. Jeff Morton was a guest. The women will meet at 9:30 p.m. March 16 to tour the dress factory and Eagle Mobile Homes, followed by a picnic lunch at the site of the 'big spring.'

MR. AND MRS. JAMES E. TAYLOR, KIMBERLY AND JAYME

'We'll Thrive Here' Say World Travelers

By BARBARA LORD

Traveling, although always a pleasant experience for the James H. Taylor family, is not a novelty to them. During their marriage they have lived in Minnesota, the Bahamas, Michigan, Columbia, Brazil, Uruguay, Florida and now, Texas.

"Uruguay was one of the most enjoyable places we lived," said Mrs. Taylor, "and there are a lot of things about Big Spring that remind me of Uruguay. The architecture of the homes, lawns and the warmth and charm of the people are all quite similar."

Taylor is director of business development for Cosden Oil and Chemical Co. He first came to Big Spring in November to discuss the job, and Mrs. Taylor (Ann) accompanied him to see if she "could thrive in Big Spring." She said she knew immediately that the family would enjoy it here.

MAKE FRIENDS

The couple's children, Kimberly, 9, and Jayme, 5, have already made many friends and are involved in activities. Kimberly attends College Heights school and is taking guitar lessons at the YMCA, and Jayme attends St. Mary's.

"I've made it a point to take two hours off from unpacking boxes each day to look around Big Spring," said Mrs. Taylor. "We all love to read, and the first place I went was to the library." She said she has found a lot of "interesting little nooks and crannies" in the city, and thinks it is an amazing place.

Big Spring doesn't have the greenery, palm trees and water which the Taylors became accustomed to in Florida, but they agree there is a completely different kind of beauty in the West Texas countryside.

"You can't talk about the past," said Taylor. "You have to look at the future. This is just another adventure." The Taylors hope this is a permanent "adventure." They anticipate a long stay in Big Spring, and Mrs. Taylor said the children love it more than any place they have lived before, despite their original reluctance to leave friends in Florida.

MEMENTOES

Taylor has been interested in Spanish culture since he was a child, and the family's travels to Latin and South America merely intensified his hobby. The Taylor home at No. 7 Coachman Circle, although still in the process of getting organized, is accented with many mementoes of their travels.

During Taylor's assignments in foreign countries and in Florida, he was employed by Dow Chemical Company. Kimberly was born in the Bahamas and Jayme was born in Colombia. When the family moved to Florida, Jayme couldn't speak a word of English. Although they all speak fluent Spanish, they now use English to converse.

Mr. and Mrs. Taylor were reared in the Minneapolis, Minn., area, and both graduated from the University of Minnesota. He majored in international studies, and her degree is in art education. Taylor also attended one year at the University of Madrid in Spain, and Mrs. Taylor spent one year at the University of Colorado, Boulder, Colo. She previously taught American history.

The family has joined the YMCA, and the children are looking forward to swimming lessons. Taylor is also a private pilot and lists flying as his favorite hobby. The couple enjoys tennis, golf, skin diving and snow skiing.

Taylor arrived in Big Spring Jan. 1 to look for a home, and Mrs. Taylor and the children arrived Feb. 20.

THE ARTS

Free Book Review, Choir Concert On Tap This Month

As part of a program to appeal to more youngsters at the Westside Community Center, Mrs. Joseph Dawes last year started a choir.

It was slow going most of the time, with maybe half a dozen turning out on the good days.

But she kept plugging at it, and this year efforts have been rewarded with an average attendance of more than 20 each Friday after school. That means that possibly 30 or more youngsters are enrolled.

To afford the public an opportunity of seeing what the youngsters, nine years old through the sixth grade, can do, the Westside Center Choir is going to present a spring concert 8 p.m. March 21 at Howard County Junior College auditorium. Guest performers will be the Bell Ringers of the First United Methodist Church.

Mrs. R. B. G. Cowper

The whole program is free, and families are urged to come hear the 25-voice choir. Debra Haller is the accompanist.

is the accompanist.

Mrs. Edna Nichols, librarian, announced the receipt of 20 new record albums for the recording section of the Howard County Free Library. Among them are the popular Ferrante & Teicher album, "It's Too Late." Their recent appearance here has made this much in demand.

Traffic at Heritage Museum has been good during the week, and among the special groups was Troop 110 Girl Scouts. W. H. Crenshaw brought in some materials, and representatives from the Baker Gallery in Lubbock were here to confer with Mrs. Ann Patterson of the AAUW and Mrs. Clyde Angel and Daryl Hohertz of the museum board concerning an art exhibit Baker Company is due to put on here in early summer for AAUW. Among visitors for the week were Mrs. Bruce Campbell, curator of the Colorado City museum.

'ROUND TOWN

BY LUCILLE PICKLE

The only things redder than the beginning to bloom redbuds and flowering peach trees are the noses of all of us who are in the throes of, or have just passed through the blight of, having a spring cold. The difference between a spring cold and a winter one is not so much the time of year as the nature of the affliction.

A winter cold is just miserable with aches and pains and coughing. A spring cold is when the nose runs like it has connections with a hot water spring. At least that has been the experience this month at our house, and I do hope that this, too, will pass.

MRS. C. B. SULLIVAN is somewhat improved according to word from friends who visited her last weekend at Medical Arts Hospital in Dallas. She is in Room 1708 and would enjoy cards from friends here.

When MR. and MRS. J. H. EASTHAM left here two weeks ago for a visit in Baytown there was not a green leaf in sight. When they returned Wednesday all was changed and they found that just as the trees and shrubs are beginning to green in East Texas so they have in our part of the state.

The Easthams visited their son, Doug and his wife and their son, Gary, who celebrated his seventh birthday on Feb. 27. His grandparents have missed only one of his parties. After the visit in Baytown the Easthams went to Kerens and spent some time with her mother, MRS. SADIE HOLLEMAN, and a brother and his family, the W. G. HOLLEMANs, and then in Dallas visited her sister and her family, the T. O. TRAMELS.

MRS. EUGENE GROSS had her family together last weekend. Here were MR. and MRS. BILL FLETCHER, Nancy, Janis and Pam of Irving, and DR. and MRS. B. J. GROSS, Bryan and Suzanne of Pecos.

When the JOHN KNOXES vacationed in the Valley recently they enjoyed fishing at Rio Hondo and had several good visits with former Big Springers MR. and MRS. W. S. GOODLETT who now live in Harlingen.

MRS. SAM BLACKBURN has recently visited friends in San Angelo.

The LOUIS TALLANTS are in Alpine this weekend where they attended her sister's wedding.

The ADOLPH SWARTZES are in Europe where they are combining a business and pleasure trip. They are buying in the markets of Italy and Spain.

MR. and MRS. BILL McREE are to return Monday from Albuquerque, N.M., where they have been visiting their daughter and her family, DR. and MRS. WILLIAM DROKE and their children.

Water Worries Easily Solved

Did your family experience water shortage last summer? Why not consider the possibility of having a private water system installed? You don't have to live on a farm to qualify, the Plumbing-Heating-Cooling Information Bureau points out. More than a quarter of the country's population depends entirely on private wells and water systems, and millions of them live in towns, suburbs or other rural nonfarm areas.

A survey showed that these families wouldn't trade their private water systems for city water even if they could. They cite these advantages:

1. You can have all the water you need when and where you want it. No more rationing between water-using appliances.
2. Well water tastes fresher because it doesn't have to be treated as heavily as city water.

Miss Cendi Franks Weds Gary Hardee

Miss Cendi Denise Franks performed at 7 o'clock Saturday evening in the Central Church of Christ, Amarillo. Fred Randall Hardee in a ceremony

MRS. GARY RANDALL HARDEE

Cowley, minister of the church, performed the nuptial rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Franks, 3429 Julian Blvd., Amarillo, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Hardee, 2002 Merrill.

Miss Celia Franks of Amarillo attended her sister as maid of honor, and Robert Sadler of Big Spring served as best man. Tapers were lighted by Randy Franks and Brett Gill, both of Amarillo, and the ushers were Mike Galven of Tulsa and Van Franks of Amarillo.

The bride was attired in a floor-length white wedding gown fashioned with high ruffled collar and Victorian sleeves of delicate cotton lace, puffed above the elbow then fitted to the wrist. The bodice was overlaid with matching lace. Her bouffant veil of illusion was attached to a headpiece featuring tendrils of sheer fabric flowers. She carried a bouquet of white daisies tied with satin picot.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will reside in Lubbock where both are honor students at Texas Tech University. She is a senior micro-biology student, and he is a junior zoology student. Both are members of Beta Beta Beta. She graduated from high school in Amarillo, and he is a graduate of Sweetwater High School.

Mr. and Mrs. Hardee were honored with a reception at the church. Among those attending were the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. R. A. Hardee, and Mrs. C. L. Thompson, both of Snyder; Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Galven and Mr. and Mrs. M. K. Hardee, all of Tulsa; and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Neithercutt of Lubbock.

TO WED — The engagement and approaching marriage of Miss Yvette Casillas to Jose Padilla is being announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Luis Casillas, 206 NW 2nd. The prospective bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Crescencio Padilla, 300 NE 8th. The couple will marry April 8 at Immaculate Heart of Mary Catholic Church, with the Rev. Louis Moeller officiating.

A LOVELIER YOU Massage, Make-Up Banish Smile Lines

By MARY SUE MILLER

A lovely writes: My problem is a deep groove on either side of my mouth. Starting at the sides of the nostrils and ending under the lips, the lines curve like parenthesis. What could soften or lighten this aging punctuation?

The answer: Sometimes these lines are called "smile lines," although they develop in faces never known to wear a smile. Yet nothing softens their look like a pretty smile. So keep smiling!

What the lines respond to is gentle massage and artful make-up. For a successful massage you need a rich night cream or a waxy "skin exerciser." If you elect a cream, apply it to the entire face after cleansing.

Then place forefinger of left hand on left cheek, so as to hold flesh immobile. With fingertips of right hand, massage along line using swift, upward and outward motions. Reverse hand positions to massage right side.

Apply skin exerciser directly to the line and again steady flesh with forefinger. With fourth finger of other hand, work upward along line with pat-firm action — pat firmly, lift quickly.

As for make-up, new light-reflecting cosmetics do a good camouflage job. An application may be made under or over foundation. Either way, it is brushed into the lines, pat-blended and lightly dusted with powder. Thus lines fade into little nothings.

Cancer Society Sets County Drive Goals

"Take Time Out For Life" was the title of a film showed by Charles A. Miller to a Howard County Chapter, American Cancer Society board meeting Thursday in the Downtown Tea Room. The film stressed the importance of the annual residential crusade for cancer.

Miller said 600,000 people have cancer every year. One of every four persons has cancer. One-half of all cancer is curable, but only one of every three will be cured. He said the double-edged sword in the symbol of the ACS, signifying medical knowledge and a hope for a cure during our lifetime.

The county crusade goal is $10,000, which is $2,000 more than the best collection year to date. It was announced that $1,643 will be received from Webb AFB.

The 1972 crusade is scheduled April 18, and the Life Underwriters Society will handle the business drive. A one-day soft drink bottle collection by elementary school students in April will aid the drive.

Mrs. Merrill Creighton presided, and Dr. Henry Butler announced he presented programs about cancer to five organizations during the past month. Also, 155 special project letters were mailed to individuals and organizations asking for donations.

Mrs. Clyde Thomas announced white muslin sheets are needed for bandages. Mrs. Clyde Angel was named chairman of the nominating committee to select a slate of officer candidates.

Howard County board members are invited to a program on "Cancer of the Genitourinary Tract" at the Midland Society's meeting at 6:30 p.m., March 16 at the Ranchland Hills Country Club, Midland.

Dr. Donald F. McDonald of Galveston will lead a panel discussion by Dr. Marvin H. Olson, Dr. F. Lamont Jennings and Dr. Michael M. Warren. The men are all staff members at the University of Texas Medical Branch in Galveston.

Accent Grains

To accentuate knots or unusual grain patterns in wood, rub lightly with steel wool before finishing.

THROAT, CHIN

To firm and uplift sagging facial muscles and flesh, use my four-way method. It works wonders through corrective exercise, posture, skin care and make-up. Procedures are detailed in the leaflet, "Banish Crepey Throat & Chin." For your copy, write Mary Sue Miller in care of The Big Spring Herald, enclosing 15 cents in coin and a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Versatile Poi
For Food, Health

Poi, a food staple of ground taro root and water, often serves other purposes in Hawaii. The sticky paste soon times is used as a gentle cleansing agent, a cure for colic, an antidote for scorpion and bee stings, and a soothing poultice for eye and skin irritations.

FOCUS ON FAMILY LIVING Save Time, Money With Home Freezer

By SHERRY MULLIN
County HD Agent

A home freezer can save time and money for the homemaker if she follows some important tips.

First, keep foods moving in and out — store up free time, enjoy using it, and store up some more for future use. If you only put foods in, and never take any out, you're only denying yourself the pleasure of using stored time for your enjoyment. You also have a full freezer with no space left for special buys — and too much food to use within the safe-storage time limits.

SAVE SOME SPACE

As a general rule, figure to keep your freezer about half to two-thirds full, except for comparatively short periods of time. Why not entirely full? Because then you'll always have more space to store those special buys. You can take advantage of the occasional 4 for $1 sales on commercially frozen products, or unexpectedly low prices on meat. If your freezer is full, these money-savings specials won't save you a dime. And it doesn't cost any more to run the freezer half or two-thirds full — while the extra space can save you plenty if you use it wisely. Be sure to buy a freezer big enough to allow for these special buys.

ADD FOOD WISELY

The size of your freezer and the temperature of the room in which the freezer is located have a lot to do with how much "new" food you should add at one time. The U.S. Department of Agriculture suggests that a maximum of three pounds of food for each cubic foot of freezer space should be about right — for example, 60 pounds of "new" food would be the maximum addition at one time for a 20-cubic-foot freezer located in a warm room.

LABEL PACKAGE

Proper rotation of foods you store in your freezer will insure maximum use and minimum waste. Work on the "first in, first out" principle. Mark each package you put into the freezer with what's inside, and the date it went into the freezer. (With see-through polyethylene bags, put this information on a piece of paper inside the bag. Write large and legibly.) If you use your freezer properly, labeling the packages is all you really need to do. You'll almost automatically use "first-in, first-out" packages first, since you can see from your label when it went into the freezer. However, some people like to keep records outside the freezer. If you prefer to do that, invest in a small notebook for the purpose, and make duplicate entries in your book and on your package label each time.

COOK NOW

Like any good bank, your freezer pays interest. Invest a little time now and get hours of the leisure time later. The average homemaker can save up to 150 hours a year by preparing freezer meals.

It doesn't take hours of special cooking to fill your freezer. Just a few extra minutes to prepare double and triple amounts of your favorite recipes can return many hours later. Suppose, for example, that your family is very partial to your special spaghetti sauce and you plan to make it soon. Start with the ingredients to make three full-size spaghetti meals. Before the sauce is quite done, take out two meals and set them aside to cool while you finish the rest of the sauce. Divide the "extra" sauce into freezer cartons and freeze.

There you are! Two bonus meals in the time it took you to cook one. When you're ready to use your frozen sauce, just heat it up in the time it takes you to cook fresh spaghetti.

IN ORDER TO REMAIN FIRST New Hampshire Moves Primary Date Ahead

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — To those bold or foolhardy enough to climb from here to the White House, New Hampshire is as enticing and as treacherous as the peaks of her White Mountains.

To those whose ballots judge the performers in the nation's leadoff presidential primary here, this leap year winter sport is pure political fun.

The intense publicity of being first to test the candidates, the nature of the natives, the geographic setting in a snowy slice of New England, and the demands of old-fashioned campaigning make New Hampshire a unique place to start scaling toward the presidency.

One who would occupy the oval office must first convince a Manchester housewife over her coffee and cookies — of his qualifications to be America's first citizen. Those who would greet kings must first meet choppers of Christmas trees in Coos County.

CHOOSY

In a state where outsiders come courting votes every fourth March, a farmer buying an orange in Claremont says he can ignore one well-known outstretched hand with full confidence that he'll eventually find one worth shaking.

For the inhabitants are, if anything, particular — they won't take just anyone who wanders in. Sometimes they'll pick someone who didn't come in at all. In 1952, Robert A. Taft roamed the hills seeking Republican support, but the voters went for Dwight D.

Sign-Up Deadline Time Is Nearing

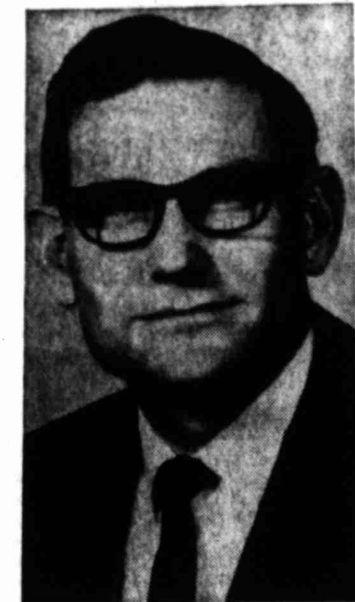

The producer sign-up deadline for the 1972 farm set-aside program is Friday.

Under a new option, the feed grain producer may obtain an increase in rate by at least 10 per cent and possibly 15 if he voluntarily sets aside acreage.

But whether grain sorghum or cotton, the deadline for signing is Friday.

Cub Scouts Due Basic Training

The first of four sessions of basic training for Cub Scout leaders will be held at 7:30 p.m. Monday in Room 216 at the VA Hospital. Bill Brooks, training chairman, said that Cubmasters, den mothers, and all other leaders and committeemen are urged to participate. Other sessions will be March 13-20-27.

CLEVE O. BUTLER

Butler Is Named Penney Manager In Malvern, Ark.

Cleve O. Butler, who joined J. C. Penney Company in Big Spring in 1967, has been promoted to manager of the Penney store in Malvern, Ark. He assumed his new duties March 1, said Sam Schulze, Big Spring manager.

Butler, who graduated from Howard Payne College in 1961, served here in the shoe, men's and boys', also lingerie and ready-to-wear departments, recently had been awarded his five-year pin.

He and his wife, Anna, and their three children, Gary, 14, Pam, 13, and Linda, 11, reside at 1101 Runnels.

Eisenhower who had remained in Europe as supreme Commander of NATO.

It's also a state that can be loyal. In 1956, Richard M. Nixon drew nearly 23,000 write-in votes for vice president at a time when there were reports he might be dumped as Eisenhower's running mate.

Nixon won the 1960 presidential primary without opposition, drew 15,500 write-ins for president and 8,100 for vice president in 1964, and got a New Hampshire boost en route to the White House in the 1968 campaign.

It's a state that can slap incumbents: In 1952, Estes Kefauver was the Democratic winner over President Harry S. Truman; in 1968, President Lyndon B. Johnson decided not to seek re-election after Eugene McCarthy's surprising showing.

Although it's a tiny state, it is so proud of its role as initial inspector of would-be presidents that it shifted the primary date by a week — to March 7 — so it could stay ahead of Florida's March 14 challenge.

New Hampshire remains far more psychological than practical in terms of impact — the convention — delegate prize is small, but a loser in New Hampshire's March preference test seldom emerges a winner in the national finals in November.

AIDES WORK, TOO
Thus, candidate exposure requirements lead a White House hopeful along a lumber camp and ski resort trail through the presidential range of Mts. Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Monroe and Madison. His aides arrange for the folks to gather in community centers, school halls, and homes.

While he talks about how he would resolve problems of modern American life, a presidential candidate stands in a state that counts among its contributions to history: the ratification act which put the Constitution into effect; the Concord coach and the Port-

Grain Exports Dip

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Reduced grain exports from Texas ports are costing the state's grain industry millions of dollars, says John J. Seibert, grain marketing specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "The impact is already being felt throughout the total industry, from producer to handler, transporter and exporter," said Seibert.

Larry Cohorn Big Winner

DENVER, Colo. — Prize money at the La Fiesta de Los Vaqueros rodeo in Tucson, Ariz., approached $36,000 with 323 cowboys in competition, the Rodeo Cowboys Association said.

The biggest winner was Larry Cohorn, Las Cruces, N. Mex., who pocketed $1,398 in calf roping. Cohorn finished first in the average with a total time of 25.0 seconds on two calves. His best time, 12.1 seconds, came in the first go-round, in which he also finished first.

Leaders in the various divisions announced by RCA included:

All-around — Phil Lyne, George West, Tex., $12,014, and Earnie Taylor, Hugo, Okla., $7,918; saddle bronc riding — J. C. Bonine, Hysham, Mont., $6,502, and John McBeth, Burden, Kan., $3,353; bareback bronc — Gary Tucker, Carlsbad, N.M., $5,706, and Clyde Vamvoras, Devol, Okla., $3,378; bull riding — John Quintana, Eugene, Ore., $8,914, and Larry Mahan, Brooks, Ore., $5,770; calf roping — Dean Oliver, Boise, Idaho, $11,534, and Phil Lyne, $9,355; steer wrestling — Bussy Kaul, Hereford, Tex., $6,089, and Tom Elliott, Peyton, Colo., $5,376; and GRA barrel race — Jo Russell, Shamrock, Tex., $2,000 and Geena Day, Woodward, Okla., $1,805.

State's Economy Recovery 'Pokey'

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — A slight rise in Texas personal income in January "provides some assurance of a poky statewide recovery," a business survey released Saturday says.

The University of Texas Bureau of Business Research said the state's economy is "off to a slow beginning" this year but "appears to be dawdling along in the right direction."

Dr. N. Carroll Mohn, research associate, said only three of 17 selected business barometers deteriorated in January, while 14 improved slightly.

"Seasonally adjusted personal income in Texas, the most comprehensive measure of economic activity available for the state, provides some assurance of a poky statewide recovery," Mohn said. "After faltering twice in the fourth quarter of 1971, the state's personal income for January 1972 increased by 1 per cent, slightly above the figure for December and 8 per cent higher than the level one year ago."

The 8 per cent January-to-January increase matches the highest year-to-year gains recorded last year and suggests a good start for exceeding the inflation rate, he said.

Mohn also noted that inflation slowed nationally between December and January. In Houston, he said, the price index climbed half of 1 per cent between October and January, compared with more than 1 per cent between July and October 1971.

Total unemployment in Texas increased slightly during January to 3.9 per cent of the labor force, Mohn said, while nonagricultural employment advanced 1 per cent.

Three construction indicators were the only barometers that declined in January, he said, with total building permits dropping 10 per cent, residential permits falling 13 per cent and nonresidential permits dipping 7 per cent.

Mohn said that "a gradual, restrained economic revival during 1972 continues as the most likely prospect" but unemployment probably will remain about the same at the end of the year because of the expected growth of the labor force.

Lamb To Have Opposition

FORSAN — Only one contest race is in prospect for the Forsan city council election, April 1.

C. J. (Jack) Lamb, who has served as mayor since the incorporation of Forsan in 1961, drew an opponent on the final at the city hall in Forsan.

day for filing in the person of Stanley J. Willis. Both Lamb and Willis are retired Conoco employees.

L. Monroney, retired Conoco worker, is unopposed for one of the alderman posts, while Lee D. Whetzel, who is employed by Amerada, is unopposed for the other.

Hold-over members of the council are Bobby S. Wash, C. J. (Jack) Lamb, who has served as mayor since the incorporation of Forsan in 1961, and John B. Anderson and Joe B. Hord.

Absentee voting may be done at the city hall in Forsan.

Visit Your Schools

You can add to ball teams, newspapers, and government the institution of the public school as belonging on the list of things that most people think they can do a better job of running than those in charge.

Being directed by human beings, schools are a little less than perfect, we suppose, but on the whole they make a singular contribution to our community, state and nation. In fact, we couldn't have come this far without them; and we will be ill equipped to face tomorrow without their continued vigorous operation.

There are many things which might be expected of schools, but we suppose that one of the fundamental goals is the production of a literate people. Another is the ability to exercise other learning skills in such a way as to be able to react responsibly on the basis of knowledge, and to interact one with the other with respect, tolerance, and appreciation.

Society will be happily served if products of our schools are somehow committed to the idea of participating in democratic government and are somehow motivated by thought rather than by impulse.

At any rate, take time out during Public School Week starting Monday, and continuing through Friday, to see what your schools are doing. We believe you will find it a refreshing experience.

Citizens Lobby

John W. Gardner, who isn't running for president, is drawing larger crowds than people who are.

The founder of Common Cause, the grass-roots citizens lobby, seems to have sensed a mood in America to do something about government. Most of us share a feeling that the legislative and administrative apparatus of governments, particularly state and national governments, are beyond citizen influence in day-to-day affairs that really affect us the most: tax policy, social-interest legislation that inadequately protects legitimate public interest, back-scratching political favor-swapping that becomes accepted routine at public expense.

Gardner, former Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, sparked the surging political rally among Americans who felt they were "being taken" but couldn't seem to find out how until it was too late.

Quickly, the membership grew. A $3 million war chest grew just as quickly. With Common Cause help, the supersonic transport project was defeated despite intense pressure from the White House. It lent support to getting the 18-year-old qualified to vote. It was influential, perhaps decisively so, in getting campaign spending laws rewritten.

These are starts that show Common Cause has some muscle. Gardner wants to monitor the campaign spending reportage and that can be enormously useful in making candidates give fairly serious attention to that aspect of their campaigns.

A lot of work is to be done. Common Cause offers a channel for organizing energy long frustrated. It will be an interesting summer.

How Big Sumatra?

Around The Rim

Walt Finley

Nothing is more annoying than to have someone fail to tell me a piece of gossip I just didn't want to hear.

It seems to me bank robbers get off a lot easier than a feller who marries for money.

TODAY I noticed there's a new face around the office. Actually, she started work about a month ago, but today was the first time I noticed that she has a face.

My calculating cousin, Jimmy Ladd, Los Angeles kid, claims:

"The boss asked me the other day if I knew the size of Sumatra. I told him, by rule of thumb, I'd say he is about the same size as Bing Crosby."

If you think about this, you'll only spoil it.

MY CHUNCKY uncle, Chester Ladd, an Okie in Muskogee, says:

"Several nations have abolished God, but fortunately He is more tolerant."

My ice eating aunt, Fannie Everett, writes:

"Nowadays there's a lot being said about tranquilizers. But even back in grandpa's time there was something to make you sleep. They called it work."

RED HAired Glenda Von Willer, proof positive Herald reader, has a hint on the latest in fashions:

"Flea collars for hippies."

But even if a hippie had a pet flea, GVV, how would he get a collar on him?

My drinking cousin, Bobby Harris, is on the verge of another birthday, and he claims:

"I'm having such a good time celebrating it I had to call the telephone office and have them trace the call so I'd know where I was."

I asked where was he, and he replied, "Where was who?"

THE PARK County Republican and Fairplay Flume, from Colorado, reports in its 80 Years Ago column for April 21, 1881:

"Spring bonnets this season will cost about what a three-story house would bring at a sheriff's sale."

"All the men in an entire county in Minnesota turned out on a wolf hunt the other day. The result was 36 dog fights and the capture of a man who had run away from his wife."

"IS TLAU Yelnif a foreigner?" former Alpine cowboy Jay Sanders again asks.

Let me put it this way. He comes from a backward area.

Ronald Reagan (there's nothing like a little name-dropping) was asked to give his definition of how public the life of a public official should be, and he replied:

"I would think that the limits are the same legal limits that apply to all citizens and then those other limits that apply to good taste, and none of us are very happy about prying neighbors."

His choice, obviously is good taste over good grammar.

I THINK it was Mary Louise Vick who insisted:

"A real loser is the guy who dials suicide prevention and gets a busy signal."

"How about your going out and bowing a few lines tonight?" "Red" McMahon, retired Herald pressman, asked.

"I can't," the other replied. "I've got a conflict at home."

"Company?"

"No, my wife and I are going to have a big fight."

Broken Set

Art Buchwald

WASHINGTON — It was two days after President Nixon's return from China and the family went into the living room after dinner to watch television.

MY WIFE TURNED on the set and said, "That's funny. There seems to be something wrong with the TV. I can't get Nixon on the tube."

"Try another channel," I suggested. She switched to another channel and got a private-eye program. "He's not on this channel either."

I rose from my chair and started fiddling with the dials myself. I tried all the channels — no Nixon. "Who has been messing around with this set?" I shouted.

The kids were very defensive. "We didn't touch it," my son said.

MY DAUGHTERS also denied having done anything with it. "Dammit," I said, "we could turn on this set any time day or night on any channel and get a picture of Nixon. Now we can't even get him on educational TV."

"Maybe the cleaning woman did something wrong," my wife suggested. "I told her not to touch it."

Fuming, I called up my TV repairman, George Cury, and asked him to come over right away.

HE ASKED IF IT could wait until the next day.

"Not on your life," I said. "I haven't missed Nixon on television in three years, and I'm not about to start tonight."

George came over with his tool kit. "I can't understand it," I said. "Nixon has been coming in loud and clear on prime time every evening. But tonight all I can get is a movie, Dean Martin and a Lucy rerun."

Mr. Cury said, "Let me try." He flipped the dial back and forth. "You're right. There's something definitely wrong. Maybe it's in the aerial."

MR. CURY CLIMBED up on the roof and came back down. "The aerial seems to be all right. It's pointing toward China. You say you have had no trouble up until this week?"

"Right," I replied. "We watched his arrival at Andrews Air Force Base loud and clear in living color."

"Maybe it's in the tube," Mr. Cury said.

"What would a TV tube have to do with it?" I asked.

"Well, what happens is that when these tubes are installed they emit a very strong Nixon signal; but as time goes on the filament wears thin, the tube gets weaker and weaker. On some of the older sets people can't get Nixon at all. But this is a fairly new one, and you should be able to receive an image of Nixon even if it's only a shadow of himself."

MR. CURY checked the tube and shook his head. "It's not there. Maybe there is something wrong with your horizontal adjuster. On some sets when Nixon starts fading from the screen the trouble can be found with the horizontal dial. Tell me. The last time you saw Nixon was he standing up or lying down?"

"I think he was standing up," I said.

"Then maybe it's the vertical dial." Mr. Cury worked for three hours on the back of the set while we all waited nervously for him to fix it. Finally, he turned it on again. We got Dick Cabett, Johnny Carson, Perry Mason and an old Wallace Beery movie. But still no Nixon.

MR. CURY SHOOK his head. "There's nothing I can do. You're going to have to throw away the TV."

"What will you give me on a trade-in?" I asked.

"Are you crazy?" he said, "for a set that can't even get Nixon in the daytime, I wouldn't give you a dime."

Splits In Half

PORT JEFFERSON, N.Y. (AP) — A $12 million nine-month-old 34,000 ton oil tanker, Martha R. Ingram, split in half and began sinking as she pulled away from the dock here after unloading a cargo of gasoline and No. 2 fuel oil.

Only 200 gallons of gasoline spilled into the harbor and it quickly evaporated. There were no injuries among the 14 crewmen.

The tanker was carrying 1.2 million gallons of gasoline and No. 2 fuel oil.

My Answer

By BILLY GRAHAM

When I was young I worked in a dry goods store, and because times were hard, I took a few things. I guess you would say I stole them. But my boss has passed away, and I cannot repay him personally. His family, however, is still living. I want to make things right, but what can I do?

A.V. It is impossible to have a right relationship with God, and a wrong relationship with our fellow men. Although your former employer has passed away, you could estimate the value of the goods taken years ago, and pay it to his family.

In the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus said: "If you bring your gift to the altar and there rememberest that thy brother hath ought against you; leave there thy gift before the altar, and first be reconciled to thy brother, and then come and offer thy gift." Matthew 5:23.

When we do all we can to set matters straight, a new power is released in us. This power cannot be given unless the past sins have been confessed, and every effort toward restitution is made. When we do our part, God never fails to do his part and give us peace.

Then too, when the relatives of the man you have wronged see that you desire to make the wrongs of the past right, they will see the power of Christ operating in your life, and

WELL, THAT'S HARD TO SAY, SIR. IF YOU THINK THAT TWO MUSK OXEN FOR A PAIR OF PANDAS IS A GOOD TRADE, THEN I GUESS THE TRIP WAS SUCCESSFUL.

Capitulation

William F. Buckley Jr.

PEKING — In what one devoutly hopes will be the last toast ever offered by a President of the United States to Chairman Mao and Premier Chou, Richard Nixon said, giddily, "This was the week that changed the world." For once he was not trafficking in hyperbole. It was surely such a week, and it was evident from the strain on the face of Henry Kissinger when he presented himself for questions after the communique was issued, that he also understood it. Those who know Mr. Kissinger and his work are entitled to surmise that the whole China adventure settles now in his mind as nightmare.

HERE IS WHAT the Chinese gave up: 1) They consented to traffic with representatives of the government of the United States even though the United States still recognizes the government of Taiwan. 2) They performed routine rhetorical exercises on the theme of world peace, and national sovereignty, thereby disappointing a few Berkeley sophomores and African purists who believe that Maoism would never equivocate on the primacy of its international revolutionary mission. When the New York Times' reporter asked Mr. Kissinger, what has the United States accomplished that wasn't accomplished by Ping-Pong, Mr. Kissinger retorted, rattled off Chinese obeisances to the good international life. He might as well have cited the Soviet Union's guarantees as described in its constitution.

HERE IS WHAT the United States gave up: 1) With all the world poised to consider one point above all, namely the integrity of the United States' commitment to Taiwan, we issued a communique in which the Red Chinese asserted and re-asserted their absolute right to conquer Taiwan, while we uttered not one word on the subject of our defense treaty, not one word on the applicability of our principles of self-government and independence to the people of Taiwan.

That staggering capitulation, for all that Kissinger sought to distract from it by citing President Nixon's world report which reaffirms our defense treaty with Taiwan. At the crunch the President didn't dare risk a social breach in Peking and its implications, merely to reassure the people and the government of Taiwan.

2) WE HAVE lost — irretrievably — any sense of moral mission in the world. Mr. Nixon's appetite for a summit conference in Peking transformed the affair from a meeting of diplomatic technicians concerned to examine and illuminate areas of common interest, into a pageant of moral togetherness at which Mr. Nixon managed to give the impression that he was consorting with Marian Anderson, Billy Graham and Albert Schweitzer. Once he decided to come here himself, it was very nearly inevitable that this should happen.

3) MR. NIXON has almost certainly adjusted American politics in such a way as to compel almost the whole of the Democratic party to the position that we need to dump Taiwan. Previously, that had been an aberration of Sen. George McGovern. A few days ago, in the spirit of Peking, Sen. Fulbright took it up. Now, in the communique midwifed by Richard Nixon, the Chinese list the independence of Taiwan as the principal obstacle to the "normalization" of relations between China and the U.S. (as if our normal relations with the Soviet Union had done anything for the peace and freedom of the world). And Richard Nixon, by his heroic actions of the past week, clearly puts normalization as the highest objective.

Deficit Despite Trade Talk

By CAROLE MARTIN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Trade with China was a chief topic of discussion after President Nixon's return from the Peoples Republic of China.

Meanwhile, the government reported that the United States ran another big trade deficit in January when exports and imports were disrupted by a dock strike, and the Senate passed legislation formally reducing the international value of the dollar.

U.S. officials said prospects for trade with mainland China had advanced due to talks between Nixon and Premier Chou En-lai.

TRADE DIRECTLY

They interpreted a joint statement issued by Nixon and Chou to mean that the Chinese intended to trade directly with the United States. However, they added that the Chinese could take either a broad or narrow view of the amount of trade to be transacted.

Assistant Secretary of State Marshall Green predicted in Tokyo Thursday that U.S. corporations would be represented at the Canton trade fair for the first time this April. But Washington sources said that while American businessmen would be welcome at the fair, only a few could be expected to be admitted.

Earlier in the week, the Commerce Department had reported that merchandise imports exceeded exports by a seasonally adjusted $318.9 million in January. It was the third largest deficit in the nation's history and compared with December's adjusted deficit of $273.7 million and a $49.9 million surplus in January 1971.

GOLD PRICE RAISED

On Wednesday the Senate passed and sent to the House legislation raising the official price of gold from $35 to $38 an ounce. The bill will have no practical effect, however, since the dollar already has been devalued in terms of foreign currencies and has been trading for more than two months at its reduced level.

On the domestic front, the House-Senate conference committee approved legislation giving the Equal Opportunity Commission the power to seek court enforcement of its findings of job discrimination. It also would place state and local government employees within the commission's jurisdiction.

The legislation was sent to a conference committee because the Senate had passed a stronger measure than the House bill. The conferees agreed to the Senate's provision permitting the commission to move against

The Week's Business

- May trade directly with China, invited to Canton fair
- Exports exceed imports $318 million, strike is cited
- Equal opportunity court power extended to small unions
- Railroads ask for selected freight rate increases
- Leading economic indicators up in January, food rises

FRUIT CONTRACT

Meanwhile, the first labor contract for migrant agricultural workers in Florida was signed between Cesar Chavez's United Farmworkers of California and the Coca-Cola Co.'s Food Division.

However, the Citrus Industrial Council, an organization of growers, indicated its members were not ready to take similar action. They termed the Coca-Cola contract "an individual action" by a conglomerate company. The council president said he doubted that the contract would become a "guideline for either the harvesting hands or harvesting companies."

In other developments:

—The nation's railroads asked the Interstate Commerce Commission and the Price Commission for permission to increase freight rates on a selective basis. A spokesman for the rate-making groups said the requested increases would average about 4 to 4½ per cent.

Newsman Cited For Contempt For Publishing Court Story

TEXARKANA, Tex. (AP) — A judge has ordered a newspaper executive to show cause why he should not be held in contempt of court for disobeying a bench order not to publish a story.

Harry Wood, executive editor of the Texarkana Gazette, was ordered Friday to appear in Circuit Court in Miller County on Tuesday to face a contempt citation.

Sumler of Texarkana. Sumler was found guilty on the afternoon of Feb. 16 of raping a 13-year-old girl and Goodson told reporter Tom Ayres not to publish the story in the paper's morning edition because he did not want the juries of two related cases to be influenced.

The two cases were to be heard on the morning of Feb. 17. Goodson told Ayres in open court that the story could be printed in the paper's afternoon edition. Goodson complained the Gazette printed the story on the front page of the morning paper.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

GROWING UP: (Q) My friend has dated so many girls and broken so many hearts in the process that he is different now. He is really is and really is love with a nice girl but she does not like him because he has heard what happened to other girls. This time he is so dis- charged he is on the verge of leaving his life away. — Jeannette, Fried in Peanyville.

(A) Your friend sounds as if he has been splashing around in pretty shallow water up to now. What he is facing now is water that is deep and cold. He is about to drown, that is, I believe, instead, that he is just scared of the real thing. Being honest and true and decent, and the discipline that they look at and tell her he is growing up now. When he goes jump in and start swimming straight, he will find he has the strength to do it and that it is much better than paddling around like a pup. Show this to him.

SHORT HAIR: (Q) My best friend's mother doesn't like long hair on boys. She cuts his hair and she cuts it very short. This depresses him. I have fairly long hair. So do most of the boys we know. I have tried several times to reason with his mother about how short his hair is. Every time she gets mad. What can I do to convince her that she should let him wear his hair as long as he wants it. — A True Friend in Texas.

(A) As you no doubt know if you read Teen Forum regularly, I believe a boy in the way he wants it — it is kept neat and clean and not TOO long. In this case I think you are the one who is making too big a thing of it. It is a matter for your friend and his mother.

(A) The girls or boys who are working on you want to get control of you. They want to put you in a place that is just as much of a jail as one with bars. They are in the jail and they want company. HC Short Courses Offer Something For Everyone

Women who want to know how to sew a garment or make minor repairs to an automobile, or who want to know how to fix things around the house, or write a story have something in the making at Howard County Junior College.

And so do men who are do-it-yourselfers, of who want to learn about writing for pleasure. And even sewing if they want to try their hand at it.

These are some of the things wrapped up in the latest short-courses to be offered at the college, said Dr. Charles Hays, administrative dean.

Two of the courses — in small repairs around the house, also in short story writing — begin Monday. The other two — sewing and powder puff mechanics — begin Tuesday.

The sewing course is the only one that will have two sections, one meeting from 1-3 p.m. and the other from 7-9 p.m. at Room AD-1 on the HCJC campus. Instruction will include fundamentals of the sewing machine, pattern adjustment, fabric preparation, pattern laying. Those who complete the six-session course will be able to make a garment from beginning to end. Mrs. Don Ellis, who holds her masters in home economics and is an experienced teacher, will be instructor. Fee is $15, which includes use of machines, etc.

Women who want to be able to do minor mechanical repairs to their car without having to flag down someone can sign up for the powder puff mechanics class under James Banks, master mechanic. There will be instruction in basic operations of the car and how to fix small things. The fee is $10 for the six-week class from 7-9 p.m. at Room PA-103.

Susan King, English instructor at the college will teach the short story course for those who want to write for pleasure or publication. She has twice been president of the Texas Committee on Creative Writing, received special instruction under George Abbe, poet and novelist, and Ruth Garrison Scurluck, poet, journalist, historian. The charge is $10 for the six-week course in Room A-203.

For those who want to learn about small electrical and plumbing repairs and other fix-it jobs around the house, J. T. Borseh, superintendent of building and grounds at HCJC, will be the instructor. The course, meeting weekly for six weeks, from 7-9 p.m. will cost $10 and will touch on simple carpentry, household repairs, plumbing and electrical repair. Additional information may be had by calling Dr. Hays at the college.

Whipping Post Still Legal

DOVER, Del. (AP) Forty lashes, well laid on, still can be given a criminal for any of several dozen offenses in Delaware, the last state to hold onto the pre-Revolutionary War punishment.

Despite efforts by groups ranging from prison reformers to humanitarians, state lawmakers have refused time and again to legislate the whipping post, known as "Red Hannah," out of existence.

Local history has it that the post was dubbed "Red Hannah" by blacks in Sussex County. When a man's manacled arms encircled the red whipping post, they said he was "hugging" Red Hannah.

IN 1679 Earliest documentation shows Robberd Hutchinson was flogged 39 lashes in New Castle County in 1679 for "having feloniously broken into a chest belonging to Adam Wallis and stolen from it goods to the value of three pounds sterling."

For nearly 300 years since, the whip has been used as a punishment for crimes ranging from robbery and larceny to wife beating and embezzling.

"It's a relic of the Dark Ages," said Gov. Russell W. Peterson when in 1969 he ordered the whipping post at Delaware Correctional Institute at Smyrna to be stored in the basement.

"I think it qualifies as a 'cruel and unusual punishment,'" said Rep. Pierre S. DuPont IV, R-Del. "I think we've passed the point in our civilization where a whipping post is needed."

Some lawmakers have again proposed, in a revision of the Delaware Criminal Code now pending before the General Assembly, that flogging be stricken from it.

But passage of the proposal is by no means a foregone conclusion.

Just seven legislative days into the start of this year's second session, Sen. Thomas E. Hickman Jr., R-Sussex County, proposed an amendment to the bill that would permit "for any felony, the court, in its discretion, could provide that the defendant be whipped with the number of lashes as the court deems appropriate."

Frosty Robison Entering Race For City Council

Frosty Robison, resident of Big Spring for much of his life, announced Saturday that he will be a candidate for the office of city commissioner.

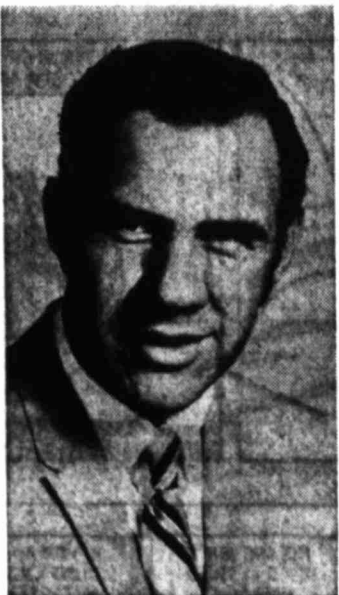

"I actively seek the office of commissioner," he said. "I have lived in Big Spring for 22 years. This is my home, and my sense of responsibility and commitment to this community, its citizens, its present welfare and its future growth is deep."

"We have seen the population of Big Spring decline, and with it have felt the strains of a dip in the economy. As a city commissioner, I will support strongly the different efforts now being made to attract new business and industry to Big Spring."

"I seek the office of commissioner because I believe I can offer a positive contribution toward making our city the culturally, socially and economically sound community that we want it to be."

As a member of the industrial relations department at Cosden Oil & Chemical Company, Robison pointed out that his career has stressed work in human relations as well as business operations.

Robison is a graduate of Big Spring High School and Southern Methodist University. In school here he was all-state halfback in football, and at SMU all-Southwest mention. He is a YMCA director, past president and zone chairman of the Downtown Lions Club, past president and team manager for the American Little League, past co-captain of the Quarterback Club, former district commissioner and camping and activities chairman for the Boy Scouts, past campaign chairman for March of Dimes, and active in other affairs. He is a member of the National Society of Safety Engineers and on the board of the First United Methodist Church. Big Spring Jaycees nominated him as one of the outstanding young men of the state.

He is married to his school sweetheart, the former Judy Douglas, and with their three children, Doug, Dan and Michelle, they reside at 1602 Cole Lane.

Dear Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: First a young college couple wrote saying they had become fond of the clergyman in their little college town church. They said they wanted him to marry them in the bride's hometown church, but her parents felt it would be a slap in the face to the hometown minister.

You said, "It's your wedding and you should have the right to do it your way."

A minister wrote in and said, "It appears that you are telling the girl to ignore her hometown pastor and have another man come into his church to perform the services. This is just not done."

Then you backed off suggesting a compromise: "Have BOTH ministers, and let them share the service."

Sorry, Abby, but you should have stuck to your guns. The church is a house of God, and not the property of a man so schooled in dispensing God's will that he has completely forgotten his mortal place, and has become to believe that he is God.

If a minister has to put an embargo on the use of a church building in order to get people into it, then surely God does not dwell there.

He should be thankful the bride wants to get married in a church when today so many marriage ceremonies are being performed in national parks, secluded canyons and elsewhere.

DEAR L.W.: And some don't want marriage ceremonies performed! Thanks for writing.

DEAR ABBY: This concerns the man who enjoys dressing like a woman occasionally. He said his wife "understood" and had no objections — in fact, they often went to dinner and theater as two "women."

Your comment, "Doesn't it create a problem when you have to use the powder room, deserves an answer from one who knows."

I am also a man (biologically) who enjoys passing as a woman occasionally. (We are called "transvestites.") Any man who can pass for a woman in public can surely pass for a woman in the powder room. And since all the ladies' rooms I have ever been in have private booths with doors, there is no problem.

It doesn't seem to bother anyone that airplanes have only one bathroom for both men and women, so what is all the fuss about?

ANOTHER TRANSVESTITE: DEAR TRANS: It's true, if a man goes undetected in a ladies' room, there is no problem since what a woman doesn't know can't hurt her. But the "fess" could be that ladies' room is for biological women only. And even though it's not against the law in some places for a man to masquerade as a woman, he had better not be caught in the ladies' room.

DEAR ABBY: Somebody handed me a gift, and I said "Thank you very much." I was later criticized because I didn't go home and write that person a thank-you note.

Abby, I am a 62-year-old lady and this is the first time I ever heard that you are supposed to send a written thank you for a present somebody hands you in person. I said "Thank you" when I got it. Wasn't that enough?

LOTS TO LEARN: Even after verbal thanks are expressed, it's considered an especially gracious gesture to send a written note of thanks, but it's not absolutely necessary.

DR. G. C. THOSTESON

She Got TB

Your Good Health.

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Six months ago my very steady girl friend was found to have tuberculosis and the city sent her to a hospital.

I was given a chest X-ray and a test on my arm to see if I had gotten T.B. from her. Both tests were negative. Three months later I had the same two tests again, both negative, and was told I'd have to take the tests every three months for a year even though the tests have been negative.

I'm not extra smart, nor extra stupid either. I'm smart enough to know that too many X-rays aren't good for anyone. Are four X-rays a year necessary to find out if I got T.B. from my girl friend? I'm not sold on these city

Now about those X-rays. While, yes, heavy and repeated exposure is to be avoided, with modern equipment the exposure for a chest X-ray is only a tenth of a second or less, and four of them a year — less than half a second of exposure — is so small as to be for all reasonable purposes entirely harmless.

So don't worry about that. But do thank your stars that you have no sign of T.B. as yet. We've learned a lot about treating T.B., but it still is a plague of major proportions. It still sends people to the hospital and it still kills people, and I'd quarrel with the health department if it DIDN'T make mighty sure that the known contacts of a patient with active T.B. were checked thoroughly.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: If a man has a varicocele and wants a vasectomy, what happens? They do vasectomies in doctors' offices; why not varicocele surgery? — A.R.

Because repair of varicocele (large veins in the scrotum) is not as simple a procedure as vasectomy. Neither is hydrocele (fluid in the scrotum). True, vasectomy is an office procedure, but trying to do it with either of those other conditions becomes more complicated and usually requires hospitalization. The time in the hospital is brief, however.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have a sore navel and, although I wash it daily, there is an awful odor. I was told that the urine from the bladder seeps through the navel. At times the navel looks and feels as though I burned it. What can be done if anything? — Mrs. E.B.

Sometimes a seepage from the navel represents only a local infection and can be cleared up rather easily. But it is true also that in some cases, there is a seepage of urine.

That is because, before birth, the umbilical cord is connected, inside the baby's body, to the urinary system. Usually the connection closes off automatically. When it does not, symptoms like yours develop. Surgery to close off the connection is the answer.

Glamor 'Stars' Of Past Return To Sound Stage

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — As if to show the younger actresses how it's done, the veterans among screen glamor gals have been flocking back to the sound stages.

"I need to work," explained Academy Award winner Olivia de Havilland, seen recently as "The Screaming Woman," an ABC-TV movie. "I need creative activity, communication with people, large groups of them."

Says Susan Hayward, another Oscar holder, back in Hollywood from 15 years' residence in Florida and making her television movie debut tonight in CBS' "Heat of Anger":

"Both of my sons are now grown and married. The best thing for me to do is to go back to work."

But Paulette Goddard said when asked if NBC's forthcoming "The Snoop Sisters" marks a resumption of her movie career after 18 years:

"Absolutely not. This is a one shot thing that Helen Hayes and (producer) Leonard Stern talked me into."

The two-hour movie is the pilot for a projected series starring Miss Hayes and Mildred Natwick, who with Sylvia Sydney and Myrna Loy recently appeared on ABC as matrons who met a murderer while seeking adventure through a computer dating system.

Two other veterans besides Miss Hayward appear this weekend: Eve Arden as a retired schoolteacher whose hobby is solving crimes, on ABC's "A Very Missing Person" Saturday; and Jane Wyman as compassionate pediatrician Amanda Fallon on NBC's "The Bold Ones" Sunday.

Bette Davis plays a retired judge who runs an investigative agency in "The Judge and Jake Wyler," a forthcoming NBC "World Premiere."

A roster of other famed feminine faces seen recently in prime-time TV drama includes: Joan Bennett as Gidget's mother Jan. 4 and as Peter Haskell's aunt last Tuesday on ABC; June Allyson as Eddie Albert's wife in her first film in 12 years; June Haver, here from her New Orleans repertory theater for "McMillan and Wife"; Dorothy McGuire as David McCallum's mother in CBS' "She Waits," a story of witchcraft; actress-director Ida Lupino, on "Medical Center" last Wednesday.

Peggy Lee, doing her first dramatic acting in 16 years on an "Owen Marshall," explained: "It's fun. It gives you a chance to be someone else for a while."

Ann Sothern, in costume as a queen for last Monday's "Fol-De-Rol" on ABC deplored the state of Hollywood's movie business: "It's very quiet right now, and it's too bad. It's sort of like a dying giant."

Cyd Charisse, who played a butterfly, a witch and princess on the show, agreed: "There are no studios as we knew them. With pictures going overseas to be made, we have no production in California any more, which is a shame."

But Miss Hayward was more optimistic: "It's still an exciting town. Something good is going to happen. I know it must. You've still got your audience. All you have to do is get it back."

Little Grime Doesn't Hurt

HOUSTON (AP) — A small boy's best friend may be a Houston skin specialist.

Dr. John M. Knox, chairman of Baylor College of Medicine's dermatology department, says the small boy who doesn't want to take a bath all the time should be left alone.

"A little dirt on a small boy is not going to hurt him," Knox said.

In fact, Knox says the American mania for staying clean produces more skin disease than being dirty.

He said deodorants for everything, twice-a-day baths, and constant handwashing upsets the delicate natural balance of the skin, leaving it easy prey to germs.

"We use all sorts of deodorants, and they block the pores, the opening of the sweat glands. Mother Nature put these openings there for a purpose and we shouldn't try to block them."

He said bathing twice a day is ridiculous and persons over 40 should not bathe every day in winter.

"Sponge in the appropriate places, but don't bathe as you have been trained to do," he said.

He said bathing removes the oil from the skin, which is there as a protective film.

"It was intended to be there or evolution would not have kept it there for us," he said.

A water faucet, he said, seems to trigger a compulsion in women to wash their hands.

"This damages the normal protection against bacteria," he said.

The specialist said the dirty old man who almost never washes his hands is cleaner than the housewife because "the normal degerming mechanisms still are operating on the unwashed."

Knox said new mothers are so clean they literally are dangerous.

Enlistment Options Made Public By U. S. Navy

New three-year enlistment programs were announced today by the U.S. Navy.

Two enlistment options, titled the "Seafarer" and "Airman" programs, are designed specifically for the young man who desires to serve in the challenging environment of the sea, without incurring the longer active duty commitment imposed by attendance at an advanced training school.

The programs can guarantee duty with one of the Navy's sea-going units — whether that be a guided-missile destroyer operating in the Pacific Ocean or a sophisticated aircraft squadron embarked on an aircraft carrier in the Mediterranean Sea. It opens the horizons of the seas or the spacious ness of the skies to additional young men.

The Navy has openings in March for 2,279 men in the Seafarer program and 1,456 in the Airman program.

Under the Seafarer program, young men will be guaranteed duty on board a ship operating from the coast of their choice. Rather than attending a "Class A," or an advance training school, after recruit training, men will receive on-the-job training in one of three apprenticeships. Seaman (general shipboard duties); Fireman (engineering assignments); or Constructionman (Seabee or construction trade assignments).

A young man in the Airman program is guaranteed assignment to an aviation unit on the coast of his choice. Duty may be to a Naval Air installation, aircraft carrier crew, or an aircraft squadron embarked in an aircraft carrier.

Both the Seafarer and Airman programs are open to 17 year olds who are high school graduates, or 18 to 31 year olds who hold a high school diploma or an equivalency. (Waivers may be granted to non-high school graduates who score high enough on entrance examinations.)

All enlistments will be to paygrade E-1, with a beginning salary of $288 per month, plus housing, meals, medical care, uniform allowances and other military entitlements.

Baylor Offers Intern Plan

WACO, Tex. (AP) — A new internship program to place college students in state and local governments has been developed recently at Baylor University.

Dr. Gayle Avant, associate professor of political science, is director.

The program was created after several officials of public agencies in the Central Texas area expressed an interest in establishment of such an administrative internship program. The program will begin with the spring semester.

Avant said the principal goals of the program are to give interested Baylor students some practical experience in public service, to develop a public administration program that will add to the academic integrity of the university and to better serve the needs of the communities in the Central Texas area.

"For those students interested in public service, this program intends to give them a running start in their chosen careers," he said.

Joe James Hinds, a native of Paducah, Ky., and a graduate of the University of Kentucky, has been named sports editor of the Big Spring Herald.

Hinds, who recently finished a 32-month tour of duty with the Air Force, brings a forceful background to the job.

In high school, he played half-back on his Franklin County, Ky., High School team where he won the Coaches' Award his junior year. He earned two varsity letters in the sport.

Joe also played tennis in high school, once advancing as far as the quarterfinals in the state playoffs.

He enrolled at Western Kentucky University in Bowling Green and spent two years there before transferring to the University of Kentucky. He graduated from the Lexington school in 1969.

While at UK, he was editor of the Arts and Entertainment section of the student newspaper, The Kernel. In addition, he doubled as editor of the literary supplement of the news organ.

He majored in journalism in college. At one time, he worked for the Frankfort State Journal in Kentucky, serving as assistant sports editor under Paul Weddle.

Joe once taught tennis while in the employ of the City of Frankfort and later was a tennis instructor at the Frankfort Country Club.

Hinds is married to the former Jean Jackson, who played girls' basketball while attending Tolono High School in Illinois.

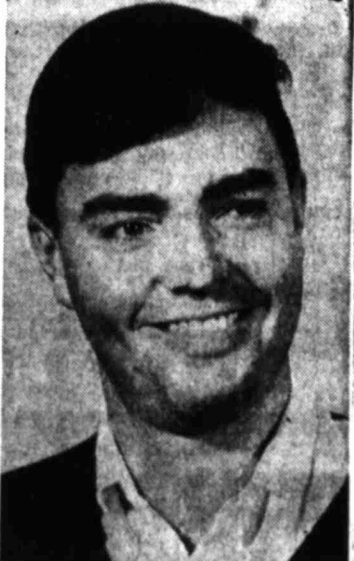

Joe entered the military service as a second lieutenant in May, 1969, and arrived at Webb AFB in January, 1970.

Since arriving at Webb, he submitted a 500-word essay in the Freedom Foundation's writing contest, choosing as his subject "Freedom, Privilege or Obligation" and placed first. With that honor came a cash prize and seeing part of the article reprinted in the Freedom Foundation magazine.

Mrs. Hinds is employed in the Civil Engineering section at Webb.

Hinds has been a part-time employee of The Herald for about two months.

The couple make their home at 4212 Calvin St.

Booth Space Is Available

Only 13 booths remain for the Scout Exposition, which will be staged Saturday, March 18, at Highland Mall, Jerry Armstrong said Saturday.

So far a score of units have booked space, and several will use as much as two booths to tell their story about some Scouting or Cubbing activity.

Among those listed so far are first aid, camping, Cub activities, hobby collections, conservation, etc.

Armstrong urged that scoutmasters and cubmasters who have not yet booked booth space to call him as soon as possible.

He also said that several units had asked for more tickets, indicating a good response to ticket sales for the Exposition. Participating units will receive 40 per cent of the ticket revenue they produce.

Armstrong can be reached at his home, or at 267-2511 (Ext. 2280 or 2278).
